Schools struggle with overcrowding

Lower grades crowded

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

While class size is improved over last year in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, many elementary schools are still wrestling with overcrowding.

At Miller Elementary in Canton, every classroom in grades one through five contains more students than the number recommended by the district's Housing Committee. Both the Housing Committee and the Committee Researching Educational Workings say that ideally, class size should be limited to 25 in kindergarten through the second grade, and to 28 for grades three through five.

Here are some examples of overcrowding at local elementary schools:

- At Eriksson Elementary in Canton, all three fifth-grade classes contain 34 children.
- At Bird, all classes in grades two through four are over the recommended levels.
- Farrand has all first and second graders in classes exceeding 25 students. Both fifth-grade and two fourth-grade classes have more than 30 students.
- At Flegel, all five second-grade classrooms exceed 25 students. All three Flegel fourth-grade classes have 30 or more students.
- Field has all fifth graders in classes of 32 students.
- At Gallimore, all second- and third-grade classes exceed recommended levels, as do two of the three fourth-grade classes.
- At Hoben, three classes in the first, second and third grades are above optimum levels.

Crew report: Elementary school classes too large

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Since a school board-appointed citizens' committee recommended in May that class sizes be lowered in Plymouth-Canton schools, voters have approved a tax increase and a tax renewal.

But, while class size has come down to maximum recommended levels in the middle and high schools, more than half of the district's elementary schools exceed optimum levels.

Peggy Kalis, who served on the Committee Researching Educational Workings, told the school board recently, "At our school, (Farrand), I see no difference. In fact, I see an increase in class size. Parents are coming in and saying, 'Why is this? We passed the millage.'"

Norm Kee, assistant superintendent for employee relations, told Kalis, "The problem is students don't come in neat packages. There should be some relief in some classes."

MICHAEL HOMES, assistant superintendent for instruction, said "We haven't been as successful as some would have liked."

Superintendent John Hoben said "To change size by adding one or dropping one is a $700,000 item. In some buildings we're really handcuffed because we don't have any more space."

The tax provided $720,000 to hire 24 teachers. So far, 20.5 teachers have been added. CREW anticipated the roadblocks and suggested the following strategies to overcome them:

- Reassign teachers to provide relief in elementary grades first.
- Use aides in classes that exceed the maximum of 25 students up through second grade and 30 in grades three through five.
- Consider a bond issue to build an elementary school and eventually a middle and high school.
- Appoint teachers, administrators and parents to a class size review board to recommend optimum class size for specific grades and subjects and to handle special cases.

"Research indicates that in classrooms with smaller teacher-student ratios, the atmosphere is less hectic, We're kind of proud of the academic ratio. Kids are getting a break on that," he said.

The picture at the district's five middle schools is less clear. Fourth Friday figures show districtwide averages of 29 in the sixth grade, 26 in the seventh grade, 25 in the eighth grade and 27 in the ninth grade.

THOSE NUMBERS, however, reflect home rooms, not academic classes. Some schools have more teachers than homerooms, said Superintendent John Hoben.

Judith Stone is principal at West

Middle School, where four portable classrooms are in use.

Class size at West has dropped from 33 last year to 30 this fall.

"We have eight or nine students over last year, and two more full-time staffers. That's 10 more teaching hours," she said.

Cheryl Johnson, principal at East Middle School, said class sizes there have dropped from 35 to 37 last year to 30 or lower this year.

"We did what we told voters we'd do," said Johnson. "More physical space makes a big difference. In

Township approves small tax increase

Taxes for the average Plymouth Township homeowner will rise more than $9 next year, as the township board of trustees has approved a millage increase.

The board approved a 0.51-mill increase Tuesday, following a public hearing on the increase attended only by township employees.

"The increase is not that large," said Rosemary Harvey, township finance director. "I recommend that instead of taking any more from the fund balance (surplus)."

For the average township homeowner — with a house valued at $118,500 — taxes would rise by $9.44 next year.

THE TAX increase would raise approximately $240,000, Harvey told trustees. That money would help pay for a new police computer system with more capacity and a third fire station.

For the average township homeowner — with a house valued at $118,500 — taxes would rise by $9.44 next year.

Bag raked leaves for collection

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

City and township public works crews are getting ready to collect those leaves settling on your lawn.

In Plymouth Township, residents can bag raked leaves and set them out for garbage collection. Tom Hollis, township director of public works, said "If leaves get real bad in the street, we'll pick them up."

In the city of Plymouth, that means it's time to break out the "leaf sucker" — or vactor, which begins its rounds of city neighborhoods starting Oct. 23.

The city also uses two backhoes fitted with "claw" attachments that scoop up piles of leaves.

"The hydraulic claw runs along the curb and picks up the piles of leaves, we put that right into a dump truck," said Mark Hammar, Plymouth assistant director of public works. This rig is used "pretty much on side streets," he added.

The vactor sucks up leaves as a

DPW worker moves a chute among leaf piles in a side-to-side motion. When Plymouth residents rake leaves, "We prefer to have them out in the gutter line into the street,"

Hammar said. "The only thing we don't like is when they'll put big limbs out," he

Leaves make cheap fertilizer

Instead of having your leaves hauled to a landfill or recycling center, you can use them to fertilize your lawn, garden or shrubs.

Compost piles, made of leaves, grass clippings and food waste, can provide a cheap but effective fertilizer. And by tending a compost pile, you reduce the trash load being hauled away.

Leaves, grass clippings, weeds and straw are recommended for those beginning composting.

Back yard piles can be stored in a clean barrel, a wooden crate with chicken wire sides or against a cinder block wall — or just left standing alone.

However, the compost pile should be shielded from rain or excessive sunlight. Cover with a blanket or tarp if the pile is to be maintained over winter. Plant material decays into compost much faster during warm weather, but a compost pile can be kept over the winter.

The pile should be turned occasionally to speed decomposition.

The West Michigan Environmental Action Council advises to keep the pile moist but not soggy, and make the pile concave, like a dish, to prevent water run off.

Heat is generated naturally during decomposition, and that heat speeds the process. To keep the heat in, cover with a plastic sheet. Decomposition takes a year or less.

Students pick up on recycling examples

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Some Plymouth-Canton schools elementary students could teach adults a thing or two about recycling.

At Isbister Elementary in Plymouth Township, writing paper, cardboard, newspapers, tin cans and plastics are being collected by students in every grade for Canton Recycling.

And in Corrine Childs second-grade class, students "are writing to the president and to manufacturers to ask them not to use so much packing," which adds to waste, said Janet Cameron.

It was Cameron, whose son Phillip attended Childs' class last year, who helped get the project going at Isbister.

A NATIVE of England, Cameron moved to Canton three years ago when her husband, Phillip, took a new job.

"In England in the town where I lived (Leamington Spa), it was fairly easy to recycle glass" at English bottle banks, she said.

Cameron was surprised that non-returnable bottles weren't being recycled in Canton.

She learned of Canton Recycling and trained with the company. Then last spring, Cameron — who taught school in England — talked to her son's class about recycling.

"It's important to make the children aware of taking care of their community, the whole world."

AFTER THE recycling effort began in Childs' classroom last spring, "Some of the other teachers heard about it and said 'I want to do that, too.'"

This year, Cameron did a 30-minute program before 16 classes in grades one through five at Isbister.

Cameron, Childs and teachers Debbie Newman and Sharon Paul organized a school-wide recycling effort this year.

"The kids are really enthusiastic. They're very keen to do this," Cameron said.

During the week, writing paper is collected in boxes in each kindergarten through fifth-grade room.

ON FRIDAYS, students bring newspapers, cans and plastics. Parent volunteers take the material to the recycling center.

"I think the reason parents and teachers wanted to do this is so children would learn at an early age about recycling," Childs said.

Because a three-foot stack of newspaper equals one tree, "This week we saved 10," Childs said.

Besides getting kids to learn about and practice recycling, the program ties in with social studies, health and other sections, Childs said.

$1,000 reward offered in slaying of woman

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A $1,000 reward is being offered to help police identify the person who fatally shot Canton resident Beverly Wivell.

She was found unconscious on the side of the road Sept. 18 in Washtenaw County's Superior Township.

Almost a month after her death police haven't made an arrest. However, a reward was offered jointly through the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department and Superior Township for anyone with information that leads to the arrest and/or conviction of the murder suspect.

Wivell, 30, was on her way to Griffin Park, on Sheldon and Cherry Hill roads in Canton, before she was shot, according to Detective Lt. James Fink of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

However, he declined to say how he knew she was headed to the park or why he believed she was going there.

Wivell's body was found on Gotfredson Road south of Ford Road in a rural area of Washtenaw County.

POLICE LEARNED of Wivell's identity after a Canton resident reported that a 1986 blue Pontiac was parked near Griffin Park. The car was traced to her. No blood was found in the car, police reported.

Sheriff's deputies found Wivell lying unconscious at 10:20 a.m. Monday, Sept. 18, after a motorist reported seeing the body. A Superior Township man living in the area said he heard a single gunshot at 9:10 a.m.

Wivell's sister, Annette Bredemeyer, said Wivell lived with her parents in Ann Arbor and her last job was as a maid at the Knights Inn in Canton where she worked for less than a month.

Bredemeyer said her sister was getting a divorce from her second husband and was dating a man. Wivell had a 13-year-old son from her first marriage.

POLICE HAVE possible suspects in the case, Fink said.

"We get leads from time to time," he said. "The case hasn't died down by any means. We do have a couple of people whom we are looking at, but we don't have anyone exclusively."

A theory among police investigators is that the first 72 hours after a murder is critical for making an arrest. Fink noted exceptions to the rule.

"We had one case where the person was identified and it took 16 years to catch him," Fink said. "And others that took months to solve."

Superior Township officials established the reward system a year ago to encourage residents to help police solve major crimes. No money has been paid out of the fund, Fink said.

Fink said someone in Canton Township or Superior Township may know something that could lead to an arrest in the Wivell case.

Anyone with information is asked to call 971-7185 or 973-7711.

Principals are concerned about teacher-student ratio

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Like her colleagues in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, Eriksen Elementary Principal Judith Ireson is concerned about class size.

All of Eriksen's fifth grades have 34 children, which is "absolutely shocking," said Ireson. "I wouldn't want to see any more than 28."

"Children have such a wide range of needs, teachers need to work with them individually. It's hard with such high numbers to give them the type of instruction you'd like them to have."

First grades throughout the district are implementing a new program that allows children to progress at their own pace. "To be effective, class size (in first grade) should be 16-20," said Ireson. "Twenty-five is way too many. That really concerns me, and the teachers too. You can't do as much as you'd like.

"We'll probably need to build a few elementaries to lower class size," added Ireson. "Most every school has no extra space."

George Dodson, acting principal at Gallimore Elementary, said, "Unfortunately, students don't come to us in neat packages. I just worry about the little ones. I can live with a few more at the top end. Fifth graders are easier to manage. The little ones, in grades K-2, need smaller groups — no more than 24."

Field Elementary Larry Miller said that while numbers at his school aren't ideal, they're lower than last year's.

"We added two full-time teachers. We owe a real thank you to our community and our school board (for passing the tax increase)."

Allen Elementary School Principal James Burt said that with one or two classrooms, he could achieve ideal class sizes.

"The more teacher contact there is with each individual student in terms of helping the student learn and make progress, the better off the student is. Teacher-child contact time is crucial," Burt said.

CAROL NICHOLS, principal at Farrand Elementary, said there's been a "slight improvement this year."

"It's not as much as we would like, but it's the best we can do this year."

Sam Barresi, principal at Miller, said he was able to "add another teacher as a result of the success of the 4-mill proposition, which definitely helps. Overall, class size has improved."

Claudia Kulnis said, "It's really not bad" at Smith Elementary where she's principal. "But any reduction always helps because there's a better ratio. But we have such wonderfully trained teachers we've been able to manage."

Classes large in grade schools

teacher morale is better, instruction is more individualized, and students, particularly those at risk, achieve better," CREW said in its report.

"This committee recognizes the long-standing reputation of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for excellence. We feel that in order to maintain this standard, this issue must be of the highest priority."

A FEW WEEKS AGO, members of CREW, which also examined curriculum, finance and other areas, received a progress report from school officials.

Asked whether any recommendation was pursued by the administration, Pam DeNeen, committee co-chairman said, "To the best of my knowledge, I'd have to say probably not."

"I know they're trying to keep the lower elementary classes down because of the developmental program going in (at the first-grade level), but in terms of any official reduction, I'm not aware of any."

DeNeen, who substitute teaches for the district, said she feels like "a person who understands both sides of the fence. Class size, I believe, is a priority with everyone."

"From getting as involved as I have on the parent side of this and through CREW, I can see where the difficulties are in finding money and space. The biggest problem I see is space. There are no empty classrooms around."

"To be honest, I think we will have to look at districtwide redistricting. I think that even with a bond issue, we still need to look at boundaries again. May be that's an equal opportunity way to irritate everybody."

SUPERINTENDENT Hoben says that "overall, class size averages are better than they were a year ago, particularly in grades K-5."

"I would expect that at the secondary level, it would be even more pronounced because we're staffed at the same ratio as a year ago (and enrollment is down)."

Hoben isn't convinced that lowering class size is necessary.

"I think it's agreed that in classes over 40, size is a significant factor."

But, said Hoben, recent studies show "no measurable relationship" between class size and student achievement. "The same is true for teacher experience, education and salary and expenditures per pupil. What we do is get a lot of ballyhoo from unions and other places," Hoben said.

Plymouth-Canton schools' support staff, including learning and reading specialists and librarians, contributes to "a measure of quality that has made our district's program better than some others," Hoben said.

"But having them does get into the per-pupil ratio. We're trying to level off classes as fairly as possible."

"That does require additional staff."

The Extra Miler award has been given to Doris Balconi, a teacher at Lowell Middle School.

The award is given each month to employees of the Plymouth-Canton school district.

Balconi has worked for the district twice. Starting in 1966, she was a teacher for two years, but resigned to raise her family. She returned in September 1974 as a part-time worker in the Pupils Learning Useful Skills program. In 1975 she moved back into a full-time position at Fiegel Elementary School. Currently she teaches social studies to seventh and eighth grader students at Lowell.

middle school, kids are growing and active.

"Obviously, teachers have more time to deal with students on an individual basis if they're dealing with 150 students per day versus 175."

CARL TAYLOR, principal at Pioneer Middle School, said classes there vary in size from 32 in sixth-grade geometry to 34 in Introduction to Business.

Lower class sizes "are noticeable in some classes, but we're still governed by the curriculum. We may have a class that hits 17, and another that hits 30."

Taylor said that there's no space for additional teachers.

"It would make no difference if you sent me 100 teachers if I don't have the rooms to put them in. It's like trying to fit a family with four kids in a two bedroom house."

Patricia Patton is principal at Lowell Middle School, where enrollment is relatively low at 618.

"Just by virtue of the fact that we have a smaller enrollment, I think it's easier," said Patton. "We've lost population, and that brings us down. In some ways, we're in a more fortunate position."

"Each one of my counselors teaches one class to help class size," added Patton.

"Ideally, I would like to see counselors counseling full time. And our librarian isn't here a full day."

Grades 1-5 crowded

At Huling, all three fourth-grade classes have more than 28 students, as do three third-grade and three second-grade classrooms.

At Isbister, all four first grades have classes exceeding 30.

At Smith, all three first grades have 28 students. Two fifth grades have 31 students. Enrollment averages at the district's 15 elementaries are: 34 in kindergarten, 35 in first grade, 35 in second grade, 35 in third grade, 35 in fourth grade and 35 in fifth grade.

Building principals, in most cases, say that to reach ideal levels, one or two more classrooms are needed.

Mill on historic register

The Michigan Historical Commission has placed the Plymouth Mill, 888 Wilcox Road, on the State Register of Historic Sites.

The Plymouth or Wilcox Mill was the fourth village industry site established by Henry Ford. The Wilcox Grist Mill site was purchased by Ford in 1922, the old mill razed and the construction of the new Plymouth Mill completed in 1923.

Production started in 1923, with the mill employing approximately 25 men. Early manufacturing at the site was devoted to the making of generator cutouts, but was soon shifted to the production of taps, for use in making screws.

The mill produced 850 taps per day, and was responsible for the manufacture of 95 percent of all taps used by the Ford Motor Co. With the onset of World War II, operations were stepped up to two shifts employing 60 men, producing small aircraft engine parts in addition to taps. Shortly after the close of the war, operations at the mill ceased.

The State Register was established to recognize historic sites in Michigan. This designation enables the purchase and display of an official state identification marker noting the name of the site and the year of its listing. Sites with unusual historical significance may, upon application to the commission, also be deemed eligible for an informational marker.

said, adding that grass clippings are OK.

In Plymouth, the leaf pickup will begin in quadrant "C," one of four quadrants of the city designated by the DPW. That quadrant is bounded by Sheldon Road, Main Street, Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail.

Neighborhood kids traditionally like to watch the tractor in action, and Hammar said DPW workers also get a kick out of it. "It's not bad, it's one of the duties that the guys really don't mind doing, it moves pretty fast," Hammar said.

"Usually we go about to the end of November, that all depends on when the trees shed their leaves," he said. Where do the leaves go once they're sucked up?

"The past couple of years we were able to take them out to Bill Ruehr's place," Hammar said, on Warren Road in Canton.

The city collects enough leaves to spread out over 5,000 yards.

"This year we've gone to a different method," he added. Instead of trucking them to Ruehr's, the city will pay Canton Recycling to have them picked up from the DPW yard.

Hammar said the city will pay $150 per load to have leaves picked up, adding that there are three to four loads to be picked up each week during the leaf collection season.

By having leaves hauled to the recycling center, the city is following a state mandate "for cities to come up with a recycling program," Hammar said.

Hammar said that while "it was cheaper for us to take 'em out there (Ruehr's) and give them to him free," paying a fee to have them hauled to Canton Recycling will cost far less than paying for BFI to haul them to a dump. Hammar said it will also save workers' time to have Canton Recycling pick up collected leaves, instead of hauling them to Ruehr's.

By next fall, Plymouth Township will likely pick up leaves separate from usual trash, to be used in a composting program coordinated by the West Townships Utility Authority, said Jan Hoffman, township solid waste director.

MADD agenda for '90's stresses new laws

By Wayne Post staff writer

Drunk driving was scarcely an issue a decade ago.

But Mothers Against Drunk Driving, now completing its first decade, believes it has succeeded in increasing awareness of the danger of drunk driving.

Three recent headlines bear them out:

• Wayne County is drafting a new law that would force drunk drivers to pay all costs involved in their arrest, jailing and trial.

• Michigan State Troopers are testing a new Breathalyzer, billed as cheaper, faster and more reliable than current 1954-vintage models.

• The U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to determine whether the state can operate sobriety check lanes for drivers — giving new life to an issue previously thought dead. (For information on the county law, Breathalyzers and check lane case, see related story.)

As she scans the headlines, Wayne County MADD director Sandi Wolf said she realizes how far the issue and her organization has come in its first decade. And how far, she believes, it has to go in the next.

MADD has campaigned throughout the decade for greater public awareness of drunk driving and stiffer penalties for those convicted of drunk driving offenses.

