Expenses cited in Graper resignation

By Doug Funke staff writer

The concerns among some city commissioners over business entertainment expenses reported by city manager Henry Graper was the catalyst that led to Graper's July 3 resignation, according to William Graham, city finance director.

Mayor Karl Gansler II and Graper have attributed the resignation to differences in management techniques. Both have said the parting was amicable.

Graper had requested $23,000 for his miscellaneous account - which includes entertainment expenses for city business - for the current budget year, which began July 1, but the commission reduced that to $13,000, Graham

Last year, the commission appropriated $16,000.

There would be meetings Graper would have with business people in the community. business people outside of the community, department heads - anyone he would take to lunch on city business or take to dinner on city business," Graham said of the expenses.

Graper's attorney, Stephen Boak, issued a statement saying: "Mr. Graper flatly denies any allegations of wrongdoing or impropriety. In order to protect his good name and assure the citizens of Plymouth that the rumors are unfounded, Mr. Graper welcomes a full and fair investigation of all allegations, if one is deemed necessary by the city commission following the audit.

The statement noted that the annual city audit is being conducted, and it added: "He (Graper) is confident that the audit will reveal just what it has in the prior nine yearsno evidence of wrongdoing or improprieties."

FOR THE 11-month period from July 1988 through May 1989, city administrators, including Graper and other department heads, ran up a tab of $18,609 at the Mayflower Hotel, Plymouth Landing and Hillside Inn, Graham

Nearly $6,381 of that total was to cater an appreciation party for members of the city's various boards and commissions and $280 was for a dinner for auxiliary city police, Graham

Also, not all of those expenses were Graper's alone, Graham said.

"As far as his personal expenses, I haven't run a total yet," Graham said. "There's a lot of innuendos being made, a lot of flack out there. I'm not sure what's going to come of it.

Typical of charge slips bearing Graper's name or log notations made by Graper were:

 An expense of $172.68 at the Plymouth Landing Feb. 14 for a meeting in which trash disposal was discussed

• An expense of $131.84 at the Mayflower Hotel Jan. 19 for a luncheon meeting on the budget with department heads.

• An expense of $29.75 at the Mayflower Hotel Nov. 1 to meet with Gansler and Dennis Bila, mayor pro-tem, on the audit.

• An expense of $87.55 at the Plymouth Landing Oct. 13 to discuss the monument to Vietnam and Korean war veterans.

On any given day, the possibility exists that a train traveling through the Plymouth-Canton area carrying chemicals like propane could derail.

'If it occurred say at Main and the railroad and resulted in a total explosion, it would probably level most of the city of Plymouth. And propane is no exotic chemical," said Charles VanVleck, Plymouth Township deputy emergency preparedness director.

Every week, a Dow Chemical train some refer to as "the death train" travels through this area transporting about 60 cars of chemicals from Texas to Midland.

The train, in operation for more than 10 years, has traveled more than 1.5 million miles. It's experienced three incidents, including one last spring when a train carrying toxic flammable butylene oxide derailed in Highland due to mechanical failure. There have been no major accidents, according to Dow.

In an effort to showcase their operations and explain how safety is ensured, Dow and CSX Transportation hosted a media tour Tuesday.

Hazard on the rails?

Wearing hard hats and goggles, reporters and photographers were bused from Dow headquarters past a sign reading, "Today is Day 21 with-out a serious injury" to sanitation and unloading facilities.

They were shown safety features including relief valves intended to prevent explosions and implosions; head shields, puncture-resistant metal plates at the rear of some hoppers and tank cars; double-shelf couplers that keep cars together in case of derailment; and fiberglass insulation within tanks.

The tour included a ride on the train to Saginaw and Flint from Mid-

Sandra Damesworth, the Michigan spokeswoman for Catholics for a Free Choice, discusses the abortion issue in her Plym-

Catholic group seeking free choice for abortion

staff writer

There's no reason that Catholics who believe abortion is a personal matter, not a governmental matter, need to hide, says Plymouth's Sandra Damesworth, Michigan spokeswornan for Catholics for a Free Choice.

Catholics for a Free Choice is a 16-year-old national educational organization that supports the right to legal reproductive health care, especially family planning and abortion.

Despite the church's official antiabortion stance, polls show that many Catholics — like many in the rest of the U.S. population — support the right to legal abortion and believe it can be a moral option, said Damesworth.

"Eighty-one percent of Catholics agree with the statement, 'Abortion is a private decision mainly up to the woman and her doctor," she said.

Damesworth and Catholics for a Free Choice, based in Washington, D.C., plan to take action in the wake of the Supreme Court's recent decision giving states more power to regulate abortion.

"Because of the Supreme Court decision, we're going to organize much more fervently to let legislators and other Catholics know that we're here," said Damesworth. It disturbs Damesworth that Catholics for a Free Choice finds itself at odds with Catholic leaders.

"It is appalling that a church which claims to be committed to social justice would withdraw from women the ability to make decisions about their lives," said Damesworth, an unemployment analyst with the state of Michigan.

"We stand with pro-choice Catholic legislators who will now be fac-

The team also offers free training to local fire departments and police. Crews from the Dow team are based in Midland, California, Louisiana, Texas and Sarnia, Ontario.

We live in a chemical society. People are more aware now of what's going through their communities," Johnson said.

Dow's units are equipped with protective suits, respiratory gear, gasketing to repair rail cars and other devices needed to respond to derail-ments and chimical incidents in-volving trucking and other modes of transportation. Despite the safety measures taken by the rail and chemical industries, more is needed legislators say.

'Hopefully, more will come out of the closet and start speaking out publicly," she said.

In Mexico, said Damesworth, 70 percent of hospital beds are occupied by women who've had botched abortions. In China, women have their stomachs beaten to induce abortion, she added.

"It's been 16 years since we've had to deal with (illegal abortion). People really don't know what they're bringing onto themselves because it's been so long since we've seen it.

Young women in this country haven't had the experience of knowing death from a coat hanger," added Damesworth.

"It angers me we can't trust a woman to make a decision that will affect herself and her family. The thought that we'd make criminals out of women is unbelievable."

The church "has never recognized the social injustice of having children you can't feed," she said. "No one's talking about teens or rape victims. The church has no feeling for what's going to happen to children after they're born, which is why we're concerned about sex education for teens, family planning, birth conChurch. Fired Canton officer wants job back

By Diene Gale staff writer

A Canton undercover drug anforcement officer, fired for alleged drug use on and off duty, is fighting his termination.

Kurt Johnston, who worked as an undercover officer in the Wayne County Narcotics Unit based in Canton, is seeking reinstatement through arbitration. He is a member of the Police Officer's Association of Michigan, and the union contract with the township allows for an arbitration hearing when an officer is fired.

Johnston was fired last month for alleged drug use, according to a termination letter sent to Johnston by Public Safety Director John-Santomauro. That letter recapped an internal investigation conducted by Canton police.

The initial investigation was conducted by the Michigan State Police for the "integrity of the investigation," Santomauro said.

State police sought a warrant, but the Wayne County Prosecutor's office rejected the request.

The internal investigation alleged Johnston "illegally removed an amount of controlled substances from the Western Wayne County Narcotic's Unit property room."

The prosecutor's office said there wasn't enough evidence to link Johnston with the drug loss.

Your report indicates a number of people could have had access to the evidence room," according to a letter signed by Patrick J. Foley, Wayne County organized crime task force director.

SANTOMAURO SAID the investigation alleged that Johnston removed cocaine, Valium and Tylenol 4 from the enforcement team's property room "for his own use."

Repeated attempts by the Observer to contact Johnston were unsuccessful. Canton police who were helping the Observer contact John-swered by a woman, who said Johnston is out of town and couldn't be reached.

William Birdseye, a police union official, confirmed that the union is working on Johnston's case. He said the information on which the appeal of the firing will be based is not yet complete. He would not comment further on the case.

According to the letter, the "source of supply was small quanti-ties he would come across as a result of undercover assignments."

Officer Johnston denied addiction. illegal purchases or theft from the narcotics property room, the letter

Johnston was on temporary assignment with the drug unit, which is supported with manpower and money by numerous western suburban departments, including Plymouth. His assignment with the unit would have been completed in August.

AS A RESULT of the allegations against Johnston, Canton will now require officers to take drug tests before joining the unit, conduct random testing of its officers assigned to the unit and test officers after completing the assignment. Detroit could begin random drug tests of police officers after a federal judge ruled Monday testing was legal. The decision was based on a March U.S. Supreme Court ruling concerning customs employees.

The Johnston case began to unfold when the 11-year veteran agreed to a drug test that was initiated when another officer in the drug enforcement unit reported that two prescription pills were missing.

A "new spirit of cooperation" exists between Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara and Sheriff Robert Ficano, though both men still await the outcome of a Michigan Appeals Court ruling on control of the county jail.

The county executive and sheriff have reached agreement on a number of key issues, including jail administration, overtime and park patrol, both sides confirmed.

While an Appeals Court ruling could take control of the jail from Ficano and give it to McNamara as a temporary receiver, both sides said they would continue to work together regardless of the court's rul-

In related news, both sides announced the jail budget deficit for this fiscal year would be $400,000 or less, an improvement from the $2 million debt posted last year.

Health program is called success

Wayne County's new indigent health care program is a success, Senate Majority leader John Engler said, but reforming the county's health care program was a Republi-

"That was an initiative that we simply insisted upon," Engler said, recalling the days in late 1987 when the county sought state help to balance its budget. "The reason we were so interested is we'd gotten involved with (William) Lucas when he was the county executive. But he could never implement the program because Gov. Blanchard wouldn't al-

Abortion non-issue by '90 race: Engler

By Philip A. Sherman staff writer

Contrary to political leaders, prolife and pro-choice advocates nationwide, state Sen. John Engler said he does not believe abortion will be an issue in the 1990 Michigan governor's race.

Engler, the Republican Senate majority leader from Mount Pleasant, was in the metro area Tuesday as part of his "exploratory" campaign to run for governor against incumbent Democrat James Blanc-

Besides the abortion issue, Engler also said he believed enough money is in the general fund to improve education statewide without a tax increase, and said he opposes both proposals on the November ballot to increase the sales tax by one-half cent or by 2 cents.

