Law takes over supervisor post

By Kevin Brown staff writer

It's nearly 4 p.m. on his second day on the job, and new Plymouth Township Supervisor Gerald Law has his hands full.

"I was going to get something at home at 11 a.m., and I haven't made it yet," Law said Thursday, from his office in the township municipal complex at Lilley and Ann Arbor

Since being sworn in as township supervisor the day before, Law had been touring township facilities. 'I've been going around and talking to my employees, I've been talking to each of them for a few minutes, getting to know them a little bit. said the former state representative.

Law, who in November won reelection to his fourth two-year term representing the 36th state House district, resigned that post Tuesday to take the township supervisor job.

Township trustees named Law to that post April 23, to fill the seat left vacant by former supervisor Maurice Breen. Law cited a need for a new challenge and the long commute

MacDonald considered for appellate judgeship

Thirty-fifth District Judge John MacDonald is one of 12 judges being considered for a seat on the Michigan Court of Appeals. The vacancy was created by resignation March 28 of appellate court Judge Richard Maher.

MacDonald is among the finalists selected by the Judicial Qualifications Committee of the State Bar of Michigan. He interviewed with the panel of 15 lawyers Friday in Lansing. An estimated 200 judges expressed interest in an ap-

Resident dies of crash injuries

By Darrell Clem staff writer

Timothy J. Donlon, 37, of Plymouth, died Wednesday from injuries he suffered when his motorcycle was struck by a car of students headed for a prom.

The accident occurred at Warren and Merriman roads in Westland.

Donlon, who was staying with friends in Livonia since his house recently burned, died at the University of Michigan Hospital five days after the April 26 crash, said Westland police officer Steven Frazer.

Donlon's motorcycle was struck by a car driven by a 17-year-old South Lyon man on his way to a Livonia prom with three friends

Donlon, headed westbound on Warren, had been making a left turn onto southbound Merriman about 6:11 p.m. when his motorcycle was struck by the 1989 Pontiac traveling eastbound on Warren, Frazer said.

DONLON, WHO appeared alert and conscious immediately following the collision, had asked police to tell the teenagers to go to their prom and enjoy it, Frazer said. "He was just a really nice guy.

Frazer said charges may be filed against the teenager this week, and added that witnesses said the driver may have ignored a traffic light.

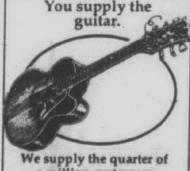

The teenagers, who had been wearing seatbelts, were not injured during the accident.

Immediately following the crash, Donlon was taken to Garden City Hospital and then flown by a rescue helicopter to the U-M Hospital in Ann Arbor, Frazer said.

Donlon's death marked the fourth traffic fatality and the first on a motorcycle - in Westland in 1991.

Clowning around No trick to comedian's latest act

staff writer

Plymouth's Richard Laible started his career as a comedian by adding a joke or two during his magic shows at places including the Elks Club on Ann Arbor Road.

Now, he's a member of the national touring company of Second City in Chicago - the group famous for launching the careers of John Belushi, Dan Ackroyd, Bill Murray and plenty of others.

"I'm extremely happy, I've always wanted to do it," said Laible, 31, from his Chicago apartment.

He was back in Chicago for a brief stay after the company finished its most recent leg of a tour in Naples, Fla. Laible and the cast were scheduled to do shows in New York City this week.

He describes the Second City shows as highly improvisational, where the comedians build a skit around a given framework.

We have one where we're a barber shop quartet, and one of the guys passed away just three days before," he said.

THE GROUP starts singing "Old Mill Stream," and the trio looks to where the fourth member stood when his part - he's not there to sing it, of course — comes around.

Richard Laible has gone from giving magic shows around his native Plymouth to performing with the Second City comedy troupe in Chicago.

At the theater, which seats about 100, Laible and other cast members do a live performance of two old Brady Bunch episodes each night. Laible plays Mike Brady, the dad. "I thought the show was great, everybody wanted their family to be like the Brady Bunch," Laible Laible recalls the time when four original Brady kids appeared on stage for a performance. "The audience went nuts," he said. The group then headed over to Second City, and performed more improvisational skits.

"My long term goal is to own Hollywood," Laible said, laughing. "I'd like to write, produce and direct and star in my own film."

BETWEEN NOW and that time, Laible helps pay the rent by earning $1,000 a shot by performing briefly in business-industrial programs and commercials.

Laible's parents, long-time teachers in the community, recently saw him perform with Second City. "They love it, they're very supportive," he said.

"I'm aware of the issues that im-Tm aware of the issues that impact our residents — property taxes, environmental issues. I would like to be involved in bringing about some changes that would be beneficial to local level residents," Goss said.

"I'm a supporter of the governor's colleges on cutting services and policies on cutting services and lowering tax rates, however I believe there needs to be complete tax reform, freezing isn't the answer."

On campaigning, Goss said, "I plan on becoming involved in all three communities, I plan on going door to door, just being accessible to anyone who would like to talk to Artley stressed his backround in school issues, adding he knows the local communities that make up the 36th House District.

"Education, social services, taxes and senior citizens are some of the most crucial issues facing government today," said Artley, former board of education president.

How would be campaign? "Hard. I would be necessary to make it hap-pen," he said. "I would rely on a great deal of networking, I'd be into the neighborhoods for coffees, making myself as available in the community as I can.'

Vorva said, "There needs to be a change for the 36th District. We can see what has transpired here during the past few weeks," he said, referring to Republicans Heintz, Breen and Law shifting jobs.

"I think its obvious to me and the hard-working, tax-paying citizens that the people who are presently in power have forgotten they're there to serve the tax-paying citizens and not themselves," he said.

Because of this, Vorva, who got the most votes among city commission candidates in November 1989, predicted people would support him for the state representative seat. Vorva said he plans to campaign in person, and use mailings and ads.

On issues, he suggested limiting legislators' terms, and "maybe eliminating one or the other (the House or Senate), because there's not a lot of good work that's coming out of there for the money we're paying."

Romney challenges SC grads to get involved

Kenneth Wutka of Livonia figured that tying a balloon to the back of his cap and gown would make him more visible to friends and family. Even if it didn't work, it made him unique among the 300 graduates at Saturday's commencement.

It was a time for smiles and speeches, hugs and videotape at Schoolcraft College commencement activities Saturday.

Nearly 300 of this year's 840 Schoolcraft graduates crowded into the college gymnasium to receive congratulations from Schoolcraft President Richard McDowell as well as a challenge from former Michigan Gov. George Romney.

"Each of you is special," said McDowell, welcoming students and their families to the gym.

Commencement speaker Romney challenged students to become more involved in their community.

"T've concluded we're all going to have to pitch in if America's going to continue to be great," said Romney, sounding themes similar to those expressed by President George Bush earlier that day in a commencement address at the University of Michigan.

The Bloomfield Hills resident, Michigan governor from 1963-69, has long been involved in volunteer causes and is a founding director of the president's volunteerism-oriented Points of Light Foundation.

ROMNEY CHALLENGED students to no longer think merely of Schoolcraft or its surrounding communities, but to think of the Detroit area as a whole.

"You can't solve the problems of this area under the present fragmentation (of competing suburban and urban communities) any more than the U.S. could survive under the Articles of Confederation," Romney said.

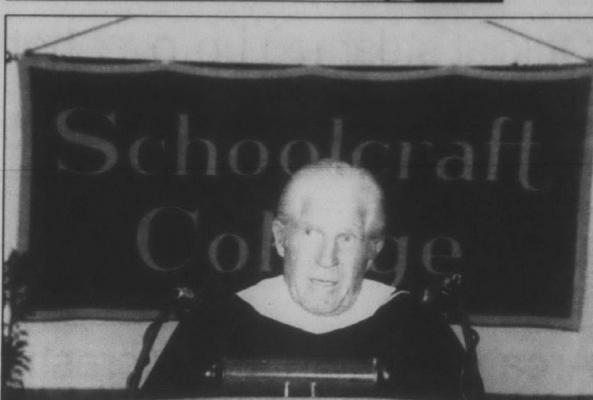

Earlier, a special patriotic musical tribute was offered by the college wind ensemble on behalf of those Schoolcraft students who volunteered for military duty in the Persian Gulf.

Honorary degrees were awarded to Betty Jean Awrey, vice president of Awrey Bakeries, Livonia; former county Commissioner Mary Dumas of Livonia; Charlotte Adams of Westland, a member of the college's Women's Resource Center Advisory Board; and Fred Kerr of Northville, a member of Schoolcraft's lifelong learning program since 1978.

Geraldine Kiessel, principal of Garden City High School and a Garden City resident, received the college's Distinguished Alumna Award.

"The students who are independent workers who can study well on their own, those are the people who do the best in these courses," Bonner

A Schoolcraft instructor is available for students and conducts several on-campus meetings for a review uled for an entire week and on the weekends for the students' conven-

Telecourses have been a part of Schoolcraft's program since the 1980s. About 12 courses are offered during regular school term, Bonner said. This is the first time, however, that telecourses have been offered

The dean said 150 students have signed up for the five telecourses this summer, which is expected to be enough to fill each class.

The telecourses are nationally produced programs with actors who are used as the instructors. Colleges across the country use these tapes, Bonner said.

"It's a growing trend," she said. Telecourses offer a valid and valuable outreach to a population that may not be able to receive a college education otherwise, said Jim Walling, the instructor for the sociology

An advantage is that through technology, there is more of an opportunity to provide information in these programs than an instructor can in a lecture, Walling said.

"They (the courses) can go way beyond what a instructor can do in the

With only a few on-campus meetings between instructor and stu-dents, Walling said, newsletters and telephone calls keep the lines of communication open.

Students not only get a chance to learn at their own pace, but they also get the personal instruction, "which makes learning for them that much better" Walling said.

What might be considered a disadvantage for teachers is that they may have to invest more time coordinating and preparing for the class-es. And students need more self-dis-cipline for the courses, Walling said.

"You have to remind yourself much more responsibility is placed in the hands of the students."

Working at your own pace and not having to go to the campus every day is definitely an advantage, said Joyce Tellitocci, a second-year student majoring in accounting

"It was so nice not having to come on campus two or three times a week," Tellitocci said, who added it is also nice not to have as much homework and tests to take.

In the future, telecourses will play a big role in providing education for younger students and for adults who want to continue their education.

"It fills the vacuum for them to gain an education."

Senior Power Day set May 14

May has been designated as Older Americans Month. National Nursing Home Week is May 13-17. This is a good time to honor those older adults living in our comunities and also those living in long-term care facilities. It is also an excellent time to acknowledge the truly loving individuals who care for our older frail citizens on a daily basis.

Family caregivers, who give their time and energies to help elderly family members, volunteers and the variety of professionals who work in nursing homes deserve to be recognized and commended for the fine work they do. It isn't easy. These giving people help to make other people's lives more comfortable. healthier and happier. They are invaluable members of our society giving older people their caring concern and expertise.

While many of us are aware of the remarkable activities family caregivers perform, most people do not know much about life in nursing homes where care teams, including professionals in nursing, medicine, nutrition, social, spiritual and personal care, help residents to live

A public hearing will be held at 8:30 a.m. giving people the opportunity to speak out on issues of concern to Michigan's senior citizens.

The main program begins at 10:15 a.m. Lunch, on a donation basis, will be served at 12:15 p.m. Following lunch there will be a march to the Capitol with closing ceremonies presented on the Capitol steps. For those who do not wish to join the march there will be a Medicare Update Workshop in Pruden Hall. A Consumer Fair will also be held in the lower level of the Civic Arena from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Pollution law has unintended consequence propaganda from those awful corporations, bloated with profits and greedy for more.

The "Polluter Pay" law couldn't be backfiring on us. The purest, noblest, most courageous defenders of the babies of the 21st century fought long and hard against the filthy lucre of Corporate Michigan for that law.

The "Polluter Pay" bill was debated to death once in the state Senate in 1990. But "Polluter Pay" was an idea whose time had come, and bags of corporate gold couldn't sink it.

