Making a pitch

Kristie Cavallaro, granddaughter of Mitch and Roberta Bozimowski of Plymouth Township, got engaged earlier this month as a crowd of 300 looked on before a minor league baseball game in Kenosha, Wis. What happened, said her grandfather, was that Kristie's fiance - Class A pitcher Tim Persing - asked her to throw out the first pitch. She came to the mound and threw to Persing, who then approached her, dropped to one knee, and asked her to marry him. She said yes. The wedding is set for Feb. 15.

Homecoming

Marine Cpl. Daniel Harkness recently returned home to Plymouth Township after serving in the Persian Gulf since Sept. 2. He served as a tank mechanic just west of Almeshab, Saudi Arabia. "There wasn't much to do, we were always on standby," Harkness said. He'll serve his final 13 months with the Marines at Camp Pendleton, Calif., and after that plans to study photography and art in college.

Winning teacher

Thomas Williams, who teaches at West Middle School, was one of six Wayne County winners of the Washington Post-WDIV-TV Outstanding Teacher award, for outstanding contributions to the teaching profession.

Honored

Students in Sally DeRoo's environmental class at Plymouth Salem High were recently honored with a plaque from the Plymouth branch of the Women's National Farm & Garden club for their efforts in designing and building an atrium at the school.

Badge for kids

Farrand Elementary School students Samantha Morrow and Randy Wilson just might have a future in law enforcement.

Samantha and Randy provided Plymouth Township police with descriptions of a man who was trespassing on school grounds.

Their description, "better than most adults can provide, according to Sgt. Robert Antal, led to a positive identification of the suspect and his arrest. He was charged with several counts of larceny in buildings in Plymouth Township.

The officers-in-the-making were honored Thursday by Plymouth Township police Chief Carl Berry and Antal, who presented the students with certificates.

Take a bow

Allen Elementary School placed first in the recent Michigan Council Social Studies Olympiad in Grosse Pointe. Ten fifth graders in Marjane Baker's class outperformed elementary students from throughout Michigan with their winning original play, "Bill's Class." The play, commemorating the 200th anniversary of the Bill of Rights, tells the story of a substitute teacher faced with a class of 10 students, all named

After four students explain the meaning of their bill, the next opts to "take the Fifth." The play will be broadcast by Omnicom Cable. Stay tuned.

New Plymouth City Manager Steve Walters' first day on the job was Monday. He served as Northville city manager for 17 years.

New city manager getting acquainted

By Kevin Brown staff writer

As Steve Walters' first day as Plymouth city manager wound down he listened to a briefing from assistant City Manager Paul

"I'm trying to figure out what's going on in tonight's commission meeting," Walters said, smiling

SINCE BEING NAMED to the post in April, Walters continued to work as Northville city manager, a post he held for 17 years. But he also found time to attend some meetings of Plymouth city boards. and read up on issues pertaining to Plymouth.

'I made some effort to start to learn about what the DDA (Downtown Development Authority) plan is all about," Walters said.

"I haven't gotten into any ((DDA plan) budget review at all. Implementation is a real complicated thing You have to phase it in traffic problems, I don't think they've gotten into that yet."

Meanwhile, "I had brought boxes in this weekend. I attempted to get most of them unpacked," he said. Walters arrived for work at 8 a.m. Monday. "By 9 o'clock I was into meetings," he said. They included one with Fire Chief Al Matthews "on a personnel matter." Among his impressions on his first day, Walters noted that Plymouth's city hall is bigger than Northville's. "There's more department heads," he said, adding that in Northville, "There's two department heads I'm used to bumping into all the time.

Also Monday, he attended a Plymouth police lieutenant's retirement luncheon, and met with some staff. But Walters didn't convene a meeting with all city department heads, that will come lat-

Walters said he plans to join the Kiwanis Club and Rotary, there, he plans to address fellow Rotarians on "The minority we left behind."

The minority he's speaking of? "I'm left-handed," Walters explained.

Walters' hobbies include stained glass making and trombone playing. Also, "I love computers, I'm a computer programmer of sorts."

Because computer programming is time consuming, Walters said he doesn't have that much time to spend on it. At city hall, he said, a networked computer system could help departments share accounting

WALTERS HAS been looking at houses in Plymouth and has put his Northville house up for sale

As the city commissioners who hired Walters convened their Monday meeting, Mayor Ralph (Jack) Kenyon remarked, "This is truly a momentous occasion, a new beginning. We're glad to have you

Rumors fly in school board race

By M.B. Dillon

Mudslinging has entered the 1991 Plymouth-Canton school board race Lawn signs are disappearing, and the rumor mill is working overtime Candidate Deborah Lynch has been accused of not paying 1989 and 1990 property taxes. Candidate Bobbie Cleary is being criticized for educating her 6-year-old at home Incumbent candidates Roland Thomas and Dean Swartzwelter say some of their signs have been taken

LYNCH, A FINANCIAL planner. recently married developer Austin Woody" Lynch, who owes 1989 and 1990 taxes on property in Canton

He bought the property before we were married, and I am not on the deed," she said "My husband has paid $160,000 in 1989 and 1990 taxes for all of the properties he owes in Plymouth and in Canton

The $15,000 is owed on five acres of residential property on Ridge It's still tied up in development Delaying payment is simply a business decision It's more prudent to use the money in that way than to borrow it from a bank It's a very common practice in the development industry," she said.

Lynch says the accusations don't surprise her I scared a lot of people. I believe that they're afraid of the knowledge I have about the school board and the way it's handled some of the issues and operations. I believe they want the school boardato be a closed

"I'm not one to point fingers I've been raised in a corporate atmosphere, and I believe in professionalism every inch of the way, particularly because we're setting an example for kids

I think our kids' benefit and welfare should be the bottom line, not anyone's ego or desire to control We're a democracy, and anyone has a right to run for office.

For too long, Plymouth has ruled the school district, added Lynch.

Sixty percent of our students are Canton children, and their futures are important, too Voters are the ones that hold the power, and sometimes they forget that I'm just hoping Canton people stand up and say enough is enough, we can't handle it

CLEARY SAYS HER decision not to send her daughter to Plymouth-Canton schools this year ties in with her reasons for running

The reason I'm running is for parents. As a school board member, I'm going to do what's best for the community As a parent, I'm doing what's best for my child I had concerns with the developmental program A lot of teachers are doing great jobs, but a lot of them are falling into theories, and I have concerns with some of their theories

If I wasn't concerned, I wouldn't run. I'd just say forget it," said Cleary, a chemical engineer "I'm concerned about other kids They need a good education. It's not fair if they don't get one, and not everyone can afford a private school '

Dean was endorsed for his willingness to listen to employee concerns, his leadership and experience on the board and his accessibility to our members and union leaders," the group said.

Roland Thomas was rated as qualified, but not endorsed "The council declined to endorse him because he has not tended to treat the unions even-handedly during grievance hearings and has not always been accessible to union leaders," the union said

"He has not once accepted an invitation to participate in the countraditionally communicate regarding common concerns to the superintendent and board members who accept our invitation

Of candidates Bobbie Cleary and Deborah Lynch, PCEA president Chuck Portelli said. "I'd say the two ladies running are too new They're new people who didn't have the experience the other guys seem to have Deborah Lynch appears to be too closely tied to municipal government in the union's view. The council felt this might present a conflict of interest Lynch also never mentioned once in her interview a concern for children and did not deal with educational issues," said the council Bobbie Cleary appears to be very interested in children, but she hasn't attended many board meetings, employees said. Also, said the union, "she seems inexperienced and lacking in the knowledge necessary for qualified board members. An answer on her question-

Swartzwelter, a financial manager at Ford, said about 10 of his signs have disappeared.

"It's quite a common thing, kids do that on a Saturday night," he said. Swartzwelter said he has no problem with the scrutiny candidates experience. "Anyone one who's going to be in the public service can expect that their life is going to be a fish-bowl, he said. "It's just part of the requirements None of it surprises Carl Battishill or Barbara Graham, the newest school board members Last year, Battishill was the subject of unfounded rumors that greatly upset him. It doesn't take conviction; merely suspicion, he says. "After all the hard work you do, it can all go down the drain real quickly, he said. Battishill said one man told him 'he refused to vote for me because he'd seen me drinking a beer in my own house. Somehow or other, this person was offended. It took me completely by surprise; that I was under such scrutiny by people. The standard of behavior is simply higher, as I suppose it should be, and yet what is most difficult about it is the rumors that you can't control," he said. "It just keeps a lot of really good people from participating It's a sad commentary on Amermicrocosm of that."

GRAHAM SAYS misinformation circulated about her candidacy, and several signs turned up in school buildings, burned

"I kind of laugh Statements were made by people who automatically assumed I was of the fundamentalist kind of thinking," said Graham.

"I might have been more of a funny mentalist than a fundamentalist That kind of sums up some of the things I experienced, people have anti-fundamentalist thinking and they don't really know what they're talking about

Heintz expands her political turf as Engler's metro aide

staff writer

What happened to former Wayne County Commission vice chairwoman Susan Heintz in her first month out of office?

"A lot," Heintz laughs.

heads Engler office

For one, her political backyard now extends to Oakland County. For another, she's getting a taste of political warfare so intense it makes the often tumultuous Wayne County commission seem tame.

