Well folks, your ideas on what to do with the Kellogg Park fountain began to pour in last week. One reader suggests a bigger fountain. Another suggests an American colonial theme. Yet another reader suggests a pyramid-like structure in the center, while another suggests returning a statue that once stood there to the park. And Connie Adams of Plymouth sent a four-page letter detailing suggestions, accompanied by photos of fountains and a drawing of an improved fountain by her son

"I have thought many times how I would like to change the fountain and the park," she wrote.

Her suggestions include a brick facade for the fountain and tile on the inside with initials corresponding to north, south, east and west "for decoration and to help give direction to people visiting the city." She also suggests a theme pertaining to children, "used very often in tura-of-the-century fountains," cast iron and wood park benches of Victorian design, and a flower garden surrounding the

Road survey maps out needed repairs

By Kevin Brown staff writer

The first ever review of road conditions in Plymouth Township shows roads are generally in good shape, and most major roads are wide enough to handle traffic.

As part of the study, township engineer Paul Jones has put together a map of township roads detailing where repairs are needed.

The study, to be presented to the township board of trustees Tuesday, also shows that Haggerty Road at Ann Arbor Road handles 16,000 cars per day, indicating widening would help traffic flow.

ALL TOWNSHIP roads except private roads are maintained by the county, which claims limited money to pay for road repairs.

"We can't do a thing without their permission," Jones said.

The study details what could be done to improve roads, if the township had an unlimited budget, said James Anulewicz, municipal services director.

Once we arrive at that final list of improvements the board would have an opportunity to study it in detail," Anulewicz said.

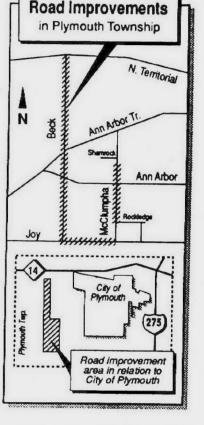

Costs will likely be assigned to various repairs, and then trustees 'would want some time to take a look at it - get some general attitudes from the general public," he said, on what repairs residents would be willing to fund - if residents tax money was needed.

Some road repairs planned for this summer are paid for in part by assessing residents whose property faces a road needing repair.

Township officials say that because the county isn't maintaining roads as well as it should, the township could consider spending its own money on repairs.

SOME ROAD improvements are planned and contracted for this summer. They include:

• The county-paid paving of 9,600 feet of Beck from Joy to North Ter-

- The paving of 2,600 feet of Joy from Beck to McClumpha, also paid for by the county.
- The paving of McClumpha from Rockledge to north of Ann Arbor Road, paid by assessing home-

 Repairs of sections of five residential streets - Green Valley, Talltree Drive. Appletree, Trailwood and Spicer - paid for by the county.

Jones' wish list of street repairs include repairs needed in some older. township subdivisions, including Beacon Hill just west of Plymouth and Lakepoint in north central Plymouth Township. The roads were built in the mid '60s, Jones said.

Roads in several township subdivisions have been identified as needing asphalt sealing.

The township board meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the board office, 42350 Ann Arbor Road.

Here's the beef

When school board members asked their guests - Cub Scout Pack 293, Den 2 from Bird School whether they had any questions, scout Theron Stinar, 10, threw them a curve ball.

Stinar had a question about school menus. "They have a lot of choices of things to eat in the higher grades and we don't. It seems like it's not fair," said Theron.

Board members referred the question to Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business, who said he'd have to research the issue. Board president Dean Swartzwelter told Theron there's a District Food Advisory Comittee made up of parents and administrators who meet once a thonth.

How to best spend Plymouth residents' tax money is the concern tonight of city commissioners who convene their first 1990-91 budget study meeting.

Commissioners are scheduled to begin grappling with costs rising higher than increases in taxes the city is able to keep, to pay for wages and services.

The study session is scheduled for 7:30-10:30 p.m. at Plymouth City Hall, 201 S. Main.

THE HEADLEE tax limitation under state law will likely trim the millage rate levied by the city from 13.39 mills to "the low 12's somewhere," finance director William Graham said. Headlee legislation limits tax increases to the cost of liv-

Projected city revenues for 1989-90 are $6,072,028. Projected revenues for 1990-91 are $5,888,840, Graham said.

The tax limitation provision limits unvoted tax increases to the rate of inflation plus taxes on new construction. Anything greater requires a vote of the public. That provision

"puts us in a difficult position because we don't have the new growth' to increase tax income faster than the rate of inflation, Graham said.

Meanwhile, vendors who provide goods and services to the city raise prices to compensate for inflation, and then some. "We have to be better money managers. You've got to begin critiquing every little thing you're doing, every level of service you provide," Graham said.

ONE WAY for the city to save money is to schedule maintenance for sewers, the city parking deck and other facilities over a period of time, "so we don't end up with spending a half-million (dollars) of work on something because you're afraid it's going to fall down," Graham said.

"You have to get out of the mindset of 'that's the way we've always done it," he said.

"The main concern of course is eliminating the deficit (now around $115,000) from next year's budget, and trying to be sure we're able to fund tremendous raises in costs," Mayor Dennis Bila said.

NO. 1 AMONG those cost increases are rates for dumping trash in the Arbor Hills landfill in Salem Town-

The city was assessed a 50-percent increase in September, which cost an extra $250,000. Officials anticipate another rate increase this year, and are considering a user fee to help pay for trash dumping.

Officials in Plymouth, Ann Arbor and other nearby municipalities are talking about ways to band together to head off expected raises in trash dumping costs, Bila said.

Commissioners would also try to begin establishing a budget surplus, to better deal with emergencies, the mayor said.

The Plymouth-Canton school community will remember Earl T. Gibs son Jr. of Plymouth as a giving teacher, principal and leader who brought enjoyment to many people. Mr. Gibson died April 5 in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Superior Township. He was buried Thursday from Lambert-Vermeulen Funeral Home in Plymouth.

Earl was an outstanding teacher and administrator who served the Plymouth-Canton community for more than 34 years," said Plymouth-Canton Superintendent John Hoben,

"He made outstanding contributions to students, teachers and parents.

'He was one of the most dependable and giving individuals in our organization. His loss will be felt by this community, which he served so nobly."

East Middle School Principal Tom Workman knew Mr. Gibson for 30 years. The two were elementary principals together from 1967 until Mr. Gibson retired in 1985.

THE PICKUP of recyclable items not in tagged bags — to be set aside at the curb for recycling - would be paid for through the tax levy for garbage collection, which would be reduced from from 2.3 mills to 1.5

Paul Sincock, assistant city manager, estimated that homeowners with houses selling at $100,000 would produce an average 115 bags per year - and would pay $14 more per year for garbage pickup than they do now.

"It's going to cost them a little more," Sincock said.

But recycling, which would reduce the amount of garbage to be picked up, "provides you the opportunity to save more money," he added.

Sincock, who developed the plan with William Graham, city finance director, said if commissioners act quickly, the plan could go into effect

MAYOR Dennis Bila said the commission would examine the plan this

By switching to a bag-tag program to pay for some trash dumping costs, Sincock said city officials are better able to deal with unexpected fee hikes.

The Arbor Hills Landfill in Salem Township, where the city dumps trash, announced a hike in dumping fees from $6 to $9 per cubic yard last September.

That increase cost the city $250,000 more than expected for trash dumping in the current fiscal

Should Arbor Hills spring a new rate hike on officials, they can raise the tag fee accordingly.

The bag-tag program was suggested as part of a 10-point plan of action recommended by the city administration to handle rising trash fees and recycling.

The plan suggests getting out of commercial solid waste collection, as "revenues are no where near sufficient to offset costs," Sincock

The plan also suggests adopting an ordinance requiring separation of recyclables and trash "as soon as possible," along with an ordinance establishing the bag-tag program.

The storeowner told police that the complainant has been in the store several times and that they've argued over the $20.

The complainant said a mistake was made, and that he was not going to repay the money.

The storeowner told police that he ordered the Novi man out of the store, but at no time left the counter or touched the complainant.

ASSAULT ON MAIN STREET: A 17-year-old Plymouth woman told police she was assaulted by a 22-year-old Westland man near the video store on Main Street.

She told police the man is an acquaintance who wants to date her. The woman said she wants nothing to do with the man.

The staff of the student newspaper at Plymouth-Canton and Plymouth-Salem high schools hangs its awards on the wall of the journalism classroom. But if they keep up the work, soon they'll have to find an additional place.

To the 30 awards already hung there, the students will soon add the Golden Crown, an award given for journalism excellence.

Area compost program set to start this summer

By Diane Gale staff writer

Residents in Canton, Plymouth asked this summer to separate grass clippings and other yard materials for a community compost pile. Initially the program will be voluntary, but will be mandated in the future, said Ann Bollin, executive director of the Western Townships Utility Authority. WTUA is a consortium established to deal with sewer, solid waste and other issues. No specific date was set for mandated sep-

"Conceptually it will be curbside and will be picked-up the same way as the regular household garbage is collected," said Tom Yack, Canton supervisor.

"A decision hasn't been made on how to identify it as yard waste," he

TOGETHER THE communities have to match 25 percent of the grant. This is part of a county program requiring communities to reduce the amount of waste going to the compost site on the corner of Geddes and Beck in Canton on property that was recently sold by the estate of Malcolm Padget. Bob Padget, a former Canton trustee, is one of many heirs, Rekshan said.

'We had negotiated on another piece for a long period of time," Rekshan said. "We were never successful in closing the deal and we decided to go with that piece,"

Dave Denski, of Canton Recycling, will serve as subcontractor operating the compost site.

The three townships are using a $242,000 state grant to cover startup costs and to buy equipment, which WTUA will lease to CSI, Bolin said.

Residents in all three communities will have access to free fertilizer from the compost and WTUA is expected to receive a percentage of the profit if the fertilizer is sold.

Bollin said there isn't much written research about composting, but indications show there is not a problem with toxic material seeping into Peter Rekshan, owner of Compost the ground. The Department of Natand Northville townships will be Systems Incorporated, will manage ural Resources doesn't regulate > CANTON RAN a voluntary pilot compost program last year with 800 households in the area bounded by Cherry Hill, Palmer, Lilley and Haggerty roads to weed out problems and to test how residents would respond.

> Loren Bennett, Canton clerk, estimated that between 60-75 percent of the households were involved.

On some blocks most residents took part and very few were involved on other blocks, said Bennett, who started the program.

Smelly, green slime was one problem discovered.

Grass itself is 75-80 percent water and if you compact it a green slime comes out from on top of the truck and onto the road and leaves an aromatic smell," he said.

The lesson, Bennett said, was to minimize the compact process.

MSU offering alcohol-free housing

GOP wants property tax cut in trade for utility tax

By Tim Richard staff writer

State Senate Republicans want property tax relief for both business and homeowners as the price for reinstatement of Detroit's utility

"It's not a Republican or Democratic, Engler or Blanchard approach," said Senate majority leader John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, in describing the three-bill, $125 million package the upper chamber advanced last week.

I am so delighted you asked your readers how Kellogg Fountain could be improved. I have thought many times how I would like to change the fountain and the park. Lately, I have seen many businesses close and I feel the city needs some strong di-

I have heard Kellogg Park described as a "jewel." Indeed it is a "jewel," but an unpolished one. Plymouth's citizens are so lucky to have this unique asset. It sets Plymouth apart from all the other suburban cities in the area.

The inside of the founn would be tiled in a design that ould continue the lines of the walkways right up to the new sculpture in the center of the fountain. I have chosen a coral-neach and in I have sen a coral-peach one-inch tile to correspond with the brick color of the walks. The tiles opposite the park's grassy area would be mossen to correspond with the green of the grass. I have used the accent color, mauve, to decoratively separate the designs. I have also worked North, South, East and West into the tile design for decoration and to help give direction to people visiting the

I have many ideas for the foun-tain, which I feel should be a child or children (theme). This subject was used very often in turn-of-the-century fountains, and I believe the founthin would be an even more delightful place for parents to bring their children. I also hope new cast iron and wood park benches of Victorian design would be placed around the fountain. A new rose and flower garden would surround the fountain.

for Kellogg Park. I feel the benches there now are devoid of personality. I have included pictures of several styles. Sculpture, flowers and flower urns, a sundial, and a birdhouse would make the park into a beautiful garden. I have also included a picture of a bandstand. These bandstands were staples of almost all of our turn-of-the-century parks. It could be used for small concerts (how about a stringed quartet), town meetings, weddings or just a cool place to meet in the summer months. Along with this it would be wonderful to have a flower cart and a lemonade stand for strollers to en-

I have also heard of plans to build public restrooms. This is a wonderful idea. The building could look like a gazebo divided for ladies and gentleman. It should be accessible to wheelchairs and it should include changing tables for little ones on

I know the city has hired consultants who have suggested lowering the street lamps. This would give a quainter feel to the city. Wrought I have included quite a few ideas iron tree guards are also very charming. Painting the storefronts in different and interesting Victorian colors will also add charm. During our bleak and gray winters a bit of color would cheer everyone. I also hope more really nice antique stores come to Plymouth. I think they would be a big draw for visitors and tourists. The big malls take business away from Plymouth's shopkeepers, but they don't have antique stores in the malls.

These improvements would cost a lot of money, but they could be implemented over several years. A Kellogg Park and Fountain Fund could be set up. Brass plaques could e put on larger donation items. Many civic clubs could do a wonderful job of raising money. If Plymouth can be turned into a charming place many people will come to enjoy it and spend their money here instead of the malls. That will benefit

Let's turn Kellogg Fountain into a fast food joint. We'll put in a statue with geysers on top spewing forth gallons of soda-pop. We'll re-direct Penniman so that after a show, the 'cruisers" could come to a drive-up window. Thus the consummate cruiser dilemma is solved. We'll get city commissioners and policemen involved. We'll have them serve burgers and french fries to go with tickets and fines for those who don't show. The chamber of commerce could have an all-out campaign to lure area teens to line up along Main. Local business owners could gather and sing, "Turn in your friends and get free onion rings." Hot cars. Hot women. Young men take chances. A money-making venture, in lieu of those Friday night dances. For those who don't drive yet, how does this sound: We'll get $30,000 in block grants to drive you around. Alas — though the seniors got the dough this time, the city could donate all of last year's fines. We would like to enter the Kellogg Park Fountain contest by submitting the enclosed photographs taken in Savannah, Ga. The "Tiedman Fountain" can be found in Forsyth Park.

