Rally for troops turns into parade

By Diane Gale
staff writer

When the cease-fire was announced Wednesday, a Canton rally for U.S. troops was quickly renamed.

A walking parade will begin at noon Saturday, March 9, starting at Canton Center and Ford Road to Sheldon and Ford Road to the Kmart parking lot. An hour-long rally will follow in the lot adjacent to Manufacturers Bank.

Ford Road will be closed 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on that stretch.

CANTON RESIDENT Sylvia Kneeshaw, whose son, Scott, 21, is serving in the 82nd Airborne, came up with the idea.

Even though the cease-fire was declared last week, she said, she won't be content until all the troops are home.

"You have to read between the lines. They're still in harm's way," she said Friday morning.

"There's no confirmation that the 82nd will be coming back."

The rally is to support the troops and "to tell them that we support what's happening over there," she said.

HER HUSBAND, Larry Kneeshaw, and Eric Webster of Canton formed the group Sand Aid. They'll sing "Desert Strength" during the rally. The song is a ballad written by Larry Kneeshaw to Scott.

Plans under way for celebration at Mayflower

The cease fire in the Middle East is just days old, but plans are under way in Plymouth for a celebration.

"I'm presently trying to initiate a U.S. Victory Party," said Creon Smith, Mayflower Hotel co-owner.

Smith said nothing has been scheduled yet. "We're in the idea stage right now," he said, adding he's been talking to people around the community. "There's been a lot of support."

Tentative plans call for the party to be held at the Mayflower Meeting House "within the next month or month and a half," Smith said. "We're trying to involve Congressman Purcell, our governor, and we'd like to involve our vice president."

Plymouth Mayor Dennis Bila said, "I think we should do all we can to honor our residents who served, they did a great job.

"I haven't had an opportunity to think about what we might do as a community," Bila said, adding the city commission would likely discuss this soon.

Law receives award

State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, has been awarded the 1991 Michigan Medical Association Public Service Award for legislative contributions to the veterinary profession.

Law was honored at the 1991 Michigan Veterinary Conference in January in Lansing "for his ongoing efforts to improve the welfare of animals in Michigan and for his support of the small-business community," a statement from the Michigan Veterinary Medical Association said.

Law has sponsored bills to increase the penalties for animal fighting, to require animals adopted from shelters to be sterilized and to delay Michigan bear hunting season to allow for bear population studies.

He has also co-sponsored bills to regulate the ownership of exotic pets and to prohibit the transportation of dogs in open bed trucks.

The association is a statewide professional organization with about 1,400 members.

Barbara Murphy is happier now that the war is over. The Plymouth woman put up a yellow ribbon in August when her son was sent to the Persian Gulf. She said it has become worn with time, but will stay up until her son returns.

Worried mom waits for son's call

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Barbara Murphay was comforted by Fred Van Hees the night the war broke out in the Gulf.

The cease-fire in the Gulf War is on, but "I'm still waiting to be exuberant," Plymouth's Barbara Murphy said Friday.

That's because Murphy, a Plymouth-Salem High teacher, was still waiting to hear from her son Paul, a 29-year-old Marine. She last heard from him in a Jan. 20 letter.

"I can't allow myself to be that completely free of worry until I finally hear from my son," she said.

Murphy believes Paul was with a unit assigned to spot Iraqi artillery on the Kuwait border.

Murphy was surprised the war ended so quickly, she said.

"I think from the way the ground war was going it (the cease-fire) was partly anticipated.

Meanwhile, the yellow ribbon she tied on the tree in front of her house in August is getting weather-beaten.

"I can't wait to be able to take that down."

Residents greet Gulf victory with relief, skepticism

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Sue Davis felt both relief and skepticism when she heard the Persian Gulf war was winding down.

"I've just kind of been operating under numb," said Davis, whose husband, Ed, is in the Army Reserves in Saudi Arabia. "I don't think excitement was something I was feeling." She still doesn't trust Saddam Hussein.

Ed Davis, 47, is a special agent with a criminal investigative unit.

"It's my understanding that what their job is is to investigate allegations of war crimes," said Sue Davis. "That's what their mission is."

The Davises, Canton residents, have three teenage children. Ed Davis's unit was activated in late November. He left for Saudia Arabia in mid-December, following training in Indiana.

Davis has written letters, although they're three or four weeks old by the time they arrive in the U.S. He last called on Feb. 14.

"He sounded OK and he said he was OK," said Sue Davis, director of community services for Growth Works Inc. in Plymouth.

SHE'S NOT SURE just when her husband will come home. He and others in his unit could be involved in work with prisoners of war.

'I thought it was too good to be true. It's almost like I'm waiting for something to go wrong.'

— Karyn Gniewek

"A lot of that is just being undertaken. My assumption is he'll be there until his job is done."

Ed Davis recently retired following a career of more than 20 years with the Michigan State Police. He's been doing consulting and private investigative work since his retirement.

"I don't have any anxiety about his safety anymore," she said. "He may not come home right away, but it's like he's away on a business trip. He's OK, he's safe, nothing will happen to him."

Their father's absence has been difficult for the Davis children.

"I think they've coped as well as they can."

Family friends have been supportive. Davis's unit is based in Jackson, and Sue Davis and other spouses of reservists began to meet once a month.

Duty called mechanic away from job in area

Stanley Bartusiak got married three days before he was shipped to the Persian Gulf.

The Romulus resident told coworkers at Canton's Utility Support Services that they really shouldn't worry about him, because being a mechanic he didn't expect to be on the front lines in danger's way.

"He said don't worry, I'll be OK, said Joseph Moran, Utility Support Services vice president of operations.

"He said his job was behind the lines repairing equipment."

Maid of Erin

Luck of the Irish smiles on local woman

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Plymouth Township's Eileen Fallon says she feels "fantastic" about being chosen Maid of Erin, on the eve of festivities surrounding St. Patrick's Day.

Fallon, 21, a slim, blue-eyed University of Michigan senior majoring in political science, was chosen from among 13 contestants for the honor during festivities Feb. 23 at the Gaelic League hall in Detroit.

Among festivities she'll attend in coming days, along with her court, are the painting of the shamrock downtown, the traditional Mass and the parade scheduled for March 10 downtown.

"It's a great honor," said Fallon, who works part-time in store security and plans a career with the FBI.

"We're real proud of her, because she's worked real hard for it," said her mother Judy, born in America of Irish parents. Eileen's dad Sean was born in Dublin.

Eileen's interest in her Irish heritage got a boost in 1980, when she began studying Irish step-dancing. "I really got involved in Irish culture," she said, adding she also learned more about traditional Irish music, while studying classical piano.

For the Maid of Erin competition, she performed two traditional Irish songs on piano, "The Town I Love So Well" and 'Derry Air (Danny Boy)".

Contestants are judged on poise, personality, speaking ability, knowledge of Irish culture and on presentation.

How did her friends react to her selection? "They're very happy," said Fallon, who in her spare time enjoys downhill skiing, aerobics and music.

Fallon, who was chosen to be a member of the Maid of Erin court in 1988, also won a free trip to Ireland as part of her selection as this year's Maid of Erin.

She plans to take the trip in the summer of 1992.

Increase in local assessments to raise taxes

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Plymouth and Plymouth Township homeowners will likely pay more in taxes this year, as house values and assessments continue to rise.

On Tuesday, the township board of trustees chose to accept its assessors subdivision-by-subdivision assessment of property, based on 1990 house sales.

By that tabulation, Supervisor Maurice Breen said roughly 60 percent of township homeowners would see assessments rise "by less than 4 percent, some by as less as 2." Breen said that generally, that percentage will affect owners of about 3,500 of the township's less expensive houses.

About 25 percent of township homeowners will get assessment increases ranging from 4 to 8 percent, while 15 percent — those generally with the newest and most expensive homes in the township — will see assessments rise from 7.6 to 9.5 percent, Breen said.

"I don't like to raise anybody," Breen said Tuesday, adding assessments must rise along with property values, as called for under state law.

ASSESSMENTS OF industrial property in the township are rising by 2.3 percent, and assessments of commercial property will not rise, as figured by the county's equalization division.

Breen said, "There were only 18 sales of industrial properties" last year, compared to 799 house sales during a two-year period.

Those who question commercial and industrial assessments rising at a lower rate than those of houses in the township should talk to the county equalization director, Breen said. "That's his market study."

In Plymouth, assessment increases based on increased house values are figured on an average percentage applied to all homeowners — 5.18 percent this year, said Judy Zirblis, city treasurer and assessor.

Are homeowners upset at such an increase, announced during a recession? "We've had every reason in the book," Zirblis said, from homeowners as to why assessments should be lower.

Meanwhile, Plymouth reappraised its commercial and industrial property last fall for the first time since 1973. According to preliminary figures, that reappraisal is resulting in a 22 percent increase in commercial property assessments for this year compared to 1990, and a 40 percent increase for industrial property.

Plymouth residents can challenge their assessments before the board of review at city hall, 201 S. Main, from noon to 6 p.m. Tuesday and March 12, and 3-9 p.m. March 13 and 20. Commercial and industrial property owners can challenge their assessments from 3-9 p.m. Wednesday and noon-6 p.m. March 19.

Plymouth Township residents can challenge their assessments at the township hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road, 2-5 p.m. Tuesday,. 2-9 p.m. March 11, 9 a.m. to noon and 2-5 p.m. March 12, and on March 19 — times yet to be scheduled.

Township industrial and commercial business owners can make appointments with the assessors office to appear before the board of review.

Residents spell relief — peace

She also went to meetings of local support groups, but found those were geared more to the needs of military parents rather than spouses.

The news of victory also was greeted with relief by those who don't have loved ones in the Middle East. Prayers of thanks were offered at a Thursday meeting of the Livonia Republican Women's Club at Ernesto's in Plymouth.

"It was wonderful," said Geri Vollmer of Plymouth, a member of the club, which includes residents of western Wayne County communities. "I think it's just great, just wonderful."

LIVONIA RESIDENT Jo Hughes was relieved but also concerned.

"I hope it's over," said Hughes, vice president and program chairwoman for the club. "I'll be more pleased when the peace is assured. I want to be sure this is settled before we leave."

Like Vollmer, she doesn't have a child in the military, although one son, a dentist, had served in the U.S. Navy.

"He has friends who are there now," Hughes said.

Skepticism was also a reaction among some younger people in the community. Karyn Gniewek, 16, of Canton had hoped for peace but wasn't sure it was a reality.

"I thought it was too good to be true," said Gniewek, a junior at Plymouth Canton High School. "It's almost like I'm waiting for something to go wrong."

She worried about the safety of U.S. troops. "And also just the fact that people are suffering somewhere," Gniewek said.

She and other students at Centennial Educational Park were busy Thursday afternoon rehearsing for their spring musical, "Fiddler on the Roof."

"I was glad it was over," said cast member Leo Moschouris, 16, a junior at Plymouth Canton High School. "I personally think Bush rushed it to begin with. I think this whole thing could have been avoided."

The war was "relatively painless for our side, at least," said Moschouris, a Plymouth resident. "If they're going to have a war, they did it the right way."

He favored continued use of sanctions.

"We provided the weapons that he fought us with," Moschouris said. "It doesn't make any sense."

Cast member Jeremy Rosenberg, 16, of Plymouth was pleased to hear of the cease-fire.

"I was glad we accomplished what we were going in there to do," said Rosenberg, a junior at Plymouth Salem High School.

diers. He was among 89 U.S. military personnel listed as killed in combat in Persian Gulf War before the official cease fire.

Moran said Bartusiak was surprised when he was called to serve in the war because he was a reservist on the inactive list.

Bartusiask married Diana Lambert five days after he received his notice and three days before he left for Saudi Arabia.

He was hired in September at Utility Support Services, a company that reads meters for Detroit Edison.

Bartusiak met his wife five years ago while both trained to become Army mechanics at Ford Benning, Georgia.

She had a difficult time dealing with the news of her husband, Moran said.

"He was quiet, efficient and professional," Moran added.

He learned his job so quickly, Moran said, that Bartusiak started to train new employees shortly after he was hired.

Rally for troops turns into parade

Marchers will be flanked by yellow bows wrapped on trees and lampposts by members of Canton's beautification committee, said Bill Joyner, executive director of the Community Foundation, which is helping organize the event.

The parade will be led by the VFW color guard. Families with relatives in the Persian Gulf have been invited, along with other veterans groups, local officials and state representatives. Everyone is welcome to participate, Joyner said.

"We expect between 1,000 to 2,000 people," said Dan Calabrese, administrative assistant to Supervisor Tom Yack.

"Originally it was planned as a rally for troops fighting in the war and has since become a victory rally," Calabrese said.

3 car radios taken from Ford lot

Three thefts of three car radios were reported Tuesday from the parking lot of the Ford Motor Co. Sheldon Road plant in Plymouth Township.

A Livonia man, 43, discovered at 3:20 p.m. that his front passenger door lock on his 1985 Pontiac had been punched out and a $300 stereo radio-cassette player had been taken from his dashboard, reports filed with police said. Damage to the car was estimated at $220.

At 12:45 p.m., a Northville man, 43, discovered that his 1985 Chevy Camero, left unlocked, had been entered and his $780 radio-tape deck and pool cue and case were missing.

At 11 a.m., an Oak Park man, 56, found that his $200 car radio had been stolen. He also reported damage to the driver's side door lock on his 1985 Pontiac. He reported $500 in damage to his car stemming from the break-in and theft, the police report said.

A thief broke a window of the business to get inside, causing $100 in damage, police said. The theft was discovered at 7 a.m.

WALLET LIFTED: A $35 brown cowhide wallet containing $250 in cash was reported stolen from a basketball coach's clothing Wednesday at Our Lady of Good Counsel School in Plymouth.

The theft occurred between 8 and 10 p.m., the report filed with Plymouth police said.

Hospitals Care About Your Vital Signs.

Shouldn't You Care About Theirs?
Nobody likes to ask for money. But the fact is, without your support, it's becoming increasingly difficult for hospitals to upgrade their equipment, services and innovative programs. And, sadly, that means that some much-needed medical care may never reach the people who need it most. So do your part, and take care of your hospital. After all, they do the same for you.

THE GULF WAR
Hitting Home

In the six weeks it took to liberate Kuwait, friends, family and supporters of U.S. troops watched and waited.

Hundreds in Plymouth and Canton wrote letters and cards to soldiers to tell them they backed their efforts.

A major effort along that line involved workers at the Ford Motor Co. plant in Plymouth Township. In a joint UAW-Ford effort, hundreds of cards were sent to soldiers fighting in Operation Desert Storm. Similar letter-writing campaigns were also organized in local classrooms.

Paper doves were mounted on a tree outside the First Presbyterian Church, carrying the names of local soldiers and the legends, "May God Be With You!"

CITY WORKERS displayed the stars and stripes along downtown streets. Some residents flew flags from their porches, others displayed flags in their living room windows.

Some added the legend, "These Colors Don't Run."

Plymouth's cannon was fired in salute of U.S. forces serving in Saudi Arabia — and no windows were broken downtown, unlike the last time.

Some Canton seniors displayed the names of local residents serving in the Gulf, with yellow ribbons tied nearby.

Larry Kneeshaw of Canton wrote a song to honor his son Scott, serving in the U.S. Air Force in Saudi Arabia, and other troops, and had it pressed on compact discs.

The Plymouth-Canton school board approved the supplementing of military pay for school district reservists called to duty, so they would not suffer economic hardship while defending their country.

And following President Bush's announcement of a cease-fire on Wednesday, community leaders were forming plans for a "U.S. Victory Party" at the Mayflower Meeting House.

Group home sparks opposition

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A group home for severely mentally disabled patients has residents in a newly built subdivision near Beck and Warren roads worried.

Five residents who live in the area with house values ranging between $140,000 and $185,000 asked the township board Tuesday for help. Supervisor Tom Yack said there is little they can do, because group homes are regulated by the state.

The key concern, Judy Gahide said, is a fear that property values will fall.

DEBORAH SCHMIDT, executive director of New Life Services Inc., which will operate the home that is not yet open, said she was unsure who would be living in the house.

Likely the residents will be wheelchair bound, moving from a nursing homeand would be severely mentally disabled, she said. Home residents won't be on the street, she said.

One resident said: "If we have to live with these people, educate us. Why my home." She said she recently decided to stay within Canton when she moved.

Schmidt met with the residents after the meeting Tuesday night to answer questions. Gahide said later she still had apprehensions.

"It takes my husband and I working full time to live in this home," Gahide said. "Why are we housing people in this area?"

Another woman asked: "What do we tell our children on how to deal with these people?"

Schmidt asked the residents what they would do if they had a handicapped child. "Would you want people to shun him?"

"With these new homes who is responsible for the landscaping? We put a lot of money into ours," another resident said.

Schmidt said the landscaping on other group homes that she operates in Oakland County is comparable to her neighbors'. She "defied" anyone to pick the houses out.

"There's a lack of communication," Gahide said.

Schmidt said a neighbor of a group home she operates in West Bloomfield was steadfast against the facility before it opened. She learned to be a supporter, Schmidt added.

Area artist makes Grand gesture

Stare at Michael Phillips' painting of Jane Seymour and it will take you back somewhere in time.

The unfinished painting sits on a dresser in a room in his Canton house. Phillips said he will add the last strokes of paint in time for the portrait to be donated this fall to Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel where Seymour and Christopher Reeve filmed the romantic tale, "Somewhere in Time."

It will be unveiled the weekend of Oct. 25-27 during a hotel program devoted to the movie.

school district where he has worked for 23 years.

Phillips thought about donating a painting of Seymour after staying at the hotel and realizing there was little there that commemorated the movie.

"I felt a lot of people who visit the Grand Hotel would be very happy to see something that was reminiscent of the movie. A lot of people get the idea to visit Mackinac Island from the movie.

"Few artists get a chance for an unveiling — that will be nice," said Phillips adding that he keeps or gives away most of his work.

"I like people to see my work and it was a place and movie I cared about. Because of the Grand I feel it has to be a world class portrait, because I think the Grand is world class. Anyone who sees the portrait should be able to close their eyes and see the movie."

THE MOVIE, like Mackinac Island, makes you feel like you stepped back in time, he said.

"It probably is one of the most truly romantic movies."

Some fans liked the movie so much that they formed a club, INSITE (International Network of Somewhere in Time Enthusiasts). Despite lukewarm to poor reviews when it was released in 1980, the club exists more than 10 years later.

The love story is about a troubled man played by Reeves who stumbles on a picture of a stunning actress, played by Seymour, and falls in love. The ending is mystical and deceiving leaving the audience to wonder if Reeves and Seymour are finally together.

Talks on for sale of shopping center

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Negotiations for the possible sale of Westland Center could result in a major expansion, including a second floor of shops and a Sears store, local officials confirmed Friday.

"That is part of the plan," said Scott Veldhuis, the city's economic director.

Homart Development Co. is negotiating with the mall's owner, Equitable Real Estate Investment Management Inc., for a potential sale that would bring dramatic changes to the 1-million-square-foot shopping center at the northwest corner of Warren and Wayne roads.

The nearest Sears store is at Livonia Mall, on Seven Mile and Middlebelt.

Westland Planning Director George Wilhelmi confirmed the negotiations, though he added that "they haven't pounded out a deal yet."

Homart officials have talked with the city administration about the preliminary plans for the project, Veldhuis said, but it was not immediately known when the possible sale might be completed and the changes implemented.

Chicago-based Homart is the development arm of the Coldwell Banker Commercial Real Estate Group, a division of Sears Roebuck and Co.

Officials have not disclosed a possible sale price for the 25-year-old mall that had its last major expansion in the fall of 1987, when the MainStreet department store (which was later bought by Kohl's) was added.

WESTLAND CENTER has an assessment of about $15.5 million, meaning its resale value would be about $31 million. However, that assessment doesn't include the merchandise value and the major stores of Hudson's, Kohl's and J.C. Penny, so the actual resale value would be much higher, said City Assessor William Schmidt.

Homart officials declined to release more details of the expansion that reportedly would also include a parking deck.

"I was told by our people that there is no additional information available at this time on that project," said Kevin Caulfield, Homart spokesman in Chicago.

Westland Center general manager Eugene Groves and Marilyn Zeigler, operations manager, did not return telephone calls. A mall spokeswoman said the two were in meetings all day Friday and would not be available for comment.

Veldhuis said city officials were "concerned" about publicity about the possible sale.

"WE'RE A little concerned with the media attention. We hope there's no problems with it in terms of the negotiations," he said.

Homart saw the purchase of Westland Center "as a possible opportunity," Veldhuis said. "They've done a number of these deals throughout the country, and they are looking at Westland Center as a possible opportunity to get involved here."

Some reports have indicated the second-floor expansion could include as many as 85 new stores. The mall now has 86 stores.

