Extra miler

Mary Lou Johnson, a paraprofessional educational aide at Central Middle School, was honored with an "Extra Miler' award by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

Johnson, who joined the district in October 1985, works with emotionally impaired students in a class taught by Kathy Meyers.

Mevers said her students decided to have an appreciation day for Mrs. Johnson and that the Extra Miler nomination was "a natural extension of their plans."

The students listed more than 20 qualities "which make Mary Lou Johnson an outstanding person as well as an outstanding classroom aide," said Meyers. "She offers children the opportunity to learn with a trusted and caring adult and helps me, as a teacher, make our class better and better.'

Johnson was presented by the school board with a framed certificate, a cloisonne pin of the Flag of Learning and Liberty and a dining certificate for two donated by the Mayflower Hotel.

Plymouth and Canton. But more signs started appearing during last year's school board election. And by last fall, several city commission candidates were placing more lawn signs than ever, in hopes of reaching voters.

Now that trend is continuing. It's most noticeable in Plymouth, where signs are displayed in residential neighborhoods, and on succeeding lawns along some main streets.

In the Plymouth city election in November, top vote getters Jerry Vorva and John Vos III also put out the most yard signs. Long-time commissioner Robert Jones, who observers said was one of the most effective commissioners, didn't put out yard signs and was narrowly defeated.

"I think a lot of people feel the signs are what did it," said school board candidate K.C. Mueller. While she's quick to point out that Vorva and Vos also got their messages out in other ways, Mueller and other school board candidates say signs are an important tool to getting known by voters.

'It helps with the name recognition," Mueller said. "But I do believe and I do hope there's more to it than the signs.

Stamp said that "If everybody else is doing it, it kind of hurts you" to not put up signs.

School board candidate Carl Battishill raised the example of Robert Jones' city commission defeat, adding, "It's hard to know whether it has an impact, but if you don't do it (put up signs) it has a negative impact. It seems to indicate a lack of serious intent."

Battishill said he expects to put up more than 200 signs this year more than double the number he put up in the last school election.

Mueller said she has ordered 125 yard signs and put up about 100 so far. Stamp said she's ordered about 130, but 20-30 have been removed by vandals.

Another candidate, Robert E. Anderson Jr., said of placing signs, "I think it's important. I think it helps." Anderson said he's put out 100 to 200. "Wc've had some problem with them disappearing," he said.

Richard W. Sumpter, a candidate who lives in Canton, said the biggest impact on voters is endorsements

Transmission shop fights efforts to revoke license

By Kevin Brown staff writer

Despite the setback posed by a recent ruling, the owner of a Plymouth transmission shop is continuing his court battle with the state.

After an undercover investigation in August 1986, state Attorney General Frank Kelley filed charges against 13 transmission repair shops. They included American Transmissions, on Starkweather at Main in Plymouth.

On May 9, Wayne County Circuit Judge Helene White upheld the license revocation of three metro Detroit transmission shops, including American Transmissions in Plymouth, as Kelley maintained the shops were performing unnecessary, expensive repairs on automobile transmissions," according to attorney general's office spokesman Chris DeWitt.

But John Folino, co-owner of the Plymouth shop, which remains open pending appeal, maintains a state employee placed chips suggesting transmission damage in the oil pan of a car taken to the shop as part of the investigation.

Folino said when the transmission was checked, "We said, 'But we can't find anything wrong with it.'

Beginning in June, they'll guarantee the on-the-job performance of Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high school graduates.

The board of education last week approved a diploma warranty proposal presented by Canton principal Tom Tattan and Sharon Strean, assistant director of the district's community education department.

The warranties, to be mailed to local employers, guarantee that graduates will have "functional skills in basic reading, writing, mathematics, computer literacy and communications," said Tattan. "This is an outgrowth of working toward total outcome-based education. It reflects our dealing with employability skills issues, which are evolving as state mandates."

"We're saying to employers, 'If kids don't have those skills in your opinion, you can send them back and we'll retrain them at our expense," said Superintendent John Hoben.

The warranty program will benefit the school district as well as employers, said Tattan and Strean. The schools will see the business community become more involved in education, improvements in the curriculum that relate directly to on-the-job performance, and greater follow-up and evaluation of schools, say Tattan and Strean.

Benefits to employers include more productive employees, assistance in screening job applicants and the opportunity to use the training resources of the school district

Initially, warranties will be given to graduates and distributed to area employers. Future plans call for the warranty to be honored for employers anywhere.

A 60-car funeral procession wound through Canton and Plymouth streets Friday as family and friends said good-bye to Melissa Chisholm, 14, who was died in a hit-run-accident May 14.

Police continue to search for the driver of the car that struck the eighth grade Pioneer Middle School student at 9:45 p.m. on Ford Road west of Lilley Road.

CHISHOLM WAS crossing the street with her 11-year-old sister, a Pioneer sixth grader, while their mother, Deborah, waited in a nearby restaurant.

Pioneer principal Carl Taylor described Chisholm as an average student and "very well liked by a lot of students." She was a student council member and was on the school track team.

Her family once owned the Donut Scene, which is where witnesses called police to report the accident.

During the weeklong investigation police have changed the description of the car that struck Chisholm. Initially they thought it was an Escort and later learned that the dark metallic gray paint chips found at the accident had to be from a Ford, Lincoln or Mercury.

Police also know that a window was broken, but they aren't sure if it was a windshield or rear window. The car trunk likely was damaged. Witnesses said the driver had collar-length dark hair "Someone has to know where this car is," said Pat Nemecek, Canton police information officer.

If the driver had stopped at the accident scene he possibility would not have been charged with a crime, because Chisholm had crossed against a light, police said.

Since he left the scene of a serious accident he now faces felony charges that carry up to two years in prison, a $2,000 fine or both.

"Not knowing the total circumstances, he probably would not have been found at fault," Nemecek said. 'He was proceeding through a green light in the intersection.

'He should have stopped," Nemecek said. "There is no way he did not know that he had hit someone or something."

Police have received less than 10 tips.

THE DAY after the accident Pioneer students placed flowers and carried signs at the spot where Chisholm was struck and whispered among themselves hoping to spot the driver of the car that killed their friend.

Their signs asked motorists to beep their horns if they cared.

School psychologists and social workers helped Pioneer students cope with losing a classmate.

"Students began to express their grief in very dramatic ways, like outward bursts of crying," Taylor

Friends hold up signs asking motorists to remember Melissa Chisholm who was killed by a hit-and-run driver Monday. Chisholm's brother Duane stands quietly on the curb.

Obesity can start a chain reaction to poor health that can be devastating.

To begin with, most physicians and researchers consider obesity to be the major cause of diabetes in adults. Up to 90% of adults diagnosed as having diabetes, in fact, are overweight.

Of course, once you have diabetes your chances of developing heart disease, kidney disease, or going blind increase dramatically.

As a person with diabetes you'll be twice as prone to heart disease. 17 times as prone to kidney disease. And 25 times as prone to blindness, if you are insulin-dependent.

Diabetes, in fact, can shorten your life expectancy by one-third.

Fortunately, diabetes in adults, in most cases, can be prevented with careful weight control, healthy eating habits, and regular exercise.

Sen. William Faust's bill requiring adults to lock up guns that children might find is being shot at by a key senator as well as sportsmen.

Senate Judiciary Chair Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, says the "careless use of firearms" law may be sufficient to charge adults when children shoot them off.

"I do not like to stretch the law," replied a key witness, Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair, who favors Faust's Senate Bill 702. O'Hair wants clearer statutory authority.

A National Rifle Association lobbyists objected that the bill singles out firearms and "punishes grieving parents after the fact."

NICHOLS CONDUCTED his panel's first hearing on the bill last week at the urging of Faust, D-Westland. The bill would require adults (18 and over) to store firearms in locked containers or use a trigger lock if a minor (16 and under) could gain access without parental permission. With only three of its five mem-bers attending, the Judiciary Commmittee took no vote Thursday. Nichols said the panel has a week to act if the full Legislature is to vote by the summer break. The chair said he was cool toward it. A similar bill is stalled in a House grams." committee. The measure's prosepcts

appear dim

"ONCE A MONTH," O'Hair said, "our office writes up a report from the Detroit Police Department (of children's use of firearms).

"If there is great remorse on the part of the parent, we forego prosecution, believing the death of a child is sufficient punishment."

But the county will prosecute the doorman of a crack house who puts down a gun to take a break and a child picks it up and fires it, usually at another child.

"Guns are attractive to young children. They see them in comics and on TV."

A former circuit judge, O'Hair said his office can prosecute under two statutes: manslaughter and contributing to the delinquency of a mi-

"This bill would give prosecutors another option to charge adults." He said the "reckless use" statute Nichols cited would apply where the firearm was under the adult's "immediate control." O'Hair asked a more precise legal tool.

He cited public service TV spots in which actors well known to kids say three times: "Guns aren't toys. If you find a gun, leave it alone. Don't touch it. Tell an adult."

The- 135,000-member NRA has a long list of other objections to the Faust bill, Cunningham said:

• It punishes one person for the act of another.

• It singles out firearms, ignoring poisons, alcohol, farm equipment and knives. Bicycle accidents kill more kids than gun accidents.

• Guns with trigger locks are worthless to adults for self defense.

• The bill exempts police and military personnel, who should be subject to it like everyone else.

• The bill punishes an act of mere negligence as a felony.

School board objects to editorial

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Members are shocked and dismayed at your malicious attack on our personal integrity and morality based on an untrue premise. I am referring to your recent "opinion" editorial entitled "Back Room Politics — CBE would benefit from deal." Your premise for this slanderous editorial is that "two school board members will be resigning this year, and they will be resigning this year, and they will be replaced with pro-school administration type candidates."

I have personally polled each of the other four Board Members who are not up for election this year (David Artley, Barbara Graham, Dr. E. J. McClendon, and Roland Thomas) concerning your premise. None of them (nor myself as President) was contacted by you or anyone on your staff concerning the validity of this premise. We assure you that none of us is considering resigning, and the five of us would have been pleased to inform you of this fact if anyone had asked.

If the present Board of Education had such a strategy (and we surely do not), we would have asked Marilyn Schwinn and Jeanette Wines (neither of whom is seeking re-election in June) to resign in February and appoint two members to their positions for four months before the June 11 election. This Board of Education would not think of using such an underhanded scheme. All of us recognize and value the election process to determine citizen representatives on the Board of Education. The present Board Members carrying over to next year have all been elected by the citizens at least twice in the past except for Barbara Graham. Dr. McClendon has been elected many, many times. We are all proud of the American political process, and we value its contribution to this country.

In addition, we accept fully the print media's right (and even duty) to present differing views and opinions concerning issues in the School District. We do not, however, accept any right of anyone for a personal attack on our integrity and morality without justification of facts and without any attempt to determine if the premise for the opinion is true. Your editorial used a hypothetical premise (unfounded) to attack personally the integrity and morality of the five returning members.

We believe you have done yourself, the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers, and the Plymouth-Canton Community School District an extremely serious disservice. We, therefore, request that you provide the present Board of Education Members a written apology, and that you print in the Canton and Plymouth Observers a retraction of your malicious attack on our personal integrity and morality.

We look forward to receiving your reply and to the printing of your public retraction. Thank you.

Editorial on target

To the editor:

Your editorial "Backroom Politics," Thursday, May 10, in my opinion is right on target.

It appears that the school board/ administration and the CBE are both great believers in the "whatever it takes" philosophy.

The success of our form of government demands that both sides of the question be presented so the people can decide the issue. The Observer's stand is commendable. I only hope that both sides read it carefully and react in a positive manner to its challenge.

Soccer refs do their best

To the editor:

A while back, a woman wrote a letter that talked about how dissatisfied she was with the referees that had been refereeing her son's soccer games. She probably did not realize what a hard job it is. I am a 13-yearold, eighth grade student. I have been refereeing for one year now and I do the best I can while on a soccer field. It is a real task just to become a referee. There is a class I had to take for three hours, one night every week for four weeks. This involves no demonstration on a field, strictly classroom learning. At the end of the class I had to pass a long, difficult test which still did not prepare me for the games I would be refereeing. So, when I went to my first game, I had not received any experience on a field. Not only did I have to worry about the play, but also about the parents and coaches. It was and still is a great responsibility. People expect referees to catch everything that happens during the game. Coaches, but mainly parents, do not realize that we do our best. They also do not realize that in a game, they are not supposed to speak at all to the referee or distract that person in any way, but that also happens. Cheering on a team is great fun and does give the game extra spirit, but generally, the cheering brings out yelling toward the referees. There is rarely ever favoritism between referees and teams and I know that all of us try to make the games as fair as possible. It is a hard, but fun job, and as tough as it is, I think it is a great experience. I just want people to realize that we are just doing our job the way we were taught and adult observers could make it even easier on us if they were less opinionated and did not expect perfection from the referees.

Let's not trash our planet

Our Junior Troop No. 229, composed of 5th and 6th graders, are writing to encourage voters to ask the Canton Board to implement a curbside recycling pick-up program. Our neighbors Ann Arbor and Royal Oak are doing this. Ann Arbor's program has been very successful, and Royal Oak has just started. The money that this program will need, will be spent very well. Our troop has visited Canton's Landfill, listened to speakers, and read articles to research what is needed.

Some of the reasons to start recycling are: We don't want to be surrounded by garbage in the next few years, and we don't want our future generations to have to live with this problem. Also, we don't want the U.S. to turn into a big landfill. One other good reason to recycle is that we will cut down all the trees to make new paper when we could have recycled. Please keep strong laws so responsible landfills can be managed for all of us.

We have read of all the actions that the Board is considering. We want to grow up to be responsible citizens. Please help us by expressing your opinion to our lawmakers. They need to know what we are willing to do to live environmentally responsible lives. Help us by passing some laws which will make it easy for us to recycle. Thank you.

PJ. little affect

I am a citizen especially concerned with the eight year old boy who commited suicide. I know that people in the community think the movie the boy's class watched was the cause of his suicide.

I feel that the movie had very little effect on the boy commiting suicide. Many kids watched the movie and they thought nothing of the suicide part in the movie.

If the movie had a major affect on the class as a whole then I would want to ban the movie. From what I have heard about the movie many parents would let their son or daughter watch it.

Since the incident happened I feel that the next time the school shows a movie that deals with or has some violence in it the school should have the parents see the film or send permission slip home telling the parents about the movie.

The only way the school shall show the movie is by a majority of the permission slips saying yes their son or daughter may watch the movie. Another thing is if the parents who don't want their son or daughter to watch the movie they can do something constructive relating to the subject of the movie.

I want to give my sorrow to the boy's parents and I hope that this kind of incident will never happen again in our schools or in the schools of other communities.

