Hearing delayed in suit over oil leak

Ralph Lorenz's bid to win more than $300,000 in damages from Amoco Oil Co. has been delayed until Dec. 28.

The downtown Plymouth landowner, who owns the Mayflower Meeting House next to the Amoco service station at Ann Arbor Trail and Main Street, has sued the oil company in U.S. District Court.

A hearing had been set before Judge Patrick Duggan Dec. 14, as Lorenz's attorney Michael Southerland sought a partial judgment

Amoco consultant Neyer, Tiseo & Hindo Ltd. has identified pollutants under the service station, in the Mayflower Meeting House parking lot, east of the Box Bar & Grill, across Ann Arbor Trail and across Main Street.

"As far as our responsibilities go, we are committed to cleaning up the contamination," said Walter Brown, a Amoco spokesman.

Amoco proposed removing contaminated groundwater and soil from under the Mayflower Meeting House basement and replacing it with clean fill dirt.

DAMAGES ARE being sought due to underground contamination, Southerland said, because petroleum products have been seeping into groundwater and soil for years from underground storage tanks at the

All have left, and Amoco is paying about $5,000 a month to Lorenz in compensation for lost rent.

Recycle Christmas.

That's a twist for a season better known for its excesses. But those excesses make the holidays a good time to put a lid on garbage.

And environmentalists say saving the earth is the best gift you can give

The national garbage crisis that has resulted in overflowing landfills has been a critical yearlong concern in Wayne County. And it promises to be an nagging issue in the 1990s. Experts say recycling is one important key to curb the problem.

THE EVIDENCE of holiday waste - and ways to limit it - lie on the streets, which are lined with mounds of refuse every year at this time.

And no one knows that better than David Denski, owner of Canton Waste Recycling, which hauls gar-

Plymouth Township residents with noise complaints now have a more certain way to find relief.

"Now there will be some basis to help them (ordinance officers) make a determination," said Richard Kolano, the consultant who wrote the ordinance that has been amended by township officials.

"We tried to cover the various types of noise situations that we see in communities," Kolano said.

By the ordinance, noise that exceeds certain decibel levels as measured at a resident's property is prohibited.

"It quantifies and provides an objective level of noise through a decibel reading," said Trustee John Stewart. He helped push for the ordinance after residents of one subdivision complained of noise from a nearby manufacturer last spring.

STEWART SAID that if commercial and industrial businesses complied with federal noise regulations, 'we probably wouldn't have any noise problems."

"But during the '80s in the Reagan administration there was significant reduction in enforcement personnel." he continued.

Provisions in the draft ordinance vary for noise levels measured from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 7 a.m. They prohibit lawn mower operation from 10 p.m.- 7 a.m., but snow blower operation is allowed

While those who violate ordinance provisions can be issued tickets by the township police, Stewart stressed that officials want to work out disputes concerning noise before having to go to court.

James Anulewicz, township planning director, had suggested that the township board create a review board to mediate noise complaints. "Some cases may not be total black and white," he said.

Quilters brighten holidays for hospitalized children

staff writer

Seventy-one children have a bright colorful addition to their otherwise sterile world, thanks to the efforts of quilters from throughout southeast and central Michigan.

The additions are ABC quilts. The recipients are the young victims of the AIDS crisis and patients at Children's Hospital of Michigan in De-

The youngsters received the quilts at a Christmas party Sunday, and Barbara Yatzeck of Livonia and Dian Smith of Plymouth were there. Yatzeck became aware of the quilting program after seeing a flyer in the Tennessee Valley quilter's newsletter. She contacted the national organization and ended up as an area coordinator. "I've been involved in charitable things for 30 years," Yatzeck said. "I get a real joy, a real high out of doing things like this."

Dian became involved as the owner of Dian's Quilt Shop in Plymouth. She let Yatzeck use the shop as a collection point for the quilts.

The ABC (short for AIDS Baby Crib) quilts project was started last year by a retired school teacher, Ellen Ahigren of Northwood, N.H., who decided she could help children with AIDS by doing what she did best -

The goal of ABC Quilts is "a colorful, cozy 'blankee' for each and eve-of compassion and unconditional LOVE from the heart of America."

IN JUST A year, ABC Quilts has gone nationwide, spread mostly through quilters' publications. And likewise the need for the quilts is keeping pace, Yatzeck said.

Michigan is in the top 10 in need (for AIDS babies), and that's expected to double in the next few years," she said. "There are 102 children with AIDS on the roles in the Detroit

"There are children (with AIDS) in hospitals who will never go home and some have nobody," Dian added. "They're in the care of the state and they stay there and have nothing."

ABC Quilts caught on in the metropolitan area after a newspaper article about Paula Sarge of Midland. Many of the quilts that were given out Sunday were the result of Sarge's Quilts have come in from closer to home. The shop's Back Street Quilters helped ready them for dis-tribution. Seniors citizens at St. Colette's Church in Livonia are making quilt tops and are in need of batting to complete them.

And one art teacher from Bloomfield Hills has made the quilt project a part of the state convention and is hoping to make it a part of the national convention, Yatzeck said.

"We have promises for a lot more quilts. In fact, I have to pick one up ry little U.S. victim of AIDS as a gift tonight from my beautician," she

THE QUILTS come in two sizes -36- by 36-inch crib quilts for infants and 38- by 44-inch quilts for older children. Some are made from what Dian calls "cheater's cloth" - prestamped or plain material. Some are made from patch work. One is made from pre-quilted fabric.

Each quilt bears the name and state of its maker. Some even bear messages for the children like one quilt from Midland that reads, "The angels danced the day you were

There also are quilting specifications - stitching close together - to make then durable. The quilts most likely will be washed by the hospital and the tight stitching will ensure that the batting doesn't tear or shift during washing, Yatzeck said.

And while the response to the quilt project has been great, there was a time when it looked like the ABC quilts would be shipped out of state or the Michigan project might change its name to accommodate other ailing youngsters.

While Yatzeck has filled the order for Children's Hospital, she's still looking for 25 more quilts to be distributed to children through a walkin clinic in Detroit. Plans are to keep collecting quilts and possibly distributing more during Easter.

Murder suspect asks for mother during arraignment

A sobbing Ron Gerrior, asking the judge repeatedly to "wait for my mother" to arrive, was arraigned in 18th District Court Thursday on first-degree murder charges in the slaying of his estranged wife and her lover.

Gerrior, 44, of Garden City stood mute and a not-guilty plea was en-tered for him by Judge Thomas G.

Gerrior was remanded to the Wayne County Jail without bond. A preliminary exam is scheduled for 9 a.m. Friday in front of Smith. Gerrior is charged with two counts of first-degree murder and one count of possession of a firearm during commission of a felony.

If convicted, he faces a mandatory life without parole prison sentence.

Police charge that Gerrior shot and killed his wife. Michele Joni Gerrior, 37, and Jason Robert La-Croix, 27, early Wednesday at La-Croix's home on the 8300 block of Fremont, in the Joy-Middlebelt section of Westland.

The Gerriors separated about four weeks ago. Michele Gerrior had moved out of their Garden City home to a nearby mobile home, police said.

The couple had no children, but Ron Gerrior has an adult daughter by a previous marriage. Michele Gerrior worked at the Livonia post office.

GERRIOR, A native of Canada whose mother and sister were enroute to Michigan Thursday, told the court "my mom will take care of it," when asked about hiring an attorney. Smith ordered a court-appointed attorney in the meantime. Gerrior has been on medical leave

Police said Gerrior apparently then drove to his house on the 32400 block of Marquette and returned to LaCroix's home about 2:30 a.m. Wednesday with a Mossberg 12gauge shotgun.

The victims, in bed at the time of the killing, were each shot once in the chest with a 12-gauge shotgun.

"We're not here to dispute the goals," U.S. District Court Judge John Feikens said repeatedly Friday during a hearing on three suits filed by federal and state environmental agencies against communities in Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties.

"WE'RE HERE to find the most intelligent and fiscally responsible way of obtaining those goals," Feikens told a crowded courtroom in Federal Building in Detroit.

Communities in the Rouge River

hasin will have to pay more to clean up sewer discharge, according to a

It's a matter of how much and how

The hearing was the opening of what is expected to be a long and drawn-out dispute between the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) against communities using the Detroit Sow-er system, including Livonia, West-land, Garden City, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton and Redford.

Feikens invited comments from dozens of lawyers and environmental experts saying he intended to resolve procedural questions and begin getting the involved parties together to work out a solution.

Feikens said he will draft a written order clarifying the following is-

• The federal district court rather than the Michigan Water Resources Commission (WRC) - will have jurisdiction in the cases

The EPA and DNR wanted the issue before the WRC, but Feikens said the federal courts have enforcement power and thus keeping the matter in his court would hasten any ultimate solution.

• The three cases will be consoliagainst three defendants under the 1972 Federal Clean Water Act, the City of Detroit, the Detroit Sewer System and its customers and communities within the Rouge River

Combining the cases will enable the parties to expedite a solution, Peikens said.

 Jonathan W. Bulkley, professor in the School of Natural Resources and Department of Civil Engineering at the University of Michigan, will be appointed to get the involved parties together to begin negotia-

Bulkley will not be a mediator, Feikens said. But he will serve as a "facilitator" to get negotiations under way as soon as possible. Feikens said Bulkley has been involved in finding solutions to water pollution problems in southeast Michigan since 1977, when the EPA sued Detroit over discharges from the Detroit Wastewater Treatment

"He (Bulkley) will begin getting the parties together and negotiating a solution," Felkens said.

"He will do his good things while we (pointing toward other attorneys present) work out the legal part," the dge said. The core issue in the dispute is how to eliminate pollution that results when heavy rain waters inundate combined storm and sanitary sewers dumping raw sewage — called "combined sewage overflow," or CSO — into the Rouge River.

The EPA and DNR insist the communities involved immediately act to install an undetermined number of retention basins to hold the water. thereby giving treatment plants more time to process the sewage.

The EPA and DNR insist the overflow be kept in retention basins for a minimum of 30 minutes during which time the water would be treated with chlorine before being re turned to the sewers.

The estimated cost of installing the retention basins varies from $500 million to $2 billion, depending on the number and their size and lo-

The additional cost cost per house-hold varies from $50 to $2,000 per

"WE DON'T disagree with the overall goal of cleaning up the Rouge River basin," said Oakland County Drain Commissioner George W. Kuhn. "But we disagree on the method and the timing.

Kuhn said the EPA and DNR are insisting on too much, too fast. "We're willing to clean up CSO. But we want a reasonable approach. The demands of the DNR would bankrupt our communities."

Kuhn said he is pleased with the action taken by Feikens. "It's clear that he wants a reasonable solution That's fine with us."

'Nobody can hide from our obligation to clean up pollution.'

James E. Murray, director of the Wayne County Division of Public Works, said he too is pleased with the actions outlined by Feikens. "Nobody can hide from our obligation to clean up pollution," he said.

"But the approach Judge Feikens appears to be taking seems reasonable and practical."

"Many people felt this was going to be the meeting where answers were announced," said Kenneth Howse of Livonia, one of an estimated 100 parents who attended Wednesday's emotion-charged meeting. "What's more, some of the answers we did get were totally unac-

Howse, whose 5-year-old son attends classes at the center, said he was especially concerned younger students could be divided among as many as three new sites next fall.

"WHAT'S IMPORTANT is we keep the program together as much as possible," he said.

Classes for 217 autistic students, between the ages of 3 and 26, are conducted at Burger Center. But the former Garden City junior high school has been tabbed for closing because of its asbestos content and because a new roof and other repairs are also deemed necessary.

"If there's one thing we're all disappointed in, it's that the building was allowed to deteriorate to the point it has," Howse said. "There should have been maintenance."

Thus far, neither Garden City Schools nor the county schools, have expressed a willingness to pay for asbestos removal and other repairs.

But because the building's sale to a private developer has fallen through, the county is reconsidering whether to pay for renovations.

'What we're going to do is have an architectural study that will tell us just what is needed and how much it will cost," said Kathryn Mathey, manager of county special education services.

