Parent Richard Moyer, who worked on a committee to help pass the millage last year, said that as proposed, the transfer of elementary and middle school students doesn't reflect goals set by the district's housing task force.

Parents protest boundary changes

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

For two hours Monday night, board of education members heard from parents upset about proposed attendance boundary changes in the Plymouth-Canton school district.

About 100 people attended the public hearing.

Nine elementaries and four middle schools would be affected by the redistricting, recommended by the school district's Housing Task Force.

Parents' objections ranged from dangers presented by crossing Sheldon Road to disruption caused by uprooting students and curriculum

Many characterized the changes as "band-aid solutions" to permanent problems. President Dean Board Swartzwelter and Assistant Superintendent for Instruction Mike Homes outlined reasons for the changes.

"As neighborhoods mature and new residences are built, we tend to get changes in population. From time to time, we have to move students to where the facilities are," said Swartzwelter.

"The board has made no decision on any recommendations. A lot of

Proposed changes will affect elementaries, middle schools

These redistricting recommendations are proposed for the 1990-91 school year:

• Assign Hoben Elementary students who live in the Lexington Square subdivision north of Proctor and west of Morton Taylor to Eriksson.

• Contingent upon enrollment and space, assign a section of Hoben Elementary's kindergarten to Field Elementary, and one section of Hulsing kindergarten to Miller Elementary · Locate a self-contained classroom for the learning disabled at Gallimore Elementary to provide for K-5 instructional needs at Hulsing.

· Assign Pioneer Middle School students from the Embassy Square and Fellows Creek subdivisions to Lowell Middle School. Ninth-grade students in that area would be asigned to Centennial Educational Park.

 Assign students now attending West and Pioneer middle schools to Central Middle School. Students who would be affected live in subdivisions including Heather Hills, Plymouth Commons, Hunters' Creek, Deer Creek and Fox Point. Also included would be students on Naples Drive, Pebble Creek, Rolston and the Amherst block.

· Assign to Central Middle School students now attending West who live between Beck and Ann Street, North Territorial and the C & O railroad tracks. The Beacon Meadows subdivision would be included. Ninthgraders in that area would be assigned to C.E.P.

• Assign elementary students from Deer Creek attending Isbister to Bird School. Middle school students

Schools sell land for golf development

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

The Plymouth-Canton school district is selling 15 acres in Canton Township originally slated for an elementary school. The action helps clear the way for a group of developers to construct a 750acre golf/residential complex behind the Canton Administration Building.

The board approved the $139,680 sale last week

"This parcel is landlocked behind Canton Township Hall," said Superintendent John Hoben. "It's currently being used for soccer fields." Hoben said the site would have served an 800-home subdivision that was planned for the southwest corner of Cherry Hill and Canton Center.

'We scurried to get a site, but the proposed sub is long since gone," said Hoben.

'It's in our best interest to look for a site closer to where the growth might be.'

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack said the 15 acres are among several parcels FWS Golf, Inc., is attempting to acquire. The area is bounded by Cher-Vovra angry as grievance talks stall

Commissioners and attorneys for the city failed Monday to reach a settlement on grievances filed by City Commissioner Jerry Vorva over his firing and suspension from the police department in January 1989.

The city plans to resume negotiations in the near future, according to Bill Graham, acting city manager for Plymouth, but no date is set.

"What we had on the table last night basically was not satisfactory," Graham said. The meeting was closed to the public because it in-

But any discussion of De Mattia's plans may be premature, Breen noted, since the "county hasn't sat down with Northville and worked out details" yet.

Breen thinks the development will help the city of Plymouth because it will generate more people and therefore more business.

Driver, 17, faces trial in fatality

A 17-year-old Milford youth will stand trial on negligent homicide charges in the traffic death of Robert Valicento, 68, of Canton Town-

Valicento was killed Oct. 13 when his 1988 Crown Victoria LTD collided with a Ford Ranger driven by Mark Vernier, a senior at Redford Catholic Central High School. The accident occurred at about 4 p.m. on North Territorial at Ridge in Plymouth Township.

At a hearing Tuesday before Detroit Recorder's Court Judge John Patrick O'Brien, Vernier's attorney asked that the charges be dismissed under the Holmes Youthful Trainee

Under the act, juveniles are placed on probation and their criminal records cleared if they go three years without a conviction.

Eight members of Valicento's family, including his 89-year-old mother Filomena Valicento, attended the hearing. His daughter, Priscilla Krencicki of South Lyon, pleaded with Judge O'Brien not to grant the dismissal. "My dad's life is over. I don't feel this should be so easily dismissed. bond, set at his arraignment by 35th district Judge John MacDonald. He pleaded not guilty.

Valicento was returning from his daughter's home in South Lyon when the accident occurred

Police said Valicento was eastbound on North Territorial, traveling at 45 or 50 m.p.h.

Vernier, southbound on Ridge, was on his way to a job site for Exquisite Landscaping Inc. of Northville where he was working part-time. He told police he stopped at the stop sign, then proceeded into the intersection after looking both east and Traveling to the same site in a different vehicle was Vernier's employer. The two had taken a wrong turn, and the employer was waiting in his jeep at North Territorial and Ridge for Vernier. The employer told police that using hand signals, he told Vernier which way to proceed. The employer watched Vernier look both ways, and witnessed the impact.

The vehicles collided, causing the LTD to roll into a ditch. Valicento was pronounced dead at the scene. Vernier received minor injuries.

North Territorial was closed for about two hours after the accident. Alcohol was not a factor in the crash. Road and weather conditions were good. VALICENTO WAS a captain with the Detroit Fire Department for 31 years. He retired in 1973.

The land can accommodate an 18-hole course, condominiums, and cluster homes and a small "village commercial" area

It's uncertain whether the course will be public or private, but Yack predicts it will be more challenging than Fellows Creek near 1-275 and Lotz Road in the southern end of the township.

Yack foresees "condominiums or cluster homes in one section and much larger lots in another. I think it would be safe to say I don't see any commercial around the outside of the development. If there is commercial, it would be "village commercial" - very small scale, architecturally treated and very appealing in servicing primarily this residential golf community." ### Area census estimates vary

staff writer

One western Wayne County community expects a big population gain in the 1990 census - another a population loss - but most expect things to stay as they are.

The most significant change locally has taken place in Canton Township, Wayne County's hotbed for residential development. Since 1980, the population there has grown from 48,000 and might approach 60,000 next year, said Canton research associate Jerry Mar-

Jon Austin, city manager in Garden City, said his community will experience a decrease of about 2,000 from the 1980 census.

Garden City's population was 35,640 in 1980 and is at 33,484 now, he said. The city has also seen a rise in the percentage of senior citizens and a decrease in the school age population.

In 1980 there were 7,780 students attending Garden City schools; to-

Representatives from Livonia, Redford and Westland said the population in their communities will probably remain stable or increase slightly over the 1980 census.

Paul Sincock, assistant to the city manager in Plymouth. Federal and state funds are allocated based on figures.

'A gain in population certainly helps us in terms of federal dollars, and state dollars, because those are based on population," he said. 'We've lost a considerable amount of money because our population dipped below 10,000 - every little bit counts.'

The 1980 census pegged Plym-

"I WOULD anticipate that we've gained a little and we're over 10,000 here in the city," Sincock said. He also added that the Plymouth-Canton-Plymouth Township area may see some changes in federal and state representation as a result of the census. Census figures also help determine congressional districts at the local and federal from the Northville and Canton areas." He said the township which now lies in the 2nd Congressional District represented by Republican Carl Pursell, may be split from the Livonia, a part of which also lies in the 2nd District

Breen expects the township population to come in at 25,000 in the 1990 scensu that's just 2,000 resient more than in 1980. Township officials planned it htat way with low density zoning and slow growth.

In Livonia, mayor Bob Bennett said his city's population should remain stable at about 104,000.

My own prediction is that we will remain relatively constant. and remain at about 104,000...1 know between 1980 and now we've decreased a little, but we did pick up some young families who moved into the community. I would hope we don't drop below 100,000 because that would have serious financial consequences," he said.

The number of dwelling units in Livonia has gone up significantly since the 1980 census, increasing from 30,000 to 37,000

Congressional boundaries could also be affected by the census results, Bennett said.

"I think that could still happen, because some of our districts are co-determinous with Livonia," he said. "They overlap. I think we could still be impacted by a change in district boundaries. Starting with Detroit and working out, I think we're all going to see a change in our election districts."

Election districts for other communities could also be affected, especially if the 1990 census determines that Detroit's population has dropped below the 1 million level.

Redford Township Supervisor James Kelly said he expects to see a population increase in his community, despite an opposite prediction from the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

"SEMCOG predicts we're going to lose, but from everyone I talked to and from everything I've seen in my neighborhood, we're going to (see an increase)," he said. "Younger people with children are moving in, so I expect to gain."

Kelly said he expects Redford's population to increase slightly from the 1980 census figures of 58.600.

Outgoing Westland Mayor Charles Griffin said his community's population will increase slightly, to somewhere between 88,000 and 100,000.

"It's my best guess that we've grown tremendously in new housing developments, but the average family size is down, so I don't think we're going to see tremendous

Parent consent bill heads for vote

By Tim Richard staff writer

A state Senate committee Tuesday will report out a House-passed parental consent abortion bill, probably after stripping out the "suicide amendment."

We intend to report out a bill next week. There will be no testimony - just amendments and deliberations," said chairman Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, after Tuesday's 65-minute public hearing of the Senate Human Resources Committee.

Ten witnesses - evenly divided on the issue - concentrated on the House amendment that would allow girls under 18 to get an abortion with neither parental nor probate court consent if a psychologist or psychiatrist certified in writing they were

"A GAPING loophole," vice chairman R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, said of the suicide clause.

He cited testimony by Michigan Right to Life that 95 percent of 138,000 California abortions were for "mental health of the mother" reasons. California also allowed abortions in cases of rape and incest and for the physical health of the mother. Its law was in effect prior to the 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision sharply limiting states' rights to regulate abortion If 1989 is any guide, the Senate panel probably will vote 4-1 to re-port out House Bill 5013 minus the suicide amendment

The same panel reported out a similar Senate bill by that vote last year Yes votes came from Dillingham, Geake, Harmon Cropsey, R-Decatur, and Gilbert DiNello, D-East Detroit. The nay came from John Cherry, D-Clio

Dillingham expects a full Senate vote the week of Feb. 13. If the suicide clause is removed, the bill House would have to concur in the Senate amendment.

Gov James Blanchard is expected to veto the measure. The Senate has a two-thirds majority for an override, but the House so far has not.

A MICHIGAN State University student, Lisa Coffman, asked that the suicide clause be left in Requiring parental or probate court consent would leave already frightened, guilty teens in "more of a mess," raising the chances of suicide or self-

Jeri Thomas, a Lansing mother who works with toenagers, said that as a panicked 17-year-old she made an appointment to have an abortion.

"It frightens me today, to think how close I came to aborting my first child (now 14)," she said. Thomas said teens "show a lack of good judgment" by getting pregnant and are unable to make good, sound decisions under stress" without paren-

DR. JED Magen, a Michigan State University assistant professor, favored the suicide clause. He said the bill assumes pregnant teens will act in a rational manner and contact either their parents or probate court for permission to abort.

The bill, if enacted, will promote suicide, he said, "and we already have an obscenely high adolescent suicide rate."

But the opposite view came from Dr. Mark Pantle of Pine Crest Christian Hospital in Grand Rapids and adjunct professor of psychiatry in MSU's College of Human Mo "An abortion may become a trig-ger for suicide," he said. Tooss who have had abortions may attempt sui-

Townships miffed at sewer plan snub

Three western Wayne County townships are miffed at being left off a regional sewer planning map, making them ineligible for future federal and state aid.

The area is roughly the western two miles of Plymouth and North-ville townships and the western three miles of Canton.

"They are all under abatement or-ders from the state Department of Natural Resources," said Wayne County Commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville, who failed Friday to win a one-month delay in considera-tion by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

THE SEMCOG Executive Committee approved, 16-7, a 20-year Sewer Service Area Map. It becomes part of the seven-county region's water quality management plan, re-quired under federal law. But a SEMCOG task force headed by Ardath Regan, village president of Holly in northern Oakland County, sought to mollify the western Wayne members by proposing a three-year

Plymouth Township trustee Abe A. Munfakh, in a letter to the SEM-COG inner circle, said that "until a comprehensive study has been completed, it should not be the position of the executive committee nor SEMCOG to pick and choose as to which projects would be federally funded and which would be denied."

The three townships are members of a Western Townships Utilities Authority, which Heintz said has sold $87 million in bonds for sewers to satisfy the DNR pollution abatement order. "If anything becomes granteligible, they're not on the map," she

"Areas of western Wayne should be looked at for health issues,"

IT WAS A THORNY issue for the SEMCOG executive committee, which typically has compromised many resolutions over its 21 years in order to avoid alienating dues-paying governmental members.

The split vote approving the sewer map was by a show of hands, not roll call. Heintz said western Wayne and some Oakland members opposed the map while the rest of the region favored moving ahead.

Also left off the map were most of Lyon Township outside the city of South Lyon, most of Milford Township outside the village of Milford, and many portions of the city of SEMCOG action was delayed last October over the issue, which was kicked to Regan's task force.

THE REGION - Wayne, Oakland, Livingston, Macomb, Monroe and St. Clair counties - was divided into five "tiers" or zones. Tiers I-III, mostly developed areas, are eligible for federal and state aid. Tier IV includes areas "where sewer service is likely in the future based on local plat or site plan approvals.

Tier V, which includes the contested areas, is labeled "not designated for sewer service," despite the local bond issue for sewers.

Public comment sought on older learner issues

A regional forum to explore learning opportunities for older adults is set for Thursday, Feb. 22, at Madonna College

Participating will be senior citizens and representatives from community education, senior service programs and education.

