You could have a bunch of dummies for neighbors.

In fact, Plymouth Township could become the dummy capital of the world.

That's because the world's leading maker of crash dummies used in auto testing plans to move to the township, if their application for a tax abatement is approved by the township board of trustees.

"In short, the Galleon Drive facility will become the principal worldwide design and manufacturing center in the automotive industry for crash dummies and safety systems," wrote Walter Borda, vice president of First Technology - dependent on township board approval.

The facility would create 150 jobs within two years, Borda said.

HE TOLD trustees on Tuesday that the firm plans to combine its crash dummy manufacturing operations now in Los Angeles, Calif., and Stamford, Conn., at 47460 Galleon Drive in Plymouth Township.

Borda said a building under construction at the Galleon Drive site would be used by First Technology, pending township board approval of the tax break.

If the abatement is approved, Borda told the board the facility would still feed "a half-million dollars over 12 years in new tax revenues into Plymouth Township.

"It is expected that the facility will be fully completed and equipped no later than March 31, 1990, and that full employment will be reached roughly by July 1," Borda wrote, with 120 jobs created by that date.

Within two years of approval of the tax abatement, "management of First Technology projects that employment will total at least 150 persons," he continued.

Construction of the facility, in the Metro West Beck Road Industrial Park, began May 9. It will be completed by about Dec. 31, Borda said. The building is a one-story 35,000-square-foot structure.

THE CRASH dummies, or anthropomorphic test dummies, "are very complicated computers," he told trustees

"It's a lot higher technology than one might anticipate," he said. "These are not store mannequins. We produce around 300 each year.'

Depending on what each dummy is used for, the cost to produce one can range from $30,000 to $90,000, he added.

"They are light computers packed full of sensors and accelemeters," Borda said. The dummies are used to collect information on how the impact of car crashes affects parts of the human

First Technology is an English corporation traded publicly on the London Stock Exchange.

Borda said the firm is seeking to move to the Detroit area because, "If you're going to be in the development side of the automotive business, you've got to be where the developers are, in the city of Detroit."

First Technology will formally ask trustees for a tax abatement at a public hearing Nov. 28.

noise

By Kevin Brown staff writer

Plymouth Township residents with noise complaints could soon have a more certain way to find relief.

A consultant who developed a draft noise ordinance presented it to the township Board of Trustees last week. The board is scheduled to vote on whether to accept the ordinance on Nov. 28.

'We tried to cover the various types of noise situations that we see in communities," said Richard Kolano, who developed the draft ordi-

By the draft ordinance, noise that exceeds certain decibel levels as measured at a resident's property line could violate the ordinance.

"It quantifies and provides an objective level of noise through a decibel reading," said Trustee John Stewart. He helped push for the ordinance after residents of one subdivision complained of noise from a nearby manufacturer last spring.

Provisions in the draft ordinance vary for noise levels measured 7 a.m. to 10 p.m., and 10 p.m. to 7 a.m.

Those who violate ordinance provisions can be issued tickets by the township police. Or, "It may mean some other measures to evaluate the problem," said James Anulewicz, township planning director.

Anulewicz suggested that the township board create a review board to mediate noise complaints. Some cases may not be total black and white," he said.

Some trustees liked this idea. "There's an advantage to working out rather than confrontation," said Trustee Smith Horton.

"That's what we want to do and that's what we prefer," Anulewicz said, adding that a court might not rule in the township's favor over "grey" noise situations not strictly covered by an ordinance section.

For example, an especially loud lawn mower could violate an ordinance section prohibiting more than 55 decibels at a residential property line during daytime, Anulewicz said.

At a township board meeting in June, more than 50 people from the Arbor Village subdivision attended. as the residents sought a noise orthnance in hopes of quieting a nearby jet engine manufacturer on Ann Arbor Road.

Willie Mays signs up for card show

By Kevin Brown staff writer

Once a boy's hobby, baseball card collecting is now a growing business. And local card collectors won't have to travel far to check out some choice cards, when one of the Midwest's biggest baseball card and sports memorabilia shows opens Friday at the Radisson Plymouth Hotel. It features autograph sessions with Chicago Cub Mitch Williams on Friday, Willie Mays on Saturday, and 300-game winner Don Sutton on Sunday. "It really started to escalate about four or five years ago, it has really snow-balled," said Jim Hawkins, the former sportswriter who is putting on the 4th Annual Plymouth In The Fall Sports Collectors Convention.

"KIDS TODAY have a lot more money than we did when we were kids, and kids are more investment conscious," Hawkins said.

"It used to be boys with some cards, a shoe box and a rubber band. Now it's become very fashionable,"

Hawkins said. "Fathers are now rekindling their interest, kids buy and sell cards," he said, adding some money magazines tout card collecting as a financial in-

Cards bringing the most money include the first cards, issued by tobacco companies just after the turn of the century. Among those are a Honus Wagner card, issued between 1909-11.

Wagner didn't smoke, "and ordered that the card be withdrawn immediately," Hawkins said. That card recently sold for more than $100,000, he added.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig cards issued in the 1930s by the Goudey company - the first bubblegum cards - can fetch nearly $1,000, Hawkins said.

Among current brands, "Topps is still the Cadillac of baseball cards, we have Fleer, Donross, Upper Deck, Score, and countless smaller sets," Hawkins said.

A modern trend in card collecting involves famous players' rookie cards. In the Detroit area, "The (Al) Kaline rookie card is the most expensive, getting $400 to $800 or $900 if it's in mint condition," Hawkins Collectors also seek out rookie cards of current stars including Tiger Alan Trammell, and stars from other teams like Bo Jackson. Kevin Mitchell, Jose Canseco and

Program helps teen drug abusers

Studies show that close to 5 percent of high school students have a serious drug or alcohol problem, and a new Growth Works Inc. program will try to reach some of those teenagers in this area.

The 5 percent figure translates to about 1,631 students within a 30mile radius of the downtown Plymouth center that includes the Plymouth-Canton, Wayne-Westland, Ypsilanti, Birmingham Farmington school districts.

And that's a conservative estimate, according to Scott Levely, Growth Works program director for counseling and substance

A 1987 study by the Institute for Social Research found that, nationally, 3.3 percent of high school seniors used marijuana daily and 4.8 percent used alcohol daily

Other students who drink or use drugs in a sporadic but abusive way are considered addicted, but were not included in the study figures, according to Mike Gillespie, Growth Works clinical director.

Starting next month, Growth Works will start trying to help those teens. Growth Works is a nonprofit agency that runs substance abuse programs and helps firsttime juvenile offenders.

Counselors are looking for patients 12 to 18 years old to participate in the six-week programs.

"We're in the process of letting people know about the program and getting referrals," said Scott Levely, Growth Works program director for counseling and substance

In the past, Growth Works has worked with children after they completed full-time treatment in a hospital or other setting but needed more care.

Growth Works will continue that work and will probably expand to accommodate the patients who complete its day program, he said.

ABOUT 75 teens are expected to be treated annually in the Growth Works new day treatment program, running from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday in the center on Main Street.

When you look at the amount of time, effort and thought in helping someone . . . 75 in the course of a year with the amount of staff we have is a big challenge," Levely

The teens will be receiving the same treatment from Growth Works they would get from a hospital, except they go home in the evening, Gillespie said.

Family members, especially the parents of a patient, are expected to get involved in the treatment, Gillespie said

"It's a chance to get parents prepared to confront kids with discipline," Gillespie said. "Parents have been dumped on often enough that they're vulnerable enough to go for it again. It's a two-way street. Our philosophy is that the family is the patient."

Patients will be referred through an independent assessment agency, "so we don't fill spots for the sake of filling spots," Levely said.

However, it may be decided after initial discussion that the patient isn't suited for the Growth Works program, and those teens will be referred to other treatment programs

Cops arrest man

A 21-year-old California man, who Plymouth Township police said was walking around the area acting suspicious, was stopped by officers ear-ly Wednesday and arrested on five outstanding warrants.

An officer was flagged down at 12:08 a.m. by employees of Blockbuster Video and Great Scott supermarket, on Sheldon Road near Oregon, and was told the man had been acting suspicious. There was no further detail of the man's actions in the arrest report.

Police confronted him, checked his record by computer, and discovered that warrant charges against the man included drunken driving, malicious use of the telephone and failing to appear for court dates on the charges, according to the police

UP A TREE: When an extensive tree trimming job Monday left a Plymouth Township man irate, he called township police.

The man told police that two men who work for a tree-trimming firm removed several limbs on one side of his tree, at his home on Ann Arbor Road, near phone lines, the police report stated.

Police told him this was a civil matter, and the man said he would meet with representatives of the tree-trimming company and Detroit Edison, to seek compensation.

Lance Flora saws an oak plank in half that will be used to refurbish the interior of the Jamie Flora House at Morton Taylor and Warren Roads.

By Keith Postler staff writer

More than 130 years ago, the Underground Railroad ran through Canton Township.

And today, a Plymouth man is trying to preserve that old way sta-

The Underground Railroad was the route used by runaway slaves fleeing the South prior to the Civil War. One stop was a two-story brick farmhouse at the corner of what is now Morton Taylor and Warren

THE RED brick house, part of the Godwin farm from 1939 till 1984 and a local fixture during America's pre-Civil War and post-slavery era of the 1800s, has seen a lot of history.

"It's a grand old house," said Jamie Flora, a Plymouth businessman dedicated to restoring the house. "There's a lot of history behind it. We're going to restore it to the way it used to be and go from there." The land the house sits on was originally bought in the 1830s, but late 1840s by the Hannah S. Fitzgerald family. John Kinyon bought the house in 1852. From then until the early 1860s it served as a pipeline for the Underground Railroad, he

'We've gotten a lot of this information word-of-mouth, but we've heard some interesting things about the history of the house," Flora said. "Fred Godwin, whose family owned the house awhile back, told me it was also used during the Prohibition Era. There was a still in the basement, I guess."

Once part of a huge farm, the house has endured abuse, neglect and numerous efforts to get it moved from the property to pave the way for commercial and residential developments.

TODAY, THE house is assured safekeeping well into the next century because of Flora's efforts.

The house sits on a flat three-acre plot in northwest Canton and is being refurbished by George Flora and his son, Lance Flora. George Flora, Jamie's brother, owns Floraco Car-

The task hasn't been a simple one, spent many hours researching the house, trying to dig up old photo-graphs and descriptions so they can be exact in their restoration efforts. George said.

There was an electrical fire in January that and swept though half the house all the way to the roof," he said, standing between exposed floor boards in a back room. "We were able to save a lot of the original wood and beams, and we're reusing them as much as we can.'

GEORGE FLORA is taking great steps to refurbish the house in the style that it was originally built. Oak and clear pine dominate the interior, and flat, iron nails are being used as they were 130 years ago.

Everything that is going to be exoosed is pretty much what was originally here," he said, "from the square nails to the oak joists and the floorboards. It's a neat house."

"Hopefully, it'll be ready in December, but I doubt it. That was the plan, but there's too much mill work to be done. We're probably looking at the first quarter of 1990."

til early 1990, George Flora said.

When the house is finally finished. Jamie, Laura and their three children, Carmen, J and Brandon, will: eagerly move in.

"We were all ready in January, wewere a week away when the fire; hit," Laura said.

"Our long-term plan is to takeother turn-of-the-century homes and: move them to the same piece of land and restore them," Jamie said, Jamie Flora has also gone to great lengths to restore the house as it was 'We'd like to restore them, perhaps originally. Oak and pine wood planks are being imported from a mill in three, and maybe turn them into Williamsburg, while flathead nails bread-and-breakfast homes."

Controversy over sidewalk keeps family out of home

By Keith Postler

staff writer Canton's sidewalk controversy is brewing again, and Gary and Jan

Smeyeck are in the middle of it. The Sinevecks' man ctured home on Canton Center Road next to Plymouth-Canton High School is ready to be moved into, but the township hasn't granted them a residency permit because the house doesn't have a sidewalk in the front. We weren't told by the township until Nov 15 that we are required, by ordinance, to have a sidewalk put tary Smeveck, 33, said.

TOWNSHIP ORDINANCES state that sidewalks must be installed in new commercial and residential tevelopments, but is vague about who is liable for the costs.