Joyce Wheeler, executive director of the Westland Chamber of Commerce, reserved comment on the plan, saying she had not heard about it until she received a telephone call from a reporter Friday.

"It sounds wonderful just off the top of my head," she said, "but I think you have to look at different things, like traffic patterns and parking."

Man hurt as car, school bus crash

A Canton Township man was injured Thursday morning when the car he was riding in collided with a Livonia Public Schools bus on Five Mile west of Farmington Road.

The rear of the bus struck a second car after the initial impact on the snow-covered road, police said.

No students were aboard the bus, which was returning to the bus yard after dropping pupils off at Buchanan Elementary and other schools, a district official said.

Donald Portman, 22, of Canton was reported in serious condition Friday at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, suffering from a collapsed lung and other injuries.

Daniel Jovan, 20, of Livonia was treated and released from St. Mary for minor injuries after the accident, which occurred shortly after 9 a.m., police said.

The driver of the bus and the 57-year-old Livonia man driving the second car weren't injured, police said.

INVESTIGATION OF the accident was continuing Friday morning, said Sgt. Thomas Green of the Livonia police traffic bureau.

The preliminary investigation revealed the crash was "mainly caused by weather conditions and poor judgment" by one of the drivers, Green said.

The school bus was turning left from westbound Five Mile into the yard when it was struck on the right side by Jovan's 1983 Chevrolet, police said. The Chevy, which had been eastbound on Five Mile, slid underneath the bus.

The impact forced the rear of the bus into a northbound 1986 Ford waiting at the stop sign marking the bus yard entrance, police said.

THE TWO cars were damaged heavily, police said.

The bus was damaged but "driveable," said Steven Woodworth, transportation director for the district.

Cost estimate of the damage was incomplete Friday, Woodworth said.

Celebration planned for planet

An Earth Day celebration is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 27, the Western Wayne County Conservation Association has announced.

"There are global problems of such magnitude that they require a world-wide mobilization of millions of people to save our planet Earth," said Charles Van Vleck, Earth Day '91 chairman.

"Earth Day 1991 can serve as the vehicle to convey our demands for a safe, just and sustainable global environment. We urge you to implement it's theme, 'Think Globally — Act Locally,' " Van Vleck said.

Conservation and environmental information booths will be set up in the main club house meeting room on Napier Road between North Territorial and Five Mile roads. Organizations are welcome to set up booths in the association club house on Earth Day. Call Keven Ullom at 437-1725 by April 1, for more information.

HOW MUCH DID YOU LOSE LAST YEAR ON NON-DEDUCTIBLE INTEREST?
UNLESS YOU ACT QUICKLY, THIS YEAR COULD BE WORSE.
As you know, Congress has phased out interest deductions on most consumer loans. An exception is a loan secured by your home. Which makes it a great time to apply for a home equity line of credit at First of America Bank-Plymouth.
A Special 20% Interest Discount Offer.
When you sign up for a home equity line by April 15, 1991, you'll receive a 20% discount for all interest you pay this year. If you act now this offer could save you hundreds of dollars in interest.
Put The Deduction Back In Your Interest.
The Federal tax laws allow you to use your home equity line of credit for any purpose you want. And in most cases, on loans all the way up to $100,000, you may get to take a tax deduction.*
Take Advantage Of Your Tax Break.
Get your tax break with our home equity line of credit. You may use this line instead of other loans that are no longer fully tax deductible.
You can also access your credit line simply by writing a check. And the payment schedule is flexible, too.
However, using the equity in your home is not something you should do without careful consideration. Furthermore, there are some items—like normal living expenses, for example—for which a home equity line of credit is definitely not appropriate.
So stop by your nearest First of America Bank-Plymouth office, or call Pat Travis at 459-9000 for more information. We'll provide you with a free information brochure and an application. We'll also help you determine if a home equity line of credit is right for you.
In no time, we can have your good credit working in your favor.

Some local districts stuck with hefty computer bill

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

The quick demise of Michigan's "Classrooms of Tomorrow" program means some area public school districts will have to pick up a hefty tab for computers.

But while some districts are angry, others said they knew all along the program was too good to last.

Classrooms of Tomorrow, begun by then Gov. James Blanchard last year, offered state money to help schools add computers to their classrooms — offering a first-year downpayment of 20 percent on computer equipment.

New Gov. John Engler, however, has killed the program, calling it good public relations, but bad policy.

The state won't buy any more computers, or make additional payments on computers already sent to Michigan schools.

"Unconscionable," is the way South Redford Superintendent Jan Jacobs described the program's demise.

"It's these types of things that make us so suspicious of Lansing," Jacobs said. "It's just like the lottery, they say they're going to give us money but we never seem to see it."

South Redford, which ordered 48 computers through the state program, will now have to pay more than $100,000 to keep them.

Neighboring Redford Union schools were "very disappointed" according to business manager Ken Johnson.

"WE KNEW all along there were no guarantees," Johnson said. "For a district like ours, this was a good way to get computers."

Redford Union, which has struggled with financial problems, will now have to pay an estimated $70,000 for the 26 computers it ordered, after receiving a $38,000 initial payment from the state.

Even though the program contained risk, Johnson said it was a risk worth taking.

"It was a good program," he said. "Not only did we get state aid, but we did get the computers at a good price."

Many districts agreed with that assessment.

"we're still hopeful it will be restored, but you still feel lucky any time you get something wholesale like this," said Jim Edwards, executive director of general education for the Wayne-Westland Schools.

Wayne Westland owes about $53,500 on the 34 computers it ordered, after receiving roughly $13,500 from the state.

Other districts ordered fewer computers.

"We only used the money for computers we were already planning on purchasing anyway," said Garden City Superintendent Michael Wilmot, whose district added 10 computers. "Our feeling is that whatever happened, it's money we wouldn't ordinarily have had." Garden City received $2,253 though the program.

Plymouth/Canton Schools ordered 35 computers through the program, associate superintendent Raymond Hoedel said, and now owes and estimated $62,000 after receiving $8,900 from the state.

"It's one of those things that got cut," Hoedel said. "But school districts are worried about much bigger cuts than this."

Clarenceville officials said they doubted they'd have to pay anything for the two computers they ordered through the program.

"As far as we can tell, those computers have already been bought and paid for," said Ralph Skrocki, assistant superintendent for business.

Statewide, schools received 8,000 computers through the program, as well as software and printers.

Livonia Schools didn't participate in the program, district curriculum director Bill McFarland said.

"WE DIDN'T have a lot of confidence in it from the start," he said. "Plus, it didn't seem to to be something geared for a large district like ours."

The state sold $20 million in bonds to buy computers and has already made the first $2 million bond payment.

The Engler administration has said districts will have to pay for the bonds themselves. School officials were told last year they might end up footing the bill.

"The program has been cut," Engler press secretary John Truscott said. "It was used by Governor Blanchard as a public relations gimmick rather than a sincere program."

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Board will interview SC trustee candidates April 8

Candidates for the Schoolcraft College board vacancy won't be interviewed March 11, after all.

Other board members moved the interviews back to 7 p.m. Monday, April 8 — the filing date for the June 10 board election.

The person appointed to the seat would serve until the election, though trustees hinted they might give preference to someone who would run in June.

"By then we'll know who's serious," trustee Michael Burley said.

Each of the 10 applicants will be interviewed in person for the board vacancy, with each candidate given an estimated 15 minutes to respond to board questions.

Interviews are open to the public.

Candidates to be interviewed include Ronaele Bowman, Livonia; Willis Brauer, Livonia; Paulette Cebulski, Plymouth; Yvonne Constas, Livonia; Robert Gordon, Plymouth; Stephen Ragan, Plymouth; Subramanian Ramamurthy, Canton; Andrea Taylor, Livonia; Jeffrey Theodore, Livonia; and Patricia Watson, Northville.

Seminar targets health issues

Health issues will be discussed at a pair of Schoolcraft College seminars.

The first seminar, Medications and You, answers questions about generic and over-the-counter drugs. Taught by a pharmacist, the seminar stresses the importance of taking prescribed medication and discusses hazards and side effects of medication. Sessions meet 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesdays for three weeks beginning March 13. Fee is $28.

The second seminar, Physicians Round Table, provides answers on health issues, with special attention given to such female health issues as menopause, osteoporosis, estrogen replacement therapy and pregnancy. The seminar meets 7:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 13. Fee is $12.

Additional information is available by calling 462-4448. Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads, Livonia.

Best of all is the price—SPRING's rate for inserts is just $23 per thousand—approximately half the published CPMs of the DNA and ADVO—and our ROP CPMs are lower, too.

And you place just one order, deal with one rep, provide one set of ROP copy or art, and get one invoice.

Jack Gladden

MAYBE IT'S JUST my perception, but it seems like the only people who aren't glad that the war in the Persian Gulf is over are the ones who have been calling for an end to it all along.

You'd think they'd be happy, or at least relieved, that the shooting has stopped, a ceasefire has been called and the casualties — the American and allied casualties, anyway — were incredibly low.

But the only ones who seem to be openly displaying relief over the end of the fighting are the people with the yellow ribbons, the American flags and the red, white and blue streamers — the ones who "supported" the war.

The others — the protesters — seem downright angry about it. They're just as mad now as they were when the troop movements got under way. I don't get it.

UNLESS . . . THEY'RE mad because their dire predictions were all wrong.

- This "bloodbath" that they predicted could result in as many as 40,000 American combat deaths produced fewer than a hundred. That's not to say that figure is "acceptable." No deaths are "acceptable," but given the reality of the situation, the numbers are astonishingly low.
- This quagmire that they said we were getting into, this "new Vietnam," lasted only six weeks. The ground war lasted only 100 hours. Oh, we'll stick around for awhile, but this is not shaping up to be another Vietnam.
- The "Butcher of Baghdad" turned out to be a not inappropriate label for the man who launched missiles at Israel, pumped oil into the Persian Gulf, set fire to virtually the whole country of Kuwait and committed unconscionable atrocities against civilians — women and children included.
- Oil — as in "No blood for oil" — seemed less and less the motivating force behind the war as Saddam's ruthlessness grew more apparent with each passing day. But, viewing oil as a motivating force, if Saddam had continued to occupy Kuwait he would have controlled two-thirds of the world's known oil reserves.
- George Bush, the man the protesters love to hate, turned out to be a pretty good general. Or maybe it was because he let the generals run the war.

Whatever the case, I'm relieved that it's close to being over, and most of the people I've talked to with the yellow ribbons and the flag pins on their lapels feel the same way.

SO I DON'T know what the problem is with the protesters who are still angry. Unless deep down they realize they might have been wrong about this war, but they just won't admit it.

They remind me of a cross between the cast of "thirtysomething" and that crew on "Hee-Haw" who sat around wailing about "Gloom, despair and agony on me . . ." Sophisticated, politically correct doomsayers. Too smug to admit that they might have miscalculated that the analogy between Saddam Hussein and Adolph Hitler wasn't as far-fetched as they professed.

Or maybe they're just mad because, once the U.S. gets out of the Persian Gulf and life in the states returns to its pre-war status, they'll have to find something new to be mad about.

After all, you can't be a good protester without something big to protest against. And that's enough to make you mad.

Accusations called misleading

By William D. McAninch
special writer

guest column

My first reaction to Dr. Stephenson's letter was to ignore it because it was so fallacious. But the direct attack on Dwight Eckler and the Plymouth Concerned Citizens must not go unanswered. This ad hoc group is composed of citizens from every section of the city with a common concern, many of whom have never before joined in community action.

Joint Operating Agreement proponents have made every effort to discourage members of PCC from being heard. We've had our polite and considerate comments cut off at commission meetings; we've been threatened with lawsuits while exercising our right of free speech; the airport lobby has misrepresented us as a small group of radicals; and city officials have sought every legal means to thwart our efforts to obtain a citizen vote on the joint agreement.

Calling interested taxpayers, who are trying to contribute to better local government decisions as "nuts" and "rebel rousers" (sic) serves no useful purpose. Saying that the PCC is doing a disservice to the city is both inaccurate and unfair.

The PCC has since December tried to convince the city commission that entering into an agreement with Plymouth Township to buy, operate and maintain an airport before ascertaining if contamination, liability, long-term costs and school tax questions have been thoroughly answered is irresponsible.

The accusation the PCC is costing the city money is misleading. Had the commission made an effort to answer some of the more than 40 questions raised by residents in and out of the PCC, they would have found that the JOA poses serious risks for the city and its taxpayers.

Evidence that the city's residents are concerned about these questions is represented by the over 1,500 different signatures the PCC has obtained on three separate petitions of 575, 913 and 1,135 signatures, respectively.

The signatures were obtained from residents living on almost every street in the city. In numerous instances residents thanked the petitioners for performing a civic service.

The most frequent question from the residents was "Why does the city commission want to buy an airport?" Dr. Stephenson should know that local taxes include school taxes and that if federal and state grants pay 95 percent of the airport price that will be only the downpayment on the long-term costs of operating and maintaining a non-profitable airport.

In the January-February issue of "Michigan Aviation" the Michigan Aeronautics Commission listed airport development projects approved in 14 Michigan counties. Over $18 million in federal, state and local funds were approved. Of the total, $1,657,600 was from local funds. For example, $349,000 was approved for the Oakland-Troy airport to acquire vacant property for developing a runway safety area.

The funds were split in half — $74,500 from the state and $74,500 from local funds. "There's no such thing as a free lunch" when you accept federal grants. Remember also local tax monies were used to pay off the bonds for the water supply for Burroughs and the downtown parking structure.

A mall at Joy and Lilley seems unlikely. A private sale of the airport will require contamination cleanup left by the 50 years of airport operation by the seller before a sale can be consummated.

As the pros and cons of the joint agreement are aired in letters, editorials and at commission meetings, it's apparent there are still a lot of unknowns.

The commission still hasn't done a thorough review of what the financial liability, environmental and tax implications are to its taxpayers. City residents will be saddled with the commission's decision long after the current commissioners are but a photograph on the south wall of the commission meeting room.

Once the federal government grants over $5 million to buy Mettetal, the financial responsibility for the airport will be permanently in the hands of Plymouth and Plymouth Township governments.

William D. McAninch is a Plymouth resident.

Brave troops need support

To the editor:

At a time when the men and women in our armed forces are facing their greatest test, we at home are facing a test as well. Our test is to maintain our unity and resolve, as our troops are doing in the Persian Gulf.

We don't want Saddam Hussein to take this country's tolerance for anti-war demonstrators as a signal he should wait out our resolve in a long and bloody war.

I'm outraged at the brutal treatment of our POW's. And I'm saddened to see the media give so much attention to the small number of anti-war protesters who have sprung into action. It seems that every time a few protesters pick up their signs, the cameras swarm around them, and they end up on the news.

Our soldiers have said that they have a job to do and are going to get it done. I feel I have a job to do, too. And that's to stand up in strong support of our troops.

I want them to know that I and the American people are very proud of them. We are all inspired by their bravery.

I hope that you'll print my letter, and others like it, in the days ahead. Thousands of local American newspapers are reaching our men and women in uniform every day. Your newspaper may be one of them. I want the troops to know that we hold them in our thoughts and prayers every day.

Celebrate spring, Easter in March

By Raymond E. Bullock

skywatch
Raymond E. Bullock

March always brings us the official start of spring, and this year it also brings Easter.

The amount of sunlight we receive this month increases by one hour, 26 minutes.

Of the five naked-eye planets, only Saturn is visible before sunrise, low in the southeast before dawn.

Jupiter, Mars, Venus and Mercury are all evening objects. Jupiter is nearly overhead, in the faint constellation of Cancer the crab. Mars, the red planet, is high in the southwest, in Taurus. Venus is the bright "star" in the west after sunset.

The moon is approaching the bright orange-red star Antares (an TAR ees) on the morning of March 7. Both can be seen due south about 45 minutes before sunrise. Antares is the "heart" of Scorpius the scorpion.

Last Quarter Moon is at 5:32 a.m. on March 8. The moon is beginning the last-quarter of its orbit around the earth. It has passed Antares and is now 10 degrees to the southeast (left) of that star. Watch the moon pass through the faint constellation of Sagittarius the archer from March 8 through March 11.

In Greek mythology, Sagittarius was a centaur; a creature who was half man and half horse. It is unlikely that the Greeks, or anyone else for that matter, ever "saw" the outline of a centaur in this part of the sky! This star pattern was named to honor Sagittarius.

Today, it is much easier to see the outline of a "teapot" in this part of the sky. The moon is located directly above the "spout" of our teapot on the morning of March 9. The star directly to the east (left) of the moon is the top of the teapot's cover.

On the next morning the moon has moved to the east of that star, and is located above a curving row of stars that mark the handle of the teapot. The bright "star" to the east (left) of the moon on the morning of March 11 is the planet Saturn. This is the planet with the beautiful rings.

THE VOYAGER spacecraft showed us that the solar system's three other giant gas planets (Jupiter, Uranus and Neptune) also have rings, but only Saturn's can be seen with a low power telescope.

The moon will be three degrees to the east of Saturn on the following morning. Face west, one half-hour after sunset on March 11, and try to spot Mercury.

Bright Venus will be no problem, but Mercury will be a challenge; it will be only a few degrees above the horizon. You will need an unobstructed view of the west and binoculars to spot Mercury. If Mercury proves to be too illusive for you, be patient; as each night goes by Mercury will be higher in the sky and will be much easier to see starting the next week.

New Moon is at 3:10 a.m. on March 16. The moon is located between the earth and the sun and is not visible. Look for the thin waxing (growing) crescent moon on the evening of the 16th.

It is only 16 hours past new phase and will be difficult to spot. Look slightly north of due west with binoculars, 30 minutes after sunset. An unobstructed horizon is a must.

If you spot the moon, try for Mercury; it is due west and higher in altitude than the moon.

If Mercury still eludes you on the 16th, try again on the evening of the 17th. Now the moon will be about six degrees above Mercury, and on the 18th the moon will be four degrees to the north (right) of Venus. From the 17th through the rest of the month, Mercury is best placed for observing.

On Wednesday evening, March 20, the moon will occult (cover) the stars of the Pleiades (PLEE a dees). The Pleiades is a beautiful star cluster in the constellation of Taurus. The cluster looks like a tiny "dipper" through binoculars.

On the evening of the 20th, the moon passes directly across the Pleiades and blocks their light. This will be the last time this century that such an occultation will occur.

THE MOON passes through each member of the zodiac each month, but only when the alignment between the earth and the moon is correct can an occultation occur. Each time the orbit of the moon takes it through Taurus after this night, it will pass above or below the Pleiades.

The bright star to the left of the moon is Aldebaran (al DEB a ran), the orange-red 'eye' of Taurus. Sixteen degrees above Aldebaran, at about the same color and brightness, is the red planet, Mars.

Easter is on March 31 this year, but next year it falls in April. Determining the date of this very erratic holiday is not as difficult as you may think. All you need to know is the phase of the moon and a few rules.

The ground rules for determining Easter were set up in the year 325 A.D. when the Emperor Constantine called for a Council at Nicea for the purpose of calendar reform.

Based on the advice of his Christian council, he decreed that Easter would be observed on the first Sunday following the first full moon that occurs after the vernal equinox (the start of spring). The reason for choosing the full moon, rather than the new moon, was so people making a pilgrimage to the Holy Land could travel at night by the light of the moon.

SINCE THE start of spring occurs on March 20 or 21, the earliest Easter can be is March 22. But now we have to consider the inevitable exceptions to the rule. If the first full moon to occur after the start of spring falls on a Sunday, then the following Sunday is Easter. If the full moon happens to be on the same day as the vernal equinox, then the April full moon is used. If the April full moon falls on a Sunday, the following Sunday is Easter unless that date is later than April 25, which is the latest date Easter is permitted to fall. If that Sunday does fall after the 25th, then the previous Sunday, the one with the full moon, must be used.

So all things considered, Easter can come as early as March 22, which it last did in the year 1818 and will again in 2285, or as late as April 25, which it did in 1943 and will again in 2038.

This year Easter Sunday is March 31, which is just one day after the full moon. Now, wasn't that simple?

An excellent aid for learning constellations and keeping up to date with the sky is the monthly Sky Calendar. A one year subscription is $6 and is available from Abrams Planetarium, Michigan State University, East Lansing, 48824.

State's 'right to die' bills are explained

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Here's a guide to "right to die" bills in Michigan:

- "Patient advocate" or durable power of attorney — This is law and takes effect at the end of March after 15 years of legislative debate.

Under it, a person of sound mind designates another to make medical decisions in the event he or she becomes incapacitated. The state is preparing model forms. Sponsor: Rep. David Hollister, D-Lansing.

- "Living will" — A person would be able to prescribe the extent of treatment if he or she becomes incapacitated.

