Variety Is

If you've missed the chance to hear the nationally renowned Centennial Educational Park Marching Band this year, you may want to put Jan. 27 or Jan. 28 on your calendar.

"Variety Is" — a musical show sponsored by all the bands at Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools — is set for a both evenings at the Salem auditorium.

"It's always a sellout," said Judy Lore, president of the schools' music boosters.

The CEP Band, marching in this year's Orange Bowl Parade, will perform for the last time selections from the "Music Man" and the "Mickey Mouse March." The routine earned the CEP Band fifth place in the Marching Bands of America competition this year.

"This is a real tear-jerker for the seniors, because it's the last time they play together," said Lore.

Tone it down

If you run for public office in signs in Plymouth Township, be advised that they can't be more than eight (8-by-4) square feet in area and not more than four feet from ground level.

The Plymouth Township Board approved the change to its ordinance last week after receiving a unanimous recommendation from the planning commission.

Large signs can have a negative visual effect on a neighborhood and also can present safety problems if distracting to motorists.

Luminaries on sale

It's not too late to order luminaries for the holidays.

The Plymouth Symphony League and the Trailwood Garden Club still have the holiday decorations available. The cost is $2.50 for 10.

The items can be picked up 5-8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 19-20 at 12005 Tall Tree. You can call 456-1989 those same hours for more information.

Holiday cards

The Plymouth Community Arts Council also has some holiday cheer in the form of greeting cards. The cost is $10 for a box of 25 cards.

The cards may be bought at the PCAAC office, 325 S. Main, Plymouth. The cards also are available at a number of retail stores in the community.

For more information about the cards, call 456-1989.

The card features a watercolor scene "Christmas on Peninsula Avenue" by Deborah Schmitt. Money raised from the sale benefits the arts council.

Mitten tree

The Women's Club of Plymouth is sponsoring a Mitten Tree for the holidays.

Sale prices boost home values

Homes throughout the Plymouth community, including these in the North Territorial and Sheldon area, are increasing in value. Residential property values increased an average of 19 percent in the township and 16 percent in the city.

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Residential property values next year will increase an average of 19 percent in Plymouth Township and 16 percent in the city of Plymouth, according to figures provided by the Wayne County bureau of taxation.

That big jump — which follows increases of 13 and 12 percent, respectively, this year — reflects the willingness of buyers to pay big bucks for housing in the community.

It also could mean higher property tax bills.

A property's assessment, half of market value, is the base to which tax rates for municipal, county and school services are applied to determine tax due.

Property taxes probably won't rise nearly as much as assessments.

State law limits tax revenue generated by soaring assessments to the rate of inflation with a public hearing and vote of a taxing authority's board.

A vote of the electorate is needed to collect even more revenue than that.

A TWO-YEAR STUDY of housing sales in both Plymouth communities from April 1986 through March 1988 determined the current values of property for assessment purposes.

There were 839 sales in the township, 454 in the city during that period.

The city has used sales figures provided by the county and adjusted assessments on every residential parcel by the average increase.

The township has adjusted assess-

The Plymouth community is mourning the loss of Col. Timothy Charles Ford, a widely respected and well-liked law enforcement officer and academician.

Ford, 62, of Plymouth died of a heart attack Dec. 16 in Ann Arbor. Funeral services were Sunday at the Schrader Funeral Home with Col. George Marston officiating.

Plymouth police chief 1971-1981, Ford recently served as the chief of security for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

He was on the faculty of Madonna College, the University of Detroit, Schoolcraft College and Henry Ford Community College where he taught criminal justice and security management.

Ford was a retired colonel in the Army. He served with the Navy in World War II and as an intelligence officer with the Army in Korea.

Luxury housing planned near Inn

By Doug Funke
staff writer

A complex of up to 60 luxury apartments has been proposed for a five-acre site on Plymouth Road across from the Hillside Inn in Plymouth Township.

A development team consisting of Dave Phipps, Clayton Miller and Kal Jabara hopes to close on the vacant parcel, now owned by Robert Stremich, next month and break ground sometime next spring, Jabara said.

Stremich is the former owner of the Hillside Inn.

A change in planned unit development concept from office to residential use approved by the township board last week helped grease the wheels for the Village Hill Residential Community.

Jabara and his partners must now obtain site plan approval and work out specific details for the planned unit development. Both are subject to township board approval.

CREW control School group prepares recommendations

If the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools don't make strides toward excellence this year, don't blame the citizens' committee.

Fifty strong, the Community Researching Educational Workings has set out to see what can be done to improve communication, school finances and organization, class size, curriculum and student discipline. Sub-committees have been formed to research these and other areas.

They plan to report to the board of education at a 7:30 p.m. meeting Feb. 6, in the board office, 454 S. Harvey.

"We chose these sub-committees because they were areas of concern that were given to us by our respondents on the survey," said Pam Nuttall, CREW media liaison.

CREW surveyed residents to help identify the schools' perceived strengths and weaknesses.

"WITH ALL these people, I can't see where we can't come up with an excellent school district, or continue it perhaps," said Nuttall.

CREW was formed at the request of the school board. Annette Remsburg was recruited to head the organization by Superintendent John Hoben. Other members — among them full-time homemakers, engineers, elementary school teachers and retirees — all volunteered.

"When we meet Feb. 6, we'll preent an interim report. Our final report and recommendations will be given in May," said Nuttall.

FINANCE is perhaps the most important area being studied, Nuttall said.

"A lot of people, asked in the survey if they felt the district managed money well, said no. A lot of people said they didn't feel they were getting their money's worth," she said.

"We will look at 43 other school districts (in Michigan and out of state), examining cost per pupil, teacher salaries as well as state equalized valuation," said Nuttall. "We want to give the facts to the public."

COMMUNICATION IS another top priority, Nuttall said.

"A good portion of our respondents, about 50 percent, said the board of education and administrators needed greater communication skills with the public. They didn't feel as well-informed as they should done this before. I'm not patting myself on the back, but I do want to pat others on the back."

On CREW's agenda are:

- An investigation of the curriculum structure and state test scores.
- How class size is determined and how it compares to that of other districts.

- An unscientific survey of PTO members to "determine the characteristics and qualities displayed by both good teachers and bad teachers" and "to uncover parent expectations of teachers."

- An analysis of district policies on "substance abuse, smoking, attendance, suspension and fighting and all grade levels. Policies will be compared with those of five neighboring districts."

- A comparison of organizational structures of various school districts. "Also, an in-depth review will be completed concerning the recommendations made by U.S. Secretary of Education William J. Bennett as well as state and federal requirements," she said.

"The CREW committee is moving closer to their ultimate goal — to identify strengths and weaknesses of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and develop action plans to identify methods for building on strengths and provide recommended solutions for overcoming weaknesses," Nuttall said.

Dedicated lawman, teacher dies at 62

"WE WORKED together for 10 years when he was police chief," said Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry, who was Ford's assistant chief in Plymouth.

"He brought me up through the ranks to where I am today. Tim was one of those people who was always caring. He cared a lot for the community and the people in it," Berry said. "He was always willing to volunteer his time and give his input. I have a great deal of respect for the man."

Police work was Ford's "true first love. But he always had a love for teaching and the education process," added Berry.

For many years, Ford taught juvenile justice at Madonna College. Alan Eichman, chairman of Madonna's criminal justice department, met Ford while the two were in graduate school at the University of Detroit.

"TIM FORD was well-respected not only as a chief, but also in the academic field," said Eichman.

"He was a dependable, good teacher who was very supportive about dealing with the problems of students and promoting the police profession. He was a friend of everyone in the business and everyone in education as well."

"We were very happy to have him on board, and liked him very much."

Henry Graper, Plymouth city manager, said, "Tim was an easy person to work with. He was a very militarily oriented type individual. He was a retired colonel at the time he was with me."

"He was an excellent writer. He wrote beautiful letters — he had a way with words and a phenomenal vocabulary."

"He was a good police chief with a well set-up office, and he had a good assistant in Carl Berry," added Graper. "They worked very well together and the department ran well."

CHUCK LOWE, retired Plymouth city attorney, said Ford "was a heck of a good man. Tim and I were friends, particularly because we were both in the reserve. We didn't serve together, but we had something in common. He did one terrific job here."

Henry Berghoff was a detective lieutenant under Ford.

"Tim was always a fair individual as far as dealing with the troops and citizens up there. I remember him always being a jovial sort of individual."

"He was a learned man who could put stuff on paper other people couldn't," said Berghoff.

FORD GRADUATED Phi Beta Kappa from the University of Detroit, where he earned his master's degree in criminal justice. He graduated from Wayne State University with a bachelor's degree in the same field.

He came to the Plymouth community in 1971 from Gibraltar, where he was director of public safety.

Ford was past president of the Wayne County Chiefs of Police. He was a lifetime member of the International Association of Chiefs of Police and of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police. Ford belonged to the Masonic Lodge in Trenton, N.J.

For four years, Ford was chief of hotel security for the Plymouth Hilton and the Hyatt Regency hotels.

WHILE WORKING AS chief of security for Plymouth-Canton schools, Ford told the Observer that he greatly enjoyed working with teenagers.

"I have a lot of life to live yet, and I like to live in the present, rather than look back," he said last December.

"Being around young people keeps you from getting old."

Ford had a keen Irish sense of humor. He once told a reporter about a student's misplaced notebook, sitting in the Lost and Found in his office.

"In it was a note that said, 'Dear Son, If you're going to have other people forge my name, the least you can do is find someone who can spell it correctly. Your Mom.'"

Even Ford's biggest headache — trying to accommodate 2,300 student drivers in a lot for 600 — didn't get him down.

"On fourth down, I back up and punt," he said.

Ford said his job, despite the crabgrass, was satisfying.

"My dad always used to say there's lots of people who complain but few who do something about it. I'd like to think I'm among the latter. You meet the nicest people in these kinds of jobs. And the nicest of all in the school district."

FORD IS SURVIVED by his wife, A. Lorraine Ford of Plymouth; daughters, Kathleen Anteau of Gibraltar and Meghan Sharpe of Livonia; brother, Daniel Ford of the Virgin Islands; sister, Margaret Pappas of St. Clair Shores; seven grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association of Michigan or the American Diabetes Association.

Prison escapee caught

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

James Odom, who escaped last month from Western Wayne Correctional Facility, has been captured.

"We received an anonymous tip that he was working at a car wash in Detroit," said Ralph Morgan, administrative assistant to the warden at Western Wayne.

"We alerted our Absconder Recovery Unit, which had been following up some other leads. They found him in his father's home in Detroit late Tuesday morning."

Odom, 34, of Saginaw County walked away Nov. 9 while working on the grounds outside the prison fences at Five Mile and Beck. Odom was classified as medium security, the second most trustworthy ranking on a five-step scale, Morgan said.

HE WAS serving three to five years for larceny and would have been eligible for parole in two or three months.

It's not yet known whether Odom will receive an additional sentence for escape.

"The Department (of Corrections) hasn't determined whether to issue a warrant. They sometimes prosecute for escape. He could be looking at two to five years," said Morgan. "Even though he was outside on work detail, we still don't take it lightly."

Odom will be placed in closed custody in a state prison in Ionia or Jackson, Morgan said.

Odom was the only inmate to escape from Western Wayne this year.

ments subdivision by subdivision to get to an average increase indicated by the county.

Assessment notices will be mailed to all property owners in late February. Those who disagree with assessments can appeal to local boards of review in March.

"IT'S VERY LIKELY that the (county's) number is a fair representation of the change in value," said John McLenaghan, an assessing consultant for the township.

Ken Way, Plymouth city assessor, also said the county's figures sounds reasonable. "Unfortunately, sales prices have been continually going up," he said.

Supervisor Maurice Breen conceded that he initially gets upset when he receives notice of whopping assessment increases, but he'd rather have his property values going up than down.

"It reflects a demand to move in and tells you you have a desirable community to live in," Breen said.

"If assessments don't change or go down, it reflects on the value of the property," McLenaghan said. "Usually that's not good. A house is usually a person's biggest asset."

THE TOWNSHIP has reduced its municipal tax rate the last couple of years to totally offset increases in assessments. The Plymouth-Canton school board, Wayne County and the city captured an inflationary increase last year.

People concerned about the effects of rising assessments on property tax bills can lobby other taxing authorities to lower their millages, Breen said.

"The tax rate is within control of local units," he said. "Assessed valuation in and of itself is not the cause of higher tax bills."

The township part of the total tax bill is only 8 percent, Breen said.

unique environmental features at a site.

Most of the rentals would be two bedrooms with a fireplace, washer/dryer and deck in each unit, said Robert Summers, architect for Village Hill.

"It will remain fairly secluded and fairly well buffered," he said. Jabara projected monthly rents at $800-$1,000.

Plans call for erecting four three-story buildings each containing 12 to 15 units, he said.

Jabara outlined what drew him and his partners to the parcel.

"It's a wooded site overlooking Hines Drive, close to town, convenient to expressways," he said.

There's an untapped market for luxury apartments in Plymouth, he said.

"WE DON'T THINK we will have a problem (renting) in Plymouth because there's nothing in Plymouth to compare with it," Jabara said. "I feel our community has more of a glut of office space than nice apartments."

One potential stumbling block —

Monthly rents may run from $800-1,000 at the wooded site near Hines Drive.

contamination found in an abandoned landfill on the adjacent Unisys property.

"He (Miller) had talked to Burroughs," Jabara said. "They're very close to awarding a contract. I don't think it (cleanup) is a long-term project based on what they're telling us."

"We don't want to go out unless it's resolved," Summers said.

The company is processing the paperwork necessary to clean up the site, said Charlotte LeGates, director of corporate public relations for the company.

"We're planning to start the cleanup operation in the spring," LeGates said.

Stremich couldn't be reached to comment on why he never developed a PUD after first getting approval for a combination of offices and apartments, then just offices.

Voices, hearts lifted at nursing home

High school students helped sing in the holidays for residents of the West Trail Nursing Home.

The nursing home visit was part of a health occupations class project and involved 33 students from Salem and Canton high schools.

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

A group of Plymouth senior citizens, among them a couple of 98-year-olds, caught the Christmas spirit Friday — and it wasn't the result of a tree trimming party or a holiday lunch.

Thirty-three students from Centennial Educational Park paid their own way to the West Trail Nursing Home, where they sang Christmas Carols and visited with residents.

While some of the 40 seniors may not have been physically able to show their feelings, residents "really did love it," said Linda McMullen, activities director.

"The holidays can be difficult, because they have a lot of memories. They want to go back, and they can't. Today that was bridged. They got over the hurt and the things they can't do. Now they're going to get down to having some fun," she said.

"It's hard for families to understand," added McMullen. "They want to buy (their elderly loved ones) something, because that's how we show our affection. But the best gift, seven days a week, 12 months a year, is the gift of self, the gift of love. And those students did it. They sang their hearts out."

THE CAROLERS from Canton and Salem high schools performed as part of a health occupations class project, originated by their teacher, Judy McKay.

"If those parents aren't proud of their children, they should be," said McMullen.

"If they are an example of our future, we're lucky. It was as if they've been here all along, or were part of us."

"They have our people in a positive frame of mind for the holidays. They're a very special school group."

Chris Sherlock was the lone male student in the group. "He definitely took the right class," McMullen joked.

For almost an hour, students sang traditional and new "Christmas carols and secular choruses as well as things like 'Winter Wonderland,' 'Silver Bells' and old classics. They did a great job," McMullen said.

The health occupations class exposes high school students to health fields, including gerontology. McKay said she invites professionals including doctors, pharmacists, chiropractors and veterinarians to speak to students, and takes the class on field trips.

"Some of the students said they could never work with old people. They didn't think they would get involved."

"But the minute they got there, it was incredible what happened all around us," McKay said. "Two or three of the students offered to do volunteer work. They invited us back, and we're going to in the spring."

'Ike's golf ball' helps plane land

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Some people call it Ike's golf ball. Others just refer to it as that big thing in the sky.

By any name, the Long Range Radar Site on Sheldon off of Michigan has come to be a landmark in Canton. It can be seen as far away as Willow Run Airport and helps direct about 4,000 planes daily.

THIS YEAR the radar tower celebrates its 30th birthday as an operational facility in the national Air Space System.

