Non-profit group takes over ice festival

By Kevin Brown staff writer

Starting today, a new non-profit corporation will take over running the Plymouth ice festival.

Plymouth Community Ice Spectacular Inc., formed last week by community activists, was scheduled to be incorporated today, said Pam Kosteva, Plymouth Chamber of Commerce president

'It's another step forward really, toward making sure that the ice spectacular is successful," she said.

THE CHAMBER was organizing the 1990 festival. Kosteva said it planned to set up a non-profit corporation after that to run future ice

But Kosteva, who had been heading the effort to raise enough money to put on the 1990 festival, said a conversation with Plymouth city attorney Ron Lowe changed that plan

"He said if you're going to do it now or do it later, you should do it now," Kosteva said

TO OVERSEE the corporation, leaders from around the community have been named to a board of direc-

'The sole reason for this board is to produce and accept fund-raising responsibilities for the Plymouth Ice Spectacular," Kosteva said.

So far, $110,000 to $115,000 is committed for the 1990 festival. Approximately $20,000 more is needed to pay for that festival.

I'm sure we can raise the money without any problems." Kosteva

PREVIOUS FESTIVALS were cochaired by former city manager Henry Graper and Mayflower Hotel co-owner Scott Lorenz

In August, the festival was nearly canceled after the non-profit organization, Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular Inc., was given a bill for city services supplied to the last ice fest. The billing helped prompt the dissolution of the sponsoring group. With the festival run by a new group. "We'll have a more finely tuned ice spectacular," said Kosteva, spokeswoman for the new corpora-

Officials plan meeting to discuss pool By M.B. Dillon

There'll be a heck of a pool party at Central Middle School one day soon if things can be worked out at a meeting Wednesday

staff writer

That's when school officials, Joanne McCarthy of the Plymouth Community Family YMCA and Chuck Skene, Plymouth director of parks and recreation, plan to get together to see if it's financially feasible to re-open the pool.

The school district is offering to lease the pool for $1 per year

"I would like to meet with the YMCA and the city to see if there's interest enough to generate funds," Superintendent John Hoben said. "It seems to me the city benefits from having an open pool.

The facility was closed two years ago when the Plymouth-Canton school board made budget cutbacks.

Recently, residents - many of whom worked to pass tax increases over the last several years - questioned why the pool wasn't re-opened after voters approved two tax requests in June

School officials responded that it could cost up to $50,000 a year to operate the pool, and that the district has more pressing needs.

Hoben has since proposed the leasing arrangement.

McCarthy said lots of questions need answering. "We need to figure out how we can split up the time between these three groups (the schools' community education program is the third). We also need to get an accurate picture concerning costs."

It's difficult to estimate how much money Y user fees would generate without knowing how much access the Y would have to the pool, McCarthy said.

She's optimistic just the same. "It's encouraging. This is a real good thing; it's good for everyone if we can get programs out to the com-

Applefest action was on funky side of Plymouth

There aren't many apple trees in Plymouth's Old Village.

But that didn't bother folks who attended the 12th annual Applefest from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday on the "funky" side of town — distinguished by its late-1800s buildings and small shops, several in former boarding houses for railroad work-

The event featured more than 60 antique and craft dealers from around the state, live music and other entertainment, pony rides for kids and an auction

And don't forget the food

Of the four or five annual celebrations in Old Village, "This is the biggie." said Mark Oppat, president pro tem of the Old Village Association.

The festival was centered at Liberty and Mill streets in the heart of Old Village, first planned as a second downtown by Charles Starkweather.

Topping the list of musical performers was Frank Allison and the Odd Sox from Ann Arbor, who got a good review recently in the New York Times.

ERNEST BEVINS, in charge of English and social studies at Pioneer Middle School, said teachers there elected to postpone Latin American and Canadian studies, and begin instead with Western Europe, since that book is available

History on move as old house gets new address

By Diane Gale staff writer

For awhile it didn't look like the historic Bartlett Travis House was ever going to be moved.

And then it finally happened last Thursday when the home built in the 1850s was hoisted up from its foundation at Canton Center south of Warren and carefully hauled across town to a spot near Canton's historic district at Cherry Hill and Ridge roads.

THE FIRST moving day was scheduled in May, but was delayed after construction workers dug 18 inches and struck water, said Dorothy West, Canton Historical Society director.

Weather caused more setbacks. West said. Then the utilities - Detroit Edison and Michigan Bell added a few snafus. Utility lines must be cleared for a house moving.

The house finally made it to its new resting place on a 22 acre site at Cherry Hill and Ridge roads, just north of the Cherry Hill School. The land was bought by Canton to establish an architectural park adjacent to the historic Cherry Hill

The architectural park is to feature a living historical farm and serve as a refuge for historic houses that would otherwise be demol-

"That really embodies Canton's history," said Kim Scherschligt, Canton deputy director of community and economics. We want to develop this park to showcase Canton's past to residents in the community and also the region," she said.

THE TRAVIS HOUSE will be the first building to be moved to the newly created park and will be the focal point of the proposed historic farm. The house almost fell to a wreck-build a Chinese restaurant at the Canton Center and Warren location. However, Canton realtor and developer Ken Dividock stepped in and bought the house. He later donated it to the Canton Historic Commission District.

Plans are to restore the home to what it looked like in the 1890s.

The Travis House is unusual in that it is one of the few remaining examples of late 19th century farm houses once prevalent in Canton, according to the Canton Historic District Commission.

Architecturally, the house exhibits vernacular Greek Revival, Italianate and Colonial characteristics on the various additions that occurred over the years, according to the commission.

The $100,000 cost for the moving and the initial restoration will be paid by Canton and a Michigan Equity Program, a state grant plan, for which State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton lobbied on behalf of Canton.

The historic Bartlett-Travis house arrives at the new site.

Dropouts could lose licenses

By Tim Richard staff writer

The state House of Representatives this week will take up three controversial bills designed to strip high school dropouts of their driv-

"In Japan, a kid doesn't drive until he's out of high school, and they can't hold jobs," said Rep William Keith, D-Garden City, chair of the House Education Committee KEITH'S PANEL last week re ported out the three bills on 10-4

Among the yes votes were Keith, James Kosteva, D-Canton, and Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia

Among the nays was Justine Barns, D-Westland. Bankes opposed the bills when first proposed in May, but said support from principal and school board organizations and elimination of a $60 license reinstatement fee helped change her mind.

The 10 yes votes were a bare majority of the 19 members assigned to the committee, indicating the bills may face trouble before the full House

Public hearings were held last May At that time, there weren't 10 votes to report the bills out.

One bill was sponsored by Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth. Law said he would like to see the dropout age raised to 18, but until that can be done, taking away the driver's license would be a way to fight the dropout problem

The bills amend both the school and motor vehicle codes

THE BILLS would apply to people age 16 but not yet 18 who drop out of school, are expelled or fail to meet attendance requirements

The youngster could have the li-cense reinstated for $1 if he either returned to school or proved he needed to drive to work in order to help support the family.

Law said it would be up to local school districts to adopt a policy of seeking license suspensions.

SOME CRITICS said the bills would encourage potential dropouts not to get licenses at all.

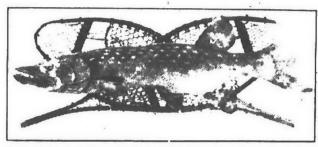

The penalty for driving without an operator's license is less than for driving on a suspended license, said Rep Bart Stupak, D-Menominee, an opponent.

Others disagreed. "If it works, give it a try," said chief assistant Wayne County Prosecutor George

Don't call us pro-abortion, says Doug Fraser, a founder of the new gan Citizens for Personal Freedom. Call us pro-choice. He agreed the media should call groups what they want to be called.

You can see one reason that newsapering is a stressful job. But the Society of Professional Journalists was seeking sober appraisal, and that's why we invited Listing and Fraser to comment last week on how they were being covered.

Newspeople tend to call groups what they want to be called, but at times the work becomes tricky. I'll share some cases in point.

I ASKED the Right to Life president what position her (pro-life) group took on the death penalty.

None, she said. RTL's issues are abortion, infanticide and euthanasia. That surprised me. I would have guessed a pro-life group would oppose governmental executions. I asked Fraser, the retired president of the United Auto Workers, the '60s and '70s. Misnomers, he said. They should have been called the employers' right to pay lower wages. So Fraser, after asking not to be munists disagreed with them, to hear them tell it. Well. I once noticed a lot of groups being organized around the state with names like "Kalamazoo Forum," "St. Joseph Forum" and so on. Besides the name Forum, they also seemed to be espousing the kind of politics one heard in the John Birch Society. When they gave the press pictures of their speakers, I noticed the words "American Opinion" stamped on the back of the photos.

Now, the Forum folks would make a big stink when anyone connected them with the Birchers, stoutly insisting there was "no legal connection" between them and the John Birch Society.

A few phone calls brought out the facts: There were three corporations - the John Birch Society, American Opinion (a magazine and speakers bureau), and a publishing company. They had the same telephone number, shared the same building in Belmont, Mass., and had overlapping boards of directors.

If you asked for a John Birch Society speaker, you got the American Opinion desk.

But the Birchers preferred to be known as "Forums" presenting speakers from "American Opinion," not as a Birch organization.

Ralph Nader has had better luck selling his own description of himself - consumer advocate instead of a warrior against business.

Once I made the mistake of referring to the New Democratic Coalition as a "new left" group and frightened a woman whose daughter was an NDC member. The "new left," according to a friend at the Associated Press, used violence; NDC didn't. An apology earned me some good news

NOW YOU CAN grasp why newspeople are a mite suspicious when groups want to write their own political descriptions, insisting the press just take stenographic notes.

One of my favorite contacts was state Sen. Harry Litowich, the old horse trader from Benton Harbor. He didn't care a hoot what you said about him. Whenever you took a picture, Light Horse Harry would grin and ask, "Put it on the front sheet,

HE DIED at 57 last week. And his message will continue to burn in the hearts and minds of the people he touched.

Hank had a knack of getting to the heart of issues with clarity and precision. He chisled calmly until he wore his game down and got the answer he wanted.

Like the time he went one on one with Supervisor Tom Yack about pay increases for the supervisor. He publicly questioned why they were deserved. Why so many? And why so much? That was a sweet sampling, early on in his term, of the well thought-out and concerned inquiries delivered, oh so finely. We learned to expect them.

He kept Yack on his toes with a barrage of questions. And above all, Hank Whalen, kept it above board and maintained his ethics.

Hank's mission was to limit bureaucracy and cut through the fancy mumbo jumbo talk.

HANK HATED bureaucracy and reminded us all to keep a critical eye on it.

He often called trustees to stop and think before spending Canton's money.

Whalen was against hiring a full-time superintendent who would take on most of the supervisor's responsibilities. And he opposed hiring an administrative assistant who would act as a front man for the supervisor. Ironically, the board approved hiring an administrative assistant last week, the first meeting after Hank's death. It wasn't a ploy to

Christian country idea not acceptable

By James M. August special writer

JACK GLADDEN'S recent Point of View in this newspaper attempted to reassure us that celebrating Christmas in local schools is OK because "this is basically, a Christian country."

That concept is terrifying to those of us who don't think of the United States of America that way.

Nor do we feel that the "majority way or the highway" happens to be an acceptable option.

Gladden's point, apparently, is that it's OK to celebrate Christmas in school because the holiday and its symbols have become so commercialized and represent America's "melting pot." He also concludes that the "Americanized version of Christmas leaves plenty of room for everyone, of whatever faith or ethnic origin, to find some small niche in the celebrations.'

Well, Mr. Gladden, I don't want to find any niche in the Christmas celebrations. And my wife and I have spent considerable energy raising our children to believe that they can live wonderfully full lives without celebrating Christmas at all.

I would bet there are lots of Jewish and Moslem parents in our community with the same point of view. No doubt, many Asian families with non-Christian religious beliefs don't want their children to feel that all real Americans celebrate Christmas.

