Schools plan for major budget cuts

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

The Plymouth-Canton school board on Monday proposed cutting the 1989-90 school district budget by $3.18 million, if voters reject a 4mill property tax increase on June

The cuts would be across the board and affect everything from administration to the length of the school day.

Final approval of the proposed cuts is expected to come at an April 10 board meeting. The meeting on Monday was a workshop, and although issues could be discussed, the board couldn't vote on those issues.

Administrators have proposed restoring $1.8 million in personnel and programming cuts if voters approve both the tax increase and an 8-mill renewal, which will be on the same

The tax increase would cost the owner of a house worth $100,000 approximately $200 in additional tax-

If the proposals do not pass, administrators say, the cuts are needed because property in the district has become worth so much that the district will receive no state aid next

In addition, property values are going up faster than the rate of inflation. So the district will have to reduce the tax rate next year. However, because of these rising property values, taxes will rise, even without a tax-rate increase

For Trustee Roland Thomas, it was restoration of the six-hour school day.

Trustee Marilyn Schwinn said, "I'd like WSDP looked at to see if we can keep a license to stay on the air without spending any money."

Trustee Dean Swartzwelter wants "to be able to have the 1987-1988 attendance policy in 1989-90." Cuts in the attendance office budget have contributed to an increase in absences of 5-10 percent at the high schools, he said.

Trustee Jeanette Wines doesn't want to pay for extracurricular activities in school buildings at the expense of educational programs.

"I KNOW it would be a good move for PR, but I can't see it when we need the money for educational programs," she said.

Trustee E.J. McClendon disagreed, saying, "I think a lot of McClendon parents want to have activities at their local school. People see it as a community center."

"It seems to me we might be missing the point a little by keeping the radio station without keeping the attendance office. That seems to me to be out of whack. "I also believe you should examine what effect keeping extracurricular activities is having on your school day. Our job is to educate kids for the hours we have them in school. We can't do a very good job of educating kids without a librarian and a learning specialist."

The Plymouth Canton school board expects to make the following cuts, if a 2 mill property tax increase fails in June:

The granite has been ordered. Fund-raisers have netted $5,500.

The Plymouth Vietnam Veterans Association reports that its drive to build a monument to local men and women who served during the Vietnam and Korean wars is going well.

"Tm really excited," said David Blake, a Plymouth resident and coowner of Simpson Granite Works. His company is donating design, lettering and set-up services to the PVVA.

Four slabs - Cherry Hill black granite from southwestern Pennsylvania and Southern light granite from Elberton, Ga. - will be cut to design specifications and should be received within a month, Blake said.

The slabs will weigh 700 to, 3,200

"YOU TAKE out a block of granite, dynamite it, take out a 40 ton block and start cutting up slabs with a diamond saw or wire saw," Blake said of the procurement process.

"Then they polish the slab. You can't tell if there's a defect in the slab unless it's polished," he said. "We draw blueprints, send them down there and it (slab) comes rush at all. It will be done and ready to be set the middle of June."

The PVVA plans a formal dedication on the Fourth of July.

The city has agreed to provide a site for a Vietnam/Korean monument near the Plymouth Rock Memorial adjacent to Kellogg Park.

No public funds have been committed to the project by the city.

Board rejects expansion plan

Plymouth-Canton school board members shot down an architectural plan commissioned by administra-tors which would have expanded the board office at a cost of $2.4 million.

Voters approved a bond issue in 1986 that included $925,000 for board office renovation.

The proposal, presented at Monday's workshop by Carne Associates Inc. of Plymouth, would entail remodeling the existing building at 454 S. Harvey and adding a new two-floor, 10,000-square-foot structure.

The work was planned in two phases; the first at a cost of $1.2 million, the second at $1.14 million.

Board members, who the same night proposed cutting $3.1 million in program and personnel expendi-tures from the 1989-90 district budget, balked at the numbers.

"We've gone through several architectural approaches, and person-ally, I like the layout of this one best. But the thing that bothers me is that we only have $925,000. This comes to more than that," said Trustee Dean Swartzwelter.

"I don't know how you buy a Lin-coln for the price of an Escort. I think our direction can be that the sky's the limit, within the $925,000. I don't want to spend a 25-cent stamp over the $925,000."

Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business, said the proposal would give the board office 400,000 square feet of badly-needed storage space.

while the cost would exceed the amount available, "I talked to our attorney in Lansing (about funding) and he said we'd have to put in a formal written request with the state board of education. He felt it would be no problem."

Trustee Jeanette Wines asked what would happen to the $925,000

"if we decided we don't want to do anything. While I know this building is in dire need, how do we justify this when we are asking the public for an increase? We're supposedly operating at hare bones now."

Superintendent John Hoben answered that the $825,000 would go swered that the $925,000 would go toward retiring bond indebtedness. "I also want to see us live within the $925,000," said Trustee Roland Thomas. If that says all we can afford to do is renovate and add a onefloor addition, then so be it. It doesn't say we can't add a second piece later if it's designed right."

"We can't do a basement later, and Lord knows, the thing we need is storage space," said Trustee E.J.

McClendon favors phased con-struction to accommodate the district's growth.

We'll never be able to run a first class operation out of an outhouse, and effectively, that's what we've been trying to do. I'm not sure if the public realizes that," said McClen-

"I don't want to build something that becomes a white elephant that we can't develop or unload."

Audience members Joan Kotcher and Mary Dahn questioned spending money on the board office so close to the June 12 election, when the district will ask voters to approve 4 mills in new taxes.

"You have to think about justifying spending money when you're lay-ing off administrators and asking the public for more money for operating expenses," said Kotcher.

Agreed Dahn: "Spending money you don't have, and then going to the public for more money is poor policy," she said.

Said Hoedel following the meeting: "I don't feel bad at what the board said. We'll go back to the drawing board and see what we can do for $900,000.

"We might put a lobby in with a basement and an elevator, renovate the building, put in a new heating system, a new (brick facade) and parking."

The district spent about $2,100 on three architectural plans, he said.

Hoedel added that a consultant under-estimated the cost of the project in 1986 before the bond issue was proposed to voters.

Planning for severe storms crucial

Most severe Chuck VanVleck weather doesn't just materialize on a spur of the moment. Watches give way to warnings. And when they do, take heed and cover,

"IF YOU FOLLOW a normal chain of events, you'll get a severe thunderstorm watch. Get an idea where your (young) kids are and what you're going to do if things get worse," he said.

"In a severe thunderstorm warning, at least get the kids in their own yard. If you happen to be in a pool, get out of the water. Of course, don't get under trees.

When the siren goes off, that's a tornado warning," VanVleck said. "My family goes down in the basement. I have no problem waking them up if I hear the siren."

VanVleck said he stores a battery operated radio and flashlight in his basement shelter area under the stairs. It would be a good idea to keep some books or games nearby to take the edge off for frightened young children, he added.

"THE RULE OF thumb is to be on the lowest floor possible, under something substantial like a stairway or workbench - something to protect you if debris starts falling,"

People without a basement should take cover in an interior room like a closet or bathroom. "Get as many walls between you and the exterior as you can," he said.

It's human nature to disregard uneventful tornado sirens over time, VanVleck said. But that doesn't stop him. Large trees have been known to crash through roofs and windows in thunderstorms.

Levin: Increasing taxes key to healthy economy

Tornado season is approaching.

By Diane Gale staff writer

Slashing the national deficit by raising taxes is the key to a healthier economy with better services, explained U.S. Sen. Carl Levin to a group of 50 in the Canton Public Library Tuesday.

Environment, education and a health care system that Levin called shameful are major concerns.

But the unwielding $2.8 trillion deficit puts all national programs in jeopardy, he said.

"We're papering over the deficit," said Levin, who was invited to Canton by state Rep. James Kosteva, D-

"Something has to give somewhere," Levin said. "Basically we're ducking the issues. We're not addressing the issues that threaten the economy, which is the deficit."

THE TIDE will turn, he said, by increasing cigarette taxes, imposing fees on imported oil and applying a higher tax rate to wage earners with annual incomes of $150,000 or more.

Someone earning $20,000 annually shouldn't pay the same tax rate as someone earning $1 million, said

"There's no painless way to reduce the 10-year congressional veteran. Levin attacked money spent on warheads. "All you can use them for is to threaten," he said. "We have enough warheads 100 times over to blow up the Soviet Union. Too much money is dumped into defending allies and bringing troops home will cut federal expenses, he added. "We're spending more money to defend Europe than Europe is to defend Europe. But a deadlock between the president, who promised not to raise taxes, and Congress, which said it wouldn't take the lead in imposing taxes, paralyzes either from taking necessary action, Levin said.

If the deficit is ignored, basic federal commitments, especially Social Security, will fail, he added.

"Social Security may not be there when we need it," he said.

The government has to build the money supply for the year 2003, when more money will be drawn out of the retirement payment system than what is deposited.

"We're pitting seniors against other programs," Levin said.

A NATIONAL crisis in solid waste disposal sites has been especially evident in Canton, one of a group of Wayne County's solid waste. "I'm not sure we're (Congress) doing a whole lot in solid waste,' said Levin, adding that most solid waste regulations have been imposed by state and local govern-

"The federal government has not stepped in here," Levin said. "We're looking at possibly having the Pentagon use recyclable paper to get a bigger demand for recyclables."

The environment is one of many pressing issues in Canton that are reflective of areas that have to be addressed nationwide during the next decade, said Kosteva.

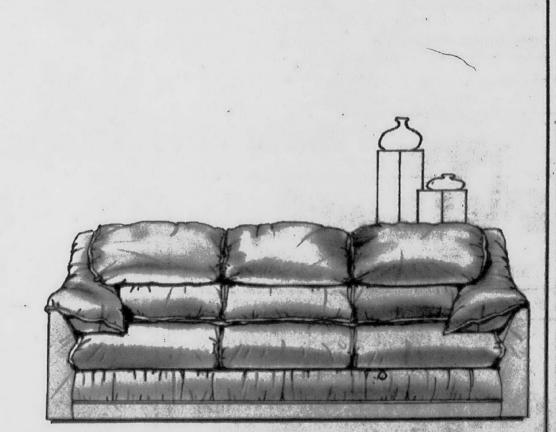

SHIRLEY POLING of Canton said she was disappointed more residents failed to show for the open meeting.

"People want to say elected officials are out of touch," said Poling adding that few voters take advantage of open meetings to "get in

Dale Smith, also of Canton, said it's ironic the president claims there are no new taxes. But when he filled out his income tax forms this year he learned he had fewer deductions

Bradbury since 1972 and doesn't necessarily want to see a lot of kids around. "I also feel everyone has the right to do what they want to do," he said. Lowry Snyder said he also owns

"There aren't a lot of facilities here. It's not a child-oriented place," he said. "There's nothing here for children to do. No school nearby."

Most Bradbury residents are retirees, Sass said.

Child seat belt law OK'd

A bill requiring all child passengers under the age of 16 to wear seat belts regardless of where they are seated in the car passed the state House of Representatives.

The bill, sponsored by State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, exempts nursing babies, and specifies that the seat belt requirement would not apply if a motorist is transporting more children than there are seat belts available.

Police officers would be prohibited from stopping motorists and ticketing them solely for a seat belt

"I'm very pleased that the bill was passed, especially since children aged four to 16 have the lowest seat belt usage compared to all other age groups," Kosteva said.

"Requiring children to use seat belts at all times will encourage them to use them throughout their lives," he added.

Rosina Raymond is a walking his-tory of Schoolcraft College. Names, dates and events from the college's first quarter century come tumbling out in a conversation with the longtime Schoolcraft College trustee.

Any details she can't quite re-member are there for ready reference in five notebooks and countless file folders filled with campaign fliers, board proclamations and arti-cles clipped from long-ago newspa-

Raymond, a board member since 1971, won't be seeking re-election this spring after completing her third successive six-year term.

"I'VE LOVED my time on the board but six years is a long time,"

Even though she's leaving the board, Raymond will be maintaining ties with the college.

"T'll be serving on the Schoolcraft

Foundation (a non-profit group that finances scholarships for area stu-dents)," she said. "Til still be keeping an eye on things.'

IT'S A relationship that goes back to Schoolcraft's beginnings. Ray-mond campaigned for the college's creation back in the early 1960s and was a candidate in the college's initial trustee election in 1961.

"It wasn't easy," she said of the campaign to create Northwest Wayne County Community College (Schoolcraft's pre-founding name).

That the Redford Union and South Redford schools failed to join the Schoolcraft district is still a disco-

Schoolcraft district is still a disappointment, she said.

"There was a newspaper out in Redford that was campaigning against us, saying all kinds of things," she said. "That's probably the primary reason why the two Redford school districts didn't join

IN 1965, she faced incumbent trus-tee Sam Hudson of Plymouth in a one-on-one campaign she said was her most exciting.

"Because there were just the two candidates, I think it focused attention on the race and on the college,'

Hudson called the race a water-mark for the fledgling community college in "Reaching Out," his 1983 Schoolcraft history.

AT THE time, Hudson wrote, the Schoolcraft board was dominated by Plymouth-area residents, most of whom were elected by district. Ray-mond's candidacy was seen as build-ing I is a light of the college.

ing Livonia interest in the college.

Though a subsequent court case opened the way for at-large representation for all seats, swinging the balance to Livonia, Raymond continued to press for greater representation from all five school districts included in the Schoolcraft district.

Even though she narrowly lost the 1965 election, she and Hudson be-came friends. Among her prized pos-sessions is a hand-signed copy of Hudson's college history. The late Hudson made several references to Raymond in the volume.

In one he recalls her determination in the light of the early election.

"At that point, many a person would have given up trying," he wrote. "But Rosina didn't and her tenacity paid off."

TENACITY HAS marked Raymond's career on the board, whether it's fighting for liberal arts programs or women's rights.

