Schools propose restoring $1.8 million

By Doug Funke staff writer

Plymouth-Canton school administrators have proposed restoring upward of $1.8 million in personnel and programming cuts for the 1989-90 school year if voters approve both a millage renewal and a tax increase

A renewal and tax increase coupled with a Headlee rollback would net the district some $3.2 million, said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

In addition to the restorations, $1.4 million could be placed in the district's unallocated fund balance, Hoedel said

That would bring the fund balance to about $3.4 million, 5 percent of annual expenditures as recommended by accountants, Hoedel said.

THE SCHOOL BOARD will make a final decision on restorations - if the ballot questions win approval after carefully reviewing options, said David Artley, board president. Administrators propose:

• Rehiring about 24 teachers to reduce the student-teacher ratio in classrooms district-wide. Estimated cost: $720,000.

• Re-roofing Hulsing, Eriksson and Field elementary schools. Estimated cost: $540,000.

• Opening elementary school buildings after 5 p.m. for school and community activities. Estimated cost: $100,000.

· Partially restoring the textbook budget. Estimated cost: Improving grants to individual school buildings for discretionary spending to augment learning materials. Estimated cost: $140,000.

• Discontinuing extracurricular fees. Estimated cost: $90,000.

"I THINK the two items I hear the most about in traveling through the district is, No. 1, class size and elementaries not being available for night meetings," said Superintendent John M. Hoben.

"In my view, this has the potential of being a very workable list . . . at least for a start," said trustee Dean Swartzwelter.

"These are some of the things we felt critical to restoration," said David Artley, board president. "But there are some variables that are very important."

they believe it's important to reinstitute the attendance office at the two high schools.

Concerns also were raised about the district's relative lack of testing programs, Artley said.

Some $2 million in broad personnel/program restorations have been brought up by administrators for the 1990-91 school year should both June tax questions win voter approval.

They include spending some $515,000 to hire back additional certified staff, $180,000 to replace the roof at Miller Elementary and $150,000 to rehire educational aides.

Asbestos will be removed during Easter vacation from Farrand's boiler room and kitchen storage area, and from ceiling tile above the school's northern rear entrance.

Asbestos will be removed from vertical pipes in classrooms and from boiler rooms at the Starkweather adult education center in late June, with the money coming from a $13 million bond issue approved by voters in 1986.

The contract went to the low bidder, Performance Abatement Ser-

Asbestos was applied to ceilings, pipes and boilers as a fire retardant in the 1950s.

Breathing asbestos particles has since been linked to asbestosis, a scarring of the lung by asbestos fibers, and mesothilioma, a rare, hard-to-diagnose malignancy of the lung lining

None of the asbestos in Plymouth-Canton school buildings, located primarily in boiler rooms, poses a health hazard because it is wrapped, district officials say.

The district has spent more than $400,000 to remove asbestos from school buildings, and four inspections "have rendered us asbestos clean," said Supt. John Hoben. Despite that, the district must comply with the federal Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act of 1986. The law requires school districts to inspect all buildings for flaking asbestos, regardless of actions taken in the past. Districts that fail to comply by Completing the project will take five years and cost $400,000 to $500,000, said Gourdie, of Engineering & Testing Services, Inc.

Asbestos will be removed from boiler rooms at elementary schools, including Allen, Bird, Isbister, Fiegel, Tanger, Gallimore and Field. At Smith, asbestos will be removed from the boiler room and from ceiling pipes in the hallways.

Asbestos will be removed from boiler rooms in Central, Pioneer and West Middle schools, and from tunnels and the boiler room at East Middle School.

It also will be removed from the board office on Harvey Street, and from boiler rooms in Canton and Salem high schools, said Dick Egli, community relations director.

Gourdie complimented Plymouth-Canton Community Schools on its handling of the asbestos problem.

"This district is ahead of many school systems as far as getting things done, submitted and removed," he said. Having done numerous on-site inspections, "I have to commend the district," added Gourdie. "It shows me what a good job Plymouth-Canton schools have done.'

Investigation continues into fatal plane crash

An investigation is continuing into the cause of a Feb. 20 airplane crash near Fort Walton Beach, Fla., that killed U.S. Air Force Capt. John Young, 30, and seven others. Young's father, John Young of

Canton, was notified Tuesday, Feb. 28, by Norton Air Force Base personnel that his son's body had been

"It'll be a few more days before they fly him home," Young said. "But John's been identified." John Young Jr. was a 1977 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and a 1982 graduate of the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., where he earned a bachelor's degree in political science.

During his high school and college days, he was a top student and an accomplished athlete, and was second in the nation in his weight class in NCAA boxing competition.

Arrangements for the military funeral were incomplete Tuesday, but they will be handled by the Schrader Funeral Home, Plymouth. Burial will be in United Memorial Gardens.

Lead in child killings disputed

By Alice Collins staff writer

Top officials of the special police task force that investigated the 1976-77 Oakland County child killings don't consider the former Warren man killed in a 1981 traffic crash in Wyoming a prime suspect in the slayings.

Rollin G. Tobin, Birmingham's police chief at the time the four children were killed and now Southfield public safety director, discounts Berkley police detectives' conclu-sions that there is ample evidence to link David Norberg with the death of Kristine Mihelich of Berkley, one of

"There's no credence to Berkley's claims," Tobin said Tuesday after a highly promoted TV news show pointed to Norberg as a suspect in the unsolved murders that for years spread fear throughout Oakland County.

Berkley Detective Sgt. Ray Anger said Wednesday that his department considers. Norberg "a good suspect that requires more investigation."

"We didn't go public with this, Channel 4 did," Anger continued. "We issued a simple three-paragraph statement Tuesday after they forced us into it. They told us they had been working on a story and planned to go with it whether we liked it or not."

Jerry Tobias, another task force

Jerry Tobias, another task force leader and still close to the investi-gation, said he respects the dedica-tion of Berkley detectives who have worked hard on the case. "What they have is interesting," he said, "but without other substantiating data, it's nothing."

THE KEY TO BERKLEY'S case is a small cross with the name "Kristine" etched on it that was found among Norberg's possessions after his death. Berkley police believe the cross may have belonged to Kristine Mihelich and that she was wearing it when she was abducted in Berkley

Jan. 2, 1977. Other officers from the task force point out that Norberg had a sister named Kristine, but she reportedly denies that the cross is hers.

MONEY FOR asbestos removal most likely will come from the district's general operating fund, said

"We don't have any more latitude on bond issue money," said

"We'll struggle with it. The law is such that we have to do it. We will continue wherever we find it to remove it."

With districts across the state, Plymouth-Canton schools are involved in a class action suit against asbestos manufacturers. No trial date has been set for the suit, to be tried in Wayne Circuit Court.

It's doubtful that the district will recoup substantial damages, said

We expect to recover a portion of it, but I don't know what that means," said Hoben. "I think everyone and his brother is in on the suit, so that probably whatever the award is, it will be minimal."

Hoben predicts that eventually. business and industry will have to comply with similar removal pro-

"Sooner or later, other buildings will be brought into it," he said. "I think business and industrial interests will keep putting it off. They have stronger lobbyists, probably.'

Students in the Plymouth-Canton and Redford Union adult education programs won't have to play musical schools, despite a move to join the two community education de-

The two school districts have decided to join forces in what they call a consortium to provide specified mula for state funding when a com-adult education services to residents of their own districts.

Classes affected by the cooperative effort are those for adults working to get their high school diplomas. The consortium was made necessary by the fact that the Plymouth-Canton district will be phased out of the formula that grants state aid to school districts. This would cut funding for such adult-ed classes.

A school district goes out of for-munity's property values increase, but the number of students in the system stays the same, according to Larry Masteler, Plymouth-Canton's director of community education.

"The state says 'you don't need any help from us,' " Masteler said. The formula is determined by the state equalized value of the property, plus the student body count, and is based on the millage assessment in the community.

"The bottom line is that the district will get zero dollars in state aid once they reach that point,"Masteler

But the state Legislature allowed for this circumstance several years ago, he added. Since adult education isn't mandatory, and students can go to any district they want to, it allows the district to go into a consortium with another district still in formula, Masteler said.

Nothing will change for adult stu-

"They'll still take classes here (Plymouth Canton), " he said. What will change is where the students are counted and the money goes.

Students enrolled in the program will be counted as part of Redford Union's district. Redford will get the state funds for the students, and con-tract back to the Plymouth Canton district to pay all the costs of run-ning the program, Masteler said.

Masteler said that having a con-sortium is one way many districts in Oakland County are able to keep their programs.

"There are approximately 45-47 school districts, about 30 of which are out of formula, he said, adding that the majority of them being adult education programs.

who directed the task force, Bergley detective Anger and the polygraph operator were present for the test.

A primary theory in all four incidents was that the abductor had to be someone a child might go with quietly and willingly, even if he were a stranger. "This man (Norberg) wasn't the type of person a child would go with," said Tobias, "He couldn't have done it by himself. He couldn't have smooth-talked Timmy King into that car."

Timothy King, 11, Birmingham, was the fourth and last of the victims attributed to the Oakland County child killer.

KRISTINE was the third victim abducted, held for days, then killed and left at roadside. One victim was shot, the other three were suffocated.

The first was Mark Stebbins, 12, abducted Feb. 2, 1976, in Ferndale and his body found 17 days later in Southfield; Jill Robinson, 12, was last seen in Royal Oak on Dec. 22, 1976, and found-shot to death along

I-75 in Troy four days later; Kristine was held 19 days before her body was found beside Bruce Lane in Franklin; Timothy, 11, was kidnapped near the Hunter Maple Pharmacy about four blocks from his home on March 16, 1977, and his body found six days later in Livonia, just south of Farmington Hills.

Anger said the cross remained in the possession of Norberg's family until last year when it was turned over to Sterling Heights police by someone described as an informant.

The Sterling Heights department turned it over to Berkley police.

Officials say Kristine's mother didn't recognize the cross as her daughter's, but an aunt of Kristine's identified it as belonging to the girl after being placed under hypnosis.

2 hauler fires spark concern

By Doug Funke staff writer

Two fires in Plymouth Township last week involving trash haulers have local officials planning a huddle on how best to deal with related dumping situations in the future.

No injuries were reported in either incident.

A commercial hauler heading from Dearborn to a landfill in North-ville Township last Friday morning was diverted off M-14 at Sheldon Road when smoke was observed pouring from the load, said Fire Chief Larry Groth.

The fire department was notified at about 11:30 a.m.

Ninety yards of compacted trash, much apparently foodstuffs from restaurants, was dumped at nearby Plymouth Executive Park, doused by firefighters, then reloaded by the hauler, Groth said.

Firefighters remained on the scene for about 2½ hours, he said. JUST TWO DAYS earlier, trash in a garbage truck ignited when a dumpster being loaded knocked down power lines behind Arbor Drugs at Sheldon and Ann Arbor Road, Groth said.

Firefighters waited about a half hour until a Detroit Edison crew disconnected service to the line. The truck was then directed to nearby Metro West Industrial Park where the load was dumped and extinguished.

guisned.

The hauler, again, was responsible for cleanup, Groth said. Firefighters remained on the scene from about 7:15 to 10:15 a.m.

"It's normal to get one or two (trash hauler) fires a year, not two in two days," Groth said.

Township officials were expected to meet this week to consider a policy of how to deal with trash fires of haulers moving through the community.

nity.
"WE WANT to know where we can take those loads and dump them to put them out," Groth said.

Obvious problems — blowing trash, blocking/diverting traffic, gawkers — arise by dumping on the freeway, itself, he said.

Supervisor Maurice Breen said he received complaints from the owners of the two properties where loads were dumped last week.

"My problem is you don't dump someone else's garbage on someone's personal property — especially if you don't know what's in there," Breen said.

Dumping on county land off Five Mile and Sheldon in Northville Township was one possible alternative mentioned by Breen.

The list of items is impressive. Lake access property near Interiochen, trips to San Francisco (airfare and lodging included), a weekend for two at Domino's Lodge on Drummond Island and a complete wedding at "the Roma's of your choice" for two hundred people.

These and more than 500 other items and services will go on the block Saturday, April 22, when Madonna College holds it's first "Around the World Scholarship Dinner Auction" in Livonia's Laurel Manor, 39000 Schoolcraft.

TICKETS for the dinner, silent and live auctions are $40 per person. The goal is to raise $100,000 for Madonna's scholarship fund.

"We're looking to get 700 gifts (to auction)," said Andrea Nodge, direc-tor of public relations for Madonna

"This will be the largest single day fund-raiser Madonna has ever undertaken," added Annette Babb, director of fund raising and an alumna of

Heading up the auction fund-raiser are general chairs Ray and Jean Shapero of Northville and Betty Jean and Robert Awrey of Awrey Bakeries Inc. in Livonia.

Prizes include small appliances to the wedding package which includes flowers, limosine service and tuxeThere's a glass shower door, in-stallation included. "I keep telling people there's something for everybody," sald Babb.

SPORTS FANS might want to bid on the lunch with Ernie Harwell at Detroit's sports mecca, the Lindell AC, with a Tigers game after. Lindell owners John and Jim Butsicaris have donated the use of their box over the Tigers' dugout, as part of that package.

Frustrated commuters might want to see what rush hour looks like (morning or evening) from WJR's Jet Copter '76 with Capt. Dennis Neubacher. And there's the theater buff's dream package: a champagne dinner for four at Sardi's in New York, with tickets to "Phantom of the Opera," courtesy of Sardi's owner Ivan Bloch.

"We call those fantasy items, something you couldn't go out and get on your own," said Babb.

They come through someone who knows someone, who knows some-one," said Babb. Someone like intrepid fund-raiser Leslie Rose. Rose, who's chairman of Fidelity Bank of Michigan in Birmingham as well as chairman of Madonna's board of trustees, got the Sardi's dream trip for the auction.

Paul Paparelli, vice president of Roma's of Michigan, had worked on another Madonna fund-raiser when the library was built. The fact Madonna is in Livonia, where Roma's is headquartered gave it added appeal.

appealed to him.
"It's something we'd never done before, never heard of being done," he said. Paparelli estimated the cost of the whole package to be about $10,000.

People have donated time as well as gifts to the auction.

"I happen to believe it's a good school," said Jean Shapero.

"I love to do anything that can help kids. If (the scholarship fund) can keep someone in college who or-dinarily wouldn't get to go, it's worth the effort," Shapero said.

Shapero and her husband, Ray, of the Quael Corp., have worked on fund-raisers before, for the building campaign. Shapero has a philosophy about volunteering: "If you don't like volunteering one place, go someplace else.

Mental health center faces cut

staff writer

Those involved with Hawthorn Center, a state mental health facility for children and teenagers, had wondered where the state's budget ax would fall.

Then they found out - it would fall on them. But they're fighting back.

, Staff members and parents of patients using the center on Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile are banding together to protest an estimated $2 million cut that would eliminate Hawthorn out-patient pro-

The state's newly-proposed mental health budget would cut Hawthorn's financing by nearly 15 percent, center director Dr. Harold Wgight said. Some 65 staff members, almost one-fifth of Hawthorn's 360member staff, would face layoffs.

"MUCH MORE important is the services that would be lost," Wright said. "Over 1,000 youngsters would lose services."

