City equipment use brings controversy

Plymouth DPW director Ken Vogras has conceded that city employees in his department using city equipment on city time have done free work for local business people.

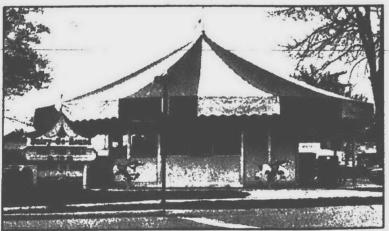

The allegation was made Monday at a city commission meeting by Jerry Vorva, a candidate for city commission.

Vorva charged that a city DPW crew using city equipment installed a canopy at an ice cream shop on yet to be billed for the service.

What I'm most upset about is that the city is rendering this service at taxpayer expense," Vorva said. "There are people in the private sector that will do that work and incur the liability."

Vogras and Henry Graper, city manager, acknowledge there is no written city policy about using public employees and equipment for work in the private sector.

"PEOPLE SHOULD BE billed every time they use it," Graper said. That was my belief all along. I'm going to find out what exceptions have been made in the past." Arrangements must be made through Vogras because he knows the work schedules of his workers and equipment, Graper said.

Vogras said he hasn't billed about 90 percent of the time. He couldn't provide a specific number.

"It's not an uncommon practice to do favors for merchants in town," Vogras said. "If someone wants something done for a lousy five or 10 minutes, I'll do it. Sometimes I'll bill, sometimes I won't."

The Dairy-Go-Round hadn't been billed for the work as of Monday, Vegras said. He added that he hasn't yet decided whether to issue a bill.

The city gets less than 10 requests from the private sector to use DPW equipment in a year, Graper said. Street sweeping a private parking lot is a typical request.

MAYOR KARL GANSLER II said he isn't at all bothered by the Dairy-Go-Round incident.

"It's a small town," he said. "People ask for things — nothing illegal. We'll say if we can take care of it, we'll do it. I have no problem with that. That's what this country was

Plans for soccer fields end up on sidelines

staff writer

The construction of three soccer fields at the Ford Motor Co. Sheldon Road Plant in Plymouth Township by the city of Plymouth has been put on hold, perhaps permanently.

At issue, according to Supervisor Maurice Breen, is the integrity of the township's land use ordinance.

Ford's land is zoned industrial. Recreational activities can take place there only after conditional granted by the township planning commission.

The city obtained permission from Ford to build three soccer fields and started clearing the land without going through the township's planning commission.

Breen called foul and things have ground to a halt.

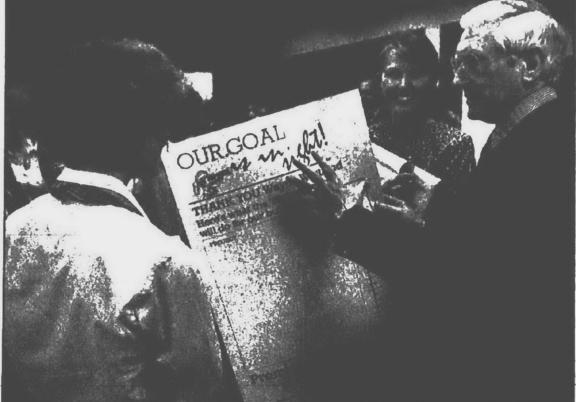

"THE ISSUE has to do with land located in Plymouth Township being used for a use other than has been

School study calls for improvements

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

A citizens committee charged with assessing strengths and weaknesses in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools told the school board Monday that it needs to improve in areas including communication, class size, curriculum and discipline.

Community Researching Education Workings, or CREW, also concluded that the district has been fiscally responsible, but "definitely needs additional support to continue the tradition of excellence in education." CREW studied areas of concern identified by 424 district residents in a scientific survey last October. While many of the recommended changes cost money the district doesn't have, "we can take steps now. some incurring very little cost to the district, which will better serve our students and commu-

CREW said the district needs to do a better job communicating with its employees and the community. Suggested steps include improving communication at board meetings, upgrading the quality of printed materials and forming a citizens communicaton group.

"It's imperative that communication at board meetings be improved. Meetings are the only communication much of the community has with the board. It's a time for board members to show empathy and concern by suggesting

The only significant addition in the spending plan from this year is $50,000 for a street crack repair and sealing program. The expenditure figure doesn't include pay increases at this time for most city employees.

The budget year begins July 1.

"I THINK the services, quality of life, is the most important thing to people today," said Mayor Karl Gansler II. "I think the city of Plymouth provides something special you don't see everywhere else.

THE TAX RATE set by the commission could be revised even higher depending on final assessment figures sent by the county within a couple of weeks, according to William Graham, city finance director.

A truth-in-taxation hearing also is likely, he

"This whole situation we're talking about now is kind of up in the air until we get numbers back from the county," Graham said.

MONEY HAS BEEN set aside in next year's budget to re-appraise all commercial and industrial property in the city, Gansler said.

The last citywide appraisal of commercial/ industrial property was in 1973, Graham said.

The city commission made only a few changes totaling about $20,000 during study sessions on the budget.

Hines Park rowdyism worries police chief

By Doug Funke staff writer

Young people, attracted to the western end of Hines Park like bees to honey again this spring, are creating a nuisance with noise, litter, drinking and congested traffic.

That's the verdict of Carl Berry,
Plymouth Township police chief.

"It's out of hand," Berry said. "It's the usual problems - drinking by minors, excessive traffic. They are going into bushes relieving themselves. Beer cans and busted bottles are all over the place."

Trouble spots have occurred on a stretch of Hines between I-275 and Park Drive, Berry said. Most people who congregate are in their late teens or early 20s.

Last Sunday, a fight involving four or five people broke out at about 5 p.m., Berry said. Upwards of 1,800 people were in the area of Haggerty Field west of Haggerty Road at the time, he said. Three Wayne County Sheriff's deputies and three township officers broke things up without incident, Berry said. But he's concerned about what might lie ahead.

"IF IT EVER gets out of control, we won't be able to handle it," he said. Sheriff Robert Ficano, who has jurisdiction over Hines, said 10 more deputies were assigned to the park detail Monday for the remainder of the summer. That swells the law enforcement ranks to 50, not including deputies from secondary road patrols who swing through at the start of the season, he said. "The first couple of warm sum-mer weekends of spring, the park al-ways fills up with kids," Fleano said. "Until beaches open up, activity always accelerates.

"The same thing happens every year. We go out with heavy enforce-ment. We won't tolerate any abuse of the park or families in the park," he

CLASS SIZE also was identified as high priority in the citizen survey, said Pam DeNeen, subcommittee

CREW found that in kindergarten brough fifth grade, classes in the district have more than the optimum number of students.

"We recognize the long-sustained reputation of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for excellence. We feel that in order to maintain this standard, this issue must be of the highest priority," said DeNeen.

"This committee has found with smaller teacher-student ratios, the atmosphere is less hectic, teacher morale is better, instruction is more individualized, and students, particularly those at risk, achieve better."

CREW recommends that class size be reduced to 25 for K-2; to 28 for grades 3-5 and to 30 for 6-12.

Current averages are 24 in kindergarten; 28 in first grade; 29 in second; 30 in grades three and four; and 31 in fifth grade. CREW concentrated on the elementary level, but "from what we observed, for the most part class size in the middle schools and high schools seemed to be within relatively normal ranges," said DeNeen.

MEAP is a state standardized test that measures student achievement in math, science and reading.

A shortage of textbooks exists "in a number of academic areas," said CREW member Pam Nuttal.

Because of the district's financial straits, teachers would like to have books for every child, and can't," she

"We understand your financial problems, however, in order to compete in an increasingly technical world, we feel it is essential to update our textbooks," said Hay.

CREW also would like to see foreign languages introduced "in all grade levels of middle school first. and then elementary school; advanced placement classes in science and foreign language; and instrumental music in elementary schools," added Hay.

The discipline subcommittee commended the district for its "clearly-written rules for behavior" and for establishing "penalties appropriate to the offense."

CREW said weaknesses include an attendance policy that isn't effective, and the schools' tolerance of smoking. CREW's research shows that student achievement is going down, while absences are going up.

The group recommended reinstating the attendance policy and procedures of 1987-88. (The attendance

The long-debated Sauk Trail Hills lindfill is expected to open in two years at Michigan and Lilley roads under an agreement announced recently that ends three years of nego-tiations between Canton officials and Wayne Disposal Canton Inc., the landfill operator.

THE IMPORTANCE of the landfill is heightened by the local and national crisis in landfill space, especially since existing landfills in Wayne County will be full in less than three years.

Sauk Trail Hills will help alleviate some of the burden, according to Jim Murray, Wayne County department of public services director of

Wayne Disposal will pay Canton a 40-cent fee for every yard of waste received, as well as an $8 gate fee.

The money collected will be placed in a special fund for solid waste management, roads, recreation, land purchase and beautifica-tion, said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, who along with Clerk Loren Bennet negotiated the agreement with Wayne Disposal.

Of the money the township receives, $300,000 over four years will be designated for projects specifically in that area. Six months before the dump starts accepting trash, a comdents closest to the facility have argued that the landfill will lower property taxes and cause other problems, like odor and litter.

THE PLAN says no other landfill will be allowed to operate in Canton during lifespan of Sauk Trail Hills, Murray said.

We wanted to set up a situation where another landfill wouldn't be sited for as along as its life, and to buy time to permit us to never receive another one," said Yack, adding that the township has to find ways to lower the solid waste flow.

The 200-acre landfill is bounded by Lilley to the east, Michigan Avenue to the north and Conrail railroad tracks to the south. Canton Recycling and K & J, both closed landfills, are on the east side of Lilley.

The plan has full support of all Canton Board of Trustees members and is scheduled to be approved by the board at Tuesday's meeting.

PLYMOUTH AND Northville townships were given special consideration because the communities are involved in the cooperative Western Township Utilities Authority to jointly hook-up to an Ypsilanti sower

"We're in league with them as WTUA and as a good neighbor we felt compelled to do what we could for them," Yack said.

As a result of depleted landfill space, Wayne County established a group — Wayne County Solid Waste Implementation Committee — empowered to mandate landfill proposals. It says communities must reduce solid waste by the year 2000.

Wayne Disposal must receive additional approval from the Department of Natural Resources before it begins accepting trash.

The committee ruled in 1987 that Canton would receive the landfill. However, final approval was needed from Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

But, an agreement between the township and the landfill operators placed Canton in a better position to generate money and make suggestions about how the landfill operates, Wayne County and Canton officials

Dating Game to aid wildlife in Alaska

The Dating Game will be intro-duced in this area by two young men as a benefit for wildlife surrounding Valdez, Alaska.

The plans were announced this week by the directors of Total Attraction of Livonia, Steven Nickerson and Tony Jablonski.

"Due to a massive oil-tanker spill off the coast of Valdez, thousands of helpless wildlife are fighting for their lives and need support financially," said Nickerson, a 1987 graduate of Plymouth Salem High.

We hope to relieve some of this suffering going on throughout the world due to this catastrophe. Our plan is to raise money by presenting our version of The Dating

The show will feature contestants who will be informed that they are contestants at the dance party that will take place around the show, said Jablonski, a 1988 Livonia Stevenson High graduate.

Prizes to be given away on the show include trips to the Bahamas, Atlantic City, and Toronto, dinners for two via limousine, and consolation prizes such as the dating hand-

The show will begin with dancing at 8 p.m. Friday, May 26, in the Plymouth Hilton Inn, 14707 North-ville Road at Five Mile. The game will begin at 9 p.m. and break throughout the night for more dancing.

There will be a buffet style appetizer and light snacks set up as well as a cash bar. "In addition we will feature a few corny games to help eligible singles break the ice," said Nickerson.

D.J. Scott & Co. will spin discs until 1:30 a.m.

Tickets at $20 each will be available by advance sale only, and may be ordered from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. by calling 459-6164.

Agreement highlights

Following are some of the highlights of the agreement:

• A Citizens' action committee will be established to resolve local concerns.

• Trees on the site may be removed and replanted by the township elsewhere in the community.

· A house at 6401 Lilley Road, owned by Wayne Disposal, will be donated to Canton.

• An industrial park zone will be developed on Wayne Disposal property running 900 feet south of Michigan Avenue.

• Industrial and recreational uses will be developed when the landfill is completed.

• Sewage sludge disposal will not

Caring

We feel very lucky to be critical care nurses here at Catherine McAuley Health Center. We are encouraged to take leadership positions in moving the nursing profession forward. While others are only talking about the new directions of nursing's future, we are actively planning, implementing and evaluating ideas such as shared governance, primary nursing and case management.

Our units provide progressive, highly technical and holistic medical and nursing care, requiring us to be educated, confident and assertive. We are encouraged to collaborate not only with physicians, but also with our patients and their families to formulate unique, individualized plans of care. There is a strong sense of cooperation and camaraderie here.

Without a doubt, our patients and their families are the most important reason we're here. We are fortunate to have a nursing administrator who encourages us to take a stand and get involved in the new directions which ultimately will increase our job satisfaction and enhance the care our patients receive. Once again, nursing is exciting!

Morning TV viewers can watch Jane and Bryant or Charles and Joan - but few get to watch Kim and Janet and Mike, or Sally, Ralph and Mark.

If local cable TV subscribers could tune in, they would hear the latest news, weather and sports, plus a host of information on consumer topics. All with a few silly commercials tossed in. They might even recognize their neighbor giv-ing the delivery.

These very local broadcasters are but a handful of 26 students in JuJuan Taylor's Fundamentals of Speech class at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. It's one of five sessions Taylor teaches this term.

A few times each semester, the group produces a fictional WNEW Channel 6 news program. The 90-minute show is videotaped for later critique. In addition, each student is evaluated on presentation, with Taylor scribbling notes on index cards during the live broadcast.

"I plan activities that are educational, enforce (speech) principles and are fun," Taylor said.

ALTHOUGH THE cooking segment doesn't have a chef mess up a real kitchen, it has the next best thing - the finished product which this day is a sweet chocolate topped confection ready for sam-pling.

Because the news and information content are real, students in this class can't help but be well in-formed on everything from the lat-est breaking national story to the best new place in town for pizza.

For many students, the class is an initiation into the world of speechmaking. Other assignments include mock court trials and children's story telling.

"In addition to just speaking, (students) have to research professionally. I'm concerned with them after they leave Schoolcraft. This promotes self confidence," Taylor The news format is one way Tay-lor teaches her students the basic tenents of speech — to premote self confidence and poise in public

A new warning against eating fish caught in the Rouge River could force the Wayne County Parks to cancel one of its most popular

The parks' annual fishing derby, scheduled for Sept. 9, will be canceled unless the warning is lifted.

The event had tentatively been moved from Newburgh Lake to Wilcox Lake due to the warning against eating downstream fish, though both lakes are included in the warning.

'We wanted to move it upstream, thinking that would be safer but we're keeping a close eye on reports," said park activities director Vic Chaisson. "If the situation doesn't improve, we'll cancel it. We don't want to anything that would jeopardize anyone.

The annual event is targeted to children and their grandparents.

