Manager search still going

And so continues the search for a new Plymouth city manager. On Friday, city officials took former Battle Creek city manager Gordon Jaeger on a tour of the city. Jaeger, currently working in economic development for the Kellogg Corp., is one of three potential candidates not interviewed earlier who have told city officials they're interested in

"And then (consultant Rod) Bartell is reviewing a number of candidates, trying to narrow it down from the previous list," said Mayor Dennis Bila.

That list included the three outside finalists who turned down the Plymouth job last month.

City commissioners say they want to get the search wrapped up. but added it could take as long as two months to hire a city manager.

"If we panicked because of the pressure put on us, we'd be subject to a great deal more criticism," Bila said.

Chamber lunch

Auditor offers plan to wipe city deficit

staff writer

Plymouth officials "have an excellent chance" of eliminating the city's budget deficit by the end of the fiscal year in June, an auditing firm reported Thursday.

The auditor, Kenneth Kunkel of Plante & Moran, urged officials to create a budget surplus of 5 to 10 percent of revenues between $300,000 and $600,000.

'Without working capital of these amounts, the general fund will not be able to absorb unexpected events such as the recent legal settlement (Talbot suit) and the increased refuse costs," he reported.

After reviewing city department budgets and delaying some equipment purchases, the deficit now stands at $115,000.

The deficit can be eliminated, "if savings of $50,000 can be obtained from alternative employee hospitalization financing and if the state of Michigan gives your building authority the requested permission to transfer the Fleet Street construction surplus to the department of

Kunkel also suggested user fees, which "have been shown to increase revenues in a fair manner by relating them to costs."

Implementing user fees to deal with rising trash dumping rates and other suggestions by Kunkel mirrors suggestions to city commissioners made by city Finance Director William Graham earlier this month.

"Because of the legal (Headlee amendment) rollback of millage, the city's revenue is limited principally to inflation," Kunkel said

Chimney sweep keeps busy as spring nears

By Kevin Brown staff writer

With spring coming, house owners think more about screens and yard work than having a fireplace or chimney tended to. But raccoons and other small animals get into chimneys in spring. And that creates some extra business for Ray Gilreath of Plymouth-Township, owner of High Hat Chimney Sweep.

"I have to chase the mother (raccoon) out of the chimney," Gilreath said. "Then I set the babies in the box the cap comes in, and set it next to the chimney.

'She comes along and takes them, and usually goes on to the next chimney," he said.

WHILE GILREATH gets fewer calls to clean chimneys in the spring, he does get calls to install rain caps with an animal guard a metal screen bolted to the clay flue or chimney liner.

Besides raccoons and squirrels,

"birds are real common in a chimney," he said.

They're often found dead. "When it's cold, you'll see them sitting on a chimney. They pass out from the exhaust, they fall down and die in there."

Squirrels also die in chimneys, be said, as they're smaller than raccoons and can't climb back out. Sometimes, animals that fall in a chimney end up inside the house. Gilreath recalls the story of the woman in Redford.

"She had a raccoon sitting on her kitchen table when she came down to breakfast," he said.

CHIMNEYS SHOULD be cleaned once a year, Gilreath said, to prevent buildup of creceote, which can smoulder when the fireplace is being used and cause a chimney fire.

Spring is also a good time for homeowners to have chimneys examined for masonry cracks, repairs Gilreath has a state license to per-

Gilreath started his chimney sweep business in Redford, and moved to Plymouth Township more than a year ago.

Most chimney cleanings are conducted from inside the house, he said. Gilreath - who sports the traditional sweep's top hat in the photo on his state license — uses a Chim-Scan video camera to examine chimneys thoroughly.

HIS FUNNIEST story concerning animals in a chimney involved no animal at all, he said.

"I found a rubber snake in the chimney, it was right on the smoke shelf (above the fire box area)," he

After feeling the snake, Gilreath hurried out of the chimney, donned some thick leather gloves, went back in and grabbed it.

"I threw it out on the lawn. A little boy next door started laughing, he said he threw the rubber snake in the chimney."

Plymouth man arrested in drug raid 'truly sorry'

By Darrell Clem staff writer

A Plymouth man, arrested in a Southfield marijuana raid that resulted in his indefinite suspension from work as a teacher in West Bloomfield, admitted Friday he made "a stupid mistake."

"I'm truly sorry to have embar-rassed the school," James Spinelle, a veteran West Bloomfield High School history teacher, said during a telephone conversation from his home. "This certainly was not the fault of my school district." Schools Superintendent Seymour Gretchko couldn't have agreed more. calling it "hypocrisy" that a sup-posed "anti-drugs advocate turned

Spinelle, 47, and two Southfield men were arrested Thursday after federal agents raided a house at 24898 Farmbrook, in the city's northwest corner, and seized 388 marijuana plants being grown under special lights in the basement.

THE THREE MEN, released from custody, are expected to be indicted within 30 days on charges they cultivated and grew more than 100 marijuana plants, according to the Drug Enforcement Agency office in De-troit. The charge, a federal offense, carries a mandatory penalty on con-viction of at least five years in prison, according to the DEA office.

Spinelle confirmed that he has used marijuana, but not other drugs. "I don't even take aspirin. I don't even use alcohol."

Southfield men were frien only planned to use the drug themselves. He also flatly denied he has ever given marijuana to students. "Oh, God no," he said. News of Spinelle's arrest shocked

West Bloomfield students, said Erin Einhorn, editorial editor of the school newspaper, The Spectrum. "Here we are fighting the pushers and users, and we find out a teacher is using marijuana," she said.

The students really love him a lot," Einhorn said of Spinelle, called 'Doc" by some. "Some of them were walking down the halls shouting, 'Free Doc. Free Doc.' "

The marijuana plants, which DEA spokesman Bill Ward said were up to 10 inches tall, were seized by DEA officials and the Michigan State Police. The crop could have been worth as much as $250,000, depending on annual harvest and quality, Ward Spinelle disputed that figure, saying he had been told by DEA officials that the crop was worth no more than $1,000. He also said that "every plant that they counted was just an inch tall."

The Thursday afternoon raid stemmed from a long-term investi-gation, Ward said, though he refused to discuss the investigation or how federal officials linked Spinelle to the Southfield pair.

In other developments, Gretchko said he hopes to meet with Spinelle today "to find out what the facts are.

Gretchko said teachers convicted of felonies may be fired under the current contract, though he said misdemeanor charges also may result in dismissal "depending on the nature" of the charges.

GRETCHKO VOICED concerns that the incident will "raise some doubts" among students "in terms of the credibility" of a school district that espouses an anti-drugs message only to have a teacher apparently caught using marijuana.

"It came as a great shock. I'm very disappointed," he said. "It's unfor tunate for the young people."

Gretchko said Spinelle has been a

At that time, he was an avid skier who instructed on weekends at the Timberian Ski Lodge near Cadillac. Spinelle also has traveled to such places as South America, where he conducted research while on subbatical from the school district.

NO REPORTS of measles have been reported this year in the Plymouth-Canton School District, according to a school nurse.

"Last year and this year there have been some calls from mothers asking if they're children should be immunized," she said.

And some Plymouth and Canton residents are visiting their doctors to get a measles vaccine just in case.

In the past couple of weeks parents have been calling in greater numbers questioning whether their children have been immunized, said Jonni Stojeba of Dr. Evans John Farres' Canton office.

About 50 percent of the calls result in a vaccine recommendation, she said.

"There has been a 300 percent increase in measles nationwide and 65 percent of all cases to date have received the vaccine," Farres said. "Young infants and adults have more severe symptoms."

The coin roll con man struck again in Livonia Thursday, but this time he went right to the source and tricked a Michigan National Bank branch out of $177.

Livonia Police are investigating whether the latest con job is connected to several earlier incidents in the city.

In each case, a man approached an area business and exchanged rolls of "dimes" for paper currency.

The problem is the merchants found that the rolls actually were filled with pennies, with dimes on each end.

The con also has been pulled off in the past against businesses in Redford Township and more recently in Farmington Hills. Four Livonia businesses fell victim to the scheme in February, and two of them were taken for a com-

Alert employees at the other two stores refused to make the exchange and instead called police, although the man escaped in each case before officers arrived.

THE LATEST case occurred during the lunchtime rush at the bank. According to reports, a man approached the counter and handed a teller a canvas bag supposedly containing 35 rolls of dimes.

The man identified himself as an employee of a party store in Detroit, and provided what he claimed to be an account number for the party

The teller then agreed to make the transaction, and the man left in an unknown direction.

An hour later, a teller checked the rolls and found them to be bogus.

A bank employee described the suspect as black, about 6 feet tall and weighing 210 pounds. He was dressed all in black and wore a black baseball cap with the word "PAR-TY" printed in white.

IN THE February incidents, a black man of similar height and weight identified himself as employee of a video rental store when persuading clerks to accept the coin rolls for paper currencies.

An Amoco gas station attendant was tricked out of $95 on Feb. 18, and three businesses on Eight Mile and Farmington were targeted Feb.

The man struck out in his attempts to work his con on employees at Papa Romano's Little Bambino and the Subway restaurant. On his third attempt at the Blockbuster Video store, the man changed his story and claimed to be an employee of another nearby business. The con worked and the man walked off with $75, leaving behind a handful of fake dime rolls.

The suspect in every instance has been described as very calm and professional while making the bogus

LIVONIA POLICE Lt. Michael Murray described this type of crime very old and very popular

This is not the first time Livonia businesses have been targeted by someone using the theft-by-trickery

In fall 1988, a "dime bandit" operated in Livonia and surrounding communities for a number of months.

Burger Center, Wayne County's beleagured school for autistic chil-dren, received a boost Thursday from a nationally recognized expert

"I was really impressed by what I saw at Burger Center, I don't think shutting it is the answer," said Temple Grandin, a Colorado-based researcher and author, in an appearance of the same of the sam ance before Burger Center parents haps duty and the open most act. The relaction committee siding closed meetings. The se-m committee does not report to semanisties as a whole but acts pendently. The selection com-se includes Mr. Jones, who is no longer a commissioner and cannot be held accountable as an elected ofhe held accountable as an esecute or-ficial. He should be replaced with a current commissioner. Misrepresen-titions have been made to the public at meetings thus violating the spirit and intent of the open meetings act.

We need a new city manager. The lection committee hired Bartell & selection committee hired Bartell & Bartell. Eighty some candidates were whittled down to the final four and given a public interview. People were led to believe that the new city manager would come from this

At the February meeting, Com-issioner Kenyon stated that we could not go wrong with any of the final four candidates because they all were well qualified. All lauded Mr. Graham's efforts to date as well as Commissioner Vos publicly moving for a special thanks. It was felt that the city needed new blood and direction. Inferring he was their first choice, the commission selected Mr.

The March 12 meeting revealed a totally different picture. Mr. Byrne was not their first choice but third. Candidates one and two had declined the position. Mr. Graham, even though in the final four, was not to be seriously considered. He was simply a political bone thrown out by the selection committee to appears some of the public. The bone was thrown back in their face when candidnes one through three declined.

Mr. Graham no longer was lauded but debased and stripped of the acting city manager position.

Now we are faced with a further selection process and added expense. This will simply permit further abuse of the process that the com-missioners claimed to hold so dear. Where do we go from here?

We are not children who need to be patronized. Perhaps it is time to recall those who do not listen and are inept, negligent and deceptive. It is time for them to recall who elected them in the first place.