It was built in 1858. A recent renovation wisely retained its antebellum ornateness, while the addition of a footpath gave it a modern day touch. Of particular interest, if you'll look closely, is this personalized brick pathway circumscribing the basin. Each brick contains the name of a donor who helped fund in part the restoration cost.

Could the good citizens of Plym-

Well, first of all I think it would be nice to see the fountain made out of large stones

Then fill it up with pond water, waterlilies and goldfish. I still like the sprayer in the center.

On the outside of the fountain, make a planter all around the outside same height and fill it with a perennial like hostas. There, now we have paradise.

Japanese garden

Create within the confines of the existing pool area and pool an environmentally aesthetic Japanese fountain constructed of appropriate rocks and trickles of water. It would grace the park as well as show an awareness of our Japanese citizenry in the U.S. and in the area. It would be visually interesting and aurally aesthetic. A Japanese garden area could surround the area if desired.

Bill Bowman,

A fifer in the fountain

Use the present drum-shaped fountain and cast a little fifer figure, as the centerpiece. The fountain would become known as The Little Fifer Fountain, in Old Plymouth Town. This would reflect the historical theme, and symbolize the great musical tradition of the many talented groups in town. The figure would be easy for the youngsters in the park to relate to.

CONSUMER ALERT By Larry Thomas

WASHINGTON - In an effort to reduce the number of infant suffocations, the Consumer Product Safety Commission has issued a safety alert that advises parents not to leave infants unattended on any adult or youth bed.

CPSC officials said the agency received more than 200 reports of infants suffocating on such beds between 1985 and 1989, and said most occurred when the child rolled to the edge of the bed and became trapped.

"The commission staff urges that infants not be left on adult or youth beds. whether mattress type or waterbed," the safety report reads. "Preferably, infants should be placed in a crib that meets the federal safety standards and industry voluntary standards for cribs and has a tight fitting mattress."

The alert was issued in the wake of a petition filed in July asking the CPSC to require warning labels on waterbeds. The petition, filed by the Consumer Federation of America and the New York attorney general's office, asks for labels with wording similar to the safety alert.

Leather Luxury: The scent, the prestige, the durability, the eye appeal, the ease of maintenance, the economy and the feel of leather are the reasons people desire to own leather.

Leather has an aesthetic appeal. It has it's own pleasant aroma that appeals to the sensitivity of everyone in a very special way that no other product can. Leather is no longer a cold, hard product purchased only for its looks and prestige. Today's leathers unsurpassed warmth and comfort year round.

Many people feel leather will become too hot in the summer, this is not true. Leather adjusts quickly to body temperature and is comfortable year round. The natural network of fibers in the leather allows air to circulate through it. Leather is the strongest upholstery material known to man. Leather has an interwoven network which makes it flexible, it will bend and not break. To meet consumers demands for increased softness in leathers and expanded range of colors, tanneries have developed new processes such as aniline dyeing. Aniline dyeing, a process in which the full hide is dyed, results with leather being softer and supple. Leathers which have been semi-aniline dyed combine both the softness of aniline dyeing and the benefits of surface protection. These leathers are available in any color a home owner could want. The finishes are permanent and the colors are absorbed by the leather and will not rub off. Modern chemicals ensure that the leather finish will not crack or peel. Leather will not readily burn or melt, and unlike most fabrics and vinyl, it is extremely difficult to puncture.

The care of leather is very simple. Wipe gently with a solution of mild soap (such as Ivory Flakes) and water. Wipe dry and you are finished! The beauty of the hide is protected throughout processing and the natural oils of leather have been sealed in permanently.

While other materials depreciate in value, leather is found to appreciate and improve in looks each year. At the end of the 20 years, a chair most likely will be worth more than the $1,200.00 initially paid. Leather will last forever. A leather product is not just another piece of furniture but a heirloom which could be passed down from generation to generation!

Bad news.

The good news? More and more people, businesses and industries are finding ways to recycle.

It takes more than 6,000 tons of newsprint each year to print The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers plus a number of other publications, so we're doing a number of things to help the solid waste situation:

1. For years we've sold our waste newsprint to a recycling firm.

2. 25% of the newsprint we print on is recycled and we're increasing this amount by another 25% this year.

3. Our employees have begun to routinely put office paper (memos, computer paper, waste copy paper) in recycle bins instead of waste baskets.

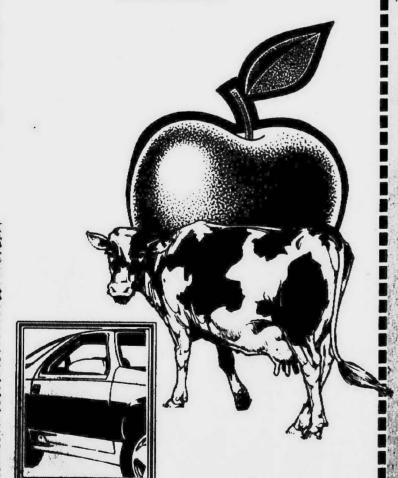

Of course, we still deliver thousands of newspapers twice each week. It's our business to bring you news of your local government, schools, sports scene and community events; the news you need to know.

And when you're finished reading your hometown newspaper there are places that will recycle them.

We've listed a few for you on this page because we think recycling : Good News.

No-buzz coffees errific

I'm still green behind the ears hen it comes to the coffee maret. I've drank the best (Royal Kona Hawaiian and Jamaician lue Mountain) and have made he worst.

Probably two of the major Thanges that have hit today's coffee market is the decline in regular coffee drinking contrasted by a skyrocketing rapid rise in the use of decaffeinated and gourmet coffees and the transition from wishy-washy decafs to actually great tasting non-buzzing brews.

As we speak, the coffee market is undergoing yet another major change, greatly improved decaffeinating processes, which are chemical free.

Removing the caffeine from coffee beans has been around for the last 30 or so odd years. Sales of decaffeinated coffee, however, never rose to expectations because usually the decaf process left a coffee that was watered down with hardly any flavor and almost no aroma. Couple the lost flavor and aroma with the fact that the decafing process involved using a chemical solvent (methylene chloride) employed in direct contact with the beans and you had not just a crummy-tasting cup of coffee but also one that had somewhat questionable health standards.

THE METHYLENE chloride used in most over-the-counter brands of coffee you and I purchase has reportedly caused cancer in laboratory animals and is considered a "possible human carcinogen" by the EPA and FDA. Because of these findings, methylene chloride was banned last summer for use in hair sprays and cosmetics. It is, however, still used in most lesserquality decaf coffees because the EPA and FDA claims that "the residual level of methylene chloride in the final product is very low and therefore considered safe." Yea, OK, and someday I'm going to win Lotto 47.

So off you run to your can of coffee and with a sigh of relief, you read that your decaf coffee is processed with ethyl acetate. Coffee decaffeinated with this solvent is often called "natural" because ethyl acetate exists in some fruits. It does, but only in minute quantities like 10-20 parts per million.

Ethyl acetate is used industrially as a solvent in lacquers and varnishes and in the manufacture of artificial leather. Guess what? The FDA says that it, too, is considered safe, in the quantities left as a residue on the beans after the decaf process. And they say, "Trust me"!

But there are alternatives for those of us who really don't wish their coffee be treated with industrial solvents. Two methods that produce a great-tasting decaffeinated cup of coffee are the Supercritical Carbon Dioxide method and the Swisswater method.

IN THE SUPERCRITICAL CO2 process, coffee beans are first saturated in water and then treated with carbon dioxide that has been compressed to 200 times formal atmospheric pressure. This method is used by more upscale and slightly more expensive decaf brands, such as Sanka.

Companies boasting the Swiss water method have discovered hewer technology that has the reen coffee beans first soaked in water to remove the caffeine. The caffeine-laced water is then run through a series of carbon filters used to purify drinking water. As the water cycles between the beans and the carbon, the concentration of coffee solubles in the water increases until it equals that of the beans.

Once at this point, these flavor components are no longer removed from the beans because they are in balance between the beans and the water mixture. Therefore, the final product is a full-flavored coffee with only the caffeine removed.

Lamb is flavorful and tender

By Larry Janes special writer

OMMA ALWAYS served a whole ham at Easter, completely studded with cloves, rings of canned Dole pineapple slices and bottled-inred-dye-number-three maraschine cherries. We ate Easter ham all week and then found it tucked between Wonder Bread in our school lunches and, finally, almost cooked beyond recognition in a large pot with great Northern beans and vegetables.

We never ate lamb. Not at Easter, never at Christmas. In my maturation years, my experiences with lamb were based solely on visits to the Detroit Zoo.

Contrary to what some say, age does have its benefits. Being all of 18, I had just been flown (my first airplane ride) to the Culinary Institute in Hyde Park, N.Y., for a shortened summer session. The first night's dinner was, and to this day I can remember it like it happened yesterday, a roast sliced leg of lamb. Tasting that lamb was like a first ride in a convertible. I wanted more.

Lamb has long been noted for its delicate flavor and tenderness. Pick up the menu at any fine dining establishment around the world and lamb will be featured in one way or another. Sliced leg, crown roasts, braised chops, broiled rack, rolled breast, you name it, and just like beef, you can accomplish it with lamb.

SURPRISINGLY, HOWEVER, we don't eat a lot of lamb in the United States. According to American Meat Institute figures for 1986, Americans eat 1.4 pounds of lamb annually, quite a difference from the 62-plus pounds of pork and the whopping 76 pounds of beef.

Granted, most butchers in the United States seldom carry all three varieties (heck, some won't even carry lamb because it's a slow mover), but the three basic types of lamb are milk fed, spring and mutton.

Baby milk-fed lamb, traditional for people of many cultures for the Easter holiday, is the most delicate, sought after and, of course, most expensive. These are annually less than three months old when slaughtered and are, because of their size, sold whole, halved or quartered for full roasting on either a spit or a very large oven.

Spring lamb can be anywhere from three to nine months old. Until the end of October, it will be stamped "genuine spring lamb." From November on, it becomes winter lamb.

Jack Ubaldi, author of "The Meat Book," Macmillan, 1987, actually comes forward and says in his book, "The worst time of the year for lamb is January to April, when the majority of lambs available to buy are yearlings, which fall into a sort of lamb limbo, too old for lamb and too young for mutton." Comments like that kind of squelch the reasons for cooking an Easter lamb, eh?

Matzoh — it's special at Passover

By Nechama Bakst special writer

Tonight, on the first night of Passover, children in Jewish households around the world will be reciting the traditional four questions.

First of all, they will ask, why is it that on all other nights of the year we eat leavened bread and unleavened bread (matzoh), while on Passover we eat only matzoh?

Actually, it's food for thought. After all, matzoh, traditionally made of flour and water with no eggs, salt, sugar or fat, is a wholesome, low-calorie carbohydrate sold in supermarkets throughout the year.

And matzoh balls (round balls made of matzoh meal) served with chicken soup are a year-round staple on Jewish menus.

SO WHAT makes matzoh so special on Passover?

Eating matzoh throughout the year is strictly a physical experience, according to Rabbi Elimeiech Silberberg, spiritual leader of the Bais Chabad Torah Center in West Bloomfield.

"Matzoh is characteristically called the bread of affliction and humility," Silberberg said.

"By eating matzoh on Passover we ask God to imbue us with the selflessness and modesty so necessary in carrying out our mission as Jews."

THESE SPIRITUAL implications are only relevant during the Passover holiday when God charged the Jews with this commandment, Silberberg said.

"It's not that you couldn't do it (eat matzoh) during the year," said Southfield resident Vera Silverstein. "But it just doesn't taste the same. There's nothing like Pesach (the Hebrew word for Passover)."

An innovative cook, Silverstein said her family of seven uses "tons of matzoh" not only for eating but in cooking and baking.

ONE REASON her matzoh tastes different on Passover is that Silverstein uses only "shmura" matzoh, a darker, coarser matzoh than the kind usually packaged year-round.

"Shmura matzoh means that the wheat has been watched from the time it was cut to protect it from becoming leavened," said Avrohom Plotnik, co-owner of Spitzer's Hebrew Book and Gift Center in Southfield.

Plotnick sells close to 3,000 pounds of matzoh of different kinds during the Passover season, which starts about a month before Passover.

The store carries shmura hand matzoth (plural for matzoh) at $10.50 a pound that are mixed, rolled out and baked completely

These — the traditional round matsoth are the coarsest.

There is shmura machine matzoth, round or square, but also dark and coarse, at $6.95 a pound, and regular matzoth at $3.25 a

SOME FOODS taste better with the coarser matzoh, said Silverstein, who uses shmura hand matzoth for eating and shmu-ra machine matzoth for cooking. Take stuffed cabbage, she said.

Because rice is forbidden on Passover in some Jewish households, Silverstein makes sweet-and-sour stuffed cabbage with mat-

"Stuffed cabbage Pesach time comes out better than the rest of the year," Silverstein

FOR ABOUT three pounds of ground beef, she uses about one to 11/2 cups of matzoh ground coarsely in a food processor.

She adds three eggs to the processed matzoh and stir fries the mixture in a little oil in a frying pan, turning it until it is sauteed. Then she adds two diced onions, salt and seasoning to taste, along with the ground The mixture is used to fill cabbage juice diluted in a little water and sugar, on top of a low flame for 1-11/2 hours.

leaves, which are then cooked, with tomato

"It's delicious," Silverstein said. "The matzoh gives it a very special taste. My kids love it better than during the year."

BUT SILVERSTEIN doesn't stop at giving traditional foods a Passover twist.
Some of her recipes are pure creativity.

Matzoh is special during Passover

Would you envision lasagna made with matsoh?

"Take tuna, matzoh and cheese Add tomato juice or tomato sauce, and you got lasagna," she said. "Instead of the lasagna noodles you use the matzoh."

THEN, OF course, there are the Passover staples.

In most families, Passover wouldn't be Passover without someone sitting down to a meal or a snack of matzoh and butter.

And at breakfast, "matzoh 'brie' is the big thing," Silverstein said. For matzoh brie, matzoh is soaked in water and drained, then added to beaten eggs and fried in oil in a frying pan.

"I let it brown very well on both sides, so it comes out almost like a pancake," Silverstein said.

