AIDS classes get OK

Schools update sex education

By Keith Postler staff writer

Students will be learning more about AIDS in their sex education classes in Plymouth-Canton schools.

The information in the classroom comes as the result of the school board's approval Monday of two resolutions that will provide students, faculty and parents with more up-todate information on reproductive health and sex education.

However, both resolutions are aimed at keeping students, teachers and parents better informed on the AIDS virus, said Board of Education treasurer Marilyn Schwinn.

"With AIDS we always need new materials because the information about AIDS changes often," she said. 'The only protection we have is to be well informed about the HIV, or AIDS, virus. Teenagers frequently have the opinion that it can't happen to them, but some of the material, especially a video presentation, may make them aware that it can.'

Roland Thomas, board secretary, agreed that sex education is vitally important for students and parents.

'My opinion on sex education in the schools is that it is appropriate and is a parental responsibility as well," he said. "I look at it as a team process because I know a lot of parto their children about sex education, and are not as informed as some people. It's a team effort. It's

The first resolution deals with a pamphlet and brochure presentations entitled Red Cross: "School Systems and AIDS Information for Teachers and School Officials" and "Children, Parents and AIDS;" Wellness Network: "Talking With Your Children About AIDS" and "Talking With Your Teenager About AIDS."

Each of the pamphlets will be available for health education courses in K-12 schools.

The second resolution provides for the distribution of a video tape entitled "AIDS: Learn For Your Life." It will be available in grades 9-12.

Both resolutions are based on guidelines established by Public Act 226 of 1977, which requires that a district provide instruction in sex education, including reproductive health, establish an advisory board to review instruction materials and make recommendations to the district for use in classroom programs, and Public Act 185 of 1987. That act provides for instruction regarding dangerous communicable disease, including AIDS.

Township OKs recycling

If you live in Plymouth Township, you'll be separating some of your garbage for recycling starting July

A draft recycling plan was approved Tuesday by the township Board of Trustees and will go out for bids possibly "by the first of the " said Jan Hoffman, township solid waste coordinator.

By putting a draft plan together, "We're trying to give a general idea to a bidder," said Maurice Breen, township supervisor. Some specifics of the plan — like what kind of container will be provided to residents for collecting recyclables - will be determined by trustees and the garbage hauler that gets the contract, Hoffman said.

"A large container is going to be given to the residents, about the size of a clothes basket," Hoffman said.

Residents are to put glass, tin, plastic and newspaper in the container, according to the draft plan.

Bio-degradable bags, probably made of paper, will be provided for residents to bag grass and leaves and other materials suitable for composting, the plan states.

Commission faces budget, trash issues

By Kevin Brown staff writer

Jerry Vorva and John Vos officially took their seats on the Plymouth City Commission Monday.

And as Dennis Bila was re-elected mayor of the city, he proclaimed 'every commissioner's opinion will be heard and respected before we make a decision.

Bila was even moved to quote a Chinese philosopher: "The best of all leaders is the one who helps people."

It was an evening for smiles, hand-shakes and good wishes as new and re-elected commissioners James Jabara and Ralph (Jack) Kenyon took the oath of office.

"It's a great honor for me to be called mayor of the city of Plymouth, when I think of all the mayors that have gone before me," Bila said. Among those former mayors are Jabara and commissioner Mary Childs.

Commissioners also elected Kenyon mayor pro-tem.

BILA SAID that among top priorities facing the commission in coming months are hiring a city manager and reviewing the city budget.

He said the commission must also come up with a trash recycling plan, in which residents must separate their garbage before collection.

After their election last week, the

'One of the first things is to review the sign ordinance," Vos said. During the election campaign, city workers removed candidate's signs placed in the city right of way - the grassy area between sidewalk and street — as city officials deemed this sort of sign placement violated

But Vos and Vorva maintained the ordinance is vague and got an injunction in Wayne County Circuit Court against the city, to allow signs to be placed in the right-of-way. City attorney Ken Lowe agreed the ordinance is vague, and the city commission agreed to review the ordinance

"We don't have a lot of land," said Plymouth's director of parks and recreation Charles Skene.

So the replacing of slides, swings and other playground equipment will likely be a top priority, as city recre-ation-parks planners begin reviewing the state of the city's parks.

We still need to make some improvements in the parks, we need newer and more up-to-date equipment," Skene said.

The Canton Community Foundation's board of directors approved the move, which hopes to attract major newsmakers at the state and local level to the Headliner Speaker Seminar Series, said William Joyner.

SOFA's main goal is to encourage political participation within the community, take positions on issues, and through dialogue and research, help solve local and national problems. This is what impressed the CCF the most, Joyner added.

"It's an interesting group. The students involved just want to understand the issues that they will be facing when they graduate. This is a vehicle to actually take action with those issues," he said.

The big question is what should the school's role be in sponsoring activities outside of the school."

Response teams to help district deal with death

By Keith Postler staff writer

Dealing with death at the high school, middle or elementary school level can often be a traumatic expelence for everyone involved.

Because of this, the Plymouth-Canton schools took an important first step on Monday in approving a districtwide support mechanism for students, parents and faculty.

The school board unanimously supported a resolution to deal with death in the schools that will eventually creat response teams at each one response team in place, based at Centennial Educational Park, The team is composed of teachers trained to act as counselors.

Roland Thomas, a board member, applauded the resolution by saying, "I think it's very important that this be done. The U.S. Supreme Court ruling upholding a joint operating agreement between Detroit's daily newspapers, "was a victory for Michigan and the metro area," according to the execu-tive editor of the newspaper that "If you look at the Newspaper Preservation Act, it was designed to preserve separate and independent editorial voices, and that is clearly the case here," said Heath Meriwether of the Detroit Free Press.

The act, approved by Congress in 1970, allows for newspaper mergers, though the Free Press/News JOA is the largest ever approved.

There are more questions than answers surrounding the closing of Burger Center, a Garden City facility serving the needs of Wayne Coun-ty's autistic children.

And for parents like Kenneth Howse of Livonia and Pat Sumara of Southgate those questions are nerve wracking.

For nearly a decade, Garden City Public Schools has provided both space and staff for the county pro-

But the former Garden City junior high building won't be available next

How it will be replaced has been the focus of nervous speculation among parents of the center's 217 students, who fall between age 3-26.

· No new site has been selected and it's uncertain whether the program will remain in one building or move to multiple buildings.

Perhaps more importantly, there is also uncertainty over whether the center's 110 staff members will move with the facility or remain employees of the Garden City Schools.

"THAT'S MY major concern, whether the staff will be there," Howse said.

.Wayne County Intermediate Schools, the agency responsible for the program, has stressed that it will continue - somewhere - next year.

"There's been a rumor that the program won't continue and that's just not true," said Kathryn Mathey, manager of county special education services. "We're bound by (state) law to provide it."

Despite that assurance, and despite airing their fears in several meetings with county officials, parents remain concerned whether the program will avoid major interrup-

"My major concern is whether they will be able to duplicate the services," said Sumara, whose junior high school-aged sen attends center programs. "The feeling I got from the one meeting I attended was not to expect miracles."

Compounding the problem is the nature of the students themselves.

"Of all the students we serve, autistic students would probably have the most difficulty adjusting to change," Mathey said.

CHANGE IS necessary since neither the Garden City nor the county schools deemed the building worth salvaging.
Problems began when asbestos traces were discovered in July. Asbestos removal and a new roof are needed, said Garden City Schools Superintendent Michael Wilmot. But because only three Garden City students currently participate in center programs, the district decided against renovations.

"The feeling was, we shouldn't spend that much for a program that benefits so few of our students," Wilmot said.

While the district proposed having the WCISD take over the building the county district declined, also citing repair costs.

Though we have a millage, we believe it should be spent of programming, not buildings," Mathey

Autism is a state of mind often characterized by day dreaming, hal-lucination and withdrawl from human contact. Though actor Dustin Hoffman's portrayal of an autistic savant in the film "Rain Man" raised public awareness of autism, parents said autisic children and adults are individuals, as different from the movie character as they are from

Burger Center employees on the Garden City payroll.

Those employees will be given a choice of staying with the district or moving, Wilmot said. Though there has yet to be an agreement on such items as seniority, pension and other

EVEN IF all staff members return, parents are somewhat divided on how the program should proceed. Howse, whose 5-year-old son is placed in the high functioning group said he wasn't concerned whether the program continued in multiple buildings so long as all students of similar age were grouped together.

"I'm not as concerned about moving to a new building as I am that the building be adequate and that it be centrally located."

Sumara, though, said she was concerned dividing students among several students would "force them to lose their peer group".

Some parents are also stressing the concept of least restrictive environment - placing autistic children in isolated wings of buildings housing other students.

Others believe students should have a building all to themselves.

Center program will continue through the end of this school year.

If there is a bright note, Mathey said, it's that fears could subside when a new site is chosen next

"What we're looking for is a very large facility," she said. The WCISD is looking for a building to house the entire program, she added, though the program could be divided between adolescents and elementary school-aged children if a single building cannot be found.

A less restrictive environment could also be sought for those high functioning students that would benefit from it, she added.

Though the search continues, some parents believe it already should be

"I'm a little disappointed in the timing," Howse said. "If they knew it was going to close, they should have had another building already lined

But Mathey said finding a new building is difficult.

"Up until a few years ago there were many buildings available and they could be had for a song," she said. "But now, they're gone, school districts have already sold them."

"We're in a real dilemma."

House fails to override Bush's abortion ve

Here's how Charver & Ecceptric area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending Oct. 27.

PREFERENTIAL PUNDING AT HUD—The House voted 250 for and 170 against in support of 41 specific community projects to be financed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development at a cost of at least $20 million. Most of the projects are for areas represented by lawmakers with considerable influence over the HUD budget. This vote during debate on a fiscal 1990 HUD appropriations bill (HR 2916) swept aside an attempt to make the ventures compete for limited community development money.

The projects would be financed by an account that figures in charges of PREFERENTIAL FUNDING AT an account that figures in charges of financial scandal at HUD during the Reagan administration. Those charges are directed at former HUD officials and consultants, not at members of Congress. Members voting yes supported the preferential funding arrangement at Area members voting yes were Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, and Sander Levin, D-Southfield. William Broomfield, R-Birmingham, voted no.

to override President Bush's veto of a fiscal 1990 Department of Health and Human Services appropriations bill (HR 1999) that cased restrictions on Medicaid abortions. The tally of 231 for and 191 against fell short of the two-thirds majority needed to defeat the water defeat the veto.

Bush objected to language permitting Medicald abortions when the pregnancy results from rape or in-cest. Added earlier by the House to HR 2000, the language would broad-en existing law that permits Medic-aid abortions only when the mother's aid abortions only when the mother's life is at stake.

The House's failure to overcome Bush's opposition made it unneces-sary for the Senate to also take up the veto and thus the abortion issue. Nor did the Senate vote on the liberalized abortion language when it gave final approval of HR 2990 Oct.

Members voting yes supported the pro-abortion language and wanted to override the veto.

Area representatives Pursell,

PAYMENTS TO JAPANESE-AMERICANS — By a vote of 240 for and 166 against, the House amended an appropriations bill (HR 2991) to establish an entitlement program for Japanese-Americans who were interned in U.S. government camps during World War II.

This ensures that former internees who are still living, now counted at approximately 60,000, will receive a single reparations payment of $20,000 each. The money was au-thorized in a 1988 law but held back by congressional budget cutters. The entitlement approach guarantees payment beginning next October. HR 2991 was sent to the Senate for final congressional action.

Members voting yes supported the wentitlement program. Hertel, Ford, Levin and Broomfield voted yes. Pursell voted no.

EARTHQUAKE AID — By a vote of 303 for and 107 against, the House sent to President Bush a catchall spending bill providing disaster aid to California as well as money to run the government in these early weeks of fiscal 1990.

The "continuing resolution" (HJ Res 423) is needed because Congress and President Bush have failed to enact most of the 13 regular appropriations bills for the fiscal year that

The bill provides $1.1 billion for housing grants and other direct aid to victims of the Oct. 17 California earthquake, $1 billion to help Caliemergency aid also may go to vic-tims of the recent Hurricano Hugo.

The legislation drew opposition om members who criticized financing the government by continu-ing resolution, and who objected to raising the disaster aid by additional borrowing rather than program cuts or revenue hikes.

Members voting yes wanted to enact the continuing resolution including California disaster aid.

Senators voting yes supported a federal death penalty. Senators vot-ing no had earlier backed an alternative calling for life impris without chance of parole.

New voices

Vorva, Vos spice up politics

election, ended with a bang in Plymouth on Nov. 7.

And it sounds as though the fireworks will be going off for some time to come at Plymouth City Commission meetings.

Jerry Vorva and John Vos became new voices on the commission, edging out Robert Jones, an Incumbents don't usually lose, and we're sorry to see Jones go.

Jones' loss was put down to the fact that he didn't have any signs out, and that he didn't cam-

Yorva had plenty of signs on the streets and went door-to-door. He placed first in the sevenperson race for four board seats.

Plymouth political observers say that signals a change in the politics of the city. The traditional approach isn't going to work in an era of signs

WE DON'T LIKE the idea that advertising and marketing are taking the place of issues in campaigns. However, in Plymouth's case we think the change will be good for Plymouth residents.

Vorva made a lot of noise in his campaign and got people talking about change. That's good for the city because it makes people take another look at the way things are being run.

And that's the role we hope both Vorva and Vos will play on the city commission.

But while we expect that Vorva and Vos bring some new ideas, we hope their voices aren't too strident. That especially worries us in Vorva's case. He is a former city police officer and often former city employees have too many axes to grind when they become holders of political of-

We hope Vorva doesn't go that route.

Dispute should be resolved

HE DISPUTE OVER the seepage of fuel oil into the ground in Plymouth has gone on long enough.

We think it's time for Amoco, the city, the state Department of Natural Resources and Ralph Lorenz to get the thing settled and clear the cloud over Plymouth and Canton.