The 33-year-old youth intervention center would have to close its outpatient clinic, day school and early intervention program, as well as abandon programs serving the Wayne County Circuit Court and state juvenile justice system.

Cuts appear consistent with a state's policy that turns over select mental health programs to commu-nity or private health centers, taking programs away from larger, state-run, facilities like Hawthorn.

"It seems there's a shift toward community centers and the private sector," said Sam Davis, executive director of the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children. "But Hawthorn was designed to be the flagship for children's mental health care in the state. There's no one else providing all the services it

ivonia council Moves concern

Two companies are asking the Livonia City Council for permission to leave Livonia for Plymouth Township and Canton, even though one al-ready has accepted tax breaks to es-tablish a businesses here and the other could get a break by relocat-

The council, refuctant to have successful businesses leave for any reason, has scheduled a vote on the issue March 22.

The questions both companies faced recently from council members shows just how concerned Livonia officials are in keeping industry there. The companies had to seek the council's approval because they are seeking tax abatements in the communities where they plan to relo-

But the companies say they're leaving because the room they need to expand isn't available in Livonia, not because they are being offered tax breaks elsewhere.

TONY BADALAMENT, a representative of TnT-EDM, Inc., 36010 Industrial Road, recently told the Livonia council that his company is not a "carpetbagger," ready to move to Plymouth Township just to get an-other tax break under Public Act

The company now is in the third year of a seven-year tax break given under the act by Livonia.

And Gary Johnson of Astro Automation, 31465 W. Eight Mile Road, heard councilwoman Joan McCotter Monday use the word "frightening" in describing the number of successful companies now leaving Livonia for greener pastures.

Johnson asked for the city's approval to leave Livonia so the company could get a tax break in Canton Township under Public Act 198. The council's line of questioning also shows the city is concerned with keeping companies that need to expand. Many of the companies say they would like to stay in Livonia but can't find the space here to expand.

"It's not a crisis but it's forcing us to focus on a new issue — business retention," said councilman Robert

March 22, the council will vote on whether to approve the transfers the two companies, need to get a tax break in their new community,

DUE TO the lack of room to expand, Johnson said staying in Livonia is forcing Astro Automation to turn down business.

He said his new facility in Canton Township will be twice the size of his leased building on Eight Mile.

Johnson said his company would move, with or without the city's approval for a tax break in Canton Township.

"Lack of space, not a tax break, is the reason for the move," Johnson said. "We look forward to getting the tax break but it won't stop us from moving."

According to John Nagy, many of the companies now leasing space in the city's industrial corridor now want to own their own building but can't because the developers own the buildings.

"But for every one that leaves Livonia, others move in," Nagy said. We don't have a lot of white elephants on our hands.'

Badalament, business representative for TnT-EDM, also attributed his company's move to growth.

The four man-made lakes were created by Ford Motor Co. for its "village industries." Drafted by Henry Ford himself, the village industry plan sought to provide urban manufacturing in a rural setting.

A father and son who hadn't seen each other in 32 years are back to-gether — thanks to several coincinces and the help of two Plymouth

"It's like the Fourth of July and New Year's Eve all in one," said the father, Dan McManaman, 59, and a salesman at Stu Evans Lincoln-Mercury in Garden City.

His son, Dan Thorpe, 37, formerly of Westland and Livonia, comment-

"After all these years, it's amaz-ing that I met my dad. There is an overwhelming feeling of relief. The McManaman name was with me all my life, but now I can associate it with a face."

Divorced when the boy was about McManaman visited the youngster Dut hadn't seen him since the age of as, or 32 years ago.

Part of the problem was that when the boy's parents were di-vorced, McManaman received erroneous reports that his former wife and their son moved to California, leading him to abandon any effort to contact the boy.

In reality, the boy and his mother, who had remarried, lived in Allen

Park, the Ann Arbor Trail-Merriman area of Westland and later in the Five Mile-Merriman area of Livonia. Eventually, they moved to Boyne City in northwest Michigan. But through two coincidences and the help of two Plymouth friends, the father and son were reunited last week after a 32-year separation.

THE HAPPY reunion, arranged by Thorpe's longtime friend Joseph Eckout Jr., 35, of Plymouth, climaxed a series of coincidences uncovered during the previous two

There are numerous "what ifs" involved which could have blocked the

But let's start from the beginning. Dan Thorpe was born on Jan. 22, 1952. He was the only child born to Dan and Beverly McManaman.

His father was overseas, serving in the Army during the Korean War when Dan was born and didn't see his son until the boy was 11/2 years

But six months later, his parents were divorced. McManaman continued to see his son during visits for the next three years.

About the same time, McManaman became good friends with John Floyd, a car salesman at a Chevrolet dealership, who lived down the street from McManaman's remarried wife - although he didn't know it at the time.

The former wife married Bob Thorpe who didn't legally adopt the boy.

"I realized who my biological fa-ther was when I was 8," said Thorpe, who had his name legally changed when he was 16.

"I was always curious who my biological father was, but never tried to contact him."

While living in Westland, he attended Hayes Elementary School, Whittier Junior High, and Livonia Franklin, where he met Joe Eckout Jr., and became friends. At Franklin, Thorpe was a star player for and captain of the Patriots' football team.

Here comes the start of two coincidences which led to the father-son McMANAMAN'S close friend, Floyd, has a daughter, Barbara, now 31, who is Eckout's girl friend.

'In early February, Joe and Barba-ra were planning a Jamaican trip and invited Dan to join them. In applying for a passport, Dan called his mother in Boyne City to get a copy of his birth certificate and learned that his birth name was McManaman.

During the Jamaican trip, Joe, Barbara and Dan were chatting when Thorpe said that his birth certificate listed his father as Daniel McMahaman.

"It's weird that you had the same (last) name as my dad's closest friend," Thorpe quoted as saying her

Thorpe was curious about the coincidence and decided to check into it when he returned to Michigan.

"When I got back, I stayed at the home of Lenni Kmet in Ypsilanti, Joe Eckhout's sister, before returning to Boyne City," Thorpe said.
While in Ypsilanti, he and Barbara

Floyd decided to quickly check out the McNanaman connection - "if any" — Thorpe recalled.

On Feb. 19, Barbara called her father and told him of the conversation with Thorpe and the McNanaman connection. Two days later, John called his longtime friend and in an excited voice said: "Danny, I think I located your son. He looks just like you."

This is how the father and son recalled their initial telephone conversation of Feb. 21.

Calling from the Kmet home, Thorpe called his father at the Garden City dealership and said simply: "This is Dan Thorpe."

McMANAMAN, who admitted having a lump in his throat, questioned the caller about family

When Thorpe identified the first names of his mother and two grandparents, "then my heart started beating at 90 miles per hour," McManaman said.

Thorpe admitted that his jaw "dropped to the floor" after confirming that he was talking to the father he hadn't seen in 35 years.

When the McManaman first saw his grown son in the Kmet home, "I knew it was my son - he has the same eyes," he said.

'We hugged each other and cried." Thorpe said both were "in a state of shock.

Over the years, "I knew there was something missing and it was breaking his heart," she said of her husband's memories of the son he hadn't seen since 1957.

But now the dream has become reality and the father and son intend to see each other frequently.

Another problem is that some peo-ple receive more money in jobless benefits than they would if they took a new job, Scerpella said.

SER, financed by the U.S. Labor Department, provides free job training and placement and, in some cases, free adult education classes in computer training, computer repairs, washer and dryer repairs and optical dispensing.

Those courses are open to people

Right message

Board may restore programs

HE Plymouth-Canton school board is sending the right message to voters by announcing that it expects to restore programs cut in recent years, if the 8mill property tax renewal and 2-mill increase are approved June 12 at the polls.

That message is: You will be getting something for your money.

And the board is sending that message to all segments of the community. Those segments include parents of school children, those without school-age children and the athletic community.

Those groups include almost everybody in the Plymouth/Canton community.

However, while making the announcement, the board was a bit cautious. They are calling the plan a proposal. It's not cast in stone.

We hope it ends up in stone. It's a good agenda, one that would help get the yes vote out in June. Here's what the board said it would like to do:

• Rehire about 24 teachers to reduce the student-teacher ratio in classrooms districtwide. Estimated cost: $720,000.

• Re-roof Hulsing, Eriksson and Field elementary schools. Estimated cost: $540,000. Open elementary school buildings after 5 p.m. for school and community activities. Estimated cost: $100,000.

• Partially restore the textbook budget. Estimated cost: $225,000.

Improve grants to individual school buildings for discretionary spending to augment learning materials. Estimated cost: $140,000.

• Discontinue extra-curricular fees. Estimated cost: $90,000.

The board's list makes sense to us. All the items on it appear to be sound, solid ways to spend money.

However, it's the item at the top of the list that should impress parents and non-parents alike. It's the rehiring of teachers to lower the student-

To us, that's the heart of a school system. Fewer students in each classroom mean that teachers have more time for each student.

When teachers have more time to spend with kids, they learn.

Another one of the proposals will go a long way toward sprucing up the district's image with the voters. It's the proposal to open elementary schools to community activities after 5 p.m.

That allows taxpayers to gain added benefit from buildings they are supporting.

Also, with more members of the public using school buildings, more persons will come into contact with what's going on in the schools. This should help school officials show members of the public what it's doing.

Community activities at schools often attract person's who don't have children in the school system. And that's a significant number of peo-

According to some estimates, about 30 percent of households have children. That means that 70 percent of the voters don't have the same vested interest in the schools. That doesn't mean they are automatic no voters when it comes to millages, but they are a significant segment of the public that isn't exposed to school programs.

So by opening up the doors of schools at night for other activities, these persons can come into contact with the educational system.

Getting rid of the pay to play system would help the district with the parents of kids involved in extra-curricular activities. Sports, music and other activities can be as important as academics. Those activities often help students' self-esteem, which is many times the key to improving

Also, the parents of children involved in those activities have made time and financial contributions toward the training of their children in

And since the entire school district benefits from those activities, it seems only fair that

Fred DeLano: Old-time newsman leaves legacy

SOMEHOW IT seems appropriate that this column is being written in the early dawn. It's coincidence, of course. Lots to do today and too few hours to accomplish all that needs to be done. But appropriate neverthe-

You see, early morning was Fred DeLano's time and this column is a tribute to Fred who deserves a kind farewell from all of us who knew him for so many years.

As newspaper readers, you knew him as Fred DeLano, author of "Through Bifocals." Others of you knew him as Plymouth activist, University of Michigan fan-extraordinaire, public relations master and one heck of a storyteller.

But no matter in what guise, Fred was important — to this newspaper, to journalism and to the community.

You have a finer newspaper delivered to your door because of Fred DeLano. You see, he made an indelible impression on this newsroom.

He very well would flinch at these accolades. As was written in his obituary, Fred preferred to "compose paragraphs that entertain, that tell of people and things, now and then relating something you didn't know."

Well, he did do that. But he did much more for all of those he

Oh, now don't get me wrong. Fred was no angel. He lived the life of the old-time newspaperman you very well could imagine in the movies. He drank too much, smoked too many cigarettes, worked too many hours and played too hard, too often.

Being the fine newspaper person he was, Fred would be unhappy if this farewell hid the truth. Credibility, he knew, is the cornerstone of any

But none of that diminishes Fred's contribution to our corner of the world in suburban Detroit.

HE HELPED mold many careers. He would gently scold young reporters who were reluctant to get the entire story. But he would also reassuringly help those same young reporters who needed help in developing an

When I came to the Observer 17 years ago, Fred was one of the kingpins. But he never bragged, never really had a whole lot to say. He didn't have to say much.

No matter how early in the morning you would come in, Fred would already be at this desk, coffee steaming, cigarette burning and typewriter clacking.

The other night while helping to put together his obituary, I stood with a handful of his columns in hand. The newsroom was mostly empty and quiet. I looked around and remembered for a minute or two, clutching the columns extra hard, eyes welling a bit.

But then it was back to work, the way Fred would do it. A deadline had to be met.

Like many of you, I'll miss the magic of Fred DeLano's column, his easy smile and dedication to this age-old craft.

Thanks Fred. Rest-easy.

Jail operations

County exec must have control

HIEF WAYNE County Circuit Judge Richard Kaufman was correct, at least politically, in his decision to temporarily place the county jail in the hands of County Executive Edward McNamara.

The ruling has proved controversial. Sheriff Robert Ficano threatened an appeal as soon as it was issued. But whether the ruling stands or is overturned is immaterial.

We hope the judge's ruling serves as a springboard toward a county corrections department, once and for all putting an end to the jail control dispute between the executive and sheriff.

The dispute has at times been overshadowed by the personalities involved. McNamara and Ficano are both popular politicians. In his own way, each has also proved a capable administrator. Justifiably, each has many supporters in our local communities.

PERSONALITIES, however, shouldn't obscure the real issue.

Jail operations are among Wayne County's largest expenses. County taxpayers need - and should demand — the jail management option that will best serve them, not only today but in the days when both McNamara and Ficano are but a distant memory.

That option is a county corrections director: an appointed department head who would report directly to the county executive.

Creating an elected county executive was the first step toward cleaning up the mess. Over time, the inefficient county road commission and drain commissioner's office were placed under the executive's control - to great public ac-

It's time for the jail to join them.

The same kind of bickering that marked county road and drain operations is now at the center of the jail dispute. The sheriff argues he isn't being given enough money. The executive, however, argues the sheriff isn't spending the money he's given effectively, especially when it comes to overtime for jail depu-

Appointment of a cor-Edward McNamara rections director, how-

CREATION of a corrections director need not eliminate the sheriff's office. The sheriff could still manage police operations in county parks and at Metro Airport.

Nor is an independently elected sheriff a guarantee the jail will be run efficiently and well. While the sheriff drafts the jail budget, and the executive is free to revise it, final approval still rests with the independently elected county com-handling of the jail. We believe he's done as much and, in most cases, demonstratively more than his predecessors in trying to run a clean and efficient jail.

That he's been unsuccessful lies in the incongruity of having a major county operation such as the jail fall under dual jurisdiction. The problem isn't indigenous to Wayne County. In Oakland County, the executive and drain commissioner recently faced off in a jurisdictional dispute over the county solid waste program.

Personalities aside, the Wayne County problem boils down to a choice between the way county government operated in the past, with all its inefficiency, and the way it should operate in the future, with all its promise.

A county corrections department should help fulfill that promise.

Voters don't care about concerns

To the editor:

The conservative Christian group CBE has stated they oppose any millage until there are some policy changes regarding censorship.

My understanding is that CREW distributed a questionnaire which concluded that there was not a significant amount of concern regard-ing the educational materials used in our schools. What I find most perplexing about their opposition is their lack of concern over other per-

Putting censorship aside, we should look carefully at what would result if the millage package was voted down. Any of these combinations could occur:

The board could pink-slip teachers, in a district where there are 35 students in a classroom. We could cut our six hour day back to five or we could cut out the lunch program and have two shifts of students in one day. We could offer fewer college-prep courses to our college bound high school students or we could cut out gym, art, music and library privileges to our primary level children.

By passing the millage we can prevent these cuts from taking place. By passing the millage we won't regain all of the $6 million the schools have lost in the past two years, but it will help us to maintain. It would be great if we could reduce class size to a manageable level or reinstate the much needed attendance office at the high school.

We have a tough job ahead, but certainly not impossible. The Plymouth-Canton community is a con-cerned, united group that wants innovative teachers that strive for academic excellence. We want the best for our children.