"IT'S OUR Grandparents' Day event," Chaisson said. "We thought it was important to maintain an activity that kids could do with their grandparents."

The Michigan Department of Public Health expanded its warning against eating fish caught downstream from the dam at Phoenix Lake, which straddles Plymouth Township's northeastern border with Northville Township. Wilcox Lake, in eastern Plymouth Township, is less than one mile south of the dam. Newburgh Lake, in western Livonia, is roughly three miles south of the

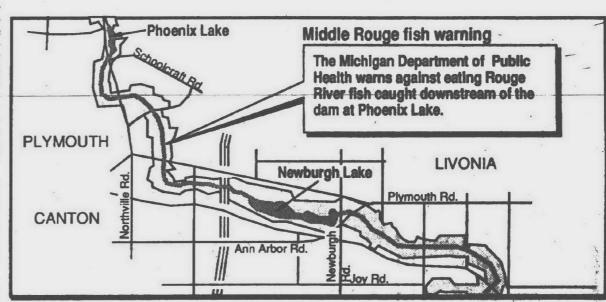

The warning includes nearly all types of fish found in the river. It includes northern pike, largemouth and smallmouth bass, channel catfish, carp and white suckers. It covers the middle branch of the Rouge, in western Wayne County, as well as the main branch, downstream from Ford Road to the mouth of the Detroit River.

Fish caught in Phoenix Lake, or north of the lake, all posted acceptable contaminant levels a health department spokesman said. The spokesman said the health department and DNR have yet to identify the PCB source, though indicated it was likely contamination could come from multiple sources.

$2.50 per credit hour. Tuition in the fall will be $47 per credit hour, for students living outside the district. Tuition was also raised by $3.50, to $69.50 per credit hour for out-of-state students.

Schoolcraft President Richard McDowell said tuition increases were necessary to keep up with an expected rise in inflation, as well as more slowly rising state aid.

While state aid is expected to rise to $7.36 million, school administrators said the 4 percent increase isn't expected to keep pace with inflation.

Not all trustees were convinced the increase was necessary.

"Let's back off the students for awhile," said trustee Jeanne Stempien, who voted against the increase.

Stempien also noted area property tax assessments were rising. Assessment increases averaging between 12 and 20 percent in most communities throughout the Schoolcraft dis-

Trustee Michael Burley also criticized the increase, originally pro-posed at $2 per credit hour.

"NOT EVERYONE in our district is wealthy," he said. "There are farmers in Canton who will tell you they're losing their farms."

Burley voted for the increase, however, after it was scaled back by 50 cents a credit hour.

Board president Mary Breen and trustees Harry Greenleaf and Wen-dell Smith also supported the in-crease. Stemplen and Jack Kirksey

"Because the term is so short, our attorneys told us it wasn't necessary to appoint someone," board president Mary Breen said.

With seven challengers vying for the open seat, trustees said they would just as soon let voters decide who the next board member should be. Appointing someone now, they said, would give that candidate an unfair advantage.

"I'd rather let the elective process carry on," trustee Wendell

Board members began the meeting with a moment of silence in Raymond's honor. Later, they awarded her a posthumous degree. The degree will be presented to her family during college commence-ment activities May 6. (For more information on other honorary degree recipients, see related story.)

Veteran trustee Harry Greenleaf recalled he and Raymond were of-ten on opposing sides of college is-sues, but said their differences were political, never personal.

"Although we had a different point of view, she always looked for the common ground," Greenleaf said, in calling for the moment of silence.

court to hear case The proposed joint operating agreement between the Detroit News and Detroit Pree Press is on hold once again. The U.S. Supreme Court Monday said it will hear the JOA case. A decision is not expected until next This latest development comes on the heels of reports that set May 5 as a possible start up date for the JOA, which would merge operations of Detroit's two daily newspa-

"I'M HAPPY the First Amendment is alive and well," said Ed Wendover, publisher of the Plymouth Community Crier and spokesman for Michigan Citizens for an Independent Press, which has led the fight against implementation of the JOA.

"Despite what the News and Free Press have been saying this weekend, the JOA is not a done deal. I wish the Supreme Court would move it up on the docket this spring. I would be happy to see it expedited for the sake of Free Press and News employees."

The on again/off again JOA has been battered about like a ball in a tennis match for almost three years. It is not expected that the high court will hear arguments before late fall, and then take several more months for a ruling.

MOST RECENTLY before Monday's announcement, stays blocking the newspapers merger were Opponents have challenged Meese at several points in approving the JOA, primarily that it would kill competition and undermine federal anti-trust law.

extended even though federal judges upheld the JOA decision approved by then Attorney General Edwin Meese in August 1988.

JOA opponents have long sought a hearing before the full court.

"We have said all along that we vould seek a hearing before the full Supreme Court," Robert Dreyfuss, a spokesman for the Washington D.C. based Public Citizen, said after the March stay. The Ralph Nader backed group provided funding to the anti-JOA forces.

State Sen. John Kelly, D-Grosse Pointe Woods, who has led local JOA opposition along with Wendover and former Detroit News reporter Matt Beer, called the high court's decision "the best thing that ever happened in terms of the future of the First Amendment."

The hearing is at least a temporary victory for JOA opponents, who saw it as a last possible means of challenge.

JOA on hold again, Judge defends The Bard's honor

It's a serious gag. Judge Myron Wahls is stepping down from the state Court of Appeals — but only for a theatrical evening, and just to defend William Shakespeare.

The serious part is that Wahls is expected to be a formidable adversary for impresario Mark McPherson, who again will challenge the historic idea that Shakespeare wrote all the plays attributed to him.

"He is a very knowledgeable and will be an apt opponent," Wahls said Wednesday in a mock news confer-McPherson conceded that Wahls, noted for a rapier wit, could be his toughest opponent yet.

In several previous trials, Wahls was presiding judge as McPherson, the flamboyant investigator of mysteries, sought to change literary

"THE GREAT Shakespeare Duel" starts at 6 p.m. Sunday, May 14, in the Pavilion of the Southfield Civic Center, 26000 Evergreen.

General admission tickets will be $10, either at the door or from the Southfield Public Library. Reserved tickets at $15 may be ordered by calling 675-8692, the number of McPherson's Daedalos Society.

The "duel" will be the final installment in the "Shakespeare Lives!" series co-sponsored by Friends of the Southfield Public Library.

It will be filmed for presentation May 22 as a WTVS Channel 56 docu-

McPherson will present the second program, "The Mysterious William Shakespeare," at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 23, the 425th anniversary of his birth, in the Marcotte Room of the Southfield library.

"The Duel" on May 14 will feature Judge Myron Wahls (left) defending the literary reputation of Shakespeare and impresario Mark McPherson continuing to attack the Bard's reputation.

REPLACING WAHLS as magistrate in the May 14 duel will be Judge Marilyn J. Kelly of Bloomfield Hills, newly elected to the state Court of Appeals.

Jurors will be critics and members of the news media.

The audience also will be able to vote for or against Shakespeare. In last year's trial, held on Oakland Community College's Royal Oak Campus, Shakespeare won a majority of both jurors and audience, but by a shrinking majority.

G.B. Harrison, who edited Shakespeare's complete works for a standard college text, scoffs at the attacks. Explaining the shortage of biographical material on the Bard of Stratford-upon-Avon, Harrison said, "Literary persons, even the greatest, are seldom spectacular. Few writers attract a Boswell."

THAT'S THE SORT of literary explanation McPherson enjoys ripping

There's "a bare minimum of contemporary observation" in his lifetime and no biography until a century after his death, McPherson said.

Shakespeare's will makes no mention of literary properties, he said, although 20 plays attributed to him were still unpublished at his death in 1623. Over the years, Shakespeare's portrait becomes altered.

McPherson is known for his pur suit of the Loch Ness monster and his expertise on Sherlock Holmes. A room in his house is decorated exactly as Holmes' apartment at 221-B Raker Street

Staffing poses concern at S'craft

By Wayne Peal staff writer

All is not well at Schoolcraft Com munity College, according to the head of the campus teacher's union.

But college trustees are wondering why they were alerted so late to problems, if they exist.

Lowell Cook, head of the School-craft Faculty Forum, told trustees that union members are unhappy over a perceived failure of college administrators to hire more fulltime staffers.

"THIS IS a quality of education is-sue," Cook said. "Most people think unions are only interested in wages and benefits, but that's not the case."

As a "symbolic protest," Schoolcraft faculty members voted against participation in the upcoming campus visit of accreditors from the North Central Association. The Ann Arbor-based organization will evaluate the Schoolcraft curriculum.

won't assist administrators in compiling information for the accreditors' visit, Cook said. "Really, it just saves us work," he said.

While Cook said the move in no way threatens the college's accreditation, he added that North Central accreditors might notice a lack of enthusiasm on faculty members'

"We'll show up, but it might not be happy and smiling like they would like," Cook said.

Cook publicly raised the union's concerns during Wednesday's Schoolcraft trustees meeting.

Board president Mary Breen said the comments took her by surprise.

"WE ARE trying to sit down and discuss this," Breen said. "But it's the first I've heard of any proble I question why they've waited so long."

Promises to increase the full-time teaching staff, made during the college's 1986 tax increase campaign, haven't been fulfilled, Cook said.

Retirements among Schoolcraft's aging faculty — with an estimated average age of 62 — have substantially reduced the college's full-time teaching staff, Cook said.

"We aren't asking for even a one-to-one replacement, but we would like to see more full-time faculty," were added. Cook, howe to replace a retired instructor sa the college an annual $50,000, t Cook disputed that figure. "The were basing it on a 35-year care but most of our faculty mem aren't here that long," he said.

Cook said the issue's timing had nothing to do with the up trustees election.

"Most of the people on the hoard, have been endorsed by us, but we're low-key," he said. "We don't try to pressure trustees.

Madonna receives $100,000 for business lecture series

Mike McManus, Jr., president of Header Products in Romulus, has established the Michael F. McManus Business Lectureship fe-ries in the form of an endowment to Madonna College. The $100,000 endowment, which will be developed over a four-year period, is in tribute to his father who died in

A native of Sharon, Pa., Mike McManus Sr. came to Detroit after World War I. He worked for Hudson Motors, and as a manufacturer's representative for the Chicago Rivet and Machine Co. His manufacturing agency represented Chicago Rivet and Machine and several other companies for over 50 years.

In 1956 Mike McManus Jr. joined his father after graduating from college and serving two years in the Air Force. He founded Header Products in 1963.

"The division of business and computer systems at Madonna College will consult with Mike McManus, Jr. for suggestions regarding quest speakers for the Re-ture series," said Dr. Charlotte Neuhauser, dean. "The series will aim to attract men and women as speakers who have been entrepreneurial in business endeav-

Neuhauser said the college's more than 1,000 business students, faculty, administrators and the community-at-large will benefit from these speakers — "With this generous endowment, we will be able to obtain speakers who will share their success stories. They will provide motivation by encouraging others that they too can be very successful in starting a busi-

McManus cited several reasons for choosing Madonna College — "I am particularly impressed with Madonna College's tuition costs, because they remain affordable," he said. "Also, it is a growing Catholic College." McManus added that he has a niece, Joan Klein, attending Madonna, who has been pleased with the personal attention she has been given at the college.

An amended state wiretap bill emerged from the Senate Judiciary littee last week, but without Chairman Rudy Nichols' vote.

The amendments — suggested chiefly by the American Civil Liberties Union — were pushed through by Sens. Richard Fessler, R-Commerce, and John Kelly, D-Grosse

"They were walking around like this," said Nichols, R-Waterford, with his hand in his inside coat pocket. "This was the first I saw of them (amendments). But that's politics," Nichols shrugged.

Fessler said the amendments were worked out in a meeting a couple of days prior to the regular Judiciary senator may attend.

SB 125 WAS reported out on a 4-0 committee vote with Nichols abstaining. This week it goes to the Senate floor where it faces likely passage but tougher scrutiny in the

The bill would allow county prosecutors to ask court permis tap the phone conversations of ma-jor drug dealers. The evidence would be admissible in court.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Nick Smith, R-Hillsdale County, said the amendments were acceptable to him. A state spokesman said the bill shouldn't be held up.

Howard Simon, of the Michigan ACLU, said afterwards that about half of his suggested amendments

The bill would allow county prosecutors to ask court permission to tap the phone conversations of major drug dealers. The evidence would be admissible in court.

MAJOR AMENDMENTS:

• A shorter time limit is placed on the life of the wiretap authorization. ACLU had suggested a flat 30-day limit with no extensions.

The Fessier-Kelly amendment will allow two extensions — a total of 90 days. "Beyond that, they'd have to go to a different judge and show that the 'tap is has been worthwhile," Pessler said.

• There are tighter conditions under which a judge could authorize a wiretap. The prosecutor would have to show that other methods have failed, but couldn't argue that other techniques were "too dangerous."

• Police records could be kept for only one year instead of 10.

"Let's eliminate records if they're not needed," said Funder. At the conclusion of the investigation, the subject would have to be notified and allowed to see the information.

 Eliminated was a prohibition on advertising of bugging equipment in nowspapers, magazines, handbills or broadcasts. Senators felt it violated freedom of speech and press.

But the sale of equipment would be limited to law enforcement people. "We're saying to private detectives it's against the law," Fessler

IN A PROCEDURAL change, the Fessier-Kelly amendments placed reporting and training requirements in the hands of the State Police rather than the attorney general. "The State Police have contacts in trafficking crosses boundaries. The State Police is the fabric to knit is together and make it work.

"They have a visible presence or they're just down the road. They're better able to work with local police and prosecutors and to avoid over-"The State Police are free of sor political jealousies of prosecutors and others. They are better able to train (local police). They are better able to help local law enforcement officers develop a case.

"They would be in charge of purchasing wiretap equipment and keeping records of where the taps are and who has 'em.

"If they have legal proble they'll turn to the attorney general anyway," he said.

'Host party' bill faces tough battle in state House

Adults hosting kids at graduation house parties face jail and fines if they serve people under 21 alcohol under a bill before the Michigan Sen-

"Spring is when we have house parties," said the sponsor, Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville. "This is a gray area (of the law) - a party in a private home where they're not selling alcohol."

"Long overdue," said Behany

Goodman of Midland, representing Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD). "We should encourage kids to avoid temptations . . . Kids laugh at laws.'

After their testimony, Chairman Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, and the Judiciary Committee sent it to the Senate floor on a 3-0 vote.

THE BILL would provide that a person in control of a residence or building could be convicted of a misdemeanor for allowing a minor who is unaccompanied by a parent or guardian to consume or possess alcohol at a social gathering.

Punishment would be the standard for a misdemeanor: up to 90 days in jail and a fine of up to $500.

According to a Senate staff analysis, it would apply to houses, apartments, cottages, hotels-motels, meeting halls, conference rooms, parks, trailers, tents and bed-andbreakfast units.

But it would not apply to alcohol used for religious purposes and pres-criptions. Nor would it apply when the minor is accompanied by a parent or guardian.

DILLINGHAM SEES passage in the Senate but trouble in the House.

"This is a rerun of a bill which passed the Senate unanimously (in the last session)," he said, "but it was killed in Bullard's committee."

Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor,

chairs the House Judiciary Committee and frequently objects because he considers many legislative bills too punitive and repressive.

Dillingham said Bullard "arbitrarily killed it (last session) because of his apparent conscience. But the system is supposed to operate with 148

"The bill makes adults aware they are responsible. In the last five or six years in Livingston County, a number of kids have been killed in

"A parent called me and told me his daughter was with a boy, and they visited his aunt and uncle's house. The daughter came home at.5 a.m. The parent asked: What about those two adults (serving alcohol)?"

Dillingham said current law would allow heirs to file civil suit against the adult server if a youngster were killed but appears to provide no pun-ishment in lesser cases.

Railroad crossing Plymouth should get to work

N UNDERPASS for traffic at the Sheldon Road railroad crossing in Plymouth may seem like a long way down the road and plenty of dollars away, but there's light at the end of the railroad tunnel because of a recent meeting put together by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber got all the players together in one room recently to talk about the problem. And while talk isn't going to solve the problem, it does help to get everybody going in the same di-

According to Marcia Buhl, a chamber member who organized the meeting: "It appeared we had The initial support of everyone at the meeting."

Also, the group took a general look at railroad crossings in Plymouth. That sounds like a good

THERE ARE nearly a dozen railroad crossings in Plymouth, and while they may just be a minor problem now, the problems of traffic will probably get worse as Canton and Plymouth Township become more developed.

That will put drivers on a collision course with railroads, which is something that we hope doesn't happen. Our country needs railroads as part of its transportation system, and it would be unfortunate if the CSX system feels too much pressure from traffic.

The railroad has a right to operate:

However, as the Plymouth community becomes more developed, there will be more traffic stopped by trains and that will probably lead to more complaints to do something about the

An underpass under the Sheldon Road tracks would help alleviate the situation.

We just hope the government officials and railroad executives involved in the talks take future growth into consideration when they sit down in the near future to talk about the problem underpass is the money. It would cost between $3 million and $4 million.

However, the biggest obstacle to any sort of Rapids.

And county transportation officials say it's a nice project, but question who will pay for it. State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, says there is grant money available, and says that the city should at least put its name on a list for state

Law noted that an underpass was built in Grand Rapids earlier in this decade, mostly with state money

However, before that happened, an issue was made of the underpass in that community.

And that's what Plymouth leaders are going to have to do, if they hope to receive state money for the project.

We'd suggest that the committee conduct a study of how railroad traffic affects vehicle traffic in the city, and also look at what would result if a new underpass is built.

The committee could then show the state what it is facing in terms of traffic vs. trains.

But there's also another factor. Much of the traffic that arrives in a community comes when new property is developed. Homes, business, shopping centers and plants all contribute to traffic problems.

And often times, it's the developers of property who get away without having to foot the bill for the problems they create.

Residents and business end up with the bill. But maybe it's time for the Plymouth community to look at taxing the developers to help solve problems with the Sheldon Road railroad cross-

Also, the committee seems to include mostly Plymouth persons. We'd suggest that community leaders from Canton be asked to join the group.

Canton is a growing community and many of its residents are using Sheldon Road.

Also, together Plymouth and Canton carry some clout . . . maybe even as much as Grand

Lakes area transformation forces many from homes

LIKE MANY mothers, my mother always taught me to share. It kind of went along with the flag and apple pie. But apparently that all has

I thought about this the other day while reading that the lakes region has become an economic war zone between the well-to-do and the working stiffs.

Not too many years ago, the lakes stood out as a feature which everyone could enjoy. For the most part, lakefront property was owned by blue and white collar workers either as year round homes or as summer haunts.

The homes were small, the lakes unsullied.

And many of those same lakes were enjoyed by a multitude of people, whether they lived on them or not. No one much cared, really. Western Oakland was a quiet place, roads uncluttered, lakes peaceful, parks quiet.

As youths, my friends and I would often hitchhike out Northwestern Highway (then a country road) and than up Orchard Lake (another country road) to one of the many beautiful lakes.

We would rent a boat, fish, swim and mostly just hang around in the middle of a lake, letting the summer

With some real luck, a lone skier would come along in search of companions. The trade-off was fairenough. We would pilot the boat while he skied and, as repayment, he would treat us to a free afternoon of

A great thrill for some city kids who ordinarily would never have been able to afford it.

And what I remember best is that everyone was friendly. You never felt like an outsider. They shared the TODAY, of course, such tales ring of ancient mythology.

The upper middle class and the wealthy have discovered the region we always called "the lakes." And they, unlike many of those who have lived on the lakes for years, are unwilling to share.

Small homes are being torn down and replaced with palatial domiciles. Property taxes are surging and lakefront lots can go for anywhere up to $300,000.

An area that was once the recreational haven for those who could afford no other, is fast becoming the subdivision for the well-to-do.

Skyrocketing taxes are forcing many out of homes they have lived in for decades. And the lakes are

Understand, please. While the land is owned by the homeowners, the water is owned by you and I and anyone else who can get to it. The problem

Every year the legislature allo-cates funds to purchase land along lakes for public access. The Department of Natural Resources works off of a lakes list on which property can be purchased for public access.

But the newer, far more politically influential residents, are twisting legislative arms to see to it that their lakes are taken off the list. Vote-hungry, money seeking lawmakers eagerly comply.

What a shame. Our mothers certainly would be ashamed of those fortunates who are too selfish to

AIDS

Turning our backs is no solution

IDS, an always lethal disease, continues to evade the concern and attention of the general public, while the health care world struggles to cope.

Michigan is ranked 17th in the number of recorded AIDS cases, looming over the 1,000 mark and growing. Those numbers will only continue to rise if the public doesn't respond by calling for action from educators, legislators and the business community.

EDUCATORS must increase their efforts in teaching about the disease's dangers and how to avoid coming in contact with it. Earlier this week U.S. Rep John Conyers, D-Detroit, reprimanded educators for avoiding sensitive subjects such as condom use.

We agree that educators need to be bolder in their approach. Studies show that most students are uninformed or misinformed about AIDS and that many who engage in sex do so without the use of condoms - the only known protecton against contact.

For those who believe abstinence only should be taught, we say that death is too harsh a penalty for engaging in premarital sex.

LAWMAKERS must continue to examine legislation which would protect AIDS victims from discriminatory practices in the workplace. All too often we continue to hear stories which show

Clinic protests

Police work to keep foes apart

Michigan is ranked 17th in the number of recorded AIDS cases, looming over the 1,000 mark and that some business managers are insensitive to AIDS' victims. These victims need the protection of the law to insure they are protected from discriminatory practices.

BUSINESS has a mixed record on dealing with AIDS. Some have done a good job, establishing programs to help both the sick employee and the colleagues who are unsure of how to deal with this frightening illness.

But other companies have chosen to fight a regressive battle. They terminate AIDS-infected employees or discriminate in their hiring.

Turning our backs on the problem offers no solution. It only makes the problem worse.

Even more business leaders will face an even harsher confrontation with AIDS as the disease spreads to their shops and offices. They need to prepare themselves and their employees in learning how to humanely cope with colleagues who face certain death.

Now is that time.

A walk can help us tune up

I THOUGHT of fitness columnist Barry Franklin and Rob Sweetgall one rainy evening while poring over campground maps.

Franklin, that smooth-talking physiologist, recently lured me to a Beaumont Hospital auditorium to hear Sweetgall, who gave up an "academic, sedentary, non-mover" existence as a physicist and TV watcher to walk 11,000 miles through all 50 states one year. The fact that most of his immediate family died from heart disease had given him an incentive to tone up.

"It (walking) gives me time to think and just enjoy nature," Sweetgall said. "At 55 mph, we miss a lot of things. At 3 or 4 mph, that's the best way to see it."

He talks to schools a lot, his purpose being to convince kids that walking is the best form of human exercise. "Children are fatter and more overweight than ever. Many are fat by the time they get out of kindergarten," he said.

It's worse than that, Rob. An Associated Press story out of Newark last month said new Army recruits are such couch potatoes that they're getting injured oftener in basic training. Drill sergeants must substitute low-impact aerobics rather than running and jumping.

That's the patriotic commercial. We turn now to political economy.

THERE IS a lot of bad-mouthing of public campgrounds in conserva-tive circles. Their theory is that the camping business ought to be turned over to private enterprise. Very appealing to us lovers of cor-porate America — unless you know something about campgrounds.

To the sittor:

This letter is in regards to the article questioning the teaching ability and the methods used by Plymouth-Camon English teacher Barb Mas-

I had a number of great teachers, who to this day I respect and admire. Both Canton and Salem are loaded with quality teachers; a number that would be too large to list here. However, I would like to focus on one: Barb Mastera.

She is, without a doubt, the finest English teacher I ever had as a student. I received my bachelor's degree in English from Eastern Michigan University. While at Eastern, I had 14 different professors. My professors were a quality group, but none can compare with Barb Masters. She is, bluntly, the best! What makes her the best?

First of all, she doesn't make value judgments based on how students act or dress, what students like to do in their spare time, or who they choose to "hang around with." Her students respect the fact that they are not judged when they walk into her classroom.

Barb Masters uses a wide variety of learning materials and teaching techniques to motivate and develop the writing skills of her students. Some of her methods may appear, to someone not involved in her learning environment, a bit odd at first. However, her results are undeniable! She uses different materials, objects, films and artwork that students normally wouldn't be exposed to in ev-

Using these materials, and her special style of teaching, she challenges students to review standard concepts in our everyday life. Students reaffirm their own values or make changes that help them to become better citizens.

Masters. Students who take her classes always leave with respect ots know she really does care about them, and they respect her for it. Her open, honest, caring attitude, plus the fact that no one works harder than she does, gains respect from students that many teachers never get. She is constantly making the extra stride necessary to help students improve.

Currently, I am an English teacher in Walled Lake. First hand, I see the challenges teachers face, day in and day out. It is extremely difficult to motivate students who are not interested in education.

No one motivates students to learn better than Barb Masters. My respect and admiration of her teaching methods and her teaching style is beyond words. As an English teacher, my goal is to be half the motivator that she is. Then, I would know I am a teacher

If I had a child enrolled at Plymouth-Canton, knowing what I know today, I would insist that my child take Barb Masters. She is what education should be all about; teaching students to be better citizens.

Abatements questioned

Everyone is critizing the Wilcox house. Justine Canzonetta writes that Scott Lorenz does nothing but put pride in the town.

I want everyone to know that Lorenz received a big tax abatment along with all the other Good Old Boys. If Wilcox had his taxes cut in half for twelve years, he too could afford to have his place spiffed up at the taxpayers expense.

Johnson Controls has just received a $427,000 tax abatement. They had spent 10 million on a new building and they were not going to move. The township officials caved in

I had a client sell her house in Plymouth and move north. The purchaser paid four times what the original owner paid because of the location and expressways.

Industry can't make money in a corn field 50 miles from nowhere. They want to be near their suppliers, customers and expressways. Our officials haven't been able to figure that one out yet.

They just keep asking the little taxpayer to vote for more and more taxes. Some day soon, I hope, the little taxpayers are going to wake up. Dean H. Lenheiser

Wilcox house development

I write on behalf of my client, Johnston H. Wilcox, owner of the Wilcox House and related property, and in particular in response to a let-ter sent to you captioned under your opinion column "Fix Up City Eyesores." It is a shame that the writer or others will likely attempt to claim credit for the transformation which will shortly begin to take place on the Wilcox property.
Mr. Wilcox has long lived in downtown Plymouth, been active in community and governmental affairs and certainly interested in the proper development of his property. His previous attempts at development on the site did not work and he has spent a number of months recently in surveying in excess of 20 developers to be sure that the right combination existed, both for the development as he feels it should occur and to the end that his constant desire. namely that the project will be a credit to the community, will be accomplished. I am pleased to be able to state that an agreement has been reached with Marcello & Silvio Building Co., longtime developers in the area, to both restore the Wilcox house and develop the surrounding property for residential use.

To his financial detriment, Mr. Wilcox has avoided attempts to develop the property in a way which would have desecrated the setting or allowed commercial development. such as fast food or other similar type operations.

In very short order the community will see the wisdom of Mr. Wilcox and know more about his years of dedication to complete a proper project for himself and the commu-

Numbers questioned

I attended the school ralley Tuesday night and was given this worksheet to figure my school tax for next year based on both renewal and 4 mill increase passing. It was then stated that I would only be paying about $200 more if I had any S.E.V. value of 50,000 on a house worth $100,000. My houses 1989 S.E.V. value is $43,900 and my 1988 value was $36,740 so when I placed these figures in the blanks I got an increase of $335.97 or $135.97 above the so called $200. So who is right. Please print this worksheet so everybody in this community can calculate their taxes and remember this group called "I Care," published this worksheet.

Millage supported

To the editor:

The school board meeting on Monday, April 24, turned out to be very illuminating, though one would hardly have guessed it from the items on the formal agenda.

Board member Graham's visit to the high school classroom of Barbara Masters produced some 17 or so impassioned speeches. Mrs. Graham had some ardent supporters, especially a group of CBE members who sported "I Care More" buttons. Ms. Masters had some equally ardent supporters, including colleagues and students.

What was illuminating was that the debate really didn't have much to do with Mrs. Graham's visit at all. Almost every speaker used the event for a springboard to one of two posi-

Area hospitals impose smoking bans

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Area hospitals have made adjustments due to a new anti-smoking law that went into effect April 1, but adjustments vary from hospital to

The new law bans smoking in hospitals, other health-care facilities and public places.

But while some hospitals opted for strict enforcement, others went for "kinder, gentler" standards.

"I'd say we're getting 95 percent compliance, but we're not grabbing anybody by the neck," said Allan Breakie, president of Garden City Osteopathic Hospital. "We've set up a separate dining room for smokers. We've had some people who have been good employees for 15 years who smoke and we don't want to be aggressive and obnoxious with

St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, substantially reduced the number of hospital areas open to smokers.

"ESSENTIALLY, St. Mary is a non-smoking hospital," spokeswoman Julie Sproul said. "We used to allow it in the coffee shop and cafeteria but no more."

Since the law went into effect, smokers have been restricted to a third floor lounge.

The hospital is offering free classes to help employees break their nicotine habits.

Smoking will be banned inside all buildings at Botsford General Hospital, Farmington Hills, as of July 1.

"We're having a two-step phase-in," hospital spokeswoman Margo Gorchow said. "Right now, smoking is limited to one room for employees and one room for visitors. After July 1 there will be no smoking in the hospital or any of the other buildings on our campus." The hospital is also offering free anti-smoking seminars to employees.

The new law exempts sursing homes, homes for the aged, hospices, hospital long-term care units and county medical-care facilities. Hospitals could also make an exception if doctors agree that prohibiting smoking could harm treatment.

Under another new law, minors caught smoking or carrying unlighted tobacco products in public can be fined $50. Minors can no longer be sold tobacco products, including snuff and chewing tobacco.

Stores seiling tobacco products must post a sign by July 1 warning minors of the penalty.

Restaurants also face changes.