The fiberglass dome is supported by a steel base and contains a revolving antenna tower for the long-range radar.

7,500 planes daily.

The dome, installed in 1960, is 38 feet tall and 55 feet around.

Curious visitors often stop by the adjacent building to ask employees what the 85-foot tall structure is, said Phil Spada, field office manager at the Canton site.

Many of the inquisitors are people who have lived in the area for a long time and are tired of guessing, Spada said.

"We've given tours, mainly to adults, more because children don't understand said Spada, who helped move the monument to the site.

"The people who work here provide a service to the air-traffic controller, which in turn provides air-traffic control to the air-flying public," he added.

"We give air-traffic controller the tools," Spada said.

THE RAR dome was installed when Dwight D. Eisenhower was president.

A nearby owner at the time linked Eisenhower's avid interest in golf with the one ball on top and nicknamed the structure, "Ike's golf ball."

"We've never had any vandalism or weather damage," said Spada. A standby generator is available in case the sun loses power, he said.

This year workers experienced three outages totaling only eight minutes of power loss, Spada said.

"And this was a bad year," he added. "Last year we operated with zero outages. Outage to us is a minute or more."

The Federal Aviation Administration this year plans to upgrade the equipment most of which is original, Spada said.

Communities study exit at I-275, Warren

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Westland and Canton Township may head a regional campaign to convince state transportation officials of the need for Warren Road access at the I-275 freeway.

The idea of a joint effort was suggested by Joseph Benyo, chairman of Westland's Economic Development Advisory Commission, and Canton Economic Development director Dave Nicholson during an EDAC meeting Wednesday. Nicholson attended the meeting as a guest speaker.

The regional effort could include Wayne, Van Buren Township, Romulus and other communities which border the freeway, Nicholson said.

Previously, Westland has by itself unsuccessfully lobbied for a Warren Road entrance/exit.

"We were the lone voice for a long time in Lansing," Benyo said. "And their (the Michigan Department of Transportation) answer to us has always been that one community coming forward doesn't adequately demonstrate the need."

The only current freeway access to Westland and Canton is from Ford and Michigan Avenue, respectively. Those exits are three miles apart.

BENYO SAID MDOT originally considered I-275 a "rural" freeway. But, he said, recent growth in western Wayne County negates that designation and the need for additional freeway access is "clearly there."

He said the state's argument that building ramps at Warren Road would be too difficult because Warren is less than a third of a mile from Ford where it crosses the freeway could be resolved. "Put in the ramps on alternating sides, like they did on I-96 at Levan and Newburgh and there wouldn't be a problem," he said.

Both Benyo and Nicholson said a Warren Road entrance/exit would improve traffic flow in the two communities.

In Westland, it would mean another route into the city's primary retail shopping district, on Warren Road between Newburgh and Wayne. The district includes Westland Center and the WestRidge Plaza and Westland Crossings shopping centers.

Traffic in the area, already heavy, is expected to increase in early 1990 when Meijer opens a 212,000-square-foot "superstore" at Warren Road and Newburgh.

"It (another entrance/exit) would also eliminate all the driving that people in the northern part of the city have to do just to get on the freeway," Benyo said.

NICHOLSON SAID Warren Road access would also benefit Canton, which is experiencing traffic congestion in its north end.

Robert Wagner, commissioner, said access would probably be a boon to residents in some of Canton's newer subdivisions.

Previous township administrations have been cool to the idea, Nichols admitted. But the economic development director said he felt Tom Yack, the new supervisor, would "at least start a discussion" on the issue.

"As a united front, we have a better chance of getting some activity," Benyo said.

Kids' TV viewing not all bad — report

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

The common belief is that television generally has a negative influence on children.

But while a recent government-distributed paper challenges this — claiming TV isn't as bad for kids as commonly believed — local educators urge parents to at least observe what kids watch.

A child's television viewing "needs to be monitored and it's a parent's job to do that," said Susan Ryan, an adviser for gifted children with the Livonia Public Schools.

"I think a lot depends on how it's handled," said Nina Robins, principal of Vandenberg School in Redford.

"There are things out there that are great," Robins said. "I look at it like candy — a steady diet is not nutritionally sound."

THE AUTHOR of the paper released last week by the University of Massachusetts psychology professor Daniel R. Anderson and graduate student Patricia A. Collins — wrote: "There is evidence that television makes children cognitively passive."

Their paper, based on a review of research literature on children and TV, concluded:

• "Contrary popular assertions, children are cognitively active during television viewing and attempt to form coherent, connected understand of television programs."

• "TV viewing is away from movie attendance, listening and participation in organized sports — not from doing."

• "There is evidence that homework done during television viewing is of low quality than homework done in silence."

• "There is little evidence to show that television viewing reduces children's attention span."

BUT AREA educators tended to side with the findings of earlier studies, which generally maintain that too much TV watching is bad for kids.

"While I don't think there's any question children are cognitively active while they're watching television... it is taking them away from exploratory play which is particularly important for younger children," Ryan said.

Television, she said, has had a negative effect on children's abilities to visualize concepts. "We are teaching imaging and visualization skills we didn't teach before."

Ryan added that because of TV's influence, "We're up against entertainers."

"I don't think there's any question among educators that they feel they must find a very entertaining way... to keep youngsters focused."

Like other educators, Robins praises National Geographic specials and some other TV shows that benefit kids. But she cautions that generally, TV "offers a very attractive distraction... I'm not sure they're able to draw a good conclusion" from much TV.

On TV, for example, "Someone who gets hit in the stomach or smashed in the face gets back up," Robins said, adding it's not the same in real life.

KEN JOHNSON, director of instruction for the Redford Union Schools, said, "On the plus side, we talk in education about global education; how our society is dependent on the rest of the world."

"Go look at what just happened in Armenia," Johnson said, adding that kids who followed TV reports of the earthquake learned something of geology and of the local culture.

County commission votes itself a pay hike

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

It's the season to give, and in their final session of the year, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners gave pay raises to themselves and other elected county officials.

County executive Edward McNamara defended the raises but said he would donate his raise of $3,770 (4.7 percent) to the county's Infant Mortality Task Force. He now makes $81,000.

County prosecutor John O'Hair got the biggest raise, 8.7 percent, from $72,900 a year to $79,250, effective Jan. 1. Clerk James Killeen, Sheriff Robert Ficano, Treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz and Register of Deeds Forest Youngblood all got raises of 3.7 percent, from $68,850 to $71,370, also effective Jan. 1.

Since the commissioners are barred by law from voting themselves raises for a current or upcoming term, the raises they voted themselves Thursday won't take effect until Jan. 1, 1991. But they will receive previously voted raises this January as well.

THE SALARY for the 13 regular commissioners is currently $26,426 and will go to $29,970 on Jan. 1, an increase of 13.1 percent. That will go to $33,490 on Jan. 1, 1991, an additional raise of 11.4 percent.

The vice chairman now makes $27,426 and will go to $32,470 Jan. 1, a raise of 18 percent. That will go to $36,500 on Jan. 1, 1991, an additional raise of 11 percent.

The chairman of the commission

Vote: No. 'I think we're making enough.'

— Susan Heintz

Vote: Yes. 'It seems like a lot of money, but the compensation is reasonable.'

— Milton Mack

Vote: Yes. 'I'm not one of those people who has another job.'

— Kay Beard

Absent and did not vote.

— Richard Manning

the compensation is reasonable."

"I'm not a part-time commissioner," said Beard. "I'm not one of those people who has another job."

She said the raises for other elected officials were part of a new process to give them raises in line with what civil service employees get. "We've had a lot of problems in the past where the (department) deputies were making more than the elected officials, and that's not a good situation."

SAID McNAMARA, in defending the raises, which his department recommended: "When increases are made for public officials, everybody takes a shot at 'em. This puts elected officials on a salary schedule along with everyone else. When county employees get raises from now on, the elected officials will get raises in line with that. If there's a salary freeze, their salaries will be frozen, too."

"Prior to this, when enough commissioners had enough courage to put it on an agenda, they voted on it and took the flak till it stopped. It wasn't very scientific."

He said he would write a check for the amount of his raise and donate it to the new Infant Mortality Task Force before the end of the year.

"It's a group that needs the money. Things are not going as well as they should in infant mortality," said McNamara. "The figures are not going down. We're competitive with third-world countries in Africa. This is a start. This is a private committee I've appointed and they don't have any tax dollars."

will go from $32,926 to $37,470 on Jan. 1, an increase of 13.5 percent. That will go to $40,140 on Jan. 1, 1991, a raise of 7.1 percent.

In addition, commissioners who chair the commission's six standing committees each will receive $2,000 extra after Jan. 1, 1991. Currently, committee chairmen receive no extra compensation.

The commissioners voted for the raises, 11-1. Three commissioners were absent. Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township, whose district includes Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Livonia, cast the no vote. Kay Beard, D-Inkster, whose district includes Garden City and Westland, and Milton Mack, D-Wayne, whose district includes Canton, voted yes. Richard Manning, D-Redford Township, was out of town and did not vote.

HEINTZ SAID Friday: "I think we're making enough. That's my objection. I think people in county government are making enough."

But Beard and Mack defended the raises. All three said that the position of commissioner is a full-time job, not the part-time job that many think.

"I have voted against previous pay raises because I thought they were out of line. But I think this is in line," said Mack, who has a law firm downtown. "Being a commissioner is a major commitment. I spend 40-60 hours a week on county issues. It seems like every waking moment, anymore. I got phone calls on Thanksgiving. I get calls Sunday morning."

"It seems like a lot of money, but

Board pay is not the whole story

The cost to taxpayers for running the county commission goes well beyond the commissioners' base salary of $29,970, effective Jan. 1.

For that, commissioners are required to attend meetings twice a month and most of the 15 commissioners serve on at least three committees with various meeting schedules. They say that while the job may seem part-time on the surface, office hours and meetings with various community groups and constituents push the job to full-time.

COMMISSIONERS are also allowed to have office-holder expense funds, and in 1988 had individual office budgets of $66,000 a year to cover staff assistants, travel expenses, printing and various needs.

The base salary for the commissioners was $26,426 a year, with the vice chairman making $27,426 and the chairman making $32,926.

By comparison, the 27 Oakland County commissioners make a base salary of $17,191 a year, with the chairman at $18,719. There is no office allowance.

The 25 Macomb County commissioners make $14,453 a year, with a $35 per diem meeting allowance that has a cap of $3,000 a year. The chairman makes $24,117 with an unlimited per diem. There is no office allowance.

WINNERS CIRCLE

BY LAURIE KIPP

A number of lottery game players have recently asked about televised drawings, and why some stations have changed. This column answers those questions.

Q: What stations are now in the network?

A: The eight stations include: WDIV-TV Channel 4 in Detroit; WUHQ-TV Channel 41 in Battle Creek; WEYI-TV Channel 25 in Flint; WZZM-TV Channel 13 in Grand Rapids; WILX-TV Channel 10 in Lansing and Jackson; WLUC-TV Channel 6 in Marquette; WGTV-TV Channel 8 in Sault Ste. Marie; and WGTU-TV Channel 28 in Traverse City. The network stations also feed some local cable outlets.

Q: Are the drawings shown live?

A: Yes. Originating at 7:29 each night in studios of WDIV-TV in Detroit, the drawings are shown live over all other stations via a satellite link.

Q: Which drawings are shown?

A: The Daily 3 game drawings are shown and the winning Daily 4 game number announced on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. The Super Lotto drawings shown on Wednesday and Saturdays include announcement of both Daily game winning numbers.

Q: Do the same stations show half-hour lottery specials when they occur?

A: Yes. These generally start at 7:30 on Saturday night and include live drawings of both Daily games and Super Lotto.

Q: When did the network start?

A: The network was formed in 1984 just prior to the start of Lotto game play.

Q: Why are some stations different now?

A: The lottery recently asked TV stations throughout Michigan to submit bids for a new network contract in order to provide the best possible coverage for players at the lowest cost. As a result, some changes were made.

Q: Are drawings also now being aired by radio stations?

A: As a service to players not always able to watch the drawings on television, the Lottery has also formed a statewide network of radio stations to carry the live drawings.

Q: Which stations are included?

A: Network radio stations include WKJP-FM in Cadillac; WWJ-AM in Detroit; WZZM-FM in Flint; WLAV-FM in Grand Rapids; WJLM-FM in Ironwood; WJMK-AM in Jackson; WJZO-FM in Kalamazoo; WJMR-FM in Marquette; and WJBR-FM in Saginaw/Bay City.

We're submitting the question leading to this column, Richard Barber of Gaylord will receive 50 tickets for the instant lottery game, "Doubling Dollars."

If you have a question not yet covered in these monthly columns, send it to: "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 30077, Lansing, MI 48909.

Nurse saves choking boy in mall

What seemed like a routine day-after-Thanksgiving shopping trip to Westland Center turned out to be a day Marge Moryc of Livonia will never forget.

Moryc and her husband heard a commotion as they walked through the Hudson's store at the center. As they approached the crowd, Moryc, a St. Mary Hospital nurse, saw a small boy choking and turning blue. A woman was trying to extract something from his throat.

IMMEDIATELY MORYC instructed a bystander to notify EMS.

She then took the child in her arms and began the Heimlich maneuver, four back blows followed by four chest thrusts. The child did not respond.

Again, Moryc turned the little boy over and gave a back blow with maximum force. A square piece of hard candy flew out of the child's throat.

He began to breathe and cry, and his color returned. A sigh of relief broke from the crowd which had gathered.

MORYC ATTRIBUTES her success in this emergency to the fact that, as an emergency room nurse at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, she is required to take a refresher CPR course every year.

The CPR course includes the Heimlich maneuver for adults and children.

"I had never had occasion to use the technique before," Moryc said. "I was ecstatic to find that I was able to perform the steps automatically — and obtain the desired result."

Thanks to her quick thinking and CPR training, the story had a happy ending and the holiday will be brighter for one grateful family.

Who gives skinheads their ideas on rights?

NEWS ITEM: Two students described as skinheads are transferred from one Birmingham high school to another after partaking in a fight that school officials suggested had racial overtones.

NEWS ITEM: Parents in the Rochester and Bloomfield Hills school districts complain that Christmas is being shortchanged in their children's schools because officials are reacting to the wishes of non-Christians.

QUESTION: Does anyone see a relation between these two items?

Hold off on your letters. I am in no way suggesting that those who need a little Christmas in their schools in anyway share the hate-filled views espoused by the skinheads of the world.

BUT I DO think it's a good idea to listen to the skinheads. After all, they are listening to us.

Several skinheads were in our Birmingham offices last week to explain and defend themselves. I'm paraphrasing here, but part of the conversation went something like this: I'm tired, said a skinhead youth, of minorities always going on TV and saying how bad they've got it. I'm tired, he continued, of hearing them always demanding their rights.

Where do kids learn to say things like that? Why do they say that minorities have gone too far? Where do they get the idea that there's a limit on someone's constitutional rights?

SOME OF THE reaction to the Christmas in the schools controversy might provide a clue. Though not a majority opinion, some people I have talked with react something like this: Well, I wondered when people were going to get fed up with those people telling us what to do.

"Those people" could be women who want equal treatment at work, blacks who want equal educational opportunities, Jews who don't want Christmas in public schools, or any other minority group whose justifiable claims are "changing the way we've always done things."

People with very good intentions are having a very difficult time with restricting Christmas activities in schools. Why not "Silent Night," for goodness sake? Why not a sweet holiday pageant depicting the joy of Christmas? If other religions are offended, let's include their holiday activities. Let's add information about more cultures rather than restricting our school Christmas celebrations.

There's nothing wrong with teaching about many cultures, particularly those represented in a school district's community. But should it be part of Christmas activities in the public schools? Several people say no, and Irv Wengrow, president of the Troy Jewish Congregation, gives some thoughtful reasons.

Christmas, he said, cannot be celebrated without celebrating its religious aspects.

"My objection is that the school is being used as an extension of the home and church," he said. "Why should public schools be the vehicle of religious parties and observances?"

"There is plenty of opportunity to observe Christmas in the home and church."