Also invited to attend are those from organizations interested in providing information and education for living to older learners such as churches, hospitals, unions, corporations, citizen groups and recreation programs.

"We are joining with the Michigan Department of Education, the Area Agencies on Aging Association of Michigan and the Michigan Older Learner Coordinating Committee to invite everyone who is interested in expanding opportunities for older learners," said Olivia P. Maynard, director of the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging.

Maynard said the forum will provide an opportunity to get all of the players together to talk about the issues and make recommenda-

The forum, open to the public, will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Kresge Auditorium at Madonna, I-96 and Levan in Livonia. A $10 registration fee includes parking, coffee and rolls and lunch. Prereservations. Cost is $6 without Participants will have an oppor tunity to make older learner program and policy recommendations for consideration at the Michigan Older Learner Summit set for April 18 in Lansing.

Findings from the Madonna session as well as from other regional older learner forums, will be made available to policymakers in the public, for-profit and non-profit

Planners for the Southeast Michigan Older Learner Forum include Elissa Breen of Garden City, Bable Cariappa of Wayne, Theresa Mansour of Southfield, Barbara Eichorn of Pontiac, Marjorie Fraziers of Inkster, Carol Harrison of Detroit, Esther Howell of Grosse Pointe, Aline Irvine of Port Huron and Helen Leonard of Grosse Point

Also serving are James Mosely of Grosse Pointe Farms, Dom Nair of Ann Arbor, Genevieve Rakocy of Detroit, Mariam Sandweiss of Oak Park, Michael Simowski of Detroit, Cheryl Stepanian of Gibralter, Robert Sweeney of Brighton, Definis Torp of Warren and Alberta Wilburn of Detroit.

City manager

Graham should get the job

HE LIST OF candidates vying for the city manager's job in Plymouth has been narrowed to four, and we're glad that it includes the name of acting city manager William Graham.

We think Graham would make a good manager. He's got the background and he knows Plymouth. And he has a solid track record. It's been more than six months since former manager Henry Graper resigned and Graham has been acting city manager.

In that time Graham has managed to keep the city moving and even got it through the ice festival without a hitch.

He also has backing of the police, firefighters and public works unions. That's a real help.

Graham will be interviewed in public along with the other three candidates starting at 8 a.m. Saturday. Feb. 10, in the city commission chambers. Those interviews are open to the public, but citizens won't be allowed to participate.

THE OTHER CANDIDATES also appear to be well-qualified. They are John Strutner, of Abingdon. Va.; Jerome Kisscorni, Tecumseh, Mich. and Randy Byrne, Grand Blanc, Mich.

From their backgrounds, they seem well-equipped to manage Plymouth. The city has come up with good potential candidates.

However, we hope the city commission doesn't overlook its home-grown product.

Old Village

It should have more respect

T'S A LITTLE bit late, but we think Plymouth area residents should make an addition to their New Year's resolutions spend a Saturday afternoon walking around the Old Village area of Plymouth.

We think that the business area to the north of downtown Plymouth just doesn't get the respect it deserves. And spending an afternoon roaming the streets is one step toward giving Old Village that respect.

The city spends much time and energy worrying about keeping downtown Plymouth alive. Old Village gets much less attention.

However, the Old Village Association has been active in promoting the area and we applaud

The association, which is composed of 25 business people and residents, met recently to set some goals for 1990. They include sending a regular newsletter to residents and better signs on M-14 and I-275 to make people aware of Old

The city spends much time and energy worrying about keeping downtown Plymouth alive. Old Village gets much less attention.

Village. Another goal is wider distribution of walking maps of the area.

Those are all good ideas.

But we think things could go further. We think that Old Village and downtown Plymouth should cooperate to promote each other. There should be walking maps available in downtown Plymouth and there should be signs telling visitors that they haven't seen all of Plymouth unless they've been to Old Village.

There's more to Plymouth than Kellogg Park. And we think it's time to spread the word.

FOI law

It should be more user friendly

ICHIGAN'S open records law Freedom of Information Act - was written in plain language for plain folks, not just lawyers and media companies. It declares "all persons are entitled to full and complete information regarding the affairs of government and the official acts of those who represent them as public officials and public

It is a citizens's law, not a business law or a press law. Plain citizens should be able to get it enforced without resorting to $125-an-hour law-

But our FOI law is cumbersome and expensive for an ordinary citizen to enforce. When public officials want to hide things, they obtain favorable opinions from their hired attorneys and proceed to hide the information.

The citizen must hire a lawyer, go to a county circuit court, plunk down $42 to start a suit, and brave the curve balls of big league law just to force public information to be made public. Many citizens give up in despair. That is precisely what the Hide-'n'-Sneak Lobby in government wants them to do.

Circuit courts were designed to handle major civil suits (above $10,000) and felony cases like armed robberies and murders. But in FOI violations, the worst punishment a judge can mete out is to fine the government $500 plus damages and costs. It's a mere slap on the wrist, not the kind of case a circuit court needs to handle.

OUR LAW could be made more user friendly by allowing people to take FOI cases to the small claims division of the local district court.

The location is closer to home, the price is cheaper, the district judge is used to dealing with lay people, procedures are simpler, and decisions

Small claims courts handle cases up to $1,000. That's usually what FOI cases amount to.

Two measures to make the FOI law more user friendly are House Bills 5207 and 5208. They are sponsored by Rep. Perry Bullard, of Ann Arbor, chair of the House Judiciary Committee.

Bullard tells us district judges are objecting to his bills. So far he hasn't held public hearings. We urge Bullard to hold public hearings on HB 5207 and 5208. If district judges have any reasonable objections, we would like to hear them.

But we doubt that district judges have good reasons for wanting to avoid FOI cases. More likely, some are afraid that if they rule against

Michigan's open records law the Freedom of Information Act - was written in plain language for plain folks, not just lawyers and media companies. . . . It is a citizens's law, not a business law or a press law. Plain citizens should be able to get it enforced without resorting to $125-an-hour

(say) a township board, an attorney on that board will run against them. Judges hate election con-

ABUSES OF THE open records law are becoming more and more common.

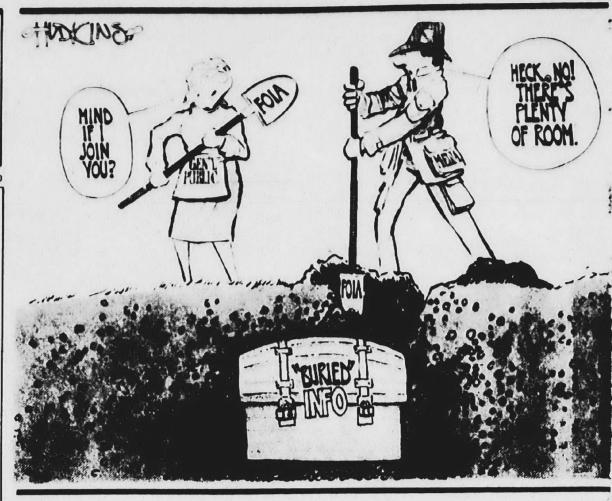

The Macomb sheriff withheld names of his supporters to whom he had given official looking 'special deputy" badges with pictures and fingerprints ... Suburban school districts have delayed for weeks issuing assessment scores so they can "interpret" them . . . Pontiac cops hid investigation reports, even after the culprit was sent to prison . . . Detroit hid records of property deals that cost taxpayers $42 million . state police post hid arrest records which they say "might" contain juveniles' names . . . A public radio station, faced with a FOI request for tapes of previous broadcasts with racial attacks, blurred the copies by adding static background

Some lawyers, we find, are poorly versed in the FOI law. One, for example, advised suburban police departments they might violate the law by releasing information. Impossible. The FOI law provides punishments only for withholding information, not releasing it.

When FOI cases go to the circuit or appeals courts, the public usually wins. The problem is that public officials - by hassling, delaying and stonewalling - wear out the public so that the cases aren't filed in circuit court.

The easier way is to allow people to bring suit in small claims divisions of district courts. And the easiest way is for public agencies to give public information to the public without the

Resident pride is key to education quality

the cross country trails surrounding the Garland Resort in Lewiston I bumped into Barry Owens, Plymouth-Salem grad who now earns his keep fulfilling the general manager duties at the northeastern Michigan

Barry was glad to run into someone from his hometown and, of course, I am always glad to talk with somebody who has such fond memories of this newspaper. Barry was active on the sports scene in his high school days and particularly liked to talk about what it was like to go to school in that district.

Now most folks take pride in the schools they attended. And for many years in this metropolitan area residents have prided themselves on maintaining school district which would do well by their children.

AND MANY alumni, like Barry, have been successful, successful because of the sacrifices made by parents and grandparents who were willing to fork over the money through their property taxes to pay for childrens' education en masse.

But the other day as I read of the bitterly-fought millage campaign in the Bloomfield Hills school district, I wondered for how long we can maintain a system which appears to get less and less support from the public

By a 2-1 margain, district voters turned down a $31.2 million bond issue which would have included asbestos removal and building improvements.

The bad feelings over the proposal went so deep as to move the Bloomfield Hills city commission to unanimously pass a resolution opposing

The commission, along with a lot of other folks in town, wanted the school board to break the proposal down into four different issues, so voters could be more selective in what they could vote for or against. Now it is anybody's guess who is right or wrong on this issue. I suspect that not much of anybody was correct. Looks like a lot of noses got bent out of shape, especially after one governmental unit sought to interfere in another's financial busi-

Not exactly the way to make friends and influence people.

In the end run though, only one thing is for sure. Salvaged egos do nothing for a kid's education.

AND THAT is getting to be a major problem. Financing education has gotten to be a real bone of contention in this state. And many taxpayers are mad as hell and are doing anything they can to let those in power know about that unhappiness. Unfortunately, those who can do something about it, state legislators. in conjunction with the governor's office, are doing nothing. Politically hogtied for a number of years over how to deal with equity in. both educational quality and financing, the gang in Lansing attemptedto throw it in the laps of the people during last year's election. But wisely, the people of this state didn't take the bait. And now it's back in the. laps of our esteemed lawmakers.

But in the meantime, the kids suffer and the public gets more resentful over the property tax system.

And it makes me wonder if the day will ever come when the Barry Owens of the next generation, instead of being proud, will be ashamed of the school they attended because their parents didn't have the maturity to solve a rather simple problem.

Look for alternatives

I am writing this letter in response to the proposed boundary changes for 1990-91 that will affect students at Bird and West Middle

Being an educator in another district and being involved in administrative decisions I see much too often hurried decisions being made, with little long range planning, and strictly on the basis of facilities or transportation needs, not on the basis of curriculum or program. We all want to make sure that we are doing what's best for the students involved in these changes. A clean break from one situation to the next is not always the best.

Some alternative solutions should be looked at in order to protect the affected students from the greatest disruption in a critical time in their physical and emotional development.

One alternative could be the "grandfathering" of students currently at West. Offer to families involved in the boundary changes the options to remain at West or make the change to Central or the CEP. This would allow the students, if they choose, to complete their middle shoool program without a disruptive separation from their peer group and an established school environment.

Another alternative is that given the growth occurring west of the city and that room exists at Central and Lowell, that the ninth graders at Lowell and Central be retained in those buildings while sending all ninth graders at West and Pioneer to CEP. Central and Lowell, the facilities with the most space, would be most able to house four grades. Pioneer and West, the facilities being impacted by growth would then have ample room for current and incoming sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

A serious problem that this plan compounds is with the ninth grade program at West. By taking part of the ninth grade students out of West, providing a quality curriculum will be made even more difficult than it presently is. If I were a parent of a ninth grader at West next year that was staying and not affected by these changes, I would be very concerned about the quality of program that will be offered.

I'm sure if any principal of a mid-dle school in this situation were asked if this plan would create problems for the type of program they could offer their ninth grade students, they would have to say yes.

What ever or if any changes are made for next school year I would ask the board to please make sure that in this decision to change boundaries that the students are not the ones that end up suffering.

Parents irked by changes

To the editor: Monday night's board of education hearing on proposed boundary changes brought together a sizable number of people. Their immediate concerns were a change of school for their children next year, but many broader issues emerged.

One of those issues was the need for the district to finalize its longterm plan before disrupting small groups of children for a short term.

The proposal to move some students from West to Central is one example of a short-sighted solution. Central is already being proposed as a "high school unit" for as early as 1992-93. The children being shifted next year would be moved again in two years, an obvious contradiction to the goals of stability and long-; term planning.

Other proposals being discussed by the board are new building(s) and, with that, comprehensive boundary change. All of these major decisions are being put on hold while the board. is rushing to move a small number of students, a movement which would not even significantly change. the number at any building. For example, West will have just eight more students next year if there are no boundary changes. The need for & change is not critical enough to warrant temporary moves that cause serious problems for students.

The board must follow Dr. Hoben's recommendations for visionary planning, addressed in a recent PCCS Community newsletter Any decision made before a complete plan is in place can only be seen as reactionary, and not what constituents of this district expect from its leadership.

Teachers' merit pay may boost instruction

Q: Every so often I hear of a school district looking into or trying le implement a merit pay system for teachers. It would seem to me that quality teachers should be given merit pay raises. Why don't more school districts have merit pay increases for the outstanding teach-

A: Merit pay is a pay increase over the regular fixed amount teachers receive for a given year of ser-

Merit pay teacher salary plans are not new. In 1908, the first attempt for a teacher merit pay plan in Newton, Mass., was implemented and soon disregarded as unworkable.

However, by 1920, merit pay plans for teachers were reported to be common. The 1920 plan, to say the least, might be questioned today by leadership in both the administration and teachers ranks. The 1920 increases were based on sex (men received more money than women) and school assignment (elementary teachers received less than high school teachers).

Try that plan in today's climate of equity in the job place. Indeed, the greatest merit pay movement (in the late 1950s) saw 170 major merit plans existing in school districts of more than 30,000 students only to diminish to only 33 districts by 1979.