While MADD can now count on allies among media, police, prosecutors and judges nationwide, Wolf recalled early problems in getting anyone to take the organization seriously.

"IT WAS tough," said Wolf, an eight-year MADD veteran. "I mean you'd go into a courtroom and jurors would just laugh you off."

Few are laughing now, but MADD faces new challenges as the 1990s approach.

Public awareness of drunk driving should receive another boost next month as MADD, assisted by area government and media, promotes its third annual ribbon campaign. The colorful ribbons, tied to side view mirrors, remind drivers not to drink and drive in the coming holiday season.

But New Year's, and a new decade, will bring a subtle change in MADD strategy.

Raising public awareness is no longer enough, Wolf said. The 1990s will be a time to change public policy.

In a sense, the check lane battle represents the first — and perhaps key — test.

"We're thrilled the Supreme Court will be deciding the issue," Wolf said.

Proposed by Gov. James Blanchard, and backed by MADD, the controversial state police check lanes struck out at all levels of the state court system after a one-night debut May 14, 1988 in the Saginaw area.

Three Michigan courts have looked at this program, all of whom rejected it," said Howard Simon, executive director of the Michigan chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union. "The Legislature had opposed it. The public had opposed it, and the evidence that came out in court was that these were not effective procedures for fighting drunk driving."

The ACLU has sued to block the check lanes.

Though an unfavorable ruling would be a setback, Wolf said the check lanes are just one of the measures being sought.

"WE'RE VERY interested in automatic revocation — lifting drunk driver's licenses right on the spot," Wolf said. "And we like to see laws giving police this authority."

MADD succeeded in the 1980s, Wolf said, in large part due to unified public support.

"The media were especially helpful in getting the word out," she said. "Once people became aware, involvement grew."

Social drinkers are drinking more responsibly, Wolf said.

"I think we've really been able to reach these people," she said. "At parties, people don't appear to be drinking as much."

The organization's success, members believe, lies in the fact that their approach is non-extremist — stressing responsibility, not abstinence.

sence. "We don't tell people not to drink," Wolf said. "We tell them to drink responsibly."

Still, she said, problems exist with hard-core drinkers.

"I don't know if drunk driving will ever cease to be a problem," she said.

And while the public has embraced MADD's public information campaigns, controversy surrounding check lanes, and possibly automatic license revocation, could drive some supporters away.

That's a chance MADD is willing to take.

"The important thing to remember is that we're trying to save people's lives," Wolf said.

Measures proposed

Here's what is being proposed, both locally and nationally, to curb drunk driving:

• Wayne County — County commissioners have approved a resolution calling for fines on convicted drunk drivers equivalent to the cost of their arrest, jailing and trial. Commissioners await cost estimates from the county sheriff and prosecutor before setting the fine and putting it into law.

• State Police — Highway patrol officers are currently testing a new Breathalyzer. The Infrared Intoximeter 3000 is billed as a faster, cheaper, more accurate way to test for drunken driving.

State Troopers are continuing to use their current Breathalyzers for traffic stops, the new infrared units are being used on suspects brought to a police station — and, at that, only ones in the Kalamazoo area.

"It's been tested in Kalamazoo, if it's approved we could be getting the new units sometime this year," said Lt. Shelby Slater of the state police Northville Post.

Back mothers, not abortion

To the editor:
I am writing in response to Judith Dwyer's editorial "Pro-choice dig into political battle ahead."

In this article concerning a pro-choice demonstration in Lansing, she asked, "I wonder where all the pro-lifers were?" Could it be that their commitment to save unborn babies involves not only political demonstrations, but other measures that require their time and energy?

There are many individuals in the pro-life movement who volunteer a great deal of their time to help women deal with the difficulties associated with an unplanned pregnancy.

Just a few of the services they provide include: Opening up their homes to pregnant women who have no shelter, providing clothes and other baby items to needy women after they have their babies, and counseling women who have experienced emotional pain following an abortion.

My question to the pro-choice contingent is, "Where is your support when a woman makes the choice to keep her baby rather than abort it?"

Country is Christian

To the editor:
I am writing to express my regret that you would publish an article such as appeared in the Monday, Oct. 2 issue entitled "Christian Country, Idea Not Acceptable" by James M. August.

I say that if all these people of other religious persuasions are not in harmony with the Christian concept of celebrating the birth of Jesus Christ, let them go back to the country where they came from to practice whatever they desire.

I have lived a long time in this country and my family came here from Wales in the 18th century. We have been in this country for more than 200 years. We came to have the freedom to practice our religious beliefs. We did not come to try to change everyone's ideas about how to approach God.

We sent our children to school and they learned to read from the Bible. To this date, in many countries where parks have been established and buildings set up to show others how we lived even as late as 100 years ago, you see the desks with a Bible on each one and on the slates, some verse of scripture for the attention of the class.

Many of the strong statements of this country were committed Christians and accepted the Christian principles as a way of life. During the last few years, it seems that we have many voices being raised to discount the claims of Christ.

You can also see what a pitiful shape our country is now in because everyone has turned to his own way and the true Christians are few and far between. Watch out, God is not mocked. His curse will fall on this country as it did on the Israelites when they disobeyed God's laws.

Society has regressed

To the editor:
Progress, according to the dictionary, is advancement toward maturity or completion; to move forward or onward; to advance toward completion of fuller development.

When using the term "progress," I think of modern medicine, the space program, computer technology and many other areas of advancement which have been made in our time. However, when I see a movie with excessive profanity, raging violence or casual sex, I'm led to believe that our society has severely regressed.

Is this really what the majority of the public wants, or have we just been slowly conditioned to accept it. After all, "we're adults; we can handle it." But what about our children? They will have grown up with this attitude as the "norm."

When we were young, we were firmly reminded not to use profanity, and that sex was personal between a man and wife, but not so today. No, we have progressed to an intelligent adult who accepts the "four letter words" being used in PG movies. Yes, Parental Guidance. All parents approving of profanity, violence and promiscuity please stand up.

Progress has helped make our country what it is today, but 50 or a hundred years from now when people look back at our movies and entertainment — what impression will it make on them?

Parking is still a problem

To the editor:
This letter is in regard to the Sept. 28 issue of the Canton Observer. The article was entitled, "Car Congestion a Problem." The story was well written and very informative.

I am the father of Christi Krajewski, the student at Plymouth Canton High School (described in story) that still is being denied a parking permit. Although there were stories in both the Canton Crier and Canton Observer newspapers about my request at the school board meeting for a parking permit for my daughter, it hasn't changed Jim Collins' mind about granting one.

In the newspaper article, Mr. Collins says, "And where do you put another parking lot?" If you will look closely at the enclosed photographs of the student parking lot, it looks like there is plenty of available parking space.

This photo was taken Oct. 2 at 10:30 a.m. I really fail to understand the negative attitude by Jim Collins of school security and the school board. How many others were at the school board meeting requesting parking permits? Zero.

It looks to me that a request for one parking permit could have been granted. What do you think?

Robert H. Krajewski

Adoption is expression of love

To the editor:

I applaud Tim Richard's call for increased public and private support of child adoption in his Sept. 11 column "Is adoption a better way than abortion?"

Mr. Richard makes valid social policy arguments in support of adoption, but it seems to me that the essential point may have been missed: the act of placing a child for adoption by the woman (birthmother), and accepting such child by the adoptive parents is an expression of love. This basic human emotion is fostered in an adoption environment that can be substantially free of guilt for the birthmother and stigma for the parents and child.

Progressive adoption agencies promote "semi-open" and "open" adoptions. The birthmother is allowed to choose prospective adoptive parents from their profiles (age, education, employment, interests, religion, etc.) and in some cases a face-to-face meeting may occur. Photographs, cards and letters may be shared either directly or through the agency in the years following the adoption, so that the birthmother knows that her child thrives. The adoptive parents gain valuable insight into the birthmother's motives which can be shared with the child at an appropriate time. Other valuable information, like medical history of the biological parents, can be learned in these exchanges.

As the proud adoptive dad of Bryan, 3½, and Matthew, 14 weeks, I can say without reservation that my boys were not rejected by their birthmothers. Rather, these two brave, wise women did what they felt was best for their babies, for valid reasons. What's more, my boys gained a family that can love and provide for them. We are a family in every sense of the word.

The press is at its best when it helps publicize the "adoption option" and encourages its general acceptance and use. It truly is "happy" news for all concerned.

Student wonders which teaching style is the best

Doc Doyle

Q: I am a student at a community college taking five classes. I have five different teachers. Of the five, two lecture for the entire session, one uses a lot of discussion and one uses some lectures but with discussion and group work, one seems disorganized at first — shoots from the hip but still gets the message across one way or another. I found the same situation in high school, teachers with different teaching methods. Why is there such a difference from one class to another?

A: The standard answer is that teachers teach the way they were taught. That is, as teachers went through high school and college, mainly college, they were influenced by how their college professors taught. The theory being they then tend to teach based on some role-model professor.

I believe teachers teach the way they learned best, not necessarily the way they were taught.

To answer your question we need to look at learning styles.

Some learners who become teachers tended to be auditory learners. Auditory learners are those who learn best by listening or talking with other people. They kind of sense and feel what is going on, process the information by watching peer reactions and often tend to seek consensus. Teachers who learned best this way often times use discussion techniques in class, class projects, cooperative learning and other small group work (with very limited lecture).

Other teachers were visual learners as students. As teachers they are not interested in discussions, but let's get to the facts. They analyze data, they learn away from group work. In the extreme, some of these teachers consider group work as "a sharing of ignorance." As a student they would say, "Just teach me and let's forget about all this interaction and sensitivity stuff." As teachers, these visual type learners oftentimes tend to lecture and depend upon the textbook approach.

Another type of learning style is a sort of common sense learner. This learner takes in information through his/her intellect then processes it by doing something. He/she wants to see it, touch it, feel it — called hands-on experiences in education.

Many learners of this type are turned off by school especially if it is the pure all hour-long lecture method. They want to take it apart and put it together. Many students who select industrial arts classes, because of the nature of the hands-on experience, are found in this category. Future engineers favor this type of learning experience.

Another teaching style you observed and noted is the teacher who works on intuition and instincts. Their organization plan is ready, fire, aim. Many are very creative, know where they want to go but not quite sure how they will get there. Their whole style is to leave it "open ended." They can make major intuitive leaps to get there. They are not systematic planners. Usually they are at ease with people, intuitive, very adaptive, but people who can't stand committees. Some students seek out and love these types of teachers, other students have a difficult time with the open-ended approach.

It is a challenge for students to deal with different teaching styles. You asked in my opinion is there one best way to teach?

I believe that using different styles — lecture, group work, hands-on and open-ended discussion makes for the best learning environment.

Dr. James Doyle is an assistant superintendent in the Troy School District. The answers provided here are the opinions of Doyle and not the Troy School District. Questions for this column should be sent to Doc Doyle c/o the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

THE DECEPTION OF SHOULDER JOINT PAIN

Pain in the shoulder joint is as common as in the knee or wrist. The presence of shoulder pain is not as readily recognized because the body "hides" the problem.

When the shoulder joint is inflamed, it cannot move with its usual ease. The surrounding muscles still work to position the arm so it can be raised above your head, extended to the side, or rotated behind your back. However, the usual smooth movement of the arm is changed to a series of tentative and hesitating motions as the body attempts to move gently over the areas of joint irritation.

Such a change spares the shoulder joint from pain, but puts considerable stress on the muscles compensating for the impairment. Pain felt down the arm, and up into the neck gives you the impression that you have a muscle or bone condition, but the likely cause is shoulder joint inflammation with muscle strain.

Physicians are trained to be aware of this subtle presentation of shoulder joint inflammation. Therefore, do not be surprised if the problem you present to your physician as "something in the muscles" leads him to respond with x-rays of the shoulder joint.

Artist is making his mark on ice

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

He's an artist whose works last for moments, not eternity.

Ted Waker of Westland is an award-winning sculptor, but his medium is ice, not marble.

A Schoolcraft College graduate, Waker is returning to Schoolcraft later this month to share his skill with others.

A member of Ford Motor Co.'s food service staff, he is based at corporate headquarters in Dearborn. His portfolio includes a life-sized Crown Victoria automobile, sculpted for Ford CEO Philip Caldwell's 1984 retirement party.

Waker has also created a 16-foot-high Disneyland castle, carved from 60 blocks of ice, with a Spider-Man-sized Mickey Mouse as its doorman.

But Waker said he doesn't mind. "I don't feel too bad about it," he said. "Most of what I create is a specialized piece for a special event."

IN ADDITION to his work for Ford, Waker has created pieces for British Airways and Nabisco. He has also created an icy Clydesdale for Anheuser-Busch.

Locally, he has sculpted centerpieces for weddings and parties. He also sculpts a weekly piece for an area luxury hotel.

Waker began his love for ice sculpture as a Livonia Franklin High School student. From there, he pursued a food service career at Schoolcraft.

While he's dabbled in clay, and chocolate carving remains another of his specialties, Waker's favorite medium is ice.

HE HAS captured first place at the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular and received second and third place ribbons at recent national and international competitions.

He runs his own ice carving business, Frozen Images, from his home, while most of his sculpting is done in a Detroit warehouse.

"Actually, the carving is not as difficult as handling the ice once it has to be shipped," Waker said.

He begins by roughing out his designs with a chain saw, then uses tools similar to a woodcarver's for detail work.

Though some pieces take a day's work — or more — to complete, Waker usually completes at least five pieces a week.

A piece can last for eight hours or more, depending upon room conditions, he said. "Then they melt away."

Ted Waker will teach a six-week ice carving class at Schoolcraft College, beginning Saturday, Oct. 28, from 12:30-4:30 p.m. Cost is $125. For more information call the college at 462-4448.

Ice sculptor Ted Waker puts the finishing touches on a piece that will decorate a buffet table in an area luxury hotel. Waker, a Westland resident, is a Schoolcraft College graduate and will return to Schoolcraft later this month to instruct others in ice sculpture. An award-winner at local, national and international events, Waker has created pieces for several national firms, as well as weddings and parties. Though also proficient at chocolate carving, Waker lists ice sculpting as his favorite specialty. He has been involved with ice sculpting since his days as a Livonia high school student. A food service employee at Ford Motor Co. world headquarters, Waker creates his works at a Detroit warehouse, though this piece is on the loading dock prior to shipping. Schoolcraft's ice sculpting course will be offered Saturdays, beginning Oct. 28.

Momma spills her secrets

Who can resist the heartwarming aroma of a fresh baked pie? Ask any family to name one of grandma's favorite desserts and pie is sure to stand high on the list.

Like many other New World foods, pie as we know it today is an all American invention. Pastries from the Old World were adapted by our Colonial ancestors to meet the sparse food supplies. Fillings for the pies — shiny tart apples, mellow, golden pumpkins and tart rhubarb — were gathered from the surrounding countryside. Today's pie, with vast improvements in flour, shortening and other ingredients, has evolved into a culinary delight.

Many-a-time, I have watched from behind the dust-ladened knead-knack shelf of momma's kitchen as she baked. To this day, I still don't think she owns a set of measuring cups or spoons; instead, she uses one of the most expensive utensils around — her arthritic fingers and a rolling pin that doubled as a "kid chaser" way back in the 1950's.

With the kids shuffled off to school, I recently spent a crisp fall afternoon with momma in her kitchen, just her, me and my notepad, watching and helping her make pies for an upcoming family baby shower. If the pages seem smeared, it's just the flour and shortening leeching its way out of my fingertips. Here's a primer on momma's secret suggestions for a no-fail pie.

To quote her exactly:

- "A pie is only as good as its crust. Use a light hand with your pastry. Too much handling toughens the pastry." So much for the Cuisinart, eh?

- For a sparkling, extra flaky top crust on fruit pies, brush ever so lightly with milk or cream, then sprinkle with just a tad of cinnamon sugar before baking.

- Never overcook fillings with a cornstarch base. Overcooking thins out the base.

- For better bottom crusts, brush the bottom with a teaspoon of beaten egg and then chill while preparing the filling. This will help seal the pastry and should prevent a soggy crust.

- After cutting the shortening into the flour, sprinkle water ever so gently into the crust and use a tossing motion to moisten the crust. Continue tossing until dough cleans the bottom of the bowl. Never pack and squeeze.

- Whenever possible, make the crust ahead of schedule so that the crust can have a chance to chill, solidifying the shortening or butter before rolling out.

Rose Levy Beranbaum, author of the "Cake Bible" might have her cakes down pat, but I'd put one of momma's tart cherry pies up against her galette any day. Momma never classified herself as a gourmet cook or baker, but it would be nothing to watch her spend an entire day preparing crusts and arranging lattice so perfect a close up shot could easily be entered into the Museum of Modern Art.

WINNER DINNER

RANDY BORST/staff photographer

Joyce Weigel is the first to win our recognition for her winner dinner. Here, in her Farmington kitchen, she presents a quick meal of Cordon Bleu chicken breasts, mushroom sauce, soft bread sticks, chocolate covered cherry cake, crushed cranberry sauce and a glass of cranapple juice.

Panel favors a family favorite

AFTER RECEIVING many wonderful recipes, the time finally came to select the first Winner Dinner.

It was not an easy decision because there were so many delicious dinners to choose from. However, Joyce Weigel's Mock Chicken Cordon Bleu got the nod after passing through the picky palates of a most discriminating panel of judges — my children and their assorted friends.

Weigel, mother of three grown children, operates her own professional typing and secretarial service out of her home in Farmington. The chicken recipe she submitted has been a favorite of her children since they were little.

Weigel likes to serve the chicken with extra stuffing on the side and top it all with a brown mushroom sauce that is easy to make. A small serving of cranberry sauce and a tossed salad filled with lots of crunchy vegetables complete the meal.

ALTHOUGH WEIGEL and her family are not big dessert eaters, she offered a recipe for Chocolate Cherry Cake Bars that are a delicious family favorite and also very easy to make.

I think I was just as excited and happy as Weigel when I called to let her know that her menu had been selected to be the first Winner Dinner. When I spoke to her a second time, she told me how thrilled her friends family-tested winner dinner

and family were for her. Weigel took the whole day off the day the Observer & Eccentric photographer came to take her picture for this column.

Anyone who called to speak to Weigel received the following message on her answering machine: "I'm sorry. I can't come to the phone today. My chicken and I are preparing for our photo session."

I hope this week's Winner Dinner will provide you with a fresh idea for your family and inspire you to send in your family's favorite dinner menu. Until next week, take care, and happy cooking!

Submit your recipes, to be considered for publication in this column.

Confetti's new chef takes a fresh approach

Every little bit of Confetti's contributes to a pleasant night out — the long, narrow restaurant with its award-winning design, the stunning large glass block windows, the attentive service, the fresh bread offered as soon as you arrive and, most of all, the varied menu of pastas and fish dishes.

One of the earlier trendy restaurants out West Bloomfield way, Confetti's looks like a sliver of a place from its front on Orchard Lake Road just north of Maple.

But walk inside and the restaurant stretches out before you like a two-tiered hallway. Though it seats 140, it feels smaller because of its design.

