Top vote- getters were also top spenders

The two top vote-getters in the June Plymouth-Canton school board election, David Artley and Robert Anderson, each listed more than $5,000 in total expenditures, making it one of the most expensive school board races in the school district's history. Artley, who expected to spend more than $5,000 on his campaign, placed first in every precinct. A planner and fund-raiser, Artley received 6,168 votes and was elected to a four-year term.

"All the donations were important," said Artley. "There was a whole lot at stake in this election. I feel good that I got that kind of support.

Four years ago when he ran for election, Artley said, he spent less than $500.

This year he beat six other candidates.

Robert J. Anderson, a financial planner backed by the Citizens for Better Education, a group of Christian conservatives opposed to the use of certain teaching materials in the district, came in a distant second. Anderson won 3,166 votes.

Artley listed $6,173.75 in total receipts; $5,507.37 in total expenditures and $261.53 in total in-kind contributions. No debts and obligations were recorded.

Among Artley's largest contributors were: Dean Swartzwelter, $500; Dave Denski, $400; J.A. Block, $200; Ray Buckman, $190; Carol Rundio, $172; Jim Jabara, $100; Clarence DuCharme, $100; and Sheryl Koury, $117.53.

Political Action Committee donations were: 2-A PAC Plymouth-Canton (Mary Ann Freydl), $200; Farmington Coordinating Council PAC/MEA/ NEA, $200; School Community Organization to Promote Education, Livonia-Northville (James S. Carlson), $200; Ray Buckman, $190; Carol Rundio, $172; Prescott PAC (Tom Tyblinka), $150; Sheryl Koury, $117.53; Clarence DuCharme, $100; S.O. PAC S.Lyon (David Stafford) $100; 2-D Political Action Committee (Robert Spenke), $100; and Avondale-Rochester PAC (Thomas Fette) $50, South Oakland PAC $50, and Pontiac Council (Lee Longfield) $25.

An open house was held at Sheryl and Michael Koury's residence.

Anderson listed $5,458.37 in total receipts; $5,340.87 in total expenditures and zero in-kind contributions. He recorded $2,000 in debts and ob-

That was generated from two separate $1,000 loans on June 6 and June 14 from Diane Daskalakis, who heads CBE. The group claims the school district encourages devil worship and shows R-rated movies. Daskalakis made a direct $500 contribution on April 22, according to elec-

Anderson also benefitted from a garage sale held at Daskalakis' residence on June 5 that raised $624.12 and flower sales on May 11 that netted $1,743.25. The rest of the contributions came from small cash donations.

Other candidates filed a reporting waiver because they received or spent less than $1,000.

Changes coming

Joint authority will take over 35th District Court

By Diane Gale staff writer

Everything is in order for the city of Plymouth to be replaced as the sole leasee of the 35th District Court.

And the 35th District Court Authority will take its place.

Canton, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township - all served by the court - will have total control of the building after all debts are paid in an expected 16 years.

THE NEXT STEP is for the city of Plymouth to sign off the lease, which is expected within three weeks, said Judge James Garber.

The city has served as the leasee of the court building at 660 Plymouth Road in Plymouth for the eight years the court has been in operation at

"As far as the operation of the court on a dayto-day basis, the effect is no effect," Garber said. "There will be a significant effect on the future of the land, the building and that kind of thing," he

The five communities recently agreed to creating the 35th District Court Authority, which will include one member from each community and will handle all business operations for the court.

The agreement requires that the communities be responsible for the lease payments needed to retire the bonds previously held by the city of

An authority, like the one recently adopted, was considered in 1979 when thoughts of constructing the court building surfaced.

The decision was not to do it because we really didn't know if the court would be in the red or black," said Garber, adding that if it did become self-supporting an authority would be adopted.

THAT TIME has come.

Last year the court generated $2.2 million, and this year it is expected the court will generate up to $2.5 million, Garber said.

Costs to run the court are $1.5 million. Most of the difference between costs and revenues is returned to the communities.

"Last year we returned about $800,000 to the communities," said Garber. "I would guess this year it would be about the $800,000 range."

The extra money is generated from an increase in the number of cases.

Last year the average caseload statewide for district judges was 11,200 and in 35th District Court the two judges saw about 17,500 each. In the past five years, the number of cases the local court ajudicated increased 55 percent.

"We're starting to build the slightest backload," said Garber, adding that the figure is still manageable.

But if it continues to grow, a year from now and two years from now, we will have a backload." Garber said.

The court advisory board agreed to add a third judge on July 18. Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen and Plymouth attorney Ron Lowe abstained from the vote. It is rumored that both are seeking that post.

Approval from the state legislature is needed before the third judge will be added. Most of the salaries for district court judges are paid by the City manager search is on

The committee to select a new city manager met for the first time Monday night in the wake of former city manager Henry Graper's resignation July 3.

Another selection committee meeting is scheduled for later this week. The committee consists of Commissioners Dennis Bila, who serves as chairman, Robert Jones and Jack Kenyon.

"We just discussed with the city attorney some of the legal implications of how we could meet under the Open Meetings Act," Bila said. "We're going to obey the law, I'm going to tell you that."

The three-man committee also discussed the possibility of using Bartell and Bartell, a Lemont, Pa.,

GRAPER, WHO served as city manager for nearly 10 years, asked for $23,000 for his miscellaneous account - which includes entertainment expenses related to city business - for the current budget year, which began July 1. The commission reduced that to $13,000, according to a report by William Graham, city finance director.

Since that time, Graham has served as acting city manager.

Susan Roberts Moore, a 33-yearold Plymouth-Canton Schools teacher, died Saturday from an illness that was discovered during the delivery of her last child 71/2 months ago.

Moore, of Farmington Hills, died of non-Hodgkins lymphoma, diagnosed November 1988 while she gave birth to Robert, now 7 months. Her lung collapsed and it was discovered she had a large tumor, said Cheryl Johnson, Moore's supervisor in the district's talented and gifted program at East Middle School, where Moore last taught.

"She was an outstanding and dedicated teacher," Johnson said. "And one of the original teachers who started the talented and gifted program."

HER ABILITIES were even seen by people who didn't know her, Johnson said during a eulogy before family and friends, including former students and their parents.

Johnson said she liked to take visitors through Moore's classroom to show how TAG worked. One visitor asked what the secret of the success was. Johnson recalled saying a lot of it had to do with the teacher. The visitor said he didn't have any teachers quite like Moore, Johnson said.

Her husband Jeffrey Moore, described her as "very valiant," and "an extremely great mother of her two children.

"She was a very optimistic person who woke up with a smile on her face and went to bed with a smile on her face and that was true with the way she went about things," Moore

"She was just a real vivacious young person with a real mature head, said Tom Workman, East Middle School principal.

I looked up the definition of commission — it's a group. This present commission has not acted as a group. Don't get me wrong, I'm not saying that we have to agree. It never bothers me that we disagree.

"I was very disappointed that the commissioners who had some problems here did not have the good manners or courtesy to let the group know about it. When people call me and say 'What's going on?' I say, You know as much as I do. Whatever's in the paper is all I know.' I'm sorry that the mayor, when this first came about, did not think that he should bring it before the commission as a body. Although he didn't think it was necessary, I think that was unfortunate.

Since Childs referred to a personnel matter that dealt with an individual's salary, she said that the Freedom of Information Act should have been followed.

"I'm sorry that it wasn't. I still go by the old-fashioned way that you're innocent until proven guilty," said Childs. "At this time let's get on with it. I would hope that from now on that we would act as a commission."

Childs further elaborated after the commission meeting. "I have never seen anything given to me saying this is what the problem seems to be," she said.

Residents found guilty in abortion protest

By C.L. Rugenstein

After almost five hours deliberation a Livonia jury found nine prolife demonstrators, including two Plymouth residents, guilty and acquitted 24 others Monday of disorderly conduct in an April anti-abor-tion protest at a Livonia abortion dinic.

The nine could face up to 90 days in jail, a $500 fine and court costs for the misdemeanor conviction at the Sept. 15 sentencing set by 16th District Court Judge Robert Brzezinski.

were "generally pleased" with the trial's results.

"Up to now we've had a great deal of difficulty getting anybody acquitted in these cases," he said. "This is one of the first times, the first people who've gone to the jury who've gotten acquitted."

But while Brzezinski formally denied use of the "necessity defense," Hibbs' representative said in this case he did allow defendants to state more of their motives. It was not "as ugly as the trial of the 'Livonia Seven'." he said.

IN THAT trial before Judge James McCann, seven pro-life protestors who acted as their own attorneys weren't allowed to state their motives.

"Everything they tried to say in their own defense was cut short by the prosecutor or the judge," the representative said. McCann sentenced them in June to 18 months probation, 25 days on a community work program, and about $1,000 in fines including supervisory fees for the work program.

Hibbs' office filed an appeal for the "Livonia Seven" on July 18.

The 33 defendants were part of a larger group arrested in the April 29 protest at Womancare of Livonia, 27634 Five Mile east of Inkster Road, for blocking access to the facility by sitting in front of two doors and not heeding police warnings to leave the premises.

Arthur M. Carter was destined for politics.
The 49-year-old chairman of the Wayne County Commission grew up in an atmosphere of political activism. His godmother is Detroit City Council president and mayoral candidate Erma Hende His mother was involved in the Young Republicans in the '30s, before switching party allegiance during the Roosevelt administration. His dad and uncles, all members of the United Auto Workers, had spirited discussions on their union.

And young Arthur soaked it up in his house on Detroit's near east side - the current site of Joe Muer's Restaurant parking lot.

Although there are probably days Carter would rather be cruising down the Detroit River on his charter boat Renaissance Queen, his main love is politics.

"I've devoted a great deal of my life to county government. There's still a lot of work to do here. There are things I'd like to pursue," said Carter, a Democrat whose district covers a hig chunk of northwest Detroit including Outer Drive, Rosedale Park and Mt. Carmel

"ONE OF MY goals would be to one day be county executive. That's a very definite goal."

Earlier this year there was some speculation that Carter would jump ship to the beleaguered Detroit Public Schools administration. But he shrugs off that possi-now," he said.

Carter, who has represented the 7th district since Jan. 1, 1975, is six months into a second two-year term as chairman of the 15-member board, which is the legislative branch of county government.

He was unanimously elected chairman by his peers a historical first.

"This is the best commission in Wayne County history," Carter said unabashedly. "We're very diverse, but we work together very well.

"I've seen division between Detroit and the suburbs dissolve. The lines aren't drawn at Telegraph Road. We've really tried to work together whether it's a park issue - all the county parks are in the suburbs, or indigent health care."

Although Wayne County still has budget problems, Carter said the situation is a far cry from the early

Auditors report county finished '88 in the black

By Janice Brunson staff writer

For the first time in some 14 years, Wayne County has balanced its budget and closed its own books for the year.

"This is a very happy moment. The county is operating like a true business," announced a smiling Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara at a press conference

The county ended fiscal year 1988 last November with an operating surplus of $433,000, based on a recently completed audit by Ernst & Whinney.

"Tremendous," said Wayne County Commissioner Susan Hines, R-Northville Township, who credited the balanced budget to the county's 1987 solvency package. "It put us on McNamara said the budget surplus, while insignificant in a total budget of $227 million, was "symbolic. It means we took in slightly more than we spent," the result of an austere budget. In early 1988, some $2.6 million was trimmed from the budget, including $200,000 from mental health services, $220,000 from the county clérk's office and nearly $300,000 from the county sheriff's depart-

McNamara maintained that counservices have not suffered as a result of the trimming. "If anything, we're giving better service," he said, citing highway maintenance and are still in a truly austere period." A limited hiring freeze continues to be implemented and department budgets are under close review.

Of greatest concern is the county's portion of the Child Care Fund for abused, neglected and delinquent youth. Budgeted for $32 million, costs are rapidly escalating, causing budget concerns.

There are some complications here," McNamara conceded.

