Everyone loves a winner pecially the students, teachers and administrators at Plymouth Canton High School.

As the undefeated Chiefs prepared for their sixth football game of the season last week, there was no mistaking that in large measure they're due the credit for the intensity of school spirit evident at Can-

Unlike Plymouth Salem High School next door, which also got off to a 5-0 start, Canton hasn't seen a winning season in 17 years.

Halls are plastered with pro-Chief posters and banners. Canton sweatshirts, T-shirts and stickers are selling like crazy at the Chief Connection. Lots of students can be seen in red and white jerseys and cheerleading uniforms.

"THE SCHOOL is decorated every week," said Renee Bradley, a Canton junior. "And everyone wants to go to games."

Media reports of racial tension worry officials

By Diane Gale staff writer

Plymouth-Canton school officials fear radio and news media coverage of confrontations between skin heads and other students will encourage youths to engage in more incidents for attention.

"I hope we don't re-invent the problem," said Tom Tattan, Plymouth-Canton High School principal. The kids will feel they have to do something."

THE OBSERVER reported last week that there were racial incidents involving skin heads at the Centennial Education Park, on the campus that houses Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools, on Joy and Canton Center roads. The most recently reported incidents took place in late Septem-

Tattan said he became concerned about media coverage when he was approached by WWJ radio and WDIV television reporters who told him they became aware of the incidents after reading the Observer ar-

"There hasn't been tensions between the kids during the course of the week," said Tattan on Friday. "It could be a very volatile situation if it's blown out of proportion.

'You know what could happen when a camera goes on," he said adding that the students might want to create a racial incident for report-

Two police reports about students involved in racial incidents were filed with Canton police last month, according to Pat Nemecek, public safety information officer. THREE SKIN heads jumped two

Educator on the mark to run marathon to aid kids in need

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

Before the sun comes up Sunday, Oct. 15, Plymouth's Bill Halvangis will make his way to Jackson Park in Windsor, strip down to his singlet and shorts and join thousands of shivering, jittery runners at the starting line of the Detroit Free Press International Marathon.

As the themes from "Rocky" and "Charlots of Fire" blare in the predawn darkness, the sense of adventure will rise.

Before the starting gun fires, runners, wheelchair competitors and walkers will focus on a single thing - the physical and mental challenge of reaching the finish line 26.2 miles away on Belle Isle.

When the 20-mile mark nears and excitement is giving way to pain, some will search their souls, wondering why in the world they volun-teered for this grueling ordeal.

It's a question Halvangis, a stu-dent assistance coordinator at Churchill High School in Livonia, won't be asking himself.
"I always enter these things woefully under-prepared. But I love get-ting on the starting line," said Haivangis, who ran the Paris Marathon last April. "I love the adventure. I'll stand there and get excited. I will know it's a grind, but it'll be mental-marathon, is running. Through the Livonia Public Schools, Halvangis receives funding for classes and programs benefiting students with special needs stemming from substance abuse, family and other problems. But for the additional, non-traditional activities Hal-do things like going out to Grand Ledge to go rock climbing," said Halvangis, an avid kayaker, backpacker and skier.

With the money I raise, we'll go

The idea is "to show people you can do drug-free activities. You don't have to get high to be able to enjoy it." Kids gain confidence when they challenge themselves to do something they've never done be-Halvangis estimates 400 to 500 of Churchill's 1,700 students are involved to some degree with substance abuse.

City to pay $145,921 to former inspector

By Kevin Brown staff writer

The city of Plymouth could have settled this legal battle for $11,000 three years ago.

A few months later, they could have settled it for $89,140.

Instead, the city will pay $145,921 to settle with a former chief building inspector who "lacked political sen-sitivity" and claimed wrongful discharge from his position in 1982.

The Plymouth City Commission voted Monday to settle the lawsuit brought against the city by Edgar Talbot following the state Court of Appeals ruling in May.

Our leave of appeal was denied," said Ron Lowe, city attorney. Therefore we were left with only one real option, to pay the judgment and interest."

"That's quite a hefty punch to take," said William Graham, acting city manager.

To pay the settlement, the city will borrow the amount from its water fund. Officials have yet to decide where the money will ultimately be taken from the city's budget, which totals nearly $10 million.

Talbot, hired in July 1973 as chief building inspector for the city, was laid off in July 1982 when his pension was within two years of vesting, due to economic conditions, accordTalbot claimed that this violated his employment contract "as he was the most senior employee in his department," the appeals court ruling

The case came to trial in 1986 in Wayne County Circuit Court, after the city, on the advice of the Michigan Municipal Risk Authority, rejected an $11,000 settlement for Talbot reached through mediation.

When the jury in that trial awarded $89,140 to Talbot, the city continued to appeal the verdict and award. "We did not feel it was worth $11,000 then (the original settlement) and we do not feel it is worth $11,000 now. We are appealing it," said former city manager Henry Graper at the time.

Ted Andris, counsel for Talbot in the 1986 jury trial, summarized the case brought against the city:

"The discussion when he was hired included discussion of seniority rights, and the only reason for discharge he could anticipate would be for doing unsatisfactory work."

Andris said Talbot was discharged when the city chose to have an engineer and an engineer's aide perform building inspections, "allegedly because they did not need a building inspector to do the work of a building inspector. Each had four years less seniority."

Also at the time, the city's attorney in the matter, Ron Acho, said Talbot was laid off "for economic reasons. He chose to turn down the city's offer to work on a contract basis for as much or more."

As stated in the Court of Appeals ruling, Talbot testified that he was told "that he lacked political sensitivity," as he had found the buildings of three prominent businessmen to be in violation of code restrictions.

The court ruled that while the city had demonstrated economics played a part in the layoff, Talbot's testimony "established political motivation for the layoff and a factual question existed as to whether (the city) orally promised and then breached a promise that layoffs would occur on a seniority basis only.

Talbot is a building inspector for the city of Livonia.

Through activities like these, kids "become part of a value structure. There's a good feeling, and bonding, that comes out of it," said Halvangis.

Why bother? "Families aren't always there anymore, mostly as a result of a more hectic pace. Parents are working, and don't have the luxury of having time to put things together like they did in the old days," he sald. "A good number of kids have families who do little to nothing at Christmas.

'As a community, we really don't take care of what we used to take care of."

All of this compounds the jumble of feelings that can overwhelm young people, he said.

Rejection or embarrassment can go to mad so quickly." Halvangis tries to help young people "get in touch with their inner selves, identify feelings and put a handle on them.

When you do that, you have a chance to sort out what was disorganized and overwhelming. When you can put some organization to it, then you can figure solutions to problems. If you can do that, you're not overwhelmed. You have some ability to work through the process,"

Halvangis, former manager of the Sportventure shop in Plymouth, confronted a challenge no one else did in the Paris Marathon. He broke his foot at the halfway point. He had it taped, and managed to finish. He blames the whole thing on vanity.

"I saw a friend near the Eiffel Tower taking pictures. I was in the middle of the road, so I veered to the right so she could get a curb shot. I stepped on a ridge at the side of the road and heard a cracking noise.

While he's looking forward to experiencing the self-gratification and self-esteem that running a marathon can foster, he doesn't like to take a lot of credit.

Is Your Child Too Small?

Most kids grow at their own rate. And there's nothing to be alarmed at if they're a little above or below the growth chart.

For some children, though, it's different. For any number of reasons, they just don't grow like other kids do. But if treated in time, many of them can be helped.

And that's the purpose of the Growth Assessment Clinic sponsored by Pediatric Associates of Farmington, in affiliation with Children's Hospital of Michigan and the Human Growth Foundation. If you're worried about your child's growth pattern, give us a call at (313)

We'll set up a private screening on Saturday. October 14. And it won't cost you a penny.

The good side of a robbery

(The following column by guest the Diane Wagner-Price is a first person account of what it means to be the victim of a purse-spatching and be helped by

It happened so quickly they must are thought, at first, that it was a un of the mill domestic argument. I said cell them "bystanders," because they didn't just nity spirit and concern for others brought about a happy ending to a Monday, Oct. 2, robbery at night in the parking lot of the Livonia F and M Distributors.

As I was getting into my car, a scraffy blond man in a T-shirt and jeans walked toward me, asking directions to Telegraph Road. I was put off guard for a moment. As I formulated my response, I wondered how someone looking for Telegraph came to be at the corner of Middlebelt and I-96.

That pause for thought gave him time to reach me and shove enough time to reach me and shove me backward. "Never mind," he said, grabbing my shoulder bag from my car, "I just wanted your purse."

THE RELIEF I felt in knowing it was only my paycheck he was after quickly turned into a cry of anger. I had been willing to help him yet he took advantage of me. It was here that my adrenalin kicked in and, let me tell you, adrenalin is dangerous

I'm a five foot tall woman and he must have weighed 180 pounds but I launched out after him. "You pig," I yelled, catching him by his shirt and swinging him into a parked car, "Give me back my purse." He pulled away, knocking me to the ground, and ran toward his pickup truck.

I chased him, ready to grab him again but, thank goodness, reason suddenly returned. (If I live to be 90 I hope I never do that again.) What would I do if I caught him? I'm all alone here, I thought.

I thought wrong. Other people from the parking lot were running toward us, a well-dressed businessman in the lead. Just as my would-be the robber shifted into drive and sped away.

"He got her purse," I heard a Whitney Houston look-alike say to an athletic older man who cursed and ran to his black sports car.

"Get the license number." "Call the police." "Are you OK?"

VOICES SWIRLED round me as I ran to the phone.

The Livonia Police Department immediately got to work. While the desk sergeant kept me on the phone with questions asked in a calming tone, a patrol car scoured the area for the truck. Two couples who had witnessed the attack volunteered the license number and description of the vehicle.

By that time, reaction had set in and the Whitney Houston woman put off her shopping until she was sure I was not in shock. The businessman stopped to say he had put my bag in my car. Until then, I hadn't realized a package was in my hand when the fracas began.

People who had seen the attack came by to offer help, their encouraging and sympathetic smiles giving me the courage to hold myself to-gether. It's nice to know there are such people in the world. Almost worth a robbery.

A police officer drove up to take my statement and further news came in over the radio while we were talking. The man in the black sports car had followed the thief to the Livernois/I-96 area before calling it in to the police department.