And some folks say it's backfir-

You eat up farm land, meadows and forests for new development for a shift-ing — but not growing — population. You gobble tax money for new roads, bridges, sewers and water lines and abandon old facilities in older cities.

"Urban sprawl" is an environmental no-no, too.

WAYNE STATE University president David Adamany last week touched on the subject before a Senate appropriations subcommittee on higher education.

Adamany was explaining why the WSU campus in Detroit has such high costs. Obviously, its medical and engineering programs cost bigger bucks than courses like history where you read books.

But WSU is landlocked, penned in, and land costs are high, Adamany

Richard

"We are built over an old city neighborhood," he said. Utilities reserve the right to dig, and the university pays the cost. They run into old foundations. In one case, a medical school parking lot, the diggers ran into a bunch of old tanks from a dry cleaning establishment.

That's potential pollution, brothers and sisters. The owner pays to clean it up before the land can be given a

The law's criminal sanctions - including jail terms and fines - are "a potential disincentive to the business person to be creative and find a new use for land," Bruegel told the shocked assemblage. Thus, investors will opt for undeveloped land - urban sprawl - rather than communities where the infrastructure is in

The third speaker, at a SEMCOG conference last month, was one of the regional planning agency's own graduates — Gary Krause, now a vice president of Stroh Properties. Stroh is redeveloping some Detroit riverfront land once occupied by a

It seems a garden that once beau-tified this industrial site was watered with stuff from the Detroit River. The state Department of Natural Resources feared the water table had been contaminated by pollutants from the river. Gary Krause, one of the world's nicest nice guys, put up with a lot of hassle from DNR in his effort to do good.

I HAVE omitted one key fact. The "Polluters Pay" law doesn't take effect until this July 1. These situa-tions occurred under existing statutes, which, environmentalists tell us, are weak and cumbersome.

The moral of the story is that environmentalists aren't all Robert Redfords in white hats, and corporations aren't all Lee Van Cleefs in black hats. In politics, most hats are gray. Laws can have unintended conse

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional news.

Diapers, child-care don't mix with men

ON A RECENT trip to northern Michigan, I made a quick stop at a rest area and noticed a weird contraption in the mens' room.

It's not exactly that I spend a lot of time in public rest areas

But still, I wasn't so hurried that I didn't notice the contraption that looked like an old-fashioned built-in ironing board.

In the car I explained the device to my wife, and she told me it was a changing table. It made me envision some trucker changing his clothes in the mens' room. But then she went on the explain it was a baby changing table, as in changing diapers.

I WAS astounded. It made me wonder what politician voted to pay money to put such a thing in a mens' restroom. Let's face it, women probably change most diapers in this country, and putting such tables in mens' rest rooms is a waste of taxpayers' money

For a short time I thought about writing a letter to my state representative, refusing to pay my portion of state taxes that are spent on diaper changing stations in mens' rest rooms. I didn't. I figured if I refused to pay taxes for things the state does that I don't like, I'd probably only be paying about $2 a week.

Anyway, my wife just raised her eyebrows upon my discovery of the changing table. She seemed to know that it was just one of those things I Jeff would never notice because despite having two sons, I had rarely, if ever changed a diaper.

I don't even remember changing one on a camping trip to the Upper Peninsula during which my wife had broken arm. I can still see her changing the kid's diaper on a picnic table with one arm.

One of my prime excuses was that I couldn't manage to get the pin closed. However, my wife gently pointed out a tremendous contradiction: "How the hell can you manage to tie those stupid flies on your fishing line and not be able to put a pin on a diaper?"

IGNORANCE IS NOT only bliss when it comes to diapers, it's a lot cleaner. It's also one of the best tactics to avoid child-care.

These days folks confuse the drudgery of changing diapers and watching kids to make sure they don't kill themselves with a thing they call bonding. I always thought bonding had something to do with the way whiskey was made. It hadn't been invented when my kids were little, so I didn't have to do it.

Bonding is really a scam word to entice men to take care of children. If it sounds sensitive, every dope in the world wants to do it.

When I see men changing diapers and pushing baby carriages, I can't help but wonder why they're doing it. I guess the two buzz words are sensitivity and bonding.

But I've got another word, pride. Men want to appear to know what they're talking about when it comes to taking care of kids, even though most of them really don't know the correct side of a diaper to use, if

And because pride gets in the way, they don't know how to pretend they can't perform the required child rearing task. They don't know how to screw it up so that they won't be asked to do it again.

Here's a list of ways to screw things up or ways to generally avoid taking care of kids:

• I'm afraid to hold the baby, I may drop him on his head and he'll grow up to be an idiot. That one can come back to haunt you when the kid gets to be a teenager. Your wife will accuse you of holding the kid.

· I've got to cut the lawn, I don't have time to babysit.

• Lose the kid in a store, and then come back and tell you wife how horrible it was. The kid was lost for hours and you thought that the next time you'd see him was on a milk carton

· Take him to a bar to watch a game on television. The kid will come back smelling of stale beer and smoke.

• The chemicals I'm spraying in the yard, if inhaled will cause the kid to be retarded. This one only works if you haven't dropped him on his

· Let the kid do something stupid on a play ground so that he gets cut and dirty and is crying when he comes home. Make sure it's not a serious injury or else you'll end up wasting your afternoon in an emergency room.

The list is endless, once you get the hang of it. And the rewards are great. You'll have had plenty of rest by the time the kid gets to be about six or seven and you'll be ready to teach the kid how to fish.

MADD proud of its work

To the editor:

As a former president of the Wayne County chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving (1989-90), I must share a different perspective regarding this organization's growth than that presented by Helen Molnar ("Ex-MADD president questions changes," April 18, 1991).

This chapter has become, in my opinion, one of the outstanding ones in Michigan and indeed in this country. Its growth during these past years has been steady and positive. Wayne County MADD is seen in this area as the front line leader in the fight against drunk driving. Its record is outstanding.

Our services to the community victim support group, Project Grad-uation, Project LifeRide, red ribbon campaign, public speakers bureau, victim impact panels, court monitoring, etc. have been achieved through the work of many volunteers and a dedicated professional staff.

I reject Helen Molnar's assertion that too much funds are used for staff and victims are not being served. Our work could not be achieved without the three paid staff employed by our chapter (administrator, victim advocate and secre-tary). Volunteers are our backbone but our growth has required a paid staff to coordinate our increasing activities. Their expertise is an asset and has been recognized as such by other groups with whom they work toward common goals.

Our primary purpose is to reduce the crime of drunk driving and to support the surviving victims. Statistics show that we are winning in our first goal. Our victim members receive ongoing help as they grieve and negotiate the court process when the drunk driver is brought to jus-

Wayne County MADD remains a group of individuals - victims and nonvictims, volunteers and staff, men and women - solidly dedicated toward reducing the terrible toll caused by the drunk driver. I am proud of its work.

Besides protecting students, the bill is designed to raise $400,000 in revenue and support a DOE staff of eight. Currently, Root's staff is three. License fees would be $1,000 for the first year, then $500 plus $5 a student in later years.

Michigan berries on way

If there was just one reason to herald spring, it would be saying farewell to the tasteless, fibrous and exorbitantly priced imported or hothouse strawberry. Better yet, it's probably chopping into that first fresh Michigan berry bursting with juice, sweetness and flavor.

them like popcorn. Why not? They are great sources of fiber, iron, potassium and Vitamin C a natural health food.

I love strawberries! I can eat

Dip them in chocolate and I feel seductive. Swirl into a malted and I feel like a kid again.

Whether they're sitting on a sundae or a waffle, surrounded by whipped cream or encased in Jell-O, I seldom turn down anything made with fresh Michigan strawberries.

As you read this, 95 percent of the strawberries available over the counter this week are hailing from California. As a matter of fact, more than 80 percent of the entire United States crop hails from La La Land. Have patience, dear readers, for in a matter of 30 days or less, Michigan berries will be flowing abundantly.

RECENT DROUGHT conditions on the West Coast might push strawberries to nearly $2.75 per quart. In the middle of January, I paid pretty near $4 per quart for berries that tasted like leftover Christmas ornaments. Let's face it, air freight is expensive.

The freshest Michigan berries, barring any more adverse weather conditions, should maintain their pricing levels from last year and hover around $1 per quart, especially at your local farmer's market.

There is little questioning the excellent taste of fresh strawberry shortcake or even a frosty frozen strawberry daquiri, but today's trendy cook is always looking for new ways to use basic take-them-for-granted strawberries. Yours truly has experimented with strawberry vinegar, strawberry brandy and the classic strawberry jam or jelly. The freezer always gets a workout, keeping a constant supply for my cheesecake, French toast, sundaes and beverages.

Unfortunatley, strawberries aren't all they are cracked up to be. Anything this good has to have a catch. Anyone who has purchased strawberries only to get them home and find a heaping basket of moldy fuzz will sooner forget them than praise them. I can attest to this, especially during hot summer months when a three-hour visit to the farmer's market ended up with a redstained paper bag and a mess all over my car seat.

For optimum results, fresh strawberries should be kept in the refrigerator. Purists say to remove them from their store containers and place them in a colander in the crisper section of your refrigerator. Never wash them until ready to use and then simply rinse them under a gentle stream of cool water. After washing, the stems and caps can be removed and, if necessary, the berry can be patted dry. Washed berries should be used within 24

IF YOU ARE interested in freezing the little red jewels, there are two techniques you can follow. Freezing with the IQF (individually quick frozen) method can be accomplished by washing, prepping, patting dry and placing the berries on a cookie or baking sheet in the freezer for six hours. Pour the frozen berries into a freezer bag for optimum storage Alternatively, the berries can be sliced, mashed or pureed and mixed with sugar (processors use an 80 percent berry to 20 percent sugar ratio) and then frozen in covered containers. For best taste, use within six months. So if you are looking for fresh ways to spruce up a plate of cottage cheese or bowl of cereal, now is the time to enjoy the taste of fresh "made in the USA" strawberries.

COOKING FOR MOM

By Larry Janes special writer

T HAS COME to our attention that there might be a few spouses, sons, or daughters who want to cook something for Mom on her special day and who can't tell the difference between a caper and a colander.

You do not need two years at a major culinary institution or, for that matter, be a graduate of Miss Cindy's Chocolate Chip Home Economics School to make a decent Mother's Day brunch. Granted, we will assume that you are not the offspring of Julia Child or Madeline Kamman, but we do realize that some moms can be critical, especially when recipes don't turn out just right.

We also know you want everything to be as perfect as it can be. Most importantly, you want to come out of the kitchen smelling like a rose.

Knowing this, I have compiled literally foolproof recipes, along with shopping needs, equipment lists, presentation suggestions and even ways to get the kids involved without major complications.

BEFORE YOU BEGIN to clip these tried and true recipies and lists, we must begin with "your mind." If you are, indeed, one of those people with five thumbs, this is being printed six days in advance so that you can make daily affirmations about your upcoming success. Don't wait until after watching "The Golden Girls" on television Saturday night to read the shopping and equip-ment list. Practice in advance.

Imagine yourself wearing a crown of cilantro and James Beard's flowing apron, twirling wooden spoons like a parade majorette. (Remember those good culinary feelings as you stand in the kitchen trying feverishly to recall which knob to turn for the oven temperature (the knob with numbers ranging from 150-500.)

With this information in hand, along with a clean dish towel, you can make a Mother's Day brunch that will be remembered, if not for eternity, at least till Mother's Day next year.

Store herbs for winter

By Marty Figley special writer

I am expecting a good harvest from the herb garden so I can make many herbal concoctions to use when winds howl and the garden is asleep for the winter.

Like a squirrel storing nuts, we herbarists must store our bounty when it is at its peak in the herb garden

Tarragon, thyme, basil, chives, lavender (for an exotic flavor) savory and mints are other herbs that can be made into vinegar.

For a different flavor I will spear a clove of garlic with a toothpick and put it in the bottle along with the basil as it steeps.