In these days of environmental awareness, people are concerned about the health hazards posed by things like fuel oil in the ground. The longer the dispute drags on, the more Plymouth will become known as a contaminated town.

THE DISPUTE is between Amoco and Lorenz and centers on the seepage of oil into the soil around the Mayflower Meeting House. The dispute has lingered for years and is in court, brought there by a suit filed by Lorenz.

The situation is of concern to the entire Plymouth community because of the way the public sees pollution. Workers at the Mayflower said that a woman came into the hotel recently and demanded that they not use the local water for her coffee. The woman was worried that it was contaminated by fuel oil. According to the workers, the woman couldn't be convinced that the water came from pipes not affected by the fuel

That's the way the public sees pollution. If the water is affected in Plymouth, then why not nearby Canton or Plymouth Township? Nobody can control these perceptions. That's why the city should get more involved. The city has a reputation to protect.

Education A lot of work must be done

ICHIGAN VOTERS have opted for no new taxes in rejecting both Proposals A and B on Nov. 7.

Voters statewide overwhelmingly defeated both sale tax increases. Oakland County voters rejected Proposal A by a 4-1 margin and Proposal B nearly 9-1.

In Wayne County, Proposal A lost 3-2; Proposal B was rejected 4-1. In Wayne County, local school district endorsements apparently made no difference.

Proposal A would have increased the state sales tax from 4 cents to 41/2 cents. Proposal B, a 2 cent state sales tax increase, would also have cut local property taxes for some.

Despite the defeat of Proposals A and B, the need to make good schools excellent remains with or without new money.

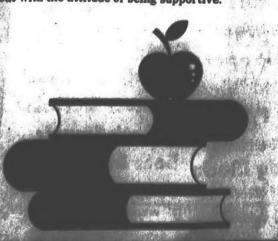

We have a lot of work to do before public schools are graduating a higher proportion of students ready for the challenges of citizenship and competing in a world economy.

Education isn't something you can vote on every few years and then walk away.

SITTING IN the state Legislature are proposals to allow "schools of choice," which would allow parents to select any school in the district for their youngsters to attend. The bills under discussion so far will take time to implement in any district that chooses the program. Lawmakers should get busy and pass something.

"GAIN," an acronym for Governor's Achievement Incentives, would set up a system of competitive grants for schools. The purpose is to induce them to improve through innovation. That program needs to be enacted, with or without the governor's name on it, and made a reality.

There is widespread agreement that the state should require local school buildings to adopt an annual improvement plan and report on it to the public. That will require a lot of work, and the work needs to start. Parents need to keep on top of every local situation, not with the notion of hassling and second-guessing the administration but with the attitude of being supportive.

Schools aren't something we can vote on at the state level once every four or six years. We need to pay attention to them every

It's common knowledge, backed by lots of research, that there's a direct link between a child's academic success and the interest of the

One way or another, there was bound to be "a computer in every classroom" in the state. Finding money to buy computers isn't the hard part. The hard part will be training teachers to use them and instilling in kids and parents the feeling there's nothing to be afraid of; the computer is a tool and your friend.

IN OUR READERSHIP area, most but not all K-12 school districts are able to survive financially. Not so in other areas of Michigan, where tiny districts are running out of resources, where the farm economy is sour, where old plants have shut down.

The issue of school district consolidation is destined to come to the forefront in the next few years as it hasn't since the post-World War II school building boom.

Michigan still has 560-some school districts. At least a couple of legislators are saying there should be 250 or fewer. They are, of course, correct. The consolidation job — making districts with larger tax bases and larger markets needs to proceed. Fearlessly.

Our schools are in no danger of turning into trade schools for human robots, but we must keep in mind the need to prepare kids for jobs. The board chairman of one major auto manufacturer warns us that the last big-city plant may have been built in Detroit unless the schools can teach kids enough language and math skills to run the plant.

Our colleges have problems far more serious than drinking parties, which are bad enough. Michigan's universities still have some of the highest tuitions in the nation. If college is to be affordable to the middle class, our universities need both more state aid and greater efforts on their part to contain costs.

Finally, there are next June's local elections for school boards. Turnouts are typically 10 to 15 percent for a hot election, 3 percent for others. That's a sad commentary on our devotion to democracy.

Schools aren't something we can vote on at the state level once every four or six years. We need to pay attention to them every week.

Walls that divide us come in many forms

It took nearly 30 years for the Berlin Wall to open up. It could take us a lot longer to penetrate Detroit.

We crossed the border between West and East twice. Once, we walked through, exploring its streets, going into stores, walking through neighborhoods and riding the subway back. We also took a bus tour. A West Berlin tour guide drove us into East Berlin. Then the East Berliners took over - the official party line was part of the tour.

Three days later, the border closed and the barbed wire went up. Soon after the wall was built.

Many have escaped over the years. Others have been shot or imprisoned for trying. Finally, last week, the power of an oppressed people won out and the Communist government opened the gate.

IN DETROIT, everything is much more subtle.

Closed stores and empty streets represent much of downtown Detroit. Many residents must go to the suburbs to shop at a decent supermarket. There are pockets of progress - the Renaissance Center, Greektown, the Riverfront, the Fox. But many suburban residents never experience them while many Detroit residents can't afford to.

More Vorvas needed on commission

To the editor:

Hearty congratulations, Jerry Vorva, for your outstanding cam-paign and for ending up on top.

You can be justly proud for having spoken the truth — that there are too many department heads in our small city, drawing big paychecks for supervising very few employees. May you always possess the physical strength and inner courage to continue in the pursuit of truth and maintain personal integrity as a member of the commission. The voters have shown their displeasure with the "double-speak" attitude currently prevalent in the chamber — say little and do nothing.

The waste of our tax dollars is way out of line in every department. This writer's monthly tax bill has increased by $92 per month this year alone. Is there no end to how much tax is enough? What's worse is that we don't get the services we pay for. Just to cite one example, look at the lack of sidewalk repairs and tree

I want to publicly thank Barbara Graham for sitting in Mrs. Schneid-er's class while the R-rate motive 'Excalibur" was being shown.

I find it heart-warming that a school board member is willing to take the time and cares enough about our youth to view this movie in a classroom setting.

It is obvious to me that Mrs. Graham takes her appointed position seriously and can be counted on to be involved in the curriculum.

I do not agree with the use of R-rated movies and I am thankful Barbara shows the courage necessary to inform herself of their use. Eleanor V. Shevlin,

Q: A friend of mine from another state called and indicated that a gift-ed and talented program is being ed and talented program is bet started in her district. She is qui upset because her son, a fifthstudent, did not get into the pro-gram. She indicated that they use the children's IQ score to determine who gets lute the program. It seems to me that an IQ score is not the only way to determine if a child is gifted. Am I right?

A: Right on target. To set the stage, an IQ score is a measure of potential or innate ability. Today they are often called aptitude score The classic story I recall from Joe Renulli, a gifted and talented educational guru from the University of Connecticut, occurred in his home

Joe tells the story of a 4th-grade child having an IQ of 131 who was in the gifted and talented program in East Hartford, Conn. The parents moved across the river to West Hartford and the IQ cut off point in West Hartford was an IQ of 135. Therefore, we have a 4th-grade child who is gifted in East Hartford with a 131 IQ who crossed the river to West Hartford and was no longer gifted short four IQ points.

Complicating the issue could be the child who has a high IQ of 140+ but has low scores on standardized achievement tests and average grades. Standardized achievement tests are tests that measure a student's past performance, most of which is learned information. What you have here is a potentially "gifted" child with a 140 IQ who is underachieving in class, a child who may not make it into a program if achievement test data is primarily used as entrance criteria.

Indeed, students who are good test takers, are easy to identify. School districts that use just test scores should call their programs "the academically disciplined" program.

That is, a program for students who are disciplined students with disciplined students with disciplined study habits who are good test takers. There is pothing wrong with this except standardized test results can't measure or capture the talented or creative child

Most school districts have sophis-ticated procedures for determining who is eligible for the district's program. Quality programs use a multisional approach. IQ and standardized achievement test scores are generally used as the initial identification data. This data is shared with the building principal and the child's teacher for their input and perception. Indeed, most teachers who work with children on a day-to-day basis can give insights into gifted-ness and talent that test scores overlook. In a comprehensive screening program the teacher would also be asked if there is any child not on this program entry score list that you believe should be considered for the

However, relying on teacher perception too heavily can also be a problem. A few teachers use the generosity error," they "love all children" and see every kid as gifted in some manner. They usually pick out one outstanding quality of a stu-dent, i.e., a verbally articulate child and generalize that the child is gifted or at least talented. The gifted and talented screening process is difficult, very difficult for the program director, coordinator and teachers especially in districts where certain parents see being in the program as as important socially as it is educa-TIME AT A PREMIUM?

Coalition wages battle against 'war toys' sale

The "Stop War Toys" campaign highoff will begin the day after Tipnksgiving, at the Toys 'R Us store on Eight Mile Road, just east of Van Dyke, in Detroit.

"We'll be walking, holding placards, chanting peace chants, singing and handing out leaflets," said West Bloomfield resident Phyllis Friedman, the coalition's spokeswoman.

The group's efforts will continue Dec. 2 during a protest march in Ann Arbor and on Dec. 9 during a demonstration at the Toys 'R Us store in Novi, near Twelve Oaks Mall.

Organizers hope to draw hundreds of people, including children, to the

"We would like for the parents and relatives of children to be more conscious of what they buy for children and what the effects might be," said Jean Prokopow, another West Bloomfield resident and president of the Metro Detroit chapter of Women's Action for Nuclear Disarmament, or WAND.

WAND IS being joined in the "Stop

Friedman said slogans such as "G.I. Joe Has Got To Go" and "Santa Doesn't Drive A Tank" will be shouted at the protest sites.

Moreover, petitions denouncing war toys will be circulated and forwarded in February to the International Toy Convention in New York.

Copies also will be distributed to local toy stores.

The coalition states in its petitions that it is "concerned that the production and promotion of war toys are harming children. These toys desensitize them to the real horrors of violence and wars."

The petition also encourages the marketing of toys "that promote creative and cooperative play."

THE GROUP hopes to meet with Toys 'R Us store managers prior to the protests.

A spokeswoman for the area Toys
'R Us office in Canton said the company had no comment Friday on the group's activities.

Friedman said the coalition supports the sale of such toys as swingsets, puppets, some games, building blocks, paint sets, clay and models of fish, dinosaurs and other animals.

Area seminar aims to refute evolutionis

By Darrell Clem staff writer

Thousands of area Christians are expected to attend a weekend seminar aimed at refuting the theory of evolution and upholding biblical teachings on the world's origin.

"There is no scientific evidence supporting evolution," said Orchard Lake businessman David Bradbury, publicity chairman for the "Back to Genesis" seminar scheduled for Friday and Saturday in Sterling Heights.

The program, featuring scientists and educators from the California-based Institute for Creation Research, will be at Bethesda Christian Church, at Metropolitan Parkway (16 Mile) and Schoenherr Road

The seminar is being supported by more than 30 church congregations representing more than 10 denominations from Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties, Bradbury said. MANY SUPPORTERS of the metro Detroit "Back to Genesis" project, part of a national movement, come from Walled Lake, Orchard Lake, West Bloomfield and other local communities, Bradbury said. The supporters believe in world creation as told in Genesis the first book of the Bible.

sis, the first book of the Bible.
"Genesis is being undermined by evolution," Bradbury, a former evolutionist, said.

"If you make Genesis a myth, you've made a lot of other things in the Christian belief a myth. We want to reassure Christians of the reliability of Genesis and show them that it is compatible with science."

THE SEMINAR'S activities will get under way Friday morning when 3,000 students, mostly from Christian day care schools, will hear lectures, Bradbury said.

Sessions geared mostly toward adults will be Friday evening and all day Saturday. For seminar information, phone the Detroit Are Creation Seminar Committee a

The committee's long-range goal is to urge public schools to teach both sides of the debate between evolutionists and creationists.

Bradbury said.

Learning about creationism "le rather like intellectual popcorn," he said. "Once you start nibbling on it, you just can't quit it."

Public schools teach about evolution without including any criticism of it and without presenting alternative theories, Bradbury

"You need to know both sides to be educated about the subject," he

"In no way are we insisting that the public schools do it our way. We don't say that the Bible should be taught. But we believe the schools should teach about the weaknesses of evolution and that other theories should be discussed, too."

Don't get in doghouse over winter pet care

UST LIKE their human counterparts, pets need a little extra tender loving care during the winter. "If there are dogs being kept outside, there are things owners need to think about," said Linda Reider, director of education for the Humane Society of Huron Valley.

Dogs should be acclimated to the cold weather before the worst of it arrives, she said. Doghouses should be insulated and small enough for the dog.

"So bigger is not necessarily better." A dark color is best for the exterior of a doghouse, Reider said, in that it will attract the sun's rays. Clean bedding, such as straw that's changed frequently, will help a dog stay comfortable in the winter.

A CURTAIN or flap to cover a doghouse door is a good idea, said Dr. Mary Beth Leininger, a Plymouth veterinarian. The door can be positioned to one side a bit, cutting down on the wind that gets into the dog-

"Dogs that are kept outside constantly need to have their coats kept in excellent condition," said Leininger, who practices with her husband, Dr. Steven Leininger, at the Plymouth Veterinary Hospital. Extra brushing and combing will help maintain a dog's coat and provide additional insulation.

Typically, dogs who stay outside during the winter need somewhat greater amounts of food, she said. The quality of nutrition is also important, and veterinarians can advise pet owners on what food to buy.

"We know pretty much the stuff that's good and the stuff that isn't," Leininger said.

Pets who stay outside in the winter need a steady supply of water. It's helpful to take warm water out to a dog at least two or three times daily, Leininger said, as water will freeze quickly outdoors.

Heated water bowls are another option for dogs who stay outside, said Reider.

