Plymouth Christmas

Now that "A Plymouth Thanksgiving" is over, get ready for a Plymouth Christmas.

Beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, as many as 50 entrants will decorate seven-foot fir trees displayed in Kellogg Park.

Fred Hill, an organizer of the event, said folks interested in decorating a tree must pay a $35 entry fee and pick up an entry form from the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, or the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

"People can pick up ballots at the stores," Hill said, and vote for their favorite trees. The top three entries receive awards.

Sunday is "Family Christmas Day" in Kellogg Park. It features the singing of Christmas songs beginning at 12:45 p.m., and the arrival of Santa in a horse-drawn buggy at 1 p.m.

Time to toss

If you live in the city of Plymouth and are planning to throw out a mattress, washer or other hefty item, now is the time.

Starting Dec. 10, officials will begin charging a fee to pick up large items. The fee schedule ranges from $3 for a twin-double mattress or box spring to $10 for an old refrigerator to $15 for even larger special refuse.

Until Dec. 10, there is no charge for setting out such items at the curb for regular trash pickup.

Firefighters are honored

The Plymouth Fire Department's 26 firefighters were honored at the Nov. 19 city commission meeting for being the first western Wayne County fire department to attain "Firefighter 2" status.

To gain the certification, city firefighters participated in more than 50 hours of monthly training sessions over a recent nine-month period.

Visitors feast on fun at first Thanksgiving

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

"A Plymouth Thanksgiving" was a success, say organizers, some business owners and those who viewed the festivities.

The Big Guy must have liked it too, considering the striking rainbow that spanned the horizon as folks filed out of Kellogg Park on the first day of the event.

On Friday, more than 200 spectators circled the scene in Kellogg Park where "A Plymouth Thanksgiving" participants re-enacted the legendary first Thanksgiving.

SOME ONLOOKERS stood on benches and others on tip-toes as theater students and local residents dressed like pilgrims passed wooden bowls of bread, walnuts, zucchini, cucumbers — and turkey.

"The turnout is marvelous," said organizer Fred Hill, dressed in a black and white pilgrim outfit. "People in the community are saying it's marvelous."

Earlier Friday, an icy rain mixed with snow at about 11:30 a.m. suggesting weather wouldn't cooperate on the event's first day.

Still, by noon, Michelle Clemens of the Plymouth Park Players, wearing a maroon cloak to ward off the chill, was calling out to passersby, "Happy Thanksgiving to thee."

Fred Hill, event organizer, and Sharon Pugh listen to Gov. Bradford's speech.

"They seem to be really enjoying it, even though the weather's so chilly out," she said. Speaking in an English, or colonists' accent, she added, "The people who are here want to be entertained."

Marci Hannewald, a saleswoman at Wayside Gifts just across from the park, said, "It's been so busy — everybody wants to know when they're (event participants) going to do things."

"WE'VE NOTICED there's a lot of people on the street," said saleswoman Bunny Hallway from behind the counter at the Nawrot Pendleton Shop on Forest.

"It's a very festive atmosphere; it's a very good mood."

Esther McKendry, another saleswoman, said business was better on the Friday after Thanksgiving than it was last year — probably because "A Plymouth Thanksgiving" drew people to town.

But Lloyd Combe, owner of "The Put-On Shoppe" in the Forest Place Mall reported "about the same flow" of shoppers on Friday as on the Friday after Thanksgiving last year.

City to dump commercial garbage pickup

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

By acting to drop commercial garbage pickup in Plymouth, city commissioners on Monday, Nov. 19, also moved to help cut the city's budget deficit.

The commission voted 6-1 to drop the servicing of commercial dumpsters, beginning Jan. 7. The action was urged by City Manager Gordon Jaeger as the cost to dump businesses' garbage has risen sharply during the last 15 months.

"The costs of picking up the commercial refuse are substantial," Jaeger told commissioners. "Continuing the present system will result in an estimated over $300,000 annual operating loss," according to the resolution to drop the service, approved by the commission.

"It's costly and we're going to run out of money," Jaeger said, adding that few cities provide such a service to businesses.

COMMISSIONER James Jabara

voted against the resolution.

"I think the city should stay involved, if nothing more than to coordinate the pickup," he said, adding that Northville provides compactors for businesses to use to reduce garbage loads.

Former city commissioner David Pugh — his wife Sharon operates a downtown business — said that when he spotted the resolution to drop garbage pickup for businesses on the agenda, "I was astonished, surprised."

"If I can speak for all the businesses, let us pay for it," he said.

Downtown Realtor Robert Bake agreed with Pugh. "We desperately need the coordination of the city to see this thing through," he said, adding that if the city drops commercial pickup, "it will be chaos."

But because the city would have to raise rates charged to businesses for garbage pickup, Jaeger said private contractors could offer business owners a better rate.

"IF THE CITY stays in the business, the fees will be higher — We're going to be hurt" by competition, he said.

Assistant City Manager Paul Sincok said smaller businesses can participate in the $1 bag-tag program.

In an attempt to reduce garbage dumping costs, a main contributor to the nearly $300,000 city deficit, the bag-tag program for residents is scheduled to begin Dec. 10.

Officials say the program more accurately charges residents for trash they set out at the curb, and encourages recycling.

Amoco landscape project takes root

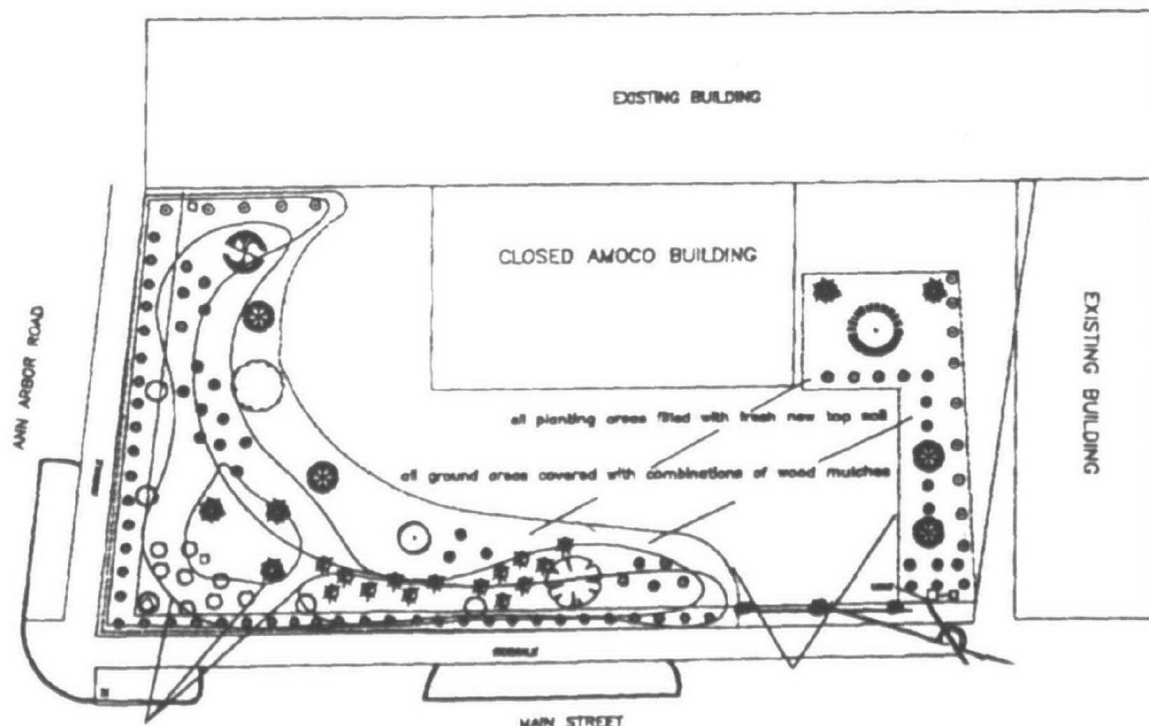

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Howard Miller, area adviser for the Amoco Corp., says the company's abandoned service station at Ann Arbor Trail and Main will be landscaped before Christmas with pines, locust and flowering crab trees; berms; wood mulches and ground plantings.

The company's district office gave the go-ahead for the $30,000 project. The property has been on a Michigan Department of Natural Resources list of contaminated sites since 1979.

FOR YEARS, PETROLEUM-BASED contaminants seeped from underground storage tanks into the ground water and soil in an area extending south of the Mayflower Meeting House, across Main Street, underneath Ann Arbor Trail, and east of the Box Bar. A large portion of the contamination is fuel oil. Fuel oil components include benzene and ethylbenzene, which are carcinogens.

Amoco says it wants to plant pine trees at the site.

polluted ground water and is proposing to clean the soil with an air-stripping process. The Cleanup is expected to take up to five years at a cost of a half million dollars or more the first year.

The landscaping will take just three days, but work can't begin until trenches are dug by Groundwater Technology, Inc. of Farmington Hills, the firm doing the remediation for Amoco.

"We intend to have some of the trenches dug pending (the DNR's) approval of the final assessment plan," said Miller. "We anticipate there will be trenches for the recovery systems probably running somewhere along Main Street just off the sidewalk buried in one of the berms."

"We'll probably do the trenching in anticipation of the plan being approved and make modifications as need be. We're hopeful that within the month, this will be complete."

Groundwater Technology has said they can complete the trenching in the next two to three weeks, he said.

"The landscapers are ready, willing and able to proceed post haste. They have the materials, which are all coming out of the Detroit area," said Miller.

Plymouth Road paving in gear

Fixing bumpy Plymouth Road between Mill and Haggerty is on a list of county road projects planned for 1991.

"A resurfacing project has been proposed as part of a road projects list in the 1991 county budget," according to a letter from the county public services office to Plymouth City Manager Gordon Jaeger.

The county office said the budget, which provides for the road improvement, has been submitted for county commission approval.

"The city of Plymouth share would be approximately $40,000," according to the letter, with the county paying $80,000. "We will be contacting you with more definitive information after the Dec. 1, 1990 adoption of the 1991 budget," according to the letter to Jaeger.

BUT COUNTY Commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville, said if she gets her way, the city will pay nothing.

"We believe the county should take care of all of the cost of that. It's a county road," she said.

Jaeger told city commissioners Nov. 19 that the project "is subject to elimination if they run into some financial difficulties themselves."

City Commissioner James Jabara said a county resurfacing of the road in recent years "was totally unsatisfactory," and added the city should be credited for money contributed to that earlier project.

Heintz said it's too early to tell if the repaving is certain for 1991.

Problems overwhelm grade school counselors

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

The teacher couldn't figure out why, but one of her fourth-graders was constantly angry. Outbursts were daily occurrences.

A counselor took her aside, and "I just pried it out of her," said Judy Weyant, who counsels at Field and Allen elementaries.

"She had never told anyone this, but her mother was in a shelter because of problems with a boyfriend involving alcohol and abuse. The teacher had no idea what emotional strain the child has been under."

WEYANT IS ONE of five elementary school counselors who briefed school board members last week on a new program providing counseling for K-5 students.

While the counselors agree the three-month-old program is effective, they say they're overwhelmed. Five counselors aren't enough to serve the district's 7,000 elementary school students.

With social problems on the upswing, teachers notice that more and more of their students are at risk.

Jeffrey Fordell, administrative intern who's overseeing the effort, says that if trends continue, in a 40-member class graduating from high school in the year 2000:

- two class members will have given birth before graduation;
- eight will have dropped out of school;

- 11 will be unemployed after graduation;

- 15 will be living in poverty;
- by graduation, 36 will have used alcohol, 17 will have experimented with marijuana and eight with cocaine;

- six will have run away from home.

"Elementary school counseling is growing in terms of need," said Fordell. "What prevention in the early grades can do for young people is to address crises before they become crises in middle school and high school."

To meet those goals, "we should have 14 counselors, and we have five. We definitely need one at each building, so 12 would be an absolute minimum," Fordell said.

The board budgeted about $125,000 and in June hired five counselors, all of whom have master's degrees in guidance and counseling.

The fledgling staff has received more than 650 counseling referrals, Weyant said.

"We're being inundated. With this many referrals, the reality is we're too short-staffed to handle all the requests," said Weyant, who like her counterparts, makes outside referrals.

The counselors say youngsters are grappling with difficulties ranging from anxiety, phobias and low self-esteem to family problems involving substance abuse, sexual abuse, illness and death.

"The highest incidence of sexual abuse involving children occurs when they're in the third, fourth and fifth grades," said Weyant. "With the holidays approaching, there's an even greater incidence of substance abuse and physical abuse."

While counseling is stressful, "we all have success stories that have made all the stressful days worth it," she said. "For so many children, we are the first adults listening to them in a non-threatening way. Sometimes these kids just need to be listened to and affirmed."

Carol Dolan counsels children in small groups at Farrand and Flegel elementaries.

It's preventative intervention for students dealing with similar problems, such as coping with divorce or substance abuse in the family, low self-esteem or being new to a school. One of four children are affected by substance abuse, Dolan said. "We want to teach them coping skills, given them support, help them identify their feelings and let the high risk children know they're not the only ones."

JANET DERSEY, counseling at Miller, Bird and Isbister, works with parents.

"Parents have a very difficult job today. They face a multitude of problems. We come to parenthood with very little preparation. It's an unspoken expectation that instinct will be enough. Sometimes it isn't. Parents need support and help as they rear their children."

Parents at Miller requested a class, and got it. It's been so popular that there's a waiting list for a second, Dolan said.

"We have great hopes this will be a priority for the future. When we can bring parents together, the whole process becomes so much more effective," she said.

Cathy Campbell, who services Hoban and Eriksson, says preventive counseling in the classroom is "on the cutting edge." With her students, Campbell deals with issues ranging from self-image to friendship, decision-making and drugs. "The kids see us as one more helping person," said Campbell.

Mary Vertrees, counselor at Hulsing, Gallimore and Smith elementaries, says the program is creating a bridge between the schools and the community.

"It's reducing parents' anxiety. When parents feel better, students feel better, and so do teachers," she said. "This has brought a wonderful element of credibility and understanding into the district."

Counselors are so short-staffed that "just getting into the classroom becomes a difficult task," added Vertrees. "But this is a wonderful basis and foundation. Our goals are to give students the competency and skills to master their environment, which we know is the gateway to benefiting from teaching."

Old Village sets 1991 improvement goals

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Old Village backers plan to keep improving the image of the historic side of town, according to their 1991 goals.

In a meeting Tuesday at the Station 885, Old Village Association organizers set those goals. They include:

- Expanding and improving the Spring Festival and Applefest events.
- Continuing to lobby the city for money and services to benefit Old Village.

- Trying to draw strong businesses to Old Village.

- Ensuring that new construction blends in with existing buildings and preserving old buildings.

- Beautifying the area with flower barrels and by other means.

- Updating kiosks.

- Reprinting and improving distribution of walking maps.

- Installing road signs directing people to Old Village, on Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon Road.

- Expanding participation in chamber of commerce promotions and events.

- Having the association act as a conduit for ideas and information to benefit all residents and businesses.

Old Village Association President Mark Oppat cited accomplishments the group had a part in during 1990. "We kept the $8,500 in block grant money for benches," he said, as some city officials had suggested less attention to Old Village.

Oppat, who challenged officials seeking to reduce the share of federal money paying for Old Village improvements, was named by Mayor Dennis Billa to serve on the citizens' advisory committee which decides where federal money for improvements will be spent in Plymouth.

The addition of benches in Old Village is a main goal for 1991, Oppat said, adding that the group hopes to gain another $8,500 for benches and combine it with the $8,500 earmarked for benches last year to buy and install benches in 1991.

Among 1990 Old Village Association accomplishments, he cited the success of the Spring Festival and Applefest, the latter event expanded from one to two days. "It was daring of us, we weren't sure how it was going to work, and it ended up working pretty good," he said.

The association also notified the city of building code violations in Old Village, directed the installation of electrical system improvements, established a 24-hour hotline for event and other information, and printed new Old Village walking maps.

The only work to be done on the station itself include "minor touch-ups with paint and installation of a stainless steel stack, or chimney if you will."

"We intend to raise the vent up so that anything released into the environment is released at a level that is going to be some distance off the ground." The station will house the remediation equipment.

RALPH LORENZ'S Mayflower Meeting House, adjacent to the station, is the property most severely affected by the contamination. With the exception of one, the offices in the Meeting House have been vacated because of the problem.

Lorenz is suing Amoco in U.S. District Court, claiming damages and demanding that the site be cleaned up.

Mike Southerland, Lorenz's attorney, said Amoco supplied him Tuesday with the technical plans to remediate the site.

Two earlier proposals were rejected by the DNR and affected property owners.

Southerland is reviewing the proposals and submitting them to a consultant for comment.

"But I've already seen a few problems. One in particular is that the plan does not provide for enough extraction units beneath the (Meeting House) basement," said Southerland.

"The basement has different foundational columns running into the ground that would impede the extraction system from pulling all of the contaminant out from under the basement. They'll have to put in additional points."

"We also want to do some additional testing of the nature of the gases beneath there to ensure they're not volatile, that is explosive, materials."

The pollutant is in a "hard, thick state in the drain tile beneath the foundation of the Meeting House," Southerland added. "As far as I know, the plan doesn't provide for removal of that. The plan still contemplates leaving pollutant in the clay."

Amoco has said it will "begin to prove to Plymouth that Amoco is a company with a strong sense of corporate responsibility. We recognize the role we play and our responsibility to do what's right."

U.S. District Judge Patrick Duggan is hearing the case.

"We met with Judge Duggan Wednesday and he told us we'll be the number one trial scheduled in May or June. He's not going to let it drag on," said Southerland. "He said it's too important."

Southerland says he doesn't want to "put a band aid on this thing. It wants to do it right."

"With all due respect, it doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out what was going on. Amoco has known for a long time what they've done here. It's only now that they've had to that they've faced up to it."

Southerland expects the case to draw national attention.

"The question that hasn't been explicitly explored is, assuming you meet whatever governmental requirements there are for clean up, is it possible for a landowner to be damaged above and beyond the cost of the clean up? That hasn't been addressed. Most of the time, it's a battle of how clean is clean."

Group cites education as reason to buy airport

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Launching a school to prepare students for jobs in aviation is the prime reason for local governments to buy Mettetal Airport, according to the Committee for Aviation Education.

The group, composed of Canton residents fighting to save the airport, plans to attend a Canton Board meeting Tuesday at 7:30 to ask for the board's support.

"What happens to Mettetal not only affects Canton, but the surrounding communities," said John Vergona, committee member and main figure in the yearlong effort to buy the airport at Joy and Lilley roads in Canton.

The committee called a roundtable meeting Nov. 20 to inform area elected officials, including state representatives James Kosteva, D-Canton, and Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, about the benefits of saving Mettetal. The airport is for sale by the owners, the Kiochko family, who own Desert Sands Inc.

METTETAL SUPPORTERS expect a cold reception from most trustees, who in August voted 5-2 to shoot down a purchase proposal. Trustees rejected a study committee recommendation to buy the airport.

Supervisor Tom Yack, Clerk Loren Bennett, Treasurer Gerald

Brown and trustees Phil LaJoy and Bob Shefferly voted against buying the airport. Trustees Elaine Kirchgatter and John Prenisky voted in favor of gathering more information.

Meanwhile, Plymouth Township trustees say they want to form an authority to buy Mettetal. The City of Plymouth is considering joining.

A second blow to Mettetal supporters came by way of state legislation presented by Kosteva and later passed by both houses, saying that Canton would have to waive a 5 percent contribution cost that would be owed by any authority.

Committee members questioned Kosteva last week about why he pushed the legislation through without first listening to their arguments. Kosteva countered that he was responding to the majority vote of Canton's elected officials and would reconsider his stand.

At Tuesday's board meeting the aviation committee will ask the board to waive that 5 percent fee. State and federal grants would cover the remaining 95 percent of the costs.

Vergona said the Kiochkos haven't imposed a deadline on the airport's sale. If the land isn't used as an airport it likely would be developed for light industrial businesses.

Mettetal supporters say the airport could be used for a public aviation school that would prepare students for a field that's seeking new comers. Tom Kennedy, a TWA captain who lives in Plymouth Township, said airlines are looking for aviation mechanics and other technicians. In the next five or ten years, he said, the demand for employees in these fields will surge. People new in the field can make between $30,000 and $60,000 annually, he said.

