Putting art on ice was good move

By Doug Funke
staff writer

The decision of Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular organizers to consolidate displays downtown and to hold some carvings in anticipation of bad weather paid big dividends when soaring temperatures and thunderstorms pounded the show last Saturday.

Statues stored at Midwest Ice Corp. in Detroit — just in case — were placed on stands along Main, Penniman, Ann Arbor Trail and Forest earlier this week to replace those that had melted.

"As it turns out, it was a good move," said Scott Lorenz, co-chairman of the event, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel and normally one not prone to understatement.

The seventh annual ice spectacular officially runs through Sunday if the weather cooperates.

In addition to fresh sculptures along city sidewalks, students from Monroe Community College and the Plymouth-Canton schools were to produce major displays in Kellogg Park this week.

PARTS OF existing displays in the park were saved by covering them with tarpaulins during the height of Saturday's storm, Lorenz said.

"We'll have people go through, touch up a few things, rebuild a few things," he added.

Thousands of spectators are expected to pour into town this weekend for the extravaganza. And they should have plenty to see.

Nearly a dozen three-man teams are expected to compete in the five-block carving competition beginning at about 7 p.m. Friday in Kellogg Park, Lorenz said.

More than 60 professional chefs have entered the individual carving competition at 9 a.m. Saturday at The Gathering across from Kellogg Park.

Bitter quarrel led to slaying

By Peggy Aullino

An argument over an extramarital affair turned violent and ended with the death of Dorothy Tyburski three years ago, court papers indicate.

Leonard Tyburski, who is being held on a charge of open murder, told police his wife said "she was having an affair with her daughter's boyfriend," according to a Canton police report filed in 35th District Court.

Dorothy Tyburski threw a steak knife at her husband and called him a "wimp" and a "punk" before he "grabbed her head and hit her into the beam near the stairs several times," the report said.

POLICE HAVE refused comment on the boyfriend, identified in the report and by people involved with the case as Craig Albright of Westland. Albright could not be reached for comment.

"We have some concerns about prejudicing a jury and providing a fair and impartial trial for this individual (Tyburski)," Canton police Lt. Alex Wilson said last week, when questioned about the affair.

"I don't feel comfortable talking about him," Rick Pomorski, the police detective in charge of the case, said in reference to Albright. "I won't say much about motive right now because I don't want the thing tried in the press."

Dorothy Tyburski died as a result of blows to the head, the autopsy report said. Her body had been in a locked freezer in the basement of the Tyburski's Avon Street home from September 1985 until it was discovered by her 20-year-old daughter on Jan. 2.

According to a statement Tyburski gave police, after he hit his wife's head against the beam, she "got kind of groggy, so he pushed her." She then fell backwards into the chest-type freezer.

Tyburski reportedly went upstairs to change his bloodied clothes and returned to the basement about a half hour later. He told police he "tried to talk to her while she was in the freezer, but she didn't say anything." Tyburski said he then "got scared," and closed and locked the freezer, the report said.

Pursell prepares for 7th term

By Doug Funke
staff writer

All is well politically for Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth.

The 56-year-old is ready to embark on his seventh term in Congress. He again expects to serve on the powerful House Appropriations Committee. A friend and former colleague, George Bush, will soon take up residency in the White House.

Pursell was upbeat Tuesday as he sat in his local office and scoped out the future.

"The district is in great shape from the economy standpoint. Unemployment is down," he said.

"I think the country is strong. There's a very good climate in foreign policy. Countries all over the world are turning to a democratic way of life," Pursell said.

"I've been generally optimistic over the years."

PURSELL, HOWEVER, isn't blind to other realities.

"We've got to be careful we have control over society and quality of life."

"I think people are looking at law and order, safety, eliminating drugs. Some work needs to be done in the Middle East," he said.

"I think we've got to watch our consumption. Learn to save. Learn to appreciate parks and recreational areas," he said.

He cited three issues on his personal agenda for the 101st Congress.

• Re-establish the individual retirement account deduction for all wage earners.

• Establish national product liability legislation.

• Create a congressionally chartered, privately owned and managed Corporation for Small Business Investment.

"I can't think of a higher priority than encouraging saving," Pursell said of his hope to re-establish a full IRA deduction to all wage earners regardless of income.

"We're a big consuming nation. The federal government, I think, can help change habits from spending to saving," he said.

PRODUCT LIABILITY matters often surface as a major concern of manufacturers during legislative conferences, Pursell said.

This actor is never out of work

By Peggy Aullino
staff writer

According to the U.S. Postal Service, Layne Sanden has lived in Plymouth for the last two years. That may be where his mail goes, but Sanden has been a nomad during that time.

Dressed in white from head to toe, with floppy ears sprouting from his costume, Sanden has portrayed the White Rabbit in "Alice in Wonderland" throughout the United States since September. He has performed from Manhattan to Miami, from Denver to Dallas and points in between.

"It's a very good experience; in fact I would recommend any actor in the business tour once," Sanden said in a recent telephone interview. "You are put in a situation with 12 other people that you have never met before. You travel with them 24 hours a day. It's an experience."

SANDEN IS not like most young actors, who spend the early part of their careers working in restaurants in New York and waiting for a big break. For one thing, he has steady acting work. And he has no interest going east just to join that horde of unemployed actors.

"I've been to New York a couple of times and I just don't find a fascination with the city," Sanden said. "A lot of people just pick up everything and move themselves there without anything to go there for. A lot of my friends moved there right after college and are waiting tables, where I have been working consistently since graduating."

Sanden is a member of the Prince Street Players, whose homebase is the Detroit Institute of Arts. The youth theater group's productions open in Detroit and then are taken on the road.

Sanden, 26, auditioned for the company in 1986 and joined in January 1987. Since then, he has been living out of a suitcase most of the time. That is because the players usually perform in one town one night and are off to another engagement the next morning.

people

"Sometimes you almost forget where you are," Sanden said. "Every now and then we get a week, which is nice. You can actually unpack."

THE STAGE manager, 10 actors and two musicians that make up the road company travel in a 15-passenger van, which they take turns driving. The set is moved in a separate rented truck.

"That's an experience, traveling 12 or 13 hours a day. We get real close to one another," Sanden said.

The crew may "pick up a magazine here or there" to pass the time, he said. They also pick up munchies, but they try to keep that sort of intake at a minimum.

"You get hip spread in the van if you eat too many of those," Sanden said.

Sanden, who is from Davenport, Iowa, said when the "Alice in Wonderland" tour ends in May, he may take a break from the road.

"After two years and three months of touring, I'll probably take a leave," he said. "I think I need to rest for a while."

Schools study Donahue sex education film

By M.S. Dillon
staff writer

Phil Donahue and a show on sex education may be airing soon in a classroom near you.

Produced by Films for the Humanities, Donahue's "Telling Teens About Sex" was one of five videos viewed by Plymouth-Canton school board members at a workshop Monday. The films are recommended by an advisory committee for use in reproductive health classes at the middle and elementary school levels.

By state law, an advisory committee of students, parents, educators, clergy and health professionals must review and recommend teaching materials regarding sex education in districts with more than 1,000 students.

COMMITTEES ALSO are charged with acting as a liaison with the community, assessing needs in sex education, fostering understanding and accepting of the programs, and working with schools to implement them.

"Telling Teens About Sex" featured teens, parents, teachers, authors and, of course, Phil, talking about the importance of parents and young people communicating about sex. (It was taped for educational use and wasn't broadcast as part of the talk show's regular programming.)

It's recommended for ninth graders. A second film, entitled "Teenage Birth Control — Why It Doesn't Work" was rated "unanimously good" by the committee, said Betty DuBois, who teaches parenting and child development at Salem High School and serves as committee chairwoman.

The Sunburst Communications film, also being considered for ninth-graders, chronicles the weeklong fears of a teen-age woman who fears she may be pregnant. She discovers she isn't pregnant, but a counselor at her clinic encourages the young lady and her boyfriend to attend a workshop. Conducting the workshop, the counselor explains away sexual myths and stresses responsibility.

"Sexual Myths and Facts" also deals with fallacies about sex, and sexually transmitted diseases. It stresses that "what counts is how loving and caring we are, not our feelings about details about parts of our anatomy."

"Food for Thought" is a film about AIDS intended for fourth and fifth graders.

IT USES a cartoon format and features a descendant of Count Dracula to explain facts about the fatal disease.

Another Films for the Humanities production called "AIDS Lifeline" is aimed at ninth-graders. It deals with the origin and incidence of AIDS, and explains how it can and cannot be contracted.

Board members will vote on adoption of the materials, meant to supplement programs already in place, at next week's board meeting, said Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction.

Most board members seemed to like the films.

Trustee E.J. McClendon thought the last film could be incorporated into the biology curriculum.

"It's really on the cutting edge of where science is going to be in the '90s," he said.

"I think the committee is doing a super job and should be commended," said Trustee Dean Swartzwelder.

Trustee Barbara Graham thought the Donahue film would be helpful to parents.

"Maybe we should show it at PTO meetings," she said.

Driver is stable after accident

The driver of a car in which a passenger was killed in a collision last week in Plymouth Township was reportedly in stable condition Wednesday at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

That driver was Franklin Richards, 48, of Plymouth.

Clarence E. Charogoff, 52, of Plymouth, the passenger, died at University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor Friday morning about three hours after the collision.

The driver of the other vehicle involved in the crash, John Phillips, 28, of Ypsilanti, was treated for injuries then released from St. Mary Hospital. He was driving a Dodge pickup.

All three men were wearing seat belts, police said.

The collision occurred shortly before 8 a.m. on Ann Arbor Road near Tennyson. The roads were snowy or ice-covered, the police accident report indicates.

Phillips was eastbound on Ann Arbor Road, Richards westbound.

Phillips told police that Richards appeared to be making a left turn into a driveway when he lost control and spun around into Phillips' path on the two-lane road.

Phillips said he tried to brake, but couldn't stop before striking Richards' car on the passenger side, police said.

"According to Mr. Phillips, the speed was no more than 25-30 miles per hour," said police Sgt. Robert Antal.

Police had yet to talk with Richards about the collision.

Death of an emperor

Veterans say they held no ill will toward Hirohito

By Doug Funke
staff writer

The death last week of Emperor Hirohito of Japan apparently had little effect on area veterans who served in the Pacific Theater during World War II.

All but one of five vets contacted by the Observer said they didn't hold Hirohito responsible for the war 45 years ago during its zenith or now.

Most expressed sorrow at his death but said it didn't rekindle memories.

Most agreed that their feelings probably would be different if they had been prisoners of war and experienced mistreatment.

"He (Hirohito) was really a figurehead," said John Hoffman, commander of the Mayflower-Lt. Gamble VFW Post in Plymouth. "Their war department kind of took over the government during the war."

Hoffman, a retired engineer, served in the Army.

"I WAS A combat medic, trained to take care of people who can't take care of themselves," he said. "To me, it was a kind of terrible death."

Hirohito, 87, died of cancer. He lingered near death for nearly three months.

Al Stanwood, a retired corporate pilot, also flew during the war.

"I lost a lot of friends, but I don't think I blamed Hirohito particularly," the Plymouth resident said. "In the air it was fairly impersonal but someone on the death march would have a different opinion."

"He certainly hasn't been a source of controversy since the war ended," Stanwood said. "I think (Gen. Douglas) MacArthur did a pretty good job of getting him out of the demigod category."

Leonard Maciejewski, a retired tool and die maker, served on a hospital ship. He was the only veteran contacted for this story who expressed bitterness against the emperor.

"HE SHOULD have died when he bombed Pearl Harbor," said Maciejewski, a Plymouth resident.

He recalled that spiteful comments against Japan during the war were directed against its flag or emperor.

Maciejewski said he hasn't really modified his views even though he's recently learned some things about Hirohito that he didn't know before.

"To me, it seems those people are better off than we are," Maciejewski said. "What did we do — turn right around and rebuild those countries. If I said anything derogatory, I'm sorry, but those are my feelings."

Bill Nicolas, a Navy veteran and retired parts clerk, said he never worked up an intense hate against Hirohito.

"I FELT it was one country against another. It wasn't one individual," said Nicolas of Canton. "He did not pick on me personally. I don't hold any grudge against the Japanese people or the emperor."

"It happened over 45 years ago. Why worry about it now?" Nicholas said.

Bob Smith, a retired autoworker and Navy vet, said he believes Hirohito didn't really have much responsibility for the war.

"He wasn't a figure in the forefront," said Smith of Plymouth. "A lot of other people ran the country. That's the way I looked at him. He was kind of a figurehead like Queen Elizabeth."

Ice show is still on

"I'm expecting some very, very good pieces of art, no doubt," Lorenz said.

There's no charge for spectators.

BE AWARE that traffic will be detoured around Kellogg Park Saturday and Sunday and that the Main-Ann Arbor Trail and Main-Penniman intersections will be barricaded both days.

Lorenz said he was stunned at the number of people wandering downtown Saturday during the storm.

"There were 3,000 people walking around . . . with thunder and lightning. I couldn't believe it, either," he said.

Some people, although definitely not the usual large crowds, turned out on Sunday.

"It was a wild weekend," Lorenz said. "Lightning and thunder on Saturday. Minus 20 wind chill on Sunday. People will go to all ends to see fine art, I guess."

The Plymouth Winter Antique Show, at the Plymouth Cultural Center on Farmer Street, and Michigan Art '89, at Growth Works on Main Street, offer alternatives to ice browsers this weekend.

A donation of $2 is asked to view the antique show. The art show is free.

Pursell says he's optimistic

Investment, launched with federal seed money, would encourage small businesses to find money for product innovation and new technologies.

"Eighty-five percent of all jobs are created in the small business community," Pursell said. "There's more employees in the DeMatia Industrial Park (in Plymouth Township) than Mazda."

Pursell believes that he would be included within an inner circle of congressmen who would have the ear of President Bush.

"I endorsed Bush very early. I've been consistent. He remembers," Pursell said.

Pursell, however, said he won't make a pest of himself. "I don't feel I'm going to run down to the White House every week," he said.

The working relationship that develops "depends on how well he coordinates his staff with our staff," Pursell said.

Plymouth Court resident Ora Bristow admires flowers sent to her by a grandchild who could not attend the party because of illness.

Spectacular celebration marks woman's birthday

By Julie Brown
staff writer

There's no way to know just who the youngest visitor to this year's Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular was, but it's probably safe to say that Ora Bristow was the oldest.

Bristow, a Plymouth Court resident, celebrated her 106th birthday Monday. Friends and family gathered that afternoon for a party, held in the dining room at Plymouth Court. A trip to the ice festival was part of the fun.

"I was a tomboy," said Bristow, who was born in northern New York state in 1883. She remembers ice skating, roller skating and tobogganing as a girl.

"We'd make taffy and we'd have fun pulling it."

Bristow and her late husband lived in Detroit for a number of years.

"I had a pretty good life," she said. "I went through life without any hardships. I was happy."

BRISTOW RAN her own home until last April; she then moved into Plymouth Court, a nursing home.

Among those celebrating the special occasion Monday were fellow Plymouth Court residents, other friends, family members and Plymouth Court staffers, as well as newspaper and television journalists.

Marjorie Howard, Bristow's 81-year-old daughter, was glad to be at the party.

"Just to know she's all right, that's the main thing," said Howard, who has one sister, a Petoskey, Mich., resident.

Bristow now has more than 100 offspring. A recent arrival, a baby girl born in North Carolina, added a seventh generation to the family.

Howard, who lives on her own in Royal Oak, considered her own 106th birthday.

"I hope if I do, I can handle it as well as she has."

Bristow never smoked, Howard said, and wasn't a teetotaler. During the party, one Plymouth Court staffer joked that Bristow liked her martinis; that comment was made in jest, Howard said.

"She's been a good sport all her life," Bristow outlived other family members, who died young, her daughter said.

THE BIRTHDAY party featured music, with the organ provided by Evola Music of Plymouth. Bristow and other partygoers took a ride to Plymouth's Kellogg Park to see the ice sculptures.

An antique Victoria carriage, pulled by a horse, was stationed outside of the health care facility, all set to take Bristow to the ice festival. The carriage is owned by Glen Hornback of Canton, a friend of Patti Moore, Plymouth Court activities director. Abe Lincoln rode in the carriage when he was a representative from Illinois, Moore said.

Riding to Kellogg Park in the carriage was against doctor's orders, so a limousine donated for the day by Don Massey Cadillac was used.

Once Bristow and the others reached the park, she rode in the horse-drawn carriage.

"She was bound and determined she was going to get into that carriage," said Patty Jamison, admissions director at Plymouth Court.

There was yet another birthday present waiting for Bristow at the park. An ice sculpture, carved to read "106 years" was donated by the Mayflower Hotel's Scott Lorenz. The sculpture was set up on the fountain in the center of the park.

"Scott Lorenz came over and told her he'll do 107 next year," Jamison said.

MONDAY WAS a busy day for Bristow, but she didn't get all that tired. She started seeing visitors at about 10 a.m. and was still going strong when she and the others returned from the ice festival.

"She wanted to know what was next," Jamison said. Bristow enjoyed watching herself on the local TV news.

"She's a sweetheart. She is one of the most vivacious ladies."

Bristow is the oldest resident at Plymouth Court, although several others are also into triple digits.

Another Plymouth Court resident, Dora Wood, will celebrate her 102nd birthday May 29. Staffers plan to hold a party for Wood, a longtime Plymouth resident who was among those attending Ora Bristow's birthday celebration.

Bristow, who turned 106 Monday, reacts to seeing the horse-drawn carriage.

Bristow admires Zeus, an Arabian horse. Bristow rode in the horse-drawn carriage after she and the others arrived at Kellogg Park Monday. Glen Hornback of Canton owns the carriage and Len Wiggins of Brighton owns Zeus.

ALS of Michigan going to bat for patients, families

By Jackie Klein
staff writer

The "Iron Horse" of baseball fell to amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, a disease that struck with such force that it dragged down even Lou Gehrig.

Since his death at the age of 37, many have fought the battle of ALS, commonly known as Lou Gherig's disease.

"Every family is its own story of courage," says Dean La Douceur, executive director of the ALS of Michigan administrative office in Southfield. "The patient lives with the progressive paralysis. But all family members are affected."

"Their loving support makes the difference in the person's ability to move, speak, eat and even breathe.

We call this 'making the most of every moment.'"