State politicians do nothing on issues

I recognize that many of the tax proposals put forth by committees or individuals may appear to be naive or simple; but they can't be worse than what our paid profession-als are doing — nothing. Yes, it's our fault for electing them, we didn't realize they don't know what they are doing. Now we are faced with governing ourselves by proposals filling the ballot. Each issue must now be decided as we vote. I then ask you, what do we pay those people in

By the way I hope those people who voted for the millage increase in Plymouth/Canton are happy with their new tax bills.

Article on home builders was big help

To the editor:

I read with a great deal of interest the Real Estate Section's article by Doug Funke, "Recapping Complaint Process" (Feb. 26) regarding steps to rectify complaints against a builder.

The article states that "notice of a complaint often is all that's required to nudge a builder to action." After going through two and a half years of "nudging" with a complaint against a builder, I am, quite frankly, shocked to see that there was a sibility of a "settlement conference," a "compliance conference" or even a "formal hearing" and "fines and restitution orders from the state Residential Builders and Maintenance and Alteration Contractors Board.

Our caseworker at Licensing and Regulation never mentioned these options to myself or my husband. We followed every step through.

We literally fought every step of the way to have this builder rectify too numerous to mention problems. Had we one inclination that further steps would have accelerated the process, we certainly would have at the very least considered them.

We still have unmatched faucets in our main bathroom and the builders cement workers left a drainage tube under our front landscaping in. such a state that when it rains, the ground cover washes away and a hole is left in the ground, and Licensing and Regulation sent us a letter in December stating that they closed

After our experience, we are of the firm belief that the builder, or the selling agent, should be required to inform the buyer of the option of an independent inspection, all manufacturers of building materials, trades people and their companies should be acknowledged and most importantly, all forms of recourse should be stated at the closing.

We also maintain that the state's Licensing and Regulation personnel should react more expediently and with intensity in a timely manner, when it comes to dealing with the builders in this state.

We are pleased to see that the general public is being made aware of all available means of recourse in settling disputes with a bad builder.

Hopefully, every consumer in the process of building a house will have clipped Funke's article out of your paper. If they haven't, they should ask for a copy. He has done the buying public a much needed service.

Time to look at spending in Canton

I am writing in the matter of nances within Canton Township. which matter I believe to be the direct responsibility of our Canton Township officials, namely Supervisor Thomas Yack, clerk Loren Ben nett, treasurer Gerald Brown and trustees Phillip LaJoy, Elaine Kir-chgatter, John Preniczky and Robert Shefferty.

We property owners have just been again hit with another whop-ping big increase in assessment. My home, which was assessed at $19,260 when purchased in 1973, is now as-sessed at $51,600, which supposedly is one-half its fair market value.

This is an increase of 26 percent in value for tax purposes. Same house, same location, and we are receiving the same services from the local government, except the building is 18 years older and requiring increased maintenance and/or repairing, which maintenance and repairs go unattended. Why?

Because the funding which should be allocated to upkeep of an aging structure is being appropriated by increasing taxes that result from an ever-increasing assessment. This lat-est increase was plus-9 percent 1990

Quite frankly, in my opinion, living in Canton Township does not warrant these kinds of taxes.

EVER-INCREASING PROPER-TY assessments are a real concern to many older homeowners within the township.

We are not in the business of buying and selling our homes for profit; therefore, fair market value determined by current real estate selling prices of similar property is a fictitious barometer. This system insults all common sense reasoning.

These ever-increasing property assessments and the resultant increases in property taxes are particularly hazardous to persons who live on a fixed income - the elderly, retirees, longtime residents who should be the backbone of a community are being forced into the position of considering to sell out and find someplace where property values are bet-ter stabilized and taxes are lower.

How sad to have to be confronted with being uprooted in one's "golden years" when familiar surroundings, home and family are so vital to the

I UNDERSTAND Canton Township is a growing community; how-ever, 60,000 population is not that big (in my opinion) as to warrant the governmental dynasty that is being proposed for this area. To wit:

a) The Rob Bartell Consulting Pirm has been paid $45,000 for the reorganization ideas that call for five new positions, as well as promo-tions and job reclassifications "in the hope to achieve a more efficient and timely delivery of service in almost every area" "reflecting a more professional approach to municipal ser-

All this costing the township taxpayers $200,000 annually.

b) Four new positions were added as the result of the study: 1) administrative assistant to the supervisor; 2) management information systems coordinator, who handles township computers; 3) administrative services director, in charge of personnel, financial services, computer services, grant research and grounds maintenance; 4) municipal services director, in charge of building, engineering and planning.

There is no question that each position upgraded and/or added to the township government body makes for smoother operation; after all, many hands make light work. However, is this absolutely necessary? And more importantly, can we af-

IT WOULD appear to this writer that the responsible people at town-ship hall are losing sight of the prithese being to provide police and fire protection for the safety of persons and property, and to provide ana-tary services for the health and safe-ty of the residents.

In 1968 voters approved a 1-mill levy for special education WCIS and a 1-mill levy for the building of additional Wayne County jail facilities. In 1989 an additional 4 mills were approved by the voters for the Plymouth-Canton Schools.

NOW WE read about all these 'progressive' happenings taking place at township hall, as well as what is being proposed to happen.

And immediately thereafter the mailman brings to our door the notice of property assessment raising the assessed value of our home plus-9 percent for 1990 over 1989; this on top of the 14-16-percent increase 1989 over 1988; on top of the 14-16percent increase 1988 over 1987 as-

The net result of this is that my 1990 property assessment is 150 percent of my 1986 property assessment. Net increase in assessed value of my home from 1973-90 is plus-268 percent, with a resultant increase in annual taxes 1973-90 of plus-340 percent dollarwise.

MAYBE IT is time for the officials at township hall to take a closer look at what would be nice to have vs. what can be really afforded without raising additional revenues at the expense of the already overburdened property owner.

What's hot or hottest in peppers

Just how hot is hot? In addition to finding new ways for making our ice cream fat free, chemists and food manufacturers are asking themselves that question while they debate the relative merits of how to measure the heat of a pepper

The hot pepper has both tantalized and torched palates for thousands of years. But it was not until 1912 that a scientist named W.L. Scoville came up with a systematic method for measuring the heat in a hot pepper.

Under this method, a dried pepper is dissolved in alcohol, diluted with sugar water and then given to a panel of tasters who, sipping increasingly diluted concentrations of pepper extract out of shot glasses, are asked to determine the exact point at which it no longer burns the mouth.

The botter the pepper, the more water required, and the higher the score on the Scoville scale.

For example, a jalapeno pepper has a Scoville rating of 1,500-4,500, according to a major Southern California spice manufacturer

A bottle of Tabasco comes in with a rating of 4,500 while the hottest known pepper to mankind, the habanero, has a whopping Scoville rating of 150,000.

Ah, but scientists are now being questioned by, of all people, computers who have developed new technology that measures a pepr's capsaicin (pronounced cap-SAY-iss-in), an organic compound that gives peppers their heat. Su-posedly, the capsaicin is a power-ful chemical that irritates certain nerves in the nose and mouth.

NEEDLESS TO SAY, this debate has intensified as the hot pepper has become more common in the United States.

What begins to complicate matters here is that certain peppers have Scoville scales and dramatically from plant to plant depending on the area in which it was grown, the climate and, most importantly, the rainfall. Sounds to me like these scientists and computers wizards can't even find a common ground between peppers, let alone their heat rat-

Not to be outdone, of course, are the psychologists who also are sticking their tongues in the fire with reports of a theory that supposedly proves people who eat hot peppers practice a behavior of "benign masochism," in which some people have a particular fondness for pain and other negative sensations when they realize these sensations are not harmful. My, how Freudian.

People know when they bite into a chili pepper that it could make their mouth fall off. But they like pushing their limits. Some people actually like having their eyes tear and their noses run," says Dr. Paul Rozin, a profeesor of psychology at the University of Pennsylvania.

There is still another theory that the hot pepper, like other painful stimuli, triggers the release of endorphins, powerful chemicals that elicit feelings of well-being.

I'M SETTING the record straight right now, folks. Yours truly would rather bite into a crisp red delicious apple than have to prove my virility with a pepper. Experts do agree on one thing. Water will not cool the mouth after biting into an excruciatingly hot pepper. Not surprisingly, cold things work the best, especially alcoholic drinks and dairy products that contain lactic acid. I just knew there was a reason why I love Margaritas! But for the testotalers and lac-toes intolerants in our midst, nevor fear because the same authori-ties say that bread, corn, tortillas and rice also will do the trick.

My suggestion: Go with what-ever seether you. The thing to re-member is the pain will eventual-

Celebrating St. Joseph's Day

Meatless dishes part of tradition

By Geri Rinechler special writer

MERICA LOVES holidays and celebrations. Just stroll through any card or candy shop during Valentine's Day, or Halloween - that is, if you can make your way through the aisles - and take note.

The cards, decorations and edible goodies become more plentiful and more elaborate each year. Commercially, American holidays are a huge success. But what about the family traditions and lore of family holidays? Is any of it being preserved or restored?

According to Peter Pellerito of Plymouth, there is one Italian celebration observed by some 400,000 Detroit-area Italian-Americans. It's St. Joseph's Day on March 19.

If you ask Italian-Americans across the country about the festivities or traditional foods of St. Joseph's Day, most of them will not remember the day with much significance, since it's celebrated primarily by Southern Italians and

As a second-generation Italian raised in the Detroit area, Pellerito has participated in many St. Joseph's Day celebration at the Holy Family

"Until the mid-50s the Holy Family Church (in Detroit) was the center of the old Italian district. Then, the urban renewal programs broke up the old neighborhood" Pellerito said.

OLDEST OF six kids, Pellerito started cooking at the age of 13, He continues to love cooking. Now, as a husband and father of Billie, 4, and Sam, 7, Pellerito is committed to good cooking and carrying on the family holiday's tradi-

According to cookbook author Helen Barolini, "Festa, the Italian word for feast and holiday, perfectly expresses the special relationship between food and celebrations." In her recently published paperback, "Festa" - recipes and recollections of Italian holidays (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Publishers) - she takes the reader through a calendar of Southern Italian holidays, with recipe collections and enchanted stories.

In the chapter on St. Joseph's Day, Barolini mentions there is a revival of the Sicilian custom known as preparing a St. Joseph's table. She explains that tables are sponsored by parishioners, and covered with feast-day specialties such as pizza rustica (a ricotta-cheese meat pie) onion tarts, oranges, marmalades, zeppoles, deep-fried pastries, biscotti, cannoli, rice fritters and more. After viewing, the foods are auctioned off, and proceeds go to charity.

As Pellerito recalls, the celebration at the Holy Family Church always included a meatless feast, prepared by parishioners and given to needy orphans, widows and beggars. "In the small villages throughout Southern Italy, everyone contributes what they can to this festival,"

A pageant also was an important part of the day as parishioners re-enacted St. Joseph and Mary looking for a place to stay for the birth to the Christ child, Pellerito said. Since the holiday always occurs during the Lenten season, dishes served never include meat.

DINNER AT THE Pellerito bome usually begins with relishes, olives and raw vegetables served with a simple olive oil vinaigrette. Traditional dishes include a vegetable frittata, pasta with a tomato-bean sauce and crusty bread.

An Italian restaurant with distinction

With the recent proliferation of Italian restaurants, it's refreshing to find one that stands out distinctively in both atmosphere and menu. We refer to Cafe Cortina in Farmington Hills which is characterised by a very formal, elegant setting. Dining here means being served distinctively separate courses by a waiter in a tuxedo. Dinner guests also dress for the occasion and conversations are quiet and reserved. Some patrons call a couple weeks in advance to reserve seating by the lovely fireplace. Tables have white tablecloths and candles. The aroma of fresh Parmesan cheese wafts throughout the room.