Kennedy said a public school would give low and middle income students an educational opportunity that they probably wouldn't be able to afford at a private aviation school. Also, a survey of Plymouth-Canton students, Kennedy said, showed that 32 percent would be interested in an aviation school.

Carol Herrick, Canton resident and pilot, compared Mettetal to a jewel in the Nile and something that other communities don't have. You don't have to be a pilot to enjoy the airport, she said, because it's a place where anyone can go and watch the planes. Mettetal has worked hard to be a part of the community, she said, referring to activities like the annual Mettetal Pancake Breakfast that's open to the public.

Representatives from the state bureau of aeronautics and the Federal Aviation Administration have argued that Mettetal needs to be preserved.

"Airports are becoming an endangered species and we need to protect the airports that we have," said Dean Nitz, FAA state supervisor.

Area Scouts exhibit at Cobo Hall

Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers from Plymouth, Canton, Livonia, Redford, Westland and other communities of the Gemini District of the Detroit Area Council of Boy Scouts were among 20,000 Scouts from metropolitan Detroit participating recently in "Scout Show 90" at Cobo Hall.

Under the leadership of cubmaster George Badeen Cub Scout Pack 342, chartered by the Redford Police Department, operated a games booth for the show's visitors.

Troop 875, chartered to St. Paul Presbyterian Church of Livonia, presented an extensive model train layout. The troop, under the leadership of scoutmaster Robert Nill and assistant scoutmaster Charles Schlaepfer, has been working with the boys for more than a year to prepare the special exhibit.

RETIREMENT COMMUNITY OPTIONS CONFERENCE

Never before held in the state of Michigan, the nationally popular preretirement/retirement living conference will be presented by the author of RETIREMENT LIVING ALTERNATIVES USA: THE INSIDE STORY, H. Wilson Worley. Mr. Worley's book (a $9.95 value) will be presented without charge to each household along with other copyrighted material.

Thousands have highly acclaimed this conference for its dissemination of information not available from any other source. During the two-hour session, participants will review full-service preretirement and retirement living concepts through a color slide series of communities from the east to the west coast.

In addition, a new and different concept in active retirement/preretirement living being considered for Farmington Hills will be discussed to determine its potential for active adults desiring a full menu of services from home and yard maintenance to security and health/fitness programs. The concept offers options not found in lifecare, entrance fee, expensive rental packages, or resort communities. Each participant will be asked to complete a simple written survey to provide direction for the development and the public's acceptance of this community.

The conference is free of charge. However, seating is limited and will be by reservation only.

Please call Nancy Fees (313) 442-9860, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. or write for reservations for you and your friends to RETIREMENT CONFERENCE, 30405 Folsom Road, Farmington Hills, MI 48336 for one of the times and locations below:

No-fault finances rehab for head injury patients

SHARON LAMIEUX/staff photographer

Deceptive. Disabling. Devastating. These are descriptions of head injury, an affliction that strikes an estimated 1 million citizens annually, rendering them confused or forgetful in its most benign form and at its worst, wheelchair-bound with little or no control over bodily function.

In the third and final article of the series, we look at Michigan's no-fault auto insurance that finances the comprehensive and often long rehabilitation essential in overcoming brain injuries.

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Dean Babiak was doubly unlucky that December evening in 1980 when he was beaten and left semiconscious in the parking lot of a Waterford bowling alley.

Babiak, 36 at the time and unemployed, was left severely brain injured. Worse, aside from minimal speech therapy, he has received none of the extensive and essential rehabilitation necessary for recovery because neither he nor his retired mother are able to afford the enormous costs.

"Before the beating, my son had an IQ of 135. In his last IQ test, he measured borderline mentally handicapped," said Babiak's mother, Gini Neuville who, since 1984, has been active in the Wayne-Oakland Chapter of the Michigan Head Injury Alliance.

The irony is, if Babiak had been injured in an auto accident, chances are he would be a significantly changed man today, certainly more productive, better able to care for himself and perhaps even able to work.

Had he been an insured motorist under Michigan's No-Fault Law, catastrophic coverage would automatically provide unlimited medical and rehabilitation services. All motorists insured in Michigan are covered.

Considered model legislation and hailed as the most progressive in the nation, no-fault is under attack by a pair of Republican lawmakers who are proposing massive reform of the system, including reduced rates by offering catastrophic coverage as an option.

OPTIONAL COVERAGE spells disaster, say opponents of the reform, because young drivers, those most prone to accidents and whose insurance rates are highest, would certainly choose lower rates. In the event of a disabling accident, there would be no benefits for on-going care or therapy.

"The only thing worse than head injury is compounding the tragedy by having no money available for rehabilitation," said Birmingham attorney Wayne Miller who specializes in representing head injury victims. Miller is also vice president of the Head Injury Alliance in Wayne and Oakland counties.

"Long term services, particularly custodial care and activity programming is absolutely essential, for both the head injured and the sanity of their families," he added.

A Southfield father, a West Bloomfield wife and a Livonia businesswoman are painfully aware of the need. The first two are embroiled in bitter financial suits. The son of the Southfield man was seriously injured in a parachute jump four years ago and the West Bloomfield woman has been unable to work since suffering a blow to the head a year ago. In the interim, both are paying out-of-pocket for care.

The Livonia woman, involved in an out-of-state auto accident, was recently forced to discontinue counseling after losing a court suit for financial assistance in the state where she was injured, which does not offer no-fault coverage. She can no longer afford rehab care.

In Michigan, injuries from motorcycle, snow mobile and bicycle accidents are not covered.

"IT'S VERY DISHEARTENING. I often have to turn away injury victims. There is nothing to be done, simply because their accident does not entitle them to no-fault benefits," Miller said.

Chamber is thankful for support

To the editor:

May we through your column send a very special word of appreciation to all who helped make our Auction 1990 a reality.

Thank you to the Plymouth Community for the overwhelming show of support for our recent Annual Meeting/Auction 1990. To all who worked on a committee, thank you for your time and energy. To the Steering Committee members who pulled together to make it all happen: John Blackwell, S. Ted Boloven, Karen Burrill, Joyce Costanza, Dennis Englehart, Sandra Florek, Minnie Johnson, John Lankford, Marilyn LeVasseur, Herb Little, Chuck Lowe, Candy Paff, Pat Pulkownik, Margaret Slezak, Doug Zemlin.

And a special word of praise to the two gentlemen who chaired our event: co-chair Wayne Daniels, of R. J. Liddy Moving & Transport, who many times worked behind the scenes doing whatever was necessary to get the job done and Chamber President, Harold Bergquist of Northland Container who chaired the Auction and made good his inaugural promise to consolidate the Chamber fund raisers.

To you all we extend our sincere appreciation.

Writing is rewriting

To the editor:

I am writing in response to Philip Power's recent column on educational reform and Public Act 25. Mr. Power's comments on a variety of issues suggest an unfamiliarity with widely accepted principles in public education, but particularly an ignorance of research in effective writing instruction.

As the representative of a group of English teachers at Birmingham Groves High School, I am compelled to set the record straight.

MR. POWER argues that the suggested outcomes in writing are "bewildering" because they focus on such areas as "prewriting, drafting, revising, proofreading, publishing" instead of "the idea that children should learn to write clearly, logically, and quickly."

Perhaps these terms are bewildering to Mr. Power because he has not bothered to survey what English educators have been studying for the past 20 years: the strategies that actually empower young people to write the kinds of essays he would prefer.

WE WRITE clearly and logically when we devote time to thinking (prewriting); we write clearly and logically when we give words to our thoughts (drafting); we write clearly and logically when we evaluate what we have committed to text and make appropriate adjustments to clarify our meaning (revising); we write clearly and logically when we take the time to edit our work so that it contains a minimum of errors (proofreading); we write clearly and logically when we analyze our audience and adjust our messages to persuade, inform, entertain or reveal our understanding of our subject (publishing).

As for writing "quickly," Mr. Power fails to identify any particular advantages to that value. English teachers current in the developments in writing instruction will argue that when students actually develop proficiency in the elements of the writing process described above, the ease of writing is a natural consequence.

PERHAPS THE ultimate testimony to the need for helping students to think and analyze an approach to subject matter is Mr. Power's cursory dismissal of an entire movement in writing instruction in two sentences. That kind of analysis is superficial at best, and probably destructive of real efforts to improve our schools.

One thing we can all agree on is that schools won't get better until we abandon the rhetorical flourish in favor of reasoned analysis and empirical research. By those standards, the assessment of student writing demands that we focus on narrowly defined and archaic principles that do little to help students think about what they are doing when they write.

Writing is a way of thinking our way into a subject, Mr. Power. It's clear from your comments that you haven't really progressed past the prewriting stage.

We all look forward to the revision that really is worth publishing.

Saving souls clergy's job

To the editor:

Regarding Jack Gladden's article about separation of church-state, I beg to differ.

Is it not the job of the clergy to "save souls?" Well, that is exactly what Bishop Austin Vaughan of New York was doing when he gave Gov. Mario Cuomo his options.

Either he stopped supporting the terrible crime of tearing babies' arms and legs off, crushing their skulls and stopping their beating hearts or risk going to hell.

I would say that is pure censorship if the dear bishop cannot do his job.

Cable TV gives something back

By Lisa Boland
special writer

Cable Television is an interesting phenomenon, the history of which is relatively short. Ten years ago, as our local communities explored cable television for the first time, there was talk about an industry that would greatly change the way we do things. Some even felt that we would be doing our grocery shopping, banking, or voting through our television set.

Ten years later cable television is only now beginning to develop a track record. A track record based in the reality of what is not only available but what is feasible. We have a future to look forward to with all of its technical innovations and we also have a past to compare ourselves with. We learn from our actions, and we develop as our community desires us to.

We are proud at Omnicom of the quality of work we do and the services that we provide. For we really are the product of our community — the needs, desires and wants of our neighbors are reflected in the programming and access to programming that we provide. We work within the guidelines of a contract entered into 10 years ago. Whereas some would adhere to the exact words of the contract and limit services provided, we have chosen to liberally interpret the contract and offer more services than are required.

It is with this in mind that I respond to the recent editorial saluting the creation of a Canton Cable Committee and encouraging Omnicom to provide service to the rural western sections of Canton. We are appreciative of the Committee and its willingness to channel citizen views about Omnicom to our attention. The 12 residents that have concerns should have their viewpoint considered. There are over 34,000 customers to our service, over 10,000 of whom are Canton residents. It is important that Omnicom and the Cable Committee work together to receive whatever input is offered.

Each year Omnicom, to ensure consumer satisfaction, surveys our subscribers. Ninety percent of the responses on our telephone survey are positive regarding the level and quality of service being received. This is, in large part, due to the efforts of our 60 employees, many of whom live in our local service area. But I also feel that it is a recognition that the community appreciates and supports many of our local activities, including 30 hours a week in local programming, with shows like Microwave Today, Wednesday Report: Live, and The Chamber Report.

The whole area of community programming is one that we take great pride in. Although our contract with the local community does not require a special number of local shows, or hours per week, we have strived to attain an average of 30 hours a week. Hundreds of your neighbors have received training in the use of a camera, editing and production work. Many have gone on to school with a head start in a communications education. Today, we have students from the High School Close Up program working as a production crew for one of our locally produced shows. Valuable lessons are learned that will pay dividends for many years down the road, and an unspoken benefit in having Omnicom Cablevision working in the community.

In referring to our contract it is important to note that Omnicom is not required to provide service to areas with less than 70 houses per mile. It is the policy of Omnicom to provide service to areas that have as few as 40 homes per mile. Once again, as with local programming, this is an area that Omnicom exceeds our minimum contractual obligation. It is significant to note the cost of running cable is approximately $20,000 a linear mile.

Omnicom feels very much a part of our local community. We appreciate the support given us by residents. We also want to ensure that all residents have their voices heard. The Canton Cable Committee has our complete and total support. We appreciate the willingness of the Observer Newspaper to promote the use of the committee.

We will continue to provide services, like the 26 hours of live Fall Festival coverage, and the full coverage of the Canton Challenge Festival. We will continue to make decisions like service availability to new neighborhoods in a businesslike manner in order to make sure that the cost of service is not driven up prohibitively.

Should any of the residents of our community have questions, concerns, or ideas about local programming, please do feel free to call me at 459-7300.

Lisa Boland is general manager of Omnicom.

In addition to unlimited medical and rehab benefits, Michigan's No-fault also provides three-years' worth of wage-loss benefits and allows those with "permanent serious disfigurement or serious impairment of body function" to maintain negligence action against the driver at fault for the injury.

Last December, state Sen. Dick Posthumus and state Rep. Paul Wartner simultaneously introduced reform legislation aimed at "disproportionately high" no-fault premiums for collision and comprehensive coverage. Earlier this year, Posthumus, chair of the senate Commerce and Technology Committee, conducted public hearings, summarizing findings in a report last April.

"Michigan's no-fault auto insurance system is probably the best in America," the report begins. Other points contained in it and underlined by Posthumus are:

- "Despite having the most generous no-fault benefits in the nation, Michigan has continuously experienced low average premiums."
- "Michigan's auto insurers are experiencing among the lowest profits in the nation."
- "Loss ratios for auto insurance (the percent of premium dollars going back in the form of claims payments) have been consistently and significantly higher in Michigan than in the rest of the nation."
- "This means that Michigan is returning among the highest percentage of premium dollars back to injured victims of any state in the nation."

IN CONCLUSION, the report said, "We need to examine whether mandatory unlimited benefits, forced upon consumers without options to reduce their premium costs, are justifiable and appropriate when insurance costs are ever increasing." Reducing personal injury protection to $250,000 could, the report suggests, save the consumer "as much as $48.12 annually."

The proposal, Miller said, is "60 pages of a virtual wish list for the insurance industry. Not a single reform is favored by consumer groups." And, he added, it is unlikely the proposed changes will significantly lower insurance premiums.

The issue was discussed in a recent issue of the Michigan Head Injury Alliance. "We believe the estimated cost savings by reducing benefits cannot justify the potential loss of necessary medical, therapeutic and cognitive services that are required to complete the rehabilitation process," the article said.

Meanwhile, Babiak, a victim of violent crime a decade ago, now resides in a full care facility, paid for by Medicaid and Social Security Disability. His condition continues to decline. He still receives no rehab therapy, according to his mother.

"It's hard," she said, not to both envy and resent those lucky enough to qualify for the generous and life-giving benefits of no-fault, a cruel circumstance forced upon the injured by something as insignificant as the circumstances of their accident.

And now, even that may be threatened.

Phone call puts bread on needy's table

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Creative fund-raising by the nation's largest food program is apt to generate significant contributions. It is also certain to create good will among donors participating in an easy-to-give program.

Second Harvest, a private agency that provides food for 184 national food banks and some 40,000 charities, is relying on the telephone in a unique effort to raise money called Partners Against Hunger.

Donors may dial a Hunger Information Line, 1-900-468-GIVE, and presto, Second Harvest receives a $5 cash donation. The charge is reflected in the caller's next monthly telephone bill.

The 900 number is sponsored by Home Pride bread, a product of Continental Baking. The firm is also donating a nickel from each loaf of bread sold during November.

"We have long contributed surplus bread to feed the hungry," said Robert Heiss, a Southfield resident who manages the Wayne County Continental Baking facility.

Cash contributions are used by Second Harvest to purchase surplus food, transport donated food and store non-perishable stock, according to James Gonyea, president of Gleaners Community Food Bank, a Detroit-based operation that relies on food donations from Second Harvest.

"OUR TAG LINE is turning surplus food into a plus for the hungry," said Gonyea, whose organization receives some two million pounds of food annually from Second Harvest. Gleaners distributes the food to 180 agencies in Wayne, Oakland and five additional counties.

The Newburgh Baptist Church in Westland is one such recipient. This year, church members expect to distribute 50,000 pounds of food, according to the Rev. Jerry Kruckow.

"We primarily distribute to the walking wounded in the suburbs,"

Donors may dial a Hunger Information Line, 1-900-468-GIVE, and presto, Second Harvest receives a $5 cash donation. The charge is reflected in the caller's next monthly telephone bill.

Kruckow said. By "walking wounded," he means the working poor, people who are employed but unable to make ends meet.

Assisting Kruckow in his distribution efforts are two volunteers from the Westland Job Bank, Don Toor and Sherard Westbrook. Both men, receiving salaries from General Motors, are temporarily laid off from work. In the interim, they volunteer fulltime for no pay with the church food program.

Villa Maria, a home for senior citizens in Livonia, also receives food, primarily canned goods, breads and pastries.

"The donations are very helpful, especially the bread. Older people seem to love their bread. And their pastry," said Sister Lucille. "Every little bit helps."

To do your bit during the holidays, consider a telephone 900 donation of contribute directly to Gleaners Food Bank. For more information, call 923-3535.

Stuffed? Help the hungry

With Thanksgiving warmly tucked behind our belt buckles and buttons, the last of that turkey carcass picked clean and hopefully thrown into a stock pot for soup, did you ever stop to think what it would be like to stand in line, hoping and praying that the agency providing your only warm meal of the day wouldn't run out of turkey, gravy, stuffing and potatoes?

As you search through the cupboards looking for that can of cranberry sauce hidden behind the bulging shelves of soup, taco shells, canned vegetables and cereal boxes, were you aware that there are thousands of people, many in our own neatly landscaped backyards, who open their cupboards only to find a bag of USDA-packaged cornmeal and an occasional can of evaporated milk?

The facts are astounding. With many community agencies feeling budgets cuts, the rolls continually expand with families requesting assistance. Maybe it was a temporary layoff, a sudden turn of bad luck or even an unexpected medical emergency that tapped a family's food budget. Whatever the reasons, there are people going to bed hungry.

Fortunately, there are agencies like the folks from Gleaners Community Food Bank who assist folks with bare cupboards. It might be the mom (or dad) with two kids struggling on ADC who need their help. Maybe it's the senior citizen who lives down your street who purchases only day-old bread and past-prime produce from your local supermarket. It could even be that shelter for battered women and children who gathered around their Thanksgiving table wondering if they will ever get a chance to return to a normal lifestyle.

SOME FOLKS need help, and as a nation with bulging cupboards, it's up to us to lend a hand. The scenarios of people needing help are as long and varied as our income tax forms.

It becomes increasingly easy to sit back and say that it's not our problem. But it is. We write checks every week to our church. Heck, there's even a payroll deduction now for contributions to the United Fund. But these funds can only go so far.

At a recent visit to my city hall, I noticed a rather large display of brochures from the Gleaners Community Food Bank requesting that I buy a case of food to help feed the hungry. The brochure sat on my desk for a few days, and when it became time to do the weekly sorting, I found it and took a few minutes to see just what my donation would buy.

If you read this column and enjoyed a bountiful Thanksgiving table with your friends and family, why not take a few extra minutes right now to do something for those not so fortunate?

Please share your bounty this season with a gift of food for those in need. Send your tax-deductible check, payable to Gleaners Community Food Bank, and help provide the more than 155,000 meals that go to the needy every week in our area. Here's an idea of what your donation can provide:

- $8.76 for a case of Welch's fruit juice
- $10.82 buys a case of Freshlike green beans
- $11.60 gets a case of Campbell's chicken noodle soup
- $14.88 stocks a cupboard with Castleberry's beef stew
- $17.89 opens a case of Velvet peanut butter
- $20.44 spreads a case of Ragu spaghetti sauce.

Send your donation to:
Gleaners Community Food Bank, 2131 Beaufait, Detroit 48207, or you can phone 923-3535.

Appetite- whetters

Combine dunks, tops, forms and wraps

WITH THE INFLUX of holiday parties, open houses and office get-togethers, today's busy cook is always in search of new ideas, suggestions and tips to make his or her holiday entertaining easy and enjoyable.

Unfortunately for most party-throwers, this will be another season filled with the all-too-typical marinated meatballs, spinach dip in hollowed-out bread and the ever-present cheese balls.

Isn't it about time someone came up with some nouveau holiday appetizers that will have your guests calling out for more? If you have ever found yourself still slaving over the entree while your spouse passes the onion dip and crackers to your guests in the other room, you might want to rip out this story and utilize it for an upcoming holiday party.

