Fall festival to get some new twists

staff writer

Plymouth's Fall Festival could have a few new twists this year.

Strolling thespians in Kellogg Park, a country fair area with games, a pie contest and chili cookoff, a video game booth and more entertainment have been proposed by a new ideas committee of the fall festival board.

'We were tired of being all food," said Eleanor Shevlin, chairwoman of the ideas committee. "We wanted games for children, something more for senior citizens, to bring back the closeness I think we've gotten away

The festival board has scheduled a special meeting for Wednesday, April 19, to consider the committee's ideas. The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. at City Hall, 201 S. Main.

The fall festival, started in 1957, has evolved into a major fund-raising forum for civic, school and nonprofit community groups. This year's festival will be held Sept. 7-10. The theme is Harvest Time Around the World.

THERE'S BEEN some criticism in recent years that the festival has become too much of a meal-oriented event with not much else to do.

Funeral services for Cheryl L. Ettenhofer, 16, remembered as a free spirit and lover of life, were tentatively scheduled for noon Friday at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Northfield Township.

Cheryl died Tuesday after she was involved in an automobile accident

She is the daughter of Delores (Dolly) Ettenhofer, longtime owner of Beautiful People Hair Forum in Plymouth and a Northfield Township resident.

"She was a very vivacious high school sophomore and active in everything," said her father, Michael Ettenhofer.

"She had hundreds and hundreds of friends," he said. "She enjoyed everything. She was a very sweet girl."

Cheryl and her sister, Anne Marie, were en route to Gabriel Richard High School in Ann Arbor when their car was struck by a car driven by a 36-year-old Ann Arbor woman, said Washtenaw County Sheriff's Sgt. Harley

The Ann Arbor woman, driving east on Warren, failed to see a stop sign at the Pontiac Trail intersection until nearly there, applied her brakes, skidded and struck the southbound car containing the Ettenhofers, Rider Baid.

The accident happened at about 8 a.m. All three women were wearing seat belts and alcohol wasn't a factor, Rider said.

The Ettenhofers were taken to U-M Medical Center where Cheryl died of internal injuries, Anne Marie was listed in fair condition Wednesday.

He has been growing water lilies for nine years, ever since he became interested in them after his father received a catalogue in the mail.

He then took some water lilies from a lake and planted them in an oil pan, but that soon gave way to a wading pool filled with lilies, some of which are still living today.

"Some people like hybridizing or-chids, but that takes about 15 years to find out what you've got. With water lilies, you find out what you have in a couple of months. African Violets are boring and trees get too big," he said.

The Pigtain home has an attached greenhouse that's filled with unusual plants and trees. In the center is the youth's wading pool, covered with various types of plant life. Their backyard has manmade ponds which are filled with lilles in the summer.

Pigtain also sells his plants and trees out of his home, beginning in

"If someone orders them, they usually know what they're looking for," he said.

He said lilies usually flower during the summer and that people usually don't like to buy unless they can

Apart from raising lilies, Pigtain also installs a pond and waterfalls

"It's harder to put them in than it looks, because if it's not level it could crack or be seen.'

Sign variance requests rejected By Doug Funké staff writer

The first two business owners to request a variance from Plymouth's new tough sign ordinance received no relief last week from the city's zoning board of appeals.

MELISSA ROZEK

The ZBA turned thumbs down on requests from Mayflower Square at 485 S. Main for a 15-foot high pole sign and Plymouth Convenient Deli at 571 S. Mill for an 18-foot high pole sign and a wall sign that exceeds 25 square feet.

"They just didn't meet the criteria and we turned them down," said Charles Cash, ZBA chair-

The new sign ordinance, to reduce clutter, was adopted in February and took effect last month. It hans pole signs and limits the size of wall signs. Signs must come into compliance whenever they're changed.

CITY LAW mentions four grounds for a successful ZBA appeal.

· Unusual circumstances of a specific property necessitate a variance.

· A variance is needed to preserve and enjoy a property right.

A variance won't endanger the public wel-fare or harm adjacent properties.

· A variance won't adversely impact the city's

THE LORENZ SQUARE variance application termed provisions of the new sign law burden-some to multiple tenant buildings.

Since the sign in question was blank before the law took effect, it should be grandfathered and the new law not apply, the application stated.

Officers found a newly damaged 1976 black Monte Carlo in the driveway. Police said a woman was lying on the back porch when they approached the house. Upon trying to stand, "she wobbled; hadly on her high: heels" and smalled of intoxicants, police said.

Her blood alcohol level was .18 percent. A level of .10 is considered legally drunk in Michigan. The woman was booked and jailed, but later taken to Oakwood-Canton Health Center and treated.

DRUNKEN DRIVING: Police arrested a 42-year-old Plymouth woman at 1:40 a.m. Saturday after receiving a call from the Mayflower Hotel about a hit and run accident that occurred there. Shortly afterwards, police observed a 1987 white Mercedes make a turn off Ann Arbor Trail onto northbound Sheldon. The driver changed lanes three times within 800 feet, police said. The woman, a Weed road resident, smelled of alcohol, slurred her speech and had glassy eyes, sald police.

She "swayed on her heel-to-toe sobriety test and couldn't count backwards from 20 to 1," said police. Her blood alcohol level was .15 percent. A level of .10 is considered legally drunk.

The woman was allowed to call her babysitter, and posted $100 cash

DRUNKEN DRIVING: Police arrested a 27-year-old Livenia man for drunken driving and for operating a vehicle with a suspended license about 2:30 a.m. Saturday.

The suspect was driving on the wrong side of the road, said police. He swerved and hit a telephone pole.

when the police efficer turned on his flashers, the suspect accelerated. After the officer activated his siren, the driver continued onto Karmada, parking in a driveway. The man left the car running, the door open, and ran into the backyard. The officer caught the driver, and after a struggle handcuffed him.

The man's sister, who lived at the Karmada residence, demanded that the vehicle be removed from her driveway. Police called a wrecker.

DRUNKEN DRIVING: Plymouth Township police arrested a 23-year-old Plymouth man for drunken driving at 1:05 a.m. Monday on Haggerty near Newport. A 37-year-old Canton man was arrested for the same offense at 9:33 p.m. last Friday on Haggerty near Orangelawn.

BREAKING AND ENTERING: An 18-year-old Plymouth woman told police that jewelry worth $1,200 was taken from her Sheldon Road apartment Friday.

apartment Friday.

Missing are three gold chains, a pair of diamond-studded gold earrings, and numerous rings.

The woman last saw the items earlier that day in a jewelry box on a dresser in her living room. The woman returned home and found drawers open, and couch cushious removed. There were no signs of forced or try.

BIKE, WINE STOLEN: A red Raleigh model 10-speed bicycle valued at $145 and a case of white wine valued at $75 were reported stolen from a storage room in a garage on Beacon Hill.

The theft most likely occurred between 6 p.m., last Thursday and 2 p.m. Saturday while the garage door was left open, police reports indicate.

HOOP MISCHIEF: Unknown vandals attacked and removed a rim from a backboard on Chestnut last weekend causing an estimated $60 damage. A basketball backboard torn from its mounts at a garage on Susan Court damaged gutters to the tune of $100.

Teachers were able to assess children's ability and to see whether they're developmentally ready to start kindergarten, said Owens.

School cuts approved

Plymouth-Canton school board members voted Monday to lay off 119 teachers and make $3.2 million in cuts, actions they say will be necessary if voters turn down a twoyear, 4-mill tax increase in the June 12 election. Voters also will be asked to approve an 8-mill renewal.

Superintendent John Hoben "reluctantly recommended" approval or the resolution, saying pink sline must be issued now to achieve the time lines required by law.

Layoffs will be effective at the end of the current school year.

'It is regrettable we have to go through this process, but we have no choice," said Trustee Dean Swartzwelter.

"But with the community reaction I believe I'm starting to feel, I believe the 4 mills and incremental 8 mills will be approved and none of this terrible catastrophe will have to happen at all," he said.

The district employs 773 teachers at an average salary of $37,733. Average length of service is 13 years.

Those to be laid off have average seniority of two years, said Maryann Ligato-Freydel, executive director with the Michigan Education Association. Ligato-Freydel represents four Plymouth-Canton employee

THE BOARD voted to make $3.2 million in across-the-board cuts, to be implemented July 1. To be cut are administrative, special education, clerical and educational aide positions. Personnel from the curriculum center, maintenance, print shop and warehouse also would be cut. No cuts are forecast from the food service budget. That department is self supporting.

If both the 4-mill levy and 8-mill renewal are approved, 24 teachers will be rehired, and $1.8 million in selective restorations will be made, say school board members.

Passage of the millage requests would make it possible to re-open elementary school buildings for extracurricular activities, to add to the textbook budget, to eliminate fees and to repair roofs.

Trustee E.J. McClendon said, "I feel terribly inept sometimes to communicate to the Plymouth-Canton area that we're essentially tied at the bottom in Wayne County in per-pupil spending. My tax bill is up 21.6 percent, and that hurts.

"But someone paid taxes so I could get an education, and someone paid taxes so my kids could get an education. I believe it's my obligation to help the kids now in school. Some are failing to look realistically at what we're doing to our children. For some reason we're unaware, and I don't know why," McClendon said.

Ligato-Freydel said she doesn't believe the district is using scare tactics. "Eighty-five percent of the district's budget goes to salaries, so the way to save money is to cut people. We don't like to see any cuts, of course. These are severe economic times, and if the millage doesn't pass, severe cuts will be necessary.

"If the money isn't there, they can't pay all the salaries," said Liga-

"We don't like it, but the only way to avoid it is to have a stable financial base for the district to operate

Although 75 teaching positions are being eliminated, 119 teachers are being laid off to account for ties in seniority and scheduling uncertain-

Killer gets life sentence

Patrick Dennis, convicted March 22 of first degree murder in the stabbing death of Kevin Kinney, was formally sentenced Monday to life in prison without parole by Detroit Recorders Judge Thomas E. Jackson.

State law mandated that sentence.

"I stated - and Mr. Dennis echoed those sentiments — he expressed his remorse to the victim and the victim's family," said Jeffrey Collins, Dennis' court-appointed lawyer.

Both Dennis, 22, and Kinney, 23, lived in Plymouth Township but apparently didn't know each other prior to the night Kinney was killed,

"I strongly advised and encouraged Mr. Dennis to appeal and I'm sure he will appeal," Collins said.

A possible basis for appeal — the jury's disregard of an intoxication defense, Collins said.

Drunkeness could have been a mitigating factor allowing for a verdict less serious than murder one, raising the possibility of parole.

"Mr. Dennis wasn't operating with all of his faculties . . . and his activities were influenced by alcohol," Collins said. "We still feel this was induced by alcohol. There is suffi-cient evidence for intoxication."

Dennis was returned to the Wayne County Jail after hearing his sentence and probably will be sent to a state prison within a week.

The sense of urgency was echoed by Marian McCracken of Farmington Hills, who sits on the national board of NOW for the Great Lakes

"This is the most dangerous time of all. The right to abortion is symbolic of all women's rights. When someone else decides when and how many rights you can have you have no right at all," she said.

For the first time since Roe v. Wade, the landmark 1973 decision

Roe v. Wade was decided by a 7-2 vote. The Supreme Court last reaf-firmed Roe in June 1986 by a 5-4 margin. Since then two justices named by President Ronald Reagan, have taken seats on the court, Antonin Scalia and Anthony M. Kennedy. Neither has previously voted on an abortion case.

A participant in "more marches than I can remember," McCracken returned from a vacation in Egypt in time to be part of a "reminder to the Supreme Court that it doesn't live in a vacuum in 1989."

McCRACKEN was pleased, but not surprised at the large numbers

The chips are down. People know it," she said.

Leaders on both sides of the abortion issue say it is likely that the court will neither overturn Roe nor write a ringing affirmation of it. "The Michigan vote (to refuse Medicaid funding of abortions) was demoralizing," said Barbara Rosalik of Rochester. "I had to be talked into ning. Now that I'm here, I feel better, seeing this beautiful crowd."

In the Michigan delegation were groups and banners representing NOW chapters, Michigan Nurse Practitioners, Michigan Republicans for Choice, Catholics for Choice, Michigan State University and Michigan Women's Commission.

Also joining the Michigan delega-tion were Helen Milliken, former cochair of ERAmerica, former national NOW leader Carol King and Pat Curran, head of the Michigan Office of Women and Work.

As pro-choice supporters marched along Constitution Avenue they were met by a group of several hundred anti-abortion demostrator. The demonstrators walked with signs and exhorted marchers and observers to of ensuring that Michigan won't experience more food scares like the recent threats to farm produce.

A senator unveiled Tuesday and his appropriations subcommittee quickly approved - a $4.5 million program to increase pesticide protections and to reassure con-sumers that Michigan food is safe.

The proposal now goes to the full Senate Appropriations Committee as it reviews the budget for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

"Many consumers no longer have confidence in the produce they buy," said Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron.

"THIS PROGRAM will help assure food buyers that Michigan products are safe and healthy and will make Michigan produce the most sought-after in the country for its premium quality."

DeGrow said it was sparked by recent scares about alar on apples, aldicarb on potatoes and cyanide in Chilean fruit. But he said agriculture experts already were discussing improvements in pesticide

The program outlined by Be-Grow would boost the Department of Agriculture budget to $34.7 mil-lion, up from $28.2 million in the current fiscal year. Gov. Jat Blanchard has proposed sp $28.9 million in the upcoming

The program calls for 43 new people to be hired in research, edncation and pesticide management.

Congressmen seek abortion restrictions

sures have been introduced in the 101st Congress. Most seek an outright ban on abortion, further restrictions on federal funding for the procedure or limits on the use of fetal tissue obtained from abortions.

The lone exepction is HR 857, introduced by Rep. Bill Green, R-New York, which requires abortions to be made as available as other pregnancy-related services under all programs that recieve federal funds.

The pending anti-abortion measures include:

• SB 73, by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-North Carolina, bars the use of federal funds for all abortions except those necessary to save the life of the mother and prohibits federal funds from being used to encourage or counsel abortion.

• SB 162, by Helms, disallows a personal tax exemption for a child born alive, or who subsequently dies, after an induced abortion.

• HR 162, by Rep. Bill Emerson,

• HR 620, by Rep. Robert K. Dornan, R-California, bars abortion in federal prisons except when the. mother's life is endangered.

