A construction worker from Plymouth who rushed to help six people trapped in a car kept the traffic accident from escalating into a bigger tragedy, said Livonia police officer Kevin Dawley

Four-year-old Keith Jensen Jr. of Westland died following Wednesday's collision between a food delivery truck and a car in Livonia.

But the accident might have claimed more lives if Roy Livengood hadn't driven a tractor owned by Area Construction Co. across Five Mile and used chains to lift the truck

"The weight of the truck would with the chains when Livonia firethere was no roof support," Dawley said. "The truck weighs six, seven times the weight of the car. That's a tremendous amount of weight."

Livengood and fellow workers Michael Haught of Northville and Dennis Henry of Detroit chained the tractor to the truck and then pulled the truck off a car occupied by Francine Jensen, 20, and her three children, and Tammy Coffey, 22, and her year-old daughter, Heather Pendo. All are Westland residents.

As of Friday, Livonia police were still interviewing witnesses and analyzing accident data to determine why the Eckrich food delivery truck crashed into a car driven by Jensen. The crash occurred at 11:58 a.m. at the intersection of Five Mile and Middlebelt.

"We're putting the pieces of the puzzle together to get the full picture," Dawley said.

Jensen, driving north on Middlebelt, was making a left-hand turn onto Five Mile when her car was struck by the southbound truck, driven by John Troia of Dearborn.

"She was hit while making the turn," Dawley said. Livengood gave the following account of the accident: "I was sitting on the (bull)dozer at the corner when I saw the truck come by, slide into the car and push the car sideways over the curb and then fall on it," Livengood said.

"I JUMPED off the machine, ran over, saw the car under the truck and then ran back to get the tractor. I hooked the chains up and pulled the truck off the car. Then we tried to pull the passenger door out. Then we pulled the back window out, to try to get the baby out."

Teen injured after falling from balcony

staff writer

A 19-year-old Canton man who had gathered with friends to mourn the death of Neil Carnes, 18, of Plymouth, in a motorcycle-car crash, became paralyzed after falling from the third story balcony of an apartment complex in Canton.

The teen, Kurt Hauser, was standing on the balcony of Honey Tree Apartment Complex when he told friends he was dizzy and then fell, according to police and companions.

The party to mourn the death of Carnes, a promising hockey player who was drafted by the Montreal Canadiens, was being held at the apartment of another man, who police identified as a friend of both Hauser and Carnes.

Carnes died early Sunday, July 30, when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car in Plymouth Township. The crash occurred at about 2 a.m. and Hauser fell shortly

According to a Canton police report, Hauser told emergency room personnel at St. Mary Hospital Livonia that he felt "dizzy" before the accident occurred and does not remember falling. He was later transferred to William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Hauser underwent surgery Friday to "fuse his vertebrae together and immobilize the injured part of his spine," said Kenneth Hauser, the youth's father. "Then the doctors will be able to make the final assessment about how badly his spine was injured, but as of now he is permanently paralyzed."

Some of Hauser's friends, shocked by the accident, said he had been good friends with Carnes and was upset by the hockey player's death.

"I think they were pretty good friends," said Tim Ott, 19, of Canton, a mutual friend of Hauser and Carnes. Ott survived the crash that killed Carnes. "They weren't best friends, but they were pretty good friends.'

"They were very good friends," said John Brickman, 19, also of Car.

Brickman was at the apartment when the accident occurred. He said he saw Hauser sitting on the balcony with his arms outstretched as he started to fall, but could not reach him in time.

"He just sat on the balcony, said he felt dizzy and fell back," Brickman said.

Brickman described the mood at the apartment as being "depressed" and "mopey" as friends of Carnes gathered to mourn his loss.

Meanwhile, Plymouth Township Police have determined that Carnes was at fault in the crash. They said Carnes crossed the center line and collided with the oncoming Firebird.

Police said they will charge the owner of the motorcycle with allowing Carnes to use it without a proper cyclist's license, which is a misdemeanor that carries a maximum of 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine. The motorcycle owner turned himself in to police.

Carnes and the owner of the motorcycle met at a party in Farmington Hills the night of the accident, and the owner traded the cycle for Carnes' car, said Chip Suider, Plymouth Township deputy police chief.

Carnes was dead at the scene, but passenger, Ott, was thrown and not seriously injured in the crash which occurred on Ann Arbor Trail near Haggerty Road in Plymouth Town-

Plymouth City Police were following the motorcycle shortly before the crash, said Commander Michael Gardner. He said officers clocked the motorcycle at 72 to 75 miles per hour on westbound Plymouth Road

He said officers had their lights and sirens on while following the motorcycle but would not call the incident a chase.

Gardner said the patrol car lost sight of the motorcycle twice, the second time shortly before the crash occurred.

Cruisers on Plymouth's Main Street!

Shooting triggers cruising concerns

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

Plymouth police have obtained a warrant charging a 22-year-old Northville man with felonious assault in the aftermath of a BB gun shooting on Main Street shortly after midnight Thursday.

It was the most serious incident related to "cruising" in downtown Plymouth this summer, and something Police Chief Richard Myers said he finds troublesome given the fact that up until the past few weeks, cruising hasn't been a big

UP UNTIL NOW, it's been a quiet summer, largely due to anti-cruising measures implemented by the city at a budgeted cost of $60,000, say officials.

"Starting in early July, we started implementing the 'mini-sone,' at the discretion of the on-duty supervisor," said Paul Sincock, assistant to the city manager.

"We prohibit left turns from southbound Main onto eastbound Ann Arbor Road. That's been done pretty regularly on weekend nights between 9 p.m. and midnight. It's effective because it immediately stops the traffic back-up from Ann Arbor Road that goes as far back as Ross Street," said Sincock.

"People gather at Taco Bell and the Dairy Go Round. This eases the party atmosphere and it keeps traffic flowing."

Three extra officers were added to the police department in antici-pation of the cruising season.

The expense is a necessary evil, say Myers and acting city manager William Graham. "You can come up with any program on paper, but without the manpower it's not going to work," said Myers.

THE CITY originally budgeted $80,000 to keep cruising in check, but scaled that down to $60,000 when it appeared activity was

They hold diesel fuel and leaded and unleaded gasoline for buses and school vehicles.

"The bottom line is approximately $63,000 for replacement," said Dale Goby, director of transportation and safety. "The unknown part of the plan is any spill or leakage cleanup. Those costs, of course, are unknown at this time, and would be in addition to the removal/installation

"If you find leakage, and you pay the first $10,000, the state will insure up to $1 million in order to take out the contamination," said Egli.

We don't expect to find contamination. If we do, it will be a big surprise because the tanks have been tested in the last two to three years."

While the school district, financially strapped until voters passed two millages in June, doesn't relish the expenditure, it's necessary, said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

"It's a financial concern, of course," said Hoedel.

"But I think when it comes to pre-Assurance Act would be liable only ventative measures, or potential

'We felt eventually we'd do it, but we're taking the opportunity before we have potential problems. The tanks have been monitored, but some of them are of the age that a problem could occur. It could be a safety hazard if it were left for a prolonged period of time."

Egli couldn't say how many gallons of fuel the district consumes each year.

It's substantial, though, he said. 'We drive over one million miles, and the budget for transportation is $2 million plus. We have more than 100 district vehicles, including

An 18-year-old Plymouth man was arrested for obstructing and hindering police, and for malicious destruction of property over $100 about 10 p.m. Tuesday.

Police said a citizen in Kellogg Park advised them a male wearing a sleeveless white T-shirt and blue ieans with holes in both knees had just kicked in the side of a car.

An officer spotted the man standing near Ann Arbor Trail and Main Street and walked toward him.

The man began running east down Ann Arbor Trail. The officer yelled for him to stop, and a second officer tried to block the man's path with his police car. But the man continued running, chased by a third officer, until he fell down on Union Street near the Grange Hall.

The man was arrested and taken to the station. He was booked and released on bond.

Bila may become mayor today

By Keith Postler staff writer

Dennis Bila, mayor pro tem, is expected to become mayor at Monday's city commission meeting if Karl Gansler II resigns as planned.

Gansler, whose term as mayor expires Nov. 7, announced his resignation at the July 11 city commission meeting. Bila will serve the remainder of Gansler's term.

At Monday's commission meeting, Bila expects to appoint David Pugh to a commissioner's seat and recommend the appointment of commissioner R. Jack Kenyon as mayor pro tem. Kenyon's appointment is subject to approval from the commission as a whole, Bila said.

The four-month delay that has Landfill from operating may end as soon as Thursday, said Dan Nelson, Arbor Hills district manager.

Arbor Hills East Sanitary Landfill, at Six Mile and Napier, is nearly out of space. It accepts refuse from 400 customers a day, including Canton and Plymouth townships.

The west site has been ready to operate since January, but differences of opinion between the landfill operator and the DNR has held up licensing, Nelson said. Arbor Hills applied for a license in March, he said.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources must grant or deny Arbor Hills' application license by Thursday, Nelson said. If the DNR does not act by that date, Arbor Hills will automatically be granted an operator's license.

"The agency will be very careful not to miss the deadline," Nelson said. "They will issue the license or deny it; if they take no action, we, by law, will be granted the operator's license - which we deserve.

THE DNR has denied granting Arbor Hills West an operator's license because the site is on a DNR list of contaminated landfills. Liquid containing low levels of benzene and vinylidene chloride has seeped into groundwater near the Arbor Hills Benzene is a known carcinogen. Vinylidene chloride has been found to cause cancer in some animals.

Browning Ferris Industries, which operates the landfill, has built an underground wall that extends for nearly a mile around three sides of the landfill, but the DNR contends more must be done.

THE CONTAMINATED groundwater near the east site is the source of controversy, said Lonnie Lee, an environmental quality manager with

Lee said the DNR considers the east and west sites one landfill; if one is not in compliance with agency regulations, neither is in compliance.

We have made a conceptual proposal in some detail that they are considering, and we hope to formalize that into a new consent order." Nelson said.

If Arbor Hills can come up with an acceptable agreement to clean up the site and prevent further contamination, "then we will be in a position to recommend favorably on their license application," Lee said.

The consent order is the agreement between the DNR and BFI that would outline steps for cleaning up the site, Nelson said.

THE DELAY in opening the west site has caused some minor problems at Arbor Hills East, Nelson said. Some trash haulers must wait 10 to 15 minutes to dump their trash ter," he said.

"It's unavoidable, because you have so many people depending on that landfill," Dave Denske, owner of Canton Recycling Inc., said of the delay at Arbor Hills East. "You've got 400 trucks coming in every day. but BFI is doing an excellent job under the circumstances. I'm glad to be doing business there."

Canton Recycling Inc. is contracted by Plymouth and Canton townships to haul 12,000 cubic yards of compressed refuse per month, he Further delays would only end up costing the customers who use the landfill, Denske said.

"Regardless what the costs are, the people in each community will end up paying. More communities need to get into the fast lane in terms of recycling their waste," he said. "We would save dumping tons each year at landfills if we were more committed to recycling.'

Thief nets valuable tackle box

A Plymouth man told Plymouth Township Police Wednesday that someone stole a tackle box loaded with expensive fishing equipment that he left in his boat overnight at his home on Ivywood.

Apparently, the man and his two sons had been fishing and left their equipment in the boat Tuesday night. When the man went out to the boat Wednesday morning, he discovered the tackle box was missing. The man estimated the value of the tackle box and equipment at $788.

Plymouth Township Police, called to K mart by store security, observed the man take the camera and BULL'S EYE: A 38-year-old Plymouth man told police that $105 in damage was done to the front tire of his car when someone shot an arrow at it while the 1988 Ford was parked at the Pinewood Village Condominiums.