A key could be the county's onemill special education tax, approved in 1988. Thus far, though, that money has been reserved for program costs, not building expenses.

Though parents were told the study could be ready within three months, Mathey said efforts would be made to have it completed "as soon as possible."

She made it clear, however, the study would be no guarantee Burger Center would remain open next fall.

"We're still looking at alternative sites," Mathey said. Many parents also aren't expecting the center to remain open.

'That would be nice, but we aren't holding our breath," said Debbie Hunt of Westland.

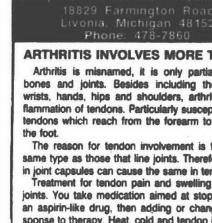

But Hunt, who also has a 5-yearold son attending center programs.

flammation of tendons. Particularly susceptible are the long tendons which reach from the forearm to the hand, and from below the knee to The reason for tendon involvement is that the cells that line tendons are the same type as those that line joints. Therefore a reaction that sets up inflammation in joint capsules can cause the same in tendon sheaths. Treatment for tendon pain and swelling in arthritis is similar to therapy for the joints. You take medication aimed at stopping inflammation, usually starting with an aspirin-like drug, then adding or changing medications depending on the response to therapy. Heat, cold and tendon injections are also a choice. Blight not acceptable

Let's not fall in the Canton beautifitution attempt and legislate acceptable levels of blight. Blight is never acceptable. We must guard against special interest groups that proclaim to be the public voice.

Recently, proposals were advocated that would eliminate the existing problems of RV storage eroding the appearance and safety of our neighbdihoods. The Canton Obvserver and a handful of self-serving protesters effectively killed this needed ordihee revision. Within the confines of the typical 60 foot lot it may be necessary, under certain circumstances, to relinquish individual desires for the greater common good.

Tom Yack, township supervisor, and the Planning Commission are trying to govern and shape the orderly growth of Canton. The proposed ordinances are designed to improve the appearance of our community, the resale of our properties and hence the quality of life.

We all have a stake in the future growth of Canton. We must demand that issues concerning ordinance proposals be fairly and accurately reported in local newspapers without bias. We must continually strive to make ourselves heard over the din of the sanctimonious

Those who conspire to reduce our community's potential may not belotig in Canton. Many communities exist with fewer ordinances and where they may be better suited. No doubt, living in Canton has provided them with good home resale opportunity, and the move might prove advantageous to all concerned.

Red ribbon campaign applauded

We were pleased to see your newspaper give out red ribbons for the MADD campaign against driving

Too much of the time we fail to recognize that the abuse of alcohol is one of the greatest substance abuses in our country and our community.

Your support of the red ribbon campaign helps to raise the awareness of the abuse of alcohol or substance abuse. More important, it may save lives.

We appreciate your efforts. Plymouth/Canton Community Substance Abuse Task Force

Ex-employe responds

To the editor:

In the Observer article concerning the settled case between myself and American Yazaki Corp., there are several areas I feel should be clari-

The "settlement" is, in fact, a General Release of Claims, Settlement and Non-Disclosure Agreement." Quite simply, this means all charges have been dropped and I am enjoined from commenting on any aspect of the case.

Your article, which I assume you researched from public records, places me at a distinct disadvantage. cannot comment on the case but Yazaki and their two legal firms, with over 250 attorneys, are free to make whatever remarks they wish.

For example, there was the statement by company attorneys that "American Yazaki was discriminated against in the lawsuit through 'blatant anti-Japanese rhetoric." Since I cannot make any comment, it appears the only statement I can make is a legal axiom: "That which can be asserted without proof can be denied without proof." Is Ms. Sasamoto attempting to try a settled case in the press? Because of the Non-Disclosure Agreement, I am not even sure if I have the right to deny the irresponsible remark.

As Ms. Sasamoto asserts, American Yazaki has an affirmative action plan. I'm not sure if she would care to comment on who assembled the data and published the first Yazaki plan on Jan. 29, 1987. Ask Sasamoto, who is with Masuda, Funai, etc., a Chicago law firm, why her organization never wrote an affirmative action plan for Yazaki. The firm wrote the first employee manual. Certainly a response from her would not violate the client-attorney relationship. American Yazaki has been in the United States for over 20 years. One would think its primary counsel would advise them of Executive Orders 11246 and 11375.

Finally, Mr. Yamamoto should be asked if he wishes to stay with his counsel's claim that "since 1986, an American vice-president and more American managers have been hired." Perhaps Mr. Yamamoto would feel more comfortable with a more precise statement. That would be that an American vice-president and more American managers were hired since 1988, after a suit was filed against Yazaki.

Of recent interest are the remarks of Shintaro Ishihara in his confidentially published book, "The Japan That Can Say 'No.' " Ishihara is considered to be the second most powerful politician in Japan, according to the Wall Street Journal. Ishihara claims that the U.S. atomic attack on Japan in 1945 was based solely on "racial prejudice." (Detroit News,

Perhaps the company's attorneys have read Ishihara's book and found it is easier to plagiarize than come to rational and independent conclu-

Sasamoto's other remarks concerning Japanese companies in the U.S. overcoming discrimination show unique naivete. She is a good attorney, and would be best advised not to speculate on business theory, or to generalize on people reacting nationalistically to a problem.

That sounds "like blatant anti-American rhetoric.'

Double check your facts

As I read Tim Richard's column on Nov. 2, I was astonished that a writer of his skill and training ignored the tenets of his trade when writing about the computers used by area libraries

Being a "point of view columnist" does not exempt a writer from checking to be sure the facts are accurate, nor does it give license to abandon good judgment.

Mr. Richards obviously did not double check at any library to be sure his neighbor had correctly understood what library staff members are trained to say whenever the computer system is down. We always accept materials when returned. When the computer system is down, we suggest to our patrons that rental fees and overdues be paid on their next trip to the library. That prevents us from overcharging, when the initial date may be in doublt. If a patron is more comfortable paying immediately, we will not refuse payment.

For a writer working for a newspaper chain that itself uses computers, I find the attitude of "the good old paper and pencil days" surprising. Years ago, the libraries in Wayne and Oakland Counties were serving far fewer readers. Paper and pencil methods sufficed at a time when our residents were fewer and less mobile.

In "the good old days" Livonia had one storefront building that circulated 8,000 items in a busy month. Now with a larger more sophisticated population and four library locations, more than 50,000 items are borrowed per month. Livonia is not alone in this phenomenal, commendable growth. A large reading community augurs well for the newspaper business, too. It also provides the reasons for both to automate their Libraries use computers for the same reasons that newspapers do. Employees can do more, serve more people, and be more effective when computers handle repetitive tasks. We both keep the best thing the "old days" had to offer, a well trained staff.

When anyone is using a tool for the first time, it is wise to seek assistance. That is why our staff is on duty to explain how to get the most out of our equipment and collections. (A quick aside - not everyone who works in a library is a librarian. I am privileged to work with pages, clerk-typists, and library aides, in addition to a fine team of librarians.)

When the computer goes down because of a power outage, or a malfunction, we do have backup done, but we sacrifice efficiency and lose the ability to verify information in the library system database. We revert to "paper and pencil methods" with all the limitations and inefficiencies that such methods bring with them. We trust that our cardholders understand that severe weather and mechanical failures happen to all businesses and not just libraries. I have been in a Meijer store when the power failed. The computerized cash registers were down and the checkout lines grew long. Our lines get long, too, when the system is down.

Businesses may invest in redundant systems, a full size backup computer, as insurance against mechanical failure. That expensive option has not been installed in most tax supported institutions. We assume that tax payers would rather tolerate the 1-3 percent of downtime and have more books, records and video tapes available.

As a librarian, I am glad that Mr. Richards can freely express his irritation with advancing technology and the changes it is making on seemingly simple daily repetitive tasks. No matter how personally frustrated with the effects of comards should have exercised better judgement and deleted the final pa-pagraph of that Nov. 3 column. The an did not need it to be com-

Humane society says thank you for support

I am writing on behalf of the staff, management and, most importantly, the animals served by the Michigan Humane Society to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the editorial support of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

The editorial in the Nov. 30, edition has buoyed morale within our organization and will be of tremendous assistance in assuring the public support and confidence so necessary to our financial recovery.

The board of directors and management of the society knew the risks they were undertaking when the decision was made to fully investigate and, where necessary, furnish information to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department regarding the financial affairs of the society. But the alternative of doing nothing was far more onerous. We would not want to have on our conscience the depredation of another charity in the future because we did nothing when we should have acted. We continue to believe this was the correct course of action and we will follow it to its logical close, whatever and whenever that may be. I believe that you have, with your editorial, further validated that decision.

The board of directors and management of the Society are firm in their commitment to an ongoing forthright relationship with the public. We have, however, been hampered in fulfilling that commitment by necessary circumspection during the pendency of both our internal and the Oakland County Sheriff Department's investigation.

We are appreciative of the understanding of this need which has been shown by the O&E reporters who have contacted us. We are hopeful that the whole story can be told in the not-too-distant future, but perhaps the most important point is not that the story is told but that it will not be repeated.

Momma's meat pie challenge

I think Momma has finally met her match. If you remember last year at this time, I wrote a column on Momma's great meat pies, also called Tortieres (pronounced tort-e-airs).

Then Tom MacKinnon of MacKinnon's restaurant fame challenged me with accolades about his mother-in-law's famed meat pie creation, the battle lines were drawn and it was imminent a meat pie bake-off was in the

For those of you who have never tasted the typically French-Canadian concoction of pork shoulder, potatoes and sage all wrapped in a flaky crust, this writer heartily (burp) suggests you clip this story and accompanying recipe (on a page inside this section) - undoubtedly the best recipe for a pleasant dinner — that will surely please nationalities from any corner of the earth.

Seems Jeanne Beauchemin-Ouellette, born and reared in Montreal, Quebec and now hailing from Farmington Hills has been turning out meat pies every holiday season for the past 40 years or so. Her recipe was handed down verbally from her mim (French-Canadian for grandma) and has since passed through the hands of her five daughters. They all keep the long-standing family tradition of preparing meat pies for their families now.

ACCORDING TO Ouellette, the recipe has never been written down and preserved for all of mankind but instead, and similar to my Momma, the recipe is learned through the making.

With a pinch of this and a handful of that, making sure the onion is the diameter of a good-sized fist and of the utmost importance is the source of where the meat heralds from, this holiday season will find Ouellette starting now to bake more than 25 or so meat pies for the holidays.

Just like my Momma, Ouellette places her order for an extra-lean pork shoulder weeks in advance. At the market, she requests the butcher hand trim as much of the fat as humanly possible. After a second inspection to be sure the butcher has followed orders, it is ground

Unlike my Momma, who chooses to trim and grind her meat by hand on the old meat grinder clamped to the basement table. Ouellette places her trust and confidence with her butcher.

Since the meat and potatoes are simmered in a large Dutch oven on the top of the stove for hours on end and the fat from the pork shoulder can be basted off during the simmering, the judges in this case call for an equal decision between Ouellette and Mom-

BOTH MOMS choose an allpurpose potato and, foregoing the use of Cuisinarts and Little Oscars, demand the onion be chopped by hand so it's not too fine or noticeable in the pie. So much for technology, eh?

The recipes from both moms use fresh ground sage, salt and pepper but this is where the similarity stops. Ouellette uses a dried herb called Sariette (of which she is looking for a source to replenish a dwindling supply).

Momma still makes her crust by hand with lard and flour while Ouellette chooses to opt for more technological advances and has decided the ready-made pie crusts now on the market shelves offer a redeeming alternative.

Again, the difference grows with Ouellette adding some fresh breadcrumbs to her creation while Momma opts to omit the bread, making for a somewhat looser and less dense pie.

