Insurance ruling won't halt events

staff writer

Organizers of special events in Plymouth are cautiously optimistic that their shows will go on in spite of new liability insurance requirements imposed by the city's insurance authority and the city commission.

Effective immediately, organizers of special events not directly sponsored by the city must come up with at least $100,000 of coverage to supplement the city's $10 million umbrella policy.

Those events include the Fall Festival, Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular, Great Pumpkin Caper and summer street dances on Penniman Avenue downtown.

City-sponsored events like the Fourth of July Parade and weekly concerts in the park are exempt from the new insurance require-

"IT'S NOT the intent of the city to eliminate events," said Carol Stone, Plymouth's risk manager. "It's to protect interests of taxpayers by reducing liability exposure to them.

"Probably the biggest exposure other than police and fire is special events." she said

Rates for $300,000 worth of liability coverage provided by the city's insurer range from $55 for low-hazard events, such as meetings with up to 100 people, to $600 for high-hazard events, such as parades with floats drawing up to 1,000.

Any event with more people and higher-risk events, such as rock concerts or vehicle races, would require a review before a rate is set by the city's insurer.

Premium costs for $100,000 worth of coverage weren't available.

THE PLYMOUTH Community Chamber of Commerce co-sponsors the Great Pumpkin Caper in October and street dances near Kellogg Park

"I think they'll still take place," said Mary Roehr, executive director of the chamber. "It may mean trimming programs, some nominal charges. But I certainly hope not."

We have had some limited liability insurance. We have not taken out any special event insurance," Roehr

THE FALL Festival board has obtained liability insurance on its own the past couple of years, said Michael Pollard, board president.

Worker raises set for 1989

By Doug Funke staff writer

Non-union municipal employees in Plymouth Township will receive pay hikes ranging from 3 percent to 10 percent next year to reflect comparable market value of their work.

And, if last year is an indication of this, most non-elected employees also will receive merit raises of 11/2 percent to 4 percent for work performance.

The salary adjustments were recommended by a compensation panel consisting of trustees Ron Griffith and Abe Munfakh, and Catherine Broadbent, township human resources analyst, and unanimously adopted by the township board.

The three elected officials will receive a 10-percent pay hike effec-

CEP students skip out on new attendance policy

By Peggy Aulino staff writer

Playing hooky at Centennial Educational Park got a lot easier this semester. And a lot of students are taking advantage of the fact that financial concerns forced the school district to make drastic cuts in its attendance monitoring program.

Last year, the Plymouth Canton Community Schools district enjoyed one of the lowest absentee rates of any high school in the state. This year the number of students out of school each day is generally higher than the state average.

"It's been a very difficult year," said Rita Ringer, the attendance su-pervisor at CED. We are certainly operating at a handicap this year due to our limitations in the budget."

Last year there were seven staff members whose job it was to monitor attendance. This year, the task is left to Ringer alone. The budget went from $75,000 to $25,000.

LAST YEAR parents were expected to notify the high school attendance office when their son or daughter was going to be absent. This year there is no one to answer those calls, so the policy has been abandoned. Instead, each teacher sets their own guidelines for reporting absenteeism.

"Some teachers require a note. Some don't want to see a note at all," Ringer said. "A student who has six classes could have six different expectations from their teachers."

What's more, she said, if each of that student's teachers had a policy of keeping the written excuses, the student could be required to bring in six notes to excuse a full day's ab-

Statistics indicate that students are taking advantage of this year's attendance monitoring changes. Last year, the absentee rate averaged between 4.5 and 5.5 percent on any given day, Ringer said. As of the end of the first quarter this fall, the average was more than 7 percent. The state average is 6 percent.

DURING THE fourth hour, when there are two lunch periods, the average climbs to 8 percent.

"If a student really wanted to socialize they could blend in," in the cafeteria, Ringer said.

Ringer attributes a rise in suspensions this year to the decline in attendance monitoring.

"That particular cut affected every single student at the high schools. and we are feeling some real broad reaching effects," Ringer said. "When students are out and they are not supervised, problems arise."

She said there have been more acts of vandalism in the buildings this year, more students leaving campus during school hours and more fights.

Ringer only calls a student's home in extreme cases, though parents sometimes contact her. As an example, she said a parent called her recently when he discovered his son was cutting school. Ringer agreed to give that parent weekly updates on the student, but she said, "Unfor-

Waste water plan gets final OK

After getting support from individual communities, the plan to send waste water from western Wayne County to Ypsilanti has received final approval.

The Ypsilanti Community Utilities Authority approved an agreement last week to accept sewage from Canton, Northville and Plymouth townships.

"Contracts are all signed and everything's in order," said Eldon Ahles, director of YCUA.

Canton, Northville and Plymouth formed a consortium called the Western Townships Utilities Authority. To cement the deal, WTUA gave YCUA a $224,000 down payment toward the annual $300,000 fee.

The next step is for the WTUA to sell bonds to pay for construction of sewer lines from the three townships to the YCUA plant.

THE PROJECT is targeted to be completed by March 1993. Waste from the three townships are currently treated at the Detroit plant.

Plymouth Township supervisor Maurice Breen said the townships will share the costs according to the amount of waste they send into the system. He said there is "small differences" in the cost to each town-

The $60 million YCUA plant has the capacity to treat about 29 million gallons of sewage a day.

It is currently handling about 13.5 million gallons daily from six Washtenaw County and parts of Canton Township.

The WTUA townships could send up to 8 million gallons of waste a day to the plant. That would put it at about 74 percent capacity, Ahles

The lack of regular contact with parents may be the root of the absentee problem, Ringer

"Contact with the home really makes a difference. Parents want to help their kids. They can help them best when they know what's going on," she said. "That's what we did best. We were letting par-

Ringer said administrators agree that reviving the former attendance program is a high priority, but nothing can be done about it until the district's financial problems are solved.

No bones about tunes

By Peggy Aulino staff writer

The bones Percy Danforth brought to Plymouth's Tanger Elementary School last week don't look like the remains of a spare rib

These "bones" are musical instruments. And their owner knows how to get different sounds out of the polished slices of hickory, walnut, ebony and pine.

The event was a Christmas party for students in the Plymouth and Canton school district's Infant and Preschool Education Program and their "grandparents" from the Plymouth Inn.

Herr said she "wanted something both youngsters and senior citizens could enjoy." Participants agreed the event was a success.

"IT'S A lot of fun to see so many gray hairs and to see so many little ones," Danforth said.

The party began with a lunch for the adults and entertainment by Danforth and banjo player Gordie Pichet. Much of the music consisted of traditional tunes such as "Has Anybody Seen My Gal" and "Let it

When the young people arrived after lunch, the musicians started letting the season affect their choice of songs.

One of the elderly spectators, Sister Francesca, got up and led the group in a spirited rendition of "Rudolph the Red Nosed Rein-

"You have to make a fool of yourself once in a while. Like St. Francis — be childish, " she said.

Sister Francesca, the aunt of Tanger teacher Teri Dillon, said she enjoyed being with youngsters and senior citizens.

"IT'S SO nice to have the young and the old together. We are so much alike," she said. "My mother used to say the big ones and the little ones are the same - you can laugh at both of them."

When the show was over, fans came by to get a closer look at the dozen sets of bones Danforth had brought and to ask him about his initiation into the art of bone play-

Last month alone, Danforth had 15 engagements. The bones, he said, "keep me kind of busy."

IPSEP received a $300 grant re-cently from the Plymouth Community Arts Council. Part of the money was used for the Christmas party and the rest will be used for other Grandma's and Grandpa's programs.

$2,000 helps tutor training

The Nissan Corp. has given the Community Literacy Council a donation of $1,000 to help offset costs for the recent English Speakers of Other Languages volunteer tutor training workshop.

Band heading for Bowl this week

The Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Marching Band will leave for Florida Wednesday.

The students, chaperones, staff and boosters will first fly to Orlando for a visit to Walt Disney World. While there they will visit Epcot Center Thursday and the Magic Kingdom Friday.

The PCEP Band will end its stay in the Magic Kingdom by marching in the spectacular Christmas Light Parade.

Early Saturday morning, the band will leave by bus for Miami and the Orange Bowl Parade on New Year's Eve.

More than 100 chaperones and band boosters will accompany the PCEP Band on its Florida trip. Arrangements have also been made to meet grandparents and other relatives and friends when in Florida.

This is the second time a Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Marching Band has appeared in an Orange Bowl Parade. In 1974 the Plymouth High School Band was selected to appear in the Parade.

Cholesterol tests set Wednesday

The Henry Ford Medical Center-Plymouth will offer a cholesterol screening 3-7 p.m. Wednesday. The cost of the test is $5.

The test, which takes only a couple of minutes, could save you from the clutches of this country's No. 1 between high cholesterol levels and heart disease. Knowing your cholesterol level will put you in a better position to fight this major health threat.

Those interested in having their cholesterol checked should call 4535600 to make an appointment.

This year heart disease will claim more lives than World War I, World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War put together, according to the American Heart Association.

Warehouse-store plan tabled for Omni Theatre site

Livonia officials who heard a plan Tuesday to build a 100,000-squarefoot warehouse-type store at the Farmington-Plymouth road inter-section said the store, if built, would sound the death knell for the stores in nearby Shelden Center.

The Livonia Planning Commission tabled until Feb. 7 a proposal by K mart Corp. to build a Mackro warehouse store east of Farmington and north of Plymouth, on a site once occupied by the Mai Kai the-

Attorney Charles Tangora asked the commissioners to approve rezoning a portion of the land from manufacturing to commercial so that the retail store could be built.

THE WAREHOUSE-TYPE store would be built by Detroit-based Weatherford-Walker, which developed Builder's Square on Plymouth Road, also for K mart.

The commissioners gave the proposed rezoning a lukewarm recep-

Omni Theatre for the Performing "I'VE BEEN watching Shelden Center draining away for years," commissioner Sue Sobolewski said. "If this came, they'd (the stores in Shelden Center) would be gone."

Commissioner Herman Kluver called the proposed store, patterned after a PACE warehouse-type operation, a "huge column operation which would bankrupt Sheldon."

The city would be "sticking its neck out" in putting more commercial zoning on Plymouth Road, commissioner William LaPine said. The city this year refused to approve a McDonald's restaurant on a piece of

'We don't need any more super developments along Plymouth Road," LaPine said.

The city should first decide how to use the Mai Kai before considering any proposed development, commis-sioner Jack Engebretson said.

Commissioner Brenda Lee Brandri said she would rather see the Mai Kai demolished than to see a 100,000-square-foot commercial building at the intersection.

WHILE THE developer had "no use for the Mai Kai," Tangora said Weatherford-Walker would consider keeping the building if the city wanted to keep it as a theater.

The south portion of the 23 acres. the Mai Kai's parking lot, is already zoned commercial.

The developer is seeking the re-zoning from manufacturing (M1) to commercial of the northern portion on which the Mai Kai sits.

A theater was an allowable use for a M1 zoning when the zoning was first adopted, Livonia city planner John Nagy said.

IF BUILT, the Mackro store would be the second large warehouse-type structure on Plymouth Road within a half-mile. Builder's Square, which Tangora said was "not quite 100,000 square feet," is across from the Wonderland Mall.

The commissioners tabled the rezoning request until Feb. 7 to study both the amount of commercial space available on Plymouth Road and the impact the warehouse would have on other commercial development on Plymouth Road.