Few cats are outdoors all the time in the winter, Leininger said, but cats can still be injured in the winter. In cold weather, cats may crawl under a car and work their way up toward the warm engine.

CATS CAN be injured or killed when the car's engine is started. Honking a horn or knocking on the hood be-

Pet owners and others need to be careful when disposing of antifreeze, said Jackie Kunze, assistant shelter manager at the Michigan Humane Society's Westland shelter

The smell and taste of antifreeze attracts pets, but antifreeze can be deadly. It's essential not to leave antifreeze around where pets can get into it, Kunze said.

Pets are at somewhat greater risk of respiratory infections in the colder weather, Leininger said. Pet owners should be careful about leaving pets accustomed to being inside outdoors for too long.

"Most house dogs do not want to stay out for long periods of time," Kunze said. Dogs who spend most of their time indoors don't have heavy coats to protect them from the cold.

"It's kind of like us going out in the wintertime with 'summer clothes on," Leininger said. Specially-designed coats and sweaters can help pets get through the win-ter comfortably. Care should also be taken in the winter not to clip a dog's coat too short.

It's possible for dogs to get chemical burns on the pads of their feet after walking or running through road salt, Leininger said. It's a good idea for a pet owner who goes out jogging with a dog to wash and dry the dog's feet right away.

DOGS WHO walk on ice can have ice balls build up on their feet, Reider said. It's helpful to keep a dog's hair trimmed in that area. The heat from a pet owner's fingers can be used to melt those ice balls.

Domesticated pets have an especially difficult time staying warm when the temperature drops, Reider

Travel should be more than just seeing sights

By Julie Brown

Arthur Frommer doesn't think people's brains should stop functioning when they go on vacation.

"Travel should be a learning experience," said Frommer, author of "Europe on $30 a Day." If that's not the case, travel isn't worth the effort and expense involved.

Frommer, a New York City resident, spoke at a Northville Town option. Hall program Thursday, Nov. 9, at the Radisson Hotel of Plymouth.

Frommer, a Yale University Law School graduate, practiced law for some time in New York and remains a member of the New York Bar. He served in Europe with U.S. Army Intelligence, having been drafted during the Korean War.

He wrote "The G.I.'s Guide to Travel in Europe" back then. Frommer got to thinking in the 1950s that he should write a similar guide for civilians.

"Europe on $5 a Day" was published in 1957, and has been updated annually, now up to "Europe on $30 a Day" (Prentice Hall). Frommer's also the author of "The New World of Travel" (Prentice Hall), first published in 1988.

THE COMMERCIAL travel industry has debased the educational level of travel, Frommer said.

"We travel thousands of miles to gaze at the Eiffel Tower or the Golden Gate Bridge. That does little to enhance people's lives."

The success of Boston-based El-derhostel points to the increasing popularity of travel as a learning activity, Frommer said. That program provides older people with hundreds of low-cost study courses all over the

"It's a wonderful way of spending some good time with your kid." Parents aren't the only ones who volunteer their time and talents.

Girl Scouting, founded in 1912 by Juliette Gordon Low, has always been shead of the times, Seery said. Scouts had opportunities to learn about being pilots way back then.

These days, Scouting staffers and volunteers must address the needs of fragmented families. The "Contemporary Issues" national program helps girls cope with areas of crisis, such as youth suicide and substance

Math/technology has been identified as a crisis area, Seery said, as many girls are discouraged from studying those fields and pursuing scientific careers.

The "Girls Are Great" program is designed to build self-esteem. That's a goal for the youngest Daisy Scouts, in kindergarten, up through the high-school age Senior Scouts. "We don't want to lose our tradi-

Child care needed, in Wayne County

By Suo Mason staff writer

The career of the 1980s was related to computers. But the career of the 1990s probably won't be as high tech. Considering current statistics, the economic growth area of the '90s will be in day care services for working parents.
As of March 1988, 65 percent of all

American women with children under 18 years of age worked outside the home. It's estimated that by the year 2000, 80 percent of women in their prime childbearing years (be-tween 25 and 44) will be in the labor Someone will need to care for the children of those women, just as someone is needed now to care for the 60 percent of all American children who have working mothers.

One way of addressing the need is through family or home-based day care, but in several Wayne and Oakland communities, the need far exceeds what is available.

"It's safe to say that the slots available versus the slots needed are in short supply all over Wayne County," said Georgiana Cien, a corporate child care consultant with the Child Care Coordinating Council of Detroit/Wayne County Inc. (4C) and Work/Family Directions Inc.

Cien and Eartha DeYampert, family day care specialist/consultant, are recruiting people interested in providing child care in their homes in Redford, Livonia, Westland, Canton Township, Southfield, Farmington and Farmington Hills, areas with a critical need for family day care.

THEY AREN'T looking for baby sitters, but rather people interested in being professionals, people inter-ested in becoming licensed day care providers. They're looking for people who want a career and as such will be dependable and make a commitment to their profession.

In return, they'll help with the necessary training and provide onsite technical assistance.

Theirs isn't an easy task. There's a tremendous turnover in family day care, partly because of the stress and partly because of the way it is viewed by outsiders. Family day care as a profession is plagued by the perception of it as baby-sitting, DeYampert said.

"Family day care is no longer just custodial care," she said. "Parents don't want their kids just fed and cleaned up and sat in front of a TV all day. They want structure, planned activities; they want to see some sort of education going on." Clen does enhanced child care resource and referrals for 35 companies in the metropolitan area, but she can't provide referrals, if the supply isn't there, so part of her job, with the help of DeYampert, is to recruit and train day care profession-

There are two types of licensed home-based day care. Family day

WHEN DEYAMPERT talks also being a professional day care provided or she talks from experience. She and her husband, John, operate a digroup home. Their living stom in 1 used to care for infants and toddlers while the basement has been set a side for older youngsters. Even her children are involved, helping to plan activities for the young

"If you want to be treated as a professional, you have to be ready for the kids when they arrive at 6 a.m.," she said. "You can't go to the door in a bathrobe and rollers in your hair. You have to be dressed for

"You have to have a planned schedule. You have to be organized. If you're consistent, people realize you're serious about what you do."

According to DeYampert, one way to get started is to send for the Department of Social Service's family day care licensing information. The packet contains the different forms that need to be filled out as well as information on what to expect as a day care professional.

The licensing process takes two to four months to complete and during that time DeYampert suggests po-tential providers get some training.

She conducts such training programs. Training covers such things as professionalism, the business aspects of family day care, safety, nutrition and health, developmental toys and activities and parent/provider relationships.

"PART OF THE training is to teach these people that they are per-forming a viable service to the community," DeYampert said. "Theyhave a lot to offer, but they have to get parents to look on them as pro-

Participants can qualify for continuing education credits that can be used to become an accredited child care provider. In addition, day care providers can also qualify for a child development associate certificate; both of which add to the aura of being a professional, DeYampert

But Cien and DeYampert stress that family day care isn't a career for just anyone. The person who opts for it has to be able to deal with children 11-12 hours a day.

The cost of family day care depends on the geographical area, according to Cien. Downriver, the charge may be $40-50 per week, while in West Bloomfield one provider is asking — "and getting" — $150 a week, she said.

For more information about becoming a licensed family day care provider, call the Child Care Coordinating Council of Detroit/

When asked what brought her to Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, the Rev. Dana Runestad points to the photo of the 14-month-old on her

The picture is of her son, Matthew. Runestad perhaps best illustrates the changing face of the clergy. Today, those at the pulpit are just as likely to be women as men. And, like Runestad, are mothers as well.

Runestad is certainly not immune to the pressures of being a working mother. She was the only pastor at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Ida, Mich., where she served for three years before arriving at Holy Trinity Lutheran in September. There, Runestad was Jacqueline of all trades and had to master them

"I was on-call all time," said Runestad, who is from Rockford, Ill. "I lived right next to the church. It just got to be too much.

"I felt like I wasn't being a mother and I didn't get to know my son. I would come home for dinner and then rush off to a meeting. This is completely different."

At Holy Trinity, Runestad is working 20 hours a week. She oversees the church's Junior High Ministry, works with small groups, handles the Adult Sunday School classes and leads worship services occasionally.
Of course, Runestad more than dabbled in these areas at Immanuel

Lutheran. This opportunity will allow her to focus specifically in those Runestad joins the Rev. Robert Seltz and the Rev. James Spilos at Holy Trinity Lutheran. Her involve-ment in Junior High Ministry is an enjoyable experience for her, working with young teenagers.

"(The challenge) is getting them to have a positive feeling about the church and about themselves," she said, "and making a connection between the two." That was of little problem for Runestad, whose father is a pastor also in the clergy. She was the only girl of four children in the family, girl of four children in the family, and, ironically the lone member to follow her father into the ministry. Her path into the clergy, though, was an indirect one. She majored in elementary education at Carthage College in Kenosha, Wis., and earned a master's degree in music from Southern Illinois.

One day on her way to Southern Illinois from a trip to California, the car she was driving skidded out of control and rolled over. She escaped with only a few bruises, but it had a lasting impact on her.

"That caused me to rethink my cided to pursue a life in ministry. After completing her seminary educa-tion at both the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago and the Luther-an House of Studies in Washington, D.C., her first full-time ministry assignment came in Ida, a rural town in Monroe County. She admits being somewhat apprehensive as the first woman pastor at the church.

"They were very open," she said. "They had a reputation of being stubborn old Dutchmen, but they went out of their way to welcome me. When I arrived, one older man said. 'Well at least we don't have to worry about our pastor growing

Gilbert Sanders

This Baptist minister was teenage pastor

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

The pulpit and Dr. Gilbert Lee Sanders have been one since he was 17. Yes, that's right, he was a teenage pastor.

Today, Sanders can look back at the teenage experience of overseeing his own 72-member church with a bit

"I worked and worked on the first sermon," said Sanders, who has his first sermon taped to the back of his Bible. "Back then . . . I measured the quality of the sermon in terms of minutes. If it was 20-25 minutes, I thought I was doing great."

The minutes have added up to 25 years as a minister for Sanders, who arrived at Livonia Baptist Church in June. That experience he hopes will guide the church into the next centu-

SANDERS HAS big plans. He would like to see the church double in size from its current 700-member status by the year 2000. In the meantime, he's busy working on plans for special services at the Southern Baptist church, which has been on Schoolcraft Road since 1955.

This is a new situation for Sanders, who has a Doctor of Philosophy degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. Where he served previously in Missouri and Illinois, the Southern Baptist Church is wellentrenched. In the North, though, the Church is relatively new.

Also, at Livonia Baptist Church, Sanders is ministering to a predominantly white-collar congregation for the first time, he said.

"Everybody here seems so busy," Sanders said. "Families are so involved. Most are two-income families and most don't come home until late in the evening. So scheduling is difficult."

NONETHELESS, SANDERS has found the membership of Livonia Baptist to be quite warm and friendly. The nature of the clergy is changing, but Sanders enjoys the traditional aspects of being a minister.

Sanders, 43, was pastor of Bethany Baptist Church in Godfrey, Ill., for seven years before arriving at Livonia Baptist Church.

He served on the administrative staff at The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, where in addition to his doctorate, he earned his Master of Theology and Master of Divinity degrees. He received his bachelor's degree from William Jewell College in Liberty, Mo.

"I enjoy teaching the Bible the most," Sanders said. "I guess because it gives me a chance to use my skills and the academic training I have, hopefully, letting people see something I've been able to find. It's quite rewarding.'

SANDERS, OF course, found that out early. He became pastor of Chariton Ridge Baptist Church in Atlanta, Mo., right after graduating from high school.

Along with his first sermon, Sanders recalls having to ask his father, who was also a pastor, for advice on certain things. He remembers having to ask a college professor for some help on performing baptisms.
"Fortunately," Sanders said, "the Judicial system encourages hostility, not empathy

Most Americans seek justice in law. Some find it. People are persuaded that law will protect their rights, preserve their liberty and secure their property.

When disputants cannot be reconciled, they enter into a process of litigation which structures human conflict within a precise set of procedures that lead to its resolution.

Conventional wisdom declares that society benefits from this formal processing of disputes that otherwise might erupt in public violence or private vengeance. This accepted view is based on the assumption that state authority is strengthened by the deference granted to official symbols of law and or-

And yet, we have become a litigious society. It is not only in the arena of business, commerce and labor-management relations that the courts resolve disputes. We witness today how children sue their parents, non-divorcing spouses sue each other, parishioners sue clergy, and attorneys sue judges.

NOT LONG ago, a group of parents litigated the error of a football official, winning a judgment in favor of their high school team before the State Supreme Court overruled it.

Thus, we see how law and litigation have their darker side. Litigation accentuates hostility, not trust. It expresses a chilling, cynical view of human nature in which selfishness

Once we enter the courtroom's theater of combat, we are stimulated to compete aggressively and to reject feelings of reciprocity and

It is instructive to recall that alternatives to litigation have been a part of American history since the founding of this nation. During the early years of the 20th century, for example, millions of new immi-grants to the United States sought to establish their lives in a new, alien environment. New immigrants resisted, at least temporarily, litigation and the judicial process and they sought alternative forms of disThey turned to the traditions of

• 100 YEARS

This past year has been a busy one for Mount Hope Congregational Church in Livonia. It is the congregation's centennial year and it has been sprinkled with celebrations and special observances.

On Sunday, Nov. 19, Mount Hope will mark the event with a "Heritage Sunday Dinner" after worship services. The service and dinner are open to the public.

The congregation composed a Centennial Hymn one Sunday morning in worship which gained national Congregational attention. The church was founded in 1889 as a Sunday School extension of the historic First Congregational Church on Woodward Avenue in Detroit. Mount Hope Church moved to Livonia nearly 25 years ago and has been an active part of the community.