LATER THAT evening, I received a call from a detective.

The suspect had been captured and my purse was intact.

"Wonderful," I said, "Your department does good work."

"Yes, we do ma'am," he replied, But we had a lot of helpful witnesses in this case. When people give us that much information, it sure makes our job easier."

Then he asked if I would appear in court the next day to press charges. Would I press charges? I sure would! When people go out of their way to help me I say, "Thank you."

Thank you, Livonia.

A stranger in a not so strange land

WE AMERICANS don't usually think of ourselves as foreigners. Our world view is such that we're accustomed to thinking of others as the "different" ones.

We don't, for instance, think of NASA as a foreign space agency, but that's how NASA is labeled in an exhibit at The Science Museum

I noticed that right away when I visited the museum, and was a bit startled. From the British perspective, of course, NASA is exactly that. For us, space exploration has been such a part of our history that it's easy to assume all other people share the same point of

This was my second trip to England, and the first time I'd visited Scotland. One of the most enjoyable aspects of travel, I've found, is seeing how other people live.

We were fortunate enough to meet and spend some time with a couple from Lincoln. My husband and I went to a soccer game with them, saw some of the local sights, visited their favorite pub and stayed at their home one night.

DIFFERENCES LARGE and small are easy to spot. Their home, for example, had no screens on the windows. Our hotel in London was similarly equipped.

They didn't know what screens were, so we provided the best explanation we could. It's difficult to explain something so commonplace to us yet so unfamiliar to others.

They asked us if the United States had any open land left, and were surprised to learn that some states have nothing much other than open land. They'd heard that Americans eat a lot of clams, and were a bit surprised to learn that's not necessarily so.

Certainly, we Americans don't know everything there is to know about living life elsewhere. It's difficult to acquire the beginnings of that knowledge during a 12-day trip, but making the effort is rewarding.

I didn't know much about the workings of electrical outlets in the United Kingdom. We'd taken various adapters with us and put one of those to good use when the time came to do some ironing. Even so, I couldn't figure out why the travel iron wouldn't heat up. Eventually, I discovered a small switch on the electrical outlet. That switch had to be flipped or else the outlet wouldn't work.

Driving on the left side of the road was too bewildering for us, so we took trains and let our English friends do the driving.

OTHER DIFFERENCES were more noteworthy. One of the enjoyable parts of our trip was being in the audience for the taping of a BBC radio show. Much of the British humor went right over our American heads. We didn't understand many of the political references - although we were aware that the Duchess of York (also known as Fergie) was expecting a baby and had recently written two children's books.

News from the home front was limited during our trip. We heard about Mayor Ed Koch's defeat in New York City and about the destruction caused by Hugo. Detroit's election outcome and other stories didn't make it across the ocean into the newspapers and broadcasts.

On the other hand, we heard a great deal more about happenings in Europe and even in Asia. It made me realize just how limited our view of the world can be.

OF COURSE, there were familiar touches from home. I confess to having watched an episode of "The Beverly Hillbillies" on the TV in our London hotel room. We were able to pick up some German and French television stations as well, and enjoyed seeing "Star Trek," "Cagney and Lacey" and 'Bonanza" dubbed in German.

The Museum of Childhood in Edinburgh was the site of a surprise from home. An exhibit of toys from throughout the world included a Daisy Air Rifle, manufactured with pride in "Plymouth USA." A picture of that air rifle is now included in our collection of vacation photos.

I know it's bad form to bore people to tears with vacation stories. Certainly, as vacation destinations go, the United Kingdom isn't all that exotic.

This is Christian country

To the Editor: The article, "Christian Country Idea Not Acceptable," published in today's (Oct. 2) newspaper caught my attention. Mr. James M. August, while writing to refute the idea that this is a "Christian country," actually gave one more evidence to support Jack Gladden's view.

If this were not a "Christian country," he could not have possibly enjoyed the freedom to express his view. If this were a Muslim, Hindu, Communist or atheistic state he would not have freedom to speak out. It is only Christianity that models the example of Christ, who accepted an unjust death on a cross for our sin and rebellion, rather than calling down 10,000 angels to crush his opposition.

Since we have freedom of religion it is further evidence that this is a "Christian country." But it is no longer freedom when any one religion seeks to prevent the free exercise of another's beliefs. If a school wishes to acknowledge the historic position of this country, they should be permitted to do so. We have the freedom to choose not to participate. To make everyone else accommodate one comfort zone is to prevent them from enjoying the freedom Mr. August advocates.

Might I suggest the motivation which causes such an anti-Christian bias to prevail? I believe the very idea that Christians might have the truth (as they claim), irritates others to the point that their only security comes from eliminating any reminder of Christian beliefs.

The thing that makes the Christian message so powerful is the fact that no one is born a Christian. A person must choose to become one. Even Christ himself did not force himself on anyone. He chose one of his disciples, knowing he would not believe in Him and would ultimately betray Him. When Judas faced the truth and still refused to believe, his only recourse was self-destruction. Mr. August has the freedom to choose, but to deny Christians from living and believing what they do because he is offended is to write his own death sentence.

Christianity and the person of Jesus Christ are historic facts. If one chooses to deny their existence, they are simply saying, "My mind is made up, don't confuse me with the facts." Chuck Colson, President Nixon's "hatchet man" states that "Watergate" was one of the most convincing proofs of the truth of -Christ's resurrection. When "Watergate" broke, all Nixon's supporters ran to protect their own necks. Not so with the followers of Christ. Every one of his closest associates died for their belief that He was alive. Who dies for lies? Only one religion has no tomb for its founder, except an empty one. Is

Kids love pumpkins

each fall Ask any kid this time of year what his or her favorite vegetable is and there's a good chance the answer will be "pumpkins."

I can remember hopping into the '65 Chevy BelAir with Mom and Dad and hearing the immortal words spoken by all parents at one time or another: "Be good. No fighting. We'll be at the apple orchard within the hour and you can each pick out your own pump-

Of course, at that age, I could never really understand why someone would go to an apple orchard to get a pumpkin. Upon arrival, however, and before we were treated to cider and warm cinnamon-sprinkled doughnuts, we would climb over what sure could have been a zillion tons of pumpkins, ranging in size from miniscule gourds to bigger than a Dixie Cup, all the way up to one that would have required a U-Haul to haul away.

Pumpkins belong to the gourd and melon family, which also includes squash and cucumbers. Although there is some confusion between the terms pumpkin and squash, pumpkins are generally considered to be the large, orange fruits that have a coarse, stringy, strong-flavored flesh.

PUMPKINS WERE never served at the Janes Gang kitchen as table vegetables but instead mainly were used for pie making and table decorations. In other cultures, however, pumpkins are used extensively. The farmers of Manchuria dried strips of pumpkin in the sun, and the Italians still eat deep-fried, batter-dipped covered pumpkin flowers. With nouvelle cuisine, the resurgence of pumpkin in soups and sauces has taken the old jack-o-lanterns to new culinary heights.

With fresh pumpkin easily accessible during the fall harvest, many cooks rely on using canned pumpkin products throughout the year. Be wary of canned pumpkin products, however, if you're looking for "real" pumpkin, as some processors actually resort to using winter squash instead of real

My sources report that one major canner prefers the use of winter squash over pumpkin because they believe the flavor of the squash is superior. When I mentioned this to Momma, she replied, "Heck, by the time you add the brown sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and allspice, you probably wouldn't be able to tell the difference anyway."

If you're interested in using pumpkin in other ways than the proverbial pie, you can cut the shells into small sections with the rind, seeds and stringy material removed and drop into a boiling cauldron of lightly salted water.

After the boiling, the meat can be pureed in a blender or processor until smooth and then mixed with your favorite spices, a little butter and brown sugar. Occasional Sunday dinners at Momma's always brought requests for her baked pumpkin casserole topped with marshmallows that melt down and add a gooey, Sandersy sweetness to the otherwise bland vegetable.

PUMPKIN SEEDS can be prepared by first parboiling for a few minutes and then roasting with a little salt in a 350-degree oven, tossing frequently to prevent over-browning. About 30 minutes will do, when spread evenly over a non-stick cookie sheet.

Be warned that there is a difference between actual pumpkins and jack-o-lanterns that are used primarily for Halloween. Pie pumpkins are smaller and have a more rusty-orange color. Squash pumpkins have meatler insides than jack-o-lanterns but still have the same size and color characteristics. Jack-o-lanterns have thicker rinds and much less flesh and should be used only for decoso if you can't load the family into a '65 Chevy BelAir, buckle them into the minivan for a fun trip to a pumpkin patch.

SQUASH TEMPTATION

Squash comes in both summer and winter varieties to enjoy.

Colorful, plentiful and tasty

By Larry Janes special writer

ISIT ANY farmers market; or roadside stand between now and late October and you will be inundated with sights of squash. Long ones resem-bling warped baseball bats, giant ones that would fill the gullets of Goliath, and a multitude of othershapes, sizes and colors.

This summer, which will go down in record books as being pretty darned near perfect for area farmers, is certainly proving to be a boom year for those of us who love squash. My sources near the fields. have voiced just one minor complaint, that the extended rainy peri-od in this region the last week of August might curb the harvest of a Janes Gang favorite, pattypan squash. But other than that, look for bigger yields and giant-sized nature creations being picked as you read Southeastern Michigan is home to an abundant array of various squash. A stroll through the Eastern Market reveals bushels of zucchini, barrels of spaghetti squash, battalions of acorns and bags of buttercups.

In addition, you will notice deli- . cate, pale pattypans that resemble small flying saucers, crooknecks that could be classified as a dangerous weapon, hubbards that will easily feed the entire block, turbans so colorful they could double as crowns for royalty and butternuts that beg to be baked with a little brown sugar, orange juice and cinnamon.

SQUASHES ARE generally divided into two broad classifications, summer and winter. Both groups are actually edible gourds and, as with most other vegetables, made their way to the Americas with the early settlers. The basic difference between the two groups is that summer squashes are picked and eaten when young and immature, while winter squashes are allowed to harden, thus developing resistant skins and mature seeds.

the summer squashes are more delicate in flavor, texture and keeping quality.