A three-term commissioner, Heintz resigned from her Livonia/Plymouth area seat in April to head up Gov. John Engler's metro region office.

Right from the start, she's been busy. Protesters were camped outside her door on the first day of the

They were unhappy about a lot of things, not just about the governor's budget cuts," Heintz said. "I listened to them and passed their demands along, but some of it had to deal with the Legislature and I had to tell them I have no control over that."

That was first indication that Heintz would now have to deal with constituents far different from her upscale former constituents. By early June she'd either met, or would soon meet, people representing every political viewpoint under the sun.

"The Communists let you know when they'll be coming," she said. "That's a plus."

MEETING WITH people, listening to their concerns and, perhaps, pouring oil on troubled waters, are her main duties.

Her commission stint would indicate it's a job to which she is well suited.

The board's only Republican, Heintz walked a fine line between Detroit-based commission leadership, suburban commissioners and Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara. Her outgoing, witty personality quickly helped her earn friendships, while deflecting criticism. She proved skilled as well as charming.

Tangible proof of her success: fellow commissioners twice voted her vice chairwoman of the 15-member body. At the same time, McNamara - and other Democrats - let her run unchallenged in both the 1988 and Engler budget cuts, and the new governor's hard line on state spending, has made him more than a few enemies, especially is metro Detroit. Advocates for programs ranging from welfare to state support for the arts have called Engler's tight budgeting every-recall petitions began circulating a mere four months into his term. "Obvioulsy, there are people who are going to be unhappy." Heintz said. "Everytime you do anything thing from insensitive to inhumane. At the same time, someone's going to be unhappy. Heintz added, however, that she sees greater support for the governor than Detroit newspapers or newscasts would indicate.

"THE ARTS group has been very visible, but when I'm out with constituents I hear far more praise than criticism," she said. "People seem especially pleased he's holding the line on taxes."

On the road a good portion of the time, Heintz is no stranger to many of the Wayne, Oakland and Macomb residents she meets.

She had served as director of the Western Wayne Council of Governments and an executive committee member of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments before entering county politics.

Even earlier, she was a dedicated campaign worker for her father, longtime Mount Clemens Mayor Bert Vande Vusse.

Heintz, 43, often jokes her father took her to planning commission meetings as readily as other dads took their daughters to the circus.

Her political activity increased at the University of Michigan, where she campaigned for then-Gov. George Romney. Later, she worked with U.S. Sen. Richard Lugar, during the Indiana Republican's tenure as mayor of Indianapolis.

A former Northville Township clerk and supervisor, Heintz lives in that northwestern Wayne County community with her husband Robert, a General Motors engineer, and two teenage children.

On her new job, Heintz is seen as providing a strong Detroit-area presence for an administration criticized for being too out-state oriented.

Her phone lines, Heintz said, are open.

"I haven't hired a secretary yet, so I'm fielding calls myself," Heintz said. "Sometimes, people get me, sometimes it's the machine, but I do try to get back

Natural gas boasts several advantages, students said.

"It's cheap and it's plentiful," Bussell said. "We got about 240 miles cruising range for about $7. So that's pretty good.

Oil companies consider natural gas a viable energy alternative, but it isn't likely to be used in the family

Conrad Ruiz, 7, didn't catch any fish during the Canton Challenge Festival Saturday.

But the following day he won $1,000 in the Canton Shopping Spree contest sponsored by Woodland

"We're going to take $100 to buy a VCR, and for a house, because we're going to be moving and the rest I'll save for college," said Ruiz adding furniture to the list. They're moving to Plymouth.

After some thought, Conrad included a Game Boy for his Nintendo.
"I was surprised," said Ruiz, a first grade student at Erikkson Elementary School about his feelings when he learned he won. Describing his classmates' reaction, Ruiz said: "Woooow."

His mother, Evelyn Ruiz, said: 'Mamma kind of drilled him" on what they would do with the money.

SHE ADDED that she was reluctant to let a 7-year-old go on a $1,000 shopping spree. "And we need some things," she said.

He was also among a lot of other festival winners.

In the one-on-one basketball competition, sponsored by Pat Danna, of Danna and Company Financial Services, the winners were: Aaron Rypkowski in the 11 and younger catego ry; Dan McKian in the 12-and-13year-olds group; Henry Bahrou in the 14-and-15-year olds group; Rhett Clark in the 18-35 category and Joe Van Esley in the 36 and older cate-

Drug program not in code violation

By Kevin Brown staff writer

A program that places former drug and alcohol abusers in a Plymouth neighborhood doesn't violate city codes, says an attorney representing the program.

Attorney Geoffrey Smereck said statements made to the Plymouth city commission May 21 by attorney Carol Levitte - she represents residents of Roe Street who are concerned about the placement of Personalized Nursing Light House program participants in their midst - are "a deliberate misrepresentation."

"As a trial lawyer myself, I know the legitimacy of zealous advocacy," Smereck said. "But known misstatements before the Plymouth city commission can never be acceptable."

Smereck said four witnesses in a court case regarding the program, heard in 35th District Court in April, testified that the Light House program does not conduct random room checks at its rooms at 303 Roe.

But Levitte maintained that program director Marcia Andersen can enter a participant's room at the apartments in an effort to maintain program compliance. "If they can come in with a pass key, move it (the program) somewhere where it belongs," Levitte said.

Smereck said that while the program director does have a pass key, "that does not mean they do random room checks.'

He stressed that any breath or urine tests given to program participants are given at the program office at 575 Main - not at the residential rooms at 303 Roe.

Ne program activities of any kind occur at the 303 Roe St. facility," Smereck continued

Levitte asked the commission to investigate random room and urine checks and the apartments at 303 Roe, saying such activities violate city codes which prohibit a business from locating in a residential neighborhood.

Residents of the neighborhood said in October, when the program participants moved in, that they feared for their safety and posses-

Speed bump costs resident $35 fine

By Diane Gale staff writer

Canton resident Sigmund Soborowski said a bump in the road cost him a $35 ticket.

Soborowski was on his way to breakfast at Nancy's Restaurant on Sheldon Road north of Ford Road in Harvard Square mall April 23 when the series of fateful events began.

During his travels, Soborowski, 75, said he passed a couple of speed bumps in the parking lot in front of Kroger. Not noticing that a sticker designating that he's eligible to park in the handicap zone had fallen. Soborowski went into the restaurant and ate his breakfast

A ticket lay on his windshield when he returned. It seems that the sticker fell from the dashboard when he drove over the bumps. So-borowski said he was issued the sticker in 1989 after he fractured his

"If I was wrong, I'd keep quiet and pay my fine," Soborowski said. "But think there's a little injustice there. didn't try to get away with anything.'

The ticket called for $75 fine. However, it was lowered to $35 by 35th District Magistrate Eric Col-

Soborowski said he thought when he produced his sticker for handicap drivers that the fee would be waived. Colhurst disagreed.

"IT'S a $75 ticket if you don't have a sticker or its not displayed on the dash." Colthurst said.

He lowers the fee to $35 if the sticker is not properly displayed, for

"It cost every taxpayer $35, because that's the approximate amount of money for that ticket to be issued," Colthurst said. "It's not fair to the taxpayer that it wasn't visible. If they have no sticker it's

"It's a standard thing that I do no matter who they are."

Colthurst said the misplaced sticker causes another problem. Everyone who walks by the car is noting that the car doesn't have a sticker but is parked in the handicapped

"They don't know that the person has the sticker," Colthurst said.

During the last two years, Colthurst said, he has reviewed 170 tickets issued to people who have illegally parked in handicapped zones.

Of that figure only about "two or three" didn't have a sticker, Colthurst said.

If that's any indication, Colthurst said, most drivers observe the handicap parking laws.

Jury finds man guilty in counterfeiting case

Arthur Acosta, 43, of Plymouth, has been found guilty in U.S. Federal Court of violating counterfeiting laws, according to United States Attorney Stephen J. Markman.

Acosta was found guilty by a jury on two counts of counterfeiting laws following a four-day trial before U. S. District Judge Lawrence Zatkoff

Assistant United States Attorney Patrick E. Corbett, who prosecuted the case, alleged that evidence presented established that $400,000 of counterfeit currency was manufactured in Boston, Mass

He said in November and December of 1990, $50,000-$60,000 of the currency was shipped in to Acosta in exchange for a 1968 Mercedes Benz.

After the first shipment arrived, the money surfaced in the Detroit are and in San Antonio, Texas. Later it surfaced in Saginaw. Acosta faces a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison and fine of up to $250,000 or both.

The case was investigated by the United States Secret Service offices of Saginaw, Michigan, Boston, Massachusetts and San Antonio, Texas.

Schoolcraft candidates address election issues

The following guide for School-craft College candidates vying for two six-year terms on the board has been prepared by the Livonia League of Women Voters.

The League is a non-partisan organization whose purpose is to promote participation in government. It does not support candidates.

Voters will elect three trustees on Monday, June 10.

Michael W. Burley, 51, of Spinning Wheel Drive in Canton Township, business teacher at Northville High School. He also is a part-time instructor in real estate and building contractors licensing law.

He holds a bachelor's of science degree from Lawrence Technological University and master's from Eastern Michigan University. He finished course work for a doctorate at the University of Michigan. He has been a professional educator for more than 25 years with experience from preschool to graduate school. He has builder's and real estate broker's licenses.