LARGE GLASS block windows on three sides of the restaurant let light filter in but screen out undesirable views. The restaurant's theme is carried out with colorful confetti strewn over white table cloths and pressed beneath glass overlays. Strips of blue and pink neon add to its contemporary feeling.

Designer Aleksis Lahti created a stunning restaurant from a brown, tunnel-like Maple House several years ago, and owner Bruce Cameron brought it to life with quality meals and excellent service.

Pastas and fish are the stars here. Until recently Cameron followed a "zero-based menuing" approach, creating a new menu each day based on the freshest, in-season foods available.

Fresh and in season are still the goals, but new chef Brian Gallagher intends to put a few mainstays back onto the menu each day. Like lobster alfredo, one of his favorites, and roasted pork loin served with peach chutney — a popular item, but one that you won't find just anywhere.

WHEN WE visited, the chef was serving up a delicious "spiced" shrimp that had been marinated in garlic, oil, ginger, pepper and Worcestershire sauce, and was then grilled with corn and red peppers. The shrimp tasted delicious — and slightly tangy. The wood spears, however, were a nuisance.

From a selection of six pastas, we tried the pesto pasta with clams and lobster in a white wine cream sauce — another excellently flavored entrée whose only fault was in a bit too much pasta and a slightly undercooked white sauce.

Other choices were equally tempting, including a chevre (roasted red peppers) fettuccine and a grilled sweetbreads fettuccine.

IF YOU'RE looking for something different from the pasta or red potato side dishes, try the cous cous, a Mediterranean pasta served cold and with a chutney.

Gallagher said many patrons send it back and ask for it to be heated but some like the cold, grainy dish. While we weren't thrilled with it either (it reminded us of cold oatmeal), it was something different and worth a try.

The Cuban black bean soup served the night we visited was excellent — prepared with just the right mixture of spices.

Our dinner salad was fresh and crispy, though nothing extraordinary. The mustard vinaigrette dressing was good, but — as is often the case — was poured on with a heavy hand. If you prefer a light dose of dressing, ask for it on the side.

AS THE new chef settles in, you can look forward to some new dishes and a delicate treatment of old favorites. He's planning to add mashed sweet potatoes and grilled potatoes on the side. He will be stuffing ravioli in various ways. The fish will be only what is in season, so tired white fish entrees.

Remember, recipes are meant to be changed

Cooking should be fun. If it isn't, then you aren't doing it right.

Perhaps you are one of those people who always follows every recipe to a "tee," afraid to make any changes or substitutions.

Recipes are created by ordinary human beings, just like you and me. They are not carved in stone by lightning on a mountain top. So, don't be afraid to experiment.

Once upon a time, when my oldest son (now nearing 40), was a toddler, I was making a meat pie from a recipe someone had given me.

I had fried the ground beef with onions, drained off the excess fat, seasoned it, and set it aside, while I prepared the biscuit dough, which was to be the crust for the pie.

Just then, the telephone rang, and I went into another room to answer it. I wasn't gone long, but by the time I returned, little Jimmy had dumped the meat mixture into the dough mixture, and was joyously kneading the two together with both hands.

There went my meat pie. But the ingredients were too good to throw away, and I didn't have anything else for supper. So I helped him mix it more thoroughly, and rolled out the dough on a board.

Together, we cut out little rounds, like you would for biscuits, and baked them. The results were terrific.

We called these little meat-filled biscuits, "Jim-Jims," and they became a family favorite. Sometimes we substitute bulk sausage for the ground beef, and sometimes we add shredded cheese to the mixture.

A plate of Jim-Jims straight from the oven, or nowadays, reheated in a microwave, served with a bowl of hot soup, still makes my family members very happy.

I once dropped a cake, and broke it. It looked terrible. Company was due any minute. I put the salvageable pieces into individual dessert dishes, poured chocolate syrup over them, and topped each dish with a squirt of whipped cream and a maraschino cherry.

My guests raved over the delicacy, and no one ever knew I didn't plan it that way.

My five-year-old granddaughter loves to eat and she loves to cook. One day, she decided she wanted both honey and ketchup on her hot dogs. Instead of trying to discourage her, we mixed honey and ketchup together and glazed our frankfurters with the mixture as we grilled them. They were sensational.

Since then, we've tried honey and mustard, honey and Heinz 57 sauce, honey and barbecue sauce, etc. Some of these combinations have tasted better than others, but all were happily eaten.

Meanwhile, my granddaughter Krystal has gained the satisfaction of trying something new and creating her own recipes for the first time. And she's acquired a self-confidence that I'm sure will be helpful in many situations in life that have nothing to do with cooking.

And, best of all, we had fun doing it.

Right now, many of you may have vines full of green tomatoes that you know will never ripen before the frost. Why not try the recipe for mock raspberry jam invented by some ingenious cook who wasn't afraid to play around in the kitchen.

The results will astound you. It is hard to imagine it isn't the real thing, even after you, yourself, made it.

MOCK RASPBERRY JAM
green tomatoes (about six) 2 cups white sugar
one 3-ounce package of raspberry jello

Core and cut up the green tomatoes. Process them in your blender until you have 2 cups of pulp. Boil the tomatoes and sugar together for 15 minutes. Remove from the heat and stir in the powdered gelatin. Cool slightly. Pour into clean containers and refrigerate or freeze.

cups, but I'd never print it because nobody today would ever eat it, even for old time's sake.

But because we had chickens, we also had eggs, and my father invented an egg and cracker recipe he called cracker pancakes.

We've all loved it, and it has been passed down for three generations. All of my children make them, even when they have company. My grandkids love them for breakfast or supper.

They can be served with syrup or with catsup; eaten with fruit and powdered sugar, or with salt and pepper and bacon or sausage.

CRACKER PANCAKES
milk

Beat up eggs, one or two per person. Add one-eighth cup of milk for each egg, and beat some more. Crumble crackers into coarse crumbs. Use your own judgment as to how many. Some people like a dryer pancake, and some like a moister one. Add crumbs to the eggs and milk mixture, and let sit for a few minutes, until the crackers soak up the egg mixture. Drop mixture by tablespoonfuls onto a hot greased skillet, and cook as you would any pancake, flipping over when firm, and the first side is done to a golden brown. Then cook the other side. Serve hot.

Here's another unusual pancake recipe, made up when we had cold spaghetti left over, and no sauce to go with it.

SPAGHETTI PANCAKES
4 cups cooked cold spaghetti or macaroni
3 eggs, well beaten
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons milk

Combine all ingredients, and season to taste. Use salt, pepper, orega-

kitchen witch
Gundella

no, a dash of cayenne pepper, or whatever suits you.

Sometimes I add 1/4 to 1/2 cup of Parmesan cheese, if I have it on hand. Sometimes I throw in shredded cheddar, or maybe some green onions.

I almost never make these the same way twice, but they are always delicious.

Fry as you would any pancake, until golden brown, turning it carefully to cook both sides. You can make a large pancake the size of the skillet, cooking the bottom on top of the stove, and then placing it in the broiler to cook the top. Then turn the whole large pancake out on a plate with butter, and garnish as you like. This serves about four people, all of who will love it, and call you their favorite kitchen witch.

The important thing is that you have fun cooking. Try new flavorings and spices you haven't used before. Experiment with new combinations, and make up a few of your own. Recently, I added some butter pecan flavoring to the apples in a pie I was baking. The taste was terrific.

Start with something simple, like a sauce to serve over your fish, meat, or vegetables. Taste your recipes as you prepare them, and add seasonings when needed.

Encourage your children to play at cooking with you. One year, when I was still teaching school and all four of my children were still at home, we all took turns cooking one day of the week.

Sometimes we had strange menus, but before long, even the youngest children were well able to plan, cook, and serve a palatable, well-balanced meal and have fun doing it. I was always there to help but by the end of the year I was seldom needed.

Another really fun thing to make is fried ice cream. It sounds and looks hard to make, but it's really easy. I made up this recipe, and I like it better than any other I've tried anywhere.

FRIED ICE CREAM
Using your hands, shape any flavor ice cream into round balls, just as you would make snow balls. (Keep a dish of warm water close by to dip your hands in as you work.)

Roll these ice cream balls in cake crumbs or cookie crumbs, until completely covered. Wrap in foil, and place in the freezer until very hard.

These will keep in the freezer indefinitely. I used to keep some there all the time, and take them out when I had unexpected company.

When you want to serve them, unwrap them, and dip each ball in tempura batter (see below). Deep fry in hot oil or vegetable shortening until golden brown. Drain on paper towels.

Serve at once, topped with hot fudge, butterscotch, or other ice cream topping. To be really fancy, add whipped cream, cherries, and/or nuts.

TEMPURA BATTER
1 beaten egg (you may use two egg yolks, if you have any left over from some other recipe)
1 tablespoon water
1 tablespoon flour

Beat ingredients together until smooth.

Note: If you have any questions about these, or any other recipes, you may call Gundella at: 427-1072. Or, write her at: Box 434, Garden City 48135.

Mock chicken cordon bleu
Brown mushroom sauce
Cranberry sauce
Tossed salad

MOCK CHICKEN CORDON BLEU

These individual chicken bundles take about 15 minutes to prepare and can be made in the morning, covered and refrigerated until placed in the oven. This recipe is for four people but can be adjusted by changing the number of chicken breasts.

4 boned chicken breasts (you might consider boning your own breasts — a simple procedure and certainly more economical)
herb stuffing
1/4 cup melted butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt or to taste (optional)
1 teaspoon paprika (optional)
1/4 teaspoon pepper (optional)

Combine butter and seasonings. Brush inside of chicken breasts with the seasoned butter and spread with stuffing. (Weigel recommends the packaged herb stuffing or Stove Top Stuffing for chicken.) Prepare stuffing according to the package instructions. Roll and fasten with toothpicks or skewers. Brush outside with seasoned butter. Place on rack in a shallow pan and roast, uncovered, in a preheated 350 degree oven for 50-60 minutes. Baste occasionally. Serve with extra stuffing on the side and spoon on Brown Mushroom Sauce.

BROWN MUSHROOM SAUCE
If you have children who don't like mushrooms, eliminate or reduce the amount of mushrooms used. The sauce tastes best if it is made at the last minute.

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (2 ounce) mushrooms drained or sliced fresh mushrooms
3 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt (optional)
a few drops of Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup consommé and 1/2 cup of water or
1 cup water with chicken bouillon cube dissolved.

Melt butter in saucepan; add mushrooms, flour and seasonings and brown. Add liquid gradually and stir while cooking until thickened. Makes about 1 1/2 cups. Serve the sauce over the chicken and stuffing.

CHOCOLATE CHERRY CAKE BARS

1 package fudge or chocolate cake mix
1 can (21 ounce) cherry pie filling
1 teaspoon almond extract
2 eggs, beaten
frosting

Using solid shortening or a non-stick spray, grease and flour either a 15-by-10 pan or a 13-by-9 pan. In a large bowl, combine all ingredients. Stir until well-mixed. Pour into prepared pan. At 350 degrees, bake 15-by-10 pan 20-30 minutes; 13-by-9 pan 25-30 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

FROSTING

1 cup sugar
5 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup milk
6 ounces chocolate chips

In saucepan, combine sugar, butter and milk. Boil, stirring constantly, for one minute. Remove from heat; stir in chocolate chips until smooth. Pour over the cake or bars.

Sharing pie recipes, tips

MOMMA'S PIE CRUST

approximately 3 1/4 cups all purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup (1 stick) butter, cut into bits
1/4 cup solid vegetable shortening, cut into bits
5-6 tablespoons ice water

Sift flour and salt into a mixing bowl. Add butter and shortening in bits, working in and tossing continuously until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle with half the ice water. Stir lightly with fingers. Add additional water by the teaspoon until dough clings together and cleans the bottom of the bowl. Divide dough in half. Wrap in plastic and refrigerate at least one hour until ready to roll out.

PUMPKIN PIE

1 single pie crust

Filling:
16 oz. pumpkin puree
1/2 cup dark brown sugar, packed
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground allspice
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 large eggs, room temperature
1 cup heavy cream

Roll out pastry into a 12-inch circle.

Line a 9-inch pie pan with the pastry and crimp rim as desired. Line pastry with foil, then fill with dried beans and bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 375 degrees. Whisk pumpkin with remaining ingredients. Pour filling into pie shell after removing dried beans and foil. Bake for 30 minutes.

DUTCH APPLE CRUMB PIE

1 pie crust for a single pie

Filling:
6 Granny Smith apples, pared, cored, cut into even chunks
1/4 cup dark seedless raisins
1/4 cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Topping:
3/4 cup all purpose flour
1/4 cup brown sugar, packed
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons butter, cold, cut into chunks

Roll out pastry and place in a 9-inch pie pan. Crimp crust as desired. Brush lightly with an egg wash, then refrigerate until ready to fill. In a bowl, combine apples, raisins, sugar, cornstarch and cinnamon and toss well to coat. Stir in sour cream and vanilla. Set aside. In a separate bowl, stir together the flour, brown sugar and cinnamon and mix well. Add butter in small chunks and mix with fingers until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Pour apple filling into crust. Sprinkle with topping. Place in a 350 degree oven and bake for 25 minutes. If top is browning too quickly, wrap edges of pie with foil and continue baking for an additional 30 minutes.

FRESH BERRY PIE

Pastry for a two-crust pie:
2 quarts fresh berries, (blueberries, raspberries)
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/4 cup sifted all purpose flour
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Roll out half the dough and line a 9-inch pie plate with the dough. Brush lightly with an egg wash. Refrigerate until ready to fill. In a large mixing bowl, combine berries with sugar and flour. Toss gently with hands to coat. Place berry filling in prepared crust and dot with small butter chunks. Roll out remaining pastry for top crust. Secure by crimping edges with fingertips. Brush lightly with milk and sprinkle ever so lightly with sugar. Cut vents to allow steam to escape. Bake in a 400 degree oven for 40 minutes or until pie is golden or juices are bubbling through the vents.

Forget the newfangled black baking dishes. Momma would never be seen with a pastry wheel when a good sharp knife would suffice and banish the thought of a tinned pastry cutter when we all knew that "that's what God gave you fingers for."

If you see one of the day-flying buckmoths (top left), Lucina (middle) or Neve-dansie, write down which species you think it is, where you found it and when you found it.

TIM NOWICKI/illustration

Help identify buckmoths

Man is a very curious animal. He is constantly in search of information. Whether reading newspapers, magazines, books, or watching the news on TV, people are continually gathering more information.

There is also a strong drive to search out the unknown. Researchers are driven by their desire to answer questions that have no answers, and by the satisfying exhilaration felt when they find the answer.

Nature poses many questions that are yet unanswered in a "laboratory" that is everywhere. One does not have to be a trained scientist to discover, or help find the answers either.

There are not many areas of study in the world today where one can make a contribution to new findings as an amateur, except in the natural world. Participating in the search for answers is a very satisfying feeling.

WHILE ON the north shore of Higgins Lake recently, some students found a buckmoth along the shore. At certain times large numbers can be found in this region of Michigan. But the significance of the identification may help Drs. W.H. Wagner and B.G. Scholtens from the University of Michigan solve a problem.

Timothy Nowicki

Wagner and Scholtens have published "wanted" posters for information about the kind and location of specimens of this species. They eventually hope to find out if there are two, three, four, or one highly variable species of buckmoth found in Michigan.

It would be very difficult for these two men alone to gather enough information to solve their problem. So they have enlisted the help of people who might have opportunities to observe this species, and have asked them to send in their observations.

In this way, the researchers are obtaining valuable information and amateur naturalists are contributing to the solution of an unsolved mystery.

If you see one of the day-flying buckmoths depicted above, write down which species you think it is, where you found it (include the type of plants and habitat it was in), and when you found it. Send this information to either W.H. Wagner, Jr., or B.G. Scholtens, Department of Biology, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48109.

This is just one of many projects that interested individuals can help with. Your efforts not only help the researchers but you feel good about contributing.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence-Oaks Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

Madonna sets $10 million goal

Detroit Red Wings owner Mike Ilitch and downriver businessman Helms Prechter were recently named co-chairmen of Madonna College's "Campaign for Academic Excellence."

The five-year fund drive seeks to raise $10 million for the Livonia-based college.

An estimated $2.4 million in pledges have already been raised, college officials announced.

Ilitch is chairman of Little Caesar Enterprises Inc., Farmington Hills. Prechter is chairman of ASC Inc., Trenton.

DEAN RICHARDSON, chairman of Manufacturers National Corp., Detroit, is honorary chairman.

The event will formally begin with a breakfast for business and community leaders Wednesday at the Hotel St. Regis, Detroit.

Madonna is a four-year, co-educational liberal arts college. More than 4,000 students are enrolled in Madonna's 60 academic programs.

Forty percent of the money raised through the campaign will be earmarked for students scholarships and grants, college officials said. An additional 30 percent will be used to finance academic professor chairs, develop faculty and promote international studies and honors programs.

Twenty percent will be set aside for programs for the disabled, high school outreach programs and college sign language programs, billed as the nation's largest mainstreaming program for the hearing impaired. In addition, 10 percent will be used for computer equipment, including an automation system for the college library and support for science, math and specialty programs.

Poet, author to appear at Schoolcraft

Barbara Drake, poet, author and well-known teacher of creative writing, will discuss writing poetry and prose and give a reading at Schoolcraft College on Wednesday, Oct. 25.

Drake will discuss writing at 2 p.m. in the Liberal Arts Theater. At 8 p.m. she will give a reading in Room 300, Liberal Arts Building. Admission is free.

Drake's poetry collections include "What We Say to Strangers." Her poetry, fiction and reviews have been published in many literary journals. Her textbook, "Writing Poetry," is used in both writing and literature classes. She is an associate professor of English in Linfield College in Oregon. She is the recipient of a number of awards, including a National Endowment for the Arts writing fellowship in poetry.

Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads.

Fashion show to benefit college foundation

Jacobson's and the Schoolcraft College Culinary Arts Department will team up to present a fashion show and gourmet dinner to benefit the college foundation on Wednesday, Nov. 1.

"Glitter, Glamour & Gourmet" is the theme of the fund-raiser set for 7 p.m. in the Schoolcraft College

Waterman Campus Center.

A gourmet dinner will be preceded by a showing of holiday and winter fashions for men and women. Door prizes include two round-trip tickets to anywhere in the continental United States donated by Northwest Airlines.

Tickets are $35 per person.

Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads. For ticket information, call the foundation at 462-4417.

The foundation provides scholarships and grants to Schoolcraft students.

Chiefs share league title

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The old adage "there's a first time for everything" came true to life for the Plymouth Canton girls tennis team last week.

On Thursday, the Lady Chiefs outscored regular season dual meet champion Northville, 21-16, to claim their first Western Lakes Activities Association title ever. The rain-delayed meet began Tuesday, but was not completed until Thursday at Livonia Stevenson. See tournament results.

Technically, because of Northville's league-leading 11-0 dual meet record, the Mustangs earn a share of the title in the final positioning of the WLAA standings. The dual and league meet finishes are weighed equally — 50 percent each. (Canton's dual meet record was 10-1 with their only loss coming against Northville, 4-3.)