"She's always been right in there fighting for the cause," board presi-dent Mary Breen said. "She's been a fine friend to Schoolcraft College."

In the early 1970s, Raymond par-ticipated in a Washington, D.C., "fly in" among nationwide Equal Rights Amendment supporters and was active in the creation of Schoolcraft's Women's Resources Center.

"That is one of the things of which I'm proudest," she said. "That center has helped many, many people over

CREATION OF the Seven Mile Crossing office complex on collegeowned property was a major recent highlight, she said.

That will allow us to get the Women's Resrouce Center and all the other offices out of those little houses along Haggerty and into a space on their own on campus," she

Though several former trustees used their Schoolcraft positions as a springboard to city or state office, Raymond said she never harbored such ambitions

"I'm interested in politics but probably not as interested in it as my husband (former Livonia Councilman Jerry Raymond)," she said.

RAYMOND, HOWEVER, has been active in numerous community activities and is active in the city's library programs. In 1980, she was selected Livonia First Citizen in an annual community recognition program co-sponsored by the Observer

Raymond began her education ca-reer as a junior high school teacher. She later served on the faculty of Madonna College. Fluent in German and Spanish, Raymond was also a part-time member of the Wayne State University speech department. At various times, she also taught community education classes in genealogy. That subject is a personal favorite.

"I'm working on an anecdotal history of eight families of my relatives," she said. "I've been back and forth over Europe several times looking at records that go back as

'chemical-free' roommate choice

By Susan Rosiek staff writer

An ad hoc committee is urging State Rep. David Honigman to re-introduce a bill allowing students at all state colleges and universities to request roommates who don't drink alcoholic beverages or take illicit

The push for a new state law comes despite a voluntary pledge from 13 of the state's 15 public colleges and universities. "I'm glad they're doing something positive, but I'm skeptical," said U.S. District Judge Bernard Friedman, leader of the ad hoc committee lobbying for the "chemical-free" option.

The problem that I have not doing it by legislation is they (colleges and universities) can discontinue it any time they want," said Friedman, whose committee has backed the proposal for the past two

In a letter to Honigman last week, Friedman said legislation is needed to "ensure continuation of the chemical-free option." "The only thing that will guarantee it year after year is legislation," agreed committee member Lorna McEwen, a publicist for the chemical dependency programs at Henry Ford Hospital-West Bloomfield.

Both Friedman and McEwen point to Western Michigan University's "experimental program" that offers students an option to live in nonsmoking, non-alcohol and limitedvisitation dorms beginning in the

Both praised the WMU administration's efforts but noted that the program is experimental.

HONIGMAN'S proposed bill would also require the state's 44 private colleges to give students the choice of a non-drinking roommate, as they now offer the option of a nonsmoking roommate.

Honigman introduced the bill last year, but it never made it out of committee after the public and private educational institutions announced their opposition.

Dr. Glenn Stevens of the Council of College Presidents, representing the state's 15 public schools, has said previously that the issue is more complex than a mere check-off on a housing application.

"It's a complicated issue. The university is entering into a contractual agreement with students," Stevens said in an earlier interview with the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. "What controls can the university reasonably implement to enforce such a contract?"

Council members oppose the legislation, he said, because compliance is best left up to the individual school administrations.

Friedman, however, said the issue involves students' rights.

"A student has a right to be in a chemical-free environment," Friedman said, noting he handled many alcohol-related cases as a 48th District Court judge, Honigman, R-West Bloomfield,

met with representatives from 13 of the state's 15 public institutions Feb. the state's 15 public institutions Feb. 24 at Oakland University. The representatives, vice presidents for student affairs, agreed to include the chemical-free housing option on their schools' applications forms, according to OU student affairs vice president Wilma Ray-Bledsoe.

REPRESENTATIVES of Michigan State University and Northern Michigan University were absent. Last month Northern officials said beginning this fall they plan to offer students an opportunity to select roommates who do not use alcohol by checking off that option on the housing application.

But Robert Underwood, the director of student housing at MSU, is unsure whether MSU housing applica-tions will offer students the option.

"There are lots of problems connected with it," said Underwood. "Housing operators are totally at the mercy of the person filling out the form. Habits change, Conflicts arise. Then the university is held in low estatem. We not an easy thing." teem. It's not an easy thing."

Robert Hughes, director of student housing at the University of Michigan, was unaware of state legislation to get the option placed on housing applications, but said U-M will begin offering students a choice come Sep-

"We will give students an opportu-nity to choose a chemical-free room-mate," Hughes said. "It has nothing to do with legislation. This is just something we are going to do."

Deborah McNish, associate director of auxiliary operations and hous-ing for Eastern Michigan University, ing for Eastern Michigan University, served on a state task force a year ago that addressed the issue.

"Sure we will comply," McNish said. "People have already started signing up about a week ago. It looks like a big hit. That's positive."

More sorting it out on school "finance reform."

Q. Well, your prediction was off base. The state Senate didn't put the school tax reform plan on the May 16 ballot. Any alibis?

A. None. As reported, the votes were there. Democrats didn't want to be saddled with the blame if voters rejected the plan, so they wouldn't put up 13 votes unless the Republicans put up 13. So two or three Democrats withheld their votes, and the plan got 24, two votes

Q. Why won't some people take "no" for an answer and let this "reform," which is really a tax increase, die? Why are both Blanchard and lawmakers continuing to work on new proposals?

A. Outstate and rural school districts still perceive they're being drastically short-changed when they have $2,200 per kid to spend and the metropolitan suburbs have $6,000 or

They want either much more aid from the state or a piece of the met-ropolitan industrial tax base, or both. Conservative Republicans and the school lobby liberals are united

Most people in the southeastern Michigan metropolitan area have no notion of how some parts of the state feel they're hurting. There's a lot of ferment going on we in the Detroit area don't appreciate. The Oakland County Taxpayers' Association is holding a "tax revolt" meeting at 7:30 tonight in the American Legion Post 108 Hall, Drahner Road east of M-24 in Oxford. Their flyer says their first priority is high property taxes. This issue isn't dead, even if HJR B is.

Q. What does Gov. Jim Blanchard figure he can do by convening leaders of the Municipal League, Townships Association, Asociation of Counties, Manufacturers Assolation, UAW, Chamber of Commerce and all those groups? Haven't we had enough meetings?

A. Blanchard is a total political animal - he keeps both eyes on the polls before advocating anything.

His reasoning goes like this: The 1987 Runkel Commission recommendations were made by people trying to do good for schools; the late Nye-Oxender plan (House Joint Resolution B) was designed by the education lobby and two rural Republican representatives.

But Blanchard says the plan needs to be designed by the people who actually will sell it to voters. Business managers do this when they invite marketing people's input into prod-uct design. Remember, Blanchard got a master's in business degree before he got a law degree.

Q. We hear Senate Majority Leader John Engler of Mount Pleasant is passing around still another plan.

A. Like HJR B, the Senate plan calls for cutting property taxes and raising the sales tax for a net increase of $239 million a year, then pumping $413 million in additional money for schools.

Q. That doesn't add up. How do they get $413 million more for schools from $239 million of new

A. The trick is to capture all new growth money. Engler says this "compromise"

• Increase the sales tax to 6 percent from 4 percent, raising about

$1.6 billion a year. • Provide about $1.5 billion in property tax relief by cutting assessments for school operations from 50 percent of cash value to 27.5 percent on residential and agricultural property and to 40 percent on businesses. In other words, cut the tax base. The other plan called for cutting tax rates (millages).

· Guarantee each school district a minimum of $3,300 per pupil a year. No district would receive more than a 15 percent increase in any year. The aid increase would be linked with economic growth rather than with cutting other portions of the budget.

Q. The kids are going to be on spring vacation. Any point in taking them to Lansing to see the Legislature in session?

A. Sorry. The Legislature took off Wednesday for spring vacation. They'll be back April 4.

Q. Why such a cushy deal?

A. Don't complain. There's a sign in the Press Room with that old quotation: "No man's life and liberty are safe whenever the Legislature is in

Q. Got your point. Now why was May 16 such a magic date for a ballot proposal?

A. That was the last possible date for a special election for a constitutional amendment to take effect July 1, when school districts start their fiscal year. Elections officials need two months to prepare the ballots. Thus, the Legislature had to act by March 17. It failed to do so.

State bills on drilling strike grass-roots support

By Marie Chestney

A grass-roots group from North-ville wants Livonia to join in its crusade to keep oil and gas drilling operations out of heavily populated residential areas.

The group, the Northville Preservation Association, is seeking state legislation that would give municipalities the power to say no to oil or gas drilling in their community.

Under present state law, townships have no local control over either operation, while cities do. Be-fore drilling in Livonia, companies first must get permission from the Livonia City Council.

ASSOCIATION REPRESENTA-TIVE Carol Andrikides asked the council last Wednesday to urge state lawmakers to support two bills that shortly will be introduced in the Michigan House by Rep. Gerald H. Law, R-Plymouth. Law's 36th District includes Northville.

"Only cities and villages are allowed local controls," Andrikides said. "And we found that the ordinances of cities and villages were being challenged in the courts."

Livonia city attorney Harry Tatigian agreed that the controls the city now puts on oil and gas drilling "may not be enough" if either industry were to challenge Livonia's ordinance in court. "This isn't a problem — not yet," Tatigian said. "But we don't know, for no one has tried to get a drilling permit under our zoning ordinance. The council sent the association's request for support to its legislative committee for further study.

One bill to be introduced by Law would allow townships to put controls on local drilling operations. The second bill would require oil and gas companies to hold a public hearing companies to hold a public hearing in the area in which they plan to drill before receiving a permit from the Department of Natural Resources.

The second bill also would require drillers to issue an environmental impact study on the area to be

THE POSSIBILITY of having oil and gas drilling rigs in back yards surfaced last year when drilling representatives began offering homeowners in northwest Livonia $100 if they would sign an oil and gas exploration lease.

Many of the homeowners lived on Hickory, Morningstar, Jahn and Meadowview streets in the Livonia Hills subdivision.

Concerned, the homeowners took their questions to city officials. Can a company legally drill for gas or oil

DRILLING COMPANY representatives last year also made the rounds of homeowners in Northville, Farmington Hills and Novi.

For some of these homeowners, the possibility of oil and gas rigs in their back yards gave birth to the Northville Preservation Association.

"The group was formed to re-search the effects of gas and oil wells in densely populated areas," Andrikides said.

All the data the group collected egarding residential oil and gas drilling was included in a thick packet given Wednesday to the council.

"The goal of Michigan is to move from 15th place in oil and gas production to No. 1 among producing states," Andrikides said. "The increase will not only come from current fields in northern Michigan but from densely populated areas including Wayne and Oakland coun-vacant lot, Meadowview resident Joe Mysliwiec said.

"They can drill under homes. What if basements start to crack? What if wells get contaminated? What about the waste from drilling that has to be disposed of?"

Property owners next to a drilling operation would have to deal with obnoxious odors, noise, pipelines, truck traffic, flare-off stacks for waste fumes, large oil storage tanks, hydrogen sulfide gas, water and soil contamination and the possibility of fires and explosions, Andrikides said.

According to the Resource Conservation Act of 1980, Andrikides said the oil and gas industry is exempt from hazardous waste regulations.

The association is backed in its quest for tougher local legislation by Northville Township, Farmington Hills, Novi, the Michigan Township Association, the Wayne County Association, the Wayne County Health Department, the Wayne County Environmental Health Division and numerous environmentalist groups, she said.

LAW SAID he had no illusions about the fight he faced in Lansing in over gas and oil operations.

Passing such legislation will no be easy as the DNR and the oil and gas industry have indicated that they will oppose it," Law said, "However, we are prepared for a long hard fight to make sure our communities

After taking numerous seismo-graphic soundings in Livonia last year, the industry might have put lo-cal drilling on hold for two reasons, Mysliwiec said.

"There was a heavy reaction from homeowners. Also, gas and oil prices have not been rising," Mysliwiec

County applauds success of area youth programs

Throughout Wayne County, youth ssistance programs offer young of-enders an alternative to juvenile de-

Recognizing the success of youth assistance programs, county Executive Edward McNamara has declared this week Youth Assistance Week in the county.

The program has a very high success rate, strong community involve-ment through volunteer counselors and strong support from the police departments," McNamara said.

An awards presentation at McNamara's downtown office launched the week's activities. Some honorees were major contributors to the program, including the Skillman Foundation, Hudson-Webber Founlation and Kellogg Foundation, Program directors receiving honors included Sue Jimenez, Livonia; Tom O'Connor, Redford Township; Joe Goodrid, Garden City and Sue Davis, Plymouth-Canton.

More than 250 people, including community leaders, parents, youths and directors were were invited to the program. Juvenile Judges Frances Pitts and Y. Gladys Barsamian were guest speakers.

Initiated seven years ago in Livonia, youth assistance now has pro-grams operating in 19 Wayne County communities, including Livonia, Redford Township, Garden City and Plymouth/Canton.

Youth assistance moves delin quent youths through a series of ac-tivities designed to alter their behav-ior and permanently divert them out of the juvenile justice system. "That is the basic idea behind the Youth Assistance programs in Wayne County," said McNamara. "The objective is to identify the youth who is headed for trouble, get him and his parents into counseling and try to redirect his life."

Program, activities include behavioral contracting, one-to-one coun-seling with a volunteer, life skills classes, work service and specialized services like tutorial assistance, job placement and court visitation.

Family members actively participate in the program through group sessions on parenting skills and drug and alcohol education.

The program has a very high success rate, strong community involvement through volunteer counselors and strong support from the police departments.'

Program services are voluntary, free and confidential.

The elements of early intervention and family involvement in treatment, as well as the extensive involvement of the community, have resulted in a high success rate for youths who complete the Youth Assistance Program.

success rate has remained constant since the program began in 1982.