ALS OF MICHIGAN provides support groups and individual counseling for patients and caregivers. It also supplies medical equipment and money for research at the Harry J. Hoenselaar ALS Clinic in Henry Ford Hospital.

"We're tracking about 200 patients, and we expect to lose one-third this year," La Douceur says. "We don't notice an appreciable increase in the numbers of people afflicted with the neuromuscular disease. But the ability to diagnose the disease has improved."

ALS is about four times more common than muscular dystrophy and about equal in prevalence to multiple sclerosis. The cause and cure of the disease are unknown.

More men than women contract ALS, usually age 55-60. About 5-10 percent of patients have a hereditary form of the disease. The average lifespan is three to five years, but some live much longer.

La Douceur stresses the important role of the family and ALS of Michigan.

"Spouses in the same situation support one another. They need information on the patient's progress and care, and they have a thirst for knowledge about research. Family members want to understand legal issues involved in the terminal stages of a patient's life. We provide this."

NORY SMITH, support group facilitator and volunteer coordinator, said the organization hopes to start a home-care program. ALS of Michigan has three different support groups available for patients and families, one in Southfield.

"Sometimes caregivers are overwhelmed with their heavy and devastating responsibilities," she said. "People who are adjusting to the death of an ALS patient also are dealing with a massive change. They need to talk to someone in order to sort out their feelings. They made need individual counseling."

Most of the ALS patients La Douceur and Smith are involved with maintain a positive attitude. The disease is a magnifying glass of the victims' personalities, Smith and La Douceur agree.

"One of our patients who can't speak and must be fed through a tube is full of life and joy," says La Douceur. "She comes to the office and does certain tasks, using a voice computer. Many good people are suddenly afflicted with the disease. And most of them cope."

"ALS is frustrating because we don't know where it comes from. Researchers are attacking the genetic form, hoping to identify patterns in non-inherited ALS."

Local legislators share in PACs generosity

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Western Wayne's incumbent state legislators were PAC men and women when it came to financing their November re-election campaigns, with teachers, doctors and the National Rifle Association among the most frequent contributors.

More than 75 political action committees contributed to western Wayne candidates, with the average contribution $350, but challengers rarely shared in PAC generosity.

Only Jeanne Stempien, a challenger for the Plymouth-area 37th District seat, received contributions from more than one PAC, according to available state election reports.

ALL INCUMBENTS — Lyn Banks, R-Livonia; Justine Barnes, D-Westland; John Bennett, D-Redford Township; William Keith, D-Garden City; James Kosteva, D-Canton Township and Gerald Law, R-Plymouth — retained their seats.

Each received multiple PAC contributions. Among the more generous contributors:

- The Michigan Education Association. The state's largest teacher's union contributed $1,500 to Barnes, $1,000 to Bennett, $1,000 to Keith and $750 to Kosteva through its MEA-PAC. The MEA Public Affairs Council contributed $1,000 to Law.

- Hospitals and doctors. The Hospital Association PAC contributed $500 to Law, $250 to Keith and $200 to Barnes. The Michigan Doctor's PAC contributed $500 to Law and $600 to Kosteva.

- The National Rifle Association. The NRA Political Victory Fund-

Michigan gave matching $250 contributions to Barnes, Bennett, Keith and Law and a $200 contribution to Kosteva.

Education-related contributions weren't limited to the MEA. Among other PACs, the Michigan Organization of Private Vocational Schools gave $300 to Barnes and $500 to Keith. Both are members of the state House Education Committee.

Health industry contributions weren't limited to MD's and hospitals, either. The Michigan Optometric PAC gave matching $400 contributions to Barnes and Law. The Michigan Ophthalmology PAC gave $200 each to the same candidates. Barnes and Law also received $200 each from the Pharmacy PAC. Both are members of the Public Health Committee.

Most PACs played no party favorites. Not surprisingly, however, union PACs opened their wallets only for Democrats.

The UAW of Wayne County PAC contributed $2,000 to Barnes, $1,000 each to Keith and Kosteva, $1,800 to Stempien and $800 to Matthew Abel who unsuccessfully challenged Barnes.

Barnes also received $200 from the Michigan AFL-CIO. Stempien received contributions from the United Steelworkers of America and Wayne County Sheriff's Local 502.

UTILITIES AND lending institutions were bi-partisan in their giving.

Consumers Power employees contributed $1,000 and $500 respectively to Democrats Kosteva and Keith and $750 to Republican Law.

The Michigan Consolidated Gas

PAC gave $300 to Bennett.

The Michigan Bell PAC gave $200 each to Keith and Law. The AT&T PAC contributed $250 to Kosteva. Kosteva also received $150 from the Telephone Association of Michigan.

Among lending institutions, the Michigan Credit Union gave $3,000 to Keith, and $100 each to Barnes and Bennett.

Bank PACs were equally generous. Bennett, chairman of the Corporations and Finance Committee, received $500 from the Michigan Bank PAC and $300 from the Manufacturers National Bank PAC $300. The Manufacturers PAC also gave $100 to Law. Keith received $500 from the Comerica Bank PAC; Kosteva received $200 from the same source.

Other politicians also shared from their own campaign funds.

The John Dingell for Congress committee opened its coffers to Barnes, Keith and Kosteva. Each received $250 from the powerful Trenton Democrat.

Stempien received $100 from the Committee to Elect (U.S. Rep.) William Ford and $100 from McNamara's Band, a group formed on behalf of Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

The Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce PAC contributed $300 to Kosteva and $200 each to Keith and Law.

Other PACs that gave to more than one area candidate included:

- The Michigan Beer and Wine Wholesalers PAC, $500 each to Keith and Law.

- BPAC, representing Michigan home builders, $1,000 to Bennett, $600 to Law, $300 Barnes.

- Michigan Trial Lawyers PAC, $1,025 to Stempien, a Livonia-based attorney, $400 each to Barnes, Keith and Kosteva.

- RPAC, representing state realtors, $1,000 to Bennett, $500 to Keith.

- The Political Responsibility Committee of Michigan CPA's, $300 each to Kosteva and Law.

Spending varied widely in House races

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

All of the area's incumbent state House members won re-election, but for some the cost of victory was higher than for others.

Election spending for incumbents was as high as $36,000 and as low as $8,000 in area races. All outspent their foes. (For a look at campaign financing, see related story.)

John Bennett, D-Redford Township, spent the most according to election files. Bennett's campaign spent $36,230, easily outspending Republican and Libertarian Party challengers in the 34th District race.

Brady Walker, a tool maker with a Livonia firm, spent $4,800 in his unsuccessful GOP bid. While Bennett received money from 10 political action committees, as well as from private individuals, Walker's fund raising appeared limited to professional contacts and friends.

Libertarian challenger John J. Tatar said he wasn't filing a campaign spending report because he spent no money on his campaign. The district includes Redford and a section of eastern Livonia.

SPENDING LEVELS were closer in other races.

Rep. Lyn Banks, R-Livonia, spent

$8,449 and Livonia attorney Matthew Abel $7,100 in the 35th District race. The district covers most of Livonia.

Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, spent $10,827 and Schoolcraft College trustee Jeanne Stempien $9,858 in the 36th District race. The district includes Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville, Northville Township and a section of eastern Canton Township.

Rep. William Keith, D-Garden

City, spent $7,101 in the 33rd District race. GOP challenger Harold Richardson spent less than $1,000, according to campaign reports. The district includes Garden City and Inkster.

THERE WERE partial reports in the 37th and 38th District races. Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, spent $7,900 on his 37th District re-election bid. State elections officials said they hadn't yet received a report from Republican challenger David Dossette. The district includes western Canton Township, Belleville, Romulus, Wayne and Van Buren Township.

Rep. Justine Barnes, D-Westland, spent $26,998 in the 38th District. Figures weren't available for Republican challenger Kenneth Raupp.

Midwest (achoo!) no more resistant to colds — doctor

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

The Wayne County medical director disputes findings of a recent study by the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta that shows midwesterners have colds and the flu less often than people in other parts of the country.

"I was once told, figures lie and liars figure," quipped Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk of the study results. Lawrenchuk, a Livonian who has been medical director of Wayne County for six years, said the study reflects little more than how well statistics on colds and the flu are maintained in various parts of the country.

"At best, the results are guess-timates. We need a lot more research before jumping to any conclusions," Lawrenchuk said.

The study, based on figures supplied by state health departments to the National Center for Health Statistics (within the Centers for Disease Control), showed midwesterners have fewer colds and incidents of flu, and are less likely to experience loss of work due to either illness. Midwesterners are also more likely to seek medical attention when sick with a cold or the flu.

THE PROBLEM with the study arises in the reporting process, according to Lawrenchuk.

In Wayne County, for example, over 100 infectious diseases must be reported to the medical director, including acute, life-threatening infections like rabies or botulism, as well as less serious infections such as head lice or chicken pox.

Colds and the flu, however, are not reported unless incidents "occur in significant or unusual numbers" within a certain period of time. "Significant or unusual numbers of anything, even a rash, (within a certain period of time) are required to be reported," Lawrenchuk said.

Lawrenchuk and the other 47 county medical directors in Michigan report their findings to the state Department of Public Health and the figures are, in turn, passed along to the Center for Health Statistics.

Based on reported figures in 1987, midwesterners had 21 colds per 100 people. Northeasterners reported 27 colds, southerners 24 colds and westerners 33 colds per 100 people, the study said.

Westerners lost more than twice as many days from work due to colds, 33 days per 100 employees in the West, compared to 15 days per 100 workers in the Midwest. In addition, 40 percent of midwesterners had their colds attended to by doctors, compared to 31 percent of westerners.

LAWRENCHUK IS NOT alone in questioning the report.

"We need a lot more research before jumping to any conclusions."

— Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk
Wayne County health director

Dr. Robert Canon, a colds and flu specialist with the Centers for Disease Control, said the incidence of colds and flu is difficult to judge since the illnesses are so common and are not reported. In addition, incidence is dependent on age, race and sex, factors that must be considered before any regional analysis can be made.

Epidemiologist Harry McGee of Michigan's public health department said results of the survey had to have been based on "very soft data" because "the surveillance for respiratory infections is not an exact science."

In addition, statistics on the common cold are not maintained anywhere in the country and much of the information that is gathered is based on such "indirect indicators" as laboratory results, reports of widespread illness in institutional settings and causes of death.

"The survey was a good measure of guess work," McGee said.

Of the legally reportable infectious diseases in Michigan during 1988, chicken pox led the list with 42,549 outbreaks of the disease. Gonorrhea was second, with 37,435 cases reported. There 430 cases of hepatitis A, 668 of hepatitis B and 1,383 cases of salmonella bacteria, the deadly food poisoning.

There were also 362 new cases of AIDS reported, compared to 285 cases in 1987.

State tax expenditures higher than tax bills

By Tim Richard
staff writer

On paper, it looks as if Michigan state and local governments collect $15 billion in taxes.

But when all the exemptions are figured in, only 40 percent of that is paid to state and local treasurers. People, businesses and non-profit groups get $9.2 billion back in so-called "tax expenditures."

"This tax report is not advocating either the elimination or the expansion of tax expenditures," said state treasurer Robert Bowman. "The report simply details the magnitude of the tax-reducing features we have built into our system."

'This tax report is not advocating either the elimination or the expansion of tax expenditures.' — Robert Bowman state treasurer

"The information is important to policymakers who must monitor and review the structure of our tax program."

THE REPORT has the lofty title of Tax Expenditure Appendix to the 1987-88 fiscal year Executive Budget. Running 70 pages, it was published by Bowman and budget director Shelby Solomon.

Shelby Solomon.

In 1987-88, state laws granted $9.2 billion in tax expenditures, up from $8.9 billion in the previous fiscal year.

Another way of looking at it: Tax expenditures are actually larger than the $6 billion state general fund budget.

To some, tax expenditures are "loopholes." But the Legislature doesn't see it that way.

Don Drake, who heads tax analysis in the governor's budget office, said tax expenditures can be defined as: "a preference granted to a group within the tax structure," often to encourage the group to do something it might not otherwise do.

MOST PEOPLE benefit from some tax expenditure, even if it's a simple matter of going to the dry cleaner or barber. Services aren't subject to the Michigan sales tax.

Michigan voters exempted groceries and prescription drugs from the sales tax through a constitutional amendment.

In dollar terms, here are the state's and local units' major tax expenditures:

- $2.6 billion for local property taxes — abatements for new industries; exemptions for public buildings such as schools and courthouses, churches and some charitable institutions; business exemptions for air and water pollution control equipment.

- $2.8 billion for individual income taxes — best known is the personal exemption. A major component is the homestead property tax exemption ("circuit breaker" granted to those whose property taxes exceed 3.5 percent of household income. Also exempt are employer contributions to health and life insurance; contributions to pension plans and Social Security taxes; and contributions to colleges and community foundations.

- $2 billion for sales and use taxes — besides groceries, prescription drugs and services, this exemption also applies to labor on auto repairs, medical and accounting services.

- $1 billion for the single business tax — capital acquisition deduction, credits for low-profit firms and college contributions.

- $500 million for the intangibles tax — deposits in banks and thrift institutions; interest on Michigan municipal and U.S. treasury bonds.

S'craft to offer nursing classes

Three courses for nurses will be offered this winter at Schoolcraft College.

A registered nurse refresher course, NAPENS theory and medication and lab experience and math review will be offered.

The registered nurse refresher course explores individualized patient care, current diagnostic studies and current patient management skills. Students will review nursing skills and become familiar with new skills and equipment. The class begins Tuesday, Jan. 17.

NAPENS theory covers the study of medication and its relationship to the body. Emphasis will be placed upon special nursing care measures related to specific medication.

It provides hands-on experience in working with needles and syringes and distributing medication. The class meets 9 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. Wednesdays for 12 weeks, beginning Feb. 8. The course fee is $130.

Math review for nurses provides students with necessary skills to make mathematical medical conversions from pounds to kilograms and grains to grams. Students will also learn how to calculate the flow-rate of intravenous solutions. The class meets 8-9 p.m. Mondays for eight weeks beginning Feb. 20. The course fee is $18.

Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile, Livonia. Additional information is available by calling 462-4448.

Dems reject GOP's 'reform' rules

Here's how House members were recorded on major roll call votes in the opening week of the 101st Congress. There were no Senate roll calls.

REFORM RULES — By a vote of 231 for and 162 against, the House endorsed the Democratic majority's proposed rules for its operation in the 101st Congress.

The vote cleared the way for routine adoption of the Democratic rules, which are essentially unchanged from those used in the 100th Congress. It rebuffed a reform package authored by House Republicans.

At issue were GOP complaints that Democrats in recent Congresses have used their control over committee and floor operations to all but eliminate Republican opposition. Republicans say increasingly restrictive rules also lessen accountability to constituents and make it more difficult for public opinion to influence Congress.

The GOP rules sought to:

- Require roll call votes on final passage of all appropriations and taxation bills and members' pay raises.

Roll Call Report

- Substitute a five-day work week for the present three-day week.

- Outlaw proxy voting in committees.

- Require committees to be more open in conducting meetings and divulging voting records.

Republicans also attacked the increasing use of "closed" rules that limit or prohibit floor amendments, the Democratic majority's growing reliance on budget act waivers to skirt statutory deficit limits and the practice of adding unauthorized money and programs to appropriations bills.

Also, the GOP rules required the House to include itself in civil rights, fair labor practices and other social legislation it has passed for the rest of the country and directed the Rules Committee to recommend ways of streamlining the House's committee bureaucracy.

Minority Leader Bob Michel, R-Ill., said the GOP rules would "blow the doors off the chamber and let in the clean, fresh air of open and free debate."

Democrats did not comment on the Republican proposal.

Members voting yes supported House rules put forth by the Democratic majority. Voting yes: Democrats Dennis Hertel of Harper Woods, William Ford of Taylor and Sander Levin of Southfield.

Voting no: Republicans Carl Pursell of Plymouth and William Broomfield of Lake Orion.

CLOSED RULES — By a vote of 163 for and 239 against, the House rebuffed a Republican attack on the Democratic majority's increasing use of closed debating rules.

Closed rules set by the Rules Committee ban floor amendments or limit the number of amendments that can be offered to a particular bill during floor debate.

Republicans say their use has nearly quadrupled in the past decade, frustrating the GOP minority's efforts to present alternatives to Democratic legislation.

This vote killed a GOP attempt to require four days' notice of any Rules Committee meeting that could send bills to the floor under restrictive rules.

"This House is becoming unrepresentative and undemocratic," said Rep. Gerald Solomon, R-N.Y.

Democrats did not comment on the proposal.

Members voting yes favored four days' notice of Rules Committee meetings that could produce closed rules for floor debate.

Voting yes: Republicans Pursell and Broomfield.

Voting no: Democrats Hertel, Ford and Levin.

$2.3 million in drug dealer assets seized last year

Wayne County Sheriff's Deputies seized a small mountain of illegal drugs in 1988 while arresting 500 alleged drug traffickers, Sheriff Robert Ficano announced this week.

Under new drug forfeiture laws, the department's narcotics unit confiscated more than $2.3 million in drug dealer assets, Ficano said, almost double that seized in 1987.

A commercial building and one residential building were among the items seized, according to department records. Eleven automobiles were also seized.

Records also show roughly 40 pounds of cocaine, 6.5 ounces of heroin, more than 64 pounds of marijuana and 3,482 illegal pills and capsules were also confiscated.

Statistics show the unit is making a dent in county drug trafficking, Ficano said.

"Our efforts, our time will make a difference," he said. "We must give greater attention to reducing the need for drugs, if there is no demand, there will be no supply."

The narcotics unit is financed through sale of the confiscated property.

This year college students can get a head start on their job search by attending ESD's Career Day on Feb. 9, at the Rackham Memorial Building located at 100 Farnsworth in Detroit.

"Career Day gives students a chance to meet with representatives from local automotive, engineering and architectural companies to discuss employment opportunities and to learn more about career outlooks in technical fields," said Marika Diamond, project manager.

Company exhibits open at 3:30 with a guest speaker scheduled at 5 p.m. to discuss future challenges for the engineer. An hors d'oeuvres and punch reception follows the guest speaker. Cost is $5 per student.

Career Day is sponsored by ESD's Student Council. For reservations, call ESD, 832-5400.