Michigan's new AIDS counseling law has caused concern for some soon-to-be-married couples, but the county's chief medical officer said counseling is desperately needed.

There are between 30,000 and 50,000 people married in Wayne County every year," said Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, county medical director. "That's a lot of people we can

While AIDS remains a paramount concern - Lawrenchuk called it the nation's "number one public health concern" - health officials are also concerned about a steady rise in the number of other sexually transmitted diseases.

"THE GOOD news was that the incidence of sexually transmitted diseases decreased among gay white men by 80 percent nationally," Lawrenchuk said, citing a recent report from the Center for Disease Control, Atlanta. "The bad news is it rose for every other group." The report covered the years 1985-6.

While statistics are maintained for AIDS, syphilis and gonorrhea, there are no statistics for other sexually transmitted diseases, making statistical comparisons difficult.

The county's fastest-rising social disease, chlamydia, is not currently required to be reported to the state Department of Public Health, Lawrenchuk said. Tests at county clinics, however, show the gonorrhea-like disease is spreading rapid-

"WE'RE NOW getting more cases of chlamydia than all other sexually transmitted diseases combined, Lawrenchuk said. "Because its symptoms are so similar to gonorrhea, it's difficult to diagnose. But it's easy to treat. Everybody who comes to our clinics now gets treatment for both.'

Chlamydia can cause sterility. It is particularly difficult to diagnose because its symptoms don't often show themselves, health officials said. Presence of HIV, the AIDScausing virus, can also mask the

"We're now dealing with these new, super-organisms," Lawrenchuk said.

The number of reported cases of gonorrhea increased by nearly 20 percent statewide between 1984-87.

Statistics show 7,863 cases reported in 1984 and 9,222 four years later.

While monogamy is advised, health officials advise those with multiple sex partners to have a physical check up at least once every six months. Those who believe they have contracted a sexually transmitted disease are advised to see a doctor immediately.

The students have gone on a number of field trips. Thursday, April 27, they visited Greenfield Village in Dearborn, learning about life as it was lived many years ago.

The students went to the Renaissance Center, and rode the elevator there and the People Mover, Patty Gaylord said.

Trips to the Detroit Zoo, Cranbrook, and the State Capitol and other sites in Lansing are part of the program. Tours of Canton and Plymouth are included, along with bowling and pizza, a Western night, a Halloween night and other activities.

"They're having a great time, yes," Josse said. "Everybody's keeping them busy."

The children have had some English instruction in school, she said, but don't speak it fluently. Age 11 is the typical time when French youngsters begin English studies.

"So they only know a few words." There's a trend in France toward starting English instruction in schools earlier than that, she said.

This is the first time most of the Nantes youngsters have visited the United States.

"I think they like it," Josse said. "They like what you eat, McDonald's and Showbiz Pizza, pop.

Life in America isn't totally unfamiliar to the children.

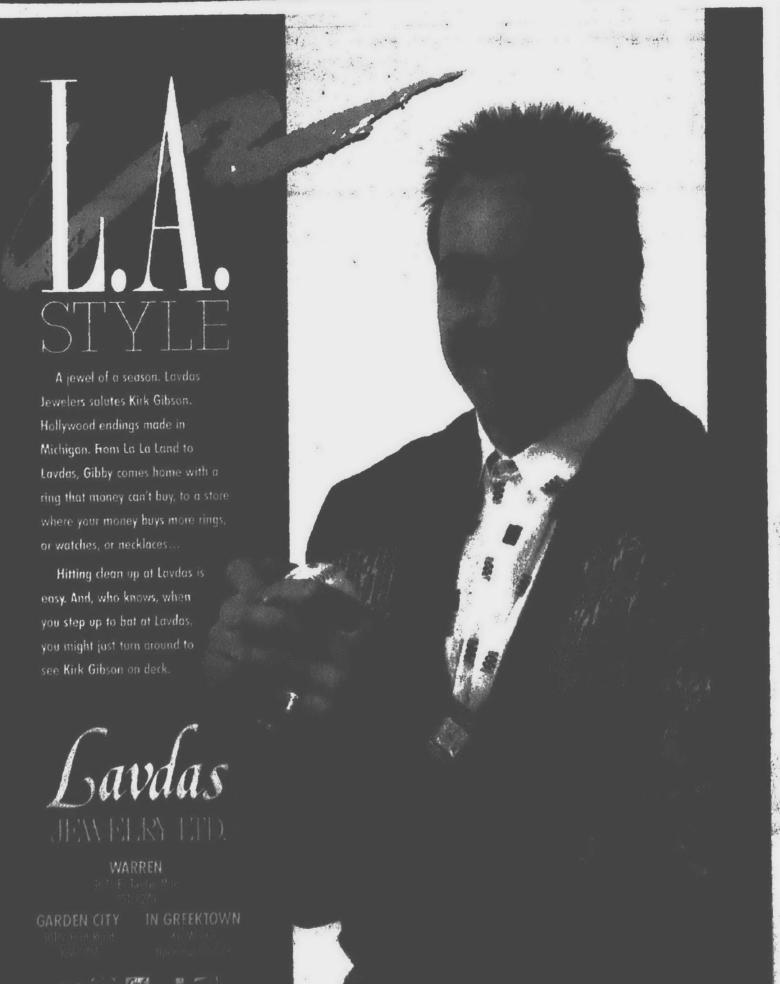

"Europeans are becoming more and more Americanized in every aspect of life," Josse said. They listen . to a combination of French, English and American music.

"So we know most of the American singers and groups." Films and TV programs from the United States are seen in Europe as well.

"Not the best ones, sometimes," Josse said with a smile. This is her third trip to the United States. She was here about five years ago, and taught French at a high school in Warren. She and teacher Raymonde

Bouche were surprised and a bit disappointed that the French children weren't more curious about their surroundings in the United States. "They have no questions," Josse

"I have gone several times." She hopes to be able to visit the other homes on the tour this year.

The Plymouth Symphony League holds a home tour every two years.

Planning for the home tour start-

"We do have to have everyone satisfied. It's easy in this community because there are so many wonderful homes."

Finding homeowners willing to participate hasn't been a problem, Blaisdell said. Hostenses from the Plymouth Symphony League work at the homes throughout the day and keep an eye on things; there have never been any incidents or problems during the tour.

A renovated suite at the Mayflower Hotel in downtown Plymouth will be among the sites on this year's tour.

"We're the grand opening, so to speak," Blaisdell said. "No one sees it before the home tour. That should be lovely too."

PETER PUZZUOLI, a third grade teacher at Field, uses some gentle encouragement to get his students off and writing.

'We try and write every day a bit," Puzzuoli said.

His students wrote and illustrated short stories, and made 10 copies of each. They then sold them to each other. The price was a bargain, just one penny apiece.

"A nickel seemed to be foreboding to some," Puzzuoli said.

Some students used a barter system, trading stories, he said. Some even went door-to-door i their neighborhoods, in search of story buyers.

Puzzuoli provided a bank for youngsters who forgot their pennies. Interest-free loans were available for the asking.

Meeting examines chaplaincy

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

As cars roll off the assembly line, so do the personal problems of those people who make them. There are a number of ways of dealing with them. For one, there's always professional counseling.

But Lowell Lawson of Livonia has a better idea - a chaplaincy pro-

Lawson, who has served as a chaplain for the Detroit Police Department, is helping United Auto Workers locals establish their own chaplaincy programs.

Some 60 UAW locals across the country, including Local 174 in Livonia, are in various stages of starting chaplaincy programs. The UAW International body has yet ratify a program. But Lawson and some UAW locals are already getting a jump on

On May 19-20, a UAW Chaplaincy Conference will take place at Livo-nia Baptist Church. There Lawson will provide the nuts and bolts for starting such a program.

"One of the purposes of the conference is bringing these people together for support and an exchange of information on the core of it," said Lawson, who directed a pilot project in chaplaincy at Local 599 in Flint in

"I think it's a stressful time in the auto industry. We're aware of how volatile the auto industry has been. There have been plants that have closed . . . They live in this constant anxiety."

A person would need to be sensitive to such things as divorce, illness, problems with teenage kids and dealing with preretirement or layoffs. The latter is particularly difficult for autoworkers.

Many auto workers, generally, are paid well enough to live a comfortable life, Lawson said. When that suddenly vanishes, the worker is tossed into a crisis situation.

Lawson believes it's only a matter of time before the UAW International sponsors such a program. In the meantime, individual locals are putting together their own chaplaincy

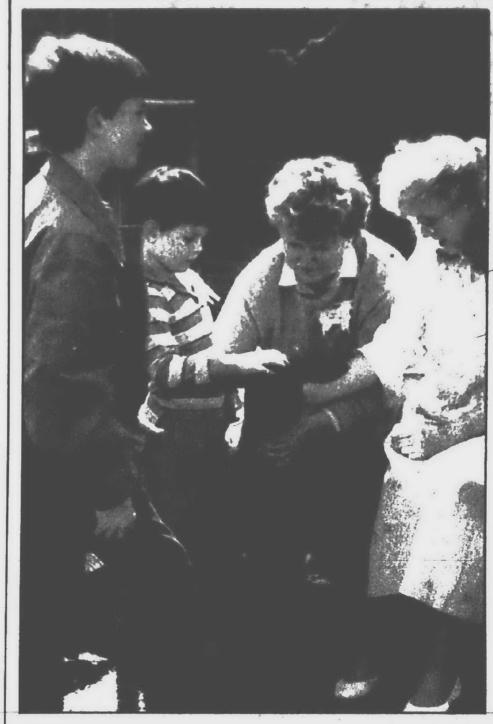

Part of the guidelines for starting a chaplaincy program include ways of supporting one. Lawson helps get the wheels rolling in such endeavors.

He's director of chaplaincy development for the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention. Currently he's involved in establishing chaplaincy programs in other settings, such as airport and law enforcement agencies.

Once started, such programs are met with open arms.

"The comment I hear from the workers is, 'I wish we had this 20 years ago,' "Lawson said.

The UAW Chaplaincy Conference will take place Friday and Saturday, May 19-20, at Livonia Baptist Church, 32940 School-craft, Livonia. Cost for the twoday conference is $25, which covers materials and meals. Fees for individual days are $15 for Friday and $10 for Saturday. Physically, mentally, emotionally, we're all double-parked. We are in a hurry. The schedule is our master,

When approaching an acquaintance, we assume the countenance of preoccupation, saying: "How are you? Fine?" We hope the friend will keep walking. In fact, there is no reason to stop, since the person has been queried and answered. Veek stresses consumer influence on economy

"Consumers Open Markets" is the 1989 theme for National Consumers Week, April 23-29. This theme emphasizes the power each one of us, as consumers, has in our local, national and international economies. Consumers open and close markets from neighborhood markets, media markets, supermarkets to world market. All products from hamburgers to hoses and services from shoe repair to day care succeed or fail based on our consumer decisions.

National Consumers Week is a special time set aside each year to: o recognize the vital role consumers play in the success of our

ing consumer programs;

• unveil new consumer efforts; focus on consumer issues.

The focus is on the rights and freedoms we enjoy as consumers in the American Marketplace and the important role we play as buyers in an economic system based on the freedom to produce and purchase.

Article One of the Constitution established a free enterprise system with common currency, standard weights and measures, reliable legal procedures and interstate and international trade. It provided the incentive for the invention of new products through patents and trademarks and paved the way for a national postal system. These same provisions are still working for consumers and businesses more than 200 years

THE CONSUMER Bill of Rights was adopted by President Kennedy and has been endorsed by each succeeding president. The five consumer rights are:

1. The right to choose: to be assured, wherever possible, access to a variety of products and services at competitive prices. 2. The right to information: to be Terry otected against fraudulent, deceitful or misleading information and to

3. The right to safety: to be pro-tected against the marketing of goods that are hazardous to health or

4. The right to be heard: to be assured that consumer interests will receive fair consideration in the formation of government policy.

5. The right to Consumer Education: to be given information about each consumer's rights and responsibilities, so that, each individual can participate completely in the mar-

Each purchasing decision you make is a vote - for one product over another or no product. Do not make the choice lightly or abdicate the decision to others.

Consumer education is a lifetime process in our fast-paced society. National Consumers Week has been established to focus attention on consumers - you - as the hub of our economy. Celebrate National Consumers Week all year round by making responsible, informed ch when making a purchase.

40 Plus Reader

Dear Mrs. G.:

Most women going through menopause do not require any treatment at all. It is, for them, just another part of the natural development in the female life cycle.

Treatment is needed only for severe symptoms of menopause. These include hot flashes, episodes of sweating followed by breathlessness and chills, and vaginal changes.

Many doctors prescribe estrogen replacement therapy (ERT) as a major treatment. ERT, using a synthetic estrogen, supplements the decreasing amounts of estrogen produced by the body. Estrogen in pill form is most often prescribed for the prevention of osteoporosis. It is applied in cream form for several vaginal symptoms. Estrogen therapy can be highly effective but it must be used with caution. There are many reasons for APPROXIMATELY 10 percent of women who use estrogen experience side effects such as nausea, headaches, vaginal discharge, fluid retention, swollen breasts and weight

Some early studies suggested that breast cancer and heart disease were associated with estrogen use. Current evidence refutes this evidence - yet the controversy contin-

Cancer of the endometrium (lining of the uterus) has been found to occur more frequently in women who use ERT containing estrogen as the only ingredient, compared with untreated women.

Present treatment usually combines estrogen with progestin (another hormone), and this combination appears to reduce the risk of endometrial cancer. But even with this improved form of estrogen therapy, experts do not yet know if its longterm use is completely safe.

WOMEN WHO are poor candidates for ERT are those who have had (or now have) heart disease, breast or endometrial cancer, stroke, migraine headaches, high blood pressure, blood clots or other circulatory disorders.

Other conditions that warrant extreme caution in the use of ERT are obesity, a family history of cancer, vaginal bleeding, liver or gallbladder disease and diabetes.

Women who are at high risk of developing osteoporosis or have severe symptoms accompanying menopause should discuss the use of ERT. with their doctors.

Benefits rule a headache to small business

special writer

A Farmington veterinarian says he's been to three seminars since January and spoken to his accountant, but all he's got to show for his efforts are four different interpretations of what he describes as "one heck of a mess.

What's all this discussion about? Section 89.

Among other rules, Section 89 requires that employer-provided employee benefit plans pass several tests to determine whether benefit plans unduly favor highly compensated employees, generally those earning $50,000 or more per year. (See related story for Section 89 pro-

"There are so many unanswered questions as to what and what does not constitute discrimination," says John Richardson, owner of Plaza Veterinary Hospital in Farmington. Richardson employs several parttime workers. Under Section 89, part-time workers who work as few as 17.5 hours per week must be included in calculations to determine whether plans are discriminatory.

"If I'm paying $1.25 per hour for each of my employees' benefits — and yet one works 20 hours and the other works 40 hours a week - is the total cost going toward each of these employee's benefits in itself discriminatory? One expert told me yes; the other said no," Richardson

He also questions the benefit eligi-

'Suppose an employer has a standard waiting period of three months before new employees can receive health coverage. But you find an excellent full-time prospect that wants or needs coverage right away. So you make an exception for that person. Is that being discriminatory?