DIRECTOR HONORED

On Sunday, Nov. 19, Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church, 14175 Farmington, Livonia, will honor its music director, Lois Drake, for her 45 years devoted to the music ministry of the Lutheran churches she has served. She will be honored at the 11 a.m. service and at a dinner following at 1 p.m. Adult tickets for the dinner are $6.50 and $3 for children under 6. Contributions are being received for a gift for Drake and/or a gift to the Organ Memorial Fund in thanksgiving and appreciation for Drake. For information, call 522-

GIVING THANKS

A special evening of Thanksgiving is planned for Sunday, Nov. 19, at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 39020 Five Mile, Livonia. The evening will begin with a potluck Thankagiving dinner at 5:30 p.m. A worship service will be celebrated by English immigrants in Virginia, using the Order for Daily Evening Prayer as written by Archbishop Thomas Cranmer in the 16th Century. Special music will be provided by Holy Trinity choirs.

THANKSGIVING SPECIAL

At 10:30 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 19, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will present "A Noah's Ark Adventure." The play was written by Lafern Porter of Westland and involves every one as ark builders, sun raisers, rainbow holders and animals to stock the ark. Once everything is completed, the choir will sing "Thanks Be to God." The day's theme will be completed with an ark cake decorated by Pearle Siefers of Westland and Deanna Porter of Detroit. The church is at 27601 Joy Road, be-tween Inkster and Beech Daly roads, Dearborn Heights. For information, call 261-4617.

Walking the trail the other day I heard some dried leaves rustle. I looked in that direction and up from beneath the grasses came a winter wren. They are only about 416 inches long, but in typical wren fashion it was scolding me with forceful chatterings that made it seem three times as large.

Winter wrens are common residents during the summer in the up-per peninsula and the northern lower rula. They nest in coniferous woods and spruce bogs which have very dense vegetation. They spend most of their time close to the ground which makes this small, brown, streaked bird hard to see.

In between singing to attract a mate, he also is building several nests. They may be in the roots of a fallen tree, under a stream bank, or under a loose piece of tree bark. One of the nests will be selected by the female in which she will lay her clutch of eggs. Five or six eggs are laid on the deer hairs which often line the nest cup.

Like all seven species of wren that have been seen in Michigan, the win-ter wren is an insect eater. Distrubing an insect eating bird in early No-vember is not what one would typi-cally expect. Most of the winter wrens that migrate south to warmer regions are gone by October. Occassionally one is seen as late as December, but not very often.

RSVP signing up reading coaches

Can you read? Are you over 60 years, of age? If so, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program would like to hear from you.

RSVP is looking for seniors in-terested in being trained to help adults of all ages learn to read in order to, among other things, get a job, be an informed consumer or help their children in school.

RSVP will train volunteers with the training sessions set up for Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 27-28, and Friday, Dec. 1, at Catholic Social Services in Detroit.

Persons interested in being reading coaches can call Eleanor Craig at 883-2100, Ext. 367, for more information.

Late start on retirement

Conservative Financial Position investments thwart goal

Thursday, November 16, 1989 O&E

By Dan Boyce and Alan Ferrara special writers

Local financial planning experts reviewed the data of the family profiled here and made general recommendations based on the participants' resources and goals. The information is for educational purposes only; references are not intended as discrimination or endorsements by Observer & Eccentric Newspaper or the advisers.

To receive a free financial planning brochure or to obtain a questionnaire to have your finances reviewed in this column, write the Center for Financial Planning, Department 100, 877 S. Adams, Suite 202, Birmingham, Mi. 48009, or call 642-4000.

"Conservative" is the watchword of empty-nester couple Joe and Judy Clark who asked to have their finances reviewed in this column. Because of previous financial setbacks (illnesses and layoffs) and other priorities, they are playing catch-up in planning for their retirement. Fortunately, they understand their situation and are taking steps to ensure their long-term financial security.

Joe, 56, is a machinist, and Judy 55, is employed by a hospital. They live in Rochester Hills. Their salaries are $36,000 and $20,000, respectively. They have raised three children who are married and on their

Their main goal is expressed best in their letter to us: "We are both obsessed with worrying about our retirement." Although they would like togretire when Joe reaches 62, they fully expect to retire when Joe reaches age 65.

Joe and Judy's primary near-term goal is to save as much as possible. Fortunately, for many years they have maintained modest spending habits and are therefore able to save significant amounts of their income - $700 to $1,000 per month. This is their greatest strength in moving toward retirement.

five-year time frame.

They have made a habit of placing any savings into their credit union account and then, when the amount reaches $5,000 above their needed reserves, they transfer the money to a short-term certificate of deposit. In addition, all of their IRAs are in short-term certificates of deposit (under one year). This leaves them particularly exposed to income reduction when there are downturns in short-term interest rates. Even with their risk-averse nature, this does not seem to be the best use of their assets. At a minimum, they should consider staggering the maturities of their certificates of deposit over a JOB AND JUDY have been avoiding any growth investments because they lost a few thousand dollars in investments recommended by a stock broker. They remarked, do not trust them now."

While it is unfortunate that they have had such a negative experience, Joe and Judy should be aware that there are a number of ethical and reputable brokers or financial advisers who could assist them. They could be helpful in developing a more diversi-fied, yet conservative investment rogram that would have the probability of a greater long-term rate of return. The use of well-managed, balanced mutual funds or similar investments would be appropriate for Judy admits that "we are very ignorant relative to financial investing and planning." It is obvious that their lack of knowledge seems to be hindering them from exploring more productive uses of their assets.

We would suggest that they begin a program of informing and educating themselves of the alternatives and strategies they might be able to use to maximize savings for retirement. They can take a class through a local continuing education depart-ment, read books, attend a seminar or subscribe to a financial magazine.

There is an abundance of resources on financial matters. But it is important to note that they should not change things in a major way until they believe they have a good overall grasp of the alternatives, and the pros and cons of these alterna-

THE CLARKS ARE unsure of the benefits of their employer-provided pension plans. They don't know what benefit these plans will pay them at retirement, although they suspect that it is not a large amount.

Under pension law, they have the right to receive annual statements detailing their benefits, and can request all relevant plan documents. If the benefits are small, Joe and Judy will be responsible for the majority of their financial security. They should check with their employers to determine the benefits available at retirement so they can plan accord-

Joe's company has established a 401(k) cash or deferred retirement plan. Joe is considering deferring a portion of his income into the plan, but he is hesitant. We think this is an

A 401(k) plan is a "qualified retirement plan," which means it receives favorable taxation. First of all, Joe's contributions are made pre-tax so more money is available for investment. The earnings on the contributions are deferred until retirement and withdrawal.

It is also possible that distributions may qualify for favorable income tax treatment. In addition, match a portion of an employee's deferred contributions. Finally, it is a convenient way to save.

Joe and Judy have recently revised their wills, so they have planned for asset distributions in the event of untimely death. It is a good idea for all of us to periodically review our estate planning documents and modify them in light of family changes, economic changes or changes in the law.

If both Judy and Joe work until age 65, they will likely be able to retire comfortably at their modest standard of living. But, as their financial situation stands now, if Joe were to die, Judy would be in a very difficult financial position. She would be left with only her modest income and a small lump sum from Joe's current life insurance and their accumulated assets.

Keep in mind that Judy would not receive any Social Security benefits as a widow until age 60 at the earliest. Joe and Judy may want to consider buying additional life insurance during the next 10 years to bridge this financial gap. The cost will probably not be overly burdensome if term insurance is used. Assuming Joe is in good health, he should be able to obtain $100,000 of 10-year level insurance for under $50 a month. In 10-year level term insurance, the premiums are guaranteed not to increase during that 10-year period.

As Jim and Judy increase their financial knowledge and sophistica-tion, they can review their portfolio in light of new alternatives and strategies and can likely improve the performance of their assets. This will help ensure their long-term financial security and allow them to enjoy their retirement years in com-

Prudential finalizes sale

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

Former Merrill Lynch realty offices will see more advertising and greater name recognition after the $330 million acquisition by Prudential Insurance Co. of America. But customers won't see any drastic changes in the way local offices do business.

Six Merrill Lynch offices in the Birmingham/ Bloomfield, Frankin/Farmington Hills, Novi/Northville, Rochester, West Bloomfield and Troy areas will be hanging their new signs before the week is out, joining the five existing Prudential franchises already in southeastern Michigan. The acquisition was completed Monday after five months of negotia-

The acquisition will be an improvement because Prudential wants to be in the real estate industry and Merrill Lynch does not, said Great Lakes Realty-West Bloomfield office manager James Sarrett.

The decision by Merrill Lynch directors to divest the firm of its real estate holdings, while not weighing heavily on branch offices, was an issue of concern, Sarrett said. "We're happy to get it over with." Now, with the support and backing of Prudential, employees can continue putting their energy into the task at hand — selling houses, he said. "We're still intact - Merrill Lynch was a good company, and Prudential is a good company - for us it was a win-win situation." The sale will be both a big plus and more of the same for the company, said Great Lakes Realty-Troy office manager Pete Beightol. "In terms of identity, it will be a big plus." More advertising money, increased referrals and name recognition will all be enhanced by the sale, Beightol

But at the same time, real estate is about people, Beightol said, and the local people aren't going to

"I don't think being part of a national chain will mean a lot of big changes.' EVERYONE IS pleased with the change, Beightol said, mainly because Prudential is interested in making a mark in the real estate business, while Merrill Lynch was looking to get out.

'Any time a paren to weigh on (the local offices)." "I think the primary change we'll see is the support from a very major national company," Great Lakes Realty-Birmingham/Bloomfield vice president Charles Sower said. "Merrill Lynch has been excellent, but they've been interested in pushing their core business (investing).

'We couldn't ask for a better name." With Prudential's positive name recognition and national advertising behind the real estate group, business can only get better, he said.

As a part of Prudential, Great Lakes Realty will make a substantial dent in the metropolitan Detroit market, Sower said. "But the core of this company is still people, and that's not going to change — we made a substantial dent as Merrill Lynch with our Prudential's commitment to becoming a major player in the national real estate industry would have a tremendous impact on metropolitan Detroit, said Prudential Great Lakes Realty resident vice president Jerome Baranski. Prudential is not just a company looking to diversify, Baranski said - real estate is its core business along with insurance and investment.

'The biggest change now is that Prudential wants us." The desire to be in the real estate industry will translate into renewed enthusiasm for the former Merrill Lynch employees, Baranski said.

IN AN EFFORT to divest itself of all but its core securities businesses, Merrill Lynch officials began searching for a buyer for its real estate holdings in 1985, Merrill Lynch chairman and chief executive officer William Schreyer said last August. Merrill Lynch investment properties are not affected by the Prudential also acquired Merrill Lynch Relocation Management, a corporate relocation firm; LandVest, a luxury property agent; Moran, Stahl and Boyer, a consulting firm specializing in business mobility; and Network 50, a real estate referral corporation. The acquisition of Merrill Lynch's 450 real estate offices adds 18,000 sales associates to Prudential's ranks, bringing its real estate work force to almost 25,000 sales associates in more 900 offices, Baranski said.

Prudential has launched a national advertising campaign intended to increase consumer awareness of Prudential's real estate services, said north-central region vice president Wayne Wyles.

With Prudential as a backer, Great Lakes Realty offices will have the an abundance of resources to draw on, he said, including the ability to process mortgage loans, a nationwide network of realty offices with national listings, name recognition and training services.

"The metropolitan Detroit market doesn't know what's about to hit it," Wyles said.

have achieved what David Halberstam, among others, said couldn't be done - pushed car engineering and design a generation forward and gained worldwide respect for the American product.

The decade at Ford that Petersen oversaw brought some fundamental changes in the corporate culture that will take another decade to become fully formed. Probably the most significant was the laying the groundwork for a truly international opera-tion that included sending huge chunks of the basic engineering budget overseas, mainly to Japan.

Oddly, refraining from expanding capacity in some of the best years Ford has ever seen may have prevented Ford from making the killing but that strategy also was part of an effort to stabilize employment and set aside cash for the future.

But the most memorable effort was the charge to Ford development engineers to make the car they really thought was the best car, rather than the one someone thought would

The results was the Taurus - a basic chassis often misread as a styling breakthrough, but more importantly a design that introduced the notion cars ought to feel good to drive to a domestic industry still caught up in superficial glitz after all these years.

The Taurus program also meant rocess of soul-searching that inevi-ably shifted the attention of Ford engineers away from those guys up in Warren to the real competition in the world out there.

Is it realistic to give Petersen credit for this? Petersen himself already is saying the next guy in his job can do it about as well as he can - the kind of self-effacing state-ment typical of an executive proce genius is more statesmanlike than dictatorial.

Still, I think the Petersen years will be remembered as years when Ford had a car guy at the top.

2-piano act leads to hit off-Broadway

staff writer

Mark Hardwick and Mike Craver are two of the four authors of the slick musical production "Oil City" at the Birmingham Theatre - and they appear to be just as offbeat as

In a recent backstage interview, they both remained low key, talking about the off-Broadway hit they coauthored. Hardwick and Craver starred in "Oil City" in New York, and also are in the production which runs through Sunday, Dec. 3, in Birmingham.

They comprise the cast along with two female performers, Christine Elliott and Mary Ehlinger, who starred in the Syracuse production of Craver, the more soft-spoken of the two guys, said he met Hardwick when the later was in the cast of "Pump Boys and Dinettes" in New York. Hardwick was one of the authors of that popular show. Craver, who performed in the traveling band the Red Clay Ramblers, came to New York to do Sam Shepard's play

"WE WERE GOING to do two-piano music," Craver said, explaining how the partners got started working together on the idea that eventually became "Oil City." The original concept was "kind of sexist," he said. "We were going to have two girls dressed up in prom dresses, and turn women play musical instruments also. Because they knew a girl who played drums and another who played violin, those became the instruments in "Oil City."

The show's sketchy plotline is that four former music students, who comprise the Oil City Symphony, come back to perform at their 20year high school reunion, in the school gym. The theater audience becomes the reunion audience for their musical numbers, which make up most of "Oil City."