It's eaten either alone or with sugar, jelly or syrup.

Vera Silverstein says the trick to fluffy matzoh balls is separating the Here's her recipe for soft, fluff

"knaidlach" or matzoh balls.

1/2 cup oil or shortening 15 cap water 1 teaspoon salt

1-14 cups matzoh meal

Separate eggs. Add to yolks shortening, water, salt and pepper. Beat whites until stiff. Add matzoh meal to volk mixture and fold in whites.

Refrigerate about 1 hour and form mixture into balls. Cook in boiling, salted water covered about 1/2 hour.

Another recipe for matzoh balls comes from "A Little Jewish Cookbook" by Barbara Bloch.

1 tablespoon freshly chopped parsley ¼ teaspoon ground ginger (optional) salt and pepper to taste

4 tablespoons melted schmaltz (chicken fat) or oil 4 eggs

1/2 cup sparkling water l cup matzoh meal

Stir parsley, ginger, salt and pepper into chicken fat. Add eggs and sparkling water and beat to blend. Stir in matzoh meal (mixture should be moist). Regrigerate 1 hour. Wet hands and form into walnut-sized balls. Bring 8-10 cups chicken soup to a boil. Drop balls into boiling soup. Reduce heat and cover to simmer 20 minutes or until balls float on top. Serve 2-3 balls per per-

LEAH RUBY of West Bloomfield uses a similar recipe, except that hers is made with matzoh meal and called a "bubeleh"

"It's a family recipe. We got it from my mother, and my sisters and I all make it," Ruby said.

Ruby separates three eggs, beating the whites until stiff. She gently folds in two tablespoons matzoh meal, the egg yolks, and salt and pepper to taste.

'It should be heated in cooking oil in a warm pan on a medium flame." she said.

It is turned when brown and then flipped onto a plate like a pancake. It can be served with breakfast, lunch or dinner, or as a dessert and topped with sugar, syrup, honey, jelly or fruit 'My mother always put sugar on it. It's delicious like that, but it depends what people like," Ruby said.

And matzoh balls in chicken soup, though eaten throughout the year, are extra special on Passover.

simmer until tender. Squeeze water from matzoh. Place pieces in bowl and add sauteed vegetables with oil Mix in eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Mixture should be moist. Stuff cavity and neck of turkey loosely with stuffing.

Don't know what to do with all those leftovers from big holiday dinners? Here's a recipe that uses leftover cooked chicken and matzoh.

3 cups matzoh coarsely ground or matzoh farfel

ANOTHER CHOICE might be mutton, which is a two-year-old male sheep. This lamb has a strong taste particularly enjoyed by the English.

Thanks to modern technology and shipping techniques, much of the lamb we enjoy comes from New Zealand and Australia. Never, however, underestimate the flavor of fresh lamb, especially from one of the butchers down in the Gratiot Central market, a stone's throw across the Fisher Freeway from the Eastern Market main entrance. The metro Detroit's widely expanded Middle Eastern community has made our area a prime market for fresh lamb products.

Lamb is the smallest of the fourfooted meat animals. If you have never seen a lamb before, imagine the difference between lamb and beef with a leg of beef weighing in at more than 80 pounds while a leg of lamb comes in between six and eight pounds, maximum, Lamb is a fatty animal and, unlike pork, the fat is not edible. It is more like tallow. This contributes to the high price of lamb because by the time the lamb is trimmed of its fat and other nonedible parts, the resulting meat is only about 40 percent of its weight. I HAVE CERTAINLY made up for my first 18 years of not enjoying lamb. Occasionally, I splurge and have my meat man tie up a crown roast of lamb that will serve six people. Unfortunately, this comes pretty close to a day's wages and those days are few and far between. A sample polling of some of metro De-troit's finest restaurants found a rack of lamb for one person priced between $25 and $50.

On the other hand, every now and then I get the urge to pick up a small leg of lamb. If I shop around, I might be able to find it at under $1.80 per pound. I slather on imported olive oil

Have you ever wondered who invented that awful stuff? My guess is that it was probably someone connected to the vacuum cleaner industry who cleverly knew that it would help pick up business.

In addition to Easter and Passover, which happen to fall concurrently this year, spring is always a time for many celebrations.

Mother's Day, Father's Day, bridal showers and graduation parties all offer wonderful opportunities for friends and families to assemble for brunch.

BUT, AS much fun as it is to break bread together, none of us wants to break our back doing it. That's why this week's Winner Dinner, Make-Ahead Sausage and Egg Casserole, is sure to become a favorite.

It is easy to assemble, must be made ahead, can be frozen, and is delicious and filling.

Submitted by Pat Canfield of Garden City, this is one meal that children as well as adults always seem to love. Canfield likes to serve this casserole with freshly made bran muffins, applesauce and orange

THE PARENTS of four grown children and part of a close-knit family, the Canfields are looking forward to having an Easter egg hunt for their six grandchildren.

Although Canfield's husband has recently retired, she continues to work part time as a baby sitter.

In her spare time, she teaches quilting and crafts, belongs to two quilting guilds and is the coordinator of her church's parish quilt, which will be raffled off in September.

In addition to all this, Canfield and her husband enjoy square dancing, golf and camping. Their busy and fulfilling lives are enriched by the many varied activities in which they

MAKE-AHEAD SAUSAGE AND EGG CASSEROLE

This tasty dish must be made a day in advance and refrigerated, can be frozen. It serves 8.

- 1 pound regular pork or turkey
- sausage
- 2 cups milk 6 slices white bread, cubed
- 1 teaspoon salt, optional 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 cup packed, grated cheddar

Lightly brown and crumble pork sausage. Drain and cool. In a bowl, beat eggs. Add milk, sait, mustard, cubed bread and stir. Add cheese and sausage.

Pour into a glass dish, 9-by-13-inches or 11/2 quarts. Refrigerate overnight. Place in oven uncovered and bake for 50 minutes at 350 degrees. Let stand a few minutes before serving.

If you would like to freeze this casserole, assemble and place in the freezer until the day you will be serving it. Thaw and bake according to the above directions.

BRAN MUFFINS

This is a recipe for a master mix that keeps up to five weeks in your refrigerator. From now on, you and your family can have fresh, home-baked bran muffins every morning. This is a tastier recipe than the one on the cereal

- 15 ounces Post Raisin Bran ce-
- 5 cups flour
- 3 cups sugar
- 5 teaspoons baking soda 1 teaspoon salt, optional
- 1 quart buttermilk 4 eggs
- 1 cup oil

Mix all the ingredients together. Spray muffin tins with a nonstick spray and fill half full with the batter. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes.

Obviously, this recipe makes a lot of muffins and they can be made ahead and frozen. That's what is so wonderful about it. Or, store the extra batter in a covered plastic container in the refrigerator and date it. It will keep for five weeks.

How to match sauvignon blanc with foods styles from the Leire Valley the Graves region of France, to-or with those from California, a it the most versatile of white is to match with food.

With some wines, the type of food the most important focus. With savignon blanc, it is clearly more a metion of the cooking method, the cid/segar levels and the herbs used the sauce that determine a good matchup.

Sauvignon blant is a fine-edged wine. Before considering food complements, you have to determine whether the wine is grassy, bordering on weedy, or if it's melony with grapefruit characters and, lastly, and have the residwhether it's sweet because the residual sugar is above 0.5 percent.

use of the wine's fine edge, if ou put fresh cilantro (coriander) or tatragon with it, wine flavors are destroyed, unless the wine is grassy and herbal.

Basil works well if you don't choose the most pungent of its many hybrids. Raw, sweet basil used as the straight of the s principle greens with a high-acid vi-nalgrette produces a salad that comments sauvignon blanc because

tocus on wine

Eleanor and Ray Heald

A COLD, dilled potato salad served with a well-chilled sauvignon blanc will destroy the myth that vinaigrettes don't match with wine. Certainly, white distilled vinegar doesn't complement, but vinegars made from quality wines and herbflavored vinegars work well.

It's a question of balance. You have to experiment, know the flavors of the wine and adjust ingredient amounts. You can't do it directly from a recipe. That's the trick.

Bell pepperiness is frequently associated with sauvignon blanc so the natural tendency is to avoid their use. Peppers can complement the wine as long as you heighten the citrus character with fresh lime juice the acidity reduces any aggressive and chop the peppers rather than pureeing. Bell peppers roasted over high heat are also good. Tank-fermented sauvignon blancs with little or no wood aging do well here.

With more aggressive styles of sauvignon blanc, complementing is not always the way to go because you're risking whether the magic will be there or not. In this case, contrasting is probably more interest-

The more melony styles of sauvig-non blanc pair well with grilled fish and a splash of fresh lemon juice. Acid crispness and a slight charcoalburnt flavor on the fish playing against the rounder, softer, melony wine flavors are a duel on the palate. There's a stimulation from one focus to the other. Here, the perfect match with high acidity and low sugar levels include: Michigan sun-dried cherries, fresh vegetables salsas, mustards, vinaigrettes, fruit relishes and chutneys.

They're called food and wine marriages, but frequently in marriages, it's the opposites that attract. Wine acidity causes two effects in the marriage of food and wine: 1. Food flavors induce a reaction with the wine on the palate that is pleasant; 2. The contrast of a smooth, creamy sauce and the wine's acidity create a chalkiness or curdling effect on the palate which is unpleasant.

Cream-base sauces are difficult matches with sauvignon blanc. Classical French creams with herb infusions get lost. The tongue becomes coated and the wine disappears.

However, soured, curdled or clotted creams will work; so do butter sauces. There must be a relatively high level of acid in the sauce in order to make it work with sauvignon blanc. Sauces that finish soft are lost with the wine.

You need firmer fish, like swordfish, red snapper or pike, to match textures with the wine in the mouth. WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK 1988 Matanzas Creek Winery Sauvignoa Blanc ($15) is a well-styled and focused wine. Its steely yet approachable character shouts, "Bring on the oysters." Melons, vanilla and a hint of grass highlight the nose. The wine is complex with bright acidity and a crisp, lengthy finish. Excellent.

1988 Taft Street Sauvignon Blanc ($6.75) with delicate hints of melon and assorted tropical fruits is straightforward, clean and value-

Chicken, because of its low-sugar, grainy mustard sauces, and mustards with a slight horseradish addition highlight textures.

Jamie Morningstar, resident chef at Inglenook-Napa Valley, is responsible for a food and wine program that markets wines through the image of sitting down and eating.

"PEOPLE HAVE different tastes and preferences, so I hesitate disfer to emphasize what does," says. "Because I'm opinionated, I must point out foods that I think don't work well with sauvignon

"Smoked foods come to mind immediately. They don't usually pair well with sauvignon blanc unless the wine has a smoky quality of its own. If the wine style is steely, smoked foods accentuate dryness and acidity and make the wine puckery is the

"Plain goat cheese becomes more pungent with sauvignon blanc, so if you like goat cheese, it's great. It works because of the acidic component in the goat cheese. The high butterfat content of most cheeses coats the tongue and cancels the wine's finish. Herbed goat cheese emphasizes the herbal quality of sauvignon blanc and reduces the goaty character of the cheese."

Cajun and creole orientations work if they are not overly spicy and hot. Clean, plain, gutsy foods with good acidity do best. Defined food flavors along with clearly identifiable sauvignon blanc flavors can't

Be careful how you treat those Easter Eggs

Foods don't make people sick, bacteria does.

Any raw food of animal origin; meat, poultry, raw milk, fish and eggs may carry salmonella

This bacteria can survive to cause food poisoning if these specific foods are not thoroughly cooked.

That means, no more servings of "Sunny Side Up" eggs. Instead, cook them until well done to be sure the salmonella bacteria is destroyed.

It is also important to stress Easter Egg safety. Decorated eggs are typically hard-cooked but many people abuse them by storing them improperly at room temperature.

Thus the eggs become a haven of bacteria and have potential to create food-borne illnesses

Food safety starts when you buy tained when refrigerated in the orig-

the eggs from your local grocery store. The Federal and State inspectors have taken the guess work out of choosing a bad egg.

The eggs are inspected and graded by size for us. However, no inspector is able to detect if salmonella bacteria is present, but the potential is Just remember that this bacteria is destroyed by heat, so cook eggs thoroughly and don't eat raw or undercooked eggs.

Before you place your carton of eggs in the shopping cart, open the carton and visually inspect the eggs. Only buy ones that are clean and gerate the eggs as soon as possible. The best quality of eggs are mainuncracked. Then be sure to refri-

Lois Thieleke home economist, Cooperative Extension Service

If not, the porous egg shells pick up strong odors that exist in the refrigerator or they may lose moisture through the shell if they are left uncovered in the egg tray provided in most refrigerators.

REFRIGERATED RAW eggs in the shell need to be used within five weeks and hard-cooked eggs in the shell or peeled must be used within As the egg ages, the white clears and spreads thin when broken into a dish. A blood spot in a raw egg is harmless

The next step in food safety is to cook hard-cooked eggs properly. Place the raw eggs in a pot of cold water. Heat the eggs over medium heat until the water boils. Immediately reduce the heat to keep the water simmering and simmer for 20 minutes. Never boil eggs. The dark ring that forms around the yolk after hard cooking is harmless. It's an interaction between iron and sulfur in the egg.

Air-cool the eggs in their shells in an open container in the refrigerator. Water cooling is not recommended because of the possibility that germs in the water can penetrate the egg shells

After the eggs are cooked and cooled, you can decorate them with pure food colorings or dyes formulated with food-grade colorants.

Decorated hard-cooked eggs should be stored in the refrigerator before decorating, after decorating and after the Easter Egg hunt. Decorated eggs should be eaten within two or three days if they were out of the refrigerator a total of two hours or less for coloring, hunting and displaying. If the two-hour limit is a problem, you may want to color two sets of eggs, one for eating and one for displaying. Be sure to label each set clearly ture's pre-packaged convenience food," but there are some additional tips for egg usage. Keep the heat down as high temperatures and overcooking toughens eggs.

If you plan to separate yolks and whites, do so as soon as you remove eggs from the refrigerator. Cold yolks are less likely to break. Egg whites whip to a larger volume at room temperature.

Either medium or large eggs may be used in most standard recipes. To cut down the cholesterol, substitute two whites for every whole egg.

