Education week

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are making some special plans this week.

After all, this is American Education week.

A variety of activities are planned to honor the educational process in the schools.

The Plymouth-Canton Education Association will present golden apple pins to all teachers in the district.

The edible kind of apples will be given to every educational employee Friday courtesy of the Mayflower Hotel.

Elementary school children will be encouraged to draw pictures of teachers. Middle and high school students will write essays about a teacher who made a special impression or difference in their lives.

The education association also is looking to kick off more of a public relations campaign starting this week a scoryling to Anne Massoy, public relations chairwoman.

2nd survey finds board problems

The Plymouth-Canton school board, which earlier drew poor reviews from an informal evaluation by PTO members, took it on the chin again during a separate survey conducted last month by a citizen's committee delving into school operations.

However, the quality of education received high marks in the survey.

According to a report prepared by the consulting firm of Fullerton, Merz & Associates for Community Researching Education Work-

• 52 percent of 288 respondents said the school board isn't a good manager of money.

• 48 percent of 332 respondents said the board doesn't make decisions with citizens in

• 43 percent of 332 respondents said the board doesn't make decisions with students in • 56 percent of 91 people who approached the board with a problem said it wasn't resolved to their satisfaction.

IN SPITE OF that evaluation, 82 percent of 365 respondents said they were either very satisfied or somewhat satisfied with the quality of education in the district.

Only 5 percent were very dissatisfied. Similarly, only 13 percent of 324 respondents said they were either very dissatisfied or somewhat dissatisfied with academic courses.

Eighty-six percent of 381 respondents characterized the district's reputation as good rather than bad. Seventy-nine percent of 383 respondents said the schools' reputation attracts new residents to the community

DAVID ARTLEY, board president, said the policy making body is addressing some concerns that came out in the survey.

"I think, personally, we're doing a good job," he said. "We just have to communicate what we're doing better.

"The bottom line is a majority of people are comfortable. They either like or are very pleased with what happens in the school build-

'If we're going to make the board the bad guy for the negatives, you have to make it the good guy for positives, right?" Artley said.

CREW, which is making a long-term study of the school district at the board's request, will now establish subcommittees to further

"THERE ARE people who are very satisfied with what the district offers. There are some definite areas which we'll attend to," said Annette Remsburg, CREW chairwoman.

Subcommittees are communication, organizational structure, curriculum, class size, finance, discipline and teachers.

Analysis of the survey by Fullerton, Merz & Associates determined strengths as curriculum, teachers, a rounded education, facilities and reputation. Weaknesses were identified as communication, perceptions of money management, property tax concerns, class size, perceptions of discipline and problem resolution.

The consultant also found that women are more critical of the system than men. People with no children in the schools and older residents also are more critical.

Dumping ban for leaves may hurt townships

If a state law that would prohibit the dumping of garden wastes, including leaves, in landfills were enacted, the city of Plymouth would be less immediately affected than Canton and Plymouth townships - at least in fall.

That's because the city picks up and hauls leaves separately as part of its public service effort. The city also owns a landfill, now closed where a compost operation could be implemented.

Canton and Plymouth township residents aren't so fortunate. Both are serviced by a private commercial hauler who doesn't separate leaves from other waste.

Canton, however, owns a closed landfill where leaves could be composted. Plymouth Township doesn't.

Gov. James J. Blanchard supports a measure to ban leaf dumping because leaves take up so much space in dwindling numbers of landfills. A bill that would prohibit dumping by 1993 is expected to be introduced in the state legislature next year.

THE CITY currently collects leaves with a suction machine after residents rake them into the street. About 70 percent are disposed of in the BFI Landfill in Salem Town-

Police continue search for prisoner

Michigan State Police are investigating the escape of a prisoner from the Western Wayne Correctional Facility in Plymouth Township.

James Odom, 34, of Saginaw County, apparently walked away Wednesday afternoon while doing some maintenance work outside the prison fences, said Ralph Morgan, administrative assistant to the warden at

That particular detail is su-pervised by guards on a sporadic basis, Morgan said. Odom, black, 5-feet-8, 180 pounds and likely wearing prison blues at the time of his escape, isn't believed to be armed and dangerous, Morgan been lodged in Western Wayne since last April, Morgan said.

Odom's disappearance was noticed at 4 p.m. during a daily prison population count, Morgan said. He was last seen about 2 p.m.

"The unusual thing on this one is he didn't have much more time for parole - a couple of months," Mor-

Odom, sentenced in April 1987, was transferred to a community residential program, the state's equivalent of a halfway house, in September 1987, Morgan said.

Odom was sent to Western Wayne last April after violating rules in the community residential program, Odom was classified as medium security, the second most trustworthy position on a five-step rating scale, Morgan said. Odom could face an additional charge of prison escape when caught.

Western Wayne Correctional Fa-cility lodged 492 inmates the day after Odom's escape, Morgan said. The prison is at Five Mile and Beck.

The 'Ice Man,' son of a former post commander who was the flagbearer at the Veterans' Day commemoration in Plymouth, watched the ceremony from a couple hundred yards away. 'I don't fit in with them, but every last one of them is great,' he said. 'Because of what they did, I can be like this. You can't beat that with a large stick."

The 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918 was commemorated as about 30 people gathered in Kellogg Park in Plymouth on Veterans Day.
Standing at attention, as VFW bugler Harry Krumm played Taps, were representatives of the VFW Mayflower Lt. Gamble Post 6695, the VFW Ladies Auxiliary, the American Legion Passage-Gayde No. 391 firing squad, members of the Plymouth Elks. No. 1780, and veterans of World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War.

Invocations were read by VFW Post Commander John Hoffman and VFW Chaplain Merwin Brace. A seven-gun salute sounded at 11 a.m. sharp, 70 years to the minute after World War I ended.

Wreaths were placed at the foot of Plymouth Rock, three sides of which are inscribed with tributes to those who gave their lives in World War I and II, the Civil War and the war with Spain in 1898.

Duane Johnson, VFW Officer of the Day, was pleased with the numbers of VFW, American Legion and Elks members who attended. More than 30 were present for the ceremony, which has been held in Plymouth for the past 30 years.

"I THINK this was one of the best attendances we've had in some years. This was the first time we had

A hearing is scheduled for late January at MERC offices at the State Plaza Building in Detroit.

Maryann Ligato, executive director of the Plymouth-Canton Paraprofessional Association and three other district employee groups, said the district is engaging in an unfair labor practice by using volunteers to do the work of workers Ligato added the charge was filed after the district failed to respond to a letter from the union.

"WE SENT a letter asking them to discontinue the practice and to reinstate the status quo so that we could bargain. They refused, so we filed,"

Eleven aides were laid off in a budget-cutting measure after a mil-lage proposal failed in June and hours for most aides were reduced, said Ligato. Benefits were also reduced. Walter Bartnick, administrative assistant for labor relations, said he is "surprised the association would even bring this issue to this

Volunteers have been used in this district and districts throughout the state and nation for many years, he said. "We have all kinds of parents helping children in schools."

Ligato said employes generally supported the use of volunteers until they concluded they were losing wages or hours because of that practice. "We're concerned with volunteers doing the work of our people,"alte said. "We don't believe volunteers should be used to replace employees. That's the problem."

Bartnick defended school policy."Volunteers have been doing the duties of the educational aides for as many years as there have been volunteers," he said.

"Bankets Filled With Love" Telethon will be Saturday, Dec. 10, at Omnicom's studio, south of Joy between Haggerty and Lilley.

BUSINESSES, SCHOOLS, churches and service organizations are being asked to participate by posting a "Baskets Filled With Love" poster and collecting canned goods in a "love box."

The poster and boxes are available by contacting the Salvation Army, 453-5464. Volunteers are needed to help with follow-up calls to more than 1,200 places.

Arrangements can be made to have the food picked up by contact- at 2 p.m. on Channel 15. ing the Salvation Army, or canned goods/donations can be brought to Omnicom the day of the telethon.

Any merchant, school, service club or church that contributes this year is invited to appear in the telethon to discuss how they collected the goods and to share information about their group.

"OVER THE past four years, the communities have worked hard to make this project a success," said Pete Smith, Omnicom's telethon

"It has now become a tradition for the various groups to collect canned and dry goods for the Salvation Army. Amann said.

Ticket-splitting was the rule. Bush's victory was offset by re-election landslides for Democratic area U.S. Reps. William Ford and Sander Levin. Ford, who represents southern Livonia, Westland, Garden City and Canton Township, and Levin, whose district include Redford Township, generally outran Bush on their home turf.

"Republicans have been talking about realignment for the past eight years, but it hasn't happened yet," Amann said.

Republicans, however, say their twin themes of prosperity and peace through strength are gradually making converts.

George Bush was the favorite of western Wayne voters Tuesday, but area Democratic congressmen William Ford and Sander Levin ran considerably ahead of their party's presidential nominee in most communities.