The incident took place sometime between July 27 and 31.

A second arrow was found six or seven parking spaces away from the car. Police have no suspects.

INDECENT EXPOSURE: Employees at Headliners Hair Studio on Ann Arbor Road told police that a white male in his late teens or early 20's exposed himself outside their building about 3:45 p.m. Wednesday.

The man was about 160 pounds and 5-feet-9, with light brown wavy hair. He was wearing a turquoise tank top and grey jeans.

The employees said the man was loitering in the parking lot before he walked up to the window, peering in and exposing himself. He followed a customer to the back parking lot before running southbound toward the Sunshine Acres complex, said police.

Officers tried locating the suspect without success. A similar incident took place a couple of doors down July 6, they said.

These are just a few of the incidents reported to Plymouth and Plymouth Township police over the last several days.

Cars seized in chop shop arrests

Arrests by Canton Police last week led to the seizure of nine stolen vehicles and the arrest of eight De-troit residents believed by police to be operating a chop shop.

Canton Police arrested four Detroit residents at 12:10 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 2, for allegedly attempting to steal a 1986 Chevy Iroc from Honeytree Apartment complex at I-275 and Joy Road.

Three males ages 16-19 and a 14year-old female were arrested by Canton Police, according to Canton police Detective Keith Lazar.

The adults were charged with misdemeanors and charges against the girl are pending in Juvenile Court, Lazar said

THE INVESTIGATION was turned over to the Canton-based Western Wayne Auto Theft Elimination Effort, Lazar said.

Undercover officers discovered an alleged chop shop Wednesday on Rockdale in the Fenkell and Lahser area of Detroit. A chop shop is a location where stolen cars are stripped apart so that the parts can be sold individually.

'We established surveillance on it (the Rockdale home) and we were able to get enough for a search warrant," said Lt. Sandy Miller, auto theft elimination commander.

The Detroit arrest involved six men ages 16-21 years, as well as a 16-year-old girl and an 18-year-old

One 1988 Chrysler van and eight late model Ford Mustangs, believed to be stolen from western Wayne County suburbs, were seized during the raid. The vehicles are believed to be worth $50,000 in total.

THE SUSPECTS were released Wednesday pending further identification of the property seized by po-lice, according to Sgt. Barry Getzen of the auto theft team.

They are expected to be charged with operating a chop shop and re-ceiving and concealing stolen property over $100.

Operating a chop shop is punishable by up to 10 years in prison. Recovering and concealing stolen property is punishable by up to five years

Doug Ross: Rocking on down the highway

"The best training for my job didn't come from school or graduate school. Rock and roll turned out to be the ideal preparation. It teaches you about group dynamics, public speaking and blends in a little showmanship."

- Doug Ross, Michigan's exiting commerce direc-

By Philip A. Sherman staff writer

Doug Ross, the man who once played bass for a group that backed the Supremes and later led his own band, The Classics, through a decade of rock and roll, was having one of his last breakfast meetings as a Southfield resident.

He said he'll miss being commerce director. He thinks he's leaving Michigan with a drastically improved relationship between government and private sector business. He knows Jim Blanchard will run for and win another term as governor. That's a job Ross, 47, clearly has his eye on in the future. But for now, he's heading to Washington to become president of the Corporation for Enterprise Development. His successor is supposed to be chosen before Ross leaves Sept. 1.

"I have no individual in mind" regarding someone he'd like to see as the new commerce director, Ross said. "For reasons of continuity and for what I believe to be the truth, I'd like to see someone with a strong belief in private and public partner-

THAT PARTNERSHIP is something Ross has a stake in and would like to see developed even further. Even his critics, who say he's used hard, readily acknowledge Ross has brought Michigan's business climate

"There are two things that may endure and make a difference. One is the relationship between the government and private sector of Michigan. Once that was a real adversarial relationship. Now it's good, and I think that's permanent - unless we get someone in government who doesn't understand it and unravels it.

"Two, we (Michigan) were the first in America to understand you did not have to get out of industrial activity — the business of making things - to be successful. They said you had to be in services. We concluded that wasn't true. Our challenge has been to help it transform itself," Ross said.

At 47, Ross is philosophical about change. He thinks author Alvin Tof-fler "still has the best broad overview of what's happened to us, to Michigan." His own personal philosophy is something he's practicing in his move to Washington. "You can't plan life around 'what ifs.' Since you don't know how long you're going to be around, you have to live each day, if not each year, as though it were your last."

THE JOB IN Washington doesn't seem overwhelming to him. 'We're going to have to get Washington to understand what states have been experiencing - figuring out how to compete with the Asians and Euro-

He'd also like states, particularly Michigan, to rethink their approach to public school education. "The role for business and commerce is the reinvention of the public education system to fit this economy.

Students will have to be taught to learn to learn," he said, instead of just retrieving and sorting facts.
"And schools will have to help students operate as teams that are constantly solving problems. When we went to school, we went through talking to nobody and that's the wrong preparation."

Part of his move to Washington with his wife, Karol, and Julie, at 15 the youngest of their three children, was based on a promise they made to Julie about the years she would spend in high school. "We told her we wouldn't move during those three years, which meant we had to do it now or wait until 1992."

His wife is a psychologist specializing in marriage and family counseling ("a brilliant move for a politician, eh?"). If they move again after Washington, Ross said the next move will be her call.

"We're really just Michiganians going away for a couple years," he Homeowners are being asked to turn on outdoor lights and turn off crime for the sixth annual National Night Out on Tuesday, Aug. 8.

Sponsored by the National Association of Town Watch Inc., national night out is designed to heighten crime prevention awareness, generate support for local anti-crime efforts, strengthen neighborhood spirit, and send a message to criminals that neighborhoods are organized and fighting back.

"We've taken part in the past and we will again," said Lt. Leon Dater of the Livonia Police. "Any effort to increase crime prevention awareness is something we can endorse

"The project is an enjoyable and effective way to promote neighborhood spirit, increase awareness and strengthen police community relations," said Matt A. Peskin, project coordinator.

A spokesman for the Westland police is encouraging city residents to participate.

"I THINK it's a good idea for the people of this city to publicly show support against crime," said Sgt. Michael Terry, community relations of-

"Lighting is the single best deterrent to crime. You reduce your risk' of being a burglary victim with lights on," Terry said.

Like several other local communities, Redford Township hasn't made official plans to participate in national night out.

"I haven't planned anything, but we are planning a picnic in September in Capitol Park for our (Neighborhood Watch) block captains," said Don Moore, township crime prevention officer

'Our Neighborhood Watch program is fantastic. We have 214 groups and we're working on other blocks.

Police spokesmen for Garden City,

Canton Township and Plymouth Township said no special plans have been arranged. They had not received literature from the sponsoring organization. But everyone is in favor of stamping out crime.

"National night out is not an end unto itself," said Linda Kennedy, a spokeswoman for Town Watch. Rather, it must be viewed as the start of another year of partnership between police and residents in the fight against crime."

Election of Arthur Blackwell II as the new Wayne County Commission chairman could strengthen ties be-tween the commission's urban and suburban members, according to one

"I feel optimistic," said commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne. "With the election of Arthur Blackwell (as commission chairman) and Bernard Kilpatrick (as chairman of the commission's powerful Metropolitan Caucus) there's the opportunity to engage in new dialogue."

Earlier this year, a rift developed between the commission's suburban and urban members, with Blackwell and Mack on opposite sides of several issues. One key issue involved the assignment of committee chairmen.

Members of a newly formed suburban caucus, headed by Mack, said they were being shut out of leadership posts in favor of Metro Caucus

Mack and Blackwell, then Metro Caucus leader, subsequently met to smooth out disputes.

AS COMMISSION chairman, Blackwell will have to resign his post as leader of the committee on roads, airports and public service. That plum assignment, Mack had said, should go to a suburban commissioner. Mack's district includes Canton Township. Allegedly higher office budgets awarded by Arthur Carter to Metro Caucus members prompted another dispute. On Tuesday, however, Carter imposed new budget restraints on all commissioners.

In his last official act as chairman, Carter froze staff hiring and salaries and maintained travel restrictions designed to help the commission contribute to a balanced county budget.

"I leave the commission with a balanced budget, but it's tight," Carter said.

COMMISSION SPENDING had county voters. been a sore point between Carter and County Executive Edward McNamara, McNamara, however, praised Carter's commission tenure.

In a prepared statement issued

Tuesday afternoon, McNamara called Carter "extremely helpful in leading the commission in the resolution of many tough issues facing Wayne County."

If any dispute still exists between suburban and urban commissioners, it wasn't apparent during Tuesday's selection process.

Carter, who resigned his commission seat to accept a post as a deputy Detroit Schools superintendent, was warmly greeted by his fellow commissioners. Commissioners gave a standing ovation to the Detroit Democrat, a 14-year commission member and chairman since 1987.

NEW CHAIRMAN Blackwell is the son of former Highland Park Mayor Robert Blackwell. As leader of the Metro Caucus, as well as the roads, airports and public services committee, he was long considered one of the commission's most powerful members.

He has also gained a reputation as an outspoken commissioner who doesn't shy away from controversy. In recent actions, Blackwell proposed payment to Highland Park as runner-up in the site selection process for the new county jail - a controversial proposal vetoed by McNamara. Blackwell also headed last year's ballot proposal banning casino gambling countywide, a proposal overwhelmingly approved by Blackwell, the only candidate nominated, was unanimously selected Carter's replacement as chairman. Commissioners also unanimously elected Carter's wife, Deborah, as interim replacement for his 7th District seat.

Carter was forced to resign because the county holds contracts with the Detroit Board of Education, including one for jail inmate educa-tion, Washburn said. In his new post, Carter is a Detroit Board of Educa-

"This isn't conflict of interest, but the statute bars people from serving more than one public public body."

Under specifics of the law, those

The chairman is an ex officio member of every committee," Washburn said. "But that means he can't vote or be chairman."

A SPECIAL election to fill the balance of Carter's commission term will soon be scheduled, vice chairwoman Susan Heintz said. Heintz, the commission's highest ranking suburban member and sole Republican, said earlier she wasn't a candidate for the chairmanship. Traditionally, that's not the way it's been done (elevating the vice chairman)," said Heintz, whose dis-trict includes Livonia, Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Heintz, though, assumed the post during the brief period between Carter's resignation and Blackwell's election. Much to her amused delight, the three-minute period made her the highest ranking Republican county official in several decades and, conceivably, for several more.

Arthur Blackwell (as chairman)...there's the opportunity to engage in new dialogue.'

DRUGS AS THE CAUSE OF ARTHRITIS Arthritis can develop as the result of infections. accidents, heredity, and altered immunity. Not so well known is the fact that arthritis can arise as a side effect of medication. For example: hydralazine, a drug used to treat high blood pressue, and procaine amide, drug used to stop abnormal heart rhythm, can cause a joint condition that mimics Lupus arthritis. The possible side effect of a medication useful in decreasing cholesterol and serum triglyceride levels, gemfibrozil, includes muscle and tendon aches that can be incapacitating.

Why medication produces such side effects is not completely understood. In some instances, the body makes antibodies against the drug. These antibodies have an affinity for the tissues in the joints and tendons; once attached to the joints these antibodies set off an inflammatory reaction. The treatment of medicine-induced arthritis is to stop the offending drug.

No other treatment will suffice. Thus, when you see a doctor about joint pain, be prepared to list not only the medicine used to treat your joints, but include all the medication you have taken in the last six months.

Recipes a family treasure

A few weeks back, I discovered a buried treasure in my base-

Before I elaborate on the treasure I found, here's what led me to go treasure hunting.

