2 finalists eyè manager post

By Kevin Brown staff writer

Two finalists for the Plymouth city manager job have been identified by city commissioners.

They are Steve Walters, 46, Northville city manager for 161/2 years, and Gordon Jaeger, 59, former Battle Creek city manager for 12 years.

Mayor Dennis Bila said he favors Jaeger for the post. "I thought he was an outstanding person," said Bila, who met with Jaeger in Plymouth March 16.

"He has excellent recommendations, it's a very tough city to manage," Bila said.

What does he like best about just think he'd be a great person for us." Bila said

Walters, a Plymouth assistant city manager in 1967, "has done a good job in Northville. People there have a great deal of respect for him," Bila

The sub-committee of three city commissioners, or city manager selection committee, "is interviewing these people now," Bila said.

He added that city manager search consultant Rod Bartell will administer tests to the two candidates - the same testing given to three outside finalists who later turned down the job.

Walters is scheduled for testing to-Jaeger? "Mostly his experience. I day, and Jaeger on Tuesday.

Bila said he'll try to schedule public interviews with the two candidates - if both are still in the running - for April 16.

"We'll hopefully have a decision by the 23rd," he said.

'Gordon Jaeger is one of the best city managers in the state," said current Battle Creek manager Rance Leaders, assistant under Jaeger.

Why? "He works well with people, he knows how to get things done, he's innovative in development," Leaders

One of his main accomplishments was successfully merging the city of Battle Creek and its namesake township when Kellogg Corp. said it would move its world headquarters if the consolidation didn't occur

The effort included negotiations with various employee unions, a finance plan and an employee placement plan, Jaeger said.

"Gordon really pulled that thing together," said Leaders, adding Jaeger also led a successful downtown development effort.

"Battle Creek has essentially turned around in the '80s. It's really on its way toward being a model city," said a Battle Creek Inquirer reporter who called Jaeger "real strong in economic development."

Bargain hunters got discount prices on semi-trucks, a Mercedes Benz and other merchandise during an auction Wednesday of goods seized by a Canton-based theft task

A Detroit chop shop that was busted by the Western Wayne Auto Theft Task force after a three-year investigation netted 17 semi-trucks, all of which sold Wednesday at the Boulevard and Trumbell towing company auction.

The trucks, which sell for between $80,000 and $90,000 when new, were bought for as low as $4,500 at the auction. The Mercedes went for $2,250.

TO THE 100 or so bidders and spectators, the sale was a bargain

When Bell returned home at about 2 a.m., Stroup was on the couch, watching TV. She was still there when Bell went upstairs to bed.

About 5 a.m., Bell said Stroup staggered upstairs to the bedroom, bleeding from the arm and chest.

"She said, Tve been stabbed—put a tourniquet on my arm," Bell said. "I asked her, Who did this to on top of them. Months later, Virgnia Beach homicide detective Ray Greenwood, who worked on the Stroup case, happened to be in the police station the day Jesse Calvin Smith was being questioned about recent window peeping incidents and rapes.

Greenwood saw commonalities. The incidents all had taken place in the same apartment complex. The victims were all white women, attacked at night while they were sleeping. Kitchen utensils were used as weapons.

According to police who recounted Smith's confession, Smith was walking home from a party when light top young planists.

Bonamici, 14, recently won first place honors in a statewide concerto competition sponsored by the Michigian Music Teachers Association. It was the sixth major title captured since November by Bonamici, who studies piano technique at School-craft College.

"What sets Tony apart is that his interest in music is very deep," said Schoolcraft music professor Donald Morelock, his teacher for four years. 'Today, we don't want prodigies who copy the notes by rote. We want someone with an understanding of what they play. And Tony has that."

Earlier this mouth, Bonamici captured first place in his age group during a competition sponsored by the Ann Arbor Bach Association. He added the award to four others recently received for his piano playing and a fifth for his violin playing.

In addition to studying at School-craft, he has participated in presti-gious music camps in Interlochen and California.

Despite his school and practice schedules, and the two hours a day he spends at the family piano, Bonamci still finds time to serve as a principal second violinist with the Livonia Youth Philharmonic of Michigan.

Piano, though, is his primary instrument. He began playing at age o, after a trip to a local master store, "We didn't even have a plane at the time," said his mother, Curel. "But he wanted to play the organs

Post trauma mysigia is a condition which begins after an accident that is life-threatening or terrifying. The incident may include a fall from a building, an automobile crash, or an occurrance in which machinery, loosened from its moorings, pins the individual to the ground for minutes to hours. The person, though injured, has no muscle tear or bleeding at that time. Rather, the intense aching begins days or weeks after the original event. The pain is present day and night, and includes the muscles in the shoulders, thighs and legs.

Animals are abused by American farm system

I feel that I must respond to your Feb. 22 column, "Silly protest." It states that God put animals on Earth to be used by people.

The Humane Society of the United States reports that intensive animal capaning (for bacon and New York trips) is accountable for a significant contribution to environmental lestruction.

Carbon dioxide (from clearing forests for livestock grazing), nitrous oxide (from the chemical fertilizers for the grain to feed the animals) and methane (from the billions of farm animals' excrement) all have taken toll on the atmosphere and

School visitation policy is too restrictive

To the editor:
Few residents knew that the lymouth-Canton School Board was voting on a revision, adding restrictions to the parents and taxpayers, of the school's visitors policy.

Since this policy change was not shlicized by the board prior to the eting, I felt others should be made aware of it. I distributed 2,000 notices informing citizens of this ac-tion, stating that the board greatly desires community and parental in-put in its policy-making decisions.

nately, our school board (excluding member Barbara ham) showed me, at this meeting, that it did not desire our input. ed, in effect, it told 15 citizens who took the time to come out and express their concerns, that they were not interested in their involve-

I found several members arrogant and condescending and felt that the citizens were there more for entertainment of the board than thoughtful, cooperative interaction. I apologize to those who received a flier, for my assumption was that our opinions were welcomed.

A number of citizens asked that the visitation issue be tabled until a new committee composed of both staff, community and parents could reach a satisfactory wording for this new policy that would protect both the rights of the parents and the teachers. It would have been very easy for the board to agree and it would have helped to improve community-school relations, clarify misunderstandings concerning the policy and leave a more trusting re-lationship in its wake.

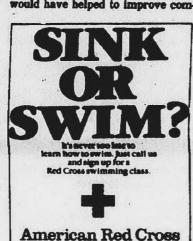

This new policy makes it mandatory for a parent to "make arrange-ments ahead of time with the classroom teacher" before visiting his child's classroom.

Since it is possible that the problem lies with the teacher, it is counterproductive for the parent to have to obtain permission from this teacher to see his child in a classroom environment. Instead, it should be mandatory for the parent to report his presence to the school office and prove the appropriateness and stability of his visit. I have every confidence that the principal's office is capable of adequately acreening individuals who are irate or out of

Despite our voice of concern, the school board voted to restrict parents from entering the public school's classroom and insist the taxpayers give up their rights to free access in a reasonable and peaceful

My feelings on this meeting are that it is more than ever a time for a change in our school board. I am extremely disappointed in the lack of responsiveness and accountability of our present board. I would encourage other citizens to think seriously about just what they want in a school board.

Price will be paid in future

GOV. JAMES Blanchard would give some sice property tax relief to people who already own a house. But the young bucks and does planning to buy houses in the years ahead will pay "full retail price," as they say in the otheric jokes about WASPS.

have been rising with the market, at double-digit rates in recent Blanchard's plan is aimed at capping property assessments at the rate of consumer price inflation in Detroit.

The long-term effects of the governor's plan will be to reward those who stay in one place for many years and sock newcomers.

SUPPOSE BLANCHARD'S relief plan had gone into effect 10 years ago. Suppose I had bought a house then for $50,000. It would be assessed at 50 percent, or $25,000. Suppose market prices rose 10 percent a year compounded. In the 10th year, my house would be worth $117,898 and assessed for

Ah. but Blanchard's treasury has been there to help me.

My effective assessment would rise just 5 percent compounded, the CPI rate. So I pay school property taxes on the basis of my original $25,000 assessment times 5 percent compound - just $38,783 in the 10th year.

The state treasury pays my school operating property taxes on $20,166 — the difference between the true SEV of $58,949 and the adjusted rate of $38,783.

A good deal for me, eh?

THE AVERAGE school tax rate in Michigan is about 33 mills, or $33 per $1,000 of assessment. Without Blanchard's relief plan, I would pay the full $1,945 in school taxes in the 10th year.

But with his plan, the state treasury writes a check to my local district for 33 mills times $20,166 or

I would pay just $1,280. The longer I stay in my house, the greater the share of my local school property tax paid by the state. In my hypothetical 10-year period, the state would have paid a total of $2,772 of my taxes.