In 1983, the city of Livonia initiated the Training Center to assist surrounding communities in duplicating the Youth Assistance Program. Both the Redford and Garden City programs were established in 1984. Plymouth/Canton launched its pro-

The state of Michigan, through the Department of Social Services, has provided funds to the Michigan Training and Resource Center to initiate youth assistance in six additional Wayne County cities.

Program development is currently underway in Wayne, Wyandotte, Lincoln Park, Riverview, Southgate

Detroit programs are under the supervision of the Wayne County Juvenile Court. All other programs have local autonomy, local control and local funding. Community involvement and a high success rate are factors which result in longterm commitment and local financial support, according to program directors.

established a coordinating council: Working together, this group has joined in a countywide effort to bring coordinated services to Wayne County's juveniles.

Long term plans include establish ing Youth Assistance programs in every community in Wayne County, thus providing families throughout the county with access to this community based service.

Citizens with questions about the program, or who want information about initiating the service in their communities, should contact their local city hall or the Michigan Training and Resource Center.

School cuts

They would go deep in district

HE PLYMOUTH CANTON school district this week announced the budget cuts it will make if voters reject a 4-mill property tax increase at the polls on

Those cuts would mean the elimination of 75 teachers, and teachers are the heart of the educational system.

We acknowledge that the school board must face the reality of a millage defeat, but we hope the school board isn't using the list of proposed cuts as a scare tactic to encourage voters to approve the millage increase.

Crying wolf won't help during a year in which the property tax assessments of residents in Plymouth and Canton have gone up 15 to 17 percent, and in which a battle over education spending and taxes is going on in Lansing.

The board should look carefully at what's going on in Lansing. There's a showdown be-tween Gov. James Blanchard and education groups over the reform of the school financing

According to news reports, Blanchard is trying to portray education groups as greedy protectors of mediocre schools who are making a grab for more state money to throw at old education

However, there's an indication that politics may get in the way of any reform of the school tax system. State Sen. John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, who is expected to be the Republican candidate for governor in 1990, and Blanchard are at odds over reforms that could lead to tax

With that showdown going on in Lansing, there will be more public attention paid to school financing.

And that just may mean voters in the Plymouth Canton district will be taking a tougher look at what's going on in the district.

If a school financing reform package does emerge from Lansing, it won't help the school dis-

That means the board needs to sell its millage or else look at making the following cuts:

• the layoff of 75 teachers, saving the district

• two administrative positions, saving

• after school activities, trimming $29,520;

aides for K-5, saving $7,450; aides for 6-12, saving $7,725;

high school athletics, at a $126,721 savings;

e eliminating middle school sports, saving audio-visual technician, saving $7,620; trimming $21,530 in central office costs;

eliminating 4.5 clerical positions, saving · eliminating the curriculum center, saving

$63,917; • trimming 16.5 custodial positions, saving

$336,000; saving $70,000 in maintenance costs;

· cutting $5,500 in the high school music eliminating the print shop, saving $32,000; • cutting $20,000 in staff development fund-trimming $88,671 in special education; cutting $75,000 in transportation costs;

cutting $26,868 in vocational education • cutting $22,510 in warehouse operations;

• eliminating WSDP, the student radio station at a $34,509 savings. But while the board has to face cuts if the millage proposal fails, we would encourage them to stress the positive points in their millage cam-The board went a long way toward that when it announced that it will restore $1.8 million to school programs if the millage is approved. The board's shopping list includes rehiring 24 teachers, opening school buildings for community activites, restoring the textbook budget, improving grants to individual schools for discretionary spending and the elimination of the pay to play fees. It's a good agenda, but the tough task will be to sell it to voters who are distressed and distracted by their property tax bills and probably confused by what's going on in Lansing. We think board members and others interested in having the school millage approved should be hitting the bricks soon in their quest to convince voters that the district needs the money.

It's going to be a tough selling job. We wish

HOW DO STUDENTS FLY SOUTH? MAYBE THEY HAVE A SPY AMONG US WHO TELLS EM WHEN WE'RE GOING TO FLY NORTH.

Listen up lawmakers to these wise words

NOTHING is more important than hearing from the reader - especially when your comments have to do with an issue of overriding social significance.

Lately we've been reading a lot about education, its financing and its effectiveness in educating our children. A while back, you may recall, a concerned teacher wrote to express disgruntlement with academia. Because of its importance, education is always a welcome subject in

Now, a student has written in to express his concerns. I know you'll find the remarks by Hans Wild compelling. Hans, a student at Stevenson High School in Sterling Heights, saw a copy of the other column via teacher Marie Brown.

This is what Hans has to say. "The system is going downhill rapidly, and several groups of people are to blame. "THE ATTITUDES of a portion of the students are totally wrong. As the teacher in the previous article stated, children and teens see school as a "place to come and socialize," and this is very true.

"These students are often the same ones who are late for class. Also, a lot of students declare that a certain class, or just school in general, is impossibly hard. However, these are, more often than not, the students who do not apply themselves; they don't try to do well. These are the students who have the wrong attitude.

"I feel that the acquiring of this attitude should not be blamed solely on the student, but also on the student's parents. All parents should push their children to develop good homework and study habits.

"There are also a few teachers who have the wrong school attitude. These are the teachers who hand their students a textbook, assign a few questions or problems each day, read off the answers the next day and give a test every other week.

This is not teaching.

"A teacher must know more about a subject than just what is in the textbook. A teacher must teach. He should help students with problems, answer questions, and lecture, indepth on material that a student can not get out of a regular textbook. This, in turn, is teaching.

Steve Barnaby

"Also to blame for the failing educational system are the administrators. Administrators are very naive when it comes to what goes on in the classroom. They do not see the bad attitudes of the teachers and the students. They do not know what real 'school life' is all about. They live in their own 'office' world.

"When it comes to disciplinary actions, the administrators are much too easy, and therefore, repetitious offenders are common.

"It is time that the administrators come down to earth and find out what really goes on in their schools. And when they find out the problems, they must do something to correct them.

It's nice to see a student with such deep concern. Thanks, Hans, for taking the time to write. Maybe the politicians in Lansing will stop messing around and get down to business once they learn what you already

Alcohol-free

Students must have a choice

T'S EXCITING that starting this fall nearly all of Michigan's public colleges and universities will give students the option of alcohol-free rooming.

It appears the only holdout is Michigan State University. MSU officials say they're still unsure whether to allow students to request non-drinking roommates. That's too bad, because MSU's dormitory system is by far the largest of any institution of higher learning in the state.

We urge MSU officials to join their public college and university counterparts before fall term nousing applications start pouring in.

That issue aside, credit is due those other institutions of higher learning who have adopted the alcohol-free option and to people who urged

It's a diverse lot, with members ranging from West Bloomfield High School senior Eric Worley, who testified before a state legislative commit-tee that it was his right to have the choice of a roommate who didn't use alcohol, to federal Judge Bernard Friedman, who was disturbed at the number of young people who came before him for alcohol and drug-related offenses.

Documentation that students recovering from substance abuse problems must have a safe place to live was provided by representatives of Maplegrove Youth Treatment Center in West

In the end, it took two responsive legislators to out enough pressure on the colleges and universities to get them to agree that students should have the same right to choose a non-drinking commate, as they now have to choose a nonsmoking roommate.

STATE REP. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, drew up the proposed legislation, while state Rep. Burton Leland, D-Detroit, when he was chair of the House Committee on Colleges and Universities, agreed to delay action on the bill before the committee, giving the universities until this spring to respond and ward off the leg-

Honigman previously had insisted on total compliance from public colleges and universities. He plans to meet with area members of an ad hoc committee to to discuss the next move. It's unfortunate that it took the threat of legislation to get public schools to make a commitment. Honigman has had no response from the association that represents private colleges.

We hope that private colleges will follow the lead of their public counterparts.

Although initially aimed at providing a safe haven for college students recovering from substance abuse problems, the alcohol-free room option is now much broader.

It's an acknowledgment that students have made a lot of choices about their lives.

It will also aid students who come from homes where alcohol has been a problem, students whose religion doesn't allow them to drink and students who simply don't want alcohol-related parties in their rooms

IT MAY even lead to an overall reduction in college-age drinking.

Rather than weakening their position on in loco parentis (charged with a parent's rights, duties and responsibilities), the schools have taken a further step toward increased student rights. Students have another opportunity to determine the kind of lifestyle they want.

We urge parents to take the first step in separating from their college-bound students and allow them to fill out their student housing applications for themselves.

That what's happening at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, which this fall will have a wing for students who chose not to drink or use drugs for any reason.

Making the decision to choose a roommate who doesn't smoke or who doesn't drink must be the student's choice, for it will be the student who must enforce it. The state's public institutions of higher learning can take pride in the example they are setting for the rest of the nation in stepping up to the fact that drinking is a choice, not a necessary part of college life. We hope that the public schools will live up to the spirit of their voluntary, verbal agreement, and we call upon MSU and the state's private colleges to make it unanimous.

All veterans merit honor

To the editor:

One often wonders what instills people's thoughts and remarks. Comments are often made through anger that are extremely insensitive. We are sure it was through those emotions that derogatory comments were made by a Mayflower VFW member in reference to our son and brother. Pat Eckles, an Army veteran who gave his life for his country on Aug. 12, 1969.

Certain members of the Mayflower VFW have felt it necessary to condemn the efforts within the Plymouth-Canton community to honor the Korean and Vietnam veterans by their nonsupportive comments and actions toward the memorial which is to be errected in Kellogg Park. We have been advised that a committee within the Mayflower VFW organization has been formed to alter the memorial plans.

This memorial has a very special meaning to our family. It represents the pride and honor we have felt for over 20 years for Pat's contribution to our country's freedom and the countless contributions of other Vietnam veterans. Those men and women who served or died from our community have been ignored far too long. They served as they were asked to serve. They supported our country. They deserve to have their memories honored and represented for standing with their country's decisions, during a very uncertain time. The Korean-Vietnam Memorial represents a healing of an emotional era of our country's history.

This "So what, who cares" attitude of the Mayflower VFW organization toward the death of Pat Eckles is extremely offensive. It replicates the ideals of a man that many VFW members fought against - Adolf Hitler! How can this organization be so prejudicial against a group of peo-ple who so honorably stood by their country when they were asked to do so? How can they justify criticism of a dead serviceman who has no voice for rebuttal?

We wonder if it were your son who died in Vietnam, Mr. VFW, would your feelings be the same. We wonder if you could look into the eyes of your granddaughter, who never had the opportunity to know her father, and utter the same cruel derogatory statements that you so freely make

Our family has had veterans in every war that our nation has been a part of except Korea. Howard Eckles served in World War I; Douglas Eckles served in World War II; Pat and Mike Eckles served in Vietnam. All of them served proudly and we proudly acknowledge this. And we are certainly offended by your comments and feel an apology is in order, not just to our family, but to all korean and Victory vaterans and Korean and Vietnam veterans and their families in our community.

Trashy TV irks viewer

To the editor:

A recent editorial in the Eccentric by Richard Periberg followed the old theme of "let us decide for ourselves" about what TV programs come into our homes. He was critical of Terry Rakolta's recent campaign against the sponsors of ads on some blatantly offensive TV pro-

Perlberg and others of his philosophy think it's merely a matter of simply turning off a program if it contains lewd or insulting materials. His basic concern is that Rakolta's approach could end up making decisions for him. I disagree.

Terry Rakolta deserves acclaim for seizing the initiative and doing something positive about directing attention to and against the sleazy programming that increasingly is being shown. She doesn't propose to censor TV. She is just asking advertisers to look closely at what they are paying for.

Some companies haven't paid enough attention. Do they really want their corporate names and their products associated with trashy TV scripts that deliberately offend and insult various groups in our society?

Most of these same companies pride themselves in their corporate personnel practices. They were quick to adopt equal opportunity and affirmative action programs, and they are becoming increasingly receptive to advice from employees and customers about business prac-

Fortunately, it is Rakolta's approach that our society is growing to accept. It is refreshing that her views have gained national attention and I hope she continues to be successful in encouraging a more sensitive approach by advertisers to TV scripts.

However, Richard Perlberg need not fear that raunchy TV shows will entirely disappear. There will probably always be advertisers and audiences for a few, no matter how successful Rakolta and her supporters sues weighing heavy on your minds and those issues are very pressing.

My mind for a day hasn't room for such thoughts. It's too busy drifting back to the stands behind first base at a stadium where palm trees cast shadows over the right field fence.
Only a week ago that wandering mind was joined by a body. If you've ever seen spring training baseball, you know why it's hard to leave it

This game was played at the win-ter home of the New York Mets, which, according to spring training guides, is in Port St. Lucie, but according to promotional brochures and billboards is actually in West St. Lucie, or maybe it is West Port St. Lucie. I get confused.
PORT ST. LUCIE is not your household word. As I prepared for Florida, no one I talked with knew where it was. I told friends it was near Port St. Ricky Ricardo and generally got in return that type of look you get when people think you really do need a vacation.

Port St. Lucie has been in Florida a long time. There is even a Club

Med there. But the area recently has taken off. The couple we traveled with could document the rapid growth of housing developments, shopping malls and commercial strip developments.

There are now two Port St. Lucie daily newspapers. Can a Port St. Lucie JOA be far behind?

But the Mets are not in Port St. Lucie. They are west of the river in West Port St. Lucie, which, near as I could tell, consists of a baseball park, a golf course and hundreds of acres of flat, grassy land with per-iodic signs saying, "Site of New Me-

BASEBALL IS a wonderful sport. There is not the aggression, the taking of turf that marks other sports. How many other sports do you know where the defense gets the ball?

In baseball you get the full measure of your opponent. There is no stalling in baseball. No holding the ball until the clock runs out. The other team always gets its last bats. It ain't over 'til it's over.

