FBI arrests Plymouth man for writing threats

By M.B. Dillon and A. Giralt Bedford staff writers

Michael Shields rented a videotape entitled "Maps to the Stars" Homes" and a Los Angeles travel video before leaving Plymouth for California, where he was arrested for sending threatening letters and cards to an actress

The actress. Stephanie Zimbalist, co-starred in the recent TV series Remington Steele.

Shields rented the movies Jan 28 from Blockbuster Video at Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon near his residence at the Crestwood Park condominiums

The 43-year-old Shields has lived in the senior citizen complex on Sheldon with his mother for about 20 years Neighbors described him as a loner type who weighed between 250 and 300 pounds.

Shields was arrested Friday night by the FBI in the Valley Hilton Hotel in the Los Angeles suburb of Sherman Oaks, said Los Angeles FBI special agent Fred Reagan.

REAGAN DECLINED to say what Shields was doing at the time of his arrest, or whether he was carrying a weapon

"Our people were with him for a time," he said. "He made previous trips and stalked her, surely. Zimbalist contacted the FBI "on several occasions, dating to August 1988 when she received the first letter," said Reagan.

Zimbalist "unquestionably took these seriously," said Reagan. "If I got 212 letters with that kind of menacing language. I'd take them seriously, too.'

Excerpts from letters, many of them signed "Your Secret Admirer," said things like, "I'll find you;" "I am watching your house;" "I have in mind some mischief;" and "Don't say I didn't warn you," said Reagan. Another letter said, "It's charm-

Residents lobby for Graham to be city manager

By Kevin Brown staff writer

While most Plymouth city commissioners voice only lukewarm support for William Graham as next city manager, some residents urge his selection.

"I think Bill deserves a little credit and a little consideration," said Gene Morrow, a former commission candidate.

"I wonder where the city of Plymouth would be if we didn't have Bill Graham." he said, to applause.

Graham, the city finance director, was named acting city manager after Henry Graper's resignation in May. He was named to the list of four finalists for the city manager job. Some residents also took turns questioning the commission on the delay in hiring a new city manager a delay sparked when three outside finalists picked by a consultant turned down the job.

Meeting on grant big draw

Old Village residents want improvements

By Kevin Brown staff writer

Old Village residents turned out in force Monday before Plymouth city commissioners, in hopes of winning federal money for improvements. About 26 Old Village residents showed up for a hearing on how the city would spend its yearly federal community development block grant.

"This is going to be a unique area for the city and in the future a vital area," said Mark Oppat, Old Village Association president.

While the grants paid for many improvements to Old Village in the 1970s, "we were bypassed in the '80s," Oppat said.

Mayor Dennis Bila gave Old Village backers a chance to have more say with the committee overseeing the block grant. He named Oppat to the citizens advisory committee to fill a vacancy.

The committee is scheduled to meet at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, to discuss how the block grant will be divided before the proposal goes before the city commission March 19

ASSISTANT CITY manager Paul Sincock presented a tentative list of how to divide the $56,000 in block grant money for 1990, drawn up by the citizens advisory council on community development block grants.

The tentative list included paying $25,200 for a senior citizens van driver, $7,985 for a senior citizens transportation dispatcher, $3,000 for meals on wheels,

City gets grant to clean landfill

By Kevin Brown staff writer

Plymouth city officials got a little good budget-related news for a change this week.

The Department of Natural Resources has approved a grant to help the city clean up its former landfill in Salem Township, acting City Manager William Graham announced at the city commission meeting Monday

'There's nothing in this letter that says how much money is available to us," Graham said.

But city officials say the city should get a significant sum to help with the cleanup, as $18.1 million is available for the 49 communities including Plymouth - whose grant requests were accepted by the DNR.

"We're quite pleased with that," Graham said, as city officials have been studying ways to reduce the city's estimated $250,000 budget deficit, and build a budget surplus in future years.

Graham said the maximum goin to any one community is $600,000.

"A lot of us voted for all of you people and a lot of us don't feel very well," said resident Steve Ribar.

"Do you not trust your own judgment to pick a manager?" asked for one year. Graham has said he would take the job, if offered.

Mayor Dennis Bila told residents he and other commissioners are not satisfied with the outcome of the consultant search.

He's asked the consultant, Rod

Environment in crisis as Earth Day nears

Earth Day, April 22, 1970, was the symbolic start of the nation's environmental movement.

On that date, thousands of Americans attended peaceful environmental demonstrations in numerous cities - including Washington, D.C.

Though the nation's smoky skies and murky waterways had long been a concern, the highly visible show of public concern was credited with forcing Congress to act on air and water issues.

The results were immediate. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the nation's chief watchdog on environmental issues, was established in December of that year. Within the next few months, massive clean air and water legislation was also enacted.

Now, as Earth Day 20 approaches, the nation is faced with another environmental crisis. Though major strides have been made in curbing factory and automotive contamination, pollution still exists.

A new clean air bill has come un der attack from many environmental groups for being too lenient to polluters.

Beyond that, there are new environmental issues, including damage to the earth's protective osone layer global warming and destruction of the Brazilian rain forests, that weren't even considerations 20 years

It is those issues that point the way to Earth Day 20.

Property assessments go up

In keeping with a recent trend property assessments increased sharply this year in Plymouth and Plymouth Township

In Plymouth, assessed residen tial property values rose by 12.57 percent. Last year, assessments increased by 15.51 percent

Judy Zirblis, acting city treasur er, said the big back-to-back increases are a burden for homeown ers, especially Plymouth seniors on fixed incomes

Save a life.

They're very concerned, she said, adding "we are bombarded" by homeowners with questions about assessments.

In Plymouth Township, residen tial property assessments rose by 9.58 percent, compared to 15 percent last year, township officials said

While the percentage increase dipped, the number of questions on assessments posed to township officials are running about the same as last year, officials said.

"He was allegedly involved with some harassment of a house here in Plymouth, in particular a female resident who was married."

Myers is unsure how or if Shields and the woman - believed to be a school teacher - knew each other. 'This isn't anything open or active.

"There was various harassment over a two-year period involving letters, calls and the following of the woman," Myers said.

LETTERS SENT to the woman and one of her friends contained threats and "very explicit sexual connotations," he said.

Then-Plymouth Police Chief Tim Ford also received threatening mail. In May, 1978, Plymouth police placed the woman's Penniman Street residence under surveillance.

Within a 24-hour period, the tires of the woman's car were slashed while the vehicle was parked in the garage and her house was vandalized, police records show

"An officer observed Mr. Shields run from Church Street onto Penniman and throw a large chunk of concrete through an upstairs window and run through the area," said Myers. "He was apprehended and charged with prowling and malicious destruction of property."

Shields pleaded guilty to prowling, according to court records. The property destruction charges were dropped. Shields was sentenced to five days' community service, fined $75 in court costs and ordered not to contact the victims.

The woman eventually moved to Oakland County, Myers said.

In place of printing or typing many of the notes, the writer formed words using letters cut out from newspapers and magazines

In June and July of 1978, the Plymouth woman and her friend received four pieces of mail - all of them detailing sexual acts.

A letter addressed to the victim's husband in July said, "One of us must die. I understand this now.' The same month, Police Chief Ford received a letter that said, "I am going to kill someone this year.

City wins cleanup grant

Plymouth officials were angered last spring when they were told that a state plan for spending millions of dollars of environmental cleanup bond money approved by voters in 1988 would provide no money to clean up the abandoned landfill.

Graham said it's yet to be determined if contamination actually comes from the Salem landfill, or

Here's the rub

Massage eases variety of tensions

We city dwellers seem to operate in one of two gears — quick or dead.

That's a prime reason stress is every bit the companion our guardian angels are.

It doesn't have to be that way, as massage therapists well know. Their answer to tension, anxiety, aches and pain is sometimes referred to as "the last touching profession." And it feels terrific.

Using techniques that have been perfected over hundreds of years, massage therapists knead muscles, relaxing their clients and soothing their nerves.

Massage helps prevent disease by improving blood and lymphatic circulation, ridding the body of toxins.

It also enhances flexibility and releases endorphins, the body's natural pain killers, creating a wonderful sense of physical and mental well-being.

Increasingly, physicians, chiropractors, psychiatrists, athletic trainers and even marriage counselors are referring people to massage therapists.

In downtown Plymouth, Celeste Hamilton operates the Plymouth

Massage Therapy Center, an arm of the Health Enrichment Center in Lapeer, which is licensed by the American Massage Therapy Association.

AT THE satellite school, Hamilton's students work on hairdressers, musicians, athletes, the handicapped and others during a 10-month class.

The reason? "People in different professions hold their tension in different places, and we're learning how to work on different problem areas of the body," said Hamilton, certified by the AMTA in 1979. Hamilton, who also teaches a 30hour class and massage for couples, has more students now than she's ever had. The same goes for clients.

"Massage is really good for improving your performance, whether it be in sports, speaking in front of people, running a race or bowling." she said.

"I've had clients come and get a massage before any type of stressful situation. Getting a massage first helps to kind of ease them through whatever they have to go through." For athletes, post-competition massage speeds recovery, she added. PAM TOUHEY OF PLYM-OUTH offers massage out of a facility at Zerbo's Health Food Store on Plymouth Road in Livonia.

Many of her clients are arthritis sufferers who get pain relief through massage.

Others include marathoners, nurses, doctors, dentists, chiropractors and university professors.

"I have an M.S. (multiple sclerosis) patient I see every week," Touhey said. "She has stiffness and limited movement and circulation to her limbs that she doesn't use. She notices a lot of help through massage."

Touhey views herself as a "holistic massage therapist.

"I talk to my clients about diet and exercise and relaxation techniques. That's where my yoga comes in. I work with them on all those things."

The going rate for an hourlong massage is $40 to $50.

Massage therapists referrals are available through the Health Enrichment Center at 667-9453 and the AMTA hotline at 475-1453.

Profession thrives despite misunderstandings

By M.B. Dillon

staff writer

Massage therapy is booming. Since the beginning of 1986, the number of American Massage Therapy Association members has doubled to more than 10,000.

In Michigan, nearly 400 massage therapists are certified, up from 220 two years ago.

That doesn't surprise Celeste Hamilton of the Plymouth Massage Therapy Center.

"People are becoming more and more aware of massage. They want it and need it. It's such a good answer to our stressful lifestyles," she said.

"We live in such a mentally oriented society. It helps bring balance back to our lives again."

WHILE MASSAGE therapists are happy to see their profession prosper, they have been hampered by laws and policies designed to deal with massage parlors, commonly used as fronts for prostitution.

"The biggest problem is that the state of Michigan doesn't have any type of control that the local governments can grasp onto," said Sandy Fritz, director of the licensed Health Enrichment Center, a massage therapy school in Lapeer. "So in their quest not to have massage parlors, communities end up instituting ordinances that typically require massage therapists to get fingerprinted and checked for venereal disease. Therapists must work out of rooms that don't have locks and display a green card to say you're a legal resident of the United States.

"Then they'll put extremely complicated requirements on the location. You have to have full locker rooms and showers for both parties. That isn't necessary for a massage therapist," Fritz said. Some cities, including a couple downriver, won't allow massage therapists to practice. "Birmingham won't allow massage therapists to make house calls or to have a practice, unless they're working out of a doctor's office." Hamilton said. "I've had students who've tried to work in suntanning or all-purpose salons. The local governments wouldn't allow them to have a massage therapist.

MASSAGE THERAPISTS have petitioned the state for licensing, but to no avail.

"We've tried to get licensing as individuals, and the state says there is no money to do this," Hamilton said. "The best thing a student can get is a certificate from a state-licensed school."

"The state doesn't have the funds to look at the registration process. Fritz said. "It's just not a priority for them."

Therapists are finding that some townships and cities, when present ed with information and credentials by massage professionals, are, granting exemptions, Fritz said.

Massage therapists need to "start sitting in on township and local meetings and possibly getting, this put on the agenda for discusssion," said Jocelyn Granger, chapter president in Michigan for the AMTA.

RECENTLY, Michigan Bell addressed the problem. It no longer, lists massage parlors and massage therapists under a common heading.

"I'd hoped they'd call massage parlors escort services or some thing like that, but at least they did make a delineation between mas sage and massage therapists." Fritz said.

Engler talk on tax plan sparks varied reaction

By Diane Gale staff writer

John Engler's speech Tuesday before a full-house crowd at Canton's first Economic Club meeting drew mixed reactions. Plymouth-Canton school officials liked what the Republican Senate Majority Leader from Mount Pleasant had to say about returning tax dollars to schools.

BUT STATE treasurer Bob Bowman said the senator's property tax plan is full of holes.

Engler spoke for 15 minutes at St. John Neumann Church during a whirlwind state tour in his bid for governor against Bowman's boss James Blanchard.

After the $10 luncheon Ray Hoedel, Plymouth-Canton associate superintendent for business operations, said: "One of his proposals is something we've been trying to do for years.

"I wish we could make it retroactive," said Hoedel.

The Plymouth-Canton schools lost state money, because the district went out of formula and was no longer eligible for state aid.

And the Headlee rollback, which ensures that property taxes won't exceed the inflation rate, is another blow to the district's budget, Hoedel said.

The plan calls for the state making up losses the schools would have gotten without reducing taxes, according to John Truscott, Engler media relations director.

"There is a lot of fat in the state budget that can be cut and would help in reducing property taxes," Truscott said.

THE REPUBLICAN tax plan calls for:

• Reducing the State Equalized

State Sen. John Engler made a pitch to the Canton Economic Club for his plan to cut property taxes.

Valuation ratio for school taxes;

• Exempting senior citizens from school taxes;

• Reducing the Single Business Tax rate by 20 percent; and

• Eliminating industrial property tax abatements.

Bowman argues that the plan has two problems.

"He's been in Lansing 20 years and has never sponsored a tax proposal and for him to support one in an election year reeks of nothing more than election year gambit," Bowman said.

Secondly, the plan calls for reducing assessment ratios instead of putting an actual limit on the amount.

"I don't think the voters will be fooled," said Bowman noting that in Canton the average assessment increase this year was 11 percent.

"The ratio wouldn't affect that," said Bowman, who was appointed to his job by Gov. James Blanchard. "The governor's plan caps assessments at no more than the rate of inflation. The real culprit is the assessment increases. "Without capping assessment increases this is nothing more than whistling in the dark," he said. "It is exactly what we expect from someone who has twiddled his thumbs for 20 years on property taxes."

Thief breaks into house for nothing

A thief broke into a Plyouth Township house on Friday or Saturday, but there was nothing there to steal as the new owner hadn't moved in his belongings.

Sometime between 9:30 a.m. Friday and noon Saturday, the door latch to the house on Deer Creek Circle was broken, the new owner told Plymouth Township police. Damage was estimated at $50, according to the police report.

GUN TAKEN: Items valued at $485 were reported stolen late Friday or early Saturday from a pickup truck parked outside a home on Washington Street.

According to the Plymouth Township police report, a thief forced open a rear sliding window to the pick-up cab to enter the truck.

The theft was discovered at 6 a.m. Missing was a .22 caliber automatic, a briefcase and a camera case, police reported. Police are investigating the theft.

HARRASSING CALLS: A Plymouth Township woman told police she got the latest in a series of harassing phone calls left on her answering machine, sometime between 5 and 6 p.m. Friday.

By the content of the calls, she said the man who made them knows something of where she works and where she lives. She told police she would change her phone number to an unlisted one, the police report said.

LITTERING: A Plymouth Township business owner called police Sunday, after he noticed litter piled around and inside his company dumpster, on General.

The name of a local company was on several papers included in the pile, said police, who are investigating.

Township donates to Heritage Trail

By Kevin Brown staff writer

The Ford Heritage Trail, touted as a way to recognize history and draw tourists to trail sites, includes two stops in the Plymouth area.

Henry Ford's "love and concern for small rural communities has left a wonderful legacy of scenic and historic landmarks," wrote Nancy Watkins, of Plymouth.

She's helping to organize the drive to recognize the sites.

"The Ford Heritage Trial will raise public awareness of these historic sites and will promote tour ism in the communities in which they are located," she continued.

In the Plymouth area, trail sites are the Wilcox Mill. at Hines Drive and Wilcox Road in Plymouth, and the Phoenix Mill, on Northville Road just north of Five Mile in Plymouth Township.

Plymouth Township trustees last week approved $1,000 to promote the trail. Plymouth's city commission also was asked to contribute $1,000, but voted to contribute $200, citing budget constraints.

The Wilcox Mill was donated to the Wayne County parks system in 1948.

Ford bought the mill, formerly the Hardenbergh Mill, in 1920 and replaced the dilapidated building with the present mill. From 1923 to 1948, the Plymouth plant produced generator parts.

The Phoenix Mill stands on the site of the extinct village of Phoenix A mill was on this site from 1840 to 1905, when the gristmill burned down.

It was also the site of the Matthews Distillery, and produced "Plymouth Wheat Flakes'

Ford bought and rebuilt the dam after it broke in 1920. Opened in 1922, the new mill produced electrical parts, voltage regulators and switches. The mill was donated to the parks system in 1948.

The mill was unique because it employed women only, one of the nation's first factories to do so.

'Mr. Ford believed women had superior hand dexterity and were particularly suited to small, electrical assembly," said John Stewart, a Wayne County parks histori-

To promote the project, the Wayne County parks division and the Michigan Department of Transportation plan to place travel posters at freeway rest stops and travel information centers outlining the tour.

Promoters also plan to create brochures outlining the tour route and featured structures, a booklet giving descriptions of the historic buildings, markers to be erected at all historic sites and highway signs along the trail route.

Events to promote the trail also are planned, including a Ford Heritage Festival this summer.

Burger Center, suburban Wayne County's center for autistic children. could remain open an additional vear

But the announcement that the center could remain intact for another year has done little to please parents whose youngsters attend the Garden City center.

Wayne County Intermediate Schools could keep the center operating by spending $155,000 for shortterm repairs on its leaky roof, according to an architectural firm that supervised an examination of the Garden City site.

Officials from the county schools, which operates center programs. and Garden City Public Schools, which owns the building and hires staff, were to meet this week to discuss the short-term building repairs. No major repairs have been performed on the former junior high building in more than a decade. Parents, who last week packed a meeting on the center's future, said they remained unconvinced the county schools are committed to maintaining the center.

"THE $155,000 is just a drop in the bucket," said Connie Howse of Livonia, whose son attends Burger Center. "I think any parent will tell you ments we need a long-term commitment."

Because autistic children are considered highly resistant to change, by either group

ADDITIONAL ROOF repairs and asbestos removal would be necessary to keep the building operating another five years, according to the DeWinter study. The study estimated the five-year cost at $1.2 million.

To keep the building operating another 10 years, the study said, the district would have to spend $2.3 million - including $440,000 for new windows and another $440,000 for a new heating system.

Officials from the county schools said they would tap into the county special education millage - heretofore reserved for programs only to pay for Burger Center improve-

Madonna auction aims high

A trip to Paris A shiny new Cadil lac A full-length fur coat

It sounds like a winning night for a Wheel of Fortune contestant In real ity, these are three of the prizes up for grabs at this year's Madonna College scholarship dinner auction The "Around the World" auction has set a $200,000 fund-raising goal for the Livonia-based liberal arts college

"I THINK that goal can easily be reached," said auction chairman Dennis Kapp of West Bloomfield. "My personal goal is to raise $225,000 to $250,000."

Kapp, who shares the chairman's duties with his wife. Vicky, helped acquire several expensive prizes for the March 31 event.

Northwest Airlines has contribut ed four pairs of round trip tickets. featuring trips to Paris, Tokyo, Hawaii and a location of the bidder's choice anywhere in the continental United States.

Other gifts to go on the auction block include many parents said a new site, or new teachers, would deal a major setback to their children's social progress

Burger Center teachers also expressed concern.

Another year might be nice, but what happens then?" said Colleen Presley, who has taught at Burger Center since it was established in the late 1970s.

WHAT WOULD happen - if short-term repairs were made - is that Wayne County Intermediate Schools would have another year to decide whether to complete Burger Center's renovation, including digging up an estimated $565,000 for complete asbestos removal.

If repairs weren't made, students would be assigned to an alternative site or sites and current center staff would be free to accept other positions within the Garden City district.

As many as 50 current Garden City teachers might have to be laid off to make room for the "returning" Burger Center teachers.

At least part of the roof would have to be replaced if the building were to remain open another year. said DeWinter Associates, the Grand

We indicated we'd be willing to talk but really that's all there is at this point," associate superintendent Stephen Kelly said.

THE ARGUMENT over Burger Center is also an argument over the best way to educate autistic children.

"Mainstreaming" assigning students to buildings that also house other students - is preferable to maintaining a separate building for autistic children, some groups said.