Hors d'oeuvres are a versatile food category, representing pure luxury and indulgence as well as the opportunity for a tremendous variety of stimulating tastes. Almost any dish can be made into an appetizer simply by miniaturizing it. On the other hand, you also will find that many appetizer recipes can be turned into entrees with the addition of a simple sauce and rice or pasta.

IN ORDER TO plan a great hors d'oeuvres party, you need to remember a few minor categories. The best appetizer table is simply just that, an appetizer, something to enjoy before dining. Too many pre-dinner palate pleasers spell catastrophe to a dinner party.

If you are planning on serving dinner, keep the "apps" light and varied. If, on the other hand, you want to put out a spread Henry VIII would relish, remember there will be little need for exotic salads, heavy pasta dishes and exorbitantly priced meats and seafoods.

The best appetizer table has a mixture of dunks, tops, forms and wraps. The dunks should consist of a mixture of relish selections with appropriate dips. The tops can be an assortment of spreads, some hot, some cold, that can be piped onto crackers, spread onto party breads and then strategically placed on the tabletop.

The forms can be molds of pate, terrines concocted in simple breadpans and mousses adorning the most delicate molds. The wraps can be a mixture of stuffed vegetables, stuffed wrappers, croustades, phyllo and puff pastry.

And with everything we do in life, there are a few rules that should always be followed, regardless of what our moms have preached for decades. First, try to remember that throwing a party should be fun. Mommas through the centuries have instilled in our minds that hosts and hostesses must constantly be running around like the proverbial chicken with its head cut off, making sure that everything is just right and that the old adage "What's the matter. Don't you like my food?" coupled with the "Eat. It will make me feel better." is the only way to throw a party.

CONTRARY TO what you and I have been taught, it's okay to enjoy your own party. The best host or hostess makes the best guest list, incorporating a melange of interesting folks who, by themselves, will keep the party going.

Suggestion number two has been practiced by the experienced partygiver for decades. Plan the hors d'oeuvres so that as much can be done in advance as possible. No one likes it when their host or hostess is secluded in a hot kitchen for hours on end. Remember, it's your party and you can enjoy it too.

If your culinary talents equal those of your car maintenance abilities, try to understand that your guests are not coming with rating cards tucked under their armpits.

Here are recipes for one of each

A great dunk

- 1 pound bacon, cooked until crisp
- 3 tomatoes, peeled and seeded
- 1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 1 tablespoon Dijon-styled mustard
- 1/4 cup green onions, chopped
- 1/4 cup parsley, minced
- Dash hot pepper sauce

Drain bacon and cool. Combine remaining ingredients in a food processor and process until chunky. This can be prepared up to 2 days in advance and refrigerated. Serve with corn chips, tortillas, crackers or melbas. If there are any leftovers, hollow out a baked potato and heat throughout for a great side dish.

ROASTED GARLIC DECADENCE

A superb top

- 6 large bulbs garlic
- 4 tablespoons cream sherry
- 8 ounces chevre (goat cheese)

You'll be over the moon with La Luna Grancaffè

Most of the current crop of Italian restaurants are stiffer than uncooked spaghetti. Overdressed waitpeople serve overdressed pasta — often not as good as you could make at home — at overdressed prices.

Pasta is supposed to be fun, we've always thought. Attacking a dish of angel hair should be an unrefined sort of quest, slurpy and sloppy, embarked upon in the same spirit that one chows down on barbecued ribs.

We have some soul mates at La Luna Grancaffè, a big-hearted place that is loud in atmosphere, emphatic in food and yet sentimental in style, a light opera sort of restaurant right in downtown Birmingham, which could stand a little Fellini-izing anyway.

La Luna's pizza comes in two sizes — the eight-inch "mezza luna" and the 14-inch "fulla moon." Starting with a thin, crispy crust, the restaurant then adds genuine ingredients (real ricotta and mozzarella, not the reduced calorie, rubber versions). The moon pie pizza is great, topped as it is with cheeses, a good marinara sauce, trendy but tasty sun-dried tomatoes, pine nuts and fresh basil.

Pasta dishes are the real thing too. What a difference pure olive oil and fresh ingredients make. The Capellini Rosellini featuring shrimp and scallops tossed with angel hair pasta, garlic, butter and white wine is outstanding.

ON THE MENU, the specialties include Tortellini di Jackolantini (pumpkin pasta) and another pasta dish, Penne from Heaven (chicken, shrimp and broccoli sauteed with olive oil, garlic, sun-dried tomatoes and crushed red pepper).

Wisecracks are a decor theme, like the legend, "She shot for the moon, but ended up with him" on the espresso list (sorry, no liquor license), the statement "When the moon hit their eye like a big pizza pie, it wasn't amore, but it was good" on the menu, and the immortal logo, "To La Moon, Alicia," over the coffee bar.

It may take daring to open a restaurant without a liquor license these days, but La Luna undauntingly has substituted an international list of mineral waters, sparkling juices and no-alcohol beers and wines. Premium coffee abounds as well. Try the espresso with biscuits dipped in Gayle's chocolate.

Details: La Luna Grancaffè, 183 N. Woodward, Birmingham, 642-7070.

Hours: Monday-Thursday 5-9 p.m., Friday-Saturday 5-11 p.m.

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

La Luna offers Salsiccie e Polenta (sausage and polenta with roasted red pepper sauce) and Penne from Heaven (chicken, shrimp, broccoli, garlic, sun-dried tomatoes and penne noodles).

Lunch hours are planned. Carryout available. No reservations.

Prices: $4.75 for small pizza to $13.50 for full meal. All major credit cards.

Value: Tremendous food in an appropriate price range.

Cut the tops off the garlic bulbs, leaving the root intact (all cloves should be exposed). Place the bulbs in a baking dish and brush with oil to prevent burning. Fill baking dish half full with water. Bake at 250 degrees until cloves are soft, about 1 hour. (Chef's suggestion: The warm bulbs can now be placed on small dishes with sliced french bread and served as a garlic spread, if desired.) To make the decadence, squeeze the garlic cloves out of their wrappers into a food processor or blender. Combine with remaining ingredients and blend until smooth. Serve with assorted crackers, bread or toast points. For an interesting variation, try stirring in 1/4 cup chopped pecans or almonds. If you have leftovers, add some cream and make a great sauce for chicken, shish-kebabs or grilled fish.

BAKED SAUSAGE AND NUT TERRINE

An outstanding mold

2 tablespoons butter
1/4 pound Italian sausage
1/4 pound ham, minced
1/4 cup walnuts, chopped
1/4 pound frozen spinach, thawed

1 onion, chopped fine
2 teaspoons garlic, chopped fine
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup parsley, chopped
1 egg
1/4 cup seasoned bread crumbs
1 pound bacon
1 bay leaf

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Sauté the onions and garlic in 2 tablespoons butter to soften. Press all the excess moisture out of the spinach. Combine with onion-garlic mixture and puree in blender or processor till smooth. Combine with sausage, 2 tablespoons butter, parsley, egg and bread crumbs. Mix well. Stir in walnuts. Line a bread pan with bacon strips. Fill the pan with the mixture and top with bay leaf and more bacon strips.

Top with foil and a lid, or 3 layers of foil if no lid is available. Place the pan in another pan of hot water that reaches halfway up the sides of the bread pan and place in a preheated 350-degree oven for 1 hour. This can be prepared 4 days in advance and refrigerated. Serve with thin-sliced cucumbers, party breads, assorted mustards and pumpernickle squares.

ARTICHOKE HEART AND 3-CHEESE PUFF PASTRIES

A dynamite wrap

Two 6-ounce jars marinated artichoke hearts, drained
1/4 cup feta cheese
1 cup Monterey Jack cheese, grated
1/4 cup ricotta cheese
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 cup parsley, minced
Olive oil to taste
Salt, pepper and dillweed to taste
1 package puff pastry dough, defrosted

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Chop the artichoke hearts and mix well with all remaining ingredients except puff pastry. Cut one sheet of the puff pastry into 2-inch squares. Fill with a heaping tablespoon of the mixture. Wrap pastry dough around filling and place seam side down on a lightly greased cookie sheet. Brush with olive oil and bake at 400 degrees for 10-15 minutes or until golden. Serve hot.

You can assemble these 1 day in advance. Chopped, cooked shrimp or crabmeat can be added, if desired. Use leftover filling to make big pastries and serve with meat, fish or chicken as a side dish.

Sugar can be good for you

Sweet-tasting treats have been a source of pleasure for people for thousands of years.

Egyptian hieroglyphics described candy making more than 4,000 years ago. The Greeks combined flour with honey and fruits to make their candy while the ancient Chinese boiled a sweetened barley-and-water mixture to make the early version of hard candy.

Sugar is not just for candy and sweet treats but is used for a variety of products. Sugar continues to be attacked from all sides and blamed for a multitude of health problems. But, just like everything else, moderation is the key. Overindulgence of anything can be harmful to your body and health. Sugar consumed wisely can be enjoyable and beneficial.

During digestion, sugar is eventually broken down into simple sugars like glucose. Glucose enters the bloodstream and is carried to the cells where it is used for energy. Sugar is a simple carbohydrate and the most readily available form of energy that your body uses. Chemically, sugars are divided into three main groups: Monosaccharides, a simple single sugar; Disaccharides, a combination of two simple sugars, and Polysaccharide, many simple sugars strung together.

SUGAR HAS many names, as there are more than 100 sweet substances called sugar. Commonly found names are fructose, glucose, lactose, maltose and sucrose. Learn to read food labels to identify sugar and other sweeteners.

These other sweeteners appear on labels not only as sucrose but as dextrose, corn syrup, honey, molasses, maple syrup, brown sugar, corn sweeteners and invert sugar. Sugar is home economist, Cooperative Extension Service sugar, and the various forms are all four calories per gram and have no nutritional benefit one over the other, with the possible exception of molasses.

Breads, canned and dried soup, spaghetti sauce and TV dinners are just a few of the foods to which sugar has been added. The reason is that sugar makes food taste good. Sugar is used in food preservation by addition during canning to increase firmness, discourage browning and add flavor. Large amounts of sugar prevents bacteria from growing in many products such as jam and jelly.

Sugar has a tenderizing effect on baked products, as it acts to change the protein in flour and egg white so it will not toughen during cooking. Sugar absorbs and holds moisture, so it prevents breads, cakes, pastries and other baked goods from drying out, thus prolonging shelf life.

Sugar turns a dark brown when heated and adds to the browning of baked foods. When fat and sugar are creamed together, air is incorporated into the mixture for a lighter product. Sugar also serves as food for the yeast breads to make the product rise.

WHEN YOU THINK of chocolate cake and the approximate 15 teaspoons of sugar per piece you may want to alter your recipe. Use recipes that require smaller amounts of sugar or sweeteners or reduce the amount. Cut back slowly on sugar with high-rising cakes and yeast breads; they need sugar for texture and height. In cookies, sugar contributes sweetness, makes the dough easier to spread and adds crispness. Replace some of the sweetness with flavorings such as cinnamon, vanilla, ginger, cloves, allspice, almond or peppermint.

Sugar has many other useful roles such as in leather tanning, textile sizing, charcoal briquettes, tire patches and shoe polish. Surprisingly, sugar also helps the cement industry. Sucrose is added when a slow-setting concrete or cement is needed. Soaking timber in a sucrose solution is believed to prevent shrinkage of wood. Clean your hands by rubbing sugar on them to remove grease, or add a little sugar to fresh-cut flowers to prolong their life.

In some areas even the medical community is using sugar for its healing powers on burns.

Sugar is very versatile. However, we mainly think of it as something sweet to eat. When sugary foods make up a large portion of your daily calories intake, they may be replacing other foods which have more nutrients. Be careful. Consume sweetened foods in moderation after you have included adequate servings from the basic food groups and you can still afford extra calories.

clarification

The Monday, Nov. 19, Taste Buds column on making homemade liqueurs by Chef Larry Janes should have included the following information:

• Glycerin, for smoothness, is readily available at all Kitchen Glamour stores and most major cake decorating stores. Average price: $2.50.

• Pure grain alcohol, as called for in one of the recipes, is not available in Michigan because of proof restrictions. Nearest source: Product called "Ever-Clear," available in Chicago liquor marts. Chef's suggested alternative for recipe: Vodka or any unflavored clear alcohol.

The recipe for Spicy Cranberry Sauce, with Geri Rinschler's article on cranberries in the Monday, Nov. 19, issue should have specified 2 1/2 cups dark brown sugar, not two 1/2 cups.

Some kids won't get beans for Christmas.

In this season of joy and good cheer, it's hard to believe that there are children who will go hungry this Christmas. For the Salvation Army, it is not at all unimaginable. But it is unacceptable. We want every child-and every adult-to have a special Christmas meal. That's why our staff and volunteers spend countless hours distributing and preparing food for the needy during the holidays. And we will continue to provide food, shelter and clothing in the cruel months to come. Your donations make it possible for us to help. Making a donation during the Christmas season may not be easy. But imagine what would happen if you didn't.

Forget about turkey; try microwave lasagna

This week, I thought I might spare you from the "Oh, no, not turkey again!" syndrome hitting many houses each year after Thanksgiving, by presenting a Winner Dinner that does not make use of any left-over turkey.

With that goal in mind, I selected Ray Schneider's recipe for easy microwave lasagna, which sounded like it would be just the ticket for all of you who are tired of talking as well as eating turkey.

A lifelong resident of Farmington, Schneider is a single parent and full-time dad of two grown children — a daughter who is a senior in high school and a son who is in his junior year at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. Schneider is a Wheel Project Engineer for Ford Motor Company, with a busy work schedule, but he always enjoys cooking and being with his children. A big supporter of the American Youth Hostel program, Schneider is on the board of directors of the local chapter and is very active in the sailing programs that they offer. He also enjoys tennis, biking and photography.

With his daughter involved in senior year activities, as well as in youth programs at their church, and a son who comes home often for food, car parts and advice, theirs is obviously a lively home. Schneider makes an effort to keep the meals he prepares for his family low in fat and not too calorific.

HE PARTICULARLY likes this recipe for lasagna as it is quickly and easily prepared. Once it has been baked and cooled, he often will cut it up into individual serving sizes, put it in plastic wrap and freeze for another meal, or for his son to take back to school.

Thank you, Ray Schneider, for your wonderful recipe, and congratulations on being this week's Winner Dinner Winner. I also would like to thank Peggy Stickney, a close friend of Schneider's, for so thoughtfully sending a letter suggesting that her friend's menu be considered for use in this column.

On a final note, as well as being a festive time of the year, the holiday season is also a time of traditions. If you have a favorite meal that you always serve to your family and friends, please take a few minutes to jot down your recipes and send them my way. After all, it is most appreciated to give the gift of love... and Winner Dinners!

RAY'S EASY MICROWAVE LASAGNA

You will dazzle your family with the speed in which you can put this delicious dish on the table. It is easily prepared ahead of time and kept in the refrigerator until dinner. If there is any left over, cut it up into individual servings, put in plastic wrap and freeze for another meal. This recipe serves 6-8. One very important note: before you assemble this, make sure the baking dish you use fits into your microwave oven.

9 Lasagna noodles (uncooked)
32-ounce jar spaghetti sauce
Oregano — to taste
Ground pepper — to taste
1/4 pound ground beef or ground turkey (this recipe also works using no meat at all)
16-ounce container low-fat cottage cheese
1 egg
8-12 ounces shredded mozzarella cheese

Brown the meat and drain it well. Mix the spaghetti sauce, oregano and pepper together and heat thoroughly. Put just enough sauce in a 9-by-13-inch pan to cover the bottom. Place three uncooked noodles side by side on top of the sauce. Mix the egg with the cottage cheese and layer that on next. Place three more uncooked noodles on top of the cottage cheese mixture. Sprinkle all the mozzarella cheese on, next. Put on three more uncooked noodles. Spread the rest of the sauce on top and cover with plastic wrap. Using a sharp knife, make little vents in the plastic wrap.

Bake in the microwave oven for 8 minutes on high. Bake for 30 minutes on medium low. Let set for a minute and serve. If using a conventional oven, cook until the noodles are cooked through, approximately 1 hour to 1 hour 15 minutes.

CARROT AND CELERY STICKS

Make up a relish tray with cut-up carrot and celery sticks. It's quick, easy and very nutritious.

FRUIT SALAD

This is so easy that the kids can help make it. Cut up any kind of your favorite fruit and mix it with an 8-ounce container of your favorite yogurt.

Shopping List

1 box lasagna noodles (recipe calls for 9 noodles)
32-ounce jar spaghetti sauce (be sure to buy this size rather than a 28-ounce jar as it really makes a difference)
1/4 pound ground beef or ground turkey
16-ounce container low-fat cottage cheese
1 egg
8 to 12-ounce bag of shredded mozzarella cheese
Oregano
Ground pepper
Carrots
Celery
Your choice of fruit for the fruit salad
8-ounce container of your favorite yogurt

Notes

Chocolate cookies taste of summer strawberries

AP — Bake a batch of chocolate cookies with a strawberry-flavored filling. They have the strawberry sweetness of summer, and can be baked any time of the year.

FILLED CHOCOLATE COOKIES

Creamy Strawberry Filling (recipe follows)

1 1/4 cups butter or margarine (2 1/2 sticks), softened
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
3 cups all-purpose flour
3/4 cup cocoa
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk

Prepare Creamy Strawberry Filling, refrigerate. Heat oven to 350 degrees.

In a large mixer bowl beat butter, sugar, eggs and vanilla until light and fluffy. In separate bowl, combine flour, cocoa, baking soda and salt; add alternately with milk to butter mixture, beating until mixture is well blended. Drop by slightly heaping tablespoonfuls onto an ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 11 to 13 minutes or just until cookies are puffed and soft-set. Remove from cookie sheet to wire rack; cool completely. Spread bottom of one cookie with about 1 tablespoon filling; cover with another cookie. Repeat with remaining cookies and filling. Makes about 2 1/2 dozen filled cookies.

CREAMY STRAWBERRY FILLING
One 8-ounce container soft cream cheese with strawberries
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
Dash salt
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 tablespoon strawberry spreadable fruit

1 pound powdered sugar (about 3 3/4 cups)
Red food coloring (optional)

In small mixer bowl beat cream cheese and butter. Add salt, vanilla and spreadable fruit; beat until blended. Gradually beat in powdered sugar. Stir in food coloring if desired. Makes about 2 cups filling.

In separate bowl, combine flour, cocoa, baking soda and salt; add alternately with milk to butter mixture, beating until mixture is well blended.

Tasting Muer choices for his private label

Wine and food harmony is the most discussed topic in the American wine industry today.

This is not a new phenomenon for Chuck Muer. He has been matching his food offerings with the world's finest wines in his restaurants for 25 years. The American seafood lover can benefit from this quarter-century of experience in 16 Chuck Muer restaurants in Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Florida and Washington, D.C.

At the Charley's Crab restaurants in Troy and Grand Rapids, the Gandy Dancer in Ann Arbor and the River Crab in St. Clair, diners can sample about 10 wines by the glass or order from the extensive wine list. To celebrate his 25th anniversary in the restaurant business, Muer organized a tasting panel to select a chardonnay and cabernet sauvignon for private labeling under the Muer Cellars brand.

The 25th anniversary Chardonnay is the 1988 Jefferson Ranch Chardonnay produced by Napa Valley's Monticello Vineyards. The 25th Anniversary Cabernet Sauvignon is the 1986 Jefferson Cuvee Cabernet Sauvignon, also from Monticello. Both wines are $5.25 by the glass or $20.75 per 750mL bottle.

Because price is always an issue, we are pleased to say that, in the main across the wine list, prices are approximately twice wholesale. With some restaurants in this country charging three times retail, the Chuck Muer restaurants receive our applause on their wine-pricing policy.

"THE CHARDONNAY is a perfect complement to our many fresh fish and seafood offerings," Muer says. "The cabernet matches superbly with our New Zealand rack of lamb, filet mignon or London Broil."

To test Muer's remarks, we paid a visit to Charley's Crab in Troy for an extensive wine and food pairing from the regular dinner menu and current wine list.

