Teen draws life sentence for murder

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

Washtenaw Circuit Judge Henry Conlin sentenced Christopher Machacek, 18, of Ypsilanti Township to life in prison Friday for the murder of a Canton Township girl - a crime Conlin called "the most heinous situation I've ever been exposed to in almost 50 years in this system."

According to testimony, Mary Anne Hulbert, 13, thought she was pregnant by Machacek. Machacek and co-defendant Steven Stamper drove Hulbert to a field in Superior Township where they intended to shoot rifles, scaring Hulbert and inducing a miscarriage. Her body was found by hunters Jan. 7, 1987, eight days after she disappeared from her mother's mobile home.

An autopsy showed Hulbert was not pregnant. The Stevenson Junior High School seventh grader had been shot seven times.

A jury last month found Machacek guilty of first-degree murder. First degree, or premeditated murder is punishable by mandatory life imprisonment without parole.

Stamper, convicted by a jury of second-degree murder, was sentenced last week by Conlin to life in

"I'VE SPENT many days reviewing this testimony," said Conlin, "and what impresses me in reading thousands of pages is that there has never been anyone claiming that these two men did not take this young lady, drive her in a truck, with a gun, to an area where no cars could go and together shoot her to death, dragging her into the bushes in the fashion represented in photographs shown to the jury.

"I believe the defendants are equally culpable of first-degree murder. They were able to spend days, while no one knew where Mary was, going to New Year's Eve parties and having a fine time while Mary lay in the bushes.

"Under my statutory authority and the Constitutional duty I have been charged with . . . I sentence you to life in prison without parole," said Conlin.

"You are entitled to an appeal. I hope sincerely that the appellate court will look at my statements given today in reviewing this case."

SEATED IN the first row of the courtroom, Machacek's mother and several young female friends sobbed as Machacek was slowly led out of the room. Conlin left the bench and

"Thanks Al, it's a fine night for the Community Gathering."

Well, Detroit Tiger broadcaster George Kell did not really say that Thursday night.

But the former Tiger and Hall of Fame third baseman could have used that opening line to describe the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce's 35th annual Community Gathering.

Kell was the featured speaker at the dinner, which drew 200 people to the Mayflower Meeting House.

In addition to Kell, the annual dinner spotlighted the efforts of the chamber of commerce and introduced the new president and board of directors.

Another new twist was added to the festivities this year when the chamber, in cooperation with the Plymouth Observer, handed out the three awards honoring the business people of the year. (See story, Page

Robber hits bank in Plymouth

An unarmed robber escaped with an undetermined amount of cash about 5 p.m. Friday from Heritage Federal Savings, 650 S. Main Street in Plymouth.

Plymouth police and the FBI were seeking a white male in his 30s. Few details were available from police or bank officials over the weekend. Plymouth Police Chief Myers urged anyone with information to contanct police at 453-8600.

Officers said the teller who waited on the robber inside the bank did not see him carrying a weapon.
"We haven't been able to determine whether he was alone," said Plymouth Police Sergeant Wayne Carroll.

"Film (from the bank's security videocamera) isn't processed yet. The incident is still under investigation, Carroll said.

Both Digon and Jeffrey Strouss, Stamper's attorney, contend that sheriffs erred in failing to immediately turn Stamper and Machacek over to juvenile court authorities.

THEY CLAIM the taped statements the youths gave sheriffs should not have been admitted as evidence, and that the youths were denied their Miranda rights. Miranda rights entitle suspects to remain silent and to have an attorney present during questioning.

Washtenaw County Sgt. William McFarlane said his department conducted the investigation properly.

"This case has been through two courts. Two judges have indicated everything was done in a proper and legal fashion." McParlane was re-ferring to Conlin and Washienaw Probate Judge Judith Wood, who conducted juvenile court hearings and ordered the youths to be tried as "The public would have been outraged if these two walked," said Digon. "There was collective momentum among the prosecution and sheriffs to put the onus on Chris. It was carried out throughout the entire process. With admission of the statements, they could seek and hopefully obtain a conviction."

Digon said Machacek "has a lot of potential. I don't think he's a callous kid. He's very pleasant, courteous and gentle-natured. That's what so ironic in light of the charges."

One school survey tabulated, another one coming up.

A citizen's group expects to discuss at its next meeting Wednesday, Nov. 9, results of a telephone survey just completed concerning several topics relating to the Plymouth-Canton schools.

Community Researching Educational Workings was appointed by the school board and charged with conducting an intensive review of the district after several tax increase proposals failed at the polls.

The school board took its own informal survey of active PTO members earlier this fall - admittedly unscientific - and discovered that communication needs to be improved between the board and community.

CREW chairwoman Annette Remsburg said she believes her group's survey is a much better statistical sampling of the commu-

"WHAT WE'RE looking for is accurate reflection of concerns as well as strengths of the school district," she said. "All questions were designed to give us information we can act upon, develop subcommit-vey at no cost, Remsburg said. Forty-eight volunteers obtained responses from 424 people Oct. 17-27. People were called from a computer generated list of random telephone numbers in the district.

Questions were asked about curriculum, quality of education, board performance, communication, recent millage election results and school financing.

A final report to the board is due next spring.

A compromise plan endorsing two rapid transit lines won a 5-1 margin of approval from the Southeast

Michigan Council of Governments.
"It is not a wish list. It recognizes the needs of people who have no personal auto," Milton Mack, a Wayne County commissioner from Wayne, told the SEMGOC General Assembly meeting Thursday in Novi. Mack chaired a panel which proposed the bus-light rail plan.

SEMCOG's plan calls for expanded bus service — particularly for east-west routes between suburban Oakland and Macomb counties and along Ford Road and Michigan Avenue in western Wayne County.

And it proposed a rapid transit plan from the '70s - light rail in the Woodward corridor from downtown Detroit to Eleven Mile and in the Gratiot corridor from downtown to Roseville

The final plan was a blend of four earlier "alternatives" discussed last summer at public hearings.

TWO AMENDMENTS were shot down by SEMCOG delegates:

• Pontiac's - to extend the Woodward light rail line there. It failed with 19 in favor and 41

 Macomb County's — to endorse an all-bus system. It was talked about but never came to a vote.

It didn't identify a source of fund-ing, designate what kind of transit agency should do the building or pinpoint specific lines. And it didn't specify whether the light rail should be built on the surface or underground - "subway," a word that causes fights in the metro region.

The plan put operating cost perassenger at 58 cents for light rail, $2.42 for large buses on fixed routes and $6.36 for small buses serving the elderly and handicapped.

Medicine boasts dark side

THE BIRTHDAY card from my 2- When I reach the clinic, my wife's year-old boasted that Daddies aren't car is already there. Inside, she and scared of anything, "not even 10-eyed monsters."

A day later I found something to fear that made 10-eyed monsters look like child's play. The fear was more imagined than real, and everything turned out just fine. But I didn't know that at first.

Here's what happened:
I do not suffer illness well. So when I finished work with the chills, a fever and a headache, my only goal was to burrow beneath a heap of covers and wait for wellness to

INSTEAD IT was the ringing of a telephone that struck through the si-lence. I ignored it until I realized that the voice on the answering machine was my wife's. Hurrying downstairs I replayed a tape whose most disturbing distinction was the background screaming of my son, nearly blocking out the voice of my wife who was calling from our baby sit-

My wife's message was succinct: Jim apparently is having a severe reaction to his medication. The doctor's office is closed; she's taking him to a nearby urgent care clinic.

Jim are not to be seen among the four people waiting to see the doctor. The receptionist explains: Your son was rushed in; you need to supply the information for paper work.

Slowly I gave her the names, dates, addresses and numbers, wondering all the while why they would rush my son to see the doctor when all these other seemingly ill and injured people were waiting. "They must think something is seriously wrong," I thought.

Finally, the insurance interrogation was over, and I was allowed into a waiting room where my son sported a severe case of hives and a puffed lip that would do a boxer proud. Otherwise he was none the worse for wear. He was laughing and climbing about and obviously in much better shape than his father.

IT WAS a reaction to his medicine, and it wasn't serious. But that didn't allay his parents' fear, or their caution. That night, my wife called my sister-in-law, a pharmacist, and learned that sometimes such reactions can be much more serious, even causing the child to stop breathing. As a result, the boy slept with us that night.

The next day he was back to normal, but Dad was back at the doctor's getting medicine for his own strep infection. On the chance that I caught the disease from my son, the doctor suggested that the boy be started on an antibiotic different from the one that caused the hives.

Oh, my. Where 24 hours earlier I saw medicines as the cure-all for what ails you, now I had a newfound respect for the darker side of their power. Although the reaction was not serious, it was so fast and so dramatic that my wife and I were both struck by how helpless we would have been had it been a violent reac-

Cast ballot based on principles

IN PAST national elections, I've Bush both picked up their marbles voted Democratic, Republican and Libertarian.

I never vote a straight ticket, and I'm not a card-carrying member of any organization.

But I always vote, and try to use both sentiment and intellect, heart and head. This year, our major political parties are making it tough to use either.

Sentiment this year has been a turnoff, at best.

Who cares to see a team of pseudo-Republican advisers complaining behind George Bush's back about his choice of a running mate? Or what about posters of hardened criminals splashed on the TV trying to frighten us away from Mike Dukakis and the Democrats? Most people have never heard of Ron Paul, the Libertarian candidate who hasn't gotten into the TV brawl.

Looking at it intellectually isn't much better.

WHAT WE really need today is leadership, but the two main characters in this scenario would rather sling arrows at each other than discuss facts and issues with their future constituency.

Given a choice, I daresay most voters would rather Dukakis and and went home

Less than two weeks before the election, we are not only caught in a pit of mudslinging between the candidates, but are now being told how we plan to vote. Forget the error margins of five points on many of these polls — nobody pays attention to that. The "experts" have spoken with their crystal balls, telling us what we will do Nov. 8.

Truthfully, how many people have yet decided how to vote? With the exception of diehard supporters of each party, it's hard to believe anyone has enough information to make an informed decision this year.