But in the WLAA tourney, Canton was the superior team, winning titles at Nos. 2, 3 and 4 singles.

"Our (dual) meet with Northville was close, but it was still disappointing to lose," said Canton coach Carol Michaels. "We faced them in the middle of the season and had a tough week because of all the rainouts. It was on a Friday and it was our fourth match of the week. I think we were kind of tired, but I think Northville was in a similar situation, too."

CANTON CAME OUT on top in all three singles semifinal meetings against Northville, and then top seeds Sherri Bajer (No. 2), Alissa Huth (No. 3) and Michelle Sparkman (No. 4) all completed undefeated conference seasons by winning their respective flights.

"We were very happy with the draw," Micha-

tennis

els said. "But beating Northville in all three of those matches caused the point turnaround. It would have been much tougher had we not won those matches."

Bajer grabbed her individual crown by defeating Farmington's Harrison's Lisa Tomle, 7-5, 6-4; Huth took out Plymouth Salem's Shikah Kapila, 6-4, 6-1; and Sparkman downed Salem's Tracy Anderson, 1-6, 6-1, 6-1.

The Lady Chiefs also got a lift at No. 1 singles when unseeded Tanya Bowsman upset No. 2 seed Stephanie Geelhood of Walled Lake Central in the quarterfinals, 6-3, 6-3.

"That was a nice win and it certainly helped," Michaels said.

Canton's No. 1 doubles team of Leanne Gur-chak and Denise Gildo also pulled off a surprise, knocking off the No. 1 seeds from Central in the semifinals, Dee Geelhood and Marga Strobel, 6-0, 7-6.

But Livonia Stevenson's Amy Snow and Courtney Richa grabbed the No. 1 doubles crown with a 1-6, 6-3, 6-2 win over the Canton duo.

"OUR NO. 1 doubles team lost to Central before, but they just kept getting better and better as the season went along," said the Canton coach.

Heather Kaye and Resham Batra of Canton reached the semifinals at No. 2 doubles, as did the No. 3 team of Reetika Aulakh and Parikh Viraj.

"Everybody improved," Michaels said. "All four of our singles players are seniors. Both Sherri (Bajer) and Alissa (Huth) won the conference at No. 2 doubles together and as freshman they were on our only team ever to qualify for the state meet. They've been motivated ever since. They've been the leaders of this team."

The individual leader of the tournament was junior Kori Davidson of Harrison, who lost only four games in three matches en route to the No. 1 singles title.

Davidson, a nationally-ranked U.S. junior player, defeated Livonia Franklin sophomore Tanya Berner in the finals, 6-1, 6-2.

Northville's Tricia Tomminia and Rebecca Bellamy, the top seeds, took the No. 2 doubles crown with a 7-6, 6-3 triumph over Stevenson's Sue Bell and Lori Bailey, 7-6, 6-3. The Mustangs also added their second title at No. 3 doubles when top seeds Julie Howard and Merilyn Millgard outlasted Livonia Churchill's Kathy Wira and Jenny Flanagan.

HARRISON AND STEVENSON tied for third in the league meet with 12 points each, while Salem was a distant fifth with 10.

"We both finished third (Harrison and Stevenson) and we both feel good about it," said Stevenson coach George Croll. "We always do well in doubles because we have depth. But Harrison is going to be really good next year. They have four or five freshman in their lineup right now to go along with Davidson."

But this season, it's Plymouth Canton's turn to shine.

Michael's summed it up best about the three-day meet: "I was very pleased."

Ryan Johnson of Salem barrels forward into oncoming Glenn defenders in the showdown for the Lakes Division crown Friday. The Rocks lost 7-6 when Glenn scored with 5 seconds left in the game.

Late score lifts Glenn to victory over Rocks

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Westland John Glenn's Chuck Gordon had his team huddled in the locker room after an emotional and stunning 7-6 homecoming football victory over Plymouth Salem when his 73-year-old father, Gayland, walked in.

"How's your heart, dad?" said the happy Glenn coach. "Is it still ticking?"

There were a number of gut-wrenching moments in this battle of unbeaten, but Gayland's 275-mile trip from up north was certainly worth the travel after the Rockets marched 82 yards with less than two minutes to play for the game-winning points.

Quarterback Eric Stover threw a 9-yard pass to David Ryan with just five seconds left, and Wes Taylor, who earlier had missed field goals of 46 and 53 yards, drilled home the all-important extra point, giving Glenn a one-point win and the Lakes Division title in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

The Rockets (7-0) now face Western Division champion and top-ranked Farmington Harrison (7-0) for the WLAA crown Friday at Glenn.

The loss was hard to swallow for Salem, which appeared to have the game all but won when quarterback Rob Kowalski, running a bootleg, caught the Glenn secondary napping with 2:03 to play. He broke open a fierce defensive struggle when he hit Scott Austin with a 37-yard touchdown pass.

BUT THE ROCKS couldn't convert the extra point as Glenn's Tommy Lawrence broke through the Salem line and blocked Scott Rodgers' attempt.

"Our kids played hard and deserved a better fate," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "As it turned out, the damn extra point beat us."

Salem's inspired defense, led by the play of linebackers Ryan Johnson and Brian Burlison, was ready when Glenn took over at its own 46 with 1:56 to play.

Burlison sacked Stover for a 13-yard loss on first down, and the Rockets were thrown back 15 more yards because of offensive pass interference call.

Faced with third down-and-38 from his own 18, Stover found Mark Wetmore on a crossing pattern over the middle, good enough for 37 yards.

Saddled with a fourth-and-1 situation at the Salem 44, the Rockets called timeout. Stover ran a quarterback sneak to gain the first down and keep the drive alive.

After another timeout, Stover worked the clock to perfection in the final 39 seconds, completing passes of 15 yards to tailback Shannon Layne, 16 to tight end Garnett Woody and 9 to Wetmore.

WITH THE CLOCK stopped with just nine seconds remaining, Stover was summoned to the sidelines and given final instructions by Gordon.

Harrison deals first loss to Canton

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

A bruised kidney kept Gary Devine out of Farmington Hills Harrison's previous football game, but he had too big a heart to be held back Friday night.

Devine produced a two-play sequence that secured an eighth consecutive Western Division championship for the Hawks, who outtrounced host Plymouth Canton in the first half and eventually won 28-7.

Harrison, the defending league champion, finishes 5-0 in the division and is 7-0 overall. The Chiefs, who had their seven-game winning streak — the longest in school history — snapped, are 4-1 and 6-1.

After Canton stunned the Hawks with an early-third quarter touchdown and recovered a Harrison fumble, Devine single-handedly caused a decisive switch in momentum.

The Chiefs, trailing 21-7, decided to go for it on fourth-and-1 at their 27-yard line after an offside penalty on the Hawks.

DEVINE, A 5-foot-8, 150-pound noseguard, shot into the Canton backfield and tackled Chris James for no gain. Then, on first down for Harrison, he ran 37 yards up the sideline for the clinching touchdown.

"I just put my nose down and went right in there," Devine said. "I beat the center on the play. That pumped me up, and I got the ball and went all out."

Canton coach Bob Khoenle didn't regret the decision to try for the first down but said he would have called a ### football

play other than sending James into the middle.

"WE SHOULD have gone outside more, because they're too strong; they react too well," he said of the Hawks.

"It was a turning point, but I don't know if it would have made a difference. They're just a helluva football team. I don't know who's going to beat them."

The Chiefs got new life when Jason Bielec intercepted a Mill Coleman pass on the second play of the third period and returned it 35 yards for Canton's only score.

Harrison also lost three fumbles in what was a frustrating second half for the state's No. 1-ranked Class B team. The Hawks will play at Westland John Glenn in a rematch of last year's Western Lakes Activities Association final at 7:30 p.m.

"WE MUST improve if we're going to challenge for the championship next week," Harrison coach John Herrington said.

"Other teams are improving, and I'm not too sure we have been. When other teams have scouted you a number of times, they defend you better than earlier in the year."

"Coach Khoenle has done a super job with his team. I knew three years ago when he booted three of his best players before our game for missing a practice he was going to get things turned around."

While the Hawks didn't overwhelm Canton with the quick score in the first half, they were methodical and machine-like on offense, punching out three long scoring drives.

"We played the way I would have liked to see us play the whole game," Herrington said. "We moved the ball, and the defense was outstanding."

HARRISON'S DRIVES consisted of 13, 13 and 10 plays and covered 71, 90 and 65 yards, respectively. The Hawks scored on the opening possession, Coleman running 6 yards for the score after Matt Conley pounded the middle on four previous plays.

The Chiefs forced a Harrison punt the next time, but the Hawks used much of the clock with successful drives on their third and fourth possessions.

Coleman, who was 6-of-13 for 116 yards in the first half, passed 19 yards to Steve Hill, and Conley dived 2 yards to make it 21-0 with 1:32 left in the half.

CANTON'S FIRST goal was to prevent the big play, which it did. Second, it wanted to hold the ball and keep it away from Harrison's explosive offense, which it didn't.

Harrison outgained the Chiefs 389-127 and had 21 first downs to Canton's five, including a 15-2 difference in the first half. Canton quarterback

The pass was incomplete, but Harrison quarterback Millson's Jon Schaeffer when this pass arrived in the end zone Friday night at Canton. The pass for another as the Hawks won 28-7.

Chiefs near division title

Plymouth Canton has only to make it official Thursday. For all practical purposes, the Chiefs have won another Western Division girls cross country championship.

The key dual meet took place Thursday, and the Chiefs prevailed 21-40 over Northville to claim first place all to themselves.

Canton, 4-0 in the division and 5-0 overall, closes out the dual-meet season Thursday with Farmington Hills Harrison at Cass Benton Park. The Hawks don't have enough girls to comprise a team and will automatically forfeit the victory. The Mustangs drop to 3-1 in the Western.

"I think the girls ran real well," Canton coach George Przygodski said. "Anne Dibble has been improving weekly. Amy Smith certainly ran well and Kim Rice ran as fast as she has all year."

Smith was the race winner with a 21:22 time at Cass Benton, finishing 44 seconds ahead of runner-up Marcel Dart of Northville (22:06).

Dibble was third (22:15) and Rice fourth (22:18), both getting in ahead of the No. 2 runner for the Mustangs.

The rest of Canton's seven-runner contingent captured the Nos. 6-9 places to complete the rout. Adrienne Garrow came in sixth (22:34) and was followed by Kim Gudeth (22:44), Lara Antczak (22:50) and Marisa Dersoy (22:53).

In other competition involving the Chiefs, Canton was third in the 19-team Ypsilanti Invitational on Saturday, Oct. 7.

Dearborn Edsel Ford won the meet with 41 points, and Chelsea, winning a sixth-person tiebreaker, edged the Chiefs for second place. Both had 77 points, but Chelsea's No. 6 runner was 27th, Canton's 31st.

The Chiefs, however, had the best runner in Smith, who turned in a 19:58 time.

"Amy ran an outstanding race," Przygodski said. "She led it from the mile mark on and just ran away from the competition. And there was some pretty good competition there."

Gudeth was 15th (21:42), Missy Jasnowski 18th (21:57), Garrow 20th (22:00), Lori Penland 23rd (22:12), Rice 31st (22:26) and Carolyn Way 34th (22:37).

PLYMOUTH SALEM evened its Lakes Division record at 2-3 Thursday by beating North Farmington 34-34 at Cass Benton.

The Rocks conceded first place to Lisa Rives of North, who finished in 20:29.

Salem, however, took the next three places and six of the next eight to secure the win — its second in five dual meets. North is 0-4 and 4-4.

Jennifer Harris was second at 21:55, Payal Parekh third in 22:45 and Alison Rybski fourth at 22:57.

Angie Martin and Kara Higley, representing the Raiders, broke up the pack of Salem runners, claiming the Nos. 5 and 6 spots in 23:06 and 23:10, respectively.

In addition to Parekh, Salem coach Mike Krafchak was thoroughly pleased by the performances of his next three. Jill Czaplicki (23:35), Shawnee Becker (23:37) and Jenny Marshke (23:39) in the Nos. 6-8 places.

"Parekh did a helluva job, and I thought Czaplicki, Marshke and Becker ran well, too," Krafchak said. "Those four ran people down in the last mile, and they've done it two meets in a row."

North's Marie Scott finished 10th (23:53), Adrienne Mocello 12th (25:43), Lisa Biederman 13th (26:11) and Lynn Patel 14th (27:02). Salem's Cathy Boyd was 11th (24:20).

Boys teams dominate

The boys dual-meet cross country season in the Western Lakes Activities Association continues to be dominated by Plymouth Canton and Farmington Hills Harrison.

Both won their fourth-straight division meets without a loss Thursday and can wrap their respective championship seasons Thursday.

Canton, 5-0 overall, charged past Northville 17-45 at Cass Benton Park and will conclude the Western Division schedule with Farmington Hills Harrison at Cass Benton.

Salem, 3-1 and its only loss being to the Chiefs, skipped past North Farmington 15-48 at Cass Benton and will finish Lakes Division competition at Westland John Glenn.

Canton was led by the trio of Mike Ream, Matt Boland and Brian Beach, all of whom finished ahead of Northville's top runner. Ream won the race in 17:04, Boland was second at 17:13 and Beach took third in 17:24.

"IT WAS A good day to run," Canton coach Jim Hayes said, noting the warm weather Thursday. "We're just fortunate to have a bunch of good kids here."

Matt Hall, Jason Napolitano and Chris Nelson also finished in back-to-back order for the Chiefs. Hall was fifth (17:36), Napolitano sixth (17:44) and Nelson seventh (18:15).

The top 10 in terms of actual place included Canton's Dave Maasberg in ninth (18:44) and freshman Shawn McNamara in 10th (18:53).

Salem captured the top five places in disposing of the Raiders, 1-3 in the Lakes, and 41 seconds was all that separated the runners in that group.

Brendon Masterson, the team leader with a first-place time of 17:01, was followed by Dave Hamway (17:19), John Thomas (17:30), Brian Uryga (17:38) and Mike Patterson (17:42), respectively.

North's Jason Biederman claimed sixth place in 17:44, but Samir Bhavsar and Todd Cimo, running for the Rocks, acted as blockers by taking seventh and eighth places in 17:55 and 17:59, respectively.

The top five for North included Craig Stoe (18:14), Paul Simpson (18:15) and Josh Chinitz (18:53).

"We knew we could beat them, and it wasn't that I was getting overconfident," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "But I told my runners they had to run among themselves and put five in front of their first to force ourselves to run hard."

Canton, Salem easy winners

Plymouth Canton's Pam Pritchard won two events and the Chiefs swept all 11 to brush aside Walled Lake Western 137-35 in girls swimming Thursday.

The host Chiefs are 5-1 overall and 2-0 in the Western Division. The Warriors dropped to 3-4.

Pritchard was first in the 200-yard individual medley with a 2:22.29 time and the breaststroke at 1:15.82.

Christy Geddes was on both Canton relay teams, and Erica Carson and Dawn Sammut won one individual event and were on one relay team.

In the medley relay, Geddes, Jessica Butterfield, Carson and Danielle Yockey posted a 2:17.77 time. In the freestyle relay, it was Lesley Moore, Jenny Hartke, Geddes and Sammut closing out the meet in 4:22.30.

Carson also won the butterfly at 1:08.86 and Sammut the 100 freestyle in 1:04.06.

In other freestyle events, it was Sonya McWhirter winning the 200 in 2:20.50, Tami Santomauro the 50 in 27.61 and Cassie Cummins the 500 in 5:47.22.

Becky Holington's 204.55 points earned her first place in diving, and Kristy Brugger went 1:09.88 to win the backstroke.

PLYMOUTH SALEM had similar success, winning every event and collecting the top three spots in all but three events in ripping Walled Lake Central 133-38 Thursday at Central.

The easy triumph allowed Salem coach Chuck Olson to insert everyone into the lineup, as nine different girls won individual events. Toni Lupo got the Rocks started with a victory in the 200-yard freestyle (2:28.0); Megan Andrews followed with a triumph in the 200 individual medley (2:35.00).

Jane Seidelman was first in the 50 free (29.32), Jennifer Esno captured the diving (210.45 points), Cheri Vincent took the 100 butterfly (1:06.9), Andrea Alex was the winner in the 100 free (1:02.19), Meg Reilly won the 500 free (6:15.39), Carrie Vandervee was tops in the 100 back (1:11.63) and Kim White was first in the 100 breaststroke (1:23.48).

Dawn Alex, Kim Akers, Amy Austin and Shelley Anderson combined to win the 200 medley relay (2:16.21) and Julie Hickey, Anderson, Tammy Hickey and Nicole Bosse were best in the 400 free relay (4:14.09).

The win left Salem with a 1-1 record in the WLAA's Lakes Division. The Rocks are 2-5 overall.

Lindros paces winner

The Compuware Junior A hockey team ran its season record to 7-0-1 after posting its fourth consecutive victory in the Fifth Annual Compuware Fall Classic on Monday, Oct. 9.

The team finished the four-day tournament at the Compuware-Oak Park Arena with a 4-0-1 record, including decisive victories over the Detroit Junior Red Wings (12-2) in the semifinals and the Thornhill (Ont.) Thunderbirds (7-1) in the championship game.

Leading the attack for Compuware was Eric Lindros, the massive and skilled 16-year-old from Toronto. Lindros, considered by most National Hockey League insiders as the next franchise player, had four goals and 10 assists in the tournament.

Also lending considerable support were teammates Jim Storm (six goals, four assists) and Pat Peake (three goals, four assists).

For the season, the NHL-bound Lindros has 10 goals and 14 assists.

WINNERS CIRCLE

BY LAURIE KIPP

Recent reader questions on Michigan Lottery instant games are answered in this column.

Q. When will the Lottery have a new instant game?

A. "Joker's Wild" was introduced at all 8,000 instant game retailers on September 11.

Q. Does this mean "Fame & Fortune" will end?

A. No. The very successful "Fame & Fortune" will continue for an indefinite period so players will find two scratch-off games to play at the same time.

Q. What's different about "Joker's Wild"?

A. All "Joker's Wild" prizes are cash and are paid by any retailer selling instant games, while "Fame & Fortune" features tickets showing three TV entry symbols offering a chance to appear on the weekly television game show.

Q. How is "Joker's Wild" played?

A. Play in "Joker's Wild" is similar to that of previous instant games. A panel on tickets covers six hidden playing card symbols—9 through Ace plus a Joker. When scratched off, any three matching symbols win a cash prize. As the name states, Jokers are wild cards and combine with any two matching symbols to win.

Q. How much can I win in "Joker's Wild"?

A. Prizes range from $2 to $100 with odds better than one in seven that a ticket will be a winner.

Q. Has the Michigan Lottery ever sold two games at the same time before this?

A. Only in isolated instances after a new game was introduced and retailers continued to sell tickets on the previous game until their supply ran out.

Q. Why are you starting it now?

A. While most instant players seem to like the chance to appear on statewide television, others prefer games in which they can collect prizes immediately. So now, as store posters indicate, we are offering them a choice of "One for the Money" and "One for the Show."