Tim Richard

Moreover, the state aid I receive ncourages me to vote higher tax rates for schools. Shucks, my young neighbors and the store owners pay the full bill, but I won't.

LET'S SAY I sell my house in the 10th year for any reason - growing family, empty nester, retirement, a new job in a different

The newcomers start by paying the full shot of $1,945 in school property taxes.

That's not a nice thing to do to young people trying to start fami-

The Greeks had a word for it: gerontocracy, government by the

THE IRONY is that Blanchard also is pushing a program called HOST, home ownership savings trust. The propsective house buyers put their savings in a state-operated, tax-sheltered fund and earn interest to accumulate a down payment on their first house.

With one hand, the state helps them save. With the other, it socks them with a property tax bill larger by half than the last one I paid.

Let's look at it from the pioneer point of view — westward the wagons, adventure ho, new opportuni-

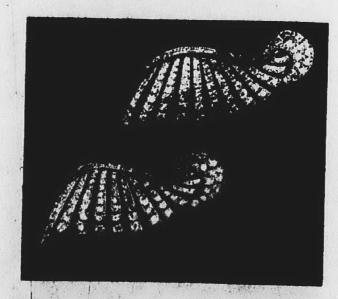

What incentive do I have to take the risk of a new economic adventure elsewhere if I'm going to be punished for moving by paying $665 a year more in property taxes for the same-sized house?

BLANCHARD'S plan would discourage what the late "Engine Charlie" Wilson called the hound dogs, who hunt for opportunity, and reward the kennel dogs, who sit on their fannies and howl for food to be brought to them. I'm still surprised that someone so business-oriented even offered it.

Any property tax plan I support should help young, middle-aged, old, homeowners, farmers and

Herbs add character or accent

In most ethnic cuisines, certain berbs are so important to a given dish that it would lack its character without them.

The dish would become something else - and certainly something less.

Often, one herb is so characteristic of a region or country that its fragrance and taste can call to mind an entire cuisine.

Thyme, rosemary and marjoram, the herbs that make up the basics in that neat little pot of "Herbs from Provence" that many gourmet retailers sell for ridiculously steep prices, would be considered the character herbs from the Provence region of France.

Oregano, freshly diced and rubbed into an olive oil-draped leg of lamb, heralds from Greece. While basil, the main staple in pesto and classic tomato sauces, has its passport stamped from It-

But it's just not as simple as chopping up a handful of these fresh beauties and tossing them into a dish to make it shine like an August moon. In addition to the so-called, above-named character herbs, sophisticated cooks should also be aware of the accent herbs. Parsley, chives, chervil and dill offer a subtle background to many dishes that are virtually nonexistent to the untrained palate.

THE MAIN DIFFERENCE between the two groups of herbs is, of course, the taste. The character herbs are robust and can easily overpower when sprinkled with a heavy hand. The accent herbs have the property to mellow out and accentuate the taste from Robust herbs can, with one swoop of the senses, blow away a delicately flavored fish or poultry. Seemingly, they can add magic to a vegetable while another herb might become lost.

Big deal, you say. You know what you like and like what you use, right? I'm sharing this with you because now is the perfect time to begin a fresh herb garden. With winter passing peacefully into oblivion, clean out the spice cabinet and rid your kitchen of those assorted jars and bottles that have long sinced passed their

Once a cook has tasted the intense and distinctive flavors of fresh herbs, it seems a culinary crime to go back to using a dried

Last year, the Janes gang garden sprouted an assortment of parsleys, a chive plant that has already returned with the early spring weather we experienced two weeks ago, fresh basil, thyme and, of course, mint. This year, we have already budgeted a larger area for herbs that will undoubtedly include the likes of fresh watercress, sorrel, oregano and some sage.

These are all basic herbs which can be bought in seed form at just about any garden shop and, for the uninitiated, can even be bought in little pots right up to growing season from larger and more specialty greenhouses

Bordine's, the garden mecca for north and east siders in Rochester, always seems to have an abundance of domestic and exotic herbs in both seed and pot form.

On the west side, Graye's Greenhouses in Plymouth is one of those neat little, virtually unknown spots that has been around for years for the serious gardener but for some odd reason remained unknown to the press.

There's still time to locate one of the many great seed catalogues out there. Some of my favorites include "The Cooks Gar-den, P.O. Box 66, Londonderry, Vt. 05145; "Shepherds Seeds, 50 Irene Street, Torrington, Conn. 06790, and Redwood City Seed Co., P.O. Box 361, Redwood City, Calif. 94064.

Shop has saucy appeal

By Janice Brunson staff writer

ETTING SAUCED is, according to a pair of creative suburban entreprenurs and a culinary arts graduate, an ideal state of being.

Not sauced, as in alcoholic titillation, but sauced as in an array of savory relishes, marinades, dressings and other mouth-watering offerings available at Get Sauced, an inviting shop in Detroit's Trapper's Alley whose collection of sauces and related fare is possibly the largest

Unique enhancements for otherwise plain or bland food is "a developing art," said Eric Berkley, pointing to some 300 decorative condiments on display. "You'd be amazed at the variety of tastes that are available," he said.

Berkley, a Farmington Hills attorney, launched the shop five months ago with partner Mark Hyman of Troy, who owns two additional Trapper's Alley shops, a toy store dubbed Lost and Wound and the Children's Book Mark.

Long-time friend Ann Frogner, a 1975 graduate of Schoolcraft College's culinary arts program in Livonia, manages the endeavor, personally tastetesting each item and guaranteeing it meets health and ingredient guidelines she has establish-

A STROLL ABOUT Get Sauced is an experience in international cuisine, a journey of taste to far-away places. There is pungent marinade studded with tamarind from Thailand, hot Jaimaican Hell Fire and Pickapeppa sauces or Jerk paste for preserving meats, and creamy Almond Cooking Sauce prepared by an East Indian woman drawing on traditional family cuisine.

Many of the offerings are based on family heritage, old recipes handed down from one generation to the next and translated into commercial offerings by enterprising descendants.

"People have had recipes for years and have decided to spread the wealth," Berkley observed.

Jabar's Complements, a line of unusual vinaigrettes spiced with peaches, raspberries and other fruits for marinating chicken and meat, is a case in point. Drawing on tried and true recipes from the past, two Walled Lake women prepare the marinade and introduce it to gourmands in cooking demonstrations at Get Sauced and else-

"A tremendous amount of good flavors come from Michigan," Hyman said, adding the store's two top sellers hail from Michigan - Billy Bone's Original BBQ Sauce and Mucky Duck Mustard. Billy Bone's concoction, the current reigning champion sauce in international barbeque competition, is produced by the master barbequer in Sanford. Mucky Duck, a pungent English pubstyle mustard of eggs, vinegar and sugar, is prepared by a woman in Franklin Village.

Other Michigan products include Houlihan's Gourmet Applesauce and a version for toddlers, made in Auburn Heights, and low-calorie American Spoon Foods jams and jellies produced in Pe-

"TRY THIS. I'VE been trying it on bread for a couple of days now,"said Frogner, providing an ample dolup from a sample jar of a new smoky sweet mustard. If the mustard passes Fogner's taste-test muster, it will be included in the shop's ever-expanding inventory. Frogner and the partners are continuously looking for new items.

Matouk's Hot Calypso Sauce, for example, was recently added after a customer, a commercial airline pilot from the West Coast, extolled the product, describing it as "the best ever." Fregner immediately obtained a sample from Oregon and, agreeing with the pilot's assessment, now stocks

J.C.'s Hot Sauce, a delicious salsa prepared in Texas and another recent addition, was discovered by Berkley at a New Year's Eve party. His sister-in-law is currently perfecting a family recipe for a hot fruit sauce, described as "out of this world," and an area restaurateur of Lebanese descent is busy creating garbanzo bean and eggplant relishes. When ready, each will be submitted to Frogner for taste testing.

Other recent additions include select nuts soups and pastas, including Cinnamon Spice Pecans from Georgia, low-salt Swedish Lentil Soup and a new pasta topping with the tantalizing name of Cowboy Caviar.

HEART SMART products, aimed at the health conscious or others on restricted diets, feature Cajun Power, a garlic sauce free of salt, and other products low in salt and sugar. Preservatives are eschewed in all products, according to Frogner.

Ever tasted Garlic Lover's Herb Sauce by Cook's Classics, a seemingly gentle sauce that packs a subtle wallop of taste sensation? Purchase $40 in goods from Get Sauced and receive a free jar, an excellent marketing ploy, according to Hyman, because once tasted, Lover's becomes

New weekly column focuses on wine

Introducing Eleanor and Ray Heald, wine journalists, who will begin writing a weekly column "Focus on Wine," to appear each Monday in Taste starting April 2.

