Bad pitch

At the Plymouth-Canton school board meeting Monday, board member David Artley and state Rep James Kosteva read proclamations honoring the Plymouth-Salem baseball team for recently winning the state Class A baseball title

But as team members made their way around the board table to receive congratulations from trustees, one player accidentally sent a full pitcher of water spilling into Artley's lap and into his notebook containing printed materials

As the jovial former board president took the mishap in good humor, one coach remarked,

'That's the first error the kid made this season

Parade honors

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce will honor men and women returning from service in the Gulf War at the 1991 Fourth of July parade to be held in Plymouth at 1 p.m. Thursday

The soldiers who will be honored are. Sammut Dax, Jeff Zebley. Robert Austin, David Durpey, Jeff Donn, Paul Faunce, Scott Hincker Suzanne Hojking, Edwin Kolb. John Caloia, Daniel Harkness Nathanial Johnson III, Mark Krug David Kracht, Mark Lukens, Scott Monteith, Murphy Paul, Craig Proctor, Martin Payotelis, Craig Rinke, Todd Vershave, Michael Smith Jim Crews and Shawn

If anyone in the community knows of other soldiers who should receive recognition, call the hamber office

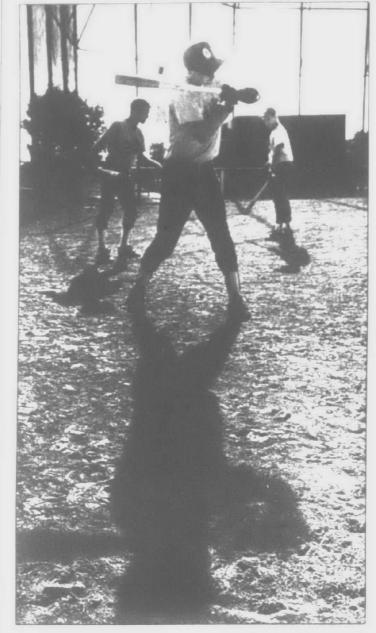

Each will receive a certificate of appreciation from the chamber which can be mailed or picked up at the chamber office after July 4 Addresses are not available, so the chamber is requesting family members or friends call the office and provide that information if the certificate should be mailed

Work progressing on new post office

The new U.S. Post Office to serve the Plymouth Community is "coming along, but we're not even close to opening to the public," said post office spokeswoman Susan Moore Tuesday.

The postal service intends to close the downtown post office in Plymouth and open a smaller post office downtown, called a finance unit. A site for a finance unit has not been found, Moore said.

"We will not be making a decision until the post office is completed. One step at a time," she said.

In May. Plymouth Historic District Study Commission Chairman Doug Miller wrote the postal service, and urged that it maintain the facade and public areas of the downtown post office on Penniman

"Its facade and public areas represent classic period architecture and design which must be preserved and protected as part of the heritage of our community and of our country." Miller wrote in a letter to David DeVaney, manager of support services for the U.S. Postal Service in Chicago.

DeVaney could not be reached for comment on Miller's letter

Plymouth City Manager Steve Walters, who took over that post June 1, said Tuesday that he was trying to meet with postal officials to be brought up to date on the downtown post office situation.

Miller suggested two options: Selling the downtown building for commercial use with the stipulation that the buyer grant the postal service permanent use of the front section for use as a small post office, or maintaining ownership of the building and operating the front section as a finance unit.

He wrote that either option could work, according to real estate de-

Rodeo bull riding challenges Plymouth man

By Diane Gale

You never dismount a bull.

"There's no question he's going to throw you. It's just a matter of when and how," said Plymouth Township resident Jerry Stewart. His right thigh and rib cage still hurt Monday from riding the day before.

THE OWNER OF Lucille's on Michigan Avenue in Canton has been riding bulls for a "little over a year." Last Sunday was his best time ever, 6.5 seconds, a hair under the 8 seconds that it takes for a successful

'I don't remember anything from the time they opened the shoot until the time I was on the ground," Stewart said. "Out of reflex or something I ran back to the gate. By the time I realized anything I was climbing up

He did remember extreme fear and that his heart was pounding

But I'm going to get him for 8 (seconds) Sunday night," said Stewart referring to the First Annual Lucille's Championship Rodeo he's sponsoring and producing this weekend. Net proceeds will go to the Children's Hospital Burn Unit.

At 38, Stewart said, he's one of the oldest riders.

"IT LOOKED LIKE a challenge. Something I wanted to master" along with sky diving, scuba diving and professional country and western dancing.

Every time he's ridden, Stewart said, he has been scared. "I guess you just have to remember all the things people tell you to do." Like how to move your legs and arms. 'And never take your eyes off of his head.

In Stewart's case it's 190 pounds against 1,800 to 2,400 pounds. The rider "muscles the bulls" and the only advantage is being on top.

That's one edge that the bull fighters don't have, Stewart said. The guys dressed innocently in clown costumes have the most dangerous rodeo job - to keep the bull away from the fallen cowboy.

About 300 bull riders from "around the country," as well as a group of Canadian cowboys are expected at the Lucille's rodeo. Although Stewart doesn't consider himof cowboys, John Wayne, in every movie "I could ever get my hands

He sat in a chair in the dimly lit bar, that wasn't open for business yet, next to a life size poster of the Duke as he explained: "Rodeos are a sport and it's becoming a spectators sport. It's getting bigger and bigger Cable television broadcasts have spurred interest, he said. "Most people around here have never been to one or seen one. I think it's one of those country things people are trying to get back to, to get away from all the hustle and bustle.'

Joining Stewart at the rodeo is Lucille's doorman, Don Mitchell, who plans to ride a bull and Julie Mackie, a member of Lucille's Willow Creek Band, who will sing the National Anthem and ride in the woman's riding barrel racing

Other rodeo events include bareback horse riding, saddle bronc, girls barrel racing, calf roping, steer wrestling and team roping

It's a chance for city folk to get a taste of country fun, he said. And that's no bull.

The rodeo is 7 p.m. Friday; 7 p.m. Saturday and 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the Wayne County Fairgrounds, Van Buren Township Dances at Lucille's follow the rodeo each night. Tickets for the rodeo are $8 for adults and $5 for children. Advance adult discount tickets are available at Lucille's for $7

The shard of blackened stone discovered atop a flat hill near a stream in Washtenaw County offers clues to the past

After a successful day of hunting some 5,000 years ago, a Native American hunter returned to the hilltop and prepared his game by roasting it in a stone oven dug deep into the earth

The shard, one of thousands recently uncovered at the site, is part of the ancient roasting oven, according to Rick Zurel, a teacher of anthropology at Schoolcraft College in Livonia and Oakland Community College in Auburn

Since May, Zurel, his students and others have been excavating the hilltop, searching for clues to ancient man.

In addition to shards, they have also uncovered dozens of stone fragments from tools and spears, indicating a stone-age community once flourished there during the Late Archaic era before man had discovered the bow and arrow or

"AT ONE TIME, everybody in the world lived this lifestyle,' Zurel said of his hunter, adding the man might also have boiled game by heating a stone red hot and then from tree bark.

There is always a sense of mystery in finding things that are very ancient, in being able to say that right on this very spot 5,000 years ago, someone made a tool. Seeing a fiberglass or plastic replica is not the same thing.

Zurel first located the spot in 1968, during a drive in the countryside while earning a degree in anthropology from Oakland University in Rochester Hills. After graduate studies in Georgia, digs in Missouri and New Mexico, and a brief career in banking, he has returned to the hilltop located in the center of a hayfield.

To provide hands-on experience in an outdoor classroom of sorts, Schoolcraft College has leased the field for use by students and others who are members of the Schoolcraft Anthropological Society.

Since May, they have gathered artifacts plowed to the surface by modern farmers and mapped distribution of the found objects in order to pinpoint areas called "fea-

First McGee Scholarship awarded

Daniel West, a recent Livonia Franklin High School graduate, is the first recipient of the Marie McGee Memorial Scholarship.

West received the $1,000 scholarship last week from Steve Barnaby, managing editor of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. West was a member of the school newspaper staff and baseball team while at Franklin.

WEST, 18, received three academic excellence awards from his school and was recipient of the school's 1990 journalism award. He also won first place in 1989 and second place in the 1990 sports writing contest sponsored by the Great Lakes Interscholastic Press Association. He will study journalism at Wayne State University in the fall, hoping to become a sports writer or broadcaster. He is the son of Danny C. and Julie

He was praised for his "easygoing, engaging manner" by Livonia Schools teacher Joseph LeBlanc, who taught West during his junior and senior years. "Danny earns his high grades without commotion or self-congratulation," Leblanc wrote. "He is inspiring evidence that there are superior students in our schools."

West is also a 10-year member of the Boy Scouts of America.

In addition to his studies, hobbies and after-school jobs, West also served as a student intern at WJR-AM. Detroit.

The internship program is designed for self-motivated, highachieving Livonia Schools students. Students from throughout the district compete for internships. Selection is based on grades, standardized test scores, teacher recommendation West displayed a "quick, comprehensive" grasp of assignments, ac-cording to WJR assistant news director Gene Fogel.

The scholarship honors the late Marie McGee, a former assistant managing editor for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. During her 23-year O&E career, McGee also served as a reporter, copy editor and Suburban Life editor

In addition, McGee was committed to nurturing young journalists. As a reporter, she often wrote on the state of scholastic journalists. She also followed the progress of local student papers.

Long active in the Livonia community, McGee was a 24-year city resident whose five children attended Livonia schools.

The scholarship is sponsored by O&E employees.

The scholarship is open to seniors at any of the three high schools in the Livenia public schools. Preference is given students who plan to ursue a career in journalism

To receive the scholarship, students must already be accepted at an accredited four-year college or university, or a two-year community

This year's applicants were also quired to write an essay on State Legislative Bill 4565, which would protect the rights of student journal-

Those wishing to donate to the scholarship fund should make a check payable to Livonia Public and mail to: Marie McGee Memorial Scholarship Fund, Atention: Michael Fulong, Livonia Public Schools, 15125 Farmington Road, Livonia, Mich.

Daniel West, a 1991 graduate of Livonia Franklin High School, is the recipient of the first $1,000 Marie McGee Memorial Scholarship. He is pictured in the newsroom of the Observer & Eccentric's Livonia office. West plans to study journalism at Wayne State University.

Student journalists should have rights, too

special writer

Student publications have been designed to inform and entertain fellow students. Informing the readers at controversial times can be eliminated by school administration. Michigan House Bill 4565, protecting First Amendment rights for students, recognizes that students are United States citizens, and have the same rights as professional journalists in providing information to the public.

The First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States guarantees freedom of the press to all citizens. The public has the right to be informed of the status and activites

Student journalists, as well as professionals, are both entitled to be allowed to carry on their duties on assignments and other such tasks. As long as the facts supporting their story are clear and concrete, the story should be presented to the public without interruption.

Providing there is no "yellow jour-nalism" or defamation of one's character, no one individual has the right to eliminate another's First Amendment rights. Publications are created for entertainment and information of the readers and fellow students should be entitled to the same rights as the general public as far as being informed. The Constitution was adopted for all citizens, whether young or old, professional or ama-

Not only does limiting a student journalist cause a lack of informing their readers, it limits their experience on breaking controversial stories. It may also decrease their confidence in becoming a journalist when such incidents occur. If the facts are there, students, as well as professionals, should be allowed to use them to prepare for publication whether it may bring a negative or positive response from the readers. If it is true and fair, then it should be published.

AN INDIVIDUAL in the public eye has to be able to take criticism as nalists should be open-minded and consider positive information for publication as well as negative infor-

Digging up an incident that occurred a while ago and using it to defame someone's character, just to gain readers' or listeners' attention, is one negative aspect to freedom of the press.

There is nothing wrong with having an upbeat or positive front page story or lead story on the radio or television news

The media can help as well as hinder society. If they can look for uplifting stories as well as the negative, there would not be as much controversy around the press.

When is it right for a school administrator to ban a story for publication? The school administrators should use their power in a more positive manner. Instead of removing a true, but controversial story, they should help the students. For example, if a journalist has some information, but not all of the facts to create a story, then the administration should intervene. Other than that, the student should have the right to publish any factual informa-

Realizing that students are inexperienced when working as journalists, they still should be given the opportunity to cover any truthful story. Otherwise, how can journalists improve from generation to generation if they are banned from valuable experiences in high school and college.