IT'S UNDERSTANDABLE why voter turnout in this country is so

The better approach is a philosophical one.

Voting is important to elect our next leader, but also to know we made the right choices for ourselves. It's nice if your candidate wins, but to know that you cast a ballot based on your principles is just as key.

Unfortunately, our country appears to be just an unprincipled as the major candidates who are running in this race. We seem to revel in the charges and counter-charges, and wallow in the mud alongside everyone else.

That seems to be what we want, and that's what we'll get - a country wallowing in its own mess.

Where is school spirit?

To the editor:

I must preface this letter with a small amount of personal history. Our family has lived in the Plymouth/Canton area for 14 years. Our two sons are graduates of Plymouth Salem High School. They both were very involved in sports at Salem with both playing football for four

We have attended a large majority of their football games over an eight-year period. To say the style of football at most levels has changed in the last 15 years would be an undeigitatement. However, no noticeable clange in Salem football or Canton tball is quite evident. I am not iting this letter with a solution to til football program. However, the ase at Salem has not changed in years. This year's varsity parents attest to that after watching the Ginn game. They asked about the unimaginative offense and were subgted to two hours worth of 10-yeargame films showing the wish-bone and how it worked.

So, how well do our opponents know what we are going to do if we've done the same thing year after year after year? I could not write this letter before this year for fear of reprisal against my sons.

Another major problem exists for both schools. Neither school seems to demonstrate one ounce of school spirit. Why should parents have to "pay for play" of their children when 99 percent of the student body doesn't care what's going on?

We are blessed with the fantastic CEP band and its numerous accomplishments. Its great to walk in to the CEP stadium and see all the yellow jackets of the band parents. The band performs at halftime and then all the yellow jackets mysteriously disappear. Once again, the band is applauded by the member parents and a few other interested people. Unfortunately, the same can be said for the football teams.

Maybe 40 sets of parents and a few other interested people seem to be the only ones cheering and applauding. This all takes place while

There is a need to instill school spirit and pride in the student body and form a pep club. Parents and students should be proud of both schools. All one has to do is observe our opponents bleachers at CEP stadium and at their own schools and you'll get the idea of what is being

So, let's hear your ideas. I do imagine after a few people get upset by this letter, for a day or two, this letter and idea will be forgotten. This will be mainly because of today's society of "I" instead of "We."

I do hope that someone will stop and seriously think about what I've written. All these observations have been made over several years.

Cost higher for abortions

I disagree with your editorial on Proposal A (Observer & Eccentric, Oct. 20). You are using specious reasoning when you argue that Medicaid abortions cost "less than a dollar a year for every Michigan resident."

First of all, the cost is higher to each taxpayer, since not all residents pay taxes. Most importantly, however, what you claim to be an inconsequential dollar amount to each resident adds up to a most significant body count of almost 19,000 unborn human beings annually. The cumulative effect is devastation.

I will vote yes on Proposal A. Alice Radwick.

if you are over age 65 and need a replacement knee, you may feel you should undertake the operation immediately. If your heart is good, it can take the strain of operation. If you already have heart trouble, then you may feel you should have the operation now before your cardiac status becomes worse. until the knee pain keeps you from walking.

Why do the doctors seemingly ignore the overall state of your health?

The medical reasoning is that heart failure, sufficient to make you a risk for surgery, is associated with generally impaired health. That impairment includes a limited ability to walk. Under such conditions, you will not place sufficient strain on your knee to cause incapacitating pain, and operation is However, if knee pain limits your walking, then your heart likely is strong enough to sustain the work of ambulation. That effort is no more then what the heart will be called to undertake during a knee replacement operation. Therefore, under these circumstances, no matter what your age, knee surgery is possible.

Privatization would make Metro a "consumer-oriented" airport, concluded a report compiled by the Mackinac Center, a private research group based in Midland.

"AT THIS point, it's a countycowned airport and, really, what interest does the county have in providing the best customer service possible?" said researcher John Kost, who compiled the report.

In addition, privatization would raise millions each year for the financially plagued county, including revenue from the newly approved county jail tax, Kost said.

Earlier this year, McNamara campaigned for a private jail for non-violent criminals — citing research from another Mackinac Center report.

This time, however the executive said privatization wouldn't work.

"There are things that could be privatized, and things the county should maintain," McNamara said. "And the airport is something the county should maintain."

The Mackinac Center conducted the study on its own not on the behalf of any county agency, center president Lawrence Reed said.

"No one came to us and said we'd like you to do this," Reed said.

Privatization, he added, remains an "on-going concern" for the re-

Airline deregulation, adding more peak-hour flights to heavy-demand areas like Detroit and creating "hub" airports, with major use by a single carrier, demands major changes in Metro's layout, the report

"Metro isn't laid out to serve as a hub airport," Kost said. "Years ago, you'd have airlines using one or two concourses. Now, you can have them using a half dozen or more con-courses all over the place. Even with motorized walkways, you still have to walk a lot at Metro. I know, I fly out of there myself."

A private owner, the report con-cluded, would be more sensitive to consumer demands, Metro is a hub airport for Minneapolis-based Northwest Airlines.

The private management firm could reduce peak-hour congestion by charging airlines more to land during peak hours, the report said, pushing less-profitable flights to offhour landing times.

Metro officials acknowledge airport use has risen dramatically since 1984, when Metro became a hub, first for Republic Airlines, then for Northwest, Republic's new owner.

AIRPORT OFFICIALS have embarked on their own expansion plan. They seek to add a fourth north/ south runway and an east/west "crosswind" runway and build a new air traffic control tower. They also want to create a new access road, connecting Eureka Road and Rogell Drive. Ultimately, they plan to build a new terminal Land acquisition has already begun for the fourth north/south runway, McNamara said. Privatization. he added, would make future airport expansion more difficult.

"A private owner wouldn't have the same right to condemn property that government has," McNamara said. "What you might end up with is a little old lady in tennis shoes sitting on her front porch right in the middle of a runway."

The report also concluded privatization would provide a profit motive for improving the Romulus air-

"The operating agreement (between the airport and airlines) is outmoded," Kost said. "It's considered one of the worst in the nation."

Under the current agreement airport revenue surpluses essentially are returned to the airlines by reducing landing fees. While price changes wouldn't necessarily reduce ticket prices, the report concluded, savings could be used to expand airport ser-

"THERE'S NO question the agreement could be more efficient, that there could be an incentive for profit but the basic problem is that privatization would give you a monopoly," said county commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, whose district includes the airport.

"Because airports are so large and expensive it's doubtful you would ever get competition," said Mack, whose district also includes Canton Township. "At least with the present system, we're all elected officials accountable to the public."

This year, for the first time in Metro history, some airport revenue is being returned to the county.

A change in state law last December allowed the county to use airport parking fees to pay off county debt. Before that, all Metro revenue was tied exclusively to the airport.

Pumpkins once used for brew

'Tis the season for pumpkins and jack-o-lanterns. Having just visited the local pumpkin patch for the ritualistic purchase of an assorted family of jack-o-lanterns and a few (undersized) pie pumpkins, I thought a trip down memory lane about how we discovered these beauties was in order.

It is believed that the wild ancestors of the pumpkins originated in the region that is now Mexico and Guatemala. The ancient Aztec, Inca and Mayan Indians used pumpkin seeds as food, but they probably discarded the pulp because the wild fruits contained only small amounts off bitter-tasting flesh. Most likely, the wilder varieties with an abundantly sweeter flesh arose when the Indians used mutant varieties for cultivation.

The European explorers of the New World thought that pumpkins were giant species of melons. By that time, these fruits were seen growing throughout Mexico, North America and the West Indies, from as far north as Canada and as far south as Mexico City. They were soon brought back to the Old World to be grown from Western Europe to Sometimes the Indians' ways of utilizing the crops were adopted and modified by Asians and Europeans. For example, the farmers of Manchuria dried strips of pumpkin flesh in the sun and the Italians ate deepfried, batter-covered pumpkin flowers. Both practices have been passed down through the ages and are still utilized. Of course, after this early wintery weather we've been experiencing, you won't have much luck finding pumpkin flowers.

SO IF EATING dried pumpkin flesh and fried pumpkin flowers sounds a little unappetizing, were you aware that the early settlers made beer from pumpkins, maple sugar and persimmons? Can't imagine gulping a few "pumpkin brews" with my redhots at Tiger Stadium.

Pumpkins require four months to reach maturity. They can be picked after the rind has hardened, but they may be left on the plant until after the first light frost or when the vines begin to wither. A light frost will make the pumpkins sweeter. However, the fruits should be picked before they are likely to be damaged by a heavy frost.

Pumpkins are processed by removal of the rinds and the seeds, followed by the cooking of the pulp prior to canning, freezing or baking into cakes, custards or pies. If you're looking for real pumpkin pies and pie fillings, read the label because many of the pie fillings and mass-produced pies often contain winter squash in lieu of pumpkin. This isn't all that bad, however, because some folks actually believe winter squash has a better flavor than real pumpkin.

Now, taking you back to Home Ec 101, you are aware, of course, that when I refer to cooking pumpkin, we are using what is normally called a pie pumpkin and not the jack-o-lantern variety? In order to prepare your own homemade fresh pumpkin, remove the seed and scoop out the "guts" of the pumpkin. Cut the pumpkin into halves or small sections and peel off the rind.

ATURDAY IS ON its way.

That means a lot of different things to different people. But for thousands of us, Saturday means getting up, packing the cooler, fill-ing the thermos, heading for Ann Arbor, East Lansing or wherever the tailgate party is happening. If you have grown tired of the same old tailgate party foods, why not try a tailgate party with a Ger-

We all know that the German cuisine includes some wonderful dark beers and white wines, but the meats, cheeses, mustards, breads and specialty items are good tasting, healthy and fun to pronounce.

German meats come in a variety of shapes and size. They have good flavors and are not known to be overly spicy. The cheeses typically are firmer with stronger flavors, and there is nothing sweet about those tangy, lively tasting German mustards.