Because a wetlands area exists on the land, the DNR would have to give approval to any project, either commercial or industrial, planned for the land, Nagy said.

The Livonia City Council also must approve the rezoning.

Early next year, Livonia's planning commission will hold a public hearing on whether the city should rezone the 23 acres for a researchengineering type of development rather than commercial.

State names 13 area sites to waste list

they

Thirteen area locations are on preliminary lists of environmental contamination sites recently released by the state's Department of Natural Resources. The final lists will be submitted to the state Legislature in February or March for budget approval for fiscal year 1990, which begins next Oct. 1.

Five of the sites are low-level threats and no clean up is planned. Cleanup is complete or nearing completion at three other sites. Cleanups at the other five are in various stages, and none is considered a serious health threat, according to the DNR ranking sustems.

Money approved in November by voters on ballot Proposal C will be used to clean some of the sites. The bond proposal will generate $425 million for cleanup, of which up to $40 million may be spent the first year, according to Gary Klepper, chief of the site assessment unit of

Gov. James Blanchard will make budget recommendations based on the final list. There are 2.050 sites on the current lists, up from the 1,762 on the priority lists for fiscal year

The 13 area sites are ranked in two divisions — group 1 and group 2. Sites in the first group have been more fully assessed as to the nature of the contaminants and the possible health threat, with the sites being ranked on a scale of 0-2,000, the higher the ranking the worse the problem. In practice, said Klepper, the maximum rating is about 1,150.

Group 2 sites have undergone less assessment. Initial screening in most cases indicates more modest threat levels. In other cases, little is yet known of the contaminant and further study is warranted. The rating here is on a 1-15 scale.

There are five methods of contamination - groundwater, surface water, air, fire and explosion, and direct contact. The ratings reflect the methods of contamination at a site, the nature of the contaminant, and

The lists are open for public review and comment until Jan. 13. Comments on the sites, or sugges-tions for additions, can be made in writing to: Department of Natural Resources, Environmental Response Division, Remedial Action Section, Site Assessment Unit, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

The lists have been drawn up annually since the Michigan Environmental Response Act was passed in 1982. Since then, emergency response has been made at 434 sites, with funding of $34.5 million. Investigation has begun at 49 other sites, with funding so far of $16.3 million.

Group 1 sites include: Canton Township:

• Trilex Plating and Polishing -The company is out of business, its owners retired and its building torn down. The site, at Sheldon and Yost roads, had a contamination rating of 605 and ranked fifth of 11 Wayne County sites in Group 1. Surface water and soil had been contaminated with chromium nickel, lead zinc and cyanide copper. Owners have done site clean up and are awaiting final DRN approval to be removed from

• K & J Landfill - This landfill on Lilly Road south of Michigan operated from 1969-77. Surface and groundwater were contaminated with phenol cadmium, chromium lead and zinc, leading to a score of 440. According to the DNR, there is no "viable owner" to go after for clean-up. Since nearby domestic wells show no contamination and the health threat is minor, the case is inactive pending clean-up at more dangerous sites. Ranked eighth of 11 county sites.

Group 2 sites are:

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has pinpointed 13-area contamination sites in its annual report. The state is determining which of the 2,050 sites statewide will get the first tanks. A cleanup plan has been submitted to the DNR for approval. Rated 8 on a 1-15 scale. Of the 60 B sites in Wayne County, 30 received 3's and none was ranked higher.

• Chevrolet plant - Chromium and nickel had leaked from aboveground tanks at site (Eckles, off Plymouth Road). Company has cleaned the site and is awaiting final testing. Rated an 8.

• Munoz Machine Products -Grease and oil from heavy manufacturing at the site (12375 Merriman) leaked into the soil. Company officials say they will have the site cleaned before final site list is sent to the Legislature for approval in February or March. Rated at 7.

• Cooper Elementary School -Just two of 60 sites were rated as low as 2, and this is one of them. Located at 28611 Ann Arbor Trail, some light domestic garbage was once landfilled onto the site. "About the most dangerous thing you'll find there is an old lady's broach and some old clothing. Maybe a milk bottle," said Gerry Nowak, an analyst with the state DNR in Lansing. No cleanup needed and case is inactive.

The holidays should be a happy time for a five-year-old.

Last year, Sadie had her best Christmas ever. She spent it in the warm, familiar home of the family that raised her since

But this year things are different.

Two weeks ago, her family moved away. They packed up everything but an old couch that they dropped off at a neighbor's house. And Sadie, whom they dropped off at the Michigan Humane Society.

Now she's without a home.

But Sadie's got another problem. She's not a pup anymore. Though well-mannered and housebroken, to a prospective owner she's not as desirable. At five, she's already considered an older dog.

Unfortunately, Sadie's case isn't unique. Every year, the MHS takes in over 40,000 homeless animals just like her.

But, despite that fact, we refuse to treat her as a statistic. Statistics don't like to have their bellies rubbed or chase tennis balls. And statistics don't whimper at night from being lonely in a strange place. But dogs like Sadie do.

The hard truth is that the number of animals, young or old, waiting for adoption continues to be greater than the number of people waiting to adopt them.

And that's where you come in.

We need people like you to give Sadie and animals like her what they really need this Christmas-a warm and caring home.

Or you can do the next best thing. Make a generous holiday donation to the MHS. Because it's only through your support that we can shelter and care for the countless animals that come to us every year. Your support helps us find them the homes they desperately need.

The holidays should be a happy time for a five-year-old. And with your help, they can be.

He has to think about it soon, but running for Democratic state chairman wasn't high on F. Thomas Lewand's agenda last week.

"I have not set up a campaign. I haven't made a decision. I'm giving it some thought. I've heard the rumors," Lewand said in an interview from his car phone late one evening.

"I'm not campaigning yet. I'd have to talk to a lot of people in the party," said the 42-year-old Oakland County attorney and confidant of Gov. James J. Blanchard.

POLITICAL COLUMNISTS in Lansing say Blanchard is boosting Lewand for the post, almost assuring his election at next month's Democratic State Convention.

Lewand was close to then-U.S. Rep. Blanchard in the 1970s. Then a Royal Oak resident, Lewand won his first and only election victory for the county Board of Commissioners in 1978. Two years later he was the party's challenger to County Executive Dan Murphy.

Jet crash tragedy strikes area families

While investigators continued searching the wreckage of Pan Am Flight 103, seeking clues as to the jumbo jet's fiery descent last Wednesday into a Scottish village, local families, friends and co-workers paused to remember those lost in the crash.

The crash touched hundreds of lives throughout the metropolitan area. Detroit Metropolitan Airport was the final destination of the flight, which began in Frankfurt, West Germany, and crashed in Lockerbie, Scotland.

All 258 people on board were killed. Thirteen current or past Michigan residents were among those killed. At least 10 people on the ground also lost their lives.

OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC Newspapers area residents killed in the crash included:

• James R. Fuller, 50, of Bloomfield Hills, vice president in charge of Volkswagen United States.

Fuller, married and the father of two teenage children, was described as a well-rounded person whose passions ran from gourmet cooking to automobile racing. Volkswagen spokesman Thomas McDonald, a close friend, recalled Fuller drove the pace car in support races at the last two Detroit Grand Prix races.

'All of our employees are in shock and disbelief that this could happen so close to home." McDonald said.

• Lou Marengo, 33, of Rochester

Hills, executive assistant to Volkswagen of America vice president Both men were returning from a routine trip to company headquarters in Wolfsburg, West Germany, said Jay Amestoy, manager of the company's United States' public relations department.

"We're just stunned and griefstricken by this whole thing as are the families, and we are doing everything we can to assist the families," Amestoy said.

Marengo, who is survived by a wife and three young children, was remembered during Sunday services at St. Andrew's Catholic Church, Ro-

"He was a family man of strong personality, character and humanity," the Rev. Eugene Strain wrote in a newsletter distributed to parishioe LaWanna Thomas, 21, and her 3-month-old son, Jonathon.

Thomas, an Air Force sergeant stationed in West Germany, was recalled by her parents, Eugene and Lelia Coleman of Southfield, as a fun-loving, warm person who would go out of her way to help others.

"SHE TRIED to do things to help people, to cheer them up when they were feeling down," Leila Coleman said. "When they needed a favor, she was always there."

It was to have been the family's first meeting with their grandchild. Also killed in the crash was Greg Kosmowski, 40, vice-president of market development at Lucas Indus-

"His integrity, sense of humor, and commitment were evident to his colleagues at all levels of the organization," said E.B. Wootten, Lucas Industries president and chief executive officer.

The death toll also included 38 Syracuse University students. The Four Tops, an internationally famous singing group associated with Motown Records, formerly of Detroit, were scheduled to be on the flight but were rescheduled after a television taping ran late.

gineer for Robert Bosch Crop., Farmington Hills, was also booked and scheduled to return on Pan Am Flight 103.

But the Farmington Hills resident rescheduled his flight when he didn't complete his business in Stuttgart, West Germany.

"I didn't hear about the plane crash until the next morning when I came into work. I asked (co-workers) 'What's wrong?'

"'You were going to take that flight,' they said. 'The plane went down and everyone aboard is dead." 'My stomach went to my feet," Blewett said. Todd LeGere, 24, of Farmington Hills was also believed to be aboard the flight but later arrived safely at Metro on another flight.

His mother, Jackie LeGere, and 18-year-old brother, Trevor, "lived through a living hell" for more than two hours Wednesday, not knowing if he was aboard ill-fated Flight 103.

"I found out what flight he was on (Pan Am Flight 55) when he drove up in a van about 20 after six

Learning about autism isn't a laughing matter

NOW I remember why I prefer watching movies at home, on videocassette, instead of in a movie the-

We went to see "Rain Man" Sunday night at a local theater. The littie things — watching the better part of a $20 bill evaporate for two tickets, popoorn and pop, and then wading through garbage-strewn alsies to find soda-soaked seats didn't bother me.

And, oddly enough, no one talked through the movie.

They laughed. That's the problem.
"Rain Man" takes us through a week in the life of Raymond Babbitt, a high-functioning autistic savant played by Dustin Hoffman. Raymotif has a gift for numbers and numerical sequences. One in 10 autistic people are savants.

AN AUTISTIC person has sensory problems that block messages from the external world. Consequently, they live in a world only they can see; A savant is an eminent scholar who borders on genius in some

Some autistic people are savants, a feat all the more remarkable because their talents are natural—they never studied. Some can faithfully recreate classical piano pieces after hearing them only once. Others remember everything they've ever read, frequently word-for-word.

Raymond's gift is working with numbers. In one restaurant scene, a waitress spills a box of toothpicks. Raymond looks down at them for two or three seconds, and then says 246 toothpicks are on the floor. Tom Cruise, who plays Raymond's brother Charlie, asks the waitress how many toothpicks were in the box. She looks and says 250. Charlie smiles and chides Raymond for being wrong. Then the waitress points out there still are four toothpicks in the box.

You're supposed to smile at lines like that.

But I'm not sure why everyone laughed when a fire detector went off and Raymond couldn't find his way out of the room. In another scene, Raymond got scared and started hitting himself in the temples with the heels of his hands. And the audience laughed harder.

IT WAS EMBARRASSING. Maybe autistic people don't know the difference between reality and fantasy, but this audience didn't know the difference between sadness and slapstick. Maybe it wasn't really laughter. Perhaps it was just a nervous response to some very unsettling scenes.