Pornography is anti-family

This is in response to your editorial of May 3 entitled, "Spare us the threats of anti-porn soldiers." My response is "Thank God for Don Wildmon and the American Family Association."

Despite thousands of letters and phone calls, K Mart continues to help the pornographers finance the suit against David Caton, the Florida state director of AFA because he urged people to boycott and picket stores selling pornography (including Waldenbooks owned by K Mart)

These stores and pornographers are promoting the breaking of laws. Obscenity has always been illegal under the U.S. Constitution. You stated, "Groups like AFA are simply dangerous toward and simple-minded in their outlook on other people's freedoms — yours and mine." From the sound of your letter, it seems you feel people have the right to sell and buy obscenity even it it is illegal.

Profits from porn magazines not only go to help promote the antifamily, anti-Christian philosophy, but also go to help promote the use of illegal drugs. Playboy has given thousands of dollars in support of legalized drugs and funded the founding of the National Organization for the Legalization of Marijuana Laws. The porn magazines opened the door for the porn industry which has become an $8 billion a year business in the U.S.

When faced with the decision to choose between being a friend to the family or cooperating with the pornography industry, K Mart elected to go with the pornographers.

This is the first time in history that a legitimate retail store has joined with pornographers in suing an individual opposing pornography. No other legitimate retail business joined the pornographers in their suit. Only K Mart agreed to participate.

"By doing good you can put to silence the ignorance of foolish men." Let's hope that by their actions the AFA may also keep someone from becoming addicted to pornography, or a family from breaking up, or some innocent victim from being sexually assaulted ... or keep someone from turning into another Ted Bundy.

S'craft seeks to set taxes, budget, tuition

Schoolcraft College trustees are expected to lower taxes, but raise tuition, Wednesday during their annual meeting on the college budget.

Schoolcraft's 1990 tax rate is expected to be set at 1.908 mills, a slight decrease from last year.

On its face, the tax rate would represent a decrease of $3.15 in taxes for area residents living in houses assessed at $100,000. Increased assessments, however, are expected to wipe out any tax savings.

Schoolcraft had a truth-in-taxation hearing on the proposed tax rate May 16. Schoolcraft taxes are levied in the Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth-Canton, Clarenceville and Northville public school districts, as well as in a small section of the Novi Schools.

IN OTHER action, trustees are also expected to increase tuition $1.50 per credit hour for students living in districts that pay the the Schoolcraft tax, $6 for other Michigan students and $8 50 for out-ofstate students.

Tuition would rise to $35 per credit hour for in-district students, $53 for other Michigan students and $78 for out-of-state students.

The annual assessment of Schoolcraft president Richard McDowell will also occur at Wednesday's meeting.

Bill seeks to create 'drug free' school zones

By Tim Richard staff writer

The Michigan Senate last week passed bills to make schools safer from drugs and update school bus safety rules.

For law-abidiing drivers, it means they will stop 20 feet from a school bus with flashing lights instead of 10.

"We're not going to tolerate drug tampering with our children," said the sponsor of the drug-free zone bill, Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville.

"This started as a drug-free school bill, but it became a drug-free zone bill," he said. His Senate Bill 553 was amended to cover public parks, playgrounds, swimming pools, youth centers and even video arcades.

All Observer & Eccentric area senators supported the bills, which go to the House.

THE DRUG bill increases penalties for dealers who invade the drugfree zones.

"It's a tiered approach. There are three times the normal penalties for drug distributors," said Dillingham. For this reason, he worries aloud that House Judiciary Chair Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, may frown on the Senate bill. Bullard usually criticizes bills calling for putting more people in prisons for lengthening sentences.

"But the penalties are not mandatory," Dillingham said, adding it may make the bills more palatable to the House. "The judge has in-creased discretion based on the crime.

SB 533 was approved 34-0.

THE SCHOOL bus code is contained in three bills sponsored by Dillingham and Richard Fessler, R-Commerce.

'It's a total, comprehensive compilation of bus safety rules - a onestop shopping center for people concerned about school bus safety," Dillingham told the Senate.

"Currently there are several laws, conflicting rules and attorney general opinions covering school buses Among the changes Dillingham cited: · Beginning drivers will have to driver has a year to complete the course. The state will pay for training, estimated roughly at several million dollars.

• There is a uniform system of four red and four yellow flashing lights.

• A new mirror system will enable the driver to better see passengers they have discharged. Sponsors told of children being killed by buses when they stooped to pick up articles and couldn't be seen by drivers.

• State Police will inspect all school transportation vehicles, not just buses. The bills passed 32-0. They are tiebarred, meaning all must pass for any one to take effect.

FESSLER INSERTED an amend ment for the state to study the feasibility of a right-side discharge rule. If adopted, it would prohibit drivers from discharging passengers who had to cross the road to the left of the bus.

The rule would raise transportation costs and lengthen children's bus rides. But proponents say it would save school districts millions in lawsuits.

Fessler's Transportation Committee received a late proposal that the state require "pusher" or rear en-gines on school buses. Such buses would have no hoods that would cause blind spots for drivers. The proposal surfaced too late in deliberations for action.

New cake is savory, not gooey

Lately I've been on the proverbial bandwagon heralding the "lighter" side of food. Everyone talks about getting in shape for summer but I, for one, have no doubt that clothing manufacturers are designing waistbands different this year because, for some odd reason, mine seems to be somewhat lower than my navel.

Now I could continue with what we should and, unfortunately, shouldn't eat but

a) I've already mowed the lawn three times.

b) I've tilled and planted the garden.

c) I've already planted the flowers around my house.

d) I redid the bathroom (by myself).

I want some cheesecake.

Ah, but before you get all fired up thinking that these pages will be filled with gooey, creamy, New York style varieties of cheesecakes, look again.

Savory cheesecakes are a whole new variety of exclusive cheesecakes that seem to be gaining in popularity in the Detroit area. Perfect for lunch, brunch, casual suppers or buffets, these do-ahead treats combine a creamy taste with a smooth, velvety texture. They take the same form as their sweet counterparts, but the flavorings are a real surprise.

FROM THE EXTERIOR, they look like cheesecakes. Instead of a graham cracker or cookie crust, these crusts are formed by combining toasted breadcrumbs, grated cheese (which helps the crust brown and crisp) and melted butter.

The essential filling remains the same - cheese. Soft and delicate cream cheese is the common denominator in these cases. Fresh cream cheese, which has a slightly tangy flavor and contains no preservatives, is preferred, but the packaged bricks available at the supermarket are acceptable.

Independence through cooking

By Janice Brunson staff writer

NE SCHOOL DAY each week, nine students in Sharon Rivera's special class at Berkshire Middle School in Beverly Hills prepare lunch and then share in the dining experience.

The meal, however, provides much more than mere noontime sustenance.

It is a journey into self-sufficiency, an odyssey of cuisine by a handful of special students whose potential for independent living is coaxed into fuller bloom through an experience in cooking.

Reading and math, health, science and language are a part of the experience. Teamwork and cooperation, etiquette and socializing are another.

Home economics and especially cooking, long included in curriculum for mentally impaired and autistic students, is elevated in importance by Rivera because of the basic survival skills it provides.

By preparing a meal and then eating it, "We learn we can do things for ourselves, take care of ourselves. It's a tremendous feeling of independence. It's very exciting," Rivera said. Most of these students, she added, are quite capable and many may one day live on their own.

KATHY, WITH HER mop of blond curls, labors over an apple. She; Darren, an autistic youth; and Marc, who favors the spicy food of his Mexican heritage, are peeling a pot of apples, preparing them for saucing. It is tos desert. Darren and each peeled several but Cathy is having trouble. She has yet to master the peeler. Rivera glides by the table where the trio works, stopping long enough to again demonstrate the peeler for Kathy.

(Fresh cream cheese can be purchased at specialty food stores and cheese shops.) Cottage cheese and ricotta can be added to lighten the taste and calories.

Other than a melange of fresh herbs, filling and great cheese, the only other staple really necessary to prepare these delectable goodies is a good quality springform pan. If you have yet to invest in one, it can be purchased at all gourmet and kitchen shops, with the lesser-quality pan coming in at under $5, to non-stick all-aluminum varieties at well over $30.

If you're thinking about taking the cheesecake to a function, you might also want to invest in the same-size cardboard-bottom insert. These are about 10 cents each, and you will never have to worry about leaving the bottom of your springform pan in someone's kitchen again.

To my friends: I think I have about eight different-sized bottoms in my cellar. Call me if you want them.

ALL THE RECIPES call for pretoasting the breadcrumbs. If you have never toasted breadcrumbs you can use fresh or prepacked varieties. Sprinkle them on a cookie sheet and toasting them in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 5-10 minutes, stirring occasionally.

"Does it matter if we make a mistake?" Rivera asks no one in particular. The question, one in a steady stream of queries meant to provoke thought and motivate action, elicits brief comments

Rivera then answers herself. "Mistakes are how we learn."

Erin, in spite of a withered arm, is crushing garlic for the salad dressing, laboriously reading a recipe for ingredients and amounts. After some confusion, she draws on former directives: "Do we have everything out? Are we doing this step by step?'

Sarah, a small wisp of a girl, carefully measures green salad into a dozen bowls. Her helpmate, a willowy beauty also named Sara, caps each salad with garbanzo beans, bacon bits and croutons.

Rivera's aide, Marilyn Price, cautions the girls, "You need enough for 12 bowls. "Count them out." Later, Sara confides that Price is her "very best friend.'

Aaron, who proudly announces he is in eighth grade, and Gauri, of East Indian ancestry, measure water for Kool-Aid. Gauri whispers "I love you" to Rivera, who assists Aaron in basting a roast of pork smothered in rosemary and thyme. Potatoes and corn, peeled and shucked earlier. simmer atop the stove. Two pans of homemade rolls complete the meal.

THE PROJECT FLOWS smoothly, each person completing individually assigned tasks under the experienced tutelage of Rivera and Price. "Please" and "thank you" accompany every request.

The menu, planned by the students, is ambitious, a complete meal that meets daily health guidelines, individual taste and dietary limitations. Prepared entirely by the students, it is served sit-down style at a table adorned with bright spring flowers.

Berkshire Middle School in Beverly Hills. Supervising Impaired.

Eighth grader Sara Haeffner watches as Marilyn Price, teacher's aide, dishes out a portion for her.

Immediately after recess, lunch is served

Sara is briefly overcome, tearful at the excitement of a meal waiting to be indulged. A word from Rivera and the tears quickly dry. "This is very good," Sara ultimately con-cludes.

The only firm rule: Everybody must taste everything, at least one bite. Adhering to the rule, Rivera once had to eat a bite of tuna, a food she detests.

Karl, very quiet and little more than an observer, joins the group at the table, speaking only once in answer to a question. The day before, his mother prepared plaza for the class, fashioning Karl's favorite treat, called elephant ears, with the leftover dough.

Rivera and Price rely on parents for recipes and cooking ideas. They also cull recipe books and newspapers for additional variations.

WE'VE FIXED EVERYTHING from hot dogs to vegetable soup from scratch," Rivera said, adding student preference is recipes that are more complicated. In an effort to meet all developmental levels, she also teaches how to prepare instant foods, reading instructions from a box. After one parent raised the question, low-calorie entrees also have been introduced.

Meal preparation takes place entirely in Rivera's classroom. Two years ago the room was outfitted with a stove, kitchen sink, refrigerator and cooking utensils. The room also sports traditional desks, an assortment of academic and learning tools and several computers.

"These kids are capable of so much," Rivera said.

Dennis joins the group late, returning from a regular classroom where he is mainstreamed part of each school day. He digs into the mashed potatoes and apple sauce. "I like them best."

Then, rushing to empty his mouth, he tells whoever is interested, "These are the best teachers we've ever had."

Dash of flavor can be healthy as well as tasty

With today's busy lifestyles, spreads, sauces and condiments are on the upswing. But you should be aware of the sodium and fat content found in many prepared condiments.

In everyday eating, it's often a pinch or a dash of flavor that makes the difference between the ordinary and the extraordinary. With just the right seasonings and blend of healthy ingredients, your food can take on delicious, new flavor

There's no need to sacrifice healthy eating for convenience Low-sodium and "light" or "diet" versions of some products such as ketchup, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, soy sauce and mayonnaise are available. Horseradish and salsa are also tasty alternatives which are naturally low in fat.

But go easy on the mayo -- may onnaise is almost 100 percent fat (a mixture of oil, egg yolk and vinegar) If you can't handle eating your favorite sandwich without mayo, use a smaller amount or blend the mayo with plain low-fat yogurt. Try flavoring the yogurt with a touch of mustard, lemon juice and pepper for dressing tuna or chicken salad.

YOU CAN ALSO help lower your salt and fat consumption by becoming more familiar with all the wonderful, natural seasonings available. Substitute "ready-made" sauces and condiments with tangy spices that have a "bite," herbs and vegetable seasonings. Cumin, dill seeds and ginger add plenty of flavor. And basil, ground pepper, onion and garlic powder are great sauce spikers.

Instead of reaching for a bottled dressing to drizzle on top of fresh greens, choose a non-fat, salt-free salad dressing containing lemon juice, herbs, powdered mustard, garlic and olive oil. And don't forget to sample the new flavored vinegars available on the supermarket shelf.

If you're looking for a reducedcalorie dip to enjoy with fresh vegetables, try the following creamy Blue Cheese Dip, or delight your taste buds with a quick and easy Guacamole recipe.

Get creative with your condiments, spices and sauces. Remember that healthy finishing touches really pay off - adding more to the flavor and less to your waistline.

learned how to make. Although putting a meal together can look easy, especially to a husband or other family members, it does take planning, coordination and effort to prepare a well-balanced meal and get everything to the table at the same time.

This week's Winner Dinner Winners, all nine of them, have been actively participating in learning how to plan, prepare and serve the different meals they choose to make every Thursday. With the help of their teacher, Sharon Rivera, and her assistant, Marilyn Price, members of the Educably Mentally Impaired class at Berkshire Middle School in Beverly Hills have been doing this for two years. The days they make and eat lunch together have become very special and much anticipated.

Ranging in age from 11 to 15, the students take turns bringing in recipes they would like to make. Having successsfuly prepared several recipes from this column, the students thought it would be fun to submit their favorite Winner Dinner. After taking a class vote, they decided to send in recipes for herbed pork roast and apple sauce. Served with mashed potatoes, a tossed salad with a special sweet dressing, and quick rolls, this is one dinner that is sure to be a winner at your house as well.

A BIG THANK YOU and congratulations to all the members and teachers of the EMI class at Berkshire Middle School for being this week's Winner Dinner Winners. I am delighted this column has been of value to you, and I sincerely wish all of you continued success and happiness in the kitchen.