GOP school aid plan would divert more state spending

(AP) — Just weeks after the Michigan Legislature killed a school finance plan, Senate Republican leaders have drafted a new proposal. They say it will boost state financing of public schools by more than $600 million a year.

But it, too, faces a long road. Organizers must gather enough petition signatures and win either acceptance by the Legislature or approval by state voters.

The proposal doesn't call for a tax increase, but would set aside a larger share of the state budget for schools, according to Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron.

"This is a concept we've argued for from day one," DeGrow said. "This is re-establishing priorities."

He said backers will discuss the idea with education, business and other groups and decide near the end of January whether to launch a petition drive to place it on the ballot.

THE PROPOSAL is aimed at reducing the gap between rich and poor school districts in Michigan. Currently, the poorest districts spend less than $2,500 per pupil a year. The richer ones — such as Bloomfield Hills, Birmingham, Southfield, Farmington and Livonia — allocate $5,000 to $7,000 per pupil per year.

Senate GOP leaders said they would draft such a proposal after the Legislature failed last month to approve legislation to cut property taxes for homeowners and businesses, raise the sales tax to 5 percent from 4 percent, and dedicate 10.7 percent of the budget for education.

DeGrow said many school officials are supporting the new idea, but he acknowledged that it's expected to draw opposition from many lawmakers who want to protect other areas of the budget.

"House Democrats are not real keen on this," he said.

THE PROPOSAL, he said, calls for earmarking 11 percent of the state budget for education in 1991. Each year for five years, it would be raised by 1 percent year to a total of 15 percent. Now, 7.4 percent of the budget goes for schools.

The budget for the current fiscal year calls for spending $6.7 billion from the general fund, the state's main checking account.

Three percent of the budget would be set aside for community colleges, and the state would guarantee at least $3,000 per year for each school pupil, DeGrow said.

He said the program would be funded by growth in the state budget, as long as spending for other programs is frozen. But he said an extra $230 million would be needed in the first year of the plan.

If lawmakers decide to go ahead, they would start circulating petitions in April, DeGrow said.

They would have to collect 191,726 valid signatures within six months to force a special election, although the Legislature would have an opportunity to pass the law itself before the election is held.

Also backing the new plan is Senate Majority Leader John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant.

BUT THE CHAIRMAN of the Senate Appropriations Committee is cool to the idea.

The Booth Newspapers reported that Sen. Harry Gast, R-St. Joseph, said the budgets of at least four state departments would have to be wiped out to meet the proposed school spending increases.

"I'm not happy about it," Gast said. "I think they should define where these dollars are going to come from."

Cluttered scenery Voluntary compliance is key

IF YOU feel overwhelmed by the clutter of signs screaming at you, take heart in a sign ordinance change that the city of Plymouth has in the works.

The more restrictive sign ordinance, designed to reduce clutter along all major roads, was proposed by Mayor Karl Gansler II earlier this month. It would essentially outlaw all business pole signs and limit identification ground signs to an area of 32 square feet and not to exceed 8 feet in height.

We support the mayor's effort to clean up "sign pollution" and believe the new ordinance is good for Plymouth.

Let's not ruin Plymouth's charm with a lot of large signs cluttering the scenery and littering the lawns. Too often community leaders forget to plan in this regard. And then after a pattern is set they realize it will take a lot of hard work to make the changes.

NOW IS a good time to step back, examine the problem and take the necessary steps to correct it.

The best calling card a business can have is a sign. But since Plymouth is a far cry in distance and style from Las Vegas, there's really no need for big signs and flashing bright lights.

As Gansler said: "Bigger isn't always better."

Often it's the smaller, understated signs that draw the most viewers and ultimately more customers.

The ordinance promotes ground signs, like the "Thomson McKinnon Securities Inc." sign on Main Street between Ann Arbor Trail and Ann Arbor Road. It discourages signs atop poles, like the one across the street from McKinnon. A Pier 1 sign is perched atop a Dominos Pizza sign, which sits on a Georgia's Gift Gallery sign. The three signs exemplify the type of construction that would be outlawed by the proposal being considered by Plymouth city commissioners.

A timetable outlining when all existing signs would have to come into compliance is undetermined. Gansler suggested 12 years and the planning commission is pushing for five years. Seven to 10 years would be a reasonable compromise.

Regardless of the time limit, we strongly encourage voluntary compliance. A spirit of cooperation accomplishes much more in a community than strife and legal battles.

Mary Roehr, executive director of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, said she's unaware of any major discontent about the ordinance change among business people.

"I have not heard from any business people who have voiced their concerns to me about the sign ordinance," Roehr said. "In fact we went to the initial meeting and I asked the planning commission to give a little extra time. It really didn't seem to be an issue for a lot of business people."

THE FIRST step in approving the ordinance change is a public reading at a city commission meeting. This time is designated for comments from the public. This reading could happen as early as Monday.

This type of change calls for participation from residents and business people. Discussing different points of view is bound to bring about the best possible ordinance. Speak now or live with the consequences later.

Final approval would be granted two weeks after the first public reading.

Even though final approval sounds definitive, it won't close the book on the sign ordinance. Actually, it's expected that minor changes would be made for two or three years afterward.

We applaud city officials for taking action on visual blight, before the situation gets critical.

We encourage business people to follow their lead and comply with the proposed ordinance changes as soon as possible.

Community image is important to business and certainly this proposed ordinance change will add to Plymouth's sterling character.

Dr. King Cherish his unifying dream

CELEBRATING the memory of Martin Luther King Jr. is essential to all suburban residents — black and white.

And while the civil rights leader's birthday on Jan. 16 has been proclaimed a national holiday, many suburban communities quietly balk at the idea.

That's a shame.

Many ask why they should celebrate. After all, some say, we don't outwardly celebrate national holidays dedicated to other leaders. Others see Dr. King as a leader solely for the black community and leave the commemoration to them.

Hence a tradition is developing that sees racially mixed municipalities like Southfield honoring Dr. King with major events, and most other suburban communities doing little, if anything. Of course, exceptions do exist. Each year Birmingham dedicates more time and resources to the event.

Some of the neglect, we are sure, is based simply on an absent-minded tendency. But we are just as sure that others refuse to honor Dr. King because of racist attitudes.

PREJUDICE is an ever-lingering danger in our society. It feeds on itself like a dirty wound, poisoning more and more of the body-politic.

Left to fester, it will destroy us.

It is good medicine to remind ourselves that people do exist who have the courage to actively fight against the sickness that continually threatens us.

Dr. King showed us the way. Without his efforts yesterday, we would be living in a very different world today.

We are heartened to see that some communities and educational institutions are getting behind the effort to make Dr. King a national hero in the hearts of coming generations.

We must foster the values he taught us so that others will have the courage to continue the battle which, when won, will set all of us free.

We need to commemorate his activities so those of us who lived through that stormy era never forget the struggle we endured. We need to honor Dr. King so those who were born after his death can learn from the courageous example he set.

Since his assassination, Dr. King has been nearly forgotten by an entire generation now verging on adulthood.

They don't know about the force of the firehoses unleashed against unarmed demonstrators, who fought only for their basic civil rights.

They are unaware that before Dr. King's crusade, thousands were tortured and lynched because they were born black.

They have been cheated out of learning about an era when a majority of America was finally brought together to stamp out racism.

They have been kept in ignorance about the dream that Dr. King so eloquently outlined that day long ago before the Lincoln Memorial.

WE ARE heartened to see that some communities and educational institutions are getting behind the effort to make Dr. King a national hero in the hearts of coming generations.

In February, Black Awareness Month, Rochester's Oakland University has outlined an ambitious program to help all of us learn more about blacks' contribution to our culture.

And the University of Michigan has an entire slate of programs during Dr. King's birthday to help all of us remember.

We believe it crucial that even more educational centers and municipalities kick in to honor this great American.

Engendering the spirit of Dr. King in the very young is probably the most important effort of all. If we can bring up a new generation with a better understanding of racial prejudice, we have a winning chance for a new society.

Honoring Dr. King once again gives us all a chance to learn more about each other's cultures, to erase the stereotypes that hinder our efforts for a unified society.

Respect can age fast, so can the new year

THE YEAR began on a good note. I saw a glimmer of respect, perhaps even awe, in the eyes of the teenager who baby sits for our 2-year-old.

Moments earlier the look in her eyes was more skeptical upon hearing that singer George Michael's latest was among the compact disc selections in our limited musical library.

"Give me a break," she all but said. George Michael? No way. She might have thought I meant George Jones if she were old enough to know who that is, but in her humble opinion, George Michael was out of my league.

This is the same young woman who late last year grimaced when told that my wife and I were off to see "Everybody's All-American" at the movies. She would have opted for "Child's Play," which I gather features a character who would be a perfect blind date for Freddie of Elm Street nightmare fame. Or is he in Halloween?

YOU SEE, I not only can't tell those two sequel-happy scare-flicks apart, but I've never seen any of them, which comes as no surprise to my baby sitter who already has me pegged as an old fogey who certainly doesn't have any George Michael music hanging around.

George Michael, to my brethren in the Old Fogey Before Your Time club, is an English singer whose hits include "Kissing a Fool," "Father Figure" and "I Want Your Sex."

which is sort of a sequel to "I Want to Hold Your Hand." When I told that to my baby sitter she gave me the screwy look she reserves for the times I say the dumb things that she doesn't want to comment on since, after all, I am the person who determines her tip.

MY BABY SITTER'S unspoken but very apparent critiques of my musical and theatrical tastes have demolished my fraudulent belief that since my son is only 2, I must not be any older than the typical parent of a 2-year-old. I cultured that canard carefully (How about that? A carefully cultured canard), even to the point of not reading the youth music page in our own newspaper's Street Scene. I don't read it because I don't want to be faced with the fact that I don't recognize any of the featured recording artists.

But the ruse began cracking when I told Rachel, the baby sitter, that my favorite heavy metal performers were the guys who mined iron ore in the Upper Peninsula.

AFTER THAT, I could tell that my status as a "cool" adult was withering. But then I purchased a George Michael recording, which impressed her to no end and which, in turn, sent me off to the movies in a great mood about how wonderful 1989 was and how trivial things like parental responsibility, mortgage payments, home repairs and the like should never prematurely age you.

"You are as young as you feel," I said to my wife as we returned from the show.

"You have a leak in your living room ceiling," my baby sitter said, after pocketing her night's pay. "I put your George Jones albums under it."

New precinct is a mistake

To the editor:
Plymouth-Canton Community schools have just announced the formation of a new voting precinct, Precinct 15, bounded by Ann Arbor Trail, McClumpha, Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon Road. For school elections only, Precinct 15 residents will vote at Pioneer Middle School, 46081 Ann Arbor Road. The area covered by the new school Precinct 15 presently uses West Middle School for voting.

The reason given by the Board of Education for this change is to reduce long voter lines at West Middle. If long lines are a problem at West for school elections, I certainly have not noticed it in my 25 years of voting in virtually every school election. Sure, I've waited in line for township elections at West, especially during the recent presidential election, but never for school elections which usually have low turnouts.

It seems especially ironic that a precinct realignment should be made at this particular time in view of the school's expressed interest in working jointly with local government officials toward increased cooperation and more efficient use of resources.

Under the auspices of the school board, meetings have been held to discuss areas of common concern.

One of these items discussed was the degree of voter confusion caused by having separate places to vote for school and governmental elections.

In fact, a committee was appointed to determine if it is possible to design precincts in such a way that every one would vote in the same place regardless of whether they were voting on school or government issues. Now, it appears that instead of reducing voter confusion, the board has taken action to increase complexity.

One could interpret the board's action in a cynical way, for example, the schools actually desire to increase voter turnout as a means of improving the board's chances of passing millages. But they wouldn't do that, would they?

Remove snow or face fine

It is that time again when we must remind residents and merchants that they must remove snow and ice from their sidewalks within 24 hours after a snowfall. Failure to do so may result in the Public Works Department cleaning the walks at a cost of $50 per hour with a one-hour minimum.

Commercial and industrial establishments who hire contractors to plow their lots are reminded to inform their contractors not to plow snow on to city-owned streets or block sidewalks. Violators will be fined as per city ordinance.

We are requesting the cooperation of all residents and merchants in Plymouth to comply with this ordinance.

Thank you.

Murder case sparks ire

I would like to comment on the article in last week's paper about the man who murdered his wife and hid her body in the freezer.

The fact that a murder could be kept hidden for three years in a community this size is unbelievable. Moreover, the fact that the daughter had a "dream" of her mother being hidden in a freezer is not only beyond belief but insulting.

This whole incident puts our police department in a poor light. What ever happened to investigating and diligence in their work? All I can say is if this is any example of how Canton police fight crime maybe they should have their guns taken away and be given Ouija boards.

In Twain territory

A reporter's job is never done

NATURALLY, the best yarn of the trade I've heard lately had its setting in Virginia City. A century ago, the Nevada mountain town was the West's mining metropolis, the heart of one of the richest deposits of gold and silver ever discovered. Of its 110 saloons, the Bucket of Blood still appeals best to tourists like myself, although Virginia City's permanent population is down to about 1,500 from the 30,000 of its heyday.

When I used the word "naturally," I had in mind the fact that Nevada's first newspaper was the Virginia City Territorial Enterprise and two of the reporters who worked there were Mark Twain and Bret Harte. Twain and Harte didn't gain their lasting literary recognition until later, but that didn't stop tourist trap entrepreneurs from opening a Mark Twain Museum of Memories to corral as many of today's inflationary dollars as possible.

THE OUTSIDE world hears mostly about Las Vegas, Reno and Lake Tahoe when Nevada is mentioned and, as one writer put it, "20 minutes from the clatter of Las Vegas and Reno the only sound is wind brushing across miles of sage." Let me tell you, in winter it's a damn cold wind, too.

It was inevitable that I would be escorted to Virginia City where much has been done to restore the boom town appearance of the 1870s when, so historians claim, a lady named Julia Bulette was revered by the town's male population as "the Queen of Sporting Row."

I have a notion that Twain and Harte liked their life up in the crag-

Fred DeLano

gy mountains and also that they suffered from a malady that's universal among good reporters, inability to leave their job at the office when quitting time came. I can't possibly imagine Samuel Clemens, which was Twain's true name, passing up a good story and telling his editor, "Sorry, it's my day off."

That's why I think he'd chuckle at a 1989 tale told by John Miller of an experience the latter had in recent years while working as a public relations man for a Virginia City mining company.

IT WAS a job which included showing out-of-town reporters, photographers and free-lance writers the historic sites, and among those who arrived on assignment were a writer and photographer from Penthouse Magazine. By mid-afternoon they decided they had seen it all, which I can well believe, and gave themselves the rest of the afternoon off in favor of a saloon stop.

Word had spread that these visitors were from Penthouse and in the bar a few bystanders butted in with questions about rather intimate material which had been published.

"Our group had grown to six or seven guys," Miller recalls, "when this lady got up off her stool at the other end of the bar, walked over and zoomed in on the photographer, asking, 'Are you the fellow who takes pictures for Penthouse?'

"He agreed that he was. 'Then, tell me what you think about this.' With that, she whipped off her sweatshirt and presented him — and everybody else — with a view of her abundant feminine charms."

"The photographer avoided offering either criticism or praise, talked her into putting her shirt back on, and then explained to her that he wasn't the one who decides who gets to pose for the magazine. He sent her on her way with a business card giving the Penthouse telephone number, suggesting she call his boss if she was truly serious."

"She thanked him with a grin, stuffed the business card in a hip pocket of her jeans, and walked back to a noisy, standing ovation from the group she was with at the other end of the bar."

At Miller's table there was a prolonged silence, maybe from awe, and John remembers that finally it was broken by the photographer who perhaps felt the lack of conversation was his fault.

"That's the trouble with this job," he said to no one in particular. "You can't leave your work at the office."

In that sense, I doubt if Virginia City has changed much from Twain's day, but I didn't stay long enough to find out. Or maybe I simply got there too late. Fred DeLano is a freelance writer. He lives in Plymouth when he's not on the road.

Doves need target practice to win peace

OUR FRIENDS from Covenant for Peace have been strangely silent during the last month about the events in Libya, West Germany, Switzerland, Scotland and other tense points around the globe.

Unless you have been in a cocoon several years, you know Covenant is the group that holds marches and prayer vigils outside a Williams International plant on Maple Road in Commerce Township.

Why that plant? It produces engines for low-flying cruise missiles that can carry nuclear warheads into eastern Europe, particularly to the Soviet Union.

And we all should believe, if we've paid attention to sermons and polls of school children, that nuclear weapons are the awfulest thing in the world, even though they haven't been used in combat in 44 years.

THE POINT is that it's time for peace-loving people to consider another target besides Williams.

The U.S. government says it has irrefutable evidence of Libyan involvement in an April 1986 bombing of LaBelle discotheque in West Berlin. No nuclear weapons were involved, but an American soldier and a Turkish woman were killed and 155 others injured.

Where are the anti-bomb protests outside LaBelle discotheque?

Ever hear of Imhausen-Chemie? A medium-sized chemical firm based at Lahr in Germany's Black Forest, it specializes in plastics. Imhausen-Chemie is the outfit that appears to be providing Libya with equipment and expertise to build a poison gas factory at Rabata.

The Libyans say, shucks, it's a pharmaceuticals plant — but since when does one need a toxic waste emissions system, fortress-like construction and Soviet anti-aircraft missiles on the perimeter to make aspirins?

Chemical weapons, once considered unthinkable, were used by Iraq in its war against Iran. Chemical weapons pose a far more immediate threat of death than nuclear weapons.

So far, peace demonstrators haven't targeted either Imhausen-Chemie or the companies that sold to Iraq. They're missing something.

There is a Swiss outfit called Imhico that the United States is accusing of acting as an intermediary between Imhausen and Libya. No demonstrations there, either.

NO NUCLEAR weapons were used to blow up Pan Am flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland — but 270 people died violently.

No nuclear weapons were used when terrorists attacked airports in Rome and Vienna in December of 1985, but 16 innocent people were killed. The United States says Libya is harboring the group that carried out the attacks.

No nuclear weapons were used in April of 1986 when Libya fired missiles at a U.S. station on the Italian island of Lampedusa.

No nuclear weapons were used by Iraq on its upstart dissidents — just poison gas.

THERE ARE oodles of places that deal with terrorists or make-up-to-date weapons that would make far better targets for demonstrations than Williams International.