There are no plans to increase revenue by selling off county-owned property, aside from the sale of the former Child Development Center, a 1,000-acre plot in Northville Town-

Any additional income from this source would likely be used in upgrading such existing services as the Hall of Justice or the Wayne County

Morgue, according to McNamara. Earlier this year, the county's financial recovery received a major boost when Moody's, a Wall Street credit rating agency, upgraded the county's credit rating to "investment" level for the first time since

When McNamara assumed office in 1987, the county had a $134 mil-TO ASSURE a balanced budget lion deficit and was on the verge of

DSO talks about Lansing bailout

By Tim Richard staff writer

Lansing's ears should be burning. People at the nearly bankrupt Detroit Symphony Orchestra are talking about state government as the leader in an $18 million bailout.

"I've talked to the budget director, and they agree something should be done so they don't have problems," said state Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, the Legislature's chief supporter of the arts.

"I intend to do something again," daid Faxon, who despite his minority party status has a major role in geting state money for the arts. DSO LEADERS announced Monday there is "no way" they can meet this week's $200,000 payroll. They are asking 97 musicians and 58 staff members to accept half pay.

Board chairman Steve Miller said the orchestra needs $18 million in pledges over four years to remain solvent. A source close to the DSO was quoted as saying the state had been asked for half or more of that Faxon, an Appropriations Committee member, said the state provides DSO $2.5 million currently.

"There is also lurking in the Senate and House a 'supplemental' appropriations bill," said Faxon. The $500 million bill has yet to be acted on by a joint Senate-House committee. It would supplement the current

A SPOKESMAN for Senate Majorty Leader John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, said there was no plan to consider more DSO money until the with Deborah Borda. DSO's executive director and chief staff person. "I indicated my concerns and gave her some suggestions. She has a lot of energy. She knows her business."

BUT FAXON said that except for brief social encounters he hadn't met with Miller, the Chrysler executive who took over the reins at the DSO

"I don't know him that well. I don't know where he's going," Faxon

The Oakland County senator said Miller brought DSO "tremendous adverse publicity — national and inter-national" — when he caved into pressure from two black legislators and hired a second black musician.

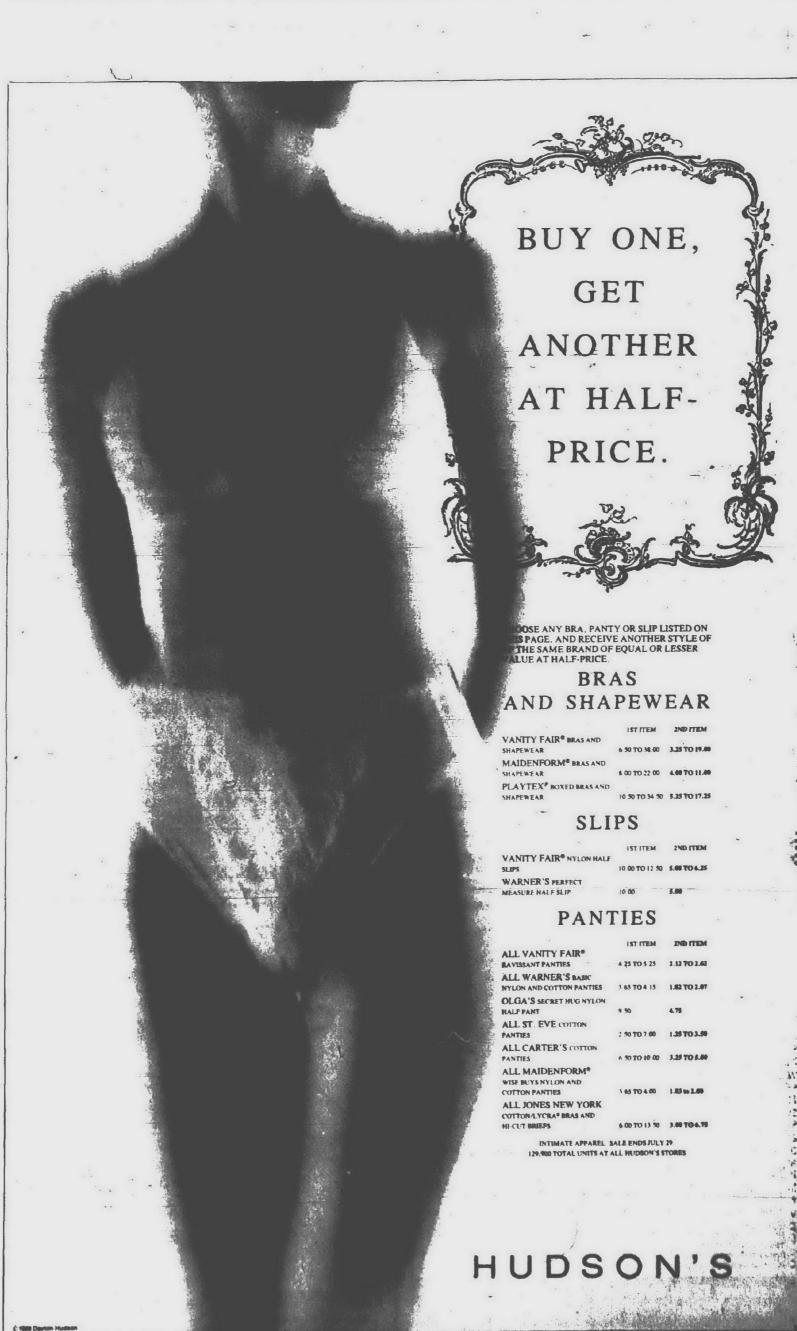

"She (Borda) believed if this wasn't done, they (the DSO) weren't going to get their (state) money. It just wasn't true," said Faxon. His unspoken message was that Miller should touch bases with him on legislative protocol.

"If someone were holding a gun to me, I'd want to find out who my friends are," Faxon said.

What worries him most is the rising cost of health care for indigents and the cost of caring for abused and neglected children - two areas the county is responsi-

These are two major hurdles to the financial solvency of Wayne County," said Carter.

The legislative and executive branch have locked horns on many issues, most recently child care for county employees. KidSpace advocates (with the blessing of County Executive Edward McNamara) crammed a recent board meeting to demand action on the day care

But Carter questions the fiscal responsibility of offering a limited option (KidSpace would be licensed for up to 90 children) to a few employees out of Wayne County's 4,500 worker pool.

"The fact is we are running a deficit," Carter said. "I've seen money spent on good programs in the past, but that's why we're in dire financial straits now. I'd be the first to support (Kidspace) with outside funding."

Carter believes controversy is a good thing in politics. "I NEVER shy away from a meaningful fight," he said. "It's healthier than the good ol' boys sitting in the back room cutting deals."

A project dear to his heart is creation of a youth camp where non-violent juvenile offenders can get education and training that can turn them away from a life of serious crime.

"The Wayne County Residential Youth Academy would be an intervention tool," he said.

County voters approved a millage last August that includes funds to develop the youth work and learn facility. Carter said he hopes the project is under way by

The program will be based on the highly successful Glen Mills schools in Concordville, Pa.

"After seeing Glen Mills and witnessing how these aggressive young men are being transformed into motivated citizens, we are filled with hope and conviction that something positive can be done about juvenile crime in Wayne County."

"Politics was an avocation. But I had a family to feed," he said.

His offspring include a 25-year-old daughter, a 21year-old son who just graduated from Harvard, and another son, an 18-year-old college sophomore. He and his second wife, Deborah, assistant to the provost at Wayne County Community College, have a 3-year-old son and the family also includes Deborah's 15-year-old daughter from a previous marriage.

Director aims to boost parks' image

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Call it the birth of a salesman. Hurley Coleman is out to sell area communities on a product they've had for 70 years — the Wayne County Park system. "It's been here practically forever, yet we're finding that many people still aren't even aware it exists," said Coleman, the county's new parks director. "We've got an image problem."

To boost the parks' image, he's starting with a simple premise:

"If, all of a sudden, people were to lose the county parks, would they know what they've lost?" Coleman said, describing the question that will guide him during his tenure as county parks chief.

"Right now, there are city softball leagues that use our diamonds," he said. "If they weren't there, these teams would have no place to play. This is the kind of thing we hope to

"While the people I've met so far have been very warm and very interested in the parks, it appears people in one community generally aren't aware what goes on among their neighbors," he said. "What we need to do is have people look at the parks as a package."

FOR ITS part, the county parks system is considering offering services to local recreation agencies.

This is still in the planning stage, but what we'd like to do is to offer something, at least in the way of expertise, that the locals couldn't provide on their own," he said. "In some cases, we could even come in and run programs.

'We have a very dedicated, capable staff, all the way around," he said. "That's one of the things that's impressed me most."

could strengthen ties between the county parks system and the communities it serves.

A canoe launch, near the Nankin Mills recreation area, is another top priority, he said. County officials hope to be able to allow canceing at least along a portion of the Rouge River by next summer. A canoe storage area is being targeted as a special Michigan Youth Corps project,

IN ADDITION to participating in the Rouge Rescue last month, Colemen has traveled to Washington, D.C., to help gain financing assistance for the parks.

"This is one of the oldest parks systems in the United States, and in many ways it's a role model for the federal system," he said. "What we'd like to see is at least some kind of historic designation for the parks."

"When (Wayne County Executive) Ed McNamara selected me for the job, it sent a message that here is a young person with a commitment to parks and with the ability to get along with people," Coleman said. "I think that's important."

COLEMAN, 36, spent the past four years as recreation administrator for the city of Saginaw. There, he oversaw installation of a wave-action pool and water slide.

McNamara praised his ability to maintain parks services despite cutbacks in city financing.

As Wayne County parks director, Coleman will oversee nearly 4,500 acres of open space, a 36-hole golf course and a boat launch and marina, in addition to Holliday Nature preserve in Westland and Canton Township.

In addition to his county duties, Coleman is chairman of the Governor's Recreation Advisory Committee and is president-elect of the Michigan Recreation and Parks As-

Married and the father of three. Hurley said he and his family are definitely "parks people."

"If my wife and I want to make our children happy," he said, "all we have to do is tell them we're taking them to the park."

Hurley Coleman, 36, is out to sell area communities on a product they've had for 70 years — the Wayne County Park system.

The project, being performed by Greenfield Construction Co., also involves widening Newburgh from two to five lanes between Plymouth and Ann Arbor roads.

Clark said the project, paid for mainly through federal funds and with help from the city and county, was sparked by traffic concerns.

Look for a donnybrook at public hearings over state pro-life bills in September and October.

That's when chairman Fred Dillingham's Senate Human Resources Committee is likely to take up four pieces of legislation in the wake of the U.S. Supreme Court's decision allowing states greater powers to regulate the termination of a pregnancy.
"It's a committee designed for terror," said Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, who is pro-choice.

"It's a double-stacked committee," said Faxon after the Senate rejected pro-choice Sen. Lana Pollack's effort to send the measures to the Health Policy Commit-Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, has his name on efforts to cut state spending for abortions. Geake, a psychologist, is pro-life.

Other members are Harmon Cropsey, R-Decatur, a religious fundamentalist; Gil DiNello, D-East Detroit, the Senate's most conservative Democrat; and John Cherry, D-Clio, who is pro-life. "Pollack moved to send it to the Health Policy Committee, which she thought would be friendlier," said Geake. Health Policy is headed by moderate Sen. William Sederburg, R-East Lansing, and includes a physician, Sen. John Schwarz, R-Battle Creek.

Geake predicted the measures would probably pass the full Senate in fall but might have more trouble in the House and on Gov. James J. Blanchard's desk.

Judiciary Chairman Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, said the bills didn't belong in his committee because no constitutional issue involved.

"His committee has done a lot of health issues. It wasn't shenanigans" to send the anti-abortion issues to Human Resources.

"We've had a few pieces of mail already," he said.

THE MEASURES are:

• Senate Bill 513 (sponsored by Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo) - requiring parental consent before a minor (someone younger than 18) could have an abortion. But the minor could obtain a judge's consent under certain conditions

• SB 514 (Welborn) — based on the Missouri statute upheld by the Supreme Court on July 3. • Senate Joint Resolution H (Dillingham) — a constitutional amendment to outlaw abortion as a benefit in state employees' health care packages.

