City gives close look to aftercare program

The Roe Street row resumed at Plymouth City Hall Monday night as officials responded to concerns raised about a substance abuse aftercare program housed in apartments at 303 Roe Street.

Fourteen recovering substance abusers who recently moved into the Roe Street Crossing Apartments are participating in a drug program run by Marcia Andersen of Personalized Nursing Light House Inc.

"I've received several memorandums from citizens and non-citizens concerned about this situation," said Mayor Dennis Bila. "We will not out-ofhand object to any type of citizen living in Plymouth regardless of whether they're an alcoholic, a non-alcoholic, a convict or a non-convict.

"Every citizen has a right to live in Plymouth regardless of their background. I will ensure every citizen has safety protection, and the police chief has assured me he will have extra patrols to maintain safety.

City Manager Gordon Jaeger said the matter has been referred to city attorney Ron Lowe.

Lowe said that until he receives documentation including Light House Inc.'s state grant and articles of incorporation, he cannot determine whether any ordinances or statutes are being vio-

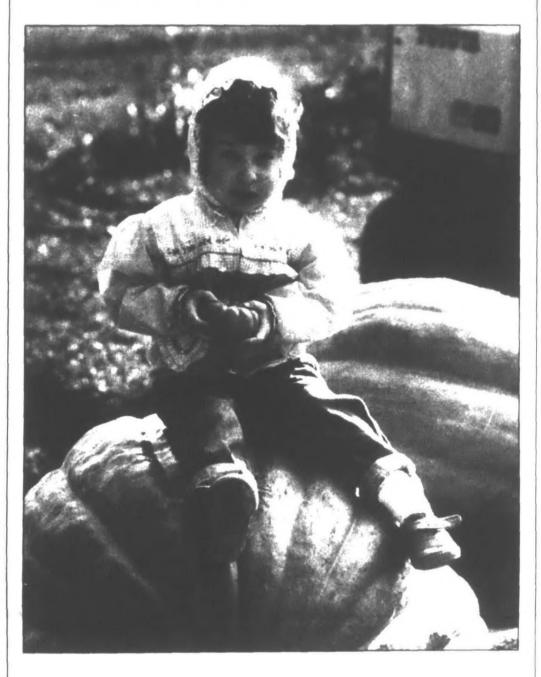

Lowe said he has "yet to find a statute that allows zoning law exemptions for substance abuse centers. There is nothing in the law that specifically addresses alcohol or substance abuse.

"At this time, we are allowed to use local ordinances to see if they are in compliance. But I'm without sufficient facts, and that's where it breaks down. I mailed a letter today reminding (the Light House attorney) of his commitment to provide the information along with additional information."

If it's determined that Light House is operating a business in a residential area, the corporation would be in violation of city ordinances, Lowe

Lowe added that he hopes Andersen would refrain from adding participants to the program until the situation is ironed out.

Firm plans move to Plymouth Township

By Joe Bauman staff writer

For the second time in two weeks, a Livonia company is seeking permission to leave the city and relocate to Plymouth Township with the benefit of a tax abatement

Kenneth Kramer, president of SME Inc., told the Livonia City Council during Monday's study session that his firm had to relocate because it site in Livonia but were unsuccessful. Because of our unique needs, we decided the best way to go way to build a new facility, and the Plymouth location was the best from an economic stand-

Anderses, who was in the audience, said three additional residents moved in this week. She also apologized for the delay in getting information to the city.

"You'll get everything you need. We are trying to cooperate," she said.

"We are not running a business in a residential area. We're running our business on Main Street," she added. "We wouldn't do anything to hurt Plymouth. I live here, and my daughter goes to school here."

Andersen said she has asked that two Roe Street residents volunteer to serve on the Light House advisory board, but so far no one has come forward

Lowe told commissioners and the audience that while he empathizes with safety concerns, "you must divorce yourself from the emotional end of this controversy, because it would be detrimental to the city."

Any zoning violation Plymouth decides to pursue cannot be based on "emotional arguments such as property values going down or safety concerns. Those concerns are best addressed by the city and the police chief."

addressed by the city and the police chief."

No criminal complaints or prosecutions have arisen involving program participants, he added.

"I'm aware of the effects of drug abuse, but they don't go hand-in-hand with a person with a problem breaking into your house and stealing." Light House has a temporary occupancy permit that expires Nov. 30.

"I don't want to see this continue into next year," said Lowe. "My primary goal would be to have this problem addressed before that period (November) ends."

Carol Levitte, an attorney representing concerned Roe St. residents, said "what we are looking at is proper land use. We saw some emotional input two weeks ago. That was because no one would put forth any facts. We're glad to see the city is working with us to get those facts. We've spent the last two weeks also trying to get that information.

Resident Craig Fleming asked "do any red flags go up when you see eight apartments being rented by a corporation and occupied by other than just people living there as ordinary residents?"

"Yes, it's unusual for a corporation to lease that many units in Plymouth but it would depend on what that company is using those units for," said Lowe. "If they're being used for nothing but residential living and the drug program is on Main Street, there is no violation unless there are strings attached."

Resident Sandra Noll asked, "Who is incurring the expense of extra patrols by the city, and what is going on on the other end of town? Doesn't this leave other areas of our city vulnerable? How long can this go on without costing overtime and extra manpower?"

Answered Jaeger: "There has been no added expense. Were just spending more

"We have many festivals and we often redirect manpower for those reasons. I don't envision this going on for an indefinite period of time.

'This is going to be a slow process, but we will come to a determination on whether there is a business operating at this site or

Erickson said preliminary work the company hoped to do over the winter includes reports and paperwork necessary for state approval and for township rezoning.

The current zoning is for singlefamily homes on one-acre lots.

Township Supervisor Maurice Breen said he was impressed with the company's retirement facility in Baltimore after he toured it in July. Breen said then that the biggest obstacle facing the company would be meeting state requirements in Michigan on out-of-state companies setting up retirement facilities here.

The 40-year-old facility was closed in June of 1988 because of declining enrollment and rising costs. The 57 seminarians — down from a high of 250 — were transferred to Sacred Heart Major Seminary.

Livonia firm runs out of room, plans move

SME Inc. has more than 100 employees at its Livonia site, and paid an estimated $13,500 in property taxes last year.

Kramer said the Glendale building will either be sold or leased to a new interest once the company moves into its new headquarters.

A DIVIDED council voted 4-3 last week to grant Ventura Industries permission to seek the new abatement from the township. A vote on SME's request is scheduled for Wednesday.

Kramer said his company depended on private interests to conduct its search for a new site in Livonia, and did not contact the city for assistance.

Upon questioning by councilman Ron Ochala, Kramer indicated that one of the company's assisting the search also serves as the exclusive real estate agent for the Plymouth technology park.

That same agent also conducted Ventura industries' search for a new site in Livonia, Ochala noted.

SME has done business in Livonia since 1979, conducting tests on soil, concrete, steel and asphalt at its laboratory/office center.

Because of its need for laboratory space, Kramer said the firm cannot locate in an office building, which made it more difficult to find a suitable location in Livonia.

Asked what role the potential abatement played in deciding to move to Plymouth Township, Kramer replied, "zero."

Pumpkin hunt

Youngsters take their pick in trip to local patch

By Julie Brown staff writer

Laura Webb's son, Alex, is only 11 months old but he's already learned a thing or two about choosing a pumpkin.

"This is his first trip to the pumpkin patch, so he can get his first pumpkin," she said "It's great. It's fun."

Alex is a bit young to go trick or treating, but he'll wear his pumpkin slippers at home for Halloween. His mom helped him pick out a pumpkin earlier this week.

The Webbs were among those who visited the Jay S. Richards pumpkin patch in Plymouth Township Tuesday. The morning get together was sponsored by the Moms and Tots group of the Plymouth

"They came out last year and everyone had such a good time," said Nancy Lashlee-Darragh, who organized the event. Her kids, Adam, 41/2, and Ruthven, 1, looked for pumpkins in the patch.

ADAM HAD some ideas about what he wanted in a pumpkin.

"A big one or a small one," he said. "There's small ones out there

Jay S. Richards, who owns and operates the pumpkin patch on Canton Center Road, was glad to have the group visit. This is a busy time of year for him

"I had about 100 and some vesterday," said Richards, who's been growing pumpkins for 13 or 14

He has about six acres for growing pumpkins to sell. The biggest pumpkin he's grown this year weighed in at 253 pounds, an increase of 22 pounds from last year

Richards has found children have different ideas about what kind of pumpkin they want.

"It depends on their size." Generally, kids look for pumpkins that are basketball size or larger. He prices pumpkins just by looking at them rather than weighing each

Richards doesn't mind if kids take some time to find that justright pumpkin. He likes to see youngsters have a good time during their search.

'Oh, I love that. That's why I do it. It's a lot of work, but I love it."

AFTER GETTING pumpkins, the Moms and Tots met for lunch at Holly's in Plymouth. About 35 people participated. Moms enjoyed spending time with their preschool children. "Oh, definitely," said Nancy Lashlee-Darragh, a Plymouth resident. "It's so easy to lose track of your kids.

Parents can fall into the habit of just handling maintenance duties such as meals and baths, said Lashlee-Darragh, a full-time homemaker and mom. Spending time together having fun is also important.

"It's too late when they get to be big," she said. "You have to start when they're young. You get to know your kids, so you have open lines of communication.

Laura Webb, a Plymouth resident, believes in spending time with her young son, Alex. Webb taught school and is now a fulltime homemaker and mom. She plans to return to teaching when her son is older.

'That's my No. 1 job, being with him. I'm already his best friend,

Man hurt in fall after arrest

What began as the third drunk driving arrest of a 35-year-old Plymouth man resulted in injury to him and to a police officer Saturday afternoon. Police were called to McDonald's on Ann Arbor Road because of prob-

Police gave the following account. The van was in the left turn lane and cut across to the curb lane without signalling. Traffic slowed to avoid an accident.

The driver turned right onto Lilley without signalling and continued southbound, weaving in his lane. When the officer turned on his overhead lights, the driver looked in his rearview mirror, but did not stop. Vorva added that he'd donate $100

staff writer

With an eye on gold, a team of select Schoolcraft College students is busy honing a winning technique for upcoming World Cup competition in Luxembourg.

The medium: cuisine. The participants: four culinary arts students. The challenge: genuine American fare, tastefully and artfully prepared.

"Functional, edible art work," reflective of traditional autumn foods is the goal, said master chef Jeff Gabriel of the proposed entries in two areas of student competition, the five-course-meal and platter-for-

Students, each selected from earlier qualifying cook-offs for culinary know-how, artistic flair and the ability to work with others, are Shawn Loving, Kim Larson, Don Bargo and Pam Ford.

"Lots of preparation. Lots of hours," Gabriel said, referring to the intense effort required in preparing for the competition.

"THIS IS A DIFFERENT kind of art," Gabriel said. "You have to have commitment and be very strong mentally and physically. You might be up two to three days without sleep. Food has to be ready at a certain time.

"I had nightmares all night," she said, after researching garnish suggestions for Loving's cold platter entry. Loving will be judged on the difficulty in preparation and sophistication of the end product.

Brady carefully researches possible recipes, drawing on her experience as a chef. She also scans photos of former award-winning entries and magazines.

In addition, she is creating an auturnn picnic theme, using oysters, miniature mousse and molded bavarians or flavored mousse.

Larson, 33, an Oakland County caterer who is in her second year of studies in the Schoolcraft culinary program, is at the "apple" stage of planning. Competing in the fivecourse competition, she is just now defining a menu.

"I'm leaning toward lighter fare. less calories, pure and natural food. Not a lot of cream sauces," she said.

BARGO, 20, WHO commutes to Schoolcraft from Ann Arbor, is a step further along. He has planned a 'hunter's delight," drawing on braised rabbit leg, duck consomme fresh trout and cravfish.

"It's Midwestern regional cuisine with a fall emphasis. We're in fall. You naturally think of different game," he said.

won a gold medal. She has entered both five-course-meal and platterfor-two competition in the World

Ideas emanate from "food I see and eat." Her selection of lobster consomme with sea beans and pumpkin was first tasted at the Rattlesnake Club in Detroit. Her fondness of game accounts for an entree of smoked partridge with braised leg. A creamy salad dressing is, she said, balanced by a dessert of molded peach sorbet that "looks like glass. It's beautiful.

Of the hundreds of hours of preparation, Ford said: "It's a month out of life. I figure I'll just do it."

Bargo said he finds little spare time after "juggling school, work (as a cook) and training.

Send soldiers' holiday mail early dingo dir

It's not too early to begin thinking of Christmas, U.S. Post Office officials said.

Holiday gifts sent to military personnel stationed in the Middle East should be sent by Friday, Nov. 16, to assure timely delivery.

Packages sent to non-military personnel should also be sent early. Deadlines for First Class, Air Mail, Parcel Airlift of Space Available Mail can be obtained by calling local post offices.

Postal officials advise sending all overseas cards, gifts and other holiday mail as early as possible. Mail to military personnel is expected to create a backlog this year.

"With the military build up in Saudi Arabia, we're expecting a big strain to be placed on our mail transportation system worldwide," said Allen Kane, assistant postmaster general for delivery, distribution and transportation.

Cards and letters are sent Air Mail/Priority only and should be mailed by the first week of Decem-

PACKAGES SENT within the United States should be mailed by Friday, Dec. 7. Holiday letters mailed within the U.S. should be sent by Monday, Dec. 10.

The earliest date to send holiday package to U.S. troops stationed in the Midle East is Saturday, Nov. 3 for Space Available Mail.

· Send packages in a sturdy cardand seal the package with pressure- available at local post offices.

Tax abatements, random use of traffic checklanes, and stricter gun control are among the major issues separating the positions of incum-bent state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, from Democratic challenger Patrick McDonald of Livonia who face off in next month's elec-

The winner of the Nov. 6 contest will earn the right to represent the 6th District, which includes parts of Redford, Livonia, Plymouth, Northville and Canton.

Geake, a three-term incumbent, also disagreed with his challenger on the benefits of a statewide assessment test for high school seniors as a prerequisite for graduation.
"The threat of a test is poor policy. It would encourage kids to drop out instead of staying in school and being educated to their own highest ability.

McDonald, a former Redford think you need training for that type Township supervisor, disagreed, sayof use," Geake said.

Countered McDonald: "A permit test would limit accessibility and give the state a way of knowing who has them. Training would also limit the potential for accidental shoot-McDonald said he does not support the use of random checklanes by state police to catch drinking drivers because he views their use as an invasion of privacy. He also questioned the effectiveness of the checklanes.

On the other side of the issue, Geake said he believes checklanes not only are an effective enforcement tool but also serve as a strong deterrent.

"I strongly support them."

ON THE subject of giving tax abatements to business and industry as an incentive to either move into or remain in Michigan, McDonald said he supports their limited use while Geake supports repealing the law establishing abatements. Both agree that the current abatement law should be modified to prohibit a company from leaving one Michigan community for another in order to receive an abatement.

"Abatements have failed in what we hoped they would do and should be abolished," Geake said, although he added that political pressure by interested lobby groups would make it nearly impossible to end the tax giveaways.

Aspirin: Many Forms and Many Uses

Aspirin has been called the "miracle drug." Each year, tons of aspirin are consumed for the treatment and/or prevention of a variety of health conditions. It is reported that about 19 billion dosage units of aspirin are taken each year.

The best known use for aspirin is as a pain reliever. Aspirin acts at the pain site to prevent the local nerve endings from becoming sensitized to pain. As a fever reducer, aspirin adjusts the body's thermostat which is located in the brain. As an inflammatory agent, aspirin is useful in the relief of the inflammation associated with rheumatoid arthritis and osteoarthritis. Aspirin has been found to have a favorable effect on blood platelets. Studies have shown the antiplatelet aggregation action to be useful in preventing blockage of heart vessels following bypass surgery and in preventing certain types of strokes.

Aspirin is available in a number of dosage forms. Plain uncoated tablets have been sold for many years. Coated tablets are easier to swallow. Buffered tablets contain a special agent which helps tablets dissolve more quickly than regular tablets, producing less stomach irritation. Enteric coated tablets dissolve in the small intestine, decreasing stomach irritation. Chewable and time-release aspirin tablets also are available.

Development threatening to squash pumpkin fields

tion error a Monday story about the demise of pumpkin patches in Canton and Plymouth was cut in the middle of the story. Also, in-formation about Louann Hamblin's pumpkin patch on Ridge and North Territorial ran with a picture of Duane Bordine, a pumpkin farmer in Canton. This is the story in its entirety.

By Diane Gale staff writer

Plymouth and Canton pumpkin farmers are predicting that their acres of orange squash that each year mark the onset of fall will be devoured by developers within the

"We're hoping to get it (the land) next year and probably that will be the last year," said Louann Hamblin. Her father, Okie Hamblin, has been growing pumpkins for more than 35 years. The North Territorial and Ridge road property is owned by de-

"I feel like a dying breed out here, because I know it (the pumpkin field) won't be out here," she said.

Canton farmer Duane Bordine faces the same situation with the land he farms on Ridge and Ford of my brothers or sisters."

"In less than five years I'll have to move," he said. "A lot of people don't know that I rent" from a developer.

"It's another era and another field of pumpkins," Bordine said. "The bottom line is that you can't eat cars, buildings and asphalt. How are we going to get it? Get fresh vegeta-bles out of tubes? People have started to wake up to the environment. and now they have to wake up to farm land, too.

Bordine predicts that the farm will be replaced with shopping malls or houses likely.

THIS YEAR, however, Bordine and Hamblin will be selling their Halloween specials as usual.

You've heard about guarantees for washing machines and other appliances? Well, Bordine puts a twist on the idea by guaranteeing his pump-

Each pumpkin he sells comes with a guarantee that says: "If by some prank of Mother Nature I collapse, please scrape me up, put me in a plastic bag, and present me with this piece of paper to my farmer friend, Mr. Bordine at Bordine's Farm Market before Halloween and you will receive at no additional charge one Bordine tells a story of a woman who didn't believe the guarantee. She drove up, looked irritated and said: 'Is this damn thing any good?'

"I said ma'am go and get another pumpkin and come right back in line and you'll get a guarantee for that

"People just can't believe it," said Bordine, 47, who describes himself. as a lifelong farmer.

This year, Bordine planted five impkin varieties on 29 acres. Pumpkin sizes range from a handfulto 400 pounds with price tags going from 75 cents to $150.

LOUANN HAMBLIN, a part-time deputy for the Washtenaw County. Sheriff's Department in the Marine Division, said picking your own pumpkin from a patch can become a family outing, she said. It's like cutting down your own Christmas tree.

"No one wants to go to Meijer to get their pumpkins," said Hamblin, a 1984 Plymouth-Canton high school graduate. The U-Pick pumpkin patch is open Oct. 5 through Oct. 31 everyday beginning at 10 a.m.

"We've had a couple of hundred out already," said Louann Hamblin before the you-pick season opened.

Music teacher tunes in to new post

While most guys dreamed of play-ng on the football team or basketball team when they were in high school, Norman Logan wanted to be a part of the band. Today he's more than a member, he's an instructor.

The former 17-year band director and music teacher at Westland's John Glenn High School has a new ome to park his baton.

After being pink-slipped last spring following two millage rejec-tions and a Wayne-Westland school district budget crisis, Logan began looking elsewhere for a teaching

He found one at Farmington High

Ironically, he was joined two months later by James Myers, the John Glenn High principal who joined the staff in August as Farmington High's new assistant princi-

He sees a difference between kids in Farmington and his kids in Wayne

"I THINK the kids out here come from much more affluent backgrounds," he said. "But basically the sire to do well is still the same - I think it's the same in all kids who are serious about music."

How is the former Rocket marching band director doing on a new po-

"I'm really very excited about this new position," he said in a recent interview over a glass of cold ice tea. After he and about 100 other Wayne-Westland teachers were laid off last spring, "I heard of the position at Farmington and thought why not," he said. "I applied in June and knew in June that I was hired." He replaced Grant Homeke who went to oped at Glenn High, Logan has been working hard since July getting his band kids ready for another school

"I went with about 60 kids and 15 adults up to West Branch for Band Camp back in the earlier part of the ner." he said. "It was a week filled with fun because the kids were great and had a lot of energy."

The members of the marching band at camp ranged in grades from play music, but also had some social events that they got involved in."

WHEN ASKED if any odd things happened at camp, Logan laughe and said "but of course."

He said on one particular day some canoes "magically appeared in the girls bathroom.

He also said one of the nicer moments came when he got to take one of the students out for a special

"We had a 'Simon Says' type of game, and the winner got to dine with me," he said. "I took them to Big Boy's and they got to order anything that they wanted to."

"I've been camping for about 19 years with the marching bands," he said. "I never tire of it.

"What's really rewarding is that these kids come up a whole hodge podge and when they leave they have all become friends," he said. About what he wants to do differ-ently at Farmington High this year, he said, "I want to get some more spirit into the school.' That is nothing new for Logan who helped continue the Rocket Marching Band tradition at Glenn. "It seems lately that the band only played until half time during the football season. Just because they weren't winning, they left the field. I want them to stay, have a good time and have some spirit."

LOGAN, born in Dearborn, graduated from Eastern Michigan University with a bachelor of science de-gree in music education and is now orking toward his master's degree.

He is also president and vice president of several local music associa-tions. Currently he is president of Michigan Competitive Band Direc-tors Association. During his spare time, Logan like to spend time with his wife, Gloria, paint, and "do model railroading,"

"I love music and followed in my father's footsteps, but when it comes time to relax, I don't want to have anything to do with music," he said.

