Graper takes job in Sault Ste. Marie

staff writer

Henry Graper, who resigned in July as Plymouth city manager, has been hired city manager of Sault Ste.

Graper will start Sept. 19, said Sault Ste. Marie Mayor Bill Lynn. He'll be paid $53,000 and receive benefits including a city vehicle, health, dental and optical insurance and a retirement package.

Graper, selected from a field of 61 candidates from as far away as Texas, earned a base salary of $51,500 in Plymouth.

The Sault Ste. Marie commission, which approved the hiring Sept. 5, was impressed "with the experience the man has had. He's been a manager for 10 years in Plymouth, and before that in Dowagiac," said Lynn. The commission is expected to formally approve the hiring Sept. 18.

"Mr. Graper has had plenty of experience as a hands-on type of city manager," said Lynn. "And he has a financial management background which is extremely important nowadays. Also, he has been extremely active in civic activities.

Graper was out of town and unavailable for comment.

The Sault Ste. Marie job was vacated when 12-year city manager Neal Godby took a job as secretary/ treasurer of the State Highway Department's International Bridge authority, Lynn said.

'Mr. Graper has had plenty of experience as a hands-on type of city manager. And he has a financial management background which is extremely important nowadays. Also, he has been extremely active in civic activities.'

GRAPER, 48, HAS HIS work cut out for him. "To start off, we are really in a growth period," said Lynn.

"We have five state prisons in our county now. With the free trade agreement with Canada, our business has picked up. We're getting a lot of inquiries from Canadian companies. And we're finally starting to do things with our waterfront. We're really starting to grow.

"But like all cities, it always comes down to finances. Probably the main problem we have is our 85 miles of roads. Finding financing to continue to upgrade our roads is just going to be very tough.'

Plymouth city commissioners agreed Tuesday to write off $14,015 in uncollectable expenses incurred during the Plymouth Ice Sculpture

Acting City Manager William-Graham told commissioners, "It is apparent to me, given the general story of the Ice ulpture ular, that the Spectacular will not be able to pay back the $14,015. "There was no written or verbal city's balance sheet, "not the city's cash flow," Graham said.

"I don't have an answer as to why this wasn't brought up on an annual basis. It's something that should have been dealt with the first year it was on the books."

The commission unanimously agreed to the resolution, but not before commissioner Jack Kenyon said he hopes "we can avoid this in the

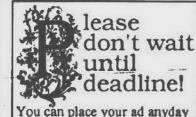

Fall Festival food, fun

There was plenty of food and fun to go around this past weekend at the annual Plymouth Fall Festival. A heavy rain and the report of a tornado dampened the crowd a bit Friday night, but the crowds were back Saturday and Sunday for the entertainment and the food. Downtown improvements

Detroit architectural firm hired to develop program

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

City commissioners tentatively took a $51,500 step toward enhancing downtown Plymouth last week.

The plan, endorsed by the city's Downtown Development Authority, gives a Detroit architectural and planning firm the go-ahead to develop a downtown rehabilitation program.

The commission approved the plan, 7-0, after several commissioners expressed concerns and city attorney Ron Lowe offered to 'sit down with members of the DDA and see what they want, and make sure the contract represents an understanding of the parties."

Items to be re-designed include signs, including kiosks, store direc-tories and historic signs; utilities; parking; lighting; landscaping; planters; and "streetscape ele-ments" like benches and waste con-

"I really believe the DDA has to keep the downtown area vibrant and competitive," he said. "Look at what Al Taubman does with his malls every year. The interior of our mall is the streets of Plymouth. Every so often, it's important to take stock of what we have."

Several commissioners said they thought the contract offered to Schervish, Vogel and Merz is too

"I have several concerns," said Commissioner Jack Kenyon at Tuesday's commission meeting.

"It seems like a very open-ended agreement, with the architect," he said. "It doesn't neem we're really getting anything out of it — no ele-vations or supporting sketches, and they don't propose to turn sketches or photos over to us.

"I think what this is is an entry into a substantial amount of work. Fifty thousand dollars is a great deal of money for entry work and a preliminary survey that leads us into a lot of expense later."

Commissioner Bob Jones said, "My impression originally was that there'd be a discussion regarding architecture and facades for buildings, but for $51,000 we don't get that. We pay them the $51,000 and they'll tell us where to put benches, flowers and lamp posts. I wonder if we're really getting what we asked

GRAHAM ASSURED commissigners, "They want to talk to the commission, to the planning commission, the DDA, merchants, and everyone interested to see what they want to see. They'll listen to what they say, and put it in some semblance of order. They can't keep everyone happy, but they can keep most of them happy."

Commissioner David Pugh recalled that the city undertook a similar project in 1974, "and it was put on the shelf.

'What's the comph? How does it get done? If we're going to spend $50,000, I would like to see an implementation plan.

"Next to hiring a city manager, this is one of the most important things this body will undertake," Pugh said. "So we have to see how we're going to maximize the tax base of the city. We're a landlocked city I don't know what we're getting for our buck here. I don't think it's benefiting or should be benefiting business particularly."

Commissioner James Jabara also wondered "what are we getting for $51,000? It appears all we're going to get is concepts. That's pretty minimal when it comes to doing something with it. Beyond that it gets expensive. It won't be difficult to spend $1 mil-

Audience member Greg Green, a candidate for city commission and former planning commissioner, said, "It seems like this should be carried through the planning commission so that there can be input from all citizens at public hearings. It's possible all the work could be done, and then shot down with a public outcry.

"THE PLANNING COMMIS-SION should be asked to develop a master plan, which is long overdue," he added.

DDA member Terry Bixler

said, "This $51,500 proposal will be based on the input of citizens, commission members and merchants. This plan allows us to come up with a plan the community contributes to as opposed to an architect or the DDA doing it in a vacuum. We decide on the price tag later

How soon a rehabilitation plan will be completed is hard to say, Graham said

"One of the reasons the contract language is open is because we haven't said, 'We want Victorian grates around trees, herringbone inlays in sidewalks, and 1890 fix-

"To come up with the best possible design for our community, they'll have to come in and pick our brains for awhile.

Fish wholesaler hooked on Canton

By Janice Brunson staff writer

With luck, the Western Fish Co. of Detroit will celebrate 50 years of business in Canton Township.

The business, a wholesale fish distributor founded in 1940, is looking to move from downtown Detroit. After a search of southwestern Wayne County, Canton Township was selected by owner Charles Disner for a new 30,000-square-foot facility for 25 employees.

"It's just like buying a house. I saw Canton and I liked what I saw," Disner said. Disner, who is looking at several locations in northeast Can- creasing costs of insurance, high in-

They came in strollers, wheel-chairs and eld-fashioned cars; in bonnets, bifocals, arm-in-arm and two-by-two to the 33rd annual Plymouth Fall Festival. And if any of the thousands who visited downtown Plymouth for the four-day extravaganza were bored, it was their own darn fault.

Hungry folks filled up on everything from Kiwanis Club pancakes to homemade Grange apple pie; Plymouth YMCA Italian sausage ("delicious," according to Wayne County Commissioner Susy Heintz); German roasted almonds served up by the Plymouth Salem High School class of '92; and Plymouth Rotary barbecued chicken.

The Knights of Columbus prepared a steak dinner complete with the trimmings, and the Plymouth Lions Club hosted its annual fish dinner.

Attractions ran the gamut from a magic show to games and rides, antique and arts and crafts shows, flea markets, bake sales, bingo and entertainment compliments of chorus groups and dance troupes.

"It's awesome, and the rides are cool," said festival fan Joe Tantalo, 11, of Plymouth. "The only dumb thing is they won't let you buy Silly String (canned confetti) unless you're with an adult."

Joe was making the rounds with buddies Jack Vanerian, 9, and Dave Anderson, 8, and brother Jim, 8, who said, "I like the rides and all the fun I'm having."

For many, the highlight was taking time out from the rat race, running into old friends and enjoying homespun fun.

Dunk tank sitter Ed Wendover of the Community Crier was nailed twice Saturday afternoon by festival president Mike Pollard. Festival board member Ken Holmes, who filmed both dunks on video said, "It's Mike's turn tomorrow."

Commander Mike Gardner had a little fun at the dunk tank, too.

"I put (Plymouth Police Chief Richard) Myers in four times," he said.

Thomas Jefferson. Daughters Laura, 7, and Sarah, 4, wore long dresses, prairie bonnets and agrees.

Folks the Stewarts wooed to the museum were treated to a historical underwear exhibit featuring "our own models with 90 pounds of waist cinctures and bloomers," quiltmaking demonstrations by the Plymouth Piecemakers, craft exhibits and a lap quilt raffle, said Beth.

Eleanor and Larry Campbell attended the festival and brought their children and grandchildren.

"We're enjoying it, just like we have every year since we moved to Plymouth in the 1950s," said Eleanor, resting outside the Penniman Deli with her husband and her daughter-in-law, Susan Campbell. The three were waiting for Chad, a member of the family's third generation, to have his portrait drawn.

"We went over to sign the register at the Plymouth Grange building. It's going to be torn down to make way for the Wilcox apartments," said Eleanor.

People also visited the Grange to eat sloppy joes, split pea soup, homemade pickles, cider, doughnuts and apple pie. Upstairs at the century-old Grange, artists and craftsmen sold their wares.

At the corner of Main and Penniman, Plymouth firefighters invited kids to take aim with fire hoses, tour the Children's Fire Safety House and check out an old-fashioned fire engine emblazoned with the motto, "Same Day Fire Service."

ON THE LAWN outside Central Middle School, violinist Geoffrey Rahie, 10, serenaded folks on their way into the art and crafts sale hosted by the Plymouth Community Arts Council. Geoffrey, a member of the Livonia Youth Philharmonic Children's Symphony of Michigan, was hoping to recruit a few new musicians.

Unfortunately, the weather took center stage Friday night.

"At 8:15, we had to close down the festival," said Plymouth Police officer Ron Bianchi. "People were just starting to get in the festival mood. But it started storming, and that was all she wrote."

Rich Perry of Omnicom was wiring cable as the storm began.

In awarding Hanson and Poppy the third-place ribbon for best-looking dog, the judge mistakenly announced Tom's age instead of his number.

Without hesitation, Tom looked at his number, then up at the judge and said, "Sir, I don't deserve this. I'm not No. 9." Tom returned the ribbon and walked away, his eyes downcast. 'As soon as we realized we'd made a mistake, we called him back and gave him his prize again," said judge Felix Rotter. "He beamed from ear to ear."

Not everything sailed smoothly Saturday. Jack Wilcox's car was blocked in.

"Again," said the irritated Wilcox as he waiting for the owner to show. It wasn't all that bad.

Wilcox knew just about every passer-by and visited with a string of them while he waited.

"First of all, simply viewing it as a money issue is unreal," said Plym-outh Police Chief Richard Meyers. "It's a deep seated social problem." About 70 percent of Bush's plan covers efforts to enforce drug laws and control the importing of illegal substances in the country. The remainder focuses on education, treatment and prevention.

By talking about the nation's drug problem, Bush heightened awareness of the situation, according to John Santomauro, Canton Township director of public safety.

WHILE MORE money is needed to help maintain enforcement, education plays its part in easing the problem. "Education is underplayed in the more affluent areas. In the suburbs, it's the only way to win the battle," Meyers said.

We have to create an atmosphere that we don't need drugs as a society," Santomauro said.

Recent polls show most Americans said they worried more about drug abuse than another war. "It's happening here," Meyers said. "If they really believe (it's not happen-Jing in the suburbs) then they're in-"credibly naive."

"The thrust was let's go after the dealers. Apparently the attitude now is to try to change that and go after the user. You have to convince the user there is an elemental danger involved in drug use. If you can diminish the demand than you diminish the supply," Garber said."

"The recreational user was never talked about to any degree," Santomauro said. "We were led to believe that the hard core addict lived in the inner city and it was easy to jump on the bandwagon. It was separate from the community."

Following that line of thinking, many suburban residents were under the impression that people from the inner city committed crime in the suburbs.

Area counselors, educators and others involved in the war against drugs welcome the new fight outlined last week by President George Bush, but remain guarded in predictions of victory.

Drying up demands for drugs is an uphill battle, they say, a complex and costly chore that will take years of effort to win.