That is the problem with celebrating any religious event in the schools. The right of any minority to full participation in public education is not only important, it's an expectation of all Americans. If we're going to fulfill that expectation, we have to be very careful to not put things into the educational program that exclude participation.

The United States is not, of course, "basically a Christian country." This is a religiously pluralistic country. It's true that most Americans are Christians. And that fact makes it even more important for Christians to understand that not celebrating Christmas in public schools is a fundamental American obligation. Each school district needs to de-

Arthritis Today . Joseph J. Weiss, M.D. Rheumatology JOINT INJECTIONS The injection of medication into joints is an excellent way to halt the pain and loss of movement that inflammation causes.

Individuals note that the first joint injection clears their pain, and the effect may last for weeks to months. However if the injection is repeated, often the result, though good, doesn't match the relief and its duration that the first injection gave.

There are several reasons for this lessening of effect. One is that while joint injection decreases pain, the medication does not stop the underlying arthritic process. Thus, at the time of the second injection, the joint has disteriorated more, and cannot rebound as quickly or for as long a time as in the past. Second, the arthritis induced inflammation may be able to overcome the medication used to stop it in a manner similar to the way that bacteria develop resistance to antibiotics.

Joint injection remains an excellent way to fight a flare of arthritis. However, this therapy cannot replace daily medication or eliminate the need for constant care and thought, if one is to conserve joint function in

Save $$$ by being a cut-up

If food prices are eating away at your household budget, you can take the bite out of your grocery

How? With a little knife knowhow and some tips on shopping sense. Although you can't control food prices, you can control the amount of money you spend.

Don't pay for labor unnecessarily. Buy whole produce and meats, cut them yourself and save your family in food costs.

Cut your own stew meat from cheaper cuts of beef and you can easily save $1 per pound and more. Buy whole chickens and cut them up yourself rather than buying the desired parts at regular retail price.

Grate and slice your own cheese, cut your own bread cubes for croutons, Buy fresh broccoli and cut your own flowerettes.

Not only are these unprocessed foods less expensive, they are also fresher and provide increased nutritional value. As an added plus, a homemaker can feel confident knowing what was used in the preparation of these

ONE OF the largest food wasters in the kitchen is the discarding of still-tasty (and healthy) broccoli stalks and carrot peels.

If you feel the need to scrape and pare carrots before cooking or serving, save the nutritional peelings and cut tips for use in a stock pot, or use the scrapings and tips in a great carrot puree or

Those broccoli stalks can be peeled and julienned and used for relish trays, or can be wrapped and inserted in lunch bags as a healthy munchie. By utilizing all the carrot and broccoli during preparation, the average kitchen wizard can easily save 50 cents per pound. Need proof? Ask any restaurateur or professional chef where all the onion skins, carrot peelings and broccoli stalks go. You'd be surprised at the flavor these ems give to table stock, especially for the upcoming, chilly fall weather.

BUYING UNCUT meats and poultry and cutting them yourself is a sure way to gain added savings in your food budget. You don't have to be a butcher to discover the savings that can be reaped with a good, sharp knife.

Boneless chicken breasts have become an American favorite, especially since the recent health watch for lower cholesterol has been made public. You can debone chicken, breasts easily in the kitchen and save more than $1.50 per pound. Here's how to go about it very simply:

Buy the desired number of whole chicken breasts and split them in two. Place the halved chicken breasts on a clean cutting board and, using your fingers, pull the skin off the chicken.

Using a sharp paring knife, make a small incision between the meat and the breastbone at a point away from the wing portion. Using your fingers and the knife, carefully pull and scrape the meat away from the bones, taking care not to tear the meat.

WHOLE CHICKENS can be a little more intimidating. But once they are mastered, you can save almost $5 and get, in addition, some great chicken parts for Start by placing the whole chicken on a cutting board. With a good, sharp boning or butcher knife, cut the legs from the body. Hold the leg upright at its tip and cut downward between the leg and thighbone. Sever the joint connecting the leg and the thigh. Do the same with the wings and you're halfway done.

Now, with a larger, good, sharp butcher or slicing knife, split the body in half, starting at the bot-tom (not breast area). Once the bottom has been split open, continue cutting from the inside of the bird all the way up to the breastbone.

Pit stop: traveling barbecues

staff writer

HEN BUD DINGEL-DEY'S family said he ought to go into the barbecued chicken business, he took them seriously.

Dingeldey, who has been chief chef for his family gatherings for about 15 years, got himself a pit and turned pro. Have pit, will travel is now the motto of this Plymouth resi-

"I cook whatever people want," Dingeldey said of his first few months in business. "If they want side orders, I serve sides - anything that goes with a picnic."

That includes homemade macaroni and potato salad (from a special family recipe, courtesy of Mrs. Dingeldey), cole slaw and a couple of cheese cassaroles featuring broccoli or potatoes. And, of course, Dingeldey's specialty, chicken.

He has his own special sauce. "That's what makes it real good," he

WHEN HE GETS a call to cater a church dinner or a garden wedding like one coming up next year, he loads up his mobile pit and goes. His grill is about 10 feet square - five feet by two feet - with lava-rock coals fired by propane.

"It'll grill 30 chicken halves at a time," enough for 40 people, Dingeldey said. And it beats using "five or six little grills," like he used when he started. Cooking time is about an hour and a half.

He tan Serve a maximum of 2007 people at the grivate parties he has done so far and is looking to branch out into catering for company picnics. The more people, the better the rate, too. Cost per person for parties of 50 or less is $4.

Though he has done several parties already, this year is not a good indicator of Grill Masters' potential because, "I got started a little late," Dingeldey said. He formed the business last spring and didn't get final approval for his catering permits until July.

Dingeldey, who works full time at Ford Motor Co., figures the barbecue business might be a great second career once he retires. "I like to cook." he said. "I'd rather cook at home than go out to eat."

MARSHALL LOEWENSTEIN of Bloomfield Hills has been in the "port-a-cue" business for two years now. But for Loewenstein, it's a natural carryover from his regular business. Loewenstein is the third generation of his family in the 87-year-old Loewenstein Poultry and Game Co.

of Taylor. He is president and CEO of the company, as well as president of the Chef's Pride Port-A-Pit Bar BQ division.

The company's primary business is as wholesale food brokers who sell to chain stores and food services like restaurants. It also is the biggest provider in the United States of hollday turkeys and hams to companies for employee gifts, Loewenstein

He got into the catering business when "some industry called and asked if we could provide food for company picnics," he said.

"We saw an opportunity to utilize what we were in and to sell additional foods," Loewenstein said. And it was while delivering food to a company picnic that he saw the Port-A-Pit machine he now uses.

MANUFACTURED BY an Indiana company called Nelco, it is a huge, stainless steel monster of a machine on wheels, towed by truck to party sites. It is 18 feet long by four feet wide and five feet high and looks a little like a pop-up camper.

It is literally an assembly-line cooking machine that can turn out 200 chicken halves in a little more than an hour, Loewenstein said.

The chicken halves travel 16 feet on a continuous belt with basket-like tops that lock down over the chicken. The food travels above the coals and passes through a special barbequesauce bath while it is cooking.

The beauty of the machine, to which Loewenstein has exclusive lease rights in Southeast Michigan, is the kielbasa, bratwurst, knackwurst persuasion) all at the

It takes two workers, one to stoke up the charcoal fire and cook, and a helper to run the machine. As many as 10 helpers may serve at a partybarbeque.

They serve up sides like salada. rolls and baked beans. And Loewenstein's operation can be as plain ("just chicken, for $2.75, low-end") or as fancy ("desserts - cake, brownies, ice cream, beer and wine, clowns, for as much as $10-$15") as a client pleases.

Loewenstein has taken his Port-A-Pit on the road to University of Michigan football games, where more than 100,000 fans per game pass his area.

HE KAS BEEN in the Port-A-Pit business for three years, has three pits and hopes to add a couple more. He also hopes to expand to the church/school fund-raiser arena, where barbequed ribs and chicken may soon jostle pancake suppers and spaghetti dinners for popularity.

Anita's can be your Lebanese friend

At the table of Detroit-area dining, one special place setting belongs to Middle Eastern food. Thanks to a large population of Middle Eastern immigrants, diners here can enjoy the fresh, intriguing food that even has the added side benefit of being Locally, Middle Eastern restaurants range from the swank Phoenicia in Birmingham to several inexpensive corner-cafe-type businesses. Among the latter, Anita's Kitchen in Troy is one of the best. At Anita's, you will find very good Lebanese dishes like baked kibbeh (ground lamb and beef with cracked wheat), grape leaves stuffed with ground lamb and rice, baba ghannouge (baked eggplant with sesame sauce, lemon and garlic), or tab-bouleh (parsley) salad, modestly priced and served quickly.

The restaurant touts "health food cuisine" with Lebanese meals "exactingly prepared in the traditional manner, no additives, no preservatives." You can even select foods prepared without salt or olive oil.

Unless you have good Lebanese friends who will invite you to dinner friends who will invite you to dinner frequently, you should make Anita's a regular haunt. Certainly others who have discovered this spot do.

WHILE IT ALS a full "American" manu, we recommend adding a little adventure to your life. If new to Lebanese cuisine, "try a combination plate. One recent special included kafta (lamb and beef "sausages" with onions, parsley and seasoning) - very good; tabbouleh (parsley, tomatoes, mint, cracked wheat and dressing) - excellent and refreshing; deep-fried falafil patties (chick peas and fava beans) - a little dry for our taste, and hommus (ground chick peas and tahini sauce with Jemon and garlic) — terrific

Hommus and other dishes involving garlic can be tailored to your taste, but generally they are prepared milder for lunches than for dinner, in deference to customers who have to go back to the office, says Pierre Farah, one of the own-

Both the hommus and tabbouleh are so popular that Anita's supplies a few area stores with these specialties - including Betty's Grocery and Market Square, both in Birmingham. In fact, Farah contracts with a produce company to guarantee shipment of 15 cases of parsley (60 bunches per case) each week. Once you taste Anita's tabbouleh, you'll understand why.

The fattoush "pita bread" salad ($3.75) can be ordered as a side dish - which we would recommend. It's a bit much as a main entree and is very heavy on the tomatoes. Still, the salad features a wonderful combination of seasonings, including mint and sumac, mixed with onions, parsley, cucumbers and green peppers.

IN THE EVENING, you can choose from six combination platters - or you can order your own combination. How can you lose? And if that isn't enough, Anita's of-fers a selection of 15 two-for-one dinners priced $8.75-$11.95, though only five are Lebanese dishes.

The most popular dinner is the shish tawook (chicken kabab), at $6.95. The boneless, skinless chicken is marinated overnight in garlic, ginger root and paprika and then broiled with tomatoes and green

Every day brings a new selection of specials. On one recent visit, the specials included mjadra (lentils and rice) with cabbage salad ($5.25). The made-from-scratch soups were lemon lentil and black bean.

Somehow, it seems becongruous to see so many American selections on this menu when Anita's offers such a fine, authentic selection of Lebanese dishes. Why go to a Middle Eastern restaurant for a patty melt or a "choice New York Strip"? We just hope that those who do order American also include a side tabbouleh or fattoush salad. Anita's isn't heavy on the ambience, but it is bright, functional and friendly. Seating is primarily in beige vinyl booths or at a lunch counter. The staff is attentive and eager to please. Don't hesitate to ask

A more elegant Anita's will open this December in Farmington Hills in 3,000 square feet of the former Tally Hall, at 14 Mile and Orchard Lake roads. It will undoubtedly be a great success. But for now, we like the charm of Troy's Anita's.