The menu is almost entirely in Italian. If you study it long enough, the English clues under the main courses will tip you off to the entire-ly Italian listing of appetisors — or you can ask the waiter for assistance. Ours was prepared to read and explain each item. The meau is part of Cafe Cortina's charm — but it also can be disconcerting at first. Still, once you've tasted the exquisitely fresh, memade dishes, you'll be hooked.

EVERYTHING IS made from scratch here, from the bread and breadsticks to the pastas and sauces. We tried not to fill up on the bread, which is a little heavier than Italian bread from a bakery, but it was hard to resist. The owners, Adriano and Rina Tonon, insist on freshness. They even butcher their own weal rather than buy it fromm. The only freezer they own is fer ice cream.

The veal dishes are exquisite. We thoroughly enjoyed a rolled veal entree staffed with seasoned broccolitips and finished with a delicate wild

Her answer was thin: "If you keep believing, keep striving, you can be whatever you want to be."

THAT SAME thought kept this week's Winner Dinner Winner going. Sally Adamson of Orchard Lake went to school for seven years, first earning a degree from the Universi-ty of Michigan and then a law degree from the University of Detroit.

Now in her own practice, specializing in juvenile criminal defense, this mother of two grown sons took a minute out of her busy schedule to share a dinner she fed to her family at least 100 times while she was going through law school.

BECAUSE SHE had so little extra time when she was in school, Adamson would spend her Sundays preparing and freezing a week's worth of meals at a time as well as doing the family's laundry.

One dinner that was and still is a family favorite is a recipe for chicken breasts that have been marinated

Quick and easy to prepare, and served with Spanish Rice-a-Roni, a fresh fruit salad and a yummy chocolate sauce that goes over vanilla ice cream, this dinner is sure to become a favorite at your house as well.

TODAY, ADAMSON is happy in the knowledge that she has achieved the goals she set for herself many

She believes she can make a difference in the lives of the teenagers she deals with, and works very hard at doing the best job she can to help

As a way of encouraging them to accept responsibility, she insists they, not their parents, pay her fees.

Possessing an ability to relate to these teens, Adamson feels a strong sense of responsibility to pass on to these young people the idea that one mistake does not always ruin one's life and that by setting goals and working hard, dreams can be achieved.

Vegetables can be powerful aphrodisiacs

Everyone has heard of aphrodisiacs. But modern-day people tend to expect an aphrodisiac to be made of rare and exotic ingredients: spider webs, rhinoceros horns or Chinese

They are often surprised and disbelieving when you suggest everyday vegetables such as peas, carrots stimulating passion. and onions might make lust-provoking dishes.

Primitive man lived closer to the soil and recognized the magic that exists in the vegetable kingdom. Often, vegetables were used in fertility rites. In fact, they still are today in most wedding rituals.

In many European countries, peas are thrown into the lap of the bride to encourage the conception of many children. In China, melons are given to the newlyweds in the hope of an early pregnancy. Here in America, rice or other seeds are thrown at the bride and groom to represent the hope of fertility.

Some vegetables owe their reputation as aphrodisiacs to their phallic shapes. Carrots, cucumbers, corn on the cob and asparagus are all examples of these. But almost all vegetables are believed to be helpful in Tomatoes have long been called "love apples." Onions have been reputed to increase the production of sperm. Cabbage, beans, fennel, chicorv. beets, brussel sprouts, okra and celery all have been said to work wonders when properly prepared and served to the one you desire.

THERE MAY BE more to this than first meets the eye. All the essentials of a balanced diet are present in vegetables: proteins, fat and carbohydrates, as well as all the necessary vitamins and minerals needed for a healthy life. Healthy people feel better and are more apt to enjoy frequent love-

I once devoted a whole month's column to the wonders of the potato. Nothing can put a man in the mood for love quicker than a plate of real mashed potatoes. If you want to reach his heart through his stomach, forget about potato buds, or potato flakes, or anything else that comes out of box.

Peel, boil and mash some real potatoes. Smother them with cream and butter (or non-dairy creamer and margarine). Sprinkle them lightly with salt and pepper, and watch the look of contentment spread over his face as he eats them.

And after dinner, he will want to show his affection to the cook.

Nothing is more stimulating to love then eating artichokes together. Not artichoke hearts, or artichoke hottoms that come out of a can. I mean beautiful, whole artichokes. Tearing off tender leaves and dipping them into a dish of melted but-ter or hollandaise sauce that the two of you share, sucking out the sweet meat of the artichoke by squeezing it between your teeth and licking the butter off your fingers certainly sets the right mood.

IF YOU DON'T know how to cook, serve and oat a fresh artichoke, call me - and I'll explain it in detail. If enough people are interested, per-

Here are a few ideas for serving red radishes in ways you may like to try. Next time you make beef stew, add radishes and celery with your potatoes, carrots and onions. It's a great taste, and looks pretty, too.

There are good things to say about red meat

Put is beef really all that had for us? If we choose the right cuts, propers it properly and eat it in mederation, meet can actually be a healthy feed. It's a good source of many essential natrients such as grotein, some B-vitamins, sinc and iyu. Eine and irun are both believed to be deficient in many diets, especially in those of women who are watching their weight.

What's needed to reduce the risk of heart disease and to reduce cholesterol levels is cutting down on fat of heart disease and to reduce cho-lesterol levels is cutting down on fat intake in our diets and decreasing the amount of all animal products we est, including all types of meat, eggs, whole milk, choose and butter.

Beef does have more fat than veg-intables or fruits, but this is true of most protein-rich foods. The trick is to balance beef with other foods that are low in fat such as fruits and vegetables, grains, beans, potatotes and pasta. Cook up a pot of hearty, Old-Pashioned Beef Soup that is delicious and includes meat but excludes

IT'S ALSO IMPORTANT to know what kind of meat to select - lean portions with less fat. The leanest cuts of beef include veal, top sirloin and strip, club and round steaks. Serve up Steak Champignon with a baked potato and tossed green salad for a truly satisfying way to meet your daily nutrition requirements. ARTHRITIS OF THE BACK Arthritis of the back is not the same as arthritis of the

In the joints, arthritis means that cartilage is breaking

In the joints, arthritis means that cartilage is breaking down and/or the cells of the joint lining are inflammed. In the back, arthritis promps a different response: overgrowth of bone at the site of irritation.

In the joints, arthritis causes impaired function. The roughing of cartilage results in a loss of smooth gliding of bone over bone; the presence of extra fluid distends the joint and causes misalignment of its surfaces.

In the back, the extra bone brings on damage by pinching against nerve roots. Muscle strain comes as the back attempts to re-set its natural curves and at the same time, bends to avoid that impingement. Muscle spaem occurs when the strain goes beyond the trody's capacity to sustain it.

Stopping inflammation and removing fluid help joints, but these measures have little affect on back arthritis. For the vast majority of back pains, the best therapies are heat and constant application of good mechanics in walking and fifting.

Pain medication is of limited value. It must be repeated over short intervals and eventually the body becomes addicted or indifferent to the analgesia used.

Rocks now regional champions, too

No. 2 Bearcats next test for streaking Salem club

era, Brad Emons editors/591-2312

staff writer

The last time Plymouth Salem was in the quarterfinals of the boys basketball tournament, Gerald Ford was president and coach Bob Brodie was a college student.

That was 15 years ago, but the long wait for another chance ended Friday night when the Rocks won their first regional championship since 1975 at Ypsilanti High School.

Salem, 23-2, needed a come-frombehind effort, however, and used a hot-shooting second half to subdue underdog Romulus 86-73 in a game that was closer than it seemed.

The No. 8-ranked Rocks will take on No. 2 Battle Creek Central in the quarterfinals Wednesday at Jackson Lumen Christi High School. Tipoff is set for 7:30 p.m. The Bearcats also are 23-2.

"By today's standards, to get a team to the quarterfinals is a pretty good accomplishment," Brodie said. "It's another challenge. There aren't anymore flukes once you get this

ROMULUS, finishing with a 14-11 record, may have been viewed as a fluke, considering the Eagles were last in the South Central Conference. Salem had beaten SCC co-champions Ypsilanti in the regular season and Ann Arbor Huron in the first round of the regional. But the Eagles, who started a freshman at guard and had no one taller than 6-foot-2 on their team, played an inspired game and had Salem chasing them until late in the third quarter.

'We knew they'd make runs and we'd make runs," Salem forward Jake Baker said. "We weren't rattled. We were concerned, but we didn't lose our composure.

"I think we concentrated a little more on playing better offensively (in the second half) and waiting until things opened up.'

Baker was talking about shot selection, and Salem's was just short of spectacular in the second half. The Rocks were 9-of-10 from the field in the third quarter and shot 77 percent (20-of-26) for the half.

Salem, with 6-5 Baker scoring 24 points and fellow post players 6-2 Ryan Johnson and 6-5 K.C. Kirkpatrick getting 20 apiece, was able to rally from deficits of 21-12 in the first quarter and 40-38 at halftime.

"WE HAD the size advantage, so we knew we could pound it underneath," Johnson said

Kirkpatrick picked up the slack in the first half when Baker had only eight points and a slower start than he did against Huron. Kirkpatrick scored 12 points to help get the Rocks within two at halftime.

"Jake was coming off a 32-point game, and they had to be thinking Jake is most of their team," Kirkpatrick said. "Jake had an excellent game tonight, but RJ and I scored 20 points. That shows the rest of the team can play."

Baker, after a relatively quiet first half, turned his game up a notch in the second half. He cut loose for 10 third-quarter points and had 16 in the second half when the Rocks outscored Romulus 48-33.

"I think we came out with a little more intensity," said Baker, who also had 11 rebounds, four assists and three steals. "We had the open shots in the first half, but we waited and got easier shots and that opened up the game more.

SURPRISINGLY, the smaller Eagles - led by 6-2 Kelvin Brown, 6-2 Abu Hamilton and 6-0 Marlan Hicks - outrebounded Salem early and used their jumping ability to score off rebounds.

The perimeter shooting of Virgil Davis, who scored 12 of his gamehigh 25 points in the first half, also caused trouble for Salem. Hamilton had nine of his 14 in that half, and freshman Daniel Winston scored all eight of his points in the opening pe-

"Early on we did the things we had to do to be successful," firstyear Romulus coach and Eastern Michigan assistant Chris Mollov said.

One of those objectives was to keep Baker and guard Tom Noonan from scoring, but Brodie said he believed Baker didn't score more in the first half because the opportunities weren't there.

"I don't think they were trying to take Jake out of it," Brodie said. "We were trying to push the ball up the floor so fast, he never had the opportunity to get into it.

BY two-time defending Class A state champion Jay Helm, the 1990 All-Area wrestling team is stacked higher than the rafters at Kellogg Arena with talent. Seven of the 12 wrestlers gracing the team qualified for the Class A state meet at Kellogg Arena. The remaining five wrestlers, although lacking in state meet experience this year, compiled impressive enough statistics over the course of the season to lift them to first team honors.

In all, the first team is made up of one state champion, three thirdplace state finishers and six league champions. On the average, firstteam members won 82 percent of their matches. The combined season record of all 12 wrestlers is 452-98-1.

The following is a brief profile of each first-team member as selected by a panel of Observerland coaches:

Cliff Lee, a 6-5 junior, had eight sints, goven rebounds and four ocks, and John Hoffmeyer and docks, and John Hoffmeyer and Bryan Schultz also provided help in the front court. Mike Mulder had key uninutes while filling for Noonan, who was in foul trouble in the second half, and sank two 3-pointers that helped increase Saleth's lead down the stretch.