I'm behind the school board. They have my vote.

At a time such as this, when our school district is in need of positive public relations, I would like to express my warmest thanks to the school bus personnel who kindly as-sisted me during my recent accident. SEV increase unreasonable

To the editor:
I have just received my notice from the "Ayatollah" of the city of Livonia - assessor Ron Mardiros where he informs me that the 1989 equalized value of my home is to be increased $5,100. What a farce! This means an increase in my taxes of $300 per year plus!

It's no wonder Livonia is losing many industrial businesses to surrounding suburbs because of this "Ayatollah's" plan to gain revenue for our city.

The argument that our homes have increased in value, because of some figures he has received from the realtors, is nonsense because when you try to sell your home at these figures, after you pay the realtors their commission, the money you end up with is less than Mardiros' new proposed "equalized value" adjustment.

Because of a lung problem, I can-not appear before the Board of Review but I wish Mayor Robert Bennett and our city council would check out Mardiros and what he is trying to do because none of our surrounding suburbs is following suit with the same plan.

Maybe it's time we voters should keep this movement in mind at the next election, and give Mardiros the "heave-ho."

Blanchard puts spin on budget

THE JIM Blanchard I've known for some years is a folksy guy with no pretensions, no puffy sense of ego.

You can walk up to him and talk and never even notice the gubernatorial bodyguards. He is a genuinely kind man. His humor can be "blue," but it's never offensive to any person

A congressman pointed out to me that Blanchard has a rare skill in being able to deal with persons older than himself, winning their cooperation, neither being condescending nor shoving them aside.

But I don't recognize the old Jim Blanchard in this blatant piece of propaganda entitled the 1989-90 budget.

HIS BUDGET is laden with verbal and pictorial tricks that can mislead the ordinary voter. Examples:

and last year. Net employment rose from 3.6 million to 4.2 million, 600,000 jobs. But Blanchard's chart lops off the bottom three million jobs, leaving you the visual impres-sion that jobs have doubled.

Page 27 — Tourism industry growth, 1982-88: Same slippery trick. The tourist trade grew from less than $9 billion to nearly $16 billion - 62 percent, the fine print tells us. The bar chart, however, cuts off the first $6 billion, giving one the false visual impression that tourism dollars tripled.

THE PROPAGANDA gets thick-est when Blanchard's budget begins twisting the English language

Page 22 has a chart called "Michigan's investment in children: 41 percent of the FY 1989 budget."

The propaganda word here is "investment." To the economist, investment means business purchases of factories, stores, machinery, inventory and raw materials; consumer purchases of residences; and a foreign trade surplus, which the U.S.

The Blanchard budget labels $104 million in mental health expenditures, $150 million in public health expenditures, $119 million in Labor Department expenditures and a whopping $350 million in social services expenditures as "investment." Baloney.

They may be well-spent bucks, and it's good to know our nurses are helping poor folks, our bureaucrats are aiming dropouts at job training and are social workers are on the job. But no way in the world can that spending be called "investment."

Well, that kind of thing goes on for 58 pages. It's not the kind of stuff that the cherubic young lawyer, MBA and history scholar from Pleasant Ridge used to dish up. I preferred the old Jim Blanchard.

Officials skirt open meetings

LIFE IN THE public sector is worse than we imagined. Elected officials can get together for hours at a time and not say anything worthwhile. At least nothing that you would want to hear.

That's their version anyway. In recent weeks, elected bodies in West Bloomfield and Southfield met in unposted meetings in which they did some or all of the following: they talked, they ate, they bickered, they aired differences, they shared stories. They didn't deliberate. At least, that's the way they put it. If they deliberated, their meetings would have fallen under the auspices of the Open Meetings Act. Notice of the meetings would have been posted, minutes would have been taken and the public would not only be allowed at the meetings, the meetings would have to be reasonably accessible.

None of the above was the case with the Southfield and West Bloomfield meetings.

THE SOUTHFIELD City Council met in a closed session just once. In a Southfield Eccentric article, council president Eli Robinson had called council members "discourteous, disrespectful, abusive and petty." Several council members wanted to talk about that. But they didn't want to do it in public. So they didn't.

"The session gave council members an opportunity to yell at each other in private in the council study room in a public facility," said John Beras, Southfield's city attorney.

One might think that it is of public interest when a city council gets together to talk about how it does its business. Not in Southfield. The city attorney said they weren't deliberating, so the public wasn't in-

"That may be a gray area," said Beras. "But would it have been better if they'd met at a restaurant?"

WHY NOT? That's what the West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation Commission does. To get to know each other better, the commissioners meet for dinner at Bloomfield Charley's prior to their regular meetings.

Originally, commission president Keith Murphy was gracious enough to be embarrassed about it. He said no harm was intended, but "if it walks like a meeting and talks like a meeting, golly, it must be a meeting. We blew it."

He blew it again last Thursday. Deciding that his munch-filled meetings didn't violate the Open Meetings Act after all, Murphy an-nounced he would continue the dinner sessions and offered to pay the filing fee for anyone who wished to challenge him in court.

Murphy says that there is only innocent socializing on the menu at Bloomfield Charley's. Then in the next breath he says they meet "to understand what each other's goals and objectives are for parks and recreation."

SO WHAT'S the big deal? Is this something that should rile you, a typical suburban resident? After all, these are not evil people. They are not contemplating sinister

But they are wrong, flat-out in error. The purpose of the Open Meetings Act is to ensure that the public's business is done in public." There are some well-defined exemptions to the act that allow public bodies to close out the public.

Yelling at a fellow council member or dining at a local restaurant, are not among those exceptions.

People in public office should find every reason possible to avoid. closed sessions. Far too often, they' look for loopholes.

When the parks and recreation commission meets again, maybe they should digest this: The offices they hold belong not to them, but to: their public.

The folks in Southfield also need to be reminded. Memories apparently fade when the door is closed.

less you knew better, you would leap to the conclusion that Blanchard was a leader in the movement to reduce property taxes and replace them with a higher sales tax. Actually, he is a follower. The movement began in earnest two years earlier, and Blanchard was the last one on board. His version has merit, frankly, but it's not really "the governor's school finance reform plan."

> should definitely be removed from the school setting. Some school districts have a Saturday session in which a student who skips school during the week has to make up the missed time on a Saturday. This has a real impact on the student because no adolescent wants to give up weekends.

The mild embarrassment probably makes the greatest impact. Marching to the cafeteria, picking up their lunch in front of their peers and marching back to the in-school suspension area as opposed to being able to eat and socialize with their peers has a greater impact on these mild offenders than any lecture or removal from the school premises. Most average adolescent students hate the in-school suspension while parents love the notion that their child is in school where he/she be-

Therefore, the question is, is it better to have the child in the school under the supervision of a professional teacher doing home work and keeping up with his class or wandering the streets for three to five days. I believe they belong in school except, as indicated, those who are involved in a serious offense.

Adolescent emancipation means an age or stage where many young adults want to free themselves from what they consider servient to their parents and adults; they want to be free. On the other hand, the same student wants and needs direction so that they don't drift too far away from their own mini-culture and environment to become a dropout with little or no immediate future in

The empty street begins to fill. Feldman thinks it's because the first man spread the word.

They'll probably sell the blankets and use the money for drugs, she

"Maybe a woman with three kids will end up with it," Feldman says, adding that no matter what happens in the meantime, the blankets will land in the hands of street people. One clue, she says, is that bag holders use drugs and attache carriers are dealers.

There's good and bad in everything — including street people, Feldman says. So, she and Stasinksi use their instincts a lot to keep from becoming "chop suey."

Student journalists honored for efforts

Centennial Educational Park was well-represented in this year's Michigan Press Women high school journalism contest.

Twenty-five students were honored for their efforts, with six of those students from the CEP student

"We're trying to give them sup-port and encourage them to go into the field of journalism," said Naida Ayadi of Lansing, Michigan Press Women president.

The annual competition, for students in ninth through 12th grades, also gives students helpful evaluations of their work by professionals, she said. Josh Anderson and Mark Madrile-jo, juniors at CEP, received firstplace honors for their news story, "U of M Toughens Admissions Stand-

Bryan Williams, a CEP junior, and Beth Cundiff, a senior, were secondplace winners in the sports story category. They were honored for their story, "Canton Hoops Shoot Toward States."

CEP seniors Kyle Karinen and Wade Garard tied for third place honors in the column category. Karinen was honored for the "Sports of All Sorts" column and Garard for the "From the Front Row" column.

STUDENT WINNERS were honored Saturday during a luncheon at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth. Students from throughout the state, including some of the CEP winners, attended the luncheon.

"From one school, that's quite a lot," said Ayadi, who is an adminis- umbia, chosen as one of the top 20 trative assistant to Rep. John May- high school papers in the U.S. nard, D-St. Clair Shores.

Grosse Pointe South High and Troy High School each had four winners in different categories, and Howell High School had two winners. There was a total of 198 entries from 28 schools in Michigan, with seven students receiving first place awards.

Students competed in six categories: editorials; news stories; sports stories; feature stories; feature photographs; and columns.

First-place entries are sent to the National Federation of Press Women contest, to be judged in competition with entries from throughout

"Michigan's had a number of national winners," Ayadi said.

Judging was done Feb. 4 at the Michigan State University School of Journalism. Judges include representatives from Michigan State University, the Lansing State Journal, state government and others, "all of whom have made a name for themselves and are quite respected in their field," Ayadi said.

Christopher Peal, faculty adviser for the CEP Perspective, was pleased his students were honored.

THE MICHIGAN Press Women awards aren't the only honors CEP journalism students have received.

About 15 CEP student journalists will attend the Columbia Scholastic Press Association journalism conference, to be held in mid-March at Columbia University in New York City.

The CEP newspaper is up for a Gold Crown or Silver Crown at this year's conference. Last year, the paper won Gold Crown honors at Col-

Last year's U.S. Supreme Court decision in the Hazelwood case hasn't had an impact on the CEP Perspective, he said.

In that decision, the court gave administrators and other officials the right to prior review of student publications. The case involved a high school principal in Missouri who objected to articles on such subjects as divorce and teenage pregnancy.

"The student press rebounded pretty well from Hazelwood," said Peal, a CEP English teacher. The general message was that students need to take full responsibility for their work, providing coverage that is balanced and fair.

"We have an excellent working relationship with our administration and with the (school) board," Peal said. "They fully support our program. They stand behind us. I appreciate that greatly."

CEP Perspective staffers receive class credit for their work, but also put in many hours outside of class. Students must take the introductory ournalism class before they become full-fledged staff members.

Some students go on to study journalism in college, Peal said. Out of the 50 to 60 on staff, approximately one-fourth will study journalism in April 18 will be a special day for a group of Plymouth-Canton children and their parents. That evening, a group of children from the Ecole du Coudray in Nantes, France, will arrive for a visit.

This is the fourth year the Plymouth-Canton community has hosted young visitors from France. Last year's visitors were from

A Halloween night is planned as "They don't know what Halloween is," said Swatosh, owner of Doug's Standard in Plymouth. "They don't have such a thing."

Some of the children speak limited English, but most aren't fluent in English. Even so, communication hasn't been a major problem.

"They just do a marvelous job," Barresi said.

MANY OF THE families carry French-English dictionaries, to help with translations. Some of the Plymouth Canton parents speak French fluently, while others had some French in high school or college and make use of that.

"I really don't see that as a major problem," Barresi said. There is a bit of homesickness among the French youngsters.

"But they do very well and they Both Swatosh's family and Barresi's hosted French children last year.

The Swatosh family will host a child this year.

That girl from Nantes, France, won't he the only visitor in the Swatosh home. The family is also hosting a Plymouth Rotary Club exchange student, 18-year-old Paul Busson.

Busson, who speaks English fluently, is attending classes at Centennial Educational Park and will be here throughout the school year.

"Obviously, it's a different experience having a teenager," said Swatosh. "It's a lot of fun."

Barresi, during his one trip to France, discovered that grocery carts — taken for granted in the U.S. — must be rented in France.

Swatosh hasn't been to France, but hopes to visit some day.

Those organizing this year's program are all set for host families. They're seeking help with the costs.

"The parent group is working very hard to obtain funds from the business community," Swatosh said.

Participating families foot the bill for air fare. Financial help is needed to pay for admission and transportation on field trips for the French youngsters. The program isn't sup-ported financially by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Some of their best dates have been cruising the streets looking for homeless.

"We do have a good time," she says. "We laugh and joke and look at the hookers. I can't say that I'm sacrificing."

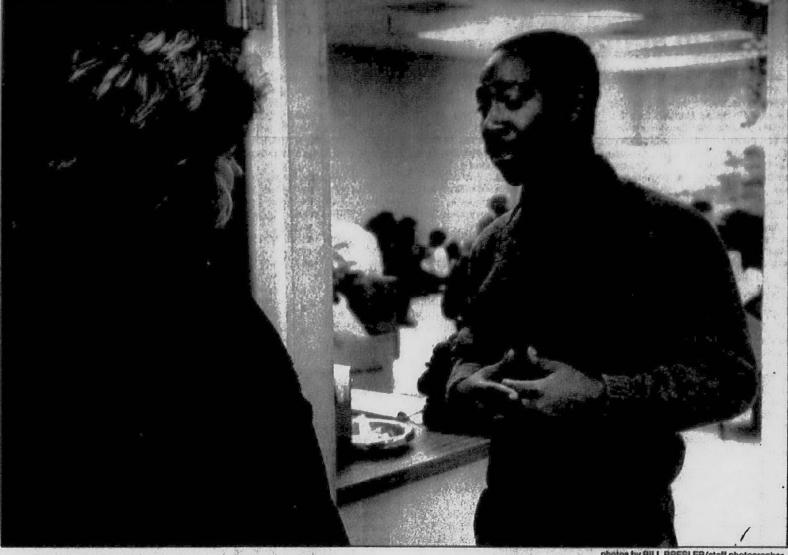

That attitude keeps them from going crazy, she admits, when they see women with children living on the streets.

"I've met some of the nicest peoole I would want to call friends, Feldman says. "They're not superficial . . . They're just real people.

Street people know the "blanket lady" and her boyfriend — who she jokingly calls her chauffeur - by name.

So do Detroit police.

They stop us all the time," said Darlene Feldman, also known as the blanket lady. "They stop and ask us for blankets to pass out."

But that's not surprising, considering the couple regularly drives up and down the worst streets of Detroit looking for homeless people.

That's quite a switch for the subtoban couple who avoided downtown Detroit when at all possible.

"Years ago you could never get me to go downtown unless I was going out on an outing like Tiger Stadium or Bob-lo," said Ron Stasinski. "Then we started this."

"A big city breeds all types of people," said Stasinski, who worked in the grocery business for 22 years and is between careers now.

"A woman from Plymouth called and said she heard me on the radio and said she did nothing all day and if we provided the yarn she would get a group" together, said Feldman, who operates a day care facility in her home.

With that kind of support, Detroit Cover-Up has gotten charity status, a warehouse on Cass and four Chrysler employees working with them through a job share program. Besides Feldman and Stasinski, two other teams deliver blankets, clothes

FELDMAN' SAID her goal is to transform the warehouse into a Transient Living Center, (TLC) providing child care, transportation to and from job training, and to meet the needs that aren't being met.

