Large turnout seen for millage election

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

If trends noted in the last four millage elections are any indication, a few predictions can be made concerning the Plymouth-Canton school election June 12. Voters will be asked to approve an 8-mill renewal, and a property tax increase of 4 mills. Both proposals are for two

• More Canton than Plymouth or Plymouth Township voters will approve the millage proposals. Twothirds of the student body lives in Canton Township.

 Voter turnout should continue to increase to somewhere above 10 percent of the district's 65,000 registered voters.

• Absentee voters will generally vote against both millage requests. There'll be a greater percentage of no votes among absentee voters than among the rest of the electorate.

Since February 1987, voters have turned down four requests for a millage increase or for waivers of the Headlee Amendment. Waiving Headlee enables the school district to levy the total number of mills authorized by voters.

"I think this will be the biggest vo-ter turnout ever," said Dick Egli, administrative assistant for community relations for the district.

"I think it'll top any recent election. Typically, turnout hasn't been

In February, 1987, 2,558 voters cast ballots. That number rose to 5,307 in June, 1987, to 6,709 in March, 1988, and to 8,221 last June.

Egli predicts a higher voter turnout because "there's more interest than ever before. There's more of a recognized need for the millage," he

School officials say $3.2 million in cuts will be necessary if the millage requests fail. TRADITIONALLY, voters in Precinct 10, anchored by Hulsing Eleanalysis mentary, have been the most supportive of millage requests. Hulsing voters approved millages in February, 1987, June, 1987, and again in June, 1988. Hulsing, at 8055 Fleet Street, is south of Joy between Sheldon and Lilley in Canton.

Voters in Precinct 12, near Field Elementary, have approved millage requests twice - in June, 1987 and June, 1988. Field, at 1000 Haggerty, is south of Cherry Hill.

Not once since February, 1987 has a Plymouth or Plymouth Township precinct approved a tax increase or Headlee override.

LAST JUNE'S millage request came closest to passing.

Five precincts voted to override the Headlee Amendment; nine voted against the proposal.

In March, 1988, all 14 precincts turned down a 2-mill, 11-year millage request. In June, 1987, 12 precincts turned down the Headlee override. In February, 1987, just one of 14 precincts voted to override Headlee.

Among absentee voters, "typically, there have been more negative votes than positive across the district," said Egli. Generally, about 4 percent of district voters use absentee ballots. Eligible to vote absentee are those who will be out of town on election day. voters who are physically unable to go to the polls, those aged 60 and older, precinct inspectors, voters confined to jail awaiting trial or arraignment, and those whose religious beliefs prohibit them from visiting the polls. Absentee voters turned down millage requests by a 4-to-1 margin last June, compared to roughly a 3-to-1 margin among the rest of the elec-

Survey shows strong support for millages

Sixty Canton, Plymouth and Plymouth Township residents were contacted at random from a telephone listing 4:30-6 p.m. on Monday.

The renewal drew much more support than the increase, but there's also a large group of undecided voters for both taxes.

Many people who were contacted were unaware of the election. Others said they couldn't or wouldn't vote during the June 12 school millage election. And some of the people contacted declined comment.

The undecided and don't know category question includes people who aren't sure how they will vote and those those who were unaware that an election is to be held. Here's a look at the results of the unscientific

Voters speak out on tax proposals

Joy, Houghton and Ann Arbor Road.

Plymouth-Canton school district voters were asked to comment about the proposed 4 mill tax increase and the 8 mill renewal. Here are some of their comments:

Electrical power was interrupted to about 1,800 homes in the southeast corner of Plymouth Township and the western end of Livonia for about 11/2 hours Monday afternoon. A main line went down in the area of Joy Road and I-275 at about 2:45 p.m.,

• "I have five grandchildren in the school system," said a Plymouth Township resident who is in favor of both taxes. "If the schools are not maintained, property values will go down." Per pupil spending is higher in Birmingham and Grosse Pointe schools, she said. And those communities depend mostly on residential property. "It's confusing to me how little is spent" in Plymouth-Canton.

• "I have a child in Catholic school, and I don't think public schools stack up here," a Plymouth woman said. "My kid was in public school for as short a time as possible — 890 kids in a middle school is unmanageable."

• "I'm tired of taxes," a Canton resident said. "You could cut the cost of education and not cut the basic educational program. You can cut costs without reducing the number of

· "They just jacked up the assessment on my home for the third year in a row," said David Allan of Canton. "I'm getting tired of "The taxes are too high here right now," said a Plymouth property owner. "There seems to be an impression by the schools that they can ask for anything and we'll pick up the tab. I think that era has ended."

• "Why would I want to vote up my taxes?". a Canton resident asked.

 "I don't think we're getting our money's worth," said Robert Bartley, a Plymouth Township resident. "Kids are there — not all of the kids but 60 percent — because they have to be there. And they're not learning."

· "My mom is a teacher" in the district, said Steve Valentine, a Canton Township resident in favor of both taxes. "My brother attends school in the district and I want him to be able to participate in sports. If the millage doesn't pass there's no sports."

• "I think it's very important and very necessary," said a Plymouth resident who is in favor of both taxes. "I'm basing my judgments on information I've read in the paper and informational sessions I've attended. I have a bias for public schools' support. My children went through public schools. I think it's the hope of the nation."

according to a spokesman for Detroit Edison. A work crew replaced the line. The area affected is bounded by Haggerty,

• "I'm having a hard time with it," said Rena Reynolds of Canton, referring to the 4 mill increase. "I just paid extra for a sporting activity for my son. We're paying taxes through the nose and we're thinking about selling our house, because our taxes have risen so

In regards to the 8 mill renewal, Reynolds said she was in favor, because she didn't want to see program cutbacks. "So much taxes are being paid and they're being routed in the wrong places."

Referring to state lottery money going to schools, she said: "They're making billions and people should be directing their attention to the state and asking them what they're doing with all the money. It's hard to make a decision and you never know if you ever have all the facts.

 "Our children are important and we want them to go to good colleges," said Jane Ward of Canton. "If credits are cut they won't be able to." Ward said she's in favor of both tax-

• "I think they need it for the district," said a Canton resident who is in favor of both taxes. "It's not outrageous."

• "I just graduated from school," said Derek Jenning, 19, a Canton resident. "It's a good school system and I hate to see it go down. It was helpful to get in college."

• "They're doing a good job and they need the money . . .," said Rebecca Ingersoll, of Canton. She's in favor of both taxes. "I'm not keen about having taxes go up, but I think it's good," McEachran said.

WAYNE COUNTY

Homeowners will be hardest hit by years. On an average, it's pretty

The property tax burden, regardless of what happens with the school millage election, will fall heavier upon homeowners than owners of commercial and industrial property this year in Plymouth and Canton. And that goes for tax bills across the board — city, township, county and schools.

The reason is simple.
Residential assessments, property values based on sales studies, rose an average 17 percent this year in Plymouth Township, 16 percent in the city of Plymouth and 14 percent in Canton.

Assessments on existing commercial and industrial property in those three municipalities were unchanged

Tax rates are applied to assessments to determine tax due.

RESIDENTIAL TAX bills also will rise higher than the inflation rate of 4.1 percent used in tax limitation calculations because commercial and industrial assessments didn't budge.

Perhaps a bigger concern of homeowners is why commercial and industrial assessments remained flat while home values soared.

"With homes, what you've got is a very significant market," said George McEachran, equalization director for the county. "It's easy to measure what's happening in the market. There's a great similarity in the market.

"With commercial and industrial, there isn't great similarity," he said. That's because non-residential properties aren't sold as much as isals, then consults a nationally recognized manual in subsequent years to re-assess commercial and industrial properties, McEachran said.

For instance, in Plymouth Township, 18 commercial properties were appraised last year and 14 industrial appraisals were made in 1987, he said.

In Canton, 29 commercial and 19 industrial appraisals were done in

In the city of Plymouth, 47 com-mercial appraisals and seven indus-trial were made in 1987. We have used that procedure for good," McEachran said.

What the procedure doesn't take into account is hot spots, he added.

Commercial assessments went up in all three municipalities last year. Industrial assessments increased only in Plymouth Township.

"MY PROBLEM is getting enough appraisals," McEachran said. "What we should be doing is have an appraisal every year. I don't have the staff. We try not to let it go over two years."

If you don't like what the company has to offer or the prices it charges, your only choice is to do without or more to a community with cable service you prefer.

Get in shape for literacy

So you're tired of those love handles around your middle. And those dimples in your thighs have really got you down. Well, there's a fun way to start getting in shape. Canton's five-mile Walk/Run for Literacy is set for 1-3 p.m. Sunday, June 4, at the Canton Public Library. True, there's not a lot of time to train. But even if you're out of shape, you needn't be out of sorts. If you start now, you'll be on your way to physical fitness and mental well-being.

The walk/run is being staged as part of the Canton Challenge Fest, set for May 26 to June 4. Entrants of all ages are welcome. Registration will begin at noon June 4 at the library, 1200 S. Canton Center Road.

Disposal standards could be reduced

Waste reduction requirements for Wayne County cities and townships could be substantially lessened - a move expected to save taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars and boost recycling as a waste-disposal alternative.

Milton Mack, chairman of the county's solid waste implementation committee, proposed Monday cutting the required waste reduction level from 75 percent to 50 percent.

Unresolved safety issues concerning trash burning and incinerators' multi-million dollar construction costs prompted the proposal, Mack

"BEING A public official, I understand there's a great limit on public funds," said Mack, a county commissioner whose district includes Canton Township.

The county proposal ran into trou-ble with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and with local communities, for insisting upon a 75 percent waste reduction within the next decade.

Loren Bennett, Canton Township clerk, said the 75 percent level would force communities to build costly and controversial incinera-

"There's no way you could do it without incineration," said Bennett, also a solid waste committee member. "Now, the emphasis shifts to recycling.

In a letter to the committee, the DNR said incineration should not be considered an alternative to recycling and composting.

The county would still require almost all communities to substantialy cut their waste output by the year 2000 through its proposed solid waste management plan. Communities that did not enact cuts would be prevented from using county landfills. Exemptions would be given communities allowing new landfills to be built within their borders.

committee's monthly meeting Monday at Wayne County Intermeidate Schools offices. Though committee members were expected to give their final approval to the county waste reduction plan at that time, Mack's proposal delayed approval at least until their July 19 meeting. At that time, committee members will decide whether to adopt Mack's proposal or maintain the 75 percent requirement.

The proposal was popular with the Conference of Western Wayne.

"WE'RE VERY supportive," said Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen, speaking on the group's behalf.

The CWW had long criticized the 75 percent level as unattainable. The group represents the interests of Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth, Westland and Canton, Plymouth and Redford townships, among other communities.

Though the waste reduction plan is required under state law, 29 of Wayne County's 43 communities would have to give their approval before it could be enacted.

Members of area recycling groups also supported the proposal.

"This is what the public wanted," said Joan Lintelman of Livonia, a member of a city panel investigating recycling and other waste disposal

Garden City and Westland currently send trash to an incinerator and would continue to be allowed to do so under the county plan. Livonia, Plymouth and Canton, Plymouth and Redford townships currently do not burn their waste. It isn't certain whether even a 50 percent reduction could be approached, let along achieved, within the next decade. Mack, however, said recycling and composting could substantially reduce waste.

Returnable wine coolers join beer, pop on store shelves

Though the statewide deposit on wine coolers doesn't go into effect until June 1, most area stores are already selling the new deposit bottles.

Store managers say problems caused by the deposit have been minimal. They say that because of the cool spring, it is hard to tell if the deposit is affecting sales, as coolerdeposit is answering to industry officials predict.

"When the weather gets hot, then we'll know if it's going to hurt," said Joseph Patros, manager of the Mid-Warren Party Store on Middlebelt in Garden City.

Patros said that while collecting and storing bottles in general is a problem, it hasn't been worsened noticeably by adding wine coolers to the beer and pop bottles already cov-ered by the state law.

"What are you going to do?" said Patros. 'We have to do it, right? There's nothing you can do. Why bother complaining? So we store

JIM SHAY, manager of the Danny's supermarket on Main Sreet in Plymouth, said all the Danny's stores switched over to deposit bottles two weeks ago. "The only problem is at the register," he said. "Our girls have to check to make sure someone isn't bringing in the old bot-

Gilbert Borman, director of public relations for the 130 area Farmer Jack stores, said the chain is in the process of switching to the deposit bottles. He said that the unique shape of the wine coolers makes it impossible to stack with other bottles, which causes space problems for the stores.

"We may decide on fewer brands to make storage easier," he said."As an industry, we don't argue with the effectiveness of the law. But we argue that it has enormous impact on us. It cost Farmer Jack $5.5 million last year to handje bottles.

"There's no argument our roads are clean in Michigan, but our back rooms are pretty dirty," said Borman, who said the problem of storage is compounded for supermarkets, who traditionally take in far more bottles than they sell. "We accompanied than we sell by a cept back more than we sell by a factor of 175 percent."