• HR 621, by Dornan, bars Medicare or Medicaid payments to anyone who provides or counsels the use of aboriton drugs or devices.

• HR 623, by Dornan, declares that fetuses are entitled to certain constitutional guarantees and prohibits abortion in any case

• HR 625, by Dornan, denies taxexempt status to organizations that perform or finance aboortions.

• HR 625, by Dornan, restricts the transportation and use of fetal tissue obtained in abortions and calls for licensing of facilities that would store such material.

Transplant patients get new lease on life

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

In the 18 months since her liver transplant, Sharon Fragner has changed careers from dental hygien-ist to a position with an organ pro-curement agency in Ann Arbor. En-gaged to be married, she looks forward to having children and living a normal life.

"I hopefully plan to be here when I'm 80," she said.

She just returned from a skiing trip in Utah and does aerobic exercise regularly.

"There are no limitations," she said. "I eat what I want and I'm trying to get back into running now."

GLYNDA CHAMIE of Salem Township is a fighter. She has to be. Her road to recovery hasn't been as

"She has a lot of spunk," said her sister, Suzanne Portman of Livonia.

Chamie suffered from a liver disorder since 1980, compounded by a serious automobile accident in 1982 that accelerated liver degeneration. By early 1984, doctors said she'd live one to two years unless she received a new liver.

She received a new liver Dec. 31, 1985, at Baylor University Hospital in Dallas. A horderline diabetic with ulcerated colitis, and suffering seizures from a closed head injury

"I was very healthy, I didn't look like a person who needed a trans-plant," she said.

What drove her to seek medical counsel was a rundown feeling, shaking and dizzy spells. At first doctors thought she had hypoglycemia, an abnormally low blood sugar level. Several tests were done, including a liver scan, which led to hospitalization and a liver biopsy.

"The biopsy showed there was something abnormal. I was referred to U of M," she said.

WHAT DOCTORS first presumed to be a rare liver cancer turned out to be Budd-Chiari Syndrome, a rare disorder that causes blood clots to form in the veins of the liver.

TODAY, CHAMIE is making do. Steroids have caused muscle, bone and weight gain problems. She still suffers seizures from the accident, which severed her original liver and Chamie desperately wanted to live to see her younger son graduate from high school in June 1986.

"I figured one of two things would happen," she said. "Either I would die or I would wake up alive, healthy and go on. Every day is a precious

William Gamblin 'thrilled to be alive'

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

Life was fairly routine for 50year-old William Gamblin until last

Then in one shocking chain of events, Gamblin, a father of three, discovered his heart was so weak doctors told him he would soon die.

Early last July, he left work about noon suffering from chest pains and shortness of breath. A "four-pack-aday smoker," Gamblin nevertheless had suffered no severe health prob-

"MY HEART stopped on the operating table," he said. "It took them 14 minutes to bring me back. They decided to do a transplant. I wouldn't have survived without it."

Because a donor heart was unavailable. Gamblin became the first patient in the state to receive an artificial heart, which kept him alive for 15 days until a donor organ was

The family of a 40-year-old physical education teacher involved in a fatal car accident provided the donor heart that was eventually transplanted into Gamblin's chest.

Gamblin is thrilled to be alive.

"They gave me less than a 10-percent chance, initially," he said. "I re-

There are still more than 750 Michigan residents awaiting organ transplants. Vital organs may be procured and transported hundreds or even thousands of miles to a re-cipient center for transplantation due in part to advancing medical technology and improved preserva-tion techniques. Heart lung donors do not always require a transfer from the donor hospital site to the recipient center.

WHILE HEART and lungs can be preserved for just three to five lours, skin and bone can be preserved five years or longer.

The group behind the monument has raised more than $5,500 and the granite has been ordered. When it's done, it'll be placed near the Plymouth Rock Memorial Adjacent to Kellogg Park. Plans call for its unveiling in June.

.. The work of John Pappas and other members of the Plymouth Vietnam Veterans Association has gone on despite a hands off attitude of American Legion members.

"We find that sad. There should be a brotherhood among those who fought in foreign wars.

To us, the fact that the American Legion Passage-Gyde Post didn't participate in fund-raising activites, only reinforces the feeling among Vietnam veterans that they have been ignored. We are happy that the Box Bar and Ford Mo-

There were no parades for Vietnam veterans when they returned and there were no big battles that they could point to that they won. When the ones who made it came back, they got off the plane and slipped back into civilian life as though nothing had happened.

Now, more than 15 years after the end of the war. Plymouth vets are trying to build a monument to those who didn't come back.

It's about time. We applaud their efforts.

Fall Festival

New events may be set

RGANIZERS OF PLYMOUTH'S Fall Festival are talking about making some changes to the annual event.

And those suggestions are as attractive to our ears as the sounds of fall leaves rustling in the breeze.

There has been criticism that the festival has Become too food oriented, and organizers have responded with ideas for new events that would give adults and children more to do. Here are some of the ideas:

• More participation from downtown merchants, with author book signings, fashion shows and special movies and kid shows.

• Strolling mimes and clowns to entertain in Kellogg Park. · A pie contest and chili cookoff.

 A country fair area with such activities as ring toss, balloons and sack races.

 A mini auto show in the lower level of the central parking deck.

 Designating Thursday of festival week as Senior Night and furnishing transportation for elderly people to the Kellogg Park area.

 A cheap shuttle service from parking areas outside of the immediate downtown area.

We think they are all fine ideas that should be looked at seriously.

Patient rights

Issue must not be abandoned

ATIENTS' RIGHTS legislation in Michigan is far too important and necessary to die at the hands of the abortion con-

State Rep. David Hollister, D-Lansing, has worked 15 years for legal means to allow patients to designate an advocate who will carry out their expressed desires for medical treatment, including termination of that treatment.

But Hollister is giving up after long battles with special interest groups - both pro-choice and pro-life factions — that have turned the patient rights legislation into an unresolved abortion controversy.

We urge Hollister to hold his ground and conlinue providing the leadership necessary to leally honor patient wishes without foisting crimand civil liability on medical professionals and family members.

Right-to-die legislation is not and should not be an abortion issue. We support prohibiting a patient advocate from exercising medical treatment for a pregnant patient that would be detrimental to the embryo or fetus without probate court approval.

BUT RIGHT-TO-DIE legislation can and should stand on its own. Today, family members such patients appeal to the court system for the life issue is a thorn in the side of special rest groups and legislators, remove the thorn, seleting the pregnancy provision from Hollis-legislation would not change the legality of tecting an embryo or fetus in this state. But moval would open the gates for changes in ate probate code for patient rights, cial interest groups have a right to their multiple terminally ill patients have a right as captives of modern medical technology.

Abortion and fetus rights unfortunately don't appear to have a resolution in our time. The number of patients, families and medical professionals who could benefit from right-to-die legislation far outweighs the number of pregnant patients and their families who may be forced to seek a lengthy and expensive resolution to their dilemma in the court system.

As Hollister told reporters recently: "A pregnant woman falling into a persistent vegetative state happens about three times in a decade. That concern has prevented this device from being used many, many times. This bill is important. Abortion is not the issue.

WE AGREE. Now is the time to address overriding human needs, not the political needs of legislators and special interest groups eyeing the election year.

While legislators and special interest groups have successfully thrown this human and medical issue into the abyss of philosophical debate over the definition of new life, terminally ill patients continue to linger in agony. And their fam-ilies and physicians continue to suffer the toll.

But the nature of their jobs causes them to shy away from walking near the edge of the cliff - a hazard in which newspaper editors regularly participate.

So that's why our ad director, Dick Brady, one of the finer Irish tale spinners, got my attention the other day when he wandered down to my office. What he had to say, his concern, is a matter which should be of concern to all of us.

Of course, we did meander through a couple of stories before getting to the point. I don't know whether that's the ad side or the Irish coming out in him. I suspect it's a little of both.

But a good story or two does pay off. I guess that's why ad salespeople learn to tell them.

At any rate, after the stories, he did get to the point. I, like all clients who are the target of an apt saleper-

First of all, as taxpayers we need to look at our assessments. If we think our taxes are too high, then we need to go to the board of review and appeal. Just talking to your neighbor and complaining about high taxes doesn't do a thing.

YOUR ASSESSMENT determines how much you pay. I am no different than anyone else. I don't like paying high taxes either, but I also check my assessment, and if I don't agree, I do something about it.

I have not always agreed with Dr. Hoben, but when he said CBE has taken things out of context and that they are in essence taking out what they feel on our children by telling people not to vote for the millage, he is right.

I HAVE three children that graduated from Plymouth Salem, and they all have done very well with the op-portunities they had in the Plym-

CBE is looking at only one narrow piece of the pie. They are looking to punish the school system for not playing their game. They are like small children throwing a temper tantrum for not getting their own

One of the main reasons for our high assessments is the excellent reputation of our schools. Have you thought about what our property would be worth when our schools can't open the doors or our children are sitting in classes with 40-plus students? Will our children be able to learn when they are vying for the attention of a teacher with 40 others in the class room?

Are these the opportunities we want to afford our children? Our children are the leaders of tomorrow; our lives will be in their hands. Elien Curtis

To the editor:

I would like to respond to John Minuth's "Homosexuals Forfeit Judicial Rights," Perspective, 1/19/89,

If John Minuth's perspective is any indication, institutions in America like Family and Education are failing in their charge to educate and shape the morals of our young peo-ple and we are in trouble. Such a twisted and perverse sense of justice belies what we are about as a nation and a people.

Minuth says, "If gays, criminals and others offend other citizens and eventually cause some sort of harm, they should realize that they can only blame themselves if harm comes to them . . . If someone does murder one or two, they should not receive the same punishment as if they killed a heterosexual." Or non "criminal" or non "other" (whoever they may be?)

The basic assumption in this sweeping generalization is a Stone Age view of right and wrong: history is full of examples of barbaric behaviors by people and governments using murder and violence as their basic tool to live by.

Shame on you, John Minuth, if you are just trying to create a mindless counterpoint to excite readers. Shame on you, John Minuth, if you really think what you've said is reasonable — if you do, do your homework for a change and discover what America is really about.

For anyone who didn't attend MSU, "Lash" is C. Patric Larrowe, nics professor at Mic State for the past 33 years and one of the most visible "characters" around He's a ('character" because he prefers Bermuda shorts and Hawaiian shirts to three-piece pinstripe power suits. He has organized such events as an annual tanning contest around the university's outdoor swimming pool.

And he writes a satirical column in The State News, MSU's independent, student-run newspaper, in which he has poked fun at everyone from university presidents to dunderhead

It's that column that got him in trouble. In the midst of on-going protests from black students and supporters about racism on campus, Lash took issue with the leader of one of the movements.

He wrote a column satirizing the Rev. Loyce Lester, head of the MSU Black Parents Association, who had made charges that Lash later said were "so obviously, so grossly, so painfully unfounded that it only tends to antagonize whites and make them hostile.

LASH, YOU SEE, knew that in all the recent furor at both MSU and the University of Michigan over campus not all the complaints "racism." were justified. While some grievances were painfully and shamefully accurate, others were completely out in the ozone.

And these ozone tactics, instead of helping to combat racism, merely serve to stir it up. So Lash went on the attack, satirizing some viewpoints that he felt were just making a bad situation worse.

When the column ran, Lash was immediately labeled a racist. That must have shocked him.

For the man who has gotten him-self in trouble before over his extreme liberal views, for the man who helped to organize the MSU chapter of the NAACP back in 1969 and has spent years speaking out for civil rights causes to be labeled a racist was ridiculous. But there it was: the Big R word.

The point of his column was completely missed. Lash, who is white, had criticized Lester, who is black. That made him a racist. .

THE IRONY is that the reaction to the column created such a flap that a crew from a Detroit television station came to MSU to do a story and, in the process, taped part of Lash's class on labor law. When the reporter asked Lash why there were no blacks in his class (actually two were enrolled but they were both absent that day) Lash opined that maybe it was "too tough" for them. Oops!

Now lots of students have avoided his classes over the years because they have heard that they were too tough. But this was a direct question about black students. The connotations were different.

Lash later apologized for the re-mark and called it "dumb." But, he also said, his dander was up over Lester's charges, and it must surely have been up because the old liberal had been labeled a racist. His reaction to the reporter's question (which, by the way, was also dumb) proved the point he was worried

Unfounded charges — in this case calling Lash a racist - serve no purpose but to antagonize. Even an oldtime left-winger like Lash can be trapped by them.

And when legitimate concerns turn into "movements" (that's what has happened at MSU and U of M over the question of "racism"), the real issues too often become lost in an outpouring of individual protests, some of which are legitimate, many of which are not.

Calling someone a "racist" simply because he disagrees with your views has become too easy an out. That doesn't solve the problem. It just fans the flames.

Prison costs keep soaring

NO, I CAN'T claim to be an exper on prisons.

But I do know words and numb mus I do know words and numbers.

And in the Michigan prison business, the words and numbers are bad.

If you turned back the calendar to President Washington's day, you would find no federal prisons and only one state prison. Connecticut in 1773 locked up bad guys in an old mine. It was pretty grim.

Until the mid-18th century, the death penalty was used for nearly every offense. In my college business law course, the first case in the chapter on contracts involved forgery — for which the culprit was hanged.

Reforms in that era consisted of whipping, banishment, the galleys and "transportation" — the British practice of sending the rebellious Errol Flynns to Australia.

Then came workhouses - for bums and debtors but not for felons. QUAKERS DEVELOPED a penitentiary in Philadelphia.

Notice the religious term: "penitent." Instead of common rooms, inmates had cells, like monks, and could speak only to a chaplain or official. They had no law library — only a Bible. They did not work in order to have time for reflection and prayer. The system was abandoned.

The early 19th century brought "reformatories," first for kids. In 1867 New York State opened an adult reformatory, teaching literacy and manual training.

To make a long story short, these reforms were followed by "rehabilitation" and "correction." Officially, Michigan today has a Department of Corrections running "correctional facilities," not prisons

ALL THE WORDS are a colossal joke, as evidenced by the state Department of Corrections' gloomy report of last week:

• 37 percent of prison graduates in 1983 had been arrested, within three years, for new felonies, and 30 percent went back to prison.

Killers and rapists came back at only a 23 percent rate.

 Property offenders came back at a 37 percent rate.