HE ALSO SAID he thinks school equity and quality issues "are both able to be solved within the current resources of the state." Equity is defined as dollars spent per pupil per district; some districts' spending is disproportionate, which affects qual-

"Any decision we make (on abortion) or any failure to act is immediately appealable to the general population and that's where the decision is going to be fought out," Engler offered as fils rationale for why the issue won't play a major part in the governor's race.

He said he would support a bill restoring parental consent, which is states a minor may seek and receive an abortion without first seeking taxes."

parental or judicial approval.
"In effect what the Supreme Court's done with the Missouri decision is really tossed it in the laps of all Michigan voters," Engler said in reference to Webster vs. Reproductive Health Services.

"We're not in the position where the Michigan Legislature can make a final decision.'

However, Engler said he probably would assign an abortion-reform bill drafted by Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, to the Human Resources Committee chaired by Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, one of the state's best-known abortion op-

Welborn's bill parallels Missouri's regulations on how and when a woman may receive an abortion. Engler's decision on which committee would receive the bill was due yesterday.

ON EDUCATION, Engler said he believes there is a need to rebuild education's share of the general fund budget, but he doesn't think that money should come from the November ballot proposals.

Michigan's education dollars come from three sources: the school aid fund, which basically is sales tax; the lottery; and the general fund.

"I think they (the proposals) both represent, particularly A, a $400 million tax increase with not even a dollar's worth of property tax re-lief," Engler said. "They're wrongly conceived. They suggest that the only way we can help education is by opposite the law in effect today that raising taxes and they avoid the question of new priorities, not new

Graper's legacy Let's hope it's not tarnished

HEN CITY COMMISSIONERS were asked what kind of city manager they would like to replace departing Henry Graper, they basically said they would like somebody like the former manager.

We're not certain how to interpret the commissioners comments. Are they just being nice to a departing city manager or are they sincere?

We can understand why they would like somebody like Graper. The list of his accomplishments is impressive. During his nearly 10 years on the job, the city put together the 35th District Court building, a new city DPW building, the central parking deck, the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular, The Gathering, the Mayflower II and McAuley Health Center.

Just getting something like the ice sculpture event going would have been a feather in the cap of many city managers.

But as in most communities, just like with a Broadway play, there's a certain run. After a period of time it looks like the same old song and dance to commissioners and others.

And that's when a savvy city manager knows that it's time to move on.

It's just too bad that Graper is moving on under partly cloudy skies caused by charges that he was responsible for spending too much city money on conferences and meetings at local restau-

CHARGES like that always bring up the question: How much is too much? Business is often done at breakfasts, lunches and dinners. Taxpayers may not like it, but it's a fact of life in the business world.

It's up to the commission to put a handle on such expenses, and if there was too much spent on entertainment, the city commission has to share part of the blame.

The formal reason given for Graper's resignation was a difference in management techniques with some city commissioners. That sounds like one of those vague euphemisms that covers plenty of ground. We guess it could cover the expense

But as in most communities, just like with a Broadway play, there's a certain run. After a period of time it looks like the same old song and dance to commissioners and others.

However, we've heard that Graper's management style has left some people miffed. Graper seems to be the kind of person who values content over style. He may have ruffled a few feathers, but he has accomplished something.

DURING AN era when cities were taking it on the chin, losing businesses and projects to other municipalities, Graper managed to help keep Plymouth a vibrant city. We applaud what he has

He was the right person at the right time for Plymouth. His ability to put bricks and mortar together was what Plymouth needed.

But what about the future?

Things change and the city commission should try taking a look at what the city will be like in the next five to 10 years. Before hiring a city manager, we'd suggest that the commission first take a look at what the city will need, and then find a city manager whose skills match the city's

That person may not be another Graper, but maybe then it isn't a time for a bricks and mor-

We wish Graper well in his future endeavors. For his sake, we hope that the allegations that too much was spent on meals are nothing more than just charges.

Such allegations cast a cloud over a long list of proud accomplishments. We think Graper should be judged on those projects and not just on his expense account.

He may have not said the right things to the right people all of the time, but he did help change the face of Plymouth. And we like that face. Nothing should blemish it.

Summer of '69 It shaped a nation's psyche hat is all this fuss about the summer of Why should a mere three months, so long ago, hold any meaning for us today?

For those too young to remember, or who weren't even born yet, that is a fair question, as well as a difficult one to answer.

Even those of us who fully remember that blazing, news-filled summer come away with different interpretations of the same events. As well as questions of our own.

Suffice to say something about America changed that summer, though even now it's hard to say just what.

There were other noteworthy summers -1967, for instance, was the so-called "Summer of Love," and of urban rioting, summer 1968 brought the infamous Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Even at that, summer 1969 was different. Its events cast a truer light on the polarization of the times and pointed the way to the divisiveness that would mark this country in each successive summer, each successive year.

SUMMER 1969 was bracketed by two events. There was the moon landing, a hand-over-yourheart highlight for straight, God-fearing middle America. There was also Woodstock, a celebration of the rapidly-growing youth countercul-

Certainly, there were other events. Vietnam wasn't far from anyone's mind and the grip of that long-ago war has yet to leave us. As late as this July 4, we were still welcoming home our Vietnam vets.

The Manson Clan's grisly murders repelled

Summer 1969 cast a truer light on the polarization of the times and pointed the way to the divisiveness that would mark this country in each successive summer, each successive year.

Americans. The Miracle Mets thrilled them. And Chappaquiddick gave America a political scandal that wouldn't go away.

Still, it is the moon landing and Woodstock receiving most of the attention today. Each in its own way represented an America at its zenith. Or was it its nadir?

Putting a man on the moon became the ultimate symbol of American wealth and might, just as surely as discovery of the New World nearly four centuries earlier secured imperial Spain a place in history. Two decades later, the moon landing still stands as a technological marvel.

Even at the time, however, the necessity of the moon mission was questioned. If we could claim wealth and power, did we not have a responsibility to use them wisely?

WHY SPEND billions on the space program, some argued, while there are people living in poverty? Two decades later, our commitment to space exploration has ebbed. Our wealth and power, while undeniable, are no longer unquestioned. Poverty continues.

Then, there was Woodstock, the upstate New York music festival that - depending upon your age and musical preference — was either an idyllic moment for a youth culture intent on brotherhood and the abolishment of war, hunger and all other social ills, or a bunch of heavily drugged ne'er-do-wells (most of them gatecrashers to boot) rolling around in the mud. If the Woodstock nation's communal spirit represented a triumph of brotherhood, and doubts still linger about that, then it was only a temporary victory.

At Woodstock, it was said, people shared food. Who shares anything today?

Preaching brotherhood, saying that another man, race, or culture, is as deserving as oneself or one's own, won't get you elected to too many offices today. It may even get a cross burned on your suburban lawn.

Once, there was a time when we believed we could rise above our problems, whether through a journey to the moon or the inner recesses of human consciousness. Now, we know differently.

In the long run, it comes down to this: Moon rocks are not much different from urban rubble. A peace symbol is not much different from the hood ornament on a Mercedes-Benz.

Ungrateful party loses a most faithful servant

WHEN DOUG Ross packs his bags and heads for Washington, Michigan will lose the man who should have been governor.

Not everybody feels that way. Many, many folks can't stand the state Commerce director. He's a maverick. And in Michigan's political climate that can spell professional destruction.

But, the 47-year-old Southfield resident has done much to combat the economic malaise since taking on the Commerce position in 1984. Even many of his critics, who complain about his flashy image, admit that without Ross at the Commerce helm, the state is going to have a more difficult time selling itself to the business community.

Because of its business tax and workers' compensation systems, the Wolverine state never has been an easy sell. But Ross overcame a lot of those negative feelings by the force of his personality and his incredible energy

HE CAME to public notice back in the early '70s as the director of the Michigan chapter of Common Cause and as a co-director of Michigan Citizens Lobby. The business community, which now is one of his biggest supporters, couldn't stand him.

To break the monotony of earlymorning Chamber of Commerce breakfast meetings, they would invite him to stir up members against this liberal activist. But Ross would persevere. He reminded the hardworking entrepreneurs to seek their own paths to success, rather than attempting to ape the multi-national corporations whose interests were often counter to those of small busi-

Soon after he became Commerce director.

And all during his tenure in the Blanchard administration, Ross carefully made sure that he gave the governor all the credit.

Many of us know better. Many of us thought that it was Doug Ross who should have been Michigan's governor. But it was not to be. Not this day, anyway That certainly is our loss. Good

Home school defended

To the editor:

A response to the letter from Jerrold and Kathryn Thompson. (June 1,

As home schooling parents we resent your "negative smear" that we belong to ". . . extremist groups who would like to bring about radical changes in the American way of life. .n." If you remember your history, public schools were radical change and home schooling was the norm! Parents become teachers the moment their child is born. Where is the radical notion in this??

To say that parents who choose to home educate will bring about the destruction of the public school system is a concept that substantiates your complete lack of perspicacity!

Since we represent just less than one-tenth of 1 percent of the parents of educable children, we are a minority, and as teachers you should not promote the infringement of our Amendment Rights. Remember schooling is not to be construed as

To answer your statement on the use of "fright tactics," is it not more frightening to a parent to hear threats of cut-offs in their childrens' education, if we don't pass the millage(s). Canton Fest needs events for seniors

To the editor:

All too often people are very quick to criticize, and rarely pass on praise. I suppose that I have been guilty of that trait also.

People who know me, know that I have been critical of many issues both in and out of the Canton political arena. However, the time has come when I must balance the scale and give praise where it is due Canton recently staged the first annual "Canton Challenge Fest." which turned out to be modestly successful. The concept and execution of this event were well planned and carried out. My highest compliments go to Supervisor (Tom) Yack, Bill Joyner, Mike Gouin and his staff, and to all who made the effort to participate.

Hopefully next year's Fest will attract more participants and that planners will be able to schedule a wider variety of events.

The only suggestion that I can offer for improvement would be to schedule more events with our senior citizens in mind. Our senior population will be increasing greatly with the opening of the two new seniors housing centers, and I'm sure many of them would greatly appreciate efforts to include them in the Festival.

Column offered voice of reason

Steve Barnaby's column of June 29 was one of the best I have read recently regarding censorship.

Thank you for presenting such a clear view of the responsibility we all take, individually, in the rearing of our children.