I'll give those people the benefit of the doubt on that point. It's entirely possible that through the miracle of television, they've never read about autism. They only receive information, spoon-fed, from a screen in their living rooms.

They live in a world all their own.

Will law shed light?

. THE STATE Legislature played a nice little trick on the Big Four when it passed the transportation reorgan-

The Big Four, you'll recall, are the Oakland and Wayne county executives, the mayor of Detroit and the chairman of the Macomb County board. In recent years, they have come together sporadically, behind closed doors, to pow-wow over major issues affecting the region.

jor issues affecting the region.

At their request, the Legislature made the Big Four the new Regional Transportation Council, replacing the 15-member board of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority tion Authority.

Well, the RTC is a public body empowered by state law to exercise governmental authority. It is governed by the Open Meetings Act.

erned by the Open Meetings Act.
And since the Big Four are the RTC, they come under the Open
Meetings Act. It's that simple.

The Open Meetings Act provides only a short list of things that a public body can discuss behind closed doors. Even when it closes the doors, the public body must keep minutes and can't vote in secret.

DAN MURPHY, the Oakland County executive, is aware of the forthcoming change. I talked to him about it. It doesn't bother him.

"Dan's the most open guy there is," says one of his colleagues, correctly.

Ed McNamara, the Wayne County executive, is much the same.

But Detroit Mayor Coleman Young? That's another matter. As a mayor, he doesn't deal with the Open Meetings Act, but he has some strong views on the Freedom of Information Act — all negative.

Young let the economic development director go to jail before revealing public information.

This year Young let the city attorney go to jail for hiding records about the $40 million hosing the city took on buying and selling machinery in the Chrysler land deal.

ery in the Chrysler land deal.

Over the weekend, two city chemists who work in the sewage treatment plant were punished for giving technical papers at a meeting of the Detroit River Bi-National Public Advisory Council without prior city approval.

The chemists contended it was all public information anyway. Tough luck. They were suspended for three days

It will be interesting to see Young's attitude when and if he realizes the Big Four must meet in public as of the day in January the RTC act becomes law.

NEWSPAPERS, this one included, found themselves printing clarifications about reports on the state Legislature's closing days, Dec. 6-8.

The Legislature let bills pile up and passed things in a rush in the closing hours.

The Senate, in its final session, took 182 roll call votes compared to 741 in the rest of the entire year. The House took 160 roll call votes — Rep. Lyn Bankes of Livonia said it was a one-day record — compared to 909 for the rest of year.

The Senate gave 53 bills final passage on the final day. The House gave 108 bills final passage. Together, 31 percent of all bills passed by both chambers for the year came during the final day.

Why? A lot of it is screw-around games: I won't pass your chicken bill unless you pass my widget bill. A lot is sloppy work habits, particularly among House leaders who tend to put off everything to the last minute.

I FELT particularly sad for the women seeking laws to allow them to do day-care work in their homes despite local zoning ordinances. To accomplish their goal, they needed three separate bills — one each to amend city, township and county laws.

During its final 21-hour day, the Senate failed to concur in House amendments, and the city zoning bill failed. Unless the Senate acts on it during its formal adjournment session Dec. 29, those women will have wasted two years of work.

CBE wants improvement

To the editor

I agree with your editorial of Dec. 8 that Plymouth-Canton residents should wake up about their school system and look at what's happening. That's exactly what members of CBE are doing, and we don't like what we see.

what we see.

What is it that you and a minority of others are so afraid of that CBE is doing? We are concerned residents that want our schools to be a better place to school our children. Why is it that our ideas are narrow (as you see it) and yours are correct? Where are you coming from, Observer?
This is America, remember?

What is it that CBE stands for — high moral conduct in our schools, traditional values in our schools, parental involvement in our schools, and a voice in the decision-making

Is this something to be feared by your paper? I don't think it is. We are using our money and efforts to bring about community awareness of what is going on in our school system. These are issues that concern us and we don't feel that your paper nor our school administrators are effectively addressing these concerns.

CBE has not overlooked that schools are designed to educate students with various religious backgrounds. We have done nothing and I repeat nothing to conflict with any other religious groups, outside of satan worshippers. After all, our children have rights, too.

In a world and school system where morals are deteriorating, crime in our schools is skyrocketing, and a time where teenage suicide is epidemic, I think it is time that we say "Wow, something is wrong" and take a serious look at what it is. CBE is trying to do that and we need your support, not fear, to help us with this

We are simple, God-fearing Christians that are peacefully trying to make an impact on the future of our community and America. We are down-home, average folks that love our children, love our community, love our country, and most of all love our God. Don't fear us, help us; we are concerned people.

Jerry L. Raymor

Senior seeks CBE info

To the editor:

As a tax-paying senior citizen of the Plymouth-Canton community schools, I am deeply disturbed by the erroneous attacks leveled by the spokesperson (Diane Daskalaskis) for the Citizens for Better Education, a Christian activist group.

I would appreciate the following information (with proof).

 Names of schools, teachers and books that allegedly teach our children witchcraft, satanism, homosexuality and promiscuous behavior.

2. Produce a full list of your membership of 2,300 and how many members are past and/or potential school board candidates? Please include any and all public servants.

3. Is your group (cult) closed to non-Christian or any minorities?

I read into your charges, motives that I believe the citizenry will surely see. By using fear, false information and political avarice, you fully intend to destructively undermine, dictate and control the board, thus the educational system. Throughout the ages, cultures have been persuaded, by self-appointed messiahs, into believing their opinionated interpretation of events, theories and social ideas.

Forewarned is forearmed.

Who is that photographer?

To the editor:

Regarding your staff photographer, Bill Bresler: Who is this guy, anyway? His unconventional camera angles and ability to capture truly natural expressions give your paper a special dimension of creativity.

I hope his "slice of life" shots grace the Observer for a long time to come.

J. Harrison, Plymouth

Additional strain accumulates when you sit longer in cars during winter traffic jams. Consider too, the careful way you must walk outdoors to avoid a fall, and the effort your hands make in opening storm doors against a strong, cold wind.

Elevate your spirits

It was evident that we were dealing with a novice.

Not being one to enjoy the bubbly nature of champagne, it was necessary for me to get out of the habit of buying $2.99 bottles of the stuff and to raise my consciousness of the effervescent grape to new heights. Could one spend more than $3 and truly find the difference? Oui, Oui!

For those of you who, like myself, thought of champagne as something we picked up on the way home from buying lunch meat, bread and milk for the kids' lunches, boy, will you be surprised.

Champagne is the sparkling wine produced in the Champagne district of France, the area some 90 miles northeast of Paris, surrounding the village of Epernay, the city of Reims and a number of other small communities.

It is made from certain grapes - mainly the Pinot Noir and the Chardonnay. These are the same grapes used to make Burgundy. Traditional champagne is made from the black grape of the Pinot Noir whose skins are removed from the fermenting juice before the pigment can be leached out and darken the wine. The modern trend is toward Blanc de Blanc white wine from white grapes (Sacre Dom Perignon!) although they must be made entirely from the white Chardonnay. But in all cases, true champagne is produced entirely from the Champagne District. By the the way, the stuff I call champagne that costs about $3 a bottle is really sparkling wine. Although labeled champagne, it cannot be called such in Europe. Such are the laws outside the Common Market.

CHAMPAGNE WAS first introduced way back in the 17th century by Dom Perignon, a Benedictine monk who was the cellarmaster at the abbey of Hautvillers. He and the grape growers of the region were aware that wines with a slight natural sparkle resulted from the second fermentation of the grapes that occurred in the spring following the fall harvest.

The sparkle, or petillance as it is still called, was a pleasant surprise. It added a special quality to the wine. Corks were not yet invented then and, unfortunately, to put it bluntly, the fizzle soon went flat. However, the wine was still sought after, and eventually brother Dom, after trying wood and cotton stoppers without great success, discovered that corks were effective when secured in the bottles by string. It is also said that the good monk was responsible for having bottles made of heavier glass to prevent them from exploding under pressure during the second fermentation.

It is this second fermentation that is the crucial step in making champagne. When making still wine, the bottling usually takes place long after the second fermentation so the bubbles are never captured. By the way, those bubbles that seem to give everyone the giggles are only the carbon dioxide gas that is a natural byproduct of fermentation. Because champagne is bottled prior to the second fermentation, the entire process is much more complex than the production of still wine. Would you believe that still existing today there is the remuage or manual twisting and shaking of the bottles in the cellars cut deep into the soil of Reims and Epernay. That's one of the reasons you won't find imported French champagne at under $3 per bottle. Gee, the cost of labor nowa-

Menu calls for caviar

By Geri Rinschler special writer

OHN MCCARTHY, co-owner of Detroit's chic Whitney Restaurant, says, "Caviar and champagne are two words which are synonymous with

The Whitney is one of a half dozen or so restaurants in the metropolitan area whose caviar sales are increasing. As a matter of fact, the Whitney even offers a separate caviar menu - a fact that surely boasts of the delicacy's renewed popularity.

Metro Detroit is not the only place where caviar is a leading food trend. New York has a growing number of caviar bars. Petrossian (of Paris), the leading Russian caviar importer, has opened Petrossian-Rendezvous on the sixth floor of Chicago's new Bloomingdales'. Like the New York Petrossian, the Chicago restaurant has a menu including beluga, sevruga and osetra caviar varieties as well as smoked fish dishes.

Sound enticing? Well, if you're thinking about trying a bit of Russian caviar, you may be in for a bit of a shock. A typical 30-gram serving in a restaurant will cost anvwhere from $45 to $75. Thirty grams, by the way, will almost fill two soup spoons.

Before you venture out to sample some or invest in this precious commodity for your New Year's Eve celebration, there are a few things you should know.

FIRST OF ALL, caviar is the processed salted roe or eggs of various species of sturgeon.

There is an American caviar, which is related to the classic Russian sturgeons, producing limited amounts with a somewhat different taste. The Whitney offers an American sampler on its caviar menu - golden whitefish roe, Western salmon and American sturgeon, at about one third the cost of the Russian varieties.

Chinese caviar or keluga is the newest variety on the market. It is distributed by California Sunshine Fine Foods under the label Tsar Nicoulai. It is presently unavailable in Michigan at retail outlets. I was fortunate to sample some recently at the grand opening of Williams-Sonoma at Troy's Somerset Mall.

Caviar from Mandarin beluga and osetra sturgeons grown in China's Amur River has a nutty flavor. This caviar ranges from dark gray to green-gray, and the price is much lower than the Russian.

Having sampled the American and Russian varieties recently at the Whitney, I have to agree with the majority of caviar connoisseurs, the Russian beluga is outstanding by comparison. But, the question remains, is fresh Russian beluga caviar worth what consumers must pay? Beluga is $49 for 30 grams, osetra is $25. Before making any conclusions logical or otherwise, let's look at the facts.

REMOVING ROE from a fish is a painstaking process. After the eggs are removed by hand they are forced through a cotton sieve, rinsed, drained and salted. The salting process is an art in itself. It's not until the salt is added that the roe becomes caviar.

Russian sampler at the Whitney restaurant in Detroit has three kinds of caviar - beluga, osetra and sevruga, served with fine egg yolk, fine egg white, capers and chopped parsley. In center is cucumber with sour cream. Cost is $85 a plate. The restaurant, which has a separate caviar menu, also offers an American sampler.