IT IS IRONIC that public schools are sometimes criticized for trying to impose on students values that should be taught in the home. Yet those who want Christmas in the schools are imposing on non-Christians perhaps the most important of all values — that of religious beliefs.

How, asks Wengrow, do you think children who do not celebrate Christmas feel when Christmas activities take place in school? "They get embarrassed and are ostracized," he said.

And how, I wonder, do teenagers who profess to be skinheads feel when they see adults criticizing schools for catering too much to religious minorities?

It's something to think about.

from our readers

Censorship is group's aim

To the editor:

I felt compelled to write after reading the article "Witchcraft In Books," etc. in the Nov. 28 paper. It concerned the Citizens For Better Education group and their charges that witchcraft, Satanism and homosexuality are being taught in our schools. This group should more accurately be referred to as Citizens for Better Censorship.

I find it difficult to believe that there are really 2,300 equally narrow minded, egocentric people who blindly follow Ms. Daskalakis. These people must join the 20th century and acknowledge that our young students are too intelligent to believe that witchcraft and Satanism are viable solutions to modern problems.

This group should not control the school library anymore than it should direct the Canton Township Public Library. A library is a repository of accumulated knowledge, information and ideas available to students to advance their education so that they will grow to be thinking, decision-making, educated adults. They cannot achieve this level after being fed a diet of censored material preferred by CBE.

As for homosexuality, it cannot be "taught," but is an inborn characteristic of some individuals. Neither is it a "crime" for adolescents to have some of these feelings and thoughts during the tumultuous teen years. In this state it is legal for a minor to contact Planned Parenthood for information and counseling. Not all parents can be relied upon to be informed on medical matters. Please, educate yourselves, your ignorance is showing, Ms. Daskalakis and followers.

If this group is allowed to gain control of the school board, it will mean the demise of an excellent curriculum and the implementation of diluted, "Christian" (as defined by CBE) Bible-based classes. Most people who are truly Christian do not have to tell anyone or force their beliefs on others. It is obvious by the way they live their lives. Not every citizen of this district is a Christian (Hindus, Shintoists, Jews, etc.), nor do we all believe that Bible stories should be the basis of our lives. If you want a religious education, send your children to private schools.

We are guaranteed separation of church and state by our Constitution.

People of Canton, Plymouth and Plymouth Township, please wake up! Do not allow CBE to have control of our schools.

Barbara Alcock,
Canton

Join in fight against CBE

To the editor:

The activities of Diane Daskalakis and the CBE greatly concern me. I would like to share the source of my concern and invite others of like persuasion to join me in doing something to help our schools maintain their excellence.

The first of my ancestors to settle in the New World landed at Sandwich, Mass. in 1630. They were Puritans and they came to this country to escape the combined tyranny of the King of England and the Church of England. They hoped to establish a community which they could practice their religious and cultural beliefs without interference or persecution.

As more and more people immigrated to the same area, the Puritans became more and more insecure. Finally, their insecurity erupted in the infamous Salem witch trials which signaled the end of the Puritan attempt to establish a religious utopia.

New Englanders (Puritan and otherwise) learned an important lesson from the Puritan experiment: Don't mix the functions of church and state.

In recent years, the Plymouth-Canton public schools have been confronted by a group of individuals who once again are preoccupied with "the workings of the Devil." It is clear from their behavior that they are desperately afraid of something... so afraid that they feel compelled to seek out and eliminate things in the school curriculum that don't conform to their particular, narrowly religious view of life.

This group goes by the name Citizens for Better Education. They could hardly have picked a name further removed from the realities of their efforts. Their view of education is constricted and self-serving. Carried to its logical conclusion, education, as they apparently view it, would render graduates of the Plymouth-Canton School System severely handicapped as they attempt to meet the challenges of today's world.

As the parent of two graduates of the Plymouth-Canton School System, I cannot stand by idly and see the excellent education my children received denied to others. I invite anyone who shares by concern to contact me at 453-6857. There are many useful actions we can take to ensure that the CBE "witch hunt" does not succeed.

Douglas McClellan,
Plymouth

Spend cash on education

To the editor:

I would like to respond to comments made by school spokesman Richard Egli, in your Nov. 24 article on the "toilet paper caper."

Mr. Egli:

If, as you say, there's no way of determining whether a particular box of toilet paper was used or taken, how can you ruin an individual's life and reputation, without even determining that the crime you accuse him of has occurred? Was the box in question used or taken?

The officers made no arrests, seized no property, conducted no search of the truck or box in question, and brought no charges. School officials gathered no more evidence than given by these officers and fired this individual. Then you say:

"It's hard to imagine it (the firing) being grieved."

No sir. What's hard to imagine is the taxpayers dollars that you people are going to spend on this, (arbitration cost, backpay, legal fees, damages...). How many elementary schools throughout the district, could we make available after 5 p.m. to taxpayers with these funds?

As for your comment "But I guess in this day and age, people grieve everything." Is this the message your administration wants to send to association members throughout the district? I would rather see taxpayers dollars spent on educating our children (on their rights as citizens in a democracy...) than on a serious of labor disputes.

volunteers

● VOLUNTEERS

Volunteers are urgently needed to work at the Tonquish Creek Manor to serve and package meals and/or deliver meals to the homes of home-bound, disabled, elderly people living in the Plymouth community. Individuals who are willing to give one hour or more per day — one or more days per week, can call 453-8703 between 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Volunteers are reimbursed 21 cents per mile for meal delivery.

● NEW MORNING SCHOOL

Attention, retirees, college students and parents! New Morning School of Plymouth Township, a state-certified school for students in preschool through eighth grade, is seeking paid volunteers to assist as teacher aides in the classrooms on an on-call basis. Teacher aide substitutes are needed when a parent aide is unable to help on a particular day.

Teacher aides help with preparation and clean up, but most importantly assist individual children during class time. Aides are needed in the preschool and the K-8 classes. A teacher aide substitute can specify a grade-level preference.

Teacher aide substitutes are paid nominally. Potential applicants should have a love for children and a willingness to work hard.

Call Elaine Yagiele, executive director, 420-3331 for an interview. The school is on Haggerty north of Schoolcraft, Plymouth Township.

● GIRL SCOUTS

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council is looking for volunteers to "Take the Lead" in the Girl Scout tradition. Parents, as well as those without children, professionals and senior citizens, are needed as program consultants, committee members, event directors, media representatives and troop leaders.

If you're interested in volunteering or would like more information on Girl Scouting, call 313-483-2370 or write the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, P.O. Box 539, Ypsilanti 48197.

● PACT/REACT

The PACT/REACT team, which participates in crime prevention patrols, monitors emergency radio channels and assists as severe weather spotters in this area, needs members. The group meets the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Township Hall, Ann Arbor Road and Lilley. For more information, call 459-0030.

● MCF NEEDS VOLUNTEERS

The Michigan Cancer Foundation (MCF) in Plymouth needs volunteers for daytime office work. On-the-job training will be provided. Interested persons should call Catherine Cameron at 833-0710, Ext. 245.

● CAMP FIRE VOLUNTEERS

Camp Fire needs volunteer leaders to share their experience and skills with children in small group situations. Camp Fire boys and girls, from kindergarten through high school, are active, alert young people involved in a variety of non-competitive activities including self-reliance courses, camping, community service and crafts. Campfire Detroit Area Council serves young people and their families in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Livingston counties. For more information, call Cleola Spates-Burt at 559-5840.

● HOSPICE VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Hospice Services of Western Wayne County is seeking volunteers to provide assistance to terminally ill patients and their families in their homes. Volunteers may provide respite care, companionship, emotional support and bereavement care. Both lay volunteers and registered nurses are needed. Thirty hours of volunteer training begins from 7-10 p.m. Monday, Sept. 18, for 10 consecutive weeks. Interested volunteers may call, 523-4244.

● HELP CANCER PATIENTS

Harper Hospital is looking for volunteers to work with cancer patients. A free specialized training program will be held for interested participants, July 11 through July 27, on Mondays and Wednesdays 5:30-8:30 p.m. The training program will focus on the ability to provide support to patients and their families during their hospital stay. For more information, call 745-8939, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Parks open to skiers

The Wayne County Parks will offer a variety of winter activities to county residents.

Torches will light the way for local cross country ski enthusiasts this winter at Wayne County's Warren Valley Golf Course. The facility will be open Tuesday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. with groomed trails and rental equipment for the entire family.

The county facility will also be opened Friday through Monday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. with lessons on Saturday mornings at 10 and Wednesday at 7 p.m. Preregistration is required for all lessons. Warren Valley Golf Course is on Warren between Beech Daley and Inkster roads in Dearborn Heights.

The winter schedule also includes cross country skiing and ice skating at Elizabeth Park in Trenton and ice skating at the Middle Rouge Parkway.

At the Middle Rouge, ice skating is available at Wilcox Lake. A warming shelter will be open. Shelter and lake are both open seven days a week from daylight to dusk for unsupervised activity.

"One of my major objectives has been to improve the usefulness and accessibility of our beautiful park area," said Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara.

"With the fresh snowfall recently, it's an excellent time to take advantage of our outdoor winter sports."

Call 561-1040 for more information on cross country skiing at Warren Valley. Information on other Wayne County Parks activities can be obtained by calling 261-1990.

Mortality report issued, refuted

By Tom Ferguson
staff writer

Hospitals challenge Medicare patient data

ly a summary of what we already know."

CRITICS of the study's methodology also note, among other concerns, that:

- Deaths occurring within 30 days after admission to a hospital are counted and ascribed to an illness category on the Medicare billing paperwork, even though they may have died after discharge of some other cause.

- The data are attributed to hospitals, but it is physicians who provide medical care.

- Socioeconomic backgrounds of patients are not taken into account.

- The categories of illness are too broad. For example, all cancers were considered one category, regardless of their rate of cure.

- The HCFA analysis implies that the data can be used to draw inference for all patients, but the study covers only Medicare patients.

"We're advocating a responsible health-care consumer, someone who doesn't take things at face value," said the hospital council's Miller. "But even assuming the best, all this document provides is something for the consumer to ask questions about" when he visits his doctor.

Two area hospitals were among nine in southeastern Michigan whose Medicare patients in 1987 experienced higher mortality rates than predicted by a federal monitoring agency.

The meaningfulness of the annual study by the Health Care Financing Administration, however, has been under intense fire from hospital administrators and chiefs of medical staffs — even from institutions that score well.

"This is a statistical issue, not a quality of care issue," said Gary Ley, chief operating officer at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, which — along with Botsford General in Farmington — exceeded the mortality rate predicted by HCFA's complicated statistical model.

Steven Simmons, Southeast Michigan Hospital Council vice president for public relations, said: "It is dangerous for consumers to use this data, because it is not a measure of quality."

Ley, and other critics of the study's methodology, particularly question its failure to account for severity of illness in predicting mortality rates.

This is reflected in a typical comment, from Redford Community Hospital, included with the study report. Redford scored within predicted mortality rates for Medicare patients in all diagnostic categories except pulmonary disease.

"We have reviewed the medical records in each of these cases," wrote Dr. Alexander Pogrebnik, Redford's medical director. "Of the eight expired patients in this category, 50 percent were admitted in a non-responsive state, all were from nursing homes with the average age being 79 years. All had 'Do Not Resuscitate' requests signed by the family." And all, Pogrebnik wrote, had other life-threatening conditions.

BOTSFORD similarly noted that "69 percent of our Medicare-reported deaths had an order on the medical record that no resuscitative measures be instituted. . . . This means a physician has determined that the patient's condition is such that death is imminent."

Ley noted that Garden City Osteopathic is affiliated with two nursing homes and a hospice, which are the source of many referrals. And Dr. Calvin Kay, vice president for medical affairs, noting that although all the patients studied were Medicare patients, "a five-year (age) difference in the Medicare population can result in significant differences when it comes to mortality statistics."

Even HCFA, the producer of the report, warns consumers against any literal reading of the hospital's scores. "The report is not a guide for consumers to compare the mortality rate of one hospital with another. Such comparisons are not an appropriate use of these data," says an HCFA press release.

The main purpose of the study is as a tool for use by physicians, administrators and peer review organizations. A decision was made to make the study public each year nonetheless.

"We do use it as part of our ongoing quality analysis, but it's not like we look toward these numbers every December," Ley said. "We look at all the deaths in this hospital when they occur. Doctors review what happened in every case. . . . This is real-

THE THYROID AND ARTHRITIS

A thyroid gland that is acting improperly can affect your joints and muscles.

Weakness and aching of the shoulder and hip muscles can occur in both hyper- and hypothyroidism. Swelling of the knees is common in hypothyroidism, and frozen shoulder is associated with hyperthyroidism. Often these changes are difficult to recognize as indicating thyroid malfunction because stiffness and weakness are part of a number of arthritic conditions such as rheumatoid disease, tension myopathy, and fibromyalgia syndrome.

Blood tests are available that help the physician to determine if your joint problem is thyroid-related. However, the battery of tests can cost over a hundred dollars with equivocal results adding to the expense, as tests are repeated and others added on. Treatment for low thyroid when such is not the case only adds an extra medicine and delays therapy for the condition that really is the source of your discomfort.

Thus, when the question of underlying thyroid disease arises, your physician may choose to treat you for the most likely arthritic diagnosis and follow you for changes that would indicate the presence of thyroid dysfunction.

The Trane XL 90 gas furnace is up to 95% efficient!

You can really save on energy use with the Trane XL90 gas furnace. It's a super efficient furnace...up to 95% efficient. If your present furnace is over ten years old, chances are it's only 60-65% efficient. Which means as much as 40% of the heat is going up the flue, not into your home. So replacing your furnace with the XL90 can make a big difference on the amount you spend for heating.

The Trane XL90 gas furnace is loaded with quality features...a hot surface ignitor instead of an old fashioned pilot light, and a unique 2-speed inducer motor for quiet operation.

Call us today, so you can start saving energy with the Trane XL90.

Let hosts enjoy the party

Here's a horrid holiday scenario:

Just days away from your holiday party, the boss you sent an invite to but hoped wouldn't show has responded with a resounding yes. You sent out 50 invitations hoping that only 20 or so could make it. Now you find yourself entertaining not just the boss but the entire management team and even the new neighbors down the block.

Needless to say, Cheez Whiz on a Ritz wouldn't set the right mood. Ditto for the old standby of hot artichoke dip. You know that everyone has seen and tasted the hollowed out black bread filled with Knorr's soup mix and sour cream. Even holiday recipes using Buffalo chicken wings and asparagus wrapped in prosciutto just won't fit into the scheme of things. What's a host (or hostess) to do?

Relax.

Anyone who has thrown a party for the holidays will surely conjure up the Golden Rule: Relax and have fun! First off, realize that holiday revelers are inundated with invites that are featuring everything from plain cookies to caviar.

If you are throwing a holiday bash, concentrate on a few trusty standby recipes that are always enjoyed but include a sampling of something new that will serve as a conversation piece by themselves. Meatballs are always appreciated and can be light on the budget. They also make good "filler-uppers" for those who tend to imbibe heartily. Another good standby includes assorted spreads and dips already prepared on bread, toast, and crackers. A simple pastry bag fitted with a large star tip can turn ordinary ground baloney into a masterpiece on some homemade rye circles when garnished with a sprig of fresh dill or parsley.

Dieters welcome the omnipresent trays of fresh veggies but how about including a smattering of fresh fruit? At a recent party, yours truly injected fresh pineapples with a few shots of light rum. I sliced them and arranged them on a platter with frosted grapes and watched everyone say "ohhhh" as they chomped on the chunks.

Looking for the "perfect munchies?" Chex party mix and canned cocktail nuts are passe. The yuppie muncher now prefers mini-popcorn balls (look for recipes in any basic cookbook) scattered with baskets of sugared nuts (homemade, of course) and bountiful baskets of homemade flavored croutons.

Catch the guests in their holiday bests by having an inexpensive "instant" type camera handy and loaded with film. Commemorate the party with candid shots — or better, something you can use at the next performance review.

If you are expecting hoards of folks over an extended period of time, incorporate your kitchen into the floor plan. Set up the bar by the sink and use the stovetop to house a simmering kettle of hot spiced cider.