"A revolving door for criminals" is the phrase coined by L. Brecks Patterson, former Oakland County prosecutor. Little penance, reform, rehabilitation and correction are

The great unwashed public is contcal about the prison system's ability to reform, rehabilitate or correct. Folks want crooks locked up or executed and forgotten. Judges, never indifferent to elicition results, are sending more cropps to prison for longer sentences than ever before. Gov. James Blanchard's budget message reports that bilir prison population has doubled since Today, there are 25,000 da ous felons off our streets, locked behind bars," said Blanchard. THE COST is staggering.

In fiscal 1988, prisons cost $558 million; in fiscal '89 (current year), they cost $614 million — more than the state general fund gave to K-12 schools. For fiscal 1990 Blanchard is asking $667 million.

Prison budgets are up 10 percent for '89 and 8.6 percent for '90.2n contrast, our state universities getting a piddling 2-3 percent, and community colleges are doing liftle

Blanchard boasts with a chart that his higher education budget is 22 percent higher than the one he inherited in 1963. He uses smaller print, however, to note that prison spen ing is up 225 percent in the same

Teachers should avoid cruel remarks

Conversely, if a student has an older sister who was an all "A" student while he is a "C" student and is being put down, in a supposedly humorous way, the teacher is just not thinking or has a nasty streak.

However, it should be noted that, some teachers can "rib kids" and be well liked. It seems to me, youth can perceive whether the teacher cares for them or is a vindictive, angry

Young beginning teachers sometimes get trapped into trying to be the big buddy of students and sometimes get into "jiving" too much.

Shampoo, Steam & Rinse

Students want a teacher, they have their own buddies. However, I can remember myself:

as a first-year teacher, making a remark to a large and heavy student by saying: "Let's warm up by taking two laps around Harry." Harry didn't laugh. Harry was very sensitive. Indeed, what I thought was funny at the time was cruel. A very selfconfident senior came to me after class and made a statement to me that I will never forget. He said: "You Freddy Fraternities ought to realize how much you hurt students by remarks like that."

I was embarrassed and I apologized to the student the next day. It was the first and last time I made remarks about a student's size, shape, intellect, height, weight, looks, etc.

Your question is, "Does this type of behavior occur often?" Not often but it does occasionally occur. The best policy for teachers is to "catch" a student doing good, say something positive and build a mutually respectful relationship.

Talented teens take to the stage

By Julie Brown staff writer

Talented tap dancers will soon take to the stage at Plymouth Salem High School.

The Plymouth Park Players will present their spring musical, "42nd Street," Friday-Saturday, April 14-15 and 21-22, in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School, 46181 Joy, Canton. Curtain time will be 8

Centennial Educational Park students present a musical each spring. "It's been a couple years since we've done a big tap show," said

Gloria Logan, the director.

"It's such a wonderful, frivolous fun kind of thing," she said of "42nd

The show is currently being staged on Broadway. People can either spend approximately $47.50 for tickets to see it in New York City, Logan said, or they can stay here and see the show for much less.

THE CAST includes, appropriately enough, 42 students, all of whom will do some tap dancing. Two of the dance numbers feature the original Broadway choreography.

Six to eight students at the most had any experience in tap dancing; even among those students, few had extensive experience.

"They are outstanding," said Logan, a drama teacher at CEP. "They look great."

A friend of hers, a professional dancer specializing in tap, came to see the students rehearse.

"He was amazed. He said he couldn't believe those kids hadn't had classes."

THE STORY involves a famous director, Julian Marsh, who is producing the musical, "Pretty Lady." The characters Dorothy Brock and Billy Lawler are the stars of "Pretty Lady."

When Dorothy breaks her ankle, it looks as if "Pretty Lady" will have to close. If Peggy Sawyer, the chorus girl from Allentown, Pa., can be taught the entire show in a short

The two-act show, set in 1933, includes many musical numbers.

"IT'S THE most expensive show we've ever done," Logan said.

The show will cost approximately $12,000 to produce, all of which must come from ticket sales. Plymouth Park Players productions aren't supported by school district money.

A number of costumes will be used in the production, boosting the total cost. The show requires approximately 500 costumes; approximately 75 percent of those were rented, and had to be altered and trimmed.

Antique collectors value links to past

By Julie Brown staff writer

Plymouth-Canton area attics hold a wealth of valuable items. Many local people are interested in history and like older things.

"They tend to have a lot of nice little treasure-troves," said Ernest DuMouchelle, co-owner of Du-Mouchelle Art Galleries in Detroit.

DuMouchelle was at the Plymouth Historical Museum Wednesday, April 5, to conduct an antique appraisal clinic. He and Margaret Basta, an appraiser and cataloguer, met with people throughout the day, appraising their valuables and providing information on the origin and history of the items.

"We've been doing this for quite a few years," DuMouchelle said. Some people want to know how much items are worth for insurance purposes; others are considering selling their valuables.

Dolls, china pieces and glassware were among the many items brought to the museum for appraisal. One man brought in a Civil War musket that had been used by an ancestor.

"He didn't know what to do with it, so we're going to sell it for them," DuMouchelle said.

IT ISN'T only middle-aged and older people who collect antiques. It used to be the average age at a DuMouchelle auction was 50 to 60. The average now is about 35. Some older people, in fact, decide to sell some of their belongings because they're planning a move to a smaller home, a condominium or an apartment.

Younger people can buy an antique chest of drawers for about $150 to $200, compared to the $800 or so they'd pay for a brand-new chest of drawers. Those antique pieces add character to homes, Du-Mouchelle said; often, the workmanship is superior as well.

"You're able to buy something that is very expensive and not have to pay the freight."

Pieces from the 18th century are more expensive, he said, but newer antiques often aren't as pricey. Antique buyers don't have to be well-to-do.

"It's regular people that come

The general guideline is that an item must predate 1880 to be considered an antique, although that rule is bent a bit, he said. An handmade item from 1910 or so may be considered an antique.

Newer items, often known as collectibles, can be worth a considerable sum as well.

"Condition is so important."

Chips, cracks or scrapes reduce the value of antiques and collectibles.

CERTAIN ITEMS in museum collections have been badly repaired; even so, they may be some 400 years old and have survived through wars and other upheavals. Those items are often worth a great deal, DuMouchelle said.

He has some down-to-earth advice for antique collectors. It's important for collectors to seek the best examples they can afford. The quality of design, material and workmanship are critical.

workmanship are critical.

The size of antiques can create problems. A 12-foot sideboard, for example, may be difficult to resell.

example, may be difficult to resell.

"Uniqueness is something people have to look for. Don't just buy something because it's expensive or because it has a big name attached to it. It's important that you like , what you're buying because that's what building a collection is

DuMouchelle representatives volunteer their time and talents for the appraisal clinic, said Susan Schrader, a Plymouth Historical Society member who organized the

A closer look reveals one difference from the attire of other officers. Keilman and Byrum, Canton's police chaplains, have small crosses

'We're uniformed and have been through the Reserves Police Academy," said Keilman, also a patrol of-ficer for the West Bloomfield Police Department. "We've been in fights. accidents, a little bit of everything."

They carry guns while working. They've drawn their guns, but haven't had to fire them.

"There've been various times we've had them out," said Byrum, a staff assistant to the director of the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Ann Arbor. "You have to do what you have to do."

Byrum and Keilman, Canton residents, help with a variety of duties. Byrum helped the family whose 8year-old son was recently killed in a traffic accident.

THOSE SITUATIONS are sad ones. They find it rewarding to help people, but know not everyone will accept that help.

"People are always shocked when they find out we don't get paid for this," Byrum said.

Byrum, 46, attended Trevecca Nazarene College in Nashville, Tenn., earning a bachelor's degree. He's a former pastor in the Church of the Nazarene, having served with churches in Lubbock, Texas, Lebanon, Tenn., and Highland, Mich.

He has worked part time as director of evangelism for the United Methodist Church in the Ann Arbor district, and has been with the VA Medical Center since 1982. Byrum's responsibilities there include community relations and consumer af-

"I decided to do it the other way around." More often, a police officer will make the switch to a position as a counselor or psychologist.

They're the first chaplains for the Canton department. They worked with a committee to set up the program, and have been accepted by police officers and fire fighters.

THERE'S SOME resistance to police chaplain work in general.

"Here, it has been overwhelmingly successful," Keilman said. He and Byrum understand the last thing a police officer wants during a crisis is for them to drop to their knees and

"We leave spiritual matters totally alone," Keilman said.

At crime scenes and accidents, police officers have important work to do. They must find out the facts as best they can.

Under those circumstances, it's easy for officers to overlook the emotional impact of situations. The chaplains are able to provide that

Free trade helps Canadians

Expert: U.S. businessmen far behind

By Tom Henderson staff writer

The Canadians are coming! The Canadians are coming! Local experts on international trade say that American business executives are far behind their Canadian counterparts in plans to expand operations across the border to take advantage of the Free Trade Agreement between Canada and the United States, which went into effect

The irony is that the agreement had sparked controversy in Canada and was the focal point of the last election for prime minister. Canadian opponents of free trade said that it could turn Canada into the 51st

That isn't happening, local experts say. Better, they say, that American business leaders worry about the United States becoming the 11th

"THE NUMBER of companies that I've dealt with with no knowledge of and no understanding of free trade is incredible," Jim Searing of the Big Eight accounting firm of

Ernst & Whinney said in the firm's Business Advisory Review, published this past winter.

Businesses here have not been as effective as they should have," said Marc Santucci, who was formerly director of international development for the state of Michigan. He is now is president of his own consulting firm in East Lansing, ELM Interna-

'Our companies have traditionally looked at exporting as a luxury. The lack of interest in exporting in general is a serious problem.

"We're a nation of very aggressive

Canadian counterparts are way, way ahead of us. You get down to middle-Commerce: The key to the fuhigher on the list. It's on top of their Canadian competitors' list and has been there for some time - and because of that, Canadians will have a jump on competition."

The only companies who have done their homework are the Big Three — Chrysler, Ford and General Motors, Bublitz said. As for the rest, even Tier I suppliers with millions in potential business at stake "haven't done their homework," Bublitz said.

There are two reasons the Canadians are more prepared to take advantage of the Free Trade Agreement, Santucci said. One, because it was a hot political issue there, they were more aware of it and more knowledgeable about its benefits; two, Canadians, with one of the smallest internal markets of any industrial nation, have traditionally relied on exports, while Americans. with one of the largest internal markets, have tended to keep their focus close to home.

That shortsightedness may have worked until now, but is dangerous in today's global economy, Santucci said. He said companies should look at exporting not only as a way of increasing business, but as a form of the best defense being a good offense. If you keep foreign competitors busy on their soil, they have less time to come attack you on yours.

BUT HE is pessimistic that American business won't get the message until it is too late.

"As long as our economy is going good, they'll be too busy to worry about exporting. When the economy takes a dip and they have excess capacity, they'll say, 'Hey, great, Canada, fine.' But it will be too late, then.

History of trade relations

history of trade relations and attempts to limit tariffs and trade sanctions. Here is a timetable of past and future actions:

• 1854 — The Reciprocity Treaty is signed, with most tariffs removed on trade between Canada and the U.S. The U.S. abrogates the treaty during the Civil War because of England's pro-South stance.

• Mid-1930s — Two treaties are signed liberalizing trade.

• 1947 — The countries sign the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which governs trade for the

• 1965 - The Auto Pact goes into effect, eliminating many tariffs on new cars and new-car parts. The subsequent success of the pact is influential in proceeding with the

Local robotics repair firm looks eagerly to Canada

By Tom Henderson

Craig Barnaby is one American business executive who isn't reluctant to expand into Canada and take advantage of opportunities available under the new Free Trade Agreement.

Barnaby has eagerly attended seminars on the topic, is close to completing a deal with a Chicago firm for financing his expansion into Canada and hopes to have a Windsor operation under way before the end of the year.

When we open up, we're going to blow their socks off," he says of his current competitors.

Barnaby owns Phillip's Feedback Consultant Services Ltd. of Livonia, which repairs encoders, the brains that control factory robotic systems. He began his business 10 years ago out of the bedroom of a mobile home in Highland, later expanded into the basement of a house in Redford, and now operates out of an industrial complex on Schoolcraft in Livonia, where he recently doubled his area to 4,000 square feet and employs eight workers.

Expanding to Canada should, he says, help him meet his goal of tripling his business this year. He said he has 13 or 14 competitors in Michigan, but just three in all of BARNABY HAS made modest attempts to expand his business into Canada before, but until the Free Trade Agreement, tariffs, delays and other border hassles made it impractical. What few clients he would pick up, he'd usually soon lose.

Doing business there "was always a pain in the derriere," he said.

There was no next-day air or truck service to Windsor. If he wanted to carry a repaired encoder across the border, he had to wait in four-hour truck lines, pay special hostility either going in our coming out of Canada.

UPS took two or three weeks to get packages through the border, an unacceptable delay to a company whose assembly line might be down while a part was being repaired. Then there were the forms. "If all the i's weren't dotted and the t's crossed, customs would kick it back to us," said Barnaby.

Sometimes, he said, customs would disassemble the complex units, then send them in a disassambled state to a customer who had no knowledge how to put them back together. "So we'd have to repair what customs had taken apart."

Under the old law, if Barnaby wanted to open a Canadian operation, he needed a Canadian-born, 50-percent partner. He explored several partnerships, but couldn't find anyone with whom he was comfortable.

Eventually, he gave up. Until the Free Trade Agreement, he was resigned to staying strictly American.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED. Now, the Canadians have opened a consulate in Detroit and have cooperated fully and eagerly in helping him find a Windsor location and cut through paperwork. He will, he says, be doing between $250,000 and $500,000 (U.S. dollars) a year in Canadian business within two years.

And within two years, he hopes to have seven or eight Canadian employees. (He can use American technicians for up to a year to train Canadian workers, but after that he must employ Canadians.)

Of his former customers, he says: "To get them back would not be that hard. I just have to let them know I'm

Facts about U.S.- Canada trade

Here are some facts and figures involving trade between the U.S. and Canada and the Free Trade Agreement:

 Canada is this country's largest trading partner. The two nations have the largest bilateral trading partnership in the world, with estimates predicting that $170 billion in goods and $30 billion in services will be traded in 1989.

• Canada's second-largest trading partner is Japan, and its thirdlargest is the United Kingdom. But its trading with Michigan alone is more than that with Japan and the UK combined.