I only wish more people could be a honest with themselves and take more responsibility for their own actions and that of their children. With the ever growing fervor over abortion and our nation's flag I can only hope calmer heads will prevail in this nation's, and in our communities,' response to these tough ques-

Outstate perspective so different

IT'S A DIFFERENT world in outstate Michigan. Folks raised here in the southeastern corner have only the dimmest grasp of what's going on in the farm belt, in particular.

My observation is prompted by the support many outstate legislators are giving to the school tax increase plans they placed on the 1990

Now, those two proposals are heresy in many metro Detroit suburbs. Our assessments are leaping 15 percent annually, and most of our school districts receive no state aid. A sales tax increase for schools? Abominable, we say.

So talk to Eaton County's two men in Lansing.

SEN. JOHN Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, is no big spending Liberal. Schwarz, 52, is a physician and surgeon and was mayor of his city. Public Sector Consultants rates him 75 percent conservative.

Schwarz supports Plan A, a halfcent increase in the sales tax with no property tax cuts. It would pump $400 million into schools.

They're not having a high technology and office boom in his district.
"A lot bought farms at exorbitant prices 10 years ago. A significant number of farmers have gone belly up," Schwarz said.

Despite the drop in farm assessments - and in school revenue -Schwarz said "most farmers still think they're overassessed."

He would go even further than Plan A. Schwarz would like to increase the sales tax a full penny and put it all into education, letting universities have 35 percent of the new money and community colleges 5 percent in addition to 60 percent for K-12 schools.

And so we see Republicans like Schwarz and Fitzgerald supporting various tax increase plans while suburban Republicans are almost unanimously against them. Democrats are almost as deeply divided.

Looking over tax votes from the past 18 years, it appears 20 percent of the state wants a tax increase for schools, 40 percent want a Tischstyle tax cut, and 40 percent are in the middle or just don't know. Whatever one group wants, the other two groups gang up and reject it.

"Oh, I think it's fine," said Pat Bunnell of Canton, one of those enjoying the sounds. "I grew up with it. It's music of my generation."

Bunnell, president of the Friends of the Canton Public Library, was diplomatic in comparing the bigband sound to music enjoyed by today's young people.

"My music was different from my parents', and my kids' was dif-ferent from mine," she said.

Wally Baker of Canton, a Friends member, also enjoyed the big-band performance.

"In our time, of course, you didn't have the entertainment so freely available as it is now," he said. "Dance bands in particular were the thing of the day."

Those bands would tour the country. The bands were truly big bands, Baker said, in that they included many instruments.

"It was just a way that we appreciated music.'

moved into a Glenn Miller medley.

The musicians kept things moving throughout the evening with a variety of musical selections. The group included: Stewart Sanders,

AFETY TOWN is a fun place for Plymouth-Canton young-

But children visiting Safety Town aren't just having fun. They're also learning about the importance of being safe.

During a recent session, children learned about fire safety. Plymouth Township firefighters Mark Wendel and Phil Kamm told children they should never play with matches or cigarette lighters.

'It's very educational for the kids," Wendel said of Safety Town. Wendel and Kamm also talked about what children should do if their clothing catches fire.

"They all know the stop, drop and roll," Kamm said. "They remember a lot of it, if not all of it."

Safety Town is offered each summer by Plymouth-Canton Community Education, with sessions held in the cafeteria of Plymouth Canton High School. The program is for 4dergarten this fall.

WENDEL AND KAMM brought along a fire truck for their presentation, and gave children a chance to see and sit in it. The firefighters

The firefighters emphasized the importance of having a plan to get out of a burning house.

"You learn at a young age, you're going to save lives," Wendel said. 'What's even better is these kids take it back to their parents."

SAFETY TOWN has been offered by Plymouth-Canton Community Education since 1977. Classes used to be held at Central Middle School in Plymouth.

A total of seven sessions are scheduled for this summer, said Jan Hooker, chief instructor for the program. Children attend either morning or afternoon sessions for a total of nine days. Approximately 40 youngsters are signed up for each

"It's a preventive-type program. We want to introduce them to various aspects of safety," said Hooker, and 5-year-olds who will enter kin- who recently received her teaching certificate from Eastern Michigan University. "Hopefully, they'll be able to go back and remember what they've learned."

frighten children, but rather to make them aware of the importance of safety. Children learn that firefighters, police officers and emergency room staffers are their friends and want to help.

Safety Town students spend some time on the "road" at Plymouth Canton High School. They ride their vehicles through the miniature town, learning about the importance of traffic safety.

Children also learn about poison safety and about safety with strangers. The final day of each session includes a visit to a Canton Township fire station and to Oakwood Canton Health Center.

Several speakers meet with the children. A nurse talks with the youngsters about safety around water and other topics. City of Plymouth police officers also talk with the SAFETY TOWN participants learn about the importance of using seat belts while riding in a car. They can then go home and remind their parents just how important that is.

"They're real supportive," Hooker said of the parents. "I've gotten a lot of good comments from parents."

American Catholics reach 'unchurched'

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Situations Bishop Leo Beauchamp neounters would leave most members of the clergy shaking their heads. Beauchamp does as well, except he's more likely to nod yes in

"We had two young people who weren't married and who had a baby," said Beauchamp, beginning to relate one of several situations he deals with as pastor of St. James American Catholic Church in Northville. "They wanted the baby baptized and one of the local churches said they would not do it.

"The mother of the son was a member of the church. She asked me to baptize the baby. I did. They turned it down."

Then there was the mother of a son who had AIDS. She needed some words of comfort. Or the woman who was divorced and hadn't been to Mass in seven years. Most are Catholics who might not feel welcomed in their church.

Beauchamp's St. James American Catholic Church in Northville is Church is the first of its type, startserving those people and others who ing with services in March of last are unchurched. Beauchamp esti- year at Mill Race Historical Village lics in the Detroit area who are not attending Mass for various reasons.

"We learned that Catholics don't go to other churches," said Beauchamp, who lives in Livonia. "They go home and sit it out. We provide Catholicism they can participate in."

St. James American Catholic Church is not affiliated with the present day Roman Catholic Church, but follows Holy Scripture and church tradition except in four areas. At St. James Church, there is married clergy; communion for all people, divorced or divorced and remarried, birth control within the marriage; and general absolution at the beginning of each Mass.

BEAUCHAMP SAID his church is part of the Old Roman Catholic Church. The name was changed to American Catholic Church because people associated the other handle with "Latin Mass and fish on Fri-

The name symbolizes a new beginning in more ways than one.

Church in Northvilla Sunday services have moved to The dream of becoming a member of the clergy never left. Instead, he Silver Springs Elementary School in later became ordained in the more Northville until a permanent church liberal Catholic Church of America.

'All through high school, nuns wanted me to become a priest," said Beauchamp, who grew up in Alpena. "I said, 'No, no.' . . . I never thought I'd be doing this."

Plans include steady, but gradual movement in terms of growth. Beauchamp said he would like to see four new American Catholic Churches in the next six years.

THE PRESENT goal is to bring those who normally don't attend church through the doors of St. James. New people are showing up every Sunday.

The biggest concern people have is the authenticity of the church, Beauchamp said. He goes to great effort to emphasize that St. James American Catholic Church - with the exception of the four areas - adheres to the Scriptures.

The same altar book is used as in the Roman Catholic Church; members even pray for the Pope. A brochure on St. James Church lists sources for people to consult on the validity of the Old Roman Catholic

"My opinion on it is that it is not valid from our perspective," said Jay Berman, director of communications for Archdiocese of Detroit. "The Roman Catholic Church, as we know it, is not what that is. Unfortunately, we can't do anything about the word 'Catholic' being used."

The Old Roman Catholic Church is said to have its origins in Utrecht, der St. Willibrord, Apostle of the Netherlands, in the 7th Century.

Although liberal, the church is careful not to cross the line that would alienate people of Catholie a upbringing. The church is firmly against abortion. As for women in the clergy, Beauchamp danced around the issue saying he has mixed feelings on it.

"We're not blazing any new trails," Beauchamp said. "We want to be very Catholic and stay that

From that perspective, Beauchamp said the church is not interested in perpetuating divisions be-tween themselves and Roman Catholics. He's not looking for converts.

INSTEAD, HE wants to bring people closer to God.

"Our greatest blessing is our attitude," Beauchamp said. "We never ask someone where they are from or what church they went to before. We accept people just the way they are, which is really exciting.

"I won't turn down anyone who is need. We do not belong in the judging business. Our main idea is how can we help those people in need."

lesterol levels?

A. The soluble fiber in the oat bran is what lowers cholesterol in the blood. Experts aren't exactly sure how the soluble fiber reduces cholesterol, but one theory is:
The gall bladder excretes bile acids to digest the fat we eat. Normally, the body reabsorbs these acids and recycles them for future

These bile acids stick to soluble fiber, which passes right through the digestive tract. So instead of being reabsorbed, the acids are excreted out the body with the fiber.

Since the body makes bile acids out of cholesterol, when the acids that stuck to the fiber are lost, the body's system takes some of the cholesterol out of the blood to make more acids - and down goes the blood cholesterol level.

The soluble fiber in beans, lentils and split peas probably work in a similar fashion. The insoluble fiber in wheat bran does not bind bile acids or lower cholesterol. It prevents constipation, though, and may help to prevent colon cancer.

Victor Bogdan, design and marketing manager for International Automotive Design in Livonia, displays IAD's Alien.

special writer

They have names like Impact, Alien, Hunter, Interstate and Royale. Concept cars designed for a future where adventure is standard.

But these cars of tomorrow are not built by Ford or General Motors or any automotive company, for that Rather, International Automotive Design, with three styling studios in Livonia, and world headquarters in Worthing, England, provides futuristic design and engineering services to an automotive industry that places a premium on appearance and individuality.

'Historically, automotive suppliers around town offered a particular service, but in the last 10 years, as the automakers have scaled back, we have grown to fill the particular niches," said Victor Bogdan, design and marketing manager for International Automotive Design in Livonia.

"As it stands now, the automotive companies will develop a car for the work in between is done by companies like us. That's why the industry is growing."

IAD's revenues have tripled since 1985. Last year they were $135 million. Bogdan, a Farmington Hills resident, said the company's annual sales grew roughly 20 percent in each of the last five years and should increase by that amount this year.