Is it too far to travel to picket those West German and Swiss firms? How about a French embassy or French airlines? Remember in 1986 when the U.S. bombed Libyan military installations and terrorist bases in Tripoli and Benghazi? Remember which country wouldn't let our planes fly across? France.

Nuclear weapons are an expensive joke. By an unwritten treaty, no nation will use them. It's time to take the spotlight off the unused weapon that has been the keystone of the U.S.'s policy and put it on the weapons and nations that are really killing people in the real world.

This "blame America first" stuff, to borrow Jeane Kirkpatrick's apt phrase, is outdated and irrelevant.

Tim Richard, political writer and columnist, is the Oakland County editor of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Picking schools

Having a choice can ease conflicts

Q: What is meant by open enrollment?

Open enrollment, in general, means that parents have the right to pick the school they wish their child to go to within their own-school district.

Originally I did not believe in this concept but after having worked in two school districts with open enrollment I am convinced that it is the appropriate way to address certain issues. For instance, if a parent can't stand a particular principal, teacher or program in a certain elementary building they have the right to move that child to another elementary building. Conversely, it can be a break for the building principal and or teacher who could be very competent but for some reason there exists such a personality conflict between the parent and principal or teacher it rubs off negatively on the child.

In an extreme case, I knew of one child who was an emotional basket case in the third grade in one elementary, having been labeled a "wimp" by his peers. This child was moved to another elementary school where his reputation was not known and where he blossomed into a well-adjusted, bright child with a healthy self image. The change can't be totally attributed to a school change, but I believe it played a major role.

Caution needs to be considered in districts with two or more high schools. If one high school has a "great" high school football team or outstanding marching band and the other high school does not, subtle recruiting could occur. Recruiting commitment needs to be made by teachers, coaches or band leaders at the outset. Open enrollment usually has some restrictions.

In most cases, the parent must furnish the transportation for the child to the other school. Open enrollment is not a cure all but it does resolve some situations to the benefit of all parties. The percent of parents who take the option is usually less than 1 percent. This is because most children and young adults don't want to leave their neighborhood or classmate friends for football, band or for whatever reason.

Malls find role as social centers

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Here she comes, Miss Winter Wonderland — fairest of the fair at Wonderland Mall.

The beauty pageant, conceived and launched last year by Wonderland publicist Laura Solakian, reflects what malls have come to mean to many who use them.

"Malls are no longer mere centers of retail activity. They now serve as social centers as well."

"Involving people in mall activity," is one reason for the Miss Wonderland contest, according to Solakian. That, and "offering young ladies who are interested in modeling an opportunity for exposure."

Last year, 26 teenage girls participated in competition. An equal number is expected to enter this year's competition on Jan. 21.

While mall-sponsored beauty pageants may be new, special events hosted by individual malls are not. The events are aimed at meeting the needs and desires of today's consumer who increasingly views the mall as a place to both shop and socialize.

"NOWADAYS, malls have become a central part of most everyone's life, especially on a cold day when people don't want to spend a lot of money but want to get out of the house," said Al Messer, manager of Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn. For teens, malls have replaced drive-in movies or sweet shops of yesteryear, according to Messer. Teens gather in Fairlane by the dozens, especially on Saturday nights when they visit with one another, attend a show and get something to eat "without having to go out in the cold."

Today's mall serves as a meeting place for others as well.

"Any morning about 9 a.m. I can show you a group of about 20 Greek seniors. They meet in front of Penney's. They talk a while, reminisce. Then they drift on a bit further, stop and visit again. This continues until about 10:30, when the mall starts filling up with shoppers. Then it gets too crowded for them and they leave," Messer said.

Today's mall also serves as a classroom, according to Messer, who said he and his staff frequently conduct tours for students from area schools and the mentally handicapped who "arrive by the busload to learn how to shop in a protected environment."

COME RAIN or shine, hundreds arrive at Westland Center on Wayne and Warren roads early each morning, dressed for exercise and walking. They are the 400-plus members of the Westland Pacers, a walking group hosted by the mall.

Security guards trained in emergency medical procedures keep watch as the Pacers walk and talk their way around a course that winds past 94 shops lining the mall's promenade.

"Many of them are retirees or singles. They come to be with other people, to get out of the house," according to Catherine O'Malley of Center Companies who manages Westland and three other area malls.

Exercise is one of many activities sponsored by the mall. Westland also offers "coffees, card parties, lectures, cooking classes, the healthorama and on and on," O'Malley said.

In the six years she has managed malls, O'Malley said she has witnessed a maturation in the relationship between consumer and mall.

"It's a growing partnership," she said, that has "long-term consequences."

It is also "a two-way street." "The mall is basically retail oriented. But we are also offering community betterment because we are committed to giving back to the community," O'Malley said.

THE NUMBER OF social users in malls has increased substantially during the 10 years Phil Morosco has been involved in the business. Now manager of Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, Morosco said the surge in social users occurred some five years ago and was first noticed in a marked increase in the number of daily walkers.

Capitalizing on this group, Twelve Oaks now offers daily a low-impact aerobic class for people over 50 years of age. The class is taught by physical education coaches from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

"The program is specifically designed for people who use the mall, but who are not necessarily coming here to shop," Morosco said.

To accommodate social users, most malls now contain conference or community rooms that are available for use by the public.

With the increase in social users, mall programs are now able "to reach a major audience in the community," according to O'Malley of Westland.

And while pretty maidens vie for the title of Miss Wonderland later this month, on the same date in Livonia Mall health-guru-turned-entertainer Richard Simmons will demonstrate his exercise style.

Wholesome, upbeat entertainment like that which Simmons provides is regular fare at Livonia Mall, an 80-shop center that bills itself as "a family mall," according to mall spokesman Bill Checks.

"We are interested in the entire family, in safety, and in a nice shopping atmosphere," he said, adding that when the mall was built in 1964 it was marketed as a "neighborhood shopping center."

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Strolling the mall, even before it opens, is a popular form of exercise.

Focus is on fine arts

"Michigan Art '89" offers festival visitors something to see indoors. The art exhibit, open to the public, is on display at Growth Works, 271 S. Main in Plymouth.

The opening reception for the show was held the evening of Wednesday, Jan. 4, at Growth Works. The exhibit features work from a statewide fine arts competition, programmed by the Plymouth Community Arts Council and sponsored by Michigan National Bank.

Many hours of work went into organizing this year's event.

"It went very well," said Janet Campbell, co-chairwoman with Doris Chatterley for the show. "The second year, you've learned from your mistakes."

THE SHOW was held for the first time during last January's Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular. Organizers wanted to present a fine arts competition and exhibit.

"I think we had a good variety," Chatterley said of this year's exhibit. "There's a little bit of everything."

The exhibit features a variety of media, including sculpture, metalwork, oil, acrylic, watercolor and others.

The competition was open to Michigan artists age 18 and older. Entries came from throughout the state, including the Upper Peninsula, Chatterley said.

The arts council holds an arts and crafts show each year during the Plymouth Fall Festival.

"This is more fine art," Campbell said. "And it's different each year."

The show reflects the juror's tastes, she said. This year's juror was Carol Ann Carter, an associate professor of fine arts at the University of Michigan.

The fine arts competition helps to expose people to a variety of art forms.

"It's nice for them to come down and have something different to see," Chatterley said.

The opening reception drew a crowd to the art exhibit. The exhibit, held in conjunction with the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular, will continue through Sunday, Jan. 15.

This pet peeve hasn't dampened enthusiasm

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Pauline Norman has been on the job for just over a year at the Plymouth Community Arts Council. She enjoys her work, but does have one pet peeve: being stopped on the wrong side of a non-moving train.

Norman is the administrative assistant for the arts council.

"I've had a long interest in the arts," she said.

The northwest Detroit resident joked that she is among those who don't know what they want to do when they grow up.

At the arts council, she is responsible for working with the public. She gives registration information for classes, receives entries for arts competitions and provides general support for the executive director, Susan Froelich, and the volunteers.

NORMAN HAD volunteered at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association and continues to serve on that association's board. Two years ago, she ran a statewide fine arts competition for the BBAA; she also was chairwoman for a fund-raising auction.

Norman heard about the job opening at the PCAC and decided to apply.

She has found the energy level at the two arts associations is the same, but the BBAA operates on a larger scale.

"Birmingham has a much larger facility. Membership is much larger," she said.

THE PCAC, founded in 1969, offers a variety of arts activities for the Plymouth-Canton community. Those include: arts classes for people of all ages; scholarships for students; arts programs in schools; an annual statewide fine arts competition; an annual arts and crafts show; and an art rental gallery.

Norman generally works from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. weekdays.

"I'm enjoying it," she said. "I like working half days."

Norman wouldn't mind working more hours in the future as the arts council grows.

She is looking forward to the growth of the PCAC and would like to benefit from that. She would be interested in taking on more programming responsibilities, to "use some of my skills in a different way," she said.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Pauline Norman has been on the job as administrative assistant at the Plymouth Community Arts Council for just over a year.

HER INTEREST in art goes back a number of years. Norman, 45, is a graduate of Western Michigan University, where she received a bachelor of science degree, specializing in occupational therapy.

"That's one of the things that attracted me to it," she said.

She has found involvement in the arts is therapeutic.

Norman worked for 17 years as an occupational therapist, mostly part time. Most of that work was in hospitals. She worked for the Detroit Recreation Department, coordinating a unit integrating handicapped senior citizens into established recreational activities.

SHE CHOSE to work part time, allowing her to be home with her children.

"For me, it wasn't possible to do everything," she said.

She wasn't interested in trying to be Supermom.

"I believe that parenting is important. I'm glad that I did."

Norman and her husband have a 19-year-old son, a sophomore at Wilberforce University in Ohio, and a 17-year-old daughter, a senior at Mumford High School in Detroit.

Library: The place to be

By Julie Brown
staff writer

These days, public libraries house a lot more than books. In the past couple of years, the Plymouth Dunning-Hough Library staff has developed an extensive collection of books on tape.

There are now more than 100 books on tape, including fiction and non-fiction. Some authors, such as Edna Ferber, have made recordings of their own work.

"The books on tape can give you a flavor of the author's own cadence," said Pat Thomas, library director.

Librarians try to get unabridged versions of books on tape and listen to them before making purchasing decisions. The books are used by people who are traveling or commuting, and also find their way into homes.

"It's a nice alternative to television," Thomas said. Her family enjoys listening to books on tape during the evening.

THE LIBRARY, which serves Plymouth and Plymouth Township residents, has a collection of books on tape for children. Librarians try to have books available with the tapes, giving children an opportunity to read along.

"It's a good educational tool," Thomas met the afternoon of Friday, Jan. 6, with members of the Woman's Club of Plymouth. During the meeting, held at the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, she talked about what's available at the Dunning-Hough Library.

In addition to the books on tape, the library has a large-print book and magazine collection. Fiction, non-fiction, mysteries, romances, travel books and others can be found.

The library also has Apple IIe computers available for public use. The software collection includes public domain software that can be copied and taken home.

The computers are used by many students and adults. Some of the adults are going back to school, while others use the computers for work projects.

The library in Plymouth has a collection of materials for adult basic education students. Library staffers worked closely with Plymouth-Canton Community Education staffers, developing that collection. Materials were bought with grant money from the federal government.

THERE'S STILL a place for books in the library. Thomas recommended several books during her presentation.

The Woman's Club of Plymouth purchases books for the library as a memorial tribute to club members. "The Great School Debate," edited by Beatrice and Ronald Gross, is among books the club has provided.

"We don't necessarily steer toward controversial issues," Librarians try to provide a balance of material to address current issues.

Bruce Catton's "Michigan: A Bicentennial History" comes highly recommended by Thomas. The book, part of a series done for the bicentennial, was bought for the library by the club. The book is used by many students and other readers who want background on their home state or adopted state.

Another book bought by the club is "We Americans," published by the National Geographic Society. The book presents social history, incorporating many photographs.

"It's a lovely book to browse through or to use as a student," Thomas said.

She's partial to "Mary Chesnut's Civil War," edited by C. Vann Woodward and bought by the club for the library.

"I'm the last one in the community to take out a thick book," Thomas prefers short stories, but enjoyed "Mary Chesnut's Civil War," a non-fiction book taken from a woman's diary of that era.

A MORE contemporary book is Thomas K. Connellan's "How to Grow People Into Self-Starters." That book has been recommended as a memorial tribute to Sue Ann Eberline, a Woman's Club of Plymouth member and Plymouth businesswoman who recently died.

Thomas encouraged those at the meeting to use their library cards. About 40 percent of Plymouth and Plymouth Township residents have and use those cards.

"We're a very busy library. We seem to get busier and busier every year."

As the community grows, it may be necessary to expand the library building, at 223 S. Main St. The library board will be addressing that issue, she said.

"We don't have a lot of dead wood in the library collection." As the collection grows, housing it becomes more of a concern.

Thomas encouraged those at the meeting to consider joining the Friends of the Dunning-Hough Library and/or volunteering at the library.

"We always have something for you to do. You're surrounded by books and friendly people."

(For information on volunteering, call 453-0750.)

Those at the meeting enjoyed the library director's presentation.

"I think she does a great job," said Mary Childs, president of the Woman's Club of Plymouth. Childs, a Plymouth city commissioner and former mayor, served as first president of the Friends of the Dunning-Hough Library.

Each year, the club tries to present at least one "hometown-type" program.

"We try to have a variety," Childs said. "We have all types of interests in the club."

Joyce Roebuck, club program chairwoman, found the presentation interesting.

"I really thought she was very good. She gave us a lot of information on the library."

Group brings stories to life

The Plymouth branch, American Association of University Women, will sponsor three performances of "Children's Magic" on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 3 and 4.

Members of the Detroit Center for the Performing Arts will present "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Three Billy Goats Gruff" at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 3, and 12:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. Feb. 4. Performances will be in the auditorium at Plymouth Salem High School, 46181 Joy Road, Canton.

Tickets for the local performances can be ordered by mail only. For ticket information, call 455-4276 or 455-7153.

AS PERFORMED by the Detroit Center for the Performing Arts, "Children's Magic" is an updated version of two classic fairy tales.

The lively program keeps pace with the children as they become involved in the play's action.

"Children's Magic" includes an explanation of theater and a chance for children to create some magic of their own. It features a moral to the story.

All of that is interwoven with the songs, the silly billy goats, the Big Bad Wolf and brave Red Riding Hood.

THE DETROIT Center for the Performing Arts, a professional theater company, tours throughout Michigan from its home base in Detroit.

Proceeds from the local performances will be donated by the Plymouth branch of the AAUW to area colleges and universities for scholarship funds.

Classes are conducted by experienced auxiliary members, and are open to men, women and young people. Family attendance is encouraged.

THE 13-WEEK course covers a number of topics. Those include: an introduction to boating safety; sailor's language; boat handling; legal requirements for boaters; rules of the road; aids to navigation; charts and compass use; marine engines; introduction to sailing; weather; marine radiotelephone; locks and dams.

Those who successfully complete the 13 lessons will receive a U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary certificate in boating safety and seamanship. There are also other awards.

displays. She has worked for Albert's and Alcové and also did that work briefly as a freelancer.

HER JOB at the PCAC is less structured than work at a hospital was. There, she would have 45-minute treatment sessions set up for patients.

"Here, it's not as rigidly structured in terms of time. The variety of things is greater. I really appreciate the relative independence that I have," she said.

Norman likes the challenge of using the PCAC's computer.

"But it's also my major frustration," she said.

She is working on word processing and data entry.

Norman enjoys contributing to the graphics and layout for PCAC brochures, directories and other materials.

She has taken graduate classes in arts administration at Eastern Michigan University. Norman is thinking of getting her master's degree in that field, but that is on the back burner now. She and her husband would like to help get their children through school.

NORMAN RECENTLY took a pottery class and a collage workshop.

"I can say that I've made a lot of pots worth slammung," she said with a smile.

She appreciates ceramics; Norman likes collage and construction, art forms that are fairly immediate and three-dimensional.

Contemporary art forms, including glass, appeal to her.

moral perspectives

Rabbi Irwin Groner

Nothing is more deeply imbedded in American Tradition than the right of a person to choose his mate freely without outside interference. Yet, young people often find that the exercise of this right raises difficult problems, particularly if they happen to fall in love with people with different religious backgrounds from their own. To make matters worse, they often get conflicting advice.

Some friends say: "Don't marry out of your religion or you'll regret it the rest of your life. Religion goes deep; you can't compromise it." But others insist: "Religious differences don't matter. Husband and wife differ in many ways. This makes marriage interesting. You have to adjust. It isn't always easy, but love finds a way."

When a man and a woman are drawn to one another, select one another from among many, feel a physical attraction and a congeniality and an affection amounting to a deep hunger, it is very difficult to dissuade them from the covenant of marriage because of religious difference.

Common interests, some similarity in levels of intelligence and aspects of personality, a sharing of basic values — these seem more important in the long run than the church or synagogue in which one worships.

AND YET, life's experiences teach the fundamental truth that a marriage concerns more than the husband and wife. Marriage involves relationships with the families and religious communities in which the husband and wife have had their origin and childhood associations. These influences, over the years, can add to the emotional burdens and stresses of the marital relationship.

Children present the greatest challenge to those who enter mixed marriages. The psychological welfare of a child, his emotional and mental health, are fundamentally dependent upon the security of the home, the strength of the marriage, and the ways in which the parents affirm their shared outlook about faith, religious holidays and spiritual values. If parents are in conflict over religion, the religious factor can play havoc with the welfare of their children.

A recent case involving the struggle for custody of children in a divorced family depicts a nightmare in real life. A judge has threatened to jail a Roman Catholic mother for taking her two daughters to church. Her former husband, the divorced father, is Jewish and he was granted spiritual custody of his daughters. The mother received physical custody

'When I got home from work, the last thing I wanted to think was going to a meeting. The pressures of the ministry are much different than those in the secular world.'

— Rev. Ray Zips

dy of the children and was ordered by the court to rear the children in the Jewish faith of their father.

THE CASE is unusual in the decision of the court to divide the child's religious and secular nurture and growth. The mother, who had promised to raise the children as Jews, began taking the children to church, hung a crucifix on the wall in each child's bedroom and added additional religious observances in the home. Meanwhile, the children have gone to the synagogue on Saturday for worship, and to Mass on Sunday.