Champagne, served up with style

By Richard Watson special writer

One of the great tribal rituals of the late 1900s in America centers around the selecting, storing, chilling, opening, serving and consuming a a bottle of champagne (note the use of the lower-case 'c' to denote generic reference throughout. Champagne refers to the even more ritualistic French product of a defined geographical region).

Many argue that such conventions are necessary and useful. After all, champagne is difficult to make. somewhat adventuresome to serve and an unbounded joy to drink. Its production is steeped in history, dating back as it does into the early part of this millenium.

Most families feel that, for the holiday season, at least one celebratory bottle is in order. After all, 80 percent of the stuff leaves local wine store shelves in the month of Decem-

If you are among this group, let's do it right. The tradition-bound holidays we are in are no time to be innovative. And there is much wisdom in most of the practices followed. If champagne has been around for 700 plus years, there must be something

SELECTING. There is no wine with a greater price range: from two for $5 to well in excess of $100 per bottle. Most choices come from France (probably the finest and costliest), Germany, Spain, New York, California, Australia, the list goes on. Best advice is to determine what amount you want to spend and then take your trustworthy wine merchant's advice. He probably hasn't drunk them all personally but he knows what sells. That can't be all bad.

STORING. Whether for a year or for a week, the same rules hold. Keep the bottle on its side (thus keeping the cork moist and tight) in a cool, dark place, one preferably stable and secure to reduce the probability of explosion. Kept thus, all quality champagne has an amazing life span, far exceeding most white ture of wine, as with any food, tends to decrease most of its flavors. With champagne, that is most desirable because it is at its best with just hints of fruit and yeast flavors. You want it to be very delicate, not obtrusive in your mouth. A half hour in the freezer, no more, or a couple hours in the refrigerator bring its temperature down sufficiently. Preferred manner of chilling: it always seems to taste better when thrust vigorously into a massive snowdrift and served with the snow still adhering to the bottle. My wife swears this to be true.

Once-frozen champagne can be slowly thawed with little loss in quality. But do not open the bottle with it still frozen. Boom, maybe!

SERVING. Champagne is a "muscle wine" at this point. After removing the foil and the wire band it is unavoidably time to remove the cork if you are to have any. A slow, continuous twist motion is in order, working the two hands in opposite working the two hands in opposite directions. The goal is to extract the cork with a minimum of "jop," thereby reducing the loss of presents quickly and decreasing the probability of overflow (most messay and wasteful). A piler-type tool is sometimes helpful to loses the cork initially but use the bare hand for the final extraction; you have better control.

This is great poured over cake, ice cream or whatever.

CHAMPAGNE MOUSSE 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin 14 cups champagne

1 cup sugar 4 egg whites 2 cups whipped cream

Soften gelatin in 1/2 cup champagne. Stir over warm water until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Then add this to the remaining champagne and sugar in a large mixing bowl. Chill just until mixture begins to thicken. Then beat until foamy. Beat egg whites in another bowl until stiff but not dry. Beat beaten whites into the champagne mixture until smooth and glossy. Fold in whipped cream and pour into a lightly oiled 11/4 quart mold. Chill until firm. Great with melba sauce.

CHAMPAGNE PUNCH 1 6-ounce can frozen pineapple juice 1 cup lime juice 1 cup rum

2 liters pale dry ginger ale 1 bottle brut champagne

Combine and mix. Garnish with frozen juice ring.

Beluga, the largest sturgeon in the Caspian Sea, does not bear roe until the fish is about 20 years old. The color of the beluga caviar ranges from light gray to dark gray. Its flavor is sweet and delicate and is often described as having a pearl-like Osetra roe is about half the size of the beluga and costs about 10 percent Jess. Generally, this caviar has a more nutlike flavor and has a dark gold or brown coloring.

The sevruga has the most distinctive flavor of the three, with a more pronounced walnut flavor. This sturgeon produces roe when it is about seven years old and is usually a dark gray to nearly black color. Like the sevruga, it costs about 20 percent less than fresh beluga.

It's important to note that the Russian sturgeon are only harvested twice a year, once in the early spring and again in late fall.

DUE TO its delicate nature, fresh caviar must be refrigerated constantly between 28 and 32 degrees. Shops like Petrossian in New York and the local Merchant of Vino have refrigerated cases designed specifically for their caviar.

There are other caviars on the market that have been pasteurized and can often be found in glass jars in the gourmet section at your local grocery store for a fraction of the cost of fresh Russian beluga. If this is the only caviar you've ever tried, the difference between the two is phenomenal.

Most food authorities and aficionados suggest that caviar be served chilled on a bed of ice and preferably avoiding metal or silver utensils. McCarthy says that although porcelain spoons are prefera-ble they're not readily available.

At the Whitney, as well as at other fine restaurants in the area such as Van Dyke Place in Detroit or the Golden Mushroom in Southfield, caviar is served elegantly and with the classical garnishes of toast points. finely chopped egg white and yolk, and capers. McCarthy also points out, "Only champagne and chilled vodka should accompany the cavi-

You've probably noticed there are few recipes that incorporate the use of caviar, basically because of its delicate nature. Elwin Greenwald. executive chef of the Van Dyke Place, advises,"Caviar should never be put into a hot sauce on the stove but only folded in gently at serving time. When caviar comes in contact with heat, the shells burst."

IN DISHES such as a Salmon Roulade, Chef Greenwald prefers using an osetra caviar. He said. "In a dish like a roulade the caviar is not the focal point of the dish, just one of the ingredients." He prefers using a salmon caviar in dishes such as his Coeur a la Creme with salmon caviar and other cheese appetizers because of its brilliant color. "He also recommends that the caviar be stored at home in a polystyrene cooler in the refrigerator because it is best when kept cold and dry.

Never, never, never add anything to a decent champagne. So delicate is the stuff that any foreign matters (including ice) destroy its essence. If you must adulterate it use the cheapest you can buy: the two for $5 is just fine. It bubbles even at that price.

The choice of glasses in which to pour it is critical. Never use the semi-flat sauciers. These permit the bubbles to dissipate quickly. A tall, somewhat chilled (but not frozen) flute-shaped glass is preferred, pouring the champagne along the side to Tis the season to be jolly?

If you're North Farmington boys basketball coach Tom Negoshian, it is.

The Raiders, who struggled most of the month of December, gave themselves a nice present Thursday, opening Lakes Division play in the Western Lakes Activities Association with a 69-63 victory at Livonia Ste-

Junior forward Brian Temple gave Negoshian plenty of comfort and joy. He turned in his best effort of the season, scoring a game-high 21 points.

"As a junior you can't ask for anything more," Negoshian said. "He hit four clutch free throws at the end and made a couple of three-pointers."

Sophomore forward Chris White and junior pointguard Matt Hoffman (still rounding into shape after sitting out the first three games with a bad ankle), added 15 points each. Eric Detter, another junior, contributed 10 points off the bench.

'We're 3-3 (record) and now we can get Matt (Hoffman) back into therapy for his ankle (injury) and he'll come back quicker and better after the holidays," said the North coach. "I'm really happy and pleased. We beat a team that's having a good year.

STEVENSON WENT into the game confident and sporting a 4-1 record, but the Spartans were guilty of missing layups and free throws (nine of 24).

North, meanwhile, feasted at the free throw line, making 20 of 26. Temple was eight of nine, Hoffman seven of 10 and White five of six.

"We had our chances, but not very many," said Stevenson coach Jim McIntyre. "What I told my team after the game is that they should be thankful they had the opportunities that they missed. We had shots that we

"North went to the line too many times and had too many shots. That's not our game."

The Spartans played "their game" early, jumping out to a 20-12 first-quarter advantage.

But the Raiders railied to tie the game at 28-all on a basket by White with 1:38 to go before intermission.

STEVENSON'S SCOTT Kosikowski, a senior forward, then scored five of his team-high 17 points in the final minute to give the Spartans a 35-30 halftime.

But the Spartans couldn't stand prosperity as North, behind Temple's 10 points, inched closer by the close of three quarters, 48-47.

The charging Raiders eventually built a nine-point cushion early in the fourth quarter, 58-49, when Temple made a pair of free throws after Stevenson's 6-foot-6, 270-pound center Mike Vrooman (16 points) was nailed for a technical foul (slapping the blackboard).

But to the Spartans' credit, they didn't quit. Stepping up the pressure, Stevenson clawed back and tied the game with only 27 seconds to go, 63-all, on a three-point bomb by Kosikowski.

But North answered 14 seconds later off the fastbreak when 6-6 Eric Carlson scored a layup thanks to a

The Raiders then got some glad tidings when Stevenson's Ron Baran (12 points) called a timeout when the Spartans didn't have any left at the 10-seconds mark.

TEMPLE SHOT THE technical foul, making both ends to put the game away. The Raiders also got the ball out of bounds, as Detter scored with four seconds left to make the final margin six.

"The kids executed the plays well when we had to come back, but we just miss-communicated (calling the timeout) at the wrong time," McIntyre said. "Normally, calling a timeout at that time is a smart move. Normally, it gives you a chance to set something up." Negoshian also contemplated calling timeout after Kosikowski tied the score.

"There's two philosophies you can use in that situation," said the North coach. "One philosophy it to call time out and set something up, but then you set their defense up as well. The other is not call time out and can get the ball up.

"They double-teamed Matt (Hoffman) and he hit White in the middle. By then we had a three-on-two break and wasn't going to stop my guys at that point."

The defeat gives McIntyre time to reevaluate his

"Maybe this will make us a better ballclub the next time we get into a close game," said the Stevenson

Body-slammed

North Farmington, Canton drop duals

Westland John Glenn's wrestling team handled North Farmington easily Thursday, winning 48-

Glenn captured eight of the 12 matches, with six of the wins coming on pins.

Registering falls for Glenn were: Scott Lefler (103); Tony Pietrzyk (112); Karl Pace (119); Eric Ewing (125); Nate Kemppainen (135); Rob Matigian (140); Mike McKinney (152); Kraig Kuban (160) and Dereck Tharp (180).

North's wins came from Lucian Van Cleave (130), V.J. Matul (145), Jeff Jacobs (171) and heavyweight Zaim Cunmulaj.

PLYMOUTH CANTON is still looking for its first dual-meet wrestling win of the season, and the Chiefs certainly weren't going to get it Thursday against Northville.

Northville happens to be one of the area's best

Plymouth Canton continued its struggle Thursday under first-year coach Ray Kossakowski, losing a 46-21 match to the more experienced Mus-

Northville won the first five matches and nine

Canton's first win came from Liam Rentz, who pinned Kevin Delaney at 140 pounds in 1:10. Jim Yack (145) recorded the next Chiefs' triumph, defeating Kurt Cureta, 3-1.

Canton's only other win came from Jeff Huff who pinned Sean Payne in 3:30 in the 160-pound division, and heavyweight Mike Kelly, who also recorded a pin.

GARDEN CITY, a young wrestling squad, learned a couple of rough lessons Tuesday in a quad meet at Dearborn Fordson.

The Cougars beat Redford Thurston easily, 49-24, but lost a pair of close meets to Royal Oak Dondero, 35-33, and Fordson, 39-35.