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

1989 Michigan's L. Mawby Vineyards Vignoles ($10) has been referred to as Michigan chardonnay because of its rich pineapple, pear and tropical fruit accents. Clean and slightly steely flavors are perfect for oysters or clams on the half shell.

restaurants have the same wine list," says Bill Young, dining room manager at Charley's Crab in Troy. "Chuck allows the wine director and general sales manager at each location to make wine purchases based on clientele demographics. As an example, Alsace Rieslings are more expensive and appear on only some lists."

About 90 percent of wine sales are white wines. Of that, 60 percent is chardonnay, 30 percent is German and 10 percent are other available whites, with sauvignon blanc in the lead.

"Chuck Muer restaurant staff is educated once each month on wines currently on the list and wines under consideration," Young says. "Wine and food harmonies for approximately 20 wines are discussed at each training session."

THE 25TH ANNIVERSARY Chardonnay is a delicate wine that may be paired with lake trout, perch or any of the usually available white-fish.

A 1987 Hanna Chardonnay and a delightful 1988 Zind-Humbrecht Silvaner matched with nearly every dish including the fried calamari and fried smelt with Dijon-mustard dipping-sauce appetizers. It could even handle paella with spicy sausage.

While Muer paired the 25th anniversary Cabernet Sauvignon with lamb and steaks, we found it to be a perfect red wine with fish — a match that has to be tried to be believed. It complemented swordfish, bluefish and perked up the spicy elements in the perennial favorite, crabcakes.

During the coming holiday season, enjoy the last month of the Chuck Muer restaurants' 25th anniversary celebration, with the specially selected wines displayed near the raw bar. For a unique holiday gift, both wines are attractively packaged in a basket for takeout.

Recipes for 'Little Cooks'

UNICEF again is offering "The Little Cooks," an illustrated step-by-step 80-page cookbook for children.

The book includes 36 international recipes using everyday foods, as well as hints for healthy eating and kitchen safety. It has a built-in easel stand and laminated pages for easy, wipe-clean care.

The book costs $11 and is available during daytime hours through Thursday, Dec. 20, at the Community House at Bates and Townsend streets in Birmingham; from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday through Dec. 23 at the UNICEF Holiday Store, 3171 Union Lake Road, in Union Lake; and year-round at the International Institute in Detroit.

ORANGE CAKE From Portugal For 6 people

4 eggs
1 stick softened butter
1 cup superfine sugar
1 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 large oranges

For the Sauce
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup water

Separate the egg whites from the yolks; beat yolks with the butter. Add superfine sugar and beat again. Pour in flour as well as baking powder and stir. Beat the egg whites until stiff. Fold them carefully into the cake mixture. Add the grated peel of two oranges to the cake mixture. Pour the mixture into a buttered cake pan. Bake the cake in a medium oven (350 degrees) for 45 minutes. As soon as it is baked, remove it from the pan and cool on a cake rack. Boil the water and sugar for 5 minutes; meanwhile squeeze juice from the two oranges. Take the pan off the heat and add the orange juice. Pour the mixture over the lukewarm cake.

Offering 'A Taste of Michigan'

"A Taste of Michigan," a new cookbook published by the Michigan Restaurant Association, is a collection of more than 200 recipes from member restaurants throughout the state.

The cookbook also includes information on each contributing restaurant and a section on wines. The book was designed to highlight Michigan products and also the many fine restaurants and chefs in the state.

Gift stores, and book stores (including Walden's and B. Dalton's) throughout Michigan carry the cookbook, as well as a number of restaurants. The spiral-bound, soft-cover "A Taste of Michigan" also is available from the MRA by sending a check or money order for $12.50 plus $1.50 for shipping and handling to: MRA Cookbook, 200 N. Washington Square, Suite 10, Lansing 48933.

The MRA has been in existence since 1921 and promotes excellence in hospitality. Its more than 5,000 member locations are represented from the association's headquarters in Lansing.

A few of the cookbook's recipes, chosen from area restaurants, follow:

STUFFED MUSHROOMS WITH CRABMEAT

Appetizer for 12

2 pounds large fresh mushrooms (approximately 36 pieces)
 1/4 cup butter
 1 pound crabmeat (king, blue or backfin), picked free of cartilage
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
 1 hard-boiled egg, chopped
 2 tablespoons sour cream
 1/2 cup mayonnaise
 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
 Few drops Tabasco

1 teaspoon lemon juice
 Salt and pepper to taste

Wash mushrooms (do not soak). Break stems off (use stems for other purposes). In a skillet, melt the butter, add caps and saute till they turn gray. Strain off juice and let mushrooms cool (save juice for soup or sauce).

Chop crabmeat if necessary. Mix with rest of ingredients by hand. Fill into mushroom caps. Arrange caps on a baking sheet. Bake approximately 20-30 minutes (depending on their temperature) in 375-degree oven.

The Golden Mushroom, Southfield

PINCONNING CHEESE SOUP

Yield: 4-6 servings

4 slices bacon chopped medium
 1 cup onion chopped fine
 1/4 cup celery chopped fine
 1/4 cup carrot chopped very fine
 3 tablespoons flour
 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
 1/2 teaspoon white pepper
 4 cups chicken broth
 1 cup half and half
 1 pound Pinconning cheese grated
 3 tablespoons parsley chopped fine

Cook bacon in skillet and render. Using slotted spoon, remove bacon from grease and set aside. Saute onion, celery and carrots in bacon drippings until tender (approximately 10 minutes). Add flour and seasonings. Cook, stirring, for approximately 2 minutes. Add chicken broth. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes. Stir in half and half and grated cheese. Cook until cheese is melted. Add chopped parsley and mix well.

Ready to serve.

NOTE: Use of Pinconning cheese made in Michigan.

CENTER CUT PORK CHOPS WITH MUSTARD CIDER SAUCE

Yield: 4

4 lean center cut pork chops (8-9 ounces each)
 1 clove of garlic crushed
 4 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard
 1 cup apple cider or apple juice
 1 tablespoon butter

Compote

3 large Michigan red apples, not peeled, core and cut in wedges
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 cup sherry
 1/2 cup brown sugar

1 cinnamon stick
 1 tablespoon butter

Rub pork chops with crushed garlic. Saute chops in skillet with butter until golden brown. Brush chops with mustard on both sides. Add cider. Cover with lid or aluminum foil. Cook in oven, turning occasionally until well done. To serve, put pork chops on heated plates. Reduce sauce. Season to taste and spoon over chops. Serve and garnish with apple wedges.

Compote: Saute apples in butter and lemon juice. Add sugar and cinnamon sticks. Add dry sherry and cook for a short period. Don't overcook.

Suggested Wine: Leelanau Cellars Chardonnay.

GOING UP THE STAIRS WITH ARTHRITIS OF THE KNEES

How much activity is proper if you have arthritis in the knee? Common sense tells you that if your knee joint is wearing out, the best way to preserve that joint is to put less wear on it. That logic is correct. However, humans are complicated and their activities cannot be guided by a single argument.

Doing less is helpful for the damaged knee joint, but deleterious to the whole body. To keep your lungs, heart and bowels intact, you need regular activity; the mind also requires the stimulation that activity brings. Thus, it may cause your knee to wear out faster if you climb stairs, but for the rest of your body parts, there is no better move.

Furthermore, advances in surgery come to your aid. Between arthroscopy, osteotomy, and knee arthroplasty, the orthopedic surgeon has a range of possible interventions. Repairing or replacing the knee is a reasonable possibility even if you are not in the best of health.

The same argument holds for the hip. Once it shows signs of wear, your best interests are to keep active until you can go on no more.

The movement of medical science has translated into a direct benefit for activity in your daily life.

'A' quarterfinals next stop for Salem

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Salem's greatest asset as it prepares for the next stage of the girls basketball tournament is its solid team play.

The Rocks gave another fine all-round performance Wednesday while crushing Monroe 70-48 and winning its first regional championship in three years.

"I thought our balance, depth and ability to go to a lot of different spots on the floor to score was the difference in the game," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "The fact we mesh together so well has really contributed to our success."

Salem (21-3) will need that kind of effort again Wednesday when it plays Niles (25-0) in the Class A quarterfinals at 7:30 p.m. at Jackson Lumen Christi High School. The Vikings defeated Howell 53-48 to win the Kalamazoo Central regional last week.

"I know they've won a lot of close games and play very well together," Thomann said. "They have a good left-handed shooter and great balance. All of their players score six to eight points a game."

THE ROCKS took control of their game late in the first quarter and combined sound defense, good ball movement and superior shooting to dominate Monroe.

Senior guard Betsy McAllister had her best scoring game since getting 19 points in the season opener, tossing in 16 to lead the Rocks.

Junior center Darcie Miller followed with 14 points, and senior wing Sarah Ruete and sophomore post Yolanda Jackson scored 12 apiece.

"We don't have a superstar on this team," McAllister said. "In every game, someone comes out and tonight it was me."

"I never thought I'd be on a team that was one of only eight left in the state, but if we keep playing with a team effort we can do it."

The Rocks set the tone early, making five of their last six shots in the first quarter and racing to a 16-6 lead. The fact Salem was 8-of-17 and the Trojans 3-of-12 in the opening period was a foreshadowing of things to come.

THAT TREND continued in the second quarter when the Rocks made six of their first nine attempts and built a 30-11 lead.

Monroe, having trouble with Salem's zone defense, settled for mostly perimeter shots and missed its first five. The Trojans were 2-of-13 before hitting four of five to end the quarter, trailing 36-20 at halftime.

"We wanted to push them outside and concentrate on their three-point shooters," Thomann said. "We didn't go to our pressure defense because we didn't want to give up easy scores."

That was Thomann's concern, however, early in the third quarter when he called a pivotal timeout.

Monroe's Stacy Bellestri had closed the first half with a triple, and teammate Carrie Montcalm sank another that got the Trojans within 38-25 at 6:03 in the third quarter.

"The fact they were answering our shots with three-pointers was the problem," Ruete said. "We had to make sure we knew where she was."

Following that stoppage of play, Salem ran off 12 consecutive points to create a 25-point gap. McAllister had six points in that period, 10 in the second half.

BELLESTRI'S 15 points, which included three triples, was tops for Monroe. Center Stephanie Stewart had 10 and Tiffany Sweet eight.

The Rocks led 54-32 entering the fourth quarter and found themselves in the fortunate situation of being assured a regional title well before the final buzzer.

"I think our court sense was better, passing the ball, working to get the shot," Ruete said. "They're a physical team and good rebounders. But as far as seeing the court we were better."

"I came in and played hard, because I knew it could have been the last game I'd play in high school. That's how I'm looking at all of these games."

Salem's dominance at the offensive end is reflected in the shooting stats. The Rocks overwhelmed Monroe, shooting 17-of-34 in the first half and 17-of-39 in the second for 47 percent overall. The Trojans were 9-of-30 and 10-of-27 for 33 percent.

But it was Salem's team play that caused that and was most encouraging in anticipation of a much tougher game Wednesday. Even with a solid lead, the Rocks kept reversing the ball for the open shot from the wing or pushing the ball up and dumping inside to the low post for an easy layup.

"We have worked real hard on that — our passing, catching and hitting the open player — and the hard work we've done over the course of the season is really paying off now," Thomann said.

"I thought we really played well together as a team. Our guard play was super, and our inside game was super. If we continue at that level, we have a chance to be successful in our next game."

JOHN DISCHER/staff photographer

Tight interior defense, like that played by Darcie Miller against Carrie Montcalm, frustrated Monroe and was a key to Salem winning the regional.

AA state champions!

Yoakam's punt return keys Shamrocks' title victory over King

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

The television cameras were rolling Saturday afternoon, so why not ask the question?

Hey, Jon Barbara, where are you headed, now that you and your Redford Catholic Central football teammates have captured the Class AA state title?

"We're going to Disney World," said Barbara, standing inside the Pontiac Silverdome press lounge after the Shamrocks 21-0 win over Detroit Martin Luther King.

Barbara, along with teammates Frank Yoakam and Arshon Stewart, broke out in laughter, and it's no wonder since the Shamrocks finally had a chance to relax. Capping a marvelous playoff run, CC won its first state title since 1979 and in the process avenged an earlier, 20-7 loss to King.

CC's defense ran its streak of scoreless quarters to eight and the Shamrocks offense scored on two drives and Yoakam's 58-yard punt return. CC has gone to the state finals three of the last four years — but for once the Shamrocks found a happy ending.

"Thirteen weeks is a long time to be playing and we didn't come here to lose," said Barbara, who gained 56 yards on 13 carries and scored two touchdowns. "They talked a lot in the paper and we kept our mouths shut, came out here and won. I was called up two years ago (from the junior varsity) for the state final (a loss to Traverse City) and saw how disappointed the seniors were. We didn't want that to happen to us."

KING, WHICH lost to Muskegon, 16-13, in last year's Class A final, finished at 12-1 overall. CC kicker Kerry Zavagnin pined King deep in its own territory with several long kickoffs and the Crusaders didn't help themselves with nine penalties and two interceptions.

Trailing 14-0 at halftime, the

Crusaders took the opening second half kickoff and marched to CC's 15-yard line before self-destructing. King lost 15 yards for clipping on the next play and on first-down and 22 from CC's 27, a pass thrown by quarterback quarterback Dwight Brown was intercepted by CC safety Mike Thomas.

Brown, who did not complete a pass in four attempts, was intercepted later in the half by CC defensive back Brett Walter. CC sacked Brown six times and limited the Crusaders to eight first downs and 111 yards in total offense.

CC Defensive ends Dave Dominick and Brian Chaney led the charge, recording two and 1½ sacks, respectively. The Shamrocks lost defensive tackle Gary Gurgold with a leg injury in the first half, but 6-foot, 210-pound junior Steve Paciorka filled in admirably.

"Our kids played tremendous defense," said CC coach Tom Mach. "We stressed intensity so we're real proud of them. At the start of the year we were looking for ends. It was the one place defensively we didn't know about. Dominick and Chaney really responded."

Linebacker Jeff Rees led CC with 16 tackles, while Dominick, Thomas and cornerback John Brand had eight each. Lineman Dan Gusoff and linebacker Karl Kowalyk were in on seven apiece.

"I THINK ON this day field position made a big difference," King coach James Reynolds said. "When you're backed up all day, it's tough. CC did what it had to do. We had to go 80 yards to do anything."

"Penalties don't help. We've been able to play over them all year, but as tough as today's game was, we were not able to play over them. I've seen CC all season and they were good when we played them but they're even better now."

The Shamrocks, who gained 103 of their 163 total yards by halftime, opened the scoring with a 14-play, 66-yard drive that ended with 9:57 left in the first half. Barbara capped the drive with a 2-yard run.

CC lined up for a field goal three plays earlier, but on fourth-down and four at the 18, King was called for encroachment — which gave the Shamrocks a first down at the 13. Keeping the drive alive earlier was a 22-yard pass from quarterback Jason Carr to Yoakam which brought the ball to King's 44.

Yoakam came up with an even bigger play midway through the quarter. Only a junior, Yoakam fielded a King punt at his own 42 and returned it for a touchdown and 14-0 lead with 7:14 left in the first half.

It was Yoakam's second punt return for a TD this season and it is the second-longest in state final game history. King's Gerald McBurrows had the last chance to get Yoakam at the Crusaders 14, but Yoakam managed to break free of his grasp.

"I SAW THE safety (McBurrows) and kicker coming at me but I had a nice block by Chaney that helped me out," Yoakam said. "I remember looking up at the start of the run and seeing Kowalyk and (Matt) Roney having no one left to block and immediately my eyes started getting bigger and I said 'I can take this one.'"

The Shamrocks finished the scoring with a six-play, 38-yard drive that ended with 11:32 remaining. Barbara's 1-yard run over right tackle and Zavagnin's third extra point gave the Shamrocks their final lead.

Defense proves point as CC gains revenge

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Football coaches like to say "Offense wins games, but defense wins championships."

That was never more true than Saturday when Redford Catholic Central shut down Detroit King 21-0 to win the Class AA championship in the Silverdome.

The Shamrocks stuffed King's potent offense, holding the Crusaders to 111 yards — all of it rushing — and all-state tailback Ed Davis to 96 net yards.

"Their coach said they had the best defense in the state," said CC defensive end Brian Chaney as he carried the championship trophy up the tunnel. "We wanted to prove him wrong, because we have the best defense."

"WE JUST focused on their whole offense. (Davis) was just in it, so we got him, too."

Chaney had one sack, helped on another, deflected a pass and chased quarterback Dwight Brown out of the pocket, which led to a King penalty when Brown passed beyond the line of scrimmage.

"This is my senior year and the last time playing for Catholic Central," Chaney said. "There's no better way to go out than with a state championship, and I did all I could to help win it."

Fellow senior Dave Dominick was the end on the other side of the CC defense, and he was just as instrumental in containing King's speed and preventing any big end runs.

"WE KNEW we had to win the line of scrimmage," said Dominick, who had eight tackles, including three (two sacks) for lost yardage. "We did that — and it was over. They had some big guys, but we just outplayed them."

The Shamrocks had a tradition for strong defense to uphold, but they also were driven by determination, having lost to the Crusaders 20-7 in the third week of the season.

"That was it right there," Dominick said. "We just had the will to win, to take it."

Senior defensive back Mike Thomas was playing in only his second full game, having missed a chunk of the season with an ankle injury, but he was another big contributor with eight tackles and an interception at the CC 12-yard line, stopping a King drive on the opening series of the second half.

"ANY TIME you come back from an injury and contribute to a state championship ball club, it's a feeling that just can't be compared," Thomas said.

"Earlier in the week, we set our goals for today. We planned on shutting them out, so we accomplished what we set out to do."

Senior linebacker Jeff Rees was the leading tackler with 16, but fellow backs Matt Roney, Brett Walter and John Brand all made big tackles either in the open field or in support of the line.

"It's a team thing, and that's how we played," Thomas said.

THE TEAM approach was evidenced in CC's depth when senior two-way tackle Gary Gurgold injured an ankle while making a first-half sack.

Dan Kelly went in at nose guard and Dan Gusoff replaced Gurgold at tackle. Senior two-way lineman Rob Sylvester moved from guard to tackle on offense, and Steve Paciorka took his place.

"We play intensely on every play, and we play as a team," Sylvester said. "We have a reputation for shutting down good backs — and Davis is a good back, but when you play as hard as we do on every down, that pretty much assures he's not going to get too many yards."

THE SHAMROCKS were 3-2 after losing to Detroit DePorres, but CC finished with eight straight wins and avenged both of its defeats.

"Winning today shows we are the best team in the state because we've beaten teams that are either state champs (Brother Rice) or in the state finals (DePorres)," Sylvester said.

Claar to play hoop for Chippewas

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

The phone call awoke Central Michigan University women's basketball coach Denise Davenport, but she didn't mind.

North Farmington senior guard Eve Claar had some news worth awaking for.

Claar tried and tried Tuesday night, but could not reach Davenport in Mount Pleasant until shortly after midnight. When they finally talked, Claar told her she was accepting a basketball scholarship to CMU.

Claar signed a letter of intent and sent it out Wednesday, the final day of the early signing period.

Davenport, talking Friday from her office, explained why she couldn't be reached earlier Tuesday.

"I WAS WAITING for Eve to call, but I have a cordless phone and the night before I turned it off inadvertently," Davenport said. "By the time I realized and turned it back on it was 11:20. I went to bed, thinking Eve would call in the morning. I was very, very happy she called."

For obvious reasons, Claar averaged 25 points and eight rebounds per game for the Raiders, a rebuilding team that finished 9-13 overall. Claar chose CMU over the University of Detroit.

"She (Davenport) stressed to me all week how much she needed me because she lost two other top guards that were on her list and she was kind of stuck," Claar said. "I sat down with my parents (Les and Helen) Tuesday night and weighed the good and bad points of both schools, and it turned out Central was the best place for me."

Claar visited U-D the weekend of Nov. 16-17 along with West Bloomfield guard Amira Danforth. The pair also visited CMU the first weekend of November.

Danforth, a point guard who sat out her entire senior year with a knee injury, signed a letter of intent last week with U-D.

"WE WOULD have loved to have both (Claar and Danforth), but we're glad to have at least one," Davenport said.

"We think Eve Claar is a very good all-around guard, but definitely her strength is her outside shot. She has one of the best outside jump shots I've seen in a high school player. Her footwork is excellent — when she catches the ball she's ready to shoot it. We made the decision in late August that Eve Claar is the guard we wanted."