"We had a hard game on Wedn day, and the fatigue factor set in," Brodie said. "You need some of those other players, and they've been contributing all year."

The Rocks made three early turnovers in the last quarter, and Romelus jumped in front 63-61, but Salem used a 9-0 run to turn the game in its favor.

Lee, Schultz and Hoffmeyer sank consecutive layups, with guard Chris Tebben riffling a half-court pass to Schultz for his basket. Baker capped the surge with a three-point play at 4:53. Mulder's first triple gave Salem a 75-65 lead, and his second made it 82-68 with 11/2 minutes re-

Romaius saw its shooting drop off to 29 percent (5-17) in the fourth quarter. The Engles shot 42 percent (13-31) in the second half and 45 percent (30-87) for the game compared to Salem's 60 percent (30-65). Larry Perkins added 13 points for the Eagles and Hicks 11.

"They're a very good team," said Molloy of the Rocks. "They're deep up front, and the big kids just pound the boards. They handled our pressure, and we wore a lot of teams down with our pressure."

Salem will no doubt return to the role of underdog against Battle Creek, which beat Benton Harbor 77-72 to win its regional. But in the quarterfinals, Molloy thinks anything is possible.

"They can play with a Battle Creek Central or a Benton Harbor," he said, "because their kids are very smart, disciplined and tough. Their kids are tough."

With each success, the Rocks ponder the next step and the possibility of reaching new heights.

"At the beginning of the year, (the quarterfinals) wasn't even one of our goals," Baker said. "But we got a lot better as the season went on, and we kept setting higher goals for ourselves.

"I hope we're the underdog at Jackson," Johnson said. "We'll be

Top-rated DCD dumps Borgess

Seeing your All-America center pick up his fourth foul with 4:35 left in the third quarter might cause a lot of bashetball teams to panic.

Detroit Country Day didn't even flinch Friday.

The Yellow Jackets led Redford Bishop Borgess, 38-23, midway through the third quarter when 6foot-10 center Chris Webber went to the beach with his fourth foul Webber never returned to the game, but the closest Borgess got the rest of the way was 13 points as Country Day wrapped up the Class B regional championship, 64-47, at Warren

Country Day will take a 23-2 overall record into the quarterfinal at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday against Tecum-seh at Ypsilanti High School. Bor-gess, playing again without injured star Shawn Respert (knee), ended its season at 21-4 overall.

"I have great confidence in the rest of my team," Country Day coach Kurt Keener said. "I had a premonition before the tournament started that at some point we'd have to play without Chris Webber, whether it was because of foul trouble or injury.'

Borgess coach Mike Fusco realized the Spartans benefited without Webber on the court, but knew his team still faced an uphill climb.

"They are a good team and we knew that coming in," Fusco said. "They have seven or eight quality players. We took pride in winning five or six straight games without Respert, and they took pride in playing well without Webber."

THE YELLOW JACKETS turned to backup Christ Backos to fill Webber's massive shoes. The junior center was up to the task, netting 12 points, eight after Webber left the Bishop Borgess had its chances to get back in the game but failed to capitalize. The Spartans turned the ball over four times and missed 5-of-6 shots in the first four minutes Webber was out.

The Spartans didn't execute their offense from the outset, hitting just 2-of-11 shots in the first quarter and falling behind Country Day, 14-5.

"We expected a physical game, and wanted to use it to our advantage," Fusco said. "Instead, we rushed our shots and didn't make them play defense on us. We took a number of bad shots."

Borgess' Randy White and Artie Brown hit a basket each to open the second quarter and make the score 14-9. But Country Day answered with a 15-3 spurt to take a 29-12 lead with 3:14 left in the first half.

WEBBER STARTED the spurt with a baseline jump shot and an assist to Backos. The next 11 points came from five different Yellow Jackets who eventually took a 33-16 into the locker room at halftime. Keener attributed the spurt to Country Day's depth.

"We can take out Kevin Colson and Iyapo Montgomery and still maintain the lead," Keener said. Then to come back with Kevin and lyapo with fresh legs, boom, boom, boom, we get some easy baskets."

WARRENSBURG, MO. - Ten days ago, there were lots of heroes to choose from on Oakland University's women's basketball team, after it had won its two regional games with superb play at both ends of the

The players deserved the credit then. On Friday, OU took another step along what coach Bob Taylor has been calling their "yellow brick road," knocking off Central Missouri State 66-61 in an NCAA Division II quarterfinal in Warrensburg, Mo.

The Lady Pioneers, 27-4, are on their way to the NCAA II Final Four. In Friday's semifinals, they will play the winner of the Bentley (Mass.)-Bellarmine (Ind.) game.

In distributing credit for this win, though, it would be best to first echo an all-too-familiar commercial: This one's for you.

The "you" in question is Taylor. OU did not perform as it had in the regional. The Lady Pioneers did not shoot well (27 of 58, 46.4 percent, and 0-for-11 from three-point range); they did not rebound well (CMS 51, OU 42); they did not handle the ball efficiently (21 turnovers).

WHAT THEY DID do was follow Taylor's game plan. That's how they

"Coach did a good job drawing it out," said OU's Dawn Lichty. "He wanted us to make their third and fourth players beat us." Good move. Particularly the way it turned out - the Jennies had a horrible night shooting the ball, making just 24-of-78 shots (30.8 per-

But what pleased Taylor was his team's limiting the number of shots from CMS's top scorers, Barb Sorensen (seven of 12) and Dawn Thomas (one of four).

"We wanted to attack their personnel," said Taylor. "We wanted to go at them defensively so their third and fourth players were shooting. We wanted their guards to shoot.

"If their guards are shooting, it would take them out of their offense."

The strategy was sound. The Jennies' starting guards, Cathy Hagenbaumer and Shelley Lauber, combined to make just seven-of-31 shots. The problem was, OU wasn't exactly clicking on offense, particularly in the game's early moments.

said Lichty. It showed. The Lady Pioneers had trouble holding on to the ball; with 5:35 still left in the first half, they had already made 10 turnovers.

Nine seconds later, there was more trouble. Debbie Delie, OU's All-American center, got her second foul and went to the bench. A free throw by Sorensen put CMS on top 20-19, 90 seconds later.

But that's when the game turned. Stacy Lamphere came off the bench to ignite an OU rally, scoring six points in an 11-0 run that allowed the Lady Pioneers to go to the locker room at the half with a 30-22 lead.

They never again trailed, although CMS closed it up in the second half. Five times the Jennies were within a point of OU; five times the Lady Pioneers answered.

The 11-0 run at the end of the first half put OU in command; a 10-2 run late in the second decided it. Delie was at the center of the second surge. She scored 19 second-half points, including six in the pivotal 10-2 run that pushed OU's advantage from one point to 60-51 with 1:39

Delie finished with 28 points (on 12-of-17 shooting), 13 rebounds and four blocked shots. Her efforts earned her Player of the Game hon-

Jennifer Golen added 12 points, Shawne Brow netted eight, and Lichty finished with six points and seven assists. Sorensen's 17 points topped CMS, which bowed out at 29-3. Robin Williams had 14, and Hagenbaumer

"I've seen us play better," CMS coach Jon Pye said. "But you've got to give Oakland credit. They came in and scrapped hard, played hard and kept their discipline. We just didn't make our shots."

Which was only part of the problem. The Jennies also had the wrong people taking them.

Dear S.S.: - The event is being organized and run by Harry Bur-key (881-9149) and Mike Martus (254-2748). If you contact either of them, I would expect they would be more than happy to help you.

I noticed a lot of big scores every week, but how about writing about us little guys. After all, we're trying just as hard. A low average bowler is pretty proud of shooting a good game of 180 or so. — R.K.L., Farmington.

Dear R.K.L.: The purpose of this column is to report scores and stories about what is happening in the local Observer and Eccentric bowling scene. You do not necessarily have to have a great score for your result to appear in the column. Just have your league secretary contact me with your score and if it's news, I would welcome the information.

I am 12 years old and I think I'm pretty good for my age. I bowled a 234. Where can I find out about getting into a good league, with good competition and bowling with kids in my own age group. — B.A., Livenia.

Dear B.A.: Every bowling center has excellent youth programs. Check with the bowling center near you. Most action takes place on Saturdays. These leagues are Y.A.B.A. sanctioned and are well organized. They offer good competition at all age levels.

I read about blind bowlers in your column a while ago and was wondering how they know where to aim the ball. How do they do it. - P.C., Westland.

Dear P.C.: The blind bowlers have a 15-foot guide rail that is placed on the approaches running parallel to the lanes. As the bowler walks on the approach, the free hand stays on the rail as a guide, enabling them to place the ball in the proper direction.

Participants in some sports have been able to perform better with the aid of self-hypnosis or subliminal tapes. Do you think it would be worth a try to be able to get higher bowling scores. D.R.H., Seethfield.

Dear D.R.H.: I think so bowlers could gain from either hypnosis or subliminal tapes. There are a lot of people now using vari-ous tapes. Many of these tapes are available on the market. Some are even available in pro shops. I have tried tapes myself, and they did seem to improve my bowling scores. My recommended selection is Be a Better Bowler by Poten tials Unlimited (about $10.00) and Sybervision, which is a comb tion of audio and visual tapes. These are very effective, but more costly at about $80.00.

 Clover Lanes, which is on Schoolcraft in Livonia, has just completed installation of the latest state-of-the-art automatic scorers. They have the new Brunswick AS-80 Colorvision Plus.

In celebration of the new units, Clover Lanes is celebrating with a week-long "Bowl Fest." It takes place March 25-31 and offers special rates for open bowling and prizes for league bowlers.

It wasn't exactly how little Gasege covintened it. George imagined his Madenna College baseds team ripping the ball on its Coose Basek, Pia., spring trip. He know the pitching would be better than last year, tea. Other factors — defense, baserunning — he wasn't so sure of.

As it turned out, George's concerns were misplaced.

Which is hardly a criticism. The Pighting Crunders enjoyed a superb trip, winning eight of 11 games and building a lot of confidence. "Twe had these guys since Septem-ber, but we never played a team in another uniform," said George. "I knew our pitching was much better than lest year, even though it's still than last year, even though it's still not as deep as it needs to be."

George thought hitting would be the Crusaders' strongest element "just because we're deeper there than anywhere else." But, as it turned out . . .

"I was disappointed with our hit-ting. We should have hit the ball a lot better. This is a great hitting team; we just didn't do it. Needless to say, that's what we've been concentrat-ing on all week."

MOST BASEBALL coaches agree, pitchers usually have the upper hand early in the season. Madonna's did in Florida; they allowed 45 runs and had a staff earned run average of 3.40, walking just 23 in 76 innings. Mike Hocking (0.97 ERA) and Craig Karankiewicz (3.07 ERA) were each

Madonna finished its trip with four straight wins. Indeed, after losing its opening game 3-0 to Lewis

University (of Illneis, ranked fourth in the NCAA Division II), the Crunaders had just one had day. They lest 17-3 to Purman and 7-3 to Lewis' junior varsity on March 6.

Jay Helm, Catholic Central, 140: Helm successfully defended the state championship he won last year as a jun-ior by roaring through the 1989-90 season undefeated. Enroute to winning his second straight Class A state crown, Helm won the Lansing, Kearsley, Romulus and CC invitational titles. He was also the district and regional champion and finished with a 56-0 personal record (he was 50-2 last year).

"Jay has been wrestling since he got out of the cradle," said CC coach Mike Rodriguez. "He's not as strong as he is quick, but his technique is excellent. He's just a hungry man and that's what makes him so tenacious when he wrestles."