"We've had other wars - the war on poverty and the war on crime," said Dale Yagiela of Growth Works in Plymouth, a program for youthful abusers. Based on the track records of previous wars, Yagiela is concerned about the outcome of this war, especially as it relates to users.

Don MacLeod of Straight, a Plymouth Township facility that treats adolescent abusers, is also con-

"It's going to take all-out war in the streets. We need to get down and dirty, instill fear," MacLeod said, citing as an example the battle now underway in Phoenix.

"Casual users are booked. Their name is printed in the newspapers. They loose their license. And their car is confiscated," MacLeod said, JEAN TABOR, director of the Canton Public Library and member of the Plymouth-Canton Substance Abuse Task Force, has no problem with the Arizona program.

"Users have to be made more accountable. I have no problem with taking their license or their car. It's likely to have more impact," Tabor said, adding the key is education, making substance abuse "the in thing not to do."

Attitude is an essential line of defense in the war, according to Richard Egli of Plymouth-Canton schools who also serves on the Task Force.

"We have to create a negative attitude about drugs, a sense that even the casual use of mind altering substances is inappropriate. It's a cancer and it needs the attention of us all," Egli said.

Yagiela of Growth Works main-al user. "After the second or third time of experimenting (with substances), users are into some phase

Yagiela also maintains societal attitudes must change. Too often, he said, use of illegal substances result in only minor legal prosecution or none at all, even "when lives are out of control. We need to take a serious look because many changes (in attitude) are needed."

In announcing his anti-drug strategy earlier last week, Bush estimated 14.5 million Americans are in need of help.

MacLeod of Straight believes the number is low. "There are 750,000 people in Michigan alone who are in need of treatment."

MACLEOD ALSO said new efforts require substantially more money than presently budgeted if the war is to be won. "Last year we spent $22 billion on drugs. The government spent $21 billion fighting it." Under the president's plan, $1.2

billion is targeted for prevention and education, and $925 million is earmarked for treatment. In his remarks, Bush pointed to the sharp increase in the use of the highly addictive crack cocaine.

MacLeod and Yagliela applaud the president's renewed fight but both wish more attention had been paid other drugs of choice most often used by youth.

"Crack is causing lots of violence but the first drugs with our youth is alcohol and marijuana. Addiction is a progressive disease," MacLeod

Yagliela said there is much yet to be learned in the treatment of ad-

"There is not a lot known about how to treat lots of people. This is not so much about drugs, as it is about cultural factors, age differences" and other individualized traits. Yagliela said.

Prevention programs in such communities as Plymouth and Canton provide the "right emphasis. We need to work on the communities where there's some chance of success, where our resources aren't neutralized by a flood of drugs and there is hope of a positive impact.

"This is a long haul project," he

State steps up County to trim list of land bidders MET marketing

Fran Gursky and Denise Sigworth are among those who say they rest easier knowing their children will someday go to college through the Michigan Education

On the basis of a recent metropolitan area MET forum, however. interest apparently remains high.

More than 1,000 people, some from as far away as Flint, braved heavy rains and flooded roads to attend Wednesday's forum in the Royal Oak Kimball High School gymnasium.

"IF WE could get that many people out in a heavy rain storm, I think it shows what kind of interest there is in MET." state treasury department spokesman Robert Kolt said.

Metro area residents, especially those from Oakland County. formed the backbone of last year's crop of MET enrollees.

More than 40,000 youngsters were enrolled last year, with little state promotion.

This year, the state is spending $250,000 to promote MET. The Royal Oak forum was part of a statewide series preceding this year's Oct. 2-6 sign-up period. A MET video is available at area

That's what Bankes did, opting for a U.S. Savings Bond program. But the Republican state representative said a potentially higher rate of return wasn't the major

"MET GUARANTEES tuition, but it's room and board that's the big college cost," Bankes said. "The way we look at it, our grandchild will probably be able to afford college, but our investment in Savings Bonds could well determine whether he or she goes away to college or stays home."

In contrast, Sigworth and her husband decided to stick with MET after reviewing other plans with a financial planner.

"We're really glad we did it," said Sigworth, grants coordinator for Schoolcraft College, Livonia. "We tell people we're already sending her to college.

State officials said they won't know how many people will sign up for MET this year until results are

"Last year, we predicted 5,000 and got eight times that," Kolt said. "It's hard to tell."

MET supporters and detractors agree on one point - college is becoming increasingly expensive.

State Treasurer Robert Bowman said four-year tuition at a state university currently averages $10,000. By the time today's newborns have graduated from high school, Bowman said, that cost will should increase to at least $35,000

MET is also becoming more expensive. This year's enrollment cost averages 13 percent more than last year.

Peace of mind, Kolt said, is MET's chief selling point. "Most people, we believe, will choose MET because of its tuition guarantee," he said. "People can make money through a variety of investments, but MET guarantees tuition and that's important."

But clearly 1) government abortion money is drying up, notably in Michigan, and 2) society's leaders recognize that welfare is an #wful way to raise a young human. The third alternative is in order.

So why aren't the multitudes jumping on the Bushes' adoption bandwagon?

"Social workers don't know how to present the issue or are afraid. They're not comfortable with selling it," said Marengere, a Bloomfield Township salesman who works out of Livonia.

Casual drug use finances a war

PRESIDENT BUSH talked about how casual drug use in America is respon-sible for murders in Colombia, it made me remember the death of a friend more than 20 years ago.

He was a victim of casual drug use just like the hundreds of judges and others murdered in Colombia by drug king pins.

When Bush said drug use in America translates into blood in Colombia, he was saying something that I had thought for a long time. The cocaine, marijuana and other illegal substances are stained with the blood of police and those in the drug trade.

Whenever somebody uses marijuana or cocaine, he is affecting more than his own health. Through his drug use, he is putting money into a system that supports a war between police and drug smugglers. And as in all wars there are casualties

My friend was one. And although it was a long time ago, he was much like the Colombians and others who are in the cocaine trade these days. He was a working class kid who saw drugs as a way to get his piece of the pie.

He was a Vietnam era veteran who, after coming out of the service, went to work in one of Detroit's auto plants. But he discovered he could make more money selling drugs to fellow workers than he could by making cars.

THIS WAS DURING the Woodstock era when marijuana was common on college campuses, and students openly smoked it. They said it wasn't harmful. Maybe it wasn't to them. But it was lethal to my friend. He was murdered when a drug network fell apart.

After that when I saw people cavalierly smoking marijuana, I through about my friend. He was dead partly because they had the money to engage in casual drug use. The marijuana users were killing themselves slowly through their drug use, however, they also were signing the death warrants for poorer people.

When drugs are bought, they have to come from someplace, and the job of providing those drugs usually falls to those who have less economic hope. There's also the lure of easy money. And that lure is

Counts more attractive the poorer a per-

As with most drug-related deaths, there was a strange web of events led up to my friend's death. It started with a drug raid at the house where he was living that was supposedly used to store marijuana. Also, there was another death shortly after of another person supposedly involved in that network. That person died of a drug overdose. The word from my friends was that it wasn't.

I'll never know the full truth about those incidents that happened so long ago. But they will always haunt me whenever I hear about drug-related murders or hear about cocaine use.

There's a war going on that pits poor people against police and law enforcement officials. They are the ones who are dying in the trenches, while the casual drug users sit behind the lines financing the war.

Maybe things would be different if those drug users had to travel to South America to obtain their own cocaine. If they were risking their lives, maybe things would change.

Farr Jers markets are fun

There's still time to take the last roller coaster ride of summer. If you're like the Janes Gang, this summer will certainly rank up there with the best but, believe it or not, we can't wait for what fall brings.

In addition to school, the re-gaining of supposedly regular schedules and crisp days coupled with blowing leaves, now the harvest begins.

What a great time of year to experience our colorful outdoor markets.

The Detroit area has some of the best pickings when it comes to farmer-type marketplaces. Aisles are brimming with squashes that could easily be contenders for the Guiness Book of Records. Mums ablaze with all the colors of the rainbow stuffed in institutional pickle buckets jockey for space between bushels of apples, baskets of corn and rows upon rows of sugar-sweet melons. Pumpkins will be appearing soon; heralding the harvest moon. If you haven't visited an outdoor farmers market, circle a date today and be prepared for what easily could be the greatest show Granddaddy of them all, the Eastern market, at the intersection of old Gratiot avenue and the I-75 freeway, beckens suburbanites from all over the area, ready to sample the wares of some of the oldest farmers around.

IN ADDITION to having just about everything you could ask for in the fruit and vegetable line, small shops abound on the perimeter of the market area and are reeking with the smell of olives, spices, fresh roasted peanuts; cheeses, meats and poultry - not to mention bagels and freshsqueezed orange juice.

Eastern Market has a color and flavor all its own. Folks from all walks of life ply the aisles in search of $4-per-flat strawber-yies, $5-per-bushel canning tomatoes and $6-per-50-pound sack of potatoes. One could easily pass the day just people watching. Bring the kids. of dollar bills be to he they say in the advertige mis, they don't take American Euress, and checks are virtually unleard of.

Another fun, old-time market, not quite as big as the Eastern Market but still filled with loads of farmers selling right from the backs of their pick-up trucks, is the fabled Che Market. Just off the I-94 freeway in one of the oldest parts of freeway, this is the market where the women still Makeshift tables are set upon wooden saw horses topped with plywood and covered from one end to the other with fresh fruits and vegetables. This market is the northern suburbs' mini Eastern Market.

Not to be outdone, and sprouting a whole new look, is the Ann Arbor Farmers Market in Kerrytown, just two blocks north and one block east of downtown Ann Arbor. Here, you will find farmers from the western outskirts of sleepy little towns like Dixboro. Saline, Milan, Dexter and Chelsea. With a little luck, you will come across a few kids with a large cardboard box of pupples or kittens that can be had for a song. Add to that a few bakers who offer loaves of oat bread, baskets of bran muffins and some of the best (and coldest) caler in town.

Wedding cakes can be surprising

By C.L. Rugenstein staff writer

Once upon a time choosing a wedding cake was a simple matter. Tradition decreed that it had to be a white cake or a fruitcake - with allwhite decorations.

Now, anything goes. Cakes can be cheesecake, chocolate or cherry nut. Cake-top brides and grooms can be mice, bears or bikini-clad water-skiers. Black is even acceptable for frosting and decorations.

But the most unusual wedding cake decoration Ruby Marcel, owner and chief decorator, ever did for Thomas Wedding Cakes in Livonia was probably the miniature pota-

"The groom was from Idaho," Marcel said, then laughed. "I made the potatoes from marzipan and put the eyes in with toothpicks."

That cake also had the cowboy groom figurine, with a "girl off a softball trophy" for the bride, Marcel said.

In their busiest season, Easter to October, Marcel estimated they average 20-30 wedding cakes per week. That's not counting the approximately 100 specialty cheesecakes they also turn out each week.

SINCE EVERYTHING is baked fresh from scratch (no mixes or preservatives are used, Marcel said, and none of the cakes are frozen), that's a lot of baking and decorating.

Marcel bakes most of the wedding cakes early in the week and puts one coat of icing on them to keep them

"A cake will stay fresh for a week or two if it's not cut into," she said. Marcel adds a second layer of icing when she's ready to decorate.

All the wedding cakes are decorated by Thursday with the flowers she has made up ahead of time. Two part-time helpers assist with the decorating, but otherwise Marcel does most of the work herself.

Her husband, Roy, who owned a service station before getting into the cake business, takes orders and delivers the cakes.

BOTH IN their 50s, Marcel and her husband have been meeting the challenge of their customers' unus al requests for 13 years. When they bought the little white building at Five Mile and Middlebelt roads, it was already a Livonia landmark.

Roy Thomas began the busine more than 60 years before, with his own special recipes. Before he moved to the "park and peek" shop — where customers could check out the cakes in the window after hours, and call to order them the next day - he had a shop in Redford. It was right on the way to Redford High School for then-teenaged Roy Marcel. "I used to walk by the shop every day and wonder how he did things like that,"Marcel said. Now he knows.