Infertility therapy is an investigation into and the treatment of problems preventing conception. We evaluate women who have been trying to become pregnant for at least one year. If the woman is over 35 years of age, she is evaluated after six months of attempting to achieve pregnancy. We evaluate immediately a woman who has an obvious cause of infertility such as lack of menstruation or known damage to the fallopian tubes. In addition, we offer treatment for people who have had sterilization and desire reversal, for women who have had repeated miscarriages, and for women with uterine fibroids or pelvic endometriosis.

What kinds of infertility testing does Oakwood offer?

Tests are conducted on both the husband and wife, beginning with the simplest tests. Included may be evaluation of ovulation by observing basal body temperatures in the wife, hormonal studies, a hysterosalpingogram (a test to determine if the fallopian tubes are obstructed), and semen analyses.

ed an the an-re-en the led 69.

If these tests are normal, we conduct a postcoltal test a few hours after intercourse to see if the sperm are surviving well in the cervical mucus. If this is normal, we do an endometrial biopsy to evaluate the lining of the uterus, to tell us whether it is developing well enough for an egg to attach. As a last step, we use a laparoscope (a telescope-like device with a camera) to view and evaluate the uterus,

Once the cause of infertility is diagnosed, what can you do to correct the problem?

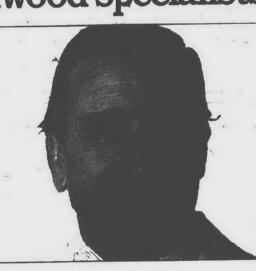

A. We prescribe medication (fertility drugs) to correct lack of ovulation. Blockage of the fallopian tubes is corrected by surgery. If the woman has a problem with her cervical mucus, we administer medication or perform artificial insemination with the husband's

If problems with semen quality are encountered, medication, insemination with the husband's semen, or referral to a urologist for repair of a varicose vein in.... the scrotum (if one exists) may be used. If the semen quality cannot be improved. we offer artificial insemination with donor semen.

In vitro fertilization is offered in cases of irreparable tubal damage, severe endometriosis, uncorrectable cervical problems, and very low sperm counts.

How long does a patient need to see an infertility specialist?

Until a successful pregnancy is achieved or we determine that a problem exists which cannot be corrected. A successful pregnancy is defined as being able to detect a fetal heartbeat in the uterus on an ultrasound. If the pregnancy is progressing normally, the woman is referred back to her obstetrician. If it is considered a high-risk pregnancy, the obstetrician may seek consultation with a perinatologist, such as Dr. Mariona.

DR. FEDERICO MARIONA Director of Oakwood's Division of Maternal-Fetal Medicine.

How do you determine if a pregnancy ple of amniotic fluid that is then examis "high-risk"?

A. We review the patient's previous obstetrical history and present health. A high risk pregnancy can occur in a young* woman with a chronic disease, such as diabetes, high blood pressure, or heart disease; a woman with a history of past problem pregnancies, including multiple miscarriages; and/or a woman who is over age 35.

Q. What is the first step a woman fitting any of these profiles should take when considering pregnancy?

A. First she should come in for preconception counseling with her partner. During our initial meeting, we would discuss the couple's general health and medical history and determine what their risks are for carrying a baby to term.

What services does Oakwood's Division of Maternal-Fetal Medicine offer for high-risk pregnancy?

We perform prenatal diagnosis on the fetus to give the couple appropriate information on the presence of a normal or abnormal baby. These tests include chorionic villus sampling (CVS), in which a portion of the placental tissue is examined for genetic abnormalities while the fetus is attaching itself to the lining of the uterus. This test can be performed as early as eight or nime weeks into the pregnancy.

We also do ammiocentesis when the fetus is between 13 and 15 weeks old.

During this procedure, we obtain a sain-ined for genetic abnormalities.

If the pregnancy is further along, we perform ultrasound, in which high frequency sound penetrates into the tissue and bounces off the structure of the fetus to generate pictures that we can observe. We use various types of ultrasound to look at organs, how the organs are functioning, and how the baby's systems are developing. We then arrive at a total evaluation that tells us if the baby is normal, growing, and functioning as it should.

Later in the pregnancy, other observations are performed, including but not limited to electronic and biophysical observations of the developing fetus, along with continuous monitoring of the mother to detect or treat complications.

City manager

Consider local candidates

N SEARCH OF a city manager. Maybe it'll be a TV movie someday. The great searches, which communities often conduct when looking for a city manager, could be the grist for such a movie.

The city commission has appointed a threemember committee to start looking for someone to replace Henry Graper, who resigned this month because of what he describes as a difference with the commission over management techniques.

Currently, that commission is talking about hiring a consulting firm to work on such a search. And we're sure there will be candidates from many places when the selection process gets into high gear. But while we agree that the city of Plymouth should hire the best manager possible, we think that the city shouldn't overlook homegrown products. Often assistants of the city manager are overlooked. They often share the same fate as assistant managers in the major leagues. While a national search is going on, the guy who could handle the ballclub is ignored because he or she is local.

CITY LEADERS often ignore that everybody has to be from some place.

So when the selection process gets going, we hope that those working for the city currently will get the same chance to apply as those unearthed by a consulting firm.

And while the city commission will probably have its own criteria for selection of a new manager, we've got some ideas, too.

Here are our qualifications for a city manager: · Have the ability to keep a solid mix of retail, industrial and residential properties in the city. All are crucial to the tax base and to the population mix that makes Plymouth a real small town.

• Keep the downtown vibrant but at the same time have a feeling for the hometown atmosphere that makes Plymouth what it is.

• Have some experience with the tourist industry, which is becoming more important in Plymouth.

Currently that commission is talking about hiring a consulting firm to work on such a search. And we're sure there will be candidates from many places when the selection process gets into high gear.

Be accessible to the public.

· Be responsible and willing to go out of his or her way to appear before groups to explain what the city is doing.

 Have the ability to look into the future a bit and predict the problems the city will face a few years down the road. Development is happening quickly in western Wayne County, and the city will need somebody who can predict which way the winds will be blowing.

THE GRAPER AUDIT: We're still wondering how much is enough. Auditors are looking at Graper's expenditures. Graper last year requested $23,000 for his miscellaneous account, which includes entertainment expenses for city business. For the 11-month period from July 1988 through May 1989, city administrators, including Graper and other department heads, ran up a tab of $18,609 at the Mayflower Hotel, Plymouth Landing and Hillside Inn, according to city

Meanwhile, in nearby Northville, the city manager spent less than $200 on business entertainment.

We know that comparing communities often isn't fair. They usually record spending in different ways, so it's often hard to make a fair comparison. Also different communities have different needs when it comes to business entertaining.

However, there's a big disparity between $200 and $23,000. We think city residents are owed a quick and full explanation. Also, Graper is owed a quick resolution of the spending question. He has served the city well during his tenure and should be allowed to get on with his life quickly.

No matter the demographics, a community needs the arts to live and grow. Without the arts, a community will eventually dwindle and perish.

I was thinking about that the other day as I was hosted to a tour through the Birmingham Village Players playhouse by members John Reddy and Art Underwood.

Many of you will remember Art as proprietor of the Little Professor Bookstore on Grand River in Farmington Hills. John is an editorial executive here at the paper who is reluctant to mix his activities. But because of my interest in the theater, he finally consented to a tour of his other life.

It was a delight.

THE VILLAGE Players, which has raised the curtain for more than 60 years, is one of the more successful local theater groups around. At present, the playhouse is being renovated to open for yet another season in September.

But they are not alone. The Village Players, and many other groups like them, reflect that sense of community that often is lost as our met-

They are a spirited bunch. To survive, they have to be. Live theater, even at its most successful, is a struggling venture.

Many don't survive. But the arts in our area has always lead a fringe existence. As we can see by recent events in the metro area, the arts is

IN CONTRAST, anyone traveling to Toronto, North America's premiere big city, can see how support of the arts fits into the vitality of a community. Now whether it's a reflection of success or a cause of it can be debated. But it's there, an integral part of everyday life as are the streets full of people at all times of the day and night.

Metro Detroit isn't so lucky. Our symphony is struggling, unable to even meet the payroll. The quality of our live theater is spotty at best in comparison to other major cities.

When the going gets tough in school districts, the first things to go are music programs and library ser-

Time for drivers to fight back

S A FREEWAY driver, how long has it been at the jerk who's glided into your lane without signaling, nearly sheering off your front bumper?

Probably a long time. Freeway shootings have seen to that, and made us that much more paranoid in the process.

It's not healthy and it's not natural. Any doctor will tell you stress needs an outlet. Any driver will tell you navigating metro area freeways is stressful.

That's ridiculous. A few armed lunatics have made us afraid to honk a horn in the Motor City.

Honking off that blind fool careening across since you've laid on the horn and shouted lanes is a time-honored tradition around here. It relieves stress. It directs frustrations where they should be directed and keeps us from taking it out somewhere else, on someone else.

> So let's get together on this. Someone saw the guy in the Geo Tracker who took at shot earlier this month at a car on I-696 near Orchard Lake Road. Call the police and help prosecute.

I would like to respond to the article in the July 13 issue of the Observer entitled "Catholic group seeking To the editor: free choice for abortion."

In the article, Sandra Damesworth says that it disturbs her that "Catholics for Free Choice" finds itself at odds with Catholic leaders and states "it is appaling that a church which claims to be committed to social justice would withdraw from women the ability to make decisions about Women do have the ability to make decisions about their lives: To conceive or not to conceive. It would be appalling to me if the church did not try to protect God's most defenseless, the unborn.

Even in the rare case of pregnancy from rape, the unborn baby in danger of abortion would be the innocent defenseless victim paying with his/her life for the crime of the father.

What about adoption instead of abortion? There are long waiting lists while babies are being killed by the millions. Hopefully future court decisions will honor the father's rights and also rights of parents over their minor children. But most important the rights of the unborn person should be protected against the ultimate child abuse, abortion.

Barbara Schmid

Protect rights Other issues consideration

President Bush should get off his patriotic perch and learn what real concerns are in this country. That goes for anyone else - legislators, congressmen, governors, citizens, etc. - who condemns the Supreme Court decision upholding the person's right of expression through flag burning.

I find it disconcerting that in an era when we have millions of people without access to health care, homes, jobs or good education, people are rallying behind the protection of a piece of fabric in the name of "patriotism." Don't they know that a flag is merely a piece of cloth that represents an idea? By itself, the flag is nothing. Protesters in Iran, Iraq, Libya and other countries have proven this by burning it in full view of the world. We knew then as we know now that the love we have for our country is embodied in our support for the freedoms we enjoy. Yet, if many self-righteous people have their way, flag desecration as they wish to call it - will be either in violation of federal law or the U.S. Constitution. Are these people insane or are they just stupid? Maybe both. I can't decide which.

How can a country that supports human rights also support condem-Canton nation of a person who wishes to burn the "symbol" of our country in protest? This just doesn't make sense. As a political democracy, this country has always supported the necessity for our citizens to criticize governmental action without fear of

If it takes desecration of the flag as a national symbol to get the public's attention to our individual ideas, then so be it. We are already prohibited from inciting riots or carrying out other dangerous actions. But burning, shredding, or otherwise mutilating a flag is a harmless form of protest that is and should continue to be allowed by the most basic of our freedoms - freedom of speech.

Personally, I have no reason to desecrate our flag. However, that doesn't mean that I wouldn't have a reason in the future. But to prohibit such an action is a ludicrous step that many people are willing to do because they are afraid of being tagged "unpatriotic." Well, I'm not afraid. We must be willing to support unpopular positions in favor of our basic freedoms. Take public protests by the Ku Klux Klan and neo-Nazis, for example. As much as I deplore these groups, I have to recognize their right to express their views. The flag-burning issue is no different.

This country has too many problems for us to waste time trying to erode our ability to express political ideas. Our leaders should do something worthwhile for a change rather than be afraid of taking a correct yet unpopular - position.