"Here, you have Republicans who will vote for Democrats because they know them, they see them out in the district."

Nor was Bush's victory achieved without a good deal of hard work on his own behalf.

'We had, I believe, a superior organization in western Wayne," said state Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, a longtime area GOP activist.

The grim days of January, when area Bush supporters and more conservative area Republicans found themselves in a highly publicized split, were history by the time of Tuesday's balloting.

"The Kemp and Robertson supporters said they would vote for Bush and, for the most part, they did," Geake said.

agree on one thing, however: Dukakis' stiff, aloof personality did little to endear himself to western Wayne voters.

Local Democrats "worked until the last moment" to capture the area for Dukakis, Amann said.

'There's not a dime of state general fund tax money in that system," Penner said.

Penner said the current eight regional computers across Michigan will be replaced by a single central processing unit to speed up claims

MEANWHILE, a state senator canceled a hearing at which his committee was expected to grill Blanchard administration officials on the computer embarrassment.

Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville and chairman of the Senate Human Resources and Senior Citizens Committee, said he needed more time to negotiate legislation to refund $28.4 million to major Michigan employers whom the botched computer system billed too much.

Two bills, one providing only for the refund and the other providing the refund and other administrative changes, have passed the Republican-run Senate and are now in the Democrat-controlled House.

"Maybe, if it's handled right, we can get something done by the end of the year," Dillingham said.

I WAS LESS than impressed when Fessier was a state representative (1975-82). He was a Tory backbencher, a minority member making more noise than light.

Then he got to the Senate, his party in 1984 became a majority, he got a chairmanship, and a transformation took place.

Along the route, Fessier learned a technique they don't teach in political science classes: how to weld together groups in townships, cities, counties, business and everywhere else to address a common problem.

He learned another lesson: There's no limit to what you can accomplish if you don't care who gets credit. When his Agent Orange bill didn't fly one year, he let another lawmaker take it over the next year, and it became law.

In his personal life, Fessler has stumbled - and taken his kicks. Today as a legislator, Fessler rates several pats on the back.

MANY ILLS are killing Mother Earth; pollution is in the water, the air, the ground. These 65 folks came to take on the ills in the ground.

America is running out of space to dump its waste at a time when Americans are throwing away more stuff than ever before.

The problem is, where do we put this stuff when the dumps close? Faced with this question, state and Wayne County officials have pushed the problem into the lap of each community. Devise your own strategy, they have ordered. You have until 1991 to come up with a plan on where to put your local trash. You can incinerate, recycle, compost, or any combination of these. Whatever plan you come up with, you have to launch it by 1993.

That deadline is only four years away. And this dictate must come as a shock to most residents, long used to one of the best waste disposal services around.

But those days soon will be gone. That's why two recycling experts stood this night before this group of 65. They came to demystify recycling, to show that recycling can cut down the amount of trash generated.

One woman summed up the fear on the mind of many in the audience: "If we don't recycle, they'll incinerate. We have to get involved while we're still involved in the decisionmaking process.'

The more that is recycled, the lesthat will have to be burned. It's as simple as that.

But the payoff? A healthier Mother Earth. With less trash generated, maybe fewer incinerators will be built in Wayne County.

Nursing home letter unfair

I just read the letter from Mark U'Ren regarding his opinion of nurs-am extremely angered by U'Ren's statements comparing nursing homes to prisons. These are just the kind of statements that give e homes a bad name. Having visited one home that he has tastenamed in his letter, he has drawn the conclusion that "prisons are more inviting." It seems to me that visiting one home does not seem just cause for this published opinion.

I work in a nursing home, and I have worked in this particular home for almost two years. I have worked in other facilities since 1983. I do not consider our facility a "prison," nor am I a guard. I am a nurse's aide, and I am proud of that title.

Some of the elderly are unable to care for themselves, and their families are also unable to do so. That is why they come to live in a nursing facility, so we can care for them 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The key word here is care. We care about our residents. It is their home, and my job is to care for them, bathe them, do whatever they need done. I consider them my family, and I love

It isn't an easy job, and it's very demanding, but I wouldn't do anything else, and if I can make them feel better, and make them feel loved and appreciated, I will do whatever it takes. I have developed many friendships, learned many things from them. And when they pass away I feel the same grief as with my own flesh and blood. I could write a book with all of my experiences. What do we ever hear that is positive? U'Ren is entitled to his opinion, and I am entitled to mine. I just hope this letter gets through to people, and they realize that were

Be considerate of handicapped when parking

I would like to express my appreciation for a recent "Point of View" regarding handicapped parking written by Casey Hans. This was an excellent article

I am so thankful that I am not handicapped, as most people aren't, that I would never consider parking in a handicapped space. It is easy to rationalize and say "I'm only going to be there a couple of minutes" but in my opinion this is not justification. We enacted this statute to provide for those who are handicapped and we should be considerate enough to allow these spaces for those who really need them.

While on the subject I'd also like to suggest that perhaps the qualifications for obtaining a handicapped permit should be re-evaluated. I seem to see a lot of people with permits in their cars who certainly give no indication of being handicapped. In my opinion these permits are not meant to be convenience permits but to ensure space for those who are truly handicapped.

I would like to see our police ticket more of these vehicles and our judges assess fines that would make people think twice about parking in a handicapped space the next time. Perhaps this would eliminate most of the problem.

The real solution lies, however, with us as individual citizens. It is so simple. All we have to do is think about how lucky we are for not being handicapped. That in itself should be worth a little walking from that parking space a short distance away.

Our world would be a great place to live if we'd all be just a bit more considerate of each other. This is just one way of showing our concern and respect for each other.

Gathering the bunch Brunch

By Louise Okrutsky staff writer

T THE CALLAGHAN household in Birmingham, intimate Sunday brunches stand in the stead of larger dinner parties as a way to keep in touch with far-flung family and friends

More casual and less time-consuming than preparing for a large dinner party, small brunches also come at the right time of day for the family. It accommodates Jim Callaghan's schedule as a choir member at Holy Name Catholic Church. It also suits official cook Hillary Callaghan's personal tastes. "I'm awake at that time of day," she said. Later in the day, she's usually too tired to handle a dinner party.

At the helm of these once-a-month affairs, Hillary Callaghan allows her menus to be dictated by whatever vegetables are in season. " I back into my menus. I look at the circulars and see what's on sale," she

A longtime vegetarian, Callaghan plans most of her meals around the availablity of fresh vegetables. For instance, last summer she presented brunch guests with a corn quiche and corn on the cob simply because the vegetable was available fresh in local stores

A RECENT BRUNCH for eight including her parents, husband, her youngest son and visiting relatives. — illustrates Callaghan's insistence on fresh ingredients. The centerpiece of the brunch, a red pepper blossom quiche, was selected because the vegetable was readily available in the produce section.

Another offering, a spinach souffle, was added to the menu to appeal to those who don't enjoy red peppers.

"It's difficult to guess," Callaghan said. "There are those who say, Tll eat anything,' but when you talk about what they do eat, you realize they haven't eaten 'anything.' You can get blindsided that way."

Adding to the brunch's subtle medley of textures were a pear compote and oatmeal scones served with homemade sugar-free jams.

Don't expect a menu of old family favorites from Callaghan. Instead, she enjoys experimenting with new recipes found either in cookbooks she has borrowed from the library or those she already owns.

"I don't do the same recipes over and over. There are a few I really like but we don't do a lot of repeating," she said.

Cooking was an activity to be enjoyed in Callaghan's family when she was growing up. Her parents, Bob and Maureen Keating of Birmingham, continue to enjoy cooking. "My mother is a very good cook. She's less experimental than I. I think she enjoys it less because there were all those years when she had to do it for all of us. Dad likes to cook," Callaghan sáid.

IN FACT, a fair portion of the afternoon's opening conversation between Callaghan and her father involved a description of his own exploits in the kitchen that weekend.

Ever mindful of the fact that a good cook, like a good entertainer, needs an appreciative audience, Callaghan credits her husband Jim, an elementary school principal for Warren Consolidated Schools, with being a good sport about her experi-

Her children, she admitted, offer varying degrees of appreciation. "My oldest daughter is very good.

Restaurant brunches are memorable

By Ariene Funke special writer

Sunday brunch is more than a meal — it's a state of mind.

"It's everything for breakfast you could possibly want," said a spokeswoman for Holiday Inn West in Livonia, which offers a big Sunday brunch.

For this writer, Sunday brunch in a restaurant is the perfect cap for the weekend. It's a sumptuous meal at a time of day when I'm most

Brunch is a meal served during a span which includes both breakfast and lunch hours; the name is a combination of both. While there is heavy emphasis on traditional breakfast items, the spread often includes roast beef, shrimp and salads for those who don't enjoy eggs and

"If you're looking for a lot of variety, we have it," said the Holiday Inn West woman, in an understatement.