Italian pasta dish a family favorite

In 1973, after graduating from college, I embarked on an adventure that was to have profound and lasting effects on my life and my tastebuds. I was hired to teach English to Italian students at the British School of Milan in Milan, Italy. My students were a fascinating mix, ranging in age from 12-78, and consisted of housewives, students and professional working people, all trying to master the English lan-

Over the course of the year, I received a variety of dinner invitations to my students' homes and to their favorite trattorias, little neighborhood restaurants unknown to the tourists but loved and frequented by the locals. On one such occasion, I experienced a pasta dish that was to become my most favorite thing to eat while in Italy. It was called 'Spaghetti alla 'Carbonara," and because I leved it so much, I quickly learned how to make it.

N. Control of the Con

It is now one of our family's favorite meals, and takes only 30 minutes to prepare. The dish is made with ingredients that are usually on hand. It is a great dinner for those wild and crazy days that we all have, when nothing has been thawed and there has been no time to go grocery shopping, let alone prepare a meal.

I like to serve this with a tossed green salad, dressed up by adding a can of mandarin oranges and toasted almonds. A quick, easy and "delicioso" dinner that encompasses all five of the basic food groups.

I am looking forward to hearing about your family's favorite Winner Dinner. Don't forget that an apron printed with "Winner Dinner Winner" will be given to the person whose menu is selected to appear in this column. As they say in Italy, 'Buon Appetito!" Here's hoping this week's Winner Dinner will help put a little "dolce" back into your "vita!"

Please include a complete dinner menu with recipes as needed. Submit your recipes, to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012.

Each week's recipes are printed the same size, so that you may clip and save them in a three-ring binder — use a paper punch to make holes in the clipping, or paste the clipping on a blank sheet of three-ring notebook paper. Another option is to-simply file the clippings in a folder with pockets that will hold them.

ORANGE AND AVOCADO SALAD

Having been in a basic boring salad rut for a long time, I was delighted to receive this wonderful and refreshing recipe from my friend, Melissa Franco. It is a colorful complement to any meal and well worth the little bit of extra effort that it takes to make it. An additional note, if you have the time, take the almonds and toss them in a pan with 2 tablespoons of butter or margarine and 2 tablespoons sugar. Cook them over low heat until the almonds turn golden brown. Remove them from the heat and when cooled, break them apart and add to the salad.

1 head of iceburg lettuce 1 cup of chppped celery

4 green onions, chopped 1 11-ounce can of mandarin oranges

1/2 cup silvered almonds 2 avocadoes, sliced

Dressing

2 tablespoons sugar 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar (regular vinegar may be substituted) 1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon pepper 1/4 cup salad oil

Wash and coarsely chop the lettuce. Mix the remaining ingredients and toss. Lightly coat the salad with the blended dressing

Allergies present baking challenge

Allergy to one or more foods is not rare occurrence. However, food alples are more common in infants Symptoms include hives, red swollen areas that appear, and itching, as well'as gastro-intestinal disturbunces such as pain, cramping and diarrhea. People with suspected food allergies should consult a physician for a complete physical examination and diagnosis.

Common substances that might cause allergies are milk, chocolate, cola, corn, legumes, egg, citrus, to-mato, wheat, pork, seafood, nuts and peanut butter. Milk, wheat and eggs are the more common food allergies in infants and young children.

Baking without some of the basic food items can be a real challenge. Bread, cakes, cookies and pastries made without wheat, eggs or milk do not have the same taste, texture, appearance or aroma as the other food products. Baked products made without any wheat flour tend to be heavier and more crumbly.

Flours and starches suitable for use in baked products are milled from cereal grains and other starchy pertions of plants such as the roots.

To replace 1 cup of wheat flour substitute 1 cup corn flour, or % cup rice flour, or 1% cups rolled oats, or % cup potato flour, or 114 cup rye flour or 1% cup say flour.

OAT FLOUR tends to produce a somewhat sticky feel in the mouth. Potato and soy flours are best used in combination with other flours. Rice flour can give a distinct graininess to baked products. Rye, barley and oat flours do contain some gluten, so some people will need to avoid them. Arrowrest flour may be used to replace cornstarch: Use % tablespoon arrowroot for 1 tablespoon cornstarch.

Baked products also may be made with whole grains, meals and cereals that are allowed in the diet. Pastry or pie shells may be made with crushed cereals, and rice may be used in place of bread in making poultry stuffing.
Eggs contribute to both the structure and the leavening of baked products. Products made without eggs may be more crumbly. Eggs may be omitted from many cookie recipes with little change in texture.

Read labels on all baking powders since some contain egg white and cornstarch. Substitute 14 teaspoon cream of tartar and 16 teaspoon baking soda for each teaspoon of baking powder. This mixture provides an egg/cornstarch-free leaven-

Mix only as needed. These baked goods require unusually long and slow baking times and will be heavier than you are accustomed to because of the absence of eggs. In developing a batter or dough recipe, increase the baking powder 1 teaspoon for each egg omitted. There are special baking powders available in some markets.

MILK IS USED in many baked products because of its flavor and nutritive value. Water or other liquid may be substituted in many breads, cakes and cookies with very little change in quality. Milk-free margarines may be purchased, or use vegetable shortening only if it contains the fats which can be eaten safely. Vegetable oils may also be used in some recipes but may also produce an unacceptable product.

The texture of quick breads is improved if the dough is allowed to stand in the pan for 20 minutes before helping. fore baking. Muffins and biscuits made of flours other than wheat often have a better texture when made in small sizes. Proper storage is also very important to these products, since they become dry and crumble. Wrap them well and store at room temperature or freeze.

People with food allergies and those who are cooking for people with food allergies should read food labels and be sure the know what they are eating, or preparing. If you do suspect a food allergy, let a physician make the diagnosis. Some medical problems have symptoms similar to food allergies.

Salem socks Vikings, 41-6

Plymouth Salem remained a perfect football team - in terms of its record at least. The Rocks earned a 41-6 victory Friday on the road at Walled Lake Central.

The Rocks, 3-0 in the Lakes Division and 5-0 overall, rolled up 325 yards in total offense while limiting the Vikings to just 158.

"It was a pretty good win, but we made a lot of mistakes," Salem assistant coach Chris Hymes said in reference to Salem's 13 penalties for 125

Senior fullback Pat Bowie led Salem's rushing game, churning up 145 yards on 19 carries. He also scored two TDs. Senior quarterback Rob Kowalski scored twice while rushing for 64 yards on

The Rocks opened up a 14-0 lead in the first quarter. Bowie scored on a 22-yard run early in the quarter, and Scott Rodgers booted the extra point to give Salem a 7-0 lead.

ON CENTRAL'S next possession, Brian Burlison intercepted an errant Viking pass and returned it 30 yards to paydirt. Rodgers' point-after attempt was good, leaving the score at 14-0.

Bowie scored on a 4-yard run in the second quarter, and Ryan Johnson added a TD late in the quaster on a 4-yard run. Rodgers made one of the two PATs as Salem stormed ahead 27-0 at half-

Kowalski took over for the Rocks in the second half. He scored on a 4-yard run in the third quarter and a 7-yarder in the fourth. Rodgers added both extra points as the Rocks breezed to a 41-0 lead with time running out.

Nobody knows what the future holds for the Plymouth Canton football program, but the Chiefs have finally shaken the grip of a painful

The Chiefs, undefeated after five games, made history Friday night at Centennial Educational Park. Their 21-0 homecoming victory over Walled Lake Western assured Canton of its first winning season in school history.

"It's great to get over this thing," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said. "It took us 17 years. Everybody has been talking about it for years and "I think our kids really wanted this. They wanted to get over this obstacle. The whole thing makes everybody around here feel good."

Senior end Jason Dembny spoke of the significance the historic win will have on future Canton teams.

"I THINK IT was a big step for us, because we know we can do it now,' he said. "I think it's going to mean a lot to the younger players. Somebody had to show them how to do it."

Though it was a milestone victory for the Chiefs, 3-9 in the Western Division, Canton was less than sterling on offense, prompting Khoenle to call it an ugly win, technically Western, 1-2 and 1-4, was generally successful at plugging up the middle and stopping Canton's quickhitting runs, but the difference was the Chiefs' swarming defense led by linebacker Jason Bielec.

"The defense gave a little and gave a little but made the big plays' to stop them," Khoenle said. "We've got a lot of quickness, and the kids fly around and get to the football."

Bielec was the leader on a defense that held the Warriors to 89 yards rushing and 115 in total offense. He was in on numerous sacks of Western quarterback Todd Biron and stopped potential long runs at the line of scrimmage.

He wants to win, and it shows in the way he plays," Khoenle said. 'He's an example of why we're where we're at. We have a lot of kids like him who are competitors and play with a lot of intensity."

THE CHIEFS, who gained 156 of their 213 yards on the ground, had enough offense to get the job done and put Canton over the hill in the 1989 season.

Junior quarterback Karl Wukie passed for one touchdown and ran for another, and junior halfback Jason Riggs, who led all rushers with 94 yards on 16 carries, scored the last one.

Canton softened up the Warrior defense just enough with three straight runs for Wukie to loft a 42yard scoring pass to Chris Robinson late in the first quarter. The play, which gave the Chiefs a 7-0 halftime lead, represented nearly half of Canton's first-half offense.

"In the first half, we were not very sharp," Khoenle said. "We made some adjustments at halftime, and things worked out for the best."

Western moved the ball on Canton at times, and Biron had the most success as he rushed for 43 yards on 14 carries. His total would have been better except for a pair of Bielec-led sacks that resulted in a minus-24

But two interceptions, by Riggs and tackle Ron Groh, and a lost fumble contributed to Western's failure to sustain an offensive drive in the first half.

"WE HURT ourselves," Warriors coach Chuck Apap said. "We didn't block on certain pass plays the way we can. We're a young team, starting two freshmen and two sophomores, but the seniors who played

In what used to be a thing of beauty when Livo-nia Ladywood and Farmington Hills Mercy locked horns in girls basketball, instead reminded fans of a back-alley fight Thursday, as Mercy scratched and clawed its way to a 48-37 Central Division win.

The famous names of past state championship-caliber teams were not evident on this night, but the hustle and intensity between the Catholic League rivals still remain

"We're still smarting from our home loss to (Harper Woods) Regina, but this helps," said Mer-cy coach Larry Baker, whose team is 1-3 in the Central and 4-5 overall. "This puts us back in the

The feisty junior came off the bench to score a game-high 17 points, while senior forward Joanne Stephens added 14 and senior point-guard Jenny Clinton contributed 11.

"WE HAD GREAT play from our bench," said Baker, "especially Berrigan (Kathleen) and Gerigk. They did a nice job against the pressure. Not only was it Gerigk's shooting, but also Berrigan handling the ball.

said Ladywood first-year coach Toni Gasparovic.

The Blazers were certainly motivated in the early going, racing out to a 9-0 lead.

But the Marlins didn't panic and once they threw their full-court press at Ladywood, the momentum quickly changed.

"WE REALLY FELT they (Ladywood) were extending their defense and our guards weren't pen-etrating against it," said Baker, who called a late first-quarter timeout. "I told our girls to be as aggressive on offense as we were on defense. We told them it's OK to make a mistake of aggression, but just don't be cautious."

Ladywood, which led 11-4 after one period, was outscored 13-4 in the second quarter. The Blazers, who had an awful time getting past half-court, found themselves trailing 18-14 at the half.

"There was an underlying confidence we could go to pressure and score off it," Baker said. "But I didn't want to us to burn ourselves out the entire

"We couldn't break the press, that was the No. 1 thing," said Gasparovic, whose team fell to 6-4 overall and 6-2 in the Central, "We're going to have to learn to break the press because every-body who scouts us is going to do the same thing."

WHEN LADYWOOD got across the time-line, 6-1 senior center Carl Mitter usually found berself open for a layup. She finished with 16 points.

Meanwhile, Rebecca Willey, the 6-foot junior and team's leading scorer, added 10, but no other Blazer player scored more than four.

"We started off great, with a lot of intensity and confidence," said Gasparovic. "And then we let them back in. We haven't had anybody take a leadership role at point-guard. We've had trouble finding a leader. We have girls who want and think they can do the job, but we can't find anybody yet who can take charge."