Authority to students must understand that the First Amendment to the United States Constitution is there for all citizens in this country, not just those with a college degree.

The following essay was written by Daniel West as part of his ap-plication for the Marie McGee Memorial Scholarship.

New school promotes "more joyful" learning

By Janice Brunson staff writer

If six experienced teachers with a vision have their way, a new school providing an innovative educational experience will open its doors for the first time come September.

Gaudior Academy, a private institution with classes for students ages kindergarten to eighth grade, will incorporate state certified teaching guidelines with teacher-designed curriculum to provide an educational experience meant "to turn kids on," according to members of the

Gaudior is the Latin word which means "more joyful."

"It's the kind of teaching any teacher would choose, if given the opportunity," said Cheryl Bush of Livonia, a 13-year teaching veteran who has taught in both public and private schools. Bush will teach 6-to-8-year-olds at Gaudior.

with a capacity of 40 students paying $4,500 tuition each, currently has eight students committed to enrollment. A search for a site is underway, with one in Redford under serious consideration. A decision is ex-

GAUDIOR IS IN response to a growing chorus of parents who are dissatisfied with their children's education, according to Rosemary Gonzales of Redford, who said both open and structured classroom teaching techniques will be used in the new

"A 4-year-old says I can do anything. A 13-year-old says I'm not so good at it. The thing that has happened in-between is school. To avoid this, we'll take advantage of the best techniques from both systems," said Gonzales who has taught for 15 years and is charged with math and computer instruction for the new

She is also doubling as school director in 1991-92. Each of the six who are involved have assumed additional duties to cut administrative costs. The others include Janet Walker of Livonia, teaching 4-and 5year-olds and music; Chris Attard, in charge of middle-school aged students, drama and art; Carol Przybylo, teaching 8- to 10-year-olds and science; and Angie Garcia-Johnson who, due to new mothering duties, will only teach one day a week, providing physical education instruc-

The group originally met while teaching at a private school.

Teachers at Gaudior will use community resources for teaching tools, including frequent field trips to area museums and cultural events. Parental involvement will be welcomed and supported.

GAUDIOR TEACHERS will not rely on prepared curriculum in the classroom, but instead create their own, using a thematic or combined approach to teaching. Under such an approach, a single subject may be thoroughly explored.

The 15th century Rennaissance, for example, is normally covered briefly in public schools. Gonzales said "we might take two weeks and make our own costumes.

Teachers will use textbooks primarily as reference materials. Supporters of the school are frequenting liquidation and surplus sales for books and classroom furniture. Each classroom will be equipped with its

The best way to experience nature is by walking trails through mead-ows and woods, or canoeing streams and lakes. Each exposure to the natural world can lead to self discovery.

But a good way to help improve our chances of self-discovery is to scome familiar with the natural

"Reading on the Wild Side" is the theme for the Michigan summer reading program for 1991, which is a subject near and dear to my heart. Though the program incentives, available at your local library, are geared toward young people, that should not stop adults from reading about wild things too.

A well-written book is not only informative but can form lasting impressions in your mind, and it can often influence your future. Some big names in science were influenced by Ernest Thompson Seton's Wild Animals I Have Known" when they were young.

I still have two books I read when I was young that influenced my perspective about nature. They are Aland "Wild Season." In "The Great Auk," Eckert outlines a series of events in the life of a species of bird now extinct. Weaving facts into a thrilling story of the last days of the last individual of its kind, made the definition of extinct indelible on my

Even after reading "Wild Season" many years ago, I still remember the drawing depicting two bull snakes entwined in a courtship behavior. Just a few years ago I was walking through a field in northern Michigan when I came upon two blue racers entwined in a similiar manner. Immediately upon seeing them, the first thing that came to my mind was the book "Wild Season" I had read years earlier.

I would encourage your whole family to take advantage of "Reading on the Wild Side" this summer.

EVERY MAN IMPOTENCE.

IT'S TREATABLE.

The real tragedy of impotence is letting it go untreated e ven one more day. Stop denying yourself and your sexual partner an important part of your life. Impotence can be treated in almost every case.

The STAR® program developed by Grace Hospital provides complete diagnosis and treatment of male impotence. This confidential program is directed first at determining the cause of the problem. Diseases such as diabetes, cancer, multiple sclerosis and problems with prostate, heart and high blood pressure are common causes. There are many others. Injuries to the spinal cord, and low hormone levels can also cause erection failure. So, too, can fatigue, alcohol, drugs, smoking, stress and depression. Medicines used to treat such things as depression, high blood pressure and ulcers can be part of the problem. Age alone is not a cause of impotence. And, yes, some impotence problems are psychologically based; even organic impotence has an important psychological component that requires identification and treatment. An accurate diagnosis is the key to effective treatment. Sometimes, only a change in medication is needed. More serious problems may require surgery. But help is available. Complete, confidential and supportive. Call today and talk to one of our professionals.

School tax base sharing moving forward in House

By Tim Richard staff writer

Fighting a losing battle, suburban state representatives this week were asking voter approval of any plan forcing school districts to share their business property

"This should go to the voters. It's a more drastic change than even a graduated income tax." said Rep. Willis Bullard, R-High-

"This is radical. It's a major, major change," agreed Rep. Tom Power, R-Traverse City.

But Bullard and Rep. Barbara Dobb, R-West Bloomfield, wound up on the short end as the House Taxation Committee rejected the amendment to put tax base sharing on the ballot. Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, voted with the Democratic majority.

THE PANEL then voted Tuesday to report out the second of a pair of bills that would force mainly suburban districts to give half the growth of their commercial and industrial tax bases to poorer

Later that morning, the full House postponed consideration of the controversial bills, one of which is sponsored by Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City.

Dobb, a freshman lawmaker from a growth area in western Oakland County, offered the full House an amendment to send the shared taxes to school districts with the poorest people - not necessarily those with the lowest perpupil tax bases. Dobb's amendment was set aside as the House turned to other measures.

The stated purpose of tax base sharing is to reduce the spending gap between the richest districts ($8,000 per pupil) and the poorest

THE PAIR of bills that probably will be passed today has several differences from a Senate-passed tax sharing plan tacked onto a school aid bill a week ago. Among

• The Senate plan offers a car-rot to wealthier districts — restoration of the $72 million in state aid they used to get for "categorical" needs such as half of Social Security and special education. The House plan offers just partial restoration of that "recaptured" money - $1 in categoricals for every $2 in business taxes lost.

• The Senate plan would take half the business tax growth from every district. The House plan would take only from out-of-formula school districts (the wealthiest 30 percent), allowing poorer districts to keep all their business tax growth.

• The Senate plan would spread the business tax growth on a per-pupil basis to all districts.

The House plan allocates the new money only to the in-formula districts (the bottom 70 percent).

KEITH, CHAIRMAN of the House Education Committee, canceled a scheduled meeting Tuesday on a proposed constitutional amendment to require "equal opportunity" for education.

The wording would allow poorer school districts to sue the state for more aid. Sponsor is Rep. Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti.

Schools fumble new program

HERE'S A TRAGEDY unfolding in the Plymouth-Canton schools.

The schools are putting a new program called developmental education into place. The program stresses individual instruction to address differences in student matu-

Basically that means each child is different and learns differently. It's a good program that makes a lot of sense

But then comes the tragedy. The school administration and school board in typical highhanded fashion has arrogantly put it into place, in the process, alienating large numbers of parents and students. That became apparent on Monday when parents and teachers showed up at a school board meeting to confront the board about the pro-

We think Barbara Graham, a board member, performed her duty well at the meeting. She told parents that while she supports the program, school officials should tell parents more about it.

Graham said developmental education will help students in the district compete with the Japanese and others.

A real disappointment at the meeting was the performance of Bobbie Cleary, who recently lost a bid to be elected to the school board.

Cleary made a lot of sense on the campaign trail, pushing questions about developmental ed-

However, at the board meeting she went too far. She claimed that developmental education is based on the humanist-socialist learning theory, which she said failed in England and Canada. She was somehow trying to lead folks to the conclusion that developmental education was some sort of plot to take over kids' minds.

But while Cleary may have gone too far in her criticism of developmental education, it was something that the school board and administration brought on itself by not better informing the

Like the close relationship between a teacher and student working together, it's time for our legislators to come to terms with the real need for an innovative solution to funding education.

Hopes for better race relations flicker here

BEING NATIVE Detroiters, espe cially those of us who are proud of the distinction, we never quite get over the embarrassment of those from the outside who can't help but notice our Achilles' heal - segrega-

Recently a journalist friend of mine popped into town. Looking forward to seeing him, I was disappointed when he didn't show.

A note came about a week later. Of all things, he was researching a book on racism and poverty. Detroit was his model.

"I found myself overwhelmed with work once I got there (Detroit)," he said.

My heart sank. Yet another book on a problem with which we just can't seem to deal.

"I found Detroit to be . . . a place of great human feeling and surprising beauty amid the physical destruction. Fires have torched so many city blocks, but the flame of hope burns.

"I met committed Detroiters who are committed to helping people retool their lives and roll on to a better time. To these people and the grassroots programs that are rebuilding cities like Detroit my book is dedicated."

I thought about that letter this week after reading about the meeting between some concerned Birmingham business and civic leaders who sat down Thursday with officials from the NAACP, the Oakland . . . a place of great human feeling and surprising beauty amid the physical destruction. Fires have torched so many city blocks, but the flame of hope burns.'

County Center for Open Housing and the Birmingham-Bloomfield Task Force on Race Relations.

Seeing a predominantly white suburb face this area's largest problem is, indeed, rare. Most suburbanites burn a lot of psychological fuel denying that any problem exists at all.

AND WHILE the Birmingham meeting may be just a flicker rather than a flame, it is at least a start. At any rate, it makes this cynic believe that my friend could be correct, that hope does, indeed, exist.

Many Birmingham residents look upon themselves as leaders and this past week they got their chance to do just that. Faced with a few highly publicized racial incidents in recent months, some folks in town decided it would be best to go public and clear the air. Hence the meeting.

If nothing else, it demonstrates that merit exists in the open meeting system, something that is becoming

"WE IMPARTED a sense that the city is open and willing to improve race relations," said Birmingham City Manager Thomas Markus.

Not bad for round one.

"City fathers have to assume responsibility, just as I have to assume responsibility for what goes on in my house," countered NAACP board member Merell Weeden, who noted that dealing with the undercurrent of racism is just as important as dealing with the recent public incidents.

Not a flame, but a flicker. Now we need to see action from other suburban communities so the next time my friend comes to town he has more names to put in his object to developmental education, we support it. It helps the educational system get away from the old notion that all students must learn to read Dick and Jane at the same rate, nobody faster and nobody slower. It was a mind set that prepared kids to work in mind numbing jobs where everybody did the same thing and at the same speed. And goodness, nobody should have an original idea. Recently, we heard educators say that the schools are training kids for jobs that don't even exist yet. We suspect that many of those jobs will be in the computer field.

THAT'S A field where people are only limited by their attitudes about themselves and about their work. And if they've been mind-numbed by the old style of education, they're never going to

To adapt is the key. If educators don't know what kind of jobs they're training youngsters for, then they must teach students to think for themselves and how to adapt to a changing world.

We're not going to do that by teaching children to memorize multiplication tables or even spelling and grammar. These elements are important, but they shouldn't be an obstacle to a youngster who's trying to write a story or solve a problem. The old, boring stuff that has bogged people's brains down for generations can now be looked up quickly with the tap of a finger on a comput-

We think it's time to get on with the new age in learning.

Fair play

Education among top needs

SN'T IT ALWAYS the way: We know what we want, but we don't know how to get it. Most everyone in Michigan believes all children should have access to the same set of sound, thorough educational opportunities.

It's simply a matter of fair play, we observe, that a student in Baldwin, one of Michigan's poorest school districts, be able to walk into class and receive the same instruction and encouragement as his counterpart in the Birmingham school system. Yet we seem unable to agree on how to make the goal a But the goal is a sound one, and we shouldn't lose sight of it, which is why the taxsharing plan, already passed by the state Senate and now under consideration in the House, should be voted down.