HE AND Ruby, who worked as a cook at the old Huck's Bavarian Village, heard about the shop from a former employee of Thomas, Emma Stankey. She bought it when Thomas decided to retire, but had to sell it test in its interpretation of a small country parties in the country of the count for approximately five seconds. Then withdraw it and carefully test by feeling the tip of the knife with your fingertips. When the knife feels but to the touch, the fish is cooked.

Another way to gauge doneness is to gently press the fillet at its thick-est part, and when the fish feels springy as opposed to slack, it is sufficiently cooked. Caution: this test should be done only by backyard chefs with considerable experience.

Perhaps the most exact method for determining doneness is to test the temperature of the fish with an instant-read thermometer (often called a meat/yeast thermometer used by most restaurants). The thermometer begins to measure the temperature of any food the moment it

Fish is thoroughly cooked but still juicy and not yet at the flaky stage when the temperature reaches 125 degrees. Remember that fish (like meat) continues to cook slightly after it is removed from the heat. If you have a recipe that calls for making a sauce or assembling the fish with other ingredients, count on several minutes of residual cooking time. Keep the fish covered with foil or a plate during this time.

GRILLING ADDS enormous flavor, particularly when oak, mesquite, apple or elder fuels the fire. In addition to great taste, fish takes on attractive markings from the grill which definitely adds to its eye appeal, on the plate. Grilling cooks fish rapidly, so, right off the bat, save flatter fish such as sole, flounder or perch for indoor cooking. Fillets of salmon, bluefish, tuna or sealess and stocks such as sword.

ss and steaks such as swordfish, salmon or shark are the top choices for grilling. Not to be outdone, however, are the firm-fleshed fish such as monkfish, scallops and lobster, which can easily be skewered with inexpensive bamboo skewers or metallic swords. As with most baking techniques, it's best to keep the sizes of the fillets, steaks or skewered chunks approximate so that you can be assured of uniformity of doneness.

A well-eiled surface will help the backyard chef keep grilled fish from sticking to the grids. For this reason, most restaurants who excel in grilling will recommend that the hot grid be first rubbed with a dishtowel lightly soaked in oil. Repeating this, procedure before flipping the fish will ensure professional results with minimal effort.

Novices will appreciate the usefulness of a gadget called the fish grill which, simply put, is a pre-made wire cage that will hold the fillets, steaks or whatever and keep them from falling into the fiery depths be-low. Fish grills can be purchased at most barbecue shops and range in price from about $10 to more than $40 for deluxe versions.

Yours truly has experimented with these fish grills and finds them to be very helpful to the novice but, in all honesty, the grills end up being just one more item to wash after the feast, for the more advanced backyard chef. Thinner fillets fare better in these grills. Most steaks, especially firm ones like swordfish, tuna and fish grill.

WHEN IT COMES to the position-ing of coals and fire for cooking fish on the grill, opinions vary. Cindy Pawleyn, one of California's hottest chefs, mounds the coals and bickory chips on one side of the barbecue, then arranges the fish over the other side. That way, she explains, the fish is cooked by the smoke rather than the direct heat over the coals. The delicate smoky flavor created by this method is unbeatable. "Chicken works well, too," she adds.

This backyard chef prefers to cook directly over gray; molten coals that have been started at least 40 min-utes before. I position the grid about 6-8 inches above the coals and allow the grid to heat up for about 5 minutes before wiping with oil and beginning the grilling process. Techniques vary, and you are your own best judge as to how you like it.

Fish, unlike red meats and poultry, can benefit greatly by incorporating a simple marinade before the cooking process begins. It is not necessary to marinate for long periods of time. Usually 30-45 minutes will

In addition to imparting unique flavors from the marinate, brushing the fish during the cooking process will keep it incredibly juicy and ten-der, harring overcooking. For sim-pler tastes, a squeeze of fresh lemon or lime juice and a slathering of but-ter will do the same. ter will do the same.

When it comes to preparing sauces for fish, this-writer refuses to mask the delicate flavors achieved by grilling, with a heavy sauce. Sauces are great for indoor cooking, but you want to incorporate the goodness and simplicity of grilling. Therefore, I recommend that if a sauce is deemed necessary, it be light and NEVER BATHE the freshly grilled fish in the sauce but simply arrange the sauce on a plate or platter and adorn the fish on top of the sauce so that it can be enjoyed with or without, depending on the diners wishes. Better yet, serve the sauce on the side and simply decorate the fish with a little fresh. chopped dill, chives or garlie butter.

When it coutes to necessary gadgets that are deemed a must for the backyard chef, it is recommended you keep a clean spray bottle within arm's reach at all times. Should a sudden flare-up occur, it can be quickly doused. When pressed for time, water can be used, but I enjoy combining a watery blend of broth and white wine. In addition, keep a long-handled spatula, tongs and a pastry brush handy. Long-han-dled forks should be kept for steaks and chicken, as constant prodding with a sharp fork will make for a less juicy fish.

Last but not least, never underestimate the usefulness of a longarmed insulated mitt that can re-position the grid or pick up red-hot family-tested winner dinner Betsy

Mother of 3 has answer to dilemma

Welcome! It is with great excitement and enthusiasm that I begin this first "Family-Tested Winner Dinner" column, hoping it will provide a way for mothers to reach out and help one another by sharing their family's favorite dinner menu.

The dinner hour certainly does affect the lives of wives and mothers simply because it never goes away. Every 24 hours, it's back and is often one of the most stress-filled moments of the day.

As the mother of three growing boys who are usually starving until they sit down at the table, I have often experienced the frustration of preparing meals the boys don't like' and won't eat. I found I was in a rut, cooking the same things over and over. I wanted to find other nutritional alternatives the boys would eat, and expand my repertoire of

After talking with other mothers, I knew I wasn't alone. Thus, the idea for "Family-Tested Winner Dinners" was born, based on the premise that every family has at least one or two dinners everyone in the family likes and will eat. In some cases, these favorite recipes have withstood not only the test of tummies but also the test of time, as many recipes have been passed on from generation to

THIS COLUMN will appear every Monday in the Taste section and will feature one family's tried-and-true dinner menu, recipes as needed, and a shopping list of all necessary ingredients. I am looking forward to hearing about your family's Winner Dinner and what makes it so special. After all, what works for your family may work for others as well. As an added incentive, an apron printed with "Winner Dinner Winner" will be given to the person whose menu is selected to appear in this column.

Together we can work toward providing each other with an ongoing selection of tasty and nutritious family meals. As well as saving you time, these complete menus might even result in your hearing those yearnedfor words, "Gee, Mom, that was great. May I have some more?"

I hope you and your family will enjoy this week's Winner Dinner. If you would like to share your family's favorite dinner menu, submit your recipes, to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinners, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012.

CHICKEN AND SHALLOTS

This is a very easy dish that can be made in advance and reheated. Cooking time can vary from 20-30 minutes, depending on how long the sauce is allowed to cook down. This recipe feeds our family of five, but can easily be doubled in order to feed more people. This recipe works just as well with turkey scallopine instead of the chicken.

l boneless, skinned chicken breast per person 2-3 shallots, chopped finely handful of parsley, chopped

1 can of chicken broth (14% ounce) 1 cup flour

seasoning salt to taste 2 tablespoons butter or margarine (all fat can be eliminated in this recipe by using a small amount of chicken broth instead of butter or margarine)

Pound the chicken breasts flat petween 2 pieces of foil. Dredge them in the seasoned flour.

"The Complete Book of Outdoor Cookery" by James A. Beard and Helen Evans Brown, Harper & Row, paperback, 1989, $9.95.

James A. Beard and Helen E Brown help us enjoy the pleasure of open-air cooking with their timeless book, "The Complete Book of Outdoor Cookery," second edition.

For those of us who already own a copy of the original 1955 edition, we're thrilled to see it reprinted. But, on the other hand, it's disappointing that the large, cloth version with a vast collection of color photos wasn't republished.

After reviewing this tome and scrutinizing it, I'm amazed that this outdoor cookery book is still the best. And what does it take for a 35year-old book to keep its vitality and

First begin with an author or authors who have a love and experience for the subject. The 23 chapters of Beard and Brown's "The Complete Book of Outdoor Cookery" cover every detail of outdoor cooking. They start with an explanation of the basics, including descriptions and uses of grills and the equipment.

THERE IS advice on the fire and fuel and other necessary technicalities. There are recipes for all the food groups: meat, fish, veggies and breads. And there's more super, classic recipes to accompany grilled dishes such as Mexican rice, potato cakes and asparagus salad.

I should point out, though, many of the recipes are written loosely, leaving much to personal interpretation, and only suggest ingredients without giving specified amounts. For instance, to make an apple and green pepper salad, mix together "slices of unpeeled apples and rings of green pepper, French dressing and chicory. What could be better with pork chops?" One of my favorite chapters, Skewer Cookery, lists 81 different combinations for cooking on skewers including recipes for nine varieties of terivaki. Have you ever tried duck teriyaki, venison teriyaki or teriyaki made with squab? Here's your

Last, but not least, the authors include a chapter on camp cookery. Beard and Brown explain how to build a fire and what to pack, along with campfire recipes.

In between the many recipes in this classic are interesting and funfilled anecdotes, mentioning personal friends of both Beard and Brown.

There is no limit to what you can cook outdoors. As Jeremiah Tower points out in the forward, about food authority, the late James Beard and his good friend and co-author, Helen Brown, "They are the best and the quality shines through."

CHINESE BROILED DUCKLING Allow 1 Long Island duckling for each 2-4 persons, depending on the size of the bird and the appetites of the "convives." Split or quarter the duckling and rub with a mixture made with 2 egg yolks, ¼ cup of soy and ¼ cup of honey. Broil, cut side down, for about 45-60 minutes, over low fire, turning a few times. Toward the end of the cooking, raise the fire in order to crisp the skin. Serve with charcoal-broiled pineapple, rice and a fine white wine - maybe Chardonnay or a Pinot Blanc.

Grill, microwave team up for meals

Chances are that your grill and microwave get a work-out year

There are many hardy souls who like to stand outside even in a snowstorm to capture that barbecur viavor in food. A recent survey on cooking trends shows barbecuing and microwaving increasing in popularity because of quickness and efficiency with no clean up. But have you thought how you can use both of these appliances together to make food preparation even shorter?

If it's been one of those hectic, busy days and you're running late, it's five o'clock and you realize you have invited people for dinner. What do you do? Turn to your microwave

Utlilizing the microwave to begin the cooking process for meats and vegetables cuts down the outdoor cooking time but still gives a good color and charcoal flavor. You will need to practice food safety doing

If you are going to start chicken in or chicken. the microwave, then the chicken must go directly from the mirectly so there are no interruptions in the cooking times.

TIMING, OF COURSE, is very important when you are using both appliances. For speedy chicken, precook chicken in microwave 3-4 minutes per pound. Then place over hot coals or on a hot grill to brown well. This cuts your time down considerably.

ADDITIONAL BARBECUING tips are to use dental floss for trusscrowave to the grill, with no stops in ing a chicken for the grill. It does not between. Do not start the chicken in burn and is very strong. When grillthe microwave and then let it sit for ing corn, pull back husks, remove later. This procedure must follow di-silk, tie back husks and soak in ice water for 10-15 minutes to ensure moist steaming.

Take advantage of the grill after the main course is completed. Place frozen pie or cake on the grill to thaw and warm. (Turn a gas grill off or you will cook the cake.) Or, naturally an apple crisp or pie can be baking in the microwave for dessert as you are eating the main course.

If there are any leftovers, reheating in the microwave will help retain the good flavor, color and texture. As long as the grill is on, do some extra food for the next day. It helps with meal planning and your family will enjoy it just as much.

Barbecuing used to be a summer activity but not anymore, with the increasing number of tabletop grills or built-in units on stove tops. Grill and microwave meal-planning together or separately add a new dimension in cooking styles and foods, besides keeping the house cool.

These two appliances are really for people who are not into "project cooking." Most of us would like to simplify meals and meal preparation, not complicate it with many hours of preparation and dishes with exotic ingredients that turn out to be a major project.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

Spiders have place in web of life

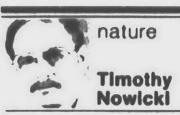

To many people, spiders are viewed with disgust and contempt.

