Fumes kill worker

Industrial mishap claims life of Southgate man

A 19-year-old Southgate man died Monday when he was overcome by fumes from a cleaning solvent while working at a plant under construction in Plymouth.

The man, Aaron Dohanyos, was found in a 10-foot deep pit at Phoenix Metals, 300 Dunn St., at about 2:30 p.m. by fellow workers, said Plymouth Fire Chief Al Matthews.

"The other workers had pulled him out by the time we arrived," said Matthews.

He said Dohanyos was taken to St. Mary Hospital, Livonia.

Matthews said Dohanyos was employed by a sub-contractor who was cleaning at the plant.

THE VICTIM was using a cleaning solvent in an 8-foot wide by 20-foot long pit that contained a conveyor belt, Matthews said. He said the victim was working alone when the incident occurred.

Three other workers noticed that the victim had passed out and pulled him out of the pit, Matthews said.

The victim was using a cleaning solvent in an 8-foot wide by 20-foot long pit that contained a conveyor belt, fire Chief Al Matthews said. He said the victim was working alone when the incident occurred.

The other workers administered cardiopulmonary resuscitation, Matthews said. He said the victim wasn't breathing when fire fighters and ambulance workers arrived at the scene.

The workers were taken to St. Mary's Hospital for observation. However, none suffered any after effects, said Matthews.

Although an autopsy hasn't been conducted, Matthews said the victim was probably overcome by fumes.

"We had an unfortunate accident occur," said plant manager Jake Jeppesen.

He said workers are in the process of building a plant.

Once complete, "We are going to manufacture a steel powder using a new process developed by Ford Motor Co.," Jeppesen added.

The plant is located in the north section of the city's Old Village area, off of Starkweather and near Wilcox Lake.

A hot time

The temperatures were about 90, but that didn't keep the crowds away Wednesday in Plymouth for the annual 4th of July Parade. Above, members of the Vietnam Veterans of America led the parade down Main Street. But there was more for parade-goers. See page 3A for more photos and a story.

Teen driver rear ends police chief

A 16-year-old Plymouth motorist got the lesson of her driving career last week after she struck a car driven by Plymouth police Chief Richard Myers in Canton.

"Accidents happen," said Myers, who was in an unmarked police car with another officer when the crash occurred at 11:55 a.m. June 28 on Canton Center south of Ford Road.

No one was reported injured at the accident scene.

Much to the chagrin of the Plymouth driver, there were officers everywhere when her auto struck the rear end of Myers' car.

Apart from Myers and his fellow officer, a Canton officer was talking to a motorist on the shoulder of the road issuing a ticket at the scene. Shortly after passing the Canton officer, Myers said he had stopped for traffic north of Ford. The Plymouth girl struck Myers' car.

"Both occupants of my car and all three occupants of her car had seat belts on," Myers said lauding the importance of wearing seat belts. "I highly encourage the wearing of seat belts."

Myers and the other officer were headed to a DARE (Dare to Keep Kids Off Drugs) program in Canton.

Rotarians hear of Eastern Europe's new beginning

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Plymouth Rotarians caught a glimpse of Eastern Europe Friday without budging an inch from their plates of stuffed pork and fresh fish at the Mayflower Meeting House.

Rotary Club presidents from Budapest, Hungary and Prague, Czechoslovakia, were honored as guest speakers.

Drs. Zoltan Falvy and Jiri Vrba were hosted by visiting Rotarian Dr. Bob Everett, a Grosse Pointe dentist.

In short addresses in accented English, Falvy, director of the Hungarian Institute for Musicology, and Vrba, a doctor of economic sciences, described their clubs and the changes revolutionizing their homelands.

The Budapest Rotary club recently marked its first anniversary.

"Our celebration was such an emotional moment. I will never for-

"We are now free. That means very nervous movement. It's not easy. It is a very hard job. We must learn democracy, not in a big context, but in a very small context."

— Zoltan Falvy

get it," said Falvy, who researches Renaissance and medieval music and teaches post-graduate music students.

"We are at the beginning." Hungary's infant democracy, now free of Soviet command, is struggling to establish itself.

"We are now free. That means very nervous movement. It's not easy," said Falvy.

"It is a very hard job. We must learn democracy, not in a big context, but in a very small context."

VRBA HIGHLIGHTED the rocky history of Rotary International in Czechoslovakia.

"Our club was founded in 1925. We had 47 clubs in my country in 1948. We were stronger than Austria and Hungary.

"In 1939 when the Nazis came, we had to stop our clubs.

We started again in 1945. But the Communists came in 1948 and we had to stop our clubs again.

"We started again, for a third time, March 23, 1990. We hope for forever, this time."

Both men told of the beauty of their countries, urging Rotarians to come and see it for themselves. Everett urged club members to sign up for a trip to Eastern Europe he's organized for this fall.

Local schools lose $300,000 in state aid

Related editorial, 8A

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Should Gov. James Blanchard approve the budget passed last week by the Legislature, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will lose about $300,000 in categorical state aid.

Categorical aid covers state payments for Social Security, pensions, bilingual teaching, transportation, special education and gifted and talented programs.

Because the district recently went out-of-formula, it receives no general state membership aid. The district's $68 million 1990-91 budget will be 98.5 percent locally raised revenue, and 1.5 percent categorical state aid.

"This isn't a drastic change for us; we budgeted for it," said Superintendent John Hoben.

"The recapture formula is going to take about $620,000. We budgeted for 15 percent. It'll be closer to 20 percent. We're not happy about this, but you have to deal with what you have. There are a lot of inequities still out there."

All school districts, regardless of wealth, used to get categorical aid. But payments to wealthier districts are increasingly "recaptured," in Lansing jargon.

Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business, said, "We've accounted for $785,000 of a potential cutback, so we've accounted for most of it."

"The impact in Plymouth-Canton schools is much less than in some districts because we anticipated getting hit, and we just went out-of-formula. Districts that have been out-of-formula for awhile, like Livonia, Ann Arbor and Farmington are way out-of-formula and are

Schools in good financial shape

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are in good shape, financially speaking.

The board of education recently approved a $68 million budget with a $6 million surplus for 1990-91. That's up from a total budget of $64 million last year.

Even though the Plymouth-Canton school district is out-of-formula and no longer eligible for state membership aid, its financial future looks bright.

Total revenue is projected to increase this year by $5.8 million, or about 9 percent.

State equalized valuation for 1990 has increased 15.6 percent. Included in the 1990 SEV is $140,673,672 in new property value.

The millage levy of 35.39 mills includes an additional 1.62 mills approved by the board. At the recent public hearing, no citizen input was offered concerning the added millage.

"The best interests of the school district require the levy of 35.39 mills, which is the school district's authorized voter-approved tax rate," board members said.

going to get impacted much greater than us." All the figures are preliminary, Hoedel added.

"It's kind of early to get all of this stuff. We haven't got much in writing yet, and the governor could veto it. The Republicans believe Blanchard may not only veto this, but call lawmakers back to complete their work (despite summer adjournment). No doubt his intention is to keep (Sen. John) Engler in session."

LEGISLATIVE STAFF predicted per-pupil spending in Plymouth-Canton would go up 16 percent in 1990-91 to $5,081.

Not so, say Hoben and Hoedel. Per-pupil spending will increase from $4,122 to $4,542.

The state didn't account for the Headlee rollback, which translates to a 6-mill, or $11-12 million loss in Plymouth-Canton. Nor does the state have copies of school districts' proposed budgets.

"The figures in Lansing are wrong; they didn't take into consideration the Headlee rollback," said Hoben. "That's hurting us worse than other districts, because we've grown so quickly. Headlee has taken care of us in good form. Our millage rates have been impacted very severely by Headlee because our growth came at a time when Headlee was in force."

The district is authorized to levy 41 mills, but is levying 35.39, 1.55 less than last year.

Hoben likened last week's legislative action to "a big chess game. They're just moving money around. They didn't put any more money into it."

Hoben expects the state to continue taking from wealthier districts to give to less affluent ones. And he doubts whether that's the answer.

This may be "just the forerunner. Before too long, we will see Social Security and retirement (payments) become part of the recapture," said Hoben. "I think out-of-formula districts will receive this type of treatment until some sort of parity is reached in terms of dollar equity, if that's what it takes."

"I'm not sure that's what the answer is," he added. "There's a great difference between doing business in an urban area and a rural community. It costs more to do business here than elsewhere. Parity in dollars per child is not necessarily going to guarantee the quality they're looking for. I think we're still headed toward some type of lawsuit, similar to what Kentucky, Texas, New Jersey and the state of Washington are pursuing. At present, there's major reform in both Kentucky and Texas going on."

Eastern Europeans visit, discuss changes

"In Prague, you can see history. Our city is 1,000 years old," said Vrba. "We have more churches in Prague than Rome. You can see old architectural styles, and there's lots of galleries and sightseeing."

"We are quite free now. It is possible to start again."

Everett said Rotary gave him an entree to Prague he'd never have had if it weren't for the club.

"The Czechoslovakian Rotarians gave me and my friends a beautiful tour of Prague even though the pope was in town," said Everett. "You'd be amazed if you went to Prague, Budapest or Moscow for meetings. There you get the true feeling of Rotary."

Everett, president of Travel Key U.S. Exchanges, arranges tours for professionals who wish to meet their counterparts in countries around the world. He's taken more than 7,000 travelers to China in the last seven years.

In answer to a Rotarian who asked how the populace is accepting democracy in Czechoslovakia, Vrba said, "We must learn democracy. It's been two generations that we've been under this system."

"It has spoiled things, so it's a problem. We must learn, we must organize, and get a new structure. Some people aren't used to working hard."

For travelers, the rate of exchange "is good," added Vrba. "It is very good for foreigners. For us it is a problem. We have to change wages, salaries and prices."

"It will take some time, but I'm sure we can get it in some years and join the world economic community."

Cuts won't cripple school district

Expenditures are projected to increase by 11 percent, or $6 million. Enrollment is expected to be the same as 1989-90, or 14,943 students.

Trustee Roland Thomas expressed concern about the size of the $6 million fund balance. He suggested that it be reduced 20 percent, giving residents a .4-mill tax break.

A majority of the board decided it was preferable to leave the fund balance at the present level, reducing over time the debt millage levy instead.

Thomas also asked whether it would be possible to grant senior citizens a tax abatement as money becomes available. Administration is pursuing the issue with its tax attorneys.

Superintendent John Hoben alerted the board that to receive categorical state aid, it might be necessary for the district to reduce the fund balance by about $2,000.

The board also approved $3.4 million in debt payments, leaving a projected debt fund balance of $1,552 as of July 1, 1991.

Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business, said the district's "good, reasonable" fund balance has contributed to the district's enhanced credit rating of AA.

Lunch prices also were set. Meals will be $1.30 in elementary buildings, and $1.65 in middle and high schools. Adult lunches excluding milk will be $2.05, and milk will cost 30 cents.

Overall revenues are up from the 1989-90 budget year when revenue totaled $84 million with a $4.6 million surplus.

State-equalized valuation for 1990 is up 15.6 percent.

District hikes fringes

Here's where the additional expenditures are going:

- Fringe benefits are expected to go up by nearly 7 percent, or $405,589.
- $2 million will go to restoring programs cut during the budget crunch.
- Class size at the elementary level will be reduced by half a student to a 22.5-to-1 ratio.
- A new counseling program is starting at the elementary level. It's designed to address the "needs of students who do not qualify for special education services, but are deemed to be at risk."

- District staff development funds are being restored to .5 percent of the budget, or $320,000.
- $620,000 in textbooks and instructional equipment are being purchased.
- $74,000 is going toward the purchase of instructional computers.
- Utility costs are projected to increase by 6 percent, or $142,920.
- The district's research and testing program also is being restored.
- More students are eligible for bus transportation. All K-5 students who live one mile from school can now take the bus.

Corns: A Common Foot Problem

Corns are raised accumulations of dry skin that occur between a bony prominence on the foot and the shoe. Corns most often result from wearing shoes that fit too tightly. Narrow-toed and high-heeled shoes should be avoided. Women also should avoid using hosiery that fits too tightly. Because the small toe experiences the most pressure, it is the site of many corns. Although corns are not the source of major health problems except in diabetics, they often produce a great deal of discomfort and can impair one's ability to walk or run.

There are several nonprescription drug products that, when applied directly to the skin, aid in the partial or complete removal of corns. Liquids, lotions, and creams are available. Small adhesive discs or pads are designed to be placed directly on the corn. Most of the corn "removal" products contain salicylic acid. This ingredient dissolves the dead skin of which the corn is composed. Using the pad on or around the corn eventually decreases shoe pressure and relieves the pain.

Persons who have diabetes or circulation problems should not attempt to remove corns with over-the-counter products. Damage to the skin could lead to tissue damage and severe infection.

Parade gives spark to Fourth

By Julie Brown
staff writer

It just wouldn't be the Fourth of July without a parade.

There weren't any fireworks in Plymouth or Canton this year, but the Fourth of July parade sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton Jaycees went on as scheduled.

A line of emergency vehicles from Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton got things started. Parade-goers who'd lined up along Main Street in Plymouth watched as floats, antique and classic cars, performing groups and others went by.

Donald and Marcella Burger of Westland have been coming to the parades for a number of years.

"Oh, it's very nice. I think everybody's doing so well considering how warm it is," said Marcella Burger.

THE BURGERS believe it's important to celebrate the Fourth of July. Donald Burger's related to one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, Benjamin Rush. Burger's also a World War II combat veteran who served in France and Germany.

"It brings back memories," he said of the parade, which included representatives from several veterans' organizations.

The Burgers stood up each time a veterans' group carrying the U.S. flag went by.

"I think it's wonderful that a lot of them gave their lives so we could have freedom," she said. "Our freedom is so important and the flag is so important. People don't respect the flag like they should anymore. We should be proud of it and be proud we're Americans."

Brent McMaster, 9, has studied the American Revolution in school. He came to the parade with his parents, Mike and Heather McMaster of Canton, and his brother, Jason, 7.

Both boys enjoyed the parade and were particularly impressed with the antique bicycles. The family has come to the parade in Plymouth for the past several years.

"It's almost a Fourth of July tradition," Mike McMaster said.

A NUMBER of colorful floats were included in the parade. Members of the Plymouth Business and Professional Women had ecology in mind when they created a float reminding people not to litter.

The day's high temperatures presented a challenge for parade watchers and participants alike. Some participants, including members of the Plymouth Fire and Drum Corps and the Polish Centennial Dancers, marched while wearing rather heavy costumes. They did an admirable job of performing under difficult circumstances.

Parade watchers searched along the route, trying to find what little shade they could. The afternoon's temperatures also created overheating problems for a few parade vehicles.

Farmington Hills insurance executive Richard Headlee was the grand marshal for this year's parade. A number of elected officials and political candidates participated.

Members of the Fred Hill Hazy-dashers Briefcase Drill Team marched in the parade, performing for an appreciative audience. Pom-pom squads, the Plymouth Salem Rockettes and Plymouth Canton Chieftes, also marched, as did local Girl and Boy Scouts.

Firefighters and police officers from Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton participated, as did representatives of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. A number of local businesses were also well-represented.

Lisa Pitrowski and Roger Ygeal of the Polish Centennial Dancers give it their best.

It's the year of the Ninja Turtles, and members of the Old Village Association brought the dudes to life for the crowd.

Recycling was the theme of the float cooperatively produced by the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

City, township follow route of cooperation with new float

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

The pro-recycling float scheduled to roll in yesterday's Fourth of July parade could signal a new era of cooperation between city of Plymouth commissioners and Plymouth Township trustees.

The idea for trustees and commissioners to work together on a float "came up a couple, two-three months ago," said township trustee Smith Horton.

Horton came up with the idea, and presented it to other trustees.

"I made the suggestion, almost a tongue-in-cheek suggestion, 'Why don't we do a combined float with the city?'"

"They laughed, and I said, 'I'm serious,' and then they stopped laughing, and said, 'Well maybe we should.'"