• Michigan now exports $8 billion in goods and services a year to Canada, a figure that should rise by $1 billion in the next five years, helping create 25,000 jobs; according to government and business experts. About 70 percent of the exports are in motor vehicle components. Michigan imports about $18 billion in goods and services from Canada.

• Prior to the Free Trade Agreement, which took effect in January, 75 percent of the trade between countries was already duty free. Tariffs on the remainder averaged more than 9 percent on goods going into Canada and more than 4 percent on goods going into the U.S.

 Some of the higher tariffs were 17.5 percent on U.S. telephone switching equipment, 15 percent on Canadian petrochemical goods and 19 percent on Canadian paper prod-

 Seventy-five percent of Canadian exports now go to the U.S. About 20 percent of American imports come from Canada, with 25 percent of American exports heading north.

• Two million U.S. jobs currently depend on exports to Canada, 431,000 in the Great Lakes region, including 180,000 in Michigan.

o One of seven manufacturing jobs in Michigan now depend on exports, and one in nine for the U.S. as

 One of the benefits to the U.S. of the Free Trade Agreement will be to provide the U.S. a source of oil even in times of shortages or international crisis. Canada must maintain the same proportion of oil flow-ing south relative to supply. It must "share the hurt," said Sal Badali of the Canadian firm of Thorne, Ernst & Whinney.

Free trade helps Canadians

Expert: U.S. businessmen far behind

By Tom Henderson staff writer

The Canadians are coming! The Canadians are coming!

Local experts on international trade say that American business executives are far behind their Canadian counterparts in plans to expand operations across the border to take advantage of the Free Trade Agreement between Canada and the United States, which went into effect

The irony is that the agreement had sparked controversy in Canada and was the focal point of the last election for prime minister. Canadian opponents of free trade said that it could turn Canada into the 51st

That isn't happening, local experts say. Better, they say, that American business leaders worry about the United States becoming the 11th

THE NUMBER of companies that I've dealt with with no knowledge of and no understanding of free trade is incredible," Jim Searing of the Big Eight accounting firm of

Ernst & Whinney said in the firm's Business Advisory Review, published this past winter.

"Businesses here have not been as effective as they should have," said Marc Santucci, who was formerly director of international development for the state of Michigan. He is now is president of his own consulting firm in East Lansing, ELM Interna-

"Our companies have traditionally looked at exporting as a luxury. The lack of interest in exporting in general is a serious problem.

"We're a nation of very aggressive buyers and we're not very aggressive sellers. As a company, a state or a country, we have not put the emphasis on export production."

ROBERT BUBLITZ of Livonia, an Ernst & Whinney partner, heads the firm's international services group.

We are not doing what we ought to be doing here in the U.S. Our Canadian counterparts are way, way ahead of us. You get down to middlesized and smaller firms (in the U.S.), and they haven't done anything with it," Bublitz said.

'Most Canadian companies are much further ahead, and that's true on a government level as well. Very much so," Bublitz said.

JEANNE PALUZZI heads JGP Marketing Group International Inc. of Livonia, a public relations and marketing firm. She is negotiating her own expansion into Canada, visa-vis a joint venture with a Windsor company, but she said she has been unable to convince her own clients to get moving into Canada, too.

"Everybody's talking about it, but nobody's doing much," Paluzzi said. Those who do the work now are going to be way ahead."

Paluzzi is on the international trade committee of the advisory council to the Small Business Administration and has been aware of the Free Trade Agreement for several years, which she said has given her a head start in expanding into Canada.

Paluzzi said she and her prospective partner are about to draft a working document after having nearly completed what she termed a courtship period.

"Americans are reluctant to think exporting, traditionally because their own market is so big internally. (But) you can't just stay in Michigan borders or U.S. borders in a world that is increasing its global econo-

BUBLITZ SAID his clients have also been slow to act.

"I still find a lot of passive acknowledgement of the agreement," he said. "It seems to end up three or four notches down on the do-list of most of my clients. It ought to move higher on the list. It's on top of their Canadian competitors' list and has been there for some time - and because of that, Canadians will have a jump on competition."

The only companies who have done their homework are the Big Three - Chrysler, Ford and General Motors, Bublitz said. As for the rest, even Tier I suppliers with millions in potential business at stake "haven't done their homework," Bublitz said.

There are two reasons the Canadians are more prepared to take advantage of the Free Trade Agreement, Santucci said. One, because it was a hot political issue there, they were more aware of it and more knowledgeable about its benefits; two, Canadians, with one of the smallest internal markets of any industrial nation, have traditionally relied on exports, while Americans, with one of the largest internal markets, have tended to keep their focus close to home.

That shortsightedness may have worked until now, but is dangerous in today's global economy, Santucci said. He said companies should look at exporting not only as a way of increasing business, but as a form of the best defense being a good offense. If you keep foreign competitors busy on their soil, they have less time to come attack you on yours.

BUT HE is pessimistic that American business won't get the message until it is too late.

"As long as our economy is going good, they'll be too busy to worry about exporting. When the economy takes a dip and they have excess capacity, they'll say, 'Hey, great, Canada, fine.' But it will be too late, then.

Future enterpriser makes opportunity

the parent of one who has expressed an interest in starting a business some day? If so, it is never too soon to take advantage of opportunities that are directed at young people interested in making it big in small business.

High school students aspiring to join the ranks of tomorrow's entrepreneurs are in a position to start planning for the future. Contrary to popular belief, achieving success as a small-business owner doesn't happen primarily because of luck or chance.

"Being in the right place at the right time" or having a family member in business for themselves may open a few doors, but it doesn't do much else in guaranteeing individual success in the long

The majority of high schools now offer marketing courses and related entrepreneurship classes to students interested in developing business management skills.

ADDITIONAL OPPORTUNI-TIES include the services offered by independent counseling organizations that work with students and their families throughout junior high, high school and college

These organizations assist in creating complete educational and career-related strategies, while providing the appropriate support services along the way. Rather than try to take the place of school counselors, these companies attempt to complement the efforts of student resources.

Annual events such as the Future Entrepreneurs Conference assist students by providing opportunities to exchange ideas, information and knowledge with area entrepreneurs. This year the conference, sponsored by the University of Michigan-Dearborn, will be Tuesday, May 2, at the campus on Evergreen south of Ford Road.

According to conference director Arefaine G. Yohannes, the purpose of the conference is to "increase high school students' awareness of business concepts and business opportunities." The conference features eight area entrepreneurs who will share with students what is involved in starting up and running a successful independent business.

The conference is free and attracts 75-100 students. For information, contact Marilyn Dohany at the UM-D School of Management, 4901 Evergreen, Dearborn 48128.

IRS ubber alles

Awesome powers of tax collectors mean you must heed IRS

By Sid Mittre special writer

Recently I attended a seminar on the subject of tax liability and was shocked to discover that the IRS has the inalienable right to do just about everything it wishes to collect on

Here are some of what the IRS can do to you:

• Even if you don't owe any taxes, the IRS can collect whatever it believes you owe them.

• Normally, creditors need a court order to seize your assets or put a lien on them. The IRS doesn't. • If you submit to the IRS a fi-nancial statement and fail to include certain assets in it, the IRS can claim that these assets belong to them. • The IRS can put a lien on your income so it will be paid before any-

While these are morbid thoughts, there is a bit of good news: in November 1988, the IRS issued Publication No. 1 (8-88), which can be obtained by calling 1-800-424-FORM. Here are some highlights included in that publication.

The appeal procedure - According to this publication, if you do not agree with the examiners report, you may meet with the examiner's supervisor to discuss your case fur-

Fair collection of tax - Whenever the IRS thinks you owe tax, it will send you a bill. If you think that the IRS is correct and pay the tax, the matter is settled. If, however, you believe that the IRS is wrong or are unable to cough up the money and do nothing about it, you are in trouble.

As explained in the chart, the collection process will continue until you pay or the IRS begins the enforcement action to collect the tax.

Problem resolution program - If you have a tax problem that you cannot clear up through normal channels, you may write to the Prob-lem Resolution Office in the district or service center with which you have the problem. You may also reach the Problem Resolution Office by calling 1-800-424-1040.

My final advice to you is this: If you have a problem with the IRS, do not procrastinate. Consult your financial planner or tax attorney who will advise you on your rights as a taxpayer.

Seminar: "Medicare Tax - How to Beat It," "Retirement - How to Make the Dream Come True," "Lump Sum Distribution - Safety vs. Return" and "New Tax Law and Annuity Investment."

The seminar, sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning, will be held 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, April 11, in the offices of Coordinated Financial Planning, Sheffield Office Park, 3250 W. Big Beaver, Suite 540, Troy. For reservations, call 643-8888.

Sid Mittra is a professor of finance, school of business at Oakland University and owner of Coordinated Financial Planning.

At first glance, it might seem that both dollars are worth the same amount. Much like the interest earned from two time deposits with the same rates and terms. Well, don't be fooled by appearances. Because not all banks calculate interest the same way.

GM anticipates trade with united Europe

By Erich Smith AP Newsfeatures

European nations' efforts to build the world's largest trading bloc by 1992 offers new challenges and opportunities, General Motors Chairman Roger Smith said Wednesday.

"The dream is to create a new free market - a third capitalist power, bigger in population than either the U.S. or Japan — and in economic power, certainly the equal of either one," Smith said in a speech to the World Affairs Council of Phila-

A united European market will also present new challenges to Japanese automakers, one they are pre-paring to meet, the head of the No. 1 group. American car manufacturer said.

THE DRIVE by the 12 member nations of the European Community to abolish barriers to trade and movement among themselves is in some ways similar to the American move, 200 years ago, to establish a national market, Smith said.

If it succeeds, he said, "the dream is to improve the living standards of some 320 million people by stimulating enterprise, innovation, and of course trade."

The program, known as EC92, should benefit the United States too,

"THE EC is our largest trading partner, and we think economic integration will strengthen Europe and create new opportunities for U.S. companies - provided, and the big provision is that EC-wide standards don't discriminate against American products of firms.

"The American companies with the least to fear are the ones with a long European history," Smith said, pointing out GM's 60-year presence and 100,000-plus payroll in Europe.

"Last year, we sold as many Opels and Vauxhalls in Europe as we did Chevrolets in the U.S.," Smith said.

"I CAN tell you some European automakers feel threatened by the Japanese — and with good reason: the Japanese are formidable competitors as we in the United States know only too well," Smith said.

Now the change in the yen-dollar relationship has given us here in the U.S. a little breather, so to speak, but the yen has not moved against the European currencies to the same ex-

Of the EC nations, only Spain and Portugal impose quotas on vehicles made in the U.S., Smith said, so it would seem unlikely for the EC to limit imports of Japanese-brand cars and trucks manufactured in SEVERAL JAPANESE auto companies are now negotiating with European companies or governments to establish manufacturing bases in the EC. he said.

"One way or another, then, Japanese cars will get into the EC," he said. "It's just a matter of how and how quickly and how many."

SMITH SAID the social and industrial policies that the EC members adopt among themselves will be important to the success of economic integration. European governments may have to let some businesses die, allow others to lay off workers and not interfere with new, successful enterprises, he said.

"EC92 will weaken or eliminate protection for the so-called 'national champion' firms - those producers who enjoy supremacy in their home countries because of non-tariff barriers, consumer preference, or government subsidy or actual ownership."

Business conditions declined in March

The Purchasing Managers Association of Detroit reported a significant decline in Detroit-area business conditions in March.

This represents the fifth consecutive decline in the monthly Composite Index (CI) of metro-area business conditions.

The CI stood at 51.1 in March, down from 53.3 in February. When the CI is above 50.0, it generally signifies economic expansion.

"The latest survey offers rather dramatic evidence of local economic deceleration," said David L. Littmann, first vice president and senior economist of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit.

"OVERALL, BUSINESS conditions in March for Detroit were swamped by reports of lower production and new orders, especially among purchasing managers tied to the automotive sector.

"To illustrate, we compared auto to non-automotive responses in the March survey and surfaced the following index numbers: auto non-auto production 45 57; new orders 43 56

'From this analysis, it is clear' that the recent emphasis on auto industry incentive programs is justi-'. fied." Littmann said overall local' conditions were at their slowest in 17 months, hovering just over the 2 tread-water point as of March.

NEVERTHELESS, HE said "first-: quarter 1989 conditions averaged 54.5, nearly identical to 54.1 for the same period last year.

"The differences appear twofold; still strong, but somewhat abated, price pressures and deceleration; rather than acceleration, going for ward. Also, purchasing managers expressed additional caution and concontrol sevsitivity with regard to altered buying policies and capital spending plans.

"Items cited in short supply during March included: paper and plastic products, circuit board electronic components, cold-rolled steel and low-carbon wire, axles, bearings, copper, nickel and zinc.

The bearings shortage relates to trade disputes over 'dumping.'

staff writer

The proposal to raise the minimum wage from $3.35 to $4.55 an hour by 1991, recently passed in the U.S. House of Representatives, is welcome, and, some feel, long over-

But critics of the bill are concerned about its possible effect on

Opponents fear the higher mini-mum wage could reduce the number of jobs — some studies have suggested by 275,000 - at the minimum wage level, especially at fast food restaurants.

"I would say not," said Karen Gryllis, of Tubby's Inc. department of operations. "We depend a lot on the teenage work force and we'll continue to do so."

Gryllis said there is a lack of workers to fill positions still available in Tubby's Submarine Shops, and said the chain already pays close to the proposed minimum rate.

"The starting rate varies from store to store, but it's up around the $4 level," Gryllis said. "We'd love to see all sorts of people come in to apDARRELL TERRY, a regional re-cruiter for Hardee's Food Systems,

"We'll have to deal with his rates. Some stores might not be able to make their profits that tradition-ally they may have made," because of the rate increase, he added.

"People have believed that if you're a fast food place you make vast amounts of money," Terry said. 'That's not necessarily so.'

Terry noted stores with a lower volume of business as an example.

"Because they don't make that much, the minimum wage hike will cut into their profits."

Individual owners of small stores will probably be hardest hit, Terry said, because they'll probably have to cut back on jobs.

Oakwood Vs. Cancer

If you don't want to quit smoking, you won't. But if you want to quit, you can. And we can help.

You've seen and heard all the warnings. You know that smoking is harmful. People around you may even have started to reject you. Perhaps you don't even enjoy the habit anymore.