Cutting out all egg yolks may make some baked goods and other dishes dry and tasteless, so use two whites plus one whole egg instead of

Keep cold foods cold and hot foods hot. Just because something is cooked does not mean it can't contain bacteria. Cleanliness and proper storage temperatures are the answer to safe eggs and a safer food

Rocks roll over Harrison in opener

Plymouth Salem had the ideal season opener in girls soccer Friday.

The Rocks got a lot of players involved and gained confidence with their 12-0 defeat of visiting Farmington Hills Harrison.

'The team looks good," said Salem coach Ken Johnson, who saw his squad take a 10-0 halftime lead. We've got a lot of talent out there. In the second half, I told them to ease off and just pass the ball."

The Rocks had a impressive debut without star forward Michele Minton, who left Thursday on a European tour with the Midwest Olympic Development soccer team.

Minton - as well as Farmington's Carrie Maier and Livonia Stevenson's Ragen Coyne - will be gone until the week after Easter, but freshman Kris Goff played well in her stead, leading Salem with three

"That's a bonafide all-stater," said Johnson of Minton. "Kris Goff looked good in the middle taking her place.

ERIN HARVEY followed with two goals and two assists, and Erin Bagozzi and Sara Egloff also scored two goals apiece. Jennifer Marshall, Kim Goff and Amy Krajewski each scored once.

Jenny Oleksiak and Sara Hayes assisted on two goals each, Egloff and Bagozzi one apiece.

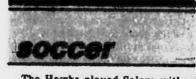

Johnson also was pleased with the leadership demonstrated by tri-captains Hayes and Jennifer Marshall. Hayes is a halfback and Marshall a defender. Minton is the third cap-

"They held the fort tonight," Johnson said. "They had a steadying influence and followed instructions well in the second half, passing the Harrison had celebrated its first victory in two years Wednesday when it defeated host Redford Union 3-0 in its season opener.

"You're only as good as your competition," Harrison coach Glenn Breuhan said. "I feel RU is more our competition. (Both) have a lot of inexperienced players, and that made for a good game.

"I was very pleased with their performance Wednesday. It was good, basic soccer, though we need to work on our skills as the season goes along."

The Hawks played Salem without goal keeper Stephanie Kallen, sweeper Molly Horton and striker Robyn LaHuiller, all of whom were injured.

"Ken's team looked great; they were impressive," Breuhan said. Three of our top players were out, but it wouldn't have made a difference in the game. It might have been 10-0 instead of 12-0."

The team's best player, Flora Plumaji, was on the bench Friday, too, Breuhan said, but he hopes she is available to play Tuesday against Walled Lake Central. Plumaji was a surprise addition to the team but must pass the routine physical examination before being eligible, Breuhan said.

COACH HENRY Klimes isn't worried about Farmington Hills Mercy's lack of offense in its first three soccer games.

Klimes does approve of the defense Mercy has played in posting a 1-0-2 record to date, the latest was a 1-1 draw with Catholic League rival Birmingham Marian on Thursday.

"The goals will come," Klimes said. "We're very strong defensively, and I'm very optimistic.

"Last year we lost to Marian 3-0 both times we played. To be able to tie them and have the opportunity to win it shows how far we have come.

'We look strong; we're really getting it together," he added.

Mercy junior Dana Lehmkuhl scored the team's lone goal late in the second half, with an assist coming from senior halfback Rachel De-

Success at any price isn't worth cost

OMETHING'S WRONG. Very, very There are people on this planet working endless hours, searching for cures to cancer and AIDS. And who do we immortalize? We make demigods out of somebody with no talent except an uncanny ability to jump high or run fast.

Athletes are the most overrated people in this world. And we should be terrified that they carry the clout they do.

The death of Doug Briggs, the Plymouth Salem football player, should not be ignored if indeed it resulted from a supposed training technique.

BRIGGS WAS discovered in his basement March 25. He had hung himself. A recent theory is that his death was accidental; he had read in a sports magazine how Mark Bavarro, all-pro tight end with the New York Giants, used self-strangulation as a training trend - we'll do anything to be a success in sports. And that's scary.

Briggs decided to give it a try. It would supposedly help him control his breathing and increase his stamina.

The question is, where does sacrifice end and stupidity begin?

Bigger, faster, stronger. Is that all that matters? No limits, no reason?

IT'S NOT worth it. Certainly not at the price Briggs paid. Or even what it cost Dave Remember big Dave Houle? He should have been a guy worth emulating. Houle was everything Briggs treasured. They shared a common background, both-attending Salem High School and playing football for coach Tom Moshimer. The difference was Briggs was average; Houle was the best player to ever come out of Salem.

Houle went on to stardom at Michigan State, a starting offensive tackle who helped the Spartans capture a Big Ten title and Rose Bowl championship. In the process, though, he suffered all sorts of agonies, both mental and physical.

Risak

Houle will never be remembered for what he accomplished on the playing field for MSU. Instead, his name will forever more be linked with the steroid scandal that has ravaged the Spartan campus.

A former teammate claims Houle used the illegal, muscle-enhancing drugs. Houle continues to deny it. He denied it when reporters from the Detroit News called and confronted him (although the News' story suggests Houle refused to talk to them).

"I WORKED out in the weight room six days a week." Houle said in explaining his weight growth at MSU, from 217 as a freshman to 282 as a senior, five years later.

News' story).

According to Houle, a bleeding ulcer kept him from putting on weight during his senior year at Salem. Improved training and eating habits enabled him to bulk up once at MSU Lunacy seems to be an accepted part of a football lineman's training. Houle said he and MSU teammates used to "keep hitting each other (pads against pads) before a game." He had never heard of anything like Briggs did.

But he can understand the motivation, especially if a superstar like Bavarro had supposedly tried it. "When you get to that point, you're working your butt off and there's nothing left to do. Most people would think, 'I'll try it if it'll help.'

"If someone told me it would help, I'd think about it."

BUT HOULE also insists "there are no shortcuts. If you're not getting big enough lifting three times a week, lift four times a week. If you're not fast enough running four times a week, run five times.

Because sacrificing your health, and your life, to play a game is ridiculous. But as Houle noted, if you have a shot at a million bucks, you'll take that chance.

Houle did. He trained and worked and sacrificed, and got drafted by the Giants. In training camp prior to his rookie season, he injured both shoulders in a one-on-one blocking drill. He continued to practice; that made matters worse. Finally, he was forced to leave camp - and football.

Houle had to retire from pro ball before his dream got started. Now, more than a year later, he still can't play a game of pickup basketball without his shoulders aching.

Does that sound like something to strive for? Houle insists it was worth it to him, even with his tarnished reputation and ach-

But it's something to think about. The price for athletic success is high; sacrifice is a necessity. Still, making it in sports shouldn't carry an at-any-cost tag.

It's just not worth it.

Due to the unpredictable weather, Plymouth Canton girls golf coach Dan Riggs says his team hasn't been able to get in a lot of practice

But when the first match rolls around he is confident the Chiefs will be ready.

For the past several weeks, most of Canton's practices have taken place in the Oasis Golf Dome on Five Mile Road. "It looks like we'll be able to get on the course around noon," Riggs said, "and then the weather takes a turn for the worse and we end up driving balls under the dome. But we have to realize every other team is in the same boat, and we are going to have to just deal with it."

Last season, the Chiefs finished with an 8-8 mark, something Riggs hopes this year's team can improve on. 'I think we can do better than we did last season," he said. "We are in a tough league, but we have a tough team."

PACING CANTON'S game is junior Kerri Kittleson. Also expected to spark the Chiefs are seniors Sara Broechay and Meggan Olesky. Along with Kittleson, they are the team's tri-captains.

"Kerri is our No. 1 player," Riggs said. "She shoots in the mid 40s and is just a good golfer."

Senior Jennifer Brunet and juniors Mellissa Vernon and Sarah Beckman will also contribute this season, according to Riggs.

"The team is looking good," he said, "We have 18 people on our roster and some outstanding transmen. It should be a good season."

Chiefs set to tee off Canton impressive in debut

Plymouth Canton will be a contender in Western Lakes Activities Association girls track and field this

The Chiefs demonstrated that at the outset of the 1990 season Thursday by winning a triangular meet at Livonia Stevenson.

Canton, which has won the Western Division dual-meet championship the last five years, scored 63 points to finish ahead of the host Spartans, who were runners-up in the WLAA last year and are expected to be one of the powers this year, Milford Lakeland won four events, including a pair of relays, but was last with 44 points.

"It was an excellent start," Canton coach George Przygodski said. "It was good to see the way we measured up against a good team and program like Stevenson.
"Overall, the times and distances from top to bottom were excellent for this early in the season and the weather conditions we had today."

Kim Gudeth had an outstanding day for the Chiefs "along with a lot of other kids," Przygodski said. Gu-deth contributed to Canton victories in the 3200- and 1600-meter relays and won the open 400 run with a

Amy Smith, Adrienne Garrow, Gudeth and Christie Saffron combined for a 10:40.7 time in the 3200 relay, and Monica Pellow, Jennifer Hartke, Kristy Brugar and Gudeth finished the 1600 in 4:32.8.

Canton's Jessica Souter won the long jump, reaching a distance of 15-54, and freshman Stephanie Gray won the high jump at a height of 4-

The Chiefs had a strong finish, too. Besides winning the last relay, Michelle Dean won the 200 dash in 29.2 and Smith the 3200 run in 12:33.5.

We scored in every event with the exception of the 400 and 800 relays where we botched handoffs," Przygodski said. "I was pleased with our overall strength and showing. It's early and we look to improve on (the handoffs)."

Stevenson won four events, with Jessann Martin winning two. She threw the discus 103-1 and the shot put 33-21/a. Lisa Christensen won the 300 hurdles with a time of 50.3, and Tracy Clark broke the ribbon in the 800 run, coming across in 2:43.0. Lakeland's victories came in the 100 hurdles, 1600 run and sprint (400 and $00) relays.

Canton will host for a four-team meet Wednesday. The Chiefs will compete against Redford Bishop Borgess, Ypsilanti and Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher.

LIVONIA CLARENCEVILLE opened its girls track season Friday with a 65-45 victory over visiting Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Roberta Wiggle had four first places for the Lady Trojans, including three in open events. She won the long jump (15-2), the 800 run (2:41.6) and the 100 dash (13.2).

She also ran the leadoff leg of the 1600 relay, combining with Tricia Wiggle, Michelle Sroka and Jennifer Nunnery for a 4:49.0 time.

Tricia Wiggle and Nunnery also: had individual wins. Wiggle was first in the 400 run (1:10.9) and Nunnery in the high jump (4-5). Clarenceville's Jennifer Loukargarvi was the; 200 dash winner in 29.3.

The Lady Trojans won three of the relays. Chris Zupanic, Angela-Mangers, Sue Tatom and Julie Sto-liker had the best 400 time at 1:00.02, and Tricia Wiggle, Numery, Stoliker and Loukargarvi finished the 800 relay in 2:01.0.

Farmington teams win 2 trophies in city meets

It was an all-Farmington High School show in the annual city meets for track and field Wednesday.

The Falcons won both competitions at Harrison High School, the Farmington girls winning their fourth straight championship and the boys winning for the first time in four years.

"Our kids were real elated about winning the city meet, and it's a good way to begin our season," Farmington boys coach Jerry Young

"I told the other coaches 'Let's pass out the letters, have the banquet and call it a fine season. We'll end it on a high note, right here."

"WE HATED to do it," Harrison coach John Schumacher said of having to surrender the title. "We knew Farmington would be loaded in the distances, and that's definitely where they got us."

The Hawks dominated in the sprints, winning the 100- and 200meter dashes and the 800 and 400 relays, but the Falcons were better in the longer distances and did well'at other points in the meet.

Farmington junior Ben Goba won the 1600 and 3200 runs, and the Falcons took three of the four places in those events. Farmington also won two relays, with Don Sweeney and Dave Link contributing to victories in the 1600 and 3200 contests.

"The distance kids really did a job. From the quarter on up, there's no duestion we dominated things." Young said.

"And our hurdlers did well. We hayen't had the nice hurdle performances like this in some time. They ran well, especially our high hur-Farmington's Joe Miller won the 110 hurdles, and teammate Todd Wight was third. Steve Vlahakis got second place in the 300 hurdles.

THE FALCONS offset a pair of field-event victories by Harrison's Art Cayse by having Jason Gutting take first place in the shot put and Chris Marting win the pole vault.

shot put with a toss of 47-41/2. "I'd like to see him get out of this 40 stuff and into some 50 stuff. He hit 50-2 last year, and I'd like to see him get back there.

Young also cited the performance of sophomore Kevin Koshowsky, who anchored the 1600 relay, placed third in the 400 and also ran the 800. Eric Crawford, Matt Langdon and Gary Kurzer were other relay team members.

For us this is a real nice achievement, and we're happy with (the title) for sure," Young said. "We had 21 kids score. That's a lot to be involved in scoring, and it will help us as the season goes along. It's something to build on."

Cayse won the long jump and high jump, and Harrison's top sprinters were Marcus Bolar and Brad Owens, who won the 100 and 200 dashes, respectively. Bolar and Owens, as well as Joe George, were on both winning relay teams. Will Matthews rounded out the 800 foursome, Dante Anderson the 400 quartet.

North had three individual winners: Todd Pawlowski in the discus, Tony Catchings in the open 400 and Craig Stoe in the 800 run.

FARMINGTON GIRLS coach Bruce Brown was happy to accept the winner's trophy once again, but he didn't want to over-emphasize the significance of the victory.

"I hate to keep saying this, be-cause it sounds trite," he said. "But it's the first meet of the year, and we

Junior Shelli Gaul and senior Jennifer Kiel were instrumental in the Farmington girls remaining city champions. The Falcons had 701/2 points, North 47 and Harrison 46%.

Gaul had four first places, winning the high jump, 100 hurdles and 200 dash and anchoring the 800 relay team. Kiel won the 1600 run and anchored Farmington's other two firstplace relays, the 3200 and 1600.

"That's the first time Gaul ever ran the open 200, and Kiel has never run the 1600 relay before," Brown said. "We're moving (Kiel) around and giving her a lot of speed work right now. She had the fastest quarter time on the relay.

"SHELLI DEFINITELY had a bis day," he said. "She's a junior now and we're asking her to step it up another notch."