"How much is the 'mistake' going to cost in terms of specific tax penalties? Are employers better off dumping their benefits altogether? And if benefits are eliminated and offset by an increase in employee salaries, who's to say the extra funds would be used to obtain individual

LEONARD GREY, officer with the Birmingham-based CPA firm of Grey and Trepeck, calls Richardson's questions typical.

"As I've explained Section 89 to our clients, the end result is that they're discontinuing their employee benefit plans and compensating some people so they can pay health insurance premiums out of their own pockets," Grey said.

Grey agrees that there aren't any guarantees that employees who are compensated to obtain health coverage on their own will do so.

There are one million people in this state without health insurance at the present time. It will certainly be interesting to see how the numbers change by the end of this year.

'Up to now, approximately 10 of our small business clients with 10 or fewer employees have made the decision to dump their benefits," Grey

Relief a year away

Although one move is afoot in Congress to repeal Section 89 and another to amend it, employers should not expect to see any changes this year and are being advised to comply with the IRS ruling.

More than 250 members of Congress, including U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, R-Lake Orion, have signed on as co-sponsors of legislation repealing Section 89. The bill to repeal is being led by Small Business Committee chairman John Falce, a Democrat from New York.

chairman Dan Rostenkowski's bill to alter Section 89 in the form of an amendment to the national budget bill. Rostenkowski is a Democrat from Illinois.

According to Sean Foley, legislative aide to U.S. Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, Rostenkowski's amendment clears up questions of discrimination in benefit plans and sets a health care guideline. Levin is a member of the Ways and Means Committee and is supporting the

SECTION '89' questions participation, discrimination

Tax Reform Act that goes into effect this year, has two major parts: qualification (or documentation/minimum participation) rules and nondiscrimination rules. Section 89 applies to all employers, both public and private. Only churches and church-controlled tax-exempt organizations are exempt.

According to Buck Consultants. the general requirements of Section 89 are similar to those for pension

Under the qualification rules, an employer is required to provide a benefit plan and have notified employees of it. It must be: developed exclusively for employees, legally enforceable and maintained for an indefinite period of time. An employer must provide "reasonable" written notice of benefits available under the plan to employees who are eligible to participate by July 1, or, the first day of the plan year.

If the plan violates the qualification rules, all employees will be taxed on the cost of the plan benefits they received, and employers will be subject to tax penalties if taxable amounts are not reported on employee W-2s.

Donald H. Scharg, principal with the Fishman Group, a Bloomfield Hills law firm specializing in management/labor law, offers an exam-

"If an employee needed major surgery and the company's health plan pays out $100,000 to cover it, that money will become taxable income to the employee" if the benefit plan does not meet the qualification $50,000 per year.

The following plans are included in the qualification requirements of Section 89 if the employer pays for any portion of the benefit or arranges for a discount for employee paid benefits:

- Accident or health plans Group life insurance

ACCORDING TO Steve Hacker, general agent with American Community Mutual Insurance Co. of Livonia, Section 89 encourages employers to develop more consistent benefit packages for their employ-

The law does not prohibit plans that are discriminatory; rather it works to ensure that these types of benefits be treated as taxable income," Hacker said.

The Greater Livonia Expo will be open Tuesday through Thursday in the gymnasium of Schoolcraft College, Haggerty north of Six Mile in Approximately 6,000 people are expected to attend the western suburban trade show to become acquainted with the services and products of area businesses, according to Michael Cooney, who is heading the expo for the sponsoring Livonia Chamber of Commerce.

The show is free, except for the preview party from 6-9 p.m. Tuesday, which is open to the public at $15 a plate.

THE PREVIEW party will feature a "Taste of Livonia," during which more than 20 restaurant establishments in Livonia and neighboring communities will offer samples of their specialties. Those buying 20 or more tickets rate a reduced price of $10 per ticket.

Many participating exhibitors offer customers complimentary tickets to the party, Cooney said.

Wednesday, a chamber luncheon will be held beginning at noon in the Waterman Center of Schoolcraft. Guest speaker will be Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara. Tickets are $10 each.

A wine tasting party will be held by the Wine Castle from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Show hours are 1-8 p.m. Wednesday and 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday. To buy tickets for the preview party or chamber luncheon, call the Livonia chamber at 427-2122.

IN A SMALLER show like the Greater Livonia Expo, exhibitors have greater visibility, said James Skinner, whose company, Shows and Expos Inc., is hired by the chamber to manage the show.

Unlike the huge shows at Cobo

Hall, the Livonia expo "gets so much more community involvement,"

Skinner said. The expo, which started with 115 exhibitors in 1987, is expected to sell out its 135 booths before the show, Cooney said.

"People who have been in the last two shows were anxious to sign up again. Forty exhibitors signed up last year for the '89 show.'

THREE YEARS ago John White, executive director of the Livonia chamber, was looking for a way to "provide better service to our members" when this idea came up.

"Since then it's been one nice success story.

Battling the IRS in court

For most people, taking on the Internal Revenue Service is as farfetched as stepping into the ring with Mike Tyson. But the Farmington Hills-based Michigan Association of CPAs points out that the IRS is not unbeatable. If you believe that an examiner's findings are unfair or inaccurate, you have the right to appeal within the IRS or through the court system. How you initiate an appeal depends, in part, on the type of audit you have undergone and the amount of tax liability in dispute. For a field audit involving a tax dispute of $2,500 or more, you are generally required to file a written statement or protest. But in a correspondence or office audit, where the IRS asks you to submit documentation related to certain items on your tax return, you can usually begin an appeal simply by asking to meet with the examiner's supervisor. The supervisor will review the audit, discuss your concerns and try to resolve the dispute.

IF YOU cannot reach an agreement on this level, your next step is requesting an appeals conference within the IRS. In either case, if you plan to appeal an examiners's decision, make sure that you do not sign the agreement form that the IRS agent provides at the end of an audit. The majority of tax disputes are resolved during appellate hearings. These proceedings are relatively informal and you may even choose to represent yourself. But you may ask a certified public accountant or attorney to appear before the IRS on your behalf.

Because the hearing is generally limited to one meeting, be prepared to present and discuss documentation for each and every item in dispute. The appeals officer will review the government's chances of winning in court and, in most cases, argue for a speedy resolution. It's the appeals officer's job to settle the case out of court whenever possible. As a result, you may find that the appeals officer is more willing to negotiate than was the original auditor. During the hear-ing, expect a great deal of bargaining to occur and be prepared to make your own concessions.

IF YOU cannot reach an agreement in the appeals office, you still have the right to appeal to the courts. But do not make this decision lightly. Court disputes can be time consuming and extremely expensive. In some cases, litigation can last years and cost a small fortune. Before taking your case to court, put aside your hard feelings and re-examine your tax bill. You can argue the case on principle, but make sure you consider whether it makes sense to spend thousands of dollars to dispute a $1,000 tax bill. On the other hand, your future tax bills may in fact be affected by the principle you fight to support.

If you decide to take the litigation route, there are two paths you can follow. You can go directly to the United States Tax Court or your may appeal to the United States District Court or the Court of Claims. Don't assume that all roads lead to the same result. In 1987, taxpayers won complete or partial victories in 68.4 percent of the regular tax cases fought in Tax Court, but they won only 19.5 percent of those argued in the Disrict Court and 14.8 percent of those argued in the Court of Cliams.

The U.S. Tax Court is totally independent of the IRS. In the small tax claims division for cases involving $10,000 or less in disputed tax, you can attend with or without an adviser. But in cases involving disputes of more than $10,000, you will have to follow the same rules of procedure as those in effect in regu-

Section 89 rules prove to be a big headache

IF, IN PACT, Section 89 leads to employers dropping benefits, it will be the ultimate irony for those who believe that Section 89 represents Congress' attempt to extend employ-ee benefits, especially health care coverage, to lower-income workers.

Sherry Mirasola, director of public ffairs and communication with the Michigan Hospital Association, says the nation's health care crisis is one of the factors behind Section 89.

"It has been estimated that the tax penalties imposed on employers who do not comply with Section 89 will generate between $300 million and $500 million over the next five years," Mirasola said.

She added that no one knows how the tax revenues will be used.

"Last year alone, Michigan hospi-uncompensated care. So it becomes fairly obvious how Section 89 is just one of several strategies that need to be implemented in overcoming the problems of the uninsured."

Grey believes that the problem with Section 89 isn't so much compliance as the paperwork required to comply. For example, the testing ures for Section 89's non-discrimination rules require that a company offering medical coverage to single workers, workers with spouses, and workers with children (with each option offering two deductibles) falls under six plans for Others who discriminate will choose to pay the extra income taxes every year because the total penalties will be less expensive. And, of course, there will be those who are totally unaffected by Section 89 and had nothing to worry about in the first place," she said.

Al Senchuck, tax manager with the Farmington Hills-based CPA firm of Morof, Sheplow and Weinstein, suggests that small business owners write to their representatives in Congress about their concerns. And Livonia councilwoman Laura Toy stresses why:

Battling the IRS in court

If you choose to go to Tax Court. you do not have to pay the disputed amount, as is the case if you choose to appeal in federal court. But be warned: Decisions made in the small tax claims division are final. Neither you nor the IRS can appeal.

If you decide to take your appeal to a federal court, you must first pay the amount in dispute plus any interest and penalties owed. Next, you file a claim for a refund. If the claim is rejected, you may bring your suit to the U.S. District court where you live or the Court of Claims that hears cases in Washington D.C. The proceedings in either case are formal, and you will most likely need an attorney.

Why then would you select the District Court over Tax Court? For one, you may choose this route if you believe your case would fare better before a jury. (Tax Court hearings have no jury.) Or your professional advisers are aware of previous rulings that make it likely that a federal court would judge your case favorably. In other cases, such as those involving employment taxes, you have no choice; the case must be argued in the District Courts.

CPAs recommend that you make every attempt to settle your case early in the appeals process. But if you are convinced that your case is just, don't accept an unfair decision simply because your are afraid of getting into the ring with the IRS.

Big 3 getting serious about alternative fulfill off from the GM tech center last week in a cloud of eye-stinging fumes, a few days before another team of Chrysler engineers took Chrysler's methanol-powered car to Washington.

Both events mark a revival of interest in alternate fuels for the family bus, the kind of research that enjoyed a short-lived popularity during the mid-1970s energy crisis but today raises as much interest as organic gardening.

Methanol is a type of alcohol mainly used to thin shellac and as a fuel for model airplanes. Now it's rapidly gaining notoriety as the first fuel being taken seriously as an alternative to gasoline for passenger cars since interest in diesel fuel dwindled a few years ago.

It's relatively costly and nearly unavailable at the moment. But federal regulators have made the auto industry an offer it can't refuse, and now GM and Ford are expected to have production methanol-fueled cars on the read in approximately three years, with Chrysler only a little further behind.

METHANOL IS a variety of alcohol derived mainly from coal or nat-ural gas — two of the most plentiful supplies of energy short of crude oil It has been used off and on for racing cars since it has a few properties that work well in high-performance

It also enjoyed a short popularity in World War II with the Germans, who also puttered with charcoal fumes and gas from decaying chick-ens after Allied troops created a re-gional energy crisis for that country by cutting off Mideast oil supplies. Today, methanol is being pitched as a reasonably clean-burning fuel with the potential at least to supplement gasoline in quantity. California is buying a handful of methanol-fueled cars to test in the Los Angeles area, and GM is sponsoring a university design contest for the best-designed car burning the fuel.

NONE OF THIS is fueled by altru-

The main interest to auto makers is the Alternative Motor Fuels Act of 1988. This includes some tricky arithmetic that allows automakers to average methanol-fueled cars in their corporate average fuel economy (CAFE) as if the cars were running at approximately 100 mpg, when in fact they get only approximately 12 mpg.

Under the act, if enough methanolfueled cars are sold, a manufacturer can raise its CAFE average by up to 1.2 miles per gallon. This, of course, means that more low-mileage big cars can be sold without pushing the CAFE beyond legal limits.

In today's market, when custom-ers are demanding big care and big engines, while the corporate fuel av-erages are bumping against regulat-ed limits, any relief is seen as a big incentive to new car sales.

The result is such a dramatic advantage for automakers selling methanol-fueled cars that both GM and Ford today are rushing to develop methanol-fueled cars by 1992, with Chrysler not far behind.

THE SUDDEN burst of government support for an alternate fuel is something of a mystery. California has been pushing alternate fuels as a hope for the future. But methanoly while it is relatively clean of smog-producing hydrocarbons, is rife with eye-stinging aldehydes. Likewise, the low energy content of the fuel means that it takes approximately twice as much to push a car a mile

There are no other competitors

during this stage, leaving managers

Lastly, the lack of available means both manufacturing faciliti storage and distribution systems v

Despite the drawbacks, it offers the potential of a source of liquid fuel that will last far into the sext century, and some freedom from oil imports — although the Mideast is the likely source of methanol as well as gasoline.

Probably of more significance than a handful of research cars is that it's the first sign of a long-range look at the future of energy for transportation in years, and one not driven exclusively by a current crisis — a welcome shift in thinking after muddling through for the past 15 years or so.

HE MOVIE THEATER audience was settling down, Max - the maniacal, meat-cleaver-toting, jokecracking mass murderer - finally was dead. Or was he?

From the back of the theater came the blood-curdling promise of a repeated in "The Horror Show" -"This isn't finished!"

Actor Brion James, who plays the evil Max Jenke, was out in the lobby stalking moviegoers at the film's Detroit-area premiere at the Americana Theatre in Southfield. Instead of a meat cleaver, he was armed with a pen for autographs.

"With a lot of actors, when they're done filming, they say goodbye to the project," said James, in an interview the next morning at the Radisson Plaza Hotel in Southfield . "I'm more than happy to visit Detroit." This stop was one on a five-city tour to promote the opening of "The Horror Show."

THE LAST TIME the actor was in the Detroit area, he was causing mayhem and driving around town in a van with a giant stuffed rat on the roof, playing a hit man/exterminator in the locally produced horrorspoof "Crimewave.

"I was here filming for three months in the dead of winter. You can keep your Michigan winters," the actor, who resides in California, said with a laugh.

The "Horror Show" is a cut above your run-of-the-mill slasher flick. In the film, Max is a twisted mass murderer bent on the destruction of the detective who put him behind bars, no matter what it takes. " 'Horror Show's' different because the terror is psychological," said James, breaking into the voice of Max.

'In a lot of horror movies there isn't much emotion or tension because you can't identify with any of the good guys. They get bumped off before you can get to know them. In this film, you care for the detective and his family. And Max isn't a faceless monster. That's one of the reasons why this movie is different. Freddie ("Nightmare on Elm Street") is a dream and Jason ("Friday the 13th") is a moron. Max is a real guy, just gone very, very bad."

wears Armani clothing. Max is truly one mean dude in 'Horror Show's" horro-fi story — a combination of horror and science fiction. He has murdered 116 people before being caught and stopped by a police detective played by Lance Henriksen. We join the story with Max awaiting his fate on death row.