Mercy's leader on defense was the 5-8 Walton, who kept Willey off the boards most of the night and added some offense of her own, tallying 10 of her 14 points in the second quarter.

"Walton's a key playing against Willey," said the Mercy coach. "She (Willey) scares me the most because she's a fine athlete.

Mercy, however, refused to back down. It was not an artistic win for the Marlins, but Baker wasglad to take it anyway he could.

North wins Lakes duel; Chiefs blast Northville

North Farmington took a giant step toward establishing itself among the area powers in girls basketball Thursday night.

The Raiders, 6-2-overall, won their third straight without a loss in the Lakes Division and defeated perennial power Plymouth Salem 31-20 in a showdown contest.

The host Rocks, 2-1 and 3-5, have struggled this year but went into the game tied for first in the division and counted a victory over Farmington Hills Mercy among their early

"It was a great game; I loved it," said North coach Greg Capling, who saw his team fall a couple points short of beating Salem in two regular-season meetings last year. "It's a big win for us."

The Raiders jumped in front 10-2 in the first quarter, led 14-7 at halftime and outscored the Rocks 17-13 in the second half.

They played great defense, and we played great defense," Capling said. "They didn't shoot the ball well, and that hurt them."

North's defensive intensity no doubt had something to do with that as Capling indicated the Raiders were intent on winning this game.

"This was probably the hardest the team has ever played for me," he Junior forward Eve Claar scored 17 points to lead North, and Vikki Seamons had eight points and nine rebounds. Amy Post grabbed eight caroms. Betsy McAllister's six points was tops for Salem, and Sarah Ruete added five.

The reason for the low-scoring contest was a combination of good defense and poor shooting.

"We shot the ball a lot and we had good shots." Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "When we had good shots, we didn't make them. North didn't hit a lot of shots either.

"It wasn't a real good game. Both teams did a good job of going up and down the court and defending each

They had a good plan, and they took away what we had inside," Canton coach Bob Blohm said. "We tried always to have two people opposite the ball and move our game outside a little more."

Stacey Thompson added 12 points for the Chiefs, who turned the tables on Northville defensively and led 12-0 at the end of one quarter. Holding the Mustangs to an average of seven points per period, Canton led 28-12 at halftime and 42-19 after three quarters.

"We're still not shooting the ball the way I'd like, but I like the intensity and effort we're putting forth," Blohm said. "It was another division game we had to take care of, and we played with a pur-

North Farmington provided further evidence Thursday why the Raiders are considered one of the area's 500 freestyle (5:23.65) and the 100 freestyle (56.15). She won finest teams in girls swimming.

The Raiders, 3-0 in dual meets, won an inter-divisional showdown with Northville, beating the Mustangs in their own pool, 48-35. Northville is 2-1.

"I thought it would be a real good meet," North coach Pat Duthie said. "We're not accustomed to swimming in a five-lane pool with just two entries. That puts a real premium on first place."

In a five-lane pool, the scoring in individual events is 4-2-1 as opposed to 6-5-3-2-1 in six-lane pools. Relays are scored 6-3-1.

"You can score more points with a first place than you can in the other two," Duthie said. "We were fortunate to come out with our share (of firsts), because

Farmington showdown fizzles out

By Dan O'Mears staff writer

Maybe it was a sense of compassion, or maybe it was a case of bur-

Then again there could have been any number of reasons — injury, true sportsmanship, lack of purpose - why two of Observerland's finest female cross country runners ran but didn't race Thursday when Farmington met North Farmington in a dual meet.

Longtime rivals and friends Lisa Rives of North and Jennifer Kiel of Farmington ran side-by-side the entire race and eventually crossed the finish line together at Oakland Comnunity College in 20:14, sharing first Farmington, as expected, was an easy winner, 191/2-401/2, and the lack of competition between the teams was possibly one reason the respecfive stars pulled back on the reins this time.

Another is the two have already engaged in hearty duels twice this season at the West Bloomfield and Schoolcraft invitationals, and they will cross pathes twice next week at the Redford Union Invitational on Tuesday and the Oakland County meet on Saturday.

BUT THE BEST explanation for the absence of another heated race was the fact Kiel was running in competition for the first time since being involved in an auto accident ast Friday.

"Neither one of us had that great a week," Kiel said, adding X-rays proved negative but she suffered whiplash, a badly bruised knee and minor cuts. "Then I got a cold over

"Lisa has always been a friend of mine, and we really got to work together today. We don't usually get to do that. This wasn't a really important race today.

"It went really fast," she added. "It took my mind off my cold."

Both said their decision to go at an easy pace was not planned or decided beforehand but rather something that transpired as the race pro-

Rives said she would never deliberately hold back from giving her all because of sympathy for the opponent, but she expressed concern after reading about Kiel's accident in last Thursday's edition of the Ob-

"I WAS CONCERNED she might be more seriously hurt and wouldn't be able to run any more this year," she said. "Since we've been competing against each other so long, it's real important we have the best senior year possible.

"I couldn't think of anything worse than ending my senior year without. her. None of the big races would be.

North coach Bill Pinnell, however, said he wouldn't be surprised if Rives, who also has been battling illness, didn't go all out knowing that her competition was 100 percent.

"Lisa is that kind of girl," he said. "Lisa is a sweetheart. She understands what happened to (Kiel), and she might have done that so both could have a good race."

Rives wouldn't say so directly, but one had to wonder if Thursday's race came off the way it did because the victory might have been considered tainted or seen as rubbing it in with Kiel presumably unable to run full

"There wasn't any point we decided to do it," Rives said. "It was just two runners who felt like running. I can't explain it. You have to be a runner to understand."

At the one-mile mark, Rives and Kiel were having an obviously friendly discussion, and it was apparent the anticipated duel would not take place this day.

"WE WERE TALKING about what we've been doing this week and how things were going," Kiel said. "It turns out she almost went to Farmington. We talked about how hard it would have been if we had to run against each other every day."

phere likely to continue Tuesday when Kiel and Rives go head-to-head at RU. Each has won a major meet already.

"We probably won't be talking not during the race," Kiel said.

Pinnell said he talked to Rives about pacing herself for next week, and there might have-been a misunderstanding, with Rives thinking he meant to hold back Thursday.

"She runs to push herself all the time, and I told her not to run herself into the ground," Pinnell said. "My mistake was talking to her this week about next week.

"Today, like everybody, I expected a little tougher race, but she might have figured it was a dual meet and the result would be lopsid-

"IT'S A BIG week next week with RU and county and, believe me, those two will be going after blood those two days," he added.

Helping the Falcons to lock up the city championship - Farmington Hills Harrison didn't have enough runners for a team score - were Jenny Derwinski, third, 21:17; Allison Davis, fourth, 21:31: Gretchen Clappison, fifth, 22:33; and Cheryl Casaroll, sixth, 22:48. In addition, Carrie Walter was eighth (23:07) and Sherri Ylitalo 10th (23:50).

North's Angle Martin was seventh (22:55), Kara Higley ninth (23:40), Adrienne Mocello 11th (23:56), Marie Scott 12th (24:33), Lisa Biederman 16th (26:16) and Lynn Patel 17th

Shamrocks strangle Gallagher in Central

Redford Catholic Central used its familiar mix of a blanketing defense and a strong running game Friday to trounce Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher in a key Catholic League Central Division football encounter at Roseville Memorial Field.

The undefeated (5-0) and unscored upon Shamrocks rushed for 231

Conversely, the Lancers had 157 yards on the ground and 85 more in the air. Star tailback Jesse Johnson led BG with 79 yards on 13 rushing.

The Shamrocks established control on their first possession, taking the opening kickoff and marching 81 yards in 14 plays for a TD. Barbara capped off the drive with a 1-yard plunge. The extra point was no good. leaving the score at 6-0.

CC increased its lead in the second quarter on a 28-yard field goal by Kerry Zavagnin. This completed a 12-play, 52-yard drive. The Shamrocks added two more scores in the fourth quarter to salt the Owens went one yard for the first TD with 8:21 left to play. The score was set up by Mike Thomas' interception of Gallagher's aerial.

CC did receive one bad break, however. Quarterback Jason Carr had to leave the game after hurting a finger in the opening half. Carr was 4-9 for 47 yards before he was injured. He did not play in the second half.

When you feel like climbing

By Loraine McClish staff writer

If you want to play on Sandy Graham's wall, you are going to have to play by Sandy Graham's

"Anybody who wants to play on my wall can come in and stay for as long as they like and we'll work with them as long as they like," Graham said. "This is an open invitation to people who make lousy spectators and want to get excited about climbing - but without wreckless aban-

Graham is talking about the testit-out-for-yourself rock climbing wall in The Benchmark in Farming-

Now, don't go into the store expecting to see a scaled down version of Mt. Everest or the sheer face of Devil's Rock.

The wall is made up of sand and epoxy tiles. Each tile is indented with toe or finger holds in different degrees of difficulty. And all of the tiles are rotated from time to time to vary the patterns for the drop-in

This is not a simulated wall you'd find on the side of a mountain," Graham said. "This will help you with finger and toe, arm and leg

"Climbing is not all vertical. There is push, pull, load to one side and then the other, and the wall will help you test and exercise those skills. It will help you learn how to climb in balance. It will help you practice your moves. It will help in discipline and training."

IT WILL ALSO give you an idea of what rock climbing is all about.

Novice rock climbers must bring a belayer with them, which is one of Graham's rules. A belayer is the buddy who acts as a spotter, a catcher, the controller of the ropes and the climber's number one safety fac-

Rock climbing or snow or ice climbing or any facet of mountaineering is not a very popular sport here, simply because Michigan doesn't have the terrain that is necessary for it, so the Benchmark wall might make a difference, Graham said

"A lot of people walk right by it thinking we've hung an ugly piece of art they'd rather ignore," he said. "Those who stop to ask about it are generally intrigued enough to give it

Graham is manager of the Benchmark store at 32715 Grand River in downtown Farmington, and, along with his staff, is knowledgeable, if not proficient, in all the aspects of backpacking, ski touring, kyaking, canoeing and mountaineering.

And when it comes to rock climbing, it's the "excitement" that keeps Graham climbing.

"Of course, it's scary; if it wasn't scary it wouldn't be the fun and adventure that it is," he said. "It is the most fun when you overcome the fear - one of the first things taught in a good class is how not to look

"I AM NOT A maniac and I don't have a death wish. Rock climbing is a high risk sport and I like it best when I'm running on control."

According to Graham, as the risk factor increases in any high risk sport, there's an increase in the thrill

"But I like my thrills controlled," he said. "I like the thrill of relying on my own skills. If you haven't done your homework and screw up,' it could be a major hazard to your

And how does the thrill and adventure of rock climbing or mountaineering feel to Graham?

"How does root beer taste?," he counters. "You've got to do it yourself to experience it. A very pleasant thing is finding a secure place to sit on a (mountain) wall, watch the birds, enjoy the sights and sounds

"This puts stuff in perspective for me. So what if I'm a day late. So what if I'm fired. I'll get another

Graham emphasized that rock climbers are not necessarily super strong. And neither are belayers. But an 80-pound belaver who knows how to handle the ropes can do the job for a 250-pound man.

Climbers wear shoes with adhesive-type soles that can cost up to $160 per pair and are not good for anything else. They also own a harness, ropes and a lot of hardware to place in crevices giving them grips as they climb the side of a mountain

"YOU DON'T NEED a ton of gear, but you do need a positive and pioneering spirit," Graham said. "Start with the wall. Go as you will. Make your own goals. Progress as you will. Get excited about it."

Graham told a story about getting himself half way up a wall and being in serious trouble.

"I promised God I'd sell my gear. bail out and made all sorts of promises if he'd get me got out of that," he said. "But instead of bailing out, I kept on going up. When I recovered from it, I knew I was really hooked.