My point is not to review merit pay history as it is to point out that although most educators believe quality teaching efforts should be rewarded, no consistent merit pay plan has ever been adopted nationwide. Why?

First, let's look at the advantage of a teacher merit system. Greater income will supposedly attract and hold the most competent people and, in our culture, more money grants more prestige i.e. physicians, law-

Frankly, I've taught and administrated for 36 years and see education as a very prestigious profession. After all, we taught those doctors and

Another factor favoring merit pay is that the general public and often boards of education understand the value of a merit pay system from their business and industrial backgrounds - from a philosophy that leans toward rewards based on competition or on volume sales of some tangible product. On the other hand it is extremely difficult to measure the "volume sales" a quality teacher is having on a student. Some students don't put it all together until long after high school and swear that a teacher who the administration may not have liked was the major factor in Most merit pay systems consist of: a merit pay plan and a career ladder system. The merit pay plan is deter-mined by some set criteria i.e. improved test scores by a particular teacher or improved test scores by a particular school building. The career ladder system is built in tiers from an entry level teacher to the 'master teacher." The designation of a master is usually made by a committee of administrators, teachers, school board members and possibly parents.

Why do most merit systemsfail? There usually is a lack of clear goals that are understood and accepted by the teachers, teachers' union and principals. It is difficult to apply the evaluation criteria fairly. Some administrators are very generous in their evaluation and evaluate relatively higher than other administrators who are either more objective, and use evaluation as a control mechanism as opposed to a process for teacher growth.

Other factors include staff dissension and jealousy and the difficulty of distinguishing between a merit raise and favoritism by an administrator. Also, once the superior teachers are identified, parents in the "know" want only those teachers for their children.

There have been some successful merit pay programs. These are programs that have succeeded in an atmosphere of trust and respect with maximum involvement by the teaching staff.

Merit pay is seen as improving instruction rather than punishing unsatisfactory teachers. The merit pay plan is not mandated but agreed to by all parties impacted, where the board of education sets the policy and does not interfere in the administration. Teachers are not rated against each other but against an agreed to and acceptable criteria.

Evaluations for merit pay are by a team, not an individual principal or central office administrator.

A final objective I suggest for a district that might consider a merit pay system of teachers is to put in a similar system for administrators and let a panel of master teachers, board members, administrators and possibly parents make the recom-

Obviously a school district that would set up a merit pay system for teachers, a school district that believes in the concept, would not shy away from teachers, parents and board members evaluating administrators. Or would they?

MSU recall unlikely

GOOD LUCK, Dennis Martell You'll need it if you think you can collect 600,000 signatures to recall three Michigan State University

Martell wants to oust trustees Lawrence Owen, Joel Ferguson and Kathy Wilbur. They were part of the majority that voted 5-3 to promote football coach George Perles to athletic director, over the wishes of President John DiBiaggio.

The petitioners say the trustees failed to follow hiring guidelines, ignored the campus constituency and by their own admission, met in viola tion of the Open Meetings Act

The underlying issue is that trustees contributed to the "Moo U" jock image. MSU has been trying to shake that image ever since it was founded in the 1860s as an agricultural col-

BUT MOST RECALL campaigns fail in Michigan. Besides, there's a better way to get rid of the offending trustees. Politics.

MSU trustees are nominated by political party conventions the last two weeks in August of election years. They're elected by the voters.

Trustees Owen and Malcolm Dade, both of whom voted for Perles, are due to face the Democratic State Convention for renomination this year.

If you're serious about deposing them, then run for precinct delegate in the Aug. 7 primary in the party of your choice. It's easy to get on the ballot Your friendly county clerk has petition forms. You need to col-

In 1992 trustee Kathy Wilbur is due to face the Republican convention. Wilbur, a former Birmingham resident, voted for Perles. She works for state Sen. William Sederburg, R-East Lansing, who chairs the Senate appropriations subcommittee on higher education.

She's a good worker and a genuinely nice person. I like her. But it would be perfectly proper for Republican delegates to ask her to defend her record before routinely granting her renomination.

TYPICALLY, POLITICAL parties ask no substantive questions of candidates for university boards. They seek enough women, blacks, Hispanics and Upper Peninsula snowper-

Yet not a single word was spoken in either the 1908 Republican or Democratic conventions about this substantive issue. It was buddy-bud-tuition some 19 percent, double the amount he thought justified. The governor appoints the OU board. Blanchard could have enforced his tuition policy by denying reappointment to two trustees whose terms expired that year.

Instead, Blanchard gave them new

And that's why I wish Dennis Martell and the Council of Graduate Students at MSU good luck. Not becau I want to have any opinion about George Perles. Rather, it's because they are making an issue of trustees' records and working within the law to get rid of those they who vote

lacocca should apologize

By Pat Murphy staff writer

FIRST OF ALL, I'm a big fan of Lee lacocca.

As chairman and chief executive officer, Iacocca turned Chrysler around and helped rekindle pride in the American worker and American business. If Iacocca was to run for President - on either ticket - I'd be among the first to volunteer for his campaign.

But I'm deeply disappointed in the personal message Iacocca delivered to me during Sunday's Superbowl.

I say "personal" because the advertisement featured Lee Iacocca speaking directly to me in my living room. Never mind that 50 million other people may have been watching, the advertisement was a very personal message with Lee speaking directly to me.

Lee's topic had to do with air bags in automobiles. With his sincere, one-on-one style, Iacocca said he personally made the decision to put air bags on the driver side of all 1990 model Chrysler automobiles. That simply isn't so.

seat belts - were required on all cars manufactured or sold in the U.S. after Sept. 1, 1989 under highway safety standards promulgated by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration of the U.S. Department of Transportation.

That means all 1990 models must have either air bags on the driver side OR automatic seat belts for the driver and passenger in the front

But Lee Iacocca has very little to do with that. It's a matter of law. Automatic restraints - air bags or automatic seat belts - would be required on 1990 models regardless of Mr. Iacocca or anybody else at Chrysler.

The same highway safety standards require passive restraints - air bags or automatic seat belts - for the passenger side of all cars manufactured or sold in the U.S. after

Air bag legislation - generally THE TRUTH IS that automatic recognized as something that will restraints - air bags or automatic save lives - would have taken effect regardless of lacocca or anybody else.

MORE THAN disappointing, however, is the damage, — done to the credibility of Lee Iacocca and his advertisements. I want to believe Lee Iacocca when he tells me that I can't get a better deal on a car. I want to trust him when he says quality is a high priority at Chrysler, and no car is But how can I?

Putting that advertisement on television for Superbowl Sunday cost plenty. Presumably a great deal of care and thought went into expensive ads that could reach so many

I think Lee Iacocca, and Chrysler, should apologize for that ad.

Brigadoon

Play tells story of a magical town

By Julie Brown staff writer

EBRUARY IN Michigan is traditionally associated from it all. with slogging through the snow rather than roaming through the heather on the hill.

A group of area residents will indeed roam through the heather this month, as the Plymouth Theatre Guild presents the Lerner and Loewe musical "Brigadoon."

"It's a fantasy musical, primarily about a man's search for something more in a philosophical sense," said Rob James Morisi of Ferndale, director and choreographer for the production

Staff photos by Larry Caruso

In the play, Americans Tommy and Jeff (played by Steve Tadevic and Gregory Lea) travel to Scotland to do some hunting and get away

"They come upon this magical town," Morisi said.

The town comes to life once every 100 years, due to a blessing bestowed by a wise man in the town.

One of the visiting New Yorkers falls in love with a young woman from Brigadoon. None of the Brigadoon people is able to leave their magical town; if even one does, the spell will be broken.

THE MUSICAL has strong elements of fantasy and magic, Morisi

"That's what we're playing up the most in this production.'

Performances will be at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Feb. 9-10, 16-17, 23-24, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11. Performances will be in the Water Tower Theatre, on the campus of Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, 41001 W. Seven Mile, between Haggerty and Northville roads in Northville Township. (The theater is by the water tower on the AUDITIONS FOR "Brigadoon" were in early December and rehearsals began shortly after the first of the year. Nearly all of the cast members sing, Morisi said.

Everyone here is strong. Even those who were initially a bit shy about singing are doing just fine

"There's a lot of dancing and a lot of specific kinds of dancing," Morisi

He and the others wanted to give the show a certain ethnic flair, evoking images of the Scottish highlands and moors.

"It's a pretty show." A great deal can be done visually with the show, he said. Lighting, set design, props and costumes all contribute to its appeal.

THE SHOW was written in the late 1940s and has continued to be popular with theater-goers, Morisi

Infertility Research and Treatment

will you need to fill these shoes?

A couple trying to overcome a serious fertility problem has basically two options. Seek help from a small fertility clinic associated with a general hospital (a few of these actually attempt fairly advanced procedures like in vitro fertilization). Or choose the Hutzel Fertility Center. The difference is dramatic. Hutzel's program is medical center- and university-based; encompassing both treatment and research. Unlike general hospitals that mostly apply established technology, a comprehensive clinical and research center like Hutzel actually pioneers and develops new techniques.

Hutzel's century-long leadership in the reproductive sciences includes Michigan's first in vitro fertilization bables, the newest techniques of egg retrieval, and, to date, Michigan's first and only embryo freezing capabilities (which contribute significantly to reducing the risk of multiple births). Hutzel has also pioneered the concept of treating couples rather than individuals. This helps avoid unnecessary delays, expenses and frustration.

Hutzel's extra research and clinical dimension means more hope, every day, for patients with the most complex problems. And, because Hutzel's care costs no more, even couples with less serious problems can afford the extra peace of mind that comes with the Hutzel program.

Infertility programs often require considerable economic and emotional investment by couples. To make the most of that investment, call the Hutzel Fertility Center for more information.

Disabled people generally face a less hostile world

Easter Seal Society clients have een some improvement in public acceptance of people with disabili-

"It's improved some, but it sure hasn't improved much," said Frances Bensken of Pontiac. "Years ago, we weren't brought out of the woodwork, so to speak.

Bensken's visually impaired. Sometimes, she'll pretend she's able to see, just to avoid being asked

It can get to the point where Bensken doesn't want to meet new people.

"I try to be fair with people." She doesn't look for a fight, but gets tired of inquisitive people.

Bensken carries a white cane, but doesn't need to use it too often. She's frequently with someone else when she's out and about.

SHE'S ANGRY when people don't treat her like a capable adult.

'They'll talk to us like we haven't got a brain in our head. You have to remind them that we're human."

Pontiac resident J.E. Bearden of Pontiac began to lose his sight about 20 years ago and is blind now. He uses a white cane.

"In all, I feel satisfied with the turnaround that we've had," said Bearden. He's found that more social services are available now for people with disabilities.

Bearden, Bensken and others were at a recent recreational session held at the Easter Seal Society of Oakland County office in Pontiac. They worked on crafts projects with Kyle Alderman, a certified therapeutic recreational specialist.

Bearden has found that people in general are more understanding of disabled people than was true in the

"It has improved in many ways. I really think it's been improved the last 20 years, one step at a time." He recognizes that some people's attitudes will never change.

CLIENTS AT a recent Friendship Club meeting also had some thoughts on changes in public attitudes. That social group for disabled adults is sponsored by the Easter Seal Society of Wayne County and meets at the agency's office in Inkster.

"I think it depends on where you are," said Joan Crouse of Detroit, who had polio as a teenager. She has crutches and a brace and may start using a cart or wheelchair at some point. Crouse has found some people still run away, afraid they might catch something from a disabled person. Sometimes when she's in the grocery store with her husband, she sees people who spot her crutches and move

Children sometimes ask Crouse questions, and she's not particularly bothered by that.

Lula M. Jackson would like to see more employment opportunities for people with disabilities.

"Getting to the lunchroom, you're always at the end of the line. It was just too much, the stress and the strain of the job," Jackson said. She'd like to see a workshop established for disabled people who could make handcrafted items, working at their own pace. Those items could then be sold in area stores.

'They're selling imports, why not ours?" Jackson said.

Crouse was injured on the job and hasn't been employed since 1985. She's worked as a surgical aide at a hospital and as a security guard. Hiring disabled people isn't just the nice thing to do, she said. "I think it's the smart thing to do," Crouse said. Disabled employees wouldn't ask for much time off or ignore their duties.

We wouldn't do that because we'd be thankful to have the job. I think we could do just as fair of a job as anybody else. I know we'd be more

Jackson agreed people with disabilities should be considered for job

"They are very dependable," she said. "They are loyal and they have a desire to handle the job."

New computer technology and various assisting devices often mean disabled people are able to work, Beauvais said.

People really are able to be more independent. I think that's going to be a critical factor." Convincing employers to hire people with disabilities can still be difficult.

Easter Seal staffers and volunteers also work to increase awareness of language that's offensive. Using terms such as "crippled" or 'deaf and dumb" is insulting.

Studies show that one in eight people will have a temporary or permanent disability at some point in their lives, Beauvais said.

"That really brings it home."

Agency staffers and volunteers work to help children understand what being disabled is all about. That's done in part through the HopN-Ing program at day care centers, preschools and elementary schools.

That program is offered in cooperation with Century 21. Children get pledges for a certain number of minutes and then hop up and down during that time, raising so much mon-

New ministry: He's in the Navy now

By Marilyn Trumper-Samra special writer

As he marks six years at the helm of St. Theodore's Catholic Church in Westland, the Rev Robert Goodrow is trading in parish life for the life of a U.S. Navy chaplain

It's a move he requested and then accepted with mixed emotions. The move will bring his 26 years in the priesthood to a new level

I'm excited about beginning a new school and ministry, but I'm leaving behind a fine group of dedicated people," said Goodrow, 53:

I've had many roles as pastor of this faith community .... I've witnessed so much. But most of all a conscious awareness of the parish members' growing dignity, fulfilling their public ministries and the entire growth of lay and clergy enrichment." he said. "I've seen a parish, a Catholic Christian parish, with a difference.