As good as the game gets during the season when lazy summer days turn into tension-packed, late-inning rallies, there may be no better time and place for baseball than in Florida in March.

The grass is green, the sky is blue, the sound of the bat on the ball is loud and true. Young men are playing a child's game while children of all ages bask in both the sun and the dreamed-of glory.

to men's toilets in public buildings. I wouldn't have known about it except that state Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, walked over to the Capitol press box where I was valiantly trying to prop open my eyelids one morning last week, and briefed me.

"There will have to be a 60-40 ratio now," said Pollack. She had read my column about Virginia's new 2-1 potty parity law, local crusader Penny Wright and the difficulty of amending Michigan's plumbing code in a similarly progressive fashion.

IT HAPPENED very quietly because the change didn't occur in the usual legislative arena.

Pollack and Rep. Judith Miller, R-Birmingham, are the first two women in a long time to serve on an obscure body called JCAR (pronounced "jay car"), the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules. Unless you're a fan of the Michigan Constitution, you couldn't have known it existed.

On JCAR, five senators and five representatives review rules being hatched by various administrative agencies such as the Plumbing Board.

As Pollack relates the late 1988 series of JCAR meetings: "I asked the ratio of bathrooms. They said 'we have it equal.' I said this is not good enough." Her staunch ally was Sen. Ed rules require in workplaces a 3-2 ratio of women's to men's water closets for smaller places, 4-3 for slightly larger and 5-4 and 6-5 ratios in still larger workplaces.

In theaters, sports arenas and stadiums, the ratios are 3-2, 4-3 and so forth, until the occupant load passes

In nightclubs, bars, cocktail lounges and restaurants, the 3-2 ratio is a little solider.

The rule for exhibition halls, libraries, recreation centers and passenger terminals also is improved. It's not 2-1, like Virginia's law, or 2.5-to 1, as Penny Wright and I advocate, but the 1989 code is an improvement.

AT THE OUTSET, I said this was done "very quietly."

Pollack, who likes to be known as an environmentalist, confessed twice: "When I got up here, I said I wouldn't do potty press." (To "do press" means to send out news re-

MICHIGAN'S PLUMBING code still is inadequate. Moreover, it applies only to new construction, not to buildings already in place.

It is my sad duty to report that Detroit's new, expanded, modern-ized, renovated, spruced up Coho Hall is worse than the old one in this regard. Or so women tell me.

Sen. Pollack reports women are invading the men's sanctuary when nature becomes unendurable. A 29year-old female relative confirms that report in the case of the dreadful Joe Louis Arena.

That's all right in an emergency, but a kinder, gentler nation should double the water closets in women's restrooms.

Some women's group needs to grab this issue.

African American unit: a help or hindrance?

The state Senate's vote to create an African American Affairs Commission left Sen. Jack Faxon shaking

"It looks better on paper than in terms of actual functions. We should enforce the civil rights laws . . . provide better social services . . . use it on the African American Museum in Detroit," said Faxon, D-

Farmington Hills.
He joined four Republicans in opposing two bills to create an African American Affairs Commission and an African American Interagency Council within the administration. Senate Bills 198 and 199 were passed

All other Observer & Eccentric area senators voted yes but took no part in the debate.

"I would like to remove my name as a co-sponsor," said Sen. Doug Carl, R-Utica, who voted no. Carl said his change of heart was due to "our impending fiscal problems and our inability to deliver on property tax reform.

FAXON WAS a member of the 1961 Constitutional Convention, which created a Civil Rights Commission to achieve compliance with anti-discrimination laws.

The 25-year legislative veteran said the CRC is underfunded, and the new African American Commmission will only drain off $250,000 to $300,000 for per diem, travel, staff and office expenses, according to a Senate staff analysis.

Freshman Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit, saw the issue as one of achieving respect for people whose cultural roots are in Africa. "We've never had cultural recognition. We have never been compensated for 200 years of bondage," said Smith, tivities with the Indian Affairs Com-

"We're proud we helped build this country for free - and still have not been compensated."

The sponsor, Sen. Phil Arthurhultz, R-Whitehall, said the AAAC would "review trends in our society . review state public policy, existing actions, housing, employment,

IF THE HOUSE also passes Arthurhultz's bills, a 15-member AAAC would, according to a staff analysis:

e Stimulate the study of the status of African Americans.

• Develop unified policies to serve their needs.

 Advise elected officials on state policies concerning African Americans, particularly in employment, civil rights and political rights.

e Review and approve federal, state and private grants adminis-tered by an Office of African American Affairs.

• Promote African American entrepreneurship.

• Strengthen home life by directing attention to critical problems confronting American Americans in single-parent households.

The second body, a 16-member AAA Interagency Council, would consist of state department heads or their designated staff members. With no additional budget, it would be charged with developing the annual report of the AAAC.

FAXON ALSO deplored what he saw as a fad of changing the minority's name from Afro-American to colored to Negro to black to African

"It used to be, when people of that background were referred to as Afro-Americans, they took exception. They said, 'we've been Americans for hundreds of years.'

"What about East Indians, who are very black in color but are not African Americans?" Faxon said. This concept of hyphenated Americans is outdated.'

Replied Smith: "We've had plenty of names over the years. We've never had the respect we deserve."

TV can be a teaching tool

ATTHEW DROZ MAY BE the only student in his sixth grade class who hasn't seen "Nightmare On Elm Street," but it doesn't seem

"I don't really have a desire to watch it," said Matt, whose mother Marilyn is the executive director of the Council for Children's Television and Media. "There are certain programs I'm not allowed to watch.

"I can't watch anything violent, like "The Equalizer" or "Wise Guy." My favorites are TV sitcoms, like "Family Ties" and "Different Strokes," he said. "I don't usually watch TV. I like to do other things instead.'

The Council was formed back in 1973 by the Junior League of Birmingham. Its main purpose is to encourage responsible television viewing as well as to suggest alternative activities.

"The Junior League funded us for three years and now I like to say we're self-sufficiently failing," said Marilyn, laughing. "But every time we think we're going to have to close our doors someone sends us a check and we keep going.".

BASED IN West Bloomfield, the Council has written a program that's gone into the curriculum in many area schools. It covers commercials, violence, special effects, stereotypes and values and thinking skills.

"Our mailing list is almost 2,000," she said, adding members receive a monthly newsletter full of helpful hints. "We don't have regular membership meetings, but what we do do is offer a speaker's bureau to any of our members who belong to other organizations.

One of the big things we do is to try to teach the kids about commercials," Marilyn said. "We're not against commercials, but there is a trend for them to go a little extreme. A lot of kids can't tell the difference between the commercials and the programs."

Some programs are nothing more extended commercials, she said, citing the Transformers cartoon series as an example.

"Some of the toy companies have made cartoons solely to sell their toys," she said. "The Transformers program killed off all of its leading characters so the kids would have to run out and buy different Transformers."

Signs of spring were easy to spot at the spring arts and crafts show, sponsored by the city of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department. The annual show was held Friday through Sunday, March 17-19, at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

The spring show has been held for about 14 years.

"It's good exposure for a small business person like me." Huffer's business, "Now and For-

Bush strives to put his imprint on presidency

staff writer

George Bush has to walk a fine

His task is to put his own imprint on the presidency, according to Hel-en Thomas, White House bureau chief for United Press International. He's trying to put forth the idea of a less conservative, more compassionate White House.

"Yes, he is attempting to promote a more caring administration," Thomas said. At the same time, Bush, the ultimate team player during the eight years Ronald Reagan was in office, doesn't want to be disloyal to his chief benefactor.

Thomas was in Ann Arbor Tuesday, March 14, for a Waterman Town Hall lecture, presented by the Margaret Waterman Alumnae Group. During the lecture, held at the Michigan League, she talked about the early days of the Bush administration.

THE PRESIDENT has put the defeat of Sen. John Tower's nomination for Secretary of Defense behind him. Bush nominated Rep. Richard Cheney of Wyoming as defense secretary, and played it safe with that appointment, she said.

The Tower debacle "has led to comments that he has hit the deck crawling," Thomas said.

"At last, he has the job that he coveted for so long. When he comes down to earth, he will face many problems."

The national debt is among the problems Bush faces at home. He also has work to do in dealing with foreign countries.

Bush has tried to put his meanspirited campaign against Massa-chusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis behind him, she said. He's a hard worker and is at his desk early each morning.

"Some reporters are longing for the good old laid-back Reagan era." Bush has demonstrated a conciliatory attitude toward the Congress, but the substance of that still has to be determined, Thomas said. The president has assembled a predominantly white, male, Eastern establishment cabinet, with just one woman included. That's not much different from the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt, in which Frances Perkins served as labor secretary.

Bush apparently plans to keep his campaign promise of no new taxes, "although we will pay the bill one way or another," Thomas said.

RONALD REAGAN, the most conservative president of recent times, turned the country to the right, she said. He was the most pro-tected and isolated president, "too often unaware but politically very shrewd. He slept at night. We

Thomas, who has been covering the White House for UPI since 1960, had some kind words for Reagan.

The former president made a 180degree turn after striking a remarkably close friendship with Mikhail Gorbachev. The men realized a nuclear war involving the United States and the Soviet Union could never be won.

The arms agreement "and the beginning of the end, we hope, of the Cold War," will be part of Reagan's

SHE WAS born in Winchester, Ky., in 1920, one of nine children of an immigrant Lebanese family. She grew up in Detroit and graduated from Wayne State University in 1942.

Thomas moved to Washington,

D.C., starting her journalism career at the Washington Daily News.

A year later, she joined UPT's Washington bureau as a radio writer, and transferred to the national staff in 1956. She covered the Justice Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and joined the UPI White House staff after the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy.

Thomas, the author of "Dateline: White House," is the first woman to supervise coverage of the White House for a major news service. In 1975, she was the first woman elected president of the White House Correspondents Association. Thomas was inducted into the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame in 1986.

"Sam Donaldson gets the most mail." Many letter writers don't approve of aggressive reporting; that's a case of people wanting to kill the messenger who brings bad news, Thomas said.

Press conferences remain the only forum in which presidents can be questioned and held accountable, she said. She took no joy in the fall from grace of Richard Nixon during Watergate or of Lyndon B. Johnson during Vietnam.

"On the other hand, there is some satisfaction in knowing that no man is above the law."

Secrecy is more harmful "than any so-called news leak."

"I've found that people can handle the truth and they deserve no less."

On-off button's an effective censor

The Council doesn't get into letter writing campaigns and pressuring sponsors, networks or television or radio stations; she said.

"WE TRY not to get ugly," she said. "We may nip at their heels a little, but we aren't looking to put anyone out of business. If you don't like a show, don't watch it. The ratings will go down, the sponsors will go away and the show will be can-

The group does write letters on occasion to the writers of various television programs.

"We'll tell them that they have a lot more power than they think. One example is we'll ask them why they have to write into the script that a character is smoking," she said. "The answers we usually get are that it's very boring to show two peo-ple talking so they'll have one of them smoke. On one particular show that I really like the main character smokes, and the answer I got after I wrote that letter was that the actor himself is a chain smoker.

We try to stress that since 1937 televisions have been built with a censor button. It's called the on and off switch," said Marilyn, an elemen-tary school teacher. "Our job is to encourage families to take the re-sponsibility themselves.

your own values is another helpful

hint for parents.
"If they see a show that deals with sexuality, tell them how you feel," Marilyn said. "Be vocal and don't be afraid. It's so much easier to scream at the girl on TV about what you think she did wrong than to scream at your own kids and lecture them about what they shouldn't do. They'll get the message and it won't be as Many of the gains that were mada in the television industry were lost during the Reagan administration, she said.

"He deregulated everything," Marilyn said. "The FCC used to limit the number of commercials you could show during children's programming, but they don't anymore."

Also, before deregulation a toy company would never have been permitted to produce cartoons based around toys they sold, she said.

'It's our hope that President Bush will bring some of these things back," she said. "He does seem to be family oriented.

"Our concern is kids," she said.
"We don't work through threats. We try to use a positive approach."

CHRIST OUR SAVIOR

Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church, 14175 Farmington Road, Livonia, will be observing Holy Week and Easter with special ser-

To help understand the meaning of the Passover, the congregation will share in a passover meal at 6 p.m. Maundy Thursday. A Communion service will follow at 7:30 p.m.

Good Friday will be observed with a service of the cross at 12:30 p.m. and a candlelight Tenebrae service at 7;30 p.m.

Easter Sunday will be celebrated with a 6:30 a.m. sunrise communion service and festival communion services at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Six choirs, vocal, instrumental and bells will highlight the worship with special music. Easter breakfast will be served by the men of the congregation from 6:30-10:30 a.m.

ECUMENICAL SERVICE

Seven Livonia churches will gather at noon Friday, March 24, for an ecumenical Good Friday service at St. Matthew United Methodist Church, 30900 Six Mile, between Merriman and Middlebelt roads, Livonia. A combined choir, made up of members from all the churches, will sing. Pastors and lay members from the participating congregations will lead the prayers, the Passion History reading and the meditations. The service is open to the public.

Churches participating include Church of the Savior, Reformed; Grand River Baptist; Holy Trinity Lutheran; Riverside Park Church of God; St. Edith Catholic; St. Matthew United Methodist and St. Timothy Presbyterian U.S.A.

FAITH MORAVIAN

In keeping with a centuries-old Moravian tradition, members of Faith Community Moravian Church in Canton will assemble at the church at 6 a.m. Easter Sunday and then travel to a local cemetery as a demonstration of their faith in the resurrection.

Since 1732, Moravians throughout the world have gathered every Easter morning at a cemetary before dawn. They huddle for a brief service to sing and recite a confession of faith. After a breakfast at the church, the congregation will meet at 10:30 a.m. for the regular Sunday service.