Bands to perform Saturday

9-12. "There were all types of differ-ent ability levels," he said. "It was its sixth annual invitational for sub-neat because the kids not only got to urban marching bands at 6 p.m. Saturday at the Glenn athletic field, on Marquette west of Wayne Road in Westland.

Thirteen bands will compete in the event, sponsored by the school's in-strumental music boosters club and open to the public. Admission is $4 for adults and $1 for students. Senior citizens will be admitted free.

Candidates vie for probate seat

Disne M. Hathaway and David J. Szymanski each say experience is the key issue in their Wayne County Probate Court race, but with a dif-

Hathaway, a Macomb County assistant prosecutor, real estate bro-ker and former health care professional stresses the experience she's gained in her varied professional background.

Szymanski, member of an Oakland County law firm, is stressing his greater experience as an attorney. Both seek a six-year seat on the probate bench. Voters will choose between the two in the Tuesday,

Nov. 6 general election. Unlike the county's other probate race - where Patricia Campbell is taking on William Leo Cahalan Jr. - néither candidate has an edge in name recognition.

SZYMANSKI IS the son of former Wayne Probate Judge Frank J. Szythony Szymanski is no relation.)

Hathaway is married to Wayne-Circuit Judge Richard P. Hathaway.
Though the winner will await case assignment by Chief Probate Judge Freddie Burton Jr., both candidates expect to handle estate and mental etency cases - leaving juvelaw to the winner of the Campbell-Cahalan race. (That race was profiled in the Sept. 13 Observer.) Not surprisingly, both candidates are stressing their experience in es-tate and mental health cases.

In her current job, Hathaway heads the Macomb Prosecutor's drug forfeiture division. But before becoming an attorney, she spent nearly a decade as a radiologic techologist at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit. At the same time, she received a real estate license and conducted classes in real estate law.

HATHAWAY SAYS all three jobs boost her qualifications for the probate bench.

"As a health care worker, I was able to see how decisions made can affect people's lives," Hathaway said. Her real estate career, she believes, has broadened her experience in handling wills and estate cases in general.

Szymanki, however, points to his eight years as practicing attorney compared with Hathaway's three and higher rating from the Detroit Bar Association.

The Detroit Bar rated Szymanski 'well qualified" and Hathaway "not qualified". Szymanski received a 'Preferred and Well Qualifed" rating from Civic Searchlight, an independent agency that evaluates all area political candidates. Hathaway, who was unable to attend the Civic Searchlight interview, was not rated by the agency.

If elected, Szymanski would work toward increasing public awareness of probate court and its activities.

Eastern Europe considered a boom market

Eastern Europe, including the So-viet Union, is the world's newest market, according to international trade experts who will participate in an upcoming live teleconference at Schoolcraft College.

With economic opportunity in Michigan on the wane, the news of soft currencies like the Polish zloty or Russian ruble into such hard currencies as the U.S. dollar, British pound or Swiss franc is the major challenge of the moment.

"You are not going over there and sell a load of T-shirts and make a lot of money. You might get rid of the T-shirts, but not for a lot of money," Christie added.

"YES AND NO," said trade finance consultant Don Keesee of the opportunity for investment. Keesee is president of PCRM Associates Inc.

One way around such shortages, Christie said, is through exchange trading a load of American-made Tshirts for Polish-cured hams and then selling them to Germany, Great Britian or elsewhere in the west.

Keesee said there is also investment opportunity in "one-off" transactions, single-venture projects such as the refurbishing of a manufacturing plant. Eastern Europe's entire manufacturing base is in need of modernization, with such industries as food processing even seeking dated American machinery and

"It's so wonderful for him to be ne with his brother and sister, ts and dog," said Alex DeGrave's cle, Fred Pellerito of Farmington

Three-year-old Alex returned home about several weeks ago after a lengthy stay in the pediatric inten-sive care unit at William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak. Alex accidentally shocked himself with a broken hanging lamp in his parents Farmington Hills home July 25.

Through Pellerito, the DeGrave family is thanking the community for its hard work and contributions, particularly for the conversion of a one-car attached garage into a hospital-type room for Alex.

With continued help, efforts are afoot to provide Alex's parents, Janet and Tom DeGrave, with a van to take Alex where he needs to go, such as to rehabilitation. Alex also is expected to undergo rehabilitation for brain-damaged children at a spe-ciali center in Philadelphia, Pelleri-

Contributions are also being accepted to complete Alex's new room.

A bathtub and brick work is still

"We would need a professional dumber and a brick wall would have to be knocked down," Pellerito said. "The family is in need of someone to complete some brick work on the back of the house before winter sets in. Alex's bed is very close to this area, and it's going to be too cold for him otherwise.'

ANYONE WHO is interested in helping the DeGraves should contact the Rev. David B. Penniman, associate pastor at Nardin Park United Methodist Chruch, at 476-8860.

The reconverted garage has be-come Alex's room. "The TV's in there. That's where the kids watch TV and play and friends come to visit Alex. He's a part of it rather than being isolated. The stimulation is the key," Pellerito said.

Throughout communities activi-ties are scheduled to raise money to help Alex and the things he needs. Students at Larkshire Elementary, 23800 Tuck Road, will participate in a Hop-A-Thon for pledges starting at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 17.

"The kids will hop for one min-ute," said physical education teacher Neil Redford.

Other tentative events include a community Hop-A-Thon at Larkshire Elementary and another yet-undetermined event at East Middle School, Pellerito said. Activities at Southfield High School, where Pellerito teaches, were also held to raise money for Alex.

IN A LETTER to the Observer, Pellerito, on behalf of the DeGrave family, thanked the following busifor helping Alex and his family:

 Terry Wilson, James Carr and Marion Wysocki of Burton Brothers General Contractors, Southfield, donated all the carpentry and brick work in converting the garage to Alex's bedroom. "These people were not only extremely generous, but just wonderful about everything." Pellerito said.

. Goods and services were provided by New York Carpet World, Southfield; Art's Rental Service Inc., Farmington Hills; Art Van Furni-ture, Livonia; K mart; and Speedy Printing Centers of Farmington.

 The Farmington Jaycees, Farmington Hills Goodfellows, Nar-din Park United Methodist Church and Farmington Public Schools also "have been very generous and helpful," Pellerito said.

Family members believe Alex beat the 3 percent odds he was given when first rushed to the hospital af-ter shocking himself. Further im-provement could be possible but no one is certain, Pellerito said. "We are all very hopeful," Pellerito said.

After Alex's brother, 6-year-old Joey, alerted his parents that Alex had hurt himself with the lamp, Janet and Tom DeGrave began cardiopulmonary resuscitation and called 9-1-1 for help.

When emergency medical technicians with the Farmington Hills Fire Department arrived, Alex had a heartbeat but was not breathing.

Funding The Arts - By a vote of 175 for and 249 against, the House rejected a conservative-sponsored crackdown on National Endowment of the Arts funding of sexually ex-plicit artworks. The House later passed legislation (HR 4825) authorising $175 million in fiscal 1991 for the endowment. The bill increased federal scrutiny of artists receiving public money but left questions of obscenity to the courts.

The rejected amendment sought, in part, to deny funding of projects that depict sexual conduct such as masturbation and sado-masochistic abuse or which tear down a religion.

Sponsor Dana Rohrabacher, R-Calif., said "when it comes to federal tax dollars, we have a right to set a standard. . . Oponnent Peter Kostmyer, D-Pa., said "this amendment is brought to you by the book-burners in the country and in the Congress." A yes vote was to keep taxpayers' money from funding from sexually explicit art. Voting yes were Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper liam Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

To Uphold Textile Veto - By a vote of 275 for and 152 against, the House fell short of the two-thirds majority needed to overturn Presi-dent Bush's veto of a bill limiting the growth of textile and apparel imports to one percent annually. The measure (HR 4328) also sought to freeze non-rubber footwear imports at 1989 levels. Canada and Israel would be exempted from the bill. Supporters said the bill would pro-tect jobs and factories against unfair foreign competition, while opponents said it would mask industry inefficiencies and raise retail prices.

A yes vote was to protect the domestic textile, apparel and non-rubber footwear industries.

Voting yes were Hertel, William Ford and Levin. Voting no were Pursell and Broomfield.

Budget Plan - By a vote of 250 for and 164 against, the House approved a blueprint for tax increases and spending restraint that would reduce the deficit by about $40 billion in fiscal 1991 and $500 billion between 1991-95. Later approved by the Senate (below), the measure (H Con Res 310) is the new vehicle for ending strife over the federal budg-Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, authored by President Bush and bi-

Budget Blueprint - By a vote of 66 for and 33 against, the Senate followed the House's lead (above) and adopted a long-term deficit cutting plan (H Con Res 310) designed to slow or halt the federal governet. It replaced the fiscal agreement authored by President Bush and bi-

Tolerance

It's needed on Roe Street

HE FOLKS IN A substance abuse aftercare program living in a Roe Street apartment complex deserve a break. Plymouth isn't immune to drug and alcohol abuse. And since the problem exists here, we should do something about it here. Original residents of the apartment house and nearby homeowners say they fear for their safety and possessions now that the folks in the aftercare program are their neighbors.

More than 100 of those residents turned out at a recent city commission meeting to complain about the program. Those folks have hired an attorney and are fighting the program.

The city is looking at the various state and local regulations that govern such programs to determine if it's legal to run such a program in Plymouth.

We hope they aren't successful.

Abuse of drugs and alcohol is a society-wide problem and we all bear the responsibility of trying to help. On one hand we cry about not having enough help for those addicted, but on the other hand we don't want them in our backyards.

The NIMBY, not in my back yard, mentality is evident in this confrontation. However, there's a certain irony in it, which is that we are surrounded by those who abuse alcohol and drugs, but we don't seem to object until they are put in one place and a label is slapped on them .

We think some tolerance is called for in the Roe Street situation.

Good job

Police, fire units efficient

HE CITY OF PLYMOUTH police and fire departments showed they're a class act last week when they were called to handle an industrial accident.

Police and firefighters were called to BMC Manufacturing Inc., 100 S. Mill, when a Westland man was pinned by sheets of metal.

A fellow worker attached a chain and used a crane to lift the steel from the man's leg.

AND THEN LOCAL authorities jumped into action.

Fire officials quickly called in a helicopter to take the man to St. Joseph's Hospital in Ann Arbor. An open portion of a parking lot about 200 vards from the scene of the accident was cleared and lighted with flares to await the helicopter's arrival. An ambulance was called in to take the victim to the makeshift landing area.

Also, police radioed Mettetal Airport and asked that flights be held so that the helicopter could travel in the flight path used by the nearby

This all happened in about 45 minutes. And it involved coordinating the police and fire departments, along with an ambulance service and a helicopter.

Such displays of quick thinking and efficiency should go a long way toward assuring Plymouth residents that top-flight emergency service is only a telephone call away.

It was a job well done by all.

Opening of files is welcomed

OLICE STATE activities through surveillance, harassment and intimidation are something that all democracy-loving Americans rightfully should abhor.

And while we usually associate these tactics with totalitarian governments, we know that for many years in Michigan, federal, state and local law enforcement agencies used these distasteful tactics against those who had beliefs divergent from the established powers.

In 1980, the Michigan State Police came clean and began releasing their up-till-then secret Red Squad files.

As of this year, the Detroit Police Department also is obliged to release files to those requesting

Much of this activity took place in the 1960s nd 1970s when police skulked around political rallies, anti-Vietnam war rallies, rock concerts and theater parties to spy on those expressing their constitutionally protected opinions.

The Michigan State Police long ago came clean and began releasing their up-till-then secret Red Squad files. As of this year, the Detroit Police Department also is obliged to release files.

The files often were used to hinder people seeking employment in certain professions. And often, through shoddy police work, non-participating bystanders were earmarked when their car license numbers were recorded by police.

If you suspect you may have been victimized. write to the Red Squad Notification and Distribution Compliance Program, 800 Palms Building, Detroit, MI 48201 or call 961-7010. Inquiries must be made before Aug. 10, 1991.

It's censorship

NC-17 no blow for freedom

UBURBAN DETROIT threatergoers should be incensed over the recent implementation of yet another rating designation -NC-17. This joins the ever-popular G, PG, PG-13 and R and replaces the X which have rummaged around the attic of the house of distorted thinking for a number of years now.

Censorship, whether by private or public interests, is a threat to your right to know.

Your right to know is the foundation of a free and thriving democracy.

This new rating, voluntarily thrust upon us by the private sector movie industry, forbids a person 17 years or younger to see a movie, despite the fact that you as a parent may want your child

In question is the recently released "Henry & June," a movie based on the life of author Henry Movie aficionados should remember that this rating wasn't invented so that adults could see the movie. No, this rating was born because the Censorship, whether by private or public interests, is a threat to your right to know.

monied interests behind the production wanted it.

As an X-rated movie, "Henry & June" could be viewed by any adult in America. But producers objected, fearing that the stigma of X would make it a negative marketing vehicle. In short, they would lose big bucks.

The industry, which invented the misguided rating system in the first place, again tried to satisfy everyone by creating yet another desig-

The movie rating system is an insult to the adult mind in a democratic society. Creating it to pander to either economic interests or to those who wish to tell us what they think is proper for our children to see is simply dangerous.

Beat cops: Our best anti-crime weapon?

I REMEMBER the shock and sadness of the 1967 Detroit riot: 47 killed, blocks devastated, armed National Guardsmen patrolling streets. That was bad enough.

But what is now happening in our inner cities every day and year sporadic shootings, random muggings, the drug use epidemic, the unceasing decay of neighborhoods can only be described as a continuing riot in very slow motion.

Worse, this slow dance of crime and violence persists largely unaffected by a society far tougher on crime than in 1967. Prison sentences are longer. Today Michigan prisons hold 30,514 convicts, four times the 7,037 inmates of 1967.

Costs are mounting. To warehouse one felon in prison costs an average of $25,000 per year. The state Department of Corrections' budget has grown from $193 million to $770 million in 1990. That doesn't include more cops, prosecutors and judges. Yet the criminal justice system is, by all accounts, swamped.

AS A TAXPAYER, I begin to wonder if my money is being well spent when it costs seven times more to keep a criminal in prison than a family pays in tuition at the University of Michigan.

As a citizen, I begin to wonder when, if ever, we will see a payoff in reduced crime for all the millions of dollars we spend on hiring more police, building more prisons and voting for politicians who are "tough on

Robert Trojanowicz, director of Michigan State University's School of Criminal Justice, wonders if we are spending tons of money treating symptoms without getting near the root causes of criminal behavior.

He is experimenting with an idea called "community policing" - the old idea of the neighborhood cop walking the beat. For instance, instead of responding to repeated purse-snatchings at a bus stop, a cop might work with transit officials to move the bus stop away from the va-

In the process, folks might begin to trust the familiar officer by giving him tips and information.

'Police can't do it alone," said Darrel Stephens, executive director of the Police Executive Research Forum, a group of big-city police chiefs. "But they can be vital coordinators, organizing tenants for selfprotection one block at a time . . Pretty soon, they know who the troublemakers are . . . the 10 percent of addresses that produce 60 percent of police calls or the 10 percent of criminals that do 50 percent

STARTING THIS January in Lansing, Trojanowicz will help test a system of "neighborhood network centers" where local officers on the beat will coordinate their work with other agencies such as public health, social services, foster care, school truancy and even building inspec-

"We're after the other Yuppie the young urban predator," said Trojanowicz. "The goal is to bring back a system of informal social controls because the police can't do it all . We want to use the formal criminal justice system as a last resort the way neighborhoods do."

Already 30 experimental community police beats are being operated " in 17 Michigan cities such as Dearborn Heights, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City and Detroit.

Trojanowicz said the biggest problem is political. Politicians are reluctant to try something new which might cost money and has no guarantees of working quickly. They're also scared of being made to look soft on crime by an opponent. And so they keep on doing the same

I LIKE THE idea. I don't know if it will work, and I hope Trojanowicz and other reformers will publish their research findings.

What we are doing now is the worst of both worlds: It's terribly expensive and isn't stopping the slowtors fame, is not widely noted as a philosopher, but he said something a while ago that appealed to me: "If we keep doing what we've always done, we'll get what we've always gotten."

He's right, and I hope our political system will be sufficiently sensible to try something new. What we've always gotten is simply unaccept-

R-rated films not needed in classroom

To the editor:

For years I have listened to and read about the pros and cons of showing R-rated films in the schools without saying anything, but I would like to say something now. I make the following observations as a school teacher myself with 18 years experience locally in secondary education, although not in the Plymouth I would like to state that R-rated films have no business in the classroom, period. While one may argue that they may have a function in the college setting, I don't think junior or senior high school is the place. I have seen some of these films like "The Breakfast Club" and they contain an abundance of four letter words. There are those teachers who say that the showing of these films are appropriate, yet if those same teachers were to use that language in front of their students they would be fired on the spot. I should conclude then that it's not OK to say it but it's OK to show it? What kind of double standard is this?

I think that any good teacher should be able to make their point to their students without having to resort to the showing of R-rated films. Any teacher that must resort to the showing of these films to make their point should find another line of

The argument that many use of academic freedom is nothing more than a ruse and has been abused to no end. Academic freedom is essential in the classroom however there are limits. Academic freedom does not give a teacher the right to stand in front of their students and say or do or show anything they please.

Finally, this is not a case of students seeing or hearing something in the classroom that they are not already aware of. I'm sure they are not going to see or hear anything in these films that they don't already know about. The bottom line here is the question of what is appropriate. I graduated from Plymouth High School in the 1960s after having gone through the Plymouth schools since second grade and I don't recall seeing teachers then using films the way they are being used today. Sometimes I fear for the profession.

His parents, Shirley Bryant, com-munity relations director of Bir-mingham schools, and her former mingham schools, and her former husband, Gary Bryant of Milford, have resolved that Scott's death will not be meaningless, that some good may come of all that pain. "He was just in unbearable pain," said Gary Bryant.

"He would talk about this very logically. He saw his life had no hope and no future," Shirley Bryant said. Society was of little help to Scott and his family - who never had a clear path to follow. They got varied diagnoses from doctors; were hampered by the legal and insurance systems which should have helped them; and never found a proper living facility.

Unfortunately, theirs is not an isolated story: These comments were used by the State Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Michigan nearly a year ago in a survey of its member-

"NO ADVICE is ever given on how to handle a crisis with our son."

"If our son makes it, it won't be ecause of the mental health system in Michigan. It will be because I'm stubborn and won't give up on him."

The survey was sent to Thomas Watkins, director of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, asking for improvements in services to persons with serious mental

Michigan now ranks 26th in the most recent evaluation of state programs by the Public Citizen Health Research Group and the National Al-liance for the Mentally III. But in the category of housing, it received a 1 on a scale of 0-4. The housing which does exist is large-scale, when the need is for small, homelike facilities in safe neighborhoods with good su-

No, it's not money - it's priorities. The latest survey shows Michigan is 5th in the nation on per capita men-tal health spending. But money often goes to projects which are designed to be preventive.

Judith Doner Berne

It's not like substance abuse when there is a clear role for education prevention. Mental illness. which is widely received as chemically-based, can rarely be prevented any more than diabetes or multiple

Money needs to be allocated at the federal level for research into the origins and treatment of the mentally ill - and at the state and county level for the direction, care and protective housing they and their families so desperately require.

WEALTHY OAKLAND COUNTY has long waiting lists for the few beds that are available. For instance, Community Mental Health lists only 24 residential care beds for adults with mental illness who need supervision but can be helped to function in the community.

Former Birmingham Superintendent Roger Garvelink ended up having to ship a mentally ill son across the state to a Grand Rapids facility. The Bryants, who first counted themselves lucky to qualify for a Wayne County half-way house, ended up bringing their son home because the neighborhood was so dangerous.

We can't let those whose lives have been touched by mental illness go it alone. Call Dolores Howell at 557-6440 at the Oakland County chapter of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Michigan or Louise Skrip at 537-1963 at the Wayne County Suburban West chapter to see what vou can do.

In an interview this past summer, Dr. James Graves, former head of the Oakland County Community Mental Health Board, said: "Mental illness is still much more mysterious than someone who lost a leg in an accident and needs rehabilitation. . . there's less stigma connected with physical handicaps."

The truth is: Scott Bryant was once no different from your son or mine. He had loving parents, and his own abilities and dreams. He had no control over what happened to him - he only knew he couldn't live with the pain of mental illness.

Just recently Birmingham schools put together a proposed religion pol-icy to try to avoid the kind of angry reactions that occurred last year after an administrative decision to prohibit Christian boliday traditions like Christmas gift exchanges, Santa Claus decorations, etc. The whole issue, of course, is to be sensitive to children from other cultures and re-displays and performances, worship services and the distribution of sectarian literature. The policy is "really needed now," a spokeswoman for the schools said, "because the district has become so multi-cultural, and we are serving people of so many religious faiths.

AND IT ISN'T just happening here. In Madison, Wis., the school board ruled that public schools cannot teach about or celebrate religious holidays nor display decorations associated with such holidays. The ruling was based on a 23-page staff document that addressed the issue of how schools can treat religious holidays within a curriculum designed for students from a variety of cultural backgrounds.

at least) is now called "Winter Celebration," Easter is "Spring Celebration" and Halloween is the "fall costume party."

"It's recognition of the value of other viewpoints and other cultures . . an acceptance of multi-cultural backgrounds and the value of that," the school principal said.

The message seems to be that no where, no way, no how do we want to impose our beliefs and traditions on anyone who does not come from the same heritage that we do. And that may not be such a bad thing.