Great Scott and Meijer stores also have switched to deposit wine

MICHIGAN FIGURES are unavailable, but nationally, sales of the fruity concoctions are down 16 to 20 percent compared to a year ago, said Michael Lashbrook, of the Michigan Beer and Wine Wholesalers Associa-

The deposit law, which takes effect June 1, will push up prices and reduce the selection of wine coolers on grocers' and party stores' shelves, hurting sales even more, he said.

"There's no question" prices will increase, he said. "When you get into the garbage business, yes, it's going to cost more. Of course it is."

When sales were bubbling, deposit law supporters like the Michigan United Conservation Club warned that the 10 million wine coolers being sold in Michigan annually were enough to cover ever inch of Michigan shoreline from Monroe to the Straits of Mackinac with throwaway containers.

Fearing the drinks would continue to grow in popularity, conservation groups persuaded lawmakers in 1986 to add wine coolers to the list of those beverages that no longer could be sold in throwaway containers.

'We may decide on fewer brands to make storage easier. As an industry, we don't argue with the effectiveness of the law. But we argue that it has enormous impact on us. It cost Farmer Jack $3.5 million last year to handle bottles."

THE BAN on throwevery is likely to have little impact on the amount of litter on readsides, a study shows. A 1806 study by the Michigan Department of Transportation found just one out of every 10 bottles and one out of every 100 cans dropped along state highways were wine cooler containers.

Thomas Washington, executive di-rector of the Michigan United Con-servation, said the legislation still will make Michigan cleaner.

"It'll help, particularly in public places like beaches and things like that, where people take them in fair-ly large numbers. I think their consumption is probably down somewhat since we got them added to the list, but they're still there," he said.

If wine cooler prices do go up, he said, it can be blamed on reduced competition resulting from the extributors, rather than the bettle bill.

The exclusive franchi art of the legislative on that cleared the way for fieligh wine coolers under the deposit law. The law defines wine coolers a made with spirits, as well as the wine and fruit juice conceptions.

Earlier this year, Gov. Jumes Blanchard proposed adding individual-sized juice containers to the de-posit law, but aide Peter Dewah said legislation to accomplish the begislation to accomplish that has yet to be introduced.

"That just makes me shiver," Bor-man said, adding problems with the wine cooler provision would pale in comparison to one covering juices.

"They gathered all us foresters together and gave us the bad news," said. Riewart, a 1974 graduate of Livenia Bentley High and former resident of Roycroft Street.

"They told us times were bad, that the market was flooded with foresters, and the economy was at an all-dime dow. Then they told us to do landscaping, anything just to hang in there until times got better."

SO THE new college graduate cktracked to Livonia.

Instead of working in wide open paces at a job his forestry degree ad prepared him for, he found him-elf installing car air conditioners in cramped quarters in Westland. But those days of working outside his field didn't last long.

By 1981, Stewart had earned a master's degree in biological science, also from Michigan Tech. And, luckily, he also had snagged a summer job in forestry in Oregon.

The new pilot course, taught by professionals in the BLM, is designed to show minorities the types of jobs available — ecologists, geologists, park managers, foresters — in natural re-

Because he'll be teaching the course again in upcoming semesters, Stewart will get used to flying in and out of Metro Airport and staying in a skyscraper apartment building the college provides in downtown De-troit. But it won't be easy.

"It's been so long since I've been in a big city, it took me a while to get comfortable," Stewart said. "I like coming home but if I lived here permanently, it would drive me nuts. I went into forestry because I like wide open spaces. I can do this because I know I'm going back."

"The people who live here see cut-ting and road building as necessary to the economy. But the environmen-talists want it all preserved. Seven area Domino's pizza stores will join nearly 200 in Michigan in opening their doors to runaways and opening their doors to runaways and youths in trouble. Called Project Safe Place, the ef-fort involves referring the youths to shelters or hotlines and giving them a piece of pizza and a Coke if they're hungry, said a spokesman for Domi-no's.

Large diamond-shaped yellow and black signs, with an abstract rendering of an adult with its arms around a child, will appear in the windows of the 199 participating Domino's stores in the state.

According to Christine Wallerstedt, project co-ordinator for Domi-no's, employees of the stores should be trained in the program and the signs should be up in the local stores within four weeks.

"I'm excited. We're seeing history in the making," said Professor Rich-ard Stamps of Rochester Hills, a Chinese specialist from Oakland University.

In demonstrations staged in nearly very major city, students have been joined by countless others rep-resenting every aspect of Chinese life - government agencies, labor unions, the elderly, nursery school students and even the military, ordered to quell the demonstrators but preferring to join them instead.

The hoardes in the streets are calling for marked social and political reform.

STAMPS SAYS there are now three key dates in recent Chinese history: the end of the empire in 1911, the Communist takeover in 1949 and the freedom movement of Stamps is also anxious, worried about the political standoff between hard-line traditionalists and younger reformists. "We'll know soon," he said of the power struggle. "But battle, they'll eventually loose the

"In the beginning, I was shocked," said Li Ledong of the demonstrations. A student of education at Oakland University, Ledong will return to his home in southwestern China this summer after three years of study in the U.S.

At first, Ledong was "nervous" about his fellow students and the other demonstrators in China. "I am Chinese. I know what can happen to them." But earlier this week, "my, fears faded. I feel the students are winning the struggle," he said. Now, "I have my hopes."

Chinese students studying here quite likely know more of what is happening than do many of their American counterparts in China, according to Stamps, especially since Voice of America broadcasting was interrupted earlier this week.

School race Board field should be narrowed

IX OF THE SEVEN candidates who are running for the Plymouth-Canton school board have received letters from community leaders asking them to ensure that Robert Anderson, the candidate supported by Citizens for Better Education doesn't win.

The letter campaign urges the six non-CBE candidates to select and back the candidate most able to beat Anderson.

The situation poses a dilemma for voters and candidates: Should voters and candidates foresake their right to an open election in exchange for keeping a CBE member off the

The board candidates will have to decide if the price is worth it.

We think it is.

It's practical politics. CBE members will vote for Anderson, while the remainder of the votes will be spread among the other six candidates. That will give Anderson a good shot at getting elected.

CBE proved the last time out that it could muster enough votes to help elect Barbara Graham to the school board, and it probably can

We interviewed the seven candidates, and found Anderson's views lacking the broad perspective peeded to be a school board member. He wants students to learn more facts and have less emphasis placed on moral-type teaching.

He seems to think that somehow the school board can shield students from the real world by slicing out so-called objectionable material from

Having Anderson do this as a school board member would be like trusting a child to do brain surgery with a rusty fishing knife.

There is now one CBE-backed candidate on the seven-member board. We don't need another. But for that not to happen, the six other board candidates will have to get together to select a front runner to carry the banner of sanity.

The candidates were split when interviewed about pulling out of the race and throwing their support to another candidate.

We can understand why. We'd all like to live in a world where being the best is rewarded, where coming up with solutions that make the majority happy is the skill on which a politician is judged. However, we don't live in the world of "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." Frank Capra isn't directing this one.

CBE has become a powerful force in the Plymouth-Canton schools because it has organized and supported candidates. That's politics.

And it forces the remainder of the community to respond.

We're happy that community leaders brought up the issue of the school board candidates selecting the most electable candidate. They realize that somebody had to organize to counter the

It's not pretty and it's not a perfect democracy, but it is reality. And if people in this community don't do something, it appears as though there will be two CBE-backed candidates on the

And we think that's two, too many.

RELIGIOUS AGREEMENT: A group of ministers and priests in the Canton-Plymouth community recently got together to issue a statement on CBE. The group of 14 religious leaders represents mainstream churches in the area.

The group has refuted CBE charges that satanism and witchcraft are taught in the schools. "We find no validity to such charges," the group's statement says.

It's good to see such leaders getting together and taking a stand in an area where they can have some influence.

We have never believed that the schools were teaching satanism and witchcraft.

It's good to see that religious leaders agree.

KNOCKING DOWN the fences between suburbs and city, in many cases between whites and blacks, isn't

It has to start at home - and since many of our homes are citadels of prejudice themselves, part of the solution has to lie in the class-

A West Bloomfield elementary school recently chose to focus on the importance of Detroit to its suburbs by taking busloads of students to its landmarks, then replicating them in its halls. The project - "Hello Detroit" took its name from the Berry Gordy song.

• Fish shimmered on the windows and walls of the school kindergarten as it was turned into the Belle Isle Aquarium.

• Fourth and fifth graders turned their corridor into the Eastern Market, where one day they offered a "Taste of Detroit" sampling of fruits and vegetables.

• Music teacher Gordon Bleich's room gave equal play to the DSO and Motown. And a poster highlighting Detroit's newest refurbished landmark, the Fox, sparkled nearby.

They also learned about Detroit and its wealth of offerings from such personalities as Detroit police Commander Gil (Beverly Hills Cops) Hill; Attic Theatre players and Sparky. And Detroit's economic impact on them - spelled CAR - was highlighted through a display of antique and new cars on the school lawn and a speaker from GM.

A RESULT: "We got to learn about different things that go on in downtown Detroit and what's important to us," said Green School fifth grader Reenie Kraus.

Reenie said she had been to Deher family. But she may be the exception.

According to Gail Barget, who directed the project, Boblo was the only major Detroit sight to which at least half of the students had gone. That was based on a "Raise your hands if you've been here" survey.

Students also learned about the needy in Detroit. "We blitzed them with who they would be helping," Barget said. At the "Jump for Detroit" high jump fund-raiser, "We hoped to raise $1,000 - and exceeded what we thought."

The message wasn't a pedantic: Sheiko's son. Prejudice is wrong. repair and expansion. Some favored examples come to mind, like anywhere along Southfield Road; Joy and Warren roads in Canton Township; Haggerty Road hurdles in Farmington Hills; to the airport on twolane Merriman Road through Livonia, Garden City and Westland; and the critical mass created on southbound Telegraph when the Bingham office plaza gets out.

These are thorny problems not easily solved by past calls for more financing.

VOTERS WERE loud and clear last year in pulling out by the roots a plan that would have levied a $25 vehicle registration fee in Oakland County for road work.

There is another alternative - a 2-cent gasoline tax - that will plant the seeds for road repair, which in the next 10 years will total $940 million in Oakland County alone. Each cent will provide approximately $45 million.

A statewide 2-cent tax is tolerable, despite the recent unfair increases at the pump, because it targets those who use the roads regardless of where they live.

tolerable, despite the recent unfair increases at the pump, because it targets those who use the roads regardless of where

But it's going to take drastic action to resolve our road problems. Also needed is a revised, more equitable formula for returning money to the communities, according to how much tax revenue they generate.

FERTILIZING THE growing problem is the spurt in office, industrial and residential growth to the west and northwest. Developers, who seem to sprout ideas without thinking of the consequences, ought to be made to pay some kind of user fee for road widening.

Local officials must ask themselves how long property values will remain high with escalating traffic volumes.

Communities have to learn to work together. Either our officials start providing leadership, or we prune those who are ineffective.

Socrates loses one in Senate

A BEARDED man with a pug nose visiting the Michigan Senate gallery looked like part of the Senior Power Day delegation. But that event had occurred a week earlier.

His eyes were so twinkling and curious that at first I didn't notice his robe and sandals. "Socrates!" I said, and the venerable Greek philosopher of antiquity looked up, noticed my red press badge and smiled.

"I'm inquiring," he said, "how your institutions function 2,300 years after my teachings. Maybe you I assured him I had read Plato's

"The Republic."

BELIEVE IT or not, there occurred a Senate debate right out of one of the Socratic dialogs. The issue was the governor's nomination of William S. Hoffman, 45, of Southfield, to the state Certificate of Need (CON) Commission. Hoffman is director of the Social Security Department for the United Auto Workers

Sen. John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, said Hoffman, with a Ph.D. in sociology from Wayne State University, is "very talented, knows his stuff and is conversant on the issues." Socrates smiled.

But then Engler went on to say Hoffman has a conflict of interest. The candidate serves on the board of directors of Blue Cross/Blue Shield and on its committee which negotiates contracts with hospitals. Since CON is to regulate capital acquisitions of hospitals, Engler said, Hoffman should resign from the Blues' board before serving on the state

Engler and Sen. Vern Ehlers, R-

Grand Rapids, expressed shock that Hoffman wouldn't even acknowledge a conflict of interest.

Sen. William Sederburg, R-East Lansing, called the appointments of Democrat Hoffman, another Democrat and a Republican "an outrage. The Senate wanted the public at large represented. The governor wanted special interest groups." He pointed toward the Blues' lobbyists in the Senate lobby.

"SOUND FAMILIAR?" I asked the old gentleman next to me, adding Sederburg has a doctorate in politiscribing the CON appointments as people of opinion representing various economic interests in a kind of class strife."

I searched my memory: "Did.you not call that an oligarchy?"

"Most assuredly so," Socrates re-plied. "It is a state of great resources but governed by men who focus on gain rather than ideals of justice. Who will win?" he asked.

ON THE FLOOR of the Senate. John Kelly, D-Grosse Pointe Farms, defended the appointees and asked senators to vote for them. "It would be nice if this were a platonic world," said Kelly, adding that it's the "real world."