In addition, IAD was recently honored with the queen's award for Export Achievement by the British government, the company's third in the last four years. The award honors those British companies that maintain a high export level while exhibiting strong sales growth.

SO WHAT IS the company's secret? And why is it building concept cars when the automakers, as Bogdan said, are developing cars of their

We place our emphasis on design engineering and computer-aided design, and we can go from a clay market, market the car, and all the model design to fiber glass prototypes right here.'

Bogdan said IAD's 40,000-squarefoot facility was built to serve the U.S. market better and avoid some of the penalties of the weak dollar.

"Essentially we offer our clients one-stop capabilities, where they don't have to travel around the world to check on this or see to

BOGDAN SAID IAD, which claims to be Europe's largest styling and engineering company, designs such futuristic cars as the Royale not only to gain international recognition, but to impress upon automotive clients that the company is exploring and setting future design standards.

For example, the Royale, developed with the corporate business person or entrepreneur in mind, offers passengers a personal computer, a facsimile machine, a satellite navigation system, two televisions for rear passengers and front and rear telephones.

Among running prototypes is the Good location not just a lucky choice

After saving for years, Sam opened a restaurant across from XYZ Corp. Although few businesses were in the area, the XYZ corporate offices housed more than 2,000 employees. The only other restaurant in the area was 10 miles away.

In his first six months, Sam did quite well. But then XYZ Corp. confirmed rumors that had been circulating for a long time: The company planned to relocate to another town, approximately 600 miles away. Within a year, Sam's restaurant folded.

Could Sam have prevented his business failure? Possibly. According to the Farmington Hillsbased Michigan Association of CPAs, Sam should have researched the location more thoroughly and interviewed people from the community. If he had, he might have realized just how much his success depended on the fortunes of XYZ - and he might have gleaned hints about the company's relocation plans.

AN ESTIMATED 45,000 businesses failed in the first nine months of 1988, many of them because the owners did not take the time to gather information about the location. Manufacturers, for instance, should make sure that their location has quick access to transportation routes and necessary supplies. Retailers need to pay attention to local traffic patterns, community trends and store visibility.

If you are planning to buy property for a small business, start by investigating the overall makeup of several target communities or locations. From the census bureau, find out if the community is growing or shrinking. If shrinking, find out why.

For example, Sara planned to open a children's bookstore in a small town. When she investigated the community, she realized she had selected the wrong location. Employment was hard to find in the town and many young adults and recent college graduates were moving away to find work. Sara still opened the bookstore, but with an emphasis on mature titles rather than children's books.

The census bureau can also provide the population's average income, predominant occupations and median age. By comparing this information with past figures, you can determine if and how a community is changing. You should also find out whether nearby residents tend to be college-educated or blue collar workers. Do they rent or do they own their homes? Have local property values increased or de-

Limit unemployment claim before employee is hired

By Peggy Aulino staff writer

Your new employee isn't working out. It's obvious he doesn't have as much experience as his resume suggested - he just can't keep up with the work. And you've talked to him twice about tardiness. So you figure since he has only been in your employ for a few weeks, you can fire him without fear of having to face an unemployment tax claim Wrong.

He goes to the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC), which sends you notification that a claim has been filed. Unsure of what to do, you call Quad C Co., a Troy consulting firm that helps small businesses control unemployment taxes. You figure you have a good case, and an expert will surely be able to win it for you.

Wrong again. Josef D. Bruner, the company's president, said employers must practice what amounts to preventive medicine when it comes to unemployment tax management.

"They don't call us until it's too late," said Bruner. "When you hire people is when you want to limit your unemployment claim."

In the hypothetical situation above, the employer has no recourse if the employee embellished his resume. When it comes to Michigan's unemployment compensation laws, hiring someone is strictly a let-theemployer-beware proposition. If an applicant says he can work a lathe job to take a new position and he has

and you hire him based on his word, you can't fire him because he performs inadequately without being liable in an unemployment claim.

BRUNER'S ADVICE to that employer would have been simple: check references. Or at least lead the applicant to the shop and see if he can pick out the lathe.

An employer can't assume the worker would be eligible for unemployment behefits just because he is new employee. If the worker left a worked at one or the other place for a total of at least 26 weeks, he will be eligible to collect unemployment.

'The law says you can transfer the claim from another employer into this employer's lap," said Bruner. They can work for you one minute and still collect. The employers become livid because of that.

But what about the warnings you gave about the worker's tardiness? First of all, verbal warnings aren't going to stand up in the quasi-judicial proceedings of an MESC appeal hearing, said Bruner. Secondly, you can't fire someone for being late per se. The only infraction for which a worker can be fired and be ineligible for unemployment compensation is "misconduct," for which the MESC has a five-paragraph definition. And to prove misconduct, you need written documentation of "progressive discipline" because the employer bears the burden of proof at the

Failing to keep adequate records on problem workers is one of the biggest mistakes employers make in the area of unemployment tax management, Bruner said.

"They are constantly reacting. They're never prepared in advance, he said. "They fire someone, probably for good reason, but they forget to document progressive discipline."

But while dramatic styling has its place, the company has been suc-cessful with more contemporary de-sign. Ford Motor Co. selected IAD to restyle the 1990 Lincoln Town Car, set to be introduced formally during the first week of October, according to Tom Rhoades, public affairs man-

Most recently, IAD was involved in the design of the Volvo 440/480.

BUT IF BOGDAN could put a handie on the 13-year-old company's success, he said recognizing the automotive market as a worldwide entity is paramount to survival.

of businesses does the community support and which types have failed?

After you decide on the general area in which you want to open a business, your next step is selecting a particular property. A top priority should be gathering indepth information on the property's traffic patterns - the number of possible customers who pass by on a regular basis. The SBA has a number of publications that can tell you how to use traf-

You should also take note of the proximity of possible competitors, both present and future. Bob and Ann, for instance, opened a small sporting goods store in a town just emerging as a major recreational center. Unfortunately, they failed to ask who had bought the empty lot a mile down the road. When a major sporting goods retailer moved in, the couple tried to compete, but to no avail.

ANOTHER MISTAKE smallbusiness owners often make is ignoring a site's history. If the building has housed four different businesses in three years, it would be wise to take a second look at the property. You may have overlooked a subtle but important flaw in the building's location.

Once you are satisfied with the site, it's time to investigate the building's actual physical condi-tion. Is the facility large enough to permit future expansion? Does the property need major modification to satisfy your business

Selecting the right location can make or break your business. Don't make the mistake that so may do and select a site for reasons that are unrelated to your business like proximity to your home. Do your homework and find the site that is best for your business.

If a claim is successful, the former employee can collect approxi-mately 76 percent of his or her net earnings for up to 26 weeks (less if he or she gets another job). And it is the employer — not the federal or state government — who must bear 100 percent of the cost of the claim.

The good news for employers, Bruner said, is that they have some control over their unemployment tax

An employer's unemployment tax can range from 1 to 10 percent of their taxable payroll. In other words, a company with a taxable payroll of $1 million could pay from $10,000 to $100,000. Part of the tax goes into a reserve fund, which could be used, for example, to cover an unexpectedly large number of successful claims.

The percentage charged a company in a given year depends on sever-al variables, including changes in payroll, the number of successful claims against it and the amount it has in its reserve. But in general the fewer claims for which the company "It's the only controllable payroll is held responsible, the lower its untax that employers have," Bruner employment tax bill will be.

Many firms have in-house industrial relations or human resources personnel who handle unemployment tax matters. But those employees have other duties and usually don't have the required specialized knowledge, Bruner said.

The reality is that the pill generation is taking over - those kids conceived only after careful consideration of their impact on their parents' lifestyles, which has meant kids under 20 today are outnumbered by their parents generation by maybe 3-1.

I suspect this already has had an impact beyond the graying of Road and Track. Cheap cars are not selling well, in fact, Yugo of America is reportedly trying to figure out how to stuff unsold cars in cereal boxes. The usual reason offered by analysts is that Americans have become so affluent they simply sniff at anything with less than a luxo label.

have been bought mainly by recent college graduates and kids who just got their first job. I suspect that the lack of population in the pill gener-ation is the real culprit in sagging small-car sales - which means cheap cars won't recover soon.

All this came to mind after sitting through a couple of weeks of marketing presentations that in-variably included some kind of demographic analysis of the potential customer for this particular

DEMOGRAPHICS usually are coached in median age, median income and a few suppositions about the lifestyle, although marketing types are usually a little cagey about the latter. I've never seen any car presented as just the ticket for an up-and-coming drug dealer, for example.

I've also noticed that demographic analysis doesn't have much consistency. A $12,000 car, for example, is supposed to be affordable by a bright graduate making a median family income of, say, $35,000. Does this mean a young couple making $17,500 each? Then who gets to drive to work? I don't think $17,500 would make the insurance payment on a $12,000 car. Or take another example. A luxury car was supposed to interest two groups: the 35-46-year-olds, and the "over 50s." A little arithmetic and you realize there is a mysterious five-year gap here, where you presumably can't buy this automobile.

Another oddity in the same presentation was the notion that a $50,000 median income was supposed to buy a $35,000 car. The closing gap between the price of a luxury car and the income of its potential buyer as seen through demographic analysis is a common theme. One company selling a $90,000 car said the median income of its customers also was $90,000. Well, maybe that's what was reported to the IRS. Adding to the clusive nature of just who buys new cars is a methodology called "psychographics," which I assumed was some kind of joke the first time I heard about it.

Not so. Psychographics, which groups potential car buyers according to their emotional relationship with their automobile (loves cars, treats cars as an appliance, etc.) is taken very seriously among the marketing types. In any case, it makes wonderful charts

All of this may be meaningless to the average customer who simply wants a ride. After a couple of hours dealing with financial doubletalk and checkbook angst, the last thing he needs to know is that somebody else has his number

Top-rated bonds have pitfalls

finances and you

following question: "Besides CD, what's the safest, guaranteed invest-ment available today?" The answer came from a 62-year-old millionaire, Mrs. Betty Client: "The safest in-vestment is AAA-rated bonds." This answer typifies the confusion which exists in investors' minds about the safety of high-grade bonds. THE TRUTH:

Assume you purchase a 8 percent, 30-year, AAA-rated bond for $1,000. Because of its high rating, you can expect to receive $40 every six months for 30 years. Also, upon maturity in 30 years, you will receive the maturity price of $1,000. The po-tential for default in this case is practically non-existent. This is why most bond investors consider highgrade bonds as both guaranteed and

While the coupon payments and the maturity price are never at risk, this bond, like all its counterparts, carries a great deal of market interest rate risk.