VINEGAR IS very easy to make, for use in salads and marinades. After picking the herbs I will wash them well and twirl them in a salad spinner to dry, fill a glass container at least twothirds full, twisting the stems and leaves to release the oils

Then the container will be filled with a fivepercent-acidity vinegar (white if I'm going to add an herb for decoration or if I'm making coal or chive blossom vinegar and regular cider vinegar for the others), cover with a non-metal lid and set in the sun for about a week.

Then the vinegar solution will go to a cool dark place for four to six weeks to cure (the garlic comes out now, so the flavor won't be too strong). Strained and bottled the vinegar will be ready for use. Wine vinegars are especially nice.

Many culinary herbs dry well when they are spread out on a screen or laid in a basket lined with a paper towel. I will put many of them in bunches, secured with a rubber band, arrange a brown paper bag around them to keep the dust off, and hang them to dry in a warm, dark area with good air circulation. Sage and other woody-stemmed herbs, such as ticularly successfully dried this way. As soon as they are dry, I will lightly roll the bag so the leaves fall to the bottom of the bag. By this time they will be corn-flake crisp and won't mold when put into jars for further use.

WHEN I HAVE a small quantity, I put the leaves on a paper towel on a flat dish and set it uncovered in the refrigerator. They are dehydrated in a few days, and the color is good.

Fifty-percent power is recommended, and a glass of water in the corner will protect the ele-

Do not dry them to the very crisp stage because of the threat of fire and loss of oils. I will finish the drying in a basket set in a warm place.

Oven drying is a pretty quick method with the pilot light only, or set the temperature in an electric oven very low (180 degrees). If I can smell the herbs, it means the oils are evaporating and the oven is too hot.

Sometimes I freeze the leaves on a tray and package them in small containers, or blend about one and one-half cups of water to a cup of loosely packed leaves, whir them in a blender for two minutes, then freeze in ice cube trays.

A MIXTURE of eight ounces of soft margarine and about one-half cup of a preferred herb, one-half teaspoon lemon juice to bring out the flavor, frozen in the original container enables me to scoop just the right amount to use in many dishes: stews, vegetables, casseroles and on bread.

I use either one herb or a mixture such as summer savory and chives or tarragon; salad burnet, thyme and parsley; oregano and garlic granules; dill and garlic; or chives, chervil and

I will remember to label everything I pre-serve as I store it away. Chopped, frozen and dried herbs look surprisingly alike.

CHICKEN BREASTS WITH GARLIC AND BALSAMIC VINEGAR

Low in fat and calories, this chicken recipe is quick and easy to make and loaded with flavor. It can be made in advance and then reheated just prior to serv-

Balsamic vinegar, the ingred-ient that gives the sauce its particular flavor, is made from Trebbiano grape juice and gets its dark color and pungent, sherrylike taste from years of aging in barrels of various woods and graduated sizes. This recipe serves 4.

- 4 skinless, boneless chicken breasts, halved, about 11/4 pounds in all
- Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
- 34 pound small-to-mediumsized mushrooms
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 tablespoons olive oil 3 cloves or more of crushed garlic, depending on your
- 1/4 cup balsamic vinegar 1/4 cup fresh or canned chicken
- broth 1 bay leaf

1/2 teaspoon minced fresh thyme or 1/4 teaspoon dried

If the chicken breasts are connected, separate the fillets and cut away any membranes of fat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Rinse the mushrooms, drain and pay dry. Season the flour with salt and pepper and dredge the chicken breasts in the mixture. Shake off the excess. Heat the oil in a heavy skillet over medium-high heat and cook the chicken breasts until nicely browned on 1 side, about 3 minutes. Add the gartic cloves.

Turn the chicken pieces and scatter the mushrooms over them. Continue cooking, shaking the skillet and redistributing the mushrooms so that they cook evenly. Cook about 3 minutes and add the vinegar, broth, bay leaf and thyme. Cover tightly and cook over medium-low heat for 10 minutes. Turn the pieces occasionally as they cook. Transfer the chicken to a warm serving platter and cover with foil. Cook the sauce with the mushrooms, uncovered, over medium-high heat for about 7 minutes. Swirl in the butter. Discard the bay leaf. California's Pepi Winery leads revolution

California winemakers have what takes to make great wine. They are the best educated winemakers in the world. They have the best techsology, and they have the money to purchase the high-tech equipment

At present, increased quality of California wine is a result of im-proved vineyard techniques (viticul-ture) rather than winemaking skills (viniculture). As many California producers contend, "Wine is made in

One of the leaders in this viticultural revolution is Robert Pepi Win-ery in Napa Valley. Pepi is a special-ist in sauvignon blanc production. He altributes the success of his wine to what he has learned in the vineyard.

"Herbaceous, grassy sauvignon blanc is a result of uncontrolled vegetative vigor," Pepi explains. Excessive vine growth prevents direct sun exposure on the fruit and reduces air flow through the vine that helps balance the fruit."

SAUVIGNON BLANC grapes that are shaded from the sun do not ripen opletely, giving a vegetable ther than fruit character to the

To improve sun exposure and air flow, Pepi has developed a new vine-trellising system that he calls the 'Two-Heart Canopy.'

To improve sun exposure and air flow, Pepi has developed a new vine-trellising system that he calls the "Two-Heart Canopy." The canopy is a term for the upper vine and leaves that shades developed the fruit from the sun.

Pepi has divided the canopy by separating the trunk of the vine into two major branches that are trained upward in a wishbone design, as if each vine is split in two. This method opens the canopy and exposes the fruit to direct sunlight.

"The wide trellis is the single most important factor to us viticulturally," Pepi says. "It's not only giving better quality fruit, but it is enabling us to directly style the wine in the vineyard.

"Allowing more filtered sunlight

to have direct contact with the fruit affects the development of the flo-ral, perfumed, citrusy aroma and flavor elements of sauvignon blanc with the elimination of one-dimensional herbaceousness so common in

THE WIDE TRELLIS system can be described as a stake with a fourfoot cross arm at the top. Consider the head of the vine as a "Y" that is split in two, then every vine has two heads and four canes.

"We're trying to achieve as much complexity in aroma and flavor as possible without any markedly assertive character dominating," Pepi explains. "Essentially, we're striving for a style that showcases the best qualities of a white Bordeaux and, therefore, blend with just under 20 percent semillon, an amount that adds complexity, viscosity and body without being obvious or dominating.

"We don't want a lot of oak in our sauvignon blanc. In addition to flavors developed through our training and trellising system, we age sauvignon blanc in large, five-year-old oak casks. This helps us achieve oak subtlety as well as providing a place for the flavors to marry."

onsumption time three to five years after harvest, he qualifies this by saying, "A lot depends on personal preferences for the way sauvignon blanc changes in the bottle."

Pepi recommends grilled swordfish, sole, and white meat fish to accompany the Pepi style of sauvignon blanc. He also likes it with spicy Cajun dishes because of the wine's clean, refreshing acidity.

Breakfast starts you off right

What's the first thing on your mind when you wake up in the morning? If it's preparing a healthy breakfast, you're off to a great start.

After a good night's sleep you need to "break the fast" and recharge your body with nourishing food. Nutritionists agree that eating break-fast is necessary for well-being. Yet the breakfast debate continues.

Many use the excuse that there just isn't enough time in the morning to fix breakfast or that they're trying to cut calories and will just skip the morning meal. But skipping breakfast often leads to tripping up throughout the day.

Bypassing breakfast may actually be one of the worst moves to make when you're trying to lose a few pounds. Most people don't even make it to lunch time if they miss breakfast. They simply give in to hunger and grab a mid-morning snack. The problem is, the snacks chosen are often higher in fat and calories than a home-prepared

IF YOU DO make it to the lunch hour on an empty stomach, you may tend to overeat because by then you are famished. Give your body the fuel it needs first thing in the morn-ing and you will be less likely to crave something before lunch or later in the day.

Now that we've determined the importance of eating breakfast, the next step is making sure you eat the right breakfast. A breakfast that includes low-fat versions of dairy products, breads, muffins and whole grain cereals, as well as fresh fruits, is healthiest for you. High-fiber foods are ideal. They give you a feel-ing of fullness, making you less tempted to overeat.

Liven up your morning with a Strawberry Omelet. Enjoy your orange juice in a wine glass, garnished with sprigs of fresh mint, along with Cream Cheese-Apple Toast for a new twist. If time is of the essence, try a blender breakfast such as creamy Mango Breakfast Shake or grab a Maple Fruit Bar (easy to prepare ahead of time) on your way out

Don't be surprised if becoming a regular breakfast-eater adds energy and vitality to your morning routine.

Plymouth Salem had the best of both worlds in boys track and field

After putting all of their energy into beating Westland John Glenn in a key dual meet Thursday, the Rocks had enough left to come back two days later and win the Observerland

And their main competition again was defending champion Glenn. Salem scored 83 points to win its second title in five years Saturday at Livonia Churchill, and the Rockets finished second with 70.

"We felt if we could beat John Glenn in the dual we would be in the driver's seat coming into this meet," Salem coach Gary Balconi said.

"We came in believing we were the best team. Their record demonstrates it. They've had three good weekends (winning three straight relay meets), and they've won their du-

"THESE KIDS love track and field. At the Elks meet, when the weather was so bad, Jim Ramsay said: 'As long as we're here, we might as well win it,' and we've adopted that as our motto."

The Rocks won five events and scored in all but three of the 16. Salem's last victory came in the 1,600meter relay, and the Rocks needed a good showing to hold off Glenn.

The Rockets trailed Salem by only five points (73-68) entering that final event. Salem's Joe Pawluszka, Jake Baker, Mike Patterson and Andy Rojeski fought off a challenge from Northville to win it, while Glenn was

"We had four seniors in there," Balconi said. "We talked ahead of time, and I said 'This is it, guys. This is the greatest event in track; go get

The Rocks started with two victories in the field events, winning the discus and the long jump, and they were tied for third in the shot put and fourth in the high jump. Salem never competes in pole vault.

"IT GOES back to being a balanced team. Where we don't have anybody outstanding, we have three good kids in every event. If you have one good one, you might beat us. But if you don't, all three of ours are going to beat you."

Salem started the running finals by winning the 6,400 relay with the team of Steve Boudreau, Derek Cudini, Jason McDonald and John Ramsay got third place in the open high hurdles, and the Rocks were fourth in the distance medley and 800 relays before winning the 3,200 relay with the team of McDonald, Cudini, Thomas and Patterson.

"The base of our team is the distance kids and we work from there," Balconi said. "We wanted to be in the hunt in every event, and there wasn't an event we didn't think we could score in."

Salem also was third in the sprint medley, and it was sixth in the 100 dash with Matt Perron and the 400 relay. The 1,600 run and shuttle hurdle relay were the only track events in which Salem didn't score.

"It's been a real pleasure to coach this team," Balconi said. "Any time you score 83 points in a meet as tough as this one, all of them con-

GLENN'S LONE victory was in the high jump with Chris Vanderburgh, Terry Hewer and Bill Griffiths, but the Rockets had four seconds and scored 30 points in the last five events to narrow the gap be-tween themselves and Salem.

"We were a little spent at the end," Glenn coach Jess Shough said. "We moved on them but not enough. They had us by 18 at one point.
"The difference in the meet is that

Salem has real depth. But our guys still did what they could. They gave it all they had, and I'm real proud of Wayne Memorial was third and had five first places, including a meet record of 14.6 by James Grady in the high hurdles. Paul Bialowicz (Redford Bishop Borgess), Mike White (Salem) and Jason Belaire (Churchill) shared the old record at

The Zebras, who won the title in 1988, also were first in the 800, sprint medley and 400 relays, and Alan Buford anchored all three of those teams and won the 100 dash in 11 seconds.

"For having only 14 people, it was an excellent performance," Wayne assistant coach Ken Szmansky said. Buford and Grady are excellent leaders on and off the track. They work hard and it shows. Buford is just a workhorse, and Grady doesn't slack off either.'

Redford Catholic Central was fifth and did best in the pole vault and three distance relays, with second place in all four events.

"WE HAD some young kids who ran really well (in the distance events), but we got no points in the sprints," CC coach Tony Magni said. We scored in the pole vault, and it's not even an event for us (in the Catholic League)."