Well, it's never too soon to quit. And Oakwood Hospital can get you on your way, with the "Smokeless" stop-smoking program. A stop-smoking program recommended in the Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health. It can save lives by changing the habits of people like you. We've seen it work. So don't put it off any longer. Come to our free introductory meeting. See how you can quit the smoking habit for good. Just call 278-5151 for details.

Another good idea in the fight against cancer: regular checkups with your physician. Early detection results in more effective and less radical treatment of most forms of cancer. Oakwood's oncology capabilities include state-of-the-art diagnostic tools-Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI), CT Scan, nuclear medicine, mammography, ultrasound, laboratory testing, chemical analysis and microscopic exams. If treatment is required, we offer advanced surgery, radiation therapy and chemotherapy.

But if you smoke, you can start your own campaign against lung cancer. Right now. Call the Oakwood Department of Community Health at 278-5151. And enroll in a spring session of the "Smokeless" program at an Oakwood center near you.

> It costs $155 for seven classes, approximately 11 hours of instruction. But what it may save you is priceless. "Smokeless" is a copyrighted program of the American Institute for Preventive Medicine.

CC coach admits he fixed document

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Redford Catholic Central wrestling coach Mike Rodriguez has admitted he falsified documents regarding senior Mike Gentile's eligibility to wrestle at 119 pounds in the individual district tournament.

As a result, Rodriguez faces a possible suspension, and Gentile, whom Rodriguez removed from the tournament after he won the district championship, could be stripped of his title.

Following the district, Rodriguez said it was a matter of conscience that caused him to withdraw Gentile from the individual tournament.
"When it got to the final, I couldn't let it go any further," he said. "I knew it wasn't right. I lived with a lie, and I let it go on. "Had he gone on and won (the

"Had he gone on and won (the state title), it probably would have been a bigger can of worms."

RODRIGUEZ, who has coached high school wrestling for 32 years and spent the last 22 at Catholic Central, reflected on the impact his actions will have on his credibility and CC's reputation.

"I've been questioned before, but not to the point I've gone ahead and done this," he said. "I've always been straight up with everybody but this one time. "When you get on top, everyone is going to point. This really makes it bad — I go ahead and justify everything they've been saying."

Independent investigations by the Observer and CC officials revealed Gentile, who had wrestled at 125 pounds the entire season, had not met the requirement to wrestle once at 119 during the season.

In a meeting Monday between the letic director and Rodriguez, the latter acknowledged he submitted false information regarding Gentile's eligibility to Garden City High School, the pre-district tournament host. Rodriguez made no attempt to defend his action, saying he told Andrews and Santello: "It's all a lie; I'm responsible."

SANTELLO TOLD the Observer he immediately reported the violation to the Michigan High School Athletic Association, the organization which governs high school athletics.

Jerry Cvengros, associate director of the MHSAA, said he has talked with CC officials and is awaiting their written statement before the MHSAA begins its own review of the matter and possible penalties it might impose on Rodriguez and/or Cvengros said action taken against Rodriguez could range from probation to suspension.

"They'll probably strip (Gentile) of the title," Rodriguez said. "Whatever I get I deserve."

I get I deserve."

When told by the Observer that Rodriguez admitted to having falsified documents and acknowledged his wrong doing, Cvengros said:

"Those aren't the kind of admissions you get every day. There would have to be some action taken, because in my opinion (Gentile) wrestled illegally. It sounds like that."

Cvengros said there is no precise timetable for resolving the matter, but he expects the MHSAA to rule on it this spring. He added the MHSAA will consult CC officials and possibly Rodriguez before issuing a decision, "As I told the state, I would hold any decision in abeyance until I hear what action they and the Catholic League recommend should be taken," Andrews said. "We'll be working together on it." Rodriguez said he entered Gentile at 119 pounds for the tournament to enchance his chances of winning an individual state title.

MHSAA rules state a wrestler must certify at a particular weight and also have wrestled at that weight at least once during the regular season to be eligible to compete in post-season tournaments.

Wildcats capture state AAU crown

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

For the last three years, Jill Estey often wondered what it would be like playing in the same backcourt as Michelle Fortier instead of against her.

It would have been a headache — for opposing coaches.

The two were rivals when Estey

The two were rivals when Estey played point guard for Plymouth Satem and Fortier played the same position at Canton. Their high school playing days are over, but now they're teammates on the Western Wayne Wildcats AAU team, which last weekend won the state title in Sandusky.

Estey, bound for the University of Illinois on a basketball scholarship, was named the tournament's most valuable player, leading the Wildcats to a 64-43 win Sunday over the Flint Lady Wolverines in the title game. Fortier, who signed with Western Michigan, was the perfect complement, scoring eight points in the championship game of the double-elimination tournament.

"WE WERE JUST talking about it last week in practice, this being our first time ever playing on the same team," Estey said. "I would have liked it in high school. It would have made for a nice full-court pressure defense."

The win qualified the Wildcats for the AAU nationals, which begin June 30 in Charleston, W.Va., and Western Wayne coach Fred Thomann, who also coaches the Salem girls team, can't wait to reunite the guard tandem. Of course, there's one other starting guard on the team, and her name is Jennifer Shasky, this year's Miss Basketball from Class A champion Birmingham Marian.

"They (Estey and Fortier) would have been a tremendous high school backcourt," Thomann said. "They play off each other so well and then you throw in Jennifer Shasky as another perimeter player who doesn't do anything but shoot and make it.

"They had good quickness and played good defense. The thing that really made us successful was our post players got the ball in time.

"We had really outstanding individuals in terms of team players," he added. "Even the great players on our team were great team players. There were no individual players among the group."

Estey, playing in lier third straight AAU 16-and-under tourney, was surprised about being named MVP. Shasky led the Wildcats in the sixgame tournament with a 16-point average. Estey averaged about 10 points per game, but she drew rave reviews because of her passing ability.

"IT WAS A super shock because I wasn't even thinking about it, to be honest," Estey said. "I said 'No, wait a minute.' The whole team deserved it. It's a shame it has to go to one player."

Eleven players made up the Wildcats' roster, including Estey's teammate at Salem, Teri King, and Canton senior forward Candi Jones. The others on the roster were 6-foot-4 center Michelle Hall, and forward Diane Hall, both from Walled Lake Western; East Detroit's Dana Filsek, Anchor Bay's Stephanie Seifert and Karen Baird and Debbie Stephens of Northville.

The tourney began Friday when the Wildcats knocked off the West Bloomfield Knights 64-41. They advanced through the winner's bracket with wins Saturday over the Detroit Brick City Bombers, the Flint Lady Wildcats and the 131 West Side Express.

Flint fought through the loser's bracket and gave the Wildcats their only loss early Sunday in the finals, 64-47. The Wildcats came back, however, later in the day to finally dispose of the Flint team. Shasky scored 21 in the title game.

"I thought there were four real good teams there (Western Wayne, Flint, Detroit and 131 Express)," Thomann said. "And we had the toughest road, because we had to play all of them to get to the finals. We did a very good job of it."

Said Estey: "We had a lot of height, and that's one thing that helped us get through. And we had a good coach — It helped a lot."

Eagles seek change in fortune after four consecutive defeats

By Dan O'Mears

Brett Manning's first year as varsity baseball coach at Plymouth Christian Academy had a rough start, and he's hoping the Eagles can smooth things out before

PCA is 0-4 in the new season after dropping a doubleheader to Ypsilanti Calvary Christian and single games to Huron Valley Lutheran and Grosse Pointe University

If the Eagles are to reverse the situation, senior Ben Odom is bound to be at the forefront of any comeback. He is PCA's best ballplayer, being the ace of the pitching staff and also an excellent center fielder.

Odom was on the all-Michigan Independent Athletic Conference team last year, hitting over .500 and having a 4-5 record as a pitcher. Manning also speaks highly of

'He already had a fly ball hit to him and pegged it to the catcher to get the guy tagging up at third," said Manning, who replaces Sam Gaines. "It was a line shot to the catcher - he's gone! It was a beautiful throw."

THE PITCHING staff also includes sophomore Manish Nandani, seniors John Pierce and Kevin Breier and iunior Keith Majeski. All four are returning players.

Nandani will be the starting shortstop, and Breier was used mostly in relief situations last year. Pierce and Majeski have shown improvement, and Pierce struck out nine in four innings of relief work after Nandani suffered a sprained ankle against Huron Valley.

The Eagles have an all-league player behind the plate in senior Bryan Davies, but catching isn't his regular position. He started at shortstop last year but agreed to fill a need at catcher when Jeff Vos graduated and Scott Cox transferred.

"He has the strongest arm on the team," Manning said. "He's aggressive so he's not going to let anybody go by him going into home." Davies hit .500-plus last year, smacked several home runs and led the team in runs batted in.

Most of the pitchers also have regular duties in the field, and Pierce will be at first base, Breier second and Nandani shortstop.

Pierce became the starter last year when former star

'HE CAN catch the ball," Manning said. "I don't have to worry when the infield throws the ball over about him dropping it. He'll come off the bag to get the ball, Breier is more of a defensive asset than an offensive threat. Nandani is a smart ballplayer with good baseball sense, Manning said.

"(Nandani) knows what's going on at all times," he said. "As a pitcher, he doesn't have great speed, but he knows where he's going to put it and when."

Completing the infield is sophomore third baseman Travis Thomas, who is new to the school and a firstyear member of the PCA squad. He isn't noted for his hitting but is good with the glove, according to the coach.

"He can stop the ball," Manning said. "If he can't stop it, he'll knock it down and keep it in the infield. He's very consistent about that."

Senior Scott Seely is the left fielder and leads the team in RBI. Manning plans to platoon junior Dave Fox, senior Bill Connell and sophomore Jeff Barnett in right Junior Bill Printy is a good hitter who could help the team with his bat, according to Manning.

What George wants to h What George wants to happen — a winning team able to challenge the big boys, like the University of Michigan, Eastern Michigan and the University of Detroit — may not be too far into the future.

"We've been in every ballgame," George claimed. "Our pitching is as good as I could hope for. Where we are right now is where I hoped we'd be at the end of the season.'

WHERE THE CRUSADERS are right now isn't that bad. They outhit Siena 25-12 Monday, but lost because they also out-erred them, committing eight miscues to the Saints' one. In the opener, Rich Gierczak, Eric Terlicki and Shaun Hayward each had two hits, with Gierczak and Havward driving in runs.

Siena won with a run in the seventh on an error by Gierczak, a single, a fielder's choice, an intentional walk and a walk by losing pitcher Greg St. John to Craig Matthews (from Southfield), which forced in the winning run.

The second game was another tight battle. Madonna took a 4-3 lead with a run in the seventh on Hayward's triple and a single by Mike Wienczak (from Livonia Franklin), but Siena tied it on a two-out base hit by Matthews in the bottom half of the inning.

Two errors in the 13th inning made the Saints' winners. An error by third baseman St. John put a runner on base, and another by an outfielder on Dennis Szczechowski's single scored the game-winner. Mike Hocking, pitching in relief of Hayward, was the losing pitcher.

ERNIE BOWLING had three hits in the game for Madonna, with Gierczak, Hayward, St. John, Steve Coffell and Wienczak getting two apiece. Ken Nuss had two hits for

"We're killing ourselves," said George. "If we can just eliminate that one mistake that's killing us every game. I think our team took another step up the ladder today. We started on the bottom, and right now we could be using our status as a new team as an excuse, that we're not expected to win. But we're not."

Madonna didn't, solidify its schedule quickly enough last fall to be able to challenge for the NAIA District 23 championship. That will have to wait until next year. But George's building process is proceeding according to plan - maybe ahead of it.

George, who coached the Borgess varsity for three seasons, had only six players when he took command in November. He has just 15 now, and two of them are injured.

Canton opens season by crushing Panthers

The Chiefs, who are expected to field one of the area's best ballclubs, thumped Redford Union, the defending Northwest Suburban League champion and another quality team, 8-0 at Central Middle School.

Winning pitcher Jeff Kugelman, a senior left-hander, worked the first five innings and allowed only one of three Panther hits. He also struck out six and walked two.

Mike Sulak finished the game, striking out four and issuing two walks over the final two innings.

The game was scoreless until the bottom of the fifth inning, when Canton broke it open with five runs.

After a single and a bunt, Geoff Allen's sacrifice put Pat Hughes at third base and Jamie Sisler on second. Derek Humphries, who led the nine-hit attack for the Chiefs, hit a two-run single.

Mikio Tanaka's double was followed by Mike Culver's two-run triple. Culver scored the last run of the inning with the help of an infield error.

Canton added two more in the sixth when Humphries, who was twofor-four with four RBIs, followed Sulak's single and a walk to Allen with a two-run triple. Humphries scored on Tanaka's sacrifice fly.

While the Chiefs got steady pitching and timely hitting, the fact Canton played errorless baseball on a day with less-than-perfect weather was

BUT THE SUPPORT is there, especially from his assistant coaches: Ed Dreslinski, who played at Borgess, and Milt Wilcox.

Sound familiar? Yep, that's the same Milt Wilcox that tossed the American League pennant-clinching game for the Detroit Tigers in 1984. George met Wilcox at a baseball clinic a few years ago and, when George was applying for college coaching positions, he used Wilcox as a reference.

When George got the job at Madonna, he contacted Wilcox and asked him if he'd like to be his pitching coach. Wilcox agreed.

'Having Milt Wilcox in our program is a real plus," admitted George. "No, he's not at every practice or at every game (he's made seven or eight of 11). But he's taught the (pitchers) how to be aggressive, how to set up hitters. He has 19 years of pro experience, and he's very good relating to the kids. He's very down to earth."

That's a location Madonna may not be for long. The Crusaders are already looking skyward.

LAST SATURDAY, Madonna won pair of games at Michigan Christian College. The Crusaders beat Great Lakes Bible College 14-4, then walloped the host team 20-5.

In the opener, Pete Berrios drove home five runs with a double and a fourth-inning three-run homer.' Wienczak added a triple and a double, scoring twice; Steve Coffell had two hits and an RBI; Fred Cahill drove in two runs with two hits; and Jim Boucher ignited a seven-run fourth inning with a two-run double.

Eric Terlicki was the winning pitcher, lasting 41/2 innings and surrendering four earned runs on seven hits and five walks.

In the second game, Madonna accumulated 22 hits, with Terlicki getting four (with one RBI); Boucher, Gierczak and Coffell adding three apiece (Boucher drove in five runs, Gierczak three); and Hayward and Kevin Krotche two each (Hayward had four RBD

The Livenia Churchill senior should be the All-Observer wrestler at 119 pounds.