Claar said Danforth's decision to attend U-D had no bearing on where she will attend school. The two played together last summer on the Metro Defenders AAU team, coached by West Bloomfield coach Ronna Greenberg.

"I would have loved to play with Amira," Claar said. "But she has a good head on her shoulders, and I'm sure she feels confident with her decision."

"I was leaning toward Central for a while week, but I think I was getting a little cold feet. With U-D being so close to home, I decided to give it a good look."

NORTH COACH Lance Davis calls Claar the best girls basketball player he has ever coached. Claar was responsible for nearly 70 percent of North's points and made 42 percent of her shots from three-point range.

All this despite facing gimmick defenses the entire year.

"Whenever we needed a basket or three-point shot, we could get one from Eve, and I don't think I'll ever have that luxury again," Davis said. "She's a very good shooter — I would think the best in the state — off the dribble or a pick."

"Eve is an outstanding student-athlete. Very quiet and nice off the court and gutty and hard-nosed at times on the court. She's very intense."

Claar, a 3.5 student who plans to major in business, was impressed by the coaching staff, players and a new state-of-the-art recreational center on CMU's campus.

CLAAR ALSO looks forward to not having to be the only option on offense with the Chippewas.

CMU finished 14-14 overall and in fifth place at 7-9 in the Mid-American Conference race a year ago. The Chippewas, with five starters returning, are expected to contend for the MAC title this season.

"This year I had to face two or three girls each night," Claar said. "At Central, I'll be surrounded by girls who can really play, and I won't have to be the focal point. I think my shooting is my strong point, but I have to work on defense to get ready for college."

SHARON LeMIEUX/staff photographer

Eve Claar, who averaged 25 points per game for the North Farmington girls basketball team, signed a letter of intent with Central Michigan.

Genrich paces club gymnasts

Gina Genrich of the Michigan Academy of Gymnastics in Westland earned first place on balance beam and second on vault at the Applefest Invitational on Nov. 11 in Flint.

The Genesee Valley Gymnastics Club sponsored the meet.

The Michigan Academy's Level 7 compulsory team consists of Lisa Blackmer and Zoe Yockey (Canton), Genrich (Detroit), Jana Stoyanovich (Dearborn Heights) and Anne Abramczyk (Dearborn).

Genrich, Stoyanovich and Abramczyk also qualified for the Level 7 state meet in January.

The Level 6 compulsory team had seven gymnasts qualify for state at the Applefest Invitational. They were Kristin Kosik and Rachel Potter (Canton), Beth Murray and Dahean Pazdan (Northville), Melissa Keller (Dearborn), Sara Stoyanovich (Dearborn Heights) and Christy Gunnis (Ann Arbor).

The Michigan Academy will be host for the 12th Annual Christmas Classic Dec. 7-9 at Eastern Michigan University.

More than 25 clubs from New Jersey, North Carolina, Tennessee, Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan will compete at all levels for team and individual awards.

For information on the meet call the Michigan Academy of Gymnastics at 721-4001 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily.

Shamrocks skate past Stevenson

By Ray Setlock
staff writer

Redford Catholic Central freshman goalie Michael Brusseau waved his hockey stick at the crowd Wednesday following the Shamrocks' non-league win over host Livonia Stevenson.

Brusseau was blushing and why not? His steady goaltending helped give the Shamrocks a 5-1 win over the Spartans before a big crowd at Edgar Arena.

"I was real nervous at the beginning of the game," said Brusseau. "But after the first couple of saves I think that I settled down."

Opening night nervousness was evident, as neither team scored in the first period.

"It was the first game and your always going to be nervous," CC captain Jesse Hubenschmidt said. "But we settled down."

hockey

THE SHAMROCKS got comfortable by reeling off five straight goals.

Just 53 seconds into the second period, CC junior forward Paul Schloss shot the puck past Stevenson goalie Mike Williams, giving the Shamrocks a 1-0 advantage.

Sophomore forward Bill Bakki then whistled home a wrist shot at the 2:34 mark of the second period, giving CC a 2-0 lead.

"I was real happy with the way our team played," CC coach John Gumbleton said. "We did some good things out there."

Hubenschmidt, who assisted on Schloss' goal, found an opening just 54 seconds into the third period. Senior forward Matt Keenan drew an assist.

"I think our offense did a good job of going around their defense," Hubenschmidt said. "They were a little slower than us."

Keenan tucked the puck through Williams' pads at the 10:37 mark of the final period, giving CC a commanding 4-0 lead.

SOPHOMORE FORWARD Victor Stesiak capped off the Shamrock scoring when he back-handed a loose puck into the Spartan goal.

"We didn't do a good job of covering up in our own zone," said Stevenson coach Paul Ferguson. "We were a lot of times thinking the other guy was going to get the loose puck and he never did."

The Spartans tallied their only goal at the 13:04 mark of the third period when sophomore center Doug Gulau shot the puck off a players skate in front of the CC net and scored. Chris Rennie and Scott Johnson assisted.

exercising options

Myrna Partrich

Candy vs. health; Not a pretty battle

Dear Myrna: I've been reading your column for at least two years. I know you write mainly on the subject of exercise. Occasionally, I've noticed you'll write on nutrition. If possible, since this is Halloween season, could you write about candy and its nutritional value, if any?

It generally takes a few weeks for my columns to appear after I receive questions from my readers. I know it's past Halloween at this point, but I do think this is a good subject because there are so many candy junkies around.

Digging deep into my nutrition files, I've found "Nutrition Reports" on candy.

I'm assuming your children have gone "Trick-or-Treating" this year. Even the most health conscious parents let their children go out for Halloween, and, why not? Remember the fun?

This is what we are looking at — which candies will inflict the least damage on children (and adults, of course) at Halloween. The subject of candy vs. health is not a pretty one.

Rating candies based on their fat and sugar content raises a problem. Most candy companies cannot, or refuse, to tell how much their products contain.

Let's just judge candy on fat alone. The fat in candy is the worst part for most people. Sugar is not great, but it does have fewer calories than fat and it won't clog arteries.

● CHOCOLATE BARS — Average two ounce bar equals 4 1/4 teaspoons of grease. Chocolate is fat, mostly the artery clogging saturated kind. Of course, the fattiest chocolate bars are the ones with nuts or peanut butter (pure grease). You do get a little calcium, niacin, riboflavin and protein — but that's an unbalanced trade off. Lowest fat bars are peppermint patties — more sugar than fat. Chocolate covered raisins aren't as bad either.

● GRANOLA BARS — The oats in granola bars, which are a bit more nutritious, replace some of the junk found in other candies. Sugar and fat still account for 50 to 80 percent of their calories. Let's say granola bars are a "health-food candy" — not a health food. There is not a lot of fiber, only one to two grams. If you want fiber, try Health Valley Oat Bran Bars.

● HARD CANDIES — Here we have sugar-water syrup. The harder the candy, the less the fat. Suckers, Lifesaver types, are better than chewy caramels or toffies.

● FRUIT CANDIES — Fruit rolls and gummy bear types have the least fat. Here's where you read labels — Sunkist Fun Fruits have fruit as their first ingredient — that's important.

Watch out for the sticky, sugary candy for the sake of your teeth. By the way, do I sound like Andy Rooney?

(Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company, Inc. of Bloomfield Township and a member of the President's Council of Physical Fitness, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Please send your letters to: Sports Department, Myrna Partrich, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, Mi. 48093.)

Bowler pays the perfect tribute

THIS IS A true story. Bill Stewart, an avid bowler for many years and a member of the Our Lady of Sorrows Bowling League, recently died. Bill had his name mentioned in this column only a week earlier for rolling a 233 game and a 662 series.

As friend Paul Koenig was paying his respects at the funeral home, he was conversing with Bill's wife, Alice.

She asked Paul if he would take Bill's place on the team Monday night.

Paul agreed, but before he left, Alice told him: "Bowl a 300 game for him."

Now, Paul is an excellent bowler, but he had never recorded a perfect game until that night in the Our Lady of Sorrows circuit at Bel Aire Lanes in Farmington.

Koenig was right on target during the third game except for the ninth frame when it looked like a sure split, but all the pins fell, perhaps with a little help from beyond.

Bill Stewart had a copy of the scoresheet as he was laid to rest.

● 'FOWL' SHOOTING

The winners in the Canton Parks and Recreation "Fowl Shooting" Contest Saturday were Chris Tierney, who made nine of 10 free throws in the under-9 age group; Todd Waldron, 10-12, 18 in a row; Neil Dixon, 13-15, 10-of-10; Cathy Lenaghan, 16-18, 5-of-10; and Rhett Clark, over-18, 20 in a row. All are Canton residents.

Tierney made eight straight shots to win a tiebreaker over Chris Mason, who also was 9-of-10 in the under-9 division.

There were 97 participants in the five age groups. Each one shot 10 free throws in an attempt to win a turkey. All received a chicken dinner from Lee's Famous Recipe Chicken.

● UMPIRES MEETING

The Canton Softball Center Umpires Association will meet at 5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 9, at CSC. Managers, new umpires and experienced umpires are welcome. For information call Bob at 483-5600, Ext. 104.

● S'CRAFT ROLLS

The Schoolcraft College men's basketball team got out of the sports shorts

starting blocks like Carl Lewis Wednesday, opening up leads of 14-0 and 22-1 en route to their third straight victory without a loss, a 109-69 triumph over host Glen Oaks Community College.

Despite the absence of two key players, Charlie Perkins and Randy Watters (both out with injuries), the Ocelots came out smoking, nailing 11 of their first 13 shots from the floor.

"It was beautiful to watch," said Schoolcraft coach Dave Bogataj. "Everything fell. The kids played flawless, just a great game."

Kwesi McGill, a 6-foot-4 forward from Detroit St. Hedwig, scored 15 of SC's first 17 points. He finished with a game-high 31.

Barry Quayle, a 6-6 forward from Dearborn Fordson, and Mitch Fyke, a 6-2 forward from Plymouth Canton, each chipped in with 19.

Dave Hamilton, a 6-6 product from Taylor Center, scored all 14 of his points in the second half as SC out-pointed Glen Oaks, 63-34.

(Hamilton also grabbed nine rebounds.)

SC held Glen Oaks to only one field goal during the final seven minutes.

Lynell Collins, a 6-3 point-guard from Southfield, was also instrumental in the win. He grabbed seven first-half rebounds as the Ocelots held a 39-21 edge for the game.

Frederick Ferguson, a 6-9 center from Cleveland, Ohio, paced Glen Oaks with 26 points.

● '68 TIGERS APPEAR

A reunion of some of the 1968 World Series Champion Detroit Tigers baseball team will occur from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 1-2 at the Madonna College baseball card show.

Autographs are free and over 100 tables are available.

Appearing on Saturday, Dec. 1: Denny McLain (noon to 2 p.m.) and Mickey Stanley (2-4 p.m.).

Making appearances Sunday,

Dec. 2: Willie Horton (noon to 2 p.m.) and Mickey Lolich (2-4 p.m.). For more information, call 591-5029.

● USED EQUIPMENT SALE

The Canton Parks and Recreation Services is having its Sixth Annual Used Sports Equipment Sale from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1, at Canton Corners Shopping Center (Ford and Lilley roads).

Sellers should bring their equipment to the site on Thursday, Nov. 29, from 6-9 p.m. to be priced and tagged for sale. The seller sets the price and gets the money, with the exception of 15 percent that goes to Canton Parks and Recreation Services.

Volunteers will be on hand to do the selling, so the owner doesn't have to be present on Dec. 1. Sellers can pick up their money or unsold items between 1 and 2 p.m. the day of the sale. For information call Bob Dates at 397-5110.

● INDOOR SOCCER

The Canton Soccerdome is accepting registrations for its second season, which begins Thursday, Jan. 3, for PeeWee (under-5, 6 and 7) and adult teams.

Videotext comes of age — and shoots itself in the foot

Years ago, 10 to be exact, a French company started an interesting experiment. It put the Paris telephone book on a computer and then gave anyone (or nearly anyone) who wanted one a small computer terminal to access it right from his telephone. Then the company charged, essentially, nothing for the service. The catch was that every time you used the terminal, you saw a series of advertisements.

The advertisers paid for the service. Time passed, and the French company added all sorts of other services. The computers got fancier. Users could use their own PCs. And the graphics improved. The technique was dubbed videotext. It was intended as the first mass market use of computers in the home. That system has become a screaming success in its 10 short years of life.

A year ago, the United States, sometimes a little slow to get on the technology for the masses bandwagon, introduced its first videotext system. Of course, the French did theirs with government money. In the United States we waited for some big company with enough money to invest. In this case, the investment was around half a billion dollars, the corporate giants were Sears and IBM, and the system was Prodigy.

EARLY PRODIGY had a few technical drawbacks, but, for a first pass at videotext, it was pretty good. Videotext, by the way, is unbelievably difficult to do right. But they advertised hard, kept the price down and got themselves a large following computer insider

quite quickly. Recently, they shipped — free — new software that is really the best videotext I've seen. It is impressive, to be sure. But, it turns out, there is a dark side. Prodigy is embarking upon a course that could very well sink it. And if it keeps this course of action up, in my opinion, it deserves to be sunk. Fast and deep.

The problems started when Prodigy staffers decided that they should censor the messages in the many public conference and chat areas of the system. There were never any posted guidelines, so there was nothing to tell these censors how to censor or to tell users what they could or couldn't say. Well, as it happened, Prodigy offered, as one of its major inducements to use the service, electronic mail at no additional cost. So, if you can't have a discussion in the public forums, where ya gonna go? You send private e-mail to the folks you'd be chatting with in public. No censorship there. The mail is private.

This, of course, caused an increase in e-mail traffic. What does Prodigy do? It pulls out a cannon and takes careful aim at its foot. It announces that, starting January, there will be a fee for e-mail over 30 messages a month. This caused an electronic riot. Over 35,000 people deluged Prodigy with complaints about this decision, an act which, of course, further increased the e-mail load. And, of course, Prodigy engaged in massive damage control efforts.

BUT HERE'S the bottom line. Prodigy is the first successful U.S. experiment in mass market home computer use. It is wonderfully useful and simple to operate. It has fantastic educational possibilities. And it is a lot of fun. In fact, I can't think of $12.50 per month better spent if you have kids than for a Prodigy membership. But, if the censorship and bait-and-switch tactics (the e-mail charges are not mentioned in any promotional materials that I know of) don't stop — and stop fast, the service doesn't deserve to continue.

When you put a service such as Prodigy out for the masses, you had better serve the masses, or shut it down. That extreme would be a very sad thing, both for the computing community in general and the future of home computing in particular. And that's the inside scoop.

Peter Stephenson is a computer consultant, lecturer, nationally published columnist and author who lives in Rochester Hills. Questions may be addressed to him c Observer & Eccentric, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009 or by electronic mail on Prodigy (GMWG59A) or MCI MAIL and BIX (pstephenson).

Workshop offers tips to prevent robbery

Robbery Prevention, a workshop for store owners, will be presented at Schoolcraft College 6-10 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 4.

The program helps business owners develop a heightened awareness of crime deterring techniques.

Topics covered include: robbery prevention, robbery detection and post-robbery procedures.

The presenter is David Odett, director of human resources/safety and security for Mid-States Petroleum. In addition to his company duties, Odett worked on a Michigan Legislative Task Force for robbery prevention.

The workshop will be held in Room 200, Liberal Arts Building. Fee is $30. Additional information is available by calling 462-4448.

NOW...

You can place an Observer & Eccentric classified ad 24 hours a day!

Here's how it works: First, you must have a touch-tone telephone.

Then, all you do is call us — remember, it doesn't make any difference if we're not here — to place an ad, cancel one or change something on one you've placed earlier.

Let's say it's eight o'clock at night and you've just realized that the cupid on the clock you're selling plays a tin whistle. It's a good selling point, so you punch up our classified number and wait for the operator to guide you through the steps for changing your ad. Have in mind the exact information you want to give us, speak clearly and a bit slower than you usually do. And that's it. If it's after 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, your changes will be made for the next Monday paper. Or, if it's after 5:00 p.m. on a Friday or the weekend, your changes will hit the Thursday papers. Pretty neat, huh?

Of course, our Classified Ad Takers are here every Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. But now, if you miss them, you can still do something about your ad — at your convenience.

Be complete, neat when addressing holiday mail

During the holiday season the large volumes of letter mail passing through the post office undergo a change in make-up from primarily typed addresses to an inordinate amount of hand-written addresses. That means the postal service must switch some of its automated process to manual processing. Either way — printed or handwritten — proper address is critical.

"A wrong ZIP Code is worse than none," says John M. Horne, field division, general manager/postmaster, Detroit Division.

The first three numbers of a ZIP Code identify a state or portion of a state. When a letter arrives at the main post office or that area, the last two digits are used to route the letter to the delivery station. The four digits added to a five-digit ZIP Code, or ZIP +, allow automated sorting of mail down to the carrier's route.

"A ZIP Code is literally the last word in addressing," says Horne. "It's the last item you insert in the address, following the city and state, and it's the most important in terms of getting mail started in the right direction. If you are not sure of the ZIP Code call 271-6544."

In the case of missing street numbers, Horne says, just one missing digit in a street number may send a letter to the wrong person. It's the street number that tells the letter carrier where to deliver the mail. The name in the address simply separates the intended recipient from other people in that house. Horne says that many carriers remember names on their routes — which average 600 households and businesses — and can deliver to the right person even through the address in incorrect. But a substitute carrier or a new employee must rely entirely on the street number.

Apartment and suite numbers fall in the same category of little things that count. Think of a substitute letter carrier confronted with 100 or more boxes in an apartment or office building and a stack of mail with no box numbers.

Similarly, proper direction designations for streets — North, South, East of West, get letters delivered without detours. The correct abbreviation is N, S, E or W. Also important are the correct designations: Street, Lane Court, Terrace, Driver or Circle with the abbreviations St., Ln., Terr., Ct., Dr. or Cir.

To help speed your letters and packages on their way, type or print your addresses. Properly prepared typed or printed addresses can be read and processed by the postal services' automated equipment. Handwritten addresses must largely be read and processed by hand. And, while both methods get the same delivery results, automated processing is by far the most efficient and least costly.

"Keeping postage rates down hinges on automated processing of mail," says Horne. "You can help by typing or print your addresses."

He wants to do his taxes but he finds it too difficult to hold a pencil.

Without your help, he may not be able to do them.

Almost everybody has to file taxes, but not everyone can do it on their own. Volunteer and help make someone's taxes less taxing. Call 1 800 424-1040.

UNFORTUNATELY, THE WAY TO A MAN'S HEART REALLY IS THROUGH HIS STOMACH.

While your cooking was supposed to help you win someone's heart, it may also help you destroy it.

Because a diet that's too high in fat may increase the risk of heart disease as well as certain kinds of cancer.

Fortunately, you can help reduce your risk simply by eating a low-fat diet containing lots of fruits and vegetables, whole grain foods, lean meats, fish, poultry and low-fat dairy products.

For a free booklet on how to reduce the fat in your diet, call 1-800-EAT-LEAN.

Don't let yourself be counted among the thousands of people every year who literally eat their hearts out.

Oh, those office suck-ups. Sure, it's OK to show the boss a little respect. It's even OK to defer to their judgment. After all, making decisions — be they sometimes foolish — is what a boss is for. But maybe you've noticed a fellow co-worker who's a bit too chummy with the big guy, or gal — you know, the wayward soul lacking dignity who's not happy unless he or she is kissing up to the boss at every opportunity. Maybe they laugh too hard at the boss' jokes. Maybe they adopt his philosophy of life and politics and expound on it at the drop of a hat and well within earshot of the top man. And loss in sports, actually anything that will gain extra attention and/or recognition, small or large, from the boss. Or maybe they make regular trips "to the mountain" — the boss' office — to chat up the boss in hopes of snaring that future promotion. Medical science has yet to identify the deviant gene that marks a person for membership in the officus suckupus class.

And biologist have yet to pinpoint the exact physical traits? Do they have a thick-lipped, constantly moving mouth of sucker fish? Or maybe it's the perpetual pucker of a lamprey eel?

THEY DO have one thing in common. In the realm of brown nosing, they remain nameless, but that's not to say no one knows them. In any given office, everyone knows who the suck-ups are.