Maybe people feel this way be-cause they have eight legs, which makes them move differently than mammals. They often move very fast, which startles people. They eat their food in a very different manner than we are accustomed to, and maybe because we have all heard about poisonous species like the black widow.

Well, all of these things are true, and I am not going to try and make spider lovers out of those who read this article, but spiders have their place in the web of life just as a chickadee does. In fact, spiders are one of our best insecticides, and they are free.

There are approximately 3,000 different species of spiders in the United States. Some live strictly on the ground, like many of the wolf spiders. Others live in bushes a few feet off the ground, while some live higher in tree tops. Most of them are never encountered by man.

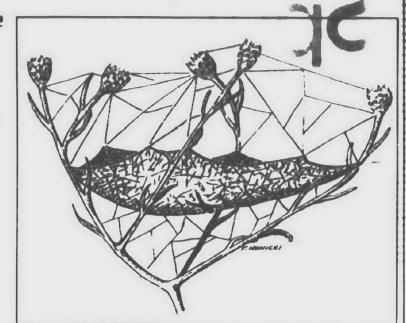

IF PEOPLE do become aware of a spider, its usually because of their webs. Not all spiders build a web to capture food. Even those that do build a web, do not build them all alike. Cobwebs in the corners of rooms are very irregular in their construction. Grass spiders encountered in shrubs and grass build a flat web with a funnel shaped hiding place for the spider. When an insect lands on the web, the spider quickly leaves the tunnel and grabs its meal.

Those of us who enjoy early morning walks before the dew has evaporated, are always excited to see the "typical" spider webs laiden with dew drops. It provides an opportunity to examine the fine detail and symmetry of such a delicate structure. We forget that spider web can be stretched 31 percent more before it breaks than a comparable piece of nylon made by man.

Some species of spider found in the open fields build a bowl shaped web with a loose network of web above the bowl. While waiting for a meal, it rests protected on the underside of the bowl. When an insect falls onto the web, the spider bites through the web to subdue its prey.

Next time you take a walk through a meadow on a cool fall morning, take note of how many spider webs there really are.

Chiefs slip, slop, slide to 28-0 victory

When was the last time "Three years ago," Plymouth Can ton coach Bob Khoenle responded

Khoenle knew the question before it was asked. The last time the Chiefs began a football season 2-0 was 1986

Canton, still looking for its first winning season, is enjoying one of its finest starts and is unbeaten after two games once again, shutting out visiting Farmington 28-0 Saturday

The game was to have been played Friday night, but the threat of lightning combined with severe thunderstorms forced its postponement. The contest resumed Saturday with the Chiefs leading 7-0 in the first quar-

Khoenle thought the one-day delay was actually a benefit to his team.

"I DON'T think we were ready to play football last night," he said. 'We beat Monroe (in the opener), and I don't think the kids had come back to earth vet

We got on the kids and gave them hell before the game, and I think that had a little effect.'

Canton scored the second time it had the ball and led 21-0 at halftime. Junior quarterback Karl Wukie, who passed 13 yards to Scott Hanna for a touchdown Friday, hit Jason Eby on an 8-yard lookin pass, and Jason Riggs darted 12 yards up the middle for the second TD.

The Chiefs finished the scoring midway in the third quarter, following the first of two pass interceptions by Dave Cessante. Canton got possession at the Falcon 23-yard line, and Wukie, after the drive straight plays and scored on a 1-yard

The weather was no better Saturday night, and a downpour before and during the first half turned the field into a mud puddle. While Wukie was able to pass well enough - he was 4-of-7 for 63 yards and the Chiefs running with success, Farmington (0-2) had trouble holding onto the slippery ball. Numerous bobbles and turnovers stunted the Falcon offense, and Farmington was limited to 8 yards rushing and 21 in total offense. '(The weather) was no help, but it's the same weather for both teams," Farmington coach Rick Milhizer said. "There's no reason we can't hold on to the ball and other eliminating mistakes and stop beat-

After the Chiefs took a 28-0 lead at 7:51 in the third, Khoenle sent in the reserves, and Brett Howell quarterbacked the team for the duration. Mike Wougamon and Chris James replaced the Riggs brothers - Jason and Brian - who ran so impressively despite the slop in the first half. Jason was the leading rusher with 50 vards on 10 carries.

The 2-0 start has given the Chiefs, who are working on a three-game win streak including their defeat of Plymouth Salem at the end of last season, added confidence, Khoenle

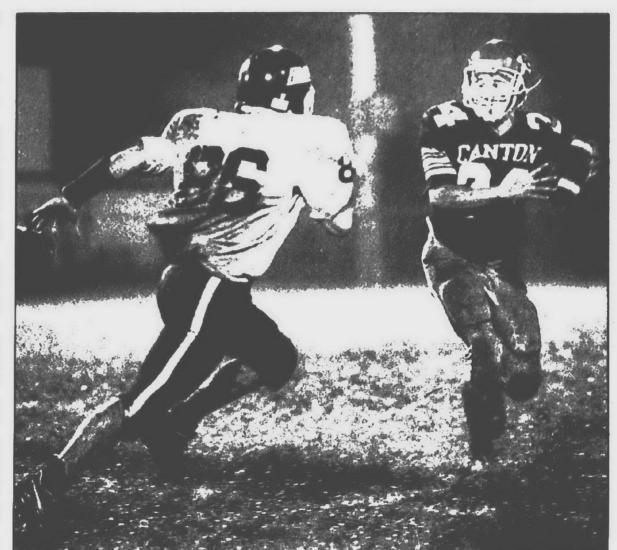

"I think we can play with just about anybody in our league," he said. "We have in the past. Just because we haven't won doesn't mean we haven't been competitive.

"We do the best we can. So far the results have been good, and I think we're getting better all the time." Canton, which beat Willow Run and Walled Lake Central in 1986 and lost its third game in the last minute at Walled Lake Western, will try to make it three in a row Saturday at Livonia Franklin. Khoenle believes there is a difference between that team and the 1989 Chiefs.

"I think we've got better people at the skill positions," he said. "Wukie and Riggs are a little better. They've been with us a few years and know what we want done.

"We've got some kids who can make the big plays because of their God-given ability.'

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Brett Howell looks for a receiver while being pressured by Farmington defender Tim Ford. Howell, the back-up quarterback for Canton, played most of the second half in place of Karl Wukie after the Chiefs took a 28-0 lead in the third quarter. Canton improved to 2-0 by winning the game that was postponed from Friday because of bad weather.

Weather, N'ville can't stop Rocks

A rain delay of over an hour, a soggy field, a fired-up foe - none of it could stop Ryan Johnson.

The Plymouth Salem running back slogged through Northville's defense Friday to spark the Rocks to a 14-0 triumph, their second-straight win this season.

Heavy rains drenched the Northville field early in the game, but unlike other local games which were called because of the poor conditions - this game wasn't.

"It was sloppy going in the second half," admitted Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "They had good grass on their field before, but I think we tore

Whether the conditions aided one team or the other, Moshimer refused to speculate. "You beat someone 14-0, you beat 'em," he said. "I'd like to play on a dry field. This slows you down, and I thought we had the faster team. So I guess a dry field would have benefitted us more

"But Northville came to play. They played us tough, tough, tough on defense, and they hit us hard." , Northville's 6-yard line. After the delay, Salem scored with Johnson punching his way into the end zone from a yard out.

The extra point try was blocked, leaving Salem's lead at 6-0. Which, the way the Rocks' defense performed, was really enough. The Mustangs managed just 88 yards rushing and 45 passing, with quarterback Ryan Huzak hitting 13 of 22 passes.

NOTHING SEEMED to bother Johnson much. On Salem's first possession, he lugged the ball eight times for 38 yards on a drive that took well over an hour to complete. The rains came with the Rocks perched at Northville did threaten to make a game of it, driving to the Salem 4yard line in the third quarter, but the Rocks held on downs. Scott Austin iced the victory shortly after that, intercepting a Huzak pass and returning it 20 yards for a touchdown. A Rob Kowalski-to-Brian Burlison twopoint conversion pass made it 14-0.

Salem outgained the Mustangs by a wide margin (242 yards to 133), but three turnovers hurt the Rocks. "We've turned it over eight times in two games, and that's too damn many," said Moshimer.

The King and His Court didn't let them down.

Instead of firing bullets, though, the 65-year-old gentleman with a crew cut was flinging a softball past batters Friday at Canton Softball

A team from Pat Boyle Chevrolet was the foil for Eddie Feigner and his four-man squad's antics.

Lightning and the threat of rain cut the program short but not before Feigner was able to show off his repertoire of trick pitches that has brought more than 17 million people out to see him perform in the last 44 years.

"How many of you have never seen The King and His Court?" Feigner asked the crowd before the game. A few hands went up. "Where the hell have you been?"

Players from Boyle Chevrolet wondered the same about some of Feigner's pitches. Feigner tossed them from behind his back, between his legs, from second base and while blindfolded. He possesses more than 30 pitches in his arsenal.

THINGS DIDN'T start off well for The King and His Court which features Gary West, Craig Van Prooyen and Roger Goode. Curt White of Boyle Chevrolet led off with a dou-

Eddie Feigner's appearance at the Canton Softball Center was cut short by bad weather Friday but not before The King showed the fans his many pitches.

On the first pitch to the next batter the catcher, Van Prooyen, picked off White with a perfect throw to second base.

White didn't have a good night. He had to stand in the batter's box while Feigner uncorked some underhand fastballs while wearing a blindfold.

Feigner dipped into some baseball banter. Van Prooven relieved Feigner on the mound for one inning, striking out the side.

'Hey, Gary," said Feigner, calling to his third baseman Gary West after Van Prooyan unleashed a wicked strike. "You know what that was? "What?"

"His Linda Ronstadt pitch."

AS THREATENING clouds and lightning grew near, Feigner decided to call an end to the game. He then gave a quick demonstration of the different pitches he's perfected through the years, including the windmill, the figure eight and the dead ball which floats to home plate.

Feigner has lost a bit of zip from his fastball that once clock more than 100 miles per hour, but he's still as crafty as ever, striking out batters at will.

The show is one of thousands The King and His Court has performed in more than 100 countries. Proceeds from the game at Canton Softball Center went to Caring Athletes Team for Children's and Henry Ford Hospitals.

After the demonstration, Feigner sat down in the dugout as old and young alike lined up for autographs . from the legend. Several adults recalled seeing The King before.

"I saw you play 20 years ago in Jackson," said one older gentleman, shaking The King's hand.

Brad Collier, 13; Ryan Hart, 9; and Rob Hart, 11; all from Canton, weren't even born then. But they enjoyed the performance.

"It was excellent," Collier said. "(I liked) his trick pitches. He's funny, too."

Early wins are important

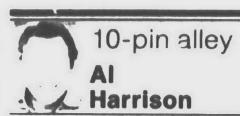

OW THAT MOST of the bowling leagues are in full swing and the good scores are coming in the question of sandbagging also comes up at the start of the new sea-

For the benefit of those not familiar with the term sandbagging refers to bowlers intentionally keeping their scores down at the beginning of the season to begin with a lower average thus gaining an advantage for a team in a handicapped league

Fortunately most howlers are out to do their best all the time for this is the right way to bowl in competition. It would be difficult and almost impossible to determine if someone is actually laying down because at the beginning of the season a lot of people are simply out of shape after the summer layoff. The point is you should always play your best. The scores and averages will even out over the season, and a game lost at the beginning of the season is as important as a win near the end.

• The Senior House League bowls on Tuesday nights at Bel Aire Lanes on Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Nobody can accuse these guys of sandbagging, as these scores prove Jerry Lash. 704 series and 258 game. Paul Koenig. 700 series. Lynn Lewis. 689 set with a 258. Willie Smith. 672 with a 257. George Bertling. 666 with a 259. Tom Johnston. 656 with a 268. Bud Gignac. 652 series. Ed Wright 652. Steve Mattler. 267 game with a 651. Mort. Friedman. 650. Jeff. Erard. 256 game.

The Lash's Five team ran up a 3092 series with a 1066 game. This league still has a few openings with a maximum average of 201. The league starts bowling at 6.30 p.m. Tuesdays. There are also openings at Bel Aire in the Funtimers Mixed Up Mixed League Friday nights at 6.45 and the Pin Busters, also a mixed up mixed at 9.30 p.m. on Wednesdays.