Steven W. Simmons, Farmington Hills

Abortion debate

Other issues need our attention

ITH THE onslaught of the Michigan gubernatorial sweepstakes, voters can only hope there is more to political life in Michigan than the abortion Important, yes, but abortion shouldn't be the all to end all of political debate in the Wolverine state. Unfortunately, the danger exists that, with the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision giving states more latitude in limiting abortion rights, this very emotional issue will become the main focus of political debate.

Without a doubt, the pro-life forces will inundate candidates of all stripes with their litmus test of loyalty to their cause. And pro-choice forces will be forced to respond with equal fer-

Neither politicians nor abortion activists, proor con, can be relied upon to keep the ship of state on an even keel.

ONLY VOTERS, those out of the mainstream of power and special interest, can be relied upon to maintain a balance in the upcoming debate. Only the reaction of voters can ensure that all important issues will remain in focus

While a militant group of citizens do feel that abortion is the most important issue, others realize that this state's leaders must address an agenda of political concerns.

• The governor and Lansing lawmakers must resolve the dilemma of public education which is rapidly becoming a system of haves and have-

• A plan must be molded to aid our socially and economically wounded cities. • The state must take a more active roll in dealing effectively with the war on drugs. • Highway expansion and repair must be sorted out before we are overwhelmed with clogged highways.

• Economic development still must be a number one concern of a state which still lags behind much of the rest of the nation in maintaining healthy employment figures.

The list could go on. But as easily can be seen much more than the merits and demerits of abortion need to be discussed.

The voters will decide if this is to be so.

Beverage industry loses a round

THIS TIME the beverage industry caved in fairly quickly.

The Michigan Legislature last week put the finishing touches on a pair of bills to deal with unclaimed deposits on beer, pop and wine cooler bottles and cans.

Those are the containers we all occasionally break and which some of us still discard along roadsides, woods and lakeshores.

Depending on whom you want to believe, those unclaimed deposits each year total $12 million (manufacturers and wholesalers) or $38 million (state Department of Natural Resources).

Under the new pair of laws, that money will be accumulated for 10 years in a state trust fund. Then for the following 50 years, the interest - maybe $50 million a year - will be used for toxic cleanups, solid waste disposal, recycling and enforcing environmental laws.

Without doubt, Gov. Jim Blanchard will sign the second bill as he

Let's note, at the outset, that Michiganians as a group take pride in their state's beauty. In contrast, note the trash-laden hillsides along I-75 or any other road in Kentucky. Michiganians want their state kept tidy. That is a given. In 1976 the Michigan United Conservation Clubs asked the Legislature to pass a law requiring deposits on all beer and pop containers. No luck. MUCC and its allies used an initiative petition to place the deposit bill on the ballot.

There ensued a vicious campaign on the part of the industry, organized as the Committee Against Forced Deposits, though I prefer to call it the Litter Lobby. Its theme, essen-THAT VICTORY didn't come easitially false, was that only a tiny fraction LCC lacked authority to amend a vo-

The morning before the state Liquor Control Commission (LCC) held a hearing on whether to place a deposit on wine cooler bottles, I recall picking eight wine cooler empties off my lawn.

The industry's response was to question the patriotism of anyone who would place any restriction on wine coolers, a totally American

First the Legislature decided the tion of the litter was due to beer and ter-initiated law by a rule. Then the lawmakers dillydallied while the MUCC and its allies cranked up a second petition drive.

In the end, the wine cooler industry was defeated, and the Legislature, under pressure, gave threefourths approval to an amendment to the deposit law covering wine

THE THIRD chapter is closing.

This time MUCC had to gather only 30,000 petition signatures of the 300,000 it needed in order to convince the Legislature it was serious about using unclaimed deposits for environmental cleanup.

If the industry had had its way, it would have given a fraction of that money to toxic cleanups and alcoholism programs.

As this chapter is written, I have no way of guessing what the next episode in the deposit story will be. But as it unfolds, I hope industry will have brains enough to grasp that Michiganians want a clean state and that the Litter Lobby will give in without an expensive, knock-down,

Racial attitudes need changing

That's the opening line from Spike Lee's new film, "Do The Right Thing." And right there, both in the opening and title, lies its ambiguity and its brilliance.

In fact, at 8 a.m. Monday, on a cooler summer day than Lee depicts, in Birmingham, not Brooklyn, 25 people — suburban white and black people — showed up at The Community House to probe what indeed this amazing film is all about.

Who, in fact, is Lee asking to wake up? And what, in fact, is the right thing to do?

Lending a practiced eye as well as a wealth of background in film to the discussion was Lewis Beale, a Detroit Free Press reporter recently transferred from L.A. where he had been a film industry reporter for the Los Angeles Daily News. He and his wife are new residents of Birming-

They are the concerned people who recently put on the community forum in response to the racial problems in Birmingham schools and who now are planning a fall communitywide conference on achieving a diverse commu-

BEALE, WHO IS white, criticized the white media, particularly the allimportant New York City white media, for misinterpreting the film, for seeing it as "a very New York picture" and a call to racial violence.

No, this is not just a New York City film. As Marcia Femrite, a white former Detroit teacher now. from Bloomfield Hills said, "You don't have to go far from here to see that street. The rage is not surprising at all."

Said Dana Cunningham, a black woman from West Bloomfield, "I think Spike makes his pictures for black people." Her interpretation of "Wake up" is that black people need to learn to take care of themselves economically. Black people haven't done what other immigrant groups have, she

GORDON MAY, the black director of Oakland Community College's Pontiac Center, sees the film as a call for corporate America to wake up. When the pizza parlor owner refuses to hang other-than-Italian ce-lebrities on his wall, May extends that to: no minorities on the wall of corporate America.

When Mary Cay Dirks, a white Bloomfield Hills resident, responds that it's obviously in corporate America's best interest to hire and train minorities, Cunningham points

"It may be in corporate America's best interest, but we haven't seen enough of it," adding that business is one of the main opponents of Michigan's school finance reform.

Much of the discussion of what is indeed "the right thing" turned on the film's ending, which featured a quote from Martin Luther King urging non-violence followed by one from Malcolm X, ostensibly urging "The movie stands on its own. It as stating that when you are attacked, you attack back. "DO THE RIGHT Thing" is "one of the most important films made in this country in the last 10 years," Beale says. It well may be, for whatever your interpretation, the scenario it depicts is real - the growing rage of the young black community. How the current backward march in civil rights will play into all of this is a clear question. But it's one we all, city dwellers and suburban-ites, blacks and whites, had better attend to pretty quick.

Year-round school has some support

Q: The state of California is considering a year-round school program; specifically, the 45/15 whatever that is. The article I read said that with such a program, buildings don't sit vacant all summer. Should Michigan look at the yearround school?

A: Some districts have looked at the program. Proposals for a yearround school program always seem to surface in states, such as California, or school districts in which an enrollment crunch packs school fa-

A 45/15 program means children are in the classroom for 45 days and then have a 15-day vacation four times a year. There are four groups of students. Three groups are in class while the fourth is on vacation. Buildings are therefore used all year long and are not sitting idle from June to September.

that existing buildings can house one-fourth more students, and that money is saved because the construction of new schools is not needed. The program is relatively easy to implement at the elementary level. Due to the type of scheduling at the middle and high school levels, it becomes extremely difficult and costly to implement a 45/15 year-round program. At the high school level, if a school district has one advanced placement physics class of 28 stu-The value to a school district is program, you could have only seven return to the September to June students in each of the four different groups. Instead of one teacher for 28 students, one teacher is needed for every seven students. This requires hiring additional staff and would drain a district's budget.

In Michigan, there is parental and teacher support both for and against the 45/15 concept.

Problems arise if a family with two or three children have, for example, a cottage up north. Their children could be on different cycles; that is, one child may be going to school in July and August when the other children in the family are on a break. Districts in Michigan that have used the 45/15 program worked diligently to schedule all students on the same 45-day cycle, i.e, February, March, April. However, it doesn't always work.

The bottom line is that most disdents in a 45/15 year-round school tricts that adopt the program tend to

Has civilian life changed L. Brooks?

By Philip A. Sherman staff writer

Six months into civilian life, after 16 years as Oakland County's prosecutor, L. Brooks Patterson is still a man of carefully chosen words.

Thorburn has left the Oakland County bench and Patterson is in the litigation section of Barbier and Tolleson, a Troy law firm. "I'm still on a learning curve. I was out of civil practice for 16 years," he said.

HE THINKS he left the prosecutor's office with a 90 percent success rate. He enjoys his new job. And he hasn't backed away from issues im-

Patterson said he has "no immediate agenda" regarding his own political career, but added "I'll never say never" when asked if he'd eventually make a run for the governor's office. On other issues, Patterson:

· Said if he were a citizen on the county's newly appointed Judicial Selection Committee, which will interview candidates for the two circuit court openings in next year, the top three characteristics he would look for are "fairness, intellect and objectivity, in that order. • Misses "the strokes the most." He said on his last day as prosecutor, while he was walking down the hall, a crying woman ran up, hugged him and thanked him for bringing her daughter home. Games teach kids lessons for life

Abraham Eanes gets some words of advice from Twins assistant coach Cary Black. Many local young people participate in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League.

Parents can set a good example

Most young athletes won't grow up to enjoy the success of an Isiah Thomas or a Martina Navratilova.

That's not to say participating in sports isn't beneficial. Such involvement can help young athletes learn the value of teamwork and honest effort.

'Obviously, all parents like to see their children succeed," said Bob Dates, recreation supervisor for Canton Township.

"I think the biggest thing it takes is patience," he said. "A lot of parents might expect too much of the kids right away. They forget the kids are just beginning in some of these things.' Chris Mroczka, treasurer and registration chairwoman for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League, agrees that parents need to be patient. She and her husband have three sons, ages 11, 19 and 20. Their youngest son plays now and their older sons have in the past.

CHILDREN NEED time to develop athletic skills, she said.

"Every year, their coordination gets better." Games become more exciting to watch as athletes progress, she said.

'A lot of parents might expect too much of the kids right away. They forget the kids are just beginning in some of these things.'

 Bob Dates Canton recreation supervisor

The baseball league includes more than 2,100 boys and girls ages 7-18. Mroczka, a Canton resident, hasn't seen much of a problem with overzealous parents.

Umpires at games have the authority to remove parents from the playing area if parents become too vocal. Parents are first given warnings, and asked to leave if they continue to cause problems.

'It's a pretty rare instance that a parent is asked to leave," she said. That happens maybe once or twice a season

Old Village house suits them just fine

By Julie Brown staff writer

The exterior of the Touhey house in Plymouth has a rather old-fashioned look. When you step inside, however, it's just about all modern.

Pat and Pam Touhey moved into the Old Village house in late March. They have title work on the house dating to 1865. The house has been , added on to over the years. In the past it was used as a duplex.

The Touheys have enjoy ing on the 2,700-square-foot house. It includes five bedrooms, providing enough space for the Touheys and their children, 11-year-old twins Sean and Justin, 7-year-old Christopher and 1-year-old Megan.

The family moved from Plymouth Township, where they'd lived "in a small home that had a rural setting,' said Pam Touhey, a massage therapist. "We kind of hated to give up the secluded feeling we had." They lived in the Plymouth Township house, which backed up onto Hines Park, for more than 10 years. The family simply outgrew their 1950s-era house and decided to move to Old Village

"It's the perfect house for having four kids," Pam said.

THEIR WORK included putting in drywall throughout the house on Holbrook, giving those walls a uniform quality.

The Touheys had the electrical system checked as well, making sure it was suitable for such appliances as a dishwasher, washer, dryer and air conditioner. That work included having new circuit breakers and panels put in, along with the addition of new outlets and fixtures.

They hired out the electrical work. That's generally a good safety practice, said Pat Touhey, a real estate developer. Codes change, and wiring that was acceptable years ago may not be now.

"Plumbing is an area that you should have checked," Pat said. "The plumbing was in pretty good shape." They bought new fixtures, sinks and faucets. "After that, it was just really flooring and wall colorings," Pat Toubey said.