The most common summes squashes include green and yellow zucchini, straight-neck and crookneck, pattypan and chayote. Zucchini is by far the most popular of the lot; mainly because of its year-round

In the few short months that Marty's Cookie Company in Birmingham has been selling dough balls, the unique idea has caught on like . . . well, like a ball of dough, with customers scooping up the mixed-andmeasured offerings for baking at

"You know, if you're running behind schedule and need something quick," said owner Marty Herman, suggesting an explanation for brisk sales from the very beginning of the rich, round offerings.

Actually, all sales at Herman's shop are brisk - an estimated 12,000 cookies baked and sold each week - popular chocolate chip, luscious butter pecan, mouth-watering white chocolate with cashews, oatmeal with nuggets of raisin, creamy peanut butter and much more.

Because weekly sales of baked goods have always been good, it is only reasonable to assume that sales of the uncooked product should also be good. Tastiness is a reasonable explana-

Herman never purchases ingred-ients in bulk, and dough is prepared fresh daily, today's batch mixed for baking tomorrow. "We never mix and bake at the same time. It's too chaotic."

This is a football-shaped yellow squash that, when cooked, falls into gossamer threads resembling spashetti. The spaghetti squash has done a lot to liven up the diet industry, especially in the old days before pas-ta was "legalized" and dieters used this squash instead of starchy pasta to smother with sauce.

By far the most popular summer squash is the ubiquitous zucchini that graces more gardens throughout metro-Detroit than any other. Zucchini squash plants are like bunny hutches, start one and enjoy zucchini from June 1 till the first hard frost. During that time, you also will send squash to friends, neighbors and rel-atives because even without the help of Miracle Grow, these things propagate faster than the speed of light.

PATTYPANS ALSO are called cymlings and are known in England as custard marrow. As with most other squash, you can stuff 'em, steam 'em, boil 'em, bake 'em or fry 'em, but delicate little pattypans deserve to be treated more fairly. Try cutting them into matchsticks (julienne) and toss into a miniscule

All summer. squashes should be kept in a cool, dark area except for zucchini and yellow squash, which should be refrigerated for extended life. Because of its high water content, summer squasi does not freeze well unless pureed prior to freezing.

Winter squashes are by far the firmest of the varieties. Winter squashes include the venerable acorn, which places a close second to cranberry sauce as the perennial table favorite at Thanksgiving. The giant hubbard is easily detected by a gargantuan size that closely resemence-fiction oldi

Buttercups and turbans both look like Turkish headwraps, with buttercups heading the taste category, coming in like a sweet potato, while the turban squash is more gourd-re-lated and looks prettier than it actu-

THE BUTTERNUT looks like a long-necked pear and cries out for an addition of brown sugar, cinnamon, butter and a sprinkle of nutmeg to bring out its bland taste. Last, but certainly not least, is by far the most widely purchased of all winter squashes, especially at this time of year — the pumpkin. And, yes, pumpkin is a member of the squash family - and if you need a decorative description; you need more help than this column will ever be able to offer.

frigeration. If you are plan keep them at room temperature, do so for not longer than one week or they will begin to soften. If you happen to be a squash lover and buy them by the bushels, keep them cov-ered with an old blanket in the ga-rage on the back, covered porch for definite winters rest.

Like their summer cousins, puree to freeze and use in soups, pies cas-seroles or as a side dish by themselves. Three pounds of whole squash will yield a little over three cups when cooked and pureed.

For any winter variety, remove the stem, cut in half, and scoop out and discard seeds and strings. If you are planning to boil, steam or fry, cut them into smaller sections and peel first before cooking. This writer thinks that winter squash are absolutely smashing when stuffed and baked, especially with a juicy filling. Make your favorite hearty vegeta-ble soup and place it inside a scooped-out winter squash, then bake at 350 degrees for about 45 minutes or until the squash is tender. This not only increases the flavor but makes for a great serving piece when brought to the table. Meat loaf baked in a scooped-out winter squash also will be moist, juicy and flavorful, in addition to being different.

THE BEST BIT of news regarding both summer and winter squash is that not only are they friends of dieters, most coming in at approximately 70 calories per eight-ounce serving, but they are loaded with all sorts of vitamins nd nutrients.

Judging by the number of familiar faces I see at the soccer field and the ice areana, I know that I'm not the only mother shuttling children from one activity to another. I keep telling myself that these are the "Wonder Years," but the only thing I find myself "wondering" about as I wander through rush-hour traffic is, what on earth are we going to have for dinner?

Of course, there is always the easy choice of going to a fast-food restaurant, but for nutritional and economical reasons I prefer to feed my boys at home. On hectic nights such as this, I resort to dinners like "Panic Pita Pizza." which is an innovative and nutritious alternative to commercial pizza.

This is a quick and easy dinner the boys like because they help make their own pizza, selecting from a variety of toppings that I have on hand. It is a great way to use up all those 'must goes" in your refrigerator. What is a "must go?" You know, this must go and that must go, like that last chunk of onion, the few remaining mushrooms in the box, or the last few slices of ham.

THE BEAUTY of this dish is that the cheese is placed on top, and once melted can cover up a variety of vegetables that will be scarfed down before the kids even know what they are eating.

I hope that this week's Winner Dinner will provide you with a solution on those trying days we all have. I guarantee that this is one dinner your children will enjoy more than your garbage disposal would.

Beginning next week, this column will feature a Winner Dinner sent in by a reader, who will receive an apron printed with "Winner Dinner Winner" for her efforts. One last note, if any of you have any ideas for fun and easy dinners for Halloween, like an orange-and-black dinner or a special pumpkin bread recipe, please send it in, as well as your family's favorite dinner menu. Sometimes the simplest things can make an ordinary dinner more special and memorable. I'm looking forward to hearing from you and hope that you and your family have a great week.

Submit your recipes, to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012. Please include a complete dinner, with recipes as needed. All submissions become the property of the

Each week's recipes are printed the same size, so that you may clip and save them in a three-ring binder — use a paper punch to make holes in the clipping, or paste the clipping on a blank sheet of three-ring notebook paper. Another option is to simply file the clippings in a folder with pockets that will hold them.

WATERMELON WEDGES

There is nothing fancy or complicated about this. Simply slice off a piece of watermelon and cut it into wedges. This works just as well with cantaloupe or honeydew melon.

People keep asking me "what's funny in the decorating business today?".

Well, OK! Maybe one person asked me that. After thinking about the question for almost two seconds, I decided the most hilarious and tragic thing in the decorating business today is the pricing of mini blinds and vertical blinds. Now if you need a good laugh (and a good disappointment) think about what is going on. There are retail stores out there actually advertising up to 80% off these products. Now if the manufacturer supplies a blind to the retailer for say...$10.00 at cost, what is a fair and ble markup? Years ago the blind was marked up to $20.00. The etail store had overhead, salaries and other expenses to cover so if the blind could be sold for $20,00 he might be able make a living. However, some sharp business people found they could discount the blind, say 20%, increase volume and make the same money, maybe a little more depending on the volume increase. Now if today's retail store could discount up to 10% off the blind, the sale price to you would be $4.00 and the store would have to pay, out of it's own pocket $6.00 to cover the manufacturers cost of $10.00. Sound a little strange??? low let us assume that the retail store wants to sell the blind for $20.00 but make you think hat you're getting an 80% discount. What would they have to markup the blind to discount

THAT'S RIGHT...YOUR $20.00 BLIND IS MARKED UP TO $100.00. Now if you race down to the store to take advantage of that 80% discount you are still paying the full $20.00 REAL price but you're saving $80.00 imaginary money. Whoopeee!! When shopping for anything ask for THE WALLET PRICE. How much of your money is going to leave your Wallet for the product or service in question. Of course if you still "just have to have" a big

OT victory keeps Salem undefeated Glenn game to decide title

staff writer

Plymouth Salem coach Tom Moshimer figured the advantage belonged to the Rocks when Friday's homecoming game with North Farmington went into overtime.

The reason for his confidence was a Salem offense that outgained the Raiders 233-92 but had been frustrated by its own mistakes and a solid North defense.

Moshimer's faith was rewarded as senior Ryan Johnson rushed for both touchdowns to lift the unbeaten Rocks past North 21-18 in double overtime.

"We were happy," said Moshimer of taking the offensively-weak Raiders into overtime. "Once we tied it up, I thought we'd win it in regulation, but they're a great defensive football team."

The victory sets up a showdown for the Lakes Division championship Friday when the Rocks visit Westland John Glenn. Both are 4-0 in the division and 6-0 overall.

THE RAIDERS, who lost 9-0 to Glenn earlier in the season, slip to 2-2 and 4-2. It was the second straight year the Salem-North game has been decided in overtime, with the Raiders winning 13-7 last season.

The Rocks figured, with the defenses being equal, they had the edge with their wishbone offense this

But that was not the case in the first half as North's defense controlled play and was solely responsible for the Raiders leading 8-0 at North, which scored on Jerry Dolak's 1-yard run and Mike Cowen's 20-yard field goal in overtime, had trouble on offense, however.

The Raiders had only 8 yards in total offense in the first half and three first downs for the game. Between the teams, only five passes were attempted, and all of the yardage came on the ground.

'We've known all along we didn't have any offense," North coach Jim O'Leary said. "We tried a little bit of this and that, but we couldn't get any ball movement.

"DEFENSE GAVE us every opportunity to win the game, and we just couldn't do it. The defense scored eight points, and (the offense) scored once. It's a simple matter of mathematics.'

Defense was expected to be a deciding factor in this game but not to the extent it was in the first half, which was a disaster for Salem.

The Rocks downed the opening kick at their own 1-yard line, and Rob Jamrog blocked Johnson's punt, which then caromed out of the end zone for a safety and a quick, 2-0 advantage for North.

On its next possession, Salem was yards to the Raider 25. But quarterback Rob Kowalski was hit attempting to pitch the ball on the option, resulting in the first of two first-half fumbles

North defensive tackle Paul Anders scooped up the loose ball and returned it 70 yards for a TD and the 8-0 halftime lead.

"We dug ourselves a hole right away," Moshimer said. "We were moving the ball! (Kowalski) waited a little too long on the pitch, and they got a piece of the ball. Then we missed the tackle right there.

"AGAINST THEIR defense, eight points is no small task to overcome. I felt we could do it, but it would take a break for us to do it, too."