One time when she was passing out blankets, Feldman said, there was a man who was an obvious bag

"He was pitiful. I asked the man what I could do for him. He said he would love to brush his teeth.

"With TLC someone could walk in and take a shower and walk out feeling better about themselves. It's a little thing, but something that needs to happen," she said.

No one knows exactly how many homeless people there are in metro Detroit, but a reasonable figure is 30,000 during the year, said Kathy Murphy Castillo, director of Detroit/ Wayne County Homeless Strategy Coalition, based at the Detroit Urban League.

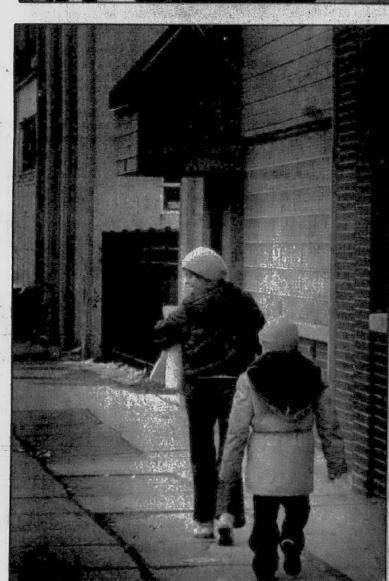

Only 500 beds are available, she added.

She talks to homeless people to get an idea of who the homeless are and to develop a program, she said.
"Anyone who had spent any time

Speaker seeks to clarify situation in Middle East

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

To illustrate the seriousness of the subject, Mary Boys lays out a series

One frame pulled from one publication includes an Israeli soldier standing over a dead Palestinian. The caption reads "62 eyes for an eye . . . 692 teeth for a tooth."

Another shows the Star of David, and in its center are Palestinians imprisoned. Other drawings raise comparisons between the uprising in the West Bank and the Holocaust. Some would say they are real images of the long, bitter war in the Middle East. Boys wouldn't agree.

"People have a right to question what's happening in Israel," said Boys, who spoke recently at St. Aidan Catholic Church in Livonia. "But when you use loaded symbolism such as this, you're not simply criticizing. There might be some latent anti-

"I think it's easier for a Christian to speak to that than a Jew. At least to a Christian audience."

POLITICAL CARTOONS only make up a small portion of her presentation. The Middle East conflict cannot be summed up in one frame, she said.

Boys is associate professor of Theology and Religious Education at Boston College. The subject of the Middle East and Israel have always been a fascination to her.

Enough so that she travels across the country, speaking to Christians about the Middle East. Her trip to this area was sponsored by the American Jewish Committee, a group whose purpose is to deepen understanding between Americans and have an understanding of Israel and its role in the Middle East. Five-second clips of rock-throwing Palestinians against the heavily-armed occu-pying forces of Israel shown on the nightly news don't tell the whole story, she said.

In her address, Boys covers the historical context of the conflict. She offers explanations why Israel has reservations about the peace initia-tive of the Palestine Liberation Organization's Yasir Arafat.

She even pulls out a map to offer a geographical perspective on the Middle East . "A lot of people have heard of the West Bank," she said, "but have no idea where it figures into everything."

BOYS IS quick to note that she neither condones nor defends the brutality that has marked the Israel response to the Palestinian uprising in the West Bank.

Although she added, "It may well be true that in other nations with more repressive governments — some of which are Arab — that the prising would have been dealt with far more harshly." She also doesn't claim to have a solution to the problem. And, though her trip is sponsored by the Ameri-can Jewish Committee, she said her views are her own.

Her view is that Israel's position is distorted in the media. Aside from political cartoons, she points a finger at television news.

"The biggest distortion television news does in general is that (the con-flict) is ahistorical," she said. "If you think that most Americans actually know nothing about the long and tangled roots of the Middle East — not to mention the geography - just to have seenes of rock throwers and the Israeli defense forces as antagonists doesn't move along our thoughts very much."

Her thoughts on the subject have been formed in part by five trips to the Middle East. In her studies she has spoken to many of those in-volved, including moderate Pales-tinians in the West Bank, Jews critical of Israeli policies, Jewish set-tlers advocating them and Palestinians who live in Israel. Through her experiences, Boys said she has only learned a "small piece"

HER INTEREST in the Middle East keeps her quite active. She is chairwoman of the Catholic-Jewish Committee of the Archiocese of Boston and member of the Board of Directors of the National Conference of Christians and Jews (New England Region).

Discussions, such as the one that took place at St. Aidan Church. are particularly refreshing to her.

The church bulletin is published every Thursday in the Observer. Information for the church bulle-tin must be received in the Livonia office by noon the Monday prior to publication.

Rev. Lloyd

We can care enough to clean up our act

She came out of the grocery store with a small bag of groceries. She was using a three-pronged cane.

She was elderly and moved very cautiously. Stepping off a sidewalk onto the street, she stopped, let go of the cane and bent over to pick up something from the street.

I was approaching her, and thinking she had dropped something, came over to offer my help. She was picking up a discarded fast-food container. She gave it to me to throw into a waste container at the door of the store.

In the store, directly ahead of me, a much younger person reached to the top shelf for a product. Her coat dislodged several items on the lower shelves. She placed her product in the cart, looked at the items on the floor and went on down the aisle.

My wife and I take every opportunity we have to go to Eastern Market. Last week, we were joined by our daughter and son-in-law and detoured through former residential areas on our return home.

We were simply astounded at the accumulation of discarded bottles and junk in various empty city lots. We became acutely aware of the paper products blown against the free-way fences.

GIVEN OUR successful experi-nce in Michigan with the bottle-return laws, it is obvious that adding wine bottles and whiskey bottles to the list of returnables would go a long way in cleaning up our city.

Cleaning up the discarded paper products from fast-food chains will be more difficult and clearing va-cant areas of discarded junk may be the most challenging of all.

One thing is sure, we can't count on any help from the younger person who walked away from the products she had knocked to the grocery store floor. She simply does not care.

I could have said that the younger person in the grocery store does not care for others, but that would be missing the more important issue. She really demonstrated a lack of care for herself.

By deliberately rejecting a re-consibility she had to be accountable for her own actions, she was making very clear her disdain for her own self. She was simply not cepting berself as a responsible p

The Judeo-Christian heritage is very clear about the responsibility given to humanity for the care of the earth. This responsibility is not giv-en, however, for its utilitarian pur-

It is not given to humanity so that humanity might achieve something more in return. It is given to human ity as a gift of being — a gift of worth and meaning. Humanity either cares for itself or it does not care for

THE CARE and upkeep of life to often correlated to economics. It assumed that money provides care.
It is an assumption that needs to be dispelled, once and for all. It creates a false hope.

Money will surely buy "working hours" to clean up the environment.

And money will fuel the process of recycling glass, paper, etc. But mon-ey will never create that integrity of humanity that cares for oneself as much as one cares for another. Unfill we have a humanity that cares, we will be only a humanity that does not care . . . which is really not a humanity at all.

The profitability of food courts in this area seems to be a hit or miss

Operations in Plymouth, Birmingham and most recently Tally Hall in Farmington Hills have folded, leaving food courts at Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield and Wonderland Mall in Livonia as the only survivors.

But both The Restaurants on Main Street at Tel-12 and Eaton Place in Wonderland have undergone major changes since their openings, with fast-food franchises replacing the independent restaurateurs.

"We're over our (projected) sales. We turn in outrageous (overtime) hours to our office," said Emmanuel Sewell, manager of the year-old Taco Bell franchise in Tel-Twelve's food court. Mall manager Todd Denton says there's been a major overhaul in the past year, including seven new tenants — Taco Bell, Sbarro's, Burger King, Olga's Express, Arby's, A&W, and the Great American Chocolate Chip Cookie Co.

"We've had to add seats," Denton said. "There are 370 seats now. The food court began almost five years ago. Business has gone up since the new restaurants came in."

Debbie Hart, manager of the Rikshaw, an original food court tenant, also is satisfied with business.

"I've been here since they opened five years ago, and business is very good," she said. "Mostly at lunch it's business people and then kids and shoppers throughout the day."

The Salad Scene is also an established tenant, part of the food court for 3½ years.

"Usually business people for lunch is the bulk of our business," said Larry Katz, owner. "We're very strong at lunch."

MOST OF THE concessions peak between 11:30 a.m and 2:30 p.m., then filter down to a trickle in off hours. On a recent Saturday morning, Cinnabon at Tel-Twelve was doing a brisk breakfast business, the sweet smell of cinnamon buns filling

The restaurants generally open between 11 a.m. and noon and close with the malls at 9 p.m. Arby's in Wonderland is open at 8:30 a.m. for breakfast.

Sbarro, an Italian food outlet, is a newcomer to Tel-Twelve, opening in December.

"Business is surprisingly good," said John Fulsaas, co-manager. "We seem to do better when the weather is bad. We get a lot of business from offices in the area."

classifieds inside

The Tel-12 Sbarro is one of 300 franchises in the U.S. Some blame Tally Hall's failure on a lack of national franchises, with larger operating budgets and name recognition. Most of the Tel-Twelve tenants are part of national chains.

The Great American Cookie Co. at Tel-Twelve is the first in Michigan, but the Atlanta-based company is 11 years old. Like Sbarro, it opened last December.

"Our clientele is anyone who likes cookies," said Nancy Goffeney, manager. Business is good. It's been fun. We're going to open another store at Summit Place Mall (in Pontiac) in March."

One Southfield shopper enjoying breakfast with her daughter Saturday at Tel-Twelve's food mall said the outing is a regular weekend occurrence.

"I like it here. I have my own business in West Bloomfield near Tally Hall and the places were always changing there. I think the rents were too high. And teens started coming in. It got to be intimidating."

Nearby Elayne Sobel and daughter Lee, 6, of Bloomfield Hills were waiting to meet friends.

"I like the food mall," said Sobel, who was drinking a cup of coffee. "It's got variety. We usually come for lunch on Saturday after classes or Sunday after Sunday school."

For mom and daughter Nancy Ofiara of Drayton Plains and Lauren Bishop of Redford, the Tel-Twelve food court is a convenient meeting place. Bishop had her three young children in tow Saturday morning: Nicholas, 7, Aubri, 4, and Ross, 2.

"I like the variety," she said. "The kids can choose whatever they want. I live closer to Wonderland Mall, and I go to their food court more often than out here. The kids can be as loud as they want, and I don't have to worry," she added.

Ofiara favors Tel-Twelve over Tally Hall "because (Tally Hall) was so expensive. I remember two of us eating there four or five years ago and it cost $10. The Burger Kings and Taco Bells are more affordable.

ALTHOUGH EVERY table was occupied in Wonderland's Eaton Place at noon Saturday, a half dozen concession managers admitted business could be better, and several booths are vacant.

"This time of the year, January and February, is kind of slow anyway," said Steve Covert, manager of the Corn Beef King deli. "I expect it will pick up in March, before Easter."

Eaton Place is marked by a small neon sign inside the mall, but not distinguishable on the outside with any special designation. And the food stands tend to sprawl a bit more than Tel-Twelve's operation. But here too you'll find the familiar franchises such as A&W, Arby's and Taco

Laurel Park nears openings

By Pat Murphy staff writer

Construction crews are hustling and developers are negotiating in preparation for summer openings at Laurel Park, the $100-million mall at Newburgh and Six Mile in Livonia.

But the big question remains: What will the so-called "second anchor" store be?

Rumors abound that the second anchor — the other "name" attraction to go with the Jacobson's store — will be an outlet from the Neiman-Marcus Co., Saks Fifth Avenue or another prestigious retailer. But so far the speculation remains just that.

"I can't confirm anything,' said Robert I. Schostak of Schostak Brothers & Co., developers of the 54acre mall. But he added his company is negotitating with "upscale, specialty stores" as mall tenants.

"We expect to attract customers from as far away as Ann Arbor," said Schostak, whose company has built the Wonderland Mall in Livonia, the Macomb Mall in Roseville, the Cherryland Mall in Traverse City and others.

While such predictions may seem optimistic, sales at the Jacobson's store have already boosted the outlet to third place among the chain's 21 stores in Michigan, Ohio and Florida, according to Mark K. Rosenfeld, president of Jacobson Stores.

"We're very pleased with the way things have been going at the store," said Rosenfeld, referring to the twolevel, 150,000-square foot Jacobson's that opened in August 1987.

So far, Jacobson's is the only retail store open. "We will welcome the second anchor," Rosenfeld said. "But we don't yet know what it will be."

THE MALL IS scheduled to have 200,000 square feet of professional or office space and hotel facilities, Schostak said. Between 40 and 50 percent of the space is compiled.

percent of the space is committed.

The Marriott Hotel is scheduled to open in July, "and there will be a health club adjacent to the hotel."

Schostak said he can not be specific about mall tenants because leasing arrangements give control over opening dates and other details to the individual parent companies. "They will have their own opening

While Schostak and other officials declined to be specific about with whom they are negotiating, a lease plan names the following companies as having "executed lease(s)" or with "leases(s) out for signature:" United Health Spa, Optical Fashions, Ahhh

... Cashmere, Precision Watch, Fannie May, D. Dennison's, Max & Erma's, Jos. A. Bank Clothiers.

Also, Patrizia, Mastercraft Jewelers, Sherman Shoes, Victoria's Secret, Compagnie Int'l Express, Mondi, Lights Jewelers, Coney Island, Mom's Cinnamon Rolls, Olga's, Chez Yogurt, Little Caesar's, The Toy Store, Brentano's, Bombay Company, Milano Fur & Leather, Russell's Tux, i Natural, and Stadium Bouleyard.

According to the plan, the developers have leases "under negotiation" with the following: Bostonian, Graham & Gunn, Bailey Banks & Biddle, Crabtree & Evelyn, Polo/Ralph Lauren, Charter Club, The Sock Market, Cache, Williams-Sonoma, The Coach Store, Laurel, Laura Ashley, Brookstone, and Brooks Brothers.

Selling your home the No-Commission way makes dollars for you & sense for the buyers mission Real Estate Company.

To sell their homes the most effective and least expensive way, more and more homeowners are selling through Home Marketing Specialists, Inc. (HMS), Michigan's largest No-Commission Real Estate Company.

HMS is a fully licensed brokerage firm. For a flat fee (thousands of dollars less than a 6% commission) HMS provides homeowners with complete professional, advertising, and legal services required to sell and close their homes.

HMS' wide experience has proven that professional, buyer-targeted advertising sells homes. Within two days after your home comes into HMS' inventory, its advertising experts prepare a customized advertising campaign for your home designed to attract the kind of buyers most likely to buy your home. HMS appraisers assist you in pricing your home. A home sells best when it is neither underpriced nor overpriced.

Through its buyer network, HMS finds qualified buyers for your home and the HMS professional and legal staff handles all negotiations with the buyers, qualifies the buyers, writes the offer to purchase, assists the buyer in securing a mortgage loan, checks the buyer's credit history, searches title, gets the closing papers ready, sets the closing date and represents the seller at closing. HMS clients show their own homes to buyers pre-screened by HMS.