The Moravian Church is a main line Protestant denomination that was organized in 1457 in what is present-day Czechoslovakia by the followers of the reformer and martyr John Hus.

LIVONIA ASSEMBLY

Livonia Assembly of God, 33015 W. Seven Mile, near Loveland, will have Good Friday services from 1-2:30 p.m. March 24.

moral perspectives

Rev. Robert Schaden

Religious tolerance calls for education

Religious tolerance sounds like a fine idea. It is one with which most of us can agree. However, events of the past few weeks give reason to question the strength on which it

Salman Rushdie and Madonna, regardless of their intentions, have raised a question much larger than a book or a Pepsi commercial.

Tolerance is a rather shaky concept at best. It is only one step away from intolerance. There were not many years between the tolerance for Jews in Germany and the Holocuast. Witness the flimsy peace in Northern Ireland and the predictable. flare-ups in South Africa. Today's violence is seldom more than a stone's throw from yesterday's tolerance.

Tolerance based on law has never been a stable arrangement. That, of course, is not to suggest removing the laws. However, it does suggest that was a read of something that we are in need of something that goes beyond laws which do little more than stall or contain disaster.

Seldom can they prevent it.

That kind of respect is apparently not present in "Satanic Verses" nor can it be attributed to Madonna's rendition of religion and dance. The issue, however, is much larger than any one author or entertainer. It goes far beyond the concept of free-dom of expression on the page or the

THE DICTIONARY defines the sacred as that which is beyond criticism or ridicule. By that definition, we live in a world where the sacred is difficult to find.

Considering the diversity of the human family and the evolutionary nature of understanding truth, an expectation of agreement is beyond re-

But agreement is hardly necessary for respect. I may not under stand any more about your religion than the fact that it is sacred to you, but that in itself should be enough to command respect. In fact, only when I can respect what is sacred in your life can I truly appreciate the sacred in my own life.

Perhaps a piece of the difficulty lies in a void of understanding. The media keeps us informed of the shortcomings or various religious groups. Stand-up comedians and talk-show hosts alike have made religion. grist for their monologues. But as for understanding why this or that concept is sacred to a particular group of people, even our well-edu-cated society falls short.

A friend of mine recently returned from a business trip to Japan. While he was there, he was invited to a service in a Shinto temple. Although he still aspires to his own religion, I rather doubt that he would appreciate slurs against the Shinto religion any more than if they were directed against his own. against his own.

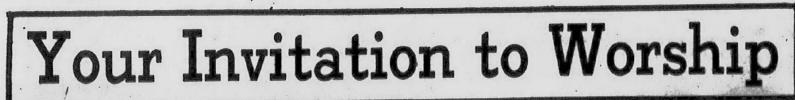

BECAUSE HE has a sense of the acred, even someone else's sacred. he does not need the law of tolerance to give the illusion of respect.

Perhaps we cannot all go to a Shinto temple. But we could do well to think about how we might educate ourselves and our children in our homes and in our schools to a sense of the sacred, their own as well as that of others.

Until then, we will have to settle for commercials in poor taste, insensitive authors and even death threats that reach around the globe.

the year, the Consumer Mailbag does an "Eco-Notes" column where topics of environmental interest are discussed. Recently, three reports have come into the Concern Office about water that I wanted to share with

WATER CONSUMPTION:

A five-year survey done by the U.S. Geological Survey shows a drop in water use in the U.S. 1980-85, the date of the last survey.

The report shows a 10 percent de-cline in both fresh and saline-water drawn from lakes, streams, wells and springs for use in homes, offices, farms, industry and thermoelectric power plants.

However, since the USGS began its survey, water use has more than doubled from less than 200 billion to almost 400 billion gallons per day.

One possible reason for the decline in water use may have been because water removal costs have increased as water levels dropped with increased use in the past.

Another reason may be that more water was being recycled for industry and irrigation while commodity production dropped.

Last summer's drought may show increased water use, especially in areas like Nebraska. It withdrew twice as much as usual from groundwater supplies and began irrigation of crops as month earlier than usual. In Washington, D.C., demand for water during the first half of July was 24 percent above average.

Following care labels can save clothing

As a senior citizen there are some new things that I come across that I find terribly confusing. The latest is the new labeling in clothing that supposedly tells you how to care for the garment. Have you any idea what all those circles and squares mean? If so, could you pass the message on?

> Mrs. S. E. Eastern Reader

Dear Mrs. E.:

Once clarified, the care labels in clothing are worthwhile. They save time and, if followed, prolong the life of the garment.

Labels for washable garments are maked with a "U" shaped symbol. Inside the symbol are further washing instructions. A hand is pictured if hand washing is required, and, if necessary, the water temperature is

If the item can be dried in a dryer, the symbol is a square with a circle inside - it looks just like a miniature dryer. An item that cannot be put in the dryer is marked accordingly - a square with three vertical lines means it must be drip-dried and a square with a curved line that looks like a clothesline means the item should be line-dried. Some other symbols are: a tiny iron, means ironing is necessary and safe; a triangle means the item can be bleached; and a small circle means dry cleaning is required.

Any of the above symbols that have a large "X" through them means do not use that method.

Since these symbols are worldwide, the temperature settings for washing and ironing items are in metric. Medium hot water is 50 to 70 degrees Celsius and a hot iron is 200 Dear Jo What is the best emergency treat-ment for burns? Mrs. K.L.,

Senior Homemaker Dear Mrs. L.:

The best emergency treatment for minor or first degree burns (defined as a burn involving only the outer layer of skin) is cold (not iced) water. For the best effect, the burned area should be immersed in the cold water immediately. The cold water eases the pain and acts as a cleanser.

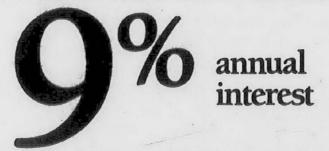

One of the poorest emergency treatments for burns is the application of butter. Butter does not relieve pain and it may harbor bacteria which could eventually lead to an infection.

Resale shop owners are accustomed to being insulted. It's par for the course, they say. But resalers are working to change the notion that their stores smell funny and are only attractive to those who are too poor to shop elsewhere.

Shoppers who venture into resale establishments are likely to have some stereotypes changed, said Victoria Haltom, owner of It Ain't Bloomingdales in Detroit.

One woman stood in the middle of my store and said, 'Gosh, it doesn't even smell,' " Haltom said. Another potential customer picked up a new toy and remarked: "They just put these things in their store so people will think they have nice things," Haltom recalled.

"Eventually you have to get a sense of humor about these things,"

But Haltom and other area resale store owners are doing more than grinning and bearing it. They have formed the Metro Resale Association to offer each other support, share information and join forces for business purposes.

"If you own a franchise, you have a lot of help, a lot of support. Resalers are by themselves," Haltom said. "People in resale businesses are hungry to talk to each other."

THE METRO RESALE Association was formed last year and has 10 members. Another 12, including owners of suburban Wayne and Oakland county stores, are expected to join before the group's April meeting, Haltom said.

Besides just talking about the difficulties their businesses must face, the local association has done co-op advertising and is investigating the possibility of getting group liability and employee health insurance. Many resalers also belong to the National Association of Resale & Thrift Shops, which sends members a newsletter full of information on legal issues, taxes and other issues relevant to their businesses

Resale, or second-hand, shops have been around for decades, but the trend really took hold about five or six years ago, Haltom said.

At that time, she said, "garage sales started to be big business, and that really helped the resale business." Haltom described garage sales as "the non-professional approach to what happens when you

Haltom and others stress the fact that they are professionals who must work harder than their small business peers in order to overcome the negative image resale has had.

Boating industry offers bridge over troubled waters

By Peggy Autino staff writer

People involved in the buying, selling, maintenance and storage of boats will no longer have to say, "I'll see you in court" when a dispute involving recreational craft arises.

The Michigan Boating Industries Association, based in Livonia, is launching an Alternate Dispute Resolution program designed to get the opposing parties to sit down and agree on a solution instead of filing a lawsuit. It will involve volunteers acting as mediators and arbitrators and will cost the parties a fraction of the price of litigation - in terms of both time and money.

"The whole premise behind the program is to take the disputes out of the courtroom and out of the highcan very easily mediate a dispute and everybody's happy," said Anne Masterson, MBIA administration ex-

Other industries use alternative dispute resolution programs, but this is the first of its kind involving recreational boating cases, Masterson said. She called Michigan, which has more registered boats than any other state, a leader in the recreational boating industry.

Masterson said the service would be useful in a situation where a boat owner is not satisfied with work done at a marina, for example. Typically, the customer would refuse to pay the bill, the marina would refuse to release the boat and one or both parties might have to file suit.

"THE COST OF litigating has gotten so high that oftentimes you eimade up primarily of marina operather have to take your lumps and not tors and boat dealers. The program

lot of money in a case to try to get some . . . satisfaction," Masterson

Under the MBIA alternative program, the parties could meet with a mediator to discuss the issue. The mediator's decision would be nonbinding. If the parties are not satisfied with the results, or they do not want to use a mediator, they could present the matter to a three-mem-ber panel of arbitrators. The parties can choose from among a group of arbitrators, but both sides would have to agree in advance to abide by that panel's decision.

The MBIA has budgeted about $40,000 to cover start-up costs, Masterson said. The cost to those who use the service has not been decided, but she estimated it will be $200 to $250. That charge is to cover administrative and processing fees.

have a pool of 20 to 30 volunteers.

The concept of arbitration is not new to the marine industry. Freighters and other commercial craft have been using it for more than 100 years in New York and London, Masterson said.

"It was set up because the courts don't have the technical knowledge to address the problems of the marine industry because it's so specific," she said. "We're trying to take that program and adapt it to the recreational boating industry which, too, is highly specific and difficult to understand unless you are directly involved with it."

It's all in the family when it comes to selling carpets

By Peggy Aulino

Some families pass down jewels or china. The heirloom of choice among the Kramers is a carpet store.

A.R. Kramer Flooring was established in 1925 by Archie R. Kramer, whose son, Alan, came aboard in the 1950s. Earlier this year the business was bought by Alan Kramer's sons, Art and Mike.

The family-owned store, on Middlebelt between Five Mile and Six Mile in Livonia, is a holdout in this age of chain stores and subsidiaries. The Kramers say their continuing independence is based more on a desire to maintain quality control than on any grand scheme on the part of their ancestors.

"We don't have any great desires to get big," said Art. "There's really no value in it for us. You lose basic control over your business to a

The Kramer strategy is to be involved in day-to-day operations and stand behind their service. The store sells carpet and flooring that can be installed either by Kramer employees or subcontractors.

"It comes down to service and being able to meet the needs of people," Art said. "My grandfather was always very particular with that. That's really been the mainstay of the business.

THE KRAMERS SAID they have as much faith in their subcontractors as they have in their own employees.

'Sometimes you even have a little better leverage over subcontractors, being that they would like to continue working," Art said.

Mike said chain stores try "to get the customer to think about price rather than quality." And he believes the Kramer sales force is more knowledgeable than the competitors and better able to "make sure the customer's buying the right product.

"In some instances, they might pay a little more (at Kramer's), but they know the finished product is going to be exactly what they want,"

Kramer Flooring counts among its larger accounts much of Ford Motor Co.'s North American operations and the University of Michigan.

The store has customers whose grandparents bought carpets from Archie Kramer, Art said. "Much like we are the third generation of Kramers here, we are on the third generation of their families,"

And 89-year-old Manny Eisenberg, hired by the store's founder, is still selling carpets for Archie's grandsons. Eisenberg said he worked in carpet mills before going into the sales end, and Mike called him the best salesman in the business.

THE ORIGINAL Kramer store was on the West Side of Detroit, where as youngsters the current proprietors used to visit their grandfather. The store moved to its present location in 1971. Archie Kramer died two years ago, and Alan Kramer is retired and living in Flor-

"I wasn't really planning on coming into the business," said Art Kramer. "My grandfather felt otherwise. He would give me different things that I would find interesting to do, and the next thing I knew I'm working on a regular basis.

The fact is 35-year-old Art Kramer is the president of the company. Mike, 29, is the vice president, but neither of them places much stock in titles.

Art, who lives in Green Oak Township, handles accounting and operations; Mike, a Farmington Hills resident, does marketing. But Mike summed up the division of duties this way: "I don't know how to do what he does, and he doesn't know how to do what I do."

Business held liable for abuse of drugs

In their recently published book, Drugs and Alcohol in the Workplace," Drusilla Campbell and Marilyn Graham state that for every 10 employees at least one is impaired by chemical dependency.

The cost to business is in excess of $100 billion each year. These employees take home salaries for working at two-thirds the capacity of healthy workers, receive employee benefits while having four times as many accidents, and are a primary cause of employee-related discipline and morale problems. Regardless of the size or type of business, "polydrug" abuse has been described as "the most serious problem facing American business between now and the end of the century.'

In recent years, the legal system has made it clear that employers cannot afford to ignore this problem any longer. A growing majority of companies have been held liable for failure to remove an employee whose substance abuse endangers co-workers. While most managers acknowledge these grim statistics, many are reluctant to provide sources of information and outside assistance to employees, let alone consider the possiblity of offering in-house treatment services. The reasons behind this form of "managerial denial" are numerous; many honestly don't know that their business is being negatively affected by employees. Business "losses" may be attributed to the economy, shoplifting, foreign com-petition, union hassles or seasonal downturns. Other employers deny tect" the image and reputation of their company. This is especially true when the owners/managers are themselves chemically depend-

"Most everyone in upper man-agement was an alcoholic," says

one retired business executive from Grosse Pointe. "And since we were employed in the health-care industry, it's ludicrous to think that several major company decisions were made while management was intoxicated." Another common reason for managerial denial is a feeling of hopelessness about the whole issue. "She's going through a divorce and supporting three kids. . ." ". . . if I were married to him, I'd drink too." ". . .his wife just died." These are just a few of the many excuses that serve to encourage abusers to ignore their problem.