Both pies are undistinguishable in looks with the only difference tieing Odellettes, pie is somewhat ore dense and firm in bite. The Gullettes and the gain have been blesse wonderful treat to enjoy

NE OF MY earliest memories of holiday entertaining is of the traditional Italian desserts my mother served to family and friends throughout the Panettone, a sweet yeast bread; crostata di ricotta, a cheese pie filled with mixed fruits; and cenci fritti, fried bow-knot pastries, were served from Dec. 25 until the feast of the Epiphany, Jan. 6. When Mom served the coffee, Dad brought out a bottle of anisette liqueur, which he reserved only for special occasions. Anisette is a clear anise-flavored liqueur or cordial which has been popular in France and Italy since the 17th century.

According to the master of wine and liqueurs, the late Alexis Lichine, "A cordial is a beverage compounded from spirits with fruits or aromatic substances added by a variety of methods; maceration, steeping or simply by mixing. They are always sweetened and the word is synonymous with liqueur." ("Alexis Lichine's Encyclopedia of Wines and Spirits," Alfred a. Knopf, 1963).

If you were to stroll through any fancy wine and liquor shop, you would be dazed by the vast array of domestic and imported liqueurs. Nearly every fruit imaginable has been made into a liqueur or fruit brandy from at least a dozen or so European nations and the United States. A number of these liqueurs or brandies have become standard after-dinner drinks as well as staple, recipe ingredients for gourmet cooks

LIQUEURS SUCH AS creme de cassis (clack current), framboise (raspberry) and kirsch (cherry) have put the finishing touches on many classic French desserts and continue to be popular in trendy California entrees, salads and desserts alike.

Actually, there are so many fruit, herb and coffee-flavored liqueurs it is impossible to name them all. No matter what type of liqueur you choose, they are all made with different bases, varying amounts of alcohol and sugar so that only a few of them can be substituted in a recipe.

The holiday season is a great time to give them as a gift or test one in a luxurious, dinner recipe. Eager to: learn more about these brilliant iewels in a bottle? Read on.

On a recent visit to Birmingham's Bottle and Basket Wine Shop, I asked wine connoisseur Lester Corsini for an inside look at some of his and his clientele's favorites. "All the fine cooks keep a bottle of framboise

Buffet joins bakery, barn, ballroom

special writer

It's 10 a.m. and workers are making fruit salad, stirring up batches of muffins and sorting silverware and drinking glasses. The place is Gourmet Buffet of Livonia, a newly opened restaurant that doubles as a catering facility. The owner is Rob Cortis, a 27-yearold Farmington Hills resident whose energy and ambition have netted him several successful food and entertainment interests.

"If you have determination and aren't afraid to work and get your hands in and help out, you will achieve your goals," said Cortis, a 1980 graduate of Livonia Stevenson High School, who holds a degree from the culinary arts program at Schoolcraft College.

The Gourmet Buffet of Livonia, which opened Oct. 1, occupies a former Duff's all-you can eat restaurant on Plymouth Road at Middlebelt Road. Cortis already has implemented plans to use the giant kitchen as a central commissary and training center for his other enter-prises, which include:

· The New Grande Ballroom, a n-alcoholic nightclub for all ages.

Elite Sweets, a Livenia bakery, wedding cakes.

• The Barnstormer, a 1914-vintage cavernous barn in Brighton which recently was refurbished into a banquet hall and nightclub.

Cortis has hald many jobs, including pizza-maker, clerk, supermarket stockboy, baker. It was while he was working as a disc jockey, spinning records at parties and clubs, that he met Jim McEwen of Redford Township, who became his business partner and confidant. McEwen owns a bar-restaurant in Livonia.

Cortis said he wouldn't have been able to juggle his various roles without the help of such people as McEwen or Dan Miller of Westland, his partner in Elite Sweets. All of Cortis' present endeavors - the New Grande Ballroom, Elite Sweets, Barnstormer and Gourmet Buffet have been started within the last five

He said. "Anisette is always a favorite at Christmas because cooks use it in cookies and puddings. It's great when served with a good, strong cup of coffee." He recommends serving 1% ounces (a "hooker") with the coffee to satisfy a craving for sweets. A bottle of Marie Brisard sells for $16.75 a fifth.

"AFTER-DINNER liqueurs such as Chambord, which is made from small black raspberries and honey, is a beautiful gift." Corsini said. He Besides being a lovely after-dinner drink, it can be poured over peaches as a Peach Melba sauce or mixed with a jam to glaze a ham.

There are a few other cordials which should be included in a gour-met's pantry. Calvados, which is actually a French apple cider brandy, fits into this category. In France the beverage is aged and revered along with the country's finest brandles. Like other brandy, it is labeled according to its age.

If you are buying a bottle for the sole purpose of cooking, it's not necessary to buy one which is more than three years old. Prices start at $15 and go up from there.

Calvados is wonderful when added to a pan of sauteed sliced apples or incorporated into an apple dessert recipe. Just as when you heat any wine or liqueur, the alcohol content. is cooked off. If you are concerned about the price tag, Calvados, like all other brandy, cordials and fortisee recipes, Page 7 fied wines, will last indefinitely. Incidentally, should someone attempt to convince you to substitute apple jack in its place, explain politely that they are two distinctly different tastes - the later being unsatisfac-

In the Orange Flan recipe which follows, one tablespoon of Grand Marnier is mixed into the custard. Grand Marnier is an orange liqueur made from a brandy base. Cointreau, which is also an orange liqueur, is made with a clear base and can be used in place of Grand Marnier in many recipes but will have a less mellow taste

Several after-dinner drinks are classified with liqueurs even though their low alcohol content or method of manufacturing is different than most liqueurs. Some like creme de cassis is made from fruit juice to which alcohol is added. L'Heritier

Guyot from France's Burgundy region is my personal favorite. This black current liqueur blends beautifully with mixed berries over a scoop of ice cream; as an ingredient in a berry sorbet or fruit custard, or with jam in an English trifle.

BESIDES FRUIT, there are herbal and coffee-flavored liqueurs. Herbal liqueurs such as Galliano and anisette have a high sugar content and should be used cautiously in dessert recipes. The light green liqueur, Chartreuse, is considered to be the dean of the herbal liqueurs. It origi-nated in a French monastery more than 300 years ago as an elixir and has received renewed popularity in many cuisine-nouvelle-type dishes.

There are no fast, hard rules to follow when cooking with liqueurs. The best advice - follow a recipe closely and when you need to substitute one for another, consult with a reputable wine shop sales representthis ad and receive 50° off vour order OR 10% Off Seniors. One coupon

Cortis has used his various business interests to good advantage. For example, the bread-bakers at Gourmet Buffet were having problems. Dan Miller had a ready solu-

"We were making bread and it was getting hard too quickly," Cortis said. "Dan told me we were using the wrong kind of flour. We were using baking flour instead of bread flour.'

Each Thursday afternoon, hot lunches are prepared at Gourmet Buffet and delivered to the seniorcitizen dance sessions at the Grande Ballroom. The meals, which cost $1 each, include such entrees as baked chicken and stuffed cabbage.

In addition, Cortis plans to use the Livonia kitchen to prepare some of the foods served at the Barnstormer. And Elite Sweets pastries, although not available on the Gourmet Buffet regular menu, may be ordered for special parties and banquets.

Cortis isn't resting on his laurels. He's hoping to expand his catering business. He also is seeking a new location for the New Grande Ballroom, preferably in Livonia. He says the operation has outgrown its present location at Warren and Merriman in Westland.

SUPER NACHO

This dish takes about 25 minutes to assemble, can be made in advance and amply feeds five people. As a variation, one can of chili beans can be added to the meat and either fresh or frozen quacamole can be lightly spread on top of the chips, which would then be covered with the rest of the ingredients.

1 large bag of unsalted tortilla

11/2 pounds ground meat (beef, pork, turkey or venison) 1 large or 2 small ripe tomatoes diced 1 large onlon, diced

1 large green pepper, diced 1 jar taco or salsa sauce, mild or medium hotness 8-10 ounces shredded Monterey Jack cheese (or a combination of Monterey Jack and medium cheddar)

Brown the ground meat. Drain off fat, add 1/4 cup of salsa sauce and cook 10 minutes. Spread tortilla chips on an ungreased flat pan (either a cookie or pizza sheet). Spoon drained, browned meat as evenly as possible over the chips. Spoon on a layer of onion, a layer of green peppers and a layer of tomatoes. Sprinkle the shredded cheese on top. making sure even the outlying chips get some. Heat in a 350 degree oven for 15-20 minutes until the cheese is melted and the chips are warm. Serve in wedges on plates. Provide a small dish of salsa or sauce for dipping those chips that escaped a topping

The traditional setting, with the teacher as much a disciplinarian as an instructor, poses problems for

"It's hard to return to class as an adult because instructors are used to teaching children," said Karen Greenwald, a Livonia resident, who used her return to the classroom as a steppingstone toward her own computer consulting company

Greenwald recalled feeling especially awkward - and isolated the day her community college instructor disciplined the class because of some unruly younger class-

The concept of teacher as allknowing class leader also poses problems for some adult students.

"WE'RE ADULTS, too," Greenwald said. "Our opinions should be encouraged, not condescended to.

The age gap, they said, carries its own set of problems.

"I'd say there's certain amount of fear involved," said Debbie Chalmers who returned to school to pursue a nursing degree. "You wonder, can I keep up with these young Older students also say their educational goals differ from those of younger students.

"They (younger students) are there ecause of mom and dad. We're there for a specific purpose," George Russell said of the younger students. Russell is an early retiree from GM who attends Schoolcraft College,

That program, designed for older students who return to school after a long layoff, stresses independent study more than traditional classroom learning.

That format, they said, allows them to build on knowledge they've already gained, both in school and during the years afterward.

"WHEN I first returned to class, quite frankly, I was bored," Russell said. "Everything they were teaching, I either had already read in the newspaper or seen as an answer on Jeopardy.

came up with a study of 19th Century politics and ethics, a one-man class project drawing on both history and political science.

Likewise, Chalmers is working toward completing her non-nursing credits by studying Agent Orange — the controversial defoliant used by American servicemen during the Vietnam War and blamed by some for causing cancer among vets and birth defects among their children.

"I have a child was born with multiple birth defects," Chalmers said. What I'm doing is looking for an-

For Greenwald, laid off from several jobs over the past decade, embarking upon a self-directed study program was a chance to "take the ball and run with it."

She admits she was "bombing in class" before given the opportunity to learn at a self-directed pace.

Within one semester, she said, she had begun her own Farmington Hills-based company and begun training others in computer skills.

Once a relatively low profile part of the Schoolcraft curriculum, academic options has begun taking on a higher profile lately amid rumors the program might be canceled.

Schoolcraft officials, however, said no decision has been made on

For their part, Academic Options students have been picking up state and national recognition.

Russell recently received a letter of acknowledgment from the National Endowment for the Humanities

The Academic Options concept also was featured at a Michigan Honors conference held last month at Mott Community College, Flint. Regardless of the Schoolcraft pro-

State college enrollments up

Enrollment at Michigan's 99 degree-granting colleges and universities reached an all-time high this fall with 561,672 students, according to a recent Michigan Board of Education

The new figure represents a three percent increase over the previous record, set in fall 1988.

Overall enrollment grew 2.5 percent at Michigan's 15 public universities. Community and junior college highest ever recorded. enrollment grew 3.3 percent.

Enrollment at the state's 55 private colleges and universities grew 3.7 percent.

Overall enrollment was 255,599 among Michigan's public universities, 224,218 at community and junior colleges and 81,855 at private colleges and universities. Enrollments in all three categories are the Michigan State, with 44,467 students posted the largest enrollment at any single campus. The University of Michigan was second with 36,474 students at its Ann Arbor

Wayne State showed the biggest net increase, with enrollment rising 1.726 students.

Give your kids a gift that lasts forever.

No one loves Christmas more than kids. It's a time when we all get caught up in gift giving and getting. Yet, how many of these gifts will we take with us when we check out?

Kids need God in their lives. Growing up in today's world can be a very confusing experience for kids of any age. They often get conflicting messages and examples from parents, peers and the media. Knowing about God helps them make the right choices early on, and throughout their lives.

Meeting the needs of today's parents and children is our top priority at Mapie Hills Church. We're a new church. We're friendly. Our service is very informal. And we're living proof that attending church can be an enjoyable, uplifting experience for kids of any age. In fact, some of our kids even have grandchildren.