SUNDAY BRUNCH is often, though not always, an all-you-caneat buffet. The pace is leisurely. The ambiance can range from elegant, with crisp linen cloths, ice sculptures and live music, to a more down-toearth, homespun quality. Many hotels offer brunch.

Some of my happiest times have been celebrated around a bountiful brunch table.

'Milk lady' knows all about mainstay drink

A week doesn't go by when I don't get something in my mail from a neat lady by the name of Irene Cameron.

The name might not sound familiar to you, but thousands of food writers, nutritionists, cooperative extension workers, home economists and dairy folk know Irene not necessarily by her real name but as the "milk lady."

Irene is responsible for sending out news releases and information on the mainstay beverage of today's household, especially those with kids, and can tell you everything you ever wanted to know about milk.

Well, just about everything.

Everybody knows that milk comes from cows and is reaped by the farmer who in turn has the milk hauled to a processing plant. Then the milk is processed and sent to wholesalers and markets, who sell it to folks like you and me. Correct, to an extent.

A total 91.4 percent of the world's milk supply comes from cows.

So where does the remainder hail from? Slightly less than 1/12 (8.6 percent) comes from buffaloes, goats and sheep. Interesting little fact that I discovered when doing the research on this story is that although goats supply less than 3 percent of the worldwide milk taste buds chef Larry supply for man, it is believed that more people consume goats' milk than cows' milk. This is because the highly populated countries of Asia and Africa have 70 percent of the world's goats.

HIPPOCRATES, often referred to as the father of medicine, described milk in his writings as "the most nearly perfect food." Indeed, this must be so, for many newborn mammals rely almost totally on their mother's milk for food. If milk were anything less than complete, survival of the young would be difficult.

Although fluid whole milk is a liquid food (48 percent water), it contains an average of 12 percent total solids. These solids are comprised of things like carbohydrates, fat, proteins, vitamins and minerals.

Not only do we just drink the stuff, but milk also comes to us in many forms and varieties, some of which include ice cream, butter, cheese and numerous other foods. Think about that the next time you're standing in line waiting for that triple thick shake.

Many of us, including children, disdain the necessity to drink milk but would never even think twice about enjoying it in a rich cream of broccoil soup, cheese fondue or frozen yogurt. "So what's in it for me?" you ask?

Many of us have heard that drinking milk wards off the evils of osteosparosis and that the creamy white stuff builds strong bodies. But how many of us realize that milk also his a very reliable, almost tranquilling effect on our bodies? Soon after consumption, of milk (whether it he hot or cold) a general mild tranquilling effect can usually be felt.

"I won't drive them to a fast food restaurant myself but I won't forbid them to go," she said.

"Every once in a while you'll hear about this family in which every-one's a vegetarian and the children won't look at a piece of meat. But I don't think that's usually the case." Still, she holds steadfast to her aversion to sugar, fried foods, fast

BUT THERE'S a price to pay for her fastidioussess in the hitches. It takes a lot of time to maintain those standards. "It takes more than I should give it," she said.

Time, for this cook, has become a increasingly rare commodity. Callaghan, a finance officer for Comerica, Auburn Hills, also takes graduate-level courses in finance at Walsh College. That leaves little time except during the weekends for Callaghan to continue making her own

Canton crowned WLAA champion

Question: What do George Bush and the Plymouth Canton girls basketball team have in common? Answer: After years of trying, both shed their No. 3 status and claimed the top prize in the same week.

So would someone que the hand, please? A rendition of "Hail to the Chief(s)" would be appropriate.

Just four days after Vice President Bush was elected to the nation's highest office, the Canton girls captured their first Western Lakes Activities Association champi-

The Chiefs, who were runners-up to Plymouth Salem in the previous three WLAA finals, whipped Walled Lake Western 57-37 for their 17th consecutive victory.

"ONCE THE tournament started, we wanted to get to this game," said senior Candi Jones, who along with teammate Amanda Bell is a four-year veteran. "Once we got here, we wanted it. We weren't holding back."

"We try to avoid external goals, but we definitely wanted to play in this game again," Neu said. "It's great for these kids; they've been working hard a long time."

While it was just reward for the team's long-suffering seniors, it was a pair of juniors who led Canton in terms

Stacey Thompson, who wasn't expected to play again this season due to a back injury, looked healthier than ever as she scored a game-high 15 points off the bench, and center Susan Ferko won an individual duel with Western's 6-foot-3 Michelle Hall, scoring 14 points.

"Ferko proved she is the dominant post player in the league, if not the area," Neu said.

When the teams last met in mid-October, Canton, 19-1 overall, whipped the Warriors 44-27 in a game Hall didn't start due to disciplinary reasons.

CANTON'S DEFENSE kept her out of the flow Saturday, holding her to three points, and she was on the bench with three fouls late in the second quarter when

"The difference is she started tonight, and we took her out of the game," Neu said. "And we had a bigger spread this time."

After a slow start by both teams, Canton pulled in front late in the first quarter, but Western never did get on track. The Warriors, who were 3-of-15 in the first period, failed to make a field goal in the second when their shooting fizzled to 0-for-11.

The Chiefs, meanwhile, got a big lift from Thompson, who made two three-point plays and scored eight points as Canton upped its lead to 21-8.

"The doctor said no more damage could be done, so go ahead and play," said Neu of the injury that kept Thompson out of 11 games.

"She adds a whole new dimension to our team. She has tremendous athletic ability and, as you saw, can

WHILE THE Warriors were missing the target consistently, Canton's defense met the ball at half court and hounded the Western ball handlers. The Chiefs conceded the back-door play, but their aggressiveness down low kept the Warriors from capitalizing

"You gotta credit our D," Neu said. "We were trying to put enough pressure on the ball, so that Hall couldn't become a factor.

"We wanted to take away the passing lanes, and you have to credit (guards Jenny) Russell and Bell."

Hall went to the bench in the last half of the second period, and the Chiefs boosted their lead to 33-9 at halftime, with Bell hitting twice from outside and Russell, Jennie Clark and Ferko scoring from inside

Canton made nine of 14 second-quarter field goals and accomplished what it set out to do with its pre-

"Coming in, we knew they'd be riding high on emo-tion," said Neu of Western's status as the tournament's Cinderella team. "Our objective was to be steady and get the emotion out of the game."

"WESTERN WAS emotionally up for the game," said senior Michelle Fortier, who signed last week to play for Western Michigan University. "We tried to do too much as individuals (early in the game) instead of trying to help the team.'

Canton needed its big halftime lead when it missed 12 straight shots in the third period and saw the Warriors climb within 39-20. But the Chiefs could afford to coast a bit, and Western was never a threat in the second half.

Bell added 10 points for Canton. April Blanton scored 12 points and Holly Miller 11 for the Warriors, 10-9.

Stacey Thompson, playing in her second game after returning from a back injury, scored a game-high 15 points to lead Canton to its first

WLAA girls basketball championship Saturday,

Erica Careon captured fifth place for Canton in the butterfly which the Chiefs grabbed three of the five places, using their Thursday at Livonia Churchill. Her event was one of several in depth to stay even with the Chargers.

Besides anchoring the freestyle relay, Ditchkoff won the 100 freestyle (56.7) and edged Cummins for second in the lift, the key race for Churchill, according to Hein.

ANGIE NEVILLE was another key, taking second in the 500 freestyle and coming back two events later to win the breaststroke (1:12.7).

We wanted to maximize the number of points we got from each person," Hein said. "That's using your talent to benefit the team."

Hein also used Tomasewski in just two events to make sure she was rested for the freestyle relay. She was fifth in the 200 freestyle, the second event, and had plenty of time to recover.

"That could have been a key," said Hein, adding she had a good split time of 59.9. "I figured it

Churchill started with Michelle Berry, Neville, Martin and Danner winning the medley relay (1:58.6). Individual victories followed from Ellen Lessig in the 50 freestyle (25.3), Jenny Raschella in diving (191.45) and Hamann in the butterfly Engelhuber had the best individual meet for Canton, Wellman said. She qualified for state in the 50 freestyle (25.9) and had her fastest time in the 100 freestyle (56.9), both second-place finishes.

CUMMINS WAS second in the backstroke (1:04.0), Amy Van Buhler in diving (106.35), Chris Lang in the butterfly (1:05.6) and Val Gildhaus in the breaststroke (1:15.4).

"The division championship would be nice, but the one that is a big deal is the league meet," Wellman said. "If we win the league meet, I wouldn't feel bad about (not winning the divi-

Rocks thump Spartans in season-ending meet

It's no secret. All season, the strength of Plymouth Salem's swim team has been its depth. It showed again Thursday against Livonia Stevenson. The Spartans collected six firsts to five for the Rocks, but Salem won easily 107-

Salem finished at 7-4-1 in dual meets; Stevenson ended at 5-6. Jamie Anderson and Jenny Knapp each won two individual events for Stevenson, something no Salem swimmer managed. Anderson's wins came in the 200-yard (2:09.1) and 500-yard (5:41.9) freestyle, while Knapp claimed the 200 individual medley (2:20.0) and 100 breaststroke (1:10.0).