Goodrow's orders from the Navv could take him anywhere in the continental U.S. After he's installed, Goodrow, an only child, will in a sense be following a family tradi-

GOODROW'S FATHER, the late Arthur Goodrow, was a captain on the Great Lakes, as was his father before him. Their ore ships went up and down the state's coastline.

My dad and I spent an awful lot of time together, especially after my mother's death, and I think that's when I began thinking about (Navy life)." Goodrow said. "But I put it aside for my years of ministry here After dad's death, a lot of memories surfaced and I started thinking again about the possibility of beginning an entirely different form of ministry. There really is a need.

The Military Archdiocese, according to its Archbishop Joseph Ryan, has 670 Catholic chaplains on active priests to military personnel is 1-to-2.100. They archdiocese is short 200 priests in a community in which parishes can have upwards of 5,000 families

Goodrow, who lost 23 pounds and 4 inches of girth to be eligible for the assignment, said that was only the first part of the challenge. Self-described as "highly structured by nature," Goodrow has many goals and ideas he'd like to implement once he's settled in his new home.

A PART-TIME service life was not for him. It was all or nothing Now that both my parents are de-ceased. I was ready to fully enter into it and not be hyphenated, splitting my energies between parish and military, although many priests in the archdioceses are doing that.

The time is right, I'm ready to go wherever the Holy Spirit and the Navy feel the need. I certainly will

Russ Stehle, St. Theodore's Parish Council president, will miss Goo-

"I like Father Goodrow He's the first priest I've had personal contact with," said Stehle, who converted to Catholicism 22 years ago. "He's my kind of guy. He was a lot of people's kind of guy. I think he was a good, strong leader

Goodrow was at the helm of St Theodore's 2,400-family parish for six years Before that, he served as associate pastor at Our Lady of the Lakes in Waterford Township and as co-pastor at St. Dennis in Royal Oak.

Among his accomplishments at St. Theodore's he marks the 1,200 people who recommitted or newly-committed to various parish ministries this past year. Goodrow instituted selection of the parish council by lot on Pentecost Sunday, doing away with campaigns and the old-boy net-

Goodrow's also been involved in the building of a new parish center He hired a religious education principal and a new youth minister. He instituted the popular Bridge Series, designed to educate Catholics and would-be Catholics about the faith.

Goodrow's hallmark accomplishment was in 1987 when he served as the site director at Metropolitan Airport during Pope John Paul II's twoday September visit to Detroit.

I hope my new assignment will enable me to grow as a person, as a priest and as a man," he said "I'm excited about all the possibilities and what the Lord has in store for me."

Goodrow's last weekend at St. Theodore's will be Feb. 3 and Feb 4. with the parish hosting a farewell reception following the 12 45 pm Sunday liturgy. Early in February, he will be commissioned as a lieutenant and will attend school in Washington, D.C., and officers' school in Newport, R.I.

Global mutuals earn high marks

By Doug Funke staff writer

Interest rates are heading south. Corporate earnings are down. Inflation remains fairly low. There is talk that commercial real estate.

is going soft.

So where is an investor to turn?

Financial planners caution that investment advice must be tailored to individuals in a context of specific economic circumstances.

But several advisers were willing to gaze into their crystal balls and look at general investment strategies at the dawning of the 1990s

Their verdict. Mutual funds will become more popular than individual stocks.

Also, investments in international or global funds, especially of companies doing business in eastern Europe, have the potential to yield excellent returns as political and business climates stabilize there.

"WHAT WE'RE probably going to see, obviously we've seen the last year or two years, is a lot of market volatility," said Tony Amaradio, president of AJA Financial Planners of Bloomfield Hills

"Mutual funds clearly are superior for diversification and risk," he said.

Amaradio recommends investing in a family of funds and switching between money market, bond and stock funds as economic trends change.

Specific fund families recommended by Amaradio were Massachusetts Financial Services Lifetime, Kemper, Keystone, Fidelity, Vanguard, American and Putnam.

Mutuals also were touted by Joseph Giordano, president of Investors Financial Advisory of Rochester.

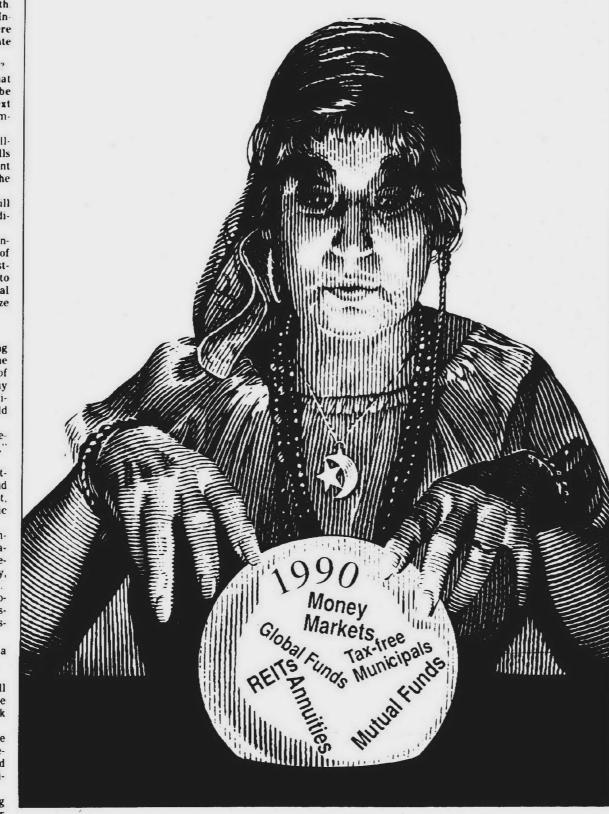

He likes balanced funds — a combination of stocks and bonds.

"I'M SORT of a cautious bull now," Giordano said. "People should still be involved in the stock market, but with moderate risk."

Giordano recommended the American Income Fund, the Phoenix Balanced Fund, Vanguard Wellington and Wesley and Fidelity Puritan

"Another thing getting quite big now, if there is a thing as a fad or hot play, is the European sector — new markets, new capitalism," said Thomas Tybinka, vice president in the Detroit office of Prescott, Ball & Turben.

"There's an excitement of what's happening in eastern Europe," Tybinka said. "The trend will be significant."

"We've now become a global society," Amaradio said. "Some international funds will have significance."

cance."

He suggested that investors look at MFS Global Fund and the Templeton Group.

INTERNATIONAL FUNDS as a group have returned about 25 percent annually the last five years, 1812 percent the past 10, Giordano

He urged caution for the future. He suggested that with a proliferation of such funds, investors "research and look at track records" and limit their involvement to 10 percent of available investment money.

"It's riskier, more volatile," Giordano said. That's because another big variable — the value of different foreign currencies comes into play. Investors should consider the Templeton Group, GT Global, Vanguard World, Keystone International and Kemper International, Giordano said.

Phyllis J. Wordhouse, president of Wordhouse & Associates in Plymouth, said she's ambivalent about global funds

"I SEE, hear, read, 'Be out there in the universe' I turn right around and ask, 'Why are all other countries investing in America?' "she said.

What of the short term?

Wordhouse, who believes most investors should be more aggressive than they are, likes variable annuities with fixed and mutual fund options, and limited real-estate partnerships.

"I think the biggest mistake most people make is they don't deal with inflation in time," she said. "They're just not cognizant of the loss of purchasing power."

But Giordano predicted rough times for real estate in the 1990s. "I'm seeing excess building and problems with savings and loans."

One-year certificates of deposit now fetch about 8.5 percent, which figures to just over 9 percent with compounding, Giordano said.

THAT'S STILL a decent return for the conservative portion of a portfolio, he said.

Tybinka and Giordano also spoke favorably of tax-free municipal bonds, especially for investors whose income pushes them into higher tax brackets.

A 7-percent return on a tax free is equivalent to 9.7 percent for those in the 28-percent tax bracket. Giordano said.

Amaradio agreed with Wordhouse that too many people have too much money tied up in CDs and money market funds.

His top two choices for the short run — mutual funds and real estate investment trusts.

"Look at track record," Amaradio advised. "Diversify money over a lot of properties. Real estate always should be purchased on substance rather than tax bene-

The advice on collectibles like art or coins is unanimous: Don't consider a hobby an investment unless you really know the subject.

"There's always a positive and negative aspect to every investment," Wordhouse said. "As long as you're knowledgeable, you can deal with it.

"People change," she added.

Stoddard innocent in retrial

By Tim Richard staff writer

A federal jury acquitted former banker Stanford C. Stoddard of misapplying Michigan National Bank money in a Jackson branch deal, ending a four-year battle with the U.S. government.

"The family is happy. They're at lunch," said defense attorney Neil Fink shortly after the jury returned its verdict at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday.

"It's not like champagne. It's a sigh of relief. I'm elated for him. It's been a long, hard struggle. Even a winner is in fact a loser.

"It has taken its toll emotionally on him and his family. The process is very humbling," said Fink, who also defended Stoddard in a 1987 trial in which a jury convicted the 59year-old Birmingham resident and a judge sentenced him to three years in prison.

The Court of Appeals in 1989 reversed the conviction. It held the original indictment was flawed by describing Michigan National Midwest, the Jackson subsidiary, as a member of the Federal Reserve System. The government retried the case, this time on the ground that the bank was federally insured.

Both trials were conducted before Judge Anna Diggs Taylor: The jury was out 4½ days before returning its verdict on a one-count indictment.

STODDARD, AS chairman of the Michigan National holding company, was accused of manipulating a deal in which he wound up a part-owner of the building in downtown Jackson rented by Michigan Bank Midwest. The government also charged the bank paid double the market value for rent in the depressed economy.

Stoddard's defense contended the deal was made by a knowledgeable board and that the rent was fair for a prime location. But the prosecution said questions were raised only after the bank was closed in 1984.

Stoddard has two suits of his own against Michigan National Corp. and its directors. They are in Oakland Circuit Court.

Assistant U.S. attorney

James C. Churchill, who tried the case for the government, could not be reached for comment.

Banks want to computerize mid-sized corporate clients

By R.J. King special writer

When corporate banking via personal computer was first introduced 12 years ago, banks touted it as the greatest discovery since the deposit slip. By most accounts, they were right.

Today most, if not all, of the nation's largest companies bank by computer and gladly pay a premium to avoid such labor intensive transactions as borrowing and investing funds, initiating wire transfers and visiting local branches.

But with growth among Fortune 500 corporations all but tapped, banks are now beginning to offer the latest communications technology to middle-market companies — an especially daunting task as most companies still perceive banking by PC as more of an indulgence than a necessity.

"There's no question most large national companies have long utilized computers and were out there waiting for electronic banking services," said Tom Craige of Birmingham. Craige is vice president and senior corporate services officer for Manufacturers Bank of Detroit, which introduced its own computer banking system last year, called

"Now we're setting our sights on middle-market firms which we believe will find electronic services very helpful in saving precious time and money. Certainly, the ability to move funds without our assistance will save a tremendous amount of time."

IN THE BROAD range of corporate cash management, treasury departments that utilize electronic banking services are now becoming high-flying investment centers transferring funds with the same speed traders use on the floor of the New York Stock exchange.

For instance, among the options currently available on AccessNet are the ability to consolidate deposits or pay off loans, obtain up-to-the-hour account balances, initiate wire transfers with immediate confirmation and receive worldwide balance reports every morning and after-

Most recently, the service added electronic mail, permitting immediate written confirmation between customer and bank. And later this year, a service allowing customers to initiate international letters of credit will be added.

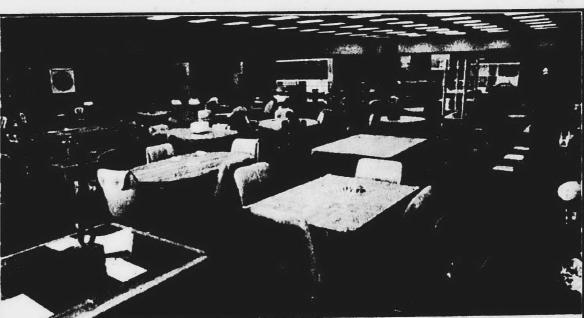

"It's a modular system so companies can choose from a menu of selections and only pay for those they use," said Michael Murphy, corporate services officer for Manufacturers, during a recent demonstration of AccessNet.

"If a company knows it has to meet a $1 million payroll on Friday at a plant in California, and they have the money on Wednesday, they can invest those funds for two days at their own discretion and then send payroll through the system come Friday morning. Before, they would have spent hours on the phone trying to do something like that."

But in introducing banking by PC to middle-market firms, Manufacturers and other area banks, among them Comerica and National Bank of Detroit, face stiff challenges if the slow growth of home banking computer systems is any indication of success.

When home banking systems were introduced seven years ago, banks figured millions of home customers would be more than willing to pay a monthly fee of $5 to $10 to avoid writing checks and waiting in line. But today only about 100,000 people use the programs, a small percentage of the 28 million households that have personal computers.

Banks want more firms on computer

"When you compare home users to corporate users of electronic banking services, the personal computer far and away benefits the corporation," said Peter Stein, first vice sident and manager of corporate sh management for National Bank

"A corporation may have 20 or 30 employees overseeing cash manage-ment activities, and certainly they can get things done much quicker by

WHILE NATIONAL Bank of Detroit has offered a computerized corporate banking service since 1982 called CASHNET, which has more than 1,200 corporations on line, Stein said future growth will come from middle market companies and smaller companies with annual revenues of $5 million or less.

"To make the system more attractive to smaller firms, we plan to keep adding modules to the system such as making tax payments and issuing stop payments on checks in the near future," Stein said. "We even have services for smaller firms that utilize a touch-tone phone.'

Explaining that cash management by computer was still evolving, Stein said he sees enormous potential income for the bank in check clearing time and labor. The monthly fees, which start at $50, also provide a steady and reliable revenue source.