No, we do not need a new needs assessment. A comprehensive needs study was done just before President McDowell was hired. This has been update on a continual basis. Election

Millage, candidates endorsed

N MONDAY'S ELECTION voters should approve the 17.74-mill property tax renewal request and vote for newcomers Bobbie Cleary and Deborah Lynch for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

On the property tax renewal, the Observer supports it because it represents $35 million in revenue, about half of the district's operating budget. Without it, the school district would be in shamples.

Voters should support it because the schools could have asked for an additional 4 mills. However, the board is letting them expire because it promised that to voters two years ago when the levy was approved.

THE RACE for Plymouth-Canton school board has turned ugly, just as it did last year. For some reason, dirty politics seem to stem more from school board races than from other races.

This week, just a few days before the election, charges were leveled against Lynch that she didn't pay her property taxes on her Canton home.

The charges are right, but they're wrong. Lynch's husband is a developer who pays property taxes on several parcels in Canton Township. All the taxes on all the parcels aren't paid up to date. Lynch isn't listed as the owner of the property.

We happen to think that husbands and wives can and do act independently of each other. Neither should be held responsible for the other. To do so would be sexist.

The charge against Cleary is that she is teaching her 6-year-old child at home. The charge is being made as though it was a secret. It's no secret, several weeks ago the Observer wrote about it. Also, it's perfectly legal.

WE FIND THE charges disturbing partly because while both are true to some degree, they have nothing to do with the ability of either woman to serve on the school board.

The conclusion that critics would want us to draw from the charges is that because Lynch's husband is in arrears on property taxes, she shouldn't be able to make any decisions on where money from the Plymouth-Canton schools is spent. That's silly.

The conclusion about Cleary is that because she's at this time teaching her child at home, she shouldn't be in a position to make decisions about education. If it were a requirement that a school board candidates have children in the schools, then most of the board members wouldn't be

Let's face it. The real reason that the charges against the two women appeared is that they're not members of the school-lovers club, a club that in Plymouth-Canton tends to be male only. Lynch and Cleary aren't insiders. And that's why we endorsed them.

Similar dirty-tactics were used last year against Carl Battishill. He was elected to the board and has made a fine contribution.

Schools are facing tremendous pressures to change, to adapt to the computer era and to train youngsters for jobs that don't even exist at this point. There's also a move away from the rote techniques of learning.

We think Lynch and Cleary will take tough looks at the changes that are being made.

In the Schoolcraft College Board race, the Observer recommends Ronaele Bowman, Michael Burley and Jeanne Stempien.

IN THE SCHOOLCRAFT race, we're recommending voters choose Bowman for the fouryear board seat because she has the broadest, most refreshing perspective in the field and promises to keep a close eye on Schoolcraft programs to make sure they are effective.

We favor retaining incumbents Burley and Stempien in the race for two six-year seats.

Burley impressed us with his fresh enthusiasm, after 12 years on the board. Stempien impressed with her thoughtful approach to Schoolcraft issues.

Education is an important issue in the Plymouth, Canton area. But some changes are needed.

Budget could cause state payment delay

ENDANGERED SPECIES

ACCORDING TO topsiders in Gov. John Engler's administration, Michigan faces the biggest financial crisis since the famous "payless paydays" of the 1950s.

Over the weekend, the governor himself announced that an unexpected $234 million tax collection shortfall could drive the projected yearend deficit as high as $664 million.

Budget director Patricia Woodworth said, "The problem is really going to get to a crunch at the end of the year, where we may not have the cash to pay our bills." She would not rule out payless paydays for state employees.

And Treasurer Doug Roberts told me the situation is already tough. In an interview last week, he said, "Right now we're close to not having enough cash to pay our bills."

IT IS SELDOM sheer coincidence when three top hitters in an administration make a big point of predicting gloom and doom.

Engler repeatedly blames the Democratic-controlled House of Representatives for the budget mess. "The failure (of the House) to act threatens financial chaos," he said last weekend.

House Democrats, of course, blame the governor for bypassing the Legislature in unilaterally setting the state's budget when he convened the seldom-used State Administrative Board to ram through budget cuts without a legislative vote. Whether that's legal is still in the

But there is no doubt that Engler has brought relations between himself and Democrats in the Legisla'I did it because the cost of interest paid or foregone was less than the political cost of seeing Michigan's credit rating downgraded.'

ture to rock bottom. Former Gov. James Blanchard once seriously considered using the Ad Board maneuver during a crisis with the Republican-controlled Senate, but backed off.

That appears to be just what Engler now faces.

ON TOP OF this very political situation-came a little noticed aspect of state Treasurer Roberts' decision last month to defer for a month more than $300 million in state cash payments due to cities, school districts, universities and community colleges.

All plan their cash flows assuming the state will pay its obligations in a timely fashion. When the state is late, local units and colleges must either take the cash out of reserves or borrow.

That costs time, aggravation and money. Just how much money is unclear. Most experts I talked with said that if they had to borrow, 5 percent was a reasonable rate for tax-exempts. So if only one-quarter of the $300 million must be borrowed for one month, interest costs would total $312,000.

WHY FORCE local units and colleges to borrow — especially when the usual pattern for a state short of cash is to issue "tax anticipation notes" and maintain the cash flow?

I asked Roberts that question. He's a longtime Lansing hand, smart and a straight shooter. His answer was direct:

"I did it because the cost of interest paid or foregone was less than the political cost of seeing Michigan's credit rating downgraded." Michigan's current Standard & Poor credit rating, achieved during the Blanchard administration, is AA.

The state is now on a "credit watch," which means there is risk the rating could be downgraded.
What Roberts said is that it would be politically embarrassing to the Engler administration to have Michigan's credit rating cut, especially when getting a good rating was one of Blanchard's boasts.

It's sad that the cost to Michigan taxpayers of maintaining an admin-

Tell legislators

Consent bill is hurdle, not help

HETHER YOU ARE pro-choice or pro-life, you should be against the so-called "informed consent" bill.

The bill, which the Michigan Senate last week passed 22-12, is different from the ever-present chip, chip, chipping away at the ability of women to choose abortion, such as the Michigan laws which cut off Medicaid abortion

This is an outright flail, which misses its mark, and instead insults the decision-making ability of women and the professionalism of doctors in our state.

Senate Bill 141 sets up a series of hurdles for funds and require parental consent.

women and their doctors to jump over before an abortion procedure can be performed.

It states that a woman be given specific abortion information by a doctor, but then wait 24 hours before the procedure could be performed.

This period would give her, according to the bill, "an opportunity to reflect on her decision and to seek counsel of family and friends in making her decision."

That's as if she hasn't debated this question long and hard to reach this point.

AND A DOCTOR would have to detail to her:

• A long list of possible physical complications, including infection, sterility and death.

"Psychological effects," including depression, guilt and sleep disturbance.
Prenatal and adoption services available if she chooses to bear and keep the child.

This is an outright flail, which insults the decision-making ability of women and the professionalism of doctors in our state. . . It is the responsibility of us all to contact our legislators, urging them to protect the right of a confidential and unintrusive doctor/patient relationship.

- Public mental health services if she chooses abortion.
- A photograph and description of a fetus approximately the age of her fetus.
- How to obtain pregnancy prevention information.

The woman would have to sign a statement permitting the abortion, stating how many weeks pregnant she is, and acknowledging the doctor has given her the required information.

IT'S IMPORTANT to note that the Senate's only physician, who has been strongly pro-life, voted against this bill, as did several other pro-life senators.

"My voting record in five years is strongly pro-life," Sen. John Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, said. "It (informed consent) overextends the bounds of the Legislature."

Requiring a doctor to show a woman pictures of the fetus the age of her own "really impinges on the doctor-patient relationship," Schwarz said.

And he objected that: "There's no (other) procedure where we have a 24-hour waiting period. To ask for 24 hours goes against accepted medical practice."

If anything, the waiting period could cause guilt and anxiety in an otherwise emotionally stable woman.

It is now up to the House to rescue the Michigan Legislature from an obvious abuse of power.

And it is the responsibility of us all to contact our legislators, urging them to protect the right of a confidential and unintrusive doctor/patient relationship.

If this bill is allowed to become law, its constitutionality should be challenged by thinking people throughout the state.

LINDA CONFLITTI, who turned 18 during her courtroom trial, said she passed her hand containing an LSD tablet over her teacher's coffee cup but didn't dispense it.

Her fellow students — those who took part in the scenario and those who witnessed it — in essence testified that Conflitti could have been the only one to drug teacher Robert Heffernan's coffee.

Hospital tests confirm the presence of LSD in Heffernan's system and experts said the time of the alleged drugging directly correlates with the time it would take to produce the hallucinogenic effects he experienced.

It makes no difference whether or not Heffernan was taking another drug at the time, whether he had control of his classroom or not, even whether or not he has milked his recovery, as Conflitti's lawyer has painted, by collecting his pay but not returning to teaching.

He was drugged by someone that's illegal.

But six months after the incident in a classroom at Troy Athens High School, Oakland County Circuit Judge Deborah Tyner was forced to declare a mistrial.