Gina Bennetts also won the 100 backstroke (1:06.9) for the Spartans, and she teammed with Knapp, Darcy Gurney and Jane Whitney for a win in the 200 medley relay (2:09.1).

Salem's wins went to Jenny Ezzo in the diving (171.7 points), Julie Hickey in the 50 free (27.1), Sarah Andrews in the 100 butterfly (1:06.0), Nicole Bosse in the 100 free (59.1) and the team of Julie and Tammy Hickey, Nicole Bosse and Stacie Anderson in the 400 free relay (4:00.1). Salem will again host the Western Lakes Activities Association championship meet Wednesday through Friday. Swimming preliminaries will begin at 2 p.m. Wednesday; diving prelims start at 3:30 p.m. Thursday. Finals for both

Exercising to that 'healthy soreness'

Dear Myrna: I would love to understand why an exerciser gets that burning feeling in his muscles. What is actually happening? Sometimes I am sore while exercising, or one or two days later. Please Don't you just love that healthy soreness?

I am not joking. Lots of people really do love that soreness. Maybe it's a feeling of accomplishment.

I am glad you asked. It's important to understand what your muscles are going through to help you make your workout safer and more

Well muscles usually become sore at two basic times — during the activity and also the next day (usually you feel it the next morning) and sometimes a day later. You have "acute muscle soreness" during the activity and "delayed onset muscle soreness" the next day or so. Both types of discomforts generally result from working a muscle repetitively, especially if the muscle is not accustomed to that amount of work.

Acute muscle soreness is experienced as a burning sensation during the exercise. If you feel this, stop a second or the and allow the muscle to release its contraction.

The main reason for this burning sensa... in is believed to be a lack of oxygen or blood flow to the working muscle. The muscle then begins to work anaerobically (without oxygen) and the by-product is a buildup of lactic acid.

When you stop this, anaerobic muscle work, you allow fresh blood, filled with oxygen, to flow back into the muscle.

Supplied with oxygen, the muscle can continue to work aerobically with less chance of injury. So remember, never try to work through the burn. Take short rests if needed and allow your muscles to recov-

As your own fitness level improves, your body will become better able to supply oxygen to working muscles for a longer period of time. Your muscles will not tire as easily and will grow stronger without

The delayed onset muscle soreness (soreness felt one or two days after activity) is caused by microscopic tears or ruptures of the muscle fiber that occur when overly strenuous or unfamiliar exercises are done. These tiny tears prevent the muscle from relaxing after a contraction and it soon becomes stiff and sore.

To decrease your chances of tearing the muscle and developing delayed onset muscle soreness, avoid jerky or bouncy movements. Try to keep your movements smooth and easy. Stretching is the key here to relieving the soreness that occurs later.

In our stretching and contour classes, we always stretch each muscle group worked. It's important to hold these stretches as long as 30 seconds on each position.

If you are taking these classes regularly and you're also taking advantage of all of our stretching movements, you may at times feel a little sore. Don't be concerned. With my explanation you should have a new appreciation for stretch and contour class.

(Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company of Bloomfield Township, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Please send your questions to: Sports Department, Myrna Partrich, 1225 Bowers, Birmingham

Any chance of a Glenn rally was dashed when Kevin Jankowski and Yeager recovered fumbles near midfield on two separate Rocket possessions in the final quarter.

"Coming back from two touchdowns down is a long haul against a team like that," said Gordon, whose team bowed out with a 9-2 record. "They're well-coached. They have a great chance to win it all.

"Our kids gave a great effort and they played hard. Looking back, we started the season with only two returning starters and we got to the playoffs. I don't think anybody gave

"We're getting better each week in different areas," Mach said. "We're not all there yet, but our quarterback (Hauncher) did a nice job of finding his receivers and our receivers caught the ball."

Raiders look ahead to district

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

North Farmington coach Greg Capling forced a smile Saturday night - even after his team lost probably because he was looking ahead to Thursday.

Walled Lake Central turned away North 60-54 Saturday at Plymouth Salem to claim third place in the Western Lakes Activities Association tournament.

The two teams meet again Thursday in a first-round Class A district game at WLC. A district loss would end North's season.

But Capling figures the only thing North lost Saturday was a little pride. The day was meant for experimenting.

The loss moved North to 12-8.

"Of course, we wanted to win, but my main goal was getting a bunch of kids to play," Capling said. "I wanted to do different things and now I've got my mind set on what we'll do Thursday. Hopefully, Central will be overconfident.

North and Central were tied 25-25 at halftime, but the Vikings pulled away in the third quarter, outscoring the Raiders 18-11 to lead 43-36.

Center Tonia Smith led Central with 19 points, and guard Kelly O'Hanlon added 16.

North had three players in double figures, led by Donna O'Brien's 17 points. Eve Claar scored 15 for the Raiders, and Kim Gurecki contribut-

"Donna did a super job," Capling said. "Pound for pound, she's one of the toughest players in the league. Because we're so small (5-foot-8), she ends up covering the other team's post player."

DAN DEAN/staff photographe

Stalking the elusive whitetail deer can be as inexpensive as an orange nylon knit hat, Sears winter coat, reversible blaze orange vest, corduroy pants and rubber boots with a felt pack inside or as expensive as a blaze orange Gore-Tex cap with Thinsulate lining, two-piece blaze orange camouflage hunting suit by Refrig Wear, Red Ball hunting boots with steel shank and Thinsulate boot liner. (Apparel furnished by Woods N' Water, Clawson)

Hunting enters age of technology

By Bill Parker

Beginning tomorrow, more than woodlands and forests of Michigan in pursuit of the elusive whitetail

While modern technology has enabled man to walk on the moon and fly across the country in a matter of hours, deer hunters have struggle over the years attempting stay warm and comfortable in the woods. In past years, many hunters would adorn themselves in a costume consisting of a heavy, bulky wool suit, large awkward boots and gloves that seemed to pick up moisture from looking at the morning dew.

But finally technology has come through for the hunters.

Insulating material, such as Thermax, Thinsulate and polyproplyne, have taken the sting out of frigid temperatures while allowing hunters to move freely and quietly without the interference of bulky clothing.

For gloves and boots, a fabric called Gore-Tex now makes it possi-750,000 hunters will take to the ble to keep rain and water out while allowing perspiration vapor to es-

> Developed by the DuPont Company, Thermax uses nature's recipe of hollow air pockets to provide warmth, much like the hollow hair of deer and some bear species.

THERMAX IS made of a thin hollow core fiber that traps air, providing the same thermal resistance as wool. The material also wicks moisture away from the body to the outer articles of clothing much like a lantern wick carries fuel from the tank to the flame.

Thinsulate, developed by the 3M Company, is constructed of polyolefin microfibers that create twice the thermal resistance as the same thickness of down. The tiny fibers al-

There is a sense of discovery about Madeira, even as the plane is lowering over the sea toward the airport. Out of the right window, you can see an airport built on stilts above the sea - it looks like an aircraft carrier. From the left windows, the red-roofed houses climb terrace-by-terrace up the spines of volcanic mountains.

Madeira literally means "Island of trees," but somebody set fire to the trees in the 15th century, and they burned for seven years. The ash, added to the volcanic soil, nurtures

Lindy and Michael Chamberlin (Moryl Streep and Sam Neill) are camping in Australia's Northern Territory with their three children when the baby is killed by a wild dog. But police mania and public hysteria lead to Lindy's indictment and conviction for the child's murder. It doesn't matter that this story cause the film fails to convince us that such an incredible sto-ry occurred. The police motivation in prosecuting the case and the generative force for public hysteria are poorly depicted and not at all convincing. Some Aussie accents are insudible and camerawork leaves much to be desired. Despite good acting, the film is unpleasant with no redeeming quality, just a dippy hal-lelujah ending.

'Ski' has plenty of schussing

Whether they're in St. Moritz, Switzerland, Las Lenas, Argentina, Cardrona, New Zealand, or Aspen, Colo., skiers and movie goers recognize Warren Miller as an international superstair.

He's been described as a combination of Jean-Claude Killy, Robert Redford, Ingmar Bergman and Woody Allen. He is recognized as the most popular ski and sports filmmaker in America today.

And his latest effort and his 39th feature-length ski film, "Escape to Ski," is coming to the metropolitan area for four showings in Ann Arbor, Detroit and Royal Oak.

Presented by Audi Quatro, WJR-AM and Bavarian Village, "Escape to Ski" will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 19, at the Michigan Theater in Ann Arbor, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 23, at Ford Auditorium in Detroit, and at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 26, at the Royal Oak Munic Theater in Royal Oak.