"I don't know of anything magical about a building and right now that building is a serious safety concern," Pauline Kahn, president of the Wayne County Society for Autistic Citizens, wrote in a letter explaining that group's belief in a "choice of (education) options.'

Other parents, however, have formed another group, the Autistic School Association, dedicated to keeping Burger Center open - by whatever means available.

"What we'd really like is for somebody to come forth with the money as a charitable contribution," group member Kathy Sullivan said. "That way, we wouldn't have to depend on the county or anybody else.'

BICKEL HAD taken a new job and was working his last night fo: Gener-al Motors when he was slain. He is servived by a wife and an 18-monthold son Livonia police Sgt. Jesse Bartlett said investigators are running out of leads in the homicide, despite a $25,000 reward being offered by General Motors and the United Plant Guard Workers of America union.

"We've investigated just about every person who was even remotely considered a suspect," Bartlett said. "We're running out of leads and all of the tips we received are drying murder especially difficult to solve is that there is no physical evidence to the crime and no apparent motive.

No weapon was found at the murder site, and nothing apparently was removed from Bickel's body.

The facts of the crime suggest the assailant knew his victim but we haven't found any reason why someone would want to kill Mr. Bickel." Bartlett said. " We conducted an exhaustive background check on the victim and turned up nothing out of the ordinary.

Theft has all been ruled out as a motive for the slaying because police found no evidence of theft or even attempted theft.

IF THE murder becomes one of Livonia's unsolved mysteries, Bartlett said it will not be due to lack of effort by either his department or

More than 7,000 Detroit area residents have already been invited to participate. Participants will march with relatives and others sharing the same surname during the 32nd annual Detroit parade.

Banners bearing notable Irish surnames will be displayed on Third Street, north of Michigan Avenue 45 minutes before the parade begins. Marchers will receive a copy of their family coat of arms and family history

"This is the first time we've tried this," said parade chairman Mike Sullivan of Farmington Hills. "The hope is to have more people march. A great crowd comes to watch the parade Hopefully, this way more people will participate." Those interested in joining the parade are invited to call 421-3128.

An estimated 10,000 people take part in the parade annually

This year's parade theme is: 'A United Ireland in a United Europe" This year's grand marshal is Tom Dunleavy, head of the area's familyowned Dunleavy pub and restaurant chain.

Irish Week in Detroit kicks off at noon Friday, when parade grand marshal and the parade's Maid of Erin and her court paint green shamrocks on Michigan Avenue, near 12th street. Court members include Christy Ann Root of Livonia.

The eighth annual Corktown Races will be held the day of the parade. The races, conducted by the Motor City Striders running team, feature a four-mile run, one-mile walk and a quarter-mile run for children 12 and under and a one-mile walk.

Race registration begins at 11 a.m. outside Tiger Stadium. Entry is $11. Proceeds will be donated to the St. Patrick's Parish food program, serving Detroit's Cass Corridor.

The children's run begins at 12:30 p.m. The four-mile run and one-mile walk begins at 1 p.m.

All participants receive a commemorative T-shirt. Top finishers receive ribbons; all finishers receive a certificate. The first-place male and female finishers in the four-mile run will be invited to ride in the parade.

Race entry forms available by writing Corktown Races, 10144 Lincoln, Huntington Woods, 48070. Forms are also available at Irish pubs throughout the Detroit area.

Additional information on the parade or other Irish Week activities is available by calling 471-1540.

Congressmen like new clean air proposal

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Area congressmen see the U.S. senate's proposed Clean Air Bill as a solid step toward agreement on the long delayed legislation, even though the bill has come under fire from environmental groups.

Though the Senate bill will probaby have to be reconciled with the House's own version, area congressmen believe both houses could apsore a new clean air iaw before the end of the year.

This isn't the final step, but it ooks like we've finally broken the log jam, said Rep Sander Levin, D-Southfield, whose district includes Redford Township

The initial Clean Air Act, last amended in 1977, expired in 1988. As a group, Michigan congressmen were concerned about balancing the need for a clean environment with the needs of a slumping domestic automobile industry.

I'm no different from anyone else in supporting a clean environment, but those of us from Michigan have a special obligation to fine tune the balance between the environment and thousands of Michigan jobs." said Rep William Ford, D-Taylor. Ford's district includes southern

Livonia, Westland, Garden City and Canton Township

Environmental groups however believe the Senate bill goes too easy on auto pollution, weakening a second round of tail pipe emissions standards that would have gone into effect after the year 2000

"TIER TWO is trashed and we're very disappointed no doubt about it," said Alex Sagady of the American Lung Association of Michigan Lung associations throughout the United States have lobbled heavily for tougher clean air standards.

Loss of the tier two emissions standards. Sagady said, means the end of a nationwide effort to eliminate harmful auto emissions.

What this means is that states are going to have to take a look at adopting tough individual standards. like those in California," he said "I don't know if Michigan is going to be among them, but I could see New England, New York and some sun belt states adopting tougher standards

The Senate proposal would enact the tougher tier two standrads only if air pollution in 11 of 27 key cities falls below minimum federal stand-

'This isn't the final step, but it looks like we've finally broken the log jam.' - Rep. Sander Levin D-Southfield The regional approach would suit acknowledged Michigan's delegation He's been a real impediment - 2 some area congressmen just fine.

You don't have to advocate it for everyone but for high smog areas, a regional approach would work well." said Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth. Pursell's district includes northern Livonia, Plymouth and Plymouth Township is generally following the lead of Rep. John Dingell, D-Trenton, chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee.

Now, the pressure is on the Dingell committee for a well-balanced bill." Pursell said

The powerful Dingell, however, is seen as an enemy by environmental real road block," Sagady said.

At the same time the lung association is continuing its letter-writing campaign, encouraging its members to write their local congressmen to express concern over the bill.

Prior to Thursday's announcement. Sen. Donald Riegle was retrol, but it's still a lot of mail on an issue," office spokeswoman Martha Quinn said.

But many writers apparently favored the elimination of the tier two emission standards, as sought by Sen Carl Levin among others.

Of the 4,500 letters received by Levin, "less than 100 stated they flat out opposed our position," press sec-retary Willie Blacklow said.

Manager

Commission faces dilemma

T'S STARTING TO LOOK like Plymouth won't have a city manager for a while yet.

The city commission is caught in a dilemma: Should it hire acting City Manager William Graham or should it go through the hiring process again?

If Plymouth residents have anything to say about it, the commission will select Graham. Residents packed city commission chambers on Monday, demanding the selection of Graham.

However, the commission balked at making a decision, saying only that it will deal with the issue on March 12. Between now and then, commission members will be talking to the consulting firm of Bartell & Bartell, which conducted the city manager search.

We hope that the commission has something substantial to announce by then.

We support Graham for the job, but we wouldn't be disappointed if the commission were to invite new candidates for interviews.

Graham is the only one of four finalists for the city manager's job still in the running. Randy Byrne. Grand Blanc city manager, turned down the job, citing the city's $250,000 budget deficit. Two other finalists also turned down the job, citing housing costs in Plymouth.

IF THE COMMISSION doesn't select Graham, that means it will have to go back into the pool of candidates who applied for the job and bring more in for final interviews with the commission.

If that happens, we would hope the commission would learn from the selection process it's been through. This time around, the commission should put together information on the community for the candidates so that when they go to look for a home, they don't get a case of sticker shock. If Plymouth residents have anything to say about it, the commission will select Graham. Residents packed city commission chambers on Monday, demanding the selection of Graham.

But that's only one factor. Byrne turned down the job because of the budget deficit.

We find that wimpy for a manager candidate It's a problem we would expect a city manager to deal with. Budget deficits usually indicate other problems in a community. In this case we don't think it does.

The deficit is being caused by increases in the costs of operating landfills, which is a problem being faced by many communities in Michigan and the nation.

If the commission decides to interview new candidates for city manager, it should make sure they have experience in dealing with budgets and the landfill issue before they are even invited to interview for the job.

We hope the commission can solve the dilemma. Maybe by the time they meet on Monday they'll have had time to think about the situation and be ready to embark on a path toward selecting a manager.

The commission has learned from the process that it should be giving the manager candidates more information about the housing costs in Plymouth and about the deficit.

With those lessons learned, it should be easier for the commission to select a manager.

Homelessness Wayne, Oakland seek solutions

N THE LAST decade, the plight of homeless people living on the streets of America's major cities has progressed from a nearly ignored social phenomenon, to the latest

We commend officials in Oakland and Wayne Counties who have

Tax bills befuddle us as services stumble

SO ANQTHER season is upon us and the situation is more muddled, the solution dimmer than ever before.

Some folks wouldn't say it was earth shaking. But we know better. Here we sit, tax bills in hand, wondering when this whole mess will get sorted out. Despite all of our best efforts, property tax assessments just keep on going up. We grimace, we even laugh about it sometimes. But in the end, we pay. And in Lansing, where our state leadership is supposed to be doing something about this problem, nothing really happens.

Just a lot of talk. Doesn't matter the party or the ideological inclination, nothing really happens, except in our own hometowns.

While there is a nationwide outcry for increased educational standards and more money with which to do it, districts continue to suffer and a larger group of taxpayers wonder for how much longer they will be able to afford their homes.

In the Lakes country, the Walled Lake School Board is mulling over the possibility of asking voters to override the Headlee amendment. Object: to keep the district running at present levels of service.

If voters override, the budget will be cut by $3.5 million next year, $9 million the next and $12 million the third. Twice before, in 1987 and 1988, Walled Lake voters have stuck with the Headlee formula, disapproved a rollback. School administrators hope for better results this time around by educating residents in the need for revenue and involving them in the campaign.

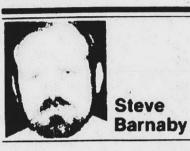

BUT RESIDENTS, no matter what the city in Michigan, are having a tough time understanding why their property taxes keep escalating and governmental bodies keep running out of money.

In Redford Township, officials are trying to figure out how to keep the local dial-a-ride program afloat. The program faces a $60,000 shortfall this year.

One of their biggest problems is fallout from the Reagan years mentality when gouged the block grant programs to pay for more federal programs. The tradition continues, today.

The folks to suffer are senior citizens, who comprise 83 percent of dial-a-ride customers. Another 12 percent are the disabled.

So Redford residents have the unenviable choice of either cutting off public transportation to those who need it the most or paying yet another tax. In the meantime, the feds are spending and spending and tell us the peace dividend is already spent

In Garden City, the school district's deficit is projected to be $2.3 million by years-end. Officals already are looking at asking for a millage hike. Sure they have choices, raise the millage or cut programs for students in a district which already is hurting.

Some choice. Meanwhile in Canton, residents are deluging the township switchboard with complaints about assessments which have risen anywhere between 8 and 12 percent for 80 percent of the subdivisions. The highest increase was 20 percent. It makes the mind just spin.

hot cause in the celebrity community, to a real problem begging for genuine solutions.

And while much space has been devoted to "the homeless" on the front pages of big city newspapers and in network television newscasts one fact has been sorely missed.

This is not just a big city problem. Homelessness tends to be more visible in America's inner cities, but there are homeless people in the suburbs, too.

How about the single mother with no job who receives only sporadic child support from her former husband? Or the family that was barely making ends meet before they were burned out of their modest, uninsured suburban home?

These people are more difficult to track, according to experts. Call them the hidden homeless. Rather than taking to the streets or seeking public assistance, they often find temporary shelter from a series of relatives and friends.

WITH THAT IN MIND, we commend officials in Oakland and Wayne counties who have not only recognized the existence of the hidden homeless, but have taken constructive steps in recent weeks to provide needed shelter and services.

Wayne County will renovate the second floor of a building on the grounds of the former county hospital site in Westland into a shelter for people who are temporarily homeless.

The facility, believed by county officials to be the first suburban shelter of its kind in the United States, will be staffed by a private community services agency.

It will provide beds and temporary living space for 80 people who may stay up to 30 days. Job, family and drug counseling will be available at the shelter, which is expected to open in the fall. The shelter will provide more than just bed space. It will provide job, family and drug counseling, if necessary.

The county will receive $350,000 from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to establish the center. An additional $235,000 is being obtained from area communities. Livonia, Plymouth Township, Westland, Redford Township, Canton Township, Garden City and Plymouth have all pledged block grant money to the shelter.

Officials will assist about 500 people per year. However, county officials acknowledge the total number of homeless in the county could be five to eight times that number.

In Oakland County, the Pontiac Area Transitional Housing Coalition is planning an 18-unit facility to house woman and children, also scheduled to open this fall. not only recognized the existence of the hidden homeless, but have taken constructive steps in recent weeks to provide needed shelter and services.

Area churches are also providing temporary shelter on a rotating basis through the South Oakland Shelter (SOS) program. The SOS program, in existence since 1984, uses volunteers to staff its temporary shelters for a week at a time. The volunteers fix meals and perform other tasks for clients.

Between September 1988 and May 1989, SOS provided food and shelter for 414 people, accord ing to manager Lillian Schneble.

"We live in one of the most affluent communities of the county," said the Rev. Robert Ward of First United Methodist Church in Birmingham "We have the resources" to deal with this problem.

Two Birmingham churches, First Baptist and First Presbyterian, hope to join the effort this month. The churches will host the shelter March 25 to April 1 provided they can obtain a special land-uses permit from the Birmingham City Commission.

THESE EFFORTS, however encouraging, represent only a beginning. Even Wayne County officials, on the day they announced their shelter. acknowledged that there were as many as 2,500 homeless people in the area at any one time. Reducing and eventually eliminating the problem of homeless people in our suburbs is going to take a concerted effort in both the public and private sectors.

Cooperation between the two entities could go a long way here. The idea that government could provide vouchers to homeless people that would help pay their rent, espoused by federal HUD (Housing and Urban Development) director Jack Kemp, is certainly worth looking into.

Meanwhile, additional efforts will be needed in the mental health community and by people who work in substance abuse prevention to seek out and treat those segments of the homeless population.

Finding ways to deal with homelessness in the suburbs hasn't been easy. Then again, some digging is usually required when you're searching for solutions to hidden problems.

Author defends tax-cut plan

To the editor.

Over the years, I have come to appreciate the Observer & Eccentric's editorials. While I occasionally disagree with them, they are normally thoughtful and well-reasoned. Thus, I was doubly shocked by your poorly researched and crassly written editorial condemning the "Patterson-Anderson" property tax limitation amendment.

Every other editorial that I've seen about our tax limitation proposal has discussed Michigan's high property tax burden, and how the proposal would reduce that burden. However, instead of talking about the focus of our proposal, the O&E editorial entertained readers with these petty remarks:

• I work in a building "overlooking a suburban freeway," which you derisively call an "ivory office tower."

• Four years ago I advised two Republican candidates for governor, and neither of these two men had ever been members of the state Legislature.

• A description of our proposal was two whole pages in length, and the paragraphs were single-spaced.

• Neither L. Brooks Patterson. co-chair of the drive, nor I have ever been state legislators.

Then, to my astonishment, you conclude that you "do not demean" us by raising the issue of our "inexperience" in "a legislative area." Mr. Editor, the reason we are doing this is precisely because the Legislature and the governor have not been doing their job. You will recall the Legislature offered us two school finance proposals last year both major tax increases — and that Brooks and I worked to defeat them. Our fellow citizens overwhelmingly agreed with us, not with Lansing. We cannot wait any longer for the Legislature and the governor to reduce property taxes and reform school finance. It's up to the citizens to do the job.

The real people you demean with this editorial is your readers. They deserve a thorough airing of this citizens' proposal. Your editorial writer apparently didn't even read our petition. What little you mention about our proposal inaccurately describes the school aid provisions. Furthermore, your editorial writer appears ignorant of Article IX of our constitution, which already regulates taxes and tax elections in ways your editorial says "doesn't belong in a constitution."

When you next write about our property tax limitation proposal, please call our toll-free line, 1-800-BITE-TAX, and get a copy of the petition. Even better, come and discuss it with me. I'm right up the street in my ivory office tower.

CDs are just another fad

To the editor:

Newspapers.

Hey Keith. If you'd take off your 3-D glasses and put down your hula hoop, you'd see CD's for what they really are — another fad (fortunately, they don't take up much space, be you'll be able to fit them between your Rubik's cube and pet rock in your junk drawer). You claim that CD's are better than albums because they reproduce music with less noise. This is true, but since there is an average daytime noise level of 90 db in the suburbs (10 times the noise from a record), the noise is going to be reinserted when the music travels from your speakers to your ears.

You also claim that CD's are better than albums because they are portable. I suppose this is convenient if you're a thief looking through my car window, but I really don't see the advantage to the consumer. Certainly you aren't suggesting that the amazing digital sound reproduction capabilities of a CD can be fully recognized through a $2.98 pair of portable headphones. Get serious — it sounds like a snake squeezing a bag of potato chips.

As for the CD's permanence, this will end with the consumer's demand for CD recording technology. The "reprogrammable" CD will be nothing more than a viscous discus, just like the vinyl LP. So why sacrifice the art and creativity of album covers (such as Alice Cooper's "From the Inside") for tinfoil frisbees and a few square feet of shelf space?

Vigilantes set the rules

IT USED TO be when a party of tou, came and one was a smoker, the other three would go ahead and sit in the smoking section. That doesn't happen much any more. The nonsmokers say. 'No, you'll just have to sit with us. It's changing and that's great It's democracy raising its head Say what?

That's a quote from the manager of a Southfield restaurant, discussing proposed state legislation that would require larger non-smoking areas in restaurants.

While the scenario he pictures may or may not be a common one. I hardly see it as "democracy raising its head." I do see it as a kind of muddled thinking that is becoming more and more the norm today as society tries to apply new rules to old issues.

The problem is that most of the time we're making up the rules as we go along and, as any gambler will tell you, that's not the way the game is played.

The flap over smoking provides some of the most fascinating examples of muddle-think that I have evera seen The rules change every day and whoever has the podium at the moment seems to feel that he has not only the right but the obligation to change them.

TAKE LOUIS Sullivan, the U.S. secretary of health and human services. He was a cabinet level nobody until he jumped right into the middle of last month's contrived controversv over Uptown, a new brand of cigarettes that R.J. Reynolds was planning to introduce. Uptown was specifically developed to appeal to blacks

The ensuing flap turned the term 'target marketing" into front page news across the country.

Why are tenures of some superintendents short?

Q: I heard that school superintendents, nationwide, don't last more than three or four years in a district. They move on for many reasons. sometimes not pleasant ones. Our superintendent has been around for more than 10 years. What are the facts? Why is the 'tenure so short? What makes a board of education want to get rid of the superintendent? What do boards look for in hiring a new superintendent?

A: There has been a long standing myth that superintendents last three or four years in a school district. Much of this data came from studies that reflected young school superintendents in small Class C or D districts staying for a few years and then moving on to a Class B system or into another occupation. This is called upward mobility or a career change. It is not necessarily dissatisfaction by the school board.

A recent study at Virginia Tech reports that 82 percent of school board members nationwide stated the ideal tenure for a superintendent. should be between six to 15 years. However, broken down, the survey indicated that six to 10 years was Dovle members while only 4.5 percent opted for a superintendent tenure of 16-20 years. Keep in mind these are averages. I know several boards who are pleased with their superintendent, many who have been in their position for more than 10 years.

Doc

SX

Most interesting is that regardless of the superintendent's length of tenure in a community, it is usually longer than most board members. Fewer than 25 percent of board members last longer than the superintendent. And those board members who indicate less satisfaction with their superintendent were not involved in the original hiring.

Keep in mind a superintendent, unlike a teacher, does not have the long range protection of tenure that perceived the most ideal by board teachers do and are in a relationship Regardless of the superintendent's tenure in a community, it's usually longer than most board members.

similar to a marriage. After the initial honeymoon, the inevitable first big battle with the teachers' union, the board or certain board members will take place. After a meeting of the minds, a "happy marriage" with the usual periodic disagreements that eventually become resolved, a superintendent can survive and find a home.

Why do boards get rid of superintendents? The major reason, according to 87.6 percent of the nation's school board members, was a lack of confidence in the his/her integrity. Next was a loss of faith in the superintendent's leadership ability and third was evidence of mismanagement of the district's finances

bers had for hiring a new superintendent was instruction and curriculum improvement followed by an ability to solve personnel problems (including negotiations). The Virginia Tech study negates many myths. Superintendents do last longer than three or four years in most districts and board members generally are looking for an educator, for an instructional leader with integrity as opposed to the sometimes heavyhanded bureaucrat.