The Senate voted in favor of the governor's appointments, 21-17. Kelly's side won.

Socrates stared at me, incredulous. Kelly's speech and the vote had stunned him.

"They knew. They knew the appointees were oligarchists and not philosophers. The senators had the benefit of my teaching, and yet the majority voted against these ideals," Socrates said.

He hunched over, then looked up and asked: "You will pen an essay on this, won't you?"

"I WILL, Socrates," I said, "but I am uncertain whether my readers will benefit. Many discuss public affairs in terms of polls and 'images' rather than in philosophical ideals.

"Our politics is a game of representing social classes. Your kind of philosopher will have trouble raising campaign money from the interest

Socrates understood but seemed saddened. He left the Senate gallery. I don't think he went over to the House side, fearing further disappointment. I have a hunch he went to the nearest college campus to start over - or so I hope.

Area religous leaders respond to CBE issues

This is an open letter, written to the citizens of our

As Christians and as clergy in the Plymouth-Canton Community, we believe in tolerance, openness, freedom, understanding, trust and mutual respect. In this light, we uphold the right of Citizens for Better Education (CBE) and all concerned citizens to express and promote their viewpoint regarding our public school curriculum, teachers and administration. We believe, however, as asthrong leaders in this community it is important. er, as religious leaders in this community it is impera-tive that we share a broader theological perspective.

Specifically, we have concerns in four areas. 1. Censorship: While it is certainly true that not all materials belong in the classroom, we believe our school system has more than adequate processes to safeguard the moral and ethical fiber of our community. Moreover, we deplore any vigilante mentality which would lead our community on "witch hunts" and "book burnings." We find such a mentality demoralizing to creative teachers and damaging to the overall learning

2. Evil: Our school system has been criticized for promoting satanism and witchcraft. We find no validity in such charges. Moreover, those who make these allega-tions seem to have an understanding of evil that is overly simplistic and which does not address the complex nature of evil as it is revealed in the Bible.

3. Rights of Minorities: We are deeply concerned about those who would establish a parochial system within our community schools with seeming insensitivity and callous disregard for the rights of any religious minority. Regardless of how any religiously motivated group may feel, the "establishment" clause of the First Amendment prohibits such action in the public sector.

4. Intolerance of Differing Viewpoints: CBE has frequently expressed its displeasure with the school board for its failure to respond to its concerns and charges. After reviewing the list of complaints which CBE has filed, we are of the opinion that the school board has listened carefully to CBE and has in some instances reviewed and changed its practices and policies.

In our opinion, CBE has yet to learn the difference between "understand" and "agree." Many, including the school board, "understand" the positions taken by CBE. However, that does not mean that there is "agreement' with those positions. Consequently, we feel it is inappropriate that they charge the school board with promoting all kinds of anti-Christian programs.

As clergy in the Plymouth-Canton community, we are not interested in raising "sheltered" children. We do want them to be exposed to different ideas and thoughts. We would like them to learn to think both independently and responsibly. We trust those who teach our children in the Plymouth Canton schools with this task of expanding the horizons of their minds. They will continue to have our trust until such time as they prove that they are unworthy of it. The responsibility for our childrens religious education should fall, however, to the church and to the families which compose the church. It is our hope that this two-pronged approach to education will equip our children to face a complex and complicated

As moral and religious leaders of this community, we stand willing to serve as advisers, mediators and conciliators to build bridges of understanding and tolerance as our school system strives to provide the very best education to our children.

In addressing these issues, we speak for ourselves as ordained Christian clergy from diverse religious traditions. However, on this matter, we unite to express this theological position.

I CARE figures causing problems

This is in response to the article in the Monday May 8, paper, "School Millage Forms Wrong." Mr. Tarrow the only part wrong is in the second part where the millage goes, the new figure is 39.54. Your new figures only show people the difference in 1989 and that is wrong. Your old worksheet tells the real story of how much people are going to pay from last year to this year, remember SEV values have gone up, what is I CARE

Also how much of the other facts that "I CARE" is passing out both in school and out like, 400 employees being laid off, no bus transportation, etc is true also. Every paper my children bring home the figures keep

All these inaccuries are going to cost the school system no votes. Don't try to tell people their taxes are only going up $200.00 when in truth they are doubling that figure and then some more.

I wrote to the Observer after the first I CARE rally and my letter was finally published last Thursday and then on Monday, I read this worksheet is wrong

I also urge everybody who gets a call from 'I CARE' to just tell them its none of their business how you vote. I also am not a member of CBE but had a 19.5 percent increase on my SEV value.

Friendship leads men to marathon in Paris

A friendship that took root in a barbershop 15 years ago blossomed into an April in Paris for a man with multiple sclerosis and four Detroitarea runners.

At the Marathon International de Paris April 30, Jim Keskeny, a 44year-old investment manager and counselor, became the first person with multiple sclerosis ever to complete a 26.2-mile race. He did it in Keskeny's hair stylist, John Peters of Plymouth Township, completed the course in 4:22.

Twenty-one semi-pro French football players took turns pushing Keskeny in his wheelchair from the Arc of Triumph past the Eiffel Tower, Notre Dame Cathedral, Bastille Plaza and finally to the finish line in the Hippodrome Arena.

"Our experience was everything a song could make it," said Keskeny.
"The amount of people in the stands in the Hippodrome was in the 1,000 range. People were clapping. They could see us; they knew we were coming. Somewhere between five and 10 pairs of football team members were running together, yelling something in French and raising their arms, like something out of a marathon movie.

"I'm raising both arms, like Rocky, or some movie I'd seen. Coming up to the finish line I saw flags and banners waving. Obviously, it was a period of excitement. I remember one thing hit me besides the crowd.

"The electronic time keeper jumped out at me. The clock said 3:55 — we broke four hours.

"The toughest thing for me was the five or 10 miles of cobblestone streets," added Keskeny. "They're serious, old European cobblestones, and they're a little tough on the Keskeny defeated all four of his able-bodied friends.

Dennis Wilczewski of Livonia and Peters crossed the finish line, hand in hand, 25 minutes behind Keskeny.

John Burczyk of Canton, friends with Keskeny ever since Catholic Central High School days, finished in 3:59. Bill Halvangis of Plymouth completed the course in 5:37 amazing, considering he twisted his ankle at the halfway point. Halvangis found out later he'd actually broken it.

FOR THE Americans in Paris, every mile paid off. Taking a cue from WJR radio's Joel Alexander. the runners raised $13,000 for the fight against MS, a di central nervous system that afflicts 15,000 people in Michigan.

For years, the Detroit Free Press International marathoners have collected pledges for MS.

Alexander, who's raised thousands for MS in Detroit, decided to take the crusade across the Atlantic last year. He and three others ran the Paris Marathon, raising $10,000 and piquing the interest of French runners in the same activity. Injury sidelined Alexander this year.

ALEXANDER'S EFFORT bit home with Peters. Peters was the top MS fundraiser two of the three years he ran the Free Press marathon.

It was at a Free Press/MS awards ceremony in 1984 where Keskeny first learned why.

"At first he just sloughed it off, saying, 'I just thought I'd do it for you guys.' But later John confessed to me that the reason he first started running was the fact he'd seen myself and another friend get cut down by MS," said Keskeny, who was diagnosed with MS in 1966.

In 1977, Keskeny took a disability retirement from Ford Motor.

"John was one of my first contacts with the outside world after many months of being cooped up in the house," said Keskney. Peters said he was cutting

Keskeny's hair last year at a time when "I wanted something to add a little excitement to marathoning. "I mentioned to Jim Keskeny that it would be nice to get back into a marathon for MS, and it would be nice to go to Paris. It was just a pipedream," said Peters, 49. Not to Keskeny, or his friend Joel Alexander. Keskeny and Alexander went to work, and the next thing Peters knew, Chrysler Motors' International Operations and British Airways offered to sponsor the event. Wilczewski, Burczyk and Halvangis were recruited, and the trip was on. Peters was concerned about Keskeny. "He gets tired very easily, and Europe doesn't have any provisions for the handicapped in airports, hotels or restaurants. If you're handicapped, you stay home. In fact when we were pushing Jim down the street, people would stare at him. They never see the handicapped."

THE RACE was thrilling, Peters said.

"It was 60 degrees and sunny. The people were very warm and receptive to us. There were 14,000 people in the race. They talked about Jim over the loud speaker in French before the race began," said Peters.

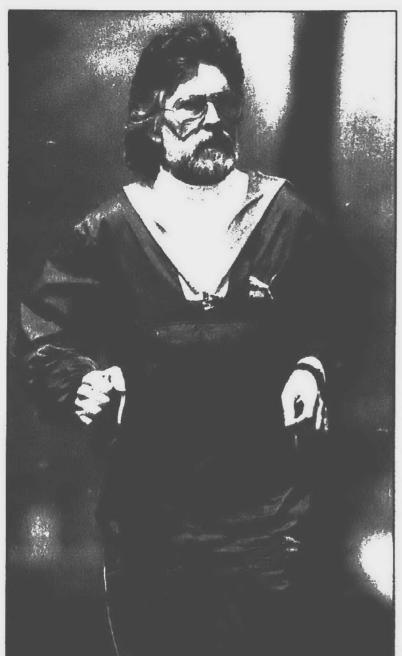

"When the race started, runners wished him luck and yelled at him in French."

Keskeny remembers being greeted and thanked by a well-dressed French gentleman at the starting line he later learned was the mayor of Paris. "After we started, I'd say somewhere between 1,000 and 1,500 runners veered over to our side of the course to pat me on the back, and give me the thumbs up sign. They said things like, 'Bravo Americain!' 'Bravo Jim!'

"A couple of guys obviously were from other countries, because they said 'Bloody good!' or 'Zer Gudt!' which means very good in German. I thought what the heck is going on? How do they know who I am?

"I was excited to see the French get interested in this moveme added Keskeny. "It makes the whole thing so many more times enjoyal It makes you feel good about every-

This train's tracks lead to Plymouth

By Julie Brown staff writer

RAINS CAN be a source of irritation in Plymouth. Few residents or workers in Plymouth have escaped being caught in traffic by a train at one time or another.

Artrain won't block any roads while it's here, nor will it lead to frazzled nerves. Artrain, the nation's only art museum on a train, will visit Plymouth June 1-4.

The exhibit, "Treasures of Childhood: 180 Years of American Toys," features more than 300 objects from the Lawrence Scripps Wilkinson Col-lection of Toys. The collection is an affiliate of the Detroit Historical

The local visit is being coordinat-

"The Artrain is just such a special vehicle and way of bringing an exhibit to a town," said Susan Froelich, PCAC executive director. "I think it really generates a lot of excite-

THIS WILL be the third time Artrain has visited Plymouth. The train was last here in April 1987 with an exhibit of treasures from the Cranbrook Academy of Art.

Froelich, who started work in the fall of 1907, wasn't on the job yet, so she's looking forward to Artrain's visit — much more so than visits by run-of-the-mill trains.

"I don't have to cope a lot with the trains myself." Froelich, an Ann Ar-bor resident, plans her driving so as to avoid the trains.

Artrain's first Plymouth visit was in the early 1970s. That visit was the first major project undertaken by the Plymouth Community Arts Council, which was founded in 1969. "It's really a part of our history,"

Froelich said. An opening reception and preview for the Artrain visit will be held at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, June 1, at the train site in Plymouth's Old Village. Donation is $15 per person. Tickets are available from the PCAC office, 332 S. Main in Plymouth. For more information, call 455-5260. A light meal will be served at the opening reception, which will have a carnival theme. The public may attend the reception.

PUBLIC VIEWING hours for Artrain will be 3-5 p.m. Thursday and Friday, June 1-2, and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, June 3-4. Admission is free of charge, although donations are accepted. The April 1987 visit attracted some 4,800 to 5,000 people.

"We hope that there will be as many," said Janie Hunt of Plymouth Township, co-chairwoman for the Artrain visit. Many school groups will go through the train during its visit, as will a number of Girl Scout troops.

Local Scouts honored with Gold Award

Elizabeth Bain

Local Girl Scouts were among those who recently completed requirements for the Gold Award, Girl Scouting's top achievement.

Elizabeth Cohen of Canton and Elizabeth Bain of Plymouth Township received their awards during a May 10 presentation at the Ann Arbor Women's City Club. They were among Girl Scouts from the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council who received the Gold Award.

Working on the Gold Award helps Senior Girl Scouts develop skills and values to meet current and future challenges. To earn the award, a Girl Scout must design and carry out a plan of activities covering community service, career exploration, specialized interest projects and leadership skills.

Following completion and documentation of a Girl Scout's challenge project, her documented book is reviewed at a board interview. Each Girl Scout working on the award participates in the board interview.

If Dr. Syed Razvi had his druthers, he would want a mosque, a commu-nity hall and a school built in western Wayne County to serve the 250 families who are part of the Muslim Community of the Western Detroit

That may take awhile, since such plans have been stymied by a lack of cohesive leadership in the organization. But it hasn't prevented the group from meeting weekly at Bryant School in Livonia to continue the traditions of its Islamic faith.