The accompanying chart articulates this risk. If, subsequent to your purchase of this bond the market interest rate rises to, say, 12 percent, the market price of this bond will drop to $677, a drop of 32.3 percent. Furthermore, the argument that you have no intentions of selling this bond is also not valid, since you would suffer the loss whether you sell it or not. In technical jargon, this is known as an opportunity cost.

In addition to the drop in the bond's market price, the higher in-flation rate, which is generally associated with higher interest rate, also reduces your real return. This means that even though you continue to receive $40 every six months, because of inflation the real value of the coupon payments is less than

Water way to go

Cruising and dining are perfect combo

By Larry Janes

F YOUR idea of a fun way to go cruising down the river is to throw a few six packs in a cooler and stop off at a local deli for some hearty munchies, you won't want to read on and hear what's available.

If, on the other hand, you're looking for a fun afternoon or evening on the water and you want to sit back, relax, sip a few brews or uncork an '87 Kendall Jackson Chardonnay while enjoying fine cuisine, then Within the last five years, major investors and yacht brokers have discovered just how glorious and spectacular the Detroit waterways are. And it's about time.

THIS YEAR, AS with the past few, you can enjoy a gorgeous sail down the river and into Lake St. Clair shelling out as little as $28 per person or as much as $400 per hour on such notable cruise ships as the Star of Detroit, the Helene, the Star of Detroit Too or the Golden Voyager. And this price can include great

A few weeks back, the missus and I, along with friends, thoroughly enjoyed a dinner cruise on the Star of Detroit. We were greeted at the dock (the foot of Atwater Street right behind Hart Plaza) by Ann Henricksen, head PR lady for the Star Line. We were escorted to our table, set with crisp cloths and white napkins, surrounded by Frank Lloyd Wright inspired chairs, hardly noticing the gentle swaying of the docked ship. (By the time the night was over, and after being corrected numerous times, I promised to call it a "ship" and not a "boat.")

We set sail precisely at 7 p.m. and after filling our glasses with an assortment of nice wines, meandered out our deck to an awesome view of the Detroit skykline as we headed up the river to Lake St. Clair.

cruise ship. The twin-diesel engines hum with pride as the skillful crew maneuvers the vessel up the Canadian side of the river and you stroll the wide decks, listening to an assortment of great pre-dinner music coming live from the main upper-deck dining room.

The bow (front) of the ship is the quiet place where couples and friends can enjoy the quiet windswept feeling of the river while pointing out the sights like the Scoot Fountain at Belle Isle and the colorful parks along the Canadian side of

We returned to our tables where we were escorted to a cold appetizer and salad buffet. The folks from the Star Line have this ritual down pat by bringing up one table at a time so that there's seldom a wait for food. Nice touch.

The three-hour cruise gave us plenty of time to finish our appetiz-

River cruise is a slick operation all way around went down with the sunset as the music turned more danceable and the twinkling lights of the Ambassador Bridge were seen in the distance. Sound romantic? Rest assured, my next visit will be at a little table for two, tucked away in a quiet corner with just me, the lady of my dreams and a bottle of Napa Valley Brut Re-

That's probably the best part of a cruise on the Star of Detroit. There were five in our party and looking around the main dining room, we noticed tables for two, four, six and even a group of bingo workers from a local Eagles Auxiliary. This is one cruise that offers the ambiance no matter if it's just for two or a party

BUT BEING A foodie at heart, I couldn't resist asking for a tour of the galley. If it sounds like miracles were worked above deck, the true miracle was seeing the small but totally efficient galley area where I met the head chef and he told me that everything was prepared on board in the confines of what couldn't have been more than 300square-foot area.

We returned to our table only to make a slow pass under the Ambassador Bridge and then it was back to the dock. This gave us just time to burn off a few dinner calories while spinning to a few top-40 hits and an occasional polka. Wonderous memories of dancing aboard the old Boblo Boats while cruising to the island skipped through my head.

Lunch, brunch and dinner cruises are available as are total charters. Prices start at $22.45 for lunch and $43.45 for dinner cruises. Child rates

VanWagoner back in saddle at Canton

Coach no stranger to basketball scene

staff writer

Dave VanWagoner is on vacation this week, but he can't help thinking about his job - his new job.

Thursday, July 13, 1989 O&E

The 35-year-old VanWagoner was named Plymouth Canton boys basketball coach Monday, returning to a position he held from 1981-85.

He and his family were beginning a week-long vacation at a Lake Michigan cottage when he got the

"I feel like I'm 18 right now," VanWagoner said. "I haven't been able to enjoy my vacation because I've been scribbling offenses and defenses in the sand."

"I wouldn't want it any other way. But I guess I'll have to start smelling the flowers - or catching the fish."

VANWAGONER replaces Tom Niemi, who was fired in April. School officials cited the desire to have a coach who teaches within the district for their decision not to renew Niemi's contract.

VanWagoner, who compiled a 41-41 record and led the Chiefs to their only Western Lakes Activities Association title during his previous fouryear stint, has taught health and physical education at Lowell Middle School for 12 years.

VanWagoner gave up the position in 1985 for "personal reasons" and, with those issues resolved, is looking forward to his second tenure as Canton's coach, he said.

"It's great to be back," said VanWagoner, who is currently the girls basketball coach at Livonia Churchill, also. "I'm real excited and fired up about being back.

"For the last few years, I've had the strong desire to coach again in the district I teach in. I had some great times coaching basketball at Canton, and we had some darn good VanWagoner said it was difficult to sit on the sidelines in recent years and even regretted having given up the position four years ago.

"I AM A Canton man and always have been a Canton man even when I didn't coach here," he said. "I've thought a lot about it the last four years. Now it's time to roll up my sleeves and get to work."

VanWagoner was one of four applicants for the job - all of whom teach within the district - and his coaching background made him the right choice, according to Athletic Director Paul Cummings.

"The type of program he's done in the past is what we're looking for, and he's an outstanding young man," Cummings said. "We're looking forward to a dynamic program."

Cummings said he didn't want to compare VanWagoner with Niemi in terms of what might be expected of the new coach. But a reason for making the change was supposedly to have someone closer to the situation who is better able to oversee the whole program. Niemi teaches in the Belleville district.

Cummings, citing several examples, said he expects VanWagoner 'to oversee the JV and freshman teams, be part of the community asmuch as he can and take a leadership role, know what's going on in the middle school in terms of observing and be as positive as he can in dealing with the total program." VanWagoner said he definitely plans to be visible and involved in promoting and moving the program

"I WANT Canton basketball to be seen as much as possible in the com-munity," he said. "My heart has always been in Canton basketball, and it's important for people in the community to know Canton basketball runs a first-class program."

VanWagoner added: "I want my players to be good citizens, good students. Basketball comes in there, too, but those two things are very important, too.

Wayne Memorial gets new coach, too

By Brad Emons staff writer

Wayne Memorial High didn't have to go to great lengths to find a successor for girls basketball coach Gry Schwan.

Two-year assistant Jack Furlong will assume the duties, replacing Schwan, who stepped down after three seasons with a 35-27 mark. (The Zebras finished 17-4 last sea-

According to Wayne athletic director Bill Hawley, Schwan stepped down last month because of conflicts with his job at Ford Motor Co.

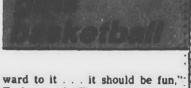

"Gary was working some crazy shifts way over in Sterling Heights and he just didn't have enough time to devote to the team," Hawley said. "And with three kids to boot, there was a bit of a time crunch."

A native of Westland, the 6-foot-7 Furlong is a former All-Catholic League player who graduated in 1981 from Dearborn Divine Child High. He moved on to Hillsdale College where he played four seasons and started at guard his senior

"JACK IS A quality person and very knowledgeable,," Hawley said. "He'll do a good job."

Like Schwan, Furlong works outside the confines of Wayne High. He is an investment analyst with Alexander Hamilton Insurance Co. in Farmington Hills. He was recently married on May 20. (His wife's name is Lynn.) "This will be my first varsity head coaching job and it's going to be a challenge, but I'm looking for-

Furlong said. "There is some talent and Gary (Schwan) developed a winning attitude here, and hopefully I can keep that going. I think we'll win some games.'

Two of the Zebras' leading returnees are first-team All-Area forward Maya Lewis and center Doris Bathwell

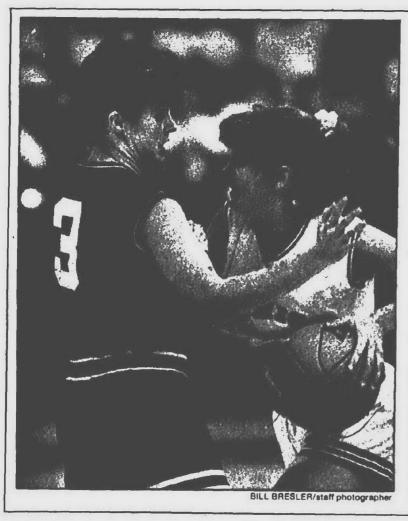

"The cupboard is not bare and we have some seniors who did not play a lot last year who are ready to step forward," Furlong said. "And a couple of girls on the JV squad showed promise. It's just a matter of who is ready to step up and play."

BECAUSE OF THE timing of Schwan's resignation, Furlong was unable to get into a summer league or prepare the squad for preseason practice, which officially opens Monday, Aug. 14.

"I just got married and we were moving so there wasn't much time, but we'll pick things up in August." said the new Wayne coach.

Schwan, believed to be on vacation, was unavailable for comment.

The ex-girls coach, however, indicated he would stick with Wayne basketball in some capacity, more than likely as a volunteer assistant to boys coach Chuck Henry.

Garden City's Jeremy Krol, a sophomore at Albion College, added two hits and two RBL Chris Michalik contributed two hits, while Sisler, the former Canton High standout who played this spring at Kansas City (Mo.) Community College, scored three times. Sisler had a single and two walks.