Mark Vandenberg, secretary and treasurer for Crowley's, said computerized cash management offers greater speed and accountability in overseeing the company's daily re-

Critics of American auto writers need better aim

I've always had a liking for toplevel executives who go after a windmill or two now and then, or try to punch out a tar baby, Uncle Remus-like, that they find sitting by the side of the road.

Tops among these has been Bennett E. Bidwell, chairman of Chrysler Motors (yeah, that's right Chairman Lee is top dog at something called Chrysler Corp.), who rose to his post from a rent-a-car agency, which is as close to the real world most auto executives get these

Bidwell donned his rusty suit of armor once again the other night at the Automotive News World Congress, taking on, of all things. The Press - thus ignoring all the basic tenets of never tangling with someone with a typewriter in his hand

As it turned out, he was irate mainly because of a couple of stories that had leaked into print and derailed some particular facet of corporate strategy

But he also took the opportunity to take more than a few swipes at some nasty tendencies he had discerned in American automotive journalism the herd instinct; the failure to practice what it preaches; the compulsion for scoops that damage a business; and its lack of patriotism.

Actually, much of what Bidwell complained about has a grain of truth - but most often not for the reasons cited.

The herd instinct, for example Repetition and duplication of a story hundreds of times is what defines a big news event

There's not much to be done about that, although Bidwell would have to admit Chrysler has benefited more than any other company from the uncritical support of the media.

Scoops based on unauthorized leaks are a much touchier subject.

I guess the assumption in these cases is that if a story wasn't leaked to the newspaper, it wouldn't exist, or at least generate the rancor people feel when their livelihood is threatened.

Unfortunately he weakens his case by citing examples where the company sat on decisions as long as six months without officially informing its own employees, fueling the internal rumor mill (which is where leaks start) until they spilled into the newspapers.

One of his examples isn't based on a leak at all, but a straight-out interview with Chairman Lee himself, who mentioned a plant closing a couple of days before a critical union

In another case, Bidwell said that Chrysler, beneficiary of $150 million

The Wall Street Journal let the news out before the election, which had the unfortunate side effect according to Bidwell - of letting the voters in on the decision before they had cast their ballots, hence hurting Chrysler's position with city hall.

People were angry. Tough, I say. Frankly, I wish Bidwell had been a little more on-target, about the press, and less prone to overblown rhetoric that smacks of easily dismissed jingoism.

Forming a corporation adds complexity to small business

Q. My son operates a homebased business while working full time elsewhere. What are the advantages and disadvantages of forming his own corporation?

A. Unlike forming proprietorships and partnerships, forming a corporation is more complicated. This represents one of the biggest disadvantages of incorporation, mainly due to the additional registration and filing responsibilities.

According to Brenda Orlando, a Clarkston small-business certified public accountant, incorporating business owners must file articles of corporation with the state Corporation and Securities Bureau, establish the internal organizational structure of the business (adopt bylaws, appoint directors and officers and issue shares or memberships) and submit additional documentation (corporate tax return and annual report) on an annual basis not required for other business forms.

Corporations need to maintain corporate meeting minutes to be given to the IRS in case of an audit.

From a tax standpoint, the business-related deductions offered to corporations are basically the same compared to other legal focus: small business Mary

DiPaolo forms of business organization.

Lastly, corporate business own. ers are recognized by the IRS as company employees and are subject to paying appropriate state and federal employment taxes regardless if no one else works for

THE MAJOR advantages of forming a corporation include that is is often easier to raise capital through lending institutions and to change ownership if necessary.

Business owners generally aren't held personally liable for debts incurred by the corporation, said Elcy Maccani, public affairs spokeswoman with the Detroit district office of the IRS.

But there are exceptions, Maccani said. Corporations and limited partnerships are offered better protection of their business name and need register just once to ensure this protection across the state. Maccani suggests that smallbusiness owners thoroughly investigate all aspects of incorporation before making a decision.

For more information of the pros and cons of incorporating, call the Michigan Department of Commerce at 1-800-232-2727 and ask for a free copy of the "Guide to Starting a Business in Michigan." The Detroit office of the IRS also has information on this subject and can be reached at 1-800-424-1040.

yield of 9.05 percent.

The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph bond of 6/10/13 sells for $88%. The 7.75 percent coupon give you a current yield of 8.7 percent and a yield to maturity of 8.9

The General Motors Acceptance Corp. bond of 4/01/16 sells for $921/2 and has an interest coupon of 8.25 percent. That provides a current yield of 8.9 percent and a yield to maturity of 9 percent.

The Eastman Kodak bond of 6/15/ 16 pays 8% percent and is available at $90%. That gives you a current yield of 9.5 percent and a yield to maturity of 9.6 percent.

The fifth bond suggested is American Telephone & Telegraph's 4/01/ 26. It also pays 8% percent, but at $96%, the current yield is a little less at 8.9 percent and the yield to maturity is 8.92 percent.

In today's market where the talk seems to favor falling interests rates, the prices of the bonds should tend to move upwards. None of us knows, of course, how prices and rates will move in the future, but if your purpose is to tie down an income rate of about 9 percent for some time in the future, this selection seems like one that would do the job for you.

Challenging play

Memories of 'The Donner Party' lead to its revival

special writer

ENTION OF THE Donner Party sends a shiver down the spine of those who know the chilling story of the California-bound wagon

During the winter of 1846, the group became snowbound in the Sierra Nevada Mountains. Starvation in the frozen wilderness drove members of the party to cannibalism, and this macabre fact unfairly dominates popular legends about the ill-fated group.

What happened to the Donner Party of settlers and why it happened challenges all Americans. The Oakland University Center for the Arts will present the Michigan premiere of Hubert Blau's impressionistic play "The Donner Party" on Friday-Sunday, Feb. 2-4 and 9-11, at Varner Studio Theatre on campus in Rochester Hills. (Tickets are $8 for adults, $4 for senior citizens and students, $3 for OU students. For ticket information call the box office at 370-

Director T. Andrew Aston says, "The presence of cannibalism is there in the play but it's not a main focus. From the point of view of everybody (in the Donner Party), they did what they could to stay alive, and cannibalism was a last, desper-

"MORE IMPORTANT is the total impact of being misled by a young guide named Lansford W. Hastings. He'd written a book on a new, shorter route across the mountains, but had never, in fact, taken the

The Donner Party believed in Hastings and in his book. At Fort Bridger they broke off from the established Oregon Trail to follow his new route. Unexamined belief was the mistake that led to tragedy.

Using the motif and music of a square dance, plus folk songs some traditional music and some composed for the play by cast member Michael Ameloot - the play relates the settlers' high hopes and naive expectations when they set out in laden Conestoga wagons for the

It documents their gritty practicality in the face of hardships on the journey and, most important, shows how misplaced trust in Hastings and simple bad timing in getting over the mountains before snow blocked the passes conspired against the group (29 men, 15 women and 43 children). Only 47 of the original 87 reached than a musical framework. Aston says, "The allemande left and grand right and left raise the whole question of how the wagon train's well being hinges on turning left at Fort

FOLK INSTRUMENTS from the mid 1800s - concertina, dulcimer and recorder played by Anne and Bob Burns - accompany the songs and lend an authentic sound to the historical story that challenges the audience to ask, "What would I have done in the circumstances?"

Aston says, "I hope the play causes a level of uncomfortableness, that it ignites inquiry," into the moral question of trust and the need to question authority. "I hope it has an after-burner effect.

Blau's experimental play alludes to historical facts known about the crossing, but he chooses to tell the story by overlapping images (even including some about 20th century mishaps) to create a theatrical collage of impressions. A linear unravelling of the tale would be easier to follow, especially for those not familiar with trials of the journey Sioux and Paiute Indians stealing the oxen, a broken leg, a knifing, two banishments and a long, parched trip across the Great Salt Desert. Speeches in the play often overlap. Several dialogues run simultaneously and the nine members in the ensemble cast play multiple roles inSometimes accents change midspeech as an actor shifts from a crusty, cantankerous German to an American prairie farmer.

Members of the ensemble company include area residents Mary Kay Geb of Rochester Hills and Sheila Lyle of Rochester. Also in the cast are Michael Ameloot, Donald Martin Anderson, Scott Berry, Catherine Blood, M.J. Hoffman, Betty Monroe, Corey Skaggs, Allen Verscheure and Tracy Wade. The impressionistic telling sacrifices absolute plot clarity for the emotional impact of accumulating impressions that resonate in the mind with the color and poignancy of memories.

"IT STUCK in my mind all these years," Aston says of the first time he saw "The Donner Party" performed in 1962. In Mineapolis after a tiring day, he stumbled upon a midnight production of the play performed by Kraken, a professional theater ensemble. "It was a riveting performance, and the play seemed a fine, honest vehicle, telling the desperate struggles of our forefathers."

More than 20 years later when Aston was looking for a challenging new play, memory of that production sent him in search of the script

Herbert Blau is renowned as an outspoken critic and writer on American theater, as a scholar who until his recent retirement headed the Center for 20th Century Studies at the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee, and as first managing director of the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts.

Blau had locked the play away so it could never be produced again because he believes theater can only be alive in the present moment - to record and publish plays for production other times and places negates that essential premise of the present moment.

Aston set out to ask Blau to permit a new production of "The Donner Party" despite Blau's philosophical stand. After several months of inquiry, he finally tracked Blau down on sabbatical in Paris and received reluctant permission to produce the play and a promise to send a script.

The skeleton script arrived with no stage directions whatsoever and with occasional blank spaces noting that lines need to be improvised. Aston welcomed the challenge.

"NEW SHOWS require a sa cant level of creativity. This needed an enormous amount of choreography because the script doesn't provide any. There's a different level of creative though process when working on a script that hasn't already been ferreted out," Aston 1962. He never forgot it and recently urged the playwright to let him direct a new production.

volved reading Blau's acclaimed books on theater, "The Impossible Theater: A Manifesto" and "Take Up the Bodies: Theater at the Vanishing Point." Blau thinks past experiences continue to haunt and affect the present. He calls those past events and experiences hovering over the present "ghostings." Aston steeped himself not only in Blau's philosophy but also in writings about the Donner Party's crossing documented in the book "Ordeal by Hunger."

Next, Aston set out to stimulate his cast members to think about their own biological heritages, to help them know their bloodlines and 'be present with the past."

He says, "As we listened to them tell stories (about their ancestors), we could ask questions they couldn't answer." One actor knew he was part Indian, but he didn't know what tribe. The exercise sent the cast foraging in old scrapbooks and researching family histories as they got in closer touch with their own Photos in the Studio Theatre lobby identifying the cast also will take a heritage perspective. Instead of listing the usual performing credits. captions beneath each photo will describe family roots of the player. As an innovative way to bridge the gap between the audience and the play, the cast will circulate in the lobby before each show. They will ask members of the audience where their people came from so the audience, like the playwright, the director and the ensemble cast, also can be "present with the past" and con-front the questions raised by history.

How right he was

The Chiefs reached another season high in team scoring and broke the last pre-1990 record in individual

Canton, 5-0 in duals, scored 137.65 at Farmington Hills Harrison, eclipsing the mark of 137.30 set in early January against Northville. The Hawks scored 93 15.

Kim Rennolds of Canton had the best all-around score with a 35.2, giving her the school record. Linda Beale set the previous standard in 1987 regional competition

"I'M SHOCKED we did as well scoring-wise at this meet," Cunningham said, because the Chiefs didn't use as powerful a lineup as they could have

Dawn Clifford, still not fully recovered from a broken ankle, didn't compete on vault or floor exercise. Heather Murphy was in only two events, too, and Danielle Mirto didn't do all-around.

"We've got some real good kids waiting in the wings." Cunningham said. "We have a number of kids who can maintain that 8.5, 8.6, 8.9 routine. We're going to be really strong when we get everybody into shape.

Canton's Jenny Tedesco was second among all-arounders at 33.8 and Johanna Anderson third at 32.7. Harrison's Amy Solomon scored 24.85

Rennolds tied her own record of 9.25 while winning on the vault, and her 9.1 was tops on floor. Tedesco captured first place on bars with 8.5, and Clifford used an 8.9 to edge Murphy and Rennolds for No. 1 on the bal-

Rennolds and Murphy had 8.8 on beam, and Rennolds was third (8.05) on bars. Tedesco added fourth on beam (8.6) and floor (8.55) and fifth on vault (8.15).

gymnastics

ANDERSON WAS third on vault (8.45), fourth on bars (7.6), sixth on beam (7.8) and third on floor (8.85). Mirto also had a good meet, taking second place on vault (8.55) and floor (8.95) and fifth on beam (8.45)

Other Canton scores of note included Jana Shockling. fourth on vault, 8.35; Clifford, second on bars, 8.35; Anderson, fourth on bars, 7.6; and Murphy fifth on floor, Harrison's top scorers in each event were Michelle Davis, vault. 7.8. Colleen Heinzmann, bars, 7.5. Faye Verellen, beam, 6.3; and Solomon, floor, 6.05.

Canton will be host Saturday for the annual Plymouth Invitational, which will feature eight of the state's 10 ranked teams.

Competing will be No. 1 Midland Dow. Troy Athens (3), Canton (4), Plymouth Salem (5), Freeland (6), North Farmington (8), Northville (9) and Fraser (10) Livonia Clarenceville will compete, also.