Custard: 1 cup fresh orange juice 5 whole eggs, lightly beaten 2 egg yolks, lightly beaten

% cup sugar 2 tablespoons heavy or whipping 1 tablespoon Grand Marnier liqueur

1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Prepare the caramel: Combine the sugar and water in a small heavy saucepan and cook over medium heat until the mixture is thick, bubbling and just amber colored. As it cooks, brush down any crystals forming on the sides of the pan with a wet pastry brush (or keep the pan covered for the first 5 minutes.) The mixture will be very hot. Pour the hot caramel into a dry 4-5-cup ring mold. Wearing pot holders or mitts, swirl the ring mold to coat the bottom and part of the sides with caramel. Set aside. Prepare the custard: Whisk the orange juice, whole eggs, yolks, sugar. cream, Grand Marnier and vanil-

Tasty food still unlocks the heart's secrets

To me, every meal you eat should be a celebration of life. Someone I know was once admonished for not saying grace before a meal. His answer was, "God knows by the way I eat that I'm grateful."

Food should not be gulped down on the run. I'm not arguing against fast food places. A Big Mac or a Whopper is not junk food, no matter what some health nuts would have you believe. Bread, vegetables, cheese and meat are a pretty complete meal.

And pizza, with its wide variety of toppings, can be very nutritious. But these, like any other foods, should be eaten with pleasure.

Sometimes nothing in the world will satisfy your craving but a ham-burger from your own favorite fast

VARIETY IN DINING is necessary. Little surprises and special touches can make the difference, even in a sandwich served in front of the TV. It can be so nondescript that the person eating it can't tell you an hour later what it was they ate.

Or it can be a memorable delight that steals the scene and makes them take time out from the hockey game to tell you how good it tastes.

A cold roast beef sandwich with a tasty mustard (experiment with various types) and a leaf of lettuce - or just a plain old peanut-butter-and-am or jelly, on homemade or fresh bakery bread, can be a showstopper, even when served on a paper plate.

I am a fat old lady, single by choice at this time. But in the last six months, I have had two very serious proposals of marriage from two men very different from each other. They would both deny what they like best about me is my cooking.

Rocks, illness take fight out of Chargers load on its hands even with a healthy wrestling team Thursday.

But the flu-weakened Chargers, who reportedly were missing seven regulars from their lineup, were no match for Plymouth Salem, which drilled visiting Churchill 62-14.

"If Churchill was without those starters and with us being pretty solid, it was like our team wrestling a JV team," Salem coach Ron Krueger

"It's not indicative of what the Churchill team is. I'm sure the Churchill team is better than that.

"But our kids are wrestling better," he added, saying the Lansing Eastern Invitational the Rocks were to participate in Saturday would be an excellent test. "If you have a kid win that tournament, you can really say he's got a real good shot at winning the state."

SALEM STARTED the rout with pins by Scott Martin (103) and Dan Bonnett (112). Martin stopped Matt Dolinski in 3:07, and it took Bonnett 36 seconds to end his bout with Matt Cooper.

The 119-pound contest between Salem's Chad Wilson and Brad Wolaic ended in a 3-3 draw, but the Rocks followed with two more pins.

Ken Stopa (125), one of three undefeated wrestlers on the Salem team, pinned Craig Sheply in 1:32, and Julian Sell (130) pinned Andy Brown in 2:55.

The Chargers won two of the next three bouts. Churchill's Casey Krause (135) pinned Jeff Coleman in 2:46, and teammate Mark Pierce (145) defeated Bob Hansen 2-1.

In between those bouts, Salem's Jeff Shumate pinned Ryan Beworsdorf in one minute. After the 145pound contest, it was all Salem and decisively so. The Rocks won the last five bouts with pins that took less than two minutes to execute.

Charlie Apigian (152) pinned Kevin Mucherin in 1:55, Steve Burlison (160) pinned Mike Shamlikin in 20 seconds, Pete Israel (171) pinned Ron Rogowicz in 1:39, Brian Burlison (189) pinned Gerald Othohan in 49 seconds and heavyweight Soctt Breithaupt pinned Ed Walier in 20 seconds. Stopa and the Burlisons boast 6-0 individual records.

NORTH FARMINGTON had four winners Wednesday while dropping a 47-23 decision to Northville. The Raiders are 1-4 in dual meets.

Marcus Brown, wrestling at 130 pounds, pinned Jamie Ryder in 4:31, and Lucian Van Cleave (135) ended his bout with Jarrett Beer in 1:05.

In the 140 pound contest, Matt Thompson scored a technical fall (17-2) over Scott Sievert, and North heavyweight Bob Chica pinned Mark McCarthy in 1:42.

Adam Cook suffered his first loss at 160 when Northville captain and regional qualifier Bob Townsend won a 4-2 decision.

WESTLAND JOHN Glenn's 48-13 victory over Livonia Franklin Thursday was harder fought than the score might indicate.

Chiefs pin Farmington

Scott Ferguson of Canton outpointed Brian Link 13-6 in the 135-pound contest. The Chiefs romped 54-15 over Farmington.

Plymouth Canton outscored Farmington Wednesday night 54-15 in a wrestling match that saw more than a few pins.

Brian Beattie (103) of the host Falcons started off the evening with a pin against Canton's Dave Yack at 1:31.

Canton came back in the 112-pound division, however, when Chief Jerry Flynn pinned Rob Sutton in just 29 seconds. Canton added to its lead when James Carnes pinned Falcon Chris Phillips at 3:29 in the 119-pound class.

Then it was Farmington's turn to gain a pin, as 125-pound Steve Lemiuex beat Nathan Ballue at 4:24 in the match.

The heavier weight classes, however, belonged to the Chiefs. Chris Zelek (130) pinned Jon Duff in 1:56; Scott Ferguson (135) beat Brian Link in a 13-6 decision; Liam Rentz (140) pinned Joe Goudeseune in 1:19; Jim Yack (145) defeated Mike Pallo in a 5-0 decision, Tim Nardini (152) pinned Chris Kresl in 1:50 and Nick Purzer (160) pinned Kent Allison in 3:50.

Falcon Matt Siskowski partially redeemed Farmington by beating Canton's Erik Jallad in a close 8-7 decision. Chiefs Mark Messaros and Wayne Robertson in the 189 and heavyweight classes won by default.

SPARTANS PIN HARRISON

A young Farmington Hills Harrison wrestling squad was outgunned and outmatched against Livonia Stevenson, losing at home Wednesday night 51-

The Hawks won just the 112, 145, 171 and heavyweight divisions.

Hawk Todd Lytwyniuk, at 171 pounds, won a 7-5 decision against Chris Heavyweight division Jason Gloetzner won by default when the Spartans were unable to come up with an opponent for him.

Two other Harrison wrestlers, 140-pound Gary Devine and 135-pound Mike Kennedy, lost close decisions. Devine lost to Brian Mitchell 7-6, and Kennedy lost to Paul Linkenann 11-9.

Harrison coach Matt Gasser said his squad held up well until late in the matches when Hawk youth and stamina gave way to Spartan experience and

"After a while, we'll get more in tune with what we're doing and you should see some improvement all around," he said.

Canton builds team around veteran duo

Plymouth Canton has two firstrate volleyball players in Susan Ferko and Christyn Halliday, but they represent the Chiefs' only varsity experience.

The dilemma facing first-year coach Jackie Merrifield is building a team around Ferko and Halliday, both seniors and the team's only returning players. "We have a real young team, and it's going to take a lot of getting used to playing together," said Merrifield, who replaces Allie Suffety, who coached the team for two years. "The last quarter of the season we'll have everything together.'

In the meantime, the Chiefs will count heavily on Ferko and Halliday to lead the way.

Both were members of Canton's girls basketball team which won league, district and regional championships and advanced as far as the Class A semifinals. The 5-foot-11 Ferko was an all-state center, and the 5-7 Halliday was usually the first player off the bench.

"I BELIEVE Susan has to be one of the top middle hitters in the area," Merrifield said, "and Christyn has to be one of the best left-handed hitters. Both have good power and can see the court.

'Early in the season, they'll be vital but, hopefully, by the end of the year we'll have a lot more experi-

"Others see (Ferko) being aggressive, and they kinda catch the fever," she added. "She's definitely a leader on the floor."

'I believe Susan (Ferko) has to be one of the top middle hitters in the area, and Christyn (Halliday) has to be one of the best left-handed hitters. Both have good power and can see the court . . . Hopefully, by the end of the year we'll have a lot more experience behind them.'

Despite the lack of experienced players at the varsity level, interest in the program is not a problem at Canton

Merrifield, who graduated from Plymouth Salem in 1983 and played four years at Hillsdale College, had 63 girls come out for the team and Setting will be a solid area, according to Merrifield, with Granger at that position.

"Granger has great hands and is a real floor leader," Merrifield said. 'She can get to the ball wherever it is, and she will call plays and set up the defense.

But the Chiefs will use a 6-2 alignment and will need another setter to come forward. That will probably be either Tortora or Meyka.

"Their fundamentals aren't down yet, but both are fine athletes and can get to the ball," Merrifield said. "I think that will carry them until they get the basics down.

Sanford, primarily a back-row specialist, is the only other player who has won a starting position thus far. Sanford is a strong defensive player, according to Merrifield, and it's defense and serving that will help Canton overcome its lack of height.

"THE GIRLS are good passers and are not afraid to go to the floor," Merrifield said. "And we have real good servers, which is a factor in our

Children must keep good health habits

Dear Myrna: I read a recent column and agreed with you that we need to be more strict with our children about diet and exercise. Do you have any facts supporting your theory on heart disease and young Americans?

Yes. There has been much research lately.

I think Nathan Pritikin reviewed the studies made on young soldiers killed in the Korean War. By autopsy, our American soldiers were found to have large amounts of cholesterol already clogging their veins and arteries, while native Korean soldiers had hardly any cholesterol problems.

Yes, "diet and maybe exercise too" were found to be the incentive to Pritikin in the 1960s.

Through research, the American Running and Fitness Association has printed some facts on children versus heart disease.

Fat Facts:

- Fatty cholesterol deposits begin clogging the heart's arteries soon after birth. This is a leading cause of cardiovascular disease.
- The average teenager consumes a large amount of junk food. More than 62 per cent of U.S. elementary children have at least one cardiovascular risk factor and 36 per cent have two or more. Cardiovascular risks include obesity, heredity, high blood pressure, smoking, high cholesterol and diabetes.
- · Children today are significantly fatter than those in the 1960s. Fifteen to 24 percent of children in the United States have elevated blood fats, and 19-24 percent carry too much body fat. (Researchers say you can probably subtract five to six years from your life if you are as little as 10 percent overweight).
- · Almost half of all adolescents may not be getting enough exercise to develop healthy cardiovascular systems. Weak cardiovascular systems lead to low productivity and early death.
- just 36 percent of all students take physical education classes daily, and just 46 percent of that class time is spent on activities that can be carried on into adult life.
- I would stand on top of a building with a megaphone and repeat these facts if I thought more people would listen. What do you think
- It is important to the future of this country. Children must have healthy bodies to have healthy minds and to be productive human

There's little doubt, this was a match made in Three Michigan girls recruited to play volleyball in Florida, the land of sunshine. Take a look outside your window and argue with them. Try to convince them they shouldn't go.

And when the trio proved instrumental in taking their new school - Florida Southern College - all the way to the final four in the NCAA Division II championship tournament, well, both sides had to be happy.

"Everything we did," said one of the three, Livonia Churchill graduate Chris Paciero, "far surpassed what both myself and the team expected. I never saw a team get progressively better like this one did."

Marla Evans, a Garden City graduate, and Paciero helped Schoolcraft College capture the National Junior College Athletic Association title in '88; both started for Southern this year. Sarah Heddle was also a major contributor at SC last year and Southern this year

Evans' overall improvement was a major factor in the Moccasins' success. The 5-foot-7 outside hitter set a single-season school record with 413 digs and was second on the squad with 415 kills and a .289 attack percentage.