Livonian Bill Bannon, the Dearborn Divine Child product, was the winning pitcher. In five innings he allowed seven hits and five walks, while fanning five.

The winning pitcher in the second game, also shortened by the five-inning mercy rule, was Szczezhowski, who ran his mark to 4-1 with a two-hitter. The Hines Park hurler struck out seven and walked four Learned, formerly of Canton High and now playing at Siena Heights College, went 3-for-3 with three RBI, while Derek Humphries (Canton) and Mike Culver (Canton) each snapped out of their respective batting slumps by contributing two hits apiece.

WALTER'S APPLIANCE (14-8) remained firmly in third place by sweeping a doubleheader against Tom Holzer Ford, Sunday at David Houghtby, the former Livonia Stevenson standout now at Henry Ford Community College, continued to swing a hot bat, collecting four hits on the day.

In the opener, Houghtby knocked in three runs and collected two hits. Teammate John Gotts, the former All-Area player from Redford Catholic Central High now at Eastern Michigan University, also added two hits.

Kevin Walker (2-0), formerly of Redford Union High and now at Henry Ford CC, allowed one earned run over five innings to pick Mike Kaczmarek (Franklin and Henry Ford CC), Siwajek and Michelz each had two hits despite the loss. Todd Fracassi (Stevenson and Henry Ford CC) added two RBI.

'Sometimes it pays off to pay attention to them. Gierczak throws a lot of breaking pitches and that's effective against some teams."

Gierczak moved his personal record to 3-0 and Westland's record in the Little Caesars Mickey Mantle Baseball League, even more impressive, to 11-1. Canton fell to 4-6.

MIKE HIGGINS' two-run single highlighted Westland's three-run first inning and the Federation gave Gierczak a 5-0 cushion after 11/2 innings. Canton starting pitcher Coleman Flaskamp lasted only 3% innings, leaving with the score 5-1. Scott Milligan did an admirable job in relief, but Canton couldn't generate much of a comeback.

Canton first-year coach Kerry Bennett recently finished his collegiate career at the University of Detroit and he sometimes has to remind himself not to expect too much from this group.

"I'm still coaching with a player's instinct," Bennett said. "I've got to remember who I'm dealing with. I'm coaching 15-, 16-year-old boys and can't expect what I did from my college teammates.

He added, however, Canton isn't as good as it used to be because several of its eligible players play instead for the Connie Mack League (for 16-18 year-olds).

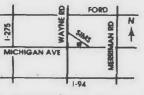

The Canton teams are usually JV teams because they lose some of their better players to the older leagues and it hurts them," Pitcher said. "The Connie Mack teams take the best 16-year-olds, only because the Adray League takes the best 18-

In naming VanWagoner to coach the boys team, Canton has filled the second of two major coaching vacancies. Bob Blohm, building athletic manager at Canton and former Plymouth Salem girls basketball coach, was chosen to replace Rob Neu as the Canton girls mentor last

"It's going to be a great experience for me to learn and work with Bob Blohm and watch his teams practice and play, VanWagoner said, "because I consider him one of the premier coaches in Michigan."

VanWagoner was the Canton freshman and later JV coach from 1976-81 before being named head coach. After a 4-17 record in his first varsity season, the Chiefs did well the next three years and were 17-5 in the championship season of 1983-84 when VanWagoner was named Observerland coach of the year.

Wildcats emphasize all-for-one style

By Dan O'Meara

Jill Estey has played for national contenders in AAU women's basketball each of the last three years.

So she knows when an AAU team is just a collection of all-stars and when a collection of all-stars has be come a team

This was the best team as far as everybody working together," said the former Plymouth Salem standout, who helped the Western Wayne Wildcats to fourth place in the under-18 tournament last week in Charleston, W.Va.

Estey, who was a tournament addition to the Detroit Eagles the last two years in the under-16 competition, Birmingham Marian's Jennifer Shasky, Plymouth Canton's Michelle Fortier and Salem teammate Teri King were original members of the Wildcats, who won the state championship in the spring.

"In other years, we had a lot of people who were 1-on-1 players and did everything by themselves." Estey said. "We had perfect chemistry. Passing the ball and working together so well really helped us.'

TEAMWORK WAS the key to WWW's success in the 38-team, double-elimination tournament since the Wildcats didn't have the overall height and speed of some other teams. But they more than held their own and overcame any shortcomings with their cohesive play.

The Wildcats won their first three games against the Orlando (Fla.) Magic 81-62, New England-New Hampshire 85-55 and Los Angelesbased South Pacific 84-72.

WWW was one of four unbeaten teams at that point, but it dropped into the losers bracket following an 83-72 loss to Georgia. The Wildcats rebounded with a 95-83 win over a good Arkansas squad but were eliminated 70-67 by Oklahoma, which won the under-16 title last year.

'If we hadn't played as well as a team, we wouldn't have done as well, because we played three-four teams that had better individual talent." Wildcats coach Fred Thomann said.

"I knew we would play together very well, but I didn't know how we'd measure up against other states. The talent level was way up there, but we were able to neutralize SHASKY, WHO averaged 19.6 points in six games, was on a roll in the first three games in which she averaged more than 26 per game. But as the tournament progressed and opponents did more scouting, her scoring dropped off as teams concentrated on stopping her.

'That stands to reason,' Shasky said. "The farther you go, the tougher it gets. I found they were playing tougher defense on me later.

"As the week wore on, my legs would get tired and give out on me, and my shots started hitting the front of the rim," she added. Though she ran the offense from her point position, the 5-foot-3 Estey still averaged 13.3 points, including a 20-point performance in the tournament opener. "We faced a lot of teams that played a packed-in zone, and our outside shooters had to shoot," Estey said. "I just happened to be on that

"We were not that big, and if our outside shooters weren't on we would have been in big trouble."

THE WILDCATS added post players Nikki Beaudry (Flint Powers), Carrie Isanhart (Big Rapids) and Wendy Merriman (Traverse City) for the national tournament. The roster also included Stephanie Seifert, who will be a senior at New Baltimore Anchor Bay, and Karen Baird of Northville.

"One of the reasons we picked them up was partly because they had the reputation of being team players," Thomann said. "We expected them to fit in well and they did."

The Orlando Magic had five players standing 6-2 or taller, but WWW widened the margin in the last five minutes. Shasky scored 14 of her 24 in the first half, Estey 12 of her 20 in the second.

Shasky had a tournament-high 29 points in the next game, with Beaudry adding 17 and Merriman 14. South Pacific was the LA area's Olympic development team, but the Wildcats disposed of the Californians behind a combined 50 points by Shasky and Merriman.

"We were definitely one of the smaller teams," Shasky said. "Some teams had 5-11 point guards. I'm not even 5-11 and I'm playing small forward. We weren't as tall or as fast, but we played well together.

pected because we were small and didn't practice a lot," she added. Because of various spring commitments, the team was able to practice only a handful of times since the state tournament. "I was very happy with the way it ended up, but it would have been nice to win it."

THE WILDCATS were down 36-28 to Georgia at halftime but took a 67-64 lead with six minutes to play. The momentum turned quickly, however, and Georgia maintained its lead to conclusion. Estey led with 15 points, Shasky scored 12 and Fortier added

Arkansas narrowed a 22-point Wildcat lead to five but the Michigan champions stayed alive in the losers bracket. Shasky paced the Wilcats with 19 points, Seifert and Estey followed with 17 apiece.

Oklahoma jumped to a 15-0 lead in the opening five minutes of the next game, but the Wildcats recovered and were within two with :09 remaining.

After an Oklahoma free throw, Estey was fouled but WWW was not in the bonus. Shasky attempted a triple off the inbounds play, but the ball bounced off the rim.

"I thought it was going in," Shasky said. "I think it was a combination of my legs being tired and watching the other girl flying at me.'

Thomann, one of Michigan's most noted high school coaches, got involved in the AAU program for the first time this year and found it a rewarding experience.

"I told the players afterward: 'I've been around the game of basketball for a lot of years and, this has been one of the most enjoyable experiences I've had. I'm sure you'll look back on it as one of your most enjoyable, recalling how well we played and dealt with so many talented teams."

Two goals - including the gamewinner with 1:10 left - and an assist from Aaron Pietila triggered the Falcons' 4-3 victory over the Wolve-rines at the Plymouth Cultural Center Lunday, keeping them unbeaten in the Metro Summer Hockey League.

Pietila's winner came after the Wolverines blew a two-goal lead with six minutes left. Dan O'Donnell and Scott Bolinger each had a goal and an assist for the winless Wolverines.

The Huskies also remained undefeated, thanks to a 9-5 thrashing of the Broncos Monday. Paul Nieto had three goals and two assists and Matt Joelson got two goals and two assists for the winners; Mike Kneiding's two goals and an assist paced the winless Broncos.

THE SPARTANS are the third unbeaten team in the MSHL after Sunday's 7-3 rout of the Wildcats, behind Gary Scott's three goals and one assist and Tim Osborn's two goals and an assist. The Wildcats got a goal and an assist from Rob Waters and two assists from Mike Green.

The Lakers posted their first win of the summer Monday, whipping the Wildcats 13-5. Larry Pilut collected six points - three goals and three assists - to lead the lopsided victory. Tony Guzzo and Joe Burton contributed two goals and an assist each. The Krygiers sparked the Wildcats: Mike had three goals and an assist, and Bryan had three assists.

On Sunday, Pilut got three goals and an assist and John Smith notched a goal and two assists, but the Bulldogs battled back to a 7-7 tie. Josh Roberts tied it for the Bulldogs with 2:12 to play. Mike Jorgensen and J.P. LaRoche each got two goals and an assist for the Bulldogs.

Hawks win region title

The state champion Hawks under-19 girls soccer team has a chance to reach an even loftier goal.

The Hawks won the Region II tournament last weekend in Omaha, Neb., earning a trip to the national championship July 26-30 in Union Town, N.Y.

The Hawks beat state champions from Kentucky, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri and Minnesota and outscored their opponents 19-0 at the regional. Goalkeeper Brooke Gillespie of Troy registered five shutous.

Farmington resident Amy Trunk scored the only goal of the regional final, racing through the Minnesota defense and putting the ball past the goalkeeper at the 22-minute mark.