A few weeks ago, my brother-in-law's mom died. Maria Keller will surely be missed. She passed along her old recipes to her daughter, Anna Pickett of Livonia, and daughter-in-law, Rose Keller (my sister).

Maria Keller was from the old country, and could she cook. There were never enough occasions when I got my fill of Maria's chicken paprikas.

I always looked forward to the holidays when I knew there would be ample platters of pfferneuse and assorted other German pastries prepared with care and devotion to detail.

With Maria's passing, I spent a hot summer's eve last week in the cool confines of my basement, searching through tattered cookbooks, scribblings on yellowed paper and shoebox upon shoebox of old, Janes family recipes that were passed down from the Janes gang culinary archives. Fortunately, I found a few of the old family favorites, but I also came upon a wealth of information about: my culinary heritage and tradition.

TO THIS DAY, my frequent ventures down to Momma's house in Wyandotte yield an over-theshoulder glance while I watch her prepare and take mental hotes on the pinches of this and handfuls of that that make up satisfying dinners salads and descrip-

The day after I found the culinary treasures, I took my 3-yearold son, Jeff, and my dad out fishing to Breath, Bay in Monroe. We caught a past full of perch. I sat in awe as I watched my dad return to the campsite we had set up earlier and perform the scaling and gutting ritual that so many times before just sailed right over my head. that razor-sharpening knife with skill and ease. A slice here, an incision there, and within an hour, there was a platterful of perch fillets awaiting Momma's special cornmeal and seasoned-flour mixture after a quick bath in an egg wash.

WHILE THE FILLETS were drying out, I observed Momma heating up the old cast-iron frypan with just a spoonful of bacon grease and a dot of pure butter adorning its bottom. There was no need for coleslaw, potatoes or a salad. These special perch, caught by a group of guys spanning three generations, were all that was needed for a special dinner.

With today's emphasis on fast foods and foods-to-go, this was one of those "comfort" moments that, unfortunately, many of us don't take the time to savor.

To this day, I don't know who was more proud, my dad for delicately cleaning and preparing the catch; my Momma who was pleased as punch with the freshcaught taste of the catch; my son, who called the treat the "best fish sticks he had ever eaten;" or me, who fought back tears enjoying the moment. A moment I will cherish in my heart till I, too, pass on to that big kitchen in the

THE BEST part of this story is yet to come.

For the most part, many of us still have the opportunity to spend some cherished moments together with folks who, like Maria Keller, my Momma and my dad, have legacies to pass along. If you haven't talked with your folks or another senior in your lives, make a mental promise to do so, now. Whether the opportunity arises over a cherry strudel or a Dunkin' Donuts cruller, many a genera-tion gap can be bridged with one of the most common denominators in history — food.

> HETHER IT BE Mucky Duck Mustard or Petrossian Caviar, the northern and western suburbs have a bounty of small, independent stores that can cater to just about every whim.

> One would think it easy to just pick up a yellow pages and thumb through gourmet food listings, but unless you know what you're looking for, and keep your ear to the pavement, finding unique and avant-garde foodstuffs isn't as easy as letting you fingers do the walking. Many of the area's speciality foodstores are looking to keep a low profile, concentrating mainly on serving that one-of-a-kind customer who will travel miles for canned lichee nuts and Udon noodles. And the best part is that it won't necessarily mean a trek downtown or to Ann Arbor to

> There is an incredible number of Oriental foodstores in the Court every community the Observer & Eccentric reaches. Three days were spent just hopping from one Oriental store to the other, and that didn't include specialty gourmet shops, Middle Eastern stores or restaurant sup-ply houses that also service customers in our area.

GRANTED, YOU STILL have to venture down to Bagley and 24th streets in Detroit for the best tortillas and Mexican foodstuffs, but other than that, many small mom-and-pop operations in our suburbs can supply you with everything you need to make dishes ranging from Kim Chee to a Mongolian Hotpot.

One of the most fun Oriental stores is Westside Oriental Grocery at Ford and Middlebelt roads in beautiful downtown Garden City. In addition to being stocked with a wide assortment of Oriental foodstuffs, this shop also is like visiting the Hong Kong mainland, mainly because the walls are brimming with Samurai swords, fans, and tons of the most extensive arrays of teapots and rice steamers one could ever dream of.

It has coolers stocked with an array of intriguing fresh Oriental produce and freezers stocked with specialty fish, squid and assorted other sundries. The store stocks the besttasting imported soy sauce for a stir-fry. Sorry, LaChoy, this has you beat, hands down.

Of course, not to be outdone is Cho's Oriental on Orchard Lake Road in West Bloomfield, Mt. Fuji Oriental on Ten Mile Road in Southfield, Hana Oriental on Dequindre Road in Troy, Seoul Oriental at Nine Mile and Beech Daly roads in Southfield and, last but not least, the Asia

Mart on Big Beaver Road in Troy.

A call to Toula Patsalis, owner and CEO of the much-heralded Kitchen Glamor chain, had her singing the praises of Cho's, mainly because it supplies all the Far Eastern goodies for the many Oriental classes Kitchen Glamor offers.

IF WANDERING through stores from the Orient gets the blood pumping, then you would really get a kick out of an equally exciting trip to one of the area's Middle Eastern markets. The International Market at Five Mile and Inkster reads in Livonia, along with the Oasis Mart on Woodward Avenue in Royal Oak and Patel Brothers on Ford Road in Garden City also stocks this area's finest collection of everything you need to make baba ganoosh and kibbee.

Don Carlos is a Mexican standout tal Grocery in Garden City.

It wasn't long ago that patrons seeking really good Mexican food would wait patiently to get into Don Carlos, a place the size of a postage stamp in Dearborn.

Today, Maria Shaffran's Don Carloses have branched out. You may still have to wait on a weekend night, but at least there are several locations, including one in Garden City. And the business' first franchise just opened in Redford Township, on Telegraph Road north of West Chica-

Mexican is hot. Amazingly, dozens and dozens of Mexican restaurants are operating successfully around town. Many, however, aren't worth the price of a margarita.

Don Carlos is one of the exceptions. All the entrees are Shaffran's though the restaurant is branching out, it still delivers fantastic food at modest prices.

WE RECENTLY DINED at the Redford location, a spot which for years was a New-Orleans-style restaurant. The brick has been painted the pinkish mauve that characterizes Don Carlos, and is trimmed with grey. Even the lampposts outside look a little Mexican with the new Inside it is bright-light and colurfully decorated - and the service staff is extraordinarily pleasant. Owner Sandy Sulkes says, "We have a good time" - and it shows. You almost feel like part of the family by the time your meal is over.

We enjoyed everything we tried, from the margaritas to the sopapillas (a dessert of gently fried tortillas covered in honey, cinnamon and sugar). An easy way to get a sampling is to try one of the combination plates, such as the Fajita Suprema with shrimp, steak and chicken sauteed with vegetables and topped with muenster cheese.

We really enjoyed the Fajita Don Carlos, which combines strips of tender steak with green peppers, onions, mushrooms and tomatoes and is covered with melted muenster cheese. You can customize your fajita by stuffing your flour tortilla with the main entree and portions of the three side dishes: refried beans; a delicious, slightly chunky gua-camole; and diced tomatoes, onions and peppers. Everything has Maria Shaffran's stamp on it in the form of specially formulated sauces and fresher-than-fresh ingredients.

The chicken noodle soup is, by all accounts, "very, very special" as is the flaming cheese appetizer with a special sauce and choriso (Mexican sausage).

For lunch, you can order from the main menu or select from the day's specials, generally the same entrees in smaller portions, priced at just $2.95 and promised to arrive within

"Is it ready?" "Can we eat?" "Let's go." are busy phrases for the eat-and-run families

Busy lifestyles have demanded foods that are quick-cook, easy to store, with no mess and no clean-up. Even though these foods have been designed to benefit working parents, singles, older adults and children, do you get the feeling you're cooking with a stop watch?

No refrigeration and two minutes in the microwave can provide a meal from a shelf-stable package. No need to worry about storage as these packages can sit on the shelf from 18-24 months because of heat sterilization. This makes the food as safe as if it were in a traditional metal can. The oxygen-free environment created by this process makes the survival of most food-poisonings bacteria impossible.

The manufacturer claims that these shelf-stable products are more fresh-like and retain more nutrients because this process is done so quickly. Check the package for a "see by" or "use by" date, and use as a guideline.

These packages are really a portable food. Put them in your purse or briefcase to take to work, school or anywhere there is a microwave.

Shelf-stable meals are fast

HOWEVER, THE COST is a little more than other frozen foods. Another advantage of the single servings is that you can buy all kinds of ethnic foods that add a lot of variety to meals. No leftovers to have to reheat the next day, either.

Safety is always a concern with food and working with appliances. "Crisping cards" have been added to fish and potato products and to pizza so that the food will be crispy, not soft. These cards made of aluminum-coated plastic become extremely hot and can burn you easily. If children are making these for snacks, caution them about the heat also. Whether food is designed for a microwave or a conventional oven. take care with safety.

Fresh refrigerated foods are now reshaping the meaning of convenience. The foods have that justcooked flavor more so than frozen or canned. These foods are spared the extreme heat of canned foods and extreme cold of frozen, both of which damages the cell structure of the food. They also retain fresher flavor, texture and color. Compared to frozen and canned, the nutrient quality is also better.

Unlike canned or other shelfstable foods, refrigerated foods are not heated to a sufficient temperature for a long enough time to destroy all possible bacteria. Refrigeration temperatures will slow or prevent multiplication of most bacteria but do not prevent all bacterial

There is no doubt that microwaves have changed the packaging of foods. The microwave is the key cooking appliance for three out of four households, so manufacturers are designing new foods and new packages for the busy consumer life-

If Japanese cuisine is hot in your repertoire of culinary tidbits, then you will surely not want to miss the Koyama Shoten Japanese grocery at Six and Newburgh roads in Livonia.

All the above-listed independents stock just about everything you need, this side of San Fransisco.

As far as Italian markets are concerned, you don't have to drive to the east side to get the best Italian foodstuffs money can buy. The Cantoro Italian Grocery on Middlebelt Road in Livonia has pasta galore, not to mention its meat and cheese deli that will fresh grate your imported Parmesan or Romano. It also will stock the new arrival of Proscuitto di Parma, which has taken a 20-year absence from American shelves, within the next 60 days.

This neat, homey market also stocks the finest selections of undried tomatoes and Italian produce that rival the Gratiot Avenue shops on Detroit's far east side.

But when it comes to intriguing markets that stock a variety of international foods, you won't have to go far to visit the fabled Merchant of Vino shops, in Southfield, Birmingham and Troy. A talk with Juliette Jonna, head of the kitchen at the Merchant of Vino, reveals that this venerable wineshop has spread its wards of 15 kilos (more than 30 roots, now calling itself an international marketplace, with everything from Asia to New Zealand.

THE SUBURBAN grocery store carries staples from Africa, Moroeco, the Far East, Australia, the Hawaiian Islands and Sweden. It has has one of the most extensive French food sections in town. All this and a first-rate deli loaded to the gills with an assortment of salads and gourmet-to-go dishes for the busy subur-

Juliette Jonna was quick to point out that the Merchant of Vino is now offering complete catering services (including bar) and can arrange everything from the smallest tete-atete to the grandest affair. Long known for its outstanding selection of wines from around the world, the Merchant of Vino has expanded to include great foods from around the

By the way, it is the exclusive merchant of the most-sought-after caviar in the world, Petrossian. It also supplies restaurants and the general public, but a word of caution for the caviar enthusiast: the Petrossian Beluga caviar is presently retailing at about $56 per ounce.