THE GERMAN breads are, to put it bluntly, the best. Once a few of the varieties are tried, white and whole wheat just can't match up. German breads are a mixture of ryes, sourdoughs and pumpernickles. All the breads are nutritious. They use no preservatives, have loads of fiber, and many of the variations leave the rye or pumpernickel seeds whole.

"I crave the bread. I would pay a fortune for the bread (if necessary) to get it. I need it and want it," exclaims Farmington Hills resident Vali Byrd, owner of Bryd's Meats in Livonia.

Byrd's Meats is one of two German specialty stores that carry a genuine selection of German foods in the suburban Detroit area. Byrd's is managed by Norman Scheck of Canton, whose grandfather was German.

Byrd's stocks all 20 varieties of Dimplimeier Bread, a German bakery in Toronto, the best resource around for German breads. Its selection includes Munich rye, hunter, pumpernickel, linseed rye and the customer favorite, schinkenbrot. Dimplfmeier bakes bread for the Detroit area Mondays and Thursdays, loads the loaves on trucks so that it arrives here fresh and tasty the next morning.

"All honest ingredients, no preservatives or addings to keep (the breads) fresh," promises Scheck.

STAHLS AND Chamberlin Bakeries, both in Detroit, daily bake and deliver to Byrd's sour dough rye bread, a German specialty, along with cookies, rolls and struesel.

Selecting meats for a tailgate party may prove to be more difficult than first imagined. After all, what could be involved in selecting a few cold cuts?

There is a small, cozy, wonderful place on Long Lake Road in Troy where this task will become a thoroughly enjoyable experience. Han's Delicatessen is Han's is owned by Bloomfield Hills resident Inge Hosp, who bought the store years ago from retired founder Inge Licktl. Hosp, who has a love of specialty foods, began working at Han's after she arrived in the Detroit area years ago.

'Ninety percent of our customers are German," says Hosp, who welcomes visitors to the delicatesses as if they were in her home. Han's carries a full line of authentic German goods, including soaps; tolletries; video movies; staples, and fresh, canned and frozen

Now is the time to get busy cooking and fill up your freezer.

Then when the holidays come around, you can "share good times and good food with good friends," said Marcia Sikarskie, in an informal introduction to her make-ahead hors d'oeuvres class.

Some 130 men and women who squeezed into the back section of Kitchen Glamor in West Bloomfield on a recent afternoon got a lot more than a simple demonstration of recipes.

Sikarskie, 51, of Okernos, has been giving cooking classes for about 15 years. At the store and cooking instruction center owned by Chris and Toula Patsallis, Sikarskie crammed nearly two hours with a running stream of invaluable tips, cunning techniques and useful information. She believes a cook should be flexible.

"Life is full of alternatives, compromises and substitutes," Sikarskie said. In cooking, "people have to learn what to do in these situations, just like you do in life."

OF COURSE, there are some things you just can't change, such as measurements in cakes, cookies, and especially tortes," she continued. In those recipes you need to use exact quantities. Recipes like the ones she demonstrated for hors d'oeuvres are "designed to be like parts of a wardrobe. You mix and match 'em," she said.

For instance, a veal filling made with sauted ground veal, mushrooms, onions and herbe is meant to fill a turnover.

But as Sikarskie pointed out, you can also use it to fill cherry tomatoes or

Marcia Sikarekie poure salmon strudel mixture into fishshaped pan lined with phyllo dough, during demonstration of make-ahead hors d'oeuvres, at Kitchen Glamor in West Bloom-mushrooms, thereby creating a variety of interesting hors d'ocuvres.

If you don't like veal, she said, substitute ground turkey, ground beef or lamb, anything that fits the bill.

Tailgate picnics hearty with German food

FOR TAILGATE parties, Hosp re-commends letting everybody have in by creating their own sandtim by creating their own sand-wiches. She suggests a truy offering echinkenwurst, a ham belogns that testes remarkably like chickes; the truditional head choose, a mixture of pork pleose and gelatin; German smoked ham, similar to proceutio but less salty; LeBarca salami, made with rum;—and the beautiful, deli-cions. "It is like a good Swiss, with a strong taste," explains Hosp. Tilniter havarti is a German choese Hosp does not recommend for tailigate parties because of its unusually strong odor and taste.

Don't forget your hibachi for the tailgate party recommended by Byrd. She suggests bringing along bratwurst, a mixture of pork and veal blended nicely together with spices to form a real zesty sausage. Barbecue the bratwurst on the hibachi, heat up sauerkraut (prepared at home and warmed on the grill) and serve on a soft Italian roll or Kaiser bun with Dusseldorf Mustard, a good spicy brand.

"Preparing sauerkraut is really an art," explains Byrd, "Very few people prepare it correctly" (see recipe). Byrd's carries its own version of sauerkraut, as well as several

Both Han's Delicatessen and Byrd's Meats carry a variety of pickled items including the imported German brand of Gundelsheim, whose line features pickled gherkins, corn, beets, cabbage, celery, and the Cornichons, which are tiny little gherkins with a very mild and pleasant taste. Also, both Hosp and Byrd definitely recommend Common and the common definitely recommend Common desirable recommend desirable recommen definitely recommend German pota-

FOR APPETIZERS take along some flavored herrings, leberwurst or schinkenwurst in a can and Zwietailgate party be without the famous German dark beers and wines?

Mel George, owner of Red Wagon Wine Shop in Rochester, suggests either Hackpschore Munchen or Ayinger Maibock dark beers and an '85 Winniger Bruckstuck or an '88 Wehlener Sonnenuhr, both Kabinett Reislings (Kabinett is the German designation for medium sweetness).

There is also a fine selection of non-alcoholic beverages, such as sparkling water, Lehr's Red Currant Beverage or a few bottles of Ritterkraftborn, a non-alcoholic dark beer, which Hosp promises to be "very healthy because this is a cereal beverage (it is), sweet."

Finally, every good tailgate party will finish with dessert. Both Han's and Byrd's offer a large variety of strudels, cookies and candy. Bahlsen, the largest importer of German cookies and cakes, sends over the traditional Oktoberfest cookie, Zauberei, a chocolate-covered soft dough cookie flavored with pumpkin German and Swiss chocolates are of the finest quality, and plentiful this time of year. There is Tobler (Swiss) and Ritter (German), which offer several varieties, including lovely Christmas candies. But if you really want your team to win, it is suggested you pick up a few of the Brandy Glueckskaefers. Those are German lady bugs chocolate, of course - and will

"What if you just abhor mushrooms?" a woman in the audience called out. "Is there anything else you can use in the filling?"

That one almost fazed Sikarskie. But, no, she came up with a solution. "Try adding shredded zucchini or summer squash in place of the mushrooms," she shot back, to the woman's delight.

IF YOU DON'T want turnovers, you can press rounds of the cream cheese pastry into miniature muffin pans, fill the dough with veal, top with grated parmesan, and you'll get mini-tarts.

As long as you've got the filling in the freezer, if someone comes home early for dinner, just serve the veal over rice, Sikarskie said.

A sun-dried tomato and provolone quick bread, served with miniature chichen roulade pinwheels, calls for provolone cheese and pine nuts.

Sikarskie explained that although provolone cheese adds a certain texture and flavor to the bread, a substitute for this cheese can be Monterey jack, mozzarella or whatever cheese one prefers.

"I think people lots of times are so insecure about a recipe working out exactly if they don't have the ingredients that they're afraid to try it," Sikarskie said. She believes if people know you can substitute something you have on hand, they won't shy way from difficult-sounding recipes.

Pine nuts are actually made from pine cones and used a lot "in the Mediterranean and in India," she said. "They emit a special, raw, nutty flavor that doesn't compare to anything else."

Although it won't taste exactly the same, she suggests substituting almonds or walnuts if pine nuts are not

THE THING TO remember about pine nuts is that they become rancid very quickly. You have to be able to taste them before you buy

Pine nuts are also quite expensive, running about $6-$9 per pound, but they're lighter than other nuts, so you have a greater volume, and you rarely need to use more than half a Sikarskie demonstrated that a delicious salmon strudel can be served in different ways.

You can serve it cold accompanied by home-made mayonnaise, to which you add about half a cup of sour cream or yogurt and maybe some dillweed," she said.

Another scrumptious appetizer can be created by serving the strudel hot with veloute sauce to which dill is added. Veloute sauce is a white sauce made with flour, butter, and chicken or veal stock.

The strudel can be baked in a fish mold, which gives it a nice shape, and makes a good centerpiece. But it can easily be baked on a bread pan, or a bundt mold lined with strudel, and then sliced like a cake.

THERE ARE limitations to taking liberties with recipes, she warned. Here are some shortcuts, Sikarskie Strudel must be baked in some sort of container or mold because it uses a soft filling that firms up as it bakes. Don't lay it on a cookie sheet.

A sprinkling of kosher salt immediately after the boiling process will improve the flavor greatly. If you want an immediate product, you can fry them in small batches of hot oil for about 3 minutes, then toes lightly with salt before eating. One of my favorite recipes is for pumpkin soup. After the soup is made, you can hollow out a pie pumpkin and bake the soup in an oven for better taste, and , it also makes a great presentation when you serve it at the table in the pumpkin itself. Why heart patients experience chest pains in the cold

During winter, heart patients of ten ask the bewildering question, "Why am I suddenly experiencing angina pectoris (chest discomfort) during my walks outdoors?"

Two physiologic mechanisms have been implicated.

First, inhaling cold air may cause a reflex that temporarily constricts the heart's (coronary) arteries. It may also increase the amount of blood pumped with each heart beat. In the presence of cholesterol-narrowed coronary blood vessels, these stresses may provoke chest pain or discomfort.

Second, a cold environment evokes your body into a temperature regulation reflex. The skin's blood vessels constrict to conserve body heat. Their narrowing increases blood pressure and the heart's demand for oxygen, thus more readily provoking angina

TEMPERATURE ALONE, however, is not an accurate index of cold stress. Wind removes the layer of air your body has heated around you to keep itself warm.