THE JURY HAD been in chaos nearly from the beginning — when one member asked the judge to make his decision for him. Jurors asked to review testimony, but were denied. Late in their deliberations, they asked Tyner for a definition of

Judith Doner Berne

"reasonable doubt" and to clarify other routine jury instructions. After 36½ hours of deliberation, they came up empty.

Two jurors selected to talk to reporters following the mistrial advised that when another jury is picked, attorneys should focus more on asking potential jurors if they are willing to find such a young woman guilty, provided the evidence leads them in that direction.

Some would say — although not the Troy teachers union — that young Linda Conflitti has already suffered enough. She is suspended from school in her senior year and will not graduate. Although her family and some close friends have stood by, she is considered guilty by most of her peers. Her name has become a household word — in a negative sense. Her family has gone into debt to pay for her defense.

BUT IT IS important that today's kids — rich and poor, suburban and city — know that they must suffer the consequences of their actions. That they will not get off when a dangerous joke is carried too far.

And that most certainly goes for those who may have participated by providing the drug and diverting Heffernan's attention.

Two death threats to Heffernan are appalling. He, remember, was the victim. Still, if Conflitti reverses her ground and requests to be sentenced as a youthful offender, or if another trial is held and she is convicted, most would agree jail is not a solution.

Hours and hours of community service is.

Certainly Linda Conflitti and Robert Heffernan will never be the same after this experience, no matter how it ends.

And, bottom line is that at this point only she knows whether she has been the fallguy or has so compounded her misdeed that she is willing to take her family down with her.

from our readers

Cleary has done her homework

I find myself in agreement with this paper's editorial position in support of Bobbie Cleary for scho board. She is running for the right reasons and has done her homework.

Ms. Cleary's criticisms of the whole language reading program and the developmentally based classroom are just that and no more. Unlike the parent who wrote in, I did not read or hear Ms. Cleary say she was willing to "scrap a viable learning approach for implementation

Ms. Cleary's approach is more reasonable than that. Why isn't it known that our class sizes are too high for a successful developmental program? Why is phonics a poor stepchild to look-say (memorizing words) when we have to read phonetically to use a dictionary, telephone book, card file or Rolodex?

We have a choice to make. Right now we are tying our teacher's and children's hands behind their backs and expecting them to succeed anyway. The first choice is to vote yes for Bobbie Cleary.

Cleary wants to get back to the basics

It is refreshing to have a school board candidate like Bobbie Cleary who has definite convictions about education.

It seems that, starting with modular scheduling, the Plymouth Canton Schools have embarked on a series of ventures that have resulted in failure or limited success at best.

We think that Bobbie Cleary's desire to emphasize basic academic instruction, particularly reading, should provide a badly needed stabilizing force in the system. We are also sure that her concerns will cause her to listen to and evaluate parental complaints.

Cleary letter a speech

To the editor:

I am concerned that you would let Bobbie Cleary use this column as a campaign platform. Her letter to the editor was not a letter but rather a campaign speech. I hope you will af-ford equal space to the other school board candidates

In her letter, Mrs. Cleary espouses her critical view of the whole lan guage program. Of course, she has no first-hand knowledge of this program because she has chosen to home school her kindergartner this year. I can't accept the testimonies of Bobbie Cleary's relatives and friends as authoritative or unbiased.

I find it offensive that she would expect the Plymouth Canton community to find her an acceptable candidate for the school board. We have hundreds of involved parents, volunteers and P.T.O. members working in the classroom, the school and the district to effect positive educational experiences on a daily basis. She has chosen to turn her back on the system and home school. Now, she decides to come in at board level and tell the educational community how to run the program. I find Mrs. Cleary uninvolved and un-

Cleary not suited for school board

I was dismayed after reading your endorsement for the June 10 Plymouth Canton School Board election Realizing you have the right to back any candidates you wish, I still question the judgment of endorsing Ms. Bobbie Cleary, especially if you had read the article about her in your very newspaper.

Ms. Cleary admitted that she had her own child in a home school and her rose-colored idea of having the teacher/student ratio of one to one would be wonderful, but this rationale may not be in the best interest of our public school system. You stated that the two candidates you endorsed had children. So do the incumbents Roland Thomas and Dean

Over the weekend, I heard some disturbing information about a candidate running for a School Board Seat in the Plymouth/Canton elections June 10. Bobbi Cleary admits to educating her child at home and intends to use a private school (Plymouth Christian Academy) instead of Plymouth-Canton Public Schools in the near future. There is nothing wrong with alternative education, but I object to that same person running for a board seat to decide how other children will be educated or how I should be taxed or where my tax dollars will

I want leadership from people who have or have had children in our school system and know how it works from first-hand experience, and therefore what and where improvements are needed. I support two candidates running for re-election. Dean Swartzwelter and Roland Thomas. They have both served us well and have had children in the

Attention all golfers:

Unless you're a pro golfer, please beware of Salem Hills Golf Course. I made the unfortunate choice to golf there today, May 17, with a friend from Farmington Hills. We were paired up with a delightful coupl from West Bloomfield who were celebrating their fifth wedding anniversary. Three of the four of us were out for the first time this year.

Everything went well until we were half way through the third hole which we waited on for the foursome ahead of us to complete). We noticed this lady watching us as we proceded to the fourth hole. She asked us to speed up our game, we were holding up other people. Then she continued riding with us until the sixth hole. At the fifth hole there was time table statement which we were within the range

Then at the sixth hole this women ranger, really badgered us for being behind. We explained to her that we were within their time frame, we had waited on the third hole and her constant watchful eye was drastically hindering our game.

In no uncertain terms she said to us, ignore the time sign and that if we didn't hurry and abide by her rules "We could pick up our things and return to the club house.

We continued to play since we had paid to do so. Their time schedule for nine hole foursome is approximately two and a half hours. We completed our nine hole game in two hours and fifteen minutes. Never to return to golf again at Salem Hills Golf

Bobbie Cleary is running for school board just when we need her. More and more people are becoming aware that our schools in recent years are not stressing academics as they used to, and improving academics is foremost on Bobbie Cleary's mind. Judge was a man for the people

THE GUARD USHERING and Paul wasn't charging anything Monday. "For Judge Brennan, everything is on the house," he said.

By the hundreds they filed in; members of the judiciary, senators, doctors, lawyers, coaches, clergy men and women, celebrities-about town and down-and-outers.

Former state Court of Appeals Judge Vincent Brennan, who died May 30 of a blood disease at 61, was saluted at a funeral Mass said by seven priests and attended by so many friends they spilled out onto Jefferson Avenue

The veteran Detroit lawyer was eulogized by his friend and fellow jurist Dan Curran of Birmingham.

"VINCE WAS a good man, a joyful man, a loving man, a loving son, husband, father, friend. What more could you ask of a man?" asked Curran. "I never remember an instance, no matter how serious the discussion, where he didn't leave you with a smile on your face.

Noting that Brennan once considered becoming a priest, Curran said, 'If Vince had gone on he would have been a priest among priests; he chose rather to become a priest among men. He counseled, he advised, more importantly, he listened. I honestly believe he heard more confessions in his lifetime than some priests."

About the only time Brennan asked for help was when we was running for office. "Even then he rarely asked; rather, you became involved because you knew that by helping Vince, you were helping all the people who he in turn helped. It was a warm feeling," Curran said.

For more than 30 Christmases, the white-haired, blue-eyed Brennan was Santa Claus at Holy Trinity Church and the Detroit Press Club. He served on the board of St. Francis Home for Boys, Boys & Girls Clubs of Michigan, and Sacred Heart Rehabilitation Center.

"WHAT LESSON was Vince trying to tell us with his life and his untimely passing? It was a simple lesson - be compassionate; help one another; nothing is for sure; we are all subject to God's will," said Cur-

U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Judge James Ryan of Redford Township said the richness of Brennan's personality "was that his was a personal philosophy of inclusion. He was able to identify in some way or other with everyone, and to fold them into his life." That included blacks who were struggling, people who were broke and drunks.

"It wasn't just sociological; the empathy went to his bones," said Ryan. "He always struck me as being committed to the idea that you shouldn't get too fancy; don't rise above your station. You're lucky as hell to be where you are, because our Irish parents fought and sacrificed to get us here." Redford Township District Judge John Dillon said, "After the last Irish Lawyers' meeting that Vince attended, we got together and had a long discussion. I'll always cherish those moments I had with Vince. I never met a man who knew more people or had more friends than Vince Brennan. The standing-room-only crowd at his funeral attested to that."

BRENNAN WAS chief judge pro tem for the Michigan Court of Appeals, where he served for 17 years until 1986 when he entered private practice. A graduate of the University of Detroit and the Detroit College of Law, Brennan also was chief judge in Recorder's Court, serving from 1964-68.

He is survived by his wife, Karen; sons Vincent and Patrick; daughters Julie Dinan and Sarah; two grandsons; his father, Martin; five brothers and a sister.

Stadium issue soon to rest with voters

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Announcement that a new stadium, not renovation, would be sought to keep the Detroit Tigers in the city, is the "opening deal in a high stakes poker game," according to one county commission-

"This is a high stakes card game, no doubt," said commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, whose district includes Canton Township. "And the voters hold the trump

While that may be the case, few Wayne County voters are right now calling in their bets.