The 1-2 evening left GC with a 2-6 overall mark. "We're young and improving tremendously," said Cougar coach Phil Freeman. "We're just one step behind where we should be at this time."

In the win over Thurston, GC won seven matches in a row after the Eagles captured the first two. The Cougars' Dan Dusek (119-pound weight class), Tony Gentilia (135) and Mike De-Berry all won on voids. Jim Horvath (125) defeated Jeff Romain 8-2, Scott Claus (130) pinned Jim Ryan in 2:06, P.J. Schillaci beat Jason Jeffords 12-2 and Russ Hawkins pinned Ross Papley in

Other GC winners were Howie Boucha (189), on a pin of Matt Fodal in 1:34, and Ken Hamilton (heavyweight), on a pin of Rich Dary in 1:15.

Thurston winners were Mario Scicluna (103), on a pin of Keith Allerholz in 1:10; Jed Kramer (112), on a pin of Darryl Dzendzel in 3:21; Matt Nagel (160), on a pin of Ray Wyn in 3:20; and Steve Koss (171), on a pin of Bill Sellers in 1:00.

The Cougars had six winners against Dondero. Dzendzel (112), Gentilia (135), Schillaci (145) and Boucha (189) all won on pins, and Hamilton (heavyweight) beat Jeff Kurz 2-0. Hawkins (152) won on a void Against Fordson, GC had five wins on pins and another on a 17-0 technical fall. Ted Larkin (103), Schillaci (145), Hawkins (152), Sellers (171) and Hamilton (heavyweight) all succeeded on pins, while Horvath (119) was the technical fall victor. LIVONIA STEVENSON won the final five matches Tuesday to defeat Redford Union 43-25.

The meet was even until the Spartan surge. It started with Kurt Will's technical fall over Eric Buckberry in the 152 weight division. Mark Gibson (160) then pinned John Platt in 1:50; Todd Rockwell (171) got a 13-0 superior decision over Dan Laskey; Matt Siadak (189) pinned Joe Battaglia in 2:50; and Brett Harvey (heavyweight) pinned George Debates in 3:30.

Other Stevenson winners were Brian Bercy (103), on a pin of David Stoddard in 1:40; Brian Rais (130), on a 10-0 major fall against Tracy Berry; Tony Fsadni (135), on a pin of Jon Provenzola in 1:57; and Chris Woodbeck (140) on a void.

RU's winners were: Ray Certa (112), on a pin of Wayne Krauss in 3:00; Craig LeTourneau (119), 8-4 over Tony Sierra; Mike Bianchi (125), on a pin of Bo Diamond in 2:30; and Chris Stoddard (145), on a 10-2 decision over Doug Carmack.

Turnaround

Churchill corrals Mustangs with big 2nd half

Jason Belaire scored nine of his game-high 15 points in the fourth quarter Thursday, leading Livonia Churchill to a 56-46 boys basketball win at Northville

The win opened the Western Division campaign for the Chargers, now 3-4 overall.

Northville slipped to 0-1 and 3-3. Heath Meyers led Northville with 13 points and Joe Kaley contributed 11. The Chargers trailed 26-14 at halftime, but outscored the Mustangs 21-5 in the third quarter to lead 35-31. Mike Juodawlkis scored nine points and Mike Picha had six for Churchill in the third Churchill made 23 of 31 free throws for the game and made adjustments at halftime to get Belaire more into the flow of the game.

"Their game plan worked," Price said. "They played a box-and-one on Belaire and took us out. We did not give up. We moved Jason on the block and tried to readjust."

Churchill's balanced scoring included 14 points from Picha, 12 from Juodawlkis and 10 from Chad Campau.

"We got good support from the bench and on the floor," Price added. "Picha and Ryan Polny rebounded well, and our guards Dale Coller and Alex Bedaway helped off the bench.

"They played really together and it was a good victory for us."

JOHN GLENN 61, FARMINGTON 59: A fourth-quarter Farmington rally Thursday wasn't enough against host Westland John Glenn, which won the Lakes Division opener.

Glenn improved to 3-4 overall. Farmington, winless in six games, outscored Glenn 21-11 in the final quarter after trailing 50-38.

Casey Killingbeck led three Rockets in double figures with 17 points. Andre Dixon and Bobby Lawrence scored 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Farmington's Mike Myers led all scorers with 21 points and teammate Chris Schmid had 14, including WAYNE 64, LINCOLN PARK 51: Leonard Wade scored 20 points and Tony Rumple added 19, leading Wayne Memorial to the lopsided Wolverine A League win Thursday at Lincoln Park.

Wayne (5-1 overall and 2-1 in the Wolverine) led only 23-18 at halftime but pushed the lead to 44-32 after three quarters.

The Zebras never relinquished the lead against the Railsplitters, who stumbled to 4-2 overall and 0-2 in Kevin Hankerson grabbed 11 rebounds for Wayne and Pierre Hixon added six. Harold Skinner scored 15 points for Lincoln Park.

SAGINAW 94, BISHOP BORGESS 45: State-ranked Saginaw raced by outmanned Redford Bishop Borgess Thursday behind the 31-point effort of senior guard Delano Johnson. The non-conference loss evens Borgess's record at 2-

Shawn Respert, Borgess' top scorer, did not play be-cause of an injury suffered in a car accident. Charles North was the only Spartan in double figures, scoring 16 points. Kareem Carpenter scored eight points and grabbed eight rebounds Lou Dawkins, who already has signed with the University of Tulsa, and Jess Drain, scored 12 points each for Saginaw. Marcus Buckley added 11 points.

"The kids are used to playing against gimmick defenses. This is the third defense - like a box-and-- we've seen already against Matt. And now that they've seen it and practiced against it, they know somebody else is going to get open and somebody else is going to have to knock them in."

agreed to install tile in a home that costs $1-million and the owners who, by the way are multi-millionaires, do not want to pay me. They say that I have overcharged them and jokingly suggest that the way they got so rich was because they don't pay anyone. I would like to foreclose on a lien but is there any other action you could suggest?

A. The first thing you should do, of course, is insure that your mechanics lien is properly perfected. I would then, presumably through an attor-ney, advise the homeowner of your intent to sue for damages, including attorney fees incurred, in having to foreclose on the lien.

I can certainly appreciate your consternation concerning the attitude of the owner who, it would appear, abuses contractors and, presumably, others then makes them sue them for damages. Unfortunately, this type of conduct seems to be surprisingly prevalent in the higher socio-economic classes, who for some reason, think they can get

You should pursue that homeowner until you obtain a just and equitable resolution, since you may well conclude that you cannot allow people such as the persons you are describing to "beat you out" without pursuing all of your legal remedies.

Q. We are co-owners in a condominium with a board of directors that is apathetic and unwilling to properly pursue the developer for various problems at the condo. Our unit is experiencing roof leaks and basement leaks and the board says that they don't want to spend the money to commence legal proceedings since they have other tasks at hand. What can we do?

A. Assert your political and legal rights, consider running for the board or organizing a coalition of coowners who are concerned about the success and vitality of the condominium and the expenditures which will have to be made by the association in the event that they do not recover the cost of the repairs necessary to the common elements, presumably under the responsibility of the developer.

Advise the board of your concern and of their legal liability for failing to properly pursue a developer, assuming that the damages are significant. Also make sure that you personally have notified the developer of the various warranty items which you are claiming are its responsibility, to the extent that they are unrelated to the claims of the associa-

Be prepred to pursue the developer individually or collectively with respect to the individual problems concerning your individual unit and/ or other units in the condominium. Also, impress upon the board your desire to ensure that the association takes whatever means are necesssary to pursue common element claims against the developer.

How to avoid decorating mistakes

So, before furnishings are brought home, Better Homes and Gardens magazine advises that you make Plot your purchases by measuring the room, noting door and window openings.

Then, using either a 1/2- or 1/4-inch scale (1 foot equals 1/2 or 1/4 inch), chart the room on a piece of grid paper. Before buying a new item, draw it in where it will be placed, using exact measurements. Leave enough

This "plan view" will also help determine if the furniture is scaled correctly to the room.

CHAIR HEIGHTS vary; so do tabletops. It pays to make sure they are compatible.

Allow 10 inches from the top of the chair seat to the bottom of the table or desk top. Remember to include the length of any aprons.

Also, measure the height of the arm of the chair to be sure it clears the bottom of the tableton

Do you really need to save cards?

Q. We get so many beautiful, expensive Christmas cards each year I hate to throw them out. Many of them have important information, pictures or sentiments I enjoy keeping. Could other people use them? What do you suggest I do with them?

A. I have several recommendations. First, if you don't already have a three-by-five-inch card file of people with whom you exchange cards, this is a good time to set one up. After reconfirming the correct addresses, pitch the envelopes. If you care to keep track of greeting cards sent and received, the back of these file cards provide the perfect place. With the pre-Christmas rush, mes-

This is also a good time to review your cards and letters, condensing a permanent record of important information on appropriate file cards. Since so many people send Christmas form letters, you might also want to make a file folder for this year's letters. Next year you could answer them, pitch them and file the Place any photos you want to keep in your picture albums, cutting them to size, if necesssary. You could keep one or two particularly sentimental cards if you must, but be highly se-

Now comes the hard part: "Could other people use them?" Like other good, conservative savers, you want to make sure nothing goes to waste. Yes, some preschool or kindergarten classes would welcome greeting cards for art projects, however, the Dorothy schools would be inundated if everyone did this. I suggest you call and ask before dumping unwanted materials on them. If you find a taker, deliver the cards right away.

Some people keep cards, thinking they or their children will "use" them. If you do utilize them, more power to you; however, all too many well-intentioned people have stacks of cards from years past, still untouched.

organizing Lehmkuhl

Remember that the world's greatest waste of time is concocting a usage for something for which you have no use. Unless you have abundant time on your hands (which few of us do) or know the cards will be used, start the New Year by simplifying your life: Let your Christmas

Aldingbrooke Superlative Rental Living

In The Hills of West Bloomfield

NEW lavishly large 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace ranch dwellings of unsurpassed size that are utterly extraordinary - up to 2,800 square feet and every amenity: private entries, attached garages, fireplaces, cathedral ceilings, designer kitchens with separate breakfast areas, master bedroom suites with dressing area, double vanities, double closets and walk-in closets too, in-residence laundry and storage, full carpeting, central air conditioning, patio or balcony.

Truly resort-like recreational facilities include: oversized pool in a pectacular wooded setting, a manor-home like clubhouse - ideal for private parties - tennis courts and, of course, a 24-hour manned gatehouse with package reception services. There is even a private ending library. All on over 130 incomparable private acres for estate-

Unquestionably the standard for beauty and luxury. For their size, design and breathtaking setting, YOU MUST SEE the 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace homes of ALDINGBROOKE.

Note: Limited number of short term executive rentals available. I and 2 year leases being offered.

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow .the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

Use this form to write your

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and. services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a salel

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

After the session on mixology, the students moved to another room where a mock interview for a job was set up. Keith Johnson held sway over this class, acting out a scenario between employer and employee where every possible thing that could go wrong in an interview did. He showed his students how to turn the negatives into positives.

The last session of the evening was a review class on dessert wines.

'Tis the time to find the right slope

By Iris Sanderson Jones contributing travel editor

This is the first day in several weeks that you've had time to think about anything except holiday gifts, holiday parties, holiday dinners and how to get all those deadlines met before the end of the year.