There is no such thing as old caviar here, folks, Chuck Boudt at the Merchant says the shop sells up-pounds) per week. (Simple arithmetic has $56 per ounce times 30 pounds per week coming in at more than $27,000 — just for Beluga caviar.) Of course, for us yuppies who would rather keep gas in the family automobile, lesser qualities for much lesser prices are always avail-

Trying not to let the Merchant of Vino get all the accolades for great gourmet goods, right on its heels are the Market Basket of Franklin in beautiful downtown Franklin (suppliers of this writer's most favorite Franklin Village Homemade Pasta and Mucky Duck mustard).

THEN THERE IS the Market Square markets of Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills, Oliverio's on Long Lake Road in Bloomfield Township, R.I.K.'s Total Cuisine on Telegraph Road in Bloomfield Township and the Bottle and Basket on Hunter Road in Birmingham. These are great gourmet shops stocking specialty foods that have been around for years and are weekly targets for many Observer & Eccentric readers in the northern suburbs.

In Madison Heights, but right on the border of Troy on Stephenson Highway between 13 and 14 Mile Roads, is Leone's Restaurant Supply Cash and Carry. This is a grocery ly, you don't have to own one to go there. Institutional packed foodstuffs for the suburban party-thrower are de rigeur.

Trust me on this one, folks. You visit Leone's for a look and I guarantee you will leave with a basket. There's a Leone's Cash and Carry on Plymouth Road in Livonia, too, but you have to order via computer cat-

If anything, you will want to try a small jar of the Minor's soup bases. These are concentrated soup bases with flavors ranging from chicken to beef to lobster, to clam to ham and beyond. Any soup aficionado who doesn't have the time to make his or her own stock will surely appreciate the Minor brand soup bases. Take it from experience though. Stick with the Minor brand, as the lesser-quality bases tend to be a little salty for

I would be remiss not to mention in any article regarding gourmet foodstuffs the Kitchen Glamor shops in Redford and West Bloomfield. In addition to the greatest selection of cookware and cutlery known to this area, the shops also stock an intriguing array of herbs, spices, chocolate, oils and vinegars. Be sure to check out their pepper selection, every-thing from Tellicherry to Schezuan.

beans, the celery and the onion. Reserving eight whole shrimp, cut the remaining shrimp crosswise into thirds. In a large heavy skillet cook the garlic and the red pepper flakes in 3 tablespoons of the oil over moderate heat, stirring, for 30 seconds. or until the garlic is very fragrant, add the reserved whole shrimp and the cut shrimp, and cook the mixture, stirring, for 2-3 minutes, or until the shrimp are just cooked

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department has enlisted the aid of 300 teddy bears in its war on drugs. The cuddly stuff animals are meant to comfort children whose parents or adult guardians are arrested in drug raids. The bears, donated by members of the Wayne County Sheriff's Local 502, will be given by sheriff's deputies to youngsters who are involved in raids conducted by the Sheriff Department. The program, thought to be the first of its kind nationally, is patterned after similar programs for children who have been traumatized by auto accidents, fires or sexual of-

Deafness worsens Alzheimer's

Can deafness worsen the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease?

Mrs. G.G. Ann Arbor Senior

Dear Mrs. G.

According to a recent study, hearing impairment does worsen the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease.

This disabling and eventually fatal disease affects about 5 percent of people older than 65. One-third to one-half of those in that age group have significant hearing loss.

The study, done by Dr. Richard Uhlmann and colleagues at the University of Washington and reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association, compared 100 older adults who had Alzheimer's or a similar condition with 100 other counterparts. They found that the hearing-impaired subjects were twice as likely to be diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease as were those who had normal hearing.

According to Dr. Ulhmann, hearing loss doesn't cause Alzheimer's, but it does make the symptoms worse by increasing the patient's isolation from the environment. He hopes that by having their hearing impairments treated, older adults will suffer less from symptoms such as forgetfulness and confusion.

Some time ago, you did a column on bar soap and the spread of germs. At the time, you said that to your knowledge, there was only one recorded study and it came out against the use of bar soap as it was proven to harbor bacteria. Are there any current studies on this?

Mrs. A.H. Cambridge Senior

Dear Mrs. H .:

Apparently the debate about the spread of germs and bar soap is far from over. A new study indicates that a sloppy bar of soap may not be as bad as it looks.

When volunteers washed with contaminated soap bars that had been inoculated with two highly infectious strains of bacteria, researchers found that no detectable levels of the

and Birch

gerontology

A. Jolayne Farrell

bacteria were actually transferred to the volunteers hands

The original study that I referred to in the previous column didn't examine whether the soap actually transmitted the bacteria, let alone spread any specific disease.

It is important to remember that potentially harmful microorganisms exist on most surfaces, including money, door, knobs, hand railings, etc. But because the human skin is intact, the body is defended against these germs.

To prevent the spread of disease, hand washing is essential. It's better to wash than not - even with that communal bar of soap.

MAGINE, for a moment, lakes without life.

Life without lakes: no swimming, boating or fishing. No water skiing. No sailing. It's an eerie thought, but one that bears consideration.

Many lakes, especially in southeastern Michigan, are dying a premature death. The murderer is cultural eutrophication, a natural process being accelerated by man.

Eutrophication is the gradual increase of nutrients in a body of water depleting the oxygen. Without oxygen, the lake dies and turns into a mucky swamp. It's a process that happens, eventually, to every lake. But it can take hundreds, even thousands of years for nature to run its course.

When plants die, the decay process takes oxygen from the water. The decaying plants also absorb sunlight, which warms the water and limits the water's ability to store oxygen. As the level of oxygen declines, fish begin to die and decay, taking even more oxygen from the water.

All this decaying matter adds nutrients to the water, on which plants and algae thrive, further accelerating the cycle. Meanwhile, the lake is slowly filling with muck and sediment.

From a recreational view, the lake is already dead. Swimmers stay away from the brown, sediment-filled water. Boaters and anglers give up hope as the weeds become too thick to allow normal usage.

Citizens restore Troy lake

By Bill Parker staff writer

Perched in the midst of an affiluent Troy subdivision, Lake Chariwood was once a beautiful, 10-acre man-made lake, complete with a private community beach, a sandy/gravel bottom and plenty of room for swimming, fishing and boating.

But time and development took their toll.

Drainage from a huge watershed dumped everything from lawn fertilizers to top soil into the lake. A tributary of the Rouge River that enters one end of the lake (and exits the other) also deposited sediment along the bottom.

The lake was shallow from the start, averaging less than eight feet in depth. Slowly, but surely, it began to fill up while weeds and algae flourished — a natural sign of aging.

"There was so much (sediment) the kids didn't even want to swim in the lake anymore," said Joe Mikaila, vice president of the Lake Charnwood Home Owner's Association. "That (sediment) would get all over you. When you got out of the water it looked like you were wearing black nylons. And the weeds were really bad, too."

Troubled waters are calling for help

NE OF MY favorite fishing lakes has almost disappeared. Actually, it's just too overgrown with weeds to even think about trying to catch any fish.

Captain Jon Molesky of Southfield took us charter fishing last week in Muskegon. We caught a couple dandy lake trout, but I'm a little worried about eating them since the National Wildlife Federation's recent report which apparently links a significant cancer risk with the consumption of Lake Michigan lake trout.

I've also got a freezer full of blue gill, perch and pike. But the Michigan Health Department says I'm not supposed to eat more than one meal of these fish a week or I could develop mercury poisoning. I shouldn't give any to my 3-year-old daughter. The department issued a statewide consumption advisory against eating too much of certain predator fish from Michigan inland lakes.

Now, I don't want to sound like Chicken Little, but let's face the fact. Our lakes are dying.

I WAS RAISED in northern Oakland County in an area which I could walk no-more than 10 minutes in any direction and find a lake. As a kid, I loved to go fishing, swimming, boating and water skiing. That's probably why I'm so concerned with the state of Michigan lakes. I remember when license plates used to read "Water Winter Wonderland."

Locally, there's concern about eutrophication, the natural aging process of a lake. As weeds die, they begin to decay which lowers the oxygen levels of the water. With low oxygen levels, fish begin to die, too. Algae and weeds flourish with the added nutrients from the decaying matter. The cycle continues until the lake eventually turns into a swamp then finally dries up. Naturally, this process could take thousands of years. But with man's assistance — development along the lake without concern for the water, municipal and industrial discharges into the lakes, phosphorus-based lawn fertilizers draining into the lakes, faulty septic fields — the process is increased at a rate as much as five times that of the natural rate.

ON A WIDER spectrum, lakes are becoming polluted to the extent that they are affecting our

Lake Michigan's multi-million dollar charter industry has been all but devastated by the NWF's cancer scare. Although the specific amount of carcinogens found in fish varies depending on whom you talk to, everyone involved agrees there is a problem. The real question is: Just how big is the problem?

The Michigan Department of Public Health issued an advisory last year limiting the amount of consumption of rock bass, perch and crappie over 9 inches, large-mouth and smallmouth bass, walleye, northern pike and muskie caught in Michigan inland lakes. That's every single lake in Michigan. Results of a limited sampling of fish revealed that some fish did contain levels of mercury exceeding the state's level of public concern. Since it was not feasible to check all the inland lakes in Michigan, the MDPH issued a statewide advisory.

Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota and parts of Canada are experiencing the same problems. Experts agree, the majority of the mercury entering our lakes is entering from the atmosphere in the form of acid rain.

OUR LAKES and the condition of the water in them, are deteriorating badly. Although some of our lakes were made by man, most are natural bodies of water. But the problems afflicting them are man-made. The only actions that will save our lakes must also be man-made. These problems won't correct themselves without our help. We must clean up our act and begin to appreciate our natural resources for what they Developers must be aware of the impact a subdivision will have on a body of water and do everything possible not to upset nature's balance. Lake residents must work to keep their lakes clean and free of chemicals and other pollutants.

Air pollution is entering our

Air pollution is entering our water and poisoning our fish. We must change our ways and clean our air.

I challenge our politicians to take a strong stand against pollution and insensitivity to our resources. Forget about all the bureaucratic baloney and the political red tape and get down to the issues that are troubling our waters.

Obviously, we can't eliminate these problems overnight. But if this generation doesn't make a serious effort to clean our lakes, our air, our environment, lake life as we know it — fishing, swimming, boating and skiing — may live only in the history books of our grandchildren.

People stay away from polluted Newburg Lake

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

Ed Wisniewski, a 64-year-old resident of Wayne, says he likes to fish on Newburg Lake because "nobody bothers you there; they leave you alone."

Few boaters and no swimmers bide their time at Newburg, the only public lake in the Observerland coverage area. None of the lakes in Wayne County allows swimming.

Unlike Oakland County — where lakes are abundant and many are made available to swimmers — lakes in Wayne County tend to be occupied more by weeds and lily pads.

And an occasional fisherman.

Blue gill, large-mouth bass and northern pike are some of the fish found in Newburg.

"FISH HANG out around weeds," said Wisniewski, who has fished the Newburg waters the last decade. "There's weeds all over the place. As long as people don't throw garbage in the water it'll be all right."

Although Wisniewski likes the serenity of Newburg Lake, he says he wouldn't mind seeing the water cleaned because it "would be someplace to bring the grandkids. I've got 12 of them."

The 104.7 acres of water hasn't been open to swimmers since the 1930s because of rising pollution, said Nancy Watkins, manager of design for the Wayne County Parks Division. Boats without motors are allowed on Newburg.

Watkins said there will never be swimming allowed in Newburg because of the "no-contact water," flowing into it from the Rouge River.

There are no plans to remove weeds either by chemicals or by manual harvest, Watkins said.