Readers: As a little reminder, please keep those recipes and menus coming. With warm weather fast approaching, it is going to be harder than ever to cook. If you have any favorite quick but cool recipes, please send them in. Your menu sidered for publication in this col-

HERBED PORK ROAST Sprinkled and rubbed with lots of herbs, this delicious and flavorful pork roast is easy to prepare.

Your choice of a rolled pork roast or a whole pork loin sweet basil Darsley garlic powder, optional oregano rosemary salt pepper thyme

Select either a rolled pork roast or a whole pork loin whose size is appropriate for the number of people being served. If you select a whole pork loin, ask your butcher to chime it so that it can be sliced into portions more easily.

Rolled pork roasts should be roasted in the oven at 325 degrees for approximately one to 1-1½ hours until an internal meat temperature of 170 degrees is achieved.

Likewise, a whole pork loin should not be served until it reaches an internal temperature of 170 degrees. This is accomplished by roasting the meat in the oven for 11/2-2 hours at a temperature of 350 degrees.

Before the roast is put in the oven, sprinkle it with a variety of green seasonings such as parsley, oregano, rosemary, thyme and sweet basil, as well as a little bit of salt and pepper. These seasonings should be used to taste.

Peel the apples and slice them into small pieces. Place in a large pot and add the ingredients. Be sure to stir the pot while the apples cook so they don't scorch. Cook until the apples are soft and mushy. Refrigerate or freeze any leftover applesauce.

GARDEN SALAD AND A SWEET SALAD DRESSING Prepare a mixed green salad and toss it with the following dressing.

SWEET SALAD DRESSING 3 tablespoons oil 1/4 cup vinegar 1 clove garlic, mashed 1/4 cup sugar salt and pepper to taste

Place all the ingredients in a bottle and shake well. Chill until added to the salad.

QUICK ROLLS

- 2 packages dry yeast
- 2 cups warm water 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon sait
- 4 cups flour
- 3 tablespoons shortening (Crisco)
- 3 cups flour

Mix the first seven ingredients in a large greased bowl. Cover the bowl and place in a warm spot until the dough doubles in size.

Knead it down and add 3 cups of flour. Cover and return to a warm spot until the dough doubles again.

Next, pull off pieces of dough that are a little larger than a golf ball. Place each ball of dough in a round, greased baking dish. Let these rise again. Brush each roll with a little bit of melted butter and bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes. Serve when fresh out of the oven.

Use herbs, veggies to brighten your love life

Tennyson once wrote: "In the spring, a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love."

And, of course, since young women are - as a rule - much quicker about such things, that is what they have been thinking about all winter.

But if the one you desire is not as young as he/she once was, or for some other reason needs more than just the lovely, lusty month of May to inspire him/her to love, then you may wish to use some of the following herbs and vegetables to put life in your spring menu, and spring in your love life.

Tansy - This was one of the "better herbs" of the Bible that Jews were ordered to eat at Passover time. It is a symbol of immortality.

In the past, tansy pudding and cakes were traditionally eaten at Easter by Christians to celebrate the end of Lent. They used tansy to cleanse the body of "bad humors" after a long Lenten diet of fish.

Tansy was used as a spring tonic to rejuvenate the sluggish body and spirit after a long winter. But the tea is rather bitter, and I suggest that you serve the pudding instead, or perhaps a nice tansy dip for chips or crackers.

Hessop - This is another purging, or cleansing herb mentioned in the Bible. "Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean." Psalm 51:7.

It is good sprinkled in soups and salads, in fruit compotes or fruit pies, and is especially tasty mixed into cranberry sauce.

Hyssop cuts the grease of fatty meats and is often used in cooking duck, goose, lamb or wild game.

Rosemary - This herb is tradi-tionally used to inspire sentimentallty, remembrance and romantic love.

It is good for seasoning meats and vegetables and is especially good with citrus fruit.

Cardamon - This herb is said to inspire passion. It is excellent used on curries, or with apples in pies and sauces.

Woodruff (also called Sweet Woodruff, and Master-of-the-Woods) - In Europe, this herb is the symbol of spring. It has a fresh clean smell and is a necessary ingredient in the traditional May Wine. It also can be used in non-alcoholic fruit drinks and punches.

Parsnips - This root vegetable used to be left in the ground all winter and dug up in the spring when the ground thawed. It has been touted as the best of all aphrodisiacs. The Irish swear by it.

My maternal grandmother used to say that parsnips eaten in April accounted for all the January birthdays in our family.

Wild Asparagus - According to Shaykh Nefzawi, in his 16th century love manual: "He who boils wild asparagus, then fries them in oil, and pours them over eggs and eats it, will grow strong . . . and find it a stimulant for his amorous desires."

However, if you believe in trying to cut down on cholesterol, wild asparagus tips steamed, parboiled or cooked any way at all, and served hot with salt, pepper and butter substitute will do just as well.

Olive vs. corn: Both oils good

AP - Fine-tuning a low-fat diet need not involve agonizing over olive oil vs. corn oil, say researchers who found that neither offered an advantage in maintaining levels of good cholesterol in the blood.

"When someone is eating a reduced fat diet that's low in saturated fats, it doesn't matter what kind of unsaturated fat they choose," said Darlene M. Dreon, a research scientist at Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory in Berkeley, Calif.

Previous research has indicated that monounsaturated fats, found in olive oil and peanut oil, beneficially lower LDL cholesterol, so-called "bad" cholesterol, without lowering HDL, so-called "good" cholesterol.

Polyunsaturates, such as in corn oil and safflower oil, also lower "bad" cholesterol, but they tend to lower "good" cholesterol as an unwanted additional effect, previous research has indicated.

"The studies have shown that monounsaturates and polyunsaturates are equal in lowering LDL (bad) cholesterol," said Dr. Abhimanyu Garg of the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas. Excess total cholesterol in the blood is one of the three main modifiable traits that scientists have linked to an increased risk of developing heart disease. The other two are high blood pressure and smoking. HDL cholesterol is called good cholesterol because it is believed to protect against heart disease. LDL cholesterol is called bad cholesterol because it is believed to contribute to fatty deposits in the arteries that promote heart disease. Both are components of total cholesterol.

The test diets provided the same proportion of calories from fats overall, but restricted saturated fats the kind found in meat and dairy products - to 10 percent. The other 20 percent were polyunsaturates or monounsaturates, depending on which test diet was being used.

Blood levels of LDL cholesterol and HDL cholesterol did not change significantly with changing fat types, the researchers reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"We find no advantage with respect to plasma HDL concentrations in using predominantly monounsaturated rather than polyunsaturated fats in subjects who consumed reduced-fat solid-food diets," the researchers wrote.

Different methods might explain the findings' seeming conflict with a 1985 study that indicated polyunsaturates lowered levels of "good" cholesterol in the blood, said the researchers.

RESEARCHERS IN the new study analyzed data on 20 women and 19 men who were all put on a standard diet for two weeks, then divided into groups for 12-week diets alternately rich in monounsaturates and in polyunsaturates.

The standard diet was one recom- ; mended by the American Heart Association, which calls for 30 percent of total calories from fats, in contrast to the 40 percent of calories from fat that the average American eats.

THE FORMULA DIETS in the earlier study were cholesterol free and contained amounts of monounsaturated fats and polyunsaturated fats "markedly higher than those achievable through solid-food diets," said the researchers.

"I don't think you can call it conflicting data," agreed Garg, an as-sistant professor of internal medi-cine and clinical nutrition who is associated with the researcher group in the 1985 study.

The new study didn't reduce subjects' consumption of unsaturated fats by much, and couldn't be expected to alter HDL levels, he added in a recent telephone interview.

Said Dreon, "We tried to achieve levels that somebody could get with natural foods."

Dr. Linda Cashin-Hemphill, an assistant professor at the University of Southern California School of Medicine's Atherosclerosis Institute in Los Angeles, said the Americans should aim for overall fat reduction. "There is no one magic bullet for lipids (fatty substances, including cholesterol, in the body). You have to control total fat," she said in a telephone interview.

Burgundy Dinner at the Golden Mushroom restaurant in Southfield. It was a stellar matching of food with the wines of Burgundy orches-trated by Chef Milos and Chef Steve Allen. With a little imagination and a few good French cookbooks, you could try your hand at some or all of these pairings.

A PERCEPTIBLE smoky character linked the four appetizers (Smoked Whitefish, Venison Pate, Wild Mushroom Bouche and Pheasant Sausage) and tied them together with the 1988 Domaine des Crays Pouilly Fuisse ($20). The wine sports appley fruit aromas with hints of pineapple, generous palate fruit and a lengthy finish. The foil worked well.

Bollinger Special Cuvee ($25) has thread of smoky oak on the nose with good acidity and clean, fresh finish. It worked as a superior match.

Salmon Gallantine in Dill Sauce accompanied the 1986 Pierre Bitouzet Savigny Les Beaune "Les Goudelettes" ($28) exhibiting gentle fruit aromas with mature oak nuances and hints of vanilla. Balanced with adequate acidity, the wine finished clean and crisp. The dill sauce emphasized a touch of mint in the wine.

A seafood medley in filo cup with a beurre blanc sauce was presented with the 1987 Domaine Joseph Matrot Meursault-Blagny ($27) It showcased a sweet oak character in the nose and on the palate with good fruit depth and high acid balance. It did not work with the lobster in the medley but went very well with the whitefish, shrimp and mussels.

The richness of lobster requires a rich, generous wine like the 1987 Puligny Montrachet "Les Combettes" from Domaine Etienne Sauzet ($40). It features soft oak and vanilla flavors with bright fruit and a smooth, clean finish.

The multi-layered, complex flavors are a statement of breeding. It was a great match with peppercorns in the duck sauce.

This wine also served as a perfect complement to a roast rack of lamb with potato pancake and tomato Provencale as did the 1987 Albert Morot Beaune Tuerons ($28), an excellent young wine with fresh cherry-raspberry fruit. The lamb enhanced the background of toasty oak, muted by the exuberant fruit.

Blue-veined cheeses are difficult to pair with any wine. This one worked magic with both the lamb and cheese.

The Burgundy region is not known

Choose from some 150 kinds of fish products

For many people, fish begins and ends with canned tuna.

The next time you're in the store, look around. There are more than 150 fish varieties, either fresh or processed, available.

Good nutrition is the key to good health so be adventuresome. Try adding fish and seafood to your menus.

Because fish products are easy to digest, they play a major role in the diets of young children and the elderly, where the ease of digestibility is critical. Fish products also can supply many of the nutrients that are required.

Fish or shellfish are excellent sources of high-quality protein. Most fish and shellfish fall into the low-fat high-protein group. These have less than five percent fat and 15 percent protein. Included are tuna, halibut, cod, flounder, haddock, pollack, mullet, ocean perch, whiting, crabs, scal-

Medium-fat high-protein fish contain 5 to 15 percent fat and more than 15 percent protein. At 15 percent fat, they are still less than meat. Besides, the fat is the polyunsaturated type. Included are anchovies, herring, mackerel, salmon and sardines. These fish are also rich in vitamins A and D.

in calories and is a good source of complete protein. Besides supplying many minerals, including phosphorus, iodine and calcium, all seafood supplies B-complex vitamins.

Fish can be cooked in a variety of ways, poaching, steaming, baking, broiling, grilling, pan frying or microwaving. Almost any fish can be used in any recipe. Buy whatever type or species of fish is available, frozen or canned.

Try these seafood recipes for kids' meals

AP Frozen seafood brings a new twist to children's favorite meals

Frozen seafood is convenient. It can be stored in your freezer for instant access to a quick meal. It cooks quickly and can be prepared using almost any cooking method.

Frozen fish can be thawed in the refrigerator or cooked straight from the frozen state.

The National Fish and Seafood Promotional Council has created the following recipes.

FISH BOATS 2 large baking potatoes 4 frozen breaded (or batter-coated) fish fillets

Sauce: 1 lime Few drops hot red-pepper sauce Pepper to taste 1 very ripe avocado 4 cup sour cream 2 green onions, chopped

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Scrub potatoes and prick in several places with fork. Place on oven rack and bake for 45 minutes.

Put frozen coated fish fillets on baking sheet and place in oven, along with potatoes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for 25 to 30 minutes, or until fillet coating is a deep golden brown. Check potatoes for doneness.

While potatoes and fish are baking, prepare sauce. Squeeze juice from the lime (there should be about 2 tablespoons) and pour into a bowl. Add hot sauce and pepper.

Cut avocado in half. Discard seed. Scoop out soft flesh and add it to bowl. Mash avocado into a puree with fork. When mixture is quite smooth, stir in sour cream and onions. There will be a generous cup of sauce.

Cut baked potatoes in half lengthwise and, with a fork, fluff soft interior by breaking up potato and pulling it up a little with fork. Then push some of potato toward edges, making a shallow cavity in center.

Spoon 1 tablespoon of avocado sauce into center of potato. Place a fish fillet on potato. Spoon over another tablespoon of sauce. Makes 4 servings. Pass extra sauce.

COD BURRITOS

One 15-ounce can red kidney beans 4 green onlons, chopped

I clove garlic, chopped I teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Pepper to taste 8 ounces frozen cod fillets, defrosted Four 8-inch flour tortillas

5 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese 2 cups shredded lettuce

In a 4- to 6-cup saucepan heat together kidney beans and their liquid, green onions, garlic, Worcestershire sauce and pepper. Bring to a simmer and cook, uncovered, for 5 minutes.

Meanwhile rinse cod under cold water. Pat dry. Cut fillets into 14inch strips. Add cod to pot. Cover and simmer another 2 or 3 minutes.

Meanwhile gently heat tortillas. They can be warmed for 15 seconds on each side in a heavy ungreased skillet, or sealed in aluminum foil and placed in a 350-degree oven for 5 minutes.

To assemble burritos, place a warm tortilla on a plate and spoon 1/4 of filling below center of tortilla. Sprinkle on some cheddar cheese and lettuce. Fold in two sides to partially enclose filling. Fold up bottom side, then roll to form a cylinder. Makes 4 servings.

The Chiefs, who finish the season 10-0 in the division, are 22-1 overall after adding a 7-5 victory Friday night over rival Plymouth Salem. Canton will face Walled Lake Central, the Lakes Division champ, for the WLAA crown at 4 p.m. today at Canton. Freshman pitcher Kelly Holmes fought off a Salem rally in the seventh inning Friday at Don Massey Field to preserve the victory for the Chiefs. Holmes had 12 strikeouts.

Plymouth Canton's softball team culminated a perfect season in the Western Division of the win Thursday over visiting Livonia Franklin.

Canton took a 7-0 lead into the seventh following a six-run fifth, but the Rocks rallied to make it close. Jenny Garvey was the losing pitcher, allowing seven hits and eight walks.

Jenny Sekovich had two of Canton's six hits - a two-run single and a run-producing double. Missy Holmes had two hits for Salem, including a tworun double during the seventh-inning rally.