Then I read about the dog-eating

REP. SAL ROCCA, D-Sterling Heights, has introduced a bill in the state Legislature that would make eating dogs and cats a misdemeanor punishable by up to 90 days in jail, a $2,000 fine and 500 hours of community service.

The bill apparently is a response to some complaints filed with the Michigan Humane Society that people have been stealing pets off the street and eating them.

A spokeswoman for the society said the cases aren't documented. but officials suspect a few immicountries where dog meat is considered a delicacy may be the culprits.

So what, you may ask, does this have to do with school holiday policies? Just this:

In discussing his bill and the immigrants suspected of dog-eating, Rocca said: "Eating cats and dogs is part of their culture. It's not repulsive or obnoxious to them, it's acceptable. But it's not an acceptable practice in our society to kill and eat household pets. We make laws based on our standards, our culture, and as a matter of public policy, it should be prohibited."

So that's what it takes. We'll throw Santa in the dumpster, we'll give the Easter bunny the heave-ho and we'll scratch Halloween right off the calendar in the name of cultural diver-

Schools of choice gaining momentum

Q: We and some of our friends want to put our children in a private school but don't have the money to do so. Do you ever see parents given the choice of the school they want and some money from education to help pay for the schooling?

A: It's happening in Wisconsin and 14 other states are considering the school of choice option.

The Wisconsin plan will grant $2,500 in state money for each student. This type of financial assistance isn't popular with public school administrators or teacher unions.

The Wisconsin plan was pushed by State Rep. Polly Williams, a black Democrat who has fought to get 1,000 academically eligible inner city children into private, non-religious schools. She believes private school are safer and more educationally challenging than the inner city schools these children are attending.

When Williams visited Washington she was scorned by the educational establishment, the NAACP and teacher unions who want her program killed. It will take money out the public school coffers.

Leading conservative legislators greeted Polly like a Mother Teresa. Of the liberal democrats, Don Lambro, a nationally syndicated political analyst said, "Senator Ted Kennedy, who professes such compassion for poor minorities, has ignored her efforts."

Is this an opportunity for black families to choose an educational setting where knives and guns are not the focus, where teachers work in a stress free environment? Or is this a conspiracy to destroy public education?

Are moderate citizens beginning to say, "Maybe a little competition for our public schools is healthy"? Could this happen in Michigan?

Look at the home schooling movement. Years ago, parents who kept kids home were hauled into court; some went to jail. Today, a parent can fill out a few forms at the local Intermediate School District, follow or pretend to follow some curriculum guidelines, submit children to a mer Troy Schools administrator.

periodic basic skills test and keep them home. That is a School of Choice - the home On a local level is the Open Enrollment movement which allows parents to select the school they want in their district. Is Open Enrollment a part of the old "stepping stone" theory of evolution leading to a private Schools of Choice for parents? I don't know If parents receive cash to put their

Saturdays just roll along for skaters

Thursday, October 18, 1990 O&E

Skating on the rink at the Skatin' Station in Canton can be frightening for some younger children.

"I think we've got a mixture of both," said Namy Ryan, who teaches a beginning roller skating class for kids. "Some yes, some no. It depends on the student."

Sometimes, a younger student will be less apprehensive than an older one, she said.

A beginning class for students ages 3-15 began Oct. 6 and will continue for eight weeks at the Skatin' Station. The class is offered by

Canton Parks and Recreation and the Skatin' Station.

"We do gear the beginning class to kids," said Ryan, a Plymouth resident who's taught at the Skatin' Station for a couple years. Disney music and other songs that appeal to kids are played.

STUDENTS LEARN the basics, including the right way to hold their arms for balance while skating. Shoulders and hips control the feet, and throwing an arm back will tend to throw a skater off balance and make a fall more likely, Rusn said.

Beginning students also "shoot the duck," skating in a semi-seated position on one foot with the other foot extended in front.

"We start them out with both feet, feeling what that is," she said. Speed isn't emphasized in the beginning.

"I let them go at whatever pace

'Roller skating has been around forever, a long time. It seems the younger kids just want to learn. It's fun and it's relatively inexpensive.'

Students get some help as they do the hokey pokey and turn themselves they can go," said Ryan, who also teaches a Saturday class for advanced beginners. She works with several other helpers in the Skatin' Station class for beginners.

Beginning classes are held at 16 a.m. Saturdays and have been popular in recent times, said Bob Dates, recreation supervisor for and was discontinued.

"The interest just didn't seem to be there, but now it's picked up again," said Dates, who knows how to roller skate but is more partial to ice skating.

"Roller skating has been around-forever, a long time," he said. "It seems the younger kids just want to learn. It's fun and it's relatively inexpensive. The wood is pretty hard when you fall, but they bounce back up and keep going."

ASHIONS ARE sold at stores along Plymouth's Main Street. Clothing's also displayed at the Plymouth Historical Museum on Main, but those fashions aren't for sale.

The museum's exhibit on fashions from the 1860s through the 1960s will continue through mid-November, and has been well-received.

"It's been really positive," museum director Beth Stewart said of public reaction. Fashion merchandising students have been among the visitors. "They said 'Oh, you've made our job so easy.' " Those students learn about fashion history, and the exhibit featuring fashions from each decade - helped them see what was popular.

"I think fashion of any kind is one of the most interesting exhibits we do," Stewart said. Throughout time, people have been interested in looking their best.

LAST YEAR, the museum had an exhibit featuring undergarments from the past.

"Underwear has really changed." Even those who wear vintage clothing are unlikely to wear old-fashioned corsets and other uncomfortable undergarments. Some of the undergarments were put to good use in this year's exhibit. Some old-fashioned styles call for certain undergarments to make them look just right. Stewart and others at the museum haven't had a lot of visitors ask about buying the fashions featured. A few clothing dealers have stopped by.

"There's a huge market right now." Dealers are interested in fashions from the 1940s, 1950s and even the 1960s. Some women in their early 20s, too young to have worn miniskirts the first time around, like the 1960s The exhibit includes a number of accessories, such as shoes, purses, hats and gloves. The focus is on women's fashions, in part because men's styles don't change as "You could have 100 years of men's fashions and every one would look the same," Stewart said.

Museum staffers and volunteers would like to have an exhibit on more modern fashions at some point, and would even like to predict what styles will be like in the year 2010 or thereabouts.

The biggest thing those working on the exhibit have noticed "is really what goes around comes around." Styles from earlier eras aren't all that different from much of what's popular today.

The sizes of vintage clothing also tend to be smaller. "Gloves, everything. They were just smaller people all the way around," Stewart said.

The Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main, is open 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2-5 p.m. Sunday. Admission price is $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for students ages 5-17, free for children under 5. Family rate is $4. The museum has a gift shop and holiday items are available. For more information, call 455-8940.

Worshipers at the church, on North Territorial in Plymouth Township, have finished a two-year building project. They're relieved that the work is done.

"Such a program tests greatly your patience as well as your tolerance, mandates that you recognize that the building doesn't make a church," said the Rev. John Grenfell Jr., senior pastor. "I think there's been a sense of exhilaration. I think another reaction has been deep gratitude."

Church members appreciate the fact that the new part of the build-ing blends so well with the older been through a building program, so the sense of relief is still a very big part of the accomplishment. When Grenfell was co-pastor at St. Matthew's United Methodist Church in Livonia, he was involved in a building project.

THE ADDITION at the Plymouth church is extensive, and includes a new sanctuary with seating capacity of 640 to 670. The old sanctuary seated about 320.

"We have a new library, which is very lovely facility," the pastor said. There's a new choir room and a fellowship hall, "which increases greatly the opportunity for people attending dinners and fellowship

The fellowship hall used to be the sanctuary. The addition also includes a new parlor, a kitchen and office space. New office facilities staffers have been working there since that time.

A memorial garden is included in an outdoor courtyard at the church, and is between the old and new sanctuaries. The garden will allow for interment of ashes.

Church members realized a few years ago that it was time to expand. The church has 1,300 to 1,400 members and is on a site of about

"We had membership growth. The area's growing. I think that is a factor," Grenfell said. It got to the point where worshipers at the earlier Sunday service were seated in the narthex area just outside the rear of the sanctuary.

"We should have probably done it two years sooner," he said.

CHURCH LEADERS have emphasized participation of laypeople in the ministry, and that's helped to boost membership. Outreach services are extensive at the church, and include support of such local agencies as Growth Works and Straight, along with involvement in missions projects elsewhere in the United States and worldwide.

"Its focus is on other people," he

The old church included about 20,000 square feet. The new facility's much larger, about 60,000 square feet, although that includes about 16,000 square feet in the basement that's not really useable right now, due to the lack of an elevator for handicapped access.

The cost of the project is about $3.2 million, not including a new pipe organ. Worshipers have raised money for the building project and the pipe organ. They still need to raise about $70,000 out of a total of about $225,000 for the pipe organ, and hope to have it installed by the spring of 1991.

T.H. Marsh Construction Co. of Livonia was the general contractor for the project. Architects were Lindhout Associates, also of Livo-

Worship services, weddings, funerals and other functions were held at the church throughout the

"We've had our trials," Grenfell said. "We never lost a sanctuary."

ON PALM SUNDAY this spring, worshipers moved into the new sanctuary. They began worship in the old sanctuary and moved into the new one while singing.

The new facility provides greater flexibility for programming, he said. In addition to church functions, a number of community events are held at the church. The Plymouth Community Chorus rehearses at the church and many groups meet at First United Meth-

Worshipers are celebrating the work's completion. There's a bit of tidying up to do and some work in the kitchen, but most things are done, Grenfell said.

Consecration services were held Sunday, Oct. 14, and were led by Bishop Dwight Loder of Columbus, Ohio, former bishop of the Detroit conference of the United Methodist Church.

Worship services Sunday, Oct. 21, will include dedication of memorials. That includes hymn books, chandeliers in the sanctuary, sconces for wall lighting, "different things of this nature that were brought through monies donated in memory of loved ones."

Dr. Sam Stout will preach at the 9 a.m. service this Sunday and the Rev. Hugh White will preach at 11:15 a.m. Both are former pastors at the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth.

An open house will be 3-5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 21, and will include tours of the new facility. The laying of the cornerstone will take place that afternoon.

There will also be a "fellowship fair," and those attending will learn about various activities within the church. Refreshments will be served. The public may attend.

First United Methodist Church is at 45201 N. Territorial, west of Sheldon in Plymouth Township. For information on this Sunday's open house, call 453-5280.

So-called paradise frequently illusory I recently came across a whimsical anecdote based on the fantasy of a contemporary Sage. He dreamed that Hell burned down and was utterly consumed. The Celestial Council met in urgent session to decide on a course of action. There was, of course, the logical suggestion that another Hell be built. But one of the angels disagreed: "As long as there was an Eternal Inferno, it had to be, but it is "But," said Satan, "we must have Hell for those who deserve it. We would undermine the principles of justice otherwise." Both protagonists found some sup-not right to build a new one."

port within the council. Neither side would yield and an impasse was reached

FINALLY, ONE of the wisest in the group proposed a compromise. He pointed out another related problem. Paradise was decrepit and in bad need of repair. A committee had already begun plans for a modernized facility. Therefore, let the old Paradise become the new Hell.

This suggestion was unanimously accepted since no one objected to the building of a new Paradise. Heaven found the answer to its own vexing problem.

This fable teaches a far-reaching truth. Events of recent years have demonstrated beyond doubt that many a "paradise" which required fulfillment of the program of a party or movement turned out to be a veritable "Hell."

Men were promised a world of justice, security and peace. But promises turned to ashes and the anticipated Heaven became a place of tor-

Communism emerged from the theoretical design of Marx and Lenin to the arena of power. It kindled among the downtrodden everywhere a hope that Paradise had been found. Once the greed for wealth was vanquished, mankind would usher in a new era of justice and equality. With the demise of Capitalism, the state would wither away and people would live in amity and brotherhood without the necessity of governmental control.

AS THE YEARS passed, an incalculable record of subjugation, suffering and death revealed the bitter reality of Communism. The disintegration of the Communist empire demonstrates how the hoped-for Heaven of yesterday is the Hell of today. A new Heaven has to be built.

There were other illusory Paradises. At the beginning of the 20th century, mankind looked to science as a savior. The laboratory scientist rubbed Aladdin's lamp and a genie produced the airplane, radio, television set, satellite, computer, organ transplants — a world was being created in which all would lead lives of carefree ease amid material plenty. Was this not a man-made Heav-

But life is imperiled by the possibility of an atomic holocaust. Human velfare is threatened by depersonalization, by mechanized entertainment, by the ravaging of the environment. Our greatest threat is economic disorder and instability, brought about by those complex in-ternational forces unleashed by technology. Are we truly in Paradise?

The story of modern man is conveyed by this fantasy. Let him beware lest yesterday's Paradise become tomorrow's inferno.

Sex isn't always result of an office 'love affair'

The vast chasm between men and women, believed by some to be bridged only when a sexual relationship develops may not be so wide af-

A team of University of Michigan School of Business Administrations researchers has found that men and women can develop "non-sexual love affairs" on the job and that these associations usually benefit both the couple and the organization.
In the survey of 1,050 managers,

22 percent reported involvement in non-sexual love relationships, four times more than the 5 percent who reported sexual involvement.

The research team, headed by Robert Quinn, assistant professor of organizational behavior and human resource management defined two types of male-female relationships, both deeper emotionally than a platonic affair, a traditional friendship or a mentorship.

What the U-M researchers called an Agape (pronounced aw-GAW-pee) or altruistic relationship is more like a deep friendship not defined by gender. The Agape couple deeply trust each other; respect each other's strengths, abilities, beliefs and values; and communicate freely.

A STRONG sexual energy distinguishes the "Eros relationship" from Agape. Men and women in Eros relationships "have all the feelings of a romance," Quinn said.

"They feel excitement, infatuation, and hear all the bells and whistles of lovers," he said.

Yet in neither relationship do participants engage in sexual activity.

Agape couples refrain from sexual intimacy because of other moral commitments - to their marriages, for example, or to a sense of ethics. Eros couples, Quinn said, stay away from sex because of fear - fear of rejection, or ruining the relationship or fear of company policies.

Individuals involved in both kinds of relationships experience greater personal payoffs in terms of their job than they would from a casual friendship, said Sharon Lobel, visiting assistant professor at the U-M Business School find work is more fun and are more secure," Lobel said. "They help each other reach their work goals, help advance each other's career, offer each other new ideas and balance each other's weaknesses."

The benefits spill over into the organization, resulting in greater productivity and a better product. However, the Eros partnership can generate tension and rumors among the couple's co-workers, Quinn noted.

WHEN CO-WORKERS perceive an intimate relationship, they assume the couple is involved sexually," he said. "This can cause reactions because others believe the rewards of the relationship are distributed unevenly - pillow talk, secrets, constant support at staff meetings — and the others can't compete with the currency being exchanged."

Quinn suspects a turning point in close male-female relationships occurs if the couple discuss their mutual attraction.

This may strengthen their relationship," he said."They are taking a higher moral stand and gaining selfrespect. They can trust each other more while honoring their commit-efits. The more intense the feeling for a co-worker, the better the relationship with the spouse, said doctoral candidate Andrea Warfield, the third member of the research team.

"Having greater motivation, con-fidence and satisfaction at work makes a person happier at home and that is good for the spouse," she said.

The opposite is true for the Eros relationship. The more intense the "chemistry," the lower the emotional intimacy with the spouse, Lobel said. Although it isn't a "huge finding," it did show that for Eros relationships, the feeling at home falls off somewhat, she explained.

EVEN THOUGH the individuals and indirectly the organization benefit, Quinn is reluctant to advise companies to encourage non-sexual love relationships.

"These relationships do exist, and we know from previous research that managers have a hard time dealing with them," he said. "Most managers tend to ignore them. My advice is if they have a negative impact on the organization, the manager has to make a judgment."

Nevertheless, the U-M researchers believe that as more women join the work force, non-sexual love relations will become more prevalent.

"More women on the job will add a new element to the work place," Lobel; said. "Men compartmentalize their lives more, but this is not so easy for women. Maybe the goal for us is to be who we are wherever we are and not confine our intimacy needs just to the home.'

Fish haven is a 'great catch' for fall

By John Castle special writer

Canadian gasoline prices are outrageous. The currency exchange gap keeps narrowing. But Ontario remains a vacation bargain. With her scenic charms close by, she's tailor-made for the budget-minded weekend traveler.

One of her most picturesque areas is the south shore of Georgian Bay, only 250 miles from metropolitan Detroit.

For years the shoreline has been one of Canada's best-kept secrets. But it's starting to catch on. Condos sprout where fishing camps once stood. Fast food chains crowd the shoreline. The new is replacing the old, but Georgian Bay still has enough rustic charm to go around.

ABOUT TWICE a year, we get Georgian on our mind. The urge hit us again this fall. Why not take a weekend trip to Owen Sound, prowl the Georgian Bay shoreline for a full day, then go back home to Birmingham? Why not?

We gassed up and had breakfast at Port Huron before crossing the Blue Water Bridge into Canada. We got travel literature and exchanged our money ($1.12 Canadian for $1 U.S.) at the Tourist Information Center in Sarnia. Traveling northeast over nearly deserted country roads, we jig-jogged across Ontario farmland for four hours. At lunchtime we pulled into the Journey's End motel in Owen Sound.

WITH 20,000 residents, Owen Sound is the largest city on Georgian Bay. It edges a natural harbor and nestles between the cliffs of the Niagara Escarpment. The Syndenham River crashes over the Inglis Falls at nearby Rockford and then meanders quietly through town. Flanking the Syndenham inside the city is Harrison Park. Its 100 acres boasts tennis courts, wading and swimming pools, play and camp grounds, mini golf, paddle boats, walking and ski trails, and a picturesque inn.

While we were there, a band of joggers flashed by on the last lap of a 3K race. Under the bridge, fishermen stood in ankle-deep water casting bait ineffectually at huge salmon thrashing upstream to spawn.

Anglers are everywhere, but Owen Sound is more than a fishing town. It has museums, modern motels and malls, and a good selection of family ethnic eateries. The Palace, a downtown Chinese restaurant, offers a dinner buffet. The sweet and sour pork melts in your mouth.

WE SPENT the first afternoon rubbernecking in Owen Sound. After a good night's sleep, we had eggs over easy and thick slices of homemade toasted bread at Smitty's in the Heritage Place Mall. The restaurant was crowded with locals, it's that good.

After breakfast, we took scenic Route 26 along the west shore of the Sound to Wiarton, gateway to the Bruce Peninsula. The Bruce juts 100 miles northward, separating Georgian Bay from Lake Huron. A wilderness trail follows its rocky spine.

The Bruce Peninsula is a paradise for bird watchers, with more than 170 species. On one trip, a large gaudy bird flashed across the road in front of us. Later we identified the strange bird as a rare pileated woodpecker.

There wasn't much time to explore the Peninsu-

There wasn't much time to explore the Peninsula's 500 miles of shoreline. We had to return to Owen Sound for lunch. Afterward, we would drive eastward along Georgian Bay, passing through Meaford, Thornbury and Craigleith to Collingwood.

Georgian Bay is a happy hunting ground for antique buffs. We've found great buys on hand-carved wooden duck decoys, ancient kitchen utensils and old hand tools. Flea and farmer markets are good places to look. Most of them are open Saturdays or Sundays, just right for the weekend wanderer.

EAST OF Meaford, the Bay is always in sight. The next stop is Thornbury. And during the fall run of rainbow, splake (speckled trout/lake trout hybrid) and salmon, you must stop and watch the action.

Charter boats keep fall fishing in season

Listen to the fishermen.

Denny Grinold of the Michigan Charter Boat Association: "Late fall is one of my favorite times to fish." Ned Fogle of the Department of Natural Resources: "The big lakes can be stormy but there are a lot of fish to be caught in the streams."

Bob Shaw of Fowlerville: "Lake Erie walleye are best in spring but you can still get them out in the channel."

I'm not exactly a great fisherman, although Joe Wolff of Southfield, Captain of the Ginger Brandy Two out of Manistee, is nice enough to remember the 18-pound salmon I caught with him and to forget that he had to take me ashore when I started turning green.

Joe's wife Ann, a retired schoolteacher, may be the most avid fisherman in that family. Joe said she runs the boat and he just comes along to drive it through the water.

The Ginger Brandy Two, like most of the boats in the Michigan Charter Boat Association, is coming out of the water this month. People don't want to drive a couple of hundred miles and end up sitting on the dock because of rough weather. Marinas like to get the boats tucked away before the deer season and ice take over.

Joe says there are still charters on Lake Michigan south of Grand Haven, down St. Joe and New Buffalo way, where the water is a little warmer and the fish are still active. Otherwise, the best fishing seems to be in salmon-spawning rivers like the Betsie, Manistee or St. Jo rivers, which run into Lake Michigan, or the Au Sable which flows into Lake Huron.

Tips? "Spawn bags are very 'in' this year. That's salmon eggs wrapped in mesh bags. The steel-head and the salmon love them. Also popular is a small body-type plug called the Hot 'N' Tot, or another called the Tadpolly."

Denny Grinold, past president of the Michigan Charter Boat Association, has been fishing since the salmon were first planted in the Great Lakes in the early 1970s and he is now working with the Lake Michigan Task Force and Lake Huron Task Force to learn why the Chinook salmon have been dying the last few

The Chinook were brought in to clean up the alewives, their decline may be occurring because the alewives are disappearing and the salmon must now change their diet. The task forces are also exploring a European water flea brought in through the ballast discharge of ocean freighters.