For most of us, the week between Christmas and New Year's Day is a time to slow down and start thinking about next year. For skiers, it's a perfect time to start looking around for the right slopes.

Or, if you are just crazy enough to like snow and ice, time to start planning trips to winter events. The big one close to home is the Ice Sculpture Spectacular in Plymouth Jan. 5-

If you got your first skis for Christmas, go directly to the phone and call toll-free (800) 5432-YES. Ask them to send a copy of "Let's Go Skiing, Michigan!," which lists the ski resorts participating in Ski Free Day Friday, Jan. 20.

'1969' captures feeling, turmoil of Vietnam era

RECENT RELEASES.

Film distributors are limiting re-leases again this week because they know most everyone is engaged in holiday shopping and family affairs. So, Merry Christmas and a happy, healthy New Year to you all. Watch for lots of new films next year.

"1969" (R).
A lesson about friendship and freedom as Scott (Kiefer Sutherland) and Ralph (Robert Downey, Jr.) trek across the country as national tur-moil about Vietnam and the greening of America create conflict on every family and social level. With Bruce Dern, Mariette Hartley, Winona Ryder and Joanna Cassidy.

"Hellhound — Hellraiser" (R). A cast of unknowns in torment and terror. Do you wonder why I skipped

"Lair of the White Worm" (R). Ken Russell's out there with the archeologists uncovering a strange skull with a bizzare past.

"Working Girl" (B) (R) 115 min-

Tess McGill (Melanie Griffiths) finds a few obstacles on the road to success in big business. After boss (Sigourney Weaver) steals her ideas, Tess grabs them back and collects Sigourney's boyfriend, Jack Trainor (Harrison Ford), in the process. Wellwritten, nicely acted and occasionally humorous story of the little person beating the system. Reviewed by Kathy Guyor.

STILL PLAYING:

"The Accused" (C) (R) 109 min-

Sara Tobias (Judy Foster) is gangraped by three men, but Deputy D.A. Kathryn Murphy (Kelly McGillis) sells out to defense, realizes her mistake and prosecutes spectators who encouraged the rape. This poignant drama about mishandled rape cases is too long and slow to be effective. Rape scene is particularly horrible. Reviewed by Kim Brown.

"Child's Play" (B-) (R).

Horror story about a mother who buys possessed doll for son's birthday. Plot is a bit corny at times, but film makes up for it with great special effects and unintentional humor. Reviewed by Fred Baker.

"Cocoon: The Return" (B-) (PG)

to arrange things with Sam the pickleman. Don't worry about true love, it takes care of itself and this is a charming comedy.

"A Cry in the Dark"(C+) (PG-13)

Lindy and Michael Chamberlin (Meryl Streep and Sam Neill) are camping in Australia's Northern Territory with their three children when the baby is killed by a wild dog. But police mania and public hysteria lead to Lindy's indictment and conviction for the child's murder. It doesn't matter that this story is true because the film fails to convince us that such an incredible story occurred. The police motivation in prosecuting the case and the generative force for public hysteria are poorly depicted and not at all convincing. Some Aussie accents are inaudible and camerawork leaves much to be desired. Despite good acting, the film is unpleasant with no redeeming quality, just a dippy hallelujah ending.

"Dirty Rotten Scoundrels" (B+) (PG) 100 minutes.

Michael Caine is super-slick as a con-man on the Riveria while Steve Martin only seems to bumble through the game of parting rich women from their money. Despite the obvious twists and turns as the two out-manuever one another, the film is polished and funny with very few slow moments.

"Ernest Saves Christmas" (C+)

Jim Varney has the role of a lifetime in "Ernest" and is wisely trying to make it pay while the market is hot. This time out there are consistent, but predictable, chuckles and a very earnest Douglas Seale as Santa Claus in search of a replacement. In an age when kids flock to see a man stop bleeding by exploding gunpowder in the wound, "Ernest Saves Christmas" is a refreshing change. Ernest P. Worrell is what we used to call good, clean fun. Knowhatimean, Vern? Reviewed by Susan Finc-

"Everybody's All American" (A-) (R) 127 minutes.

In the best sense, a fine, sentimental, nostalgic look at a quarter century (1956-1981) of America, centering on a Louisiana football hero, the "Grey Ghost" (Dennis Quaid), his sweetheart, the "Magnolia Queen" (Jessica Lange), and his scholarly nephew (Timothy Hutton). The intricacies of their relationships and social change in that period are nicely blended. Excellent acting carries this long film past soap opera and should cause a lot of sighs for the good old days.

"I'm Gonna Get You Sucka" (C+) (R) 85 minutes.

The satire is not as swift nor as funny as "Hollywood Shuffle," but it is rewarding that Keenen Ivory Wayans was able to spin off from that film and do his own feature. Plot is send-up of a million "B" movies, this time from the Black point of view, but the pacing is too slow and much of the acting unconvincing.

"Land Before Time" (A) (G) 75

Touching story of a group of young dinosaurs and their journey to the promised land. Excellent animation combined with many heart-warming scenes make this film great entertainment for all ages.

Reviewed by Fred Baker.

"Madame Sousatzka" (A) (PG-13) 122 minutes.

Lush, sensuous photography, in-spired music and brilliant acting plus John Schlesinger's fine direction equal an excellent film. This touching portrait of Madame Sousatzka (Shirley MacLaine) and her obses-

His desire to please his mother (Shabana Azmi) and his teacher, Madame Sousatzka, tears at him as does his desire for success and his awakening sexual impulses focusing on a slightly shopworn singer, Jenny (Twiggy).

"My Stepmother Is an Alien"
(B+) (PG-13) 108 minutes.
A bloated Dan Aykroyd slows pace, particularly at opening, but once extra-terrestrial Celeste (Kim Basinger) touches down, this comedy takes off. Basinger's sexy visitor from another galaxy saves production from its own silliness and her performance is well worth the trip.

"Mystic Pizza" (A) (R) 102 min-

Warm, wonderful comedy about three young women dealing with life's unpredictable experiences in a pizza restaurant where they work, sharing the joys and pain of love and friendship. Reviewed by Kathy

"Naked Gun" (D) (PG-13) 90 min-

Obviously David Zucker doesn't know the difference between comedy and mugging. Satire takes more than repetition of cliches so miss this childish, overly broad farce, which never gets off the ground.

"Oliver and Company" (A) (G) 70 Wide range of voices - Billy Joel, Bette Midler and Cheech Marin, for example — place this film with the best of Walt Disney animation. It's sensitive, heart-warming and entertaining with good music to boot. Reviewed by Patrick Harris.

"Rain Man" (A+) (R) 130 minutes. Tom Cruise and Dustin Hoffman star as brothers - one a fast-talking sports car salesman, the other an autistic savant. Cruise looks young again, he's ditched the unseemly fat that slowed him down in "Cocktail." More important, however, he dem-onstrates forcibly that he can act. We all knew Hoffman could and together they present a sometimes sad, sometimes funny, but always touching story of two very diverse characters who become brothers in

"Scrooged" (B+) (PG-13) 90 min-

Get in the holiday spirit and try this udated romp through Dicken's "Christmas Carol" starring a very off-beat Bill Murray. He's the modern-day Scrooge, Frank Cross; a television network executive who doesn't know the meaning of nice.

Star-studded cast includes Karen Allen, Buddy Hacket, Mary Lou Retton, Robert Mitchum, Michael Pollard, Carol Kane, John Forsythe and Bobcat Goldthwait.

"Tequila Sunrise" (C+) (R) 115 minutes

Slick, glib production gets lost trying for high-concept, hi-tech look in an old-fashioned, hard-boiled detective story. Retired drug dealer, Dale McKussic (Mel Gibson), and best friend, Lt. Nick Frescia (Kurt Russell) of L.A. Narcotics Squad, tangle over beautiful restaurateur, Jo Ann Vallenari (Michelle Pfeiffer). There's also a big shipment of drugs, lots of money, the shadowy Carlos, a Mexican policeman, Commandante Escalante (Raul Julia), and an unpleasant, bumbling drug enforcement officer, McGuire (J.T. Walsh). Despite good acting and slick surface, this tequila doesn't rise above complicated cliches that are sometimes confusing and seldom work

"Twins" (B+) (PG) 95 minutes. Danny DeVito is super-funny. Arnold Schwarzenegger ain't bad either in this happy, but improbable story - do you believe they're twins? Admit it. Shopping can be a chore . . . Not fun shopping, where you join a friend for lunch and "do" the stores, indulging in a little impulse buying here and there. (That's a bonus for good behavior.)

No, it's serious shopping that hurts. The din of rock music is distracting, sales personnel often look about 12 years old, and if you're over 25 years of age, they treat you with the condescension that youth has traditionally accorded the elderly.

All you want is a comfortable, basic suit; all they have are prefaded denim minis and bubble skirts.

Catalogs are a convenient alternative, as evidenced by their success. But at best, they're a pig in a poke.

If you can get beyond the coy lighting to the real length and color, and if you can remember not to identify with the 112-pound, 20-year-old, 5-foot, 9-inch model with burnished hair and perfect teeth, you stand a pretty good chance of finding something decent.

And when all the buttons and one shoulder pad fall off a designer blouse the first time you wash it, you can just sew them back on rather than rewrap it and send it back. (Some people just rip out the other shoulder pad and wear the blouse under the sweater.)

Enter Everywear, "spontaneous fashion for the real woman."

Started just about a year ago by partners Lauren Johnson and Karen Starke, Everywear comes to you, either by private appointment in your home, or home trunk showings for you and a group of your friends.

"WE MET two years ago," said Johnson, "and we both had the same idea about selling classic, comfortable clothing to the professional woman in an informal atmosphere at a time and placed determined by the client."

determined by the client."

Both Johnson and Starke have backgrounds in the rag trade.

Johnson was manager of a women's clothing store, a job she loved and kept until recently, leaving only when Everywear got off and running.

Starke had worked for local designers and did custom designs and sewing for private clients.

As partners, they divide the chores along the lines of their experience. Johnson, bubbling with enthusiasm, is in charge of sales and marketing. Starke is in charge of production and training their crew of seamstresses. They collaborate on the designs.

A typical trunk show goes like this:

A hostess invites several of her friends over, usually in the early evening. Johnson and "right arm" Shelly Coats, who models, does measuring, helps people dress and takes orders, are there when the guests arrive

They have samples of the Everywear line in representative fabrics and colors and swatches with other colors and fabrics available

Both Johnson and Coats act as models, showing how the pieces can be mixed, what options are available and even offering suggestions on how to accessorize the outfits for different occasions.

For example, Coats at one point was wearing almost the whole line, each piece in a taupe wool jersey — a long swing skirt, a short, lean classic skirt underneath, a cap sleeve tunic, a waist wrap and a duster.

FIRST, SHE removed the duster, then the long skirt to show the shorter skirt. Then she and Johnson showed the different ways the shawl could be used as a day or evening accessory.

Next, she removed the short skirt and showed how the duster could be used as a dress with the wide waist wrap folded narrowly and used as a belt.

Any of the pieces could be made in matte jersey, cotton jersey, cotton knit, crepe back satin, charmeuse or several other fabrics. Colors include ivory, teal, navy, wine and rose.

"We have every fabric in black," said Johnson. "It's our most popular color. We don't care much for pastels and neither do our clients, although we do offer a few in the summertime."