The bill died last session and has been re-introduced by Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, who calls it a complement to the patient advocate law.

In the Senate it will be resisted by Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville. "Give the durable power law a chance to work, and then see where we are in three or four years," he said. The medical profession would like the living will because it reduces their chances of liability, Dillingham said.

Many lawmakers have circulated model living will forms, but their legality is still in doubt.

- "Assisted suicide" — Senate Bill 32 would make aiding a suicide a felony punishable by four years in prison. Sponsor: Dillingham. A Senate committee likely will report it out the first week of March.

- A euthanasia law — Not in bill form, the idea is advocated by Dr. Jack Kevorkian, alias "Dr. Death." An adult with a crippling disease who is still mentally competent would qualify for counseling by a "blue ribbon panel" of medical professionals before being aided in ending his or her own life. A person who refuses treatment or whose disease isn't advanced wouldn't qualify. A person with a financial problem would be given financial counseling.

WHAT'S MENTAL competence? "Person, time and place. If a person knows who he is, where he is and when, that's competence," said Kevorkian. "We learned that in medical school."

Best known for helping Janet Adkins of Oregon end her life last June in an Oakland County park, Kevorkian said the 54-year-old Oregonian was competent when she consulted him. "She had lost her memory. She could tell a joke and laugh at the punch line. I knew she would be mentally incompetent in four to six months," said Kevorkian, who was acquainted with her two days. "She was failing rapidly."

Kevorkian's proposal got no apparent sympathy from the Senate committee considering Dillingham's bill.

Strangely, Kevorkian's opponents see his proposal as an alternative to outlawing assisted suicide — though not an acceptable one.

Ed Rivet of Right to Life said Kevorkian's idea contains "an inherent logical flaw: If we grant the right to suicide, then we have no business regulating it."

THE OUTLOOK: Dillingham's assisted suicide bill will pass the Senate but may run into trouble in the House with Bullard, who will seek passage of his living will measure.

chef Larry Janes

Custard is always soothing

I love comfort foods. Foods that remind me of Sycamore Street, Sunday chicken dinners and Momma's custard.

Beloved by children of all ages, custard is a mixture of milk, sugar, salt and a smidgen of flavoring. It can be either gently cooked on a stovetop or slowly baked until firm, which is how Momma did it, in heavy ramekins that resembled silvery Frisbees with handles.

Stirred custard, also known as creme anglaise, is the slow-cooked stovetop version that doubles as a sauce, pastry filling and base for many chilled and frozen desserts. Baked custard is a more simple product, especially when garnished with fresh fruit or whipped cream or bathed in a caramelized sugar syrup as in the famous French dessert creme caramel and its Latin counterpart, flan.

Made properly, custard is creamy and tender. As it so often happens in the Janes Gang kitchen, it turns into a curdled, weepy mess. Last week was the last straw. After a third attempt using Momma's trusted recipe (of which she says she never varies), I found myself hiking to the compost heap with something that was a cross between soured milk and cold, yellow gravy.

Now I have to dial 1-313 to get Momma's kitchen hot line, but the long-distance charges are definitely worth it, especially when all my other reference books give me recipes but can't tell me what I'm doing wrong.

DON'T YOU JUST love moms who start out the conversation with, "Don't worry. I'll make you some right now and have your father drive it up for dinner tonight."

"Sorry, Ma, you're missing the point here," I interrupted. "Why can you make it so good and I can't?" was the $50,000 question of the day. Sounding almost like a Certified Executive Chef from Schoolcraft College's famed culinary arts department, she went into a monologue about how, when preparing her custards, she makes sure time is of little consequence. Seems that she, too, once experienced problems because she tried to cool the custard too quickly at too high a temperature. "You have to do it slow, with a gentle heat" was her professional opinion.

"But, Ma, I want to eat it now," I whined. "You can't," she retorted.

Once again, all my years of schooling, coupled with about a million pages from cookbooks slowly crumbled into oblivion followed by the simple line, "Just do it — slow."

Yes, there are other tricks to making a good custard. Most important, however, is knowing that the line between a thickened custard and a curdled one is often only a few degrees of heat. Double boilers over hot, but never boiling, water are a must. Warm up that stirring arm because, like Momma also says, keep stirring so a velvety custard is made instead of a lumpy one. Also remember that a custard has thickened sufficiently when it leaves a velvety coating on the back of a spoon and if a track made by running a finger down the coated spoon stays clear

BAKED CUSTARDS aren't as delicate as stirred custards. They need to cook in a moderate oven but should be set in a pan of hot water to keep from getting too hot. The custard is done if, when touched, the finger comes away clean.

Here's a trick I taught Momma: When she makes her great baked custard, top it with some granulated sugar and then use a blow torch to crystalize the top. Now, even Momma keeps a blow torch under the sink, just for this purpose.

So if you're looking for a great comfort food, a cool, creamy custard may be just what will fill the bill.

Kids in the Kitchen

By Jennifer L. Hill
special writer

AFTER-SCHOOL SNACKS and children go hand in hand like peanut butter and jelly. Cooking with kids is just as natural a pairing. What better way to get children involved in the kitchen than to have them prepare their own snacks.

The kitchen is a perfect place for learning and trying different foods. What can kids do in the kitchen? Recipes that entail simple steps such as measuring, stirring, rolling or kneading are perfect for little ones. Even the tiniest hands can tear greens, pour milk or sift flour. Two to 4 year olds can perform the simplest of tasks such as washing fruits and vegetables.

With the help of a few experts, from Brookside School Cranbrook's Senior Kindergarten, I was able to put a few of these cooking skills to use when trying a few of the following snacks. These snacks are comprised of simple steps and need little supervision.

The crew washed hands, donned smocks and went to work. They prepared two special treats, Peanut Butter Burritos and Cereal Snack Mix. For the burritos, they peeled, sliced and chopped the fruit that was to top the peanut-butter-covered flour tortillas. A choice of assorted fillings, ranging from bananas and canned fruit to raisins and shredded coconut, was offered to my assistants for their snack burritos.

EVEN MARSHMALLOWS found their way into a burrito or two at the suggestion of one student. This snack is so versatile it lends itself to many creative combinations. There even was talk of topping a burrito with Cheerios from the snack mix. After picking and choosing their burrito fillings, the most popular being banana and honey, each youngster rolled his or her tortilla in a burrito fashion.

Naina Gulati was the first to try her burrito. With a little hesitation she tasted the flour tortilla alone. Then, without any hesitation, she bit into her little bundle, which contained honey and banana. There were many approving faces with this snack.

The Cereal Snack Mix has something for everyone. My assistants helped to measure and pour the ingredients into a bowl. After dumping and mixing the ingredients, some children picked out the Cheerios, others the marshmallows. A few boys and girls found the combination to be just great. Mathew Shin liked the chocolate-covered raisins so much that he came away from the mix with a handful.

Although there was not enough time for my helpers to cook everything, the cheesecake was there for them to sample. Many of them found the light, airy cream cheese ricotta cake to their liking without any of the toppings. Imagine what they would think of this cheesecake if it were adorned with chopped maraschino cherries and shaved chocolate or any of the other toppings.

The cheesecake is so simple to make and only requires your assistance when whipping the cream, heating the cheese and melting the butter. The kids can crumble their own cookies for the crust. What could be as much fun as crushing cookies in a plastic bag with a rolling pin or simply pounding the cookies with a fist. The rest of the recipe is just as easy.

WHEN MAKING the recipes Peanut Butter Burrito, Easy Cheesecake, Cereal Snack Mix and Quesadillas, only the Quesadillas require assistance at the stove. Quesadillas are simple to make and can be cooked either on the stove or in the oven. This Mexican specialty is a great alternative to pizza or grilled cheese sandwiches.

There is no snack every child will like, but if you try these, you are sure to get many approving faces. Make the recipes at home with your children and give them a chance to work in the kitchen. You may have tomorrow's chef at your side.

Brady's burgers light up Irish eyes

DISHING IT OUT By K.C.

Corned beef and cabbage will play a brief starring role at Matt Brady's Tavern on St. Patrick's Day, but any Irishman worth his salt knows what Brady's is famous for — a good hamburger.

Brady's burgers, especially the Charlie Brown version with cheese and bacon, are the main reason people go to his tavern on Southfield Road in Beverly Hills. Some customers are followers of his father, better known as Diamond Jim Brady, whose restaurant on W. Seven Mile Road in Detroit was a popular spot for years.

Matt Brady and his brother Patrick kept that great saloon, with its trademark swinging doors and murals of New York, going for years after his father died and after the neighborhood got rough. It wasn't until late 1988 that Brady closed the Detroit spot and brought the "famous one," as the burger is called, to the suburbs.

Diamond Jim's name lives on through his son, Tom, who operated a restaurant by that name in Southfield for several years and now is in the process of moving to Novi. The burgers and the characteristic warm, casual, lighthearted atmosphere lives on at Matt's place.

THERE ARE murals on the wall here too, but they are of Detroit classics, such as the Olympia and Blessed Sacrament Cathedral, and today's Detroit riverfront. The bar itself is a conversation piece — made as it is to include 25,000 shiny 1989 copper pennies all carefully lined up — with one flipped over. Find the one and you will win the proprietor's admiration, and maybe a free glass of pop.

This is a great place for families (even young children are welcome) and friends to gather. Even women feel comfortable to stop in alone for a burger and a beer.

Although the Charlie Brown ($4.95) is most popular (the bacon is always crisp), the "famous one" with bleu cheese is good too. Other variations include adding grilled onions and mushrooms or the "Pancho" ($4.95 too) with its Swiss cheese, chili, onions and Parmesan cheese.

Add a cup of the chili and an order of the seasoned curly fries or the chili fries, and you have a good meal. The chili is respectable, not terribly hot but nicely seasoned, and thick with meat and kidney beans. The curly fries are very good and milder than seasoned fries we have tried elsewhere.

About a third of the burgers he serves these days are made of ground turkey, predominantly white meat turkey. Brady says no one was more surprised than he that the turkey burger, topped with onion and cheese, tastes so much like the ground beef version.

Owner Matt Brady shows off hamburger that brings most customers to his tavern.

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

SALES OF SALADS are picking up here too, and again Brady's humor shines through. The "garbage" salad — so named because its wild combination of bleu cheese, anchovies, eggs, bacon bits and tomatoes and lettuce — is hot, but the Caesar salad with grilled chicken strips is better. Both can be ordered in half portions, which make a full meal when combined with chili or the homemade soup.

Daily specials prove Brady's longtime cook, Annie Thomas, can do more than produce good hamburgers. The meat pie on Wednesdays is quite popular and her meatloaf is said to be great, better than his mother's, according to Brady.

Good choices for kids are the grilled cheese sandwiches and grilled chicken strips listed on the menu as an appetizer but easily a meal for a child.

Chef Larry finds custard is soothing

STIRRED CUSTARD
(Creme Anglaise)
2 cups milk
½ vanilla bean or 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
4 egg yolks
3 tablespoons sugar

If using vanilla bean, bring milk to a boil with the bean in a heavy-bottomed saucepan, remove from heat and allow to stand or 10 minutes to infuse the flavor. If using extract, it is added later; bring milk without flavoring to a boil.

In a medium bowl, beat yolks and sugar together until thickened and lemon colored. Add milk, stirring to combine well.

Turn mixture into a double boiler and return to saucepan and cook over very low heat, stirring until it thickens, about 10 minutes.

Remove from heat and if desired, strain into a clean bowl set over a bowl of ice to stop cooking. If using vanilla extract, stir in now. Use immediately or cover with plastic wrap laid directly on the surface to prevent skin from forming.

BAKED CUSTARD
2 eggs
2 egg yolks
2 cups milk
3 tablespoons sugar
Vanilla extract or fresh grated nutmeg to taste

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In a medium bowl, beat eggs, egg yolks, milk and sugar. Stir in a drop or two of vanilla or a sprinkling of nutmeg. Strain through a sieve into a 1-quart baking or souffle dish. (Individual cups can be used, if desired.)

Set pan in a larger pan filled with enough hot water to reach halfway up the sides of the baking dish. Bake until just set, about 30-35 minutes. Serve warm or refrigerate and serve chilled with crystallized sugar top.

To make creme caramel, combine ½ cup sugar with ¼ cup water in a small heavy saucepan. Stir only until it dissolves, then stop stirring. Raise heat to a boil and boil, without stirring, for 8-10 minutes or until it turns a light brown.

Pour into the bottom of 1-quart baking or souffle or individual dish and proceed to top with prebaked baked custard. Follow baking instructions.

Cool and refrigerate overnight for best results. Invert onto a platter or plate before serving.

PEANUT BUTTER BURRITO

Peanut butter is an old-time favorite for both children and adults. The traditional peanut butter and jelly sandwich can be updated by using a flour tortilla and adding many delicious ingredients in place of bread and jelly.

To make a peanut butter burrito, warm the tortilla according to package directions. Spread the desired amount of peanut butter on the warmed tortilla. Top with some of the following accompaniments to make a special treat and fold into a burrito.

Honey
Sesame seeds
Banana, thinly sliced
Apple, cored and thinly sliced (squeeze fresh lemon juice over slices to prevent from browning)
Applesauce
Carrot, grated
Raisins
Canned pineapple, crushed or sliced, drained
Chopped dried fruit
Chopped nuts, such as pecans, walnuts and almonds
Coconut, shredded

Try a few of these combinations when making your burritos or use any of the above items to make your own creation.

Tropical Peanut Butter Burrito: banana, crushed pineapple, almonds sprinkled with shredded coconut.

Autumn Harvest Peanut Butter Burrito: applesauce, chopped walnuts, grated carrots sprinkled with cinnamon.

Honey Sesame Burrito: honey and sesame seeds.

EASY CHEESECAKE
Crust
1 ½ cup vanilla wafer crumbs
⅓ cup melted butter

Filling
One 8-ounce package cream cheese
One 16-ounce Ricotta cheese
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ cup warm water
1 unflavored gelatin packet
½ pint heavy cream
¼ cup sugar

Optional toppings
Shaved chocolate
Crushed pineapple
Berries
Chopped maraschino cherries

Place muffin cup liners in muffin pan.

In a medium bowl, combine cookie crumbs with melted butter. Mix well. Press 1 tablespoon of cookie crumb mixture into the bottom of each liner or the bottom and sides of an 8-inch pie pan and set aside.

In a large bowl mix the first four ingredients. Beat with an electric mixer until well blended and smooth. Combine warm water and gelatin in a small bowl. Mix until gelatin has dissolved. Beat into cheese mixture and set aside.

In a medium bowl, whip the heavy cream to soft peaks. Add the remaining ¼ cup sugar and whip until stiff peaks form.

Fold the whipped cream into cheese mixture. Then spoon cheese mixture over cookie crumb crust to fill muffin liners and refrigerate until it begins to set, about 45 minutes.

The cheesecake can be eaten plain or topped with your favorite topping.

CEREAL SNACK MIX
3 cups toasted oat cereal, such as Cheerios
1 cup honey-roasted peanuts
½ cup marshmallows
1 cup chocolate-covered raisins

Add all ingredients to a large mixing bowl. Mix well. Store in airtight container. Makes 5 ½ cups.

QUESADILLAS
5 flour tortillas
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese
¼ cup chopped mild green chilies, optional
2 tablespoons butter, melted
4 tablespoons oil
Salsa
Sour cream

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Wrap the flour tortillas in aluminum foil tightly and bake for 10 minutes until they are softened.

While tortillas soften, mix together the melted butter and oil in a bowl. Place the mixture to the side. Combine the cheeses in another bowl and set aside.

To make the quesadillas, sprinkle some of the combined cheeses on half of each tortilla. Add 1 tablespoon of the chopped chilies if desired. Fold the tortillas over and pinch to seal. Brush the tortillas with the melted butter mixture.

The quesadillas can be either sauteed or finished in the oven. (For very young children I recommend the oven method.)

For the saute method, heat a large saute pan over medium-high heat. Cook until golden brown, about 2 minutes on each side. Keep cooking quesadillas warn in a preheated 200-degree oven on a cookie sheet.

For the oven method, preheat oven 375 degrees and place quesadillas on an aluminum foil-lined cookie sheet and bake until the tops are golden, about 5 minutes.

Cut into thirds and serve with salsa and sour cream.

Note: For a different quesadilla, add sliced poached pear or apple to the tortillas before folding and omit the green chilies and salsa.

Makes 15 triangles.

Stuffing is found in 'double pocket'

AP — The following stuffing recipes can be used with the "double-pocket" technique for baked, broiled or grilled pork chops.

MEDITERRANEAN STUFFING
¼ cup pine nuts
1 clove garlic, minced
1 medium red pepper, seeded and finely chopped
1 teaspoon butter
½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
1½ tablespoons green onion, minced
1½ tablespoons parsley, minced
⅛ teaspoon oregano
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Saute nuts, garlic and red pepper in butter until nuts are golden. Remove from heat, stir in remaining ingredients. Stuff in pork chop and cook as desired. Makes 1 cup stuffing, which fills 4 pork chops.

BLUE CHEESE STUFFING
½ cup crumbled blue cheese
½ cup walnuts, coarsely chopped
⅛ teaspoon black pepper

Stir together all ingredients. Stuff in pork chop and cook as desired. Makes 1 cup stuffing, which fills 4 pork chops.

Jambalaya imitates Louisiana version

AP — This microwave rendition of jambalaya is a flavorful, fabulous fake. The traditional Louisiana seasonings — onion, green pepper and garlic — are cooked with the sauce instead of in fat. Smoked turkey sausage replaces the usual pork sausage. You're guaranteed to love the taste. You'll also love that each serving counts as just 5 grams of fat, about half that of the regular version.

TURKEY AND SHRIMP JAMBALAYA

One 14½-ounce can tomatoes, cut up
1 cup finely chopped onion
½ cup chicken broth
2 tablespoons tomato paste
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon dried Italian seasoning, crushed
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon chili powder
¼ teaspoon pepper
Few dashes bottled hot pepper sauce
1½ cups chopped green pepper
1 cup quick-cooking rice
¾-pound medium shrimp in shells, peeled, deveined and halved lengthwise
¼-pound smoked turkey sausage, cut into ¼-inch slices and halved

In a 3-quart, microwave-safe casserole, combine undrained tomatoes, onion, broth, tomato paste, garlic, bay leaf, Italian seasoning, salt, chili powder, pepper and hot sauce. Cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) for 5 minutes. Stir in green pepper. Cook, covered, for 2 minutes. Stir in uncooked rice, shrimp and sausage. Cook, covered, for 3 to 5 minutes more or until shrimp just turn pink, stirring once. Let stand, covered, 1 to 2 minutes or until rice is tender. Remove bay leaf. Serve in bowls. Makes 4 servings.

Hamburger stroganoff was accidental creation

I have always been impressed with those people who cook by the T.L.A.R. method.

For those who don't use this method, the letters stand for That Looks About Right. This is not your style if, when you cook, you diligently follow a recipe.

This week's Winner Dinner Winner, Marie Kellar of Farmington, has a creative bent when it comes to cooking. She is a definite proponent of T.L.A.R.

THE BUSY mother of three children, Kellar came up with this recipe one night when she discovered she was out of Hamburger Helper and decided to try and make her own.

Short on time, she decided to speed up the preparation by cooking the noodles in the sauce, rather than cooking them separately. And so it was that Cheesy Hamburger Stroganoff came to be born.

It was, Kellar said, most joyfully received by her husband and three sons.

ORIGINALLY FROM Southern California, Kellar loves living in Michigan. She much prefers living here.

Involved in the PTA at her children's school as well as helping out as a kindergarten room mom, she is chairperson for the school's upcoming Spring Fun Fair.

Kellar has a craft business on the side with four other neighbors and makes country-style wooden objects and dolls that she sells at various craft shows around the area.

At the moment, she and her friends are busily preparing for a craft show to be Saturday, March 23, at Franklin High School in Livonia.

Thank you, Marie Kellar, for sharing your recipes with us, and congratulations on being this week's Winner Dinner Winner. Your menu is perfectly suited for those on the go with little time to fuss in the kitchen.

T.S.L.A.W.D. — That Sounds Like a Winner Dinner to me!

A QUICK reminder: I am looking for tasty spring menus. If you have a family favorite, please send it my way.

Submit your recipes, to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012. All submissions become the property of the publisher.

Each week's winner receives an apron with the words Winner Dinner Winner on it.

Recipes are printed the same size so that you may clip and save them in a three-ring binder.

Use a paper punch to make holes in the clipping or paste the clipping on a blank sheet of three-ring notebook paper.

Another option is simply to file the clippings in a folder with pockets that will hold them.