If you find yourself calling Aunt Julia at the last minute looking for appropriate serving trays and dishes, check out the local rent-all agency for mini chafing dishes, some of which come with divider-trays. This will make it much easier on the host/hostess for refilling and better yet — you won't have to rely on hot trays with plugs to trip over.

You can help set the mood for the festivities with a smattering of holiday decorations and lots of candles. The small scented variety are the Big families on campus mark season

In the dining room of Saanen House, Roy Slade (above) toasts the holidays with a Bloody Mary made from his own mix recipe. At right: Schoolcraft president Richard McDowell and his wife, Ann, look forward to such holiday fare as her Pumpkin Squared.

Joseph E. and Emilie Champagne (above) continue her family's tradition of including a Swedish Christmas Bake Cake in the holiday meal. He's the president of Oakland University; Rochester Hills. Stephen and Carol Nicholson have been married for one year. This year, holidays in the household of the Oakland Community College chancellor and his wife will include her California Vegetable Fluff casseroles.

Holiday tables: family tradition

staff writers

Good food, family and friends is the successful formula for any holiday gathering and scholarly college presidents are no exception.

When Ann McDowell bakes for husband Dick, president of Schoolcraft Community College in Livonia, and their three daughters, healthfulness is a main consideration.

Her Pumpkin Squares are a family holiday hit and can be eaten without too much guilt.

"We try to be weight conscious. Someone in the family is always on a diet," she said.

"I like the Pumpkin Squares because you can use no cholesterol oil, oatmeal, and eliminate the egg yolks."

Daughter Sue, who works as a chef for Weight Watchers, has probably heightened the family's nutritionally sound habits, she said. The family also includes Kathy, a student at Madonna College in Livonia, and Karen, in her first year at Schoolcraft.

McDowell doesn't start the holiday baking too early for fear the goodies will be eaten before Christmas arrives.

"I usually have a marathon baking session with my daughters. It stays fresh and doesn't get eaten right away," she said.

After a Christmas celebration here, the McDowells will head for their native Pittsburgh area.

"I usually bake cookies to take to my mom and (Dick's) mom," she said.

The McDowells have made their home in Michigan for the last seven years.

CAROL NICHOLSON'S recipe for California Vegetable Fluff is a combination of old and new family traditions. Married for just one year to Stephen Nicholson, chancellor of Oakland Community College, she was glad to learn her longtime family favorite is also a hit with her husband's daughter and her family.

"I do the casserole for the holidays each year," she said. "The base is fresh broccoli and cauliflower lightly steamed. The sauce has egg, light mayonnaise and pimentos. The whole thing is topped with breadcrumbs and slivered almonds. It's incredible."

"I couldn't cheat and get away with frozen vegetables," she said. The Nicholsons were married in San Diego, which also makes the casserole with California in its title more heartwarming.

This year the family had a major celebration at Thanksgiving. The family includes Carol's son and daughter (with whom she runs a studio called Color Me Beautiful in the Lansing area) and Steve's married daughter and 10-year-old twins who live in Lansing.

Christmas will be a smaller celebration for the Nicholsons this year because they are leaving for the Orient on Dec. 26.

EMILIE CHAMPAGNE, and her husband Joseph, who is president of Oakland University in Rochester Hills, celebrate Christmas with a family tradition of eating Swedish Christmas Bake Cake. She said, "It's from a cookbook my mother and grandmother had. It was published by a Swedish Covenant Church in Minneapolis."

Her mother is one of five sisters, and each had her own copy of the cookbook. The family lived in Texas, where Grandmother always made this date cake at the holidays.

"They didn't care for the traditional fruitcake," Champagne explained. "They thought it was too much. This contains only dates, maraschino cherries and pecans, which they added because they are plentiful in Texas." Champagne still puts pecans in her recipe.

Recipes for Yule

PUMPKIN SQUARES (from Ann McDowell)

1 16 ounce can pumpkin
1 1/2 cups brown sugar
4 eggs
3/4 cup vegetable oil
1 1/2 cups flour
1 1/2 cups oats
1 tablespoon cinnamon
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt

CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

1 3 ounce cream cheese, softened
1/4 cup margarine, softened
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups confectioners sugar
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Combine pumpkin, sugar, eggs, and oil, mixing until well blended. Add combined oats, cinnamon, baking powder, soda and salt. Mix well. Pour into 15 by 10 inch jelly roll pan, spreading evenly. Bake at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool completely.

For frosting, beat together cream cheese, butter and vanilla until well blended. Gradually add sugar, beating until smooth. Spread frosting over cooled cake. Sprinkle with nuts. Cut into squares. Note: You can eliminate egg yolks if you are watching cholesterol.

CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS WITH CHRIST!
You are invited to celebrate with us the great miracle of God's Son born as the Babe of Bethlehem. THE REAL MEANING OF CHRISTMAS!
Come and celebrate in song and the Bible narratives at Saint Paul Lutheran Church in Northville.
We offer a choice of three Christmas Eve services and Christmas Day worship:
Christmas Eve: 6:00 P.M.
8:00 P.M.

Come as you are.
Unfortunately, many people stay away from church because they smoke. Or drink. Or because they're divorced. At Faith Church we think matters like these are nobody's business but yours. We welcome everyone. Our people are friendly. Our worship service is informal. You'll hear positive, uplifting messages that will help you face the real world on Monday morning. We provide quality nursery care and quality Christian education for you and/or your children. And you can leave your wallet at home.
Try us. We don't throw stones.

Holiday menus continue families' traditions

"It was a Christmas tradition to eat before Christmas, Christmas Eve and Christmas Day," she said of the cake, which reflects the family's Swedish heritage.

"After I married, my husband would say, 'Make that date cake.' He suggested we make it for friends, since we moved here." Champagne makes the cake in bulk every year, and they give it to close friends for a Christmas present.

The couple has three daughters, ages 16, 13 and 5, and although none of the girls have started baking the cake yet, the recipe probably will be handed down by them. "My older daughter said she likes it," Champagne said.

Her husband's heritage is French. "They have pork pies. That's part of our Christmas tradition here. We serve a large meat pie as the main course for supper on Christmas Eve."

ROY SLADE, president of the Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills, likes to make his own special Bloody Mary during the Christmas season. Slade, who is divorced, said, "On Christmas Eve, I will mix Bloody Marys for my friends at luncheon, at a High Noon Bloody Mary Party at Saarnen House (the president's residence at Cranbrook)."

"Whenever I have Bloody Marys, I like to have snacks with it," he pointed out. Besides nibbles such as pretzels, he cuts up pork pies into quarters or eighths. Slade serves them with chutney and big pickled onions.

"Also Wensleydale Cheese, a cheese from Yorkshire — it's very white and very dry — served with digestive biscuits, which are round and rather sweet.

"It's very English, like hors d'oeuvres. With Bloody Marys it will be superb."

Slade, who is Welsh, buys all his party food from Ackroyd's Scottish Bakeshop in Birmingham, or shops in Canada.

These recipes earn top grades

CALIFORNIA VEGGIE PUFF
(From Carol Peterson Nicholson)
Steam until tender only:
1 head cauliflower
1 large bunch broccoli

Cut in pieces and blend into following mixture:

¾ cup light mayonnaise
1 can cream of mushroom soup
¾ cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
1 beaten egg
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 large jar pimientos (diced)
Spoon into buttered casserole

Sprinkle on top:
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs mixed with 2 tablespoons melted butter
Finish with ½ to 1 cup slivered almonds

Cover. Bake at 350 degrees 30 minutes. Serves 6-8.

SWEDISH CHRISTMAS DATE CAKE

(from Emilie Champagne)
2-10 ounce packages of chopped dates
2 tablespoons soda
2 cups boiling water
2 tablespoons shortening
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1 cup chopped pecans
3 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup maraschino cherries (chopped)

Sprinkle the dates with 2 teaspoons soda. Pour the 2 cups of boiling water on the dates. Let mixture cool.

Cream sugar and shortening, add the eggs, nuts, cherries, vanilla and beat. Add the date mixture and stir well. Add flour and salt (sifting together).

Bake in 350 degrees oven for 50 minutes or until done.

It makes three, eight by four by two loaves or can be made in a tube cake pan.

BLOODY MARY
(from Roy Slade)

Vegetable juice, large can worcestershire sauce tabasco 1 lemon pepper horseradish limes
celery

Chill the glasses. It always makes a Bloody Mary better. Put the vegetable juice in a pitcher. Add worcestershire sauce (about three teaspoons) and a few drops of tabasco. Squeeze in one lemon. Add sprinkling of pepper. Add two teaspoonsful of horseradish. Mix.

Put ice cubes into chilled glasses. Add vodka to taste. Pour in Bloody Mary mixture and stir. Slice lime, put cut in it and insert on glass rim. Put stalk of celery (or can use dill pickle) in glass.

Because it is green, lime is more festive for Christmas. In summer, use lemon.

Planning allows hosts to enjoy party

least expensive and the colors available can really change the feelings of a room when surrounded by silver ornaments, evergreen boughs and holiday figurines.

So this year, if you're throwing a simple soiree for a few friends or the fast-bash of the season, a little planning with the right recipes and mood settings are all you need. Do as much as you can before the big event so that you too, can enjoy the company. Try these great holiday recipes at your next holiday party. Bon Appetit!

ROQUEFORT GRAPES

8 ounces cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons cream
4 ounces Roquefort cheese
1 bunch seedless grapes
1 cup toasted and finely chopped pecans

Combine the cream cheese with the Roquefort and cream. Mix well. Dip individual seedless grapes into the mixture and coat completely. Roll in toasted chopped pecans. Chill until ready to serve.

CRAB STUFFED SNOWPEAS

1 small can flaked crabmeat, drained
¼ cup parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup mayonnaise
3 dozen fresh snowpeas

Combine crabmeat with parmesan cheese, lemon juice and mayonnaise. Mix well. Slit open snowpeas and stuff with the crab mixture. Arrange on a platter and enjoy.

CAJUN SHRIMPS (Great hot or chilled)

1 stick (½ cup) butter and margarine
2 ounces Worcestershire
1 teaspoon tabasco
the juice of 1 lime
1 tablespoon black pepper

3 cloves garlic, finely chopped
3 pounds cleaned shrimp

Combine all ingredients except shrimp in an ovenproof casserole. Heat to melt butter and margarine. Add shrimp, stir to coat the shrimp and bake, uncovered at 350 degrees for 15 minutes, stirring once. Serve hot or chilled.

CAMAMBERT MOUSSE

1 pound camembert cheese, rind removed
2 tablespoons cream
¼ cup dry Vermouth or apple juice
3 drops Tabasco

Dice cheese into small cube. Heat, stirring constantly until melted and smooth over low heat. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Pour into a lightly oiled holiday mold and chill until firm. Garnish with assorted crackers.

EASY HOLIDAY PUNCH

one fifth (28 ounce) light rum
1 large can (12 ounce) frozen lemonade mix
1 small can (6 ounce) frozen limeade mix
1 liter 7-Up water

In a holiday punchbowl, add the ingredients as listed. Add water to fill the bowl within 2 inches of the top. Place the entire bowl in the freezer and freeze until firm. Remove from freezer 30 minutes before serving. Stir.

Brunches add spark to romantic holiday

By Gundella
special writer

Today's column is for the men out there who really want to give their wives or girlfriends a truly thoughtful holiday gift — a memory she can treasure of how wonderful you really are.

I have a very special man in my life. What makes him very special are the nice things he does to please me.

Recently, he went grocery shopping. Then he told me to stay out of the kitchen while he prepared dinner. I wasn't even allowed to help. I actually sat and read a book while he chopped vegetables.

He served a delicious curried beef dish, and — best of all — he even cleared the table, and cleaned up after the meal.

When my youngest son was courting the girl who eventually became his wife, he frequently prepared meals for her, and served them with candlelight and flowers.

I don't know if he still does this, now that they are married, but I would certainly hope so.

One of the most magnificent macho men I ever knew was my grandfather. When we were children in the 1930s, life was hard.

My grandparents, my great-grandmother, my parents, my maiden aunt, and all of us kids lived in one house, without indoor plumbing.

I'm sure that, under those circumstances, it was not always easy for Grandpa to be romantic. But Grandpa adored him.

Looking back, I can understand why. He always gave her Sundays off.

Long before the word "brunch" was ever thought of, Grandpa cooked big, late, late Sunday breakfasts. Sometimes there would be eggs, bacon and marvelous pan-fried potatoes.

Other times, there would be pancakes, fried apples, biscuits and honey, or hash made out of the week's leftovers and lots of chopped onions. But, it was always cooked by Grandpa, and served at the big round table with steaming cups of coffee, which even we children were allowed to sample on Sundays.

When the meal was over, no one left the table in a hurry. Grandpa smoked his pipe, and told stories about his youth, how he met grandma, what his mother looked like as a child, or the first time my father came calling.

We never tired of these tales, and asked all kinds of questions, which were always answered as if they were important, and we had every right to know.

It was not unusual for these meals to last three or four hours.

Later, Grandpa cleared the table and did the dishes. Is it any wonder why Grandma loved him?

If you really want to impress your special lady during the holidays this year, try cooking a meal for her.

If there are no children, or if you can get their grandparents to keep them overnight for one night, make it a romantic breakfast, served on a little card table in the bedroom for just the two of you.

But, if the whole family is there, don't let that stop you. Cook up a family brunch. Turn off the television, and set the table. Even the littlest child can appreciate candles or flowers on the table.

Not long ago, my daughter and son-in-law invited me to dinner. My two little grandchildren (ages 3 and 4) couldn't wait to show me how pretty the table looked.

Here are some sample menus you might like to try. Some are for just the two of you, and some are for a family affair. But, in any case, if you let your wife soak in a long hot bubble bath, or lay in bed and read the newspaper while you prepare the meal, you'll be loved forever.

And, you can bet she'll find ways to baby you later on, for she won't ever want to let a man like you get away.

Very Special Menus for Two

Prepare a tray with lots of buttered toast triangles, and tiny dishes of sour cream, minced onions, caviar, pates, and marmalades. Serve with champagne, followed by hot coffee.

Or, try juice or fresh fruit with an oven-baked omelet, sweet rolls, or toast and coffee.

Oven-Baked Omelet
1/4 cup meat (diced raw bacon, ham or loose sausage)
1 small onion (chopped fine, or green onions)
2 tablespoons diced green peppers
1/4 cup chopped mushrooms salt and pepper to taste
3 well-beaten eggs
3 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 cup shredded cheese (any kind)
Lightly coat a small (8-inch) cast iron skillet with oil, and fry meat until done. Remove from the pan, and add onions, peppers, and mushrooms to the meat drippings in the pan. Sauté until tender. Add the meat and mix together.

In a separate bowl, combine the flour and milk, stir this into a smooth paste, and blend it into the well-beaten eggs, along with the salt and pepper.

Pour the mixture into the skillet over top of the meat and vegetables. Top with shredded cheese, and bake in the skillet in a 350-degree oven until the eggs are set.
Cut into pie-shaped wedges, and serve.

For the Whole Family
Stuffed French toast served with syrup and sausage
Orange juice
Milk or coffee

Stuffed French Toast
Cut thick slices from a loaf of unsliced bread. Cut a slit in the crust of each slice to make a deep pocket in the bread. Stuff the pocket with sliced bananas. (You may use peaches or other fruit, instead, if you prefer.) Pinch the crust together and carefully dip in a mixture of egg and milk (2 tablespoons milk for each egg.) Fry in oil, turning carefully to brown both sides, and serve with warm maple syrup and pork sausage or links.

Another Menu for the Family
Pork Chops and Jellyed Apple Slices
Silver-dollar pancakes (Follow directions on any good pancake mix. Make little tiny pancakes instead of large ones.)
Juice, milk, and coffee

Pork Chops and Jellyed Apple Slices
Broil, pan-fry, or bake six thin pork chops. Core red apples, but do not pare them. Cut in 12 thick slices and place in a large frying pan. Dissolve one glass (8-ounces) currant jelly in 1/4 cup boiling water, and pour over the apples. Cook over low heat, turning occasionally, until slices are tender and well-glassed. Place pork chops on a hot platter, surround with apple slices, and garnish with parsley. Makes six servings.

If you have any questions about these or any other recipes, you may call Gundella direct at 427-1072, or write her at: Box 434, Garden City 48135.