Kowalski also believed the Rocks could turn things around. Eventually, the first-half woes seemed like ancient history amid the jubilant scene on the Salem sideline at game's end.

"I didn't have one of my better games at quarterback," he said. "It was just misreading on my part; I just screwed up.

"Because of the two fumbles, I was down, but I knew we could come back because we have the team that can come back."

The Rocks had their share of setbacks in the second half, too. Johnson's halfback pass was intercepted on Salem's first possession, the Rocks lost two more fumbles and a

Chiefs count on depth to sink division rivals

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

At the beginning of the season, coach Hooker Wellman cited the depth, not to mention the talent, on his Plymouth Canton girls swim

That was borne out Thursday night when the Chiefs defeated longtime Western Division nemesis Livonia Churchill 87-85 at Canton. The host school won only two events but used its superior depth to take its first victory in five years over the Chargers, the defending division champs. One of Canton's first places came in the 400-yard freestyle, which proved pivotal in determining the outcome of the meet.

The Chiefs, trailing 81-77 going into that event, needed first and third places to win the meet, and that's what happened as Janet Roberts, Jenny Cooper, Nicole Drake and Pam Pritchard posted a statequalifying time of 3:52.70.

The irony is that Churchill could have won the meet if it had split its swimming

No. 1 relay, increasing the likelihood of the Chargers taking second and third and winning based on the 8-4-2 scoring system.

'Maybe (Churchill coach Tim. McInnis) thought his relay was fast enough to win," Wellman said, "but he had a sure victory if he had split

"It's not over until it's over. We won only the diving and the relay. We struggled all the way through, but it worked out and I'm real happy

Churchill's relay finished in 3:53.39, and the Canton foursome of Beth Yack, Sonya McWhirter, Kelly Rische and Leslie Moore took third

Canton's Becky Hoisington won the diving with 185.60 points, and it was one of several events the Chiefs dominated with their depth. Amy

Rocks rebounded from an 8-0 halftime deficit to remain unbeaten with a 21-18, double-overtime victory,

While giving up first place to Churchill in the 50 freestyle and butterfly, the Chiefs captured the next three places in each. Pam Pritchard had one of two seconds in the 50 freestyle (26.19), and Cooper and April Billins finished third and fourth, respectively. Chris Lang, Erica Carson and Yack took the Nos. 2-4 places in the butterfly, Lang swimming 1:08.24. Pritchard also was runner-up in the 100 freestyle (56.33), and Drake had a pair of second-place swims, too, in the 200 freestyle (2:03.07) and the 500 freestyle (5:23.93). Cassie Cummins and Val Gildhaus, both of whom helped the Chiefs take second in the medley relay, were second in the backstroke and breaststroke, respectively, with 1:07.73 and 1:19.13 times.

Cummins, Gildhaus, Lang and Cooper went 2:02.44 in the medley, which was won by Churchill's Becky Plymouth Salem outscored Westland John Glenn 18-3 in the final quarter Thursday, and the Rocks went on to post a 50-32 girls basketball win over the host Rockets.

The win improved Salem to 4-6 overall and 3-1 in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association. The Rocks are in second place in the Lakes, one game behind North Farmington.

Glenn, meanwhile, fell to 3-7 overall and 2-2 in Lakes play. Glenn trailed only 32-29 after three quarters before self-destructing.

THE CHIEFS, however, shut the door on Western when they filled the Nos. 4-7 places. Mike Ream was fourth (17:02), Matt Hall fifth (17:23), Matt Boland sixth (17:25) and Jason Napolitano seventh (17:31).

Rounding out the top five for the Warriors were Matt Wright, eighth, (17:35), Brandon Keeney, ninth, (17:39) and Chris Crosby, 11th, (18:09). "This might have been for the division championship," Canton coach Jim Hayes said. The Chiefs were runners-up to Western in the dual-meet standings last year after losing 26-30 to the Warriors. "The kids did a real nice job.

"We still have two races left (with Northville and Farmington Hills Harrison), so we can't count them before we have them."

The girls race was actually a forfeit since Western has only three runners. Canton chose to rest many of its top athletes in anticipation of the Ynsilanti Invitational, which took place Saturday. The Warriors, however, have an outstanding duo in Jennifer Ray and Wendy Proos who captured first and second place in 20:17 and 20:31, respectively.

The next seven places belonged to the Chiefs, who were led by Anne Dibble (22:22). The order of finish for Canton included Kristin Moore (22:50), Cara Antezak (23:08), Allison Way (23:12), Marisa Dersey (23:57), Nicole Kozma (24:21) and Alicia King (24:47).

Canton is 1-0 in the division and 2-1 overall, the Chargers 0-1 and 2-1.

PLYMOUTH SALEM'S fate was the opposite of Canton's as the Rocks lost by the same 87-85 to host Livonia Stevenson in a Lakes Division dual meet Thursday.

"I thought we should have won it by two," Salem coach Chuck Olson said. "We weren't that far off. We had some opportunities and didn't swim well.

"But it's only a dual meet. We're still focused on the conference meet. We're not going to let it bother us an awful lot after tonight."

The Rocks, who won three events, are 0-1 in the division and 2-4 overall. The Spartans are 1-0 and 2-4. Salem started out winning the medley relay in which Cheri Vincent, Amy Austin, Andrea Alex and Kristen Stackpoole combined for a 2:00.56 time.

Vincent also won the backstroke (1:05.3), and Jennifer Ezzo had the best diving total with 184.5 points.

"It was a good meet; we just didn't have enough first places," Olson said. "It was tight all the way through; we were just a little short. I guess we have some serious work to

In addition to the first places, Olson cited Stackpoole and Candi Bosse for their swims in the IM. Stackpoole was third (2:27.5) and Bosse fourth (2:29.7).

Salem continues climb toward title

Walled Lake Central had the best runner, but Plymouth Salem had the best team Thursday in boys cross country.

. And that's what matters most as the Rocks, who were 20-43 winners at Walled Lake, move closer to winning their second division dualmeet title in three years.

Salem is 3-0 in the Lakes Division and 3-1 overall, having lost only to undefeated Plymouth Can-Central's Mark Kwiatkowski edged Brendon Masterson of Salem by two seconds to capture first place. The Viking runner finished in 16:04, Masterson 16:06.

But Masterson was the first of seven consecutive Salem runners to cross the finish line. John Thomas and Dave Hamway followed in 16:43, Mike Patterson 17:10, Samir Bhavsar 17:12, Brian Uryga 17:16 and Todd Cimo 17:21.

ALL SEVEN of the Rocks were within one minute, 15 seconds of each other.

"It's a flat course, and I knew we'd run fast," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "I knew we were tired, also. We've had four meets in the last seven days.

'We haven't done much training, and (the demanding schedule) has taken a toll on us. In the next three days, we're going to do distance running and then some speed work. Then we should see the times start to drop again.

"Right now we've kinda leveled off, because we haven't been able to do much training," he added. "Racing is fun but it doesn't help the times all that much."

Meadow jumping mouse shy but interesting creature

Unless you have had the opportunity to plow fields with a tractor at night, or spend a great deal of time walking meadows at night with a flashlight, you probably have not seen a meadow jumping mouse.

They are noctural in their activities and tend to be more solitary than the common species of field mice. Meadow jumping mice are small like other mice. Their body measures only 3¼ inches long. However, they have a very long tail which averages almost five inches long. A common white-footed mouse has a tail that is only about 314 inches long.

In addition to a long tail, they have very long hind feet. Their hind feet can be almost as long as one-

Meadow jumping mice prefer the open fields and meadows, but will also inhabit young forests and edges between fields and forests. When they live near or in the forest they come in contact with a close cousin of theirs, the woodland jumping mouse. They both look similiar and both hibernate during the winter bear also hibernate (yes, bear researchers now consider the bear a hibernator).

Now through mid-October is the period in which jumping mice retire to their underground hibernaculum. In response to the shortening days of late summer, they begin to eat extra amounts of food that they store as fat. By the time September arrives. a 16 gram mouse may weigh 28 grams. This supply of energy must sustain the animal until it awakens in April and May.

Adult males are the first to enter hibernation, followed by females and young of her first litter of the year. By mid-October the young of the last litter have had enough time to eat and put on fat and enter hibernation.

Though not often seen, jumping mice are interesting animals found in southeastern Michigan.

A little of the glitter, some of the glitz and a tab of the glamor of Hollywood and New York has come to northern Oakland County. And surprisingly it's not all that costly to enjoy. The place is Kathryn Post and it's the in place to go for baubles, bangles and beads.

As a flight attendant for American Trans Air, David Osmola has traveled entirely around the world in 37 days, including stops in Katmandu, Beijing and Puntas Arenas in South America.

Coffee, tea and a friendly face

By Janice Brunson staff writer

Monday, October 9, 1989 O&E

After stints of bartending and sales 10 years ago, Jack Simpson of Livonia responded to the passing suggestion of a brother and applied for a job with the airlines.

He's been flying for a living ever since, working as a flight attendant for the Detroit-based Republic Airlines that in 1986 became part of Northwest Airlines.

"All you have to do is get along with people," said Simpson, 35, of the job. "It's nice. I enjoy the days off." Flight crews typically work about 15 days a month.

Simpson's wife Kathy, until recently a Northwest administrator who supervised flight attendants in Detroit, paints a more telling portrait of the lob.

Men invade air 'service'

"It's hard serving all those people. Flight attendants have my utmost respect," she said, citing their common traits, "Very outgoing, flexible, strong sense of self, extremely smart and witty.

"Actually, I can't think of anything negative to say about them as a group."

Jack Simpson is one of 2,300 flight attendants based in metropolitan Detroit, and Northwest is the only major carrier with attendants stationed here.

Tom Kassel, 27, a Westland native who recently completed training as a flight attendant for American Airlines, is based in Chicago.

A 1988 GRADUATE of Eastern, Michigan University in French and international trade, Kassel sought employment "tied" to his major. He investigated teaching abroad and interviewed with a cargo carrier, Trans Intercontinental, before being hired by American last May.

Like most carriers today, American is experiencing enormous growth. Kassel is among the 2,000 new attendants the company will hire this year from a pool of 30,000 applicants, those who perform well in such areas as problem solving.