THE TOUHEYS prefer a more contemporary look. This smooths out a room and gets rid of irregularities. "Then you can decorate any way," Pat said. "You could put antiques in here just as easily.' They recarpeted throughout the house, choosing neutral colors. Those shades are ideal in that they blend with apple juice and peanut butter,

Pat Touhey said with a smile. They painted just about all the woodwork in their home. The Touheys chose track lighting fix-

Friends helped them do much of the work. Their sons were able to help out, too, and came to appreciate the work involved. The boys helped with cleaning, pulling up carpet and taking down old wallpaper. Doing so "made them feel more comfortable when we moved in," Pam Touhey said. Finding contemporary accessories and furnishings took some searching.

"Plymouth is such a country kind of place," Pam said. Many accessories in their house came from The Penniman Showcase in Plymouth.

THEY LIKE the architectural diversity of Old Village.

"A lot of these houses have been here for 100 years, built around the railroad tracks." Pat Touhey said.

The area includes commercial, retail and light manufacturing buildings. Residential buildings - singlefamily houses, duplexes, condominiums and apartments - are included. 'It's been good for the kids because it gives the kids a lot more independence," Pam Touhey said.

Their sons can easily walk to the fish market, the grocery store or the Dunning-Hough Library. "Everything is right here, so we've got a lot more things available to us nan we did out there," Pam said. The trains don't bother them.

"I like it," Pat said. "At night, you hear a train whistle coming down. It makes me think of travel and adven-

THE TOUHEYS did well on the sale of their previous house, giving them the flexibility to do a lot of work on their new house right away. Not everyone has that option, Pat Touhey said. It's possible to work on a house room by room.

Balloonists from the Peoples Reiblic of China went home this week with good memories.

"Everybody says their first impression is that everybody is friendly to us," said Qin Jianmin, interpreter for the group. "They showed us great hospitality.

The balloonists from Anyang arrived in Plymouth June 27 and left for home Tuesday. The Chinese came to Plymouth as guests of R. Scott Lorenz, co-owner and general manager of the Mayflower Hotel.

"It's been a fantastic trip for me too," Lorenz said. "It's been a very enlightening experience."

Lorenz was in China in October 1988. He met the balloonists and invited them to visit Plymouth.

THE GROUP included Zhang Jie, president of the Anyang Aviation School, Hao Dongshan, Zhang Futai and Qin Jianmin.

"We enjoyed ourselves very much," said Qin. "The American people are very friendly to us."
The balloonists flew a couple times over the Kensington Metropolitan Park area. The group particinated in balloon competitions during their three-week visit, and found time to do some sightseeing.

Their first weekend in Michigan, the group traveled to Traverse City for a balloon competition. The weekend of July 7-9 they traveled to

Howell for a competition. The group arrived and left via airplane, rather than taking their balloon all the way from Anyang to Detroit. Their schedule included a visit to Greenfield Village and to Niagara

The Chinese men enjoyed learning about the automobile's history while at Henry Ford Museum.

"It's very educational, because it is studied from the origin of the industry," said Qin. They were also interested in the farming equipment at Henry Ford Museum.

"We think our Chinese agriculture is still very backward," Qin said. Some things on display at the museum are still used in China. Most farming in China is done by hand with simple tools, he said.

IT TOOK the group the better part of a day to get visas allowing them to enter Canada. The group visited Niagara Falls.

Their travels took them out west to Riverton, Wyo., for balloon competition and sightseeing. They enjoyed horseback riding and a visit to an Indian reservation. One of the group's sponsors, a private pilot, flew the delegation to Yellowstone National Park.

"It was quite a spectacle," Lorenz said.

The group members weren't concerned about returning to China.

"No, no. No problem," Qin said. Anyang is some 350 miles away from Beijing and the recent unrest Delegation members enjoyed eating American food during their visit. They sampled pizza and the food served at backyard barbecues. "A fair amount of potato salad and corn on the cob," Lorenz said. The visitors were also invited to eat at various Chinese restaurants.

Food served at Chinese restaurants in the U.S. isn't just like that served in China, Qin said. The food's prepared with American tastes in

The visitors, who stayed at the Mayflower Hotel, got a good sense of what life in the U.S. is like, Lorenz said. They went to a Highland Appliance store and were impressed with

"It's very big," Qin said. "Great quantity of things.

They weren't able to buy things at the store; the electrical systems in China are different and can't accommodate appliances sold in the U.S.

The visitors were impressed with the American standard of living. They enjoyed watching television and noticed the great variety of programming available.

They also enjoyed such movies as "Top Gun" and "Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade."

The group would like to visit the U.S. again. Lorenz would like to travel to China, but isn't sure just when that will be possible.

"We had a good time," Lorenz said. "We're all really tired, though. It's been a very hectic schedule."

Carol Donnelly's children have had fun being involved in sports. She and her husband have six children ages 18 to 26 who have been involved in various sports, including ice skating, hockey, soccer and

If a problem can't be resolved by talking to the coach or manager, it's fine to contact an executive board member, she said. Offers to help are appreciated; the league depends on the help of volunteers.

Helping children practice at home makes a difference as well, Mroczka said. A parent can help a child learn how to hold the bat or catch the ball. Coaches don't always have the time to provide individualized attention.

"They need the parents behind the kids to practice at home." Par-ents can also teach their children that winning isn't everything, Mroczka said.

MROCZKA AND Donnelly said their children have benefited from involvement in sports. Mroczka's sons have learned the value of teamwork and sportsmanship.

Donnelly's children have had opportunities to travel, to meet new ople and to develop athletic skills. Involvement in sports helped improve their concentration and school performance as well.

"Group participation, I think that's fantastic for kids," Donnelly said. She doesn't believe parents should push children into sports.

"It's got to be something they want to do."

Dates, Canton's recreation supervisor, believes young athletes should be allowed to discover what they want to play.

"I'm against competition at a young age." Athletes of all ages should keep the value of teamwork in mind and shouldn't concentrate just on winning.

Yarrow is D. Yarrow Halstead of Ypsilanti. She's known professionally as Yarrow, and came to Canton Thursday, July 13, for a performance at the Canton Public Library.

SHE PERFORMED for children in the "Reach for the Stars" summer reading program. The afternoon concert included music played on the guitar, banjo and harmonica.

Yarrow got things started by pointing out the different parts of a guitar and banjo. She performed a variety of songs, encouraging her young audience to join in.

A session of "Name That Tune" included such favorites as "If You're Happy and You Know It," "Frere Jacques" in French and Spanish, and 'You Are My Sunshine."

The concert was one of several activity sessions planned for schoolage children in the "Reach for the Stars" program. This was Yarrow's first time performing at the Canton Public Library.

YARROW, A Michigan native, has been performing professionally since the early 1970s. She attended Michigan State University and earned an associate's degree from Washtenaw Community College.

She's a preschool teacher who works at a private day care center in Ann Arbor. That center includes infants through sixth graders.

Working with children has helped Yarrow as a performer. She started out working with children at a women's crisis center in Arizona.

You learn patience and you learn how to pace yourself."

She knows just how much leeway to give a young audience.

The youngsters were allowed to scream briefly during the July 13 concert. Yarrow didn't let them go on screaming indefinitely.

"So you're constantly making assessments like that. It takes experience. There's no substitute for expe-Working with kids, you constantly need to be a step ahead," said Yarrow, 34. "It's very different."

Ruling on abortion offers skills further divides us council and he said to me one day. There are two important things to remember in all negotiations. You never leave the room and you never push the other person into a cor-

Genuine care and regard for his colleagues in the office and on the line made him an especially effective negotiator and personnel officer. He knew them as men and women with goals and dreams and hopes and skills. He knew many of them by name. The plants under his responsibility had higher productivity and fewer grievances than all the others.

His observations about negotiations included the two popular features of humanity that create the very ambiguity we experience in the center of our lives. We have the potential of destruction for ourselves and our fellow human beings. We have the potential for fulfillment for ourselves and our fellow human beings.

THESE TWO powers are constantly at work in our beings and seldom, if ever, are they totally distinct. It can easily happen that the fulfillment we seek is rooted in the destruction of others around us. To be number one means that another has to be number two.

Beyond knowing the truth of human character is the practice of love and care in that constant effort for true community. Some peo-other person's every evil intent, and others have the ability that the consequence is exactly equal to the intention.

The recent decision of the Supreme Court regarding abortion He was a member of our church and the actions of many groups ouncil and he said to me one day, supporting this decision have There are two important things to this decision into a corner.

With a ruthless disregard for the very nature of community, the gift of human life has been turned into a political issue where one claims victory over another.

Choosing for or against abortion (the word itself is a political word and should not be used in public discourse except in carefully de-fined terms) is not a political issue nor even a legal one. It has been turned into one because the fabric of community life has been torn by contempt and neglect.

PEOPLE LOCKED in mortal combat have no time and space for that exercise of care and regard fundamental to societal well-being. The net effect of destroying community life in order to save it is a very real responsibility.

It has been said that one cannot choose family, but one can choose friends. Perhaps that is why the plan of Providence is to set the care of life in the midst of family and not in the midst of friends.

To cause the choosing of sides for or against abortion in the affairs of state is to reject the very relationship of life that was created to carry it.

The Rev. Lloyd Buss is pastor of Abiding Presence Lutheran Church in Rochester Hills.

Program in ministry

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Pastoral ministry is not for the chosen few, but those who chose it.

With the decrease in clergy, there is a large need for qualified laity to fill the bill. Madonna College has a new pastoral ministry program designed to help a few good people find out what they are good at.

Students can major or minor in the program, supporting scripture and moral/ethical courses with practical skills. People can specialize in criminal justice, gerontology, hospice, sign language or business administration.

In fact, Sister Ann Stamm can't think of one area where the pastoral ministry program wouldn't be appli-

"This program is designed for people who have done a wide variety of things, but never pulled them together," said Stamm, who is chairwoman of the religious studies/philosophy department at Madonna College. "This program will take an awareness of what areas where the person

"You can't give what you don't have. But you have to know where your strengths are."

That, perhaps is what separates Madonna College's pastoral ministry program from others of its type. The program is individualized, finding a specialization and then applying it to

FOR EXAMPLE, a retired police officer is enrolled in the program so he can help troubled youths. He can use his experiences on the street and enhance those with counseling and other skills taught in the program.

Mariann Lupinacci of Canton knows where her strengths lay. With this program, she hopes to make

After graduating from Bishop Borgess High School in Redford, Lupinacci began taking religious classes. She had aspirations of becoming

Then she met John, who later became her husband.

Lupinacci, though, didn't marry away her willingness to help others. She has taught religious education at various parishes. She's also worked with victims of domestic assault and unwed mothers.

Her goal is to specialize in secondary education, perhaps venturing out in marriage counseling.

"This program allows me to be more of a professional," said Lupinacci, who met her husband in Stamm's religious class at Madonna. 'It will take my experiences and apply them in other areas."

The program evolved indirectly from an internal study of Madonna's religious studies/philosophy program three years ago. In the course of comparing curriculum at other Catholic colleges in the area ,it was found there was a dire need for a pastoral ministry program.

STAMM THEN worked on a three-Pear study, looking at pastoral ministry programs across the country. The program is ecumenical and multi-dimensional with both long- and short-term goals. The program can assist someone already in the ministry, who wants to become updated with some courses. Or, it can help someone tackle a new career with a purpose of help others in mind.

The later is particularly important. Along with the shortage of clergy, skilled lay people can bring experience to areas where perhaps a priest or a nun would be hard

"As a mother, she can bring a di-mension to it that I couldn't," said Stamm, pointing to Lupinacci.

Qa.2Monday, Allen was in New York, where he was about to host an event of the Plaza Hotel for the Italian Clothing designers, who were showing off the new fall line. He took moments before rehearsal to talk about the show at the Royal Oak Theatre.

ALLEN INDICATED that "Comedy Cares for Seniors" would probably consist of passing cards around the audience and have them ask questions. He'd read the cards and answer the questions with the is-mous Allen flare, which he used to do on his television talk shows. And he's scheduled to perform some of his famous songs, such as This Could be the Start of Something Big."

Opening for Steve Allen will be magician comedian Jeff Hobson, a Detroit based performer.