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

The Healds, who live in Troy, began writing their first regular column about wine in 1982 but their fascination with the grape goes back a few years earlier.

'Our interest in wine came first, when we started making amateur wine at home," Ray Heald said. "We began buying wine to make a com-parison. We went to Karl Bailey for many years. Eleanor and I picked a ton of grapes one fall and made wine from it in small batches."

Bailey, who is now deceased, had a vineyard on Adams Road in Bloomfield Hills, which is now managed by different owners.

Spaghetti, meatballs a hit with youngsters

"On top of spaghetti, all cov-ered with cheese, I lost my poor meathall when somebody sneezed. "It rolled off the table and onto the floor, and then my poor meat-ball rolled out the front door."

It does make me wonder as to who actually does make up songs like

And furthermore, who keeps teaching them to succeeding genera-tions of children? I am always amazed and delighted when I hear my three boys telling the same jokes that were hilarious hits when I was growing up.

Of course, when I mention to them that I used to tell that same joke when I was young, they make a clamor and want to know what else I did "back in the olden days." Really, children can be s-o-o-o impertinent, sometimes.

AS YOU may have guessed, this week's Winner Dinner is a wonderful recipe for spaghetti and meatballs.

Submitted by Marie Leinonen of Westland, these meatballs have a great taste and, because they cook in the sauce, they don't have to be pre-

MARIE'S SPAGHETTI AND MEATBALLS

This recipe makes enough sauce and meetballs for at least one other dinner so just freeze what you don't use and you will have a dinner waiting for you. Although I did not test this, I see no reason why ground turkey meat couldn't be used in lieu of the ground beef.

MEATBALLS 3 pounds ground round

2 cups Progresso Italian bread 16 cup Italian (Zesto) Salad

Dressing fresh minced garlic cloves or garlic powder, to taste

salt and pepper, to taste 2-3 tablespoons chopped pars-1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

SAUCE 3 cans tomato sauce, 15-ounce

1 can tomato paste, 6-ounce

1 can of water, 6 ounces 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Combine the ingredients for the meatballs. Mix with both hands and then form into small balls, about the size of a walnut. Mix up the ingredients for the sauce in a heavy-bottomed pan. Drop in the meatballs and simmer at a medium-low heat for 11/2 hours, stirring frequently so that the sauce and meetbells don't burn. Serve over cooked spaghetti noodlas.

TOSSED GREEN SALAD

Mix up washed and dried salad greens and add chopped veggies of your choice. Toss with a light roating of Italian salad dressing.

GARLIC TOAST

If you are a garlic fan, you will love this easy recipe for garlic toast. Mash well or put through a gartic press 3-4 fresh cloves of gartic. Put them in a saucepan along with 14 cup of butter or margarine. Heat and stir until the butter or margarine is completely melted. Brush on freshly sliced pieces of Italian bread. Sprinkle with a light dusting of Parmesan cheese or chopped fresh parsley. Broil until bubbly and golden and serve at once.

SHERBET OR FROZEN YOGURT

There is nothing fancy or complicated about this dessert. Simply offer a refreshing dish of sherbet or frozen yogurt to your family, a light and cooling ending to a tasty dinner.

Some fruits last longer, but special care needs to be taken to ensure all the nutrients and good flover are retained. Following are some storage tips for fruits and vegetables.

Green leafy vegetables quickly wilt and change florer as water evaporates from tissues. Most frush green vegetables keep well and stay crisp if put in covered containers or plastic bags, then refrigerated. If you wash lettuce, colory and other leafy vegetables before storing, drain thoroughly because too much moisture can hasten decay.

Obesity can start a chain reaction to poor health that can be devastating.

To begin with, most physicians and researchers consider obesity to be the major cause of diabetes in adults. Up to 90% of adults diagnosed as having diabetes, in fact, are overweight.

Of course, once you have diabetes your chances of developing heart disease, kidney disease, or going blind increase dramatically.

As a person with diabetes you'll be twice as prone to heart disease. 17 times as prone to kidney disease. And 25 times as prone to blindness, if you are insulin-dependent.

Diabetes, in fact, can shorten your life expectancy by one-third.

Fortunately, diabetes in adults, in most cases, can be prevented with careful weight control, healthy eating habits, and regular exercise.

So if you're overweight, doesn't it make sense to take off the extra weight? Instead of years off your life?

Plymouth Salem softball coach Rob Willette will be working with a young and inexperienced team this spring, but that won't stop the Rocks from making a run at the title.

Junior Andrea Welling is expected to lead the Rocks from the mound. She was a pitcher on last year's junior varsity team. She will get relief from sophomore Emily Giuliani.

"We are looking to be a good team," Wil-lette said. "I think we will get better as the season goes on, and who knows what will happen? The team has a good attitude and works together real well. I think it will be important for us to win our first couple of games in order to instill some confidence.

Salem will open the season Thursday, April 5, at home against Parmington Hills Harrison. The Rock will play in the Allen Park Tournament on April 7.

The tournament in Allen Park will be a good test for us," Willette said. "We have four tournaments scheduled this season. It will allow some of our younger players to get some playing time and game experience."

Willette says he expects many teams in the Western Lakes Activities Association to be tough this season.

Andrea Velthoven, senior, Mercy: elthoven, a three-year starter and an all-Catholic League choice, played opposite Goff as the other outside attacker.

She carved out a .303 kill percentage, and she was a 91-percent server and 89percent passer. Velthoven contributed 88 service aces for the year and more than four digs per game.

"Andrea's improvement from last year was dramatic," DeBellso said. "She turned herself into a powerful hitter and aggressive defensive player."

Diane Allison, senior, Garden City: Allison was voted the most valuable player in the Northwest Suburban League and received a berth on the all-region first Forty-three percent of Allison's spikes went for kills, and 24 percent of her serves resulted in aces. She also averaged three blocks per match.

Diane is a very good player with excellent potential," coach John Groves said, adding Allison, who has a 3.5 grade-point average plans to attend Henry Ford Community College on a scholarship.

Karl Domanski, senior, Ladywood: Domanski, who was a three-year regular and helped the Blazers win backto-back state championships in her sophomore and junior seasons, was named to the Michigan High School Coaches Association's Dream Team this year.

Marsle Spender, senior, Ladywood: Spender took on a starting role in her senior year and helped the Blazers remain a statewide power in the sport.

"Marsie's improvement came because of two decisions: staying at the JV level for passing and setting experience during her junior year and playing Junior Olympic volleyball last spring," Teeters said.

"Marsie proved to be our top pesser in serve reception and played a major part in our offense by setting three positions and freeing up Kari Domanski to spike in the front row."

Sue Bell, junior, Stevenson: Bell, an outside hitter, had 144 kills out of 401 good spikes, and she had 101 aces out of 353 good serves. Bell also had 30 solo blocks and 27 assist blocks. Her serving percentage was .842, hitting percentage 848 and reception percentage .883.

"Sue has been our most consistent player all year," coach Lee Cagle said. 'She is our serve-ace leader, our most reliable defensive player and left-side hitter.

Misfortune follows Taormina

Bad luck isn't a constant companion of Shella Taormina's. It just seems that way.

The reason is timing. When had luck visits Taormina, it picks the worst time possible to do it.

It should be understood, first and foremost, that unless it's an Olympic year, the one event collegiate swimmers focus on during training is the NCAA meet. So, essentially, Taormina had been working since last summer with the 400 IM race in the NCAA finals, which were last week at the University of Texas in Austin, as her-focal point.

Despite a last-place finish, Mike Kneiding, Scott Lock and Jason Weber are extremely talented hockey players, according to Jets General Manager and Head coach Tim

"Whatever the circumstances. they come to play 100 percent of the time," said the coach.

Weber and Lock are on the same line that has mustered an 11-game scoring streak.

Weber, a 16-year-old center, is playing in a league that is normally stocked with 17 to 20 year olds. Currently a junior at Livonia Ste-

WEBER RECEIVED two most valuable awards in the five Canadian tournaments the Little Caesars team attended.

As of March 7, Weber had tallied 16 goals and 19 assists.

Lock, an 18-year-old freshman at Schoolcraft College, recorded eight goals and 22 assists in 39 games. Last season, Lock attended Red-Opie considers Lock to be one of the top forwards in Junior A.

"He has a lot to offer with unrivaled skating, shooting and passing ability," said Opie.

Lock's future ambitions are to play college hockey and pursue a career in architectural drawing.

KNEIDING, ALSO a student at Schoolcraft College, plays forward for the Jets. He proves his ability to put the puck in the net, tallying 19 goals and 14 assists in 36 games.

Scoring goals is nothing new to Kneiding. He recorded 62 points in 25 games last season for the Livonia Churchill hockey team. He also achieved All-Observer, All-State and A, plans to play college hockey after All-League honors a season ago.