In the custody hearing, the mother said she wished to raise the children in both faiths. The father contended that such an up-bringing would be psychologically harmful and the judge agreed with him.

The legal issues touch on the First Amendment — freedom of religion, of speech, and of association — but the spiritual and emotional issues are far more complex. Can children be raised with a sense of loyalty to more than one religion? Can children attend church and synagogue without a sense of inner conflict? Can children be exposed to two religions at an early age and then, when they reach maturity, choose their own faith?

How sad that children are subjected to such stress. This case should be considered and reflected upon by all men and women who are considering marrying outside of their religious community. Religious intermarriage can impose great hardship, not only by consenting adults, but upon the children of such marriages who are the innocent victims of conflicts that cannot be resolved and commitments that cannot be compromised.

The Rev. Ray Zips came to St. John's Episcopal Church in Westland in December.

New start Pastor eagerly rejoins ministry

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Another assignment, another church, another city. That could easily sum up most new pastorships.

But not for the Rev. Ray Zips. Zips' new assignment at St. John's Episcopal Church in Westland is much more than that. For Zips, it's something of a new beginning.

PRIOR TO accepting the position at St. John's — replacing the Rev. Thomas Wilson, who took another pastorate in Tennessee — Zips spent six years outside the full-time ministry.

Because of personal problems, which eventually led to a divorce, he resigned as pastor at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Colorado. Zips said he had the support of the congregation, but had to get his life in order.

So at 36, Zips was suddenly thrust into the working force. His bachelor's degree was in chemistry from the University of Texas-Arlington. But few job descriptions called for a clergyman-turned-chemist.

He refers to it as being in the secular world. Most of us, though, would refer to it as the real world.

Zips received a crash course in trying to support a family of three children from his dissolved marriage. He had an assortment of jobs, including as a store manager for a light store.

IN HIS spare time, he did ministerial work in a mission. But it wasn't the same.

"One of the things having been in that situation and being out of the ministry for a while is to listen more closely to what people are saying and what they are needing," Zips said.

Of course, most ministers strive for that. Except some find it difficult to relate to those people they listen to.

The normal path of the pastor takes them from college right to divinity school to the church. Some don't get a taste of the daily rigors of supporting a family, making ends meet and maintaining a job.

ZIPS NOT only had a taste, he had second helpings. The life he lived for six years was a marked contrast from that of the clergy.

With a laugh, Zips said he used to get upset with members of his church when they failed to show for a meeting on a committee. Now he understands why.

"When I got home from work, the last thing I wanted to think was going to a meeting," Zips said. "The pressures of the ministry are much different than those in the secular world."

Zips plunged into the ministry right out of college. He was raised a Southern Baptist growing up in Texas. While at the University of Texas-Arlington, he joined the Episcopal Church.

HE RECEIVED his master's of divinity degree from Nashotah House in Wisconsin. He served as an assistant pastor at Church of Transfiguration in Dallas. He landed his first full-time ministry position at St. Stephen's.

His tenure there was marked by lay involvement and physical improvements. He said his ministry style is informal, without detouring from the tradition of the Episcopal service.

Zips' main goal at St. John's Church is getting more people involved. He said a great deal of members are already working at the church, but it can be improved.

Another area he would like to work on is the acceptance of those who are divorced. Obviously, he is quite familiar with the stigma that still exists.

"Many of them feel like second-class Christians," he said. "Very often they don't feel welcomed in the congregation. Having gone through it, I can relate to it."

"Spiritually, people need time to recover. They usually come back with a lot of spiritual strength they didn't realize they had before."

Cheese, wine among foods that bring on migraines

Dear Jo:
Your column on immunization against the flu and pneumonia sure "hit the nail on the head" at our house.

Last winter we had a house guest (my sister) who arrived with a bad cold. Within a little over a week, both my husband and I came down with colds. My sister stayed a week — the colds stayed all winter.

Needless to say we are not extending any invitation to her this year. I do wish that people with colds would stay home and get well and keep their germs to themselves. I hope you don't think we're going overboard on this — but when you're old and not feeling well, life is awfully tough.

We will be immunized this fall against the flu and if our doctor agrees, we'll get the pneumonia shot too.

I hope I have made my point.
Sincerely,

Mrs. K.R.
Detroit Reader

Dear Mrs. R.:

Your point is well taken. Immunization against the flu is a must for anyone over age 65, and the pneumonia immunization should be considered for those who suffer from a chronic disease.

gerontology

Dear Jo:

My granddaughter is coming for dinner. She is prone to migraine headaches.

Are there certain foods or beverages that I should avoid serving?

Mrs. G.G.
Western Senior

Dear Mrs. G.:

Some of the most common foods and beverages that appear to bring on migraine headaches are chocolate, ripened cheese, red wine and other alcoholic beverages. The additive MSG, used in the preparation of certain foods, is also thought to be responsible.

Your granddaughter, I'm sure, will let you know what other foods she can and can't eat.

Dear Jo:

What can I do to prevent cramps, heartburn and bloating?

Mr. T.E.
Uncomfortable Senior

Dear Mr. E.:

Some practical suggestions are: eat slowly in a relaxed atmosphere; try eating small meals frequently; avoid gas-forming foods such as cabbage, beans, onions and nuts; and try bland, low fat, easily digested foods. Antacids that have been chilled may also be helpful. Be sure to mention this problem to your doctor at your next visit.

Readers can write to Jolayne Farrell at 11 Cynthia Crescent, Richmond Hill, Ontario L4E 2P8.

Mall seeks pageant entrants

How would you like a color TV? Maybe a trophy, crown, banner and flowers?

Well, that's just a few of the things some young lady will win as the new Miss Winter Wonderland.

Wonderland Mall will hold its second annual Miss Winter Wonderland Pageant at 6 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 21.

The pageant is open to young, single women between the ages of 16 and 23. Private auditions will be held at 6 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 19. Contestants should check in at the mall information booth for directions to the auditions.

They will be judged on a talent routine and private interview. Contestants should bring a cassette tape for the talent competition.

Ten semifinalists will be selected for the Saturday evening pageant. They will be judged in three categories — talent (a two-minute routine of the contestant's choice), modeling an evening gown of the contestant's choice and an on-stage interview.

The new Miss Winter Wonderland will have the opportunity to model in fashion shows, obtain photos for her portfolio, appear in mall advertisements and represent Wonderland in mall and community activities.

The winner will succeed Melissa Sinkevics, who followed up her Miss Winter Wonderland title with top spot in the 1988 Michigan State Fair's Queen of Queens pageant.

Second-through fifth-place finishers will receive trophies, gift certificates and flowers.

The deadline for entering the pageant is Tuesday, Jan. 17.

The pageant is open to young, single women between the ages of 16 and 23. Private auditions will be held at 6 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 19. Contestants should check in at the mall information booth for directions to the auditions.

AAUW branch taps Lohr to '88 honors

Mary Alice Lohr was the center of attention recently.

Because of her volunteer work she was selected by the American Association of University Women of Livonia as its 1988 honoree at the 16th annual Salute to Women Luncheon.

Lohr was selected for her dedication and service to senior citizens in Livonia.

Since 1978, she has been a member of SCAN (Senior Citizens Achievement Needs), working as treasurer and helping to raise money for the purchase of buses.

She also has been president and treasurer of the Senior Citizens Travel Club. She also has worked as a volunteer and has spent five years as vice president of the Wonderland Unit of Meals on Wheels.

She was nominated for the honor by her co-workers who described her as "a genuinely giving person."

The AAUW each selects a woman "whose efforts reflect its goals of continuing education and community involvement, thereby enhancing the quality of life."

David Goodwill, CEO of Ladbroke DRC, is looking for help from the Legislature in the form of loosening wagering laws, to help DRC get back to the winner's circle.

Terms of the trade

• Parimutuel wagering

Ever since a Paris shopkeeper discovered a better way in the 19th Century, bettors have not had to submit to the vagaries of payoff prices set by bookies. In essence, horseplayers now set the prices (odds) themselves by betting in a mutual pool ("mutuel" in Paris, hence parimutuel).

• Off Track Betting (OTB)

Parimutuel horse-race wagering conducted at a betting shop away from the track, sometimes with full-service dining and beverage services, on races brought in via closed-circuit TV. The thoroughbred racing industry, hit hard by state lotteries and changing lifestyles, sees OTB as a way to take its product to consumers no longer willing to drive long distances and sit through a full day's racing card.

• Intertrack Wagering (ITW)

A less-radical cousin of OTB, ITW allows betting at a race track on races run elsewhere and brought in on closed-circuit TV. Under current law, DRC offers betting on selected simulcasts of major races from around the country. But there is a maximum of one race a day, which is added to the program of live races. Under ITW, DRC could remain open at night and accept bets on Hazel Park's harness racing — and vice versa. In states such as Illinois and Pennsylvania, ITW was operated for several years before introduction of OTB.

DRC looks to Lansing for convenience betting

By Tom Ferguson
staff writer

Handicapping a bad race is easier than getting a line on the future of Ladbroke DRC in Livonia, Michigan's only thoroughbred horse racing track.

The British conglomerate that bought DRC in 1985 is entering the final year of a five-year plan still waiting for the one tool it believes essential to success: off track betting (OTB).

"If someone came to us and said, 'You're never going to get it (OTB),' it would be a no-brainer," said David Goodwill, 42, CEO of Ladbroke Racing Corp., meaning Ladbroke would pull the plug on its effort to develop a major league racing program at DRC.

"Results at this track have improved, but we are not talking about a profitable organization," said Goodwill, recently arrived from Britain to coordinate Ladbroke's stalled American invasion.

"We have a lot of assets here with no return. But Ladbroke is also a company that is prepared to take a long-term view, to do the job properly."

Long-term for DRC means long enough to see whether OTB, or at least its less-ambitious cousin, inter-track wagering (ITW), will emerge from the Legislature. (See accompanying story for betting definitions.)

Goodwill won't say how far Ladbroke's patience will extend, but indications are one more season wouldn't be a bad guess.

Meanwhile, predicting the fate of ITW/OTB legislation is hazardous.

THE GOOD news for Ladbroke is that James Karoub, the track's powerful Lansing lobbyist, is optimistic.

"I don't see any problem with ITW," he said. "OTB will be introduced later."

The bad news is that the harness racing industry, which represents nearly three-quarters of the Michigan horse racing industry, is at best cool to what the thoroughbred industry prefers to call "convenience betting."

At worst, if the harness horsemen decide to oppose OTB, and if they are successful, Goodwill might have his "no-brainer."

WHEN LADBROKE Group PLC decided to establish its U.S. beachhead at Schoolcraft and Middlebelt, it clearly had OTB in mind — not the operation of a minor league race track.

Though it has yet to accept a single OTB wager in this country, Ladbroke Racing Corp. (the U.S. subsidiary) is described in a company press release as "Ladbroke's U.S. off track betting subsidiary."

"We are the world's experts in this area," Goodwill said. "If anybody is going to do OTB well in this country, it is going to be us."

The parent company is indeed the world leader. By last June Ladbroke was operating 1,797 betting shops in the United Kingdom and Ireland, had 75 percent of the market in Belgium and had opened 75 shops in the Netherlands after securing a national monopoly on OTB.

Tracks face changing times

"This place was built to hold 30,000 people in the '40s," said Bill Bork. "Now we fill up that parking lot with a crowd of 15,000 on Michigan Mile Day. I ask some old-timers where the hell they put all those cars, and they say: 'Bill, this was farmland then. They parked across Middlebelt and across Schoolcraft.'"

Changing times and their effect on marketing his product are what's on the DRC president's mind these days. He rattled off the litany.

"Anyway, there were no lotteries. There were no five sports teams with long seasons.

"It takes five hours to run 10 races, and people don't want that anymore. See all those wooden stadium seats? They want to be able to bet two races and go home. Bliff. Bam. In and out.

"And they want a nice place where they can take their wife or girlfriend."

The answer, he believes is off-track betting, packaged and presented with the expertise the parent Lad-broke Group has developed in Europe.

"I'm talking about cushioned chairs," he said. "I mean first class. Two- or three-million-dollar facilities that seat 500 people. No admission. No parking problems. Mutuel clerks in tuxedos. Look at the Palace; that's what people want."

But he'll settle for intertrack wagering, at least for starters, allowing DRC to send its racing card via TV to other tracks.

"It (ITW legislation) looks good for this year. Let's get the vehicle in place," Bork said. "No one is sure that it's going to work. But every state that has OTB has had ITW first. It's a natural step.

"It appears that the standardbred (harness) people are against it because they don't know what effect it will have. But I helped write the bill so that if it's hurting them, they can stop it."

He is confident of ITW's immineence, and of OTB's inevitability. But he sees yet another, inferior route to help his ailing industry, sort of a jack in the hole.

"Traditionally, thoroughbreds have never raced in the winter here. I come from a background in Pennsylvania racing, where we did race in the winter, and we could go year-round. Give me a 40- or 50-degree day in January or February, and I'll do a million and a half at the windows. There's nothing else going on: no lake sailing, no Grand Prix, no Tigers.

"But I don't want to do that at this time. I think the answer is convenience betting. That's off track."

Some health plans are like hospital gowns:
They never cover as much as you wish they would.

When it comes to health care, traditional medical insurance leaves a lot to be desired. Because they only cover a portion of your costs. Health Alliance Plan; on the other hand, is much more comprehensive. We offer complete coverage for virtually everything from pediatrics to geriatrics. And this extensive medical coverage is available from over 1,600 physicians at 23 medical centers, 18 hospitals and hundreds of individual doctor's office locations.

To find out how you can become a member, call 872-8100. You'll learn why Health Alliance Plan is such a great way to cover your medical needs. And that's the naked truth.

"Other countries in Europe could be interesting over time," Goodwill said.

PARIMUTUEL WAGERING is just one of the corporation's four prime interests, along with commercial real estate, hotels (including all Hilton properties outside the United States) and most recently in Great Britain a major ("second in the market," Goodwill said somewhat apologetically) do-it-yourself chain with the unlikely name of Texas Home-care.

It all added up to fiscal 1987 net profits of $250 million, more than a third of that from racing/betting operations, on revenues of more than $3.75 billion.

So the resources and the expertise to fulfill Ladbroke's U.S. mission are there, even though four years of shopping the United States have produced only one race track, in Livonia, that has not quite improved to marginal and has no off track outlets.

Asked if Ladbroke was discouraged, Goodwill said: "Words like discouragement don't enter into it. It can be frustrating, but that's the real world, isn't it? We're encouraged by what happened in Pennsylvania."

IT APPEARS that the Keystone

State, and not Livonia, is where Ladbroke's plan for the United States will start to take some real shape.

What happened there is that the state Legislature approved an OTB program, then sustained it over the governor's veto. Ladbroke is in the final stages of a deal to buy the Meadows harness track near Philadelphia.

Under the new Pennsylvania law, each track in the state will be able to build four OTB establishments in 1989 and two more in 1990. Assuming the Meadows deal is done, Ladbroke can't wait to break ground.

LADBROKE IS also in the final stages of buying Golden Gate Meadows, a thoroughbred track in California (ITW but no OTB), and is defending itself in an appeal after being awarded a monopoly on Wyoming's first OTB parlors.

The sparsely populated high plains at best will be an outpost in Ladbroke's empire. Wyoming doesn't have a race track, meaning bettors will wager strictly on piped-in races. But even there Ladbroke ran into hazards typical of its American experience.

"We won the sole license, with a number of criteria used in selection," Goodwill said. "Incredibly, our main U.K. competitor appealed, saying the process wasn't done properly. Even in a situation that seems clear-cut there are pitfalls."

THE BIGGEST pitfall at DRC may turn out to be choosing to buy a track in a state and region dominated by harness racing.

While DRC runs the only thoroughbred game in town, harness meets are held at Hazel Park, Northville, Jackson and Sports Creek in Flint. That is just the southeast Michigan competition. Harness meets are held within Ontario's jurisdiction in Windsor and Sarnia.

As Gordon Wright, president of the Michigan Harness Horsemen's Association (MHHA), said, none of the states that have approved ITW or OTB has dominant harness racing interests. MHHA's board has yet to decide whether to support the new ITW bill, oppose it or introduce a version of its own. But Wright estimates that 65 percent of his membership are opposed.

"The great fear," Wright said, "is that live racing will be diminished." THE THOROUGHBRED industry, meanwhile, fears ultimate diminishment — as in extinction — without innovations such as OTB.

Ladbroke officials were unable to speculate on what kind of increased revenue OTB might mean. But they point to Illinois' success in 1988, when Chicago's new downtown OTB parlor was opened with facilities only half completed.

A popular myth, which never seems to die, is that you can make successful investing decisions by putting your money in whatever seems to be popular.

Take a look at Table I, prepared by Raymond James & Associates Inc. In case you are wondering, the 1980-86 ranking is not permanent either; in fact, it is already changing.

Another persistent myth is that mutual funds can be selected by referring to the latest issue of a financial magazine like Money, Business Week, Forbes or Time.

Table II should dispel this myth. The top 20 mutual funds during 6/78 to 6/83 virtually disappeared during the next five year period.

My message to you should now be clear: Do not be distracted by fads, sales talks and unsustainable claims. Seek the advice of a professional and invest for the long-term.

Happy investing in 1989.

Realism, not wishful thinking, determines resolution's worth

Be they set for personal or professional reasons, the key to keeping resolutions boils down to the answer behind one simple question: "Am I being realistic?"

For example, is it realistic to assume that your wildly successful "new" business venture will be equally successful over the next 12 months?

If your answer is yes, then you must have analyzed and identified specifically those factors that have contributed to your past prosperity. If you don't know why you've been successful, you won't remain so for long.

You must also realize that unanticipated growth, no matter how minimal, will require stronger managerial control over your company's resources now and in the future. The experts tell us that unmanaged growth quickly can zap company resources (such as labor, capital and raw materials). Keeping this in mind, the newly successful small business owner has much to think about and do in maintaining operational growth over the new year.

For those who have thought about starting a business in 1989, resolve to objectively plan for it. There isn't a business in this world that has made it without the benefit of realistic planning. Typically, it takes six to 12 months to identify and outline the activities that must be carried out before the business officially opens its doors; another six months are necessary to plan projected revenues and expenses on a month-by-month basis.