The event also will give those who attend a chance to get Allen's auto-graph later in the evening, possibly on a copy of his latest book, "Murder on the Glitter Box."

ALLEN DESCRIBED the book as a "murder whodunit," which from conception has taken two years to be realized in print. The story opens on a television talk show, not unlike 'The Tonight Show," on NBC, of which Allen was the creator and first host. There's a guest host and wonderful guests and everything is going well. Then there's a murder one of the guests keels over right on camera. The victim's been poisoned. Of course, the remainder of the story is about finding out who the killer or killers are, all good fun for reading in a big chair on a dark

"Murder on the Glitter Box" is Allen's 29th book in print.

THE NEXT BOOK scheduled to come out is "The Passionate Non-Smokers Bill of Rights," which should be released in September.

Another book scheduled to be released soon is "Meeting of Minds," which will feature scripts from the interview show seen on PBS stations in the late 1970s and early 1980s, in which Allen interviewed great historical characters (that is, actors pretending to be such great historical characters), such as Ben Frank-

In the 1980s, Allen has hosted and produced such shows as "Steve Allen's Music Room" and "Steve Allen's Comedy Room," both of which were series made up of six specials shown on the Disney Channel. This season, Allen hosted another television interview show for syndication, and this summer WXYZ-TV, channel 7, has carried it.

It's "Host-to-Host," a set of 13 half-hour shows, in which Allen inDick Cavett, Hugh Downs, Larry King and Joan Rivers.

No other television shows are in the works for Allen at the moment. HOWEVER, ALLEN'S wife, Jayne Meadows, has worked on two pilot television shows over the last two weeks, both of which are come-

Allen does have a second record album for Yamaha scheduled to be released soon, consisting of 12 of his own compositions.

Over the last few years, Allen has put together many albums or other artists have recorded his material. Some of the albums are "Paul Smith Plays Steve Allen," "Ann Jillian sings Steve Allen," "Steven Allen's Hip Fables," and "Funny Fone Calls" and "More Funny Fone Calls," the latter two albums of which use material from an early 1960's television comedy-talk show of Allen's that featured such comedians as Mel Brooks, Carl Reiner, Louis Nye and Jack Lemmon.

Another of some 40 albums of Allen's is "Shakin' Loose with Mother Goose," with Jayne Meadows.

ALLEN MENTIONED that his wife was currently involved with that last year 80 Foster Grandgiving lectures about powerful women in history and that his son, Bill, was doing well as an executive with MTM Productions, the television company that over the years has put together such shows as "St. Else-

Steve Allen and Jayne Meadows are the 1989 spokesmen for the American Cancer Society.

"Comedy Cares for Seniors" will benefit five programs: the Foster Grandparent Program, the Older Adult Counseling/Protective Services, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, the Senior Companion Program, and the Sheltering Arms Adult Day Care.

The Catholic Social Services states parents served 270 children in 16 sites, for a total of 74,000 hours and that for the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, 390 volunteers chalked up 67,500 hours.

Tickets for "Comedy Cares for Seniors," at the Royal Oak Theatre, cost $25 and are still available.

It has been said that proper preparation prevents poor performance. This month's situation centers on Sheri Woods, who is trying to prepare for a solid financial future.

Woods, a single parent living in Farmington Hills, earns $24,500 as a legal secretary. Her income is supplemented by child support payments of $300 per month.

His short-term goals are modest she would like to buy a new car this fall and do some home remodeling at a cost of approximately $3,500. Her long-term goals include preparing for her son's college tuition costs and beginning a program of retirement savings.

WOODS, 36, has been frugal with her money. Her only "extravagance" is sending her son to a private school at an annual cost of $1,000. Her son's education will continue to be a high priority for her.

Although she would like to be able to send her son to the college of his choice, she realizes that money constraints may require that he attend a college near home or perhaps a community college for two years to reduce costs.

Woods and her son should plan for this early. We suggest that when her son, who's age 10, enters high school, Woods should familiarize nerself with college financial aid programs, talk with financial aid counselors and make use of the many excellent resources available at local librar-

WE WOULD also strongly suggest that she involve her son in the process of selecting a college and financing his education. If possible, it may be a good idea to allocate a majority of the child support payments (beyond that being used currently for private school expenses) to a college

In general, Woods' estate planning is in reasonably good shape. She has established a testamentary trust within her will. The trust takes effect on death and acts and part of

Presumably the needs of her son and the eventual distribution of assets to him is taken care of under the terms of the testamentary trust. closing of the probate.

Except for disability insurance coverage, Woods' insurance picture is in good order. She currently has $50,000 of life insurance coverage that, with other assets, is sufficient to provide for her son's needs should anything happen to her.

She also has full coverage for her home and automobile, including at least $300,000 of liability coverage in each policy. She may want to review the collision coverage presently carried on her car.

BECAUSE IT is an older model (1983) with a value of just $1,500, she might find it advantageous to drop the collision and comprehensive coverage on this auto. After paying the $200 deductible on any claim, the maximum she could collect from the insurance company on this policy is

The significant premium cost of this coverage may not warrant the limited potential benefit. Once she sion and comprehensive coverage

As the sole wage earner of the pusehold Woods realizes the need to protect her income stream in the event of her disability or illness. If she has no disability coverage available through her new employer, she should consider buying a personal policy covering their income needs until age 65. At her age, the premium should be affordable, and this would fill a major gap in her insurance picture.

ONE FINANCIAL weakness we see is the credit card debts that Woods maintains, and the high interest cost associated with the debt. Woods may want to consider establishing a home equity loan to repay all the credit card debt.

The interest rate on the loan would be lower and would be fully deductible for tax purposes. Care should be given with this strategy, and she should pay off this home equity loan in a two- or a three-year time frame if at all possible. She should resist the urge to extend the period for repaying this loan.

ANOTHER OF Woods' concerns is planning for retirement because she alone is responsible for her longterm financial security. She should be commended for thinking about this so early. She is fundamentally in good financial shape and because she has the desire to begin providing for long-term financial security now, with proper planning she has a good chance of meeting her goals.

Her most consistent method of saving over the most recent years has been to over withhold taxes from her wages. She then receives a lump sum tax refund and invests it.

THOUGH SHE knows that this is not the most advantageous way to save, it is a forced discipline that puts money aside that might otherwise be spent. Her refunds have been about $2,000 per year.

If Woods believes that this is the only way she can set aside money for the future, she should continue this practice. But there may be other ways to reach the same objective, such as direct deposit of a portion of her income into a separate savings

Another plus for Woods is the profit sharing plan that her new employer maintains. Over time this

Dad's taste improved with age

"No one in his right mind would pay $4,000 for an automobile" was one of those pronouncements my father would make now and then to cool my adolescent yearnings for a Porsche, which I had already figured out would only be obtainable if I convinced him to buy one, and then I would borrow it.

I started thinking about my fa- after he found himself single in midther's Oldsmobile as I started to write something about cars I have owned, which is when I realized my dad owned many more interesting cars than I ever did.

Another reason I started thinking about the cars my father owned was because I had to listen to another of those tired pronouncements about how youth has rejected not only Oldsmobiles, but Cadillacs, and most American iron in general in favor of a yuppiemobile of choice - mainly high-performance sports sedans built somewhere north of France.

I REMEMBER when my father bought his first foreign car.

This was, in fact, after the Oldsmobile convertible, which was twotone red and white, bought shortly for my father.

Resume should hint at writer's goals and should help employers identify and evaluate an applicant's career intentions, skills and experience.

The best resumes employers receive clearly communicate what applicants want to do and can do for the companies considering them in-stead of merely presenting work history information. Understanding this fact makes the resume screening process a lot easier and less confusing for small business owners and Lola M. Coxford, in her book, "Resume Writing Made Easy for High-Tech," says employers should expect resumes to serve as a concise fact sheet that advertises an individual's qualifications and experience prior to being contacted for a personal infocus: small business Mary DiPaolo

PHILIP MEAGHER, president of the Southfield Chamber of Commerce, agrees with Coxford and adds that a well-written resume is like an appetizer that encourages employers to find out more about the applicant once his or her resume has been reviewed.

Simply put, a good resume clearly states a person's career objective and then presents the facts indicating how he or she has gone about achieving that objective through past and present activities," Meager said. "A recent college graduate may have little work experience in the field they hope to pursue but may belong to a club or volunteer group that is related to their area of interest. When this is the case, the information should be included in

EMPLOYERS should also check for any inconsistencies that relate to an applicant's previous work experience. "If a person claims to have supervised 16 people but was em-ployed as a clerk, there's good reason to be skeptical," Meagher said.

Before arranging for an interview, employers should make a point to call at least one of the referenced organizations or contact people listed on the applicant's resume. This gives the employer an opportunity to dis-cuss a candidate's skills and qualifications in more detail.

"IT'S OFTEN easier to get information about an applicant from other small business owners or personal reference sources," Coxford said. "Larger corporations are now quite restricted about what can and cannot be said about former employ-

Typically, large organizations can only confirm a former employee's length of service, regardless of the circumstances surrounding a voluntary leave or termination. For more information on applicant evaluation techniques available to small business employers and managers, call MarkeTrends at 474-

Craiger · cruising

Craiger is closing in on a possible sixth straight firstplace finish in the Plymouth-Canton Babe Ruth League. The perennial baseball power whipped Dry Clean Co. 21-4 Monday night for its 10th win in 12 games. Craiger's Scott Kapla slides into third for a successful steal and then scored when the off-target throw eluded the reach of third baseman Pat Adams. See Page 3D for story.

Hines Park wins; rain stops Caesars

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

The grass needed it, but Livonia Little Caesars baseball coach John Moraitis could have done without all the rain that fell Wednesday at Livonia's Ford Field.

Constant rain and mud halted Caesars game against Walter's Appliance with Caesars leading 6-0 in the third inning. The game, which will be made up in its entirety at noon Saturday at Ford Field, left the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League playoff picture looking equally mud"We've got to play it by ear, now," Moraitis said. "I felt we'd get at least five innings in. This is going to screw up my pitching rotation now."

Hines Park Lincoln Mercury, tied for first place with Caesars before Wednesday, defeated Duffy's Plumbing 12-1 earlier in the day to improve its record to 21-5-1 and take a half-game lead over Caesars.

Hines Park can win the LCBL regular season outright if it wins the season finale Friday at 8 p.m. against Duffy's and Caesars loses one of its last two games. Caesars plays Walter's Friday at 5:30 p.m. at Ford in its regular season finale before having to play Walter's again

If there is a tie for first place after Saturday's game between Caesars and Walter's, Caesars and Hines Park will meet at 2:30 p.m. Saturday to decide who is seeded first in Sunday's four-team LCBL playoffs. The playoffs begin Sunday at noon.

Although Hines Park appears to have the upper hand, coach Dave Racer is taking the season's final innings one pitch at a time.

"One win don't mean a thing, if you don't win the next one," Racer said. "We're the little guy in this league. It seems everyone is pulling for Caesars. You read it in the pa-- 'Caesars bombs someone,

Hail Caesars.' We have to prove ourselves.

Hines Park proved it can back up the complete-game pitching of Dennis Szczechowski with timely hitting. Duffy's pitchers walked 13 batters and Hines Park got another banner day from Chris Sisler, who was 5-for-5 and drove in four runs. He has hit safely in 14 of his last 17 trips to the plate, a terrifying .824

"It's a good time for him to start," Racer said. "All the boys are hitting well. I hope it continues.'

Szczechowski allowed only three hits and struck out five Duffy batters. Duffy's only run came in the fourth when Chris Mussat drove in first base. Then came the rain. What Mike Siwajek with a one-out single.

Steve Young, the first of three Duffy's pitchers, suffered the loss, allowing three runs, three hits and eight walks over three innings.

Caesars also was the beneficiary of wild pitching. Walter's coach Mike Keller said two of his pitchers weren't in uniform so he started seldom-used Marty Wolfe, who walked six of the first seven Caesars batters in the first inning.

Caesars knocked Wolfe out of the game in the second, after Steve Malgay delivered the game's only real blow, a double down the left field line that scored Tim Napier from but maybe Mike Ilitch can.