This plan takes us off course by remixing the same set of halfway, half-hearted solutions that already, repeatedly, has failed the students of Michigan.

The reason this plan will fail like the rest is because it embraces the continued dependence on property taxes as the primary means of funding public schools.

People are getting squeezed by tax rates mulplied by ever-inflating property values. The elderly, who by today's standards are synonymous with the term "fixed incomes," find themselves in the uncomfortable position of supporting the ideal of a good education for all, at the personal cost of a steadily decreasing standard of living.

In addition, our dependence on local property taxes to fund education promotes the very idea we want to eradicate: that education is something we provide for our own . . . and forget the other guy. It's part of why the children of doctors and lawyers grow up to become doctors and lawyers while the children of the chronically unemployed grow up to become chronically unemployed.

THOSE ARE, IN FACT, the results we have

A lot of new ground must be covered once we overcome the problem of property taxes. Let's revamp the system once, thoroughly and confidently, to alleviate the need to revisit school funding every time we turn around.

achieved thus far by basing public school financing on property taxes.

We need, instead, to be innovative in our thinking, to try new things, now that we're positive the old solutions will provide inadequate support through this last decade of the century.

Residents should be willing to consider at least two other options for funding schools:

 a graduated income tax or; · a state sales tax increase to 6 percent, which would merely make Michigan competitive with the rest of the nation.

Neither are perfect solutions. Residents will complain that they moved to Birmingham, West Bloomfield, Livonia or Plymouth so their children would benefit from the schools, and through equalization of this sort, the advantage will be neutralized. That's true.

Also true, though, is the fact that nothing would stop residents in wealthier districts from voting for additional funding, on top of the type of basics we're discussing here, for their school

A lot of new ground must be covered once we overcome the problem of property taxes. Let's revamp the system once, thoroughly and confidently, to alleviate the need to revisit school funding every time we turn around.

IT'S ALSO TIME to challenge our governmental system.

We must elect a government to respond to the electorate and serve, not duck and dodge, the needs of the people.

At the moment, the people need government to. step in and propose solutions to a ton of budget problems, school funding not the least among them. Real solutions are needed, and it's up to the boys and girls in Lansing to provide them.

Next week we will examine the role jobs play in the solution.

Group objects to editorial

To the editor:

Responding to the Observer's editorial of Thursday, June 20, in which the Plymouth Concerned Citizens are attacked as "dark" and "destructive," it is interesting to note that almost the entire opinion had to do with the Downtown Development Authority, a subject to which the Plymouth Concerned Citizens has not addressed itself.

To infer that it has is extremely misleading and very questionable journalism. To date, the Plymouth Concerned Citizens as a group has never taken a stand on the DDA, or any issue other than Mettetal, which at the moment and for the foreseeable future will no doubt keep the Plymouth Concerned Citizens' hands

IF THERE are any individual members who may wish to personally voice an opinion about the DDA or any other issue, without speaking on behalf of the Plymouth Concerned Citizens, they certainly have a right to do so. And as such, neither the Observer nor anyone else should construe such opinions as being those of the Plymouth Concerned Citizens or of any other organization to which that individual may happen to be-

One of the most important factors that galvanized the Plymouth Concerned Citizens was the frustration of being ignored by the city commissioners on a very important issue. Elected officials are entrusted to make many decisions for its electorate, but it is incumbent upon them to be sensitive to, and reflect the wishes of that electorate, whether the question is the purchase of an airport, a $5 million bond issue, or the building of a modern, 15-story building on Main Street.

WHEN OVER 1,700 citizens sign a petition expressing their desire to decide an issue such as the purchase of Mettetal Airport, then those officials should respect the wishes of the electorate and not purchase Mettetal before the people have had the opportunity to vote.

If they don't respect the wish of the people, but favor the desires and needs of outsiders rather than those who elected them, then perhaps it is time to question the ability of those officials to represent their constituency. The people of Plymouth chose leaders to represent them; to be their eyes and ears, to seek the truth, to reflect the wishes of the majority, and to be sensitive to the direction in which the citizens want their city to go - by ballot if necessary when a major issue arises, whatever it might be.

IT IS unfortunate that the Observer takes the position that continuing community involvement by Plymouth Concerned Citizens is "troubling." The Plymouth Concerned Citizens has concerned itself with one issue - Mettetal. We have not even advocated a pro or con position. What we have consistently done from the beginning is pose valid questions, many of which have still been unanswered. We also wonder why most of the city commissioners have put up such strong opposition to keep the residents from voting on the acquisition of the airport.

The Plymouth Concerned Citizens has never claimed to be the "true voice of the people." Rather, we are motivated and guided by the principle that the people have a true voice — and it should be heard.

Tax plan 'picks' our pockets

tax base sharing?" The GRALS (Guilt-Ridden Affluent Liberal Suburbanites) stare wide-eyed when the topic comes up.

'Shucks, tax base sharing seems fair enough. There are poor school districts with only $2,500 to spend per pupil a year and rich districts blowing $8,000.

"Gee whillikers, doesn't every kid deserve an equal chance?" ask the GRALS with charming innocence, as if the issue were really educating

The proposal has minor variations, but it's basically this: School taxes on commercial and industrial property would go into a common pot and be distributed on a per-pupil

As currently floated in Lansing, the bills call for pooling only half the growth. That way it looks as if nobody loses anything. Don't be suckered. If Lansing can take half the growth now, in time it can take all, and then go after existing business

THE FARMER originated the idea of tax base sharing no later than the 1950s, decades before education-minded city boys like Reps. Bill Keith of Garden City and Jim O'Neill Jr. of Saginaw bought in.

H.L. Mencken, in his 1924 essay The Husbandman," called The Farmer the most "grasping, selfish and dishonest mammal" in existence. "Has anyone ever heard of a farmer making any sacrifice of his own interests, however slight, to the common good? Has anyone ever heard of a farmer practicing or advocating any political idea that was not absolutely self-seeking - that was not, in fact, deliberately designed to loot the rest of us to his

'(O)nly one issue ever interests or fetches him, and that is the issue of his own profit . . . He simply cannot imagine himself as a citizen of a commonwealth, in duty bound to give as well as take; he can imagine himself only as getting all and giving

Since 1924. The Farmer's ethics

HERE IS HOW The Farmer and friends rationalize tax base sharing:

· I could get tax base sharing by consolidating some of Michigan's 526 school districts into 200. But I don't wish to give up my political control of my rinky-dink district.

• "I could get more revenue by collecting all property taxes in common. But with tax base sharing, I keep all my farm taxes and make the city feller surrender his business

• "We all could get new revenue by raising the income or sales tax and pumping it into the poorest districts. But I would have to pay, too. With tax base sharing, I pay nothing more, and only the city jasper gives up anything.'

And now the Keiths and O'Neills are helping The Farmer.

OUR POLITICOS face the task of coining a term for tax base sharing that will wake up the GRALS before

it's too late. I like "the pickpocket

Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, denounced the scheme and offered its perpetrators a black bandit's mask. Not bad.

A colleague of hers described it as a "Sheriff of Nottingham bill." The evil sheriff collects the yeoman's regular state taxes, then invades the man's house and takes half the bread from his table, too. Pretty good.

The core of the problem is that our legislators, who have constitutional responsibility for providing free public schools, won't use the tools at

They won't cut non-school spending and pump more into poor districts, as we noticed last week when they caved in to the welfare and arts

They won't consolidate little districts.

They won't raise new state taxes. Instead, the pickpocket bandits of Lansing want to dip into local school districts for revenue

Saving kids takes money, effort

QUESTION: What do they mean when they label certain students as "At Risk." Who are they? Can anything be done to help them?

ANSWER: At risk students are those who it appears will not graduate from high school. They are the ones who reject or are rejected by our school curriculum, who have extreme difficulty finding a meaning-

In the suburbs, we also have some

'at risk" students, many from af-

Most of these suburban at risk kids, after laying sod for a couple summers, eventually wake up, get a job with parental help or get on track through a community college experience.

THE REAL disaster, however, is the inner city tragedy. Just look at Detroit! Approximately 50 percent of Detroit students who start high school drop out before graduation.

The daily average attendance in a stable suburban school is about 96 percent. In Detroit, some high schools have a daily attendance rate of 74 percent, one-fourth of the students are not even in school, let alone class on a given day.

You ask, "Can anything be done to help them?" Yes! Los Angeles' Phineas High School launched a program called the College Core Curriculum (CCC) program.

LESS THAN 200 students of the 3,000 student population in this inner city school initially signed up. Now approximately 1,000 at risk students are in the program. Now 65 percent of Phineas' students go to college.

It can be done. It takes money. But in the Phineas High School success story, it also took a commitment by all parties, the school, the parents and the former at risk drop-out stu-

Jack Gladden

Whether the episode broke any laws or not is still under debate. The women reportedly have met with attorneys to discuss legal action for invasion of privacy. That's a right they have - the right not to have their private lives put on public display by a bunch of picketers who are just trying to "help.

But even if they can bring a successful lawsuit against the picketers, the damage has been done. The patients - the victims in this case were humiliated, horrified, outraged, according to a clinic official SO'S HERE'S my modest proposal. If Mills and the Fetus Worshipers are really motivated by love and not hate, if they really want to "help," let them replace their picket signs with their checkbooks.

If they love these "unborns" so much, let them say to the woman in the clinic, "If you'll have your baby insteading of aborting it, we'll take care of it. We'll pay for the prenatal care, the delivery. Any complications that may arise.

"We'll take full responsibility for this child for the rest of its life. All you have to do is carry it to term and deliver it, and we'll take over from there. We love it that much.'

If Mills and the Fetus Worshipers are willing to do that, then I'll be willing to believe that they really are motivated by love.

But if they aren't . . . well, hatemongers aren't new. They've been around since the beginning of time. Jack Gladden is a copy editor with Observer & Eccentric newspapers.

propelled Little Caesars into first place in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

Caesars, coached by John Moraitis and Ken Wandzel, took a pair of games Sunday from Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury to run their LCBL record to 12-4-1.

Livonia Clarenceville High product Rich Roy clubbed three-run homer as Caesars outslugged Hines Park in the opener of a twin bill at Ford Field, 11-7.

Jeff Bates, Jeff Miller and Adam Havey each contributed two hits for Caesars, which scored six times in the third inning and five more in the fourth to erase a 3-0 deficit.

Bates, a catcher from Grand Valley State, knocked in three runs.

Third baseman Mark Stokes collected three hits for Hines Park.

Eric Stanczak, the University of Detroit Mercy right-hander, worked 61/3 innings to pick up the win. He needed relief help in the seventh from Livonian Bill Bannon (Western Michigan University).

Brian Paupore (Canton High and Hillsdale College) suffered the loss.

In the second game, Lou McKaig (Madonna College) scattered seven hits over seven innings to lead Caesars to a 4-1 win. McKaig struck out six and walked five.

Keith Bozyk (Redford CC High and Adrian College) worked the first four innings. He was charged with the Shortstop Mark Hribar went 3-for-3 for Walter's.

The losing pitcher was starter Chad Wrona, who worked the first 51/4 innings.

WALTER'S 6-1, DELWAL 4-2: In a battle for second place, Walter's and Delwal of Brighton split a double-header. In the opener, Craig Overaitis (Franklin High and Henry Ford CC) clubbed the game-winning homer in the top of the sixth to lift Walter's to a 6-4 triumph.

Hribar and Jason Gabel (Churchill High and Central Michigan) each added two hits. Gabel, a first baseman, knocked lected two hits. Winning pitcher Mike Coleman went the distance for Walter's, scattering five hits and four walks.

Lefty Leo Hutchinson (Redford CC High and Eastern Michigan), went six innings. He suffered the loss.

Area well represented in prep all-star contest

Once again, the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association All-Star football game will have distinct Observerland flavor.

Five All-Observer players and one area coach have been selected to participate on the East squad in the 11th annual classic, set for Saturday, Aug. 3, at Spartan Stadium in East Lansing.

Walt Bazylewicz, who at age 67 led Redford Bishop Borgess to a 6-3 record, a Catholic League Tri-Sectional co-title and a berth in the Prep Bowl, will coach the East All Stars

Among the players invited to participate on the East squad:

• Karl Wukie, Plymouth Canton: The 6-foot-1, 175-pound quarterback led the Chiefs to their first-ever state playoff berth and a 9-2 record. He paced Canton with 2,600 yards total offense. Wukie is headed to Western Michigan University as a preferred walk-on.