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR Maurice Breen presented the idea to city of Plymouth commissioners, and commissioner John Vos III offered to represent the city on the float project.

"Vos and I had a meeting and we had the idea for a recycling theme, and we found out later on that was the theme of the parade anyway. It was kind of a good fit," Horton said.

He suggested that the float demonstrate recycling from beginning to end — starting with the recovery of the material and showing the finished product — to encourage the public to recycle.

THANKS TO township resident and retired Ford Motor Co. engineer Patrick Cotter, a conveyor shown on the float — which symbolizes used cans being deposited into a foundry that breaks them down — was designed and built.

The float was constructed on a 16-foot trailer. Township building inspector John Van Hemel, along with Horton and commissioner Ralph (Jack) Kenyon, did much of the construction.

That work was wrapped up on Saturday, as Horton, some city commissioners and wives "showed up with paint brushes and helped us finish off this thing."

While there was some talk of trustees and commissioners riding on the float during the parade, "I didn't want any politicians," Horton said. "I didn't want to distract from the message."

"We wanted to stress recycling and cooperation between the city and the township."

FOUR YOUTHS who work at the city's recycling center were scheduled to ride on the float. The conveyor was powered by generators in the dump truck that was scheduled to pull the float.

"Primarily it's kind of a recycling awareness thing," as both the township and city are encouraging citizens to recycle to reduce the cost of hauling trash to landfills.

"And then there's the other part. It's a way of getting more familiar with each other. It could make it easier to work on some real meaningful project."

Youngster shines with TV star

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

Kermit the frog didn't think it was easy to be green, but friends of 7-year-old Julia Anderson might easily be green with envy over her experience last weekend.

Anderson, a budding thespian from Canton, got to perform with Bob McGrath, the star of TV's "Sesame Street."

McGrath did a matinee at the Meadowbrook Music Festival with Anderson and about 30 other students of the Actors Alliance Theatre Company in Southfield. Jeffrey Nahan, the theatre company's founder and artistic director, coordinated the alliance between the youngsters and McGrath, but the whole thing began because of a letter Anderson wrote to McGrath.

"I had seen him on 'Sesame Street' and I thought his voice was really good," she said. She said she thought his voice was even good enough to blend well with Whitney Houston, one of Anderson's favorite singers, and she told McGrath that in the letter. In return, she got a letter and picture from him.

Knowing that McGrath had performed at Meadowbrook in summer's past, the youngster decided to write and see if she could be a part of his show. McGrath was game.

"He wanted me to get kids in every number. It would have taken me months to rehearse," Nahan said.

Anderson, who said she plans to pursue a career in the theater, was in the group that sang "Who Are the People in Your Neighborhood."

Julia Anderson, 7, turned Bob McGrath of TV's "Sesame Street" into a fan during her performance at Meadowbrook.

Car-truck crash kills woman

By Susan Gale
Staff Writer

A 23-year-old Ann Arbor woman died Monday when the car she was driving struck a gravel trailer truck on Geddes Road south of Michigan Avenue.

The accident occurred about 10 a.m. and the victim, Ju-Chin Chiang, was pronounced dead on arrival at 10:30 a.m. at Ann Arbor Hospital, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Witnesses told police that the woman ran a red light while traveling west on Geddes when her car was struck by another car going through a light south on Canton Center, Canton police said. The impact sent her car into a spin and it struck a truck going west on Geddes. She was wearing a seat belt, police said.

It was the sixth fatal auto accident in Canton since January. There were seven fatalities in the township last year, according to Pat Nemecek, Canton police information officer.

Another fatal accident in Canton occurred Friday evening.

A 41-year-old New Boston man, Bruce Rousse, was killed after his motorcycle went out of control about 10:30 p.m. on Michigan and Belleville Road, police said.

ROUSSE WAS pronounced dead on arrival at 11:03 p.m. in Ann Arbor Hospital, a hospital spokeswoman said. He was traveling eastbound on Michigan Avenue just west of Belleville Road.

A witness said the motorcycle driver sped up to a trailer hauling a boat.

"At that point the bike lost control and went down," Nemecek said. "Whether he hit the trailer or not, we don't know."

Witnesses said that before the accident the motorcycle was racing a car, at speeds of more than 70 mph, in and out of traffic, according to a police report.

The driver of the car, a 27-year-old Livonia man, registered 0.18 on the Breathalyzer test. A blood-alcohol level of more than 0.10 is considered legally drunk in Michigan.

THE DRIVER of the car knew the victim, police said, their relationship is unclear.

"His story was that he was telling the motorcycle driver not to drive and to pull over," Nemecek said.

Rousse was thrown to the shoulder of the road and the driver of the car following him struck the motorcycle, which remained in the roadway, police said.

"It doesn't appear that there is anyone to charge," according to Canton police Lt. Larry Stewart. "The accident appears to have been the fault of the driver of the motorcycle."

Police are still waiting for toxicology reports to determine the blood alcohol level of the victim.

The other accident fatalities in Canton this year were at Ford Road and I-275 Jan. 8; at Lilley Road and Michigan Avenue March 11; at Michigan and Lotz Road March 19; and at Ford and Lilley May 14.

Woman says mystery caller wanted drugs, threatened her life

A Plymouth Township woman, 51, told police she was surprised by a 3 a.m. caller Thursday, who introduced himself by saying, "Hey b—, this is Gomez, where's my drugs?"

According to the report she filed with township police, the caller continued, "If you don't get my drugs, I'll kill you."

The woman told police she knows nobody named Gomez, and added that her car was stolen earlier this year and the call could be related to that theft.

GOO YOUNG: Plymouth Township police ticketed a 13-year-old township boy Thursday for driving

crime watch

his mother's car.

Police were alerted to the boy driving the car by a neighbor on Turtlehead Court, police said. After spotting the boy pulling the car into a driveway, police approached him, and he told them he'd had a copy made of his mother's car key.

The ticket was issued at 6:25 p.m.

CSX TICKETED: Twice within an hour on Monday morning, CSX Transportation was cited for obstructing traffic.

Motorists were held up by a CSX train at the Starkweather Street crossing from 9:31 a.m. until 9:51 a.m. The second offense occurred at the Farmer Street crossing. Traffic was obstructed from 10:01 a.m. until 10:20 a.m. by a northbound train.

Delaying traffic for more than five minutes is against a city ordinance.

CSX was assigned a court date.

SKATEBOARD ARRESTS: A 19-year-old youth was arrested on a Waterford Township larceny charge by Plymouth police at about 1:30 a.m. Monday in the central parking deck in downtown Plymouth. Police saw the Florida resident skateboarding with two companions on the parking deck.

He was arrested, transported to the station, booked, and turned over to Waterford police. His friends, an 18-year-old Plymouth youth and an 18-year-old from Waterford, were ticketed for violating an ordinance prohibiting skateboarding on public property.

The skateboards, one of which said "Keep kids off drugs" on its belly, were confiscated. They're valued at $150 apiece.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION: A 75-year-old Plymouth woman was watching television Saturday night when she heard something hit her window. The next day, she realized her window was broken.

Police who came to her house Sunday found a white marble on the sill between the screen and the window.

Officers said a slingshot was used to propel the marble through the single pane window and screen. There are no witnesses or suspects. Damage is estimated at $75.

S'craft building sets sights high

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

The sky is the limit for Schoolcraft College's new college services building — or at least the third floor.

College officials are considering a building of "two to three stories," according to college vice president for business services Adelard Raby III.

If so, it could make it the tallest building on the college's Livonia campus.

"From Haggerty (Road), it probably would be the tallest," Raby said. "I think the physical education building may be a little taller, but it's down in a hollow."

The new building would include registration, counseling and learning assistance center offices, as well as a new student activities center, among other offices.

GROUND COULD be broken as soon as next spring, Raby said, though the building isn't expected to be occupied until 1993.

College officials estimated the new building would require as much as 57,000 square feet — about two-thirds the size of the entire Schoolcraft College-Radcliff building in Garden City.

College officials are looking at ways of making the building smaller, Raby said, though he doubted it would shrink below 50,000 square feet.

Most campus buildings are one story, though the Waterman Campus Center has upper and lower levels. Waterman, however, isn't a model for the new building.

"That's not really a true two-story building," Raby said. "It's really a one-story building with a penthouse."

College officials are considering adding at least two stories to the new building because of its projected size, as well as the topography of the selected site. Due to a 15 foot slope, Raby said, it would require would require considerable filling and leveling for a sprawling one-story building.

"WE'VE PRETTY much ruled out a one-story building," he said.

The new building would be paid for through proceeds of Schoolcraft's partnership with Duke Associates, developer of the Seven Mile Crossing office complex on college land.

Its primary purpose is to consolidate services now provided in a series of small houses on Haggerty, south of the college. Those houses would be destroyed, Raby said.

County budget shows surplus

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Wayne County recorded a budget surplus in 1989, for the second year in a row — marking the first back-to-back yearly surpluses since county audits began in the early '70s.

According to audit figures released Monday, the county ended the last fiscal year with a slight $375,278 surplus. It posted a $433,000 surplus last year.

"This isn't as dramatic as the days of payless paydays, but it's welcome news," county Executive Edward McNamara said.

The surplus — less than one-tenth of one percent of the county operating budget — will be credited toward this year's budget, McNamara said.

The county was exempted by state law from having to audit its finances until the early '70s.

'This isn't as dramatic as the days of payless paydays, but it's welcome news.'

— Edward McNamara county executive

The county's new indigent health care plan, implemented in 1988, and reduced sheriff's department overtime, were keys to balancing the budget, McNamara said.

THOUGH THE sheriff's department spending exceeded budget projections, McNamara declined to criticize Sheriff Robert Ficano.

Instead, McNamara praised the department for trimming jail overtime.

Overtime for jail deputies cost the county about $1.5 million last year, compared with more than $2.6 million in 1988. The $1.1 million saving represented a spending reduction of about 44 percent.

County officials hope the new audit figures will help the county improve its bond rating — making bonds less expensive to issue for a number of county projects, including a new golf course and morgue.

The new county golf course, planned for the Inkster Road/Middlebelt area of Inkster, is currently held up due to a wetlands dispute with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, McNamara said.

The new morgue is sought for an area near Wayne State University. WSU students have traditionally used the morgue as a learning laboratory.

County bonds are currently rated BB-plus by Standard & Poor's Corp. and Ba by Moody's Investor's Service, Inc. Both ratings are just below investment grade, county officials said.

Investment-grade bonds, given A ratings or better, are less risky and do not have to provide investors with the higher interest rates associated with lower-rated, riskier, bonds.

Wayne County's bond ratings have been upgraded twice within the past 18 months, assistant county executive Lester Robinson said.

THE AUDIT involved Wayne County's $273 million operating budget. It was conducted by the national accounting firm of Ernst & Young.

Wayne County had an accumulated debt of at least $135 million before its 1987 debt-reduction agreement with the state. That agreement, which provided the county with new cigarette tax and airport parking tax revenue, is based on the county's ability to keep its budget balanced.

Locals get jump on new county recycling plan

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Westland and Garden City residents could soon begin recycling trash at multiple, rotating sites. Redford residents might soon begin "drive-thru" recycling. And Plymouth Township residents will soon have reusable items picked up curbside.

All area residents are soon going to begin recycling.

Wayne County Commissioners moved recycling a step forward last week, approving a plan that calls for one drop off center for every 100,000 county residents.

"I think this is as strong a step as we could take for recycling that would be feasible," said Wayne County Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, chairman of the county's Solid Waste Implementation Committee. "This is a recycling-driven plan, not an incineration-driven plan."

Though required to begin recycling by Jan. 1, many area communities began developing recycling plans even before Wednesday's commission action.

"I'd say a lot of our communities are already looking at recycling, though some are a little further along than others," said Daniel Gilman of the Conference of Western Wayne.

The move is expected to spur curbside recycling in many communities.

Curbside pickup will begin in Plymouth Township after Labor Day, Supervisor Maurice Breen said.

Breen, who investigated solid waste issues on behalf of the CWW, called the county plan "as good a document as we were going to get."

"AS A practical matter, I don't think we have a problem (with the plan)," Breen said, speaking on behalf of the 18-community conference.

Neighboring Plymouth, the area's smallest community, has operated a voluntary drop off site for nearly a year and recently instituted curbside pickup of yard waste.

"About one-third of our homeowners are using the drop off site," assistant city manager Paul Sincovek said. "For a voluntary site, that's pretty amazing."

Livonia, with more than 100,000 people, might have to develop two sites, while smaller communities can band together into a single site.

Livonia already operates a drop off center, Mayor Robert Bennett said, and plans for curbside recycling could be developed in "30-60 days."

Speculation on a second drop off center, the mayor said, is just that.

"I've heard it mentioned, but I don't think it's going to be necessary," Bennett said. "I think the new census will show us just about where we are (about 104,000)."

In Redford, a drive-through center is being proposed by the township and its trash-hauler, Browning-Ferris Industries.

"It's before our site committee," Supervisor James Kelly said. "We're also looking at beginning recycling, on a trial basis, this summer."

Garden City, Westland and other members of the Central Wayne Sanitation Authority are considering a weekend drop off center that would rotate among all member communities — at least as a temporary step toward recycling.

"It could be in Garden City one weekend, Dearborn Heights the next," City Manager Jon Austin of Garden City said.

Canton Supervisor Thomas Yack said response to his community's drop off site has been so great, a second, mini-site is being added at the township hall.

"People are really getting behind recycling," Yack said.

Sanitation authority members, including Inkster and Wayne, are being given until 1994 to implement mandatory recycling plan because they currently send waste to an incinerator.

Communities without incinerators, including Livonia, Redford, Plymouth and Plymouth and Canton townships, are given until 1992.

IN ADDITION to recycling, the plan allows for new landfills in Sumpter and Van Buren townships and allows expansion of the Woodland Meadows landfill, Wayne Disposal landfill, Van Buren Township and Riverview Land Preserve.

"The Woodland Meadows expansion is slight," Mack said. "It would probably only give them another year of operation."

Allowing additional landfills wouldn't lessen recycling efforts, Mack added.

"We obviously can't recycle everything," he said. "There's still going to be a need for landfills."

Despite county commission approval, the plan must also be approved by 29 of Wayne county's 43 communities and by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Mack said he was optimistic approval would soon be forthcoming from both groups.

"I think people see recycling as the way of the future," he said. "Wayne County would be leading the way."

Gilman, however, pointed out that collecting trash in only half the battle.

"Collection is really the easy part," he said. "The harder part is going to be finding someone to process it and markets once it's recycled."

Iran quake aid sought

The Salvation Army's Plymouth Township office is accepting donations to aid victims of the earthquake last month in Iran.

The quake, "which left an estimated 500,000 persons homeless, has prompted an outpouring of concern and response by Americans and by Michigan residents," said Salvation Army spokeswoman Patricia Ellis.

Capt. Robert Thomson, director of social services for the Salvation Army, said, "The army is accepting financial contributions and seeing to it that these funds are transferred to the affected region.

"We are not able to accept donations of clothing or other items at this time because we have no way of transporting these items to Iran," he added.

People wanting to contribute can send checks or money orders marked "Iranian earthquake relief" to the Salvation Army, 9451 S. Main, Plymouth Township, 48170.

Donations by cash, check or money order are also accepted at that office from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1:45 p.m. weekdays.

Concerts offer summer fun

By Julie Brown
staff writer

FOR MUSIC-LOVERS, Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth's the place to be in the summer.

The Plymouth Community Band and the Plymouth Community Arts Council each present a summertime concert series in the park. The band's "Concerts in the Park" series is the older of the two, with the first performance held in June of 1960.

"It's our most visible thing that we do," said Carl Battishill of Plymouth, director of the Plymouth Community Band. "It's the thing that we are known for."

Band concerts are held at 8 p.m. each Thursday in the park, Main at Ann Arbor Trail. This summer's final performance will be Thursday, July 26.

THE BAND, which is celebrating its 30th anniversary this year, also presents concerts during the school year in the Little Theatre at Plymouth Canton High School.