SHE ADDED that no one has ever requested that weeds be removed and that the lakes in Wayne County are "actually exaggerated wet lands. There's more wildlife and you're not going to get sand-based lakes in Wayne County like there are in Oakland County.

"Mother Nature didn't make lakes in Wayne County," Watkins said. "I don't think we have any weed trouble, that's just its natural form. That's the way it's supposed to be."

Weed growth is brought on by fertilizer spillover from the shores, said Maureen Hein, an aquatic biologist in the state of Michigan's Land and Water Management Division in Lansing. Since private property is limited around Newburg, Hein said weed development might also be caused by storm drains and organic soil, which is prevalent in the Lower Peninsula.

Watkins said a master plan study is being conducted by a landscaping firm in Kalamazoo to look into the possibility of cleaning the land surrounding the Wayne County lakes.

The study will determine whether better fishing locations, launching areas, handicapped ramps and parking could be added around the lake, Watkins said.

Former RT coach moves to Borgess

By Bred Emone staff writer

The "Traveling Mann" is back as a varsity girls basketball coach, this time at Redford Bishop Borgess High.

Dave Mann, who last year finished with a 5-15 record at nearby Redford Thurston High, takes over at Borgess for Mike Resmer, who resigned last spring after five years to pursue other career interests.

Mann filled in last season at Thurston for Mike Schuette, who is returning this fall after a year's leave of absence. With Schuette coming back, Mann was scheduled to serve as Thurston's JV coach.

But Borgess athletic director Mike Fusco, impressed with Mann's credentials, wasted little time in offering Mann the vacant position. "We think he's a catch for us," Fusco said. "He has a good feel for what Catholic League sports are all about. He's more experienced than a one-year varsity basketball coach. He really has a good feel for the X's and O's of the game." MANN SAID he received the blessings of Jim Urick, Thurston's athletic director "I talked with him on the phone the other day and he's happy for me," said the 28-year-old Portage native. The new Borgess coach will have little time to get acquainted with his new team. Before the start of practice, Aug. 14, Mann hopes to round up enough players to attend the University of Michigan's Team Camp.

"I'll basically be scrambling for two weeks," said Mann, a television producer who works camps for the U-M Athletic Department. "I've talked with some of the girls on the phone, but basically right now I don't know who is who "

Mann inherits an 11-8 team from Resmer. Four of the team's five starters have graduated. Under Resmer, the Spartans won two straight district titles, but failed to reach the Catholic League playoffs.

Ironically during last year's Class B district tournament, Mann was on the losing end of a 67-20 score against Borgess.

BUT THE CUPBOARD is not completely bare, as the Spartans return an outstanding scorer at guard, Kyra Woodard, a third-team All-Observer choice last year as a sophomore. Forward Tonya Tounsel, last year's sixth man, is also back. "We'll man-to-man press and do a lot of things I'm comfortable with." said Mann, who resides in Ann Arbor. "I may change a few things offensively. A lot depends what kind of personnel we have.' At Thurston, Mann's teams were known for their aggressive defense. That style of play should fit right in with the rugged Central Division, which includes the likes of former state basketball champions Livonia Ladywood, Farmington Hills Mercy, Harper Woods Regina and Birmingham Marian "We'll go in with the same attitude we had at Thurston when we played Taylor Center (the Tri-River League champs)," Mann said. "It was a great opportunity for our girls and we looked forward to playing them. Even though the score was lopsided, I certainly knew that we had played hard.

'Now the only difference is that we're going to play against teams, the caliber of a Taylor Center, every night. But this is a great opportunity, I'm looking forward to it.'

IN A RELATED move, Fusco announced that Obie McGeorge, a science teacher at the school, will become the new boys cross country

Eutrophication growing problem

JIM STEWART, a lakefront property owner, became angered about the condition of the lake four years ago. Through Stewart's efforts, the Lake Charnwood Improvement board was formed in an effort to find a solution to the lakes' problems.

"It (the lake) was dying right in front of my eyes," said Stewart, an active member of the board. "Twenty-five years of building in the area and a watershed 43 times greater than the lake - it all took its toll."

The lake is a victim of cultural eutrophication. Eutrophication is a natural aging process that occurs in every lake. But in Lake Charnwood, the problem was accelerated by man's presence.

The increased nutrients in the water (fertilizers, decaying weeds) spawned weed growth. In the early stages, the community fought the weeds with chemical treatment, but that only complicated the problem.

As the weeds died, they sank to the bottom of the lake and added to the sediment. As they decayed, they also added nutrients to the water which caused new weeds to grow faster. Drainage from the watershed also aided in filling the lake.

"WE HIRED an engineering firm to do a study on the lake and tell us what we could do," Stewart said. The board studied several options and finally agreed to drain the lake and use earth moving equipment to remove the buildup from the bottom. The mud removed from the lake will be dried, then landscaped into the peninsula on which the community beach is located.

"Everything will be cleaned out right down to the sand/gravel bottom," explained Stewart. "We'll have an average depth of seven feet across the lake. Before we started, it averaged less than four feet deep."

The project includes the removal of 15,000 cubic yards of muck and should be completed in September. Twenty-three lakefront residents have been assessed more than $6,000 each over a 10-year period to-finance the project. Subdivision resi-dents with lake privileges were assessed 10 percent of the cost of lakefront property owners.

"It's been a long, hard struggle, but I think we're going to make it," Stewart said. "Everyone will be happy when the project is finished. We'll have a clean, pristine lake."

CULTURAL EUTROPHICATION is a growing problem in many lakes, especially in southeastern Michigan. Lake improvement boards are springing up all over the state to study solutions to the problems facing their lakes. Currently there are 70 active lake boards in the state with 40 percent of them located in

"A lot of people have a lot of curiosity about (the Charnwood Lake are one of the only lakes to do this type of thing and people want to know about it. We're like a guinea pig."

Robert Fredericks, chief deputy of the Oakland County Drain Commission is pleased with the progress at 22 Lake Charnwood, but warns: "Lakes are not uniform. Every lake is dif- eferent. Some are deeper than others, i a some have sandy bottoms and some !. never did. What works for one lake in may not work for the next."

Until specific solutions are found for each individual lake, property owners can help slow the process. Weeds can be manually cut and removed from the lake. The use of phospohorus-based fertilizers can be limited and septic systems in older homes should be kept in good working order. Faulty septic systems that leak into a lake increase the nutrients content and spark weed

Humans increase danger

"A lake is an eco-system, and lakes do get old," said Robert Fredericks, chief deputy with the Oakland County Drain Commission. "People want lakes to be 20 years old and terrific, but they don't realize they are fighting nature. You can't freeze a lake at a certain age."

CULTURAL EUTROPHICATION occurs when man steps in and accelerates this natural process. Man may speed the process in several ways, but the main culprit is an overabundance of phos-

Lakes surrounded by residential development seem to be hit the hardest.

Property owners want to keep their yards looking nice so they fertilize with phosphorus-based fertilizers. The phosphorus gets into the ground water and eventually runs off into the lake, greatly accelerating weed growth.

Many houses still have septic systems. A faulty system, or a system that backs up in heavy rain and drains into the lake, adds nutrients to the water, which also increases weed growth.

Some lakes, such as Kent Lake in Kensington Metropark, are also affected by municipal or industrial discharges. There are three waste-water treatment plants above Kent Lake on the Huron River that discharge nutrient-rich effluent into

"I must admit they have made great strides in cleaning up these discharges (on the Huron River) in recent years," said Howard Wandell, supervisor of the Department of Natural Resources Inland Lake Management Unit. "But these discharges are still very high in phosphates."

DEVELOPMENT ALONG a lake area can also cause problems. While land is cleared for development, top soil erodes and drains into the local lake. This soil settles in the bottom of the lake. Over a period of time, this build-up takes its toll.

Even when yards are sodded and trees planted, the natural drainage routes are often opened, helping rain water to quickly run off the homeowner's property: great for the homeowner but .. devastating for the lake.

Man-made lakes are hit harder since they are generally shallower and normally have soil bottoms, already rich in nutrients.

Many subdivision lakes began as a small pond or stream. But by digging and damming, these ponds and streams have evolved into shallow lakes. When phosphorus-based fertilizers, faulty septic systems and subdivision ground water drainage are introduced to these lakes, the changes can be seen in a few years.

"Something will have to be done," said Mark ... Brownlie, an environmental planner with the Oakland County Planning Division. "We've already altered the natural state of the lakes by living around them and using them. We can't expect them to take care of themselves now.

Craiger league champ once again

Craiger claimed its sixth consecutive Babe Ruth Baseball League title, beating the second-place Dry Clean Company 5-4 in nine innings Thursday.

The victory followed back-to-back defeats in which Dairy Junction Express blanked Craiger 2-0 on Wednesday and Dry Clean nipped Craiger 7-6 on Tuesday. Craiger (12-4) came from behind Thursday after Dry Clean (9-6-1) put together five straight hits off Scott Kapla in the fifth inning to take a 4-2 lead.

Craiger's Kevin Goff, who was 3for-5 with three RBI, cut the margin to 4-3 with a solo homer in the bottom of the sixth, and Phil DePrima tied it with a two-out single in the seventh. Goff produced the game-winning hit in the ninth — a one-out, bases-loaded single.

Charlie Winstel picked up the vic-

Myrna Partrich

Dear Myrna: I read your recent article on fat cells with great distress. What a depressing reply to people trying to change their body and lifestyle. In reading the article, I almost feel that the effort to lose weight is useless. I will always have fat cells that will refill. I think in fairness to many readers, you should explain your answer more fully or explain and name your sources. I do not claim to be an expert on weight loss, only a person spending the past year trying to lose weight, change my lifestyle and exercise. My battle isn't over, but after reading your article on body fat,

I feel like I'm only wasting my time and efforts. Perhaps you can expand on this theme, or have a medical person specializing in this field expand on the topic of body fat. I will appreciate some type of followup on this topic.

In reference to my column headlined "A couple different theories on fat cells," I feel sorry that you feel discouraged about your weight or body composition (fat versus muscle).

My column was brief and to the point However, it did not discuss a remedy to this fat-cell problem.

The column read: "The only theory, until recently, was that a person acquired a set number of fat cells early in life, and that the number and types of cells helped determine whether that person would be fat or thin.

Now an added theory tells us that throughout life, we may acquire an increased number of fat cells early in life, especially during periods of weight gain. Yet regardless of when fat cells appear, they are with us for life. Once they are filled with stored fat, they work to stay

"In other words, a fat cell may shrink when you diet, but when you assume eating normally, that cell will strive again to regain its former capacity. This may explain why you tend to regain lost weight after a reducing diet, even though you may eat fewer calories than

THESE THEORIES are very well known and well researched, and ves, genetics does play a part in determining whether a person will be thin or fat.

However, this does not mean you are hopeless. Both my partner at work and I were chubby children. Through proper diet and regular exercise, we have managed to maintain our I am assuming when you say you are changing your lifestyle, you mean diet and exercise. I'm also assuming you understand the proper diet (high-complex carbohydrates and low fat intake) and you will truly make it a lifestyle, not simply a temporary situation. I am touched by your letter and want to help you. Changing your metabolism through exercise will help keep your fat cells small. Remember, we do not lose the amount of fat cells in our body but we can If you already have an extra amount of fat cells in your body, it is your job to keep these fat cells small and depleted. I - the oncechubby child - recently was tested for fat and naturally found my fat

EXERCISE IS a key item here. For weight loss and fat control. exercise five to six days per week.

Be good to yourself. Take a little time out and exercise. You only need 30 to 60 minutes for walking, biking, aerobics classes, etc.