- 1-1½ pounds hamburger (ground chuck)
- 2 cans Campbell's Cream of Mushroom soup
- 2 soup cans of milk

- 1 medium onion, chopped
- ½-1 cup dry red wine
- ½ bag egg noodles

- Salt, pepper and garlic powder to taste

Brown the hamburger and chopped onion in a large skillet. Drain off the excess fat and add the spices. Stir in the cans of cream of mushroom soup and the 2 cans full of milk. Mix in the remaining ingredients and let simmer for 20-30 minutes. Add the egg noodles and cover. Cook until the noodles are tender. Sprinkle the cheese on top, cover and cook until the cheese is melted. Serve and enjoy.

STEAMED BROCCOLI

Prepare either fresh or frozen broccoli spears and serve with the casserole.

Potatoes are stuffed with vegetables, yogurt

AP — The following recipe for Vegetable-stuffed Potatoes is made with non-fat yogurt instead of sour cream. The potatoes bake in your microwave oven in about 15 minutes.

VEGETABLE-STUFFED POTATOES

- 2 medium baking potatoes (about 6 ounces each)
- ⅓ cup plain non-fat yogurt
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup hot cooked chopped broccoli
- 1 tablespoon chopped pimentos

Prick potatoes with fork. Cook uncovered in the microwave oven on high (100 percent power) for 7 to 9 minutes, turning potatoes over after 4 minutes. Potatoes should be tender. Let stand for 5 minutes.

Cool slightly. Cut potatoes lengthwise in half. Scoop out inside, leaving thin shell. Mash potatoes until no lumps remain. Beat in yogurt, onion, salt and pepper until light and fluffy. Stir in broccoli and pimentos. Stuff potato shells with this mixture.

Arrange stuffed potatoes in circle on a 10-inch microwave-safe plate. Cover with waxed paper and cook on high 2 to 3 minutes or until hot. Makes 4 servings.

Enjoy roast lamb sweet and spicy

AP — Roast Lamb Sesame features a leg of lamb basted with a sweet and spicy honey, ginger and orange mixture.

After the lamb is cooked, this mixture is combined with bouillon and cornstarch to become a sauce for the lamb. Sesame seeds are sprinkled over the top of the lamb for added flavor and eye appeal.

Greek Lamb and Mixed Fruit Pilaf can be served with a green vegetable and a loaf of warm, crusty bread.

ROASTED LAMB SESAME

Grated rind of 1 orange
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1 teaspoon powdered mustard
½ teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper to taste
One 3-pound leg of lamb
¾ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon honey
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon light sesame seeds
¾ cup light bouillon
2 teaspoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water
Blanched shreds of orange and lemon rind (optional)

Mix grated orange and lemon rinds with mustard, salt and pepper. Rub mixture over lamb and set aside for 30 minutes. Place leg of lamb in roasting pan. Cook in a 350-degree oven for 30 minutes.

Mix orange juice, honey and ginger; pour over lamb. Sprinkle lamb with sesame seeds. Return to oven and cook at 350 degrees for 1 ½ to 2 hours, basting often with pan juices. Add water to pan when necessary.

Remove lamb from oven; place on platter. Cover and keep warm. Skim fat from pan juices and add bouillon to pan. Heat and stir well to dissolve sediment.

Strain into saucepan and stir in cornstarch mixed with water. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Serve sauce with lamb. Add blanched shreds of orange and lemon rind to sauce, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

GREEK LAMB AND MIXED FRUIT PILAF

½ cup butter or margarine
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1 ¾ pounds lamb, cut into cubes
½ cup dried apricots, soaked overnight in cold water, drained and halved
3 tablespoons seedless raisins
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon black pepper
3 ¾ cups water
1 ½ cups long-grain rice, washed, soaked in cold water for 30 minutes, and drained
1 teaspoon salt

Melt butter in large, deep frying pan. When foam subsides, add onion and cook until soft and translucent but not brown. Add lamb and cook for 5 minutes, stirring until browned. Stir in apricots, raisins, 1 teaspoon salt, cinnamon and pepper.

Pour in 2 cups of water and bring to boil, stirring occasionally. Reduce heat, cover pan and simmer for 1 hour or until meat is tender.

Put rice in a medium saucepan. Pour remaining water over rice and add remaining salt. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer for 15 to 20 minutes or until all liquid is absorbed.

Place one-third of cooked rice in medium-size oven-proof casserole. Cover with a layer of one-half of cooked meat mixture. Top with another one-third of rice. Continue to make layers until all ingredients have been used, finishing with rice.

Cover dish and place in center of oven. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 20 minutes and serve from casserole. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

'Tis a St. Patty's Day party

Ah, the luck o' the Irish. Every Irish soul I've had the pleasure of knowing seems to have a twinkle in his or her eye and a happy-go-lucky outlook on life.

Their festive natures will be in full force come March 17 — the day the Irish really like to kick up their heels. March 17 marks St. Patrick's Day, Ireland's greatest holiday, celebrated with festivals and gala events to honor St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland.

In America, we celebrate St. Patrick's Day each year by wearin' a bit o' the green. Throughout the country, "St. Patty's Day" is one of rejoicing found in homes, schools, churches and places of entertainment. In many communities, a St. Patrick's Day parade takes place.

Want to get in on a bit of the Irish spirit? Plan a St. Patrick's Day party for family and friends. Begin by decorating with green carnations and small pots of shamrock plants, available at any florist around St. Patrick's Day. Offer bright green Irish paper hats to wear for fun. Insist, of course, that everyone wear their green and "kiss the blarney stone" upon entering for a year filled with good luck (any large stone, scrubbed clean, can substitute as your blarney stone).

IRISH EYES will be smilin' as the main entree of Corned Beef with Three-Cabbage Salad is served. A healthy cup of "Irish" Lamb Stew accompanied by "Dublin" Brown Bread will warm their hearts and appetites. Irish folks are great tea drinkers, too, so don't forget to offer a selection of Irish teas with dinner.

Top the meal off with a Weight Watchers green favorite — Grasshopper dessert drinks for a tasty, refreshing treat.

Irish music also will add to the festivities. Play your favorite Irish tunes and invite all to participate in an Irish Jig contest. Those who miss your St. Patrick's Day party this year will be green with envy.

In small bowl toss raisins with remaining 2 tablespoons flour; stir into batter.

Spray a clean 1-pound coffee can with nonstick cooking spray; pour batter into can. Tightly cover can with foil; set cooking rack into deep kettle or 8-quart Dutch oven and set coffee can on rack. ● DESSERT SAUCES

The Top Hat Company of Wilmette, Ill, a manufacturer of premium dessert sauces, has been acquired by Marla Murray, a former Bloomfield Hills resident. Founded in 1982, Top Hat produces six flavors of gourmet dessert sauce — hot fudge, raspberry fudge, mocha fudge, mint fudge, butterscotch and caramel.

The Top Hat label can be found in gourmet and specialty food shops including the Quarton Market, Brown Street Market and Fisher Market, all in Birmingham; R.I.K.'s in Bloomfield Township, and Peter's Palate Pleaser in Bloomfield Hills.

President Murray said the company is test marketing a new line of confection products and plans to add a new sauce this spring.

Top Hat was built on a Midwestern base but has begun discussions with both East and West Coast outlets and a major mail order house. The company projects a sales increse of more than 800 percent by 1992.

● ICE CREAM

London's Dairy Farm has introduced a fat-free, cholesterol-free ice cream.

Five flavors are offered — vanilla, peach parfait, chocolate parfait, blueberry parfait and strawberry parfait.

The ice cream contains less than 0.5 percent butterfat, compared to the standard 12 percent for regular ice cream.

The product is available in square half-gallon packages at a price comparable to standard half-gallon ice cream products.

London's distributes its dairy products to more than 1,700 retail outlets throughout Michigan.

London is one of Michigan's largest dairies. It was the state's first dairy to computerize its business operation to maximize production and distribution.

SOME OF THE BEST MANAGERS IN THE WORLD HAVE DIABETES.

Controlling glucose levels is the management challenge of a lifetime.

There are blood tests to conduct, exercise routines to plan, and special meals to prepare.

And for nearly one million Americans with insulin-dependent diabetes, daily injections to administer.

Not to mention coping with the stress of knowing diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, and blindness.

For all the work they do, people with diabetes deserve more than a pat on the back.

They deserve a cure.

Meatballs inside Greek sandwiches

AP — The Greeks have a word for these sandwiches — and that word is great. Five of the tender, well-seasoned, little meatballs generously fill a pita bread half to make a supper in a pocket. Another time, serve the meatballs and sauce over hot cooked noodles.

GREEK MEATBALL SANDWICHES

1 beaten egg
3 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs
¼ cup shredded carrot
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
Dash pepper
10 ounces lean ground beef
1½ teaspoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon granules
½ cup cold water
1 tablespoon ketchup
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
Two 8-inch pita bread rounds
½ medium cucumber, thinly sliced
½ cup plain low-fat yogurt

In a medium mixing bowl combine egg, bread crumbs, carrot, onion, garlic, salt, ⅛ teaspoon thyme and pepper. Add beef and mix well. Shape mixture into twenty 1½-inch balls. Place meatballs on a rack in a 15-by-10-by-1-inch baking pan. Bake in a 375-degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until done. Drain meatballs on paper towel.

In a medium skillet combine cornstarch, bouillon granules and water. Stir in ketchup, Worcestershire and ¼ teaspoon thyme. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly; cook and stir 2 minutes more. Place meatballs in skillet and heat through. Keep warm.

Cut pitas in half crosswise and open pockets. Line pockets with cucumber slices. Spoon meatballs into pita pockets. Serve with yogurt. Makes 4 servings.

Gallo challenges ultra-premiums

Eleanor and Ray Heald

E. & J. Gallo Winery is this nation's largest wine producer. E. & J. Gallo's Hearty Burgundy may well be America's best-known wine. But let's face it, Gallo offers no competition in the premium end of the market. Until now!

Born within 100 miles of Modesto, Calif., the city they put on the map, Ernest and Julio Gallo grew up working a small vineyard bought by their father in 1925. At the end of Prohibition in 1933, the brothers borrowed about $6,000 and started the greatest wine success story in a rented warehouse.

At the start, their table wines were shipped in barrels. Distributors at the other end of the line bottled the wine under a variety of labels. It was only in the early 1940s that the first Gallo label appeared.

How big is Gallo today? No one in the company will give exact production figures, but it's easy to make close estimates because Gallo has its own glass plant that churns out 1.5 million bottles per day.

OK. You've seen the bottles in every grocery chain, but have you been noticing the subtle changes over the last few years? Wineries in Sonoma County have.

A LITTLE-KNOWN FACT is that E. & J. Gallo is one of the largest Sonoma vintners, crushing more grapes from this premium California wine region than any other winery. In the mid-1980s, Julio Gallo and his son Bob resculptured hillsides in Sonoma's Dry Creek area to create magnificent vineyards where cabernet sauvignon and zinfandel have been planted. In the Russian River region of Sonoma, they planted chardonnay, johannisberg riesling and gewurztraminer.

In 1989, the Gallos bought a 1,000-acre vineyard site near Asti in the northern reaches of Sonoma County. Vines from this property will come into production in four to six years.

What does this Sonoma County vineyard commitment mean to the consumer? Part of the answer can already be experienced with a taste of Gallo's vintage-dated premium varietals. The completion of the query will come with release of the first estate-bottled Sonoma wines in the near future. This sequel is being ushered in with Gallo's 1988 Limited Release Chardonnay and Sauvignon Blanc together with a stunning rendition, 1978 Gallo Private Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon.

Sorry, folks, you can't find these wines at the supermarket. Gallo's doing it right. They are showcasing these wines in restaurants. And in this area, we're not talking about dinner houses. We're talking upscale restaurants — the Whitney and the Van Dyke Place in Detroit, Fox and Hounds in Bloomfield Hills, the Round Table in Plymouth, Country Epicure in Novi and Pike Street Restaurant in Pontiac, to name a few.

THE 1988 GALLO LIMITED Release Chardonnay ($12-14 restaurant list price) is a departure from early 1980s releases. "The attempt is to highlight fruit without overly emphasizing chardonnay's inherent appley qualities," said Carmen Castorina, Gallo's regional communications director.

About 85 percent of the fruit came from Sonoma's Russian River area. The wine did not receive any oak treatment, but if we didn't tell you this, you might not suspect it. The wine has developed handsomely in the bottle and resembles a fine French Chablis.

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

1978 E.& J. Gallo Private Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon (about $30 on area restaurant wine lists). Bottled in 1983, this wine was personally selected by Julio Gallo, who also supervised the winemaking.

It was aged 48 months in 4,000-gallon Yugoslavian cooperage. It is soft, supple, generous and at its optimum drinkability. Until now, this 'Private Reserve" bottling was called the Family Selection, reserved for the Gallos' private use and has been seen in the marketplace only at select benefit auctions.

It could change the way you view E.& J. Gallo wines.

Ask for it in a restaurant to accompany light seafood selections, chicken or pasta, with a delicate cream sauce.

A little-known fact is is that E. & J. Gallo is one of the largest Sonoma vintners, crushing more grapes from this premium California wine region than any other winery.

THE INFORMATION TO BRING WITH YOU
When you make an appointment to see your doctor concerning your joint pain, your obligation does not end. You should provide him with information so he can act in a manner that is timely, appropriate and economical.
You should bring in all the medications you use, even if they are unrelated to the treatment of your joint problems. For example: you may have asthma and are taking prednisone, a form of cortisone. The doctor needs this information, as it will influence his decision as to the amount of anti-arthritis medicine he will prescribe.
Bring in x-rays of your joints if you had them taken within 6 months of the present appointment. X-rays older than six months may not reflect recent changes, but current pictures save return visits and duplication of costs.
If you were under the care of another doctor for your arthritis, try to obtain a copy of his recent notes on your case. All your past record is rarely needed. Seeing the current notes will give your present physician an appreciation of a previous diagnosis and past therapy.
With the background data you provide, plus a fresh examination, your doctor usually can decide what arthritis you have and the treatment appropriate for it.

This ad will reach 728,812 suburban households.
In The Detroit News, it would reach only 303,354.

This ad is running in more than this newspaper alone. It's running in every one of the 50 Detroit suburban newspapers in a network called SPRING.

SPRING (The Suburban Press RING) is the network of all suburban newspapers published by the Adams, Associated, Heritage, Observer & Eccentric and Hometown groups.

SPRING delivers advertisers a single, extremely effective way to reach as many as 728,812 households in Detroit's affluent suburbs, more than twice the 303,354 you can reach in the daily News—and approximately twice the 368,877 you can reach in the Free Press.

Best of all is the price—SPRING's rate for inserts is just $23 per thousand—approximately half the published CPMs of the DNA and ADVO—and our ROP CPMs are lower, too.

And you place just one order, deal with one rep, provide one set of ROP copy or art, and get one invoice.

All of which is why a lot of advertisers, looking for ways to get more for less, are finding and using SPRING. How about you?

Chef follows seasons with his specialties

AP — Seasonality refers to cooking in harmony with the seasons.

It means shaping a menu to celebrate the bounty of fresh produce available at particular times of the year.

Seasonality creates excitement. Without it, thoughts of the first ripe strawberry of spring would be hollow. It's the anticipation that builds during the wait for that first ripe, juicy and luscious berry that makes the first bite such a thrill.

Few others embrace the concept of seasonality with more enthusiasm than certified master chef Ron De Santis. "I'm always thrilled when fresh local corn hits the stands at the farmer's market. It is so sweet and juicy, you can eat an ear raw while driving home," De Santis said.

"Consider an example from the world of wine. Without seasonality, Beaujolais nouveau would just be another young, fruity red wine. Instead, the culinary world awaits the first bottle like a couple awaiting their firstborn."

Seasonality is a wonderful gift of nature, and there should be much joy in preparing the foods of each season. During autumn and winter, longer and slower cooking methods are preferable because more time is spent indoors, out of the cold. If one has to spend more time inside, there can be no finer place to be than in a warm, cozy kitchen perfecting a casserole, braise or hearty stew.

THINKING AHEAD to warmer pastures, consider the young, tiny fruits and vegetables of spring and summer at their peak freshness. When summer brings its heat and humidity, grilling, sauteing and stir-frying are the chosen methods. After all, at that time of year no one wants to spend hours in a hot kitchen, so the method of cooking is like the season — hot and fast.

The concept of seasonality in modern times gets a little blurry. Today asparagus is available at Christmas and raspberries for Valentine's Day. With the marvels of modern transportation, South American countries export their summer crop for everyone to enjoy in the United States throughout the cold months. There are now opportunities to prepare and eat foods that were previously reserved for special times of the year.

During autumn and winter, longer and slower cooking methods are preferable because more time is spent indoors, out of the cold.

Though this is a temptation for any cook, we all should remember that foods are part of the wondrous cycle of the earth and are best left to come and go naturally. Absence does truly make the heart, and palate, grow fonder.

As a final note, it should be stated that cooking with the seasons is economical. Not only is seasonal produce of the highest quality, it is available at the best possible prices. When fruits and vegetables come into season, supply is high and prices lower. This is an important consideration at any time of year.

BLANQUETTE OF VEAL WITH WINTER VEGETABLES

2½ pounds boneless veal shank or shoulder, cubed
3½ cups white veal stock prepared from the bones of the shank or shoulder 1 day ahead (water may be substituted)
1 bay leaf
1 sprig thyme
1 whole clove
12 mushroom stems (reserve caps for stew)
12 parsley stems, tied together with string
1 medium rutabaga, peeled and cut into 1-inch chunks
4 carrots, peeled and cut into 1-inch chunks
3 medium turnips, peeled and cut into 1-inch chunks
12 pearl onions, peeled
3 tablespoons butter
¼ cup all-purpose flour
½ cup heavy cream
Lemon juice to taste
Pinch nutmeg
Salt to taste
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Place veal in a stewpot and add veal stock. Bring the stock slowly to a light simmer. Carefully skim any impurities that rise to the surface. If skimming isn't done, blanquette will not have proper color.

Add the bay leaf, thyme, clove, mushroom stems and parsley stems. Simmer very gently for about 1½ hours. Remove the seasonings and discard. Remove the meat; keep warm.

Cook the vegetables in the broth. Start with the rutabaga, carrots and turnips, as they take the longest cooking time, about 10 to 12 minutes. When they are done, remove them from the broth and keep warm with the meat. Add the onions to the broth; cook about 7 to 8 minutes. Remove onions from the broth; keep warm with the meat. Add the 12 mushroom caps reserved from the stems to the broth; cook about 2 to 3 minutes. Remove the mushroom caps from the broth; keep warm with the meat.

Combine the 3 tablespoons butter and ¼ cup all-purpose flour in a saucepan. Cook, stirring over medium to low heat, until the mixture begins to color. Add the butter-flour mixture to the broth a little at a time, whisking between additions to prevent lumps from forming. Simmer the sauce for 20 minutes; strain.

Return the sauce to a simmer and add the cream. Season with lemon juice, nutmeg and salt. Return the meat and vegetables to the pot and reheat very gently. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Serve with rice pilaf. Makes 6 servings.

Rocks regain throne in WLAA hoop

If the calendar says it's an odd-numbered year, then Plymouth Salem must be the boys basketball champion of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

The Rocks upheld a pattern for success, winning their third title in five years Saturday night with an 89-72 victory over Plymouth Canton in the final of the post-season tournament at Salem.

Salem, which finished the regular season at 18-2, has won championships in 1987, 1989 and 1991. The Rocks were runners-up in 1988 and 1990. The Chiefs are 12-8.

"It was important for me and the other seniors to go out winning on our court," said Salem senior Jake Baker, who scored a game-high 22 points. "None of us wanted the last home game to be remembered as a loss to Canton."

"It's tough when you're the favorite and have to battle every game, but it makes it that much sweeter when you win," Salem coach Bob Brodie said. "We've played for the championship five straight years, and that in itself is an accomplishment."