Bad in more ways than one. Max

From his cell, he manipulates the reality of the detective and his family. Max causes the detective to hallucinate. Detective McCarthy doesn't understand this at first. And his family begins to think he's not firing on all cylinders. This doesn't stop when Max is executed because the essence of Max is catapulted from the electric chair into another dimension, where he can continue to wreak havoc on McCarthy and then the gener-

Performances of "Pm Not Rap-papert" continue through Satur-day, May 13, at the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford Playhouse in Redford. For ticket information,

By Bob Welbel special writer

The intensity of applause experienced by the cast of the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford production of "I'm Not Rappaport" says it all. The show is a hit. Maybe grand slam says it better. Author Herb Gardner writes very funny lines about the problems of aging, and di-rector Mattie Wolfe's cast skillfully bring them to life.

Veteran performer Howard Egan gives a stunning performance as a feisty, 81-year-old Jewish radical, Nat - whose daughter wants to put him in a home. But irascible Nat isn't ready to be carted off to the junk heap.

No sir. There are still causes to champion. A life to live. A world to observe from a park bench in Central Park.

Nat shares the bench with his friend, Midge, a nearly blind, black superintendent of an apartment building. David Boone is splendid as Midge, a shrewd senior who hides from his tenants in the boiler room, so they won't notice his affliction.

In an otherwise excellent production, the fisticuffs appear too artificial, especially when the Cowboy hits Laurie.

NAT AND MIDGE argue about most everything. Nat is given to challenging authority head-on. And, if need be, assuming characters to bluff through situations (which enrages Midge). Nat is hilarious as a union lawyer, messing up a severance pay deal for Midge. The laughs roll on as Nat, a Mafia Don, makes an aborted attempt to scare off a young punk in the park.

Nat's daughter, Clara, is played effectively by Laura Niesen. At times, however, the character could use more warmth and less acrimony.

In supporting roles we have Richard Bulleri as a personable Danforth, head of the tenants association (the role will be played by assistant day, May 5 and 6, only); Jennie Bet-ley as Laurie, a troubled would-be artist; Tyrone Franklin as a very convincing Gilley, who offers park visitors "protection," and David Rago as an intimidating Cowboy, who pushes dope and young women

Along that line, in an otherwise excellent production, the fisticuffs appear too artificial, especially when the Cowboy hits Laurie

The set, on the other hand, is outstanding. In lieu of the large bridge that dominates the Broadway production, Judy Nakdimen designed a skyline, wall and trees around the park benches. The guild's intimate stage adds a very special ambiance. It focuses attention on two lovable old codgers searching for respect and dignity in their twilight years. One laughs at their antics, while at the same time being touched by their

Groh swings mighty bat in Canton win

Guaranteed Lowest Prices!

Ron Groh is congratulated by teammates after he drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double and then scored on a base hit by Derek Humphries. That gave Plymouth Canton a 6-3 lead, but Plymouth Salem tied the score in its next at-bat. However, Groh later hit a grand slam, and the Chiefs claimed an 11-7 victory in Monday's game. Groh was 3-for-4 with seven RBI.

Chiefs rip Salem for 11-7 triumph

staff writer

Ron Groh's career day at the plate for Plymouth Canton meant doomsday for arch rival Plymouth Salem.

Groh had three hits, including a grand slam, and batted in seven runs Monday as the Chiefs outslugged host Salem 11-7 in the first game of a double-header.

The nightcap was suspended after four innings because of darkness with Canton, 7-3 overall, leading 3-1. The Rocks saw their record dip to 6-4. No make-up date has been set.

The bases-loaded homer was Groh's third hit of the day, and it helped secure the victory for the visiting Chiefs, who led 7-6 entering the sixth inning.

As a result, Canton coach Fred Crissey might have found a permanent leadoff hitter in Groh, who was in that spot for a third straight

"HE'LL PROBABLY stay up there," Crissey said. "He's aggressive and runs well enough to stay there. He's not a strikeout kid, so he's the kind you like to have up

Groh, who also scored three runs and helped make a winner of Canton starter Jeff Kugelman, atoned for an earlier error that kept alive a Salem rally in the second. With one out and a runner on first, Groh dropped a fly ball off the bat of Brian Rudolph, and the Rocks later took a 3-2 lead on Dennis Hanson's two-run double. Groh rebounded at the plate, hiting a bases-loaded double in the fourth inning that gave Canton a temporary 6-2 lead, and he capped the big day with the slam off losing pitcher Dave Makowiec.

"The thing I like about Ronnie is that he's a bulldog," Crissey said. "He digs in and stays after you.

"He gets upset," added Crissey, referring to the error, "and that's not always bad as long as it doesn't become a negative situation."

Groh's comeback also helped his team bounce back from a disastrous week in which Canton lost three of four games and dropped from the ranks of the state's top teams.

"LAST WEEK was probably the worst we've ever had at Canton," Crissey said. "We went into a funk and played poor defense.

"We worked on it and talked about, and I think they responded. You have ups and downs, but the kids have to play together. We were in a couple situations today where we could have broken and didn't do

Fresh perspective revives net career

By C.J. Risak

A little more fun, a little less door-die thinking, and - presto! -Wendy Gilles' collegiate tennis career at Wisconsin did an about-face.

As a freshman, Gilles - from Plymouth (Salem) - was named to the all-Big Ten team. In 1987 she was second team all-conference in singles, but in '88 the best she could manage was second team in doubles.

Her career seemed to be sliding. "I think I put too much, pressure on myself my sophomore and junior years," Gilles, a senior, explained. "I felt like I just had to win. I expected too much from myself. I was mentally frustrated.

"This year, I said to myself I was going to have fun and do the best I

THAT SEEMINGLY subtle change in mental approach has helped put her career on track. At last weekend's Big Ten championship meet in Bloomington, Ind., the Badgers finished second to Indiana in the dual meet-type tournament, and Gilles was named all-Big Ten in both singles and doubles.

Wisconsin defeated Michigan State 8-1 in its first match and Northwestern 7-2 in its second before falling to Indiana 5-1 in the fi-

Gilles was 2-1 at No. 1 singles. She beat Linda Pursel of MSU 6-2, 6-3, then gained a bit of revenge with a three-set triumph over Christina Schuschel of Northwestern, 7-5, 4-6, 7-6. A week earlier, Schuschel had edged Gilles 7-5, 5-7, 6-4 in a dual meet. Indiana's Shawn Foltz, eighth in the Volvo Collegiate Tennis Rankings, defeated Gilles 6-1, 6-1.

Gilles' victory over Schuschel was pivotal, giving Wisconsin a 4-2 lead going into the doubles competition in its Big Ten tournament semifinal against Northwestern. The Wildcats had beaten the Badgers 6-3 in their previous dual meet.

"IT WAS a great match, one of the highlights of the tournament," claimed Wisconsin coach Kelly Ferguson. "Wendy's winning that match gave us a lot of momentum going

Added Badger assistant coach Lisa Fortman, "Wendy was down 4-1 and 5-4 in the last set and (Schuschel) had six match points against her." But Gilles was able to fight them off for the win, partially by "playing a style foreign to her," according to Fortman. Gilles, normally a baseline player who comes to the net only to put a point away, charged in earlier to force Schuschel to make mistakes. The strategy worked.

Wendy Gilles All-Big Ten netter

"I always come to the net to finish off a point," said Gilles. "I was coming in a little sooner because I knew (Schuschel) wouldn't come in. You do anything you have to do to win. Last year, I didn't put myself in that position enough."

Fortman, who was Gilles' doubles partner in '86, called Gilles "very intense. Wendy can be intimidating on the court because of her intensity." But that same intensity led to Gilles' overly-pressurised approach, one that would not allow for mistakes.

"I WAS going out not to lose instead of playing to win," she said. "I was just hitting the ball and hoping the other player would make a mistake, instead of being aggressive."

That and an injury problem -Gilles has had to cope with a painful hip flexor throughout her career at Wisconsin - bothered Gilles until this season. She is currently ranked 54th in singles in the Volvo rankings, compiled by the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches' Association.

It seems unlikely Gilles' collegiate career in singles will continue. She is currently fifth in the Midwest Region and won't get an automatic NCAA berth. She could land an atlarge spot; those will be announced Friday.

Gilles will be in the NCAA's individual tournament, which starts May 15 in Gainesville, Fla. She and douhles partner Elaine Demetroulis did get an automatic berth; they were 12-2 in Big Ten matches.

"I think I've improved my doubles game 100 percent since I've been here," said Gilles. Fortman agreed: "Wendy defintely started out as a singles specialist, but her doubles game has come a long way."

GILLES WILL finish fourth on the Wisconsin career singles victory list with a 76-45 record, unless she gets into the NCAA tournament. First on the list with 97 wins is Wendy's sister, Chris, whose career at Wisconsin ended last year.

Their careers have similarities. A year ago, Chris also earned an automatic berth to the NCAAs in doubles but not in singles, the same situation as Wendy's. But their on-court approach offers quite a contrast.

"Chris was much more meliow," said Ferguson of her former No. 1 player. "Because of that, she tended to have fewer peaks and valleys and was more consistent.

"Wendy is intense. She likes the challenge of the big match. We played a tough schedule this year, so she excelled. Wendy is probably one of the best players I've ever coached. I think any coach would like to have a player as intense and talented as she is.'

Unlike Chris, who has given up tennis to pursue a career with Motorola in Chicago (she majored in informational systems and marketing) and is engaged to be married, Wendy plans to play satellite tournaments this summer before returning to Wisconsin to complete her work towards a degree in communications.

At the conclusion of Monday's soccer game, referee Ron Montroy asked Plymouth Salem coach Ken Johnson if he wanted round goulposts at Centennial Educational Park next season.

That was no doubt a tempting thought af-ter the Rocks hit the existing square posts five times and settled for a 1-1 draw with Farmington. Johnson and the Salem girls had to wonder what might have been as the Lakes Division showdown ended in a no de-

"It's one of those things," Johnson said. "It could have been 5-1, and here we're fighting for our life. But if it had been 5-1. it wouldn't have been indicative of how well Farmington played.

"It was a good tie," he added. "We could really have been unlucky and had it go the other way. We could have lost, and a loss would have been fatal to our chances in the division.

While nothing was gained, neither team was hurt by the result, although the Rocks will have the edge in the event a tiebreaker

ASSUMING BOTH defeat Livonia Stevenson in upcoming games and tie for first place, total conference points will decide the division winner. It was the second straight tie for the Falcons, who battled Livonia Franklin to a 0-0 stalemate last Friday. Salem had defeated the Patriots 6-0.

"It's a little easier to accept this (tie), but I can't take anything away from Franklin," Cole said. "Franklin played hard. All you can do is take it as a success and use that in your next game."

The tie probably won't affect Salem's No. 1 ranking in Class A, and No. 4 Farmington

Johnson thought the Rocks should have been ahead 3-0 at halftime, but it was a 1-0 lead instead after Sara Hayes scored at the Coincidentally, both teams scored on the same kind of play and from the same spot on the field. Hayes and Farmington's Amy Westerkamp lofted high, arcing shots from 20 yards on the right side.

Both shots caught the opposing goalie a bit too far out of the net and bounced into the left pocket of the goal.

"THOSE ARE deadly for the keeper,"

Johnson said, "because it comes in high and goes over the shoulder. If the keeper is watching it come in and it's kind of high, it's easy to misjudge."

Senior midfielder Jill Estey bounced three of the five shots off the Farmington goal, Missy Smith and Michelle Minton one each. Furthermore, Farmington's goal came just seconds after a play in which Smith hit the sidepost and Estey caught the top bar with

With 8:26 left in the half, Westerkamp gave the Falcons cause to celebrate after scoring only the second goal allowed by Salem's freshman goalkeeper, Jennifer Em-

"I was shooting; it was intentional," as-sured Westerkamp. "I thought it was going over the net at first. Amy Trunk put it off to the side; she gave me a square pass."

"It was a good shot, a pretty shot, and I don't think the keeper had a chance on it,"

Cole said. "A team always has to be ready. I tell my girls they have to be ready for the

The tying goal gave the Palcons new life. The added inspiration caused them to press the attack for the next several minutes and kept Salem on the defensive.

"KEN'S TEAM hit the post quite a bit, a and that gave us momentum," Cole said. "It's like hockey, the other team gets frustrated, and we tried to use that to our advantage."

The Rocks, however, were successful at shutting down Farmington's high-scoring Carrie Maier and Trunk. The Falcons penetrated the corners of Salem's defense several times, but the ball was too far ahead of Majer and Trunk, who had to chase the ball and had too sharp an angle to attempt a solid shot. They did well to make a centering pass before the ball went out of bounds.

Canton's rally nets 3-2 victory over Northville

Jenny Russell's unassisted goal with less than seven minutes left Monday gave Plymouth Canton a 3-2 girls soccer victory over host Northville.

The win improved Canton to 3-0 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association, one game ahead of Northville and Livonia Churchill. The Chiefs are 6-1 overall.

Canton's only remaining division games are at home against winless Farmington Hills Harrison Wednesday and Livonia Franklin on May 17.

Canton trailed 1-0 and 2-1 but pulled even each time with goals from Shannon Meath and Candi Jones, respectively, to set up Russell's heroics.

Tricia Greenhalge assisted on Meath's goal in the first half, and Russell collected an assist on Jones' goal with about 10 minutes left in the game.

"Everyone was scrapping back," Canton coach Don Smith said. "They played hard the last 15 minutes. I thought it wasn't meant to be. It was a back-and-forth game. A lot of offensive opportunities never materialized.'

PLYMOUTH SALEM blanked Brighton 5-0 Saturday, and Sara Hayes led the scoring parade with a pair of goals and one assist.

The shutout was the sixth of the season for Jennifer Emmett, who has allowed only two goals.

Salem played without All-American midfielder Jill Estey, who was invited to the Olympic Sports Festival basketball tryouts Saturday at Purdue University.

Plymouth Salem and Livonia Churchill played to a scoreless tie Wednesday and it's a wonder Jill Estey didn't score at least one goal for visiting Salem.

"It was frustrating, because we kept kicking the ball at them and couldn't put it in the corners," said Estey, who has seven goals. "We're not playing bad, we're just kicking them to the keepers. We have a tough league (Western Lakes Activities Association). I'm not upset with

CHURCHILL COACH Nick O'Shea wasn't thrilled about the tie, but he'll accept it - and expect - the Chargers to generate more offense Monday at Walled Lake Central. The Chargers, the fifth-ranked team in Class A, are 4-1-2 overall.

If Richard Gordon had his druthers, he'd make sure Saturday's Observerland Relays weren't decided until the day's final event - the 1,600-

For personal reasons.

"I don't think anyone will run away with it," said Gordon, the Westland John Glenn boys track coach. "I think it will come down to the mile relay (1,600). I'm hoping it will, because I've got a good

Glenn and Wayne Memorial each have recorded 3:25.0 in the 1,600 relay, and that's the best time by far in Observerland.

But Glenn is the odds-on favorite to win the Observerland Relays at Livonia Churchill, largely because defending champion Wayne will be missing a number of performers to the prom weekend.