Hardwick said that on the way to creating the show, "We played a benefit as the Oil City Symphony." Hardwick was on the piano and Craver on the synthesizer, the instruments they play in the musical pro-

In contrast to their informal dress for the interview (Hardwick was in a bold black-and-white-check shirt and Craver in a purple silk shirt and paisley suspenders), in the show they both wear dinner jackets.

BACK IN NEW YORK, the authors lengthened their show by 20 minutes for a benefit performance and then expanded it another 25 minutes for a showcase of eight performances for prospective producers. A Christmas show added 10 minutes more.

By the time they performed in Dallas, the show was in its final form. They had shortened it up, but were told they needed 15 minutes more, so they added a number where the symphony members do the hokey-pokey, and the audience joins in. 'It became our signature thing,' Hardwick said.

Craver hesitated when asked what it is about the show that makes it special to the audiences, and tossed the question to Hardwick, who said that most people can identify with it because it's about a small community with a music teacher. Each night, a woman in the audience is selected to be Miss Reeves, the music teacher honored. The recipient has run the gamut, from a young woman to someone in her 80s. People always think she's a plant," Craver said.

After the show the cast serves punch and cookie in the lobby, another homey touch for the show that has aspects of a performance by Lawrence Welk and friends.

BOTH HARDWICK and Craver are from the South (Craver says, "There's a Southern Mafia in the theater in New York."). Hardwick grew up in East Texas, where he first performed at a Halloween carnival at age 7, playing the song "Down Yonder." Craver, who is from Lexington, N.C., said his first professional performance was playing piano for a school assembly in the fifth grade. The two men share an apartment in Brooklyn. Last year they did a small film score for a movie, "Sap-phire Man," not yet released. This fall they put together a trio band, which played in 12 states down south and in their home towns.

What was the reaction in their home towns? "They loved us Craver said cheerfully.

When "Oil City" ran in New York, the off-Broadway house seated 300 By contrast, the Birmingham Theatre has 1,100 seats, and Hardwick and Craver view this as a huge the ater. Although they've been involved with the show since 1986, aimi starred in its entire one-year, nin month run in New York, they both still get nervous before going onstage each night.

p. Dinner at Schasthe mall is optional, at 7 ceding the 2 p.m. Priday ed 650 fine proceeding the Saturday show. For res-ns, call Sebastian's at 640-

"Barbaratong," a cabaret-dinner sater collaboration between Phil areus Biser and Sebastian's resof Truy, provides a delight-ing: a treat for the eyes, ears for to experiencing this produc-I had always been pretty much perment with this wry observa-"If the dinner was any good wouldn't need the theater, and if the theater was any good they wouldn't need the dinner." The vocal work of Barbara Bredius, accomeniment of Barbara Carbary and ulinary creations of Sebastian's have put that myth to rest for good.

"BarbaraSong" is a collection of pop hits, show tunes and traditional ted in a cabaret format. is, one of the Detroit-area's best known female vocalists, presents the songs with authority and flair. She uses her rich, bluesy mezosoprano voice to move through a variety of light rock, country and western, Broadway and traditional

The songs are interspersed with bits of monologue, mostly reflecting on the challenges of being a modern-day woman (wife, mother, artist, performer, friend and lover).

WHILE THE BANTER helps to ive the show a sense of continuity, it occasionally gets in the way. After number, the audience knows that and let's keep the chatter to a minihere to hear this woman sing, Bredius' fine work is ably support-by Phil Marcus ed by Barbara Carbary, who does an miled at Someract outstanding job on keyboards and background vocals.

With nothing more to assist them than a few costume pieces and the music itself, the two Barbaras move the audience through many moods and feelings that make up modern womanhood. Although this is hardly a show with a "message," one cannot help feel the tremendous sense of strength and durability conveyed by the women of Barbara's songs.

One highlight is a medley tribute to the late Patsy Cline, first queen of country music. Even lifelong country-music haters (such as yours tru-ly) cannot help being moved. "Just a Housewife," Stephen Schwartz's ex-amination of the frustrations and inadequacies of domestic life, is another powerful number. You will want to send flowers to your mother after you hear it.

Carole King's "Natural Woman" is a proud celebration of love, and Rupert Holmes' "Wages of Sin" pro-vides humorous tribute to all those 'good women of ill repute." Michael Peter Smith's breathtakingly eerie "Crazy Mary" is a memorable exploration of loneliness and isolation.

THE SHOW IS also interspersed with some original humor, the best being "Cream Cheese Dips," an ode to fattening food which borrows its melody from the Beatles' "Yester-

The audience should relate to this song about fine cuisine, having just finished an outstanding meal up-stairs at Sebastian's. The fare is not saturated with fats, oils and cholesterol that are typical of fast food fare.

In this time of spiraling entertainment costs, "BarbaraSong" is also a bargain. One could reasonably expect to drop the $29.50 cost of a ticket on the dinner alone, and then go to the show for an additional $20. Instead, a full evening of fine dining and classy entertainment is included for under $30 (excluding tips and drinks). This would be a great way to impress a date.

STAFF NURSE

We currently have an opening for an RN or BSN in our residential teen mother & infant perenting program. This is a part time position which involves providing health maintenance & education to teen mothers & their infants. Because we are a private, not for profit social service agency, our pay is not competitive ($11/hr.) but we do offer flexible hours, a pleasant work environment, & a competent professional staff of child care workers & social workers. If you are looking for a different type of nursing experience, why not consider this opportunity. Send resume to: St. Vincent & Sarah Flaher Cener, 27400 W. 12 Mile Rd., Farmington Hills, Mil 48918

GUY WARREN/staff photographer

Jenny Russell scored two points Wednesday night, and they put Canton in front 43-42 with 26 seconds left in the game, won by the Chiefs 45-42.

Chiefs vs. Rocks in final

staff writer

Jenny Russell wasted one opportunity Wednesday night. She wasn't about to make it two.

Russell sank two free throws with 26 seconds remaining to give Plymouth Canton a 43-41 lead, and the Chiefs held on to beat Livonia Ladywood 45-42 in the girls district basketball tournament at Northville.

Canton (18-3) will meet Plymouth Salem for the second time in a week at 7 p.m. Friday when the teams play for the championship.

The Rocks (13-8), who have lost twice to Canton this year, including a 54-39 game in the Western Lakes Activities Association final Saturday, eliminated Livonia Stevenson 51-39 in the other game.

AFTER MISSING a 1-and-1 opportunity with 1:51 to play and the Chiefs ahead 41-38, Russell atoned for that shortcoming in the final half minute.

Rebecca Willey put the Blazers, who finished 12-8, on top 42-41 with a layup, but Russell, a point guard, rebounded a missed free throw by the Blazers, was fouled and scored her only points of the night.

"It was emotional, up and down," Russell said, "but I'm a senior and I really wanted to make (the free throws). I stepped to the line and knew I could do it.

"I tried to put (the other miss) out of mind. This was another shot, like any other. I just concentrated - two eyes, two hands, two feet."

SUSAN FERKO scored a gamehigh 25 points for Canton, 19 coming in the second half after she was able to get the ball inside against a tight Ladywood defense that limited her chances in the first half.

"She did a better job of getting herself available for the ball," Canton coach Bob Blohm said, "and the other kids did a great job of waiting for her to get there."

GUY WARREN/staff photographe

Mary Barna takes the basketball around Ladywood's Janice Konczal. Canton and Salem will play for the district title a second straight year Friday.

Stacey Thompson added 10 points for the Chiefs, and Willey, who alternated with Andrea Kotula and Cari Mitter to double-team Ferko, scored 14 points to lead Ladywood. Krista Campeau, Kotula and Peggy Knittel added six apiece for the Blazers.

"Both teams were being aggressive toward the end, and then we get bad calls by the officials," Ladywood coach Toni Gasparovic said. "(Canton) did a good job; they're a good team, but I thought we played a better game and should have won.

"I must say my team went out in style. We played with a lot of heart. It's a hard loss to take. I think this was the best game we've played all year, and that's the hardest part of Thompson's second-quarter scoring lifted Canton to a 16-8 lead, but the Blazers rallied to lead 21-18 at halftime. Ferko took over in the third period and returned the lead to the Chiefs, 30-28.

Ladywood refused to fold, however. Mary Barna's layup gave Canton a 41-38 lead, and the Chiefs went to their delay. Russell missed the first 1-and-1, and the Blazers closed to a point on Mitter's layup with 1:34 remaining. She missed the possible three-point play that would have tied the score.

"I think our kids made a good adjustment," Blohm said about Canton's trouble with Ladywood's size. 'From the middle of the third quarter on, I thought either team could win the game. We were fortunate to get some rebounds and make some free throws at the end."

SALEM STRUGGLED to stay

half but pulled away in the secon Beginning late in the third, th Rocks outscored Stevenson 14-2 to lead 46-33 with 1:50 to play.

Kelly Austin and Emily Giulian led one of Salem's most balance scoring games with 10 points apiec Yolanda Jackson and Stacle Mille scored eight each, and Wendy Baile tossed in seven.

The first district game is alway tough whether you have a youn team or a veteran team," Salen coach Fred Thomann said. "It's a ways been a hard game to play, an that was a part of this game, too."

Jessann Martin scored 10 first quarter points to fuel Stevenson game, and the Spartans led 20-1 early in the second period. Martin however, went to the bench with three first-half fouls, and the Rock regrouped for a 28-26 halftime lead.

Laura Zatorski, scoring from out side, had 14 points to lead Stevensor and Martin finished with 13, making three free throws in the last three quarters. Teresa Sarno, another pos player who was effective early, add ed eight.

"We knew this would be a toug game for us, because they've been pointing to this game for a long time," Thomann said. "We knet we'd have to bear down and hang if not to give them any open perimeter shots, and we rebounded the ball better, too." Tracy Morrell did get a wide open shot from the wing to give Stevenson

a 33-32 lead with 1:44 on the thirdquarter clock, but the Rocks went on their scoring spurt after that. "The big thing was rebounding," Stevenson coach Chuck Hebestreit said. "We didn't do it on the offensive or defensive boards. "We'd wait for the ball to hit the

Ocelots pursue title in women's soccer

The trek toward a possible National Junior College Athletic Association womens soccer title has a start shrouded in mystery for Schoolcraft College.

The Lady Ocelots, who captured the NJCAA championship in 1987, open their quest for this season's crown today at Mercer Community College in Trenton, N.J. Their opponent: Lees McRae CC.

There were two things that troubled SC coach Nick O'Shea about his opening-round opponent. First, Lees McRae posted a 19-1-1 record this season; second, other than its record, O'Shea doesn't know much about Lees McRae.

"I don't know what to expect of them because we don't see them," said O'Shea. "Typically, they score a lot of goals. We'll know their top scorers from the (NJCAA) rankings, so we'll know who we have to mark closely. What we won't know is what style they like to play, if they play long ball or short ball."

THE UNEXPECTED always concerns coaches. Still, in previous years Lees McRae has qualified for the NJCAA tournament but never done well in it. Its record may be impressive, but the North Carolina-based school's schedule is not. It has avoided the better east coast JC teams.

"They're 19-1-1, but they haven't played a lot of tough games," said O'Shea. "Any time a team goes from easy games to tough ones, it's hard to adjust.'

Which makes O'Shea's strategy a simple one: attack. "We have to go out and apply pressure," he said. "If we stay on 'em the whole time, I don't know if they'll have the mental toughness to stay with us.

"There'll be no sitting back on (Lees McRae), that's Although O'Shea is unfamiliar with SC's first-round opponent, he likes his team's tourney draw. If the Lady Ocelots, who posted a 10-3-2 record this season, get past Lees McRae, they will play the Monroe (N.Y.) CC-Anne Arundel (Md.) CC winner in the semifinals Friday.

A victory Friday catapults SC into the NJCAA championship match at 11 a.m. Sunday.

BOTH MONROE and Anne Arundel are excellent teams, but as O'Shea noted, at this stage who isn't? Besides, the other bracket appears more formidable. It features last year's finalists, Mercer and Florissant Valley CC, clashing in the opening round. The other opening round match pits Farmingdale (N.Y.) CC against Massassoit (N.Y.) CC.

The team O'Shea picked as the tournament favorite is defending champ Florissant Valley, which lost to just one junior college team this season - SC, by a 2-1 score, in a match played in Livonia.

"I still think Flo Valley would be the favorite," insisted O'Shea, whose team lost to a pair of JC teams, Mon-

Time right for pro soccer

HE TÍMING APPEARS to be right for three local investors, who are bringing professional soccer back to Detroit. It's a team without a name, but when the 1990-91 American Indoor Soccer Association season is launched next October, this expansion club will be quartered in downtown Detroit at Cobo and Joe Louis It's not a novel idea. Detroit has had outdoor professional teams in the past -4 namely the Cougars and the Express.

But it's novel in the fact that club's three principal investors — Livonian Paul Scicluna, Rochester's Brian Tinnion and Farmington Hills' Angus Moffat - are sold on the AISA's commitment to American players only.

The concept, they believe, will attract this new generation of soccer enthusiasts.

"We talked about it for three years and this has always been one of our goals to bring a franchise here," said Tinnion, a former player (1978-80) and coach (1981-83) with the Express. "We're just elated to get the opportunity.'

THE AISA is expanding next season, possibly to 10 or 12 teams.

The league currently consists of eight teams — Centon Invaders, Atlanta Attack, Hershey Impact and Memphis Regues of the American Division; along with Milwaukee Wave, Chicago Power, Dayton Dynamo and Indiana Kick of the National Division. tional Division.

Milwaukee, which plays in the new Bradley Center, has already pulled in a crowd of 13,000. Atlanta and Chicago have each approached 10,000 fans on a night.

Scicluna, Tinnion and Moffat partners in the successful Total Soccer Inc., an indoor venture which houses hundreds of youth and adult leagues in Farmington Hills, Southfield, St. Clair Shores and Royal Oak — hope to feed off the growing interest locally in the indoor game.