• Anthony Hood, Bishop Borgess: The 6-foot, 205-pound running back, bound for Northwestern University of the Big Ten, gained 1,172 yards last season for the Spartans.

• Blazo Sarcevich, Farmington Harrison: The 6-1, 225-pound linebacker, bound for the University of Hawaii, played both ways (also a tight end) for the 11-1 Hawks, who reached the state Class BB playoffs before losing to Oxford.

THE EAST SQUAD, which leads the series 6-4, also features the state's top-ranked player, Dearborn Heights Robichaud all-purpose back Tyrone Wheatley. He is headed for the University of Michigan.

Other top names on the East team include Shannon McLean of Detroit DePorres, Herbert Gibson of Detroit King, Aaron Hayden of Detroit Mumford and Duane Goldbourne of Detroit Northern.

Among the Eccentric-area players selected to play for the East squad: linebacker/end Jason Penzak of Class A champion Birmingham Brother Rice; defensive back Marvin Reynolds of Southfield; fullback Dedrick Johnson of Auburn Hills Avondale; fullback Jason Wallace of Birmingham-Detroit Country Day; linebacker/end Jason Scott of Troy; and wide receiver Marvin Falls of Southfield-Lathrup.

The West team, coached by Negaunee's Mike Mileski, is led by running back Howard Triplett of Lansing Sexton, quarterback Jay Riemersma of Zeeland and lineman Rob Vanderleest of Muskegon Catholic Central.

Monday night. AJ's Lounge of Plymouth won the game and stayed unbeaten in men's modified fast-pitch softball.

AJ's Lounge remains unbeaten

By Dan O'Meara

Curtis Richards and Al White are teammates when competing nationally for their Miami-based modified fast-pitch softhall team

The opposite is the case when it comes to backyard rivalries such as the one played out Monday night at Ford Field in Livonia where two of the nation's top pitchers faced each other in a key men's modified league contest.

Richards tossed a one-hitter and outdueled his mentor, White, as Plymouth-based AJ's Lounge defeated All-American Sports Center of Farmington Hills 5-2. The winner kept pace with co-leader Primo's Pizza, both with 8-0 records, while All-American slipped to 6-2.

"Al White was basically my teacher," Richards said. "He taught me how to pitch and how to throw different pitches.

"I respect him for that, but when we're on the field I'm looking for a victory as much as him. You have two national pitchers going at it and, fortunately, our team came out on

JIM DILLON had the only hit off Richards, driving in a run in the fourth inning when All-American scored twice to take a 2-1 lead.

Richards was pitching a perfect game through three innings when Brian Tiller led off the fourth by reaching base with the help of an infield error. He went to third on two Pitchers pace win

Scott Kennedy and Jeff Paluk combined for 19 strikeouts Monday as Quality Construction/Plymouth Elks defeated North Farmington-West Bloomfield 7-3 in the Little Caesars Connie Mack Baseball Federation.

Paluk got the win after Kennedy left following the third inning with the score tied 2-2.

Kennedy struck out nine while giving up one hit, issuing one walk and hitting one batter. In the last four innings, Paluk fanned 10. He allowed four hits and five walks.

Their teammates supported them with 11 hits, Aaron Rumberger going 3-for-4 to lead the wild pitches and scored on Dillon's hit, and Dillon gave All-American the lead when Ron Wandzel was safe on a strikeout/wild pitch.

Richards allowed only two other baserunners, retiring the side in order in the fifth and sixth innings before giving up a lead-off walk in the seventh, which was followed by a fielder's choice.

"Curty is the best pitcher that we'll see around here," All-American player/coach Dave Brubaker said. "He's played with us (previously when the team was FGS Radiator and Pat Boyle Chevrolet), and we know how he throws. He's a good pitcher."

Jason Riggs and Tom Noonan had two hits apiece, Mike Wougamon broke the 2-2 deadlock with a two-run double and Paluk had two

RBI with a single and a sacrifice

Quality/Elks had a late start due to Plymouth Salem's extended high school season in which the Rocks captured the Class A title, but the team is 3-1 in summer play. In its previous game, Quality/ Elks defeated Canton, a team composed of 17-year-old players from Canton and Salem high schools, 3-1. Jeff Belisle and Kevin Craggs had run-scoring doubles.

AJ's managed to get seven hits off White, the dean of modified pitchers in the metro area and possibly the

"The important thing is knowing we're facing Al White," AJ's player/ coach Tom See said. "You can see it in the attitude of the guys. Everyone bears down a little more and gets more intense.

"SOME TIMES people wonder why 35- and 36-year-old guys put on a uniform and come out here. It's the challenge (of facing a pitcher like White). I've played 20 years but some guys who've played 6-7 years don't know what he could do in his prime. Al was the dominant pitcher in the nation."

After scoring first on See's RBI single in the fourth, AJ's regained the lead with two runs in the sixth. Tim McCrohan singled and scored from first on Jeff Keifer's double, and Keifer, the only player with two hits, scored his second run on Brian Dinsmore's hit.

AJ's added insurance runs in the top of the seventh. Following a leadoff walk to Ron Sitkauskas and a hit by John Rathwell, Lee Harrison's two-out single make it 5-2.

Without that two-run hit, "They start the seventh down one, and they can bunt (leadoff hitter) Brubaker along and make something happen," See said. "Instead we're up three and it changed the emphasis of the in-

With the team playing well this year and having Richards on the mound, AJ's had confidence in its ability to come back from the 2-1 deficit, according to See.

"You go down a couple and think 'Here we go; they got us,' " he said. "This year is a little different. We think we've got a good team and we're sticking with it. Part of that stems from having a pitcher like Curty, with his enthusiasm and tal-

EFF DAVIS' FACE lit up like a beacon in a light house. The 11-year-old Bloomfield Township resident had finally broken our hex and landed a 20-inch lake trout.

All the fishing reports coming from the northwest section of the northern Lower Peninsula last week indicated the fishing would be great. Limit catches of lakers and steelhead had been the rule rather than the exception for the past two weeks. But our crew of seven, including Davis and his father Charlie, managed to elude all those hungry fish for a full three hours Wednesday before Davis broke the ice by landing our first laker.

BETSIE LAKE, cluttered with a few dilapidated posts which formed the foundation of a once-roaring saw mil!, rests quietly on the eastern shore of Lake Michigan at Elberta. It serves as home port for Southfield's Jon Molesky and his Wa-Hoo Charter Service.

Molesky began working on charter boats as a teenager. He started his own charter service six years ago while a freshman at the University of Michigan and is probably the only college graduate to fish himself through school.

During the week, Molesky works at a desk job in Traverse City while first mate Dave Grant runs charter trips. On weekends, and any other time he can slip away, you'll find the 1986 Birmingham Groves graduate seated comfortably in the captain's chair of a 27-foot Sportcraft dubbed "The Wa-Hoo"

A PICTURESQUE VIEW of the Sleeping Bear Dunes glistening in the afternoon sunshine arose in the distance on our starboard side as we motored out of Betsie Lake and into the luscious blue waters of Lake Michigan. Minutes later, South Manitou Island reared its great sandy head and peaked at us through the hazy horizon.

But it wasn't the spectacular views that lured Molesky to the area as much as the smorgasbord of fishing opportunities.

"It's so great up here," said Molesky, who started his charter service

The view is great, but so charter out of Muskegon. "The versatility of having lake trout in here close is fantastic. And if the lakers aren't hitting the steelies will be. Then, a little later (in the summer) the salmon begin to move in."

THE BANK OF Lake Michigan drops off sharply just south of Platte Bay below the Pointe Betsie Lighthouse, which is where we bagan our

"The lakers tend to stay at a certain depth when they find the water temperature they like.," explained Molesky. "The ideal temperature range is in the upper 40's to low 50's. Right now, they're stacked on the bottom in 60 to 75-feet of water.

An abundant supply of baitfish, primarily alewife, keep the lake trout in the area during the early summer months.

"There are still tons of baitfish up here," Molesky said. "Practically every fish we catch has a belly full

WE CONCENTRATED OUR efforts on lakers this day. Because of a late start (we didn't wet a line until nearly noon) the action was slow for the first three hours. But as evening approached the feeding activity of the lakers increased.

Jeff's fish hit a green spin-n-glow trailing a series of silver and green cow bells off a downrigger in 65-feet of water. The bait of choice, however, turned out to be a laser squid trailing a silver fluted dodger.

"Fish on!," yelled Molesky, as one of the lines snapped free from a downrigger and the pole tip began its ritualistic dance. Charlie did the honors this time as a dandy laker succumed to the razor-sharp hook hiden in the midst of a rubber squid.

The action was torrid for the next two hours as our party of seven took 12 lakers and one lonely burbot. All the fish were caught on rigs set on a downrigger.

HAD EVERYTHING GONE according to plan, we would have ventured out some 25-miles from shore to match wits with the feisty steelhead. Radio reports from other boats coming in to dock revealed near limit catches of steelies.

"Steelhead action has been fantastic and will continue that way through the middle of July," Mole-

The fish are gathered at the scumline - an area where the warm shore water meets the colder water from the center of the lake. The scumline is usually loaded with insects, which the steelhead feed on re-

"They're (steelhead) suspended in the upper 10 feet of water feeding on insects," Molesky explained. "When they hit, a lot of times they'll head for the surface and jump right out of the water. The action right now is

Sport anglers and charter boats will work the lakers and steelhead for the next few weeks until the salmon begin to move in.

The salmon kind of disappear a little bit early in the summer and no one really knows where they are," Molesky said. "The Kings (chinook) will start showing up in mid July and the coho will be back in early August. It's primarily a lake trout and steelhead fishery until the salmon start showing up.

Wa-Hoo Charters can be reached in Southfield at 552-9635.

Mike Thomas, Redford Catholic Central's outstanding two-way back, has accepted a full-ride football scholarship to Eastern Michi-

Now all he needs is someone to give him a ride to Ypsilanti so he can sign the binding national letter of intent.

Thomas, who helped lead CC to the Class AA state cham last fall, wasn't sure his 1982 Buick Regal could make the trip this week, so Eastern coach Jim Harkema has had to wait a little longer to sign his prized recruit. Because the football recruiting season has long been over, players must either show up on campus to sign the letter - or mail it.

Thomas might be better off using the postal service.

"My fuel pump is leaking badly oil and gas," said Thomas late Tuesday night. "My car has a good body on it and gets me here and there, but I shouldn't get on the highway too much with it. Sometime this week I'll get there maybe by Greyhound. (Eastern) Coach (Greg) Satanski said he might mail me the letter and my mom (Barbara) and I will sign it and send it back Federal Express.'

The recruiting experience has been an adventure from beginning to end for Thomas. Because of his size (6-foot-1, 190 pounds) and speed (40 yard dash in 4.5 seconds), Thomas attracted several major colleges early, but his grade point average wasn't nearly as attrac-

THOMAS SCORED an 18 on his ACT test (which enables him to play as a freshman), but heading into his final high school semester, did not have at least a 2.0 GPA in his core curriculum classes to qualify at most schools.

Thomas said he earned a 2.5 GPA in his final semester to raise his core curriculum average to 2.1. Eastern's admissions office then accepted Thomas, and Harkema offered him his last remaining scholarship, giving the Eagles (formerly the Hurons) 25 players in it's a good school.

Thomas originally committed to the University of Michigan, but the school's admissions office would not accept him as a freshman even after his improved core curriculum GPA.

Thomas said if he had to start high school over, he'd have studied harder from the time he entered CC as a sophomore after graduating from Beaubien Junior High School in Detroit.

"It's been a real unique and hectic recruiting season for me," Thomas said. "It's really been an experience, a valuable experience. I've learned my lesson. It was just a matter of time management wasn't really focused on my school work.

"I believe the Lord is leading me in the right direction and I thank God for the opportunity. It couldn't have been there at all, so it's a blessing they did offer me a scholarship. A wonderful blessing."

THOMAS GAINED 556 yards on only 111 carries as a tailback last fall, but will probably end up playing in the defensive secondary in college. He was an All-Observer first-team defensive back, recording 46 tackles, recovering a fumble and making two interceptions.