A few suggested books: "The Good Food Book" by Judy Brody;

"Diet for a Small Planet" by Frances Lappe; and "Permanent Weight Loss Manual" by Nathan Pritikin.

Yes, weight control is a fight. Once you get the hang of it, it will become a way of life.

Michigan's gemstane island

By Jeff Counts staff writer

Monday, August 7, 1989 O&E

Isle Royale is Michigan's gem in the rough. For those who venture to the island that sits in the west end of Lake Superior, it offers a chance to spend time away from the civilized world.

There aren't any roads or cars on the 45-mile-long island, but that doesn't make it another Mackinac Is-

A clear sky and a clear lake was too much for vactioneer Jeff Counts to resist, so out came the rod and reel for a bit of fishing.

There aren't any bridle paths, horses, bikes or fudge shops. The only way to get around is by boat or foot. Also, Isle Royale isn't for the day tripper, it's for the devoted. There's one lodge, one restaurant and one gift shop. You can see them all in about 15 minutes.

It's the rest of the island that attracts those who venture by boat and plane to the national park. The main attractions are the stately moose, the wolves who prey on the moose, the greenstones - Michigan's official gem - and the scenery. The island has 1,400 moose and 11 wolves.

But it's the relationship between the moose and the wolves that attracts biology students and academics to the island. The two animals are in ecological balance and depend on each other for their survivial.

The wolves kill and feed on the weaker moose, keeping their numbers in check. That way the island isn't over populated by moose. If there were too many moose, their sources of food would quickly be depleted.

MOOSE SPEND much of their time in the inland lakes and swamps of Isle Royale, and those are the destinations for backpackers in quest of moose.

It may seem like a lot of work, but seeing a moose in its natural habitat or hearing a wolf howl is worth the effort. For those who may be afraid to walk around an island with wolves on it, park rangers say there's nothing to fear. Few people are even lucky to see a wolf.

During the last 20 years, I've made five trips to the island, and each trip has been different, even through I've seen some of the same country more than once.

The weather and my companions have changed, but I feel the same thrill at seeing a moose or hearing the howl of the wolf as I first did at 19 years of age.

Hearing that howl or watching a moose pull its head out of the water to look at you is worth the aching muscles, sweating and work that is backpacking.

But while backpacking has its devotees, it's not the sport for everyone. For those who don't choose to spend a week without a shower and their dinner hours eating freeze dried foods, there is a lodge, housekeeping cabins and boat trips. There are also marinas on the island for those with large enough boats to make the trip from the mainland to the island.

Rates for rooms at Rock Habor Lodge start at $65 per day, while the rates for housekeeping cabins start

Getting there is such fun

Getting to Isle Royale National Park is part of the fun.

Because it's an island, get ready for either a boat ride or a plane trip. Both have their advan-

Here's a round-up of the transportation options from Houghton:

• The M.V. Ranger III is a 153-foot, 123-passenger boat that sails from Houghton to Rock Harbor Lodge at Isle Royle on Tuesdays and Fridays each week during the lodge season and returns the next day. The lodge season is from mid-June through early Sep-

The boat, operated by the National Park Service, leaves at 9 a.m. Eastern Daylight Time and the trip takes six hours. Advance reservations for passage should be made with the superintendent, 87 North Ripley Street, Isle Royale National Park, Houghton 49931. For more information call (906) 482-0984.

• The Isle Royale Queen III, an 81-foot, 90 passenger boat that sails from Copper Harbor to Rock Harbor Lodge from mid-May through September. The boat leaves Copper Harbor 8 a.m. Eastern Daylight Time and leaves Rock Harbor Lodge at 3:30 p.m. The trip takes about 41/2 hours. For more information contact the Isle Royale Ferry Service, Copper Harbor 49918, or call (906) 289-4437.

• Isla Royale Seaplane Service Inc., the on demand charter service to Isle Royale operates from mid-May through September from Houghton. For more information, call (906) 482-8850.

While most Michigan residents tend to travel to Isle Royale from either Houghton or Copper Habor, there is the Minnesota connection. Here's the line up from that

• M.V. Voyageur II, a 63-foot, 49-passenger craft makes twoday round trips from Grand Portage, Minn., to Windigo and Rock Harbor Lodge on Isle Royale each Monday, Wednesday and Saturday. The boat leaves the mainland at 9:30 a.m. Central Daylight Time. The boat remains overnight at Rock Habor Lodge, departing at 9 a.m. Eastern Daylight Time on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays for Windigo and Grand Portage. For more information write or Sivertson's Grand Portage, Isle Royale Transportation Lines Inc., 1332 London Road, Duluth, Minn., 55805, or call (218) 728-1237.

The white water way to see nature

By Iris Sanderson Jones contributing travel editor

Q: Do you have any information on how I would start researching white water rafting trips? I'm interested in programs for novices as this will be my first trip.

Plymouth

A: I got my feet wet briefly on the Rio Grande in Big Bend National Park, Texas, and have always wanted to pursue it further. That trip was run by Far Flung Adventures (P.O. Box 31, Terlingua, Texas. Call (915)

I can tell you that it was great fun to take a day trip with half a dozen on each of several rafts in the Elena Canyon, with a riverside lunch along the way.

I also visited Jim and Jeanine Greiner, who run Wildwater Ltd. Rafting on the Chatooga River, right on the border of Georgia and South Carolina (Wildwater Ltd. Rafting, P.O. Box 100, Long Creek, S.C. 29658. Call (803) 647-9587.) An entirely different rafting style than you'll find in the west.

There are several large adventure-travel companies. I talked to Rick McMahan, vice president of operations for American Wilderness Experience, (AWE) which advertises itself as "the civilized way to rough it." (P.O. Box 1486, Boulder, CO 80306. Call toll-free (800) 444-0099.)

Gil Buckman (Steve Martin) has some advice for his son Kevin (Jasen Fisher) in Ron Howard's latest film, "Parenthood."

'Parenthood': Just like life

"Life is messy" says Karen (Mary Steenburgen).

"I liked that roller coaster ride." says Grandma (Helen Shaw). "It went up and down, not like the merry-go-round that just goes 'round and round. Some people like that but I like the roller coaster.

Well, life is messy and it does go up and down - and the same may be said for "Parenthood" (A-, R, 120 minutes). It's got everybody in it, and it goes up and down for two hours. But at the end of the ride, I think you'll agree, the trip was worthwhile.

Frank (Jason Robards) is the patriarch of this rather large and strange clan - and he's not very good at patriarching, if you can take the word of his compulsive son, Gil (Steve Martin), who's trying to be a good father and avoid Frank's mis-

But he tries too hard - with the aid and support of his wife, Karen (Steenburgen) — so they wind up with three kids in trouble — or at least they are so convinced by the school principal.

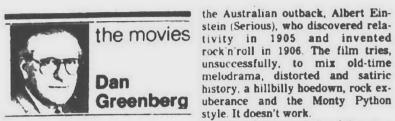

The important lesson they have to learn is that life is messy and, like the roller coaster, has its ups and downs. Happiness is accepting those imperfections and, if you abide by the movie's imperfections, you'll en-

But, don't get cocky. For example, you don't have this family sorted out yet. Now, pay attention; this is going to be on the mid-semester: Gil has three siblings. Susan (Harley Kozak) is married to Nathan (Rick Moranis) and their marriage is strained by Nathan's weird ideas about their daughter, Patty's (Ivyann Schwan)

The AMC Maple Theatre in Birmingham has spent the past decade cultivating an educated and upscale suburban audience willing to take chances on offbeat films.

In the past year, however, the theater has turned up an amazing amount of truly wretched titles. The gourmet candy counter has become infinitely more exciting than what's happening on screen.

It's a global crisis. Where the '80s saw a marked increase in the production and distribution of quality foreign and American independent titles, sources are now drying up. The slim pickings at this year's Cannes Film Festival only brought the point home for the Maple and the Detroit Film Theatre.

Of the countless films that have flickered across the Maple screen in recent months, only the 50th anniversary rereleases of "Gone With The Wind" and "Wuthering Heights" have been worth the celluloid.

New releases have ranged from the almost watchable ("Miracle Mile") to the bottom of the barrel ("Warm Nights on a Slow Moving Train"). There hasn't been a really decent new picture since "Dangerous Liasons" last winter!

MOREOVER, THE Maple recently lost Tracy O'Conner, a conscientious manager who probably tired of hearing complaints about bad movies. It's especially frustrating to hear Maple booker Sonny Gorley tell me that "The Rainbow," Ken Russell's new D.H. Lawrence adaption, probably won't screen because of box office fears.

The Maple used to vie for the big titles with downtown rival The Detroit Film Theatre. Now the DFT opens films for a weekend or two before the Maple gets its chance. It happened most recently with "Au Revoir Les Enfants," "Jean de Florette," "Manon of the Springs," "The Thin Blue Line," "Babette's Feast" and "Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown." It will happen again.

The DFT season - its 32nd - offers a few big releases, but rarely allows them to monopolize entire weekends. The fall opener, "Sex, Lies and Videotape," won first prize at the Cannes Festival this year. It screens for two weekends in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium, starting Aug. 18.

Other highlights include "A Taxing Woman Returns" (Sept. 1-2), the sequel to Juzo Itami's popular Japanese comedy; "Little Vera" (Oct. 13-15, 20-22), a controversial new Soviet sex comedy; and "The Little Thief" (Nov. 24-26), based on the late Francois Truffaut's final screenplay. Most exciting is the series of wide screen films scattered across Saturdays and Sundays

This film fan will finally get a chance to experience "La Dolce Vita" (1961) in its original ratio and then bask in the campy heaven of "Bye Bye Birdie" (1963) and "High School Confidential" (1958). This may be the most unashamedly fun series Elliot Wilhelm has compiled since his 3-D tribute almost a decade

THE TELE-ARTS Theatre, now in its second year, gets an occasional windfall in its Grand Circus Park location. Recent screenings of "The Navigator" - described as an Australian episode of the "Outer Limits" have been perhaps their biggest coup. Yes, "The Navigator" may soon screen at the Maple.

Certainly, the biggest film event of the summer has been the reconstructed "Lawrence of Arabia" (1962) at the Fox. Despite the major annoyance of distorted sound and film breaks, large audiences extended the run and have been clamoring for more movies. The Fox hopes to oblige - but not until next summer.

REVIEWS

ONE - Bee Gees

Inside the mind (and notebook) of a reviewer: What's this thing on my desk. Hmm . . . plain brown wrapper, too. Uh oh, it's the new Bee Gees album.

Can't let anybody see me looking at this thing. I'll just sneak it out. Back home, I'm feeling adventur-ous. I think I'll slip "One" (Warner Bros.) on the turntable. The first cut, the title track, isn't half bad. Kinda catchy. Paula Abdul could dance to this thing. Here's comes the bridge. There are those carry-you-up-to-heaven Bee Gees harmonies. "We are one . . . we are onnnneeceee . . . "I give it an 80.

Next up, "Ordinary Lives." Not bad, either, even if it does sound a little like Stevie Winwood's last beer commercial. "Bodyguard," "It's My Neighborhood" — kinda forgettable. "Tears" — there's that big Bee Gees ballad, even if it isn't quite up there with "More Than a Woman" or "Too Much Heaven." (Not that I've listened to either song in the past decade, of course.)

COSMIC THING - B-52s

"Tokyo Nights" - a winner, even if it does show where the brothers Gibb may take their act, if they can't break back into the American market. "Flesh and Blood," "Wish You Were Here," "House of Shame"- gee, I can't remember these at all. 'Will You Ever Let Me"- doesn't this song ever end? "You Win Again," there's that flop single from a couple of years back, these guys don't give up easily, I'll say that for them. Tell ya the truth, this one still could be a hit.