The Sinevecks contend the townhap also refused to grant them a residency permit until he matter is resolved. Township officials in the building end engineering department could not be reached for comment. Since the Sinevecks' home is near centennial Educational Park, their front lawn is a major artery for hundreds of students each day to and but where are they?" Jan said. "If the sidewalks would be for the student's safety, so they wouldn't have to walk in the street, shouldn't the schools or the township pay for

"It's a matter of attitude," said Jan's father, Bob Jones. "The kids have been doing everything the township has asked since day one, but the township seems to make these things up as they go along. The township won't tell them anything, then they pull this stunt with the

THE PROBLEM is drawn out further because most contractors, Jones said, will not install concrete after Nov. 15 due to the weather. Jan Sineveck said a contractor said he would install the sidewalk for $1,650 but would not guarantee work completed during the fall and win-

In 1988, at the urging of Canton sidewalks were supposed to go in, resident Diane Oatley, the township installed sidewalks along Morton Taylor Road south of Joy Road. The township board also set aside $35,000 in general fund money for sidewalk construction and $15,000 for sidewalk repair.

"Where'd the money go that was supposed to go for the sidewalks, and who has to pay for them?" she asked. Until a sidewalk is installed, the Sinevecks - Jan, Gary, Stefanie, age 2, and Kaitlyn, 2 months - can't move into their house. They are living with Jan's parents until the matter is resolved.

BESIDES THE question of liability, Jones believes the Sinevecks are being "harassed" by the township because they own a manufactured home. Their three bedroom home was built in a factory and delivered on Sept. 10, 1989 and does not fit in with Canton's upscale image, he said. "It's their attitude. They just don't want manufactured homes in Canton, and they're making their point," he said. "It's not that we're refusing to have it done, we just don't know who has to pay for this," Jan said. "The hard part is we wanted our kids to grow up in Canton. Gary and I both grew up here, went to school here, and enjoyed it immensely, but mov-ing back to Canton has been the sorriest thing we've ever done.'

Local chapters of Mothers Against Drunk Driving are distributing millions of red ribbons, beginning today, to promote responsible drinking this holiday season.

MADD chapters in Wayne and Oakland counties are helping release an estimated 20 miles worth of ribbons as part of the organization's nationwide "Tie One On For Safety" campaign.

The campaign is designed to discourage people from drinking and driving this holiday season. It also promotes responsible drinking, including use of designated, non-drinking, drivers at holiday events where alcohol is served.

Three years into the campaign, and nearly a decade after MADD's formation, drunk driving remains a major social issue.

Tying a ribbon onto a car's door is a reminder not to drink and drive this holiday season. The campaign runs through Jan. 1.

"IT'S NOTea fad," said Wayne County MADD administrator Sandi Wolf. "Interest in the issue and in the campaign has grown tremendously."

One million ribbons were distributed when the program began in 1986, MADD reported. Last year, that figure increased to 25 million. More than 30 million ribbons are expected to be distributed this year.

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Picano said his department has arrest-ed more than 1,000 drunk drivers so far this year and is on a pace to approach the 1,300 drivers arrested last year.

with the ribbons' distribution. For the past two weeks, volunteers have been cutting ribbons into 9-inch strips.

General Motors has a commitment "from the top down" to combat drunken driving, Slone said.

The Observer & Eccentric is also assisting in the program. Ribbons are being distributed with today's issue of the paper.

Ribbons are also available at numerous metro area locations, including 7-11 stores and AAA offices.

Instant gourmet cooking

Sometimes, there just aren't enough hours in the day.

Between newspaper stories, speaking engagements and taking care of two bustling kids, even I have trouble making sure lunches are packed, school notes are answered and dinner is on the table when my hard-working wife arrives home after a grueling day at school.

I guess I'm lucky that my schedule allows me to work out of my home. Ditto for the fact that our evening dinner always consists of at least one of the recipes that is printed here every week for your enjoyment.

BELIEVE IT or not, there are some days when we all walk in the door right around the same time, and my wife and I throw $5 each into the pot and send out for pizza - forget the sauteed green beans in a balsamic vinaigrette.

On those nights, canned mushrooms and a sprinkling of green pepper and onion on our favorite double-cheese pizza are all the thoughts of cooking we could muster. You have to realize that my wife's idea of cooking is to throw a Lean Cuisine in the microwave.

There's no doubt that she is the best kindergarten teacher in town, but when the Lord passed out culinary abilities, she must have been standing in line at Wendy's

In addition to home-delivered pizza and a six-pack, an occasional Chinese take-out, and turkey franks wrapped in Pillsbury crescent rolls, we usually make it a family affair and share the few minutes we have with each other, in the kitchen. My wife Diane usually searches the vegetable crisper for lonely strands of green onion and an occasional left-over baked potato that fortunately has yet to show fuzzy spots of old age.

I, IN TURN, get out the old omelet pan and search for tiny, foil-wrapped bits and pieces of margarine or butter that have fallen behind the ketchup and mustard jars.

The kids gingerly remove the carton of eggs, trying desperately not to crack the ones that stick to the inside of the carton.

Even Kibbles the cat gets into the swing of things by reminding us of milk still sitting in the dinosaur cup in the fridge, left over from breakfast.

I still remember fried-egg sandwiches on those forgotten Fridays when we couldn't eat meat. How about you?

Speaking of not eating meat, I remember simple dinners of French toast (folks in Wyandotte used to call it "egg toast"). When Momma wanted to be a real gourmet, she would open a can of chicken broth and bring it to a boil and whisk in a few beaten eggs for an egg drop soup that could bring an emperor to his knees

WHEN MOMMA felt Italian, she would throw in a couple of handfulls of instant rice while the broth was boiling and a squirt of lemon juice from a plastic bottle made to look like a lemon.

She would serve it up in these big bowls that were emblazoned with the Currier and Ives logo that you could get for free by sav-

Culinary surprise in store

By Geri Rinschler special writer

HANKSGIVING IS JUST not Thanksgiving for some of us unless the very same recipes appear on the menu year after year. Uncle Jim looks forward to pureed rutabaga made with a dash of nutmeg. Cousin Bill insists the cranberry sauce is simple, pureed and strained. And Grandma Norma will only stuff the bird with fluffy, white sandwich bread, butter and sage.

If you ask your friends and neighbors how they prepare Thanksgiving dinner, you will soon come to the conclusion that no two family dinners are alike. Variety and virtuosity are indeed part of the Thanksgiving tradition.

A friend from West Virginia mixes up a flavorful cornbread stuffing in a separate pan and cooks the turkey unstuffed, a common practice throughout the South. Cookbook author Bert Greene once wrote of his favorite turkey dressing, jambalaya. This New Orleans specialty of rice, sausage, diced peppers, herbs, ham and shrimp is one of the most unusual dishes I have ever sampled. Needless to say, this annual feasting day has melted into the pot of the American experience.

Now, if you recall, only some of us expect a repeat performance of the same menu every year. There are a number of us who anticipate a traditional meal but welcome some culinary surprises. One family in particular is that of Matthew Prentice, chef-proprietor of Sebastian's at Somerset Mall in Troy.

"THANKSGIVING IS perhaps my favorite holiday of the year," Prentice announced, as he began a prirate cooking cl the restaurant kitchen. "It's wonderful because the whole family gets together for a festive meal to celebrate the fall harvest and to thank God for the bounty he's bestowed upon us.

"When I first planned this cooking class, I considered making a traditional turkey stuffed with exotic ingredients such as blue cornbread, but after some consideration, I decided not to because no one would make it for their Thanksgiving dinner.'

In order to make the traditional feast appetizing as well as interesting, Prentice wrote a traditional menu with a few twists. The menu opened with two appetizers, smoked Green River trout pate served on baguette toasts and tempura shrimps garnished with fall mustard

Cookies traveled road to success

By Katie Maple McBride special writer

Evie Madison recently returned to the Detroit area to start up Evie Madison, Cuisinier, a company that sells her homemade mandelbread and shortbread cookies to local retailers.

A former gourmet cooking instructor in West Bloomfield, she is back in the kitchen after a successful 16-year career as a manufacturer's representative in Chicago.
"This business just happened," Madison said. "If I'd had to plan this, I never would have had the guts to do it." Her cookie career unofficially began two years ago, when she started serving her special shortbreads and mandelbreads to buyers who visited her Chicago showroom.

"MY CUSTOMERS would talk about my cookies, and I started getting calls from other reps in the building, asking if they could buy them from me, to serve, too," Madison said. "Pretty soon I started get-ting calls from Dallas, Atlanta and other major markets where the buyers traveled. I couldn't believe

Her baking expertise takes on many flavors, including plain, chocolate chip and chocolate mandelbread (nut slices) and apricot or raspberryfilled, brown-sugar pecan-chocolate chip and peanut butter-chocolate chip shortbread.

'Mandelbread is a traditional Jewish cookie that a lot of people are baking and selling in other areas," she said. "In this area, many people bake them at home, but I don't know of anyone else doing it commercially."

Evie Madison, Cuisinier cookies are sold for about $6 a pound in several shops locally, such as Shopping Center Market in West Bloomfield, Strawberry Hills in Farmington Hills, Market Basket in Franklin, Quarton Market in Birmingham and Vic's Produce in Southfield. The cookies also are sold at Marshall Field in Chicago.

MADISON WORKS with her assistant, Sue Heick, to bake and package their wares in the kitchen at the Armenian Congregational Church in Southfield. The company's business

Her shortbreads are made with pure butter, sugar, flour and the added ingredients to make each special flavor.

"THEY'RE A conglomeration of recipes I've tried. I started playing with the flavors," Madison said. "For example, I saw apricot-filled shortbread in a catalog and adapted a recipe to make those. Then I tried peanut butter."

After the class sampled the wonderful flavors of the appetizers, Prentice went on to prepare an acorn squash seasoned with curry. The squash was roughly diced with a

ORANGE CRANBERRY RELISH 1 pound fresh cranberries "

2 whole oranges 1 teaspoon orange zest — the orange outer covering of an orange, grated 2 ounces Grand Marnier 2 ounces fresh orange juice sugar added to taste

Place orange juice, zest, Grand Marnier and rinsed cranberries in a shallow saucepan and simmer until the cranberries plump. Meanwhile, peel and remove orange sections, then cut each piece in half. Add the oranges to the pan, stirring until the sauce is syrupy. Add sugar stirring until dissolved and desired sweetness is attained. Can be served at room temperature or chilled.

1 large onion, diced 1 large carrot, diced 2 stalks celery diced

salt, pepper, curry powder to taste pinch nutmeg

Combine all the ingredients except spices in a large soup pot and bring to a boil. Reduce to simmer and cook until the vegetables are very soft. Puree in a food processor and put back on stove. Adjust seasonings. Serve hot in a medium-sized, hollowed-out pumpkin shell.

2 loaves white "stuffing" bread 1 large onion, peeled and diced

2 ribs celery diced 4 MacIntosh apples, diced 1/2 pound melted butter 2 tablespoons poultry seasoning

turkey giblets, liver, kidney, gizzard 15 cup giblet stock

Take the liver, kidney, neck, gizzard and heart and wash well. Place in a pan with 1/2 pound of the mirepoix and cover with water. Bring to a simmer and cook until giblets are well done. Remove giblets and chill. Discard remaining innards and strain stock, then reduce to 1/2 cup and adjust seasonings.

bird frequently with pan juices. When done, allow turkey to rest 30 minutes before carving. To make gravy, strain pan drippings and thicken with a roux. Place over heat, stirring constantly, then strain.

PUMPKIN CHEESECAKE

Graham-Cracker Crust For each cake mix together: 1 cup graham cracker crumbs 2 ounces sugar 2 ounces unsalted butter

After mixture is blended, pat into an 8-inch springform pan until bottom and sides are covered. Refrigerate until filling is ready.

To make marzipan pumpkins: (about 16-20 mini-pumpkins)

Mix together 1 pound almond paste and 12 ounces powdered sugar in food processor. In a separate bowl mix together 6 ounces powdered sugar, enough hot water to make a paste and 3 drops of orange food coloring. Mix with almond paste mixture and knead until the dough is even and uniform in color. Shape into logs, wrap with cellophane and refrigerate for a few hours. To shape pumpkins, break off a piece of marzipan to resemble the size of a walnut. Shape into pumpkin and score the top of each with a small paring knife. Decorate with a tiny piece of parsley just before serving. Set about 8-10 small pumpkins along the edge of the cheesecake.