John Thomas of Salem rai crosses the finish line at the end of the 6,400-meter relay. The Rocks had one of their five victories in that event.

Farmington was sixth and scored 46 points without all-state distance runner Ben Goba. The Falcons, who were in second place halfway through the meet, won the shuttle hurdle relay and the pole vault, and Jason Tucker had the best individual high jump at 6-4.

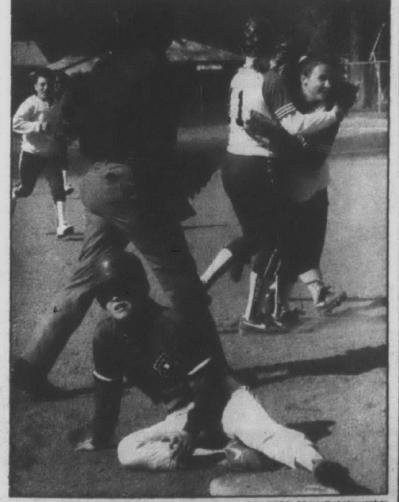

We did real well in the field events," Farmington coach Jerry Young said, "and our vaulters were probably the biggest surprise. (Chris) Marting is a good vaulter but he hasn't done much this year, and we switched one of our distance kids (Ryan Adams) over to vaulting this year. We put him there a couple weeks ago because we needed somebody and it worked out well."

We thought we would do well (in the hurdles). Joe Miller ran well all day. He anchored that event, ran the open highs (second) and was on the 400 and 800 relays.'

Farmington Hills Harrison won the shot put for the third consecutive year with the trio of Tony Shaieb, Blazo Sarcevich and Leon Jefferson. Canton won the distance medley, and Livonia Stevenson's Rodney Westlake won the open 1,600 run.

Softball showdown

Plymouth Canton player Danielle Mortiere shows the look of disappointment after being called out at third base on a double play to end the game Thursday. Canton and host Livonia Franklin were unbeaten when they met, and the Patriots won both ends of a double-header matching two of the area's finest pitchers against each other, Jenny Mayle of Franklin and Kelly Holmes of Canton. Rocks, Glenn tarnish each other's records

Westland John Glenn marred Plymouth Salem's perfect baseball record with a 10-1 victory in the first game of a couble-header Thursday.

But the Rocks turned around and did the same to Genn in the nightcap rallying to win that game

The battle of the undefeated and state-ranked teams was a draw with both now 5-1 in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association. The No. 2-rated Rockets are 12-1 overall, the No. 6 Rocks 11-1.

Aaron Scheffer pitched a complete game and scattered five hits in the opener. He kept the Salem batters at bay, according to Rocks coach John Gravlin, as he struck out one and walked none.

Salem starter Scott Rodgers pitched five innings and suffered his first loss after five wins. He had to be pulled with the Rocks trailing 2-1, having received a gash on his left ankle while breaking up a double play at second base in the fourth inning.

"He started landing on it (following through on his delivery) and it started hurting him," Gravlin said. "He wanted to stay in the game."

Gary Pierce was on base five times for Glenn and had three hits as did teammate Rob Filary. Ed Gun-dry's RBI double drove in Salem's lone run. The Rockets had 11 hits and scored seven runs in the top of the seventh to pad a 3-1 lead.

In the second game, RBI singles by Eric Nielson and Scott Bright broke a 2-2 tie and accounted for Salem's winning margin.

Jeff Coleman's two-run single, after Glenn starter John Ward walked the bases full, gave the Rocks a 2-0 lead in the second, but the Rockets tied it in the third. Andy Gagne had two hits for Glenn.

Dan Hutchinson was the winning pitcher in relief of starter Jeff Belisle. Hutchinson pitched the last 3% innings, allowed only one hit and no

Ward worked into the fourth inning and gave up three earned runs. Lawrence Scheffer pitched the final four innings.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN and Plymouth Canton also split a double-header Thursday, the Chiefs winning the first game 9-4 and the Patriots the second 10-8 in six innings.

Canton starter Dan Conrad got seven runs of support in the first inning of the opener and pitched six. He struck out five and walked four. Frank Learned worked the last in-

The Patriots rallied in the nightcap to give Canton its first loss the Western Division of the WLAA. The game was called after six innings because of darkness.

The Chiefs are 5-1 in the division and 9-4 overall, Franklin 2-4 and 7-6. Dave Roman went the distance for the Patriots, giving up eight hits and Class A champion Livonia Stevenson at Centennial Educational Park.

"We didn't back down; we played a good game," Canton coach Don Smith said, adding the Chiefs had several opportunities late in the game to win after Stevenson had tied the score.

Canton outshot the Spartans 10-4 in the second half and took a 2-1 lead on Christina Stansell's goal in the 64th minute. Michelle Brach got the tying goal three minutes later, however.

Stevenson's Ragen Coyne scored the only goal of the first half, but Britta Anderson tied it for Canton when she converted a pass from Kathy Bahr one minute into the second half.

Smith praised the play of Canton defenders Danielle Meyka, Bahr, Laurie McNamara and midfielder Ayana Nash.

The Chiefs are 6-3-1 overall, Stevenson 7-0-1.

"It wasn't as easy as the score indicates," Salem coach Ken Johnson said, adding the Rocks scored four goals in the last seven minutes of the game.

They did pretty well the first half, but we just wore the down. We had a od flurry (late in the game). There was a good 10 minutes of the second half when everything went right."

Salem takes big step toward title

Plymouth Salem moved closer to winning the Lakes Division dualmeet championship in girls track and field Thursday with an easierthan-expected, 79-49 victory over visiting Westland John Glenn.

"But the girls got pumped up once the meet started and went after Glenn, because they knew they'd have a shot at (defending division and Western Lakes Activities Association champ Livonia) Stevenson.

'We have Walled Lake Central after that and can win the division. That's what our sights are set on."

Three people had most of Salem's individual victories. Theresa Giacherio, Andrea Kinnelly and Emily Farrell had two apiece, Giacherio winning the 100 and 300 hurdles at 16.6 and 51.1, Kinnelly the 100 and 200 dashes in 13.3 and 28.4 and Farrell the 1,600 and 3,200 runs at 5:52.5 and 13:08.5.

Salem's Nikki Santilli won the shot with a throw of 92-2, and Tonya Wheeler ran 1:04.2 to take first place in the 400 dash.

The Rocks swept the relays with Kinnelly and Wheeler running on two each as did Alysia Sofios, Dana Driscoll, Tracey Livermore and Stacey Witthoff.

The 400 crew consisted of Driscoll, Kinnelly, Livermore and Sofios and ran 53.8, and Kinnelly, Driscoll, Livermore and Sofios finished the 800 in 1:55.9.

Glenn winners were Lisa Rankey in the shot put (29-71/2), Amy Finley in the high jump (4-8), Lynette Conner in the long jump (16-21/2) and Dana Nowicki in the 800 run (2:31.6).

PLYMOUTH CANTON remained on course for a seventh consecutive Western Division title by defeating host Northville 85-43 Thursday. The Chiefs, 3-0 in the division and overall, won only one relay but 10 of the 12 individual events.

Canton had one double winner in Karina Kilpelainen, who was first in the high hurdles at 16.7 and the intermediate hurdles at 50.5.

She also was part of the winning 400 relay team, which included Aleah Collier, Ifoema Okwumabua and Ndu Okwumabua. The Chiefs ran the race in 55 seconds.

The other relay team members also had individual wins. Ifoema Okwumabua won the discus with a school-record throw of 109-51/2, Collier the shot put (36-51/2) and Ndu Okwumabua the 200 dash (27.7).

Canton had one other winner in the field events with Stephanie Gray winning the high jump (5-0).

Franklin's Mayle outduels Holmes

Something had to give when Observerland softball powers Livonia Franklin and Plymouth Canton collided Thursday in a crucial double-header. Pitchers Jenny Mayle (Franklin) and Kelly Holmes (Canton) did not give up much, but it was the host Patriots who came away with the doubleheader sweep, 1-0 and 2-0.

"It was a big win for us in our division (Western of the Western Lakes Activities Association),' Franklin coach Joe Epstein said. "Defensively we played our best ball of the season. We made only one error all day. Dawn Warner was outstanding defensively at second base." Franklin is now 11-1 overall and 6-0 in the Western Division of the WLAA. Canton slips to 7-2 overall and 4-2 in the division.

Mayle, who as a junior, hurled the Patriots into last year's state Class A championship game against Jenison, was razor-sharp again.

She struck out 10, walked three and allowed only one hit in a 1-0 victory in the opener. Holmes, a sophomore, was also impressive, allowing only three hits and two walks. while fanning 10 over seven innings.

Franklin's Brenda Pierson tallied the game-

There was no way Madonna University could lose

After all, the Lady Crusaders' softball team had reached a pipe dream goal. This was their first season of existence — what could be expected of them? Then came a hatful of problems, with four key players — including the team's top two pitchers — sidelined by a variety of academic woes.

Madonna season ends

It did not bode well. With a limited roster (13 players), any injury would be devastating. Even if the Crusaders were formate enough to avoid injuries and they were a first war. (and they were), success seemed remote. After all, they were a first-year team anchored by the third-string pitcher.

That pitcher, Joann Donehay, proved more than good enough. She was instrumental in getting Madonna to the NAIA District 23 playoffs with a 7-5 district record and a fourth-place finish

OK, so the Crusaders didn't get any further. They lost their first two district playoff games to regular-season champion Siena Heights, 6-0, and to Aguinas, 5-2, last Thursday in Spring Arbor.

EVEN THOUGH their stay in the double-elimination tourney was short, coach Dave Racer wasn't displeased. "It was kind of hard," he said. "The girls thought we could stay in the game with Siena Heights and we did. It was scoreless for three innings

One miscue and a few bad breaks beat Madonna. The miscue was Donehay's; after giving up a single in the third inning, the next batter grounded back to Donehay. It was an easy play, but she threw errantly to first. Instead of two out and one on, there were runners at second and third with one out.

Three singles from the next four batters resulted in three runs for the Saints. "We could have easily been out of the inning having given up just one run," said Racer.

Cinnacraz begins campaign

The defending champion of the Plymouth Men's Modified Fast-Pitch Soft-ball League returns to defend its title this year but under a new name.

Cinnacraz of Plymouth will attempt to win its first title for the new sponsor after achieving previous success as Pat Boyle Chevrolet and FGS Radiator before that.

The team still includes veteran players Jim Foster, Dave Brubaker, Rick Dreher, Dan Pierce and nationally-renowned pitcher Al White. Foster is one of the best longball hitters in the league, according to Brubaker, the playercoach who begins his 18th season in the game.

Curt White, Mike Kesson, Doug Kirkpatrick, Brian Tiller, Tim Robinson and Ron Wandzel return from last year, too. White and Kesson begin their third season in the sport, Kirkpatrick, Tiller, Robinson and Wandzel their second.

Cinnacraz also welcomes former Total Foods players John Longridge, Jim Dillon and Bob DeBenedet. Cinnacraz has former area baseball standout

Chris Sisler on its roster this year, too. The six-team league will play triple-headers every Wednesday night at the Plymouth Cultural Center diamond. The other teams in the league are AJs Lounge, Dick Scott Buick, Total Foods, the Trading Post and Insurance Exchange.

Salem boys whip JG

Plymouth Salem's mission is only partially accomplished in boys track and field, but the Rocks cleared a major hurdle to meeting their objective Thursday

Salem, which has the goal of winning the Lakes Division dual-meet title and later the Western Lakes Activities Association championship, toppled defending champ Westland John Glenn 80-57 at Salem.

The Rockets won three relays and did well in the sprints, but Salem captured first place in four field events and dominated the distance runs and hurdles. The Rocks are 3-0 in the division and overall, Glenn 2-1 and

Rob Casler was a double winner in the shot put (49-10%) and the discus (150-0), and teammates K.C. Kirkpatrick and Leon Hister won the high jump (6-2) and the long jump (20-7), respectively.

The Rocks won both hurdles races with Jim Ramsay running 15.2 in the highs and Don Johnson 43.9 in the intermediates.