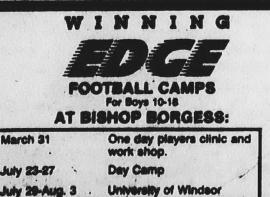

Erik Shellenbarger, Livonia Churchill, 145: The senior wrestler improved his career record to 68-47 after compiling a 24-7 ledger this season. This year's success led him to the championship of the Garden City Invitational, the Dearborn Fordson Invitational and the Lansing Sexton Invitational. He also qualified for the regional tournament for the second year in a row with a fourthplace finish at districts.

"Erik was a pleasure to coach," said Churchill coach Melvin Richendollar. 'He had a lot of heart and contributed to the building of the Churchill program. He had a fine year and wrestled well to overcome a lot of adversity."

Adam Cook, North Farmington, 152: Cook, a senior, wrestled up weight at 160 pounds for much of the year and still managed to compile a 25-12 personal record. "It was a real pleasure to work with Brian. He was very coachable and turned into a very fine wrestler," said Salem coach Ron Krueger. "He beat the state champion during the year. I feel Brian is the best 189-pounder in the state.'

Tom Buckalew, John Glenn, Coach of the Year: In his 23rd and final season as head wrestling coach at John Glenn, the veteran coach led the Rockets further than any other Observerland team in the team tournament. According to private eye Dennis M. Kearns of Birmingham, his work is "intelligence gathering and problem solving."

They see your every move

staff writer

Monday, March 19, 1980 O&E

"If you want to know what makes me tick browse through my library," said a voice from behind the desk. The voice belonged to a dark-haired whose olue eyes our through a ray of sun interrupted by a partially opened window blind.

He was not wearing a trench coat. Eager for a clue, the visitor scanned the shelves noting such titles as "Interviewing and Interrogation," "The Complete Spy" and "Exotic Weapons: An Access Book.'

"Ahh," thought the visitor, "So this is what a private eye reads."

But more importantly, what does a private eye do?

To discover this we spent a day hanging out with one - Dennis M. Kearns, to

In addition to the above mentioned titles. Kearns' bookshelves in his downtown Birmingham office near Maple and Woodward hold a complete set of Bresser's city directories for metropolitan Detroit . . . leading one to conclude much of his work is research. It is, he

"Private investigation is intelligence gathering and problem solving; that's what my business is," said Kearns, 35, director of The Phoenix Group. He is quick to dispel the myth that being a private eye — or "intelligence gatherer," as he sometimes calls himself - is at all cloak

"I usually don't use disguises," Kearns

In fact, much of his day is spent doing routine phone work, rather than the kind of leg work depicted on TV shows like the now defunct "Moonlighting." Perhaps that is why it might take a reporter spending one or two weeks with an investigator before coming away with an "exciting" first-hand story — especially dur-ing the slow pre-Christmas season, Kearns said.

"Most people don't think about all this routine stuff we have to do," be added, instinctively reaching for a blue putty mass. He began a routine of squeezing the putty with his right hand, easing out the tensions of a Monday afternoon.

BUT SOME OF the stuff - he had to admit - is a writer's dream,

Take for instance a case he took in early December which made news at one Detroit daily. The case concerned a penniless Detroit family that had broken up 25 years ago, after which the father lost contact with his three children.

Through the years, the father continued living in Detroit and worked at a menial job, from which he later won a personal injury award in the millions of dollars. hired Kearns to find his missing children. so they could receive part of their father's estate. One child was found in

While Kearns conducts much of his research by leafing through phone books and directories, a computer sitting amid piles of paper on his desk is his most invaluable tool. That's how he tracked down the three missing children. The concept of information gathering is changing," he said, calling it a "library science" of sorts. Investigators now have access to oodles of data bases, some very specialized, like ones containing facts and figures on certain companies - the so-called "corporate intelligence" data base. Another is the Information On Line Network, an organization of 180 investigators worldwide, connected by computer. Driving records, marriage licenses and the like can be traced through this

'Miss Daisy' will get nod

By Dan Greenberg special writer

Oscar's best picture category has a problem. Motions pictures is such a rich and diverse medium that academy voters and viewers alike wind up comparing apples and oranges

Out of the fruit salad on Monday, March 26, one of five popular, successful, well-regarded, but very different films will emerge as the Academy of Motion Pic-tures Arts and Sciences' top choice this year. Everyone will say, "That's the best picture of 1990." But does anyone really believe that? Mayite? Probably. Was your choice nominated? Unlikely.

My two top selections —
"Crimes and Misdemeanors" and "Triumph of the Spirit" - were nowhere to be seen when the ballots were counted.

The academy's five nominations, however, are what we have to work with. First of all, "My Left Foot" consistently has ranked high on my rejection list for several reasons. Chief among them is the fact that Brenda Fricker (nominated as best supporting actress) as Christy's Brown's mother, remains unchanged throughout 20 years of tribulation. That is a function of her acting as well as the fault of best director nominee Jim Sheri-

The film's continuity and structure suffers because of this so despite Daniel Day Lewis' superb acting, scratch "My Left Foot."

"Field of Dreams" is another offbeat, unexpected choice - a successful and well-acted film but it too suffers from structural faults with pretty thin motivation for Kevin Costner's behavior.

WHILE THE film is a positive statement about humanistic values and a fine declaration of reconciliation and redemption, it falters with weak background impetus for all that follows.

We never learn what terrible thing Costner's father did to deserve ill treatment from his son who now must cleanse his guilt. Dad liked baseball? His wife died? He was unimaginative? Hardly sufficient for such high honors, so let's move on with this search for number one.

Despite the excellence of "Born on the Fourth of July" and its well-deserved eight nominations, I've been passing it up on the political grounds that Vietnam is no longer the hot issue it was when Oliver Stone and "Platoon" won.

Despite my guestimate that it won't win, "Born on the Fourth of July" remains a significant contender. One clear hint that it is well regarded by the academy is its large number of nominations, second only to "Driving Miss Dai-

Don Cherry: Hockey's Night's real 'hat trick'

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Trying to keep up with Don Cherry can be the pits. But for a chance to have an audience with "Grapes"? Are you kidding?

Hockey fans would snowmobile across in, dance the Welland Canal and hitchhike to Hamilton to listen to the former National Hockey League coach spew his views on the sport.

Heck, somebody might even be inclined to drop $40 on drinks and eats at his restaurant/thvern in downtown Windsor.

No one can sum up the intracacles of the ice sport the way Cherry does on TV. After all, this is a guy who before a Detroit Red Wings-Toronto Maple Leafs game admitted that he had to contain himself g the maybem that was about to take place.

Instead, he gleamed at the camera, shook a menacing flet and said, "It's gome be one of these tonight."

Fortunetely, Cherry's an accommodating gent in person. The "Hockey Night of Canada" commentator strells is and he's instantly bessiged. A chance to talk with the Den of hockey would seem out of the constinuis conscially without an appointment. And the same of th

HEY, WE'VE got time. We've got a wallet full of Canadian money. Serve up those nachos, waitress, and keep the Blue Light coming. While we're waiting for Mr. Cherry, perhaps a lit-tle introduction is order. Here goes Cherry 101. Cherry used to coach the Boston Bruins, lost a game in the Stanley Cup final against Montreal Canadiens for having too many men on the ice, later coached the now-defunct Colorado Rockies, and became a color commentator on CBC-TV's "Hockey Night in Canada."

'Handmaid's Tale' is good, but inconsistent

men and women's violant struggle to survive at any cost in the recent past, the present and future.

The last of these, "The Hand-maid's Tale" (B-, R, 109 minutes), opens with echoes of Auschwitz and closes with an optimism not ground-ed in what the film has to say about comtemporary society.

It is near the end of this century in Gilead, the totalitarian, fundamentalist nation into which America has evolved because of permissiveness, pollution and radiation.

For reasons unexplained, Kate (Natasha Richardson), her husband and daughter try to cross the border. The guards kill her husband and apnd her. She is introduced to Gilead in scenes reminiscent of sorting prisoners at Auscwitz in "Sophie's Choice" and "Triumph of the Spirit.

Civil war and rebellion rage, the world's gone mad and few women are fertile. Those who are are trained, dressed in red, named Handmaidens and assigned to commanders to bear children for their sterile

There also are Marthas (kitchen servants) and aunts whose job is to discipline and train handmaidens. There are, of course, Angels and Guardians, soldiers for commanders to command in the war against Mayday rebels, Baptist guerrillas and others who haven't accepted God's word as interpreted by the government of Gilead.

Kate is now renamed generically,

Offred - the names match the uniform ciothing in one of the film's better comments on autocracy— and assigned to bear children for the Commander (Robert Duvall) and his wife Serena Joy (Faye Dunaway).

It turns out that the Commander is sterile so a surrogate, Nick (Aidan Quinn), an Angel, is introduced to impregnate Kate. Then, of course, love blossoms and that, as we all know, leads to revolution.

WHILE ALL this may sound bizzare, the force of "The Handmaid's Tale" lies in the reasonable manner with which the characters accept their strange roles in this perverted society. There is considerable impact in such an approach, particu-larly when the roles are so well act-ed, especially Duvall and Dunaway.

The conceptual force behind Margaret Atwood's best-selling novel is weakened by disturbing inconsistencies in plot continuity, particularly the film's opening and closing sequences.

Peppered throughout the film are suspicious moments when freedom of movement suddenly occurs hardly logical, but convenient for plot structure.

Several mentions that Gilead is governed by Old Testament concepts skews the focus of the work as a statement against the Moral Majority and other right-wing fundamen-

AN UNPLEASANT view of the present is rendered by Kathryn Bigelow (director and co-scenarist) and Jamie Lee Curtis (actress) in "Blue Steele" (C+, R, 102 minutes). In a tense but trite psychological thriller, they prove that women in films are equally capable of the macho violence generally considered to be a negative masculine trait.

A rookle cop on her first assignment, Megan Turner (Curtis), blasts away at a party store robber. One of the witnesses, Eugene Hunt (Ron Silver), a psychopathic futures trader, grabs the dying robber's gun and disappears without being noticed. Pretty thin, if you ask me.

He then sets about making life miserable for Megan by spreading death through the streets of New York and involving her. The excessive violence gets pretty unpleasant.

For women who feel deprived that most film violence is male, "Blue Steel" is the ticket. Brilliant detective work might have saved this cliched plot but, as it stands, despite some serious psychological tension, there's too much brute force throughout the film.

The recent past fares a bit better, albeit no less pleasantly, in a Harry Hook remake of "Lord of the Flies" (B, R, 85 minutes). Based on Novel Laureate Sir William Golding's wellregarded novel, this version was coproduced by Lewis Allen who also produced Peter Brook's 1963 ver-

Tough choices at festival

special writer

Dancing condoms are always a surprise. But for a seven-member film selection panel, which has just suffered through an especially dry documentary on Apollo astronauts, the rubber Rockettes provoke enthusiastic applause.

"Les Plastiques," an animated short by Ann Arbor resident Michael Young, is only one of almost 300 films under consideration for this year's Ann Arbor Film Festival. At 28 years of age, the event is the longest running experimental and independent 16 mm festival in the coun-

Led by hair dresser Vicki Honeyman, the panel has the monumental task of selecting approximately 50 films that will-reach the big screen of the Michigan Theatre this week. These will in turn be viewed by celebrity judges, who will award cash prizes of up to $2,000.

The panel meets almost every night for five weeks in the back room of Vicki's Wash and Wear Haircuts. They're surrounded by postal crates full of movie submissions, with return addresses from as far away as New Zealand, Australia and England. Among the more intriguing titles are "Rope of Blood," The Flora Faddy Furry Dance" and "Outrageous Taxi Stories."