Mayflower Lanes in Redford saw Elea nor Buchanan roll a 204 game in the Headstarters League which bowls at 12 30 pm on Wednesday At Woodland Lanes on Plymouth Road in Livonia. Mike Koslowski never sanbagged either as he scored a fine 277 game in the Allied Men's League The Thursday Nite Men's Senior House League had some outstanding scores for this early in the year as George Bird led the way with a 706 seincluding a 278 Jim Gagnon 686 Art Kap 669 Tim Bennett. 267 and 693 Jerry Tomczak 669 Tom Elsev 676 Bud Gignac 662. Dahne Williamson 685 Ken Smoltz and Jack Craig 278

• In the Ford Parts League on Tuesday, Gary Cockfield rolled up a 666 series and Dan Williamson hit a 667 set, while Dennis Weatherford had a 246 game in a 633 set. Tur. Pono shot 268 to the

Wednesday Night Trio Bill Stillwell led all shooters with a 705 including a 278 game. Jim Sterbenz 640. Ron Toswell 247-621. Dave Norwich 236-650. Mike Kruczek 236-650. Larry DeFelice 235-631 and Jeff Lovelace 255-677. In the Starlights League. Linda Gossett shot a 203 game in a 564 series.

Merri Bowl on Five Mile in Livenia saw Fred Young register a 290 game in the Men's Senior House League while Jim McPhail rolled a block of 224-234-277 for a 735 series. Mickey Przytulski came through with a 199-224-289 for a 712 and John Watkins rolled up a 717 series.

The Lost Week Enders is a Sunday morning men's trio league which had some nice openers, with Clarence Bishop Sr rolling 649 series and Daryl Thibeauli a 636 set. In YABA action the 5- to 9-vear-old Bantams saw John Bentlet at 89 pins over average (series) prep bowler Emily Mitchell 92 over Junior Majors member Kelly Mitchell 193 pins over average. Melissa Cairns was 93 pins over average and Shelley Ellerholz 192 over for the series with a 210 game.

• In the Coc. Cola Classic Majors Chris Machinik Cocoth a 217 game. Merri Bowl has some openings in the King Louie Right Approach Scratch Trio League bowling Thursdays at 10 p.m. with any combination of men or women bowlers with 180 averages and up

• The first reported 300 game of the season took place at Westland Bowl by Steve Fletcher in the Sunday Sleepers League Steve averaged 177 last year and it looks like that average will escalate this season

In the Sunday night King & Queen League, the husband and wife team of Forn and Colleen Johnston combined for a 794 and 697 dual series as Torn had a block of 279-267-248 and Colleen 234-219-244. Needless to say they took all the Jackpots. I guess they never heard of sandbagging either.

• There are openings at Westland Bowl in some short season fun leagues the Just For Fun Sunday Nite League at 9.15 p.m. beginning Sept. 24 and a league at 8.30 p.m. on Monday nights with a combination of men and women bowlers. For details call Westland Bowl at 722-7570

Borelong tip of the acce. Nowadays the ball return racks are getting pretty crowded as so many bowlers have more than one ball. It has been suggested to me that each bowler have only one ball placed on the return subout 10 balls in the first place. There is always room in the Settee area for all those extra balls. This is up to the captain, but please try and keep to five active balls per team.

Salem onslaught buries Harrison

Plymouth Salem had loads of offense Wednesday when it defeated visiting Farmington Hills Harrison 17-0, but it was the defense that pleased coach Ken Johnson

The Rocks, who are 4-0 and have won three games by shutout, have a veteran defense that includes sweeper Jake Baker, fullbacks Ryan Fitzpatrick and Chris LaJoy and stopper Tom Baker

Tom Baker is a freshman who was pressed into service when returning defender Brad Fisch, who replaced the graduated Donovan Nichols at stopper, suffered a broken foot in the first game against Brighton.

They're all more mature, a year older — bigger and stronger said Johnson of his defenders, who had an impressive scoreless streak last year.

On the offensive end Jeff Gold scored four goals and Greg Christensen three Matt Gold had one goal and four assists

CANTON 4, FRANKLIN 0: The Chiefs built a 3-0 halftime lead on goals by Daryl Magreta, Rick McFeely and Steve Shiner.

Kristian Kilpelainen, who assisted on two first-half goals, added a secon half tally Magreta and Shinei also were credited with assists

Andy Collins was in goal for Canton, which plays nost to Livonia Churchill at 7 p.m. Monday and Salem at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Centennial Educational Park.

"I hope we're going to be real good," Przygodski said. "Our kids are tough and know how to race. The key is to improve and stay healthy. If we do that, we're going to be an outstanding team."

The most impressive performance belonged to Smith, who made her cross country debut along with the new edition of the Canton team.

"FOR THE FIRST time out. 21:53 is excellent, especially on the course and under the conditions we ran," Przygodski said. "The amount of curves made it hard to run a real fast time.

Chiefs eclipse ex-state champ

Plymouth Canton coach Jim Hayes didn't want to overstate the significance of his team's victory in boys cross country Thursday.

Nonetheless, the Chiefs outran the defending Class A champion, Monroe, to win the Early-Bird Invitational at Ypsilanti, 42-51. Plymouth Salem was third in the eightteam meet with 93 points.

"We didn't race the same team; we raced the same school," Hayes said. "Last year their varsity finished 1-2-3-4-5-6-7. We beat Monroe High School, but I don't think we beat the same team. I think they've lost some people."

Canton coasts Marian cagers derail Canton

Plymouth Canton lost a girls basketball game Thursday night, but the Chiefs hope they made an investment that will pay dividends later in the

As Denny Crum and the Louisville Cardinals have shown, it is often beneficial in the long run for a team to play a challenging non-conference schedule early in the season.

On Thursday, the state-ranked Cniefs played perhaps the most challenging team on their schedule, defending Class A state champion Birming-ham Marian, falling to the host Mustangs 56-46.

The game was decided in the last 6:13 of play, when Marian, perhaps benefiting from all of last season's big-game experience, outscored Canton 14-3 to pull out the win.

Canton had taken the lead at 43-42 on a basket by Kristine Ford with 6:28 to play, before the Mustangs took over.

POST PLAYERS Trina Govan and Carmie Garofalo led the surge, combining for eight points down the stretch to lead Marian to victory.

Early in the game, it appeared the Chiefs might be too strong inside for Marian, as Canton center Susan Ferko dominated the opening minutes of Ferko scored the Chiefs first six points, before Marian coach Mary Lillie-Ciccerone changed the tempo of the game by instituting a full-court zone press. The strategy worked, as the Chiefs began having difficulty getting the ball into Ferko and started committing turnovers.

The Mustangs held Ferko to one basket in the final 12 minutes of the first half and opened up a six-point lead at intermission, 27-21.

Lillie-Ciccerone put on the press to get he team mentally into the game.

"We were a little flat in the beginning," she said. "I wanted to get in something to get us in the

In the third quarter, however, it was Canton that came out charged up, and the Chiefs scored the first 10 points of the period to open up a 31-27 lead. Ferko keyed the barrage, scoring six of her 12 third-quarter points in the run.

LILLIE-CICCERONE was impressed by Ferko's performance.

"She hurt us underneath in the third quarter," she said. "She does a nice job of pinning her man; and they do a good job of getting her the ball."

The intense defense of Marian, however, enabled the Mustangs to bounce back and claim the lead after three periods, 42-37.

Marian constantly changed defenses throughout the game, using various presses and trapping the ball on both ends of the court after made baskets. The pressure was effective, as it seemed every time Canton would make a run, the Mustangs' defense would cause turnovers, resulting in quick Lillie-Ciccerone said the ability to switch defenses is one of her team's strengths.

'That (changing defenses) has been our forte for a long time," she said. "If one doesn't work, we change. Now we've worked it in until we switch up during the games."

Canton did not quit, however, and scored the first six points of the fourth quarter to take the lead for the final time, 43-42, before Marian's stretch run decided it.

MARIAN WAS LED in scoring by Hazel Olden's 17 points, while other standouts included Garofalo (14), Govan (10) and Carin Graat (nine).

Ferko was the only player for Canton to reach double figures, tallying 23 points.

While not happy with the final outcome, Canton coach Bob Blohm saw many good things in the "Overall, it was a pretty well-played game for early in the season," he said. "Our intensity was there, but not our recognition. Hopefully, that will come with time."

One thing Blohm was not happy with was his team's outside shooting.

"We haven't shot the ball well yet this year," he said. "We have to improve on that, or it will be hard to Ferko the ball inside."

Despite the tough competition from Marian,

Blohm enjoys playing the Mustangs. 'Mary's a great coach," he said. "She does an outstanding job, and her kids always play hard and tough. That is why we love to play them.'

Marian improved to 3-1 with the win, while Canton (1-1) absorbed its first loss of the season. The Chiefs return to action Thursday against Class B state-ranked St. Joseph in Farmington Mercy Hoops Classic.

Salem rolls in opener

Kristen Stackpoole and Julie Hickey won two individual events each Thursday, leading the Plymouth Salem girls swim team to a season-opening, 134-37 victory over host Ypsilanti.

Stackpoole took top honors in the 200-yard individual medley (2:34.14) and the 100 backstroke (1:11.3), and Hickey won the 50 freestyle (27.5) and the

'We graduated 13 swimmers, so we have a lot of new faces," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "We have some good athletes; we just have to make them into good swimmers."

Other individual event winners for the Rocks included Nicole Bosse in the 200 freestyle, 2:11.0; Jenny Ezzo in diving, 191.2 points; Andrea Alex in the butterfly, 1:11.4; Candi Bosse in the 100 freestyle, 1:01.3; and Amy Austin in

Salem also won both relays. Cherie Vincent, Kim White, Meg Andrews and Laura Maciag teamed up to win the medley relay (2:10.7), while Vincent, Toni Lupo, Mindy Rollenhagen and Nicole Bosse won the freestyle relay

"We'll have to get real serious (this) week," Olson said. "We have Northville at our pool Thursday and then the Western Lakes Activities Association Relays Saturday at our place. The relays champ usually wins the Western Lakes Activities Association.'

Rocks put hopes in trio of veterans

Plymouth Salem will count on a trio of lettermen to keep the Rocks competitive in boys golf this year.

Seniors Dan Alcock, Jason Tatenton and Eric Matthews return from a team that was 8-3 in dual meets, won the Plymouth Best-Ball Tournament and finished fifth in the 12-school Western Lakes Activities Association.

Dan Alcock averaged 39.5 strokes for nine holes last year, and Tatenton and Matthews, both of whom are beginning their fourth year on the team, 41. "Dan played a lot of competitive golf this past summer," coach Rick Wilson said, "and qualified for several prestigious tournaments." Salem, however, lost five lettermen to graduation, including

Dennis Alcock and Mark Bodley, and must find replacements among a group of newcomers. This will likely be a rebuilding

"Our team goal will be to win our division and contend at the league meet. To qualify for the state tournament would be a bonus this year."

The new faces on Salem's team include juniors Tom Fenelly, Chad Edgar and Jason Behnke, sophomores Brian Botwinski and Dave Weaver and freshman Chris Niemiec. Fenelly and Weaver average 44 and 42 strokes, respectively.

The Rocks, who play in a tournament today at Dearborn Heights Crestwood, will most likely have Alcock, Matthews, Tatenton, Fenelly, Niemiec and Weaver playyear," coach Rick Wilson said. "We ing varsity.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Roman Lesman of Atlanta, Ga., and Tim O'Hara of Detroit head back to the Detroit Boat Club on Belle Isle after an early morning rowing session on the Detroit River.

By LeAnne Rogers staff writer

Monday, September 11, 1989 O&E

Teamwork in its purest sense is at the heart of rowing, a sport that has been active on the Detroit River for more than 150 years.

"This is one of the only true team sports." said Southfield resident Dick Bell. "Once a football play breaks, the players are on their own. In rowing, every move has to be calculated or something goes wrong."

In sports like basketball and football, teams can be built around particular players, said Bell, former oarsman and the rowing coach at the Detroit Boat Club on Belle Isle. But, "in rowing, there is a a lot of hard work and there is real pressure to conform and develop your skills like the best guy in the boat," he said.

