Developers buy Radisson for senior housing

Ron Cook and Jim Courtney plan to make the former Plymouth Radisson Hotel succeed as senior citizen housing.

staff writer

Two local developers plan to turn the former Plymouth Radisson Hotel into senior housing.

We signed the papers last Friday, we bought it," said Jim Courtney. He and partner Ron Cook are forming a limited partnership, to raise money to fulfill the purchase agreement signed Friday.

THE HOTEL CLOSED June 30. Formerly the Plymouth Hilton the Radisson Hotel Plymouth was bought by the Columbia Sussex Corp. of Kentucky two years ago

That company, the biggest Radisson franchise holder in the United States, said it would advertise aggressively to attract business. The firm has declined to comment on the hotel closing.

We don't think it can be operated as a hotel, Courtney said, adding that several have been built in recent years along freeways between Plymouth and Metro Airport

Senior citizen housing is the highest and best use for the property. It's something that's needed," Courtney said.

One administrator of a local senior complex said that while several have opened in recent years, the planned senior center could succeed, as the senior population is growing

Plymouth on the Park has been selected as the name for the senior center

As a hotel, "the problem is it's not easily accessible to business travelers," Courtney said.

While the hotel had high occupancy rates in the early '80s, those rates fell in recent years, even though the bar and restaurant attracted business.

How long until terms of the purchase agreement are filled? "That will be defined in about a month," Courtney said. He declined to state the purchase price

TVE WANTED THIS building for six years, said Courtney, who owns three local Remerica of fices. The Cook and Courtney Development Corp. is heading the partnership, to be joined "hopefully by all Plymouth people," Courtney said.

We will be discussing it with Plymouth Township people, it may need rezoning," Courtney said. He said his firm has yet to look at renovation that might be needed

Noting that the hotel has the fourth largest hotel ballroom in the state, Courtney said it could continue to be used for exhibitions. The ballroom has hosted several baseball card shows, and recently hosted an exhibition of Beatles memorabi-

When will the senior center open? "We have not set a time frame on that," Courtney said.

The building has 195 sleeping rooms, several meeting rooms and a pool, along with the bar and

Rex Harvey and Sandra Richards have been researching the background of their house on Adams Their research points to 1827 as a possible date the house was built.

Doug Ross is back in town. And the former director of the Michigan Department of Commerce. has some advice for communities like Rochester Hills, Southfield, Farmington, Livonia and Redford

Be ready to go after a good piece of the economic pie and be willing to make the changes needed to achieve

"Communities must have a clear idea of what they want to be and where they want to go to be successful," Ross said Tuesday in an interview at his new home in Farmington Hills. "Communities that hang on to the past - that won't make changes are in for difficult times. Ross, who was director of commerce from 1984 to 1989, left Michigan two years ago to become president of the Corporation for Enterprise Development (CFED), a notfor-profit agency in Washington, CFED is a combination thinktank and public consulting agency," he said, which focuses on a wide range of economic and developmental problems. Its clients include the Baltimore Regional Council of Governments, the Aetna Life & Casualty Foundation and Johns Hopkins Uni-

But the organization is decentralizing, Ross said. As part of its strategy to move key personnel into diverse parts of the country, he has moved back to Michigan.

"WE ALWAYS PLANNED to come back to Michigan," said Ross, who moved back earlier this month So when this opportunity came up,

Ross said the move home was "a family decision," with input from wife Karol and their daughter, Julie. The couple's two sons, Mitchell and Douglas, are students at the University of Wisconsin.

Ross, who was a state senator from Southfield from 1978 to 1982, said the decision to buy a house in Farmington Hills was, to a large degree, based on input from his daugh-

Ross, 49, said his immediate plans are somewhat general. His main preoccupation will be with CFED, of course. He intends to be active but in a nonpolitical context.

I've always been an activist," said Ross, who held leadership positions with both the Michigan Citizen's Lobby and Common Cause, before turning to government. "That's Ross said he intends to be active in the Farmington schools - possibly through the Parent-Teacher Organization - and, hopes to lecture or teach at the University of Michigan 'And I wouldn't mind tutoring.

POLITICS, HE SAID, is definitely out, at least for now "I simply have no interest.

Ross said he was surprised - like others - that his old friend and boss, James Blanchard, lost his bid for reelection last fall.

Nobody can pinpoint the specific reason Blanchard lost, Ross said. But I believe it has something to do with a general dissatisfaction with politics and government.

People seem to have lost faith in a number of institutions (including politics). They don't believe they are effective in dealing with major problems," Ross said.

So people are turning elsewhere, he said. They're looking for other ways - to schools, service clubs or social organizations - to make their contributions.

Ross still considers himself to be a Democrat. "But there's an ongoing struggle for the soul of the Democratic Party (nationally and locally)," he said.

The future of the party depends on its ability to refocus on mainstream America," he said. Instead of being the party of the poor, Demo-

Madonna to host fall elderhostel

Combining the study of literature with labor unions and Gospel music might seem a little strange, but that's what Elderhostel at Madonna University does.

Founded on the belief that retire ment is the beginning rather than the end of activity, Elderhostel will be offered Sunday, Oct. 6, through Saturday, Oct. 12.