Voters will decide, perhaps as soon as this fall, on a bond issue of up to $80 million to build a new baseball stadium. They may also decide upon a competing proposal being put forth by the Tiger Stadium Fan Club, a group dedicated to preserving the existing stadium.

Calling it the less expensive alternative in the long run, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara announced Wednesday the county would seek a new Detroit stadium site.

Though the stadium has been issue number one for McNamara, loother things.

Amann said the stadium "came up a few times" when he was on the campaign trail earlier this spring in Canton and other western Wayne cities and towns. What I was hearing was that people were relieved it wasn't going to be in their communities," Amann said. While the county will ask voters to issue stadium bonds, Tiger Stadium Fan Club members said they would soon begin circulating petitions for their own ballot issue.

"We want to give people the chance to decide on renovation, too," said fan club member William Dow of Birmingham. "All the polls we've seen indicate the people prefer renovation."

Taxes are seen as the biggest issue for voters. McNamara's annoucement included information the Tigers would put forth some of their own money to build the new ballpark.

The ballclub has "agreed in principle" to staying in Detroit and paying for at least a portion of the stadium, deputy county executive Michael Duggan said. But the county has "a long way to go," Duggan added, in completing negotiations on how and how much the Tigers would pay.

Rocks try again for elusive regional win

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Eric Nielson plays third base and pitches for the Rocks, who meet regional tournament host Wyandotte in their next game.

staff writer

For a change, Plymouth Salem won't play a Western Lakes Activities Association baseball team in the first game of a regional tournament Saturday.

Salem coach John Gravlin is hoping it's a good omen for the Rocks, who are 23-6 and ranked No. 6 in

"I guess you'd have to say it is, looking at the last three times,"

Gravlin said. While the Rocks have an impressive record for success at the end of the season, winning district championships in four of the last five years, that hasn't been extended to include their regional appearances.

Salem lost in the first round - all by one-run margins — to Farmington in 1990, Westland John Glenn in 1988 and Livonia Franklin in 1987.

TO HELP the Rocks break that negative trend, Gravlin is emphasizing that his team stay focused. That's the key word this week.

Gravlin thinks his previous teams, as good as they were, lost some of their focus when they got to the regional tournament. The reasons include graduation events and players being satisfied with winning a district title.

Gravlin doesn't think those pitfalls will affect this year's team, which plays host Wyandotte Roosevelt at 12:30 p.m. Redford Catholic Central faces top-ranked Dearborn at 10 a.m., and the final is scheduled for 3

"This team will dedicate itself the rest of the way, which gives me a good feeling," Gravlin said. "They would rather play baseball and play at this tournament than anything isfied with the outcome Saturday."

To see that Salem reaches the regional final for the first time since 1983 when they eventually lost to champion West Bloomfield in the state semifinals, Gravlin will go with his ace pitcher in the opener.

SENIOR RIGHT-hander Scott Rodgers is 11-2 with a 0.94 earned run average, and he has 99 strikeouts in 661/2 innings. He issued 10 of his 43 walks in Salem's district win Salurday over No. 2 John Glenn in which he threw a one-hitter.

"He hasn't done that all year, but maybe that's the way you beat (power-hitting) John Glenn," Gravlin

Jeff Belisle has established himself as the No. 2 pitcher, especially after he tossed a two-hitter to help Salem beat Plymouth Canton 3-1 in the district final. He is 4-0 with 40 strikeouts and 12 walks in 371/3 inn-

"At the midway point, we started to think about the time we would need a one-two punch and who it would be," Gravlin said. "Belisle stepped right up and there was no doubt about it."

The Rocks also have Chris Tomas. who is 3-1, and Eric Nielson, who doesn't have a decision but has three saves and the most appearances of any pitcher (14).

Salem's top hitters for average are catcher Scott Niemiec (.397), shortstop Ed Gundry (.373), Rodgers (370), first baseman Tom Davey (.359) and Belisle (.340). Niemiec has secred a team-high 26 runs, and Rodgers and Gundry lead in RBI (23) and home runs (4), respectively.

RODGERS ALSO has three homers and Gundry 15 RBI. Davey and Niemiec have two dingers each and 19 and 16 RBI, respectively.

Second baseman Scott Bright has hit three homers and right fielder Kevin Craggs two. Salem's lineup also includes Nielson at third base, Jeff Coleman (.309) in center field and either Dan Hutchinson or Rodgers in the outfield.

'This year we don't have the .400plus hitters, but we have a more solid lineup from top to bottom," Gravlin said. "We're sharing the load, and that makes us a better team.

baseball

"I think our lineup can score runs against anybody's pitching. When you're focused, you don't make defensive mistakes, you run the bases well and you hit in the clutch."

The Rocks have been focused all season and eager for a chance to redeem last year's regional loss, according to Gravlin.

Unlike last year when Salem blossomed late in the season and knocked off favored Ypsilanti in the district, the Rocks entered the '91 campaign already recognized as one of the finer ballclubs in the state.

"WE'VE BEEN a little different team this year as far as being focused and playing well," Gravlin said. "When it's an important moment, this team is going to be "Some key players had the feeling last year (of being close to winning a regional). All season they've wanted to get back to the regional and prove themselves.'

The Rocks hope this is their year. Some think this team is the best in Gravlin's eight years as coach, including Gravlin.

"We've had tremendously talented players in the past, guys who are Division I players," he said, "but we never had a lineup I felt so confident about from top to bottom.

"When you get this far, you don't want it to end. Like Scott Rodgers had to get the monkey off his back (by beating Glenn for the first time), I guess I'll have to do the same thing and win a regional. I hope this is the weekend."

Canton's Benedict ends with record-setting toss

Plymouth Canton senior Dean Benedict's finale in his high school athletic career included a school record and third-place finish in the discus Saturday at the Class A trackand-field championships.

Benedict improved with each succeeding throw in the competition and eventually threw a record 165-7, more than 11 feet better than his previous record toss.

He won the regional at Novi and broke the record (150-41/2) set by Jerry French in 1988 with a throw of

"He's a big-meet athlete," Canton coach Bob Richardson said. "The big thing was the mental aspect of the competition and relaxing, because he has the technique, the power and the speed. He set his goal, and he knew what he had to do to be successful."

Grandville junior Brett Organek won the discus competition with an amazing throw of 185-0.

Plymouth Salem sophomore Tonya Wheeler finished fifth in the girls 400-meter dash at Houseman Field, running a career-best 58.9 and getting closer to Jackie Croce's school record of 57.6 set in 1975.

'The four girls ahead of her are

Plymouth Canton's 3,200 relay team placed third in the state, and sophomore Stephanie Gray finished in a five-way tie for seventh place in the high jump at 5 feet.

JUNIOR AMY Smith, freshman Lana Boroditsch, sophomore Christie Saffron and junior Kim Gudeth set a Canton record with a time of 9:43.5 in the 3,200 relay.

"This was a very competitive group of individuals," Canton coach George Przygodski said. "Their hard work, dedication and competitive spirit was rewarded with all-state honors.

Salem junior Theresa Giacherio was 11th in the 300 hurdles with a 47.5 time "She ran in the 47s the last three

The Class A tennis championships

lasted most of the day Saturday, and it must have seemed like Paul Bozyk's first match as Redford Catholic Central's No. 1 singles player took at least half that long. For the record, it was a 31/2 hour marathon.

Bozyk won the match, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5, over East Lansing's Matt Morgan, but he wasn't thrilled about taking that long to advance to the second round. The match started at 8 a.m. and that's bad news for Bozyk, whose nagging groin injury doesn't usually allow him to start feeling better until the afternoon. "It hurts the most in the morning." said Bozyk, who managed to reach the semifinals before losing. "It takes a little bit of walking and stretching until it starts feeling good in the afternoon. With an 8 o'clock match against one of the state's better players, you can't baby it as "He likes to hit a lot of balls corner to corner which meant a lot of tennis

movement for me."

CC coach Bob Miller appreciated Bozyk's effort. By winning his first and second-round matches, Bozyk earned two points for the Shamrocks, who took second in the team standings with 21 points, two ahead of third-place Okemos.

BOZYK DEFEATED Birmingham Brother Rice's Tom Herb, 6-4, 6-3, before losing to eventual No. 1 champion, Peter Pugztai (Ann Arbor Pioneer), 1-6, 4-6, in the semifinal.

"The two extra points from Bozyk made a difference," Miller said.

All four of CC's singles players won two matches each, while two doubles flights reached the finals before losing. Pioneer won four flights to score 31 points and win its second consecutive championship.

"I was very proud of the fact we finished second," Miller said. "It was a really big accomplishment. I had hoped we'd be close to Pioneer but they really raised it up a level and played very well. We all knew going in if they played to their level they'd be very tough to beat." The doubles players provided the most anxious moments for CC as both its second and third teams lost in the finals. CC's No. 2 team of Chris Matson and Dave Gallagher won three matches before losing to Okemos' Ming Chien and Andy Dhaliwal, 1-6, 2-6.

The No. 3 team of Bill Shade and Dave Lombardi also lost in the final, by an even more agonizing score of 4-6, 6-7 (7-0 tiebreaker), to Pioneer's James Cho and Dave Park.

The Shamrocks had a 6-5 lead in games in the second set and the serve, but allowed the Pioneer team to tie it and win the tiebreaker and the match. Shade and Lombardi beat a team from Okemos in the semis to advance to the final.