And while scientific journals are mum on the subject, several suburban Detroit office workers have reported sightings.

"There was this new guy, he was still on probation," recalls a woman who used to work in a Novi office. "His big thing was, in the morning he would walk into the boss' office and say, 'Nice tie.' The boss would say, 'You really think so?'"

"And the next day, it's 'Nice shoes.'"

Was it part of a mutual admiration society? Possibly. "The boss would get a little grin, and after a while he'd come into the office and ask everybody, 'So, what do think of these shoes?'" she recalled.

Bottom Line: The boss got a kick out of the attention. And, yes, the employee did pass probation, but, alas, he eventually left the company.

But let's be fair to the bosses. While there are some who like the attentive nature of brown-nosers, there are those who don't.

During his 21-year military career, a Troy man said "it (brown nosing) was really looked down upon."

"THE KIND OF things that I remember, is when the colonel pulls out a cigarette and there's a lieutenant there who will be the first one to put a match under his nose," he said. "What you usually try to do is tell them to back off."

"You tell them this is just going to get you in trouble with your fellow officers, knock it off."

As he sees it, "a good manager tries to bring that to a halt. In my experience, it causes trouble. It keeps people from working together and it keeps people from cooperating with that individual."

One boss who liked brown-nosers was the former publisher of a metro Detroit daily newspaper, a former reporter at the paper recalled.

"The dress code used to be pretty loose around there, and when he started wearing the white shirt and the tie, all the suck-ups started dressing just like him," the ex-employee said.

"And when he got into baseball, they all did too, and they'd try to get seats as close as they could get to him so they could look over and wave. It was sickening."

A former elementary school principal in western Wayne County recalls another suck-up.

"THERE WERE three of us that came in as new principals and one guy was the classic brown-noser," he said. "It was so obvious and so obnoxious to everybody."

He likened the guy to Eddie Haskell of the "Leave it to Beaver" series, who would be polite to Wally's parents, then slammed them behind their backs.

"This other guy and I devised a little plan," he said. "We found out that he was really turned off with hockey. He'd say, 'What did they see in it, all these guys skating up and down the ice, you miss half the goals,' and so on."

"One day, a group of principals were going out to lunch. We said, 'You know, it's really something. The superintendent is so involved in hockey, he's always trying to find somebody who has tickets.'"

The suck-up invested "a sizable piece of change" in front row hockey tickets and tried to "get the long mileage" out of them.

"He takes them to the superintendent and says, 'I can't go but maybe you and your wife might like them.' The superintendent said, 'I'm not interested, I don't think I can make it.'"

"He did it about three times, and finally the superintendent tells him, 'I don't mean to hurt your feelings, but I don't go for hockey.'"

ANOTHER MAN who works in a suburban Wayne County school district recalls someone whose sucking up to the boss was well known throughout the building.

When the suck-up made yet another trip to the boss' office, "we'd say, 'oh boy, here we go again, here's another example,'" he recalled.

This one tried to win the boss over with humor. The co-worker recalled the time when the boss first entered his new office — on a floor of the building that had no bathrooms.

"This guy brought in a plastic urinal that taped to the back of the office door," the co-worker recalled. "He said, 'Now that you're superintendent, you certainly deserve an executive washroom.'"

"He'd also arrange for tickets for sporting events, and it would be he and his wife and the boss and his wife."

Another thing, the suck-up would do was to make certain things happen, like arrange to have the boss' car serviced by the district.

"He would get razed a lot, but he would brush it off as if it were not the case," the co-worker said.

While the actions of some suck-ups bring a smile to their co-workers, some spark a more negative reaction.

"SHE JUST talks with the supervisor forever," said one

Southfield insurance company employee about a recently hired co-worker. "She asks about her kids and her father-in-law, she's always talking like they were best friends forever, and she's only been here a month."

"Everybody's noticed that she's been doing it (sucking-up)."

But word has it that when the boss is not around, "she's very nasty and she never wants to do her job."

"Obviously, they're keeping her here because she's friendly with the supervisor," the employee noted.

MOVING PICTURES

A financially devastated Rocky Balboa (Sylvester Stallone) returns to his roots to fight the toughest fight of his life in "Rocky V."

Filmmakers take a break for Thanksgiving holiday

There are no new films opening this week since the distributors took advantage of the long holiday weekend and introduced 10 new movies for Thanksgiving. If you didn't get a chance to see them all last weekend, there's still plenty of time between daily doses of leftover turkey.

STILL PLAYING:

- "Avalon" (A+, PG, 126 minutes). Excellent film chronicles an immigrant family's successes and failures in America.
- "Child's Play 2" (*, R). "Chucky" returns.
- "Dances With Wolves" (A, PG-13, 180 minutes). Kevin Costner's magnificent ode to brotherhood and brutality on America's western frontier during and after the Civil War.
- "Fantasia" (A+, G). Excellent restoration of Disney's 1940 masterpiece.
- "Ghost" (A-, PG-13, 116 minutes). Banker's ghost (Patrick Swayze) hangs around after life to protect loved one (Demi Moore). Spiritualist (Whoopi Goldberg) helps him and this romantic/comedy/thriller.
- "GoodFellas" (B+, R, 145 minutes). Martin Scorsese's intense, compelling saga of three mobsters. Fine production techniques and excellent performances by Robert DeNiro, Joe Pesci and Ray Liotta, notwithstanding, they are bad guys.
- "Graftiti Bridge" (*, PG-13). Written and directed by Prince who also stars in another production for his fans and his pocketbook.
- "Henry and June" (C-, NC-17, 135 minutes). Boring, repetitious discussions of sexuality complemented by darkly lit sexual scenes.
- "Home Alone" (B-, PG, 100 minutes). Engaging comedy about young boy (Macaulay Culkin) left at home by accident.
- "Jacob's Ladder" (A, R, 115 minutes). Sensational, riveting film experience redeems and rewards with its story of Jacob Singer's (Tim Robbins) re-entry to civilian life after Vietnam trauma.
- "The King of New York" (R, 103 minutes). Violent return of recently paroled drug lord.

Recalling bittersweet summer

By John Monaghan
special writer

Summer 1958. Thirteen-year-old Frederique (Jule Bataille) and her little sister Sophie (Candice LeFranc) spend it at a rented summer house in France. They enjoy countless hours building sandcastles, reading comics on the beach, and exploring with their cousins, the Mandels.

This vacation is different, however. They have overheard whisperings about divorce, moving to Paris and their mother seeking a job. Instead of having their mother spend the entire summer with them, a flustered maid is put in charge.

Painful divorce and playful memories of summer make up "C'est La Vie," the latest film from writer/director Diane Kurys. Full of honesty, fun and vivid characterizations, this deceptively simple summer at the beach grows into one of the most insightful films of the year. It currently screens at the Maple Theatre.

NATHALIE BAYE plays Lena, the girls' mother, who has initiated the divorce. To complicate matters, she has met a young artist and would certainly run away with him if it weren't for the children. One night, Frederique watches them ride off on his motorcycle.

The loving father, Michel (Richard Berry), who arrives unexpectedly one morning, tries to manipulate the children's emotions. He also shows his nasty temper by driving Lena's new car, a symbol of her independence, promptly into a tree.

There are no villains in "C'est La Vie," which is reportedly based on

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

Despite the overwhelming popularity of theatrical motion pictures, producers continue to grind out pot-boiler films for the home video cassette market. HBO Home Video generally has the best product in that category since they produce for their cable network as well as for theatrical distribution.

But some of the stuff is so bad it's a wonder the raw videotape stock doesn't curl up in agony and die.

Take Academy Entertainment's "Mortal Sins" (1990, color, R, 85 minutes), one of the most scattered, disorganized, annoying and offensive films to appear in a long time. It's not just a matter of bad filmmaking, although that's certainly a big part of the indictment. But here's a case where an attempt at an off-beat private eye film has taken satire to the point of idiocy.

Private-eye Nathan Weinschenk (Brian Benben) is hired by TV evangelist Malcolm Rollins (James Harper) because his associate, Park Sung (James Saito), has been murdered. Nathan falls in love with Rollins' daughter, Laura (Debrah Farentino).

Nathan has a strange family and weird friends and associates. What could have been a clever satire turns out to be adolescent and amateurish, a mish-mash of private jokes and disassociated sequences that detract from an inconsequential, hackneyed attempt to make fun of TV evangelism.

DESPITE THOSE weaknesses, "Mortal Sins" will be at local video stores on Nov. 29 in competition with theatrical motion pictures. On the latest available Variety chart of the "Top 50 Video Titles" for the week ending Nov. 10, all but two were theatrically released motion pictures.

Clearly public taste is engaged by Hollywood's feature presentations. Witness "Pretty Woman," a major box-office success with $178 million in the till after 33 weeks at the box office. As of Nov. 8 it was still running on 262 screens even though the videocassette had been available for three weeks.

Further emphasizing theatrical films' appeal, "Pretty Woman's" videocassette was ranked third on the "Top 50 Video Titles" with a 116 rating out of a possible 130. "Total Recall" with 118 and "The Hunt for Red October" with 117 ran one and two for the week of Nov. 10.

In addition to the high visibility and extensive publicity generated for Hollywood's theatrical releases, it's also clear that their most successful products are far superior in production values to low-end videocassettes like "Mortal Sins."

There ought to be some minimum standards of coherence and sensibility in videoproduction but viewers with that attitude will be disappointed in "Mortal Sins" and numerous other videos currently available.

ON THE brighter side, three recent theatrical successes, "Betsy's Wedding," "Another 48 Hours" and "Men at Work" hit the video racks on Nov. 20 for holiday viewing. Stallone/Rocky fans will be pleased to learn that "Rocky I-IV" were made available at a new low price on Nov. 21.

That also was the release date for "The Elvis Files" (1990, not rated, color, 55 minutes). Billed as an "exciting and controversial video documentary," it may prove to be so for Elvis fans.

STREET BEATS

Karen Monster is back as a member of the Truncheons, an all-girl band that includes Paula Boufford (from left) on the guitar, Raquel Salaysay on bass and T.N.T. on drums.

Truncheons: Not so sugar 'n spicy

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The Truncheons are tough. The Truncheons are not to be messed with. The Truncheons strike fear into those who dare cross their path strewn with broken bones and crushed cans.

The Go-Gos giggle, the Bangles pout, but the Truncheons kneel you in the stomach and stab their cigarettes out on your forehead.

At least that's what they want the masses to believe. Really, beneath the leather and snarls are four sweet, petite women.

Why isn't that Karen Monster pondering between puffs on her Winston cigarette the possibility that she and guitarist, Paula Boufford, are really like sisters?

"Naw," said Monster, dismissing the notion. "If she was my sister, I'd probably hit her a lot harder."

Nice try. We're still not convinced.

This gum-snapping, scratch-your-eyes-out image is obviously a facade, designed to hide vulnerability and insecurity.

Why look at Monica Reynolds, Raquel Salaysay, Boufford and Monster fall onto stage for the soundcheck before a recent show at Alvin's. They are the perfect picture of harmony, a unit of one striving toward a musical goal.

"Shut up," said Monster, calling business to order.

THE TRUNCHEONS' story is as abrupt. The band was formed out of fallout from other bands. Reynolds and Boufford were with the all-girl outfit Vertical Pillows, Salaysay formerly of Plasma Bats and Monster, well, she was involved in a solo career.

The band has a video in the works and will soon head into the studio to record an EP. The Truncheons perform Thursday, Dec. 6, at 3-D Club in Royal Oak.

In this outfit, Monster comes across as the leader.

"I'm the first one to say something sucks," she said.

Together, they form one of the most formidable all-female hard rock bands ever in the area. There was a fifth member to this equation. Carolyn Striho of Detroit Energy Asylum is no longer around.

"We don't want to talk about it," Monster said.

Instead, the Truncheons just want to play rock'n'roll. The sound is a snarling variety, bridging the elements of the Kinks and the Ramones put forth in a rudimentary, three-chord manner.

The honest, crude-as-graffiti lyrics sung in Monster's breathy voice, in addition to some searing guitar riffs by Boufford and a thunderous rhythm section of Reynolds on drums and Salaysay on bass, put the Truncheons into undisputed break-out territory.

Titles like "I Hate You" and "I Love You" illustrate Monster's knack for avoiding gray areas when writing her songs.

"I'M WORKING on 'I Kinda Like You,'" she said with a laugh.

Literally, Monster articulates feelings in the same manner one does after accidentally slamming a sledgehammer on his big toe.

On "I Hate You," a guitar charged lament of love lost Monster sings, "I never thought it would end like this/I never knew I could get so p---d/Launch myself into hyperspace/I feel like snapping a pistol in your face/Take you right down to the riverbank/shove you right in just to show my thanks."

Imagine Belinda Carlisle or Suzanne Hoffs chewing on that.

The Truncheons don't bother. Part of the group's mission is redefining the role of the female rock band. The Truncheons are not about fashion, they don't bear dimples to mask shortcomings.

"It's more natural," Boufford said. "The edge is there, where with the (Vertical) Pillows we were pop."

For Monster, having bandmates around has its own pluses.

"Basically," she said, "you know if you mess up you have someone to cover your butt."

GOOBER & THE PEAS

Performing in the biggest venue since their ill-fated tryout at the Grand Ol' Opry 26 years ago, Goober & The Peas electrified a near-capacity crowd at Detroit's crown jewel, the Fox Theater Nov. 18.

Highlights from the Fabulous Fox' finest hour (or 45 minutes) included the Peas' anthemic hit, "Hot Women (Cold Beer)," their rousing rendition of Johnny Cash's "Folsom Prison Blues," and their own touching "Let's Go Hunt Down Grandpa." The band ripped through most of the six songs on their big-selling record,

"The Complete Works of Goober & The Peas."

Goober thrilled a gasping crowd with his high-stepping moves, stage-jumping and patented moonwalk.

He entertained them with tales of his 36 years in the music biz, telling how he co-wrote "Night Moves" with a much younger and skinnier Bob Seger, who then rode the song to stardom while the Peas kept plugging away, pleasing dozens of fans in the Thumb area of the state.

The triumphant Fox appearance might be the jumpstart Goober needs to rejuvenate (or just juvenate) his career. It could also prove to be a major coup for Fox officials, who can rest assured that the crowds will come back downtown, if the theater draws big-time acts.

When this crowd had a chance to catch its breath after the exhilarating performance of Goober & The Peas, another act took the stage, a folksinger from Minnesota named Bob Dylan. He

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE TWENTIETH CENTURY — Gang of Four

Most people may know England's Gang of Four from their 1982 semi-hit, "I Love a Man in a Uniform." Taken at face value, the quartet seemed like many of the other new wave, post-punk bands at the time — making harmless electronic danceable pop ditties.

But Gang of Four was more than just a dance 'n party band. They were more influenced by the music of the Sex Pistols and Parliament/Funkadelic than in the electronic music of their peers.

Gang of Four (Dave Allen, Hugo Burnham, Andy Gill and Jon King) was named after China's Maoist Gang of Four. In everything from their name to the content of their songs to their live shows, the band was trying to put forth their own philosophy of life.

"A Brief History of the Twentieth Century" is a 20-song greatest hits package spanning the group's earliest songs like "Damaged Goods" and "At Home He's a Tourist" from 1979 up to their later songs like "I Love a Man in a Uniform" from 1982 and "Is It Love" from 1983 (The group broke up in 1984).

GANG OF FOUR

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

If you listen to it for the lyrical content, you're apt to get a might depressed with Gang of Four's grievous views on the world.

Musically, the album is less complex. The value of the greatest hits format would be to new fans of Gang of Four who would like to get an overview of the group's work or people who are interested in the music of the early 1980s.

"A Brief History..." works well as a period piece. Remember those days when Devo was in, new wave had just blossomed and 102.7 was the hippest radio station around? "A Brief History..." will take you back to those days.

— Jill Hamilton

WITHOUT A NET — Grateful Dead

"The Grateful Dead are like licorice," Jerry Garcia once said. "Not everyone likes it, but the people who like licorice really like it a lot."

"Without a Net," the Dead's first live release in a decade (excluding an album with Bob Dylan), is a treat for licorice-lovers everywhere. It won't be a chart-topper because (A) it's the Grateful Dead, (B) it's a triple-album or double CD and (C) it's chock full of extended jams radio won't touch — but all that doesn't mean it's not (D) fantastic. It is.

More than two hours in length and divided into two sets, "Without a Net" transforms your house into a Dead show, if you crank up the volume, kill the lights and burn some incense. All the elements are there but hippy body odor.

The key to the concert, for the Dead and Deadheads alike, is the music. Most of today's mainstream and alternative stars rerun the same sets night after night like singing zombies, even bands like U2 who have good live reps. They could all take a cue from the Dead, rock's kings of improv. The tunes range from average to amazing, hit and miss, but always are fresh.

The centerpiece of the set is the 16-minute gem, "Eyes of the World," featuring a stellar guest performance by sax great Branford Marsalis. Other standout long jams by Garcia and company include "Bird Song," "China Cat Sunflower/I Know You Rider" and the "Franklin Tower" medley.

Bob Weir shines on "Victim or the Crime" from 1989's "Built to Last," the tender "Looks Like Rain," and updated versions of "Cassidy" and "One More Saturday Night." The late keyboardist Brent Mydland delivers one of his best vocal performances in the album's closer, Traffic's "Dear Mr. Fantasy." As always, the thundering rhythm section of bassist Phil Lesh and drummer Mickey Hart and Bill Kreutzmann provides the heart, soul and thunder.

If every term "lie back and groove" applies, it's here. Put it on and reality disappears. Nothin' left to do but smile, smile, smile.

RUBAIYAT - ELEKTRA'S 40TH ANNIVERSARY — various artists

This is an album that's just too eclectic for its own good. Under the pretentious packaging it is a collection of tunes as broad as necessary to cover the four decades of Elektra's existence, but disjointed enough to make it difficult listening.

Elektra throws a curve at traditional greatest hits packages by having its current crop of artists cover the hits of yesteryear. The artists donated their time and the project evolved into both an anniversary celebration and a charity fund-raiser.

The result is this interesting group of 39 songs, ranging from great to awful to hilarious. The last exemplified by the Gypsy Kings' Latino send-up of "Hotel California." Though sung in Spanish, it has infinitely more soul than the Eagles' version.

Some "Rubaiyat" highlights include Billy Bragg's rocking rendition of Love's "Seven & Seven Is," Ernie Isley's soulful solo turn of the Cars' "Let's Go," Tracy Chapman's fresh swinging twist on the oft-recorded "House of the Rising Sun," and Jersey rocker John Eddie's straight-ahead version of the Cure's "In-between Days."

The Cure, who along with Jackson Browne are the only artists to cover and be covered, contribute a raw "Hello, I Love You," tipping their hats to the Kinks' contribution to the Doors standard.

As with any collection, you have to take the bad with the good. In this case, the bad includes the noise of The Big F on the MC's "Kick Out the Jams," Lynch Mob's straining of Don Nix' "Going Down," and Fast-E Pussycat's ridiculous metal mashing of Carly Simon's "You're So Vain."

On the opposite end of the volume scale, Teddy Pendergrass' version of Bread's "Make It With You" is loaded with sap and Michael Feinstein's rendition of Joni Mitchell's "Both Sides Now" should be banned from elevators.

This is a compilation with a little something for everyone and a lot of other stuff you don't want, too. It's at least worth looking at in the store and if you do buy it, you'll get some use out of the programming feature of your CD player.

Based on the New York Times bestseller, "Is Elvis Alive?" "The Elvis Files" detail Gail Brewer-Giorgio's 10-year investigation into the events surrounding Presley's death.

Another MGM/UA Home Video package, this one billed as "Screen Masterpieces" and focused on the Christmas market, will appear on Nov. 28. The package includes three never before released films in addition to the other nine, all at a reduced price, $19.98.

The three new releases are "The Hucksters" (1947, black and white, 115 minutes), "Tea and Sympathy" (1956, color, 122 minutes) and "Too Hot to Handle" (1938, B&W, 105 minutes). All three appeared before the MPAA Rating System was instituted but none of them are objectionable by today's standards.

"The Hucksters," Deborah Kerr's first American film, was unusual in its day as one of the first public criticisms of the advertising business now routinely attacked and satirized in all the media. The all-star cast includes Clark Gable, Sydney Greenstreet, Adolph Menjou, Ava Gardner, Keenan Wynn and Edward Arnold.