"I started fishing when the salmon were first planted and I bought a boat to fish with my four children. When they grew up I bought a char-

As we drove through Collingwood passing by the Blue Mountain Pottery store and other familiar landmarks, we had mixed feelings. The Little Red Hen Restaurant was gone. So was the giant cradle with the hull of a Great Lakes freighter nestling in it. Instead, the harbor was almo deserted, except for a small public dock and a yacht club.

At the time we felt cheated. Modern development had stolen our treasure. No longer would we be able to stroll through downtown Collingwood on a Saturday morning with only a handful of pedestrians at our side. No longer could we wander along silent Blue Mountain trails or watch the evening sun sink into the Bay with only seagulls for company.

But as we returned to Birmingham the next day, our attitude softened. We never really owned Georgian Bay. We just happened to discover her early. She doesn't belong to anyone. Georgian Bay is there for everyone to enjoy.

Solid base makes house search easier

"Things may come to those who wait, but only the things left by those who hustle." To be assured of a good financial future, one cannot sit back and wait for things to happen but must instead plan and make things happen.

This month's couple, John Wilcox, 31, and Beth Parks, 28, have been married five years and live in Redford with their 1-year-old son. Although young, John and Beth are not just waiting for things to happen but instead are already formulating plans and goals. Two of their major goals are buying a new house within the next year and preparing for their future.

John, an engineer with an auto supplier, earns $28,000. Although his job is secure, he has changed jobs three times in the last five years. Beth is a computer programmer at a local hospital and earns $20,000.

John and Beth already have a number of financial strengths that include:

Two steady incomes;Home ownership;

Few debts;

Solid cash reserve;
Plenty of time to reach their

 Plenty of time to reach the long-term goals.

John and Beth purchased their home five years ago shortly after their marriage. The home has increased in value during that time and their equity above the mortgage is about $31,000. They are now looking for a new home in the Livonia area and plan to spend approximately $125,000. One of John's major questions in buying the house is, "Should we put as much as possible down on our new home?"

Their savings, together with the equity they would receive from the sale of their current home, would result in approximately $51,000 for a down payment.

In general, we believe they should not put all of their assets into home equity because it becomes an illiquid investment, and they forego the flexibility of having available cash reserves. In the event of an illness or if Beth decided to stay home for a period of time after having a second child, they would have no reserves to fall back on.

WE WOULD suggest they choose a down payment of 20 to 30 percent, depending on their comfort level with the resulting monthly mortgage payment. If they make the 30 percent down payment, they should ask about the possibility of a tax escrow waiver, which would allow them to pay their taxes themselves. They would then have the use of the money throughout the year rather than making a monthly payment to a tax escrow account under the mortgage.

Again, we can only generalize, but our strong preference is for a fixed rate mortgage, especially if John and Beth plan to remain in the new house for more than three years and if they are able to obtain a mortgage rate below 10 percent. With a variable rate loan, there is simply too much risk from a substantial increase in interest rates. If they obtain a fixed rate and interest rates decline significantly, they can always refinance to lock in lower interest rates. The cost of the refinancing is usually a small price to pay for eliminating the risk of a variable rate mortgage.

One gap in the financial planning for John and Beth is that they have done no estate planning. While in their case, sophisticated planning, including trusts, might not be necessary, serious consideration should be given to executing a will. Generally, all of the property un-der such a will would go to the spouse and, if the spouse does not survive, to children. But the will also states a person's preference for guardians, and normally provides for a "final takers," that is, the person or persons who will inherit property in the event that the spouse and children do not survive. As assets increase or as family changes occur, estate planning should be looked at more frequently to determine if any other techniques can be used to minimize probate and inheritance and estate

The other primary goal for John and Beth is to provide for their future. As we said, they are young and have a number of years to reach this long-term goal. But it appears they are largely responsible for their own financial security at retirement. Hospitals are not generally known for their generous pension benefits, and John has changed jobs too frequently to be vested in any retirement plan. Clearly they should begin a long-term savings plan to reach their retirement goal.

Beth has been contributing $200 per month to a tax-sheltered annuity almost from the very beginning of her employment. We would strongly encourage her to continue this and gradually increase this as her salary increases.

We would also suggest that John attempt to put 10 percent of his income into a long-term savings plan. If his employers offers a 401(k) plan, this would be an excellent place to save. If not, John should gradually build to this 10 percent level in other investment assets such as stocks and mutual funds. Keep in mind that because of their other goals, they may not be able to reach these savings goals immediately but should strive for it as soon as possible.

ANOTHER AREA of financial weakness is inadequate insurance coverage. John and Beth each only have group term insurance through their employers, with John having $28,000 of group term benefit and Beth having a $10,000 benefit. This is clearly a major gap in their financial safety net. One of their biggest financial strengths is their earning power over the next 30 to 35 years. Certainly the financial stability of the family could be in real jeopardy if either John or Beth passed away. We would suggest that each of them have a minimum of $250,000 additional coverage. perhaps using a term insurance policy for cost savings.

Neither John nor Beth currently have long-term disability insurance coverage. John does have coverage with his employer that protects him for six months, then terFinancial Position

The Bottom Line

Financial Strengths:

- Two steady incomes
- Own their home
- Few debts
 Solid cash reserves
- Time to reach their long-term goals

Financial Weaknesses:

- Inadequate life, disability, and liability insurance.
- No wills or estate plan.
 Minimal company benefits beyond
- health insurance.

 No savings started for minates. Certainly, a disability might be more lengthy than six months, which would cause severe financial hardship again on the family. This would especially be a problem if Beth and John have another child and Beth is unable to work full time. They should investigate long-term disability coverage protection with their insurance.

Finally, John and Beth currently have minimum liability coverage under their auto and howmeowner's policies. This should be immediately raised to $100,000 per person/$300,000 per occurrence. The increased costs will be minimal, and if they should ever be sued, the higher limits could well be needed. They might want to add an umbrellar ider policy to their homeowner's policy to protect against additional liability.

If cash is available, John and Beth may want to consider starting a modest savings program for their son's education. Zero coupon bonds maturing at the time of their son's high school graduation or a regular investment of $100 into a stock mutual fund might be appropriate avenues to pursue this.

Investing in

Európe

Experts say

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

An feast of capitalist delight awaits those who are fast enough and smart enough to invest in Eastern Europe while opportunities abound.

A collapsing socialist system, a reunified Germany, and a soon-to-be-realized European common market — all these add up to hungry consumers looking for everything from fast food to hard goods like appliances and automobiles, said Charles Rothstein, president of Andover Capital Inc., a West Bloomfield investment banking firm.

"With our own economy slowing, why not look to Europe?" Rothstein asked. "A company can help to sustain its domestic base by investing in a foreign market."

BUT Anthony Hamilton-Little of Farmington Hills said Americans don't fully comprehend the business climate in Europe, and if they don't get on the ball, they will be left behind.

Hamilton-Little, a manager of LS & A International in Birmingham, has been involved in international business for nearly 30 years and is developing a radio newsletter on international business.

Besides the logistics of raising capital, legal complications and starting up a business in Europe, Hamilton-Little said foreign investors will have to deal with local languages and customs, different units of measure and unfamiliar television standards requiring that companies take a completely different approach to selling themselves in Europe

THERE ARE several ways to gain access to the European market, each with its own advantages and disadvantages: starting up a facility or business, buying an existing company, or establishing a joint venture with an existing company, Rothstein

"You could also export goods, but access is really about jumping in with both feet," he said.

A company that starts up a facility will have to establish itself in a new market and have to work in an environment quite unlike the United States, but it will be its own boss and success will bring great rewards, Rothstein said.

A company that buys a company will have to deal with existing employees and may have problems motivating employees, but will already have a market for its product and a base from which to grow, Rothstein said.

A company that establishes a joint venture will have to share profits, but will have lower startup costs and an established business partner with a better familiarity of the existing market, he said.

MOST COMPANIES will need to gain the assistance of an international marketing firm to translate its standards and goals into a form palatable to Europeans, Hamilton-Little said.

the time is ripe

Developing a marketing presence is critical if U.S. goods and services are to be successful in capturing significant parts of the market, Hamilton-Little said.

Entering the European market is healthier than exporting because European countries are already showing signs of protectionism, said David Eberly, a partner with Andover Capital Inc.

Extensive exporting could result in resentment of foreign products and companies, just as the growing flow of foreign goods has caused resentment in this country, he said.

"THERE ARE also advantages a company can take when operating there," he said.

Favorable labor rates, worthwhile material costs from local suppliers as well as an improved relationship with local customers all make running an enterprise in Europe more attractive.

A thorough knowledge of the prevailing business environment indicates which businesses will succeed in Europe, Hamilton-Little said.

"By way of example, people don't realize East Germans bought upwards of 150,000 used cars last year," he said.

The East German appetite for cars has made it virtually impossible to buy used cars in other parts of Europe, he said.

"WHAT DOES that say? It says there is a huge market for aftermarket materials," Hamilton-Little said.

There will be a great need for car parts and accessories ranging from the necessary to the frivolous.

Now is best time to invest in Europe

"Every automotive-related company in Europe is in East Germany right now and the U.S. XYZ company that builds widgets ought to be there as well."

Eberly of Andover Capital said although the barriers between east and west are crumbling, business must still differentiate between the two. "Western Europe has very American tastes," he said.

OPPORTUNITIES IN western Europe lie in exploiting the existing consumer market and the coming European economic community.

"The common market gives western Europe a consumer base roughly the size of the U.S. and Japan combined," Eberly said.

Therefore, the services industry rather than manufacturing may offer more of an opportunity, he said, although there will still be opportunities for manufacturing technology and product manufacturing.

Eastern Europe is less westernized and therefore needs the basic economic components that westerners take for granted, Eberly said.

"Eastern Europe's economy is about to go through a radical transformation."

Building trades, communications, transportation and heavy building opportunities will be great as Eastern Europe strives to become more "west-like," he said.

Southeast Michigan companies, with their emphasis on heavy manu'The common market gives western Europe a consumer base roughly the size of the U.S. and Japan combined.'

facturing, should especially look to Eastern Europe, Eberly said.

NOW IS also the time to get in because other European countries—especially Germany—will be trying to take advantage of the situation as well, Eberly said.

"Germany will be a dominant power but right now it is preoccupled with digesting (what was once) East Germany.

"There's a sense of urgency," he said.

Potential investors must contend with Asian companies, which will no doubt be looking hungrily at the European market, and competitors from this country as well, he said.

But not everyone should invest in Europe, Eberly said. Companies must put their own house in order before going abroad.

"First be good, then be global (but) if you have the best mousetrap in the world, why not sell it to the world?"

Cellular telephone gobbles up automotive writen

I never thought of myself as the cellular phone type. There is something about a cellular phone that makes you think the guy has some kind of big deal going, particularly when he is kind of leaning with his elbow out the window and holds the phone about chin high, nodding like he just closed on a contract worth about 10 grand up front.

One of them sells cellular phon which means he can drop big numbers about his cellular phone bill and his commission on cellular phones at the same time. But I digress.

I have held off on buying a cellular phone, despite driving about 50,000 miles a year, figuring you can always stop and use a pay phone anyway. Besides, it always looked a little dangerous, sort of like trying to watch TV while driving, and, frankly, the image was a little tacky, one step shy of a leisure suit.

I THINK I changed my mind when I stopped at a pay phone in East Los Angeles, and a gentlemen leaning against the phone gave me a hard stare and said, "I'm going to shoot you, right between the eyes.

"I'm from Detroit," I replied, and he ran off.

But after that, I figured you can't be too careful, so I went out and bought a cellular phone.

Actually, I found out that you don't actually have to go out and buy a cellular phone, you just have to stand still for about three minutes and someone from Cellular One or AT&T will stuff one in your hand along with a contract to sign up for phone service.

These two companies are competing so hard, they discount the phones to attract new customers, even give them away. It's the contract that you

My suspicions were raised when the guy nicked both our arms and held them together to mix our blood before he would give me the phone.

Along with the phone, you get a couple of books that tell you all the codes that make it work, which means that along with trying to dial a phone while driving, you also are trying to read a book of instructions.

I have to apologize to the person who owns the house with my tire tracks across the front lawn, a side trip that resulted from my concentrating too long on page 12.

I QUICKLY GOT the hang of it, however. The modern phones even have code numbers to dial automatically, which is supposed to help you keep your eyes on the road.

That helps. It takes a while to get over shock of your first phone bill, since the contract you signed means you have to pay for both incoming and outgoing calls, plus extra charges for accidentally intercepted police dispatches.

But now I can lean back, put my -left arm out the window and take my calls, looking expansive and on the

Recession is headed our way

By Sid Mittra special writer

For some time my clients have been asking me if we are in a recession. My answer is: Not yet, but we will soon be there.

Take a look at the accompanying table. Even before the beginning of the Middle East oil crisis, the U.S. economy was headed toward a re-

During the first quarter of 1990, the real GNP increased 1.7 percent, and the increase slowed to barely 1 percent during the second quarter

Now that the rising oil prices, escalating war costs and bigger budget deficits are imposing severe restraints on the economy, the forecast calls for no economic growth during the latter part of this year.

NOT EVERYONE shares my pessimism. Many analysts appear confident that there will be no recession and the economy will be heading north in 1991.

These economists base their predictions on three major assumpGrowth in GNP, prices (percent change from prior quarter, annual rate) quently made use of the term "current and potential customers" to identify two of the major target markets served by any business organization. But what about the forgotten "third" market - your firm's inactive customers?

Believe it or not, this market may represent your greatest opportunity for increased sales. Before spending time and money on promotional strategies to attract "current and potential customers" this year or next, you may want to focus on this potential business that's right under your nose

RESEARCH CONDUCTED on the topic indicates that active customers become inactive when a business stops paying attention to them. A much-smaller percentage ceases dealing with organizations because of unresolved complaints or inferior products and services.

The data here suggests that customers should never be taken for granted if you expect them to remain loyal over the long term.

Credit unions under attack by banking competitors

1. S. Credit Union Totals

If profit oriented competitors in the financial services industry and their Washington lobbyists get their way, credit unions may become a thing of

The ability of credit unions to satisfy the needs of their members has raised some hackles among bankers, who claim they are being unfairly hurt by credit union competition. Banking lobbyists are leveling unfounded attacks on the nation's credit unions with the goal being to hamper the ability of credit unions to serve their members through unfavorable legislation in

Specifically, the banking industry is attacking credit unions for unsound business practices and calling for federal taxation of credit unions. Here are

The credit union system has been and continues to be strong and safe - a track record that banks and thrifts can only look upon with envy.

Survey after survey indicates that credit union members are far more satisfied with their financial institutions than customers of banks or thrifts.

Congress in 1934 exempted credit unions from the federal corporate income tax in recognition of credit unions' unique nature as not-for-profit financial cooperatives. Given that the non-profit, member-service nature of credit unions hasn't changed, there is no reason to change their tax exempt

The facts may be on the side of credit unions, but the banking effort may still succeed - unless credit union members act. Let your representatives in Washington know what you think. Write or phone your congressional representative and Michigan's two U.S. senators and tell them that your credit union is important to you, that you don't want Congress or the bankers tampering with the services you receive.

What's at stake? Credit union members are aware of the advantages credit unions offer in terms of fair earnings for savers and reasonable rates for borrowers. As memberowned, non-profit financial cooperatives, credit unions stand apart from other financial institutions in their unique commitment to service.

It's simple: At a bank, you're a customer, and the bottomline is profit for stockholders. At a credit union, you're a member, and the bottom line is service to you.

It is vital that credit unions continue to serve as a safeguard against financial monopoly by remaining a viable alternative to for-profit institutions.

Borrow and save with a 'common bond'

Exactly what is a credit union and not just customers. And each member how is it different than a bank or savings and loan? Why should you be a tion. credit union member instead of a bank customer? These are good questions. When you know the answers, you'll see why a credit union is a good place to borrow and save.

First of all, a credit union is a notfor-profit organization and is not required to earn a profit for outside stockholders or investors. Any income a credit union earns over and above expenses is returned to members in the form of higher interest paid on savings, lower interest rates on loans and improved services to members.

Secondly, a credit union can be easily described as a "cooperative bank." All credit union users are members, has a voice in the credit union's opera-

A credit union is owned and operated by its members, all of whom share a "common bond" such as working together in the same industry, belonging to a professional or fraternal group, or living in the same communi-

The common bond is an important and unique difference between credit unions and other financial institutions. Having a common bond helps hold an institution together because members usually share similar backgrounds and financial concerns. This similarity frequently generated new ideas and suggestions for better member ser-

Because of the common bond, members often know personally the credit union's officers, directors and staff. Also, they're likely to see friends, neighbors, co-workers or other familiar faces when visiting their local credit

When you open a savings account at a credit union, not only do you become a member, but an owner as well. As an owner, you have the right to attend annual meetings, vote for the board of directors and serve in any elected position. Directly or indirectly, you can help shape and control the institution that serves your financial needs.

As a credit union member, you'll often enjoy interest rates that are more favorable than a bank's. The members who set the credit union's interest rates use the services themselves, so they have a personal interest in establishing and maintianing competitive rates. And all credit union savings accounts are federally insured. As a member, you'll also be eligible to apply for a variety of loans, low-cost insurance products and many other ser-

Depending on its size, a credit union may be able to supply all the financial services you need. Some credit unions offer only savings accounts and personal loans, while others may offer a variety of services such as share drafts (checking accounts), loan drafts, mortgage loans, credit cards, IRAs, financial planning services and much more.

As you can see, a credit union is quite different from a bank or savings and loan. Credit union borrowers and savers are members, not simply customers. They have a unique stake in "their" financial institution, and they share in its success.

Credit unions: a better deal in banking service

Credit unions have never played follow-the-leader.

Your credit union takes pride in being different from other financial institutions. The credit union is owned by you the member. You elect the volunteers who set the credit union's policies and oversee its operation. Because credit unions are non-profit cooperatives with a mission of service to their members, they can usually give you a better deal than you could get at other financial institutions.

But because of our success, our competition has redoubled its attacks on us, aided by a fragile, emotional financial climate.

We are witnessing increasing consolidation and homogenization in the financial services industry - the S&L industry is fading away and banks themselves are undergoing consolidation. In addition, foreign banks are moving into U.S. financial services.

The financial marketplace is becoming dominated by large institutions that look more and more like each other. Financial services are increasingly controlled by faceless people far away.

Your credit union will never be owned by outsiders. It will always be owned by you. But if our competitors succeed in rewriting credit union legislation, they will weaken your credit union and the entire Credit Union Sys-

All members are being asked to help in our grassroots effort to contact legislators to express our concern and to indicate that we like our credit unions just the way they are and don't want to give them up. Your credit union is working with its state and national organizations to fight the threat we face on the legislative front.

In recent years, credit unions have begun moving beyond the traditional saving and lending services. Some now offer the most modern financial services available anywhere, such as IRAs, certificates of deposit, money orders, credit and debit cards, automated teller machines (ATMs), home mortgage loans, and financial planning

Not every credit union offers every type of service; this depends on the needs of the membership and the credit union's physical capacity to administer various programs. Because credit unions are cooperatively owned and democratically controlled, members participate directly in choostypical of those offered by most credit

LOANS. Everyone needs a loan at one time or another, and credit unions have traditionally been recognized as a good place to get one. Interest rates are typically as low or lower than those of other lenders, and it's often easier to get a loan at a credit union because consideration is given to the borrower's character and ability to repay, instead of just the collateral available. Many credit unions also provide Loan Protection insurance at no additional cost. This insurance pays off a member's outstanding loan balance should he or she die or become permanently disabled.

SAVINGS. Credit unions help members save to achieve their financial goals. Most offer savings plans that may include passbook accounts, money market accounts, certificates of deposit, individual retirement acounts (IRAs), Christmas, vacation, and educaing the programs that will best suit tional accounts, etc. Interest rates are their needs. The following services are always competitive and often exceed

Many credit unions also provide Life Savings insurance at no additional cost to the members. And your savings are safe because deposits in all Michigan credit unions are insured up to $100,000 by an agency of the federal PAYROLL DEDUCTION. Nine out of ten credit unions offer this handy service which enables members to have regular savings deposits or loan payments deducted directly from their paychecks. It's a "painless," convenient way to save.

SHARE DRAFT ACCOUNTS. These are interest-paying checking accounts which usually carry lower service fees (if any) or a lower minimum required balance than checking accounts at other institutions.

DIRECT DEPOSIT. This enables members to have their paychecks, social security checks or other types of regular payments deposited directly into their credit union account. It's a great convenience that means no line, no forgotten deposits . . . and the money starts earning interest im-

EDUCATION AND COUNSELING. Credit unions exist to help provide for the financial well-being of their members, so many offer financial planning to achieve specific goals. These goals may include retirement planning or saving for your children's educations.

OTHER SERVICES. Many credit unions offer additional services such as home mortgage loans, credit and debit cards, safe deposit boxes, automated teller machines (ATMs), and personal insurance services. It all depends on the size of the credit union and the wants and needs of its members.

Credit unions believe the average consumer deserves as good a "shake" as the person with lots of money. They know that today's consumer needs more than just loans and a place to save, so they're working hard to serve those needs in the best way

Is consumer credit a friend or foe?

If used properly, credit can help you enjoy a variety of goods and services without hurting your budget. Improperly used, it can leave you a long string of debts and overdue

There are many sources of credit, and they each offer something different. Credit is available from department stores, banks, finance companies, credit union and credit cards. The store where you buy that $499 TV may offer the following deal if you don't have the $499 in ready cash:

You pay for the TV in monthly installements of $31.85 each. After the 18th payment, the TV is yours free and clear. That's about a dollar a day - not bad. But is it really such a good deal after all?