Her efforts earned her spots on the all-Sunshine State Conference first team and the all-South Region squad. Twice she was named conference player of the week.

PACIERO'S SEASON was nearly as impressive. The 5-foot-3 setter stepped right into Southern coach Lois Webb's modified 4-2 (two setters) offense and accumulated 822 assists-to-kills, second on the team to Missy Crain.

She also was ranked among the NCAA II leaders with 0.70 serving aces per game; she had 100 for the season. Her 305 digs was one of the highest totals on the team. Heddle lost her starting position as a middle blocker to returnee Vicki Saltsman midway through the season, but she still put up some impressive numbers: 132 kills with a .302 attack average. She played in 67 of Southern's 142 games. The Moccasins finished 35-7 in matches, setting a school record for fewest losses in a season. They were 12-0 in the Sunshine State Conference and reached the NCAA II championship finals - consisting of the eight regional winners — Dec. 8-10 at California State-Bakersfield by beating University of Tampa

In their first-round match at the finals, Southern surprised Regis College 15-4, 15-0, 15-3 to move into the semifinals. Earlier in the season, Regis had dumped the Moccasins in five games This match was different. Paciero helped put Regis on its heels by serving 11-consecutive points in the second game.

In the semis, eventual champ and host Bakersfield dumped Southern 15-10, 15-5, 15-8. In the consolation final. North Dakota State edged Southern 15-3, 9-15, 15-9, 15-3,

"I WAS surprised we did so well," said Evans. "Everyone was saying, Wouldn't it have been neat if we had finished third.' I thought it was great to take fourth.'

Evans' reasoning is well-founded. Southern was, without doubt, the surprise of the NCAA II final four. The tallest of the Moccasin starters at year's end was 5-11. And they were rebuilding; just two players, Saltsman and Crain, returned with significant experience, and only Crain had started at Southern before.

Which meant the newcomers had to contribute immediately. They did, but it wasn't all orange blossoms and sunshine. There were a few thunderstorms for the new coaches and new players to endure along the way.

Webb, according to Evans, was not a coach to question. Indeed, any opposing opinion was rebuffed harshly.

There was friction between Evans and Webb over sets. Webb wanted low, quick sets for her offense; that's why she had recruited smaller. faster players. But the sets were too low, Evans protested; hitters were making contact with their forearms and knocking the ball out of bounds.

WHEN EVANS told the team's setters to set her higher during a match at the St. Louis tournament, Webb yanked Evans out and sat her down. Southern lost the next two games and Evans was reinserted into the lineup. And the sets were ele-

After the St. Louis tournament, the Moccasins started winning. They captured top honors in their own tournament for the first time in years, embarking on a 46-game win streak in the process. It was then that Evens — who early in the season began to doubt her team's prospects — and Paci-ero started to think Southern had possibilities. "When we beat Tampa three times, then we had to play them again in the regional and we beat them again, that's when I thought we could do really well," said Evans.

Her own contributions were a major reason for the success. Evans always considered herself a defensive player. "My goal when I got here was to be the best defensive player I could be," she said.

Webb thought otherwise. More and more sets went to Evans, and more and more often she put them away for points.

"I NEVER considered myself a big hitter," said Evans. "I used to say that to Chris (Paciero), and she'd say, 'You'd better get used to it. You're a big hitter now

Weight training and an intense pre-season conditioning program were the reasons for her improvement, Evans said. "I hit it much harder this year," she said. "With all the weight training and running, I was 10 pounds lighter than I was at last year's (NJCAA) finals."

But the extra conditioning caused problems. After working at a volleyball camp in June, Evans arm and shoulder got sore. Despite the trainer's efforts, tendonitis developed. It bothered her throughout the season, but she did not miss a

The intense conditioning had a positive effect on Paciero. "My level of play got better, and I dide't think it could," she said.

Paciero could not account for her serving proficiency. "I've never gotten this many aces. I don't know if it was because I was smarter or I just attacked the ball better."

What Paciero was certain of was how much the conditioning helped. "The No. 1 thing that improved was my defense," she said. "I picked up a lot of balls. My serving improved, too, and so did my setting, although it still wasn't where I wanted

Next season, when all three will be seniors and all but one player (a non-starter) returns, Southern's prospects will be bright. And that will make both the former Schoolcraft standouts and the school they attend an even happier match

W. Bloomfield

beats Hawks

Farmington Hills Harrison won nearly half of the events Tuesday, but West Bloomfield had too much depth in the boys swimming dual meet.

Camp Purdy and Ross Novak were double winners for the visiting Lakers, who won the season opener for both teams 106-65

The Hawks started with a victory in the 200-yard medley relay as Ed Serzo, Jason Barringer, Chad Hughes and Jeff Hurley finished in 1:49.8.

Serzo, Hughes and Barringer later won individual events.

Hughes captured the 50 freestyle (24.41). Serzo triumphed in the backstroke (1:03.8) and Barringer touched first in the breaststroke (1:06.03).

Harrison's fifth victory occurred in diving, in which Ryan Koonce racked up 203.75 points.

West Bloomfield's Purdy won the 200 freestyle (1:58.8) and the 100 freestyle (53.61), and Novak's successes came in the individual medley (2:13.25) and the 500 freestyle

(5:23.6). Novak also swam a leg of the winning freestyle relay, which the Lakers won in 3:48.7.

GLIAC will have hoop tournaments

staff writer

The tournament craze has hit in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Few NCAA Division I basketball conferences fail to end their seasons without benefit of a playoff tournament (the Big Ten is one of those few). At stake is an automatic berth in the NCAA tournament.

It's carried beyond that now, of course. All sorts of season-starting tournaments have popped up in the last few years, ranging from the Great Alaskan Shootout to the National Invitational Tournament and the Atlantic Coast Conference-Big East Challenge GLIAC teams, now all members of the NCAA Division II, have caught the fever, too. Starting with the conclusion of the 1990-91 season, the GLIAC will have post-season tournaments in both men's and womens basketball, with the winners capturing an automatic berth in the NCAA II tournament.

There are two significant factors in this development. First, it will be the first time the nine-school conference will have tournaments to decide the league title; second, the NCAA II has finally agreed to give the GLIAC champion an automatic berth.

THE AUTOMATIC berth will go into effect for the men's champion at the conclusion of this season, with the winner of the regular-season title getting the bid. The auto-

after next season

The GLIAC tournaments will be hosted by the schools whose teams were the regular-season champions, on consecutive weekends. The womens tournament for 1990-91 will be March 1-2; the men's tournament will be March 8-9.

The top four finishers in the regular-season standings will qualify. The first-place team will play the No. 4 team in one semifinal, with the second- and third-place squads meeting in the other. The consolation and championship games will be played the next day.

Although there's no doubting the positive impact the tournaments should have on the GLIAC, in prestige and publicity alone, landing an automatic NCAA II tournament berth is still the bigger coup.

For years, the NCAA II balked at granting the GLIAC a guaranteed spot in the tournament, mainly because several conference teams were affiliated with the NAIA as well and chose to compete in that post-season tourney instead.

When Hillsdale and Saginaw Valley State agreed to drop their NAIA affiliation and go strictly with the NCAA II prior to the beginning of this academic year, the Eagles' upset bid fizzles at Eastern

A glimmer of hope, perhaps. Could it happen? Really?

For an instant, those kind of thoughts must have flashed through the minds of St. Mary's basketball coaches and the fans who followed them to Ypsilanti Wednesday night, to watch the Eagles tackle NCAA Division I Eastern Michigan University.

It was nearly midway through the first half, and St. Mary's had just completed an 8-0 run that tied the game at 13. There was still more than 301/2 minutes of basketball to play, of course. But still . .

Those dreams were quickly dashed in the next four minutes. The Hurons outscored St. Mary's 18-2 in that stretch to build a ?1-15 lead. By halftime, the home team was comfortably ahead 48-33 - and that was as close as the Eagles would get, succumbing 111-74.

EVERY PLAYER on both benches got into the game, eventually. EMU's bench was a bit better; the Hurons ended the game with a 16-6 run, with Charles Thomas scoring six of those.

The dominance was evident everywhere except rebounding. St. Mary's outboarded EMU 50-47, with James Lakes leading the way with 16 Lakes also scored 10 points before fouling out with 7:32 left.

The Hurons, though, hit 56.6 percent of their shots to St. Mary's 35.8 percent. The Eagles also committed 33 turnovers to EMU's 15.

Garth Howard paced the Eagles with 11 points. Joachim Jerichow chipped in with 10. EMU got 24 points and nine rebounds from Kory Hallas, 21 points from Chris Pipkin, 14 points from Lorenzo Neely and 13 points, seven assists and seven rebounds from Thomas.

ves unbeaten Raiders scare

The Redford Union basketball team that howed up for Friday's game wasn't the ne RU team of the past

Many no doubt expected the visiting Panthers to surrender without a fight against unbeaten North Farmington, but that was hardly the case.

For more than three quarters, RU was on the verge of an impressive victory until the Raiders pulled away for an 89-76 outcome that was much closer than the final score

"Because of past records, they never expect that," RU coach Tip Smathers said. "We had poor game on Tuesday night, and we worked on some things.

"We know they're a good team, but we came in here to win."

NORTH, WHICH had won its first two games by lopsided margins over Berkley and Birmingham Seaholm, upped its record to 3-0 while the Panthers dropped to 2-2.

Smathers had RU working on its press breaker after being beaten by Farmington Hills Harrison on Tuesday, and the Panthers' execution of that was the key to their success Friday.

"Harrison made us look bad with their press, and we were disappointed in that," Smathers said. "We had scouts out and knew (the Raiders) pressed."

After struggling to stay with RU in the first half, North made a run in the third quarter to erase a 10-point deficit and opened up a lead in the final minute of the game.

"I have to give credit to RU," North's Tom Negoshian said. "Tip had a great game lan; they broke the press and made the

"Fortunately for us, we hung together and kinda wore them down at the end. To our kids' credit, we were down by 10 and came back and won the game."

The offense-dominated game naturally included some outstanding individual efforts.

RU GUARD Dan Lezotte scored a game-high 29 points, and teammate Steve Nowak scored 24. Nowak and Andy Christopherson had eight rebounds apiece as the Panthers held their own against a taller North team.

For the Raiders, forwards Brian Temple and Chris White scored 22 and 18 points, respectively. Point guard Matt Hoffman got most of his 16 in the second half, and he complemented that with 19 assists and eight steals. Center Eric Carlson also had 16 points and a game-high 13 rebounds

In the first half, the smaller Panthers used their quickness and crisp passing to beat North down the court for easy baskets.

Lezotte got a lot of his points on drives to the hoop and close shots, and Nowak was the outside threat, making four of his 10 field goals from 3-point land

'When they pressed," Smathers said, "we tried to go for the hoop, so they'd take the pressure off. But they kept pressing, and we kept going for it.

They pressed the issue, and we were equal to the task for 31/2 quarters."

"I was encouraged coming into this season," added Smathers, who wasn't so surprised by his team's play. "I know we have talent on this team. In the '80s, we haven't done well, but we feel we're coming

HOFFMAN, WHO averaged 30 points in North's first two games, had only two in the first half but had passed for 12 assists. Temple scored half his points and got support from Carlson, Eric Detter and White to keep the Raiders within two at halftime, 44-42.

"(Hoffman) gave up the ball," Negoshian said. "He and the whole team found out he doesn't have to carry the scoring load for us to be in a ballgame."

First-half free throws also helped the Panthers, who were 13-of-18 at the line in those two quarters. Legotte was 11-of-13 for the game. North, with 15 first-half fouls to RU's six, had both big men, Carlson and Bill Chwalik, in foul trouble with three apiece at halftime.

The Panthers looked ready to run away with the game at the start of the third quarter as Nowak scored seven of nine RU points and the Panthers streaked to a 53-43 lead.

North missed its first nine shots, but the situation turned quickly in its favor. White scored the team's first basket of the half at 4:57, and the press produced consecutive turnovers that led to Temple and Hoffman

After an RU timeout and another turnover - the Panthers made eight in the third quarter - Hoffman passed to Detter on the break for a layup, and Temple's free throw at 3:48 capped a run of nine unanswered points that cut RU's lead to 53-52.