In addition to the extremely popular HMS Maxi-Savings Marketing Plan, HMS also offers an exclusive Multi-List Plus Savings Plan. Every HMS sales program leads to substantial savings for homeowners who do not want to pay high commissions. HMS is a member of 4 multilisting boards and offers homeowners all marketing options. HMS sells homes in 8 counties—Oakland, Macomb, Wayne, Livingston, Washtenaw, Genesee, Lapeer, and St. Clair. HMS sells homes in all price ranges.

Washtenaw, Genesee, Lapeer, and St. Clair. HMS sells homes in all price ranges. HMS' strong advertising program provides total exposure for its clients' homes both in the local and national buyer markets. HMS advertising coverage includes transmittal of statistics on homes to many Fortune 500 companies throughout the nation. Nearly 2 million senior and junior executives transfer interstate each year and many HMS homes are sold to transferees. Plus, hundreds of homebuyers call HMS offices each week in search of homes priced from fifty thousand dollars to one million dollars.

HMS maintains 7-days-a-week buyer hotlines to set appointments for buyers to view homes, and 24-hour offer hotlines to take offers on its clients' homes.

Sophisticated and savvy homeowners, wanting value for their money seek out HMS. Doctors, attorneys, professors, company presidents, business executives, T.V. and radio personalities, managers, business owners, dentists, policemen and others enjoy working with HMS' efficient, full-time professional staff of brokers, attorneys, appraisers, mortgage, title and advertising experts. HMS also is registered with the Michigan Department of Commerce as a mortgage broker.

"More and more homeowners are looking for an intelligent alternative to paying a 6% commission. In my opinion, a 6% commission is an unfair tax on the homeowners," said J. R. Paine, Chairman of the Board of HMS, and author of "30-Day Way to Sell Your Home," Library of Congress Catalog Card Number 89-080186. The book is now in its second printing and all HMS clients receive a free copy of Paine's book.

Homeowners come to HMS' centrally located offices from as far away as Traverse City. "Saving $5,000 to $15,000 is more than worth a drive," said James Schnell, an HMS client. HMS' receives many calls for assistance from homeowners across the nation and is now franchising nationally.

No-obligation daytime, evening, and weekend in-office appointments are available with HMS' marketing specialists. To arrange your appointment, please call 569-0070 (Southfield). In the Rochester and North Oakland areas, call 656-3030. In Macomb County, call 795-0230. All other areas, call HMS MAIN OFFICE at 569-0070.

The HMS No-Commission sales program makes good sense to both homeowners and homebuyers. When asked how HMS can provide more service at less cost, J. R. Paine replied, "That is the beauty of our free enterprise system. There is always a better way to serve the people." HMS' dedication to its clients is well known, and HMS is a participant in the Better Business Bureau's Customer Care Program.

What every convention needs: a knitted car:

There is a paper on a knitted car being presented at this year's annual meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers. It is the kind of paper intriguing enough to make the walk through the perforated tunnel from Joe Louis arena parking garage to Cobo Hall almost worthwhile.

It's impossible to park anywhere near Cobo Hall these days, a result of the expansion that allows half again as many attendees while what little parking space used to be inside the hall is being chopped up by air

The resulting situation is called Revenge of the People Mover, which means that a lot of hopefuls are people-moving from their cars to the hall, and since it's a one-way train, that sometimes recommendations. that sometimes means a two-mile loop to make it back upstream a half a block. But I digress.

The SAE convention is the foun-tain of invention of the auto industry, an annual affair that normally sets attendence records for any type of convention in Detroit.

It has its academic side as a forum for technical presentations, a social life consisting mainly of small groups of men looking for a restaurant, and the floor itself, a carnival of small stampings, machined parts and brightly colored plastic bags holding collected brochures.

Of course, nobody with a really hot idea would put it out in a little booth on the floor of Cobo Hall in-stead of getting it patented and man-ufactured. Part of the reason for buying a booth at the SAE is to sell parts to auto companies and other manufacturers, but because anyone already selling to the Big Three doesn't really need to sit in a booth at Cobo Hall, mainly the booths are occupied by hopefuls you never heard of before.

KOREANS BOUGHT a lot of booths at the SAE show a couple of years ago, when nobody heard of them in the auto business. Then for a couple of years the Indians and Pakistanis took over, and you still haven't heard of them.

This year, the overseas nationals making an impact include China and Australia, which may be why they didn't attend Hirohito's funeral.

There are, in fact, some gadgets on display, but after attending SAE shows for the last 15 years or so, I've grown sensitive to chronic repeaters.

Part of the reason for this is that it takes so long to get an innovation accepted by Detroit automakers that even some solid companies tend to end up sounding like airport propa-gandists promoting their cause. There is the Stillman-Smith mechanisim, for example, a gear train that eliminates the connecting rod bearings in a piston engine. Like-wise the all-ceramic engine developed by Japan's Kyrocera Co. Ltd.,

or the all-plastic engine.

There is a new V-6 two-stroke powerplant on display, half the size of today's engines of comparable horsepower, and another Japanese company with a fog lamp that follows the angle of the steering wheel to more or less see around corners.

But this year's show is dominated by the hard-core suppliers, the testby the hard-core suppliers, the testers, forgers, stampers and molders that produce the components in volume that make up most of the working pieces on the family car. It's a dull group, jaded by success and the detail work necessary to get a working product to market.

The knitted car, it turns out, is actually a new way to handle the fiberglass reinforcing used on some plastic parts. A disappointment to me, since I was hoping to find a room full since I was hoping to find a room full of grandmothers with half-finished fenders in their laps.

As I'm leaving, I have an idea that my car without going outside, so I stop at the information booth and "I think you can get there through the back, but I really don't know," says the woman in the information booth. On my left, a heavily power suited woman engineer is more as-sertive. "I think you go down into the basement and then keep walking. Take your Reeboks. It's terrible. "At least I think that's right; I'm from Seattle."

"I don't know either, I'm not from Detroit," says the information lady."
"But you're information," says the surprised woman from Seattle. Then she gets an inspiration. "Try the People Mover."

Even the pros recomment dollar cost averaging

Weathering the stock market's ups and downs is a key concern for most investors, regardless of their risk tolerance level, age, tax bracket, or

Although the risk associated with stocks, bonds, and other investments cannot be eliminated, there are ways investors can reduce risk to manage-

Here are some of the betterknown techniques of weathering the market's fluctuations:

Dollar cost averaging

Dollar cost averaging is a program of investing equal sums of money at regular intervals, regardless of the price of shares.

Dolar cost averaging can't guarantee a profit or prevent a loss. However, it reduces the effects of market fluctuations over the long

The reason is that instead of timing the market, the investor puts the same amount of money whether the share price is high, low, or in-between. So, the investor buys more shares when the price is low and fewer when it is high, thereby avoiding the common mistake of buying high and selling low.

THE KEY advantage of dollar cost averaging is that, in the long run, it has the effect of making the finances and you Sid Mittra average share cost less than the average share price.

Two illustrations, covering a weak and a strong market, will illustrate the point. In each illustration, it is assumed that the investor has decided to invest $100 each month.

Table I shows a dollar cost averaging program during a period of de-clining market. After four months and a total investment of $400, the average price is $7.00 while the average cost is $6.23.

This situation is the result of buying substantially more shares for $100 as the market price consistently declines

IN THE second illustration (presented in Table II), the average cost is $12.61, but the average price is slightly higher ($13.00) than the average cost. This is the result of an appreciation in the stock price in a rising market.

A word of caution should be added here. While both illustrations demonstrate its power as an investment tool, dollar cost averaging is not appropriate for short-term investments and cannot guarantee a profit or prevent a loss.

However, this technique does provide investors with the benefit of a disciplined investment program that eliminates the need for market timing and helps to even out the effects of a fluctuating market.

Constant ratio plan

The constant ratio plan is a variation of dollar cost averaging in which the monthly contribution is equally divided between a stock fund and a money market fund.

If an increase in the share price makes the equity portion worth considerably more than the money fund, then part of the equity fund would be liquidated and the proceeds transferred into the money fund.

The reverse action would be taken if equity prices drop, making the money fund worth more than the equity fund.

A 55/45 ratio is generally applied to the constant ratio plan, although other ratios could work equally well. This means that whenever the shares of either fund exceed 55 percent of the total value of the portfolio, an automatic readjustment plan is put into motion to make the ratio equal.

For instance, if the shares in the stock fund rise to 55 percent, the investor shifts cash from the partially liquidated equity fund into the money fund to make them equal

Likewise, if the equity fund drops to 45 percent of the portfolio, the investor quickly shifts from the money fund into the equity fund to make them of equal value.

Some deductions raise red flags to auditors

An Internal Revenue Service audit can strike fear into the hearts of most. But the truth is that your chances of being audited are slim.

chances of being audited are slim.

During 1987, only 1.09 percent of the 101.8 million individual tax returns filed were subject to an audit. But according to the Farmington Hills-based Michigan Association of CPAs, the percentage may increase alightly this year. Tax reform has eliminated many tax shelters that formerly occupied much of the IRS audit efforts. As a result, the IRS may start focusing more attention may start focusing more attention on the average tax return.

No one can guarantee that you will not be audited. Even if your return is scrupulously prepared, you may be subject to a Taxpayer Com-pliance Measurement Program audit. Conducted every three years, it is an arduous, line-by-line examina-tion designed to find any errors or discrepancies in approximately 50,000 randomly selected returns.

But several factors may improve or lessen the odds of your being selected for an audit. For instance, income has a direct impact. In 1987, a non-itemizing taxpayer with an income between $10,000 and $25,000 had a 64-in-10,000 chance of being audited. For taxpayers earning more than $50,000, the odds rose to 224 of 10,000 similar returns.

What other factors affect your chances of being audited? It helps to know how the IRS handles tax returns. First, the IRS screens for simple mistakes. These include: mathematical errors, disregard of the 7.5-percent floor on medical deductions percent floor on medical deductions or the 2-percent floor on miscellaneous expenses; using the wrong taxrate schedule; or falling to attach a W-2 form. Any of these mistakes may cause the IRS to suspect the accuracy of your entire return — and may ultimately increase the likelihood of an audit. hood of an audit.

Even more important is the over-all "score" your tax return receives after being reviewed by a compu program known as the "Discriminant Function System". This pro-gram compares your deductions, credits and exemptions with the norm for taxpayers with similar levels of income. The further you are from the norm, the better your chances of being audited. Thus, if your medical expenses exceed $6,000 when the normal range is closer to $2,000, the DIF program may shoot your return into the audit pipeline. In other words, when it comes to tax returns, it pays to be

BUT EVEN IF your deductions are perfectly in line with IRS expectations, the odds of an audit can increase simply because of your pro-fession or the type of deductions you claim. For example, the percentage of returns audited is generally more than twice the average rate for selfemployed taxpayers who file a Schedule C. Similarly, taxpayers

Deducting excessive travel and entertainment expenses related to business can also open a Pandora's box of IRS questions. To protect yourself in case of an audit, make sure that your keep accurate records

Registered nurse Mary Skrocki, wife of a Clarenceville Public Schools administrator, will accompany a 100-member medical team in March to Honduras — an area where life expectancy is just under 59 years of age.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

A defense against cancer can be cooked up in your kitchen.

There is evidence that diet and cancer are related. Follow these modifications in your daily diet to reduce chances of getting cancer:

1. Eat more high-fiber foods such as fruits and vegetables and wholegrain cereals.

2. Include dark green and deep vellow fruits and vegetables rich in vitamins A and C

3. Include cabbage, broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohl-rabi and cauliflower.

4. Be moderate in consumption of salt-cured, smoked, and nitrite-cured

5. Cut down on total fat intake from animal sources and fats and oils. 6. Avoid obesity.

7. Be moderate in consumption of alcoholic beverages.

Dragonfly eggs develop into nymphs that will feed on small aquatic life under water. Depending on the availability of food, they may be under water for more than one winter. When the nymph is ready, it will crawl up a reed stem above the water and transform into an adult dragonfly.

Canton makes bid, but Rocks get win

staff writer

A year ago, Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton didn't cross paths until the final game of the district basketball tournament.

They met in the first round of district play this year, but it was nonetheless a championship game, according to Canton coach Tom Niemi.

Both teams played as though that much was as stake. The Rocks had to overcome a resilient and relentless Canton team, the reigning district champ, for a comefrom-behind, 67-60 victory Monday night.

Salem, 19-2, advanced to the second round Wednesday to face Northville. The final is slated for 7:30 p.m. Friday at Canton. The Chiefs end the season with an 11-10 record.

"The fans saw an excellent game," Niemi said. "They saw a championship game is what the saw."

THE ROCKS, newly crowned champions of the Western Lakes Activities Association, had only two days to celebrate that triumph, but Salem's sluggish first half was not the result of an emotional letdown, according to coach Bob Brodie.

"When you play Canton and you're the team that's expected to win, it's scary," he said. "They come at you so hard with so many people. If you're not ready, they catch you by surprise with their quickness and trap-

After trailing 29-23 at halftime, Salem rebounded in the second half, and junior Ryan Johnson and sophomore Jake Baker figured prominently in the comeback. Johnson came off the bench to score all 12 of his points after halftime, and Baker, the team's 6-foot-5 center, had 13 of his game-high 18 points in the last half. "The fellas didn't look real excited in the first half, and I tried to fire them up," said Johnson, who was the most emotional of the Salem players during the rally.

"I love close games; I live for them. Give me the ball at the free-throw line! I'll try and knock them down and do what's best for the team.

JEFF ELLIOTT, who has been Salem's scoring leader all season, contributed 11 points, but he decided to adjust his game when having, what was for him in terms of scoring, an off-night.

"We're more than a one-man team," he said. "We can score at all five positions.

"It's nice when the shots go down from the perimeter, but when they're not my job is to get the ball inside to

"They had a hand in the way of every shot I took," he added. "But in the second half, I settled down and did what the team needed to win."

Brian Paupore led the Chiefs with 17 points, but he scored only one in the second half. His first-half total was the reason Canton had the Rocks on the ropes; but he didn't have a field goal in the second half and went scoreless until hitting a free throw with 24 seconds left.

Troy Waldron scored 16 points and Brett Howell, a sophomore up from the JV team for the tournament, 12. Both played key roles in keeping Canton in the game in

THE ROCKS didn't concentrate their defense on stopping Paupore, but a full-court press cut down on the Canton star's opportunities, according to Brodie.

"Their guards were so busy trying to beat our pressure they weren't looking for Brian as much," he said. "We didn't specifically deny Brian the ball, but we put pressure on others."

"He had his shots; they just didn't drop," Niemi said.
"That happens. The other kids picked up the slack, and we were right there. That proved the first game when; we beat them wasn't a fluke.'

Through its first 16 games, Salem's only loss was to Canton, which took a 54-51 victory on Dec. 20.
"This is a major emotional lift," Elliott said. "Every time we play them, they play us incredibly tough. They got us a little out of sync in the first half, and we were rushing our shots."

The rematch looked very much like that first meeting as the Rocks started out shooting 3-of-19. Canton scored the last nine points of the first quarter to take a 14-7 lead which they maintained until late in the third peri-

THE CHIEFS took away the usual intensity Salem has on offense with some aggressive defense, forcing the Rocks into first-half turnovers and stopping their fast break by shutting off the cutters on the baseline. With Johnson and Baker leading the way, Salem got more breaks and took the ball to the basket for high-percentage shots in the second half.