Be cautious when doing butt exercises

Dear Myrna: I read your column about butt exercises. I've started lifting weights. Can you give me some beavy duty exercises with weights for my butt? Thank you, Jackie.

Without knowing you, your body type or your strengths, it is really difficult for me to recommend the proper butt exercises by letter.

Butt exercises, using a lot of weight, can be very tricky. You have to be very cautious and conscious of your lower back. I would like to discuss some principles of weight training to eliminate any injuries which could occur. I call it: hard and easy days.

Top athletes don't perform the same activity each day to prevent overtraining and injury. Hard days are those days when you put (what might feel like) all your energy into weight training. Improvement comes from hard days when the body is stressed. Stress refers to the intensity a person puts into her workout, not the amount of time

The body, however, must be stressed for a minimum amount of time in order for the improvement to take place. This time will vary with the muscle group. You should feel your heart rate go up and also produce a good sweat. No more than three hard days a week.

Our muscles require time to heal. That's why you need easy days in your training program. You will benefit from your heavy hard-day workout only if you allow your muscles time to recover. If your muscles are stressed before they recover, they can deteriorate. Here are three reasons why your muscles need to recover:

 Muscle fiber is damaged by hard exercise and requires healing time proportionate to the amount of injury.

 Muscle fuel — glycogen — is used up. It takes the body hours and hours to replenish it.

• Potassium, a mineral released from the muscle cell to control heat, also is depleted. Again, it takes hours and hours to restore the supply.

This is a basic training principle you should know. I hope you have a professional helping you with your weight training. Please feel free to stop in and talk. I have to analyze your situation in order to recommend the best butt exercises for you. I hope you appreciate my cautiousness. See you soon.

(Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company, Inc. of Bloomfield Township and recent appointee to The President's Council on Physical Fitness, is happy to answer any questions regarding exercise. Please send your questions to: Sports Department, Myrna Partrich, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, Mi. 48009.)

It appears Parmington, which posted a 16-1-4 record last season, will be one of the most talented teams in the Western Labos Activities Association, a conference which has produced six state champions over the past seven years.

"Farmington is the team to beat this season," said Livonia Churchill coach Nick O'Shea. "They only lost a couple of players. They should be tough."

The Falcons, who reached the Class A semifinals last year before losing to Troy Athens, return four all-area players in Carrie Maier,

Amy Trunk, Sue Gibeon and Marge-

Major scored 23 goals and tallied 14 assists last season, while Trunk sparked the Falcons with 24 goals and 21 assists.

"They're all tough — Churchill, Salem, Canton, Farmington and Northville," said Livonia Stevenson coach Mary Kay Boots.

Churchill, which finished with a solid 6-3-5 record last season, returns both goaltenders in Dana Keller and Monia Cervi.

"WE NEED to score a few more goals than we did last season," O'Shea said. "If we do that we have the solid goaltending to be a good

Under the bright lights of the gymnasium, the player swings his racket. He drives the ball, sending it spinning across the table. In a fraction of a second, his opponent hits it back to him.

The player is tense and in control. His muscles seem ready to explode, but instead the energy is channeled to his arm. His eyes are fixed on the ball as if hypnotized by it.

fieldhouse. "I've been doing it all my life," said Veillette, whose father was coach for the table tennis club that met at Cobo Hall. "I think I like it because I had some success. I got a chance to travel a lot and it's good exercise. I have an office job and sit all day.'

Veillette, an engineer for Rockwell International, is a member of the Detroit Table Tennis Club. The club has some 200 members who play at one or more of four centers in Auburn Heights, West Bloomfield, Royal Oak and Southgate.

The club has some of the best players in the state. Detroiter David Skrzypek represented the United States in the 1988 Para-Olympic games in Seoul, Korea. He had "a couple of wins and played against the winner."

HE ALSO is proof that table tennis is a suitable sport for people with physical challenges. Skrzypek wears an artificial leg. He started playing table tennis six years ago. He also plays tenmis and throws the javelin.

"I like table tennis better because I've reached a higher level in it," he said. He won a gold medal at the 1988 U.S. Amputee Athletic Association Games. He hopes to represent the U.S. again in the 1992 Para-Olympic games in Barcelona, Spain. The object of table tennis is simple - hit a small white ball ver a net and into your oppoent's field in such a way that eir your opponent misses the hall or hits it only after it has ounced twice on his side, so you ore a point. The person who ores 21 points, with a two-point ad, wins the game. The racket is extremely imertant to the game. Players their playing style. The will have a totally different

Under international rules, one of side of the paddle surface must be black and one side red. Prior to the game, the player must show his opponent the racket to see what kind of surface it has. Thanks to the colors, the player knows which surface is hitting the ball and what kind of spin it will

PLAYERS HOLD their rackets two different ways. With the shake-hand style, used here and in Europe, the player holds the racket as if he were shaking The player is table tennis state somebody's hand. With the Oriental or pen-hold style, favored by Rochester resident has won the Asian players, the player holds it as if it were a pen.

According to Veillette, a good player has "speed, agility and brains."

"It's all concentration," he said. "You have to keep your eyes on the ball and it's hard because it is so small." As far as what to look for, "the two most important things are speed and spin, a forward spin in the ball," Veillette said.

Players must pay constant attention to the ball and to the side of the racket being used. They have to read the speed of the ball as it is coming toward them, one reason why it is so hard to watch table tennis on television. The image on the screen cannot reflect the speed and spin of the ball. It may look as if it were traveling slowly, when in fact it is going

"It is much quicker than any of the other racket sports," Veillette

While some people may not think of table tennis players as all-around athletes, many of them play other sports. The majority play tennis during the summer and table tennis during the winter. Veillette plays tennis, golf and softball. In winter, he goes cross-country skiing.

CLUB MEMBER Bill Byrnes said most people play the game for fun and practice. Once popular during the Depression, table tennis isn't as much now, partly because "Americans go for ex-pensive sports like golf and ten-

Most people start playing the game in their basements; others play at the YMCA or at a youth center, Byrnes said. "If they get good they start looking for better competition and find it in a club like this "

The Detroit Table Tennis Club has centers in Auburn Hills, Southgate, West Bloomfield and Royal Oak. For information, call George Scheipner at 354-5940.

The state table tennis chamionship will start at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, March 31, in the fieldhouse at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, Ever-green at Hubbard Drive, Dearborn. It is free and open to the

It was what the Irish call a "soft day." In other words, it drizzled. And sometimes, it rained.

But to the 1,000 or so partici-pants in the eighth annual Motor City Stridders St. Patrick's Day run/walk, 1990's bone-numbing dampness was a great improvement over 1988's blizzard.

"Actually, it's the best weather we've ever had for this race," Dr. Ed Kzoloff, president of the Motor City Striders, told the crowd.

Mention running club and what comes to mind? Masochism, right? "No pain, no gain" and similar mantras? Well, maybe some running groups, but not the Striders.

Sure, there are dedicated leanand-mean marathoners, but many members are more casual runners or walkers who just like to exercise and enjoy the camraderie that characterizes Striders' meet. There are even a few hardcore sloths, eating sticky buns, while presiding over the registration tables.

'We welcome anybody who wants to join us for regular exercise," said Kozloff, who has been president since 1975. "We try to have a mix of race types so everybody can participate and enjoy. The Belle Isle run is a pure killer, while the St. Patrick's Day run is a family event.

'The Detroit Dietatic Association one mile and 10-K is somewhere in between."

(For those of us who don't know how far 10-K is and didn't know who to ask, Kozloff offers the answer. A 10-K equals 6.2 miles.)

CERTAINLY, there seemed to be something for everyone at the St. Patrick's Day race.

There was a 440-yard run for children 12 and younger, which drew about 20 entrants. The youngest runner was 31/2-year-old Allison Simms, who ran accompanied by her father. An even younger, anonymous participant was disqualified because his father carried him the entire quar-

"All finishers get ribbons and certificates," said Kozloff, "to discourage the 'Little League Syndrome.' We don't want parents pushing their children to win.

There was a 2-K (1% miles) walk, with ribbons and certificates to all winners, and the main event, the four-mile run. The first 100 men and the first 150 women each received medals and all finishers picked up certificates. The top five men and woman got awards.

The team spirit of the Striders is reflected in the fact that almost every participant gets some recognition for their efforts, and that times are not officially recorded. It's the duty of every finisher to remember his or her own time as displayed on a large digital clock at the finish line.

Had justice been served, there would have been an award for best costume. Naturally, green was predominant, in every possible genre of clothing, including a well-muscled adult male in an elf

"This event is almost as colorful as our Halloween run, although the New Year's run comes a close second," said Tom Fraser.