It is just as important to obtain the right kind of assistance, when and where it is necessary, to help transform your vision into a reasonable plan of action. Starting a business represents an exciting opportunity and can ultimately provide you with an entirely new way of life. Don't sell yourself short by ignoring the obvious: Plan your work and work your plan.

Lastly, resolve to benefit by the experience of others. No one can possibly know, do or be it all in any given professional situation or circumstance. Joining the appropriate business groups, attending lectures and seminars and reviewing key publications are just a few of the methods available to help you achieve small business success now and in the years to come.

For more information on sources of assistance available to business owners, readers may call me at 474-1149. Have a happy and successful new year.

Star steps out in Birmingham

By Ethel Simmons

The New York actress won critical praise for recent appearances in Off-Broadway revivals of "Company" and "Dames at Sea." She was in fine spirits when she was interviewed one day last week at her parents' home in Birmingham.

An energetic blonde, Flynn was casually dressed in a red and white sweater, red pants and Reeboks. Dad, George Schubering, wasn't around that afternoon, but her mother, Margaret, was — beaming while she popped in and out, making plans for another in a series of welcoming parties. Schubering also brought out newspaper clippings about her daughter's previous shows and said good naturedly, "That's what mothers are for," in explanation of her boosterism.

Flynn is no shrinking violet. She talked enthusiastically, laughed heartily as she recalled such adventures as her last appearance in metropolitan Detroit, when she played the Fisher Theatre in a show that hoped to go to Broadway but flopped here, and (on a more upbeat note) talked about how she met a tall dark Irishman at a bus stop, gave him her phone number on the bus, and eventually became his wife.

"BARBARY COAST" was the name of the show that was beset by problems during its run at the Fisher in 1983. "It was a disaster," Flynn said. One of the actresses (who is now starring on Broadway in "Phantom of the Opera") was fired opening night.

That same night, "They had never staged the fight scenes," Flynn said, beginning a story that continued with one of the actors being knocked cold and two performers being knocked into the orchestra pit.

"The first thing I heard from my dressing room was a voice saying, 'Just tell me the two people in the pit are all right,'" she remembers.

During the run at the Fisher, "The cast sat at the St. Regis and talked about how to fix it." The director landed in the hospital, and the choreographer was fired.

Her role was the second female lead, playing a barroom floozy. She looks back on that experience as "an interlude that helped pay for our co-"

IN THOSE DAYS, Flynn was married to her first husband, and she went by the stage name of Susan Elizabeth Scott. Then-husband Stephen McNaughton, whose real surname is Scott, also is an actor and is a familiar face to TV soap opera fans.

After she divorced and remarried, she took the surname of husband Thomas Flynn. They were married last December, and live on the Hudson River, in West New York-New Jersey, she said. Her description of the view from their apartment is, "We have the whole skyline of Manhattan."

When they met in August 1986 at the bus stop, Flynn was coming home late from planning a wedding shower, and he had been entertaining clients. He sells advertising for a financial magazine, CFO, and heads the New York office.

The tall (6-foot 5-inch) guy impressed her, and she began digging around in her purse like she was looking for something. "Don't you have money to ride this bus?" he questioned.

With that, the two began a conversation and rode together on the bus. She gave him her phone number and, "Two days later we went out to dinner. It was like I'd known him my whole life. In the beginning it was frightening. There was so much connection going on."

Flynn had been married 14 years and divorced a couple of years before she met her present husband. She talked freely about the breakup, saying she and Stephen had married young and he wanted to be free (he has since remarried), thinking he had missed something.

"I loved being married the first time around," she said. "I think I always felt I would be married again."

Flynn GOT HER start in acting at the age of 8, when her mother took her to audition for a role with Pat O'Brien at the Cherry County Playhouse in Traverse City where the family was vacationing.

The Schubering's lived in Akron, Ohio, and Flynn grew up and went to high school there. She studied acting at the University of Denver.

"My resume is really heavy with Broadway shows," she said. Although she sings and dances, she likes acting best. "I think it was my voice I was leaning on the most," she said, responding to a question about what made her a standout at auditions.

"Over the years, I've never been the ingenue," Flynn said. "I've always been the comic lead — or bitches or whores!" She roared with laughter.

Susan Flynn wasn't raised in Birmingham, but her parents live here now. She is staying with them while starring at the Birmingham Theatre in "Stepping Out," a comedy with tap dancing that runs through Sunday, Feb. 5.

Flynn as Mavis, the dance teacher, is surrounded by the adults she teaches to tap dance at a class held in a London church basement. The students' abilities range from skilled to inept, but by play's end all are dancing together smartly. In this scene, the students rehearse for a recital, with a bevy of ill-assorted hats the costume shop provided instead of the bowlers they ordered.

Chiefs chop Salem

JOHN STORMZAND/staff photographer

Christyn Halliday of Canton smashes the ball back at Salem's defense in the first dual match for both volleyball teams Wednesday.

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Coach Allie Suffety thought about making a lineup change when his Canton volleyball team started poorly in its season opener Wednesday night.

But he reconsidered. He decided to sit tight and give the Chiefs some time.

That was the right decision as Canton eventually got rolling and defeated visiting Plymouth Salem in two games, 15-13, 15-5. It was only the second time in school history the Chiefs had beaten their arch rivals.

"I was skeptical at first," said Suffety after seeing his team fall behind 4-0 in the first game. "I thought maybe I should change some people, go with a different combination of players."

Suffety's patience was rewarded as the Chiefs pulled ahead 7-6 and then scored the last six points to win the opening game.

"I KNEW (the players) were really nervous," he said. "They were tight all week, because it was our first match and we hadn't scrimmaged anybody but ourselves."

"I went on the premise they were a good team, they knew they were a good team and they were going to come out of the funk they were in for a while."

Canton faced 10-7 and 13-9 deficits, but the Rocks, who suffered from their own errors many times, couldn't put the Chiefs away.

After two passing errors and a hitting miscue by Salem gave the Chiefs a 13-9 lead, the Rocks called timeout but to no avail. Susan Ferko's kill made it 14-9.

Salem used another timeout but again failed to stem the tide. Shannon Meath, who had six kills in seven attacks to lead Canton, then delivered the game-winning kill.

Canton players (from left) Candi Jones, Sue Ferko, Alissa Huth, Karen Keenan, Melinda Vergin and Shannon Meath celebrate after beating arch rival Plymouth Salem 15-13, 15-5 in volleyball.

"WE WERE really shaky at first," Meath said. "Finally, we got our heads together."

"I think we always had confidence in ourselves. We had to get the nervousness out and start from there."

The momentum generated by that strong finish carried over to the second game, which saw the Chiefs dominate.

Canton had no more than three points during any one serving rotation, but the Chiefs were consistent in their overall play, taking what was given to them and building their lead gradually.

Christyn Halliday's ace broke a 4-4 tie, and Meath produced a big play to make it 12-5. The Rocks returned several solid hits in a continuing volley before Meath pounded the ball at Salem from high on the right corner of the net for the point.

After four sideouts, the Chiefs put it away behind the serving of Alissa Huth, the final point being an ace.

HUTH WAS 15-of-16 serving, which included 11 points. Ferko was 3-of-6 hitting, and Fortier, despite her 5-foot-5 stature, had five assists as the back-up setter to go with her 5-of-8 hitting.

"She's really a good athlete," Suffety said. "She has the ability to do a lot. Actually, she's a decent server as well."

Salem, a tournament winner last month, seemed out of sync, which was due to confusion in the setting aspect of its game, according to coach Betty Smith.

The Rocks had seven bad serves and also saw many of their attacks sail out of bounds for a sideout or Canton point.

Besides the problem with setting, Salem's top hitters, Maria Wordhouse and Asaka Motoyama had off nights, Smith said. Motoyama was 4-of-7 attacking, and Wordhouse had three kills in 19 attempts.

"Usually, they have 25 attacks a game," Smith said. "That tells you where my sets were. Offensively, we weren't as strong as we were in our opening tournament."

"WHEN YOU have a bad night, you hit 'em into the net, you hit 'em out of bounds. When you don't know what kind of set you're going to get, it's hard to adjust."

The Chiefs, following their preseason goal of emphasizing the team concept, went with the flow and capitalized on opportunities as they came up instead of forcing play, Suffety said.

"We made a lot of errors last year that we didn't have to make," he said.

"If it was a bad set, we wanted to get the ball over the net and force them to play. If it was a bad pass, we wanted to dig it and utilize our three hits."

"I think it was evident we achieved that by the way we played tonight."

JOHN STORMZAND/staff photographer

John Butler of first-place Portage Central (top) defeated Salem's Craig Richardson in the 112-pound final. The host Rocks sent five wrestlers to the finals and had two champions.

Salem runner-up in tourney

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Near the end of Saturday's Plymouth Salem Wrestling Invitational, Westland John Glenn coach Tom Buckalew sauntered over to the winner's area, looking for his team's trophy.

Kiddingly, he grabbed one of the three trophies sitting on the winner's stand. None of them were his. He peered under the scorer's table, hoping to find a piece of hardware.

"You don't get one," Krueger replied.

THE TWO LAUGHED. Even Buckalew, coach of the eighth-place team, was in a festive mood.

The first-place trophy belonged to Portage Central, which finished with 210½ points. Salem earned second place with 170 points, followed by Mount Clemens with 135. Loc Performance sponsored the invitational.

Eight Observerland teams competed, including North Farmington, which finished a distant seventh place with 83 points, just ahead of Glenn (74).

Defending champion Redford Catholic Central and Eaton Rapids, another powerhouse, weren't there to dominate the competition, so that opened the field. Krueger said CC was invited this year, but by the time the Shamrocks acknowledged the invitation, he already had filled the 17-team field.

"It seems like a happy tournament," Krueger said. "Everyone has a chance, instead of when CC or Eaton Rapids is here. When CC is here their fans are all yelling

Rocks tip defending 'A' champ

Plymouth Salem's confidence level is running high this week. That's to be expected after the Rocks knocked off defending state champion Ann Arbor Huron 91-81 in boys swimming Tuesday.

The highlight of the meet was Ron Orris' school- and pool-record time in the 200-yard freestyle. He won the event in 1:42.73 and also the butterfly in 52.16 to pace Salem, 3-1 overall.

Orris also led off the freestyle relay team which bested the River Rats with a 3:25.9 time. Rick Steshetz, Fred Seidelman and Mike Hill followed Orris.

Hill also won the 50 freestyle in 23.32 and Seidelman the 100 freestyle in 50.0. Salem's Derrick Glencer scored 167.1 points to capture first place in the diving.

The Rocks resume league competition tonight when they will be host to Walled Lake Central in a Lakes Division dual meet.

Rocks win shootout with North

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

If they were making an old Western movie, Matt Hoffman and Jeff Elliott would have faced each other in the middle of Main Street, with six shooters on their hips.

But the North Farmington gymnasium provided the venue, and Hoffman and Elliott got the most applause for their theatrics Tuesday night.

Both players finished with career-high scoring totals, but it was Hoffman who won the individual battle with a gym-record 40 points for North.

But one man wasn't enough to stop Plymouth Salem, which dropped the host Raiders 84-72 behind a 32-point performance from Elliott.

Hoffman scored 26 points in the first half and was 7-of-12 shooting the 3-point shot. He was 11-of-16 shooting free throws, to boot.

"I'M PLEASED and displeased," Hoffman said. "It's nice to have that kind of game, but I wish we would have won. Our record is more important than scoring."

While the Rocks improved to 2-0 in the Lakes Division and 7-1 overall, North slipped to 1-1 and 3-5.

Elliott, who made three triples, virtually matched Hoffman point for point in the first half and had 22 by halftime. He was 5-of-7 at the free-throw line.

The shootout intensified in the second quarter when the Raiders made a run at Salem, which led 25-12 and was threatening to turn the game into a blowout.

North canned five straight 3-pointers, three by Hoffman, and more than doubled its scoring total in 1 1/2 minutes. The teams combined for seven triples in a row, with Scott Hale and Elliott each making one for Salem, to keep the Rocks in front 31-27.

The Raiders, who led early before Salem's speed and quickness took over, never did regain the lead, but the scoring display made for an entertaining evening.

Canton gets ready for key cage game

The race for the Western Division basketball championship gets serious Friday night.

That's when defending champ Plymouth Canton visits Farmington Harrison in a key encounter. Both teams are 2-0 in the division.

The Chiefs did their part to set the table for the game by turning back Northville 70-55 Tuesday night at Canton.

Canton, which was 25-of-38 from the free-throw line, led 52-45 at the end of three quarters and outscored the Mustangs by 14 in the second half.

Brian Paupore, a 6-foot-5 senior, was a leader for the Chiefs once again, as was guard Troy Waldron. Both players had 23 points and 11 rebounds, with Paupore adding five assists.

Greg Price scored 12 points for Northville, Keith Meyers 11 and Scott Meredith 10. The Mustangs are 4-4 overall.

Canton goes into Friday's game with a 6-2 slate, while the Hawks, rated No. 6 in Class B, are 7-2. But the Chiefs have beaten the only team to have bested Harrison, Plymouth Salem.

LUTHERAN NW 62, PLY. CHRISTIAN 59: Bryan Davies scored 22 points for the Eagles, who trailed the entire game and fell to 0-3 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Association.

Kyle Mavin hauled down eight rebounds but played only half the game due to foul trouble. Plymouth Christian, 1-7 overall, faced a 47-25 half-time deficit.

"We kept the same philosophy," he added. "We were going to stop their penetration inside and prevent the second and third shots."

Salem surged behind sophomore center Jake Baker's five points, 38-33, and Elliott, who seemed to be responding to a challenge from Hoffman, nailed two triples down the stretch for a 48-42 halftime lead. Hoffman had 18 second-quarter points and Elliott 13.

"It helps to counter with one (triple) if it's a good shot," Elliott said. "You don't want to force anything. They were giving it to me, and they were going in tonight."

"It might have looked like we were (matching triples). It feels pretty good when you can do that, too."

North got within five, 59-54, late in the third period after Hoffman followed a triple with a steal and jumper in the lane.

THE RAIDERS threatened again in the fourth when Hoffman passed to Eric Dettler for a layup that cut Salem's lead to 68-62. North, however, couldn't catch the more experienced Rocks, who pulled away to a 78-66 lead behind the play of Jeff Jagacki, Elliott and Craig Marshall.

"A couple of their shots weren't falling," Brodie said. "We took our time and got the ball inside. That's where it took its toll in the second half. We were getting a lot of inside shots."

"It was exciting for Jeff and it was exciting for Hoffman, but I firmly believe our team beat their team."

That was evidenced by the added scoring the Rocks offered in support of Elliott's total. Marshall scored 14 points, Baker 12, Jagacki and Hale 10 apiece.

"They put five good athletes on the floor and come with two others (Mike Albertson and Hale) off the bench," North coach Tom Negoshian said. "They understand the game, and Bob does a good job of getting them to do what we want."

The Raiders, who played poorly in a loss to Livonia Franklin, according to Negoshian, gave a much better account Tuesday, and Hoffman's increased role was a reason. He attempted only five shots and scored nine points in the Franklin game.

"WE'VE TALKED about that all year, but part of it is being healthy enough to do it," Negoshian said.

Hoffman suffered an ankle injury early in preseason practice and didn't play until late December.

"He's still not healthy, and that's what everybody has to understand," Negoshian said. "He still has a knot on his ankle."

Hoffman, who broke Mark Biehl's 10-year-old gym record of 38 points, wasn't necessarily taking matters into his own hands, but trying to follow Negoshian's orders, he said. (The school record is 48 points by Ken Kilkka in 1968.)

"I think we had to keep taking shots instead of turning the ball over," Hoffman said. "That's what coach was harping on the last couple games."

"We were bringing the ball down and weren't getting a shot. A lot of us were looking to shoot the ball to night instead of turning it over."

Brodie said he knew better than to hope for another game like the Raiders had against Franklin.

"I know which team is going to show up when it comes to playing Plymouth Salem," he said.

Richards gives CC needed lift

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Terry Boykin had the flu Tuesday and wasn't able to play for Redford Catholic Central, so Ray Richards decided to show up.

Coach Bernie Holowicki is glad he did.

Richards scored a season-high 28 points and grabbed eight rebounds, leading host CC to a resounding 63-53 win over Catholic-League rival Birmingham Brother Rice.

The win keeps CC unbeaten in three Central Division games, 4-4 overall. Rice fell to 1-2, 4-4 overall.

Richards' performance was a pleasant surprise for Holowicki, who sometimes wonders where Richards is on the court. He is one of the reasons Holowicki's voice is so hoarse after games.

"THE LAST COUPLE games Ray has been coming to play," Holowicki said. "If he comes to play, we'll be all right."

"Ray played at another level today. A notch higher than usual."

Richards missed only one of his eight shot attempts, and he's never played better than that against Rice.

"I've never seen him play that hard and rebound that well," Carrico said. "He was a major difference in this game. That was the best anyone's played against us this year."

"I told my team, 'Don't relax, because I've seen so many games where one of the better players (like Boykin) wasn't able to play and the rest of the players have the games of their lives. I don't think we relaxed, we just didn't play well.'"

Holowicki needed a big-time effort out of Richards with Boykin, CC's leading scorer and point-guard, out of the lineup. Sophomore Steve Whitlow, normally a small forward, also performed admirably, playing in place of Boykin at point guard.

WHITLOW SCORED only six points, but handled Rice's full-court pressure. Jeff Schaner was the only other CC player in double figures, scoring 17 points.

"Terry played sick against (Harper Woods Bishop) Gallagher," Holowicki said, "and he's been in bed since. We gave Whitlow a crash course Sunday and Monday at point guard and for a young sophomore, he did an excellent job."

David Washington led Rice with 22 points, but he made only seven-of-24 shots from the field. In fact, Rice missed all nine of its field goal attempts in the first quarter, and trailed 8-2 before the game was five minutes old.

Burlison brothers succeed

'Eat the mat, eat the mat.' Today, everyone in the crowd is happy.

"WHEN IT'S fun, it's not work. Plus, we're not going to be here until the cows come home. I want to thank the parents and the Salem Booster Club for all their help."

Portage Central, no doubt, had the most fun.

The Mustangs won three of the weight classes, and three other Mustangs reached the finals before losing.

Central's winners were T.K. Muraoka (103), John Butler (112) and Scott McCloughan (125).

