College reopens counsel search

Applications due Sept. 13

By Susan Roslek staff writer

After a long and at times heated debate, the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees last week decided to reopen the interview process to select legal counsel for the college.

The full board will interview applicants in public session. The board has tentatively set a special meeting for Wednesday, Sept. 19, to review applications. A final decision is expected at the October meeting.

The board voted 4-3 Wednesday to solicit proposals from area law firms based on a set of qualifications and services required by the college (see related story). Firms interested have until Thursday, Sept. 13 to submit a proposal.

An ad hoc committee of the board previously interviewed and recommended only one firm - Law, Hemmings, Essad & Polaczyk of Plymouth. The recommendation, made at a study session last month, prompted charges of cronyism and sharply divided the trustees.

TRUSTEE Jack Kirksey had ed board president Mary Breen and Robert Law, a Breen family friend, and a principal in the law firm, of using undue influence in urging other board members to make Law's firm the college's legal coun-

Township to get recycling bins

Orange plastic bins designed to hold recyclables are being delivered to Plymouth Township residents beginning today.

The 18-gallon bins are to be used for the mandatory curbside recycling program, which starts the week of Sept. 4.

Students from Wayne State University will distribute the bins, under supervision of Waste Management Inc., the contractor hired by the township to collect the recyclables. The bins are being delivered to households and apartments in Plymouth Township that qualify under the mandatory program. "There's a great deal of work and a lot of effort being put forward by our staff, so we can make the transi-tion as smooth as possible," said township Municipal Services Direc-

Starting next week, that recycling center moves to 46555 Port St. in the Metro West Technology Park, south of Five Mile and west of Sheldon.

Materials that can be placed in the orange recycling bins are newspa-pers, minus the glossy inserts; washed and flattened aluminum and tin cans with tops and bottoms and labels removed; green, clear and brown glass - but no window panes; and plastics with numbers one or two in a triangle on the bottom of the plastic container.

NEWSPAPERS should not be tied, but placed to one side of the bin. Bins should not be set out to the curb unless they're full, or nearly full. Caps to glass and plastic bottles should be thrown away, officials say.

Recycling bins are to be set out at the curb for pickup on residents' normal trash pickup days.

School staff violated toxic dumping rules

By Diane Gale staff writer

> Residents are being warned to stay out of Willow Creek until Friday as workers attempt to clean the stream of caustic fluids dumped by Plymouth-Canton school workers in violation of school policy.

"We are saying that residents should stay out of the water for at least one week for it to be flushed out," said Maggie Fields, Michigan Department of Natural Resources environmental quality analyst.

"There does not appear to be any threat to the creek or residents," she

SOLUTIONS IN four drums were poured in the truck well loading area, ran into the storm sewer and flowed into the creek behind the high school complex on Joy and Canton Center roads, Fields said.

The DNR identified contents in three of the four drums. They contained floor wax, a boiler treatment, Investigators were unable to determine the chemical make-up of the cooling system treatment, Fields said. However, from studying the water condition it was not believed that fluid was toxic, Fields said.

'But we can't say that it won't be a threat," she said.

"They (chemicals in the creek) looked like they were in concentrated form and unused," Fields said. "The floor wax was almost 20 years old and the drums were old and corroded. Information was that they were getting rid of old material they thought wasn't in use anymore.'

Each drum if full could contain 55 gallons, however, authorities are unsure if the gallons were full, Fields

The chemicals were considered to be caustic and not toxic, Fields said.

"A caustic material is like household bleach or a toilet bowl cleaner, if it is spilled on you it could burn, but it can be washed and treated easily," Fields said.

"Toxic is a poison, and by adding water, it won't change it," Fields said. "It would be a poison."

If the creek water touches your skin, authorities suggest cleansing the area with soap and water.

Since the chemicals were dumped in a concentrated form it was strong enough to kill fish and other aquatic life, Fields said

CRIMINAL CHARGES against the people involved in dumping the liquid into the creek are pending the investigation by the DNR. Dick Egli, Plymouth-Canton schools spokesman, declined to name the maintenance people involved in dumping the fluid.

Lions and tigers and bears, oh my! Well, maybe more like, owls and

The William P. Holliday Forest and Wildlife Preserve might be the biggest 500-acre public forest nobody knows about.

Inside, visitors will find the Tonquish Creek, a tributary of the Rouge River, huge trees the size of aircraft carriers, trillium, white trout-lily, jack-in-the-pulpit and swamp buttercup. (Those are flowers.)

And of course, there are a few quadrupeds and flying animals lurking around as well.

Thanks to the efforts of the Holliday Nature Preserve Association two years ago, the nine miles of trails haven't become the nine holes of golf with a name ending in brook, hollow or wood.

Former Westland Mayor Charles Griffin led an effort to turn part of the preserve into a municipal golf course in early 1988, but was turned back by the dogged determination of the association and a feasibility study which said a course would have a detrimental on the preserve's

Canton families sue paint firm over health issues

By Diane Gale staff writer

Two Canton families are suing the Detroit-based Mercury Paint Co. claiming they have suffered health hazards from excessive mercury emissions from paint used on the interior of their homes.

Daniel and Sue Guastella and their children Brian, 7, Megan, 3, and Daniel, 1, are named in one lawsuit. Cali and Lawrence Guastella, and their children Venessa and Ashley are named in another lawsuit. Lawrence and Daniel are brothers.

"I CAN tell you how frustrating this has been," said Sue Guastella, declining to talk specifically about the lawsuit.

"When children are involved it's scary and thinking about the long term effects is scary," she said. "Watching them go through all the testing and treatment is frustrating for something that didn't have to happen. It's not easy to ever watch your kids suffer."

Both families used Mercury interior latex paint, and later were found to have large parts of mercury (in their systems), said David Getto, an attorney representing both families.

Biomedical tech offers big opportunities

Biomedical technology, a medical field that evolved during the 1970s with the manufacture of such equipment as CT scanners and magnetic resonance imagers, offers new career opportunity today, according to Larry Scharmen of Schoolcraft Col-

"The role of the biomedical technologist is to keep the medical mira-cles working," said Scharmen, a pro-gram adviser at Schoolcraft.

Technologists operate and main-tain equipment that assists medical personnel in making early diagnosis in instances of serious illness, there-by reducing medical risks and reducing health care costs, according to

Noel Smolenyak, a biomedical technologist who completed Schoolcraft's two-year training program, is now employed as a field service engineer for Siemans, a Farmington Hills firm that manufactures biomedical equipment.

"The technologist is always the one in the hot seat. I'm the one who's going to talk to the doctor under pressure," said Smolenyak, adding his role is part detective, part elec-trician and part biologist.

A nine-year veteran of General Motors, Smolenyak was facing a layoff from the automotive firm when he learned of biomedical technology training. He entered the Schoolcraft program, participating in a modified internship to earn income while attending school. He found employment immediately after graduation.

Presently, there are more positions than qualified technologists, according to Scharmen, who said, "We need good students and the field needs good people."

THE DEMAND is particularly acute in hospital settings, according to Marty Gibson of the Catherine McAuley Health Center in Ann Arbor where Siemans recently in-stalled a magnetic resonance im-

Gibson, who is lead electronics technician at the center, said he and others are responsible for 6,500 pieces of equipment, including pacemakers, ventilators, equipment for anethesiology and heart monitors.

How to be an advertising whiz.

ou have to buy a newspaper ad in the Detroit market and you're faced with a real dilemma. Circulation is down for the Detroit News and Free Press. Ad rates are up. How do you juggle the numbers, stretch your budget, and get the biggest bang for buck?

Get the lowest CPMs.

This is pretty easy - even for math phobics. Just take the total cost of your newspaper ad and divide that number by the circulation (the DNA's un-audited figures, or SPRING's audited numbers

You'll find SPRING delivers Detroit's upscale suburban market at a lower cost per thousand than either the News or the Free Press. So, you can reach more consumers for less money when you place your ad in SPRING's newspaper network.

See for yourself how SPRING measures up. <sup>a</sup> You don't need a yardstick to see that your advertising dollar can buy more in SPRING. SPRING's network of 39 suburban Detroit newspapers reaches more than 1,000,000 readers at a cost-per-inch that's below that of the News or Free Press — daily or Sunday

That means you can run bigger ads or run more ads when you put SPRING in your media buy.

No matter how you add it up, the bottom line is this: SPRING is simply a better buy.

SPRING reaches more than one million readers. SPRING's circulation is strong and stable. And all SPRING newspapers are audited by either CAC or ABC. Best of all, SPRING costs less per thousand - and less per inch than the Detroit dailies.

Now that you know the score, shouldn't you put SPRING in your advertising plan?

One call. One order. One ad. One million readers. One heck-of-a-buy.

demonstrations set

For the first time in its 142-year history, the Michigan State Fair will recycle its waste and provide recycling demonstrations for those who attend the Fair.

To do this, Wayne County Recy-cling Coordinator Les Vilcone has initiated the establishment of a State Fair Recycling Committee, which also includes assistant fairground general manager Carol Cul-ham, Jan Katz of Recycling Detroit and student interns.

The program will be coordinated by Wayne County, in conjunction with the State Fair and the state Department of Natural Resources. The Michigan State Fair is an event which is put on annually by the DNR.

The fair produces approximately 2,000 cubic yards of refuse each year. That does not include trash which is collected off the streets regularly by the Detroit City Packers during the fair.

This year's recycling program will be a "hands-on" educational demonstration aimed at informing the general public and setting up a recycle used materials such as cardboard boxes, glass, plastic and metal containers.

Waste generated by patrons of the fair, such as paper plates and plastic eating utensils, will not be among the recycled materials this

Volunteers will be working in a highly visible area at the fair, called a Materials Recovery Facility, separating and processing these materials. Cardboard boxes, for example, will be loaded into a baler and pressed into bales while recyclers field visitors' questions. There will be exhibits of recycling equipment, such as a wood chipper and glass crusher, on display as well.

The goal of the project is to heighten public awareness of common materials in the home and businesses that are recyclable.

The State Fair opened Friday and runs through Monday, Sept. 3. The MRF will be located west of the Community Arts Auditorium along Woodward Aveune.

State fair to recycle, Parties gather to nominate for state offices

Michigan voters pick 45 office-holders statewide, giving the state one of the nation's thickest manuals of government.

The official Michigan Manual published by the Secretary of State, doesn't even list biographical infor-mation for many elected officials. Yet they make major decisions that shake university campuses and courts.

Fortunately for voters, the posts are filled for staggered four-, six- or eight-year terms. Only 15 are to be elected Nov. 6.

Voters in the Aug. 7 Democratic primary picked Gov. James Blanc-hard and U.S. Sen. Carl Levin for third terms; Republicans voters nominated state Senate majority leader John Engler for governor and U.S. Rep. William Schuette for sena-

PAST INJURY & PRESENT ARTHRITIS

A knee injury from football, a shoulder fracture after ar auto accident: can the past come to haunt you in the form of arthritis?

Possibly yes, if osteoarthritis develops in that knee or shoulder. Osteoarthritis is the result of wearing away of cartilage: the smooth surface over the ends of bones. Injury can cause pits and frays in these areas which, over time, can result in sufficient loss of joint surface to cause osteoarthritis.

Infection presents another circumstance where past injury creates a hazard for joints. If germs are circulating in your blood stream, a chance exists that the microbes will lodge in the rough joint surface left as a legacy of an old injury. Furthermore, the area surrounding past injury is not as healthy as normal tissue, and may allow germs to survive that otherwise the body could destroy.