"I think my offensive days are over," he said. "I like to hit instead of getting hit."

Thomas regrets not having a chance to play for U-M, but looks forward to suiting up for EMU, which struggled in 1990 with a 2-9 overall record. Eastern last won a Mid-American Conference championship, and the California Raisin Bowl, in 1987. At EMU, Thomas will join Brian Chaney, a defensive end on CC's championship team who signed a letter of intent with the school in February.

"It's definitely a plus, but I wouldn't say the reason I'm going there is because Chaney is there, Thomas said. "Eastern is a great opportunity and was willing to wait for me. The program is on the uprise, they're getting ready for a new stadium renovation, a new playing surface, and academically

Career switch helps pursue dream

By Mary Jane Doerr special writer

HIRTY-THREE-year-old Keith Koster is a retiree. For 15 years, he worked the line at General Motors, building trucks and dreaming of a music career. He kept working, going to night school to earn two music degrees, an undergraduate and graduate degree. He then finished a second master's degree in business.

When GM offered him the incentive for early retirement, he took it. "I am still not where I want to be financially, but I am so much happier," said Koster, who now teaches music at St. Mary's Prep School and College in Orchard Lake and is the director of music at the Utica United

"I did not think I would like teaching high school but the kids are

Methodist Church

FOR THE LAST two years Koster has pursued another dream. He is cofounder and musical director of the Great Lakes Men's Chorus, a local chamber ensemble that is, for the first time, venturing into vocal jazz in a concert at 8 p.m. Friday at Cranbrook House, 380 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills. Tickets at $10 are available at the door.

Joining the 12-member ensemble is the Wayne State University Vocal Jazz Ensemble, which is making its final appearance in this area before appearing in Switzerland at the Montreux Jazz Festival.

"This has been a real challenge for me," said Michael Moore of Redford, co-founder of the Great Lakes Men's Chorus. Moore is a classically trained baritone with a music degree from Eastern Michigan University who teaches music in Plymouth.

"The chords are very close together in vocal jazz, and it is sometimes harder to hear the changes," said Moore. "I have gained so much respect for Cole Porter's music."

Koster has planned a medley of Porter's music — "Night and Day,"
"Don't Fence Me In" and "After You" - to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the American composer's birth in 1891 in Peru, Ind.

Also from the 1920s-'30s era, he has programmed a medley of Duke Ellington tunes including "Hit Me with a Hot Note" and Rodgers and Hart's "Little Boy Blue." From the vocal group Manhattan Transfer he has taken "Route 66" and "Java Jive." A jazzed-up version of "Over the Rainbow" will precede a combined arrangement from "American Bandstand" called "Bandstand Bogie." The Wayne State ensemble is planning to preview some of the Montreux Jazz Festival program.

IN THE TWO years since the Great Lakes Men's Chorus has been in existence it has given three concerts each year and about 10 community programs. The 12 singers are all volunteers and come from all over the suburban area. They all have other jobs and rehearse once a week on Tuesday evenings. Some are professional musicians like Moore and Koster. For others it is their first venture into performance sing-

As with any entertainment group the cost of the performance quickly adds up - renting the hall, cleaning the tuxedoes for each performance, news releases, and so on. Koster says costs for the chorus have already reached $5,000 for each concert, which he says seems impossible. He and other members of the board of directors want to enlarge the size of the chorus to 25 or 30 and increase the number of concerts. They want to keep the quality of their music high but want to expand their repertoire from gospel and classical into jazz and popular mu-

"I like the sound of a men's chorus, and there are so many arrangements out there for four-part men's voices," Moore said, citing the theme song from television's "Growing

Wine Dinners

Two wine dinners are planned this summer at the Golden Mushroom restaurant in Southfield. A Burgundy Dinner, with wines from Domanine de la Romanee Conti, is scheduled for Thursday, June 27. Cost is $295 per person. Next special dinner features wines from the Flora Springs Winery, a small family enterprise in the Napa Valley, on Saturday, July 15. Cost is $60 per person. Foods for both dinners will be selected by Master Chef Milos Cihelka and Chef de Cuisine Steven Allen to complement the wines. For more information call the restaurant at 559-4230.

Nutritious subs

Subway stores are offering six different submarine sandwiches and salads approved by Henry Ford Hospital's HeartSmart program. Selections include turkey, roast beef and vegetarian subs which meet HeartSmart guidelines for fat, cholesterol and sodium. Three salads also will be available. "We're really excited that we've finally found a fast food we can recommend," said. dietitian Fay Fitzgerald, HeartSmart coordinator. "These foods are wonderful. They're healthy and tasty and each one is a complete, nutritious meal."

Antifreeze lives, but Germans can't stand dead fish

of antifreeze every year. Actually, the proper technical term is "coosince a considerable portion of the stuff ends up in cars in the sun-

Practically all of it is ethylene glycol, a chemical that has the happy property of remaining liquid at about 60 degrees below zero when mixed 40 percent with water. Prestone and Zerex are the two most popular brand names, together accounting for about 80 percent of coo-

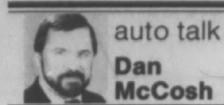

ALL THIS is the kind of thing I was learning at "antifreeze university" in Wyandotte, home of BASF Wyandotte, which makes Zerex coolant. In fact, it was a thinly disguised sales pitch for Zerex-brand coolant. Regardless, I was fascinated.

As it turns out, the ethylene glycol ople, who normally would have a stable market until global warming gets really serious, are being threatened by a new chemical called propylene glycol - a near cousin, chemically, which has slightly different properties.

One is that it has a higher boiling point, which is of interest to engineers. The other is that it is less toxic, which is of interest to pet owners.

FOR SOME reason, common antifreeze is tasty to dogs and cats, and .

they tend to lap the stuff up if it is left untended when you change your antifreeze (some 40 percent of American adults change their own, in case you wondered - the most popular do-it-yourself car opera-

Both glycols are metabolized into a kidney-destroying poison. The process takes some time, which is something to keep in mind if you suspect either a child or pet has taken some the fact that no effect is immediately apparent shouldn't stop you from a quick trip to the doctor. It takes a substantial quantity of either type to be fatal, but twice as much propylene glycol as ethylene glycol.

ALL THIS is something that never occurred to me, but is typical of the kind of thing you worry about when you manufacture tons of automotive

According to the BASF people, antifreeze is a relatively benign substance. It biodegrades relatively quickly, and in fact can be recycled, although no auto company approves of using recycled antifreeze in its

In fact, ethylene glycol lives pretty much forever in a car's cooling system. The reason you have to change it every couple of years or so is that it is full of other chemicals that prevent corrosion in the car's cooling system and engine block. These wear out, and old coolant can end up by taking out a water pump or cylinder head if left untended.

AND AS if dogs eating the stuff weren't enough to worry about, there is the dead fish and the Mercedes.

It turns out that a good corrosion additive - tolyltriazole, if someo asks - smells a bit like dead fish This upset the high-line German companies, mainly BMW and Mercedes, who were concerned that a leaky heater would turn their carsinto something that would attract

This is one reason why you get a special, BMW antifreeze without tolyltriazole at the dealer, if you know what's good for you.

Some employers will bend to accommodate workers

"This basically says we value (our employees' children)," O'Connor said. "I can't imagine saying a better thing than that."

Steven Faine, administrator for professional and support services at Botsford Hospital in Farmington Botsford began offering on-site child care four years ago when it built a separate child care building at the hospital. "We think its one of best in the state," Faine said.

Since the facility was built with child care in mind, it was designed to include special safety features and features built to accommodate small

THE FACILITY is staffed by 15 employees and cares for 50 children at a time. Botsford pays for 25 percent of child care costs.

"There's been a lot of talk about on site child care, but they talk about it and talk about it. Frankly, I can't understand the reticence," Faine

Hospitals were some of the first companies to recognize the need for child care assistance, but it is sursomething to help their employees,

"We still get calls all the time from hospitals interested in our program," he said. "In health care, our work force is very finite," he said. Furthermore, a vast majority of the health care work force employed in the hospital are women of child-bearing age. Men who work in the hospital also use the child care center, he added. Faine said there are several advantages to on-site day care. An obvious advantage is that the hospital subsidizes the cost, but another big advantage is parents can visit their children on breaks and during lunch.

"I can't tell you how much this has done for morale — we even get a lot of positive comments from employees without children," he said.

Working is a burden not only for the parent, but for the parent's coworkers as well, he explained. A worried parent is more likely to be a burden to the workplace, he explained, and co-workers have to pick up the slack.

An unexpected benefit, he continued, is the effect children have on the hospital campus. "I think it's good for everyone to see what real life is like - patients and employees get refreshed when they see the young children." But the key reason the program was initiated, Faine said, was to retain and attract employees. Morale has greatly improved at the hospital since the child care center started, and that improved morale has resulted in a slow turnover Hospitals, Faine said, traditionally have a very high turnover.

We've had people come and say they'll work here if they're guaranteed a spot in the center and we've had people say I wanted to leave, but won't because I don't want to take my kid out (of the center)."

agon has indicated it will interview existing Charley's employees for employment, he said.

If all transpires as planned, Sikorski said, Paragon will buy and convert East Side Charley's in Harper Woods, Fairlane Charley's in Dearborn, Meriwether's in Southield, and Livonia Charley's.

The four remaining restaurants -Charley's in Toledo, Bloomfield Charley's, Northville Charley's and Clamdiggers in Farmington Hills, would be reacquired by the C.A. Muer Corp.

Sikorski said the plan - if approved - would free Charley's Restaurants Inc. from all debt. The corporation owes suppliers, banks and the C.A. Muer.

Sikorski said he doesn't regret his foray into the restaurant business, but if he could change one thing, he would not leverage himself so deep-

WHEN CHARLEY'S Restaurants Inc. first went into bankruptcy, he launched a chain-wide effort to re focus its customer base, improve facilities and change its menu. "It had a positive effect, but we were really behind the eight ball on the bank debt and the money owed to C.A. Muer.'

Daniel Nye, vice president of op-erations for Paragon of Michigan, said last week that the sale of four restaurants - along with plans to open an additional three - will nearly double Mountain Jacks' presence in the this market.

Paragon of Michigan already operates 12 stores in Michigan, including Bloomfield Township, Farmington Hills, Troy and Southfield.

Nye said the four Charley's Paragon intends to convert to Mountain Jacks will employ about 400 roughly the same number now employed at Charley's restaurants.

Business leaders wrestle with child care questions

staff writer

Who's watching the children? Sixty years ago, it was probably

Thirty years ago, it was probably

If it's a 90's kind of family, with mommies and daddies both working, it's probably some sort of day care arrangement.

Private sector day care providers have rushed to meet that increased need. But the problems presented by caring for the children of southeastern Michigan's work force have far outstripped the private sector's ability to cope with the demand for day

Robert A. Davis, Child Day Care Delivery project director for the Metropolitan Affairs Corporation, said business is going to have to be more involved in helping parents provide day care.

The Metropolitan Affairs Corporation is a coalition of business, labor and government leaders from Oakland, Wayne, and Macomb counties that analyzes regional problems, suggests options for public policy and stimulates civic action.

Changes in population and work force have created a dilemma for not only parents, but for business as well. Overall, there is a lack of information about what quality day care is, and a lack of clear guidelines for businesses seeking to offer assistance to parents with child day care problems, Davis said.

There is also a need to spell out the business benefits of child care.

"That's what we originally set out to do - convince the employers that child care does affect the bottom line," Davis said.

The benefits to business of child care are hard to quantify in dollars, Davis said, which is the first thing most decision makers want to know.

JUST BECAUSE they're difficult to quantify, however, doesn't mean there are no benefits.

'That's what we originally set out to do - convince the employers that child care does affect the bottom line.'

- Robert A. Davis

Ensuring that employees have adequate child care improves employee productivity and morale because child care concerns no longer interfere with the work day, Davis

Assisting in child care can also do wonders for a company's image. Companies that help parents find child care, or in some way assist in child care, are likely to develop a good image - and that image can help companies attract good quality

There may not be an immediate gain for the business, but child care should be considered a long term goal, he said.

"We ought to be positioning ourselves for the future.

But even those businesses interested in providing child care have no idea where to begin, Davis said.