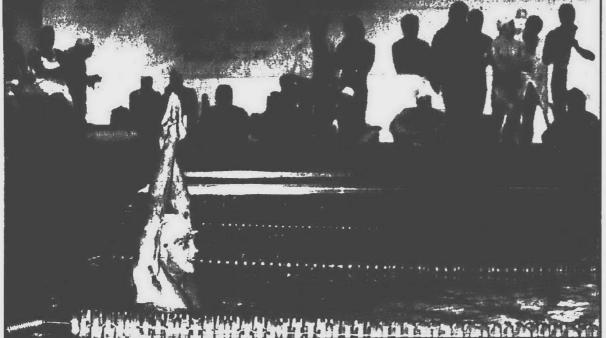

a coincidence.

'We did a hell of a rain dance." joked Keller. "We feel fortunate. We'd like to beat them one of two. Hines Park sure would like us if we did and it would be gratifying."

Caesars assistant coach Ken Wandzel had the day's most clever idea while waiting through the rain

"I'll tell you what we can do," said Wandzel. "We can all fly out on a jumbo jet and head to Toronto and have the Sky Dome down and play in no time."

Moraitis can't afford a team plane

Former Olympic swimmer David Berkoff demonstrates his technique to a captive audience of aspiring young swimmers Tuesday at Farmington Hills Harrison High School. Berkoff was a gold medalist in the 1988 Seoul Olympics.

Olympic stars promote swimming to area youth

ALL IT an investment in the future. Because it will be years from now - perhaps as much as a decade - before the results are in. Maybe it'll happen at the Olympic Games in the year 2000; a 21-year-old will climb out of a pool moments after a gold medal-winning performance and plunge right into a TV microphone, announcing to bil-

When I was 10, I met Mary T. Meagher and Dave Berkoff, and that really inspired me."

At least that's what all those Northwest Suburban Swim League and Michigan Stingrays officials, coaches and parents are envisioning. They're the ones responsible for bringing in the two Olympians for a series of five clinics Tuesday and Wednesday in Bloomfield Hills, Bev-erly Hills, Farmington Hills and Lathrup Village.

Reasons for recruiting such distinguished athletes — Meagher, known as "Madame Butterfly," has won three Olympic gold medals and holds two world records; Berkoff won a gold and a silver in Seoul last year and has one world mark - to conduct several three-hour sessions can vary, from motivational to techni-

BUT THE REASONS don't matter any more than what the athletes actually said or did during the clinics. What really mattered was they were here. And in a sport like swimming, that is very important indeed.

First, understand the swimmer's dilemma. There are long (four or more hours a day), often boring, usually tedious, and mostly submerged workouts daily. Their only object seems to be to test an individual's mental and physical endurance.

And for what? There are no pro swim circuits. When college ends, so do most swim careers. Only the very elite swimmer (translated: Olympic gold medalists) can make money from swi

It is a sport requiring single-minded dedication to achieve national success. No other sport can interfere. There's no time for it. Topgrade swimmers train year-'round.

No sport requires so much of its athletes and offers so little in return. Which is why it is so important to have people like Meagher and Berkoff pay visits.

DON'T MISUNDERSTAND. Both believe they are ordinary people, like anyone else in the crowda that gathered to see them. But they aren't. Suffice to say that Oakland County, Michigan's best for swimming, has yet to produce a swimmer the equal of these two Olympians.

When they talk about how to prepare for big meets, or training harder than hard, the gap between them and ordinary people widens. Listen to Berkoff, a Harvard graduate, explain what he enjoys about swim-

Spartans' win streak snapped

It was a first for the Spartans and the Wolverines in the Metro Summer Hockey League.
When the Wolverines defeated the Spartans 10-

The Spartans, 5-1, retained their grip on first place in the Bakes Conference, however, and the Wolverines, 1-6, will need more wins to get out of the Eagle Conference cellar.

Chris Riffle knocked in two goals and teammate Matt Wiljanen assisted on four to lead the Wolverines, who rebounded from a 6-5 loss to the Broncos the previous night. They also received solid goaltending from Mike Janish in the face of a strong challenge from the league leaders. David Ward (one goal, two assists) and Gary BRONCOS 6, LAKERS 3: The Lakers had the MSHL commissioner, A.J. Baker, on their side, but even a higher power couldn't prevent a Broncos victory Monday.

Baker, who also coaches the Lakers, suited up and played in the game since his team was shorthanded. The 30-year-old Baker did score a goal,

Redford club plans review of talent

the Redford NACE (North American Computer Equipment) Junior A hockey team has turned its attention to the ice.

The team, formerly known as the Redford Royals, will conduct a mini-camp for veterans, free agents and draft choices July 22-23 at the

The club has invited 112 players to the camp, including 32 veterans from its Junior A and Junior B (known as the Wayne Chiefs) teams, eight free agents and 72 players whose rights were acquired in last month's draft. Walk-on players are not invited to this camp.

Following a busy off-season in the front office, two-day workouts that will enable the coaching subsequent name change are part of a radical staff to evaluate talent before the start of training camp on Friday, Aug. 18.

> What we'll be trying to do is determine where our strengths and weaknesses are, position by po-sition," coach Kyle Krug said. "This way, when we go into camp next month and begin formulating depth charts, we'll have a better understanding of where we're at and where we need to go."

Rudy Cifolelli, president of MCN Computer Services, is the new general manager. His assistant is Eddie Mio, former NHL goalie with the Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers.

Krug, the new head coach, comes to Redford from the Compuware hockey program, where he coached Junior A and Midget teams for the past four years. Smith wins S'craft title

A week after Wimbledon, Schoolcraft College hosted its own tennis tournament - the Boys/Girls Junior Open.

The talent last weekend was no match for the prestigious English tournament, it's true. But the Schoolcraft tourney provided its own excitement.

In one of the day's closest final rounds, Matt Smucker won the 16-Under boys crown, beating David Konop 7-6 (7-5), 6-3. Winning the 18-Under boys title was Paul Ripley, who ousted Rich Cundiff in the final, 6-2, 6-1.

Arvid Swan was declared winner of the 14-Under division after Chris Matson retired, falling behind 1-6, 0-1. Dan Eynon was the 12-Under boys winner, prevailing over Evan Hayes, and the 10-Under crown belonged to Bradley Adams, a 6-0, 6-0 winner over Dan Smokler. In the featured match among girls, Plymouth's Missy Smith won the 18-

Under title, beating Charis Hunt, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2. The 16-Under title went to Dee Geelhood, who beat Varisa Boriboon, 6-1, 6-1, in the finals.

Boriboon's sister, Anita, managed to take a first-place award home, winning the 14-Under crown, 6-0, 6-1 over Kelly Kirkpatrick. The 12-Under champion was Andrea Narvaes, who beat Cynthia Obsitnik, 6-3, 6-2 in the final round.

The Schoolcraft College Men's/Women's Senior Tournament begins Friday and anyone interested in playing should call Joe Brennan at 397-1537 or 462-4434, for more information.

Does that sound ordinary?
When Meagher related her experiences with the pressure surrounding the Olympic Games to a bunch of kids by saying "To me, it was no different than it was when I won my first national (event) when I was 10" - who could possibly identify? How many will even compete at a national meet, let alone win at one?

These are two athletes who experienced a greater degree of success by the time they were teenagers than most of their audience will in a lifetime. As Meagher admitted, winning motivated her.

While success may not have come easily to them, there's no denying it came more often. Certainly more often than the average person experiences.

Even their advice on technique was too brief to be really useful. As Meagher said, "They may learn a few technical things, but I'd never take credit for a future butterflier. I don't expect to do miracles."

That's why their mere appearance outweighed any thing they said or did. That's what made the gamble of bringing them into Detroit a good one for the NSSL and Stingrays.

Craiger once again toast of P-C Babe Ruth League

Craiger continued to pound opposing pitching Monday and moved a step closer to winning a sixth consecutive championship in the Plymouth-Canton Babe Ruth Behind an 18-hit attack that raised Craiger's total to 46 in its last three games, the team blasted Dry Clean Co. 21-4 at Flodin Field.

Craiger, having improved its league-leading record to 10-2, had a three-game lead over second-place Dry Clean Co. with four games remaining as of Monday. Craiger teams are 89-15 since 1984.

'We turned over nine players from last year's team," Craiger coach Bob Ruete said. The team expected to lose five players because of age limitations, but four others decided not to return, leaving Craiger with some unexpected holes in its roster.

"WE HAD TO find some players and we did," Ruete said. "We've worked hard and managed to turn it

Kevin Goff, one of the few 15-year-olds on the current ballclub, was one of the major hitters Monday, going 4for-6 and getting two RBI. Winning pitcher Scott Kapla was 3-for-5.

Matt Horn, John Lahti and Chris Tomas added two hits apiece and four, three and two RBI, respectively.

The 14-year-old Kapla, who has allowed just one earned run in his last three appearances (14 innings), tossed a one-hitter for five innings. Horn worked the last two innings. Rob Eyre went five innings for the Dry Clean Co. and took the loss.

Despite the lopsided score, Craiger had only a 3-2 lead after four innings but made a decisive move in the fifth, scoring 11 runs on six hits, three walks, a hit batsman and two errors.

and Tomas also had two-RBI hits in that inning.

ON HIS SECOND trip to the plate in the fifth, Lahti singled home another run, and Sammy DiPrima added

Craiger got six more runs in the sixth. Kapla led off with a double, and Horn, Goff and Charlie Winstell hit singles that produced one run each.

On another front, a weather-shortened game between Twist 'N Shake and Craiger from Monday, June 26, was ruled a 6-4 victory for Twist 'N Shake. The game was stopped in the top of the sixth inning because of light-

Twist N Shake coach Al Turri subsequently sought a ruling from Babe Ruth headquarters in New York, and the national organization determined enough innings had been played to constitute a regulation game. The teams play again Monday. Vince Turri, Jeromi Dennis and Jim Cunningham had key hits in that game, and Twist 'N Shake defeated Dry Clean. Co. 10-8 on Tuesday, July 11, behind the hitting of Mike McGregor and Ben Hendricks. Jim O'Doherty was the winning pitcher.

Craiger, meanwhile, chalked up a pair of victories last week, including a 14-3 defeat of Twist 'N Shake on Thursday, July 13. Craiger kept up its strong hitting as it pounded out 16 hits. Jeff Kley and Tomas had three apiece, and additional help came from DiPrima and Goff with two hits each.

CRAIGER USED the combined pitching of DiPrima, Tomas and Matt Horn to hold Twist 'N Shake to three

On Wednesday, July 12, Craiger again used three pitchers — DiPrima, Tomas and Kapla — to limit the Dairy Junction Express to just five hits.

HP's Loomis hurls no-hitter

A no-hitter by Brad Loomis highlighted Hines Park Lincoln Mercury's double-header sweep

Sunday of Walter's Appliance.

Hines Park defeated Walter's 1-0 and 12-8 in games played at Canton High. The sweep moved Hines Park's Livonia Collegiate Baseball League record, not including Wednesday's game against Duffy's Plumbing, to 20-5-1.

Loomis raised his record to 3-0, leading Hines Park to the narrow win in Game No. 1. The Northville resident who attends Siena Heights College, struck out two and walked only a pair even though his time on the mound has been limited this

"He hadn't thrown in awhile," Hines Park coach Dave Racer said. "He had been having a little arm trouble but came out and threw hard. I didn't realize he had a no-hitter going. I planned on using five pitchers.

An RBI double by Chris Sisler scored Joel Riggs, who had walked, with the game's only run in the bottom of the first inning. Sisler is 9-for-12 in his last 12 games, collecting 11 RBI and one homer during that span. Hines Park needed more offensive production in the nightcap and got it again from Sisler, who had three hits and drove in six runs.

HINES PARK trailed 7-6 after 41/4 innings, but a six-run fifth gave Hines Park the edge.

Sisler delivered a two-run single, two-run double and two-run homer. John Bonham, Brad Wright, Kevin Learned and Chris Michalik contributed to the 12-hit attack, adding two hits each. Bonham scored four times and Learned and Michalik scored two runs apiece.