Okay, let's total it up. Three decent songs. A couple more that aren't too bad, either. It sounds contemporary, yet distinctively Bee Gees. And they leave their nasally vocals at home. Here's the dilemma: This isn't a bad album, but I can't really tell people I like it. C'mon, this is the Bee

While the Bs may still be looked upon as the "party dance" band, on this album, "Cosmic Thing," (Reprise) they are lyrically more overt in their dealings with the world around them, On previous alburns they have been more subtle with their environmental commen-taries, e.g. "Private Idaho" or "Juicy Jungle." The first single from "Cosmic Thing," "Channel Z," is a pretty straight forward social commentary; "Space junk, laser bombs, ozone holes/better put up an umbrella/giant stacks blowin's smoke, politicrits pushin' dope."

Or from "Bush Fire" this, "Rolling through a field of molten flowers/there's a bushfire burning. With the creditable B-52 history on albums like "Mesapotamia" and "Whammy" along with singles such as "Rock Lobster," "Give Me Back My Man," and "Legal Tender," mixed with the solid dance-oriented experience of producers Nile Rodgers (Chic, Sister Sledge) and Don Was (Was Not Was), it is easy to understand why "Cosmic Thing" is tight, punchy and funky. Highlights of the LP are "Dry County," "Love Shack," "Channel Z," and, not to belittle their lyrics, mention must be made of the beautiful instrumental "Follow Your Bliss."

Here's looking forward to hearing them live at the Royal Oak Music Theatre on Wednesday.

QUEEN ELVIS

- Robyn Hitchcock 'n' The Egyptians

Robyn Hitchcock is pop music's equivalent to a ring master and his albums are a circus of sounds, images and whimsical lyrics.

"Queen Elvis," (A&M) the British singer's latest effort, fits the description. Except, unlike his last LP "Globe of Frogs" (A&M), he drives it home in more of a rocked-out fashion at times. His songs can be rich with orchestration or acoustically bare, but he brings home the lyrical bacon. He sings about cold women ("Madonna of the Wasps"), questions the human nature of the Queen ("Veins of the Queen") and takes a swipe at a Brit-ish showbiz person ("Wax Doll").

Electric guitars soar, drums boom and base lines thunder from the opening cut, "Madonna of the Waspa." The song exemplifies what a true pop genius Hitchcock is when he works within the boundaries of Turning 40 may be tough but "Middle Age Crazy" (A-, R, 1980, color, 95 minutes) makes it easier by treating the problem with intelligent good humor. It's the entertaining story of a successful Texas construction executive, Bobbie Lee Burnett (Bruce Dern), whose wife Sue Ann (Ann-Margaret) is bound and determined to combat the onset of middle-age through sexual performance.

Now Bobbie Lee has been a hardworking, down-to-earth, faithful husband who drives an Oldsmobile, wears three-piece suits and does his duty. Shortly after his 40th, Bobbie's father (Eric Christmas) dies suddenly and Bobbie Lee finds himself the patriarch to whom everyone turns. His recently widowed mother (Helen Hughes) can't decide which condo to buy, his son, Greg (Geoffrey Bowes) doesn't want to go away to school because his girlfriend, Becky (Vivian Reis), is pregnant.

His raunchy partner-foreman, J.D. (Graham Jarvis) wants to expand the business and their best customer they build taco stands for Senor Abe (Michael Kane) - wants them to remodel his private box at the Dallas football stadium

THE PRESSURE is too much and Bobbie Lee goes "middle age crazy" buys boots and jeans, leases a Porsche and takes up with a Dallas

Cowgirl, Nancy (Deborah Wakeham).

Carl Kleinschmitt's screenplay is witty. John Trent's direction tight and well-paced, good music by Matthew McCauley, Burt Bachrach and Carole Bayer Sager as well as terrific performances by the entire cast add up to a very entertaining

In particular Dern and Ann-Margaret - who have most of the screen time - make this film work well. Ann-Margaret is most effective as the simple-minded but sincere southern belle. She adds enough dimension to the role and avoids cliched performance of a stereotypical charac-

Dern is one of the better actors around even though he hasn't had the choice roles and widely publicized success his talent deserves. Here, he's particularly good as a mature individual in a new and unusual situation. He plays it with the wide-eyed wonderment of a kid in a candy store and there's a lot of humor in that.

Dern's unassuming manner is carried over to the very clever dream/ fantasy sequences that emphasize Bobbie Lee's predicament. Unlike the often pretentious, annoying and over-obvious dream sequences so common in Hollywood films, Dern flows smoothly into these sequences as he fumbles humorously into mid-

Another fine actor, Alan Alda, may now be seen in an unusual role, his early film, "The Mephisto Waltz" (B-, R, 1971, color, 109 minutes). This classy story of the occult features a top cast, good photography and some pretty slick music.

MYLES CLARKSON (Alda) is a failed pianist who writes about music. His loving wife, Paula (Jacqueline Bisset), and daughter, Abby (Pamelyn Ferdin) are the joys of his life. He interviews the world famous pianist, Duncan Ely (Kurt Jurgens), who thinks Myles has promise as a pianist. Myles is flattered by Ely's attention and by his daughter, Roxanne (Barbara Parkins).

Well, Duncan and daughter are two pretty strange folks, and lovers of occult films can figure it out it's a pretty straightforward story, at least until the end. However, it's well-told, with some interesting photography, particularly Paula's dream sequences.

Although there's a fair amount of gore, "The Mephisto Waltz" is classy and doesn't rely solely on fear and fright for its appeal.

Some weeks ago, Bunuel's "Diary of a Chambermaid" was discussed in this column. Now the Hollywood version is available and the two are interesting to compare.

The latter was filmed in Hollywood just after World War II and was directed by the famed French director, Jean Renoir. It stars Paulette Goddard and Burgess Meredith. Although Bunuel's version was filmed almost 20 years later (1964), it doesn't look it.

Both have the dark and brooding style of Europe in the '40s. The difference is. Renoir notwithstanding, Paulette Goddard and Hollywood triumph in the Republic version from 1946 and the tragic implications of Bunuel film and Mirbeau's novel (upon which both films are based) is lost.

Despite the happy Hollywood ending and the more typical European conclusion of Bunuel's film, both versions of "Diary of a Chambermaid" are interesting and entertaining. Makes an unusual double-bill.

Hardin, a native Detroiter, is the man respo ble for putting together a comedy show at the Fisher Theatre called "Laugh Jam 1989," under the auspices of his CRH Productions company.

Assembled for this Friday's show are a funny combination of local and national talent, including the headliner Chris Rock (from "Beverly Hills Cop II and "I'm Gonna Get You Sucka"), Tommy Davidson, Detroit comic "Downtown" Tony Brown, recently named fiest comic in a Metro Times reader poll, and one other local funnyman

"I'm probably the only comedian with an MBA," said Hardin. He received both his bachelor's and master of business administration degrees in finance from the University of Michigan. After feeling restricted creatively in the normal business world, Hardin now has an opportuni-ty to combine his business savvy with his desire to perform on the comedy stage.

"What I was doing in business was too formal,"

Hardin said. "It was inhibiting. I had to break out.

"LIFE'S A gamble. If you don't take chances, you'll never get anywhere."

He's been doing the comedy circuit for a couple of years and is now in the process of trying to sell a television special called "Cheap, But Funny" to stations in a few markets. The special stars him-

On the business side of things, "Laugh Jam 1989" is a show that will tour briefly after its debut in Detroit. The other cities slated for shows are Toledo and Chicago.

Hardin is "highly optimistic" about the show and hopes that it can become an annual Detroit mainstay, as well as a national tour. He chose to have the show downtown at the Fisher because he wants to bring comedy to a slightly different audience — those who don't travel to the suburbs for the conventional comedy clubs.

"The location was one of the things I was look-ing at," Hardin said. "I asked myself "Why isn't there more coundey in Detroit? Would people come downtown to check out comedy?"

"I was thoroughly convinced that they would."

A PORTION of the proceeds from the show will also go to benefit the fund to save Detroit Public School athletic programs, which Hardin, a graduate of Cass Tech, supports wholeheartedly.

"Having grown up in Detroit, I can empathize with what's going on," Hardin said. "I realized when I was there (Cass Tech) that the school system didn't have the resources to compete."
"Hopefully, the show will make a dent."

"Laugh Jam 1989" comes to the Fisher Theatre in Detroit at 8 p.m. Friday, Aug. 11. Tickets are $18.50 and are available at all Ticket-Master outlets or by calling at 645-6666

The art of photography is going through some high-tech upheaval.

Electronic photography, just being made available to consumers, could revolutionize photography by the year 2000, some industry watchers say.

With electronic photography, "It's a lot easier to store images,"said Ken Easdon, industrial sales manager for Adray Appliance in Dear-born.

That's because images are stored not on film but digitally on magnetic floppy discs.
"It's valuable for professionals in the medical field, for newspaper photographers," Easdon said. "It gives them abilities to send things across wires," he added. Besides saving storage space, electronic photography could aid in

"If a doctor is actually in surgery and if somebody is greater versed in an area, he could put it (the electronic photo image) on a phone line and have another surgeon look at the sit-

For those reasons, Easdon said Adray is talking with Henry Ford Hospital management about the hospital adopting electronic photogra-

This technology can also aid the newspaper business, in saving storage space, and in speed of photo selection and transmission.

FOR EXAMPLE, after taking several photographs in the field, a newspaper photographer could review photos on a portable video monitor then transmit by telephone the best shots for printing in the newspaper. USA Today and some news magazines have begun using the process

But for consumers, electronic pho--tography "is still a long way off," said Brad Jacobs, manager of Lysinger Photo Supply in Troy.

Jacobs and others in photography equipment sales say this is due partly to the price — in the thousands of dollars — for equipment used to shoot and print photos taken by elec-

And to date, the quality of electronic photography doesn't come close to the traditional kind.

"It's a good two years down the road," Jacobs said. "People want the quality of a 35mm," he said, adding the quality of electronic imaging doesn't match traditional, or silver

If photo quality is measured in the number of pixels - points of resolution which make up a photographic image - an electronic photo has only about 300 pixels. That's compared to 25 million in a Khodacrome image, said Rich Hammill, camera department supervisor at Adray.

"The picture image must improve," Hammill said. "They're scratching the surface right now. "It reminds me of the original autofocus camera six years ago.

Still, several major photography companies are introducing still video cameras on the market, in the $650-$800 range. Both Cannon and Sony are banking on the idea that convenience and novelty will create a demand for still video cameras, which resemble one-eyed binoculors and show photos on home TV

AND ROUGHLY six years since their introduction, auto-focus cameras are now being accepted by professionals and serious hobbyists.

While some serious hobbyists earon shunned auto-focus cameras. today, "that's all that's selling," Jacobs said.

Some are offered as cheap as $100, while the auto-focus version of the Nikon F-4 retails for about $2,300 and is winning acceptance among professionals.

Susan Small of Woodward Camera in Birmingham said one reason professionals now accept auto-focus cameras is because they're now able to take continuous shots of a moving subject, without having to manually re-focus

"It makes for much more of a spontaneous camera," she said.

One of their big sellers are autofocus bridge cameras, selling in the $300-$500 range.

'They're filling the gap between the 35mm camera and the point-andshoot," she said. "They have autofocus, built in zooms and a built in

You can raft from Alaska to Peru, but most of their trips are in the Colorado River plateau near the Colorado-Utah border, where the Colorado River drains toward Lake Powell.