That made their decision to join the AISA that much easier, according to Tinnion.

"Our philosophy was in tune with the AISA, which develops and pro-motes American players," Tinnion

That means you could see players, perhaps some recent graduates from Michigan universities, filling up spots on the 16-man rester. "I'm sure there will be some ex-

"It's like the three-point shot in in in the sketball," Tinnion said.

The caliber of play among American-horn players has picked up, but a 0-0 tie recently between the United States and El Salvador in a World Cup qualifier in St. Louis, Mo., was ed as a setback to the sport in this country.

The United States now needs a win Sunday at Trinidad and Tobago to qualify for the 1990 World Cup. (The United States will gain an automatic bid when it hosts the 1994 World

Chp.)
"There are a number of high-caliher players coming up in the U.S., but nobody could score in that game and it was disappointing to a lot of people," Tinnion said. "What better way to develop natural goal-scoring talent than to play this type of soccer in an indoor game."

SCICLUNA, a longtime youth and high school coach, will be the president of the team. Moffat will be the general manager. Tinnion is the coach. Livonian Jim Duggan, a former high school coach at Redford Catholic Central and North Farmington highs, is in charge of promotions and marketing.

"If this thing goes through, I'll be in heaven," said Scicluna. "I can guarantee you that as long as I'm around, the best (players) will be dressed. It's also American soccer. I want to emphasize that."

Detroit will play 20 games at home and 20 away. The season culminates with the playoffs in April

With the option of playing at ei-ther Cobo, with a seating capacity of 10,000, or Joe Louis (close to 21,000), the new franchise will have a flexi-ble schedule. The plan right now, ac-cording to the investors, is to play Friday nights, Saturday afternoons

Fans can get a sneak preview of the indoor game when AISA All-Stars meet the Soviet Red Army team, beginning at 2:05 p.m. Satur-day, Jan. 20, at Joe Louis.

"We almost jumped in two-feet first for this season," Tinnion said. "But now we have almost 11% months to promote and market our product. We want to do it right."

FANS HAVE BEEN invited to participate in a drawing to name the new team.

Entries (one per family) should include name, address, phone number and team-name selection (by Dec. 8) by sending to: Pro Soccer, Joe Louis Arena, 600 Civic Center Drive, Detroit, Mich. 48226.

In the event that more than one contestant chooses the winning name, the new franchise will hold a random drawing to determine the winner of the following prizes: a pair of season tickets to the 1990-91 season, or VIP tickets to the AISA All-Star Game (Jan. 20, 1990), complete with dinner and limousine transportation that day.

dismal, turnover-filled showing at the Macomb Com-munity College Tip-Off Classic.

Poor backcourt performances contributed to losses
Friday against Owens Tech of Toledo, Ohio (113-71) and Saturday against Kellogg CC (102-05).

"Our guard play this weekend was just horrendous," said SC third-year coach Dave Bogataj. "Up front we're holding our own, but our guards just can't get the ball to there.

"I thought we were in the Pillsbury Bakeoff. We just kept making turnovers. It's disappointing because I was optimistic before the season."

Through the first three games, SC is averaging 36 turnovers per outing.

But the loss of veteran guard Ken Fuster (out sick) may have contributed to the sloppy play.

"Right now it's dangerous to put the ball on the floor, or even pass it," Bogataj added.

OWENS TECH, led by the scoring of guard trio Otis Smith (22 points), Roy Coleman (20) and Brian Ellis (19), were never in danger against the Ocelots, who fell behind 57-31 at the half.

SC guards made 25 turnovers in the loss. Freshman Tony Rumple (Wayne Memorial High) scored 12 points in a losing cause. Sophomore forward Rob Harmon (Redford Bishop Borgess) led SC rebounders with seven

Despite shooting 60 percent (36 of 65) against Reliegs the Ocelota went down to defeat. They failed to held a 42-39 halftime lead.

Turnovers were again the culprit. SC guards

Rumple had an outstanding first half, scoring 11 points to go along with seven assists. But the second half he faltered, going scoreless, with only two assists and six turnovers.

One of Florissant Valley's better midfielders missed the SC match for disciplinary reasons, which means a team strength will be further fortified. "All five of their front players (forwards and midfielders) are tough,"

OF COURSE, the Lady Ocelots are hardly weaponless. The offense has performed exceptionally behind forwards Shannon Meath (from Plymouth Canton), Joan Arndt (Livonia Ladywood) and Cindy Bowman.

Dawn Gabriel (Livonia Churchill) anchors the midfield. Top defensive players include Rose Hally (Churchill), Kellie Davis (Churchill) and Donna O'Brien (North Farmington). Tisha Guido (Garden City) is in goal.

Should SC handle Lees McRae in its opener, chances are good it would meet Monroe in Friday's semifinal. And several SC players figure they still have a score to settle with Monroe, which was picked to go to last year's tournament over the Lady Ocelots. SC defeated Anne Arundel, its other possible semifinal foe, 3-0 earlier this season.

There was one major concern for SC prior to the tournament. Arndt was hobbled by a pulled hamstring muscle. But in hard practices last week, she appeared to have recovered.

"I ran 'em real hard last week," said O'Shea. "We scrimmaged the Livonia Hawks Saturday and looked

"Our attitude is good, and that's half the battle." The other half consists of games against a mystery team and an object of vengeance. Conquer those, and SC will be fighting for the NJCAA championship Sunday.

Rick Milhizer was left bewildered and embittered by his firing as varsity football coach at Parmington High School.

The 30-year-old Parmington alum was dismissed last Friday during a meeting with Principal Gerald Potter. Athletic Director Ron Holland and Assistant Principal Norm

Milhizer coached the Falcons for two seasons, compiling a 1-17 record as he struggled to turn the troubled program around. Farmington snapped a 14-game losing streak on Oct. 7 when it beat Walled Lake Cen-

Milhizer compared his effort to rebuild Farmington football to his experience as a player at Michigan State University. He was a walk-on at MSU and eventually became a starting defensive back earlier this decade.

"It might sound vain, but if they think they're going to find someone who will put more into the program, they're mistaken," he said.

"If it sounds like I'm bitter, it's because I am. To pour my heart and soul into the program for two years and have the knife stuck in my back - veah. I'm bitter."

EACH OF THE three administrators, however, said Milhizer was not judged according to his record or the team's performance on the field.

Potter said he didn't have any specific answers why Milhizer was fired except "just the direction the football program was headed the last two years and where we want it to

Dickson and Holland concurred with that, and Holland, who hired Milhizer in the spring of 1988, added that the three felt a change had to be made. They said it is district policy not to discuss personnel matters

Dickson, who also serves as building athletic manager at Farmington, son for his firing was to'didn't have good relations with other teachers, administrators strators, parents — outsid

He added he thought he was fired because of a personality conflict be-tween he and Potter. Milhizer said Potter told him he didn't like the way he talked to him and that he hizer) tried to intimidate him.

"I'm not his kind of guy," Milhizer said. "He likes having yes men around him. He's got his inner circle, and I'm not part of it and never tried

"It's just a big political game here. There's a reason why Farmington High has been so bad for so long. As soon as I got the job, people were trying to undermine me."

Potter said the decision to fire Milhizer didn't stem from a personality conflict, and it wasn't because he refused to do things the way Potter wanted them done.

"THAT'S NOT true, not accurate," Potter said. "There's no such thing as a yes man in this building as far as the principal and a coach. All you have to do is interview the othe.

"That's certainly not a prerequisite to the job. That's just his own perception as far as I'm concerned." The administrators acknowledged

Milhizer's commitment to the job and the effort he expended in an attempt to revive the program. "But if you look at some of your (Observer) papers you'll see a lot of controversy," Dickson said.

Milhizer said that is probably a reference to a series of news stories written last month about the football backers (separate from the boosters club) and their concern with the pro-

feeling you want in any program" was lacking, said Dickson. "For various reasons, some of them beyond Rick's control, that wasn't developport for the program and acquire needed equipment, said he initiated the backers club against Potter's

"WE NEEDED a lot of help, and I was supposed to sit back and wait for these things," he said. "Something like that is confrontational, and (Potter) didn't appreciate that."

The backers, however, became the tail that wagged the dog, according to Milhizer. Eventually, they tried to gain control of the program instead of serving as supporting players in the larger scheme, he said.

"When they get involved, they want to run the program, and they can turn on you," he said. "I'm sure some of them led to my downfall.

"I think they wanted a yes man, too, and I refused to be a yes man for them, too. There's some good ones, but a lot are not being football back-

At his meeting with the administrative trio, Milhizer said Potter told him he could have better utilized personnel available to him within

To Milhizer, that meant continuing to use former coaches in coachmg capacities. Milhizer said some people in the inner circle he avoided tried to undermine his integrity and the program by spreading rumors

"It was decision on my part not to use those people," he said. "It was my feeling some of those people were part of the problem and not the solution.

"As a matter of fact, we had a meeting at the end of last year with all the head coaches at Farmington High about coaches bad-mouthing other coaches.

"There are people who sit back and judge others, and I avoided getting involved in all that," he added. "I didn't cultivate that group, and I didn't want to. As far as interacting with teachers, how can I? I'm not a teacher. I just showed up every day

"It's not the strongest league in the state and we don't have the biggest schools, but we get some pretty good competition," he added.

In the medley relay, the Marlins broke the record set by the Mercy team of 1979, which included Kara McGrath, now the assistant women's

The fact Farmington Hills Harrison is the defending Class B football champion doesn't carry much weight in East Grand Rapids.

Neither does the team's No. 1 ranking in Michigan, its No. 3 rating in the Midwest nor its No. 9 ranking nationally.

East coach George Barcheski acknowledges Harrison quarterback Mill Coleman to be a fine player, but he bristled Tuesday when asked if the Pioneers have played a team or faced a player comparable to the Hawks and Coleman.

Harrison (11-0) plays East (10-1) in a semifinal game at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Flint Atwood Stadium.

The Pioneers are champions of that some consider the best Class B league in the state - the Ottawa-Kent White Division - which includes Zeeland, Wyoming Park and Forest Hills Central, and they open and end the regular season with Class A opponents.

"WE KNOW all about the publicity coming out of the Detroit area," Barcheski said. "You people had bet-ter start looking, because there's Zeeland and us and we're in the

"We're not going to be standing there in awe," Barcheski said. "In fact, they're going to get hit. The best team is going to win. But we're not going to be in awe, because -Christ - there's this All-American

The All-American kid is Coleman, whom Barcheski saw for the first time last Saturday in Harrison's 28-6 win over Allen Park.

"He's everything everybody said he is," Barcheski said. "He's the quickest quarterback I've ever seen.

"Defending the pass is not hard to do. Defending a passer and a runner is really hard to do. We have our work cut out for us."

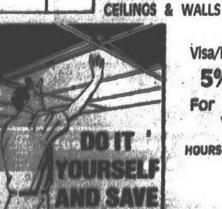

UNLIKE HIS two championship teams, Barcheski's current group doesn't have any big-name players. Fullback Brian Davis, who has rushed for 1,000 yards, and linebacker Jamie Billo, who averages 101/2 tackles, come the closest to being star material.

"(Billo) is one of the best I've ever coached," Barcheski said. "He's a real, real hard tackler.

"Davis and Billo are real good and the rest are just good, hard-working kids. In two years, we've won 18 games and lost two, and we've taken on the best teams available."

EGR major test for Hawks

The football playoffs and Parmington Hills Harrison's effort to defend its Class B championship gets

The Hawks face one of their greatest challenges, certainly in post-sea-son play, when they clash with East Grand Rapids in the semifinals at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Flint Atwood

Top-ranked Harrison is 11-0 and must grapple with a quality oppose program also is steeped

Both schools have won two Class B titles: the Hawks in 1981 and '88, the Pioneers, who have won 10 straight after losing their first game to Class A Holland West Ottawa, in '76 and

"They've got a great coach and a lot of tradition," Harrison coach John Herrington said, adding both schools are rooted in the same kind of upper-middle class community.

"Both have good, hard-working parents who support their kids and expect them to achieve."

Harrison, which has won three state championships including the '82 Class A title, is riding a 24-game win streak, but the last time the Hawks were beaten it was by a Grand Rapids team, Catholic Central, in the '87 state final.

HERRINGTON doesn't think East coach George Barcheski, who has a 158-29-3 record in 20 years, is spending time on the telephone this week with GRCC coach Jim Galvin, who found a way to defense then-sophomore Harrison quarterback Mill Coleman.

"I doubt it," said Herrington, who boasts a 164-40-1 in his 20 years at Harrison. "I think they just have confidence in what they do. I know they're very confident they can beat (Barcheski) said Oxford and Pinckney were better than Allen

What happened in '87 was then; this is now, according to Barcheski, who saw the Hawks for the first time last Saturday.

'We're aware they played (GRCC) in '87, but that was two years ago," he said. "That's not going to help us now. I think we've got a pretty good scouting report."

While the Hawks have advanced with victories over Riverview (23-7) and Allen Park (28-6), East has beaten Pinckney (37-30), coming from behind three times and needing a touchdown with 1:04 remaining to win that game, and Oxford (28-14).

Brian Davis, the fullback in East's fullhouse backfield, has been on a tear in the playoffs, rushing for nearly 500 yards and seven TDs in two games. He carried 32 times for 248 vards last week.

The Pioneers, who play power football and love the off-tackle play, have averaged 400 yards in total offense in the playoffs, and 90 percent of it has been rushing yardage.

"WE'VE GOT TO stop Brian Davis from running the ball," Herrington said. "One coach said he was better than Jesse Walker (of Milan who rushed for more than 2,000 yards).

"They didn't punt in their last two games. They just keep moving the ball."