Club members hit the river twice each day during the week and once each weekend day for rowing sessions, pretty much any time of the year when the river isn't frozen.

"There is so much more boat traffic in the summer that we are usually out in the mornings," said Bell, who is out on the river at about 5:30 a.m. on an average morning.

Rowing can be sculling with individuals to fourmember teams where each member uses two oars, or sweeps with two- to eight-member teams where each member handles a single oar. The sweep teams also may row with a coxswain.

The boats used in the sport are designed to be lightweight yet able to carry a lot of weight. Bell said a boat weighing about $10 pounds can carry eight oarsmen and a coxswain.

"THE BOATS are specifically structured with carbon fiber riggings and a hull that is a 32nd of an inch thick," he said. "In a sense it is very strong, but also very fragile. It's the ultimate in balance and craftsmanship."

State of the art doesn't come cheap, however.

Boats can run $13,000 for eights to $3,000 for singles. Sculling blades cost about $350 per pair and sweep blades run about $200.

In an era when rowing machines are popular in gyms and at homes for aerobic workouts, it would seem to follow that rowing would be a popular participation sport.

"We don't have a recreational rowing program per se and I see that as a defect," Bell said. "We are geared to competition. With this emphasis on sports and fitness, rowing just hasn't maximized on it."

Detroit Boat Club member John Welchli said other sports don't compare with the physical fitness attained in rowing.

"At the 1984 Olympics, all the athletes were physically tested and the oarsmen were found to be the most fit, bar none," said Welchli, a silver medalist in rowing at the 1956 Olympics.

Bell agreed that through their training, oarsmen are able to develop tremendous strength and stamina.

IN OTHER countries, rowing is a much more popular sport, Welchli said, drawing 40,000 or 50,000 spectators to events, such as Britain's Royal Henley or the Ontario Henley in St. Catharines.

In earlier years in this country, rowing was an activity and spectator sport for a wider audience including many from the working classes.

Motor boats have cut into the sport, Bell said, since people can afford not to work up a sweat while boating. Another problem is that speed boats tend to swamp the narrow rowing boats.

Competition and physical fitness aside, a primary attraction for the oarsmen is being on the Detroit River during the quiet hours of the day.

"I rowed from 1959 until 1967 when I was in grad school," Bell said. "I started coaching in 1971 and I've been here every summer since."

The Detroit Boat Club has been a Detroit landmark for almost as long as Michigan has been a state. See Page 4D.

Readers' report: New River rafting

By Iris Sanderson Jones contributing travel editor

Our story on white water rafting drew a lot of letters from readers who have rafted in eastern states, especially the New River in West Virginia. They all want to tell Susan Baldori of Plymouth, whose question prompted the original story, that a novice can feel safe and have fun on white water rivers.

Jack and Linda Christen of Farmington Hills were on the New River in late July with their son Tony, all of them on their first rafting trip. They rafted with North American River Runners Inc., P.O. Box 31, Hico, W. Va. 25854-0081. You can call them toll-free at (800) 950-2585

"Hico is a seven-hour drive from here," Linda said. "The cost was $50 a day each. Our trip began at 9 a.m. with orientation and suiting up, which means life jackets and helmets. A bus trip of about 40 minutes took us to the beginning point.

"There were only eight and a guide to each raft, with a total of five rafts. Our guide Dana was great! We began with some floating and drifting while Dana instructed us in paddling, etc. Everyone paddled. Our first few rapids were Class ones and twos.

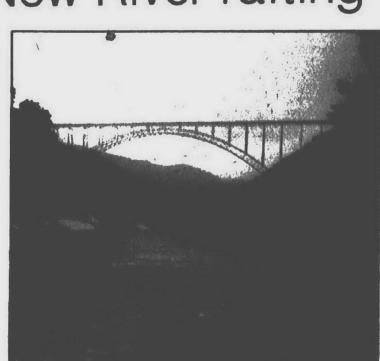

"At certain points on the trip, we could get out of the raft and 'body surf' and jump from 20-foot rocks along the shore. What a blast! They served a delicious lunch along the shore.

"After lunch, we did some Class three and five rapids. It was great! One of the best things about the trip is the our raft was self-bailing. Boy, did that save a lot of work! We reached the end about 5 p.m. and had a 10- to 15-minute ride back to base camp.

"WE TOOK this trip with my two sisters and their husbands, who have rafted before in Wyoming, Colorado and Maine. They said this was by far the best trip they have been on."

If you wonder what Linda means by Class one, two, three and five,

Raul Julia stars in "Romero," a film about Salvadoran Archbishop Oscar Romero, champion of the country's poor and defender of human rights, who was assassinated in 1980.

Kudos for Julia, 'Romero'

For most of us who lead relatively secure lives in which violence is a crowded freeway, the latest slasher movie of TV cop show, "Romero" (A, PG-13, 105 minutes), this week's major release, is a frightening, disturbing and provocative experience. As well it might be, for we live in a world where money and power are more important than the humanistic values to which we pay lip rather than real service. Money talks and it talks with a vicious tongue.

Nowhere is this more true than in Central and South America where recent decades have been characterized by brutal official repression of peasant and worker efforts to achieve decent living standards.

The motion picture is capable of vividly portraying life as it is being lived - but it seldom does. There have been very few motion pictures about Central and South American rightist repression - "The Official Story" and "The Kiss of the Spider Woman" are two major and very worthy examples.

The latter featured Raul Julia whose masterful performance in the title role of "Romero" should earn him as many - or more - kudos than did his portrait of a political prisoner in "Spider Woman.

Based on the actual story of Salvadoran Archbishop Oscar Romero, the film opens prior to national elections and shortly before the consecration of Romero as archbishop.

Throughout the film, which concludes with his March 1980 assassination by a right-wing governmental terrorist squad, the interplay of Church and governmental forces is vivid, forceful and graphically trag-

BUT IT'S not just a church/state struggle for both those forces have their own internal competition. Tragically, individuals bear the brunt of pain generated by such combat.

Much to the credit of "Romero," human suffering is the central issue as the rather mild and conservative Father Romero is chosen as archbishop on the theory that a bookish priest won't inflame the situation

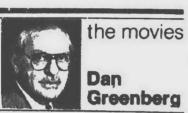

But Romero is caught in a milieu of escalating violence. His aristocratic friend, the minister of agriculture, Rafael Zelda (Omar Rodriguez), is kidnapped.

Father Rutilio Grande (Richard Jordan) and other priests feel strongly that their allegience to the church demands that they work with the peasants in their struggle for decent living standards. "You are Jesus here and now," is their credo. Gradually, as he sees and experiences the daily repressive conditions in El Salyador, the different Romero grows and speaks out against violence and abuse. Raul Julia develops this gradual radicalization of Archbishop Romero with great restraint and vastly underplays the role to achieve a tre-mendously touching polgnancy, as effective as one can imagine.

Cinematographer Geoff Burton adds to that poignancy with memorable images of the people and the countryside. In particular, the faces, however, deeply lined with suffering, are strong and effectively emphasized in closeup. At every crucial juncture, these faces appear to affirm the humanistic values the archbishop knows the Church upholds.

JULIA'S masterful acting - and the rest of the cast as well - taken with this photographic emphasis on faces leads to a graphic personalization of these major, abstract issues of power.

This emphasis on individual pain and struggle makes "Romero" at one and the same time frightening and poignant, touching and distrubing - a film about a real suffering utes. in our world.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

DFT widens with 'Scope

When CinemaScope came to the movie screen in 1953, it was just another gimmick to get people away from television and back into movie theaters. But where 3-D and Cinerama proved limited, 'Scope still remains a vital part of many filmmaker's visions

When shown on television, most wide screen movies are cropped to fit the dimensions of the small screen. As a result, you only see about % of the original image in a "letterboxed" format.

Elliot Wilhelm considers this as much as travesty as colorization. That's why he has mounted an amazing 13-film tribute to the art of wide screen at the Detroit Film Theatre.

The series begins with "Bye Bye Birdie" (USA - 1963), based on the Broadway musical inspired by Elvis Presley hysteria. It traces the rise on Conrad Birdie who, like Elvis, gets drafted into the army. It screens at 7 and 9:30 p.m. this Saturday at the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

Wide screen is accomplished by filming with a special anamorphic lens that condenses the panoramic image onto a standard piece of film. A similar lens on the project pulls the image apart and splashes it across the screen. The effect, when shown with the right equipment, can be breathtaking.

WHILE MANY directors were originally stymied by the wider image, others - especially epic directors - found it opened the screen up for bold images. Wilhelm believes that Sam Peckinpah, Sergio Leone and especially Akira Kurosawa remain the masters of wide screen. Each director is amply represented. Kurosawa's "High and Low" (Japan - 1963) is based on a hardboiled Ed McBain kidnapping story. Japanese streets are filmed with the same grittiness as New York City Practically a staple for DFT fans,

'Once Upon a Time in the West" (Italy - 1969) is an operatic "spaghetti western" from Leone, who died earlier this year. Henry Fonda plays a blue-eyed murderer who meets his match in a vengeful Charles Bronson Peckinpah's "Ride the High Coun-stars old-timers Randolph Scott and Joel McCrea in a film that many consider the symbolic end to the popular American western. His recently restored "Pat Garrett and Billy the Kid" (USA - 1973) stars Bob Dylan and screens Oct. 8.

Jerry Lee Lewis fans will adore the opening of "High School confidential" (USA - 1958), where "The Killer" performs the title song from the back of a flatbed truck. The film follows undercover narcotics agent Russ Tamblyn, who cracks a high school drung ring while posing as a student Busty Mamie Van Doren plays his seductive "aunt" (Nov 11)

FOR ME, THE most exciting title is Federico Fellini's flashy 'La Dolce Vita" (Italy - 1961), which is too typically shown in "flat" prints Marcello Mastroianni is at his handsomest as a paparazzi journalist tiring of decadent Rome (Nov. 12).

Though film fans can argue favorite 'Scope titles that aren't on the schedule, selections have been based on the availability of quality prints.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg

special writer

Random House Home Video recently acquired Crown Video and their combined fall list includes a wide array of educational and entertainment videos, all in color.

Some are available for rental, but most are pitched for sales in the $10-30 range, probably on the assumption that the kids will watch Dr. Seuss over and over while mom is learning "Martha Stewart's Secrets for Entertaining" - all four of which are 60 minutes and retail for $19.95.

Meantime, dad better install a VCR in his workshop to watch "The Victory Garden," "Last Chance Garage" and "This Old House" (also 60 minutes and $19.95). In less traditional homes, of course, this may be reversed with dad in the kitchen and mom in the garage.

These and other Crown titles have been available for about a year while Random's children programs - all closed captioned - are new this fall. They'll appear on the stands this month.

The Crown titles include a "Living Language Video Series" - French, German, Spanish and Signing (60 to 90 minutes each, $29.95) - as well as "Fodor's Travel Guides" on videos for Hungary, Bangkok and Singapore (45 to 60 minutes, $14.95).

Martha Stewart's entertainment series consists of four tapes - "An Anitpasto Party," "A Holiday Feast," "A Formal Dinner Party" and "A Buffet Party for Family and Friends." Stewart has many good kitchen hints for upscale entertainment although her manner is a bit too classy for me.

BOB THOMPSON and Jim Wilson are the master gardeners instructing viewers in every step of vegetable growing. If you gain too much weight with Stewart's recipes for your garden produce, Crown Video has you covered with "Flatten Your Stomach - For Women" (30 minutes at $9.95. Of course there's one for men, too). It's a 30-minute-a-day workout. The car maintenance and home repair tapes originally were WGBH-TV (Boston) presentations and feature Brad Sears, host of the PBS-TV auto repair series. Bob Villa and Norm Abram are the home maintenance experts. These tapes include 20 car repairs and 14 home maintenance projects. While they range in complexity from checking tire pressure to replacing alternators and constructing brick walks and building decks, all assume the viewer has basic mechanical know-how and experience handling power tools.

While mom and dad are busy building, repairing, cooking and entertaining, kids can learn while being entertained. Richard Scarry's "Best ABC Video Ever" and "Best Counting Video Ever" (both 30 minutes, $14.95) are fairly conventional but attractive cartoons which teach counting and the alphabet by repetition within an entertaining story framework.