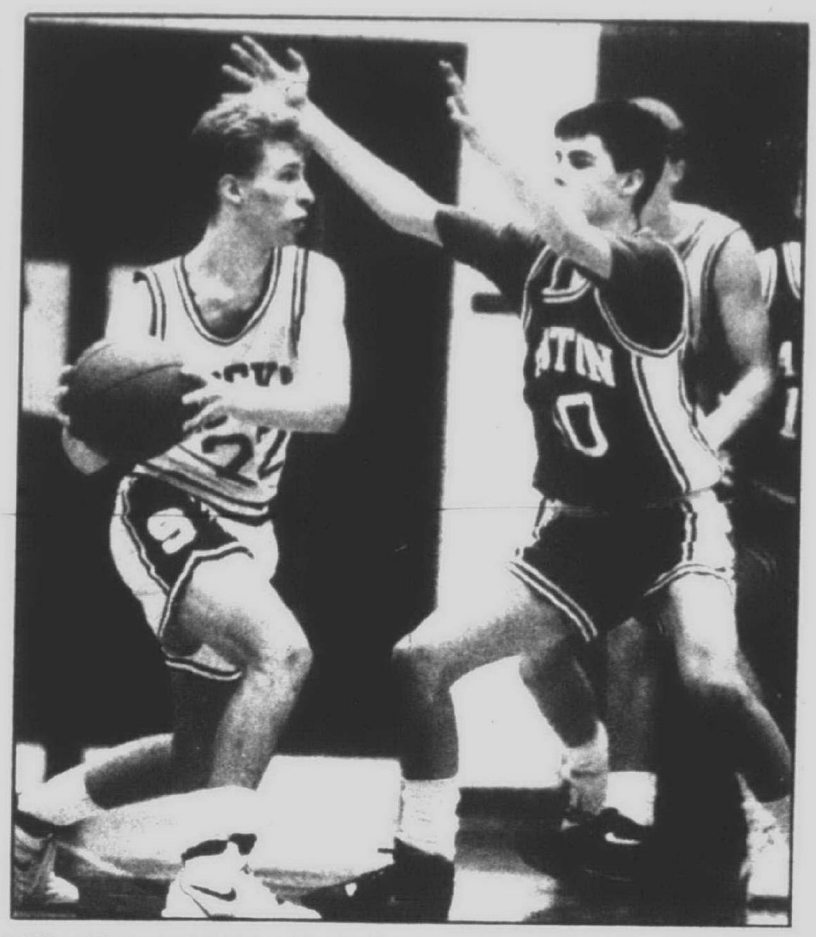
BAKER SET the offensive pace for the Rocks, who had extraordinary results shooting the ball. Salem shot an impressive 63 percent from the floor, making 32 of 51 field goals.

The Rocks weren't just shooting layups, either. Baker had six field goals, all three-pointers. In the second quarter, he hit triples on three straight possessions.

"We were coming down on one side and swinging the ball around," Baker said, "and they weren't matching up. They weren't checking me, and I just kept shooting it."

K.C. Kirkpatrick also played a strong game for Salem, scoring 21 points on eight field goals, which included a nice dunk, and four free throws. Chris Tebben was seven of 11 shooting free throws and scored 15 points, and John Hoffmeyer had a strong second half and finished with 13.

"It was like Operation Desert Storm out there for a while," Brodie said. "Both teams were firing away in the first half. We just continued to shoot well the whole game."



Mike Mulder of Salem looks for an open teammate while Mike Stafford plays defense for Canton. Mulder scored five points in Salem's victory.

Unlike the first meeting when Salem had a 31-21 halftime lead and squeaked by 56-53, the Rocks maintained their intensity on offense, Brodie said. Salem shot 54 percent in the first quarter and 50 percent, 70 percent and and 79 percent in the next three.

"WE CONTINUED to be offensive-minded in the second half, and we played defense all four quarters," Brodie said.

"In the last game we slowed it down, and I think we've changed a lot since then," Baker said. "We were a slower team then, and now we emphasize running."

Despite the exceptional shooting, Salem didn't have an easy time against the Chiefs, who refused to go away. Canton only trailed 61-53 entering the final period and was in the game until the Rocks used their most productive quarter of shooting to win going away.

Derrick McDonald scored 18 points, Michael Stafford 17, Jon Paupore 13 and Kevin Holmes 11 for the Chiefs, who also shot well.

Canton made a respectable 45 percent (25 of 56) of its shots, but that was overshadowed by Salem's amazing numbers. Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner winced when told what the Rocks had shot.

"Tonight, we got beat by a better basketball team," he said, adding the Chiefs can be proud, too. "Salem has a good group of guys, and they have a good coach. We have a good team ourselves.

"WE REALLY felt we had our guys peaking at the right time of the year, and we're proud to be the second-place team in a very up year for the Western Lakes."

The Chiefs, however, were probably forced to rely too much on their outside shooting. Of the four in doubles, only Holmes in a post player. Fouls hurt, too, as center Tony Coshatt and Holmes picked up three apiece in the first half and sat for a while.

Stafford had five triples, McDonald four and Paupore three, but it was that outside shooting that kept Canton in the game when Salem's aggressive, agile post defense bottled up the Chiefs inside from the start.

"You can stay with a good team with perimeter shooting," Van Wagoner said, "but I don't know if you can live with it. We just didn't get any inside game going tonight."

Ironically, it was Canton's outside shooting that most concerned Brodie, but the Rocks overcame it with their own shooting.

"They have such tremendous firepower," Brodie said, "and my biggest fear was seeing them catch fire and us wondering what was going on."

THE ROCKS led 18-8 but Canton stayed within 18-13 at the end of one quarter and 42-31 at halftime. Baker had 16 points in the first half, Kirkpatrick and McDonald 11 each. The Chiefs got as close at 57-51 late in the third period in which Holmes scored 10 points before Salem pulled away in the finale.

"We've been playing great defense the last three weeks, but offensively they just played very well," Van Wagoner said. "We really didn't play the type of defense that got us to the championship, but Salem was not to be denied tonight."

Salem remains champion of WLAA

gymnastics

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Dynasties are nothing new in Western Lakes Activities Association gymnastics. Only the school names are changing.

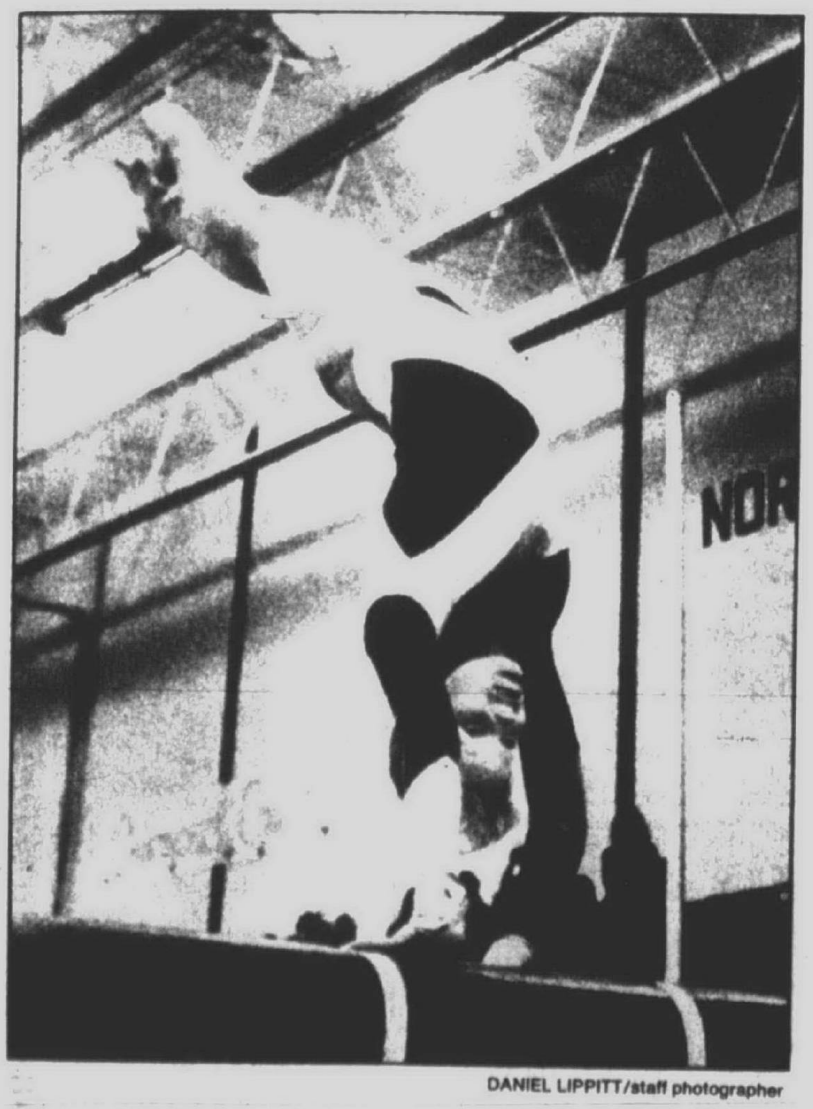
Plymouth Salem won its second consecutive championship Thursday in competition at North Farmington, and indications are the Rocks could stay at the top for some time.

Salem had three of the league's top four all-arounders — four of the top 11 — and the quartet has a combined 10 years of high school eligibility remaining.

"You never know what little eighth grader is going to come up," Salem coach Kathi Kinsella said. "But assuming everybody else stays the same, this team should be in the top five in the state for the next three years, if these kids continue to do these scores."

Kim Miller defended her title as the WLAA's No. 1 gymnast, winning the all-around competition with a 37.55 score and edging runner-up Heather Kahn of North (37.40).

SALEM TEAMMATES Courtney Gonyea (36.40), Alysia Sofios (36.30) and Sarah Makins (33.90) were third, fourth and 11th, respectively. Miller and Gonyea are sophomores, Sofios and Makins freshmen.



DANIEL LIPPITT/staff photographer

Courtney Gonyea tied for third on the vault and finished third in the all-around competition at the WLAA championships.

Their cumulative efforts and those of other team members enabled the Rocks to dominate the meet, winning by nearly six points over runner-up Plymouth Canton.

Salem scored a season-high 144.40, the Chiefs 138.50. North, which had won the WLAA championship five straight years until last year, also had a season best of 137.35. The order of finish included Westland John Glenn, Northville, Farmington and Walled Lake Western.

"We knew Salem and Canton were one and two in the league," North coach Jeff Dwyer said, adding 137 would have won the state title in the past. "We just wanted to get as close as we could — and it was pretty close.

"We were fortunate in those years (when North dominated the league) to get some of the top girls in the state. We have some this year; it's just (the Rocks) have more. They have four girls who can average nine in every event, and we haven't seen that in a long time. One-forty-four — that's an unbelievable score in high school."

Canton coach John Cunningham, whose team has finished second to Salem several times this year, echoed Dwyer's comments.

"I THOUGHT Salem had a nice, solid performance," he said. "I keep hoping they'll have a bad meet, but I don't think they will. They're just too solid."

The Rocks won by a much larger margin than last year when they scored 141.65 to edge North, which finished second at 140.25.

"This league meet was not like last year," Kinsella said. "We had to psych ourselves up and everybody had to hit. Everybody was psyched up (this year) but didn't hit. But it was enough to win."

Kinsella said she was pleased with what her team did in terms of score but not performance.

"I have a lot of my father in me; it's never good enough," she said. "My personal goal was to hit Elite All-American as a team, so the goal I set in my mind for this team we accomplished. We didn't come here to cream anyone."

To be rated Elite All-American, the team's top three gymnasts in each event must score 109.44 three times during the season, and one occasion must be a championship meet.

Miller was the league champion on vault, balance beam and floor exercise. She was third on the uneven bars but might have won that, too, if not for a fall while trying to perform a difficult routine. She still scored 9.00 but Sofios captured the title with a 9.35.

"EVEN THOUGH she fell on her front flip on bars, tonight is the closest she's come to executing (the trick) correctly," Kinsella said. "Usually, she takes it up too high and lands back on the bars. Tonight, she took it back but a little too much."

Kahn, who finished second to Miller in the all-around at the league and state meets last year, tied for first on bars with Sofios and was second on vault. She placed third on beam and floor.

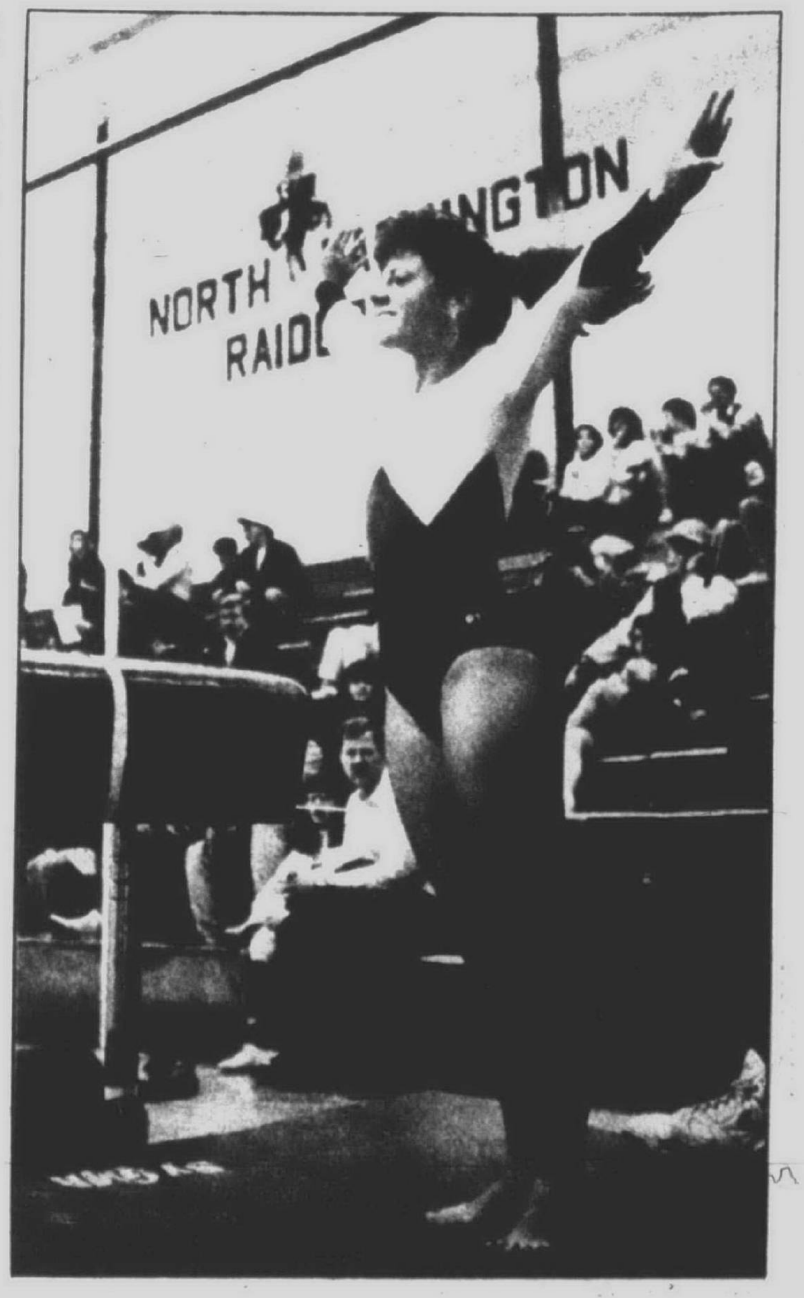
Finishing second remains a great accomplishment, according to Dwyer, considering the caliber of the individual ahead of Kahn.

"I try to tell Heather that," Dwyer said, adding she averages 9.00 or better in every event. "She's one of the top girls in the state. She finished second to the top girl in the state and, to me, that's really good.

"You can't worry about the competition. You have to take care of what you can do. She did and everything turned out well."

Sofios and Gonyea tied for third on vault. Sofios was 14th on beam and fourth on floor. Gonyea was second on beam and floor, 10th on bars. The top 10 all-arounders included Kyna Morgan (Glenn), Kim Rennolds (Canton), Jameelah Gater (North), Marissa Maybouer (Glenn), Chris Prough (Glenn) and Johanna Anderson (Canton).

"In my six years (at North), it seems the competition is getting better and better every year, and it's because of these clubs," Dwyer said. "Some girls in the clubs are finally coming out to represent their schools, and they're getting the glory they deserve."



DANIEL LIPPITT/staff photographer

Heather Murphy, completing her vault routine, helped Canton capture second place in the WLAA gymnastics meet Thursday.

AFTER A POOR start, Canton finished strong and salvaged the meet, according to Cunningham. "We had half a meet," he said.

Canton's first event was floor, and the Chiefs never adjusted to the soft, two-layered wrestling mat. Canton finished second (34.75) but still almost 1½ points behind Salem (36.10).

"A wrestling mat is designed to do exactly the opposite of what a gymnast wants it to do," Cunningham said. "On a slow floor you have to punch in and wait for it to come back before you can punch out."

THE THREE-WEEK JOURNEY to the Palace of Auburn Hills begins tonight.

For some, the trip will be short, for others, it could last longer.

The state high school boys basketball tournament, better known as "March Madness," is where dreams can come true for the four state champions in Class A, B, C and D. They will be crowned on March 23 at the home of the World Champion Detroit Pistons.

The tournament, however, can also be nightmarish, where upsets pervade.

This journey is not non-stop. It takes planning. You need reservations so you can lay your head down and get some much needed rest.

Some teams carry the American Express Gold Card around with them, but others will find few luxuries awaiting them.

Here's the 1-800 number for Observerland basketball teams. Hotel rooms are filling up quickly. (Records are through Friday.) See district draws.

RITZ-CARLTON
(First class accommodations)

Plymouth Salem (17-2): This is the premier team in Observerland. The Rocks, who reached the state Class A quarterfinals last season, have loads of talent upfront, led by Jake Baker and K.C. Kirkpatrick. But can their guards get the job done come regional time when teams like Ypsilanti (one of two teams to beat Salem) and Belleville await? The Novi district is no piece of cake either, with the host Wildcats, rival Plymouth Canton and Livonia Stevenson (the other team to beat Salem) all waiting for a shot.

EMBASSY SUITES
(Not a bad place stay)

Wayne Memorial (14-6): Dan Henry has done a masterful coaching job taking over for his brother Chuck. He's also had to battle the pay-to-play thing. A tough non-league schedule should help them get through at Livonia Franklin. Senior forward Greg Hartman could lead this team into the regional finals at Wyandotte Roosevelt.

DAYS INN
(No masseuse available)

Redford Catholic Central (8-11): Lack of a ball-handler has killed this team. After senior guard Steve Whitlow was dropped from the team, the scoring chores rest in the laps of juniors Bob Kummer (back at point) and Chad Varga. CC is playing at home and could reach the district final, probably against favorite Detroit Henry Ford, where anything could happen.

Plymouth Canton (12-7): By reaching the Western Lakes Activities Association finals, the Chiefs are showing they are a team on the move. Tuesday's district opener against 16-3 host Novi is a real test. Canton cannot afford to let up with a lead. Watch for guard Derrick McDonald to emerge.

Livonia Stevenson (12-7): The Spartans are one of Observerland's pleasant surprises. Give credit to the coaching tandem of Jim McIntyre and Tim Newman. This team plays together and plays fairly smart. The win over Salem (earlier this year) may seem like a fluke, but this team should not be taken lightly.

MOTEL SIX
(They'll leave the light on)

Farmington Harrison (13-6): Guess what? The Hawks should make the Class B district final at Detroit Country Day after an opening round game with Detroit Renaissance. Guess what? The Hawks get to face Chris Webber in the final. Maybe Webber, who is sick of calls from college recruiters, won't answer the call in the final. But that's highly unlikely.

Bishop Borgess (9-11): The Spartans are going with youth these days and should win their opener Thursday against Redford St. Agatha. Moving down to Class C might be advantageous, but Royal Oak Shrine is the team to beat at Orchard Lake St. Mary.

Livonia Churchill (11-8): The Chargers have a fine center in 6-7 Randy Calcaterra and don't leave Brian D. Johnson alone to shoot. Quick teams will hurt them, especially a team like Wayne, whom the Chargers could face in the finals at Franklin.

Livonia Franklin (10-9): The Patriots are floundering during the latter stages of the season. After a big win over Canton, it's been downhill. Franklin opens at home tonight against Churchill, a team which has beaten the Patriots twice already.

Walled Lake Western (9-11): The Warriors are playing at home and have coach Chuck Henry, that's two pluses. But 16-3 West Bloomfield is the overwhelming favorite to get out of Western's district.

Plymouth Christian (10-7): Manish Nandini will lead the Eagles in the Class D district at Detroit Redford St. Mary. If Detroit Lutheran West (5-14) is the favorite, then the Eagles have a chance.

SHADY REST
(Moving slow at the Junction)

North Farmington (7-12): The Raiders have suffered through an off-year despite the scoring efforts of Chris White and Bill Chawlik. Tom Negoshian takes on his buddy Tim Domke of West Bloomfield in the district opener at Western. Despite a lopsided count, the two will remain friends after game.

Walled Lake Central (8-12): Some dub the Vikings as the team of the future. A victory tonight over host Western would most likely put them in the finals, but not further.

Westland John Glenn (4-15): The Rockets never made a serious challenge in the Lakes Division of the WLAA as some people anticipated. They won't make a challenge either in the Franklin district.

Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (8-10): Melton Stoudemire is a talented 6-foot sophomore who can jump out of the gym, but Hawk fans will not be jumping for joy after the Class D district at Allen Park Inter-City Baptist is finished.

Redford St. Agatha (4-16): The Aggies' only victories of the season came in the Catholic League's C-D Division. Since their opener is against a non-division foe (Bishop Borgess), the outcome is predictable.