IN THE Franklin game, the Chiefs were held to a pair of hits, but they scored single runs in the second and third innings via aggressive baserunning.

The opening run scored when Ann Hooper tried to steal third on a delayed steal attempt. Franklin

After the Patriots tied the game in the top of the third inning, Canton scored the winning run in the bottom of the inning.

Jenny Vanootighem led off with a single, stole second and advanced to third on an infield out by Danielle Mortiere. With Jenny Sekovich at bat, Vanootighem stole home on the Franklin catcher's throw back to pitcher Jenny Mayle.

"We kept telling the girls to hit the ball on the ground and force them into some errors, and sure enough we did," said Canton coach Dave Racer.

Kelly Holmes went the first four innings to pick up the win for Canton. She gave up one hit, walked five and struck out two.

Stacey Thompson relieved Holmes and went the final three innings, giving up one hit and walking one batter. Mayle was the hard-luck loser for the Patriots.

Franklin committed two errors in the field, while Canton did not commit an error.

SALEM, 3-6 in the Lakes Division and 4-17 overall, lost earlier Friday to host Walled Lake Central 7-0 in a WLAA makeup game.

Carrie Cassinski pitched a two-hit shutout for the Vikings. Cassinski struck out eight and walked two.

Garvey took the loss for Salem, going the first four innings and giving up four runs (one earned) and two hits, walking seven and striking out a pair

Andrea Welling went the final two innings on the mound for the Rocks. She gave up three runs (one earned), three hits and walked two batters.

Missy Holmes and Kristen Stackpoole had the two Salem hits.

The Rocks were guilty of four miscues in the field, while the Vikings did not commit an error.

On Thursday, Salem lost to visiting Westland John Glenn 21-18 in a Lakes Division tussle.

Welling was the losing pitcher. She went all seven innings and allowed 17 hits, 10 walks and struck out four.

Welling (2-for-4, two RBI), Stackpoole (2-for-5, two RBI) and Holmes (four RBI) were the leading hitters for the Rocks.

2-1 at Centennial Educational Park and earn third place in the WLAA.

The Rocks play at Ann Arbor Pioneer in the first round of the district today, and the winner will be host to Canton on Wednesday. The game, if it's Salem and Canton, will be played at 7 p.m. at CEP.

"I think whoever wins the semifinal will make a long run, maybe to the state final," Johnson said.

The Chiefs, 9-2-2 overall, took a 1-0 lead on Jenny Russell's goal at the 10-minute mark. Mandy Drummond's goal tied it at the midway point, and Sara Hayes gave Salem a 2-1 halftime lead with 12 minutes left.

Michele Minton, who assisted on both goals, hit the crossbar with a free kick, and the ball deflected down to Hayes, who tipped it in for Salem, 9-1-3 overall.

Johnson called Minton's free kick leading to the second goal a great shot and cited Jenny Emmett for her goalkeeping, which included several saves on shots by Russell, the All-American forward.

Canton, which tied the Rocks 2-2 earlier in the season, has won the last two district titles. Salem won the state championship in 1987, and the Chiefs were Class A champs the following year.

Farmington High rode like the wind Thursday, winning the Western Lakes Activities Association girls soccer championship with a dramatic come-from-behind 2-1 victory over visiting Livonia Churchill.

The Falcons, now 11-1-1 overall, avenged their only loss of the season behind the clutch play of Carrie Maier, who scored two goals in the final 15 minutes to erase a 1-0 deficit.

Maier, ironically, missed the first encounter earlier this season, a 2-1 Churchill win, because she was touring Europe with the U.S. Midwest Development team.

"When we've gotten behind Carrie's come up with some big goals for us," said Farmington coach Cathy Cole. "But she knows she has a team behind her to do that. She knows one person doesn't make a team, and no team is one person. She plays for the team always.'

Maier's first goal came after Cole gambled offensively, moving Sue Gibson up as an attacking midfielder along with Maier.

"WE SENT OUR four best attackers up hoping to scrape something together and we did," said Cole. "We had to at least go for the tie with the extra player up.

Gale-force winds curtailed several offensive rushes, but Churchill, the WLAA's Western Division champs, seemed to play over the elements, controlling play up and down the field for the most part.

We were able to get fast-breaks the entire game," said Churchill coach Nick O'Shea. "We had some great chances to score."

Meanwhile, it took awhile for Farmington to go on the offensive.

'When we've gotten behind. Carrie has come up with some big goals for us. But she knows she has a team behind her to do that. She knows one person doesn't make a team, and no team is one person.'

- Cathy Cole Farmington soccer coach

"We wanted to defend against the wind in the first half, hoping to keep them from scoring," Cole said. "And then we wanted to attack in the second half with the wind."

But Churchill's Kristy Thurston disproved the wind theory, executing a two-on-one play with Lori Place to perfection, scoring for the Chargers at the 10-minute mark of the second half when she slid a shot past Farmington goalie Mandy Cannon.

The Chargers continued to press the issue, but suddenly went into a shell with 20 minutes to play.

"They (Farmington) pushed up an extra midfielder and our forwards couldn't hold it up in their end." said O'Shea. "When you get a lead like that you should be able to hold it, but they pushed up and our forwards panicked a little bit. We kept turning it over and couldn't keep it in their end."

THE EXPLOSIVE Maier, who was shadowed by Mechelle Brazin throughout the match as she roamed the midfield, took advantage of an Amy Trunk feed in front of the net, past goalkeeper Dana Keller. "We got beat on the play, it was a nice shot," said O'Shea. "The second goal was an excellent effort. The sweeper had to make a decision, and just got caught. All we can do next

"It's nice to win this for the city of Farmington because these things, as you know, don't always come around for Farmington High," said the coach of the Lakes Division champs. 'And to beat one of the Livonia teams, always known for their fine programs, is a positive thing as well.

"CHURCHILL strategically played well. They shut us down at midfield and we were not able to penetrate. It was a little scary after their goal. We had some butterflies, but we also knew we had a strong defense and there was a chance to come back."

Farmington, a state Class A semifinalist a year ago, is favored to win this week's Southfield district, but Cole is not taking anything for granted. If the favorites hold, the Falcons will meet unbeaten Farmington Hills Mercy Friday in the championship game.

"They know they have to earn everything, there are no guarantees," said the Farmington coach. "We wanted to win our division and we wanted to win the league. That's two goals we've already accomplished, but there are others."

2nd-half rally gives Marian league title

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Good things came in fours Saturday for Birmingham Marian's soccer team.

The Mustangs needed four secondhalf goals to defeat Farmington Hills Mercy and win their fourth consecutive Catholic League girls championship.

It was a victory that almost didn't happen as Marian, 9-0-3 overall, had to overcome two-goal deficits twice in the second half at Oakland University.

The Marlins, 10-1-4, controlled charge. The Mustangs scored the last three goals with DuBay getting two, including the game winner with time running down "TO SCORE four goals on Mercy in a half is quite an accomplishment," Marian coach Morris Lupenic said. "This is definitely the best victory we've had at Marian, because we met a good soccer team and didn't give up."

If not for the start of the district tournament this week, it would have a crushing loss for the Marlins, who had tied Marian in two regular-season games and seemed in control for much of Saturday's contest.

gets the breaks wins.

"I have to credit Marian for not giving up in the second half. Hopefully, people realize our Catholic League isn't a mediocre league. We can play with anybody." Lupenic thought Jennifer Woycik's goal early in the first minute of the second half (2-1) helped jump start the Mustangs after a sluggish first half in which they had no solid shots on goal.

Mercy, however, took another two-goal advantage when Kathryn Dudley gained a step on defender Wendy Holdan and fired a hard, crossing shot.

cik and Julie Byrd, started Marian's rally with her first goal, and Katherine Brinkman's goal made it 3-3. DuBay's goal seemed to give the Mustangs new life, beginning a trend that saw Marian outshoot Mercy 6-4 in the second half and culminated with DuBay's winning shot. Following Jenny Riker's corner kick, the ball lay still in front of the Mercy goal momentarily until DuBay tapped it in-"I called for a substitute one minute before Brinkman scored, but I couldn't get her out." Lupenic said. "One of the girls said 'Now she'll put one in.' And DuBay was having a hard time scoring and today she puts

"I told the girls 'We can score three, four goals on this team if we come and play hard. The only thing I was disappointed with was the first half."

Mercy, outshooting the Mustangs 6-0 in the half, took a quick 1-0 lead when Ann Duwel dropped a free kick from midfield into the Marian end and Dana Lehmkuhl was all alone behind the defense. No offsides was called as Lehmkuhl beat goalie Cheryl Feldman. Tania Macioce's strong left-footed shot made it 2-0.

"They have good wingers and we tried to run a trap and get them off stride," Lupenic said. "If the girl knows you're going to trap, she doesn't take off as quickly, but it backfired a little. I don't think you'll ever see us do that again."

That's what 15-year-old Michael Giese of Farmington got when he toured Asia for 17 days last month with the East-West Soccer Club of Cleveland, Ohio.

> Giese, a freshman at Farmington High School, was the lone Michigan player chosen to participate in the international competition against teams from Taiwan and China.

> "I think it was a great experience because all the players learned a lot," Glese said. "Not so much in the way of formal education, but how lucky we are to be Americans, because those countries are so less and less."

> The American team stayed one night in Japan before flying to Taiwan where it spent the next eight days, adjusting to the time difference and playing four games against Taiwanese opposition.

GIESE, ONE of the youngest on the East-West team which consisted of players ranging in age from 14 to 23, and his teammates went to mainland China for two games after that. While relations between the United States and Red China have been strained since the massacre in Tiananman Square last summer, the East-West team was encouraged through American diplomatic chan-

U.S. presence in that country. Because of the sensitive nature of the trip and the historic rivalry between the two Chinas, nobody affiliated with the East-West contingent could discuss the trip beforehand.

nels to make the trip and maintain a

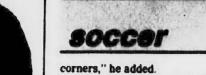

'In Taiwan we couldn't talk about the trip to China," Giese said, "and in China we couldn't talk about the trip to Taiwan."

The American team was a big attraction in mainland China where pro-democracy rallies were ruthlessly squashed last June and communist control reasserted.

"Everywhere we went in China we were sure to see a guy standing there with an army uniform on," Giese said.

THE TWO games against the communist Chinese drew a total of 35,000 spectators, including 25,000

Giese and his teammates did play soccer while there, compiling a 1-4-1 record against some formidable opposition.

The East-West team won one of three games with the Taiwanese Junior Olympic squad, losing 2-0 and 3-1 and winning 1-0. They lost 6-1 to that country's actual Olympic team. "Considering the competition, we did pretty well," Giese said.

The Americans battled the Red Chinese Olympic team to a scoreless tie and lost 1-0 to one of that country's elite club teams.

"WE WERE probably playing the best teams they had, because they didn't want to get beat by the Americans," Giese said, adding the game with the Olympic team was supposed to be on nationwide TV. "They wanted to show the crushing of the Americans. It didn't air when we tied. It was only going to be on if they had beaten us."

Giese, who played left forward, was nonetheless impressed by the quality of soccer played in those countries where soccer is as visible on TV each day as baseball and basketball in the United States.

"Altogether, the competition was greater than anywhere in the U.S.," he said. "The highest level players there are better than any in the U.S. But soccer is a real young sport here, and I think it will be on the rise real soon."

Giese believes the experience will help him this summer playing Vardar soccer and next fall when he begins his sophomore year at Farmington.

"Getting as much playing time as I did - and being only 15 - was pretty good," said Giese, who was scoreless in the six games. "It will help me playing over here because of the pressure situations. I think I'll be a step ahead of the others, because I've had to adapt to that pressure

"The highlight for me was to be invited, really," he added. "I don't think I'll ever forget this trip."

AAU cagers squeeze into quarters

Expectations were high for the Super Friends, a team consisting mainly of Detroit Country Day's finest, entering the state AAU under-17 sectional basketball tournament at St. Mary's Dombrowski Fieldhouse in Orchard Lake last weekend.

Tell that to the other eight teams at the Orchard Lake Sectional Super Friends did advance, but barely. The team featuring Chris Webber, Iyapo Montgomery, Kevin Colson and Christ Backos of DCDS; Josh Koby of West Bloomfield; and Jake Baker of Plymouth Salem, got the only at-large bid in making it to the sectional semifi-nals, then routed Flint AAU 95-64 to earn a spot in the state quarterfinals this weekend at St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit.

The sectional at St. Mary's, one of four in the state (others were held in Kalamazoo, at St. Andrew's and at the Northwest Activities Center in Detroit), was divided into three three-team pools. The three pool champions qualified for the sectional semis; so did the team with the greatest point differential.

THAT WAS Super Friends. The Saginaw Pride had captured the Pool B title by surprising Super Friends, winning by three.

The two semifinal games proved to be no contest. Super Friends led 27-16 after one quarter and 43-32 at the half, then outscored Flint (which had won Pool C) 27-15 in the third quarter to take a commanding 70-47 lead.

Webber finished with 26 points for Super Friends. Koby added 15, Montgomery and Emmanuel Bibb (from Detroit Denby) got 12 apiece, and Colson scored 10.

Friends will play the Kalamazoo Blue at St. Andrew's in Saturday's first round. The state final will be Sunday.

There was no sectional final, since two teams automatically advanced. Pool B winner Saginaw dismantled the Pool A champ Southwest Oakland Raiders 86-53 in the other semi, thanks to 21 points from Julian Taylor and 20 from Jesse Drain.

History repeated itself Friday when Plymouth Canton rallied to defeat Livonia Franklin in Western Lakes Activities Association baseball.

As they did the first time the teams played, the Chiefs came from behind to win with a big inning late in the game, 11-10.

Canton scored seven runs in the bottom of the sixth to erase an 8-3 Franklin lead.

The Patriots scored twice in the top of the seventh to tie, but the Chiefs, who won the first game 10-7. got the winning run in the bottom half.

Canton, 8-2 in the Western Diviitis pitched the seventh inning and was the loser.

Steve McCool started for Franklin but left the game and the ballpark after three innings to attend the prom. Tad Dennis and Dave Roman also opted for the prom over baseball after short relief stints.

"We lost everybody to the prom," Franklin coach Jerry Cullen said, adding his catcher and third baseman took themselves out of the game for the same reason.

Overaitis had three hits, including two-run homer and four RBI. Roman added two hits. Jason Riggs and Chris Robinson had three hits

Right shoes make difference

OWLING SHOES, how much dif-ference do they make? You can pay a little or you can pay a lot for bowling shoes. Let's take a look and see what a difference bowling shoes can make in your ability to score.

40(P.C)

In the sporting scene today, the buzz-word is shoes. You see high-priced sophis-ticated sneakers for jogging, tennis, aerobics, basketball, etc. Some of this might be just a lot of hype, but the fashion statement is first and foremost to a lot of consume

Bowling is different than a lot of sports when it comes to shoes. Nobody goes out into the street in their bowling shoes, so we can eliminate the fashion element. Although, for some, it may be important to look good on the lanes.