"IT STARTED going our way and we gained confidence," Hoffman said, "but the main thing was we stayed in control, played smart and kept our heads.

"They came ready to play and we weren't ready to play. We didn't want to win the game. I think we can beat just about anybody if we're mentally ready to play our game and not someone else's game.

Hoffman's triple tied the game at 55, but the Panthers refused to fold. Hoffman hit a wide-open Carlson underneath the hoop with 19 seconds left to give the Raiders a 60-58 lead entering the fourth quarter.

The teams traded baskets at a furious pace to begin the last period, and the game was tied at 70 for the last time with 4:13 to Lezotte made a spectacular shot while falling down, and teammate Carl Watkins was shooting a 1-and-1 with the Panthers down 70-68. Before he shot the ball, North was called for a lane violation. Negoshian called timeout to question the call and was given a technical when he walked on the

"I wanted a double violation," Negoshian said. "When players from both teams step in, it's a double violation and jump ball. I wanted to know if that was the call.

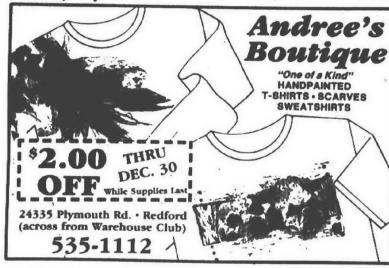

Lezotte made both free throws to tie, but Hoffman answered with a baseline layup, a steal and an assist to Carlson, who put the Raiders ahead 74-70 with 3:12 remaining.

North held on and extended its lead with some easy transition baskets in the last min-

"As well as RU played, it's a credit to our kids for pulling one out of the fire because it was there to lose," Negoshian said.

Dick Kughn, owner and chairman of the board of Lionel, shows off the firm's Christmas train, the North Pole Express. The train, made specifically to circle a Christmas tree, has Santa as the engineer and sells for about $150.

Christmas gift a train

By Sue Mason staff writer

Chugga, chugga, chugga. . . toot, toot.

Nope, you won't find those sound effects on a "Super Mario" or "Link Zelda II" cartridge. And don't bother checking out the CDs. Anyone with an ear for trains, knows the sound of a Lionel as it comes speeding down the tracks.

Maybe things like Nintendo cartridges and Game Boy are hot this holiday season, but when it comes to word association, there's Christmas, Santa Claus and

It's a tradition that dates back to 1900, when Joshua Lionel Cowen, owner of an electric shop, decided to put wheels on a box and have it go around and around in his shop window to draw attention to the batteries he made.

The battery shop was the forerunner of the Eveready Battery Co. and the Cowen's window display drew so much attention that people wanted to buy it. That was the start of the Lionel Train Co.

Lionel has seen good times - when it comes to electric trains, it has a 60 percent market share and bad times - General Mills' ill-fated decision to move the manufacturing operations to Mexico.

But today, it's coming back, much to the delight of train collectors, including Dick Kughn of Dearborn, who is probably the epitome of collectors.

He found his first Lionel train in a garbage can at the age of seven. Five decades later, he bought the company.

"Every train collector has a fantasy to own Lionel and I did too," Kughn said. "At first, it was an emotional experience, a dream come true, but after I got past that I realized it was a good business venture. I'm having a lot of fun with it.

KUGHN'S LIFELONG hobby started in Bay VIIlage, a suburb of Cleveland. That's where he found the train in the trash. He took it home and cleaned it and it worked. Two years later he got a Lionel set for Christmas and before long the attic of the family home was his train yard.

But by high school, his interest in his trains waned. Eventually, the set was boxed up and sold for

"I wish I had that now," said Kughn.

It wasn't until he was married and with a family on the way that he started his serious toy train collecting. Today, his collection encompasses "thousands and thousands and thousands" of toy trains and accessories, housed in a non-descript brown building on Grand River in Detroit.

The building is known as Carail, although you won't find a sign any where on the building announcing that fact. Its 30,000 square feet of space is packed with the collectables that are near and dear to Kughn's heart - his Lionel collection and a portion of his 206 antique cars.

At one time, the building was a neighborhood tavern, sporting goods store and bowling alley. In fact, four bowling lanes remain, although the wooden floor boards are covered with tables full of train sets and assorted memorabilia.

All aboard the 'Star' for dinner

By Loraine McClish staff writer

AKE YOUR RESERVATIONS early for a trip on the Michigan Star Clipper Dinner

The passengers are willing to travel from a radius of about 150 miles to get to Paw Paw where the Clipper takes off for a three-hour vacation on the rails of the Kalamazoo, Lake Shore & Chicago

Billed as "the dining adventure of your life," the Clipper is Michigan's answer to the Orient Express, with first-class travel and a four-course "silver service" lunch or dinner menu.

The first course the day we rode the Clipper was Shrimp Voulette, a dish any reasonable person could have made a meal. The bread likewise could have made an entire meal.

All that followed lived up to its four-star billing. You could tell the size of the portions by the number of passengers who left with their swan-shaped aluminum foil doggie bags.

Dining consumed the full three hours and before the passengers detrained, the chef was called out to take a bow, a practice, we were told, that happens after every meal he serves.

A few youngsters waved to the train from their front lawns, but the scenery for the most part was the heart of Michigan's wine country, interspersed with the shores of several lakes, apple, cherry and peach orchards, Christmas tree strands, some marshes, some wetlands, an occasional pumpkin patch and a few

"IT'S PARTY time for everybody," said our waitress. "On one ride this week, I served a just-engaged couple and another couple who were married 60 years and the whole car celebrated.

"Birthday celebrations are common. We had one family reunion take place on the train. It's fun for us

The Keen-agers, a group of seniors from the Assembly of God in Holland, were riding the train because some of them hadn't been on a train for a long while and some hadn't ever been on a train.

Yuletide travel to escape the craziness

By Iris Sanderson Jones contributing travel editor

Have the yuletide bells been ringing longer than usual this year or is this just the normal craziness of Christmas? People I meet have that look on their face, the kind you get when you stand inside a big bell when it is ringing. It's a get-me-outta-here look, and it's not even Christmas yet.

Just to give you an idea of what I mean, here are some of the ques-tions they ask. "Where can I go and hide after Christmas?" "Can I shop without leaving the house?"
"Do they have this Christmas craziness in other countries?" "What if I take all that money and run away from home?

One way to chase the holiday crazies away is ice Rockefeller Center while on quick trip to th

WHY DON'T we plan a little adventure of our own, camp out in a room with a champagne-colored carpet, silk walls, elegant mahogany writing tables and a bed big enough for the whole family?

Newman's good ole boy acting is great in 'Blaze' brother Earl's in town. Not since your 1949 portrait of Huey Long ("All the King's Men") has there been such a good-ole-boy, down-home, thigh-slappin' political per-formance as Paul Newman in Blaze" (A, R, 110 minutes).

In fact, Newman's characterization of Huey's brother, Earl K. Long. and his domination of Louisiana politics is warmer and loonier than Crawford's. Maybe Newman will win an Oscar, too.

"All the King's Men" was based on Robert Penn Warren's novel and "Blaze" was scripted and directed by Ron Shelton ("Bull Durham") and drawn from "Blaze Starr: My Life as Told to Huey Perry" by Blaze Starr, who appears in a cameo roll.

Both Long brothers were womanizers and that troubled their political careers, but Crawford's Huey Long had a harsh quality. Newman plays Earl as a manicky old man who knows where it's at and, as well, that he's losing it. But he still can love, and a good deal of "Blaze" is a pretty nice love story about an old man and a strip tease dancer. Blaze Starr.

"Blaze" is about as historical as any Hollywood product gets and does well depicting Earl's populist appeal in Louisiana.

Involvement with a stripper while at the same time ruffling southern feathers over the civil rights voting issues of the late '50s led to his defeat as governor. He did make a comeback, however, and was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1960 just before his death.

SOME MAY quibble at the flamboyant lunacy of Newman's portrayal of Long's political maneuvering and unseemly obsession with a young stripper. But that's only because today's politics under scrutiny of the TV lens has changed dramatically from the backwoods parish stumping and city ward politics of an earlier era. Newman does it like it ought to Lolita Davidovich is properly lush and fleshy but also projects an appealing vulnerability as the downhome girl making her way through the sinful city. At one and the same time she has everything and nothing. The entire supporting cast has just the right touch for ward-heeling politics at its best - or worst - and, taken with some fine photography by Haskell Wexler, adds up to an excellent film.

"Family Business" (D-, R, 120 minutes), starring Sean Connery, Dustin Hoffman and Matthew Broderick, is an interesting premise gone bad. It's one of those pictures that probably looked great on paper but turns out to be a sad excuse on performers, particularly Connery, the acting is first rate.

THERE ARE three generations in the McMullen family - Patriarch Jessie (Connery), son Vito (Hoffman), both thieves, and grandson Adam (Broderick) who leaves MIT grad school to enter the family business. Sounds clever but the story quickly descends into one long cliche. The dialogue, emotions, self-revelations and ethnic portrayals are trite and without dimension. Clearly, the script is the movie's downfall.

Nonetheless director Signey Lumet shows his stuff by pulling a thoughtful performance from Hoffman and a boisterous one from Connery. Broderick is stuck as the sap trying to understand the rift between father and grandfather. He's a boy genius who turns to crime instead of therapy. C'mon guys.

The major problem with "Family Business" is that you just can't believe any of it and you are left wondering how in the world screenwriter Vincent Patrick thought he'd get away with it. Reviewed by Susan Fincham.

"We're No Angels" (A, PG-13, 110 minutes) is an intriguing comedy set in 1935. It's the ultimate "con" as two convicts, Ne (Robert DeNiro) and Jim (Sean Penn), are forced to for its local shrine and by a superb case of mistaken identity wind up as priests in the local monastery.

Matters are complicated when Ned starts having romantic feelings for a hot-tempered local woman, Molly (Demi Moore). The two bogus priests get involved with a lot of good deed doing while trying to escape across the Canadian border.

THIS FINE comedy of errors works well as DeNiro and Penn consistently project the characters' contradictory facets - priest and hood. We're in on the joke and can recognize the humor of the situation while the townsfolk and other monks are hoodwinked by Ned and Jim's fine performance. Of course, those performances affect, and change, their characters, adding another dimension to the film. Good spirited comedy appropriate for the holiday season. Reviewed by Jason Brown.

For the kids of the '90s, the recurring battle of brain versus brawn is a thing of the past. Now the challenge is to conquer computer games. "Wizard" (D, PG) features three young children on an excursion to win it all in Los Angeles at the National Video Games Championship.

Corey Woods (Fred Savage) and his younger half-brother Jimmy (Luke Edwards) run away from, you guessed it, a broken home and head for the big games in L.A.

Along the way, they join up with a street-smart gal, Haley (Jenny Lewis). If that sounds trite, you can imagine how predictable the rest of it is, proving once again that the goofy kid next door can be a champion.

The film obviously is for younger audiences and features the brand new Super Mario III Nintendo game plus songs by New Kids on the Block. It tries to travel to L.A. with its principals but gets mired down in a thousand cliches from a hundred different movies. Reviewed by Debbie Orion Home Video has a major holiday promotion on the stands with three recent European films appearing Dec. 21 - "La Lectrice" ("The Reader," 1988, color, R, 98 minutes), 'Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown" (1988, color, R, 88 minutes) and "Field of Honor" (1987, color, PG, 87 minutes). All three have "specially enhanced yellow sub-titles" which are quite easy to follow.

The first two have been running theatrically for quite some time and, as of Dec. 3 "La Lectrice" was still on six screens and "Women on the Verge" on three. What that means is that there are a few art houses around the country still screening

That hasn't helped "La Lectrice" very much. After almost eight months running, it hasn't caught $1 million dollar box office. "Women on the Verge" has $7.1 million to show for almost 13 months on American screens. That's a pretty hefty sum for a foreign film.