The summertime "Music in the Park" series has been offered in recent years by the Plymouth Community Arts Council. The free concerts, featuring different performers each week, are held from noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays and will continue through Wednesday, Aug. 22.

"Crowds are larger than ever," said Christa Grix of Plymouth Township, a professional harpist and coordinator of "Music in the Park."

A little bit of magic's included in the arts council concerts. Magician Chris Vos performs from 11:30 a.m. to noon before each Wednesday concert.

The council's June 27 concert featured a performance by the Jubilate Bell Choir from the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

"I wanted to present groups in Plymouth that were of professional caliber," Grix said. "There's nothing more beautiful, I think, than handbells."

The Plymouth Community Band's June 28 concert had a "Star-Spangled Spectacular" theme for the Fourth of July. Trombone soloist John Zagorski performed with the band.

Zagorski, a recent Centennial Educational Park graduate, plans to attend the University of Michigan School of Music this fall. He recently won a scholarship from the band. Jason Loiselle, the other scholarship winner, performed as a soloist with the band in May.

SEVERAL BAND members have contributed either 29 or 30 years of service. Carolyn Weage, a trumpet player, Jack Wells, a saxophonist, and Vic Ferrari, a tuba player, are among those longtime members.

Band members range in age from 14 or so on up to their late 70s, said Battishill, who is also the director of

CHILDREN FROM the Victorian era didn't spend all their time studying and doing chores. They also had some time to play.

That's plain to see from looking at the current exhibit at the Plymouth Historical Museum. "The Good Old Summertime" exhibit, featuring toys and games from the Victorian era, will continue through Sept. 2 at the museum, 155 S. Main.

"Most all of this is our own collection," said Beth Stewart, museum director. The exhibit opened recently and has been popular with children who visit the museum. Most items are from the Victorian era, although some are more modern.

"Paper dolls are a biggie." Some of the paper dolls date back to the 1860s and 1870s, and were cut out of the Godey's Lady Book, a magazine of that era.

MORE RECENTLY, another magazine, McCall's, adopted the practice of including paper dolls in its pages. Stewart remembers anticipating the arrival of that magazine when she was a child.

"So you're talking about something that's been popular for a long time."

Victorian dolls with porcelain heads are also included in the exhibit. Some of those dolls were bought by collectors, rather than being played with by Victorian-era girls, Stewart said.

A Daisy air rifle is included in the exhibit. The air rifles were manufactured in Plymouth for a number of years prior to the company's move to Rogers, Ark., in the late 1950s.

The museum also has a separate room to house the extensive collection of Daisy air rifles. Earlier air rifles, made of wood, were produced in Plymouth by the Markham Manufacturing Co.

After the Civil War, tin and iron became available for making toys. Mechanical banks became popular with children, as did other new kinds of toys. Smaller mechanical parts became available following the Industrial Revolution, and many toys became more intricate.

A painted toy truck from the World War II era is included in the exhibit. The truck was made of leftover welding materials from a Detroit-area business and given to the

anniversaries

Couple marks 60th anniversary

Lester and Elsie Hall of Canton recently celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. They were guests at a June 24 reception in honor of their 20th anniversary.

The couple's children hosted the afternoon reception in Guthrie Hall of the Newburg United Methodist Church in Livonia.

Lester Hall, a printer/Linotype operator, retired in 1971 after 22 years with the University of Michigan printing department and 45 years in his trade, working on newspapers and in printing plants.

The Halls have been active members of the Methodist Church for a number of years. They met in October 1929 on a blind date and have spent their entire married life in Michigan.

During his retirement, Hall's chief hobbies have been writing and gardening. His wife's interests include knitting, sewing and gardening. They have also enjoyed traveling during their retirement years.

Their children are: Jeanette (John) Carlson of Pontiac; Floyd (Sarah Jane) Hall of Dane, Wis., and Lawrence (Doris) Hall of Alma, Mich. The Halls also have seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

sons of Joe Kari, a Plymouth Historical Society member. He gave the truck to the museum.

DOMINOES, MARBLES and jacks are featured in the exhibit, along with other things used by children today such as bicycles, wagons and bikes.

"Kids still have wagons and bikes," said Stewart, a Plymouth Township resident. "My kids have hula hoops. I think they still identify."

Younger children have continued to play with blocks, dolls and other toys, although older children often have more sophisticated toys.

"Kids today take off into the electronic age," she said. Nintendo games and other modern-day items aren't included in the exhibit.

Many adults who visit the museum enjoy seeing toys they remember from their own childhood. Even younger adults such as Stewart recognize some of the toys.

"I was a TV kid too, though. I think it all started to change a bit then." Like many parents, she needs to give her children a bit of a push to turn off the TV and go outside to play on a nice day.

"The Good Old Summertime" exhibit will continue through Sept. 2 at the Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main at Church in downtown Plymouth. Museum hours are 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. Admission price is $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for students ages 5-17. Family rate is $4. For more information, call 455-8940.

Choir takes to the great outdoors

By Julie Brown
staff writer

The Jubilate Bell Choir usually performs during Sunday worship services, but last week choir members did something a little bit different.

The 12 ringers performed in an outdoor concert at Plymouth's Kellogg Park, something they'd never done before.

"I really enjoyed it," said Bonnie Myhrum of Plymouth, choir director. "It was so different from what we usually do."

The bell choir, formed in 1983, is affiliated with the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. Ringers performed at a Wednesday, June 27, concert presented by the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

Last week's Kellogg Park concert included several guest musicians from other area churches. Typically, those who perform with the Jubilate Bell Choir are First Presbyterian Church members or have family ties to the Plymouth church, Myhrum said.

SHE EARNED a bachelor's degree in music from Alma College and taught elementary school music before her children were born. Myhrum, membership secretary at the First Presbyterian Church, started by ringing in a bell choir in New Jersey when her family lived there.

She got the job of bell choir director when the group was formed a few years ago at the Plymouth church. Ringers perform at about one worship service per month and also appear at festivals.

They've appeared along with several other area bell choirs in performances at the First Baptist Church of Plymouth. Myhrum's an occasional substitute for that church's bell choir.

It took some extra effort for Jubilate Bell Choir members to prepare for last week's performance. They usually rehearse Monday evenings during the school year and take a break in the summer. This year, they extended their rehearsal schedule through June to prepare for the "Music in the Park" concert.

The performance gave audience members a chance to see and hear a bell choir, something some people don't have a chance to do, Myhrum said. Ringers performed a number of familiar hymns along with some classical music and other secular selections.

LAST WEEK'S concert ended with a performance of several Disney tunes, including the "Mickey Mouse" theme, "Whistle While You Work" and "It's a Small World." Ringers had played that music for a festival.

"It's fun to do it, but we couldn't play it for church," she said.

The musicians buy handbell arrangements, and some music's been written especially for handbells.

"It gives people who are not singers an opportunity to be musical."

Ringers occasionally perform with a choir at the church. Bell choirs can also perform with a flutist or with musicians playing brass instruments.

"So you can find an arrangement for just about anything you want to do, really," Myhrum said. "We always get a positive response when we ring for the worship services."

It's only been in the last 30 years or so that handbell choirs have become common at U.S. churches. The American Guild of English Handbell Ringers includes members throughout the U.S., with its largest concentration in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

"I think it's probably one of the most active," the guild headquarters is in Dayton, Ohio, helping to attract members from the Midwest, she said.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

The ringers wear white gloves during performances, and that's not done just for style. Wearing gloves helps to protect the bells from becoming pitted.

The bells are polished weekly with cloths, and must also be cleaned periodically. They're relatively fragile and fairly expensive. The two largest bells each cost more than $300 and the smallest is priced at about $75.

At the First Presbyterian Church, bells used by the choir have been given either as memorials or in honor of a special occasion such as a wedding anniversary.

"So it makes a really nice memorial that people are going to see all the time, see and hear," Myhrum said.

Jubilate Bell Choir members perform during a "Music in the Park" concert in Kellogg Park.

bands at West Bloomfield High School. The band's size ranges from 45 to 65 members, with about 60 at a typical summertime concert.

"The concert series gives us our best forum as far as an audience goes," he said. Many parents enjoy bringing children to the free Thursday concerts.

"The kids seem to enjoy it just as much as the senior citizens."

Band members rehearse each Tuesday evening for their upcoming performance.

"We try our best to provide a variety of music," said Battishill, who has directed the band for 11 years. Show tunes, marches and others are featured each summer. He looks for music that audiences and band members will enjoy.

SOME BAND members are music teachers, but most work in other fields, are retired or are in school. They're not paid for their efforts but do enjoy their time performing.

"That's why they're there," he said. "They're all there because they like to play."

Recently, band members took their show on the road. Some 47 musicians traveled north to Mackinac City to perform in a park there.

Battishill's confident band members will continue to perform and will celebrate their 50th anniversary a few years down the road. The musicians are committed to continuing to present free concerts.

July sky features meteor shower, lunar opposition

In July, the earth is farthest from the sun, two planets are at opposition while two others are in conjunction with the sun, there is a meteor shower, and there is a total eclipse of the sun (which is not visible from our area).

The length of the day begins to decrease in July. Sunrise on the 1st was at 5:59 a.m.; sunset was at 9:12 p.m., allowing for a possible 15 minutes of sunshine. On the 31st, these times are 6:23 a.m. and 8:53 p.m., for a possible 14 hours and 30 minutes of sun. This is 43 minutes less light than we had at the beginning of the month.

Earth was at apogee (AP oh gee) at 1 a.m. on July 4. We are at our greatest distance from the sun; 152,089,120 kilometers (94,503,798 miles).

Raymond E. Bullock

The orbit of the earth is not circular. Like all the other planets, our orbit is elliptical (oval). We have a closest point and a farthest point from the sun in our orbit. Surprisingly, we in the Northern Hemisphere have the hottest weather when we are the farthest from the sun, and the coldest weather when we are the closest!

Our seasons are caused by the tilt of the earth's axis, rather than our distance to the sun. If we had no tilt, we would have no seasonal changes. In July, the Northern Hemisphere is tilted toward the sun; we receive more direct rays of sunlight. In January we are actually closest to the sun, but our hemisphere is tilted away from the sun at that time, so we receive less direct sunlight, hence colder temperatures.

The moon has a very close conjunction (grouping) with the star Antares (an TAR ees), the "heart" of Scorpius, on the evening of July 4. The moon passes 0.2 degrees below Antares. When will the moon pass Antares again? (Use the moon's sidereal period which is given above.)

The planet Neptune is at opposition on the 5th. Neptune is located opposite the sun, as seen from the earth. That means Neptune will rise in the southeast as the sun sets in the northwest. The bad news is because of Neptune's great distance, it is only visible through a telescope.

FULL MOON occurs at 9:23 p.m. on July 7. This could also be considered a "lunar opposition!" The moon is opposite the sun and fully lighted. The moon will rise in the southeast as the sun sets in the northwest and be visible all night. About six degrees to the east (left) of the moon is Saturn.

If you consider just the sidereal period of the moon, you can calculate when the moon will pass this part of the sky again. But now you have to consider the motion of Saturn as well! Unlike stars, which never seem to change their positions, planets have an orbital motion all their own. Because Saturn is moving westward through the stars of Sagittarius, the moon will pass Saturn in less than 27 days.

You might also assume that you can use the sidereal period of the moon to determine the date of the next full moon, but that is not the case. The phase of the moon depends on the alignment of the moon, the earth and the sun. During the 27 days it takes the moon to complete its sidereal period, the earth is also moving around the sun.

In order to get back into the full phase, the moon must move an additional two days and five hours worth to make up for the movement of the earth. So the total time to get from one full moon (or any particular phase) back to another is 29 days, 12 hours, 44 minutes and 2.8 seconds. This is called the synodic (sun OD ic) period.

Saturn is 1.5 degrees north of (above) the moon on the morning of the 8th. Saturn will be at opposition on the 14th.

Introducing our seven-year mortgage with refinance option.
Based upon a $75,000 purchase price, a $15,000 (20%) down payment and a $60,000 loan balance, here's an example of how the program would work. The first year's interest rate of 8.50% would amount to twelve payments of $461.35.
For the thirteenth through eighty-third payments, the interest rate would increase to 9.50%, making the payments $504.52. The final payment would be $57,001.62. This program provides a conditional

Cruising the inland waterways Touring through the canal locks and lifts of Wales

By John Handley
special writer

"There is nothing, absolutely nothing, half so much worth doing as simply messing about in boats."

When Kenneth Grahame put those words into the mouth of the Water Rat from his book, "The Wind In The Willows," pleasure boating on the canals of England was not yet the major vacation activity that it is today. But for five good friends who tried it, the words would express the delightful week spent cruising the inland waterways of Shropshire and Wales on the Llangollen Canal in the Water Bramble.

The Water Bramble is an updated version of the canal boats that were towed by horses along the waterways more than 180 years ago.

The five crew mates were: myself, alias, Skipper; first mate, Kay, of Lathrup Village; and able seamen, Maggie Brown of Boston and Ned and Alison Collett of Brewster, Mass. We've been friends for more than 35 years and it was a good thing; the confines of a 7-foot wide canal boat are no place for mere acquaintances.

The canals that line the British Inland Waterways system for hundreds of miles are the result of a canal-building boom that spanned a period from 1780 to 1840. The original purpose of the canals was to provide transport for the raw materials of industry and finished products, to factory and marketplace in a growing industrial England.

TODAY, THE English and thousands of boaters from all over the world cruise the waterways. As one fellow boater put it, "It's the fastest way I know to slow down."

Our cruise began on a Saturday in late September from the Cheshire town of Nantwich, near the border of Wales. Nantwich is an attractive community on the Shropshire Union Canal. Several marinas in Nantwich provide boat rentals for those who plan to spend a week or more cruising this part of the canal system.

We planned to prepare most of our meals in the galley of our rented boat, so Kay, Alison and Maggie spent time shopping in Nantwich grocery stores and the weekend farmer's market.

We skippered the ship ourselves, no hired boat person came along, so we had to negotiate the canals and work the locks on our own.

The Water Bramble is a 60-foot-long, 7-foot-wide steel canal boat. Designed to sleep six people, it is powered by a small diesel engine which chugs along at a leisurely four miles per hour.

The boat was snug inside with a small toilet including a wash basin and shower; a galley with a small fridge, gas stove, a sink with hot and cold running water, and a "telly" tucked in one corner. Settees doubled as seating space during the day and sleeping accommodations at night.

Our outbound route had been planned to take us to the town of Llangollen in Wales, about 46 miles from our starting point. The countryside rises slowly over that distance for a gain in elevation of about 142 feet. This means we travel through 21 locks over 46 miles which lift us up and over the hills.

THE LOCKS on the Llangollen Canal are barely seven feet wide, which accounts for the narrow beam required of the boats that use them, as well as the term "narrow boats." Guiding our 60-foot-long craft into the narrow confines of the lock chamber proved to be something of a challenge at first and we rattled a few tea cups before getting the hang of it.

Fortunately, the boats are built to take a few bumps and you're not expected to be experts the first day. After negotiating four sets of locks Saturday, we moored for the night, confident that we could manage.

Mooring is simply finding a convenient stretch of bank on the towpath side of the canal, driving in a couple of mooring stakes and tying up securely. While Ned and I made sure we wouldn't drift away while we slept, the rest of the crew got busy in the kitchen and we were soon enjoying our first meal aboard; fresh fish purchased that morning from Nantwich. We tucked in early in anticipation of a leisurely cruise the next day in lovely English fall weather.

The next morning we were greeted with clear skies and the promise of a lovely day. But leisurely, it was not. Before we moored for the night, we negotiated 15 sets of locks, including the famous Grindley Brook "staircase" and cranked up and down an uncounted number of lift bridges, all by hand!

Working the locks is quite simple, but a very physical task. When in doubt, we consulted the instruction books provided by the boat leasing company.