New era of equality

All-male service clubs open up to women

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

Up until a few years ago, the only women likely to be at a service or organization meeting were the waitresses who served the members their lunch.

Nowadays, women are not only among those being served, sometimes they are chairing the meetings.

In 1984 the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the Jaycees could not bar women from the organization. The club's nationwide membership is now 33 percent female, according to John Ley, executive director of the Michigan Jaycees.

Ley and members of other formerly all-male service clubs said the arrival of women has had little effect on the organizations.

"The housing at conferences is a little different," Ley said, not intending to be facetious.

Female members of local clubs said they feel they are blending in easily in their respective organizations.

"WOMEN ARE looked at as equals now. It doesn't seem to be a big deal," said Tonya Smith, who joined the Plymouth Jaycees in 1985 and is now president.

Mary Sarkis Kitchin, who recently became the first female member of the Livonia Rotary, said she was well prepared to enter the ranks of an all-male club.

"In my career, I have been the only woman in lots of meetings, so it wasn't any more intimidating than in business," Sarkis Kitchin said. She is general manager of the Holiday Inn on Plymouth Road and has a background in sales and marketing.

Club meetings are different from business meetings, she said, because the Rotary "is not a group where you are a man or you are a woman. This is a group where you are a participating member and that's what counts."

Both women said they were accepted by their male peers in the clubs, but Smith said that's not true of every woman in every club.

"We still have some men in the organization — not in Plymouth, but throughout the state — who are very anti-woman," said Smith, a registered nurse who works at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

THOUGH THE Supreme Court ruling forced clubs to admit women, the Zilwaukee chapter of the Jaycees refused to do so.

"They were set in their ways," Ley said. Rather than acquiesce, club members forced the state organization to revoke the Zilwaukee organization's charter. That club is no longer in existence.

Ley said that was an extreme situation — the Zilwaukee organization was the only club in the country to lose its charter for that reason — but other clubs "may have opted to fold" rather than admit women.

Kiwanis International signed up 8,500 women nationwide last year, but the Garden City chapter, unlike most local service clubs, has no female members.

"We look for business and professional people, regardless of race or sex, that want to contribute to our community," said Robert Mulligan, one of the Garden City Kiwanis directors. "Becoming a member is not really very difficult. Our membership policy has always been that a member recommends somebody and the board votes on it and they're in."

So why no women?
"We have had no applications," Mulligan said.

In Plymouth, membership in the Jaycees has increased since women were allowed to join, Smith said. The club's ratio of men to women is 60/40, which is above the 33 percent national average.

And Smith said the female members in Plymouth are among the most active.

"You know what they say — 20 percent of the people do 80 percent of the work," Smith said. She estimated that half of the active members are women.

"It's not because women stay home. We're all professionals," she added.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Educators develop new device to track industrial polluters

Two Wayne State University educators have developed a computer program to help trace industrial pollution violators in the metropolitan Detroit water and sewer system.

The system is "far more comprehensive" than those being used in other municipalities, according to a press release from the university.

Steve Salley, an associate professor of chemical engineering, developed the program. He had assistance from Ralph Kummier, of Birmingham, chairman of the chemical and metallurgical engineering department.

EMPLOYEES at the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department are being trained to operate the computer program.

The system will cover 700 industries that send waste into the city's treatment plant. It will keep track of each company's volume and alert operators to ordinance infractions.

In addition to enforcement of ordinances and tracing violators, Kummier said the system also would assure the customers that they are paying their fair share for water treatment.

Salley, a Detroit resident, said that the staff training will be completed by the end of December and the program fully operational "in the next couple of months."

THE PROJECT was initiated with seed money from WSU's Institute of Chemical Toxicology.

The cost was underwritten by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the Detroit Water and Sewer Department and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Injury-plagued Canton still searching for 1st meet win

Sometime before the New Year, Plymouth Canton hopes to win a wrestling dual meet.

The Chiefs also are anxious to compete with a full complement of wrestlers.

The outmanned Chiefs fell to 0-2 Thursday, dropping a 38-35 decision at Livonia Churchill. First-year coach Ray Kossakowski is learning it takes time to mold a winning group, especially with wrestlers Tim Nardni (back) and Dax Sammut (ribs) sidelined by injuries. Kossakowski hopes to have the two ready when Canton hosts rival Plymouth Salem Tuesday.

"We're fighting injuries like crazy," Kossakowski said. "We're in the toughest part of our schedule right now and we're going to find out the character of our team."

"The team is really holding together and keeping the spirit until the injured players get back."

Of those healthy enough to wrestle, Nick Purzur (152) has been the most impressive. Purzur improved his record to 6-2 Thursday, recording his third pin of the year.

"Nick was 5-9 last year so this year's been a total turnaround," Kossakowski said. "He was unconfident wrestling

last year but this year he's coming around. He's superior in school, too, the type of kid you want.

"He's like a good journeyman. He goes out and does his job. He's willing to listen carefully and he's intelligent — both in class and on the mat."

Six Chiefs recorded wins Thursday, three coming on pins.

Jason Fortin (103) opened the match for Canton with a pin. Both Liam Rentz (140) and Mike Golchuk (145) decisioned opponents, while Tony Meszarus registered Canton's final pin at 171.

Heavyweight Mike Kelly also scored for Canton on a forfeit.

Salem coach not fooled by romp over Raiders

Others might see the score of Thursday's Plymouth Salem-North Farmington wrestling meet and figure either Salem has a powerhouse or North is down this year.

Salem coach Ron Kreuger thinks the truth is somewhere between.

Final result was all Rocks, 51-21. They won nine of 13 weight classes, eight on pins. The victory was their sixth in seven duals.

And yet, Kreuger was uncon-vinced. "North Farmington's got a nice team," the Salem coach said. "He's going to the big (Oakland) county tournament this weekend, so he rested a lot of starters for that. They're a lot better team than we met tonight."

"(North's) Dick Cook is a good coach. I'm not jumping up and down saying we beat them up, because Guards are top stars

LAST YEAR'S Miss Basketball award went to Plymouth Salem star Dena Head, who probably took it with her to the University of Tennessee.

Salem coach Fred Thomann had another deserving candidate, senior guard Jill Estey, this year. And if you ask Thomann, he'll say Estey was the best player Michigan had to offer in 1988.

Estey provided the Rocks' veteran coach several reasons to take such a stand, and she leads the seven-member 1988 All-Observer girls basketball team. Estey is the only repeat performer off last year's seven-player honor roll. She also has made several all-state teams.

"She's the consummate all-around player in the state," Thomann said. "There's not a better total player in the state in terms of passing, ball handling, court recognition, defense and being able to use both hands. She has shooting range and makes the pressure shots. She can do it all."

OF COURSE that's a biased opinion, but the accolades don't end there from opposing coaches. "Jill's as fine a guard I've seen pass this way in Michigan girls basketball competition," Farmington Mercy coach Larry Baker said. "I've seen her evolve through a series of roles for Plymouth Salem, and she's fit into each role the way the coach would want. As an experienced coach that's the greatest compliment I could give her."

Joining Estey on the first team are junior center Sue Ferko and senior guard Michelle Fortier (who already has signed with Western Michigan), both of Plymouth Canton.

The rest of the team includes Livonia Ladywood guard/forward Yvonne Barnett, Garden City senior center Kim Falkowski, Wayne Memorial junior guard Maya Lewis and the youngest player, Livonia Franklin guard Dawn Warner, only a freshman.

Presenting the All-Observer team, selected by the Observer Sports Staff.

FIRST TEAM

JILL ESTEY, Plymouth Salem: The 5-foot-4 senior did it all for Salem, leading the Rocks to an 18-5 overall record and a district title.

In 23 games, Estey averaged 16.1 points, 8.7 assists and four steals per game. She made 73 percent of her free throws and buried six shots from three-point range. She was an All Western Lakes Activities Association first-team pick.

Estey took on more responsibility this year with Head now playing for Tennessee and she answered the challenge successfully.

Also an excellent soccer player, Estey will play basketball in college. Thomann said she has narrowed her college choices to the University of Illinois and Harvard and will visit both schools this winter before making a decision. But Thomann added that Estey also would listen to Notre Dame, if the Fighting Irish offer a scholarship.

SUE FERKO, Plymouth Canton: Another WLAA first-team selection, Ferko established herself as one of the area's most dominant inside players.

A 3.85 student, the 5-11 junior center averaged 16 points and 10 rebounds for a team that finished the year 19-2 overall before being upset by Salem in district playoffs. Ferko scored 33 points in a WLAA semifinal playoff game. The Chiefs went on to win the WLAA crown.

"She's improved her game to the point where she's a definite Division I college prospect," Canton coach Rob Neu said. "She's one of the most dominant post players in southeast Michigan."

MICHELLE FORTIER, Plymouth Canton: The senior point guard was a steady leader for Canton, at one-time ranked fourth in Class A this fall.

Fortier was a first-team All-WLAA selection and averaged 10 points, six assists and three steals per game. A 3.4 student, she signed a national letter-of-intent in November to attend Western Michigan.

"She's paid her dues," Neu said. "And as a result of her hard work she's going to WMU. She's a student of the game. She loves to play, watch and study the game."

YVONNE BARNETT, Livonia Ladywood: The 5-foot-6 senior led Ladywood in scoring (16) and rebounds

Rocks, Chiefs set for battle

By C.J. Niesk staff writer

Now that the Walled Lake schools have served their purpose, filling in nicely as tune-ups, let's get on with the show!

The reference, of course, is to Tuesday's annual Plymouth Salem-Plymouth Canton no-holds-barred boys basketball battle. Canton will host this season's version, starting at 7:30 p.m.

"Canton's always a challenge," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "They got a win (Friday), they're getting their game together. And we've got to go to their gym."

Chief coach Tom Niemi was equally noninflammatory. "Salem's playing very well right now. It'll be a typical Salem-Canton game."

Which means that, in spite of the disparity in records — Salem is 4-0, Canton is 2-2 — anything could happen.

BOTH TEAMS were more than equal to the tests presented them by their Walled Lake counterparts Friday. Canton's trip to Western was a happy one; the Chiefs returned with a 66-50 triumph.

Salem hosted Central, but the Rocks never even allowed the Vikings the courtesy of thinking, even for a moment, that they might have a chance. Final score: 93-53.

The Canton-Western game at least maintained its suspense through the first quarter, something the Salem-Central contest lacked through its entirety. The Warriors were ahead 18-17 entering quarter No. 2.

So Niemi made some adjustments. "We changed our defense," he said, "and our offense started hitting."

A BIG PART of the offense this night was spelled P-A-U-P-O-R-E, first name Brian. The senior forward found his target in the second quarter, knocking down 10 points to lead Canton on a 25-9 surge.

The game was pretty much over after that. The Chiefs' 42-27 halftime lead expanded to 58-41 after three. Paupore finished with 29.

But he wasn't the whole offense. Troy Waldron, Mike Sulak and Geoff Allen each added five points in the second quarter. Waldron finished with 13, Sulak had 10 (and 11 rebounds) and Allen had seven. Canton owned the boards, 35-23.

"We played a very unselfish ball game," said Niemi, "and we got some excellent scoring chances because of it."

Western, which slipped to 0-4 overall, was paced by Ken Proos (16 points), and Tom Kubik and Kevin White (10 points apiece).

THE DRAMA drained out of the Salem-Central with every shot Jeff Elliott — or an — of his Rock teammates — put up. "We hit something like 13-of-14 shots from the floor in the first quarter," said Brodie.

Elliott did a lot of the damage. He had three three-pointers and 15 points in the opening quarter alone, one very good reason why Salem had a 32-13 lead after one.

"We came out with aggressive pressure right off the bat," Brodie added. "We had some steals and some good scoring chances. You shoot the ball that well, things pretty much take care of themselves."

Elliott played about 2 1/2 quarters and scored 24 points. Jeff Jagacki scored 10 and Jeff Gold and Tom Noonan had nine each. Central got 13 points from Dave Nelson.

THE DEFICIT just kept burgeoning for the Vikings, who slipped to 1-3 overall. Salem outscored them 22-11 in the second quarter to take a 54-24 halftime lead and 21-14 in the third for a 75-38 advantage.

Brodie attributed Salem's fast start this season, at least partly to experience — in particular, the disappointing experience of last season.

"A lot of the guys think we were a better club than we showed last year," the Salem coach said. How long the Rocks can remain zeroed in on their mission is difficult to guess.

"A season's filled with peaks and valleys," philosophized Brodie. "We're riding a peak right now."

He'd like to keep riding that peak right through the holidays, and a win over Canton could carry them. "Paupore and Waldron are both good scorers, but they come at you with a lot of people," Brodie said, then added, "But so do we."

Yep, it should be a typical Canton-Salem game.

Area's top stars are in backcourt

(seven). A second-team All-Observer choice in '87, Barnett also averaged six assists and three steals per game.

Barnett's season ended prematurely, when she broke her left ankle in a Class A regional semifinal win over Detroit Cooley. She missed the regional title game against Taylor Center and a Class A quarterfinal matchup against eventual state-champion Birmingham Marian.

The rest of Ladywood's players had to pick up their game a notch with Barnett only able to watch from the sidelines.

"She was an excellent captain," Ladywood coach Ken Bechard said. "Even when she injured her ankle she wouldn't let the team keep down. She was an excellent penetrator, she liked to drive and is able to mix it up. She's a tremendous defensive player, and she controlled the boards the whole season."

Barnett is interested in playing college basketball, probably at a southern school where she also can study marine biology, Bechard said.

DAWN WARNER, Livonia Franklin: Get used to reading about this talented freshman.

The 5-foot-6 guard led Franklin in scoring (16.3), three-pointers (18), field goal percentage (40.5), steals (4.0) and assists (2.5).

Warner narrowly missed being named first-team All WLAA, but was selected to the Western Division team. She scored a career-high 32 points in leading Franklin to a district title victory over Westland John Glenn. The Patriots were one of the area's surprise teams, finishing the season at 16-7.

"She's one of those dedicated gym rats," Franklin coach Dan Freeman said. "If you see her in the summer she'll be sitting there with a basketball in her hand."

"For a freshman she has an awful lot of game savvy. When it comes to pressure time she wants the ball — that's unusual for a freshman to be so confident in her game."

KIM FALKOWSKI, Garden City: A hard worker and excellent student, the 5-9 senior center carried the Cougars, coached by Marshall Henry.

When Falkowski graduates next June, she'll take with her seven Garden City offensive records. Among those standards are points (347), rebounds (294) and free throws made (129).

This year Falkowski averaged 16.5 points (also a season record) and 12.8 rebounds. She made 64.2 percent of her free throws. She is a 3.8 student, compiling a 4.2 average during one fall marking period.

Falkowski wants to play collegiately, probably at the Division II level.

"She's one of the fiercest rebounders in the area and the best rebounder I've ever had," Henry said. "I think she can play small forward in Division II. In tennis shoes she's 5-9 or 5-10 and she consistently outrebounced girls taller than her. She's an unselfish player with excellent low-post techniques."

MAYA LEWIS, Wayne Memorial: The 5-8 junior guard picked up her game a notch near the end of Wayne's 17-4 season. She finished the campaign with an 11-point average and also dished out four assists.

She's a 3.0 student and coach Gary Schwan expects even better things out of Lewis next fall.

"She has a big-league jumper," Schwan said. "She's a fine kid and really loves the game of basketball. How hard she works from now to the next season will show how good she is. Toward the end of the season, in our bigger games, she was our best player."

Lewis played her best games against Wolverine A League powers Trenton and Dearborn Fordson.

they were missing a lot of starters."

Salem won six of the first seven matches, five on pins. At 109-pounds, Matt Konenski nailed North's Jeremy May in 1:10 to get the Rocks started. Next was Craig Richardson at 112, who pinned Scott Buchzieger in 35.

THE RAIDERS got on the board with Jack Beall's 8-3 win over Ken Stopa at 119. But three falls and a decision, all favoring Salem, followed: Julian Sell in 3:24 over Brian Walny at 125; Mike Shumate, 7-6 over Lucian Van Cleave at 130; Ron Miller in 1:25 over Adam Foreman at 135; and Ed Barlage in 4:52 over Adam Look at 140.