Pumpkin Cheesecake 2 cups sugar 1 1/2 cup canned plain pumpkin 6 egg yolks 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon 1 teaspoon ginger

3 whole eggs 1/4 cup whipping cream 2 teaspoons cornstarch 1 teaspoon lemon juice

1/2 teaspoon orange juice 1/2 ounce Kahlua

Soften cream cheese and mix all ingredients together, except eggs, in an electric mixer. Add eggs and blend well. Fold in pumpkin mixture, stirring well. Gently pour into prepared springform pans and bake in a preheated oven for 1 hour at 300 degrees, then for 30 minutes longer at 350 degrees. When done, remove to a rack to cool. Refrigerate 6-8 hours before serving. Decorate with piped whipped cream flowers and/

While none of the cookies have preservatives, she said, "The longer they sit, the better they are."

Mandlebread is best when it's seven to 10 days old, and shortbread will keep for weeks in an airtight container. Madison's brother has been testing the cookies' luscious lifespan to see how long he can savor

"He has a package that's eight months old, and says they're just as good, if not better, than the day I gave them to him," she said.

GIVING PEOPLE pleasure through baking is the most satisfying

People will say, 'Oh, mandelbread - my mom used to make it," or, 'I make it myself,'" she said. Their recipe is always the best. Then they taste mine, and they buy a package. Now, that makes me feel

Madison hesitates to share her recipes because customers tell her their cookies don't taste as good as the ones she sells. At the same time, she wants others to get as much joy out of baking as she does. Here is her recipe for mandelbread with chocolate chips, as well as a shortbread recipe from "The Culinary Arts Institute Cookbook."

EVIE MADISON'S MANDEBREAD WITH CHOCOLATE CHIPS 3 cups flour

2 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 cup plus 1 tablespoon oil 1 cup sugar 3 eggs

1 cup chopped pecans 4 ounces chocolate chip cinnamon and sugar for top

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Grease 2 baking sheets. Mix flour, baking powder and sait in medium bowl.
Beat oil, sugar and eggs in large

BUTTER PECAN SHORTBREAD The Culinary Arts Institute Cook-

1 cup butter 15 cup firmly packed light brown

21/4 cups all-purpose flour

% cup finely chopped pecans To prepare shortbread, beat butter until softened; add brown sugar gradually, beating until fluffy. Add flour gradually, beating until well blended. Mix in pecans. Chill dough until easy to handle. On a lightly floured surface, pat and roll dough into a 14-by-10-inch rectangle about 44-inch thick. Cut dough into 24 squares. Divide each square into 4 triangles. Transfer triangles to ungreased cookle sheets. Bake at 300 grees 18-20 minutes, or until lightly browned. Remove to wire racks to stock. It is seasoned and simmered until the vegetables are very soft. The soup doesn't need to be thickened which is a big advantage because the soup can be finished one or two days in advance and reheated

THE SOUP WAS served in a hollowed-out pumpkin, and each individual serving was garnished with baked pumpkin seeds, which had been sprinkled with a cajun seasoning just before they went into the oven. Most often cajun seasoning can be found with the spices in the grocery store. A typical blend is made with paprika, garlic powder and onion powder.

Next, a 20-pound turkey was stuffed with an apple-giblet bread stuffing. Prentice strongly recommended to the students that the leftover, baked stuffing should be discarded after dinner, unless the stuffing was baked in a separate pan instead of the cavity of the turkey. To give the turkey and gravy added flavor, he placed the stuffed, uncooked turkey on a bed of chopped mirepoix - a mixture of diced carrots, onions and celery - and baked it for 30 minutes, Prentice then added 4-gallon of water to the pan, reduced the baking temperature to 325 degrees and continued to bake the turkey until done. "I do this because the gravy is the best part, and the bird will self baste while it's baking," he said.

One of the students asked, "How do I know when the turkey is done?" The chef responded, "Cook the turkey until the thigh easily separates from the joint and the juices in the breast run clear when punctured with a fork."

As the demonstration continued, Prentice prepared an orange-cranberry relish, which was served

AFTER A SHORT intermission, the executive pastry chef, Andrew

McGrath, and his assistant, wife san,, presented a pumpkin cheese cake for a Thanksgiving dinner finale. As his demonstration began, McGrath cautioned the class that "although the filling is very simple to prepare, you must be careful not to overmix it "

The ingredients for this pumpkin cheesecake are very typical. Pumpkin, egg yolks, cream cheese, sugar and spices are in the filling, which is surrounded with a graham-cracker crust. After the cake was baked and unmolded, Susan McGrath explained how to make marzipan mini-pumpkins, to garnish the top of the chilled cheesecake. The ingredients - almond paste, powdered sugar, water and orange food coloring - were blended, and the mixture was refrigerated for a day or two.

Marzipan pumpkins can be shaped days in advance and stored, covered, in the refrigerator until the day they are to be served.

The menu which follows is the complete Thanksgiving dinner menu Matthew Prentice planned and prepared in class.

Take a moment and picture this; the Pacific Ocean in all its deep blue, sparkling beauty on a sunny day in southern California.

Now, picture this: a lovely California contemporary-styled house situated on a little rise, just 100 feet from a sandy beach.

Take a moment and breathe in the smell of the fresh, ocean air. Feel the warm sand between your toes. Listen to the seagulls' plaintive cries as they wheel through the air.

Now, picture a husband coming home from work, loosening his tie as he walks in the door of the abovementioned house and saying, "Guess what, honey. We're moving to De-

This imaginary scenario was played out for real by this week's Winner Dinner Winner, MarkAnn Long. She recently moved with her husband to Birmingham from Redondo Beach, Calif.

Long's winning recipe for Chicken Cilantro is a flavorful dish that was an oft-requested favorite of her four children when they were growing up.

Cilantro, for those of you who are not familiar with it, is a type of parsley that has a refreshing taste. It is an herb that is often used in Mexican cooking, which is such an integral part of West Coast cuisine.

Chicken Cilantro is good for family or company. Long likes to serve the chicken over fresh hot fettucine.

A tossed salad of mixed greens accented with a sprinkling of chopped cilantro and a crisp loaf of French bread to sop up the extra sauce fill out this delicious dinner.

Chocolate chip meringue cookies, whipped up in five minutes and "forgotten" in the oven for an hour or so, offer a sweet ending to a terrific, low-fat dinner.

DESPITE SOME initial trepidation, Long and her husband have fallen in love with Birmingham and the Midwest. The lushness of the trees, the many lakes and the uncrowded open land offer a welcome relief from the miles of jammed freeways and the exorbitant cost of living in

Recipes

CHICKEN CILANTRO

This dish takes about 20 minutes to put together and can be made in advance and reheated The recipe calls for cilantro, also known as Mexican parsley, or Chinese parsley, which can be found at the larger grocery stores. This recipe amply feeds 6

1 pound of boneless, skinned chicken breast, cut into 1-inch pieces

3 tablespoons minced garlic 1/2 large white onion, chopped 1 large or two small bunches of fresh cilantro, finely chopped (this amount can be adjusted. depending on your family's taste)

2 small zucchini squash, sliced diagonally into 1/2-inch pieces 2 small yellow squash, sliced diagonally into 1/2-inch pieces 2 16 ounce cans of tomato sauce

1 can water 3 tablespoons olive oil 2 teaspoons sugar garnish with grated Parmesan

In a large high-sided heavy skillet, add the olive oil. Once heated, add the garlic and onion and saute until lightly browned. Add the chopped cilantro (tops only) and saute for 3-4 minutes. Add the chicken and brown on all sides, about 10 minutes, and then add the remaining ingredients, except for the zucchini and squash. Add salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a hard cook and then simmer for 30 minutes. Add zucchini and squash and cook 10 minutes more Serve over fresh, hot fettucine

Toss with a light Italian salad

FORGOTTEN COOKIES

Busy moms will love this recipe as it literally takes 5 minutes to whip these cookies up. A few drops of red or green food coloring will turn these cookies into festive favorites for the holidays.

1 12-ounce package of chocolate chips 4 large egg whites 11/2 cup granulated sugar

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Beat the egg whites until they are firm. Gradually add the sugar and continue beating until the mixture is firm and forms peaks. Fold in the chocolate chips. Drop by teaspoons onto a greased cookie sheet. Place all the trays into the oven at the same time. Turn off the oven and "forget" about them for an hour or two. Remove when cool. This recipe makes about 3 dozen

Take care with Thanksgiving turkey, other foods

By Lois Thieleke special writer

Holiday time is a great time to entertain family and friends, eat lots of special food and just relax. All too often, however, the holiday is interrupted by an unwelcome case of food-borne illness. Preventing foodporne lliness is no trick. You just need to follow a few food safety tips to ensure that your holiday is a safe

Whether you buy a frozen bird or a fresh one, proper storage temperature is a must. Buy fresh birds one to two days before the holiday and store in the refrigerator. Store frozen birds in the freezer and thaw in the refrigerator. Do not thaw your turkey on the kitchen counter or at room temperature. Remember, it can take up to four or five days to thaw a 20-24 pound bird.

Before you begin cooking, remember to wash your hands, and keep your work area clean throughout the cooking process.

Never use utensils to prepare both raw and cooked foods or foods that will not be cooked (such as salad items) unless you wash utensils be-

Microorganisms from raw food can be transferred to cooked food from an unwashed knife or cutting board. Bacteria will multiply quickly on warm cooked food.

If you plan to stuff your turkey, prepare ingredients the night before. Store dry ingredients together at room temperature. Perishable ingredients such as butter, celery and oysters, need to be stored in the refrigerator. Safer yet is to put the dressing in a separate bowl to bake. In the morning, stuff the turkey immediately before cooking. Do not stuff the turkey the night before; you create a warm, incubator-like condition deep in the cavity of the turkey where microorganisms can multiply

COOK YOUR turkey at 325 degrees. Some recipes may suggest cooking the bird at 200-250 degrees or will start cooking at 450-500 degrees, then reduce the temperature to 200-250 degrees. These methods are unsafe. Turkey should be cooked at 325-350 degrees to ensure that the meat (and -stuffing) are cooked quickly enough to an internal temrature high enough to stop multi plication of microorganisms that can cause food-borne illness. A whole turkey is done when the temperature in the inner thigh reaches 180-185 degrees. The stuffing temperature should reach 165 degrees.

Hot foods - including the turkey, dressing, gravy and other dinner items - should be held at 140 degrees or higher before serving. After the meal is completed, quickly refrigerate or freeze leftovers. Never leave perishable foods such as turkey and dressing at room temperature for more than two hours. Use the refrigerated turkey in two-four days, stuffing in one-two days.

Eggnog is a very popular holiday drink, but homemade eggnog made with raw eggs is a potential source of Salmonella. Salmonella is the bacteria often found in raw or undercooked foods, such as poultry, eggs, meat or unpasteurized milk.

SALMONELLA CAN only be destroyed by heat. We do not recommend the consumption of any ray egg product because of possible Salmonella food poisoning. Eliminate runny fried eggs, Caesar salad dressing made with raw egg or uncooked hollandaise sauce, plus any other product or recipe where the egg is served raw. Instead of making your own eggnog, it is safer to buy a commercial eggnog sold in a grocery store. This product has been pasteurized and is safe to consume without concern of Salmonella as long as the product is handled properly. Store at degrees or colder prior to serving. If you insist on making your own, use a pasteurized egg substitute. These products are made of egg white and a large number of additives, but the key is pasteurized.

portance of refrigeration for every-thing, even the pumpkin pies. Eggrich foods offer a good place for bac-teria to grow. Take extra food handling precautions. Prevention is as easy as following the rules: Keep hot foods hot (over 140 degrees), keep cold foods cold (under 40 des) and keep foods o ter how busy you are, practice good food safety. If you have further questions on food or food safety, call the Oakland County Food and Nutrition Hotline, 858-0904.

Open space: A suburban 'oasis' for wild animals

NATURAL areas in suburban an urban areas are oases for wildlife as ent continues. These areas vide food, shelter and space needed for animals to survive. They also provide suitable places for various plants - which are often scorned by omeowners - to grow.

Walking the trails is one way of getting some exercise, breathing fresh air, and traversing an area to see wildlife and various habitats. But if you really want to see wildlife, one of the most effective ways is to remain still.

Pick a comfortable place along the border between a field and the forest, or along a stream running through the woods or a meadow. By remaining still, movements made by birds and other animals become much more noticeable. When walking, everything is moving, which makes it difficult to observe motion of animals.

Motion is one of the main ways that predators detect their prey.

Frogs that remain motionless can often go undetected by a snake. Wellcamouflaged moths can avoid the scanning eye of a bird.