THE LLANGOLLEN Canal took us through some lovely countryside, most of it in Shropshire. The canal winds peacefully through rolling meadows dotted with sheep and cows. We saw country villages in the distance with steeped churches silhouetted against the skyline, and flowers and ferns were seen growing from the canal bank. In many places the canal-side is heavily wooded

Sea World splashes in with summer

Six live shows feature a macho male, his buxom consort and plenty of jiggle.

Sound like a Las Vegas review?

No way. Shamu and his mate, Namu, show off to the delight of kids at Sea World. The jiggle comes strictly from marine blubber.

Once again, it's family fun time at this beautifully landscaped marine life park outside Cleveland, Ohio.

Sea World is easily accessible from Ohio Turnpike exits 12 and 13 and is the largest attraction of its kind.

This year from May to September, these 90 acres of marine life come to age. Sea World celebrates its 21st birthday by offering more than 20 exhibits and attractions.

The Royal Lipizzan Stallions, daring waterskiers in cat costumes and performing wild birds have given joy to families and educated kids for years; but the sentimental favorites continue to be Shamu and Namu.

These majestic killer whales seem to dance and dive just to get folks in the grand stand all wet.

Shamu and Namu have their own fancy marine apartments at Sea World stadium since they are both stars. Their lofty status has not prompted them to snobishness.

Weighing more than three tons, Shamu loves to kiss kids brave enough to risk getting wet. Namu seems equally friendly when the fans approach her tank at the end of each show.

Bottlenose dolphins also demonstrate their strength and agility and jump extremely high for the rewards of applause and a few tasty fish. At the dolphin petting pool, youngsters get a closer look at these intelligent, affectionate creatures.

home at the park, which is about a four hour drive from Detroit. Fourteen snow-white stallions and mares perform in a new section, romantically called "The Vienna Woods."

Since 1562 they've performed for kings, and in the 20th century the horses have pleased full houses at Madison Square Garden and Radio City. Now the Lipizzans prance in a riding area with seating for 3,000 in a lovely wooded area of Sea World.

Anchors away for summer

You've heard all those wonderful statistics about Michigan being the boating capital of the world — more boats per capita than any other state and 3,000 miles of Great Lakes shoreline.

Please salute the Michigan flag and John Savich, director of the Michigan Travel Bureau, who has done more to promote Michigan in recent years than anyone else I know.

Savich certainly mentions all those fishing boats when he sells Michigan in London, Ontario, or London, England, but I'm not sure whether he mentions the most important boating events of the Michigan season. The Milk Carton Regatta, for example, or the Rubber Duck Race.

I LOVE boats, but they don't always love me, so I'm proud to talk about the 18-pound coho salmon I caught while fishing Lake Michigan. But I'm not so proud of the fact that I had to be taken ashore while the rest of the salmon population was leaping around me, begging to be hooked.

That's why I love all boat-related events that we can enjoy this weekend and next. I can don a sailor's cap and root the boats on, but I don't have to get seasick.

My kind of boat race is the Milk Carton Regatta, which winds up the Traverse City Cherry Festival every year on Lake Michigan at the shoreline of Clinch Park. It has to be very near the shoreline because all the boats must be floated on milk cartons, and they don't make it more than 100 yards or so.

THE NATIONAL Cherry Festival starts this weekend July 7, so you can expect this marine spectacular to take place Saturday, July 14, as the sun goes down and the festival ends. Mariners from around the bay will wear their silliest costume and get very wet as their boats sink close to shore.

Never has a navy armada been cheered with such enthusiasm.

This enthusiasm also accompanies the Rubber Duck Race July 12 when 1,500 rubber duckies race down the Boardman River in Traverse City vying for honors that the Spanish Armada would envy. Call (800)-TRAVERS for information.

If you prefer more stately marine activities, you will probably choose the Michigan Brown Trout Festival July 14-22 in Alpena, where nearly 800 anglers will compete for $30,000 in prizes while we shoreline sailors eat and drink our way through these summer days. Call (800) 582-1906 for more information.

SPEAKING OF stately, the U.S. Coast Guard celebrates its bicentennial this year, so there will be fun and games at the Coast Guard Festival July 21 through Aug. 5 in Grand Haven. The boats will parade down the river as they always do. Onlookers will carry their chairs to their spot on the grass as they always do. You can pinpoint the special events by calling (616) 846-5511.

I know some of you like to sing Old Man River without getting your feet wet. The Chesaning Showboat Festival July 8-14 at Chesaning is designed just for you. Climb aboard, go around the bend (I like that part) and let the professional entertainment take the stage. For information, call (517) 845-3055.

MOST OF that is in the slow lane, which is where most of us are during this Fourth of July season, but if you prefer living at a hundred miles an hour, consider the International Outboard Grand Prix July 13-15 in Bay City. Top competitors from all over the United States will be doing 100 mph on the Saginaw River. Call (517) 893-1222 for information.

A narrow adventure through the canals

with centuries old trees arching over the waterway.

We had chosen the Llangollen Canal because it included in its length some unusual features, among them, underground canal boating. The early canal builders found it easier to take the canal through a hillside rather than over or around it. The Ellesmere Tunnel is a perfect example. For nearly 87 yards, the canal is underground.

Another tunnel, near Chirk in Wales, was even longer, stretching one quarter of a mile. The underground canals are only wide enough for one boat at a time and along side of our boat in the dark, was the narrow ledge used by the horses as a tow path many years ago.

Not long after negotiating the Ellesmere Tunnel, we met another of the reasons we had chosen the Llangollen for our cruise; the water bridge or aqueduct. To reach the town of Llangollen, the canal must cross two deep valleys, the Ceiriog and the Dee. To accomplish this, the canal designers built first the Chirk Aqueduct, and to span the River Dee, the Pontcysyllte, one of the most astonishing pieces of canal architecture in the world.

This 1007-foot-long aqueduct carries the Llangollen Canal a dizzying 120 feet above the foaming waters of the River Dee. Crossing it is as close to flying as one can come in a canal boat.

THE TOWN of Llangollen lies prettily in the Dee Valley and is a popular tourist spot. Among the many attractions is a country home perched on one of the surrounding hills called Plas Newydd or New Hall.

Plas Newydd was the home of Lady Eleanor Butler and Miss Sarah Ponsonby from 1780 until Lady Eleanor's death in 1829. The two Irish women were known as "The Ladies of Llangollen" and were found to be more fond of each other than was thought proper at the time. They left Ireland in 1778 to live together in England.

Plas Newydd is now open to the public and the small cottage is surrounded by beautiful gardens and strong scents of purple Heliotrope which fill the flower beds.

Near Plas Newydd, we enjoyed a lunch of steak and kidney pie in a small tea room along the banks of the Dee.

Our return trip to Nantwich offered several stops to explore nearby villages and poke about in the churchyards and shops.

Our boat rental cost for the seven days was $1050 and included everything except food. For a party of five or six, it makes a reasonable holiday abroad.

Arrangements for canal boating in Great Britain can be made through Ambassador Travel in Colorado. Call (800) 234-8040.

The Water Bramble crew stops to enjoy the view near Whit-bridge.

There are, of course, lots of land-based events this week. The Manistee National Forest Festival through July 8, for example, in Manistee, home of lumberjack exhibitions, parades, forest and saw mill tours, canoe and raft races.

Stay tuned, Michigan-lovers. There's more to come.

Boating season keeps the lakes crowded near the mouth of Grand River where it enters Lake Michigan in Grand Haven.

The master of ceremonies explains each movement and the series of majestic leaps and kicks called, "airs above the ground." Performances are choreographed to the music of the classical masters.

These dancing horses of Vienna were rescued by General George Patton during World War II and returned to Austria to breed.

The Lipizzans were the subject of the movie "Miracle of the White Stallions."

Everybody loves a mystery, and "Return to Spooky Kooky Castle" satisfies those with the thirst for a comic spoof. Zany characters played by California sea lions, walrus, otters and trainers unravel the mystery of Uncle Shmedley's lost will. Special effects, a haunted set and spellbound audiences provide suspense as the music of Mozart floats through the summer air.

At the Nautilus Theatre "Wild Wings" reign supreme as birds who are hunters, talkers, and performers demonstrate their talents. Hawks, owls, cockatoos, and parrots fly low over the bent heads of onlookers to win the desired reward of a goodie in an open-air arena.

Cap'n Kid's World playland offers still more hands-on excitement for kids up to 14 years. This rough and tumble land of air mattresses and net climbs in three acres gives youngsters a chance to play among ball crawls and scale a 60 foot pirate ship. Kid's World features real water muskets, remote control boats, slides and tunnels.

At Penguin Encounter, snow and chill temperatures keep polar birds and weary visitors cool. More than 130 penguins swim, waddle, dive and chatter. Guests watch educational videos and observe the penguins from a moving walkway.

These days Sea World is the largest employer of youth in Portage County, hiring nearly 1,200 workers every season. To date, total paid attendance has passed 25 million. More than 1.5 million students have taken part in Sea World's educational programs.

Sea World is a first-rate marine research center. Baby animals are born and hatched every year. A modern tonal language system has been installed at Shamu Stadium.

Platters, Sea World's largest sit-down restaurant, prepares chicken in all its juicy forms, fried and baked, and serves it family style with gravy and mashed potatoes. Waitresses top the meal off with aromatic apple pie. They bring flower crowned dolphins as samll gifts for kids. A family can eat well at Platters cheaply. Among 17 eateries, Platters is a Sea World standout for excellence.

The trout fishing contest looks like plenty of fun to kids, but they are required to keep whatever they catch. At 45 cents an inch, two fish cost about $10. It's great to hook these wiggly trout and take photos of the kids, but it's not much fun to pay the fees including an extra charge for scaling.

Sea World is about 30 minutes southeast of Cleveland and you can call (800) 63-SHAMU for more information.

The park provides free parking and strollers, camera, and wheel chair rentals. In July, August, and September, Sea World presents starlight laser and fireworks shows.

The Aurora Inn, just a few minutes from Sea World on routes 306 and 82 feature a unique country atmosphere in the rural and historical heart of Ohio's Western Reserve. It provides the look and feel of early America along with tennis courts, kiddie and adult pools and sauna and jacuzzi.

Franchises peg business for medical training

Seconds count during a health emergency. But many employers and co-workers aren't adequately prepared for those pressure-packed moments before EMS arrives, maintain Donald and Sharon Stern.

The Sterns have formed a corporation called O2 Emergency Medical Care Service in West Bloomfield to counteract that situation.

Like generals, they've established a business plan to supply offices, factories and stores with oxygen units, first aid kits and first aid training.

Now they're looking for an army of national franchisees to implement the plan.

"I don't think there's anyone who hasn't read, heard about or know of an accident that's happened," Donald Stern said. "The cost is really minimal for what can be done to preserve life. You can't really put a price on health and safety."

Oxygen units are the cornerstone of the program, although first aid kits and instruction in first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation are important elements, too, Stern said.

"YOU'RE MORE apt to see someone having a heart attack in a bank, office or complex than a fire," said Sharon Stern. "Anywhere you see a fire extinguisher, you should have an oxygen unit."

According to O2's business plan, franchisees — individuals or other companies that want to diversify — would pay an initial fee of up to $36,000.

For that fee, franchisees would get exclusive rights to a territory, the business plan handbook, an initial inventory of oxygen units and first aid kits, leads on personnel to provide first aid training to business customers and start-up supplies like business cards and fliers.

"Not only do we teach about sales and marketing, but if they've never run a business, how to set up an office," Stern said.

The only other payment due O2 from franchisees is a fixed monthly fee per oxygen unit placed.

"We're looking for the individual looking for true independence and security," Stern said. "They can go out directly and market because the market is so large."

"A majority of people don't realize in this type of franchise opportunity, you don't have an employee problem, a location problem. You don't have the hours running a retail business or restaurant six or seven days a week."

"There are no other franchises in this line," Stern said. "You may have individuals who go out and do it, but no franchises."

Franchisees could set their own prices for services, but Stern recommends a rate of $325-$350, which would include one oxygen unit, a couple of first aid kits and first aid training for two to four employees.

THE TRAINING could be held at a client's business during working hours or, more likely, at a central location to include employees from several companies evenings or weekdays, Stern said.

Stern admits that it's been slow lining up franchisees while incorporating his company, registering in 41 states and setting up a business plan.

Stojadin Naumovski, a doctor and immigrant from Yugoslavia yet to be licensed to practice in the United States, is the only franchisee so far. He has purchased franchises in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties.

"As a medical doctor, I have a lot of experience with emergency situations... so I understand practically what oxygen means to victims," Naumovski said.

"As a business, an individual doctor won't make a lot of money unless he's in a group practice. This is a long-term, profitable business."

Knowledge of and use of first aid techniques provided in the training sessions also could go far in emergency settings before paramedics arrive, Naumovski said.

"Some people might look at this as commercial, but it's a highly needed service," Stern said. "It's almost recession proof."

Red Cross delivers basic first aid class to business sites

The American Red Cross, through its contract services division, has offered a series of first aid classes to business owners and their employees since 1982.

The most popular offering, according to Red Cross spokeswoman Debbie Stroup, is an eight-hour class that covers CPR and basic first aid. The class can be completed in one day or two at the employer's option.

"They talk about heart attacks, what to look for, what should I do, how can I be healthier," Stroup said.

The basic first aid class also addresses severe bleeding, broken bones and the Heimlich Maneuver to assist choking victims.

The Red Cross provides one instructor for every 12 learners. Employers are billed $200 per instructor. First aid manuals are an additional $16 apiece.

"We do about five classes a day in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties," Stroup said. "Business doesn't have to send their people out. We'll come right to their location. That's why it's so popular."

Classes can be arranged by contacting Stroup in Oak Park at 967-1028.

Individuals also can take the basic first aid/CPR course without charge through area Red Cross service centers. Those classes are funded by the United Way.

Specific details may be obtained for the Oakland Regional Office in Bloomfield Hills at 334-3575 or the Northwest Office in Livonia at 422-2787.

Kevin Kanoyton and Susan Weinberg provide first aid instruction at businesses for the Red Cross.

"The majority of classes we put on clients are pretty receptive," Kanoyton said. "Sometimes, some people who have to be at these at first seem a little unhappy, but by the end of the day, they're glad they came."

"More and more classes are being booked because people are getting more conscientious," Weinberg said. "What's nice about the business classes is they also realize information learned in the classes can be used in their personal lives."

The Red Cross also sells first aid kits but doesn't sell oxygen units.

Oxygen units are the cornerstone of the Donald Stern's program, although first aid kits and instruction in first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation are important elements.

Start off on firm financial footing

When the honeymoon is over, newlyweds often come face to face with financial reality — and some of the most divisive questions in a marriage. Do you need a household budget? Should you merge your individual savings into a joint account? What happens if your spending style differs radically from that of your spouse?

To help you steer clear of some of the most common pitfalls in money management, the Farmington Hills-based Michigan Association of CPAs suggests that newlyweds consider these basic financial tips.

First, talk money. Fights over money often stem from differences in lifestyles, personal goals and family histories. Someone who spent his or her childhood watching parents scramble to pay the monthly rent is bound to react to money differently than someone whose parents were able to afford family trips to Europe.

The road to a financially sound marriage begins when you sit down with your spouse and discuss your feelings about money. What does money mean to each of you? How comfortable are you dealing with money matters? How much money would make you feel financially secure? Don't just talk about how you feel about your finances as they exist today. Talk about your goals.

Try not to judge your spouse's responses. Now is the time to listen and understand. Once you have a grasp of your differences and similarities concerning money issues, you will be better equipped to deal with the details of money management.

THE NEXT STEP is to write down your goals. Be as specific as possible. For example, if you want to save for a down payment on a house, agree on the amount as well as a time frame. If you cannot settle on a single set of goals, don't force the issue. Instead, list common goals as well as your individual priorities.

One of the most common questions newlyweds ask is whether they should merge their assets into a joint bank account. There is no correct answer. While most choose joint accounts, more and more are opting for separate accounts, with each partner taking responsibility for particular expenses. For example, the husband may pay mortgage and utility bills while the wife takes care of all household expenses. Others choose to set up one joint account for mutual living expenses, while keeping two other separate accounts for individual use, such as hobby expenses. If you do opt for a joint account, consider setting limit on how much either one of you can withdraw without first consulting the other spouse.