Past injury plays no role in the development of rheumatoid arthritis. This arthritis is the result of an immune system reacting inappropriately to normal joint lining cells. No one has yet shown that injury to a joint sets up a reaction that would cause the immune system to run out of control and produce unwanted antibodies. In sum, the relationship between past injury and present arthritis is often obscure, but usually logical.

Dutiful Democrats said they un-derstood: Gov. Jim Blanchard "did what had to be done" when he asked 78-year-old Martha Griffiths to step down as lieutenant governor.

There were more sighs of relief than expressions of anger that Grif-fiths had reached the end of the road.

'Martha Griffiths was a laughingstock with her announcement" early in summer that she was available for a third term, said Joe Benyo, a delegate to the 15th Congessional District convention. "We should bring along young talent. There's a lot of untapped young talent." said Benyo, legislative assistant for the city of Westland.

"How many times has this happened before?" she said. "Is this something that three years down the road we will learn that we should have done something."

"There was a barage of phone calls asking questions about possible symptoms that night and one person who came in to be treated," Cheryl Wachlarz, an Oakwood receptionist.

Oakwood Hospital treated one person for nausea and complaints of feeling weak after the 16-year-old Canton resident said she crossed a bridge over the creek behind the Plymouth-Canton high school complex. She told police she saw a bright green liquid in the water.

She was given antibiotics at Oakwood Hospital Canton Center to flush her system, police said.

The Environmental Protection Agency, Department of Natural Resources, Canton police and fire departments, along with fire departments from other communities were called to the area.

TWO POLICE officers affered minor injuries from inhaling the chemicals at the scene, policesaid.

Police and firefighters from at least four departments founds number of car batteries along with several drums containing an unidentified chemical in the powrhouse building on the campus of the old Plymouth Center for Human Development, according to Nothville Township Police Sgt, Clyde Anderson.

"What they did was board the place up, and they were going to go in there Monday with a deanup crew." Anderson said. One Northville Township officer and a Wayne County sheriff's deputy were taken to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia after complaining of eye irritation, Anderson said. They were treated and released.

FIRE CREWS from Plymouth Township, Plymouth, Northville Township and Garden City responded to the incident, which occurred about 2 p.m. Friday.

Township officials summoned hazardous materials experts from surrounding fire departments, Anderson said.

By late Friday afternoon, firefighters said they weren't sure what chemicals had been released.

Northville township fire officials could not be reached for comment on Saturday.

"Boys will be boys. And moms will always worry. But I worry less with Care Choices."

"You know what boys are like.
And my 5-year old is a typical one, doing whatever he does with the all-out enthusiasm of a kid. And now that he's starting school, he'll be out there, catching all those bugs the other kids bring to class. So between the checkups, shots, lab tests and x-rays, I'd be spending a lot more if I didn't have Care Choices Health Plans.

"Care Choices is an HMO, so besides comprehensive coverage for hospitalization and emergencies worldwide, my family and I are covered for many kinds of preventive care, too. All for just a small co-pay. Plus, Care Choices is convenient and easy to use. We get our care from some of the best doctors and hospitals around. There's not much paperwork. And I can call a representative right in my community with questions.

"Care Choices is an HMO benefits plan I can benefit from today... and tomorrow. And that helps this mom rest a little easier."

Engler plan to pick ticket surprises GOP leaders

staff writer

John Engler will pick all 13 candidates on the state Republican ticket. The nearly 2,000 delegates to the state convention Sept. 8 need only "ratify" them, says GOP national committeewoman Roma Romney. "There'll be gnashing of feeth and wringing of hands," predicted James Alexander, Oakland County GOP chairman, at last week's 18th Congressional District convention. He gressional District convention. He was right.

"Then they'll get on the (conven-tion) floor and do it," Alexander said. "If they (delegates) want to re-fight those fights of '88, that's their right. But they have a candidate (Engler) who's virtually on a par with the governor (in polls).

"My dream is a boring convention, and we all go home united," Alexan-der said.

THE NEWS from Lansing earlier in the day was that gubernatorial nominee Engler, with Romney and state chair E. Spencer Abraham, had endorsed five candidates for educa-

The 1982 and '86 nominees, Richard Headlee and William Lucas respectively, announced and got their preferences for lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney gen-

But Romney told her home 18th District convention that Engler "broke with tradition" by intending to announce all 13 endorsements by the time of the convention - including four education boards (two apiece) and two Supreme Court openings. Traditionally, the lower 10 spots on the ticket are nominated from the court of the court from the convention floor, and frequently there are spirited contests. At one point Romney told the new delegates, in a joking fashion, "For those of you who don't know what's going on, just do whatever I tell you to, it's really quite easy."

SOME DELEGATES, elected from their home precincts, didn't take it as a joke.

Eyebrow raised, a veteran of two decades of state Republican politics pointed to Romney and whispered: "'We' are making the announcement? I didn't know she was part of the group."

The veteran politico added that it was ironic because in the early 1970s young state representative named John Engler and a sidekick named Dick Posthumus ran a candidate against state chair Bill McLaughlin, the darling of then-Gov. William Mil-

County Executive Dan Murphy was incredulous that Engler planned to "name the whole ticket. I saw Engler the day before yesterday. He didn't say a damn thing about this."

ROMNEY, in an interview, identi-fied herself as part of a leadership team. "We've been together since '82. We're on the verge of a win (for governor). We're only five points apart two months out of the chute."

Romney called Engler "the con-summate politician" who "has things under control. I don't see any fights. John has really formed a coalition.

The names were run by everybody."

Alexander confirmed that he had been in on discussions with Engler, former county chair Joe Knollen-berg, Dennis Flessland of the 17th Congressional District and Pat Wierzbicki county vice chair. "Eleven regional meetings were held where he (Engler) met with the Republican Party leadership," Alex-ander said.

District conventions are held to pick delegates to the state convention Sept. 7-8 in Detroit. The 18th District bogged down for an hour in a dispute over delegates from Birmingham, West Bloomfield and

IN WAYNE County, Elaine Don-nelly, a Livonia delegate in the 2nd District, reported, "It wasn't an-nounced quite that way. I thought it was only a few positions." Wayne-2nd delegates were proud that "one of our own," Laura Reyes Kopack, would be on the ticket.

"Engler did schedule a series of meetings (earlier). I was invited to one of those. I was surprised it was such a small group.

"He asked for our suggestio I'm surprised he's going to do it that way (endorse 13). Competition is a healthy. It's how you develop leader-ship," Donnelly said.

ENGLER, A 26-YEAR veteran of the Legislature, became Senate minority leader in 1983 and majority leader a year later after the recall of two Democratic senators.

He has toured the state for years and made himself and the Senate GOP Blanchard's principal foil in the state. Party regulars have recognized Engler as the unchallenged gubernatorial nominee for four years, even before the Aug. 7 primary.

tion posts were:

• Wayne State University Board of Governors — Laura Reyes Ko-pack, Livonia, an attorney for De-troit Edison Co. and ethnic vice chair of the state GOP; and Elizabeth Hardy, Detroit attorney and wife of for-mer 17th District chair Jerry Rosen.

 State Board of Education —
Rich DeVos (Jr.), Ada, an Amway executive and son of the founder, and Lowell Perry, Southfield, a Michigan Bell executive and former University of Michigan football star.

 Michigan State University board - Dee Cook of Greenville. She captured early news headlines by saying Democratic incumbent Larry Owen and the board have turned MSU into a "laughingstock" with overemphasis on athletics.

Fishing has been a godsend

Nothing refreshes the mind and the body better than a few days of R & R. Rest and relaxation, a time to remove one's watch, turn off the answering machine and have the day's most strenuous exercise be that of baiting a hook.

I love to fish. Fortunately (for them and me) God has given me many friends who enjoy the Having grown up in Wyandotte, I find life on the river and lakes comes easy. We always had access to a boat, even though the fanciest turned out to be a 16-foot, 22-year-old fiberglass hulk that could barely make a wake. Many a time, the motor failed to return us to our destination, which then turned a fishing expedition into an afternoon of rowing competition. We never com-plained.

The last few weeks I have enjoyed some major local fishing expeditions. The Detroit River, just where it opens its mouth into Lake Erie down by the Edison stacks, proved bountiful for three nice walleye catches and a whopper of a sunburn.

The following week found a few days of suburban camping at Sterling State Park with Mom and Dad and a mess of fresh lake perch to throw in the skillet. We must have found a "hole" because we were pulling up two at a time.

LAST WEEK, however, was the capper with seven glorious days of "just the guys" backwoods camping along the Manis-tee River somewhere between Cadillac and Manistee. That exen or so walleye, coupled with some large and smallmouth bass and a whopper of a hangover.

I don't profess to be the Mort Neff of Michigan fishermen. I do, however, want to comment about the succulent flavors that were appreciated by all who partook in the eating ritual after the catch.

Right off the bat, I want to thank my Dad and my friend, George Cook of Southfield, for the outstanding performances in the fillet department. Watching both these men in action with nothing but a plank of wood and a sharp fillet knife makes me wish I would have paid more attention during the butchering classes in culinary arts school. But I guess what goes around comes around because when I began heating up the old 12-inch cast iron skillet, instice was served.

James Beard, author of "James Beard's Fish Cookery" (Warner Books), suggests you the cleaned fish in milk and roll in flour. Melt plenty of butter in your skillet. When it is hot but not burned, add the fish and saute until nicely browned on one side. Turn and brown on the other side. Remove to a hot plate, salt and pepper to taste, and sprinkle with chopped parsley. Melt a little additional butter in the pan and pour it over the fish. No wine, no other seasoning — nothing but the butter and the parsley."

SO RIGHT you are, James Beard. That was written back in 1954 and let me tell you, folks, it hasn't changed one iota.

Nothing can compare to the taste of fresh fish, pulled right from the water, filleted while still slapping and then tossed for just a few minutes in butter.

Oh, and please don't wreck the moment by suggesting the use of margarine or spraying the skillet with Pam. My first thought as I bit into a tender fillet was, "It tastes like candy." My fellow fishermen agreed, even though we didn't have the parsley Chef Beard recommended.

Fish is cooked to develop the flavor, not to make it tender. No amount of cooking will ever make fish more tender than it is when it comes right from the water. Overcooking only robs a fish of its delicious juices and makes its texture dry and flabby.

T HAS TO BE the most schizophrenic view in Oakland County.

Look to your right from the top of the hill: Below, it's the very model of affluent suburbia. Perfectly manicured emerald grass, white wicker lawn furniture. split-level homes. A kidney-shaped swimming pool glistening under the bright blue August sky.

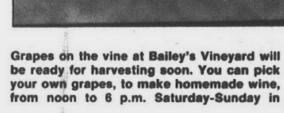

Looking left, it could be one of the small chateaux of Bordeaux or Burgundy: Long rows of grape vines cover the sandy hill, burgeoning with this fall's crop, protected from harsh winds by venerable old pine trees. Bees and butterflies hover, stealing drops of nectar

lettered sign announces the name of the variety of French hybrid grown there: Foch, DeChaunac, Vignole, Seyval, others. There are more than forty rows, supporting 15 varieties of grapevines, first planted by Karl Bailey, a Michigan State Horticultural Agent, in 1966.

Bailey's Vineyard, neglected for several years after his death in 1981, has been coaxed back into fecundity by an architect and a lawyer. Jim Lemire and George Corsetti are tending the 15-acre plot in Troy under an agreement with Bailey's widow, Elizabeth. In return for "sweat equity," the two men own the produce they grow tomatoes, melons, apples, pears, sweet corn and, of course, grapes.