"I pushed myself to the limits. It's the greatest thrill you can experi-

Sandy Graham, manager of the Benchmark in Farmington, uses hand and toe holds to scale the store's rock climbing wall. His belayer — a rock climber's first line of defense - is Sandra French, a member of the Benchmark staff.

'Country' makes attempt to heal Vietnam wounds

"In Country" (B+, R 110 minutes) is an often poignant, sometimes maudin slice of life about a lot of good ole' boys struggling to recover from their experiences in Vietnam. It's also about a daughter of one of their fallen comrades, searching for her father's image.

"In Country" opens with Sama-tha's high school graduation in Hopewell, Ky. Sam lives with her Uncle Emmett (Bruce Willis), also a Vietnam vet. Emmett is almost totally distracted from life by the traumatic aftermath of his combat Gradually, as the film progresses, Sam begins to wonder about her father and she ferrets out his old letters and diaries. She nags Emmett and his buddies for information about "what it was like."

One of the structural problems of "In Country" is that it seems rather strange that such a bright young girl would wait so long to wonder about

The film's other major problem is its slowness, a slice of life with very little action. What saves it are the characters who populate the land-scape. They are so well acted that most of the time they're enough to carry the film. In particular, Emily Lloyd demonstrates a rare, fine talig woman strugglir understand the cards life has dealth

FINALLY, THE film is about healing and it concludes with a touching, emotional trip to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial. That healing is foreshadowed earlier in a Vietnam vet dance at the local gym. There, as the drinking continues, the ingrained hostilities surface and two vets fight. They're separated, then they reconcile, shake hands and hug. Somehow that sequence erases all the poison.

The scene has a great deal of pathos with the tacky gym setting, the poor turnout, friends fighting among themselves - all factors emphasizing the loneliness and rejection Vietnam veterans suffered.

"In Country" won't completely heal the wounds of Vietnam, but it is # a moving statement that begins the

"Johnny Handsome" (F, R, 90 minutes) is an ugly movie. It in-tersperses medical graphics, excessive brutality and grisly shootouts with slow, maudlin sequences about poor John Smedley (Mickey Rourke) who was born deformed.

DFT salutes Peckinpah

special writer

Sam Peckinpah's reputation as a hard-drinking, hard-cussing macho western director followed him through two decades and a dozen films. His most famous, "The Wild Bunch" and "Straw Dogs," were visually charged exercises in vio-

But amid all the slow-motion brutality, there was also beauty and poignancy. The Detroit Film Theater pays tribute to Peckinpah this weekend with acreenings of "Ride the High Country" (1962) and "Pat Gar-rett and Billy the Kid."

Playing on Sunday, "Ride the High Country" was the first film to gain Peckinpah international acclaim. Joel McCrea and Randolph Scott (in his last film) play aging cowhands recalling their pasts while guarding a shipment of gold.

Though originally buried in the bottom half of a double bill, it attracted critics' attention and became a minor hit. Many still consider it the finest western of the 1960s the same luck with "Pat Garrett and Billy the Kid" a decade later. Countless problems on the set - many of them caused by Peckinpah himself put the film a month behind schedule. Slapdash editing caused director to disown the film.

Peckinpah had been monkeying with a director's cut from then up to his death in 1985. The DFT will run 16 additional minutes when it screens the film this Saturday as part of its ambitious wide screen se-

Screenwriter Rudy Wurlitzer envisioned the film as an existential story of two mythic western figures on a fateful collision course. Peckinpah changed all that, immediately establishing their relationship, making the final shootout a meeting of two different parts of a collective personal-

For "Pat Garrett and Billy the Kid," Peckinpah compiled his most unusual cast.

Kris Kristofferson was still working in a Los Angeles nightclub when cast as Billy the Kid. He brought his entire band for parts in the film, which also featured James Coburn as Garrett, and Jack Elam, Harry Dean Stanton and Jason Robards.

Then there was Bob Dylan, who scored the film ("Knockin' on Heaven's Door") and had a small part as Billy's friend Alias.

"DYLAN WAS never really clued into what he was supposed to do," Kristofferson has said. "Whenever I'd complain, he'd say, 'At least you're in the script,"

Audiences stayed away, although some critics noted the beautiful wide-screen imagery and lamented a film that might have been. There was simply too much missing - the framing device that shows Garrett as an old man murdered in an ambush and domestic scenes that present him as more than just a killer.

Although there are still problems with the film, added motivation and character development will give audiences a chance to see more of what Peckinpah had in mind.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg

Seldom do old movies evoke great emotion. They may be quaint or fun or interesting or nostalgic, but it's not very often that they have the capacity to move us with the strength of their emotional appeal.
One that does is the 1936 20th Cen-

Miserables"(black and white, 104 minutes), starring Fredric March as Jean Valjean and Charles Laughton as Inspector Javert. The entire cast is excellent although the only other names familiar today are Florence Eldridge as Bishop Bienvenue and John Carradine in the minor role of Enjoirus. Based on Victor Hugo's famous novel, first published in 1862, "Les Miserables" has been available on video tape for some time. If you've passed it by, back track and pick up a copy. You'll be amply rewarded by this touching story of a man con-demned for stealing bread to feed his sister's starving children. It is a story for everyone but, in particular, those who enjoyed Michigan Opera Theater's recent presentation of the Alain Boublil/Claude-Michel Schonberg musical at the Fisher Theater will appreciate the March/Laughton interaction.

ALTHOUGH THE film is much bleaker than the musical, there are many visual similarities and both touch our minds and hearts with the same sensitivity to injustice which characterized Hugo's novel.

The wide popularity of that novel carried over to the cinema and "Les Miserables" has been filmed at least four times in the United States (not including a recent made-for-TV version), five times in France plus at least one each in Egypt, India, Italy, Japan, Mexico and Russia. "Les Miserables" strong condemnation of social injustice is clearly at the heart of its appeal. No matter what time and place, the hungry and their sympathizers readily relate to Jean Valjean (March) who, after a long prison sentence for stealing bread, is told he must carry a yellow

Jean Valjean, the paroled convict, couldn't find work or even lodging in a country inn. And the rigid Inspector Javert (Laughton) was always there to insure compliance. While this may sound outrageous today, there are plenty places around where the hungry, homeless and disenfranchised suffer. They certainly can relate to Jean Valjean's misery. IN 1935 when this production of "Les Miserables" was released, America was in the throes of the Great Depression, a time of economic travail that is difficult to comprehend today. Then the social safety nets we take for granted were not in place.

When Jean Valjean defends his theft of bread — "What else could I do?" - he struck a responsive chord in mid 1930s America, which hungered for bread and social respectability.

A chance encounter with Bishop

Bienvenue (Sir Cedric Hardwicke) changes Valjean's life, but it involves an illegal name-change to escape the despised yellow ticket, the mark of the social outcast.

Wherever Valjean goes, Inspector Javert is hot on his trail. Javert is a man driven, constrained by his own psychological needs to enforce the rules, no matter how injust they may turn out to be.

Laughton is particularly adept in his depiction of this rigid personality, using an overly erect stance, a slight facial twitch and very precise diction. Indeed, a compelling por-

In the nighttime desert, better known as Detroit radio, there is an oasis of new music on the dial

"Brave New Waves" is heard nightly Sunday through Thursday on CBE-FM 89.9 in Windsor, Ont (11:40 p.m. Mondays, 11:10 p.m. Tuesday through Thursdays). The show is broadcast across Canada out of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's studios in Montreal, Quebec.

But American ears, especially those from Detroit, are tuned in as well. When we called the CBC in Windsor, we were quickly told how the show has a big following in our area. When called CBC in Toronto, we heard the same thing.

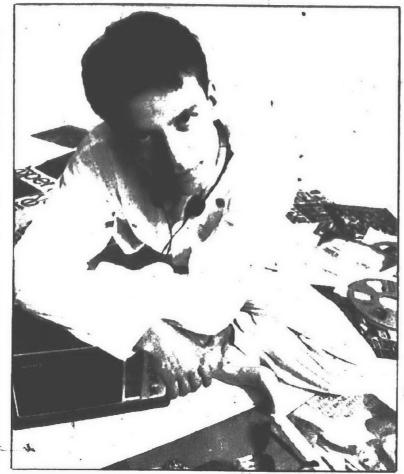

Even the show's host Brent Bambury in Montreal is quite aware of his following in the Motor City, even though he's never been here ("I flew over it once," he said). He regularly receives letters from this area.

"Apparently, it's mostly a suburban type of show," said Bambury in a telephone conversation from his office in Montreal. "Must be all that suburban angst, I suppose.

Perhaps. But more likely it stems from the fact we cannot hear anything like "Brave New Waves" on commercial radio. Most stations here might pay token effort to playing new music, usually regulating it to a late night slot one day a week where a person plays R.E.M., the Cure and Love & Rockets and thinks it's hip.

NOT SO ON "Brave New Waves." The show features some of the best and the obscure music groups from the United Kingdom, United States and Canada.

Also, there are insightful interviews with musicians, such as Billy Bragg, David Thompson of Pere Ubu and Was (Not Was). Nothing like

"WE'RE SORT of a cult entity," Bambury said. "We spread by word of mouth. Usually, somebody hears the show and then tells someone else.

Most people would tell you "Brave New Waves" is a major radio outlet for new Canadian bands. Shows on Canadian radio and television are bound by content laws, but not that Bambury is complaining, mind you.

Especially when groups such as the Cowboy Junkies are able to perform live on the show as the band did before it vaulted to stardom when "Trinity Sessions" was released. Also, Canadian artists such as k.d. lang and Sarah McLachlan certainly have benefitted from airplay on the show.

"It's so much harder to get signed to a major label for a Canadian band, as I'm sure it is for an American band," Bambury said. "We would like to think we're instrumental in helping people through."

In letters, Bambury receives from American listeners, he said there are complaints about radio here. He added Canadians do the same about the lack of variety on their radio.

Bambury has been able to sample American radio fare in his travels. For the most part, he's unimpressed.

"I found the most distasteful was the top 40 and hard rock format, which seems to be prevalent," he said. "I don't have use for Guns N' Roses or third-rate Led Zeppelin clones. Then there is the light rock format, which I think is candy floss for the ear."

The opportunity to make a third solo album arose after the recent Reckless Sleepers tour. Shear sat down as he normally does and began to write some songs.

Except this time around, he composed the numbers on an acoustic guitar. The more he wrote, the more Shear became apart of the songs.

no slouch in the songwriting department. He has a magic touch.

Just ask The Bangles, who hit with the Shear-penned gem "If She Knew What She Wants." Or Cyndi Lauper, who didn't fare too badly with "All Through the Night."

THE POGUES — Power Center 2

Shane McGowan is the curse and toast of The Pogues. At the English band's concert last week at Ann Ar-bor's Power Center, Shane's fall, from grace left his bandmates curs

McGowan, one of rock'n'roll's more celebrated snarlers and drink ers, survived one song before stum bling off stage — to pass out, we presume. His drunkeness forced the band to trudge through the rest of the show without their lead singer.

Pennywhistler Spider Staces jabbed McGowan for "not being on the job," then assumed the lead singer role. The results were mixed.

McGowan's scowl and stage presence are difficult to match. Stacey gets an "A" for effort, and slightly less for performance. He forgot lyrics and forgot to play his pennywhistle. He surely woke up the next morning deathly hoarse.

The band played well, seeming to settle down after McGowan's antics were forgotten. They opened with Boat Train," and tore through most of their latest album, "Peace and Love" in their typical rollicking fashion, dedicating the bittersweet

Garbage garbage

The Amazon rain forest is shrink ing. The hole in the ozone layer is growing. And closer to home, America is running out of places to dispose of its garbage.

That's not surprising when you consider the average person throws away more than a half ton of trash each year. Mercifully, much of our worst junk is kept out of the overcrowded landfills by rotating from garage sale to another.

Research has shown that the largest single source of garbage is network television. But the second biggest culprit is right in your own backyard. In fact, it is your backyard - with its endless supply of grass clippings and leaves.
•In a noble effort to reduce this organic overload, enlightened suburbs are turning to municipal "composting." To make this possible, residents now place their grass clippings in special biodegradable plastic bags for pickup.