"I knew we had a shot at it, but I didn't think we'd win like this," Portage Central coach Mike McCloughan said. "We had a good week of practice, and it makes for a fun day. When the ball gets rolling, it inspires everyone, and they seem to wrestle better."

"It's always fun to come here. It's a well-run tournament and Krueger is a good host. He tries to make it fun. Last year we had a terrible day wrestling-wise (fifth place), but we still had fun. It wasn't Krueger's fault we wrestled crummy."

SALEM ENJOYED a successful day behind the wrestling of the Burlison brothers. Steve Burlison won the 160-pound class, and Brian Burlison claimed a title in the 171-pound bracket. Three Rocks lost in the finals.

Salem's Craig Richardson lost to John Butler (Portage Central) in the finals of the 112-pound class. Mike Shumate (130) and Ed Bartlage (140) also reached the finals before losing. Salem also got a strong performance from Ken Stopa (119), who was seeded sixth but finished third.

"We're happy with the people we have here and the way they've done," Krueger said. "Portage Central is a senior team, and we've got only three seniors in our whole program. Maybe next year that could be us at the top."

North Farmington's Zaim Cunmulaj won the heavyweight division, pinning all four opponents. He pinned Tim Luce of Portage Northern at 1:35 of the final. Cunmulaj was trailing 4-0 at the time.

"I WRESTLED sloppy, mainly on my feet in the final match," said Cunmulaj, 15-1. "I was overconfident. But then I threw a lateral drop, went crazy and pinned him."

Jack Beall (125) and Matt Thompson (135) also recorded second-place finishes in their respective classes for North.

Thompson's loss in the final came to Glenn's Bob Matigian, who is now 17-0. Livonia Stevenson placed 10th overall (49), but Kurt Will made it to the finals at 152 before losing to Wayne Memorial's Jason Kopcak.

Chief gymnasts edge Northville in season debut

In one of the closest meets you'll find, Plymouth Canton's gymnastics team prevailed Monday over visiting Northville, 121.55 to 121.00.

Johanna Anderson, the last Canton girl to compete in the floor exercise, provided the margin of victory, scoring 8.3. Canton trailed by 1.7 points going into Anderson's final effort.

"Our last girl on the floor was the difference," Canton coach John Cunningham said. "She had to score above 8.0 to win it and she did."

Canton's win overshadowed the effort of Northville's Wendy Beach, who won the vault, beam and bars competitions. She also finished third in the floor exercise.

Beach won the all-around competition with 33.25 points. Anderson had a fine day for Canton, placing second in three events and finishing with 31.0 points overall.

Heather Fortier won the floor exercise, scoring 8.4 points. Turning in second-place performances for Canton on the bars was Shannon Connell, 7.6. Heather Murphy (8.25) and Anais Yoon (7.7) earned third place on the vault and beam, respectively.

"I was pleased that we won, and I was real pleased with the number of good performances," Cunningham said. "I know we can score higher; the potential is there."

FARMINGTON tied with Hartland for second place in a triangular meet Monday, gathering 116.15 points. Livonia Clarenceville won the competition with 117.3 points.

Christine Oates starred for Farmington, winning the floor exercise (8.4) and placing second in both the beam (7.65) and bars (7.9) competitions. She also was fourth on vault (8.15).

Debbie Ford finished third on the bars, scoring 7.8, and Amber Arbuckle tied for fourth place on the beam for the Falcons, compiling a 7.45 score.

Clarenceville's Jennifer Kaipio won the bars competition (8.0) and tied with Arbuckle on beam. Teammate Lisa Granfeldt was third on vault (8.2), fourth on bars (7.7) and third on floor (8.2). Colleen Wood gave the Trojans second on vault (8.3).

The Falcons competed without their No. 2 all-around gymnast, Julie Lawton, who was ill. The impact of a healthy Lawton might have made the difference for Farmington, according to coach Mary Beth Schornhorst.

"I think it would have," she said. "We were a little stale besides that, but she is one of our top scorers in all four events."

Academic failures become annual SC ritual

SOMEONE DEFINE human nature for me. Please. It sounds so innocuous, almost innocent when used to describe a quirk common to mankind.

Like stupidity. People do something stupid, admit it, try to convince others in a similar situation not to make the same mistake, and what happens? The same stupid thing. And it's dismissed as another example of human nature.

Example: Schoolcraft College. Imagine getting your college education paid for. Imagine, too, that if you run into a class that gives you trouble, all you have to do is mention it and you'll get instant help.

Now tell me how, in situations identical to these, a kid flunks out? Seems to me you'd have to try awfully hard to fail.

But it happens. Every January at SC. In spite of all the assistance, all the pleading, all the prodding, come January the Ocelot basketball teams lose someone because of lousy grades.

"WE TELL THEM and tell them and tell them," said SC mens coach Dave Bogataj. "We watch them, we lecture them, and they still do this. I guess they finally have to pay the consequences."

Five of Bogataj's players failed to make grades this year. Five out of 11. The leading scorer, the top three rebounders — all gone from a team that was mediocre to begin with.

SC was 1-5 in the Eastern Conference and 5-12 overall with these guys. What will the rest of the season be like without them? Winless, probably.

"It's all about maturity," said one of the casualties, Ed Hudson. "I just got careless."

At least he's honest. And Hudson has talent, both on and off the court. A Royal Oak Shrine graduate, he was leading SC in scoring (averaging 18.8 points a game) and was third in rebounding (4.8). At Shrine, Hudson was a 3.0 student. He scored 1100 on his SAT and 26 on his ACT, both exceptional marks. He plans to major in pre-law.

SO WHAT HAPPENED?

"We have a lot of freedom here, and I guess I just wasn't used to it," he admitted. "And this is a hard school."

Some of Hudson's grades are being rechecked, so there is a chance he could be reinstated — if an injured ankle (bone chips) doesn't sideline him anyway. Mark Koronka (9.0 points, 5.6 rebounds), the team's starting center, and Dameron Smith (11.7, 6.2), a starter at forward, are other key losses.

Also gone is Ken Nelson and, until he can make up an incomplete, Joe Miskovich. SC's womens team suffered, too. Coach Jack Grenan lost Ann Hardy, his top reserve, and Diane Lindsey.

Competing in a league as tough as the Eastern Conference is hard enough with a full complement of players. Try doing it with half a team.

"I don't know if it's as difficult as much as it's frustrating," said Bogataj. "I don't get as mad at the kids as disappointed in them."

UNFORTUNATELY, this year

C.J. Risak

isn't an exception to the norm. Last season, Bogataj's first, he lost Deon Frederick, his second-leading scorer, to academic woes. Two others quit the team. SC was barely able to complete the schedule. Bogataj made due with a bunch of walk-ons who rarely played for their high school teams.

It's difficult to recruit good players. Finding those who are serious about getting an education, then convincing them to come to a community college for two years, multiplies the difficulty.

Then factor in SC's high degree of academics, at least compared to some of its conference rivals, and the task borders on impossible.

To SC's credit, they try very hard to keep their athletes eligible. They offer the Student Athlete Support System, which outlines everything necessary for the athlete.

"There's only so much you can do," said SC athletic director Ed Kavanaugh. "This is a model program, like (University of) Michigan's, only on a smaller scale. Athletes can get assistance from a tutor whenever they want it."

SASS, AS IT'S known, includes a three-to-four hour orientation to start the year. Advisers fill in grid sheets for each athlete, diagramming each hour of every day, to aid athletes in planning daily schedules. Progress reports on each player are submitted to coaches twice each semester.

In spite of all this, players still fail. How? Bogataj was admittedly baffled, saying several of those who flunked had passing grades until the final weeks of the semester.

Kavanaugh isn't happy with the situation. He's planning "a major change" by increasing the number of progress reports on athletes, from twice a semester to weekly. If an athlete messes up in a class, he won't play that week.

"I'm not saying the reports we get aren't helpful," said Kavanaugh. "They are. The Learning Assistance Center does a great job, and not just for athletes. It's just that we don't get the reports often enough."

Will it make a difference? Who can say? Kavanaugh knows he's taken the assistance program to the limit. "If a kid isn't going to go to class, I don't care if he's a Rhodes Scholar, we can't help him," he said.

Education used to be a valued commodity. Is it still?

SC cagers take licking

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

The outcome was predictable. If lack of talent alone wasn't enough to cripple Schoolcraft College's chances against the high-powered Highland Park CC men's basketball machine, then the prevailing gloom of another season lost because of academic deficiencies was.

SC lost 103-80 at home Saturday. The score seems lopsided, but it could've been worse. Next time the two teams meet — Feb. 8 at Highland Park — it probably will be.

The reason: The Ocelots lost five players, three of them starters, to the academic axman after Saturday's game. Included in that number were the team's top scorer (Ed Hudson) and its three best rebounders (Dameron Smith, Mark Koronka and Hudson).

"WHAT CAN I say?" said SC coach Dave Bogataj. "We turned over the ball like it was a hot potato. And I couldn't believe what we were doing in our man-to-man (defense). They were blowing right by us."

"I lost count after seven uncontested layups. They had more than in pre-game warm-ups."

After the Panthers (14-6 overall, 3-2 in the Eastern Conference) got in front by 10 points on a basket by Don Boyce with 11:20 left in the first half, SC never narrowed the deficit to single digits. A rare four-point play by Willard Dean — he was fouled by Joe Miskovich as he sank a three-pointer — increased Highland Park's lead to 30-16.

At times, SC displayed an ability to score with the Panthers. Ken Fuster led the Ocelots with 19 points, many from long range. Al Hudson's inside game was impressive; he finished with 16 points. Bernard McGee contributed 12 and Miskovich scored 11.

BUT SC couldn't stop Highland Park. Six players scored eight points or more, including four in double figures: Andre Johnson (22), Dean (17), Boyce (16) and Dennis Small (15). Tim Leneer and Leneal Whitehead netted eight apiece.

By halftime, the score was 54-40. The Ocelots were never closer in the second half.

With just six players on the roster that were with the team when the season started, Bogataj knows the outlook is bleak. "We're out looking at some kids who are in school here who might help," he said.

It's the second time Bogataj has faced a player-shortage problem. Last season, his first as coach, he lost his second-leading scorer, Deon Frederick, to grades. Two other starters quit.

"I don't know if it's a perpetual problem," he offered. "It's one I'm going to have to rectify. I'm going to have to try and get 16 or 17 players instead of 12 or 13. But we don't have that many kids walk into the gym (to tryout). I'll keep going at it, keep on recruiting."

The Ocelots slipped to 5-12 overall and 1-5 in the conference with the defeat.

Bernie Carbo gets Clarenceville post

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Bernie Carbo, the man who hit two dramatic homers in the memorable 1975 World Series between the Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Red Sox, is the new baseball coach at Livonia Clarenceville.

The 41-year-old Westland native, who is replacing Mike Shearer (now at Milford), is no stranger to the area.

He was a prep star at Livonia Franklin where he was drafted No. 1 overall out of high school (1965) by the Cincinnati Reds.

In 1970 he was voted National League Rookie of the Year, hitting .310 with the Reds.

Known as a free spirit during his 11-year pro career, which included stops in Boston, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, Carbo has been running "We Are Family Hair Stylists" in Wyandotte since he retired in 1980.

During the past eight years, the former outfielder has been a guest instructor at several baseball clinics around the country.

"BERNIE HAD applied at several other places, and he seemed quite serious about trying to develop a program," said Clarenceville athletic director Leo Kinsella.

Carbo, who was once turned down in his bid to become a minor league hitting instructor, is "glad the AD (Kinsella) and principal (Dave Simowski) gave me the opportunity."

"I want eventually to build up to maybe a college job, and it's a start," said Carbo. "I know I've got to start somewhere, and I appreciate the opportunity to get my feet wet."

"I'm looking forward to it. Hopefully we'll have a good turnout and we'll be successful."

It's well-documented that Carbo and Sparky Anderson clashed during their days in Cincinnati. It's ironic that now Carbo will be calling the shots as manager.

"I'M NOT GOING to have a lot of

baseball

rules, but the thing I ask is that they show up every day and that they're on time," Carbo said. "I want them to have respect for themselves and for me. I'm sure I'll have to deal with problems, but I'm strictly going to teach baseball. I'm going to teach them to play fair, play hard and to win. I'll follow what the school wants. I won't tolerate drinking, smoking or drugs. 'Just say no,' right?"

Carbo plans to have a meeting with the players at 6 tonight at the school.

"I've got to get to know them and hopefully we'll make the right choices," he said. "I want to create an atmosphere where they want to come out every day."

Carbo said he will stress fundamentals.

"We want a good pitching staff, and we want to be strong up the middle," he said. "We'll start sometime in March indoors and go from there."

Carbo said Gordy Rutherford will work with the pitchers, while Jim Neve will become the JV coach. Carbo said he also hopes to retain former Clarenceville JV coach Mike LeMeux.

Carbo's dad Joe, a part-time scout, will also help out on occasion.

"My dad is the one who saw the ad in the paper about this job," said Bernie. "I really wanted to get into coaching, and I appreciate getting the chance."

While playing for Boston, Carbo is best remembered for his pinch-hit 3-run homer in Game No. 6 of the '75 series. The homer tied the game at 6-6 and the Red Sox went on to win behind Carlton Fisk's dramatic homer, which forced a seventh and deciding game against the Reds. (Cincinnati went on to win the Series.)

Carbo also played in the '70 Series for the Reds against Oakland.

Going for gold

Area figure skaters eye trip to nationals

By Marty Budner
staff writer

Jason Dungjen and Paula Visingardi are new partners in the world of figure skating.

They successfully completed Phase I of their icy relationship over the weekend by placing first in Senior Pairs competition at the 1989 Midwestern Figure Skating Championships held at the Detroit Skating Club. They will embark on Phase 2 of their quest for gold and glory at the national championships Feb. 6-12 in Baltimore.

The stellar showing at the Midwestern Sectional — one of three sectional competitions held across the country — came as a nice surprise to Dungjen and Visingardi.

"It was a goal to place first (at the Sectional), but I didn't really think we'd win it. We've only been skating together for eight months," said Dungjen, a 1985 Troy Athens High School graduate.

Dungjen, who's been skating for seven years, recently returned from a two-year hiatus from the sport. His comeback couldn't have come at a more opportune time.

DUNGJEN AND Visingardi, coached by former Olympian Johnny Johns, were second after their two-minute, 40-second short program. They performed a fine free skate to win that competition and take first overall by one-tenth of a point over Elaine Asanakis (University of Delaware FSC) and Joel McKeever (Dallas FSC).

"I was tired and needed a break (from skating). I feel much better now, and I was really glad I took that time off," said Dungjen. "I think we have a lot of work to do as a team, but we're getting there. We have to get to know each other a little more. But I was very happy we were able to finish first."

Dungjen, 21, said he'd like to one day win a national championship and qualify for the Olympics. The top two placers at this year's national championships qualify for the U.S. team, which will represent the country at the world championships later this winter.

With the retirement of many of the Olympic figure skaters after the 1988 games in Calgary, Dungjen figures now is a golden opportunity to make something happen within the next couple years.

"This is a perfect year to return because the doors are wide open," he said. "But that's not the real reason why I got back into skating. I came back because I just wanted to give it one more shot."

THE SENIOR men's and women's winners were Daniel Doran (Colorado Skating Club) and Jeni Meno (Winterhurst Figure Skating Club), respectively. Michelle Whitman of the Detroit Skating Club was 11th in the Senior Ladies competition.

Rochester resident Shanda Smith (Detroit Skating Club) and partner Brandon Smith (University of Delaware SC) placed fourth behind Dungjen and Visingardi in Senior Pairs. Livonia resident Jodie Balogh and partner Jerod Swallow (Broadmoor Skating Club), former national junior champions, placed second in Senior Dance.

Dan Hollander of Huntington Woods (Detroit Skating Club) placed seventh in Junior Men's competition. His best showing was third in the optional program. John Wright of the Garden City Skating Club placed last in Junior Men.

Angela Deneweth of Westland (Detroit Skating Club) was last in Junior Ladies competition. Birmingham's Jill Attenson (Detroit Skating Club) and partner Richard Peal (Skokie Valley SC) placed seventh (eight competitors) in Junior Dance competition.

North Farmington graduate Jennifer Bayer (Detroit Skating Club) and partner Sean Gales had a nasty spill in their long program. Bayer fell to the ice and was taken to the hospital. She reportedly had been released and was in good condition by Tuesday.

The four-day Midwestern Sectional included more than 300 participants representing 60 clubs from 22 states across the country. It is the largest of the United States Figure Skating Association's three sectional tournaments.

The Detroit Skating Club has hosted regional figure skating competition on occasion. But this was the first Midwestern Sectional hosted by the Bloomfield Township facility.

Divine Child assistant Balaj to coach Trojans

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Vic Balaj, an assistant coach the past eight years at Dearborn Divine Child, is new football coach at Livonia Clarenceville High.

Balaj replaces Ralph Weddle, who went 120-93-1 in 22 years before retiring at the end of the 1988 season.

Balaj was Divine Child's defensive coordinator the past two years. He also served as the weight training coach, in addition to being the secondary and wide receivers coach.

Prior to his stint at DC, Balaj coached three years at Utica Ford.

"We were impressed primarily with his background and experience," said Clarenceville athletic director Leo Kinsella, who interviewed six candidates before the list was pared to two finalists. "Vic has 11 years on the varsity level, and he comes from a highly successful program. He has some positive ideas to get the participation back to where it should be."

LAST YEAR the Trojans finished 6-3, despite finishing the season with only 17 varsity players and no JV team.

"He's very enthusiastic and wants to revamp our weight room and wants a conditioning program for all our athletes," Kinsella said. "It's going to take money, but he's going to start some fund-raising efforts."

Balaj, who teaches English, social studies and physical education at Divine Child, could not be reached for comment. He was in Ohio attending his grandfather's funeral.

Divine Child coach Wes Wishert said "It makes me feel good" that another one of his assistants has become a head coach.

football

"This is my fifth coach who has gone on to either a head varsity position in high school or college job," Wishert said. "Vic is very organized and he knows how to coach. You're not going to get anybody who works harder. He's a good addition to a school like Clarenceville. He's a disciplinarian and a hard worker."

BALAJ, who holds a master's degree in athletic administration, was a part of some very good DC teams.

While he was at DC, Balaj was part of a staff that appeared in six Catholic High School League A-B Division finals. The Falcons also captured 37 straight league games and won the 1985 state Class B championship.