If you pay $31.85 a month for 18 months, it works out to $573.30 in total payments for a $499 television. That means you are paying $74.30 (the difference) for the privilege of paying the store monthly instead of all at once. This is one form of credit, and the store is charging you $74.30 to use it. That works out to a true annual interest rate of 18.8 percent, which is approximately what you can expect to pay in interest on most installment credit plans offered by retail merchants.

The rate is about the same or higher at most financial companies and it generally ranges from 12-21 and have used credit previously.

percent at credit unions, 15-21 percent at banks, and 18 percent or more for credit cards.

Any lender is required by the Truth-in-Lending laws to quote you the TRUE ANNUAL INTEREST (also known as the Annual Percentage Rate) in a credit offer. This allows you to quickly determine which lender is offering the best rate.

When you borrow or use other forms of credit, do so only within your ability to repay. Otherwise you'll be stuck with monthly payments you can't afford, and some of the items you purchase on credit could be repossessed by the credi-

One factor which often determines your access to credit is your CREDIT RATING. Your credit rating is determined by how well you pay your bills, how long you have lived at your present address, how long and where you have been employed, what you earn and other points regarding your financial de-pendability. Lenders usually want to know these things before extending credit. They can obtain your official credit rating by checking with a local credit bureau.

Your credit rating will be stronger if you have a job, have lived at your current address for a few years, have paid your bills on time, have maintained a regular savings program at a local financial institution.

Experts advise bankers to follow credit union practices

Bankers are looking for winning retail and consumer banking strategies in a changing environment - and at least three of the 17 authors of a recent advertising supplement in "The American Banker," a trade newspaper, offer strategies right from the CU service manual

Andrew J. Atkin, vice president of the Walker Group/CNI, appears intrigued with the idea of membership, which credit unions have always of-

'There is no reason why banks cannot seek ways of introducing membership advantages to a number of different customer segments," he says. "The results may not only be a point of differentiation, but provide a tangible reason for customers to consolidate accounts."

Atkin also recommends providing consumer information along with data on financial products - something that credit unions have long been

"A bank seeking to develop its car loan business," he suggests, "may set up an area with information about new cars, used cars and trade-in values." About 1,000 credit unions already do that through the Credit Union Car Facts program.

Industry boasts capital growth

Credit unions have built up a strong capital cushion over the last decade, according to the Credit Union National Association, (CUNA).

Capital is money set aside against unexpected financial setbacks.

In "Credit Union Report," a just-released statistical summary of the credit union movement, CUNA reported that capital reached 7.9 percent of credit union assets in 1989.

"This is an enviable capital ratio," according to CUNA Chief Economist William Hampel," and all the more remarkable because credit unions, unlike for-profit institutions, can't sell stock to bolster capital but have to rely on building it out of earnings."

Credit unions, because they are not-for-profit cooperatives governed by their member-owners, generally follow a low-risk management philosophy, Hampel said, that encourages building a capital cushion.

He pointed out that credit unions have the lowest loan delinquency rates among depository institutions. "They stick to their knitting and focus on serving their members with consumer and residential mortgage loans." Hampel said.

According to "Credit Union Report," the nation's 15,000 credit unions held 6.1 percent of the nation's consumer savings at the end of 1989, and 12.5 percent of installment loans. More than 60 million Americans are credit union members.

Pure water company looks good, but it's too high

Q. Fresil a story about lonics Inc., and its business appealed to me. It is a leader in water purification. From the reading I have done, the need for pure water is getting greater all over the world, and it would seem like this company could do nothing but grow. Do you think I am on the

A. Ionics was one of the glamour stocks in the early '80s. It became severely overpriced on the specula-tion that the company's water-desalting system would be used in great quantity. The anticipated orgreat quantity. The anticipated or-ders did not materialize, and the company spent several years strug-gling to hold the business together. Under very difficult circumstances, management rebuilt the company and today it may be on the verge of enjoying the future specula-tors were predicting years ago. Man-agement has built an entirely new ess in bottling and selling wa-

THIS IS a small element of stabili-ty in a business where the profits from construction and operation of plants proved elusive for some time. Bottled water currently is a $25 mil-

Ionics has a lot of strengths. It is the largest company in the water purification and desalination business. Its technology seems to be tops. It has installed more than 1,800 desalination systems in 50 countries. It has proprietary membrane techniques that enable it to improve beverage and food products, purify pharmaceuticals, produce chemicals and remove valuable products from industrial waste, according to Standard and Poor's. Its new aquapore membranes can remove toxic contaminants from industrial waste waters.

THE COMPANY provides services from designing, building and operating water treatment plants to all of the needs in between. It has recently signed a contract with the city of Santa Barbara, Calif., whereby it will build, own and operate a desalination facility to produce 2,500 to 10,000 acre feet of water per year. The contract runs for five years.

The company is not a large com-pany. Revenues in 1989 were $109 million. Five years ago they were $65 million. That is a very good rate of growth. Earnings per share have not grown. In 1985 they were $0.95. In '89 they were $0.85, and for 1990 they are estimated to be $1.16.

VALUE LINE and other analysts believe earnings will grow at 25 percent a year for the next few years. The stock recently has been selling at $27. That is 23 times this year's estimated earnings.

There is no dividend. The company seems to have excellent prospects, but the price is high.

I would not buy more than a small holding because of the price at this the stock for more favorable buying

Computers help make learning fun, exciting

The Rochester Community Schools are nibbling around the edges of a grand experiment. The school board is examining ways to use computers and other advanced electronic tools in a so-called Classroom of the Future. The idea isn't to replace teachers. It's to give them a whole slew of new tools to make learning exciting to a bunch of kids who don't seem to get very excited about sitting for hours in a classroom.

Now there's a revolutionary idea:

make learning exciting. I wish someone had thought of that when I was a kid. The fact is that in my experience kids and computers are about the most natural combination since Oreos and milk. Take the example of my two rug rats. Mike is a strapping young third grader and Michelle is invading the first grade this year. It's sure a good thing that I have several computers here in the Cave, because I'd never get anything done. The kids would monopolize at least one several hours a day if I let them.

Let's think about that. Kids spend an inordinate amount of time in front of electronic screens. They may be TVs or video games, but they're screens just the same. To a kid, a personal computer is just an-

My 75-year-old father, with all his years of experience, can't work a PC as well as Mike. Unfortunately, a lot of the teachers who are going to be part of this grand experiment and others like it all over the country, have the same problem as my dad. A government study says that less then 10 percent of U.S. teachers have more than 10 hours of formal computer instruction. I think we've got a problem there.

HERE'S ANOTHER one. I heard a group of people talking about this subject recently and one lady made the comment that she was sure that these computers were going to try to replace teachers. That's kinda cute. Computers trying. I think she gave the machines a bit more credit for independent action than they de-

The fact is that if we take the natural combination of kids and computers, throw in a creative teacher. mix it up well with good classroom materials which the computer helps reinforce and, gosh, we might catch up to the educational systems of the rest of the world. Our kids might actually learn something . . . another radical concept. You know, as I think about it, they might even enjoy learning. That's almost too much to hope for.

The classroom of the future is an exciting concept when you realize what's involved. These tools I've been talking about are lots more than personal computers. They include video production, connection to the local cable TV system, links to satellites, hookups over TV channels to children in classrooms all over the world, and multimedia teaching programs that let students simulate the results of a theoretical process.

When was the last time you thought about applying some con-cept, for example, the design of a plane, to the real thing? The class-room of the future would let an engineering student design an airplane and simulate flying it by computer. If the design turned out to be a flop, the only thing that would get hurt would be the kid's grade. Of course the instructor still has to instruct, but the flight time is a lot safer.

THE CLASSROOM of the future is or BIX (pstephenson).

want to create it don't know pensive it really is. But I can tell you, boys and girls, it's worth every penny. Our kids are, whether we agree or not, going to grow up in a technical world. And if America is going to compete in tomorrow's economy, we'd better prepare our kids right. And you know the really neat thing about it? The kids will absolutely love it. And that's the inside

Vacuum or Sewing Machine Repair

· A low total cholesterol level does not necessarily confer "immunity" to heart disease. Twenty percent of all heart attacks occur in people who have cholesterol levels that are under 200! These occur, almost invariably, in people with low HDL ("good" cholesterol) values, that is, below 40.

· According to a recent study, subjects who performed three 10-minute exercise bouts each day showed the same improvement in heart-lung fitness as those who exercised for 30 minutes continuously. The investigators concluded that how long one exercises at one time is really less important than the total amount of activity we do in one day.

 Although some people claim that garlic lowers blood cholesterol and inhibits blood clotting, which reduces the risk of heart attack, there is no good scientific evidence to support this notion. Be assured, however, that a large consumption of garlic will almost certainly keep your friends and family at a distance.

· A just-published report showed that excessive carbon monoxide exposure markedly increased the frequency of potentially dangerous heart rhythm irregularities during exercise. Cardiac patients, in particular were continued to avoid ular, were cautioned to avoid exercising in highly polluted air.

 The most common reaction to the symptoms of a heart attack is denial. This is unfortunate, since the greatest risk of death from a heart after onset. When a heart attack is even suspected, the victim should obtain immediate medical attention.

· Most studies suggest that exercise in moderation does not have harmful effects on the fetus in physically fit women who are continuing regular exercise into their pregnancies. Physician approval, however, remains as the best guideline for individual cases. Shelter director ready to coach homeless

By Tedd Schneider staff writer

What sounds like a radical career change — from college basketball coach to running a suburban shelter for homeless families — isn't all that ng for Linda Makowski.

"There are similarities," said Mahowski, who will serve as director for the Wayne County shelter at the former Eloise property in Westland when it opens later this year.

"As a coach, I was dealing with organization and self-esteem. That is much of what the job at the shelter

"The goal is to create an environment of acceptance, safety and security — especially for the kids," Makowski said.

Makowski, 37, has spent the past five weeks putting together the staff and program for the shelter. She was hired by the Wayne Metropolitan Community Services Agency, which has been retained by Wayne County to run the facility.

The county is remodeling a portion of the former commissary at its Michigan Avenue-Merriman property for the shelter, believed to be the first of its kind in the country.

THE SHELTER should open early this winter, slightly behind the scheduled fall opening officials hoped for when the project was an-nounced last February, Makowski

She spent her first month on the job getting a feel for what kind of program the shelter will provide, Makowski said. Her work has included travel to other facilities serving

"I've seen a lot of work finally being done on this issue across the country but I'm surprised that our country has been so slow to respond to this problem." Makowski said.

Homelessness "didn't just happen yesterday. It's amazing to me that as a society we let it get to this point."

But she has channeled her disap-pointment at the plight of homeless people into energy for her new job. The challenge of helping to build a shelter program from the ground up is "very exciting," she said, in part because "so little has been done in this area."

The suburban shelter, intended as a temporary facility to house people for up to 30 days while they seek permanent housing, will place a heavy emphasis on counseling and other rehabilitative services, Ma-

AFTER BEING admitted to the shelter on an emergency basis, clients will go through a second, more in-depth process to determine place-ment and what services they require.

A pleasant surprise has been the response from the community, Ma-kowski said.

"I thought it would be like pulling teeth but so many people have called to offer services or things they think

Still, volunteers are needed to supment a full-time staff of 8-10 who will be working with up to 27 fami-lies (80-120 clients) at a time.

A Hamtramck native, Makowski came home after 12 years of coaching women's basketball at Wayne State University, University of Dayton and George Washington Univeraity.

"I had been in coaching for quite a while, and I guess I was just getting tired of living in motels and rental

Also, she was eager to come home to family and friends.

People who would like to work as volunteers at the Wayne County homeless shelter may call Linda Makowski at Wayne Metropol-itan Community Services, 728-

Nursing center residents write to cheer U.S. troops

Fred Scott knows how U.S. troops stationed in Saudi Arabia feel about the possibility of fighting a war.

He still recalls a time 72 years ago when he and other Navy personnel participated in Pacific Ocean maneuvers as World War I neared Scott never saw combat. But, like American troops deployed in the Persian Gulf region, he was ready to He still is.

THAT'S WHY SCOTT and other residents of the West Bloomfield Nursing Center have started writing letters of support to U.S. troops in Saudi Arabia

We want them to know we're behind them 100 percent," Scott, now

We want them to know we're behind them 100 percent. I'm as proud of them as I can be. They're our flesh and blood over there.'

- Fred Scott

89, said. "I'm as proud of them as I can be. They're our flesh and blood

Residents of the nursing center on Maple Road, between Drake and Farmington, meet in groups every other day to write letters. On Thursday, Scott dictated a letter to Maude

"I think we feel very gratified that we can contribute something," Hoss said. "I had two brothers in World War II. I know how glad they were just to get a word from home.

In her letters to U.S. troops, Hoss said, "I try to make them feel better. They need to know that they haven't been forgotten. I tell them how we stay busy here, and I write about the flowers and the sunshine.

"I'm sure it means a lot to them,"

Betty Ruck, who didn't give her age but said she's "old enough to know better," also had a brother in

"I used to write a lot of letters to him, and he was so happy," she said.
"I think everybody has those feelings when they get letters."

RUCK WRITES IN her letters about such topics as the weather and fun vacation spots.

The nursing home's 150 residents had written 250 letters by last Wednesday. Even if they reach their goal of 350 letters by today, they plan to continue writing, said Sherrill Krug, activities director.

Some of them send poems or write down the lyrics of their generation's songs, such as "Show Me The Way To Go Home."

"Some people are writing every day," Krug said.

The letters are forwarded to a U.S. Army Post Office in New York, which sends them to Saudi Arabia.

"A lot of the residents have either been in the wars or they've sent children off to war," Krug said. "They can really relate their feelings."

Said Scott: "Our boys and girls are over there trying to help these peo-ple out. We just want them to know that we want them to come back home as soon as possible."

Area hospital wins performance award

St. Mary Hospital of Livonia has earned a special commendation for its outstanding organizational performance as a result of its recent accreditation survey and award.

Presented by the Joint Commis sion on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations, the special commendation places St. Mary Hospital among the most effective accredited organizations, said Sister Mary Modesta, hospital president and chief executive officer. The status of a special commendation was developed this year by JCAHO to recognize those health care organizations reaching a high level of quality care. St. Mary Hospital is among the chosen health care organizations to be honored with this new achievement award.

"This commendation is the result of dedication and commitment on the part of our entire staff," said Sister Modesta. "It represents the hospital's mission to provide high quality health care to the people of our community.'

Rocks champions of WLAA soccer

GUY WARREN/staff photographs

Tom Baker controls the ball for Salem in front of Churchill's Aaron Sawicky. Baker was a key defensive player in the shutout victory Wednesday.

Plymouth Salem made history in boys soccer Wednesday night and, for the time being, settled the question of who is No. 1 in Observerland.

After years of being runner-up to Livonia Stevenson in the Lakes Division, the Rocks got to the championship game this year and made it a clean sweep.

Senior forward Andy Cosenza scored both goals as Salem defeated host Livonia Churchill 2-0 and won its first Western Lakes Activities Association title.

"It's similar to the girls winning the state - it's the first time," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "It was a goal from the beginning of the sea-

WITH THE victory, Salem upheld its No. 1 ranking in Observerland and improved its record to 15-1-1. The Rocks were rated No. 4 in the Churchill, No. 2 in the area and state, suffered its first loss and stands at 11-1-2 overall.

The WLAA finalists could cross paths again next week in a district game Wednesday night at Churchill. The Rocks must beat Plymouth Canton and the Chargers get past Livonia Franklin in first-round games Monday for that to happen.

"For now it's nice (to be on top)," Johnson said. "I'd say on any given day Salem, Churchill or Stevenson could take anyone in the state."

Winning the league title was especially gratifying, Johnson added, because the Rocks had to beat a fine team that forced Salem to make a vigilant defense of its goal.

The Chargers had the wind - and it was fairly strong — at its back in the first half, and Churchill pressed the attack in Salem's end for the first 20 minutes.

"WE WERE in control quite a bit in the first half, but we weren't taking many shots," Churchill coach half, we were just off target or wide. We weren't able to free up Dominic Vella like we wanted. We were hoping to draw off the sweeper and work up the wing. But our halfbacks weren't getting the ball enough and it wasn't going through, so Dominic was double-teamed most of the night."

Salem halfback Brad Fisch advances the ball ready to help. The Rocks won their first WLAA for Salem with teammate Ryan Fitzpatrick (3) championship in boys soccer Wednesday.

Salem's defense of Ryan Fitzpatrick, Jake Baker, Matt Lee and Chris Lajoy — termed The Iron Wall by Johnson - managed to hold off the Chargers with much help from the midfield until Salem could get something going.

The Rocks got a big lift when Cosenza scored his first goal just 1:23 before halftime. John Truskowski's corner kick was deflected to the other side where Cosenza drilled the rebound.

"I was left wide open," Cosenza said. "I saw the ball come down off the kid's head and put it right in

That enabled Salem, with the wind in its favor, to begin the second half holding the upper hand.

"IF WE HELD them 0-0 against the wind, I thought we'd take it," Johnson said. "It was tough. I was glad to get that first goal.

"We always want to win the toss and get the wind in the first half, because the other team sometimes gets tired defending. Or then you're too tired to use it in the second half."

Churchill thought it had scored the tying goal at 33:19 in the second half after Mike Gentile and Salem goalkeeper Derek Olson, who recorded his 10th shutout, went up for the ball simultaneously. Gentile subsequently got behind

Olson and knocked the ball into the net, but the goal was disallowed because Gentile was said to have interfered with the keeper.

"That was a call I'd never heard before," Mason said. "Apparently, the keeper can't be challenged inside the goal box.

Tve never heard of a player not being able to go up for the ball when the goalie goes for it. That's a new one on me

"THAT TAKES a lot of momentum out when you score a goal and have it taken back," he added. "It was a big letdown.'

Cosenza, who leads the Rocks with 18 goals and 21 assists, scored again six minutes later.

Lajoy dropped the ball behind the defense, and Cosenza, who was rushing toward the goal, had a wide open shot. The Chargers wanted an offsides call, but the referee ruled the ball was in the air before Cosenza ran through.

"Their goals were back-door plays, and we just didn't cover them correctly," Mason said. "We'll have to work on our back-post defense more and try to free up Dominic so he can go one-on-one."

Plymouth marathoner has special motivation

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Jim Souter will be thinking about all the usual things that concern a marathoner Sunday in the annual Free Press Marathon: time, pace and the finish line.

But those reasons aren't the primary source of motivation for the Plymouth resident enduring the grueling, 26-mile grind.

Souter will be running on behalf of Mary Butler, a young woman afflicted with multiple sclerosis, and helping to raise money to fund research on the disease that attacks the body's nervous system.

This is the 14th year for the marathon, and the Michigan chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society has been the beneficiary of pledge donations from the past nine races.

"I really train and do what I can to help her out," Souter said. "In a sense, I've adopted a person with MS. There's a personal involvement here, and it's a real personal incen-

"KNOWING SOMEONE with the disease it hits home a lot closer. It's more than just being a donor of pledges. It's more than just giving $10 to MS. It's giving $10 that I know is going to help somebody I know."

The 39-year-old Souter, a project engineer for BT Systems in Sterling Heights, has run in every marathon but the first one. For the first six years the MSS was involved, he raised money for the organization, but it seemed too impersonal to him.

That's when Souter approached Kathy McGrath, director of special projects for the MSS, and asked about being more directly involved.

The first few years, I would get into it but not fully," Souter said. 'The only way I knew to do that was to adopt an MS person and take it from there '

McGrath was able to accommodate Souter's request three years

"I said 'I have the perfect person for you, and I introduced him to Mary Butler," McGrath said. "If you knew Mary, you'd know why Jim is running for her. She's a real inspi-

"Oftentimes you don't know the reasons (why people run to support MS research). Because Jim had been running for a couple years and had gone to those lengths, I figured he knew someone with MS.

SOUTER WEARS a yellow ribbon on his shoulder during the race. It serves as a reminder to him of why he's running, but the practical reason is so Mary can spot him in the crowd should the TV camera zoom in on him during the televised portion of the race.

"It's the part of her that I carry with me," Souter said. "When I'm getting down and tired, I look at that ribbon, and it changes my perspective. It helps me to get over the finish line.

"At that point in the race, I do a little comparison. Look at you and look at Mary. Are you that bad off?

No, you've got it made.' "
Souter's family has gotten to know Mary, too. One of his daughters and her classmates at St. Valentine School in Redford made get-well cards for Mary when she had to be hospitalized, and Souter pays a special visit on the eve of each marathon

Souter said his desire to be more personally involved in the fund-raising effort was a natural progression, the inclusion of additional goals over

"First, it was to compete in the race, secondly to run a certain time, next to run for MS and then to help somebody else," he said. "It's knowing that you're not just running but running to help somebody else."

SOUTER, A SELF-described "average runner" with a mean time of 3 hours and 40 minutes, estimates he has raised close to $9,000 through pledges for MS.

"The people who pledge money know I'll finish," he said. "Sometimes I'll get them to pledge so much per mile but if I finish better than last year's time they'll double the pledge. So I use time as a way of measuring how much they pay."

While others will open their wallets, Souter will pay the physical price to help a friend with a need Sunday.

Chiefs rally in 2nd half

Unfortunately for the North Farmington girls basketball team, Tuesday night's game against Plymouth Canton lasted two halves. After trailing 12-6 at halftime, the visiting Chiefs only missed one shot in an 18-point fourth quarter and pulled away to beat the Raiders 36-23 in a Western Lakes Activities Association contest. Canton, which outscored North 30-11 in the second half, improved to 8-5 overall and 6-2 in the league while the Raiders fell to 5-8 and 2-6. The Chiefs held North's high-scoring Eve Claar in check for most of the game, limiting her to 15 points. She converted only one of seven free throw attempts. "It was a good effort, holding her to 15 points," Canton coach Bob Blohm said.