How about durability? Here again, bowling differs from most other activities. A few hours a week sliding on a smooth wooden surface will not wear down the bottoms that much. Therefore, any pair of bowling shoes could last for everal years without wearing out.

THEN WE LOOK at function. This is why you could be selective about buying bowling shoes. The performance of the shoes could have a direct effect on how well you bowl.

The sole of the sliding foot should be leather or at least have a leather pad for the working surface. This leather usually has a "nap" or suede-like texture.

The fit is important. If the shoes are uncomfortable, it may not only hurt your score, but your feet as well.

Occasionally, you might see a terrific buy on a close out shoe available in only a few sizes. They are not a bargain if they don't fit right.

What to buy? Most of the classic and pro bowlers are using the Linds shoe or Dexter SST. These are about $90 and sold in pro shops only.

Linds has one particular shoe, the PS model, with a perforated sliding sole. It looks like someone took a drill and put a bunch of holes in the bottom of the shoe. This is supposed to create a more controlled slide Linds uses the best grades of leather which accounts for the higher price. The shoes are very traditional in style and have long been considered the best.

THE DEXTER Shoe Co. provides a variety of models in the $40 to $90 range.

The Dexter SST is the top model and considered to be a state of the art product. It styles more like an athletic s with an extra-wide sole , to provide a steady platform for your feet.

This shoe is lighter in weight and features a buckskin sole for a smoother slide

For the average bowler, good shoes can be puchased in a range of $30 to $60. If someone is renting shoes everytime they bowl, one seasons rental could easily pay for a good pair of shoes. Look for a shoe that will slide well and is comfortable to wear.

Endicott Johnson produces a variety of bowling shoes which can be found in sporting good stores, discount stores and bowling centers.

EJ is the worlds largest manufacturer of shoes.

Other brand names available on the market include: Brunswick, AMF, Hush Puppies, Hyde and High Skore.

The best selling ladies shoe is the Raquel by Dexter. It retails at about $39.

THE RAQUEL is styled like an athletic shoe and is very comfortable.

Expect to pay at least $50 for a good all-leather shoe. This is not expensive when you consider that bowling shoes last for many years under normal use. To take good care of your bowling shoes, an occasional treatment with sad-die song weuldn't burt. Also, don't let the shoes get crushed is your bowling bag. You will wast to make sure not to step in spilled beer. It could not only ruin you score, but your shoes as well. • There is still time to enter the Pro-Am compatition of the Songram Coolers Ladies Pro Bowling Tournament at Satel-lite Lanes in Doarborn Heights. The Pro-Am runs Thursday and Fri-day, May 24-25. This is where the entrant is paired off with a different pro bowler as a partner in each game.

The Pro-Am is a no-tap format and there is a handicapp determined from league averages. A $2,000 prize is awarded to the win

There is still admission tickets available for the qualifying rounds, elimina-tion rounds and nationally televised (ESPN) finals.

Of the 240 women bowling in this event, 20 are from Michigan and several are ameteurs from the Observerland area.

• The 43rd annual Champion of Champions Tournament is now underway in various bowling centers throughout the area. This tournament has a first place prize of $15,000 and a trip to Las Vegas. Over 3,300 teams are registered to bowl and the results will be posted in this column at a later date.

Bad news.

The good news? More and more people, businesses and industries are finding ways to recycle.

It takes more than 6,000 tons of newsprint each year to print The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers plus a number of other publications, so we're doing a number of things to help the solid waste situation:

1.For years we've sold our waste newsprint to a recycling firm.

2. 25% of the newsprint we print on is recycled and we're increasing this amount by another 25% this year.

3. Our employees have begun to routinely put office paper (memos, computer paper, waste copy paper) in recycle bins instead of waste baskets.

Of course, we still deliver thousands of newspapers twice each week. It's our business to bring you news of your local government, schools, sports scene and community events; the news you need to know.

And when you're finished reading your hometown newspaper there are places that will recycle them.

We've listed a few for you on this page because we think recycling is Good News.

Here is a list of recycling centers in the Observer & Eccentric circulation area. Please call the center nearest you for guidance in preparing your recyclables—

If you place the wide-body racquet next to conventional tennis racquets, the vertical rise of the former will be almost twice that of the latter. In short, it's almost twice as thick.

'Wide-body': That's tennis for the 1990s

By Pat Schutte staff writer

Just when you thought that thin was "in," they're now saying that you need a "wide-body" to play the sport of tennis.

Most tennis players will know what you mean if you ask them, "Are you playing with a wide-body?" Understand, if your wooden tennis racquet has a curve in it or was last used to swat June bugs, wide-body is not a term used to poke fun at a person's mid-section. Not since the Prince racquet (the over-sized one that looked like a snowshoe and revolutionized the tennis world 10 years ago) has an innovative racquet feature put the tennis world in such a tizzy.

"It looks like something Conan the Traditionalists scorn its existence, just like everything else new on the tennis market. Manufacturers and shop owners claim that it improves one's game so drastically, that it's definitely worth checking out.

What wide-body actually means (in layman's terms) is if you lay the rac-

Valiant valets attract a following

Barbarian would play with"

- Ben Tasich Racquets Unlimited

quet flat on the ground, the vertical rise of the racquet will be almost twice that of a conventional racquet - for example, it's almost twice as thick.

The wide-body racquet is supposed to do two things better than a conventional racquet - one, generate more power, and two, allow for more control. All with the same stroke, from an advanced beginner up to a tournament player. What more could you want?

WIDE-BODIES FIRST hit the court in 1987 when Wilson introduced its "Profile" line. Other companies watched and waited to see what would happen with the new racquet.

Within months they became so popular that tennis pro shops couldn't keep them on the shelves . . . kind of like the "Cabbage Patch" doll craze several Christmases ago.

'It's got to be a joke,' I said when I first saw one; it looks like something Conan the Barbarian would play with," said Ben Tasich, owner of Racquets Unlimited in Livonia. "I really poo-pooed it, but then again. I thought the oversized racquets were a joke when they first came out, and now look at them."

By 1989, Wilson passed up Prince in market share for the first time in the 1980s.

"This is strictly attributed to the wide-bodies," said Tasich. "Prince, Head, Dunlop and the rest of the major racquet producers all got caught with their pants down.'

There seems to be some debate when it comes to players, especially advanced players, about the wide-bodies. Some feel that the added thickness makes ground strokes harder and the added power may hinder more than help.

TASICH SAID "60-70 percent of the top tour players are using wide-body racquets, mainly because that's what their sponsors give them to play with."

"Wide-bodies are extremely powerful, sometimes too powerful," said Kris Nichols of Nichols Ski & Sport in Dearborn. "An advanced tennis player, who is accustomed to his or her power range in a conventional racquet, may have a problem with the widebody. Wide-bodies are excellent for intermediate players, though."

Tasich suggests that lower string tensions have to be used for wide-bodies, due to the high power.

"The manufacturers recommend that wide-bodies are strung around 11 pounds lighter than traditional racquets," he said.

Still, the increase in power and stiffness has led to what many believe to be the wide-body's biggest problem.

The fact remains that shock transmission in the wide-body rac-quet is considerably greater than that of a traditional racquet. This, coupled with today's popular racquet construction materials like graphite, Kevlar and boron (lightweight materials that don't have the vibration absorption qualities of traditional wood) can lead to arm problems like tennis elbow.

ACCORDING TO Tasich, "incorrect stroke production also causes problems associated with tennis elbow. But, by and large, the equipment usually gets the blame."

With a correct stroke, developed from many years of playing, Tasich said that he "automatically noticed a difference" In comparing the wide-body to the conventional racquet.

"But, you don't have to be a sophisticated player to notice the difference right away," he said.

Have you hugged your valet attendant today?

Angel Martin does whenever she has Larry Wells or Shannon Ferguson park her car at Northland Mall.

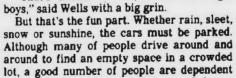

'They're great guys and they give excellent service," she said. "They are always a lot of fun, always smiling and very polite."

Wells doesn't mind. It's only natural for him. And Ferguson said the hugs come with the territory - at least a couple friendly hugs two or three times a day.

Quirkiness saves, but sinks 'Rosalie'

By John Monsghan special writer

Rosalie (Marianne Sagebrecht), a chubby, German-born housewife, lives in a modern brick ranch house on the outskirts of Stuttgart, Ark. Her marathon shopping sprees provide seven adoring children with everything they desire.

One son, an aspiring chef, has a kitchen crammed full of gourmet foods and appliances. He tries his elaborate recipes out on the family. A daughter's selfish request for a $10,00 personal computer causes Rosalie to buy on the installment plan.

One small problem: It seems Rosalie has exceed the limit on all 35 of her credit cards. She has falsified checks and even cashed in her visiting parents' return flight tickets. The computer gets her into classified files and even hotter water.

The bills must have exceeded half a million dollars by now, but for Rosalie, debt is part of the American dream: "All za banks vont is zot I pay za interest."

AS A PREMISE, "Rosalie Goes Shopping" isn't bad - any stab at the credit system is welcome. But under the direction of Percy Adlon ("Sugarbaby" and "Bagdad Cafe." both of which starred Sagebrecht), quirky moments are everything and the comedy lacks focus and power.

During Rosalie's almost daily confession to her local priest (Judge Reinhold), gobbling turkey and clucking chickens serve as the bizarre background noise.

Family members, each sporting Bavarian nicknames like Liebling, Fritz and Shotzi, get all misty-eyed while viewing videotape of the homeland. The ultimate consumers, they mouth the words to favorite TV commercials, ordering everything that flashes across the screen from miracle mixers and digital watch rings to a modern bomb shel-

Not all of the humor works. There are plenty of missed opportunities with Rosalie's German parents, especially when they visit a tacky wildlife museum. Adlon, at a loss in dealing with the comic possibilities, could learn a lot from similar scenes in "Mystery Train" and even "PeeWee's Big Adventure."

Sagebrecht, so delightful in Adlon's other films, is the film's weakest link as Rosalie. She has trouble simply delivering her English lines with much interest. The store owners, even those who refuse her credit, treat her like an old friend, but she has absolutely no personality.

BRAD DAVIS, meanwhile, soars in the role of the American cropdusting husband Liebling. He loves flying almost as much as he loves Rosalie, whom he met and married while stationed in Germany.

Each morning, he flies down low over the house to greet her. Even on the ground, he views the world as if he's banking a plane. Ironically, where Rosalie refuses to look beyond tomorrow, her husband is far-sighted but refuses to get glasses.

Aldon's visual style remains appropriately offbeat, though the candy-colored lighting grows gratuitous and even irritating after a while. Evening skies are tinted a burnt fall orange; rooms illuminate with bright pink and violet.

Still, something inexplicable keeps you hanging on with "Rosalie." You keep waiting for the movie to take off with some interesting twist. But it just sputters on and on and then abruptly crashes to a halt with no real conclusion.

"Rosalie Goes Shopping" currently screens at the AMC Abbey and Hampton theaters.

SCREEN SCENE

Sandra Kazan, Maxine Woods and Ben Lang star in Michael Roemer's "The Plot Against Harry," playing at the Michigan Theater in Ann Arbor this week.

Audiences are in for a roller coaster of thrills, screams, laughs and just plain fun in the fast-paced, action comedy, "Bird on a Wire" (A-, PG-13, 105 minutes).

Edge-of the-seat excitement and rapt attention come easily watching Mel Gibson (as Rick Jarmin, Billy Ray Bowers and other aliases) as he hides out under the Federal Witness Protection Program.

It all starts in Detroit, where Jarmin is working as a mechanic and trying to stay out of the way of two thugs, Eugene Sorenson (David Carradine) and Afbert Diggs (Bill Duke). The former has just been released from prison and is out to get Rick, although his motivation for vengeance is unclear.

By a strange quirk of fate, a successful attorney, Marianne Graves (Goldie Hawn), stops at the gas station where Jarmin works and recognizes him as a former boyfriend who disappeared from her life 15 years earlier.

Meanwhile, Rick has noticed recently that all his covers are being blown, which, it turns out, is due to a crooked FBI agent, Joe Weyburn (Stephen Tobolowsky) who also wants Rick out of the way.

Everyone's out to get Rick in a cross-country run for his life with Marianne in tow, using every mode of transportation imaginable cars, airplanes, motorcycles.

IT'S EXCITING to be along for the ride and the final shoot-out in the zoo is breathtaking. Sticklers for reality may quibble as Rick gets shot in the side earlier on. He takes a licking, but keeps on ticking.

On the whole, however, this fastpaced, well-acted comedy should prove to be a major entertainment success

Cadillac Man" (B-, R, 94 minutes) is an easy film to like if you only remember the last half of it. That part is funny, has some nifty acting, tight direction and good writing as Robin Williams proves that his performance in "Dead Poets Society" wasn't a fluke. He is a genuinely gifted actor who is just beginning to tap into his talent.

Joey O'Brien (Williams) is the ultimate high-pressure car salesman. He literally tries to sell a Cadillac to a woman at her husband's funeral.

Joey's a likeable guy with an ex-wife, Tina (Pamela Reed), a wild teenaged daughter, Lisa (Tristine Skyler), and his Ma (Mimi Cecchini) to support. That's expensive, particularly when Joey also has a girlfriend, Lila (Lori Petty), and a mistress, Joy (Fran Drescher).

That's a costly menage and Joey is about to lose his job at Turgeon Auto unless he sells a dozen units in the next 48 hours. Unfortunately, it takes fully the first half of the film to set up this situation.

THE FUN STARTS on a Sunday as Joey is sweating to make his quota.

STREET BEATS

in the two years since coming to the United States from Ireland, Luka Bloom

has made a name for himself, first in clubs then as a support act.

Bloom blossoms with 'Riverside'.

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Luka Bloom has never been one to wrap his music in trite metaphors, pastoral imagery or rambling political diatribes.

Bloom's acoustic guitar is his axe; his words the power that can cut through to the core. His debut album "Riverside" (Reprise) is an understated, yet surprisingly stunning piece of music. The Irish solo artist doesn't sugar coat his terms, not even in interviews.

Bloom from the hip:

The difficulty of Irish artists making it in their own country: "Ah, they're a bunch of . . . begrudgers. It's this 'He's from down the street, he's no good' attitude."

Playing larger venues: "Three hundred or 30,000 - it's all the same."

The success of "Riverside:" "I'd like to think it's a good album."

The length of this interview: "How are we doing here? I've got to run to a soundcheck. Do you have enough stuff?"

Any remaining questions can be answered in his music, which is as straight-forward as it is passionate.