As one newspaper put it "T new ethic facing the long try Thou shalt not target market to the young, the poor, minorities and women

Exactly Everyone from cigarette makers to baby powder producers has been "target marketing" for decades. But when the product is cigarettes and the targeted market is blacks, the rules suddenly change. Sullivan jumped into the fray again last week over Dakotas, another new Reynolds brand reportedly aimed at young, poorly educated women

Where were the protesters when Salem's advertisers started showing tanned young bodies cavorting around on tropical beaches or when Virginia Slims began telling women that You've come a long way, baby

The game's the same, only the rules have changed.

For some reason, however, none of the opponents of smoking has come out with a demand to make tobacco products illegal. They acknowledge that with 50 million smokers in the United States a ban probably wouldn't work. That's the rub.

The tobacco interests maintain that as long as their products are legal they should be allowed to market them like any other product.

But the anti-smoking activists say that cigarettes are "different." Different rules should apply. And that's where I see real trouble

JUST THIS week a columnist for the New York Times News Service decried the fact that the current battle against smoking is all smoke and no fire. Anna Quindlen says she'd like a real war on cigarettes, but one with teeth."

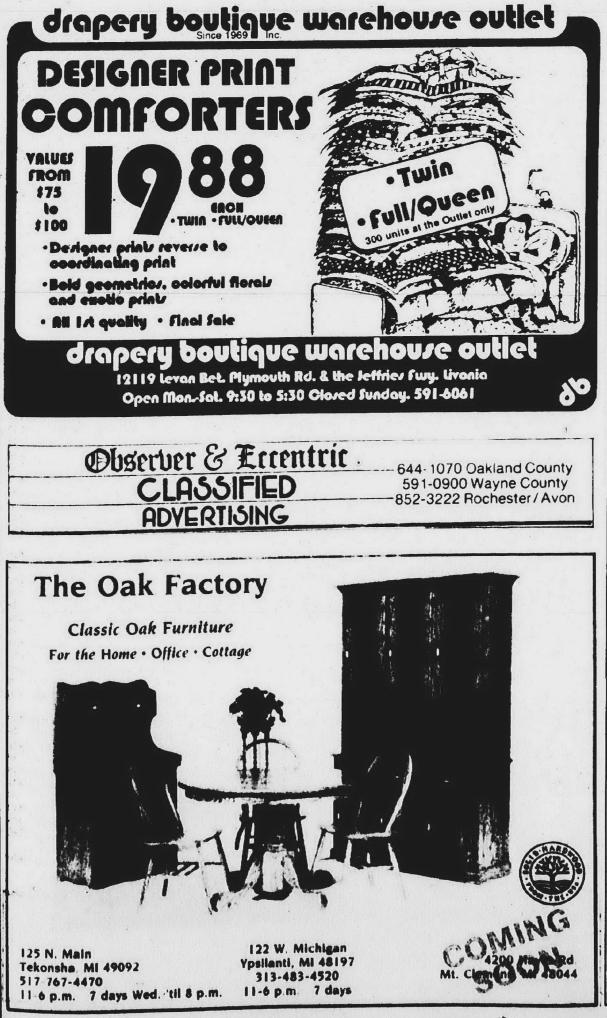

Then she makes an incredibly troubling statement: "I don't believe we need to make cigarettes illegal; we should simply act as if they were.

Now forget, for the moment, that the subject is smoking. It could be alcohol or cholesterol or sun tan lotion. Consider the significance of that remark. If you think something is offensive, if you think that it's harmful, if you are opposed to it . . . never mind whether it's legal or not. Just pretend that it's illegal and go from there. Who needs laws anyway

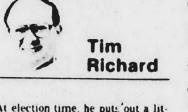

With today's muddle-headed way of looking at things, there are those who would call such actions "democracy at work.'

Well, that's not the kind of democracy I grew up with. We called such stuff vigilantism.

Musicians anticipate concert fun

By Julie Brown staff writer

US'CAL SELECTIONS from Ireland will be featured in a pops concert, Friday and Saturday. March 16-17. The concert will outh Symphony Orchestra and community chorus.

"We're doing a lot of familiar Irish tunes," said Russell Reed, music director and conductor for the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra. "It should be a lot of fun."

John Philip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes" will be included in the St. Patrick's "Cabaret Pops Concert."

"He was not Irish," said Reed, a professor of music at Eastern Michigan University. "We're going to rename him for the day to O'Sousa.'

Performances will be at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 16-17, at Domino's Farms, 24 Frank Lloyd Wright Drive, Ann Arbor.

'We're looking forward to it." said John Frank, president of the Plymouth Community Chorus. "We've had the Plymouth Symphony work with us before."

THE CHORUS and orchestra will perform during separate portions of the program each evening. Both groups are busy rehearsing for the concert.

"It blends in well with what we do," Frank said of the pops concert. Chorus members will perform a variety of songs, including "Danny Boy." "Come Back to Erin" and "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen.

The Plymouth Community Chorus includes nearly 130 members, said Frank, a tenor who's been involved with the group for 10 years. In addition to performing with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra this month, chorus members will present their own "For the Beauty of the Earth" spring concert Saturday and Sunday, April 28-29, in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School.

COLLABORATION HELPS bring musical programs to the community, Reed said. PSO musicians have performed with other musicians in the past, including a performance with local students during the Feb. 23 concert.

"It's good for the orchestra and it's good for the community, so we look forward to the collaboration," said Reed, an Ypsilanti resident.

Ticket prices for the pops concert are $10 for adults, $5 for students in kindergarten through 12th grade. Tickets must be bought in advance and are available at: Beitner Jewelry, 904 W. Origami's just folding paper

It takes time, effort and creativity to turn plain sheets of paper into something special, but local students are up to the task.

Origami is the traditional Japanese art of folding paper to form animal figures, flowers, toys and other shapes. Students at recent origami workshops at the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth made a variety of colorful items.

"I try to promote origami for the children. I do introduce them to the art of origami at a very young age," said Jorge Pezzat, instructor for the workshops.

One session for students ages 9-12 was the afternoon of Thursday, March 1. An earlier session for youngsters ages 6-8 was at the library

"Older children, they follow in-structions better," said Pezzat, a West Bloomfield resident and father of two children ages 111/2 and 10.

He has taught origami to children as young as 3. Pezzat has also taught origami classes for adults.

YOUNGER CHILDREN often do quite well in origami classes, he has found.

'Adults seem to be, I don't know, too set in their ways. I don't get the participation that I do with children. They're willing to experiment."

The 15 students in the March 1 workshop made a variety of items. including popper toys and threesided boxes. Pezzat kept them busy throughout the workshop.

"I always tell the children that we'll run out of models before we run out of time."

Students from the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools were on va-cation last week, and many had some free time on their hands.

'We're always looking for interesting programs for the children, things they'll enjoy," said Mary Ann Pinkerton, a children's librarian at the Dunning-Hough Library. "They are looking for things to do, and we hope to bring them into the library."

Many books on origami are avail-impressed with the skill children displayed in creating designs during the workshops

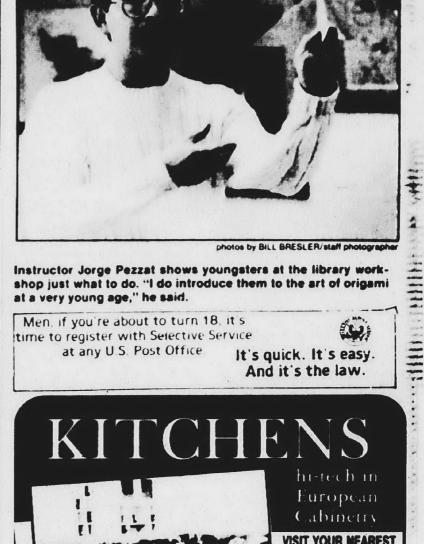

THIS WAS Pezzat's first time teaching origami at the library in Plymouth. He has taught at other libraries and is teaching an enrichment class in origami at Roeper City and Country School.

Teaching origami isn't Pezzat's full-time occupation. He works as a toolmaker for Detroit Diesel in Red-

Pezzat also does some drawing and clay modeling. He's a member of the Friends of the Origami Center in New York City and also belongs to an origami group based in Ann Arbor

He has encouraged his children and other youngsters to pursue interests in the arts. Doing so helps children express creativity.

"I've tried to steer them into as much art as I can."

• 'Walk With Me'

"Walk With Me" is the theme of this year's Lenten program at St. Aidan Catholic Church. It takes place Wednesdays through April 4. The alism can also be twisted into grotesque forms of violence and collective hatred.

We have seen such tragic eruptions in recent weeks Christian Armenians and Moslem Azerbaijanis have been engaged in bloody and savage conflict. These two peoples have been tormented by too much hatred, too many graves, too much bitterness

Locked together in a harsh, narrow land, their mutual animosity was long suppressed by a common membership in the Soviet Union, and a common fear of Soviet troops But with the waning of Moscow's military power, their age-old bloody feud has exploded in mindless hatred ies, in smaller towns, and among the diverse national groupings that comprise the Soviet system. As new separatist national movements sprout across the Soviet Union almost day by day, ethnic peoples crying out for their own homelands. tens of thousands of Jews in these republics are experiencing deep concern about an eruption of anti-Jewish acts desecration of Jewish cemeteries, hate leaflets distributed widely, and assaults against individuals.

Disturbing reports describe the growth of a strong nationalist and virulently anti-Semitic Russian organization known as Pamyat that has held large public rallies in several cities including Moscow, and the government says and does nothing.

For Jews, this is the dark side of glasnost. While President Gorbachev's program has freed many Soviet Jews, permitted many to emi-

moral perspectives Rabbi Irwin Groner grate to Israel, and allowed those who remain to observe their faith, so has it also permitted the country's neo-fascist and anti-Semitic organizations to come out into the open.

The current widening Exodus of Soviet Jews to Israel is not a factor in this situation. Anti-Semitism is a reaction not to Jews, but to the inner crisis of Russian society

The Soviet system is suffering from severe economic upheaval and growing political instability. These tensions produce a climate in which the Jew becomes a scapegoat for the nationalist right, as he had been for the Communist left. President Gorbachev should be urged to take action against this despicable resurgence of anti-Semitism less than 50 years after the Holocaust

We hope that the Soviet Union will be able to blend its diverse peoples into a unified whole, and will ease and reduce the nationalistic passion at that threatens to destroy and ravage the innocent.

Means calls Buffalo Bill "one of the most popular Americans ever to tour Europe" and credits him with popularizing and promoting the West. As proof of his popularity, Means offers photographs taken in Paris during the 1889 contannial of the French Revolution showing that the major attraction was the Wild West Show

"He did so many things that help us define what the West is," says Means

Included in that definition are the native people of the Plains Indian Museum has given visitors an accurate view of Indian culture.

"It's not just Indians coming up over a rise in a cowboy movie," says Means. He notes the artistic values inherent in Indian ceremonial apparel as well as everyday items such as children's toys.

"Here you are looking at people who seemed dedicated to the perpetuation of art," he says. "They creat-ed art that would be in Vogue, which would be in fashion magazines today."

The museum also is playing a part in maintaining a living art form.

"Joe Robbie, the owner of the Miami Dolphins, is a member of our Plains Indian Advisory Board," says Means, "and he decided we had to have a pow-wow ground.

"In June it is an extraordinary thing to see - Indians from seven states perpetuating their culture with the old men doing their traditional dances and the women and youngsters joining in."

With three distinctive museums already completed, the center is set to break ground for a fourth museum to house the Winchester Arms Collection

Currently on display in the base-ment of the Buffalo Bill Museum, the collection "is the finest and largest collection of American firearms in the world," says Means.

Space restrictions limit display to only 20 to 30 percent of the collection, which was donated in 1976 by the Olin Corp.

The new Cody Firearms Museum, says Means, will include 45,000 square feet of display space. Among the planned exhibits is a working reconstruction of a late 19th century gun factory.

"We have $5.3 million, largely raised in a year and a half, toward $7.3 million," says Means. "We hope to dedicate this building in time for Wyoming's 1990 centennial "

Means notes the continuing attrac-tion of the American West: If you were on a cattle drive with a coup ddies and something bad happened, there was a strong sense of loyalty. These are values that people, especially in our urban com-munities, find very endearing.

"We're dealing with the mytholo-gy of the West," he says, "as much as we are the facts of the West."

The Buffalo Bill Historical Center in Cody, is open daily May through October, and Tuesday through Sun-day in March, April and November. The center is closed December through February. Art Deco sets the style for a renaissance of Miami Beach (AP)- Ten years ago Miami Beach officials tried to block efforts to preserve the city's Art Deco hotels and apartment houses with their decorative architecture so popular in the late 1920s and 1930s.

But the preservationists won out and today Miami Beach is enjoying an economic and cultural renaissance tied to the funky, colorful buildings.

After the "Miami Vice" television series introduced much of America to the fanciful Art Deco revival look in 1983, the city poured more than $100 million into renovation projects.

BUT ONLY recently have developers seen profits in neighborhoods recovering from decades of neglect.

Now South Beach, the southernmost part of Miami Beach, is in the midst of a full-scale building boom. On every block, apartments and hotels are being repainted or restored.

"It's very exciting," says Richard Hoberman, chairman of the Miami Design Preservation League -MDPL. "This city has come to appreciate the benefits of historic preservation."

A five-year, $5.6 million plan to expand scenic Ocean Drive into a promenade lined by cafes and nightclubs was completed in time for the annual Art Deco Weekend Jan. 12-14, when an estimated

Sailing Dates: March 11, 18, 25 April 8, 22, 29

300,000 people jammed the street, dancing to swing bands, eating ethnic foods and buying antiques.

On Lincoln Road, the Miami City Ballet, the New World Symphony Orchestra and a dozen art galleries have taken up residence in buildings left vacant when glamorous stores moved out in the 1960s and '70s.

THE CITY IS cashing in on this cultural reawakening by making it easy for movie makers and fashion magazines to operate in the district. Any weekday, a half-dozen film crews can be seen taking advantage of the splashy colors, palm trees and near-constant sun

"It's a great industry to have. It's clean, attractive and it's great advertising you can't buy. You can't open a major magazine nowadays without seeing the Beach," says Jud Kurlancheek, Miami Beach's city planner.

Kurlancheek smiles now, but in his 13 years with the city, he's seen Miami Beach at its worst.

THE RESORT town so fashionable in the 1950s was all but abandoned when its increasingly elderly residents died off or moved away and younger people looked beyond Florida for their tropical vacations. The decline worsened in 1980, when Cuban vagrants and criminals from the Mariel boatlift flocked to South Beach to take advantage of depressed rents. But economic indicators now show

Miami Beach has turned around. In the past five years, resort tax revenues, hotel occupancy rates, vehicle registrations and the numbers of children going to public schools have been rising continually, according to Kurlancheek, who credits Art Deco restoration work for the upswing.

And in September, the city commission approved zoning changes that will accommodate an expansion of the city's now-strict preservation laws to protect almost every building south of Lincoln Road, as well as the museum district north of Lincoln, between the Miami Beach Convention Center and the ocean.

It adds up to more than 1,500 hotels, apartment buildings, stores and homes, 70 percent of which have Art Deco flourishes.

THE PROPOSED local historic districts, which must survive several more public hearings before final approval, also would allow developers to build huge hotels near the convention center, gut the inside of some low-rise historic hotels and put trendy shops and "dramatic spaces" behind the facades.

City officials call it a fair compromise that will enable Miami Beach to build the 6,000 new first-class ho-

IT'S EASY to overlook the obvious when visiting New York. This time, we took the ferry to Staten Island for a good look at the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island (the round-trip fare is still 25 cents) and went to the American Museum of Natural History, where we saw the "Crossroads of Continents" exhibit and a thrilling movie -- "To the Limit" -- on the world's largest indoor screen. We didn't miss the ancient Egyptial Temple of Dendur, and the "Age of Napoleon: Costumes from Revolution to Empire" Era, at the Metro-

In a scant four and a half days, we saw a couple of terrific shows, had some splendid meals, walked our feet off and came home with kaleidoscopic memories of the glittering Trump Tower, the homeless, Bloomingdale's, Grand Central Station, ice skaters at Rockefeller Center, a singer in Central Park, St. Patrick's Cathedral, tugboats, gulls and the Statue of Liberty, Hare Krishna followers chanting and banging drums, animal right activists, Impressionist paintings, mummies, dinosaurs, a quéen's diamond crown, the Star of India sapphire, taxi drivers who drove like kamikaze pilots and all kinds of people some seemingly from outer space. Spring Daytona braces for annual party

(AP) - Spring breakers are being asked to "Party Smart" this year as Daytona Beach prepares for the an-nual invasion of 400,000 students.

108 * *

The Spring Break Festival Task Force met last week and finalized its plans to make this year's annual sixweek party a little easier on the students and on the community.

The "Party Smart" theme is an educational project developed by the consumer group Beer Drinkers of America to encourage students to exercise responsibility when drinking.

"Be smart, be legal or be caught," said Ty Wilson, vice chairman of the task force, a committee formed after severe problems developed last year with the spring break crowd.

"It's going to be a great spring break," chairman Ray Eddy said as last-minute preparations were discussed. "The message is that the students are welcome.

MTV and Playboy will be back along with concerts, sports events, beauty pageants and other promotions.

The task force has worked to create 1,000 new parking spaces near the beach, will install more than 100 portable toilets and has more carefully scheduled events to lessen the impact of the crowds. Laws, particularly those involving alcohol, will also be more strictly enforced. Wristbands will be issued to students who are at least 21 years old, the state's legal drinking age.

Hotel and motel guests will be required to sign a code of conduct, which is a list of local ordinances restricting behavior of guests.

Many residents complained last year that traffic was at a near stanustill and students were urinating in public and passing out drunk.

The task force was created to colve some of those problems and to make students welcome because of their tremendous impact on the Daytona Beach economy.

Chamber of Commerce officials estimate students will spend $120 million from early March through mid-April. They estimate spring break has almost a $1 billion impact on the a. a's economy.

THE FIRST GROUP of 20,000 students, a large number of them from Penn State, arrived this week just as 240,000 "bikers" arrived for motorcycle races at Daytona Inter-...tional Speedway.

Daytona Beach became the spring break mecca of the United States about three years ago after Fort Lauderdale discouraged students by tightening law enforcement. Gulf Coast beaches are expecting some of the overilow from Daytona Beach.

Both the Daytona Beach police and the Volusia County Beach Patrol are plidging more stringent enforcement of drinking laws, with beach patrol chief John Kirvan expecting o double the number of arrests.

'We're proud of spring break, but it has to be managed better," said Police Chief Paul Crow. "It will be a much more organized event."

Contrary to public perceptions, Crow said, "Our problems haven't been with the college kids."

About 65 percent of those arrested last year were Florida youngsters, many of them underage high school students. "We have to deal with the day trippers," he said. This year, Crow said police will restrict traffic flow to the beaches when they become full to help prevent gridlock.

"We are going to close the gate," Crow said.

Kirvan, whose agency is responsible for law enforcement on the beach, said his officers will take "a no-nonsense approach to drinking and rowdyism.

"We hope they have a good time, but we are going to enforce the laws," Kirvan said.

Indianhead Mountain-Bear Creek Ski Resort in Wakefield, has added the Spring Break Family Fest to its event schedule. Family Fest will be held March 25-April 8 to capture the warmth of the spring sun and great spring skiing conditions created by the 200 inches of snowfall received over the winter.

Mr. Bill, the skiing Circus Clown, formerly of Ringling Bros., will highlight Family Fest starting Sunday, March 25 with the "Ski With Mr. Bill Lollipop Race" for kids beginning at noon. The Mr. Bill Show, entertainment for all ages, follows at 2 p.m. on the Base Chalet sundeck. On Monday, March 26, Mr. Bill will present a Magic Show at 8 p.m. in Dudley's Saloon and on Wednesday, March 28 he will host Family Olympics, designed to encourage parent/ child participation.

On-the-mountain events continue on Saturday, March 31 with a Parent/Child Obstacle Race scheduled for 11 a.m. and a Parent/Child NAS-TAR Race set for 2 p.m. On Sunday. April 1, the golfing season gets a head start with fun Ski-Golf on snow. Golfing with skis on adds a new challenge to the sport.

Along with the events, Indianhead offers special rates of 30 percent off Lift and Lodging combinations during the two-week span and children 12 and under sleep and ski free in the same unit as their parent.

What began with a small log building housing the Buffalo Bill Museum has grown into what Means calls "the largest and finest Western heritage museum in the world."

Like Buffalo Bill, who was recognized as an outdoorsman, a rancher, a buffalo hunter, Pony Express rider, Indian scout, dime novel hero and showman, the center encompasses many interests. In fact, the center consists of four distinct entities - the Buffalo Bill Museum, the Whitney Gallery of Western Art, the Plains Indian Museum and the Winchester Arms Collection.