As with most animated films for the younger set, "The Berenstain Bears" include moral lessons along with the entertainment. This threetape series (each 30 minutes, $14.95) features six stories. They are entertaining although the art work is limited and conventional. All the bears look alike but then I suppose they think people all do, too.

DR. SEUSS in any form is entertaining - and educational as well although the educational goes beyond simple lessons of morality and the alphabet. These four video cassettes are an excellent opportunity to view everyone's favorites: "One Fish, Two Fish, Red Fish, Blue Fish," "Hop on Pop," "Dr. Seuss's ABC" and "The Cat in the Hat Comes Back" are the lead titles on each of the four tapes, which include a number of other Dr. Seuss stories.

Most parents are familiar with Dr. Seuss's unique cartoon style and his wry and whimsical view of the world. It is a very special and unusual vista that every child should experience as they grow and develop.

The translation of these books to tape has been accomplished with good style. The camera moves over the pages - and from page to page - in a visually attractive way. The voices are varied and distinctive to avoid the trap of one-voice monotony. All-in-all, these four tapes are well done and should be attractive to the youthful spirit in us all, no matter what our chronological age.

Webb Wilder, who is lead singer of the band by the same name, admits having a "hang dog" attitude about being from Hattiesburg, Miss. But a bit of trivia got the tail wagging.

STEEL WHEELS - Rolling Stones

The new Rolling Stones album "Steel Wheels" is OK. But it's nowhere near as inspired as their best stuff. Side one opens with two catchy rockers, "Sad, Sad, Sad" and "Mixed Emotions," the first single from the The chorus of "Mixed Emotions" is one of the album's high points, as Jagger and Richards' soaring harmony settles on a sustained note as the band chuggs along. But the melody on the verses is identical to "Take It So Hard," a standout song from Keith Richard's Then there's "Blinded by Love," one of the Stones' best-ever country songs, with lots of acoustic guitar and an elegant three-part harmony.

Unfortunately, Mick Jagger delivers some choppy, emotionless singing on this number, when heartfelt notes are called for.

SEMINAL LIVE - The Fall

"Continental Drift" is another standout, featuring the Morrocan musicians so loved by Brian Jones. The sound of those swirling "pipes of Pan" is a welcome change from the same-old '70s-'80s Stones formula of slashing gultars on track after track.

But the change isn't enough to inspire Jagger, who sounds a bit bored or weary. And then there's the two songs Keith Richards sings.

Remember Richards' excellent "Sleep Tonight" from the "Dirty Work" album? And how about other Richards-sung classics - "Little T and A," "You Got The Silver," "Coming Down Again" and "Happy."

Here, Richards gets two songs to sing and both are throw-aways. The Stones are fading. And that's sad, sad, sad.

My son is 8 and a delightful hid in most ways. He has one problem he cannot be away from me for long periods of time. If I leave to go out, but I guess I thought they would get better and they haven't.

Dear Shirley, Have you assessed your son real-istically and carefully? It is unusual for a child to have the problem he does without some manifestation of it in other areas.

The literature describes your son's behavior as being reflective of ambivalence. As such, it is probably highly distressing to him.

Although I have said that I would not "cop out" by making referrals to tions in which that is the only resible action. This is one. It is hoped that by talking about his feelings, some of his anxiety can be re-

This is a complicated topic. Teasing can be a lot of things, both good

It is more frequent and typical with men. In sports, it can be a way they show affection or disdain for one another. Teasing, rather than a more straightforward approach, makes both of these emotions less embarrassingly felt.

Teasing can be normal or pathological, depending on the extent and way in which it is done. While it can be hurtful, it may be the least damaging way for people to communicate honestly.

The important thing in being teased is to tease back and react in good spirit. It is a good trait to be able to laugh a little at yourself. If two people can laugh together, they can be close together.

Jim Hartman and Jeff Pfaendtner, both of Detroit, take a rest after rowing under the Belle Isle Bridge.

Rowing tradition spans 150 years

By LeAnne Rogers staff writer

Through the 1960s the Detroit was the place to be. Founded on another location across the Detroit River in 1839 by E.A. Brush and a group of oarsmen, the club was originally in the basement of a brewery.

'The current clubhouse was built in 1902 after several fires which destroyed the six or seven wooden clubs which had burned down," said Dick Bell, a longtime member and rowing coach at the club. "This building was the first fireproof building built in Detroit."

was built, it was on the outskirts of Detroit.

. "Grand Boulevard was the city Boat Club on Belle Isle, which cele- limit at the turn of the century and brates its sesquicentennial this year. this was a summer club," Bell said. There used to be a boathouse all along the rear of the building which is constructed on stilts in the water."

In the club's early days, before showers were installed, Bell said rowers would "take the plunge" after their workouts, jumping through a floor opening into the river.

By the time Bell became involved with the club in the 1950s, most of its members were drawn from residents living in the nearby Indian Village section of Detroit.

We were river rats. We were al> the years. Swimming pools were added in the 1930s when the club hosted the Olympic trials. "This was a very affluent club during the 1940s and 1950s," Bell said. "And in the 1960s, it was the place to be.

While docks for powerboats were added to the club over the years, Bell said that for most of the club's history only rowers could serve as club president.

"This is a private social club, so it helps (in obtaining membership) to know someone at the club," he said. "We have an oarsman membership. It's a matter of coming down and deciding you want to be involved . THE USES of the club, just east of then making yourself available to the Belle Isle Bridge, changed over compete and participate."

THE WHITE stucco and tile roofed club looks bright and sunny on the banks of the Detroit River.

The dark timbered interior rooms have the traditional feel of a private club. The club is decorated with mementos of its history, ranging from drawings of its earlier incarnations to competition trophies, pennants and distinctively shaped oars.

The club also has a dining room, banquet facilities and lounges for use by its members.

call toll-free (800) CALL-WVA and the West Virginia Department of Commerce will send you information on white water rafting. I received that info through the mail from Ralph and Mary Humphlett of Livonia, who brought it home from a rafting trip.

"My husband and son went on their first rafting trip," Mary wrote. "They had a great time and will do it again. They went on the New River in West Virginia. It is a beautiful part of the country. They took their trip with 'Passages to Adventure,' an rafting outfit in Fayetteville."

The information she sent describes West Virginia as the White water Capital of the East, with 2,000 miles of mountain streams in the Appalachian Mountains. Here is their description of the class system:

River runners class white water rapids according their difficulty, from one to six. Novices can run class one and two stretches without guides; segments classed three to five require real paddling skills or qualified leadership such as provided by professional outfitters.

'Class six water poses the utmost challenge, not often attempted by even highly skilled athletes. There are several West Virginia rafting rivers. Some are especially rapid when the rain fills them up to roaring point. There are at least two dozen rafting and canoeing companies on the New River Gorge National Scenic River, known as the Grand Canyon of the East."

PHILIP RANKEY of Redford went rafting with a group of friends this summer on the New River and had a great time.

"We went with Wildwater Unlimited Inc. They have a very nice camping area and some of the best guides on the New River. They run the New River everyday during rafting season. They also run the Gauley in the fall. The Gauley is for experienced rafters only with continuous rapids rating from two to six.

The New River, with class one to six rapids, gives the beginner a very good taste of white water. The cost is $78 per person for the one day trip. The camping is $5 per night per person. Their address is P.O. Box 55, Thurmond, W.Va. 25936 or telephone (304) 469-2551."

The Comedy Castle has set up shop in six different locations in the metro area and Thom Sharp has appeared in five of them.

He'll be back for the last show and grand finale at the Berkley location before Mark Ridley's Cornedy Castle moves on to yet another spot. He's the star of the show this week.

Sharp, who got his start as a comedian in the Detroit area with the Dick Purtain Show on WXYZ radio, is expecting to see some of the old faithfuls in the audience during his homecoming.

He has been living in California for about 12 years and is working with Linda Blair in the movie "Repossessed."

"Repossessed by the devil, that is," Sharp said. Believe it or not it's a comedy and a funny one. We're a happy nuclear family with two kids - I play the husband - who get caught up in this

'It's a satire on 'The Excorcist' of course. But happy-ever-after ending

arp has had parts in a few other movies, "but nothing like this.

This is far and away the largest role I've ever had," he said. His and Blair's co-stars are Leslie Nielsen and Ned Beatty.

Sharp also has had roles in four different television series, none long-lasting, but he's never been idle and he's never been sorry he made the switch from ad man to comedian.

SHARP LIVED in West Dearborn and worked his 9-to-5 job at W.B. Donor's advertising agency when he started to appear on the Dick Purtan Show "every couple of weeks and just for the heck of it and hopefully to be funny," he said.

Apparently, he was. Sharp gained a following early on, the same following he expects to see in his audience this week Show-goers were well aware of his name by the time he was doing stand-up comedy in the local er 9-to-5 job at a Los Angeles advertising agency and more moonlighting in night clubs Making the complete transistion to full-time comedian was a scary one. "It was scary the first day I went off on my own and sometimes it is still scary," he said. "But I've never had down periods. I have never sat around waiting for the phone to ring. I have always been busy with something."

Show time at Comedy Castle is 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday and 8:30 and 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

"If there is nothing good on TV those nights, come and see the show," Sharp said. "If you have no plans for the weekend, come and see the show. If you are in the area and the car breaks down, come in and see the show while you are waiting for AAA to show up."

Thom Sharp will perform at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle, 2593 Woodward Ave., Berkley, Tuesday through Saturday, Sept 12-16. For reservations, call 542-9900.

Thom Sharp hasn't forgotten his roots. The comedian, who got his comedic start by doing spots on the Dick Purtan Show on WXYZ-radio, will be back in Detroit this week for a stint at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle in Berkley.

When you're 'just visiting' in Jackson

By Carolyn DeMarco staff writer

Some visitors to Jackson come and stay a lifetime. Unfortunately, they're confined to the state prison and never see anything of Jackson except on the bus ride in.

Why would they want to, you might ask? What else is there in Twenty-three thousand acres of recreational land for starters. The Jackson Convention and Tourist Bureau bills its hometown as "Jackson, recreation country.'

Skeptical? We were too until we took a personalized tour led by convention bureau director Pamela

Jackson, we found, has more than its share of three things - golf courses, parks and native born and/ or bred astronauts. And whether you're speaking of Jackson, the town, or Jackson, the county, we discovered more than enough Jackson to fill a day, a weekend or an extend-Jacksonians are particularly proud of the wealth of golf courses. Eighteen public golf courses and two private clubs make it the undisputed golf capital of Michigan.

It's the second best area in the United States for golf when it comes to most number of public golf courses per capita, says the National Golf Foundation.

One of the most popular courses is Cascades Golf Course, owned by the Jackson County Parks Commission and recognized by Golf Digest as one of the nation's top public courses.

"The best bang for the buck" is how some experts describe it. A weekend round of golf is $11 for 18 holes. A two-person cart is $16.

CASCADES, the golf course, is just a part of the Sparks Foundation County Park, more commonly referred to as Cascades Park. Park visitors can enjoy tennis, miniature golf, paddle boat rides, basketball and special activities on the expansive grounds.

It's too late for this year, but from Memorial Day until Labor Day the parks hosts a spectacular show nightly - Cascade Falls. It's Jackson's most famous monument, a 500foot-high, man-made system of 18 waterfalls open nightly 7:30-11 p.m. for a show of dancing waters and colored lights.

Not so far away is the 535-acre Ella W. Sharp Park, a city-owned park which includes the 18-hole Sharp Park Golf Course as well as tennis, picnics, volleyball, swimming pool, softball, baseball and soccer fields and playgrounds.

It's also home to a lovely treasure, the Ella Sharp Museum, sort of a mini, manageable Greenfield Village, the type of place you can get through easily well before the feet give out and the kids start whining.

Focal point of the museum, once a busy family farm in the 1800s, is the Victorian farmflouse with period furnishings in every room from the elegant parlor to the attic toy room.

Other structures include the tower barn, which houses farm implements, a woodworking shop, print shop and doctor's office, all of which are part of the original homestead.

Two additional buildings, a oneroom school house and an authentic log cabin have been brought to the site from other parts of Jackson.