Redford Catholic Central coach Mike Rodriguez should give the peo-ple at Churchill a call after committing a grave mistake when he know-ingly allowed his own wrestler, Mike Gentile, to illegally compete at 119 pounds during the state individual district tournament at Plymouth Salem High School.

Gentile, who beat Dudek 4-0 in their only meeting for the district title on Feb. 4, never wrestled the required one match (during the regular season) at 119 as Michigan High School Athletic Association rules stipulate.

Rodriguez said the reasons were selfish, hoping to enhance his wrestler's chances of getting a college scholarship by competing at a lighter weight class. He pointed out that Gentile had come very close to winning a state title before, and, more ss, deserved to win a title because of his four years of hard work. Rodriguez felt Gentile was better suited at 119 although was already one of the state's best at 125, having tied eventual state champion Greg Paiz of Grandville in a match earlier

Emons

The situation is sad because it not only affects Catholic Central High, but it also affects another area school. What we have here is a district champion who wrestled at the wrong weight and an All-Area candidate who belongs in the 125 category instead of 119.

But before public school league people read this with glee, the viola-tion should not be a reflection on the entire CC athletic program or school. This in no way should tarnish the repuation of this proud school.

THE REV. DENNIS ANDREWS, the CC principal, and athletic director Bob Santello are to be commended to taking the proper steps.

And it's clear that Churchill administrators, coaches and parents should be satisfied with the steps CC

"All I want to see happen is that our kid (Dudek) get what he deserves as far as the All-Area team is concerned," said Churchill A.D. Larry Joiner. "And the other thing is the fact that our kid should have had a better and more fair chance of winning the district."

CC administrators said they will wait until the MHSAA makes it findings before making any comment or taking any possible action against Rodrigues, who has won seven state titles in 22 years at the school.

DUDEK, LIKE Gentile, worked hard for four years and had a fine senior season, going 34-13-1. He won the Western Lakes Activities Association meet at 119, placed fourth in the regional and qualified for the state Class A meet.

His coach, Melvin Richendollar called Dudek "a wrestler with a lot of desire, determination and heart." Dudek is a deserving first-teamer and should be given his due.

Meanwhile, Rodrigues's fate is yet

The MHSAA has to consider that Rodriguez, although late in his admittance, finally came forth. The violation affected one wrestler and nobody in the team standings. But the violation is severe and a slap on the wrist may be too light.

This is not the first time or will be the last time the MHSAA will have to deal with something like this.

It's in their hands, as Rodriguez contends, but I feel the CC coach meaning he weighed in at that weight and it was witnessed by a registered official - on Dec. 29 at a tournament in Medina, Ohio. However. he never did wrestle at 119 prior to the individual district.

Rodriguez said he altered the results of a quadrangular meet at Cleveland St. Edward on Dec. 23 to indicate Gentile had wrestled at 119 against Doug Shaffer of Waverly, N.Y. Results of the CC-Waverly Central dual match obtained by the Observer from Ed Decker, the Waverly athletic director, show Gentile and Shaffer competed at 125. Wrestlers had until Jan. 30 to meet the onematch requirement.

"He just didn't wrestle," Rodriguez said. "I waited too long to wrestle him at that weight."

In the district tournament at Plymouth Salem, Gentile won all three of his bouts by decision at 119, defeating Kael Williams of Southfield Lathrup 5-3, Jim Horvath of Garden City 13-1 and, in the final, Darin Dudek of Livonia Churchill 4-0. Gentile was subsequently placed on the All-Observer team at 119, Dudes the second team.

Quality counts with Eagles

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Plymouth Christian Academy's track and field team lacks the numbers to be a power in the sport, but that doesn't mean the Eagles don't have competitive individuals.

We do well in head-to-head competition," coach Steve Bauslaugh said. "We usually get beat point-wise because we don't have the numbers.

"(Butler) has good size and strength," Bauslaugh said. "He just has to get the technique down."

The Eagles are counting on freshman Paul Bachman, a missionary's son who moved here from Brazil, to help them in the sprints. Sophomores John Arnold and Kevin Mueller also are sprinters. Freshman John Hawley will compete in the high jump.

The girls team will be young, too, with sophomore Ann Biberdorf being the one whom Bauslaugh points to as the known talent. She runs the 100 and 200 dashes and also the 400 re-

Freshmen Jill Butler and Becky Chadwick are slated to throw the discus and run the sprints, and freshman Julein Pregitzer is the team's lone hurdler.

Plymouth Christian Academy's softball team will need help from its many underclassmen if the Eagles are to match the success of last year's equad.

The need for rapid development of younger talent is heightened by the fact eight of the 12 players are either sophomores or freshmen with a year or less of varsity experience.

Plymouth Christian is 6-2 thus far after leging to Huron Valley Luther.

after losing to Huron Valley Luther-an and Lutheran Westland, but coach Dan Brandel remains optimistic the Eagles can do as well as the previous outfit, which finished 9-11.

"I expect us to play above ourselves in some games and some-times, because of our lack of experience, to lose a couple," he said.

Cory's painting earns top honor

Cory, a Birmingham resident, re-cently won the Michigan Depart-ment of Natural Resources' 1990 trout/ualmon stamp design competi-tion. It is the third time Cory has won the contest, making him the first artist to accomplish such a feat. The winning painting, a coho salmon and a fly rod against a grass background, will be featured on the 1990 Michigan trout/salmon stamp. This marks the first time a coho salmon will be featured on the stamp since the contest began in

Ironically, Cory's other winning entries - a brown trout in 1980 and a chinook salmon in 1983 - were also first time features. The brown was the winner of the very first contest and the 1983 entry was the first time a chinook was featured on the stamp since the contest began.

PRIOR TO 1980, trout/salmon stamps were required by the DNR for trout/salmon fishing, but the painting was always done by a DNR staff artist. In 1980 the selecting process was turned into a wildlife art

"It's all really a major conservation effort. That's one reason I got into it," said Cory, of the DNR's stamp design contest. "They'll make 50-100 prints which will be donated to conservation groups. The prints will be raffled off and the money will be put back into conservation

'It's great that Michigan has such a program (like the trout/salmon contest) that lets us show off our stuff. Plus we get to help with the conservation effort."

CORY HAS been a professional artist for 27 years. An avid hunter and fisherman, he has been painting wildlife for the last 13 years.

Cory has lived in Michigan (the Detroit area) his entire life and has done much of his hunting and fishing here. Since he has spent so much time in the woods and waters of Michigan, naturally, he's protective of his roots.

"Michigan is my first love. It's such a beautiful state," Cory said. "We really have a great thing here in

ASIDE FROM the trout/salmon stamp contests, Cory also won the 1984 Michigan duck stamp contest with a painting of a pair of pintalls flying over a hunter in a mairsh. In 1981-82 the state of New Mexico commissioned Cory to design their trout stamp. Also in 1982, Cory placed second in the Michigan United Conservation Club's Wildlife Artist of the Year contest for a painting of a whitetail deer.

Overall, Cory has been in 16 wildlife art contests and has placed in the top six in 15 of them. He placed first five times.

"I'm batting a little over .300," admitted Cory. "That's not too bad. I don't have any complaints."

Baby Animal poses with Bill Prady of Birmingham, who wrote the show "Where's Animal?" that will be on stage Tuesday through Sunday, April 23, at the Fox Theatre in Detroit.

Scripts bring out 'the child inside'

By Cathle Breidenbach special writer

When the Muppet Babies come to town next week in the musical "Where's Animal?" Bill Prady, writer for the show, will visit his parents in Birmingham and take them to see the Muppets playing at the Fox Theatre.

For the last four years, he has been writing scripts for Jim Henson's crew of colorful Muppet characters. In a phone interview from California, Prady quipped that he is good at writing for kids because "I'm immature. It seems to be a sensibility I'm plugged into. I write for the child inside of me."

"I grew up watching Kermit," says the 28-year-old Prady, who went to school at Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills and was raised in Oak Park, Southfield and Birmingham.

Kermit the Frog, the indomitable Miss Piggy and their lovable friends spark the imaginations of TV-era children as much as Pooh, Piglet and Raggedy Ann thrilled earlier generations. Since he was a kid, Prady has been rooting for Kermie. Now he writes for Kermie and the gang.

THE SHOW "Where's Animal?" spins off from "Muppet Babies," the Saturday morning TV adventures of the Muppets when they were young. It stars Animal, the electric-haired, wild-man drummer — when he was a fuzzy, rambunctious tyke riding his Big Wheel.

Prady explains the theory behind the madcap Muppet plots. "Muppet Babies can go anywhere through the power of imagination and we (writers) get to think up wonderful places they can go. We teach kids to use imagination as a problemsolving and learning tool."

In "Where's Animal?" the Muppet Babies play hide and seek and Animal hides with such ingenuity that none of his friends can find him. The show encourages children in the audience to get involved in the hunt because the characters on stage can't find Animal, but the audience knows his hiding place.

dience knows his hiding place.

Prady says, "'Where's Animal?' is not a bring your kids and tell them to sit down and be quiet kind of show." He explains that Jim Henson, creative genius behind the Muppets, believes in using the unique advantages of the "live" show medium to include the audience in the action.

The show plays "like Simon Says in a theater. I've seen it in huge arenas and in smaller theaters and it always works. It's bright, colorful and musical," says Prady. With characters in larger-than-life costumes, dancing, and humor for everyone, the show pleases adults as well as the children. "It's not the kind of show adults agonize through. They enjoy it," Prady promises.

HE DESCRIBES the creation of the Dust Bunnies, his favorite characters in the show. While the Muppet Babies are searching for Animal, they crawl under the couch and encounter some of the dust balls that hide under everybody's

She's a mother Actress relates to her role as Kate

By Ethel Simmone staff writer

AROL HARRIS can identify closely with the role she plays, as the housewife-mother in Neil Simon's "Broadway Bound" at the Birming-ham Theatre.

"Everybody brings to a role who they are," said the attractive, darkhaired actress, during a backstage interview one afternoon last week. "I'm a mother. I have three daughbody."

Harris understudied Joan Rivers on Broadway, in the role of Kate, and also understudied the role of Kate's sister, Blanche. She did two performances when Rivers was out. Before the Broadway production, Harris was in the national tour of "Broadway Bound." She understudied Carole Shelley as Kate and did one performance, in Chicago, when the star was sick.

"I consider myself a loving person," she said, pointing out one element she believes adds to her-portrayal of Kate. Linda Lavin created the pivotal role of Kate in the original Broadway production. "I thought she was very warm in the role," Harris said.

"Broadway Bound" continues a five-week run through Sunday, May 7, at the Birmingham. The show is directed by Peter Lawrence, who directed the comedy "Social Security," which was held over there last season.

THIRD PLAY in Simon's semi-autobiographical trilogy about the Jerome family, "Broadway Bound" takes up where "Brighton Beach Memoirs" and "Biloxi Blues" (both plays had long runs at the Birmingham) left off. "It's the same family 10 years later," Harris said.

The most poignant and talkedabout scene in the play is the one where Kate "tells about the night she danced with George Raft. We get to see her as a young girl, before life affected her so harshly."

In an intimate moment, Kate and her young son, Eugene (Peter Birkenhead), dance to "It Had to Be You," playing on the radio. Harris said the dance she shares

Harris said the dance she shares with Eugene is based on the Castle Walk, which was popular in 1915-16, when Kate would have danced with Raft "35 years ago." "Broadway Bound" is set in 1949.

It wasn't difficult for her to do the dance scene. "I started in the business as a dancer," she pointed out. "Peter (the director) and I kind of worked it out."

SHE SAID her parents always took her and her older sister to the ballet and theater when they were children.

, She sang and danced, working summers. After she started with the Roxyettes, she found the business difficult. Harris got married, had three daughters and was happy to be at home raising them.

"I missed an outlet for may creativity," she said, explaining why she and a friends started a children's theater, the Musical Players Theater, on Long Island. It ran for 10 years, when her children were growing up

She started studying acting again and did commercials, including one for Ragu Spaghetti Sauce that ran four years on television. Although she is Russian and Lithuanian, "I look very Italian, especially on camera," Harris said.

She did showcases, "small things to get experience. There are a lot of off-off-Broadway theaters in Manhattan." Plymouth Theate Guild treated an overflow audience Saturday night at the Plymouth Hilton to an amusing, tf not highly robust, interpretation of Neil Simons' farcical comedy

While the guild's production has its moments, it generally has diffi-culty sustaining the fast pace and characterizations required to get the most from Simon's farce.

"Fools" features witty word play and exaggerated characters in a rural Russian village where everyone is stupid. Reason is unreasonable. Commons sense is uncommon.

Everyone is dumb, we learn, "with no more intelligence than a bump on a log," because of a 200-year-old curse. It can only be broken if someone is able to educate the beautiful Sophia, or if she agrees to marry the villainous Gregor (who proposes twice daily at 6:15 a.m. and 7:20

Greg Lea creates an energetic and engaging persona in Leon, but one wishes for more variety in his voice and greater texture to his character. Especially since the teacher acts as a narrator of sorts. After falling under the curse, for example, one could barely distinguish that he, too, was now as foolish as the others.

Kathleen Lietz scores well as Sophia, Leon's pupil and beloved. Her vocal embellishments and welltimed mannerisms make her most believeable as a witless 19-year-old, who says things like "I'm down here" (when she obviously is standing above the person she is talking and comic timing, Hollis and Linda give their stage characters a credibility that makes us willing to suspend reality for the moment. More of the same from the entire cast would give "Fools" real pizzazz.

Hollis Denham (Dr. Kubritsky) and Linda Bodnar (Lenya Zubritsky) create the best farcial roles. He is a quacky doctor, she is a fatuous wife who, when asked to lower her voice, moves her whole body closer to the

PERHAPS DERECTOR Clemie Cyburt can use them as examples to achieve bigger-than-life characters from some of the minor roles. Of these, Gordon Riley easily strikes the most imposing presence on stage in his role as the black-caped Gregor Yousekevitch

Obviously, the guild is still learning how to perform in a hotel ballroom (where the group must strike the set after each performance), but it would also help if there were a more substantial setting to establish the mood and locale of a Russian vil-

His scripts bring out 'child within' himsel

"In the East, people call dust balls, dust bunnies," Prody says, and the words triggered an image of "blobby, fluffy bunny thidge" he thought would epliven the show. He took his fuzzy idea to the folks in the Muppet Shop who build all the zany Muppet characters. Prady says as a writer he feels "like a kid in a candy shop to have the Muppet Shop. There's nothing like it in the world." With feathers, glue and boundless whimsy, the Muppet Shop brought to life a troupe of high-spirited giant, dust bunny dancers for the show. Prady named another character,

Eliot Wolf, after his real Uncle Eliot. "Eliot Wolf is awful at his job as Big Bad Wolf. He's timid, and he doesn't even know how to howl," says Prady. Other favorite numbers in the show include a sing-along song about animal noises, that should become a children's classic, and a "Dancing in the Streets" production number where fire hydrants strut their stuff.