Defenders included Bonnie Boyle (Troy), Susan Gibson (Farmington), Rosemary Hally (Livonia), Chris Lamb (Troy), Natalka Litkewycz (Brighton), Erin Morgan (Canton) and Lisa Yderstad (Grand Blanc). The Hawks beat Missouri 2-0 in the semifinal as Trunk and Farming-ton's Jennifer Misaros recorded a goal each. Other members of the Hawks include Patty Boyle, Liz Brooks, Jackie Salagyi, Troy, Shannon Meath, Canton, Julie Stabnick, Plymouth, Margaret Kopmeyer, Bloomfield Hills; Caeri Thomas, East Lansing; and Carrie Maier, Farmington. Coach Paul Dugan is assisted by manager Mike Yderstad and trainer Ralph Gibson.

Open homecoming for Mallon

staff writer

Nancy Lopez commands most of the attention among professionals touring the intimidating Indianwood Country Club course this week at the U.S. Women's Open golf championship.

The 32-year-old Hall of Famer has the largest gallery, receives applause on every ball she drives down the fairway, and is awed by many as she sinks her long putts on the fast greens. Lopez easily is the most recognizable female goifer.

Many of the other women pros scuffle around the course in relative anonymity.

Meg Mallon is normally one of them.

But not this week.

This is somewhat of a homecoming for Mallon, a former Birmingham resident who graduated from Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy High School in 1981

During practice rounds she greeted a number of friends she has not seen for a long time. Her brother Paul, who graduated from Bloomfield Hills Andover and still lives in the metro area. walked the course for a few holes with her on

IT PROMISES to be an exciting championship week for Mallon, who won the Michigan Amateur title in 1983. She will have family and friends following her around the Indianwood course when she tees off in her opening tournament round 12:30 p.m. today. She is scheduled to tee off 8:01 a.m. Friday.

"I can't wait to get started. These days are going by so fast. I was really surprised. I can't believe my Tuesday round is over," she said early Tuesday afternoon after completing her 36th practice hole at Indianwood in just more than a 30-hour span.

"This is going to be fun. I have people coming up to me who I haven't seen since grade school. I was very much looking forward to getting here. I don't think anything will be as worse as what I had to do to qualify to get into this tournament. I was a wreck trying to get here.

'I finished in a tie (in the qualifier in Wilmington, Del.) and had to go into a playoff. I had to wait until 8:30 that night to see if I had qualified to play in this Open.

But it was worth it. My family was planning vacations around this so I thought I'd better get here," she joked.

This will be Mallon's third Open appearance. Mallon missed the cut in 1986 in Dayton - her first Open - then tied for 44th at last year's tournament in Baltimore. She pocketed $2,632 for that performance.

This year's Open may be the most challenging effort of her young professional career

THE TIGHT Indianwood course is home to more than 150 bunkers and is noted for its kneehigh Scottish-style rough, commonly known as heather. It is a par 71 (35-36) course 6,108 yards in length. The most exciting hole may be the 18th a dogleg-right with 31 bunkers and a monstrous green spanning approximately 24,000 square feet.

"I'm still trying to find out how I'm going to attack this golf course," said Mallon, who has played the revamped Indianwood course a couple of times prior to this week. "I think it's how you position yourself on the fairways and where you put yourself on the greens.

"You have to stay below the hole because the greens are so hard. But the key is to make sure you get on the greens first because of the tall bunkers and everything that's around them.

"I guess you just deal with one shot at a time and stay focused for the middle of the fairways and the middle of the greens and hope you get the toughest courses I've ever played on, but you would expect that for this tournament "

Mallon, after completing her career at Ohio State University, where she was a 1985 Big 10 Conference runner-up, played 18 events in hefirst year on the tour in 1987. She won only $1.5.

- hardly enough to make a living - and aver aged 76.91 strokes per 18 holes.

THINGS IMPROVED tremendously in 1988

The friendly, 5-foot-6 pro pocketed $25,000 µ 21 tour stops last year, including a 21st-place fan ish in the Safeco Classic. She tied for 23rd in the Jamie Farr Toledo Classic and tied for 27th at the Women's Kemper Open.

She broke into the top 90 on the Ladies Profes sional Golf Association's (LPGA) money list and earned an exempt status for this summer

Mallon, who has played seven straight tourna ments without a break, is having a decent season At least she is certain to earn more than last year

Mallon is currently 77th on the LPGA money list with $24,371 in 17 events. She has missed ju five cuts and her personal-best finish to date with a tie for 16th place at the Circle K LPGA stop Tuscon. She has placed among the top 30 in thre

"I've put some really good rounds in this yes? but I just haven't put them all together at once said Mallon. "One day I'm good and the next do I'm putting them all over the course.

"I think that inconsistency has to do with being tired . . . being out on the road for so long 1 .. been exhausted lately, but, of course, part of that exhaustion means you're playing on the weekend. which is real good. You just have to pace yourseif

"But I'm doing what I love and not many people can say that about their jobs. I love the game now and it's fun to play, but it is very frustrating." she said. "But that goes with it... it just makes it that much more rewarding."

And a great finish this week in front of family and friends will be very rewarding for Mallon.

Until you take the time to sweep the meadow grasses with a simple insect net, you will not know the real hidden beauty of a meadow. Insects exhibit such variety of forms and colors that it would take volumes to describe. But let's look at one invisible insect of the meadow you will surely find.

Leafhoppers are invisible until you walk through the grasses. Then like kernels of corn, they pop in pro-fusion in all possible directions. They are not much bigger than a kernel of popcorn either. When you examine one that has landed on your pantleg it will be about a quarter-inch long.

Leafhoppers — Invisible

Before it moves away, examine how the wings are held over the back in a tent-like manner. Then, once you have satisfied your curiosity, induce it to jump by gently nudging the tail with your finger. In an instant, the leafhopper has rocketed from its launch pant a distance of 12 inches. A 6-foot man would have to jump the distance of a football field to span an equivalent distance.

Some leafhoppers travel even greater distances in order to find food during the summer. When the adults become active after their winter dormancy, they may fly 150 miles north to find additional food. Young raised in this new area will fly south in fall to take advantage of warmer winter weather.

There are many other insects which are easy and enjoyable to see, if you take the time. Damselflies, dragonflies, beetles and other bugs Leathoppers are invisible until you walk through the grasses. Then like kernels of corn, they pop in profusion in all possible directions. When you examine one that has landed on your pantleg it will be about a quarter-inch long.

Needlepoint

Retirees find it fun, challenging

By Corinne Abatt

TROY RETIREES Arlon Quigley and William Beeler say needlepointing is an interesting, productive way to pass time. Neither falls into an explanation of museinduced inspiration or unsatisfied, creative longings. Both matter-offactly say they saw people doing it and decided it didn't look that hard.

Needlepoint pieces by these two relative newcomers to the craft fill a display window in the little lobby at the back parking lot entrance to Jacobson't Home Furnishings store in Birmingham.

It's part of the month-long Customer Exhibit in the needlework department on the lower level of the store. Other needlepointers who are or were clients are: Dr. Robert Brownlee of Wisconsin, who still orders his supplies from there and has his canvasses framed there; and Dr. Benjamin Grundfast of New York, regarded as the department's "pro" stitcher who likes to do advanced "trophy" pieces. This isn't meant to take anything away from these local guys who can hold their own with the rest of the pack nicely, thank you.

Beeler, who was an automotive engineer with Ford Motor Company, said he started 11/2 years ago, "I just thought there was nothing to it. My mother-in-law and my wife's aunt needlepoint and when I watched them I said, 'I can do that'."

He started with six inch squares, cardinal and a unicorn, that he bought at Frank's. He recommends that for beginners. They're easy and they go quickly. Since January he's finished three of the four Christmas stockings he's making for his daughters.

"The stockings (canvasses) didn't have names, I put all the names in. They're gonna be for my daughters Quigley, former counselor at Clara Barton Junior High in Royal Oak, said he has no idea how long it took him to do the 14-piece manger scene, "I always have several things going at the same time." He remembered asking his wife about 12 years ago if it was hard to do, 'She said no, it's easy. I went out and got a kit, I never took lessons."

He said that he spent a lot of fore his wife died and said, "While I was sitting there I'd pull it out. When I fly, I take it on a plane. I. can't read on a plane, but I can do needlepoint."

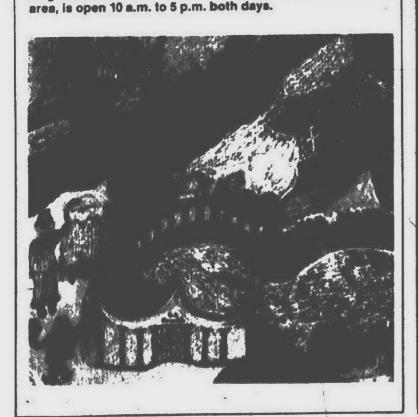

He likes to do pictures, particularly frame, canvasses with the picture in yarn, (which still has to be covered) rather than printed or

The men hadn't met before they arrived at Jacobson's to talk about their work although both play in the senior men's golf league in Troy. Almost immediately they were discussing stitches and asking each other questions about particu-lar pieces and the techniques and yarns used.

Quigley said lots of people see him doing needlepoint, since he works on it in airports and waiting rooms - whenever he knows he's going to be sitting idly for a period of time. Women will frequently comment on his work and how unusual it is to see a man needlepointing. Seldom if ever does a man broach the subject with him.

Detroit Images: not pretty pictures

HAVE been looking at "Detroit Images: Photographs of the Renaissance City," a collection of almost 200 compelling, black-and-white photos of contemporary Detroit. Published recently by Wayne State University Press, the book is edited by John J. Bukowczyk and Douglas Aikenhead, with Peter Slavecheff.

To be sure, there are hopeful images in this book — the Tigers taking the field on a well-attended Opening Day in 1986; a young father embracing his small daughter in Cadillac Square; modest, well-tended homes on Deacon Street, gleaming in the sunshine; two youths traversing a pristine Washington Boulevard on unicycles .

But, for the most part, these are not pretty pictures. Poet Philip Levine, in an afterword, has called the collection "a book of ruins." Nothing wrong with such a book, of course. The trouble comes when a large number of such images are put together in one place, as they are here. After a time, simply because there are so many of them, the strength and boldness of each image begins to break down and to lose some of its effectiveness. Now and then, it even fhreatens to take on a kind of ludicrous quality in the repetition.