Since the Hawks also can move the ball, the key will be Harrison's ability to stop the Pioneers, and that should be a most interesting matchup because the Hawks possess an excellent defense, too. Harrison, giving up a touchdown per game, is especially tough against the run, holding Allen Park to 13 rushing yards and 11 opponents to an average of 70. "Hopefully, our big linebackers can get on them and stop them," Herrington said. "If (Blazo) Sarcevich and (Steve) Hill have good games scraping and getting to the tackle hole, we should be OK."

Tackles Cres Gove and Mondel Hightower, both of whom have played well this year, will have to be on their toes since East runs a lot of trap and counter plays. For that matter, noseguard Gary Devine and ends Matt Sperry and Joe George will need to be, also.

IF THE DEFENSE can get the ball for Coleman and the offense, the Hawks should have success, with the last 24 games supporting that claim. Harrison has outgained its opponents by an average of 200-plus yards per game. Coleman is 106-of-177 passing for 1,736 yards and 16 touchdowns, and he has rushed for 618 yards and five TDs. Matt Conley is the leading rusher with 851 yards and 16 touchdowns on 184 carries. Herrington, however, is concerned about the condition of the artificial turf at Atwood. If it rains or snows, that could make the field slick and bad for the fleet-footed Coleman and Harrison tried unsuccessfully to have the game switched to Alma College. Two years ago the Atwood surface was still covered with snow yavelle. Harrison was two The ba-bind but relified to win 25-20.

"Priday ulgate up there are al-ways tough because it's (usually) wet," Herrington said. "A couch said (Detroit) Del'orres couldn't stand up on it last week."

If the Hawks have a dry field, that will make Coleman especially dap-gerous since he can acramble and infuse the East pass coverage.

"If there's any footing, it will be good, because (Coleman) is quicker than anything they have," Herrington said. "He'll be running on them."

"Scott not only is a fine athlete, but an outstanding student as well."

Scott Westover, senior, Liv. Church-III: He turned in several sparkling performances this season for the Chargers.

His best showings occurred at the Schoolcraft Invitational (third) and the WLAA meet (fourth). He was also 14th at the regionals and 94th in the state Individual race. He also took a second behind Freeborn in the Livonia City Meet.

His best time at Cass Benton was 16:59

"He's been our leader the past two years and was very dependable and hard working," said Churchill coach Dave Westover, who also happens to be his father. "Scott was an excellent captain and is a good academic student."

Eleanor Purdy poems have positive message

Upbeat stanzas

By Ariene Funke special writer

N HER poem, "Keep smiling — don't lose heart," Redford poet Eleanor Purdy reveals her hopes and fears about today's youth.

Afraid of their future (which they think) None is in store for them A world full of fear

Purdy, an effervescent, insightful, 65-year-old grandmother, is a late-bloomer who has discovered that poetry "brings out another you.

"It fills a gap," said Purdy, who began writing about three years ago after experiencing personal loss and health problems.

Several of Purdy's poems have been published in the Mature American, a magazine geared to senior citizens. Her poems also have been included in recent anthologies published by the American Poetry Association.

While some of her subjects are deadly serious, taking up such issues as crime, pollution and violence against children, others are whimsical, humorous reflections about her childhood.

"(POETRY) IS IN MY head," Purdy said. "It just comes out in sourts and I can't turn it off."

"Essentially Purdy is an optimist. Take her
"Keep smiling" piece, which she recently penned. After its gloomy opening, the poem takes a more upbeat tone:

"They too will push forward with high hopes... In due time they will take a stand "I'm very partial to children," Purdy said. "I think they need protection.

"I get my material from conversations," Purdy added. "Some things need to be said. It might help somebody."

Behind her radiant smile and bubbly personality is a spiritual woman with keen insight and a nurturing heart. She reminisces about her family while pressing fresh-baked cookies on a visitor.

Purdy, whose thoughts jump from one idea to the next, has discovered in poetry an outlet for feelings she would never dare to verbalize.

"I THINK IT GIVES you more courage that way," she said. "All my life I was told to sit there and not talk, and it was awfully hard to do."

Purdy, a native Detroiter and former long distance telephone operator, has lived in Redford 23 years. She has one son and two daughters, all grown, and six grandchildren. Three years ago she moved in with her elderly father and took care of him until his death, at age 92, almost two

Meanwhile, Purdy had health problems. She had asthma, allergies and problems with her heart. Especially traumatic was when she lost her vision in one eye for 1½ years due to cataracts and other complications. The vision was compared supplied by Purdy reached out by joining a support group for people with vision problems. After her surgery she appeared in a television commerical for the surgeon who restored her vision.

On a deeper level, Purdy was plumbing her emotions through poetry. Her poem, called "Remember," was her first to be published. It appeared in the July 1986 edition of the Mature American. It was a fond remembrance of a childhood in which each family member had a place and worked for the common good.

"A week is seven days, made up of ten thousand minutes and about twenty-million experiences.

Mostly we take these things for granted as commonplace.

Recent conversations have informed me that some folks never knew the unique way others used to live their lives day by day."

raising the ROF

Their elbow equity opens new vistas

By Ariene Funke special writer

Norman and Dianne Ion have their dream home, thanks to a lot of "elbow equity" and a few thousand dollars.

The Ions, who are in their mid-30s, live in an attractive, fourbedroom colonial house near Five Mile and Levan roads in Livonia. They bought the house, built in the mid-1960s, around three years

Although the Ions liked their neighbors, and were pleased with their attractive subdivision, they had dreams.

Norm, a tool and diemaker and avid do-it-yourselfer, wanted skylights. Dianne, who works in a card and camera shop, longed for dramatic, high cathedral ceilings.

Last fall, when a roof began to leak badly, the Ions plunged into an ambitious, eight-month remodeling project that cost $13,000 and encompassed five of the nine rooms in the house. The Ions did the work, with the help of friends and family.

"WE DECIDED TO GO with a complete remodeling rather than just the roof," Dianne said. "We figured with twice the price we could have the house Norm wanted."

"We're satisfied with the elbow equity we put into the house," Norm said. "There was a lot more of that than money."

One year later, the Ions are thrilled with their revamped house, which has skylights, cathedral ceilings, a loft and unusual use of planters and artificial greenery. The square footage has increased only slightly, from 2,000 to 2,200 square feet, but there's a spacious, open feeling.

The project was sparked by a severe leak in the flat roof under a second floor stone deck off the bedroom. The Ions rarely used the deck, and decided to get rid of it.

THE RENOVATION brought the following changes:

The deck and doorwall leading to it were removed from the master bedroom. A half-wall was added so Norm and Dianne can peek down to the family room below.

 Once the deck was removed, Norm was able to extend the roof in that area to the upper roof line, creating a cathedral ceiling effect in the family room.

 A cozy, 200-square-foot loft, overlooking the kitchen and family room, was constructed. It serves as the family's computer room.

New, indirect lighting was installed in the family room. Planters, filled with artificial plants and trees, are perched high on the wall in the family room, making a dramatic accent.

 The new roof contains two skylights with shades and screens. The skylights can be opened.

 Kitchen cupboards were relocated to create more open space. Oak wall trim conceals computer cables, phone lines and electrical wires.

"WE JUST LOVE it," Dianne said. "It's a more open floor plan."

The Ions had several reasons for remodeling, rather than just moving. They liked their neighborhood and were pleased with the way home values were increasing. And they were very satisfied with the Livonia Public Schools. Son Steven is a sophomore at Stevenson High School.

The Ions had been told it would cost $40,000 to hire professional contractors. But Norm's talents and determination convinced them they could do the job themselves.

They also were able to obtain good prices for materials and tapped family and friends to help with the work.

"I don't think I would have started if I hadn't had the commitment from them," Norm said.

THE COUPLE obtained a $7,000 home improvement loan, which they believed would be enough to revamp the house, plus buy new furniture. But the project cost twice as much, topping out at almost $13,000. The lons underestimated the expense for electrical work, and the oak trim. The attractive artificial greenery alone cost $600.

Norm saved an estimated $800 by drawing up his own blueprints. He consulted with city officials to make sure his plans were in compliance with building codes. Electrical, plumbing, heating and building permits cost around $200.

LAST MONTH, ALLYN'S first novel, "The Cheerio Killings" (St. Martin's Press, $16.95), was published, and Publishers Weekly had this to say of the set-in-Detroit, whodunit: "In this surprising, uncompromising first novel . . . , Allyn displays a flair for gritty . . . dialogue, a heartfelt love for music and its late-night, honky-tonk environment, and a talent for mak-... the most incidental characters fleshand-blood originals.'

Also on the scene is John VandeZande, English professor at Northern Michigan University, whose first short story collection, "Night Driving" (William Morrow, $16.95), debuted at booktores last month. VandeZande, who grew up in Big Bay, Mich., on the shores of Lake Superior, has set most of the 11 stories in this collection against a northern Michigan backdrop of winter storms, frigid lakes, far paper shacks, sawmills, "frost-covered fields that stretch back to old farmhouses and high bold barns with signs on their sides."

Stoke up the fire, stir up the hot chocolate, and settle down at hearthside with this book. As the gales of November howl outside your door, it's the perfect read.

Everybody knows that Michigan appears to be an especially hot spot for writing crime fiction. But did you know it's apparently becoming fer-tile ground for the art of science fiction, too?

SPREADING THE word via a panel discusin at Borders in Novi Sunday night were Sciince Fiction authors Michael Kube-McDowell, Leo Frankowski and Diane Carey.

Frankowski's Conrad Stargard series, created at his home-office somewhere "in the wilds of Sterling Heights," has earned him nominations for both the Hugo and Nebula awards. A jack-ofall-trades before settling down to write, Grankowski - who has never had an agent - is presently contracted to write six more books in the Stargard series. Part V of the series will be out in September of next year. Part IV, "The Flying Warlord" (Ballantine, $3.95), relates the adventures of the 20th-century man, Conrad Stargard, as he travels to 13th-century Poland, and prepares Poland to defeat the bloodthirsty Mangols.

The third member of the panel, Diane Carey, collaborates on Star Trek novels with her husband and researcher-editor, Gregory Brodeur. Their flights of fancy, including "Battlestations" and "Dreadnought" (Pocket Books, $3.50) are created in Flint. Carey is also the author of several romances, and, next fall, she'll see her Civil War novel, "Distant Drums," published.

Final news: Grand Rapids' Tom Kakonis, author of "Michigan Roll," written about in a July column, has penned another crime novel, "Criss Cross" (St. Martin's, $17.95) will be out in January, and is already receiving applause from reviewers. Publishers Weekly, who describes Ka-konis as "a poet of raunch," calls the book "a riveting read.'

By the way, Kakonis recently sold movie rights to "Michigan Roll," his first novel. Stayed tuned.

Elbow equity brings a new perspective

The most gracing task was dismantling the reef and stone dock. Norm and Dianne's father used hammers and crowlers to prod and pull away shingles, stones, old windows, doors and aluminum sidiles.

"It was a dirty, nasty job," Norm said.

Dianne found it impossible to keep the house free of dust.

Open areas were covered with plastic. A spell of cool, rainy weather made the house clammy during much of the fall season. The family cat, Cuddles, was kept locked up lest she wander into the construction zone.

GETTING THE new roof in place became paramount.

"For a period of six weeks there was much open space, and no heat," Norm said.

By mid-November Norm was able to concentrate on the interior work. He found a nearby lumber company willing to

FOR MONTHS, NORM completed his night shift at a General Motors plant, then came home and worked several hours on the house. He was "driven to get it done," he said.

The loss lived with dust, ate hasty fast-food meals and pawed through boxes to retrieve household goods packed away. The kitchen, bedrooms and family room were torn apart. The living room and dining room became havens from the clutter.

Each new task completed gave cause for a celebration. Dianne became excited when the scaffolding was removed and she could admire her new, majestic cathedral ceilings. She especially enjoyed furnishing the loft and selecting the greenery for the wall planters.

ittle need for window cover-ups

By Louise Okrutsky staff writer

With longer windows and higher ceilings bringing more light and space into a house, it's an anomaly to hang heavy draperies.

Many people use sheers to offer some privacy while allowing in light, but some windows still need more cover than others.

"You have to take into consideration the view and privacy needs," said Margie Cockle, interior designer/owner of Interiors by Margie Cockle in Birmingham. "People are said interior designer Linda Shears leaving windows blank. That's total- of Modern Studio of Interiors, Birly acceptable in the proper situa- mingham. tion.'

For instance, subdivisions with more trees offer a certain amount of built-in privacy for homeowners.

SOMETIMES DESIGNS pose a challenge to combine practicality and style. Many houses are designed with a bank of windows over the tub in the master bath.

"They look wonderful in a model home, but it's pretty impractical,"

Impractical maybe, but architects evidently like them.

"I like spa tubs with windows around it to accent the tub. Usually I like to put windows there. You can see out and beyond," said Ron Myers, a Plymouth-based architect.

Fine, if the nearest neighbors are a comfortable distance away. Those with less elbow room might want to take a cue from Myers' own residence. He installed thin shades that can be left open to accent the woodwork and closed to provide privacy.

Shears solves the problem with soft shades draped from the top of the window or shutters.

SHUTTERS ARE Cockle's favor ite way to cover a large window. Shutters come with vertical or horizontal wooden slats. Cockle favors a horizontal slat for a long window, but leaves a curved window uncovered. Vertical shutters would succeed in making the windows loom even larger in a room.

For a contemporary look, vertical blinds are an easy, appealing solu-

Huge windows, tall ceilings combine for impressive results

By Louise Okrutsky staff writer

Dramatic entrances and lavish exits are being played out on life's most intimate stage, the home. Windows are bigger and ceilings are higher as owners and builders attempt to bring the outdoors inside.

"Custom homes are becoming more dramatic," said Northvillebased builder Frank A. Bauss

The trend toward studio ceilings, some 15 to 20 feet high, opened the way for windows in exotic shapes. "People want more glass and big-yard by using walls of glass.