Like some other Striders, including Kozloff, Fraser spends more time officiating than running at events. Both men do most of their running on their own

THERE MAY be such a thing as "runner's high," but most of the Striders, whatever their endurance level, emphasize the general sense of well-being that comes from regular exercise.

Up until four years ago, Rosemery Brockelhurst's idea of

One of the fringe benefits of racing in the streets of Detroit is the chance to literally run the stop light.

Charm, good spirits, fine dialogue and excellent performances successfully elevate a hackneyed old storyline into a romantic comedy hit. Give me a break with the plot for "Pretty Weman" (A-, R, 129 minutes) — major Wall Street mogul falls for a prostitute. Love changes both their lives.

Sounds soapy and dopey, but fine acting by Richard Gere as Edward Lewis, the Wolf of Wall Street, and Julia Roberts as Vivian Ward, something special in girls of the street, makes all the difference.

Roberts mixes the correct proportions of careless diction, insouciant hip movements, intelligent charm, a will to learn, wide-eyed naivete and street smarts.

That combination of charm and talent propels Vivian's dialogue beyond the easy and cliched. To the Wolf of Wall Street she says, "I see, your business is the same as mine, you screw people for money."

Doing just that, buying companies at bargain prices and selling them for their assets is what Lewis does so well with help of his attorney, Philip Stuckey (Jason Alexander) who plays it with a feral intensity that should raise everybody's blood pressure over at the Bar Association.

THE BACKGROUND to Vivian and Edward's love affair is an attempt to take over Morse Industries whose president, James Morse, is played with retired good grace by Ralph Bullamy.

It all adds up to a Pygmalion fantasy as Vivian, the lady of the night, becomes a charming lady — in the best some — and represents the essence of feminiality.

Good packing, crisp editing, sharp dialogue, elegant Beverly Hills cinematography, lots of good music and fime supporting performances — hey, sometime like a terrific, romantic comedy. It is. Whether or not "Cinema Paradiso" (A-, 120 minutes) wins tonight's best foreign film Oscar, it remains an excellent, endearing film. In particular, if you're a film buff, if you get all warm and fuzzy thinking about Ralling films of the '50s or if you're just a stocker for nostalgia, ema Paradiso" will sweep you

In the final analysis, it is not only a celebration of old movies but an affirmation of life and a testimony to the finest love, that which sacrifices for the sake of the beloved.

Meanwhile in another venue, they're still fighting the Cold War. Unlike "Red October," "The Fourth War" (C+, R, 90 minutes) has some intense moments and is far better positioned politically than that submarine epic. What happens to Cold Warriors when peace breaks out?

Ever since Vietnam, Colonel Jack Knowles (Roy Scheider) has been on the muscle, so to speak, looking for trouble. It is the winter of 1988 and he has been assigned command of an America patrol along the West German-Czech border. His counterpart on the Soviet side, Colonel N.A. Valachev (Jurgen Prochnow), has the same bitterness from Afghanistan that Knowles does from Vietnam.

The basic plot structure is promising — What happens when there is no need for violence but aggressive, authoritarian men filled with hostility and trained to fight are given

THE ANSWER, of course, is obvi-ous and frightening but the film gets trite and suppy in its latter stages and collapses from the weight of its clickes. As well, it's rather hard to believe that Colonel Enewise could be settly math accepts a heavily so easily speak across a heavily guarded border, particularly after hostilities between the two colonels escalated.

Still, "The Pourts War" is well-paced, nicely photographed and includes a fine supporting performance by Harry Dean Stanton as Gen. Hackworth. But we never learn to whom his voice-over narrative is directed. The trite derivation of the title, when added to all the cliches, wipes this one out of contention for

"Coupe de Ville" (A-, PG-13, 90 minutes), written by Detroiter Mike Binder, is a funny, touching story of brotherly hate, fatherly love and the recognition of the importance of family bonds and loyalty.

Marvin (David Stern), Buddy (Ayre Gross) and Bobby (Patrick Dempsey) have been summoned to Florida for their mother's (Rita Taggert) birthday. The boys' father (Alan Arkin) has purchased a '54 Coupe de Ville as a birthday present. He arranges for his three sons to drive it from Michigan to surprise

THROUGH A series of misadventures, the boys become men and the men become brothers. All the performances are first rate. Dempsey is especially excellent as Bobby, the delinquent with a heart of gold. Alan Arkin also is very good as Fred Libner, a dying man whose gesture brings joy to his wife and closeness to his boys. The attention to period details is worth noting as well particularly for those of us who remember the old Stuckey signs.

"Coupe de Ville" reminds us all of the feeling of connection that we share or should share with our families. See it with someone who might have forgotten that it's OK to agree to disagree and still be fond of each other. (Reviewed by Susan Finc-eign film are read at tonight's Academy Awards ceremony, most viewers will have little background on which to base an educated guess Only France's "Camille Claudel (playing this weekend at the Detroit Film Theater) has had solid booking.

By John Mon apocial writer

'Camille Claudel" is based on the obsessive relationship between Prench sculpture Auguste Rodin and his talented pupil. Isabelle Adjani has been nominated in the best actress category, a relative rarity for a foreign language film.

Actually, this year's Occars have a decided international flair. In several of the major categories, filmmakers from lands far away have a chance at taking the gold-plated

Consider the best picture nominees. "My Left Foot" comes from Ireland. Two others, "Driving Miss Daisy" and "Dead Poets Society," were directed by Australian expatriates Bruce Beresford and Peter Weir. "Foot's" Jim Sheridan was nominated for best director as was Britain's Kenneth Branagh (also best actor) for "Henry V."

THOUGH IT isn't likely to win for best picture, "My Left Poot" did get that award from the New York Film Critics Circle. If old Uncle Occar has any taste at all, Daniel Day-Lowis will take best actor for his role as artist Christy Brown, a talented man stricker with stricken with cerebral palecy.

It wouldn't be that big of a surprise, Occar likes an obviously difficult role, especially when it deals with an individual fighting either an affliction or drunkenne various times through "My Left Foot," Day-Lewis displays both.

Tom Cruise, as the wheelchairbound Vietnam vet of "Born on the Fourth of July," has a similar advan-

Sound a little smarmy and overly cynical? It should. Oscar from his conception has been something of a star-studded joke. If there really is a best picture of the year, Oscar al-ways seems to pick the wrong one.

I wasn't even born yet and I'm still furning because "Citizen Kane" (the greatest film ever made) lost to "How Green Was My Valley" in 1941. I think I stopped watching the Awards when muscle-bound "Rocky" beat "Taxi Driver" in 1976.

Was "Doctor Docittie" really nomi-nated or was I dreaming?

nated or was I dreaming?

Politics and popularity dominate the Academy Awards. This year's foreign film selections both play by the rules and break them. Many feel that Claude Chabrel's "Stery of Women" should have been nominated. Perhaps the subject (a woman's abortionist executed in the 1940s)' changed the Academy's mind.

YET, THERE is also "Jesus of Montreal," a French-Canadian film-about a drunken actor whose role of, Jesus Christ on stage translates bizarrely into his screwed-up personal life. It generated a fair amount of controversy in the North American

My choice for best foreign language film? The last two nominees, Santiago, the Stoy of His New Life' (Puerto Rico) and "Waltzing Rag-" itze" (Denmark), are out of the running for obscurity reasons.

Italy's acclaimed "Cinema Parad-; iso" is the most obvious popular. choice. In it, a young boy during World War II finds solace at his local movie theater. Hopefully, it will win: so we can finally see it on area-

Not all the March madness is at the NCAA Tournament as movies on video cassette continue to appear in eye-straining quantities.

As always, there's the good, the bad and the mediocre. In the latter category is another Jessica Lange feminist country film, "Far North" (1988, color, PG, 88 minutes). Released on cassette last year, it's now available on a sell-through basis for $19.95 although it's not worth own-

Katie (Lange) returns home — a farm near Duluth, Minn. — because the family horse injured her father, Bertram (Charles Durning), so badly he's in the hospital and there's no one to shoot the horse. There's a houseful of nutty ladies - sister, mother, grandmother and so on - but no one to shoot the horse. Katie must do it in order to win her father's love.

This Sam Shepherd comedy affirms the cliche that they don't make movies like they used to. Speaking of which.

CBS/Fox Video has a promotion for eight "Classic Films of Hpic Proportions" due out March 29. We'll forgive them their hyperbole because there's some pretty tertific viewing here. Three of the dight have nover been religent before on tape ind are appropriate to the Easter/Passover seates: Gregory Peck and Vincent Price in "The Koys of the Kingdom" (1944, 197 minutes), Richard Todd and Jean Peters in "A Mise Called Peter" (1966, 117 minutes) and Elana Eden in the title role of "The Story of Ruth" (1960, 132 minutes).