Farmington (2-18): The Falcons have a fine shooter in junior Steve Gallagher, but will soon be shooting blanks (despite getting a bye) in the Walled Lake Western district. But remember, one of Farmington's two wins came against Western.

Lutheran Westland (4-16): The Warriors lost their top player, 6-5 guard Chris Habitz, to an injury recently. Since he is not available, winning against Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher (the opener at Hamtramck St. Florian) is remote.

BATES MOTEL
(A horrifying experience)

Redford Thurston (15-4): Say it isn't so, one of Observerland's top teams playing defending state champion Country Day (who's at home) in the first round? The Eagles tuned up for the Chris Webber matching by playing Detroit Cooley (a 75-54 loss) last week. Can the Eagles, who have been coached masterfully by Mike Schuette, petition the Michigan High School Athletic Association to play in Class A? What a shame.

Plymouth Christian trounces Macomb

By Darren A. Nichols
staff writer

By the looks of the first quarter score, 28-3, one would have thought this was a football game.

Plymouth Christian Academy controlled play from the outset and rolled to a 106-36 boys basketball win Friday over visiting Macomb Christian to win the American Division of the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

The win raised PCA's record to 11-7 overall and 6-2 in the division. Macomb Christian is winless in 15 games and 0-7 in the division.

"We came out real intense and we played our best game of the year," Plymouth Christian Academy coach Daniel Brandel said. "The key was we were hungry to win. We haven't been hungry. We (also) got into the flow of the game."

"We're 0-for-the year," Macomb Christian coach Dave Nardin said. "You have to understand we only have 64 kids in the whole school. And we only have one junior and the rest are freshmen, so they're still learning how to play the game. Plymouth Christian is a good basketball team and they gave us a lesson we can learn by."

GUARD MANISH Nandani led four players in double-figures for PCA with 35 points, including six shots from beyond three-point range. Forward Keith McCants added 23 points. Kevin Williams chipped in 14 points and Rob Askew had 10.

Mike Weisser led Macomb Christian with 14 points. Matt Odell added 10.

The Eagles scored the game's first 15 points, before Macomb Christian got on the board on a free throw by Odell with 4:50 in the first quarter.

Macomb Christian's only other points were on a free throw by Odell with 7 seconds left in the quarter and a free throw by Aaron Klasson with no time left in the quarter.

The Crusaders shot 0-for-18 in the first half and didn't score their first basket until 6:12 remained in the third quarter on a layup by Stevens. For the game, Macomb Christian shot seven-for-45 (15 percent) from the field.

Plymouth Christian shot 36-for-85 (23 percent) for the game.

The Eagles had leads of 50-8 at halftime and 70-22 after three quarters.

THE ONLY THINGS left for the crowd to look forward to were a dunk by McCants and the Eagles surpassing the century mark. Scoring 100 points at the Lowell Middle School gym presents a problem, what with only two digits on the school's scoreboard.

The scoreboard read "06" at the end of regulation, but make no mistake about who won this ballgame.

"We have five seniors and we varied the defenses on them," Brandel said. "They're a very young team and it was kinda hard on them. (Hitting the three-pointers) was our philosophy of the game, but we weren't doing that in the first quarter that much. The three-pointers went down and it opened up the game.

"Winning is not easy. (But) it's kinda hard not to be pleased with our performance. We won the conference...decisively."

Said Nardin: "I basically told them just to blow off the first half. We let them rattle us. I told them to think the score was 0-0 and play competitive, to play one quarter at a time and to show some pride.

"It's very difficult to play in those situations and I think they came through for me."

Spartans take swim title from Salem

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The message was loud and clear Friday during the finals of the Western Lakes Activities Association swim meet: "Don't Mess with Buckler's Boyz."

With T-shirts bearing that slogan, along coach Doug Buckler's illustration draped on the back — ironically resembling that bad man from Iraq — meet favorite Livonia Stevenson went out and did what was expected, winning the WLAA championship with a team-high 499 points.

Northville, the Western Division champs, finished a strong second in the 12-school field with 442, nosing out host Plymouth Salem for third by five points. See statistical summary.

"That picture (on the T-shirts) makes me look like a dictator," chuckled the emotionally-drained Buckler, who led Stevenson to its first WLAA crown since 1987. "But I'm wound up every meet. That's the way I am. I think that pysches the kids up."

When the Spartans dumped blue-colored water (their school colors) in the pool, while orchestating a collective victory dip, Buckler was right in the thick of things with his boys.

"He's a pure inspiration," said senior Taki Caranicolas, who won the 50-yard freestyle. "He's crazy, very intense at times."

Added Stevenson senior Aaron Rieder, who placed second in both the 200 individual medley and 100 freestyle: "Everybody needs to be pushed, but he also brings the team together. It's like a family."

RANKED NO. 8 in Class A, the Spartans demonstrated their power by winning five of 12 events, including the meet's final race, the 400 freestyle relay.

Thanks to a strong anchor leg by junior Bryan Morrison, Stevenson capped off a great night with a first-place time of 3:20.09, edging second place North Farmington (3:20.4) and third place Salem (3:20.43). Rieder, Ryan Freeborn and Mike Gravina rounded out the winning foursome.

But prior to the race, Buckler cautioned his quartet to not jump any starts in fear of losing valuable points. Eighteen places were awarded in each event. Individual first place finishers were given 24 points; second place, 21 . . . all the way to 18th, one point.

"I had a lot of adrenalin, he (Buckler) told me 'just go fast,'" said the 6-foot-2 Morrison, who was suffering asthma because of the body oil (motion lotion) he had applied.

Morrison also earned 24 points for Stevenson when he captured the 200 freestyle in 1:44.07. Freeborn and Eric Peterson added a second and fourth, respectively, to make it one of the Spartans' most productive races.

Caranicolas then captured the 50 freestyle in 22.34, beating out Salem's Joe Pawluszka, who had posted a better qualifying time going in.

"Pawluszka is a very good swimmer, but we felt Taki was the best sprinter in the league even though he was tapering down for the state meet (March 7-8 in Ann Arbor)," Buckler said. "He even got his state cut (qualifying time) to boot, which was nice."

FREEBORN, a sophomore, followed by winning the 100 backstroke in 55.91. Teammate Alex Goecke, also a sophomore, added a victory in the 100 breaststroke (1:01.6) as Stevenson captured the final three races.

"I was worried all three days (qualifying started Wednesday) because you've got a great team in Northville, a great team in Plymouth Salem and great teams in (Plymouth) Canton and North Farmington," Buckler said. "The whole league swam great and I knew they'd be shooting at us, but after we (Freeborn) won the backstroke, I knew we were in good shape."

The meet's individual standout was Westland John Glenn's Matt Martin, a sophomore who set a meet record in the 200 individual medley (1:56.51), breaking the 1989 record of 1:57.34 set by Salem's Ron Orris (now at Michigan State).

Martin also came back to win the 500 freestyle in 4:45.76, beating out Morrison.

"He (Martin) is one of the best this league has ever seen," Buckler said. "He's right there behind the great Ron Orris."

Another league record fell in diving, where Northville's Steve Lang tallied 492.15 points, toppling the mark of 462.7 held since 1986 by Canton's Andy Flower.

NORTHVILLE also won three other races — the 200 freestyle relay (1:29.89); Brad Cook in the 100 butterfly (54.16); and Bob Holdridge in the 100 freestyle (49.21).

Salem captured the meet's first event, the 200 medley relay, as Curt Witthoff, Jon Stridiron, Matt Erickson and Albert Sneath were clocked in 1:40.4.

"I thought we swam really well," said Salem coach Chuck Olson, whose team had won the WLAA crown three consecutive years. "To come within five points of Northville after they waxed us in a dual meet is very gratifying. I'm extremely pleased. With a touch here and there, we might have been second."

But it was Stevenson's night to strut and Olson was one of the first to congratulate his friend Buckler.

"He (Buckler) did all the right things this year with that team," the Salem coach said. "Stevenson deserves its ranking in the state. I know they'll swim well next week at state and represent our conference."

Buckler, meanwhile, was all smiles and thankful for his team's effort.

"This is the nicest group I've coached," he said. "Not that the other teams I've coached haven't been nice, but this team was focused from 'Day One.' I never lost faith in where we were going."

Curt Witthoff of Salem was fourth in the backstroke and the individual medley, and he helped the Rocks win the medley relay.

Mike Orris of Canton finished third in the 200-yard freestyle and fourth in the 500 freestyle Friday in the WLAA swimming and diving championships at Salem High School.

Al Harrison

THE BOWLING CENTERS Association of Michigan has joined forces with the DARE program to help raise funds for the anti-drug awareness efforts of the program.

According to Larry Sisson, president of the BCAM, 320 member centers throughout Michigan will provide free bowling to community corporations, civic organizations and businesses which sign up for the Bowling for DARE parties.

DARE consists of various law enforcement agencies, including the Michigan State Police, who conduct a series of classroom lectures for fifth and sixth grade students on how to resist the pressures of drugs and alcohol.

The DARE program goes beyond the traditional drug abuse program. It teaches kids not to just say no, rather, how to say no.

Here's how you can help. Your local "Bowling for DARE" will help reserve a day and time for your group's party at a local bowling center. There is no cost to your group for bowling.

Hang the furnished "Bowling for DARE" poster in your lunchroom, coffee room or any other suitable area.

Start signing up sponsors with the furnished pledge sheets and get each sponsor to pledge at least a penny per pin for three games. If a sponsor wishes to pledge a flat rate, it must be a minimum of $5.

Go to your host bowling center and have a fun-filled time while bowling to benefit DARE. And after the event, coordinate the collection of all monies, where the proceeds will be transferred to the DARE program through the BCAM administration office.

Your group will receive a certificate from the Michigan DARE program in recognition of your community support. In addition, there will be a kids "Bowling for DARE" program, which will be held throughout organized youth leagues. Prizes will be awarded. For more information call the BCAM at 559-5207.

STARS, STRIPES AND SURPLUS

Remember the opening scene from "Patton"? George C. Scott, in full military regalia, stands before an American flag and delivers a rip-roaring patriotic speech that put hair on everybody's chest. With a fist full of dollars, you can recreate that scene. All it takes is a visit to the surplus store. But be advised that while you'll find plenty of military gear, supplies may be down on the hottest item of 1991, gas masks.

MOVING PICTURES

Val Kilmer stars a Jim Morrison in "The Doors," the story of musician/poet Morrison, his rock group and the turbulent '60s.

Dan Greenberg

This week's big debut may not be the film for everyone's taste. But Jim Morrison fans and devotees of The Doors will flock joyously to Oliver Stone's attempt to glorify what many consider to be the worst elements of the '60s.

Besides the pros and cons about this particular style of rock'n'roll music, the film turns out to be a pretty mediocre motion picture. The considerable talent Stone exhibited in "Platoon" and "Born on the Fourth of July" is missing in "The Doors" (C, R, 135 minutes).

The affection Oliver Stone has for his youth is understandable. Youth is the time when our fondest moments occur. Of course, we have good memories of the old days because we were young and enthusiastic and had hope. Hope fades and memories become fonder.

Stone's memories — and his attempt to glorify the best of adolescent rebellion speaking out against all that is wrong in life — unfortunately centers on an unpleasant, disturbed individual, Jim Morrison (Val Kilmer).

Despite the fact that he and The Doors were successful, it's hard to maintain interest in Morrison's sexual problems, his proclivity to excess in booze and drugs and his consistent failure to enjoy success. The obscure explanations revolving around Navaho tribal customs doesn't help.

THAT'S PARTICULARLY true after the first hour or so when the sequences, however exotically photographed and imaginatively enhanced with special effects, tend to begin looking like something we've just seen.

Rock'n'roll and Doors fans may disagree, but much of the music sounds like unadulterated noise as Morrison shrieks while trying to swallow the microphone.

The bottom line is an extended music-video which is just as unrestrained and lacking discipline as the '60s it depicts.

Yes, Virginia, on the other side of the street, they do make movies like the good old days. Disney's latest offering, "Shipwrecked" (B+, PG, 90 minutes), is obviously marketed for the youngsters but it's an old-fashioned adventure story which will entertain the young at heart, no matter what their age.

Based on the popular 19th Century Norwegian novel, Haakon Haakonsen, "Shipwrecked" includes all the Horatio Alger/poor boy takes charge elements that engage our sensibilties and make youngsters feel good about themselves and their potential.

Filmed on location in England, Fiji, Norway and Spain, the movie is attractive in the best Disney tradition. Stian Smestad, a 15-year-old Norwegian, is very effective in the title role of the young Haakon who goes to sea to earn money and save the family farm after his father is injured.

HIS FATHER'S friend, Jens (Trond Peter Stamso Munch), takes charge of Haakon and they set sail for Australia. A British naval officer, Merrick (Gabriel Byrne), is aboard to protect the ship from pirates.

Grading the movies

A+	Top marks - sure to please
A	Close behind - excellent
A-	Still in running for top honors
B+	Pretty good stuff, not perfect
B	Good
B-	Good but notable deficiencies
C+	Just a cut above average
C	Mediocre
C-	Not so hot and slipping fast
D+	The very best of the poor stuff
D	Poor
D-	It doesn't get much worse
F	Truly awful
Z	Reserved for the colossally bad
*	No advanced screening

It turns out that Merrick's an imposter and, after Captain Madsen (Kjell Stormoen) dies and a hurricane wrecks the ship, the conventional but still enjoyable when well-told survival on a South Seas island story begins.

All told, "Shipwrecked" is lots of fun.

Jack Twiller (Chris Young) and his friend Crutch Kane (Keith Coogan) stand out as sophomore nerds at the local high school. Their trials and tribulations finally wind down at their senior prom.

It's a fairly basic plot but it works. The boys have some other friends and there's the traditional kid brother, Peanuts (Aeryk Egan), and, shhhhh, don't tell, girls.

THAT LAST category includes Lily (Josie Bissett), Gina Gabooch (Tricia Leigh Fisher) whose brother Angelo (John Cameron Mitchell) is the local bully, and Wanda (Elizabeth Rainey).

Nothing super-significant occurs but this story of the age-old problems of growing up are told in a bright and humorous way. Nothing serious but plenty of fun.

"My Heroes Have Always Been Cowboys" (PG) has an all-star cast looking at the new west. A contemporary rodeo-rider, H. D. Dalton (Scott Glenn), is injured and must return home to face the problems of growing up that he has so long avoided.

Fernand Leger's 'Ballet' gets an accompaniment

By John Monaghan

Contrasting images fill the screen in rapid succession. A straw boater is followed by a swinging pendulum, spinning saucepans and a girl on a swing. A washerwoman is seen mounting a flight of stairs again and again.

For audiences in 1924, artist Fernand Leger's "Ballet Mecanique" was something fresh and experimental — if downright confusing.

For avant-garde composer George Antheil, it was pure inspiration. His resulting score for the film — a massive conglomeration of drums, synchronized player pianos, tam-tams, airplane propellers and sirens — has been performed only a handful of times since its premiere in 1926.

This Saturday, the University of Michigan Percussion Ensemble will perform live Anthell's witty score with a top-notch print of "Ballet Mecanique." Mauricio Kagel's "Ludwig Van" (1969) rounds out the unusual double bill at the Michigan Theatre in Ann Arbor.

FRENCH ARTIST Fernand Leger became famous for his Cubist depictions of city life. He was so fascinated by the thriving film medium that he threatened to give up painting and devote his life to making mov-

"Stage Door" is a lively wartime musical about stage stars entertaining the men in uniform. With bits by Katharine Hepburn, Harpo Marx, Benny Goodman and Count Basie.

"Kiss Me Kate" was originally filmed in 3-D, but even in 2-D, Cole Porter's catchy score still jumps out at you. Katherine Grayson and Howard Keel fight both on and off stage while performing Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," while Ann Miller cooks up a scorching rendition of "Too Darn Hot."

February closed out with a pretty heavy duty line-up of major motion pictures premiering on video cassette.

Jack Nicholson's much-ballyhooed and poorly received sequel to the well-regarded 1974 "Chinatown," "The Two Jakes" (1990, color, R, 137 minutes) appeared on Feb. 28. Nicholson directs himself in this reprise of his earlier, award-winning Jake Gittes private eye role. Harvey Keitel, Meg Tilly, Madeleine Stowe, Ruben Blades, Eli Wallach, Frederic Forrest and David Keith also appear.

For fans of older films, four Bette Davis films appeared on the cassette racks for the first time on Feb. 27 "The Catered Affair" (1956, 93 minutes), "Beyond the Forest" (1949, 96 minutes), "The Bride Came C.O.D." (1941, 92 minutes) and "Satan Met A Lady" (1936, 75 minutes).

All are in black and white and unrated. They are from a time when ratings were unnecessary.

"State of Grace" (1990, color, R, 144 minutes), starring Sean Penn, and "Death Warrant" (1990, color, R, 111 minutes), starring Jean-Claude Van Damme, also appeared at the end of the month.

The Van Peebles team, father Melvin and son Mario, released a rap/comedy/action film, "Identity Crisis" (1990, color, R, 98 minutes) to top off the February festivities.

ONE OF 1990's most notorious titles, "Wild at Heart" (1990, color, R, 125 minutes), will appear on Wednesday. Its gross display of violence, dirty talk and explicit sexual activity added to the furor that led the Motion Picture Association to drop the X rating in favor of NC-17.

"Wild at Heart," however, was eventually released as an R-rated movie.

Falling Joys get a 'Wish'

A combination of talent from Pete Velzen (from left), Pat Hayes, Suzie Higgie and Stuart G. Robertson have made Falling Joys a hot property in Australia.

Falling Joys' lead singer and songwriter Suzie Higgie paints in rather wide strokes on the band's Nettwerk debut, "Wish List."

Instead of banal "boy meets girl," the Australian songstress opts for a more surreal approach on the age-old theme.

On "Tunnel Vision," one of many deliciously orchestrated pop songs on the quartet's latest release, Higgie sings: "Still inside liberty/ shake yourself from under me/ cross your fingers that's all right/ Show me something I can't fight."

Higgie pleads guilty to being somewhat all over the canvas.

"That's what I try to do," said Higgie, whose band performs Tuesday at The Blind Pig in Ann Arbor. "Some people miss the point a bit . . . I try to paint a picture without being too specific."

YET COMBINED with some doleful guitar and basslines, the Falling Joys' songs seem to be melancholic in scope. This knack for writing pop songs extends back to Higgie's youth.

"It was only a children's book."

Things didn't really take hold until much later when she met up Falling Joys guitarist and vocalist Stuart Robertson at an Australian television network.

FALLING JOYS formed in 1984, performing as a three piece until bassist Pat Hayes and drummer Pete Velzen joined the fold. The band released a pair of singles, "Burnt so Low" and "Nearly a Sin," and was signed by Australia's Voliton Records.

The band's 1989 EP, "Omega," was No. 1 on Australian alternative charts. "Wish List" is the Falling Joys' first full-length studio album.

Although "Wish List" comes across as a crystalline LP, the Falling Joys are said to have more of an edge performing live. That, no doubt, was a trait picked up from performing before sometimes hard-to-please Aussie audiences, who like a little verve to their music.

"Although it's a large country, it's small in country in that you only have a few times to impress people. You have to impress them up front in order to bring them back."

Monkeys score with 'Five Star'

BILL SCHWAB

The Junk Monkeys are putting recollections of $20-a-night motels behind them and reveling in the release of their second album, "Five Star Fling," on Metal Blade Records.

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

If anything, a record deal can make a guy a tad sentimental. The Junk Monkeys are no different.

Three of the band's four members, Dave Bierman, Devin Perri and Dave Bouttete, sit around in the old firehouse in Dearborn reminiscing like Dean Moriarty and Jack Keuroac discussing old travels.

Like the time in Galvaston, Texas, when, low on money, band members played for beer on the beach for college students on spring break. Then there was the occasion in Georgia. The Junk Monkeys pulled up at some club only to find out nobody at the bar knew they were supposed to perform.

Then there was Philadelphia, see, when someone tried to break in the van with the band still inside. Albuquerque wasn't any kinder or gentler.

"For a week, we stayed at this one place for $20 a night," said lead singer Dave Bierman. "They never changed the sheets. At 4 o'clock, we'd have people banging at our door asking us if we wanted to buy a rock (crack cocaine)."

Things were somewhat scary then. But these are merely recollections to be pasted in a scrapbook of rock'n'roll hard knocks.

The Junk Monkeys are older and, oh, so much wiser now. A record deal can do that to you as well.

Certainly, such maturity is reflected in "Five Star Fling," the band's second release on Metal Blade Records (a subsidiary of Warner Bros.). The 10-song collection of fiery pop songs is by far the Junk Monkeys' most focused effort to date.