Thus, you need to consider the "wind chill factor," which measures the cooling power of moving air. For example, at 10 degrees Fahrenheit in a 20-mile-an-hour wind, the cooling effect is equivalent to calm air at 25-below zero. (See chart).

To prevent angina and excessive exposure to cold during activity in winter weather, these recommendations may help:

• Wear a cold weather mask or scarf to avoid inhaling or cold air and exposing your face and neck. Such measures are often effective in reducing the symptoms of angina during activity in cold weather. • Be extra careful when the wind is blowing. Wind chill equivalent temperatures of 25-below (Fahrenheit) or lower can mean increasing danger, including freezing of exposed flesh. And temperatures under 74-below are hazardous.

· Beware of wet clothing. If your skin or clothing gets wet, your body will lose heat much more rapidly. For this reason, you should change wet clothing, particularly socks and gloves.,

Figuring the windchill

Dress appropriately. Avoid overdressing for activity in the cold to prevent overheating and excessive sweating.

Wear several layers of light, loose clothing that can be shed or replaced as body heat changes. Between each layer there is trapped air which, when heated by the body, acts as an excellent insula-

The insulating properties of wool are widely recognized. It is one fabric which, when wet, still keeps the body warm. Most other materials, when wet, actually draw heat away from the body and pass it into the air.

 Avoid staying in one position too long when it's cold. Exercise increases heat production by contracing the skeletal muscles. Thus, body temperature can generally be maintained even in subzero conditions, as long as one stays moving. If you start to shiver to generate heat, get in out of the cold as quickly as possible.

Temperature alone is not an accurate index of cold stress. Wind removes the layer of air your body has heated around you to keep itself warm.

• Protect certain body areas. Body heat is most easily lost from parts that have a large surface area to mass ratio - for example, the hands and feet. Keep them warm and dry. Finally, wear a hat - a tremendous loss of body heat can occur from an uncovered head.

Stunning! Canton upsets Salem

Jason Riggs (with ball) had trouble squirming away from Salem defender Mike Jarvey, but he came up with one of the game's biggest plays when he recovered a fumbled Salem punt.

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

They forgot to tear down the goal

Forgive the Plymouth Canton football fans, though. They're not used to this kind of celebration.

A mob of Canton followers rushed the Centennial Educational Park football field after the Chiefs thrilling 21-14 upset of Salem Friday night. The victory was the first-ever recorded in football by Canton over

The Canton players and their fans huddled in the end zone afterward to sing the school's fight song. The Chiefs finished their season at a modest 3-6, while the Rocks are 6-3, tying their record of a year ago.

This was a milestone win for the Chiefs and still the goal posts stand. Well, the fans will learn.

WE'RE CHANGING Canton's history right here," said senior fullback Jim Young. "It's a different feeling. It's nice to go down in the record book as seniors of 1988 finally beating Salem. We're starting it for the juniors next year."

The score was tied at 14 late in the third quarter when Canton capitalized on a critical error made by Salem's special teams. The Rocks' Don Parrish fumbled a Jason Dembny punt and Jason Riggs fell on the ball for Canton at Salem's 16-yard line.

Three plays later, with 11:06 left "You know the old saying, 'Keep in the game, quarterback Karl Wukthe fans in the stands,'" Khoenle ie found end Mark Barrette open in the end zone with the winning 5-yard touchdown toss. Mike Krejcar added the extra point.

"It's great to beat them," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said. "I'm glad for the kids, the coaching staff, the school. We've gone through adversity, but everyone's hung in there.

"They made a costly turnover, but that's part of the game. They're a good club, and so are we. We've got a lot of young players so the future for us is down the road."

WUKIE, A SOPHOMORE, gave the Salem defense trouble all night, completing 12 of 20 passes for 101 yards and two TDs. Just as important were Wukie's 87 yards rushing, including 38 yards on a drive late in the game when the Chiefs managed to eat up four precious minutes.

The drive stalled, however, at Salem's 8-yard line, giving the Rocks one final chance to win with 1:52 remaining in the game.

A 39-yard pass from Rob Kowalski to end Bryan Schultz - one of only three Salem passes completed gave Salem the ball at Canton's 36 yard line with less than a minute

Canton's defense got stubborn, stopping the Rocks for no gain on a first-down run and then forcing two straight incomplete passes. A fourthdown pass to Mike Jarvey fell six yards short of a first down with 17 seconds left in the game.

Then came the fans, who had waited years for this moment.

Chiefs upend Pioneer in OT shootout

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Perhaps Mike Morgan's perspective on Saturday's soccer district final between his Plymouth Canton team and Ann Arbor Pioneer was

"Some days are like that."

The Chiefs' coach could say that with a relieved shrug after Canton prevailed in an overtime shootout, making six penalty kicks to Pioneer's five. The official final score was 2-1 at Scranton Middle School in

Miller, who hit it to the right of keeper Jeff Saylor. Canton was shooting first in the second set of five penalty kicks - the first set ended in a 2-2 tie - and the first three Chiefs all connected, each going to Saylor's right. Miller, the fourth shooter, went to the same side.

Pioneer had a chance to knot it again, but Sasha Bagchi's hard shot was blocked by Canton keeper Marty Adamian, who dived to his right for the game-winning save.

IT COULD have been far worse for the Chiefs, who were superior to The winning shot came from Eric trailed until the final minutes of regulation, after Pioneer's Bob Kallay burst through the center of the Canton defense and beat Marty Adamian in the game's first 10 minutes.

But the Chiefs failed miserably on dozen perfect scoring chances. John Cortese twice missed chances to score when camped in front of an open net; Dave Presley headed two shots that Pioneer keeper Mike Sampson barely deflected; and, worst of all, Kerry Zavagnin banged a first-half penalty kick off the post.

Zavagnin ("That's a lot of pressure for a freshman," said Morgan of Zavagnin's miss) made up for his miscue by saving his team. With just 12 minutes left in regulation, the talented midfielder split the Pioneer defense, took a moment to set up his shot, then pounded the ball past Sampson to tie it at 1-1.

TWO 10-MINUTE overtimes, then a pair of five-minute sudden death sessions, followed the same script: Canton dominating play, controlling the ball, but failing to score.

Pioneer coach Bill Browning was disappointed, but he credited the Chiefs. "They had a more coordinated attack," he said after his squad finished its season at 10-6-5. "We had a good defense, we've had a good defense all year. Part of our problem is you have to get the ball and you have to control it to work it up the field."

"We went to a disciplined style of play this year," said Morgan. "It took us a while to get adjusted to it. We weren't getting blown out of any games, we were always in it."

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

The only difference was the site - Cass Benton Park instead of Schoolcraft College - as Plymouth Canton and Farmington defended their respective girls and boys titles.

By now, everybody is accustomed to seeing the Falcons at the top. Farmington has won the last five WLAA boys championships.

"Some people would rather see somebody else win the league," said veteran Farmington coach Jerry Young, who has guided the Falcons to 13 titles in 23 years, "but our kids have pride in the fact we've always won it.

"THEY POINT FOR this meet and want to do well, because we have been the power in this

"It's the long blue line," he added. "The kids keep coming."

While the boys race had four solid contenders, including Walled Lake Western and the Plymouth-Canton teams, it was no surprise the Chiefs won their second straight girls championship.

On the day of last year's meet, Canton was rated the favorite to win again in '88 since all of its top runners would return. The Chiefs easily lived up to expectations, but they had to do more than just show up.

"We were the favorite, but that didn't mean we weren't nervous and didn't prepare for this meet - because we had to," Canton coach George Przygodski said.

The Chiefs did exactly what they had to do when it came time to perform, placing five girls among the first 17 and seven in the top 25.

"I HAVE A good feeling about our program and confidence in our kids," Przygodski said. "Besides, you don't have to be an Einstein to figure out when you win the conference and everybody is coming back, you're going to be pretty good

With its depth, Canton compiled an impressive score of 39 points. Farmington was closest with 86, and Livonia Stevenson was third with 105.

One of Farmington's top runners, Jenny Derwinski, was ill and had to drop out of the race, which coach John Barrett figured cost the Falcons 14-15 points but wouldn't have made a difference in pursuing Canton.

'We did the best we could, but Canton has a heckuva team this year," said Barrett, who coached the Falcons to the Lakes Division title. 'Hopefully, they'll all graduate."

Don't plan on that, coach. Four of Canton's top seven are juniors.

"We hope to be as successful next year," Przygodski said. "If the seniors lead as well as this group did, I have no doubt we'll be in contention

SENIOR CINDY Spessard and junior Lori Penland paced the Chiefs, running fourth and fifth overall. Canton was in good shape when senior Kris Marquard finished seventh and junior Missy Junior Adrienne Garrow, who has been the team's No. 6-7 runner much of the year, locked up the victory with a 14th-place finish. Junior Cathy McCabe and senior Lynda Schendel were 17th and 25th, respectively.

"Adrienne ran an excellent race and had a real good time," Przygodski said. "She's been a big

That just goes to show how competitive our kids are with each other. There's no set order. This week Cindy beats Lori; next week Lori might beat Cindy. Nothing is set in cement."

The individual favorite, Colleen Yuhn of Walled Lake Central, also prevailed with a 19:25 time, but North Farmington's Lisa Rives was close be-hind, defeating her Farmington rival Jennifer Kiel. Rives ran 19:30, her personal best, and Kiel

"We don't have a rivalry," said Rives, a candidate for her team's most improved award as well MVP. "She's my friend. I was just trying to run the best race I possibly could.

Walled Lake Western's Brian Grosso won going putting two near the top and all five scorers in the top 23. Brad Moore and Ben Goba led the Falcons with second- and fourth-place efforts.

"Brad ran against (third-place Mark Kwiatkowski of WLC) half a dozen times this year and never beat him until today," Young said.
"Goba is one of the best sophomores in the league. Brian (Grosso) will be gone next year, and Ben is going to be here."

Moore, a senior, knew Grosso was ahead of him but didn't know if anybody else was while he rain with a pack of about 10 runners.