"You have a lot more water around Michigan than we have," Rick said, "but you need elevation to make it white water. There is a rating system from one through six. One is a lake, six is a waterfall. Most of our trips are two and three, sometimes four, and they are available to both beginners and advanced rafters

"A FIVE rating would be getting pretty technical, and they would expect you to be experienced and have helmets. We don't do fives."

A typical trip with AWE would be 15 to 25 people of various ages in three rafts, each with an experienced guide, for anywhere from two to 12 days. You would camp at different places along the river each night. It is wilderness camping, so Ithey pack everything in and out for you. A single traveler would be matched with a tent mate.

McMahan said rates are roughly $100 a day, plus your air fare and probably one night's lodging before the trip starts. Costs depend on how much equipment they provide.
Jim Greiner of Wildwater describes the Chatoogee River, which runs between Chattahootchee National Forest in Georgia and the Sumter National Forest in South Carolina, as the "only river in the eastern United States where you can really experience wilderness."

"On a two-day trip you pass only one human spot, and that's the bridge you drove over from Georgia. If you have been in Colorado, you are used to a larger volume of water. Our volume is smaller, but the Mrops are steeper. Most rafters don't paddle in the west, but everybody paddles on our four- and six-man

"The Chatooga is a technical riv-er, with a lot of turns, twists. Difficult to navigate."

Wildwater does other rafting trips, pecially on the Ococe River. The nee Rafting Center is 2.5 miles in of Ducktown, Tenn., on US 64 at dge of Cherokee National Fort. The Chatteoga Center is a mile with of Long Creek, S.C., on Acade-y Road. (That's half an hour south

Yachting — Detroit style

By Janice Brunson staff writer

Rippling waves lapping against the bow, gentle breezes, glistening teakwood and attention to detail - the elements of a memorable gala staged especially for you by Great Events aboard a yacht on the Detroit River.

'We took our parties out of the office and onto the water," said Pat Dupont of Castorri & Company, a Southfield-based film production company that for five consecutive years has staged its annual company party for 150 favored clients aboard a yacht.

'It's an evening just for them, a thank you from us," Dupont said, made all the more special with the unique touch of a floating ball-

Dupont normally reserves the Infinity, a 100-foot charter yacht specially outfitted for social events with two complete bars, a sky lounge, an open-air dance floor with room enough for a band and lavishly outfitted restrooms.

In recent years, party themes have featured the 1950s and Motown. On Aug. 11, guests will revel amid Hawaiian decor, complete with a buffet supper based on genuine luau fare.

All in all, it's a classy way to entertain, according to Dupont. Best of all, she no longer spends hours of time in preparation.

"THE MOST UNIQUE thing about this is the incredible attention to detail (by the catering staff), right down to the kind of special sparkling water I want," Dupont said.

In eight years of business, Great Events, a full catering firm capable of service for any size group, has emerged with a reputation for perfect detail, according to catering manager Sheila Brabant, who said each event is tailored to fit.

"We've celebrated 21st birthdays, 50th wedding anniversaries, bar mitzvahs, many weddings, just about anything you can think of that can be celebrated," Brabant

Most customers are metropolitan businesses like Castorri.

Yachts may be rented for day or evening affairs, overnight or even longer from Great Events sister company, Great Water Yachts of St. Clair Shores. In addition to the Infinity, the firm also owns and operates the 110-foot Brownies Three. By summer 1990, the 162foot Brownies Four is expected to be ready for use, Brabant said. The firm also operates seven additional yachts, less imposing but equally as lavish as Infinity or Brownies. The smaller boats are privately owned, leased to Great Water for rent as floating party Yacht rentals range from $200 to $1,400 an hour. Catering charges are separate.

All trips originate at the Jefferson Beach Marina in St. Clair Shores, the largest privately owned marina in the country, according to Brabant.

"ARE YOU crazy?" was the thought that crossed the mind of Joan de Spelder of Bloomfield Township when her daughter Renee said she wanted to wed aboard the Infinity, complete with three attendants, dinner for 150 and dancing to a six-piece band.

"The groom's mother was apoplectic at the idea." said the senior de Spelder. "But as things evolved, the idea started sounding better and better "For one thing, it limited the number of guests, kept things in proportion.' And, because neither bride nor groom are church goers, it also solved the problem of where to wed, according to de Spelder.

The end result: "Oh God, it was nice. Elegant. Fantastic. Think of Jackie and Ari and then scale it down a bit."

The wedding was hosted in the main salon on the middle deck. Afterwards, guests moved to the top deck for a champagne toast while busy caterers prepared the salon for hors d'oeuvres, a lavish supper and cutting of the tradi-"The food service was out of this world," de Spelder said, ac-complished with "virtually no commotion." A video of the wedding carefully records the sumptuous meal.

Following the ceremony, the yacht set sail on the Detroit River, wished well by strangers ashore who waved greetings to the festive wedding party.

Total cost? Approximately $12,000 and well worth it, according to the mother of the bride.

your "Less is Better" campaign against excessive bulk mail, when intrusive telephone sales calls are so much more irritating? Also, what can be done about telephone hus-

A. Several people have asked me the same questions. I became interested in the bulk mail problem in the early '80s when I began teaching my time management and organizing seminars. Since the beginning, every time I mention mail handling ecspecially junk mail - the feedback from my audineces is loud and clear: They groan, mumble, roll their eyes — anything to convey they consider junk mail a royal pain in the neck. Although I teach 12 to 15 hours of material, this is the only time within my seminars that I receive such a strong reaction. Despite the positive effects touted by advertisers, my audiences have confirmed my belief that bulk mail is a very real irritant to many, many people.

Yes, I too consider invasive telephone marketing calls an even greater irritant. I chose not to address that issue for two reasons: 1) I wanted to focus on one specific problem without diluting it into two entirely different areas. (That is also why I did not address radio, TV or newspaper advertising, as a few others have questioned.) 2) Other people are working on the telemarketing problem. For instance, the National Asssociation of Attorneys General, along with the telephone companies, are supporting the Federal Trade Commission to control these calls

According to the FTC, consumers lose $1 billion annually from deceptive peddling of goods and services over the phone. Besides just hanging up, about the only thing you can do with unwanted calls is to say, "Sorry, I'm not interested. Please remove my name from your calling list." Here are some tips to protect yourself against fraudulent calls:

1. Ask the caller's name along with the name, address and telephone number of the firm calling. 2. Be extremely cautious about giving you credit card number over the phone. 3. If you want more information, ask to have it mailed to you. If the caller resists or insists on immediate action, be suspicious. 4. Be wary of offers for free merchandise or prizes. Handling fees may be higher than the value of the stuff. 5. Ask for names and numbers of satisfied customers in your area or check with your state or local consumer protection office if you have condo queries Robert M. Meisner

Q. A friend of mine was recently attacked in a fast food store and was wondering whether or not he can sue the owner of the establishment. I'm wondering if you could give me any advice concering the law in this subject.

A. Michigan courts have recently confirmed the proposition that the owner of a commercial establishment is not an insurer of the safety of the occupants of the establishment, particularly with respect to criminal acts or conduct of patrons. Obviously, the owner of a commercial establishment has some reasonable duty to maintain safe premises in regard to those things which are freely reasonable, including keeping the floors free from debris, etc. On the other hand, the owner of a commercial establishment is not liable, in general, for an armed robbery or an assault perpetuated on a patron, unless the owner had notice of the fact that this would likely occur.

Q. The wife of my next door neighbor insists upon hanging her undergarments outside of her condominium unit overnight. I think she tends to be an exhibitionist, and her husband does not seem to care. The condo association board is not willing to get involved being comprised of five men. What can I do about the situation?

A. There is generally a prohibition on the hanging or the drying of personal property and/or clothes on the common elements in most condo documents. And if that provision is not contained in your documents, you should request the board of director's to seek an amendment of your documents and/or promulgate the rules and regulations concerning the same. To the extent that your board is unwilling to take any action, you may wish to write a letter to your neighbor requesting her to keep her personal attire to herself, and that you believe that it diminshes the quality of the condominium. I would not necessarily recommend, however, that you avail yourself of self-

New cornstarch usage could aid farmers

HE NATION'S huge corn surplus could disappear as research uncovers new uses for cornstarch, including products to cut farming costs, fight water pollution and protect against crop pests.

Cornstarch, which can be found on supermarket shelves, is often used in the kitchen as a thickener for gravies and pie fillings. But, says a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist, surplus corn could be used to make dozens of controlled - release products, ranging from almond flavoring to zinc fertilizer.

Chemist Robert E. Wing and colleagues have applied for a patent on their new process for encapsulating liquids or solids in a cornstarch matrix for slow release.

"If a pesticide is encapsulated in starch, farmers or gardeners could apply less of the pest-killing chemical than if they used a spray or powder," Wing relates. "The starchbased granules also would be safer to handle than a concentrate that has to be diluted before being applied.

"THE NUMBER OF products that could be starch-encapsulated is limited mainly by one's imagination. Besides pesticides, they might include insect lures, plant growth regulators, fertilizers, medicines, and even food ingredients such as flavorings, colorings and vitamins.

Wing says that a market for a few hundred million pounds of cornstarch may develop from the new process and from earlier ideas related mostly to encapsulating pesweeder's quide

Aronson

The corn surplus is estimated at 137 million tons, not counting the 1987 crop. About 3,600 pounds of corn are used to make a ton of cornstarch, says William M. Doane of USDA's Research Center in Peoria. Ill.

Wing says that an encapsulated pesticide could mean less pollution of ground water, lakes and streams because it would be less subject to being washed into streams or leached deep into the ground by rain than are pesticides sold as liquid or solid concentrations.

According to Doane, starchbased processes from USDA research will lead also to biodegradable plastic mulches and soil stabilizers to stop erosion.

"By inventing new processes for starch - a commodity that sells for about 10 cents per pound - we're endeavoring to add value to it and perhaps improve farming efficiency," he says.

Doane adds that a 1974 invention, "super slurper," a starch derivative that absorbs 1,400 times its weight in moisture, is still finding new uses.

"AS A COATING FOR seeds, super slurper absorbs water and increases the number of seeds that germinate. That helps farmers and gardeners," he says.

Super slurper is currently used in body powder, diapers, sanitary nap-kins, electrical conductors in batteries, and medical and recreational cold packs. It is also used in filters for removing moisture from industrial fuel tanks and in a slurry to prevent roots of small transplanted trees from drying.

Chemists in Doane's Plant Polymer Research group are developing starch-based soil stabilizers to prevent the erosion of topsoil by wind and water. He says the stabilizers bind sand, silt and clay into larger granules that improve soil's ability to resist erosion and absorb rain-

Doane expects that highway departments and construction contractors will use the new starch-based soil stabilizers before they become commonplace on farms. They can speed the establishment of soil-hugg-

READERS ASK:

By Andy Lang

Q. I plan to finish my attic soon. I intended to use gypsum board for the walls, since I had heard it was cheaper than most other wall materials. I now have been told I should use plasterboard instead. Is that information correct?

A. There may have been a slight difference in plasterboard and gypsum board many years ago, but the terms have meant the same thing for ong time. If you have never gypsum board in the past - and your query indicates this is so - be sure to have your dealer supply you with a brochure on how to handle the material.

Q. We have a large stain on our living room floor, which is made of oak. We don't know how it got there, but we have tried all of the usual methods without being able to remove it. Is there some drastic treatment that might work with an especially difficult stain?

A. You probably will have to use wood bleach. Use it very carefully to avoid discloring the wood that is not stained. Wear rubber gloves when applying the bleach with a damp cloth. Let the bleach stand for a few minutes, then wipe with a damp cloth which has no bleach on it. You will have to refinish the area to blend in with the other surface. Sometimes this means wiping on a finish more than once until you get a reasonably good match.