Q. Who decides what kind of games will be offered?

A. It could be said that players do. Lottery officials constantly monitor sale of various instant games here and in other states while exploring new possibilities. Their decisions on the type of games to be offered are based primarily on indicated player preferences.

Q. Can we look forward to more new instant games?

A. The Michigan Lottery tries to keep all its games as fresh and exciting for players as possible. This undoubtedly will lead to continued periodic changes in its instant games.

For submitting the first question today to this column, Marie Burchard of Eastland, Mich., will receive 50 "Joker's Wild" tickets. Note: When duplicate questions are received, the first question with the stamp upon arrival wins. In general, the winner is selected by random drawing.

If you have a question not yet covered in these monthly columns, send it to "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 36077, Lansing, MI 48906.

Rocks rally to win

More spirited defense and patient offense was a successful second-half combination for Plymouth Salem, which rallied to beat Livonia Stevenson 39-35 in girls basketball Thursday.

The host Spartans held Salem to single-digit scoring in each of the first two quarters and took a 24-15 lead into halftime.

But the Rocks, who stayed one game behind North Farmington in the Lakes Division and moved up to .500 on the season, reversed the situation in the second half, switching to a man-to-man defense.

"We just got tired and they wore us down," Stevenson coach Chuck Hebestreit said. "We didn't get the second and third shots."

"They were able to get the ball inside and, after three or four passes, get an easy basket."

Salem, 5-1 in the division and 6-6 overall, was led by Darcie Miller, who scored half of her 10 points in the third quarter when the Rocks outscored Stevenson 15-5.

That relatively big quarter gave the Rocks, who held the Spartans to single-digit scoring in each second-half quarter, a 30-29 edge, which Salem added to slightly in the finale.

Sarah Ruete and Tracy Shough added eight points apiece for the Rocks, who were 13-of-23 shooting free throws. Stevenson's Kelly Cotter matched Miller's 10 points, and teammate Teresa Sarno chipped in nine.

The Spartans, who were a near-perfect 9-of-10 at the line, are 1-5 in the division and 6-6 overall.

PLYMOUTH CANTON, the top-rated team in Observant, put its talent on display for Livonia Churchill, which saw the Chiefs run away with a 61-35 victory Thursday.

Canton, with the momentum of its 54-46 win over Livonia Franklin on Tuesday spurring it onward, leads the Western Division with a 6-0 record and is 10-3 overall.

Senior center Susan Ferbo counted a game-high 25 points and 15 rebounds to lead the Chiefs. Jennie Clark played one of her best games, contributing 13 points and seven rebounds, and Stacey Thompson added 11 points.

Canton outscored the Chargers 18-5 in the second quarter to build a 36-15 halftime lead. The Chiefs coasted in the second half with a 26-20 margin.

"(The Chargers) came out and played very well in the first half," Canton coach Bob Blohm said, pointing to an 18-10 score in the first quarter. "They moved the ball well and made a couple big shots."

"We played a tough game on Tuesday and had a tough practice on Wednesday. But overall I think we pulled things together and played well tonight."

Freshman Chrissy Daly and Jenny Willems scored 12 points apiece for Churchill, 1-5 and 2-8.

Warriors league champs

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

There was very little else Walled Lake Western golf coach Scott Street could have asked of his team.

"I was hoping we would shoot around 400, but it was kind of windy," said Street voicing his only complaint.

Everything else Street sought as a goal was accomplished Wednesday when the Warriors captured the Western Lakes Activities Association championship at Huron Meadows Golf Course in Ypsilanti. They finished with a team-total of 405 strokes, three better than runner-up Livonia Churchill (408).

Next in line was Plymouth Canton with 414, followed by Northville (423), Farmington (428), Livonia Stevenson (432), Walled Lake Central and Plymouth Salem (433 each), North Farmington (450), Westland John Glenn (461), Livonia Franklin (469) and Farmington Harrison (489).

WHAT STREET found nearly as pleasing as capturing the team title was senior Chris Sobieck's claiming medalist honors. Sobieck, the medalist at last year's Class A regional, shot a two-over par 74 to shade Churchill's Bill Durham by a stroke.

"It was really good to see him go out that way," said Street of Sobieck. "I was real happy he went out with a win."

Of course, Sobieck's performance would have meant little without a team championship to go with it. And that was accomplished because, as Street described it, "The whole team plays as a team, not as individuals."

Two other Warriors placed among the top six. Chris Schneider finished fifth with a 79 and Karl Schneider tied Canton's Rod Jesena and Churchill's Colin Gallagher at 80. Western's other two scorers were Dave Pozniak, 83, and Troy Fairbanks, 89.

THE CHARGERS also placed three golfers among the low 15 scorers. Joining Durham and Gallagher was Mike Migola, whose 82 tied him for 10th with five others. Churchill's other scorers were Steve Paraskiewicz at 83 and Jason Fournier at 88.

Five golfers shot under 80 and were named to the all-WLAA team: Sobieck, Durham, Schneider and Northville's Jason Sherman (77) and Chris Lemmon (78).

The next 10 finishers were all-division selections: Sinclair, Jesena, Gallagher and Migola, and Franklin's Greg Kerr (81), Canton's Geoff Allen (82), Salem's Dan Alcock (82), Central's Aaron Mason (82) and Stevenson's Brian Ransom and Mark Peterson (both 82).

Other low scorers were Jason Buha for Farmington with an 83; Rob Wendt for North Farmington with an 86; Matt Wilson for John Glenn with an 85; and Tim Story for Harrison with an 87.

Legends honored with Hall selection

It isn't exactly Cooperstown, N.Y., but the Polish Century Club in Detroit will be the site for the Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame induction ceremonies Sunday, Nov. 5.

Among the bowlers being inducted is Farmington Hills native Fred Vitali. His accomplishments on the lanes are legendary.

Vitali qualified for Team USA in 1971 and won two gold medals in international competition that same year. In the 1972-73 season, Vitali was named King of Detroit Bowlers.

His collection plaques and trophies could easily fill a bowling alley, but things that will always stand out for him are his four sanctioned 300 games, as well as his 299 and ever-impressive 800 series.

Vitali's story is not common among bowlers. He wasn't the kid who started bowling young and ultimately became a star. He immigrated to this country from Italy at 19, never having seen a bowling ball.

At 23, Vitali began his road to success. His first bowling season was hardly a gutter ball, rolling a 175 average.

Vitali joined the Coca-Cola team in 1963 and the famous Stroh's team in 1972. He has bowled in the annual All-Star Classic 18 times.

Farmington Hills resident Al Winkel, who has been president of the local Bowling Proprietors Association and the Michigan BPA, also is scheduled to be inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Winkel, like Vitali, has received numerous awards, including the BPA Appreciation Award, the BPA Meritorious Service Award, the Special Proprietors Award and the Judge John D. Watts Award.

Winkel is proprietor of Woodland Lanes in Livonia.

Like the grand slam in baseball and the hat trick in hockey, a 300 game is rare in bowling.

Friday, at Country Lanes in Farmington Hills, Tom Gow and Ron Turner rolled perfect scores in the Greenfield Mixed League, which also witnessed Gloria Mertz's 615 series and 231 game.

The Ladies Noon Classic was led by Lori Craig's 604 series, which included a 235 game. Shirley Prevost rolled a 594. Julie Wright, a 17-year-old, used a 217 game to cap off a 633 series in the Farmington Hills School League.

The Wonderland Classic League at Wonderland Lanes in Livonia featured an array of impressive scores last week. A 300 game helped Ray Randall roll a 731 series. Joe Mamroctski used his 250 to put together a 609 set. Carl Harden had a 279 game and 688 series. Ron Eisenbeis rolled a 686 series, including a 236 game. Ron Hasse rolled 681 series, thanks to a 241 game.

Fred Vitali

Steve Stevens (604), Hasse (681), Jeff Dishong (640) and Bob Pniewski (671) helped Bob Pniewski's team roll a combined 3,230.

Livonia's Merri Bowl Lanes was the site of Nick Conflitti's 679 series in the K of C League. Max Hanson rolled a 255.

In the Tuesday Evening Jills, Joan Jackson bowled 94 pins over her average, with a 246 game.

The Wednesday Bowling Bags League woke up when Michelle Charlton rolled 108 pins over her average, with a 241. In the Senior Merry Bowlers League, Joe Baloga rolled a 246 game.

In the Y.A.B.A. Youth League, Jeff Weiland had a 640 set, which included a 236 game.

Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills hosted Dwayne Najarian's 728 series Tuesday. He had a series of 247-236-245. In the Tuesday Mixed Senior League at Mayflower Lanes in Redford, Len Carr had a 247 game. The Tuesday Men's League witnessed Paul Woodard's 693 series, which included a 250 game.

Westland's Oak Lanes was home to Tom Leonard's 716 series. Ken Klinger bowled a 288 game, and Bob Fletcher rolled a 248.

The Tuesday Men's League best included Jim Mijal's 266 game and Michael Sheple's 235. Joe Linsay rolled a 248 game. Rooney Stachurski put together a 644 series and Kyle Karklo a 235 game.

Pat McLaughlin's 254 made him the toast of the Friday Men's League. Mark Trybas, John Wodarski Jr. and Robert Crowland had 242, 237 and 250, respectively.

Al Young rolled a 692 series in the Midnights League at Livonia's Woodland Lanes. Wally Oleaszkowicz finished 100 pins over his average with a 255 game.

In the C.C.H. Father and Son League, 16-year-old Brian Lueck rolled a 275 game. John Garland rolled a 255. In the Sundowners League, Charlie Clark rolled a 246 game.

The Bators Bar League featured Mike Hasty's 664 and Skip Clemence's 661.

Westland Bowl was rocking as Tom Brudzinski rolled a 300 game in the West-side Seniors House League.

Pat Mills had a 645 series in the Wednesday Ladies Classic. Jane Martin had a 641 series and Linda Schneider a 240 game.

In the Tuesday Men's League, Wayne Savage rolled a 724 series and Bill Savage a 266 game. Greg Proctor's 719 in the Tuesday Battle of the Sexes League.

The pins were falling at Super Bow in Canton last week, as Chuck Vine rolled a 300, his first. Gary Krause finished with a 672 series in the Tuesday Junior House League.

In the Wednesday Morning Men's League, Dave Kowalski rolled a 726 series. Lester Drumm had a 698.

Cora Fiebig and Friends will be holding the sixth annual Make-a-Wish charity event at Astro Lanes in Madison Heights Sundays, Oct. 29 and Nov. 5. There will be pro-am doubles for adults and youth bowlers.

Earl Anthony and Brian Voss will make personal appearances and sign autographs. For details, call Fiebig at 390-6739 or Gerry Ritter at 580-9118.

At age 92, John Kitz is doing what he loves best. He's bowling and is quite successful. Last week he rolled a 185 game at Mayflower Lanes. Keep it up, John.

Salem has record night

Plymouth Salem seniors Jeff Gold and Matt Tudor established soccer records Wednesday as the Rocks defeated North Farmington 6-0 in the regular-season finale.

Gold, a midfielder, scored two goals and added two assists, giving him 20 goals for the season. The old record was held by Ted Hanosh, who had 19 goals in 1988.

Tudor, the goalkeeper, posted his 11th shutout of the season and 17th of his career. The former career mark belonged to Dave O'Malley, a 1988 graduate who had 16.

Greg Christensen, Matt Gold, Chris Olson and John Truskowski scored one goal apiece as Salem notched its first victory in five games.

The Rocks, despite playing well each time, were 0-3-1 prior to Wednesday night. Salem, 11-3-1 overall, had lost to state-ranked Livonia Churchill and Livonia Stevenson and tied Walled Lake Western.

"They really put the other games behind them," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "We had more individual passing and teamwork."

Christensen, Bill Joker and Todd LaJoy assisted one scoring play each for the Rocks, who finish second in the Lakes Division at 3-1 behind Stevenson (3-0-1).

Salem will play Plymouth Canton in the Western Lakes Activities Association crossover game at 7 p.m. Wednesday, and the Raiders play host to Walled Lake Western at 5:30 p.m. North is 0-4 and 1-8-1 in the league.

FARMINGTON 4, CANTON 1: Coach Cathy Cole wanted the Falcons to have a 15-shot margin, and Farmington accomplished that with 36 attempts on the Canton goal.

The shots-on-goal advantage helped decide the game in Farmington's favor. The Falcons led 1-0 at halftime on Mike Gammerath's goal and Brian Purdom's assist.

Mike Popyk, Mike Sheehy, who scored on a penalty kick, and Rob Cook scored second-half goals for Farmington, 5-2-3 in the WLAA and 6-2-4 overall. Pete Elmagrahl assisted on Popyk's goal, Mike Giese on Cook's.

Canton finished 3-2 in the Western Division and 4-5-1 in the league.

Rockets nip Salem, 7-6

"We had two plays called in the huddle," said the Glenn coach. "Our quarterback had the option of calling one or two plays, depending what he liked and depending on their coverage."

Without hesitation, Stover threw the ball toward the corner of the end zone and found a wide-open Ryan, who cradled the ball into his body.

"My offensive line gave me great protection (on the final drive)," Stover said. "The passes got there, and they made the catches."

THE CRITICAL play came when the 5-foot-8, 161-pound Wetmore made a spectacular one-handed grab for the 37-yard gain.

"It was third-and-38, and we had two downs to get a first down," Gordon said. "Obviously, we were trying to get half of it back on one play. But then he (Wetmore) catches the ball and it's fourth-and-1, but by no means are we out of the woods."

But as Stover would say, "That was the turning point; I thought we had a chance to win after that."

"THE ONE PASS (to Wetmore) killed us," said Moshimer. "The catch he made was fantastic. The ball was overthrown."

"We were in pass-prevent coverage with three guys deep. We couldn't have been in better shape, but Glenn has that great speed at the flankers."

"I thought we had it. There was no doubt in my mind, then the pass (to Wetmore) killed us."

The two teams battled evenly throughout much of the night.

Glenn took the opening kickoff and marched to the Rocks' 38, but Mike Cygan intercepted Stover in the end zone.

SALEM'S ONLY real scoring threat of the first half came when Kowalski slipped through the Glenn defense on an option run and appeared headed for the end zone, only to be tripped up on a game-saving tackle by Craig Kuban.

In the second half, Salem's defense began to shut down Glenn tailback Shannon Layne, who added just 15 yards after gaining 64 in the first half.

"Their defense was very good; we studied them all week on film," said Gordon of Salem. "We had to block like heck to get 4 yards. They have good size, and they moved to the ball well."

GLENN OUTGAINED the Rocks in total yardage, 284-168.

Stover completed 10 of 19 passes for 146 yards.

Johnson, the punishing fullback, led Salem's wishbone ground attack with 71 yards in 17 carries.

Kowalski completed two of four passes for 44 yards and one TD.

He was intercepted once, ironically on the game's final play after Salem returned the ensuing kickoff to its own 37. His desperation pass was intercepted by, of all people, Lawrence, the man who blocked the extra point.

Canton runner-up in Western, 28-7

Karl Wukle was 8-of-24 for 64 yards and had two passes intercepted.

He also had 81 yards rushing on eight carries, 43 coming on a late first-half run that gave Canton's offense its best scoring opportunity. The Chiefs were at the Harrison 15, but Roy Granger intercepted for the Hawks.

"Our defense didn't do too bad," Kowalski said. "The thing is our offense didn't control the ball too much, which is due to the fact they're a good defensive team."

COLEMAN FINISHED 9-of-19 passing for 129 yards, and Harrison had a big game rushing with Conley gaining 131 of the team's 255 rushing yards on 27 attempts. Coleman added 45 on 12 carries, and Hill caught four passes for 64 yards.

Although the Hawks have suffered periodic lapses in their last three games, they continue to win impressively, and that can't be overlooked, Harrington said.

"Hey, we played against a 6-0 team, and we're the division champs. We'll take a win, and we're going to prepare very hard for the league championship game."

IT'S SOLID AND LIQUID AT THE SAME TIME.

Most things are pretty much black and white. Oil and water don't mix. East is East. West is West. Something can't be solid and liquid at the same time. Well, not so with The FirstRate Fund. Because it earns you a great rate, without tying up your principal.

Earn 9 Percent For Up To 60 Days.

From October 2 until November 30, The FirstRate Fund earns interest at an annual rate of 9 percent.

FirstRate

After that, it's tied to the 91-day Treasury Bill, guaranteeing a highly competitive rate. All it takes is a $10,000 deposit to start. And you can add to it, whenever you like. Make a withdrawal and you won't have to pay a penalty.

So, by all means, open your FirstRate Fund now, and earn an annual rate of 9 percent for as long as possible.

Solid. And Liquid, Too.

Unlike some other investments with a high return like the FirstRate Fund, you can get to your money, whenever you need to.

All you have to do is drop us a line. Seven days later, you'll have your money.

We'll even call to tell you when you can pick up your check.

Insurance For Your Money.

Most investments like this require some risk taking. Not so with The FirstRate Fund.

Your bank deposits are FDIC insured for up to $100,000. Meaning your principals safe to the maximum amount allowed by law.

In short, you have nothing to lose. But an awful lot to gain.

Where's The Fine Print? You Just Read It.

If you're going to name something FirstRate, it ought to be just that.

So there are no funny restrictions or conditions. Just a straightforward investment that, unlike a lot of competitive investments, is unquestionably attractive. Which leaves us with one last question. What are you waiting for? The FirstRate Fund. Only from First of America.

Stop by any one of our First of America offices to invest in one, or call 1-800-544-6155.

Remember, this offer may not last forever, is available to individuals only, and may change without notice.

During recent races held in Livingston County, the hot air balloons took to the skies in pursuit of the X left by the "hare." In the "hunt" was Phil Glebe in his distinctive Pontiac Excitement II balloon.

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

A man and his balloon. Phil Glebe savors the height he attains, but only for a fleeting moment.

The open air is his lanes, the horizon his finish line. Glebe, 38, is simply not along for the ride.

"People see balloon flying as a light-hearted thing," said Glebe, who operates Renaissance Balloons in Brighton. "The other side of that is the serious competition in the sport. There is money to be won.

"People with a competitive heart — such as myself — like to win."

As he commands the Pontiac "Excitement II," a 70-foot high, 55-foot wide balloon that serves as his racing machine, Glebe seldom seems at ease.

His eyes scan the horizon, looking at the tree-lined suburbs tinted orange from the setting sun. From there, his orbs dart to the altimeter, which gives an indication of the height of the balloon.

Glebe then hits the double propane burners that kick out 30 million BTUs an hour (the equivalent to the output of 250 home furnaces) to fill the 77,500 cubic feet capacity of the balloon.

Chasing the hare in the air

The flame from the burner reflects in Glebe's eyes.

The competitive nature of balloon racing belies what would be a serene moment for most. After 10 minutes, one can begin to appreciate the skill involved.

GLEBE MUST navigate the craft to a predestined spot. The race is not so much of a chase but rather tantamount to a temperamental dance with nature.

Wind is the main partner. As it shifts and swirls, the balloon racer follows and rides the current. Nature always leads in this encounter.

Glebe perhaps respects this more than anything, which is why he's ranked as the No. 1 pilot in balloon competition, according to the Balloon Federation of America.