THE PANEL follows a rigid schedule for viewing every frame of the films. They space out the ones they especially look forward to seeing. On this particular night, the next film on the agenda is "180-1" by Chris Shambaugh, last year's award winner for most promising filmmak-

"Wow me, Chris" challenges one of the group as the credits roll. This short film, shot in black and white, uses live action, animation and intentionally grainy composition. In a recurring image, a man leafs through the pages of a book, which comes to life via stop-animation. It's so much an art film, in fact, that you can't tell if film scratches are inten-

Reviews are mixed. Those who had seen Shambaugh's earlier film found this one technically impressive but derivative. Others, including myself, who had never seen his work, were simply knocked out. This was the most heated discussion of the night - next to what to order on the pizzas.

Several local eateries donate food to the hard-working cinephiles. All it takes is a call to Pizza Bob's to have the weekly allotment delivered. The magnificent seven slide down pineapple and pepperoni slices while watching the feature-length "Growing Up in America."

Directed by Toronot-based Morley Markson, "Growing Up in America" updates the lives of counter-culture heroes Timothy Leary, Allen Ginsberg and Jerry Rubin. But it's footage of the late Abbie Hoffman (in what may be his last interview) that makes the film notable.

THOUGH ALl have extensive backgrounds in filmmaking and film viewing, panel members haven't become overly jaded and cynical. Jeffrey Conlon's "Game Point" focuses on a young basketball player's relationship with a father who has Alzheimer's disease. It's the kind of manipulative film I feel guilty for hating, but some members of the captive audience treat it kindly.

Treasure hunting is the primary motivation behind the panel. It's what keeps them going until two in the morning. By digging through reels of celluloid, they will uncover 50 amazing pictures to share with the film festival audience.

The same strategy should apply for attending the festival.

"Too many people make the mis-take of attending just on winners' night," said Honeyman. "You might think you're seeing the best of the festival, but really these are just what the judges picked.

"You may find other films much more fascinating."

Late last year, Boston's WFNX-FM asked its listeners to rank the top 101 songs of the '80s. "How Soon is Now?" by the Smiths topped the list, with other top spots filled by such artists as U2, New Order, the Cure, R.E.M. and the Clash.

San Diego's XTRA-FM, where Detroit new wave expatriate Mike Halloran currently resides, took the same poll and saw similar results, including the same top tune.

Such a vote by Detroit radio audiences would have markedly different results. A regular listener to Detroit rock radio must think that Husker Du is a memory game and the Smiths are brothers who make cough drops.

The truth is that they are two fine rock bands whose time has come and gone, without so much as whisper over the commercial airwaves of Detroit, "the home of rock'n'roll."

As it stands now, progressive music fans can only be sated in compact two-hour chunks on Sunday nights, or at hours when most people are either sleeping or watching David

And put the shades away, because the fu-ture's not so bright. The odds of regularly hearing new music (music by bands who don't have hairdressers, leather stockings or "gun" in their name) on a strong-signal FM station any time soon are slightly less than the odds of Little Richard joining football's L.A. THE SITUATION, according to the experts, survival equals high advertising revenue, which equals good ratings, which equals tried and true formats - the same classic and notso-classic rock the AOR stations churn out hour after hour, day after day.

A radio station buying and selling frenzy within the last five years has incurred tre-mendous debts. Management has to protect its huge investments by going after the top advertising dollar, according to Fred Jacobs, the brains behind classic rock, whose company does consulting work for about 20 stations across the continent, including WCSX.

"Radio is not dictating the situation - advertising is," Jacobs said. "The reason a lot of stations in the Detroit market have a lot of the same characteristics is that they're all going after the same people."

Those "people" those advertisers want are not Lloyd Cole fans, they're Billy Joel fans who drive nice cars with lots of extra cash to spend. They're Led Zeppelin fans who drive crummy cars with no extra cash to spend, but spend it anyway.

their jaunty jingles are perpetually stuck in the minds of their target audience is the all-

'If you're going to succeed in this business you must have good ratings in a desirable demographic," said Jacobs. "The problem is that the ratings are frequently questioned, and even if they are accurate, all they tell you is that you went up or down. You never know

COUNT WDET'S Dave Dixon among those who questions the ratings system.

"Ratings are legalized extortion," declared

Dixon, who hosts a new TV show Thursday nights on WADL, Channel 38. "It's a system that radio doesn't have the guts to wean itself off. Stations who spend more money with the ratings people have a better chance to get higher ratings."

Dixon likened the ratings system to payola scandals involving stations taking cash to play certain records, and predicted that, as with payola, the system will be exposed.

"Someone in the ratings business will write a tell-all story," he prophesized, "and the next day radio will be as radically changed as Rus-

Will it take something as momentous as the fall of the Berlin Wall to get a station that plays more Stone Roses than Rolling Stones?

I think a station like this can be successful in Detroit," Jacobs said, referring to a new music format called the Edge that he has developed and copyrighted. "How successful is harder to say. It's to make money, but given this debt situation, that's usually not enough anymore."

"Detroit is a real cool city — it could sup-port a new music station no problem," said Halloran via telephone from San Diego, where the station he programs makes $12 million a year and regularly rates in the market's top five. "We've proven that you can do it and survive. It's a matter of someone in Detroit realizing that AOR is essentially a dead format and giving this a real shot."

HALLORAN BLAMED the demise of his former station WLBS (now WKSG) on lack of direction and commitment from management, and said that a station needs both to tions are wary to do.

"Fear motivates a lot of decisions that are made," said Jacobs. "But I can understand why someone who owns a $15 million radio ' station may not want to roll the dice."

While radio is playing craps, it must actively pursue the listening desires of its audience and the listeners must make their opinions known. Otherwise they can only mutter to themselves in vain when they hear "Rocket Man" on three stations at once.

"It's not always easy to find out what people want," observed Jacobs. "No radio station wants to do things that people hate."

EACH OTHER — The Elementals

WAKING ON

est effort by Robert Thibodeau's band, The Elementals. Thibodeau, owner of Berkley's Mayflower Bookshop, is somewhat of a local celebrity in Detroit metaphysical circles. He describes his role on "Waking on Each Other" as "songwriter, roman-tic-futurist, celestial navigator, mystic voyager, metaphysical and possibly disappointed, by the new softer sound of the group. But this new sound starts sounding better and Thibodeau calls the album "easy listening folk-rock romance." In the old days, it would have been called id days, it would have 'make-out music."

Thibodeau sings in a breathy fairy tale voice full of child-like wonder. This takes a little getting used to. Rarely are males singers so plainly honest, emotional or God ferbid, as Thibodeau is on maining silly.

Chris McCall of Jugglers and Thieves instantly tops her work with that band with her back-up vocals on this album. In Jugglers and Thieves, her voice is sometimes drowned out her voice is sometimes drowned out by guitar pyrotechnics, but her her voice rings clear and true. She reaches breath-taking loveliness on "Woman (womb-in)," a hopeful duet along the lines of Peter Gabriel's "Don't Give Up."

Another local luminary on the album is Darryl Dybka, the co-producer and keyboard player. Dybka's credits include work with Frank Zappa, Earl Kingh and Chet Atkins.

Romantic types will find love songs a plenty on "Waking on Each Other." Nine out of the 11 songs, including "Blees Your Heart," "I'm in Love" and "In My Love Good Basegh?" deal with the ever-popular subject of love.

As Thibodoon puts it, "The Elements had belong the state of the Mark."

THE SWEET

- Tanita Tikaram

"The Sweet Keeper" by Tanita Ti-karam is an album for the VH-1 gen-eration. VH-1, for the benefit of those who aren't blessed (or cursed, as the case may be) with cable tele-vision, is an adult (rend: mellow) version of the MTV video station.

Cable manners

If you thought the delay of the baseball sesson was hig nows, listen to this flash: The end of the world has just been perspected.

With the recent them on the Cold War, the International Coalition of Atomic Scientists and Beer Tasters A-Ge-Go has moved the hands of the official Doomsday Clock backwards from 1156 p.m. to 1156 p.m.

Now that we're 10 reassuring minutes away from Armagaddon, nuclear annihilation has been replaced as the "Most Disruptive Household Event" by a new threat. Of course, the awful event I'm taking about is free Cable Movie Preview Week.

Granted there was a time back in my college days when staring at a scrambled TV signal would have been considered entertaining. But lately, seeing the jumbled patterns makes me insatiably curious: What important cultural event am I missing? A triumph of the human spirit? A breakthrough in cognitive science? Frontal nudity?

The concept behind preview week is simple: Twice a year the cable companies unscrambles its premium channels and lets non-subscribers sample a typical week of programming . (To call this juiced-up sched-ule as "typical" is like calling Donald Trump an "average wage earner." The teaser lineup is staked with ringers like Tom Cruise and Bette Midler. The actual schedule is more likely to feature three hours of Yoko Ono bleating like a goat.)

THEORETICALLY, once you see what you've been missing by wasting time reading, conversing and sleeping, you'll dash to the phone and sign up but quick!

To further encourage you, the telethon's host (handpicked for his agoraphobia) gently explains the hazards of going out to the movies:

"Suppose someone wires explosives to your ignition switch? Is the big screen ambience worth being vaporized by a pipe bomb? Is the smell of popcorn worth being cremated alive in a blazing head-on crash with a tanker

"Remember, with cable you stay safely locked in your own home. Not to sound negative, but the theatre is just the kind of place where your car could be stolen, your purse could be snatched, and you could be pushed through a plate glass window — all in one night! Worse yet, you might have to use the public

"According to our research, the average visit to the cinema goes something like this: First, you stand in pouring rain. Next, you find a seat — directly in front of three fun-loving psychopaths hiding from a police manhunt. Crazy number one swaps shoes with your wife. Number two kicks your seat in time with the music. Number three fires his pistol into the air whenever someone on screen mentions Niagra Falls.

"You lean back just long enough to attract head lice when, suddenly, hunger strikes. Stumbling to the concession stand, you shell out $7.50 for stale Milk Duds. When you return, the Detroit Pistons' starting lineup is sitting in front of you.

"ARRIVING HOME, exhausted and broke, you discover your babysitter and Daniel Ortega, clad only is moon boots and lobster bibs, dancing fairly authentic lambada on the coffee table.

"Call now to avoid this needless tragedy. After all, would you rather be glued to the tube or glued to the sticky floor of a the-

How was this persuasive telethon technique perfected? A group of 40 adults who use silverware was asked to view a movie channel preview week under laboratory conditions. The transition from couch potato to brain dead was carefully monitored.

The results were conclusive: After five nights of watching Howlingly Funny Big Name Movie Greats, a viewer's brain undergoes a series of unexplained contractions until it finally shrinks to the size of a cough drop. At this point, they are unable to pinpoint their current address beyond which planet they live on.

All of which makes them the perfect candidates for a costly upgrade to a premium channel. The only problem is they can no longer dial the toll-free number.

Sometimes the simplest methods of gathering information is best, though. Like the time Kearns and one of his agents sat next to two undetected corporate thieves in a restaurant, and overheard their plans to bilk their company out of thousands of dollars.

STILL, COMPUTERS are a large part of the business.

The connection to worldwide sources is touted in Kearns' advertising brochure, along with The Phoenix Group's affiliation to former national intelligence (CIA) officers and various local and state law enforcement sources.