"This is a great opportunity for older people to study topics of Detroit and Michigan interest, meet new people and experience campus life," said Anita Herman, professor of gerontology at Madonna. "We're hoping to have a lot of participants from the Detroit area as well as out

Started in 1975, Elderhostel offers liberal arts and sciences programs es, and in over 40 countries overseas to individuals 60 years and older, although someone as young as 50 may accompany a qualified person. Over 190,000 adults participate

Elderhostel courses at Madonna will include "Work, Wages and Wheels: Detroit's Impact on the American Dream," which will address how the labor movement in Detroit's automotive industry changed the American workplace and the impact of assembly lines and labor unions on our economy. "Ernest Hemingway in Michigan: Horton Bay's Favorite Son," will examine the influence young Hemingway's summers in northern Michigan had on themes in his Nick Adams stories. Rhythmic beats and soul with "Sing, Shout, Clap for Joy: The Glory of Gospel in Detroit." This course will explore the roots and influence of Detroit's gospel music and its emergence as a national art

Each course meets for one and a half hours each day. Hostelers may attend one or all three of the classes. which will be led by experts in each respective field and may include a The $270 program charge includes registration, books or material, six nights lodging, all meals, five days of classes and a variety of extracurricular activities.

The Madonna residence hall offers double occupancy, shared bathrooms and a lounge with a refrigerator. While the college atmosphere is often part of the fun, the cost will beslightly lower for those people who do not wish to stay on campus during the program.

"Elderhostel is for anyone who has a lifetime of experience and an inquiring mind," said Herman. "It's for people who have PhDs and people who have never graduated from high school. There are no exams and no homework. We also have several hostelships, or scholarships, available for people who would like to attend but may feel the cost is beyond

Grants fund 2 local county park projects

Wayne County's division of parks has received three bond grants totalling $822,075 for current and future park projects.

The money represents two approved state grants out of the three for which the county applied in April

The money will be split between three projects: Newburg Pointe Improvement Project in Livonia; West Comfort Station Recreation at Elizabeth Park in Trenton; and Holliday Nature Preserve Land Acquisition in Westland.

The Westland project received its funding - $360,000 with a $123,000 land conservancy match - from the Resource Trust Fund.

This project includes the acquisition of 38.65 acres of land in the city of Westland adjacent to the Holliday Nature Preserve. The area is one of the last breeding grounds for the red fox and will be an important meadow habitat addition to the preserve.

"This is the project about which we are most excited," said Hurley Coleman, director of the county parks system. "The red fox doesn't have many areas left in which to breed, so it is important to us that we help provide it with one."

The Newburg Pointe project received $414,750 in state funds through the Recreation Bond Program grant with a $138,500 county match. It will provide for the restoration of the historic Newburg comfort station and the development of a riverwalk along Newburg Lake for fishing and paddleboats. This will be the first step in the Rouge River Improvement master plan

The Elizabeth Park project received its funding ($47,325 with a $15,775 county match) from the same source and will go to restore that park's historic comfort station as well. The project includes providing handicap accessibility, repairing the slate roof and installing bathroom dividers.

"Little by little, we are raising our parks system to new heights," said Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara. "I don't think I have to." remind anybody about the condition of our parks during the 70's and early 80's when they were nature's equivalent to condemned buildings:

Those were the days when it was easier to find a picnic table in the Rouge River than it was to find one in a picnic area."

Participants will receive a Red Cross certificate on completion of the "Y" Super Sitters course. The next class will be July 23 to

Teens worry about peace, environment

Teenage girls across America are most worried about the future of the environment and peace in

In a nationwide survey of 600 outstanding teenage girls, the majority of respondents placed appreion about the environment and world peace above issues such as hunger, homelessness and drug

My greatest concern about the world today is . . . - "pollution and the depleting ozone layer."

"if our world leaders can't solve their problems peacefully, how can we as citizens be expected

"people make more weapons to destroy the world, when we're doing a pretty good job without

THE 10 WOMEN they most admire, after their mothers and a teacher or coach, are:

Barbara Bush, a Girl Scout leader, Sandra Day O'Connor, Maya Angelou, Margaret Thatcher, a grandmother, Oprah Winfrey, Jackie Joyner-Kersee, Florence Griffin Joyner and Bette Midler.

The responding girls from all 50 states, Washington, D.C., and Puerto Rico were all delegates to "Together We Stand," a national Girl Scout leadership conference in Philadelphia July 10-13.

At the conference they discussed these and other issues of concern to them, and explored how they can make a difference in the future. The survey was taken by the Girl Scouts of Greater Philadelphia, who hosted the conference.

UNLIKE WHAT their mothers might have said 25 years ago, these teenagers are strongly directed toward career-oriented goals. The majority of them have greater consciousness of opportunities, choices, freedom and possibilities than their mothers might have had:

The best thing about being a girl today is . . . — "so many doors are opening for my future."

- "being viewed as an equal with guys and being able to compete against them."

ONE GREAT thing I'd like to accomplish is to become . . . — "head of the CIA."

- "the first black woman Supreme Court judge." - "president of an advertising

- "president of the United

Most girls, if given $10,000, would save it for either college or general savings goals. Very few would use it solely for short-term purchases. Almost half would give to charity or other societal or environmental causes, or help their families:

IF I HAD $10,000 I would . - "give it to an adoption agency."

"give to AIDS research."
"buy my mother and homeless people a house.'

However, shopping did figure strongly for 20 percent of the girls: If I had $10,000 I would . . . "raid the mall."

WHEN ASKED to give a message to the youth of America, they stressed learning from others, but thinking for oneself:

"Listen to the ones that have been through what you are now going through."