There's an air of bewilderment and wide-eye discovery on "Riverside," which in itself provides a very uplifting tone to the album. Most of the songs on the LP were written after Bloom arrived in the United States from Ireland two years ago.

EACH NUMBER is a story, some written in the hurried fashion of a summer camper who can't wait to pen home_to mom.

"It just blew me away coming to America," said Bloom, who called Dublin home before arriving here. "It's not what I expected it to be. I thought it would be a

In fact, a tour with Hothouse Flowers brought Bloom to The Ritz in Roseville two years ago.

"Riverside" is being gobbled up by many of those who've seen Bloom somewhere down the line. But the LP is also taking off in places where Bloom has never performed.

"More audiences are ripe for this type of album than they were a couple of years ago," Bloom said. "Some barriers have been broken down. Audiences in America are thought to be conservative, but they're not. It's American radio that's conservative. More and more people are breaking the rules like (Irish new age singer) Enya, (Scottish folk duo) the Proclaimers and the Pogues, which is nice to see."

BLOOM HAS broke the rules by breaking with his past. Performing with little success in his native Ireland, he wanted a new start in America. He started by changing his name from Barry Moore to Luka Bloom.

Many have thought it was an attempt to get out from under the shadow of his wellknown brother, Irish ballader Christy Moore. Not so, according to Bloom.

"There were two reasons (for the name change)," he said. "Number one, I had been performing in Ireland for some time. I wanted a fresh identity and a clean slate. Number two, I didn't want to be confused with Gary Moore of ('70s Irish rockers) Thin Lizzy. So I thought I'd give myself an Iggy or a Bono."

"The One," a song off "Riverside," was believed to be a personal address to his brother, Christy.

Bloom said the song was originally intended for the Pogues' lead singer Shane MacGowan, whose drunken rages on stage have been well-chronicled. 'The song could have been about a number of people," Bloom said. "It's about the rock'n'roll industry and what it expects of While "The One" is about self-destruction, "An Irishman in Chinatown" offers balance as a whimsical tale of falling for a Chinese girl only to realize it's a dream.

American: Countrified with a twist

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Souled American sounds like a band that has taken country music apart and left the pieces strewn across the floor.

At least, that's the first impression listening to the Chicago foursome's latest on Rough Trade "Around the Horn." The moody, dragged-through-the-muck record has an almost eerie feeling of being both depressing and serene at the same time. A slow dance with your partner is required. "That (the country sound) goes back a long way with Chris (Grigoroff, vocalist and acoustic guitar) and Joe (Adducci, bass and vocals)," said drummer Jamey Barnard, whose band performs Wednesday, May 23, at Club Heidelberg in Ann Arbor. "Chris was a harmonica player and Joe's mom actually made country records."

Joe's mom has a slice of her country stylings on the latest LP, "Holding Back the Tears." This is not country in the Nashville/Opryland/Hee Haw sense of the word, although one would give up his rhinestone belt buckle to watch Buck Owen's face contort in confusion when listening to this LP.

SOULED AMERICAN takes some time to get to know. Apparently, American audiences have taken their time getting to know them.

With three albums already, the group is only beginning to make inroads in this country. The first-ever U.S. tour kicks off in Ann Arbor.

Souled American was recently well-received in Europe, opening for Camper Van Beethoven. English music maga-zine Melody Maker even asked the group to contribute a cut to its upcoming compilation compact disc.

Such recognition has yet to come here at home, though.

"It's different," Barnard said. "It's slow for people to pick up on who have never listened to country music before.

"People in America take American music for granted. A lot of the stuff is traditional music. It's not unusual enough for them, I guess."

The band is traditional in the sense it uses an acoustic guitar, a bass and drums. Other than that, anything goes. The interesting aspect of Souled American is how each musician interacts on record.

The little nuances and subtleties are the beauty of a record that can evoke feelings of pain and melancholy.

"EVERYBODY PLAYS completely true to their personality," Barnard said. "It's not like we say, 'Oh, this song should sound this way.'

"We use the instruments in different functions. Chris is definitely the person providing the rhythm on acoustic guitar."

The fact not all members have country backgrounds is one of Souled American's strengths. Barnard, for example, has a jazz and reggae background as a drummer. Grigoroff and Adducci has been enlightening him to the music of Merle Haggard and George Jones.

Grigoroff and Adducci have a large say in the direction of the songs. But everyone works well together.

"They (Adducci and Grigoroff) play all the time," Barnard said. "It always helps when you have that good writing partnership. They always encourage Scott (Tuma, guitarist) and I to come up with ideas. It's a real creative environment."

Souled American performs on Wednesday, May 23, at Club Heidelberg, 215 N. Main, Ann Arbor.

'I didn't come here with a hype machine behind me. I didn't have a manager. I didn't have an agent. I didn't have a record deal. I came here with nothing. People were so helpful, such as telling me what places to play and who to talk to."

Without any publicity preceding him, Bloom quickly garnered his own. Word of his live performances in clubs along the East Coast, using only his guitar and voice, filtered to record executives. As a result, he was able to latch on as a support act with Sinead O'Connor, The Proclaimers, Hothouse Flowers and the Violent Femmes.

Except for Bloom's solo career, the dream is only beginning to come true.

As they take the stage and cut into Hank Williams Sr.'s "Hey Good Lookin'." a Goober neophyte may wonder if he's stumbled into a rawhide bar.

Suddenly, Goober, a tall, lean lad who could look Bill Laimbeer dead in the eye and say "Howdy," begins to flail his boneless limbs wildly and the band kicks into "Funky Cowboy." The guitars sing to the soulful beat, and hay flies off the stage as Goober goes into his "cowboy walk" - his dancing makes Paula Abdul look like a young Shirley Temple.

OUT OF WATER - Peter Hammill

REVIEWS

If you're looking for a quick, easyto-read, one word review of Peter Hammill's new release, "Out of Water," try this one - pretentious.

Still curious? Read on.

Beginning with the first track, "Evidently Goldfish," you'll soon come to realize that what you're listening is supposed to be taken seriously. You see, Hammill is making art. Note the meaningful title. "Evidently Goldfish," how clever!

This first track pretty much foreshadows the overly serious tone of the whole album. In "Evidently Goldfish," Hammill adopts a me-chanical, omnipotent voice, in his best imitation of Gary Numan of "Cars" fame. The only guy who can really get away with singing this way is David Bowie, and as you may have guessed by now, Hammill is no Bowie.

Hammill's pretentious airs reach their sickening pinnacle on the song "Our Oyster" where Hammill actu-ally begins the song by (choke!) talk-ing over a backdrop of synthesizers and piano. "This one's authentic/son of a gun/soundtrack from China/in the universal tongue" he says grandly. Ecocouuuh!

It slowly becomes apparent why Hammill is so fond of this talking/singing style of vocals upon hearing some of the other tracks on which Hammill makes a valiant attempt to actually sing.

Some people have voices that are so bad that they sound good — Neil Young, Bob Dylan and Gordon Gano of the Violent Femmes quickly come to mind. But, Hammill's voice lacks the distinction of these other men.

A more accurate comparison is with the annoyingly monotoned voice of Tanita Tikaram. He sounds voice of Tanta Tikaram. He sounds like he is singing in an unnaturally deep voice. Perhaps he isn't singing from his diaphragm or something. If you're looking for advice on how to allocate your album buying dol-locate your album buying dollars, here you are; Save your money. Perhaps it will encourage Hammill to get out of the music business.

HEARTS AND MINDS

- Hearts and Minds

You can (sometimes) judge an album by its cover. Don't believe it? Take a good look at the album cover to the immediate right of these words and try to guess what the record sounds like.

Let's see ... it's a black and white photograph of an old, beat-up trailer, some barbed wire, a windmill and a water tower all set in a dusty, gritty landscape, probably out West twang thrown in here and there. One of the ways for a band to find success is to work under the tutelage of an established musician — Rick James had the Mary Jane Girls, Prince had Vanity 6 — now John Cougar Mellencamp has some, argu-ably less sexy, interns of his own, Hearts and Minds. Mellencamp let Hearts and Minds use his Belmont Mall Studio in Indi-ana and even lest some of his band members to the recording sessions.

Well, we're pretty close so far -Hearts and Minds is from Oklahoma and their music is as dusty and gritty as you'd expect. This is straight-for-ward rock'n'roll with a touch of twang thrown in here and there.

The record was produced by Mellen-camp's guitarist, Mike Wanchic, and his drummer, Kenny Aronoff, played on several of the cuts.

This works both for and against the band. Wanchic convinced Hearts and Minds to record most of their material live, giving the record a natural, unaffected sound.

That's the "for" part. The "against" part is that the band sounds overly influenced by "Big Daddy" Mellencamp. Lead vocalist Bruce Henderson sounds too much like he is trying to imitate his mentor.

In the final analysis, Hearts and Minds is an instantly forgettable LP. These boys would do well to head back to the old farm.

SOUNDCLASH - Renegade Soundwave

From the first few staccato, syn thesized notes of the song, "Blue Eyed Boy," on Renegade Soundwave's new release, "Sound-clash," it's pretty apparent what the rest of the album will bring harshly and heavily rhythmic dance tunes

What is not apparent is any additional information about this mysterious band other than their label is Enigma Records. (That's right, that's why they call it Enigma). There is no lyric sheet, no "thanks to" section, not even a listing of the names of the members of the band.

Either Enigma is going through severe budget cuts that necessitates severe budget cuts that necessitates saving money on printing costs or (and this is infinitely more intrigu-ing, but probably highly unlikely) Renegade Soundwave is simply a pseudonym for a really famous band! Perhaps it's Depactic Mode's answer to the XTC alisi, "The Dukes of Stratosphere," Well, maybe not. Anyway, there's heavy ray music influence on this release, creating yet another sub-genre of dence me-sic. It's sort of an industrial, techno-pop ray. ## Disco inferno

They're gone

40**

The disco records are finally gone. Today, at our annual garage sale, I sold my last surviving disco alburns for a quarter each. Every spring for 12 years, I've lugged Donna Summer, Gloria Gaynor and The Village People out of the basement, hoping some troglodyte in a white suit with lapels wide enough to land a jet on would show up for them.

How did I come to own this collection?

Even now, over a decade later, it's hard to admit - I worked as a DJ at the local discotheque. (Don't laugh, you were there, too. I remember your zodiac medallion.)

Back in 1979, things were, well, a little slow in the advertising world. Executives found their desks out in the parking lot. Copywriters went from pushing pencils to selling pencils overnight.

To augment our incomes, lots of us ad guys took part-time jobs. I decided to make it show biz - the area of show biz that required no skills other than dodging flying bottles.

PART SOCIAL director and part psychologist, I matched the music and lights to the pulse of the crowd. My job was to make them dance until their kneecaps exploded and their tendons flew apart and they bought dozens of expensive drinks to ease the pain.

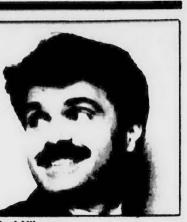

I hate to brag, but I worked in one of the classier clubs in town. Styled after Studio 54 in New York, we were very selective in our clientel. The doorman hand-picked the crowd according to a strict pecking order: Celebrities were admitted first. Then came international jetsetters and financial tycoons. Finally, a smattering of artists, models and fashion mavens were sprinkled about for atmosphere.

Unfortunately, since this was Michigan and not Manhattan, only nine people made it inside.

As time went on, the screening system was loosened slightly to include hunchbacks, the criminally insane and clog dancers from the Wisconsin Dells. On Wednesdays, there was no cover charge for farm animals.

The first documented outbreak of disco was in Paris. It was then spread to the East Coast by airline pilots. By the time a vaccine was found, "Saturday Night Fever" had infected the Midwest.

I saw this cultural shift as a new

By wearing earplugs, I could limit the hearing loss. By secretly reading books, I could limit the brain damage. By locking myself in the booth, I could even avoid getting beat up.

But the one hazard I couldn't avoid was the choking smoke. Five Zager's boss, Brian Albertsen, said that working outside in the elements is the hardest part of the job.

"WHEN IT RAINS, you get a lot of people who normally don't use the valet service," said the Livonia resident. "That's not your best tipping situation and you go home soaked at the end of the night.

Lynda Starkey, a 25-year-old Michigan State University student, is employed by Charley's Crab Restaurant in Troy. A forestry major, Starkey's only complaint is "frozen fingers." But she's still happy to be outside . . . Now, being a female valet, well, that's another matter.

"Men ask me if I'm old enough to drive or make comments like 'Do you know how to drive a stick shift?'" she said. "They call me honey or dear; they don't treat men like that. But it's no big deal."

Starkey has found that tips are better, "if you're a female."

"I attend MSU and sometimes, if a customer went to MSU, he'll tip a little higher . . . that's if I get a chance to tell him," she said.

IN THE LONG run, this occupation has its "attractive" moments despite the elements. As valet Luke Lukasik puts it, "It's a hell of a lot of fun; you meet people, make a lot of money and it's great exercise. I'm not going to do this all my life but I like meeting girls and staying in shape.'

Lukasik, who works the night spots like Clubland, Taboo and the Landsdowne, said that one evening he went to open the door of a car full of young women. In the process of helping them out of the vehicle, they pulled him inside.

"They were kissing me and grabbing me," he said. "The other valets told me to go with them for awhile.

"It happens all the time. You just got to cope with it."

In "Avalon," Pollack was directed by Barry Levinson of "Rain Man" fame.

It's set in the corporate world and while I'm in Detroit (for his upcoming performance) I should find out if it's going to be a series, so I could be in a terrific mood while I'm there."

Pollack said he finds his comedy in every-day situations and also has fun with impressions.

"Everywhere you look there is comedy, you just have to find your own voice - your own point of view," he said. "I've been doing this professionally now for 10 years. You develop your own persona and people either come along with you for the ride or they don't."

The $2-year-old LA comedian mixes cynicism and the every-day irony of life into his routine. He also gives a "clean" show.

"I pride myself on that," he said. "I do have some adult material and adult observations, but I don't use four-letter words."

Woody Allen, Albert Brooks, Steve Martin and George Carlin were just some of the comedians who influenced Pollack. Woody Allen really acted as an inspiration for a comedian to take his point of view and put it on film," he said. "You know, I really can't remember too many low points in my career. I've been really lucky to work with so many people who I admire."

Mutts make most of run for 'roses'

By Joan Borum special writer

6D : 4

It's definitely not the sport of kings.

Mutt Derby time at the Michigan State Fairgrounds Coliseum is a meet of a different breed. Sponsored by as a fund-raiser by the Michigan Humane Society, the Derby is designed for mutts and their owners . . . and mutual love is the only pedigree required.

All dog lovers are welcome to attend . . . and coo... and admire ... and trade stories of canine cleverness.

dogs. They don't bark. They don't have "accidents." They watch with disbelief as their owners call them.