THE QUARTET plays a searing brand of garage rock'n'roll. The Junk Monkeys remarkably have not deviated from their original vision — being a loud and raucous outfit with pop songs that cause abrasions, not a salve for wounds. Things are more refined on "Five Star Fling," a rock-solid album front to back.

"It didn't seem to me we had a vision when we started out," added lead guitarist Dave Bouettete. "We just wanted to be unique and make sure there weren't 1,000 of us already in the bars."

For the first time, the Junk Monkeys recorded all the songs "Five Star Fling" without trying them out live. Included on the LP is a protracted and spirited version of The Who's "Quick One."

The other nine songs were written by Bierman and musically con-

REVIEWS

BILLY'S LIVE BAIT — Gear Daddies

Any time band names such as Husker Du and the Replacements are thrown about, one can usually count on a trip through power chord hell. Added to that, The Gear Daddies are from the same state as the aforementioned outfits.

And while there is a promise of "Billy's Live Bait" kicking "sonically harder" than the band's previous release, this is not realized here. Thank goodness.

"Color of Her Eyes" and "Time Heals" are the only full throttle rockers on this the band's debut on PolyGram.

Otherwise, the Gear Daddies appear more at home, strumming and twanging along without impunity on "Billy's Live Bait." This album has more of a heartland, Lake Wobegon feel to it than that of a primal rocker ripe with its homespun ditties.

Many of these country bumpkin musings are endearing. The Gear Daddies don't try to overpower the listener, opting to built slowly to a hook ridden crescendo.

On "Billy's Live Bait," the band makes a conscious effort to tackle more universal themes whereas "Let's Go Scare Al" focused on drunken regrets. Martin Zellar still has a few dark tales to tell.

"Don't Look at Me" is rather personally revealing, culled from bitter past experiences: "So don't look at me, I'm not the mess I seemed to be/ I know looks can sometimes deceive . . . I'm crying all night and I'm crying all day/I'm trying to remember what it feels like not to feel this way./I don't eat anymore/I stumble home like a drunken old whore." Such laments are coupled with the relentless acoustic guitar of Martin Zeller makes this the No. 1 song on the LP.

The harmonica on "Sonic Boom" aches with desolation and the twang on "One Voice," a rather humorous song which the main character only wants to drive a Zamboni.

In the final analysis, the Gear Daddies have cooked up one heck of a major label debut. Highly recommended.

COMING DOWN — Daniel Ash

OK, first let's remove any pretense of objective, critical reviewing of this first solo project by Daniel Ash. You see, I always like any and every musical project spawned from the dregs of Bauhaus. Bauhaus itself, Love and Rockets, David J's solo work, Tones on Tail and even Peter Murphy's solo stuff all sound great to me.

Therefore, it comes as no great surprise that I really like ex-Bauhaus and current Love and Rockets guitarist/singer/songwriter Daniel Ash's first solo recording "Coming Down."

What is surprising is that Ash sounds so much like bandmate David J. When Lennon and McCartney released solo albums, they sounded very different from each other, but in the case of Ash and J, they have similar voices, similar song structures and similar instrumental sounds. (Note to Beatleheads. I'm not insinuating that J. and Ash are Lennon and McCartney, so don't write to the paper.)

Anyway "Coming Down" is a mix of covers and originals. It was supposed to be all covers, but Ash kept getting too creative and had to write some songs of his own. The covers are "Blue Moon," "Day Tripper" and "Me and My Shadow."

No matter what song Ash is covering, it sounds like a Love and Rockets song. "Me and My Shadow" loses its hokeyness and becomes an eerie, day dreamy meditation. So does "Day Tripper" for that matter. Ash could probably make "Row, Row, Row Your Boat" sound like a trippy meditation. "Life is but a dream" is pretty deep stuff, after all.

The album is heavy on minor chords, medicated vocals, dream-state music. Listening to it is sort of like a drug-free psychedelic trip, although the lyrics are very anti-drug. Two versions of the songs "Coming Down" speak about the evils of cocaine.

The overall effect of "Coming Down" is sort of a pleasant otherworldliness. The album is — you guessed it — highly recommended.

PILLS, THRILLS AND BELLYACHES — Happy Mondays

With the fave raves from across the water, this album was picked as album of the year by the New Musical Express, England's fashionably influential music weekly.

Now it's riding high on the U.S. college charts.

Having heard the Monday's first release, "Bummed," and being naturally skeptical of the fickle English music tastes, I approached "Pills . . ." hesitantly.

This skepticism was somewhat tempered with the opening lines from track No. 1, "Kinky Afro:" "Son, I'm thirty/I only went with your mother 'cos she's dirty/and I don't have a decent bone in me/what you get is just what you see, yeah."

Couple this with the chorus line of "Yippee-yippee-ay-ay-ay," "borrowed" from LaBelle's "Lady Marmalade" and you've got to smile.

Singer Shaun Ryder has taken his chemically-induced whinings of "Bummed" and transformed them into chemically-induced characteristic mannerisms.

Add to that, some exciting screaming guitar from Mark Day and it becomes clear that they are a different breed of group from the '60s ripoff style of the likes of Charlatans UK, etc.

The album does have it's quirky moments, namely "Grandbag's Funeral" is a plodding, pedantic effort basing everything on a guitar riff of questionable value. Thankfully, this is recovered by "Loose Fit," a dancey number riding on a James Brown style bass line.

Admittedly, it's highly fashionable to like this band now, but try not to let that dissuade you. "Pills, Thrills and Bellyaches" will earn your respect.

"Don't Tell Her It's Me" (a) features Steve Guttenberg, Jami Gertz, Shelley Long and Kyle MacLachlan in a romantic comedy about a shy guy who takes a crash course in romance from his sister after he meets the girl of his dreams.

STILL PLAYING:

"Alice" (B+, PG-13, 100 minutes).

Woody Allen's latest, fanciful and romantic comedy about New York City stars Mia Farrow as a privileged but troubled lady.

"Awakenings" (B, PG-13, 121 minutes).Robin Williams and Robert DeNiro as doctor and catatonic patient call to mind too many other films. The doctor's special care and sensitivity lead to temporary recovery but film lacks spark expected from these talented actors.

"Cadence" (C+, PG-13, 95 minutes).

"Dances With Wolves" (A, PG-13, 180 minutes).

"Edward Scissorhands" (C, PG-13, 100 minutes).

Unusual young man with scissors instead of hands shakes up the suburbs after moving in with the Avon lady and her family.

"Ghost" (A, PG-13, 105 minutes).

Banker's ghost (Patrick Swayze) hangs around after life to protect loved one (Demi Moore). Spiritualist (Whoopi Goldberg) helps him and this romantic/comedy/thriller.

"GoodFellas" (B+, R, 145 minutes).

Martin Scorsese's intense, compelling saga of three mobsters returns after receiving half-dozen Oscar nominations. Despite good acting and fine technical values, the film is to be condemned for glorifying vicious and violent gangsters.

"The Godfather, Part III" (C+, R, 161 minutes).

"Green Card" (C, PG-13).

"The Grifters" (A-, R, 110 minutes).

Anjelica Huston, John Cusack and Annette Bening are excellent as three con artists from America's seamy underbelly.

John Goodman plays a Vegas lounge pianist who is in line for British throne in the comedy, "King Ralph."

Please put sex in perspective

Dear Barbara,

I'd like to comment on your reply to the letter from Bea in the Jan. 28 issue of The Eccentric.

I wish you had pointed out the flaw in her flip remark to her brothers about "marrying prissy girls and being deprived of lifelong good sex."

Does she really believe that being a virgin when marrying means a girl can't give and experience good sex? That mistaken notion is the sad result of the sexual revolution.

I hope the day will come again when it's recognized that the sexuality in us can be restrained, when wise to do so . . . and can be enjoyed to its fullest in marriage.

Helen

Barbara Schiff

Dear Helen,

I enjoyed your letter very much, as I did the column by Evelyn Petersen that you sent me.

I am in full agreement that controls from within are an important part of growing up. The only note I would like to add is that most problems such as this are complex.

There is no one side that is totally right and the other side that is totally wrong. There is at least a kernel of truth in both positions.

There are virgins who marry and who experience and give not "good" but great sex. On the other hand, there are boys and girls, men and women, who live a life of fear and guilt and are therefore incapable of "good" or great sex.

It is easy to be virtuous when you are too frightened to do anything else. Some men marry prissy girls who remain prissy throughout their lives.

Both positions are not mutually exclusive. To be repetitious, I wish to make the point again that these are complicated problems with no simple answers.

Barbara

VIDEO VIEWING

tem) can one consider this as an R rating.

What we're talking about here is a film that follows a totally different value system. In addition to its disregard of conventional entertainment values revolving around normal human conduct, "Wild at Heart" projects a new sense of film structure and raises the question, "What is entertainment?"

Honestly, it's just not entertaining to watch the jumbled, discordant, violent cross-country romp of two disaffected, confused young people, Sailor (Nicolas Cage) and Lula (Laura Dern).

THEY RUN away to escape Lula's mother and her vengeful hoodlum friends (Willem Dafoe and Harry Dean Stanton). Mom wants a better guy for her darling daughter and also is jealous that Sailor rejected her advances — in the bathroom no less.

This leads to lots of obvious references to "The Wizard of Oz," with mean old mom, of course, getting the bad rap as the Wicked Witch.

David Lynch has been awarded (and rewarded) for his contributions to film art, with "Wild at Heart" winning best picture award at the 1990 Cannes Festival.

Is it fun to watch psychotics and neurotics wandering endlessly and unpleasantly through the psychological sewers of their deranged minds?

The answer here, obviously, is a resounding no.

ALTERNATIVE MOVIE

ies. He spent much of 1923-24 creating the 18-minute "Ballet Mecanique" in his studio.

Assisted by Dudley Murphy (who worked with Man Ray), Leger transformed everyday objects into striking visual contrasts, set to the beat of a ticking clock.

During work on the film, Leger was joined by Antheil. The composer's modern, machine-like rhythms melded with Leger's vision. Though rarely performed together, both film and music enjoyed their share of public outrage.

This weekend's performance by the Percussion Ensemble will include four pianos, two xylophones, glockenspeil, tenor, bass and military drums, gong, triangle, cymbals, electric bells, woodblocks and large and small airplane propellers.

THE SECOND film, "Ludwig Van," was commissioned by West German television on the 200th anniversary of Beethoven's birth.

Beethoven's apartment for the movie was designed by artist Joseph Beuys, who papered the walls, floors, ceilings and furniture with reams and reams of the composer's musical scores.

According to Kagel, the live music for "Ludwig Van" should be derived from the music on the wall, which musicians follow from 45 close-up photographs. The Michigan Theatre performance will mix electronic tape with live instrumentation.

Needless to say, musically and visually, this feature should be full of surprises.

structed by the rest of the band. Then they were brought into the Tempermill in Ferndale and recorded.

Originally, Metal Blade Records wanted the Junk Monkeys to record the LP in Buffalo, N.Y. The band stayed home with Dave Feeny picking up the production credits.

"Whatever can be done in Los Angeles can be done here," Bierman said. "and done cheaper."

"He (Feeny) was real easy going," Bouettete added. "He'd turn on the tape and say (changing his voice), 'Let's play rock'n'roll.' "

The frenetic pace from "Five Star Fling" which was put together, working nonstop in the studio, between 10 a.m. and 2 a.m., adds to the fervidness of the LP.

FOR THE first time, though, members had to deal with the finished product being put through record company scrutiny. One song, a cover of Neil Young's "Roll Another Number," didn't make the cut. Bierman accepts it as part of the terrian.

"I hung up the phone (after receiving the news) and I was pretty p----d," Bierman said. "At least we don't have 10,000 albums sitting in my living room that need to be sent out."

"We're going to strike back," Perri added. "The next album we're going to do all country songs."

Richard Jeni: Perseverance pays off with laughs

By Rebecca Haynes
staff writer

Someone recently described him as a cross between Robin Williams and Mickey Rourke, and comedian Richard Jeni agrees with the assessment.

"I'm definitely this kind of New Yorkey, wise guy type of act," he said during a recent telephone interview. "And I do have an upbeat energy."

You could probably say Jeni started doing standup when he was 13. His father was a big comedy fan and Jeni used to listen to his not-too-clean comedy albums when no one was home, memorizing the jokes.

"I think like most comedians I used it as a means of getting accepted. When I was 13, I wanted to hang around with guys who were 17 or 18 and I'd repeat the routines I'd heard on my dad's records and they liked it so they let me stay."

He remembers being attracted at that age to the whole aura that surrounded the vision of the smoky nightclub, open way past his bedtime.

But he never thought of making a career out of comedy. The Brooklyn native managed to maintain a 3.9 grade point average and then graduate with honors in political science and economics from Hunter College in New York.

"I THINK that's one of the things that really works for me on stage. People are thinking, 'Here is somebody who in appearance and manner shouldn't be a very thoughtful person.' The fact that I can dig deep with the concepts is something you wouldn't expect."

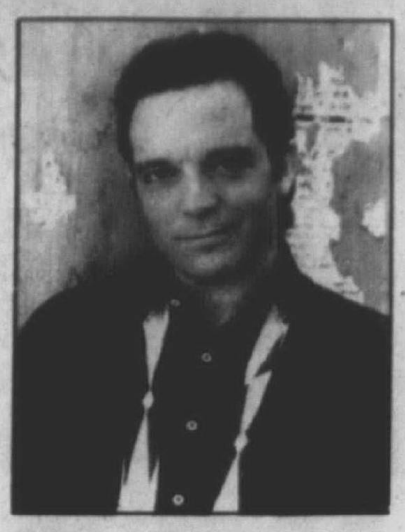
And although he held several positions in public relations, he was always doing something that got him fired, the comedian said.

"The thought of doing comedy was so far-fetched that I didn't know how to begin to even think of it. So every job I had I screwed up.

"I think I was subconsciously trying to set in motion the circumstances that made it OK to try the comedy thing. That way I could say I tried to be a regular person but it didn't work out."

THE FIRST year or two in the business, which for Jeni began in 1981, were very difficult.

"I did amateur nights for about a year. There's no way to learn it without going up and putting yourself on the line.



Richard Jeni agrees with the assessment that he's a cross between Robin Williams and Mickey Rourke, a "kind of New Yorkey, wise guy type."

"There's no how to be funny school, so you have to learn everything, how to walk and talk. It's a slow process and in most jobs you get to be in a sheltered environment when you're first starting.

"I think I was on the verge of quitting every day. But I had in my mind that I had no place to go."

AND HIS perseverance paid off. His prestige in the comedy industry has climbed steadily since then.

Gone are the nights of performing in small, no-name clubs. He now headlines on an international circuit, including large concert halls, and is continuing a successful relationship with cable's Showtime.

His 1989 special on that network, "Richard Jeni: The Boy From New York City," won him an ACE award nomination. So he undertook a more ambitious one-hour special, "Richard Jeni 2: Crazy From the Heat," which began airing on Showtime this year.

JENI TAKES exaggeration to an extreme, painting absurd pictures about family life and other situations with which people can easily identify.

"You have to find a sentiment that's shared. You have to be on common ground for comedy, so I'm always looking for something people tend to feel a certain way about.

"Most jokes are a distortion of reality, so you have to understand the real situation before you can laugh at the distortion. The more firmly rooted the concept is, the sharper the joke will be."

JENI ATTRIBUTES his standup personality to a combination of traits he inherited from his parents.

"My father was funny, but in a very sarcastic way. And my mother wasn't particularly funny but she's the type of person who loves a good party."

And although his parents are the target of several of his most popular routines, he said they take it all in stride.

"They like it, and the fact that I bought my mother a car for Christmas helped," he said, laughing. "My family is kind of a star-struck group. They'll sit around and talk about movie stars like they know them personally."

JENI DOESN'T consider himself to be particularly funny when he's not on stage.

"Comedy is a lot more cold-blooded than it looks. The trick is to make it look spontaneous.

"Most people laugh the hardest at things that just happen to them when they're not expecting it. But with this, people are told that at 8:30 tonight the funniness will begin. You have to make the routines look spontaneous, like they're just happening for the first time even though you've rehearsed every line and movement."

AND ALTHOUGH he says he always includes new material in his road act, the audience will still see some of the routines he considers his best.

"I have found that usually people do want to see a certain amount of material from the (Showtime) show. So I try to sandwich the new stuff in between the stuff I know already works."

And what can Detroiters expect during his upcoming performances at The Comedy Castle? Jeni replied, chuckling, "I plan on getting naked and spontaneously combusting."

A container of bullets and a couple of small American flags become a counter display at the G.I. Surplus in Wayne.

Buy military — surplus style

By Greg Kowalski
staff writer

The winds of war that stormed across the Kuwaiti desert have calmed. In their wake, tons of military ordinance, used and unused and mostly Iraqi, clutter the sands. Gearing up of the military war machine meant an accompanying growth of military gear.

Technically, it's called "materiel," and it represents the guns, tools, clothes and equipment it takes to keep the military functioning.

But even with the fierce rate the military was using equipment in the war against Iraq, from overhead and on the ground, it often orders more than it needs.

And what doesn't get used, gets sold.

After World War II, a flood of Army/Navy surplus hit the market and gave birth to such stores as Sliverstein's, in Detroit, which is legendary among many longtime "surpies" (surplus buyers).

Need a tank periscope? Silverstein's had it. How about some pontoons for a plane? See Silverstein's. Ditto for shell casings, ammo boxes and just about any other military item short of a 50-caliber machine gun (which were on display but not for sale).

Silverstein's is long gone. But if you still have a hankering for a 100-pound bomb, take heart. There are still plenty of surplus stores in the area that can supply you with more bombs than a late night TV film fest.

"THE DAYS OF stores like Silverstein's are gone forever," said Jeff Goldsmith, owner of Joe's Army Navy Supply, 311 S. Main in Royal Oak.

After World War II there was so much surplus available that it could be bought by the boxcar at 5 cents on the dollar, Goldsmith said. Gradually, the World War II goods filtered through the market. Even Korean and Vietnam War-era goods are largely gone.

And with Pentagon belt-tightening and the skyrocketing costs of military hardware, it's unlikely a massive glut of surplus will ever occur again despite the current war. But that doesn't mean the surplus supply is in danger of drying up.

On the contrary, sales are booming, said Goldsmith. They took off like a Patriot missile on Jan. 16 when the United States attacked Iraq.

"Most of the goods we get now are foreign-made," Goldsmith said. "The majority of it comes from West Germany. Joe's carries surplus from armies around the world including Israel, Austria and even the Soviet Union."

Why army surplus?

Three reasons: First, patriotism. People are buying flags, pins and other items relating to Operation Desert Storm.

Second, fear. Some people worry that the country may be attacked by terrorists. They've sent sales of gas masks soaring.

THIRD, IT'S tendy. Remember, we are a culture that promotes shredded blue jeans as a fashion statement.

A camouflage shirt and military pants are stylish to many. These days, desert wear is in. The market is also especially strong for pins and patches.

Trench coats also sell well, adds Goldsmith. But there's been little call for bulletproof underwear (used by helicopter pilots) or flack jackets. (These weighty vests won't stop a bullet but will protect against shrapnel.)

However, most surplus shoppers are more interested in stitching than style. Hunters, campers and outdoors people especially like military surplus because it's well made.

"The Army may pay $5,000 for a wrench, but it's a good wrench," said Goldsmith.

A lot of Goldsmith's customers are women — "They do the shopping for the family. I have things for everybody, and we try to give a lot of practicality for the dollar."

As the economy is sinking into the doldrums, that is becoming more important.

"In a recession, people put off traveling for a vacation. Instead, a lot go camping, so they come here for supplies," he said. "You get a lot of value and quality for your money (with surplus)."

AT SURPLUS CITY, 3766 W. 12 Mile Road in Berkley, business is up. Way up, said Tammy Dubin, wife of owner Jeff Dubin.

"Never in a million years did I think we would be this busy," she said.

Now a big seller there are Israeli gas masks.

"Some people here are actually afraid that we may be attacked," said manager Brian Wais.

Others like the masks for their novelty. "And they're cheap," said Wais. They sell for $14.95 here compared to about $100 in Israel.

Gas masks, in fact, are the hottest selling items around.

"After the war began," Dubin said, "people were buying masks to send to Israel."

But now that the Israeli government has distributed masks to its residents, people are buying them for themselves. Sales have been so brisk that Dubin depleted her stock of 140 in two days.

Another trendy favorite is camouflage clothes worn by "paint ball" enthusiasts. Paint ball is a game in which participants stalk each other and try to shoot each other with harmless exploding pellets of paint.

Over at G.I. Surplus, 34932 Michigan Ave. in Wayne, the demand for surplus has blossomed, says owner Walter Littman.

THE BIG sellers are flags, pins and, of course, gas masks.