John Thomas of Salem won the 800-meter run in 2:07 and anchored the

3,200 relay team, which included Mike Wooters, Mike Patterson and Jason McDonald. The Rocks finished in 8:39.2. Steve Boudreau gave the Rocks first place in the 1,600 run at 4:46.5

and Derek Cudini did likewise in the 3,200 run at 10:43.9. Glenn's Randy Seach sprinted to victories in the 100 dash and 400 run with times of 11.3 and 51.5, and teammate Lamar Ellison topped the 200 field with a 24.3 time In the relays, Glenn's Ellison, Brandon Buck, Brian Schultz and Ed Jeannin won the 400 (45.8); Jim Woloskie, Juan Peters, Ellison and Seach the 800 (1:37.5); and Scott Henson, Tony Donnelly, Jason Nowicki and

Seach the 1,600 (3:38.6). PLYMOUTH CANTON succumbed to a powerful Northville team 81-

56 Thursday on the winner's track. The Chiefs, 1-2 in the Western Division of the WLAA and overall, had five individual winners and captured one relay victory. Mike DeJarnett leaped 6-2 to win the high jump, and Don Green had the fastest time in the 300 hurdles at 43.9. Josh Walaskay's 11.6 time in the 100 dash was the best of the day. Mike Ream won the 1,600 run in 5:01.4 and Dave Yack the 3,200 run in 10:52.5. Canton's Jim Carnes, Phil Greenshields, Chris Nelson and Dave Washenko put together a winning time of 8:49.1 in the 3,200 relay.

QB's dad concerned about MSU ways

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Millard Coleman Sr. said he was fulfilling his parental duty and exercising his right in that role when be questioned the way his son, for-mer Farmington Hills Harrison quarterback Mill Coleman Jr., was used in the Michigan State University spring football game April 27.

The younger Coleman, who led the Hawks to three Class B finals and two state championships, is one of four quarterbacks challenging for starting job at MSU.

Millard Sr., in a story that appeared last week in the Detroit Free Press, expressed concern about the type of plays called when his son was directing the offense and his inability to demonstrate his talent ful-

He said he will meet with MSU head coach George Perles in the near future to discuss the matter and "I will express the same things and be honest as a concerned par-ent," Millard Sr. said. "I hope to defuse any perception the coaches might have from the comments that "I HOPE nobody took it in a negative way. I don't call the shots; I'm not trying to tell anybody how to do their job or making idle threats.

"But as a parent I have the right to express my concern about my son's development. I've always monitored Mill's progress to see if I could help, but I have never in-

Mill Jr., a redshirted freshman, is competing UCLA transfer Bret Johnson and John Gieselman, both juniors, and sophomore Jim Miller to replace Dan Enos.

In high school, Coleman excelled as a rollout quarterback who could stretch the defense and keep it guessing with his combined running and passing ability. He passed for more than 7,000 yards during his ca-more than 7,000 yards during his career and became the all-time passing leader in Michigan.

His father thought the type of plays used in the MSU game were more suited for dropback-style quarterbacks. The Spartans showed some diversity, but the offenses and "heavily weighted" in their were not "heavily weighted" in their use of rollout, bootleg and option plays, according to the elder Cole-man, a regional manager for State Farm Insurance.

"I'm concerned about the system at Michigan State utilizing all of Mill's skills," he said. "If they're really going to be fair about assessing talent, they can't do it if one quarterback is more suited to one style and another suited to another.

"THE PORTION of the offense they've put in is centered around dropping back. Mill can drop back, but that's not the most effective way of using his passing skill. If you're going with a dropback offense, you take away a great portion of Mill's

Millard Sr. said the MSU coaches should have allowed the QBs who are dropback passers to run plays suited to their abilities and someone like Mill Jr., a shorter, speedier QB, to run plays tailored to his talents. They could make a decision after reviewing the scrimmage as to which style and QB was best

"If you're going to give (Mill) a fair shot, you have to give him a chance to show what he can do," Millard Sr. said. "I'm not trying to say Mill is better than this guy or that football

"My intention is not to put my son on a pedestal and expect him to do something he can't do. Mill's record stands for itself in spite of me. I can go to the record book and point to what he's accomplished."

Coleman said he realized his comments might be perceived as med-dling and bad public relations, but he hoped that wasn't the case and doesn't regret speaking his mind.

"The risk of being silent and not saying anything (is greater)," he said. "They needed to know there

"I THOUGHT I said it in such a way that it was not going to be inter-preted that way and would not hurt Mill's consideration. I hope I'm dealing with a group of people mature enough to sense that."

"People might make something negative out of it, but I would be more remorseful if I hadn't said anything. I wasn't saying anything I wouldn't say to George or anyone else, because I wasn't criticizing anyone. I just wish we could have seen more of what (Mill Jr.) can do."

Coleman was 4-of-8 passing and ran once for 16 yards as his Green team defeated the White 22-10. Johnson, playing for the opposition, was 11-of-18 for 156 yards. Miller, who was the backup to Enos last year, was 2-of-5 for 63 yards and Gieselman 6-of-11 for 87.

"The perception of the public - and the way things are judged as to how the quarterbacks are progressing — is through the passing game," Millard Sr. said. "The perception is that Johnson is doing really well, but he had twice the opportunities to get

One of the things Coleman will ask Perles when they meet is what direction the offense is taking under new quarterbacks coach Ed Zaunbrecher. who joined the staff after former offensive coordinator Morris Watts left to coach with the Tampa Bay

There is no offensive coordinator at present, with assistants Charlie aggett in charge of passing, Pat Morris the running game and Zaunbrecher the quarterbacks.

"I WON'T say they're going in that (dropback) direction," Coleman said. "They tell me they're going to put in more stuff. Pass blocking for a rollout quarterback takes more time to develop, and they may not have had the time with a shorter spring practice to do that."

A primary reason Mill Jr. chose MSU was because the Spartans ran an offense that was "a carbon copy of the Harrison offense" and Watts liked Mill Jr. and was instrumental in recruiting him, according to Mil-

A subject on which the Colemans grilled recruiters was whether they had a legitimate interest in using Mill Jr. at quarterback. Millard Sr. said he told coaches the scholarship wasn't the important thing — "He'll have an education if I have to pay for it" — but his son didn't want to

That's another reason the elder Coleman feels an obligation to speak up. He believes he especially must look out for his son's best interest be-cause Mill Jr. doesn't fit the stereotyped image of a quarterback at 5oot-9 and 175 pounds.

"You always have to cope with a negative mindset, being in that position," he said. "Nobody knows what he can do, and they're saying he can't do it. If Mill had been 6-1 and with his stats, he would have been more recognized than he was. He would have been talked about like a (Joe) Montana or (Jeff) George.

There has been no mention of moving Mill Jr. to defensive back, according to his father, and Mill Jr. isn't considering a transfer to anoth-

BUT, WITH four good quarterbacks wanting to play, something will have to give, he added. He fore-sees Mill Jr., if Johnson becomes the starter and plays two years and Mil-ler remains the backup and eventual starter in 1993, not playing until he's

"If you look at the history of MSU quarterbacks - and this is something I admire in George - when he selects a quarterback he sticks with that quarterback through good and bad," Millard Sr. said. "Bobby McAllister led them to the Rose Bowl one year and had a bad year the next. George stuck with him and defended

"I'm looking at it realistically. I'm not forcing their hand. When I meet with George, I hope he understands that. I know situations change, and I want them to apprise me of that."

Local couples enjoy Scottish castle digs

By Betsy Taylor special writer

When we invited Lori and Roger Spry from Birmingham and Joan and Dale Stevens from Orchard Lake to join us on a recent trip to Scotland, both couples had the same provision. We must spend one night

We found several possibilities, but they were either booked or closed for the season. An alternative solu-tion was to settle for Shieldhill Hotel in Lanarkshire. Located in the Clyde Valley, this Norman keep (transla-tion: small castle) was built in 1199 and remained in the Chancellor fam-

The succession of innkeepers who followed did little to enhance the building and, according to Jack Greenwald, who purchased the hotel in 1987 with partner Christine Dun-stan, the building was a disaster. The new owners closed the hotel for a year and devoted their energy and talent to a miraculous facelift.

When we arrived late in the day at Shieldhill, we were miserably wet and cold. It had rained for days and the rivers, now swollen, had overflowed, causing some local roads to be closed. To top it off, we found the road signs from the village of Biggar to Shieldhill to be slightly off the mark and we took several wrong turns. And, to compound our woes, the hotel had lost its electricity!

Our congenial innkeeper, Jack Greenwald, lifted our spirits with a candlelight tour of this marvelous nine-bedroom facility, telling tales of historic note, and giving a detailed explanation of the hotel's renovation. We were sorry his partner, who looks lovely in photographs, was in America tending to the couple's other enterprise, the Cheshire Cat, a bed & breakfast created from two adjoining Victorian houses in Santa Barbara, Calif.

The couple's creativity is seen in Shieldhill as well. Each bedroom is beautifully appointed and decorated in coordinating Laura Ashley fabrics. The room names are taken from famous Scottish battles like Culloden, Glencoe and Bannockburn. Our room was cosy with a pair of window seats overlooking the gardens. In the failing light we could just make out the expensive lawns and the woodlands beyond.

The owners had spared no expense in the overhaul, spending close to 400,000 pounds on the project. The result is stunning! Wide hallways and stairs are covered with carpet made for the hotel with the Chancellor family crest. The halls lead to a mahogany-paneled lounge with a huge fireplace, a cosy bar and a spacious dining room.

After tea and time to rest, we joined the other guests in the lounge for cocktails. The only Americans present, we were joined by several Europeans as well as a May-December couple from nearby Edinburgh. Dinner reservations were made automatically for us, and due to the remote location, it was easy to see why everyone stays in for dinner.

The dining room serves from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and was set this particular evening with pale pink linens and beautifully fresh flowers. The prices were reasonable, the menu varied and prepared by a world-class chef. Local girls with shining faces and Laura Ashley country-style dresses gave us excellent service as we ate a memorable meal. Our spirits rose even higher with the return of elec-tricity while we drank our coffee.

The next morning we rose refreshed and ready for our early de-parture for Glasgow, 31 miles from Shieldhill. Even the Sprys, who had slept in the bedroom of the Lady in Grey, had no complaints.

Every castle must have a ghost and Shieldhill is no exception. Locals report the lady walks the property, looking for the grave of her infant child, but maybe she, too, was glad to be in out of the rain!

We were sorry to forego breakfast, but Jack gave us coffee, fruit, and scones before our fast getaway for the airport. But we'll be back. The Shieldhill Hotel is a place to savor, to enjoy and to repeat

Alma celebrates Scottish spring with Highland Festival & Games

"I-have a Scottish name, but as far as I knew, my ancestors were lowlanders and therefore not entitled to wear tartan," I said. Dinwoody's quick research showed me that the Snodgrass family does have the right to wear a tartan, two of them, in fact. They can wear the tartan of the Snodgrass clan and that of the Irvines, a clan that allied itself with the Snodgrass family in war.

McDonaid's of Alma probably won't serve Scottish food in the near future, especially not the traditional haggis. "But I think haggis is very good," Dinwoody said. Haggis will be served at the Ceilidh, a traditional party to be staged Saturday, May 25, at the festival.

There are always two questions concerning Scottish customs, according to Dinwoody. One asks, "What does a Scotsman wear under his kilt?" That's a military secret. Next question? "What is haggis?"

"It's cooked in a sheep's pluck, "Dinwoody says. That's the stomach, and if you're still with us, it contains oatmeal, onions, ground mutton and leeks. It's first boiled, then baked.

Both Dinwoody and I found the idea of eating something cooked in a sheep's stomach less revolting than eating semething cooked in a pig's guts, sausage. Take that, you Germans and Poles, and especially you English with your tasteless bangers.

The Scots are fond of ceremony, and the haggis is "piped in" to the skirl of bagpipes. The ceremony includes a reading of a Bobbie Burns' poem, "The Piping of the Haggis." The party continues with traditional entertainment like fiddle playing, country dancing and piping. Often the entertainment is spontaneous.