All this sounds impressive and adds to the image that "we're not the ordinary investigative agency," said 'We're unique," he said. "We han-surprise to learn the group handles terrorist complaints, as the brochure

However, Kears reaps more employment from corporate takeover

Four years ago Kearns and a surveillance expert from Washington, D.C., practically lived in two buildings owned by a Detroit corporation, trying to sniff out bugs and taps theoretically planted by takeover

The investigators checked the company's private jets and covered every surface of headquarters with approximately $70,000 in surveillance detection equipment.

In the end, nothing was found, "although I got more gray hairs on that assigment than any other," said Kearns, who netted approximately $30,000 for the job.

OF KEARNS' Yellow Pages ad saying "rooms and telephones checked for bugs and taps," he is careful to point out the word checked. The ad draws at least 10 calls a week, but by people wanting Kearns to implement taps, not de-Bugging and wiretapping have

Other calls he prefers not to get are requests from men - and there have been a number - who want women's underwear tested for sperm - presumably not theirs.

"I have the labs that will do it, but I don't like to do that sort of thing,"

Still, the domestic scene does provide its fair share of job opportunities. Kearns is frequently asked to do work in child custody cases, by perhaps following a parent's comings and goings for evidence that he or she may be unfit.

Then there is the typical job he is asked to do during the holiday sea-

"Around Christmas everyone wants to find an old girlfriend or boyfriend — but they all want to do it for $25," he said. The job actually costs $300.

Stephan is a comedian who admit-tedly cannot tell a joke. He can tell how an audience will react.

When I first started, I was shaky," said Stephan, who will per-form this week at Joey's Comedy Club & Sports Emporium in Allen Park. "Now I know how much blue material they can take, how much clean material I can use. I can tell how much I can get away with just by looking at the crowd.

Proper is not the word used to describe his act. Stephan is quick to point out that his routine is not offensive, though. Perhaps that assumption is made out of guilt by association. He's toured with Kinison's "Comedy Outlaws" and appeared as a drummer in the gutteral screaming comedian's video "Wild Thing."

He might be friends with Kinison, the latter staying with Stephan at his apartment at one time. But there it

"I CAN MAKE it work in front of a crowd of grandmas," he said. "I don't really tell dirty jokes. It's just the flow of my conversation."

For awhile, he parked cars and pumped gas while trying to find act-ing work. He tumped into a council-an, Mitchell Walters. Soon, Stephan was testing his stand-up act at the Comedy Store in Los Angeles.

He later managed the renowned comedy club. On a given night, it was possible to see Richard Pryor, Freddie Prime, Steve Landesberg, Jay Leso and David Letterman on the same bill at the Camedy Store. Of the group, Stephan said Landes-berg was probably the most under-

"Letterman had very sarcastic material, but he wasn't that funny," said Stephan, recalling those early days. "He didn't have that much material, which is probably why he still doesn't like to do stand-up."

Lansing: Lots to see, Lots to do

staff writer

Spend a day in Lansing. OK, so it doesn't have the theater and shopping of New York or Chicago. Or even the theater of Detroit and the shopping of Birmingham.

Recognizing this town is our state capital, there must be lots of things to do. Acutally, there are museums and lots of them, with something for everyone in the family.

Don't miss the Impression 5 Science Museum. This place is neat, keen and a great way to spend an afternoon for just about anyone, including someone like myself who has little grasp of science and even less interest.

Located on Museum Drive, just off Michigan Avenue in downtown Lansing, Impression 5 is the kind of museum that requires hands-on participation.

In a darkened room, visitors jump around in front of what looks like a large movie screen to create a flying shadow. A flash of light they trigger goes off, capturing their silhoutte on the phosphorescent back drop.

Light sticks mounted on the wall demonstrate the concept of the persistence of vision. By moving your eyes rapidly to the side, a picture becomes visible that can't be seen by looking at the light bar

A recent exhibit at the museum was "About Faces." The computer-based exhibit has 18 activities looking at the the muscles of the face and how they are used to express different emotions or reac-

AT THE Micro Express, you sit at what looks like a video game and press a button to record yourself. The playback, which includes previous participants, compresses or stretches your facial expressions in time, highlighting movements that can be as quick 145th of a second.

At another computer, you can blend your features or entire face with that of well known personalities, such as Marilyn Monroe. Other parts of the exhibit, let you adjust the width and heighth of your face to demonstrate its lack of symmetry or prepare a composite picture of a suspect.

Other exhibits include the Big Mouth, large enough to climb into and examine the teeth. On the floor nearby, the human digestive system is laid out for the digestive game.

The way electricity is generated is demonstrated by bicycles, which if pedaled hard enough, will create enough current to light a bulb.

You can go through every day doorways and furniture in a wheel chair as part of the handicapped obstacle course.

Music instruments, such as xvlophones and a bass, can be played to demonstrate sounds and tone. Only one exhibit seemed clearly designed for smaller visitors, a touch tunnel which had to be crawled through.

VARYING LIVE demonstrations and workshops are offered at the museum along with science classes. The museum is open 10 a.m. to 5p.m. Mondays-Saturdays and noon-5 p.m. Sundays. There is a $3 admission fee for adults, $2.50 for students up to 18 years, $2 for senior citizens and children under 3, free. For more information, call (517) 485-8115.

The State Capitol is kind of a must see when you are in Lansing, the headquarters of the Legislature and governor are still undergoing renovations. Work on the public areas of the building aren't expected to be completed until

Taking the free guided tour of the Capitol feels rather like a school field trip as you tramp en masse up and down the rotunda. This impression was probably aided by the fact that our tour group was primarily a group from Homer High School.

The ground floor of the rotunda features a glass tiled floor. People at the basement level can see the feet of the people walking above Displayed on the first floor are flags carried by Michigan military units. Some of the flags, the oldest of which are from the Civil War, have holes received during batt Restoration work has been on leted on deteriorating flags with sore work scheduled in the future.

THE PORTRAITS of Michigan's governors, which had hung on dif-ferent levels in the capitol rotunda, have been temporarily removed to avoid dirt or damage from the renovation work.

Decorated with paintings of Greek muses representing arts and sciences, the Capitol actually has two domes, one inside another. Until the fire marshal put a stop to it about 35 years ago, visitors could climb a ladder up into the two domes and enjoy the panoramic

This particular capitol building was opened in 1879 and efforts have been made to keep the hallways looking as they did when the building was opened. Drop ceilings outside the senate entrance were removed, revealing long concealed skylights. The original colors were matched for painting the restored area and period chandeliers repro-

And at the end of the approximately 20-minute tour, you can collect your "I visited the Michigan State Capitol" button.

Located a couple blocks southwest of the Capitol, the new Michigan Historical Museum has been open less than a year. The permanent displays take visitors on a path through the state's history from its geological formation and earliest human dwellers through the end of the 1800s.

At the atrium entrance to the permanent display is a 60-foot reproduction of a white pine tree, the state tree. Standing guard nearby are costumed Paleo Indians, the first people to come across the land bridge between Alaska and Asia to North America 14,000 years ago.

DIORAMAS AND displays outline Native American life in Michigan before the first European visitors arrived in 1620.

A wooder fort stockade is reproduced along with displays of Civil War artifacts, photographs and swords.

The natural resources which drew settlers and investors to Michigan over the years - copper, iron and lumber - receive a great deal of attention. The museum's more unusual displays include reproductions of copper and iron mines to accompany photographs and other historical documents.

You can walk inside the mines, the copper mine being a dark and shadowy tunnel with log supports. Even the burro used for the operation is included. An audio tape provides sound effects in the tunnel.

Narrated video presentations, utilizing historical photographs, provide an oral history about miners and the different jobs performed in the mine.

The lumber display includes a reproduction of a lumber mill and a wealthy lumber baron's home with a veranda, lattice work and stained glass windows.

There is also a Big Wheel - not the kid's ride, but an enormous rig designed to haul huge loads of logs out of the woods when warm weather prevented use of sleds.

FARMING AND early growth in Michigan manufacturing are also documented at the museum. Within the next few years, the museum's 20th century displays will be completed Temporary displays at the museum are currently "Beacons and Bravery" and "Getting There Is

"Beacons and Bravery" has photographs and artifacts about the state's lighthouse keepers and water rescue crews. An early floatation device — a cork block life belt - is included. The exhibit was organized in conjunction with the 200th anniversary of the U.S. Lighthouse Service.

Transportation toys from trains, planes, boats and cars are looked at in the "Getting There Is Half the Fun" exhibit. The toys range from an 1870 three-wheeled velocipede to a 1989 Lionel train, the North Pole Special filled with Christmas gifts and Santa at the throttle

Another train, from 1958, transports the Shrine Circus, its cars filled with animals like lions and giraffes.

A model train with full sound effects runs through a diorama of the historic district in north Lansing. Both exhibits run through March 18.

The museum is free and ope a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays, a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays, 16 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and 1-5

Portraits of Michigan's past governors are missing during the ongoing renovations, but the Greek muses who decerate the State Capitol dome can still be seen.

How to keep informed but not overburdened

Q. I subscribe to many business and personal periodicals, but feel guilty because I don't have time to read them all. How do other people handle this problem?

A. Too many handle it just like you do - they feel guilty because they have stacks and stacks of unread periodicals. With the plethora of publications available these day, it's tempting to subscribe to too many because we want to be well informed. The problem is we don't set aside enough time to get our reading

With information exploding at such an incredible rate, it's impossible to read everything, so why feel guilty? If the answer is, "Because I paid for it" then quit paying for it and therefore quit feeling guilty for not reading it.

The next time you pick up a new magazine, record now long it takes you to finish it. Then set aside that length of time to read that magazine each time it arrives. Do this for each subscription you have, including your daily papers, then add up the time it would take you to keep up on all your reading. Ask yourself if you have that much time? If not, the alternatives are 1) to limit the time you spend reading each one, 2) to organizing Dorothy Lehmkuhl cancel some of the subscriptions or 3) to let them continue to pile up unread. For must-read career information, it is imperative to schedule time to read it. Again, however, ask if you need to read everything word for word, peruse only certain articles, or if you could merely skim for highlights and forget the rest? A conscious decision ahead of time on how in-depth you will read the Wall Street Journal, for instance, could help you focus on important business article on page 14 about fish farming in Tennessee. For company paid subscriptions, ask if it is valuable enough that you would subscribe to it out of your own money? If not, ask to be deleted from the mailing list.

Notice if you have stacks of certain magazines you never read. In that case toss out the last issue when the new one arrives (read or not) or drop your subscription. Otherwise it will continue to accumulate. When there is a single article you want to read, tear it out, put it in a reading file at your favorite reading spot and pitch the publication. You could even file the article, unread, in a subject file for future reference. Be wary about loading your files with frivilous information, however.

Some people have cancelled all their non-business subscriptions and on the newsstand. Even at double prices, this can be less costly in the Try subscribing only to important

Entering the new technical center of Akebono BSEC, Inc. in Farmington Hills might be confusing - unless the visitor is Japanese.

Modern-style desks, arranged in rows, are found just behind the reception desk, green tea is available upon request and the company's annual report is printed in bold black Japanese characters, with an English translation.

This is one of the latest technical centers opened by Japanese companies in metropolitan Detroit. But. despite the subtle nuances of life in the Far East, coming to America can be a daunting - if not bewildering task for many Japanese-based com-

"WHEN WE came here two years ago with plans to open a research and development center to support our (brake) products, I was an engineer who had never experienced opening a new facility," said Hiro (Yoshihiro) Ishigaki, executive vice president and general manager.

"I didn't know where to build, what was a good location, what expressway was the best. It was very confusing because you had the yellow book (pages), newspapers, magazines. It was very difficult."