But it escapes me why. Despite a pretty funny last half, the film opens with a frantic and confusing pattern. But what do I know? "Women on the Verge" garnered five awards, including best screenplay - its worst feature - at the 1988 Venice Film Festival, most popular at the 1988 Toronto fest plus two best actress kudos (1988 European Film and Golden CIAK) for Carmen Maura who plays Pepa, a TV star and voicedubber for foreign films.

IN THIS CASE, "foreign" is outside of Spain where Pedro Almodovar lensed this story of Pepa and her manicky rush to say goodbye to her lover, Ivan (Fernando Guillen), who is pulling up stakes for fresh, if not greener, pastures in the form of a feminist attorney.

Complicating matters, Pepa's friend Candela (Maria Barranco) turns up frightened out of her wits after a wild time in bed with a lover who turns out to be a Shiitte terrorist planning to bomb the 10 o'clock flight to Stockholm. Add to that mess Ivan's son Carlos and his girl, Marisa, who turn up looking to rent Pepa's apartment. They're followed by Ivan's mother, Lucia (Julieta Serrano), a psychiatric patient suffering from Ivan's rejection 20 years ago.

There you have all the ingredients of a good bedroom farce in the best madcap tradition. Unfortunately, it takes most of the film for these relationships to be explained. That, taken with the slow pace - particularly during the first half - spoils the potential impact these complications might ordinarily have.

Hopefully, the other two Orion "classics" - which were not available for preview - are better suited to the local market. "La Lectrice" ("The Reader") stars noted French actress Miou-Miou as Constance who is reading a novel to her boyfriend,

The novel is about Marie, a charming and sensuous woman who uses her knowledge of literature to read literary selections which fit her

"FIELD OF Honor" is a tale of another time when military service was a commodity rather than a duty. Set just before the Franco-Prussian War of 1870, the film details one aspect of the French lottery system for military draft.

Pierre Naboulet, the younger son of a widow, has drawn a good number which he proceeds to sell to save his mother's farm. His company is defeated and he finds himself wounded and alone behind Prussian lines. He meets a young boy and the two become good comrades in bad

If none of these strike your fancy, you can always get involved in the tape wars and buy a copy of "Batman" - they're seiling for as little as $16.95. Lots of video store owners are upset that they were released so soon (November) and at such a low price (list $29.95 soon lowered to $19.95)

Video stores make it on rentals, particularly of major, hit films, but at these prices, instead of the usual $70 to $90 introductory charge for major motion pictures, why rent when you can buy?

It looks like the big companies are trying to shake out (and take over) . the video business. Once they drive; out the small players, it will be easy to raise prices.

But given the insatiable demand. for visual imagery in our times, it looks like rental and purchase will continue to fill home screens. It will be interesting to see who ultimately controls the business.

"Fate drew us together," says singerChristy McCall of Jugglers and Thieves, descriing how the band started two years ago. Actully, she might not be far from the truth.

Formed by veterans of three differentiands drummer Colin O'Brien of The Frames, ead and rhythm guitarist Matt Sage of The Vaderbilts and vocalist Christy McCall, bassist Ji Zimba and rhythm and lead guitarist Paul Cortz of The Akwa Batz - Jugglers and Thieves met irough a classified ad in the Metro Times.

"I made one phone call out of the 2,00 or so responses that I got to the ad," O'Brierrecalled. 'We started talking about karma."

It must have been pretty good karm because Jugglers and Thieves have enjoyed grea critical acclaim since that fateful phone call.

In 1988, the Metro Times voted the bad "Next Local Band Most Likely to Make It lig" and "Best Record by a Local Band" and in 1989 McCall was voted "Talent Deserving Vder Recognition.'

Their debut LP, "Jugglers and Thievs" made the charts on several college radio statics including WBMB in New York, WECI in Richard, Va., and WTUL in New Orleans, La., and is eceiving air play on more than 90 stations acrosshe country.

BUT PERHAPS their finest achievement was getting a mention in Bob Talbert's colunn in the Detroit Free Press.

"My mother didn't believe I was doinanything worthwhile," O'Brien said, "but when sh saw the band in Bob Talbert's column, she finall believed that I was doing something good."

wood Mac, but the comparison does not seem accurate. Although McCall, with her medieval clothing hinting of things metaphysical, does bear a passing resemblance to Stevie Nicks, the music itself sound more like Janis Joplin or early Heart.

The Jugglers describe their sound as "soulful folk-rock with a bluesy feel." Their music is perfect for the Detroit stations specializing in "classic rock.'

Too bad those stations are so unsupportive of local bands because Jugglers and Thieves' brand of early '60's/late '70s would fit in easily between hits by Led Zeppelin and the Who.

'That's really the common denominator of the group. We all like the music from that era," he added, "But each person in the band adds their own color to the sound."

McCall's passionate singing was modeled from the spirituals she listened to as a child and female blues singers like Janis Joplin. She grew up in a family of performers. Her mother was a church musician and her father was an emcee at a Vegasstyle club - the Elwood - in Windsor.

The exposure must have paid off because she has a seemingly effortless knack of enchanting audiences with her dramatic flourishes and ener-

At a recent performance at Paycheck's in Hamtramck, two devoted male fans were standing inches from the stage, gazing worshipfully at McCall.

ALL THAT attention could go to her head, but she takes it in stride, saying simply, "We're a democratic band.

Cortez nods, adding: "Everyone in the band is very talented. We literally have to take turns writing songs.

Jugglers and Thieves plan for the immediate future is to continue touring in support of their Their music has often been compared Fleet- album. They just returned from a three-week tour that took them through the Midwest and into the deep South. The highlight of the trip was a stop in New Orleans. There, they played in a concert with the Beat Farmers, did a live set on WTUL radio and performed at the legendary Tipitina's.

Since their record is getting a lot of air play in other cities, the fans already know the songs and are very responsive.

"When it goes well out of town, its better than playing here because the people are familiar with us," Sage said. "The places we're playing on tour are like St. Andrew's Hall is here.'

Another goal is to reach the day when they can finally quit their day jobs. McCall manages a metaphysical book store. Zimba runs a health food store. O'Brien works in a tofu factory. Sage is a house painter, and Cortez counsels developmentally disabled adults.

THAT DAY might not be too far off as the band becomes more successful. Even though Cortez still handles all the booking chores for the band, they have hired a lawyer to help secure a record

"We can't really talk about it yet, but there is interest from record labels," Cortez said.

"Our goal is to become big, rich, famous rock stars," McCall said.

"So we can ignore everyone," Sage added. "And hire a vegetarian caterer," Zimba said.

'And pay your road manager," said the band's road manager.

Everyone contemplated this for a moment. Then the silence is broken as they begin to get ready for the evening's show.

GUESS YOU HAD TO BE THERE

— The Idiots

We've been conked on the noggin and drugged off to a place where Suzy's a head, Stevie drives too fast and everyone has an attitude. But, hey, we don't mind because this world is full of Idiots.

Except we like these Idiots, who are a snarling, raucous punk outfit that makes you laugh, yell and throw down. Mr. X, known to the sporting goods world as Glynn Scanlan, leads this outfit of madeap music men. Scanlan beats the snot out of his drums and screams out such price-less lines as "People really think I'm dumb/People always call me scum/ People say I'm rude . . . because I got an attitude."

Paul Liedel lets loose with some of the best scratching punk guitar sounds this side of Black Flag and bassist Steve Bauer (Sensitive Big Guys) thumps merrily along. Those, are the Idiots.

Del Fuegos

A few interesting things have happened to this Boston band since recording "Stand Up" in 1987. First, they switched labels— from Slash/ Warner Bros. to RCA. Second, cofounders Dan Zanes and Tom Lloyd have made some surprising person-nel changes, replacing Dan's little brother Warren on guitar with Adam Roth and drummer Woody Giessman with Joe Donnelly. Finally, producer Mitchell Froom, who was at the controls for each of the Del Fuegos first three releases, is also gone, replaced by Dave Thoener.

These sweeping changes may have come in the nick of time, averting the band's potential collapse due to the commercial and critical failure of "Stand Up." The Del Fuegor' first two releases, "The Longest Day" and "Boston, Mass.," brought this rau-cous bar band waves of critical acclaim and a legion of underground

special writer

What hath Carson wrought?

A common thread woven through the lives of many of today's young up-and-coming comedians is that time they spent watching "The To-night Show" as children.

In one Ferndale home, Van Gunter remembers sitting in front of the television, watching the comics of the day perform — including the king of the monologue himself.

"I always watched Carson when I was a little kid," Gunter said. "I was always able to stay up on Friday nights. I remember watching Robert Klein and Richard Pryor."

Of course, comedy was a small in-dustry in 1977, when Gunter graduated from Ferndale High School. He went on to Western Michigan University, but did not forget those funny television moments. And then, a few comedy clubs started opening up across the country - not just in the comedic meccas of Los Angeles and New York.

"You can make good money doing stand-up, but it depends on how much you want to be away from home," Gunter said.

Four years ago, Gunter took the travel factor a step further moving himself to Van Nuys, Calif. - an effort to get closer to the action.

"I'm out in L.A. because it's the place you have to be, if you want to do anything," Gunter said. "You either love it or hate it. Now, I like being there, but it really is almost anything goes."

For that reason, Gunter makes it a point to come home during the holiday season. He visits his parents, his three sisters and their families.

In the last year, Gunter's comedy career has taken some big strides forward. He has appeared in Fox Broadcasting's "Comic Strip Live" and Showtime's Comedy Network, and S ences have been particularly warm to him.

"I mentioned celebrating my 30th birthday on stage one night, and one lady started singing Happy Birthday.' She didn't stop until the whole audience was singing. I was so embarrassed. All I could say was 'thank

DETROIT CHRISTMAS

For over 12 years, Joy of Jesus, Inc., has provided hungry Detroit families with everything they need to enjoy a Christmas dinner. But, our efforts don't end with a turkey and the trimmings. In fact, they just begin there. At Joy of Jesus, we also provide year-around training, motivational, ministry, housing and medical services for these and many other families. You see, at Joy of Jesus we believe in a "hand up" - not a "hand out." Won't you help us to provide Christmas dinners, as well as life-changing programs for hundreds of needy Detroit families? Your tax-deductible donation of only $32 will provide a Christmas dinner - and a whole lot more.

Riding the rails

Looking out the front of the Clipper's first dining car, passengers get a glorious view of a diesel locomotive painted in the colors of the Santa Fe Railroad.

The Michigan Star Clipper's three dining cars recreate an era of grace and style when the privileged celebrated in elegance aboard such luxurious trains.

To dine on the Clipper

A group of neighbors from South Bend, Ind., out for a Saturday afternoon, said they liked riding Am-Trak so well they wanted to try the Clipper. Ditto for many of the other passengers who had recently ridden AmTrak or snow trains in Canada and just wanted to repeat an enjoyable experience.

The largest group was Michigan Bell employees who got their tickets because they were the top service sales people that month in the Lansing area. Most had never had dinner on a train before.

Among those employees was Dan Wells who told his friends about his first train ride, a field trip for first graders. Wells was a resident of Livenia and attended the former Cooper Elementary School at the time. The train he rode went from the Plymouth Station, now used as a hobby shop, to Michigan Central Station in Detroit.

The Michigan Star Clipper's three cars were part of the "Keystone Train," a one of a kind train built in 1956 by the Budd Company for prestigious passenger service on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

AFTER 20 YEARS in moth balls, the cars were reconstructed by Trains Unlimited Inc. to recreate an era of grace and style when the privileged celebrated in elegance aboard such luxurious trains.

The Clipper is owned by Marj and Jack Haley, of Waterloo, Iowa. The family also owns The Iowa Star Clipper and The Newport Star Clipper in Rhode Island. In 1987 The Iowa Star Clipper was given that state's premier tourist and named the "Tourism Attraction of the Year."

The Michigan Star Clipper departs Paw Paw at 7 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and at noon Sunday yearround. The dinner train cost is $39.95 per person. Gratuity and drinks are additional.