THEY RUN in unremitting desperation, eyes fixed on their beloved, ears flying, deaf to the roar of the crowd. They run and jump straight into the arms of their hysterical owners, who carry them off in triumph, win or lose. "It's a family event," said Ron Blauet, MHS director of education. "People come from Flint and GrRand Rapids. They pack a lunch and make a day of it.

photos by BILL HANSEN

After all, in this world, a doting grandparent may be boring, but is considered normal. A dog owner showing pictures of little Sunshine licking an ice cream cone, however, is often thought to be a bit, well, eccentric.

Don't think they're snobbish about pedigrees. Any mutt is welcome, as long as he or she is discreet about "pure" bloodlines and doesn't go around flaunting "papers."

The seventh annual Mutt Derby this year at-tracted 400 of the area's "finest," who raced to their owners to raise money for the MHS and to kick off Be Kind to Animals Week.

There's a rhyme and a reason to the Mutt Derby. Dogs race in five classes - mini, small, medium, large and maxi - on an oval "course" marked out in the arena.

THERE ARE 10 entrants in each heat, and MHS volunteers hold the eager entrants as their owners run to the opposite end of the track.

The idea is that the dogs are supposed to race to their masters and the first one to do so is the winner of the heat. Finally, the Grand Mutt Run is a race between the five class champions to determine the Grand Mutt champion.

That's the idea. Sometimes, the dogs have an idea of their own.

Sometimes, they forget about their owners before they make it to the end of the track. And then there are those dogs that just sit there looking around while the pack goes off howling.

"Aren't you embarrassed?" someone asked the owner of one such Doberman.

"No, he did the same thing last year."

Sometimes signals get crossed

A beautiful fawn-colored Afghan, desperate to be reunited with her owner, squirmed away from her volunteer and ran the course alone, the crowd cheering both her grace and her dedication.

Sheepishly, her owner led her back. When the flag dropped, the dog remained behind, not moving. She obviously thought that was what she was supposed to do. After all, she'd tried running and that didn't work.

And sometimes, blood will tell.

A Border Collie, starting from post position, spent the race trying to herd the other dogs into a corner.

But the dogs who never forget, never digress, the dogs who run most frantically are the little

'Last year, at the sixth annual Mutt Derby, we had more than 500 entries. We made $11,000 for our shelters from the $5 entry fee for dogs, the $2 general admission fee and sales of sweat shirts and other miscellaneous items."

"Micellaneous items" include clowns "Stembles," "Fumbles" and FluFlu," otherwise known as Peggy Vermander, Mary Vemander and Lynette Orr, who come in from the town of Leonard to volunteer their skills at painting funny faces on eager children. All fees for the art work goes to the MHS.

MHS employee/volunteer Verna Robinson of Detroit boasts that she gets a lot of winners as a handler.

"You have to show them that you're not going to hurt them," she explained, wiping off her pant leg where an excited dog had had an "accident." (They spend a lot of time mopping up the starting area.)

"I get their names from their owners and I talk to them to get them to run. I say things like 'Where's your Mama,' and 'Follow Mama; run to Mama.'

ROBINSON HAS has two pit bulls at home and she is especially proud of Star, a pit bull owned by Detroit Harold Missop Jr.

Star has the distinction of being the only dog to become Grand Mutt Champion twice, once in 1986 and again this year. In 1989, she was the medium dog winner. Robinson has been Star's handler every year that she has entered. "I only brought her in 1986 to give her the opportunity to see other dogs," Mossop said. "The MHS people urged me to race her, so I did. When she won that year, they announced only that the winner was a dog named Star.

"I guess they were afraid that if they said the words pit bull, people would evacuate the Coliseum. By now, she's a great favorite with the crowd."

"It's a great day for those of us who work at the shelters," said Blauet. "It gives us a chance to see the bond between dogs and people. It's an unfortunate aspect of our work that we seldom see the positive aspects of the relationship between dogs and humans.

"We hope that events like the Mutt Derby and Be Kind to Animals Week will help people to real-ize the joys and responsibilities of owning a pet."

Detroiter Harold Mossop Jr. has reason to be proud of his pit bull Star. She has the distinction of being the only dog to become Grand Mutt Champion twice, once in 1986 and again this year.

Keeping the kids busy during the Mutt Derby were volunteer clowns like Stumbles (Peggy Vermander of Leonard) who did face painting for the benefit of the Michigan Humane Society.

Card-mailing procrastination

Mother's Day card way ahead but then didn't mail it on time. Can you give me insights as to why a person would buy cards and not mail them?

A: Putting off mailing letters, thank-you notes, sympathy or greeting cards is a recurring problem for many people. Ideally you "should" buy greeting cards in groups (e.g. by the month) address them, sign them and write the mailing date where the stamp goes. Then just stamp and mail them on the appointed days.

Even an "ideal" system may not solve your problem, however. Of the six categories of procrastination I have identified, dealing with your inner feelings may be the most common cause of mailing delay and the most difficult to master. When you send cards or letters you are sharing your feelings, even if you only sign your name to a pre-printed card. In the back of your mind you may be mulling over questions like: Have I chosen the right words? Will the other person think this is corny? Appropriate? Funny? Is my handwriting too messy? Will this produce the intended comfort-joy-appreciationcheer?

Insecure feelings get involved in putting off more than just written messages. Relationships may suffer as well. Perhaps an apology is in order but difficult to deliver. Terminations, appraisals or evaluations of business people are often delayed because of the difficulty of telling others what they are doing wrong - or because it's hard to praise someone. Until handled, these delays can gen-

Q: I did it again. I bought a erate stress and guilt for months or even years.

Anytime you realize you are delaying something because of feel-ings, face the problem head on. Identify specifically what is holding you back and why. If you still can't han-dle it, try creative alternatives such as calling instead of writing: sending a small gift or flowers with a card that simply says, "I'm sorry," for instance; or finding someone else to act as an intermediary. Sometimes you simply have to bite the bullet and schedule an appointment (to terminate an employee, for example) and then figure out how to handle it after that appointment is made. Us-"pressure to produce" never ing fails.

An alternative to writing a personal note on a "mushy" greeting card is to simply sign your name to a more generic type of card. While less than ideal, it is also less threatening. Other reasons for card mailing procrastination: You may consider card mailing to be less important than other daily activities and need to raise that activity higher on your priority list. Finally, a number of people have told me choosing the right one is the hardest part of sending cards so, once purchased, they consider the job done. After all, they have acted on their thoughts of the other person - even if the other person doesn't know it.

T'S like visiting Old World, country-style France

A new shop in downtown Northville, called La Belle Provence, specializes in pottery, furniture and accessories from Europe, particularly France.

The brick walls and hardwood floors of the store are a fitting backdrop for the antiques, stacks of snowy-white Belgian lace bed linens and distinctive, brightly hued pottery called Quimper (kam-PAIR).

Store owners, Jennifer Tobias-Turner of Birmingham, and Leslie Benser-Luciani of Ann Arbor, both are attorneys who decided to become shopkeepers.

"I love French literature and culture," said Tobias-Turner, 31, who speaks fluent French and Spanish. "It's just been an ongoing passion of mine."

For Tobias-Turner, opening an imports shop evoked memories of the period in her life when she lived with a family in the south of France. Benser-Luciani has enjoyed the buying trips to Europe where she sharpened her business skills.

LA BELLE PROVENCE has an extensive array of the popular, hand-painted French pot-tery, Quimper. The colorful pottery is characterized by its depiction of traditional peasant figures, dazzling florals and dramatic birds.

'No two pieces are exactly alike," said Benser-Luciani, who explained that scenes are painted free-hand by master painters. The artists use neither stencils nor decals.

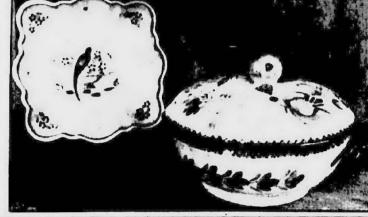

La Belle Provence, which opened last November, is at 119 N. Center St., just off Main. The shop's neighbors are a mix of small boutiques, accessory and gift shops, an art gal-lery and neighborhood cafes.

The partners were attracted to Northville's small-town flavor, its growth and the affluence of the city and its nearby communities.

Northville is like Birmingham used to be before it became booming," Benser-Luciani said.

BOTH WOMEN HAD been employed at law firms prior to opening the shop. Benser-Luci-ani had worked with Tobias-Turner's husband, Jack, a Birmingham native.

The name, La Belle Provence, was selected because of its distinctively French flavor. It means "beautiful Provence," referring to a region of southern France which both partners like.

"The region epitomizes everything we love about the European style," Benser-Luciani said.

During buying trips to France and Belgium the partners visited flea markets, antique fairs and met with dealers.

According to Tobias-Turner, European country style is compatible with American traditional and country styles.

"European antiques have a soft look to them," she said. "It's easy to segue from American to European country (style) without changing the whole house."

MOST OF THE furniture pieces carried by La Belle Provence are antiques dating to the 1850s, Benser-Luciani said. The pieces originate in France, Belgium, Germany and Italy.

Some reproductions also are sold. Price tags indicate whether a piece is original or reproduction.

"They are mostly original pieces," Benser-Luciani said. "We only carry reproductions to give a greater price range. Reproductions are typically made in Europe so (customers) are getting European pieces."

The shop has several styles of farm tables and chairs, armoires and hutches. Many are made of scrubbed pine. Others are carved fruitwood and oak.

The Quimper pieces dominate one corner of the shop. The brightly colored pieces reflect a rich palette of blues, scarlets, daffodil-yellows and shades of green.

This pottery is produced at Falenceries de Quimper, a factory dating to the 1690s, in the French town of Quimper. Quimper is in the Brittany region, on a peninsula which juts 150 miles into the Atlantic Ocean between the English Channel on the north and the Bay of Biscay on the south.

"Brittany was isolated until World War II," Tobias-Turner said. "It was hard to reach. It has really developed and kept its own culture."

The ceramic earthenware is painted, glazed and marked, a crucial guide to historians and collectors. The glaze is lead-free, so the pieces can be practical as well as decorative.

ONE OF THE MOST well-known Quimper patterns is Henriot, which depicts the tradi-tional peasants of Brittany. The scenes show men wearing pantaloons and wide-brimmed hats. The women wear aprons and high, starched, lace coifs on their heads. The pieces are bordered in blue and yellow.

"The colors are so inviting," Tobias-Turner said, "It's hard not to fall in love with them."

are antiques dating to the 1850s, and

This year, to celebrate the 300th anniversary of the company, a new pattern called Jardin D'Ete, has been introduced. The name means summer garden. A large, blue-and-yellow bird is its focus.

THAT NEW PATTERN figured prominently when La Belle Provence recently decorated a room for the 1990 Junior League Designers Show House in Grosse Pointe. Tours will be offered through Monday, May 28.

Several Quimper patterns are readily available, either in the shop or by special order from Connecticut. Customers also may select from patterns and colors normally found only in France.

dominate one corner of the shop.

Most pieces are sold separately. The shop also carries wallpapers and fabrics which coordinate with several Quimper patterns. Also available are small, 100 percent cotton Pierre Deux cloth handbags and small purses. The line is characterized by small floral prints in clean, sharp colors.

The partners hope to introduce some lesswell known pottery lines. And they are creating an upstairs gallery to display more antiques. La Belle Provence is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday, until 8 p.m., Thursday. Closed Sunday. For information call 347-4333.

Property management: Go it alone or hire it out

When rental markets are as soft as they are now, property managers have to scramble to earn their money.

It doesn't matter whether they look after their own holdings exclusively, a combination of their own and others' or work only as hired guns.

The response of management companies has stepped up over the last several years due to an abundance of space in the marketplace," said Richard Roeser, president of a Beachum and Roeser Development Co. of Birmingham.

"It increases the level of competition, no question about that.'

Roeser also is president of the Building Owners and Managers Association.

'My responsibility is to make damn sure we are doing everything possible to keep buildings in A-1 shape," he said. "We search out our tenants and inquire of them whether the level of service is satisfactory.

Roeser manages 15 office buildings he owns, including Governor's Place in Bloomfield Hills, Coventry Place in Troy and Jamestown in Birmingham.

Harold Lawson, president of M.E. Arden Co. of Farmington Hills, manages and develops retail and office property.

"WE'RE CURRENTLY in a stale market . . . in retail, industrial, residential and office," Lawson said. "It becomes more important that they (property managers) are right on the job so they can see what problems are before problems develop. In our business, when there's a vacancy, you never recoup that month."

The properties owned and managed by Arden include Uptown Plaza in Farmington and Farmington Hills Office Cen-

Ron Slavik, founder and president of the Fourmidable Group in Farmington Hills, knows all about competition in the apartment management business.

'You've got to be creative, diligent and work hard," he said. "It all comes down to good maintenance, highly motivated, trained people on site, devising new marketing tools, constant monitoring of the marketplace, making sure the project is clean and well repaired."

PROPERTIES MANAGED by Fourmidable include Oaks at Hampton in Rochester, Buckingham Square in Troy and Walnut Woods in West Bloomfield.

What does a property manager do?

Listen to Thomas Garrity, who recently started a property management firm in Livonia after 22 years in the business.

"We would go in and literally take over the whole opera-tion," he said. "We set up bank accounts, staff, collect rents, take care of tenant complaints, forecast, implement energy cost programs, set up security if necessary.

"For that, we would be paid a fee, a percentage of gross collections, 31/2 to 51/2 percent for commercial and industrial," Garrity said.

The range of compensation is comparable to residential property management, Slavik said.

Property managers are in demand for a couple of reasons

Get it in writing By Robert Melsner

'I see the pendulum swinging so that property managers handle more of the administrative side, financial side, and the function of operations is given to another person.'

- Martha Jakubik Coldwell Banker

SOME LOCAL owners, professionals like doctors and lawyers, might want to build shopping centers or small offices as investments, but don't have the time or expertise to manage them

Out-of-state owners, recognizing their distance from investments, call upon property managers who are aware of local nuances to handle details.

Some managers, like Roeser, concentrate on their own properties.

"No matter how conscientious that person is, he can't possibly care . . . and see things I see as an owner," Roeser said. "He (outsider) has more constraints. I have a level of perception and authority (so) I can resolve that (problem) right away.'

But Garrity believes that individuals who finance, develop, build and try to manage their own holdings may be biting off more than they can chew.

"We specialize in management where they don't," Garrity said. "It's number one with us."

"IT'S MORE difficult managing someone else's property," Lawson said. "They hire you, pay a fee. They're supposed to listen to advice, but sometimes, when it gets costly, they don't.

Especially absentee owners, who might be reluctant to adjust to local economic situations and lower rents or make improvements to a property, if necessary, to compete.