THE GRAPES, red and white, are within a week or two of bursting with lucious juice, ready to be converted into wine, juice or jam. Then it's pick-it-yourself time, and Service has been invaluable. "The same people have been coming here for years to pick grapes. About 60 percent of our grape customers are winemakers, the rest use the grapes to make jam. Wine grapes make better jams, especially if several varieties are combined."

Corsetti and Lemire make about 150 gallons of wine annually, under the Chateau Courville (Ferndale) label. "Neighborhood White" is a blend of 50 percent each Seyval and Vignole grapes.

"That's a lot of wine, admits Corsetti, smiling. "More than we can ever drink. But once we start making wine, we just can't seem to stop. We give bottles of wine to all our friends, relatives and neigh-

"We don't like to use pesticides, explains Lemire, on a walk around their domain, but the bugs and insects have a five-year head start, so we do use some sprays, but no more than necessary.

He stops, and lifts a lacy melon leaf. "I could zap the bugs that are doing this, but I'm waiting to see if it gets any worse."

True to Karl Bailey's philosophy, Lemire and Corsetti are experimenting with melons native to France and North Africa. Spring started a little late this year in Michigan - doesn't it always? but they have hopes.

GRAPE BARBEQUE SAUCE 2 quarts ripe grapes (Baco, Foch, Buffalo, Seneca) White or cider vinegar

1 cup sugar 1 tablespoor i tablespoon cinnamon
i tablespoon alispice tablespoon cayenne pepper tablespoon ground cloves

Cook washed and de-stemmed grapes in pan with vinegar to cover. Cook until soft. Rub through sleve, add sugar and spices. Cook until thick like ordinary barbeque sauce. Pour into sterilized jars.

GRAPE CONSERVE Measure out 8 cups of stemmed grapes (about 4 pounds). With your fingers squeeze the insides of the grapes into a small pan and put the skins in a larger kettle. Cook the pulp for 1/4 hour or so, adding a little water if needed, until it is soft and mushy. Put pulp through a strainer or food mill to extract the seeds, and add the seeded pulp to the skins in the larger pan.

Cook the grapes for about an hour and add: 8 cups granulated sugar.

Cook the grapes and sugar for ¼ hour, then add: 1 cup seedless raisins, 1 cup coarsely chopped or broken walnut meats, grated rind of one orange and juice of one orange.

Boil gently until it is done, about 15 minutes. When you think it is thick enough, pour into sterilized jars and seal. There will be about a dozen 8-ounce jars.

GRAPE JUICE ICE

2 cups grape juice 1/4 cup lemon juice

Make a syrup of water, sugar and salt. Dissolve gelatin in a little cold water and add to the syrup. Add juice and rind, and cool. Freeze in ice cream freezer until mushy. Pack and let freeze. This is very refreshing in hot weather.

PEAR AND APPLE JAM

7 large pears 3 medium-sized cooking apples % cups sugar

1 stick cinnamon, broken into pieces Peel, quarter and core apples and pears. Grate the zest (outer skin) from the orange, taking care not to include the bitter white underneath. Squeeze the juice from the orange.

Finely chop the pears and apples and add them to the rest of the ingredients. Mix well. Place over high heat and cook for 25 minutes, stirring frequently. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

The cornucopia of creativity they unearthed is detailed in "The Best of the Midwest: Recipes from Thirty-Two of America's Finest Restaurants" (Viking Studio Books, 1990, $24.95). It inspires not only geographic exploration but a sense of culinary adventure as well.

Three Michigan restaurants are included in "The Best of the Midwest." They include Chez Raphael (now the Too Chez) in Novi. Tapawingo in Ellsworth and Cousins Heritage in Dexter.

What criteria define "the best"? The Griffiths found their greatest enjoyment in restaurants that combined all the elements of good dining into a successful whole: "Among those places where everything worked, the common denominators were generous portions, artfully conceived and prepared, and served by caring people with a lack of pretention that has come for us to typify

RESTAURANTS FROM 21 cities were selected as the creme de la creme of Midwestern cuisine. The chefs' backgrounds are as varied as the restaurants themselves. Some have been experimenting in the kitchen since childhood. Others took risks for their culinary passion.

Pete Peterson, owner and chef of Tapawingo in Ellsworth, is a prime example. He left a successful career as an automotive designer "to cook fabulous food in the sparsely populated Michigan woods." Peterson uses local ingredients, infusing them with traditional French cooking techniques. Grilled Duckling with Wild Rice Burritos and Onion Confit or a Cassoulet of Morels, Fiddleheads and Asparagus typify his

For more than 18 years, Fred Griffith has hosted Cleveland's Emmy-award-winning talk program, "The Morning Exchange," on WEWS-TV. Linda Griffith, a former radio show host and television critic, conducts cooking classes and writes for regional magazines. While passionate about exotic travel (Xinxiang Province and Papua, New Guinea, for example), the couple tries to return to France each year for "food, wine and art."

Ed Janos, executive chef at the Too Chez, supervised the kitchen at the former Chez Raphael. Here's a recipe from Chez Raphael offered in "The Best of the Midwest."

STEAMED LAKE PERCH FILLETS IN GINGER-LEMON JUS-LIE Serves 4

12 ounces lake perch fillets, skinned

Recipes from Thirty-two of America's Finest Restaurants

Cookbook authors highlight their selection of outstanding Midwestern restaurants.

1 medium Idaho potato 2 cups vegetable oil

1 teaspoon minced shallots 4 medium shiitake mushrooms, sliced, stems removed

1 tablespoon grated fresh ginger 1/4 cup dry white wine 1/2 cup Fish Fumet (see recipe below) Juice and zest of 1 lemon

6 tablespoons unsalted butter 12 small whole pea pods, trim

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Peel the potato and cut into julienne strips. Immediately drop strips into a bowl of ice water.

Heat oil in a medium saute pan until it reaches 325-350 degrees. Remove potate from water, drain, and pat dry. Fry potato in small batches in oil about 5 minutes, or until crisp. Drain on paper towels and keep Butter bottom of a shallow 8-by-11-inch baking pan. Sprinkle shal-lots, sliced shiitake mushrooms and ginger on bottom. Lay perch fillets on top and pour white wine and Fish Fumet over fillets. Cover with buttered parchment paper or foil and bake in preheated oven until fish is just underdone (About 8 minutes).

Remove perch from cooking liquid, cover and set aside in a warm place. Use a slotted spoon to transfer mushrooms, ginger, and shallots to another plate; cover and keep warm. Pour cooking liquid into a small saucepan and reduce to ¼ cup. Add lemon juice and zest and bring back to boil. Then remove pan from heat and whisk in 4 tablespoons of butter a bit at a time. Keep warm by placing the pan in a larger saucepan filled with hot water.

Quickly saute pea pods in 2 tablespoons butter and arrange on four warmed dinner plates. Distribute mushrooms, shallots and ginger onto the serving plates. Carefully arrange perch fillets on top.

Pour sauce over perch, mound the potato on top and sprinkle with

Recipe from the Appendix by Linda and Fred Griffith

Let your fish merchant know a few days ahead of time that you want to make a fish fumet, so that he has time to gather some good bones for you. Do not use bones from strong fish like tuna or oily fish like mackerel. Linda likes halibut, salmon and bass. Please note that when we sweat the vegetables we do not use butter because fat will make the stock rather cloudy.

Makes 3-4 cups 2 cups chopped onions 1 cup carrots, peeled and chopped cup chopped celery

21/2 quarts water 3 pounds fish heads, bones 1 bunch celery

1 bay leaf

2 sprigs fresh thyme 10 white peppercorns, bruised 2 cups Sauvigon Blanc wine

In a large stockpot, place onions, carrots, celery and 1 quart water. Cover with wax paper directly on the vegetables and bring to a boil. Reduce heat immediately and simmer 15 minutes. Discard wax paper, then add the rest of the water and the remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, reduce heat to a brisk simmer, and cook 1 hour. Remove scum as it accumulates on the surface of the liquid.

After 1 hour, remove from heat. Use a large, flat Chinese strainer to remove as much of the fish and vegetables as you easily can. Then pour stock through a colander that has been lined with two layers of cheesecloth. Chill.

WHITE BEAN AND TUNA SALAD

Tuna packed in olive oil is delicious in this Mediterranean salad. However, we like to use tuna packed in water and save the extra calories for dessert. Serve with crusty Italian bread drizzled with olive oil and topped with fresh basil.

1 15-ounce can cannellini (white kidney) beans, rinsed, drained

1 121/2 -ounce can white tuna, drained

1 large tomato, seeded, diced ¼ cup chopped red onion 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice 2 teaspoons Dijon mustard 4 cup olive oil ¼ cup chopped fresh basil Salt and freshly ground pepper Lettuce leaves

Whole fresh basil leaves

Combine beans, tuna, tomato and onion in large bowl. Combine lemon juice and mustard in small bowl. Gradually whisk in oil. Add to salad. Mix in chopped basil. Season with salt and pepper. Line plates with lettuce leaves. Spoon salad onto lettuce. Garnish with whole basil leaves and serve.

Fill your picnic basket with healthy food

Leisurely picnics are one of the reat joys of summer. Whether ou're planning a family picnic at a earby park or heading out to watch e sunset at the beach with a ropicnic for two, no summer is plete without at least one memorable outdoor meal.

Besides taking a break to enjoy the warm summer air, picnicking is a fun way to engage in relaxed conversation and good eating. By filling your picnic basket with healthy, ade foods you can save on fat, calories and cost.

A picnic menu featuring refresh-ing Crabmeat Salad is sure to de-light. This delicate blend of crab, celery, onion and dill can be pre-pared ahead of time and chilled overnight. And why worry about overnight. And why worry about food spoilage?

Serve Vegetable Slaw accented with red bell pepper and broccoli florets in place of classic mayonnaise-based varieties. An Orange-Glazed Carrot Cake, plus a platter of low-fat cheeses and lots of thirst-quenching fresh fruit offers a won-derful choice for dessert.

To assure that everything runs smoothly, take note of a few picnic pointers: To keep your food chilled on the way to the picnic site, try filling a cleaned plastic milk carton with water and freeze the container. It can double as ice for your cooler and as cold drinking water. Make sure to fill it only about % full — water expands when it freezes. At the picnic site, find a shaded area to ore your meal. Also remember to eful items, such as a bottle opener/corkscrew, aluminum foil (for left-overs), plenty of napkins and a plastic garbage bag for afterpicnic clean-up.

IF YOU'D like to include a little around the park. You owe it to your-self. Pack up a picnic basket, select a picnic setting, spread out an over-sized blanket and enjoy the experience of an afternoon to reme

Karl Wukie returns to lead the Canton football team at quarterback. Wukie begins his third year as a starter and hopes to guide the Chiefs to another successful season. Canton was 7-2 last year.

Chiefs try to live up to expectations

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Coming off its finest season in school history, Plymouth Canton's football team might be expected to do more of the same in 1990.

The Chiefs won their first six games last year and finished 7-2, losing only to Farmington Hills Harrison and Plymouth Salem — teams with a combined record of 21-1.

Canton returns its entire offensive and defensive backfields, and that and defensive backfields, and that handful of veteran, skilled players has raised expectations for the upcoming season. There's talk the Chiefs might be one of the top 25 teams in the state, according to one preseason poll.