Through a mutual friend, Ishigaki was introduced to the Byron W. Trerice Co. in Brimingham, a commercial and industrial real estate broker, which has geared itself over the last six years to serving the Far Eastern marketplace.

By all accounts, bridging the Pacific for Akebono had become old hat XY0456 for Trerice, which has seen its share of Japanese clients rise from a "trickle" in 1984 to represent 20 percent of the firm's annual business last year.

"WE NOTICED several years ago a small increase in the number of Japanese companies coming here and we felt the market was growing, so we set out early to master exactly what the market's needs were," said Tom Lasky, co-manager of Trerice's office leasing division, and an attorney.

"A vast amount of the companies coming here (from Japan) were auto-related and most of them required high-tech facilities, which meant a mix of office and light-industrial space. The facilities, for the most part, were single story, with high ceilings and no formal offices."

Adjusting its portfolio to account for these trends was perhaps the most simple of Trerice's tasks.

More difficult was overcoming cultural differences and business imbalances.

"The Japanese tend to think a lot before they speak and they almost never say no directly," Lasky said. "Instead they suggest alternative ways of accomplishing something and it can make things very timeconsuming.

WE LEARNED after the first few exchanges that we had to tell them how we operate and allow them to tell us how they operate and then find some common ground and go from there. It really helped to speed things up."

Ishigaki agreed. "We also learned through Byron Trerice that if you have something to say, say it directly and tell everything. In Japan, we don't say everything directly. If we don't like something, we offer a series of alternatives and then wait for the other party to negotiate." While Akebono opened its first U.S. facility in Chicago 10 years ago and recently entered into a joint venture with General Motors to produce precision brakes in Kentucky, Ishigaki said opening the Farmington

Hills office was his first assignment in America. Officially opened last October, Akebono has six engineers and one clerk at its 12,000-square-foot facility off Haggerty Road, just south of 12 Mile Road. The center plans to add seven more engineers by the end of the year.

Worldwide, the 61-year-old company employees 10,000 and has its headquarters in Tokyo.

In the last six years, Lasky said Trerice has helped 275 companies with Japanese ties find office or industrial space in Metropolitan Detroit. He expects that trend to continue, although more Japanese companies will begin to invest in real estate as opposed to leasing as they become more familiar with the mar-

LASKY SAID the Japanese influx also has helped boost revenues.

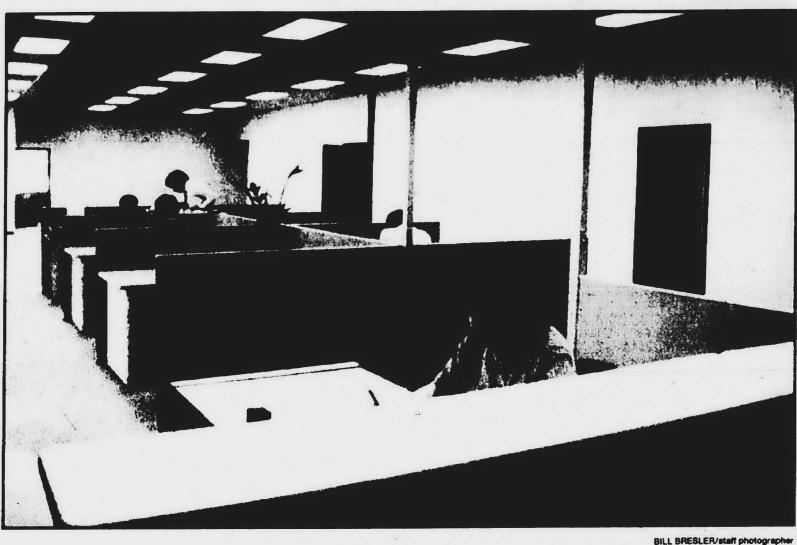

In 1988, Trerice negotiated 440 sales and lease transactions representing $175 million worth of business. The figures were up roughly 10 percent from 1987, he said.

With Pacific ties in place, Lasky said Trerice's future growth will come from creating new passages

Already a number of American companies have opened offices in Europe, as they seek to take advantage of the lifting of restrictive trade barriers in 1992. But the number of European companies coming to America has been small, Lasky said.

American offices have been adapted to suit Japanese firms that have moved into the area. Some of the changes include more open space and desks placed in a row with partitions but not the typical contained offices found in American offices.

Condo special assessments unpopular

Can you fill me in on what requirements there are in the state with respect to reserves. There is obviously some question on the part of the board of my condominium as to what is appropriate.

The condominium statute as modified by the regulations provide that, at a minimum, the association at the time of turnover should be afforded 10 percent of the budget noncumulainium project.

Of course, the question becomes whether the budget was adequate in order to reasonably meet the needs of the association.

In a more mature condominium after turnover, the condominium bylaws normally prescribe the amount of reserve that must be maintained.

On the other hand, there is case authority, particularly in California, that adequate reserves must be established in order to meet the reasonably expected needs of the association and that in the absence of such adequate reserves, the board of directors of the association and, for that matter, the developer who controlled the board prior to turnover, will be liable.

Moreover, special assessments are not popular and to the extent that the association believes that special assessments are desirable because it would keep the regular assessments lower for marketing purposes, it is acquiescing to the potential argument against it that it is in fact low balling its own assessments against its own members.

We have a director on the board of five directors who is always undermining and bad-mouthing the management company, the attorney and Nothing ever seems to be done the

be the all knowing expert when in fact all he did in his life was supervise a group of seventh graders in a gymnasium.

What do we do about this recalcitrant that is causing problems for our association?

There always is a divergence of personalities and consequently a difference of opinion on boards. Sometimes dissent which leads to constructive discussion is good.

On the other hand, there is frequently a type of board member which you are describing who, because of an egotistical drive to assert his position, whether it be in good faith or otherwise, tends to undermine the successful operation of the association.

What your director doesn't appreciate is that he may be incurring potential liability, to the extent that he is undermining the ability of the personnel retained by the association to assist in the operation of the association.

A meeting between him and the other members of the board to see whether or not his attitude can be tempered should be held.

Failing same, I would consider a censure or reprimand of the director and if that is not successful, I would threaten, subtly or not so subtly, to bring the matter to a vote of the ers of the association to have him removed.

Perhaps he will see that his apparently messianic zeal to usurp control of the association and to undermine the service personnel retained by the association, presumably in good faith, will not be successful and he will temper his comments and attitudes. Good luck.

I have read recently about site condominium projects and I may wish to develop the acreage which I own now as a condominium, if I can avoid the Plat Act. What has been your experience in this regard?

Site condominiums are being developed, particularly in Oakland County, without very much opposition from the local municipalities.

There is, of course, the question of whether a site condominium is an attempt to circumvent the Plat Act, but there is some authority in the condo queries problems which can attach to the development of a site condominium which in not normally the case in a regular condominium and it is extraordinarily important that you insure that the condominium documents provide the developer and, thereafter, the association, with adequate architectural control over the nature of the condominium units constructed.

Pint-size room accents

(AP) — In these days of grandiose Victorian-style interiors, small is also fashionable. Pint-sized furnishings, from half-sized chairs and chests to fine miniatures are turning up in rooms by top decorators.

Children's chairs look good in a grown-up room in front of table legs, said Marthe Boat of Chelsen Hou a Gastonia, M.C., maker of furniture accessories. They fill in the empty

These carefully crafted pint-sized pieces, including tables and diminutive chests which are good next to easy chairs, are sometimes called second size. They have been sold in antiques shops for years, but reproductions are filling in now that the old pieces have become more expensive and harder to find.

Because of the $485 price tag for a child's French chair known as a bergere, Judy George, chairwoman of the 10 Domain home furnishings stores on the East Coast, was surprised when it quickly sold out.

"I brought it in to have some fun, but the customers took it seriously,"

American offices have been adapted to suit Japanese firms that have moved into the area. Some of the changes include more open space and desks placed in a row with partitions but not the typical contained offices found in American offices.

Condo special assessments unpopular

Can you fill me in on what requirements there are in the state with respect to reserves. There is obviously some question on the part of the board of my condominium as to what is appropriate.

The condominium statute as modified by the regulations provide that, at a minimum, the association at the time of turnover should be afforded 10 percent of the budget noncumulative by the developer of the condominium project.

Of course, the question becomes whether the budget was adequate in order to reasonably meet the needs of the association.

In a more mature condominium after turnover, the condominium bylaws normally prescribe the amount of reserve that must be maintained. On the other hand, there is case authority, particularly in California, that adequate reserves must be established in order to meet the reasonably expected needs of the association and that in the absence of such adequate reserves, the board of directors of the association and, for that matter, the developer who controlled the board prior to turnover, will be liable.

Moreover, special assessments are not popular and to the extent that the association believes that special assessments are desirable because it would keep the regular assessments lower for marketing purposes, it is acquiescing to the potential argument against it that it is in fact low balling its own assessments against its own members.

We have a director on the board of five directors who is always undermining and bad-mouthing the management company, the attorney and the CPA.

Nothing ever seems to be done the way that suits him and he claims to be the all knowing expert when in fact all he did in his life was supervise a group of seventh graders in a gymnasium.

What do we do about this recalcitrant that is causing problems for our association?

There always is a divergence of personalities and consequently a difference of opinion on boards. Sometimes dissent which leads to constructive discussion is good.

On the other hand, there is frequently a type of board member which you are describing who, because of an egotistical drive to assert his position, whether it be in good faith or otherwise, tends to undermine the successful operation of the association.

What your director doesn't appreciate is that he may be incurring potential liability, to the extent that he is undermining the ability of the personnel retained by the association to assist in the operation of the associa-

A meeting between him and the other members of the board to see whether or not his attitude can be tempered should be held.

Failing same, I would consider a censure or reprimand of the director and if that is not successful, I would threaten, subtly or not so subtly, to bring the matter to a vote of the members of him removed.

Perhaps he will see that his apparently messianic zeal to usurp control of the association and to undermine the service personnel retained by the association, presumably in good faith, will not be successful and he will temper his comments and attitudes. Good luck.

I have read recently about site condominium projects and I may wish to develop the acreage which I own now as a condominium, if I can avoid the Plat Act. What has been your experience in this regard?

Site condominiums are being developed, particularly in Oakland County, without very much opposi-tion from the local municipalities.

There is, of course, the question of whether a site condominium is an attempt to circumvent the Plat Act, but there is some authority in the

condo queries Robert M. Melsner

Condominium Statute which would support the basis for a site condomi-

However, there are numerous problems which can attach to the development of a site condominium which in not normally the case in a regular condominium and it is extraordinarily important that you insure that the condominium documents provide the developer and, thereafter, the association, with adequate architectural control over the nature of the condominium units constructed.

More on this in future columns.

Pint-size room accents

(AP) - In these days of grandiose Victorian-style interiors, small is also fashionable. Pint-sized furnishings, from half-sized chairs and chests to fine miniatures are turning up in rooms by top decorators.

Children's chairs look good in a grown-up room in front of table legs, said Marths Book of Chelses House, a Gastonia, M.C., maker of furniture accessories. They fill in the empty spaces without adding bulk when you want a distillated Regish country feelles.

Chelses He use makes a Quee Anne style chair and a handpainted and lacquered 1790 Sheraton reproduction.

These carefully crafted pint-sized pieces, including tables and diminutive chests which are good next to easy chairs, are sometimes called second size. They have been sold in antiques shops for years, but reproductions are filling in now that the old pieces have become more expensive and harder to find.

Because of the $485 price tag for a child's French chair known as a bergere, Judy George, chairwoman of the 18 Domain home furnishings stores on the East Coast, was surprised when it quickly sold out.