Started in 1979, when a few families would gather at homes to pray and discuss the teachings of the Koran, word of mouth and a few newspaper stories swelled the ranks of the community. The families live throughout the western suburbs, including Canton Township, Westland, Farmington Hills, Novi, Northville and West Bloomfield, Razvi said.

"A few of us began meeting in basements because there was no mosque or community center where we could go," Razvi said. "The closest was at Joy and Greenfield."

But registered membership has dropped off in recent years - today, there are only 49 registered families - because of the lack of a perma-

"In the beginning, membership built up because of hopes of building a community center," Razvi said. "It has dropped because of a delay in achieving that goal."

Even though there is no permanent location for the community, large numbers of families still gather on Friday evenings at Bryant School. For three hours, they perform their prayers, educate the children and learn about the Koran.

RELIGIOUS HOLIDAYS are based on a lunar calendar.

The observance of Ramadan concluded earlier this month. The Muslim Community of the Western Detroit Suburbs marked the occasion Friday afternoon prayers, compa-rable to the Jewish Salitath or the Christian Sunday services, "are very important, but we don't get Friday afternoon off because this is a non-Islamic country," Rasvi said.

As a result, the group meets on Priday evenings. When Bryant School isn't available during the summer months, the meetings are held in family homes.

RAZVI WOULD like to see Christians become more knowledgeable of the Islamic faith. The community invites "open dialogues" with non-Muslims. But, Razvi said, the group hasn't been that successful because "of a lack of effort on our part.

"We fail to invite people of other faiths to come in and have an open dialogue with us," he said.

But that hasn't stopped Razvi from speaking before groups and churches about the Islamic faith through his Monotheistic Congregation. He also holds meetings on Sundays in his Farmington Hills home, bringing together people of the Jew-ish, Jehovah Witness and Christian faiths 'to talk."

Razvi believes some of the diffi-culties faced by Muslims is fostered by negative images of the religion jected by the news media. Those difficulties ease as people begin to know about and understand the Islamic faith, he said.

"We are not a violent people and yet when people say the word terror-ist, they think a Muslim terrorist," Razvi said. "But there are Irish terrorists, German terrorists, Israeli terrorists. All the textbooks written by non-Muslims project us as wild, naked men riding on horses and swing a sword.

"We are not like that at all. We don't force our religion on people."

The Islamic religion is a very flexible religion," Razvi said.

moral perspectives Rev. Lloyd Buss

From beginning to end, life is holy

A young father holds hospital workers at bay with a pistol, disconnects the life-support systems from his comatose, brain-damaged son and weeps as the child dies in his arms. He tells police, "I did it because I love my son."

A young quadriplegic, who had hoped for a family, a wife, children, a career and to go places, has petitioned the court to disconnect his life support system. A victim of a surfing accident 18 years ago, he doesn't want to become a bitter person in the prospect of a continually deteriorating condition. Without his respirator, he would die quickly.

An older man, who had refused to acknowledge ried to, is determined to be the father by blood tests taken six years after the birth of the child. The man had insisted on blood tests to determine the woman's claim of paternity . . . not exactly a ringing affirmation of the woman's integrity and character, nor for that matter, his own.

What paradigm of life shall we use to fashion and shape our response to these stories of life? Shall we "live and let die" (or any variation there of), which is to say that we not say anything because we simply don't have all the information we need to make an intelligent response?

SHALL WE insist on certain basic laws, such as "do not kill" or " do not commit fornication" (technically, adultery is sexual intercourse with a partner who is married to someone else), which is to say that community life is based on law and order and needs to be protected?

se stories of life quickly persuade us that life is much more than the sum total of all individual experiences. There is a dimension of life that transcends individual accountability and responsibility. The tragedy of promising lives permanently affected by fateful accidents and the contempt one might have for another, qualify all life in

We quickly agree that where life is ending there is holy ground. There is a dimension of life in the process of ending that is ultimate and final. We may not know what exists on the other side of death, but we quickly agree that it is something awesome and conclusive.

Life that is beginning is equally awesome and conclusive. Life that is beginning must be given the same ultimate and final worth that is given to life in the process of death. Where life is beginning, there is also holy ground.

If it is true that where life is beginning and where life is ending is holy ground, then it is also true that life in between is holy. Our responses to the experiences of life can never be made easier. They must simply be made more significant and

Grocery store competition heats up

Lon Makanoff, president and chief operating officer of Meadowdale Foods, parent company of Great Scottl, announced a summer price freeze of some food items. "A lot of consumers are under the impression that we are a high-priced supermarket. We're not." he said.

Great Scott! freezes prices

Customer reaction was mixed Monday among those polled following an announcement by Great Scott! supermarkets that prices on 300 selected items would be frozen through

Lon Makanoff, president and CEO of parent company Meadowdale Foods, announced that 300 items from the top-selling commodities in all of its 31 stores will be frozen.

An average supermarket carries 20,000 to 30,000 items.

No fresh fruits, vegetables or meats are on the Great Scott! list.

"We want to be better recognized for what we worked long and hard to achieve," Makanoff said in his announcement, made near the frozen foods section of the Great Scott! store at 11 Mile and Middlebelt in Farmington Hills. "Everyday shelf prices are low, if not lower, than our competitors.

This does not represent a supermarket war, but rather "good, healthy competition," said Maka-

But shoppers will have the final

"I don't shop here as often as I like because I think they are a little bit too over-priced, but I like the store," said Linda Delavy, a Southfield resident, who was shopping with daughter, Michelle, 6, and Cheryl Nawrocki, 4, whom she was baby-sit-

LOOKING AT the Great Scott! list, Delavy saw some items she bought but not the brands that she liked. "It would depend on what other sales were going on," said Delavy. "I spend the most money on meats. I stock up on the meats, let it go down and then it's a blow when I have to do it again."

resident, said that he shopped at the store because it was conveniently located. "Prices don't make any differences to me," he said.

Anne Sievert of Southfield, who is retired and on a fixed income, said that she is a real "cheapo" when it comes to supermarket shopping.

"I go for house brands," she said, holding two paper towels and a loaf of bread. "You need to be shrewd to shop today. I look for the specials. I have to watch my cholesterol. I don't buy too many veggies here because they are too expensive. I go to the fruit market."

Sievert came to Great Scott! to "see what looks good today," she

According to Makanoff, Great Scott! was the first to introduce salad bars, fresh seafood, high-speed checkout scanning and FAX machines to its stores. "A lot of consumers are under the impression that we are a high-priced supermarket. We're not. We're every bit as' competitive as the other chains. If vou look at what they've done over the last couple of years, you'll find that they always copy what we've MAKANOFF SAID that Great Scott! tried to select items that every consumer would buy throughout the summer. They include selected brands and sizes of margarine, cheese, iced-tea mix, paper plates and cups, salad dressing, charcoal starter, as well as cat litter, dog food and detergent. The demand for many of these items increases during the summer, he said.

"Depending on weather condi-tions, which say this summer will probably be more dry, we're looking at a couple percent inflation," he

K mart sees sales slump

Retail giant looks to specialty niches

Despite signs of a softening economy, K mart Corp. is moving ahead in the Oakland and Wayne county suburbs with part of its new generation of specialty shops, Sports

One store opened today in Livonia, and another opened April 6 in Madison Heights.

'We're tapping into this country's zest for the active life, good health and good fitness," board chairman Joseph Antonini of Bloomfield Hills told a crowd of 300 at the No. 2 retailer's annual shareholder's meeting in its Troy headquarters.

Antonini said the firm - best known for its discount department stores but increasingly adding specialty stores - intends to expand its 4 percent share of the market, despite rival Wal-Mart's threat to overtake both

Departing from his text, Antonini said, "We're seeing trends that are a little disturbing," adding in a news conference that store traffic is off this quarter among rivals, too. "Business is bad all over the country in retailing. We were a little surprised when things fell off."

Nevertheless, he predicted a 7 percent sales hike dur-

The company's second Sports Giant is at the Woodland Square on Plymouth Road west of Middlebelt in Livonia. At 50,000 square feet, Sports Giant will be about twothirds the size of the average K mart store.

Larry M. Parkin, an executive vice president, said it will stock 35,000 items in 12 departments such as footwear, exercise, skiing, hunting, fishing, camping, water sports, golf and team sports equipment.

For a family membership fee, shoppers can get 5 to 10 percent price reductions. It will employ 90 people.

THE MEETING was relatively tame, despite market pundits' predictions of tough questions because of the earnings drop and leveling of per-store sales. Except for a few shopper complaints (see related story), Antonini received accolades for progress in using minority vendors (a 46 percent increase to $374 million An employee complained about lack of a cost-of-living pay hike, adding, "I can no longer afford to eat in the cafeteria." She received much applause. A Presbyterian minister, the Rev. William Som-platski-Jarman, asked Antonini to put pressure on a Georgia curtain supplier, S. Lictenberg Co., which is facing charges of racial bias and union problems.

"This (union ratification) is tied up in court," Antonini replied. "We've talked. They're committed to resolving this. I said we wanted them to get this behind us."

For 1988, K mart reported sales of $27.3 billion, up 6.5 percent; income of $303 million, up 16 percent; and cash dividends of $1.32 a share, up 13.8 percent.

BIGGER BASIC stores, as well as specialty stores, are in the company's $1.3 billion five-year capital plan, the chairman said. Plans callfor:

75 to 100 new stores each year for five years - 30 of them replacements for smaller stores. • 100 to 150 existing stores to be expanded each year.

Average store will be more than 85,000 square feet. • Completion, by the end of 1990, of the price scanner program, increasing checkout lane speed by 23 percent and allowing better inventory control. By the end of 1988, about half of the 2,200 K marts had price scanners.

A second goal is to improve inventory turnover. · Continued expansion for Builder's Square, now at 137 stores for do-it-yourself homeowners and small con-

Stockholders air shopping gripes

K Mart's shareholders are also shoppers, and they didn't hestitate to take their complaints to the top at Tuesday's annual meeting in Troy.

"Give him a case of Eureka bags free," chairman Joseph Antonini ordered after a shareholder, shopper and retiree, Michael Turok, complained he was unable to find replacement bags for the vacuum cleaner at three company stores. He had purchased the appliance at K mart. "No excuse," Antonini commented. "We make more money on the bags." "See that Joey gets a free Nintendo," Antonini ordered after mother Pat Glionma reported her son found the game's price $5-$25 cheaper at competitors. She said her son saved his own money to buy three shares (current price: $39.25).

To a shareholder who asked for a dividend reinvestment plan, Antonini said it's "something we're working on. The problem is that 60 percent of shareholders own under 1 percent of the stock. We'll look at it."

The company has 201 million shares.

SEEKING TO instill "missionary zeal" for customer service in its 350,000 employees, Antonini said favorable comments were one in 10 when it began a monitoring system 18 months ago.

"Today I am pleased to report over 50 percent of letters from our customers are complimentary. . . We have received over 9,000 complimentary calls and letters this year alone, which exceeds the number received

The 4-year-old Farmington Hills store was chosen as the site of the announcement because it was "convenient for a lot of the press," said Makanoff later. The idea for this marketing effort was his own, he said. "We went through the items and said, 'Which items can we freeze that make economic sense for us and still do something for the consumer?' Many of these were top items."

He declined comment on how much the campaign would cost.

Gilbert Borman, director of communications for Borman Inc., which runs the Farmer Jack chain, said that his company does not issue a comment on another company's advertising or sales efforts. "This is all that this is," he said.

A merger between A&P and Farmer Jack in January increased the number of Farmer Jack stores to 133. Previously, Farmer Jack had 78 stores, Borman said.

A Danny's Market spokesman was unavailable for comment.

Quick impressions are always sus-pect, and when they are formed while one is sandwiched between two 12-hour plane rides - outb in the company of an engineer from Muskegon intent on installing the first high-tech bowling alley in To-kyo and return with a Livenia-based basket wholesaler returning from the Philippines — the level of surre-alism thus achieved can turn your mind to peanut butter.

In this there is some hope for the future existence of a domestic auto industry - at odds with the view, widely held in California, that the Japanese, working with both sides of their brains, inevitably will take over the entire western military industrial complex after they have finished mopping up the German and U.S. automobile industries.

of economic common sense and in fact are plodding along a path well-trodden in the past by American, and before that British, German, Italian and even French entrepreneurs.

All of which makes a fine view to hold until you hit the streets of To-kyo and things get weird.

Take for example, a visit to a Japanese car dealership.

A car dealership might not seem like such a big deal, but cars in Japan are sold door-to-door, rather than by salesmen hanging around in plaid sports coats while everybody is at work, then slamming the doors on weekends, as they do in Detroit.

Greater Nagoya is so sparsely populated that people can park their cars — a luxury in itself that leads to a relatively high rate of car own-

An actual dealership, dedicated to moving the iron, with salesmen hanging around and everything, just

As I walked into the dealership, I was greeted by a line of smiling young women wearing something that looked like Catholic school uniforms who bowed as I walked in the door. I kind of liked that. Then I noticed the art gallery, and the enameled white grand piano. And then the boutique - selling a variety of automotive fashions.