Caesars grabs LCBL twinbill

Redford Little Caesars swept a doubleheader Sunday from Fieger & Fieger, 6-2 and 9-4, to improve its Livonia Collegiate Baseball League record to 4-1.

The twinbill was played at Livonia's Ford Field.

In the first game, winning pitcher Eric Stanczak (University of Detroit) allowed seven Fieger & Fieger hits, but walked only two and struck out five. Caesars opened up a 6-9 lead after three innings and the only runs against Stanczak came in the fourth on a two-run home run by Fieger & Fieger's Bill Flohr.

Mike Berrios drove home three runs for Caesars and Jeff Miller was 2-for-4 to pace the team's five-hit attack. The loss went to Fieger & Fieger's Brent Haywood.

In Game 2, Rich Roy overcame wildness (nine walks) and lasted five innings to earn the win. Fieger and Fieger collected only two hits off the three Caesars' pitchers, Roy, Sean Henkel and Lou McKaig.

CC meets No. 1 squad

staff writer

The assignment facing Redford Catholic Central's baseball team is difficult, to say the least. The Shamrocks, winner's of last Saturday's Class A Southfield district, must tackle the state's No. 1-ranked team, Dearborn, in the first round of Saturday's regional at Wyandotte's Me-morial Field (10 a.m. game time).

Even if they survive that challenge, chances are they'll have to go against Plymouth Salem in the final (Salem plays Wyandotte Roosevelt in the other regional semi). The Rocks (22-6) emerged as champs in the toughest district in Class A, beat-ing Westland John Glenn and Plymouth Canton to claim their fourth title in five years.

No, there's nothing easy about Saturday's schedule.

Then again, CC hasn't exactly been rolling over and playing dead the past few weeks. The Shamrocks have knocked off seven-straight opponents to improve to 20-13.

"YEAH, WE'VE won seven in a

baseball

row," said coach John Salter. "We've been playing much better. Except for the first game Saturday, our defense has been much better.

Until their recent streak, inconsistency had ruled the Shamrocks' seaon — particularly on defense. We've been scoring runs," said Salter, noting his team's six-runs-agame average.

And the pitching has been pretty good. Righthanded junior Scott Kap-la is the ace of the staff; he'll be on the mound against Dearborn. Kapla is 8-3 this season with a 1.54 earned run average. In 68 innings, he's walked 26 and struck out 75.

'He's a control pitcher, and he has pretty good velocity," said Salter. Behind Kapla are Bob Kummer, another righthanded junior, and senior righthander Steve Ross. Salter said he was undecided which would start the regional championship game, should CC get past Dearborn.

formidable task. The Pioneers defeated CC 4-1 earlier this season and they feature a senior squad with a pair of eight-game winners on their pitching staff. They bring a 25-2 record into the regional. For CC, which struggled through the Catholic League season (posting a 10-10 mark), the keys to victory are simple. As Salter outlined We've got to play better defense.

defense is No. 1." No. 2 is Kapla, because pitching usually dominates in the state tournament. "Especially in the first game," said Salter. "Everyone throws their best pitcher.

We made 10 errors last Saturday, so

"(Kapla) is one of the keys. If he's on, we've got a chance."

The third key is something CC must avoid: the big inning. "We seem to have one bad inning every game,"

It's apparent what the Shamrocks must do to prevail - avoid mistakes. The further a team advances in the state tournament, the harder it is to overcome them.

Wyandotte Roosevelt has never won a regional baseball title, but the Bears will have to go through Plymouth Salem if they are to accomplish it this year. The Bears, who won their first district title since the middle of the last decade, will play the No. 6-ranked Rocks at 12:30 p.m. Saturday in the Class A tournament at Wyandotte.

Coach Dave Lange's team finished fourth in the Wolverine A Conference with a 6-8 record and is 15-9 overall, but the Bears have done a turnaround late in the season.

'We've had a few kids who really made a difference," Lange said. Junior shortstop Steve Jaciuk missed the first half of the season big impact since his return.

"We thought he would be out the whole year," Lange said. "He com-pletely turned the defense around." IN ADDITION, junior catcher Scott Brewer transferred from Lincoln Park at midseason and is hitting 400, and the move of senior Wally Johnson from the outfield to third base solidified the defense. "And we had a lot of young kids who, by the time the season was half over, had learned their lessons,' Lange said. "They're not making the mistakes they did early in the sea-

Johnson, who is hitting .411 and hit two homers against previously top-ranked Southgate, and senior first baseman Kevin Steed, who has a .320 average despite missing time with a sprained ankle, have been the offensive leaders along with Brewer.

They have pretty much carried us all through the season," Lange said. "When one happens to be down, the others seem to pick us up."

Senior right-hander Keith Lakos is the ace of the pitching staff with a 7-2 record and 63 strikeouts in 68%

Sophomore right-hander Joel Hillebrand is 3-2 and senior left-hander Scott Haidy 4-2. Lakos usually pitches against the better opposition while Haidy has not faced the tougher teams on the Wyandotte schedule.

Back to singles action, No. 2 Paul Thieme received a first-round bye and then beat Rochester Adams' Ed Pasternak in the second round, 6-3. 6-0. He also beat Saginaw Heritage's Brandon Grimm, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5, before losing in the semis to rival Geoff Prentice, of Rice, 2-6, 1-6.

No. 3 Scott Hazlett defeated Clio's Todd Quiring, 3-6, 6-1, 6-3, and Troy's Brian Stockard, 6-3, 6-3. Grosse Pointe South's Matt Smucker ousted Hazlett in the semi, 6-7, 6-3, Miller, the first-year coach, looks forward already to next year despite having to find replacements for all four of his singles players. The doubles group is dominated by the junior class and will return mostly intact.

"Next year it'll be tough for us, singles wise," Miller said. "I doubt if we'll be quite as strong as this year. But we have a real strong core of doubles players and I look for us to be in the top 10, maybe even as high as the top five of six teams in the state.'

Drenched dame Change of scene in 'South Pacific'

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

HEN MARIN Mazzie, star of the Birmingham Theatre production of 'South Pacific," washes that man right out of her hair, the musical number is presented in a different way than in the original

Mary Martin, with a cropped, curly hairdo, washed her hair right on stage, whereas Mazzie as Ensign Nellie Forbush is surprised by the other nurses, who pour buckets of water on her shoulder-length hair as a prank.

"I get drenched," she said in a recent interview. "I finish the scene I sing 'Wonderful Guy' — with it wet." She pulls her hair back for a party scene that follows, and by Act II, it's all dried.

She didn't think it was necessary to have short hair to do the show, which was put together for the month-long Birmingham Theatre run, continuing through Sunday, June 16. Actually, "I'm trying to grow it a little longer," Mazzie said.

THE FRIENDLY actress is a pretty, buxom blonde, who has a flawless complexion and wholesome appearance, well suited to the role of the nurse from Little Rock, Ark.

"I like her energy and her optimism," she said, of the character she portrays. "On the South Pacific island in 1941, it looks like the Japanese are going to win the war. She remains very optimistic and hope-

Mazzie had never seen a production of "South Pacific" on stage (the original Broadway production opened in 1949). "After I got the role, I got a tape of the movie. It's not a fabulous film. I'm coming to it pretty fresh," she said, and added that director Peter Lawrence had never seen the musical before either.

"We've cut some of the show, to tighten it up," she mentioned, but pointed out that nothing important has been taken out.

Besides "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair," Mazzie's

big musical numbers include "I'm in Love with a Wonderful Guy," when Emile de Becque, the French planter played by Ken Parks, asks her to marry him;" "Cock-Eyed Optimist;" and "Honey Bun," the comedy number she sings in an oversize sailor suit. "It's a great deal of fun," she said of the "Honey Bun" routine.

BEING CAST as Nellie was a natural. "A lot of people always told me I was perfect for the part," Mazzie said. "I was offered it last fall (in another production) but didn't want to leave town (she lives in midtown Manhattan) at the time."

Originally a Midwesterner, Mazzie said she is from Illinois and went to school at Western Michigan University. Her parents live in Grand Rap-

Mazzie's musical-theater career has progressed rapidly, her first Broadway role being Mary Jane Wilkes in "Big River." She played Rapunzel and appeared as the Witch and Cinderella in "Into the Woods." Of the Witch who is transformed, a role she understudied, Mazzie said, "She gives up her powers to get back her beauty. I usually play ingenueish roles. It was fun to get my hands on a darker person."

Other characters Mazzie has played include Beth in "Merrily We Roll Along" at Arena Stage and the LaJolla Playhouse; Boopsie in the national tour of "Doonesbury," Kitty Verdun in "Where's Charley?" Off-Broadway, and Sarah Brown in "Guys and Dolls" at the Denver Cen-

IRS rule: anti-drug tool or a business boomerang?

Plymouth's Don Massey Cadillac scame the biggest Cadillac dealer in the country by more or less driv-ing Cadillac crasy. While Cadillac was spending money on commer-cials filmed on horse farms and at the ballet, Massey promised "wall to wall Cadillacs out here. We're rheeling and we're dealing."
Hardly the kind of stuff to boost

Cadillac's image as an elite status symbol, but judging from his suc-cess, a lot closer to Cadillac's real bread-and-butter customers, mainly ard-scrabble types who were beginning to see some success, and wanted a car that proved it.