The Rocks scored nine unanswered points midway in the third quarter for their first lead since early in the game, 38-36. Johnson put Salem in front 37-36 with a pair of free throws at 3:18.

"This was his kinda game," Brodie said. "It was a

Churchill charges to 2nd straight title

Size and power may be what most coaches savor in volleyball players, but in Saturday's Western Lakes Activities Association final it was quickness that ruled.

Livonia Churchill became the first team in the present 12-team WLAA format to win back-to-back titles when it survived an exhausting, 13hour marathon tournament to beat Walled Lake Central 15-6, 15-7 in the Churchill advanced to the final by belting a crippled North Farmington team 15-8, 15-5 in the semifinals. The Raiders were No. 1 in their pool, winning six of eight games, but they lost 5-foot-10 middle blocker Vikki Seamons to the Detroit Symphony and a previous engagement as they readied for the semifinals.

To make matters worse for North, in the first game against Churchill hitter Eve Claar and setter Pam Gressler collided. Gressler dislocated her thumb and was sidelined.

"WE'RE A TEAM with set roles, and being two players short, our work was really cut out for us," said North coach Sandy Lubieniecki. "I knew we were in trouble at the net without Vikki. We had to have Vikki up front against Churchill."

The Chargers didn't mind, of course. They had struggled to get through pool play, splitting with Walled Lake Western 10-15, 15-6, then sweeping Farmington Harrison 15-2, 15-6. But Farmington got a split with Churchill, losing 15-8 in the first game but winning 15-13 in game No. 2.

The Chargers were 4-2 as the pre-pared for their final two-game set against Westland John Glenn. They needed to win both games to ad-vance, and they did, 15-3, 15-2, with Carrie Blanchard serving seven points and Julie Rieder six in the North won its pool by splitting with Plymouth Salem 15-5, 15-17; beating Livonia Stevenson 15-11, 15-3; beating Livonia Franklin 15-1, 15-2; and splitting with Plymouth Canton 5-15, 15-9.

THE SEMIFINAL against North worried Churchill coach Mike Hughes, at least until Gressler was lost. "We had played them twice before and beaten them both times," said Hughes of the teams' earlier battles. "But all the games were ferocious battles."

Still, North stayed close in the first semifinal game until Churchill's hitters took command. With the score 11-8, the Chargers began to exploit Seamons' absence in the middle. Christina Garry had three kills in the game and Karen Paciero served six points for Churchill,

In the second game, Jenny Sproul took over at the net for the Chargers, pounding out six kills in 12 attacks. North helped by missing six serves in the match, a high figure for the Raiders. "That's an area we usually don't break down in," said Lubieniecki. "It was unlikely it would happen, but it did.'

The final featured the size of Walled Lake Central, which had not lost a game all day, against Churchill's quickness.

"Central had really been beating the ball into the ground," said Hughes. "They had big middle hitters, so we had to make adjust-

BUT HUGHES' strategy wasn't to sit back and wait. The Chargers attacked, hoping to put the Vikings on

"What we didn't want to do was give them any free balls," explained Hughes, "and we wanted to be very aggressive on offense. We were able to play very well offensively, and make them play defense."

While Central had an advantage in power, Churchill had more quickness particularly on defense, which frustrated Central's attackers. "We have a lot of patience," said Hughes. "Central is very offensive-minded. They'd pound it on the floor, and we'd put it back, and they'd pound it on the floor, and we'd put it back.

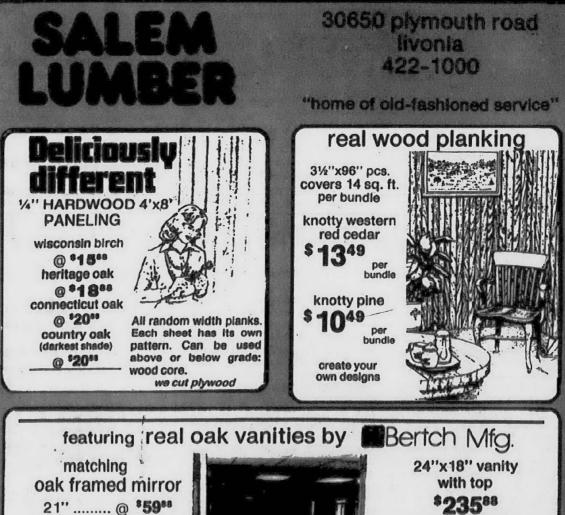

We pushed the ball back at them and let them make the errors.'

With the tournament already exceeding 12 hours, Central failed to keep up the attack. Rieder helped to frustrate the Vikings by collecting five blocks and three kills in the first game, and four kills (in five attacks) in the second, Sproul and Speen triggered the defense with five digs aplece in game No. 2.

His strategy had proven successful; Hughes was the first coach to, guide his team to consecutive titles. But as he noted, "It doesn't really matter what kind of game plans you have if the kids don't play well. And the kids did play well."

North Farmington is the reignng Western Lakes Activities Association gymnastics champion, and no one doubts the possibility of the Raiders retaining that title.

Including its years in the old Northwest Suburban League, North has been a league champion the last 12 years, and the odds favor the Raiders making it 13 straight

North and seven other WLAA schools will compete for the 1989 title at Northville High School beginning at 5 p.m. The awards cere-mony is scheduled for 8:30 p.m.

"Im sure other coaches are aim-ing to beat us," third-year North coach Jeff Dwyer said. "I know other teams had some injured girls. "If you have injured girls, you don't want to push them early. You want to push them now." EVEN WITH added help, one has to wonder if the other schools can it defeated Plymouth Canton, runner-up to the Raiders in last year's league meet. North scored 136.9, the Chiefs 124.4. "We got some new talent this year, and a lot of kids worked hard over the summer," Dwyer said. "We had our ups and downs, but we always managed to pull through.'

Still, he isn't sure the magnitude of that accomplishment has registered with his gymnasts.

"I've been trying to tell that to the girls — not a lot of teams do that," Dwyer said. "We've won the league the last 12 years, and it's easy to slip a little when you're not real hungry.

"A lot of teams would like to knock us off. Once we get to the big meets, I think we'll start picking Traverse City is the cherry capital of Michigan, but life was not a bowl of cherries when the Plymouth Canton gymnastics team visited the city.

The Lady Trojans, the defending state champions, dealt their visitors a dual-meet defeat Saturday, scoring 132.95 to Canton's 124.9. Mandy Samuelson led Traverse City with an all-around Heather Murphy placed second among balance beam competitors with an 8.15. That was Canton's best event since Dawn Clifford also took fourth (7.75) and Johanna Anderson fifth (7.50).

Anderson also was third on vault (8.35) and floor exercise (8.55), and Clifford, who had the Chiefs' top all-around score of 32.10, was fourth on vault (8.25) and bars (8.00). Murphy was fourth on floor (8.25).

Canton finished the dual-meet season with an 8-3 record.

But the Raiders posted their best score of the season, a 137.80, when many of the top teams were present for the Plymouth Invitational

"If we can get ourselves up for a big meet like that, I feel pretty confident going into the regional,"

"We have pretty good depth, so I feel good about that. We could be the kind of team that pulls some upsets, or it could go the other way."

Sophomore Heather Kahn, who has been one of North's top performers this year, won three events and not surprisingly had the best all-around score (36.0) in the Can-

volleyball

(9.05), balance beam (9.35) and floor exercise (9.35). Kahn also placed third on the uneven bars

(8.3). Kim Heller, who is beginning to excel, according to Dwyer, after sitting out the first semester because she transferred from another school, was right behind Kahn with a 34.15 all-around score. She was second on vault (8.9), bars (8.5) and floor (8.7) and fifth on beam (8.05).

North's Kristin Szutarski won the bars competition with an 8.75 score, and she also was third on vault (8.65) and sixth on floor (8.3). Szutarski was third in the allaround scoring at 33.50.

In addition, Rita Dunn tied with Canton's Johanna Anderson for third on floor (8.4) and was fourth on vault (8.55). Jameelah Gater was fifth on floor (8.35) and Ellen Wesselman fourth on bars (8.25).

"We haven't peaked yet," Dwyer said. "We haven't had a meet when we hit all four events. I keep telling them anything can happen, and I hope they believe that. "I think we can hit 140. We had a couple meets when I knew we were on our way but something happened. But I'd rather peak at the end of the season than at the middle of the season."

CANTON'S BEST event was the beam in which the Chiefs captured second, third and fourth places. Anderson scored 8.4, Lisa Kaufman 8.2 and Dawn Clifford 8.1.

Anderson also was fifth on vault (8.35), Clifford fifth on bars (7.9) and sixth on vault (8.2). Rounding out the top six all-around places, Anderson was fourth (32.7), Dunn fifth (32.4) and Clifford sixth (32.2).

Canton, 8-3 in dual meets, was minus Heather Murphy, who was attending to family business, "but the way Jeff's team scored we wouldn't have beaten them with Heather Murphy," coach John Cunningham said, adding he was confused by some of the judging decisions and displeased with his team's low score. "North Farmington did a really nice job."

For CC coach John Gumbleton, the scene was becomlast year in regional play at the same site.

"I think we were nervous," said Gumbleton, whose team plays Southfield-Lathrup at 6:15 tonight in regional semifinals. "We didn't want to lose. In the back of their minds, they were probably thinking of last year when Stevenson did beat them."

Lock made sure there would not be an encore, scoring three goals and adding three assists for six points on the night. The line of Jim Hubenschmidt, Kris Slocum and Lock was on fire all night, totalling 16 points.

HUBENSCHMIDT scored a goal and had four assists for five points. Fellow linemate Slocum netted two goals and collected two assists for four points. None of it went to waste. Stevenson had more chances to fold its tent than at a Boy Scout Jamboree, but elected to fight back. John Labodie scored two goals for the Spartans, including one in the third period on a breakaway against CC netminder Jim Dietrich.

His second tally came with 33 seconds left in the

That shorthanded goal was preceded by yet another short-handed effort by Kevin Kubitskey with 3:08 remaining. Jason Moorehouse earned the assist on the goal, which came on a scramble in front of the net.

Matt Cichy provided Stevenson's other short-handed effort with 1:24 to go in the second period. Eglinton also assisted on that goal. Craig Aitken provided Stevenson's other goal in the second period, this time for a change, on a power play.

The shorthanded tallies were of little solace, though.

If anything, it drew attention to Stevenson's inability to stay out of the penalty box.

The Spartans were whistled for 11 minor infractions compared to six for the Shamrocks. CC converted on three of the 11 power-play opportunities.

"PENALTIES KILLED us," said Stevenson coach. Matt Mulcahy, who added he had no complaints with the officiating. "They have killed us all year. When we stay-

Nonetheless, Mulcahy was quite proud of his team

"Our defense needs to tighten up," Gumbleton said.
"We made some bad defensive plays."

The win against Stevenson came on the heels of a 6-1 victory Saturday against Bowling Green (Ohio) in the regular season finale at Redford Arena.

Fusco gets AD post at Borgess

By Brad Emons

Mike Fusco will be wearing a couple of hats at Red-

A computer teacher and head boys basketball coach the past seven years, Fusco also will assume responsi-bilities as athletic director.

Borgess principal Sister Joan Charnley named the 33year-old Fusco as the school's new athletic director on Monday, succeeding Fred Mushinski, who stepped down last month after he violated school procedures when he prematurely announced the hiring of former Detroit Public School League coach Earnest Thomas as the school's new football coach.

Fusco said that his top priority is working with the search committee to name a new football coach within

Marlins finish 8th in state ski final

Farmington Hills Mercy placed ighth in the state finals of girls skiing Monday after misfortune pre-vented a higher finish.

Mercy's top skier, senior Beth McIntosh, was sixth after the first giant slalom run, and her time of 21.69 was just 0.42 off the pace set by Traverse City's Amy Robb.

But, with two gates to go in her scond run, McIntosh fell and damaged knee ligaments when her ski didn't release. She was expected to undergo arthroscopic surgery, ac-cording to coach Cass Zarlikowski.

Consequently, McIntosh was disqualified. Zarlikowski figured she was headed for a top-five finish and certainly a place among the top 10. If she had finished where expected, the Marlins might have climbed as high as third in the team standings, cording to Zarlikowski,

"The giant slalom always gives us rouble," he said. "It was the same things two years ago. We've got a jinx in the giant slalom.

"She's a good skier; it just hapened to her. It's the good ones who fall; the slow ones don't fall."

Mary Kay Jerneycic had Mercy's top finish in the giant slalom, taking 14th place with a 44.60 time. Molly McDonald was 23rd (45.54), Nicole Sinclair 28th (45.63) and Taya Tiplady 57th (65.41).

McIntosh, however, had the team's best showing in the slalom, finishing 11th in 67.24. McDonald was 19th (70.91), Jerneycic 24th (72.43) and Sinclair 35th (73.98). In addition, Me-

Sinclair 35th (73.98). In addition, Megan Lombardi was 47th (80.58) and Tracy McLellan 49th (84.55).

Robb was the top individual skier, and Traverse City won the team title with 51 points. The Trojans were followed by Cadillac (110), Petoskey (163.4), Harbor Springs (164½), Ironwood (170), Kingsford (200), Milford (205½), Mercy (211½), Bloomfield Hills Kingswood (216) and Clarkston (323).

The Western Lakes Activities Association champion emerged from the doldrums in the final minutes to eke out a 53-48 victory in the Class A district at Plymouth Canton.

The Rocks, 20-2, will play Livonia Stevenson, 15-6, in the final at 7:30 p.m. Friday. The teams split their regular-season series, with the Spartans beating Salem at the buzzer, 71-69, in their last meeting on Feb. 9.

STEVENSON didn't have an easy time either in the earlier game Wednesday, but it stayed alive with a 23-point effort from Dennis Nazelli and 62-55 defeat of Novi.

"It should be a great high school basketball game," said Stevenson coach Jim McIntyre of Friday's contest. "Bob's kids will be prepared, and I certainly hope our kids will come with the

The Rocks, playing their third game in five days, didn't show their usual intensity until faced with the prospect of certain defeat.

"It was as if the guys kept saying 'OK, the light is going to go on,' and, in this game, it just didn't happen until the last two minutes," Brodie said. Salem led 27-22 at halftime despite playing a poor first half, but the slide continued in the third quarter when it was 2-of-13 from the floor.

THE ROCKS had no inside game, and center Jake Baker missed most of the third period in foul trouble. He scored one point and fouled out with 2:28 to play.

Compounding that situation was the fact Salem couldn't hit any of its outside shots. At the other end, Northville center Chris House poured in 16 of his game-high 20 points in the second half, including 10 in the third quarter as the Mustangs forged a 38-34 lead.

"As soon as (Baker) was done, the height advan-tage took over, and they kept posting up House and taking the ball to him," Brodie said. "We need Jake in there, but without Jake the other kids re-

Following a pair of Jeff Elliott free throws that pulled Salem within 45-43, Jeff Jagacki came up with the big play, stealing the inbounds pass.

He was fouled and made the first free throw, and Craig Marshall rebounded the missed second and gave the Rocks their first lead of the second half, 46-45, with 2:02 remaining.

SALEM GOT a timely basket from Ryan Johnson to make it 48-45, and free throws by Marshall (4) and Tim Noonan (1) helped the Rocks weather a 3-pointer by Northville's Heath Meyers down Elliott and Jeff Gold had 12 points apiece to lead Salem. Mike Albertson added 10 and Mar-shall eight. Meyers and Joe Kaley had nine each for Northville, 10-11.