THE FIVE previous released titles, also appropriate for this time of year, are: John Huston's "The Bible" (1966, 171 minutes), Elizabeth Taylor's "Cleopatra" (1963, 185 minstes), Burt Lancaster as "Moses" (1976, 11 minutes), Richard Burton in the five Oscar-winning "The Robe" (1953, 135 minutes) and Charlton Heston and Rex Harrison in "The Agony and the Ecstasy" (1965, 138

All except "A Man Called Peter" are in color. None of these were rated, but there's no need to fear offending anyone by acreening them.

Bargain hunters and Bette Davis fans will be pleased with her 16 ti-ties available this month at the reduced, sell-through rate of $19.95. Included in this collection from MGM/UA are "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "Dark Victory," "The Corn is Green" and "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex."

If Westerns are more to your liking, Republic Pictures Home Video has a dozen this month, including has a dosen this month, including three available for the first time on video: "Jubilee Trail" (163 minutes) with Forrest Tucker, Vera Raiston and Joan Lealie, "Ramred" (94 minutes) features Jost McCres, Veronica Lake and Donald Crisp and "Thunder Pass" (76 minutes) with Dane Clark and Andy Dovine.

In Hellywood's studie years, Republic specialised in producing B-Westerns and these three, along with the other time, are ample proof of their excellence in that game.

pleased to learn that seven of your hero's titles are being re-released at-7 the bargain price of $19.98. Even though they've been in video circula- ) tion for some time, these are some of Newman's best films and, at this price, should attract new viewers.

Leading the list is the well-known "Butch Cassidy & The Sundance Kid" (1969, color, R, 111 minutes) 4 with Robert Redford. "From the " Terrace" (1960, color, unrated, 144 minutes) also stars Joanne Woodward. Another western, "Hombre" (1967, color, unrated, 111 minutes), was based on Elmore Leonard's novel and directed by Martin Ritt ("The"; Front," "Norma Rae" and "Nuts").

The well-known "The Hustler" (1961, black and white, unrated, 135 minutes) stars Jackie Gleason and George C. Scott, as well as Newman, and was a prequel of sorts to Newman's recent success in "The Color ; of Money."

Orson Welles, Joanne Woodward, Angela Lansbury and Lee Remick a join Newman in "The Long Bot Sun- in mer" (1968, color, surated, 117 miles 178 utes), a tense and powerful story, also directed by Martin Ritt.

Finally, this Newman collection includes "Quintet" (1979, color, E. 118 minutes) and "Verdiet" (1965, color, R, 128 minutes) in which Side by Lumet directs Newman as an allocated coholic attorney with his last change to redeem himself.

College is a wonderful place. The perfect setting where there is always someone different, someone you've never quite mot before or will ever

Ah, college. From the ivy-infested walls also comes some great music from people of different back-grounds. Such is the case with the Hannibals, a four-man outfit by way of East Lansing.

In this case, the cauldron of creativity was stirred by a chance meeting. Matt Aljian, Dave Christie and Chris Johnston — all originally from Birmingham — ran isto Chris Geherin, a guitarist of exceptional skill from Ypellanti.

At the time, the Birmingham trio were in a non-descript cover band Kool-Aid Smile. They played songs from the psychedelic '70s for appreciative Michigan State students, but soon grew tired of it.

Geherin turned the crew onto a

has a chemistry

The Hannibals, a four-man outfit out of East and Chris Johnston — all originally from Bir-Lansing, includes Matt Aljian, Dave Christie mingham — and Chris Geherin of Ypsilanti.

UNLIKE SOME cover bands, the Hannibals had talent to write their own songs — and very fine songs at that. All it took was some prodding from Geherin.

The Hannibals' sound is a matrix of flowing progressive pop con-sciousness. R.E.M. might be used as a reference point only because the Geherin on playing guitar — "My style is stripped down . . . I like to keep it to the basics."

People around East Lansing simply like the Hannibals. The band has become a hot commodity in 1½ years at clubs there, bouyed by radio support on MSU station WDMB-FM.

The Hannibals already have two tapes out, the first quickly sold out all 175 copies. Nearly 275 of 500 copies of the second tape, "Hammer of Rain," are already gone. A full-length compact disc or cassette is in the works for a fall release.

Of course, the next step is to go beyond East Lansing circles. But it's

"WE'RE HAVING a hard time getting booked because we're an East Lansing band," said Aljian, whose band does its own promotion and bookings. "They say, 'You have a following up there. What about down here?' It's a Catch 22."

Things are going well for the Han-nibals. One might wonder how something as tenuous as three friends and an outsider could last without exchanging gunfire. There are no doubts in Hannibal territory.

You may have noticed that the name of this band is Caterwaul. Not very catchy, right? Some sort of reporter's sixth sense told us to look in the dictionary for some insight on why the group chose this particular name. Viola! Caterwaul is an actual word. It means "to make a discount. word. It means "to make a discor-dant sound or shrick." Ah, it's all be-dant sound or shriek." Ah, it's all be-coming clearer.

As it turns out, Caterwaul is a very appropriate name for the group. Lead singer and general focal point of the band, Botsy Martin, has an unusual voice/wall that écual he most caully described as boing simi-lar to that of Blounts of Blounts and the Banchess.

Anthropologists tell us every human in every culture is born with two instinctive, primal fears - the fear of falling and the fear of finding an eyelash in his cornflakes.

However, a compulsive saver is driven by a third terror - the dread that some day, somewhere, he will need something and won't have it because (A) his spouse, (B) the zoning board or (C) the health department made him throw it out.

THIS FEAR has inspired me to horde up hundreds of souvenir napkins, dried-up ballpoint pens and socks without partners. With no professional assistance, I have developed my own unique decor, best described as early "Sanford & Son."

Take the kitchen. My culinary tastes are simple. A can opener, a toaster oven and running water are about all the gadgets I can handle without hurting myself. But for some reason, I've accumulated 31.000 small electric appliances, including "Hot-Dogger," "Salad Shooter," air popper," egg pocher, ice crusher, deep fryer and buffalo chipper.

Eventually, broken-but-repairable objects displaced every molecule of air in the basement, attic and garage. Now, my clothes are hanging from tree limbs. Forced out of the nursery by 30 years of National Geographics, the kids have burrowed under the lawn for shelter.

As far as I can remember, I've only been free from clutter twice in my adult life.

The first time was back in the tur-. bulant early '70s when I traded the Plastic Decadence of Suburbia for the Untainted Urban Experience. Between classes at Wayne State, I dragged my stereo and lava light off campus to join the nouveau poor's protest against consumerism. In reaction to the impromptu redistribution of wealth, I bought the biggest Doberman in AKC history. Unfortunately, the dog had read Thoreau. To curb my materialistic tendencies, he would systematically chew and destroy everything that wasn't nailed to the ceiling.

My second chance at Walden Pond came during my mandatory "Hitchhiking Across Europe Experience." For the Woodstock generation, that meant flying Icelandic Airlines and landing with no credit cards, no tour guides and no reservations. Just a small knapsack and a copy of "Europe on 50 Cents a Day."

For one glorious summer, I had nothing to insure, nothing to lock up and basically nothing to eat.

When money ran out, I came back. Like Jimmy Stewart in "It's a Wonderful Life," I promised myself I would work just long enough to bankroll a trip around the world.

Unfortunately, instead of saving money, I started saving things. Thousands of things. Things like dead batteries, body shirts and little packets of horsey sauce from Arby's.

Ever since then, I've had to stay home and protect my stuff from becoming sombodyelse's stuff.

The moral is this: Next time somebody promises you the moon, remember how heavy it is, how tough it would be to cart around and how crowded your closets are.

There's plenty to see and do

By William Coutant staff writer

Kalamazoo is much more than a train stop with a funny name.

Unlike "the freckled face kid" in the song "I got a gal in Kalamazoo" made famous by Glenn Miller, this city of about 80,000 in southwest Michigan is all grown up. And it has something for just about everyone.

On I-94, halfway between Detroit and Chicago, Kalamazoo boasts not only an industrial and commercial base, but the amenities to go along with a much larger city.

The Amtrak train station is only two blocks from the city's downtown shopping district.

Kalamazoo's downtown mail, the first such mall in the country, features a luxury hotel complex with indoor shops and restaurants, Gilmore's and Jacobson's stores, cafes and smaller specialty shops.

For the kids, Kalamazoo has a museum with special traveling displays; the Kalamazoo Air Zoo, an aircraft museum near the city's airport featuring vintage airplanes that still fly; an antique auto museum that is open from May to October; a nature center with a working farm; a bird sanctuary with resident wild turkeys; and a hatchery with several fish on display in their natural envi-

But for some, there's the rub. The beer retails for from $10 or priore for a six-pack. Bell said the price is relative when it comes to enjoying his beer.