Certified property managers must be licensed brokers, attend classes and pass an exam, Slavik said. "The level of professionalism is being raised due to competition."

Slavik and others in the field see the day approaching when property managers get more involved in asset management. That would include analysis as to when to sell and whether or when to refinance

"The '90s level of property management will be taken to a new dimension - long-term investment opportunities, reporting to investors," Slavik said.

Martha Jakubik, a property manager for Coldwell Banker Commercial Real Estate Services, also believes that asset management will become important.

Thomas Garrity, who recently establish- lot of work goes into prospecting clients ed a property management firm after and doing the job properly. working 22 years in the business, said a

Rental market called stale

Office, retail and residential rental markets in Detroit and its suburbs are slumping, several property managers said recently when interviewed by the Observer & Eccentric.

Richard Roeser, owner and manager of more than a dozen office buildings, cited a study by Grubb & Ellis that projected an office vacancy rate at upwards of 20 percent here by the end of the year.

With supply exceeding demand due to overbuilding, office owners and managers have been offering financial incentives to retain tenants and attract newcomers. Roeser said.

But that's not the first thing he likes to do.

When the market cools, Roeser said he redoubles efforts to make sure his buildings are in top-notch condition and tenants' whims are satisfied.

"Planting flowers, making sure the office is clean - that it's a pleasant place to be," Roeser said.

"If you haven't taken care of the building or customers, they're going to move.'

Stale was the word used to describe current retail and office markets in metro Detroit by Harold Lawson, president of a development and management company.

"We need more growth from outside. That's our problem," he said of office space. "You're going to need some companies coming to the area with faith in the future.

The office market is probably more overbuilt than any segment," Lawson added. "Everyone's competing. Tenants know that."

And ask for concessions.

An influx of major retailers like Target, Kohl's and Mervyn's has contributed to an overabundance of shopping centers here, Lawson said.

"DEVELOPERS have to build a center for each one," he said. "There's not enough little guys (tenants) to go around. I think we have too many centers for total purchasing dollars available." Supply and demand and interest rates are the biggest variables impacting the residential rental market, said Ron Slavik, who founded a company 16 years ago to manage apartments.

special writer

We are interviewing a prospective management company that promises that the principal of the management firm will be at the site to attend all of our meetings of the board. Is there anyway that I can guarantee that promise?

Provide a provision in the management agreement between the association and the agent to the effect that the principal of the management company must appear at the meetings of the board of directors as a condition precedent to the continuation of the management agreement, except in the case of emergencies and/or excusable circumstances. That will insure that the management company will have a legal incentive to comply with its obligations as promised to you. In fact, any extraordinary promises exacted from the management company should be confirmed in writing in the management agreement.

FAMILY FARE

Rosie, New Kids and Oz to debut as Saturday morning series

By Donna Gooch

ABC is looking to the future as evidenced by its early announcement of some of the new series for kids. Three original half-hour shows will debut in September as part of the network's Saturday morning children's line-up.

First up is The Wizard Of Oz, an animated adventure based on the characters from the classic theatrical film. In this series. Dorothy returns to Oz to help her friends overcome the Wicked Witch, who has magically come back to life.

A Roseanne semi-spin-off is Little Rosey-the animated fantasy adventures of a 10-year-old Roseanne Barr. The escapades, both real and imaginary, take place in her family life and neighborhood.

The New Kids On The Block, a live-action/animated series, capitalizes on the mega-popularity of the young singing group.

The award-winning ABC Weekend

Specials will also return for the 14th consecutive year early in 1991. One new special includes Ralph S. Mouse, the third in the trilogy of books about a mouse and his motorcycle from award-winning author Beverly Cleary

Another well-known writer's work will be showcased in Judy Blume's humorous slice-of-life story Otherwise Known As Sheila The Great. The ABC children's program schedule will continue to include a series of public service announcements on nutrition, computer literacy and anti-drug activities. Also, for the third straight year,

One-To-One self-esteem messages from prime-time network actors and actresses will be featured. Series making an encore for next fall include The New Adventures Of Winnie The Pooh, Slimer And The Real Ghostbusters. Beetlejuice, The Bugs Bunny & Tweety Show and A Pup Named Scooby Doo. · IN Listing In

Suburban Cable Weekly May 21-May 27 Ratings prove nothing's better than good ol' home movies

By ANNE WHEELER

What started out as a Thanksgiving week treat last year has surpassed "Roseanne" and even "The Cosby Show" to shoot up to the No. 1 spot in the Nielsens.

"America's Funniest Home Videos." which began as a one-hour special last November, has been holding its own as the top-rated show of the season. Just two short months after its premiere, the show was given its very own time slot Sunday nights on ABC.

The program features home movie clips, submitted by anyone, of actual funny and unexpected events they have captured on film.

"I think the nice thing about what we do is that we've asked America to produce the show for us." said executive producer Vin Di Bona, who had also been producer for the network's "Animal Crack-Ups."

The most costly thing about producing the series is paying the staff for viewing the tapes. "The interesting thing about screening a tape is that you're never sure where anything good is on the tape," Di Bona said. "There's also the possibility of spending three hours looking through a man's pencil collection, which we've done.'

He said two people are assigned to each screening room, and they kind of feed off of each other. That energy quickly spreads through the staff, too. "You'll hear folks laugh like crazy down this hall, so everybody moves to that room. Then you'll hear a laugh in this room. So it's really kind of a fun place to work because there's a lot of laughs all day long."

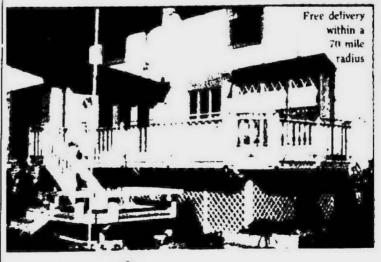

Bob Saget, who also stars in ABC's Friday night comedy "Full House," serves as host of the show. He said that his duty on "America's Funniest Home Videos" is just a natural extension of the stand-up comedy he has been doing.

As he has stressed on the show numerous times, Saget said it's easy to tell staged videos, which would never be used. "We don't want people to go out and create their video if it's going to hurt an animal or a child, because the only show they're going to wind up on is, like 'People's Court,' or 'America's Most Wanted.' They're not going to wind up on this show."

The motivation for people to send in the video tapes is evenly divided. Fifty percent want the $10,000 offered for the best video from each episode, and the other half just want to see themselves on television.

To submit your amusing home movies, send them to "America's Funniest Home Videos," P.O. Box 4333. Hollywood, Calif. 90078. If you want your tapes returned, include $2 for return postage.

emption from any burden, duty, anxiety," under what conditions does it truly prevail? Individual bias within creative license will align or alienate every onlooker. This experience, be it through speech, actions or thoughtful reflection, is an exercise of 'one' man or woman. No longer may one hide behind the guise of 'I'm only one vote. I don't matter.' You do matter; you are making a significant difference.

Last week I mentioned that we" would bust loose this nation's best kept secret ... YOU. Not only are you the secret, but you also are the solution. You have the opportunity to become active at the same time as basic freedoms are being fought for throughout the world.

Now every citizen can become involved in the media from the inception of an idea to participating on a local citizen committee, to voting and then helping to actuate the change.

Through the advent of cable franchises, noncommercial television channels have been made available to the public, to education and to government. Programs are then "cablecast" throughout the community ("Cablecast" is the terminology for the transmission of the video and audio signal via cable). Cable franchises are wired for distribution of programs within a franchise area. The program offerings are considered to be "narrowcast" within this specific geographical area. Interconnection of cable systems and use of satellite transmission allow for global viewing. However, it is common practice for local programs to be physically transported from one cable system to another by a person. This practice is referenced as "bicycling."

An individual may create their own television program and speak as they feel on any subject. However, one of the most popular programs on local channels throughout the United States is the coverage of city council meetings. This is community service in the purest form. Council agendas include public questions and comments as well as a standard procedure for public hearing. Cable Channel 10 now hosts the coverage of Canton City Council Meetings. Those residents who are unable to attend the council meetings can stay informed while enjoying the comforts of home. Watching your council, city staff and active residents sharing their perspective on issues will go a long way to familiarize one of the intricacies of your community. Watching the meeting from a distance does help clarify the concept of individual views being transformed into a working picture for the good of the entire community.

Another reason to watch CATV CH. 10 coverage of the Canton City Council Meetings is to enable you to value history in the making. As you view the meeting, a relationship between you and the city will develop. This is an inherent response to the intimacy of a local access channel. The only reason these channels exist is because the community believes in the exercise of the freedom of expression and are supportive of the opportunity to build a greater understanding of "Community."

Council meetings are not edited. They may be lengthy and they may be controversial or they may be routine and quiet. They do reflect the state of the present.

Beyond the council meetings exists another channel where each resident may have the privilege of creating one's own television program, public service announcement or editorial comment...CATV Channel 15. The current programs of Channels 15 and 8 are listed within this television guide on each day.

How can you exercise your freedom of expression? Or more simply, how can you get on TV? How do you get your show in the Suburban Cable Weekly? There are television workshops available through the cable company, Omnicom. Workshops are designed with a "studio" emphasis for one month and then a "remote/on-location" for another month. Class size is kept to fifteen to ensure personalized attention.

The one-night-a-week classes find each participant ready to determine how best to proceed in developing an idea into a finished show. Every class produces a television program for a specific CATV audience. Each person contributes to the new skills and potential expertise possible within a production team. There is a place for everyone. Each person naturally gravitates before or behind the camera. People are conversationalists or technically curious or both.

Graduating workshop residents become certified by MetroVision's staff after volunteering to work on a television program already in progress. This step may be one of the most rewarding. The family of Community Access Television Volunteers is one of the most fascinating group of personalities I have ever met. Production teams consist of folks of all ages, nationalities and professions. Whoever you are on the outside is of no significance. It is how you interact and contribute to the television show that counts. Deep and abiding friendships are established with each new show. People find a real sense of fulfillment in learning valuable skills while also contributing to someone else's quest. It is fascinating to note that personal views are tempered as respect for the producers purpose takes top priority.

The new graduate will be welcomed and encouraged through every mistake while learning through 'hands on experience'. Once certified, the facilities and television equipment is available free of charge for the sole purpose of creating programming for our Community Access Channels for Farmington, Novi and Farmington Hills. Resource lists are available of several hundred active volunteers who will enjoy being part of a production crew. This list is kept current and updated with each new graduating class

Non-profit organizations can opt to schedule a personalized workshop if there are 10-15 organizational members who would like to create a video team. Their goal should be to cover the main events of the organization and enhance the promotional efforts.

More on this exciting participation TV in my next column.

Drama delves into woman's Morrison was not unbalanced "She showered in the woman's (the victim's) breaking point of violence

Barbara Hershev plays cool killer By Shelia Odak

May 21-May 27

"The show isn't just the plain telling of a story," stated actress Barbara Hershey about the CBS film Killing In A Small Town, which airs Tuesday, May 22. "It's really about the dark side of all of us. That part of all of us that could kill, and at what point does it take a person to do that.

The movie deals with a Texas housewife, Candy Morrison (played by Hershey), who is confronted by a friend over an affair Morrison has had with her husband. When the friend threatens her with an ax, Morrison takes it away from her and kills her with 41 blows. For three days after that Morrison went about her daily life before being linked to the killing. She was later acquitted on the grounds of self defense.

"It's not some story about a sweet heroine who's innocently wronged or accused of something falsely or anyth- them (the townspeople) were saying ing like that," Hershey said, "It's really 'Well honey, you're not going to about the repression and the disas- whitewash her to me," Hershey stated. sociation that everyday normal people "I'd say. During the course of the filming Hershey was able to have a phone conversation with the real-life woman behind her character. The actress stated that she had an enormous amount of sympathy for the woman and the pain this production will cause her. "If it were going to be done, she wanted to help me understand it so it would be done well. I can't imagine she would be pleased with the show no matter how well I do. If I do well, this is going to be incredibly painful to watch, and if I do badly it will be incredibly painful for her to watch, so I can't imagine pleasing her, which is a little hard on me, but I understand." < The Listing Inc

Harry Hamlin stars in thriller with Nicollette Sheridan

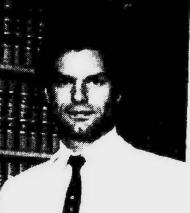

Showtime will present an original two-hour exclusive suspense thriller titled Deceptions, starring Harry Hamlin and Nicollette Sheridan. Set in southern California, this provocative mystery is scheduled to debut on the cable network in June. Robert Davi co-stars in the story of a detective who investigates the murder of a wealthy businessman.

In an unprecedented agreement, CBS Entertainment has acquired premiere broadcast rights to a group of 1989 theatrical motion pictures, all of which will air during the 1990-91 season on CBS. The deal marks the first time in a decade that a network and major theatrical studio have reached such an agreement. Among the 10 films included in the package are Born On The Fourth Of July, Field Of Dreams, Uncle Buck, Fletch Lives, K-9, The Wizard, Renegades and Shocker.

With a daily television talk show, several live concert performances a week and a book in the works, Joan Rivers decided to take a break. "So I made a movie-it was my vacation. It's fun and relaxing for me to do something different," she says of Bad Times In Beverly Hills, airing May 23 on CBS

ABC Wide World Of Sports will telecast Coup de Hoop June 23 to find the nation's best 3-on-3 playground basketball players in the United States and Puerto Rico. Paradise Sports Promotions and Coca-Cola are major sponsors of the event. Local tournaments are being held in 95 cities this month. Regional winners will compete in the national championships on ABC

Robert (he could find someone better). I think he should go back to Anna. Frisco and Felicia are boring. -().L. Coleman, Wis.

Dear Reader: While I agree with your evaluation of the alien storyline on GH. I have to say that I enjoy seeing Frisco and Felicia together. In case you haven't heard, there is a rumor that Kristina Malandro (Felicia) is pregnant and the pregnancy will be written into a GH storyline. It has also been rumored that Jack Wagner (Frisco) may indeed be the father.

I also think your assessment of Lucy Coe (Lynn Herring) and Scott Baldwin (Kin Shriner) is right on the money. Just imagine how boring it would be if these two weren't wreaking havoc in the lives of those around them

Dear Candace: I am writing about the recent article in which Jewell Lund wrote concerning Edie Lehmann, (Katherine, GH).

I would just like to say that Lehmann has got to be the brightest new face to join General Hospital since I have been watching it, which has been eight years now Not only is she beautiful, but she is always bubbly and full of energy. which makes the show even more funto watch. She and Finola Hughes (Anna) are definitely the best And, true, just as you said, anyone who can play opposite of Tristan Rogers (Robert), should win an award.

Certainly, anyone as vibrant and pretty as Lehmann, who is also very musically talented, who can come on a soap opera with virtually no acting top 10 best actresses after being on the show for little over a year, cannot be can't see that, then they must be blind.