"Unless Dow has a bad meet. I don't think they can be beaten," Cunningham said. "I figure eight teams will be vying for second place, and a lot of them are pretty evenly matched. It's going to be a lot of fun. Salem freshman Kim Miller, who won the all-around title at the Dow Invitational two weeks ago, will be one of the top individuals at the meet. Others competing with her for the all-around championship Saturday will be Melissa Miller of Athens, Kristie Kelly of Freeland and Dow's Melanie Bugg and Jennifer Johnson. Any number of Canton gymnasts, including Rennolds, and North's Heather Kahn and Kym Heller could challenge for all-around honors, too

Depth does it for Salem

The Plymouth Salem swimmers won Tuesday's dual meet against Brighton, 91-81, without the benefit of many first places. 'We didn't have many winners," Salem coach Chuck Olson said, "but we went 2-3-4 in a lot of events. We had a lot of OK swims; that's how we managed to win. Salem, 3-4 overall, accomplished the victory without senior standout Ron Orris, who is competing in Europe with the United States Junior National team. In his absence, the Rocks received first-place performances from Eric Bunch in the 200 individual medley swimmina (2:13.3) and Pat McManaman in diving (218.70). Joe Pawluszka placed second in the 200 freestyle (1:57.52), and teammate Curt Witthoff took third in the butterfly (1:00.40). Salem's Brett Meik added second place with a personal best in the 500 freestyle (5:18.11).

The loss drops Brighton to 4-3. CANTON FELL to Novi, one of the state's swimming powers, by a 114-58 count Tuesday

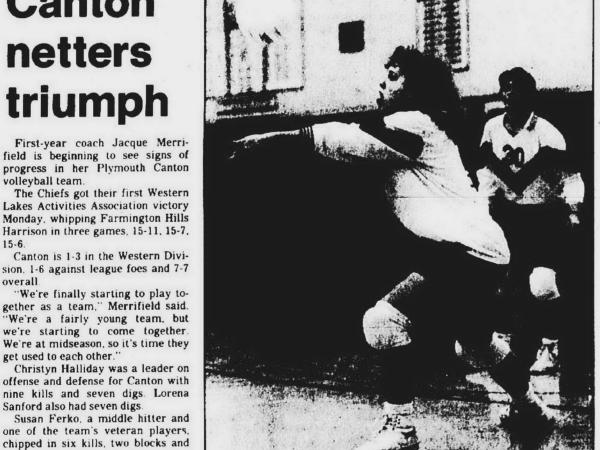

The Chiefs recorded three firstplace finishes. Nick Atwell took the diving (194.70 points), Bryce Anderson won the 100-yard butterfly (56.57) and Kevin Beach was best in the breastroke (1:08.28)

In addition, Steve Geddes placed second in the 200 freestyle (1:58.43), and Anderson, Beach, Mark Ealovega and Craig Steshetz teamed up for a second-place finish in the 200 medley relay (1:58.43).

Novi, ranked fifth in the state in boys swimming, dropped Canton to 1-4 overall.

Patriots prevail over Chiefs

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Winning time was more than just a cute phrase for the Livonia Franklin basketball team Tuesday night.

Leading by a point midway in the final quarter, the Patriots scored 10 of the last 12 points - most of them on free throws - to hold off visiting Plymouth Canton 62-53. Franklin goes to 3-2 in the Western Division and 5-6 overall, while the Chiefs, who have lost their last four games, drop to 2-3 and 5-6. Craig Overaitis, who scored six of his game-high 20 points as the Patriots ran off 10 straight to boost their lead to 62 51 with nine seconds left, knows what winning time is all 'That's crunch time - when we all play together, when they foul and we have to make our free throws,' said Overaitis, a 5-foot-9 point guard. "Usually, we go into D3 (offense). We pull it out and make them come and play us."

WITH THE game tied at 46 entering the fourth period, Franklin made its first three shots to move in front 52-46, but Karl Wukie answered for the Chiefs with two field goals, including a triple, for a one-point difference

The Patriots, with five minutes to play and having only the minimum lead, took a chance by deciding to use the clock so early and trying to draw Canton out of its zone.

It worked, however, as Franklin made eight of 13 free throws.

"I said: 'It's winning time; let's put it to a higher level," Franklin coach Rod Hanna told his players. "Every-

Rocks wallop Farmington

Plymouth Salem kept its Lakes Division-leading record unblemished with a convincing, 73-49 victory over Farmington in Western Lakes Activities Association action Tuesday.

The host Rocks led by 11 points after one quarter and increased their lead to 18 at the half, 43-25. Salem extended that to 68-34 after three quarters.

Salem, 10-1 and 5-0, was paced by forward Jake Baker with 12 points, and Tom Noonan and Ryan Johnson scored 11 apiece. The Falcons, 4-7 and 2-3, were led by P.J. Green's 15-point performance.

PLY. CHRISTIAN 60. FAITHWAY 52: Plymouth Christian Academy overcame an early six-point deficit on the strength of Manish Nandani's 35-point effort. "He really put on a show," Academy coach Dan Bran-del said. "Nobody could stop him."

Plymouth trailed by two at the half, 21-19, and held a slim 34-32 lead after three before Nandani exploded for 18 fourth-quarter points. He canned five 3-pointers on the night, was 4-of-4 from the free-throw line and added seven steals to his sterling performance.

Teammate Pete Fox added 10 rebounds for the host Eagles, 1-4 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference and 4-7 overall. Plymouth was aided by a strong 10-of-13 showing from the free-throw line, while Faithway Baptist of Ypsilanti struggled, canning just 10 of 24. Gary Greenwood netted 17 points in a losing effort.

vote and more second-place votes than Lewis to secure the award. This marks the second straight year an Eccentric-area player was named Miss Basketball

Last year, the honor went to Birmingham Marian's Jennifer Shasky, now playing at George Washington

The award caps a dream season for Evans, who guided Country Day to the Class C state title last fall.

Evans had a kind word for everyone when she stepped to the podium.

"I'd like to thank God for keeping me healthy and having an injuryfree season," Evans said. "My teammates, because without them I wouldn't be here today, and my coach, Frank Orlando, for always being there for us. I'd also like to thank my parents and family for being at all my games. If I had a bad game, they'd tell me 'It's all right.""

ORLANDO CAN'T recall a bad game from Evans, who averaged 28.4 points and 13 rebounds a game last fall. She finished her career with 1,861 points and couldn't have ended it on a better note than when she scored 47 points in the Class C title game against Saginaw Valley Lutheran.

DCD was 86-7 in the games Evans started throughout her career.

"There weren't many bad games, so it wasn't hard to stick behind her," Orlando said. "She maintained a 3.0 grade point average and exemplifies the student-athlete. I'm quite proud to be associated with her. I'd ask her to stay another year, but they have rules against it."

Evans gives Orlando much of the credit for her progress. Evans didn't play basketball until the eighth grade when she joined DCD's eighth grade team.

"I could dribble down the court and shoot a layup - that's all," Evans remembers. "I used to love track - now I don't. Coach Orlando helped out a lot - always telling me the little things. My brother (William) also started me out."

Now she loves basketball and it's time for her to choose which college to attend. Evans already has visited Tennessee and Ohio State and will visit Texas this weekend.

SHE ALSO is considering Georgia, Syracuse and Michigan State.

Evans hasn't planned an official visit to MSU because she's made several unofficial visits to the East Lansing campus to see her sister

Shirley is a sophomore and a track star at MSU, but the decision is Peggy's to make. "If I stay in the state, that's where I'd go," Peggy said. "I've been up there plenty of times so I know the coaches and the team. Shirley says 'Go where you're happy - that's more important" It's also important that Evans has learned to talk openly with the press. The interviews were difficult at first, but Evans doesn't shy away from the bright lights and note pads.

"I took a speech class and that helped," Evans said. "It had gotten to the point that I didn't want to say anything. I couldn't handle the pressure."

Now she can.

The Spartans jumped to a commanding 41-14 halftime lead, outscoring the Vikings 16-5 in the first quarter and 25-9 in the second quarter.

Senior guard Ron Baran led Stevenson with 11 points. Senior center Glenn Szeman added 10. Jason Olson scored a game-high 23 points to lead Central, while Eric Leaf contributed 19.

Stevenson is 8-4 overall and 4-2 in the Lakes. The Vikings fall to a dismal 1-10, 0-6. N. FARMINGTON 62, JOHN GLENN 59: North Farmington improved its record to 7-4 overall and 4-1 in the Lakes Division Tuesday by edging visiting Westland John Glenn.

The Raiders trailed 30-22 at halftime, but rebounded in the second half, outscoring the Rockets 20-13 in the third quarter and 20-16 in the fourth quarter. Senior guard Matt Hoffman poured in a game-high 26 points. Chris White added 13 and Eric Detter 11. Gamal Ahmed and Mike Trussler each scored 15 points for John Glenn (6-4, 2-4).

REDFORD UNION 75, TEMPLE 74

(OT): Sophomore Bill Malechi's layup in overtime proved to be the difference Tuesday, as Redford Union (6-7) nipped host Redford Temple Christian (6-8).

Dan Lezotte propelled the Panthers with a game-high 24 points. Malecki and Steve Nowak each added

Senior guard Marion Reed scored 21 points for Tem-ple. John Millard added 16 and Kevin McCants 15 for the Patriots.

"We were up by five in overtime," Temple coach Dave Gilliam said. "It was a good game, but we made some mistakes at the end of regulation."

BISHOP BORGESS 94, NOTRE DAME 77: Michigan State-bound Shawn Respert scored 26 points Tuesday, lifting host Redford Bishop Borgess

"In the last four games, there have been long stretches when we've really struggled offensively," Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner said. "Unfortunately for us, that stretch happens in the fourth quarter.

Right now, we're not playing real good baskerball. Mentally, we break down at key times, and that all goes back to being a young team and trying to grasp a new system."

Overaitis, McCool and Santi have carried much of the load for the Patriots, but Barina has taken on a greater share of the work, adding another dimension to Franklin's Franklin extended its lead to 42-33 before the Chiefs, taking their turn at a comeback, tied the score after three periods. But the Patriots always responded with another surge of points.

Noting both teams shot about the same percentage, Hanna said: "Basically, we won the game on the freethrow line and not turning the ball for the Chiefs, who led 29-28 at halfover (9).

And they were two factors that added up to winning time.

Kevin Hankerson was able to have his cake and eat it, too.

The 6-foot-4% center celebrated his 18th birthday Tuesday, scoring a game-high 24 points to lead host Wayne Memorial to a 56-55 non-league basketball win over highly-touted Ann Arbor Huron.

Hankerson's mother Shirley put icng on the big celebration by presenting a large cake to her son, who passed out slices to all his teammates and coaches, who enjoyed every bite afterwards.

He also won his head-to-head matchup against 6-5 Huron center Kareem Carpenter, the transfer from Redford Bishop Borgess.

Carpenter, who was being looked at on this night by University of Michigan coach Steve Fisher, finished with 18, two below his average.

'We challenged Kevin to stay in the game for 32 minutes," said Wayne coach Chuck Henry, whose team is 12-1 overall. "We knew it would be difficult for him to stay out of foul trouble because he was guarding a talented player (Carpenter).

"AND AT THE other side of him down on the blocks was another player even bigger (6-5, 205-pound David Amos), which put Kevin at a real disadvantage and added pressure on him. But Kevin 'really rose to the occasion' as they say in the sports world."

The most critical play occurred when Hankerson made a driving layup with 32 seconds left. Fouled on the play by Carpenter, the Wayne center converted the free throw to give the Zebras a 56-55 lead.

(The game-winning shot was set up when Amos took an ill-advised 17foot off-balance jumper with 42 seconds left.)

S'craft, OCC men

The Schoolcraft College men's baskethall team took the lead late in the first half and never looked back Saturday, defeating host St. Clair Community College, 87-73. Forward Randy Watters, freshman from Milford Lakeland, paced the Ocelots offensively, pouring in a game-high 26 points, while pulling down seven rebounds. Schoolcraft (10-15) rallied late in the first half to capture a 40-38 halftime lead

We played well late in the first half and finally got ourselves a lead," said Schoolcraft coach Dave Bogataj, whose team is 3-8 in conference play. "Early in the first half, St. Clair was making a lot of three pointers and we couldn't stop them, but late in the half, we really got it together."

St. Clair (0-21) connected on five three pointers in the first half, but according to Bogataj, things settled down after halftime.

We defended them in the second half and cut down on their threepoint threat," he said. "In the second half, we were just able to build on our lead, thanks to good defensive pressure applied by our guys.'

Sophomore center Al Hudson (Romulus), coming off a 32-point, 15-rebound performance against Alpena, contributed 21 points and 13 rebounds for the Ocelots, while sophomore guard Kenny Fuster (River Rouge) chipped in 17 points, four steals and five assists.

"Al Hudson dominated the boards for us," Bogataj said. "He made it tough for them to establish an inside game."

Jim Belt scored 17 points for St. Clair, which dropped to 0-9 in conference play.

OAKLAND MEN: Sophomore forward Tim Robinson scored a gamehigh 22 points on Saturday, leading Oakland Community College past visiting Alpena CC, 111-90.

Coleman sees MSU as right opportunity

By Dan O'Moore staff writer

Mill Coleman suspected his mother was dropping hints when she bought a green sweater a week ago

"I knew what my mother was up to the whole time," Coleman said. "I still had to make the decision for

Farmington Hills Harrison's All-American quarterback ended what little suspense remained Wednesday afternoon when he verbally committed to Michigan

Coleman, flanked by his parents, Millard Sr. and Gloree Coleman, and coach John Herrington at a press conference in the high school gymnasium, selected the Spartans over Michigan and Colorado — a choice his family supported and everyone expected.

"I wasn't thinking about State when I bought the sweater," Gloree said, "but Mill smiled when I got it home and asked 'Why did you buy that?' He never asked me, but that's where I wanted him to go."

WHILE HIS family let its preference be known in subtle ways, Coleman, a straight-A student who wants to study business, had his own reasons for choosing

"It was a question of which program I thought I would fit into, and MSU offers the best opportunity for me," said Coleman, who quickly donned an MSU baseball cap after making his announcement, which received a roar of approval from the couple hundred Harrison students who packed the gym.

They do a lot of things I've done throughout my high school career. They like their quarterback to sprint out, and they have all all-round great program."