"They loaded up on her and their whole team did a good job helping out," North assistant coach Peter Mantyla said. "When Eve gave the ball up, we weren't able to score. No one else on the team had more than three

The Hawks, who scored a point in in all seven flights, edged host Livo-nia Stevenson for the team title Tuesday by a single point, 17-16, gaining their first crown since 1984. Northville and surprising Walled Lake Central tied for third with 15 points each. See statistical summary

Going into the meet, three teams had legitimate shots at the title. Three teams sported identical 10-1 dual meet records - Harrison, Stevenson and Northville.

Stevenson had beaten Harrison earlier in the year in a dual meet, 4-3, but the pivotal match which turned the tide in favor of the Hawks was Tuesday's No. 2 doubles final, where sophomores Kristi Cornwell

"WHEN THEY (the Bailey sisters) beat us before, Kristi and Melissa were playing for the first time this year," Goldstein said. "They weren't quite ready yet, but last Friday they went to the (Class B) regional finals and they're playing well together

Meanwhile, Stevenson coach George Croll was hopeful his team could gain the WLAA title after his team qualified for the state meet for first time since 1985. (The Class A tourney starts Friday in Midland.) The Spartans finished tied for second last Saturday with Ann Arbor Pioneer at the regional, won by host

"We knew it be a real close day,"

Croll said. "Obviously a key match was No. 2 doubles. But I never expected to get shut out at No. 1 dou-

The Spartans went scoreless at No. 1 doubles as Farmington's unseeded duo of Nicole Parsons and Kristy Bodary reached the final against Salem's Kelly Kirkpatrick and Leah Szafran (the only final not completed by Tuesday).

But going unnoticed were Harri-son's Julie Heist and Jodie Whitehead, who reached the semifinals at No. 1 doubles, picking up two more points

AS EXPECTED, Harrison's Kori Davidson, the defending state (Class B) champ who hasn't lost a set in two years at No. 1 singles, won handily over Jackie Brown of Walled Lake Central in the final, 6-3, 6-1.

Another Harrison finalist was Lisa Tomle (No. 3 singles). She lost to top seed Stephanie Geelhood of Central, 6-1, 6-2, but picked up a three critical points in the process.

At No. 2 singles, Harrison's Merrilyn Onisko scored two points by reaching the semifinals. Winning the change student Chiara Granocchia, the top seed, who ran her record to 18-1 with a 6-2, 6-2 triumph over Central's Dee Geelhood. (Granocchia was a regional finalist.)

Central, which boasted a finalist in all four singles flights, took the No. 4 crown when Laura Banion upended Northville's Kavitha Sriraman, the top seed, 6-1, 6-3.

"Walled Lake Central helped us a lot in singles," Goldstein said. "And of course we knew Kori would be an automatic four points. Lisa Tomle also reached the finals and that helped, but it was a team effort by everybody."

STEVENSON'S junior duo of Laura DiBasio and Laura Perry, regional finalists and second seeds at No. 3 doubles at the league meet, came away with the title after beating Northville's top-seeded combo of Stacey Green and Kelli Woodsum, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5.

"For the most part we did a good job in seeding," Croll said. "In five of the seven flights, the first and second seeds played in the finals.

"Harrison deserves a lot of credit, they played well."

Livonia Stevenson rolled to a 111-75 girls swim victory Tuesday over visiting Plymouth Canton.

Stevenson, which captured 10 events, is 4-2-1 overall.

Jennifer Knapp figured in three of the Spartan's top finishes. She won the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:26.53. She also teamed up to win two relays.

Knapp, Julie Petrillo, Nancy Warson and Heather White won the 200 medley relay in 1:59.62. Knapp then teamed up with Warson, Holly Palmeri and Jamie Anderson to capture the 400 freestyle relay (3:52.06).

Warson picked up wins in the 50 freestyle (26.31) and the 100 butterfly (1:04.37), while Anderson posted triumphs in the 200 freestyle (2:04.67) and 500 freestyle (5:39.94).

Palmeri added a first in the 100 freestyle with a time of 57.99.

Canton's Amy Kodrik won the diving by scoring 217.5 points, while teammate Julie Roberts took first place in the 100 backstroke (1:07.48).

Farmington knocked on the door last year when it qualified for the Class A finals in boys golf.

This year the Falcons hope to knock the door down when they compete for a possible state championship Saturday at Forest Akers Golf Course in East Lansing.

After winning its first regional title at Brighton's Oak Pointe Golf Course Friday, Farmington has reason to anticipate a better showing than its 23rd-place finish of a year ago.

"I'd be extraordinarily disappointed if we finished anywhere near where we did last year," Farmington coach Jim Miner said. "I believe the boys are too good. I think we have a chance to win it

"If we perform well and don't win, I'd still feel pretty good, because that would mean somebody else shot the lights out.

"IF EVERYBODY plays up to par and a couple boys have a real good day, that should be enough to carry us right in there," he added.

The Falcons won the regional with an 11-stroke margin over the host Bulldogs, 310-321. Northville also qualified for the state tournament with a 321 score but lost the fifth-man tiebreaker with Brighton. (See statistics on Page 6D for complete team scores.)

"I didn't expect to win that easily," Miner said, adding the golfers waited two hours until 10:30 a.m. to take the course because of earlymorning frost.

"But there was no wind and the greens were soft. I expected the bolys to knock 'em right at the sticks and score well."

Farmington sophomore Jason Buha did exactly that, shooting a one-under-par 70, which included four birdies, to capture medalist

"I've been waiting on him, and he came through for the team on an important day."

Hibbs, who usually scores on a par with Buha, was a little higher than usual Friday. Miner, who was unable to follow the progress of his team because he had to monitor the play of a specific foursome, feared the worst at one point.

Miner had heard how Walled Lake Western, after winning the WLAA title last year, had an off day in the regional and failed to qualify for state.

"I HAD VISIONS of a repeat, with a good team that doesn't score well on that day," he said. "But that was unfounded when the dust had settled and the scores were in. Jason has such a fine day it offset any deficits.

Mercy coach gets 300th career win

Farmington Hills Mercy presented coach Larry Baker with his 300th victory Tuesday night when the Marlins defeated traditional rival Livonia Ladvwood 66-54

'It was symbolically fitting it came against Ladywood, because it's been such a tremendous rivalry," Baker said, "perhaps the best ongoing rivalry in girls basketball."

Baker shared credit for No. 300 with senior Carrie Walton, who scored a game-high 22 points and also had seven rebounds, 10 steals and six assists. 'Without a tremendous effort from Carrie Walton, it wouldn't have happened," Baker said. "She gets more credit for this win than the old coach." In his 16th season at Mercy, Baker has a 300-72 record. 'I'm very proud to attain the milestone, with all the victories coming at the same school, which I'm also proud to have taught at for 16 years, too," he said. "I've had an awful lot of fine players come through the program. "I certainly have to acknowledge my staff and Mike King in particular. He's been with me the last 14 years and certainly shared in those victories, and he's supplied the JV players for the varsity.'

The Marlins improved to 4-3 in the Central Division of the Catholic League and 10-4 overall. Ladywood is 2-5 and 4-9.

"I'm 37 years old," Baker said. "If I stay with it a while longer. I hope to notch a few more (wins), including a few this year."

Ocelots vent frustration

No one would blame Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team for being both angry and determined when it took the field against visiting Delta CC Saturday.

The Ocelots were coming off a dis-pointing 2-1 loss to Macomb CC, suffered three days earlier in a downpour that left the field soggy and rimmed with a five-foot wide, six-inch deep ditch of water. Any balls heading out of bounds never got there; they stopped dead, floating, waiting for opposing players to come-splashing in after them.

It's rotten enough having to play in those conditions. Playing and los-ing doubles the agony.

On Saturday, those pent-up emo-tions surfaced against Delta. Which is one reason why the Ocelots trampled their Region 12 foes 6-0.

Even with a lopsided score — it was 2-0 at the half — SC coach Van Dimitriou wasn't entirely satisfied. "We wanted to work on a couple of things," he said. "Like controlling the ball and creating some opportu-nities. We did that, but we didn't convert like we should have."-

Which means the final could have been even more lopsided. Among the missed chances was a penalty kick, which forward Chris Crawford mis-

It hardly mattered in this game. SC got two goals from Jerry Stassel and single scores from Jeff Vandemergel, Shane Millner, T.J. Flowers and Phil Todino. Scott Hauman was in goal for the shutout.

But even though this game's outcome was lopsided, the same cannot be assumed for the final region match against Lakeland CC at 1 p.m. Saturday at SC. A tie could cost the Ocelots a chance at a playoff for the Region 12 berth in the NJCAA Interregional Tournament.

As it now stands, SC and Macomb currently tied for first - will meet on a neutral site, at a time and date to be determined, in a playoff for the regional title. The Ocelots are currently 8-1-1 overall and 6-1 in the region. Delta dipped to 1-6 with Saturday's defeat.

CTSO

The only question anybody need ask about Western Lakes Activities Association football these days is whether the championship game will be played at Harrison or John Glenn.

The Farmington Hills and Westland schools have so dominated their respective divisions they have a stranglehold on the WLAA final, which now provides the venue for their annual showdown.

The defending champion Hawks and Rockets will be the combatants once again Saturday, this being the fourth consecutive year (fifth in the last six) they have met to decide the

And this year's game, by the way, will be played at Harrison with kickoff set for 1 p.m.

But it's unlikely there will be a repeat of the 1988 contest - the last game played at Harrison - when the Hawks rolled over Glenn 45-7.

"THEY BEAT us fairly handily when they had Tony Boles," Harrison coach John Herrington said, referring to Glenn's 28-7, home-field victory in 1985, "and we beat them with (Mill) Coleman, (Chad) Burgess and (Bryan) Wauldron.

"I see our teams as being very equal. There are no stars like Coleman and Boles, so it should be a good, high school football game."

Glenn won't have to contend with Coleman, the star quarterback who led Harrison to wins over the Rockets the last two years, including a 23-15 victory at Glenn in 1989. Coleman is a scholarship player at Michigan State now.

"Everybody in our league was happy to see that guy graduate," Glenn coach Chuck Gordon said. "At Harrison, the names change but they just keep rolling. Anybody who thinks because Mill is gone they've disappeared is wrong. They're still a very good football team."

"Glenn, which beat Harrison 14-6 in their 1987 meeting, is 7-0 and ranked No. 6 in Class AA. Losing only to Detroit DePorres in the season opener, Harrison is 6-1 and rated No. 3 in

The Rockets won the Lakes Division title and Harrison the Western Division crown for the ninth straight year with 5-0 records.

"WE WEREN'T sure just how talented we were (at the start of the season)," Gordon said. "If we get by North (Farmington) and (Plymouth) Salem, we knew we had an excellent chance to (be 7-0). That's the fun part of this team. We weren't expected to do that, and that's been very enjoy-

"I'm not sure we have any great players, but collectively everybody plays hard. They want to see the team do well; we're not dealing with any head cases or stuff like that."

Glenn and Harrison might be more evenly matched this year than in any of their four previous encounters. Indications are it could be a war in the trenches. Besides the fact both run from the Glenn to play power football. 1-formation and employ the 52 de fense, each features a ground-oriented attack made possible by strong offensive lines. But both also have

Eagles top Lions

All three Lions football teams had their claws clipped last weekend by the Ann Arbor Eagles.

But there were several highlights, including: Jordan Jones' third-quarter safety and a touchdown in the freshmen's 31-8 loss; Ed Krzmenski's 80-yard kickoff return and Romeo Cairo's defensive play during the junior varsity's 12-6 loss; Jeremy Eaton's two TDs in the second quarter and John Stopera's fourth-quarter score in the varsity's 38-19 loss.

play, 59-yard drive. U-D (1-6, 0-3) got on the board with eight seconds left in the quarter, but CC put it out of reach with 9:18 to go in the fourth period on a 2-yard scoring run by Gusoff, coming after Sylvester had re-capable passers, and sound defense remains a constant on both sides.

"I think the offensive line has been a big reason for our success." Herrington said. "They've got a lot of pride. Putting Gary (Devine) in behind them is really what's worked for us. For someone who is 5-5 and 160 pounds, he's really doing the Devine - with Dave Kennedy, Todd Lytwyniuk, Tony Shaieb, Jason Gloetzner. Dan Quirolo and Blazo Sarcevich blocking for him - has rushed for nearly 900 yards and 17 touchdowns on 152 carries. Roy Granger has added another 291 yards and two TDs on the ground.

THE ROCKETS also rely primarily on their tailback, and they have two quality runners at that position.

John Ward leads the team with 697 yards and 11 touchdowns on 122 attempts, but Tad Quattlander is equally capable. Coming off a big game in which scored four TDs and rushed for 115 yards in Glenn's 41-0 defeat of Livonia Stevenson, Quattlander has 396 vards and eight TDs.

"Going into the season, we knew John would be solid," Gordon said. 'Quattlander was new to the program, and we could see he would be fine. But the question was how soon, and he's really made some progress, especially in the last month.

Zak Purdon, Sean O'Brien, Tony Prey, Vince Grieb, Mike Peterson and Jason Hagelthorn comprise a 200-pound-plus line that allows been," Gordon said. "We've been bigger the last couple years, but they have good strength, good feet and come off the ball.

"I think both teams are good up front. We're impressed with their line and size. But they always have good linemen, so that's no surprise to

"WHEN MILL was there, you knew there'd be some flare to what they were doing," he added, "but that back, Devine, is so dang tough and runs hard behind that line.

Not only does Harrison have a new quarterback this year in senior Plamen Magdevski but so do the Rockets in senior Lawrence Scheffer, who also replaced an allstate predecessor in Eric Stover

Magdevski is 39-of-69 passing for 643 yards and six TDs. Andy Smith makes an occasional relief appearance and is 15-of-32 for 237 yards

Harrison's top receiver is junior Greg Piscopink, who has caught 14 passes for 297 yards and three TDs. Other targets include tight end Sarcevich (8-109-1), wide receiver Granger (9-87-2) and upback Mike Pesci (9-69-0).

"The fact Mill is not there doesn't mean that passing attack is dead," Gordon said.

Scheffer, who has good size at 6-2 and 201, has completed 41 of 70 passes for 768 yards and seven TDs. His favorite receiver is Steve Fuller. who has 21 receptions for 406 yards and four TDs.

"Scheffer may be a little underrated," Herrington said. "We hadn't heard that much about him, but he has a strong arm and the same quick release as Stover.

YOU HAVE to be concerned about that, and you don't want Quattlander to get loose. He's like Gary Devine with good moves and

'We've been very pleased with Lawrence," Gordon said. "We felt he had the potential to be an excellent quarterback. The key was how quickly he would progress, and he's done just fine."

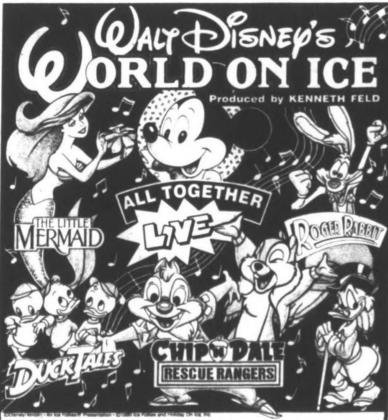

Sarcevich, who is being recruited by all of the major collegiate powers, has 244 career tackles and needs 29 to become Harrison's all-time leader.

He has 84 tackles this year, including a school record 25 against De-Porres. Pesci, the other inside linebacker, is the No. 2 tackler with 60 and Shaieb, Gloetzner, Vince Orsini and Dan Hight have more than 30

"The defense has played well all year," Herrington said. "They've been strong against the run, and the secondary has improved.

We got by Canton early when we were not a very good football team. We tried to do some things early (on offense) that we weren't capable of doing, and we went back to some of the basic things (using fewer receivers).

Glenn linebacker Jason Gould leads the Rockets in tackles, and end Dave King and lineman Dave De-

Prediction race deadlocked

By Brad Emons and Dan O'Mears

T'S NECK-AND-NECK going into the home stretch.

Week No. 8 will probably make or break your friendly prognosticators, who are locked in a lead heat, each sporting identical 84-21 records after each posted 11-4 marks last week.

And unlike previous weeks, there are several pick'em-type games, starting with the Western Lakes Activities Association championship game (1 p.m. Saturday) when unbeaten Westland John Glenn goes to Farmington Harrison Week No. 8 also has post-season playoff implications.

Observerland teams still in the hunt for playoff berths include Glenn, Harrison, Plymouth Canton, Wayne Memorial, Redford Catholic Central, Plymouth Salem and Redford Bishop Borgess. The final two weeks will determine who makes it and who does not The winner of the Glenn-Harrison game will virtually be assured a spot in the state tournament.

Here is a closer look at this week's

FRIDAY'S GAMES (all games at 7:30 p.m.)

Lutheran East at Liv. Clarenceville: The Trojans (4-3, 3-3) made a respectable showing last week against unbeaten Metro Conference leader Auburn Hills Avondale before losing 23-6. Quarterback Kendrick Harrington, who was keyed on, was held to 76 yards in 19 carries. This week, Harper Woods Lutheran East (3-4, 3-3) brings in tailback James Tubbs, who scored all 34 points in a 34-12 win last week over Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook. Tubbs, who rushed for 210 yards in 13 carries against the Cranes, has already topped the 1,000-mark and score 17 touchdowns. Picks: Emons takes Clarenceville, but O'Meara points

Redford Union at Waterford Mott: This non-league game pits two teams with identical 2-6 records. The Panthers are coming off a tough overtime loss to Woodhaven, while Mott couldn't hold a 20-19 halftime lead, losing to a good Pontiac Northern team, 37-26. Picks: RU can't make Mott into apple sauce.

Red. Thurston at D.H. Crestwood: The Eagles (2-5, 2-4), who moved the ball the previous two weeks, managed just 37 total yards in a 24-0 loss to Tri-River League leader Allen Park. Meanwhile, Dearborn Heights Crestwood dumped rival Annapolis, 24-7. Chuck Reynolds leads Crestwood's offense against Thursgrid predictions ton's defense, led by Greg Siriani and Steve Koss. Picks: Both prognosticators go with the home team.

Wayne Memorial at Monroe: The Zebras (6-1, 5-1) have all the incentive in the world going down to Monroe (3-4, 3-They can claim a share of the Wolverine A title and keep their state playoff hopes alive. Monroe is coming off a 28-22 loss to Belleville. Is an ambush awaiting Observerland's Cinderella story? Picks: Wayne's defense holds up.

N. Farmington at Pty. Canton: Can North (4-3) play spoiler now after its hopes were dashed for a Class A state playoff berth? Two more Canton victories and the Chiefs will be in the playoffs. This is an even matchup on paper, but Canton (6-1) appears to have the momentum going. Picks: Stick with the Chiefs this veek, both agree

Ply. Salem at Northville: Another evenup encounter. Northville won the first meeting between the two teams, 21-14. Salem is coming on and could be primed for the upset. Northville quarterback Ryan Huziak must be contained if the Rocks (5-2) are going to stay in the playoff hunt. Northville (5-2), a 24-21 loser last week to Canton, is playing at home. Picks: Emons rolls with the Rocks, but O'Meara likes Northville.

Farmington at Liv. Churchill: Both teams are searching for their first win, that's enough incentive right there. Churchill is low in numbers, while Farmington narrowly missed winning its first game of the season for first-year coach Bernie Call before getting nipped by Walled Lake Central, 14-13. Picks: Farmington puts one in the win column, both

Liv. Stevenson at Walled Lake Western (at W.L. Central): Stevenson (3-4) has gone scoreless for four straight games, while Western (1-6) is coming off a 35-0 loss to Farmington Harrison. Stevenson, a 41-0 loser last week to Glenn, should be able to match up physically with the Warriors. Picks: Stevenson pulls one out of the hat.

SATURDAY'S GAMES (all games at 1 p.m. unless noted)

Westland Glenn at Farm, Harrison: This will be the fourth straight meeting between the two schools for the WLAA title. Harrison has won the last two out of three. The series is tied at 2-2. Glenn quarterback Lawrence Scheffer may be forced to go to the air more than he's acPlamen Magdevski will more than likely face more pressure than he's seen in quit some time. Ploks: Emons says Glenn wins in overtime, but O'Meara favors the Walled Lake Central at Liv. Franklin: The Patriots (2-5) got a much-needed shot in the arm last week by beating rival Churchill, 14-0, while Central (2-5) held on against Farmington by a point. As far as common opponents, Central beat Stevenson 6-0, while Franklin lost to Stevenson, 21-12. Picks: The coin please. Emons goes with Central, but O'Meara takes the Patriots.

Garrden City at Clarkston: The Cougars (3-4) have been in every ballgame this year with the exception of Ypsilanti Lincoln, Clarkston (5-2), however, might be the toughest opponent on GC's schedule this season. The Wolves, rated No. 7 last week in Class AA (Region I), pounded Waterford Kettering last week 31-7, as quarterback Dugan Fife hit 13of-18 passes for 174 yards. Picks: Clarkston is too much for the Cougars.

N. Branch Wesleyan at Lutheran Westland: The Warriors (4-3) are looking to snap a two-game losing skid against North Branch Wesleyan, a team which gained a rare win last week against Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest. Last year North Branch had to forfeit because of a lack of players. The school's enrollment is a meager 87. Picks: Lutheran Westland wins comfortably, both agree.