Breaking through the denial as business owners and managers is crucial if employers are to take responsibility in helping to control chemical abuse in the workplace. What businesses don't seem to realize is how much clout they have. When the boss says, "Get well or get out," the addict/alcoholic has no choice but to look for help. Next week, we will discuss how business owners and managers can identify a drug-impaired workplace and sources of available assistance.

Reduced contribution

The original idea of 401(k)s, of course, was to let corporate employees build bigger retirement nest eggs by setting aside as much as 10 percent of their salaries in pretax dollars — up to $30,000 a year for an executive making $300,000. Then Congress stepped in and tightened the tax treatment of withdrawals as can be seen from the accompanying table. It also cut the maximum salary deferral to $7,313 for 1988 and $7,627 for 1989.

Tougher restrictions

Since the 401(k)'s inception in 1978, participants have enjoyed taxdeferred growth of their contributions as well as the growth of the matching amounts put in by the employer. Participants would pay taxes when they withdraw money, but they are barred from taking money out until age 59½, quit the job or suffer a financial hardship. It is the last point that the IRS has now defined.

Hardship withdrawal rules

IRS' new 401(k) regulations permit "hardship withdrawals" but only under narrowly described circumstances. Acceptable uses for hardship withdrawals include immediate and heavy medical expenses incurred either by the employee, his/ her spouse or a dependent, the cost

Proving hardship lets the partici-pant withdraw money from a 401(k), but it does not excuse that person from paying taxes. The cash taken out is subject to income tax plus a 10-percent penalty for early with-drawal. Borrowing from a 401(k) is usually a better idea, since there is no tax or penalty on the loan. Many plans let the participants borrow at least part of their balance, to a maximum of $50,000, which must be repaid over five years or longer if the loan is for buying a house. And the participants won't have to go through the trouble of proving a hardship.

Greater Livonia Expo

Cold calling sure can tear up a pair of shoes. You go through miles of walking (and driving) just to make one solid contact . . . if you're lucky. And even if you are fortunate enough to get your foot in the door, you're liable to get a set of crushed toes in the process.

The third annual Greater Livonia Expo puts the shoe on the other foot. Your potential customers will come to you and all you have to do is sell. In three days you'll accomplish the equivalent of weeks of cold calling. But wait, it gets better. All this can be yours for as low as $480!

It all sounds great and you're probably waiting for the other shoe to fall, but there are no hidden costs. Unlike other business shows, everything from your wastebasket to electrical service is free of charge to all exhibitors. In addition, there will be special events and a multimedia advertising campaign to attract decision-making members of the local business community.

So if you'd like to walk a mile in our shoes, call the Livonia Chamber of Commerce at 427-2122. Ask for Mike Cooney. We're sure he has something in your size.

T-bills offer safety and liquidity

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

What can you tell me about Tbills? Do you have a list of Federal Reserve Banks or can you tell me where I can find one?

Treasury bills, or T-bills as they are often called, are short-term obligations issued by the U.S. government and help set the trend for short-term interest rates. They have appeal among investors because of safety, liquidity and exemption from state and local taxes.

One of the problems for individuals is the minimum investment, which is $10,000. The maturities are three, six and 12 months, and the treasury does not redeem them before maturity. However, T-bills can be sold before they mature through a broker or bank.

lar intervals like most other interest-bearing obligations. Instead, they are sold at a discount from their redemption price, with the difference being the interest payment. The three- and six-month bills are sold at regular weekly treasury auctions, usually on Mondays. The 12-month T-bills are offered at auction just

While T-bills can be bought through a broker or a bank, there is a fee. To avoid that fee, an individual can buy directly from Federal Reserve Banks or branches. All that is necessary is to complete a form, referred to as a tender and available from Federal Reserve Banks and send it with a check for $10,000.

A PART OF your $10,000 will be refunded to you, so it is as if you bought the T-bill at a discount and it will be worth $10,000 when it matures.

The minimum investment is $10,000, but larger investments can be made at $5,000 multiples.

The bid must be made in person or by mail and arrive in advance of the auction. When an investor buys the T-bills, no certificate is issued. The investor's name is simply recorded in the Treasury Department's books.

Most individuals make a non-competitive bid, meaning they will pay whatever the average market rate is at the auction. That rate will be determined by the competitive bids nade by large institutional inves-

AN INDIVIDUAL can submit a competitive bid, but then he runs the risk of paying too much or being shut out if the bid is too low.

Since T-bills are issued by the U.S. government, they are considered as safe as any piece of paper can be.

If you want an application to order directly from the government, call the Detroit office at 961-6880 and tell them you want a tender. You must specify whether you want a tender for a three-month, six-month or 12-month T-bill.

Or you can write to the Bureau of the Public Debt, Department of the Treasury, Washington D.C. 20239 and give them the same information.

Thomas O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments but will answer them only through this column. Broadway lights

They shine for star of 'Les Miz'

By Kevin Teevens special writer

OE KOLINSKI can look out his apartment window and see his name in lights — on Broadway.

"I live up the street from the Broadway Theatre, and there I am," said Kolinski, by phone from his New York apartment. Kolinski, a Detroit Catholic Central graduate and former student at the University of Detroit, is performing in the lead role of Enjolras in the Broadway musical production of "Les Miserables." The actor, 35, is well known to Detroit-area audiences. He found his calling in high school, when he appeared in numerous musicals at Mercy High School in Farmington Although Broadway is quite a distance from where he started his career, the road trip has been "We haven't played to an empty seat in the house since we opened in 1987," said Kolinski.

PRIOR TO APPEARING as Enjolras, Kolinski played the role of Feuilly, another lead in "Les Miz," as it has come to be called.

"It has been a busy time. Life is very concentrated here. You can accomplish a great deal in a short time." he said.

Kolinski has performed on Broadway in "Sunday in the Park with George," "The Three Musk-eteers," "The Human Comedy" and "Dance a Little Closer." In 1981, he sang the role of the celebrant in the 10th anniversary production of Bernstein's Mass at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. From 1974 to 1976 he was a student at the University of Detroit and performed in the Marygrove Theatre program. He had lead roles in many productions includ-ing "A Cry of Players," "The Me Nobody Knows" and "Godspell." In 1977 he sang the role of Leo in the Michigan Opera Theatre produc-tion of "Regina." His last metropolitan-Detroit appearance was in the 1985 production of "Kumi Leml" at the Birmingham Theatre, in the role of Max.

Growing up and performing in the Detroit area had a very strong impact on Kolinski's career. He said two major influences were Dominic Missimi of the University of Detroit and Larry Teevens, chairman of the music department at Mercy High School.

MISSIMI, WHO currently teaches at Northwestern University, was then acting chairman of the U-D Theatre Department.

"I was working in O'Halloran's flower shop on McNichols, and Dominic came in and said he could get me into the program at U-D/ Marygrove. I jumped at it like a lected for the show was Karl Gallmeyer, a graduate of Wayne State University and a resident of -Bloomfield Hills.

"I've sung with the Wayne Jazz :" Ensemble and the Royal Court Sing-ers," Gallmeyer said. "Mercy offers the perfect opportunity to explore musical theater."

Kolinski commented on the great opportunities in Detroit for theatrical training. "In New York they call community theater off-off Broadway. The availability of good com-munity theater in Detroit is fantastic. If you want to get into theater, there is so much to do in the Detroit area to develop and hone your craft. Like anything else, you've just got to get out and do it."

THE BERKSHIRE HILTON IS REASON ENOUGH TO RETREAT TO ANN ARBOR THIS WEEKEND.

Of course, so are the antique shows, the art museums and the shopping.

A weekend in Ann Arbor is a roman-tic interlude. Nestled in the Berkshire Hilton, the two of you. Surrounded Venture out to the galleries, the theaters, the shops and the antique shows in Saline.

Retreat to the luxurious privacy of your guestroom at the Berkshire. It's like residing in a fine estate home. Later, you'll enjoy the convenience of 24-hour room service, a whirlpool or sauna, or a room service, a wilinpool or sauna, or a few laps in our resort-sized indoor pool. Come taste what happens when our renowned European Chef Wally turns his genius to American cuisine. You'll

Lack of action slows drama

Brook Theatre production of Athol Fugard's "The Road to Mecca" continue through Sunday on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills. For ticket information call the box office at

By Cathie Breidenbach special writer

South African playwright Athol Fugard has few contemporary peers. The dramatist who wrote the acclaimed "Master Harold and the Boys" weaves together plot, character and language with acknowledged mastery, but in 'The Road to Mecca" words - splendid though they may be - can't compensate for the poverty of action.

Terence Kilburn, who directs the Meadow Brook production, does what he can to instill action in the three-character, one-set play that, despite its profound ideas and admitted charm, almost runs aground on the old shoals of too much "tell" and

This least political of Fugard's plays unravels a crisis in the life of Helen Martins, an aging Afrikaner woman who "didn't resign herself to being a meek, church-going little widow" when her husband died. Instead she became an artist who celebrates light and sculpts creations the townspeople call grotesque mon-strostities.

With sensitivity and a refreshing lack of cliche, Fugard's play chal-lenges conventional ideas about artistic freedom, religion, conformity

atre's mixed production has moments that shine as brightly, as the theater's very best, but the play's minimal action and the production's sometimes-heavy-handed character-izations of Helen and her young schoolteacher friend, Elsa Barlow, dull the glow of those moments.

ARTISTIC DIRECTOR Kilburn has Barlow wander into the bedroom to change clothes four or five times in the course of an evening. The audience craves action, so why not have Elsa change clothes as often as a teenager? Watching the full-bodied Miss Barlow don and discard clothes offers a pleasing sight in lieu of real

Set designer Peter Hicks creates a magical room that blends the rosy colors of a dessert sunrise and sets them shimmering with shards of mirrors scattered on the walls like stars in a dawn sky. The room, which Helen the artist created, reflects her vision. Theatrical magic happens when she lights a few candles and the room that is her personal Mecca comes alive with light and a primitive, whimsical wonder. Then, character, theme and set converge for a magical moment of theater not easily forgotten.

Anne Sheldon plays Helen as a Grandma Moses kind of artist facing failing eyesight, arthritic hands and the encroaching frailty of age. Sheldon's Helen is innocent, sweet and kindly - but not nearly tough enough to have challenged the bigotry of righteous religion or to exercise artistic freedom amidst the provincial prejudices of a small South African town.

The minister, played by William Le Massena with assurance that his white, masculine, majority opinion prevails, tries to persuade Helen she is too old to live in her house among her idolatrous creations. He wants her to move to the town old folks

Under the pressure of age and uncertainty, Helen becomes a whimpering wretch who sits

WHICH ARE WE to believe? That Helen really is a heroine with the strength to defy the conventions of a provincial town and its religion? Or that she is the passive old woman thoroughly discombobulated by mi-nor frailties of age? Sheldon creates an endearing and lovable Helen. If only she didn't make Helen a wimp

Retaining its Western Lakes Activities Association championship won't be as easy for the Plymouth Canton girls track team as it was winning the title.

The Chiefs had some major graduation losses, including all-stater Angie Miller, who was a two-time Class A high jump champion.

But that doesn't mean Canton lacks the talent to repeat, according to coach George Przygodski. The difference between the 1988 and 1989 squads is the amount of proven tal-

"Obviously, our talent won't lie so much with our senior class," Przygodski said. "Last year, we came in with a team that knew what it could do. This year there are a lot of unknowns. At this point, we're not sure what we can do." Przygodski isn't worried about finding replacements. Ninety girls reported for spring practice, and there ought to be enough new talent in a group that size to remain competitive as Canton seeks a fifth consecutive Western Division dual-meet

"THINK ABOUT that," he said. "We can fill two buses with kids.

We might not have a state champ in there, but we're going to be deep. It's just a matter of finding out where we're going to put everybody. Because we're so young, we don't

One area in which there can be no doubt about Canton's ability is the distance events. The Chiefs, under the direction of Przygodski, have won back-to-back WLAA cross country championships and will benefit from the strength of that program.

Seniors Cindy Spessard, Lynda Schendel and Kris Marquard and juniors Lori Penland, Missy

Cindy Spessard is one of many accomplished distance runners on the Canton girls track and field team.

Jasnowski, Cathy McCabe and Adrienne Garrow are veterans in both sports. In the last league meet, Spessard finished second in the 3,200meter run, Marquard third and McCabe fifth. Penland was fifth in the 1,600.

In addition, senior Marnie Smith and sophomores Carolyn Way, Ann Dibble and Amy Smith will add to girls track

the enormous depth in the distance

"I think we're going to be outstanding," Przygodski said. "That's definitely going to have to be the strength of our team.

"WITH OUR depth, we don't want to double kids in the distance events. The distinct advantage comes in the 3,200. We'll be running somebody who hasn't run all day, and they'll be going up against someone who's run two or three races already."

And, of course, that edge will carry over to the distance relays. As far as combinations, "nothing is in cement," Przygodski said, and it's easy to see why.

"We can probably put together two 3,200 relay teams and be very competitive using completely different kids," he said. "We can probably do the same in the 1,600."

In the high jump, Canton returns a good one in junior Heather Spencer, who was third in the WLAA last year. She has jumped 5-2, but it would be unfair to compare her to Miller, who set the school record at 5-7% and is on scholarship at Western Michigan, Przygodski said.

"How often do you get somebody who's jumping at the level Angie was?" he said. "But (Spencer) is a good jumper, a good technician and she'll be very competitive in the WLAA.

"(Miller) was great for our program," he added. "She did a great job for four years, but we've got to move on. It's important for our program to build on what Angie, as well as the other seniors, did."

LYMOUTH SALEM had Observerland's best swimmer in junior Ron Orris, but there wasn't much distance between the Rocks and neighboring Plymouth Canton in the quality of their teams.