During a group interview, Kassel and the others were asked to collectively solve a problem.

"They wanted to see how each of us got along and worked with others," he said.

Training, scheduled in Dallas for six weeks, was typical of that required by most scheduled airlines. Kassel received free round-trip transportation and room and board. But he was not paid a salary during the training. Once completed, he was assigned to fly immediately, even before he had time to find living accommodations in Chicago.

"It's been busy," Kassel said, but things are now settling into a routine. He is currently assigned to Montreal flights and hopes to fly internationally to Europe soon.

Of the 63 trainees in Kassel's class, 10 were men, four older than him, four about the same age and two who were younger. The mix reflects industry trends.

AS A RESULT OF fair hiring standards established in the late 1960s, the number of male flight attendants has increased significantly in recent years. Of 76,297 attendants employed nationwide by 77 scheduled airlines, 14 percent are male, based on figures maintained by the Association of Flight Attendants in Washington, D.C.

A Little Inn with a 4-star rating

By Iris Sanderson Jones contributing travel editor

Sometimes life makes unexpected connections, as it did when I sat by the fireplace in the Little Inn with Richard and Corinne Fitoussi.

The Fitoussis are co-owners of the three-story Inn on the historic main street of Bayfield, Ont., 135 miles north of the metropolitan area on Lake Huron.

We were sipping Kir Royale, nibbling chips of dried reindeer meat and talking. "Where do you come from?" I asked.

"I come from France," Richard said. "Alsace."

I have visited the French side of the Rhine River so I named the first town that came to mind. "Ribeauville?"

"No, Illhaeusern."
And then we both said "Auberge de L'Ill." I had never met anyone else who knew that wonderful restaurant in France, which has a three-star Michelin rating. My husband Micky discovered it years

As it turned out, Richard apprenticed there as a teenager, then worked in restaurants in Germany and England before moving to Canada. He worked for Westin Hotels, helped open the Westin Renaissance in Detroit in the 1976s, joined Pat and Gayle Waters as owners of the Hotel Saskatchewan in western Canada and followed them to Bayfield as co-owners and managers of the Little Inn.

THE INN IS an entirely different setting from the high-rise glass splender of city hotels, but as Richard likes to say, 'It has more trees around it.'

MOVING PICTURES

Civil rights lawyer lan McKenzie (Marion Brando) agrees to investigate the mysterious death of Benjamin Toit's (Donald Sutherland) black gardener in "A Dry White Season.

'A Dry White Season' -A compelling must see minutes) is a literate, compelling examination of South Africa's ugly, violent repression of black aspirations for a decent life.

Under the guise of fighting communism and terrorism, the Special Branch, a police counter-intelligence unit, performs every imaginable atrocity against blacks peacefully protesting the government's repressive policies. Of course that's been going on for a long time in South Af-

What is particularly special in this case is the very fine way in which those issues are personalized.

Ben Du Toit (Donald Sutherland) and his family serve as the centerpiece for this South African tragedy. Du Toit - a white Afrikaner who teaches in a ritzy boys school - is propelled into the maelstrom first by the disappearance and death of his gardener's son and then by the gardener's death while searching for the truth about his son.

Mrs. Du Toit along with their daughter, son and son-in-law represent various attitudes in the struggle. There are, of course, others in ever widening circles around the Du Toit family, oth vested interests and their explanations for the horrors perpetuated by the government.

MOST NOTABLY is barrister Ian McKenzie (Marion Brando), a rotund, bitter man who notes cynically that law and justice in South Africa are, at best, distant cousins. Despite his cynicism, he speaks out.

Ben Du Toit's gradual realization that the government regularly lies and misleads everyone in the name of power and that unspeakable horrors are routine makes "A Dry White Season" a powerful film.

Du Toit evolves from an isolated 'nice person" to a hard working activist, an evolution which speaks eloquently for all those in every time and place who have risen above the complacent acceptance which protects sheltered lives and economic privileges.

While everyone around Ben has differing opinions about his crusade for justice, the film is not preachy. It is a formidible and overwhelming statement because attitudes are demonstrated by actions.

All this effectively personalizes what too often is reduced to tragic but abstract headlines. For that "A Dry White Season" is recommended highly to all.

"An Innocent Man" (B-, R, 90 minutes) is also a compelling movie about personal tragedy, but its plot structure, acting and characteriza-tions fall short of the mark.

Jimmie Rainwood (Tom Selleck) is a regular, hard working guy mar-ried to a very nice lady, Kate (Laila Robins). Two corrupt narcotics detectives, Mike Parnell (David Rasche) and Danny Scalise (Richard Young) frame Jimmie as a drug dealer to cover up their mistaken drug bust of the Rainwood home.

THE POWERFUL, effective portion of "An Innocent Man" is its cen-tral section where Jimmie must adapt to survive the horrible prison world. Those tense, realistic sequences ought to make everyone wender about our society and its Only he's a hardened lifer in the Disney World mold and it just doesn't wash, nor do the two corrupt cops who generally seem preoccupied with ethereal matters, hardly villainous.

The story is frightening because it's all so plausible. Unfortunately, that plausibility and the powerful central section of "An Innocent Man" are weakened by the first and last sections and by weak characterizations that overwhelm decent act-

A case in point is his 1984 film, "Dark Habit,"s premiering this weekend at the downtown Tele-Arts Theatre. It has been released following the success of "Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown."

Almodovar may be the hottest European director at work today and here is another reason why.

"Dark Habits" is about a vampish nightclub singer named Lovinda who accidentally murders her boyfriend when she sells him strychnine-laced cocaine. On the lam from the police, she takes refuge in a convent populated by a bizarre sect of nuns.

In some ways, this is Almodovar's remake of "Ball of Fire," the screwball comedy where Barbara Stanwyck hides out with a group of bachelor intellectuals. The nuns all bond with Lovinda; one even falls in love with her.

THE NUNS have names like Sister Manure, Sister Damned, Sister Rat of the Sewers. Some entered the convent while fleeing murder raps. At least two are drug addicts. One regularly drops acid; we see from her point of view in psychedelic ultraviolet images.

Another writes trashy romance novels under the pen name of Concha Torres. The Mother Superior makes incredible, gorpy costumes out of state-of-the-art synthetic fabrics. Her priest helper smokes marijuana on the altar and adores the hats in "My Fair Lady."

But things are not all rosy for the little sisters. When a wealthy benefactor pulls her support, the nuns take to the street and have a bake sale. Then they get hold of an incriminating letter about the benefactor's daughter and try to blackmail

Even in Almodovar's early work - this is his third film - trademarks start to appear. His use of color is always a knockout. His im-

The legacy of Lord Laurence Olivier - one of this century's greatest actors - remains for our viewing pleasure on film and video tape. This week HBO is releasing, for the first time on video the 1982 Olivier film, "A Voyage Round My Father," which also stars Alan Bates.

Last week CBS/Fox Video released, also for the first time on video, the 1975 Olivier romantic comedy, "Love Among the Ruins" (100 minutes, directed by George Cukor) co-starring Katherine Hepburn.

Arthur Granville-Jones (Olivier), England's greatest barrister, is hired to defend Jessica Medicott (Hepburn) who is being sued for breach of promise by a man young enough to be her grandson. It just happens that she and Olivier had been romantically involved 40 years earlier. Now, in the heat of litigation, their love is on trial once more, as is Katherine Hep-

Three other Olivier films have been available on tape from CBS/ Pox for some time: "The Boys From Brazil" (1978, color, 132 minutes, R) with Olivier as Nazi hunter Ezra Lieberman on the trail of Dr. Josef FINALLY, CBS/FOX offers "The Betsy" (1978, color, 125 minutes, R) with Robert Duvall and Katherine Ross. It's all about the Detroit automotive industry and probably of the one Olivier film best forgotten.

Born in England in 1907, Olivier's style, manner and career epitomize the very hest of British theater and English poetry.

From his 1922 stage debut until his recent death, Sir Laurence appeared on stage in England, the United States and elsewhere and in more than 50 films. He was knighted in 1947 and made a Peer of the Realm in 1970, the first actor to take a seat in the British House of Lords.

Among his most notable films are four Shakespearean works: "As You

Like It" (1936), "Henry V" (1944), "Hamlet" (1948) and 'Richard III" (1956). Although foreign films didn't compete for Oscars at that time, he was awarded a special one for his role as producer, director and star of "Henry V." Olivier also won Oscars as best ac-

CLIFFORD MORTIMER (Olivier) is a successful English lawyer suddenly struck blind in middle age. His young son, John (Alan Cox), witnesses this misfortune and his father's subsequent attempts to cope while maintaining his dignity. That process is the centerpiece of young John's life.

All of this is recounted by the ma-ni ture John (Alan Bates) as he reflects while attempting to come to grips with bittersweet memories and love of his father. It is not an easy burden because Clifford, after his misfortune, is cynical, irascible and often just downright unpleasant.

Olivier's rendition of that character is magnificant. Despite his nasty streak, Mortimer represents the immense strength of human courage in the face of adversity. With the aid of his wife's (Elizabeth Sellars) eyes, Mortimer continues to practice law.

The film was produced and directed by Alvin Rakoff, adapted for the screen by John Mortimer who original nally wrote what apparently is his-a own personal story as a stage play."

Robb Roy: Ready for stardom

staff writer

Written off as breaking up nearly two years ago, Robb Roy looks poised to break out.

The five-member rock band will perform Tuesday, Oct. 10, in a competition for the top prize in "Sound-Check," an internationally-renowned talent search sponsored by Yamaha. The group left for Los Angeles Friday, but not before receiving a resounding send-off at the Metro Musi-Cafe in Royal Oak.

Robb Roy will be one of four bands competing for first prize, which is $10,000 worth of equipment and an opportunity to vie for the international finals at Budokan Theatre in Tokyo, Japan.

The show in Los Angeles will feature Richard Marx and female pop artist Martika. The performance will be taped and televised sometime in December.

"The band is better than ever, really," said Graham Strachan, who lives in Redford Township and is lead vocalist.

TO REACH the semifinals of the international talent search was no small feat. Robb Roy submitted two songs, "Show Me" and "The Gypsy Walks," along with nearly 5,000 other bands back in July.