The Metropolitan Affairs Corporation's answer to this most basic question is to publish a handbook for providing child care, scheduled for release later this month.

More than a year in the making, the child care guide will be distributed to personnel and human resources

Options on child care and accredited child care centers are only some of the information contained in the booklet, he said. More importantly, the guide will show business decision-makers why child care is important and how to go about starting some type of child care.

But providing day care and day problem. Davis said a scarcity of quality care staff will be a great problem in the next decade

GAYLA HOUSER, Troy Chamber of Commerce president, said there is probably a great many more compa-nies doing things that involve child care than the average person thinks.

In a 1990 survey of its members, Houser said child care was one of the top five concerns of business leaders.

Businesses have begun to realize that an ever increasing number of families include two working parents and unless they can find quality day care they will not be able to concentrate on jobs, she said.

Child care, Houser said, will become an important benefit in the future. "I think we're only seeing the beginning of a trend. 'It doesn't take a genius to figure out that with less workers (overall) and more females in the work force, that the competition for employees will (necessitate) offering child care as a benefit," she said.

Nor does Houser think child care will be a difficult sell for today's decision makers.

When woman first started entering the work force, the business leaders and decision makers were from the old school - men went to work, women stayed at home and took care of the children.

Today, woman are not only more interested in pursuing a career, but they are almost required to do so.

"Today, decision makers are fathers (in two-income families) or they're grandfather's who see the problems their children have raising

So the issue of child care is not as hard to get across as it might have been once. Houser added there is still the question of what businesses

"Large companies have the resources (to look at the issue), but the small to mid-size companies have a problem," she said. "Too many people think child care is an all (on-site child care) or nothing issue.'

Kimberly Mitchell is a working

In that, she is no different than thousands of others in southeastern Michigan.

But she is also among a slowly growing minority of working mothers who has worked out a "family friendly" arrangement with her em-

Mitchell, communication specialist for the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments, works mostly at home.

"Some people call it telecommuting, some call it family friendly policies," Mitchell said. "I call it the best of both worlds." When Mitchell discovered she was pregnant last year, she didn't know whether she would return to work after the birth or stay home and raise her daughter, now 9 months

"But as it got closer to the due date, I became more and more certain that I wanted to stay home," she said

Mitchell said she enjoys work, but if it came down to working and putting her daughter in child care, or staying home, she was going to stay

SEMCOG, however, didn't want to lose her. Just as any other employer is beginning to discover, the work force is shrinking, and experienced people are getting harder to find.

"So I sat down with my boss and we discussed our options," Mitchell said. The result? Part time, working mostly at home, some weekends and a happily employed mother.

"IF EMPLOYERS want to keep qualified people, they are going to have to work harder," she said. "To me, this is saying they care about me not only as an employee, but they also care about my needs as a par-

But family-friendly policies are just one way businesses can help working parents make ends meet.

Child care assistance can be broken down into basically four categories - resource and referral, which is becoming more common; family-friendly policies, like those enjoyed by Mitchell; financial policies ranging from subsidies to pretax deductions; and on-site child

Joseph J. O'Connor, president of Consumer Market Analysis in Birmingham, said employers have long been under the misconception that the only way they can help parents with child care is to provide on-site

They think it's an all or nothing issue - it isn't," O'Connor said. There are many things that even small companies can do.

Consumer Market Analysis, which provides market analysis for private industry, employs eight workers, three of whom have money deducted from their weekly paychecks before taxes to pay for child care.

"We started it about three years ago and people have been very pleased," he said.

"IN THE SHORT-term, it seems like it's only a benefit for the employee," he said. "But in the longterm, it benefits everyone. The real benefit is it pays off in employee productivity.

"We (as company executives) can't continue to run businesses without being open to child care issues.' O'Connor said. Next to parents, businesses are the most affected by employees having children.

Parents may have to start later because they have to drop children off, they may have to leave early to pick them up, take personal days when children are sick. If companies are unresponsive to these things, they aren't going to keep employees, he said.

Restaurateur negotiates sale

Word of a possible sale of the Charley's Restaurants, currently in bankruptcy, is premature.

Richard Sikorski, president of Charley's Restaurants Inc., said several parties have been talking - and - there is a plan that would clear the corporation of all debt, but there are several hurdles that must be overcome. Charley's Restaurants Inc. filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in November 1990.

Chuck Muer, principal owner of C.A. Muer Corp., said he couldn't discuss the particulars of the plan because any sale is contingent on the approval of the U.S. Bankruptcy

In 1987, Muer sold seven Charley's

Restaurants in Bloomfield Township, Southfield, Livonia, Northville, Dearborn, Harper Woods and Toledo, plus Clamdiggers in Farmington Hills and Meriwether's in Southfield, to Charley's Restaurants Inc. in Farmington Hills.

"Everyone wants this to be wrapped up and done with, but we can't say that," Muer said. Anyone who has ever had dealings with bankruptcy courts knows that until all the papers are signed, a plan is still just talk," he added.

Muer said announcing plans prematurely serves no productive purpose but does cause anxiety for em-

Students find jobs tough to come by

By Julie Brown staff writer

Shelley Rodgers of Canton is working this summer as a lifeguard at the Washtenaw Country Club in Ypsilanti. The money she's earning will help a great deal when she starts college this fall.

"I had the same job last summer," said Rodgers, 18, a June graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. That experience helped her find a job this Rodgers worked indoors at the Washtenaw Country Club busing tables beginning last fall and continuing until January, when the club closed for the winter. She now works 20 to 40 hours a week as a lifeguard, and considers herself fortunate to have a job.

"A lot of people are complaining that there aren't enough jobs for students. I've found that a lot of my friends are having problems this year," Rodgers said.

SHE'LL BEGIN studies in pre-law and political science this fall at

She knows that finding work is essential for students with bills to pay.

"Oh, definitely, especially if you don't have a job through the school year. You've got to have some kind of spending income," Rodgers said.

Jim Bernthal, 19, of Plymouth is also glad that he found a summer job. Bernthal, a sophomore in aviation technology at Western Michigan University, works at the Penniman Deli in Plymouth.

"It's very important, especially for someone like me because I'm paying for most of it," said Bernthal, a 1990 Catholic Central High School graduate. "It's real important. I've got to save a lot of money.'

Bernthal didn't work during his first semester at Western, because he was busy as a member of the soccer team. His second semester, he worked about 18 hours a week as

He worked at the Penniman Delf during his junior and senior years of high school.

SOME OF Bernthal's friends are applying for work many places and not having much luck. He encourages job-seekers to talk to their friends; Bernthal has helped several friends get hired at the deli

"Search hard. Don't give up, don't get discouraged, because the jobs are out there," he said.

John Grybas, 23, of Plymouth is also working at the Penniman Deli this summer. He graduated in May from the Center for Creative Studies with a bachelor of fine arts degree, specializing in photography.

"I'm going to try to find something in my field for this year," said Grybas, a 1985 Catholic Central graduate. He's considering going to law school next year.

Grybas has worked off and on at the deli in Plymouth since high school. He worked summers in college at a photo studio in New York City and has also worked at a Detroit-area studio and done freelance photography.

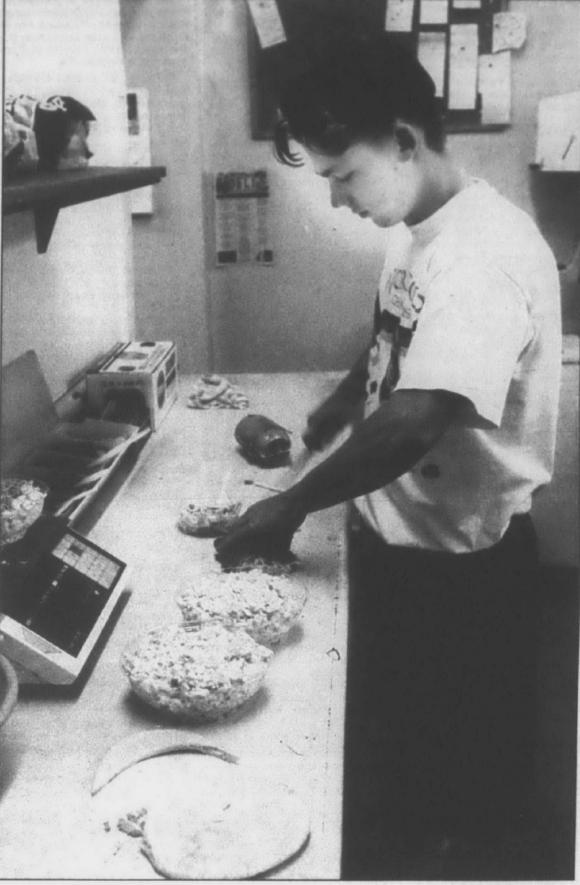

"It's kind of tough to find the job you're looking for," Grybas said. "I have seven, eight years of experience. It's still tough." That's particularly true in advertising and other creative fields, he said.

GRYBAS ALSO encourages jobseekers to remain optimistic.

"Just keep trying. Keep your head up. Don't get down, keep a smile on Musicians Betsy Beckerman, Anne Jackson and Tom Wall don't have any trouble finding their way from Ann Arbor to Plymouth.

'Over the years, we have played at some of the Plymouth events," Beckerman said. They've performed at ice festivals in Plymouth and at summertime "Music in the Park" concerts sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

The three members of Skylark performed at a Wednesday, June 19, concert sponsored by the arts council. Many music-lovers of all ages came to Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth for the noontime performance.

"I prefer to play outdoors," said Beckerman, 39. "It feels like this kind of music belongs outdoors. It seems right."

traditional music from years gone by that isn't often heard else-

"It's good to let people know about that. I really like to entertain people of all ages and I think our music does that, children as well as adults," said Jackson, 33. "I think this music is best outdoors because that's the way they used to play it. It really lends itself to the outdoors.

The musicians from Ann Arbor kept things moving right along during the concert. They sang and played a variety of instruments.

Their backgrounds are varied. Wall, 36, is an electrical engineer with FiberOptic Sensor Technologies in Ann Arbor. He earned a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from the University of Michigan.

Jackson is a computer consultant at U-M. She earned a bachelor of arts degree in English from Albion College.

Beckerman's a substance abuse therapist at Chelsea Community Hospital, and earned a master's degree in counseling from Eastern Michigan University. She teaches music at The Gitfiddler, a music store in Northville.

Beckerman plays the mountain dulcimer, hammered dulcimer, banjo and other instruments during Skylark's concerts. Jackson plays a variety of instruments, including the fiddle and guitar.

Wall plays the guitar, mandolin, keyboards, ukulele and other instruments. All three members of Skylark sing.

THEY DON'T perform original songs, although they do do their own arrangements. At least half of what they perform could be classified as traditional American folk

Last summer was their first time performing in a "Music in the Park" concert in Kellogg Park. They enjoyed that experience and were pleased to come back this year.

We're going to try to appeal to both the children and the grownups," Beckerman said prior to the concert. Their performances include instrumental numbers and some singalong songs. They usually talk about the instruments and the music during concerts.

"I just want the kids to have a good time," Wall said. He enjoys presenting music that concertgoers otherwise might not get to

He too likes performing in the great outdoors. "It's a lot different. I'm glad the weather is good," he said with a smile. An outdoor concert gives the musicians an opportunity to be more easygoing.

"People that come to see you are a little more relaxed," said Wall, who has performed off and on for about 20 years.

THE MEMBERS of Skylark have a cassette, "Skylark Favorites." It's available at The Gitfid-dler in Northville. Last week's concert was the first in a summertime series preed in Kellogg Park for a number of years and have been well-attended. "The weather is beautiful," said Christa Grix of Plymouth Township, concert series coordinator.

"We hope everyone will come down. It's a wonderful way to spend a Wednesday afternoon," Grix said. "A perfect summer afternoon. I couldn't imagine anything better.

This is the third year that Grix, a professional harpist, has coordinated the concert series. She won't be performing in the series, although another harpist, Onita Sanders, is scheduled to appear Wednesday, July 24.

"I look for a broad cross-section so all styles of music are covered," Grix said.

Concerts will continue noon to 1. p.m. Wednesdays, through Aug. 21, at Kellogg Park, Ann Arbor Trail and Main in downtown Plymouth. A different performer or group will be featured each week. Magician Christopher Vos of Plymouth will entertain 11:30 a.m. to noon each Wednesday.