A noted American sculptor, Mrs. Whitney earlier donated a heroic equestrian statue of Buffalo Bill, titled "The Scout," to the Buffalo Bill Memorial Association. The gallery was built to commemorate her regard for Col. Cody and her devotion to American art.

In addition to artworks, the gallery contains reconstructions of the studios of noted artists Frederic Remington and W.H.D. Koerner.

This was in a brownstone on a quiet residential street in the West 60s, near Central Park; we had an attractive living room with a sofa that became a queen-sized bed, a small bedroom with a double bed, a well-equipped kitchen with a dishwasher (and breakfast makings in the refrigerator) and a tiled bath with a jacunzi

In the morning, we enjoyed lei-surely breakfasts, and the New York Times, at a fraction of the cost of hotel breakfasts (often overpriced and uninspired). The night we had tickets to an 8

Foreign trade opportunities energize new advisory team

By Doug Funke staff writer

Marija Dixon and Yasna Kalafatic, aware of the changing political landscape in Eastern Europe, have started a firm to counsel business executives on cultural expectations as they eye overseas markets

The two seem well suited to the task.

Dixon is a clinical social worker. Kalafatic teaches English to the foreign born and sells real estate. Both immigrated to the United States and have roots in Yugoslavia

"I was one of them in the very beginning who didn't know how to use resources," said Dixon, a Birmingham resident. "If I knew then what I know now. I'd do things in one quarter the time.

You were born here," Kalafatic told a reporter in an interview. "No one was here to help us. We had to dig for college, shopping

Kalafatic lives in Novi

Their business, INOVA, which stands for International Network of Viable Alternatives, is in Birmingham.

THEIR GOAL is to consult with American business executives who want to expand to Europe and European executives who want to tap U.S. markets.

Dixon and Kalafatic already have met with an American cosmetics manufacturer which has sights set on Yugoslavia. INOVA provided general information about that culture as well as specific business clients.

It may take some time for trade to reach maximum potential, Dixon said, but at least preliminary ground can be broken to save time, money and aggravation once things do start rolling

"The American mind does not see or perceive how the (Eastern) European mind works," Kalafatic said. "Say you want to buy a car. There's no dealership. You go through friends, through friends, through friends. Finally, you reach someone

This is the way the mind works I wash your hands, you wash mine," Kalafatic continued. "I don't mean it in a bad way.' "It's done because people have been under rule," Dixon added. "People respect government and the roles of government here. There, they fear government."

"THE CUSTOMER is always right here," Kalafatic said. "There, they don't care.'

That isn't to say that Eastern European executives aren't hard working. Political histories have brought about a survival instinct, Kalafatic said.

They have a sense we do not have to make it somehow no matter what," she said. "Americans had it much easier.

The partners, using personal experiences, also hope to work with alienated American youths and the children of immigrants with motivational seminars.

The 1990s are going to be rough for southeastern Michigan retailers, industry analysts warn. Competition for consumer dollars in a slowly growing economy will make the retail clashes of the last decade look wimpy by comparison

Some market watchers are predicting an industry shakeout. Some are predicting lean times. Others are predicting tremendous changes. None are predicting a repeat of the 1980s.

There are 20 different signposts - all pointing in different direcaccording to Carl tions.' Steidtmann. vice president and chief economist of Management Horizons, Price Waterhouse's retail consulting group.

Steidtmann said the typical business cycles of the past, where the entire economy would go into a recession or grow will be replaced by a much more unpredictable economy in which individual segments fluctuate is in recession," he said.

Anyone who was selling anything sion, now in 1990, the auto industry

The overall stable economy, if it were the only factor affecting retailing, would be good news for retailers

"In the early 1980s, the steel industry was in recession, in the mid

1980s, the oil industry was in reces-

"But several factors will combine to make life difficult for retailers in the 1990s," Steidtmann said.

ECONOMISTS ARE expecting devaluation of the dollar, weakened consumer buying power, higher interest rates and fewer sales of large price-tag items like homes and automobiles - all of which drive the retailing market, Steidtmann said.

He also said fewer children are being born which means fewer customers and reduced unemployment levels. Low unemployment, he explained, is a double-edged sword for retailers

More employment means more money to spend, he said, but it also means a smaller labor pool from which to select workers. In the 1990s, customer service will be a critical component of a retailers competitive strategy so a dependable workforce will be essential.

Finally, consumers will spend less money in the 1990s, Steidtmann said. "The majority of the population is and delivery of products, not price, quantity and quality will be the deciding factors in the retail wars of the 1990s, he continued.

Steidtmann also said service in the 1990s will be marked by diversity and decentralization.

"Now that the retail market in southeast Michigan has matured, what works here won't work in Lansing," Steidtmann said.

This diversity, in turn, will result in more decision making at the local level so central planning will become less important.

RICHARD VALADE, retail partner at Arthur Andersen & Co., said the 1990s is going to be a completely different retail arena with a greater emphasis on specialization and service than ever before.

"The retail market is not growing," he said. "In the 1990s, the existing market will be resliced among the strongest retailers."

"Half as many retailers will be in business 10 year from now," Valade said.

This tightening market will not preclude retailers based in other

Antitrust offenses alleged on sale of mobile phones

By Doug Funke staff writer

More than 50 complaints over several months prompted the attorney general's office this week to accuse seven Michigan mobile telephone retailers of using marketing practices that violate state antitrust laws.

Two of those companies Fretter Inc. of Livonia and Cellular One of Farmington Hills - are headquartered in the Observer & Eccentric coverage area

The seven companies have until March 16 to respond to Attorney General Frank Kelley's allegations. If they fail to respond, Kelley is prepared to start civil action against the companies on antitrust grounds.

"Consumers are being misled by advertisements that offer to sell a cellular telephone for as low as $89," said Kelley. "What the advertisements don't say is that to use these phones, a purchaser must sign a blank-check, service-provider contract.

Service providers supply and bill for air time.

A staff investigation confirmed complaints that some telephones for sale require linkage with a particular service provider, an illegal tie-in, according to Chris DeWitt, a spokesman for Kelley.

NO PRICE is quoted verbally or in print for telephones without the tie-in cellular service if, in fact, they are available at all without the service, DeWitt indicated.

Fretter's spokesman, Dale Campbell, senior vice president, wasn't available for comment Tuesday or Wednesday.

Cellular One issued a press release attributed to Katherine A. Cappelli, vice president of marketing and sales

"It has always been Cellular One's policy to ensure its advertising promotions are fair and representative and we will continue to exercise our responsibility in this regard.

"The letter (from Kelley) seems to indicate that the investigation is directed at the marketing practices of areas of the nation from making inroads into the metropolitan Detroit rightet. Already, there are uncon-firmed rumors that Nordstrom and Sits Fifth Avenue - two upscale retailers - plan to enter the market, hi said. Major discount retailer Walmart has already encroached upon Michigan soil, traditionally retail giant K mart territory.

Nichemanship, or addressing the needs of a specific customer and building loyalty with that customer base, will be critical to retailing in the 1990s.

"Price alone is becoming an met fective way of competing."

As product lines blur and prices become similar, consumers will turn to retailers who offer something more, he said.

Non-store retailing, including computer and catalog shopping. will be a tremendous timesaver and a big plus for retailers interested in retaining a large customer base with little staffing he added

Shoppers will be very locused in their shopping habits with less time to devote to wandering through malls, he continued. Instead, they will know what they want and how much they want to spend.

RETAILERS MUST answer the challenge of meeting the needs of the aging population of affluent 50- to 65 year-olds. Valade said

Steve Epstein, retail partner with Coopers & Lybrand, is more optimistic about retailing in the 1990s, calling an industry shakeout unlikely

None of the major players are likely to fail or experience extremely hard times," he said. "There will be a continuing evolution in the marketplace - consumers buying tastes change - but nothing in the 1990s will bring a collapse of the retail industry.

There will even be substantial growth in the retail marketplace. Stores that aggressively target cusiomers and have good focus will prosper.

Epstein also said southeast Michigan will continue to attract more retailers but those that do come will have to be special to succeed. Existing retailers have already established themselves in the 'marketplace and taking market share away from them will be difficult.

"If Bloomingdale's or Norastrom steps into the playing field, they could give us a tough time," Epstein said. Unless a retailer can offer something different, it is unlikely it could win market share from established retailers, he said.

Store and brand loyalty may not be as prevalent as in the past, Epstein said, but startup costs in a competitive marketplace that already fills most needs are more than most stores can handle, Epstein said. With that in mind, it is doubtful we will see a big change," he said. "If you're not going to fill an existing need, why go?'

Japan stomps all over a no-show Chairman Lee

Maybe it was the euphoria left over from the World Wrestling Championships when Hulk put down Macho Man

Maybe it was because for a month or so, it seemed nearly everybody I ran into started up an argument about Japanese vs American cars, as if there was an epidemic of toothaches and I were a dentist.

A new round of trade talks and a steady diet of reports on Japanese gains in an otherwise sluggish economy seems to have created a mild unease about the future of the U.S. auto business. There appears to be a sudden groundswell of interest in whether we all will be working for Toyota in a couple of years.

IN ANY case. I was really wired up when Ted Koppel's late-night interview show touted Chairman Lee vs the Yellow Peril, wherein Terrible Ted promised to give the Chrysler chairman a shot at defending his new pro-American car pitch, now the subject of a new national ad campaign, against the best from Japan.

In a way it was a setup. Just like the Hulkster. Iacocca had all the best moves the low-cost-of-Japanese-capital armlock; the they-don'tlet-us-sell-over-there windmill tons; the we've-caught-up-and-nobodygives-us-credit body slam; and the more-racist-than-us finger pinch. All Koppel could find to speak for the Japanese were two American sales executives - American Honda Motor Co.'s Tom Elliott and Toyota Motor Sales' Bob McCurry, whose duties are mainly maintaining dealer relationships in the United States. Both articulate guys, but not exactly experts in international affairs, or much of a match at verbal Ping-Pong against the likes of lacocca

I SAT through a couple of hours of buildups by Bill Bonds et al., waiting for the inevitable, one-sided victory. Then lacocca took a dive. He didn't show up. Koppel explained lamely that Chairman Lee wanted to be live in a studio, but the program's format is based on Koppel talking to people who are in various parts of the country sitting in little rooms looking at a TV camera, not Koppel himself

lacocca's sudden case of bashfulness left him with no backups Chrysler's board was meeting in New York, presumably preventing the likes of Chrysler Motors chairman Ben Bidwell - who shows up in the new ads and has been critical of the press as being pro-Japanese from standing in Neither Ford nor GM could supply a spokesman at the last minute

THIS DIDN'T deter the Japanese representatives, who proceeded to act more or less like any good car salespeople offered prime time for free, relentlessly touting the superiority of the Japanese product and ignoring any questions that could lead to an argument over politics or religion

Journalist David Halberstam began mumbling incoherently about junk bonds

Koppel, baffled by the whole thing, ended up by tossing softball after softball about Japanese quality and such, even asking whether McCurry could turn Chrysler around

Women business owners offered advice

Four out of every five new busi-nesses in Michigan are started by women. By the year 2000, it has been predicted, half of all state businesses will be owned by women.

Women interested in positioning their companies for the next century should plan to attend the sixth annual Women Business Owners' Conference March 15-17 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dearborn.

Gov James Blanchard and Patricia Aburdene, co-author of "Megatrends 2000," will be the luncheon speakers. They will present state and global trends affecting womenowned businesses. Blanchard will discuss the state's economic development strategies affect women. Aburdene will cite the 10 trends she and co-author John Naisbitt believe will transform world.

ABURDENE BELIEVES women are key planners in these projected trends that include "evolving leadership." "the triumph of the individual" and a "booming global economy.

At the March 17 luncheon, conference-goers will hear Ralph Nichols, president of the corporation of the same name, discuss "Going the Distance: Positioning Yourself for the 21st Century." Glenda Greenwald also will present Michigan Woman magazine's Entrepreneur of the Year award.

Gentry, director of the Women Business Owners Services Division of the Michigan Department of Commerce. and Zina Kramer president of Events Marketing

THE CONFERENCE will offer more than 50 seminars and workshop sessions over the three days. Participants also will be able to schedule meetings with purchasing agents from corporations and government agencies

'Oasis" hours will include personal services such a cosmetic makeovers, nutritional counseling and handwriting analyses.

Tourism in Michigan still a moneymaker

Travel activity continued to set records in Michigan in 1989 despite a eral slowdown nationwide, the Michigan Travel Commission reported in its just-completed annual The report revealed that

• The Michigan Travel Bureau responded to a record 516,615 inquiries in 1989 (an increase of 15.8 percent over the previous year);

• Each telephone inquiry pro-cessed by the Travel Bureau gener-ated $143 in new spending, accord-ing to a study by Insight Marketing of Grand Rapids. (The study found that 58 percent of the callers took a Michigan trip within six months, 21 percent decided on a Michigan trip as a direct result of information received, and 6 percent decided to extend their trip after the call);

• The bureau's new cooperative advertising and cooperative publications programs generated 75,000 inquiries;

• Travel continues to be a major factor in Michigan's economy pumping $16.5 billion into the economy, creating 341,000 jobs and generating $762.6 million in tax revenues;

• The next decade promises an increasingly segmented, rapidly changing marketplace and growing competition, requiring Michigan to maintain its presence in the minds of Great Lakes travelers pay increasing attention to Chicago, work with other states and Ontario to reach foreign travelers, and do more to attract such market segments as black consumers and older Americans.

This report not only outlines our past success, it also gives us the beginnings of a blueprint for the future," said Travel Commission Chairman Jack Avignone. "It recognizes that although the 1990s will be harder than the 1980s, we're starting the decade with a strong program in place.

The report's call for expansion of Michigan's marketing efforts is coupled with a request for more money It concludes that the potential benefits are substantial

The report clearly indicates the effectiveness of Michigan's travel promotion in recent years the return to the industry from telephone inquiries alone last year was three times greater than what we spent on all of our travel-marketing programs," said Travel Bureau director John Savich.

Search on for new dump site

Michigan Senate barely bill to extend the search for p site, tak ing process is in period. "By bending the (existing) act, we put our case in jeopardy," Cherry added. Critics, nearly all Democrats, said

Michigan was opening itself to a lawsuit from other Midwestern states in their dump site compact. The others might allege had faith on Michigan's part in trying to change the siting rules late in the game, critics said.

The bill, passed 20-17 Tuesday, now goes to the House.

THE BILL adds former wetlands those that have been drained - to the list of unsuitable places for storing low-radioactive wastes, generated largely by hospitals and labora

Lenawee County's Riga Township was to have been Michigan's final selection until state officials learned that its site was in danger of rainy season flooding. Lenawee's senator, Shinkle, a Republican from neighboring Monroe County, pushed the bill effectively eliminating the site.

A state panel previously had eli-mianted sites in Ontonagon and St. Clair counties. VOTING FOR Shinkle's hill were 18 Republicans, including Doug Cruce of Troy, Robert Geake of Northville and Rudy Nichols of Waterford; and two east side suburban Democrats.

Voting no were 15 Democrats, including Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills, William Faust of Westland and George Z. Hart of Dearborn; and two Republicans - Richard Fessler of Commerce and Fred Dillingham of Fowlerville.

Sen. Vern Ehlers, R-Grand Ra who guided the bill through his Natu ources Committe, said it "adral Res dresses some items not in the cur-

"We're talking about the integrity of a site for 500 years. Based on the groundwater information I've seen, it (Lenawee) is not the most suitable site.

"It may end up in my district, Kent County. So be it," said Ehlers, a former college physics professor.

UNDER A FEDERAL mandate to develop 15 dump sites for low-level radioactive wastes, states have made regional compacts to "host" sites for 20-year rotating periods.

Michigan realized from the beginning it would probably be chosen because it is the region's largest waste generator.

"It (Shinkle's bill) looks as if we've contrived a way to keep the site out of Michigan," said Sen. Lana Pol-lack, D-Ann Arbor, a nay vote.

Bark beetles excavate fallen giants of the forest

A walk through almost any wood lot in Michigan will reveal fallen giants from years past. Many of its siblings are only swellings on the ground, or are growing green. These giants were once towering elm trees.

There are few of these funnel shaped survivors standing, but most of them have long since died of the Dutch elm disease. Even giants succumb to Davids' only a tenth of an inch long

I was reminded of these fatalities of our forests when I picked up a branch laced with the tunnels of bark beetles. It was a bark beetle that carried the deadly fungus from elm tree to elm tree, eventually resulting in the death of the tree.

cause of their small size, but also because of their habits. In summer, adults select the proper kind of tree in which to bore a hole into. Adult beetles burrow through the bark to an area between the outside wood and the inner bark. Once at the proper level, an enlarged chamber is excavaled

This activity attracts another beetle of the opposite sex and mating occurs. The female then burrows a tunnel between the bark and wood and deposits her eggs in small notches on both sides of the tunnel. If the male in the entrance chamber is polygamous, he will attract other females who will burrow tunnels in different directions radiating from the central chamber.

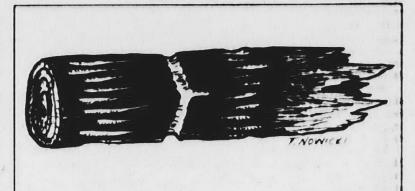

Larvae hatching from the eggs will begin to eat their way through this same layer. Their tunnels often run perpendicular to that of the females As the larvae continue to burrow and cat, they also grow. Examining these excavations on branches will disclose how far they tunnel and how much they grew in that distance. At the end of their tur nel is an enlarged chamber. This is the area where the larvae spent the winter as a pupa. When spring ar-rives an adult emerges from the pupa and bores its way through the bark to the outside world

Different species of bark beetles produce varying patterns of excavations. Some are just irregular depressions, while others may be worm-like burrows. No matter what shape they area, they add one more thing to notice on dead trees as you walk through the woods.

Preventive medical care for children is the goal of pediatrician Ver-na Turkish who now is in private practice after working eight years in Africa

You can do so much with children, educating the parents on how to keep the children healthy," she said "I am very prevention oriented. Children have their whole lives head of them.

Turkish, mother of six children, reats children from newborns to 18 years old through Garden City Hospital and her recently opened Pedi-Care Cilnic in Westland She plans to spand the evening hours of her pructice to accommodate the schediles of working mothers.

I am very happy when patients an leave the office without a prescription Basically, you can raise kids in physical and emotional health, with immunization and perdic care.

A graduate of the Chicago College of Osteopathy Medicine, Turkish had practice in Ypsilanti from 1975 to 1982. During that time she completed work on a master's degree in public health and epidemiology J later teaching in those fields.

"I also did research on diarrhea in children on a three-year grant looking at how it is spread and prevention. My patients were very helpful. was very interested in diarrheal disease and nutrition "

THOSE-INTERESTS, along with a vish to provide pediatric services in developing country, led Turkish d her family to Africa. Beginning in 1982, Turkish spent our years teaching at the University I Nairobi in Kenya and ran a dirrheal clinic at the national hospi-time to register with Selective Service .

"I did a similar diarrheal study I am a strong proponent of breast feeding, it is so protective. In Kenya. we were able to get formula off the store shelves. Giving a mother a bottle in a developing country is like giving her a bomb."

In addition to antibodies in mother's milk, it is often difficult for mothers to provide proper disinfection of bottles, Turkish said

Before women dressed like nurses would come to the hospitals and give the mothers samples of formula, just in case they needed it. They would give the mothers transistor radios to hear their jingles.

Educated women in Kenya began using formula to imitate their Western counterparts. Turkish said, with poorer women following suit

AS PART of her work in Africa. Turkish studied ways children could be rehydrated using traditional foods rather than pre-packaged formulas. she said

Every mother makes a thin porridge called uji. We found that it was better than an oral rehydration food. The babies didn't lose, as much weight and there was no problem over the instructions."

During her last three years in Kenya, Turkish worked for the United Nations Children's Fund through Crescent Medical Aid-Kenya, a Muslim relief organization

"They provide medical care to the absolutely destitute. We worked with Mother Teresa's nuns and the Salvation Army WORKING AS the director of a national child health program, Turkish taught non-medical personnel, such as teachers, to do immunizations.

'We also worked to provide family planning. Kenya has the highest birthrate in the world Mothers would ask us if they really are able to plan families

A survey that was conducted showed a large misunderstanding between Kenyan husbands and wives over family planning.

About 73 percent of the mothers said fathers would be opposed to family planning. The old idea was to have a lot of children to care for them when they got old," Turkish said But 82 percent of the fathers said they supported family planning

WHILE LIVING in Nairobi, Turk ish and her family lived in a developed residential area.