Kerri Owczarzak led a Farmington sweep of the shot put, and Susar Gibson was the best long jumper The Falcons also got second places from Carrie Gutting (shot), Susar Davidson (hurdles), Dawn Montrose (hurdles) and Jenny Derwinski

In addition to Kiel, the 3200 relay consisted of Derwinski, Gretchen Clappison and Cheryl Casaroll. Carrie Maier and Amy Trunk were on the 800 and 1600 teams, with Kristy Bodary contributing in the 800 and Sherri Ylitalo in the 1600.

Lisa Rives had two of runner-up North's three first places, winning the 800 and 3200 runs. She was second in the 400, also. Adrienne Mocello was the discus winner.

Heather Conley led a near sweep in the 100 dash for the Hawks, who went 1-2-4 in that race with Conley winning it. Audra Cockerham won the 400 and sophomore Colleen Heinzmann the 300 hurdles, and the foursome of Conley, Nicole Leo, Carrie Hentnik and Nivin Hakim won the 400 relay.

"I thought we had some great performances," Harrison coach Mark Babcock said. "(Heinzmann) wasn't even a varsity hurdler last year, so she's come on and done a nice job."

The Plymouth Salem girls golf team suffered through a miserable campaign a season ago, but coach Jim Stevens is confident this year's team can muster a solid season.

The Rocks were winless last year, losing 12 matches and tying one. They finished 17th in the region.

"I feel we can do much better than last year," Stevens said. "We sure as heck cannot do any worse. The girls are much better than they were last year.'

Senior Jamie Cloar leads a returning group of veterans this season. and Stevens has high expectations

Brazin booted in a corner kick from Nikki Johnson. Churchill's Lori Place then scored an insurance goal with three minutes

"I'm pleased with the way we played," said Churchill coach Nick O'Shea, whose team is 1-0-1 overall. "I thought we had a few more chances, although we missed them. Last year we had trouble scoring, but at least we scored in this game. And our defense was holding tough."

One of the keys to the victory was the play of Fran Priebe, who helped keep Athens All-Stater Lisa Grace off the scoreboard. Sweeper Stephanie Speen also played a key role, according to O'Shea.

They sent up an extra attacker in the second half and they had a couple of good shot," said the Churchill coach. "It took some time for us to adjust."

Goalie Dana Keller posted her second straight shutout for Churchill, which meets Farmington, a Class A semifinalist from a year ago, in a match today. (Game time is 5:30 at Farmington,)

WRITE TAND REAP!

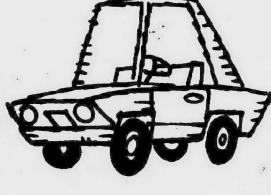

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

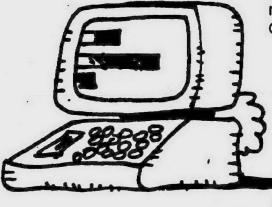

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

Woodland caribou that once lived in Michigan need large expanses of forest. Prairie chickens need undisturbed, open fields in which to survive. These are but two of several animals that cannot tolerate changes brought about by

SEVERAL ANIMALS, though, have adapted well to man's intrusions. Their requirements for survival were general and plastic enough before man arrived, that man's modification to the land were adapted to quickly.

A small, insect-eating bird known as a chimney swift once nested on the vertical walls of hollow sycamore trees. Today, chimneys are substituted for trees.

Animals with narrow food or habitat requirements are not as likely to fare well. Omnivorous ani-

Medicaid's changes on her mind

Q. My husband is in a nursing sme. He is on Medicaid. I still live home. What are the new laws concerning the amount of money I can keep to maintain my home and

A. As of Jan. 1 the amount of income allowed a person living in the community who has a spouse in a Medicaid nursing home is $815 per month. In addition, Medicaid has also increased the amount of countable assets, such as Certificates of Deposit, Money Markets, stocks, bonds and savings accounts that the spouse remaining in the community may keep. For those nursing home residents admitted on or after Sept. 30 their spouses may keep the greater of: the first $12,000 of the couple's countable assets or one-half of the countable assets but not more than

As a result of the change in in-

150 REBATE

A. The American Cancer Society will provide durable medical equipment such as hospital beds, wheel chairs, commodes, over the bed tables, etc. and medical supplies such as blue pads, sheepskin or egg crate mattresses, and dressings for cancer patients. Some of the supplies are covered by Medicare; however, there is no direct charge to the patient. The society also helps women who have had mastectomies and are on a limited income to obtain a proper fitting prosthesis. Limited transportation to hospitals for chemo or radiation therapy is available in Oakland and Macomb counties.

Support groups are offered for the patient, family and friends in various locations throughout Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties. There is also a program called "Reach to Recovery." Mastectomy patients, through their doctor's request, are visited in the hospital following surgery by trained personnel to help the patient through this difficult time. In Oakland County home visits are possible without a doctor's order.

For additional information call the following offices: Oakland County, 557-5353, Wayne County, 425-6830, Macomb County, 758-7800. All offices are open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

For example: rheumatoid 'arthritis' can cause inflammation to the lungs. The lungs have a covering like a single layer of plastic wrap, and are similar to the cells that line joints. The cells lining the lungs can become irritated by the same stimuli that affect joints. When inflammed, the lung lining cells impinge on nerve endings particularly upon deep breathing. You become aware that a problem exists when taking a breath results in sharp chest pain. You may think you are having a heart attack, but the pain continues at rest and decreases when you walk, an indication that the pain is not cardiac in origin. Connecting your lung pain with your arthritis is difficult since lung involvement may occur when the rheumatoid arthritis is not flaring, and the joints are not particularly inflammed.

Steroids are the treatment of choice for rheumatoid inflammation of the lung. This therapy provides rapid relief and prevents a recurence; no other medicine gives equal results in such a timely manner.

Q. I've been cating more salads re-cently. How much better are the reduced-calorie and lite-type dress-

A. You'll be surprised to learn that all those virtuous vegetables you're crunching are being swamped in more calories, fat and sodium than you need or want - even the "reduced-calorie" and "lite" varieties. Two tablespoons (a typical serving amount not the one tablespoon serving listed on the bottle) can have as many calories as a candy bar! For example, if you use one 12-ounce bottle of dressing in a week and 9 out of 10 people do, by the way, half of your total fat allowance may be coming from the dressing alone. Two tablespoons of regular dressing contain from 10 to 16 grams of fat.

consumer mallbag

According to the FDA, a salad dressing can only use the term "light" or "reduced-calorie" if it has at least one-third fewer calories than the regular version. Fewer calories does not mean less fat or sodium. however Many low calorie versions contain as much fat as the brand's regular variety.

Most "light" variety dressings are even more confusing because the term "light" (in any spelling) is not as closely monitored as the "reduced-calorie" labeling. Most "light" dressings are really reduced-calorie dressings in disguise. Two rules of thumb, according to recommendations from Nutrition Action, to help you sort out the dressing dilemma: One, look for dressings that have no more than two grams of fat per two tablespoon (one ounce) serving. This isn't difficu't if the dressing has nutrition labeling on it. If it makes a "reducedcalorie" or "low sodium" claim, it must have nutrition labeling, otherwise, it's the manufacturer's choice.

If there's no nutrition labeling, check the ingredients label. All ingredients must be listed in descending order by weight. So, if the ingredient listed first is oil, you can be pretty safe in assuming that it's got more than two grams of fat per serving.

Two, look for dressings that have no more than 300 milligrams (mg) of sodium per two tablespoon servings. Unfortunately, the ingredients is isn't going to give you any help with sodium and without nutritional la-beling, you'd be guessing. Most, how-ever, have more than the 400 mg. of sodium per serving especially the non-creamy Italian varieties.

Remember, don't assume lower fat also means lower sodium - it usually doesn't. Some lower fat brands have a lot of sodium while some super fatty varieties have less than 300 mg. per serving.

A few scents

Magda Moursi certainly knows her scents. She can explain how the sandalwood tree functions as a parasite, how Captain Cook's Australian settlers used the leaves of the "teatree" in lieu of traditional tea and the characteristics attributed to the various oils. You see, those are all part of the work Moursi does. Find out her aromatic work on Page 8D.

Shins are an easy moving target for slashing sticks when the floor hockey action gets fast and furious.

Wall-to-wall

Floor hockey: It's fast and furious at EMU

staff writer

Monday, April 9, 1990 O&E

Take a rectangular utility gym with rounded corners, throw in some lumber, a puck and a bunch of savage college kids and you have the ingredients for a furious intramural activity that pits student against student in a battle of aggression release. Floor hockey is one of the most occasional fisticuffs break out. popular and definitely the rowdiest intramural sport at Eastern Michigan University. It's expected. At the team managers meeting, Tom Vocke, the court supervisor, said, "If you want a non-contact sport, try modern dance."

to throttle the aggression and ensure player safety. First off, all players must wear a helmet. And two student officials watch over the action, calling penalties just like a National Hockey League official would.

'We allow checking, but you can't put someobody's imprint on the cement walls," said Vocke.

Still, as in any contact sport, the

'Shoves lead to dropped gloves and we tell players just to stand back and watch," Vocke said.

EMU doesn't have an intramural ice hockey program, so many of the students there with an ice hockey background show up for floor hock-Certain steps are taken, though, ey. The new ones are surprised at the fierce action of floor hockey.

"IT'S A LOT tougher than I thought it would be," said Derek Delacourt, 18, of Westland. "It's a lot more choppy (stick swinging) and the puck tends to bounce a lot more. Also, there's not a high price on passing."

The scoring average is considerably higher than an NHL game, sounding more like a football game. And with NHL-sized goals, a no mercy rule and three eight-minute periods, a good team can beat a lousy team by 20-30 goals.

The utility gym that the games are held in looks as if it was made specifically for floor hockey. About 80 feet long and 30 feet wide, the rectangular room features rounded corners to keep the puck traveling

The puck itself is a light, hollow plastic version of a regulation puck that "leaves welts but doesn't break bones," said Vocke.

"The old puck we used had iron pellets in it . . . one broke a goalie's nose right through his mask," he said.

The sticks are required to have a plastic blade attached to where the wooden blade used to be. This protects the players from splinters, yet lends itself to the sport like a scalpel to a surgeon.

Injuries are at a premium and the players accept it.

'Last year we had a wide variety of cuts and stitches," said Vocke. 'The worst happened in a fight when one punch opened a guy up for 18 stitches."

BUT A MAJORITY of the bloodshed happens below the shins. "If they want to slash and take chunks out of each other's shins, that's fine," Vocke said."We just tell them to keep the sticks down."

"It gets a little out of hand," said Brian Harlow, 18, of Westland, whose shins were dripping blood after the game. "They dropped the puck and this 'hack' (an inexperienced player who just runs around swinging his stick at anything) cracked me right across the shin."

Sounds wild, doesn't it? Sure.

'If you want a noncontact sport, try modern dance.

> Tom Vocke court supervisor

Even the helmetless student officials who are enclosed with eight stick-swinging players, find the action amusing.

We just try to keep the action going as fast as we can," said stu-dent official Jeff Thomas, 18, of Farmington. "There's never a dull moment.

That's for sure. Take the time an official named "Bob" got popped with a high stick.

'You could hear it CRACK all the wway across the hall," said Vocke. "Bob had his nose broken and wasn't even going to kick the guy out of the game until he said the magic word.

Besides blatant high sticking and excessive rough play, the only thing Vocke and his officials do not tolerate is swearing.

"I just eject them from the game and tell them how it will be from now on," said student official Domenic Serra, 18, of Croswell.

EMU'S FLOOR hockey penalty system works on the same concept as the soccer red and yellow card system. For fighting or very abusive language, the guilty party is given a red card and suspended for a game. The yellow card is for slight official slander . . . two yellows equal one red.

Guys are getting cut up and loving it. Even the guy who wears the most padding, the goalie, gets his share of welts.

"I get it around the wrists," said Pat Boyle, 19, of Redford. "When I smother the puck with my gloves, guys always try to chop it out.'

Of the 32 teams that participate they're spilt up into the residence, independent and fraternity leagues. A women's league and co-rec league are offered, but "nobody shows up," Vocke said. And the most unruly of all the leagues is the frat league.

"They bring all their people (and they have to pack them like sardines in a small room at one end of the court to watch)," Vocke said. "And when a scrape breaks out, the next thing you know, there's 30 guys piling out of the stands to join in. And the frat guys are the biggest complainers, too. They're like talking to a 5-year-old when they're

It's fast, furious and sometimes bloody. And they love their floor hockey at EMU.

'Designing' shoppers find best for less

Kevin Kline is bright spot in 'I Love You to Death'

The first third of "I Love You to Death" (C-, R, 96 minutes) shows great promise.

Pizzeria owner Joey Boca (Kevin Kline) is rendered with masterful strokes. Kline's portrayal exudes joy of life and living as this incredible and very happy man makes pizza, fixes plumbing in the apartment building he owns and makes love to half dozen or so women every week all the while maintaining a respectable family life.

He has two slightly overweight and undistinguished but generally acceptable children, Carla (Alisar Porter) and Dominic (Jon Kasdan), and a very funny Yugoslavian mother-in-law, Nadja (Joan Plowright).

A nephew-like relationship is maintained with the pizzeria's busboy, Devo (River Phoenix), a slightly vacant and out-of-place hippie-type spiritualist.

But most of all, Joey has a wife, Rosalie (Tracey Uliman), who loves Joey so much that scenarist John Kostmayer and director Lawrence Kasdan would have us believe she doesn't notice Joey's numerous infidelities. Even when Devo tells her what her eyes have seen, she passes it off as "all men look at girls."

Ullman's slightly ditzy, old-world woman living in and adapting to America is more than one could (or should) expect given the writing and directing. Rosalie's character, how- are forced to take it or leave it. I ever, as written, is so unbelievable that NOW and other feminist groups falls flat as a one-joke film with a ought to protest the insulting stereo-

When Rosalie finally confronts irrefutable evidence of Joey's infidelity, her bumbling, confused and indecisive attempts at revenge wipe out any hope for an entertaining film.

The last two-thirds are muddled and murky and the impossible plot complications are solved by a matriarchal morality as unpleasant and offensive as the macho-masculinity sell Logan (Lou Diamond Phillips), with which the film begins.

To make matters worse, the pacing falters so badly that even the promise, however male-oriented, of the film's first third is never fulfilled. It's a shame to waste so many fine performances on a weak script interpreted by such poor direction.