Redford CC vs. H.W. Notre Dame (7:30 p.m. at Liv. Clarenceville): Believe it or not, this is for the Catholic League's Central Division championship. Notre Dame (4-3, 2-1) is coming off a 23-16 overtime loss to Southgate Aquinas, while CC (5-2, 3-0) is primed for a rematch next week in the Silverdome against Detroit DePorres. Picks: CC is going to Pontiac and keeps its playoff hopes alive

Bishop Borgess vs. Royal Oak Shrine (7:30 p.m. R.O. Kimball, 7:30 p.m.): The Spartans (5-2, 3-1) can gain a share of the Tri-Sectional Division title with a victory, while Shrine (3-4, 2-2) is coming off an 8-7 loss to Orchard Lake St. Mary's. It's not going to be an easy task for a Borgess team which must regroup defensively after a 36-30 loss last week to Saginaw Nouvel. Picks: Borgess gives coach Walt Bazylewicz a piece of the title

SUNDAY'S GAME

Red. St. Agatha vs. St. Alphonsus (1 p.m. at Dearborn Fordson): A season filled with promise for the Aggles (1-6, 1-3) has gone sour. The Aggies are without quarterback Brian Kutch, who is gone for the season. They will probably start Brian Wilson at quarterback. But before it's all over. Wilson could be at fullback and sophomore John Goddard may be taking snaps from center. Winless St. Alphonsus, meanwhile, is seeking its first win of the season for coach Kurt Wentzel, a former Aggie assistant OUGLAS BRAVERMAN has to admit he was skeptical when Jo Anne Lamun suggested he write the lyrics for a children's musical for the Peanut Butter Players.

"Children's theater - I was not impressed until I went down to the Players Club and saw one of their shows," Braverman said. "I am amazed at the professional quality of the performances of these children."

The idea for "Peter Pandemonium" was conceived in Lamun's Southfield home - at the kitchen table. Lamun wrote the book, Richard Berent composed the music and Braveman wrote the lyrics for the show, which continues every Saturday-Sunday through Dec. 16 at the Players Club in downtown Detroit.

Berent had collaborated with Braverman numerous times since they met through singer-actress Sheri Nichols in 1986. Together they have come up with countless songs for Nichols, Bess Bonnier and the Detroit Grand Prix. The Attic The-Cabaret" in 1987, and this year Michigan Opera Theatre Community Programs commissioned them to write another children's musical, "Cheering Up a Princess," for a state tour later this year.

"THIS SHOW IS a farce," said Lamun, over a cup of coffee in her kitchen. "It is goofy, playful, bouncy, appealing, satirical, and everyone lives happily ever after."

The one-hour, 20-minute show is about an inept children's theater group, Strawberry Jelly Players, putting on Peter Pan. But nothing goes as planned. The window does not open for Peter. Captain Hook's pants keep falling down. The flying apparatus is not installed for the first act and even Peter's shadow

"It is a very difficult and fastpaced show," said Lamun. "Besides all the things which are supposed to go wrong, just like all live productions, other things go wrong too. So our actors have to be able to think on

In "Noises Off" fashion, the story is a play within a play. A double cast of 26 consists of all children, some playing adult roles. The show opened Sept. 15. Not only are the children singers, dancers and actors, but they also serve their audiences lunch before the show begins.

Lissa Goldberg of Huntington Woods (left) portrays Mary, the director; Mark Teich of Livonia is cast as Tom, the stage manager; Corrie Boczek of Huntington Woods plays Nana, the dog; and Kim Ramsey of St. Clair Shores is Mrs. Darling in the Peanut Butter Players production of "Peter Pandemonium."

"When Jo Anne founded the group seven years ago, she knew most actors and actresses have to support themselves waiting tables. So she wanted to teach these children how to wait tables," Braverman added wittingly, "Today Broadway may be pricing itself out of the theater market but the Peanut Butter Players only cost $7 with lunch included.'

MOST OF THE TRIO'S collaboration is over the telephone and by mail. Last week, as Braverman was returning from Paris for the Southfield office of Renault where he buys American parts for the French cars, Richard Berent was leaving town as Sheri Nichols' accompanist for a tour of the Midwest.

"I work days. Richard works nights. When Jo Anne called me in New York about the love song 'He's a Grown-Up Now,' I quickly wrote some lyrics on an envelope and mailed a copy to Richard - the way Gilbert and Sullivan did."

The comparison is not quite accurate. This team gets along better than Gilbert and Sullivan.

'That is the way Richard wants it. I write the lyrics first and then he sets them to music.'

Braverman has an extraordinary facility with words. He can write lyrics sometimes in less than five minutes. He speaks fluent French, Russian (and English) and is strong in Spanish, all of which he learned in school on Long Island where he grew up, and at Adelphi. His comedy "Snowman" played Off-Broadway to good reviews in 1984.

Berent is also from New York but has a master's degree in conducting from the University of Michigan. He was a faculty member at the Wayne State University Dance Department for seven years until he became pianist and music director for Nichols.

"JO ANNE HAD the magic words for me when she asked me to work with her on this show: 'Write me some music," Berent said.

New Alibi

The old Alibi, founded in 1927, has

West Bloomfield. Roast Pheasant closed its doors, and the roadside restaurant has been replaced with a new Albi Lounge, which accommodates nearly 200 people, more than double that of the old building. The new Albi has been resurrected 12 feet behind and to the side of the old Alibi, at 6700 Rochester Road in Troy. It features the Alibi's pizza, an expanded menu and drinks. The interior emulates a log cabin, with double-side stone fireplace, plank wood floors, open exposed beams in the rafters, burlap covered walls and hanging metal lamps.

Lynne Loren of West Bloomfield

took first place in the recent "Jazzed Up Iced Tea Contest" at the Townsend Hotel in Birmingham. Her recipe was for "Effortless Raspberry Iced Tea." Other winners were Tom Maas of Farmington Hills, second place, with "Iced Orange Sun Tea," and Janice Elsman of Bloomfield Hills, third place, with "Very Berry Iced Tea."

ate October skies will bring meteor showers

New Moon phase is at 11:37 a.m. on Oct. 18. The moon is between the earth and the sun and is not visible.

The Orionid (oh RYAN id) meteor hower is at its peak in the pre-dawn ours of Oct. 21. this meteor shower is named for the constellation of Orion, from which the meteors ("falling stars") appear to radiate. Drion will be high in the south by

The Orionid shower is a moderate one. On average, you can expect to see 25 meteors each hour, or about one every two minutes. You will not need a telescope or binoculars to observe the shower. Just relax in a

This group of stars makes a much better looking teapot. The moon is at the spout and the rest of the teapot can be traced out of the left of the moon. The teapot is tipping toward the moon, as if to pour tea onto the south southwest horizon.

If the pattern of a teapot still eludes you, have another look on the evening of the 24th. The moon has shifted toward the east. The star directly below the moon is the point where the "handle" joins the "body" of the teapot. With a little imagination, you can let the crescent moon represent a slice of lemon for the

The moon is still within Sagittarius on the 25th, but it is now well past the "teapot." The star to the right of the moon is no star at all; it's the planet Saturn, a delightful object to observe with even a small tele-

First Quarter Moon is at 4:26 p.m. on Oct. 26. The moon is one-quarter of its way around the earth.

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS TIME comes to an end at 2 a.m. on Oct. 28. Be sure to set your clocks back one hour. Daylight time always ends on the last Sunday in October. We do not alter the speed of Earth's rota-tion or the length of the day, we merely alter the device by which time is measured.

A little more than 100 years ago there were no standardized time zones. Everyone lept "local" time. 'Noontime" was when the sun was due south and the shadow cast by a stick was at its shortest. Of course, local noon in Detroit was different from noon in Lansing, which was different from Grand Rapids, and so on. At one time Michigan had 27 lo-zones. These standard time zones were not immediately accepted by all the public, but over the course of years standard time became the norm. It wasn't until 35 years later that congress, acting in its usual hasty manner, made the standard time zones the law of the land.

Michigan was originally in the central Time Zone because we are geographically closer to the Central Time longitude line in Chicago, than we are to the Eastern Time line in Philadelphia. A vote of the people of Michigan placed our state in the Eastern zone so it would share the same time with businesses on the

New art co-op part of studio in Old Village

RTISTS HELPING artists while serving the community — that's the concept behind D&M Art Studio and Cooperative Gallery in Plymouth's Old Village.

The D&M cooperative opened in late September to provide a gallery where local artists could display their work, use private studios for painting and sketching, and be able to meet other artists to network.

"We want to be a center for artists," said Sharon Dillenbeck, founder and one of two driving forces behind the studio.

She runs D&M with the help of associate director Joan Ther. Both are Canton Township residents.

During the late September opening of the art studio and gallery, the drawings and paintings of 15 artists were showcased in a display that grabbed your full attention the moment you walked through the door.

"The cooperative gallery is new,"
Dillenbeck said, "but the studio has been in existence for five years now."

THE OBJECTIVE of D&M is to use the talent of local artists to further art awareness within the community as well as provide instruction for developing artists of all ages—children, adults and senior citi-

service the community," Dillenbeck

The D&M network of artists enables the studio to provide instruction, studio space, a gallery and commissioned artwork, such as portraits in oil, watercolor, pencil and pastel as well as logos, signs, advertisements and brochures.

Dillenbeck graduated from the Art Institute of Pittsburgh. She teaches art to eighth graders at Our Lady of Victory in Northville.

Within the community, Dillenbeck and Ther do "a lot of volunteer work bringing fine art to students through the 'Art Lady' program at local schools," Dillenbeck said.

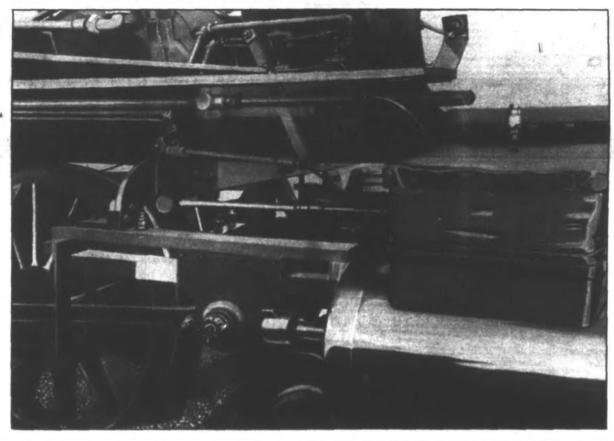

AS YOU enter the gallery, Dillenbeck's work is among the first you will see. Portraits of her daughter, in oil, pencil and watercolor, hang vertically as examples of the various mediums available for portraits that Dillenbeck is commissioned to cre-

Parental urging leads to symphony seat

By Ralph R. Echtinaw staff writer

Contrary to the thinking of children, parents are not always wrong when they order sons and daughters around.

Detroit Symphony Orchestra french horn player Corbin Wagner is living proof.

When he was a fifth grader at Randolph Elementary School in Livonia, Wagner and his classmates were given cards on which they indicated whether or not they wanted to play an instrument.

"I brought it back and said I did not want to play a musical instrument," he said. "My piano teacher (Edward Weiss) happened to be the elementary band instructor, so he called my mom and said, 'I think he should take a musical instrument. I think he would do real well at it.'"

So the senior Wagners let their parental authority be felt. "I didn't care at that point," Wagner said. "I was told to do it. I was just being an obedient son at that point."

By that time, there were only two instruments up for grabs in the band. "So I said, 'Well, my neighbor plays trombone, so I'll take the french horn.' That's how it all started. Reluctantly, I was dragged into it."

WHEN WAGNER graduated from

Livonia Stevenson High School in 1976, he had to choose between music or a more proletarian career.

"I had a choice of going into an engineering school or going into music," he said. "I just thought (music) would be less work. I was fortunate enough to get a career out of it."

Fortunate yes, but talented, too. Wagner began playing with the DSO in the last semester of his University of Michigan college career.

"I took about 10 auditions and it turns out the one I won was in Detroit," he said. "It was a real blessing. God was watching out for me so I didn't have to leave my parents and my brothers." The young french horn player joined the symphony just in time to go on the 1979 European tour, where, in Berlin, he saw something he'll never forget.

"We played all of our encores and they still kept cheering," Wagner said. "Finally our maestro, (Antal) Dorati, just pulled us off the stage. But that didn't stop them from clapping.

"So after several more minutes of this, Dorati walked back on stage with nothing but his woodwind players on, cleaning their instruments, and he took another bow and had these woodwind players stand. And that finally ended it." INDEED, THE DSO was wildly successful everywhere it played in Europe. "The American orchestras play with a different style, a different sound than many of the European orchestras," Wagner said. "And (the audiences) really appreciate that. We always got rave reviews."

Recently, the DSO hired a new conductor, Neeme Jarvi, and Wagner couldn't be more pleased.

"(Jarvi) uses the orchestra as his own musical instrument," he said. "His ability to communicate through his baton and through his body motions is really refined, so you know

Local symphonies bring the classics to the people

PERFECTION IS their elusive keynote as they strike up the music to blend their string, wind, brass and percussion instruments into a captivating orchestral sound.

Our community symphonies give music students, music teachers and music lovers the golden opportunity to showcase their skills while working alongside more experienced musicians.

The 50- to 90-member community ensembles also give many local musicians their first on-stage opportunity to be heard by people other than family and friends.

Common to ensemble members is the deeply rooted desire to make music, and making music is what they concentrate on during their upbeat rehearsals.

'I just enjoy making music and making others happy by doing so," says Carolyn Avery, by day Farmington Hills Baptist Church secretary and by night principal second violinist with the Livonia Symphony.

From humble beginnings, they've developed into sources of widely appealing concert entertainment — from Beethoven to Broadway.

Composers span the musical spectrum. Rousing melodies range from classical to jazz to pops. Holiday fare includes Tchaikovsky's The Nutcracker and Handel's Messiah.

Guest performances often spotlight homegrown talent.

But the cultural chords of these hometown musicmakers don't stop

The festive musical adventures they offer are close to our homes, so there's no need to travel to Detroit or Ann Arbor for symphonic enjoy-

Programs vary but the orchestras' basic mission is to bring the classics to the people, and share the genius of composers like Bach.

THE ORCHESTRAS also provide an inexpensive way to introduce young people to live performances of high-quality music. And they're a terrific outlet for local performers unable, for whatever reason, to make music full time.

Livonia's Frank DiBlasi, Redford's John Gajec and Plymouth's Russell Reed wave the local conductor's wands amid a backdrop of energy, commitment and credentials.

Local orchestra boosters include the Livonia Arts Commission, the Redford Music Trust Fund and the Plymouth Symphony League.

Joan Ther used transparent watercolor to create her "Irisen." Shades of violet, from light to deep, compose the color scheme. She "took photographs of irises before designing the composition of the floral piece," she said.

ROY RINKE, a member of the cooperative, has several of his art pieces on exhibit in the D&M Gallery.

Rinke worked for 41 years at The Detroit News as an illustrator. Now retired, Rinke said, his interest in the gallery keeps him active in art.

Rinke painted "Casey's Power" in varying tones of gray and white guouche. The composition is from a photograph he took in Tennessee of Ca-sey Jones' engine. Rinke's realism is obtained with the counterpoint of lights and shadows, which give life to Casey's iron engine.

Northville, also is a member of the D&M coopera-tive. She has pencil sketches for sale in the D&M

Along with Dillenbeck, Ther, Rinke and Giordano, the D&M membership includes Edward Allen, Hugh Burley, Karen Clawson, James De Armond, Ralph Kelly, Dorothy Koliba, Rosemary Lee, Carol McCreedy, Yolanda Menchaca, Janice Sparks, Ruth Warnemuende, and Blade McClelland. All have art hung in the gallery. Prices for the art works range from $45-$900.

D&M Art Studio and Cooperative Gallery is at 710 Mill St., in the heart of Plymouth's Old Village. Any artists, or parents of aspiring artists can call Sharon Dillenbeck at 453-3710 or Joan Ther at 397-0562 for information on D&M art classes, studio time, co-op membership, or exhibiting or buying gallery art.

As a french horn player, Wagner said his job is a bit tougher than that of a cellist or violinist.

"No one else plays your part," he said. "I play what's called the third horn and no one else plays those notes but me. It's called a solo section because every time I play a note, it's heard.

"If I make the wrong note, everybody knows it. With string players, you have like eight, maybe as many as a dozen people playing the exact same part, so you're not going to notice if someone is a little bit off as

WAGNER, WHO still lives in Livonia, decided after the 1987 orchestra lockout to get his master's degree in music performance from the University of Michigan, "mainly for job security reasons," he said.

So I have more options in case my ability to play is hampered. I at least have something to fall back

And talented as he is, the modest 32-year-old father of three won't necessarily spend the rest of his working life with orchestras.

"My faith in God is very important to me," he said. "I would gladly leave my job with the orchestra if there was some ministry that I could perform. I don't want to say that this is my quintissential job, being with the orchestra. I'm sure I'll change sooner or later, but until I know what to do from here, I'm very satis-

"This is exactly the job I want to be in. I couldn't pick a job I would want more than this. It's like doing what you love to do and getting paid for it. As you can see, it's two in the afternoon. I'm home and I'm home schooling my children and I'm enjoying the beautiful day. You understand why I enjoy my job. I go to work when my kids go to bed."

Kites are back now, at least for one area man, and they're more than a child's toy. At Madonna College, kites are art.

"Art That Flies" is the brainchild of Madonna art instructor Ralph Glenn and kite builder and collector David Smith of Dearborn.

On display at Madonna through Nov. 2, the exhibit features kites from around the world as well as Smith's own designs.

HIGHLIGHTS INCLUDE a rare handpainted kite from Japan, as well as an Oriental-style dragon kite built by Smith and more than 60 feet

There are more than 25 kites on view in "Art That Flies," yet they represent only a small portion of Smith's collection, which he estimates at between 100 and 150.

Not quite half of them were designed and built by Smith himself, while the rest were either bought at The Unique Place" (a kite specialty shop in Royal Oak) or ordered by mail.

Surprisingly to some, Smith flies his kites year round, including in winter.

WHEN ASKED how a 40-year-old man feels about his love for an activity once dominated by children, Smith said: "Even when I first started building my own kites as an adult, I felt a little odd going out to fly them. I've since gotten over that completely.

Campus restaurant boasts watercolor artwork

Schoolcraft College's American Harvest Restaurant has reopened for the fall semester with watercolor paintings by two area artists on dis-

The restaurant is staffed and operated by the Livonia college's culinary arts students.

Gourmet lunches vary daily and include Caesar salad prepared at tableside, grilled medallions of beef tenderloin with whiskey sauce and black beans, garden vegetable sandwich roulade with havarti cheese and a dessert tray.

VICKE BRETT and Susan Rosati have both taught watercolor painting at Schoolcraft College through the Continuing Education Services

Brett's watercolors feature Michigan landscapes and floral still lifes. Whether working along the Lake Superior coastline or in her back yard, her work has a personal effect achieved by working on location. The paintings on display in the American Harvest Restaurant have a powerful, meditative quality.

Brett graduated from Wayne State University with master of arts and bachelor of fine arts degrees. She was the 1988 recipient of the Arts Foundation of Michigan first place award at the Michigan Water Color Exhibition

She's a featured artist at the Rubiner Gallery; her paintings have been featured in invitational and juried exhibitions and are in many private collections throughout the Mid-

Brett has teaching experience, incinding 11 years teaching watercol-or, oil and drawing at Schoolcraft. She has taught at the University of Michigan School of Art, Washtenaw Community College and Macomb County Community College.

Rosati earned a master of fine arts degree in watercolor painting from Eastern Michigan University and a master of arts degree in painting from the Center for Creative Studies, Detroit.

Her work is owned by many area art collectors and has been exhibited at the Michigan Watercolor Society. McKenny Union Gallery at EMU, EMU Faculty Exhibition and Jewish Community Center Faculty Exhibi-

FROM THE book beat:

· "Avenue of Dreams" by Lucy

Taylor. (454 pp., Signet, $4.95).
Picture this: The book's cover is a deep purple, the title emblazoned in large, shiny letters. Above the title is a rosy-hued illustration of a young, red-lipped beauty bearing a vague resemblance to actress Brooke Shields, plus an ardent-looking couple in a rumpled bed - he, with the obligatory golden-brown tan; she, with the obligatory long, cascading

Cover blurbs call the book "a pas-sion-filled saga," hint of a "forbidden affair" therein, describe its heroine as "a proud beauty," tell of its hero's "courage and strength," and include some words about the "crushing blows" that befall its characters who "hungered for all that life and love trepidation, begin to read. Never judge a book by its cover.

I stayed up all night to finish this story of the Marcassas, an Italian immigrant couple who, newly married, travel to America and come to settle in Detroit during the early days of the auto industry. "Avenue of Dreams" is that enthralling.

Okay, so the whole thing is a bit soapy and overdone here and there. Those "crushing blows" endured by the Marcassa family are so numerous and intense at times as to seem faintly ludicrous.

One child dies from typhoid, another is stillborn, still another is struck down by polio. A young wom-an falls in love with her half-brother (no, she doesn't know he's her halfbrother). There's an abortion in there somewhere, too. Plus a nervous breakdown, etc., etc. And the characters are also more

Diaz than a bit predictable. The heroine's long-suffering mother is the usual poor-woman-who-is-a-near-saint-onearth type. The heroine, Chiara, is beautiful, smart and determined (of course). The hero, Michelle, is handsome, strong-minded, a bit stubborn, but ultimately good, kind and true (of course).