The last three years in Kenya were spent living on a farm within a tea plantation

We were surrounded by four acres of trees. We raised pears, cherries and avocados. We had a fruit juice and baser, business Salaries were so low up there.

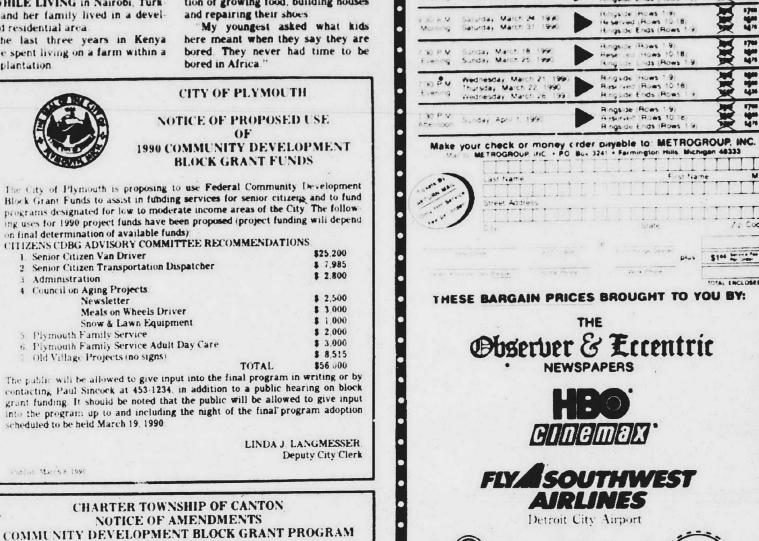

Turkish plans to return to Africa for visits and possibly to live after she retires. Her oldest children, of whom one wants to be an architect and another a wildlife biologist, also plan to return to Africa after completing their studies. I'm very happy that they want to go back. Working on the farm was hard but it gave them an appreciation of growing food, building houses and repairing their shoes

My youngest asked what kids here meant when they say they are bored. They never had time to be bored in Africa."

tenant for over a month. There, among the trash and other garbage the owner had no further use for, they found lke. A fivemonth-old puppy lying huddled behind a locked bathroom door. Lying because he was too weak to stand. So malnourished he could barely move his chest to breathe.

He had been locked inside that bathroom for over a month. Without food. Without heat. And with only the water from a rusty toilet to keep him alive. MHS investigators called it the closest to death they'd ever seen an animal. Yet Ike was fortunate. A kitten found in another part of the house was already dead.

This kind of willful neglect and cruelty is more than an outrage. It's a crime.

And that's why your help is so important to us. Your contribution to the Michigan Humane Society helps us fight for stronger legislation and tougher prosecution of animal abusers. To fight back for those who can't. And to make sure that this kind of crime doesn't go unpunished.

Your contribution also ensures that when we finally meet the man who locked up lke, we can do the same for him.

Orris gets another shot at coveted title

By Dan O'Mears staff writer

Ron Orris was ready to compete in the 1990 state swim championships before last year's meet had ended.

The Plymouth Salem senior was runner-up in two individual events as a junior, getting touched out in each one. That left Orris with a burning desire to try again, and he would have gladly jumped in the water a second time that afternoon in East Lansing if possible.

"I don't want that to happen again," Orris said. "I think about it most every day

Orris, a high school All-American, has waited a year for that opportunity, which comes Friday and Saturday in the Class A finals at Eastern Michigan University

Tickets prices are $3 for the preliminaries on Friday, $4 for the finals on Saturday. Competition begins at 2 p.m. each day.

"HE DIDN'T really feel bad last year." Salem coach Chuck Olson said of Orris. "Overall, he was pleased with his performance, but there's nothing like a win. We haven't had a lot of (state champions) at Plymouth Salem, but that would be a nice way for him to go out.'

Olson said he doesn't believe Orris could be in any better physical shape for this weekend's challenge, and Orris himself said his conditioning is as good as it gets.

Orris even managed to take nearly two weeks out of his high school season in late February to tour Europe with the United States Junior National team and is no worse for the wear

"I was concerned how that would affect him when he got back," Olson said, "but it proved to be nothing but a positive part of the season. He's handled things even better than I hoped.

On his return. Orris set three league records and helped lead the Rocks to the Western Lakes Activities Association championship March 2. As a prelude to the state meet, he set WLAA standards of 1:42.38 in the 200-yard freestyle, 51.70 in the butterfly and 47.41 in the 100 freestyle

In addition to the freestyle relay, Orris swam the 200 freestyle and butterfly in the last state meet, but the plan is for him to compete in the individual medley and the butterfly this year.

ORRIS, WHO could have selected any two of the nine individual events, has the state's fastest time in the IM at 1:55.03

We gave serious consideration to a lot of things," Olson said. "But, having one of the top fly times, one of the best back and breast times and being one of the best freestylers, not to give the IM a shot this year

swimming

would be a shame

'It's been kind of a long-range plan to go in the IM this year if he progressed the way we thought he would in all the different strokes. I'm sure he'd relish the chance to swim Alec Mull again, but I'm pretty sure that's not going to happen.

Mull of Lansing Eastern is the defending champ in the 200 and 500 freestyles and is expected to swim those events again. Mull went 1:40.32 in the 200 last year and Orris 1:40.44, but the IM makes more sense for a well-rounded swimmer like Orris.

"I haven't swam it too often, so I'm looking to drop some time in it," Orris said "There's some tough guys out there. I'm not going to blow anybody off or count anybody out."

Orris could face Ian Mull, the vounger brother of Alec, or Troy's David Whinter, who won the backstroke last year, in the IM.

"I THINK he's definitely the class of the field," Olson said, "It's never easy, but most of the others have a couple strong strokes and a couple they struggle with. Ron hasn't shown any weaknesses this year.

The butterfly could be a rematch of last year's final, which saw East Lansing's David Klaviter edge Orris. Klaviter went 51.20, Orris 51.27. The state's top time; ironically, belongs to Alex Mull at 51.11. "He's back," said Orris of Klav-iter. "It should be pretty interesting. I've worked a lot more on the butterfly this year. I think I've got more experience and should have a pretty good go this year.

"There's three or four fliers out there in Ron's category, but he's Lakes Activities Association final Saturday, can right that wrong Friday when they play for a district tournament championship.

Salem, 19-2, will play the Spartans, 15-6, for the fourth time this year in the 7 p.m. final at Northville High School.

The Rocks advanced by beating Plymouth Canton 57-44 in the second half of a semifinal double-header Wednesday, while Stevenson, which is 1-2 against Salem, fought off Novi 67-58 in the first game.

'I'm ready; I want to play them again," Salem senior Ryan Johnson said after scoring 11 points. "We're physically prepared. We just have to be mentally ready.

THE ROCKS might have been looking ahead to Friday's game in the second half. They raced to a 38-15 halftime lead and never matched that intensity in the second half, getting outscored by the Chiefs 29-19.

'You know there's a game waiting in the wings with Stevenson," Salem coach Bob Brodie said, "and sometimes it's hard to concentrate. Thank goodness, it was Canton because we do get prepared more for them than we do some other teams.

"We're glad we get the chance to play (Stevenson) again. It's neat the two teams that played for the conference championship will now play for the district championship."

The Rocks blew out Stevenson in Game 2 when 6-foot-9 center Glenn Szeman didn't play because he was ill. The other two were close, with Salem winning the first in overtime.

"It'll be a close ballgame," Brodie said. "Regardless of what happens, Stevenson is never out of it, and we're the same way.

Salem's Jake Baker was the leading scorer Wednesday with 16 points. Tom Noonan tossed in seven, Jeff Gold and K.C. Kirkpatrick six each as Brodie rotated 10 players throughout the game.

BOTH TEAMS were sluggish to start, but the Rocks gradually built a lead, shooting 17-of-35 in the first half and controlling the defensive boards. Baker scored all nine firsthalf points in the second quarter when Salem shot 11-of-20 and outscored Canton 26-10.

The Chiefs, who were 3-of-21 from the floor, didn't have any second shots and made 15 of their 27 turnovers before the intermission

"That's how we got in trouble, letting them have second and third shots when they made their run," Brodie said.

Any time you jump out to a big lead like that, your players get complacent and you lose your concentraond half, outscored Salem 15-7 in the third quarter and cut the lead to 12 early in the fourth, 46-34.

"MY MAIN thought there is that I was real happy with the play of the younger players, who hustled all over the floor and never gave up," Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner said.

Salem's starting five returned and, taking advantage of a series of turnovers, soon bumped the lead up to 55-36.

The Chiefs, who end 9-12, will return all but one player, senior Geoff Allen, from the team that finished the season. Freshman Ryan Halliday tossed in 10 points, Allen seven. The other starters were juniors Karl Wukie, Rob Wilson and Brett Howell and freshman Mike Stafford.

"I didn't start the young kids because I was looking ahead," Van Wagoner said. "I started the young kids because they're our best players right now. They did a good job, and I feel this program has a bright future.

In the first game, Stevenson's Ron Baran scored 24 of his game-high 26 points in the second half, hitting six triples.

Steve Leonard, a 6-5 forward, carried the Spartans with 15 of his 17 in the first half when Szeman was in foul trouble and the team shot a poor percentage. Rick Laven added 12.

Novi, 12-9, had three players in doubles -- Jason Walker (13), Bryan Jacobs (11) and Doug Soper (11).

CEP teams top regional entries

By Dan O'Mears staff writer

20(P.C)

The only suspense surrounding Saturday's gymnastics regional at Adrian High School is which team - Plymouth Salem or Plymouth Canton will win.

Providing there aren't any last-minute surprises, both are guaranteed a berth in the state meet since they find themselves in the fortunate position of having little additional competition.

'I hate to count my chickens, but like (Canton coach John Cunningham) said it will be between us and them because our region is the weakest one," Salem coach Kathi Kinsella said.

The host Maples and Ann Arbor Pioneer have qualified and Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial are possible entries, too.

So there's seems little doubt Salem and Canton are the class of the region, which should be a rematch of last week's Western Lakes Activities Association meet in which Salem was first and Canton third.

THAT VICTORY vaulted the Rocks into the No. 3 spot in the statewide rankings, one place ahead of the Chiefs, who were 12th at the state meet last year

"My understanding is it's Salem vs. Canton," Cunningham said. "There are a lot of kids but not many teams.

"It's comfortable, yes. We were in a similar situation last year. I'm confident we're going to go (to state) but in what position.

"Glenn, with Wendy Minch, was real good last year and so was Jackson County Western. Then there was Canton but all of a sudden we're in a dogfight with Northville."

Salem, which scored a school record 141.65 to win the league championship, gained confidence from that success and hopes to maintain that kind of excellence, Kinsella said.

'My girls are trophy made now - three in one year," she said, meaning the Rocks hope to add a regional title to their division and WLAA hardware. "They give one trophy and 15 medals. I told my girls 'Each one of you gets a medal if we win it.' I was dangling the carrot a little bit."

SALEM WILL Mäve Kim Miller, Autumn Bunch, Courtney Gonyea and Stefanie Anguilo competing as all-arounders. Jenny Wong qualified on everything but beam and the same for Jenny Skylakos with bars being the exception.

Aimee Wong (vault, bars), Dana Driscoll (vault, floor), Theresa Giacherio (vault) and Sue Farmer (floor) complement the other qualifiers and give Salem the kind of depth that pleases Kinsella.

When I first started coaching, I'd go to state meets with only two girls, and this team over here would have eight in this event," she said. "Now it's come full circle, and it's my team."

Salem will need the same kind of performance it had in the WLAA meet, because Kinsella knows the Chiefs will be eager to avenge that result.

'It's going to come down to the same thing 'You're not going to stop on bars, and you're not going to fall of beam,'" she said. "No matter what, my girls are confident they can do it again. We definitely have to beat Canton, but we can't just say that. We have to figure out what we have to do. Canton isn't going to take this lying down. They didn't like us winning it."

THE CHIEFS will have six all-arounders competing in the regional - Heather Murphy, Dawn Clifford, Kim Rennolds, Jenny Tedesco, Johanna Anderson and Danielle Mirto. "I've got 20 All-American positions among those six kids," Cunningham said. "I've always had kids with one or two All-American positions but never this many. "I think we're getting better all the time. I think some kids have potential they haven't realized. We just don't have any super girls." In addition to the six all-arounders, Canton's Jill Mikaelian, Sandi Sherwin and Jana Shockling qualified on vault and Laura Anderson on bars.

Cunningham said he, like Kinsella, will be trying to get a fifth girl qualified in each event. If the team goes to state, it automatically gets four positions, but any extras provide depth.

"You try to operate from a position of strength," he said. "It's a lot more comfortable coaching. If the first girl goes up on beam and falls, you can afford to give up one position.

"Ann Arbor Huron had a really good girl," he added. "If a team has a super girl, she's going to get one of those positions I want. But we won't know that until we walk out of the gym Saturday.

North Farmington expects fierce competition at the Troy High School gymnastics regional, but the Raiders are accustomed to that at this time of year.

Coach Jeff Dwyer's team is a perennial state qualifier, and North anticipates another trip to the championships but not without a maximum effort in Saturday's competition.

The No. 4-rated Raiders will battle No. 2 Troy Athens, the host Lady Colts, Rochester, Great Lakes Eight champion and No. 6 Fraser and Livonia Clarenceville for one of three berths in the state meet.

'There's going to be about five teams that have scored at least 137." Dwyer said. "We've hit 140 twice now, and it's probably going to take 138 or 139 to go to state in our region. I think it will be one of the toughest regions in the state."

It used to be only two teams from each region advanced to state competition, but it's a good thing three qualify, given the quality in the Troy regional, according to Dwyer.

"I'VE NEVER been to a regional that's been this tight," he said. "We're seeing scores we've never seen. One-thirty-eight would've won the state a few years ago. Now we're seeing that as an average score. I attribute that to more club girls going into high school gymnastics."

'One-thirty-eight would've won the state a few years ago. Now we're seeing that as an average score.'

before, too.

"I like that part," Dwyer said. "This is Kym's fourth year going to regional and that helps. Heather is a junior now and so is Kristin. Jameelah was at states last year, so everyone has been there at least once.

Kahn won the vault competition and was second in the all-around at last week's Western Lakes Activities Association meet, and Heller was fourth among all-arounders.

"I expect Kym and Heather to have another good meet," Dwyer said. "They seem to come alive in big meets, and Kristin and Jameelah have been pulling their weight all season.

In addition to those four, Kathy Williams (bars, vault), Jamie Lawson (bars), Heather MacFarland (vault) and Cara Pool (vault, floor) ished fifth in the state after being second in 1987 and 11th in 1988.

Farmington, with a season best in the low 120s, also qualified for team competition at Troy. Michelle Fenner, Nicole Gerwatowski, Sherri Ylitalo, Christine Oates, Maya Sardy will compete in three events each and Carrie Hoffner one (vault).

"I hope the girls give their best performance, so they have the basic skills for next year and know what it takes to qualify (for state)," Farmington coach Alicia Herpick said. We finished the year well, so we'll be back."

Jennifer Kaipio is the lone allarounder who qualified for Clarenceville, which had a high score of 128.15 in the Great Lakes Eight meet.

Christy Nagorka will do every event but floor, Trisha Dunklee (bars, floor), Roberta Wiggle (vault, beam), Sherri Hochstadt (beam, floor) and Joey DeWaters (vault, bars) will compete in two events and Erin Maguire (bars), Kelly Kelbert (beam), Kathy Kelley (beam) and Tanya Rostrom (floor) one each. "We've got a few kids in each event, with a good day, are capable of scoring well and getting out of regional," Clarenceville coach Chuck Thompson said. "Everybody has that chance. We'll go and do our best." Farmington Hills Harrison didn't qualify as a team but is sending three individuals. Michelle Davis will compete on vault, Colleen Heinzmann on bars and Amy Solomon on beam.

Thurston shocker knocks out Hawks

Redford Thurston put it all together Monday, stunning Farmington Harrison in the first round of the Class B district basketball tourney at Redford Bishop Borgess High, 67-66.

The win by the Eagles (15-6), the third place team in the Tri-River League, may not have surprised some, but the margin of victory certainly had to turn a few heads.

Harrison (15-6), co-champs of the Western Division in the Western Lakes Activities Association, seemed to be the favorite after coming off an impressive 72-54 victory Saturday over rival North Farmington in WLAA consolation playoff final.

"We's e had some big wins this season — Taylor Kennedy and Taylor Truman (Tri-River co-champions) — both at home," said Thurston sixthyear coach Mike Schuette. "This was a big one no doubt, but really it's been a season of big wins."

Thurston picked the right time and the right place to catch Harrison flat.

The Eagles put on a clinic in running their half-court offense, while minimizing their mistakes.

THURSTON LED from start to finish - 13-4 after one quarter, 30-21 at intermission and 45-29 after three quarters.

Guard Danny Perttula, a 5-9 junior, spearheaded the victory, scoring 15 of his game-high 19 points in the opening half.

He hit three triples during the first 12 minutes.

"I could just see what was developing on defense," Perttula said. "When they'd go down and double-team, I just wanted the ball because I felt confident I could shoot it."

Perttula also said a trip by him and his teammates to Saturday's Harrison-North game proved to be beneficial.

"We didn't know much about them," he said. "But we were able to pick up some the stuff they run in their offense and see what they'd do with their press. By the time the game was over 'Coach' picked out all the guys we were going to guard. We had a pretty good idea."

One key matchup had Thurston's 6-1 long-armed Justin McEwen checking Harrison's high-scoring junior forward Andy Smith.

"We talked to Justin and we told him it doesn't matter if you score," Schuette said. "His sole job was to keep their scorer from shooting and popping out where he likes to get the ball near the three-point area." Smith, who averages 20 points per game, was held to just two in the first half.

HE FINISHED with 12, hitting a pair of three-pointers early in the fourth quarter to pull the Hawks to within 14 points, 49-35. But it was not Smith's night (4 of 13 from the field), or the rest of the Hawks for that matter.

Thurston was able to withstand any type of Harrison run by patiently executing its half-court offense. The Eagles also made 14 of 15 free throws during the final eight minutes.

And while Harrison was at a loss without Smith's scoring, the Eagles countered with a balanced attack.

Senior center D.J. Kellogg and senior point-guard Jason Muller, added 12 and 11 points, respectively. McEwen and forward Jeremy Courval contributed 10 and nine, respectively. Guard Jamie Zalewski added six off the bench.

"Thurston found the open man and controlled the basketball," said Harrison coach Mike Teachman. "Their guards are not what you call expert ball-handlers, but they don't make mistakes. "They deserved everything they did."

HARRISON shot only 27 percent from the floor (15 of 54) and committed 15 turnovers, to Thurston's 10.

"We did not play with much vim and vigor," Teachman said. "And otherwise we stood around. Just no intensity around the basket. And when we tried to make a run (in the third quarter), Kellogg comes up three big baskets in a row."

Perttula said rebounding and defense were major factors in the win. "The key was to play good defense," Perttula said. "And by taking their big guys off the boards, that helped us a lot."

"The first half we did not do quite as well on the boards as we wanted to." Schuette said. "At halftime, we talked about concentrating on boxing out better." Despite the size disadvantage, the Eagles soared and now find themselves one win away from a berth in the district championship.

The Eagles will try and guard against a letdown when they face winless Detroit Renaissance (0-17) at 6 tonight. The second game of the double-header (7:30) pits host Borgess (18-3) against Detroit Benedictine (12-7).

Rocks rout N'ville cagers

By Dan O'Mears staff writer

Less than 48 hours after a onepoint loss in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship game, Plymouth Salem's basketball team was back in the gym Monday night.

District tournament host Northville was the unlucky opponent for the Rocks, who were eager to blow off steam following their 61-60 loss Saturday to Livonia Stevenson.

Salem, with 13 players scoring, used the team approach to bury the Mustangs 97-60 in the first round.

"Sure, I was concerned," Salem coach Bub Brodie said. "It was a tremendous emotional defeat for us. You have to wonder, coming back against a team as good as Northville. "But 90 percent of me, knowing the personality and makeup of this basketball team, said they'd come in ready."

THE ROCKS, 19-2 heading into Wednesday's semifinal with Plymouth Canton, were that all right, jumping in front 21-7 in the first quarter and leading 43-22 at halftime and 69-45 after three periods.

Northville coach Omar Harrison had hoped a different Salem team would show up. Instead of advancing, the WLAA's Western Division co-champion finished the season 14-7

"They could either be down or come out with a vengeance," Harrison said. "I was hoping they'd be down and we'd be on top of our game - and maybe we could catch them."