Massey's big-volume dealership, which also sells Rolls Royce and Sterling cars, today is one of a signif-icant number of dealerships that ave run afoul of an IRS regulation originally aimed at Miami banks laundering big-scale drug money, which today seems to be seroing in on car retailers.

The regulation requires any cash transaction of $10,000 or more be reported to the IRS, thus presum creating a record of the types who tend to deal in large amounts of cash in paper bags.

THE 20 AGENTS who raided Massey Cadillac last week are part of a nationwide program of enforcement of cash reporting regulations. Mas-sey says he has complied with all such laws, and the investigation will prove him innocent. The IRS says that a complete investigation could take months.

One would expect the IRS interest in all this to be mainly that income taxes get paid on the cash. However, the charges against auto dealerships have included money laundering as well as cash reporting violations.

According to Automotive News, the IRS conducted a statewide sweep of 29 dealerships in Massachusetts last May, and found unreported cash transactions at 22 of them - which averages out to about three per deal-

At first glance, the IRS regulation seems a straightforward enough effort at putting pressure on various illicit parties, although when it was first enacted, $10,000 was a fairly large amount of money and rarely involved simple retail transactions

Apparently, the amount was originally selected to concentrate on large deposits landing in banks. Of course, the average drug dealer quickly limited his deposits to $9,999, thus easing his paperwork. And, like many well-intentioned laws, the impact of the effort to con-trol money-laundering quickly had

TODAY, ALMOST any car sold fits the category — and cars still are among the few retail products that cost $10,000 or more in a single transaction, hence the concentration on car dealerships. Gold chains, beepers, or LA Gear tennis shoes rarely hit the required amount.

That there is something sinister about paying cash may come as a surprise to the operator of the average grocery store, liquor store, bar or hamburger stand. It may also come as a surprise that making cash posits in excess of $10,000 potentially can get you lumped with a list of potential drug dealers.

While the principle of tracing large cash transactions may well be an important part of the war on drug trafficking, some critics may ques-tion whether prosecuting legitimate businessmen whose worst crime is to take money for goods delivered is all that productive.

The answer to that is simple enough - have there been wholesale prosecutions of the traffickers themselves, as a result of this effort? Or has it simply become a bureaucratic nightmare for auto dealers?

It seems as if an investigation the size of this one ought to track down at least 50 or so actual drug dealers who paid the cash, assuming the effort is in the right place.

The outcome of the investigation should be interesting.

It's time to look at annuities By Sid Mittra special writer

Now that the stock market is struggling again despite a general downtrend in interest rates, there is renewed interest in other investment vehicles available in the market place. Of these, annuities are specially attractive to most investors because they are (for the most part) relatively safe, tax-advantaged, and offer attractive options. Furthermore, for retired individuals and others needing current income, immediate annuities make a great deal

Immediate Annuity (IA) — As its name implies, an immediate annuity is a vehicle which provides immediate current income on a monthly basis. However, it also has two other distinguishing features. First, for those who are compelled to invade their principal to generate the desired level of income, IA guarantees that the principal will last for the desired number of years. Second, part of each month's income represents the return of principal, and hence is treated as tax-free income.

The greatest drawback of an IA is that, at the end of the term, the principal is totally exhausted. This scares some, and bothers many others. Consequently, people frequently ask me if there is a way in which the current income can be received for. say, 20 years, after which the original investment will return to the

Have Your Cake and Eat It Too The answer to that question is a defi-nite yes. But like all complicated investment vehicles, this one has both advantages and drawbacks. In the past I have discussed it in this column, but due to its unique features and wide-spread interest, I have decided to write about it again.

Princiapl Saver Annuity (PSA) Let us assume you are 60 years old, have $100,000 to invest, and wish to receive $600 per month for 18 years (your life expectancy). You can certainly find a IA which will provide you with the desired income; however, at age 78 you will have exhausted your $100,000 principal. That is indeed a distrubing thought, for there is no guarantee that you will die at age 78, What if you live to be 90? Certainly Social Security alone will not take care of you. What then is the alternative?

The alternative is to invest in a PSA. This investment will provide you with the desired current income and will return you to $100,000 after 18 years. Sounds interesting? I will present it in my next column. In the meantime, if you like to discuss this investment, you can call 643-8888.

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

Perhaps this is not exactly what President George Bush meant last month when he proposed 535 special schools in which corporate America will take a greater hand, radically changing education in America, but these schools are arousing interest.

John Bertak, with the public affairs division of the U.S. Department of Education, said America 2000, the title of Bush's plan, is still in its embryonic stage.

"The schools we envision would follow an entirely different definition of education," he said. Classes would be structured differently, teachers would have more latitude - classes may not even be in traditional school buildings, but in business settings.

SCHOOLS MAY even be administered by different groups, including business, hospitals, or museums.

"What constitutes a New American School in Michigan could be radically different from one in Florida - or they could be the same," Ber-

"The details on this kind of proposal have not been worked out in advance (because) of the problem of making these schools conform to local laws," Bertak said.

This is not a federal school system," he continued. The plan calls for 535 enterprise schools — one for each congressional district - to be opened in 1996.

Schools will rely heavily on corporate America, Bertak said, because it is business that has seen the product of the education system and

Highland circles wagons

The decision announced by Highland Superstores Tuesday to close 22 stores in Texas and 10 in New England to concentrate on Midwest operations sends mixed signals to stockholders, consumers and employees, at least one observer rea-

"It's a small, positive step from the standpoint the company is retrenching and trying to improve its cash flow," said Dean Gulis, research director for Roney & Co. "It's a move to preserve cash and keep efforts focused."

Highland, headquartered in Plymouth, retails home entertainment equipment and appliances.
"It's very competitive now," Gulis continued. "To the extent this keeps Highland in the game longer, maybe it's a plus in the short term.

"Highland's competitors would love to see them go away. That would mean less intense pressures on prices and margins. If they go away, less hardball competition means maybe higher prices.

"It's pretty obvious if you're working for one of these stores in Texas, you have problems," Gulis said.
"Here, by doing this contraction, Highland becomes slightly stronger. Maybe that's a plus."

EXACTLY HOW long Highland will remain in the game remains to

The company also announced Tuesday that it likely will seek protection from creditors by filing for bankruptcy if ongoing efforts to restructure $79 million in debt don't Highland reported a loss of $11.8 million on sales of $860.8 million during its 1990 budget year and a loss of $12.4 million on sales of $924.7 million during fiscal 1989.

Corporate officials have attributed their recent slump to slackening demand for products.

The recent closings will follow the shutdown of 10 stores in Minnesota and New York in April. That will leave some 50 stores open in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Thirteen are in metro Detroit including Southfield and Westland.

"We have no plans for any (local) store closings," said Danette Wineberg, a Highland vice president. "With respect to corporate support (staff), that matter is still under re-

Bankruptcy won't shut Roma's

Nervous brides-to-be who thought they at least had the hall out of way probably did double takes when word about Roma's of Michigan filing for bankruptcy under Chapter 11 began to spread yesterday.

They can go back to worrying about the band, bridesmaids' dresses and getting the groom to the wedding on time. Roma's has filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy, but the move is part of a reorganization plan, not a precursor to going out of business

"This is not going to affect our customers one bit," Roma's of Michigan vice president Paul Paparelli said. "Everyone thinks when you file for bankruptcy, it means you're going out of business - that's not

In fact, business has picked up in recent months and many of Roma's facilities are reserved through December of 1992, he said. "But (business) didn't pick up fast enough to prevent (the need to file for reorgan-

Paparelli said there are no plans to close Roma's facilities in Livonia, Garden City and Bloomfield Town-

TO AVOID misunderstandings, Paparelli said he contacted suppliers and other creditors before the filing was made public. "They knew about it and they're working with us."
Paparelli said it's not known how long it will take for Roma's to again become solvent. "We're discussing that right now with our attorney and trustee for wie we file our reorganization plan.

The bankruptcy filing, which enables to Roma's to forestall paying creditors while restructuring, lists assets of $1.8 million and liabilities of $3 million

Most of Roma's problems stems from the slow economy, Paparelli said. "Business slowed quite a bit at the end of last year - sales were good, but not at expected levels."

There were also fewer wedding receptions and business gatherings in early 1991, he said.

Even though Roma's continues to rent halls, there was not enough business to offset overhead and the payroll for its union staff. Paparelli noted that Roma's is staffed by union workers and under its contract has to guarantee some hours even when there's not enough business to warrant it.

For book-lovers, sales are a paradise found

By Julie Brown staff writer

INDING GOOD books for summertime reading wasn't at all difficult this past weekend.

The used book sale of the Friends of the Canton Public Library offered something for just about everyone. The Plymouth Branch, American Association of University Women's used book sale was another book-lover's paradise.

The Canton event was held Thursday, May 30, through Sunday, June 2, at the library. It also included a Wednesday, May 29, preview for Friends members. Organizers were pleased with the turnout each day.

"The sale is fantastic," said Wally Baker of Canton, book sale chairman. "Each year, it seems to get better. We have a reading community."

MORE BOOKS are donated each year, resulting in increased attendance and more money raised, he said. Proceeds support library programs and activities.