In fact, the Chiefs, runners-up to Salem in the Western Lakes Activities Association meet, placed three swimmers on the 1989 All-Observ-

The Rocks, who finished seventh at the Class A meet, have two first-team members, headlined by Orris in the 200-yard individual medley. Canton's medley relay team was the area's best while Salem had the top freestyle

Of course, Orris could have been the first-team choice in most individual events, but swimmers are only allowed to be named in one. Orris, Mark Papierski (Livonia Churchill), Troy Shumate (Redford Catholic Central), and Jeff Homan (Canton) are repeat selections. Salem coach Chuck Olson was named Observerland coach of the year ter leading the Rocks to their second straight WLAA title. Salem was 9-2 in dual meets.

ALL-OBSERVER FIRST TEAM

200-yard medley relay: Jim Hartnett, Jeff Homan, Bryce Anderson and Mitch Timberlake, Plymouth Canton: The quartet had the area's best time and set a varsity record, clocking 1:41.08 for 12th place at the state meet. With Scott Swartzwelter on the team instead of Hartnett, Canton was first at the WLAA meet.

"All four of these guys had great seasons this year," Coach Hooker Wellman said. "The three seniors (Hartnett, Homan and Timberlake) will be very difficult to replace as swimmers and good people."

200-yard freestyle: Mike Hill, senior, Salem: Hill was a state qualifier in four events, and he was the WLAA champion in the 200- and 100-yard freestyle events.

Hill also was a member of the 200 medley and 400 freestyle relay teams, both of which broke Salem school records. He finished ninth in the 100 freestyle at the state meet and swam a leg in the freestyle relay team that took third at state. He was a team

"Mike has been one of the top freestylers in the area and state," Olson said. "He showed teammates and opponents the attitude that 'Salem swimmers don't get 200 individual medley: Ron Orris, junior, Salem: Orris has one year of eligibility remaining and already he holds school records in seven events. Orris is a nine-time WLAA individual champion, and he qualified in every individual event for the state meet. His best 200 IM time was 1:54.02. His other records are 1:40.44, 200 freestyle; 21.80, 50 freestyle; 51.27, butterfly; 47.65, 100 freestyle; 4:43.02, 500 freestyle; 1:00.11, breaststroke.

He was an all-state selection in the 200 freestyle, 100 butterfly and 400 freestyle relay. All this and he's a 3.85 student, too.

Minch state's top gymnast

staff writer

Westland John Glenn gymnast Wendy Minch did her floor exercises routine to the music of "Wild Wild West." by the Escape Club, during Saturday's individual gymnastics state meet at Troy High School. During the meet, Minch, a sophomore, out-gunned her competition and escaped with three titles.

Minch won the all around competition on Fri-day, then wrapped up victories on the balance beam and the uneven parallel bars on Saturday.

Minch, in her first high school season, said she felt "great," about the titles. "I don't know how to explain it. It doesn't seem like it's real."

Glenn coach Pam Yockey was expecting the all-around title, "because she's so consistent." The beam victory, however, was a "pleasant surprise" to Yockey. Minch placed fourth in the floor exercises but did not qualify for Saturday's finals in

Troy Athens, which finished second in team competition Friday, was the only school with four individuals in Saturday's final, which featured the top eight gymnasts in each event.

Junior Michelle Miller tied for first in floor exercises, winning the event for the second time, and tied for third in vault. Natalie Leich, a senior, was one of two individuals to compete in all four,

gymnastics

final events. She was third on the bars and floor exercises, fourth on the beam and seventh in

Freshman Amy Krebs was seventh on beam and senior Tiffany Kinaia was eighth as the Red Hawks placed three individuals in the top eight on North Farmington's Kim Heller, a junior, tied for third in vault and placed sixth on the floor. Raider sophomore Heather Kahn tied for fifth on Minch scored a 9.4 on bars Friday, leading Bethany Freeman of Midland Dow by .05. She trailed Amy Walberer of Grand Rapids West. Catholic by .05 after scoring a 9.15 on beam Friday. Minch did not think about those close margins between the two days of competition. "I don't usually look at anyone else's scores. I just try to beat myself."

Minch bettered her bar score Saturday, posting a 9.45 to win by .35, the largest margin of victory on the day. Despite Friday's success, she change her bar routine Saturday, putting in a more difficult dismount.

"She stuck it," said Yockey, who also liked

Minch's "good big swings." The idea of doing a different dismount on Saturday "made me a little bit more tense," Minch said. "But I knew I could do it."

Minch, the second gymnast on the beam Saturday, impressed Yockey with a one-footed layout and thrilled the crowd with a reverse summersault. Minch posted a 9.45. Walberer, seventh in line, managed a 9.1, giving Minch a win by .3. Miller trailed Jill Stuart of Rockford after Friday's floor exercises, 9.25 to 9.2. But the gymnasts reversed their scores Saturday. Leich, who opened with a 9.0, had the highest one-day floor score with a 9.4 Saturday.

Athens coach Frank Divito called Miller a "great dancer. She has very strong tumbling. . .She just did a great job like she did Friday night. She had a carbon copy routine." Of Leich's floor show on Saturday, Divito said,

"she's just so dynamic. She mixes great dancing with powerful tumbling. And she does a great job showing it off on the floor. Her routine fits her personality to a "T."

Leich, second in the vault last season, felt she was better this year in "all-around consistency," although "I was hoping for a first in one event." Leich will represent Michigan in a national high school meet in Chicago on May 18-20. The top four seniors in the all-around competition earned spots

Ladywood repeats as Class A champ

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Surprise, surprise, surprise. The new Class A state volleyball champion is (drum roll, please):

Livonia Ladywood! OK, in some respects maybe it isn't so surprising that the Blazers thumped Harper Woods Regina 15-1, 15-10 in Saturday's final at Kalama-zoo Central High School. After all, the Blazers were the defending state

And they are under the guidance of the hottest coach around — Tom Teeters, who now has won three championships in the last year (two with Ladywood and a National Junior College Athletic Association title with Schoolcraft College).

But there was serious reason for doubt. For starters, four starters and six seniors from last year's championship squad graduated, leaving Teeters with a major rebuilding job.

SECOND, LADYWOOD'S record against the other three finalists -Regina, Portage Northern (which the Blazers defeated 15-13, 15-5 in the semifinals) and Rochester Adams was lousy. Both Northern and Adams had beaten the Blazers in tournaments, and Regina split with them in Catholic League.

And then there was Teeters' own estimate of his team's semifinal performance: "We weren't playing that well, but neither were they. (Northern) made a few more errors than we did, and they didn't take advan-tage of their opportunities. "We're going to have to play a lot better."

They did. Regina — which surprised Adams 15-11, 15-13, in the other semifinal to set up an all-Catholic League showdown - never got in gear in the first game. Kari Domanski served nine consecutive points, including four aces, as the Blazers jumped out to a 13-0 lead.

"THE MOMENTUM took hold so quickly," said Regina coach Ann Hutchins. "It took no time at all for them to build a big lead. Our serve reception was good all year until to-day." Teeters' strategy was "to serve tough to their weaker passers to keep their bigger people off the net." That, and his team's precision attack from the left side, worked

"We wanted to set fast enough so their middle blocker couldn't get over there to help," was how he explained the left-side attack. "And we wanted to try and take advantage of their weakest blocker. But I have to admit, that's the best we've done at it. We played a great first game - flawless."

Hutchins agreed. "That's the hardest I've seen Ladywood hit. They really hit and took advantage of our weaknesses on defense."

Sarah Adzima, the Blazers middle hitter, set the tone for the match with several successful kills right down the middle of Regina's defense. Peggy Knittel and Stacey Girard also got in on the left-handed attack.

"I WAS GLAD they were singleblocking me," said Adzima, a senior who will play next year at Western Michigan University. "And (Regina middle blocker Polly Williams) was really late on her blocks."

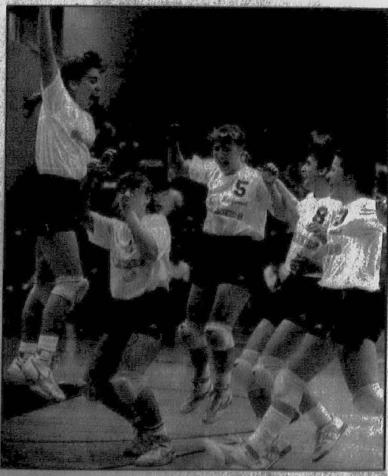

The second game was much tougher, although the Blazers never trailed. They had leads of 6-1 and 10-5, but the Saddlelites made some defensive adjustments and rallied to pull to within 11-10. "We tried moving our blocking over (to cover the left side), and brought our back-row defense in (toward the middle)," said

It helped, but Ladywood adjusted offensively, going to more dinks over the net instead of power hits down the middle. It wasn't as effective, but the day belonged to the Blazers. That was evident when Keli Haeger served the final three points, two of which were unreturned serves.

"She is not our best server," said Teeters. Indeed, he had substituted Katie Farkas whenever Haeger's turn to serve came up, but he had used up his allotment of substitutions and had to stick with Haeger.

"She came through at the end."
In the semifinal, Ladywood with-stood a first-game Northern rally, and that proved to be the turning point. The Blazers led 13-8, but the Huskles scored five points in a row to tie it. Mistakes, however, doomed Northern; three mishits resulted in a side out to Ladywood and the gamewinning points.

The second game was easier, as the Blazers continued to take advantage of Huskie miscues. Ladywood finished its season with a 48-5 record - and a second state championship.

Ladywood players had reason to celebrate Saturday when the Blazers won their second consecutive Class A volleyball

MSU (17-13 overall) played last night at Villanova in a third-round NIT game.

"I THOUGHT I'D get a chance to get loose in the second half (after the dunk)," Hickman said. "My playing time usually depends on how I start off the game. If it takes me a little time to get in the groove, I might not play as much."

Hickman's first year at MSU has been a learn-

basketball

ing experience, an up-and-down campaign that in-cluded a career-high 11 rebounds last Thursday in a first-round NIT win over Kent State

Hickman's playing time Monday was limited because of outstanding play by others, including reserve guard/forward Todd Wolfe, who scored a game-high 18 points. MSU also got a strong performance from starting forward Ken Redfield, who scored 12 points in 29 minutes.

"We got a lot of basketball out of a lot of players tonight," Heathcote said. "They all seemed to play at a level higher than normal, guys like Redfield, (Jeff) Casler and Wolfe. And we got a typi-cal performance from (Steve) Smith (16 points)."

Although Hickman said he has entertained thoughts this winter of transferring to another school, he knows he might not have gotten a chance to play immediately elsewhere. Five freshmen dot the Spartans' roster. FIVE TIMES Hickman has reached double figures in scoring for MSU, including a 10-point game in an upset at Iowa. Hickman averages 5.2 points and 3.2 rebounds per game. "Pve probably had a better first year than a lot

"Basically my role is a rebounder. I'm not a player yet, just a rebounder. I'm a garbage man." Hickman said he has remained in touch with his coach at Borgess, Mike Fusco. Hickman attended Borgess' Operation Friendship consolation game at the University of Detroit's Calihan Hall last month and he had a chance to talk to Fusco.

Both Heathcote and Fusco have the tendency to yell on the sidelines, but Hickman said he has a different relationship with Fusco.

"It's a big difference," Hickman said. "Coach Fusco is like a friend. He helps me out a lot and talks to me. He told me to keep my head up and things would start coming my way.

"For me, it's a lot of hollering (from Heathcote). I don't like it, but it's the type of thing you put up with in college."

Wagner persists in Stanford program

By C.J. Risak staff writer

divid-

g bal-

Stanford University has one of the best women's basketball programs in the nation. The Cardinal proved it last weekend by blasting Illinois State 105-77 in a second-round NCAA tournament game.

Emily Wagner, Michigan's Miss Basketball following her 1985 season at Livonia Ladywood, is part of the Stanford success story. But she isn't an integral part.

Injuries have ruined Wagner's chances for athletic glory. Entering the NCAA tournament, she had appeared in 19 of Stanford's 28 games (the Cardinal are now 27-2; they finished the PAC-10 season a perfect 18-0), averaging 1.4 points, 1 rebounds and 1.0 assists.

"Coming out of high school, you think all you have to do is work hard," she said. "Injury never comes

Wagner's picture has since been

SHE WAS, without doubt, a star. At Ladywood she averaged 15.3 points, four rebounds, three assists and 2.5 steals a game as a senior. Her team was 88-9 in her four seasons and won a Class B state title.

She signed with Stanford in March 1985. A month later, her athletic career started falling apart.

While trying out for a National Sports Festival team, Wagner tore ligaments in her right knee. The injury was severe enough to keep her from playing her freshman season.

Stanford honored her scholarship. Wagner went to school and, as soon as possible, started rehabilitating her knee. "I was bound and determined to come back and play as a sophomore," she said.

Maybe too determined. "I did a lot of running" the summer prior to her sophomore year, and that led to another problem - a stress fracture of the navicular bone in her left foot.

basketball

THE FRACTURE was slow in healing. It was the following August before Wagner could rejoin the

To say her athletic career has floundered in frustration would be only partially true. The setbacks certainly would test the dedication of any athlete, but Wagner persevered.

While recovering from her foot injury, she rode a stationary bike and lifted weights routinely to stay in condition. When the school purchased an attachment for bicycles, so they could be used in a stationary position, Wagner attached it to her own bike while watching team prac-

"With that injury, there was al-ways the off-chance I could start playing," she said. She had her foot examined every six weeks to check the healing progress.

By the time Wagner could return, the program had changed. Stanford had been below .500 before Wagner's arrival, but the long-time coach, Dotty McCrea, resigned. Tara Vanderveer, who was coaching Ohio State, was hired, and the administration put new emphasis on basketball.