ASIDE FROM "From Here to Eternity," "Tea and Sympathy" is Deborah Kerr's best-known film. Certainly, she is much more central to "Tea & Sympathy" as the sensitive wife of an English schoolmaster.

She takes pity on a young student (John Kerr) accused of homosexuality by his classmates. She convinces him that he is, indeed, manly. The sensational potential of such a topic is handled with rare sensitivity.

Also featuring Leif Erickson, the three principals recreate their Broadway roles in a film scenario written by playwright of the Broadway success, Robert Anderson.

"Too Hot to Handle" stars Clark Gable and Walter Pidgeon as rival newsreel photographers trying to attract Myrna Loy, an exceedingly attractive pilot. This fast-paced action comedy should prove good holiday entertainment.

valiantly tried to win the audience over, but even he could feel the post-Goober letdown.

Dylan's moves paled in comparison, and he couldn't yodel half as well as Goober or Junior, though he tried. Playing folk standards like "Blowin' in the Wind" and "Like a Rolling Stone" with a souped up rock'n'roll band, Dylan showed lots of promise.

If placed under the tutelage of a seasoned veteran like Goober, young Dylan could yet become a star.

the director's own childhood. Both mother and father are warm individuals and the film is especially adept at showing their relationship with the large Mandel family, who represent stability in times of dramatic change.

Not since Francois Truffaut has a director captured so well the idiosyncrasies of children. Kurys (whose first film was "Peppermint Soda") constantly cuts away to vignettes on the beach — a little girl pouncing on a beach ball twice her size or others joyfully swallowed by waves.

THE FILM also creates the social politics of the beach. The girls and their cousins don't belong to the local club, which offers beach tent privileges and organized events. One of the cousins wins a camera with a sandcastle construction only to have it taken away by the judges.

"C'est La Vie" is about growth. The parents understand that their relationship is finally at a close. Frederique, much more Sophie, realizes that her old life has come to an end. Her little cousin, after several failed attempts, learns to tie his shoe.

In this bittersweet tale, big and small, tragedy and laughter can occur on the same day. As the title translates, "such is life."

STREET SENSE

Fear guides cross-dressers

Dear Barbara,

I have a question.

When women wear men's designed clothes — zip front jeans, vest, hair cuts, jockey shorts — they call it women's fashion.

Can you find out if it is legal to cross-dress in public?

Nancy

Dear Nancy,

I have received a number of letters on cross-dressing whose writers requested that I please not publish. I thank you for allowing me to publish yours. I will respond to the concerns of all writers of those letters and yours in this column.

Women wear men's clothing for a variety of reasons. For some women, it does denote a conflict about their inner identification. For most, however, it is a fashion statement. Our culture allows women to make this choice. It is a socially acceptable choice, sometimes attractive to men, and often chic.

Men wear women's clothing because they are turned on sexually by the act. With the exception of entertainment purposes, wearing women's clothing or transvestism is not socially acceptable.

This is a complicated subject with deep psychological roots. Cross-dressing is a symptom that does not necessarily tell you about the person who acts it out. Some are gay; others are not. Some are overtly effeminate while others look like any other man.

What they all have in common is that dressing like a woman is sexually stimulating for them. This can cause many problems in their marriages. The erotic fantasies of transvestites or cross-dressers may exclude their wives. This usually leads to resentment and anger on the wife's part. In essence, her husband is not loving her, but himself.

The next statement is made tentatively because I am aware that many of the Freudian underpinnings of psychology are considered mumbo jumbo to a large segment of the public. Please consider this explanation in the spirit of education.

Some say that at the deepest level, men cross-dress because of a primitive fear of castration. The fantasy goes thusly: Because a woman does not have a penis, she is proof that anyone, including himself, could be castrated. By wearing a woman's clothes, the man can prove to himself that women are not castrated and thus, he does not have to be afraid. When the fear is eliminated, sexual arousal becomes possible.

In a recent column on this subject, Ann Landers said that most cross-dressers are "straight as a string." Even if she is correct, her answer did not address the fact that fear rather than freedom runs the lives of cross-dressers. Transvestites can't stop and they can't get turned on without cross-dressing. They are addicted, and even the insult to their wives can't deter them. Fashion-oriented women wearing men's clothes give it up anytime that fashion changes.

The judge and the lawyer with whom I consulted say that cross-dressing is not illegal.

STREET CRACKS

His act is sleight of hand, heavy on laughs

By Lorraine McClish
staff writer

Paul Kozak is coming back to Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle to bring down — or maybe put more aptly — to burn down the house.

The magician's act opens with a ball of fire coming out of nowhere and the sound system blaring away, sounding as if the place were burning down.

It is the same opening he used when he gave a command performance for Prince Charles and Princess Diana as part of the Prince's Royal Trust Gala at the London Palladium.

His credits also include an appearance in the "Comedy and Magic Club Anniversary Show" on Showtime.

It's a flashy beginning, much like Kozak's own personality — full of noise and bravado. It has earned him headliner status, rare for an entertainer who does magic on the comedy club circuit.

His beginnings as a magician are not typical at all. The Pittsburgh native became interested in magic at age 23. That's an extremely late age, considering most professional magicians start honing their craft in their early teens.

He was waiting for his discharge from the U.S. Navy, where his job was decoding messages, when he found a book on magic. After a quick thumb through, Kozak knew destiny was calling.

HIS STUDY of moves and techniques was pursued with the same seriousness as if he was studying for a doctorate. The newly acquired skills paid off.

In 1981, he won the prestigious International Brotherhood of Magician Sleight of Hand Competition. With that award under his belt, Kozak began to earn his living doing table magic at the Dove and Rabbit Club in downtown Pittsburgh.

Simultaneously his flair for comedy began to shine through, which led to his job as house emcee in the Pittsburgh Comedy Club. And in combining his magic talents with stand-up comedy, he developed his stage magic act.

"Without any false modesty, the act was a great success," he said. The proof of that statement came when he was chosen as a semifinalist in the San Francisco Comedy Competition in 1987.

KOZAK DOESN'T pander to audiences by eliminating the magic and doing only sight gags with props, as most comic magicians do.

"There is nothing wrong with that, but I believe real magic can have a place on the comedy club circuit, if it is done in an entertaining manner," Kozak said.

Entertaining is his main concern and he tries desperately not to be typecast as the boorish magician in top hat and tails.

Paul Kozak will perform Tuesday-Saturday, Nov. 27-Dec. 1, at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle, 269 E. Fourth St., Royal. Showtimes are 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday and 8:30 and 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

'It's a bird; it's a plane; it's . . . an ad?

Gary West, owner of Gary's Banners, unfurls one of 40 or so banners that flew over the University of Michigan stadium during a recent football game.

Gary West mans a portable radio, using it to let his pilot know when the next banner is ready for pickup.

By William Coutant
staff writer

If the advertising maxims "target your audience" and "air it out" ring true, some magnificent men in their flying machines are certainly in the right business.

You might think about that the next time you go to a football game. Why a ball game? When you can barely find room to stand up because you're packed between fans and the quarter has ended — so there's nothing much happening down on the field — look up. You'll see anything from a marriage proposal to a sign extolling the virtues of a brand of beer — all flying behind an airplane about 200 feet above.

It may seem like a sideshow, a curiosity of sorts to see a plane dragging a sign across the sky saying "Beverly, will you marry me?" But there are people making a living at it.

"When you consider how much it costs to put an ad on TV or in a newspaper, this is a lot less," said Stewart Hayes, owner of Aerial Advertising in Troy. "You have a captive audience of over 100,000 people at a football game (at Michigan home games), and they're all going to see what you're flying."

HAYES SHOULD know. He runs seven-day-a-week aerial advertising business from April to November, has four airplanes and keeps several pilots and ground crew workers busy. Although most of his advertising is done in the metro area, he's flown as far as Mackinac Island to show a personal message.

But a love of flying isn't enough. This is not the easiest way to make a living.

"Making a living by flying is a tough nut to crack," Hayes said. "This year we had 15 out of 17 weekends where it rained. That just kills your business. If it's bad weather and you can't fly, you can't get your sign up."

Then there is the problem of finding qualified pilots to fly the planes, which are necessarily small, but with big engines needed to pull the long string of letters or signs (up to 30 by 70 feet). Many have not trained before on the L-19 "Bird dog," used in Vietnam for reconnaissance or for crop dusting, which are the type aerial advertisers use.

"It's not flying by the numbers," said Gary West, owner of Gary's Banners and Aerial Ads, Inc. "It's seat-of-the-pants barnstorming."

And when they do fly, most pilots are doing it to get enough flying hours to qualify for a commercial license, not to make a career in advertising.

BUT AS the signs have become bigger and the planes that pull them more powerful, advertisers have seen their advantage.

Dave Thomas, of the Detroit public relations firm Thomas International, said that for certain products, putting your message up in the air may take advertising to a higher plane.

"We were introducing the Mercury Tracer and we wanted to do something unique and different for the Detroit Grand Prix," Thomas said. "It's cost-effective because you have a large amount of people who will see it."

In fact, any sporting event, even in a domed stadium such as the Silverdome, Joe Louis Arena or The Palace can provide a large, receptive audience, Thomas said. Thousands will see the ads on the way in and out of the stadiums, he said.

Still, weather puts limits on aerial advertising and the seven-day-a-week grind during the warm months can also become discouraging, as it did for Roger Zahm of Temperance.

Zahm now flies part-time and works full time as an air traffic controller.

"It's (aerial advertising) a hard job to do full-time," he said. "The weather is unforgiving. If it snows or rains, you don't fly and you don't get paid."

Zahm also wanted to spend more time with his family, something he can now do even on those days when he flies.

"We take the whole family to the airport on football game days and have a picnic and make an outing out of it," he said.

THE MONEY he makes advertising helps support his love of flying, but Zahm relies on his day job for security.

For Hayes, winters are taken up with working at a family ski resort business in northern Michigan, but he still finds time to spend with his family. A few years ago, Hayes was offered a full-time job as a first officer with Northwest Airlines, but turned it down.

"I talked it over with my wife," he said. "But I knew I'd be away from home for three to four days a week. I didn't want to be away from my family that long. I didn't want to miss my children growing up."

West continues flying through the winter in warmer climates, such as Florida.

Aerial advertisers shy away from anything derogatory, but, with the aid of letters up to 12-feet high, they can get almost any message across to the right audience.

So the next time you go to a game, concert or race, look up and you'll probably see an ad for a hotel, beverage, pizzeria or political candidate. And it's a good bet that Beverly said yes.

Aerial ad advice

There are some tricks to the trade of aerial advertising.

To accommodate as many customers as possible, advertisers will fly a banner, head back to the airport, drop it off and hook on another without touching down.

In that way, one plane can fly several banners during an event or game.

☐ Aerial Advertising of Troy at 435-8122.

☐ Gary's Banners at 1-800-766-4279.

☐ R & M Aerial Advertising at 1-856-8088.

After a successful hook-up, the banner is lifted skyward on its trip to the stadium.

photos by BILL HANSEN

From the air, it's hard to spot the three banners being flown over U-M Stadium, but for the 100,000 plus crowd, they stand out clearly against the clear autumn sky.

Art auction to benefit elderly residents

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

AN ART auction of limited-edition etchings, lithographs, serigraphs, watercolors, sculptures and oils by such artists and sculptors as Frederic Remington, Renoir, Matisse, Joan Miro, Picasso and Chagall will benefit the elderly residents at Haworth Center, Farmington Hills.

The auction begins at 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1. The center, a medium care facility, is part of Detroit Baptist Manor. A preview reception of the art to be auctioned will

The auctioneer will be Richard Rogers, owner of Oxford Art Galleries, Detroit. The gallery maintains branches in New York, Los Angeles, Lansing and Birmingham.

Bidding will start in the range of $25 to $85; investment art bidding will start slightly higher. Checks and major credit cards will be accepted. All art comes with a certificate of authenticity.

Remington studied at the Art Students League in New York and at the Yale School of Fine Arts. In the 19th Century, Remington, at age 19, made his first trip to America's untamed West.

USING HIS resume of experience as gold prospector, mule rancher and cowboy, he illustrated the wild frontier of the American West. His illustrations appeared regularly in Harper's Weekly and in books such as "Hiawatha" by Longfellow.

Remington served as an artist-correspondent in Cuba during the Spanish-American War. It was here he met Theodore Roosevelt. At a later date, Remington illustrated Roosevelt's books and articles.

The art auction provides the aging among us with a few of life's pleasurable activities. "Bingo is a big hit around here," said Judi Schneider, activities director and resident services head at Detroit Baptist Manor.

But Bingo prizes, Christmas parties, trees, arts and crafts to make yule tree decorations, outings and activities in general cost money, or, at the very least, take the kind heart of a caring individual to donate provisions.

We tend to forget the majority of the elderly residents can no longer afford the luxury of holiday shopping, either financially or physically. "Some church groups donate Afghans," Schneider said.

HAWORTH CENTER also needs donations of used books for the residents to read.

"The revenue from the auction goes into our activities budget," Schneider said, "but with four Christmas parties coming up, we're looking for gifts (donated) for residents. I'd like to bring in entertainment, like the ballet, but, unfortunately, that costs money."

Tickets for the art auction are $5 and are available by calling in advance, or at the door.

All art is gallery quality, framed and matted, and ready to hang on your wall. Oxford Art Galleries has donated a gallery-quality piece of art, already matted and framed to be given as a door prize, but you must be present to win.

Catalogs of the art to be auctioned are available at the door.

The art auction benefit will take place at the Detroit Baptist Manor's Alpha Center, 30251 13 Mile, Farmington Hills, east of Orchard Lake Road.

For more information about the art auction or to donate items of any kind, call Judi Schneider: 737-8830.

This hand-colored lithograph by Zapp is entitled, "Mother and Child." The sensitive portrait is done in neutral tones.

Bidding will start in the range of $25 to $85; investment art bidding will start slightly higher.

This lithograph by Vickers is entitled, "Winter Sunshine." It's hand-colored in pastel colors on a mainly white background of winter.

Scary night out reinforces driving safety tips

Q: I had a frightening experience that might not have happened if I'd been better organized.

About 7 p.m. on a Saturday, I decided to go shopping at a nice mall. I had just filled my car with gas at a self-serve station and it had crossed my mind that I should check the oil, but I didn't, thinking I'd do it "later."

Just as I passed an exit on the way to the mall, my temperature warning light came on and my engine began smoking. I knew it was six miles to the next exit and turnarounds were impossible, so I had to pull off to the side.

There I was, a woman, alone, with car trouble on the expressway, after dark, every woman's worst nightmare. But I smugly had my "Ace in the Hole" in the dash pocket, a white sign with big reflective letters that said: "Emergency-Call Police."

It's always better to err on the safe side. And the greatest concern should be getting help rather than worrying about the police getting too many calls.

I rechecked to assure the doors were all locked, crawled into the back seat and held the sign flush against the back window where every car's lights shone, confident I would soon be rescued.

Dorothy Lehmkuhl

When no one had shown up after 15 minutes I waited for a break in the traffic (when I wouldn't be seen) and got out to check to see if the sign was as visible as I thought. Yes, it was. I got back in and waited another 20 minutes, but still no one showed up.

Finally, I knew I had to hoof it. Fortunately, the weather wasn't too cold. I was wearing comfortable shoes and I had stopped not too far from a business building with lights and a few cars.

The ditch wasn't too deep and the fence wasn't too hard to climb. Luck was with me and some congenial security guards fixed a container of water for me to add to my engine, and I was on my way.

What scares me most, though, is that when I got home I called the local and the state police and neither one had received a call about me. I feel sure that literally dozens of people with car phones had passed me by, yet not one person had even tried to get me help.

The state police dispatcher said people will call them about accidents or when animals are loose, but it seems people really aren't too interested in helping other people who need assistance. I find that appalling and a sad commentary on today's society.

A: Your story is a scary one, and fits on all the people who could have helped you with a simple phone call but didn't. I hope by my printing this, two lessons will be learned:

1) Just because lots of other cars have passed someone needing help, motorists should never "assume" that someone else has already called the police. It's always better to err on the safe side. And the greatest concern should be getting help rather than worrying about the police getting too many calls.

2) You are right. This probably could have been avoided if you had checked your car fluids regularly. With today's gas prices so high, it's tempting to serve yourself and ignore that much-needed regular maintenance. If you don't want to check your motor yourself, pull into full service every fourth time you fill up your gas tank and ask the station personnel to do it for you. Also, don't forget to check your antifreeze soon. Your next breakdown could be an even colder one.

J. WALTER THOMPSON ADVERTISING AGENCY GALLERY

Saturday, Dec. 1 — Artist Susan Pickering-Rothamel exhibits contemporary and interpretive artwork through Jan. 10. Her creations are geometrically shaped or free-formed enameled copper pieces in transparent, jewel-like colors. Each sculptured form is fired at 1,700 degrees as many as five times, embellished with gold leaf, semiprecious stones and antique beads. The enameled dominate in simplistic mats and unadorned frames. Large-scale collages and smaller, more intimate, mixed media pieces are vibrantly colored, movement-filled artworks. Handmade papers, textiles, gold leaf and beading enhance each piece, which represents a particular Biblical passage. 600 Renaissance Center Building, Jefferson Ave., Detroit.

Who cares what time it is?

Now you can place your Observer & Eccentric Classified Ad 24 hours a day!

Here's how it works:
First, you must have a touch-tone telephone.
Then, all you do is call us - remember, it doesn't make any difference if we're not here - to place an ad, cancel one or change something on one you've placed earlier.
Let's say it's 10 o'clock at night and you've just realized that you forgot to include the fact that the car you're selling has air conditioning. It's a good selling point, so you punch up our classified number and wait for the operator to guide you through the steps for changing your ad. Have in mind the exact information you want to give us, speak clearly and a bit slower than you usually do. And that's it.
If it's after 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, your changes will be made for the next Monday paper. Or, if it's after 5:00 p.m. on a Friday or the weekend, your changes will hit the Thursday papers.
Pretty neat, huh?
Of course, our Classified Ad Takers are here every Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. But now, if you miss them, you can still do something about your ad - at your convenience.

The Crossings At Canton.

Apartment living just got better.

When you make the Crossing your home, you'll get more than a new address. The Crossings at Canton offers 19 different floor-plans with 1 to 4 bedrooms. And whether you choose a 2-level townhouse or a luxury apartment, the renewed beauty of this charming rental community shines through in every one. These apartments and townhomes are the largest in the area, yet are still incredibly affordable.

Discover these features at The Crossings at Canton:

• Dens & Fireplaces
• Fully-applanced Kitchens
• Patios or Balconies
• Central Air Conditioning
• A Clubhouse with sauna, indoor pool, exercise room, and more!

Visit The Crossings at Canton today. We're just 20 minutes from Ann Arbor and downtown Detroit, yet comfortably away from it all. From I-275, just exit Arbor Rd. West to Haggerty Rd., follow south to Joy Rd. then east to The Crossings. Open Mon.-Fri. 10-6, Sat. 10-5, Sun. 12-5. Phone 455-2424 today.

What if we told you that you can now call us 24 hours a day to place, change, or cancel your Observer & Eccentric Classified Ad?

No, we didn't change our deadlines, we didn't even bend them, they're still the same* - we did something a whole lot better.

We installed an electronic answering system that's on the job 24 hours a day, every day.

Here's how it works:
First, you must have a touch-tone telephone.
Then, all you do is call us - remember, it doesn't make any difference if we're not here - to place an ad, cancel one or change something on one you've placed earlier.

Let's say it's three o'clock in the morning and you've just sat straight up in bed remembering that you forgot to place that classified ad for your snowmobile. No problem. Just punch up our classified number and wait for the operator to guide you through the steps for changing your ad. Have in mind the exact information you want to give us, speak clearly and a bit slower

Will TV ads spark sales of property?

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Selling by television is nothing new — television has long since transformed from the greatest potential for learning and communication it was originally thought to be to the world's greatest marketing tool.

In America, television is "Sell-ivision."

Television has been used to sell everything from fast food to political candidates (OK, maybe that's not much of a contradiction) — but selling commercial, industrial and office buildings — now that's a new twist.