Then Strachan received a call from the people at Yamaha, telling him the band was one of 100 bands still in the hunt. Then Robb Roy was suddenly one of four finalists from

MAGNUM CUM LOUDER

— Hoodoo Gurus

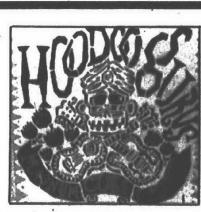

Not long ago, someone suggested that American college radio was becoming far too slick for its own good. At the time, we didn't give it much

After listening to Hoodoo Guru's latest LP on RCA, though, now one begins to wonder if there isn't some validity to that observation. Perhaps it is becoming too chart-oriented as major record labels use the college airwaves to break relatively new acts, especially since commercial radio doesn't seem to offer such an opportunity.

The end result might have "alternative" bands going for more of a mainstream sound. Case in point: Hoodoo Gurus.

Which one is the real Hoodoo Gurus? Could it be the group that turns out such acoustically glowing gems like "Come Anytime" and "Shaldow Me"? Or rather is it the band that seems to be neeking com-mercial appeal with less-than-inspir-ing numbers such as "Take Me All

Though some of the lyrics are rather trite, the group has acquired a knack for catchy melodies. For ex-ample, "Where's That Hit?" pulls out all the hackneyed baseball expressions one can equate with everyday life. Yet a stellar bit of guitar work pulls this number out of the muck.

Somehow, one should expect more out of a "new music" group such as Hoodoo Gurus whose main audience is the collegiate crowd. Then again, maybe we're asking too much. After all, it's only rock'n'roll.

What is ska? Between sizzling and skald, there is ska in Webster's book. Gangster Fun is one hot band that plays ska.

For those of you unfamilar with Gangster Fun and its music, the band has been around for more than two years forming from a group of friends at Oakland University. The group's hallmark has always been an entertaining and engaging performance, leaving you to beg for more (I know, having sat through a couple of encores at the Hamtramck Pub).

So now comes the tricky part, trying to transfer that energy to vinyl. For the most part, Gangster Fun succeeds on "Come See Come Ska." This album is something of a rough-sketch of what Gangster Fun is ca-

And now, the envelope please . . . First clue — It's the lonely hearts munic program that's got all of De-troit snoring. All, that is except for emotional basket cases who dedicate the same Lionel Ritchie songs to each other night after night.

How, you ask, could one of the oldiest formats in broadcasting win such a coveted award?

MUCH OF THE show's undeniable appeal is its romantic allusions and symbolic eroticism - "Nobody tunes my dial like you do."

Address parental problem

There have not been any catastrophes in their lives and yet they seem to be going downhill, both seem to be going downhill, both physically and mentally. They are lethergic about their personal care. I have tried to talk to them, with-

Dear Caring Daughter:

Your problem is becoming increasingly widespread as our society ages. While I was researching your question, I was encouraged to find that Beaumont Hospital has a group for you called "When Your Parents Grow Old." This group helps the middle-aged children of elders deal with the daily frustrations of aging

There are many reasons for these changes. As people age, their lives are no longer structured by jobs and other responsibilities. Without this structure seniors can sink into the malaise you describe. Also, the acuity of one's senses declines with age, so they may not be as aware of or concerned about their looks. Practical fears, like falling in the bathroom, may also be stopping them from taking sufficient care with their hygiene and appearance. The problem may be more serious and if you think it is one of clinical depression, then their physician should be contacted.

It is important not to ignore these symptoms. They usually do not vanish without intervention. The frustration is that sometimes even wellmeaning support and encourage-ment does not solve the problem.

At the Workout Co., we provide individual exercise programs for many seniors. This furnishes social stimulation, structure and increased physical integrity. Different seniors may need other kinds of stimulation.

The number of Beaumont Hospital's Older Adult Services is 551-0777. Ask for Gail or Melissa and they will give you the name and telephone number of the senior adult center closest to your parents or solve your problem.

Dear Barbara: Bed appear to the woman dealing with a husband and son who misuse teasing. You completely ignore the physical abuse going on here—slaps that are too hard, holding her against her will, etc. This is a socialacceptable form of abuse and ould be dealt with for the abuse that it really is.

Do enjoy your column.

Thank you for your insight. (Pam's letter refers to an earlier letter in which a woman complained that her husband held her too tightly and that her son's "love taps" were a "little too hard.")

I am publishing your response be-cause I am sure there are others who might have the same reservations that you do. What could be used by one person as a form of loving communication could be used by another

Park West Gallery in Southfield has opened up an original animation art exhibit with animations ranging from Bugs Bunny to Fred Flintstone.

The gallery features original celluloids from Warner Bros., Walt Disney and Hanna Barbera. And experts say the value of the hand-drawn animated cels can only go higher as the shift to computer animation takes

These animations have become quite expensive," said Peter Cooper, director of Park West Gallery. the beginning, no one thought of the value. Disney lost many in a fire several years ago, and Jack Warner had so many in the studio, he just had them destroyed."

AN ANIMATED celluloid is an original handpainted work of art. A series of cels are produced to create a sequence of movement in an animated film. Twelve to 24 cels are used for every second of a film and no two cels are alike.

Serigraphs are a production of 9,000 cels and may be purchased at places like Disneyland and Disney World. Although serigraphs are less expensive, they don't have the uniqueness of an original production

Warner Bros. created toons such as the "wise crackin', smart alecky rabbit" Bugs Bunny, the "simply dithpicable" Daffy Duck, "wabbit hunter" Elmer Fudd, the "naughty cat" Sylvester and "sweet little' Tweety Bird.

Walt Disney works are known to be more expensive than Warner Bros. and Hanna Barbera's because many Disney films became fulllength theatrical productions, adding to their value. Disney also owns animation's biggest star, Mickey Mouse. Other creations, such as "The Three Little Pigs," "Cinderella," "Lady and the Tramp" and "Winnie the Pooh," have also increased the value of Disney animations. "The Jetsons seem to be the most popular sale in the gallery," Cooper said. "But I like Mickey Mouse myself. I go way back."

The price per cel is mainly determined by the popularity of the cartoon chracter. A gallery classic like the 1935 Disney drawing of Mickey Mouse "On Ice" is priced at $1,800.

Hanna Barbera's "Yabba, dabba doo" with Fred Flintstone and Barney Rubble is $850. Fred's pet Dino is $295, the same price for "Huckleberry Hound."

Warner Bros. "Bugs Bunny and Elmer Fudd" goes for $595.

"We are always looking for new art and artists," Cooper said. "We found the source and it was something new to feature and it has proved to be successful."

Cooper plans on carrying the animation art on a regular basis in the Bayfield was named for a British naval lieutenant who surveyed the Great Lakes early in the 19th century and recommended the area to Baron van Tuyll van Serooskerken, a Dutch nobleman who bought a huge tract of land there in 1832.

The baron never laid eyes on the land he sold to settlers, although his son lived in the nearby town of Goderich at one time.

They made the first clearing right there where the sailboats now make their own masted skyline and the fishermen can be found at sunset, either drifting in a small boat or standing up to their hips in waders.

The village was a busy port for grain export until ships gave way to trains, and when the railway passed it by, the town became a backwater fishing village until tourists discovered it at the turn of the century.

IF YOU STAND you stand on the bluff at Pioneer Point to watch the sun go down over Lake Huron, you can see downhill to the breakwater or climb down to the sandy beach.

Summer cottagers and tourists watch the bagpipers in the park in summer, buy ice cream, summer clothes and art at Main Street shops, many of which have restricted hours this time of year.

a four-star small hotel, "Ontario's oldest operating inn. Historic comfort and elegance."

The rooms are nice, it has a fine dining room and it is fairly expensive, as historic inns tend to be. All the rooms have antique furniture, much of it original to the area, and often raised off the floor.

Standard rooms - $95 weekends and $75 weekdays - have queen beds. Large rooms - $115 weekends and $95 weekdays - have two double beds and room for lounge chairs. The Widow's Walk - $150 weekends and $125 weekdays - at the top of the house has a queen bed and sitting area plus a loft where you can sit on a window seat and look out high windows onto all four sides of the town.

COTTAGE ROOMS have a deck, jacuzzi, some fireplaces, but no air conditioning and cost $150 to $170 a night weekends, $125 and $100 weekdays. Ask about weekend package plans that include meals.

Otherwise breakfast is $4 continental, $6 full. Lunch entrees averages $7, dinner entrees $22.

All above prices are in Canadian dollars. (Divide by 1.18 to get American dollars. For example, $100 Canadian divided by 1.18 equals $84.74 US.)

in a metropolitan area already saturated with concert venues of various shapes and sizes, an unlikely old building is about to enter the fray

The storied fieldhouse was once the home of roundball standouts Dave DeBusschere, Spencer Haywood, John Long and coach "Disco" Dick Vitale — just to name a few.

But would you believe a "Comedy Spectacular" at the University of Detroit's venerable Calihan Hall?

Well, believe it. The U-D Titans are taking their basketball act 40 Cobo Arena, leaving an 8,800-seat hall with a few dates to fill.

SATURDAY, the U-D is hoping four of today's top comics can launch Calihan Hall as an alternative entertainment venue. And with a lineup featuring Cathy Ladman, local boy Dave Coulier (of ABC's "Full House") and legitimate headliners Jimmie Walker and Jerry Seinfeld, they may be able to pull it off.

"It's a pilot project to see how much interest there is in this kind of thing," said Tom Sakely, acting manager of the U-D news bureau. "It depends on the support we get from the public."

The idea of bringing big time entertainment back to Calihan Hall (it has been absent since a disastrous Ronnie Milsap show several years back) first surfaced in February, according to George Clarkson, U-D associate director of marketing and public affairs.

"It's way overdue," Clarkson said.
"We've got the facility to do it. We wanted to see if there is an audience for 'neighborhood' concerts.

"To see this kind of show in the area, you'd normally either go downtown or to the suburbs."

A FEW musical acts were considered for this experiment, but comedy eventually won out because of its combination of potential profitability and simpler logistics.

"Because comedy is so hot right now, this show would be the easiest to set up and do," Clarkson said.

A theater-style seating arrangements will be used, with approximately 5,000 total seats available.