LAST YEAR, the Cardinal surprised many by reaching the NCAA tournament. Unfortunately, they had to play No. 1-ranked Tennessee in their first game, and they were beaten.

Wagner played last season, but not much. "I was a bit rusty coming back," she admitted. "I felt I came back as best I could, but I didn't feel I was back on my game until the middle of last year.

The injuries had taken a toll, but as Wagner said, "In some circumstances, you could say the program went beyond me."

Stanford boasts one of the nation's top backcourts in guards Jennifer Azzi, the PAC-10 player of the year, and Sonja Henning

Wagner might have been a part of that, had fortune smiled on her. She refuses to give in to such thoughts, however. "At times, I think what would it have been like if all this hadn't happened," she said. "But I don't dwell on it. It doesn't do any good. I feel others have had bigger problems." Stanford's location, outside San Francisco, has helped her withstand her frustrations.

Orris captures individual honor

The Livonia Spartan Aquatic club scored 916 points to finish fourth in the team standings at the state short course swim championships (ages 13-18), hosted by the Capitol Area Swim League last weekend at McCaffree Pool on the campus of Michigan State University.

The Spartans won 15 individual races and one relay.

Plymouth Salem High School jun-ior Ron Orris was the high-point champion in the Boys 15-16 age division, winning all six events including the 200 and 400-yard individual medleys; 100, 200 and 500 freestyles; and 100 butterfly (state record).

Teammate Scott DeWolf (Boys 13-14) captured four events — 200 but-terfly, 400 IM, 500 and 1,000 freestyles. He also took second in the 1,650 freestyle and 100 butterfly.

Also in the Boys 13-14 age division, the Spartans' Matt Martin, Alex Goecke, Ryan Freeborn and DeWolf took the medley relay.

The Spartans finished second in the Boys 13-14 team standings with

THE BULLDOG AQUATIC CLUB also turned in several outstanding performances, led Julie Jensen, Aaron Rieder and Troy Shumate.

ALSO IN THE field events, Canton has senior Amy Van Buhler, who has done 16 feet in the long jump, and sophomore Kathy Stone, who reached 5 feet in the high jump. Junior Susan Ferko, who was fifth in the shot put at the WLAA meet, decided not to compete this year, however.

Van Buhler will make the Chiefs competitive in the hurdles, too, though she missed half of last season with an injury. They cut the cast off her leg the day of the conference meet, and we weren't about to put her in the hur-

dles," Przygodski said. "But she's an outstanding athlete, and we expect a lot out of her, running the hurdles and a leg of the sprint relays."

Senior Erin McDonald, junior Bobbi Conville and sophomore Jennifer Hartke are other hurdle prospects, but Conville will miss at least the early part of the schedule after suffering an ankle injury last week.

Junior Katurah Reid, who ran sprinter, but the shorter races are one of Canton's green areas. Junior Kristy Brugar, sophomore Ifoema Okwumaboa, who also throws the shot, and freshmen Alecia King and Monica Pellow are other sprint hopefuls.

The 400-meter race is proably Pellow's best event, and Przygodski expects sophomore Heather Meyer to help make the event one of Canton's strong points. Freshmen Kim Gudeth and April Billings are some of the up-and-coming runners.

BESIDES THE loss of Miller, the mostly relays, is the top returning 14 seniors on the '88 team included such other standouts as Tonya Walaskay, Tricia Carney, Sherry Fi-gurski and Heather Miller. With a veteran group, Canton was the team to beat in the WLAA from the startof the year.

"I don't think we're going into the season with the same certainty," Przygodski said. "With the senior class we had, we knew our chances of winning the (league) meet were very good.
"Last year, we went into the meet trying not to lose. This year we're back to going after everybody and seeing what happens."

South all-stars win blowout

Dick Vitale would have called it 'Blowout City."

A.J. Baker called it a mistake. The South team routed the North, 13-1 Sunday in the sixth-annual All-Stater hockey game played before more than 1,000 fans at Redford's Ice Arena Baker, the game's direc-tor, said it was a mistake because this was the first time he divided tal-

Pendell's performance might have earned him at least a partial schol-arship to college. Western coach Tom Scanlon, Michigan State coach Ron Mason and Bowling Green coach Ron York were among the coaches who attended the game,

"I just wanted to play well, I guess," said Pendell, who scored 24 goals for Churchill. "I didn't do it all myself. I had a lot of help from my linemates (including Churchill team-mate Mike Knelding)."

"I DIDN'T HAVE a real big goalscoring year and we don't get too much exposure, playing in our league (Suburban Prep). I'm not counting on a scholarship, but I think I helped my chances. I want to go to Western, but I haven't heard from Baker said fine goaltending by the South contributed to the lopsided score. The three South goalies -Stevenson's Paul Strauch, Trenton's Derek Mento and Allen Park Cabrini's Joe Aho - kicked away 31 of the North's 32 shots. The South fired 44 shots against the North.

"Strauch made some tremendous saves in the first period and that made a big, big difference," Baker

Playing as an independent Class C team, the Yellowjackets met eight Class A teams, three Class B teams and still managed to outscore their opponents by better than 500 points. DCD scored 1,947 points while its opponents combined for 1,442.

In the state tournament, the Jackets outscored their opponents 577-383, including a 39-point, 82-43 victory over Ishpeming in the championship serves.

With such domination of the Class C schools, DCD is contemplating a move up to Class B next year.

"I'm 95-percent sure it's going to happen," said DCD coach and athletic director Kurt Keener. "All I need now is approval from my headmaster.

"The move would have two purposes. No. 1, it would present a little better competition. It would present a good challenge for the program. No. 2, it would be a good public relations move. It may offset some of the tension between the public and private schools. Maybe it would allow a better chance for someone else to win state."

Such a move wouldn't affect the other sport programs at DCD since the Michigan High School Athletic Association allows one sport at a school to move up in class while the other sports remain at the same

If the boys basketball program moves up to Class B, it would be committed to stay at that level of competition for two years before dropping back down to Class C.

Research sheds new light on behavior of black bear

Many of our fears of wildlife result from misinformation. The more we learn about animals and plants the more we come to respect and appreclate them.

A recent study of black bears in northern Minnesota shows that our long-held belief that they are "feroclous" is not entirely true. Different species of bear behave differently.

Grizzly bears will attack to defend their young. Female black bears with cubs neither attacked, nor made contact with, a researcher who followed them within a few feet for 24-hour periods during the summer.

food from a black bear for examination and were not mauled or injured. The bear charged, in an effort to in-timidate the researcher. But when the investigator held his ground, the bear eventually walked away.

Grizzly bears will, however, protect their food.

This kind of research is being done to learn more about what does provoke occasional attacks. If we learn what is normal, we can learn about what is causing the abnormal.

Following a bear around the woods at close range may sound crazy, but it has produced a tremendous amount of information regarding the behavior and requirements of wild

Continued work on the Kirtland's warbler by dedicated people has probably kept this species from extinction. Years of research on its northern Michigan breeding range have yielded enough information to allow man to maintain the population at about 450 individuals for the past 20 years.

Architect becomes do-it-yourselfer

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

ICHAEL STERN, architect/builder had a special advantage when he renovated his Birminge. He and his wife and two

Thursday, March 23, 1989 O&E

little daughters lived in it while he drew up his plans and did the actual Living there through the planning and work stages tested everyone's patience, but the finished product made it all worth while. Stern came to know his house and site intimately and designed windows to capitalize on the best flow of air and the best light at all times of day. He said when he was an architect working for a large New York based firm, he seldom saw the buildings he designed for overseas clients.

The home, located on a ravine site in the Mill Pond area of downtown Birmingham, was built in 1950 for concert planist and teacher, Dorothy Roosevelt, sister-in-law of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It was one story, 1,000 square feet in size and avant-garde in design. The floor to ceiling windows in the living room overlook the ravine. The room was designed to hold two grand planos and 75 listeners. It had a tiny kitchen at the back, an area off the living room with a folding door served as a bedroom.

Stern said, "They couldn't sell this house. It had been on the market for months, it didn't even qualify for a mortgage because there were no sleeping quarters."

STILL STERN remembers saying as soon as he walked for the first time, "I've got to have this house it is just too special."

They put up temporary partions to divide the living room for more bedroom space and a family area, moved in and Stern set to work on his design.

"It took two years before I got the plans done — that I got a design we were happy with," he said.

The original house presented some special challenges. Certainly the pitch of the room had been a stumbling block for many who would buy it with the idea of adding to it. Another was how to integrate what in the 50s, was an avant garde design, into a contemporary style that would blend with the traditional character of the neighborhood. For Stern's "new house" would be far more visible than the original one which was partially hidden by trees.

He began construction a year ago and did much of the work himself, changing and adapting as he went. He enjoyed the do-it-yourselfer's built-in flexibility.

The house, completed several months ago, is tripled in size. A strong rectilinear form with gabled ends rises from the contemporary, lateral base. The original great room overlooking the ravine, which Stern loved from the beginning, is in tact. But now there's a second floor with a master suite, two additional bed-rooms for the girls and a loft area playroom. On the first level in the addition is a elegant contemporary kitchen and family room toward the street side. No space is wasted.

Homes for the 90s

THERE ARE SKYLIGHTS, walls of windows, clean curved lines, white walls and open surfaces. The entire home is bathed in soft filtered light. Each element was carefully thought out for placement, quality and texture. The shaped, dropped ceiling in the black and white kitchen reflects the shaped center island directly beneath it. The black and white tiles behind the sink are textured to give depth and sculptural quality to the wall. The white-stained, pickled oak floor in the kitchen is functional as well as appropiate to the contemporary look.

"I'm into very simple taste, " said Stern as he stood by one of two stained glass windows that are geometric in design and add only a discreet, tasteful bits of color to the in-

This is true throughout the house - color is introduced with discretion. The natural light and the flow of architectural line are strong ele-

Heating and cooling were other challenges that may have dissuaded potential buyers of the original house. There are now two types radiant heating on the first level (as in the original house) and forced air on the second. The combination works well, said Stern.

He said he always builds a model before he completes a design - this one took several models before the solutions became clear. "The constraints pretty well told me what to do - as an architect, I like that."

And his original judgement holds true - it is a very special house.

Staff photos by Jerry Zolynsky

The two-story center section plus everything in the foreground is new, the small section at the back, seen in the rear at the left, is the original house.

Michael Stern has a pleasant view of the family room from where he sits in the smart, contemporary kitchen. To his right is the hall along the north side of the house with lots of windows.

The great room of the original house is now done in all light colors. It still has the wonderful view that

The concert will be 3 p.m. Sunday, April 2 at the Aaron DeRoy Theater of the Jewish Community Center, 6600 West Maple, West Bloomfield, Fiekowsky is member of the Boston Symphony, soloist and chamber musician.

Orchestra to play local composer's work

A work for symphony orchestra, "Reflections on a Rainbow," by Elaine Lebenbom, Birmingham resident and composer, will be per-formed in a concert by the Warren Symphony Orchestra at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, April 9.

David Daniels will conduct the concert to be held at the Warren Woods Community Theatre, E. 12 Mile at Schoenner, Warren.

"My inspiration for the work was a double rainbow I sighted in northern Michigan in 1982," said Lebenbom. "I wanted to transfer the beauty of that rainbow to the varied and evocative colors of a symphony orchestra and have been excited by the prospect of working with the Warren Symphony to execute the piece." Lebenbom is a recent recipient on an Individual Artist's Grant from

Michigan Council for the Arts. The one-year grant, her first, will allow her to prepare her opera "The Witch, The Wise man and The Fool" for production. "Only 10 percent of those submitting proposals were funded, so I feel very fortunate," she

Mirroring is smart

Q. We have converted a walk-in closet in the hall leading from our great room into a bar. With the plumbing from the kitchen backing up to the closet wall, we have been able to have a wet bar. This is a dark area. What can I do to give this room some glitz and be practical at the same time? We have installed ready made dark oak cabinets - one where the sink is and on the opposite wall which will serve as the bar itself. We face a blank wall as you enter the room. We just had a black and white mini pattern carpet

A. If cost isn't a big consideration, use Corian on the counter tops. Your white Corian will be uplifting. I suggest mirroring the wall you face as your enter your bar. Have the mirror supplier install eight-inch wide strips from floor to ceiling. Each strip should have a bevel on either side. Abut them together and you will have a much smarter look than just mirroring the wall.

If cost is a consideration, I suggest you use a laminate. The brushed chrome for your counters will give the sparkle you need. I would use the mirrored wall here as well.

May 2 begins my second year of teaching "A New Approach to Interior Design" at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The class runs for 71/2 weeks. For information, call Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 881-7511.

Franklin luxury. Need we say more?

Luxury speaks for itself at Weatherstone. Very private two and three-bedroom townhomes. Formal dining rooms—Great rooms with natural fireplaces. 2-car attached garage, two and one-half baths. And little things like instant hot water in the kitchen. Only at Weatherstone. Of course.

Weatherstone

350-1296 29600 29900 Franklin Road

LIVE AMONG THE RARE AND BEAUTIFUL.

Aidingbrooke — West Bloomfield's premier rental community — has always attracted its own special flock.

Our magnificent estate-like grounds are home to a collection of geese and swans. And to many of metropolitan Detroit's most discerning individuals and families.

Set in a gated community, residents appreciate Aldingbrooke's world of privacy and custom options, with Residences up to 2800 square feet include such desirable features as private entryways, split-level or ranch-style designs, dens, breakfast rooms, cathedral ceilings.

All for much less than you'd expect to pay for such luxury.

Whatever your mind can imagine in luxurious living, you can discover on your first visit to Aldingbrooke.

all the services they've come to expect from a luxury apartment community.

fireplaces and attached garages.

From $650 to $1650 per month.

It is indeed rare and beautiful.