Just the opposite occurred as Brodie, using all of his varsity players, sent wave after wave at Northville, with each combination maintaining a dominant position.

Jake Baker scored a game-high 22 points and pulled down 17 rebounds to lead the assault, but he had plenty of support. Ryan Johnson was again a force under the basket with 16 points, and reserve guard Mike Mulder scored 12 points on four triples.

"(Johnson) was kinda frustrated the other night against Stevenson, but tonight the baskets were falling for him," Brodie said. "We keep giving (Mulder) the range and saying 'Mike, shoot the ball." He's got a lot of confidence, and we're going to continue to let him shoot the ball."

STARTERS TIM Noonan and K.C. Kirkpatrick chipped in eight points apiece, and forward Cliff Lee came off the bench to score as many and be the team's second-leading rebounder with 10.

Brodie thought the guard play from Noonan, who also had seven assists and three steals, fellow starter Jeff Gold (six points), Chris Tebben and Mulder was better than it was against Stevenson.

"They seemed more aggressive." Brodie said. "The other night their approach was 'Give it to the big guys and see what happens.' Tonight they took control of the game a little more at both ends."

Tebben gave the Rocks some good minutes in the first half when he scored all five of his points, and John Hoffmeyer and Bryan Schultz (six points) also played well coming off the bench. "We played hard for four quarters no matter who rotated in," Brodie said. "This has been a 13-man team all year. Sure, the starters have been good, but I've never had a team with so many players with crucial minutes. And that helps with the fatigue factor."

Guard Bill Kelley scored 13 points and forward Paul Grant 10 to lead the Mustangs, who shot 17-of-57 from the floor for 30 percent. Northville's 21-of-29 free throw shooting offered some help.

THE TEAM'S leading scorers, Joe Kaley and Scott Meredith, finished with only eight points each. Kaley had been averaging 15 per game, Meredith 14. Kaley, who led the Mustangs with 46 triples for the season, didn't have any, though Kelley popped in three

"When Joe is on with the 3pointer, those bring you back quickly," Harrison said, "and Scott wasn't hitting the turnaround jumper. The kids have been good all year, and you can't fault them for one bad game."

Leading 23-12 after one quarter, the Rocks saw their lead cut to six points, 28-22, as Northville scored eight unanswered points midway in the second period.

Salem, which had forced a series of shots against Northville's zone during that stretch, got back on track and scored the last 15 points to lead by 21 at halftime. Baker, who had 12 points in the first half, started the rally with the first six, and Tebben had a third of the 15.

"I think it comes from within the players themselves," Brodie said of the quick turnaround. "We've seen some leads go down the tubes. We saw that against Stovenson, and we're going to try and not lot that happen if we can." Mulder sank three of his treys, and Mulder sank three of his troys, and Kirkpatrick had six of his eight points in the third quarter when the Rocks shot 9-of-13 and outscored Northville 26-23. Baker added eight points in the fourth and Lee six. Salem shot 51 percent (38-74) for the game.

"We did not play smart tonight," Harrison said. "I'm sorry we couldn't have made a better showing, because that's not a reflection on how good our ballclub is.

"We've dug holes before and come out in the last quarter and won. But when you dig a hole like that against Salem, it's very hard to dig yourselves out."

Nandani nets 32 in setback

Manish Nandani finished the high school basketball season with a flare Monday, scoring 32 points in a Class D district tournament game.

His game-high total, which included seven triples, couldn't prevent his Plymouth Christian Academy team from being eliminated on opening night, however.

Oakland Catholic, with 20 points from Marion May and 14 from Mike Flamigan, defeated the Eagles 75-52 at Redford Temple Christian. Plymouth Christian finishes with a 6-12 record.

Kummer paces CC

By Ray Setlock staff writer

Redford Catholic Central's Bobby Kummer tossed his fist in the air and sprinted to the locker room Monday, savoring the Shamrocks' 75-65 victory over Detroit Henry Ford in the first round of the Class A basketball districts at Catholic Central.

Kummer, a 6-foot-6 sophomore center, sparked the Shamrocks with 23 points and 11 rebounds. He also dished off three assists.

"This is a big win for our team," Kummer said. "It was a matter of pride. Too many people were getting down on us and we had to go out and prove to them that we could put together a good game and we did it tonight."

The Shamrocks improve their record to 5-16, while Henry Ford concludes its season at 6-8.

"We wanted to slow the tempo down against CC," Henry Ford coach Gerald Weatherspoon said. "We just couldn't do it. That Kummer kept getting rebounds and controlling the glass."

CC JUMPED to leads of 15-6 and 20-10 in the first quarter, but the Trojans narrowed the margin to 22-15 in the second quarter and 28-25 at halftime.

"I think when they took those large leads early in the game, we had a little trouble getting things back together," Weatherspoon said. "But I think we did a nice job coming back in the second quarter."

Just two minutes into the third quarter, Henry Ford took a 27-26 lead, its first of the game.

"When the game got close, our guys stayed tough and made the best of their opportunities," CC coach Bernie Holowicki said. "They were quick and all over us, but we overcame it and kept our offense balanced."

The Shamrocks overcame the early third quarter deficit and built a commanding 48-40 lead following the third quarter.

Junior guard Steve Whitlow poured in 21 points for CC, while Mark Clary and Jon Barbara added 12 and 10 respectively.

"WHITLOW did a real good job of running the floor for us tonight," Holowicki said. "Clary also did a nice job coming off the bench. He added some leadership."

Senior guard Chris Devezin guided Henry Ford with a game-high 25 points.

"They slowed down the pace just as we thought they would," Weatherspoon said. "But we couldn't pick up the pace and make them play our type of up-tempo game. That hurt us."

probably the top competition for Klaviter," Olson said.

Orris said he doesn't want to have any regrets when it's all over and, therefore, intends to give it his all in his final go-around.

Olson's only regret is the state meet represents the conclusion to an outstanding career for Orris, one of the school's all-time great athletes.

"I HATE TO see it come to an end, but I'm really looking forward to Friday and Saturday," Olson said. "It's been a good four years, and I hope he's able to handle everything like he has in the past

"Last year I don't think you could have found a more gracious don't want to say loser because if you're second in two events you're that close to winning. I'd like to see how he handles winning at the state level.

"He's certainly deserving of that opportunity. I don't know of any better competitor and representative for our sport."

Orris, the lone individual qualifier from Salem, also will swim on either the medley or freestyle relay teams. Curt Witthoff, Bryan Keppen, Al-

BILL BRESLER/staff photographe

Bryan Keppen, a senior on the Salem team, is qualified to swim in the medley relay at state.

berth Sneath and Chris Caloia are possible medley swimmers, and Caloia, Joe Pawluszka, Eric Bunch and Ben Sovereign are qualified in the freestyle.

The Rocks were seventh in the team standings last year, but it's near impossible to predict what might happen this year, according to Olson.

"It would be nice to have a couple individuals who could score points,' he said. "but we did it last year with one relay, Ron and Mike Hill in the 100 freestyle. If we can score both relays and have Ron and (diver) Pat McManaman score, we could do well.

In addition to the Salem swimmers, Canton's medley relay team and Bryce Anderson will compete at state. Anderson, who is entered in the butterfly and backstroke, is part of relay unit, which includes Kevin Beach, Mark Ealovega and Craig Steshetz.

CC captures league crown

By Den O'Meere staff writer

Redford Catholic Central, win ing seven events and overcoming a Birmingham Brother Rice advan tage in diving, captured its second Catholic League swim championship in three years Sunday.

The Shamrocks compiled 320 points at Oakland University to defeat runner-up Rice, their top chal-lenger with 285. The University of Detroit-Jesuit was next (219) followed by Warren DeLaSalle (121) and Harper Woods Notre Dame (108)

We knew we had to make up a big difference from diving, because we knew Brother Rice had four real good divers," CC coach Chuck McClune said. "The turning point was the 500 freestyle. We scored 47 points, which offset their diving score

The Warriors took the top three places plus eighth in diving, giving them 47 points while CC had just three points with a 10th-place finish

But the Shamrocks rebounded with Randy Teeters winning the 500 freestyle and Devon Fekete finishing second, Kevin Markell fourth and Joe Wing, the team's lone senior, seventh.

CC'S ALAN Afsari and Troy

Shamrocksrally

to beat Warriors

Shumate were double winners, while Teeters, who went 4 59.0 in the 500 freestyle, and Mike Hoeflein had one win each

There were no meet or school records broken in the meet, but the Shamrocks nonetheless "had some really great swims." McClune said. That included Teeters, who was second in the IM (2.02.92), dropping six seconds off his time in the individual medley and qualifying for state. Afsari won the 200 freestyle in 1:47.21 when his previous best was 1 50.5, and he later added first place in the 100 freestyle with a 50.03 time. Hoeflein broke the 56second barrier in the backstroke, winning that event in 55.52.

"That was a great swim, considering Mike was in that mid-taper period when you feel a little off on your stroke and wasn't shaved down," McClune said.

"He had to go against a bunch of guys who were shaved and trying to make state cuts. So we really expect him to do well at state. Not many in the state do 55 in the back stroke

McClune added Hoeflein, who had a previous best of 56 79 in the backstroke, has a goal of reaching the junior national cut of 54 19 at the state

"THAT MEANS he has to make the same kind of drop — almost a second and a half," McClune said. Shumate contributed victories in the IM (201.94) and butterfly (54 10) He also anchored the win ning freestyle relay team, which included Afsari, Brian Dynda and John Brogan and posted a 3 19 21 time

The Shamrocks also took third place in the medley relay with Teeters, Fekete, Hoeflein and Dave West combining for a 1 45 33 time. CC was further aided by fourth place efforts from Dynda in the 200 and 100 freestyles (1.51.78 and 51 00) and Jon Podolak in the back stroke (1.05.93) Chris True qualified 10th in the breast stroke but finished seventh with a lifetime best of 1.08.06.

Other league winners were Rice's Josh Gross in the 50 freestyle (22.49) and Brian Bushon in diving (445.10), DeLaSalle's Jim Singlyn in the breast (1:01:01) and U-D in the medley relay (1.42.27)

CC eyes top 10 at state

Redford Catholic Central will be Observerland's best-represented swim team at the Class A swimming and diving championships this weekend.

The Shamrocks qualified both relays and individuals in six events for the state finals Friday and Saturday at Eastern Michigan University's Michael H. Jones Natatorium. 'Our team is quite young," CC coach Chuck McClune said. "All the guys going to state will be back next year, which gives us a lot of hope. Basically, we're going to school, to find out what it takes to be competitive at state."

Junior Troy Shumate already knows about that, having placed seventh in the 200 and 500 freestyles last year. He will compete in those events again, having previous state times of 1:43.71 and 4:40.95.

The Shamrocks loaded up in the 200 freestyle, with Alan Afsari and Mike Hoeflein also qualifying. Afsari will swim the 100 freestyle, too, and Hoeflein the backstroke.

CC WILL be going after a pair of John Kovach school records in those events. The former CC standout left times of 54.20 in the backstroke and 1:43.40 in the 200 freestyle as the standards

The Shamrocks also will have Randy Teeters in the individual medley and the backstroke, having qualified for the IM in the Catholic League championships Sunday. Devon Fekete went 1:03.13 in the breast stroke Sunday to qualify, too.

McClune was unsure what his relay combinations will be, but Hoeflein figures to be the key there.

"We'll see when we get there whether to stack the medley or put Mike Hoeflein in the freestyle," he said. "We'll probably put our best guys in the freestyle and see if we can get in the top three."

Besides individual records, the Sharnrocks also hope to better the sixth-place finish they achieved in Kovach's senior year of 1987.

""We don't have any dreams of trying to win it this year." McClune said, "but we do want to get in there and break the top 10. The top five would be incredible."

LIVONIA Stevenson will compete in the medley relay, with Aaron Rieder, Alex Goecke, Scott Dewolf and Taki Caranicolas comprising the foursome

Rieder, a sophomore, qualified for the IM and backstroke and Goecke, a freshman, the breast stroke. Dewolf and Caranicolas are entered in the butterfly

North Farmington's Chris Knoche qualified for the 200 freestyle and breast stroke and teammate Danny Knipper the breast. Chuck Chuba, the WLAA champion in the 50 and 100 freestyles, just missed qualifying in those events.

The Raiders also will take their freestyle relay team that won the WLAA title and consists of Chuba, Knipper, Jerry Jehle and Knoche.

Farmington Hills Harrison is sending its medley relay, Jason Schwalm (100 freestyle) and Jason Barringer (breast stroke). Divers Carl Johnson and Ryan Koonce were ossibilities to make it out of regionals on Tuesday and go to state also

Blazers district champs

Tre-time defending state Class A Replait champion Livenia Lody-red made it through district play rday along with Livonia Sloves-nd Wayne Memorial. Syweed ran its contained Ladywood ran its overall record to 43-0 by besting hest Redford Union for the title, 15-0, 15-8.

But the big matchup occurred car-her in the day when the Blazers turned back Western Lakes Activities Association champion Livenia rchill, 15-8, 15-6.

It was only Churchill's second loss 37 metches. It was also the second straight year that Lauy tournathe year that Ladywood has nt play.

"Ladywood is a very solid ballclub with no single weakness," said Churchill coach Mike Hughes. "You hope that they're weak in some par-ticular area, but they just don't have

Kari Domanski led the Blazers with 12 kills and six assists, while Keli Haeger contributed three ace serves, four blocks and two kills. Rebecca Willey, a 6-foot junior, added three blocks

Janice Konczal led Ladywood with eight passes, and setter Marsie Spender recorded 16 assists.

"IF YOU MAKE errors against Churchill, they will take advantage of it," said Ladywood coach Tom Teeters, who has won three straight district crowns. "We found out that Christina Garry was hard to block, so we started hitting away from her. We went at their smaller blocker."

Hughes, whose team relies on de-fense, couldn't match the Blazers at the net.

"We're small and that hurts," Hughes said. "I'm disappointed in the way the kids played. I thought they could have played tougher, but ose things happen." Testers added, "It's a shame Churchill has been in our district because they're a very good team."

You have to beat them sooper or later," Hughes said. "That's the way the draw goes and there's nothing you can do about it."

Ladywood opened district play with a 15-3, 15-1 triumph over Livonia Franklin, before dumping Churchill and RU. The host Panthers advanced to the final by beating Detroit Redford.

Domanski was Ladywood's top hitter on the day with 23 kills. Spender added 32 assists, while Haeger served eight aces and Konczal contributed 22 digs.

A NEW FURNACE?

defeating Plymouth Canton (15-7, 15-10) and Northville (15-7, 15-8).

"We were expected to do well, but there's always a chance for an upset," said Stevenson coach Lee Cagle, who won his fifth district title.

Canton advanced by ousting Plymouth Salem, while Northville eliminated Novi.

In the win over Canton, Stevenson's Sue Bell and Renea Bonser recorded eight and six hills, respectively. Bell also had eight digs, while Teresa Sarno served four aces

"We changed our serving tactics the first game," Cagle said. "We had to go to certain spots on the floor with more control "And the other thing is that we anticipated better against (6-foot-1) Susan Ferko (of Canton). She got us with a number of dink shots early, but we were able to handle that better and Northville's dinks as well.

In the Northville win, Sarno and Bell combined for 11 kills, while Andrea Wit-trock collected three kills and three aces serves Bell also added 14 digs.

An unsung hero for Stevenson was freshman setter Patty Diamond, who collected 26 assists in two matches

"Patty did a wonderful job," Cagle said. "She has great reflexes on the bad balls. She was a little nervous at the start like everyone else, but once she got started, we settled in well.

"This is the first tournament we've won this year and we're excited about the regional.

It's going to be a good battle," Teeters said. "Lee always prepares' his team well.

WAYNE MEMORIAL is another team prepared to make a run.

The host Zebras (38-4), under coach Ann Kolnitys-Gincentini, advanced to their own regional by defeating Garden City (25-6-9) in the district championship, 15-11, 15-9.

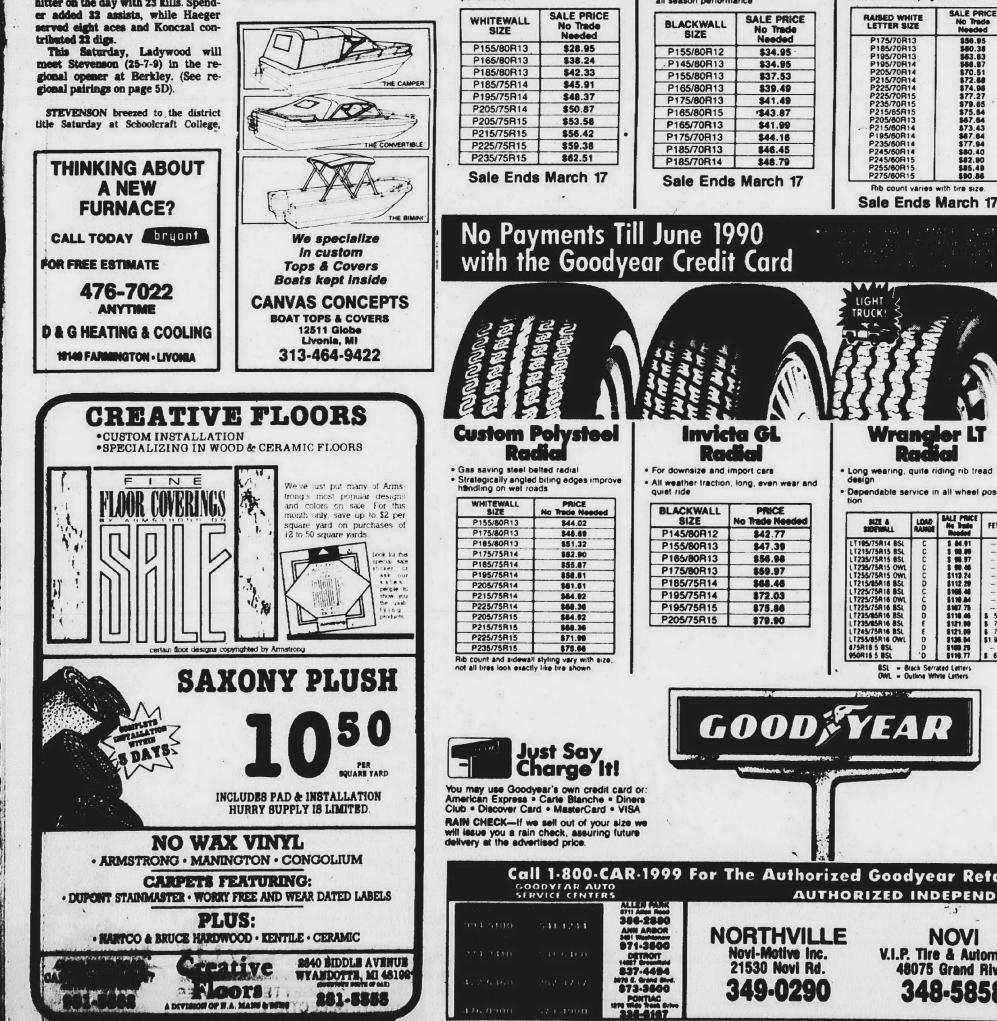

Wayne made it to the finals by defeating Westland John Glenn (15-3, 15-5) and Romulus (15-5, 15-8). Garden City, meanwhile, eliminated Belleville to reach the finals

Evette Sluder, a 5-9 senior, recorded 11 kills, and 6-foot junior Brandy Caincross added seven in the win over Garden City.

Junior Gerri Ruffing added eight digs in the final.

Against Romulus, a defensive-oriented team, Sluder had 12 kills.

Kolnitys-Gincentini, who won her second straight district crown, also praised the defensive play throughout the day by senior Jenny Tibbals.

"She played great defense and her serving was 'on," said the Wayne coach, whose team went 14-0 for the third straight year in the Wolverine A League. ore setter Laura Fisher, who has taken over the job of running the Zebras' 5-1 offense in place of sister Ni-cole, who graduated, "also did a great job," according to the Wayne coach.

Wayne meets Lincoln Park at 3:30 p.m. Saturday at home in the regional opene REDFORD THURSTON, meanwhile, reached the Class B district champi ship Saturday at Redford Bishop Borgess before falling to Detroit Benedictine, 15-9.15-8.

The Eagles (28-8) onened district play with a 15-6, 15-1 victory over Farmington Harrison followed by a 15-4, 6-15, 15-13 triumph over Livonia Clarenceville. (Benedictine defeated host Borgess and Detroit Renaissance to advance.)