A rayon-linen blend with interwoven metallic silver thread is very popular for evening separates, even though no samples have been made up yet, Johnson said.

Not only does the client have a choice of colors and fabrics, but she can decide what skirt length she wants, what sleeve (cap, raglan or drop) and what shoulder pads, if any.

All jackets come in three lengths — long (the duster), medium and mini. A new jacket design, with leg o' mutton sleeves, is very successful as are a new pleated skirt and pants.

After the clothes are modeled, the hostess and her guests can look at the sample swatches, examine the clothes for details and try them on, if they fit. Then their measurements are taken. The clothes are made to order, and delivery time is about four weeks.

"We keep a record of every client's measurements, what she ordered and a swatch of material each garment was made in,"

Johnson said. "That way, if a client wishes to add to an outfit in the same or a matching fabric, she can just call up and order it."

EVERYWEAR samples range from sizes 4 to 22, and Johnson frequently calls upon members of the audience to act as models.

"It livens up the party, and people can see how the clothes look on their friends."

There is an assortment of "experienced" costume jewelry and sequinned appliques have been introduced on an experimental ba-

Everywear just opened a new office in the Holliday Park Office Building, 8623 N. Wayne Road, Westland, opening the door for dressing rooms for clients and a workroom for seamstresses.

The partners are in the process of training sales reps and their first, Glenda Sinn, is due to "graduate" this month.

You can reach Starke or Johnson at 422-2830. Everywear prices range from $29 to $189, and yes, they do take credit cards.

(Note to the hostess: Forget the Black Forest torte! One look at Johnson's svelte size 4 figure, and guests opt for ice water and crackers

While Lauren Johnson handles the trunk showings, partner Karen Starke (right) lends a hand in creating Everywear fashions.

It's the best of Broadway and it's coming to The Fox in 1989.

Four award-winning Broadway productions will be star attractions at the downtown Detroit theater as part of a subscription series, the Best of Broadway.

The series kicks off Feb. 3-9 with Rodgers and Hammerstein's classic Broadway musical "South Pacific." Both a Tony and Grammy award winning production, based on James

A. Mitchener's best-selling novel, this legendary musical also won two
Pulitzer prizes and had a record-setting five-year run on Broadway.
Robert Goulet will star in The Fox production, directed by Ron Field.

America's favorite funny man
Tim Conway and "Newhart" television star Tom Poston will appear as Neil Simmon's "The Odd Couple" April 25-30.

The winner of four Tony awards, the play revolves around the perils of middle-aged men having to resume a bachelor lifestyle while learning to get used to having each other as roommates.

THIS YEAR'S Tony Award winner for best musical, "Into the Woods," with music and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim, will play The Fox May 16-21. Starring Cleo Laine, the musical recounts some of the world's best-loved fairy tales and then creates new endings.

You have a chance to experience such a breathtaking scenario when you sign up for the Deluxe East African Safari, sponsored by the Detroit Zoological Society.

On Feb. 11, zoo director Steve Graham will take a 25-member group on a 15-day tour of the most exciting parts of East Africa - Nairobi, the Ngorongoro Crater, Oldubai Gorge, the Serengeti, Masai Mara and Samburu Game Reserve.

For the more adventuresome, there's a four-day extension to Rwanda for a gorilla-trekking excursion, also led by Graham.

The safari costs $3,995 per person and includes land and air fares, meals, transfers, sightseeing and game viewing, taxes and entrance fees. The gorilla-trekking excursion costs an additional $1.850.

For an application form or a complete itinerary, call the Detroit Zoo-logical Society office at 541-5717.

Close to home

If Africa is a bit too far to roam, there's Toronto and Harbourfront, one of Canada's most popular attractions. It offers plenty of things to do this winter season.

There's the Harbourfront ice rink, Canada's largest artificial outdoor rink, and an art display by Chicago artist Nancy Spero at The Power Plant art gallery Jan. 20-Feb.26. Spero's works are inquiries into the nature of representations of women and this work reflects her longstanding commitment to social and feminist concerns.

But if you're looking for the unusual, consider the Molson Export Ice Canoe Race Jan. 21-22.

It's the largest ice canoe race in Ontario - features male, female and coed teams from Quebec, Ontario and Alberta. The race runs its course in the icy waters south of Harbourfront's York Quay Centre .

Each five-member team forges the freezing waters, stopping at ice flows to shove, scooter or drag their vessel over the water's frozen sur-

Racers use fiberglass boats and, for most, a lightweight ski-racing suit, neoprene socks and spiked running shoes. Shin and knee pads are also worn by some to prevent bruising when it comes to scrambling across the ice.

The race also includes others events - barrel jumping competitions, maple syrup demonstrations and an appearance by Bonhomme de Carnival de Quebec.

If you're interested in more information about Harbourfront activities, write the Harbourfront Corp., 410 Queens Quay W., Suite 500, To-ronto, Ont. M5V 273, or call (416) 973-4600.

Right next door

If you prefer to stay very close to home, you can put on the ritz at the new Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn. It opens its doors Jan. 9.

Consider this: The 308-guest room luxury business hotel has guest rooms ranging from standard and deluxe to large executive suites for guests requiring additional space for meetings or entertaining.

The Ritz has special opening room rates in effect through Feb. 15 -$99 Monday through Thursday and $79 Friday through Sunday. Rates are based on availability and single or double occupancy and are exclusive of tax and gratuities.

It's also planning special weekend packages - the Getaway Weekend

(two nights in deluxe accommodations, use of the pool and fitness center, a newspaper delivered to the guest room each morning and two complimentary cocktails in the Ritz-Carlton Bar) - beginning at $85; the shopper's weekend (not only accommodations and the newspaper, but also a Saks Fifth Avenue gift certificate for tea for two at the Ritz-Carlton, free wardrobe consultation, complimentary makeover and a gourmet chocolate sampler from Godiva Chocoatiers, to name a few) starting at $125 per guest room; and the Ritz-Carlton Club Weekend for those who want to be pampered (complimentary continental breakfast and more seved in the Club Lounge, especially selected welcome gift beverages, etc.) for one night starting at $160 per guest room.

And The Ritz hasn't forgotten about special occasions.

There's the basic special occasion package (one-night deluxe accommodations, a bottle of Ritz-Carlton champagne, fresh bouquet of flowers, room service breakfast for two, keepsake gift, etc.) beginning at $135 per guest room and the ultimate special occasion package (a suite with a special selection of unequaled amenities).

For reservations, call The Ritz-Carlton at 441-2000.

A few keepers

If you're into art, you might want to take in the "Recent Acquisitions" exhibition at the Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum in Bloomfield Hills now through Jan. 22.

The title off the exhibition reflects its content. On display are major works recently donated by distinguished Cranbrook Academy of Art Alumni and visiting artists.

The exhbition includes an enigmatic metal sculpture by Sandra Osip, Chad Hagan's colorful fiber piece, called "Friday Nite Fish Felt," an untitled ceramic vessel by Graham Marks, a large-scale raku piece, inspired by the Midwestern landscape, by George Timock, and a large bowl by John Glick that reflects his ongoing interest in gestural patterns and rich glazes.

Also included in the exhibition are five important works by artists associated with Cranbrook's earlier years - Eliel Saarinen's pencil rendering, "Christian Science Church Project, Minneapolis;" a silver and enamel hand mirror by Arthur Nevil Kirk; a molded plywood leg splint, designed in 1942 by Charles and Ray Earnes as a precursor to their highly influential chair designs of 1946; Maija Grotell's geometric-patterned vase and Harry Bertola's monoprint.

Museum hours are 1-5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. Docent tours are available by advance notice. For more information, call 645-3323.

DIA wonderland

If you're looking for a little "jabberwocky" and a lot of smiles this holiday season, you can find them both at the Detroit Institute of Arts' Youththeatre presentation of "Alice in Wonderland.

Detroit's own Prince Street Players' musical adaptation of the adventure story comes to life in an extravaganza of limericks, songs and riddles, designed to delight audiences of Sure Tremors! might be one of the hottest nightclubs around today, but it's not all what it's cracked up to be.

Don't let the break running along the floor of the Livonia nightclub that looks to be the result of a break dance competition with sumo wrestlers fool you. The San Andres Fault hasn't crept here from California.

"They can't figure out what's going on because they've never seen anything like it," said Tremors! director of operations John Muszynski with a laugh. "Some people are afraid to step on there because they think they might fall in or some-

If the wives' tale holds true, mothers must be filling the hospitals with broken backs. People are packing Tremors! and dancing on the crack and anywhere else they can find some space.

The place has been shaking every night since the club opened in November. And the crevice, from which billows smoke during hot dance numbers, is one of many features that makes the Tremors! experience somewhat unforgettable.

You can dance to the sounds of Top-40 hits vibrating off the walls on a large dance floor that lights up like an explosion at a Roman candle fac-

Even earlier in the day, Tremors! has a crowd. Happy hour 4-6 p.m. is loaded with the briefcase brigade. Cover is a dollar and there is a large buffet, with a different theme everyday (oriental, western and diner nights, to name a few).

THIS TIME of the day is for the businessman, kicking back after a day on the office circuit. Business cards are passed out like quarters at a laundromat.

"It's the only time of day you can do business when you're sober," joked one executive, who didn't give his name. "This is really a great place."

But to get a real feel of Tremors!, one has to make a nighttime pilgrimage. Like any nightclub, the people are what make the atmosphere. And Women line the club, attired in everything from leather skirts to snazzy dresses. Then there are the men, some impeccably dressed in business suits and sportswear. Some roam around in open collars with the standard single's man equipment - the gold chain around the neck

When you enter, you can check in your coat and buy any number of Tremors! novelty items. Included are license plates, jackets, T-shirts and cigarette lighters.

"The cigarette lighters sell the most," said the woman operating the cash register. That makes sense. That's the standard tool for the single guy, who offers to light a woman's cigarette in order to spark some conversation.

"When they walk out of here," Muszynski said, "it (Tremors!) gives them something to talk about it."

Tremors! is owned and operated by a hotel and restaurant chain out of Dallas, Texas, named Integra. The eventual plan is to have Tremors! in other markets as well.

Aside from the glitz and shock effects, Muszynski's plan of operation is rather simple - top-40 music combined with a friendly atmosphere. Good employees are an integral part of that.

Muszynski's operated his own nightclub in Clearwater, Fla., and worked at the Buena Vista Palace Hotel in Walt Disney World Village. Of all his experience in the business, the instant success of Tremors! even surprises him.

"It's well above any expectations," he said. "It's getting better every night."

Having a merry, non-traditional New Year's Eve

staff writer

It's time to start thinking about what to do and where to go for the traditional New Year's Eve soirce.

But you're not necessarily interested in another one of those mindbending, rock-throbbing, survival-of-the-fittest, endurance-test blowouts in an overcrowded, smoke-filled saloon or someone's basement.

How about something a little different? Like a country-style barn bash, complete with a hay or sleigh ride, or a fireworks display on the ski slopes, or a dry (no snow, no booze) evening on roller skates, or a weekend train trip to Toronto.

For example, Farmer Joe (no last name) has space in his barn on Sugarbush Farms for groups of country bumpkins, hankering for a New Year's Eve hoedown, complete with 30-minute, horse-drawn hay or sleigh rides - the latter requiring a sufficient snow cover.

Farmer Joe said he will take reservations anytime for groups of at least of 30 people, no fewer.