WAYNE (5-0 in duals) clobbered Glenn 84-44 last month in a dual meet, but Wayne coach Joe Grasley isn't as confident about this next encounter. The Wayne prom is Friday night, and Saturday, several standouts, including Shayler Barnes, Wendell Smith, Jason Hodge, Larry Ryles and Demetrice Welch will be at Cedar Point for the day-after prom festivities.

Grasley expects to be riding his own emotional roller coaster Saturday at Churchill.

'We'll still be highly competitive," Grasley said. "We're going to give it our best shot. One of our pluses is we have depth. But John Glenn Carl Lowe, Steve Wiseley, Ferlin Whitlow and David Ryan will anchor Glenn's hopes in the 1,600 relay, but that isn't all Gordon has going for him. Sprinter Andrew Dobbins, high jumper Greg Anderson and distance runners Chris Gumke and Randy Seach also will figure in the scoring.

Wayne ran away from the field with 104 points last spring, but Gordon said "anyone who reaches 80 this year has a chance to win it."

"WE'LL BE in the top four, but (Redford) Catholic Central and Plymouth Salem has a good shot and I still don't count out Wayne," Gordon said. "They have a lot of individual guys. And I think there's a sleeper team here and that's Churchill."

The Chargers are led by Jason Belaire, one the area's top high jumpers and the top high hurdles performer, but middle-distance sprinter Jeff Zawislak pulled a hamstring last week and won't be available. Churchill was third last year and has won the meet several times under coach Fred

"We won't have him (Zawislak) but we hope to scratch and kick around and get our points," Price said. "Jason's got a good shot at the high hurdles and we have a good chance in the discus relay

(where Jeff Bristow has thrown 139-0)."
CC, which finished in a tie last year for 10th place with Farmington, has a far better chance to contend this time. The Shamrocks are deep in the distance events, led by Mike Sheridan, who has Observerland's best times in the 800, 1,600 and 3,200 events.

CC also has distance performer Chris Antezak, second to Sheridan in the 3,200 run, and sprinter Dave Owens, owner of Observerland's best 100meter time (10.9).

BUT COACH Kevin Kavanagh also said he has a "few sprinters nicked up," though he won't say

"We may not be quite at full strength," Kavanagh said. "And the problem we'll have is our field relays are suspect and we don't have depth to match Glenn, Churchill and Wayne. We saw Glenn at the Elk Relays and they've got a lot of speed and Wayne blew them away, so it will be a strong

Plymouth Salem, the '87 Observerland Relays winner, stumbled to fourth last year, but is expected to contended.

Salem beat Churchill in a dual meet earlier this year, and has hurdler and long jumper Roger Parry. Also competing will be versatile distance man Scott Stryker, who "is going to have a busy night," predicted coach Gary Balconi.

"I think we're getting better every week," said Balconi, whose team is 2-1. "Competition at this meet is as good or better than ever before. We hope to do well on the track so when all is over and added up we'll be in the hunt."

Redford Union, a fifth-place finisher last year, could be another sleeper, behind pole vaulter Chris Woodbeck, discus thrower Eric Sheppard and long jumper Steve Nowak, three of Observerland's best performers in those events.

French Open is ment stop for Cunningham

By Brad Emone staff writer

Carrie Cunningham will be able to practice her French as well as her tennis when she travels next month to Paris.

The 17-year-old junior at Churchill High School will play in the main draw of the prestiq French Open, a Grand Slam tour-nament which begins May 29 at the famed Roland Garros Tennis Stadi-

Cunningham, coming off a semifinal performance at the Virginia Slims of Houston (her best showing in a major event), has boosted her world ranking.

Still classified as an amateur, Cunningham entered the pro clay court tourney (field of 32) ranked No. 121 in the world.

She is expected to move into the top 100 after pulling off victories over No. 11 Katerina Maleeva of Bolivia (4-6, 7-5, 6-2), Hu Nu of China (2-6, 6-2, 6-4) and Kim Kessaris (7-6, 6-1) before falling to 15-yearold whiz Monica Seles, the eventual champion (6-0, 6-1).

On Friday, Cunningham cele-brated her 17th birthday by defeating Kessaris in the quarterfinals.

The people from Virginia Slims brought out a cake and the crowd sang happy birthday," Cunningham said. "And my coach (Joe Fodell) took me out to a movie. It was nothing really special, but I'd have to say it was a very good day."

JUST AS SOON as she turned 17. Cunningham may have felt more like 70 after Seles, a native of Yugoslavia and a disciple of Bradenton, Fla., tennis guru Nick Bollettieri, polished her off in less than

"I was not prepared mentally," said Cunningham, who met Seles a few years back in a junior tournament. "I was to a point where I played like I didn't belong in a semifinals. I played like I wasn't ready for that."

Cunningham said she wasn't shocked when Seles knocked off Chris Evert in Sunday's finals (3-6, 6-1, 6-4).

"I wasn't surprised at all," said Carrie. "She (Seles) is definitely going to be a very good player. She's a great player now.

"She's very aggressive and she never lets up. She's tough now and she was tough then (in the juniors), ☐ Tennie scores, Page 6D

But despite the thrashing administered by the up-and-coming Seles, Cunningham is anxiously awaiting her trip to Europe, which also includes a stop at Wimbledon, another Grand Slam event.

"I really like it (Paris) because it's like our U.S. Open, only a smaller version," she said. "It's a big complex with a lot of avid ten-

"IT'S JUST A whole different world. The food is really something and their transportation . . . they have cars that will take you wherever you want."

Cunningham is scheduled to fly out on May 26 and will be part of the U.S. Junior National Team contingent. She will also compete in the French Junior Open as well as the main draw.

Cunningham will also be joined by her coach the first week and by family members during the twoweek event.

"I won't be making any major changes in my game, just a lot of physical training such as running before I leave," said Cunningham.

The Livonian, forced to turn down $11,250 in prize money for reaching the semifinals because of her amateur status, says she is sticking to her plans about continuing her education. Despite her recent success in Houston, Cunningham's desire to play for a major university has not wavered.

"I've gotten letters, but I haven't talked to any school yet," said the Churchill honor student. "I do want to play in college."

In the meantime, Cunningham is still catching up on her studies at Churchill. She missed all of last

"I'm really behind," she laments. But Cunningham has been brushing up on speaking French.

"This is the third year I've taken courses," she said. "It's hard. I can see where they (the French people) get impatient when we don't know the language. But I'm going to try

Prep proposals get mixed reviews

That's what the 17member representative council will face at the Michigan High School Athletic Association's upcoming meeting, May 7-10 in Lewiston.

The format may not change with the unveiling of the new Breslin Student Events Center in East Lansing. For selfish reasons I like the format the way it stands: A-B-C-D finals (Saturday) in Ann Arbor with the A and D semifinals (Friday) in East Lansing and C-B semifinals (Friday) in Ann Arbor.

The Palace of Auburn Hills is also under consideration, but I feel high school events belong on college sites. The Palace is bigger (21,000 seats) and more modern, but it seems luxury boxes and high school sports just don't mix.

There's plenty of parking at the Palace, but with Lapeer Road (one lane) as the only entrance, traffic is always a problem.

And the word is that Roberts is not thrilled about using a facility which openly advertises beer.

But the Palace would not be a bad idea for staging, for instance, all four Class A quarterfinal games at once (how about 2, 4, 6 and 8 p.m. on Wednesday?)

With the advent of Breslin, East Lansing an even more attractive site because it is centrally located.

· Changing the Class A final game to the evening for the first time since 1971:

BOATS INC. 6465 Telegraph, Dearborn Hts. ½ Ml. N. of Ford Rd. (313) 274-1600

Interesting suggestion, but I remember the last evening Class A final. It erupted into a riot between fans from Detroit Kettering and Flint Northern, Chairs were flying everywhere at Crisler.

The afternoon is fine with me, but let's face it, who looked forward to Chris Webber dunking at will over Ishpeming in the evening Class C final this year? By halftime, everybody had pretty much cleared out. It made a long day longer.

 Consideration of a six-foot coaching box in front of the team bench area (basketball):

It seems the National Federation, which Roberts adores, has changed its tune for the 1989-90 season.

It seems the ball-and-chain rule coaches have been subjected to the past two years is on its way out.

Roberts likes the controversial rule because it keeps coaches in line, but we all know that the rule is challenged night-in and night-out. A coaching box would be a nice compromise.

Don't football coaches have to be within the 30-yard lines?

Some unqualified officials have been awarded championship games by enforcing the rules to impress MHSAA honchos.

· Continuation of individual and team dual tournaments in wrestling:

The new dual meet tourney format coinciding with old individual tournament format is a joke.

Coaches who don't have strong teams will continue to sandbag during team dual matches to sacrifice in order to rest a potential individual state qualifier.

I've seen many of state dual meet matches where the team's top wrestlers were held out on Wednesdays, so they'd be fresh for the individual meet on Saturday.

How many wrestling tournaments should we be subjected to?

· An increase in days of competition for baseball and softball teams from 18 to 22, while imposing a limit of 36 games:

Give me a break! How about the 3-ball, 2-strike rule

The increase is justified for warmer climates, but not in Michigan. Athletic directors have a hard enough time scheduling over inclimate weather, senior proms, graduations, senior trips and SAT tests.

Many high schools have thin pitching staffs to start with. Just because we subject ourselves to the Tigers for 162 does not justify this number at the high school level.

Increasing the number of dates during the summer would be justified, but in the spring, all this does is commit players to spending more time on the diamond instead of the Breier worked five innings before Manish Nandani came on to work the last two and hold Liggett to one additional hit. Breier walked seven and struck out as many.

Plymouth Salem softball coach Rob Willette was impressed by the play of Stacey Thompson after she pitched and batted Plymouth Canton to a 9-6

"She was the story of the game," Willette said. "If they didn't have her, we would have won the game."

Thompson pitched a complete game, allowing just five hits and overcoming six errors by her defense. She limited the walks to four and struck out

But Thompson was just as impressive at the plate, hitting a two-run homer while going 2-for-3 and getting three RBI as the Chiefs improved to 11-5 "She started our rally in the third inning with the home run," Canton coach Dave Racer said. Willette said he had instructed his pitchers to walk Thompson, but they were either unable or unwilling to do so.

"The girls didn't play real well, but our mistakes have been hurting us all year," he said. "But why should we stop just because we're playing Canton?" Chris August was the losing pitcher, working three official innings and part of the fourth without retiring a batter. Holly Hinzmann, who allowed three of Canton's seven hits, went the last four innings. The two pitchers combined for 11 walks.

inger had two RBI with a single and sacrifice fly The Rocks, 5-6 overall, won the nightcap 12-5, though the second game doesn't count in league play.

Missy Holmes was 2-for-3 for Salem, which scored five runs in the opening inning before Vanootighem could settle in. The Rocks never trailed, padding a 5-2 lead with three runs in the fifth. Mary George, Arnold and Beth Racer had two hits apiece for the Chiefs. "It was disappointing to lose the first one, but it was nice to come back and win the nightcap," Willette said. "We've got a lot of improving to do, and we've got half a season left." In tournament play Saturday at Milford Lakeland, Canton won two of three games. The Chiefs edged Allen Park 2-1, lost to eventual tournament champion Belleville 11-4 and beat Livonia Franklin 3-1.

Thompson, who was the pitcher of record in all three games, George and Rhonda Kibilko were named to the all-tournament team. THOMPSON PITCHED a four-hitter against Allen Park and was 2-for-3 at the plate. She also scored the winning run on Kelly Rische's sacrifice fly. George had an RBI single and Kibilko was 2-for-3. Thompson pitched four innings against Belleville before giving way to Vanootighem for the final two. Allison Flaskamp had two hits, scored two

Thompson threw another four-hitter at the Patriots and was a winner despite Franklin's 4-2 edge in hits. Kim Schulte's sacrifice fly scored George with the first run, and Kibilko's RBI single made it 2-0. The Chiefs executed a first-and-third steal for their third run. Kibilko racing home on the play

Help is on the way: S'craft gets recruits

By C.J. Rieak staff writer

Actually, Dave Bogataj's job was rather easy. The Schoolcraft College mens baskethall coach was faced with the task of recruiting help for his team.

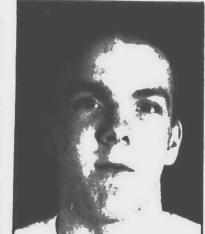

He didn't, however, have to worry much about scouring the metro-Detroit area for a certain kind of player to fill a certain need. When your team has won only 14 of 59 games in the last two seasons, any size or type of player with talent will suffice.

Bogataj signed three players last week who he hopes can contribute immediately: 5-foot-11 guard Tony Rumple of Wayne Memorial, 6-7 forward-center Greg Shamus of Grosse Ile, and 6-7 center Butch Layow of Whitmore Lake.

Rumple could be the quickest to contribute. Wayne had an excellent 1988-89 season, going 20-5, and Rumple was the Zebras' leading scorer with an 18 points-per-game average. Wayne tied for the Wolverine A League title and won the Westland John Glenn district before losing to eventual Class A champ Detroit Cooley in the regional final.

"TONY JUST doesn't make any mistakes," said Bogataj, a teacher at Wayne. "He's a good three-point shooter and he can run a very disciplined program."

Another valuable asset: "I think he can play either point or off guard, depending on the other people (on the court). It's a nice situation because he can do either."

Tony Rumple Schoolcraft recruit

Shamus and Layow should help shore up SC's biggest problem area: rebounding. The Ocelots were woefully short last season.

Shamus was overshadowed by teammate Steve Klein, a two-time Class B all-stater at Grosse Ile. But Shamus' contributions were significant — 11 points, 10 rebounds per "Rebounding was his primary job at Grosse Ile," said Bogataj. "He's one of those kids who got better every year. He should contribute immediately, especially on the boards, where we need it."

LAYOW'S RECRUITMENT was unique. He was first contacted by SC womens coach Jack Grenan, who spotted Layow's massive frame — 6-7, 250-pounds — at a shopping center. He asked him if he played baskethall, and when Layow said yes, Grenan told him to come to SC's open gym.

open gym.

"He's just a big, thick kid," was Bogataj's description. "His foot speed is not the best, not at all. But he rebounds well. He goes after the ball and really throws it out (on the break)."

Layow averaged 10 points and 13 boards a game at Whitmore Lake, but it may take him longer to adjust to college ball. "He takes up a lot of space inside," said Bogataj. "He can play, he just has to learn to play fast-

Layow is currently about 240, and wants to lose another 15 pounds before the season.

Bogataj was emphatic that his recruiting is far from over. Three or four more players could be added by next week. He has at least five, and perhaps eight, players returning from last year.

The past two seasons have been plagued by academic ineligibilities, which decimated the squad. The three new Ocelots are all honor roll students, according to Bogataj.

St. Mary's adds cage recruits

The latest high school senior to sign a national letter-of-intent with St. Mary's College is Marvin Morrison, a product of Detroit Benedic-

Morrison, 6-foot-8, 235-pounds, averaged 12.1 points and 10 rebounds per game last winter and he is the fourth recruit landed by the Cardinals.