"Expanded noon departures are scheduled and major credit cards are accepted," said Rick Simian, who, grew up in Franklin Village and graduated from Birmingham Groves High School. Simian is now a student at Western Michigan University and director of marketing for the Clipper.

"The Clipper is available for private charters, group tours and cor-porate functions" he said.

O HOMESTEAD GALLERY more than the same of the same Wrap-up

Exhibit pays back artist/supporters

staff writer

"Friends of Meadow Brook II" developed into a lot more than a simple thank-you.

Kiichi Usui, gallery director, said he has been asking artists to support gallery fund-raisers since 1983, and more than 200 artists from southeastern Michigan have participated by doing paintings on sheets and kimonas that were sold at auctions. The exhibit at the gallery on the Oakland University campus, Rochester, continues through Wednesday.

"I thought as a gallery we should present some of their work," he said, adding that it is gallery's way of reciprocating for their help with the fund-raisers. "This is our second 'Friends' show. We did one two years ago. I'd like to make a semi-annual event."

Usui said that in his contact with the artists who help with the benefits, he has visited many of their studios and while he isn't there specifically to look at a body of work, he does get an idea of the things they are involved in.

He remembers telling Clifford McChesney at his studio in Ann Arbor that he was going to save one gallery wall for him. The result is "Three panels from polyptych: Showa Ends," three outstanding, large, acrylic paintings on unstretched canvas in subtle pastels.

WHILE AT RICHARD Kozlow's studio in Royal Oak, Usui saw the artist's "Victim Series," tempera on paper. He suggested the entire series of unframed black and white paintings be hung edge to edge on one Kozlow has been concerned that this group of paintings find an approplate home. They were shown last year at Birmingham Temple, but this particular arrangement, Kozlow feels, is especially effective. Shown nearby are two black and white, painted alumnium sculptures by Charles McGee. The rest of this section is bare. The only thing lacking is a bench in front of Kozlow's wall for a bit of quiet contemplation. These paintings with their skeletal figures against black backgrounds are haunting and the unwritten message is "lest we forget." Kozlow's four other paintings in the exhibition are from his series on Mexico.

McGee's sculptures, with a snake motif, incorporate elements of African pattern into his always fine sense of line and spatial values.

A group of sculptures and photographs by James Lawton is on the same wall as a display of models for larger sculptures by Joseph Wesner. There isn't a conflict here.

LAWTON, LIKE AMERICAN painter Charles Sheeler, has an appreciation for buildings, geometric forms and structural elements.. Several of his photographs are from his grain elevator series and his sculptures definitely have an architectural and sometimes playful twist.

Wesner's works are often peopleoriented — something that doesn't sink in at first. The "Moses Study" of cardboard, wood, rubber, paint and wax, is an example of this. This was a working model for a commission. Another model, "Motherswell Study," was done for the large sculpture in front of South Foundation Hall on the campus.

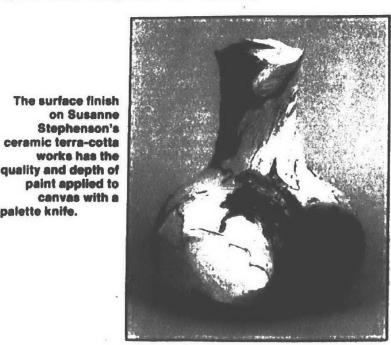

Along the back wall are sculptures by Susanne Stephenson and John Stephenson, husband and wife who are ceramic artists. She's closer to a painter working in ceramics and he's more sculptor working in ceramics. His works are so powerfull that ceramics by anyone but his wife or someone of the stature of a Jun Kanecko would quite possibly be diminished.

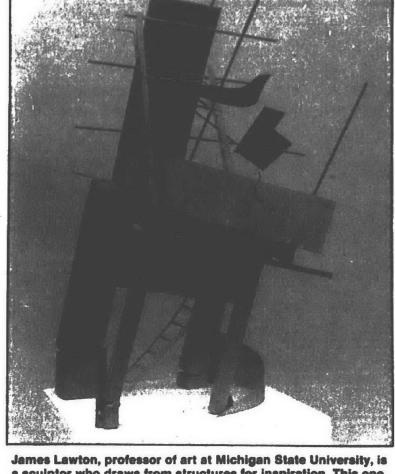

Add in a painting by Irving Taran, three still lifes by Jens Plum and four encaustic and collage on wood by Gilda Snowden and Meadow Brook Gallery holds—an—extremely strong show of contemporary works by some of the best artists in the Usui said he was surpised when he got it all together to note how many of the artists were affiliated with colleges and universities.

When Usui says this is the kind of thing Meadow Brook Gallery ought to be doing, he's absolutely right.

Gallery hours are 1-5 p.m. Tuesday-Friday and 2-6:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Richard Kozlow's "Victim Series," tempera on paper, makes a strong, unforgettable statement about the Holocaust and the unmitigated abuse of human rights.

Working smart saves time

Q. With working full time and doing my holiday baking, my oven looks awful but I don't have time to scrub it. Now I have company coming for Christmas, and I know I'm ng to be embarrassed. Can you suggest some cleaning shortcuts.

A. Antiquated cleaning methods used to make oven cleaning real drudgery. With proper planning and better techniques, however, that for-merly time-consuming task is now a simple 1-2-3 process. The secret is to eliminate rinsing. You can cut your cleaning time by two-thirds by dispensing with that one messy procedure. Do it like this:

Remove the racks and unscrew Remove the racks and unscrew the light bulb just enough so it goes out. (Spraying a hot bulb could burst it; screw it back in when you clean.) Open a window, hold your breath and, following the manufacturer's instructions, apray the oven interior. Move away to return breather. Move away to return breather. Son't rush the oftenfield process; give it ample time to do its job.

Gather these supplies and place all within easy reach: rubber gloves, roll of paper towels, wastebasket, wet scrubbing sponge, clean damp cloth and a spray bottle of water mixed with a small amount of liquid detergent. Then:

1. Using paper towels, wipe gunk from inside your oven. Dispose of towels as they are used.

A With a well accumbing accumpance of the control o

How about those messy racks? Easy, Take your racks and a heavy garbage hag to a warm spot (out in the sun in the summer, or a tub of hot water in the winter). Being very careful not to puncture the hag or inhale the fumes, place the racks in the hag with one cup of ammonia (only) and tie it shut tightly. Let them steep for soveral hours then just wipe clean.

By working amart instead of hird you can clean even the dirtiest oven in about 10 minutes. How about those messy racks?

Helpful hints for camcorder parties

AP — Camcorder users filming holiday festivities should vary their shots — using pan, tilt, zoom or different camera angles — to keep the interest level high.

But don't overdo it, or audie may get dizzy, cautions the 5mm Vi-deo-Council, a New York-based industry trade group

Know when to dop abouting when filming children; parties the vigaization also says though it (open)

Shop differently for a condo

Buying a condominium is different from buying a single family home. While that may appear to be obvious, the legal consequences and the differences are profound.

While it is important to ensure that all of the protections that one would ordinarily seek in purchasing a single-family home are applicable in the purchase of a condominium, there are additional factors that must be considered by the prospective applicable to the purchase of a single-family home.

Initially, it is important to read the condominium documents, which control the operation of the condominium project. Incident to that will be the need to understand what the rules and regulations, restrictions and obligations are of co-owners who buy a unit in the condominium project. Fannie Mae Iowers Ioan limit

(AP) — The ceiling on the size of single-family home loans purchased by the nation's secondary mortgage-market agencies is declining by $150 to $157,460 next year, the first drop in at least a decade, the government said.

Lenders usually charge interest rates a quarter-to a half-percentage point lower on mortgages they sail on the secondary market, compared with loans that exceed the limit.

The Federal National Mortgage Association (hannle Mae) amounced the drop in its limit based of October data collected by the Federal Housing mance Board, which said the average home purchase pirics was $130,000 in the month, down from $1,000 is year earlier.

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. (Free decades) followed with a later amouncement my later to was recogning its ceiling for ingle-family hands to star to a describe with mortgage con in the star and after any decades.

Together, the two congressionally chartered but publicly owned agencies help finance nearly one in four of the nation's residential mortgages. They purchase mortgages from lenders and repackage them into bond-like securities for investigation.

Robert M. O'Toole, senior vice president at the Mortgage Bankers Association of America, a trade group, said the agencies should have used their discretion and left the ceiling unchanged. The alight drop will affect few homebuyers but he complained it sets a bad precedent and will prove somewhat disruptive for lenders.

Yamasaki tower would be tallest in Europe

staff writer

Residents in Istanbul, Turkey, will soon know the meaning of the word "skyscraper" thanks to a Troy-based architectural firm.

A design by Minoru Yamasaki Associates was selected by a group of private Turkish investors for the Imar Plaza, which would be the tallest building in Europe and the 15th tallest in the world, according to Yamasaki spokeswoman Toni Wilen.

The design includes a 70-story office tower connected by a suspended walkway to the top of a smaller, 50story, 1,000-room luxury hotel with a five-level retail complex. The building also features á 100-foot-high glass galleria at ground level and a 'sky lobby" at the top of the hotel.

Imar Plaza will promote and eventually serve as a focal point for national and international commerce in Istanbul, Turkey, she said.

It is conceivable, Wilen said, that Imar Plaza won't be built. The investors selected Yamaski Associates' obstacle, she said. But she expects the project will be built and when completed will have a significant impact on Istanbul.

"Istanbul is a growing city, but it doesn't have anything like this. This will markedly change the skyline,' Wilen said.

"The most interesting thing about this project is the (density). (The development) has 2.5 million square feet on 160,000 square feet of prop-

PROJECT INVESTORS wanted a structure large enough to suit their needs but were limited in the amount of land they could acquire.

Only three architects, HOK architects in St. Louis, John Portman and Associates in Atlanta and Yamasaki Associates were invited to submit designs for the project.

Competitions, Wilen said, are becoming increasing more popular in major projects because developers are able to get several different options without hiring more than one firm. Architects are willing to enter

Wilen said Yamasaki Associat design was selected because of its landmark visibility, plan flexibility and use of regional materials and technology. "When you put up a 70-story building, it's going to make an impression on the area," Wilen said, adding the building is not only tall, but sleek in design. "From a distance, it looks like one building."

The plan can be adapted for sever al uses, including corporate headquarters, offices for foreign and domestic companies, retail shops, services and restaurants.

Yamasaki Associates designs projects for many parts of the world and has developed an expertise in using local products for manufacturing which saves money in the project's construction, Wilen said.

Yamasaki Associates also designed the Sisli Culture and Trade Center, a $500 million, multiuse facility in Istanbul. The design for the center was also chosen in a design competition, Wilen said.

Taller buildings now feasible

special writer

Frank Lloyd Wright believed that someone would eventually build a mile-high skyscraper - so much so, in fact, that in 1956 he unveiled his own design for a 528-story, mile-high building for the city of Chicago.

It was a revolutionary concept for its time, but 30 years later, Wright's vision seems more fact than science fiction.

Leslie Robertson, a New York engineer who has collaborated with architects on three of the world's five tallest buildings, says that current technology makes the concept entechnical issues involved," says Robertson "they revolve around terribly uninteresting things, like plumbing.

Just as the invention of the elevator made the high rise a practical building type in the late 1800s, advances in building systems and design methods have made skyscrapers a permanent fixture on the urban landscape. Today, tall buildings account for the central cores of nearly every city with a population of more than 100,000, and Robertson and others predict that skyscrapers will continue to grow as technology takes strides toward the stratosphere.

architects and engineers in designing such buildings are accounting for wind and seismic conditions and the type of foundation upon which the building is to be located: different compositions of stone and soil require different structural systems.

With so much on the horizon, will we someday see a mile-high building?

"I won't hold my breath," says.
Robertson, explaining that a project pof such magnitude would involve. many of the country's most talented architects and engineers.

"There just seems to me there are better ways to spend that energy."

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

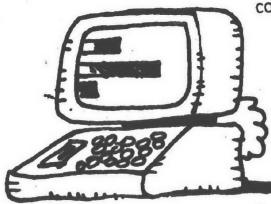

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days.
Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