Bob Files, the second of three Hines Park hurlers, picked up the win although he was pitching when Walter's scored three runs in the fifth. Mike Sulak closed out the game, allowing one run.

Marty Wolfe, Joe Sturtz and Jeff Pendell had two hits each to carry Walter's. Wolfe, who doubled twice, drove in two runs and Sturtz had one RBI

Hines Park escaped with a 2-1 win Friday over Tom Holzer Ford, as Learned's single in the bottom of the seventh drove in the winning run at Canton High School.

Sisler again led the hitting parade, going 3-for-

3. The win went to Dennis Szczechowski, who got enough support to record his fifth victory in six Holzer led 1-0 after 6¼ innings, but Hines Park scored two runs in its last bat to go home victori-

Sisler opened the rally with a one-out single. Pinch runner Scott Wladischkin stole second base, a wild pitch brought him to third and he scored on a suicide squeeze bunt by Dan Niemiec. A wild pitch sent Niemiec, who was safe on the bunt, to second, and a two-out single by Learned brought him home.

DUFFY'S PLUMBING coach Ray Fracassi is excited about Sunday's LCBL playoff opener because "some teams are peaking" and he believes Duffy's is one of them.

Duffy's ran its winning streak to five games Sunday, sweeping a double-header from Wendy's, 9-4 and 14-7 at Ford Field. The sweep improved Duffy's LCBL fourth-place record to 12-10-2, and Fracassi is thinking his chances in the playoffs are as good as the first-place team, whichever that may be.

"The playoffs will be very tough," Fracassi said. "Some teams are peaking and some teams are dropping. We've won five in a row and six of our last eight - that's peaking.

"Caesars and Hines Park are the ones to beat because they have the older players. The rest of the teams are a year away, but the nine-inning (playoff) games make a difference. That way, no one pitcher can dominate."

Adam Havey's three RBI led the way in Game No. 1. Jason Hicks picked up the win, allowing three hits and no runs in four innings of work. Wendy's scored four runs off reliever Joe Jentzer. Lee Tappy was 2-for-3 for the winning team, and drove in one run.

A seven-run fourth inning lifted Duffy's to the easy win in Game No. 2. Tappy and Joe Delfgauw, both Redford Union graduates, had four RBI each. John Storm, now 3-2-1 on the mound, earned the win in three innings of relief. Duffy's was trailing 4-1 when Storm entered the game but he was the beneficiary of Duffy's heavy hitting. Hicks and Jentzer combined on a two-hitter Friday, leading Duffy's to a 7-4 win Friday over Walter's Appliance at Ford. Hicks started and left after four innings though he had a perfect game going. David Houghthy, who allowed nine hits and seven runs over 6% innings, suffered the loss for Mike Kaczmarek had two singles and a triple to drive in four Duffy's runs. Dave Crespi collected two hits and an RBI and John Gotts had an RBI double for the winners.

In action last Wednesday, Duffy's pounded Holzer, 10-3, behind the combined pitching of Steve Young (Bloomfield Hills and Vanderbilt University) and Hicks. Young was lifted after the fourth inning with Duffy's ahead, 9-1. Kaczmarek again swung a big bat, clubbing three hits in four trips and one RBI. Todd Fracassi, Mike Fiwajek and Crespi stroke a pair of hits each. Fracassi drove in one run, Fiwajek knocked in two and Crespi had three RBI.

LIVONIA LITTLE CAESARS began play this week impressively, beating Tom Holzer Ford Sunday by identical 10-0 scores in a double-header played at Ford Field. Caesars was tied for first with Hines Park at 20-5-1 before Wednesday's game against Walter's.

Mark Thierry was the winning pitcher in Game No. 1, throwing a one-hitter and striking out six in going the distance. Art George (Redford Union and Evansville University), the LCBL's leading hitter, had three RBI and was 3-for-5. Chris Kloc had three hits in three plate appearances and Tim Napier and Eric Linck collected two hits each.

Mike Boyd got credit for the win in the nightcap, a game that lasted only six innings because of the mercy rule. Boyd struck out six, walked four and allowed four hits.

Steve Malgay had three hits and Napier drove in two runs. Kloc, Miller and Jack Daniels had two hits each.

Caesars beat Wendy's 7-2 Friday at Ford as Kloc picked up his fourth win without a loss. Kloc, a Redford Thurston graduate, went the distance and surrendered seven hits, fanned seven and did not walk a bater.

Shawn Maloney, Napier and George shared the hitting responsibility. Napier drove in two runs on two hits, Maloney had three hits and two RBI and George was 2-for-3.

Concours D'Elegance

Finally — automobile accepted as fine art

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

RTIST PETE MAIER runs on as many cylinders as the vintage cars he paints and draws - Rolls-Royces, Duesenbergs, Packards, LaSalles, Mercedes and Auburns

Maier, poster artist for the Concours d'Elegance at Meadow Brook Hall on Sunday, Aug. 6, is a man with a mission. When he left General Motors as senior designer for the Chevrolet, Pontiac and Cadillac divisions in 1980, to become a fulltime artist, he was determined "to bring the automobile as a subject into the realm of fine art rather than illustrative art.'

To do this, he traveled a circuitous route. He concentrated on subjects such as animals and people and moved to rural Pennsylvania, convenient to New York City.

He established himself as a versatile artist who delighted in doing larger than life paintings of cows and horses and still lifes as well as cars. He eventually found two New York City galleries ready to handle his work and promote him widely Louis K. Meisel Gallery and Gallery Henoch.

HE WORKS IN GRAPHITE, egg tempera, oil, acrylic air brush and printers' ink. PHH Fleet America different way," he said.

All the invited artists will attend the art show and auction, including banquet to benefit the Hall.

The size in which he works, the planning, detail and the techniques which he has developed since those early days of his career give him a special place in the art world. He has perfected a technique in his front views of cars of showing much more in seemingly perfect perspective than the human eye could possibly see.

This requires not only an intimate knowledge of the vehicle, but great technical and artistic skill as well. It's like a camera's fish-eye lens view or frog's eye perspective Concours d'Elegance without any distortion. From a video which Maier made, it's clear that there's very little guesswork in this process.

"My auto paintings are the big-gest being done in the world today. . . The fine art world has accepted my autos as fine art but, boy, that took a while." The largest is 6 by 7 feet and he plans to do side views in the 8 by 25 foot

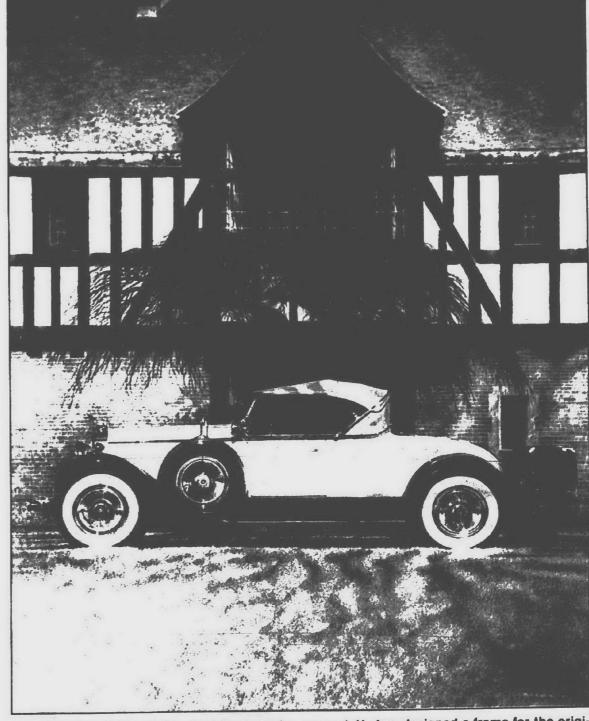

HE SAID HE HAS SOLD more than 400 paintings since he left GM in 1980, but he hasn't had a one man show - not because he hasn't been asked, but because everything he does sells so fast, he can't accumulate a body of work.

"It sometimes takes six to eight weeks to do one piece. The watercolor paper is imported from England on a roll. I build my own stretchers."

He said paper is affixed to the stretcher and every inch is wetted down before he begins.

His egg tempera painting for the Concours d'Elegance poster is 48 by 64 inches. He said, "I had a big frame made and I finished it up to sort of look like the architecture at-Meadow Brook. It weighs 75 pounds." It will be sold at the special preview auction on Saturday, Aug. 5, before the Concours.

Maier builds his own frames as well as his own stretchers. He said that the big ones framed, properly set back and ready for hanging weigh 185 pounds each.

Maier won the award of excellence at the 1987 Concours and among his awards is the Gold Medal of Honor from the Allied Artists of America and the Edgar A. Whitney Award from The American Watercolor Society. Dick Kughn of Southfield, longtime Concour committee member, classic car collector and exhibitor, is one of Maier's biggest patrons and currently owns more than 30 of his major pieces.

Maier learned last spring that Automobile Quarterly will be doing a full color ten-page write-up of his art for next spring's issue. While the publication has done illustrators in the past, he is the first fine artist to be featured.

TOM HALE OF Northville, who was also a GM designer before he left to become a full-time artist, is chairman of the art exhibition. Hale, like Maler, not only does paintings of cars, but handles a variety of other subjects adeptly as well. He is one of 13 nationally recognized artists in this year's art exhibition at the Meadow Brook Pa-

Hale said the proceeds for last's year's auction, which lasted about 30 minutes, were more than $60,000. He predicts this year's will top that. Part of the proceeds from the preview auction will benefit Meadow Brook Hall.

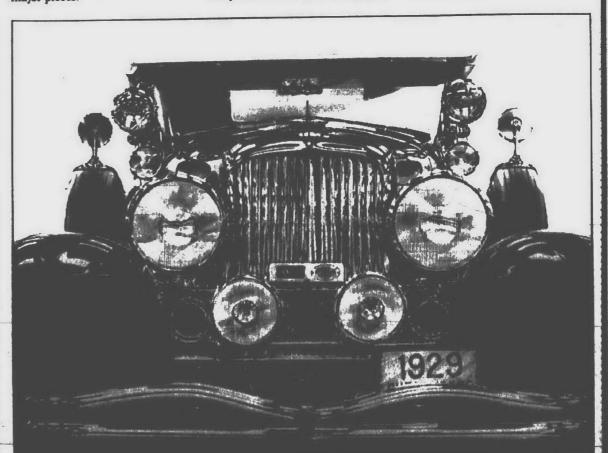

The Concours is the largest annual single-day fund-raiser for Meadow Brook Hall.

Mystery writers on panel

Three of Michigan's best known mystery writers will discuss their works and writing at 6 p.m. unday, July 23 in Borders Book Shop in Novi. Loren D. Entleman, author of "Silent Thunder Tom Kakonis, author of "Michigan Roll;" and William X. Kienzie, whose latest novel is "Eminence," will participate in the panel discussion.

Space is limited and those interested in attending should register in advance by calling Borders at 347-0780.

The author of several private-eye novels as well as westerns, Estleman's stories are often set in the Detroit area. "Silent Thunder," his latest novel, is the tenth book featuring detective Amos Walker. In the story, Walker finds himself thrust into the illegal munitions scene in Detroit, where he is caught between the police and the gun deal-

Kakonis is himself an English teacher, whose writing has often been compared to that of Ross MacDonald and Elmore sler.

WHILE ESTLEMAN AND Kakonis' novels feature tough, street-wise heros, Kienzle chronicles the detective work of amateur sleuth Father Robert Koesler. In Kienzle's most recent book, "Emi-Also set in Michigan is Kakonis' first novel, nence," Koesler investigates a curious fivesome, a portedly been performing miracles in a converted downtown bank building. It's a scene that happens at a family community like Stonebridge, every day. On sidewalks where children play. At get-togethers where neighbors meet and talk. And in West Bloomfield schools where education is still a priority.

Stonebridge is much more than just quality homes. It's large bedrooms and family rooms, luxurious bathrooms, seven different floorplans, vaulted ceilings and European kitchens. But most of all living at Stonebridge is the start

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the Item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