And over in the corner, some cars. The theory behind all this is that Japanese car salesmen can't quite picture anyone coming in with his money in his hand simply to buy an automobile, so they set up these other attractions to kind of lure them in slowly, then case them over to the cars, where they are offered a test drive and lots of follow-up. Some of the sidelines turn into sizeable businesses on their own. Take for example, the drive-in movie screen the dealership has installed in the back of the used-car lot, to use up some of the extra parking space. At first, the whole idea of a drive-in movie seemed a bit far-fetched.

Hence the unlimited mileage drive-in car rental option, whereby a couple or four can rent a car, drive it behind the dealership and go to the drive-in movie.

Like I said, common sense If you think I'm making this up, maybe I shouldn't go on about the rest of the dealership, which included a home show across from the drive-in movie, where three Toyotabuilt model homes were available for walking tours. Also a community center, a quilting exhibition and a 30-second car auction.

I'm sure you wouldn't believe me anyway. Next time, however, I hope I'll get to see the Muskegon guy's bowling alley.

Product ideas that have survived the screening and idea evaluation steps of the new product development process still have a long way to go before final acceptance or rejec-

The development step is next and refers to the creation of a physical product, or prototype model. As such, this step may involve one or more cycles of building, testing and revising the product model before pilot production occurs.

With actual models, it becomes possible to show potential customers how the product concept has been transformed into a tangible product. Research is very useful here because it allows customers to react to specific product features as well as the entire product idea in physical form. The research process may involve months or years before it is completed. This is especially true in large organizations. For example, it took

Salem slugger

Ann Mundinger, a senior shortstop on the Plymouth Salem softball team, ended the regular season in style Monday. She had the game-winning hit in Salem's 7-0 victory over Walled Lake Western. Plymouth Canton's team is poised to reach the 20-win plateau Friday. See story on Page 2D.

Canton soccer cause gains momentum, 1-0

staff writer

If Plymouth Canton needs an ally in the girls soccer tournament, the Chiefs have no better friend than recent history.

The winner of the last two Canton-Plymouth Salem district games has gone on to win the Class A championship - the Rocks in 1987 and the Chiefs last season.

Canton's hopes of defending its state title received a monumental boost Wednesday with a 1-0 victory over Salem at Centennial Education-

The Chiefs, who defeated Salem for the second time in the last week and improved to 13-2, will meet the Ann Arbor Pioneer-Huron winner for the district championship at 1 p.m. Saturday at Concordia College.

"It's a long way home," Canton coach Don Smith said, meaning the Chiefs need five more victories to win back-to-back titles. "But it's a nice first step."

SALEM COACH Ken Johnson, however, is betting on Canton, which handed the Rocks their only losses of the season, including a 2-1 setback in the Western Lakes Activities Association final last Friday.

"I think they'll go all the way," he said. "I thought if we beat them, we'd win the state. This game would have been an excellent state final."

In a showdown that pitted the second- and third-ranked teams in Class A — the Chiefs being ranked ahead of Salem — senior Tricia Green-halge's second-half goal on a direct free kick was the difference.

At the 52-minute mark, Greenhalge lifted the uncontested shot on a line that carried over Salem goalkeeper Jennifer Emmett and managed to get between her and the top of the net.

"The ball just curved in," Emmett said. "I could have punched it. Those

Chiefs top Belleville in opener

Newly crowned Western Lakes Activities Association soccer champion Plymouth Canton thumped Belleville in the first round of district tourna-ment play Monday, 8-1.

The lopsided victory made possible Wednesday's rematch between WLAA finalists Canton and Plymouth Salem. The Chiefs defeated Salem 2-1 to win the league title last Friday.

Jenny Russell paced Canton in its post-season debut with three goals and two assists, bringing her teamleading totals to 17 and 13, respectively. Shannon Meath is the No. 2 scorer with 11 goals and four assists. Ayana Nash, Sonya Malkhassian, Christina Reilly and Jenny Steinhebel scored one goal apiece. Nash and Steinhebel added one assist each.

The Chiefs, who improved to 12-2 overall, led 4-0 at halftime on goals by Russell, Nash, Reilly and Malkhassian. Michelle Fortier played the first half in goal, but coach Don Smith turned the game over to JV players for most of the second half.

type of shots are hard to judge. You don't know if they're going over. That shot was hit perfectly."

Smith agreed the difference often is a matter of inches on such goals and in such highly-competitive games. He added the Chiefs were ready for a shootout and had been practicing penalty kicks in anticipa-

"If they're perfect, they're perfect," Smith said. "That one of theirs I thought had gone in, too.

'MOST TIMES it's a freak thing that happens. A couple times our defense missed the ball, which could jumps on it right away."
Salem, which finishes with a 12-2-

2 record, threatened late in the game as the impending defeat drew closer, making for an exciting finish.

Jill Estey, who ended an outstand-ing four-year career that saw her twice earn All-American honors, later had an direct free kick, but her shot went over the top, but not by

"They had the free kick that went in, and we had the one that went over," Johnson said. "It was an even game; it was just a matter of who got the breaks.

The Rocks continued to attack, and Canton goalkeeper Michelle Fortier, following a corner kick by Salem's Michelle Minton, covered the ball after an attempted header by Estey.

"I'm upset that we lost," said a tearful Estey, who will play basketball at the University of Illinois next year. "It's just hard to realize your soccer career is over.

"With basketball, I go on to college, but this is the end of the line in soccer. We felt we could come on strong for this game, but we had a couple swings of bad luck and Cabton played awesome."

FORTIER WAS outstanding in goal, and the defense did its part in front of her. Fortier made the biggest save of the game earlier in the second half when Minton drove a low, direct penalty kick at her. She also caught another shot in front of a charging Minton, as well as a throwin and an indirect kick.

"(Fortier) came out and took the ball away several times," Smith said. "The girls didn't want to get picked off like the basketball team

The week after winning the WLAA basketball title last November, the Chiefs were upset by Salem in the district tournament.

Coach's 100th victory clinches title for Salem

The timing was perfect.

Not just by Rob Kowalski, either, although the relief specialist did come through - getting his third victory in relief - when needed most. Kowalski entered the game with the bases loaded and one out, with the tying run at the plate, and he promptly uncorked a wild pickoff attempt that allowed two runs to score.

But then he settled down, allowing just one hit and a walk in 3% innings to give Plymouth Salem a 7-4 baseball victory Monday at Walled Lake Western.

What made the timing of Kowalski's pitching (if not fielding) heroics perfect was the Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division title the win harvested. Salem is 13-8 overall, 12-4 in the WLAA and 8-2 in the Kowalski's timing also paid off for Salem coach John Gravlin. The title-clinching victory was his 100th as the Rocks' coach, against 38 defeats, in six seasons. "It was a good one to get your 100th on, clinching the division title," said Gravlin, who also won the Lakes' title in 1985.

Kowalski wasn't the Rocks' only clutch performer. Salem scored five first-inning runs on six hits and a walk. J.P. LaRoach's single started the rally. He stole second and scored on Dennis Hanson's double. A walk to Tim Lake and Tom Noonan's bunt single loaded the bases with one out.

Kevin O'Leary came through with a two-run double, making it 3-0. Scott Niemiec singled in the fourth run, and Kevin doubled to score the fifth.

The Rocks never trailed, thanks to their extra-base power. Five of their 11 hits were doubles. O'Leary collected his second two-bagger and third RBI of the game in the fourth inning, making it 6-0. Hanson singled in the sixth and eventually scored Salem's final run on Lake's sacrifice fly.

Hanson, Noonan and Beals each clubbed a single and a double and had one RBI apiece. Hanson also scored

Howie Blanchard started for Salem and was cruising along until the fourth. Two Warrior singles and a passed ball scored one run, and two balks scored the second. After Blanchard gave up a walk, a single and another walk to load the bases, Kowalski was summoned. Just in time

CANTON 5, W.L. CENTRAL 0: Brian Paupore hurled a three-hitter against visiting Walled Lake Central Monday, stretching his string of innings without surrendering an earned run to 21. The senior lefthander improved his record to 4-1, allowing one walk while striking out 10 for Plymouth Can-

"Paupore was the dominating figure today," said Canton coach Fred Crissey, whose team improved to 16-7 overall. "Anytime you walk one and strike out 10, it's your day.

The Chiefs got their five runs in the fourth and fifth innings. Jason Dembny's double in the fourth scored the game's first two runs. Chris Robinson unloaded a tworun double in the fifth, and Jeff Kugelman followed with a run-scoring single.

Elliott to play for S'craft

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

Dave Bogataj, the Schoolcraft College men's basketball coach, said Charles Sabra is the kind of guy who 'says 'Yes sir, no sir' all the time, and that's pretty catchy." No wonder.

Sabra, 24, is a four-year veteran of the U.S. Army, who has signed a national letter-of-intent to attend Schoolcraft.

The 5-foot-10 point guard, a 1982 graduate of Detroit Cody, headlines the latest list of recruits signed by Bogataj. Also joining the Ocelots are 6-6 center Eric Enderle, Jeff Elliott, a 6-3 swingman from Plymouth Salem; and Randy Watters, a 6-4, 205pound forward from Milford Lakeland. Enderle graduated in 1986 from Trenton High and he also is a two-year Army veteran.

comes Sabra and Enderle into his program, considering the kind of discipline the two are used to following. Last winter the Ocelots weren't disciplined enough in the classroom, losing four players to academic trouble, and finishing with an unimpressive 6-24 record.

Elliott is a 2.8 student who scored an 18 on his ACT test, Bogataj said.

A call Monday to the Sabra residence in Detroit confirmed Bogataj's thoughts about Sabra.

"I listen very well — even when I don't want to," said Sabra, who most recently was stationed in Fort Gordon in Augusta, Ga. "It's (the Army) done quite a bit for my disciplinary action. The more you listen, the better you'll be. If you go out there and do whatever you want instead of what you're told to, you won't be out there too long."

Sabra, and Enderle, who was stationed at Fort Hood in Texas, each have four years of college eligibility

THE TWO practiced their trade while in the Army, playing against other battalions.

"There's always that degree of maturity (in an Army veteran) you can see it and it's really going to help us," Bogataj said. "They've seen the world away from home and now they're back and ready to go to school. They know the world out there is rough. That 'Prepare-your-self attitude' is going to help us. "Charlie just came in one day and said 'Gee, I'd like to try out.' As it turns out, he's quicker than a cat." Bogataj also is excited about add-

Tracie Robinson indicates the putout has been made in Salem's shutout victory over the Warriors. The Rocks finished at

Canton's goal within reach

Before the '80 campaign began, the Plymouth Capton softhall team set as its goal a 20-win sea-

At the time, that may have seemed like too much to expect from a program still trying to establish itself.

establish itself.

But now the Chiefs are rated the No. 1 team in Observerland and have moved to within one game of reaching that objective under first-year coach Dave Racer. Canton can accomplish its preseason goal Friday when it travels to Brighton for a 4 p.m. predistrict game.

The Chiefs, 19-7 overall, put themselves in that favorable position Monday when they defeated fellow Western Lakes Activities Association power Walled Lake Contral 4-1.

er Walled Lake Central 4-1.

As a result, Canton finishes in a four-way tie with the Vikings, Livonia Franklin and Westland John Glenn — all with 12-4 records in league

"THE GIRLS have been working awfully hard," Racer said. "They set a goal of 20 wins, and they're one away. They really want that 20th

Stacey Thompson, who has been bothered by a sore back lately, pitched a two-hitter for the Chiefs and seemed to be helped by the 70-plusdegree weather, Racer said. In going the distance, she didn't strike out anybody, but she allowed only one walk and hit one batter.

"She threw a strong game, and she really helped herself out on the mound," Racer said, adding Thompson had five assists after opposing batters grounded the ball back to her. "She pitched one of her better games of the year, and the defense played great behind her.

'She mixed her pitches awfully well. The fastball was up in the eyes, the changeup was down at the knees and she was getting girls to ground out." While the Canton defense played errorless softball, Central batters hit the ball on the ground 20 times. Only three balls were hit to the outfield as Thompson faced just 27 batters.

Thompson also had the game's big hit, blasting a three-run homer in the top of the first inning and enabling the Chiefs to play from an advan-tage the entire game.

The Vikings had their only hits and scored their lone run in the bottom of the first, and Canton led 3-1 until the seventh. Jennifer Vanootighem hit a two-out single and, with the hit-and-run play on, accord on Kim Schulte's base hit in the last inning.

THOMPSON AND Schulte had two hits apiece for the Chiefs, who had seven. Allison Flaskamp and Rhonda Kibilko scored on Thompson's first-

Canton has become a stronger ballclub in the last half of the season, and Racer believes some adjustments in the field have contributed to that

Kibilko, who has added 60 percentage points to her batting average, moved from center to right field, and Schulte, who played shortstop last year but stated the year in right, moved to center where her speed could be put to better use. Flaskamp went from second to shortstop at the start of the season, and Beth Racer became the new second baseman. But the two have switched positions in another successful move. Racer went to shortstop because of her range and arm, and Flaskamp seems more comfortable at her old position, according to the coach.