A newer venture that is catching on is the Kalamazoo Brewing Company, which offers tours and tasting in its cozy downtown brewery.

VISITORS TO Kalamazoo will find a city well endowed in the arts. Kalamzaoo has a well-established community theater company that produces plays, musicals and other performances throughout the year. There is also a symphony, an art museum and a ballet company.

WITH FOUR colleges and a population with a taste for everything from country music to professional hockey, Kalamazoo knows how to entertain.

Wings Stadium is home to the Kalamazoo Wings Hockey Club, a member of the International Hockey League. It also hosts everything from rock concerts to swap meets.

Downtown nighclubs include Chaps on Main, which features live jazz, blues and comedy. Club Soda, another downtown establishment, brings in bands playing everything from reggae to rock.

Update on mail campaign

Dear Readers: Last year I started my Less is Better campaign to see if 3rd class "junk" mail could be decreased. After receiving many suggestions, I promised to follow up after new rate changes were pro-

The Postal Service has now petitioned the Postal Rate Commission to increase all postal rates, with proposals for a 30-cent first-class rate and 18.5 cents for regualr third-class bulk mailing. Various discounts for items such as presorted regular saturation mail could dip the cost as low as 11.3 cents and non-profit down to as little as 7 cents per item.

After studying the situation in depth, I find that junk mail is only the tip of the iceberg of postal problems. The Postal Service has invested millions of dollars in automated equipment in recent years but failed to properly anticipate the cost of putting it into use. As a result, the post office will face a $7.5 billion deficit without the proposed increase. The sad fact is that the post office is in desperate need of the largest volumes of mail it can get in order to provide revenues to pay for its huge investments. When I told the Secretary of the Board of Governors of the Postal Service that I was considering a national letter writing campaign last year, he told me, "Good! Send us all the letters you can get. We'll make 5 cents on every letter, so I hope we get a million letters! Boy, will we make money on that!" In light of our to him all the letters I received last nation's waste disposal problems, I find that attitude disheartening.

WHEN THE LAST rate increas went into effect, third-class bulk mail volumes did decrease slightly and the proposed increases should lighten the load of targeted bulk mail considerably more. Despite popular opinion, first class mail does not subsidize third-class costs. In fact, it is estimated that if there was only first-class mail, stamps would cost about 50 cents.

My present concern is about saturation mail (items delivered to every address within a given area) which is given rock bottom rates because it is presorted and easy to deliver. Because it will continue to be so inexpensive, I fear we will see even more saturation mail being dumped on every address on carrier routes and fewer carefully targeted items. This could result in even greater volumes of less interesting mail, not only for people who don't want it, but also to be handled in our already burgeoning disposal systems.

The managment of the U.S Postal Service is a monumental problem. One knowledgeable Washington expert told me that the U.S. Postal Service is very poorly managed and that neither Congress, the courts 'nor even Ralph Nader" seem to know how to correct its difficulties.

If you are concerned about the low cost of saturation mail and its effects on our environment, you can write to George W. Haley, Chairman, Postal Rate Commission, 1333 "H" St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20268. As promised, I am forwarding year supporting this campaign. My thanks to all who wrote.

The Crossings t Canton.

Apartment living just got better.

We're making The Crossings a better place to live and a better value. You'll feel it in the new hallways and newly refurbished clubhouse. You'll see it in the plush landscaping when you enter the grounds. And that's just the beginning. It's the new look and feel of The Crossing at Canton—and it's for you.

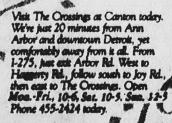

The Crossings at Canton offers 19 different floor-ans with 1 to 4 bedrooms. And whether you choose a 2-level to mhome or a luxury apartment, the renewed beauty of this charming rental community thines through in the young one—the result of our recent. Capital Improvement St. Upgrading program. These apartments and townhomes are the largest in the area, yet are still incredibly affordable.

Low voltage lamps shed new light on yards

The front walkway of Jim and Sylvia Skelton's Westland home is illuminated by low-voltage lighting. The outdoor lighting is becoming quite popular, though some homeowners use it for decoration while others use it for security.

By Doug Funke staff writer

Look for low voltage outdoor lighting systems to start sprouting in neighborhoods as the temperature rises, days lengthen and we spend more time outside working and play-

Low-voltage lights, fixtures 12 to 18 inches above ground level, are powered by a transformer plugged into a standard wall outlet. It can be activated by switch, timer or photo-electric cell.

Fairly inexpensive, a set of 10 plastic lamps with 100 feet of cable and a transformer with a timer can be purchased for $80.

They have both a decorative and safety function.

Jim and Sylvia Skelton recently built a house in Westland. Sylvia was immediately attracted to low voltage outdoor lighting after getting a look at the system of her mother-inlaw's neighbor.

"I WANTED it for decoration and when I saw how dark it (sidewalk) was, I wanted it for safety, too," she said. "I think they're very attrac-

The Skeltons, still landscaping, have positioned lights to accentuate several trees and plan to add more along a pond and stream in their

William and Louise Scherer of Redford, owners of an older house on a corner lot, were concerned about safety.

"It's a dark corner," William said.

"It (system) lights the sidewalk when you walk around. My porch is built so someone could hide underneath, so we put a light under there."

Different kinds of fixtures throw different patterns of light. One manufacturer, Intermatic, offers a Malibu line that includes tier light, flood-light, mushroom light, globe light and well light.

A TYPICAL lamp is one-sixth to one-quarter as bright as a 75-watt light, Intermatic reports.

It costs $15 to $25 per year for electricity to operate a typical strand of four low voltage fixtures, said Joan Bradley, a lighting specialist for Detroit Edison.

Another big attraction of low voltage lighting is the ease of installa-

"You don't need a permit. You or I could install it comfortably," Brad-

Most people get a transformer with a timer, said Phil Kinzer, marketing manager for Intermatic. "It's straightforward, easy to do. It doesn't leave lights on all night," he Still others have more sophisticated hook-ups and tap into indoor switches that also may be connected to regular outdoor spotlights.

UPWARDS OF 70 percent of all sales are to individuals, the rest to contractors, Kinzer said. "Most of ours are do-it-yourself, people working on their yards."

That includes people who build new or move into used houses.

A big reduction in price - more than 100 percent in some cases— over the past decade has sparked consumer interest in the product. It's been around for some 25 years.

A Christmas promotion through K mart a couple of years ago "did quite well" and proved that low voltage lighting sales could be a yeararound proposition even in northern climates, Kinzer said. "This is something people see in magazines, on TV or at a neighbor's house and say, This is a good idea. This is pretty,' " said Jim McPherson, home center manager for the Livonia K mart. The primary reason people enjoy it is lands Kinzer said. "The next reason is safety. You don't want to trip on a bicycle or skateboard, a crack in the sidewalk. Lighting, by it's very nature, is a security product."

Replacement parts and more powerful transformers are available

The biggest mistake consumers make is trying to get too many lights on one transformer, cautioned Tom Ostrenga, an electrical consultant at Builders Square of Livonia.

MUST group works to smooth over construction union image

By Gerald Francies staff writer

Southeast Michigan union workers someday will get an equal chance at construction jobs. And someday, building owners and developers won't need to worry about unnecessary work stoppages and jurisdictional disputes.

Someday is still not today.

Management and Unions Serving Together (MUST), a coalition of unionized contractors in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties and building trades managers, was formed in December 1988 to remove the impression that southeast Michigan has a bad business and labor climate with over-priced union work.

This is not going to happen over-night or over the course of several months, according to Thomas Miner, MUST executive director.

These things we're talking about took years to create," Miner said.

The relationship between worker and manager constantly is evolving, but it is still targely an adversarial one, Miner said. Working together—the ultimists goal of MUST—is made more difficult by this antago-

"I'm hopeful that as we go down the line we won't have owners with preconceived notions about union work and unioning contractors will have a fair shot at jobs. That would be MUST's greatest accomplishment," he said.

Raymond Glowski, Detroit Building Traddi Council secretary-treasurer and co-chair of MUST, said he's pleased with the seogress of MUST thus far, but although there hasn't been a great dearer movement.

"THE WHOLE point behind this is selling unitelepts, that to an extent we've done their Glowski said.

Regular Breatings with builders and communitation between the two sides has increased builder perception of units father. It's difficult to gauge the calculated, that communication, Glowski said, especially in the typically also whater building the of MUST's existence," "Setting up the rules and regulation and the ground work was expected to take at least that long.

We knew it was going to take at least 15 to 18 months before we'd be able to see concrete results," he said. The winter construction period and the economy slowdown may make determining the results even more "Realistically, not enough has been done to tell if we've succeeded (in any way)," Miner said.