Persistence pays off for job-seekers

view students for summer jobs. Students who decided to look for work closer to home in Michigan haven't fared quite as well, however

We haven't seen our job board so empty in years," said BenDor, a Superior Township resident. That's true in many categories, including clerical jobs, general labor, health care and food services.

"Everything is notably down." Oncampus jobs that in some cases weren't filled in the past now hold more appeal for students. Those jobs generally don't pay quite as well as off-campus jobs, but many students are choosing to work on campus.

"The university has benefited,"

Schoolcraft's placement office provides help for anyone who's ever taken academic classes at the community college. That includes some guest students from other schools and Schoolcraft alumni

This summer, listings are down in such areas as office jobs, shipping and receiving and others, Nordman said, although there are more listings for landscaping jobs. She and her colleagues have been able to find jobs for students, but those jobs aren't always the ones students want the most.

Jobs available pay in the neighborhood of $6 an hour, and some are part time, she said.

NORDMAN AND BenDor agree that students can do a great deal to help themselves find work, even in relatively tough times.

"I would say students need to be more aggressive in their job search, Nordman said. It's not enough just to read the help-wanted ads. Students need to do some networking, check-ing with friends and family menbers to see what's out there.

It's important to keep an updated resume available and to put in job applications at a number of work places, Nordman said. Students can't be shy when they're out looking for

ately and present themselves profes-sionally. Starting a job search well in advance helps; some students start looking early in the year when they're home for vacation

Students also need to know what skills they can offer.

"They need to know what those skills are and how they translate to the employer," Nordman said.

An unpaid internship or volunteer work in the student's field is another option to consider. "Oh, definitely, to get some experience in your field if you can afford to do it," she said.

MAKING COLD calls to employers who do work that interests a student is a place to start, BenDor said.

to be creative. There is work, it's just they're going to have to look for it." Service industries, particularly local ones, have been hard-hit by the recession, BenDor said.

Students shouldn't turn their noses up at fast-food restaurant jobs, placement officials agree. "Those jobs pay very well. There are some good career opportunities in man-agement with those companies,"

Recent college graduates are also experiencing some difficulties in finding entry-level jobs.

"It's been a very tough market for those folks. They do need to consider leaving Michigan," BenDor said. "It your skills are."

EMU placement officials concen trate on helping students learn to market themselves effectively. Job fairs and programs during the past-year have been well-attended by students, she said. Technical fields often have oppor-tunities available, BenDor said, and employers also have sales positions to fill. In many jobs, fluency in a second language, such as Japanese, Chinese or Russian, is an asset BenDor's heard about the recession coming to an end, but remains skeptical.

'Not yet. I think that's kind of a cheerleading effort. I'm not seeing. that yet," she said.

Christopher Vos, 19, of Plymouth is working this summer as a magician. He just finished his first year at Michigan State University, and has no complaints about his summer job.

"This is a job that is fun. For me, it's like I'm getting paid to eat apple pie," he said. "I really like being with people and making people laugh. You make good money and also it's a lot of fun.

Vos is performing each Wednesday prior to "Music in the Park" concerts sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council, and did that last summer as well. He's doing that as a volunteer, although he gets to make some contacts in the pro-

"I hand out a lot of business cards,

I'm getting paid to do it. You can't beat it.'

Vos, a 1990 Plymouth Christian Academy graduate, performs at birthday parties and business functions. He may try to get into area comedy clubs this summer, but knows that's tough to do. Vos is also considering going up to East Lansing to perform a couple days a week at restaurants.

"I still have to look into that." He'd talked to some restaurant managers about that before school got out for the summer.

Vos hopes to save about $2,000 this summer. Living at home with his family helps him a great deal in saving money

He's not positive that there aren't any jobs available for students this wanted signs posted at restaurants along Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth.

"It's funny, I'm a kid and I'm saying that." Some students aren't enthused about those jobs, although they pay about $5 an hour, he said.

Magician Christopher Vos performs prior to a concert in Kellogg Park, entertaining Danny Ikegami, 2, of Plymouth, grandmother Vivian Crocket of Livonia and Michael Banion, 3, of Rochester. "I'm having fun and I'm getting paid to do it," Vos said of his work as a magician. "You can't beat it."

This pool player enjoys calling the shots

By Sue Mason staff writer

There was a time when you could find Theresa Podina behind the eight ball. The 66-year-old Farmington Hills resident was a mainstay of the Northwest Women's Pool League. Not anymore. She has blown the dust off her fingertips and packed away her pool stick. It's time, she says, to let the younger players take over. "It really was more fun for me when I was younger; now I play my set and come home," she said. "But I enjoy getting out one night a week and chewing the fat with the

THE LEAGUE has been in existence for 35 years; its members calling their shots at neighborhood bars like the 4820, Tropicana and Ginny's that have long since closed. The members were mostly barmaids who wanted to have some fun and shared an interest in shooting pool.

Podina is the oldest of existing pool league members. Most are in their 20s and 30s and, unlike the early years, most have office or factory jobs.

"We were just a bunch of girls having fun," Podina said of the league's early years. "Back then, some were mothers and it was a night out for them."

In many ways the pool league is like a bowling league. There are dues ($5 a week), a 30-week season (September to May), trophies for the first and second place teams and for sinking the eight ball on a break, prize money and an awards rules, changing them by vote as needed at the start of the season. The rules include calling the shots and pockets, scoring on a good hit and no slop. And "sportsmanship is always the rule," Podina said.

THE PLAYERS make up the

They even had referees for a while, but that didn't work out. "They'd have a few drinks and not call the games right," Podina

The league has eight to 10 teams of six players each pair. Each team has a "home" bar. These days the bars include the Old Redford Bowl, Old Timer's Bar, Joe Dee's, Mingles, Starters and Deb's.

Teams play each other four times during the season, twice at each other's home bar.

FOR PODINA being a member of a women's pool league was an extension of the job she gave up about seven years ago.

She was a barmaid, working nights "because that's where the money was." She worked in places like the Venice Bar and closed out her career at the Bank Bar on Fenkell in Detroit.

Like many of the league members, she got out for a night out. The first year of league was for fun; after that there were trophies for the winning teams.

"I always worked in a bar and shot (pool) for the fun of it. This was a fun night out. In fact, I played through three pregnancies and never missed a game.

FELLOW LEAGUE member Alice McGee of Livonia recalls Podina checking herself out of the hospital to play pool.
"We call her our Mother Theresa," she said. "She's such a giving

The league recently honored Podina for her longevity. The party included league members she hadn't seen in years. It also featured a Podina specialty - snacks.

"She always brought snacks for the teams and so when she asked what she could bring for the party, we had her bring cheese and crackers," McGee said.

"I think that's what they really miss." Podina said of her weekly treats. "Every Wednesday, I'd bring different cheeses, dips and potato chips for both teams.'

THROUGH THE years, the shooting has improved immensely, the players are more skilled and they practice more. Now, McGee said, "it's more than just a night

"I've seen the league vastly improve and the women vastly improve," she said

"When I joined I had shot a little. I was ready to quit at the end of the season, but Theresa told me no because I knew how to play and hold

THERE ARE are other women's leagues now, but when the northwest league was new some bar patrons didn't recognize it for what it was and would challenge the table during the games.

'We had customers put their money on the table, not realizing we were playing in a league," Podi-

"We used to get strange looks when we'd show up to play," McGee said. "It's not like going into the bar to play, it's competition. We shoot banks, kicks, cut and combinations, and most of us have our own sticks."

, Wider Opportunities programs give older Girl Scouts an opportunity to learn while having fun.

A number of Cadette and Senior Scouts from the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council will participate in Wider Opportunities this summer.

Programs are sponsored by Girl Scout councils across the nation to showcase what's unique about that region or to provide career exploration opportunities. Some Wider Opportunities include international participation.

"Looking Through Tomorrow's Windows" is sponsored by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council. Some 145 girls from 40 states will visit southeastern Michigan to examine and historical heritage.

"Together We Stand" will be sponsored by the Girl Scouts of Greater Philadelphia. Topics will include relationships, college, careers, personal appearance and other concerns of young women in the 1990s. Huron Valley will send five representatives to the July conference, including delegate Allison Partain of Plymouth.

'Oh! Kentucky" will feature 11days of exploring the Kentucky bluegrass region. Girls will visit the Kentucky Horse Park and learn about thoroughbred racing. They will also tour a working horse farm and take a boat trip along the Ohio River.

Kentucky culture will be explored through music, dance and the arts during an overnight stay at Berea College. Laura Weir of Canton will attend "Oh! Kentucky."

"California Dreamin' " will include two weeks of exploring southern California. Girls will visit the San Diego Zoo, walk the Avenue of Stars and visit Universal Studios to learn about the movie industry. Jennifer Weir of Canton chose the Wider Opportunity because "California is a place I've always dreamed of visit-

RESBYTERIANS AREN'T newcomers to downtown Plymouth. This congregation was organized in 1835 a couple of years after Plymouth was officially organized," said the Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee, senior minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. "There always has been a Presbyterian church on this plot

The current building, at 701 Church in downtown Plymouth, was built in 1937 following a fire that did extensive damage. Since then, the structure's been added to

We voted as a congregation to stay here," said Dr. Robert Evans, chairman of the Vision 2000 project at the church. "It's part of the uniqueness of the town and we want to remain a downtown

HE AND many others have close ties to the congregation.

"We were married in this church, my wife and I," Evans said. Their daughter was recently married at the church.

Money raised within the church through Vision 2000 will be used for several purposes, including measures "to make this church accessible to everyone and not just for worship," said Evans, a long-time Plymouth resident and local dentist. "We hope to start construction this summer

Evans and other church members served on a task force that looked into the feasibility of raising money for renovation. That group was led by the clerk of the session Ted Porter, who did an excellent

"We decided, yes, we were going to go for it," Evans said.

Vision 2000 began June 1 and church members hope to finish with fund-raising efforts by early July, said Magee, a Plymouth resident in his 20th year as the church's pastor.

Leaders set a fund-raising goal of $500,000, to be funded over three years. Of that, $75,000 will be used to support missions work in the United States and overseas.

NO PROFESSIONALS in fundraising have been recruited to help with Vision 2000. "It's being done entirely by laypersons," Magee said. Church members and friends will provide support above and beyond their usual generous giving,

"This is known as a community church because we're exactly that," he said. Other Plymouth congregations have moved out of the downtown area as their membership has increased. Relatively few remain downtown, and the Presbyterians would like to stay in the heart of Plymouth.

"We're not reflecting on them at all, but yes I think it's vitally important," Magee said.

The church has about 1,200 members. In addition to worship services and other church activities, organizations such as Alcoholics Anonymous, Alanon and others not affiliated with the congregation meet at the church.

What we're trying to do is renovate the building to make it accessible to all in need," Magee said: "The emphasis is on the handi-

The church has a number of steps, and that makes accessibility difficult for disabled people.

An elevator will be installed to make all three levels accessible. In addition, sound and lighting in the sanctuary will be enhanced to help those with hearing or vision impairments. No major changes to the building's appearance or architectural design are planned.

OTHER PLANS include:

· Repair of mortar and tuckpointing of bricks with a repellant coating to prevent further damage by the elements;

· Replacement of all windows (except stained glass ones) to improve energy conservation;

· Ramps to improve accessibil-

· A stairway to provide an emergency exit from the fellowship hall in the basement, enhancing fire safety and allowing access to the hall from the rear of the

"My dream is to get these things done before I leave," said Magee, who plans to retire next summer. "I wanted to get these things done so they wouldn't encumber a suc-

Greater awareness of the needs of disabled people contributed to the project, Evans said.

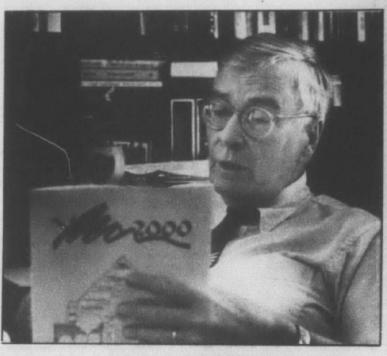

Magee also knows how import-ant accessibility is for disabled people. For a number of years, he's had a handicap that makes walking

The effort isn't a personal crusade based on his own situation. Magee, who uses a walker, said he knows it's important for Christians to reach out and serve all in need.