Next, decide on who should handle the paperwork involved in managing money. Keep in mind that for some the task of balancing a checkbook is as appealing as a trip to the dentist. At the same time, some people actually enjoy reconciling bank statements and credit card bills. The most successful system is one in which spouses share the recordkeeping task according to their likes, abilities and schedules.

If one of you tends to be less financially responsible, don't automatically assume that he or she should be relieved of any responsibility for financial recordkeeping. Rather, try to work out a compromise. Perhaps one could manage the smaller household bills while the other handles the rent and utility bills.

AFTER YOU AGREE on a way of handling your accounts, it's time to build a budget. List your monthly and yearly expenses, including such fixed costs as rent or mortgage payments, insurance premiums, automobile and educational loans, utility bills and commuter expenses.

Next, calculate your combined income, including any dividends or interest payments that you receive on a regular basis. If you cannot meet all your expenses, including your savings goal, it's time to look at your finances — and budget — more realistically.

Anticipating tragedy may be the last thing either of you want to do. Nevertheless, you must take steps to protect your financial future. First, make sure you have adequate life insurance. Second, consider your other insurance needs, such as disability and homeowner's policies. Finally, write your will. By doing so, you can be sure that your assets will be distributed exactly according to your wishes.

Location important, but not 1st concern

I've bred dogs at home as a part-time business since 1987 but now want to start a pet shop. Recently I noticed available lease space with a new strip shopping center in my neighborhood. I haven't developed my business plan yet, but I don't want to pass up what could be the perfect business location for my future shop either. How should I proceed?

Selecting the right location is very important when starting any new business. But there are several other major decisions that need to be made before the location issue can be successfully addressed. Unfortunately, many new business owners ignore or put off these decisions (such as those required as part of business plan development) in favor of the site selection process, which is more fun.

This is a serious mistake because the location ultimately chosen should be based on the crucial finance and marketing-related decisions that define the specific nature and extent of your operation — not the other way around. As the third major reason contributing to half of all small business failures in this country, choosing a bad business location is one mistake you can't afford to make.

At this point I suggest that you take advantage of the information and experience that others in the same business have to offer. You can start by obtaining a copy of Entrepreneur Magazine's "Pet Shop Start-Up Manual" (No. X1007), which is available for $69.50 by calling 1-800-421-2345. Once you have had an opportunity to review the manual, you may then want to schedule information interviews with one or more area pet shop retailers to answer any additional questions you have. Taken together, this information will assist you with the development of your own business plan as well as the best location-related options you should consider.

Is there any significant trend that you see as representing "the one to watch" for a specific type of small business or industry?

In our age of specialization, a growing majority of nightclubs and restaurants have opened and closed their operations as often as every six weeks to create a "limited time only" customer mentality. New York's Area nightclub changed its interior decor, seating and menu every six weeks to capitalize on specific themes (such as circus, space odyssey and Mardi Gras). In Tokyo, The Earth restaurant is currently open just for a seven-month period and boasts lines of up to 1,000 waiting patrons per day.

This "here today, gone tomorrow" marketing strategy has been used over the years to promote products ranging from limited edition collector's plates to cars. Whether this trend will serve to benefit entire business operations catering to fickle markets remains to be seen.

Part II

In today's changing market, an ideal investment portfolio does not remain ideal for very long. Putting fixed percentages of your capital into different types of investments is a form of diversification called Asset Allocation. At a special seminar (details given below) I will discuss in detail appropriate investment strategies.

In figure one I have presented an overview of life cycle stages and an approximate distribution of investment. The accumulation stage begins at the start of your financial life. The acceleration stage is ushered in when you enter the peak earning years and feel secure of having taken care of your basic needs and emergency situations. Finally, the preservation stage begins when you start preparing for retirement. While I would not recommend exactly the same divisions for two persons, Figure 1 comes close to my average recommendations.

Timing Over Business Cycle

Once structured, the portfolio needs restructuring as we move from a boom to a recession (Figure 2). The critical question therefore is: Where are we on the business cycle? The answer is that we are somewhere between six and seven on figure two, and our investment portfolio should reflect this fact.

Next week: More on investment.

Seminar: "Current Investment Strategy: Buy, Sell, or Hold?" sponsored by the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning will be 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, July 17, in the offices of Coordinated Financial Planning, 3250 W. Big Beaver, Suite 540, Troy.

For reservations, please call 643-8888.

Sid Mittra is a professor of finance, school of business at Oakland University and owner of Coordinated Financial Planning.

IBM has matured into solid growth stock

For years IBM has been talked about as being a good stock to own, yet the price has not changed very much. Recently I see that both Barron's and Better Investing have done features on the stock suggesting it is a good buy. What do you think of the prospects the price of IBM will double in the next three to five years?

A. While IBM has not been a rewarding stock in recent years, I am in the corner of those folks who think there is a good chance the stock will double from the $110 to $120 range.

For more than a decade IBM has faced competition from every corner of the world. This has lowered both its growth rate and profit margins. IBM has worked hard to meet these challenges. It has not reduced its research. It has built modern,

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

new production facilities so that its costs are as low as any other competitor. There is an expectation that more business will be done in the software area where profits are higher.

IBM HAS the most commanding position of all of its competitors when looked at as a world business. Its reputation for competence is worldwide. As the demand for computers continues to blossom in all the new, free economies, it seems likely that IBM will be a major beneficiary.

IBM's rate of growth now looks more like 7-8 percent rather than the 13-15 percent of 10 years ago. However, our studies indicate that if IBM can continue to grow at 7-8 percent and improve its margins slightly, it could sell for $245-$265 in the next three to five years. In the first quarter of this year, sales were up 11.4 percent and earnings per share were up 12.4 percent. Those figures indicate we are getting a start at a lot better rate than the 7-8 percent increases we have estimated. I believe this suggests our estimates are conservative and within the realm of possibility.

IN FACING up to all the competition of the past decade, IBM has maintained its sales and service organization and that may be a major factor in building business in the years ahead.

I don't expect to see IBM selling at 25 to 35 times earnings anymore, but 7-8 percent compounded from $10 a share would get earnings per share to nearly $15 in five years. At 12 1/2 times earnings, that would give a price of $187, and at 15 times earnings, the price would be $225. And to top things off, a dividend yielding 4.2 percent, it's not hard to wait for those kinds of prospects.

Chapel tells story of an earlier time

By Julie Brown
staff writer

It must surely qualify as Plymouth's smallest church, smaller even than the roadside churches found in rural areas.

"I would say so," said Beth Stewart, director of the Plymouth Historical Museum. "We've got them all beat."

The museum's Main Street area includes a small "Plymouth Meeting House," along with shops and offices of the 19th century. The tiny chapel is nestled in among a railroad depot, dress shop, lawyer's office, barber shop, dentist's office and others.

Museum visitors usually have the opportunity to go into the chapel to meditate, pray or just rest during museum hours, 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. Right now, however, there's no place to sit in the chapel. The small bench was removed to make space for several mannequins dressed in their Sunday best.

THE MANNEQUINS are set up to portray an infant's baptism of the late 19th century. The pastor mannequin wears a robe and a stole. The stole's needle work was done by Jeanne MacDonald, exhibits chairwoman at the museum, for her husband, a Presbyterian minister.

"Usually, we have it open," Stewart said of the chapel. Some museum visitors have gone into the chapel, "especially (during) Fall Festival when people are tired and it's cool in here."

Supporters of the museum helped with the creation of the Main Street buildings. Retired Judge Dunbar Davis and his wife, Martha, contributed to the construction of the chapel, in honor of their daughters and grandchildren.

The chapel is small but manages to pack a lot of local history into that small area. Its stained glass window and pulpit came from the old First Baptist Church, which was on North Mill in Plymouth. The wood pipe inside the chapel is from the original organ at that church.

MUSEUM VISITORS can learn a great deal about the history of religion in the community. In its early days, Plymouth had a large number of churches, given its relatively small size, she said.

"We've got things in our archives on most all of the churches in Plymouth." A copy of Dr. Samuel Hudson's book on the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth is included, along with books and other materials on local churches.

A great deal of material on the old Christian Science Church is included in the archives, Stewart said. Clarence Moore, who was instrumental in starting the museum, belonged to that church.

Stewart has seen some interest in local church history. Often, newcomers to the community who've bought older homes come to the museum to do research.

"They get into other aspects of the community as well."

The chapel's called the "Meeting House," a designation often used for New England churches in earlier times. Those church buildings were used for many community functions other than worship services, she said.

The small chapel has no pastor, no members and no choir. Many growing suburban churches have needed to move to larger quarters or build additions, but a building project's highly unlikely at the museum chapel.

"I think this church is landlocked," Stewart said with a smile.

THE CHAPEL'S not really large enough to accommodate weddings or other functions. Mary Childs, a Plymouth city commissioner and former mayor, did perform a wedding a few years ago at the museum. The wedding took place in the Victorian living room area near the front of the building, rather than in the chapel.

A grandmother at that wedding said that living room scene reminded her of her home, so the ceremony took place there. Childs, who performs weddings as a magistrate of the 35th District Court, hasn't conducted a service in the chapel.

"It's a nice little place," she said. It reminds many museum visitors of small country churches.

Childs wouldn't rule out performing a small wedding in the chapel at some point. Most likely, only Childs, the bride and groom could stand inside the chapel. Leaving the door open would mean the witnesses and guests could hear the ceremony.

"They could always stand out in the hall," she said.

This baptism scene, reminiscent of the late 19th century, is found in the chapel at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

Down time provides an opportunity to reflect

Walking to the mail box today was an absolute thrill. Only two weeks ago, I didn't give a second thought to this usually mundane daily event. Today, however, was different. This was the first day in far too many that I was able to walk at all.

To describe the situation in my father's language, I yinked when I should have yanked. In more universal parlance, my back went out.

Whether we indict the engineering of the human skeletal system or chalk it up to the stress we so stupidly heap upon ourselves, the fact remains that our ability to move around with any degree of ease, if at all, is quite dependent on the working order of our backs.

IT IS ALSO true that the difference can be made in the time that it takes to make one wrong move. For me, it was the time it took to pull a weed. Perhaps the truth of the matter is that the weed was no more than the straw that broke my back, having ignored the many warning signs it had given me.

Hopefully, however, the down time has not been totally lost time. Television got very boring very quickly. Even holding a book in a comfortable position was not all that easy. The result was that I did have a lot of time to reflect on many things.

For starters, even the boring television gave me food for thought. How often do we choose to vegetate in front of the tube when there are so many more creative and rewarding ways in which we could spend our time?

In the all-too-often rat race pace of our lives, we complain of not having time for ourselves, time to think, time for relationships with spouses, children and other friends. We wish we had more time to spend on hobbies. Even more time to fix things around the house appears attractive when that time is not there. And yet even in our seemingly time-deprived existence we spend countless hours watching reruns or staring at the maps on the weather channel.

Yes, it does appear that our choices are sometimes as out of whack as our backs. The old question arises as to what we would do if we only had one week left to live — or even one week left to move. Hopefully, I would not choose to spend it in front of an advertising machine that offers intermittent and weak entertainment.

REERUNS WERE not the only catalyst to reflection. The most often asked question in this time of inactivity was "How did you do it?" I think that my initial and spontaneous answer has not been the real reason. It was easy for me to say that it was weeding the garden. The fact is that this tricky back of mine had been speaking to me for a few weeks. But I was too busy to listen.

So I did what many of us do when our friends attempt to signal us. I ignored the stiffness, the kinks and the pains that had been saying "You had better take the time to do some moral perspectives

stretching exercises and you had better stop abusing me."

So many of life's unhappy surprises are not surprising at all when we do a bit of Monday morning quarterbacking. The health of our rivers and lakes, the purity of our air does not run amuck all at once. But we do have a way of ignoring unpleasant signs until it is too late.

It becomes a case of one more beer can in the Au Sable or one more shot of fluorocarbon into the atmosphere or one more nuclear weapon into the stockpile. For me, it was just one more silly weed!

Yes, it was a thrill to walk to the mail box today. I only hope that I can learn to be more aware of the thrill, the wonder and the magnificence of the everyday abilities that are so easily taken for granted. Even the ability to sneeze or to laugh without my back going into painful spasm becomes something to look forward to.

And oh yes, today I put on my socks by myself. Wouldn't the day be off to a great start if that is still even a little bit exciting tomorrow. The Rev. Robert Schaden is with the Newman House campus ministries at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

RECYCLING IS GOOD NEWS:

Overcrowded landfills. Garbage barges no one wants to deal with. Terminal trash.

News.

Bad news.

The good news? More and more people, businesses and industries are finding ways to recycle.

It takes more than 6,000 tons of newsprint each year to print The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers plus a number of other publications, so we're doing a number of things to help the solid waste situation:

1. For years we've sold our waste newsprint to a recycling firm.
2. 25% of the newsprint we print on is recycled and we're increasing this amount by another 25% this year.

3. Our employees have begun to routinely put office paper (memos, computer paper, waste copy paper) in recycle bins instead of waste baskets.

Of course, we still deliver thousands of newspapers twice each week. It's our business to bring you news of your local government, schools, sports scene and community events; the news you need to know.

We don't cover world news, but we care about the world.

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers

And when you're finished reading your hometown newspaper there are places that will recycle them.

We've listed a few for you on this page because we think recycling is Good News.

What do an apple, a cow, and a car door have in common?

Recycled newspapers play a role in all three. Apple growers in the northwest use recycled newsprint for packing, farmers use it for bedding instead of straw and auto manufacturers use it in car doors.

There are many uses for your used newspapers, why not start saving them today?

To prevent crime in Tucson, police use sensitive, highly sophisticated surveillance equipment:

Citizen participation is critical to police effectiveness. Do you care about your neighborhood enough to help protect it?

The Case of The Tucson Tip-off.

In a particular neighborhood in Tucson, Arizona, folks were having a real problem with burglaries and break-ins.

They started talking to each other about what they could do. They got fed up. About 400 people went to the police for advice. They learned about surveillance. They got to know their beat officers. Citizens and police became partners in crime prevention.

In just three weeks, 17 arrests were made and burglaries went down 30%. And Tucson is only one case where people successfully worked to beat crime. To

You too, can go to the zoo!

Yep, you can be one of the smiling, happy faces you see here when you're an Observer & Eccentric carrier. Each year, our carriers get to treat their folks to an evening at the Zoo—we call it Carrier Night at the Zoo, and everybody gets in free. When you're a carrier you get a chance at winning some really neat prizes during the year— 10-speed bikes and cool stuff like that. There's work and responsibility, too. That's the serious part of being a carrier. But you learn a lot—like the kids here—and have fun at the same time. If you'd like to be an Observer & Eccentric carrier and you're between 11 and 14 years old, just call one of the numbers below and apply for your very own route.

Area athletes give games local flavor

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

There are common, if somewhat selfish, interests between the athletes who make the annual (except in an Olympic year) trek to the U.S. Olympic Festival, none of which are unexpected.

All are excited to be making the trip to the Olympic-formatted national games; all are hoping to make an impression upon the governing bodies in their particular sport; and all are eager to see what kind of competition is out there.

And, of course, all are anticipating their performances at the Olympic Festival, which starts today in Minneapolis-St. Paul, will lead to even bigger and better things down the road — namely, a berth on the 1992 U.S. Olympic team.

Representing the Observerland area are eight athletes, in eight different sports: Jennifer O'Donnell (Farmington Hills), archery; Tony Stipcak (Redford), bowling; Jeri Campbell (Garden City), figure skating; Pat Neaton (Redford), hockey; Tiffany Tyra (Canton), roller skating; Robert Plante (Westland), pistol shooting; Ron Orris (Canton), swimming; Todd Lyons (Livonia), weightlifting.

THE ABOVE is the good, bright, cheery news. There's not-so-good stuff as well for three of the eight local individual qualifiers. They are coming off injuries that have affected their training schedule and could hamper their performance.