'No one should be allowed to influence your opinions enough to change your personality into something it's not.

"Treat yourself like what you are: a valuable piece of original

Legal eagle

Prosecutor strives to keep his cynicism in check

By Joanne Maliszewski staff writer

You could say Tim Kenny's legal career began with irregular lunch

"It was my father who suggested I go next door and see what was happening," said Kenny, an assistant prosecutor for Wayne County.

Next door to the Detroit Free Press, where Kenny spent working some of his college summers, was the federal Court House. The young psychology major took his dad's ad-

"I thought, 'Gee, this looks interesting.' It seemed more interesting than what was going on in psychology," Kenny said.

He went on to law school at the University of Minnesota.

YOU'VE PROBABLY seen Kenny

on TV. Or in the newspaper.

Think of some of Wayne County's more high-profile or infamous criminal cases and you might begin to place Kenny's name.

He is the Wayne County assistant prosecutor who handled the Ronald Bailey child killer case in the mid-1980s and most recently prosecuted Bertram Harper, now known as the assisted suicide case.

"The Harper case is an example of how a criminal case can have an impact on, and shape events beyond the four walls of the courtroom," said the soft-spoken, yet deliberate Ken-

While in law school Kenny worked in a legal aid clinic. In the summer between his second and third years of law school, he got an internship in the prosecutor's office in Detroit. That cinched his future.

"I found it was more rewarding to represent the victim's side of the matter than representing the defendant," said Kenny.

THE ASSISTANT prosecutor re-cently was the first state practitioner to be honored with the prestigious 1991 Leonard R. Gilman Award from the Detroit Chapter of the Federal Bar Association.

The award is presented annually to a criminal law practitioner.

The award is named for the late Gilman, who served as U.S. attorney for the Eastern District for four years until his death in 1985. "He was a man who took his work seriously, but not himself too seriously," Kenny said of the man with whom he once worked. "He had a humility that was appealing."

Kenny knew he had been nominated for the award by Michigan Supreme Court Justice Patricia Boyle and Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Terrance Boyle.

"For every good final argument, my wife has heard 10 dress rehearsals that are far from exceptional."

DESPITE HIS leaning toward prosecution, Kenny left the prosecu-tor's office in 1987 and joined the Farmington Hills firm of Larson, Harms, Wright & Bibeau.

He returned to the prosecutor's office almost 2½ years later. It was for the same reason he left the prosecutor's office, at which time he was in a more supervisory position, and then the private law firm. There simply wasn't enough time in trial for Kenny.

Carriage rides

Horse and carriage rides in downtown Plymouth during special events were approved by the city commission Monday.

Jill Hoglen of Around Town Tours, which is arranging the horse and carriage rides, said ENL Stables of Salem Township, which originally sought to offer the rides, bowed out.

That's because Mike the horse, who would have drawn their carriage, "couldn't stand the music," at downtown events, Hoglen said.

The carriage rides will be available 5-9 p.m. around Kellogg Park during special events. Hoglen said the horse will wear a "horse diaper," a leather flap under the horse, to help keep the streets clean.

Grange wants to put down new roots cumbers for sale during the annual Plymouth Fall Festival. Proceeds have benefitted many charitable societies. But with the backbone of the operation aging, Grange members have cut down considerably on their involvement in fall festival activities

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

They thought it was farewell, but tonight members of the Plymouth Grange will decide if it's feasible to move back into their historic hall, vacated last year to make way for a development that has vet to materialize.

The recession has stalled construction of the proposed Wilcox Apartments slated for the site - and the promise of a Grange meeting room in the new complex with it.

"IT'S IN TURMOIL. It's been almost a year since the Grange moved out of the hall. And the contractor said (completion) could be another three to five years away because of the economy," said Roland Winter, state master of the Grange, a 125-year-old fraternal society with agrarian roots.

Winter supports a plan that would put Grange members back in the old hall, and will attend tonight's meeting.

"It's in limbo. They need something Locally, members don't want to speculate on the outcome. "Last fall when we moved out, we had hoped we would be in (new quarters) by now," said Mary Davison, secretary of "I have no idea how people will respond to moving back. Myself I haven't made up my mind yet."

Winter said membership in Plymouth hovers around 50 or 60 members.

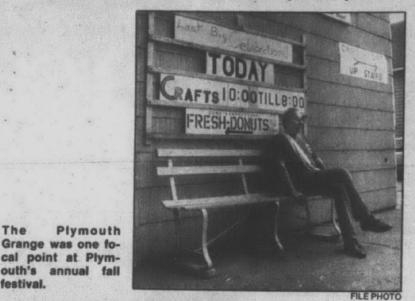

"BASED ON AGRICULTURE, the Grange has evolved into a community service organization," he said. "There are 72 granges in Michigan."

From rural to suburban, agrarian to urban, the Plymouth Grange has evolved with the town. It's hardly the organization of farmers it once was

WE DON'T GO HOME AT FIVE

Americans can enjoy a peaceful evening at home because our armed forces guarantee that peace. All around the globe, at sea and ashore, men and women of the U.S. Navy are working hard to safeguard your tomorrow.

They're protecting you, representing you and making you proud of your country.

IT'S YOUR NAVY.

The students, Matthias from Germany and Elena from Spain are en-rolled in the Academic Year in America program, a non-profit high school/homestay experience spon-sored by the American Institute for Foreign Study (AFIS) Scholarship

Lynne Levenbach of Plymouth, the program's local representative, is interviewing families in this area who would be interested in hosting Matthias, 17, or Elena, 16.