Also held Saturday night is the Pub and Dance. This fetches an even bigger crowd than the Ceilidh, 600-700 last year. It will be at Shifter's Restaurant, featuring contemporary music with a disc jockey. Crowd favorites at the festival are the massed kiltie bands, a spectacular sight as they perform at 1 and 5:30 p.m. Saturday and 5 p.m. Sunday. Another favorite is the Highland Fling and the Sword Dance. Just as interesting to me are the border collies, super-intelligent dogs that keep their masters' sheep in line. Food concessions feature international dishes, including American food and Scottish meat pies. Authentic Celtic clothing and crafts will be on sale

The Scots need a lot of help from their friends to put on a festival like the one at Alma. When the brawny lads in their kilts take the field for the caber toss, flipping a 12-to-19-foot pole end over end, you may note name that look more Polish or Greek than Scot.

Even this year's festival president has a name that's suspect, Bruce Moeggenborg, an administrator at Alma High School. The name "Bruce" works fine for a Scotsman, but the last name doesn't ring Gaelic.

Other Scottish athletic games will be the Weight Throw for distance; it weighs 28 pounds. The hammer in the Hammer Throw weighs 22 pounds. In the Weight Toss for height a 56-pound weight is swung between the knees and tossed backward over a bar using one hand. (A hernia on the first try disqualifies a contestant for a second try.) Finally there's a Sheaf Toss, in which a stack of hay is tossed by pitchfork over a bar.

IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Making friends on a flight to Atlanta

It was an early morning flight, and I had missed breakfast, so I was glad to see the flight attendant with her early morning snack and her coffee pot. Especially her coffee pot. We were on a Delta Air Lines flight to Atlanta, on a plane with two seats on each side and three seats in the middle. Flight attendants were serving from aisles on both sides of the middle section where I was seated.

I had that desperate look that caffeine addicts get when they haven't had their morning coffee, so I was given one cup from the serv-ing cart next to my seat and a second cup from the cart in the opposite aisle.

It was passed to me by an understanding coffee drinker in the next seat. I reciprocated by passing her my little paper cup of cantaloupe chunks.

"There are only three things in the world that I can't eat, and one of them is can-

"I'll never be able to ask you to the melon festival," she said. "I live in Howell and we have a melon festival every year."

Strangers don't stay strangers long when sharing breakfast on a plane, so Jackie Rog-ers and I were soon swapping stories about hometowns and travel. Jackie was born in Nashville, Mich. Her husband Russ, presently buried under earphones, was born and raised in Charlotte. They still have family in the Charlotte and Vermontville area, which should have given me a clue.

Russ works seven days a week May through September at Rogers Asphalt in Howell. Jackie is an accountant, so she can't leave town before the tax season ends. The Rogers were flying to Atlanta to visit their daughter, Margene, who graduated from Howell High School and Eastern Michigan University and now lives with her husband in Marietta, Ga. We talked about travel patterns; no two travelers ever have the same script. Russ loves to fish in Lake St. Helen, north of West Branch, and the far northern wilderness of Ontario at Chimo Bay, and to hunt deer in Michigan and caribou in the Colorado moun-

Jackie hunts too . . . she shot her first caribou in Colorado last December . . . but her real love is bowling. She bowls in Howell, and once a year she goes to national bowling com

About this time I remembered that my secretary's husband, Jess Bahs, came from Nashville. One of the women Jackie has been bowling with since high school days is Jess' grandmother, Louise Bahs, who still lives in

"Once a year, four of us longtime women friends go to Las Vegas," Jackie said, and then we started swapping casino stories.

The plane landed in Atlanta. We left by different aisles

"Call me sometime." "I will. You too."

Maybe we will. She seems like the kind of person I would like to know better. But even if we don't, we know a lot about one another after our two hours aboard the plane. I will think of her whenever I pass the Vermontville exit of the expressway or when I find myself within striking distance of a bowling alley.

Thousands are expected to crowd Alma on Saturday, May 25, for the Highland Festival & Games. Here the bagpipe brigade marches by in the Parade of Tartans.

The log toss is one of your more popular events at Alma's Highland Festival & Games, coming up May 25.

Celebrating a Scottish Spring

The sights and sounds of Scotland come to Alma

By Earl Snodgraes special writer

Alma, Mich. proudly calls itself "Scotland USA." Never more so than on May 24, 25 and 26 when it hosts the 24th annual Alma Highland Festival & Games. These are bonnie days when everyone's a Scot.

For the festival, the town, and especially Alma College, take on the color and panache of auld Scotland the Brave. A record number of clan societies and organizations will par-ticipate, including several Detroit-area Shriner bands and the Celtic Pipes and Drums of Birmingham.

Everything commences with a parade down Main Street at 11 a.m. Saturday, May 25. Thousands are expected to crowd the parade route to watch three dozen clans from around the U.S. and Canada participate in the Parade of Tartans.

You would never guess that Alma is Scotland USA if you didn't visit at festival time. The only Scottish name I saw as I drove into the city was McDonald's. After lunch at a Mexi-

I drove into the city was McDonald's. After lunch at a mexican restaurant on the main street, I stopped in at the Chamber of Commerce, where I was greeted by executive director M.A. Ferguson. He was wearing a kilt.

Now, thought this Scotsman, that's more like it. Ferguson told me the Chamber of Commerce is exploring ways to make the chamber building reflect the city's nickname. One idea is to make better use of the city's official tartan. It's the MacNeil of Barra colored navy blue vellow green and MacNeil of Barra, colored navy blue, yellow, green and black. It's a dignified tartan similar to that of the famous

Bryan Dinwoody, director of the Alma Public Library, and a wearer of the tartan, says the Scotland USA theme comes from Alma College. The college was founded by the Presbyterian Church, which in the old country is called the Church of Scotland. Alma College athletic teams are called The Dinwoody is a former Detroiter whose grandfather migrated to Nova Scotia from Great Britain. Dinwoody was not up on Scottish lore when he arrived here, but now he is an enthusiast. He bought a kilt with his clan's tartan and is persuading his wife to do the same.

Cedar Point on a 'Mean Streak' with new coaster

By Doris Scharfenberg special writer

ew season.

Notice to persons who love to be slam-dunked through walls of negative gravity: Another stomach-defying gratification is cranked up and ready for your screams.

The world's highest wooden roller coaster will be launched Saturday, May 11, at Cedar Point in Sandusky, Ohio. The Mean Streak, a $7.5 million basket-weave of cross beams and buttressed pillars, containing 1.5 million board feet of Southern yellow pine, has been checked and rechecked for the big day.

Three 28-passenger trains have had their wheels, bolts and seat belts inspected. Passengers sit in steel-framed vehicles with wooden sides, Lshaped lap bars, seat belts, padded seat dividers and high-backed seats.

The cars will take coastermaniacs to the top of a 160-foot lift hill and drop them 155 feet at a 52degree angle, reaching speeds of 65 miles per hour when the track levels out five feet above ground. The coaster's mile-long track traces an oblong path three times while navigating 12 hills

Why wood? Timber was used in the Mean Streak because a more pliable wooden structure gives riders an out-of-control feeling that can't be duplicated on steel coasters.

In 1990, fans took more than 14.3 million rides on Cedar Point's scream machines, which the Guiness Book of Records describes as the largest collection of its kind in the world. One classic, the Corkscrew flips riders upside down three times, sometimes directly above the midway.

Sending you downhill wet is the specialty of Soak City, an adjacent but separate Cedar Point attraction. There are 10 slithery water slides plus a splashy section for the tadpole set where kids slide through chutes and ladders, a training ground for the big stuff.

If riding the hills is not your cup of coffee, Cedar Point has other lures: Bengal tigers in circus acts, live stage shows, a Ferris wheel, jun-gle safari, roving musicians, dolphin and sea lion stunts, storybook characters and a 67-by-88-foot movie screen showing a film about transporta-

After dark

Dublin at night is gorgeous. City lights reflect off the river Liffey as young couples cross over the O'Connell Bridge to infiltrate Grafton Street. All daily rigors of work and school are put to rest when Dublin becomes one mass fraternity party. But there's more to this city on page 6D.

'Cop:' A good movie

With several new twists in its look at New York's tough street scene "One Good Cop" (A-, R, 100 minutes) demonstrates that it's always possible to tell a basic story with a fresh and exciting approach.

Top performances highlight this tense police action-adventure appropriately mixed with romance and family life. Even though the fight scenes tend to strain one's credulity, in much the same way as western heroes firing their six-guns 92 times without reloading might do, the film portrays the city's components realistically.

Artie Lewis (Michael Keaton) and Stevie Diroma (Anthony LePaglia) are longtime detective-partners on the narcotic squad. Artie's wife Rita (Rene Russo) desperately wants children but they've been unsuccessful and are resigned to a childless life. Stevie's wife has died leaving him with three young daughters.

Perhaps there's an overly obvious irony there, but the scripting, editing, directing and acting are sufficiently well-done to make it work. "One Good Cop" effectively focuses on the strain detectives regularly face and the ways in which they deal

When Stevie is killed attempting to rescue a family from their drugcrazed father, Artie is faced with a dilemma - should he care for Stevie's daughters and give Rita the children she desires but that he can't afford - or should he allow the foster parent system to care for the

ALONG THE way, Artie has to deal with the local drug lord, Beniamino (Tony Plana), who, Artie believes, ultimately was responsible for Stevie's death

All these elements are artfully interwoven and things never get sappy with the three little girls as Artie solves problems in a unusual way. While one might question the film's final, cynical resolution and the level of violence may bother some, "One Good Cop" is well-done, tense and the extent of their presence in motion pictures, an excellent barometer of public reaction and cultural values. Nobody on the outside gets to produce multi-million dollar media.

But as Hollywood has proven conclusively, it takes more than money and position in the mainstream to make good movies. "A Rage in Harlem" (C+, R, 110 minutes) starts out with a bang but ends with a fizzle as the film mixes in more ingredients than necessary and has trouble being an action adventure/romantic come-

It's a big, sprawling story that starts down south in the '50s with a black gang led by Slim (Badja Djola) stealing a lot of gold ore from a white gang. There's a big shoot-out and the black gang's moll, Imabelle (Robin Givens), gets away with the trunk full of gold and makes her way

THERE SHE finds a place to stay with a devout young man, Jackson (Forest Whitaker), whose halfbrother, Goldy (Gregory Hines), is a street-smart grifter.

Then, there's Harlem's top mobster, Easy Money (Danny Glover), and Goldy's transvestite friend. Big Kathy (Zakes Mokae), the local madam who runs quite a house. In addition, a couple of cartoon cops plus the staff and management of the funeral parlor where Jackson works

Naturally, Jackson falls in love with Imabelle and everyone in town is hot on the trail of the gold.

Slim and his gang somehow escape from the shoot-out with the white gang in the South and turn up later on in Harlem looking for the

While the story concept contains the basic elements of a good action film - it's based on Chester Himes' novel - the intermixture of romance between devout young man and gang moll, Goldy's redemption, some street comedy and everybody's greed interlaced with excessive violence is more than one film can han-

"Ju Dou" has been hailed as a Chinese turn on "The Postman Always Rings Twice" and rightly so. But more interesting than another "erotic tale of forbidden passion," as the ads proclaim, the film is rooted squarely in Chinese culture.

The new film by director Zhang Yi-Mou is enjoying an extended run at the Maple Theatre, due in part to the controversy surrounding its release. "Ju Dou" was the Chinese entry for this year's foreign film Oscar, but was almost pulled by the Chinese government because its con-

VIDEO VIEWING

Still playing catch-up on April video releases, in particular for laser disc owners. On April 24, "Rocky V" (1990, color, PG-13, 105 minutes) hit the racks on laser disc, 8mm and video cassette. Hopefully, this indeed will be Rocky's final filmic bout.

The next day, Landmark Laservision, a subdivision of Republic Pictures, released four classic silent films on laser disc, testifying to continued growth in that segment of the home viewing market.