WILDLIFE watchers can use this same technique to see more creatures when they take the time to visit these natural areas. But people who walk the trails at their local city parks or the metro parks know that there is more to these natural areas. Observing wildlife is one of the reasons people go to these places, but the change of scenery, so to speak, is just as important.

very therapeutic after a busy week. Looking at trees that are not all in a row, or flowers that are not perfectly spaced, helps remove the vision that everything is controlled by man The very lack of manmade objects keeps one from thinking about things they should be doing, could be doing. or should have done.

Sitting in one place and watching the branches sway, clouds drift by, or a woodpecker search for food, allows one to think about the simple things in life. Those times when you are alone with yourself and the natural world provide moments of deep reflection

It does not take long to enjoy the peace of the natural world, but there has to be a place where you can en-

The commonest cause of back pain is muscle strain. The muscles involved start at the tailbone and like overlapping ribbons move up the back from the coccyx to the base of

After a strain, back pain can arise from any of these muscles; the low back is the usual site because this location is the focal point for body weight and pivotal motion of the lumbar spines.

You can distinguish back strain from other causes of back pain because back discomfort starts as a dull ache, then gradually builds up to reach a nearly intolerable level. The pain will suddenly subside and begin again without a discernable cause. In contrast, osteoporosis comes on suddenly and sharply. subsiding only after days or weeks. The pain from cancer or a tumor starts as an

Treatment of back strain consists of daily exercise, heat, and use of proper lifting techniques. You should also try 1-2 times a day, for a period of 10-20 minutes, to lie down on your back while on a hard surface.

Chiefs head for regional

By Bob Stebbins staff writer

A near flawless first nine minutes of basketball Friday powered Plymouth Canton to an impressive 50-25 win over crosstown rival Plymouth Salem in the championship game of the Class A girls basketball district at Northville.

The Chiefs outscored Salem 22-4 to begin the game and were never threatened. The win was the third straight this season for Canton over Canton coach Bob Blohm was pleased with his team's effort in the early going. "Defensively and rebounding-wise, the girls did them-selves proud," he said.

Rocks coach Fred Thomann was also impressed with the play of the "Canton is a very fine basketball team," he said. "They executed well and they had good shot selection. Every time we missed a defensive assignment, they made the shot or made the pass to make the shot. That's why they are 19-3, and that's why they won the game tonight."

Center Susan Ferko spearheaded the early run, scoring 10 of her game-high 22 points during the spurt.

"She (Ferko) had a great game," said Thomann.

THE ABILITY to get to the foul line was also a key for Canton in the early going. At halftime, the Chiefs were 16 of 21 from the charity stripe, while the Rocks had not attempted a free throw.

"Free throwing shooting was a real important factor for us," said

The game was evenly played after Canton's early run. The Chiefs led 28-12 at halftime and 36-21 at the end of three quarters.

The Rocks did make a run midway through the third quarter, cutting the the period. Bad passes, however, on provement of his young ballclub Salem's next two possessions led to a pair of breakaway layups by Jenny players).
"We had a real fine year," he said

Russell and Mary Barna thwarted the comeback. In the fourth quarter, the Rocks closed the score to 38-25 with 5:12 to play on a pair of foul shots by Darcie Miller, but then Ferko took over. The high-scoring senior tallied eight points in a 10-2 run that iced the win. "WE SPREAD our defense at the end and everything was boom, right down low, and she (Ferko) finished every one of them," said Thomann. Another stalwart for the winners was point guard Russell, contributing six points and some strong de-Blohm's team did not worry itself about having to beat Salem for a third straight time.

"It was nothing we could control," he said. "I told them that if they wanted to win a district championship, they would have to beat them for a third time."

The Canton mentor was more afraid of a possible letdown after Wednesday's thrilling 45-42 victory over Livonia Ladywood in the district semifinals.

"I was worried about us being emotionally down after Ladywood, he said. "That was a real hard game for us. They came out ready tonight, though.'

Mercy poise earns district title

By C.J. Risak

Isn't it amazing? A coach can send a half-dozen scouts to check out an opponent, spend days formulating a plan of attack, then pound and preach that plan to his players at endless practice sessions - and what'll happen? Something totally

Which, basically, is what happened at Friday's Class A girls basketball district final at Novi High School. Farmington Hills Mercy, no stranger to state tournament success, subdued a stubborn Walled Lake Western 50-40 to advance to the regional at Berkley High School.

The Marlins will battle Detroit Cass Tech in their regional semifinal at 6 p.m. Monday. The winner of that game advances to Wednesday's 7:30 p.m. final.

No one can fault Mercy coach Larry Baker for preparation. Moments after winning the district championship, he knew of Cass Tech's victory in the Highland Park district. scouting it," Baker said.

WHICH IS why Mercy knew exactly what was necessary to beat Western: Control junior guard Holly Miller. "She triggers their offense," Baker said. "We wanted as much pressure on her as possible. Their offense comes through her. We were very concerned about her penetration."

Now, here's where it gets tricky. After all, there's a pretty good coach on the other bench, too. Bill St. John guided Western to a 15-7 record, and last year it was his Warriors that put Mercy out of the state tournament.

'We knew that," he said when questioned about Mercy's defensive plan for Miller. "I told Holly before the game she's not going to get 12 or 15 points but she would have 10 assists."

Miller did get 10 points, but largely was not a factor thanks to the defense of Jenny Clinton. Clinton played well at both ends of the floor, scoring nine points and dishing out 10 assists.

Still, the difference came from other sources: Mercy's bench and Western's shooting.

"IF YOU had told me we'd finish this game running our stack offense, which we haven't run in two months, I wouldn't have believed you," said Baker. The Marlins didn't have much choice, however; entering the final quarter, four key players had three personal fouls each. "Inadvertantly, it tested our bench," the Mercy coach said. "And our bench came through.

Of course, it certainly helped to have Clinton running the show and Joanne Stephens shooting holes in Western's defensive plans. The senior forward finished with a game-high 19 points. "The Vengeance, it's been said, is sweet. Schoolcraft College's womens soccer team may never know. Last year, some dubious decisions orchestrated by Monroe (N.Y.) CC coach Chuck Salamone resulted in SC - then the defending National Junior College Athletic Association champion - not securing an NJCAA tournament berth. Salamone's Monroe team went instead.

That provided this year's team with all the incentive it needed. Unfortunately, it didn't provide the Lady Ocelots with any satisfaction: They lost 3-1 Friday to Monroe in the NJCAA semifinals at Mercer CC in Trenton, N.J.

The loss was SC's second to Monroe this season, dropping it to 11-4-2 for the season. On Saturday, the Lady Ocelots played for third place in the tournament. Monroe advanced to play NJCAA defending champion Florissant Valley (St. Louis) CC Sunday.

SC WAS in a hole from the start against Monroe. Tammy Page, an All-American candidate at forward, drilled a 30-yard shot past keeper Tisha Guido that put Monroe in front 1-0.

By halftime it was 2-0, thanks to a score off a corner kick that was headed toward the far post, then deflected in off the foot of SC defender Gina Carozzo.

'We had some good chances when it was 2-0," said SC coach Nick O'Shea. "But we missed, then we gave up a garbage goal."

A 30-yard floater got past Guido in the second half to give Monroe a commanding 3-0 advantage. The Lady Ocelots finally got. on the board with 15 minutes left when Cindy Bowman knocked in a shot, with Shannon Meath assisting.

"The girls kept going," said O'Shea. "They played real hard right to the end."

Lady Ocelots fall SC spikers aim to repeat

By C.J. Risak staff writer

OK, so Schoolcraft College won't be able to sneak up and surprise people at this year's National Junior College Athletic Association volleyball finals, like it did last year when it came away with the title - despite being the smallest team in the tournament.

But don't think the Lady Ocelots won't have a few surprises in store for the 15 other teams that will gather Monday at Miami Dade-South College for a three-day tournament that will decide just who is best.

SC enters the tournament as the sixth seed not much respect for a defending national champ, is it? But four of the players who were in great part responsible for that title — Nikki Stubbs, Chris Paciero, Marla Evans and Sarah Heddle have departed for four-year schools.

(Editor's note: Paciero, Evans and Heddle - all juniors - have helped transform Florida Southern into an NCAA Division II powerhouse. The team was expecting to receive an NCAA II tournament bid Sunday.)

Still, coach Tom Teeters thinks this team has a solid shot at repeating. After all, despite a major rebuilding job, the Lady Ocelots did win 43 of 52

BUT TWO of their losses came at the Jefferson College (Mo.) Tournament, probably the most prestigious pre-NJCAA event. SC finished third, osing to Dade 15-11, 18-9 and to No. 1-ranked Barton (Kan.) CC 18-12, 4-18, 18-18. Those results were disappointing, but Testers plans to turn them to the Lady Occiots' advan-

"We think we can surprise Miami," he said. "We missed quite a few serves against them."

SC will get a chance to surprise Miami the first day. Dade, seeded third, is in the same four-team pool as the Lady Ocelots, together with Haggerstown (Md.) and Chowan (S.C.).

SC opens against Haggerstown at 9 a.m. today, which worries Teeters. Haggerstown has a 44-0 overall record, 38-0 against junior college teams. "I don't know anything about them," admitted

After Haggerstown, SC will play Chowan at 1 p.m. and Dade at 7 p.m. today. The top two teams in the four pools are then put into two four-team groups for Tuesday's matches, which will have the top four teams playing the bottom four. The semifinals and finals in the double-elimination tournament are Wednesday.

There are two good reasons for Teeters' optimism. Both are changes.

FIRST, THE Lady Ocelots have adjusted their lineup since the Jefferson College Tournament. "We're a much better team than we were at Jefferson," claimed Teeters.

The new lineup has altered players' roles. Angellette Love is counted on for more blocking up front; Alisha Love and JoAnne Kolnitys fill the middle back defensively; and setter Jenny Sproul is on the right side blocking, instead of sliding into the middle, as she did occasionally. "That allows her to be a much more offensive player," said Teeters.

Also, Holly Brachel and Kirsten Stelner worked their way into the lineup. Brachel, was injured in a car accident in August — of the season, but has since come on strong.

"She's probably our top outside hitter right now," said Teeters. Subbing for Brachel on the front row is Elena

Oparka, another fine outside hitter. Cathy Cdak goes in for Stelzer on the back row. Teeters has a lot of faith in his line

"The first time we used it was at Oakland University," he said. "We lost, but I knew it was the lineup I wanted. The second time we used it was against (University of) Windsor, and we won."

TEETERS ALSO used it at the NJCAA Region 12 Tournament, and its effectiveness was all too apparent: SC won 10-straight games and four consecutive matches en route to the title.

The other reason for SC's success is serving. "This team is probably the toughest serving team we've ever had at Schoolcraft," Teeters said. "And at the beginning of the year, it was probably the worst."

Since that shaky start, Testers has reworked the serving styles of Angellette Love, Coak and Brachel. All three have become far more effec-tive. With Alisha Love's very difficult spin serve, the Lady Ocelots have become perhaps the serving team in the NJCAA — a weapon to lows them to control the tames.

I was them to control the tempo of a match.

Even if their opponents return the serve, it of a results in a free ball, since, as Testers said, they can't get anything on the serve. ten results in a free

Ankle sprains most commonathleticinjury

Dear Myrna: I have repeatedly injured my ankle. I've been told my last injury was a sprain. This time I've been treating the problem myself by wrapping it in an Ace bandage. I'm tired of this problem.

This injury might be different from the others. You must see an orthopedic physician and not assume anything yourself. Ankle sprains are of the most common, acute athletic injury.

Do you remember a sudden twist or perhaps a fall?

If you have a sprain, the degree of the sprain must be determined by your doctor. The degree of sprain determines treatment necessary and how long it takes before resuming regular activities. The seriousness of a moderate or severe sprain should not be underestimated.

Improper treatment may result in a chronically unstable ankle that is prone to repeated injury. This forces limitation in sports activities. causes early arthritis in the ankle joint and eventually may result in the need for surgery.

You must take this injury more seriously than you have in the past. See your doctor. You may also require physical therapy. Sorry.

Livonia Franklin learned Friday that a woman's work is never done. The Patriots mounted what appeared to be a comfortable 27-14 halftime advantage, but held on for dear life in the final quarter before edging stubborn Garden City in the Class A district girls basketball final it Wayne Memorial, 38-35.