Some things don't change. Sharpen Creek still flows downhill from the Woolen Mill on Upper Pond to the Gledhill House on Lower Pond, rushing under the grist mill to the Mattland River.

The river flows downstream to the modern town of Goderich, and on to Lake Huron, but that is a 20th century setting and Benmiller is firmly stuck by history and choice in the 19th century.

If you look at the old photographic mural on the wall at the swimming pool you see the village of Benmiller as it was in the 1860s when the Canada Company sold the original land grants in the then Huron Tract of Upper Canada and what is now Ontario.

The mural shows the wide shallow river winding away between treed hills. A horse-drawn cart clip-clops down the road that runs parallel to the river. Between the river and the road are a dozen wooden buildings that hold the old mill complex and its workers.

There are only a few houses, one general store, and the Benmiller Inn in the village of Benmiller now.

MOVING PICTURES

James (John Travolta) is the most exciting babysitter Mikey (Jason Schaller) could imagine in "Look Who's Talking."

'Talking:' Cute but not credible

When Mollie (Kirstie Alley), the CPA, gets pregnant by Albert (George Segal), the neurotic entrepreneur, she needs to find a father for her baby, Mikey (a whole bunch of kid actors — Jason Schaller, Jarryd Waterhouse, Jacob Haines and Christopher Aydon plus stunt double, Mihaly "Michu" Meszaros and plain double Amanda Blasko).

Schaller has most of Mikey's screen time and therein lies one significant problem in "Look Who's Talking" (C+, PG-13, 97 minutes). Mikey's supposed to be a year old, and there's no way that Schaller is close — he's 3 if a day.

The entire sequence with the four child actors — plus two doubles — representing Mikey from birth to one year is unclear and simply doesn't ring true. It's symptomatic of a strained, gimmicky film with questionable continuity.

Mollie thinks Albert is going to divorce his wife and marry her, but it turns out that Albert is going through another phase. He's carrying on with his interior designer, Melissa (Joy Boushel), while Mollie is carrying his child.

THAT ALBERT and Melissa should be found in hot embrace in the shop where Mollie and her friend Rona (Twink Caplan) are shopping strains one's credulity.

But it does keep the plot limping along as Mollie is now on her own because Albert is moving in with Melissa. Just about then, Mollie goes into labor and a rather interesting guy, James (John Travolta), pulls up in his cab to drive her to the hospital.

James winds up as Mollie's babysitter, and you can pretty much figure out what happens from there on. There's quite a bit of funny stuff, but on the whole it's simple-minded and obvious. Mollie has a Harold Lloyd hanging from the clock nightmare when the doctor notes that her biological clock is ticking.

The adult voice-overs speaking mature ideas representing babies is clever but quickly gets old. Bruce Willis is Mikey's voice. There also are cameos — Olympia Dukakis as Mollie's mother, Rosie, and Abe Vigoda as James' grandfather.

Put it all together and it adds up to very little. Symptomatic are the music sequences thrown in whenever the plot falters. Still and all, lots of people will walk out of the theater saying, "That was cute."

"BREAKING IN" (R) features Burt Reynolds as Ernie, an older professional safe-cracker whose young protégé, Mike (Casey Siemaszko), does it for kicks. It's a slightly different kind of story, a comedy about a couple bad guys who aren't all that bad, just on the wrong side of the law.

"The Fabulous Baker Boys" (R) stars the fabulous Bridges boys, Beau and Jeff, as cocktail lounge piano-playing brothers. Their act takes off when they hire a beautiful young singer, Michelle Pfeiffer, to work with them.

Finally this week, "Halloween 5" (R). It's a bit early for trick or treat, so rate it somewhere between 4 and 6.

"Sea of Love" (C) (R) 110 minutes.

Al Pacino as a burned-out detective adds nothing to the cliché nor does a very weak script.

Everyone's talking about this romantic comedy with James Spader.

"Shirley Valentine" (A+) (R) 110 minutes.

Superb, comic, romantic, lovely statement about human worth.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

Winner of seven Oscars, including the academy's best picture citation, the original "Lawrence" was cut by 35 minutes. Amidst much publicity it was restored for a nationwide tour, which included Detroit's Fox Theatre earlier this year. On Oct. 19, that restored version is available on video for home viewing.

The all-star cast, headed by Peter O'Toole and Alec Guinness, includes Omar Sharif, Anthony Quinn, Jose Ferrer and Claude Rains. It's priced at $29.95 and will be available for rental as well. Although a copy was not received for this review, it will be interesting to see just how David Lean's magnificent wide-screen epic looks on a small TV at home.

It's an interesting coincidence that Media Home Entertainment is releasing "A World Apart" on video just one week after the premiere of "A Dry White Season."

Both are poignant stories that effectively personalize the tragically large, but often abstract, casualty lists when black demonstrations are repressed by the South African government.

"A WORLD APART" chronicles Diana Roth's (Barbara Hershey) fight against South African apartheid policies in 1963 just after the 90-Day Detention Act became law. That legislation allowed imprisonment for such a period without charges being filed. It had been enacted in response to black aspirations and the rising strength of the African National Congress.

By 1963, ANC leader Nelson Mandela was already in jail but others continued the struggle — and the South African government responded brutally. Diana Roth was a journalist for the Rand Daily Mail — the same paper Susan Sarandon works for in "A Dry White Season." Roth had seen great injustice through her work and had become an active participant in ANC activities.

Based on a true story of the first woman imprisoned under the 90-day act (Ruth First), "A World Apart" relates the sad, divisive impact such policies have on family life. Conflicting duties tear at the family structure — is one responsible only to immediate kin or must one also answer to the agony of strangers?

The story largely develops through the reactions of Roth's 13-year-old daughter, Molly (Jodhi May), who must contend with a parentless home after her mother is imprisoned and her father, Gus (Jeroen Krabbe), flees to avoid jail on treason charges as a communist.

NATURALLY, IN the repressive world of apartheid, anyone who advocates freedom and equality is part of the world-wide communist menace.

Molly remains at home with her grandmother (Yvonne Bryceland) and the housekeeper, Elsie (Linda Mvusi), whose brother, Solomon (Albee Lesotho), is a leading political activist.

Slowly and painfully, Molly learns that everyone is responsible for the entire community. But those lessons are learned with considerable pain and bitterness as she becomes an outcast at school and is shunned by her best friend, all this while feeling abandoned by her parents.

At the same time her mother, Diana, in solitary confinement, realizes she had gone too far in political activities and activism, so far that she ignored her children and put all her energies in the political cause. She is in solitary for refusing to cooperate with the official investigation of ANC activities.

Diana and Molly mature in their roles as mother and daughter united in their love for one another, in their regard for family and in their fight for freedom and equality. That convergence of individuals and causes is a touching moment.

EVERYONE CAN empathize with such moments no matter what one's level of political awareness may be. In that moment of true emotion as mother and daughter reconcile, we all realize the importance of family in the broadest sense, the family of home and the family of man.

The fact that the script, acting, photography and music are all excellent reinforce the impact of this poignant personal statement about individual responsibility.

"A World Apart" is also another very worthwhile statement about the South African government's tragically brutal and grossly indecent policies. Each such statement helps mold a public opinion that eventually will eliminate the ugliness of apartheid.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

'Vera' uncovers Soviet life

By John Monaghan
special writer

Soviet films aren't ordinarily known for their subtlety, sense of humor or frankness.

"Little Vera" is no ordinary film. Playing for a second weekend at the Detroit Film Theatre, this may be the screen's most intimate glimpse into Soviet life.

Vera (Natalya Negoda), a high school graduate, is constantly hounded by her parents about her wild lifestyle and a college acceptance that never comes. She hangs out late nights with her girlfriend Lena.

"Little Vera" begins as a film about alienated youth — comrades without a cause. In a startling early scene, an outdoor rock-and-roll dance is surrounded by police in riot gear and with German shepherds.

VERA MEETS Sergei (Andrei Sokolov) in the impending violence and immediately falls for him. After announcing their marriage plans, Sergei moves in with Vera's family and the movie starts to look like a Soviet "All in the Family."

But the film grows darker. Sergei treats her parents like dirt.

When he asks Vera why her parents are so dumb, she says, "They're the only ones I've got." She starts making strides toward adulthood while he grows more and more bored.

Natalya Negoda sizzles in her unglamorous but sexy role. Heavily made up and dressed in the same red striped shirt for much of the film, she has few options in or out of her dead-end industrial town. Aside from rock-and-roll, Sergei is the only thing that hasn't bored her to tears.

Vera's parents, meanwhile, are tired, hard working and completely at a loss in dealing with a teenaged daughter. The father gets into whiny drunken fits. The mother yells from the kitchen where she spends countless hours canning and pickling fruits and vegetables.

"Little Vera" shows us plenty about life in the Soviet Union, especially about cramped living conditions and family tension. Director Vasily Pichul can never get his camera far enough away. Things are always close up and claustrophobic in the tiny apartment.

THE LANDSCAPE outside isn't much better. The entire town seems to be built on piles of rusted parts and scrap. The beach is all gravel and jagged iron poles. At one point, Vera crouches beneath the shell of a beached World War II submarine.

"Little Vera" won best film and best actress awards at the Chicago Film Festival and has been viewed by more than 60 million Soviets.

Although its conflicts are never fully resolved, it asks for acceptance and co-existence in a world that is much too small.

Brace for the Blues Explosion

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The beakers and test tubes are out. Like the teenager in the basement with a chemistry set, blues man Kim Wilson is experimenting. End result: The Blues Explosion. The lead singer of The Fabulous Thunderbirds will join guitarists Luther Tucker and Duke Robillard, along with drummer Fran Christina and bass player "Sister" Sarah Brown, for a special 10-date tour. The Blues Explosion stops by Sully's in Dearborn on Friday.

"There's a lot of people I've known for years and years," said Wilson, who is formerly of Redford Township. "I've admired them through the years. Some of them I've never had a chance to play with because of being on the road so much."

"I like to work in combinations." The Blues Explosion is indeed one lethal combination of blues musicians. The lineup includes:

• Luther Tucker, guitarist who has performed with Muddy Waters, Sonny Boy Williamson, Little Walter

• Duke Robillard, guitarist and vocalist who was one of the mainstays of Roundfish Blues.

• Fran Christina, drummer with The Fabulous Thunderbirds.

• Sarah Brown, a bass guitarist who made a name for herself in the Austin, Texas, blues scene. She performed extensively in the Ann Arbor area with the Boogie Brothers before moving to Texas.

WILSON GOT the notion for a tour after catching Tucker perform in July at an anniversary at Anton's, a well-known blues club in Austin.

"I have a real soft spot for Luther," Wilson said. "One of the first blues records I had was a James Cotton album and Tucker was great on that."

He holds the same reverence for Robillard, who's quite a guitar slinger in his own right.

"He can do it all," Wilson said. "See, Duke always gets in my face. I'll watch him perform and he plays like 50 verses — at my table! I told him, 'I'm not coming to any shows you're playing unless I'm on stage with you.'"

WILSON PROMISES a heavy dose of straightforward blues.

But he said, "A lot of crazy things can happen."

Which is part of the reason Wilson put together the tour. The Blues Explosion allows him to do something a bit different from the T-Birds.

He's quick to point out the Blues Explosion is not replacing The Fabulous Thunderbirds in his life. Group members will be writing some material for an upcoming album soon.

Like those he'll join on stage, blues music is a passion for Wilson. He has performed with many heroes, including Eddie Taylor, Albert Collins, John Lee Hooker, and Muddy Waters.

WILSON LIVED in Redford Township until he was 9, moving to California.

"I didn't want to leave," he said. He performed with a number of bands in California, but his big break didn't come until he moved to Texas. There, he met Muddy Waters, who he said helped launch the Fabulous Thunderbirds.

"Muddy was kind of like my second father," he said. "He took me under his wing. He made me. I love all those guys, but he put the final stamp on me."

The Fabulous Thunderbirds emerged out of the Austin scene, touted as the blues band of the future. The group has released several albums, gravitating more toward mainstream tastes while still keeping its blues edge.

WILSON, THOUGH, has always kept himself busy with other projects. He recently produced and performed on Jimmie Rodgers' latest album. The Blues Explosion has him really excited.

"I do a lot of different things," said Wilson, who lives in Austin. "I play all different kinds of blues. I like big bands with horns. I like keyboards and two guitars opposed to one. I like covering all the areas."

But with all those names on one stage, perhaps some egos would be covered up by others. Wilson quickly shoots down such a notion.

"No. We're all grownups here," he said. "(Shoot) man, every single person is the best that there is. They're like I am, they just like to play."

BOB MOULD

Mould, who fronted the now legendary Husker Du, laid to rest any fear that he had abandoned that pioneering postpunk band's penchant for using volume as a weapon. Touring to support his brilliant solo album, "Workbook," Mould transformed the haunting melodies of the relatively tame record into a hard-driving guitar assault.

"Workbook" is a brooding album of dark lyrics and moody music laced with cello and acoustic guitars. On stage, "Workbook" takes on a deafening Husker demeanor, with Mould, guitarist Jim Harry, bassist Tony Maimone, and Gold Palominos' drummer Anton Fier replacing the intricate string and vocal arrangements with tight guitarwork and deadly drumming.

Mould only strapped on the acoustic guitar for "Sinners and Their Repentances" and a brief show-closing medley of Husker hits, including "Hardly Getting Over It," and the wonderful "Makes No Sense at All."

With his blond bangs tumbling on his forehead and his guitar dangling at his knees, Mould led his band through the entire new LP, plus a few outtakes a new song scheduled for his second solo album, as well as an encore rendition of Neil Young's "Cinnamon Girl."

Mould closed the first set with the album's first single, "See a Little Light," and "Whichever Way the Wind Blows." The latter, "Workbook's" rockiest track, sent some of the diehards on the packed dance floor slam-dancing to its frenzied beat.

Bonedaddys boogie big

World beat spurs band

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Beware of the Bonedaddys. They make you sweat.

So apply a double dose of that deodorant stick and be prepared to dance. That's the word from the leader of the eight-member band, which rolls in to the Majestic Theatre Saturday with its engaging, enraging and energized brand of world beat.

"It's just got those rhythms," said Mike Tempo, the goatee and bespectacled percussionist with the Los Angeles-based Bonedaddys. "We get your butt bopping."

The massive beat the Bonedaddys lay down encompasses a rather diverse blend of music from around the globe, including New Orleans, West African, Soca, rhythm and blues only to name a few.

The sound is molded into an electrifying, mesmerizing and any other "flying" you can pull out of your back pocket. Those who listened the Bonedaddys' first LP on Chameleon Records, "A-Koo-De-A," were left speechless.

So, too, were the people at Miller Brewery. The brewery was looking for a few good bands to come up some music for a commercial. The Bonedaddys sent along a demo tape of its eclectic world beat sound.

"They loved it," said Tempo, in a telephone interview where the Bonedaddys are recording the beer commercial. "We're able to be ourselves and be weird and still be sponsored by a major corporation."

THINK THAT'S unusual? Look at the lineup for these zany party purveyors. A drummer from Texas, a percussionist is from Paducah, Ky., a keyboardist and guitarist is from New Delhi, India and the keyboardist is from Trinidad.

Then we find out the singer has roots in Watts, Calif., and Topeka, Kan.

"Oh," added Tempo, "we have a guy who's from Germany and Ohio who sits in on our albums."

Things start to make sense. Really, they do. All these guys are from different parts of the globe, combining their diverse musical influences to make world beat an applicable description of the Bonedaddys' music.

"It's a world beat approach," said Tempo, "but it's a rock'n'roll attitude."

At that point, we give up. Let's say the music is indescribable, but enjoyable. And there will plenty more to enjoy in upcoming months. The band will release its second album, "World Beatniks," on the Chameleon label Oct. 25.

The disc will feature some of the Bonedaddys' club favorites in five years of touring as one of the hottest dance bands around, including a cover of Elvis Presley's "Crazy Fish."

This latest LP could break the Bonedaddys into the national spotlight. College Music Journal has given an advance copy a thumbs-up review.

Any success would be more than what any member expected when the group formed five years ago. Tempo called several of his musician buddies in order to play some of their favorite music. Response was overwhelming.

THE BONEDADDYS quickly made a name for themselves on the dance club circuit, though Tempo said his group prefers the "down home places" to the sterile disco atmosphere.

"A lot of that depends on the audience, though," Tempo said. "We just played for a crowd in Houston, Texas, for people in black ties and cowboy boots. They got down and sweaty."

Also, in their musical travels, the Bonedaddys have opened for such diverse acts as blues guitarist Robert Cray, reggae guru Burning Spear and alternative rock's Jaxx Butcher.

Mike Tempo (lower left) helped found the Bonedaddys, a group that has quickly made a name for providing a zany beat in dance clubs across the country.

In each case, the group won over audiences.

"People want to have a good time and we provide it," Tempo said. "It's honest music, really. We're not trying to uphold any traditional forms. We won't try to do a West African song exactly like a West African song."

"Heck, our guitar player is from India."

REVIEWS

OH MERCY — Bob Dylan

Nary a negative word has been breathed about this record, and it's high time its shortcomings were recognized.

The lyrics aren't printed on the jacket. Other than that, it's hard to find fault with "Oh Mercy," the album that has Dylan fans replicating and critics hailing it as Bob's best since 1974's "Blood on the Tracks." Finally, they're right.

The success is largely a result of Dylan's teaming with producer Daniel Lanois, rock's current King Midas. Lanois, who has recently worked with such heavyweights as Peter Dinklage, U2 and Robbie Robertson, dropped a solo album he is doing for the chance to work with Dylan. Like Mark Knopfer did with 1988's "Infidel," Lanois proved that the right production can make modern Dylan music stand up to his previous classics.

As with most of Dylan's material, the lyrics are at times introspective, at times apocalyptic. The music is modern, surreal, ethereal and all those other words critics like to toss about. In all simplicity, this is just a great album — a good one to put on after work while you're horizontal on the couch with the lights off.

The album takes full advantage of what's left of Dylan's voice, with less wheezing than on recent records. A Tom Waits influence is heard on the ominous "Man in the Long Black Coat," in which Dylan whispers in a hushed growl: The preacher was a talker — a sermon he gave/he said, "Every man's conscience is vile and depraved/You cannot depend on it to be your guide/When it's you who must keep it satisfied."

That is but one example of the songwriting that bolsters "Oh Mercy." Unlike his last two releases, every song here is a Dylan original, and it shows. The fine lyrics combined with Lanois' use of airy guitars and heartbeats percussion results in a long-awaited great new Dylan record. How does it feel?

REI MOMO — David Byrne

David Byrne is most readily known for his work with Talking Heads. With that band, he redefined traditional notions of pop songs, constantly challenging the listener with new styles of singing.

He quickly adapted and once again was one of the most imaginative proponents of the new technology. Not content with confining his talent to these arenas, he has been recognized for his outstanding work as a filmmaker ("True Stories") and "Stop Making Sense," soundtrack composer ("Last Emperor," "Married to the Mob," "Something Wild," "Catherine Wheel," "A Twist in Time," "Dance," and producer "Waiting" — Fun Boy 3, and "Mesopotamia" — B-52s).