Kinsella said that record impressed principal Dave Simowski along with superintendent Dr. Mike Shibler.

"I talked to the principal myself about Vic, and I see Clarenceville as a model for other schools," Wishert said. "They see sports as an important identity to the school."

Kinsella said that Balaj will be forming a staff in the near future. The AD indicated that the lone two holdovers from Weddle's staff, Rob McCamant and Steve Buell, will be interviewed as well.

Fresh, new look Couple take to contemporary with no regrets

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

When a well-known area builder and his wife moved from a family home with an eclectic decor to a roomy, gracious condo, they decided they wanted a contemporary environment.

Birmingham-based interior designer Ed Born was ready with lots of ideas, starting with the blueprints of the proposed construction. Although plans called for a cathedral ceiling, he advised a high flat one. "It's better with a contemporary look, especially with art," he says.

Half of the double guest closet in the foyer became an attractive bar area at the entrance to the great room. One of the more difficult designs to pull off, which was worth the effort, was the half columns with a depressed ring of red neon about two thirds up that flank of the great room window wall.

Born builds a sense of drama, but never lets it get out of hand. He also recommended that some of the doorways off the foyer be widened and angled.

HE WAS surprised when his client said she wanted a dining table to seat 16, but he obliged with a Saporiti glass top table on concrete and stainless steel triangles and black leather and chrome chairs.

The furniture in the seating area of the great room is taupe with a cluster of throw pillows in a textured aqua. The handsome coffee table, which Born designed for Brunton years ago, is glass mirror with steel with a black finish. With limed oak bare floors and neutral walls, the setting is ideal to showcase an outstanding collection of paintings.

A myriad of color lines from a large Aris Koutroulis painting on the long wall by the dining room table set up an exciting dialogue with a brilliant Lakemann work of a painter's cup and brushes across from it.

Caught between them, and completely unimpressed, hangs a delightful figure of a debonair gentleman by Michigan artist Stephen Hanson. The figure brings a human and humorous quality to the otherwise cerebral art collection — a strong change of pace from the lovely, muted color painting at the other end of the room by Harold Linton, professor at Lawrence Technological University and talented artist.

While Born said his clients chose the paintings independently (and well), he provided an elegant atmosphere for them. Neither he nor his clients wanted obvious window coverings, but they did decide to install semi-transparent privacy blinds to use at night. When not in use, they form little more than an architectural line over the windows.

In addition to the bar and coffee table, Born designed the stainless steel wall server in the dining area, the black lacquer finish server with the black granite top, a large stainless steel and ash entertainment center in the den, and structural accessories such as a stairway banister and rail.

Born's client described her great room as "very liveable." Would she want to go back to the former eclectic environment? No way.

The great room has an atmosphere that is luxurious, upbeat and decidedly liveable. The painting in soft colors is by Harold Linton, master colorist and professor at Lawrence Institute of

The dining area of the great room is presided over by a debonair three-dimensional figure by Michigan sculptor Stephen Hanson. The server under the Lakemann painting was designed by Born. It is black lacquer finish with a granite top and looks like marble.

Miniature makers create many little miracles

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

While miniature makers and collectors will be ecstatic over "Masterpieces in Miniature" at Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association through January, less tightly connected people may find these works thoroughly enchanting.

It is almost impossible not to enjoy elegantly crafted reproductions of magnificent period furniture done on a one-inch to one-foot scale installed in a house completely equipped right down to the last working electric light.

One like this, a repro of the Deacon Bailey House of Portland, Maine, the oldest house in town and typically New England, is one of the major exhibits in a gallery of show stoppers.

Another certain to grab its share of admirers is a fully equipped working carousel made by Ronald A. Lee, complete with band organ, mirrors and animals on poles that go up and down to the music.

Both of these, on loan from private collectors, are prime examples of the miniature maker's art. In fact, the exhibition is possible because Criss Goad, owner of Miniature Maker's Workshop of Royal Oak, and her co-chairman, Duffy Weinstein, have become acquainted with a prestigious group of artists and collectors, the International Guild of Miniature Artisans, IGMA.

They did this through attending the Guild school in Castine, Maine on Penobscot Bay.

Goad said that until this show she has had exhibits of the work of local artisans in her showroom, but this is her first full-scale exhibition of the miniature works of nationally recognized artists.

Most impressive of all is the extent and detail of the each piece. A hand-blown beautifully etched clear glass wine decanter with stopper by Frank Whittemore of Pennsylvania could easily be lost in the palm of a hand. His cranberry glass wine goblets, about as long as the tip of a little finger, are done in exacting detail.

Artisan to teach carousel carving

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

Miniature artist, Judy Shellhaas of Plymouth, said her carousel animals are an exact 1-inch-to-1-foot scale. Since many full-size carousel animals are up to 7 feet long, her creatures run to as much as 7 inches. Each, she said, takes up to 400 hours to complete.

"The ostrich took 350 hours and I already have 400 hours in on the lion I'm working on and he isn't done yet," she said. However, the lion as well as the ostrich made it into "Masterpieces in Miniature" at Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association through Jan. 28.

The animals started as a project with her students and she is determined to carry it through to the end. She teaches a class in carousel carving in Toledo and is just starting one at the Miniature Makers Workshop of Royal Oak.

The Livonia Symphony chamber group debuts Friday night in a mini concert with an Italian theme in the new Livonia Civic Center Library auditorium. David Wassenauer (left) will be the narrator; Francesco DiBlasi is conductor; soloists are Mary Irvine and harpist Christa Grix.

Salud!

Guest artists highlight miniconcert

The Livonia Symphony Chamber Orchestra, under the direction of Francesco DiBlasi, opens its Friday night mini series at 8 p.m. Friday in the Livonia Civic Center library with a salute to music with an Italian flavor, for the most part.

The program will feature a special arrangement of the "Italian Spectacular," the overture to "The Barber of Seville" by Rossini and the "Italian Serenade" by Wolf.

Guest artists include harpist Christa Grix, who has performed in concert at Symphony Hall in Boston, the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., and as featured soloists with the International Symphony Orchestra.

Grix was a prize winner in the 1986 Eastern Pop and Jazz Harp competition held in Boston and was the only harpist invited to Halifax, Nova Scotia, as a young artist for the Scotia Festival of Music. Locally, she has performed with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Michigan Opera Theater, Detroit Symphony Orchestra Chorus and has performed with several nationally acclaimed artists including Johnny Mathis, Perry Como, Gladys Knight and the Pips and Aretha Franklin.

ALSO ON THE PROGRAM will be singer Mary Irvine, noted concert artist and oratorio soloist. Irvine has performed in England and Ireland as well as in the U.S. Along with her performance schedule, she has taught at Oakland University and in the metropolitan Detroit area.

Also featured in the program will be Roger Welton on flute. Narrator will be David Wassenauer.

The concert is one of three planned by the chamber group in the new library facility. The second concert will have a Viennese theme and will honor the late DSO conductor Antal Dorati's "La Vie Parisienne." The March 10 concert will have an All-American flavor, featuring such selections as Aaron Copland's "Outdoor Overture" and selections from "West Side Story."

Series tickets are $24 for general admission, with a $12 admission for students under 21 and senior citizens. Individual tickets are $5 for students and seniors and $8.50 for general admission. Tickets are available at the library, Five Mile just east of the City Hall complex, Hammett Music on Middlebelt Road and Madonna College. Tickets may also be purchased by mail with a check to Livonia Symphony Orchestra, 30499 Plymouth Road, Livonia 48154.

The chamber group is part of the Livonia Symphony Orchestra, formerly the Oakway Symphony.

'Remainder' tables profit all but authors

THE HOLIDAYS are over and, as usual, what little money is left after the spending orgy has to be carefully allotted. For me, that should mean stay out of the bookstores. Well, we know that's not going to happen, so all I can say is thank Hera for the remainder tables.

Remainder tables are where the out-of-date and undersold books settle, and almost every bookstore has one or more. Out of respect for the authors of those books, I used to shun those tables. Because warehousing is so tight and stockpiling books is so unprofitable for publishers these days, they've taken to "remaindering" the books that haven't sold. That is, they recoup some of their losses by selling them for practically nothing to distributors who in turn sell them for next to nothing to the bookstores.

Everybody's happy except — guess who? The author. There are no royalties on remaindered books, though sometimes the author is given the opportunity to buy up his or her own books. The unit price is low, but the quantities aren't. A thousand books stacked in a garage can be a formidable display, which is why you see so many really wonderful books

book break

on remainder tables.

THOUGH I STILL think it's appalling that authors don't profit from their own remaindered books, I've changed my tune when it comes to buying them. I search out those books first now — mainly because I save a lot of money (I often buy the hardcover edition for less than the paperback still on the bookstore shelves. Sometimes I buy the hardcover to replace the paperback on my own shelves.) But, more important, I've become acquainted with writers I might never have known about before.

One example: At a Waldenbooks I bought a small book called "Letters from the Country" by Carol Bly for 99 cents. The cover looked intriguing — a small, gray barn, two horses, a stark-winter landscape. On the back cover Publishers Weekly called it

"An absolute gem of modern rural Americana." Noel Perrin, in a New York Times Book Review, called it "a very readable mixture of sociology, secular sermons and good stories." The jacket copy said, "For 25 years Carol Bly has lived in Madison, Minn. (pop. 2,242), a town possessed of clean air, beautiful lakes, a Kiwanis chapter — and a stultifying aura of blandness, isolation and loneliness." Well, I can't say I would have bought it at the $5.95 list price, but for a buck —

I bought it for the "Aha!" factor. So that I could read about stultifying small towns, much like those I'd spent some good amount of time in, and say "Aha! See? She sees them that way too." But Carol Bly's essays were tough and funny and thoroughly wonderful — and I began to wonder: Who is Carol Bly and why haven't I ever heard of her?

SO LAST SPRING when I was at Ragdale, the artist's colony, I questioned some of the residents from the Midwest. To my surprise, several of them told me they had traveled long miles to hear her speak, had taken classes with her, had become fans themselves.

Then, in a Milwaukee bookstore, Carol Bly's latest book, "Backbone," a collection of short stories, jumped at me and this time I paid the full price, $6.95 (a Milkweed Editions large paperback) and would have gladly paid two or three times that amount. And now that I've read "Backbone," I'd mortgage my house to buy her next book. All because of an obscure book I happened to find on the bargain table.

Some books appear on the remainder tables and it's all you can do to keep from cheering. (Examples: books by any or all of the Watergate figures, a book on Jim and Tammy Bakker, a Jerry Lewis biography. A future bet to cheer about already: Willie Nelson's loathsome biography. Or is it loathsome Willie Nelson's biography?) But others are a complete mystery.

I once bought "The Complete Stories of Flannery O'Connor" for $2.98 at a bargain table, then walked across the mall to another book store where the same edition was selling in the shelves for $6.95, the full price.

Just the other day I found two recent hardcover books in perfect condition but marked down at a discount store. One of them was "Oscar and Lucinda" by Peter Carey, an Australian novel that has appeared on almost every critic's "Best of 1988" list. It's selling for $18.95 all over town. I paid $4 for it. The other book I bought was Reynolds Price's "Good Hearts." At $3 for the $18.95 hardcover, I paid less than I would have for the paperback — which was already on my list of books to buy.

Why were these books marked down? I have no idea, but there and I snapped them up before the store people woke up and came to their senses.

Still, much as I want to satisfy my love of a good bargain, I buy these books with great guilt and anger. In what other field would the creator not profit fully from the sale of the creation? How did this practice get started and why has it been allowed to go on? When will publishers recognize that authors are their greatest assets?

TROY AUTHOR Linda Lang Bartlett's fourth historical romance, "Brittany" (Avon paperback) should be in the bookstores at this writing. This book, a departure from Bartlett's usual Middle Ages settings, is set in 17th century Restoration England, with an American hero and a French heroine. In addition, "Marius," Bartlett's third book of her medieval trilogy for Avon Books, has won a Reviewer's Choice award from Romantic Times, a national trade magazine published by former Grosset Pinter Kathryn Falk.

Miniature exhibit shows unusual skill

Stiefel sent a beautifully accessorized antique bentwood cradle and a completely outfitted 18th century weaver's studio, with an authentic copy of floor loom at Greenfield Vil-

Small scale artistry

The animals are solid basswood and Shellhaas said she was delighted to discover that many full-size animals done by the great carvers were also done in basswood.

Shellhaas said Mark Twain bought the (Lincoln) bed which she has in the miniature show in Italy for the Mark Twain home in Connecticut, which he later lost.

"His daughters used to put on plays using the finials on the bed for characters. Mine are removable too," Shellhaas said. "The cherubs I carved were 9 inches tall."

In her research she learned that Twain bought a lot of the furniture for that home in New England in Italy and that he liked the headboard of the bed so much that he put his pillow low at the foot of the bed so he could look at the headboard.

Shellhaas, mother, wife and in-demand miniature maker and teacher, said she is working on a degree in graphic arts with a possible minor in sculpture. When she was a teenager, she wanted to become an architect. But while she worked for six years in the production department of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, she said the X-acto knife became an extension of herself and she knew she would always want to be doing something with her hands.

Miniature making became an ideal outlet for her skills and her creative spirit. The carousel may be one of her most challenging projects yet, but she and her students are determined to see it through.

In another display of miniature textiles are several pettingpoint rugs and a flame stitched upholstered wing chair by Sister Pauline Boyd of Saginaw, 1,600 stitches to the inch.

Marjorie Adams of Washington Courthouse, Ohio specializes in miniature paintings. Whether the collector wants Gainsborough's Blue Boy or 18th century Chinese woodblock prints by Hiroshige or Harunobu, Adams can deliver. She also did miniature wedding portraits of Goad's daughter and two sons and their spouses on commission.

Still, it's hard to top the workmanship and creativity of Judy Shellhaas of Plymouth. Even these professional artists gasped as they unpacked Shellhaas's carousel animals and Mark Twain (labeled Lincoln bed in the exhibit) just prior to opening day. The bed is so named because because when Twain used it in Italy, he reportedly slept with his head at the foot of the bed, so he could look at the beautiful headboard. Shellhaas also made the miniatures of the oriental furniture, "The Adams's Collection" which Goad's grandparents brought from the Orient.

"Masterpieces in Miniature," done in cooperation with Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association, is open free of charge, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, 191 S. Cranbrook, Birmingham.

briefly speaking

VAAL CLASSES

Day and evening classes and workshops are being offered by the Visual Arts Association of Livonia (VAAL). Classes begin the week of Jan. 23. Classes offered will include drawing, oil, watercolor and mono-printing. Classes are held in the Jefferson Center, 9501 Henry Road, Livonia. For more information, call 464-6772.

TEEN AUTO DESIGN CLASSES

The Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association is offering Teen Auto Design in the winter term of classes. The class will be held at 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Saturdays. Rodney Lloyd, designer at Chrysler and instructor at the Center for Creative Studies, will conduct the class. For more information, call 644-0866.

ASIAN ART

The University of Michigan Museum of Art presents the exhibition "Pure Elegance: A Decade of Asian Art Collecting at the UMMA," Jan. 21-March 19. The exhibition features the major Asian art objects collected during the last 10 years at the museum. A public lecture is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 20, in Angell Hall auditorium. Speaker will be Marshall Wu, UMMA curator of Asian art. There is no admission charge.

Two special family programs relating to the exhibition have also been scheduled. On Sunday, Feb. 12, 2-4 p.m., a Chinese film festival will be shown, featuring the films "Small Happiness: Women of a Chinese Village" and "A Day on the Grand Canal with the Emperor of China." On Saturday, March 18, two performances of the play "The Emperor and the Kite" by Wild Swan Theater will be held. The first performance is at 10 a.m. and the second at 11:15 a.m. Free tickets are required for these two performances and will be available at the Museum Shop beginning March 4.

KLEZMER MUSIC

The Klezmer Conservatory Band - an ensemble in the forefront of today's revival of Jewish klezmer music - will perform in Ann Arbor at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Power Center for the Performing Arts. The 13-member vocal and instrumental group appears under auspices of the University Musical Society of the University of Michigan. Tickets range from $10 to $15 and are available at the Musical Society's Burton Tower ticket office. For more information, call 764-2538.

SISSON GALLERY

"To Draw" is the theme of the visual art statements to be exhibited in the Sisson Gallery at Henry Ford Community College, featuring work by artists John Hegarty, Jim Nawara and Peter Williams.

The show will close Jan. 13. Hegarty treats the figure as a metaphor for man's confrontation with himself. The figures are nude, which strips them of their source of camouflage. Hegarty chooses to present the figures straight on and almost life-size.

Nawara explores the nuances of the landscape, which seem to hold the mystery of nature for him. The landscape is sometimes viewed from above and sometimes straight on.

Williams, through the flight of his imagination, conveys in robust drawings a dialogue about his experiences as a black, as an artist and as a person in the urban environment of Detroit and his responsibilities to this environment.

All three teach at Wayne State University.

The gallery is on the campus of Henry Ford Community College, 5101 Evergreen. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily with additional hours 6-8 p.m. Tuesdays.

Showing collection of hand weavings

Mike Farrell, textile designer for Textillery of Bloomington, Ind., will present a collection of handwoven throws at three Jacobson's stores next week: at the Birmingham store from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday; in the Dearborn store from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday; and in the Livonia store from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday.

Textillery is owned by John and Judith Rose, who began the company 14 years ago. "We were definitely a couple of hippies," she said. She creates the designs and weaves the first sample of the throws and he is responsible for the marketing. Even though a computer translates her first designs into complex patterns for the loom, the artisans have no interest in power looms.

"I don't think we'll ever become industrial," she said. "This way, we can adapt quickly and everything is pretty much made to order."

Their designs combine silk, wool, cotton, rayon, mohair and ribbon. Pattern colors range from soft pastels to rich jewel tones.

Story League to meet

The Detroit Story League will hold a meeting from noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 21, at Christ Episcopal Church-Detroit, 960 East Jefferson, Detroit.

The storytellers will be: Linda Day, Livonia; Michael Deller, Dearborn; Jean Jambas, Farmington Hills; Mildred Stennis, Detroit; and Jean Gordon, Northville.

A workshop, "How Stories Can Teach Without Preaching," will be given by Caite Allam of Redford.

Bring a bag lunch. Coffee and desserts will be served.