Before Prady joined the Muppet writing team, he programmed computers a few years, attended college and moved to New York to write free lance for television shows. He says that, as one of six writers on the Henson team, "I'm the junior one, very much the student."

Wright denied Japanese influence on his designs

special writer

In a discussion on why artists reach their zenith during old age, retired college professor Grant Carpenter Manson responded with a quote from Robert Browning's poem "Rabbi Ben Ezra," "Grow old along with me! The best is yet

That typifies Manson omniscience. His gusto continues in spite of his retirement as he travels on the lecture circuit, most recently in California. He will be speaking in at Lawrence Technological University in Southfield on Sunday. Next September he will be the kick-off speaker in Chicago commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Frank Lloyd Wright home and studio in Oak Park.

Manson, 85, is a Frank Lloyd Wright scholar, in fact he refers to himself as "the oldest surviving Wright scholar."

His efforts began at Harvard University where he wrote his doctoral dissertation on Wright's work to 1910 known as the architect's Prairie period. Manson first introduced himself to Wright in 1937 when Manson was a graduate student gathering information which would later be used in his book, "Frank Lloyd Wright to 1910: The Golden Years." As a result of that association, Wright once introduced the author as "Grant Manson, who knows more about me that I do."

ONE OF the many interesting insights Manson brings out in his book is the Japanese influence on Wright's work. Wright was opposed to the idea that there was a Japanese influence in his work - or any influence, for that matter. Manson recalled Wright's encounter with a small-scale Japanese temple at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago Manson wrote, "If we assume that actual confrontation with a Japanese building was the necessary mechanism at a certain juncture in (Wright's) career to give those concepts reality and direction, then many of the steps in the evolution of his architecture can rationally be explained." He went on to elaborate on Wright's later works that substantiated this.

Wright's response to Manson's intuition, perhaps during casual shop talk, was "I was spiritually in-spired" negating any design influ-

When the book manuscript was nearing completion, Wright men-tioned to Manson that he'd like to see it. The author responded, "You'll see it when it is published," realizing that Wright's strong, influential views might win out.

Manson's book has become recognized as a major treatise on Wright's early work, a tour de force which inspired subsequent generations of architects and scholars long before the current popularity of Wrightiana. One architect referred to Manson's book as the 'mother of my education."

During his many years as an educator, Manson inspired many students to go on, one of whom is now a curator of the Hollyhock House in Los Angeles, which Wright designed in 1920.

Grant Carpenter Manson wrote about Frank Lloyd Wright and maintained a friendship with him as well. The inscription which Wright wrote beneath his photograph reads "To Grant: mit luff." Manson refers to this as phony German. It is signed the Plaza, New York, 1958, the year before Wright died.

Coppola's topic is "Literary, Religious and Political Aspects of 'Satanic Verses'." Abraham is presenting "Politics of Heresy and Heretical Politics."

Coppola is director of Oakland University's Center for International Programs, linguistic professor, an Islamic authority and an expert on Rushdie. He said the Islamic world "has not gone through the Renaissance, the Reformation or the Enlightenment,"

Surtitles make opera understandable

special writer

"Druids, climb the hills; and there await the moorise."

With these poetic lines, Joseph De Rugeriis begins his English translation for Michigan Opera Theatre's new production of "Norma," April 15,

During the opera at Detroit's Masonic Temple, which is being sung in Italian, his 18-page English surtitle text will be flashed above the stage for those who want to follow the dialogue more close-

Surtitles are the newest artistic form to be added to opera which is already the most complex of all artistic endeavors.

Unlike movie subtitles, surtitles have requirements dictating the form of the English and the poetic style of the translator.

"The music you hear must match the music you read," said De Rugertis, who has conducted at opera houses in the United States and Italy and holds a music degree from Mannes College of Music and a degree from Columbia University in English composition. He studied conducting at Santa Cecilia Conservatory in Rome under a Fulbright

"The lines have to read without a bump," he said, "in other words, they should read smoothly." SINCE JANUARY, DE RUGERIIS has been working with MOT's general director David Di-Chiera under an administrative grant from Opera Surtitles are written in precise terms. Hyphens indicate words of different characters.

America to prepare him to assume a directorship position with an opera company.

When DiChiera decided not to use any of the four translations of 'Norma' already out in surtitle form, he decided that De Rugeriis would a new set because of his fluency in Italian.

'Surtitles are not a literal translation, but neither are they paraphrasing," said de Rugeriis.

Surtitles are written in precise terms. Hyphens indicate words of different characters. Parenthesis indicate when a line is said by a character aside or to himself. Sometimes the left side of the surtitle slide indicates the words of one singer while the words on the right side of the slide are the words of a second singer. The lines of a third singer are always centered underneath. If anymore than three singers are present, a second

Violinist exceeds expectations

ill-timed laughter. When "Norma" opened at Opera Pacific in California the line "Do not tremble for het, you accound rel? in Scene II of Act I always drew laughter. For the Detroit production, the line has been changed to "Villain, do not tremble

In each line there are only 47 available spaces and only two lines in each slide. The words have to match the musical style in the opera to allow for the inconspicuous flow. The music always de-termines how long a slide remains on the screen.

THE MOST DIFFICULT lines for De Rugeriis to translate were those in the final scene. There, he set up parallelism between Norma's words "Now, in this fatal hour," with Pollione's words "Now, in this remorseful hour," and Norma's father's words "Now, in this terrible hour

The 1833 Italian text has some words that have no equivalent in English. For instance "il bronzo" can't be translated bronze, which would have no meaning. So the words gong and shield are used.

When De Rugeriis finishes his time with Michigan Opera Theatre, he will continue his yearlong grant with the Glimmerglass Opera Company in New York and the Baltimore Opera. He will then apply for general directorship positions in Grand-Rapids, Boston and Milwaukee

'Among opera professionals in America, David DiChiera is considered a dean of opera directors, said De Rugeriis. "He has recommended that I continue my career in this kind of position."

Last week's Detroit Symphony Orchestra guests, conductor Hugh Wolff and violinist Nigel Kennedy, aren't well-known to most area listeners. The items on the program were outside the mainstream as well - Haydn's Symphony No. 7 ("Le Midi"), Walton's violin concerto and the complete version of Stravinsky's "Firebird" Ballet.

Given the crowded musical schedule these weeks, this program seems like a prime candidate for the chopping block. Walton's concerto isn't exactly close to the top of the violin repertoire. Among Haydn's more than 100 symphonies, one seldom en-counters the single digit ones— sometimes it seems these hardly exist, in spite of the irrefutable numerical evidence. Stravinsky's "Fire-bird," the only truly familiar work on the program, is also subject to criticism by many in its complete

Unlike Brahms, however, Walton took the advice of the expert, and it seems that he made the right decision. Kennedy's performance of this work with its many vituosic passages was a unique experience. Pollowing Heifetz, Walton could hardly have found a more convincing champion for this neglected work.

Kennedy's encore was even more unconventional — an arrangement of the "St. Louis Blues," a satirical piece incorporating fragments of classical works.

Haydn's Symphony No. 7, in spite of its early designation, is a charming work. Some of its elements suggest a concerto groceo form. Co certmaster Emanuello Bolsvert d cellist Italo Bahini wa cellist removed in the single means of removed in the single means of the single singl

A: Never. Artists must always draw from something. Of course copying from other artists work should be, in time, avoided. I believe that when learning a media one should draw from an artist's work competent in that media.

In other words, if you are doing your first pen and ink, draw from a pen and ink drawing. Get the feel of the media, notice what lines, shapes and values the artist chose to represent his or her drawing. Then pick your own reference and render it making your own decisions of lines, shapes and values.

Now is the time to clear out those closets, attics, basements and garages and make some quick cash in the process.

How do you plan a garage sale?

It's easy!

Just follow these simple guidelines:

- 1. Gather together the items you have for sale. Sort them into appropriate categories and price them fairly.
- 2. Place a classified advertisement in The Observer & Eccentric by calling one of the numbers below.
- 3. Hang signs throughout your neighborhood alerting residents to the upcoming sale.
- 4. Decide what to do with all the money you'll have after your sale!

Or, if you love to bargain-hunt and would rather shop then sell, be sure to look for our special garage sale listings every Monday and Thursday in your hometown newspaper. Observer & Eccentric classifieds make it was to earn money and save money. Discover for yourself, today!

Glass block design enjoying a revival

UILDING materials come and

Glass block, now the subiect of an unprecedented revival, is a prime example.

It had its first heyday in the art deco era, when the shiny surfaces and slick geometry fit the futuristic look of the late '20s and early '30s and enhanced the up-to-date machine style of the modern era. But when deco died. so did the block.

The '50s saw something of a revival as block appeared in factories and bars. But then it died once more, only to arrive again in the '80s.

ARCHITECTS AND designers are using it with unusual and often brilliant effects. Glass-block stairwells curl up new houses, a solitary glass block sitting at the top as a focal Glass-block ceilings allow rooms to be bathed in light but insulated against heat. There are glass-block quartet of blocks and huge ones stacked together to form a whole win-

A few tricky people have even created glass-block swimming pools and

One of the prime uses of glass block today is for shower walls: It's semitransparent, but it lets plenty of light into small spaces - and it's easy to

Another important quality is the wide number of patterns and sizes now available

Traditional glass blocks could be awfully boring, but manufacturers today are turning out blocks in a multitude of motifs. Geometrics, meteors. diamonds, waves, ribs and cross-ribs, trees, stars and the entire aurora

Some also introduce color, soft amber or gold as well as bright blue. green and red.

Look for whimsical pastel, neutral-colored cocoons

HE KEY word in fashion interiors this spring is the "c" word: "Cocooning."

More and more, we're becoming a nation of homebodies. We look to our homes to provide us with a safe haven, a sense of stability in a world filled with precarious events and uncertainty.

Home is also more important because more of us are there, with today's extended family containing the adult children who flit back to the nest for varying lengths of time.

And, thanks to modern technology, we're never at a loss for things to do. Surrounded by VCRs, CD players and other equipment, we can enjoy our favorite entertainment - inexpensively without even venturing Futurists tell us we're in a period of the "3 R's:" the rattles of the baby boom, romance and religion. The religion isn't necessarily traditional; it's a system of beliefs, ranging from the faith of our families to an exploration of New-Age forms.

ALL OF THIS echoes the importance of hearth and home. As a result, we want to create an environment that's easy to live with - attractive, comfortable and cozy.

What's more, since we're keeping a steady eye on our budgets, those "3 Rs" become "5 Rs" - with the addition of two popular approaches to decorating - recycling and restora-

We're redoing not only our own old furniture, but also the antiques and junk furniture we find at flea markets and garage sales.

But we're doing this restoring in a very personalized way, adding a sense of whimsy that makes the furniture uniquely ours. We may, for instance, buy an antique and tint it to a lighter look. Or we may buy unfinished furniture, paint it in different colors and then decorate it with an abstract or even childlike design.

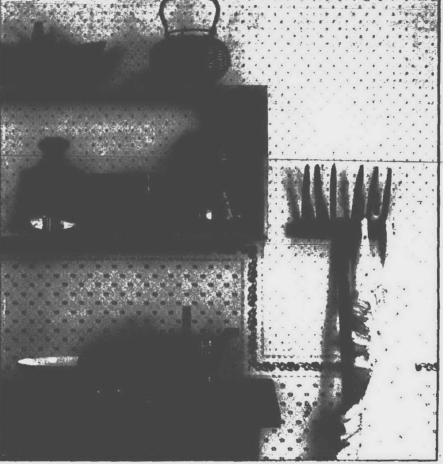

Some people are successfully using authentic childlike designs. With baby No. 3 on the way, they buy a stool or high chair and let baby No. 1 design it. And they give these unique pieces a place of prominence, where the small artist can enjoy receiving praise for the work.

SLIPCOVERING IN spring and summer is another aspect of the new look that makes good budget and aesthetic sense. We're seeing a great many stretch fabrics pulled over the tubular frames of furniture. These fabrics are also popular for covering the pillows on those wooden slat deck chairs with the look of the '40s and

This kind of furniture is terrific in the add-on rooms so many houses are now sporting - the sun porches and solariums. In these sun-splashed rooms, the furniture can often be seen from the rest of the house. They bring the outdoors inside, for very little money.

Remember those wonderful old butterfly chairs? They're in great favor now, too, but in a very new way. Gone are those plain solids, replaced by wonderful prints featuring florals, animals and stripes. The tattered old sling can be used as a pattern for cutting the new fabric.

And, of course, there's wicker. Everybody loves wicker because it's so easy on the budget and fits so well with the patio furniture used inside

For true country charmin the kitchen, keep cookware out in the open Throughout the house, use whimsical wallpaper borders, such as this heart and flowers motif especially solariums. We're still seeing the lighter colors, but also some wonderful deep tones. Picture a deep pine-green sofa or love seat with a Victorian rose slipcovered cushion. It's a dramatic effect that's so easy to live with. .

QUITE A FEW influences are evident in home decor this spring. The stripes and florals herald the return of the Victorian romantic. We're seeing lovely nosegays and watered florals where the flowers blend into one another. And the Renaissance look is strong, with its rich tapestry, border prints and the kinds of designs you might see on an old shawl. In the Florentine influence, the colors run delicately one into the other.

The influence of the artist Gauguin is also prevalent, with those lush tropical and jungle prints. Batiks and tie-dved fabrics are back in

The country look continues its long hold on public taste. It's become a classic; some people select a very traditional country look and never

This is a year for details. There's a lot of emphasis on trims for spring and summer. Hinges on doors and furniture and brass poles are accented by being painted in contrasting colors, particularly with the Gavguin and country look.