With such an exalted track record, it is impossible to ignore what Byrne turns his attention to now.

In this instance he tipped his hand earlier this year by his involvement with the release of "Brazil Classics," a collection of Brazilian folk songs. His constant effort to push himself into unknown territories has extended from the African tribal rhythms used by Talking Heads during their career to the lighter, bouncier sound of traditional Brazilian folk songs.

"Rei Momo" (Sire) is a collection of David Byrne originals, using New York-based Latin musicians from the bands of Ruben Blades, Celia Cruz and Tito Puente, and produced by Byrne and Steve Lillywhite.

The difference between this effort and the aforementioned foray into African music is that Byrne seems to have completely immersed himself into the Latin music.

With the African music, he absorbed its influence and used it to color a Byrne/Talking Heads song. With the Latin music, it has taken over completely. Despite Byrne's quirky, humorous lyrics and distinctive vocal style, this sounds like the latest example from the Rio de Janeiro charts.

BIG BANG! — Fuzzbox

Four women, a pop band. All right, go ahead and draw your own conclusions.

But before you write this band off as banal Bangles clones, take a listen to this rather fine debut LP from this Birmingham, England, quintet. The results are surprising.

Let's make a case for Fuzzbox to be taken seriously. For one, this group writes its own songs.

We'd like to enter for evidence the breezy numbers such as "International Rescue," "Self" and "Versatile for Discos and Parties."

Dance rhythms, sunny poppy numbers, hypnotic beats, yes, Fuzzbox can cross off all the boxes. Request most any number from "Big Bang" (Geffen) down at The Shelter. This will shake any loose plaster from the walls.

Also, there's lyrical bite to the songs. Fuzzbox is an all-girl band that likes to have fun. Yet they avoid the biggest downfall in pop (ritornels).

Songs such as "Jannetian Sunrise" are written from a feminine perspective. In this case, the natural traps women can fall into through marriage and family.

Versatility? You bet. The new-age quality of "Irish Bride" displays a group in command of its craft. OK, granted, this particular number sounds a bit like Enya, but it's moody, mystical and marvelous.

With all that, you're still not buying it. Must be those hiked-up bangs. Maggie, Tina, Jo and Vickie display on stage, huh?

"Why is it that when Prince does it it's brilliant and a woman does it and she's a lousy?" asks Vickie in the press notes.

Good, heartfelt music speaks louder than image. Fuzzbox will have a voice in music circles for years to come.

FEAR AND LOAFING

Answers to stupid questions

By Karl Nilsson
special writer

In honor of National Stupid Question Week, I am interrupting our regular series on self-hardening clay to answer those burning questions from readers. How they caught fire is another story altogether.

Q. I'm trying to organize my closets. Any point in hanging on to my old fingernail clippings?

A. Don't toss that collection yet. They're useful in the manufacturing of artificial animal hooves. It used to be that when a prize show horse split a nail his career was ruined. Now, thanks to new "press-on fashion hooves," the judges never know the difference.

Q. Why did "Big Band" music fad away?

A. In the days before music videos, top swing bands relied on unusual rhyming names to promote audience recognition. The most popular of these catchy monikers was "Les Brown and His Band of Renown."

Brown's overnight success spawned a host of imitators like "Conrad Rust and His Band of Disgust" and "Reginald Pitts and His Band of Twits." Soon, all the good names were used up, bringing the Big Band era to an untimely end.

With the advent of television in the early '50s, the Big Band sound enjoyed a brief resurgence — this time with the Latin flavor of Ricky Ricardo.

Q. Where did the game of basketball get the nickname round ball?

A. Surprisingly, it was not derived from the spherical shape of today's familiar orange ball. Instead, it was a reference to geographical location as in the phrase, "that's what we play round here."

In actual fact, the original game wasn't played with a ball at all, but a cinder block. Since dribbling was more difficult, this early game emphasized passing and shooting. The switch to a rubber ball occurred during the great cement shortage of 1922.

Q. Any ideas why the Detroit Tigers' performance was so dismal?

A. I'm tired of people blaming the Tigers for something that wasn't their fault. My research department has uncovered three reasons why Detroit lost more than 100 games this season:

1. Poor hitting — Hidden cameras revealed the Tiger bat boys were handing the bats to the players upside down. Knowing this, can our sluggers really be blamed for using the wrong end of the bat?

2. Poor fielding — Most reports concentrated on the fans falling asleep in the stands, but my investigation revealed narcolepsy in the outfield, too. This outbreak of frequent and uncontrollable sleep may explain why fly balls kept bouncing off our fielders' chests.

3. Poor pitching — The problem here was a communication breakdown between coaching and pitching. What the pitchers thought was batting practice was actually the first five innings. Once they discovered the game had already started, their performance usually improved.

Q. What will be the movie box-office blockbuster of the 1990s?

Definitely a sequel. I predict Sly Stallone will bounce back with the ultimate drawing card, "Rambo Versus Rocky." Taking a cue from the old "Patty Duke Show," Stallone will play both starring roles — the trigger happy veteran and the aging boxer, confronting each other in the fight of the century.

This time the epic battle won't take place in a steaming jungle, sweltering desert or Las Vegas boxing ring. It happens in a vegetarian restaurant.

Q. Any more hot movie picks?

My vote goes to "Cocoon II," a sequel with a nostalgic twist. This time around director Ron Howard goes in front of the cameras to star in this unusual tribute to his own career.

When the extra-terrestrials return for one final undersea pod, they get an unexpected surprise. Instead of an alien life force, out pops Aunt Bea.

When she is fully revived from her suspended animation, Mayberry's best cook peels off her rubbery face mask to reveal she is secretly Barney Fife, who then pulls off his face to reveal he is actually Sheriff Andy, who rips off his face to reveal he is Floyd the barber, who removes his face to reveal he is really and truly Opie Taylor, space traveler.

Sleeplessness is common problem

Dear Barbara,
I have difficulty sleeping at night. I both have difficulty falling asleep and staying asleep. Then during the day, I am often tired and cannot stop myself from napping.
The doctor has prescribed sleeping pills, but they make me feel groggy and from what I have read, can possibly be dangerous. I am in my late 40s and have had this problem for about five years.

monitored, resulting in a greater chance for appropriate treatment which could be medical, psychological, behavioral or all three.

Until then, some simple things to think about are the amount of caffeine you are consuming and the regularity of your particular cycle. It has been found that people sleep better and are more alert when they are aware of and maintain the same sleep-wake times. However, as I have said, nothing can substitute for detailed monitoring at a sleep disorder clinic.

Dear Barbara,

Until recently, I enjoyed a close relationship with my grandchildren. They are two girls ages 4 and 7. My daughter divorced her husband when the youngest child was only one. I have helped her since that time by caring for the girls while she worked.

Now she is planning on remarrying. This man is a beast. He dislikes me and wants to control my daughter. I believe my daughter wants to marry him for financial reasons. He is quite well off.

My daughter no longer wants me to see my granddaughters. In fact, she will not take my calls. Sometimes I drive by the house just to get a glimpse of them. I know they must miss me, too.

Is there anything I can do? Do I have any rights? I am a widow and this is my only child and grandchildren.

Lonely in Novi

Dear Lonely,

Yes, you have rights. There have been laws since the 1970s, which allow grandparents to initiate legal action when, because of divorce or death, their relationship with their grandchildren has been terminated without cause.

A group called the Grandparents Rights Organization is trying to have further legislation passed that would expand those rights. Call the organization at 646-7177 and they will counsel you on finding competent legal representation.

I wish you luck.

X means victory for Phil Glebe

Every weekend, from February to November, Glebe is in a different city to do the same task. Prize money for a race can be as high as $10,000.

The circuit is grueling, the rewards plenty. He travels east, west, north and south in pursuit of championship points during the race season.

SOMETIMES RACING points are the last thing on Glebe's mind. Like, for instance, the time he went over Lake Michigan from West Bend, Wis., to Lansing. The flight reached an altitude of 10,000 feet in subzero temperatures.

Then there was his time in the sun, when he nearly landed in the Gulf of Mexico. The flight originated out of Naples, Fla., with winds blowing east to west.

As he flew over woods, swamps and condominiums, Glebe began to look for an opening to land the craft. "That hole never developed," he said.

All of a sudden he was staring at a vast blue body of water. He began to let air out of the balloon. The basket skimmed along the top of some of palm trees, slowing down the craft.

The basket hit the beach, dumping Glebe out onto the sand. The canvas balloon landed in the ocean.

LUCK WOULD seem to play a part. But with 13 years experience as a licensed balloon pilot, skill had a say in Glebe avoiding danger.

Glebe trains balloon pilots as owner and operator of Renaissance Balloons. In order to receive a license, a person must pass a Federal Aviation Administration written examination, and obtain 10 hours of flight time with one hour as a solo run, passing a flight test with an FAA examiner and a health certificate.

Those were the requirements for Glebe. Then what was a hobby grew bigger than that.

"I WAS always fascinated with balloons all my life," said Glebe, a graduate of Eastern Michigan University. "I just fell in love with it."

So much so, he gave up his 11-year job in sales to devote his full time to the sport, which is grown to more than 700 pilots registered with the National Balloon Racing Association based in Statesville, N.C.

Balloons cost between $8,000 to $15,000 to build, though costs are easily offset with sponsorship.

"The sport is a natural for advertisement," Glebe said. "What you are is a 70-foot billboard."

GLEBE IS only interested in one sign on race day — the one marked with an "X."

A typical race involves a lead balloon, the hare, being released. The lead balloon travels for 30 minutes and marks off a spot. The hound balloons are then released, dropping two-ounce sand-filled bags as close to the "X" as possible.

The competing hot air balloons are launched two miles from the festival site and vie for the spot. Once there, they release sand-filled bags that are decorated with brightly colored streamers.

"Racing adds another dimension to a spectacular sport already," Glebe said. "Number one, it sharpens your flying skills."

Even Glebe can relax a bit and appreciate the beauty that ballooning has to offer. In a flight over Plymouth and through Novi, he lowers the balloon above a pond in a field.

"If you look below," he said, peering over the edge, "you can see a reflection of the balloon."

The image of the massive red balloon perfectly mirrored in the body of water is met with a smiling pilot. The finish line could wait.

Benmiller resort reflects past

but in those days it was a busy industrial center full of looms, saws, mill stones and other ingenious devices that served the settlers.

Benmiller had its own water power, so Gledhill's Woolen Mill and Primmer's Grist Mill stayed alive through World War II, but by 1972 it was a ghost town.

IT WOULD probably still be a ghost town if a man called Ivy, nostalgic for the woolen blankets of his youth, had not driven this way while on a vacation in Grand Bend. There were the old mill buildings, tucked into the trees near two Huron County roads, with nothing but the road to let a traveler know that he was in the 20th century, approaching the 21st.

It took a lot of restoration and rebuilding, but the Woolen Mill opened as the Benmiller Inn in 1974 and the grist mill became The River Mill in 1976. By 1979, two wings had been added to the private home of former mill owner Vern Gledhill, a third-generation Benmiller weaver. They are all part of the Benmiller Inn today.

If you decide to stay at the Benmiller Inn, the hardest part is finding it. There is one small sign where County Road 1 turns off Highway 8 just east of Goderich.

If you ask directions in Goderich, they will send you in the back way — "Follow Highway 21 across the bridge, take a sharp right, go through Saltford, turn right when the road ahead turns to gravel and you'll see the red brick church on one side of the road and a small green sign for the village of Benmiller on the other."

Don't go too fast or you'll miss the right turn onto County Road 1 and the gabled-roofed of the inn while whizzing past in a blur of trees.

You check in at the Woolen Mill, with its bar, dining room and guest rooms. Old hands like to stay there because the rooms are in a slightly rustic setting, but many prefer larger rooms and suites a few hundred yards downstream in Gledhill House or the River Mill.

IF YOU STAY downstream, you drive away from the registration building with a clutch of keys — one to get you through the door of your building and into your room, one for the River Mill, where you can use the big indoor swimming pool, and two small keys for the mini bar and a second bar full of videocassettes in your room.

All the rooms, except those in the Woolen Mill, have a sink and refrigerator tucked away behind doors, with an electric kettle and toaster, as well as the fixings for a continental breakfast in the refrigerator.

A suite in Gledhill House is likely to be two big rooms with a king-sized bed in one, and the television, fireplace, couches and other accoutrements of a living room in the other. All have small balconies so you can sit and watch the river.

If you stay across the road at the River Mill, your third-floor room has a big deck overlooking the river; the fourth-floor has a regular room, with a smaller deck, for less money.

If you insist on being busy, walk up the gravel road to the tennis courts at the top of the hill in season, take a bike and ride through the changing autumn leaves. You can swim in the Olympic-sized pool, or use the sauna, indoor jogging track and table tennis facilities at the River Mill.

IF YOU ARE allergic to that kind of exercise, walk around, with maybe one stop at the store, coffee shop and general store that are the sum of downtown Benmiller — it's the only shopping place for miles except for the gift shop at the inn.

None of this is for the budget-conscious. Rates are from $125 for a smaller room to $225 for a suite, including continental breakfast, plus five percent provincial tax. (Those prices are in Canadian dollars. Remember that $100 in U.S. money buys $116 Canadian.)

Ask about special packages. If you can travel mid-week, excluding Christmas and some popular snowy days in February, your room costs $100 Canadian a night.

To get there, take I-94 to Port Huron. Cross the Bluewater Bridge and follow Highway 402 to Highway 21 North through Grand Bend to Goderich. Take Highway 8 East four miles to Huron Road 1 and turn left 1 1/2 miles to Benmiller. The village is on any Ontario map, just east of Goderich. (Note: There are no gas stations in Benmiller.)

Call toll-free (800) 265-1711 or write the Benmiller Inn, RR#4, Goderich, Ont. N7A 3Y1.

RANDY BORST/staff photographer

Ann Delisi not only is music director at WDET-FM, the Detroit area's public radio station, she also does a Friday evening show, "New Releases in Review."

ANN DELISI - WDET

By Lorraine McClish
staff writer

WDET RADIO has been producer of the Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival broadcast for all of its 10 years. Ann Delisi refers to the 1989 event and her part in it as her "initiation festival."

It was another bit of on-the-job training for Delisi who started working in the station as a volunteer while she was a student at Wayne State University and just recently took the title of music director.

"I was a music student at Wayne with no clear cut ideas of what I wanted to do," she said. "I never had a class in broadcasting or theater. I never wanted to be a performer — maybe a composer. All I knew for sure was that I loved music more than anything else and wanted to be around it, wanted to be a part of it."

"We're all music people here. Everyone of us who work here is a music lover."

What kind of music makes no difference.

"We're an eclectic station, a variety station," she said. "We give anything a chance. That's part of the freedom of Public Radio — a freedom no commercial station has. We get anywhere from 25 to 150 new releases a week and we've aired people no one else will air."

And, according to Delisi, WDET has been "good for newcomers."

"WE HELP THEM whenever we can and we know we sell their records," she said. "It's been wonderful to hear some of the music that's come in from some of the African cultures. It's about time for that."

Delisi was born and raised in Detroit and still lives there. Her musical instrument is the piano, but there is not a lot of time for that. As music director, she oversees all the music programs on the air and has to be prepared to sit in as substitute for any host who isn't there for any reason.

She also has to prepare for her own Friday night shift and orchestrate all co-sponsorships of any manner WDET takes on.

She also spends a good part of her day listening to new releases and is active in the self-promotion that any public radio station must do. As a result, she is determined to start computerizing the music library.

"I still spend a lot of time in this room," she said of the music library. "Music librarian was my first full-time job at the station. We've got 30,000 titles here and it is very safe to say that it's the largest record library in the city."

She took that job six years ago. She eased into assistant music director, then the music director position without worry about sex discrimination.

"The majority of the management positions here are held by women," she said. "I never felt discriminated against, but I am well aware that discrimination exists in the industry."

DELISI IS a big advocate of live music.

"It was the live element that made radio radio and we should be preserving that element," she said. "We've got a state of the art sound stage here and we'll be getting more live acts to play in it."

Delisi has an audience of about 170,000 people she talks to 7-10 p.m. Friday nights at 101.9 on the FM dial.

"I love this job," she said. "I am grateful to be here everyday I walk through these doors."

SHERI DONOVAN - WLLZ

By Lorraine McClish
staff writer

SHERI DONOVAN grew up in Farmington Hills and after a long circuitous route to find a career, is now back in that town working at WLLZ.

"I was a secretary, a waitress, a bartender (after graduation from Farmington High School)," she said. "One summer I mowed lawns for a landscaper just so I could get a tan. It took a while for me to realize I was going to have to zero in on something definite."

The something she zeroed in on was classes at Specs Howard School of Broadcast Arts where she got on-the-job, on-the-air training doing State Police news and some weather reports for AAA's Icycle Network.

"I got my first job while I was with the Icycle Network reporting to other radio stations, just talking to those people. That job was news director for a small market-area in Traverse City because at the time that was what I thought I wanted to do," she said.

Her first job as a DJ was with WWCK in Flint, where she was able to choose the music she would play for her own air shift and where she decided she would stick with the music end of the broadcast business.

At WLLZ she turned from DJ to air personality.

"I see new music coming in every day," she said. "I read the trade magazines. I talk about the music and the artists; that's the job. But I don't choose the music I play. Everything is so tied up with ratings we need someone else to direct our master plan here and keep us all on the same track."

A GOOD PART of Donovan's job as an air personality is making public appearances and self-promotion.

"I'm always learning and every day I like my job better," she said. "I keep learning about myself because it's important to let myself come through. That's the difference between a DJ and an air personality."

"I have to be myself and express

RANDY BORST/staff photographer

Sheri Donovan went from doing State Police news and some weather reports for AAA's Icycle Network to news director for a small market-area in Traverse City to a DJ at WWCK in Flint before becoming an on-air personality at WLLZ-FM.

myself in a proper way, but I have to think twice about it and worry about what people think. I have to be more than just another nice or pleasant voice on the radio. And that's a very good way to learn about me."

One of the requirements for her job, she said, is always having to be "up."

"This requires a lot of excitement on my part and sometimes it takes time to wind down," she said. "But I'm a night owl. I get to bed at about 4 a.m. A lot better for me than doing the morning news in Traverse City at 4 a.m."

A fun part of the job is the many parties she attends. She told about being invited to Aretha Franklin's house to narrate a benefit fashion show one morning and doing the job that evening.

"All the while The Temptations were singing in her basement. And I got paid for being there," she said.

On the down side of being an air personality, Donovan refused to say what town she lived in "because of all the crazies out there."

She's been the recipient of some wild sounding and off-beat letters and phone calls.

"IT'S A NUTTY part of this job... and very scary," she said.

Donovan said she has never felt any sexual discrimination against her personally since she entered the broadcast business in 1983.

ROBIN SULLIVAN - WMUZ

By Lorraine McClish
staff writer

ROBIN SULLIVAN got her job at WMUZ by answering an ad placed in what she called an "obscure publication" while she was working "in an obscure station" in Rhode Island.

At the time the station had a maximum of two hours of music programmed for the day and Sullivan was selling ads and cleaning the bathrooms in between her short stint on the air.