Matthias enjoys basketball, soccer and computers, He comes from a small village outside Hamburg where his father is a physician. Elena lives in Barcelona. She is an excellent student, plays the piano and enjoys cycling and going to the movies with friends. Both students will attend area public high schools, share life with their host families and participate in sports, school clubs and community activities. Students arrive in mid-August to begin school with their American classmates.

Root beer floats bubble on behalf of Easter Seals

Target Stores and A&W will kick off a new "Root Beer Float" fundraising promotion to benefit the Easter Seal Society in the Metro-Detroit area.

The "Float Promotion," featuring A&W root beer and cream soda, will be a special feature in the snack bars at all Target Stores from Sunday, July 21 through Saturday, July 27.

Although both Target Stores and A&W are corporate sponsors of the Easter Seal Society and are committed to the organization's mission of helping persons with disabilities achieve maximum independence, this is the first time they have worked together on a project. Every dollar spent on the Target Stores and A&W "Root Beer Float Promotion" will go toward local Easter Seal Society programs and services.

Since 1919, Easter Seals has been dedicated to providing quality rehabilitation services to people with disabilities and their families. Approximately 90 percent of all money raised is retained locally to serve people with disabilities.

Sign wars

A hazard of the campaign

VERY ELECTION brings with it an outbreak of the battle of the signs. Candi dates look for prime corners to display their signs and therein lies the conflict.

The most recent skirmish occurred at a Plymouth party store and involved two candidates vying for the state representative seat left vacant by the resignation of Gerald Law.

Three candidates are in the race to represent the district, which includes the Plymouth and Northville areas and much of Canton Township. But the skirmish only involved two candidates, Jerry Vorva and Deborah Whyman.

A TERNAGE CAMPAIGN worker for Why-

A TEENAGE CAMPAIGN worker for Whyman objected to a Vorva sign in front of the party store and a similar sign at another Plymouth business.

The worker threatened to picket the businesses, apparently thinking that people aren't free to express their political ties.

Whyman put it down to inexperience on the part of the campaign worker. That sounds likely to us, especially in taking into account that the schools don't tend to teach government very well anymore. They're all sitting around asking each other how they feel rather than learning about the Bill of Rights.

But the response from the other side wasn't much better. Vorva said: "These are the kinds of intimidations the Nazis used."

SOMETIMES WE wish there was a statute of limitations on bringing up the specter of Nazi Germany, and this is one of those times. This is not Nazi Germany. Nobody is whisking people off the street and killing them because of their background, at least not on a regular basis.

To us politics is very often entertainment and should be treated as such. It's the circus come to town and the candidates are the clowns.

It's time to lighten up, Jerry.

Expansion

Anti-airport group off base

OMETIMES THINGS defy conventional logic and the anti-Mettetal Airport group contention that there are secret plans to enlarge the airport is one of them.

Somehow they would have us believe that Mettetal or cops, as they would have us believe, Mettetal International Airport, will be the new landing place for jumbo jets.

The anti-airport group recently obtained some state and federal information about possible airport expansion by filing a Freedom of Information request.

Apparently there was some talk by federal and state officials about expansion of the airport in Canton Township.

However, we put that down more to the lack of things to do for government workers than any serious move to expand the airport.

And just because things aren't likely to happen doesn't mean that people who get paid to plan for things won't plan.

The move to stop a planned purchase of Mettetal by the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township has gotten too far out of hand. The move is out of all proportion to the importance of Mettetal.

And the latest pronouncements are just another example of how far off base the anti-Mettetal people are.

We hope they crash land on this one.

Bad business

Act would allow more power

ELEPHONE companies have found a host of ways to expand business.

They compete against restaurants:

"'Do' a phone call instead of lunch,"
says the brochure in our latest phone bill.

They compete against caterers: "Call a family reunion!" says the same brochure.

They compete against stationery and greeting card companies. As daughter goes to college, dad gives her a telephone credit card instead of much cheaper paper and stamps.

They compete against magazines with directories of business advertising — the two-ton "yellow pages."

They compete against the pokey U.S. Postal Service when proliferating Fax messages go over telephone lines.

If your name is in the telephone directory, phone companies make money when solicitors call you. When you take your name out of the directory, the phone company charges you each month. That's a "win-win" proposition for the telephone company.

SO NOW the telephone companies are lobbying Lansing for a chance to "compete" in a longer list of businesses.

They want to get further into "information systems" — as if you weren't inundated with enough advertising.

They want to manufacture equipment — as if their former parent, AT&T, and its many competitors were somehow sluggish.

They want to get into the long-distance business — as if there weren't enough long-distance

Sponsors of the bills — state Sen. Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, and state Rep. Alma Stallworth, D-Detroit — have been hard-sold a bill of goods under the code word of "competition."

MUCH IS WRONG with the telecommunica-

Telephone companies are a) monopolies and
 b) big. As they seek to invade new lines of business, there are grave risks they can hide expansion costs in their existing monopoly business, underpricing smaller firms.

• After several federal anti-trust suits, the old AT&T empire was broken up, and seven regional Bell operating companies were created with restricted powers. Today the telephone companies want to recreate that empire in the name of "competition."

 This week the House Judiciary Committee noted that the Dunaskiss-Stallworth bills would create new exemptions under the Freedom of Information Act.