"We were tired in the finals," said Thurston coach Bob Burns. "It took 14 hours to finish our match against Clarenceville and that hurt us." Daune Koester and Laura Kress sparked the Thurston win over the Tro-

Actress is one of a duo in Meadow Brook's newest

By Cathle Breidenbach special writer

EST BLOOMFIELD actress Juliet Randall says, "It's a revelation how audiences gravitate to these two people," referring to the characters Essie and Rudi Sebastian in "The Great Sebastians."

In the play, which opened last week at Meadow Brook Theatre, Randall plays Essie, the part originally written for Lynn Fontaine of the famed Lunt-Fontaine duo.

Essie and Rudie star in a vaudeville mind-reading act playing Prague after World War II and get entangled in harrowing political intrigue. The pair survive by their wits and by the psychology learned from years manipulating people with their bogus "mind reading."

They "skate over the rim of life," Randall says of the characters, but beneath their veneer as theatrical con artists, "There's a kind of integrity, something quite solid at the bottom."

THE PLAY OPENS with live "mind-reading" using members of the audience. "It was wonderfully wise to open with the magic," says Randall, who played Essie two years ago for a run of "The Great Sebastians" at the Missouri Repertory Theatre. She has seen how, in performance after performance, the leads endear themselves to the audience right from the opening scene.

Making the "mind reading" successful demands that she and co-star David Regal memorize a signal code, then use the code impromptu in live audience interactions. Randall says the play is "horrendously difficult to do" both because the code calls for skills above and beyond learning the script, and because, "Every little thing has to be timed so carefully."

Rehearsals at first are "just like shoveling coal until you get hold of the tail of the play and can fly." The demands of "The Great Sebastians" have brought her fresh appreciation Rehearsals at first are 'just like shoveling coal until you get hold of the tail of the play and can fly.'

- Juliet Randall

for the workaholic reputation of Lunt and Fontaine, the original Rudi and Essie

A comic melodrama like "The Great Sebastians" departs from the heavier dramatic roles Randall usu ally plays, roles like Medea, Electra and Clytemnestra from the Greek classics, and Shakespeare's leading ladies including Kate, Cleopatra, Rosalind and Portia, as well as roles in modern classics.

"She likes playing parts "a little outside" what people expect of her, and says, "I'm an actor," as if that simple declaration sums up the classic dramatic challenge — to transform oneself chameleon-like and "become" her character. She says she always bristles at the statement, "You're wrong for that role," but acknowledges acting can't overcome all obstacles, height being one of them.

AT THE BEGINNING of her career, when she played with the Phoenix Theatre in New York as one of the company leads, she was in line to play Ophelia. But she is five foot nine, and the actor playing Hamlet wasn't tall. "So, it wasn't to be. People don't see Ophelia that way. I don't think I ever was an ingenue, but I did get to play Juliet once." She has never, however, been Lady Mac-Beth. Playing the driving woman behind MacBeth's lust for power is high on her wish list.

Three years ago Randall debuted on the Meadow Brook stage in "The Good Doctor," which is based on Chekhov's short stories. The next season she played Queen Elizabeth in Shakespeare's "Richard III," fol-

Bernard Shaw carried on a long, pas-sionate correspondence. In her bey-day, Mrs. Campbell was the reigning star of London and the actress for whom Shaw wrote "Pygmalian." Randall says, "Campbell's brilliant career went down, down, down," and on top of professional misfortunes, her son was killed in the war. Randall adds that Mrs. Campbell's fate offers a moral lesson to actors. "It cuts close to the bone. She could have been so high," but the limelight faded and, "She ended in poverty and isolation.

Two roles she played under Dutch director Erik Vos remain favorites - Euripides' Medea and Shakespeare's Cleopatra - as much because she worked with the outstanding director as for the challenge of the roles themselves.

'The man speaks Greek, knows history and is an innovator," she says, and goes on to explain his enthusiasm for Shakespeare. "When he directed 'Anthony, and Cleopatra' he said, 'If only you knew what it means to me to work in Shakespeare's own language.' " to ribbons, but it's better than Ger-trude in 'Hamlet.' Elizabeth has more to do and worse things happen to ber."

On stage Randall craves the high drama of tragedy and trouble. In real life she strives for balance between career and family. She grew up in Kansas City, Mo.; attended Avila College, then earned a master's degree in theater from Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.j Like many aspiring actresses, she went to New York looking for work. Unlike many actresses working dead-end jobs while waiting for a break, she landed a job first time out. "I went on a weekend audition trip," she says, "and wangled an appointment at the Phoenix Theatre. I got the job and started out in little parts in all sorts of plays. Then somebody said, 'By the way, do you sing?'

She has trained in opera and musicals as well as drama, so she got the part of the Welsh lady who sings in Henry IV, Part I." "After that I got leads," she says. Randall admits ber uncommon good fortune was "sort of

"And I don't have the feeling I've shortchanged the family." During the first interruption, she had three children in three and a half years. "That put a monkeywrench in my career for a little while," she says of the 10 years while her chil-dren were small that she didn't act.

Her children are now grown and spread across the country. Her 25-year-old son works for the Senate Republican Policy Committee in Washington, D.C. Her 23-year-old son will graduate this year from the University of California at San Diego and her 21-year-old daughter also will graduate from Williams College in Massachusetts.

During her second career interruption, she accompanied her husband to England on business where they lived for seven years until 1986. He is a lawyer with Ford Motor Company and served in England as general counsel for Ford of Europe. Due to British Actors Equity laws, there was "no way" she could work in England.

Each time she was ready to reinstate her career, she returned to her "home stamping grounds, the Missand Meadow Brook. He introduced

Nancy Delewsky Villeneuve soprano is soloist

Symphony series ends on 'romancing' note

Appearances by three guest soloists will highlight the last in a series of three mini-concerts for this season by the Livonia Symphony Orchestra.

Concert time is 8 p.m. Friday in Livonia's Civic Center Library.

The concert, titled "Music for Romancing," will feature soprano Nancy Delewsky Villeneuve, 17year-old Rochester violinist Evan Price and baritone Steven Kosinski.

Kosinski is director of the Creative and Performing Arts Program (CAPA) for Livonia schools.

PRICE, WHO is a student of LSO concertmaster Emily Mutter Austin, will perform Fritz Kreisler's "Liebesfreud."

He began study of the violin at age 8 and is a former concertmaster of the Metropolitan Youth Symphony. He held the same position in summer 1988 for the Interlochen All-State High School Orchestra.

He currently is Canadian National Trick Fiddling Champion.

TOGETHER, VILLENEUVE and Kosinski will sing excerpts from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

Villeneuve also has selected solos from Leonard Bernstein's "West Side Story," and Kosinski excerpts from Leigh's "The Man of LaMancha."

Villeneuve earned a bachelor of music degree from Central Michigan University with graduate work at Wayne State.

She has appeared with the Michigan Opera Theatre in productions of "The Magic Flute," "Madame Butterfly," "I Pagliacci," and "La Traviata," among others.

Eizelman began collecting lithographs as a teenager and is a longtime member of the Detroit Institute of Arts Founders Society. Her own pieces include contemporary water colors, pottery and paper sculpture.

"I'M JUST AN odd mixture, but primarily people (themes)." Eizelman said. "I'm not the least bit talented myself. But I love to surround myself with beautiful things."

KOSINSKI HAS appeared on Broadway and toured in "Sweeney Todd," and also toured with the company of "Woman of the Year."

His daytime television credits include those on "One Life to Live," "Another World," "Texas" and "Alice in Wonderland."

His bachelor's degree was earned at the University of Michigan and his master's from the University of Illinois. He lists among his special skills "being a real-life father."

MUSIC CONDUCTOR will be Francesco DiBlasi. DiBlasi will begin with the overture to Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" and then offer Richard Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll," composed in 1870.

Prior to intermission the orchestra will take its audience to the Scottish Highlands for excerpts from Frederick Loewe's score for the musical "Brigadoon." present an all-Mozart concert featuring Dr. Doohi Lee in the Mozart Piano Concerto No. 19 in F Major at 3 p.m. Sunday, March 18 in Thurston High School cafetorium, Redford.

There is no admission charge for the program co-funded by the Music Performance Trust Fund.

Lee is being presented under the sponsorship of Dr. Joseph Lewis, orchestra violinist.

Lee began playing the piano at the age of 14. He was a student at Cleveland Institute of Music, later changed his major to study biomedical engineering. He studied piano with Gaby Casadesus at the Fountainbleau School of Music in Paris during the summer of 1986. In March of 1989, he organized and performed a chamber music concert with the members for the Cleveland Orchestra. He also performed with the Cleveland Orchestra Chorus on its European tour in June 1989.

Thurston High School is located on Schoolcraft, west of Beech Daly Road. "OUR GOAL IS to represent fine artists in an affordable price range," said Heidi Eizelman of Farmington, one of the Atrium owners. "There are so many talented people in this area."

The gallery was the brainchild of Patricia Kresin Jania of Farmington Hills, who has formed a solid network of artist friends through years of collecting expressionistic paintings and sculptures.

"It just came to me out of the blue," said Jania, a former Livonia Public Schools teacher and real-estate saleswoman. "I happened to see a space that appealed to me and I thought it would make a nice gallery."

Jania, 55, teamed up with Eizelman, a 43-year-old teacher of special-education classes at Buchanan to Eizelman.

The shop occupies just 700 square feet of space in a courtyard, or atrium section of the subdivided former Schrader Furniture Co. store at 113 N. Center in Northville. The entrance is off the city parking area at the back. Adjoining tenants are stores which sell antique furniture, home accessories, women and children's clothing and Victorian dolls.

Despite the small space there's an ambience of openness. The selection of pieces is eclectic.

"Finding the artists has been problably one of the most fun things," Jania said. "In many cases, the artists are friends of artists we knew."

For example, Demgen is a colleague of Eizelman's in the Livonia school system. And Rochester artist Judith B. Riviere, who has a large pencil drawing at the gallery, Ed and Jane Wojtan hang 38 photographs they took on a recent trip to Poland in the lobby of the Livonia City Hall. The exhibit is open to the public and runs through March 30.

A vision of Poland

The beauty of Poland is so expansive that it was easy for Livonia residents Jane and Ed Wojtan to find many subjects for photographs on a recent trip there.

People, buildings, landscapes, entertainers and even storks — those Old World long-legged birds that nest on rooftops and in trees — provided the subjects for an exhibition now on display in the lobby of the Livonia City Hall.

The exhibit features 38 photograph the Wojtans took during a trip last year to visit the country where both their parents were born.

Poland was everything they expected, said the Wojtans — from the moment they passed through customs and were greeted by nine of their cousins bearing the customary Polish gift of flowers and the greeting of three kisses from each relative.

HIGHLIGHTS OF one of the daily tours included a visit to the "old town" area of Warsaw where the buildings have been completely rebuilt as they looked prior to World War II.

"The architectural beauty of the city is matched by the grandeur of the city churches," Jane Wojtan said. "Beautiful works of art serve as a background for the main altar of each church."

Along the way to each town the couple visited, the scenery was "beautiful. We saw many farmers' fields with both men and women working the fields as they have for many years with hoes, shovels and horse-drawn plows. Mechanisation is in the distant future.

"While there are many shortages in Poland," Jane Wojtan said, "when you are on tour, as we were for part of the trip, the food is excellent and abundant."

The exhibition, which is open to the public, will continue through March 30 and can be viewed during normal city hall business hours: 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

a.m. to 5 p.m. The exhibition is sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission.

Cantata Gospel 'African Sanctus' to be performed Sunday

Cantata Academy, Detroit's world class chorale, will present the Midwest premiere of the "African Sanctus" by David Fanshawe 4 p.m. Sunday in the Community Arts auditorium of Wayne State University.

This unique multi-media work was inspired by African tribal and religious songs and dances recorded by the composer during his many journeys through Africa and Saudi Arabia. The tapes of African music are intertwined with the new compositions for chorus, instruments and soprano soloist.

Fanshawe's music uses both traditional "western" harmonies and 20th century dissonance for a very dramatic effect. The tape recordings are also very diverse in origin. They include the Bwala dance from Northern Uganda, an Arabian Immam chanting the Islamic Call to Pfayer (harmonized with the Fanshawe's Kyriel), a wedding dance recorded on the bank of the Nile, a mourning chant from the Sudan, Kenyan war drums, etc.

The African music is very accessible and pleasant to the Western ear. (As folk art, it is unfortunately disappearing rapidly, which is why Fanshawe wants to help preserve it by recordings.) He quotes and embellishes it in his writing, drawing from several diverse styles.

Fanshawe has "something for everyone" in the Sanctus; he employs oratorio-style and operatic choral outbursts, a soft-rock Our Father, an Fanshawe's music uses both traditional "western" harmonies and 20th century dissonance for a very dramatic effect.

eerie and dissonant Agnus Dei, and heavy metal guitars for a nastysounding Crucifixus.

The 50-voice Cantata conductor is Frederick Bellinger who will also lead percussion, piano, guitars and soprano vocalist, all very delicately choreographed with the provided recordings.

The work also includes a tour-deforce for soprano soloist, Julie Rose, of Redford. She will have to negotiate operatically high passages, weirdly dissonant Schoebergian melodies, and a pop rock number. Rose is becoming increasingly better known in the community, having most recently appeared with the Macomb Symphony in a major operatic concert. Cantata audiences may remember her from last spring's performance of the St. John Passion of Bach. Admission is $10 and tickets will be available at the door. Patron tickets, which include an afterglow at Your Heritage House and special reserved seating, are $25 and are available in advance. For more information, call 546-0420.

New tale on 'Peter Rabbit' author

UICK — what's the bestselling children's book of all time in the United States?

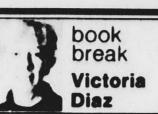

If you said Beatrix Potter's "The Tale of Peter Rabbit," you're a winner.

According to a recent Publishers Weekly survey, the nursery story, first published in 1902, has sold almost 9 million copies. It's almost twice as popular as its nearest competitor, "Pat the Bunny," a Golden Book by Dorothy Kunhardt, which first appeared in 1940 (obviously many of us are attracted to rabbit tales).

"Peter" has an interesting history. As far as is known, he — along with siblings Flopsy. Mopsy, and Cottontail — first appeared in an 1893 letter-story Potter wrote to a friend's sick child. Other story-letters followed through the years complete with Potter's naturalistic drawings — until her friend, noting her children's enthusiastic response to Potter's correspondence, encouraged the writer-illustrator to seek a publisher for her work.

Rejected by every publisher she had approached, Potter eventually published 250 copies of "The Tale of Peter Rabbit" on her own. Mainly due to the expense of reproducing color, the original 250 copies were illustrated only in black-wand-white.

THEN, IN 1902, THE aspiring author received a "nibble" from publishers Frederick Warne and Co. and, later that year, they brought out a first edition (with color illustrations) of 5,000 copies. In a letter to Potter discussing the terms of her contract, Frederick Warne voiced an essential concern of the London publishing firm: "Of course, we cannot tell whether the work is likely to run to a second edition."

He needn't have worried. Nine million copies and 88 years later, the bookstore or library is rare indeed that has no copy of "The Tale of Peter Rabbit" on its shelves, and just about all of us are familiar with Peter's harrowing trip to that cabbage patch (Warne, incidentally, is still the publisher.)

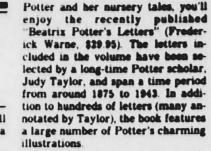

Born to rather wealthy, quintessentially Victorian parents in London in 1866, Potter's childhood days were apparently rather somber, except for those the family spent on annual holiday in Scotland and England's Lake District. There, the young Beatrix first became acquainted with country life, and began drawing her beloved "hedgerow animals" — many of which, even as an adult, she kept as pets, including a hedgehog she called "Mrs. Tiggy-Winkle," and a rabbit named Peter, who lived to be nine years old.

Before she died in 1943, Potter had written almost 40 tales, illustrating most of them herself. Although none approached the popular success of "The Tale of Peter Rabbit," almost all — such as "The Tale of Tom Kitten" (1907) and "The Tale of Squirrel Nutkin" (1903) — are still well-known and widely read today.

If you'd like to know more about

COMING TO BOOKSTORES next month: Linda Vartell's historical romance, "Caressa," brought out by New American Library. Avon published her previous four historicals, the latest of which is "Brittany."

Set in Florence during the Renaissance, "Caressa" focuses on the Pazzi conspiracy against Lorenzo and Giuliano de Medici. Leonardo da Vinci, Sandro Botticelli, and Andrea del Verrocchio make cameo appearances.

The Troy author is not only excited about the story, but the book's cover as well.

"(It's) a classy, tasteful cover - no skin," she says, "just pure ro-, mance. The cover alone will sell books, the artwork is so beautiful."

COMING UP WEDNESDAY, March 14 at the Rackham Amphitheatre in Ann Arbor: a reading by prize-winning writer, Tim. O'Brien, from his latest work, "The Things They Carried." Part of UM's Visiting Writers Series, the program begins at 4 p.m. Admission is free.

O'Brien received the National Book Award in 1979 for his novel, "Going After Cacciato," a powerful story centering on the horrors of the Vietnam War (O'Brien served as a foot soldier in Vietnam from 1969 to 1970.)

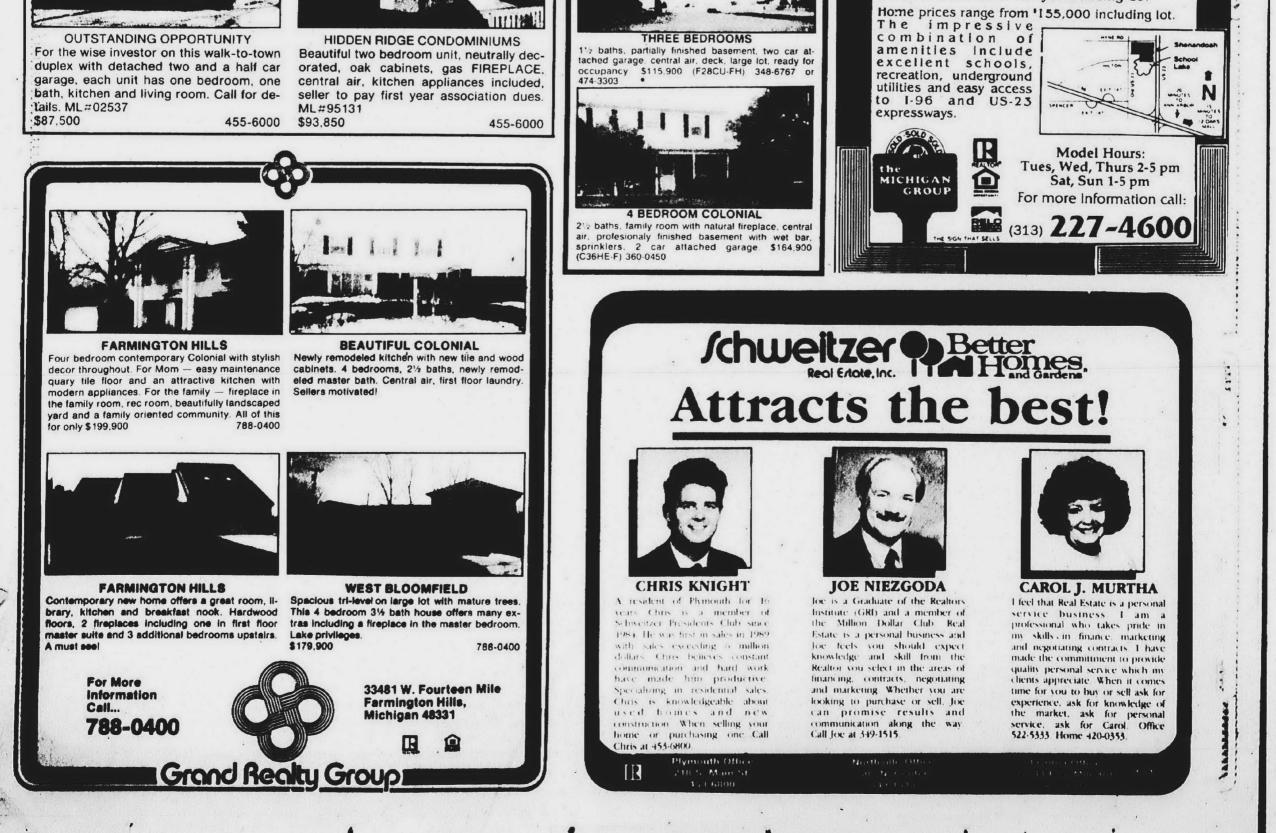

"The Things They Carried" deals with a soldier's personal aftermath of that war.

AT BORDERS BOOK Shop in the Novi Town Center, at noon Saturday, award-winning historian William Anderson, author of "The Little House Sampler" will sign copies of his book, a collection of the writing of Laura Ingalls Wilder and her daughter, Rose Wilder Lane.