"I told the girls I'd probably be making some changes, and I think they have made us stronger,"

Ann Mundinger had the game-winning hit, producing a first-inning double that knocked in the game's first run. Katie Vesnaugh was 2-for-3 as Salem supported Hinzmann with seven hits.

RACHELLE OXLEY scattered six hits and Missy Goodchild had three hits for Plymouth Christian Academy, which beat Hamtramck Immaculate Conception 14-8 Tuesday.

Oxley allowed four earned runs while going the distance, and she walked six and fanned two.

Goodchild was 3-for-5 and drove in one run, and Kami Rowe and Sejal Nandani had two hits

Christen Thomason got the Eagles started with a two-run triple during a four-run first inning, Kim McLaughlin chipped in a two-run single and Nandani also had two RBI.

Regina's Nicker cools off Blazers in Catholic finale

Livonia Ladywood didn't get a hit off Harper Woods Regina pitcher Denise Nicker until the seventh inning of Monday's Catholic League A-B division softball final, and by then Nicker already had struck out 13 Blazer batters.

In other words, Ladywood was merely delaying the inevitable.

Nicker was in total command, tossing a two-hitter and leading state-ranked Regina to a 4-0 victory over the upstart Blazers at Dearborn's King Boring Field. Senior shortstop Jenny Littlefield had two hits and drove in two runs for the

The win improved Nicker's personal record to 18-2 and it raised Regina's overall mark to 33-7. Ladywood (19-13 overall) played four regular-season games against the Saddlelites, but the Blazers were never outmatched against Nicker until Monday.

THE WIN was the third straight Catholic League crown for Regina, a A semiiinalist last year.

"This one feels good," Regina coach Diane Laffey said. "It's hard to do three times in a row. Denise threw a no-hitter Friday night (in an A-B semifinal win over Southgate Aquinas), and I almost thought she was going to come up with another one tonight.

"She's throwing a better rise and curveball. She's worked hard."

'(Denise Nicker) threw hard today, the best I've seen her throw all year. She was on. When we finally started hitting it was too late. She is a Division I

— Kim Linenger Ladywood softball coach

Ladywood reached the final by beating Dearborn Divine Child, 6-5 in nine innings Saturday in the semifinal at Boring Field.

After being no-hit for six innings Monday, Ladywood third baseman Jenny Kennedy led off the seventh with a single but was forced out at second on a ground ball hit by Lisa Bielenda. With two outs and Bielenda on first, Kim Supron got the Blazers second hit, sending Bielenda to second with a single, but Nicker got Jomarie Skurtovich to pop out and end the Blazers' agony.

Nicker set the side down in order ings, and at one point fanned 10 of 11 batters in the middle innings.

"SHE THREW hard today, the best I've seen her throw all year," Ladywood coach Kim Linenger said. 'She was on. When we finally started hitting it was too late. She is a Division I pitcher."

Ladywood pitcher Shannon White probably deserved a better fate, as she surrendered only six hits, and gave up single runs in the second, third, fifth and sixth innings.

White retired the side in order in the bottom of the first but got in trouble in the second when Regina opened the scoring on a walk, stolen base and two force outs.

Littlefield, the leadoff batter, gave Regina a 2-0 lead in the third when Ladywood right fielder Julie Wilson misplayed Littlefield's fly ball into a solo home run. Mary Campana tripled with one out in the fourth and scored on a ground out for Regina's third run and Littlefield added an RBI single in the sixth with two outs.

"DEFENSIVELY, we broke down and we can't do that against a team like this," Linenger said. "All in all, I'm very pleased to come this far with this group."

The Saddlelites will meet the Public School League champion, yet to be determined, in the Operation Friendship Championship game, at 5 p.m. Tuesday, June 6, at Boring

Harrison's Dr. K sets record in 13-0 victory

Craig Murray keeps mowing 'em down from the mound, and the Farmington Hills Harrison pitching ace

The senior right-hander struck out 12 batters and established a school standard while guiding the Hawks to a 13-0 victory over visiting Livonia Stevenson.

Murray's latest strikeout total gives him 81 for the season and surpasses the mark of 79 set by Tim Hammer 15 years ago. In raising his record to 7-1, he also tossed a three-hitter, which included a pair of walks and one hit batsman.

"He's gained tremendous confidence as the year has gone on," Harrison coach John Herrington said, "and he's been able to get the fastball and curveball over the plate. He's always had good stuff, but now he's throwing it for strikes."

Not to be overlooked by Murray's record-setting performance was the fact Harrison clinched a tie for the Western Lakes Activities Association title with Plymouth Salem. Both teams end league play with 12-4

For the Hawks, who boast an overall record of 17-5, it's been a superb season that exceeded preseason expectations. Herrington was concerned about his team's hitting entering the campaign, but that hasn't been a

"THEY DEFINITELY have surprised me," Herrington said. "We've done some key hitting. Dan Justice is hitting close to .500, which is a surprise.

"But, basically, pitching has done it for us. Murray, (Jason) Lichtman, (Gary) Devine and (Steve) Miller have pitched well for us, and that's what wins high school ballgames for you. All have winning records, Jason Fox had two of Harrison's nine hits, and he scored three runs and drove in another. Mill Coleman, who also scored three runs, had one hit, one RBI and two stolen bases. Lichtman and Tim Horton contributed two-run singles.

Harrison's title-clinching victory in WLAA play came on the heels of its success in the Southfield Lathrup tournament Saturday. The Hawks defeated Southfield 7-4 and the host team 9-3 to win the champi-Lichtman was the star of the final game, pitching a complete game and collecting four hits in five trips. Lichtman, who scattered seven hits and struck out five, also knocked in three runs and scored two.

"He did a great job," Herrington said. "Devine hurt his ankle jogging Friday night, so Lichtman was all we had. I had to save Murray for Stevenson."

HARRISON CLUNG to a 4-3 lead until the fifth inning when Fox and Jon Schaeffer broke the game open with a pair of RBI singles.

Senior catcher Rob MacDonald, who was named most valuable player in the tournament, was 2-for-4 and had one RBI. Fox also had two hits and an RBI, and Justice added a pair of singles.

Lichtman was the winning pitcher in the first game, too. He relieved Miller, who left after two innings with Southfield ahead 3-2, and held the Blue Jays to four hits over the next four. He struck out four and didn't give Horton erased the 3-2 deficit and put the Hawks ahead to stay with a two-run single in the fourth.

MacDonald had three singles and a double while going 4-for-4, and he had one RBI and scored a run. Justice had a big game at the plate, going 3-for-4, scoring three runs, driving in two and stealing four bases. Horton chipped in with a 2-for-2 day.

Harrison plays host to Oak Park in a Class B predistrict game at 3:30 p.m. Friday. The winner advances to the district tournament at Madison Heights Madison on

NORTH FARMINGTON continued its late-season surge Monday and concluded WLAA play by pasting

The Raiders, who finish 8-8 in the league and stand 12-10 overall, play host to Farmington in a predistrict game at 4 p.m. Friday.

Chris White led the 14-hit attack that North used to take the fight out of the Chargers, going 4-for-4. The sophomore shortstop also scored two runs and batted in

T.J. Orman and Mike Collins added a pair of hits, Jerry Hakala smacked a two-run double and Joe Sturtz had three RBI on a bases-loaded walk, a sacrifice fly and a single

In addition, Collins chipped in two RBI, Orman knocked in one and scored another and Jack Herberholz crossed the place twice and had one RBI.

The Raiders made a winner of Andrew Margolick for the sixth time in seven decisions this season. He scattered seven hits and walked three, and he struck out

Marlins finish 2nd in Catholic League

What Farmington Hills Mercy needed, going into the last event of the Catholic League A-B girls track meet Tuesday at Madison Heights Bish-

Not only did the Marlins have to beat Dearborn Divine Child in the 1,600-meter relay. They had to have someone else beat the Falcons, too. It didn't happen. Mercy's foursome of Heather Sullivan, Noelle Gates, Megan Lombardi and Lauren Hood finished second in 4:18.37. Divine

Which gave the league title for Class A-B teams to the Falcons, who scored 100 points to Mercy's 103. Riverview Gabriel Richard was third (86%), followed by Redford Bishop Borgess and Detroit Benedictine (51 each) and Livonia Ladywood (35%).

"We were third last year, so we improved a place," said Mercy coach Gary Servais. "We have almost everybody coming back (next year) except (Charese) Sanders."

THE MARLINS had two champions. Sanders captured top honors in the shot put with a toss of 36 feet, 10 inches, and the team of Kathleen Gerigk, Sullivan, Judi Rosowski and Gates won the 3,200-meter relay in Mercy dominated the distance events. Gerigk was second in the 1,600 (5:31.9), with Carrie Walton third (5:38.7) and Heather Noll fourth (5:38.8). In the 3,200, Mercy runners placed third (Gerigk, 12:10), fourth (Noll, 12:18) and fifth (Walton, 12:25).

Hood took second for the Marlins in the 400 (1:02.2) and Sullivan was second in the 800 (2:32.0). Taking thirds were Jeanette Turner in the discus (104-0) and Gail Murie in the high jump (4-8).

Murie, Jamie Robinson, Mary Beth Strand and Kim Cook combined to place third in the 400 relay (54.2), and Murie, Sullivan, Hood and Cook teammed for a fourth in the 800 relay (1:54.4).

Mercy relinquishes regional track crown

Farmington Hills Mercy nearly repeated as regional champion in girls track and field, but the Marlins had to concede their title to Farmington High in the end. Mercy excelled in the middle- and long-distance runs, the relays and the weight events but came up five points shy in the final tally, 67-62. North Farmington was 12th in the 16-team meet at Southfield High School last Friday.

Farmington Hills Harrison had its best regional finish in the Class B meet at Dearborn, taking third place in the 18-team field.

'We had a real good shot at it," Mercy coach Gary Servais said. "It would have been disappointing if the kids didn't run well. But they did and we still had a shot at it going into the 1,600 relay."

The Marlins had two individual winners in Charese Sanders, who defended her regional title in the shot put, and Jeanette Turner, who stepped up from second place last year to win the discus.

MERCY'S HIGHLIGHT in the running events was the record-setting performance of the 3,200-meter relay team.

Kathleen Gerigk, Heather Sullivan and Carrie Walton were on the team that won the regional championship and set the school record of 9:58 at last year's regional, and the same three combined with Lauren Hood to win that event again

Gerigk, Sullivan and Hood also teamed with Megan Lombardi for fourth place in the 1,600 relay, and Mercy's Adanna Amanze, Yvonne Bostic, Nyasha Glass and Kim Cook took fifth place in the 400 relay.

Walton was an automatic qualifier for the Class A meet on Saturday, June 3, at Eastern Michigan University by finishing second in the 3,200 run. The top two in each event and anyone else who meets the qualifying standard go to state.

Mercy freshman Heather Noll in the 3,200 and Gerigk in the 1,600 also will compete at state despite finishing third. Both ran faster than the cutoff times in those events. Noll's 11:59.6 time was 11 seconds better than her previous best, and Gerigk was seven seconds faster at 5:20.9.

Helping to boost Mercy's point total with a trio of third-place finishes were Noll in the 1,600, Hood in the 400 and Sullivan in the 800.

Rocks boast regional champ

Roger Parry carried the banner for Plymouth-Canton Schools in the Class A track and field re-gional Saturday at Lake Penton.

The Plymouth Salem standout was crowned regional champion in the high jump after besting the field at a height of 6 feet, 4 inches. Parry also scored a point in the high hurdles, taking sixth place in 15.2.

"He's been a great kid to coach," Salem coach Gary Balconi said. "There are no events in track and field that he can't do.

"He's limited to four — the high jump, long jump and both hurdles — but there's another five or six events we could use Roger in if we could do

The Rocks scored 13 points and finished 11th in the 17-team regional. Plymouth Canton, with nine points, was 12th. The Chiefs were 10th in the girls regional at Lake Fenton and Salem 11th.

The Ann Arbor schools dominated both meets, with Pioneer and Huron finishing one-two in each. Pioneer scored 165 points in the girls regional and 113 in the boys, Huron 51 and 74, respectively.

PARRY WILL represent the Rocks in the Class A meet on Saturday, June 3, at Eastern Michigan University. The top two in each event and any others who meet the qualifying standard go to

Salem's remaining points in the boys meet came from Scott Stryker, who was fifth in the 1,600-meter run at 4:31.5, his best performance of

Steve Burlison just missed scoring and qualifying for state in the 200 dash. He ran 22.62 but a runner must have a 22.6 time to qualify.

Salem's Mike Albertson and Joe Pawluska also had their season-best times in the 400 run at 52.2 and 52.7, respectively.

Jeff Pryslak of Canton broke his own school record in the 300 hurdles, finishing fourth in 41.0. He set the previous mark of 42.2 last Wednesday in a dual meet with Livonia Franklin.

Brian Baseb, who was sixth in the 2.200 run.