"Somebody said that pack was for second, and that excited me," said Moore, adding he usually gets stronger as the race progresses. "I really didn't expect to get second. It was like a remote possibility, and I saw the opportunity."

WITH THE MEET up for grabs, Farmington made a move when Paul Brandt and Greg Endres finished 18th and 19th, respectively. Matt Langdon sealed it when he took the 23rd spot.

That gave the Falcons 66 points and left West-ern and Canton to decide second place. WLW edged the Chiefs by one point, 81-82, and Salem was third with 105.

The Falcons were at their peak, physically, for the meet, which wasn't always the case during the "Endres and Goba got healthy, and when they're healthy were a good team," Young said: "We didn't have them at mid-season."

"We didn't have them at mid-season."

Farmington also believed it had something to prove on the hilly course at Cass Benton. The Palcons lost a dual meet to Salem there last year, and Young reminded his runners Salem coach Geoff Baker said they didn't like to run hills after Farmington beat the Rocks on the flat course at Oakland Community College the previous week.

"I'm going over and sak Geoff what he thinks now," said Young, smiling of course. "The Salem runners) are close friends of ours, but we like to beat them.

Salem improved to 14-2, 10-0 in the Lakes Division. Stevenson fell to 1-15, 6-10 in the Lakes. A win would have made the Spartans' season. "This was our best game," Stevenson coach said. "The girls played as well as they could have. They each gave 100 percent. I was happy. We're getting ready for district and the league playoffs and I'm starting to find the right combination."

Stevenson, a heavy underdog, led for the last time, 20-19 midway through the third quarter on a jump shot by senior forward Jessann Martin. The Rocks pulled away near the end of the quarter, however, scoring six straight points to lead 26-20.

Of King's game-high 17 points, one field goal came from 3-point range. Point guard Jill Estey scored 14 points, six in the final quarter when Salem outscored Stevenson 14-6.

shomore guard Jenny Audet scored only six points for Stevenson, but made her counterpart Estey earn her points. Junior forward Stephy Sutter also scored six for the Spartans.

CANTON 68, CHURCHILL 33: This Western Division matchup was decided after eight minutes, when host Plymouth Canton took an 18-1 lead into the second quarter.
The Chiefs, fourth-ranked in Class A, are 10-0 in the Western Division, 16-1 overall. Churchill dipped to 2-8, 5-11.

Susan Ferko led Canton with 21 points and Candi Jones and Michelle Fortier added 11 each. Joann Atkin scored 12 for Churchill and Carrie Blanchard contributed nine.

Maimie Smith and Jennie Clock played significant roles for Canton off the bench.

"The girls did a nice job of stepping out and getting in the game," Canton coach Rob Neu said. Churchill didn't give up, although the Chargers could have after trailing 33-12 at halftime. Churchill outscored Canton 12-11 in the third quarter to keep the game from getting even more

LADYWOOD 81, REGINA 86: Livonia Ladywood shocked host Harper Woods Regina Thursday in the regular-season Catholic League finale for both teams.

The win gives Ladywood second place in the Catholic League at 7-3, while Regina settled for third at 6-4. Ladywood is 11-5 overall.

Ladywood pulled away from Regina in the second quarter, outscoring the Saddlelites 21-6, and leading 34-18 at halftime.

"The difference was we pressed a lot on defer and converted their turnovers into points," Lady-wood coach Ken Bechard said. "We ran our offense real well and a contributor to the game was our bench. We were able to play 10 girls the whole

Senior forward Yvonne Barnett waited until the third quarter to star, scoring 12 of her game-high 24 points during the first eight minutes after intermission. Jenny Kennedy and Sarah Adzima added 13 and eight points, respectively.

Chris Lalibertie played strong in a reserve role, scoring eight points for the Blazers.

BORGESS 45, MERCY 38: Redford Bishop Borgess might miss Psi Hines during post-season play, but Thursday night her absence provided an inspiration for the Spartans.

Hines injured an ankle during the second quarter of Borgess' win over visiting Farmington Hills Mercy, and had to leave after scoring six points.

The win gave Borgesss a fifth-place finish in the Catholic League at 3-7, 8-7 overall. Mercy slipped to 5-5, earning a bid to the Catholic League playoffs by placing fourth. The Marlins are 5-11

Hines' injury didn't matter at the time to the Spartans, who outscored the Marlins 16-8 during the quarter, taking a 23-17 halftime lead. Borgess coach Mike Resmer hopes to have the starting forward back as soon as possible.

"We were able to overcome it tonight," he said. "The way it hurts us is she's our leader and our second-leading scorer. She's a stabilizing factor. I was alarmed first by the injury and also alarmed by how it could have hurt us tonight." The win over Mercy was the first-over for Bor-N. FARMINGTON 55, FARMINGTON 29: Dopna O'Brien Kim Gurecki led North Farmington's scoring assault Thursday with 14 points each at Farmington.

North is 10-6 overall, and 6-4 in the Lakes Division. Farmington fell to 4-12 and 2-8.

Eve Claar tossed in nine points for the Raiders. Gurecki scored 10 points in the second half when North was able to improve on its 30-18 lead at

Rocks' rally ends in a swim meet tie

A comeback that fell a bit short. Or a strong start that fizzled. Or even a depth vs. top speed debate — which is more valuable?

Any of those could be used to describe Thursday's Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division swim showdown between Farmington and Plymouth Salem. All three aptly portrayed a dual meet that had no winner and no loser: the two teams swam to an 86-all tie at Farmington.

"I'm not happy with a tie," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "But we didn't win too many races, so I can't be displeased, either."

True enough, Farmington had the better top speed. The Falcons collected eight of 11 first-place finishes. But when the meet was on the line, they couldn't quite put Salem away.

NOT THAT Farmington's effort wasn't a valiant one. The Falcons set the tone of the meet in the very first event when Rachell Stauffer, Nicole Gerwatowski, Lauren Weary and Jill Hawkins edged the Rocks' Trish Hill, Erin Olson, Candi Bosse and Julie Hickey in the 200-yard medley relay, 2:04.5 to

"We knew coming into the meet we had to win the medley relay," said Olson. "That's what put us in a

That hole plummeted 14 points before Salem could mount a comeback. After the medley relay, Farmington got two firsts from Weary, in the 200 individual med-

(1:04.5), and Hohl, in the 50 free-style (26.2) and 500 free (5:21.6).

There were also single wins from Missy Kendall in the 200 freestyle (2:06.0) and Jill Hawkins in the 100 free (58.5). Seconds in the 50 free from Hawkins (26.8) and in the 500 free from Kendall (5:36.5) added to the Falcons' advantage.

With just three events remaining, Salem's only win had been in diving - but that had been pointworthy, as the Rocks swept first and second. Jenny Ezzo took top honors with 174.35 points, and Jenny Syria was second with 170.35.

STILL, TRAILING by 14 points going into the 100 backstroke made the Rocks' chances for victory seem slim. But Hill got a first in the back (1:11.0) to get the tide

The 100 breaststroke was the nivotal event of the meet for Saem. Olson won it (1:15.6), Megan Andrews took second (1:16.7) and Tina Brogan finished third (1:19.3). In the back and breast, the Rocks outscored Farmington 24-8 to take their first lead, 80-78, with just the 400 free relay remaining.

But The Falcons weren't totally out of gas. Missy Kendall, Julie Kendall, Hohl and Monita Kurzer combined to win the final event (3:59.1). Salem placed second and third to clinch a tie. "It was a good meet," said Olson.

"They hit us hard early, then we came back at them.'

Johnson started at quarterback for Salem, but Moshimer moved him to halfback early in the game to get better use out of his running ability.

Running out of the 'I' formation instead of the wishbone, Johnson scored from 7 yards out with 1:48 left in the third quarter, capping a 42-yard drive. He also added the 2point conversion to tie the score at

"We didn't change our offense, we just ran out of the 'I' instead of the bone to give Johnson the ball," Moshimer said. "We didn't have poise throwing the ball tonight. We didn't pick out the right receivers or run the right routes.'

'I remember . . . '

It's been called Devil's Night, Mischief Night and who knows what else over the years. Halloween is a time for kids to be kids, much to the dismay of adults, who conveniently forget what they did at that age. Iris Sanderson Jones takes a look at Halloween through adult eyes on Page 6D.

ATVs: Deadly or safe?

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

Monday, October 31, 1988 O&E

Revving around on all-terrain vehicles can be fun, but the Michigan State Medical Society wants owners to be aware of the dangers.

"You don't need a special driver's license to operate an ATV and as a result, kids as young as 5 years old are driving them," said Dr. Elliot Grysen, an East Lansing-based emergency room physician and spokesman for the medical society. Grysen is also an attorney.

Grysen's group advocates abolishing the three wheel ATV, which is no longer sold but still in use by thousands of owners, he said. For the four-wheel ATV, the medical society is urging greater restrictions on usage.

"More than 50 people have been killed on these three-and four-wheel vehicles in Michigan," Grysen said. "And over 50 percent of them have been under the age of 16. We've had (fatalities) as young as 5, 6, 7, 8 and o"

The doctor's group became enraged recently at the response of ATV dealers to public service announcements airing on television warning about the dangers.

ATV dealers have convinced some television stations to pull doctor designed public service announcements off the air. Don Craig, the motorcycle dealers association's executive director, said a complaint will be filed with the Mass Media Bureau of the Federal Communications Commission.

"THAT KIND of publicity doesn't bode well for any kind of product," Craig said. "We didn't feel the spot met the criteria for a public service announcement. It's supposed to be a non-blased release."

The message the dealers find objectionable features a child in an emergency room, where a nurse says: "Another ATV injury. Third one this week. We've got the trauma surgeon. Call the neurosurgeon."