Orris may be bothered most. Two weeks after winning Class A state titles in the 200-yard individual medley and 100 butterfly in state-record times, Orris injured a knee playing basketball.

"I've been doing rehab, swimming twice a day," the 17-year-old Salem graduate said. "The knee's just about

olympic hopefuls back to normal. I'm going to go out there and do the best I can."

But the injury has already robbed Orris of valuable training time, so he doesn't plan on tapering for this meet. Instead he will continue his heavy training, 3-4 hours a day.

The injury's also affected his events. He can't effectively perform the breaststroke kick, so instead of the 200-meter IM he'll swim the 100 or 200 fly. He's also entered in the 100 and 200 freestyle.

"I'm really excited about it," he said of the Festival. "I'm looking forward to it." Going beyond the Festival is, of course, on top of his list. The Olympics provide swimmers with their only real recognition. "That's goal one on my list," Orris admitted. "That's what I'm shooting for."

FOR LYONS, a recent transplant in Livonia who grew up in Waterloo, Iowa, a trip to the Olympic Festival will provide two things: a look at the nation's best competition, and, most important, a shot at a berth on the U.S. team that will compete at the World Weightlifting Championships in Budapest, Hungary, in November.

"That's the big goal," said the 24-year-old, 233-pounder (110-kilogram class) who finished second at the National Championship meet in Farmington Hills May 5-6. Only two per weight class qualify for the U.S. team, so Lyons is on the bubble.

But he is coming off arthroscopic knee surgery performed just last week, which could hamper his performance severely.

Lyons doesn't think it will bother him too much. "The only thing holding me back now is a little swelling that's left. It's part of the sport. I've been in it 10 years and eventually something happens."

Of course, how much the injury — which he suffered June 3 at the state championships — has affected his training could be costly.

For Campbell, her injury is in the past, but she was sidelined for a considerable period. Campbell suffered torn ligaments in her foot last year and was off the ice two full months. It took her eight more months to regain her form, which had taken her to a fourth-place finish in the '88 Olympic Trials. She finished fifth at this year's nationals.

"NOW EVERYTHING'S back to normal," said Campbell, who trains north of Los Angeles. "I'm feeling really strong."

And how well will she do? "Definitely top three," she predicted.

The other local athletes aren't hurting, but they are anticipating. Like Stipcak, who's somewhat of an abnormality; most of the athletes in attendance for the festival will be 20-years-old or less. He is 36.

Still, he harbors similar goals. "My ambition is to win as many medals as I can," he said. "This and making the national team are the highlight of my career so far."

Stipcak was the silver medalist at the national meet, after surviving tests at the local, state and regional level. He was the top seed going into the final round at nationals, but was upended — which has made him more determined.

Neaton, who enjoyed quite a freshman year of hockey at Michigan (he was also drafted by the pros last month), exuded a perspective applicable to all the athletes as he prepared for the festival: "They're all what the Olympic Committee considers Olympic hopefuls."

Boles eyes possibility of turning professional

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Disenchanted with college football at the University of Michigan, Westland John Glenn High product Tony Boles appears to be foregoing his fifth and final year of eligibility in favor of taking a shot at making the professional ranks.

That according to his father, Daniel, who spoke to the Observer on Saturday.

Boles has been unavailable for comment since the Ann Arbor News reported Friday that his career at Michigan could be over.

New U-M coach Gary Moeller revealed that Boles' "chances of being with us next fall are 20 percent at best." He went on to say that the two-time All-Big Ten pick is behind in his academic work after skipping the spring semester while recovering from knee surgery.

"The way Tony talks, he wants to play pro football," said Daniel Boles. "But who knows? He may change his mind."

Boles underwent reconstructive surgery in December of 1989 after injuring his knee on Nov. 18 at Minnesota.

The 6-foot-2, 195-pound running back gained 1,408 yards as a sophomore in 1988 and racked up 839 yards and 11 touchdowns before going down last season, averaging a Big Ten-leading 6.4 yards per carry and 134.5 all-purpose yards per game.

"THE LEG is coming OK, the way he (Tony) talked," said Daniel Boles, "but it seems he's kind of lost interest. He wouldn't be ready the first couple of games anyway and he's afraid he might get hurt again if he came back (to Michigan) too soon. He's not thinking college football. That's the word I got yesterday."

Tony Boles
U-M days over?

Boles reportedly dropped two classes during the winter term and did not enroll in any classes during the spring semester.

According to Daniel Boles, "Tony told me he has a lot of (academic) work to make up" even if he enrolled for the summer term (which starts this week).

"After he was operated on, I guess it was hard for him to get around on crutches in the snow and everything," Daniel Boles said. "I don't know what went on, but somebody out there has been talking to Tony. I never heard him stress going pro until now."

Daniel Boles added that several teammates urged him to give up his final year of eligibility.

"He's made his mind up to strictly get into shape and said he had nothing to prove in college anymore," said the father. "He's a full-grown man now and he has to make his own decisions."

And while Boles' academic status may not be disputed, there seems to be difference in opinion over Boles' physical status.

football

MOELLER WAS quoted Friday in the Ann Arbor News: "I think what happened was his rehab was not happening as it should and he had gotten so far behind academically that he got depressed. I think we are in a position now where even if he was physically capable, we aren't sure he'd be able to go in the fall."

The new U-M coach went on to say, "He (Boles) has a lot of academics to make up, and, even if his knee rehabilitation is on course, his total conditioning is way behind after missing the Rose Bowl and all of spring practice."

Daniel Boles reported a rift had developed between his son and both the U-M coaching and medical staffs. Boles apparently stopped going to rehabilitation sessions prescribed by the U-M medical people.

"There's some kind of bad relationship somewhere," said Daniel Boles. "Tony went to South Carolina to a reunion for his girlfriend's family last summer and I kept getting calls (from the coaches) worrying about him getting into condition. When I talked with Tony, he told me 'Don't worry about me, I'll be in condition once football starts.'"

"Right now Tony told me he's been jogging and doing some agility drills. Tony's been the type of kid where everything came natural for him. And he'll do it to his satisfaction. He weighs 198 pounds right now. He doesn't look fat, or bloated."

DANIEL BOLES also said that his son was upset about the way the U-M coaching staff downplayed his

Coleman competes in national all-star game

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Mill Coleman was Mr. Quarterback in the state of Michigan last fall, and he'd like to expand his reputation to the national level Saturday.

The former Farmington Hills Harrison star and Michigan State University recruit will play for the East in the first National High School All-America Football Championships in Reno, Nev.

The game, featuring 69 of the country's top seniors from last season, begins at 1 p.m. EDT in Mackay Stadium on the campus of the University of Nevada-Reno and will be televised by WGN Channel 62 in Detroit.

"I feel honored that was I selected to be in it," Coleman said. "This being the first one makes it kind of special."

Coleman, who left Sunday for a week of preparation, wasn't going to be lonely. Besides his dad, Millard Sr., being in town most of the week, Harrison coach John Herrington is one of the East assistants.

THE ONLY other Michigan player is former Detroit Mackenzie fullback and line-backer Jerome Bettis, who is expected to play defense Saturday. He was rated the No. 1 player in the state and signed with Notre Dame.

"I coached in the very first high school all-star game in Michigan," Herrington said, "and now I get to coach in the first national high all-star game."

"I'm anxious to meet the coaches from other parts of the nation and to see all the great players who will probably be pros some day."

Jim Render of Upper St. Clair, Pa., is the East head coach. Herrington, who is 166-40-1 in 20 years at Harrison, Daryl Barnes (Rockingham, N.C.) and Berry Halladay (Anniston, Ala.) are the assistants. Coaches of the top eight teams in the final USA Today rankings were chosen to coach in the all-star game.

Coleman, who directed the Hawks to a 37-2 record, three consecutive trips to the Class B final and two straight state titles, is one of three quarterbacks on the East. He will share time with Georgia's Joe Dupree and Massachusetts' Todd Collins.

Collins, a University of Michigan recruit, replaces Mike Thomas of Rockingham, N.C., who pulled out after signing a $200,000 baseball contract with the Baltimore Orioles.

"IT'S GOING to be great, and I can't wait to see how (Coleman) compares with the best in the nation," Herrington said. "It'll be hard for all the quarterbacks because there's such limited time to work on a passing attack, but I think he'll do great."

Herrington, who will coach the offensive backfield and defensive secondary, met Sunday with the other coaches to plot strategy, and he was concerned about having only one week to prepare.

"It's going to be his offense, so (Render) will probably handle the quarterbacks," Herrington said. "We only have one day to get the offense set and introduce it to the players on Monday."

"But they're All-Americans and they should catch on right away. I don't think we'll have to teach them anything, just put them into a system and let their talent take over."

Coleman, at 5-foot-9 and 165 pounds, will be the smallest player on the field, but he hopes to show a national TV audience why that has never been a hindrance.

It's also a chance, against big-time competition, to silence any critics who might still think he's too small for major college football, but that's not a concern for Coleman.

"I WANT TO go out there and have fun," he said. "But also, in the spirit of competition, I want to show people what I can do. I'm not going out there so I can say 'Yeah, you missed out on me.' I want to have fun and do what I can do."

Coleman, who passed for a state record 7,464 yards and 70-plus touchdowns in four years of varsity football, hopes the all-star teams throw the ball a lot, and he doesn't think the lack of practice will hinder that.

He wasn't a drop-back passer at Harrison, and the Hawks instead used a lot of rollout and play-action plays, letting Coleman use his speed to scramble and run the bootleg if he didn't throw.

"Coach Herrington is coaching some of the backs, and maybe he'll let the other coaches know what I can do. I'm not expecting them to put anything special in for me, but I hope they do things I'm familiar with. I hope we don't do things that make me uncomfortable."

"I think it's easier to pass block, because in most all-star games the defensive linemen are not able to do a lot of stunting," he added. "It's not that difficult to put in pass patterns as long as they're not too complicated."

"When people go to all-star games, they don't want to see a lot of running. Passing is what people like to see, and that's what I like to do."

THE EAST should have plenty of talent to do both, according to Herrington.

"We have the No. 1-rated receiver in Andre Hastings (Morrow, Ga.) and the No. 1 back in Ricky Powers (Akron, Ohio), so we ought to be able to do something," he said.

Coleman also could be handing the ball to fellow MSU recruit Sebastian Small (5-11, 190), the No. 3-rated tailback out of Fayetteville (N.C.) Smith High School.

Boles might forego 5th season at U-M

chances for the Heisman Trophy, college football's most coveted award, entering fall drills in 1989.

"Personally he's pissed off," said Daniel Boles. "He felt he didn't have to keep proving himself."

Despite the fact that Boles gained nearly 1,500 yards in 1988, former U-M coach Bo Schembechler told a press gathering last August that Boles and returning starting fullback Leroy Hoard would have to earn their positions back.

Schembechler was reportedly upset with Boles' summer conditioning program.

Daniel Boles, however, said his son's relationship with Schembechler was better than it was with Moeller, who was the offensive coordinator last season.

Boles started the 1989 season slowly, recording just five carries for 17 yards in a loss to Notre Dame. The following week he had 82 yards in 17 carries, along with a couple of key receptions in a come-from-behind win over UCLA. Over the next seven games he led the team in rushing.

"Imagine being on top of the world and getting hurt," said the elder Boles. "When he (Tony) got hurt, he went through some turmoil. He's been through so much."

TONY BOLES could become the second U-M starting backfield member to pass up his final year of eligibility.

Hoard declared himself available to the National Football League earlier this spring. He was drafted by the Cleveland Browns in the second round.

"Leroy Hoard came out because of Tony getting hurt," said Daniel Boles. "He (Hoard) thought the same thing (injury) could happen to him that happened to Tony."

Daniel Boles also mentioned that Demetrius Brown, U-M's quarterback, who was declared academically ineligible for his fifth and final year last fall, is now playing in Canada.

"There's another league (World Football) starting in March and right now his mind is focused on pro football," said Daniel Boles. "Tony seems positive and nothing is bothering him. I just want what's best for him."

Daniel Boles, however, said he wishes his son would have opted for baseball instead of football.

"The scouting supervisor for the (Cincinnati) Reds (Gene Bennett) once told me Tony should forget football," he said. "And after the way he ran, a scout from the Royals tried to get us to sign out of high school, but Tony loved Bo and U-M football so much that there wasn't anything else."

Ironically, Schembechler is now president of the Detroit Tigers.

Bass fisherman on tournament roll

STEVE RANDELS doesn't fish the pro bass circuits, but he's giving it some serious thought.

Randles, of Garden City, has competed in six open bass tournaments so far this season and has placed in the top 10 on five occasions.

"I'm out (fishing) most every weekend I have off and fish mostly for bass," said, who works a swing-shift for Detroit Edison. "I'd really like to fish the Red Man or Federation tournaments, but working the swing-shift makes it pretty difficult to have all the weekends off."

Randles has been fishing the local — and some not so local — tournaments for the past five years, but hasn't experienced the success he's enjoying this summer with partner Steve Edwards, of Temperance.

On March 8, the pair began their bass angling success with a trip to Indiana. Although March is fairly early for bass fishing, the two managed to place eighth in a 50-boat tournament held on Lake James.

The pair returned to Lake James on March 21 and placed 13th in a 58-boat tournament.

Bill Parker

On May 12, the two anglers placed fifth out of 25 boats in a tournament in Duke's Bridge Indiana with four fish that weighed in at 5-pounds, 9-ounces.

"We're finally starting to put it together this year," Randles said. "We're starting to make the right decisions."

RANDELS BEGAN fishing the Michigan tournaments in June and has been on a roll ever since.

On June 2, Randles teamed up with Edwards to place sixth in a 79-boat tournament in Michigan Center. They landed six fish that tipped the scale at 8-pounds, 5-ounces.

On June 10, Randles teamed up with his brother Craig in a 35-boat tournament on Lake Orion.

"We fished Lake Orion a few years ago, and just missed finishing in the money," said Randles. "Craig wanted to try it (Lake Orion tournament) again and he was pretty happy this time."

He had reason to be. The Randles brothers won the tournament with a limit of 10 fish that weighed 16-pounds, 9-ounces.

Last Sunday Randles was back in action with Edwards and the two placed seventh in a 38-boat tournament on Lake Lodi, near Fenton, with a limit 10 fish that weighed 13-pounds, 3-ounces.

"I have to sit down and have a serious talk with my partner," Randles said. "At the beginning of the year we thought we'd fish through June, then hit some of the lakes the Red Man and the Federation use for their tournaments to kind of prepare for next year when we hope to get into the pro tournaments. But we're kind of on a roll right now, so it's pretty hard to stop."

RANDELS ATTRIBUTES his success to preparation, making the correct decisions on the lake, an understanding wife and a little luck.

The first thing Randles does prior to a tournament is to get a map of the lake he'll be fishing on.

"I look for areas where there is deep water adjacent to shallow water and start there," he explained.

"Underwater structure is also a good spot to start."

If time permits, a scouting trip to the lake is always a big benefit.

"It's kind of difficult to just look at a map and then go to a spot because things may be a little different once you get out on the lake," Randles said.

Once on the lake, Randles must decide what type of bait or lure to use.

"During one tournament, the wind picked up and the fishing shut right off," he explained. "We decided to move toward shore and try some of the weedy sections of the lake. We switched to a hook and a worm and that's when we caught the fish. We were lucky that time and made the right decision."

Under ideal conditions, Randles prefers rubber worms, Gitzits and Bombers for bait.

"The Bomber jerk-bait has been a good one for me this year," Randles said. "Whenever I use it, it seems to work pretty well."

Randles also said that without an understanding wife, he'd never be able to experience the success he has.

"I've got the best wife you could ask for as far as my fishing goes," he said. "She supports me all the way. She likes to fish too, as much as possible. But it's pretty tough sometimes with four kids."

(Bill Parker is happy to answer questions readers have regarding the outdoors. Successful anglers are also urged to report their catch. Send questions or comments to: Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, Mich. 48009.)