Brian Beach, who was sixth in the 3,200 run, broke a 12-year-old school record in that event. He ran 9:49.3 to eclipse Bill Murphy's record of 9:51.2. Canton's Ron Staples just missed a record in the 400 dash. He was fourth and just one tenth of a second off the mark at 50.5.

Eric Miller and Mike Ream had season bests but finished out of the scoring. Miller went 23.4 in the 200 dash and Ream 4:33.3 in the 1,600 run.

CANTON'S HEATHER Spencer qualified for the Class A girls meet with a second-place finish in the high jump. Her best effort Saturday was 4 feet, 11 inches. Former Canton standout Angle Miller was a two-time state champion in that ovent in 1997-49.

The Chiefs secored the rest of their points in relays. Existy Bruger, Jeansiler Startle. Ein Gustels and Amy Van Bultier were fourth in the 1,488, and Lori Penland. Advisome Garrow. Extes Carrow and Amy Smith placed fifth in the 2,398. Casten posted times of 4:18.5 and 19:24.4, respectively.

The Chiefs had a number of season-best particular, including two by Van Bultier in the fermances, including two by Van Bultier in the first discovery. See ran 18.5 in the 100 meters and 48.5 in the 300. Alicia King's 18.3 time in the 100 dash was her best, and Smith and Cindy Spensard had presonal bests of 12:17.9 and 12:20.5 in the 3,300, respectively.

Salem's Jennifer Harris finished behind Spen-cer in the high jump with a third-place effort of 4-10 but missed qualifying for state. The cutoff height was 5 feet.

Teammate Kim Ploucha was fourth in the long jump at 15-14, and she also was a member of two relay teams that scored points for the Rocks.

Nikki Wygonik, Ploucha, Tracey Livermore and Andrea Kinnelly were fifth in the 400 relay ($2.7), and Amy Hobgood, Rima Zayed, Ploucha and Livermore finished sixth in the 1,600 relay

Harris just missed scoring in the 100 hurdles, taking seventh with a 16.0 time. The cutoff time was 15.7. In addition, Tammy Hickey was less than a second off the qualifying time in the 3,200 run. She finished in 12:05.3, but the target time

Blue Jays coast to regional title

By Keith Postler staff writer

Southfield boys track coach Tom Eschmann downplayed his team's ability to dominate other squads, but the Blue Jays did that and more in Friday's Class A Regional Track Championships held at Southfield High.

The Blue Jays grabbed first place honors in seven events and second place finishes in six others as they led the 15-team field with 141 total points. Westland John Glenn finished a distant second with 53% points.

After the meet, Eschmann explained his philosophy.

"Every time that we go up against a team, we respect that team as a roadblock to success," he said. "People think I am overreacting, but there is always the possibility of a poor outing. We have to run correctly, and if we don't, anybody can beat

The Blue Jays ran a nearly flawless meet on the first leg in defense of their Class A state championship. They placed in 12 of the 16 events and the competition never seriously challenged them. The meet simply belonged to Southfield.

Jeff Reynolds gave the Blue Jays their first victory in the 110-meter dash, pacing the field with a time of 10.5 seconds. Teammate Bobby Johnson finished second at 10.8 and Lawrence Reynolds Southfield's other first place finishers were Cassady Wright in the 110 high hurdles, 14.3; Jeff Gibson with 38.1 in the 300 intermediate hurdles; and Reynolds in the 200 with a time of 21.8.

THE BLUE JAYS also had a number of second place finishers: Marvin Reynolds in the 110 hurdles, 14.3; Wright in the 400, 50.5; James Robinson, 1:58.2 in the 800; and Ricky Duncan in the high jump with a leap of 6-6.

Southfield closed the meet with three consecutive relay victories.

The Blue Jay's relay team of Johnson, Wright, Jeff Gibson and Marvin Reynolds placed first in the 800 relay, 1:29.2; Johnson, Chris Porter, Jeff Reynolds and Marvin Reynolds' 42.4 took first in the 400 relay; and Jeff Reynolds, James Robinson, Gibson and Wright clipped the competition in the 1600 relay in 3:19.1.

Richard Gordon, whose John Glenn Rockets finished second to Southfield, had only words of praise for the Blue Jays.

"Southfield has just one awesome team," he said. "They're just too tough to catch."

The Rockets' managed to earn two first place awards. Carl Lowe's 1:58.2 was tops in the 800 and the Westland team of Joe Zawol, David Ryan, Jim Zurawski and Lowe beat the competition in the 3,200 relay with a time of 8:11.9.

FERLIN WHITLOW set a new John Glenn record with a time of 38.7 in the 300 intermediate hurdles; Steve Wiseley was third in the 400 at 50.7 while Randy Seach was sixth, 53.0; and Greg Anderson's leap of 6-2 earned fourth place in the high jump.

"I'm extremely pleased with my team," Gordon said. "It was just a great meet for the Rockets."
Said Wayne Memorial coach Joe Grasley, "I, thought that the kids we had compete did the best they could. We had some real good individual perplace for Wayne Memorial in the shot put, while his effort of 146-10 grabbed third in the shot put.

Southfield will defend its Southeastern Michigan Association title in Tuesday's SMA championships at Southfield, then travel to Groves Friday for the Oakland County Championships.

Chiefs miss trip to state finals

Plymouth Caston and Plymouth Salam might be catching up to the Assa Arbor schools in beyo teach, but again Pleaser and Bluvon showed their supremacy of last weekend's Class A regional.

Pleaser was the regional with 25 points and fluron phined section with 17, both carning trips to the state meet on Saturday, June 3, in Midland.

Canton finished third with 15 points, and Salam was fourth, collecting 14.

But had Canton's No. 4 singles player, Chris Harper, won his final-round match and Salam's No. 2 singles player, Ryan Bannan, and No. 1 doubles team of Matt Lore and Scott Hobbs won their final-round tilts, Canton and Salam would have final-round tilts, Canton and Salem would have tied Huron for second, sending the triumvirate to So much for thinking about what could have

"WHAT THEY have are a lot of kids who play year round at private clubs," Canton coach Jim Hayes said. "Our kids pretty much play in the season and not much in the off-season.

'It would help for us to play more in private clubs in the winter but it costs money. And kids have to be kids, anyway. It's important to be a kid and enjoy high school."

Despite the disappointment of failing to qualify for the state meet, Canton managed to send all of its singles players and doubles teams at to the semifinal round.

Chris Harper was Canton's only representative in the finals, losing Saturday morning, 5-7, 2-6. Harper defeated Salem's Chris Marschak 6-7, 6-

0, 7-5 in the semifinals late Friday, and he may have been too fatigued to win Saturday, Hayes

"He played a pretty good final match," Hayes said. "The match the night before took its toll. His was the last match off the courts Friday evening and to come back Saturday morning is a little tough.

"We did a real good job and played as well as we could. We had a couple close matches. If the hall goes a little this way or that way, we might

NO. 1 PLAYER Jim Gallagher, who lost only three times during the regular season, was seeded third and lost to Pioneer's John Ligon in the semi-final round, 3-6, 1-6. No. 2 Dan Orlandi lost to Pioneer's Mike Noid 0-6, 4-6 and No. 3 Brian Schmidt failed in his attempt to win a semifinal match, losing to Kyle Pollen, 3-6, 2-4. Canton's doubles outfits of No. 1 Tony Spagnoli and Rod Jesena, No. 2 Jeff Binder and Scott Jones and No. 3 Brad Flowers and Jeff Hines all lost

Bannan lost his final match, 1-6, 3-6 and Lore and Hobbs lost their final match 0-6, 2-6.

Wade Garard, Salem's No. 3 singles player, reached the semifinals before losing and so did the No. 3 doubles tandem of Jeff Elliott and K.C.

"I think the guys had an excellent year as far as tennis goes," Salem coach Judy Braun said. "Even if we didn't win all the major titles we wanted to, all the guys got medals at one time or another

CC dominates S'craft regional

By Brad Emons staff writer

Redford Catholic Central repeated Saturday as Class A regional boys tennis champs and did it in convincing style.

The young Shamrocks could not repeat their total domination of last vear's meet when they won all seven flights, but they still won six championships, scoring 26 out of a possible 28 points to earn a return trip to the state finals, June 2-3 in Midland.

Joining CC at the state meet will be second place finisher Livonia Stevenson, which scored 18 points. North Farmington and Farmington High settled for third and fourth, respectively. See statistical summa-

Although ranked in the top 10 all season long, CC coach Frank Garlicki knows his team is a longshot for the 'A' team crown.

"It's going to be between Okernos and (Birmingham) Brother Rice, but I tend to favor Okemos because they have the top doubles team in the state and they have depth," said Garlicki, whose team is making its ninth straight appearance. "I changed our lineup twice this season, and I feel good about our top three singles and the top two doubles teams. They've been coming along.

"WE'RE RANKED SIXTH right now, and I think we'll end up higher. My guess is fourth."

The Shamrocks miss No. 1 singles champion Steve Campbell, who graduated and now plays for Rice University, but Tony Mikulec has come on and been a force of late.

Mikulec, a senior, had a couple of battles on his hands in both the semifinals and finals. He was also coming off a bout of bronchitis. He handed Livonia Stevenson's

Roland Wolff, the Hungarian native, only his second loss of the season, 7breaker, 9-7 and the second-set tiebreaker, 11-9.

In the finals, Mikulec lost the first set to the speedy left-hander LaMarr Gray of Southfield, 6-7, but rallied to win the final two sets, 7-5 and 6-2. (By finishing second, Peters also qualified individually for the state

"I played him (Gray) a year or two ago and I just tried to move him from corner to corner, hitting mostly to his backand," said Mikulec, who is considering Yale and Stanford. "In my semifinal match, he (Wolff) was tough. But I went to the prom the night before and it's tough play un-ter those conditions. I had only 45 minutes of sleep."

MIKULEC HAS WON his last five matches, including a victory in the Catholic League finals over Scott Micus of Rice.

"I'd say Tony will be seeded in the top six at the state (meet)," Garlicki said. "He started off this season slowly and had some bad losses, but he's beaten some good players in-cluding Sean Bryne (of Okemos) twice. He's also split with Gus Giltner of East Lansing."

The Shamrocks also won Nos. 2 and 3 singles.

CC's Marko Haberkovic handed North Farmington's Tim McMinn only his second loss in 18 matches, 6-0, 6-0, for the No. 2 crown; while sophomore Scott Hazlett took out Stevenson senior Joel Soper in straight sets at No. 3.

But the meet's big upset occurred at No. 4 singles where Farmington's Ed MacDonald took the tile with a three-set victory over Joel Emrich of Stevenson. In the semifinals, Mac-Donald ousted CC's William Shade, the top seed, 6-4, 6-4.

Stevenson coach George Croll, whose team will be making their third trip to the state meet in eight years, was pleased with his team's performance, particularly the play of Emrich, who is 17-6 overall.

"MacDONALD IS A tough kid, he had a good match with Joel," said Croll. "Joel's record is not as impressive as some of the other kids because he played up most of the year, but his record at No. 4 is not

In doubles, CC's Shawn Matthews son's Alan Paterson and Jeff Wiegel in the No. 1 flight. The No. 2 title went to CC's John Sheridan and Paul Thieme, who ousted Farmington's Mark Vellucci and Mark Mazey.

At No. 3, freshman substitute Chris Mattson teamed up with Jason Tores to give CC a 7-5, 6-2 triumph over Stevenson's Bob Holycross and Scott Ceru.

Hawks qualify in 'B'

Farmington Hills Harrison boys tennis coach Bernie Goldstein knows the itiner

On Friday, he'll leave before dawn from the Harrison parking lot and, with luck, he and his team will arrive in Holland by 8:30 a.m. - in time for the start of

The Hawks earned a berth in the finals by finishing second with 17 points at last weekend's Class B regional behind host and champion Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook

Harrison's regional performance excites Goldstein, but he isn't sure how the Hawks will respond Friday, with five key players attending Harrison's prom the

Prom fell on the night before last year's state meet, so at least Goldstein knows

"WE'LL HAVE to leave at five in the morning, and those five guys (Todd Herremans, Jamie Ryke, Sean Haines, Jason Rosenfeld and Paul Cornille) will come right to school in tuxes, just lay down in my car and sleep," Goldstein said. "The same thing happened last year, and we did well in the first round because our adrenalin was flowing. By the second round, we were ready to fall down." Cranbrook showed why it is Class B's No. 1-ranked team, scoring final-round

vins over Harrison players in the No. 1 and 4 singles play and all the doubles

Cranbrook's No. 1 player, Chuck Foster took care of Herremans in the final of the regional, 6-3, 6-0. At No. 4, Greg Artz, also of Cranbrook, disposed of Haines, 6-Goldstein's doubles groups gave Cranbrook all it could handle, especially at No.

2 where Brad Aldrich and Mike Saputo battled Chris Schults and Mike Eugenio Dan Lyne and Amaar Malik won the No. 1 title for Cranbrook, defeating Rosenfeld and Chris Sarsfield, 6-3, 6-1. The No. 3 title went to Dave Giroux and Eddie Chung, 6-0, 6-0 winners over Paul Cornille and Pat Maitrepierce "It was not that difficult a regional, but they played well," Goldstein said. "We played very well in the finals against Cranbrook, even though we got beat. They are the best in Class B.