The final message: "Off-road vehicles can be fun, but also dangerous. The Michigan State Medical Society wants you to learn the facts before you buy. Don't learn them the hard

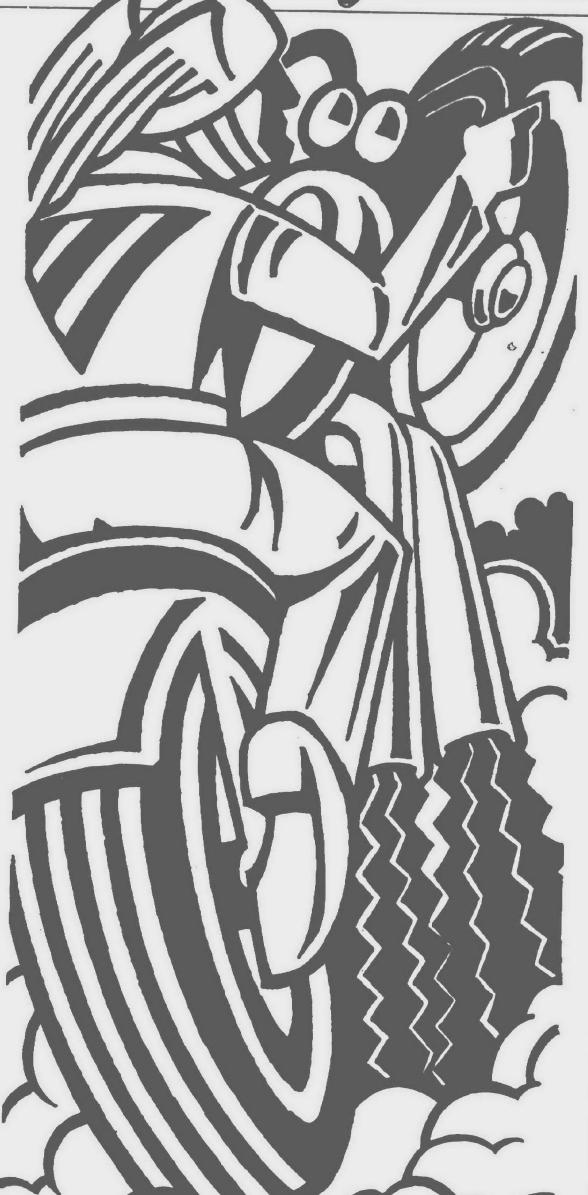

"We specifically did not condemn these machines," said society president Dr. Fred Bryant. "We simply wanted to get the message out that these vehicles are killing and crippling children at an alarming rate and that parents should learn all they can about them before they buy one for their children."

"Frankly we were shocked at their response. The safety of teens and young children is at question here," Grysen added.

Grysen, who last year was a member of a state subcommittee on offroad recreational vehicles, is well versed in its history.

"I've been working on this for four years," he said. "The ATV was originally designed in 1971-72. It was popular through the early 1980s and

'Cycles' get high tech 'fix'

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

Motorcycles aren't just for macho guys anymore.

To be sure, there are still the huge engines for those who want that kind of power fix. But not everyone was born to be wild.

Today, motorcycles are as apt to come in hot pink and turquoise, with helmets and jackets to match, as they are in basic black.

Tattooed bikers clad in black leather share the highways with guys on their way to work, saving gas money on long hauls across town. And more women are buying bikes.

"BIKES ARE getting more sophisticated," said Joe Hickman, sales manager for Andrew Pelc BMW Motorcycles in Canton Township.

"BMW released the first motorcycle ever to have an anti lock braking system. In an emergency situation, on a slippery road when quick stopping is required, the tendency was to brake too hard, causing the bike to go down. This system will eliminate that problem.

"The trend is going toward more durable cycles. Four or five years ago, the Japanese cafe racers were very big. They go very fast, but they're only built to last a few years. Now, the trend is toward more durable bikes."

Hickman points out BMW. Manufactured in Germany, it has "the best track record for durability," he said.

he said.

"It has a 300,000-mile club for bikers who have watched the odometer turn three times.

"Anyone who can't get at least a quarter of a million miles out of their bike, then something is wrong," Hickman said.

"WE HAVE an upbeat clientele," said Jerry Huttula, store manager for Anderson Sales & Service in Bloomfield Hills. "People in Michigan are outdoorsy and sports-minded. They like their toys and they like to be outside."

Anderson Sales & Services sells Honda, Yamaha, Kawasaki and Suzuki motorcycles, scooters, all-terrain vehicles and motor-powered watercraft (jet skis).

Motorcycles today are engineering marvels. The multi-cylinder bikes have engines that run like a finely tuned Swiss watch, Huttula said. And the majority of the market falls into one of two categories.

"The touring bikes are heavy, with a strong base," he said. "They're very high tech and they appeal mostly to (customers) between 40 and 60 years old. The sports bikes are sleeker. They appeal to the 25- to 30-year-olds, mostly males, but you can't exclude the ladies anymore."

SCOOTERS ARE still a craze and Huttula was anxious to set the record straight on mopeds.

"Mopeds are not a brand name; it's a classification for the smallest scooter," he said. "It must have an automatic transmission, no more than a 50cc engine, and can't go more than 30 mph.

"Operators must be at least 15 years old and be licensed through the Secretary of State."

Moped buyers are given a safety handbook at the time of purchase in his dealership, Huttula said.

Bigger scooters appeal to adults for things like vacation transportation. These bikes have 80cc to 250cc engines with automatic transmissions. Operators must have a valid driver's license stamped for operation of a motorcycle.

"They attach them to the motor home," Huttula said. "We also sell them to college age kids to get around on campus. They're easy to operate."

Some ghouls, ghosts and things that . . .

You may find tonight's goblins who come trick-or-treating at your door more believable than the following story. The decision is yours, in this, the season for ghost stories.

But, before we begin, you must be in the proper frame of mind. Sitting outside, in the chilly darkness around a campfire may be the best setting for listening to ghost stories. The fall wind whistling through the leaves is the perfect sound effect.

However, if you don't have access to a forest or a campfire, you may want to take your Street Scene copy down into your basement on a cold and windy night and sit'by yourself by candlelight to read this story. Then you can decide whether or not you believe in ghosts.

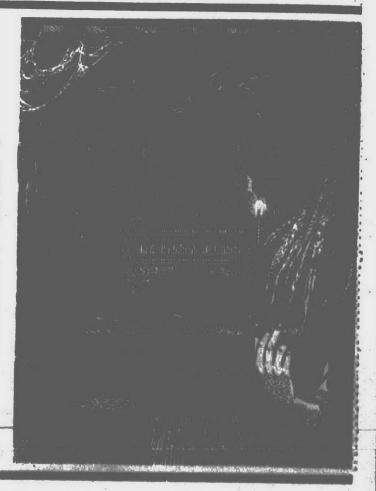

JOHN KING says he doesn't — helieve in ghosts, that is — but some of the events that have happened recently in his Detroit bookstore have caused him to keep an open mind.

More than a year ago, King acquired a collection of books and possessions of a woman who committed a gruesome suicide, something he says isn't unusual in his business, which frequently deals with people's estates.

"It's sort of a normal thing for us to do, so we never really thought twice about it," King said. "Then I started noticing some strange things, odd, unexplainable noises and just a string of weird happenings all surrounding this collection. I don't think I would have thought anything of it if it had just been one thing, but when you string them all together, you have to wonder."

While the collection was still intact it was stored in a locked area on the building's fourth floor. King said he often worked alone there at night to catch up on paperwork.

Rebecca Demornay and Mary Gross as two young FBI recruits.

"Madame Sousatzka" (A) (PG-13)

Lush, sensuous photography, in-spired music and brilliant acting plus John Schlesinger's fine direction equal an excellent film. This touching portrait of Madame Sousatzka (Shirley MacLaine) and her obsessive piano-teaching techniques also tells the story of a young genius, Manek Sen (Navin Chowdhry). His destre to please his mother (Shabana Asmi) and his teacher, Madame Sousatzka, tears at him as does his desire for success and his awakening sexual impulses focusing on a slightly shopworn singer, Jenny (Twiggy).

She sells out to defense, realizes her mistake and prosecutes spectators who encouraged the rape. This poignant drama about how our judicial system mishandles rape cases is too long and too slow to get the point across effectively. Rape scene is particularly horrible. Reviewed by Kim Brown.

The two women, who start out with nothing in common, form strong bonds. Jack Palance also appears. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

But there's been a detour. With Schmitz, the band has taken on a more pop side. Lead guitarist Dan Gutowski continues to write a majority of the songs, mainly in rough rocking vain. Schmitz puts on

The Ann Arbor-based Iodine Raincoats tout a sound that is psychopop. Hmmm. Very interesting. Perhaps we should bring in the doctor to analyze this one.

On the surface, this four-song EP appears quite normal. There's plenty of straight-forward guitar riffs to keep the average pop purveyor hap-py. But what lurks deep and dark is really the question.

For instance, what does lead singer Rob McKenzie really mean when he sings "I Wonder." On the title track, he croons "I wonder when will I love again/I wonder when will it

Hmmm . . . very interesting. Sounds like a man who is wrestling with the demons within his subconscious that have manifested themselves through a vocal outcry such as singing rock'n'roll. Either that or he can't find a date.

In short, there seems to be little here that Freud would find mystifying. There's a few twists, but the lodine Raincoats serve up a fairly comprehensible batch of pop rock in its purest form. And very good poprock at that.

"I Wonder" is a nice sampling from this Ann Arbor five-man. The strongest component is McKenzie's well-honed vocals and Dave Amir's stinging guitar work.

No where is this better showcased than in the number, "Hope for the Future," which is certainly the highlight of this four-song sampling.

In some ways, the number is reminiscent of the early U2 "Boy" phase, where the guitar provides sort of a dreamscape background for the lyrics. McKenzie manages his best vocal work for this one, going for a low-tone Jim Morrisonesque growl

This number, more than the others, has all the hooks necessary. The guitar work draws you in and the lyrics won't let you go.
If this is pyscho-pup, well, then pass out the straitjacters.

- Jane's Addiction

Let's not beat around the bush. A rose by any other .