Franklin (18-3) now advances to regional at 6 tonight at Dearborn Edsei Ford. The Patriots will face fellow Western Lakes Activities Assocration member Farmington (9-13). The second game of the double-header features Taylor Center and Detroit Northwestern.

We got a little sloppy and when the score got tight, we got tight," said Franklin coach Dan Freeman. "But when it came down to the wire, we seemed to dig down and we held in there.'

The Patriots, coming off a big win Wednesday (68-40) over host Wayne, may have been guilty of planning ahead for the regional.

But whatever momentum Franklin carried into the locker room at halftime quickly evaporated in the third quarter.

Franklin gets by Hawks slide into state final, 3-2

Farmington Hills Harrison played its Class B semifinal football game on a sheet of ice, so it was no surprise a hockey score resulted.

The Hawks, their potent offense stymied by a slick and slippery artificial surface in Flint Atwood Stadium, got a 30-yard field from senior Steve Hill to edge East Grand Rap-

The teams arrived for the crucial playoff game Friday night to find the field covered with ice, which turned the site into something resembling a skating rink instead of a gridiron and made traction near impossible.

"I'm glad we won and get to go to the Dome," Harrison coach John Herrington said, "but we'll never know how good East Grand Rapids is or how they might have done against us - and vice versa."

Conditions were so bad referee Joe Kavulich halted play between the first and second quarters and asked for an opinion from Michigan High School Athletic Association officials on whether or not to continue

That resulted in a 20-minute delay, and the teams were sent to their locker rooms while state, game and school officials debated the issue. Jack Roberts, executive director of the MHSAA, decided the game would continue since a better alternative site was not available.

Neither Herrington nor East coach George Barcheski wanted to play the game under such circumstances Friday.

"They won and let's leave it at that," Barcheski said. "We missed out on seeing a great quarterback (Mill Coleman of Harrison) and one helluva fullback (Brian Davis) on our

The Hawks, who are 12-0 and have won 25 consecutive games, will make their third straight appearance in the Pontiac Silverdome for the Class B championship game at 8 p.m. Saturday. Defending champ for the second time in this decade, having won Class B honors in 1901 and Class A the next year.

"We had a goal to get to the Dome," Harrison senior Joe George said, "and we'd like to win it for

The victory that sent the Hawks to the Dome for the fifth time in nine years might have been a costly one, nowever. Hill, who also plays swing-back and inside linebacker, suffered what was believed to be a broken leg after booting the winning field goal and being hit by East linebacker Jamie Billo.

"Fortunately, Steve put it through the uprights," Herrington said, "and unfortunately it was his last high school kick

"That could have happened in any game. I can't say the field caused the injury; I can't go that far."

On the slick surface, Harrison was forced to alter its approach and play a more conservative game than it normally does.

The Hawks passed only from the shotgun formation and ran out of the power-I most of the night, ramming the ball at East as George and Hill blocked for tailback Matt Conley, who carried 21 times for 73 yards He also had a 7-yard scoring run nullified by a holding penalty late in the first half.

"(Conley) was slipping before he could get to the line," Coleman said, but our line was doing a good job for the conditions, blowing them away and opening holes.'

"It's a horrifying feeling to know you might as well throw out the offense you worked on all year," Herrington said. "We ran no sprintout, no bootleg, none of the things Mill does

Coleman attempted only 10 passes, completing two for 24 yards and having one intercepted. Ironically, Sam Middleton, quarterback for the run-oriented Pioneers, was more

Taking a flying leap

Ed Lamb and Eric Bryson don't quake in their shoes when someone tells them to "take a flying leap." They don't get upset when they're hit with a bottle either. Why? These are the men behind Silver Screen Stunts, the men who teach others how to do the things that astound and amase film-goers day in and day out. Please turn to Page 8D.

A 'Broad-way' to make it in films

You are sitting at home being a couch potato when a commercial comes on and you start thinking, "Hey, I could

Well, you might be right, according to Sandra Broad, president of the Performance Workshops, which trains actors to work in commercials and industrial films.

"For television commercials, about anyone can do it; it's a 30- or 60-second spot," she said. "A good director can get a good performance from anyone. What most people need is to move naturally on camera."

Broad's students range in age from children to senior citizens and in experience from newcomers to acting veterans.

Her workshops focus on helping actors break into television, film and radio as opposed to techniques used in the

"Our main beginning class is on essential audition techniques," she said. "It's on how an actor gets work and marketing themselves."

"I prepare them for working on a set. I've worked with my students on sets and they say it was like I told them it would be, no surprises." Students perform mock auditions and commercials as part of their class work. They also receive instructions about being camera ready, Broad said.

"That means showing up on time, memorizing your lines and not bumping into the furniture," she said. "I say I'm not a teacher; I'm just their guide."

MOST ACTORS don't work in commercials or industrial films as their ultimate goal, Broad said, but it provides income, experience and opportunities to break into the business.

"Detroit is one of the largest markets for industrial films in the country and it's one of the best kept secrets," she said. "There aren't a lot of people who come to Detroit trying to become a star, but you can get film credits to get

The Detroit market includes many industrial films being produced for companies with national headquarters in the Detroit area, including the auto companies, K mart and Unisys.

The headquarters or major offices for top advertising agencies in the area also provide a great deal of work for actors, according to Broad.

"The bulk of the market here is industrials and that is a tremendously good training ground," she said. "People have god given talent and I have to draw that out and motivate them."

An actress with 300 industrial films and too many commercials to count to her credit, Broad began the Performance Workshops five years ago.

Starting out with a few students in her Mount Clemens home, Broad had her own space in Berkley until May. She now teaches out of Paladin Productions on Ten Mile Road in Southfield.

Paladin Productions started out basically as an audio production house, said owner John Paladin. A former disc jockey, he teaches audio techniques for the Performance Workshops.

"TALENT HELPS talent," he said. "You're in a catch-22 situation. You can't get work without the tools, and you can't get the tools without money. Here is where people can break that."

Non-union work and smaller production companies regularly use student performers, according to Broad and Paladin, which helps them get audio and visual tapes needed for auditons.

Students also can work in Paladin's own audio productions, including information on hold tapes, a hot part of the market which produces information tapes that telephone called hear while being left on hold.

In addition to Broad and Paladin, Performance Workshops often brings in working professional actors, casting directors and other industry as instructors.

Classes are scheduled in 10-week sessions three times annually along with six-week follow-up classes.

MOVING PICTURES

'Steel Magnolias' doesn't measure up as a movie

MacLaine's acting is outstanding

"Steel Magnolias" (B-, PG, 110 minutes) is a major albeit unsatisfying motion picture which never quite measures up - nor does it ever fully utilize the potential of its talented

One reason for its inadequacy stems from Robert Harling's scenario based on his play. There, the action took place in Truvy Jones' (Dolly Parton) beauty parlor.

Those sequences remain the best of "Steel Magnolias" as six gals gather to gossip about goings-on in their small, Louisiana town all-thewhile Truvy and her assistant, Annelle Dupuy Desoto (Daryl Hannah), work their cosmetic magic.

That tight, interior focus sharply presents these women and their personal, psychological and familial

In Truvy's, we learn about her predicament, Annelle's and the joys and sorrows in the lives of their four best customers - M'Lynn Eatenton (Sally Field), her daughter Shelby (Julia), Ouiser Bourdreaux (Shirley MacLaine) and Clairee Belcher (Olympia Dukakis).

Once the film leaves Truvy's and tries to visualize the girls' gossip, things get troublesome. Abrupt cutting may be intended to mirror abrupt emotional transitions but it turns out choppy, confusing or strange, most notably when Sally Fields flips from tragic hysteria to silly laughter in the cemetery. That may be the way the real world works but this is the movies, folks. Films have to "seem" rather than ANOTHER PROBLEM is how their men are presented. It's one thing to talk about them, another to have them characterized by actors. As it turns out, all the men are onedimensional figures who detract rather than add to the film.

It's never clear why Truvy's husband, Spud (Sam Shepherd), is such a languid, unmotivated lay-about nor why M'Lynn's Drum (Tom Skerritt) is such a grinning fool. Jackson (Dyland McDermott), Shelby's husband, is a mere shadow of a human being.

While this is a woman's movie that properly minimizes male roles, it is so overdone that when these male characters are called upon to do something, their actions are ineffec-

All six actresses are excellent in their southern accents although it's difficult to hear Olympia Dukakis as anything but an eastern-accented speaker of English. That's how strong her previous performances have been.

Shirley MacClaine, however, is terrific and well worth the trip to your local Bijou but the screenplay doesn't do justice to the talent of the other five actresses.

Clearly, this is a woman's movie where six gals sit around a beauty parlor and gab. Ultimately, that gossipy quality undermines the impact of the great courage and human spirit the film intends to celebrate.

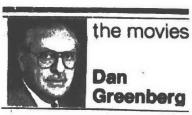

The holiday season is just around the corner and three new films for children of all ages have just opened United Artist's "All Dogs Go To Heaven," Disney's "The Little Mermaid" and Orion's "Prancer."

Walt Disney's "The Little Mermaid" (A, G, 80 minutes) is taken from a Hans Christian Anderson tale, the story of a lovely mermaid, Ariel, who falls in love with a human prince, Eric.

By John Monaghan special writer

Last weekend, the Detroit Film Theatre screened "The 400 Blows (1959), Francois Truffaut's first feature about a boy on the run in Paris. The director — hoping to bring his career full circle — was working on a companion piece to that film be-fore his untimely death in 1984.

"The Little Thief," playing this weekend at the DFT, is based on that final screenplay and directed by longtime Truffaut collaborator Claude Miller. It's the closest thing to a new Truffaut film that we're ever likely to see.

When you tune in public access cable television, you pretty much know what to expect - a local cinema verite of town meetings and high school sports.

But, wait, what's this on the Bloomfield Hills cable channel? Tone Loc discussing his new album? Debbie Gibson talking about her upcoming tour? Surely, there must be some mistake. This can't be community access television.

It's no mistake, it's "VTV-Special Report, Rock Interviews," a music video show airing every Wednesday at 7 p.m. on local cable TV.

'Special Report" doesn't look like local television. It's a professional, flashy show with MTV-style graphics and loads of famous guests, including Was (Not Was), The Information Society and Cinderella.

"Special Report" was created two years ago by Neil Mandt, a Birmingham Lahser High School graduate. If ever something could be called a one-man-show, this is it.

Mandt writes, directs, produces, edits and hosts every show. Because he does so much for the show, Mandt used the name Neil Charles on some of the credits.

We caught up with Mandt in his Bloomfield Hills home, sitting in an office which is decorated primarily with rock'n'roll posters and empty cigarette packages.

"This is my desk," said Mandt. gesturing to an open briefcase on the floor with papers heaped on top of it. Mandt realized the power of bluffing in 1987, when he decided he wanted to have U2 on the show.

"I CALLED up the record company and said I wanted to interview U2," Mandt said. "I said I was with this big show called VTV, which was really nothing at the time."

The record company didn't grant Mandt the interview, but they did Mandt began to establish credibility with the record companies and so Virgin Records offered him an interview with the decidedly non-famous group Balom and the Angel. The interview became the first edition of "Special Reports."

Perhaps the Call's lack of recogni-

After the show aired, Mandt had to return to college, but he knew that by the following summer, he wanted to do more with "Special Reports."

He met Debbie Gibson at a New Year's party in New York and asked her to be a guest on his show. She agreed, and Bloomfield Hills Cable allowed Mandt to borrow video equipment to take to her concert.

"I taped the show on Sunday, edited it on Monday, and it was shown on Tuesday," Mandt said. The show was so popular that Bloomfield Hills 'Cable aired it practically every day for six months.

for "Special Reports." Mandt has secured interviews with some of the hottest performers passing through Detroit and the show now airs on United Cable, Booth Cable and Continental Cable. He hopes to syndicate the show on National College Television and would like to win the College Emmy award to fund more episodes of "Special Reports."

MANDT SHOWED a tape of an early version of "Special Reports' and a tape of one of the more recent shows. The difference is remarkable.

The early show featured the usual local cable fare. The camera was stationary, the sound quality poor, and a roadie for Balom and the Angel walked right in front of the camera. The recent show was as good as any music show on MTV. A flashy new opening sequence had been added, Mandt spoke in front of a backdrop with a montage of projected graphics of some of "Special Reports" finer moments, and rap artist Tone Loc was featured in an inter-

Though Mandt has been able to secure interviews with top groups, he is also interested in showcasing smaller, less famous hands

"As a video show, we want to present the gamut and this includes new acts as well as the better know, bigger bands," he said.