In "Estape to Ski," Miller combines fast-paced adventure and existe locations, with his unique blend of humis, during a 90-minute journey to some of the most families — and some of the most obscure — ski areas in

Fourteen cameramen traveled more than 300,000 miles to 34 different locations on four continents to shoot 18 miles of film for "Escape to Ski." The locations included Saas-Fee, Switzerland; Portillo, Chile; Oukalmeden, Morocco; Blackcomb and Whitewater, British Columbia; Deer Valley and Snowbird, Utah; Mammoth Mountain, Calif.; Breckenridge, Steamboat and Telluride, Colo.; Hunter Mountain, N.Y.; and Stratton Moun-

Hollywood-born and raised, Miller caught the ski bug early in life. In 1947, he headed to Sun Valley to learn ski and two years later, he was teaching two young Bell & Howell executives, Charles Percy, who now is a U.S. senator, and Hal Geneen, now the chairman of the board

In the process, he convinced them to lend him a camera to photograph local skiers.

Miller's first ski feature film, "Deep and Light," was produced on a shoestring budget of $500. He personally narrated it and toured with the film.

Thirty-nine years later, Miller continues to point his camera at his favorite subjects — skiing, sailing, windsurfing and other "weekend" sports - but now be spends up to $1 million per feature.

EACH FALL he tours the country personally, promoting his ski films. Miller's films, screened with his prerecorded narration, play to standing-room-only crowds in more than 400 North American and European cities.

He has 30 ski feature films to his credit and more than 400 other sports films, He also does video casettes — "Warren Miller's Learn to Ski Better" is one film created specifically for the home video market — and has written two books, "Wine, Women and Skis" and "In Search of Skiing.

All seats for the four showing of "Escape to Ski" are reserved and tickets cost $7.50. They available at the theater box offices and through all Ticketmaster outlets. They also can be charged on Visa of Mastercard by calling 423-6666.

In Tua Nua blends old with new

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

The next election in Ireland might not be for a prime minister. People could have to vote to see who will turn out the lights when the last person leaves

Massive unemployment and economic stagnation has most of Ireland's young, educated people leaving in droves. They call it the brain drain. The problem hits close to home for Leslie Dowdall of the Irish band In Tua Nua.

"I was watching this television program about all the Irish in America," said the talented lead singer whose group will perform on Wednesday at Saint Andrew's Hall in Detroit. "It was scary. All these people were talking about why they wouldn't go back because of the economy and all. It's sad that all our talented young people are leaving."

With the impassioned whisper of a storyteller. Dowdall sings as such in the title track of In Tua Nua's latest album, "The Long Acre" (Virgin). The song is of a family who leaves the family farm in Ireland for England. The son returns later only to find things haven't improved and laments the endless generational cycle of emigration.

The song is very Irish as is In Tua Nua's music. Uilleann pipes and violins are interwoven with a bold wave

IN TUA NUA is the latest wave of what has become the Irish Invasion. U2. like the Beatles of the British Invasion of the 1960s, has opened the door for a bevy of new musical talent from the Emerald Isle like Sinead O'Connor, Hothouse Flowers and Something Happens!

Yet the aforementioned performers have found the "next-U2" phenomenon a difficult one to shake.

"A lot of these bands spend their interviews talking about U2,' Dowdall said."It overshadows what they're doing. They ask, 'What's your connection to U2.'

Rest assured, In Tua Nua sounds nothing like their Irish cousins. Like U2, though, their live shows are a must in order to get the complete picture. Along with a bit of Celtic mysticism, In Tua Nua's music is a celebration. Spiritual might describe they are drawing raves in such unlikely ports as Austin, Tex., where few people know of the group.

In Ireland, In Tua Nua is quite a well-known entity (In Tua Nua means "In a great kingdom" in Gaelic). They finished second in several categories of a 1987 poll, conducted by the Irish music magazine Hot Press behind U-know-who.

In one area, In Tua Nua didn't play bridesmaid. The best female vocalist award went hands down to Dowdall. Some have compared her singing to the full-bodied style of Grace Slick of Jefferson Airplane fame (perhaps that's because In Tua Nua covered "Somebody to Love" on DOWDALL'S voice is a bit more tame than the shrieks and howls of fellow Irishwoman Sinead O'Connor. But in terms of pure dynamic range, she handles her own.

"It's really grown over the years," she said. "I listen to early In Tua Nua stuff and I say, 'God! Is that "The Long Acre" is a showcase of her talents along with those of Martin Clancy, keyboards/guitar, Paul Byrne, drums/vocals; Jack Dublin, guitar, Lovely Previn, violin; Matt Spaulding, bass; and Brian O'Briain, uilleann pipes and saxophone.

The LP is also a testament of a group who has spent six years honing its craft. Unlike a lot of European bands. In Tua Nua feature a certain polish to their material.

Credit for that, perhaps, might be directed toward producer Don Dixon (R.E.M., Marshall Crenshaw), who was able to find a nice balance between the spirited guitar work of Dublin and Clancy and the underlying Celtic mysticism with the uillean pipes and violins.

"Hopefully when people see us live, it will start making sense," Dowdall said.

Never are we allowed to see what really makes the band click in this rockumentary. Don't fault producer Phil Joanou. What would have provided some insight in to why U2 has become the band of this decade was probably left on the cutting room floor with Bono, the Edge, Adam Clayton and Larry Mullen Jr. holding the scissors.

This group talks about destroying the U2 godhead myth, but who are they kidding? Certainly, if it keeps selling records, T-shirts and posters,

Most of the movie is in black and white, further keeping the mystery a mystery.

There are a few speckles of enjoyment in the concert footage. The brief flash of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s photo during "Pride (in the Name of Love)" makes what otherwise is a routine stadium chant num-

Having three distinct vocal and song-writing personalities gives them the kind of depth quality few bands can match. The problem is one of quantity, not quality.

It could be these still-young musi-cians don't yet possess the maturity to pull off a full album of home run material. Or it could be that the Bangles,

TWO STEPS FROM THE MIDDLE AGES

- Game Theory

What Game Theory has done is tamed the creative beast that lurks within and has gone out and produced what has to be one of the best albums of the year. "Two Steps from the Middle Ages" (Enigma) is the followup to the very eccentric yet enjoyable "Lolita Nation" double album of a year ago. Yes, gone are 10-word song titles and background noises of vacuum

Instead this California-based outfit has honed in on the one thing that made "Lolita Nation" standout the quirky and infectious thing known as the pop-rock song. And producer Mitch Easter really has his signature on this one.

From beginning to end, the num-bers are well-written, varied and enjoyable. Maybe it's an acoustic guitar line here or a lead vocal there, but every song has something to latch onto. You want more. Perhaps one reason this is so is that Game Theory turns what would normally be weaknesses into

OK, granted, Scott Miller doesn't rank with Bono in terms of booming vocals. But listen to a number like the grinding "Throwing the Elec-tion" or the jaded "In a DeLorean" and the feeling is there.

Also Donnette Thayer provides a surreal blast with her rendition of "Wyoming." The backing vocals here are also top-notch. Credit also goes to Shelley LaFreniere, Gil Ray and Guillaume Gassuan for that. This album is a team effort all the way. Easter does well bringing out the harder edge in Game Theory's sound. The guitar work of Thayer and Miller is varied and one of the

Roeper Upper School students will bring a whole new interpretation to a Shakespeare classic, "The Curate: Shakespeare: As You Like It," Saturday through Sunday, Nov. 18-20. The unusual and original play, often subtitled "The Record of One Company's Attempt to Perform the Play by William Shakespeare," was written by playwright Don Nigro who adapted the classic so that it could be performed by a theatrical troupe of seven people.

Nigro came up with a completely original play about a rag-tag group of players, led by a dotty old curate who nonetheless must present Shakespeare's play. The dramatic interest as well as the comedy is in their hilarious attempts to impersonate all of Shakespeare's multitude of char-

The play will be staged at 4 and 8 p.m. Friday, 8 p.m. Saturday and 4 p.m. Sunday, at the Bloomfield Hills school. Tickets cost $4 for adults and $3 for students. For more information, call 642-1500.

Danish look

The University of Michigan-Dearborn will present "American Pictures," a widely acclaimed multimedia presentation of American life and the underclass, at 1 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, and 4 p.m. Saturday,

The film depicts a man who came to this country from Denmark with only $40 in his pocket and his ability to survive due to the hospitality of the Americans he met on his jour-counters lower-class whites, blacks and Indians as well as upper-class families and millionaires. The film includes a covertly filmed Ku Klux Klan meeting and a disturbing look at the city of Detroit.

The creator of the film, Jacob Holdt, will be at each presentation and will participate in discussion and answer sessions after the show-

The free showings are sponsored by the UM-D Office of Academic Affairs, Student Activities Office and Philosophy Club.

The film will be shown in Room 179 of the Engineering Laboratory Building on the UM-D campus on Evergreen Road, Dearborn.