Such lofty projections center around a trio of 6-foot-1, 180-pound seniors—quarterback Karl Wukie, seniors — quarterback Karl Wukie, fullback Chris James and tailback Jason Riggs. Wukie and Riggs became varsity starters midway in their sophomore year.

"We had a good record and we have a good quarterback coming back," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said, "but it takes more than that. We don't look at it like that, because we have a lot of people to replace. A lot of people have to come along and do the job."

ON THE other hand, Canton must replace all but one lineman on offense and defense. Khoenle rates senior Wayne Robinson (6-1, 230) one of the tri-captains with Wukie and Riggs — a college prospect at center, and senior Gordon Gibbings (6-2, 170) is the only holdover on the defensive front.

"We're strong down the middle if that means anything in football," said Khonele, applying the time-hon-ored baseball adage to his offense. There's no doubt the Chiefs have one of the area's finer backfields. What they lack - if only in terms of reputation — in the line they make up for with their backs.

"I'd rather have those people back than not," Khoenle said. "I'd rather go this way than the other. Definitely, our strength is in our backs."

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Jason Riggs fields a punt during practice. He will start at tailback.

Wukie, the second-team quarterback on the All-Observer squad, threw for seven touchdowns and ran for eight last year. He also will do the punting and handle extra points, field goals and kickoffs.

"He's had a lot of experience, and he should really peak out this year," Khoenle said. "He's a focal point in our plans and, barring injury, should do real well."

WUKIE, JAMES and Riggs complement each other well, he added. All have 4.7 speed in the 40-yard dash. James runs the dive play well and can break the long gainer. Riggs can turn the corner or become another receiver.

"This is probably the best backfield we've had since I've been here," Khoenle said. "They have good speed; they're good athletes; they're good kids. What more do you

'We've had athletes as good as these kids, but we've only had one (at a time). With three of them, it's hard to key on any of them."

Khoenle believes the Chiefs have a better group of receivers, though they lack players with starting expe-

Seniors Brett Howell (6-2, 195), David Cessante (5-9, 170), Jason Lee (5-9, 155) and Dell Williams (5-8, 155) will play the split end and flanker positions in Canton's pro-set formation with junior Eric Cunningham (6-2, 155) helping out. Senior Sean Bartolucci (6-0, 185) is the heir apparent to Jason Dembny at tight end with senior Roger Eaton (5-10, 170) and sophomore Marcus McCauley (6-2, 185) in reserve.

"I THINK we have good potential offensively," Khoenle said. "We have a lot of different weapons we can use. In that respect, we could be quite varied.

On the offensive line with Robinson, the guards will come from a group that includes returning senior Bill Zachary (5-11, 205) and juniors Ben Hendricks (6-1, 190), Jim Hanna (5-11, 170) and Chris Christensen (6-

Senior Mike Teller (6-5, 215) played a lot last season and will start at one tackle. The other will be either senior and converted end Jeff Kenney (6-3, 210), junior Bob Bouchillon (6-1, 200) or junior Vince Turri (6-0, 190).

"I think the kids we've got are comparable to the ones we had last year," said Khoenle of his line prospects. "Some played other positions

SC volleyball reloads for league race

By C.J. Risak staff writer

It should be clearly noted that Schoolcraft College's volleyball team has lost four key players from last year's team, which finished 40-12 overall, won its fifth-straight Eastern Conference title and ended up fifth in the National Junior College Athletic Association tournament.

It should also be clearly understood that, despite the losses, the Lady Ocelots won't be rebuilding this year. A better description would be reloading.

Since Tom Teeters became coach in 1985, SC has not lost an Eastern Conference match. The Lady Ocelots' '89 mark of 10-0 ran their unbeaten string to 44, and, while several conference teams seem improved, the streak does not seem to be in peril.

Why? Because five experienced players return, including three starters, and five recruits have talent enough to replace those who have departed.

"OUR STRENGTH," predicted Teeters, "is going to be our offense. We have a lot of players who each do one thing very well."

Sproul, a 5-foot-9 setter from Livonia Churchill, and 5-9 Elena Oparka and 5-6 Angellette Love, both outside hitters.

Teeters has often referred to Sproul as the finest setter in the state. His regard for Oparka and Love has reached the same "Elena's hitting a ton," said Teeters. "In practice, we let the others dig against Elena and Angellette. When you're digging against them, you're digging against two of the best hitters in the state.

Other experienced returnees are 5-3

Christy Clark and 5-6 Laura Brown, who played two years ago for SC. Both are defensive specialists.

Still, if SC is to match its previous successes - the Lady Ocelots won the NJCAA title in '88 - newcomers are going to have to make a considerable impact, filling the void left by the departure of JoAnn Kolnitys, Alisha Love, Kirsten Stelzer and Anjanette Lankford.

Teeters thinks they will.

SO FAR, the SC coach is most impressed with the play of five recruits: 5-11 middle blocker Renea Bonser (Livonia Stevenson);

5-9 outside hitter Kari Domanski (Livonia Ladywood); 5-8 outside hitter Stephanie Jandasek (Brighton); 5-6 defender/right-side hitter Kim Laginess (Monroe St. Mary's); and 5-61/2 defender Lisa Domke (Roger Bonser is slated to fill Kolnity's position, while Domanski's hitting is "very strong," according to Teeters. Jandasek will do some setting as well as hitting, and Laginess will play in certain hitting or defensive situa-

Baker within reach of milestone

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

Farmington Hills Mercy basketball coach Larry Baker, who turns 37 today, should have another day worth remembering later on this fall.

Baker's 300th career win is fast approaching, and he'll get it if the Marlins manage to win at least 10 games this season. Although he doesn't pay much attention to such milestones, Baker should know he's among select company

According to Michigan High School Athletic Association records, only two girls basketball coaches have won more than 300 games, led by Frankenmuth's Art Pelzer, who has won 325.

To win 300 games is one thing. To do it at Baker's age is something else.

"When it comes, I'll consider it an important milestone," said Baker, who has a 290-68 record and has won two Class A titles in 15 years at Mercy. "If I don't get it this year, it means I perhaps overestimated this group, because I think we're better than a .500 team.

"But we're pointing toward the state tourna-ment and would rather win games at the end of the season than at the beginning. It's not just a record of success; it's a measure of longevity."

A GOOD FOUNDATION has been set for 1990 with Mercy's junior varsity teams losing only one game in the last two years. The schedule is sure to be more demanding, however, especially with de-fending Class B state champion Dearborn Divine Child moving into the Catholic League Central Di-Mercy opens the season Tuesday at home against Walled Lake Central.

Baker said the Marlins are capable of improving on last year when they won a Class A district title and finished 14-9 overall. But replacing firstteam All-Observer point guard Jenny Clinton, leading scorer Joanne Stephens and leading rebounder Lee Albrecht will be difficult.

Baker's biggest concern is replacing Clinton, who set Mercy's career assist record and was like another coach on the floor. Clinton, who will play for Marquette University this winter, was the fourth Mercy point guard in the last decade to earn a Division I scholarship.

"I think the biggest loss with Jenny gone is leadership because for the past two seasons she was our on-court leader," Baker said. "That's something this group is going to have to compensate for. We have six seniors who have played together for four years and are really cohesive, but there isn't that one take-charge person among

The leading senior returnee is Carrie Walton, a 5-foot-8 swing player who averaged 8.3 points per game a year ago. Walton, who kept busy this sum-mer playing at four basketball camps, worked on her perimeter game which was suspect a year

ALTHOUGH WALTON has had funner summers, she believes the time put in on her game

"I was only home two weeks (all summer), and it was a lot of hard work," Walton said. "I was kind of wondering for a while if it was worthwhile, but you can tell our team is a lot farther along than other teams. We'd like to win the league and regional, and after that we can go as far as we want. It just depends if we want to step

A lot also will depend on how Baker's three-guard rotation will work. Baker plans to use seniors Susie Atchinson and Kathleen Gerigk and junior Kathleen Berrigan in his three-guard plan.

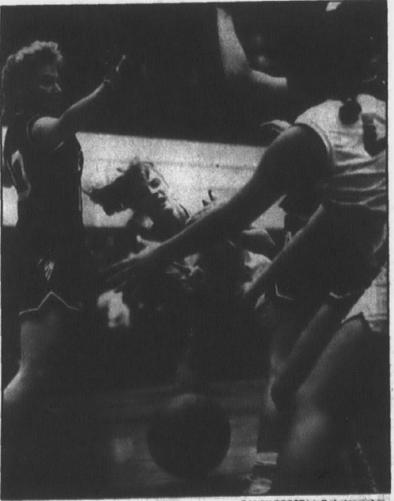

Atchinson, who started last year during the state tournament, is considered the best shooter of the bunch, while Gerigk is noted for her defense and Berrigan for her playmaking.

Gerigk, a spot starter, scored 27 points in two pivotal games against rival Livonia Ladywood. Berrigan, a point guard, played 22 of the 23 games a year ago working as a reserve behind Berrigan has the biggest burden to carry, but Baker is confident in her abilities.

Marshall excited about '90

All the changes in University of Michigan's football team - from a new coach to a different quarterback and tailback - would seem to indicate a slightly unstable situation. At least one that would take some time to adjust to.

The loss of a presence like that provided by Bo Schembechler alone would keep most observers from picking the Wolverines No. 1 in the Big Ten. ut a defense that returns nine starters to the ding conference champion has convinced those observers otherwise - U-M is, indeed, the Big Ten's preseason pick.

Of course, to make such a prediction come true, the defense is going to have to perform up to standards. And that doesn't mean playing merely as well as last season, according to new coach Gary Moeller. "We have to improve," Moeller in-

ALEX MARSHALL agrees. A two-year starter at outside linebacker, the Redford Bishop Borgess graduate enters his junior season of eligibility with one particular goal.

"I'm always looking to improve," the 6-4, 241-pound Marshall said. "If I'm not improving, I might as well leave the game. I'm looking to better myself."

There were occasions last season when few could have matched Marshall's performance. He ran rampant against Ohio State, registering a ca-reer-best 10 tackles, including a quarterback sack. He had seven tackles, two sacks and a fumble recovery against Michigan State, and made six tackles, two for losses, against Notre Dame.
In all, Marshall accumulated 63 tackles, with a team-best 11 for 62 yards in losses. He was second among Wolverines in sacks with six and in fumble recoveries with two.

Still, Marshall is burdened by what might have been. Although he sparkled in some games, he lacked consistency. Which is why post-season hon-

"I WAS disappointed with the way things came out last year, as far as the post-season," he admitted. "But I have no control over that. I want to be a dominant player. I just want to have a tremenTo accomplish that, U-M outside linebackers coach Bobby Morrison said Marshall need only develop his consistency. "There's a saying on defense," said Morrison. "Consistency is the truest sure of performance.

"That's the biggest thing (Marshall) has to work

His strengths, according to Morrison, are plen-tiful. "He's a strong guy. He does a good job play-ing tight ends, he rushes the quarterback well and he's good against the run."

And his deficiencies? "Because he plays the run and rushes the passer so well, he isn't as good dropping (into pass coverage)," Morrison answer-

But Morrison emphasized again what most con-cerned him about Marshall. "He's been challenged by me and the coaching staff to be consiste He's a pretty competitive guy. I think he'll meet

If U-M is to vie for another Big Ten title, it will need its defense to be a stabilizing force — particularly after replacing a near-legend as coach.