BEING IN front of the camera is not new to Mandt. At the age of 10, he walked onto the set of "Word of Honor," which was being filmed nearby, and asked producer Alex Karras how to get into show business. Within six weeks, Mandt had landed an acting job in a commer-

PUMP

— Aerosmith

"Pump" (Geffen) shouldn't even be a good record, much less a great record. It is the product of an aging dinosaur rock outfit which broke up rather appropriately as the '70s drew to a close, only to reform when the members' splinter groups and solo projects were shown to have limited earning potential.

. Aerosmith's main drawing cards, lead singer Steven Tyler, and guitarist Joe Perry both allowed various excesses to get so far out of hand that they almost managed to wrest the "walking death" crown from the shambling shell of a man known as

And their last record, while entertaining, was the result of the band's reluctant collaboration with ghostwriters Desmond Child and Jim Vallance, who were called in when Perry and Tyler couldn't come up with enough songs for an LP.
On "Pump," Child and Vallance are credited with help on three songs (as opposed to the seven they racked up on "Permanent Vacation"), and these songs are the weakest on a very strong record. Perhaps years of detox have finally shaken the cobwebs from the Tyler/Perry songwriting team.

Ultimately, "Pump's" success must be attributed to Aeroemith's refund to content themselves with being just a hard rock band. Surthey still pack a wallop, and Tyles still tosses off lyrics like, "I've got a girlfriend with the hootchie-cootchie eyes . . . She's got the crackerjack. but all I want's the prize," but the songs are much more than adolescent hormone percolators.

Aerosmith has a remarkable talent for incorporating elements of other rock genres into their hard rock approach. "Don't Get Mad, Get Even" nods in the direction of Delta Blues before Joe Perry's Les Paul gets ornery. Throughout the album, the band lays down harmonies so cleah and so pretty, they are at times reminiscent of Brian Wilson

"Permanent Vacation's" cover of "I'm Down" revealed Acrosmith as a group of unrepentant Beatle fans. "Pump" continues this acknowledgment, with piccolo trumpet flourishes that recall "Penny Lane," a snippet of raga that sounds like a Harrison/Shankar effort, and an autorism which made words and

FRANK - Squeeze

Meet the new Squeeze, same as the old Squeeze.

"Frank," the latest release from the veteran British pop outfit, won't win over any new fans, but it will keep old Squeeze fans happy. That's called playing it safe.

Aside from the an excursion or two into rockabilly ("Melody Motel," "Is It too Late"), the tunes on "Frank" could have appeared on any of the group's blockbuster LPs that put them on the pop map 10 years ago. Like their earlier work, 'Frank" is full of well-crafted melodies that are shamelessly pop and proud of it. But hearing this 50 times a day would beat the usual forcefeeding of Top 40 fare that hit radio

Difford and Tilbrook display their storytelling talent on "Rose I Said," musical carbon copy of "Hourglass" from the band's last album. They also prove that they can write dulk sappy songs, too, as "Can of Worms" and "Peyton Place" exemplify. For good measure, they include a perfectly awful song asbut the joys of menstruation —"She Doesn't Have to Shave."

A final note to highlight is key-boardist Jools Holland's sole boardist Jools Holland's sole songwriting contribution to "Frank," the plane-laden ditty, "Dr. Jazz." The jazzy tune is but a brief depar-ture from the safe, traditional pop-that prevades "Frank." Why fix something that isn't broken? — John Cortes

. How dry

To key on the cutting edge of suburban culture, I personally sample as many entertainment trends as possible. This weekend, I tried out the hot new concept in dinner theater - a restaurant on Telegraph where the food on your plate puts on

My wife ordred oriental stir-fry and heard a few numbers from "Madame Butterfly" before eating the soprano bean sprout. My spaghetti performed two acts of "Carmen," led by a surprisingly versatile pair of meatballs. For a grand finale, a tray of French pastries staged the barricade scene from "Les Miser-

As tuneful as the entrees were, a trip to the men's room struck a sour - apparently local gourmets have been maiming themselves left and right in the washroom!

How do I know this? Because I saw the proof with my own eyes. While waiting for the check to arrive, I excused myself and went to the lavatory. After washing my hands, I turned and reached for the towel dispenser. It was then I saw what would turn my carefree night of musical food into a somber reflection on the brevity and uncertainty Badly shaken, I slumped against the sink, knowing I had narrowly escaped a brush with death.

On the wall, in front of me was the familiar white metal box with a loop of white cloth hanging below it. Each tug on the towel was designed to pull down about 10 inches of unused fabric to dry your hands. At least, that's the use it was intended for. How naive I was . . .

THERE, ON the outside of the harmless looking box was a label I'd gever seen before, a label I am not making up: "WARNING: Do not attempt to hang from towel, or insert your head into the towel loop. Failure to follow these simple instructions can be harmful or injurious."

Thank goodness I read the warning in time! Imagine the tragedy if I'd been in a playful mood: As minutes turned into hours, my distraught wife would send a waiter to investigate my absence - "Ma'am, can you identify these shoes sticking out of the towel machine? Apparently, your husband couldn't follow directions and got himself rolled up in the dispenser somehow.'

As I wiped my hands on my pants, memories of reckless, crazy days before the warning was posted filled my head. How often I had felt the urge to hang from the towel but for some unknown reason decided not to! How many times had I longed to insert my head in the towel loop and buff my ears, but was interrupted in the nick of time!

Sure, I had been lucky. But what about the countless injuries that must have prompted this new warning label? Were they accidents or were they just the latest way suburbanites cheated death to get their

Perhaps this scene has even happened to you: You're waiting to enjoy a delicious meal at your favorite cafe and decided to wash up. Carefully, following instructions, you "pull down gently with both hands," when suddenly out comes a careless diner! Before you can dry your hands on his tie, his paper-thin body spools out, knocking you to the floor beneath coils of corpus delicti.

THROUGH NO fault of your own, a perfect evening is ruined by someone who tried to dry their hands after having too much to drink! And that's the real danger, folks. Even though you may obey the restroom rules, you can still be victimized by some joker who plays it fast and loose with the towel machine.

Can I get very serious for a moment? Everything you do affects every other passenger on this small spaceship we call the earth. Although it might seem like harmless fun for a consenting adult to insert his head into the towel loop, it can scare the gazpacho out of innocent customers.

Like members of a giant ant farm. we have a solemn responsibility to each other. Always remember, "no man is an island" (although Jackie Gleason once registered at a hotel as a peninsula).

People, it's time we looked a the long-range consequences of our actions. When Scientists invent a deadly new disease, they must stop and consider the inconvenience it may cause for doctors who tee off twice a week. When a couple engages in premarital dwarf tossing, they must stop and think of the embarrassment it may cause their family and

Hopefully, the day will eventually come when every object in a public restroom will have its own warning

Stop fighting with hubby

I separated from my bushand six months ago, and now I am involved in a messy, hostile divorce.

We have two children ages 6 and 8 who are living with him in our family home. I left the house because he wouldn't. The children are with me in my parents' home (this is temporary) every other week.

My husband wants joint custody. I am vehemently opposed to such arrangements for two reasons. Number one, I think it is confusing to live in two places, and number two, my husband and I are fighting vociferously all the time. A: Pan American and TWA both fly from Detroit to JFK and on to Europe, so many people take their Detroit-New York flights even if they are catching another airline flight from New York. Fares are usually reasonable

To find any toll-free number call information by dialing (800) 555-1212. They'll tell you that Pan Am is (800) 221-1111 and TWA is (800) 221-

My husband recently flew Detroit to JFK en route to India and chose not to fly TWA or Pan Am because their afternoon flights got in around 5 p.m. and he didn't want to take a chance on being late for his 6 p.m. check-in. Airlines that fly primarily overseas are also sometime late or overbooked.

He chose USAir, even though he had to change planes in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh, because he wanted to arrive at JFK early in the afternoon.

USAir, which absorbed Piedmont Airlines this year, flies to hundreds of large and small towns, primarily in the eastern United States. Call toll-free (800) 428-4322.

I personally think JFK is a zoo, and I avoid it whenever possible. Northwest airlines has non-stop flights from Detroit to Paris on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday and from Detroit to Frankfurt on Monday, Thursday and Saturday. They fly Detroit to London daily with a change at Boston, which is North-west's main hub to Europe. I guess they got tired of JFK, too.

Call Northwest toll-free at (800)

Here is another alternative: Fly British Airways Detroit to London, with a stop at Montreal. Those of you who don't want to go that far might like to know that BA will also fly Detroit to Toronto daily through March 31. They leave Detroit at 5:45 p.m., arrive in Toronto at 6:55 p.m. daily; leave Toronto at 2:20 p.m., arrive in Detroit at 3:45 p.m.

Roundtrip mid-week fares are $98. Call toll free (800) AIRWAYS.

Dave Coulier is looking forward to doing his stand-up comedy act at the Mainstreet Cornedy Showcase in Ann Arbor - not that he doesn't like his regular job as a co-star of ABC's toprated "Full House" on Friday even-

In fact, he loves playing "Full House" funnyman Uncle Joey Gladstone, one of three men exploring the joys of "motherhood" as they bring up three young girls.

But performing stand-up comedy keeps him fresh. Coulier, whose roots are in stand-up comedy, says doing it is as much fun as ever for

"It's a lot of fun. I've been a comic for 12 years, and so I really enjoy it. That's the bottom line: I continue to

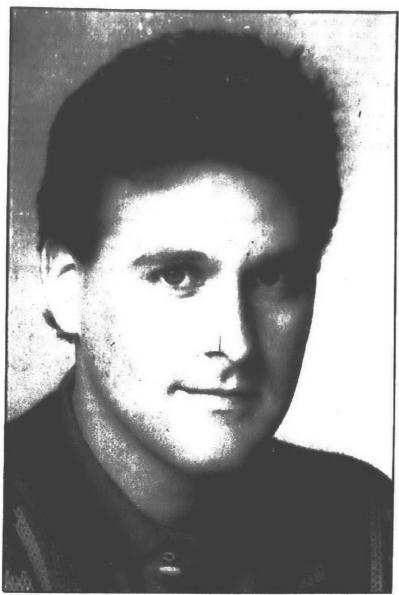

THE ENGAGEMENT also brings Coulier home for Thanksgiving. He is a St. Clair Shores native. The middle child of five, Coulier visits his family and girlfriend in Michigan at least once a month.

"Needless to say, I have a lot of bonus mileage."

Coulier talked last week in a morning telephone interview from his North Hollywood home. "Full House" scripts had been delivered to his house at 4:30 a.m. that morning. At 8 a.m. he was busy going over them. The scripts are changed daily before the final taping on Thursday and Friday, he said.

HIS HOUSE, complete with hot tub, pool and leather furniture, reflects the success that Coulier, 30, enjoys. But he has paid dues.

Coulier may have discovered his talent for comedy at Detroit's Notre Dame High School. There he gained a comic reputation from impromptu shows in the school cafeteria - he would sometimes find himself sitting around telling jokes for up to 30 classmates, he said. He also once put on a show in a local auditorium for 900 people.

HE WENT to Detroit rock station WABX-FM for six months of doing commercial voice-overs and writing advertising copy. Coulier then started doing gigs at local comedy clubs and became a regular at Comedy Castle and a now-defunct club called the Delta Lady.

That was one of the minutes that really stick out in my mind."

'People say 'oh, well, you made it in a relatively short time.' I say, 12 years isn't that short . . .'

Dave Coulier

Coulier wanted to appear on a prime time television show To do so, he went to acting school for four

He kept his stand-up comedy honed while performing regularly on the Tonight Show and on such specials as HBO's Detroit Comedy Jam, Showtime's Laugh-A-Thon and the Arts and Entertainment network's Evening at the Improv

IN ADDITION, Coulier did extensive voice work — something he still does. His is the voice behind several successful animated television series, and he incorporates his character voices into his stand-up comedy routine

That all led to his "making it" on the "Full House" series wasn't overnight success.

"People say 'oh, well, you made it in a relatively short time." I say, 12 years isn't that short. There were a lot of failures along the way

"I THINK THAT you work towards a goal and you do it every day of your life. I think the harder you work, the better your chances are of receiving luck.

Coulier, who is under contract for three more seasons of "Full House," intends to stay with the show.

'I'm going to ride this one out, have as much fun with it as I can and really enjoy it."

He will also continue working on his other projects, which include helping to write an HBO special.