An evening of comedy

The students of the University of Michigan's Opera Theater Program will present an evening of comedy and tragedy with two of Puccini's most popular operas - "Gianni Scicchi" and "Sour Angelica" -Thursday, Nov. 17 through Sunday,

The operas will be sung by graduate and undergraduate voice students at UM. They will be accompanied by the University Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Gustav Meier. Jay Lesenger will direct.

This opera theater will be the first in U-M history to employ "supertitles," English language translations projected on a screen above the stage. The use of "supertitles" will enable the audience to follow the performance of "Suor Angelica," which will be sung in the original Italian. "Gianni Schicchi" will be sung in English.

"Gianni Schlechi" and "Suor Angelica" are two stories taken from a three-opera trilogy titled "Il Trittico (The Triptych)," first performed by the Metropolitan Opera in New York

"Suor Angelica" is the tragic story of a woman who has been banished by her family to a convent because of an affair years earlier that resulted in the birth of a child. When she is coldly informed that her child. whom she has not seen since entering the convent, has died, Sister Angelica is almost driven insane with grief.

In contrast, "Gianni Schiechi" is a dark comedy about avarice and deceit. Set in Florence in the mid-1400s, it is about a group of greedy relatives who have been left out of a dead man's will.

Because no one outside the family knows of the old man's death, the relatives enlist the aid of Gianni Schicchi, a crafty old peasant, who dresses himself up as the dead man and proceeds to dictate a new will to Performances will be at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday, at the Power Center, Huron and Fletcher streets on the UM-Ann Arbor campus.

Tickets for cost $10 and $7. Student seating is available at $5 with identification. Tickets can be bought from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at the ticket office inside the Michigan League. The Power Center box office will be open one hour before each performance.

Detroit salute

The Wayne State University choruses and orchestra will open the holiday season with the 22nd annual Salute to Downtown Detroit at old St. Mary Church in Greektown at noon Tuesday, Nov. 22.

Professor Dennis Tini will conduct the combined choruses for the "Gloria" by Vivaldi. The individual choral groups will perform selected works by Bach, Dawson, Earl, George, Pergolesi and Poulenc. Old St. Mary's Church is on Monroe at Antoine. Admission is free, but donations will be accepted. For more information, call 577-1795.

'Lily' benefit

The understudies of the Wayne State University Theatre and the School of Fine and Performing Arts are sponsoring a benefit theater party at the Nov. 29 preview of "The Search for Signs of Intelligent Life in the Universe," starring Lily Tomlin, at the Fisher Tehater.

A pre-performance dinner at the Recess Club and an afterglow with Lily Tomlin at Pegasus in the Fisher are added attractions for guests who contribute to a scholarship fund for theater students at Wayne State. The fund will be named for Tomlin, a former WSU student and Bonstelle Theatre actress. She also has contributed to the benefit.

Benefactor tickets are $150 and are available for the complete evening. Patron tickets cost $125 for the preview and afterglow, and friend tickets are $75 for the preview only.

The development of Gore-Tex and Thinsulate has resulted in a number of new boots on the market. Browning, Sorel, Ranger, Charles Daly and Red Ball, among others, all offer standard leather upper/rubber lower boots with Thinsulate and/or Gore-Tex liners.

Many bootmakers have also replaced the upper leather with a Gore-Tex fabric. Thinsulate liners work very well in place of felt packs.

The Lacrosse Iceman and the Sorel Caribou are excellent boots in the $60-$80 price range. Both are quality boots made with a felt liner, leather uppers and rubber lowers. The Iceman also incorporates a layer of felt between the bottom of the boot and the liner and offers a steel shank for walking support.

"The Iceman is just an incredible boot for the money," said Tod Stanton, manager of Woods-N-Water Sporting Goods in Clawson, "The extra layer of felt really helps keep your feet warm, and the boot will last forever.

Other things to consider if buying a new pair of boots include: steel shanks, if you plan to do a lot of walking; room in the boot for extra socks on extremely cold days; and completely rubber boots, if you plan to hunt in wet or swampy areas.

Polyproplyne socks, such as the Wanda-Wick Undersock, provide exceptional warmth and sell for around $40 a pair. Gore-Tex sweat socks are also very warm. They are lightweight, waterproof and breathable and sell for about $30.

Pure wool socks, such as the Wigwam Berber, sell for about $10 a pair and are excellent insulators as are most brands of thermal socks.

Electric socks can be purchased for under $15. They provide warmth, but often too much warmth. Once your feet sweat and the wool or cotton electric socks become wet, the luxury of the warmth is lost.

dress in layers. That way, as the temperature rises and falls you can remove or add an article of clothing to remain comfortable. When clothing is layered it also traps air and body heat, helping to insulate your body and keep you warm.

Duofold underwear has been on the market a long time and builds the layered concept into its two-layer shirts and pants. Now Duofold has incorporated Thermax and Thinsulate into the bottom layer of material, the layer closest to the body, providing an exceptionally warm piece of clothing. Thermax-Duofold sells for $20-$30 per piece.

Anv loproplyne undergarment offers outstanding warmth while allowing maximum mobility.

They may be purchased as a onepiece, such as a union suit, or as two seperate articles of clothing. Down underwear is outstanding for hunters who like to sit all day. Down is very warm, but slightly bulky. It also loses its thermal resistance when it becomes wet, and takes a long time to dry. Down underwear sells for around $70 for two pieces.

Silk underwear is beginning to make a comeback. Old duck hunters always boast of how warm their feet stay in silk stockings, which let moisture escape while retaining body heat. It appears other hunters are finally beginning to listen. Twopiece silk outfits are tough to find (Cabella's catalog is one place), but sell for under $50.

OUTERWEAR: There are as many different types from as there are deer in the woods. so making a decision on what suits you best can be difficult.

One thing to remember is that by law, hunters are required to wear at least 144-square inches, or one square foot, of blaze orange while hunting in Michigan. For safety sake, more than the required minimum is suggested.

The first thing to do is to decide what you're looking for.

Some things to consider: Is there a storm flap covering the front zipper on the coat? Do the pants have zippered sides? Is there a kidney flap in the back of the pants to help educe draft? Do you want a warm, one-peice suit or a more versitle two-piece outfit? Is there a drawstring in the jacket to cut down the draft and are the pockets lined? Do they snap or are Velcro attached? Is there a hood and is it detatchable?

Insulation, and the amount of insulation used in a garment should also be considered. Some of the top brands available today include Refrig-Wear, Bob Allen, Browning, Remington, Woolrich, L.L.Bean, Cabella's, Burlington and Timber King.

Complete outfits, including pants, jacket and hood, run from $200-$400.

HATS AND GLOVES:

The majority of heat lost by the body goes through the top of your head. So, if you want to stay warm a good place to start is at the top, with a quality hat.

The most common hunting hat is a wool, cotton or acrylic knit hat. Knit hats keep the top of the head warm and can be pulled over the ears, if needed. If you purchase a knit hat, however, check to see how tight the stitching is. Tight stitching tends to keep body heat in and cool breezes out. Loose stitching allows heat to escape and drafts to enter. Blazeorange knit hats sell for $3-$10.

While knit hats work well in in dry weather, if it rains or snows most of them will soak up moisture. Waterproof hats are a must, if you plan to hunt in wet weather. Many hats are now covered with Gore-Tex to meet the water resistant needs of hunters. Gore Tex hats start at around $7.

Gore-Tex gloves are also good values in the $20-$30 price range. The material won't absorb moisture, but your hands will stay dry since perspiration vapor can escape brands are even made with a leather trigger finger.

Leather gloves are comfortable and fit very well, but they won't keep your fingers warm in winter conditions. They absorb moisture rapidly and retain human ordors which you'll leave on anything touched in the woods.

Jersey gloves, which sell for as low as $2 for three pair, are handy but absorb moisture and are far from ideal in extreme conditions.

Curtis and Clarence Butler have made for themselves playing the Delta blues with an urban

Butler Twins taste sweet success after years of playing the blues

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Curtis Butler gets things started, carrying out the opening guitar lines for the band to follow. His twin brother, Clarence Butler, sits at the table and calmly watches. His time will come.

When it arrives after a few opening songs, Clarence Butler casually walks up with harmonica in hand and begins to wail.

That's not just hot air rippling through the chambers of the metal harmonica. Years of listening to Muddy Waters, Howlin' Wolf and John Lee Hooker, playing in juke joints affectionately called "buckets of blood," and working two eighthour jobs a week only to bring home $60 to feed a wife and kids is what comes out in the form of music from Clarence Butler's harmonica.

Yes, this is authentic Delta blues with an urban twist. It's the kind of blues music that their father played. The kind of music they played on porches all night long, when they first moved to Detroit. The kind of music they love.