Even Littman feels that there is a bit of "hysteria" surrounding the fear of chemical warfare here.

He has seen parents coming in with their children to buy gas masks. "And they're scaring their kids," said Littman.

He added that war aside, military surplus clothes are "always in style." Hunters and campers make up the bulk of his regular customers.

"We get a lot of sophisticated hunters," Littman said. "They really know what they want." That includes clothes, sleeping bags, knapsacks and other typical outdoor accessories.

But if you still find a certain charm in a hand grenade, if an AK-47 assault rifle (that "cannot be made to fire") appeals to you, or if you want to steep yourself in a "Countersniper Guide," surplus stores can still deliver the goods.

Army manuals and bulletins on such things as boobytraps, explosives and demolition equipment are part of the surplus available at G.I. Surplus store in Wayne.

Jeff Goldsmith of Joe's Army Surplus in Royal Oak is surrounded by surplus military paraphernalia that have become hot selling items since the start of hostilities in the Persian Gulf.

Among the authentic war surplus available are canteens with canvas covers and folding shovels used to dig fox holes.

'Coppelia'

3 Michiganders star with Cleveland Ballet

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

Dennis Nahat, artistic director of the Cleveland San Jose Ballet Company, grew up in Detroit and began his study of dance here. He has given up performing except for character roles such as Doctor Coppelis in "Coppelia."

Melissa Mitchell, Rudolf Nureyev and Olivier Munoz take a curtain call after the Cleveland Ballet presentation of "Coppelia" in Dublin, Ireland. Mitchell, a Birmingham Seaholm High School graduate, and Munoz will be in the show in Detroit, but Nureyev will not.

THERE WILL BE A STRONG Michigan connection to Cleveland San Jose Ballet's production of "Coppelia" at Masonic Temple, Detroit, Friday-Sunday, March 8-10.

Melissa Mitchell, who will be dancing the lead role of Swanilda, in the Saturday and Sunday evening performances lived in West Bloomfield and Farmington and graduated from Seaholm High of Birmingham in 1975.

Dennis Nahat, the company's artistic director, who choreographed this production of "Copelia," grew up in Detroit and Grosse Pointe and launched his career from here.

Nahat will dance the role of Doctor Coppelius in the Thursday student matinee, the Friday evening and Sunday matinee performances. Flint native Mark Otloski will also be dancing the role of Milorad on Saturday and Sunday evening.

Dancing opposite Mitchell in the romantic male lead will be Peter Dibonaventura.

The roles of Swanilda and Franz will be performed by Karen Gabay and Raymond Rodrieguez at the Friday evening and Sunday matinee performances and by Karyn Connnell and Olivier Munoz for the student matinee at 11 a.m. Thursday.

Mitchell said, "It's a hard role. It takes a lot of stamina. I have six variations, two pas de deux, lots of mime and feats requiring technical ability. I do a lot of hopping around on point. I don't know any ballerina who likes to hop around on point. Yes, it's a hard role, but it's challenging and fun. It's light comedy, not heavy stuff."

This painting of one of the costumes for "Coppelia" — done by the company's resident designer, David Gutherie — was reproduced on greeting cards sold to benefit the company.

AS SWANILDA, THE BAKER'S daughter, she finds that her rival for Franz's attention is Coppelia, the beautiful doll with the enamel eyes created by Doctor Coppelius. While the lonely doctor tries to discover a way to bring the doll to life, Swanilda helps him out by sneaking into the workshop and masquerading as the doll. Nahat's version ends happily, but not before lots of dancing, deception and near tragedy.

While growing up in Michigan, Mitchell studied ballet with Evelyn Kreason and danced with Kreason's Michigan Ballet Company. Mitchell was born in Dearborn, lived in West Bloomfield and Farmington and graduated from Seaholm in 1975. She studied ballet here with Evelyn Kreason and performed with Kreason's Michigan Ballet Company. She joined the Pennsylvania Ballet right out of high school and was there for for four years.

She dropped out of the dance world for several years and managed a Mexican restaurant in Los Angeles.

"Then, one day I had the desire to go to a ballet class," she said.

Her teacher there called Nahat of the Cleveland San Jose Ballet to tell him about her suggesting she was a dancer whom he would like to see. Nahat followed up on a trip to California in the spring of 1983 and hired her immediately.

Mitchell's parents live in Ann Arbor. Her mother, Elizabeth, was librarian at West Bloomfield High for 20 years. Her father, Charles, retired from Chrysler is now a full-time sculptor.

The Cleveland San Jose Ballet marked a milestone in its 15-year history with its first European tour last year. Rudolf Nureyev toured with the company, taking the role of Doctor Coppelius with Mitchell as Swanilda and Olivier Munoz as Franz at the Point Theatre in Dublin, Ireland. After that the company was featured at the Edinburgh International Festival. Last fall "Coppelia" was on the bill for the company's performances at its second home, San Jose, Calif. Performances are 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 8,9; 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 10.

THE STUDENT/SENIOR MATINEE will be at 11 a.m. Thursday, March 7. There will be a free preperformance party 12:30-2 p.m. Sunday with face painters, story tellers and entertainers for children of all ages.

The opening night performance is dedicated to the memory of flight attendant, Heidi Joost who died in the airline accident in Detroit last December. She was a life-long student of dance and studied at the Ricardeau Studio in Detroit where Dennis Nahat started.

Answering systems drive her crazy

Q: Telephones drive me crazy. They cause constant interruptions, I have to hold during long, boring recorded messages, and now we have to dial our own area code on many calls. Help!

A: It's amazing how something so wonderful as a telephone can become a curse as well. For consumers, the trend toward commercial telephone answering systems causes stress and delays. There's little individuals can do to fight this trend, but businesses can refine their systems and individuals can learn to facilitate telephone use.

Ironically, as I began gathering research for this article I was immediately thwarted by telephone answering systems and/or uninformed personnel who encouraged me to leave a message for others to return my call later.

Too often, companies buy equipment for their features and technical merit rather than their ability to route calls to reach a "body" quickly. One of the biggest mistakes businesses make when installing systems is "voice mail jail," as one communications expert told me. This is where the caller is routed to leave a message without an option to get back to another extension. Good systems allow you to leave a message and then still dial back to another extension afterward.

Many recorded greetings can be cut off midway by pressing a known extension number or "O" for an operator. This is particularly helpful when you would otherwise be forced to listen to a monotonous listing of choices. It's worth a try to just hit "O" immediately.

To avoid switchboards, ask business people you call frequently if they have a direct number. One company recently installed direct numbers after their recorded answers proved unpopular. When asked about tips on message systems, one of those employees reacted, "Tell 'em to unplug and burn the darn things."

Executives should periodically call their own companies so that they'll understand how customers are treated, and customers should let executives know when they feel they receive poor telephone treatment. I recently called an 800 number advertised by my bank and, after a lengthy explanation of my needs, a whiny voice inquired "Oh, do you want to talk to your bank?" I was not impressed and their executive was amazed when I told him.

While there are pros and cons both ways, my own feeling is that communications people have done a whale of a sales job by convincing companies that commercial systems are less expensive and more efficient than human operators. What they overlook, however, is the loss of personal contact and the resulting good public relations established by helpful humans.

Construction thefts fewer, but still costly

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Although it is not as bad as it once was, construction site theft is still a multi-billion dollar industry that eventually costs home and building owners, office and commercial tenants and contractors.

Theft from American businesses, by employees or outsiders, is as common as moss on a tree, but it is vividly apparent with construction thefts. When someone at an office walks off with a notebook, no one pays attention, but when a bulldozer is discovered missing — now that's hard to miss.

John DeMattia, chairman of the Construction Association of Michigan (CAM) and president and owner of the firm Lerner-Linden Inc. in Novi, said construction site theft is one of the more pressing problems facing contractors in southeastern Michigan and the rest of the country.

"According to the American Subcontractors Association, (construction site theft) costs the industry $15 billion to $25 billion a year," he said. "That figure includes job site theft as well as office theft and embezzlement, but even if it's only half of that it's a staggering figure."

DeMattia said in the end, everyone pays for construction theft. Theft is generally not figured into a construction bid, he said, but it does go into a contractor's overhead costs — which is reflected in bids. "I may not have a line item for it on a bid I make, but it is in there."

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

Vehicle and serial numbers on engines are more common today, which has helped to eliminate the problems of large machinery theft.

ROBERT STOREN, president and owner of Robert Storen & Associates in Bloomfield Hills, said that judging from his experience, construction site theft is on the wane.

"It's difficult to believe it's still that bad," Storen said. "It's very rare for us," he said.

"Years ago, it was a far greater problem."

Storen suggested that one possible reason why it hasn't been a problem in recent years is that the times have been good for the building industry. "Everyone has been busy — getting all the overtime they need — there hasn't been a need."

But Storen noted that even though the building industry has slowed, he hasn't seen an increase in crime.

Douglas Manix, president and owner of Campbell/Manix Inc. in Southfield, also said that if construction site theft is on the rise, he isn't seeing it. There has been some, he said, but not a great deal.

Manix said most contractors have their own particular horror stories. "You used to hear about people backing up a trailer to a site and loading up bulldozer, but that doesn't happen anymore."

Construction theft is still costly.

"Five years ago, we were working on a project with a lot of landscaping. When we came back the next morning, someone had rolled up the sod and taken the shrubs and trees."

CONSTRUCTION THEFT runs the gamut from the larceny of huge machinery to the pinching of a ball-peen hammer, CAM president DeMattia said.

Tools, rolls of wiring and building supplies probably make up the majority of losses, but it is not that uncommon for a contractor to return to a site in the morning and find a piece of major equipment — bulldozers, cranes and large generators — gone.

"There's less of that (stealing large machinery) than even a couple of years ago," DeMattia said.

Most construction equipment had little or no identification, he explained so it was quite easy to take, say a bulldozer, from one site and put it on another.

"Let's face it, if you buy a bulldozer from Caterpillar, there's not a lot to distinguish one from another; they're all big and all yellow," DeMattia said.

Vehicle numbers and serial numbers on engines are more prominent and common today, which has helped to eliminate the problems of large machinery theft.

But the most common site theft involved mechanical portable tools, he said. Power saws and other tools, hand tools, generators and the like disappear from construction sites constantly.

Storen of Storen & Associates said education and awareness are the key. His company holds regular on job safety "lunch box session," with the trades people, some of which is devoted to security and loss prevention.

"I think the conversation helps to some degree — it keeps it in people's minds," he said.

MANIX OF Campbell/Manix Inc. said simply training construction supervisors and foremen to be more observant has helped curtail most construction theft. "Maybe that little extra awareness was all that was needed."

With contractors sometimes working three to five different jobs per week, a lot of equipment is moved around, he said. In the past, it wasn't uncommon to see trucks moving equipment on and off sites with very little supervision. "Now, if something is taken off site, you'd better believe my (superintendent) is going to be there."

DeMattia said by its nature, the building industry makes a construction firm's theft/loss prevention manager's job difficult. "Probably 80 percent of all construction site theft involved employees or associated employees."

Most contractors maintain a core group of full-time employees in a supervisory or foreman's position, but subcontract for workers as needed, he said.

"And then your subcontractor might hire a sub-subcontractor," he said.

EMPLOYEES STEALING from their own company — although it does happen — is less common then one company's employees stealing from another's, he said. "A lot of theft on construction site involves workers stealing from their colleagues."

Another form of construction site theft is when an employee or subcontractors sets out to set himself up in business. "It doesn't take a lot to become a contractor," he said — all you need is a few tools and some contacts in the industry.

Storen of Storen & Associates said one way to prevent the petty theft that still goes on is to clearly identify the tools. Some subcontractors he has worked with, for example, paint all the tools.

Still others require their workers to keep their own tools. "A lot of contractors demand that tradespeople keep their own tools with the thinking that they'll take better care of them."

Carelessly leaving tools about, he said, is inviting theft.

Manix said there are several things that a general contractor can do to deter theft. "We try to work quickly and close up the buildings — anything that might get stolen, we'll put in there."

Finishing a project isn't always possible, but it is often possible to finish and seal off a portion of the building, he said.

"Another thing we do is not bring valuable materials or equipment to the job if we don't need it," he said. Something can't be stolen if it's not there, he said.

Hired security, fencing and lighting are also alternatives that can be used depending on the job, he said.

Commission in question when owner refuses to sell

condo queries

Robert M. Meisner

I had a listing agreement with a broker for the sale of my condominium. I chose not to go ahead with the deal even though he had a purchaser who was prepared to meet the price and terms set forth in the purchase agreement. It was pretty much the terms of the listing agreement. Do I owe my broker a commission anyway?

Questions arise frequently as to when a broker earns a commission. This is generally a matter of contract law. In the absence of a special agreement, a broker earns a commission when a buyer is produced who is ready, willing and able to purchase the real estate under the price and terms set forth in the contract (or upon different terms acceptable to the seller). But a broker and a seller may agree that the broker's commission is contingent upon the actual performance of an executory agreement for the sale and purchase of real estate that the commission is payable at closing.

Michigan courts have held that a purchase agreement that contained contingencies did not evidence a "ready, willing and able" buyer. Moreover, the Michigan courts have held that where the proposed buyer tendered a conditional offer, for less money that the asking price, contingent upon the sale of the buyer's house, the broker had not produced a ready, willing and able buyer within the terms of the listing agreement. Hopefully you can determine from this answer whether in fact you owe your broker a commission although it sounds like you do, particularly since apparently you had no contingencies in the agreement.

You are invited to submit topics about condominiums that you would like to see discussed in this column by writing Robert M. Meisner at 30200 Telegraph Road, Suite 467, Birmingham 48010. 'Driving Miss Daisy' debuts on HBO

By Amy Schmidt

1989's Best Picture premieres on HBO Sunday, March 3. Jessica Tandy won an Academy Award for her performance in this film, Driving Miss Daisy. Tandy plays an elderly Southern Jewish woman who develops a special friendship with the chauffeur she didn't want to have (actor Morgan Freeman).

Kirstie Alley and John Larroquette find themselves living in a Madhouse. The pair plays a married couple settling nicely into their dream home — until houseguests overstay their welcome. Madhouse premieres on Showtime Saturday, March 9.

Terrorism became a topic in the forefront of many Americans' minds with the onset of the Middle East crisis. Sunday, March 3, the Arts & Entertainment Network debuts a three-part series examining international terrorism. Terror focuses on incidents of violence in the Middle East, Ireland and Peru.

Tell Lifetime what you think. Monday, March 4, the network premieres The Great American TV Poll. David Birney and Eleanor Mondale host this program that daily polls Americans on anything and everything.

John Mahoney and Karen Young star in The Ten Million Dollar Getaway, based on a $10 million heist that occurred at Kennedy Airport. The USA Network original movie premieres Wednesday, March 6.

Shelley Fabares plays anchorwoman Christine Armstrong, who has a thing for Coach, Tuesdays on ABC.

TIME OUT

Big competition for Big East title

By Steve Paschal

College basketball's premier conference will be on display March 9 and 10 when CBS Sports covers both Big East Tournament semifinal games.

Five Big East teams, Georgetown, Pittsburgh, Connecticut, Syracuse and St. John's, have been ranked in the nation's top 20 at some point in the season and have a legitimate shot at the automatic berth in the NCAA Tournament.

John Thompson's Georgetown Hoyas, led by Alonzo Mourning and Dikembe Mutombo, have the defensive and offensive balance to make a run at the national championship for the first time since the Patrick Ewing days of the mid-1980s. The Hoyas, 1984 national champions, appear to have a lock on one of the 64 berths come NCAA Tournament time.

But the Hoyas are far from a shoo-in when it comes to the conference tournament. Pittsburgh should be strong again after an off year in 1989, thanks to the return of playmaker Sean Miller, who missed last season with an ankle injury. Syracuse, led by sophomore sensation Billy Owens, tied with Connecticut for the conference championship last year, and both schools should be in the running for an NCAA invitation again. St. John's is short on bench strength, but the Redmen have a strong starting five who could lead them to either the NCAA or NIT Tournament.

Karyn Parsons plays celebrity seeker Hilary Banks on NBC's The Fresh Prince of Bel Air, Mondays.

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

What an amazing era we live in! We must defend our arts and culture! Just exactly what would we leave our future generations? Are we so advanced that we would forsake our musical and artistic heritage? Do we and do our children have sufficient knowledge and appetite for such richness? I think not. I think that the opposite is true. We have forsaken such value for the arena of competition. Winning and loosing predominate our thoughts. Families gather together around a sporting event instead of gathering to savor a musical performance or browsing through the galleries of art museums.

Maybe television has been misunderstood; action is thought to grab the moneymaking audiences.

I challenge everyone myself included to reflect upon our weekly schedule of activities and see where we incorporate the arts. Television has found the arts a very difficult programming option to sell. Frankly, copyright rules stifle much television of the arts. This is the bottom line to all patrons. We must look at the total picture as economic times play havoc on our opportunities to enrich our lives. CNN has captured global scenes and reported them in layman's terms. Complicated, yes; competitive, yes; and yet diplomatically sensitive and difficult programming. How difficult it should it be to negotiate between the Copyright organizations and musicians unions to enable us to realistically bring global arts and culture into our livingrooms? At some point those concerned with royalties must decide rather or not to capitalize on the opportunities offered by television, especially Community Television.

There is no doubt that budgets must be balanced. And yet we must be receptive to the total picture. If less money is available for the arts then we must encourage full use of the media options available.

Cable Franchises have brought together many communities as never before. There are many multijurisdictional contracts which are allowing cable companies to do business in different areas. City Fathers and Township Commissioners in communities throughout the United States are cooperatively pursuing answers to tight budgets and ever increasing demand for time community services. Communication is the most valuable tool to accomplishing security in a town environment no matter how small.

Perhaps the Arts may also be forerunners of such cooperative spirit. Thus let me introduce the Plymouth Symphony. Don't let the name deceive you. The Plymouth Symphony enriches Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw Communities and they have embraced Community television. They have participated in creative public service announcements for Community Television Viewers.

Members of the Plymouth Symphony number about 100 strong. These musicians travel from as far as Ann Arbor, Brighton, Howell, Ypsilanti, Grand Blanc, Warren, Union Lake and Bloomfield Hills. There is also a substantial number from Canton, Plymouth, Northville, Novi, Farmington and Farmington Hills. Do you recognize any of your friends and neighbors? Mary Ann Marks, Ann Waliskey, Michael Bimbell, Debra Butler, Joyce Butler, Carol Vickers, Matthew Butler, Walter Johnson, Kivo Mase, John Pollock, Janice Standish, Liz Moehle Johnson, Lee Paley, Betsy Balsakis, Edith Schultze, Joan Seay, Robert Bacon, Richard Cranston, Karen Wessels, Gail Munson, Christina Lee, Ann Wagner, Michelle Walquist, Melissa Zagorski, and Wendy Stuart.

Plymouth is the smallest city in the state to maintain a civic orchestra. There are more than 300 civic orchestras in Michigan and nearly 1200 in the United States. Founded in 1945, they gave their first public concert in 1947.

Symphony members include the Symphony League which is a volunteer organization which raises money in order to promote this rich musical heritage.

Burt Reynolds to host People's Choice Awards

Actor vies for his ninth trophy as well

By Amy Schmidt

Burt Reynolds will host a live TV special for the first time ever. The quick-witted actor will emcee "The 17th Annual People's Choice Awards," Monday, March 11 on CBS.

Personally, the inveterate performer has eight People's Choice Awards to his credit — five for Favorite Motion Picture Actor and three for Favorite All-Around Male Entertainer. He is nominated again this year for Favorite Male Performer in a New Series.

The People's Choice Awards nominees and winners are chosen by the public at large in a Gallup telephone poll surveying more than 5,000 Americans. This is about three times the number of people polled in an ordinary survey, thereby minimizing the margin of error. No suggestions are given, and interviewees can name any movie, actor or series they so chose.

Favorite TV Comedy Series: "Cheers," "The Cosby Show," "Roseanne"

Preemptions still sometimes pointless

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I really don't like to disagree with you on the subject of preemption. General Hospital was before the war has always been preempted by some foolishness that could have waited until the news at noon was over. That portion was never seen by the faithful viewers (only a few hours preemption might have been seen).

I support the United States troops in the Middle East and understand that sometimes preemption is necessary, but I am sorry to say that I am one of the viewers who has watched GH for the beginning. Do you anticipate that such preemptions will continue? Do you know if ABC will be airing the episodes that were preempted? — R.F., Marquette, Mich.

Dear Candace: I am very disappointed that Generations will not air. I am one of the viewers who has watched it for the beginning. Do you anticipate that such preemptions will continue? Do you know if ABC will be airing the episodes that were preempted? — R.F., Marquette, Mich.

Dear Marion: [illegible]

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.