North broke the string on V.J. Maul's forfeit victory at 145. The Rocks then collected three more falls: Pete Israel in 4:42 over Gary Evangelista at 152; Steve Burlison :08 over Rob Jamrog at 160; and Brian Burlison in 1:45 over Chris Survio at 171.

The Raiders won the last two weight classes, both on falls. Neal Bidman pinned Anthony Perkins in 2:39 at 189, and Zaim Cunmalaj won in 1:17 over Scott Breighaupt at heavyweight.

Last Tuesday, Salem routed Northville 54-18 at Northville. The Rocks won 10 weight classes and had eight falls.

STEVENSON 45, FARMINGTON 20: The Falcons dipped to 0-3 with Thursday's home loss to Livonia Stevenson (1-1).

The Spartans collected nine wins in the meet, including two voids and three pins.

Purdue star lands highest honor for a 2nd time

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

Debbie McDonald doesn't want to be misunderstood. She isn't ungrateful. Hardly.

Being named to the NCAA All-America volleyball second-team two years in a row is no reason for unhappiness. It's just that McDonald has one pertinent question regarding her selection last week.

Why?
"I was really surprised," the Purdue junior outside hitter from Redford (Bishop Borgess) said. "I felt personally it was a down year for me. The stats even showed it."

IT'S TRUE. In several categories McDonald didn't match her sophomore year. But what those numbers indicate is that, even in what she considers a sub-par season, she's still pretty darn good.

In Big Ten play, McDonald, a first-team all-conference selection, finished fifth in hitting percentage (.272), sixth in blocks per game (1.25) and ninth in kills per game (3.93). Her season totals: hitting percentage, .294; kills per game, 3.82; blocks per game, 1.00; service aces, 38; digs, 346.

As a sophomore, McDonald hit .334; had 3.45 kills per game; collected 0.96 blocks per game; had 85 service aces; and finished with 311 digs.

The biggest statistical difference came in her hitting percentage and aces. There was a good reason for both, although McDonald refused to accept such an excuse.

LAST SPRING during drills, she injured her back. She missed two weeks, but with rest over the summer felt better. However, when the season began in September, the injury reappeared.

"It affected my serves and hitting most," said McDonald of the injury. "I hate to blame it on that, though, so I didn't say anything."

McDonald did not miss a match in spite of the pain, which has been volleyball

diagnosed as back spasms. "The only way it will go away is with a long rest," she said. I let heat treatments and do back exercises, to help strengthen them. That's all I can do."

But as unhappy a McDonald was with her own performance — "I made a lot more error hitting and serving, a lot more than last year. What I really need to do is be more consistent" — the biggest disappointment was what the team.

IN '87, the Lady Bollers were 24-14 overall and finished second in the Big Ten with a 14-4 mark. This year, they slipped to 15-5 overall and 9-9 in the conference.

"I was really disappointed," she admitted. "I expected to do really good, with three stars on the team. I think we could have been much more consistent."

McDonald noted the final weekend as proof. The Lady Bollers lost matches to Iowa and Minnesota, both in five games, and the up-and-down scores illustrate her point.

Against Iowa, Purdue won games one and four by 15-4 and 15-2 scores, but lost the others by scores of 15-6, 15-9 and 15-10. Against Minnesota, the Lady Bollers lost the first game 15-4, shutout the Lady Gophers 15-0 in game two, then lost 15-6 in game three. The last two went overtime, each team winning by 16-14 margins.

"I DON'T think we were really up enough for the challenge," cited McDonald. "The best volleyball's always been in the west, but the last few years the midwest has been getting much better."

"I just think we came into the season expecting to win, and we played really inconsistently."

That problem shouldn't recur. For one, Purdue will be a young, much less experienced team in '89. Also, McDonald thinks she and her teammates have learned their lesson.

"I just think we came into the season expecting to win, and we played really inconsistently."

"I think we'll do well, because we know what we'll have to do to improve," she said.

McDonald also knows what she needs to do to improve for her final season of collegiate volleyball. Resting her back is foremost; after that, she wants to better her "all-around play."

Which should guarantee her a third-straight All-America season.

Switching sports finally pays off for Frysinger

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

There is a certain constant in Joan Frysinger's seemingly topsy-turvy athletic life, something that has allowed her to go from one sport to another without missing a step.

That something is talent. It's apparent Frysinger, a junior at Northwood Institute from Livonia (Stevenson), can be about as good as she wants.

Which — it should be carefully noted — is very, very good.

"I was happy with the way I played this year, which is amazing for me," said Frysinger. "I'm usually my toughest critic."

The sport Frysinger was happy playing was volleyball. Make that just volleyball. For the first time since arriving in Midland, she concentrated on volleyball alone — a smart decision, considering it reaped high honors for herself and her team.

NI ENJOYED the season ever, reaching the IIA national tournament and putting fifth-ranked Hawaii Paic and seventh-ranked St. Francis (Ill.) en route to a fifth-place finish and a 34-8 match record. Frysinger was recognized for her part in the Northwomen's success by gaining NAIA first-team All-America honors.

It was about as perfect a season as Frysinger could have wished for. "When my coach (Kevin Fegan) called me and told me I was All-American, kid, 'What do I say? I never got anything like this before.' I don't know how to react," she said. "I'm sure I mean more to me when I'm there playing."

Which won't be another year. Frysinger is a senior academically, but has one year of athletic eligibility remaining. After this fall's success, she plans to quit.

"When I came in this season, I told myself that if I got along with the coaches, and if along with the players, then would come back," said Frysinger. "This was the best season really I've ever had."

AND FINDING mental peace of mind is something Frysinger had sought since arriving at NI. Her first two years, she tried to find it by playing both volleyball and basketball. That drained her.

"I love basketball," she said. "But I was always coming into the season late because of volleyball. I was tired to begin with."

Frysinger knew she had to make a choice. She did. She talked to the then-new basketball coach, Mary Vielbig and decided to devote her athletic career to basketball.

By season's end, Frysinger realized she'd made the right decision, but had chosen the wrong sport.

"To be honest, I just didn't get along with the basketball coach," she said. "I wasn't improving. When I came into the season, I thought if I could put in a whole year I would improve."

THE 6-FOOT-1 center did lead the Northwomen in rebounding, blocked shots and steals, and was their second-leading scorer, but to Frysinger "that wasn't enough. I wasn't satisfied mentally. Maybe I put too much responsibility (for my improvement) on the coaching, but I wasn't learning anything."

Frysinger considered transferring, but she'd have just one season of basketball eligibility remaining. So she opted to return to volleyball.

When this season started, Frysinger knew she'd finally made the right move. "Since I wasn't playing double sports, I was so much more relaxed," she said. "It was like a huge weight was taken off my shoulders."

Coming back to volleyball after a year's absence wasn't easy. "I was a perfectionist before," she said. "I would put a lot of pressure on myself. This year, I decided I would just do my best. The only promise I made to myself was to work hard every single day."

"People were depending on me, but I knew if I tried my best I wouldn't let anybody down. I made mistakes — everybody does. But I didn't let it bother me. I accepted it for being a human error. I didn't overanalyze it, I was a little more rational about it."

HER RATIONALITY allowed Frysinger to rely more on her natural ability, which is formidable. Her All-America status was well-deserved; she set six school records during the season. Her single-season marks were for attack percentage (.353), total blocks (199), solo blocks (80) and digs (525).

In addition, she established career marks in solo (206) and total (551) blocks. She is currently second on the career list in kills (1,024).

Frysinger also proved herself as a clutch player. She had the winning kill in the triumph over Hawaii Pacific, and the winning block in the victory over St. Francis. Her performance earned her NAIA all-tournament second-team status.

And her team's record left her mentally content at the end of a season for the first time — although it didn't take long for her to start looking ahead.

"The first thing I said (after the NAIA tournament) was, 'We broke the ice for the future.' That was the first time we'd gotten out of pool play at nationals," she said.

With all but one starter returning, Frysinger is already eyeing next season. And for once, she won't be burdened with doubts regarding her choice of sports. She knows she's in the right place.

Lady Ocelots still perfect

In keeping with its surging national ranking, Schoolcraft College's women's basketball team remained unbeaten with another lopsided victory, this time by a 73-53 score at Henry Ford CC Wednesday.

Only once this season have the Lady Ocelots been tested, and they won that, edging Delta CC by a point. Their other eight victories have all been by margins at least as great as Wednesday's.

Which is one very good reason SC, 9-0 overall and 3-0 in the Eastern Conference, moved up from No. 15 in the National Junior College Athletic Association coaches' poll to No. 9 last week.

The Lady Ocelots 30-17 at the half against Henry Ford CC and coasted. Leading scoring parade was Denise Wendrich 15 points, Darlene Baxter with 14 and Michelle Dykinski with 13. Ann Hardy and Lisa DePlanche net nine apiece.

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH BY AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE TEXT.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

PART I. That the Township Zoning Ordinance No. 83, is hereby amended by amending:

Section 9.3, paragraph (10), Section 10.3, paragraph (7), Section 11.3, paragraph (7), Section 12.2, paragraph (2b), Section 12.2, paragraph (8a), Section 12.2, paragraph (12i), Section 13.3, paragraph (5i), Section 14.2, paragraph (7h), and Section 15.4, paragraph (7h), to read as follows:

Outdoor Lighting. Lighting shall be provided in an amount which shall be sufficient to permit safe movement of vehicles and pedestrians at night. The lighting shall be high-pressure sodium, metal halide, or other type of lighting approved by the Commission which exhibits the same characteristics and qualities of high pressure sodium or metal halide lights. All lighting shall be so located and designed as to reflect light away from adjacent single family residential areas. Where the proposed project is part of an industrial subdivision, technological park subdivision, or other overall project, the type of lighting (high-pressure sodium, metal halide or approved equivalent) should be consistent throughout the subdivision or overall project.

Section 20.2, paragraph (4), to read as follows:

Lighting facilities of not less than 2 watts per square yard of parking area shall be provided and so arranged and designed as to reflect light away from any residential use adjacent to the area. Parking lot lighting will be extinguished no later than one-half (½) hour after the closing of business transacting hours. When such property is closed at night so that no vehicles may enter or leave, then no lighting need be provided. Lighting fixtures shall have high pressure sodium lamps, metal halide, or other type of lighting approved by the Commission which exhibits the same characteristics and qualities of high pressure sodium or metal halide lights.

IMAGINE DYING FROM A DISEASE YOU NEVER KNEW YOU HAD.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

FIGHT SOME OF THE WORST DISEASES OF OUR TIME.

Sparkling Christmas by design

By Charlene Mitchell
special writer

The tradition of decorating the home at Christmas is taking on a new twist.

Jolly Santa in his sleigh along with Rudolph and the reindeer still set the mood, but many homeowners are beginning to design their indoor holiday decorations to blend with their decor, rather than the traditional red and green of Christmas.

In addition, more people than ever are buying artificial trees already elaborately decorated from specialty stores, or hiring a high-priced interior decorator to come into their homes to create a masterpiece of a tree for them.

Laura Bishop, 30, has decorated hundreds of trees and house over the last four years. Her company, Bishop Design and Display, started out doing mostly retail store windows, but has evolved into a whole new seasonal side business.

"People want something really great looking for their homes, but they don't know what to buy or how to arrange the decorations so they really look beautiful," the former Livonia resident said.

So that's where Bishop's apparent natural talents come in.

Bishop has never had any formal training in decorating, but has always had a good creative eye and an artsy-craftsy way of doing things, she said.

"It just something I always liked doing and now I'm making a good living at it," she said.

WITH THE assistance of two or three helpers, depending on the size of the job, Bishop will decorate 25 to 30 residences during the holiday season. Some are easy; some are difficult.

Her most difficult job, she said, was at the Detroit home of Emmanuel Steward, manager of boxing champion Thomas Hearns.

"I rented a cherry picker to decorate a 35-foot tree in his yard," she said. "I tried to save money by not renting the boom to go with it. That made a four-hour job into a two-day job, so I ended up losing a lot of time and he got a great deal."

And that was her biggest mistake since going into business.

The time and work involved makes hiring a tree decorator like Bishop worth it, according to those who've spent anywhere from $200 to $1,000 with her company.

"I wouldn't do it myself ever again," said one Livonia woman whose husband was amazed at Bishop's skill at climbing trees and working with electrical equipment.

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Sprigs of silver-painted dried flowers and fresh eucalyptus blend in with white lights and silver garland on a Christmas tree that took Laura Bishop six hours to decorate.

The sight of a petite and very attractive young woman in work boots and a hard hat, laying down electrical cable on a rooftop is unusual, but Bishop said she doesn't mind.

"It's fun, and I'm my own boss," she said. "Plus, when I finish a job, there's always a happy customer oohing and aahing and wanting to take a photo of me next to the beautiful tree."

Falling into this line of work was purely by accident, Bishop said. She worked in sales for 12 years, selling everything from jewelry and real estate to cars.

"I STARTED in decorating, helping a friend who did displays for a major jewelry chain," she said. "I learned a lot and turned it into something for myself."

One of the most unusual trees done by Bishop's company was for an athlete who wanted his tree to reflect his sport.

"We used banners, game tickets, trading cards and team logos, then blended it with color-coordinated bulbs and white lights," Bishop said. "It was gorgeous."

A local car dealer also hired Bishop to wrap all the cars in his showroom to resemble gigantic gift packages.

"The bows themselves took tons of ribbon, but he can use them again year after year, if they're stored properly," she said.

Decorating for anniversaries, birthdays, even pool parties, also is a part of her business, but Christmas, according to Bishop, is the time when she works the hardest and makes the most money.

In pursuit of the 'perfect' adult toy

Cruise shows he's an actor in 'Rain Man'

RECENT RELEASES:

"Rain Man" (A+) (R) 130 minutes. There's only one movie opening this week, but it's so good there's no need for any others.

Tom Cruise and Dustin Hoffman star as brothers — one a fast-talking sports car salesman, the other an autistic savant. Cruise looks young again, he's ditched the unseemly fat that slowed him down in "Cocktail." More important, however, he demonstrates forcibly that he can act. We all know Hoffman could and together they present a sometimes sad, sometimes funny, but always touching story of two very diverse characters who become brothers in every sense.

STILL PLAYING:

"The Accused" (C) (R) 109 minutes.

Sara Tobias (Judy Foster) is gang-raped by three men, but Deputy D.A. Kathryn Murphy (Kelly McGillis) sells out to defense, realizes her mistake and prosecutes spectators who encouraged the rape. This poignant drama about mishandled rape cases is too long and slow to be effective. Rape scene is particularly horrible. Reviewed by Kim Brown.

"Child's Play" (B-) (R).

Horror story about a mother who buys possessed doll for son's birthday. Plot is a bit corny at times, but film makes up for it with great special effects and unintentional humor. Reviewed by Fred Baker.

"Cocoon: The Return" (B-) (PG) 115 minutes.

Highly unlikely, overly sentimental — bordering on the dippy — but pleasant enough family entertainment for the holiday season as all the old gang are back to save a cocoon-being.

"Crime Zone" (C) (R).

David Carradine in a futuristic Hell on Earth.

"Crossing Delancy" (A) (PG) 95 minutes.

Isabella "Izzy" Grossman (Amy Irving) is a liberated young New Yorker with her eye on author Anton Maes (Jeroen Krabbe). But never mind that modern stuff, Grandma Ida (Reizl Bozyk) hires matchmaker Hannah Mandelbaum (Sylvia Miles) to arrange things with Sam the pickpocket. Don't worry about true love, it takes care of itself and this is a charming comedy.

"A Cry in the Dark" (C+) (PG-13) 120 minutes.

Lindy and Michael Chamberlin (Meryl Streep and Sam Neill) are camping in Australia's Northern Territory with their three children when the baby is killed by a wild dog. But police mania and public hysteria lead to Lindy's indictment and conviction for the child's murder. It doesn't matter that this story is true because the film fails to convince us that such an incredible story occurred. The police motivation in prosecuting the case and the generative force for public hysteria are poorly depicted and not at all convincing. Some Aussie accents are inaudible and camerawork leaves much to be desired. Despite good acting, the film is unpleasant with no redeeming quality, just a dippy hal-lelujah ending.