'People want that 'out' feeling," said Rita Bennett, outside sales representative for Pella Windows in the Farmington-Farmington Hills-Northville-Novi area. "They don't want to be cooped up. People are spending more time at home."

Ten years ago, custom houses featured at least one patio door and a set of smaller windows. Clients in those recessionary days worried about energy efficiency and price.

"The cost has been prohibitive," said Livonia-based architect Walter Melonio. "In 1976, everything was economical. We did box rooms at $30 a square foot. But it seems when we come out of a recession, then the emphasis on quality and the amount of glass increases.

MELONIA OFFERS as an example the house he designed for Cambridge Construction Corp. in Singh Development's Pheasant Hills subdivision, Northville.

The red brick house has 108 window units. Over the front door is a majestic, Gothic style window. Wood frames help make the window appear even taller than it truly is. The panels alone weigh 700 pounds and carry an $11,000 price tag. Designed as one unit, the front entrance, wooden sidelights and glass cost $75,000. Approximately 25 years ago, it would have been tough to find such a window within the price range of that development, $350,000-

"YEARS AGO a curved top was a specialty item," said Ron Myers, a Plymouth-based architect. "Now so

'I've had houses with over $60,000 in windows alone. You could buy a house for that money.'

-Frank A. Bauss builder:

many shapes are available. Your imagination can run wild."

Pella and Andersen manufacture a variety of shapes, according to Bauss. Pella will custom make windows to any shape a homeowner and architect can agree upon.

In addition to the popular curved top windows, architects are stacking casement windows to achieve a wall of glass. Mutton bars, those bars of wood dividing the glass and giving it a cozy appearance, present another option.

"Many times windows are made to fit the pitch of the roof and suit the design of the house," Bauss said. "It's expensive."

CASINGS AND moldings are custom-made separately to fit the window. One piece of molding for a curved window can cost $150, according to Bauss. In one house in Harbor Springs, built by Bauss, the custom grills and casing for a window cost $1,700. His custom houses are in the $350,000-$900,000 range.

"I've had houses with over $60,000 in windows alone," he said. "You could buy a house for that money.'

They're spending more money on windows, but buyers still want energy efficiency. The air infiltration rate and the R-factor remain as the two variables most buyers study before choosing windows, according to

Air infiltration factor, the amount of air seeping into the house, shouldn't be as high or higher than the R-factor, which measures the window's capacity to retain heat.

Windows that are designed to be opened, and thus aren't sealed, allow more air into the house, according to Melonio. He estimates monthly heating bills for the 4,000-square-foot house that features the expansive use of glass at the entrance at $200-

Let there be (the right blend of) light

(AP)- Lighting can do more than keep darkness away.

Judiciously chosen and placed, it can enhance your home's appearance by altering shape and color, dramatizing its advantages and minimizing its disadvantages. Lighting can also increase working efficiency and create a healthier environment for you and your family. Here are some tips:

An average-size room usually needs four or five light sources. In a room where dark-colored walls and upholstery absorb light, you may heed more lamps or higher wattage

· Choose lampshades according to the effect you want to create. An ppaque shade, which produces a strong pattern of up and down light, is more decorative than practical. If you want cheerful, soft even light that you can read by, select a shade made of light-diffusing fabric, plastic or paper.

• Avoid narrow-topped shades as the heat from the confined bulbs depriorates the shades.

· To achieve harrflony in a room, Reep the tops of table and floor imps at the same level and use hades that are similar in style and abric.

WORRIED ABOUT choosing the ight size chandeller for your dining om? A good rule of thumb is that a diameter in inches should equal-be diagonal of the room in feet. But decorators feel that when it nes to chandellers, it's better to responde than to underscale. A rge chandelier may give a small g room or a narrow hall just the stra glamour it needs.

To reduce eye strain:

• If you use a floor lamp for reading, place it slightly behind you either to the left or the right of your shoulder. With a table lamp, line up the base with your shoulder about 20 inches to the left or right of the center of your reading matter. Make sure the bottom of the lampshade is above eye level; a lower one restricts the light that falls on your book or newspaper.

• Install dimmers for flexible mood lighting. Bright lights stimulate activity while dim lights are more conducive to relaxation. · To create a warm, intimate atmosphere, substitute small pools of light for general lighting. In addition to lamps and ceiling fixtures, consider: Accent lighting to emphasize specific details in a room such as paintings or decorative objects.

· Cornice lighting that casts light downward over a wall. Track lighting that provides flexibility in directing beams of light. The track can be mounted on a ceiling or a wall. Uplights that accent objects above them. The soft, diffuse light comes from canister-type lighting fixtures placed on the floor. Valance lighting to provide a wash of light downward over draperies and upward over a ceiling from a special window valence. • Wall sconces to bounce light off

They pass your face like a breath of air and never touch you. They're like shadows and if you listen hard, they squeak in the tiniest of voices.

The Germans call them fledermauser, or flying mice. We call them bats.

They are associated with caves, haunted mansions and belfries, but it's your attic they prefer.

Bats can be heard rustling in and out. They raise a stink with their droppings and when they die. There's also the danger of rabies if you're bitten. And they're hard to get rid of. But not if you know what to do and

That time is now, before the frosts become too frequent. Once cold weather closes in, the bat colony at your address is home for good.

There are six species of bats in Michigan: the red, the hoary, the pallid, little brown, big brown, and the endangered Indiana bat. Little browns are the most common in this area, followed by the big browns. Big browns only nest in single-digit numbers, but the little browns average 20-40 in a colony, up to several

"It's not always easy to get rid of bats in your home," says Glenn Dudderar, an extension wildlife specialist at Michigan State University, "but it gets impossible in winter. If you allow the bats to go into hibernation in your attic, that's where they'll be until spring. There's no way to rouse them once they've entered

THE IMPATIENT homeowner would think of extermination, but the professionals would advise against that at the start of winter.

"If absolutely necessary, only in an emergency," Kevin Clark, president of Critter Control in Westland, said of extermination. Like Dudderar, he is unwilling to kill the tiny flying mammals because they are so beheficial to man and the ecological balance.

Bats eat insects people would set on several consecutive nights unrather be rid of. And there are other til you spot the bats leaving," Dudreasons for not evicting them.

"If some of them crawl or fall into places where you can't reach them, you could be smelling them for quite a while. Killing the bats really doesn't solve the bat problem because it does nothing to prevent more bats from moving back in later," Clark said.

Neither does driving them out. Mothballs sort of work, but only if you can stand five pounds of them for every 2,000 square feet. Bats are sensitive to high-frequency sounds and can be forced to leave by some commercial sound devices.

Dudderar suggests making one by attaching two to three silent dog whistles to an air pump, such as those used in a large aquarium, and running it continually near the roosting area.

Brightly lighting the roosting area continuously with four or more 100watt bulbs has also worked after

These measures, says Dudderar, "range in effectiveness from adequate, if used properly, to worth-less." None of them keep the bats from returning promptly.

"This may mean standing on a different side of the house around sun-

To do that you must get them all out and prevent them from getting

He suggests going outside a bit earlier to give your eyes a chance to adjust to the waning light, as bats can be hard to see at that time.

IF YOU SEE them leaving, move quickly to stuff the openings while they're gone. Openings are likely to be under eaves, around chimneys or near windows - with wood, window screening, hardware cloth, caulk, fiberglass insulation, or masonry.

The alternative is to wait for a bright day and observe the darkened roosting area from the inside; you should be able to find the openings from light leaking in. Block all but one or two openings. When the bats leave by these at sunset, close them

Clark said he uses "check valves" when blocking up exits. These are PCV pipes placed vertically, such as under the eves, that allow the bat to leave but prevents its return because the pipe is too slippery for it to crawl up. He likes copper mesh with openings of one-eighth to one-que ter inch. One-half inch is too big.

Clark also recommends hat h to trap bats. A bat house is placed on a pole like a martin house and is a plain box made of cedar on the outside, with a rough surface on the inside and a hole in the floor, plats enter ter through the hole and cling to the

"You don't need them with a wall of glass," Bennett said.

Difficult to install properly, many owners complained that skylights leaked. Heat rises, making skylights a source of heat loss.

"But they can help in some dark areas," Bennett said.

Aluminum-framed windows are the big losers in this new trend. First it was discovered the frames promoted heat loss. Then they lost fashion points.

Twenty-five years ago wood was out. It was considered old-fash-ioned," said Myers, whose house design won the people's choice award at this year's Homearama. "Now, there aren't that many aluminum windows. Wood holds heat better."

GLASS BLOCK, popular more than 30 years ago, is smalking back into favor. Eight-by-eight walls of glass block are used to accent entrance ways and solve such prob-lems as allowing light into baths while retaining privacy.

Although the emphasis on windows has begun to trickle down to average houses, chances are good buyers in that market won't see as much of the drama in their own houses. Large windows need higher

What happens next is often a blur, especially for those who are experiencing a closing for the first time. As the documents are shuffled about, it can be hard for anyone to totally suppress ambivalent

You believe that buying a house is one of the most important decisions you're likely to make to improve your future. Still, second thoughts can creep in at this time to compete for your attention.

From where you sit it may seem that matters of utmost importance to your well-being are being dealt with in a cursory fashion. While you tell yourself that what's happening is probably just routine, the serious content of the moment may give you the impression that the entire process could come unraveled over the tiniest of details.

MOOD SWINGS are not uncommon as the closing drama unfolds, according to experts at Chicago Title Insurance Co., a national title insurance and real estate company.

While it's nice if they can do so, it probably isn't all that important for the participants in a closing to follow every nuance or absorb every detail. If the buyer and seller are generally satisfied with the terms of the sales contract, they should not allow themselves to become intimidated by the legal process or by the confrontational aura that sometimes appears to surround these events, says Joseph F. Burke, senior viece president and Great Lakes region manager for Chicago Title.

"It's true that snags can develop and cause the process to become untracked. But most real estate closings are exactly what they appear to be - professional, businesslike events that succeed in transferring property from one individual to another in an efficient and permanent fashion," he said.

Burke says that questions related to closing costs

S&L joins mortgage program

First Federal of Michigan announced it will participate in a new Community Home Buyer's Program, which is designed to help low- to moderateincome households qualify for home ownership by modifying underwriting guidelines and providing an education program for home buyers.

The program is co-sponsored and insured by General Electric Capital Mortgage Insurance Companies (GEMICO), Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac.

Borrowers will be able to finance fixed-rate 15and 30-year mortgage loans with down payments as low as 5 percent. They can apply up to 33 percent of their gross monthly income to housing expenses, rather than the standard 28 percent required on 95 percent loan-to-value mortgage loans.

The program will reduce up-front cash requirements and waive the condition that buyers have a cash reserve equal to two monthly mortgage payments. Borrowers can use non-traditional documents such as utility and rent payments as evidence of good credit history.

Potential home buyers under the program are required to attend classes that explain the mortgage loan application process and the income level, savings and credit history needed to obtain a mort-

FIRST FEDERAL will offer these classes, free of charge, to the general public as well as to potential loan applicants. Buyers also will learn how to choose a home that won't need extensive repairs, and why home inspections can avert costly mainte-nance problems that could lead to a future default on their loan.

Properties financed under the Community Home Buyer's Program must be single-family and occupied by the purchasers as their principal residence. Properties that require extensive rehabilitation may be purchased under the program, but repairs must be completed before the loan closing.

First Federal of Michigan is the wholly owned subsidiary of First Fed Michigan Corp. It is a Detroit-based savings and loan association.

If you've considering a green-house, he awere they've come a long way from the leaky backyard pott-ing sheds of the past. Recent advanc-es in technology have led to an ex-plosion in residential greenhouses. For customer-designed units, the National Greenhouse Manufacturers Association (NGMA) recommends hiring an architect.

housing proposed lan to cut energy in Colorado Sen. Tim Wirth announced a series of suggestions to improve energy efficiency in housing in the United States, including a plan to raise the insulation standards used for federal-assisted housing. Wirth, a member of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, announced the plans at a forum in Washington, D.C., by the Alliance to Save Energy, a non-profit coalition of business, government and consumer leaders.

"With the proper policy mix, good energy policy can be good economic policy, good housing policy and good environmental policy," Wirth said.

He said that if energy consu tion would be cut by 25 percent in the housing sector, the equivalent of 400 million barrels of oil would be saved each year.

The five plans will be part of two bills before the Senate, Wirth said. The first would allow consumers provements within their mortgages while the second would raise efficiency standards for homes built with federal assistance, Wirth said.

"With recent advances in building technology, higher energy costs and the growing affordability crisis, such a move is overdue," he said.

A third plan would create a national voluntary ratings system to measure energy efficiency, he said.

Other efforts would be to include energy efficiency measures in the al-lowable costs covered by federal assistance payments and to invest more in energy efficiency in improvement assistance projects by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"The federal government pays more than $1 billion each year for the energy bills of public housing. Much of this could be avoided with cost-effective investments," he said.

Introducing he Crossings

Apartment living just got better.

We're making The Crossings a better place to live and a better value. You'll feel it in the new hallways and newly refurbished clubhouse. You'll see it in the plush landscaping when you enter the grounds. And that's just the beginning. It's the new look and feel of The Crossing at Canton - and it's for you.

Canton—and it's for you.

The Crossings at Canton offers 19 different floorplans with 1 to 4 bedrooms. And whether you choose a Level townhome or a luxury apartment, the renewed beauty of this charming rental community shines throug in way one—the result of our recent. Capital Improveplants & Upgrading program. These community and continues are the largest fit the arm, yet are still incredibly affordable.

secret in Livonia."

It's called Woodridge Apartments. It's the most perfect combination of luxury and comfort I've found. And I love being just a couple of minutes from the great malls in Livonia, and I-696. (Of course I love to shop-who doesn't?!) I also love the tennis and pool right here, and the fact that I have covered parking for my car. The rent makes sense to me too. Since I have so many other things I want to spend my vast (?) resources on. Call 477-6448...and see for yourself today.