And, of course, Coulier will continue to do stand-up comedy for which he hits the road more than 40 weeks a year performing at comedy clubs

Coulier hopes for a "full house" for his performance next week.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg special writer

Mickey Rourke is a pretty good actor but seems to be specializing in unpleasant roles about characters you'd just as soon not meet. "91/6 Weeks" and "Angel Heart" are two grim, unsavory Rourke films that have garnered major attention recently.

"Homeboy" (R, 1988, color, 108 minutes), an International Video Entertainment release due Nov. 22, is another example, but not what you want to grace your Thanksgiving

The package is mis-marked at 158 minutes running time. Fortunately "Homeboy" is 50 minutes less than that - which is enough grime, grit and gore for any holiday palate.

Johnny Walker (Rourke) is a broken-down club fighter who has a tremendous inner rage — why is never explained — and the film opens as he comes to town looking more like a cowboy than a fighter.

There's a pretty interesting scene in a bar by the bus station while he waits for his manager. Soon Johnny is deeply involved in the seamy world of club fighting. One of the hangers-on, Wesley Pendergast (Christopher Walken), tries to get Johnny involved in a life of crime. Wesley is about as rotten as they come and Walken's portrait is well

On the brighter side, Johnny meets Ruby (Dehra Feuer), a gal who runs a seaside amusement park. She's the stereotypical sweetheart who stands as a symbol of good amidst all the sleaze. This phase of the film is not as drippy as it could be, but pretty

For Nov. 22, the package is the old west at its best, four films from Twentieth Century Fox - "The Bravados" (1958, 99 minutes), "Broken Lance," (1954, 96 minutes), "Buffalo Bill" (1944, 90 minutes) and "Western Union" (1941, 95 minutes). None are rated, but all are acceptable by today's standards.

"The Bravados" features Gregory Peck as a grim stranger seeking vengeance for the rape and murder of his wife. Joan Collins, Stephen Boyd, Albert Salmi and Henry Silva also are featured

"Broken Lance" is set in late 19th century Arizona with Matthew Devereax (Spencer Tracey) as the cattle baron in conflict with his sons, played by Richard Widmark and Hugh O'Brian. There's another son in this all-star cast, Joe (Robert Wagner) whose mother (Kathy Jurado) is

'It's just another day

By Pat Schutte special writer

Tell someone to "go jump off a bridge." You'll probably hear, "Yeah, same to you, pal" in return.

Now, if Ed Lamb tells someone to jump off a bridge he's most likely to hear "Sure, Ed, how much?"

"How much?" What kind of answer is that? "No way" or "Yeah, right, Ed" seem to be more appropriate answers.

But for Lamb, "how much" is the answer he always hears. Lamb is co-founder of Silver Screen Stunts, the only production company in the metropolitan area that offers the service of professional stuntmen. Lamb is producer/director of Silver The other half of Silver Screen Stunts is Eric Bryson, a former martial arts instructor and award-winning black belt fighter. Bryson, who founded the Action Stunt Academy in Windsor, a school for potential stuntmen, is the "action" that goes with Lamb's "lights . . . camera."

Silver Screen Stunts came about when Lamb noticed a picture in a local newspaper of a guy setting another guy on fire. The Detroit skyline was the backdrop. The two guys in the photograph were Bryson and his stunt partner Kevin Briand, both Windsor residents.

Lamb convinced Bryson to take him on as a student/director and Silver Screen Stunts was born.

LAMB, WHO HAS been working professionally behind the camera in the Detroit area for some 20 years, believes the key to Silver Screen Stunts at present is to raise the awareness of the importance of stunts to non-broadcasting advertising.

"Our goal is to show that stunts can add action and hold the attention of people viewing marketing and training films . . . industrial type films," said Lamb, who served in the U.S. Army infantry airborne and has an extensive background in theater. "I share what I've learned about stunts with potential custom-

One of Silver Screen's recent customers was the League of Women Voters and a piece on quality drinking water. Lamb directed the re-enactment of environmental-related accidents that can occur with the help of his stuntment. *

The application of stunts to industrial-type films is unlimited,

Lamb said.

'Like in a shifety film, a guy involved in a graphic accident involves the sudience to a point where they're asking themselves 'Hôw would I feel in this situation?' he said 'Stunts grasp people's attention and get them to participate."

ANOTHER FIRM, Roxy Teleproductions Inc. in Dearborn, is using Silver Screen to liven up a Contail training program.

Rozane Firmin of Roxy Teleproductions said Silver Screen is "going to incorporate stunts with fantasy to show the consequences of improper procedure." The stunts include some spectacular falls and a dummy (dressed like an actor) getting his foot smashed between two trains.

"People say 'Yeah, another training tape,' "Firmin said.
"For a little extra money, you can maximize your effort and the interest of the viewer by using some sort of stunt. This adds an element of suspense to an otherwise boring film."

Stuntmen, or stuntwomen, can make some pretty good money these days. The average daily pay for a stuntman is around $500. Fees go from a minimum of $100 to tens of thousands of dollars, depending on the stunt. And if the stuntman yells, "I drink Coke," before he gets nailed by a car, "he gets a pay bump," Lamb said with a laugh.

One of the most dangerous stunts for a stunt man is being on fire, but Eric Bryson makes it look easy.

In spite of the jokes, becoming a stuntman is serious business, according to Lamb and Bryson.

"When I put ads in some local newspapers, I got more than 1,000 phone calls, interviewed 500 plus people who wanted to get into the school and accepted only 40 people," said Bryson. "Through a half hour interview, I find out about everything from their athletic background to medical problems. And if they say 'I'm crazy enough to be a stuntman,' I say 'Bye.'"

BRYSON'S EXPERIENCE in stunts has landed him jobs on the "Super Dave Osborne Show," the CBC series "Street Legal" and the mini series "Amerika" It's easy to take a drink of beer and tell friends you can do

It's easy to take a drink of beer and tell friends you can do that stunt, but when it comes down to jumping out of a five-story high window, only a few can produce, he said.

One of those few, and perhaps the most successful student to graduate from the Action Stunt Academy, is Kevin Briand, a forester Canadian sumi-pro feetball player and Silver Sersen employee. Briand's specialty is falls.

"After my (football) career came to an end, I was stuck in a factory," he said. "I get a new lease on life as a stuntman, this is the closest thing to feetball I could find."

All stuntmen have one main thing in common, And it's not a couple of crossed brain wires. A strong athletic background provides the foundation for all stuntmen.

"Like any sport, attints require agility and good conditioning," said Bryson. "The biggest part of the stunt is the athletics involved in it. So stuntman really isn't a word, athlete is."

ONE SELVER student, a self-confessed "adrenaline junkie," is 35-year-old Roberta Urbani of Huntington Woods. Urbani, who works as a technical writer for Detroit Edison, was imed with Bryson and his school. "The realistic action of the school was challenging and a lo of fun." Urbani said. "I wish I had found this 10-15 years ago." While Urbani hasn't had any professional work involving stunts, she is working on a play for Detroit Edison, called "Changing Channels." She plans on using some kind of stunt in Silver Screen Stunts offers a promotional tape that they call "A Dirty Dozen Stunts," 12 stunts ranging from falls and fights to car stunts and a human inferno.

Exciting? Yes. A useful tool for local advertisers and filmmakers? Sure. Dangerous? You bet.

Lamb and Bryson are the first to admit that what they do is

"People can get hurt and it's due to stupidity," Lamb said.

"Another reason is because of the massive desire to please the director. That leads to people exceeding their limits."

Bryson agreed with Lamb, but downplayed the injury aspect of being a stuntman.

"THE INJURIES that occur are usually minor cuts, bumps and bruises," he said. "We work as a team with everybody involved looking out for and making sure everything's safe for the person performing the stunt."

Bryson has never had a broken bone in his career as a stunt-

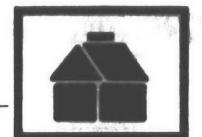

Good money, thrills, team camraderie, your name on the big screen and work that you'd do for fun anyway. But what do stuntmen do for excitement after a shoot?

"When we're through, we talk stunt, stunt, good looking girls, stunt, stunt," Bryson said. "I guess the most exciting thing involved with stunts is the creativity that goes into pulling one

Q: What's the difference between procrastination and delaying work for good reason?

A: I think you answered your own question, but let me elaborate. The reasons we procrastinate often blend into a gray area, and sorting it out may not be easy.

I recently wrote about a man in my seminar series who had placed a set of incomplete forms into a low priority action file. Those forms were less important than other work on his desk and now he felt in control that he would get his higher priority work done without forgetting the

On the last night he said he had, indeed, been focusing on and accomplishing more of his important work, but confessed those forms were still not done. After discussing why he was delaying them, he vowed to organizing

complete the forms and to "report back" the following Monday. In that call he said:

"In the beginning I really didn't have time because I was moving. Then I wasn't sure what my boss wanted so I began delaying them. As time passed, I began to blow the job up in my mind, thinking it was a bigger project than it was. Finally I blew the whole thing out of porportion, and developed a real fear of doing them. It wasn't until I began talking about it that I realized what a big deal I had made out of it in my mind. At that point it wasn't so hard to get started, I found it wasn't that difficult and didn't take as much time as I had thought. Now I finally have that gorilla off my back. Not only that, but once that was done I got ambitious and cleared off a lot of other things that needed doing, too." A woman in my class once confided she had never written thank you notes for her wedding gifts, received two years earlier. As time passed she suffered more and more intensely from guilt for not having acknowledged those presents. As we talked she explained, almost in tears, that she had married into a well-to-do family with equally affluent friends. She felt those people were "above" her and she was embarrassed or uncomfortable writing to them, perhaps feeling her message might be inadequate. She had actually written about half the notes, but had never mailed them. She, too, vowed to finish them. Unfortunately she never retruned to class. I have always felt bad for her. I suspect she was a perfectionist who had difficulty believing it's better to write a thank you note, regardless of how short, late or inadequate, than delaying or not doing it at all.

Making mountains out of mole hills will muddle your mind, create guilt, lower your self esteem and prevent clear thinking. By analyzing why you delay work, you can evaluate if you are making good use of your time or if you are using avoidance behavior.

Redecorate to signal start of new life

Q. It's been one year since my wife died, and I've finally come around to the idea that I should redecorate the interior of our house. It fallen into disrepair during wife's long illness. Previously she had always taken care of these matters, and the children are of no help because they want everything left the way it was when she died. Although the furniture is of good quality, even I can recognize the color scheme is out of date. The carpets are in seafoam green, the furniture upholstery is in a rose beige and gold. What do you suggest?

A. I encourage you to redecorate to signal the end of your mourning and the beginning of a new life for you. Your children should be made to understand that you will always retain a loving memory of their mother but now you are taking full control of all decisions, including redecorating greyed colors, then you could build on some of the existing colors, such as the seafoam carpeting. Because the most recent trends are coming full circle to the point where you and your wife had originally decorated, you will soon find variations on your color scheme in the stores, such as golds and the newer rose beiges. However, if you feel a need for a

Q. We want to transform a dark and gloomy basement into a livable area suitable for entertaining. Could you give us some guidelines on the best color and design approach to

A. You have a number of options that will transform your basement space effectively if you adhere to certain overall principles:

Make sure most of the materials and colors you use have a high reflectancy value to compensate for the lack of natural daylight and the closed-in look of most basements. Pure white, of course, has the highest reflectancy as a color. It reflects 85 percent of light; while black reflects only 31/2 percent. But too much white isn't recommended except for ceilings, because it usually results in a sterile look.

Try to use beiges and light pastels which usually fall into the 50 percent to 70 percent range. Make your darkest color light oak paneling that has a 38 percent reflectancy. If you

You can select almost any color within a light range, but try to avoid bright yellows and oranges if you think they will convey the impression of a sunny and cheerful day. This is, in fact why some food chains use these types of colors to keep their customers on the

Make sure you have ambient, or overall lighting throughout the basement, but reserve dramatic downlight accents for the bar and perhaps a special gaming table.

Your furniture should be light and open in scale, such as upholstered rattan. Keep the flooring light, but add a bright rug to relieve the monoson for the makings of new tropical plants for your home. During the holidays, pomegranates, kumquats, dates and mangoes are displayed, Earl along with the more common avocados, coconuts, tangerines, oranges

Occasionally, there will be something really new, such as the tangerinelike Clementine, introduced from Europe, but this one will be troublesome since it is seedless. In any event, growing plants from seeds of tropical fruits can be chal-and other citrus.

lenging and fascinating.
One plant that may be grown from seed is the date palm. Drying the dates does not destroy the seeds, but you should plant them promptly after removal of the pulp. Not every seed will grow, so plant a dozen or so to assure getting one or two plants.