Here is a debut LP by a group that is currently being heralded as the latest and greatest of a new wave of heavy metal bands. Although I know of some who will argue vehemently about my definition of Jane's Addiction as heavy metal, as far as I'm concerned the heavily distorted guitar and strangu-lated-screamer of a singer is close to no difference.

It has been said that they are too funny to be serious heavy metal. Well, if you can tolerate listening to it long enough to work out what is being acreamed, you'll experience something like this: "Sex is violent, sex is violent, sex is violent/I am the killer of people, you look like a

Or how about this comedic gent:
"Standing in the shower thinking is seen how far I've twisted, it's just cause | Cau trus her/And cour at no page, the industrion and so the let me twist/her, I wish her good,

Yeah, he's just a regular Robin

By the way, I used the lyric sheet provided to interpret the above.

Musically, how new can heavy metal be? Didn't we learn our lessons from the old wave? How many sons from the old wave? How many times can Deep Purple and Led Zeppelin be rehashed and a more pertinent question is why?

A change in their makeup does not breed originality.

Please, please, for the sake of your musical taste, do not let yourself be convinced by hip college charts into accepting this tripe as anything other than that.

It's a classic case of mistaken identity when two sets of twins run into each other. That's Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors."

Stocking stuff

Sure, there's still 54 shopping days until Christmas, but you know the saying about the early bird and the worm.

Here's an early bird special that would be perfect for the person who has everything. Essential Esteries Inc. in Birmingham has produced a map of "Essential Enterles" in the metropolitan Detroit area, available in December.

The map is 16 by 18 inches and fits neatly into a 31/2- by 61/4-inch multicolored folder. The compact size makes it perfect to carry in a purse, pocket, briefcase or automobile glove compartment.

By depicting the restaurant loca-tions as points on the map, it can be used to determine central meeting spots for business or social lunches and the like. Say you work in Mt. The 50 restaurants listed on the map were selected for their high quality of food and service.

Some 10,000 maps will be available through bookstores, hotels, airlines, chambers of commerce and participating restaurants like Joe Muer's and the Whitney.

Why not put on your running shoes and trot on down to downtown De-troit for the sixth annual Turkey Trot, a 10-killometer run. Just think about how much room you'll have for turkey after running 10 killome-

If you're not up to a 10-kilometer jaunt, there's always the one-mile Gobblers Fun Run/Walk.

The action gets under way with the fun run at 7:45 a.m., starting near Jefferson and Woodward. The Turkey Trot will begin at 8:20 a.m.

The races are the major fund-raising event for the Michigan Thanksgiving Parade, which, if you're not too tired to watch, follows the races.

THIS IS the 62nd year for the parade, which will start on Woodward Avenue near Orchestra Hall, wind its way to Jefferson Avenue, turning east and marching past the Renais-sance Center before ending at the northbound Chrysler Freeway.

"Each year the number of runners has been growing, and they're so en-thusiastic," said Carlene Bonner, president of the Parade Co., producers of the parade and Detroit Thanksgiving Festival.

In this year's race, top competi-tors will receive plaques, medals and T-shirts. All finishers will receive certificates of completion.

The top male and female runners in three categories - able-bodied, wheeler and masters - will win a special award and ride on the Turkey Trot float in the parade.

Other awards to be given this year include plaques to the top three males and females in two categories - age 12 and under and age 13 and over in the Gobblers Run.

SPECIAL participation ribbons also will be awarded to the first 500 finishers. All runners 65 years and older will receive medals.

Entry fees for the races are $8 American and $10.50 Canadian for the open division, for children under 12 in the Gobblers and 10-K race until Nov. 17. After that date and on race day, the registration fees will be $11 American and $13.50 Canadi-

By Iris Sanderson Jones contributing travel editor

We are gathered around the flickering flames like ancient Druids. Outside the windows, the Halloween candles glow in the jack-o'-lanterns

Inside the light from the two silver candelabra light the crystal and china on the table. We are like ancient Celtic priests only they were tending their sacred fires and we are drinking martinis with two olives.

A faint hum of music flows from the stereo cabinet on the wall.

"Why can't they be like we were, perfect in every way? What's the matter with kids to-

A firecracker pops outside the window

"I don't remember using firecrackers on Halloween when we were kids," a voice says from across the table.

"We used dynamite," George says. "About four or five sticks per house.

Laughter erupts.

"You mean you didn't tip it over, you blew it up?"

"Disintegrated," George says with satisfaction. "Toothpicks."

The voice moves forward in the candleight. It is Mary. "I've always hesitated to pursue that image," she murmurs. "The outhouse tipped over in the field, the gapping hole . .

When I was 11 or 12 years old we went to a small rural school in Arkansas," George says. "They had a schoolhouse there that housed all grades from one through 12. They didn't have indoor plumbing, they had outdoor privies. Four holers one for boys and one for girls."

"FOUR-HOLERS! Blooming

"On Halloween, our favorite trick was to take one of those outhouses and put it on top of the schoolhouse,' George says. "The last time that I remember, the principal came tripping across the schoolyard and fell into the hole."

"That's the image I've never been able to pursue," Mary says.

"He wasn't a sport about it," George says. "He was fighting mad Pardon me Mary, are you enjoying your cake?" For some reason, Mary has put her cake fork down and is staring into space.

"Why can't they be like we were, perfect in every way? What's the matter with kids today?'

"TRICK OR TREAT! TRICK OR

Our hostess, Eleanor, goes to the door. A ghost and a small tramp stand beside the jack-o'-lantern, their hands politely outstretched. Eleanor hands them each a paperwrapped candy bar and closes the door. The table candles gutter as she re-enters the room.

"Of course, you know that Halloween goes back to pagan times," Emmy says suddenly. "It was once the autumn celebration of the Druids, the priestly order of the ancient Celtic inhabitants of the British Isles." Emmy is George's wife. We don't call her Encyclopedia Emmy for nothing.

"It was the beginning of the New Year wasn't it?" Mary begins to say, but her husband, Jim, is leaning on his elbow, staring through a martini glass at the candle flame. She knows the table. He and John are doubled

"MY MOTHER was one of 14 children," he says musingly. "Eleven of them were boys. They used to loosen the seats of the outhouses in the farm area where they lived. When the farmers sat down, the seats would start to collapse. Those farmers could jump right quick when they had to. One day they loosened the seat on the outhouse of a neighbor who weighed 200 pounds. It went down and so did she!"

There is a moment's silence while we picture the situation. "Somehow or another she was rescued," John says. "But it was a pretty frightening experience. Which led one of my mother's brothers to say that it was the first time he'd ever heard of anyone being interred before they died." George's laughter booms across over the table before the rest of us realize what he has said. "That reminds me of the story of the old grandfather on the farm," George says, but Emmy says "GEORGE!" in a wifely tone of voice and he stops. "We used to put resin on a string, tie it to a spool and attach it to the doors," Emmy says. "That made an awful noise. If my kids did half the things we did, though, I'd whale the tar out of them.

suddenly by a shriek at the window. Eleanor gathers her elegant hostess gown in her right hand and leaps from the table with a yell "Wait'll I get my hands on the little monster that did that. It takes hours to get that soap off the windows." She runs out of the room, flapping

My husband, Jamie, watches her with a ghostly grin on his face. "Why can't they be like we were, perfect in every way?" he says. "Out in western Canada, our favorite trick was to shove potatoes in the exhaust pipes of cars. When the driver started the engine, there'd be a mighty explosion and WHOOSH, the potato went shooting out the back.

"That was great fun until the Halloween they found a man dead in his car because his leaky exhaust pipe was plugged and his car filled with carbon monoxide. Nobody thought it was funny after that."

"TRICK OR TREAT, TRICK OR

TREAT!" Emmy starts slightly as a spool and string go rat-a-tat against the window. This time our host, Welsh Jones, gets up. We haven't heard a word from him all night. He opens the door. A hulking teenager in a mask and a black jacket stands there with his hand out. Beside him is a tiny figure dressed like a black witch. Welsh Jones hands two candy bars to the small child.

"May you be delivered from ghoulies and ghosties, longleggedy beasties and things that go bump in the night," he says solemnly. The tiny witch stares up for a moment, then runs for its life

"WATCH THIS," Eleanor whispers. "He has a way of getting rid of teens who are too old to be trick-or-treating anyway.'

Welsh Jones hands the boy a wooden kitchen match. "Ancient men gave thanks to the sun god for lighting fires," he says. "They gathered in solemn conclave to pass judgment on crimes and problems among their people. Go ye, and do likewise.

The boy takes the match hesitently. He doesn't know whether to smile or sneer.

"It was a time of omens and auguries," Welsh Jones says. "A time when sorcerers and ordinary people divined the future. If you are one of those doomed to perish in the next 12 months, you may take a three-legged stool to the junction of three crossroads when the church bell strikes midnight . .

He stops. The teenager is running down the sidewalk.

The front door slams. Two elegantly attired young astronauts come in, followed by a grinning old man with a sack in his hand.

"Grandpa! Did you go out treating with those kids again?" Eleanor says indignantly.

"Hey, Mom, can we have some soap to soap windows. Grandpa says

"YOU CANNOT! And don't listen to anything Grandpa says. Grandpa, you old goat . . "I recollect the year we put a horse on the second story of the Trimble barn," Grandpa muses. "Did you, Grandpa, did you? Tell us about . . "NEVER MIND!,"Eleanor says. She is turning a slow purple. "You two go to bed. Grandpa has told you enough stories!

She glares up at the old man as Grandpa turns his head and winks at Welsh Jones.

'We would hear footsteps and other weird sounds that were unexplainable and sometimes the building would actually shake," he said. KING SAID another odd thing happened when he went to the home, where the woman had shot herself, to pick up the collection. 'I had a brand new truck. Never had any problems with it," he said. "But after we loaded all of the boxes onto it, it wouldn't start.

"I played around with it for an hour before I finally got it to start, and we never could figure out why it

Even more strange is that the same thing happened the next time King went out to pick up the second load, even though his truck showed no problems at any time in between.

I also found out that the person who bought a main portion of this collection had been having odd things happen to him," King said. "The day I called him he'd just come home from the hospital. He'd been involved in a car accident."