"That's my second love," said Curtis Butler. who was born along with Clarence on Jan. 21, 1942, in Florence, Ala. "That's the love that won't let you down. Your first love, she'll let you down."

THE BUTLER Twins haven't let those down who come to expect some spirited music. Indeed, underneath the tables at the Riverside Bar in Mount Clemens, where The Butler Twins are performing this night, is a sea of tapping feet.

Recent events have given the twins plenty of reasons to click their heels. They will release their first album on the Detroit-based Blues Factory label, "The Butler Twins - Live in Detroit," this week.

Their music they learned to play on a wood swollen guitar their father fell into a river with will be captured on vinyl.

"This is our first one," said Clarence Butler, sounding like a proud father. "You know how it is; a kid in the candy store. It's something I've al-

The album was recorded at one of the band's performances at Moby Dick's in Dearborn. The live sound is something the duo has had time to perfect through the years, playing local blues haunts, such as the Soup Kitchen in Detroit.

Anyone who managed to get a copy of last year's "The Blues Factory, Vol. 1" compilation will remember The Butler Twins' excellent "Hello Chicago, Detroit Is on Your Back" number. That was the first time the Butler Twins along with other Detroit blues artists like Harmonica Shah and Johnny "Yard Dog" Jones had been

UNTIL THEN, the Butler Twins' reputation was based purely on word of mouth. They honed their craft in juke joints around Alabama and Tennessee before moving to Detroit in the early

"It was rough," Clarence Butler said. "You just had to keep on playing. Fights would break out would come along and step on somebody's toes and didn't say, 'excuse me.' Then a guy would come in and break it up and then somebody would want to start something else."

The band broke up when the brothers moved north to Detroit, looking for better work. Curtis Butler arrived in 1961; Clarence came in 1965. At the time, Clarence Butler was only making $60 working two eight-hour-a-day jobs.

Still, they continued to play the blues at house parties on Detroit's 29th Street for fun.

But it wasn't until 1973, when The Butler Twins met Bobo Jenkins, that people in Detroit began to hear of them. They performed at clubs, festivals and I angeton Humber with Jenkins with through and Langston Hughes with Jenkins right through

One of the younger members of the current band, Jeff Grand, comes in to tell the twins the crowd at the Riverside Bar wants them to go on early. Both brothers laugh.

"I used to be like that," said Clarence Butler, recalling those blues sessions on front porches in the late 1960s. "I played all over. I'd play on Friday night, Saturday night and Sunday night. We'd get home just in time to get up for work in the the flowers that riot all over Ma-

As you drive the scenic winding road into Funchal, you will see orange nasturtiums growing wild beside the road and down the steep valleys to the sea; red and yellow poppies blowing in the fields; flowering trees around every bend.

WHEN YOU burst around a corner to that first view of the city of Funchal, you see it past a rim of blossoms. From April through July, jacaranda trees make a fog of purple blossoms along the city streets. They froth around the corners of the Old Town, around the 15 cathedrals and along the busy town streets.

Here are some of things you can do in Madeira:

• Go to the Lide. There are not too many great beaches in Madeira, (there are many on neighboring Porto Santo), but visitors enjoy the Lido, a huge public swimming pool beside the sea. The pool is surrounded by decks of sunbathers and luncheon folks. Be prepared for topless sun-

· Wander the streets of Funchal, with its wonderful old churches and museums, its markets, flower stalls, outdoor cafes and shops. Be sure to visit an embroidery factory. Handmade Madeiran embroidery is famous worldwide. It is very expensive, because of all those thousands of tiny stitches, but you don't have to • Try the Madeiran wine, a fortified wine-like sherry. You can tastetest at the wine lodges of the Madeira Wine Associates. I love the story that goes with the wine. Madeiran soil does not grow great fruit for table wine. Centuries ago a shipload was sent over rough seas, through hot tropical weather, to the Orient. It tasted so good that Madeiran wine makers have duplicated the process ever since, by heating the wine and shaking it around.

• At night, people go to the Old Town, with its restored cobblestone streets. Don't miss the fado singers. Ask around to find the best places. We went to a tiny place called Mar-celino's. You will also find a modern casino with floor show on the island.

• IF YOU love roller coasters, you will love screeching down a steep hill in a wicker toboggan from Monte, 2,000 feet above Funchal.

The basket is set in steel runners. Two men race alongside, guiding the sled, as it makes a 2.5-mile descent over slippery cobblestones and through narrow streets.

· Drive or take day tours to the small coastal fishing villages, tucked into scenic bays, and up the long winding cobblestone road that leads around conical volcanic mountains. Some of the red-roofed houses, hanging precariously on terraced slopes, are a three-hour walk from the nearest village.

• Try some of the wonderful island food. For starters, have dinner at A Seta, a small restaurant in the hills where they serve traditional barbecued beef on skewers, accompanied by fresh bread, soup and lots of wine.

For more information on Madeira, contact the Portuguese National Tourist Office, 548 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10036-5089 or telephone (212) 354-4403.

You might also want to contact Chuck Randolph Travel and Tours, 3588 West Maple Road, Birmingham 48010 (telephone 645 5056). They are taking tours from Detroit to Madeira for $800 per person, leaving weekly from now until March 1800.

A. You have just pinpointed a major cause of backlogs of unwanted possessions. Like so many goodhearted, conservative people, you don't want to waste things, yet find few takers for your give-aways.

Charitable organizations have different acquisition policies; call and ask which items they take. My own favorite is Purple Heart because it will accept a number of items, like magazines, which few others will take. Unfortunately their number, 728-4560, is often busy. Keep trying.

Numerous other organizations are listed only in the white pages. Better-known ones which provide pickup service include St. Vincent de Paul, 567-1910; Salvation Army, 965-7760; Volunteers of America, 872-5000; Goodwill Industries, 774-4410; Furniture Resource Center of Pontiac. 373-7600.

There are multitudes of other possibilities, including homes for can be using them.

Special Olympics accepts trophies. Consider setting a few of your items on your curb with a "Free" sign.

Operation LINC matches needs to donations. LINC maintains donation lists and puts charitable organizations with special requests in touch with contributors. Certain items such as file cabinets, chairs, typewriters, infant cribs, etc. are always needed. Call them at 882-6100.

Some things are nearly impossible to give away. After remodeling our kitchen we had an old-but-good builtin range/oven unit and the matching vent fan. After innumerable calls (I finally got compulsive over this) I could not find a taker because the needy usually lack the skills to install built-ins. Finally, LINC came to my rescue.

All too many people save things because "someone else could use them." Remember, however, that so long as you still have them, no one

Q. I am a condo developer who has thought about the possibility of condominiumizing a ship, presumably like a hotel. Is it feasible?

A. Presumably, the ship, if anchored permanently, would be considered real property for purposes of establishing a condominium. Obviously, the permanency of the location of the condominium would have to be established. There is no reason, however, why a ship could not be turned into rooms or suites such as a condominium hotel and otherwise sold. It is an intriguing idea and may well be legally, as well as economically, feasible. You ought to pursue an investigation of its feasibility.

Q. One of the units in our condominium is being used for a day-care whether or not it is a violation of the condominium restrictions against "single family residences." Do you

A. This is a hot issue facing many condos. The issue focuses upon whether or not a day-care facility constitutes a business or occupation in violation of the condominium restrictions precluding single family

The first thing to look at, of course, is whether the day-care facility is in violation of any state licensing statutes or city ordinances. Assuming that it is not, an analysis has to be made as to whether or not such conduct constitutes a violation of the spirit and breadth of the restrictions regarding single family residences.

It is likely that this issue will find itself in court in the near future. We will keep you posted.

Simplicity reigns

Shaker, Scandinavian both homey in design

OR MANY YEARS, excess has been the mode in American home decor.

If the growing popularity of two traditional home-decorating styles - Shaker and Scandinavian is any indication, however, Americans are turning to a "less is more" attitude in home design.

Why? According to House Beautiful magazine, it's because of America's growing "weariness of overdecorated rooms, furnishings so shiny the materials can't breathe and showroom-slick styling inhospitable to life at home."

There is, in short, a trend toward simplicity, and few styles can match the elegant simplicity provided by Shaker and Scandinavian home-craft

While both styles are timelessly similar in their scope - both encompass exacting carpentry, fluid line and functional composition - they are different in their origins.

From their Protestant beginnings in 18th-century England to their dwindling days in America, the Shakers were noted for their work

"Hands to work and hearts to God" was their motto, and they lived as they spoke. From the Shakers came such a steady stream of inventions and improvements of existing materials as to make one wonder if there was genetically transmitted genius at

AMONG OTHER contributions to the world, we owe Shakers credit for inventing the flat broom, the clothes pin and the circular saw - all designed with a sense of simple utility.

The Shakers' mandate for simplicity in design came entirely from their spiritual beliefs: They felt perfection in work equaled perfection in spirit, and perfect spirituality was their highest goal.