The famous German (and later Hollywood) director, Fritz Lang, best known for "Metropolis" and "M" directed a two-part, black-and white spectacular in 1924 based on the ancient Teutonic saga of the Nibelungenlied. The first part, "Siegfried" (110 minutes), features a dragon 70 feet in length, controlled by 17 technicians, an incredible accomplishment by any standards, particularly for the '20s.

The story traces Siegfried's exploits as he makes a name for himself in ancient legend. The second part, "Kriemhilde's Revenge" (95 minutes), continues the saga as Kriemhilde seeks to avenge Sieg-

Two of the outstanding filmic achievements of the '20s, the German Expressionist "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari" (1919) and the Russian "Battleship Potemkin" (1925) both black and white and just over an hour in length — are the other two silent classics in this laser disc

ON THE documentary shelf, interesting video cassette releases in April include "Hearts and Minds"(1974, black-and-white and color, R, 115 minutes).

Billed as "a historic visual chronicle," "Hearts and Minds" was originally released at the end of the Vietnam War. It's startling and frightful images, including footage shot in Vietnamese villages, graphically presents the brutality of that war. It won the 1974 Oscar for best documentary feature.

The keepers of the crazy rhythms have returned.

The Feelies make their first Detroit-area appearance in two years tonight at the Blind Pig in Ann Arbor, touring in support of their fourth LP, "Time for a Witness," which may be their most focused

It's another strong assemblage of searing twin guitars, richly monotone vocals and an explosive rhythm section. The album combines the best elements of the previous three releases, said bassist Brenda Sauter.

"There was a lesson to be learned from each album," Sauter said by phone from the band's tour stop in Boulder, Colo. "We were very aware of trying to get the feel of each song just right, to have a more saturated sound. We feel

The band's debut, 1980's "Crazy Rhythms," was loaded with fantastic percussion, but much of the material was too murky and quirky to catch on at the time. The 1986 follow-up, "The Good Earth," exuded a melodic warmth but lacked clear, strong vocal and bass sounds. And 1988's "Only Life" had a clearer sound but the warmth was sacrificed, leaving the band with a slightly sterile sound, Sauter

Last year, the Feelies went into the studio, took the percussive feel of "Crazy Rhythms," the warmth of "The Good Earth," and the clarity of "Only Life" and came up with "Time for a Witness" although a few tracks, like "Doin' it Again" and "Invitation," indicate a move toward the mainstream, the crazy rhythms are intact.

THE BASIC ingredient to the Feelies' sound is still tempo. They can go from broodingly slow to breakneck speed and back in a few furious bars. At their frenzied top speed, their screeching guitars and fiery rhythm section haze into one solid, endless chime the way a car's wheels appear to gently roll backward when they're actually hurdling down the highway.

The Feelies' dependence on rhythm and speed translates well into a live performance, where lyrics are hard to hear anyway. Crowd response on this five-week tour has been favorable, Sauter said, and that helps feed the often frenetic

"The speed of the show depends on the audience," she said. "It's also dictated by how wound up we are. Some nights are incredibly fast, and some are slower then rev up at the end.

behind the band's heart: the guitar interplay between songwriters Glenn Mercer and Bill Million.

THE TWO guitars act as second and third vocalists for the band, often beginning and ending songs with feedback-laden solos, with a couple more tossed into the middle so no one misses the point.

And the point is that the Feelies make music that move people to move. Those in attendance tonight can expect at least that. They also shouldn't be surprised to hear a few cover tunes from a variety of sources.

"Time for a Witness" includes a raucous cover of the Stooges' "Real Cool Time," and songs by acts from the Velvet Underground to Television to Jonathan Richman have been known to find their way onto the Feelies' set list.

THE BOOTLEG SERIES, VOL. 1-3, 1961-1991 — Bob Dylan

It's been a strange couple of years for Bob Dylan, even for him. He's made two albums, 1989's landmark "Oh Mercy" and 1990's lackluster "Under a Blood Red Sky."

He's moonlighted as a Wilbury Jack Nicholson gave him a glowing introduction and a Lifetime Achievement Award at the Grammys, and Dylan responded with a timely tune, 'Masters of War," but at an electrified doubletime with completely indecipherable lyrics. Critics mocked Dylan and his apparent decline in self-parody. Enter "The Bootleg Series." Legend reaffirmed. One listen to these three discs makes you wonder why Dylan hasn't gotten five Lifetime Achievement Awards. At least that many Dylan personas appear on this collection.

The boxed set looks, and sounds, like it could be a greatest hits collection. For the Dylan scholar, "The Bootleg Series" is an essential text. For the casual fan, it's like getting three great new Dylan albums encompassing 30 years of outtakes and alternate versions

Some of the outtakes are so solid that it's unfathomable they were left off the albums for they were cut. If Dylan's recent work cast any doubts on his reputation as rock's poet laureate, this collection shreds them.

SOME WEAK links and rough edges - including coughs, comments, premature endings and a barking dog - dot the collection, but more often than not, the presence of lyrical royalty is obvious. Dylan's evolution as a songwriter analyze it.

is tracked chronologically, with the entire first volume dedicated to the pre-1964 acoustic folk singer persona who spun rhyming morality plays laced with black comedy and stinging social commentary. Included in this segment are nine outtakes from his fabulous "Freewheelin' Bob Dylan" LP. "Let Me Die in My Footsteps" reflects young America's frustration with the Cold War in words written by a 21year-old Dylan while most of America was doing the Twist: "I don't know if I'm smart but I think I can see/When someone is pullin' the wool over me/And if this war comes and death's all around/Let me die on this land 'fore I die underground."

These early tracks display Dylan's development in storytelling and characterization, especially in songs like "Moonshiner," "Only a Hobo," and "Talkin' John Birch Paranoid

A FEW SONGS are culled from a Carnegie Hall performance, including stirring renditions of the spiritual "No More Auction Block" and "Who Killed Davey Moore?," Dylan's repulsed reaction to the death of boxer Davey Moore after being knocked out.

From a 1962 show is "Last Thoughts on Woody Gutherie," a gem that's worth the price of the set by itself. The seven-minute spokenword poem, the only known recording of Dylan reading one of his poems in public, is a vivid, touching tribute to his folk idol.

Dylan's mid-'60s foray into pop is documented with "If You Gotta Go, Go Now" and "Sitting on a Barbed-Wire Fence." The haunting, psychedelic images of 1966's "Blonde on Blonde" are ably represented on the outtake, "She's Your Lover Now," a tune recorded with the Band in the mold of "Stuck Inside of Mobile."

Dylan's music become more introspective and less political by the time the '70s hit, but no less impactful. Three stark alternate takes from the painfully personal "Blood on the Tracks" appear here. Dylan, often prone to obscure allusion and apocalyptic imagery, shows his simple tender side in "If You See Her, Say Hello:" "Though our separation, it pierced me to the heart/She still lives inside of me, we've never been

Perhaps the most pleasant surprise of "The Bootleg Series" is the quality of the dozen post-1979 tracks. The bopping gospel tune "Ye Shall Be Changed" and the demo for 1981's "Every Grain of Sand" highlight Dylan's Christian period. The latter especially paints the comfort in faith during the "hour of deepest need:" "In the fury of the moment I can see the Master's hand/In every leaf that trembles, in every grain of sand."

FIVE TRACKS appear from the Mark Knopfler-produced sessions that yielded his best work of the '80s, 1983's "Infidels." The whimsical "Tell Me," the bluesy "Blind Willie McTell" and the paternal plea "Lord Protect My Child" all sound good enough for inclusion on "Infidels.

"Oh Mercy" provides the collec-tion's closer, "Series of Dreams," a mystical mood piece that musically resembles another of producer Daniel Lanois' projects, U2.

Feelies get feel for their music

The Velvet Underground is most often mentioned in making comparisons and citing influences in connection to the Feelies. But songs like "Decide" and "What She Said" from the new record owe as much to Neil Young and the Rolling Stones as they do to Lou Reed.

The Feelies have been around long enough to influence as well as be influenced. Sauter said people often tell her after shows that they're in a band that plays Feelies in 1977, and gained a quick following on the East Coast thanks to their fast and furious live shows. In October 1978 they made the cover of the Village Voice as "The Best Underground Band in New York."

For now, the band is far from the final scene of its rhythmic saga. The Feelies, some say, remain on the proverbial cutting edge. Sauter is asked exactly where that is. "We're on the edge of whatever is happening," she said knowingly, "which is better than being in the middle, where things tend to be more stagnant."

The band name? Well, after their car broke down near the Chickasaw River in Alabama and they kicked the mud off their boots, the name Chickasaw Mudd Puppies seemed appropriate.

Chickasaw Mudd Puppies go to great lengths to re-create their environment, adding a clothes line, a picket fence, a few hubcaps and a rocking chair on the set.

"ONE OF our philosophies about playing in from an audience is that we don't want to be pretentious," Slay said. "We just want to have a good time."

His first encounter with fame came in second grade. As a young student at a Catholic school, Carrey said he remembers "monkeying around" during music class. A nun spotted Carrey at the back of the room, mocking students who were playing instruments.

"She said 'if you think you're so smart, come to the front of the room and do that," Carrey said.

HE DID, performing a Three Stooges-type dance before his class-mates. Afterwards, the class aplauded and Carrey's teacher asked him to play Santa in the school

"That was my first taste of fame," Carrey said, laughing.

Later, at the holiday assembly, Carrey created a unique Santa show and "had one nun on her hands and knees" laughing, which was no easy accomplishment, he said.

Carrey grew up "in and around oronto," leaving at age 17 to explore Los Angeles. Since then Carrey said he's gotten a "series of good breaks," gradually gaining recognition for his acting and comedy.

He's appeared in several feature films, including "Earth Girls Are "Pink Cadillac," "The Dead Easy," "Pink Cadillac," "The Dead Pool," "Peggy Sue Got Married," "Once Bitten," and "Finders Keep-

When in Dublin, do as the Dubliners do

Steel girders and glass tower high above shoppers in a mall near St. Stephen's Green in Dublin.

Dublin, Ireland — A place where nothing is great, but everything is 'grand;" and talk is cheap but the "crack" is Those are the little things an Irish-American learns visiting this Irish city. But on his quest to share some kindred spirit with his brothers in Ireland another fact becomes evidently clear: a.) You can run but you can't hide from the eye of America and, b.) being an Irish-American doesn't necessarily make you Irish.

The people who inhabit this European city are another thing entirely. God love 'em.

From the runny-nosed urchins who defiantly run out in front of traffic kicking soccer balls to the pesky teenagers who cross-body block you from behind on the sidewalk and promptly turn and say politely, "Sorry," and proceed mowing down other pedestrians in their path, Dubliners are a

While Irish-American visitors tend to imprison themselves in tour buses with drivers describing the sights like lepre-chauns, our guides let us, to quote a line from "Dead Poet's Society," suck the marrow from the bone of Dublin life.

Jim Walsh and Brian (pronounced Ba-reen) Wright and John Tynan would usher us on this cultural exchange. Walsh and Tynan greeted us at Dublin Airport. The proper introduction to Ireland only needs one thing at 10 a.m. after a Trans-Atlantic flight - a pint of Guinness.

THE BLACK stout looks like the refuse from an oil change with a creamy head on top. Signs around Dublin pubs proclaim Guinness is good for you.

En route to our bed and breakfast, we realized we were

The steering wheel was where the glove compartment was supposed to be and when we flipped on the turn signal, the wipers came on. To top it off, everyone was driving on the left side of the road - now that's foreign.

From the onset it's apparent Irish drivers obviously take out the years of invasions, oppression, famine and unemployment in the way they drive.

Coupled with the fact the roads in Ireland make our alleys look like the Lodge Freeway, our little Nissan suddenly became four wheels from hell. "One thing, don't give anybody a break," Tynan tells us.

"because they won't give you one."
Once we arrive at our bed and breakfast, we ditch the car. The green bus is for us.

DUBLIN AT night is gorgeous. City lights reflect off the River Liffey as hordes of young people cross over the O'Connell Bridge to infiltrate Grafton Street. Nearly 50 percent of the population of Ireland is 25 or younger.