• Telephone systems in Washington, D.C., Los Angeles, Pittsburgh and San Francisco have been failing, apparently when a deluge of 11 a.m. calls shut down the electronic systems that route them. We wonder if it could happen in metro Detroit.

No, telephone companies have enough challenges, enough things to do, enough businesses to compete in. Michigan doesn't need the fiendishly complex "telecommunications act" to give the powerful even more power.

Second, third amendments protect civilians from armies

HE SECOND amendment — the right to keep and bear arms — is one of the most cited and least understood provisions of the Bill of Rights.

The entire amendment reads, "A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to bear arms, shall not be infringed."

Coupled with the third amendment, which prohibits quartering soliders without a property owner's consent, it's clear that the founding fathers weren't looking for the proliferation of weapons and the related problems that exist in today's society.

In Britain and America, 17th and 18th century conflicts created a deep-seated fear of occupying armies and the threat they posed to the rights of the civilian population.

200th

Bill of Rights

It was Britain's double standard in dealing with its American colonies on these issues that in part led to the American Revolution.

The second amendment has not prevented the federal government from regulating certain firearms and prohibiting some weapons. Due to the constitution's civilian controls over the military, the third amendment has never been tested.

Struggles of the past help build the future

IT'S BEEN A while since I've wandered over to see the gang at the corner of 11 Mile and Middlebelt.

Longtime readers of this column will know I'm talking about Farmington Hills city hall where I spent more hours than I like to remember covering the eccentricities of grass roots democracy.

Last week I returned for a couple of hours and this time I left with a much different feeling, a feeling that the sense of community is the ingredient which forces us to overcome all the other shortcomings of our present situation.

The occasion was arranged by journalism colleague Bob Sklar, formerly editor of our Farmington and Rochester editions. Bob, now an assistant managing editor, is a real local history buff and has spent considerable time writing and gathering information on the subject. He is a member of the Farmington Hills Historical Commission.

ALL OF US at the Observer & Eccentric have history on our minds this year. We are celebrating 25 years as a corporation, even though some of our editions have been around for more than 100 years.

Recently, a journalism professor from the University of Michigan was commissioned to write a history of our company. For those who are unaware, this newspaper's owner is Phil Power, whose ancestors also were the founding family of Farmington back in the dawning days of the 19th century.

All of us at the Observer & Eccentric have history on our minds this year. We are celebrating 25 years as a corporation, even though some of our editions have been around for more than 100 years.

As a matter of fact, many members of the founding family are buried over at Quaker cemetery on Gill Road in Farmington.

In a move to make the area's history come alive, Bob, with the aid of various Power family members, gathered an impressive array of Power family memorabilia.

At present, it is on display at Farmington Hills city hall.

To remember the time, several folks were invited over to see the display. Phil Power and his father, Eugene, an entirely separate piece of fascinating history himself about whom a book should be written, dropped by along with cousin Bob Power.

They were greeted by Farmington Hills mayor Aldo Vagnozzi as well as council member Jean Fox who is quite an accomplished historian in her own right.

JEAN IS ONE of my local heroes since she wrote an impressive biography of turn-of-the-century Republican governor Fred Warner, whose Farmington home on Grand River is now an historical museum.

Also in attendance was local historian Kay Briggs who is simply a charm to know.

It was a special moment to stand there with present Farmington editor Tom Baer and watch as Bob Power presented pastor Edward Duncan of the First United Methodist Church with a log of that church's history from the last century.

Too often today people question the value of history, its relevance to today's developments. When I remember that recent day in the Farmington history, I know that we can only build a strong future through the struggles of those from

Candidate used poor judgment

To the editor:

Regarding Kevin Brown's article of July 11, 1991: "Whyman campaign workers threaten business."

Having a group of young, inexperienced teenagers ask someone to take down a campaign sign hardly warrants the reaction given by our male candidate.

"It's obscene to think that this occurred on the Fourth of July."
"These are the kinds of intimidations the Nazis used." "To be intimidated because of one's choice is totally un-American."

All of this because a "businessman" was "asked" to take down his sign?

There is a rational way of dealing with these kinds of allegations but it appears our aspiring male candidate is not the rational type. This indeed is a poor example for our youths to follow. Did this candidate sit down and talk to these young citizens, or did he just take the word of the "money faction"?

Stop and think: These young people may have just had a government class that taught them that having a legislator in one's pocket is not morally right. It seems that some of the businesspeople in this town are preparing to stuff their pockets early. This is democracy?

Mr. Candidate's knee-jerk reaction to protect business is fine, and anyone as an individual can display whatever he/she wants on private property, as long as they conform to existing ordinances governing campaign signs.

But displaying campaign signs on commercial property smacks of "buying" a legislator and that is unacceptable to most voters as well as teenagers.

Over-enthusiasm on the part of teenagers is understandable — poor judgment on the part of a candidate to the state Legislature is neither acceptable nor excusable.

Barbara Graham, Canton ly compares to "Nazi intimidation." If this man blows such minor incidents so totally out of proportion, I question his ability to make rational decisions in the state Legislature. Also, I strongly question his inability to understand young people.

As a former police officer, I'm sure this fellow is well acquainted with intimidation, and consequently, suffers from delusions of persecution where none exist.

On the other hand, perhaps you printed an account of this tirade to alert the voters. I hope so. Intelligent people can decide for themselves whether or not they "choose" to have an emotionally unstable person as their representative.