Models are now open by three of the area's most exceptional builders: • Gordon Builders • Blackburn Builders • Gunyou Building Co.

Are food color additives risky?

Q. In recent meaths I've made it a point to read ingredient labels on food and commitic products. Of all the additives, I've been quite samplined to find so many color addi-tives. It's understandable in cosmetics, not clear to me why so much caloring is necessary in food products? What are the reasons? And even more important, is there anything I should be concerned about?

A. Color's only function is to make food attractive and appease the consumer's demand for greater clarity and uniformity of color in food products. For many, the inevitable depletion of color of processed foods or even food's natural colors are viewed with suspicion. Chocolate must appear a deep, rich brown if it is to be considered chocolate, just as oranges must be vibrantly orange to look as if they've just been picked from a tree.

Food processors and packagers rely on 33 different dyes and pigments - half of which are synthetic, to color food for the market. The Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health and Human Services is the federal agency that has jurisdiction over legal certification of food coloring.

Least disputed and generally regarded as safe are the mostly natural colorings such as beet juice to make lemonade pink, and ground Aztec marigold petals added to chicken feed to make the chickens' skins and egg yolks an appealing, warm yellow-orange.

The flash-point between the FDA and consumer advocacy groups, such as the Public Citizen Health Research Group, centers on defining what is to be considered an acceptable lifetime risk when ingesting color additives.

Challenges to the FDA fall back on the 1987 ruling by the U.S. Court of Appeals prohibiting the agency from approving a color additive found to induce cancer in animals regardless of how small the risk to humans.

Indeed, the lifetime risks are anywhere from one in nine million, or to one in 19 billion for ingesting various dyes. Some of these, such as D and C Orange No. 17, Red No. 8, and Red No. 9 have been taken off the market, while others have been provisionally listed for additional study.

Meanwhile, our sausage casings, cereals, cake mixes, ice cream, fruit cocktail cherries, and gelatines continue to be colored, with opposing claims as to their absolute safety.

You've touched upon an area that is complex, technical, aside from being ethical. If you want to pursue the matter any further, contact the office of Evelyn DeNike, Consumer Affairs Officer at FDA, 1560 East

Q. Some people might say I lack a sense of humor, but I find the black birthday decorations printed with the words: "over the hill," very offensive. It's meant to be funny, but to me it is yet another reminder, especially to those of us who are women, that we are less desirable because we've reached some milestone, like 30, or 40. Am I overreacting? I still think of myself as young and energetic at my dist birthday. A. The fact that you are reacting at all to these would-be-sophisticat-ed birthday decorations shows you are becoming aware of a deep seat-ed cultural attitude toward maintaining perpetual youthfulness that finds many avenues of expression While these decorations may attempt to be outwardly funny, they, at the same time, convey a deeply anxious message, reflecting fears of getting old.

Take beed from black's deeper symbolism: it was considered by the ancients as a source of energy, of life itself, and a true beginning. Disregard the subtle put-down

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you'are someone reading the classifieds. What-would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information

2. include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

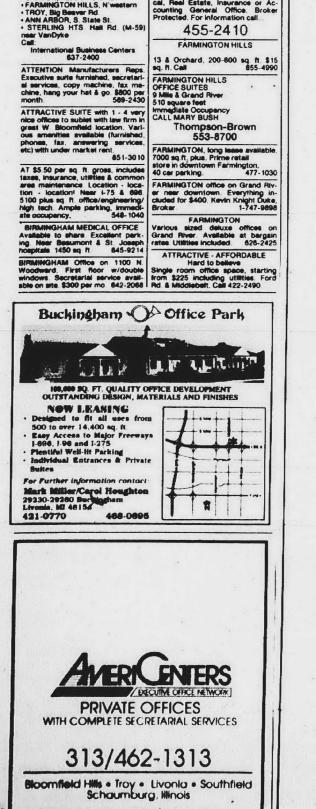

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them

Retirement communities becoming a trend

DOUG SUSALLA/staff photographer The Pendleton Club senior condominiums, located in Farmington Hills near Middlebelt and 11 Mile roads, eventually will have 41 ranch- style, one- and two-bedroom units. At right, an interior of the model.

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

There was a time when senior citizens and older adults of moderate means lived in older neighborhoods, trailer parks and retirement homes.

But today, there are more options. Adult communities - made up of condominiums, cooperatives and senior citizen apartments - may not be the rage yet, but some are predicting they will be.

Pendleton Club in Farmington Hills, developed by JMB Associates, trips.

is one of the most recently built adult community alternatives.

The project has been well-accepted and the developer will look for opportunities for similar projects, said Ian Anderson, JMB Associates executive vice president.

THERE ARE many older people whose children have left home who don't want to take care of a big house, he said.

A smaller condominium is easier to care for and offers older residents the opportunity to take extended

Reverse mortgage plan gives flexibility to seller

(AP) - For Margaret Gregory, 83, of San Diego, her monthly Social Security check wasn't enough to meet her expenses. Her savings account was being gobbled up to pay monthly bills. But after negotiating a reverse mortgage. Gregory now receives an additional $500 each month from the equity on her condominium.

According to Mature Outlook magazine, she has kept her independence and gained financial stability by using this newer type of mortgage plan.

amount owned at loan maturity when charged on monthly loan advances over the term of the loan.

KEEP IN mind that with a reverse mortgage the homeowner is actually borrowing money by reducing the available equity in the home, said Scholen. Consumers should consider reverse mortgages that have

'We haven't done a market study but we felt satisfied an awful lot of people are interested in this," he said

Thirteen of the 41 units in the condominiums have already been sold without the benefit of a model.

"For people to buy something from plans, that's pretty good," he said. "Everything has worked out better than even we expected. We will certainly consider building more we feel we've found a significant niche in the market,"he said.

THE IDEAL site for adult communities is difficult to find, he said. It has to be low-priced so residences can be affordable, in or near areas that appeal to older adults and large enough for builders to turn a profit.

"Our market is for older people who want to live in a senior environment but don't need medical or special care," he said.

trading equities - they don't need the bigger homes after their children have left, but they want something that is smaller, affordable and easy to maintain.

Farmington Hills' adult community ordinance restricts such communities to 62-year-old residents, he said. which has been the biggest problem.

'We've had a couple people ask if we could sneak them in.

BUT ADULT communities are hardly a new idea. The concept has been around for more than 20 years but few developers are willing to limit their potential customer base, said Diane Boegler of Colonial Acres Realty

Colonial Acres Realty handles the sales of units for several adult communities in western Oakland County and eastern Washtenaw County.

"There's actually a lot of need for something like this," Boegler said. Empty nesters - or mobile adults, as they are called today are quite taken with the idea of living in a community without young children.

"The comment made by most residents is they love their grandchildren but they don't want things associated with kids," Boegler said.

THE COMMUNITIES allow extended visits for grandparents who want to spent blocks of time with their grandchildren.

And leasing a cooperative saves a resident more than $10,000 on buying comparable living quarters, Boegler said.

Cooperatives are similar to condominiums but residents take out extended 99-year leases rather than buy the units, she said.

Leases can be transferred to others in the event of death or moving, she said.

Federal law permits restricting such communities for adults 55 and older as long as special facilities and activities are gauged to that age group, she said.

Blood pressure checks are offered in community clubhouses.

Adult communities are not for the ill or infirm, Boegler said.

We get calls and inquiries all the time from people thinking we're something we're not. At 55 years old, you have very active people," Boe-gler said. "It's a cliche but age is just a state of mind."

.....

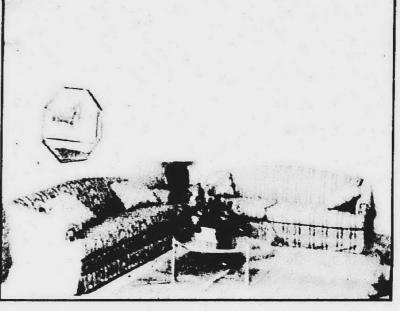

MORE BUILDERS will develop adult communities because the main reason they've been holding back a small market - is not a problem, Boegler said. With a rapidly aging population, the market for adult communities will swell.

First, however, businesses trying to address the older market must dispel the misunderstanding people have about adult communities, Boegler said.

"A lot of potential residents say they will take a look but they're not sure it's for them. Then they get here and see it's not a retirement community

J & J Slavik Inc., one of the Detroit-areas leading developers, has invested heavily in adult residential developments of a different sort.

"My savings kept diminishing, so I thought a reverse mortgage would make it possible for me to maintain my current lifestyle, remain in my home and enjoy life," said Gregory.

A reverse mortgage is a home loan that works in reverse because the money goes from the lender to the homeowner instead of the homeowner having to pay the lender each month.

That means the homeowner gets all or part of the equity out of the home in cash while the homeowner continues living there. The title and ownership of the home both are retained.

Payment can be a set amount each month or a line of credit. Most homeowners opt for monthly payments to supplement other retirement income.

THE LENDING institution that holds the reverse mortgage gets back the money paid to the homeowner - including principal, interest and other costs - when the house is sold. How much money the homeowner receives and how much the lender receives from the sale is established when the reverse mortgage is taken out.

That is where things get complicated and additional costs are incurred

Borrowers should carefully examine all the costs involved with a reverse mortgage before they close, cautioned Ken Scholen, director of the National Center for Home Equity Conversion.

Although the interest rate charged is the most visible cost to the borrower, it is not the only cost, Scholen said.

Costs can vary from lender to lender and include closing costs, origination fees, interest on loan advances and insurance fees for loan guarantees

In some plans, if the homeowner wants to receive a larger monthly payment, a percentage of the appreciation of the home is added to the cost when the loan is repaid.

Scholen advised people to get all loan costs combined into a single rate, the Total Annual Percentage Rate. The TAPR reflects the total the "equity conservation" feature.

Equity conservation allows the consumer to specify how much of the home value is to be mortgaged. This is critical when a financial plan depends on using the home equity for protection against any financial consequences of problems and changes down the road.

Consumers should insist the reverse mortgage be "nonrecourse." That means the homeowner can never owe more than the value of the home and the lender cannot seek repayment from other assets of the homeowner.

The amount of monthly payments is determined by several variables, including value of the home, the homeowner's age and marital status, the amount of future appreciation the owner is willing to share, interest rates and historical appreciation of real estate in the area, says William Texido, president of Providential Home Income Plan in California. Payments received from a reverse mortgage are not considered taxable income and do not affect Social Security or Medicare benefits.

"The biggest drawback about reverse mortgages is a lack of knowledge," said Scholen. "Most lawyers, bankers and financial planners have never seen this instrument. We are in the early stages of its development.'

This financial product is so new that many borrowers were unable to get this type of home loan.

"Until mid-1989, reverse mortgages were unavailable in many states and few financial people understood them," said Scholen.

BUT SINCE then the federal government has entered the market and three private companies are offering reverse mortgage programs, he explained.

The federal program began in July of last year. Called the Home Equity Conversion Mortgage Demonstration, the program is backed by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and offers loans through 50 approved lenders.

The program's strict guidelines could, however, prevent some homeowners from using the full amount of equity available in their homes.

For a listing of the 50 approved lenders and more information about the FHA program, call 1-800-245-2691.

I am a developer trying to develop a mobile home subdivision. The county has required that I pave the public road abutting my property as a prerequisite to approval of my preliminary plan for a mobile home park. The road commission indicated that the road on my preliminary plans is an ingress and egress road for the site and that I must pay for the paving of it or elect to initiate an improvement by way of a special asfuses to assume the cost of paving the access road. Can the road commission impose the cost of county road improvements on me as a local developer?

In a recent decision, the Michigan Court of Appeals held that the county does not have statutory authority to require improvement of an access road as a prerequisite for approval of a developer's preliminary plat

The court said that if the county is attempting to require improvement of such access road as a prerequisite for approval of the developer's preliminary plan, this is a taking of private property for which compensation is required if the county requires that it be taken as part of the roadway access.

The court said that the government may not use its police power to require a property owner to refrain indefinitely and without payment from using and enjoying his land

(AP) - If you own a second home in another state, for vacation or investment purposes, or if you're thinking about buying one, make cer-tain it's included in your estate planning, experts say.

When considering multiple-home ownership in your estate plan, it's important to understand the term 'domicile

Essentially, domicile is legalese for primary residence. While it is possible to have more than one residence, a person legally can have only one domicile at a time.

If it's not certain at the time an individual dies where his or her domicile is, the intent of the will could be subverted, the beirs may not receive the property rights intended by the decedent and the tax situation could be greatly complicated.

In fact, courts have held an individual's estate to be subject to double taxation under the estate laws of two states because each state considered the dead person to be domiciled there.

Consider an individual who has homes in Arizona, a community property state, and Minnesota, a common-law property state. The manner in which property is distributed at death is vastly different under each type of property system

So if the owner dies, and there is confusion as to where his or her domicile is, settlement of the estate can be complicated.

What constitutes a domicile may appear obvious at first. It isn't.

TRADITIONALLY, domicile has been defined as a place where a person establishes his or her permanent residence. But many states have laws that define domicile as a location where a person intends to establish his or her residence for the time being

In today's mobile society, it is not unusual for a person to have homes in several states, conduct business in a multi-state area, or move from one state to another beause of a change in health, employment, marital status or retirement. Therefore, the definition of domicile becomes blurred

Although most individuals live most of the year where they are domiciled, the residence does not necessarily determine domicile. Other factors that may be considered

• How long has the individual lived at the primary residence? • Where does he or she transact business?

LIBERTY PARK in Westland, which opened in August 1989, and Carriage Park in Canton Township, which will open in April 1990, are two more recent examples of senior citizen apartments.

J & J Slavik has had great success in the senior living developments, said Kay Snow, director of resident services at Carriage Park.

"We have a lot of faith in this market - if anyone gives you advice about where to invest your money, they tell you the senior market," Snow said.

SERVING THE needs of this country's aging population has been a booming business for the last several years and should continue to grow. Today's aging population is not the poverty stricken group it once was, Snow said.

"They have money and don't mind spending it if they're getting something for their money - they are a very intelligent group.

J & J Slavik adult apartment developments are different from condominiums and cooperatives.

MOST RESIDENTS are active seniors and so apartments are suited for independent living but services such as housekeeping, dinner, laundry - also are available.

"This is so people who need some level of service but are still largely independent, have an alternative to nursing homes," Snow said.

The apartment complexes also maintain a nurse on site and keep in close contact with area physicians.

Color is what's noticed first in a room, she said. You get an impression of color before you notice shape and form. Of course, color and form are closely related in terms of tradi-1100

'Victorian furnishings," she said, would look ridiculous in white."

Walch, a director of the Color Association of the United States, which forecasts color trends for the trade. is co-author with Augustine Hope of "The Color Compendium," (Van Nostrand Reinhold, $49.95). The book combines brief dictionary-style descriptions with extensive essays by international authorities on subjects such as color in decoration, architecture and fashion.

'Most people," Walch said, "are either trendies or traditionalists."

Those who are extremely receptive to new color ideas she calls trendies. In the 1980s, a trendy would have jumped into postmodernist colors or Miami Vice pastels or perhaps would have preferred high-tech black, white and red.

Traditionalists in the '$0s, she said, stayed within a Victorian or a Southwestern palette. They favored mauve and rose mixed with pink and traditional blue shades such as periwinkle, navy and sky blue.

To learn which type you are, look for clues in the mirror. Open your closet. Observe what type of objects you surround yourself with People often have erroneous ideas of their preference.

They may say they love traditional things," she said, "but they don't have any of the accouterments.

'I was brought up in a home in which color minimalism predomi-nated. My parents' idea of a good color scheme was white walls with perhaps one orange wall. So in a youthful protest, which she said is typical, she spent the first 10 years of her marriage in a multi-colored Victorian home.

"I had been told 'Don't move the ashtrays,' so in my home we had relaxed clutter and multicolor."

ULTIMATELY SHE returned to her color roots.

"I moved into a 600-square-foot space and painted it white." For those who say they can't find a particular hue, she advised patience. Colors move in cycles and

Favorite color schemes vary across regions

AP - There's a subtle variation in color favorites for home decorating. depending on which region of the country you live in, according to Du Pont.

Though the same colors are popular, hues vary with the natural landscape and quality of light in a particular area.

New England colors, for example, include cranberry red, deep summer green and deep, earthy browns.

The same colors in Midwest tones are persimmon red, khaki green and pumpkin.

The southern colors are lighter pearlescent ivory, honey yellow, moss green.

West coast colors are the most brilliant - hot yellow, turquoise, bright orange and spring green. In its annual home fashions color forecast, Du Pont is betting on warmer colors for 1991 - more yellows, deeper reds, browns and greens - and colors associated with American Indians and other tribal, ethnic influences.

eventually return to the marketplace

"A typical cycle lasts 10 years, a quick one lasts seven years, a long cycle is 15 years," she said, adding that in home furnishings, there are from two to five major cycles operating at any one time.

Writing a comprehensive book on color took nearly seven years because of the extensive research required in this interdisciplinary field with input from science, technology and cultural fields

To Walch, one of the most important points about color is its pervasiveness - making color choices every day is unavoidable.

Though the choices may seem personal or random, they are usually determined by cultural experience. For example, most Americans and Europeans select blue as their favorite color. In Japan, white is pre-

Color can also influence behavior For example, she said, it's known that "color is a distraction in the workplace, so you want to remove it, but not to the extent that you create glare or put people to sleep.

Walls need proper treatment prior to painting

(AP) - Proper preparation does more to make a paint job come out right than any other single factor including the paint.

Blemishes you hardly notice on a dingy wall stick out like sore thumbs under a neatly applied new coat of paint. Prepping walls and ceilings can take a lot of time and effort, but efficient planning makes the job easier and the results even better.

Begin by having everything you'll need at hand before digging in. Helpful tools include a punch-type beer can opener, two-inch putty knife and-or pull scraper, four-inch taping knife, screwdrivers and a ladder.

Helpful supplies include joint compound or other filler compound, wood filler, 60-80-grit silicon carbide sandpaper and 120-grit abrasive, wall-washing detergent, pigmented shellac to seal water stains, plastic sandwich bags and paper and pencil (to store and label any hardware you might remove), masking tape, drop cloths and newspapers.

Before you can fill a crack in a plaster wall, you must first make it larger.

SCRAPE OUT all the loose bits and enlarge the crack with the pointed end of the beer can opener. Undercut the edges to help keep the joint compound in place when it dries

Clean the crevice, then moisten the prepared crack. Work joint compound into the opening, filling it from top to bottom. Add a second layer of compound, if needed, after the first layer is dry and sand out any rough spots with 60-80-grit silicon carbide abrasive paper on a block

Feather the final layer of compound into the wall and sand it later

To patch a hole in plaster, first brush away any loose plaster. If the lath isn't showing, moisten the hole and cover it with several 14-inch thick coats of joint compound using a putty or taping knife. Between layers, let the compound dry and sand.

For larger holes where lath is showing, undercut the edges of the hole. Dampen the lath and plaster the edges with water. Use a fourinch taping knife to apply patching compound firmly into the hole.

MAKE SURE some squeezes through between the lath strips and some keys on the undercut edges of the hole. Fill the hole in front of the lath about one-quarter-inch deep.

Score one-eighth-inch grooves in a criss-cross pattern to ensure adhesion of the next coat. When the first coat is dry, moisten the area with water and apply a second layer of patching plaster feathered into the adjacent wall surface. Sand and smooth when dry.

Patching a hole in drywall where there is no lath or other backing to support the patch requires that you build a backing. For a doorknob-size hole, cut away the damaged area with a keyhole saw. Cut a piece of cardboard larger than the hole, yet small enough to fit through it diagonally.

Punch a hole in the center of the cardboard with a finishing nail. Then pass a five-inch length of string knotted at one end through the cardboard. Apply glue to the front sur-face around the perimeter of the cardboard patch.

PASS THE patch through the hole and pull the string taut to pull the cardboard tight against the drywall while the adhesive sets. Then cut the string, moisten the edges and patch with joint compound and taping knife.

To fill a larger hole, cut a rectangular hole to expose enough of the studs on either side of the damaged area so you can nail in a matching drywall patch.

Nail it in place with plasterboard nails and make a slight dimple around the nail head with the hammer. Fill the dimples and crevice around the patch with joint compound Sand smooth when dry

As a final check for wall smoothness, slip an old stocking over your hand and run it lightly across the sanded areas. Where the hose snags, sand again to remove roughness that will show through the paint.

Clean all surfaces with a vacuum for better paint adhesion. Wash ceilings with a powdered cleaning detergent, and wash the walls from the top down.

Prime unpainted surfaces before applying two finishing coats for a super paint job.