Keith Simmons, the producer of "Business Opportunities of the Nineties," a new show in pre-production, thinks selling commercial real estate is an idea whose time has come. "In the 21st century, you'll see a show like this in every major market."

Beginning the week of Jan. 14, Business Opportunities will begin airing on WKBD-Channel 50 Monday through Friday at 6 a.m.

Simmons said in addition to highlighting commercial real estate, the show will also promote vacant land, businesses for sale, and messages from communities trying to reach developers and builders.

"In essence, it's a video classified section," Simmons said.

WHILE NOT A REPLACEMENT for walking a site, it will help the buyer take an informed step, he said. "The program should be part of a total media mix."

When a person has something to sell, Simmons said the best way to sell it is by getting it in front of potential buyers as many times and in as many ways as possible. "Whatever else you're doing, (television) should be part of it," Simmons said.

John Serra, the host of Builder's Open House (seen Sundays on WDIV Channel Four), will host Business Opportunities.

Serra, a licensed commercial broker, said there is a communication gap between people who have property to sell and those who want to buy it. That gap, he said, is the video media.

In today's "now society," where everyone is competing to stay ahead, "the business man has more money than time," he said. A television show will permit investors to preview property over a broad geographic area in a short time.

Serra said television is ideal for selling commercial property. With it, he said, a seller can show a building's exterior and interior, its location, its special features — such as proximity to roads and other neighboring properties — price, and a contact person.

BUT MIKE VANLOKEREN, a partner with the commercial broker firm Hanzl Keptic and VanLokeren in Troy, said while television may work for residential real estate, he doubts television advertising will be helpful in selling commercial real estate.

VanLokeren said most people who are investors in commercial real estate "have better things to do than sit around watching (television)." Most investors, he said, will get in touch with an experienced broker through a banker, accountant or financial adviser.

Selling residential property is very different from selling commercial real estate, he said. "If there are 50 different homes, they're all different. If there are 50 different buildings, they're all essentially the same."

A house fulfills several functions, he added. There are the practical aspects — shelter — but they also fulfill ego, provide a place to raise a family, VanLokeren said.

Someone looking for commercial property wants square footage and an inexpensive lease. "It fulfills no ego."

PAUL KAUFF, a broker with Crabbill & Co. in Livonia, said using television to sell commercial real estate, to his knowledge, has never been tested. "I don't even know if (using television to sell residential real estate) works."

But that doesn't mean it won't work, Kauff said, adding that he thinks the idea has possibilities.

The best marketing tool in the commercial real estate business, Kauff said, is the billboard or signs put on a parcel of property. "Most people already have an idea of where they want to (locate)," he said.

After deciding what area they like, most investors will drive through the area looking for prospects and then get the name of the sign.

But in a slow economy, a television show might increase the chances a property will be seen, Kauff said. "Anything that will help — especially now — is worth a shot."

Harold Lawson, president of the M.E. Arden Co. in Farmington Hills, said the only way to find out if television will be helpful in selling commercial property is by trying it.

"Why hasn't someone tried it? That's a good question," Lawson said. Most brokers rely on personal contacts developed by years of experience and they've had success that way.

Craving for carport causes consternation

The condominium complex I live in has covered carport areas for its residents to use. The problem is that there is not a sufficient amount of spaces for the number of residents in the complex. I have learned from other residents that a number of years ago, quite some time before I became a resident, the association had asked all residents whether they wanted a carport space. Those who said yes were assigned a space. Those who said no were not. This policy has stuck through the years despite the fact that there has been numerous resident changes since the time this policy was adopted. I have been watching certain spaces for a while now, which always seem to be unoccupied so I know there are a select few that are not being used. I would like one of these covered carport spaces but I do not know how to go about addressing the issue in the condominium. They aren't too receptive to residents who try to bring about change. Do you have any suggestions?

Review your condominium documents to determine whether the carports have been assigned as limited common elements or otherwise. Also determine whether alternatively the association has a right to assign carport spaces or otherwise license them. Depending upon your review, preferably with the benefit of competent counsel, bring the matter to the attention of the association under the guise that the assignment of carports is discriminatory and irrational. Write the board a letter and demand that it deal with this problem in a proper fashion. If it ignores your request, you may have a basis under the condominium documents to pursue the association for redress.

Our subdivision consists of 100

condo queries Robert M. Meisner

lots. Each lot is subject to various building and use restrictions that limit the use to single family residential purposes and prohibit the construction of fences higher than four feet. The Michigan Department of Transportation expropriated various lots for construction of a highway that now violates subdivision building and use restrictions on those lots condemned. Are we entitled to any compensation for violation of the deed restrictions and the resultant damages due to the proximity of our homes to the new highway?

Yes. There is, in effect, deemed a partial taking of your property for which you may be entitled to compensation similar to an out-and-out condemnation. You should be able to establish the diminution in value of your property as a result of the construction of the highway and the disturbance of your restrictions. If you cannot resolve the matter reasonably with the Department of Transportation, you should consult with an attorney who will obtain an appraisal indicating the amount of the diminution in value of your property.

You may also be entitled to recoup your legal fees.

I am buying a condominium unit. The Realtor insists that the seller have at least five days from the date of closing to vacate the premises. I do not have an attorney, but somehow I am uncomfortable with that proposition. What is your suggestion?

When I represent a purchaser of any property, I insist that the occupancy or possession of the premises be at closing. If that is not possible or feasible, I require a substantial penalty well in excess of the amount of the mortgage payments to be held in escrow by an escrow agent and collected out of the proceeds to insure that the purchaser is adequately funded in the event that he seller does not vacate the premises on the date promised. In other words, the seller may be penalized in the amount of $150-$300 per day for each day he stays in the premises beyond the date when he is to vacate. That puts a great incentive on the seller to vacate on time so that it will not be necessary for the purchaser to begin eviction proceedings to obtain possession of the unit. I would seriously question the propriety of any contrary provision.

Home theater and custom audio-video installations are on their way to becoming the status symbols of the '90s.

These audio-video systems, which hold a strong allure for consumers, can provide concert hall sound and theater realism to discs and movies.

But, according to the editors of Video Magazine, electronics installations of this nature involve more than just connecting wires and plugging in components.

In 1989, the custom electronics installation industry did over $400 million in sales and services, according to industry sources. This money was spent by consumers who paid experts for their knowledge of electrical systems, audio-video components, carpentry, home design and how all these should go together.

Finding a reputable installer can be difficult and the effects of a poorly installed custom setup can wreak havoc on an entertainment system. Improperly placed or shielded wires can cause interference and bad reception. Speakers mounted in the wrong position yield distorted sound.

The association that can direct consumers to accredited installers in their areas is the Custom Electronic Design & Installation Association (CEDIA), a nationwide non-profit trade organization whose members are companies that specialize in installing electronic entertainment, automation, security and communication systems in the home.

To find a member company in your area, write to CEDIA, 10400 Roberts Road, Palos Hills, IL 60465. The telephone number is 1-800-CEDIA30.

To become a CEDIA member, a company:

- Needs to have been in business under the same name for at least two years.

GET A Lou LaRiche TUNE-UP FOR $51⁹⁵

Does your car suffer from a persistent cough, have trouble breathing, or get exhausted running uphill? If your answer is YES...it's time to bring in your "loved one" for a thorough tune-up:

- Detailed engine diagnosis
- Install AC plugs
- Check distributor cap/rotor
- Check ignition & timing
- Set proper idle
- Replace PVC valve
- Check belts
- Inspect battery terminals.

Start your car on the road to healthy performance. Stop in before 1-1-91.

*For 6-cyl. engines with air conditioning, 8-cyl. slightly higher; 4-cyl. slightly lower.

HOROSCOPE

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
Work on ironing out some bumps in personal relationships. You can have success at work and on the domestic front. Plan your time wisely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
It is best to get details out of the way early. You'll have more time to pursue things that make you happy if you don't procrastinate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
If you go after a specific goal, there is a great chance you will achieve the desired results. A friend from a distance offers good news.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Relatives may cause problems, but you are ready for anything. Business affairs should take off nicely this week. You are in for a surprise at work.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
A new person in your life could bring you prosperity. Paying attention to detail prevents chaos and long delays concerning finances.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Others confide in you. It is of the utmost importance for you to keep their secrets. Show your friends a lighter side of your personality.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

You may be attracted to one who opposes your way of doing things. They say opposites attract, and this may be the one for you. Be resourceful.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
A time-consuming project will be completed, and you will discover a feeling of great satisfaction. Don't be so sensitive about your work.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
If you've been thinking about dieting, it may be best to wait until after the holidays. You are strong, but there is no reason to push your luck.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Follow your heart instead of your head. It's not always easy for Virgos to let go and have fun, but do it, if for no other reason than to relieve stress.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
You will receive good fortune from unusual sources this week. You will need to follow intuition to get you through a somewhat sticky situation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
Young people need your undivided attention. A great victory is to be won in the workplace, and friends will be proud of you.

Kate Jackson portrays emotionally numb woman

Rick Schroder plays long-lost son who returns

By Candace Havens

Mare Blackburn, a Vietnam War widow, was shopping in a rural Minnesota grocery store and was distracted for only a few minutes. During those crucial moments her 3-year-old son was kidnapped.

Sixteen years later on Halloween night, a 19-year-old stranger knocks on Blackburn's door — claiming to be her son.

So begins the plot of the CBS thriller A Stranger Within, airing Tuesday, Nov. 27, on CBS. The movie stars Kate Jackson as Blackburn, Chris Sarandon as Dan Vance, Blackburn's boyfriend, and Rick (don't call him Ricky) Schroder as Blackburn's son.

"I think the movie is going to be pretty scary," commented Jackson in a recent interview. "It was written by John Pilmeier, who wrote Agnes of God. He (Pilmeier) is such a magnetic presence and he's a wonderful writer. He was on the set, and when you got finished with a scene you would look, wherever he was in the room, to see if he approved. Tom Holland (Fright Night, Psycho II) directed and he is also very talented.

"We filmed on location in Minnesota about 40 miles from Minneapolis," Jackson continued. "My character is a woman who feels you just don't get second chances in life. She has pretty much shut down emotionally. She was married to a man who was killed in Vietnam, and then her son was kidnapped. I think at that point she decided it is better to just not feel anything rather than get hurt."

In the flashback scene in the beginning, the makeup artist had to make Jackson look like a 22-year-old. The beautiful actress joked about the fact that 15 years ago she would have been working on Charlie's Angels and it all seemed kind of weird. "There were some days when I was so tired there was no way they were going to make me look younger. I think they probably shot the whole thing through a bunch of gauze or maybe a Navajo blanket to

The filming was a positive experience for the actress, although the conditions were a little frigid, and it was a very physical film. "It wasn't the easiest possible movie to do. It was a tough schedule and we worked through the night a few times. But I think the hard work is going to pay off. Rick has grown into a very solid actor. Chris is just wonderful. He never has a false moment," said Jackson.

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

She strolled into my office the first summer that we were developing the concept of Community Television in 1983. Sharon McDonald was just returning from a tennis match and decided to follow up on an article she had read in the Observer. "Just what is this opportunity involving television?" she asked. Having a teaching background with a blend of Journalism and Television, Sharon's curiosity had been aroused. You could feel the energy and enthusiasm in the room. As usual when the opportunity came to talk about my favorite subject, I had many ideas. One of the special privileges of my position is the ability to help people turn their ideas into real results through television. Sharon and I definitely had ideas!

Since she was teaching she agreed to join up with a team of folks and share in the production of a News Show which we entitled 'Community Upbeat'. Eventually the team turned the show into a documentary talk show format. They explored issues of social significance. Everyone learned the skills they would need to produce the show through hands-on experience.

Sharon McDonald always looked for opportunities for practical applications of her newly found skills. Since she was teaching science in the Plymouth School District, Sharon videotaped a Science Fair and incorporated interviews for television.

In 1986 Sharon was offered the position of Cable Television Manager Teacher for Clarenceville Public Schools. She directs all the functions for the school district's educational access channel, which provides 5 hours of student programming on a daily basis. She was now in a situation to explore the creative relationships of the educational, and governmental bureaucracies which are dedicated to the service of community television.

The lessons learned through MetroVision were just the beginning to the expanding horizons of many people. Sharon put into practice the following production elements: script writing, producing, on-camera performing in studio, remote productions, scheduling, and teaching about various pieces of equipment. Working with her students to produce the award winning series "Every Year" provides Sharon with the motivation to explore new ideas.

Patience and foresight are characteristics she found necessary, as she has diligently attended meeting after meeting to nurture the relationships necessary to open the doors to future technology.

Meanwhile, because of its relationship with the Community Upbeat team this type of television programming was receiving Statewide acclaim. The Archdiocese of Detroit encouraged some of the productions to take place in their Detroit studios.

Throughout the past eight years Sharon and I continue to cross paths. This past fall we were honored with the opportunity to teach at Oakland Community College. Our class is called Radio and Television Studio Management. We have had fun sharing our resources with students and learning from them each week. There are many times throughout the three hour evening that our minds will tune into the same idea and the entire class will join in on a lively discussion.

What we are witnessing is a real success story. Community Television has received a great deal of acclaim. Community Television reaches out and explores new ideas which will enhance the industry. A person with Sharon McDonald's wisdom, intelligence, and personality is always in demand. One indeed does become a goal-oriented professional with excellent communication, organizational and leadership talents.

1990 — Six LARA Awards for student produced programming (Livonia Access Recognition Award)

1990 — Two SADD Video Production Awards (Students Against Driving Drunk)

1989 — Six LARA Awards for student produced programming

1988 — National Education Association Award for excellence in education (one of ten national recipients)

1987 — Third Place Student Emmy Award for 30 second PSA on substance abuse.

'Decoration Day' explores military racism in WW II

Veterans James Garner and Bill Cobbs co-star

By AMY SCHMIDT

Why would anyone turn down the Congressional Medal of Honor? That is the subject of "Decoration Day," a Hallmark Hall of Fame movie airing Sunday, Dec. 2, on NBC. "Decoration Day" is based on the novella by John William Corrington.

Judge Albert Sidney Finch is a lonely widower existing in a gloomy retirement. His only contact with the world is through his irascible but loyal housekeeper Rowena.

James Garner ("The Rockford Files") stars with Bill Cobbs ("Rage of Angels"), Judith Ivey ("Down Home"), Ruby Dee ("Do the Right Thing") and Larry Fishburne ("Cotton Club") in this human-interest story set in 1975 Georgia.

Judge Finch (Garner) is jolted out of his languor when he is asked to champion the cause of a former boyhood friend, Gee Peniwell (Cobbs), a black World War II veteran. On a point of principle, Peniwell has refused to accept the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Why? In a recent interview, Judith Ivey, who plays the woman who helps the judge begin his life anew, wouldn't give that away: "It's part of the mystery of the piece which is unwoven by James Garner," she said enigmatically. She did tell us this: "Ultimately it's dealing with the racism that he felt existed at the time while he was in battle."

It is interesting to note that both Garner and Cobbs are military veterans, and Cobbs' father fought in World War II. "I had very strange feelings as a boy," said Cobbs, "seeing my father in the service, and then seeing him as a second-class citizen." A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Cobbs recalls, as a boy, visiting his father at Orlando Air Base, in Florida and hopping up onto a counter seat at a local drugstore. "I found out that I had no right to sit in that chair, that we had to go to the back of the drugstore and wait until everyone else had been taken care of."

Garner also recalls racial discrimination within the Army when he was in Korea. "The Army was still basically segregated. I remember there was a black unit of 14 soldiers, and nobody knew what to do with them."

"Their unit was too small to really stand alone, and nobody else wanted them in their section," said Garner. "When I heard about it, I said, 'My God, give them to me. They can join my section.' And you know what, after that I had the best section of all."

The passing of friendships is also an issue in this film. "I think it's awfully important to try to maintain relationships with people you know and like," said Garner. "In the story, Albert Sidney has let about 30 years pass without talking to his closest childhood friend, a black guy named Gee. I guess everybody lets that happen, but it's a real shame."

If there is one thought that Garner says he would like audiences to take away from "Decoration Day," it is that people should never give up on life. "Here's Albert Sidney, his wife's gone and died on him, he's quit his job, he's bored out of his mind, he's feeling terribly sorry for himself. And then he's presented with a challenge and he starts living again. He even falls in love, for heaven's sakes," said Garner. "You know, it doesn't matter what curves life throws us, it's not over 'til it's over. This story is all about hanging in there, and picking up the pieces, and moving on."

Soaps undergo real-life baby boom

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: My favorite soap stars, Bobbie and Felicia from General Hospital, had babies. What did they have, and what did they name the babies? —A fan in Michigan

Dear Fan: There has been a sudden baby boom, not just among the GH stars, but other soaps as well. Jacklyn Zeman, who plays Bobbie Spencer Jones, and her husband, Glenn Gordon, had a daughter. They named her Cassidy Zee. Jack Wagner and Kristina Malandro (Frisco and Felicia, GH) had a boy they named John Peter. Kale Brown (Another World) and his wife, Karen Allen, had a son they named Nicholas Allen Brown. Lane Davies (ex-Mason, Santa Barbara) and his wife, Holly Swan, announced the birth of their son, Thatcher Lee. Kristian Alfonso (ex-Hope, Days of Our Lives and Pilar, Falcon Crest) and her husband, Simon Macauley, also have a new addition, Eugene William Alfonso Macauley.

Dear Candace: I am 73 years old, and I have been watching Days of Our Lives, Another World and The Young and the Restless for as many years as they have been on. I always enjoyed the shows, but of late it's just too much.

First Kimberly was to have Shane's baby, and now they make it sound like it is Cal's baby. I think it is crazy. We don't know if she had the baby, is she OK? I would like to know if Patsy Pease is going to come back to the show.

I also can't stand what they are doing with little Carrie. She is a good girl and they shouldn't make her bad.

On Another World, I'm ready for all this to stop with Rachel. Why make Mac the bad man? If he had another child he would have said something. He was that kind of man. Paulina and Ken made all this up for the money. It's all so mixed up. The writers have really gotten off track with the show. —Jean De Luca, Long Island, N.Y.

Dear Jean: The producers of the show were certain Patsy Pease would return, but now it seems no one knows anything for sure. She had her baby in September. The baby is a boy and his father is musician Robert Norton.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

LET'S TALK

Howard Hesseman pursuing variety of acting roles

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I am interested in knowing what happened to Howard Hesseman of Head of the Class. What is he doing now? Is he married and does he have any upcoming series or specials? —M.K., Thunder Bay, Ontario

A: It was Howard Hesseman's choice to leave the Head of the Class series. He felt it was time to move on to other roles. He recently starred with Patty Duke in the ABC movie Call Me Anna. I am sure we will be seeing more of him. He is not married but has a longtime (10 years) live-in love, French actress Caroline Ducrocq.

Q: Do you know whatever happened to Gail Davis who played Annie Oakley in the Annie Oakley series back in the 1950s? I went to see her in person when she came to Charleston, S.C. with Gene Autry. I would like to write and tell her how much I enjoyed watching her series. It has never been rerun. Is her series on video tape? —Cheryl Durbin, Devils Lake, N.D.

A: Gail Davis in real life was a skilled rider and a crack shot. She did most of her own stunt work on the series. She was a leading lady in many of the western films including Yukon Manhunt, On Top of Old Smoky, Winning of the West and more. When she retired from the screen, she became a manager of other celebrities. I am sorry. I do not have her address for you. To inquire for a video tape write: Yesterday Video, Box C, Sandy Hook, CT 06482, or Marshall Discount Video, Box 328, Trenton, MI 48183.

Q: I remember the old-time movie actor Charles Farrell with much nostalgia. I remember he owned the Racquet Club in Palm Springs. When did he die and how old was he? —Ruth O'Brien, Herbster, Wis.

A: Charles Farrell died on May 6, 1990, at his home in Palm Springs, Calif. He was 82 years old.

Q: Whatever happened to George Burns' son Ronnie? He used to appear with George and Gracie as a youngster and even as a teenager, but I haven't seen any information on him or even heard George mention him in years. —S.S., Thunder Bay, Ontario.

A: Ronnie Burns, the adopted son of George and Gracie Burns, is now 54. He is a business consultant. His adopted sister Sandra, 55, is a school counselor.