Why-man? After all, "a woman's place is in the house — and the Senate."

Words change in ballad

BACK IN THE early '60s, when the country was still paranoid in the aftermath of the infamous McCarthy hearings, the Chad Mitchell Trio came out with a song called "The Ballad of the John Birch Society."

The Birchers, of course, were the ultimate Communist hunters, and the Chad Mitchell group was a sort of musical version of "Saturday Night Live." Their songs parodied everything from Billie Sol Estes to the high cost of dying.

One of the lines from the song about the Birchers said: "If mommy is a Commie, then you gotta turn her in." Such a concept, even in those paranoid days, seemed ludicrous nough to be funny.

Looking back on that era, when bomb shelters were the order of the day and "better Red than dead" was the slogan of the peaceniks, we can cluck our tongues over the paranoia that reigned throughout the land. We're much too sophisticated for that today. Or are we?

WE SEEM TO have overcome our fear of communism, especially as we watch it crumble throughout Eastern Europe. But as we wage war on illegal drugs and legal alcohol, we are not far removed from the Red Scare hysteria that motivated Joe McCarthy and his followers.

lanes and police sting operations are accepted as "effective" ways of fighting this current menace to society. If such techniques mean giving up a few individual liberties, we shrug and say, "Well, it'll be worth it in the long run.

When police want "no-knock searches" and "warrantiess earches," we shrug and say, "Sure, if it'll help fight drugs."

Out in Rochester Hills last week, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department announced that it had arrested eight people over a 10-day period and charged them with either selling or possessing narcotics. Five of the arrests were made as a result of the department's Turn in a Pusher pro-

AND THEN it happened, not in Oakland County this time but in Muskegon. A 10-year-old girl who, officials say, learned in school about the dangers of illegal drugs, picked up the phone, dialed 9-1-1 and turned in her mother.

She told the dispatcher who took the call that her mother kept mari-juana in the house and smoked it. Based on that phone call and the information the girl gave to the police operator, the state police got a search warrant for the girl's house. They found what they believed was a small amount of marijuana and the mother is expected to be arraigned on a possession charge

The girl, meanwhile, along with her 9-year-old stepbrother, has been taken into the custody of the Muskegon County Protective Services and is staying with relatives pending the outcome of a court hear-

And that's just a little slice of Americana, 1991 style. We haven't come that far from McCarthyism, after all. We're now singing "The Ballad of a Drug-Free Society." The tune is the same; the words are different. "If mommie is a druggie, then you've gotta turn her in."

Only now, it's actually happening.

Old problem gets new look

WHEN I WENT to camp, a favorite song was "100 Bottles of Beer on the Wall" and the countdown, if the bus trip was long enough and the campers persistent enough, was to NO bottles of beer on the wall.

When I went to camp we spent a lot of time working with rope, learning to make various kinds of knots for sailing or for crafts or to tie our bedrolls for overnights.

When I went to camp, we weren't encouraged to talk of home - perhaps to avoid home sickness.

But that was then in the northern woods of Michigan - this is now on a wooded site in West Bloomfield.

A small circle of campers sings: "Cigarettes taste bad. They hurt my throat. If I smoke too many, They will make me croak." Other verses refer to marijuana and alcohol.

Campers sit on the ground tossi a ball of yarn back and forth. Each time it comes to them, they wrap it around themselves in a loose fashion no knots. The idea is to show how we get all tangled up with each

How sad, said a couple of people when I told them about it. But think about it.

Finally we're starting to come to grips with a problem that in past societies sometimes was treated as a joke, particularly if it were a fallingdown-drunk man, or hidden behind household doors, particularly if it were a woman frequently found passed out on the floor.

And the children, well, they were left to handle it as best they could. And that best wasn't very good.

According to current statistics, more than 50 percent of all recovering members of Alcoholics Anony mous report growing up in a family with at least one alcoholic parent.

Beyond that, more than 30 percent of all children of alcoholics grow up and marry an alcoholic.

THIS SPECIAL CAMP, which is free, gives young children a chance to find out that alcoholism and other drug addictions are a disease, that it is OK to have feelings and express them, that they can find a safe per-son who will help them and that they aren't to blame for a loved one who drinks or uses drugs.

As one counselor shared with her group: "I kind of like to look at alcohol or drug use like cancer. It just happened. It's a disease. I had nothing to do with it." We don't do therapy in this program," says Betty Conger, a Rochester Hills resident, who is one of the program directors. "But we have the chance to help these children learn what we call the four C's: I didn't cause it, I can't control it. I can't cure it. I can cope with it." This camp isn't somewhere else run by somebody else. It's here in our suburbs - at the Henry Ford Hospital Maplegrove Center in West Bloomfield. It is run by volunteers from Maplegrove Community Education based in Birmingham and funded by the Birmingham Junior League. How sad? How very lucky for these children.

Education needed to teach compassion to all ages

A HOMELESS, 12-week-old kitten from Pontiac died recently.

It had been this friendly kitten's fatal misfortune to trot toward some strange boys he had hoped to play with. Instead, they tossed him into a five-gallon bucket, poured gasoline on him and set him on fire.

After the Michigan Humane Society tried for several days to save him, they finally euthanized him to put an end to his misery.

Why am I bothering to write about one small, pathetic cat when there are so many other issues of far greater impact? Maybe it's because as I write a pair of kittens is playing happily at my feet, and because I have housed and protected animals all my life. My earliest recorded difficulties with the authorities resulted from action I took in 1949 when I witnessed a kitten being similarly burned. Somebody had to speak up for the speechless.