"This has worked out real well," he said. The Canton sale's been held in conjunction with the Canton Challenge Fest in recent years. Friends members also hold a mini-sale, featuring mostly paperbacks, in the fail.

Many sale visitors were looking for children's books, said Baker, a retiree who worked as a record librarian for Wayne County General Hospital. Cookbooks and books on crafts were also popular.

"Any novels or biographies, you name it." The sale attracted a diverse group of readers, and there was something available for all, Baker said.

Things also went well at the AAUW sale, held Friday, May 31, and Saturday, June 1, in the gym of Starkweather Center in Plymouth. Proceeds are used for scholarships for women who are returning to school.

Book dealers showed up at the start of the sale, said Dorothy Grant of Plymouth, an AAUW member.

"They always come first thing."
The AAUW sale's been held for a number of years, and many booklovers mark it on their calendars.
Branch members also hold a minisale of paperbacks at the Plymouth Fall Festival in September.

"We're getting crowded, so people have found us," Grant said during the recent sale.

THIS WAS the first year the sale was held at Starkweather, and organizers were a bit concerned that people might not find the new location.

Cookbooks and children's books were popular choices at the AAUW sale. Books on computers were also on many people's lists, said Grant, who teaches part time at Schoolcraft College and is a realtor. Romance

Libraries have cure for summer boredom

By Julie Brown staff writer

Encyclopedias for children don't get a lot of use at libraries in the summer, but that doesn't mean youngsters stop reading once school's out.

Both the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth and the Canton Public Library offer summer reading programs for children.

"Summers can get long and kids are looking for things to do," said Michele Monroe, a children's librarian at the Canton Public Library. "It's a time when they can look at reading for the fun of it.

"It's some productive time that they can spend in the summer, not only productive but fun. It encourages kids to see another kind of reading."

ABOUT 800 school-age youngsters participated in last summer's program at the Canton Public Library.

Some 400 school-age children participated in the 1990 summer reading program at the Dunning-Hough Library, said Pam Rawlinson, assistant director.

"It's to keep the children interested in their reading throughout the summer," Rawlinson said.

Many teachers have told her that the program helps children maintain their reading skills. That's particularly true for children who are just learning to read.

"It's something else to do that's more educational," Rawlinson said.

THIS YEAR'S statewide theme is "Read on the Wild Side." Participants will attend fun-filled programs as well as do some reading.

Registration for the Canton program will begin Monday, June 17, and continue through Thursday, July 18, in person at the library, 1200 S. Canton Center.

Advance registration is also required for each event, although that can be done by phone. Events will include:

Rita Kirsch, the "Music Lady,"
 2-2:40 p.m. Monday, July 1, in the library meeting room. (Registration will begin after 9:30 a.m. Monday, June 24, by phone or in person.)

• 2 p.m. Thursday, July 18, an "Adopt-A-Wolf" program for children ages 6-8 at the library.

• 2 p.m. Thursday, July 25, an "Adopt-A-Whale" program for children ages 9-12 at the library.

"The purpose is to teach them a little bit about the endangered species of the wolves and the whales," Rawlinson said.

The Plymouth program, for youngsters ages 6-12, will end with an awards celebration 2 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 1, at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer, for all children who have completed their contracts. The Red Rug Puppet Theater will perform.

THE "Read on the Wild Side" program is sponsored by the Friends of the Dunning-Hough Library.

Children will sign a contract indicating how many books they plan to read. Participants are required to read at least three books. Wednesday, July 31, is the final day to record books.

AKING A joyful noise unto the Lord sounded like a great idea to a group of worshipers in

A gospel music festival was held Friday, May 31, as part of the Canton Challenge Festival. A number of musicians from area churches participated in the event, held at the First Baptist Church of Canton.

"We enjoyed it very much," said the Rev. Robert Leatherwood, music director at the First Baptist Church. "I think it was a very bene-

The Chapels, an independent musical group, got things started during the evening program. The group includes Robert Scoggins, Anita Clark and Terry Crouson.

Musicians from the First Baptist Church of Canton then took to the stage. Several musical groups from the host church performed.

THE MUSICIANS presented music they've used throughout the year, Leatherwood said. He and others enjoyed the program.

"You're able to see the different varieties of music, but yet you also see the similarities." Leatherwood would like to see the music festival

This is the second year such a festival's been held in conjunction with the Canton Challenge Festival. Participating Canton churches this year were: St. John Neumann Catholic Church; First Baptist Church; Geneva Presbyterian Church; St. Michael Lutheran Church; Christ Community Church; Tri-City Assembly of God; and Main Street Baptist Church. Musicians from Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church in Plymouth also performed.

Mike Gouin, a member of the First Baptist Church in Wayne, introduced the different musical groups during the festival. Gouin's tendent for Canton Township.

The idea of holding such a gospel festival began with Tom Yack, Canton Township supervisor. Yack contacted Canton-area pastors to see if they'd be interested, Gouin said, and the idea took off from

"We can bring together a group of people" under one roof, Gouin said. "We praise our Lord together. It's really something special."

BRINGING THE community together is a goal of the Challenge Festival, he said, so having a musical program involving local churches made perfect sense. Attendance at Friday's program was about double the size of last year's,

'You're able to see the different varieties of music, but yet you also see the similarities.'

- the Rev. Robert Leatherwood

It's beneficial to bring together Christians from different denominations and traditions, Gouin said.

They can learn from each other. They can all experience joy. It's a joy that Christians can have.' The Rev. Rocky Barra, pastor of Tri-City Assembly of God, enjoyed the gospel music festival.

'It's really growing, like Canton." The festival didn't have a contest-like atmosphere, Barra said, and participants enjoyed the time they spent together. "There was just a real nice spir-

We have a common bond in Christ." He too recognizes the value of bringing together representatives of different churches.

"A lot of the walls would come down," Barra said. "Jesus is the common denominator

Homeowners reap big benefits from tax code

This is the seventh story in a series on buying and selling real estate. Tax law, implemented to engineer social policy as much as to raise revenue, often gives favorable treatment to distinct categories of people. People like homeowners.

Owners, one theory goes, deserve special consideration because they make a greater personal investment and have a greater stake in the community than renters.

Another argument allows that risks taken to create wealth - and ownership usually is riskier than renting - should be encouraged ry, the reality is that owners have many more loopholes to subsidize their lifestyles than renters.

Deductions available to reduce the annual federal and state income tax bites on homeowners include points or mortgage lending fees, mortgage interest and local property taxes.

Homeowners also can use expenses incident to the purchase of a house — legal fees and inspection costs - to adjust the basis of property when it comes to figuring capital gain or tax due on increase in value at sale

OWNERS OF houses and condos get a once-in-a-lifetime exclusion on $125,000 of capital gain if they meet certain age, occupancy and owner-

Deductions for consumer interest aren't allowed unless debt is consolidated into a home equity loan. Homeowners in Michigan also get a partial refund of state property taxes if those taxes exceed 31/4 percent of income and household income doesn't exceed $82,650.

Renters get little, comparatively speaking. There's no deduction for rent and security deposit paid in advance. Ditto on the federal form for yearly property taxes built into the TENANTS USUALLY must get permission in advance to make "improvements" to a property and get nothing from a tax standpoint for following through.

The best a longtime tenant can expect when relocating after years of renting is a fond farewell. There is no capital gain when moving because renters accrue no equity.

Renters in Michigan can qualify for the Homestead Property Tax Credit, because 17 percent of the rent is presumed to be property taxes. The benefit, however, probably won't be as great for a tenant as an Owners and renters both can deduct moving expenses if they itemize on the federal form as long as distance and time tests are met.

People have to live somewhere said David Lewandowski, a CPA with the firm of R.J. Dickshott and Co. Deductions associated with home ownership are among the few left by Congress while grappling with the budget deficit.

Building a reputation takes effort, care, time

I am a developer considering building a number of condominium projects. I've run into several problems building because of past developers who have built deficient condominium projects for which the municipalities are now receiving complaints. They are making it extremely difficult for me to get my site-plan approval because I have not done any work in these areas in the past. Do you have any sugges-

Many new projects have sprung up in previously undeveloped areas in the last 10 years by developers who have not had any previous experience in condominium development. Unfortuntely, in too many situations, the developers do not retain the necessary consultants or contractors to properly complete the condominium project, both from a construction standpoint and a condominium documentation standpoint. Therefore, many condominium associations are new suffering because of this situation, particularly in regard to defects in the common areas.

These developers also have not prepared the members of the association for the takeover of control and responsibility and have low-balled

the assessments so that the members of the association cannot afford to pay the actual costs of operating the association, particularly if litigation is necessary to seek redress against

As to the townships, I would point out your track record in developing condos, the fact that you have presumably retained knowledgeable consultants to assist you in developing your project, and that you are prepared to do an excellent job in the community with the expectation that additional condominium projects will be developed by you in the future based upon your good reputa-

I am buying a house and want to find out if there are any problems with it. How do I find a good house inspector? There is a five-day contingency in the purchase agreement.

If your are dealing with a Realtor or a lawyer, ask them if they have had experience with a good house inspector. If they cannot supply you with names, check the Yellow Pages. Make several inquiries in terms of background and experience of the inspector and talk to customers listed as references. Don't base your deci-