"Dirty Rotten Scoundrels" (B+) (PG) 100 minutes.

Michael Caine is super-slick as a con-man on the Riviera while Steve Martin only seems to bumble through the game of parting rich women from their money. Despite the obvious twists and turns as the two out-manuever one another, the film is polished and funny with very few slow moments.

"Ernest Saves Christmas" (C+) (PG).

Jim Varney has the role of a lifetime in "Ernest" and is wisely trying to make it pay while the market is hot. This time out there are consistent, but predictable, chuckles and a very earnest Douglas Seale as Santa Claus in search of a replacement. In an age when kids flock to see a man stop bleeding by exploding gunpowder in the wound, "Ernest Saves Christmas" is a refreshing change. Ernest P. Worrell is what we used to call good, clean fun. "Everybody's All American" (A-) (R) 127 minutes.

In the best sense, a fine, sentimental, nostalgic look at a quarter century (1956-1981) of America, centering on a Louisiana football hero, the "Grey Ghost" (Dennis Quaid), his sweetheart, the "Magnolia Queen" (Jessica Lange), and his scholarly nephew (Timothy Hutton). The intricacies of their relationships and social change in that period are nicely blended. Excellent acting carries this long film past soap opera and should cause a lot of sighs for the good old days.

"Fresh Horses" (C) (PG-13).

Molly Ringwald and Andrew McCarthy as seductive rural girl and conservative college senior.

"The Good Mother" (A+) (R).

Superb acting by entire ensemble creates memorable film whose haunting images will remain with you long after final credits. Anna Dunlop (Diane Keaton), a single parent, is liberated, in part, from a conventional background by the love of sculptor, Leo Cutter (Liam Neeson). However, their relaxed attitudes offend ex-husband Brian (James Naughton), who sues for custody of daughter Molly (Asia Viera). Six-traditional homes where furnishings require that kind of look.)

Needless to say, the look for indoor trees in the 1990s is changing a lot, according to local retailers.

Stores like Franks Nursery and English Gardens are carrying a wide variety of more contemporary decorations.

"Traditional looks will always be the thing for some people, but we're getting requests today that are different than in years past," said one salesperson.

One of the major changes, according to retailers is with lighting.

It seems customers are using more lights than ever, both indoors, on the trees and outdoors on the house, on shrubs and in trees.

And whole neighborhoods are lit up in many areas of metropolitan Detroit, where people are celebrating the holiday with all the sacredness of the past along with the joy of the occasion.

year-old Miss Viera is a talented charmer in her film debut. Jason Roberts, Ralph Bellamy and Teresa Wright are excellent in supporting roles. Based on Sue Miller's best seller of the same name, with fine direction by Leonard Nimoy.

"Iron Eagle II".

Soviet-American strike team pitted against terrorist forces.

"Land Before Time" (A) (G) 75 minutes.

Touching story of a group of young dinosaurs and their journey to the promised land. Excellent animation combined with many heart-warming scenes make this film great entertainment for all ages.

Father Michael Pace (Tom Berenger) is incredible as a priest trying to rescue his brother-in-law's mistress, Angela (Daphne Zuniga), from the Mafia. What kind of priest smokes, drinks and sleeps with the girl? Confusing and disturbing violence and sexuality. Reviewed by Kim Brown.

"Madame Sousatzka" (A) (PG-13) 122 minutes.

Lush, sensuous photography, inspired music and brilliant acting plus John Schlesinger's fine direction equal an excellent film. This touching portrait of Madame Sousatzka (Shirley MacLaine) and her obsessive piano-teaching techniques also tells the story of a young genius, Manek Sen (Navin Chowdhry). His desire to please his mother (Shabana Azmi) and his teacher, Madame Sousatzka, tears at him as does his desire for success and his awakening sexual impulses focusing on a slightly shopworn singer, Jenny (Twiggy).

"My Stepmother Is an Alien" (B+) (PG-13) 106 minutes.

A bloated Dan Aykroyd slows pace, particularly at opening, but once extra-terrestrial Celeste (Kim Basinger) touches down, this comedy takes off. Basinger's sexy visitor from another galaxy saves production from its own silliness and her performance is well worth the trip.

"Mystic Pizza" (A) (R) 102 minutes.

Warm, wonderful comedy about three young women dealing with life's unpredictable experiences in a pizza restaurant where they work, sharing the joys and pain of love and friendship. Reviewed by Kathy Guyor.

"Naked Gun" (D) (PG-13) 90 minutes.

Obviously David Zucker doesn't know the difference between comedy and mugging. Satire takes more than repetition of cliches so miss this childish, overly broad farce, which never gets off the ground.

"Oliver and Company" (A) (G) 70 minutes.

Wide range of voices — Billy Joel, Bette Midler and Cheech Marin, for example — place this film with the best of Walt Disney animation. It's sensitive, heart-warming and entertaining with good music to boot. Reviewed by Patrick Harris.

"Scrooged" (B+) (PG-13) 90 minutes.

Get in the holiday spirit and try this updated romp through Dicken's "Christmas Carol" starring a very off-beat Bill Murray. He's the modern-day Scrooge, Frank Cross, a television network executive who doesn't know the meaning of nice. Star-studded cast includes Karen Allen, Buddy Hackett, Mary Lou Retton, Robert Mitchum, Michael Pollard, Carol Kane, John Forsythe and Bobcat Goldthwait.

"Tequila Sunrise" (C+) (R) 115 minutes.

Slick, glib production gets lost trying for high-concept, hi-tech look in an old-fashioned, hard-boiled detective story. Retired drug dealer, Dale McKussic (Mel Gibson), and best friend, Lt. Nick Frescia (Kurt Russell) of L.A. Narcotics Squad, tangle over beautiful restaurateur, Jo Ann Vallenari (Michelle Pfeiffer). There's also a big shipment of drugs, lots of money, the shadowy Carlos, a Mexican policeman, Commandante Escalante (Raul Julia), and an unpleasant, bumbling drug enforcement officer, McGuire (J.T. Walsh). Despite good acting and slick surface, this tequila doesn't rise above complicated cliches that are sometimes confusing and seldom work well.

The do's and don'ts of best-dressed tree

By Charlene Mitchell
Special writer

Like everything else, there's do's and don'ts for the well-dressed Christmas tree.

Starting with a fresh tree is most important, since the wonderful smell of a live tree can't be duplicated. Then add the trimmings.

Trimmings that are IN this year are:

- White mini lights (non-flashing).
- Theme decorating.
- Silver ornaments.
- Silver sprigs of dried flowers (spray painted).
- Bows on top of the tree.
- Fresh bunches of eucalyptus for added aroma.

Trimmings that are OUT this year are:

- Flashing lights.

Before Or After puts heart in the beat

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Jim Stewart of Before Or After has fire in his eyes. Through those blue orbs, he's seen the road of life.

Or at least it seems that way after driving for 60 minutes in rush hour traffic to Livonia. Stewart has traveled from the Downriver community of Trenton to discuss Before Or After's music. Before Or After member K. Bryan Kane had already arrived 25 minutes ago.

"After this interview, I'm going to kill you," said Stewart, greeting his partner in music. "This guy gives the worst directions."

Musically, it's a different story. The four-man dance outfit shares a common direction.

Before Or After is trying to make a name for itself by presenting music with a beat devoid of mindless lyrics.

Their sound definitely has a European flavor to it. Vocals drone over a fluid, rapid drum sound. Except there's more of a sting to Before Or After's music, mainly due to the excellent atmospheric guitar work of band member Mark Bower.

Before Or After is trying to fight the rap that dance music doesn't have heart. Just mention the possibility that his band might be guilty of that draws an arched eyebrow from Stewart, who appears to be still suffering from white-line fever.

"Not our music," Stewart said. "If someone accused us of that, boy... I don't know."

WHAT BEFORE Or After does know is that any failure along the way won't be from a lack of effort. The group is featured on College Music Journal's "Certain Damage —

Vol. 13" compilation CD, which features up-and-coming artists from around the country. The group was also featured on the "Detroit Music Scene" album.

Before Or After is busy at work on its own LP, which is slated for a possible late winter release.

Before Or After formed three years ago out of a friendship of students at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor ("Don't print that," Kane said. "I don't want us pegged as an Ann Arbor band. We don't play 'Louie Louie' for the frat boys.").

But things hadn't really kicked into gear until the band recently added two new members this past summer, former What If Thinking drummer Al Waltz and Bower.

Original band members, Kane and Stewart, parted ways with the previous members. Kane said they had different goals. With a complete lineup, he believes the group is more focused.

The chemistry of the band works, even though members come from completely different backgrounds. Stewart is from Grosse Ile and is a high school English teacher at Trenton High School. Kane is from St. Clair Shores and works in marketing for Chevrolet. Waltz is from Wayne and is a commercial driver. Then there is Bower, who certainly looks intriguing in the band's photograph.

"HE DOES his own makeup," said Kane, slightly bemused. "That black lipstick has got to go. I guess he wants to be different."

Different, perhaps, but he serves an integral part in the creative spark that makes Before Or After work. Stewart marvels at how well band members get along despite coming from different perspectives.

Before Or After includes K. Bryan Kane, bass/keyboards (from left), Al Waltz, drums, Mark Bower, guitar and Jim Stewart, lead singer.

"Bryan and Mark are unbridled energy," said Stewart, sounding like a person who teaches English. "They come up with ideas and they have the energy to pursue them. Al and I, while positive and forward moving, are still organizers and observers."

"I wouldn't say you were organizers. I'm pretty organized," Kane said.

"No, you're right. Analytical. Maybe we sit back..."

"I don't know about that. I'm pretty good at critiquing the band."

"You are. I'm just making some generalized statements about the band."

The statements Stewart makes on stage attempt to avoid the banal as the case with most dance music. He said he loves language. In addition to English, he speaks Russian and Spanish.

The band's four-song demo tape is rich with imagery. One tune, "You Make It So Hard" has received airplay on several radio stations around the country. One reason, perhaps, is they don't opt for sampling where a line is repeated for 10 minutes.

"We're a dance band you can listen to," Kane said.

REVIEWS

BEEN THERE . . . — Something Happens!

The band Something Happens! did something rather peculiar for a relatively unknown entity outside of their native Ireland. They released a live album before their debut studio LP. That's the musical equivalent of putting on the shoe before the sock.

But it is all apart of the grand plan, if you will. Something Happens! forte has always been the energy they exude by playing live. And "I Know Ray Harman" was quite a stunning introduction.

So now we have the studio version of Something Happens! as "Been There, Seen That, Done That" (Virgin import only) attempts to capture that spark.

For the most part, Something Happens! succeeds with plenty to spare. Many first-time listeners will undoubtedly be impressed with the charge these Dublin dudes put into their songs. The first two songs, "Beach" and "Incoming," are high-voltage rockers by anyone's standards. Ray Harman (the person) goes for the gusto with frenzied guitar numbers.

Unlike much of the stuff that floats over from Europe, Something Happens! shows a remarkable potential to appeal to both those who cling to the alternative charts and people with mainstream tastes as well.

And while the band certainly earn their rock'n'roll stripes with driving numbers like "Beach," "Incoming" and "Burn Clear," the finer moments of this LP are captured in slow-moving, poignantly penned songs like "Both Men Crying" and "Be My Love." Tom Dunne's vocals are a steady stream of floweryness without becoming monotonous. He has a knack of telling the story in an understated sort of way that gets your attention.

Surprisingly enough, Tom Erdelyi (better known to most of us schmucks as Tommy Ramone) was at the controls for most of the melodic numbers. Yet Erdelyi lets Something Happens! fire all the guns when it has to.

VICTORY DAY — Tom Cochrane

In rock'n'roll these days, mediocrity is not a sin.

The latest album from Tom Cochrane and Red Rider, "Victory Day," bears this out well.

In the early 1980s, Red Rider had an FM radio hit with "Lunatic Fringe." The song was tailor-made for the static rock that has dominated the airwaves this decade. Since then, the band has traveled the same musical path, but with less success.

Upon first listen, "Victory Day" sounds most like one of Cochrane's Canadian countrymen, Bryan Adams. After further inspection, one can hear influences of Tom Petty, Aerosmith and even Lou Reed. But it sounds like these artists on their worst days.

The album's biggest weakness is Cochrane's songwriting. Writing a song is like walking a tightrope, and Cochrane doesn't have very good balance. His lyrics range from decent to trite to just plain insane.

The opening cut, "Big League," tells the tale of a teenage hockey star who dies in an auto accident. Its message is that you "never can tell when you might check out/So right to others like you do to yourself." The morose lyrical vein continues on "Calling America" and "Vacation (In My Mind)."

The record does have some highlights. "Saved by the Dawn," a quality instrumental, features a heavy steel guitar over cryptic percussion that sounds like it's right off a recent Peter Gabriel album.

Likewise, the last two songs at least have fans a glimmer of hope for the next album. "Good Man (Feeling Bad)" and "Not So Far Away" both have good melodies and strong guitar work and are a cut above the rest of the record.

The music industry encourages this type of safe, dull music. Record companies and radio stations have progressed slightly in accepting and promoting a wider variety of rock since "Lunatic Fringe." But, unfortunately, on the fringe is where they remain.

HEARTBREAK HOTEL

Elvis Presley is still dead, so far as we know, but that doesn't stop RCA from continuing to cash in on his name and legend.

That means a soundtrack to "Heartbreak Hotel," the Elvis fantasy film that briefly flickered across metropolitan screens this fall, coupled with release of the King's most complete greatest hits package on compact disc. (And on gold CDs at that.)

First things first. The "Heartbreak Hotel" soundtrack contains a smattering of Presley hits, as well as Duane Eddy's "Duke Eddy" and Alvin Cooper's "I'm Eighteen." It's only of passing interest, except for actor David Keith's remarkable readings of the title tune, "Can't Help Falling in Love" and "Love Me" — an essential Presley hit not found among the 50 hits package.

Keith, who plays Elvis in the movie, possesses a powerful, resonant, country-tinged voice. And, alas, if you half close your eyes while staring at the back cover pictures...

Much more essential is the World-wide Hits package. It's the same set originally released on record in 1970, at the height of Presley's comeback. Gold CDs are supposed to be the latest word in sonic excellence and the set sounds fine, especially considering the age of the original recordings. But it doesn't sound noticeably better than other Elvis CD releases. Voluminous and moderately priced, however, this collection should be a welcome find under many a Christmas tree this holiday season.

And as for Keith — listen buddy, you hang on to that Elvis suit. I'll rent out the Auburn Hills Palace and together we'll go make ourselves some serious money.

Giving a Christmas gift of your time

By Doug Funke
staff writer

We often open our pocketbooks along with our hearts during the holiday season.

It feels good to drop some change into a Salvation Army kettle, write checks to favorite charities, donate toys to less fortunate children.

And social service agencies appreciate being remembered, make no mistake about it.

But if you want to extend your involvement beyond money and give an even more valuable gift — your time — during the holidays and beyond, your volunteer services will be welcomed with open arms.

The experience can provide some perspective for high school grads and professionals starting up the corporate ladder. All too often young people are perceived as having a primary concern with their own comfort and the almighty dollar.

Agencies need all kinds of help — volunteer drivers to direct care supplementers, clerical help, crisis line monitors, workers in pantries and resale shops.

If you have the time, several organizations can provide the opportunities.

First Step operates a shelter at a secret location for abused spouses and child victims of domestic violence. The organization also runs non-residential counseling centers in Westland and Romulus.

VOLUNTEERS are needed to work at the shelter — after a background check and training due to the sensitive nature of the work.

Volunteers also staff the 24-hour crisis line, work at data entry/clerical tasks, fund raising and transportation.

Judy Ellis, executive director, started as a volunteer seven years ago.

"Never do they (volunteers) fail to say they've been changed," she said. "We end up getting more than we give."

Volunteers receive at least 40 hours of instruction in such areas as communications skills, empathy training and crisis management.

"We're given skills it would cost thousands of dollars to get," Ellis said. "You do feel good about helping. It's a sense of belonging."

Maxine Baughman, volunteer coordinator, can be reached at 459-4300.

Volunteers must be at least 18 years of age.

"We ask usually for a six-month commitment, four hours a week," Ellis said.