BUT THE MOST important reason I'm dedicating an entire column to the story of the death of that trusting little waif is because that vicious act illustrates a horrible failure of the home, the church and the schools to teach a significant number of our youths the most fundamental concepts of common compassion.

I wish now that I had done more as an administrator in my various school districts to ensure that anticruelty curricula were fully infused throughout all of the subjects and Children need to have support structure in the school that is often unavailable in the home.

Full-time social workers or guidance counselors should become standard staff in elementary schools. Social and emotional skills and experience must become an integral part of the curriculum.

THIS WILL help instill in young children a greater caring and empathy for others - including nonhuman others.

All of God's furry and feathered creatures have rights, too. What alarms me most is the increasing number of incidents of animal cruelty involving juveniles or young adults.

Two young men stabbed a 3-month-old puppy 11 times in Rochester Hills last summer.

TT IS HOPED OLDER, professional and thus more responsible and humanistic adults would know better and behave better. Unfortunately this isn't true

There remain the annual autumn blood rites of "sport" hunting that countless insecure males of both blue and white collar background indulge in to reassure themselves of their manhood.

The fur traders' use of leg-hold traps still prevail.

And laboratory researchers are continuing to inflict pain and death on innocent animals in experiments that either could be performed by some other means or are unneces-

A case in point is the shooting of more than 1,000 cats at Louisiana State University as part of a study of head wounds that several doctors say duplicates research done 100

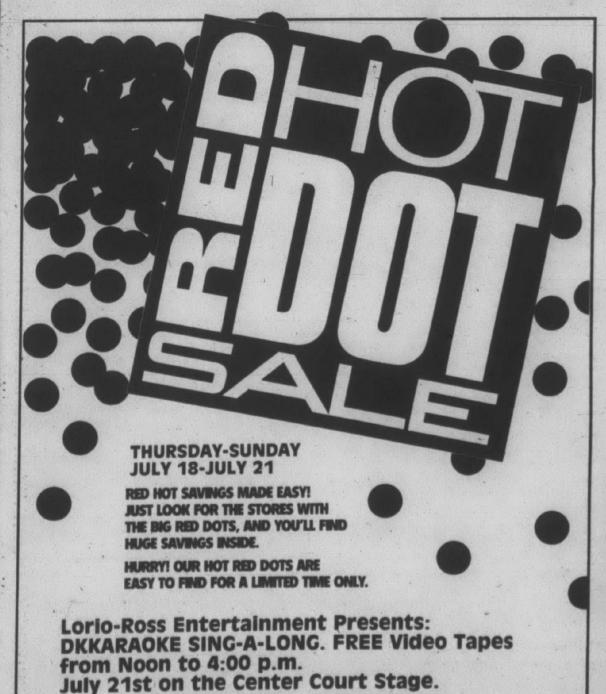

THIS INCIDENT highlights a serious need not only for educating children regarding kindness to others, but for similar adult education

If there is any hope of our becoming a "kinder, gentler" nation, everyone will have to take a consistent stand against cruelty in all its forms.

One little kitten from Pontiac has perished. Due to his death, all of us are just a little less alive today as

UPON MY INSPECTION of the facility Monday night following a Connie Mack game, here is a sample of the obstacles managers, players and fans are facing:

• Weeds: They are everywhere, including the outfield where clover reigns supreme ("We've put weed killer in the outfield twice, and the clover really seems to thrive in the heat and drought," Larson said.)

• Sink holes: We're just not talking about the pitcher's mound and batter's boxes. Just walk around the infield and you'll find a mini-replica of the Grand Canyon.

• Lips and dips: Ridges around the diamond have made playing the infield an occupational hazard. Several LCBL players are nursing injuries because of dangerous bad hops ricocheting off aluminum bats. The field is simply not level.

It's very dry on the back side of the infield.

· Concession stand: This dilapidated cement block building, with paint peeling everywhere, is leased and approved by the City Council to private enterprises. Sometimes it's open and sometimes it's not during peak nights. Some patrons claim they have been charged for (city) water and ice.  The lights: An ongoing problem for years. The dimly lighted diamond may have cost at least one college player, unaccustomed to judging balls in the outfield, a pro con tract earlier this summer because he performed poorly in front of scouts.

· Holes in the dugouts: Those gotta be sun roofs, right?

IN DEFENSE of Larson, he (personally) has only received one complaint about the diamond, and that was from an LCBL manager prior to the season.

"If someone has a problem, you can fill out a field report form, we're open to suggestions," said the parks maintenance supervisor.

As a longtime resident of the city and former sandlot player, I have a few suggestions.

First, make Ford Field as green as the soccer fields at Bicentennial Park. After driving over to the Seven Mile Road complex, I found it interesting that one of the soccer fields was being watered heavily during the day by an above-ground irrigation system. The signs also read: 'Off limits, closed for reseeding."

Ford Field has become what you call a "55 mph lawn."

The faster you drive by it on Farmington Road, the better it

But when you drive by it slowly on Lyndon Avenue, it comes nowhere close to being a "25 mph lawn." You'd think the Parks and Recreation Commission, chaired by Beverly Griffin, would exert some authority on the DPS people, namely Mr. But these are the same people who ran poor Mike Adray, the appliance dealer, out of town, turning their backs on his financial support for amateur baseball. It seems politicians, perhaps even the new administration under Mayor Bob Bennett, don't know how to handle these correctible situations. In the meantime, Mr. Larson and his assistants Pat McKeon and Dave Benson, can take a hard look at a once proud baseball diamond going down the drain.