Another disappointment this week is the mediocre "Crazy People" (C-, R, 90 minutes) which opens Wednesday, April 11. Emory Leeson (Dudley Moore) goes round the bend while working in the Drucker Ad Agency. He is struck with a novel idea, advertisements should tell the truth. Naturally he is rapidly committed to a mental institution, Bennington Sanitarium, where he quickly gains the confidence of a number of disturbed individuals. Not unexpectedly, in this murky · fable about who is crazy and who isn't — and how nuts advertising is

Emory's honesty campaign catches fire and the nasty ad agency boss, Charles Drucker (J/T. Walsh), must depend on Emory and all the mental patients up at Bennington

None of the relationships or situa-tions are clearly developed. Certainly Lesson's instant appeal to the Bennington inmates goes unex-blained while his romance with Kathy Burgess (Deryl Hannah) is similarly under-developed. As with so much of "Crazy People," audiences the movies

"The First Power" (D. R. 95 minutes) is an unpleasantly violent story of a serial killer, Patrick Channing (Jeff Kober), who is executed for his crimes but his spirit returns and possesses other bodies in a quest for revenge against the detective, Ruswho put him away in the first place. In his mission to rid the world of Channing's evil spirit, Logan enlists the aid of a psychic, Tess Seaton (Tracy Griffith), who conveniently enough is the film's romantic involvement. Sound trite? Right.

Ever listen to a fairly bright kid make up a story to explain why he missed curfew — the kind where the facts and events fit neatly on the surface but the whole story collapses with one or two timely questions.?

"Impulse" (D+, 120 minutes) is a lot like that. Theresa Russell's emotionally complex character and performance trip over bulky, unbelievable plot devices. This thriller about a female undercover cop who gets caught on the wrong side of murder by being in the wrong place at the wrong time is overlong and unrelent-ingly dark. So dark in fact that director Sondra Locke rarely shows any character's full face unless the situation absolutely demands it. The technique is interesting at first, frustrating for a while and irritating in the end. Kind of like the film as a whole. There are some entertaining and suspenseful moments but Russell and Jeff Fahey can't save enough of "Impulse" to make it worth while.

Reviewed by Susan Fincham When "Cry-Baby" (B-, PG-13,) Johnny Depp steps into focus the female audience swoons, as in any heart-throb, teen-age movie. After the first few minutes, however, viewers soon discover that with its spirit of the '50s, "Cry-Baby" has potential as a cult classic.

The plot is altogether common but director John Waters is determined to make everything else fantasy in this world of teenage juvenile delinquents who call themselves "drapes" who are juxtaposed to scholasticminded, clean-cut "squares."

Johnny Depp, in the title role, is a drape who falls in love with Allison (Amy Locane), a square. His challenge is to win her love and keep it. As the plot develops, wild and bizarre characters reflecting and satirizing the '50s are introduced.

The movie relies heavily on '50s music with an Elvis style voice dubbed in for Johnny. Exaggerated costumes and make-up along with unusual personalities and simple dialog quite likely will make a success of this teen-age trip down nostalgia

A beam of light shoots from the sculpted lion's mouth that frames the projection booth window. Look at it long enough and the lion comes to life, breathing fire.

For Toto, the 7-year-old hero of "Cinema Paradiso," the movies have this powerful, mesmerizing effect. Director Guiseppe Tornatore's reflections on a lifelong love affair with the movies was quickly booked into the Maple Theatre after winning the Academy Award for best foreign film. It's a touching tearjerker, full of memorable characters.

In a tiny Italian village shortly after World War II, young Toto falls asleep as an altar boy but absolutely adores the movies. He watches curiously as his puritanical church pastor screens upcoming movies privately, signaling the projectionist with a bell for the scenes that must be cut. As the film unreels for an audience the following weekend, a lover's embrace leads to an awkward cut and an entirely different scene. The villagers don't see a screen kiss until the mid 1950s.

Toto's interest in movies grows into an obsession. When the projectionist (wonderfully played by Philippe Noiret) almost perishes in a fire caused by the films' flammable silver nitrate,, Toto gets his chance that develops between the boy and the old man, now blind, becomes the most powerful part of the film.

Three actors play Toto at various stages of his life. Salvatore Vascio fares best as the young boy. Later, the film dwells on the teenage Toto's quest for a beautiful young woman only to be separated from her by the military conscription.

Most fascinating, "Cinema Paradiso" paints a vivid picture of the power of movies. The rowdy audience at the Cinema Paradiso gets impersonal age of videotape

The Covingtons' story starts with Fred Munchinger's mother.

"My mom bought me this electric guitar for $2 at a garage sale, and it had a sticker on it that said 'Covington,' " Fred recalled. In a twisted echo of Arthurian legend, the guitar signified to Fred that there should be a band called the Covingtons and that he should be the lead singer for this band.

Munchinger had been discussing forming a band with drummer Greg Bowes. The pair hooked up with guitar player John Michaels, and the Covingtons were born.

After trying to secure the services of other bass players, Munchinger, with nominal competence filled in when the trio opened for Captain Dave and the Psychedelic Lounge Cats at the Halfway Inn in Ann Ar-

"We were just a three-piece with seven songs," Michaels said. "In or-der to fluff up our set list we had to have one song like 'Interstellar Overdrive,' — a 15-minute song to make a half-hour long show. It was really raw and raunchy, '60sbased guitar music."

Both Munchinger and Michaels recall being happy with the original, stripped-down Covingtons' sound. But it wasn't long before the band started expanding their line-up. Hav-ing to play bass "kind of held Fred down," Michaels said.

"At one point, we were playing with the Victims of Circumstance, and Fred sang 'You're Gonna Miss Me,' with them and just went nuts,"

From there, the band moved to a quartet, adding a bass player to allow an unencumbered Munchinger to sing lead. And then the band decided to add a keyboard player.

"WE GOT THE keyboard before Count Five.

we even had keyboardist," Michaels said. "We said, 'OK, we're going to get this Farfisa, and then we'll find someone who will play it for us." The band expanded to a quintet with the addition of a keyboard player. Then, after the bass player's departure, the Covingtons recruited two ex-members of the Victims of Circumstance - bassist Bob Kaufman and guitar player Tom Conway. After a few shows as a stage-clogging sextet, the keyboard player quit.

The band is now a quintet, with Michaels, Conways and sometimes even Munchinger playing guitar. The band plays grungy garage music, mixing covers with originals. The band is true to Munchinger's original inspirations, the "Nuggets"

Nightcrawlers or the Vectors.

"We dress up nice to play wild rock'n'roll," Munchinger said.

Munchinger and Michaels write most of the Covingtons' originals.

Their first song, Munchinger's paradox-ridden psychodrama "I Hate You, Baby," is characteristically simple, but undeniably entertaining. "FRED USUALLY writes about losing some chick, but he doesn't care because he's too cool to lose any chick," Michaels said. "It kind of sounds like 'Stepping Stone.' With four chords, you're bound to end up with that. It's the excitement that makes it fun."

Until then, they are looking to continue churning out forgotten garage classics, bizarre psychedelia like Dave Allen and the Arrows' "Blues Theme" and an increasing number of originals. If they do that, Michaels said they will have surpassed their own expectations.

SECOND SELF

Andrew's Hall

A true sign a band has made it: A record deal? No. A wall-to-wall crowd at Saint Andrew's? No.

A group can tell if it's reached the pinnacle in local circles when people start professing longtime associa-tions with them. Like, for instance, everyone and their mother in this area is a friend, knows friend, went to school with or played basketball with Bob Seger.

In the line-up outside at Saint Andrew's Hall recently, people were trying to outdo one another in the who-knows who department. "We know the drummer, Jeff," said one group. "Yeah, we're friends with Andy," added another.

Once inside, everyone got to meet the music of Second Self. These are fine times for the Detroit quintet — A recently-released LP "Mood Ring" on a major label, a healthy push from EMI and rumblings of a big breakout.

No doubt, this fueled Second Self on their homecoming. The band tore through a 12-song, hour-and-10-minute set with vengeance.

Puzzling ideas

Special Occasions in West Bloomfield has created novelty designs of fashion and home accessories items. Picture frames, hand mirrors; lapel pins, barrettes and boxes all have a puzzling theme. The puzzle piece items are affordably priced from $4 to $40. Call 661-2316 to order.

Shaping up

It helps to look good in trying to get in shape. This colorful set from Leotards Etc. in Bloomfield Plaza makes it plain how serious you are. The mosaic print racer-back crop-top ($22) is appealing in shades of lavender, teal, hot pink. The lycra crop pant ($33) is in the mosaic print on one leg and a sizgling hot pink on the other. The crop pant eliminates the problems of working out in tights that so often "run." The cotton slouch sock ($8) completes the outfit.

Dear "New Mom."

You have a lot of insecurity about caring for your child. That is often the case and understandable in a new young mother. There is considerable research on this subject, some of which is contradictory. I will try to help sort it out and give you an opinion.

The question you are really asking is: "What should I do to help my son grow up to be his healthiest, happiest

During the '50s, your mother inlaw's views were widely held. They are based on the principles of behavior modification, which state that the more reinforcement you give a behavior, the more the behavior will

Thus, mothers were taught not to pick up crying babies, just as your mother-in-law advocates. Th logical outcome of picking them up would be a monstrous crybaby.

At about the same time, other researchers started looking at motherchild bonding in other ways. Their findings contradict those of behaviorists. These other researchers are called "attachment theorists" and they favor a completely different style of mothering.

They say that their experiments show that mothers who are more responsive to feeding signals and crying of their infants raised more secure children, not crybables.

The conclusion of this research is that warm, sensitive care does not create dependency, but autonomy. At present, this research appears valid.

But still, in spite of the validity of this research, each parent must try to understand their own unique child. What do you see and feel about your son? FEAR & LOAFING

Blissful eating: 'Where's the beef?'

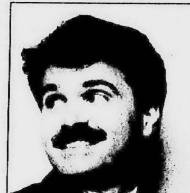

When it comes to nutrition and health, what you don't know can't hurt you . . . At least that's the theory behind my new diet.

This "ignorance is bliss" principle is demonstrated every time a cartoon character runs over the edge of the cliff. Instead of falling, he hangs suspended in mid-air - until he makes the fatal mistake of looking down. Once he knows he's in danger, he instantly plummets to earth.

But don't take Wile E. Coyote's word for it. Think about your own family tree. Who lived the longest? I'll bet two Twinkies and a King Don it's the relative with the worst eating

At our last family reunion, I let the roast beef pass by without taking any. Noticing my mother had fainted into the gravy bowl, I decided to explain my beef boycott with reliable information taken directly from the pages of newspapers sold only in supermarkets.

As discretely as possible, I delicately, tastefully, cheerfully mentioned that someone in America dies of a heart attack every 45 seconds. That most heart disease was caused by high cholesterol linked to red meat. That in 1988, Meat Board spokesman James Garner had quintuple coronary artery bypass sur-

Karl Nilsson

Before I could get to the part about antibiotics in livestock, someone piped up, "Your grandpa Schultz lived to be 87. He ate steak and eggs every morning."

Above the snickers, another voice rose, "What about Uncle Floyd? He's 84 and eats T-bones three times a day. Between meals, he chews beef

BY NOW people were shouting. "Don't forget Cousin Erma. Ate meat all her life. Then her smartalec-boy doctor made her cut back. She went into a coma. Only thing that saved her was a transfusion of bacon grease!"

No doubt you've heard similar stories around your own holiday table. I used to think they were merely exceptions that proved the rule. But slowly, a pattern began to emerge: The only thing these octogenarians had in common was their ignorance about the dangers of a bad diet.

Think about it. All through the '50s and '60s, a whole generation grew strong and tall on a steady diet of burgers and fries. Nobody on "Happy Days" worried about cholesterol or high blood pressure. Nah, they worried about important stuff, like hiding a hickey from their parents.

In those carefree days, "grease" was something good. You ate it. You wore it in your hair and packed your wheel bearings with it. And we felt

Later, in the '70s, the local malt shop was replaced by the golden arches. Charm was replaced by convenience, but the basic fat-salt-sugar ratio was left intact. Burger consumption hit the billions. And we still felt great.

Then the lettuce growers hired someone to ruin our lives. For the last 10 years, we've been bombarded with reports that anything you could possibly enjoy eating causes heart disease or cancer.

Terrified by each new medical bulletin, we switched from arteryclogging cheeseburgers to the salad bar. Hoping to add back the years beef tallow had robbed from our lifespan, we lined up three deep behind the sneeze guard.

THEN WE discovered those freshlooking veggies were loaded with sulfating agents. The shiny fruit was sprayed with Alar. The salad dressing contained more fat than a room full of fritters. And the artificial bacon bits made laboratory rats talk backwards.

✓ Need more proof? The first actor to play Ronald McDonald was Jeff Juliano. He was earning mucho McBucks until he heard the bad news - one Big Mac contains 541 calories, 31.4 grams of fat, 75 mgs of cholesterol and 963 mgs. of sodium. Today, Jeff is an unemployed vegetarian.

No wonder my relatives would rather have me set fire to the tablecloth than hear how I kicked my junk food addiction. Once they know the facts, they'll be as miserable as I

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg special writer

If it's true that there are only 100 basic plots and the difference between success and failure is how the story is told, then HBO Video has a winner with their April 11 release of minutes). Although bloody enough to earn an R, it is not rated.

But this mob-killing-and-now-let'sterrorize-the-witness film is a cut above what one ordinarily expects from such a plot line.

Good performance throughout are a major plus as Sam Paxton (Aidan Quinn) is the unlucky character of the title. Sam runs a restaurant in Manhattan's meat-packing district. Late one night in Costello's Bar, Sam witnesses Kevin O'Rourke (David Proval) carrying out a mob contract killing. Costello (Ken Pogue) looks the other way.

Unlike the street-smart folks in the neighborhood who are conveniently blind during the killing and quickly disappear afterward, Sam agrees to testify against O'Rourke when asked to do so by District Attorney Berger (Delroy Lindo).

But it's not that simple. Enter U.S. Attorney James Falcon (Brian Dennehy) who is trying to wrap up a major racketering case against a mob, The West Side Boys, who routinely shake-down the entire meat-packing industry. Falcon needs Sam's testi-

But the mob would rather Sam shut up and they take appropriate steps including beating up Sam's nine-year-old son Danny (Neal Lancaster) and terrorizing Mrs: Paxton (Laura Harrington).