THE MAN also had experienced several small accidents in the home, and a couple of minor auto accidents since the time he'd purchased this collection.

King contacted local ghosthunter Mark McPherson, whose Daedalos agency investigates matters of the paranoramal or unusual.

"I have a very strong belief that a human soul is impressed upon cer-tain places or objects," McPherson said. "Intense emotions can make a very deep impression and can hang around for some time."

McPherson said he is now into the third phase of investigation of the King bookstore.

"The first phase was to separate the physical from the psychical," he said, adding that often times weird happenings are explained by actual physical things wrong with the building. "The second phase was taking the psychic in to see what she could find. The third phase involves more research on the building to find out about any other significant events that may have happened there.

"There could be other hauntings. We need to be sure that what's happening is related to this particular collection and not to something else that could be here," McPherson said. "The fourth phase will be to go in again with a psychic and try to make contact with whatever's there."

THE PSYCHIC involved in this investigation is Gloria Davis. She was told nothing about the case before making a tour through the building, but was given an object that be-longed to the dead woman.

"I immediately felt the emotions of a very troubled adult," she said. "I felt such lonliness and sadness, and they wanted me to go through the building to see if I could pick up on those vibrations anywhere else.

It wasn't until she approached the fourth floor that she began to sense something

In the elevator going from the third to the fourth floor my stomach began to clench," Davis said. "At first, when I walked onto the floor, I didn't feel anything, but as I wand-ered toward a particular area I got almost a smokey sense, just wery briefly, then it was gone.

Then I had the same vibrations that I felt when I first held the object, only they were more intense," she said. "I almost had the sense that if I could walk through the back wall this feeling would be even stronger."

King said later that part of the collection was still stored in a room behind this wall.

"I didn't see or hear anything," Davis said. "I simply felt the energy of a tremendous trauma and a very confused person. I felt there may be a troubled presence there that needs to be helped onto another plane."

King said he's not sure what the final conclusion will be to his predicament, saying he'll do whatever McPherson reco

"I'm hoping he'll be able to come up with an explanation," King said. "I haven't hurt myself, and I don't think I have anything to fear."

As McPherson says, "We live in a world where a lot of strange things go on. Nothing ever ceases to be.'. . things never disappear completely."

Unmasking skeletons

Q. My home and office look neat on the surfaces, but my storage areas look like Fibber McGee's closet. They need organizing desperately, and I'd die if anyone saw them.

A. Today is Halloween, an appropriate time to discuss the masking and costuming so many of us use to cover up and pretend we are organized while we are actually struggling to keep our heads above water.

It seems everyone in the world is struggling.
We have created a society where, if you are No.
1, you are struggling to stay there. If you are No.
2 you're struggling to be No. 1, and those in lower positions are struggling to better themselves as well.

The sad part is even those in No. 1 positions often feel like impostors. The shelves of bookstores are lined with books about people who fight to get to the top, then don't feel they have the right to their lofty position.

Perhaps that's why children enjoy Halloween.

For one time a year they can justly pretend they are some powerful, beautiful or far-out creature instead of the normal small person they are instead of the normal small person they are.

SOME PEOPLE do the same with their organization. Their surfaces are tidy but behind the scenes they have a mess, carry a load of guilt and worry about being "found out." They know they should clean out their junk because they would be embarrassed if anybody "knew."

Almost everyone has a few "skeletons in the closet" — skeletons of broken appliances, photos in disorder, musty camping equipment or office memos never answered.

With the pace of our society today, it's impossible to be perfect. All we can do is the best we can and hope that some day we can catch up can, and hope that some day we can catch up with ourselves.

YOUR BEST weapon against collecting skeletons is daily maintenance. By keeping current today you are at least not getting further behind and adding to your misery.

Keeping current involves acting on, putting away or throwing away today's influx, completing projects before starting new ones, making decisions as you go.

Your biggest problem is probably your conservative, saving nature and an inability to make decisions about what to do with the things you've saved.

Each day, try to peck away at your collection and end up with less instead of more.

condo queries

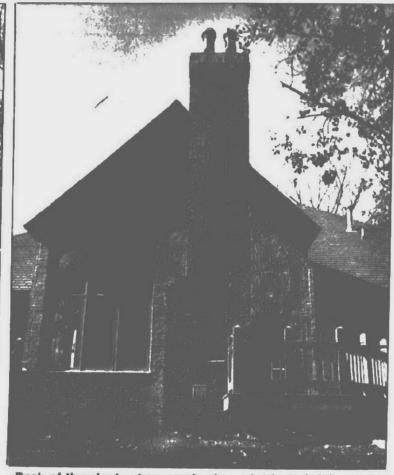

Robert M. Melsner

Q. How do I get my condominium association to take care of the sidewalk outside of my unit which is, unfortunately, covered with debris in the summer and, during the winter, is conducive to icing conditions. I have contacted the management company but to no avail. Please help!

The association should be mindful of its potential liability for failing to maintain the area surrounding your condominium, presuming that they are common elements within the jurisdictions of the association. The fact that you put the management company on notice is the first step but, if that has not proved to be successful, you should write the board of directors directly and, if necessary, the insurance carrier of the association, expressing your concern about the manner in which the condominium is being maintained.

The association should be concerned about this potential liability as more and more condominium associations are being deemed to be liable for negligent maintenance of the common areas, particularly when the result of such negligence is personal or property damage to co-owners and/or their invitees.

Western touch at Homestead Estates

By Ariene Funke special writer

HE HOMESTEAD Estates condominiums in Plymouth have the feel of a

Imagine stately old trees surrounding English Tudor-style homes with leaded-glass windows, handmade oak cabinetry and a master bath with indoor garden, towel heaters and toe Homestead Estates is the latest creation of the Lorenz family, which operates the popular Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth.

The condo project is at the site of the old Lorenz family home, on Ann Arbor Trail slightly more than one mile west of Plymouth's down-

"When I grew up here, there were only a few homes on Ann Arbor Trail," said 40-year-old Rick Lorenz, whose firm, Lorenz and Associates, is the sales agent for Homestead Estates.

"I USED to hunt pheasant in the woods," he said. "We're trying to put a little personality back into the site — the personality that was there to begin with."

The developers have designed a small, upscale community of 21 condominiums on 10 acres. They envision a private and elegant enclave with plenty of amenities and safety features.

Rick Lorenz, a 1966 graduate of the old Plymouth High School, is the fourth of six children of longtime hotelier Ralph Lorenz and the late Mabel Lorenz.

Although he majored in hotel-restaurant management at Michigan State University, graduating in 1971, Rick found his niche in real estate.

As with the hotel, this real estate venture is a family enterprise. Its principals are Ralph Lorenz, 78, who relinquished management of the Mayflower to other family members, Ralph Lorenz's second wife, Theresa, Rick Lorenz and his wife, Tammy.

Rick had spent the last several years in Colorado real estate. When he returned to Michigan, to work on Homestead Estates, he brought two key men. Howard Wille is the project superintendent and Butch Head is the custom cabinet-

Construction began last fall. Two units are finished and four more are nearly completed.

"THIS PROJECT has many touches from the west — things that were fairly common in Colorado," Rick Lorenz said.

Plymouth architect David Schaff drew up plans for the exterior. Herringbone brick designs are used extensively. Arches and angles create a majestic effect, enhancing the solid oak doors with leaded-glass windows. Each unit has gray trim with brass fixtures and brick walk-

The 2,750-square-foot, single-story model has two bedrooms and a library. The two-story unit, at 2,825 square feet, has three bedrooms with an optional library. Around half of the projected 21 units have been sold. Prices start at $322,000.

IN EACH floor plan, the oversized master suite and master bath are on the first floor. Both have jacuzzi-type tub, shower with built-in bench, brass towel warmers. A sliding door leads to a deck directly off the bedroom. Adjacent to the bedroom is an exercise area.

"I tend to think of it as the insomnia room,"

A second deck near the dining area has builtin seating, a common feature of Colorado homes. Each unit has an outdoor Jenn-Air cooktop. Adjacent to the fireplace is a built-in storage closet that is fed from outdoors.

"I PLAN to have a service provide the fire-wood," Lorenz said. "It will be included in the condominium fees."

Cabinets are of handmade oak ("We brought the cabinet shop from Colorado," Lorenz said). The kitchen has built-in spice racks, special spaces for hard-to-store items and an "appliance garage."

All units have a poured concrete walk-in storage vault in the basement.

The grounds contain several varieties of mature trees. A total of 72 trees, including beech, maple, pine and black walnut, were moved from the path of bulldozers.

"We wanted to preserve as many trees as possible," Lorenz said. "They laughed at me — they called them 'Rick's trees.'"

LORENZ IS hopeful that rose bushes, planted around the perimeter last spring, will survive the drought and bloom again next year. It is his design that the roses become a "living wall," providing both beauty and privacy.

Also planned are designated areas where condo residents can plant small gardens, berry bushes and a jogging path.

"I can remember picking raspberries and blackberries when I was a kid," Lorenz said. "Just because you give up your house, it doesn't mean you have to give up your green thumb."

Rick Lorenz now lives in the old family house, which was built in 1940. The home, which is within the Homestead Estates property, is being revamped to match the surrounding decor.

Lorenz finds the project satisfying, both per-

Lorenz finds the project satisfying, both personally and professionally.

"I enjoy making clients happy — fulfilling their wishes," he said. "I'm getting to know my dad, and enjoying working with him."

Who says lake living's just fun in the summer?

Living on Ford Lake's great 365 days a year. In summer, there are all the watersports, tennis and sun-worshpping pleasures. In fall, the color change is spectacular when you take a walk or jog. In winter, the cross-country skiing, snowmobiling, snowman-building, ice-skating and ice-boating are tops. (So are the indoor pleasures of watching the snow fall through your balcony window.) It's active, Year-round on the outside. Quiet and peaceful on the inside. See all that the designer-decorated 1 and 2 bedroom contemporary apartments can offer you. Now.