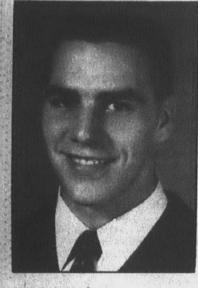

Marshall, though, doesn't think the coaching change will be much of a switch. "It's no change at all," he asserted. "Mo was cut right from the same mold as Bo."

Which means U-M should be at the top of the Wayne Robinson is a veteran center and the lone returning starter on the Canton offensive line. He also is a tri-captain.

Knuth has modest goals at U-M

Erik Knuth vying for time staff writer

Some football players foster fantasies of scoring the winning touchdown game after game, or bursting through a triple-team blocking scheme to sack the quarterback every time he drops back to pass

Erik Knuth might harbor similar dreams. But his coals for his upcoming season as a defensive lineman at University of Michigan are both more immediate and realistic in approach: "I want to make it through two-adays (practices). Then Notre Dame .

Knuth, a Redford Catholic Central grad from Plymouth, is not a starter for U-M. Not yet. But the sophomore-eligible defensive tackle should see plenty of ac-

"I hope so," he said. "That's the way it looks right now. But there's competition all the time.

Knuth might be compared to another CC grad who played at U-M — Mark Messner. Messner became an All-American and signed a pro contract with the Los Angeles Rams.

LIKE HIS predecessor, Knuth was an undersized lineman coming out of high school, relying more on his quickness instead of trying to overpower offensive

And like Messner, the 6-foot-1 Knuth knew he had to bulk up to compete on a Big Ten level. He has. He was 233 pounds coming out of CC; entering this season, he's

"I've been working out a lot," Knuth said. "I don't have much choice. That's what (the coaches) are looking for. And I'm still as quick."

Knuth knows the team's coaching change, with Gary Moeller replacing Bo Schembechler, could have a considerable impact on U-M's season. "I miss Bo already," he said. "But I think coach Mo will be great. He's been here 17 years, so it's not like a new program coming in."

His perspective on the Wolverines' reaction to the coaching change is about the longest-range viewpoint Knuth cares to give. He isn't worrying about Big Ten titles and Rose Bowls and national championships.

"That first game (against Notre Dame)," was as far ahead as Knuth planned. "All I want to do is get in and get some playing time."

The strength of the defense is the secondary where Cessante and Lee return at halfbacks and Riggs at safety. Howell was the monsterback last year but is moving to inside linebacker. Wougamon will take his place as the Chief.

Senior Liam Rentz (5-10, 160), another ex-defensive back, will play alongside Howell at linebacker. Senior Josh Walaskay (5-9, 165) and Turri, junior George Young (6-0, 175) and McCauley provide backup.

"IF WE'RE going to do well, we have to do well on defense," Khoenle said. "Last year our kids were strong on defense, and we exploited that."

Canton put smaller players on the line last year, using a slashing, stunting style of defense, and it worked extremely well. But the players who made it happen - Ron Groh, Craig Piwko, Max Corona and Ron Barlow are gone; however, the Chiefs plan to stay with that approach.

Senior noseguard Joe Hutko (5-8, 165) fits the mold and, with a bench press of 350 pounds, is the strongest player on the team.

The tackles are apt to be Hanna and senior Dean Benedict (6-1, 215) with senior Ben Perpich (5-8, 170), junior Shelby Mills (6-0, 205) and Bouchillon in reserve.

During the past five years, Gordon's teams have gone 44-9 with four Class A playoff appearances. And in the only season the Rockets failed to make the playoffs, 1987, they cap-tured the Western Lakes Activities Association title.

Finishing with a 9-2 record, 1989 had to be termed a satisfying season for Glenn, which lost to only state Class B champion Farmington Harrison (in the WLAA title game) and to Catholic League A-B Division champion Birmingham Brother Rice (in the state playoffs).

GOING INTO 1990, Glenn faces more than just a rebuilding job.

Wilkins wins but do Tigers notice?

IKE WILKINS FACES a steep, uphill climb. Still. He knows it. He knows it because he was not a high draft choice of the Detroit Tigers in 1987. He also does not possess the kind of talent — most nota-bly, an overpowering fastball — a pitcher needs to impress people in positions of power.

"I'm pretty much in a tough situa-tion," he admitted. "Baseball's a game of business and politics."

Which means top draft choices who sign for lots of money will get loads of chances, leaving lower draftees whatever's left over — in both money and opportunities. Success does not always figure into the equa-

Wilkins, a 24-year-old former star at Livonia Franklin, figures he might get one shot at the big time, while a top pick will get a half-doz-en. Wilkins also vows to be ready. EVEN THOUGH he's not a big strikeout pitcher, and he throws only in the mid-80 mph range, Wilkins may force the Tigers to give him his chance. Because despite any of his perceived deficiencies, there is no denying he does one thing extremely He wins ballgames.

Playing for the London Tigers, De-troit's double-A team, Wilkins ranks among the top pitchers in the East-ern League. Through Saturday's start, he was 12-4 with a 2.55 earned run average. He was tied for third in the league for victories (two others had 13) and was seventh in ERA.

It might have been better. His game against Williamsport Saturday was one of his poorest outings of the season. The worst hitting team in the league, Williamsport tagged him for five earned runs and 11 hits in five innings. He got no decision; London rallied to take a three-run lead into the ninth, then lost it and the game 10-8 in 12 innings.

"I THOUGHT that was a night-mare, a dream," said Wilkins. Fur-ther analysis led him to be less criti-cal. "I didn't feel bad about (my per-formance)," he said. "The change-up I wish I had back, but that's all part of the game."

The change-up Wilkins referred to was tagged by Williamsport's Tom Alfredson for a three-run homer in the third inning. Still, London pitching coach Dyar Miller agreed with

"He gave up that three-run homer on his third-best pitch, but other than that he did OK," said Miller.

A game like Saturday's is a rarity for Wilkins. He remembers just one worse this season; last year, which he split between the Tigers' Lakeland Class A team and London, Wilkins was a combined 13-9. He lost four consecutive 1-0 games while with Lakeland.

Wilkins relies on control rather than power to be effective. In 158% innings, he has issued just 45 walks, about 21/2 per nine innings pitched.

But that's not his only weapon.

"HE'S A helluva competitor, I'll tell you that," said Miller. "That's the best thing about him. He goes out there with marginal stuff sometimes and gets it done. He knows how to

"He's not a high prospect-type guy, but he gets the job done."

And his chances of getting it done on a higher level? 'He'll be in triple-A next year, I'll tell you that," answered Miller. "He keeps winning everywhere. All he has to do is stay healthy and keep Wilkins' approach is simple: "I just try and pitch smart. I've got to go with what I've got."

What he's got that's good is "a sinking fastball when it's working." His other pitches are a slider and

All are effective, none overpower-

All are effective, none overpowering. Which is why Wilkins remains a major-league longshot.

His record, fueled by his buildog-like tenacity — "I go out every time and just try to win" — is his greatest asset, maybe his only one. Asked if he thought he would be playing at triple A. Toldo next year. Wilking triple-A Toledo next year, Wilkins. replied, "I surely hope so. But (the Tigers) have got a basic plan. They're going to give their high draft picks every chance to succeed.

"There's no telling what they're going to do."

Unless Wilkins keeps winning. Then he might finally get his chance, at the corner of Trumbull and Michi-

"KATHY BERRIGAN has potential," he said. "She's extremely quick and going against Jenny Clinton every day last year in practice has to be a benefit. She had a great summer. We'll have to see what happens when the pressure is on.

We are very balanced at guard. Any one of the three could start and play for any one of the teams we've played in the summer - and that's a strength."

Mercy's biggest player up front is junior Laure DeMattia, a 6-foot junior who made the "All-Underclassbasketball

Three seniors — Maureen Paulin, Kim Reichard and Judi Rosowski are vying for the final starting spot, Baker said.

Baker said.

Also expected to get a look are juniors Natalie Cichonski and Mary Bieniewicz and sophomore Katie Heffernan. Bieniewicz, who was the JV's most valuable player a year ago, has been slowed by an ankle injury, but could contribute this year.

"The real key to this team is depth," Baker said. "Our motto this year is "Sten up and meet the chal-

AREAS THAT could pose a problem for SC, according to their coach, are "serve reception - we're going to need improvement there, and our rightside attack. And Bonser has to improve at the offensive end. She does a real good job blocking for us, but she has to get better." Conference foes Teeters thought might be improved enough to challenge

Cagers in quarterfinals

By Marty Budner

The Detroit Maccabi boys basketball team advanced to the quarterfinals of the 1990 North American Maccabi Youth Games last week in West Bloomfield, and that's more than what coach Howard Goldberg ever expected.

"I was very satisfied with the way we played," said Goldberg, in his first year as the Detroit Maccabi coach. "I think the kids played at a level beyond their true ability.

"We didn't win a medal, but we were in some very tough games," he said. "I can't complain at all. I think I got the most out of the kids."

Indeed, Detroit played well throughout the tournament, winning four of its six games. The field of 32 squads included eight, four-team di-

Detroit was 2-1 in round-robin division action and tied for first with Bergen County, New Jersey and Boston. Detroit allowed the least amount of points of those three teams and was seeded first coming out of its division. In medal-round action, Detroit

Detroit then defeated Chicago which finished second in its division Thursday afternoon before a standing-room only crowd at the Jewish Community Center court.

only to have Chicago close out the first half with a flurry of threepointers to take a 41-35 halftime lead. However, the hometown squad rallied in the second half, taking a 59-52 lead after three quarters thanks in part to a bench technical against Chicago. Early in the fourth quarter, Detroit took control behind some excellent play by southpaw point guard Jeff Rosenberg (Bloomfield Hills Andover High School). Rosenberg converted two straight three-point plays and took a 65-52 lead with 7:03 left in the game.

They were never threatened after that.

Harley Marks, a forward from West Bloomfield, was Detroit's high scorer with 24 points. Rosenberg and Scott Zack (West Bloomfield High School) each finished with 20, while Sam Averbuch (West Bloomfield High School) added 14.

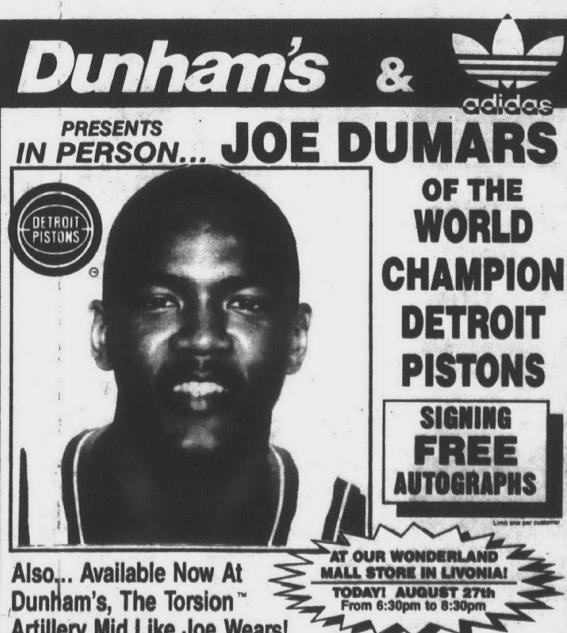

The emotional victory over Chicago allowed Detroit to move into the quarterfinal round against Los Angeles, which finished second in its division to Israel. L.A. defeated Detroit on Friday, 74-73.

Detroit enjoyed five-point half-time led, 37-32. The game see-sawed throughout the second half, with the hometown favorites finally falling

Non-bowlers are missing all the fun

HIS IS SIMPLY A message to anyone who has never bowled: "Maybe you don't know what you are missing!" We who bowl do not have to sell our

We who how do not have to sell our favorite pastime to others, however, there are some everlasting misconceptions and images from years past that could turn some people off.