Broadway veterans are hot again

Ann Arbor Summer Festival presents its 'new' musical

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

ROBERT WRIGHT IS 76 years old and George Forrest is 75. They are hot. Their Broadway musical, "Grand Hotel," just won five Tonys and director Tommy Tune is taking it to Berlin.

"We were hot at the beginning of our careers, at the middle, and now," said Wright, who likes to be called Bob. Since 1935, when they signed contracts with MGM to rewrite Sigmund Romberg's "Maytime" with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, these two have collaborated on 59 films, 16 musicals, 18 stage revues, 13 television spectaculars and countless radio programs, recordings and cabarets.

This month they are in Ann Arbor, rehearsing a showcase production of a reworked musical, "The Anastasia Affaire." The show is being presented by Peninsula Productions as part of the 1990 Ann Arbor Summer Festival at 8 p.m. Thursday-Saturday, July 12-14, and 2 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, July 14-15, at the Lydia Mendelsohn Theatre.

For Forrest and Wright, their persistence has paid off financially. It took 30 years to get "Grand Hotel" from a preliminary version in California, starring Paul Muni ("Kringelein"), to Broadway.

THIS "NEW" MUSICAL, "The Anastasia Affaire," already has been to Broadway under the name of "Anyia." George Abbott's extravagant 1965 version failed — the last show to be seen at the Ziegfeld Theatre.

"George made a speech to us and the cast before it closed, saying that Chet (Forrest) and I tried to tell him how to produce the show but he didn't listen," said Wright. "He said it's a good show but for us to rework it our way."

Wright, who does the talking for himself and Forrest, explained the reason they were in Ann Arbor showcasing the production. "In New York, the critics would immediately associate this new version with the 'Anyia' failure, and we would not be successful."

In the last 25 years, Wright and Forrest have written five different versions of the show. In all, they have created 43 songs, only 16 of which are now in this reduced version, not including the one they wrote for the famous "18th Variation of Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini." (They lost the rights to the melody.)

Last October, the musical was produced in Massachusetts with Tony-award-winning stars Len Cariou ("Sweeney Todd") and Judy Kaye ("Phantom of the Opera"). Still, the duo was not satisfied.

THIS TIME Ken Cazan, veteran of the Santa Fe Opera and other major opera companies and now the Opera Workshop Program at the University of Michigan, is adding his ideas.

During rehearsal, Cazan carefully worked out staging, while Wright meticulously demanded particular word pronunciations, for humor and authenticity.

"An-au-stah-sia," said Wright; using the short sound of the vowel "a," he corrected the singers cast by Cazan. Wright obviously was pleased with the legitimate voices. Forrest remained silent.

"These gentlemen are good collaborators," Cazan said during a break. "I have never had so much fun in a production." Since he has not seen any of the previous four productions, this staging is his own creation.

Wright and Forrest call themselves brothers and have been writing music and lyrics since they were both 15 in Miami. When they signed at MGM in 1935, Forrest (whose real name is George Forrest Chichester and likes to be called Chet) was not yet 21. "We lied about his age," said Wright.

"HE IS MORE creative than I am," said Wright about his silent partner. "I am more organized. We don't know who writes more lyrics or music. It is pretty much an equal effort."

After seven years of ghostwriting musical scores for MGM, with little credit or recognition, they found their lives changed by Pearl Harbor. The two were drafted and went to New York City to do a radio program pushing war bonds for the U.S. Treasury. (Recently they won a 16-year-old lawsuit against MGM for an undisclosed figure.)

In 1944, they produced their first "adaptation," "Song of Norway," using the music of Edvard Grieg. Nine years later came their greatest success, the Tony-award-winning "Kismet," adapted from the music of Alexander Borodin. Frank Loesser, who wrote "The Most Happy Fella" and "How to Succeed in Business without Really Trying," suggested another adaptation to Wright and Forrest. This time it was for the 1965 play about Anna Nielsen, using Sergei Rachmaninov's music.

The story follows the life of Anna and a love triangle formed between Anna (Constance Barron), General Bounine (Barry Busse) and Prince Paul (Michael Lackey). It takes place in 1930 in Berlin, after Anna has recovered from amnesia and claims to be the dead daughter, Anastasia, of the Russian Czar Nicholas II.

Later in life, Anna married a history professor in Virginia, refusing all interviews. "No we never met her," Wright said. Wright's collaborator, Guy Bolton — one of the authors of the 1965 play and the book from which this musical is adapted — did meet her.

"THERE WAS ONE piece of information that only she could have known that proves that she was

D. Dennison's

A second location for D. Dennison's Seafood Tavern is at Laurel Park Place in Livonia, where the Champion Grill, under the same ownership as Dennison's, has been renamed. Customers familiar with Dennison's in Farmington Hills reportedly asked to have the seafood restaurant concept at the Livonia location. A rawbar offering chilled shrimp, oysters, clams or a platter of all three has been added to the new Dennison's.

Box lunches

Four Jacques Patisserie locations in Detroit are offering the "Jacques Festive Pack" this summer. Included in the variation on a box lunch is a sandwich or salad, fresh fruit, homemade sweet, and fruit juice. Orders must be placed by 10 a.m. the day of pickup, or 24 hours ahead for orders of 10 or more. Each lunch is $5.20.

Famie's Chicken

Restaurateur-chef Keith Famie opens his first Famie's Chicken on Friday at 2707 N. Woodward, south of 13 Mile Road, in Royal Oak. The carry-out and delivery operation specializes in rotisserie chicken. At a recent private party at Les Auteurs, his much-lauded restaurant at Washington Square Plaza in Royal Oak, Famie served a buffet featuring dishes that will be on the Famie's Chicken menu. The new carryout will offer a variety of fresh hot vegetables including steamed broccoli,

Boston baked hickory beans, steamed sweet kernel corn and oven-roasted spiced potato wedges. Besides rotisserie chicken sold by the piece or in a meal, there will be Famie's Chicken Sandwich, chicken pot pie, southwestern chicken vegetable chili, rotisserie chicken salad, chicken apple salad and chicken pasta salad. Fresh fruit salad, garden salad and Famie's Cole Slaw are other offerings. Jalapeno corn bread and potato poppy seed rolls are available. Desserts include a chewy chocolate peanut butter square, crunchy oatmeal Traverse City dried cherry cookie, and Savino's low-calorie Italian ice.

probably the daughter Anastasia," Wright said. "She knew about the visit of an uncle to Russia during World War I."

Wright and Forrest understand amnesia. In 1974 in New York, Forrest was returning home when someone clubbed him, leaving him for dead in an apartment building parking lot. After a four-hour operation by two neurosurgeons, it took five years of physical therapy for him to return to normal life. He still cannot remember anything that happened for the two-year period surrounding the incident.

"If anything, he has become more creative than ever," Wright said.

Forrest had remained nearly silent for the two-hour interview, interjecting only alert eye movements and smiling facial expressions.

"You cannot not believe her story," he said, his sole comment for the afternoon.

Restaurants make your birthday special

By Mary Guinley
Special writer

Looking for something beyond the traditional cake and ice cream to celebrate a birthday? Search no further. Several area restaurants offer special treats to birthday customers. Listed below is a sampling:

Confetti's, 6480 Orchard Lake Road, West Bloomfield, 626-3341 — With advance notice, Confetti's computer will print personalized menus for all guests at the birthday table.

"Anything you want to say can be typed on the top of our menu," said Brian Gallagher, chef. There is no charge for this service. The dessert tray offers Bailey's chocolate chip cake, white chocolate macadamia nut cheesecake, fresh fruits and more. Dessert is complimentary for the birthday person.

Blakeney's Ranch House, 28333 Grand River, Farmington, 477-8545 — "About a year ago, we started our birthday special. We never thought there were so many birthdays in a day," said co-owner Dick Blakeney. "We have had an absolutely incredible response." Birthday customers can order anything from the menu, excluding dessert and drink, and receive $8.50 off their bill. To receive the discount, customers under 12 are asked to order from the children's menu. A birth certificate is required for older children, and adults are requested to show a driver's license.

The Original Pancake House (two locations) 1360 S. Woodward, Birmingham, 642-5775; 19355 W. 10 Mile Road, Southfield, 357-3399. — Both pancake houses invite birthday youngsters under the age of 11 to order a Junior Plate ($2.25) or any item of equal value from the regular menu. Kids love the plastic rings and balloons, and your entire party receives a dish of ice cream. There is no charge for this service. The invitation, however, is not valid Saturday, Sunday or holidays from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

R.I.K.'s, 6303 Orchard Lake Road, West Bloomfield, 855-9889 — Birthday celebrants — save room for desert. Tiramisu, an Italian pastry made with lady fingers, is soaked in espresso, topped with mascarpone cheese, layered, and dusted with cocoa and shaved chocolate. "My kids like it," said owner Rick Halberg. "However, it is more of an adult desert because there is a lot of espresso." Tiramisu ($3.95 for non-birthday patrons) is only one of several complimentary desserts offered to the birthday person.

Sweet Afton Tea Room, 985 N. Mill, Plymouth, 454-0777 — All ages will enjoy celebrating with the traditional British birthday favor called a "cracker." "The cracker is a crepe-paper novelty item," said Sylvia Thacker, proprietress. "It is used in Britain at Christmas time and birthdays." The cylinder-shaped treat is held by the birthday person and shared with another guest. Simultaneously, both ends are pulled, producing a low-level fireworks sound. Inside the favor is a paper hat, shaped like a crown, a joke and trinket. A small music box which plays "Happy Birthday" is brought to the table. Those customers celebrating an 80th birthday or more can have a Polaroid picture taken. Both the cracker and picture are complimentary.

Fox and Hounds, 1560 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills, 644-4800 — Since the year 1927, this establishment has been the host to numerous celebrations. Currently, for a charge of $15, birthday guests receive: multi-colored helium balloons, a 6-inch "Best Wishes" cake and "Happy Birthday" greetings sung by the wait staff. Completing the package, a "Congratulations" banner is hung over a black-and-gray booth. For patrons who prefer a little less fanfare, a cake can be purchased for $6.95.

Smith Bros. & Co., 1476 W. Maple Road, Troy, 643-0881 — "People are really excited and shocked when we offer a bottle of champagne," said Mary Ellen Barrett, head waitress. The "to go" bottle of champagne is wrapped and presented to birthday patrons 21 years or older. For the younger crowd or adults not preferring champagne, birthday cake is served at the table. Both the champagne and cake are complimentary.

Note: To avoid disappointment, it is always a good idea to call the restaurant first. Enjoy!

Music Hall gets beauty treatment

By Deborah Burzyck
special writer

In the 1930s men and women filled the Wilson Theatre to watch Ziegfeld's "Rosalie" and George Cohan's "The Tavern."

In the mid-1940s audiences listened to the Latin beat of Tito Guizar and the intriguing jazz sound of Lionel Hampton.

In the 1950s people saw movies such as "Around the World in 80 Days" in what had become the country's most successful Cinerama.

Now, more than 60 years after it opened, the last of Detroit's original theaters is being reborn.

Music Hall, at the corner of Madison and Brush streets in the heart of Detroit's entertainment district, is undergoing the most comprehensive restoration of its history.

"There have been ongoing conservation efforts. They've never let it deteriorate," said Kim Johnson, director of Music Hall. "But this is the first comprehensive restoration of the building, where we're going to do it all."

The theater, with its art deco exterior and Spanish Renaissance interior, is the fraternal twin of Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester.

MATILDA DODGE WILSON BUILT both in the late 1920s to bring the arts — from jazz to comedy to Shakespeare — to Detroit's working class as well as its upper class.

"She believed that with the emergence of the middle class in Detroit that those people would want the same types of entertainment that had only been available to the wealthy," Johnson said.

While some entertainment on the bill was bold for a theater during the 1940s, Wilson wanted people from all cultures to feel comfortable there, Johnson said adding, "Part of her mission was that people would aspire to the same art forms that had originally been available to the upper class. It was always multi-cultural. In terms of a community facility, Music Hall has always filled that need."

Wilson built the theater, which has the second largest stage in Detroit, at a time when many people were proclaiming that stage plays were a dying art and movies would monopolize the entertainment industry.

At that time, there were six legitimate theaters in Detroit, which meant they had a trapped stage, orchestra pit and multi-story dressing rooms as well as other features.

Today, only Music Hall remains.

"It was a theater and stage that was built for actors," Johnson said.

Although World War II curtailed the entertainment industry, Wilson Theatre was maintained because of the tenants who had offices on the upper floors.

In 1946, Wilson sold the building to Henry Reichhold, who wanted a home for the Detroit Symphony, and he renamed it Music Hall Center.

A program from the week of Feb. 11, 1946, lists the Grand Opera Quartet, Tito Guizar and Lionel Hampton.

In addition, Hudson's did a weekly fashion show there. Lucille Ball starred in "Dream Girl," and Margaret Truman made her singing debut there.

Music Hall in 1951 became Cinerama Music Hall — the most successful cinerama operation in the country for 12 years, Johnson said.

Later, auto commercials were filmed there. And rumor has it wrestlers grappled with each other on stage.

A PLAQUE ON THE FRONT of the building proclaims Music Hall a Michigan Historical Site. It is on the National Registry of Historic Places as well.

It's easy to feel the theater's magic when walking down the aisle toward the stage. Most of the original building remains.

"A lot of work in restoration is just cleaning and refinishing," Johnson said. "The beauty of the Music Hall is that 98 percent of it is still here."

"From the minute you stepped in, it was the feeling of being in a very festive Spanish setting," she said.

Although the maroon, gold and turquoise carpeting isn't original, weavers recreated the exact pattern. All light fixtures are original and the edges of the rows of seats mirror the ends of Spanish church pews.

Two grand staircases lead to the balconies.

"What's so unusual about Music Hall is how intimate it is," Johnson said. "From the very last row to the stage is only 70 feet."

"The entire building was built to lead all eyes to the stage," Johnson said. "The auditorium is spectacular. What you don't see now and what will be restored is all the colors — the golds and turquoises."

Of Matilda Dodge Wilson, Johnson said, "Her attention to detail, her commitment to intimacy and elegance has lasted 62 years. She spared no expense."

"We're going to restore it to its elegance," Johnson said.

In a sense, the spirit of Wilson also is being restored through women like Barbara Smith, wife of General Motors chairman Roger B. Smith, who led the effort to restore Meadow Brook Hall in the last decade and Henrietta Friedholm, who chairs the board of Music Hall.

"I think women feel very strongly connected to historical ties, and especially family ties," Barbara Smith said. "Matilda Dodge Wilson was very family-oriented."

The edges of the rows of seats mirror the rows of pews in a Spanish church.

But Wilson, who built the theaters solely from her fortune from the Dodge family, was also keen and practical, Smith said.

Her interest in history was not "just to preserve as a little thing under glass, but to preserve something as a workable business."

Artist moves deftly between realism, abstract

By Corinne Abett
staff writer

Anybody who's saved a shoebox full of stuff "too good to throw away" — or squirreled away nails, nuts and bolts, pieces of string, empty spools and rubber bands — can empathize with artist Electra Stamelos.

Her table full of things she didn't want to throw away, in spite of her husband's urging and friends' amazement, became the subject of her new series of watercolors at Lemberg Gallery of Birmingham through July 14.

She said she's fascinated by the translucent qualities of see-through packaging left after the product has been removed. She likes the shapes of the plastic spacers removed from children's toys after they are taken from the box. While she was saving these, she was picking up other bits and pieces to add to her collection.

"Then," she said, "I took everything out and arranged it so I could look at this table and pick out the shapes... it was to be a collage or a sculpture, but I couldn't get it glued together."

Meanwhile she had surgery, her husband had surgery and the table of things just sat until a friend and fellow artist pointed out that it would make a great painting.

OF COURSE, SHE THOUGHT,

why not? One painting led into another and a series took shape. She was doing what she has done with other groups of paintings — to stay within a theme — but like a composer writing a symphony, she changes keys (color palettes), introduces new elements, reintroduces themes in a slightly different guise and enlarges, reduces or presents them from different vantage points.