And, please, leave your hangups at home.

"We can't be effective, if we're in the midst of our own crises," Ellis added.

The St. Vincent-Sarah Fisher Center in Farmington Hills provides a variety of services from day care to a residential environment for abused, neglected and abandoned children and unwed mothers.

The center's goal is to break the cycle of abuse and dependency on the state, said Connie Kucinkas, volunteer coordinator.

Men especially are needed to volunteer to work with a child, most 10 to 13 years of age, on a one-to-one basis.

"WE USUALLY have a minimum age limit of 21 years and they go through a very intense screening... depending on how closely they work with the child," Kucinkas said. "We do ask for at least a one-year commitment."

Flexible hours are available. "We always have a use for drivers, women, to get teen moms and girls in maternity residence to doctors and hospitals for medical appointments," she added. "That's during the day and for the most part it's not long distances."

Volunteers also can help out in programming, fund raising and just about any area they have a talent or interest.

"Basically, I'd say we're very open," Kucinkas said. "I think people have to come in with a realistic expectation. They are not dealing with children who are normal in every way. They're lovable, cute... but they're here for a reason."

What do volunteers get out of the experience?

"It's a very meaningful thing to have an impact on a child's life that's for the better," she said.

Kucinkas can be reached at 626-7527, Ext. 300.

Open Door of Union Lake, an inter-denominational help organization, provides food, clothing and emergency financial assistance to people down on their luck in West Bloomfield, Waterford, Commerce and White Lake townships.

Grace Thibert, director of Open Door, said volunteers can staff the resale and craft shop, verify needs of clients, accept food and clothing donations, prepare goods for distribution and actually make deliveries.

Volunteers are needed to keep the facility running 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday in that only three people, including Thibert, receive payment for their efforts.

"IT'S JUST a good feeling, I think, people helping people," Thibert said of volunteers. "We have younger people, seniors. Some are widows. All ages."

The typical client is a divorced mother with two or three kids who "just can't make it," Thibert said.

Volunteering at Open Door, like other places, "can be depressing at times, too," Thibert conceded. Happy endings aren't guaranteed.

Thibert may be contacted at 360-2930.

Next to Santa Claus, reindeer are the main attraction at Santa Claus Village near Rovaniemi.

In Lapland, just about everyone owns reindeer like this gentleman who tends to a part of his herd outside Rovaniemi, Lapland, Finland.

Christmas: Alive, well in Lapland

By Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

Rudolph the Red-nosed Reindeer wouldn't last many yuletide seasons in Finland.

If he runs wild above the Arctic Circle, where any self-respecting Finnish reindeer lives, he is owned by one of the 4,000 Lapps who live there, and he's in trouble. If he survives the great fall reindeer roundup, he will probably end up pulling a tourist through the dark Arctic afternoon in a reindeer safari.

According to the Finnish Tourist Board, Santa Claus lives in the Finnish province of Lapland, officially designated Santa Claus Land, specifically in Santa Claus Village outside Rovaniemi.

Santa sends 300,000 letters a year to kids all over the world, but there is nothing he can do about Rudolph in a world that loves smoked reindeer meat and reindeer safaris.

Most Americans don't visit Lapland when the Swedes, Norwegians and especially the Germans come to canoe, hike and even hunt rabbits during June, July and August.

THEY COME in midwinter when the sun comes up at 11 a.m. and goes down at 2 p.m.

If you thought Santa Claus lived at the North Pole, look at the map — not that flat map in an Atlas, but the northern end of a globe.

Check out the Arctic Circle. It rings the North Pole and encloses northern Alaska, part of the Canadian Northern Territories, most of Greenland, the northern third of Norway, Sweden and Finland and the northern edge of the Soviet Union.

According to Eino Siurainen of Finland's Oulu University, all the people who live within that circle have some things in common.

All, except the Finnish Saami developed from the Mongoloid race. They all fall within six linguistic groups and have all adapted to a harsh landscape in similar ways.

And they all have reindeer. Reindeer were wandering around when the Finns entered present-day Finland at the time of the birth of Christ.

THE LAPPS had to put up with the usual coming and going of invaders over the centuries, but in modern times, all the Scandinavian countries have recognized their hereditary right to fish, hunt and herd reindeer.

The Finnish Lapps have been herding Rudolph and his friends for a long time; in the 20th century, they've bureaucratized it under the Union of Reindeer Raising Districts. Any Finnish citizen who lives in one of the 56 reindeer districts can own reindeer.

Every reindeer has a mark cut in his ear, and is registered, so he belongs to somebody, whether he is moseying through a back yard pasture or wandering wild.

I wish I could tell you that Rudolph and company wander in pastures with bells on, but the truth is that reindeer are herded by motorized sleighs, walkie talkies and airplanes.

In October-November, the roundup and the festivals begin. During the roundup, the reindeer are driven into corrals and counted. The newborn are marked with the brand of their mother. About a third of the reindeer are slaughtered to provide more than three million pounds of meat annually.

REINDEER hides, destined to be rugs or wall hangings, are also a big tourist item in Finland.

If Rudolph is still around, he is probably cavorting through Santa Claus Village six miles out of Rovaniemi or recovering from the Christmas tourists.

When the governor of the province of Lapland proclaimed the whole province Santa Claus Land and Santa's personal domain in December 1984, he knew what he was doing. Reindeer herding may be a great old industry but tourism is even better.

Santa's official post office datemarks letters to kids all over the world. The largest number are delivered within Finland, but the second largest amount go to Japan, followed by Australia, Italy, Sweden and the United States.

Santa gets their names and addresses from visitors who write them in a book in one of Santa's workshops. His elves make many Finnish crafts and sell gifts, but I warn you, Finnish prices are extremely high.

YOU DON'T have to buy. Take pictures or read Santa's biography. He was born "a long time ago" and knows all the different national Christmas customs, like who gets gifts down the chimney and who gets them in the shoe.

If you want to get in on all this, you can of course take the plane that flies in every year from London, but most people take the Santa Claus flight from Helsinki. They visit Santa Claus Village and a reindeer farm (very scruffy reindeer, folks, sorry), get a reindeer-driving lesson and certificate, go through a Lapp ceremony for crossing the Arctic circle, have a great sauna and settle down for a fiery glass of Koskonkorva at the local Rantasipi hotel, center of Rovaniemi social life.

You can do a jeep safari, a snowmobile safari, a wilderness safari, ride the Finnish/bobsled slide down the nearby mountain, or really do it up brown with a three day reindeer and snowmobile safari.

For more information, contact Rudolph at the Finnish Tourist Board, 655 Third Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Taking a step back to a Christmas of long ago

By Roberta Schwartz
special writer

Beautiful wreaths, garlands and lanterns light the way to Crossroads Village and the Huckleberry Railroad in the heart of Genesee County north of Flint.

Christmas at Crossroads Village and a tour on the steam-powered Huckleberry Railroad has become a family tradition for thousands who come to the 1800s' village every year to marvel at the display of 40,000 lights that illuminated the village for this holiday season.

Adults pay $5.95 to ride the steam locomotive and listen to carols, piped into the long cars as the train thunders past Mott Lake and the farmlands of central Michigan. It's great to see the village from the windows of the steaming train and absorb the Christmas atmosphere from the unheated, but cozy cars.

The 38-ton Baldwin locomotive was originally designed to operate at 80 degrees below zero near Fairbanks, Alaska. The restored coaches, the oldest of which was built in 1875, are from railroads in the West, Southwest and Mexico.

Crossroads Village represents a typical community of the late 1860-1890s and many of the buildings have been moved to the site from Genesee County and more distant parts of Michigan. Village fathers have tried to recreate the lifestyles and folk art of the time realistically.

While strolling through the village, visitors see wool spinning, toy and furniture manufacturing and printing on an old-fashioned hand press.

The village opened in 1976 with six buildings and has grown constantly since then. The Buzzell House, with its pillared porch and triangular pediment, reflects the Greek Revival style of architecture. It was the first structure moved to the village in 1968 from downtown Flint.

THE T.N. NORTH and Son Bank was built around 1869 and originally stood in Fenton, a small community near Flint. For many years, it served a flourishing lumber and trapping community. Today, it serves another audience.

Children delight in the huge Christmas tree, decorated with popcorn, candles and cornucopias, filled with every variety of holiday goodies. Illustrated signs also explain how Christmas trees were introduced to the United States from Germany and how country people made the first decorations by hand.

Codlwater Chapel offers still another holiday diversion. Church choirs, bell ringers, madrigal singers and bell choir groups perform for visitors who fill the church.

The wood-framed chapel was built in 1890 to serve a small German farming community in Livingston County. Many wedding ceremonies are still performed in the chapel as are Sunday worship services.

Christmas at Crossroads Village has something special for every visitor. Caroling in the streets, paper ornament making for children, readings of Christmas stories at the township meeting hall and wagon and sleigh rides for just 80 cents make visitors feel they have participated in a merging of Christmas past and present.

"The Gift of the Magi" is performed every evening in the opera house on the second floor of the historic Horton-Colwell Building, which also houses the general store, a U.S. Post Office, which puts the Crossroads stamp on thousands of visitors' Christmas cards every year, and the village cafe, where visitors warm up with hot chocolate and coffee.

ONE BIT OF advice is in order for visitors.

To enjoy the Christmas visit, it's a good idea to dress warmly. No amount of apple cider or hot chocolate can keep you warm and comfortable, if you don't wear heavy scarves and wool mittens to ward off the winter winds.

Another hint may be in order. The village is about a 60-mile drive by expressway from the Detroit. Visitors can reach Crossroads Village off I-75 or I-69 to I-475. Exit on Carpenter Road (Exit 11 off I-475) and follow the signs to the village.

For additional information, write the Genesee County Parks and Recreation Commission, G-5055 Branch Road, Flint 48506 or call (313) 736-7100.

Crossroads Village is open from 3-9 p.m. Friday through Sunday every weekend in December. Special rates are available for persons 60 years and older and tour groups. Parking is $1.

ROBERTA SCHWARTZ

Crossroads Village is a spectacle of lights with an old-fashioned flavor on weekends during the holiday season.

New book features 80 country homes

"Country Homes," a book recently published by Home Planners Inc. of Farmington Hills, features 80 country homes divided into three classic styles — farmhouses, Cape Cods and center-hall colonials. They range in size 1,500-4,500 square feet. Floor plans, design tips, an architect's exterior rendering and precise illustration of key interior features is given on each.

The book includes the history of country homes and describes their longstanding popularity. It contains a decorating section complete with full-color photos and illustrations depicting three country or period approaches to decorating nine different rooms.

Construction blueprints for each design are available at a modest price. The book is available for $10.95 plus $1.50 postage and handling from Home Planners Inc., Dept. PR883, Research Drive, Farmington Hills 48024.

Home Planners is a leading publisher of pre-designed home plans and construction blueprint. Many of its more than 2,000 designs have appeared in leading national magazines — Colonial Homes, House Beautiful's Houses and Plans, Country Living's Dream Homes and Better Homes and Gardens Home Plan Ideas.

Be tactful about unwanted gifts

Q. Every year I receive gifts I don't like or want. One relative makes ceramics which are awful, another does paintings which are worse. Am I duty bound to keep and display them? If I don't, they ask me about them. What can I do?

A. Many hand made gifts are exquisite and it's nice when someone goes to the trouble to make a unique gift, especially if that person cannot afford to buy expensive presents. Unfortunately, the personal touch is almost gone from gift giving because most people are too busy to hand-make special gifts for their loved ones. This is a sad loss.

Gift makers ("gifters"), however, should realize that one ceramic, painting or other category item given to one person is probably enough. Recipients ("giftees") are usually pleased to have one of these objects. Unless more are begged for, however, repeated gifts of the same type pose a real problem for the new owner. Givers must understand that the new owner will eventually be forced to store away or dispose of some of these articles.

Most gifts given with "strings attached" are not appreciated. Giftors must recognize that once a present is given, they no longer have the right to decide the fate of that item; the giftee has full rights of ownership and may keep or dispose of the present at will. (A thoughtful recipient, organizing

however, will weigh the consequences before taking action.)

When the time finally comes, you might tactfully suggest that you have appreciated their efforts and thoughtfulness but don't have room for more items; if they continue to give you these articles, would the giver like to have back what you can't use or should you pass them on to someone else who might also enjoy them? (The makers of these special items are often hurt and astounded when their creations are disposed of without their having a chance to have them back.)

If this isn't feasible, you might create a "special display" spot for one or two items and rotate them. If asked, explain that you enjoy the change of scenery.

When all else fails, some of these gifts have been known to "get lost in the move," be "accidentally dropped and broken," or become "water damaged." This is rather heartless, but sometimes stringent action must be taken when other alternatives are exhausted.

condo queries

Robert M. Melsner

Q. I am working with the builder who apparently does not own the land that he plans to build on, but claims that he can arrange the purchase of it for us. He wants me to enter into a building contract with him and he says he will take care of getting a deed to the property as part of the building contract. I am skeptical but need some additional input.

A. Skepticism is well justified. Obviously, it is imperative that you obtain legal title to the property that you plan to build a home on. If the title is not in the name of the builder and/or a related "legal entity," you may be getting a "con job." Obviously, it is necessary for you to first arrange for the purchase of the lot, either as part of the building contract and/or as a separate legal transaction. You should initially ask the builder to supply you with a title policy showing who owns the property and how he plans on delivering title to you as part of any type of building agreement. Keep in mind, of course, that some of the best deals are the ones that are not made, and that may be the case in this instance.

Q. I live in a high-rise condominium and the developer unbeknownst to us installed a jacuzzi above us. I find it extremely difficult to enjoy our condominium unit because of the vibrations caused by the jacuzzi. The association seems to be unwilling to help.

A. You should check the condominium documents to see whether, in fact, the "i's" were dotted and the "t's" crossed by the developer in allowing the installation of the jacuzzi. You should also check with the local building department as to the propriety of such an installation. Finally, there is, no doubt, a provision in the condominium documents which prohibits unreasonable noise and/or otherwise inhibits co-owners and/or the developer from undertaking activities and making modifications which will impair the soundness, safety and/or use and enjoyment of the premises by other co-owners.

clarification

There is a $10 a ticket charge for the concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Jewish Community Center of West Bloomfield. It is sponsored by the American-Israel Cultural Foundation in cooperation with the Jewish Community Center.

The artists are here directly from a Carnegie Hall debut — Hagai Shaham, violin; Efrat Schecter, flute; Zvi Plesser, cello; and Rina Doksinsky, piano. The center is on Maple at Drake, West Bloomfield.

Aldingbrooke

Superlative Rental Living
In The Hills of West Bloomfield

NEW lavishly large 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace ranch dwellings of unsurpassed size that are utterly extraordinary - up to 2,800 square feet and every amenity: private entries, attached garages, fireplaces, cathedral ceilings, designer kitchens with separate breakfast areas, master bedroom suites with dressing area, double vanities, double closets and walk-in closets too, in-residence laundry and storage, full carpeting, central air conditioning, patio or balcony.

Truly resort-like recreational facilities include: oversized pool in a spectacular wooded setting, a manor-home like clubhouse - ideal for private parties - tennis courts and, of course, a 24-hour manned gatehouse with package reception services. There is even a private lending library. All on over 130 incomparable private acres for estate-like living.

Unquestionably the standard for beauty and luxury. For their size, design and breathtaking setting, YOU MUST SEE the 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace homes of ALDINGBROOKE.

Travel Maple Road to Drake Road; turn north and drive through the woods, to the summit of the hill, and enter ALDINGBROOKE through the manned gatehouse on your left.

Note: Limited number of short term executive rentals available. 1 and 2 year leases being offered.

Who says lake living's just fun in the summer?

If you think saving money's fun you'll love living free at Schooner Cove for 30 days. Plus you'll love the 365-day pleasures of living on Ford Lake. In winter, the cross-country skiing, snowmobiling, snowman-building, ice-skating and ice-boating are tops. (So is the indoor fun of watching the snow fall through your balcony window.) You'll especially enjoy the totally new interiors from appliances to cabinets to designer decor. So your days will be pleasant, inside or outside. See all that these free contemporary 1 and 2-bedroom apartments can offer you. Now.