Stevenson took virtually the same course en-route to its victory, though the Spartans didn't receive quite the same scare. Stevenson struggled in the first half but managed a 28-27 lead behind

Bob Sonie's eight points.

Natelli, a 6-2 center, stepped to the forefront in the third quarter, scoring 11 of his 17 second-half points. With his inside scoring moves, he paved the way for the Spartana to gain control of the

Wayne maintains hold over Glenn

By Brad Emons staff writer

Westland John Glenn closed the gap considerably from its season opener, but lost to rival Wayne Memorial for the eighth straight time, 63-59, in a first-round Class A district basketball overtime thriller Monday.

The host Rockets (11-10) all but made up for a 71-49 thrashing administered by the Zebras (17-4) back on Dec. 3. Glenn appeared primed for the upset victory, but couldn't hold a four-point lead in the final minute of regulation play.

The Rockets held a 56-52 lead with 1:23 remaining in regulation play when Eric Spencer missed the frontend of a one-and-one free throw at-

Chris Poplin then fouled Wayne's Pierre Hixon, who converted two foul shots with 54 seconds left.

The Zebras tied it (56-all) on a steal by Wayne Jackson and a layup by Hixon with 24 seconds to play.

The Rockets turned it over again at the 10-second mark, but Wayne missed two shots, including a re-bound put-back by Tony Rumple, which came after the buzzer.

IN THE OVERTIME, Wayne took control thanks to two free throws by Kevin Hankerson and a three-pointer from the dead-corner by Larry Johnson with 1:25 remaining.

Jackson's layup with 45 seconds left sealed it. Glenn's Bobby Lawrence responded with a three-pointer with only six seconds to go, but it was too little, too late as Wayne advanced to the second round. Their defensive pressure caused us to turn it over," said a disappointed Glenn coach Bob Killingbeck afterwards. "All we had to do was protect the ball and we couldn't do it. We handled their pressure well the entire game until the end when we turned it over three times.' Wayne coach Chuck Henry was relieved his team prevailed after blowing a 16-point second-quarter lead. And it didn't help that the Zebras shot pitifully from the free throw line (13 of 31).

The Shamrocks capitalized on the error by hitting four consecutive foul shots on their way to a stunning 68-67 home court victory.

Catholic Central coach Bernie Holowicki was thankful for the win. "I'm glad it happened to them and not us," he said. "We lucked out."

The Shamrocks started out as though they would not need any luck, jumping out to a 11-4 lead and leading 13-9 after one quarter. The Shamrocks three-quarter court press was effective early, as Southfield committed four quick turnovers.

But in the second quarter, the Blue Jays started to get out on the break and outscored CC 23-16 on the way to a 33-29 halftime lead.

The second half was a back-and-forth affair, as the lead changed hands eight times until the Shamrocks grabbed a 56-51 advantage with 3:30 to play in the Southfield then ran off 10 straight points to take a five-point lead with just 1:16 left. Galen Duncan scored six of his nine points in the run for the Blue Jays.

The Shamrocks still trailed by three with 30 seconds to play when a three-pointer by Jeff Schaner tied the

But the Shamrocks did not appear to realize the game was tied as they scrambled for a steal defensively and left Duncan open for a short jumper. He made the shot, was fouled, and completed the three-point play to give Southfield a 62-59 lead with only 17 seconds to play.

but the Chiefs made a comeback of their own. CANTON OUTSCORED the Rocks 10-4 to begin the fourth period, and Howell was almost singlehandedly responsible, scoring nine of the points. He was 7-of-7 shooting free throws, and his three-point play gave the Chiefs a 51-50 lead with under six minutes to play.

"That's what our team is about," Niemi said. "He did his job on the baseline and got hammered, and he made the free throws. But what if some of those (shots) had dropped?" Salem surged again and appeared to have things under control, leading 62-

53 after the Chiefs were called for goaltending on Jeff Gold's fast break. But now it was Waldron's turn to revive the Chiefs. He dropped in two free throws, grabbed a defensive rebound and converted a layup and scored again after making a half-court steal. With 1:15 on the clock, Canton was only three points down, 62-59, and the Rocks no longer had a secure lead. When you play a team that plays like Canton does, they have the ability to score quickly," Brodie said. "So a nine-point lead is nothing against a team

"IT'S A FIVE-point game (64-59); we hit two threes, and we've got the game," Niemi said. But Salem's Craig Marshall made three of four free throws for a 65-59 cushion, and Baker added two more for insurance purposes with 11 seconds

In addition to three in doubles, Marshall added nine points and Gold eight for the Rocks. Geoff Allen had seven points for Canton, which made 22 of 30 free throws. Salem was 16-of-24 at the line.

"That's been the story of our season," Brodie said, refering to the scoring balance. "Elliott got a lot of points (early in the season) and the others were unsung. Elliott isn't scoring as much now, but the others are stepping up."

"It was a game of runs," Henry said. "We didn't play smart and they started to play real aggressively, and it was a brand new ballgame." Wayne maintained a five-point lead (46-41) after three quarters, but Glenn inched ahead (52-51) on a basket by Killingbeck with 3:03 to play. The Zebras kept stumbling from the free throw line. The Rockets got another basket from Poplin and two more free throws by Killingbeck to take a four-point lead with just under two minutes remaining.

But it was not to be as Wayne recovered for the win.

"IT SEEMS LIKE we were a turnover away from several things this year," said the Glenn coach. "But I was proud of the way the kids came back from a 15-point deficit. They played with a lot of heart and deter-

Four of five Glenn starters scored in double figures led by Lawrence and Killingbeck with 13 each. Greg Anderson and Poplin each added 12.

The absence of Lawrence down the stretch also didn't help. The junior point-guard turned his ankle slightly near the end of regulation play and didn't return until the final two minutes of overtime

"One of our guys (Eric Spencer) had fouled out and two others (Anderson and Killingbeck) had four fouls," Killingbeck said. "I knew by the overtime that the momentum had switched in their favor." In the overtime, Henry said he in-structed his team to dish the ball into 6-4 junior center Gary Hankerson, who led the Zebras with 13

Char Govan ISU's inside strength

Govan leads ISU to Gateway peak

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Hopes were high going into the omens basketball season at Illinois State. The Redbirds were 20-11 a year ago and, although they lost a couple of key players, they figured they could again challenge for the Gateway Conference championship.

That they missed the title a year ago hurt. In the final conference tournament game against Eastern Illinois — a team ISU had beaten by a dozen points two weeks earlier — the Redbirds lost 80-79. The loss cost them a guaranteed berth in the NCAA tournament. They settled for the women's NIT, where they won one and lost two games.

"Our goal going into the season was to win 20 games," said Char Go-van, the 5-foot-9 starting power for-ward from Livonia Ladywood and West Bloomfield. Govan figured to be an important figure in guiding ISU toward that goal.

BUT BOTH Govan, a junior, and her team struggled early. The sched-ule was demanding, with seven of the first nine games away from home, including match-ups against Ohio State, Western Kentucky, Illi-nois, Indiana, Southern California, Colorado and Missouri.

The pre-Gateway slate left ISU with a disappointing 4-5 mark — and with a determined attitude. "We lost some games we shouldn't have," said Govan. "When we beat Southern Cal and Ohio State, it really gave us a lift. But then we lost at home to Illinois and to Bowling Green."

Govan's coach, Jill Hutchison, agreed. "People had to learn their positions, and once they got comfortable, we got going," she said.

Did they ever. ISU sliced through the Gateway schedule and won 16 straight, breaking the school record of 13. All those wins came in Gateway games, and the closest margin of victory was eight points.

The Redbirds have already clinched the regular-season championship. The top four teams qualify for the Gateway tournament, and college sports

tage throughout. The Redbirds are 8-1 at home this season and have already reached Govan's pre-season goal :- they are 20-5.

"Now," said Govan, "we want to get into the NCAA tournament."

THAT THE REDBIRDS shifted their game into high gear in time for the Gateway season is a credit to the undersized Govan. She is fifth on the team in scoring (11.0 points) and leads in rebounding (6.0) and field goal shooting (57.1 percent). But to better understand her season, examine her Gateway stats.

They are 13.3 points, 6.4 rebounds, 59.7 percent from the floor, better than 70 percent from the free throw line. Her shooting percentage leads the conference.

There's no secret to what turned kind of slow, but I just kept working," she said simply. "Especially my shooting. I was in a slump, but I worked my way out of it."

As she did, as Govan improved, so did the team. "To be honest, she's been the big difference," said Hutchison of Govan. "We needed Char's inside game. She came around, and as she got going so did we.

"She's playing great. She's our key for rebounding. Her defense has come around in the last month or so, too. She's playing the best (defense) of her career, and when you have a 5-9 kid who can cover against 6-2 kids, it makes a difference.

HER DEFENSE is what makes Govan most proud. "The year I sat out with my broken foot (1986-87), I was helping my teammates from the bench, trying to tell them what to look for, and I think that helped me. It made me think about what to concentrate on on the court.

"And I like playing defense, too. I think that helps a lot. Some players like scoring, but it's just as important when you stop the other player from scoring."

Her strength and skill inside make her dangerous, in spite of her lack of size. "Char attacks the basket better than anyone I've coached," said Hutchison, an 18-year coaching veteran with more than 300 career wins. She reacts early so she can get her rebounding position established.

"And post defenders have to respect her (shooting) range. A lot of them don't like to go out and cover

Of course, ISU's foes like seeing those big numbers go up on the scoreboard in the Redbirds' favor even less. But ISU remains a determined bunch. For one, the team's new goal - the NCAA tournament has additional attractions.

'We were disappointed with those losses," said Hutchison. "Maybe we'll get another crack at some of

With Govan playing to her full potential, the outcome could be much

OCC women lose close one

It couldn't have been much closer, Three times in the final 10 seconds, Oakland Community College's womens basketball team had a shot to win or at least tie in its Michigan Community College Athletic Association state final against Lake Michigan CC Saturday at Glen Oaks CC in

Trailing 54-53, their first attempt, a 12-foot jumper, popped in and out. The Lady Raiders stole the rebound and got off another shot, but it, too, rounded the rim and fell out. So OCC fouled, and Lake Michigan CC made two free throws to go ahead 56-53. The Lady Raiders had one more chance and got off a shot at the buzz-

Real emotion Show, song are true to his life

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

HEN DAVIS GAINES is on stage, singing "Being Alive" in the musical "Company," he gets the shivers because the song is so true to life - his life.

Backstage at the Birmingham Theatre, the young actor spoke excitedly about his role as Robert, the single guy whose married friends want him to become one of

"I feel like this is my life story," said Gaines, his big eyes growing even bigger. "This two hours - it's very close to home."

iss he

"I'm single," he continued.
"Some of the scenes are so true to life it's scary." A female friend of his came from New York to see the show and have dinner with Gaines. She said, "There's not going to be too much acting in this."

"BY THE TIME I get to the end of the show . . . I think about it (getting married) every night during the show. After I finish that song, I'm just trembling. It's so emotional."

In "Company," Robert dates three different girls but doesn't end up with any of them. Gaines pointed out, "He wants the girl who is a combination of all those wives (Robert says so in the song). He picks types who are not like them. He's afraid of making a commitment. He picks the ones who are just for fun, for sex." "Being Alive" is a powerful song, as sung by Gaines, who has a strong voice with a lot of feeling. Critics have praised his singing ability, in many musicals. He has done two national tours, including a featured role as Cornelius Hackl in "Hello, Dolly!" starring Carol Channing, which played Detroit's Masonic Temple in 1982-83.

"Before that, I was in Best Little Whorehouse in Texas,' as one of the football players," Gaines said. He appeared in the production number where they danced with their boots on, as the Texas Aggies. This show, starring Alexis Smith, played the Fisher Theatre in De-

ALTHOUGH GAINES had five callbacks, during auditions for the original Broadway production of Stephen Sondheim's "Into the Woods," he wasn't cast in that show. "This is my first Sondheim show," he said of the Birmingham Theatre production of "Company."

Sondheim's songs have been called difficult. "Some of the intervals, from note to note, they're hard to sing," Gaines explained.
"It's not like where you think the note's going to go . He's so intelligent. 'Being Alive' is one of the best songs ever written. You don't mess with him. He's a genius."

Gaines is from Orlando (Fla.). "It was just a little sleepy town, with a little hangar for an airport," he recalled. "Now it's like tourist Amer-went there to be a theater major and got sidetracked." He was a music major for awhile. While in college, he also studied abroad, six months of Italian and art history in Florence, Italy.

He majored in both theater and history and had a minor in music.

"I wanted to be an actor since I was this big," he said, indicating with his hand. "Even as a child I was involved in children's theater with groups in Orlando. I always sang in church choirs as a kid."

AS A COLLEGE student, he appeared in musicals on campus. After graduation, he went right to New York. Although he has sung in many shows, surprisingly, "I didn't study voice until two years ago in New York," he said. This was the result of being awarded a grant,

Gaines found the world of opera quite different from musical theater when he appeared in the Sig-mund Romberg operetta "New Moon" for Beverly Sills' New York City Opera two years ago.

"At first people looked down on me because I was from the musical theater," he said. He played Robert Mission, the lead role, and had to come out onstage before the audience, for the first time, in a costume he had never worn before, and performing to music he had never heard rehearsed. In opera, rehearsal time is less because most of the singers have played the roles before, he noted.

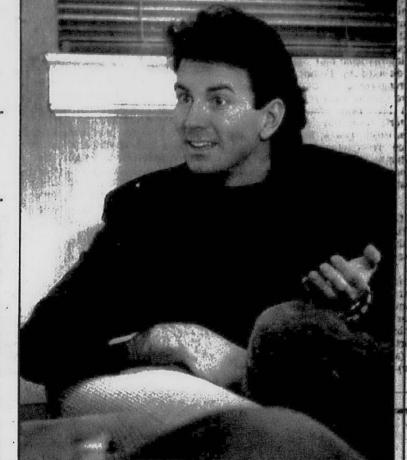

"It was scary at first," Gaines

He is pleased to report, "I haven't stopped working since January 1988." He did "The Rink" with Lainie Kazan at the Coconut Playhouse in Miami and then appeared with Tony Randall in the British farce sex-comedy "Two into One" at the Papermill Playhouse in New Jersey. The play also toured in

"We had high hopes to bring the show to Broadway," he said, but it didn't pan out. He enjoyed working with Tony Randall. "He's really like the characters he plays. He's very picky but very funny."

GAINES PLAYED Lancelot in "Camelot" in summer stock in Wichita, Kansas. Just before his current production at the Birming-ham Theatre, he spent five months as Joe Hardy, the man who becomes young again to play baseball with the New York Yankees, in the musical "Damn Yankees."

"The Canadian producer is trying to get it together for a Broadway revival," he said. Martin Short is a possiblity to play the Devil. "We may do it not this season but next."

In dressing room at Birmingham Theatre, Davis Gaines, who is single, describes what it's like to be on stage playing a role about a bachelor who isn't sure if he's ready to get married. The musical runs through Sunday, March 19.

Also while in Canada, Gaines played Mortimer is "Arsenic and Old Lace," with Kate Reid as one of the Brewster sisters.