There's enough pressure on Sam so he finally refuses to testify. Falcon has him jailed for contempt and matters settle down for a while in a mild "Innocent Man" vein.

COMPLICATING the situation is the animosity between Falcon and D.A. Berger who thinks, as many do, that Falcon is positioning himself for a political career. Further complicating things is Falcon's affair with Assistant U.S. Attorney Lynn Sapperstein (Stockard Channing).
The latter involvement, besides its awkward implications, simply doesn't ring true. The former complication, however, is a convenient lead into a pretty literate discussion of the political uses of the legal system and the politics of justice.

What is the nature of a citizen's duty and how far may officers of the court go in seeing to it that citizen's do their duty? At best, a difficult question, particularly in these days of widespread, organized violence.

At times, Falcon's lectures on "Perfect Witness" (1989, color, 101 these issues become uncomfortable sermons, especially when directed at his lover, Attorney Sapperstein. But, for the most part, Dennehy's acting - and everyone else's performance as well -- overcome such deficits.

The film has an effective, gritty, urban look and some pretty tough music which support these excellent performances.

For those who enjoy crime stories, there's a score to be released April 12 by Republic Pictures Home Video. A comic interpretation of crime is represented in eight of those 20, first-time home video releases of 'Car 54, Where Are You?"

These eight originally aired in the fall of 1961 and are available in four volumes (two programs per tape) at $14.98 or $59.98 for the entire set.

The 12 feature-length crime stories star many legendary Hollywood names and include three available on home video for the first time: 'The Finger Man" with Frank Lovejoy, Forrest Tucker and Peggie Castle is a story of a bootlegger with a choice, life in the pen or undercover work for the Feds.

"HOODLUM EMPIRE" also features Forrest Tucker along with Brian Donlevy and Claire Trevor. It develops the same theme, a top gun goes straight and threatens to testify against Mr. Big. The third of these never-before-released on video cassette. "When Gangland Strikes," is also about mobs and public prosecutors but its cast, Raymond Greenlead, Marjie Millar and Anthony Caruso, are not as well-known as the others.

The remaining eight titles, now rereleased at a reduced price ($19.98) are "Force of Evil" with John Garfield, Thomas Gomez and Marie Windsor, "Kiss Tomorrow Goodbye" with James Cagney, "Riot in Cellblock 11" featuring Neville Brand, "Crashout" with William Bendix and Arthur Kennedy and "Try and Get Me" with Frank Lovejoy and Lloyd Bridges.

William Conrad, Dick Powell and Rhonda Flemming star in "Cry Danger." "Cry Vengenace," "Plunder Road" and the "City That Never Sleeps" completes this package of old time gangster movies.

Class clowns:

"WE START by helping students recognize and organize their resources," said Round, a hulking, bearded gentleman cast in the Santa Claus mold, who got his start in show business 20 years ago. Students at Roundhouse Comedy College are taught to steer away from the norm. 'Monology is out," said Round. In "The college did two things for me," said Ken Brown, an industrial engineer at General Motors, who at 28, has been touring the country for two years as a professional stand-up comic. "Jonathan's course gave me more knowledge on how to write material and it also gave me some valuable stage time."

'The first thing you learn is that this is no 'la-de-da' course," said Lenny Weiss who is with Shearson, Lehman and Hutton in Birmingham. He retired from stand-up comedy at the tender age of 37 after 25 shows.

"HIS COURSE is a lot like college, Jonathon talks, and talks, and talks, you take notes and notes and then you get to work on your routine in front of the class,' Weiss said. "I still keep in touch with some of the people I met.'

One of Weiss' contacts is Gilda Hauser, who also graduated from the

'I probably wouldn't have done it if it wasn't for Jonathon's courses, said Hauser, a University of Michigan graduate from Southfield who's been working on the local open mike circuit for six months. "I was really chicken and even went as far as to say that I was finding out about the course for a friend, so they wouldn't think it was me.'

After students have discovered what they're about, what their resources are, and ways that they can create material, they work on coming up with a 10-minute act. That's phase-two of the course, or, the performance bit.

"While learning to write material, the students develop a routine," said Round, who, after a stint with the "Second City" cornedy troupe in Chicago, began teaching improvisational comedy in Detroit in 1980. "We then videotape their routine and later discuss delivery, mike use, facial language and prop use."

THE COURSE costs $240 and meets eight weeks, one night a week,

Humor processed with byte

It used to be that comedians found their material in bathrooms and bars. But this is the 1990s. Now they can conjure up material via a com-

Computerized comedy, yeah, that's the program.

The "Humor Processor" is a piece of software put out by Responsive Software of Berkeley, Calif. The program, written by Alan Macy, uses a cross-referencing technique that puts hundreds of thousands of word and phrase association possibilities at the comedian's fingertips.

Built around a collection of bits of data — i.e., people, movies, places
— the "Humor Processor" program is, what they call in the business, "incomplete set-up lines."

The program appears on the computer screen in the form of two columns. The column on the left offers words and phrases associated with one topic, and is manually advanced by the user. The column on the right the screen has another list of words and phrases associated with a different topic, and advances on its own every five seconds.

The trick is to pull out a phrase from each side and create a comparative joke . . . sort of. Here's an example:

LET'S TAKE cars as the topic and cross-reference it with . . . say . . .

Under cars, you'll find things like bring 'em back alive, hula dancer in back window, going to traffic school, teaching husband to drive and fuel pump. Under cows, taking the bull by the horns, roll in the hay, grazing in the grass, meanwhile back at the farm and chocolate milk.

Now, using comedian math, you could come up with 15,525 joke possibilities with these 10 phrases. With 50 to 400 phrases in each of the 25 different categories, a good comedian could come up with a joke for every person on the Eastern Seaboard for the next 37.4 years.

She's known as the only comic in America who shares the same birthplace as Jesus Christ . Bethlehem. Her tour is also one of the most controversial on the stand-up circuit men are not allowed inside the club when she is appearing.

At a time when a high price is paid for innovation in stand-up comedy, Jenny Jones has struck it rich.

Jones' show, "Girls' Night Out," plays to sold-out audiences across the country and can best be described as a two-hour group therapy session that has evolved from a 25minute stand-up routine.

Women are encouraged to participate, to open up and involve themselves in the act. Men have gone underground, dressed up in drag to review her show. They have surfaced not quite understanding what went

"We laugh at things inside of us women of all ages," said Jones, who has been recovering from a bout with the measles. "The shows get very personal, but not dirty. Men may be curious about what goes on, but they wouldn't be comfortable

At just a few years of age, Jones (who's real name is Jenny Stronski) moved with her parents (who met in a bread line in Poland) and sister from Bethlehem to London, Ontario.

She first got into the business as a model, her face gracing the cover of a facial soap called Select. She also did what she believes to be the first topless bathing suit ad in Canada, for Catalina swimsuits.

Half-naked? YEAH, BUT I had long hair at the time," Jones said. (Hint: Picture Jones's show. Darryl Hannah in the movie

After a successful Las Vegas act, called "Jenny Jones and the Cover Girls" - the first all-girl act to do the Nevada circuit - in which Jones played the drums (after only three months of practice), she was spotted by Wayne Newton and worked for him as a backup singer with the Jive Sisters. She then dropped her musical career and took on stand-up com-

With less than five years of comedy experience, Jones gave the standup comic portion of the TV show "Star Search" a shot. In the end, she was $100,000 richer, and to this day, the only woman ever to win the comedy portion of the show.

Sheesh! A hundred grand. "What did you do with the money?

Oh, I bought cars for my parents and I bought them a house," said Jones, whose parents were in the wedding gown business when Jenny was growing up. Jenny Jones had arrived.

Within months, she was touring with such headline acts as Tony Bennett, Sammy Davis Jr. and the Pointer Sisters. She became a regular on "Hollywood Squares" and appeared on such stardom launch pads as "Arsenio Hall," "An Evening at the Improv" and the "Super Dave Osborn Show" on Showtime.

During this time, Jones came up with the concept for "Girls' Night

"IT'S A LOT of fun," said Jones. "It moves so fast that the two hours seem like about 20 minutes."

Mark Ridley, owner of the Comedy Castle, where Jones will be appearing tonight, couldn't be happier with the controversy surrounding the all-woman show. For patrons of Magda Moursi, treatment begins the moment they walk into her Birmingham office.

A small machine hums quietly on a shelf in the corner. At first glance, the machine appears decorative. A delicate glass bell, filled with translucent liquid, rests atop a nondescript blue base. The base, despite its bland appearance is busily diffusing the contents of the bell throughout the

The odors, spread about the office by the diffuser, combine with the smells from various plants Moursi has selected to create a pleasant blend. But Moursi means to do more than just refresh her visitors.

Merely sitting in her office serves as a subtle introduction to aromatherapy the art and science of using nasally and topically ingested plant materials to treat the body and the mind.

The blending of the odors is changed every three weeks to fit the needs of Moursi's patrons. Typically, she gears the blend to relax her visitors.

"People are really in such a very in-tense, fast type of life that I have yet to find a person that doesn't need to relax," Moursi said.

Aromatherapy is, to some extent, an ancient discipline. As early as 4,000 years ago, Chinese doctors were documenting the curative powers of certain plants. Moursi cites the work of the Greek physician Hippocrates and the burial practices of ancient Egyptians as ancestors to her

"THE EGYYPTIANS used many different oils to embalm bodies," Moursi said. "In fact, in some of the tombs they found alabaster jars with ointments that are still valid today, if you analyze them."

Moursi remembers becoming interested in plants and their curative properties while growing up in Egypt.

"As a person having a deep respect for th earth and whatever the earth has to give us as far as plants, I felt that there was a remedy in the plant world for almost every kind of ailment," she said. "So I started to study plants and herbs and aromatherapy, and I've been practicing this for over 25 years."

Moursi studied aromatherapy and skin treatment in France and practiced in Paris before moving to Southfield 18 years ago. She moved her office to downtown Birmingham in 1983. She returns to Europe annually to keep abreast of new developments in her specialty.

The modern practice of aromatherapy is popular in Japan and Europe - particularly in England and in France - but it isn't especially popular in the United MOURSI IS one of, at most, a handful of practitioners of aromatherapy in the area and she combines it with more common skin and beauty treatments.

At present, Moursi uses 30-40 different oils but hopes to increase that number.

"In my learning, I get to know more and more plants and more and more oils," she said. "If you come see me in two years, I'll probably increase that to a hundred."

Moursi keeps her oils in a medicine cabinet in her reception area. They are stored in tiny brown bottles, which, she said, are necessary to preserve the odoriferous molecules of the essential oils. The diminutive bottles each have their own faint aroma and each features a tiny label.

SOME LABELS are handwritten, but some are elaborate tiny advertisements, with miniscule drawings of the plants from which the oils were derived and references to the special properties of the

Moursi's international background, and her ability to read in four languages is especially helpful as nearly all of the oils she uses must be imported from other

Most of the oils in her cabinet hail from India, Malaysia, Tunisia or some equally distant locale. The only domestically produced (from Michigan) oil in Moursi's office is peppermint oil.

When a client visits Moursi for the first time, she begins a process of determining an appropriate blend of essential oils for that particular client. The factors governing the blend can range from the particular complaints of the individual to the condition of the skin, even the shape of the face and the plant leaves or the flower petals being used.

"I do something called intuitive blending," Moursi said. "I work with many different formulas and also really use my intuition as far as blending oils." She refers to the resulting blends as "synergies," which develop special properties when used in complementary combinations.

THE BLENDS reach Moursi's patrons in several ways. The can be applied topically as part of a face or neck massage. Oils also are directed at the nose through the use of a steamer, a devise resembling a small teapot with a trigger handle and nozzle which draws oil and water from separate chamber and mixes them into a

She also places blends into bottles so that patrons can apply or smell their blends at home

Aromatherapy is a field where, to a certain extent, customer satisfaction is guaranteed. Smell is a personal matter and what smells pleasing or refreshing to one person might offend the nose of another. But Moursi has never sent a customer home with a blend that was, to the customer's nose, malodorous.

"In assessing and evaluating the client, this is all taken into consideration," she said. "If the person doesn't like the smell of something, there's no way they're going to use it. It will be doing a counter-effect."

While aromatherapy's name suggests a nasal focus, Moursi stressed the role of the skin as a receptor for essential oils.

"The skin is the largest organ of the whole body, so we don't want to exclude

THAT PROPERTY is perhaps the most important for Moursi's practice. Essential oils are fat soluble and because they are derived from nature, easily transported from the skin throughout the body, she Michelle Guisewite, a vice president/associate creative director with Ross Roy Advertising in Bloomfield Hills, visits Moursi regularly for facials and aromatherapy. She feels that Moursi's methods have been at least as helpful as other therapies she has employed.

'My skin has really cleared up dramatically," she said. "I've been to dermatologists. It's not like I have terrible skin, but I tend to be one of these people that breaks out a little bit, and I find that my skin is just in better condition . . . my complexion's a little rosier."

Magda Moursi work the essential oils of rosemary, lavender, rosewood and geranium into the skin of

The basics

As the names implies, aromatherapy has to do with scents. Its main ingredients are the potent distilled plant essences, called "essential oils, derived by placing plant material like flower petals in a special receptacle and forcing steam through the material.

The mixture is allowed to evaporate, then cool. Water is then drawn from the material, leaving a highly concentrated oil, containing more than 100 complex constituents or

Over the years, aromatherapist Magda Moursi of Brimingham has become somewhat of an expert on the lore behind various flora. She is adept at explaining how the sandalwood tree functions as a parasite, feeding from the roots of other trees without ever developing its own root systems.

She also tells the story of how Captain Cook's Australian settlers despaired at the absence of traditional tea and finaling it "teatree."

Moursi also has knowledge of the characteristics attributed to the various oils. Lemon oil, for example, tightens blood vessels and strengthens tissue. And pine and eucalyptus oils aid in respiratory metabolism by helping the skin to breathe better.

But knowledge about plants and there characteristics doesn't mean you can do aromatherapy. Forget do-it-yourself aromatherapy by simply surrounding yourself with the appropriate plants.