WITH THAT in mind, worshipers will use $75,000 of the money to support mission work. One international example is providing money for Americans in Moscow, including military and diplomatic personnel, to build a worship facility.

Closer to home, church members will assist the Presbytery of Detroit in developing new churches in the I-96 corridor "which of course is a burgeoning area," Magee said.

A portion of the missions money will be used to assist in building a wing for Alzheimer's patients at Presbyterian Village of Detroit.

The Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee is in his 20th year as pastor of the church in downtown Plymouth. He plans to retire

What message should we transmit to the younger generation, beyond the firecrackers, speeches, parades men and women in this country who have a right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, even though the promise of freedom has yet to be fulfilled for everyone.

BOOK SIGNING

Detroit Tigers Hall of Fame broadcaster Ernie Harwell of Farmington Hills will sign copies of his new book, "Ernie Harwell's Diamond Gems," 7-8:30 p.m. Saturday, July 13, at Coopersmith's bookstore at Laurel Park Place, Six Mile and Newburgh Livonia. Newburgh, Livonia.

AT MEADOW BROOK

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra's summer concert series continues as part of the Meadow Brook Music Festival on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester Hills.

American conductor James DePreist, a protege of Leonard Bernstein, will lead the orchestra in tributes to Bernstein Thursday, July 27, and Sat-

On Thursday, July 4, pops conductor Mitch Mil-ler will lead the orchestra in celebrating the American holiday and his own 80th birthday. The concert will include Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture and a fireworks display.

Saturday and Sunday, July 6-7, will mark the DSO debut of Yuri Temirkanov, considered the Soviet Union's leading conductor. He will lead an all-Russian program, including Rachmaninoff's Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini and Stravinsky's Petrushka.

All concerts are at 8 p.m. For ticket information, call 377-2010.

CRAFT FAIR

Food, entertainment and art and crafts will be offered at "Art on the Square," in Garden City

The event will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Sheridan Square on Ford Road, west of Middlebelt. Craft exhibitors are still needed.

Nature's way

New books focus on wildflowers

Four new books on wildflowers top this month's list of good things to read:

• Two books by Henry W. Art (Garden Way, both paperback) are excellent. The first, "Garden of Wildflowers, 101 Native Species . . . How to Grow Them" ($12.95), deals with plants from all over this country

·It is in its fifth printing. Each line drawing is accompanied by excellent botanical descriptions, some historical facts and informations such as growing needs and propagation methods. Names of plants that grow in like conditions are given, while the charts list bloom time, height and color, a tremendous help when choosing wild plants for a home garden.

The second, "The Wildflower Gardener's Guide" ($11.95), pertains to the northeast, mid-Atlantic, Great Lakes and eastern Canada. The format is the same as the first one and this too, is excellent. It received a Quill & Trowel award from the Garden Writers of America Inc.

Included are charts for timing bloom, soil pH requirements, weather and rainfall information. A bonus is the gallery of color photos. The glosseries in both are a great help to amateur botanists.

• "How to Know the Wildflowers," Mrs. William Starr Dana (Houghton Mifflin, $12.95 paper), was first published almost 100 years ago, but is still viable. We are privileged to peek into the 19th century and read her lyrical descriptions of these flowers.

In this edition, the botanical and common names have been updated. Twenty-five color plates by noted flower painter Manabu C. Seito make a nice addition to the line drawings to help make identification easier. Plants are listed in alphabetical order by color.

• "Wildflower Folklore," Laura C. Martin (The Globe Piquot Press, $23.95, cloth) "reaches out from the shelf" with its delicate basket of flowers on the cover. Each of the 105 plants found readily in the wild are depicted with line drawings.

Where and when to find them, how to grow them, and all botanical information is included. The book was written because Martin discovered when she took tourists on wildflower walks while working as a teacher/naturalist at Calaway Gardens in Georgia, they were more interested in the lore and legend of the plants than their growing habits, etc.

You will find recipes that were used by the Indians and early settlers which might be fun to try. Many wildflowers were used medicinally and Martin has not neglected the subject. Preserving these native gems and appreciating their beauty is important to this author. Your bookstore can order it or call 1-800-243-0495.

· "Butterflies," Marcus Schneck (Rodale, $24.95, cloth), explains how to garden so that butterflies will visit your garden and then, when they have arrived, how to identify them. It has received kudos from experts.

down to earth

Marty

We learn how butterflies evolve, how they really look (great photos), and what their different parts do . . . such as when a part of their feet contact a sweet surface the probocis (outer lobes of the upper jaw) uncoils spontaneously, ready to sip the nectar

This book tells how to raise your own butterflies. The main section is the colorful directory; like colors are grouped for quick reference. Perhaps there are some future lepidopterists who will really enjoy and learn from this book.

• "Rododendrons in America," Ted Van Veen (Binford & Mort, $39.95 cloth, $25 paper) contains more than 200 full-color enticing photographs of this flower and descriptions of 300 varieties. Cultural information, how to purchase and care for them will enable nurserymen, greenhouse growers and home gardeners to be successful with rhododendrons

Plants suitable for all areas of the U.S. have been included, so that proper selection is assured. I like Van Veen's straightforward writing style and how he explains his theories and ideas. The varieties are listed, when they bloom and the color. His pinch, prune and dead-heading illustrations are great.

• "Parsnips in the Snow," Jane Anne Staw and Mary Swander (University of Iowa Press, $24.95 cloth, $12.95 paper), relates the exeriences of these two writers as they traveled seven states through the midwest, seeking out vegetable gardeners in all walks of life.

These people then shared their food as well as their memories of parents and grandparents and how they farmed, and now how things are done today. This memorable human history tale is well told.

· "Woodworking Project for the Great Outdoors," (Garden Way, $10.95 paper) will keep the craftspersons busy all summer. Tools and techniques are discussed for 42 projects from decks, to gun and fishing rod racks. A complete materials list prefaces each project, so that repeated shopping trips won't be necessary.

Marty Figley is a certified master gardener based in Birmingham. Her column runs regu-

Instead, the concert will take place at 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 13 in Joe Louis Arena in Detroit.

The concert will benefit the 20-year-old Michigan Opera Theatre and kickoff its 1991/92 season. At this time, only 1991/92 MOT subscribers may purchase tickets to the concert

They may either order the full subscription of five productions, the fall series of two at the Fisher Theatre or the spring season of three operas at Masonic Temple. For information, call 874-SING

HAMMER DULCIMER

Madonna University in Livonia wil offer "Introduction to Hammer Dulcimer" 7-9 p.m. Tuesdays, Sept. 24 to Nov. 26, participants will learn prac-tice, repertory and the uses of hammer dulcimer in concert, church, classroom and social settings.

Those attending will receive two continuing education units of credit. Cost is $75. For more in formation, call Charlene Berry at 591-5017. To register by phone with credit card, call 591-5188. Madonna University is at I-96 at Levan.

Rules of appraisal game to change next year

Residential real estate appraisers who must have completed at least 75 hours of classroom instruction, have one year experience and pass a licensing exam to practice their trade as of Jan. 1 differ on what impact those changes will have on the indus-

Some, like Hugh L. Gedrich, president of Complete Appraisal Co. in Southfield, and Peggy Ann Kralik, owner of Appraisal One in Rochester Hills, believe there could be a major shakeout.

"My personal opinion is there will be about one third less appraisers

"The one this is going to affect the most is the independent fee appraiser," said Kralik. "I have had people say 'I can't keep up with this stuff. I'm going to drop out.' " Others, like Charles W. Allen, a Livonia appraiser, doesn't foresee an exodus. "I don't think it will change anything," he said.

Up to now, appraisers had to have only a real estate license. Some apprenticed on-the-job with seasoned veterans. Others took some classes to upgrade their skills.

THEN CAME problems in the savings and loan industry. Congress passed a far-reaching law, part of amination and licensing of appraisers doing any business with federally insured financial institutions.

'It's an attempt to clean up the industry," Kralik said. "The appraisal industry was tainted by the S&L scandal. Some of the appraisers were alleged to be part of the Most consumers come into contact with an appraiser only indirectly when applying for a mortgage.

The majority of in-house appraisers and many active independents probably have enough schooling and experience so all they have to do is pass the test.

"MOST STAFF appraisers I'm familiar with will have taken the education class hours to meet the criteria," said Roger Everett, chief appraiser for Fireman's Fund

Mortgage Co. in Farmington Hills. James Wolter, chief appraiser for First Federal of Michigan, agreed that most of his people now meet all qualifications except for the exam.

However, he's concerned that the 2,000 hours of practice needed before taking the exam will discourage employers from hiring inexperienced newcomers and young people from entering the business.

"Who's going to hire anyone who has to work that long before being able to perform?" Wolter said. "I ture.

Other appraisers express different concerns.

"I THINK an oldtimer like me, in the business for 35 years, should have been grandfathered in - at least those with designations in appraiser organizations," said Robert H. Scott, who has a practice in Troy.

What does it mean for consumers? Some appraisers believe that mortgage application fees will rise to cover costs associated with licensing. Others doubt that.

They (clients) should get a more qualified appraisal, have a more se cure value in their property," Kralik

Appraisers who have a license to protect may be less likely to fudge numbers to please lenders or real estate agents, Gedrich said. Not that a great number were doing that to begin with, he added.

Real estate agents can still do market analyses prior to listing, but they can't represent those analyses as appraisals or charge for that service without an appraisal license.

The first licensing exam in the state is scheduled for next month. Classes are offered through colleges and professional associations.

Condo board should address lake access issue

Our condominium is on a lake. The board of directors has been remiss in regard to lake rules, particularly with respect to boats. It is a private lake limited to the use of the members of the association. I am concerned about the safety of the residents because of the lackadaisical attitude of the board, which thinks it is running a country club. What can I do to bring them to their senses?

You have brought up an oftenasked question concerning boating privileges on lakes confined within a condominium project. You must check the condominium documents to determine whether there are any specific restrictions with respect to the use of the lake. For example, are motorized boats allowed and what other activities do the bylaws privide for? More than likely, the by-laws also prescribe that the board may set regulations regarding the use of the lake or beach facilities. If no rules have been set, you should wire a letter to the board advising it of its responsibilities under the condominium documents to preserve the property and to protect the safety of the residents.

If the board ignores your request, you have recourse against the association board as you would with respect to any other violation by the board of directors of its responsibilities under the rules, regulations and restrictions. Some boards believe that because they are not willing to do anything they are somehow immune from responsibility, particularly in the name of saving money. What they do not understand is that more and more boards are being sued for omission or failure to take necessary and proper action as prescribed under the condominium documents or under prudent management of an association.

I am a landscaping contractor and am fed up with one of the management companies who is so arrogant and condescending that it made us line up outside of its offices along with several other landscape contractors before it would even see us jobs. I do not understand how one management company can claim to be so powerful and unreasonable in dealing with us and particularly when the management company has a subsidiary that is also bidding on the job but which has not been disclosed, I am told, to some of the associations that it represents. I am writing this letter to you to alert you to this kind of abuse and wish your comments.

The directors of a condominium or community association have the responsibility to retain contractors, managing agents and other personnel on behalf of the association. Sometimes the board will delegate to the management company the responsibility of letting contracts to subcontractors, such as landscaping, snow removal, painting and other types of maintenance. Many management companies utilize their own subsidiary service companies, but this fact should be disclosed to the board, and bids should be sealed.

While I recognize that this can be frustrating for the contractor, it is equally detrimental to the best interests of the association if the management company is allowed to abuse its prerogatives, particularly if it is large enough to do so. I would try to contact the board of directors directly to appraise it of what you consider to be improper tactics undertaken by the management company. Perhaps that will have a therapeutic effect on the management company's conduct and its apparent arrogance in dealing with you. It may also result in the management company ulparticularly if it is not disclosing its affiliation with contractors or affiliation with contractors or affiliates with whom it has a financial inter-

I am buying a condominium unit from a developer who has not designated the parking spaces. He says that he will assign them, but at present they are not designated on the subdivision plan. Should I be con-

Absolutely. Unless the parking spaces are assigned to you as a limited common element or as part of your unit in the master deed, you will not necessarily have a right to utilize that parking spot.