The plastic itself is your everyday garden variety linear density polyethelene, (You probably knew that.) But what turns this sack of the future into a bag lady's nightmare is a secret additive made from cornstarch, vegetable oil and fastfood byproducts.

A unique blend of hydrogen, carbon and cheese burgers, this ordinary looking bag excuses itself and politely disintegrates when its contents begin to ferment.

According to scientists, the smart molecular structure of the new bags is designed to spontaneously "break down" after a specified time. This is basically the same thing that hap-pens to your automobile the day your warranty expires.

Granted, if you've ever owned a disposable care before, this self-destruction trick may sound like a big deal, but believe me, it is,

HERE'S WHY. Normal, uneducated trash bags hang around longer than relatives from Cleveland. The tin cans and glass bottles you tossed out this week will still be intact somewhere centuries from now. And while your all-natural catfish boots may turn to mush before you do, synthetic products like plastic milk jugs and styrofoam cups can survive thousands of years.

Smelling big profits, so to speak, several large manufacturers are cashing in one the compost crisis. However, the new biodegradable technology is not without its own risks. Strict—quality control—and precise formulation is necessary. Add too much of the organic trace elements and WHAMMO - the entire disintegration process can occur in a matter of seconds.

Now, here comes the scary part. In their rush to the marketplace, at least one greedy conglomerate was caught taking product shortcuts. During a mix up at shift change, two boxcars of biodegradable additives were inadvertently added to a variety of plastic and rubber products.

The results of this industrial faux pas could be disasterous: "Ladies and gentlemen, this is your captain speaking. The landing gear has disssolved. Please return your seats to the upright position . .

Modern conveniences dependent on plastic could grind to a halt. 'When you're through mopping up that puddle on the floor, can I useyour phone? You mean the puddle is the phone!'

If you think these scenarios are too far-fetched, consider these seemingly unrelated incidents:

• A STOCKBROKER was arrested for indecent exposure yesterday when his suspenders suddenly exploded during intense trading.

• The service department at an auto dealer remains puzzled by a rash of decomposing dashboards.

· Eight boaters narrowly escaped drowning on Orchard Lake when their rubber raft unexpectedly turned into Jell-O.

• Traffic on I-75 was tied up again this morning when the tires on a crowded bus mysteriously melted. .

Fearing a general panic, our government is reluctant to acknowledge the full consequence of this chemical switcheroo. Brace yourself for the awful truth - everything from dentures to lawn furniture is decomposing a million years ahead of sched-

Dear Farmington,
The problem is not the relationship but your indecisiveness. Either you are crazy about him and want to marry him and not have children, or you do not want to limit yourself to a life without children. One or the other, you can't have both.

If you can resolve your own am-

JIM RIDER/staff photograph

Sarah Robertson, 21/2, of Rochester Hills, breaks into the world of modeling by posing with such sticky car decorations as Garfield, Mr. C. Moore Bunz (a moonie), Fido Dido and Lil' Earl the Dead Cat. These are the latest in car accessory fashion, so drop those fuzzy dice!

By Amy Rosa staff writer

Well, fall is here and you know what that means . . . Yep, that's right, time for the annual review of the coming (and currently stylish) fashions for the car!

Get out your notebook, because there are a lot of nifty things on the market these days.

Foremost, you should note that long gone are the days of fuzzy dice dangling from the windshield. If you're cool, you're into any of a number of suction cup applied stuffed animals and dolls.

For instance, almost everyone's seen the orange-striped Garfield the Cat adorning rear and side car win-

Often Garfield might be accompanied by his comic strip buddy Odie, the stupid yellow dog. These items have been around for a couple of years. (Heck, Garfield even appeared in the movie "The Abyss," , attached to the inside of a water roving machine's bubble.)

However, consumer demands have shifted ever so slightly, giving rise to the not-so-cute and somewhat macabre objects.

Window dressing From fur to fannies for you car

A terrific example of this is PACO the Pit Bull. PACO consists of the darn near life-size head of a growling pit bull, two front paws and suction cups to hold them in place.

"When placed properly," state the instructions, "he will appear to be attacking the window glass." Nice.

"WE BOUGHT six last week, and now we're down to two," said Stacey Muran, temporary assistant at A.J. Cheers in Troy's Oakland Mall. "We just can't keep them in stock."

At 35 bucks a pop, Muran said PACO may soon replace another recent car accessory that has captured the market since its release - Mr.

C. More Bunz, a Moonie. Make no mistake, this is not a religious object rather a doll that sticks to a window and drops its drawers on command, via an air pump the driver controls.

"We've had him for three or four months, and he's sold extremely well," said Martha Lawrence, part owner of the gift store "Thingz" in Rochester's Winchester Mall. The last one left in stock had a price tag of $27.99.

"We have to order it constantly," she said.

"What we find is that these items reflect the personality of the customer," Muran said. "Some people get embarrassed trying to describe a certain item that they want."

Another suctioned-cup car doll capturing the public's dollar is called "Fido Dido." A strange name for a strange doll. Fido, also found in Muran's store, is a black and white stuffed figurine that claims no gender, no age and no purpose in life.

Most importantly Fido has no pre-

"Fido is against no one," says the sales tag. Fido also sees everything, judges, nothing, is powerful, comes from the past and is the future, in case you're interested.

ALTHOUGH DOLLS are making headway in the car accessory market, animals are still the favored object of manufacturers. And cats are the heading the pack. Taking off on the Garfield character, is the "Crushed Kitty." This creature, or actually half a creature. is composed of a Garfield-look-alike rear-end and tail. It sticks on one's trunk near the door crack to make it look as though the cat is sticking halfway out of the trunk. Also nice.

It is presumed the makers of this item were sick of seeing Garfield's cute face peering at them from passing car windows. This is so popular that Thingz was currently out of

Included in the cat lineup is "Li'l' Earl the Dead Cat," which is a gray stuffed, although flattened cat. Earl's sales tag reads: "The last cat you'll ever be stuck with." It sells for $19.99, also at Thingz. Earl comes equipped with his own death certificate, listing such important data as name, age (???), sex (too young) and cause of death (curi-

So much for gross.

Now if your taste runs more along the cutsie and not-so-gross line. you'll be happy to know there are a number of things to choose from. Most gift, card and novelty shops sell nice stuffed animals of all sortsrabbits, pigs, dogs, etc., with suction cups for the car.

ONE SUCH PLACE is Memory Lane in the Oakland Mall. There you can find University of Michigan teddy bears, bearing the appropriate lettered sweaters, of course. There are also are other bears with various words printed on their sweaters for · Moving away from the animal arena, let us not forget the hanging igns. Afterall, it could have been the "Baby on Board" diamond-shaped sign that started it all.

Now days expect to find mostly "Batman" signs.

"A lot of them are based on what movie is out," said Mary Keenmon, assistant manager of Southfield's Kids R Us, a subsidiary of the Toys R Us stores.

The Batman collection includes such signs as "This Car Protected by the Joker," "My Other Car is the Batmoblie," and just the plain black Batman sign on a yellow background.

And what besides the fuzzy dice is out of style for cars this fall?

"The California Raisins," said Keenmon. "They hung over the mirror, but they're not popular any

Their customers are, however, not satisfied with run-of-the-mill rides. That's where the partners, who once worked separate jobs, but were pulled together by the love of classic cars, come in.

Barring a trip to Disney World or a sudden inheritance, chances are slim you'll get to drive a genuine classic any other way. It's easy to find Nicholas' and Jacobs' lot in Westland, after discerning an unassuming sign.

At first glance, it looks like a graveyard for dead cars. A closer look, behind the cyclone fence next to Nicholas's dad's tool and die shop; shows it is really a resurrection yard, where cars wait to be restored to original condition.

Measuring for melon sweetness

OMEDAY, a purse-size sweetness meter you carry to the market may help you pick a ripe melon or other fruit or vegetable

Noting that melons which look and smell ripe at the supermarket often have been picked too soon to be sweet, U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers have developed a device that uses light rays to measure just how sweet honeydews, watermelons and cantaloupes are.

The gadget, which is currently the size of a breadbox, monitors melon sweetness by measuring the amount of near-infrared light the fruit absorbs. The more light absorbed, the sweeter the fruit. Unripe melons with only 6 percent sugar can sweeten to the ideal 11 percent in just a few days on

The Agricultural Research Service says that the meter not only helps farmers pinpoint when a melon is ripe for picking, it should also make it easier for wholesalers and retailers to identify vine-ripened fruits.

The meter also works for onions and papayas; peaches and nectarines will be tested

SUNFLOWER SEEDS: On a pound-forpound, dry weight basis, sunflower seeds have twice as much iron as raisins, as much calcium as whole milk, and all the protein of beef but with no cholesterol, according to the ARS.

Researchers suggest three tasty new ways to eat them: sour cream-and-onionflavored, honey-roasted, and roasted and salted in a blend with raisins. These treats are part of a sampler of three North Dakota crops packaged to celebrate the state's cen-

The National Sunflower Association and Sigco Sun Products, of Wahpeton, N.D., packaged the sampler with seven different sunflower, soybean and wheat snacks. Detecting Mushy Apples

An apple that looks crisp might prove to be mushy when you bite into it. So, fruit experts have developed a technique called spectrophotometry, which detects invisible bruises on apples.

The method, say ARS researchers, breaks down a light beam into its individual colors, or wave lengths. In tests by ARS and Cornell University, apples were bruised and a beam of light directed to different parts of the fruit. Damaged areas reflected less light, indicating the bruised areas absorbed it, while undamaged areas reflected more light, characteristic of a healthy apple. Packing houses would use this technique along with equipment they now use for color sorting.

NEW VIBURNUM: ARS has developed a new dwarf viburnum, named Eskimo, expected to be available to home gardeners next year. Reportedly, it blooms profusely and is resistant to bacterial leaf spot. The new variety, developed at the ARS National Arboretum in Washington, D.C., grows slowly under partial to full sunlight in heavy loam soil with an adequate moisture supply. It has glossy, dark, semi-evergreen foliage and is termed ideal for landscaping, hedging or mass planting. After three to four years, it produces snowball-like flowers in early May.

LISTENING TO INSECTS: A high-tech microphone in an acoustic system can tell grain operators when insects are most active among stored grain. The microphone can detect feeding sounds — amplified up to 75,000 times of the lesser grain borer, rice weevil and Angoumois grain moth.

ARS reports. This information can cut costs to farmers and grain operators by telling them - with no need for grain samples — when insecticidal furnigants should be used to do the most good. NEW, RICH CARROT: Beta III, a carrot reportedly three times richer in beta carotene than other carrots - and with good flavor and growth habit has been developed by ARS scientists at Madison, Wis. ARS says it provides hope for improved nutrition, healthier eyes and disease-resistance worldwide.

Warhol Collection at 2 area galleries

Two area art galleries have been designated local distributors of the official Nouvelles Images and Andy Warhol Collection of posters and cards, published by Nouvelles Images of New York.

The complete collection will be available at Grafiskas Art Gallery, 218 Merrill, Birmingham and Nelson's Custom Framing.

16376 Middlebelt Road, Livonia. The collection, the largest ever introduced to the U.S. market, is the first collection authorized by the Andy Warhol Foundation for the Visual Arts. It includes many of Warhol's most famous paintings, such as the series of Marilyn Monroe, Campbell's Soup, and self-portraits.

Upbringing has effect on neatness factor

Q: Your last column stated there is no genetic difference between the organizational abilities of men and women. How about cultural upbringing? Does it have an effect?

A: Yes, there are definitely environmental and cultural differences. Whether or not a person is naturally adept at neatness and order, the beliefs impressed upon people during their formative years do affect life-

A few years ago a set of two tests was distributed in several European countries. One was a questionnaire, the other a test designed to reveal innate ability. Observing the neatness of the countrysides in the various cultures might convince you that the people who live there are genetically different. The questionnaires seemed to confirm these differences, but some of the innate ability tests emed contradictory.