Youthful idealism, though, is doused quickly by unemployment, which is high despite Ireland being one of the most well-educated countries in the world.

Many of its people will emigrate to the United States, England or elsewhere looking for work.

Waish, 23, and Wright, 22, want to stick it out. Waish works as a stock controller for Bus Eireann, the Irish equivalent to Greyhound. Wright is a marketing executive, recently graduated from college

All the daily rigors of work and school are put to rest as Friday night in Dublin becomes engulfed in one mass frater-

OUR AGENDA includes visits to three Dublin pubs - the Long Haul, Sinnott's and Davy Byrne's. Each place is wall-to-wall with people in their 20s and early 30s.

Upon walking to a new pub, Walsh assures us the women at the next place are more beautiful than the ones at the previous establishment. Of course, this natural progression might have something to do with the growing number of pints consumed at each stop.

Upon arrival at the final place, a striking brunette steps over to chat with Walsh. He sheepishly returns to the group and is promptly chided.

"All the wide receivers get the girls," said one partier to Walsh, who plays American football in Dublin.

From there, it's on to the Olympia Theatre where Dublin blues harmonica player Don Baker will perform. The place is "black," an Irish term meaning crowded, with the standing room only audience making for a hot, steamy night.

WE WAIT IN line for Guinness in tall paper cups, which somehow seems akin to putting champagne in a Gatorade squeeze bottle.

The unpardonable sin is then committed. With our cups sitting on top of the bar we naturally grab them. We're met with a stern look from the bartender, a woman with black hair and a glare to match. She tells us to put them back; She hadn't put the head on the beer yet.

"Foreigners," she mumbles shaking her head.

As Baker wails on the harmonica and people dance in the aisle ways, it suddenly occurs to us we've only had one hour sleep in the past 24.

Undoubtedly, we figure, our heads will ring like the bells at Christ Church Cathedral before Mass next day. The next morning, no headache, no upset stomach . . . We conclude, indeed, Guinness is good for you. Of course, the sights of Dublin are taken in the next day:

Trinity College, the General Post Office, St. Stephen's Green and Moore Street Market where toothless women hawk candy bars and cigarette lighters from baby strollers.
"Tomorrow you'll read about how a consignment of candy bars mysteriously came up missing somewhere," Walsh says, surveying the scene. SATURDAY NIGHT includes a a listen to some traditional Irish music at place called Hughes. We agree to meet Jim and Brian at a place called Madigan's in downtown Dublin across from Pizzaland. We wait. . . and wait. Nearly 11/2 hours after our scheduled rendezvous we decide to catch the bus back to the bed and breakfast. On our way to the bus stop on O'Connell Street, we notice there is another Madigan's - next to, you guessed it, a Pizzaland (and we thought pepperoni imperialism was left to the Ilitches and Monaghans). Inside, we find Jim and Brian looking at their watches.

The real face of Irish life, though, reveals itself on Sunday. One of the local soccer teams, Shamrock Rovers, is making its debut at the Royal Dublin Society against St. Patrick Athletic. A crowd of 22,000 jams the lush grassy facility. which is normally used for horse shows (obviously, fertilizer

A friend of Walsh's, David McGrath, reluctantly agrees to escort us to the match. McGrath is a devoted Bohemians supporter - a rival of both the Rovers and St. Pat's. For him, walking into the enemy's stadium is like asking Rudolf Nureyev to play Twister.

"I COULDN'T let you go home without having one of these," he said, presenting the scarf like a religious article.

We talk a little soccer, but the conversation quickly turns to American football, something that permeated the Irish sporting scene. McGrath is a wide receiver on the Dublin Tornado along with Walsh.

"Bo Schembechler is the president of a baseball team?," asks McGrath incredulously. "He seems far too intense for

On the subject of intensity, McGrath assures us that Irish soccer fans are much more tame than the British variety. This holds true until the referee misses an obvious foul on a Shamrock Rovers' player late in the second half.

A howl goes up from the terraces, a place where a team's most fervent supporters stand. Several beer cans are hurled onto the field along with a smoke bomb.

The match ends in a 0-0 draw.

Afterward, we go to Wright's home for dinner. Boiled potatoes, green beans and pork are served, as close as it gets to traditional Irish food. Wright switches on the TV to a football game between the Buffalo Bills and the Cincinnati Ben-

Then we head over to Corrigan's. Inside, the place looks like a family reunion. Young and old alike laugh and enjoy one last drink before the reality of work week sets in.

THE PLACE closes at 11:30 p.m. with the barkeep yelling for everyone to evacuate and no one listening. Finally, we head to the door with the realization our Dublin Days are down to minutes.

We take in one last sight down the street - Kilmainham Jail. This is where several members of the 1916 Easter Uprising were imprisoned and later executed. Rebel James Connolly, in fact, was injured and in a wheelchair when the British propped him up and shot him.

Anger sparked by the incident led the Irish people to side with the band of revolutionaries ultimately leading to Ireland's independence. "We've had a great time showing you around," says Wright as we look at the iron gate of the prison. "We go by these places every day and sort of take it for granted."

But one rite of Irish life had yet to be experienced. We head down to Larry's Take-Away for some fish and chips. The cholesterol, not to mention the salt, would give a rabbit a heart attack.

Nonetheless, the batter-dipped fish and fried potatoes are savored to the last greasy piece. Finally, at this moment, we thought to have escaped the shadow of America and all its

At least it was until we turned the corner. Then, there it was in all its bright lights and splendor - a 7-Eleven.

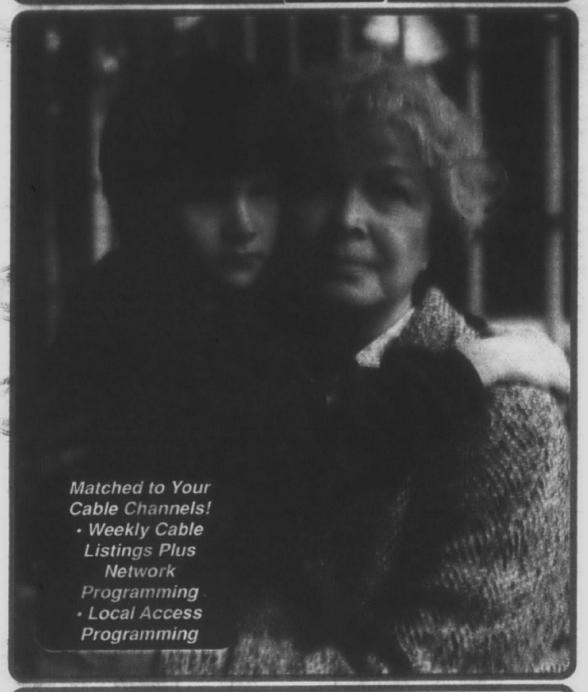

O'Connor apparently is a common name in Ireland. There's pubs, even this restaurant in Kilarney bearing a familiar name for Larry O'Connor.

During the day, Dubliners hustle to and fro and buses cruise up and down O'Connell Street in downtown Dublin.

Ellen Burstyn, Walter Matthau remember love in TV drama

Pair co-star again after 27 years

May 6-May 12

By Christy Bergslien

"Mrs. Lambert Remembers Love' is really a life-affirming story about the power of love," says Ellen Burstyn of the new telefilm in which she stars. Burstyn, who won an Academy Award for her performance in "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore," co-stars with Walter Matthau in the heart-rending drama Sunday, May 12, on CBS.

"Mrs. Lambert Remembers Love" marks the first time Burstyn and Oscar-winner Matthau ("The Fortune Cookie") have co-starred together since their 1964 performance in "Goodbye Charlie." In their new project, Burstyn plays an elderly woman named Lil Lambert, whose failing memory leads to a custody battle for her young grandson, played by 9-yearold Todd Ryan. Matthau plays Clifford Pepperman, an old friend of the Lambert family who remains a loyal ally to Lil in her struggle.

"I loved working with Walter back then; I loved working with him in 1991." says Burstyn of her costar. For 27 years I've been consciously and unconsciously looking for a property that would allow us to work together again."

Burstyn says although she loved the script of "Mrs. Lambert Remembers Love," she wondered if she could possibly play a woman 20 years plus her senior. She's 58.

"As a matter of fact, I said jokingly to Robert Halmi, the producer who sent me the script, Do you think I look that old? If the answer's yes, I better get myself to a health spa, and fast!"

The actress says Matthau, on the other hand, has hardly changed in the last 27 years. "The funny thing is. Walter had jet-black hair in 1964, and he's still got jet-black hair. To make him look the same age as me in this picture, the makeup people actually had to whiten his hair. Matthau is 70 years old.

It is likely both Burstyn and Matthau are hoping for a more highly acclaimed film with "Mrs. Lambert Remembers Love" than they saw with the less-thansuccessful "Goodbye Charlie" a generation ago.

"I did a lot of research for this picture," says Burstyn. "At first I thought Lil Lambert was suffering from a form of senile dementia." she explains of her character, "but after reading several books about gerontological diseases, I think she's probably suffering from the early stages of Alzheimer's."

"Lil has these occasional memory lapses. She just can't remember who people are or what events actually happened. She finds it terribly frustrating, and that's exactly what happens to people when they first become affected by Alzheimer's.

Actor Todd Ryan plays the grandson of Academy Award-winner Ellen Burstyn in "Mrs. Lambert Remembers Love," premiering Sunday on CBS. Burstyn plays an elderly woman struggling to retain her memory and custody of her grandson. Walter Matthau co-stars.

Q: It would be appreciated if you would furnish me with the address of Mr. Efrem Zimbalist Jr. I have a phonograph record (circa 1925) in which his mother sings "Old Black Joe." The record is not in the best condition, but he might want it. - John Wildman, Lake Montezuma, Ariz.

A: I do not have an address for Mr. Zimbalist, but I do have one for his daughter that may work for you. Write to: Stephanie Zimbalist, 4024 Radford Ave., Studio City, CA 91604. Good luck!

Send your questions about the world of entertainment to: Polly Vonetes, Let's Talk, P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas 76161-1009. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest can be answered.

They know something's desperately wrong, but they can't figure out what it is."

Burstyn has high praise for both of her co-stars. "He makes it look so easy - and, of course, that's the secret of fine acting," she says of Matthau. "Walter brings a wonderful naturalness to his roles, and that's why I think people who watch him on the screen like him so much."

"Todd is a very special little being. He's so curious and bright, so open and warm. On the set he saw everything. He was totally tuned in. After a while, I really saw Todd and his character Jared, as one. Jared is very close to his grandmother Lil: Todd became very close to Walter and me."

Essentially, "Mrs. Lambert Remembers Love" is the story of three people whose love and loyalty triumphs over green and hurt. Moral of the story: Nice guys don't always finish last. "I think people who watch this are going to be moved," says Burstyn optimistically. "It may even influence some people to offer help to loved ones who need help."

Madonna dominates MTV weekend

By Amy Schmidt

Madonna is the hot subject of MTV's weekend, May 11 and 12. In fact, she's the only subject. For two solid days, the network will air videos, liveperformance footage and interview clips of the blond bombshell. Earlier in the week, on Thursday, May 9, MTV will feature a Madonna Special as she talks about her new film release Truth or Dare. The movie promises to be a "tell-all" about the material girl. Is the world ready for this?

Richard Chamberlain shakes pretty-boy image

By Kate Ironside

Perhaps what swooners over handsome actor Richard Chamberlain do not know is that he is a painter. Originally, the actor pursued art before turning to the stage.

Chamberlain was never too far out of Hollywood's realm, however. He was born George Richard Chamberlain on March 31, 1935, in Beverly Hills, Calif. There he attended high school and Pomona College before serving two years in the U.S. Army.

Chamberlain's blond, clean-cut, all-American looks attracted attention early on, leading to small film and television roles in the 1960s. (Surprisingly, his first major role was in an episode of Gunsmoke.) But it was on the small screen that the actor distinguished himself and continues to do so today. His role as the valiant, young Dr. Kildare from 1961 to 1966 established him as a leading actor and heartthrob, too.