"WMUZ was looking for someone who was bright, pithy, energetic, fun, able to communicate one-on-one and able to communicate their love of God," the Farmington Hills resident said. "That was me. The ad was describing me."

She was the first woman DJ to be hired by an all-Christian station in Detroit.

She went into the job, "under a little bit of pressure from some of the hard-core conservatives but determined just to be me," she said.

"I knew I couldn't be all things to all people," she said. "I wasn't Miss Glamour and I wasn't Miss Intelligence, but I could do all things through Christ who strengthened me."

"I developed a following very early on and in many ways I'm like a big sister. They (the callers) ask for advice and I share Jesus. That's a lot more than sharing a recipe. There's no theater in this. I communicate one-on-one just being me."

YOU'LL FIND her show, "The Praise Company," at 103.5 on the FM dial 3-7 p.m. Monday through Friday and 2-4 p.m. Saturday. Call-ins come through on "The Praise Line."

Sullivan grew up in parochial schools in Rhode Island and studied theater in college where she "became a crazy woman," she said.

The wild life continued all the while she was ridding herself of her New England accent, living in New York pursuing a career in theater and up until the time she accepted Jesus into her life.

That was about 13 years ago. "I packed up and went back to Rhode Island to work in my Irish father's pizza place... humbled," she said. "I didn't know what I was going to do, except I wanted to tell others about Jesus — even if I had to wear a sandwich board to do it."

For Sullivan, getting a job at a little radio station with an audience of about 500 seemed to be a good start, especially "for somebody whose qualifications were a big mouth and a love of Jesus."

"Born again means fresh start," she said. "I found I had a purpose. I found there was more to life than I thought there was and I was able to convey all that enthusiasm."

"I still can do it. I'm on the air four hours a day, six days a week and I never have a script. Never. I just share my life experiences."

ANOTHER THING Sullivan is sharing these days is her knowledge of theater.

She's directing two one act plays produced by Trinity House Theatre in Livonia. "An Evening of One Acts" is scheduled for weekends Oct. 20-Dec. 2.

Sullivan, who said she's not good at sitting still, is very active in "Operation Rescue," sometimes known as "Rescuers of the Unborn."

"I'm their cheerleader," she said. "I get the singing going and lead the prayers for the unborn and their mothers."

Getting with Gear: comfortable country

By Joan Boram
special writer

DO YOU ever look around your living room in despair at the frayed sofa garnished with dog hair, the hand-me-down overstuffed chair the cat uses as a scratching post, the coffee table ringed by years of kaffeeklatsches?

Do you sometimes wonder if your complete collection of Bob-Lo snowballs are genuine collectables or just kitsch? Just push the stack of shelter magazines aside, sit down and relax. Chances are you qualify as "country." Don't think "frumpy," think "patina."

And while you're at it, think of Raymond Waites, the jovial decorating wizard credited with being the "Father of American Country." According to Waites, the mark of a decorator's skill is to make a room look lived in from day one. Scuff marks on the dining room chairs put you ahead of the game. Be proud of that philodendron in the stenciled coffee can.

FOR SEVERAL YEARS, Waites was happy and successful living in Helsinki where he was director of design for Marimekko. (If you don't recall Marimekko, think geometric Laura Ashley.)

"But there comes a day when the most important thing in the world is a Diet Coke and a hamburger, and then it's time to come home," claims the ebullient Waites.

And, in a nutshell, that's how Waites became the "Father of American Country."

Speaking at the Michigan Design Center's gala preview party recently, Waites traced his design philosophy from Southern Victorian to pared-down international to country comfortable.

"Right after coming back to the states, I bought a quilt and a piece of pine furniture, and I did a complete design turnaround. My wife and I began to hunt country fairs and pine began pushing plastic out the door."

"We had been brought up," he continued, "in the Southern Victorian tradition — our families had loads of heavy, ornate table silver, white damask tablecloths, etc., that was used once or twice a year."

Soon after his "conversion," Waites met Betty Martin, and together they decided to take her $5,000 and his talent, and start a company to design and produce good American design. Thus, in 1978, Gear Inc. was launched.

"MY PERSONAL TASTE led to may professional life," he said.

About that time, Waites and Mary Emmerling wrote a book describing what was happening in design. "American Country," still in print, made them the official parents of the American Country movement.

Gear Inc. was an immediate success. "The time was right — something was bubbling in the country," said Waites. "You can't make anything happen if the culture isn't ready. There was a resurgence of looking at our design heritage. Maybe it was a delayed result of the bi-centennial."

Waites passed out some advice at his appearance in the Burger gallery. He urges the special use (to you) of pieces as the foundation of a room. Just don't use too many colors.

"COLOR ALLOWS YOU to mix styles and periods," he explained. By using a limited color palette, it all flows together. For example, honey pine furniture has a yellow tone. If you mix it with off-white and gray blue, you can change the attitude of the room with very little money. Learn to build color and accessories.

"For a seasonal look in the summer, add yellow striped pillows and daffodils. Mums, a tablecloth and swags over the windows, all in rich rust red, will carry the room into autumn."

Waites is predicting that country will assume a more opulent, almost baroque, look.

WAITES HAS USED the same core colors in successive fabric collections to assure continuity. "Stone blue," for instance, has been around for eight years, in various patterns.

"I use my own taste as a barometer," said Waites. "Eight years ago, I designed a romantic chintz collection. Everybody predicted that it would never sell. It was our most popular collection, it's still selling well."

When asked to define country, Waites described an encounter in a Finnish farmhouse: "Once, I was traveling in Finland 200 miles above the Arctic Circle. We stopped at a farm house, and there was an old woman weaving rugs from old clothes — and plastic shopping bags! The rugs were wonderful. They were much more durable than an ordinary rag rug because of the plastic. She has created a traditional item in a traditional way, using non-traditional material."

"That's the true spirit of country. There are no rules."

Extended family

Love of north country bonds condo owners

By Marie McGee
staff writer

IRA and Barbara Green's commitment to Michigan's Upper Peninsula has paid off in ways they didn't expect.

They've managed to make some money on a condominium project some of their friends thought was crazy. But more rewarding has been the knowledge that they were promoting the beauty of Michigan's upper peninsula as an affordable recreational retreat.

It's also resulted in a new "extended" family — made up of the 15 or so families who bought units in the waterfront condominiums the Greens built last year at Grand Marais, on the shores of Lake Superior.

An announcement of the development came via a feature story in the Observer & Eccentric in July 1988. The story noted that the Greens, both from Bloomfield Hills, were fans of the Upper Peninsula — particularly the Grand Marais area.

WHAT THE STORY didn't talk about was the skepticism of friends when the Greens decided to replace rental cabins with condominiums on land they owned.

But Ira Green, who owns a dental lab in Troy, said he could understand their feelings. After all, he said, he wasn't a "builder" in the construction sense of the word. But he also knew that what he lacked in expertise, he made up in enthusiasm for Michigan's upper regions.

Underscoring that enthusiasm was a commitment to preserve the beauty and integrity of the region. To make sure he didn't compromise either, he sought advice from others who felt as he did. High on his list was the Department of Natural Resources.

He was most familiar with Grand Marais because he and Barbara had vacationed there for many years. In fact, he had camped in the area as a youth.

THE PROJECT WAS a labor of love, so to speak — a belief that, if given the chance, others would probably come to love the area, too.

Almost from the announcement of the development, the response was overwhelming, Green said.

"Not only did all 18 units sell almost immediately, but a majority of the people were from this area," said Green.

The result is a strong association that has become "almost like a family."

The camaraderie is so strong that the group often gets together "down here" long after summer ends for what the group technically calls "association meetings." Plymouth, for instance, is a favorite meeting place — probably because the association treasurer and her husband live in Canton.

ANOTHER UNEXPECTED benefit came from a friendship Green formed with one of the association members who happens to own a market research firm. The two men often commuted from the Bloomfield area to Grand Marais on weekends.

"In fact, we have gotten to be such good friends, that he has helped me make decisions about our next project," said Green with a grin.

The Greens are in the midst of developing a similar waterfront development — this one in St. Ignace.

"It will be basically the same design as the development in Grand Marais, but the units will be slightly larger," said Green. One- and two-bedroom units will be offered in a price range of $65,000-$75,000.

The Greens — like a lot of other folks in the state including Governor James Blanchard — happen to believe that St. Ignace is the gateway to the north. The Greens see their latest venture as a way to oil the hinges a bit.

Spotlighting right-brainers

Last week's column described the attributes of people who are left brain dominant and how that affects their organizational abilities. Right brain thinking will be discussed today.

While everyone switches back and forth between the two hemispheres of the brain, about 10 percent of people depend almost entirely on the right side.

People who think predominantly with their right brain might be characterized as artists, or creative people. They tend to think in metaphors, images, spatial concepts and intuitive leaps of insight. They are concerned with the immediate experience of patterns, moods, feelings and atmosphere. Right brain people tend to be inspirational, attuned to music, movement and touch. They can be inner-directed (unconcerned with other's opinions), impractical, spontaneous, lacking in discipline, irrational, holistic and sensual. They are non-sequential, (as in not time oriented) and often drag their heels and run late.

"Right Brainers" acquire their information kinesthetically (through touch and feelings) and process it in feelings-action-thought order. That is, they experience a feeling, act upon it and only then consider the consequences. They often want things Right Now! These people are good at looking at a whole concept, while ignoring the details. When asked to describe a room, for instance, they might say it is "bright, sunny, spacious and makes me feel good."

Right brain activities include making love, dancing, impulse buying and overeating. Because they are not conscious of details or objects and tend to think horizontally, they may leave things laying around, save things and allow possessions to become disorganized. Their homes may have a "lived in" look.

Although right brain people may be impractical, they may also be extremely talented in ways left brain dominance would never allow. If they have jobs that demand left brain thinking, they may revert to right brain dominance even more dramatically at home. ♪

"The Odd Couple Syndrome — Resolving the Neat/Sloppy Dilemma," a book by Selwyn Mills, Ph.D. and Max Weisser, ACSW, points out that opposites attract and life can be difficult when two opposites live or work together. The often amusing book states that when Neat and Sloppy meet, "sloppy prevails." Acceptance of the other person's traits is a key to harmony. Also, anyone can learn to use both brain hemispheres, but it is more difficult for a predominantly one-sided person.

Author Mills emphasized to me that brain dominance is "beyond value judgment" and should never be construed as "right" or "wrong," but merely different. This is only an outline sketch of their insightful book, which can be obtained by sending $14.95 (plus $1.00 postage) check or money order to Jamelson Publishing Co., 90 Schenck Ave., Suite 116, Great Neck, NY 11021.

Builder uses energy saving as sales tool

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Robert Snowden, a West Bloomfield developer trying to break into the business, figures that he has to use every available marketing tool to compete with the big boys and attract customers.

So he's decided to add energy-efficient touches to pre-engineered modular houses he customizes on scattered lots in the metropolitan area.

Touches like storms on the Crest-line windows, insulation in the steel front door, 3 1/2 inches of extra insulation between floors, 14 1/2 inches of insulation in the roof and two thermostats on the furnace — one for the second floor, the other for the first.

Snowden, president of the fledgling Ashley Development Co., recently was recognized by Consumers Power for exceeding standards set by the utility's energy efficient home award program.

"For me, the energy package is standard because I believe in making an energy efficient home," Snowden said of models offered by General Housing of Bay City.

"IF WE'RE going to become energy independent, we're going to have to pay attention to these things," he said.

A modular house is completely built in sections at a factory, then transported to a lot where its major sections are put together.

Snowden, 34, designed and installed two bedrooms and a full bathroom upstairs and roughed in a bonus room over the garage at the Williamsburg Cape Cod model in the Pleasant Lake Highland Subdivision of West Bloomfield.

The main floor — two bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen, bathroom and laundry — is 1,120 square feet.

A small Valliant model, gas-fired boiler furnace in the basement is rated at 85-percent efficiency, Snowden said.

The house is listed at $126,500 and includes the lot. The model alone would sell for about $90,000 with an unfinished upstairs, Snowden said.

BUYERS DON'T seem to be as fussy about energy-saving elements in a house today as they were a decade ago, Snowden said.

"In 1979-80-81, buyers were more energy conscious when the price of energy jumped about 50 percent," he said. "Prices have stabilized, maybe fallen, and they're not paying as much consideration."

"I think they will be in for a nasty surprise in a few years when they (prices) take off again," Snowden said.

Jim White, a marketing consultant for Consumers, agrees with Snowden, but believes that energy again is becoming important to buyers.

"I think people realize we've seen some relief (on prices) in the short term," White said. "In the long-term, energy is going to be an important resource to manage."

A study by the National Association of Home Builders indicates that nearly 70 percent of new home buyers rank energy efficiency high on a list of the most important considerations when building a new home.

BUILDERS ARE responding, said James S. Bonadeo, president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan.

"From the roof to the basement, new home buyers will find the very latest in construction and materials to make their homes more comfortable, more convenient and less expensive to live in," he said.

More insulation, more-efficient window glazings and more-efficient furnaces and water heaters have resulted.

Everyone wins with the home energy award program sponsored by Consumers Power, White said.

The utility gets another natural gas customer, the buyer gets more bang for his energy dollar and the builder can promote and advertise a house as energy-efficient.

Other builders honored or soon to be honored by Consumers are LePore Building of Troy, Hillcom Development of Bloomfield Hills and Multi Building of Plymouth, White said.

TO QUALIFY, ceiling insulation must be rated at least R-38 and wall insulation R-19, White said. The higher the rating, the greater the efficiency and protection.

Snowden said he has R-44 in the ceiling, R-19 in the walls and an additional 13 1/2 inches of insulation with a rating of R-45 in the roof.

Award-winning houses also must be completely weatherstripped and caulked, the windows must be double-glazed or contain storms and the furnace and hot water heater must be rated at least 80 percent efficient.

The windows used by Snowden have storms and reflect heat out in summer and reflect heat in during winter, he said.

"Hot-water baseboard heat is quiet, it's even and it's efficient," he added.

The dual thermostats on the furnace — one for the second floor, the other for the first — also save energy, Snowden said.

The Williamsburg in West Bloomfield remains unsold in spite of the energy strategy taken by Snowden.

The big drawback is the nearly mile trek on an unpaved road up Halsted from 14 Mile, he said.

Appliances cut energy use

(AP) — Consumers can save close to $150 a year by using the most energy efficient appliances sold in the United States, according to a independent non-profit energy research group.

"There are many factors that consumers need to look at in purchasing appliances. Energy is one of them," said Steve Nadel, senior associate at the American Council for an Energy-Efficient Economy.

Because "one-third of the electricity produced in the U.S. is consumed in our homes" the council recommends consumers pay closer attention to the yellow EnergyGuide labels affixed to new appliances.

"We are suggesting that people narrow their searches," Nadel said. The group's guide, "The Most Energy-Efficient Appliances" offers consumers help in doing that.

"If all the households in the U.S. had the most efficient refrigerators currently available, the electricity savings would eliminate the need for about 10 large power plants," the report said.

The makes and models surveyed by the council meet or exceed the minimum efficiency standards established by the National Appliance Energy Conservation Act of 1987, Nadel added.

The law provides that minimum energy efficiency standards for major home appliances be reduced by 10 percent to 30 percent and phased in over five years.

"Using appliances and heating and cooling equipment costs an average household more than $1,000 per year," the report said.

"We estimate that these standards will save consumers at least $28 billion over the lifetimes of the products sold through the year 2000," the report concluded.

BUT NADEL estimated buying the council's most energy-efficient refrigerator, dish and clothes washer could save $146 a year.

The average family refrigerator is 18.5 cubic feet refrigerators with top freezers and automatic defrosters, Nadel said.

The council report rates a Frigidaire 18.6 cubic feet model as the most efficient in that size category. Based on a national average energy cost of 7.7 cents per kilowatt hour the booklet estimates the annual cost to run the Frigidaire refrigerator at $65 annually.

The average refrigerator that consumers replace costs about $112 to operate yearly, said Nadel. He calculated that consumers would save $47 a year with the Frigidaire model.

For two other common household appliances, dish and clothes washers, Nadel estimated yearly costs for existing models in most homes at $70 and $90 respectively.

The council rates a White-Westinghouse dishwasher which costs $38 a year to operate and a Gibson front-loading standard size washing machine costing $23 a year to run as the most energy-efficient new models. The consumer buying these would save $32 and $67 over current costs.

Consumers can obtain a copy of the council's guide for $3 by writing ACEEE, Suite 535, 1001 Connecticut Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Avoid problems before they arise

Our project is about 15 years old. The president of the association, having read your column, has requested that we amend our bylaws. Several members of the board are concerned that an update of the bylaws would be expensive and not necessary particularly since "we've not had any problems over the years." Their philosophy is why change it if it has worked. Do you have any comments?

A: If the condominium project is 15 years old without any bylaw changes, it is clear that you have not taken advantage of major changes in the 1978 Condominium Act, which enhanced condominium association operation, as well as other changes to the act that took place in 1983 and thereafter. Moreover, 15 years of experience in condo operation have not been incorporated into your condominium documents. As one of the co-drafters of the 1978 Condominium Act, it was my desire to alleviate many of the problems or abuses that took place under the first generation of condominium documents and the first-generation condominium statute. Unless you incorporate the changes in the documents, they will not be applicable. Also the fact that you have allegedly not had any problems up to this point is totally irrelevant to the question of the need to update your condo documents. The idea of having good condominium documents, which are specific in regard to restrictions, etc., is to avoid problems before they arise to be able to deal with them effectively once they arise, including, if necessary, the commencement of successful legal proceedings to ensure compliance with the condominium documents. Get your condo lawyer to address the members of the board of directors or the members of the association as to the need to update your documents as soon as possible.

We are upset about the election procedure of our condominium association regarding a recent attempt to remove the directors. All of a sudden the board decided that they would strictly adhere to the requirements that only the designated voting representative could vote when, in the past, that was not their custom or procedure. We protested at the meeting, but they basically did it their own way. What can we do since we want to throw the directors out? Unfortunately, we were not represented.

A: The board of directors of your association cannot have their cake and eat it too. If in fact they were elected under a procedure by which they did not follow their own rules and regulations regarding the designated voter representative forms, but then decided to get smart in an effort to make it more difficult for them to be unseated, you more than likely have a good claim that they have not been managing the association properly and have abused the election process. It is also more than likely that there may be other irregularities in regard to the election process, which should be reviewed by a competent legal adviser who is familiar with condominium association election procedures. You may find that you have a basis to set aside either the original election of the directors or the apparent election removal procedure, which you claim was fraught with error.

This Land Is Your Land

Void In West Bloomfield

On October 16, 1989 the West Bloomfield Township Board may pass an ordinance to restrict the reasonable use of your property. This Ordinance would require you to provide an extensive surveying and engineering study of your property and even force you to submit to a public hearing if you wish to relocate or remove even one small 3" caliper tree which you planted a few years ago. Do you want Government to take away control of your property? Can you afford more tax increases or a decrease in your property value? Protect your largest investment. Attend the October 16th meeting at 7:00 pm in the new Township Building located at 4550 Walnut Lake Road. Let your voice be heard before your land becomes their land.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