"The scores don't reflect it, but we'll do well at the state. I only have one problem - the senior prom.

Ah, yes. Get your sleep, boys.

Demanding attitude helps Haeger succeed

"I started the season great, and I ended (the regular season) pretty well, but I wasn't happy with the middle," said Haeger, a Livonia native and Redford Catholic Central wrong," he added.

"I was doing a lot of things mechanically wrong," he added.

Whatever he might have been doing wrong, Haeger straightened out quickly enough to provide U-M with the game-winning RBI in probably the team's most important game of the season.

Going into the Big Ten tournament, the Wolverines knew a victory in their opening game would just about wrap up an NCAA berth. A loss and they might finish fourth in the double-elimination tourney, and that HARGER MADE sure U-M would make the NCAAs by blasting a two-run homer for his team's first runs in a 7-1 rout of Ohio State last Thursday. The Welverines reached the final round of the tournament but lost to Illinois.

U-M is in Fresno, Calif., in the West II Region and will face Pepperdine in their opener at 3:30 p.m. (PDT) Friday. Wichita State is the region's No. 1 seed; host Fresno State is second, and U-M is third. Pepperdine is fourth, Notre Dame is fifth and Portland is sixth.

"I think we have a good chance," said Haeger. "We're not in the most difficult region. There are two teams with outstanding power in Wichita State and Fresno State, but neither has great pitching. If we play to our potential we can win this thing."

Although the Welverines, who have a 4614 record, don't have entstanding sluggers, they do have balance. The pitching is calld, the defense good and the hitting more than adequate.

Haeger is an example in all three categories. A first baseman, he is outstanding defensively. He set the Big Ten record for putouts lost year, and has committed in a season last year, and has committed just two errors this season for a .906 fielding

HIS 34 RBI was fourth best on the team, and he scored 41 runs. His performance was good enough for him to make third team All-

All this from a guy who was signed out of CC as a pitcher. There's no doubt he has the ability to throw - he pitched for U-M's entry in the Adray League last summer. U-M coach Bud Middaugh considered using him on the mound this year, but a selld group of

on the mound this year, the a treat graph freshmen made the move unnecessary.

"Overall, I just don't have the control to pitch in college," said Hanger. "I can throw hard, I just don't have good control."

Once again, till critic. There's more.

"I would have liked to but over .350 this year and hit double figures in home runs. My slump killed that."

And this, on his Big Ten tournament per-formance (.231, one homer, two RBI): "I was upset with that. I had a couple of good pitches to hit, but I'm basically a first-hall, fastball hitter. Both Ohio State and Iowa threw me sliders or breaking balls away."

Haeger is already a success at one of the top baseball schools in the country - even if he doesn't see it that way.

"He'll be a super ballplayer for us," Bogataj said. "I know he had a couple out-of-state schools, like Wis-consin-Stout talking to him with nothing firm. He wants to come in and prove something. He'll play offd, small forward for us. I like guard, small torward and the idea he's a hard-nosed, tough kid who can shoot the three and bang the Said Elliott: "Coach Bogataj's one of the main reasons I chose Schoolcraft. Other colleges didn't seem to care much about me and and what I plan to do in the future. I figure I ed some time to work on ball handling (while I'm at Schoolcraft),

"Extra! Extra! Read All About It!"

It really weathers the elements!

Water beads right off Wolmanized EXTRA Weather-Resistant Lumber because it's got something "extra" — It's pressure treated with a special water repellent to prevent moisture penetration from rein and snow. All wood swells and expands when it absorbs moisture. As it dries, it releases moisture and shrinks. Constant expansion and contraction causes grain raising, checking, splintering and warping. Spray or brush-on water sealers can't repol water like Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber — in laboratory tests Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber shows almost two-thirds more moisture resistance than pressure-treated lumber protected with a leading water sealer. Of course, this fantastic lumber is also pressure treated with chemicals for lifelong protection against termities, rot and decay. Don't settle for ordinary treated humber. Insist on Wolmanized EXTRA for your 2x4, 2x8 & 5/4x8 decking.

Head by Gordon Newton still has recognizable features. Later in the chronology of the heads, the features become more distorted or disappear altogether.

Heads show Newton's skill

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

Detroiter Gordon Newton's portraits, "Love, Life, Geometric Heritage," at Susanne Hilberry Gallery through June 10, leave strange afterimages.

They may resurface and come clearly into view in a restless moment in the middle of the night, over coffee the next morning or while talking to a friend on a street corner.

The staying power of these works is something to be reckoned with and certainly not anticipated when one walks into the gallery and sees 67 heads, each about 17-by-14 inches, in a single row along the gallery walls.

Hilberry put these works on paper in chronological order and that adds interest as well. The faces go from more to less complex works of art as the artist refines and simplifies his approach. Newton works with two fundamental geometric shapes circle/oval for face and cylinder for the neck. He has used a variety of media, from oil, pastel, car paint to collage, and covered his completed work with many layers of polyurethane varnish and resin to achieve a glossy, well-sealed finish suggesting that of an old oil painting. Because of the finish, these works can be treated almost like oil paintings, but Hilberry said the perfect style of frame has yet to be found.

Newton's quick, bold strokes of black and colors, his suggestions of features, rather than careful delineation, and his slashing style, give the works a compelling immediacy— as if each had just been done a moment before in a fit of anger, excitement or wild inspiration.

In the progression, one eye and eventually the other fall away, an ear grows larger and necks more cylindrical.

To his credit, Newton has an appreciation for a lot of great artists — Braque, Roualt and Dubuffet come to mind. But, upon study, and these definitely call for that, the works and their creator steadily take on a stronger and stronger individual spirit.

Newton studied at the then-Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts and Wayne State University. He was born in Detroit in 1948 and still lives there

His Marine Light Studies are on display at Joy Emery Gallery of Grosse Pointe through Saturday. This kind of joint showing between two widely respected commercial galleries may not be unique, but it is a bit unusual and is done in a warm spirit of cooperation.

Susanne Hilberry Gallery, 555 S. Woodward, Birmingham is open 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday.

Focusing on faces

By James Radebaugh staff writer

Royal Oak-bred photographer Nicholas Nixon issued a challenge of intimacy to an audience that came to hear him speak at the Detroit Institute of Arts last week.

"I'm not the kind of artist who gives speeches." the 42-year-old photographer said during a slide show of his work, his arms wrapped around the lectern in a near bear hug. "So if you want to know anything, you'll have to ask questions."

Fortunately, the audience wasn't shy, and Nixon, a youthful man with a neatly trimmed beard and wire-framed glasses, was able to address inquiries about almost all aspects, from the technical to the ethical, of a career that began in 1969 when he left the University of Michigan with a degree in English literature.

What emerged was an improvised explanation of an evolving career.

Parting ways with most other photographers in the early 1970s, Nixon adopted a bulky large-view camera that allowed him to shoot 8- by 10-inch film. Such film, huge compared to conventional 36 millimeter film, allows for greater clarity in printing. For his subjects, Nixon chose buildings and landscapes.

Over the years, Nixon remained loyal to the bulky camera and to black and white film, which he insists is more engaging than color. What has changed is his subjects. His later photographs are almost exclusively of people, and more recently, of people's faces.

"The work took me there," said Nixon, who now teaches at the Massachusetts College of Art in

The shift began in the late 1970s with a series of photographs he took of people on their front porches. He found his subjects in both rural and urban settings and captured them in the act of living, unposed.

"I'm a recognizer, not an inventor," he said as he operated the slide projector.

His approach to human subjects became more intimate with a later series of photographs he took in a Massachusetts nursing home where he has done volunteer work. In one photograph, an elderly man casts a woeful look at the camera.

Nixon said the man was telling him "with his eyes" that he would die soon.

The photographer continued his exploration of people facing imminent death with a series on people with AIDS. He photographed several AIDS patients from shortly after their diagnosis right up to within hours of their deaths.

In the process he came to know his subjects well and he easily recounted details of each one's circumstances. The only information he didn't volunteer was how each subject was infected. He told the audience to ask him if they wanted to know. And with a dark-eyed woman's face on the screen, the audience did ask, and he answered bluntly.

luntly.
"She had a drug-using boyfriend who was also a liar."

Weary of such emotional work, Nixon said his next project will involve attaching a camera to a bicycle that he will ride everywhere he goes for a couple of weeks. He said he doesn't know what will come of it, but that he thinks it will be fun.

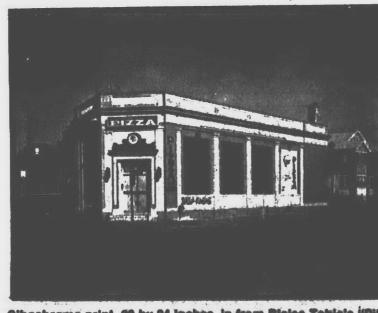

Nixon's photographs will be on display at the Detroit Institute of Arts through July 2. The museum is open from 9:30 a.m to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Artists interpret the urban experience

"Urbanology" is the theme of a multiple site, multi-media exhibit of juried works by artists from across the country taking place this month and next in the Detroit area. All of the 98 artists from the Midwest, California, New York and Canada address urban issues and experiences.

The exhibition will be documented in a 112-page catalog with 43 color and 40 black-and-white illustrations, essays and exhibitor's data. Urbanology will be the subject of a symposium scheduled for June 15-17. For information, call Rose E. DeSloover or Doug Alkenhead, co-directors, 862-8000.

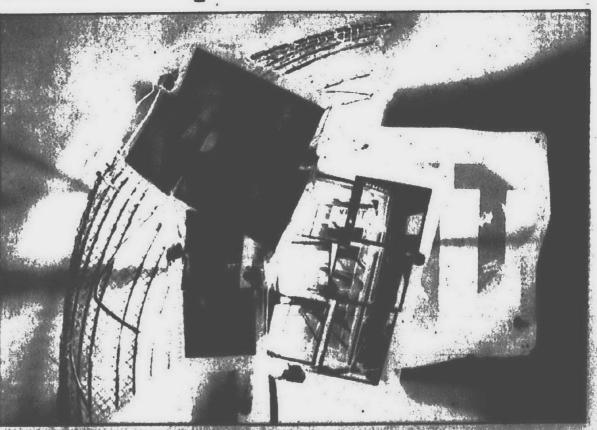

The locations are: Detroit Artists Market, 1452 Randolph, Detroit; Detroit Focus Gallery, 743 Beaubien, Detroit; Engine Co. 84, 1027 18th/Lafayette, Detroit; Front Room Gallery, 47 E. carefully placed a stack of folded towels. Against the other side, I leaned a storm window. Building a wall with whatever's handy (junk in the basement), Adam and I labored for hours. "Here, Dad," Adam chirped, as he handed some mitteeses over the same and states.

hauled some suitcases over to me. Our wall of sundries stretched from the furnace, around the water heater and chimney, over to the laundry tubs. What was all this for? To catch Adam's gerbils.

Every once in a while the little hairballs would break out of their habitrail. Much to our surprise, they would always return within an hour or two. But this time they just turned rogue. The two-ounce rebels laid claim to the laundry room and my work room.

After chasing "Thumper" for approximately an hour, he finally came out with his paws up and surrendered; we threw him in the slammer. But "Bumper," now there's one tough gerbil "dude." Our makeshift walls were no problem to this spring-loaded rodent. He even landed on my shoe and then bounded away before I could grab him. We still haven't caught him. But Adam and I are flexible. We're trying new plans every day.

SOMETIMES IN art, our plans for excellence go awry just like the wall Adam and I built. But flexibility is really just creativity. When things don't go right, an experienced artist usually, with little hesitation, just tries something else.

Often that altered route turns out to be a successful journey that will someday be part of a future calculated procedure. One way to allow for a change is to work on a large piece of paper. Many times students are frustrated as their picture drifts too close to one side, top or bottom. If you're working on just a layout, then simply tape on another piece of paper. There is something threatenng, however, about the edge of a piece of paper. We artists tend to distort whatever we are drawing just to keep the whole image on the paper. Always work on large paper so your drawing can grow or so (if you need to) you'can add more to the nicture later.

ANOTHER WAY to stay flexible is not to limit yourself to the model.

If your rendering varies from the model, ask yourself, "But does it really matter?" If it varies in color, size or detail, it may not be as important as if it varies in structure, proportion or perspective. Of course, certain subjects are much more critical than others. Landscape and still life are usually less restrictive and

When rendering animals, you enter a more critical stage as you are restricted by the physical require-ments of the animal. At the top of the critical list is rendering people. If your model has eyes that slant downward and you (the artist) slant the eyes upward, then a features likeness has been sacrificed. And everyone's subvocal critique will be, "Something in the eyes is just not more open to creative expression.

So be especially careful in the subject that you pick. One less restric-tive way to draw humans is not to try for likeness, just try for human proportions. Then as an occasional likeness happens, you will gain confidence in your ability.