With the Renaissance feeling, tas sels, bows and braids are increasingly popular. Instead of just hanging a picture on a nail, for instance, you might highlight it with a bow.

WHEN IT COMES to painting walls and furniture, the tinted color washes we saw last year are still very big. They're done in either white or soft pastels. And the bleached woods continue to be popular. But now they're enriched by hand-painted details: stenciled borders are showing up on ceiling edges walls, furniture

In flooring, tile is staging a big comeback especially in multicolored combinations. Mottled or stippled effects lend extra visual interest.

With the new interest in wood flooring, wall-to-wall carpeting is being replaced by rugs that soften the hard wood look. And what a selection to choose from! Rag rugs, hooked rugs, dhurries and Mexican serapelike rugs are just a few of the choices. The romantic Victorian look is enhanced by Oriental rugs. And for the country look there are rugs in a range of sunlight shades.

Now then, what colors are enlivening home decor this spring and summer? In line with the emphasis on cocooning, we're still favoring the warm colors. The romantic color group features some deep, rich colors, including celestial blue, pine-tree green,

Healthy lawn still possible despite drought

still be possible this season even if it suffered damage in last summer's heat and drought.

If more than half of the lawn is in good shape, it can be rescued by renovation and overseeding, according to Bob Tracinski, consumer information manager for John Deere, manufacturers of lawn and garden equipment.

Renovation includes cleaning the lawn of weeds, thatch and debris. Overseeding is planting new seed over the entire area. "Not only will renovation take care of the trouble spots, it's a beneficial treatment for the existing lawn," Tracinski said.

He suggests starting the rehabilitation by testing the soil, so that its lime and fertilizer needs can be determined. The testing can be done by most county extension offices for a small charge. Prepare the samples by cutting thin slices six or seven inches below the lawn's surface, including soil from several areas of the lawn. Thatch, a layer of leaves, dead grass and other debris, accumulates between the grass blades and the soil surface. It can build up thickly enough to prevent water and nutrients from getting to the soil, and it can harbor pests and disease. Moisture in the masonry mix, seepage of moisture through porous masonry from natural sources and a condition called efflorescence are other reasons for the paint failures.

But there is a way to keep paint on masonry walls and ceilings. Proper surface preparation and the use of the right products can almost guarantee a long-lasting paint job on any masonry surface.

Man-made forms of masonry change from an easily formed plastic state to rock-like hardness through a chemical change. Once cured, the surface may be either acidic or alkaline, depending on the type of masonry used.

To avoid paint failure caused by pH extremes on the surface of newly cured concrete, wait at least 30 days before painting. The pH problem will fade as the masonry ages.

MOISTURE IS THE biggest culprit in paint failure, whether the surface is masonry or wood. But masonry presents its own special set of prob-

Masonry is porous, so water can penetrate and seep through the entire structure. As it penetrates through to a painted area, water pushes the paint off. A basement wall that leaks after a rainstorm is a common example of this

In many cases, says Richard Barako, lab safety coordinator at United Gilsonite, application of a masonry waterproofing paint will solve the problem of seepage.

Of course, if you have basement walls that leak, you should correct the cause of the leaking first. Look for improper grading that carries runoff toward the foundation rather than away; damaged gutters and downspouts, and malfunctioning foundation drainage systems.

Masonry surfaces frequently develop a condition called "efflorescence." This condition is typified by chalky white stains on brick or concrete block walls. Efflorescence results when soluble salts present in the masonry mixture are carried to the surface by water. The water evaporates, leaving the salts behind in the form of white stains. No paint, not even one specially formulated for masonry, will adhere to efflorescence. To remove it, you must "etch" the surface.

MASONRY IS ETCHED by using muriatic acid or an etching product that is milder than muriatic acid but adequate for the job. After mixing the acid according to directions, apply it using a brush to be sure it gets in all

The acid solution will foam briefly. When the foaming stops, the salt is neutralized. The surface should then be thoroughly rinsed. Do not let the acid dry on the surface or it could interfere with the adhesion of the waterproofer or other coatings.

Etching should also be performed on masonry floors before painting if the surface is very smoothly troweled. It performs the same function as sanding a high gloss wood surface prior to painting.

To ensure a successful paint job, make sure the surface is free from dirt, oil and grease. If there is any doubt about the latter, wash down the surface with trisodium phosphate or a detergent and follow with a thorough PASTELS COME in two distinct palettes. The powder-puff pastels are light delicate colors, such as nude. seashell pink, celadon (a light green), pale lilac and thistle (a graceful purple). Then there are the vibrant pastels. They include dried moss, salmon, sky blue, iris and strawberry pink.

Neutrals, of course, are always with us. This spring we're seeing a nice almond cream, white smoke, gray morn, pebble, cameo rose (just barely pink) and bark.

Finally, there are the brights. Here we find sunshine yellow, emerald, classic blue and fiery red.

chance of good adhesion.

Ordinarily, latex or oil-based wall paints can be used on masonry walls where moisture is not a problem and is not likely to be in the future. Masonry floors and patios require special care and special products. Often, masonry floors suffer from a dusting condition. Paint will not adhere properly because the floor will continue to dust, taking the paint with it.

First you must cure the dusting problem. In extreme cases, the floor should first be etched. Then, the application of a solvent-based clear masonry sealer will eliminate the dusting problem, giving you a sound surface for paint.

Floors must also endure foot traffic and repeated washings, so use a product specially formulated for use on masonry floors. There is a latex concrete floor paint which works equally well outside (on patios) or inside (on basement or garage floors).

BARAKO SAYS THAT there are masonry areas around most homes that could benefit from proper application of the right product. These include walls and floors in basements and garages, exposed foundations, retaining walls, patios, painted brick walls, cisterns and swimming pools.

Most homeowners have less experience painting masonry surfaces than wood or plaster. There are publications with more information about painting masonry. One of them, "How to Waterproof Masonry Walls" is available free by writing UGL, Dept. N10, P.O. Box 70, Scranton, Pa. 18501.

Tips for planting salad bowl garden

HE FUN, flavor and satisfaction of home-raised vegetables prompts millions of American homeowners to plant backyard gardens every year. But until recently, those of us who live in apartments or simply lack the space, time and energy for full-scale gardening have had to settle for store-

The recent development of modern, lightweight potting mixes and the availability of large, inexpensive containers has made it possible to raise prize-winning vegetables on a deck, patio or even in a sunny windowsill. Container gardeners are now raising tomatoes, peppers, even sweet corn in pots. Salad greens are among the easiest to grow and will make a beautifully decorative planter as well.

Here are some tips for planting your own salad bowl garden.

1. Select a wide-mouthed container at least five or six inches deep. Glazed or unglazed ceramic bowls are excellent, but you may use any suitablesized container provided it has drainage holes in the bottom.

2. Fill the containes with a lightweight, soilless potting mixture designed for container-gardening. A good choice is Hoffman Container Gardening Soil Mix. This mix offers excellent air and water holding capacity so that plant roots will not dry out or be suffocated by compacted soil - a common problem with standard potting soils. Lightweight mixes need to be thoroughly dampened before planting.

3. Plant seed or started transplants from your garden center. The bowls in the photograph contain "Red Sails" lettuce, oak leaf lettuce, garden cress, parsley and other salad greens. Looseleaf, non-heading varieties of lettuce work best. Here are some other easy-to-grow, good-tasting vegetables cleans and reseals the wood. The watersealing process can be combined with a stain process, if the owner wishes, he said.

The first step in the process is to thoroughly clean the deck with a foaming cleaner, scrubbing to loosen dirt and mildew. The deck is then highpressure rinsed and allowed to dry thoroughly before a sealer is applied. Although the cleaner itself is biodegradable and will not harm plants, all landscaping is completely covered prior to the cleaning process to protect it from the effects of the high-pressure rinse, he said.

Once the deck is dry, the Timberline crew returns to apply one of several waterseal products. The products are applied by hand, ensuring even coverage. Parowski explained. The deck then needs to dry for approximately 24 hours. Any residual sealer can be easily rinsed off by the homeowner with a solution if dish soap and water.

zesty addition to salads and other recipes. Grow them from seed or from onion "sets" available at the garden center in spring.

Radishes. Fastest growers, and many delicious kinds to choose from. Plant radishes every few weeks to ensure a continuous supply.

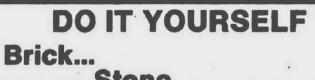

4. Set your salad bowl gardens where they'll receive five or six hours of sunshine daily. Bowls of lettuce alone will tolerate somewhat less than this. If you place the bowls outdoors on patio or deck, remember to wait until danger, of frost is past. As the weather turns warmer, you will need to provide some shade during the hottest part of the day to slow lettuce down and prolong your harvest.

5. Keep the soil in your containers uniformly moist but not soggy. If you have a number of containers planted, or need to be away from home for a day or two, you may want to consider some kind of automatic watering system, such as drip irrigation. There are several good kits available for home container gardeners.

6. Vegetables grown in containers do best with small amounts of fertilizer applied often. Feed them with a complete fertilizer (one containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium plus trace elements), starting when they are four to six inches tall and then every two weeks thereafter, using half the amount recommended on the package.

Once your salad bowls are up and growing, use them as decorative accents on your patio, deck or a sunny spot indoors. For added color, try mixing them with pots of bright edible annual flowers like nasturtiums or flowering herbs.

Designer veggies are making noise

AP - Arugula. Cardoon. Gobo. Scorzonera.

No, they're not rare diseases, nor are they foreign phrases that will get your face slapped.

They are among dozens of new and unusual gourmet vegetables — some call them "designer vegetables" - on a list compiled for home gardeners and commercial growers by a Cornell University vegetable crop specialist.

Unconventional crops have become increasingly popular in recent years, says Robert A. Kline, a senior extension associate for Cornell Cooperative Extension in the College of Life and Sciences at the Ithaca, N.Y., school. Kline attributes the interest to the increase in health-conscious consumers, who eat more conventional vegetables and are looking for diversity.

That's one of the reasons that Cornell's Kline developed his list of more than 240 varieties of some 50 crops, based on field trials conducted over the past three years.

HIS RECOMMENDED CROPS range from Jerusalem artichoke to a rare tomato called "tomatillo" that yields golf-ball-sized fruit inside paperv-sheathes, or capsules. It is used to make salsa, a spicy sauce.

Arugula? That's a spicy, leafy vegetable used in salads. Gobo is a root crop popular in Japan. Cardoon is a leafy vegetable with a wide "vein" in the middle; only the vein is eaten. And scorzonera is a type of salsify known as "vegetable oyster" or "oyster plant" because its black-skinned roots taste somewhat like oysters.

Other exotic crops recommended include radicchio, a type of chicory that forms a head much like lettuce; witloof, a Belgian endive; Chinese artichoke, which produces very small potato-like tubers; and escarole, a kind of endive with flatter leaves.

Our People and Service Make the Difference

Role of polyurethanes is expanding

AP - Polyurethanes, once considered ideal for finishing certain types of wooden floors, have developed into versatile coatings with a much wider range of practical uses, For one thing, they now serve equally well as furniture finishes.

The popularity of polyurethanes is due to several things, even though they often cost more than most of our traditional finishes.

They are almost impervious to household chemicals, water rings and other stains. They are tough and resistant to scuffs, scrapes and everyday wear and tear. And, for clinchers, they look great.

With the introduction of satin and antique flat versions, polyurethanes now offer do-it-vourselfers a full range of sheens. Also, certain polyurethane formulas now contain inhibitors to protect them from the sun's ultraviolet rays, for exterior use.

SINCE THE DAYS when polyurethanes were considered an optimum coating for bowling alleys, which endured intense wear and required a finish with maximum impact and abrasion resistance, they have had the reputation of being a bit difficult to handle. This was especially so on projects requiring more than one coat.

The technical director at United Gilsonite Laboratories, John Molski, says the truth is that the successful application of a polyurethane finish is quite simple. The key is in the care taken during the preparation.

Most often, polyurethane clear finishes are applied to bare wood surfaces. They may also be applied to previously coated wood surfaces, but special care must be taken.

Existing finishes in poor condition must be stripped completely. Lacquer or shellac finishes should also be removed because polyurethanes do not adhere to them. Existing varnish finishes in good condition should be thoroughly sanded to remove all gloss. In any case, a smoothly sanded surface is essential to the success of any wood finishing project.

Many projects are stained to a desired color tone before final coating with a polyurethane. Before staining, work the surface from a medium (150) to a fine (220) grit sandpaper.

AFTER THE STAIN has been applied and given sufficient drying time. the surface can be prepared for coating with the polyurethane. Lightly sand the stained surface with 220 sandpaper. This will allow the polyurethane to better adhere to, or "grip," the wood

After sanding is completed, vacuum or brush the surface clean, then use a tack cloth for a final wipedown. If a tack cloth cannot be located in stores. make one by dampening a good quality. cheesecloth in mineral spirits.

The polyurethane can now be applied. To ensure successful application, use at temperatures between 65 and 85 degrees Farenheit. If using a gloss polyurethane, DO NOT STIR; the coating is ready for application as is, Molski says. Stirring may introduce air bubbles into the coating that will adversely affect the finish.

Conversely, satin and flat polyurethanes contain a flattening agent that must be gently stirred into suspension — or, evenly reincorporated into the mixture. (Never mix any type polyurethane coating on a paint mixer.) Periodically, stir satin and flat polyurèthanes during use, also. Pour the amount of polyurethane you expect to use into a smaller can, and reseal the original can. This keeps dust and dirt that the brush might pick up from contaminating the remaining product, and also minimizes skinning. Using a natural or nylon bristle brush with a tapered edge, "flow on" the polyurethane evenly. For smoothest application, hold the brush at the same angle at which the bristles are cut.

A foam applicator may be substituted instead of a brush, especially if the Dip the brush or applicator into the can, letting the excess drip off. Don't wipe excess off on the rim of the can. Doing so can create air bubbles on both the can and the wood surface. Stroke as smoothly as possible, trying to keep a wet edge so strokes blend

IF THE JOB requires more than a single coat, sand lightly in between coats. Second and third coats tend to peel if the surface is not broken between coats. Again, remember to properly clean the surface after sanding.

Polyurethane clear finishes are available in spray cans, and may also be sprayed from standard air compressors and spray guns. Preparation techniques remain the same as those for manual application.

For best results on exterior wood, choose a polyurethane developed specifically for exterior use. It comes in both gloss and satin types.