ON THE GROUNDS, you'll also. find Heritage Hall, a gallery which reflects Jackson County history and art; the Peter F. Hurst Planetarium; and the Granary, a small attractive tea room and ice cream soda fountain which serves lunch until 4 p.m.

The museum is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday though Friday and noon to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Admission fee is $5 for families. The planetarium shows are 3 p.m. Sundays, mid-September through mid-June, for a nominal fee.

Yet another park-type setting is the 200-acre Dahlem Environmental Education Center on the Jackson Community College grounds, 7117 S. Jackson Road.

Nature lovers can explore five miles of trails through forests, marshes and fields originating from the visitors' building which houses exhibits. One special attraction is a half-mile special needs trail for easy walking. A rail fence is built along side the entire length to aid walkers.

Visitors can drop in for free hiking, walking, cross country skiing at any time. The visitor's building is closed Monday. It's open 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and noon-5 p.m. weekends.

Also on the Jackson Community College grounds is the Michigan Space Center, "the biggest little space center on earth."

The MSC houses $30 million in space artifacts, many on permanent oan from NASA, the Smithsonian Institute and private industry.

The whole idea started in 1971 with a contest by Jackson Community College to create a sign honoring Jackson's astronauts (Al Worden, Jack Lousma, James McDevitt and Ed White.) It mushroomed into a

A SPACE CENTER visitor can view a moon rock through a microscope, try on an astronaut helmet, take a simulated ride in a capsule, step on a scale to compute his or her weight on other planets, look inside a pretend black hole and ask questions, questions, questions of director James Satterelli. (Like how do the astronauts go to the bathroom. Diaper rash used to be a real problem, says Satterelli.)

Some other Jackson County sights of note which are not open all the time and require advance planning:

• Michigan International Speedway. The Miller High Life 400, the Marlboro 500, the International Race of Champions and the Champion Spark Plug 400 were all here in For information on future schedules, call 961-1922.

• Jackson Harness Raceway. The fall meet is through Oct. 14. Post time is 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call (517) 788-

• Ye Olde Carriage Shop. You'll have to be part of a group of 20 or more to get Lloyd Ganton or his son Troy to open the door to this Spring Arbor private collection. Inside you'll find two dozen antique cars including four one-of-a-kind automobiles and 10 which were built right in

You'll also find 20 antique gas pumps dating from 1905 to 1950 and showcase after showcase of other automobile memorabilia.

In addition to the automobile-related collection, there's a Coca-Cola room with Coke bottles, glasses, trays, signs, toys and anything else which carries the world-famous logo. A soda fountain from an upper Michigan soda shop, complete with wooden booths and those spin-around stools contributes to the nostalgia.

TO ARRANGE a visit - remember, groups only - call the Gantons at (517) 750-1905.

· Conklin Antique Reed Organ Museum. More than 70 reed organs are displayed in the former Hanover High School in Hanover. It's open 1-5 p.m. the first and third Sundays April through October. Call (517) 563-2311 to arrange group visits.

• Fox Hill Farm. This Parma farm grows herbs, lots of herbs, maybe 450 of them, as well as fragrant plants, scented geraniums and specialty vegetables. It's open April 15 to Oct. 15, but it's best to call first at (517) 531-3179.

For more information, maps, directions or suggestions for accommodations or restaurants in Jackson County, call the Jackson Convention and Tourist Bureau, (517) 788-3330.

You might not find the likes of Arnold Palmer or Jack Nichlaus on the greens of Cascades Park Public Golf Course, but the two golf greats have teed off there.

Refering to a map, Dawn and David Hicks explore the buildings that make up the Ella Sharp Museum in Jackson.

Seeing. Jackson in a day

Jackson's closer than you think -55 minutes from Plymouth, 75 minutes from the Bloomfields, maybe 90 minutes from Troy.

A daylong stay will give you a good look at the variety of familyoriented attractions around Jackson, the city, and Jackson, the county

Here's a sample itinerary for a family day trip:

• Take I-94 west to exit 142 and follow the signs to the Michigan Space Center on the Jackson Community College campus. It opens at 10 a.m. Plan on spending 11/2-2 hours, if you and your youngsters are into space travel and its memorabilia. The museum is small but chockfull with items of interest. There are picnic tables and play equipment outside. Admisison is $3 for adults, $2 for students or $9 for the family.

· Now it's on to the Dahlem Center, only minutes away. Turn left at the end of the space center drive onto Emmons Road. Turn right at Kimmel and right again at South Jackson Road. Follow the signs. The center has five miles of walking trails, as short as a few minutes. No

· Lunch time could find you dining in the Granary at the Ella Sharp Museum. Yes, that's just minutes away, too. Take South Jackson Road to Horton Road. Horton Road runs into Fourth. The intersection is at the site of the museum.

Stay and play in Ella Sharp Park or try a trip through the 500-acre Cascade Park, center of the worldfamous Cascade Falls. Take Fourth Street to High Street. Turn left and take the street into the park.

 A visit to Jackson is not complete without a visit to the famous Jackson All Star Dairy Ice Cream Parlour. Famous, despite the fact that it never advertises. An ice cream cone is still under $1. Take Brown Street from the park, but watch the road signs; the name quickly changes to McDaniel. The dairy is on your right.

Jackson has a variety of restaurants near its attractions, including Brandywine Pub and Food, near the Ella Sharp Park, and Gilbert's, known for its famous Tiffany lamp collection.

If you're having so much fun you want to spend the night, Jackson has a dozen hotels, motels and inns, including a Holiday Inn Holidome with an indoor pool, game room and miniature golf course.

For dining guides or lists of accommodations, call the Jackson Convention and Tourist Bureau, (517) 783-3330.

Just a few more sites to see -

Late summer and early fall are as good a time (and reason) as any to visit Jackson County. If you need more reasons:

• Sept. 1-30 - Harness racing at Jackson Harness Raceway. Post time is 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $2.

• Sept. 16 - Ella's Family Festival 5-8 p.m. on the Ella Sharp Museum grounds. Games, prizes, refreshments and entertainment.

• Sept. 23 - Family Farmfest on five area farms. Escorted tours of modern farming operations every half hour 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

• Sept. 24 - Fall Festival noon to 5 p.m. at the Dahlem Center. Food, entertainment, honey harvest demonstration, cider pressing, guided walks. Admission free.

 Oct. 1 — Fall Heritage Festival 1-5 p.m. at Conklin Antique Organ Museum. Cider pressing, sheep shearing, basket making, spinning and local artists displaying and selling their crafts. Lunch available. Admission $1.50.

• Oct. 1 - Fall Harvest Day and Art Fair, noon to 5 p.m. on the Ella Sharp Museum grounds. Demonstrations of early farm tools including cider pressing and corn shelling. Admission, $2.50 for adults, $1 for sen-

• Oct. 8 - Pioneer Day at Water loo Area Farm Museum.

A. I was pleased to receive about 300 letters supporting my campaign, along with some radio interviews. Thanks to everyone who wrote. About six opposing letters also came to me along with a few received by the editorial pages of the paper (fewer than I had expected.) Several people wrote suggestions for other ways to decrease bulk mail, which were also appre-

My ultimate goal is to convince the Postal Service that the public is weary of the overwhelming amount of bulk mail it receives and to induce advertisers to end mailing list duplications and refine their lists by removing names from their lists when requested. (Although many advertisers do a good job of this, many more do not.) After discussing this at length with postal officials and advertising specialists, I still believe the most effective way to acheive this would be to allow third class mail to be message will be. returnable at the sender's expense, just as first class mail is now.

I will also call for another letter writing campaign directly to the Board Secretary then, too, Even if the Board of Governors and the Rate Commission are not convinced to change the rules, they will still receive the message. If an atmosphere of non-acceptance by the public is created and even some advertisers take heed, I would consider this campaign a success. I still feel that the public should not have to helplessly endure this waste and subtle form of perpetual harassment.

It is not too late to support this campaign. Although this is the last column I will write on the subject until the Rate Commission hearing, I will continue to accept letters until then. Just send a short note to "Less is Better," P.O. Box 330, Franklin 48025. The more I receive, the more effective our condo queries Robert M.

Q: We are interested in buying a home and a condo, and I am wondering what protections you recommend be inserted in a purchase agreement that are frequently left out. Any suggestions, although we plan to use an attorney?

A: There are three contingencies which should be inserted in almost every purchase agreement if the buyer is to be reasonably protected. First is that the agreement is the purchaser has binding until had a reasonable opportunity to have the home inspected. In a case of the condominium, keep in mind, of course, that you are not only buying your unit outright, but an undivided interest in the common elements of the condominium which may be in need of repair.

The second contingency involves the right of your attorney to review, and change and/or correct the terms of the agreement within a certain period of time, except for the purchase price. That is essential because once the agreement becomes binding, the attorney can do very little, if any, to change the terms or conditions of the deal.

Finally, if you are obtaining mortgaging, obviously the deal should be contingent upon you obtaining a mortgage commitment within a reasonable period of time. There are also possible other contingencies which would be relevant, depending upon the circumstances of your purchase, including your ability to sell your existing home, etc. You are wise to consult an experienced real estate attorney if you contemplate such a pur-

Q: We are extremely frustrated with our management company. It does not call us back when we inquire as to a needed problem and usually sends out a "funky" secretary disguised as a property manager. We have talked to the principal of the company, but he says that "property managers" are expensive and that he is not getting enough of a return from our project to justify a full-time property manager. What can we do since we are under contract with him for another seven months?

A: With the benefit of 20-20 hindsight, your management agreement should have contained a procompany who would be servicing your site and attending your meetings. This is a frequent provision which I insist be placed in management agreements when the board of directors is enlightened enough to contact us regarding the review of the most important contract the association will sign, that is, the management agreement.

In your case, I would advise the management agent that you are not getting adequate management, and that such conduct constitutes a default of the terms of the management agreement. Perhaps the managing agent will then see to it that you are given better service and/or more competent personnel. On the other hand, it is true that many times management companies are not able to afford to hire the quality property managers necessary to equately service the Associa tions' demands because many Associations are not willing to pay an adequate management fee. Again, you generally get what you pay for.

Q. I am being sued by an out-ofstate condominium association, where I own a unit, for back due assessments in Florida. Can they get my assets here in Michigan if they get a judgment in Florida? I'm not worried about their lien on the condo since there is not any equity in the unit. Can you give me some advice?

A. Assuming that you are not worried about the association executing on your unit in Florida, forcing a sale of it to satisfy its lien for non-payment of assessments, and assuming that the association gets a money judgment against you in Florida, it can sue on that money judgment here in Michigan, obtain a judgment and execute on any property that you own or have possession of here in Michigan.

That will, no doubt, cost the association a lot of money. It may be willing, therefore, to negotiate a compromise with you as to the amount owing, in order to avoid the necessity of at least two lawsuits and attendant legal fees.

It will also take them, depending upon the amount owed, a considerable amount of time even to get a default judgment against you. Of course, if you can defend your position in either one of the cases, that will drag the thing out even longer, assuming that you have a reasonable basis to do so.

If there is no defense, however, you are probably best advised to try to settle with the association, assuming that you have no intent or need to deal with the association in the future.

New garden 'stars' waiting in wings

Four flowers, four vegetables and two bedding plant flowers have won 1990 All-America Selections Awards and will be ready for your next gardening season.

Each winner, according to AAS judges, exhibits improved qualities over the "closest variety currently on the market."

In the 57th AAS judging program, the bedding plant winners are Petunia F1 (First Generation) Polo Burgundy Star and Polo Salmon. Both reportedly performed exceptionally well in both greenhouse and garden trials.

The four flower winners are Achillea Summer Pastel, Celosia Pink Castle, Pansy Jolly Joker and Zinnia F1 Scarlet Splendor.

The four vegetable winners are Bean Derby, hot Pepper F1 Super Cayenne, Squash F1 Cream of the Crop and Squash F1 Sun Drops. AAS said all exhibits improved characteristics based on outdoor garden trials.

ACHILLEA MILLEFOLIUM plants reach a height of 3 to 4 feet, using a lot of space and probably requiring staking. But Achillea Summer Pastels are only 2 feet tall and use only 18 inches per plant.

The plants create a flowering hedge. They begin flowering in approximately 12 weeks from sowing