The local bowling centers are ready for the 21st century with the purpose of winning new customers with pleasant and comfortable surroundings, the necessary conveniences, clean facilities and other means of entertainment on the premises.

Even the food is better and more diverified than in the past.

I recently was visiting one of the local bowling establishments when an elderly man caught my attention, getting in some practice time on the lanes. I could see that he had some physical difficulty, in fact he was having chest pains, but he first kept right on bowling, having to stop and rest a while between shots so the fall would subside and he could throw again.

It was a revelation to me just watching this senior citizen, the sheer pleasure on his face when all 10 pins tumbled to the deck. I never found out his name, but to me this was the perfect example of what bowling can be all about.

We all go out on the lanes knowing that here can be the instant gratification the ext ball will most certainly be a strike and will most certainly be a strike dud if not, perhaps the next one. In league play, we have the great equalizer, that is the handicapping system which evens up the competition, where "David and Goli-ath" can meet and compete and either an be the victor.

Bowling is less expensive than a lot of ether sports, a newcomer can use a 'House' ball for free.

I did not bowl at all until the age of 30 when a neighbor became ill and I was nyited to fill in for him. I look back now ind think, "Why had no one let me know about this game earlier?"

I think I might have missed out on some pretty good years. If you have not bowled, and wondered if this is for you, stop in at your friendly bowling center, ask for a little help, and open up your lifestyle to a year some refuse experience. lifestyle to a very rewarding experience. That's what bowling is about!

- WE SCORE FOR YOU -

While your cooking was supposed to help you win someone's heart, it may also help you destroy it.

Because a diet that's too high in fat may increase the risk of heart disease as well as certain kinds of cancer. Fortunately, you can help reduce your risk simply by eating a low-fat diet containing lots of fruits and vegetables, whole grain foods, lean meats, fish, poultry and low-fat dairy products.

For a free booklet on how to reduce the fat in your diet, call 1-800-EAT- LEAN.

At the start of his 90-day training program with plump 203 pounds and a waisteline he de-Mike Anthony, Bill Parker weighed in at a scribed as a Mack truck tire.

By the end of his training program, Bill had trimmed his weight to 171 pounds and had nipped six inches off his waistline.

The 'miracle' of rockin' 'n' rollin'

By Bill Parker staff writer

GOAL ATTAINED . . . GOAL ATTAINED ... GOAL AT-TAINED.

The words flashed in red lights on the screen, alerting me to the fact that my program had ended.

The message flashes on the screen of the Stairmaster 4,000 a machine that simulates stair climbing - at the One-on-One Athletic Club in West Bloomfield when you complete a set program. I had seen the message numerous times but this time it held a special meaning. I had completed my program on the Stairmaster, but I had also completed my 90-day training program at One-on-One. Three months ago, I walked into One-on-One with the likeness of a Mac Truck tire hanging loosely around my waist. I was overweight and out of shape.

Now, after 90 days of rigorous training under the guidance and watchful eye of my personal trainer, Mike Anthony — Mr. Michigan 1989 — we had melted that Mac Truck tire to the size of a 10-speed tire. I dropped 32 pounds, trimmed my physique and firmed up muscles throughout my body.

IN THE BEGINNING, it almost seemed far-fetched that I could lose 30 pounds in 90 days.

"That's a lot to lose," I remember Anthony saying. "But we can do it, if you want to. It'll take some work and some dedication by you, but we can do it. Let's rock'n'roll."

Let's rocK'n'roll? At 31, I had been told numerous times in the recent past, mostly by men much younger than I, that I was too old to rock'n'roll. Anthony helped me prove those skeptics wrong. But his definition of rock'n'roll was nothing I had envisioned.

When Anthony said, "let's rock'n'roll," — and he repeated it often during the course of a workout - it had nothing to do with making some fancy moves on the dance floor. He really meant "let's go to work, let's pick up the tem-

So for the last 90 days we've been rockin'n'rollin' at One-on-One.

FOUR DAYS A week, two hours a day, for the last 12 weeks we've been working out. I concentrated my efforts on free weights and Nautilus equipment.

Mondays and Thursdays we worked my upper body muscle groups while Tuesdays and Fridays we worked lower body muscles.

Wednesdays and weekends I rested. Each day, before working the specific muscle groups, I spent 25 minutes on cardiovascular exercise. To avoid becoming bored with one particular exercise I rotated between the Stairmaster, a lifecycle, a rowing machine, jogging and jumping rope.

After the muscle groups were worked (to point where they began to have). It finished each session to burn) I'd finished each session with another 20-25 minutes of cardiovascular exercise.

Over the course of the program, ries. I started the program at 203 pounds and finished at 171 pounds. I reduced my body fat from 20.8 percent to 13.1 percent. The ideal range of body fat for men is between 12 and 16 percent. My blood pressure even went down, from 108/80 to 90/60.

Rock'n'roll?

THE IRONY OF the whole program is that there were more unplanned obstacles tossed in my path to better health in the last three months than I would normally have to hurdle in a year.

I missed two of the first four days of training because I was on vacation. A week later, I had a pair of wisdom teeth extracted which laid me up for over a week. I missed five training days.

My second daughter was born on July 3. I missed two days of training. She was delivered Caesarean section, so I took another week off to help my wife through her first week at home. I missed three more

After I finally got back to the club, I developed a viral infection in my throat and missed two more days of training. That's a total of 14 training days I missed — better than three weeks of working out.

I wonder what I would have lost with three months of uninterupted rock'n'roll.

THE HARD PART is done. I've changed my ways and lost the weight. Now comes the task of maintaining what I've already accomplished.

Sticking to my diet won't be too hard, since I enjoy what I'm eating now. I don't have the luxury of a health club membership so, for now, I'll have to substitute by run ning, doing push-ups and crunches (modified sit-ups).

The mirror is my motivation now. I certainly don't want to look in the mirror one day and realize the bulge is beginning to return. It's history now and I fully intend to keep it that way.

Let's rock'n'roll.

Exercise played a major role in the success of my 90-day workout program, and I obviously couldn't have accomplished what I did without exercise. But I must admit that altering my diet also played a big part in my ability to lose 32

If I stuck to my guns during the week, I would treat myself on the weekend by consuming just about anything I wanted. And by the weekend, I wanted just about everything.

Weekends turned out to be a celebration, and they were the salvation of this diet. Knowing I could have some pizza or beer or ice cream and cake on the weekend (not necessarily at the same time) enabled me to stick to my diet during the week.

But when the weekends did arrive, I was also cautious about overdoing it because I didn't want to undo the work I had accomplished during the week. It was a Catch-22 situation.

"ONCE YOU start eating good food and your system has cleaned itself out, you can cheat a little on the weekend still be OK because it will pass right through you," explained my trainer Mike Anthony, Mr. Michigan 1989.

And pass right through it did. In fact, some of my weekend celebrations left my stomach feeling somewhat upset.

I've been asked a lot of times about what I did eat and to answer that question I should first explain what I didn't eat (during the week).

No fried foods. No cake, cookies, candy, pies or cinnamon rolls. No beer, pop or whole milk. No cheese. ice cream, egg yokes or creamy dishes such as scalloped potatoes or creamed corn. No red meat. No sodium. No pizza, tacos or chicken chop suey. I tried to stay away from the foods I knew were filled with fat and cholesterol.

So what did I eat, you ask?

I ate fresh fruit and vegetables (no butter or sour cream and low sodium veggies, of course). I ate chicken (broiled, baked or boiled without the skin), turkey and lots of

Instead of a Twinkie or a King Dong for a late-night snack I'd grab an orange, an apple or some strawberries or cherries.

INSTEAD OF bacon, eggs and butter-coated toast with jelly for breakfast, I'd have a bowl of cereal and some fruit. Raisin Bran with skim milk and a banana or a slice of cantaloupe has turned into a popular breakfast tradition at the Parker house.

A typical dinner/lunch now consists of a can of tuna fish (no mayonaise) or a chicken breast, green or waxed beans (no butter) a baked potato topped with apple sauce, a hard boiled egg (minus the yoke) and a couple plums for desert.

I admit, there were times I cheated. I'd indulge in a beer or two after my weekly softball games or a small piece of cake here and there, but I cheated in moderation and I always got right back on track after a slip up.

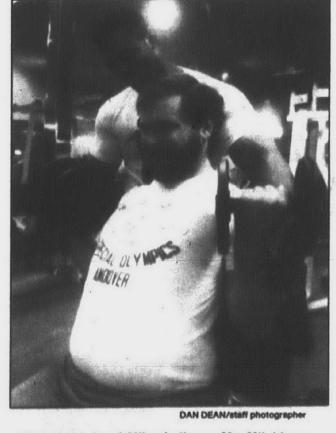

The diet did wonders for trimming my belly, and it also made a difference in my health.

BECAUSE OF a problem with chronic heartburn, I've been on a prescription of Zantac (a stomach medication) for two years. I seemed to have heartburn whether

Prior to my change in diet, I was taking two Zantac a day. But after about two weeks of watching my intake, I realized I rarely got heartburn anymore even when I didn't take the medication.

In the last two months, I haven't taken one Zantac and I haven't had heartburn once.

Eating good food made a big difference in the shape of my stomach, both inside and out.

Answer: A technically well-produced schlock horror film.

That's the bottom line on Universal's financial contribution to former Birmingham resident Sam Raimi's "Darkman" (D-, R, 94 minutes), an unrelentingly sadistic film that is poorly scripted and generally unpleasant to watch.

Peyton Westlake (Liam Neeson) has the title role as a brilliant scientist working on laboratory-engi-neered skin. His live-in girlfriend, attorney Julie Hastings (Frances McDormand), discovers a memo incriminating mobster Robert G. Durant (Larry Drake) and some planning commission folks. Julie confides the nature of the memo to entrepreneur Louis Strack Jr. (Colin Friels), an urban developer embarking on a major project.

From the outset, friends, the plot crumbles. It's not clear what her relationship was to Strack nor why she would tell him about the memo. In works for Mr. Big, alias Strack. LIKE MUCH of "Darkman's" plot, to be kind, the continuity and credibility are weak. In the course of Durant's search of the lab for the memo, Westlake's assistant, Yakitito (Nelson Mashita), the faithful minority companion, is executed in a cruel and gross display. After torturing Westlake, recovering the memo and boobytrapping the lab, Durant and

In a remarkable, mind-boggling (even for Hollywood) explosion, the lab is destroyed and Westlake blown several hundred feet through the window and into the water. Remarkable, no damage to his eyes and the upper portion of his face - but the rest of his unidentified, badly burned body is taken to the local hospital where an unnamed lady doctor (played by an uncredited actress) performs surgery which severs Westlake's nerves so that he feels no

The same may not be said for the audience. The operation also gives Darkman superhuman strength although the explanation for that is pretty weak.

Westlake, now "Darkman," escapes from the hospital and dresses like the 'Phantom of the Opera to which "Darkman" owes a great debt—not only for elements of the story line but for using them so poorly.

Darkman's superhuman strength and inability to feel pain somehow includes the ability to readily fabricate high-tech equipment from the ruins of his old lab. Credibility suffers from his single-minded concern with engineering synthetic skin. Somewhat belatedly he realizes what Durant did to him and embarks on a program of revenge.