According to Moursi, the plants themselves do not provide powerful enough concentrations of their special properties. And novices shouldn't dabble in the oils either since some of them are toxic. Moursi has elimated all toxins from her practice, but an amateur might not know enough to do so,

Another outfit that quickly caught the eye of several customers was a red wool trumpet skirt the owner had matched with a red sweater, accented with black leather piping and black mink at the shoulders. "JUST TAKE a look at Los Angeles for example," she said. "The celebrities wear their beautiful gowns to the Academy Awards, then ship them off to the high class resale shops where the up and coming ac-tresses buy them for less and don't mind saying that the dress is used!"

Even though none of the dresses on the racks at Encore Encore were ever worn by Joan Collins or Elizabeth Taylor, there are several pieces on consignment that have been worn by Detroit area social-ites and media personalities as well as wives of major sports figures. Griffin hopes to convince some of the more well known ladies who consign clothing or buy at her shop to have photographs taken for her "Celebrity Corner."

The idea is still in the planning stages, so when a customer asks if a particular item belonged to any-one special, the saleswoman simply says "Shhh, we're not allowed to tell."

By Joan Karner special writer

A building, according to Gunnar Birkerts, is more than four walls and a roof. It is symbolism and metaphor created by an architect combining site, budget, finances, technology and his own background, said Birkerts, an internationally known architect, based in Birmingham.

Buildings lasting a hundred years or more become part of history, he Birkerts, professor of architecture at the University of Michigan, spoke recently at the Chrysler auditorium on North Campus. The College of Architecture and Design honored the retiring professor by selecting him to present its John Dinkeloo Memorial Lecture.

Birkerts elaborated on his technique of building design which creates buildings of symbolism and metaphor designed to fit specific situa-

THE FINAL INGREDIENT he said, is zeitgeist, a combination of "the recognition of the time we live in" and the background of the architect. All of these factors combine or synthesize to create the buildings which are metaphorical and symbolic and fit in the place selected for

One example of symbolism and metaphor in Birkerts' work is the Corning Museum in Corning, N.Y. Created for the Corning glass company, the outside of the building features reversing half-circles in an amorphous design, much like an amoeba. This apparently wandering design represents, according to Birkets, the molten form of glass. The museum is built entirely of glass.

"If we could have used cat's eye marbles instead of gravel on the roof, we would have," he said.

Illustrating his lecture with slides, he demonstrated several meanings of the circle. For example, the circular library at Cornell University, represents the extent of knowledge. Protrusions in the circle show the continuing search for knowledge.

In Wyoming, the circular shape of circle of the wagons formed each evening by the settlers crossing the state. The Iowa law school library Birkerts created based on a circle represents the law as one of the purest professions.

A building representing both metaphor and the use of the site and local building materials is the U.S. Embassy in Caracas, Venezuela, he said. The building is "not traditional federal architecture" rather, it blends with the mountains in the background. The blending is reinforced with the use of local granite in its facade. The design of the building reflects the shapes of the mountains and accommodates the chosen

New leasing concept can ease work load

Q: I started a small retail shop two years ago which has become very successful. I have two clerks and now I'm having to spend so much time doing book work, tax forms, etc. that my sales volume is suffering because I can't devote enough time to it. How can I spend more time doing what I want to do and less time on bookkeeping drudgery?

A: A simple rule for success is to concentrate your efforts on the work you do best and delegate tasks you don't do as well. This would seem especially desirable in your case.

A recent Small Business Administration report estimated the average manager spends from seven percent to 23 percent of his/her time handling employee-related government requirements. To avoid this huge time commitment, you have several alternatives. 1) You can hire a new employee to do your payroll or 2) pay an outside bookeeping service to do it for you.

A third alternative is a fairly new concept of leasing employees. Not to be confused with temporary help services, leased employees work for you but are technically hired and paid by an employee leasing company. All you do is write the leasing company one check periodically and it handles all the payroll, worker's compensation insurance and taxes (FICA, FUTA, MESC) including quarterly reports, W-2's, etc. It also offers the opportunity to be included in a choice of benefit plans which you could not afford to provide on your own, along with a myriad of other advantages. In turn you can attract and retain better employees.

Employee leasing began in 1972 and was considered a legal loophole while "Safe Harbor" laws were in effect from 1983 through 1985. It now offers legal tax advantages to employees and employers, but is no longer considered a tax

The National Staff Leasing association has some 135 accredited company members in the U.S. who must adhere to a standard code of ethics. Tom Dennis, president of the new Staffco Services Inc. of Bioomfield Hills, says his company can not only relieve you of payroll headaches while saving you time, it can actually decrease your employee dollar outlay in most cas-

Employee leasing began in 1972 and was considered a legal loophole while 'Safe Harbor' laws were in effect from 1983 through 1985. It now offers legal tax advantages to employees and employers, but is no longer considered a tax shelter.

Dennis and vice president Pamela Zawicki told me that, among still other advantages, they can reduce exposure to employee/government lawsuits, assist in screening applicants and even handle severance notification when asked to do so. This contract arrangement can be utilized by businesses with one employee or several hun-

Whichever alternative you choose, I strongly encourage you to assign your payroll and bookkeeping tasks to someone else and focus your talents on sales.

Before someone commits to buying one of these (above), the first step is walking through a model (photograph at right) to determine what is the best style. Builders often will sell models to buyers at a lower cost, with added

Model homes: top amenities at a lower cost

By Doug Funke staff writer

Buyers of new houses or condominiums frequently can get more for their dollars by looking at models in residential subdivisions.

Models, although generally not cheaper in and of themselves, usually have upgraded features that would cost more if they were to be included in the same kind of unit built on another lot in the sub.

They end up getting a package cheaper than they probably could do putting the stuff together," said Angelo Spagnoli, president of S&S Homes of Plymouth.

"You'll get some wallpaper, some drapery. Carpeting probably will be a better grade, appliances a better grade," he said.

Price discounts on models may be available, depending on market conditions, when a builder wraps up a project. 'A builder wants to sell," Spagnoli said. "He doesn't want to sit on it. He may be willing to bargain."

BUT DON'T expect a steal unless some unusual circumstances surround a buy. "It's not a fire sale," Spagnoli

'A builder wants to sell. He doesn't want to sit on it. He may be willing to bargain.'

> — Angelo Spagnoli S & S Homes president

Sheldon Rott, national sales and marketing manager for Lifestyle Homes of Farmington Hills, projected that a buyer probably could get a condo model for about $205,000 that would cost $220,000 if built from scratch

"They get a lot of amenities they normally wouldn't buy or get them gradually over the years," Rott said. 'I can't say we don't charge anything, but we don't charge what it

Landscaping, security systems and fireplaces generally are included as upgrades.

MODELS. MANY of which are furnished at the builder's expense, most often appeal to transferees, people searching for a specific decorative look and investors.

They may prefer not bothering necessarily discount models, but with the piecemeal approach to buying and furnishing.

'It's someone who wants new but doesn't want to buy from scratch," said Ellen Whitefield, director of marketing for The Selective Group of Farmington Hills.

Then there are impulse buyers who just fall in love with models and feel compelled to buy, she said.

"You have wallpaper up, light fixtures up, some upgraded things like faucets, maybe appliances," Whitefield said. "It's done, you can see it, you can move into it. You're there."

Models almost invariably are clean and well cared for because they serve as signature pieces for a

'Anyone would be crazy to let a model get out of hand," Rott said. Pulte Homes of Michigan in Royal Oak, like most area builders, doesn't does offer good value for the money. said Deen Hyde, marketing director.

"WE WILL normally put a model on the market three to six months before close-out," she said.

'We don't do a lot of extra builtins because we want people to see what kind of house they're going to get delivered," Hyde said.

Buyers of Pulte models could expect to get wallpaper, drapes, a landscaped lot and a sprinkling sys-

The big draw Hyde finds is "no hassle moving in."

Jo Vincenti, marketing and sales manager for Tri-Mount of Novi, speculated that condo buyers could get $10,000 to $15,000 in discounted extras buying a $200,000 condo model than building and decorating on

"They pay more than the base price but not as much as extras are worth," she said.

"We might tile the kitchen, which isn't standard. We may put marble on the fireplace, put up mirrors. Then we wallpaper, put in window treatments. They might like certain pieces of art.

"Instead of paying full value, they get extras for way below," Vincenti

BUT BUYERS should know that market conditions at a given time usually determine the value of a property. 'Models are strange," Vincenti said. "It depends on how fast you sell out, how quickly you turn over, how much prices go up.'

"In some cases, a builder builds (and holds) a model and three years later, prices are up $50,000," Spagnoli said. "If it's a buyer's market, you'll probably get a better deal."

Condo associations can protest assessments as dwellers' proxy

With the recent increase in tax asanything a condominium association can do to help the individual owners with their assessments?

As you know, in most instances the condominium association does not normally own any of the real estate and the assessments from the local assessor are imposed on the individual co-owner.

On the other hand, I have seen situations where the association has been recognized as a representative body of certain co-owners who authorize it to go to the city or township assessor in an effort to make an adjustment for the condominium units in the project as a whole. The association may be in the position, perhaps, to retain counsel to assist it more economically in advancing the interests of the individual co-owners and by providing infor-mation which would be of benefit. That approach can be taken only if there is no conflict between the individual co-owners vis-a-vis the individual assessments.

In any event, the condominium association can serve as a clearing house for information between the individual co-owners and can provide assistance by way of economic information to the individual coowners regarding the tax assessment so long as that action is authorized by the members of the association.

In short, while the association can be of assistance in this regard, it should be undertaken only with the advice of the association's legal counsel so as to insure that the association is not stepping on anyone's legal toes in the association.

I understand you handle a number of construction defect lawsuits for associations. Can you brief me on the present status of the issue con-cerning fire retardant plywoods that can be treated to the point of becoming unsafe.

According to a report on fire re-tardant plywood published by the National Association of Home Builders, the problem was discovered when some townhouse owners began reporting excessive waviness in their roofing near the firewalls.

In some cases, further inspection showed that the sheathing had dete-riorated to the point where the roof was unaafe to walk on. It appeared that heat and moisture in and around sessments across the board, is there the roof was contributing to a chemical reaction which caused the plywood to become extremely brittle and deteriorate.

Plywoods treated with ammonium phosphate formulas appear to show the greatest amount of deterioration. When exposed to wide variations of heat and humidity, the phosphates break down and in the process dissolve the middle lamella of the plywood. I am advised that drywood often has a charred brown appearance which is similar to a condition caused by a brown-rot fungi. An industry task force on fire retardant plywoods is studying the extent of the problem, researching methods for repairing structures that have damaged fire retardant plywood and investigating options to fire retardant plywood.

Apparently even after the current test and study results are available, the long-term ramifications of using fire retardant plywood may not be known for years.

In the meantime, community associations which have responsibility for the maintenance, repair and/or condo Robert M. Melsner replacement of this condition should be exploring the situation and determining whether there is any liability and who will bear responsibility for

Real estate firm expands its scope

Uniprop Inc., a Birmingham- and Denver-based real estate equity investment firm, is expanding to include medical/professional office development and management activities.

Uniprop president Paul Zlotoff called the progression from manufactured housing to hospital expansion and neighborhood "satellite" offices as "a natural progression." Financial lenders and investor groups are increasingly interested in this type of investment vehicle because of the stability of the income properties, he said.

Uniprop currently owns and manages the Novi Professional Village in Novi; the Maple Park Office Center in West Bloomfield, which was codeveloped with Nosan/Cohen Associates of West Bloomfield: and the Bloomfield Medical Village in Bloomfield Township.

Robert Morris Realtors has opened its office at 7071 Orchard Lake Road, Suite 300, in West Bloomfield, according to owner Robert M. Schuman. The firm will handle residential and commercial properties. It is a member of the Birmingham/Bloomfield Board of Realtors' multi-list

The Michigan Association of Life Safety Equipment Contractors recently announced its campaign against proposed Michigan House Bill 5168, which would require technicians handling low-voltage equipment to become licensed journeyman electricians in order to work in a structure regulated under the state construction code.

The association is a newly formed group representing 4,800 Michigan residents employed by businesses that install and service low-voltage equipment.

This equipment includes intercoms for hospitals, burglar, fire and security alarm systems, closed-circuit television, data processing equipment, sound systems and, in some instances, telephones.

D & N Mortgage Co. in Plymouth is offering buyers terms to 40 years, loan amounts to $500,000 and a choice of customizing features.

Don Maillatesi called the adjustable rate mortgage plan advantageous to home buyers.

"Our flexible underwriting guidelines and 10 percent minimum down payment make it easier for borrowers to qualify," he said.

"With loan amortizations as long as 40 years, larger-than-average maximum loan amounts and initial interest rates currently as low as 7 %, even first and second-time buyers can now afford more home for their money."

First-time home buyers continued to be a major economic force in the U.S. housing market in 1989, according to statistics compiled by Century 21 Real Estate Corp.

First-time buyers represented 38 percent of the more than 400,000 transactions recorded by the Century 21 system in 1989. There has been no significant change in that percentage for the last year fives. Century 21 Real Estate Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., is headquartered in Irvine, Calif.

Wood requires limited heat, humidity, sun

Fine wood furnishings need more than dusting and polishing: They need a healthful environment.

To avoid unnecessary weathering, aging or damage, Better Homes and Gardens magazine recommends placing precious pieces away from excessive exposure to these natural furniture foes:

• Hemidity: Wood easily absorbs moisture, then dries out just as readily. A friendly atmosphere in the 30 to 40 percent relative humidity range will reduce drying and warping, splitting, or lossessing of joints.

• Heat: Furniture experts say 68 to 70 degrees is the ideal indoor temperature for wood pieces. Keep the temperature consistent and that will help pieces avoid wood stress.

• Sualight: Keeping wood furni-ture away from direct sunlight pro-tects against the ultraviolet-light fading that the sun's rays cause. It also reduces the exposure to the rapid heat changes produced by the sun.

· Liquid: To avoid finish damage, wipe up liquids immediately after a spill. The worst offenders are solvent-based fluids, such as alcohol, paint thinner and nail polish remo-ver. Also, be careful of dripping can-

Give special furnishings a vaca-tion when taking one. When leaving home for a season or a couple of months, put favorite pieces under wraps. Otherwise, dust will build up, blow about and contribute to scratching and dulling finishes the next time furniture needs polishing.