Previous signees include 6-8 center Brian Koscielski (Oxford), 6-6 center Kevin Karafa (Utica Henry Ford, and 6-4 forward Jeff Szczepanski (Utica Eisenhower).

Morrison led Benedictine to a 19-

6 record and a district championship.

"He's a man, there's no question," said St. Mary's coach Glenn Donahue, who would like to sign three more players. "We're excited about getting him."

Donahue will give each player a chance to break into the lineup.

"They'll have an opportunity to play," coach Glenn Donahue said. "It's up to them. Coming in they'll know they have to work hard to get some time."

Karafa averaged 10.6 points and six rebounds per game at Henry Ford. Szczepanski, a swingman, scored 11.2 points and 8.2 rebounds at Eisenhower, but the real find might by Koscielski, who improved greatly over his junior year.

Koscielski averaged 18.2 points, 12.2 rebounds and 6.1 blocks per game as a senior and will be a valued addition inside for the Cardinals.

"He really came on his senior year and we feel he's a real strong prospect," Donahue said. "His coach (Dave Smith) figures he's getting better every day."

Teeters optimistic about latest signees

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

Maybe Tom Teeters is destined to become a general manager some-

The Schoolcraft College women's volleyball coach made a pretty fair trade recently, when Eastern Michigan freshman Mary Kelley signed a national letter of intent to attend Schoolcraft.

Kelley's signing comes only weeks after Garden City's Nikki Stubbs the National Junior College player of the year last fall at Schoolcraft announced she would attend EMU

So Teeters lost Stubbs to EMU, but gained Kelley, a setter who led Teeters' Livonia Ladywood squad to a Class A title in 1988. Schoolcraft was the NJCAA national champion last fall

KEELEY, RED-SHIRTED at Eastern as a freshman, headlines a list of eight recruits, whom Teeters calls "twice as good as any other recruiting class I've had here.'

Also among the eight players is Jenny Sproul, a senior outside hitter from Livonia Churchill.

EMU planned on playing Kelley at right outside hitter instead of setter, Teeters said, so she approached her former coach in late March about reuniting with him at Schoolcraft. She'll be eligible immediately.

"She said she wanted to play for Schoolcraft and that she enjoys setting - that's the one thing she missed," Teeters said. "They planned for her to be a right-side hitter and in Mary's judgment, she didn't fit in there as a setter. I coached her in high school and know she can play setter.

Teeters got commitments from all over greater Detroit. They include middle hitter Elena Oparka, Madison Heights Lamphere; outside hitter Angelette Love, Detroit Henry Ford; middle blocker Michelle Shirey, Royal Oak Dondero; blocker Hollie Marie Brachel, Harper Woods Regina, middle blocker Tricia Marie Lukas, Dearborn Heights Crestwood; and middle blocker Cheryl Francis, Walled Lake Central.

"WE GOT A lot of strong Division I-type talent, whom we feel when they leave here will be well-sought out for by other schools," Teeters said. "They're tremendous athletes and all have been well-coached. Usually I hope to get two or three players of this caliber and this year I got eight. I've got some unbelievable recruits.'

Sproul, a first-team All-Observer choice last winter at Churchill, turned down offers from Bowling Green and Hillsdale to attend Schoolcraft.

"She comes from a very good program for a very good coach (Mike Hughes) and she was the top hitter," Teeters said. "She's real dynamic with very good leaping ability. Her best asset is defense and she's a great setter."

Angelette Love's sister Alicia played on the national champion last fall, and will be a sophomore next year. The younger Love was a firstteam Class A all-state choice at Ford under coach Troy Walls.

Mary Kelley returns to S'craft

"She'll be our most dynamic player." Teeters said. "She's got skill, experience, she's smart and a hard worker. She has a great deal of Teeters needed a strong recruiting year, considering he lost Stubbs to Eastern and Chris Paciero, Sarah Heddle and Marla Evans to Florida Southern University.

Madonna's Abraham brings in some very familiar faces

staff writer

 Madonna College volleyball coach
 Jerry Abraham signed six players to national letters of intent, including a pair of familiar faces - Melissa Mars and Ann DiMambro.

Mars and DiMambro played for Abraham at Redford Bishop Borgess, where Abraham spends the winter months coaching.

Borgess went 36-9 last winter and lost in the Class B state finals in 1988, so Mars figures good times are bound to continue at Madonna. Last fall, Madonna was 27-10 under Abraham, his second season as coach.

'He's a good coach," Mars said. "I was successful underneath him before, so I don't see any reason for us not to be at Madonna - or I hope so,

THE RECRUITING class also includes outside hitter Maria Wordhouse, Plymouth Salem; outside hitter Stacey Girard, Livonia Lady-wood: hitter Tonia Smith and setter Lyn Bernwanger, both from Walled Lake Central.

Of the six recruits, four are from Observerland, and all but one of the four was tabbed first-team All-Ob-

Abraham has six letter-winners returning, and he's excited about blending in the newcomers. Girard brings with her the most impressive background, playing on two consecutive Class A champions at Livonia Ladywood.

"This gives us 12 players, and it was definitely our best recruiting class ever," Abraham said. "They all have a very good work ethic and come from good, solid programs. Many will be impact players.

"All the kids we brought in could have played at several different colleges in the area. This is our second year of playing NAIA (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics), so our schedule is getting better and we have to get better players."

sign some heralded recruits with plenty of press clippings, he believes Wordhouse, Smith and Bernwanger are a trio of unknown quantities who could contribute.

"Smith and Bernwanger played at Walled Lake Central but they can re-ally play," Abraham said. "And I'm really excited about Maria Wordhouse. She's a big, strong player and works hard. She's got a ton of potential. It looks like we have great things ahead of us. We've gotten super support from the administration.' Joining the Madonna coaching staff next fall as an assistant will be Shannon Voss-Miller, who is the varsity girls coach at Walled Lake Western in the winter.

Symphony Showhouse—a class act

The family room adjacent to the kitchen has strong elements of drama and light-heartedness in the choice of black and white print for the upholstery as well as in the art. It is by Mermaid Designs of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Artist shows new kind of realism Symphony finale

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

All of the art which Pat Mayhew created in the past appears to coalesce in her current show of paintings, "Return to Realism," at Gallery Arteria of Birmingham May 4-

Her favorite subjects - flowers, wicker furniture, Victorian houses, parades and carousels - are very much in evidence. But they have been enhanced by a maturing of approach which brings elements of abstract (which she has done successfully in the past) to create a dreamlike quality to these multilayered paintings. The layering produces interesting textural qualities reminiscent of her interest in collage without actually being collage.

The palette is stronger, deeper, livelier and more carefree than in her previous work.

A while back, she worked with three-dimensional paper and plaster forms and now she said she knows the time spent with these was extramely worthwhile. "I loosened up. I've carried through a lot of the texture and build-up. I really think taking that time to loosen up, in color, form and composition, was import-

• Grey Castle Press (Pocket Knife Square, Lakeville, Conn. 06039) has come to the aid of young readers who are visually impaired. "The Nancy Drew Files," by Carolyn Keene, "The Hardy Boys Casefiles," by Franklin W. Dixon, and "Choose Your Own Adventure" and "The Babysitters Club" by Ann M. Martin, have been brought out in large print by Grey Castle. While many adult books have been available in large print for some time now, not so for children's books.

· Now that spring is here, those of you who are getting out to walk or run may want to try an "audio book" in your Walkman for a change of pace. Recent releases include Stephen Coonts' "Final Flight," read by George Kennedy, Anne Tyler's "Breathing Lessons," read by Jill Eikenberry, and Kirk Douglas, reading his autobiography, "The Ragman's Son." All run for about 180 minutes and sell for around $14.95. Keep in mind that what you'll be hearing will be a condensed version of the book itself (sometimes highly

• Look for the screen version of Elmore Leonard's "Cat Chaser" as theaters this summer. The thriller will star Peter Weller and Kelly McGillis. Final screenplay was put together by Leonard.

• The last word: Keep your eye on Birmingham playwright Kitty Dubin. Her comedy-drama, "The Last Resort," recently opened in Austin, Texas, to applause, applause.

Special guests will spend a fantasy evening cruising the Detroit River aboard the Star of Detroit with Munsteiner in his first such American show as he presents a preview of his 1989 collection. tion of Fantasy-cut Gems. The Saturday, May 6 event is sponsored by DuQuet Jewelers of Farm-ington Hills. Dick Purtan will be the master of MUNSTEINER WILL also be at DuQuet Jewelers from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, May 7, to introduce his creations to the general public. Du-Quet Jewelers is at 31620 Grand River Avenue.

DuQuet Jewelers' co-owner Chuck DuQuet first met Munsteiner and viewed the Fantasycut Gemstones three years ago. DuQuet Jewelers now features the country's largest col-lection of Munsteiner Gemstones, selling between 100-150 of the roughly 500 creations that are sold annually in the United States.

Munsteiner creates about 1,000 to 1,500 pieces each year. His exclusive creations have been called everything from exquisite to magical. He does not take orders for his pieces but produces them strictly from inspiration, relying on an in-

YOUNG MUNSTRINER attended the Academy of Design in Pforsheim, West Germany from 1963-1966 where he studied sculpture, Jewelry design and gemology. While still in design school, he cut away at the layers of an agate to expose various colors.

Munsteiner opened his own studio in 1973. He has become celebrated for his negative cut — a stone sculpture with a polished front surface and ometric cuts on the back that are visible through the translucent stone. The setting of a ring, pendant or pin can't be seen through the stone, however, because of the intricate facet-

Today, Munsteiner's wife and two sons work with him. He designs each piece himself, but is aided in finishing and polishing by his sons, a master goldsmith, two cutters and an apprentice. His loose stones are valued from $1,000 to $20,000 and his gem sculptures sell for as much

Munsteiner saves only one piece for himself each year, but keeps photos of each creation to watch his progress. His style is increasingly imitated but never duplicated. Munsteiner guards against copies by carving his initials in the girdle of each jewelry-sized stone, and one the front surface of art-sized pieces, and encloses a certificate of authenticity with each Munsteiner orig-

What do you think of when thoughts of Meadow Brook Music Festival come to mind? We'd like to know - and share those nostalgic memories with other readers.

Once again, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers will publish a special section detailing highlights both past and present - of the putdoor musical event that has been peld on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester for the past 25 years. It will appear in all editions on Thursday, June 1.

A part of the section that proved popular last year was a column on Meadow Brook Memories gleaned from letters from readers who have attended the concerts through the years. We want to repeat it again this year. Letters chosen for publica-tion will receive two free tickets to a Meadow Brook concert. Send your letters to Meadow Brook Memories, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

How do you plan a garage sale?

It's easy!

Just follow these simple guidelines:

- 1. Gather together the items you have for sale. Sort them into appropriate categories and price them fairly.
- 2. Place a classified advertisement in The Observer & Eccentic by calling one of the numbers below.
- 3. Hang signs throughout your neighborhood alerting residents to the upcoming sale.
- 4. Decide what to with all the money you'll have after your sale!

Or, if you love to bagain-hunt and would rather shop then sell, be sure to look for our special garage sale listings every Monday and Thursday in your hometown newspaper. Observer & Eccentric classifieds make it easy to earn money and save money. Discover for yourself, today!

They all are. You choose your favorite. And it's worth hundreds of dollars.

Scenic Lake is ideally located, half way between U of M and EMU. The setting's rolling and peaceful. The heat is free. And the best surprise happens when you see it all for yourself.

LIVE AMONG THE RARE AND BEAUTIFUL

Aldingbrooke — West Bloomfield's premier rental community - has always attracted its own special flock. Our magnificent estate-like grounds are home to a collection of geese and swans. And to many of metropolitan Detroit's most discerning individuals and families.

Set in a gated community, residents appreciate Aldingbrooke's world of privacy and custom options, with all the services they've come to expect from a luxury apartment community. Residences up to 2800 square feet include such desirable features as private entryways, split-level or ranch-style designs, dens, breakfast rooms, cathedral ceilings, ? fireplaces and attached garages.

All for much less than you'd expect to pay for such luxury. From $650 to $1650 per month. Whatever your mind can imagine in luxurious living, you

1-stop shopping

Expo's a local marketplace

By Nechama Bakst special writer

The third Greater Livonia Expo will bring the convenience of one-stop shopping to members of the community from Tuesday, May 9, through Thursday, May 11, in the gymnasium of Schoolcraft College, Haggerty north cf 6 Mile in Livonia.

No money will change hands at the Expo. But an expected 6,000 business people from as far away as Toledo will have the opportunity to become better acquainted with the services and supplies in the metropolitan area, according to Michael Cooney who is responsible for the Expo for the Livonia Chamber of Commerce.

"It's a great opportunity for businesses to maximize their sales calls," said John White, executive director of the Livonia Chamber. "We bring people to them. If they analyze it properly, they are getting the best bang for their buck.

THE SHOW itself is free of charge to spectators, except for the Preview Party from 6-9 p.m. Tuesday open to the public at $15 a plate.

The Preview Party features "A Taste of Livonia" in which more than 20 restaurant establishments offer samples of their specialties. Those buying 20 or more tickets get a reduced price of $10 a ticket.

Many participating exhibitors offer their clients complimentary tickets to the party and suggest they come and visit, said Cooney, who is director of economic development and retention for the Livonia Chamber.

"You really can't take your client out for dinner at that price.' Last year 20 restaurants contributed to "A Taste of Livonia." On Wednesday, May 10, a Chamber luncheon will be held beginning at noon in the Waterman Center of Schoolcraft. Guest speaker will be Wayne County Executive Edward

A wine tasting party will be held by the Wine Castle from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Thursday.

McNamara Tickets are $10 each.

Show hours are 1-8 p.m. Wednesday and 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday.

To huy tickets for the preview party or Chamber luncheon call the Livonia Chamber at 427-2122.

IN A relatively small show like this one, where "you're basically dealing with local businesses within the area, you are not lost in a maze," said James Skinner whose company, Shows and Expos Inc., is hired by the Chamber to manage the show.

"You are dealing with people who are recognizable. It becomes a community affair."

In fact, Skinner believes, "local shows is where it's all coming to. When you have the show in your town, you're basically dealing with people who want to do business here. It is structured to draw decision-makers."

But Skinner said unlike the huge shows at Cobo Hall, the Greater Livonia Expo is not just a business. Like the expo Downriver that his company organizes, "it gets so much community involvement.

"It's the thing to do those few days," agreed Tom Rost, president of spend, so they have more interest in going out shopping.

YOUR LIVONIA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS SERVING YOUR COMMUNITY...

Your Livonia Chamber's Greeter Service is a friendly community outreach program offered to residents moving into Livonia for the first time. Greeters visit new residents welcoming them into our city and acquainting them with the services of area businesses. New residents receive a Business and Community Directory, Livonia map, information on schools, discount coupons and much more.

Through assisting businesses in attaining a profitable work environment, your Livonia Chamber Ambassader Group is helping to make Livonia a better place to live, work and do business by calling on Chamber members for feedback and attempting to put their finger on the pulse of the business community. Ambassadors are helping to enhance the entire atmosphere of our city.