DFT plays Cocteau, Dreyer

special writer

This week the Detroit Film Theatre unveils a new afternoon series called the "History of the Moving Image." In many ways, it's the old Afternoon Film Theatre — same location, same time - but in a new and improved form.

Presented at 1 p.m. Thursday through Sunday in the Detroit Institute of Arts Recital Hall, the series screens vintage titles the weekend DFT schedule no longer shows. Availability on videotape and economic strains have made older films scarce at the DFT, according to assistant film curator Larry Baranski. The "History of the Moving Image" will now take its place as the classics wing of the program, kicking off this week with tributes to Jean Cocteau and Carl Dreyer.

Their careers were similar in some ways," said Baranski, "because there was absolutely no precedent for them. They fell into no set categories. They were unique, indeent mavericks with very strong poetic identities."

Jean Cocteau had already proven himself an accomplished poet, play-wright, librettist and draughtsman by 1930, when he turned his attention to the fledgling film medium. His first project, "The Blood of a Poet," screens this week.

"The Blood of a Poet" opens and closes with the image of a toppling smokestack. What happens in between has been called, by the director, "a documentary of unreal hap-penings" through the dreams of a

COCTEAU WENT on to create beautiful, sometimes deceptively simple, stories full of fantasy, emo-tion and humor. Aside from the classic "Beauty and the Beast" in 1946 (Sept. 21-23) and "Orpheus" (Oct. 18-21), considerably rarer titles are also

Perhaps the most interesting is 1948's "Les Parents Terribles" (Sept. 27-30), based on the director's play and starring Jean Marais. It will be shown with the rarely screened short film "La Voix Humaine" (1948), a one-woman monologue with Ingrid Bergman on the phone to her lover. If Cocteau tapped into a poet's in-ner dream world, the films of Carl Dreyer exist in a land of man's baser instincts and cruelty. In the 14 films he made over five decades, the Dutch director paid remarkable attention to historical and emotional Dreyer's best-known film, 1928's "The Passion of Joan of Arc" (Nov.

15-18) recounts the trial, humiliation and execution of the Catholic saint. Marie Renee Falconetti, in her only screen appearance, was immortalized through the shadowy cinematography of Rudolf Mate.

Some have compared the look of 1943's "Day of Wrath" (Nov. 29-Dec. 2), the story of 17th century witch-craft trials in Denmark, to a paint-ing by Rembrandt. Dreyer revolutionized the horror film in 1932 with "Vampyr" (Nov. 21-25), which had among its frightening images a corpse-like view of a burial.

THE MUSEUM has purchased brand new 16mm prints of some of the Cocteau and Dreyer titles, many of which are in the public domain. The DFT may soon make prints available for private study.

JOHN DOE — Blind Pig

As any student of rock history or fan of the movie "La Bamba" can tell you, a 1959 plane crash in Clear Lake, Iowa, claimed three of rock's superstars. Last week, a bus breakdown in Clear Lake stranded the members of John Doe's band, forcing Doe, formerly of the fiery LA postpunk outfit X, to go it alone in his Ann Arbor appearance August

Proving that the show must indeed go on, Doe performed a fine acoustic set like a chef making a gourmet casserole without half of the ingred-

He knew the proper recipe to please the musical palates of the SRO crowd in the sweltering Blind Pig. He played most of his new LP, 'Meet John Doe," a few old X numbers, a couple new ones, and some great covers, tossing in a dash of Merle Haggard, a pinch of Phil Ochs, and topping it off with Bob Dylan's haunting "I Dreamed I Saw St. Augustine," the show-closer.

Doe, in a black T-shirt and blue jeans, had the crowd in his hip pocket from the get-go, apologizing for the band's absence and introducing himself as "Country Johny Doe." He gripped the audience with his rich, wide-ranging voice and emotional, entertaining tunes. Doe's characters have a knack for both crying at the pain of love and laughing at its stupidity, all the while soaked in just enough booze to blur the differences. Not everything Doe chose to sing from "Meet John Doe" lent itself well to acoustic performance, but the most powerful material was stunning. The best of it included "Take #52," a heart-wrencher co-written with ex-mate and bandmate Exene Cervenka, "Dyin' to Get Home," and John Hiatt's "The Real One," which Doe dedicated to "the romantics" in attendance.

Other highlights were the X classic "See how We Are," one of the best pieces of cynical songwriting to come down the pike in years, and "Liar's Market," a song kept off the new album by Doe's record company (Geffen). Its chorus: "It's a liar's market/And I'm tryin' to sell the truth"/If I could be a liar/I could be a bigshot just like you/And that's the

Also noteworthy was a spirited acoustic set by the evening's opening act, Kim Rogers. Rogers is a little singer/songwriter with a big voice, a rhythmic guitar and some clever songs that paint a personal portrait of everyday life in her hometown of Venice Beach, California.

The Remains: Putting life into the music they play

special writer

There are two kinds of cover bands - those who give faithful, if uninspired renditions of popular tunes and those who completely change the original songs and make them their own.

The former is a common species. Usually, it can be found in a house band at a typical hotel. The latter is a bit more rare. The Byrds' version of "Mr. Tambourine Man" qualifies. So does the Cowboy Junkies' version of "Sweet Jane." "Can't Explain" as played by the Remains is another.

The Remains? Well, don't worry if you haven't heard of them yet because you will soon enough.

The Remains - singer/bassist Willie Wolf, singer/ guitarist Guy Loader, singer/guitarist Rob Adrian and drummer Eric Payne — are a Lansing-based band that recently decided they would get a few Detroit gigs.

Ha, ha — getting Detroit gigs is not as easy as just "deciding" to, right? Well, for the Remains it was that

By making a few phone calls, they managed to line up gigs at Blondies, the Miami, Cross Street Station, the Garden Bowl and the Hamtramck Pub. Not so shabby for a band that began as the remains - hence their name — of several other bands.

But, their amazing luck at finding places to play aside, the truly amazing thing about the Remains is their ability to inject new life into tired old chestnuts by the Stones and the Who.

IN OTHER words, if you think you'll scream if you hear a song like "Just My Imagination" or "Substitute" one more time, you haven't heard the Remains' ver-

The Remains' version of "Just My Imagination" ends with a wild, no-holds would impress even Smokey Robinson. In "Can't Explain," they shift around with the tempo, making the song lurch from a boozy, so-slow-you-almost-can'tstand-it pace to a frantic jam and back again.

Other songs the Remains put their stamp on are "One World" by Todd Rundgren, a couple Stones tunes and even something by Run D.M.C.

Just what is this "stamp" the Remains put on their covers? It has something to do with their passion for Loader is a good example of this. From his James Dean T-shirt and spiked black boots to his intense guitar playing to his gravely, whiskey 'n beer voice, he is rock'n'roll personified.

You can just tell this guy loves music. He's one of those people, like Jimi Hendrix or Keith Richards, who is fun to watch just because you can tell he likes the music he's playing so much. It's when a musician seems to be in their own personal guitar nirvana.

At a recent concert at Cross Street Station, Loader happened to be standing in front of a fan. The affect of the wind blowing through his hair coupled with his guitar pyrotechnics transformed him into something larg-

THAT SOMETHING has to do with what rock'n'roll is all about.

And Loader is not the only one. Each one of the Remains has the same sort of intangible rock'n'roll Adrian is the imposing one. Decked out in dark glasses and a bandana, he is quietly unobtrusive when he plays the guitar. But, when he sings, this great raw, grungy voice comes barreling out.

Wolf is more excitable. You can tell when the band is jamming because Wolf starts jumping up and down. He's also the one who peppers their shows with funny, silly comments between songs.

Payne is the one who holds it all together, although he's not shy about showing off with a couple of drum solos here and there.

Between songs, the Remains employ an unusual promotional gimmick. They ask the audience "Guess what kind of guitar Guy is playing" or what kind of drums is Eric playing, ect. . . . The winner gets a free copy of

If these questions are too hard for the audience, the game gets easier with questions like, "What color is Guy's guitar?" Usually, some lucky winner can figure

ALTHOUGH THE Remains are quite good playing covers, they are starting to add more original material to their sets. What they need to do now is to wean themselves away form depending so much on their covers. This shouldn't be a problem because between them, they have written 23 or so original songs, Wolf

Until then, the Remains plan to see what will happen with their upcoming Detroit gigs.

We're not in it for the money," Wolf said. "If we were, we wouldn't be doing this."

Why do they do it then?

"It's quite fun," Wolf said. Of course.

LIVE IT UP

- Crosby, Stills and Nash

That's right. Those are wieners on the cover of Crosby, Stills and Nash's latest LP, "Live It Up." But the Atlantic album just doesn't quite cut the mustard. It simply isn't tasty enough, save for a bite here (Nash's ballad, "If Anybody Had a Heart) or a bite there (the urgent Crosby lament, "Yours and Mine"). Where's Neil Young when you need him?

Before grilling the veteran act for serving up such mediocrity on a platter, lets give CSN some credit. In the absence of good music, they are doing everything right in efforts to get a hit.

They've been actively pounding the promotional circuit with talk show appearances and getting plenty of newspaper and magazine ink. And their current concert tour is generating very good reviews.

That publicity machine called MTV also has been adequately tapped by the thick-waisted boys.

Haven't you seen the slick video for the equally-slick title track?

Credit aside, consumers still are avoiding "Live It Up," much the same way they ignored "American production to prove that the failure of "American Dream" was a fluke. Unfortunately, a rush job is all-toooften what "Live It Up" sounds like. Because of that, the public indif-ference about this LP shouldn't come as too much of a surprise. Of course, people like to hear something before they buy it.

Hence, some of the blame for "Live It Up's" lack of hit potential probably should go to today's radio programmers, who shove aside at least adequate new releases from veteran acts (Are you listening, Jeff Lynne?) in favor of the same old safe songs those same acts recorded in the dark ages. - Tim Smith

STARRING IN ... STANDING IN A MONKEY SEA

— A'me Lorain and the Family Affair

"Starring in . . . Standing in a Monkey Sea" is a strange mixture of Tiffany-style vocals, Parliament/ Funkadelic-type backing vocals and music and new fangled flower child lyrics. None too surprisingly, this combo just doesn't work.

First, check out the album cover. Looks interesting, huh? psychedelic lettering, mod clothes and a surreal photo. Then, take a gander at the unusual song titles like "THEGREAT BIGHILLEPIC SYNDROMESTOR-YHEARTPART II" or lyrics like, "I'm looking through my unique blue tube/Watching everything you do" or "Flower children growing out of the dirt/People picking at your petals does hurt/You've been planted in this field for good reason/And you will keep on growing into a new sea-

"Letter 'C' Card" is an attempt at re-creating the sound of the glory days of old Parliament/ Funkadelic, but it just doesn't work. The reason it doesn't work is the same reason the whole album doesn't work — because of A'me Lorain. Any hope of hearing some originality or even anything interest-ing on this album is ruined the second Lorain's high-pitched, girl pop-diva-wannabe voice chimes in.

Her voice would make dogs wince and Top 40 programmers smile. It's a really high, whining girly type voice that is a prerequisite/requisite for pop stardom. Paula Abdul has it. Debbie Gibson has it. The young Michael Jackson had it. You know the kind of voice we're talking about?

Woodcarver gives dead tree a new lease on life

By Noreen Flack staff writer

HEN MARY and Art Des Gravise were trying to figure out what to do with the dead maple tree in their front yard, they were stumped.

The tree's shady days were over and the only option the Farmington couple could foresee was to chop the 100-year-old timber down, limb by

After all, what good is a dead tree?