The way to perfection was order, and the way to order was to keep things simple.

As June Sprigg wrote in her book, "By Shaker Hands," "The Shaker carpenter took the metaphors of moral perfection (straight, upright, foursquare) literally and made them part of his daily work."

The Shakers of old would find it ironic that people today see such

For the Shakers, beauty, as such, was something to be avoided at all costs because it was vanity, and vanity corrupted spiritual purity. The Shakers' idea of beauty revolved around usefulness.

Another aspect of Shaker design practically was that they had to cram many family members under one roof. Space-saving measures were absolutely necessary. Hence such unique design features as furniture with drawers on two or three ' sides or pieces that served double

YET ANOTHER EXAMPLE is the well-known Shaker pegboard, an omnipresent device in the home for hanging chairs, clothes, pots, whatever, for storage and to clear the way for their constant cleaning.

Of course, not all people saw the Shaker style as beautiful in its sim-

Charles Dickens once wrote, after visiting a Shaker home in the mid-1800s: "We walked into a grim room, where several grim hats were hanging on grim pegs, and the time was grimly told by a grim clock."

The Shakers, however, were confident in their character and industry. As a Shaker elder once said: "We are dignified without being proud, simple without being offensive." Such traits, not coincidentally, are what makes the Shaker style so attractive to ornament-weary Americans to-

Here are a few ways to incorporate Shaker purity and elegance into your home:

• Put classic ladder-back chairs and a functional trestle table in the dining room.

· A four-poster bed for the bedroom. Drape a sheer piece of lace over the frame to create a simple

• Hang a sturdy wooden pegboard in the entry hall or kitchen. While you will admire its elegant simplicity, you will find it incredibly useful.

• Shop for colorful Shaker-style quilts and pillows with simple geometric patterns.

Always look for furniture with clean, straight lines, a natural finish, top quality materials and unwavering craftmanship.

Shaker and Scandinavian designs share common roots — to a point. avaluad simple through necessity.

their orientation toward simplicity be dictated by stringent religious beliefs, the Scandinavians have used theirs as license to make life more enjoyable.

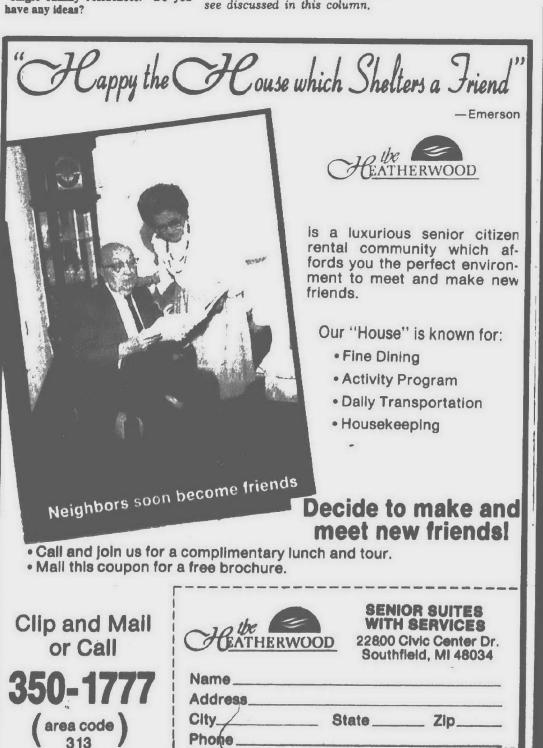

The Swedes have a word that aptly describes this attitude, "brukskunst," which literally means "useful art." Scandinavians don't take the approach that something pretty might also be useful; rather, they that something made attractive as well.

It's an inherent sense of beauty, as Eileen Harrison Beere writes in her book, "Scandinavian Design: Objects of a Lifestyle," the Scandinavian 'has a fundamental belief in enhancing his daily existence with beautiful However, whereas the Shakers let things, both in his home and in public parks and buildings.'

"His intimate relationship with nature is obvious in his feeling for proportion, color, and the efficient use of raw materials."

The Swedes have another word -'hygge" - which refers to design just for fun or whimsy, and that words speaks of a style that is uniquely Scandinavian.

The Trowbridge, a luxury apartment community for mature adults in Southfield, offers an active but carefree lifestyle for seniors. The convenience and security of the development frees residents of daily maintenance concerns, and the staff provides an abundance of personal services.

A model apartment in the Trowbridge features a spacious living room off an airy balcony. Each apartment is equipped with special architectural details — such as emergency pull cords in the bedroom and bathroom, emergency light in the corridor and sprinkler system — designed to make senior living secure and comfortable. Surrounded by five acres of landscaped grounds, the development was designed by the award-winning architectural firm of Louis G. Redstone Associates Inc. of Livonia.

Plastic mulch from corn starch eyed

AP - Communities all across the country are concerned because space for landfills, their dumping grounds for rubbish, is running out, with non-degradable plastics causing much of the problem. But some relief may be on hand, with the help of starch obtained from the nation's surplus corn.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is conducting experiments with corn to make a plastic mulch that degrades when no longer needed.

"We are working on new formulas for mulches, used for crops and gardens, that will biodegrade when we want them to - say, in three or four months," Department of Agriculture chemist Felix H. Otey said recently.

HE ADDED THAT as new technical advances are made in incorporating starch into films, these starch-plastic blends could "replace conventional plastic mulches made from petroleum-derived chemicals."

Otey and associates at the department's Research Center in Peoria, Ill., are formulating mulches that protect tomatoes and other high-value crops from weeds and drought, extend the farm-garden growing season by warming the soil earlier in spring and help farmers produce earlier crops that command a good price.

About 285 million pounds of petroleum plastic film are produced each year for agricultural use, half of it for mulching. The figure could reach 423 million pounds by 1990, Otey said, adding that his studies were "encouraging" and could lead to less expensive mulches. Tests indicate that starch-plastic mulches could be timed to break down naturally after the crop is harvested, Otey said, saving the expense of having to remove, burn or bury them, and preventing damage to the environment. "We are studying formulations that would make it easier to know when starch-plastic blends will be degraded by microorganisms such as molds in the soil," Otey added. "We also from losing flexibility when it is not being used."

weeder's quide

Earl Aronson

Starch-plartic, Otey related, could also be used as food wrapping and other consumer items, or as semipermeable membranes in food processing and seawater desalting opera-

Research conducted 10 years ago by Otey and colleagues led to the only starch films produced commercially thus far: water-soluble laundry bags that can be sealed and placed directly into washing machines, where they dissolve, protecting hospital patients and staff against contamination from soiled linens, reports the Agriculture Department.

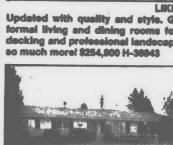

"Starch films probably could be produced and marketed for little more than pure plastic ones," Otey said. "And the difference could be recovered by not having to dispose of the mulch

PERLITE, LONG used as a planting medium in containers, greenhouse or glasshouse growing, and landscaping, lawn and other turf applications, also is reported to be excellent for hydroponic culture.

The Perlite Institute in Chicago says that testing at the West of Scotland Agricultural College "has documented the superiority of perlite over other methods of hydroponic culture."

Simplicity reigns in homey designs of the Shakers, Scandinavians

THERE IS A range to Scandinavian design that is absent from that of the Shakers, one which runs from restrained and practical to uninhibited and ornate. Scandinavian design is functional but never impersonal, enchanting but not ostentious.

There are certain traits to Scandinavian design that further distinguish it from the Shaker style, such as painted finishes, pastel colors, airy fabrics and whimsical elements - all of which combine to effectively create design that in the words of "House Beautiful," is "as fresh as a sea breeze from the nother."

Bright and cheerful, but never harsh or overdone, this Scandinavian look is easy to make a part of your home. Some of the keynotes of this northern elegance include:

- Pastels to give your rooms a tender blush of color — antique blue, soft green or yellow paired with white. Use them in furniture, wallpaper or accessories.
- Skirted chair cushions for comfort and whimsy.
- Floral motifs painted on the borders of a room or used to accent a cabinet. Also try a simple arrangement of fresh flowers on a window sill.
- Unlike the Shakers, Scandinavians like their furniture to have a painted finish. Try a pastel wash for table, cabinets or straightbacked chairs.

Shaker and Scandinavian designs may differ. in the way they have evolved but they are al-most identical in their origins and their mutual focus on utility. These styles offer a wide range of choices in a time where simple grace is the trend for interior decoration.

Who says lake living's just fun in the summer? (0) Living on Ford Lake's great 365 days a year. In summer there are all the watersports, tennis and sun-worshipping pleasures. In fall, the color change is spectacular when you take a walk or jog. in winter, the cross-country skiing, snowmobiling, snowman-building, ice-skating and ice-boating are tops. (So are the indoor pleasures of watching the snow fall through your belcony window.) It's active, Year-round on the outside. Quiet and peaceful on the inside.