Gaines said he was the only American in the Canadian production of "Damn Yankees." The Toronto director had called New York asking who could do the part, as they were having trouble casting it. Gaines previously played Hardy in "Damn Yankees" at the Paper mill Playhouse, in a production di-rected by George Abbott, who was then 99 years old. That show featured Susan Scott — whose parents live in Birmingham — as Gloria, the reporter.
"I also did an industrial with her (Scott) for Armstrong," he said.

Jo Rosen continues the mood in the paintings from the restaurant series hanging on the walls of her dining room right into the room itself. At left, the artist pauses in front her large abstract that hangs in her studio/living room. A comfortable grouping of leather chairs are trimmed in the colors of the painting - marigold, black, jade green and hot pink.

Color, color everywhere

Jo Rosen, West Bloomfield artist, s as good as her word.

When she says, "I love color," she means it. She LOVES color. A visit o her home, where the living room is her studio, is an up experience.

Her brilliant watercolors, abstracts and people scenes are on the tails, along with drawings and paintings by her two young children and her friend, Andrea Smith, a wellknown artist.

THE LIFE-SIZE torso in the front hall that started life as a men's store mannequin sets the stage for Rosen's approach to her art.

"I painted this during my splash period," she said, resting her hand on the armless shoulder of the mottled gray/purple figure.

Another splash period painting aces it on the opposite wall.

Post-splash period paintings, however, are concerned with people. These often crowded scenes come Whether Rosen is showing the faces of people in the nudist colony with their eyes closed, the restaurant crowd or the Southwest from a West Bloomfield point of view, she injects humor, color and subtle surprise in her work. She has a flourishing business in hand-painted clothing and particulikes to do whimsical family portraits on sweat shirts.

"I've sort of become the artist I wanted to be when I was young and never thought I would be - and I love to share my work," she said.

It's constantly changing, she said. The bold black and white print cover on her dining room table is a trademark. It's somewhere in each painting. As the central element in the room, it appears to turn the entire area around it, with Rosen's dramatic watercolors on the wall, into a giant painting.

It's a mystery why this outrageous barrage of color and design coming from all directions in her home and her paintings works. Suffice to say, it

If you're reading this newspaper while lying on a bed of nails, you can get up now — comfort is in. If you're reading this newspaper while sitting on Mom's recycled sofa, you can be proud of yourself - tradition is in.

If you're reading this newspaper in the dark because you're eating meatloaf, you can turn the lights on — Midwest is in:

That's the gospel as presented by Linda Stephenson, retail events editor of Metropolitan Home magazine and featured speaker at the grand reopening of Gorman's Troy store.

The store was celebrating a $190,000 renovation with all new merchandise and colors for more than 100 room settings.

Calling tradition the "new avant arde," Stephenson made it clear that tradition, like nostalgia, isn't what it used to be. It certainly doesn't, mean a return to plastic runners on the carpet.

"Tradition is a stepping-off point."
she said. "Classic shapes in solas and chairs are being made more luxurious through the use of opulent fab-

STEPHENSON USED a chair in Norma Kamali's New York showroom as an example of the use of upholstery to lend style and panache to a "fusty old men's club chair."

Kamali, better known as a fashion designer, covered the over-stuffed piece of furniture with a high-style black-and-white plaid.

"The fabric would make a wonderful blazer," Stephenson said, "Kamali was inspired by the 'little black dress' idea. A lot of her upholstery fabrics would make marvelous blazers or suits."

Disregarding the sensibilities of some of the audience, Stephenson, made the point that that tradition has no bounds, "The 1950s are history, the 1940s are pre-history, at least the 'baby boomers.' Platform seating, along with Victorian and art nouveau, is the new traditional. Andy Warhohl posters and Marilyn Monroe memorabilia are the new

Comparing a sofa to the suits in a wardrobe, because of its price and basic function, Stephenson demonstrated that the sofa's character could be changed by the use of different upholsteries - ticking, damask tapestry, canvas, pastel silk.

Each fabric will produce a different spirit in the classic sofa shape.

Continuing the wardrobe meta-phor, Stephenson described easy chairs as shirts and ties used to liven up the basic sofa. As accent pieces, chairs are the place for flowered fabrics, dramatic prints, metallics and cut velvet. A lot of black and white is used to achieve a sophisticated look with little effort.

"There used to be about a twoyear time-lag between clothing col-ors and upholstery colors, but today colors appear simultaneously in each. Top interior designers often scrutinize a client's clothes closet to see what colors and styles the client is comfortable with and decorate a home accordingly.

"Bill Blass and Norma Kamali attract a clientele with different lifestyles and tastes. The home is no longer a showplace, the emphasis is

"Five years ago, the furniture in-dustry introduced jewel tones, but they didn't go over because they were too intense, too hard to-live with. They have been reintroduced this year in dustier tones, still rich, but easier on the eye, and are very

'Side chairs and tables are like earrings - an impulse buy. When you feel like adding something new but inexpensive to your wardrobe, you go out and buy a pair of earrings. There is wonderful whimsy and design in occasional chairs, and they can buoy up the spirit of a

"TABLES ARE NOT just a place to put lamps anymore. They are true accessories. They have both character and great legs. There are bronze tabletops and lots of inlay woods. The emphasis in on workmanship, with a lot of attention to details.

Table legs, too, are important." Demonstrating her thesis, Stephenson showed a table inspired by an ancient Egyptian design. The base was a sheaf of golden metal "wheat," topped by an elegantly simple glass oval.

Gorman's president Bernard Moray said that creating the 100 plus room settings in the store was similar to designing individual rooms in 100 plus homes, "We used the same process you would in de-signing a room in a home, define the space and furnishing parameters, create a theme and integrate texture, color and pattern.

Linda Stephenson, retail events editor for Metropolitan Home magazine, compared buying home furnishings to buying a personal wardrobe.

Antiques became history lessons

By Arlene Funke special writer

UTH AND Max Heilmann come from a world where elegant Dresden figurines and Limoges china set the standards for devotees of fine, old pieces

The Heilmanns are German-born antiques dealers now living in Livonia. Ruth Heilmann, who says she was always used to old things, found it perfectly natural to learn American history by studying antiques and artifacts of this country. "I learned a lot about American heritage by going to museums," said Heilmann, 62. "I would look up certain items, where they were made, who made them."

Today, the Heilmanns have a wide variety of antiques and collectibles from several countries. They are promoters for the 21st Botsford Inn Antiques Show, to be held this weekend. A total of 20 dealers will feature jewelry, china and furniture for Hours are from noon to 8 p.m. Saturday and from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $1. The Botsford Inn is located at 8000 Grand River Avenue at Eight Mile Road, Farmington RUTH HEILMANN specializes in sets of Bayarian and Limoges china, silver accessories, pitchers and flatware. One of her prized items is an 1840s Dresden porcelain horse and carriage measuring 12 inches high and 39 inches long.

"It's our pride and joy," she said. "It's absolutely a museum The horse and carriage, from Germany, is valued at several thousand dollars. Heilmann bought it at an antique show at Wonderland Shopping Center in Livonia last year. Antique collecting aside, the Heilmann story is one of tri-umph over extreme hardship in the years following World War

"We were desperate," Ruth Heilmann said of their decision to leave Berlin and come to North America in 1953. "Germany

The late 1940s and early '50s found Germany in ruins following the war. Housing and jobs were scarce.

The Heilmanns went first to Toronto, where they stayed for seven years and took low-paying jobs. Their goal was to eventually settle in the United States. Max worked and went to night school. Ruth, a young mother, cleaned offices at night and taught herself to speak English by reading newspapers.

"AT ONE TIME, between the two of us, we had five jobs," she recalled.

Once the pair had accumulated $2,000, they applied for and received permission to enter the country. They came to Detroit and Max took a job as a tool and die maker at General Motors Corp. They moved from Detroit to Livonia 24 years ago.

Meanwhile, Ruth Heilmann was learning American history by collecting early artifacts. Her foray into selling began after she had developed the habit of picking up small, old things at neighborhood sales.

'I was used to old things," she said. "I went to garage sales. I bought little antique items. I always ended up with more than I

According to Heilmann, friends encouraged her to start selling. One acquaintance suggested that they open a booth at an antique show. That venture was successful

The money from that sale was used to buy furnishings from an estate sale, again at a friend's suggestion.

Some of her earliest acquisitions were Dresden figures and sterling silver inkwells. In time, she added higher quality merchandise, purchased from estate sales and other dealers.

APPROXIMATELY 15 YEARS ago, Heilmann operated an antiques shop in Plymouth. But she closed it after discovering it was more enjoyable and profitable to find customers at shows.

Max Heilmann, now 65 and retired from GM, is active in the business. Periodically, the Heilmanns travel to Europe to acquire merchandise.

According to Ruth Heilmann, a true antique must be 100 years old. "Collectors items" are pegged at 50 years of age.

"Just age doesn't make it an antique," she added. "It has to Currently, pieces from the art deco style of the 1930s are "very, very strong," Heilmann said. Also hot are beautifully made table linens from the late 1800s to early 1900s. Heilmann believes that antiques and collectibles can add interest and beauty to any style or decor.

"A young girl wearing Victorian jewelry — it's very sweet,"

Heilmann said around 50 percent of her clientele fall into the 30s age range, "from working class to so-called 'yuppies." "We now have the children of people who came to us 18 years

More color film tips

In my last column, I discussed ow color film works and mentioned the Kelvin "temperature" scale that easures color values produced by rtain films.

Today, let's delve a little deeper into this subject.

One of the miracles of the human eye is that we can "see" colors as we know they are, regardless of the light source. For example, your white cat looks white whether it's outdoors in the sunshine or in your flome at night. It appears white because we "know" that it is white.

BUT FILM isn't as flexible and adaptable as our brains. Film can't 'see" the way we can and this is why our color photographs don't always give us the colors we originally saw. Outdoor light is bluish in color and indoor light (tungston) is redish. Ko-dak and other film manufacturers therefore make two families of color

films - daylight film that responds

While it's not evident in this black and white reproduction, Monte Nagler shot this scene with tungsten Ektachrome film without a correction filter to produce a blue cast in the color version of this winter pictorial.

raming makes ordinary special

AVING A picture or an object framed is fun. It makes you feel special or as if you are indulging in a luxury. It is not necessary, it is not required of you. Framing is not and hever will be listed with death and Finding, buying or doing a piece of artwork is quite an accomplishment. To further the experience you can special order a frame to complement and preserve it. Framing is a step above the ordinary.

So take something ordinary and make it special by having it framed or frame it yourself. Here are some of the different things that people have brought in to us to have artifacts David Messing also framed pieces of bedspreads, towels and baby's "nigh nigh," a stone from Masada, medals and ribbons, tapestery, needlepoints, scarfs, watches and even a walrus tusk! So as you can see, anything worth preserving is frameable.

AND IT IS SO nice to take something regular and make it special. More than once we have had a couple dressed in formal attire ask apologetically if we could frame the wedding announcement in five minutes because they couldn't think of anything else to give and they were on their way to the wedding. Years later that type of gift is usually appreciated more than porcelain swans or bath towels.

So the best way to start having your framing done is to take your piece to a couple of different places for estimates since price can vary within a wide range. Framing doesn't have to be expensive. If you want to have a picture framed inexpensively, just tell the framer I want to keep this around $40 or whatever amount you want. Keep in mind correctly to outdoor light (approxi-ately 5,500 Kelvin) and tungston film that performs properly under in-candescent light (approximately 3,200 Kelvin).

Now, back to the white cat who will surely appear a rich white when photographed outdoors with daylight film. But take a shot of it indoors and you will see a distinct orangered tint in the finished print.

Just the opposite, tungston film will depict your cat a true white indoors, but snap a shot outside and you'll see your tabby just got a case of the "blues."

You will find 35mm slide film available in both daylight and tungston versions, but 35mm print film comes only in daylight. This is due to reciprocity failure or color shifting associated with fast shutter speeds that are incompatible with tungston negative films.

Try to use the correct color balanced film if possible. However, if you can't, correction filters will give you true colors. An 80 B filter (blue in color) will enable you to shoot daylight film indoors without getting the red. An 85 B correction filter (salmon in color) will make you lose the blues when you snap tungston film outdoors.

CAN YOU ever break the rules on color balancing? Sure. The next time it snows, shoot tungston slide film outside without the correction filter. Your winter scenes will produce a soft, blue tint that can be quite striking and unusual.

Here's a final important reminder. Because flash units register 5,500 Kelvin, always use daylight film when using your flash. Think of flash as a "burst of sunlight." And don't' worry about other lights being on in the room. They will surely be overpowered by your flash.

though that it is a little like buying a car. You have one flat price to work with and the mat, glass or mounting are options which you will want to consider. Be ready to allow so much for these fees by keeping your frame cost itself to a minimum.

Frames are quoted per linear foat.
For example: an 11-by-14-inch pre-ture frame requires 50 inches of wood or metal. Now that is two inches over four feet which would require the framer to charge for 4% feet of moulding.

Carpet treatment for open staircase

57 Q. We are moving into our new shome very shortly and I need some advice. Our home is a two-story with an open circular staircase. Do I carpet all the rooms the same? What ean I do to emphasize the staircase? MITA. I suggest one color carpet for the first floor of your house excluding kitchen, breakfast, hall, foyer powder room. A ceramic tile or Sinyl would be a practical way to go. Wood with a polyurethane finish will work as well. I am not a lover of Witchen carpet.

Textiles in Ford museum spotlight

The blankets that kept Americans warm, the rugs that decorated their floors, and the samplers that kept their fingers busy come together at Henry Ford Museum, March 4 and 5. "Stitches in Time: A Quilts and Textiles Weekend," highlights the many forms that textiles take, as well as the stories of the people who

Down through the ages, women have used their skills at the needle, loom and spinning wheel to suport their families, promote their causes and beautify their homes. Bits of cloth and thread were even used to express their opinions on major issues, or to commemorate events in their personal lives.

The weekend will feature several poignant examples of such storytelling. Panels of the NAMES Project Quilt, memorializing AIDS victims and symbolizing the dramatic impact of the AIDS epidemic, will be on display. In contrast, the eastern-Asian folk tradition of the Hmong story blankets will come to life through demonstrations by the Hmong Stitchery Cooper-

ON-SITE DEMONSTRATIONS will include quilting, rug hooking, sampler stitching, ma-crame, crewel and crocheting. The film, "Hearts and Hands," will illustrate the influence of women and quilts on 19th-century American society. Lectures on Michigan quilts and the textiles collections of Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village also will be featured.

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

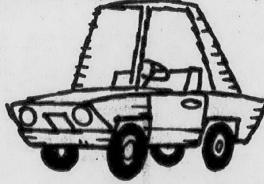

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

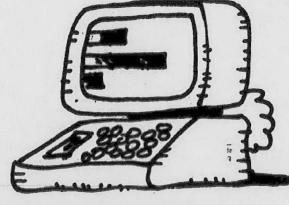

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

"I finally found a townhome as large as a home."

"I looked long and hard to find a 2000 sq. ft., cathedral ceiling elegant three-bedroom townhome. (Of course, I could have chosen a two-bedroom ranch). With my own two-car attached garage, my own private basement and patio. And luxury touches like deluxe kitchens and whirlpool tubs plus landscaping that I love. Nothing could get me to move from Covington. Nothing."