The fact that MUST exists is proof of good intentions and having the two sides communicating is progress, though concrete solutions and accomplishments are not as easy to identify, he said.

"It's really too early to be talking about victories. We'd like to get rid of the adversarial relationship between union contractors and owners - to get rid of strikes," he said. "I mean, there will always be strikes involving contract negotiations, but to get rid of unnecessary strikes."

The management/labor relationship has improved over the years, Glowski believes, and that should help dispel the impression that southeastern Michigan has a poor business and labor climate.

GLOWSKI SAID the builders and unions will contribute additional funding this year to ensure MUST's continued existence. "I would say somewhere in the neighborhood as last year, about $70,000." "I really don't think the relationship was that bad to begin with," Glowski said, adding the adversarial relationship was more perception than reality.

Perceptions, however, can have an

"I'd like to drive down the street and point at every construction job and be able to say that's 100 percent union, but that wasn't the case."

At one time, union workers were involved in every construction job, but in recent years that hasn't been the case, Glowski said. Glowski said he couldn't quantify the percentage of work that was going to non-union workers, but it was enough to realize there was a problem.

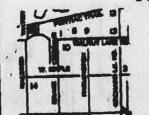

MUST board members meet monthly and regularly invite owners to come in and discuss their problems with unionized labor, Miner said. "How can we fix something if

What do you think the court's deci-

While I am not aware of a specific raling on that issue in Michigan, the Maine Supreme Court found that it was not within the trial court's omain to overrule the inspector because the contract specifically stated that it was the inspector's adgment of the house that must be relied upon in determining whether the sale should go through.

The court noted that there was no evidence in that case indicating the inspector did not give his hos opinion and that, therefore, there was no breach of contract as long as the third party honestly is not satisfied with the condition of the house.

This liability, which can result in substantial financial exposure to clients, was brought about by enactment of the Comprehensive Environmental Response Compensation and Liability Act of 1900, as amended by the Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act of 1986.

These statutes represent a con-gressional response to public con-cern over the effects of environmental contamination by imposing civil liability on buyers, sellers and lending institutions involved in mergers, acquisitions and real estate trans-

It is clear, therefore, that prior to such transaction, careful inquiry into the potential impact of CERCLA as well as the other state and federal environmental laws, should be undertaken, even where a particular business and/or property site does not have a history of an involvement in the manufacturing and/or disposition of hazardous substances.

While I appreciate this question does not have anything directly to do with real estate, I do work for a real estate company that has apparently unilaterally changed its written em-ployment policy from one of "just cause" to one "at will."

BASM now nation's 5th largest building group

By Gorald Frauley staff writer

The Builders Association of Southeast Michigan (BASM) leap frogged from being the 11th to the fifth largest organization in the country, gain-ing national recognition for the highest membership percentage in-

Association membership chair-man Bernard Glieberman said the association recruited 652 new members during 1900, bringing BASM's total membership to approximately 1,700 professional builders, develop-

The National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) honored the southeast Michigan chapter with a Grand Prize award for the highest percentage membership increase in the country and a Honor Award for the second highest numerical increase in its size category.

Kelly Hayes, NAHB membership program administrator, said the grand prize and honor awards are two of the most prestigious awards presented at its annual convention. There are over 800 local associations ranging from 50 to 2,600 members.

"A 62 percent increase (in membership) is an extremely impressive effort," Hayes said. "I don't know what the highest percentage in-crease we've ever had was, but (62 percent) is something to be proud

BASM moved from the 11th largest local builders association to the 5th largest builders association.

"We represent — this is a guess — about 50 percent of the production (in southeast Michigan)," Glieberman said. "That's not the number of builders — some builders construct few homes - but the amount of building."

Hayes of the NAHB said increasing membership is always important because without it, the local and national organization cannot continue to better the future of building.

Lobbying efforts and education both for the builder and the general public - is the main thrust of both the local, state and national associations, Hayes said.

Increase membership is also important because it helps the association promote responsible development, Glieberman said.

"This isn't just about builders it's very important that development survives," Glieberman said. "Building involves a lot of commerce every home that is built provides $10,000 in taxes."

Because of building's wide impact, BASM also recruits members from commercial businesses and the building trades, Glieberman said.

Glieberman said BASM - which was established in 1926, making it one the oldest associations in the country - has always been one of the largest associations, but it wasn't until the mid 1980s that membership

"Southeast Michigan is probably the 15th to 18th largest region in housing construction starts, but we're the fifth largest local association — those are fantastic numbers."

Retention efforts are just as important as aggressive recruiting, Glieberman said. "We have 95.6 percent retention - I don't know too many organizations that can say

By comparison, the NAHB retention rate is 91.2 percent.

Wall-to-wall carpeting isn't the only floor cover option

AP - Let your home reflect your needs by choosing floor coverings suited to your taste, lifestyle and

If wall-to-wall carpeting in every room of the house isn't appealing, there are practical alternatives:

Wood floors work well in living rooms and other formal areas. Wood flooring can be either hardwood or softwood.

Hardwood, primarily oak, is available in many finishes and in parquet squares as well as plank or strip flooring boards. Hardwood is warm and comfortable underfoot, has a natural look and ages well.

Oak is durable and, if properly sealed, water resistant. It is by far the most popular wood for new floors.

Softwood, which includes spruce, fir and pine is more easily dented or scratched than hardwood. But an existing softwood floor may be a good candidate for refinishing.

If you have an older home with wood floors, don't make any decisions about new flooring before considering a face lift for the old wood. The floors may only need polishing or, at the most, sanding down and sealing with polyurethane or tung oil for a band new look. If your wood floors are in such poor condition that they can't be revived by sanding, staining or bleaching, they may still be rescued by paint, which can cover a multitude of pits and blemishes. Tough, durable and washable deck paint gives a thick protective coating to heavy-traffic areas such as stairs and entryways. For longer wear, finish off a painted floor with a couple of coats of polyurethane.

To postpone repainting, apply a new coat of polyurethane every year

Finally, to give extra character to a stained wood floor, try stenciling a border or paint a checkerbeard pat-tern or an "area rug" on it.

Ceramic Tile

Ceramic tile comes in a variety of sizes, shapes, colors and patterns. Unglazed or mat-glazed tiles usually are used on floors (tiles with a glossy ... finish are more slippery).

If you choose unglazed tiles, coat them with a waterproof sealant.

Ceramic tile is durable and stain resistant, but susceptible to scratching. Even mat-glazed tiles can be slippery when wet, so consider placing a non-skid mat or rug on a tile floor that is near the kitchen sink, in the bathroom or in an entryway.

Resilient Flooring

Resilient flooring includes sheet vinyl, vinyl tile, vinyl-asphalt tile and cork tile. Resilient flooring is durable but keep in mind the material's thickness usually determines how long it will last.

It is water and stain resistant but may show scuffs and scratches. Vinyl tiles or sheets with a no-wax surface offer resistance to most household scratches and stains.

Resilient flooring is available with embossed, carved, textured and grained surfaces that offer goodlooks as well as the ability to hide wear, seams, floor irregularities and dents left by furniture.

If you like carpeting but don't care for wall-to-wall, try an area rug. You save the cost of having the carpet installed, you can reposition the rug to distribute wear and you can take it with you if you move.

we don't know what's broken." Communication between unions ard management is imperative so these meetings are important, he said. Miner said that attendance at the board meetings is good even though the group formed more than a year ago.

"listerest hasn't petered out so far and that's good — I wouldn't want to waste time with something that isn't supported."

There are many misconceptions about union work, but there is also a lot that owners and developers agree on, he said. The trick is to accentuate the positive aspects and to dispel the

"But to do that we have to find out what's causing the (bad) impression misconceptions is the first place," he

Miner said owners usually agree work completed by unionized laborers is satisfactory.

"WORKERS TEND to be more skilled, the availability of workers is good, and they complete work in a timely fashion." Those same owners also agree about the negative aspect about unionized labor, Miner said.

Unionized labor, for example, still carries a stigma of being too costly, Miner said. "But that's not a universal impression," he added. 'It's not unusual for union contractors to un-

Now is the time to clear out those closets, attics, basements and garages and make some quick cash in the process.

How do you plan a garage sale?

It's easy!

Just follow these simple guidelines:

- 1. Gather together the items you have for sale. Sort them into appropriate categories and price them fairly.
- 2. Place a classified advertisement in The Observer & Eccentric by calling one of the numbers below.
- 3. Hang signs throughout your neighborhood alerting residents to the upcoming sale.
- 4. Decide what to do with all the money you'll have after your said!

Or, if you love to bergain-hunt and would rather shop then sell, be a look for our special garage sale listings every Monday and Thursday hometown newspaper. Observer & Economic constitutes indicate it can serre money and sale money. Dispover for yourself, today!