The seeds have a hard coating, reports Ray Rothenberger, a horticul-

weeder's guide

turist with the Missouri Cooperative Extension Service. He advises filing off a small area on the side of the seed to permit faster water absorption and germination, which could take six months.

KEEP SEEDS IN a warm - near 80 degrees F - moist place. Put the pot into a plastic bag and tie it shut after the seeds are planted. This will help keep them moist. Use a mix of half each peat moss and sand to start tropical fruit seeds.

Rumquat, a citrus, can make an attractive foliage plant. Citrus seeds do not need a dormancy period before planting and should germinate in a few weeks. Seeds may be injured if allowed to dry, so plant promptly after removal from ripe fruit. Use a sand-peat mixture, covering seeds lightly, and keep at normal room temperature for germina-

Grapefruit, orange, lemon, lime and other citrus may be grown from seeds in the same way. They may flower indoors, but rarely will produce fruit under home conditions. If you want fruit, Rothenberger says, some of the smaller growing ornamental citrus will actually make better house plants. These include the Calamondin orange, mandarin orange, Ponderosa lemon and Meyer lemon. If these citrus do bloom indoors, they will require hand-pollina-tion to get fruits to set.

Pomegranate seeds should be planted directly after removal from the fruit. Sow seeds in the sand-peat mix and keep them moist and warm.

As plants mature, they produce at-tractive orange-red flowers. Plants grow rather thin and leggy, and willneed to be trimmed to develop a good shape indoors. They also produce basal shoots, most of which should be removed.

Growing a coconut is more difficult — you have to plant the entire nut. Nuts available in the husk are best for planting, but there is no guarantee they will grow, Rothenguarantee they will grow, Rothenberger says.

Plant the coconut in a large container of sand-peat moss and keep it constantly moist and warm. Lay the nut on its side; keep the stem end, where the "eyes" appear, alightly raised. The nut seed only be half-covered. A sprout will emerge through the eye at the longest side of the triangular hull. This may take a month or two.

"It's the best kept secret in Livonia."

It's called Woodridge Apartments. It's the most perfect combination of luxury and comfort I've found. And I love being just a couple of minutes from the great malls in Livonia, and I-696. (Of course I love to shop-who doesn'(?!) I also love the tennis and pool right here, and the fact that I have covered parking for my car. The rent makes sense to me too. Since I have so many other things I want to spend my vast (?) resources on. Call 477-6448...and see for yourself today.

Superlatives dot builder's advertising

By Doug Funke staff writer

> The ultimate condominium. Extraordinary homes.

Luxury condominium community. Those phrases, culled from recent advertisements, almost roll from the tongue. They sound good and look good. But what do they mean?

"Advertising people ran out of lyrics so they have to come up with new words," said James S. Bonadeo, president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan and himself builder.

"It's like newspaper people. You need a leaping headline or people don't buy newspapers."

THE MEANING of words like luxury depend on a perspective, said Bonadeo and others in the industry.

"Luxury for everybody is different," said Lou Sabatini, director of sales and marketing for the John Richards Development Co. of Birmingham. "What one person considers luxurious another would consider ordinary."

So why use a word like "extraordinary" in an ad to describe a prospective condominium development in West Bloomfield?

"Every builder, I believe, thinks they're trying to do something distinct and special," Sabatini said.

The South Shores Estates on Pine Lake is "extraordinary" because it's one of the last available parcels on the lake, he said.

Lakefront living combined with the custom builder's quality construction including walnut floors and European-style cabinets makes the word an appropriate selection, Saba-

RAY KARR, an owner of Estate Builders, said he doesn't have a problem billing his Hillpointe on Mirror Lake development as "the ultimate condominium in prestigious

"I live there myself," Karr said. 'The reason I choose to live there is natural beauty.

You have thousands of trees, you have a lake. All condos are set high on a hill and look down on the lake. We've constructed a gazebo, dock, swimming area. I don't know of any place that offers this much beauty at your fingertips," he said. Richard Komer, president of Wineman & Komer Building of chester Hills merits designation as dramatic new ranch condominiums" due to high-peaked ceilings in living rooms and bedrooms.

A personal belief in the product apparently provides justification for using words like luxury. Sophisticated buyers provide the checks and

"EVERYONE who walks into your models and leaves becomes a walking billboard," said Sheldon Rott, national marketing and sales manager for Lifestyle Homes pl Farmington Hills.

A house can be classified as luxurious by its amenities or design Rott said.

Price isn't the only criteria. A condominium listed for $95,990 in Merriwood Park of Livonia is advertised by Lifestyle as luxury due to a two story entry foyer, cathedral ceilings and bay windows, Rott said. "Normally you wouldn't see tha in that price range," he said. Not only do you have luxury con dos, but now you have "luxury homesites" as advertised by Colonia Acres Realty for the Greenock Hill development in South Lyon. THAT PURPORTS to give pro spective buyers the idea that "this it not a 900-square-foot home subdivision," said Diane Boelger, an agent for Colonial Acres. Minimum house size is 2,000 square feet for ranches, 2,600 feet for colonials. No one interviewed for this story said they had ever been confronted by a buyer who felt misled by an ad. When people spend that kind of money on a house, you don't sell them," Rott said. "It (house) will et ther sell itself or not. Advertising just trying to get them to come dov and evaluate for themselves.

"I don't think seller's puffery is taken seriously by buyers," Komer said. "People are much more sophisticated than a lot of other people are willing to admit."

Bonadeo expressed similar senti-

"I think the public likes a dog-andpony show," he said. "We are the greatest promotional country world.

"Today, it's got so everything is luxurious," Bonadeo said. "It will just become a word that doesn't

Builders dismiss auto slump

staff writer

Local builders are confident the recent automobile sales and manufacturing slump, with the Big Three auto makers reporting plummeting sales, will not affect new home sales.

James Bonadeo, Builders Association of Southeast Michigan (BASM) president, said the slowdown hasn't altered association members' plans for next year. In fact, builders are confident.

"I'm optimistic," said Bonadeo. who owns his own construction firm in Plymouth Township. "I've just started two subdivisions myself, and I wouldn't do that if I thought the economy was heading for a crash. We expect even production with last vear across the board."

EDWARD KLIM, regional manager for Lautrec Limited, the operations arm of Lautrec Acquisitions Co. in West Bloomfield that develops manufactured housing communities, said his firm is confident that metropolitan Detroit has diversified enough to absorb an automobile manufacturing slump.

There is "a ripple effect" when the automobile market slows down, Klim said, but the increase in sales and service jobs should minimize the impact of sluggish auto sales.

We're moving ahead on the developments that we have planned," Klim said. "All the economic indicators we've seen say there won't be a big slowdown."

Occupancy levels in Lautrec's communities and apartments continue to be high, and the company is even considering expansion projects, he said. "The rules are different today than they were 20 years ago there's no real rule that says you have to have a recession."

According to Terrie Koch, of Koch Development, a custom home builder in Bloomfield Township, the upper end markets aren't affected by automobile market slowdowns as much as lower end housing markets.

'It certainly affects building, but it's not affecting upper level, executive homes," she said. "The first people to get laid off are not the ones who buy our homes."

IN GENERAL, manufacturing slowdowns do make people cautious. "If you've grown up in this area, it's going to have a mental impact on

"But we're far more diversified now than we were in the past," Koch continued. "People may step back and take a closer look, but we don't think the slowdown is going to hurt

Koch said builders she has talked to seem unconcerned about the slowdown. "To tell you the truth, I hadn't even given it any thought until now."

Lautrec's Klim said affordable housing developers are in as good as shape as the upper end markets. Most of our buyers aren't auto workers - many are two-income families in which (either income) could afford a home on their own."

Instead, any type of economic downturn will affect all of the housing market, Klim said. "But I think folks in metropolitan Detroit have learned from the late 1970s — they learned the rough way, but they did learn. No one is overextendeding

BASM president Bonadeo agreed saying if the automobile industry is in more than just a temporary slowdown, home builders are in much better shape than in the late 1970s. "Many builders are remodeling homes, or building commercial or office — if housing slows, they'll do something else," he said.

COMMERCIAL and home remodeling are not always impacted as quickly as residential construction, so if builders find other things to do they can insulate themselves, he said.

Michigan Association of Home Builders executive vice president Steve DeHaan said the automobile manufacturing slowdown isn't having an effect on home building. "If anything, we're slightly ahead of last

But DeHaan added that the builders association tracks residential development by building permit application. "We don't track the automobile industry closely, although our members probably do. "From what I've heard, no one ems to be concerned about it yet. Nothing I've seen makes me correlate the two."

Koch of Koch Development said one reason builders got hurt in the late 1970s is because they had enormous land holdings and when the economy soured, they had to make payments even though no homes were being sold.

"I don't think anyone is looking to shelter themselves, but you don't see a lot of speculative buying right now," Koch said.

MAHB executive vice president

DeHaan said declining interest rates during the past two months are also beneficial to the housing market.
"Typically if interest rates fall, that's good for us; if they increase, it's bad for us," DeHaan said. "But so far I can't tell if it's having an effect or not," Dellaan said. BASM president Bonadeo said he believes the auto makers are panicking because of a drop in sales, but he doesn't see a prolonged slowdown. "Every few years, you're going to get a slowdown."

The automotive industry is always trying to improve sales over the previous year and when they succeed, they exhaust the market, Bonadeo

Costly California dreamin'

Perhaps you can help settle a dispute which I have with my husband concerning California property. My husband suggests that the property values in Beverly Hills for a comparable house as opposed to Birmingham would be in a ratio of approximately four to one in terms of increased value. Can you also explain how community property there is different from divorce laws in Michigan in case we move out and things don't work out?

You'd better have a bushel full of dollars available to you if you wish to buy a house comparable to the one tions will no longer be available. There is almost a hys you presently live in in Birmingham if you want to live terical mentality with respect to the purchase of propin Beverly Hills or its surroundings. California property erty and people are not, obviously, dotting their i's and as a whole has continued to soar. A recent survey which I conducted, while on a business trip there, indicates shortage of property, as well as the fact that if it doesn't that you can expect property values in Beverly Hills, work out, they will just sell it and make a profit and Santa Monica, Westwood and the like to be between four move elsewhere. and five times that of what would be the cost of a similar home in a typical Detroit suburb. As it relates to lar home in a typical Detroit suburb. As it relates to Birmingham, I would say that the price of a home in Beverly Hills is probably three times as much. As to community property, it simply means, with certain exceptions, that upon the dissolution of a marriage, all property acquired during the course of the marriage is jointly owned by both parties. In effect, that is not too dissimilar from the results of a divorce here in Miching and the course of the marriage is accordance with its percentage of value for these common expenses. The only exception in the bylaws is if the expense was necessitated by the negligence, misuse on a property acquired that the product of a common special of a common property. It is not automatically as a matter of a common property acquired that the negligence, misuse on a property acquired that the product of a common property acquired that the second product of a common property acquired that the product of a common product of a common property acquired that the product of a common product of gan, except that it is not automatically as a matter of neglect of a co-owner. Do you think that this law determined that it is not automatically as a matter of law determined that the respective spouses have a 50 percent equal ownership in all property. You had better also be prepared to deal with the smog which is scary.

Not according to a recent case which was decided in Washington, D.C., and which would probably be applicable here in Michigan. The court in that case held that I am thinking about moving to San Diego. I hear there is a real estate explosion there unparalleled and that condominiums, by way of example, are being priced out of sight. Do you have any information which you can there with me objectively as I really am not terribly trusting of California Realtors.

My examination of the San Diego area tells me that there is a real estate explosion both in terms of development and escalating prices. In the last three years, real estate has literally comping out to be placed on a list in the first phase of condominium projects. The goal, or course, is to get property close enough to the water to take advantage of the banches and tamperatures as apposed to being in the essert. WRITE IT AND REAP

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

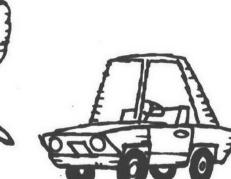

1. Cive the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

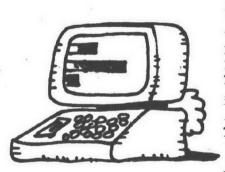

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stav near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