Part of the reason why I enjoyed this book so much has to do with Lucy Taylor's striking ability to tell story. With her lively prose, the novelist reaches out and sweeps you up into this multi-generational saga from her opening sentence: "By nightfall, I will be engaged to a man I've yet to meet."

I stayed up all night to finish this story of the Marcassas, an Italian immigrant couple who, newly married, travel to America and come to settle in Detroit during the early days of the auto industry.

The smartly paced novel goes on from there, offering up one of the most vivid portraits of Detroit I've encountered in a long time (another reason for its strong appeal).

There are memorable scenes here of the auto plants, especially during the Depression and post-Depression days, when the unions struggled to come into their own, fighting the often-inhumane conditions that existed within the plants. (The Reuther brothers, Walter and Victor, figure prominently, along with Henry Ford and Harry Bennett, who make cameo appearances).

Also memorable is Taylor's detailed, carefully researched picture of Detroit during the Second World War (remember the prison camp at the State Fairgrounds?), the often tumultuous post-war years, and on in to the early '60s, on the eve of the disastrous events that would permanently change the Motor City area.

After recently signing a two-book contract, Taylor, who lives in Utica and is herself the daughter of Italian immigrants, is now at work on a sequel to "Avenue of Dreams," which will follow the younger members of the Marcassa family into the

In the meantime, this, her first novel, is in the hands of a film agent. Let's hope some astute producer snaps it up right away. With its grand scope and its dramatic picture of an especially significant era in a great American city, it's a natural for the movies.

• Mark your calendars: Selected paintings of children's author/illustrator Hans Wilhelm ("The Trapp Family Book," "Tales From the Land Under My Table," "Blackberry Ink") will be exhibited Oct. 16 through Nov. 6 at the Elizabeth Stone Gallery in Birmingham. For more information, call 647-7040.

Little ghoulies, goblins, and ghosties (ages 2-6) can enjoy "A Not-Too-Scary Halloween Storytime" at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 27, at Halfway, Down the Stairs Children's Book Shop in Rochester. Call 652-6066.

Pansies: these hardy flowers are hardly wimpy

PANSIES IN the snow? Yes, it is sible to continue color in the garen through a longer season by using these hardy flowers. (Whoever started calling weak people "pansies" pertainly wasn't familiar with this lower.)

If pansies are placed in the ground now, their many colors and varieties can be enjoyed for about two more nonths. Choose Majestic (a face type), Happy Face (new, and larger than Majestic) or Imperial, with pas-tel blooms (also new.) Crystal Bowl and Crown are just some of the oth-

A big plus with this plant is that in the early spring, blooms appear even sometimes before the crocus. Why, you may ask, do these flowers continue to bloom when all other annuals die at the first frost? Pansies like cool weather. An ideal spot in the garden has an eastern exposure with 4-5 hours of sun each day; they are a sunloving crop, but do like cool temperatures.

So, if your annual bed has gone "belly up" for the year, pansies are the perfect fall color plant. They will be in bloom again in the early spring, continuing to flower until June, when annuals can again be planted in their spot.

ON THE other hand, the pansies can be left in that location and add their own charm from March throughout the season until about November. If these beauties "fall off" a bit in their flowering, break off the spent blooms to encourage more flowering.

How do I know these things? I recently spent a delightful afternoon with Tom Smith of Four Star Greenhouse, Carlton, Mich., who was delivering flats of pansies to The Plant

Why, you may ask, do these flowers continue to bloom when all other annuals die at the first frost? Pansies like cool weather.

Station of Birmingham. He told me that in Texas, in January, frost covers pansies in the morning, but by noon they are in full glorious color.

A unique way to enjoy their beauty is to position four pansies around a tulip bulb; the pansies will provide immediate fall color and in the spring, the two flowers will bloom at the same time, then when the tulip has finished its show, the pansies will still provide color.

Many pansies will self-sow (you will notice the seedlings in the spring,) while others will grow from the established roots and be ready to

Another idea is to plant pansies in a shallow "brushed bell" clay dish and enjoy them on the patio or deck. When cold weather arrives (the pot will need to be taken indoors,) replant that shallow container with paper-whites for additional use of the pot, or turn it into a dish garden, using succulents and cacti. THE PANSIES from Four Star pan, Holland or Kenya. The tiny seeds are sown into a plug (an 11inch by 22-inch sheet contains 288 plugs, or cells,) and are for 13-14

Greenhouse originate in either Ja-

The seedling is transferred into a three inch or larger pot and grown for another six weeks until it to become a bush, colorful, healthy plant ready for the garden. Quite an undertaking for one little seed.

Pansies provide immediate color. If they are spaced closely together much weeding can be eliminated.

LIVE WHERE YOU LOVE TO WALK

Five.Five five has all the ambiance and sophistication of Manhattan's Upper East Side. Our private residential tower offers available luxuries like complimentary rivate garage parking, ice makers, washers and dryers, vertical blinds and walk-in vardrobe closets. Plans are available from cozy studios with huge floor-to-ceiling windows, to stunning 3 and 4 bedroom suites. Unlike New York, our rates are surprisingly modest for all this luxury and convenience. At one time, moldings around windows did little more than cover the cracks between window frame and wall. Today, moldings serve to frame a window and make it more of a still life on the scenery outside.

Stenciling is a relatively easy and economical way to decorate a home - old or new.

Whether you desire an authentic period look or a contemporary look, the possible combinations of design and color give you plenty of options from which to choose.

Although it's common today for custom stencilers to unify a room using patterns from draperies and furniture, old-house owners, striving to recreate the past, will want to use n to the period o their home

Many of the stencils you'll find commercially are designed with the feel of colonial and country homes. Fortunately for old-house restorers, reproductions of stencils found in historical homes are also available.

In those rare instances when nothing you find seems appropriate, you can always make your own stencils. Sometimes patterned after old wallpaper or perhaps a design found carved in wood trim, homemade stencils are truly a unique way to decorate your rooms.

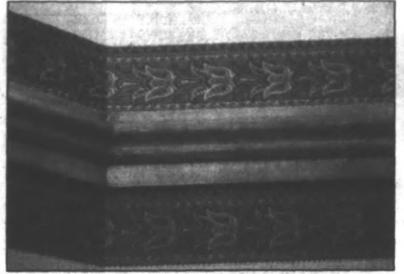

In its briefest form, creating your own stencil involves tracing the design onto Mylar film with a permadesign with a razor blade-type knife.

Surprisingly, stenciling is a very easy technique to learn. As far as materials go, you must use a stencil brush if you expect expert results. Choose a natural-bristled brush rather than a synthetic one: the synthetic bristles are too stiff.

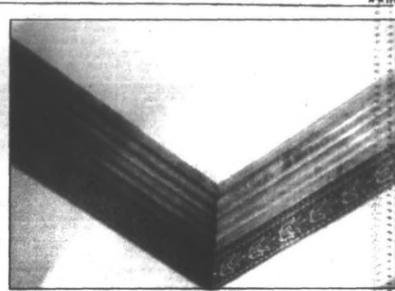

ALTHOUGH YOU can use waterbased paints, most experts use oilbased Japan paints. The main advantage Japan paints have is that they dry instantly, which eliminates the smudging that can result from moving a stencil over an area of still-wet

Also, the color quality of these oilbased paints is much superior. By nature, they provide the ability to shade and make the paint look old, something you can't do with most

Part of the magic of stenciling is that there really is nothing you can do that can't be fixed. Think of the wall as a gigantic blackboard. If you make a mistake, you just have to touch up the spot with a bit of paint and start over.

Moldings can take on many appearances and styles, including chair rails, which not only break up an otherwise plain wall, but also act as a base on which to build other decorative treatments, such as wallpaper borders.

A crown molding, which dresses up the wall and ceiling joint, is perhaps the most popular use of molding. Crown stylesrange in size and shape from the simple cove to the moreornate crowns with multiple grooves, peaks and carvings.

Architectural accents turn to interior wood moldings

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

For that little extra distinction wood trim and molding. A little strip will do 'va

And a big strip will do 'ya even Finished carpentry like wood trim and molding - crowns, bases, wainscoting, casings, raised wood panels, bead, screen molding, chair rails, stops, and maybe even some custom pieces - adds flair, character and texture to a room, according to Rochester Hills interior designer Chloan Smith.

Everyone is interested in good architecture on the outside of the house, and now they're concerned about architecture on the inside," Smith said. "Molding is an architectural accent.

"The older homes always have wonderful molding because they had the old craftsman - finding those people today is the hard part.'

Smith said since World War II most homes have been bereft of all but the most basic molding - and most of that molding served as a wall protector - as in the case of base moldings - or to join windows and doors to walls as in casings and stops, she said.

It (molding) kind of dropped out were trying to keep (costs) down," she said. "You'll see more and more molding in the more expensive homes, but not in the cheaper

SMITH SAID she has always been fond of wood molding and uses it in many of the homes she has done in Birmingham, Rochester, Bloomfield and the two homes she has done for Homearamas in recent years.

"They're part of all of the goodies that you do to a house to make it unique," she said.

Pier Angeli, president of P&B Carpentry in Mount Clemens, said wood molding and trim is even being used as a selling point today. "Wood is back and it's here to stay.

"Molding always attracts people's attention," Angeli continued. P&B Carpentry, a finished carpentry and custom trim specialist that has done work throughout southeastern Michigan including work on several homes at the Brighton Homearama.

"If you could afford an oak room wouldn't you want one?" he asked. "Most people say definitely."

Builders and architects realize this, he said, and more model homes are being decked out with molding and trim work. People building custom homes are also looking for more finished carpentry, he said.

WOODWORK AND trim has become such an important component to homes that his company, which started nine years ago with just he and his brother, now has 20 to 30 carpenters working full time.

"In the finished woodwork trade, that's a lot of people."

At times, he has had as many as 70 people working for him, he said. "I could have three to four crews going six days a week.

"Molding adds character - it gives a house a homey, warm feel," he said. "Just a little bit of fancy woodwork around the window dresses it up and makes a difference."

Angeli added that homes without trim work or wood molding have a sterile feeling that doesn't appeal to the average homeowner.

'We've started to mill a lot more custom molding, and we're using a lot more stock molding than we were using a couple of years ago. I expect in the next two years we'll be doing a lot more," Angeli said.

OAK MOLDING and molding accented with paint seems to be the most popular treatments, but poplar, cherry, and beech woods are also becoming increasingly common. Libraries and dining rooms are the two most common rooms for extensive

One of molding and trims' biggest appeals is that the home handyman can do a lot of basic things himself, so there's a huge market for trim work. "The middle class probably buys the most."

Angeli is also a vice president of Gemcraft Homes and president of Metro Mill, where he mills his own molding and trim work, and Shelby Stairs, which builds wood staircases.

Angeli said he hopes that carpenters - by buying in quantity and producing moldings and trim efficiently - can bring prices down enough to put more molding in median priced homes.

But wood molding and trim work isn't for everyone, he said. With the exception of the Birmingham-Bloomfield area, most molding he installs is east of Rochester Hills.

"YOU WON'T see it on the west side as much because that's where you'll find the more contemporary architecture," he said. The tradition al and country style architecture which molding and trim enhances the most - picks up again the further west one goes, he said.

"There's still a lot of traditional people out there - I'd say 80 percent of the people are," he said.

Even more modern homes can benefit from a splash of wood, interior designer Smith said.

Love of color predates the written word, as the ancient cave paintings of Lascaux, France, reveal.

"By 4500 B.C., the Egyptians were dying linen mummy cloths in deep indigo blue," says Lyn Peterson, adding tongue-in-cheek, "the first designer sheets." By the 17th century, the interior designer says, Sir Isaac Newton had established that the human eye can discern at least 10 million hues from an infinite spectrum.

Despite man's longstanding affinity for color, few people know how to use it to enhance their homes. They have little problem choosing what they like, says Peterson. Their insecurity comes with trying to select the right shade and combine it with

• Successful rooms usually center on tones from one dominant color family. Use a contrasting color only as an accent, and use it sparingly to avoid a patchwork effect. A cohesive palette can blend furnishings of different periods and styles. Generally, the smaller the form the more intense the color can be.

e Color proportions are as im-portant as the color, "Picture a cool gray room with a hot red accent, versus a warm red room touched with neutral gray — two very differ-ent spaces in the same two-tone

· Choose a color in keeping with a room's purpose. Enliven an entry with bold tones but choose a quieter hue for kitchen or bedroom, where you spend a lot of time.

 Use color to rearrange space. Contrasting paint or paper on one wall breaks up a square room's boxiness. Monochromatic (single color) schemes can camouflage decorating problems such as columns or ceiling pipes. Play up an architectural strong point like a fireplace or window bay by painting it two shades lighter or darker than the rest of the

• To visually expand a room, choose light tones. Use flowing solid colors for paint or a small pattern eye. Aggressive tones make a room seem smaller.

A LIGHTER LOOK both indoors and out is the trend, according to Ken Charbonneau of Benjamin Moore & Co., Montvale, N.J. To lighten raw wood floors, trim, doors, cabinets and furniture, Charbonneau suggests an oil-based stain in one of several pastel tints. It gives the excitement of color without masking

By controlling the amount of stain applied or by applying it, then wip-ing it off, it's possible to vary the ef-fect. Experiment on a small area until you get the look you want, says

As the average American home gets smaller, families must learn to live in more modest spaces with little architectural interest. But small doesn't have to be boring.

A small room, for example, doesn't have to be white, says New York interior designer Bunny Williams. Paint the walls a soft salmon color and the woodwork creamy white for an illusion of spaciousn without boredom. "Light colors make you less aware of those low

Select a uniform color for the floors, preferably a light shade, says Sally Sirkin Lewis of Los Angeles. Wall-to-wall carpet makes a room appear larger than would several small scatter rugs.

Noel Jeffrey uses artwork to make a small space seem larger. 'Hang a large mural or a painting that has depth," he says, "and you are fooled into thinking that you're looking into something. In effect, you are creating another dimension, a larger space," says the New York

YOU CAN LIFT your color scheme from a favorite painting or lithograph in the room, says Los Angeles-based designer Barbara Brenner. "Splashes of color found in the art become the colors of accessories, pillows and window treatments," she says. "Don't be afraid to be daring with accent colors."

But if the artwork is both powerful and colorful - a David Hockney or Jackson Pollock, for example, she advises decorating in neutral colors to draw the eye directly to the

DEVELOPMENT OF

Ordinary use, abuse and the ravages of time can image a furniture finish, but fortunately most of age is easily repaired.

All that's required is some time and a minimum of materials and expense. In most cases, it's better to preserve and repair a finish than it is to replace it (strip it off and refinish it). It's amazing what a difference a thorough cleaning and repair job can make. Also, repairing instead of replacing a damaged finish preserves the character of a piece of

Most of the tools to make these repairs are available at your local paint store or home center

The first step is to identify the finish used on the furniture being repaired. Ideally, you'll overcoat the repaired area with the same finish. Shellac, er and varnish are common finishes. To identify them, apply a solvent to an inconspicuous area.

Start by applying denatured alcohol. Alcohol will readily dissolve shellac and it will slowly soften ier. Lacquer thinner will readily dissolve ier, and will soften shellac. It will cause varnh to swell, crinkle and lift.

Next, clean the surface using a soft cloth dampned with mineral spirits (also known as paint hinner) or commercial furniture cleaner. This removes built-up dirt and wax and gives you a clear-er idea of what the finish actually looks like. After g, you may discover the damage is really just a light scuff. If so, you may be able to hide the scuff by applying paste wax or polish.

YOU CAN ALSO hide a minor scratch by rubbing over it with a furniture wax pencil or by applying some liquid touchup solution. Both are available in a variety of wood colors. Touchup solution stains Crazing and alligatoring describe a pattern of fine, irregular cracks in the finish usually caused by excessive heat or long exposure to sunlight.

Alligatored shellac or lacquer usually responds nicely to amalgamation (applying a solvent to partially dissolve the finish). Stroke on the solvent with a fine artist's brush until the finish softens and fills

Let the finish reharden overnight, then buff over the repair with some paste wax. Amalgamation doesn't work on varnish, however. The condition can be lessened slightly by varnishing over the af-my house is controlled by circuit breakers. I was recently told to install a GFI circuit for my bathroom. Will this give me any more protec-tion than the circuit breaker that already controls the bathroom outlet?

apers.

Yes, it will because they serve different functions. A circuit breaker or fuse will prevent a fire that's the result of excessively hot wires. This is done by automatically interrupting the circuit when the amperage it's carrying exceeds the capacity of the breaker or fuse.

On the other hand, a GFI (Ground Fault Interrupter) is designed to prevent fatal electric shock by interrupting the circuit whenever there's an imbalance in the current between "hot" and "neutral" lines. The GFI will open the circuit when the imbalance is as small as 5 milliamps. This is 1-3000th of the current needed to trip a breaker set for 15 amps. A GFI circuit interrupts the power within 1-40th of a second or less fast enough to prevent injury to anyone in normal health. At 50 milliamps (1-20th of an amp), it takes only 3 11/4 seconds for a person's

If I turn on the hot water in my house when someone is taking a shower, they'll get an unexpected cold blast. Can this problem be explained by the small diameter (14inch) pipe in the heating loop? Or is it caused by lime encrustation in the heater? The cold water supply pipe is 3%-inch diameter.

It sounds as if your hot water is generated by a heating system that uses a tankless coil rather than an oil- or gas-fired tank-type water heater. The problem you describe is common in units where there's a mineral buildup on the inside of the coil. The lime encrustation greatly reduces the effective opening and, even when the pressure is good, reduces the water flow.

The minerals can usually be removed by an acid flush. This, however, is not recommended. The coil may be pitted and removing the encrustation could cause it to leak. Your best bet is to replace the tankless coil. Also, the water flow in the 14-inch pipe is slightly less than half the flow in your 31/4-inch supply pipe. The 11/4-inch pipe was probably installed to reduce the flow, which shortens the time needed for the water to reach the desired temperature. If cold water flows through the coil too rapidly, it would not absorb

If after replacing the tankiess cout the hot-water flow is less than you desire, we suggest replacing your hot-water system with an oil-or gasfired, tank-type unit and replace the 114-inch pipe with 314-inch pipe.

Seven years ago I purchased a well-built 36-year-old house. Two years ago I noticed many of the doors were beginning to warp. The doors are original. Why are they starting to warp now? I don't use a humidifier but I do use the fireplace more than the original owner.

The warpage is the result of the edges or faces due to a change in moisture content. Often, the top, bottom or side edges are not painted and consequently tend to absorb or lose moisture faster than the painted sections. If the door faces have not been painted or varnished in 30 years, they too are more susceptible changes in humidity. With flush doors that have a veneer face, sections of the joint between the facing and the edges sometimes open, exposing the interior to moisture change. Warpage results when the change is greater on one side of the

If the interior doors are shut when the fireplace is in use, it's possible that the sides facing the fire will dry faster than the opposite side. Also, because of heat stratification in some homes, doors that are not properly sealed often warp near the top

I have a chronic problem with cracking and peeling paint on the inside of windows and sills. How can I reduce the need to paint so frequent-around windows. When windows are leaky, paint is subjected to damage from moisture. The tendency of moisture inside the house to evapo rate through points of least resistance, like windows, causes extreme dryness on the surfaces. And sills have a higher exposure to the sun's rays than other surfaces. Installing storm windows, caulking windows tightly and installing window shades can reduce such weathering.

Paint can also fail when it's applied to a surface that's too glossy or

on that many people forget they can be dangerous.

In fact, some local electrical des forbid their use. If the cord is for the job or is improperly used, it can cause fire. The Consum-er Product Safety Commission estiages that improperly used exten-na cords cause nearly 5,000 house firds each year.

Here are some do's and don'ts for hoosing and using extension cords: • Consider an extension cord a emporary connection. Unplug it and store it after each use.

· If several devices are attached to one extension cord and used at the same time, there is a good chance the cord is overloaded.

 Most extension cords are marked with a rating in amperes (also called amps or simply abbrevi-ated "A"). The appliance should not exceed the cord's ampere rating. To obtain an electrical device's amperage, divide its wattage by 110. Then choose an extension cord with appropriate ampere rating. Generally, ap-pliances that produce heat or cold space heaters, air conditioners, re-frigerators, clothes dryers — have higher amperage than appliances that do mechanical tasks — food processors, clothes washers and vac-

 The wiring in electrical cords is also rated to help you when choosing extension cords. The lower the number, the larger the wire and the greater the amount of current it can afely carry.

'A lamp-type cord usuarly contains No. 18 wire. Don't use it for any device which draws more than seven amps. Heavier-duty No.16, No.14, or even No.12 should be used for devices which draw higher amounts of current.

 An extension cord's length is also important. A longer cord wastes current. If it is too long, the drop in current can reduce an appliance's efficiency. A No.18 lamp-type cord, for example, should never be more than 25 feet long.

· If you must use an exten cord for a refrigerator, air condi-tioner or some other electrical unit that draws substantial amounts of current, it should be a heavy-duty three-wire cord.

 When working with any power tool - whether large or small, stationary or portable — use only a heavy duty, grounded, three-wire cord that is No. 14 or heavier.

· Extension cords should not cross traffic lanes or be used near water. If you must temporarily use an extension cord where there will be traffic, tape it to the floor to avoid tripping over it.

Remove extension cords from an outlet by grasping the plug. If you pull it out by yanking on the cord, the wires may eventually tear loose, resulting in a shock or short circuit.

· You can tell if an extension cord is defective by examining it for frayed or cracked insulation or a damaged plug or receptacle. If the cord is damaged, it's better to re-place it. If the plug is damaged, you can replace it with a new plug with the same or greater current-carrying capacity.