STILL, THE IMAGES in themselves are so arresting, the photography so remarkable.

The visual journey begins with a dramatic shot of an old factory warehouse going up in smoke and flames, and dwarfing wary bystanders. The collection concludes with a shot of the skeletal remains of another warehouse destroyed by fire. An exposed stairwell clings to a wall that threatens to fall in upon itself, a smokestack juts into a murky sky, a strange, griseous light - present in so many of these images - pervades the scene. There are no bystanders, wary or otherwise.

In between, the photos (the work of 14 different photographers) run the gamut from images of aging shopkeepers who look to be waiting for customers who will never come, to storefront churches resembling small fortresses, with their boarded-up windows and their barred-over front doors (called "security gates"), to the night-time individuals who resemble something out of "Nosferatu," but are, in fact, revelers at a post-game World Series celebration.

Images of the demolished northern end of Poletown are remindful of Depression-era, Dust Bowl prairies. A photo of the ragged remains of the last Uniroyal building, taken on a day in 1986, looks as bleak as a picture out of Dresden in the '40s.

In the Cass Corridor, the exterior of an apartment building, its scabrous interior, and its hollow-eyed tenants appear to have been trashed by some nightmarish malignancy.

Beneath the Ambassador Bridge, basketball courts - closed because the soil on which they were built has been found to be chemically-contaminated - seem as eerie as Dooms-

Here, in a home on Detroit's Near East side, is a family, sitting down to dinner, the children looking tentative, the adults appearing to be little more than resigned to some melancholy fate. Here is an old woman, literally out on the street with her furniture, her beautiful face resigned as well. Here is an old man, alone, at a Labor Day parade somewhere on Woodward Avenue.

Here is the boneyard rubble of another demolished structure, this on Franklin between Joseph Campau and Chene. Here is another on Kanter near Moran. And another at Trombly and Orleans. Here is a Dodge van, stripped and plundered and upside-down at Biltmore near Eight Mile Road. Here is a 1984 Fiero that has suffered the same fate. Here, on Hessel between Prevost and Forrer, is a Mustang, "on location" (we learn from the caption) from July 5 to September 26, 1985.

I don't know - maybe it's best to just examine the photos as slowly as possible, taking them a bit at a time. Perhaps that way, a reader can experience their impact more com-

Bit of England transplanted

special writer

LITTLE bit of England is nestled in a subdivision in Farmington Hills, where Mr. and Mrs. Paul Paddon live. Last year he was given a past master award (since his garden had previously won) in the Farmington Garden Club 3 Good Neighbor Garden contest.

This outstanding gardener uses many different plants with great success. The extremely well-maintained gardens shows his love of plants

Along the driveway and in several beds in the front lawn, flowers abound in riots of color. An evergreen has been fashioned into a topiary. This year the color scheme in the front beds is pink, white and

Two clematises adorn the pillars at each side of the front steps to greet the visitor. Along the side of the house many varieties of columbines gracefully keep watch over lower growing plants, along with lilies in magnificent colors. Paddon was introduced to lilies about nine years ago. He said he loved the spectacular colors, so just kept buying and growing them. In the center of the side yard are two island beds; one contains a wishing well and the other a bird bath. Both are surrounded with begonias, ageratum and sweet alyssum. The edge of the property hasn't been neglected - everywhere I looked was SPECIAL MILDEW RESISTANT zinnias, with blooms as large as saucers, put as a show behind rows of annual statice. Also seen, were primroses, foxgloves and geraniums. I believe Paddon grows most every flower one can name.

Along the back garden, under the spreading arms of a large shade tree, I saw hostas, astilbes, ferns and coleus bordered with ageratum and fibrous begonias.

Next we came upon a full, vegetable garden which is also planted each year. Scarlet runner beans from England have red flowers, besides delicious beans. Other vegetables that are thriving are broccoli. peppers, carrots, onions, cucumbers (to grow on a trellis), rhubarb, and lettuce. Flowering kale ties the flowers and vegetable beds together.

Interplanted among the lilies are rudbeckia and zinnias, so when the lilies are finished, the others will provide color. Salvia, the plume type celosia, and dahlias also play a part in this garden paradise. In the spring cottage tulips, narcisses and others make a show to preview more beauty ahead.

In the backyard is a gazebo festooned with hanging baskets of beautiful flowers.

Along the other side of the house, tuberous begonias, white, yellow and orange, reside with Japanese painted fern and maidenhair fern with lacy leaves. These make a nice contrast to the heavy follage of the begonias. What are Paddon's secrets? Work, work, work. When the catalogs arrive in late December he looks to see what's new. He will try them and always orders the old stand-bys too. New seeds are purchased (they are all hybrids) each year from six seed companies. A small greenhouse attached to the back of the house is the center of many hours of work beginning in January. The seeds are sown in trays and then transferred to six-hole pots. The number of plants involved, boggles the mind.

This gentleman grows all the plants from seeds, uses them all in his garden or gives them away -7,000 of them. He contemplates what he wants to do with the gardens while traveling to and from work. He puts nothing to paper. When the plants are grown up and are almost in flower - when he is ready to set ! them out, that's when he designs the

The tallest flowers are planted in the back and then the others follow according to height.

Paddon says working in his gardens is his anti-stress therapy. He used to grow the flowers for himself, Now he grows them for everybody.

"There are so many ugly things in the world today if you can put a little beauty back in, you've got it made, that's what I've tried to do,"

. POULET EXHIBIT

Etchings and poetry of Livonia artist Jeanne Poulet are on exhibit at the Swords into Plowshares Peace Center & Gallery, Detroit. Entitled "Man's Inhumanity to Man," the exhibit is from Poulet's set of poems and prints, "Bernard with a Suesse (pacifier)." Poulet designed her own process of etching consisting of dots and scratches (as opposed to lines) that become a composite. She recently has moved from black and white to color etching, used in the current exhibit.

The exhibit opens Saturday, July 15 and closes Oct. 7. Opening reception with Poulet is 5-9 p.m. Friday, July 21. The gallery is at 45 E. Adams, Detroit, next to the Detroit Council of the Arts. Regular hours are Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. For information, call 965-5422, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays. • STARS SERIES

The big band sound of the Bob Durant orchestra will be featured in the Livonia Arts Commission's Music Under the Stars offering at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Civic Center Park, Five Mile Road, east of Farmington.

Featured in the Thursday, July 20 concert will be the Livonia Symphony. There is no admission charge, but concert-goers are reminded to bring

"My customers read 'House and Garden,' 'House Beautiful' and 'Ar-chitectural Digest,' " declares Wil-liam Wolf, president and founder of Newton Furniture, with stores in Livonia, Novi and Sterling Heights.

"They have great taste and good ideas. All they need is a bridge between the end goods shown in those magazines and their own budgets,"

Newton Furniture has thrived by making that bridge available to customers. It is southeast Michigan's exclusive Norwalk retailer and has expanded its already extensive Bernhard collection to include a quarter of a million dollar gallery, designed by the award-winning ar-chitect Bryan Forney, in the Twelve Oaks store in Novi.

through on an afternoon."
The idea-packed Bernhardt Gallery, which now composes nearly a third of the Twelve Oaks store, is just part of the Newton story. Wolf, who is originally from Boston and has an MBA from Harvard, is proud to talk about another success — the Norwalk line at Newton Furniture.

"Newton has the closest thing to custom upholstered furniture with Norwalk," said Wolf. "We offer customers a choice of over 400 sofa designs, in nearly a thousand fabrics, and delivery within 30 working days. And the cost runs between $700 and $2,000." Very reasonable, when a sofa today can esily run from $1,000 to $3,000.

"Norwalk isn't just design diversity, nor speed. It's top quality furni-ture that will be replaced because its owners tire of it — not because it has worn out. In fact, it has a lifetime guarantee. It's the tremen kind of value that says quality and individuality doesn't have to be expensive. Newton Furniture has built its name on that concept," said Wolf.

WOLF BEGAN BUILDING his reputation in 1957 when he created furniture lease departments within then-discount kings Arlans and Shoppers Fair "I realized these major department stores were missing sales by having furniture departments," said Wolf

"I had got into the furniture business when I settled in Detroit. I'd managed a store and thought I could manage these lease operations. I sold the concept, started with one department and took off."

Wolf's lease departments numbered 12 when he left in 1974 to devote full time to run his 8,000square-foot store in Dearborn which gave way to a 12,000-square-foot free-standing store in Sterling

Livonia store. Twelve Oaks, next to Comerica on the road ringing the mall, was opened in 1984, and an Ann Arbor store will be opened midsummer in 1989.

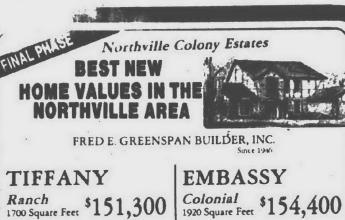

The stores carry Hekman, Lane, Stanley and Stiffel brands, as well as Norwalk and Bernhardt. But there's a reason Newton Furniture is different than other furniture retailers in the metropolitan area.

Wolf said, "We've succeeded because we sell people what they need and want, not necessarily what we have on hand. Many of our competitors sell what they've wareho and that's about it. Customers get a lot of pressure about special orders. At Newton Furniture, we think everything the customer wants is 'special, and we'll do anything we can to help them have it. That's customer satisfaction, and we've been very successful at it."

It's a philosophy that is held by each of Newton's 30 sales associates, and by Wolf's son, who is vice president and secretary of the company.

Flowers create focal point

To me, plants and cut flowers are as essential in the home as doors and windows.

For just a few dollars fresh cut flowers are available at your neighborhood supermarket. A bunch of daffodils in a vase, when there is all snow on the ground, is a wonderful thing to see. It sends the message that spring is just ahead.

Whenever a large bowl of flowers or a large plant is placed, a focal point is created. What-plant is placed, a focal point is created. What-ever the cost or the scale, flowers in a home clear statement of personal style.

. Odd angles and curious recesses that are too small for any human purpose can be filled with plants or flowers.

Large plants can serve as building blocks separating one activity area from another. Placing plants around and in front of a windowsill brings the greenery of outdoors into the interior and intimates a pleasant landscape outdoors where none exists.

The cost of a plant or flower is irrelevant to its inherent beauty. A great deal of money can