A $45 deposit is required to reserve space for a four-hour barn party that will cost $8 per person. That's the normal rate - not an inflated holiday fee, Farmer Joe said.

If your group wants to square dance, you'll have to hire your own caller, and you'll have to provide your own food and refreshments, but no beverages in glass bottles (to prevent horse/hoof injuries) and no alcoholic drinks for under-age groups, Farmer Joe said. Electric heaters or cooking devices are not allowed, but an open fire is permitted.

THE BARN is heated, but it still can get cold and Farmer Joe advises that you dress warm. There's an ice pond for skating, but bring your own skates, plus a toboggan hill and

Or how about ending the year with a bang at the third annual New Year's Eve Torch Parade and Winter Fireworks Spectacular at Alpine Valley Ski Resort in Milford?
The festivities begin at 8:30 p.m.

with multiple torch parades down the slopes, followed by the fireworks show at 9 p.m. The Alpine people said the cold air, dark sky and white snow combine to make the winter fireworks more brilliant than their summer equivalents.

Arrive early for skiing and best fireworks viewing, then stay late to ski some more and ring in the new year in Alpine's lodge.

You may wish to line up a backup party because the Alpine event could be postponed due to foul weather and take place on the next clear

Call Alpine at 887-2180 for more information or check other area ski resorts for similar snow parties.

IF YOU prefer an inexpensive, indoor party on roller skates with family and friends, who don't mind if there are no alcoholic beverages, check with roller rinks in the area. Party favors are usually included in the very reasonable admission fees and reservations are generally not needed, but make sure.

The disastrous earthquake which struck Armenia has devastated the country. Over 60,000 have died, tens of thousands are injured, and over half a million have been left without medical attention, clothing and shelter.

Unless more help is received immediately, thousands of others are doomed to die.

The outpouring of international sympathy and help has been an encouragement to the survivors and a comfort to the bereaved.

Further aid is urgently needed. Help alleviate the misery and suffering by contributing to the earthquake fund.

Allison, Odd Sox: Best band in '88

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Frank Allison is a music man with a mission.

His main concern on this night is not the impact his band, Frank Allison and the Odd Sox, could have in the grand mystical sense. Nor is it how their latest album, "Monkey Business," will rank in terms of musical statements made of this generation.

With his baseball cap on backwards, covering all but a few strands of his long hair, Allison's main conquest is in front of him at the moment - a tuna fish sandwich neatly sliced in half. Nearby, a halffilled pitcher of water is the dinner

"Want some?" asked Allison, 27, offering one-half before tearing into the main course of this night's din-

Allison chews then talks. He swallows and talks some more. In the feeding fury, he manages to breath too. Otherwise, he'd turn blue.

Frank Allison and the Odd Sox also pack quite a bite musically. Simply put, they're the best local unsigned band of 1988. And the reasons why are many, a first-rate LP and moving live performances are start-

The zest with which Allison attacks the sandwich might offer the

On stage, the energy Allison exudes as lead singer is multiplied tenfold. He doesn't strum his acoustic guitar, he strikes it. He doesn't sing a lyric, he burns it vocally into your

WHEN HE gets going, his face contorts like a jellyfish having an seizure. But it's as genuine as the construction boots on his feet. For Frank Allison simply loves the music he plays, and it shows.

"His energy is what is remarkable," said Odd Sox guitarist Dan Beckett.

Allison's zeal for playing music is only matched by his mind for detail. "Monkey Business" is chock full of stories about life's little peculiarities as seen through the eyes of Allison.

For example, one little ditty, "Bart's Reunion Party," was penned after seeing his father get together with some old friends.

"One thing I've noticed is that Frank has an amazing memory for his past," said bassist John Boyle. "When he was 12 years old, he remembers everyone in his class by name and he has a story for everybody. I mean I would be lucky to remember two or three guys from my class. He'll say, 'That reminds me of a guy named Bob Dinkleheimer

Allison grew up on an "unfarmed farm" in the outer Washtenaw County area

Allison wrote comedy scripts in high school and dabbled in some poetry. Then he began to click as a storyteller with his guitar. He spent 21/2 years at Eastern Michigan University before dropping out. He was a humanities major.

"I used to cut my classes and go to humanities classes because they had such great movies," Allison said. "I had really bad studying ethics you could say.'

STUDYING BOOKS was quickly replaced by studying lyrics and chords. His first musical venture was with a group of high schoolers three years ago. They parted ways.

Then Allison decided to give it a second try with Frank Allison and the Odd Sox, this time with an excellent lineup which includes drummer John Seldin along with Beckett and

During that time, the band happened to hook up with their present manager Kevin Knapp of Plymouth. Knapp, a free-lance writer, remembers meeting Allison at a party.

"I heard this guy talking about this pop group called The Left Banke," Knapp said. "I thought, 'Wow, there's not too many people who remember Left Banke. He had a baseball cap on backwards and was wearing a service station shirt. I said to myself, 'Who is this guy?'

That outlook is what still keeps Allison going. With every critical rave (and there's been plenty of those lately) is a night of performing in a empty nightclubs that slaps him back to reality.

At a recent performance at Rick's Cafe in Ann Arbor, the band walked off the stage two numbers into the first set. Rick's management wanted to change the cover charge from $3

SINCE THEIR income depends on the intake at the door, the band balked. For their stance, a few angry college students pelted band members with maraschino cherries and ice cubes as they packed up their equipment.

"It's always frustrating," said Allison, almost prophetically before the show started. "You play some place and no one shows up and you don't make any money. The guy at the bar rips you off. You drive home.

You don't get any sleep. You're mis-

"Then you play somewhere and there's a mess of people and everybody is throwing down. Ask me on that day and I'll tell you we're going all the way."

If Allison and company does go all the way, they'll do so on their reputation of combining rousing live performances with solid songwriting. They might be one of the few bands locally who can honestly boast of

The working folk can especially relate. Song subjects focus on having no money and driving crappy cars. Yet the MBA-seeking crowd is drawn by the band's energy onstage. Whatever income, though, if the crowd is happy Frank Allison is really happy.

THE PERFORMANCES he reminicses about with most fondness are those outstate, where he won over a crowd that's not normally receptive to them rock'n'roll fellas with long

"I remember this one guy in particular," said Allison, recalling a gig in Big Rapids. "He was a big fat guy with a chaw. He had on a dirty Tshirt. He must've been 55. He was standing there with these big jowels. He looked like he should have been a banjo player in 'Deliverance.'

"He was enjoying the show. He was shaking and stuff and his belly was moving right along."

REVIEWS

ALTERNATIVE

• "The Tenement Years," Pere Ubu: Without a doubt this is one of the must haves of the decade, not just of this year. Yes, it is strange and quirky and may take some getting used to, but just like falling in love, the more you give to it, the more you want to give to it. From one of the innovators, this is music that lives on the edge.

· "Only Life," The Feelies: Simple song, great vocal melodies, great guitar melodies from New Jersey's finest. On this LP, their frantic live action gives way to a clearer presentation of the songs without losing the excitement. Singer and manic guitarist Glenn Mercer gives their songs a feel reminiscent of other New Jersey favorites like Velvet Underground.

• "Workers Playtime," Billy Bragg: Everybody's favorite socialist focuses his passion more in the direction of personal politics and troubled relationships than previously. He expands his sound from his solo angry electric guitar to include such diverse instruments as piano, cello and female vocals and in the process comes up with classic failed love songs as "Must I Paint You a Picture" and "Valentine Day Is Over.'

That," Something Happensl: The debut album from Ireland's best export of the year, this LP of solid guitar based songs is well worth picking up from the import bins while the band is also featured on a domestically released movie soundtrack "The Courier." Get it ahead of the rush.

'Shadowland," k.d. lang/"Trinity Sessions," Cowboy Junkies: Keep these albums around for the next time you feel like crawling into a corner with your favorite bottle of whiskey and wallowing in self-pity. The finest country songs from the beautiful voice of the woman who claims to be the reincarnation of Patsy Cline. I believe her. Sad, sad songs on the Cowboy Junkies' quiet, moody and beautiful album, featuring the etheral vocals of Margo Tim-

BEST LOCAL

Local acts took refuge in the studio and the end result was a slew of 45s, EPs, LPs, cassettes and compact discs in 1988. Some were good, some showed flashes of brilliance. Some fell short of expectations.

Picking five albums was difficult in that many releases featured some outstanding moments but had a few duds in the pile as well. Demo tapes didn't count. These products were ones available to the general public. Here's the individual releases that have a special place in my collection (no particular order).

• "Novelty," Hippodrome: This five-song cassette was a dandy. "Josephine" and "Autumn Colors" rank as immediate favorites while the other material is first-rate as well. Breezy guitar licks and vocals to match.

• "See Dick Run," See Dick Run: Sweet melodic pop is this group's forte and it definitely shows here on this cassette release. "Five O'Clock Bus Stop" certainly ranks as one of the best singles released this year locally while "Incomplete" is another first-rate tune.

· "Karen Monster EP," Karen Monster: Despite the self-hype, this hard-rocking release still shined and certainly established Monster as a force to be reckoned with in the Detroit music scene. The metalish tone of this album didn't overshadow some great lyrics sung in Monster's distinctive voice (Chrissey Hynde comparisons accepted).

• "Monkey Business," Frank Allison & the Odd Sox: This recent release features this Ann Arbor outfit at their quirky best. The kitchen setting for most of the recording allows Allison to showcase his excellent songwriting talents. The live songs show how creativity is met with boundless energy onstage. Undoubtedly, this disc will lead to bigger things in 1989.

• "Sevén Simple Songs," Orange Roughies: Dave Feeny takes seven simple songs and paints them into separate masterpieces with his deft guitar work. And John "Rosey" Pineau is much easier to digest on tape than he is at times live with his onstage antics. - Larry O'Connor

BEST OF DETROIT

With Emily Gail in mind, we humbly offer this list of Detroit area artists who have made good this year in the world of pop music.

Gail, for those who can't recall, was that tireless runner and promoter, who urged us to "Say nice things about Detroit."

These four artists and many others this year made rich contributions to the Motor City's reputation as a musical city. It is a reputation worth fostering considering the city's other, more lethal claim to fame.

Shall we start a petition drive pr something? Where is Emily when we need her? Consider this:

Iggy Pop put out his best album in years. Called "Instinct," this disc has a decidedly Motor City feel to it. "I play tag in an auto graveyard," Iggy croons on the opening number.

Iggy is said to be living a more stable life these days, but in a recent local performance, he growled thus: "I'm tough, I'm from Dece-troit." He then dove into a sea of adoring fans.

Was (Not Was) has been collecting well-deserved praise for its latest album, "What's Up, Dog?"

And didn't it warm the cold, cold hearts of local rockers to see in a recent issue of Rolling Stone mag a picture of the band leaning against the wall of Steve's Place, that strange watering hole adjacent St. Andrew's Hall?

This year saw the return of Patti Smith from musical exile with an albuin called "Dream of Life," featur-ing her humand/guitarist Fred "Son-ic" Smith, whose musical history is notable in its own right.

We believe Patti when she sings, "People have the power . . ."

In our midst too is the marvelous Anita Baker, whose "Giving You the Best I've Got" is one of the hottestselling albums around.

Emily Gail, we understand, has moved to Maui. We can't think of a single Maui musician . .