Well, just when they thought they were doomed to a woodless front yard, the Des Gravises came across Jeff Beckett, an artist known for putting life back into dead wood.

Beckett, 35, of Keego Harbor, is one of few woodcarving artists who can cut away at a tree and design a detailed sculpture with nothing more Today, three sculptured hawks, or "Birds of Prey," as Beckett has titled them, are perched on separate tree limbs outside the Des Gravises' home on Wilmarth, south of Grand River.

The detailed feathers and eyes of the hawks carved from the dead wood are distinctly revealed as they peer over the shaved bark.

"What I like most about it," Mary said, "is that you can see at least one bird from all angles."

BECKETT HAS turned out nearly 25 sculptures in the area since he began days four years ago. The desire "comes and goes with my mood," he

He works mainly as a contractor for carpentry, construction, remodeling and tree trimming. He moonlights when he can as an artist, but he hopes to do more sculpting in the future.

Beckett admits that the extent of his creative background consists of a ninth-grade art class; after that, his sculpting was self-taught by experi-menting with trees when he contracted his trimming services.

The idea "came along by itself really," Beckett said. "I heard of someone doing sculpturing in Grosse Pointe but I had never really seen it."

"I've been pretty busy lately. Sculpturing seems

His woodcarving price varies depending on the size and detail of each sculpture. Carvings begin go up. The Prey" sculpture cost about $1,200, Beckett said.

'I usually make a rough sketch of what I want to carve and then I just start taking pieces off that I don't need," he said.

ONCE HE trims down to the main frame of the tree, he shaves off the bark and smooths the edges. He hopes to one day use a chisel with his wood sculptures, but for now, the grill of the chainsaw

When he is finished, he covers the tree with a clear, water sealer to prevent the wood from splitting and cracking. The owners are instructed to repeat the application once a year.

He began the "Birds of Prey" sculpture on the Fourth of July. He teetered on a scaffold on and off for three weeks, attracting curious onlookers to the front yard of the Des Gravises' home. Mary said she has received a positive response from her neighbors.

When you do something nice like this, you share it with everyone; you share it with all these other people who drive by and see it.

"Some of my neighbors said they could probably sit on the front porch nude and no one would notice because they were so busy gawking at the

SOME CLIENTS specify what type of sculpture they would like. Others need ideas, Beckett said. His portfolio includes frogs, pelicans, squirrels, cowboys, hawks and his favorite, the "Howling

The "Howling Wolf" sculpture sits on Lake Woods Court, off Pine Lake Road, between Middlebelt and Orchard Lake roads, in West

At times, Beckett has been hired to cut down a tree. If it was worth carving, he would pull out the stump and take it home. He then would carve it and either sell it and replant it or use it for a

Most of the time, however, he carves on-site. "It's more difficult to carve on-site because people stand around and want to watch," Beckett said. "So there's a lot more pressure."

Beckett attended the chainsaw carvers competition in Minnesota Aug. 17-19.

New gadgets help office organization

Q: I'm wondering what's new in the office products line? I go to the office supply often, but there are so many products, it's hard to spot new

A: I asked Annie Lucas, manager of Gail's General Office Supply at Maple and Telegraph in Bloomfield Township, and she was full of ideas.

About a year ago, 3-M came out with Pop 'n Jot-Post It notes in a container. They are packaged to pop up like tissues and come in a variety of colors.

Smead has put out a handy "Office Starter Kit." A small assortment of files, hanging folders and labels are packed to be sold with a home file for small jobs.

The milk crate has been adapted down into DecoFile and DecoRacks by Oxford. These colorful desktop accessories hold books, binders, magazines, brochures or folders vertically. DecoFlex and Deflect-O X-Racks hold up to six inches of hang-ing folders and work for either desktop or drawers.

Eldon has come out with beautiful soft colors in its accessories to brighten and coordinate your office. Not only are these items available in the traditional dull office colors, they now can also be bought in the trendy burgundy, mauve, slate blue or shiny ebony colors.

Recycling is also "new." Gail's is carrying more and more recycled scratch pads, folders and other pa-per products. Be sure to ask for them. Not only do Gail's sell recycled materials, it has just initiated a program to take in old binders for recycling. It offers a "trade in" value of $1 for every old binder when you buy a new one. Reusable binders will be donated to a worthy cause; otherwise, they will be sent out for recycling. Some other new ideas include visual organizer fax forms; fax machine stands; colored computer diskettes to organize by subject; a handheld electronic dictionary; an automatic telephone dialer that dials 500 phone or fax numbers; florescent colored bond paper (to attract attention); a cordless battery-operated stapler, a wheeled, laptop computer carrying case; new pink and black Pendaflex hanging folder colors; and a 150-sheet paper punch.

One of the best ways to keep up on what's new in the office supply world is to get one of the catalogs and browse through it when you have the time. There are thousands of useful and helpful items that can help diminish clutter, stress and

BELIEVE ME... IT WORKS

I was determined to find more than a job. I wanted a career. My education provided me with a variety of options, but until I read about the challenges and opportunities of my current position advertised in the classified recruitment section, I didn't recognize all the possibilities.

Reading the classifieds, I discovered a world of employers who were looking for trained professionals just like me. I found more than a job. Thanks to classified, I found a future!

Whether you're looking for a key member for your professional team or searching for a team to join, consult classified. Believe me, it works!

Many reasons for sick buildings

By Doug Funke staff writer

Twenty percent of commercial buildings in the United States have known air quality problems, according to Honeywell, a global controls

Sick building syndrome or build-ing-related diseases can generally be attributed to heating, ventilating and air conditioning systems.

"There's no question more attention is being paid to it," said Joseph Calcaterra, a project engineer with NTH Consultants of Farmington

Building design, maintenance and use either separately or in combination can give rise to problems, experts said.

Honeywell identified several inchiding:

 Inadequate building design. Air intakes could be contaminated by adjacent exhaust vents or vehicle funes. Poor distribution design ht prevent air flow from reachmight prevent air

More people on the premises, addition or relocation of walls, introduction of synthetic materials that emit harmful gases, and the addition of heat-producing loads like computers and copying machines - could affect air quality.

Changes in control strategies. Adjustments made by poorly trained operators, failure to adapt control strategies to changing build-ing uses, and control adjustments imposed as energy conservation measures can reduce volume and airflow quality.

• Inadequate equipment maintechemically harmful cleaning solvents could break down a building's resistance to "illness."

"I GUESS concerns really started in the early '80s," said Tim Kennedy, manager of Honeywell's Indoor Air Quality Diagnostics Center in Minne-

"One of the biggest things that spurred attention was the Legionnaires Disease case in Philadelphia. People died. That's pretty serious, obviously," he said.

Those 29 deaths in 1976 were caused by a bacterium traced to cooling towers placed too close to air intakes in a hotel hosting an American Legion convention.

William Cleary, deputy chief for the division of occupational health, Michigan Department of Public Health, said he's received about a, dozen written complaints about off-ice building related illnesses in the tri-county area so far this year.

'We usually find there are some fixable problems. Findings as far as violation of standards, that's quite rare." he said.

"THERE'S KIND of two categories of problems. Number one, the system was never designed for the number of people in a space. The other problem (is) . . . maintenance and repair aren't kept up," Cleary of time." Kennedy's experience is that most air quality problems will result from poor maintenance in buildings at least 10 years old.

Problems with new buildings gen-

erally have to do with carpet odors and paint fumes, he added. "We talk to the owner or manager to get as much air in as they can for a period

"That's what we're finding out buildings aren't taken care of. Dirt builds up, they move walls without moving duct work, fans might not push as much air, coils might get dirty," he said. But new buildings aren't immune. 'ATTENTION is often not paid to the air delivery system," Kennedy said. "They (tenants) are worried about enough light. They look at the dimensional part." Kennedy recalled one instance where a firewall required by an inspector cut off the flow of air between the false ceiling and the floor

"You're better off from day one taking care of buildings," he said. "If you don't, the first move might not make a difference, the first year you don't clean stuff might not make a difference, but two or three years down the line, you might spend a lot of money (on repairs).'

Dealing with one problem sometimes creates another.

Calcaterra, who has degrees in industrial engineering and industrial hygiene, elaborated.

"THERE WAS a great deal of emphasis 15 years ago, 10 years ago, on energy conservation. A very easy way to achieve that is to reduce the amount of fresh air in heating and cooling systems.

The movement to energy efficiency was a significant factor in bringing about these (air flow) problems," he said.

Synthetic materials used today to construct and furnish buildings emit gas and can affect people's health, Calcaterra said.

Also, building materials that become moist and remain moist during construction could later spawn bacteria and building-related disease, he

Problems with buildings isn't really new, Calcaterra said. Building related disease and sick building syndrome have received quite a bit of publicity in recent years when incidents arose.

"Now that we have a name for it, we can complain about it," he said. "There's an increased consciousness. People today are more health conscious. They demand a healthful work place. We just have higher expectations of what a healthful work place is."

Noise problem a sticky issue

noise coming from another co-owner's unit. Is it something that the board should get involved in because no other unit in the condominium project is affected?
This is a difficult question because generally the condominium bylaws give both the association and any affected co-owner the right to pursue co-owners who are violating the terms and conditions of the condominium documents. Some condominium documents provide that in the case of a dispute concerning noise, the association shall act as an arbitrator between the two parties, thereby keeping the association out of the crossfire, so to speak.

On the other hand, many condominium documents provide that the association has the burden to pursue noise problems. If in fact the noise is something that affects a co-owner or co-owners, the association may choose to get involved to resolve the problem amicably.

If the noise affects many units, the association has no choice but to get involved in pursuing the enforcement of the condominium documents. On the other hand, if it appears that the noise is so subjective that the association does not believe it has a strong case should the matter end up in court, it may defer to the co-owner in regard to the coowner's rights to enforce the condominium documents on his/her

I began constructing a drainage ditch on my property, but the DNR stopped the work telling me that I needed a permit. My permit was lat-er denied on the grounds that the riv-er shoreline was designated as an environmental area under the Shorelands Protection and Management Act and the majority of the remainder of my property was considered to be wetlands under the Wetlands Protection Act.

Somehow this seems unfair and an abuse of discretion. What can I do?

In a recent decision based on facts similar to yours, the Michigan Court of Appeals rejected an argument that the designation of the property in question as a wetland and an environmental area constituted a taking by inverse condemnation that deprived the land owner of an economically viable use of his land and for which he was entitled to compen-

It also rejected the argument that such designation constituted a de facto taking within the meaning of the Uniform Condemnation Proceedings Act.

THE COURT OF Appeals reasoned that merely because of the denial of permission to dredge the drainage ditch, that the plaintiff in that case was free to submit further applications for developments that might be approved. The court concluded that the plaintiff in that case was not deprived of an economically viable use of his land and further stated that the mere fact that a regulation deprives the owner of the most profitable use of his property does not necessarily establish the owner's right to just compensation.

It further ruled that the Uniform Condemnation Procedures Act has no application to inverse condemnation actions initiated by aggrieved property owners.

The court seems to be saying that designations themselves do not deprive the plaintiff property owner of an economically viable use of his land and that the economic impact of the designations and the denial of a permit to dredge were not so severe as to compel the court to conclude that a taking occurred.

But the court did emphasize that the holding was limited to the facts of that particular case and, if at some time in the future the plaintiff in that case could show that the economic impact of the pertinent statutes had become more severe, he may then be entitled to compensa-

Depending on the facts of your case, you may also be subject to a similar argument and result.