Only an artist such as Stamelos, with outstanding drawing skills and one who thrives on challenges, would attempt to do this kind of work, especially since she is first of all a watercolorist. She can create a variety of effects, from pale, off-white tones with thin washes to heavy, rich color shiny with glaze.

What is especially interesting about these paintings, in which every bit of space is filled, is the way Stamelos eases from realism into abstraction.

She quoted a phrase she remembered from her college days, "There's more abstraction in good realism than there is in abstraction," adding, "I like action, I like movement."

Her paintings of flowers and foliage have been shown widely in Michigan, but like these which she also considers flower paintings (there's one plastic flower in several of them) they have unusual perspectives. She likes to challenge herself with "what if" kinds of questions.

STAMELOS, NOW LIVING in Dearborn, teaches at University of Michigan (Ann Arbor this term) and Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association.

She grew up in Washington, D.C., and attended the National Art School there on a scholarship after she graduated from high school. While in high school, she took classes in drawing at the Corcoran Museum School. As an art school graduate with a major in costume design, she was a window designer for Woodward & Lothrop, a job she says she really enjoyed.

For 15 years after she was married she was a secretary, but the interest in art was still there.

"I didn't go back to school until '64," she said, but when she did, she was determined, studying at Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts, getting a bachelor's in fine art at Wayne and a master's, majoring in watercolor from Eastern Michigan.

She said she wants to do more of these paintings of miscellaneous left-overs, but will continue the other flower and foliage paintings as well. There are two of the latter in the show, both done on heavy handmade paper.

The exhibit continues through July 14. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, 538 N. Woodward, Birmingham.

In her new series of watercolor paintings of ordinary objects with interesting shapes, Electra Stamelos effectively combines elements of realism with abstraction.

Find the true lens in your heart

One of the best ways to shift from "taking snapshots" to "making photographs" is to realize that the true lens of the camera is in the mind and heart of the photographer. This is the lens that lets us all appreciate the beauty in the world around us.

The lens that looks at a sunset, a flower, a dramatic landscape or the smile of a child and really gets "turned on" isn't the lens in front of the camera. Rather, it's the lens inside of us.

We all know about grammar in the English language. We know where to place the commas and the periods just as with our cameras we know basically how to set shutter speeds and lens openings.

What is important is to do as the writer does. He is not as concerned about where the comma goes as to the words flowing from his heart. The writer makes grammar a secondary thing, just as we have to make the mechanics of photography a secondary thing and concentrate on the importance of what we're feeling and trying to "say" with our photographs.

We can all learn to get proper exposure with our cameras. Now let's work on getting proper exposure with our photographic feelings.

Photographs speak in a strong language. They can bring out a person's raw emotions and can make someone happy, sad, even angry.

A photograph can stir people to action or just make us feel good. In short, a photograph and we as photographers have the ability to reach out and touch the nerves of human emotions that often the spoken or written word can't.

We have the ability to make visible what others can only sense — what an exciting concept.

But we can only do this when we learn not to underexpose our feelings. Remember, it's not the brush of the artist that produces the painting — not the bow of the violin that produces the music — nor the pen of the poet that writes the sonnets. Similarly, it's not the camera that produces the photograph — it's really you.

Put your "inside" lens to work for you and become a poet wit your camera.

David Messing

By David P. Messing
staff writer

A couple of weeks ago I mentioned trying some new media or subjects for the summer. I also mentioned anatomy. I became very interested in anatomy during my college years. Because of my love for anatomy — muscle, bone and proportion — I would drift from whatever I was studying to anatomy.

For example: I would be sitting in the study hall trying to memorize the hardness scale for geology. "Talc, gypsum, calcite, flint, ... Wow, that guy sure has long arms. If he puts his arms down against his side, fingers extended, they should line up half way between the knee and the pubic tubercles. Perhaps his legs are proportionally short? Talc, gypsum, calcite. Or maybe long hands?"

Well, believe it or not, I did graduate from college. I am still an anatomical Walter Mitty and it is with particular pleasure I share my interest in anatomy and life drawing with students and readers.

EVERY ARTIST MUST draw people and most find great difficulty in the attempt. Many artists shy away from drawing the body or they avoid it altogether. They "copout" and "abstract" the human form. But, as in all subjects, I feel you don't have license to abstract a subject unless you can skillfully render it realistically.

In attempting to draw the human body, you should consider both proportion and alignment. Proportion is relating one feature to the whole. Alignment is comparing features in a line. One popular unit of measure in proportioning is head height. There are 7-1/4 heads in the normal human body. So counting the head as one, there should be 6-1/4 head heights between the chin and the feet. Regardless of whether the person is tall or short, head height proportions usually hold true. Remember 7-1/4 heads is only for youths, 18 years of age through adults. Generally, the head heights is seven for a 14-year-old, 6-1/4 for an 8-year-old, 4-1/4 for a 2-year-old and 4 for a small baby. Oh yes, remember that by the time you are 80 years old, you are back down to just seven head heights.

YOU MAY LEARN to use head heights in proportioning much of the body. There are three heads in the spine and one head each in the lower arm and in the wrist to the finger tips. There are also 1-1/4 heads from the shoulder to the elbow. Altogether, there should be a total of about three heads from the shoulder to the finger tips.

In the upper leg there are about two heads from the ball joint to the knee and 1-1/4 heads from the knee to just above the ankle.

Cubits are also helpful. A cubit is the distance between the elbow and the finger tips.

Janice and Harold Watton are putting the finishing touches on this Livonia house they built themselves.

Sweat equity Do-it-yourselfer builds house from ground up

Some people might call Harold Watton a glutton for punishment. Others would salute his skills and patience.

But there's no denying his accomplishment. Watton, who drives a cement truck for a living, has nearly finished building what will be a 1,700-square-foot house on a secluded street in central Livonia.

He's done virtually all the work himself, hiring out only highly specialized tasks like extending water and sewer lines from the street and setting basement wall panels before pouring concrete.

"I knew there was no way I could hire somebody to do the things I wanted done, to look the way I wanted them to look," said Watton, an admitted perfectionist.

Watton designed the house, prepared floor plans, pulled building permits and dug the basement with a back-hoe. He did all the carpentry, interior plumbing and electrical work, drywalling, flooring and roofing.

He installed a furnace and ducts, windows, cabinets and vinyl siding. He and a friend put in a brick fireplace. He even did the landscaping.

"TO ME, it's all very basic and very simple," Watton said. "I've always had an interest in it. I've always had mechanical abilities and a real easy time calculating and figuring. I can see things in my mind."

Watton was well-prepared for the task. He was chief of a carpenter crew for a decade erecting garages, and he built a house himself in Livonia in the early 1980s.

His most recent creation, a two-story structure that looks like a farmhouse, is a compilation of different designs observed during jaunts to communities like Plymouth, Northville and Saline.

Watton's wife, Janice, found the lot during a drive on a lunch break. Watton set to work Sept. 14, 1985. He remembers the date well — his 44th birthday.

The couple and children Jill and Jeffrey lived in apartment while the house took shape. Watton did much of the work during 10-week stretches during winters while he was laid off from his cement job.

Janice, the kids and relatives sometimes helped out.

"Everyone pounded nails, everyone carried bricks," Janice said.

HAND-CUTTING roof rafters probably was the hardest part of the job, Watton said. He often worked alone, nailing first one end, then the other to form the roof.

The family moved into the house in February 1988.

While some work like construction of a second large bedroom and finishing touches on the stairs and moldings remains, the house is basically done.

Highlights include:

- A living room of roughly 19-by-17½ square feet with a large fireplace, a bay window and a 9½-foot high ceiling with a pine finish.
- A country kitchen/dining area of some 320 square feet with a hardwood oak floor, pine ceiling and a bay window.
- A ground floor laundry with an adjacent toilet and shower.
- A sewing/sitting room currently being used as a bedroom, a toilet and bathtub, a master bedroom and a second large bedroom under construction.

MANY FIXTURES and appliances, though fully functional, reflect an old-style country look enjoyed by Janice.

The Wattons financed construction by tapping personal savings, borrowing the cash value of life insurance policies, borrowing from relatives and using credit cards.

The family obtained a conventional mortgage when the house was habitable and paid off many of the construction debts with the proceeds.

Watton figures he's spent about $70,000 so far for the lot, building materials and furnishings. He estimates that he could sell for upwards of $140,000.

It isn't that rare for individuals who aren't licensed as builders to attempt to construct their own homes, said John Fegan, chief building official in Livonia.

"I would say most go along pretty good," Fegan said. "A lot depend on our inspectors to give expertise and help them. It's our policy to do that."

Fegan confirmed that the building department had no problems during construction of the Watton house. Non-professionals must pull the same permits and meet the same construction standards through inspections as licensed builders, he added.

"There's something intriguing about it," Fegan said of do-it-yourselfers. "People who wouldn't think of drilling their own teeth or taking out their appendix think they can build their own house."

The country kitchen/dining room (left) with a pine ceiling has a bay window that overlooks the front yard. The house has a country look (below) with hardwood oak floors and antique furnishings.

EPA review no guarantee radon tests are accurate

(AP) — Homeowners can't be assured that all radon tests are reliable despite government attempts to verify their accuracy, congressional investigators said.

The Environmental Protection Agency annually monitors test procedures and the accuracy of radon test kits from hundreds of testing companies and allows manufacturers to promote the fact that their kits are EPA approved.

But officials of the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, told a House Science, Space and Technology subcommittee recently that the EPA review does not necessarily assure homeowners that the test information is accurate.

"The voluntary nature of the (government) program allows firms to market devices that fail the program or that have not been tested," said Richard Hembra of the GAO.

GAO investigations, he said, have shown that some companies sell test kits that did not meet government standards or kits that had not been reviewed by the EPA. In a few cases, companies submitted one type of device for review and put another type on the market, he said.

Various public interest groups also have complained that the EPA monitoring program for radon test kits allows companies to know beforehand when one of their test samples is being examined so special precautions can be taken.

'The voluntary nature of the (government) program allows firms to market devices that fail the program or that have not been tested.'

THE EPA ESTIMATES that as many as 20,000 lung-cancer deaths are attributed to indoor radon contamination, making radon the second greatest cause of lung cancer after smoking.

If radon levels in a home are found to be greater than 4 picocuries per liter of air, the EPA said levels should be reduced.

Radon is a colorless, odorless radioactive gas emitted from the earth. The concern arises when the gas becomes trapped in closed homes and accumulates to unhealthy levels. A radon problem often can be resolved by increasing ventilation, authorities say.

A rapidly growing radon-testing industry has emerged in recent years, although the EPA does not require testing for radon.

Hembra cited a GAO study late last year that indicated many of the test kits don't meet federal standards and said additional reviews continue to raise questions about test accuracy.

"Even with the increased number of firms demonstrating proficiency in measuring radon, EPA and the public still cannot be assured that all companies meet proficiency standards or that measurement results are accurate on a day-to-day basis," Hembra said.

Because EPA review is voluntary, Hembra said some testing companies can continue to market kits that have not been reviewed by the EPA or failed EPA scrutiny. The agency also does not require companies to implement quality assurance programs.

Henry Habicht, the EPA's deputy administrator, said the agency was expanding so-called "blind tests" during which companies are not aware that one of their kits is under agency scrutiny.

He said the EPA also is requiring that testing companies in the review program develop quality assurance programs, but acknowledged participation remains voluntary.

Return on investment varies with remodeling

(AP) — There's no question that remodeling will add to the value and resale price of your home, not to mention the comfort and satisfaction you'll have in a more enjoyable environment.

Here's a look at some new trends in some of the most popular remodeling projects and a rundown on the kinds of returns you can expect to get for your investment.

• Remodeled kitchen: The kitchen can have more impact on the market value of your house than any other single room. The trend today is toward opening up the kitchen to living areas and bringing in natural light via skylights, greenhouse or clerestory windows.

Sleek, Eurostyle cabinetry — made of solid natural wood or high-quality laminates — are still the rage. So are countertops of granite, and marble look-alikes such as Corian and Avonite.

Many renovators are also going to top-of-the-line appliances like sub-zero refrigerators whose doors accommodate panels to match your cabinets, and Jenn-Air ovens that feature range-top broiling with down-draft exhaust.

All this has raised the cost of kitchen renovation to $19,500 on average, with some makeovers reaching as high as $100,000. While returns on this investment are high — 75 percent to 90 percent of the project's cost — you're better off from an investing standpoint opting for a medium-cost renovation than an ultra-expensive one.

• Replacement doors and windows: Replacing weather-beaten doors and windows remains the most popular residential remodeling project. And today's emphasis on high-quality wood or steel doors, unique window designs — such as round-tops, box, bays and clerestories — and technologically advanced high efficiency designs are paying off in higher returns. Expect to recoup as much as 75 percent of this investment now compared to just 40 percent about seven years ago. But the higher quality comes with a beefier price tag. Replacing all exterior doors and windows for a modest house can run from $7,000 to $18,000.

• New siding: Installing new siding with insulating board is far less expensive — just over $6,000 on the average — and can boost your home's resale price by 75 percent to 100 percent of the project's cost. Higher energy efficiency accounts for some of this project's value, but more important is the enhanced curb appeal it gives your home.

Vinyl and vinyl-coated aluminum siding remain the most popular because they require little maintenance, but owners of more expensive houses may be better off going with natural wood. It's more expensive and, if painted, more difficult to maintain, but is generally preferred by home buyers at the upper end of the market.

When renovating your house's exterior, pay special attention to creating a dramatic entry — for example, a landscaped brick path leading to a carved door flanked by fluted pilasters and topped by a classical pediment. This feature alone can help swing sales negotiations to your favor.

• Room addition: Building a 15-by 25-foot room addition is costly — close to $30,000 on average — and has a relatively modest recovery rate — about 70 percent if you sell within two years. But if you like your present location and simply need more space, you're often better off adding a room or even an entire second floor than buying a larger house. To get the best return on resale, make sure the addition blends in with the layout and architectural character of the house. Also, a multi-purpose room will do better than one restricted to a single purpose such as a gym or workshop.

Average house prices in the top 10 relocation centers are: Los Angeles (Los Angeles County), $300,000; New York (White Plains), $210,000; Washington, D.C. $200,000; Atlanta, $135,000; Chicago, $140,000; Dallas/Fort Worth, $96,000; Minneapolis, $125,000; Orlando, $100,000; Pittsburgh, $55,000; St. Louis, $88,000.

Employees on the move

Economic expansion, changing market conditions and corporate takeovers all played a part in the relocation of 550,000 U.S. employees in 1989 at a cost to U.S. companies of more than $18 billion, according to the Employee Relocation Council and Runzheimer International, based on a study commissioned by Century 21 Corporate Relocation Network.

The average cost per employee was $37,000 and ranged from a low of $4,000 to a high of $100,000. The majority of employers hired third-party corporate relocation firms and national real estate networks to help the relocating employees sell the current home, move the family and buy another house.

The study named the traditional U.S. business centers — New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Washington, D.C. — and the more recent additions to the upper echelon in corporate relocation — Atlanta, Dallas, St. Louis, Minneapolis/St. Paul, Orlando and Pittsburgh — as the top 10 markets for corporate relocation.

Although a few high-profile corporations recently moved from higher-priced Manhattan headquarters, most companies simply prefer to stay put. Consequently, the New York City area and other major business centers on the list should continue as major centers for corporate relocation.

These cities combine well-earned business reputations with civic and cultural amenities still unmatched by the smaller markets. Employers are also successfully luring employees to the larger markets with comprehensive relocation benefit packages that more than compensate for cost-of-living expenses.

THE RESEARCH showed similarities about the smaller markets on the list. All are growing transportation hubs and have lower relative costs of living and housing. Commercial real estate is substantially less expensive than in larger cities. For example, Class A office space in Plano, Texas, lists for $10-$15 per square foot, compared to $37 per square foot in White Plains, N.Y. Many of the smaller markets offer tax incentives and liberal zoning codes.