Coleman's choice of MSU was a surprise to no one especially since he attended its summer football camp since the eighth grade and is most familiar with that program - but least of all Herrington.

'I could have told you that when he came here," Herrington said. "He wanted to go somewhere he felt comfortable, where he knew the coaches and they would give him a chance to play quarterback at his size.

The question now is whether Coleman is big enough to play quarterback in the Big 10. His detractors say the 5foot-9, 165-pound Coleman is too small.

"THAT'S somebody who hasn't seen him play," Herrington said. "If you've seen him play, you know he's a quarterback. The sprintout, play-action style suits him, and I think he'll be an outstanding Big Ten quarter-

Coleman, who was Harrison's starting quarterback for three years after his family moved from Albion. passed for 7,464 yards, making him the career passing leader in Michigan high school history.

MSU quarterback Dan Enos will be a senior next fall, but the Spartans have three redshirted freshman quarterbacks - Jody Dickerson (McKees Rock, Pa.), Matt Eyde (East Lansing) and Jim Miller (Waterford).

Coleman, however, is the only quarterback among 16 seniors who have given MSU verbal commitments this year. Nothing is binding until Wednesday, Feb. 14, the first day high school players can sign national letters of

'So far none of the other quarterbacks have seen action, either," Coleman said. "After (Enos) completes his senior year, the field will be wide open, and all I want is Coleman, who led the Hawks to back-to-back Class B titles, is eager to disprove those who say he's too small.

"I ALWAYS felt I could play in the Big 10," he said. "If I let that bother me, I wouldn't have been able to excel like I have

"I think I can continue to do the things I have done, but I have to step up a level because everybody is as

Coleman follows former Harrison great John Miller to MSU, but he said Miller, though he talked to him about it, didn't try to sway his decision.

Coleman's family members, on the other hand, did some politicking on behalf of the Spartans, hoping to be close enough to follow Mill's college career. Coleman won't be alone at MSU, either. His sister, Gina, plans to transfer from Oakland Community College.

"I'm very elated he chose to stay in Michigan," said Millard Sr., who attended MSU in 1965-66 before he was drafted into the U.S. Army. "I always felt he fit into Michigan State's style of offense.

We've always talked (going to MSU) from Day One We did a lot of subtle things, like buying State shirts and hats. It was his decision, but we wanted to let him know where we stood.' And everybody knows where Coleman stands, too.

"I feel a big sigh of relief," he said. "Now nobody will come up to me and say 'Mill, where you going?' Now they know.

A very nice cake was served to Emile Newhouser in celebration of her

Emily is a regular bowler in the "Golden Champs" senior citizens league They compete every Tuesday

In case you haven't guessed, Emily Newhouser is the mother of former Detroit Tiger pitching great Hal Newhouser She is a real bowling enthusiast and has been bowling for a long

The elder Newhouser was once a member of the local traveling leagues and is very proud of her many years of accomplishments. In fact, she carries many of her old press clippings in Newhouser is even prouder yet of the accomplishments of her son, Hal. She recalls some of the classic matchups with Bob Feller and the Indians.

Some of you may be wondering what Newhousers secret is for staying young and healthy. According to her, it's simple - "Don't smoke." . There is a new radio talk show of interest to bowlers on WPON (1410 AM) This is the creation of Roy Akers and is called the Oakland County Bowling Round-up.

Even though the show is based in Northern Oakland County, it will still be of interest to all those who love the sport. This weeks show will include an interview with touring pro Lisa Wag-

"Even though you don't win the game, those momentum boosts can come into play down the line."

THE THIRD game was there for the taking as the teams traded early sideouts. The Marlins edged in front 6-1 and gained control with seven unanswered points on three service rotations to lead 13-2. Albrecht's block for point and Goff's kill finished the match, the Marlins making a strong statement in the process.

"The energy level was just some-thing else," Goff said. "This game was four years of anxiety and intensity for me

"In the last match, we were too hyped. This time we wanted to play our game, nothing above. We're the type of team, if we concentrate on fundamentals, our game is going to kills to keep it going.

"In the third game, they outplayed us tremendously. (The Marlins) stayed in there and even played better than they did in the first two DeBeliso said the Mercy defense was as big a factor in the win. Amy Miller, who had nine digs, was a standout in the back row, reacting well to the short-set to Knittel, he said. Velthoven scooped up seven digs, Goff six.

"It's a great win at this time of year," DeBeliso said, "but we know we're going to see them again down the line. The Catholic League championships will probably be a rematch.

While the Blazers were still ranked ahead of Mercy at the start of the week, that could change when the next poll is released Monday, especially if the teams face each other and Mercy wins this weekend in the Essexville-Garber tournament.

We might move up a couple notches, but all you can do is play good volleyball," DeBeliso said. "I told them: 'If that concerns you and you want to get ranked higher, when you play teams ranked in the state, you have to beat them.'

"I'm not concerned with who's ranked ahead of us. I'm pleased we can play at that level."

Jarvi's prepared to buck tradition

By Avigder Zaromp special writer

EEME JARVI, NEWLY AP-POINTED music director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, is no stranger to local audiences. He has visited here on numerous occasions, beginning in summer 1983 at Meadow Brook.

Non-standard is a phrase that comes to mind when attempting to categorize the entity and approach of Jarvi. It starts with the name itself, whose spelling and pronounciation seem strange to most Ameri-

The correct pronounciation of Neeme Jarvi is Nay-may Yair-vee. The correct way to write Jarvi is with an umlaut over the a. The umlaut, a two-dot modifier above the letter, is associated with German, but it's also part of Jarvi's native Estonian language and is unavailable on most presses in this country.

He has some definite views on music, which he graciously consented to share. While he, like his colleagues, respects the standard repertoire, Jarvi's scope goes far beyond. He continually attempts to extend the rigid, old frontiers.

'Most American major orchestras keep performing the same material again and again.

'Consider the Cleveland Symphony, for example. Under the distinguished George Szell they have recorded the standard works by Beethoven and Brahms, with some Schumann. Then they continued recording the same things and now under Ernest von Dohnanyi they are doing again, Brahms, Beethoven and Schumann.

"This music is great, but with too much repetition the audiences even-'tually get bored."

New Detroit Symphony Orchestra music director Neeme Jarvi gets into the spirit of Detroit with a new jacket to reinforce his identify.

JARVI'S SELECTIONS from his previous visits here and his many recordings with leading orchestras leave little doubt about his significantly different approach.

While much of it is still within the familiar territory, it rejects the notion that German music is the center of the musical universe.

A list of his featured composers illustrates that point: Dukas, Ravel and Mussorgsky (Meadow Brook, 1983); Berlioz, Franck, Ravel, Brahms, Sibelius (Meadow Brook, 1984); Part, Grieg, Sibelius, Martinu and Dvorak (Ford Auditorium and Orchestra Hall, 1988).

The composer Part is another example of the Estonian umlaut. It is pronounced Pert, not "part" of the English language. Part and the Lithuanian composer Schnittke (whose violin concerto has been performed here with Gidon Kremer) are among Jarvi's favorite contemporary composers.

MANY OTHERS, however, don't evoke his admiration.

"The old masters, even under the most difficult conditions, produced a lot of music.

Today, with all the conveniences, including recording and production of sound and copying machines, very little useful music is being produced.

In their comfort, many contemporary composers tend to become lazy

While he ventures beyond the center of the traditional repertoire, Jarvi isn't an extremist. He admittedly isn't a proponent of electronic music.

"It has never appealed to me very much." he said

HE HAS recorded complete symphonic cycles of several composers and extensive portions of others. The symphonies of Schumann and Brahms are among his few concessions to popular tradition.

A slew of Scandinavian and others from the Baltic states are featured, together with some non-standard works by Russian composers.

These include the complete symphonies by Sibelius, Prokofiev and Glazunov, symphonies by the Danish composer Gade, Estonian native Tubin and several others.

Some of the names that are absent from this long list are Beethoven and Mozart, both of whom, however, are represented on his programs during the current visit.

Jarvi plans to record with the DSOH, something he considers very important for the growth and the international reputation of any orchestra. Here, however, he intends to stress music by American compos-

"There is a lot of good music written by American composers, other than the better known ones - Copland Bernstein and Gershwin"

PISTON AND CRESTON were among the ones he mentioned that weren't getting enough exposure. His high regard for American music extends to the oft-criticized national anthem as well.

"This country has a beautiful na-

Ties remain strong

By Avigdor Zaromp special writer

Neeme Jarvi was born in Talinn, Estonia in 1937. He came to the United States in 1980 became an American citizen in 1986. His ties to his homeland remain strong, however. When asked about the political climate in that region and the demand for independence from the Baltic Soviet republics (Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania), he said, "Many people compare this to the situation in Azerbeijan. However, this is a completely different situation. We never wanted to be part of the Soviet Union and never accepted their rule. We were overtaken by the Soviets by force in 1940 and never had any choice in the matter."

Among the less publicized things that Jarvi mentioned was that the Republic of Estonia recently started to print its own currency and it is more readily accepted in international monetary markets than the Russian ruble. Because of this, people from less prosperous Soviet republics find it more difficult to buy Estonian goods with the rubles.

Last summer was the first time that Jarvi was able to visit his homeland since his departure.

Printmaker thrives in Paris

Lynn Shaler's etching, inspired by a hotel room she stayed in while in Greece, illustrates her increased involvement with light in relation to interior/exterior

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

What is it about the light in France? It had a profound effect on a number of painters working in the south of France. Maybe, in Paris, for instance, it isn't the actual quality of the light, but rather the heightened awareness of light.

For whatever reason, Lynn Shaler, printmaker, who grew up in Birmingham and now lives in Paris, has become increasingly involved with

Sure, any visual artist is conscious of light, its sources and its effects at various times of day. but some use it as an element as they would an apple, a person or a building. Shaler's involvement is close to that point.

She arrived here Christmas Eve for a visit with her mother and brought some of her new work with her

"These latest prints," she said as she spread out a selection on the dining room table of her mother's home, "are based on themes from France and Greece. It's been great living over there and I love speaking French.

What I've been working on in these later prints is a sense of light, in creating a strong contrast, in joining the interior and exterior sense of light. All of my interiors have some kind

SHE IS METICULOUS in her attention to detail, skillful in concept and deeply committed to her art. One need only look at one of her etchings to appreciate this.

"And I do a lot of drawing, this is a prerequisite for the etching. She may do up to four color plates and then hand color each print after it is pulled. She has recently returned to one of her early subjects, doorknobs. A new etching, which has five in a row, is hand colored with charcoal.

SHE ONCE pulled all of her own prints. But as they have become increasingly complex, she has entrusted that to Atelier Le Blanc of Paris. She still does her own if only one of two plates are involved, she said.

She spends up to six months on the etching, and then each print takes at least an hour to make So several weeks are required to do only the printing for an edition of 100.

She belongs to a collective studio, Citie international des artes, where she works with 10-12 artists from all over the world.

"There's a fantastic exchange of ideas. They are from Yugoslavia, France, Japan, Bangladesh we learn from each other.

AMONG THE SUBJECTS for her latest work are a hotel room in Greece with the light coming in from the balcony, her studio in Paris, an old Romanesque country church in France, a still life that has the quality of a watercolor, the exterior of a quaint Paris cafe, the architecture of Ile

St. Louis and people. While the latter are seldom the focus in her work, she did a series of miniature portraits that are quite compelling. The miniatures, she said, have been in a number of international shows.

"It's architecture that interests me the most in but. I like doing varied subject my work . matter - I don't like doing just one thing."

She took a breath and said matter-of-factly, with a slow smile, "But I always will do interi-subjects are children and animals. Both offer numerous photo opportunities that will pay off with exciting

How about combining them? After all, any time children and animals get together, humorous and eartwarming happenings are likely to follow

Getting them together is rarely difficult since kids and animals naturally gravitate toward one another. The adventures and sometimes misadventures of kids and pets always have the potential for good shots.

BUT YOU have to be watching and be prepared to capture the spontaneous moment of action or reaction This means having your camera loaded with film, the lens on you want and, if you don't have an automatic camera, your exposure pre-

In the photo shown here, Birmingham resident Peter Lederer's camera was set and ready when two animal-loving kids couldn't resist offering a morning snack to a hungry elk. Pete's spontaneous shot, enhanced by the "do not feed" sign, captures a delightful moment on film.

You can even set up some possibilities for potentially good kid/pet photos. How about having the youngsters give the shaggy dog a muchneeded shampoo or "dress up" the reluctant kitten or play with that elusive frog?

Letting 'you' shine through art work

Did you ever go to a live concert and see a female performer pick out some frumpy guy in the audience, then sing a love song to him? Well, I was "Mr. Frump" not long ago. We were so close that my shoulder was touching the stage, and the singer's dress was so short I was afraid to look up at her.

Then I heard those awful words, "Hey, you're cute. Stand up and let's

It was 10 kinds of misery. She blew kisses to me, sang love songs looking me right in the eye. I thought I would die of embarrassment.

Somehow I managed to enjoy the show, however. That is one star I will never forget.

That night we were entertained by four performers and all were very good (except for the one I just mentioned), but one star particularly stood out from all the others.

She - like all the others - possessed an ability worthy of her hire. But she alone by the sincerity of her performance introduced herself to all of us and we all were thrilled to meet her.

I THOUGHT TO myself, how beautiful are the arts. Whether singing, acting, writing, painting, dancing, sculpting, sketching or rhyming, the expression to express is a Godsent gift.

the expression of one above the expression of another? Is the performance we viewed unlike a poem that steals your breath away, or the actor whose performance catches hold of your emotions?

Is the affinity we felt with that singer much different from a chunk of marble, tenderly shaped into an image that evokes our expression of

No, all artists possess the potential to share not just their ability but their spirit.

THAT SHARING of the spirit is what sets your particular art above the art of those merely going through the motions.

It is odd that you can struggle much of your life to acquire and perfect your ability and then by its ease of handling forget to ever share yourself — the person behind the ability.