Ladman is the least known of the comics on the bill, but is currently riding the crest of her recent first appearance on "The Tonight Show." Born and raised in Queens, N.Y., she is a straight observational performer, drawing material primarily from her family and other experiences.

COULIER IS the pride of St. Clair Shores and a graduate of Notre Dame High School. An adept impressionist, his variety of character voices got him a start in radio at the now defunct album rocker WABX doing commercials.

He opened at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle and later moved to Los Angeles to take a job at the Comedy Store — initially as a doorman.

Eventually, he got some stage time there, but his major breakthrough came again through his imHe became the voice of "Scoeby-Doo," Mork in the animated "Mork and Mindy" and won and Emmy for his work on "The Muppet Babies" series. That enabled him to land the role of aspiring comic Uncle Joey in the series "Full House."

Walker is probably best known for his role as the teenage son J.J. on the still syndicated series "Good Times." He has gone on to appear on some short-lived TV shows and a few movies, but devotes most of his time to stand-up comedy — particularly in Las Vegas, where he is a regular at the Dunes Hotel.

Seinfeld is currently one of the top draws working the comedy circuit today. He's at home in small clubs, concert halls and showrooms all across the country. Regular appearances on "The Tonight Show" and "Late Night with David Letterman" have allowed him to hone his act to a razor's edge.

A "Comedy Spectacular," featuring Jerry Seinfeld, Jimmie Walker, Dave Coulier and Cathy Ladman, comes to U-D Calihan Hall at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 14. Tickets are $20, $15 and $10 for students (with proper identification), and available at all Ticket-Master outlets or by calling 645-

Cathy Marriott describes the jewelry available in her Kathryn Post store in Southfield as "arty jewelry that isn't trendy."

A little glitter, glitz and Kathryn Post

By Charlene Mitchell special writer

Hollywood it's not, but the north Oakland County area rivals just about any big city when it comes to fashion. And one of the newer retail stores in the area is bringing the glitz, glitter and pizzaz of New York and Los Angeles here in the form of jewelry and other accessories.

"What Kathryn Post offers is arty jewelry that isn't trendy," said owner Cathy Marriott.

Tucked away in a far corner of Southfield's Applegate Square, the Kathryn Post store, opened last year, is finding its niche.

'We took things slowly," Marriott said. "First, we got the merchandise in that we wanted and carefully planned how the inside of our store would look. We think we have a fabulous look that's very complimentary to our merchandise and soothing to our clientele."

Designer Kathryn Post lives New York City and has been selling her goods to Neiman Marcus, I. Magnin and Horchow for years. Only recently did she decide to open franchises which would carry her own works as well as a select group of other artists. The Southfield store is the first Kathryn Post franchise.

The crystals are available in matte or sparkling styles and come in such rich colors, as deep pink, cabacon, navy, hematite and clear. She does giant initials in pins and earrings and many unusually shaped pieces that catch the eye.

"Barbara's designs compliment Kathryn's," said Marriott. "Seven of our 13 jewelry cases are filled with Barbara Groeger and we're taking more than a dozen special orders a

One thing that helped bring KP to the limelight was the international publicity Post received when she designed all of the elaborate jewels and crowns for the box office hit 'Coming to America," starring Eddie Murphy and Arsenio Hall.

That did wonders for the KP line." Marriott said, noting that more Hollywood wardrobe consultants are now working with Post

Other designers whose jewelry and accessories are carried at KP stores include David Fooz, whose specialty is sterling and vermeil, African motif and unusual bangles, and

"It's what we call bridge jewelry," Marriott.said. "It's all precious metal (sterling, gold and vermeil). This differs from Barbara Groeger's line which uses non-precious metals."

Unlike similar stores, many of the glass display cases are left open, allowing customers to reach in and "feel" a silk scarf or take a pair of earrings out and try them on.

"This helps them feel unpressured." said one of the saleswomen who lets her customers know that it's OK to touch.

ANOTHER ADVANTAGE of this price sticker without having to ask, avoiding embarrassment.

The least expensive item in the store the day I visited was a pair of faux pearl earrings by Barbara Groeger which retailed for $30. The same pair in Austrian crystal sold for $49 to a Brimingham woman who wanted to order the same design in two more colors.

The most expensive piece in the store looked like something by Harry Winston. A synthetic sapphire and cubic zirconia necklace retailing for $5,000.

Although many of the pieces at KP stores are copies of more expensive jewelry, the bulk of his merchandise is not just copies of the real thing.

"We're very, very different," Marriott said.

Harmonicas overcome image of a musical toy

staff writer

Little things mean a lot. Consider the harmonica. It's small and fits in your pocket. But don't let the size fool you. The harmonica carries more than its weight with serious and casual musicians. In all of music, harmonicas, also known as mouth organs, are the simplest of the free reed instruments. And they fascinate those who fancy a lively tune or a classical piece.

The harmonica, as we know it. was invented in 1829 by Sir Charles Wheatstone.

However, Benjamin Franklin diddled with his "musical glasses" - a graduated series of glass bowls fitting inside one another and supported by a spindle which revolved the edges of the bowls through a water trough — in the 18th cerifury. Fingertips touching the moistened edges produced the sound.

Anyone not convinced that haras are more than musical toys probably doesn't know that both Mosart and Beethoven composed for nart and Beethoven composed for the mouth organ.

Peter Madeat Ruth has been mak-ing a living by playing the harmoni-ca for 20 years and playing it profes-sionally for 25 years.

"I played the guitar first, heard a combination of both played together, and then gravitated to the harmoni-ca," he said. "Now I play solo with a band."

RUTH'S MUSIC has taken him all over the country many times to places such as Florida, Tennessee, Ohio and New York.

"I play with the band in festivals, concerts, and all kinds of events," he

The Ann Arbor resident shid his harmonica playing has been embellished with just three lessons, taken six months apart.

"And they were very, very good," he said. "Walter Horten, a blues harmonica player, took me on. He would play something, then say 'you do it' and I tried. He never said how to do

"I learned a lot from that and kept figuring what he meant and how he played what he did."

Harmonica playing keeps Ruth busy doing kid's shows, live performances, television and radio.

"Radio and TV are using harmonica much more lately," he said. "It's getting more popular; there's a de-mand in beer ads." Ruth can't even estimate the number of harmonicas he owns - "I carry a briefcase with about 35 of them.' When you reach Israel Hochberg's telephone tape, the message states: "This is the voice of Israel." Hochberg's connection with music goes back to his childhood. Born in Kosow, Poland in 1933, he lerael Hochberg learned to play the harmonica as a child, learning to play dance tunes in two weeks' time.

BY AGE 9, he was taking lessons on the recorder in school and later had four years of formal violin les-sons. "I didn't like the discipline, but I had an ear for music and I can still play the violin."

Hochberg came to this country after completing military service in Israel, following his parents who had emigrated here. He has three grown children, Ruth, Debhie, and David, When he isn't "fiddling" around "People should just buy one and experiment," he said. "Everybody I talk to has somebody in their family who can play the harmonica. Mostly, it's used for light music, but some play the classics on them.

Hochberg said the American musician, Larry Adler, made the harmonica a legitimate instrument, playing both classical and popular music, even in symphony orchestras.

IN THE LAST six or seven years, Hochberg has become a collector of musical instruments and attempts to play each new acquisition.

"I get them in flea markets, garage sales, wherever," he said.

Casually, he may pick up a guitar, a banjo, violin, or recorder and begin to play. He has drums, mandolin, banjolin, 12-string guitars and much

Village 'garage sale' to sell not-needed items

Cars programmed to brake for garage sales will be stopping at Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village on Saturday, Oct. 14, where Norton Auctioneers will conduct an auction of objects de-accessioned from the museum collections.

As with the articles offered at family garage sales, the items being presented at the auction, for one reason or another, do not "fit" the goals of the museum.

This auction is the result of the museums' on-going collections analysis program, an effort begun in the early 1980s. "We're trying to match our collections against our mission and goals," comments Harold K. Skramstad, Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village president.

"We continue to find objects that are in the collections that have little or no bearing on the story of America's past, or perhaps we might discover five, 10, and even 20 similar or identical pieces. These, along with many objects that simply are of poor quality and are not suitable for a museum are being offered to the public at the auction."

THE AUCTION WILL feature large quantities of vintage clothing and textiles - from buttons and boots to collars and petticoats; household items ranging from vacuum cleaners, wooden bowls and harness looms; and agricultural materials, including over 20 plows.

Proceeds from the sale will be placed in the museum's Collections Endowment Fund. Interest from this fund may be used only for acquiring additional objects for the collections or the conservation of existing col-

Beginning at 10 a.m., this large, public auction will be held on museum grounds and is expected to last the entire day.

Decoy mania

Waterfowl carving comes into its own as art form

By Kevin Lawrence special writer

"Art imitates nature and necessity is the mother of inven-

- Richard Franck in his Northern Memoirs, 1658

VER THE years, the saying - art imitates nature has evolved into art imitates life. But now, more than ever, art is imitating nature to a very exacting degree as was witnessed during the North American Wildfowl Carving Championship held recently in Livonia.

Hosted by the Waterfowl Preservation and Decoy Club of Michigan, the three-day show and competition in the Holiday Inn convention center included hundreds of handcarved, hand-painted new and antique duck decoys, game birds, birds of prey, shorebird and song

Dick Lancaster, 80, retired businessman, decoy collector, avid outdoorsman and waterfowling historian who "like any old bird," is a vice president in the club. He explained the development of decoy carving in Michigan, amidst part of a collection of 3,000 to 4,000 carvings he and his wife Louise have amassed over the years in their Farmington Hills home.

"Some of the best duck hunting in the world exists within 100 miles of Detroit," said Lancaster. "Originally, up to about the turn of the century, you didn't need decoys. The ducks were so thick in the air you just had to step outside and

"BUT AS TIME WORE on and the land was developed," he continued, "the duck population decreased through hunting and then the disappearance of some of their feeing grounds. The market hunter who supplied restaurants restaurants and the like, and the sport hunter needed help. Necessity was the mother invention for decoys.'

Lancaster went on to explain how must hunters initially carved WII GECOYS. to be very good to entertain a duck," chuckled Lancaster. But then masters of the craft began to emerge. And then to satisfy ever increasing demand - even duck decoy factories in Detroit.