The researchers went back and interviewed a number of respondents in each country. Explanations revealed that questionnaire answers were often motivated by cultural bias, rather than personal feelings. For instance, on one question, "I have trouble keeping my personal papers up-to-date," some respondents admitted that their answers were guided by reluctance to admit to socially unacceptable behavior. In short, the innate abilities seemed equal in all the countries, but the cultural standards caused differencwas reminded of my own German cultural upbringing here in the United States. While not perfectionists, both my parents were very neat. My dad, especially, used to be mortified if he was caught with any kind of mess. Any accumulations or unused equipment had to be carefully hidden from view; to be messy was simply beneath their dignity. (In retrospect I marvel at how calm they remained while guiding the four of us children through our teenage years.)

As I have said before (and to quote whoever said it first): It takes pressure to produce. There are few people who truly cannot be well organized if they try hard enough or if the need is great enough. It may be much more difficult for those who are not innately neat, however, and actually produce stress which would not develop in a naturally organized

You can still enroll in the new "Organizing Your Business Life" seminar series taught by Dorothy Lehmkuhl beginning this Thursday evening, Oct. 5, at Troy Adult Education (879-7582). Her daytime "Organizing for Success" series begins Tuesday at the Birmingham Community House (644-5832) and Wednesday at Schoolcraft College (462-4448).

Timely fashions

Ann Arbor artist Susan Wright has expanded her artistic talents. Noted for painted furniture and weaving, the artist has come up with these colorful, whimsical clocks that can easily double as functional and decorative art. With brightly painted faces,~ the wood clocks are hand-built and battery operated. The clock at the upper left is black and white with a red accent across the top and measures 10-by-10 inches. At the upper right, aqua accents highlight a terra cotta frame outlined in black, measures 15 inches high by 91/2 inches wide. Getting right to the point, the blue, green and gold timepiece at the left is 27 inches high and 20 inches wide. Clocks range in price from $135 to $275. Ariana Gallery, 386 E. Maple, Birmingham.

Retail leases a mine field for unsuspecting

By R.J. King staff writer

When Jimmy Hoffa sat down to discuss a proposed labor contract, his first act was always to accept the document and then immediately throw it in the wastebasket.

His reason? It never pays to work from the other guy's paper.

But if a prospective tenant interested in leasing retail or office space tosses the landlord's document aside, the sidewalk may be the only place left for the tenant to conduct busi-

Before signing a lease, tenants are advised that some leases contain mines waiting to be triggered by carelessness or bad luck, and a company's failure to read and understand the fine print could lead to hefty repair costs, court proceedings or

"In large shopping malls, it is often common for a prospective tenant to be handed a lease 45 to 50 pages long, and there's no telling what can be buried in there," said Rich Schloss, a partner with the Bingham Farms law firm of Weisman, Trogran, Young & Schloss, which specializes in commercial law.

"Everything may appear to be in your interests during the lease discussions, and then the landlord says there's a required form to sign, and hidden in there is a relocation clause where a tenant can be relocated at any time, and at the tenant's expense."

LET THE TENANT beware is Schloss' message.

"It doesn't mean the client couldn't do it (investigate a lease) themselves," Schloss said from his firm's fourth-floor office. "But often times they're not objective."

Tony Trogran, a partner with the firm, explained standard leases for shopping mall space often contain a barricade fee, calculated by the linear foot, for installing a wall to mask remodeling work from the eyes of passing shoppers. 'Unfortunately, the tenant never makes the calculation and up jumps the devil," Trogran said. "For one of our clients, the cost would have been $8,000. In this case, the landlord did waive the fee, but in some instances, the barricade is already up, so you have to watch out."

A tenant's better judgment can go out the window during the rush to open a business, Trogran added.

"Sometimes a tenant will get emotionally involved or fall in love with a certain location, and he agrees to funny things, which he'll probably kick himself later for."

In another instance, some 30 tenants of Tally Hall were greeted by eviction notices last December when the food court was being closed to make way for an F&M health and beauty aids store and other retail

"Tally Hall was a real good example of a bloodbath situation," said Trogran. "The food concept wasn't working and the landlord wanted everybody out. But long before that the landlord took every opportunity to declare default, using such devices as rent delinquency and a mild attitude toward garbage pick-up to terminate leases.

"It was also a dangerous situation for people who bought into a lease at the tail end of the term. People put a lot of money into starting up a standup restaurant assuming the lease would be renewed, and then found out the landlord's plans were much different from theirs."

Robert Schostak, vice president of Schostak Brothers and Co., Southfield, did not return several phone calls in connection with this article.

'In a case like Tally Hall, the only way a tenant can get any remedy is to tough it out," Trogran said. "We represented four clients over there, and each of them received a cash settlement from the landlord. It was just a perfect example of how a tenant can get into trouble."

First opened in 1980, the firm has seven attorneys on staff. They have worked in mergers, acquisitions, estate planning, real estate, bankrupt-

Schloss declined to name clients, but said the firm represents a wide range of businesses from individual professionals and small retail shops to medium-size manufacturers and Fortune 500 companies. In 1988, revenues were $1.8 million. This year, the firm projects revenues of $2.5

In selecting an attorney, the client should never shy away from asking for an estimate and references, Schloss added. As a rule of thumb, fees can range from $100 to $300 for a lease covering a small area of rental space to $10,000 and up for larger stores in shopping malls. But even for a lease covering just 300 feet in a large complex of offices, the landlord might have tucked away in the lease a provision making the tenant responsible for the whole facility if it burned down, regardless

Leasing caveats

Prospective tenants can protect themselves from pitfalls in commercial leases by consulting a lawyer or by negotiating safer alternatives.

Below is a list of common charges and restrictions that often are contained in a lease, according to the law firm of Weisman, Trogran, Young & Schloss. Common advice is to negotiate your position and look elsewhere if discussions fail to accommodate your interests.

• Relocation clause: A landlord may stipulate in the lease that eviction can come at any time and for any reason with the tenant paying the bills. Be sure the landlord picks up most of the costs of relocation.

· Kick-outs: In some cases, the landlord may require a retail tenant to maintain a certain volume of sales and if the sales figures are not met, request that the tenant move out. Try to keep the figures within · Radius restriction: If a landlord owns a great deal of retail property in one area, he may request that the tenant refrain from opening a competing outlet in a certain, predetermined radius (usually five to 20 miles). Negotiate to keep the radius as small as possible.

• Hidden costs: In cases of remodeling, the landlord often will require the tenant to hire an architect. The landlord also may hire a supervising architect to approve work, and in turn charge the tenant for all costs. Always question any costs or e Building allowance: Opening a new store can be expensive as remodeling costs can reach four and five figures quickly. Always inquire whether the landlord will pay for any improvements, especially in instances where property is not fully

• Use clause: Restricts tenants from selling certain items in their store. For instance, in a shopping mall, a jeweler may not sell watches in order that a watch shop next door. isn't put out of business. Always look long-term and try to keep merchandise restrictions to a minimum.

Information age requires new workplaces

By Marilyn Fitchett staff writer

David Lathrop defines "old work" as NTG - "nose to the grindstone." He defines "new work" as TLC squared - "thinking, learning, creating and communicating."

"Old work," when an employer knew his employee was working because of the number of widgets he produced, is just about gone. Today, "new work" efforts are more likely to result in an "intangible product," such as an idea. The challenge then for office designers is to provide an environment that facilitates the methods of the "new work" - communication, concentration and teamwork.

That was the message Lathrop delivered when he addressed a seminar, sponsored by Contract Interiors for its customers, Wednesday at the newly opened Standard Federal Bank building in Troy. Lathrop is a senior analyst in the advanced marketing group at Steelcase Inc., the Grand Rapids office furnishings manufacturer.

'We have to try to bring the changes into a logical focus," Lathrop said. "We have the opportunity of doing a better job of patching together reality and understanding the

LATHROP ADVANCED the theory of Frank Becker of Cornell University, who said a company falls into one of three categories based on its use of offices.

"During the course of organizational growth and change, the idea of how we manage facilities goes through three differ-

The first phase, the "loose" phase, is during a company's startup, when the owners are "not the least bit concerned with the facility. They take no .control," Lathrop

The second, or "tight" phase, occurs after company has grown.

The company becomes concerned about vast resources it has tied up in its assets, in its facilities," Lathrop said, noting that Union Carbide has 25 to 28 percent of its total capital assets in facilities.

"That's staggering. Are those assets working for you? Are those assets making profits for you? So we institute facility management to develop a good handle on what's going on."

THE THIRD phase is elasticity, when 'you control what you need and don't bother with the rest.

"Very few are doing this. When we have 25 percent of our assets tied up in facilities perhaps we get to the point of controlling things which are dysfunctional to control.

"It bears some consideration on our part when we have begun to manage more than we need to manage and whether we can back off a little bit and allow people to have some control of their personal work

"Maybe there's some room in that elastic area to allow work environments to come back under the control of people while not compromising the values of 'tight.' "

LATHROP PARTICIPATED in the discussion that preceded the design of Steelcase's newly opened Corporate Development center and explained how the building aims to support work activity.

"The idea of a work setting is that in the information age people don't just do work that can be easily accomplished in one kind

"So we provided different kinds of settings which were designed to facilitate different kinds of things.

Constitutionality of condo law in question

As a co-owner, I am concerned about a recent change that the legislature adopted which allows condominium associations to change their documents by obtaining twothirds of the co-owners approval, even though the documents themselves call for a higher percentage and, in some cases, 100 percent. To me that provision seems unconstitutional and unreasonable since I bought with the expectation that these documents could not be changed unless a supermajority is obtained. Is this law constitutional?

There are many attorneys who believe that the recent amendment to Section 90 in the Condominium Act is unconstitutional and ill-advised. While it was ostensibly passed in order to assist certain associations who have difficulty obtaining 100 percent approval to amend certain parts of the condominium documents, the section is also subject to abuse in that certain vested rights of co-owners may be taken away that were d to them under the documents when they purchased their condominium unit. Also, there is a serious question as to whether the statute as passed affects any adominiums that were established prior to July 1, 1978 under the original Horizontal Real Property Act. This taste will no doubt be litigated in the near future condo queries Robert M.

since it results in significant ramifications to condominiums associations throughout the state as well as their attorneys. Those attorneys who want to unequivocably tell their clients that this statute is applicable to their condominium associations may best be advised to make sure that their malpractice insurance is up to date.

We are a homeowners association and are having problems with the builder across the street who wishes to build a large commercial shopping center. We are wondering what efforts can be undertaken by as with respect to blocking this matter and whether, in your experiences, you have any suggestions on what is the best course of action.

Hopefully, your homeowners association is sufficiently well funded to engage in litigation, if necessary, in order to block the commerical enterprise if you have a legal basis to do so. Of course, your primary focus should be on the political ramifications of the commercial enterprise including whether rezoning is necessary, and whether a site plan has been approved by the municipality with respect to the developer's project.

Get your homeowners to attend meetings of the planning commission or another relevant agency to express your opposition to the site and to meet with the developer of the site with the benefit of counsel to see whether any negotiations can lead to a resolution of the dispute. Finally, if all else fails, consider legal proceedings, if appropriate, to preserve your rights and interests.

Robert M. Meisner is a Birmingham attorney specializing in condominiums, real estate and corporate law. You are invited to submit topics which you would like to see discussed in this column, including questions about condominiums, by writing Robert M. Meisner, 30200 Telegraph Road, Suite 467, Birmingham 48010. This column provides general information and should not be construed as legal opinion.

A frequent winter activity is "jump starting" a car which fails to start on its own.

This can be a very dangerous procedure and care should be taken in performing the proper steps and in selecting the proper booster cables.