Since ability only means "able to," then as a competent artist, your work should show what you intend it

If you, therefore, set out with the intention to impress your audience with technical skill, you would then be like the talented performers we viewed who merely "did their thing" and left with the applause.

Bridal show has a 'premier' focus

It's a little unusual for floral shops to initiate full scale bridal shows.

Usually, they are just participants But then Premier Designs in Livo-nia isn't your run-of-the-mill flower shop either

Located in Laurel Commons and formerly known as Kim's Floral, the shop recently caught area attention for their outstanding room design in a modern setting in the first Livonia Christmas Walk sponsored by the Friends of Greenmead and benefitting restoration work in the histori-

That show and the forthcoming bridal event are part of a marketing strategy to showcase the talents of the two couples who have taken over the ownership and management of the floral design shop.

THE BRIDAL SHOW will be a gala event with two shows set for 11 a m. and 3 p.m. Sunday in the new Livonia Marriott Hotel, Six Mile and Newburgh roads. In addition to the latest bridal fashions and complementary services, the audience will be treated to special entertainment and refreshments.

Taking part in the show will be Albright Photography, Allure Bridal, American Speedy Printing, Ask Mr. Foster-Camelot Travel, Egbar (D.J. service), Gerald's of Northville, John Casablanca Modeling School, Lorrie's Confectionately Yours, Mary Kay Cosmetics, Party Specialists, Precious Commodities, and Russell's Tuxedo.

Admission is $7 in advance and $9 at the door and will include valet parking, refreshments and an opportunity for door prizes.

The shop is owned and operated by two 26-year-old couples: Laura and Jim Enzor, and Suzie and Tom Gaunt

Laura Enzor manages the daily operations and consults with most of the wedding and party clientele. Suzie Gaunt is the floral designer and manages all of the design and display aspects of the business. Their husbands, Jim and Tom, manage the financial and marketing ends while

Center 7-8:30 p.m. Friday. Of his new book, Barker says,

"I see myself as a fairground barker, forgive the pun, shouting to the public: 'Come inside and I'll show

you demons, angels and the walking dead."

Some musicians may hate me and call me all kinds of bad names for making them work hard and learn some of the less popular music. Some of it may not turn out to be the best choice, but in order to achieve something new and exciting one has to take some risks."

BUT EVEN within the traditional repertoire, Jarvi has fresh, unconventional approaches. Tchaikovksy. for example, is frequently praised for his use of Russian themes.

You know what's relly good in Tchaikovsky's last three symphonies? It's the fact that he didn't use Russian themes but instead composed his own music. The one instance where he used one - in the Fourth Symphony - he didn't quite know what to do with it."

At this point he hummed the second subject from the final movement of Tchaikovksy's Fourth Symphony and proceeded to imitate the cymbals and the brass with astounding impact - creating the illusion of a full orchestral effect to a degree transcending by far the limitations of human voice.

On Mozart, who is one of his favorite traditional composers. Much of his music is like opera even his orchestral works." he said 'In almost everything you can sense the same kind of structure, almost feel the leitmotives."

JARVI IS full of praise for the Detroit Symphony, describing it as one of the best orchestras. He is aware of the financial problems. He would attempt to present a stronger case to the more affluent individuals and organizations in appeal for support

To increase audience attendance, a greater effort has to be made to increase the awareness of this cultural institution in more communi-

More and cheaper student tickets should be available and advertized among more schools, he said.

It is better to fill the hall with cheaper tickets than to keep the prices high and the hall empty.

When asked to select three composers with whom he would have to spend the rest of his life, after much reflection, he said Mozart and Martinu. Third place was a tie between Berlioz and Richard Strauss.

Symphony goes POPS with Chenille Sisters

The Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra will perform two pops concerts to coordinate with Winterfest "90." Ann Arbor's wacky and wonderful Chenille Sisters, plus Carl St. Clair will join forces at 8 p.m. both Friday. Feb. 9 and Saturday, Feb. 10 in the Michigan Theater Stunning harmonies and accessi-ble songs blended with campy humor and hilarious skits make the Chenille Sisters special. Musically, they draw from a number of styles including jazz, swing, folk and blues, infusing it all with their contagious enthusiasm. They call themselves a "girl group" and say their focus is on fun. Their rapidly growing audience proves this to be true.

Bob Ayars, who has conducted and directed orchestras all over the world, is arranging the music for the symphony's paps performances with the Chenilles. This is the group's first appearance with the orchestrs.

IMMEDIATELY following the Friday night, concertgoers will be invited to join the "conga" line from the Michigan Theater to Great Lakes Bancorp for a party to benefit the symphony. There will also be an opportunity to meet the Chenilles as well as musical director Carl St. Clair. Dancing will be to the Morris Lawrence Afromusicology Ensemble. "Sweets and savouries" will be provided by the Moveable Feast res-

Concert tickets are $15. There is an additional charge for the benefit. For ticket information, call 668-8397, for benefit party information, call 994-4801

Awards advertise architects' talents

staff writer

And the winner is

Awards. Every couple of weeks, some architect somewhere is winning an award for something. And sometimes only the architects know why or for what Lines. Lines are important, we know that. You can't win an award without good lines. Detailing, too. You've got to have good detailing. Character. Dignity. Sensitivity. Classic qualities.

Basic ingredients, naturally

"By its understatement, this design is a winner.'

"It is a solid scheme of enduring quality, executed without error but also without risk.

"The brick detailing reinforces this articulation of the building envelope and suggests an appropriate level of complexity of an otherwise simple building form."

BUT DOES it look good?

Architectural awards serve two purposes, said University of Detroit dean of architecture Bruno Leon. Awards give an architect recognition, but they also advertise his tal-

"Architects place them in their office, and they receive recognition from their peers, but clients see them as well and say, 'Hey, this guy is good.'

Some developers even consider awards when deciding between architects for a job. Leon said.

But not all awards are created equal. Leon said a national award from the American Institute of Architects (AIA) carries more prestige then the Small Town USA beautification committee award. The nationat AIA awards recognizes only the best designs in the nation. "When you think about it, that's quite an honor."

THE PRITZER PRIZE, the international architectural equivalent of the Nobel Prize, is also a much-coveted award, Leon said.

There are also national and awards given by masonry and engineering associations that are held in high regard, he said.

Next on the list of prestigious awards are the state chapters of the AIA, architectural organizations and the engineering and masonry groups, he said, followed by the local chapters of these groups.

There is also a growing number of chamber of commerce awards, city beautification awards, community organization awards - which are pleasant honors but offer less prestiege to the winning architect, Leon

DESPITE THE growing number of architectural contests, their proliferation hasn't cheapened the effect of winning an award, said Karl Greimel, dean of architecture at Lawrence Technological University in Southfield.

"We haven't reached a point of saturation yet - until recent years there has been more good architecture than good programs to recognize them," Greimel said.

"Part of the importance of awards is educating the public on what is good architecture," Greimel said. "I'd like to believe that architecture is not entirely subjective, but it's not engineering - you can't add two and two together and get four.'

Actually, there is far more good architecture - albeit unexciting architecture - then bad, but the general public perception is that southeast Michigan architecture is horrible, he said. "The blight overpowers the good. The poor tends to be so poor than it overwhelms us.

ARCHITECTURAL AWARDS can have a significant effect today, but historically, they were very important. "You have to remember that for three quarters of this century, architects were not allowed to advertise."

"A very successful vehicle for recognition has been the awards." Paid advertising has still not caught on in the architectural field even though the ethical restraints imposed by the profession have been lifted, he said.

Fewer firms are entering award contests these days because of the risk and time involved. Not every architectural design is built, he said,

Long Lakes Crossing, Troy, earned Minoru Yamasaki Associates a design award from the Masonry Institute of Michigan.

The complex consists of two three-story office buildins, with advertising medium has lessened. THE BIG NAME architectural firms are not always the contest winners. "A lot of firms are very successful but are not successful in and the importance of contests as an contests because they don't try.' Larger firms with established client bases don't need the recognition that comes with awards, so they are unwilling to invest the time and money and risk gaining nothing for the trouble.

Architectural awards are most important to young architects and firms that need to gain attention so that developers will consider them.

A national, state or significant local award can be an important part of a young architects portfolio, he "It shows you have the stuff needed to be a good architect.'

There are always some good architects around doing good work consistently -- and there are always clients around to mess it up," U-D's Leon said.

ONE CRITICISM of the Midwest he said, but that is not necessarily because architects here are inferior. Awards for architectural concepts

"simple detailing gives character and dignity to a common more representational of good architecture because they are designs made by people who understand good architecture.

An architect's clients, Leon said, has final say on a building's design and so concerns on pragmatism may outweigh form and design considera-

"It's important to remember the final project may not be what the architect envisioned," Leon said. "Great architects that work in Detroit always do their worst work contest is also an important consideration, LTU's Greimel said. Typically, professionals, academicians, critics and public officials judge the most prestigious contests.

But more and more architectural contests include laymen, business people, developers and journalists, he said. A critical, analytical eye is the judge's most important tool.

"It's good to have people besides rofessionals judging the contests, U-D's Leon said. "It doesn't take a professional to judge aesthetics and Harley Ellington Pierce Yee Associates of Southfield caught the eye of Masonry Institute of Michigan judges who cited the design of the Willard H. Dow Laboratory on the University of Michigan campus. "The design skillfully executes the concept of a simplified exterior from which reveals an unexpected explosion of space on the interior," judges said. "This idea of expectation and reversal, like a geode, works to sharpen the impact of the enclosed glass garden."

The Center for Fire Research at the National Institute of Standards and Technology said a computer program called Hazard I will revolutionize the way buildings are designed and engineered for fire safety. Using a personal computer and Hazard I software, an architect can dge how a house and its occupants will fare in a fire.

First, the architect creates a floor plan, entering into the computer physical dimensions for rooms, doors, windows and other building characteristics. An on-screen fire is triggered, and Hazard I quickly calculates and visually portrays the fire's impact - the course of the fire, how quickly it spreads, smoke and gas levels, and rising tempera-

Lighting 'makes or breaks' space

All too many homeowners fail to put their hous es, furniture and works of art in the best possible light due to inadequate lighting systems.

That's what some interior designers and retailers of fixtures in the lighting industry say.

"Lighting is just a way to make your home com-fortable," said Nancy L. Burns, manager of the lighting lab program for Lightolear, a fixture manufacturer headquartered in New Jersey.

"The biggest mistake is people use one fixture to light an entire room," Burns said. "The end result is the room is flat, visually dull and appears smaller rather than spacious. Lighting can certainly enhance the space.

Recessed and track lighting systems now can be angled and adjusted in intensity with dimmers to create a variety of effects. Halogen bulbs, becoming increasingly popular, produce a whiter light than incandescent bulbs.

BURNS, AN interior designer who has won national awards for her work with lighting, was in Birmingham last week to host an open house at Michigan Chandelier on Telegraph at Maple. The store has the only lighting demonstration room in

'My career started on a sentence I still believe in lighting can make or break your space," Burns

Gone are the days some 30 years ago when all lighting fixtures in a new starter home could be had for $10.95, said Herb Arndt, manager at Michigan Chandelier.

Now, we're talking about chandeliers, track lighting, recessed lighting, dimmers and halogen bulbs separately and in combination.

Chandeliers can cost thousands of dollars. Recessed and track lighting fixtures can average $100 apiece. The trick is to maximize choice - and ambiance - without spending a fortune.

"SOMETHING MOST people can do is add a dimmer. Immediately, it gives you flexibility for quiet when you're with that special person or more light when playing cards with the kids," Burns said. "A place I like to use a dimmer is in the bathroom. When that alarm goes off in the morning, I don't want to be blasted by light," she said. "Lighting trends include more sophisticated dimming controls," Burns said. They're more convenient to use, more stylized in appearance." Recessed or track lighting can be used to enhance objects like floral arrangements on tables or photographs and paintings on walls. They can be especially effective when used with chandeliers and The earlier in the planning process decisions can be made, the easier and less expensive will be the

Consumers are becoming more aware but don't know all of the options when it comes to lighting, said Linda Shears, an interior designer at Modern Studio of Interiors in Birmingham.

MOST PEOPLE want recessed rather track," she said of today's buyer. "They don't want tracks running across the room. Recess is less o trusive, they're not following a line in the room.

But for a remodeling job in a colonial home, cessed lighting may be cost prohibitive, she said Martha Noonan, an interior designer from Ro-chester Hills, also prefers recessed to track light-ing She's also charmed by the possibilities of softer

People need to be exposed by some matter or means to even know about these things," Noonan said. "Unless they're working with someone like a lighting designer, architect or interior designer, they won't know how to go about it."

To fight crime in Philly, people plant posies.

"The bad part of town" Abandoned cars. Sidewalks scattered with crack vials. Bombed-out

A neighborhood whose spirit is as broken as the bits of glass that dot the street. There are only two things to do if your neighborhood becomes a war sone: give up or take action.

The Philadelphia Story One day, in the "bad part" of Philadelphie, a neighbor complained to a neighbor. And then to another. And then to more. People didn't like their omes being "taken over." Feelings helpleseness and resentment ed to action.

went to the police for help. a substation was estabwhere folks could readily or covine. Weekly meetstarted getting fixed up. Vacant lots were cleaned up and fenced. Abandoned cars were towed away. Painting and repairing programs began.

The neighborhood was cleaning itself up. The local 4-H Club even helped set up garden clubs where kids, teens and adults could work together on plants and flowers while talking over ways to raise awareness.

When people care and get involved, neighborhoods change. When a block doesn't look like a haven for crime and drugs, it won't be. And in this part of Philly, where once only apathy.

> grew, seven gardens now bloom. This is only one success story of many. To find out what can be done in your neighborhood, write: The McGruff Files, 1 Provention Way, Washington, D.C., 20559-0001. And help...