"Nate Quillen (1839-1908), Ben Schmidt (1884-1968), Otto Misch (1910-1965), Ferdinand Bach (1888-1967) were some of the great carvers and their work is very much in demand by collectors. And of course, with such a big need for decoys in the area, commercial makers emerged. Peterson, Dodge and Mason were the commercial decoy makers in Detroit and all are now famous names to collectors

The Lancaster house in Farmington Hills is home to thousands of ducks — sitting side by side on shelves, table tops - wherever there is available space. Here, Dick Lancaster holds one carved in the mid '30s by Otto Misch for well-known boat racing enthusiast Gar Wood. Louise Lancaster holds one done by local carver Jeff Merrill.

Detroit's real decoy manufacturing claim to fame lies with the Mason brand decoy which was sold until 1924 all over the country by mail order, Sears & Roebuck and Abercrombie and Fitch. Collectors have paid up to $9,500 each for a good Mason.

However, $9,500 is rather inexpensive when you consider one of the top decoys in the world, a preening pintail drake by A. E. Crowell of East Harwich, Mass., circa 1915, was recently sold for $290,000. Antique decoys can sell anywhere from $1 at a garage sale to $300,000.

And beauty is in the eye of the beholder - very valuable carvings lectors right out of the back of pickup trucks from hunters who were ready to get rid of the old floaters for new. Like any other are collectable, worth is determined by the carver's name and reputation, condition and age of the piece, and the number of his caryings in existence.

WATERFOWL CARVING as a recognized art form has come into its own in the last 15 years in conjunction with an increasing awareness of our natural resources. There are really two schools of carving within the field. The original movement consists of service decoy carving, which may actually be placed in the water and used for

These carvings follow the classic lines and shapes of waterfowl. There is some surface texturing done to the wood but for the most part, feathering and coloring is ac-complished through the illusion of paint. This form is considered to be purist and tools used are much the same as 100 years ago - chisel

The newer movement, which could be considered realism, accounts for most entries in today's carving competitions and benefits from high technology grinding and carving tools. The realists produce carvings that are incredibly detailed. And unbelievably lifelike, right down to each strand of a single feather. These carvings typically serve decorative purposes and can take up to 200 hours to pro-

Interestingly enough, however, the newer, more accurate carvings though expensive, command less in the marketplace versus their antique counterparts. The most expensive newer carvings top out at around $7,000

"In today's world, carvers have made it so absolutely lifelike - it seems you could blow on a carving and ruffle the feathers," commented Louise Lancaster, also an avid outdoorsperson and hunter. "The old masters carved with a different purpose in mind - hunting. They followed the classic lines of the bird and the paint was all-important. Usually, people who enjoy the old bird won't have anything to do with the new and vice versa. But Dick and I enjoy the new carvings as well as the old."

There are reminders of the Lancasters' appreciation of nature and waterfowl throughout the home they built after World War II. Paintings, photographs and, of course, decoys and carvings are in every room. Married for 52 years, they met back in the early '30s and began a lifelong love of the great

"WHEN LOUISE AND I met, I was already a religious hunter," mas gift to her was a pair of hunting boots and was initially looked upon with a bit of skepticism. But we've enjoyed hunting together ever since.'

The Lancasters were married during the dark days of the Depres-

"For our honeymoon, we had a week and $50 to spend," laughed Lancaster. "After seeing Port Austin, Caseville, Bayport, Sebewaing and Sugarbeet Bay, we got home with a little of both left."

It was on that trip that the Lancasters paid $15 for their first string, or "rig" of six decoys that began a lifelong passion for nature and decoy collecting.

Left-brainers tend to be logical

Q: I've heard people joke about being born disorganized. Is there anything to that? Are people really born one way or the other?

A: Almost everyone is born either right or left brain dominant. This means that, while everyone utilizes both hemispheres of their brain, most people use one side more than the other. A great deal of research into right and left brain processing has been done in the last 25 years, with fascinating results.

While approximately 80 percent of the population switches back and forth between the two spheres within a normal range, 20 percent tend to utilize only one side or the other to an extreme extent. This does directly affect their organizational abilities, depending on which side they

'Underserved' retail market plays catch-up

By Doug Funke staff writer

Is there any end to commercial retail development in the northern and western suburbs?

Probably not, to hear a developer and real estate agent talk about it.

"As long as there are new population centers that aren't being served or older population centers . . . in a good location, there will be a need for retailing," said Bruce Gershenson, vice president of Ramco-Gershenson Inc. of Southfield.

Ramco-Gershenson, according to Crain's Detroit Business, is the largest retail developer in the Detroit area in terms of square feet under construction.

Joren Peterson, a retail specialist with Coldwell Banker Commercial Real Estate Services, doesn't see any immediate tapering of the shopping center boom.

Westminster Square

"It's continuous. It's just a revolving circle." he said.

IT SEEMS as if you can hardly drive along a major road without passing shopping centers under construction, recently-completed centers advertising for tenants or signs announcing new centers to come. Just a partial listing includes:

• Hampton Village in Rochester

• West River Centre in Farmington Hills. • Woodland Square and Laurel

Park Place in Livonia.

 Meijer's in Westland Sheldon Crossing in Canton.

Even with all of that work in progress or recently coming on line, there's still room for more, according to Coldwell Banker's 1989 review of the commercial real estate market in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties.

It concluded: "The outlook is good, however, since many local and na-tional retailers still are discovering that Detroit is an underserved retail market with less stores per capita than most major metropolitan

PETERSON VOUCHED for that

"If you drove around Chicago neighborhoods like I did a couple of weeks ago, you wouldn't think we had retail here," he said.

Shopping centers don't evolve out of the air for no reason at all, Gershenson said.

"It's a response to market needs," he said. "I look at population. Without population demands, you wouldn't have shopping centers.

"Then I look at effective buying power. Effective buying power is disposable income. If the effective buying income of a trade area is greater than retail sales, it indicates there's a lot of buying income not being served," Gershenson said.

"Another indicator that's very important is good north/south, east/ west accessibility - very good roads," he said. "The ability to get in is as important to the retailer as it is to the community."

NEW RETAILERS wanting to get into the Detroit market fueled the growth of shopping centers here, Peterson and Gershenson said.

They identified some of those players as Kohl's, Builder's Square, Target, Pace Warehouse and Sports Giant - large anchor stores around which smaller shops might want to Surprisingly, developers and retailers don't seem to shy away from competition.

Satellite centers gravitate to re-gional malls, like Woodland Square to Wonderland in Livonia, Oakland Plaza to the Oakland Mall in Troy and West Oaks Center to Twelve Oaks in Novi.

"Most retailers like to be where the action is. Most would rather be near competition and compete head to head," Peterson said.

The elements for explosive retail growth around the Westland Mall in recent years - Westland Plaza, West Ridge Plaza, Westland Crossings and Westway Plaza - can be seen in other commercial hot spots

"THERE'S STRONG density there, income is good, new housing is still being built there, freeways are nearby," Peterson said.

New construction won't be the only wave of the future, Gershenson and Peterson predicted. Older shop-ping centers will be renovated if they're in good locations and popula-

Some like the Redford Plaza at Telegraph and West Chicago and the Southfield Plaza at 12% Mile and Southfield already have been done.

Expansions are on the drawing board for Somerset Mall in Troy and the Livonia Mall.

Refurbishings and expansions. That's what Peterson meant when he termed commercial retail development "a revolving circle."

And renovation of existing proper ty will enable retail development to continue as land acquisition and development costs rise and the great migration west and north tapers off.

"In 10 or 15 years, these new centers will need facelifts and new looks, too," Peterson said.

sort condominium in the Harbor Springs area. The condominium project is about eight years old and the developer is apparently notori-ous for having drained the condominium project and gone belly up. The president of the association claims that all of these problems are now resolved. Do you have any suggestions for questions that I might pose before making a decision to buy a condominium.

A: The first thing I could recommend to you is to clearly define in your own mind the reason why you are buying the condominium. If you are doing it for investment purposes, be familiar with changes in the tax laws recently which have undermined resort condominiums for investment purposes to a large extent. On the other hand, if you are buying it for recreational purposes and are not concerned about the tax ramifications attendant with a resort condominium for investment purposes, you should resolve these questions: What is the financial condition of the association? Are the problems with the developer resolved? If not, what remains to be resolved, including any outstanding or pending litiga-tion? What was the result of litigation and what was the necessaity of litigation? Does the developer have a continuing interest in the condominium project? Are there any "recreation leases" or the like with which the association or co-owners will be saddled? Finally, check the real estate market as to whether the condominium project has a bad name because of its association with the developer who may have wreaked havoe throughout northern Mich

We are thinking about developing

We are thinking about buying a re- a warehouse condominium and I am wondering if you have had any experiences or knowledge of ware condominiums, either in the Detroit area or around the country, and are they marketable?

As in many other areas of development, industrial and warehouse condominiums are becoming increasingly popular, not only on the West Coast but on the East Coast and in Michigan. For example, on a recent trip to Philadelphia, I observed a number of warehouse condominiums that had been established incident to a developer taking an old building and transferring it into a condominium warehouse for storage purposes. It provided the developer with the latitude to increase the return on his investment by taking a building and using it to condominiumize the space within it, while retaining certain managerial rights with respect to the operation of the cond for which he was paid a fee. There is no reason why such a procedure could not be undertaken successfully in the metropolitan Detroit area de pending, of course, upon the price of the building, the cost of refurbishing, the management team in place with respect to the warehouse conduminium and the price per square foot required in order for the developer to come out shead in condominium;-ing the warehouse condominium.

cialize in buying and selling land contracts. Contact your real estate lawyer and ask if he or she knows of anyone who is in that business. Also check the real estate pages of the Observer & Eccentric papers for advertisements by people who are buying or selling land contracts. Finally, you may wish to contact a real estate broker whom you trust who may be in the position to refer you to peo-ple that are interested in buying a land contract. Obviously, the amount you should receive from a land contract sale is based upon value of the property, the quality of the land contract vendee who is making the payments to you now, the interest rate of the land contract, and the market conditions. You should consult with your roal estate broker before accepting any offer. Also ensure by the use of your attorney that you are re-lieved from any potential liabilities in the event of a default under the land contract. xarasse fo