Here is the recommended way to make booster cable connections safely:

- Be sure both cars have electric systems of the same voltage and both are negative ground systems.
- Position cars so batteries are as close together as possible. Cars should not touch.
- Batteries emit explosive hydrogen gas. Therefore, avoid sparks and do not smoke. For added protection, cover the top of each battery with a damp cloth and wear safety goggles.
- · Connect positive clamps to the positive (+) posts of the two batter-
- · Attach one negative clamp to the negative terminal of the good battery.
- Connect the other negative clamp to a good ground on the engine, frame or body of the second car. NOTE: Make this final connection at point as far as possible from the battery to keep sparks from occurring in booster cables to look for are a tanglefree design; long cables that reach across cars when batteries cannot be situated closer: properly insulated clamps to minimize the chances of metal-to-metal contact that causes sparks; and built-in warning lights that indicate if incorrect clamp connection is about to be made.

A motorist carries booster cables for one purpose: that they can be used in an emergency to help start a vehicle. Knowing how to buy and use them is very important also.

The average American automobile consumes 475 gallons of gasoline and gasohol per year, according to the 1989 Highway Fact Book, published by the Highways Users Federation.

At the high end of the scale were drivers in Kentucky with 678 gallons each, and at the low end, an average of 281 gallons were consumed by motorists in the District of Columbia.

Put down that book. Forego the walk. Put the VCR on pause. Instead, . spend that 30 minutes preparing your car for winter, AAA Michigan advises.

"A half-hour is all it takes to perform a winter car care checkup, said Robert Tellier, AAA Michigan Emergency Road Service manager. "The test is easy and helps detect minor problems that could turn into major hassles when your car won't start on a cold winter morning.

The only items required are the owner's manual, tire pressure gauge, screwdriver, antifreeze hydrometer and baking soda.

"At our winter car care clinics last year, more than 90 percent of tested vehicles had at least one problem requiring attention," Tellier said. "The most common problems were low tire pressure and improper antifreeze levels or strength.

To perform the check-up. AAA Michigan recommends these 12 steps:

• BATTERY — Use a wire brush dipped in a baking soda/water solution to clean battery terminals and cable ends, but do not splash on painted surfaces. If the battery is not maintenance-free, make sure water is at the

• TIRES - Check pressure with a gauge for correct inflation and inspect tread wear, including the spare. For accuracy, check inflation pressures when the tires are cold. A "cold" reading can be taken when a car has not been driven more than one mile or after sitting for three hours or more.

• ANTIFREEZE - Use a hydrometer to check the antifreeze strength in the radiator. The recommended level is 36 degrees below zero. Also check the level in the overflow

 OIL — Use dipstick to check oil level. Add oil as needed. Check owner's manual for exact intervals between changes and for SAE viscosity grade. Some car manufacturers suggest lower viscosity during winter.

• Brake fluid - Keep the level within one-quarter inch from the top of the reservoir. Use a screwdriver to pry off the chamber's cover clips. Some vehicles may have screw-off caps. New models have translucent reservoirs and can be checked visually.

• POWER STEERING FLUID - Follow directions in owner's manual when checking the indicator stick. If fluid is needed, add slowly to avoid · AUTOMATIC TRANSMIS-SION PLUID - Check indicator stick, usually located behind engine on passenger side. The car should be on ground level and placed in "park" position with the engine running.

Winter survival kit

The motorist's winter survival kit should include: a coffee can, candle and matches/lighter for heat; sand/cat litter and carpet strips for traction; shovel; ice scraper/brush; boots; newspaper, blanket and food; jumper cables; tools and flashlight; first aid kit; flares/reflectors and tire chains.

Motorists should pack a winter survival kit

An empty coffee can, candle and newspapers don't conjure up warm images, but the three items could be lifesavers if you're stranded this winter, according to AAA Michigan.

Those items should be included in a winter survival kit for your car, advises Robert Tellier, AAA Michigan Emergency Road Service manager.

"The dozen or so items in the survival kit take up little room in your trunk but are essential during a winter emergency," Tellier said.

The winter survival kit should con-

Tire checkup important in maintenance plan tion can increase rolling resistance and

Tire and related automotive care is extremely important to motorists concerned about the safe and economical operation of their cars.

Since 1921 the National Tire Dealers and Retreaders Association (NTDRA) has shared that concern for the well-being of the nation's motoring public and now as a supporter of National Car Care Month/October, offers these important car care tips:

• TIRE INFLATION: Proper in-

You can't tell when tires are underinflated just by looking at them. Since air pumps are not always accurate, NTDRA recommends that you either stop by a tire dealer for an inflation check or carry an accurate air gauge in the glove compartment.

Tires should be checked at least once a month and before any long trip. Underinflation creates excessive heat, which seriously reduces tire life and can cause tire failure. Also, underinfla-bump or pothole. If any of these problems are noticed, motorists could avoid excessive and expensive damage to their cars and tires by having the sus-steering components is in order.

"Starting a 4-cylinder engine is more difficult than a V8, especially in cold weather," he says. "That's why 5W-30, with its less thick cold-weather formulation, is recommended."

Bowditch also advises motorists against assuming that synthetic (chemically formulated) oils allow longer intervals between oil changes than mineral (oil-based) oils.

While it is true that synthetic oils generally provide easier cold starting and are more resistant to high temperature oxidation than mineral-based oils, he says the main reasons for oil changes are the same, whether you're using synthetic or oil-based:

· ADDITIVES in the oil that pro vide protection against rust, corrosion, wear, deposit buildup, oxidation, etc., are used up over time, and OIL becomes contaminated with foreign matter that must be removed with oil and filter changes.

Because of the experience with synthetic oils and the information provided b y others over the years," Bowditch says, "MVMA member companies approve the use of synthetic engine oils as long as the oil satisfies the performance and viscosity require ments specified in the owner's manual and is changed at the manual's recommended frequency — either 3,000 miles/3 months or 7,500 miles/12 months, depending on the service.

"Motorists should remember that oil is the life blood of their vehicles and their best bet is to follow the advice of the people who build them,' Bowditch savs.

Winter washing

Preserves car's clean coat finish

Winter may not be the most enjoyable time to wash your car, but you can be assured that it's one of the most important times. Environmental conditions, coupled with sand and road salts, can be harmful to today's special clear coat paint finishes.

Simoniz, the makers of a new line of "non-ahrasive" car care products, offers these simple tips to properly care for your clear coat finish this winter.

The first step to proper car care is to determine whether the vehicle has a conventional or clear coat finish. Without this knowledge, good intentions may lead to irreparable damage in the form of swirls and tiny scratches in the finish. The best way to identify a clear coat finish is to ask your dealer, or check a new reference manual from Simoniz, available wherever Simoniz car waxes are sold.

A "clear coat" finish is essentially a clear acrylic layer that seals in a thin color coat. While a clear coat provides increased depth and luster, it is susceptible to abrasions. Since 1980, clear coat finishes have played an increasing role in the manufacture of imported and domestic automobiles. As many as 90 percent of newer cars have clear coat finishes.

Fall is the perfect time to prepare your car's exterior for the onslaught of winter. Begin with a thorough washing. Make sure to keep your car clean all winter, just follow a few quick and simple tips. Keep your car as clean as possible during the winter, either by washing it yourself or by taking your car through a brushless or frictionless car wash. If you don't have time to wax, you can still obtain a quick shine with Simoniz Quick Gloss. Just spray it on and wipe it off to replace silicone oils lost during the natural weathering

If you follow a regular maintenance " schedule, you car should make it through the winter without a hitch.

Perform better? Well...

Does a clean car run better? Car Care Council says this is more a state of mind than a matter of fact. At least a clean car feels better.

A clean car will last longer, too, emphasizes the council. Even late model vehicles with more durable, high tech finishes need frequent washing and periodic polishing and waxing to protect them from the ravages of the elements, air contamination, road salt and tree sap.

The council offers these tips on car washing, whether you do it yourself or drive through an automatic facility.

· Avoid car washes with the oldstyle bristle brushes. They can damage paint. Instead, look for the brushless type with cloth strips that are more gentle on the surface. Note, too, that car washes that use high pressure iets of water instead of revolving brushes may cause water to enter your car or damage loose trim

• If you're washing it at home, work in the shade. Washing on a hot

Ways to steer clear of winter skidding

Skids on icy roads can be easily corrected if drivers don't hit the brakes and remember a few simple steps. according to AAA Michigan.

Hard acceleration or braking, speed too fast for conditions and quick jerky movements of the steering wheel are the primary causes of skids

The best way to avoid skidding is to reduce speed in advance of curves, turns or when changing lanes and make smooth, precise movements of the steering wheel.

But if you do experience a skid, don't panic, hit the brakes or jerk the steering wheel. Instead, use gentle steering movement to regain control. FOR A REAR-WHEEL skid, this is

• De-clutch on a car with manual transmission. On a car with automatic transmission, take-your foot off the gas pedal and shift to neutral (should be practiced). This will equally distribute the power to all four wheels.

· Steer in the direction you want the front of the car to go.

• Just before the rear wheels stop skidding, counter-steer until you are going in the desired direction. (Drivers of rear-wheel drive cars should be prepared for a possible rear-wheel skid in the opposite direction if they overcorrect for the initial skid.)

Tips to help you find a competent mechanic

If it's autumn, it must be time for car maintenance. While some people make countless trips to auto parts stores and do their own work, other motorists concentrate on football games and fall leaves, wishing the whole issue would just go away.

Whatever your feelings about car maintenance, one thing is certain: Vehicles that are not serviced and prepared for winter conditions stand a good chance of breaking down sometime during the cold months. An inconvenience during the summer, a breakdown in the winter could be deadly.

To help vehicle owners get their cars and light trucks ready for winter driving, the non-profit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) offers the following car care tips and advice about finding competent auto repair.

SOME OF the maintenance tips are easy to do: others may require a skilled auto technician.

1. Whether or not you plan to do the work yourself; read your owner's manual. In addition to containing information about the vehicle's components, the manual lists the manufacturer's recommended service intervals. Follow these schedules.

2. If you simply aren't the do-ityourself type, find a good repair shop and become a regular customer.

Among the ways to identify a reputable establishment: word-of-mouth recommendations, a good record with local consumer groups, the availability of modern equipment, a courteous staff, basic orderliness, the presence of customer service awards, professional diplomas and certificates, and signs of advanced training.

Shop policies should be posted or someone should be willing to explain them to you.

3. AN INCREASINGLY popular way to judge the competence of individual mechanics is to look for standardized credentials. Certification is esnot already know a competent mechanic.

tive Service Excellence is unusual in offering the only industrywide credentials for automotive technicians.

. Technicians certified by ASE have passed national competency exams and have at least two years of on-thejob experience. Tests are given semiannually at more than 400 locations.

Certified technicians wear blue and white shoulder insignia and carry personalized credentiels listing their spe-cialities (brakes, engine repair and soon). Employers often display technicians' ASE credentials in the customer. service area and post an ASE sign on the premises.

Approximately 235,000 ASE-certified technicians are nationwide in dealerships, service stations, independents garages, etc. 4. WINDSHIELD WIPERS should be inspected and new blades installed if the old ones show signs of wear. The washer fluid reservoir should be filled with a good grade of washer solvent capable of resisting freezing. (Never add engine antifreeze to the washer reservoir - it can splash and ruin your vehicle's finish.) 5. Give your car a good washing and thorough waxing to help protect its finish from the road salts and chemicals you will undoubtedly encounter.

6. Headlights, turn signals, flashers, and back-up and brake lights should be checked and replaced if burned out.

7. A weak battery and loose or corroded cables are certain to cause trouble in colder weather when you will need maximum cranking power.

Clean cables and battery posts; tighten all connections. The alternator drive belt should be inspected for tightness and condition. Replace if glazed or frayed.

8. TIRES SHOULD be inspected for nicks, cuts, tread wear and proper pressure. (Let the tires cool down before measuring the air pressure.) Cupping or uneven wear indicates. worn parts or an alignment/balancing problem should be corrected at a good