Having played, watched and covered games for nearly 31 years at Ford Field, something is wrong. The place just doesn't look the same.

Babe Ruth all-stars 3rd

The Plymouth-Canton Babe Ruth All-Stars finished third last weekend at a district tournament played in Grosse Pointe Woods. The top two teams out of each district advanced to the state playoffs, leaving Plymouth-Canton just shy of that honor.

After losing 5-3 in Friday's opener to Grosse Pointe Farms, Canton came back to win two games Saturday on the strong pitching of Nirau Kher and Mike Marsella

Kher had a no-hit shutout going for six innings before settling for a two-hit, 8-1 victory over L'Anse Creuse North. Canton won the second game Saturday 16-1 as Marsella struck out six in five innings before getting relief help from Grosse Pointe Farms eliminated Canton 10-3 Sunday. Canton had plenty of chances to make the score closer, stranding 15 runners on base.

SCOTT RODGERS suffered the pitching defeat. He went four innings, allowing seven runs on nine hits and four walks. Dave Makowiec worked the final two innings.

Quality/Elks rebounded with a 9-6 win over Twitty City from Nashville, Tenn, on Sunday morning.

Jeff Paluk, a 1990 graduate of Salem who played for Saginaw Valley this year, pitched a complete game. He gave up eight hits and six walks, and he recorded six strikeouts.

Twitty City led 6-0 after two innings, but Paluk held the opposition to two hits and four walks after that while his teammates scored nine runs in the next three innings.

Scott Niemiec was 3-for-4 with two RBI and scored two runs. Jeff Coleman and Aaron Rumberger had two hits apiece, and Tracey Ewald hit a two-run single.

She has seen steady improvement during her 5 years on the LPGA Tour, but she never imagined having a year like 1991.

Roadrunner Classic set to go Saturday

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

More than 1,200 runners, walkers and wheelers will gather at 5:30 p.m. Saturday in Livonia for the 8th annual Roadrunner Classic, fast becoming one of state's biggest races.

Staged by the Redford Road Runners, the certified 8-kilometer event features a flat, fast and accurate course with three aid stations and splits at every mile. The 8K starts at 6:30 p.m.

The Junior One-Mile Run at kicks off the evening's festivities at 5:30 p.m., followed by the One Mile Walk/Run at 6 p.m.

Late registration and the start will be near the Livonia Family YMCA on Stark Road, just west of Farmington Road (near Lyndon), half a mile north of the Jeffries Expressway.

The evening race is expected to draw a wheelers' field second in size only to the Detroit Free Press/Mazda International Marathon.

Co-race director Dan Domagalski says treats galore are in store for the Classic, which once again will be highlighted by dancing under the stars until midnight at Veterans Park.

RUNNERS WILL receive a musical send off from bagpipers Doug Keyes, Ed Bicknell and David Machin, who'll sport their colorful wool kilts and berets (even if it's 90 degrees).

"For the dinner and party afterwards, we've ordered 350 pounds of hotdogs," said Domagalski.

At Meadow Brook

Patti Page brings back warm memories

Patti Page and Pat Boone will appear at Meadow Brook Music Festival at 8 p.m. Friday, July 19. Tickets are $27.50, $22.50. $18.50 and $12.50. The Meadow Brook Music Festival is at te Baldwin Pavilion at Oakland University in Rochester Hills.

By John Monaghan special writer

ATTI PAGE still enjoys performing the songs that made her famous as much as her loyal fans love hearing them.

"I think of lovely things," she says, "as I've heard people do when they hear them. So many things have happened to me over the years that I can't help but recall them when I perform.'

Since the original success of "How Much is that Doggie in the Window?" and "Tennessee Waltz" in the early 1950s, Page has recorded 80 albums and 157 singles, performed in three movies. hosted weekly television shows on all three major networks, and toured around the world.

This Friday, Page's current concert tour brings her, along with Pat Boone, back to the Meadow Brook Music Festival in Rochester Hills to stir the collective memory all

Even sniffy critics in New York who previously criticized her all-American persona and vocal stylings are calling her performances "unpretentious," "remarkable" and "intimate." Her desire to get close to her New York audience found her greeting each individual there.

THAT SAME kind of intimacy is harder to capture at a large venue like Meadow Brook, though Page, who has performed there before, still gets out into the audience late in the show.

'The last time I tried this at Meadow Brook, I ruined a beautiful pair of shoes," she remembers. "It had rained a short time before, so the ground was still soft. My heel just stuck.

Patti Page was born Clara Ann Fowler, the second-youngest of 11 children, in Claremore, Okla. Her first peforming job was in 1946, on the "Meet Patti Page" radio program in Tulsa, sponsored by the lo-cal Page Milk Co. When the regular star left, Clara Ann got the part and a new name.

Musician and manager Jack Rael, passing through town at the time, heard a broadcast and recognized her raw talent. He quit his job to represent her and managed her through her initial hits, beginning with "Confess" in 1948. He's still managing her today.

"It's got to be one of the longest manager-performer relationships on record," notes Page. "We still fight like cats and dogs from time to time, but we respect each PAGE'S CAREER has taken her in several directions, including motion pictures. She had parts in three films, including the classic "Elmer Gantry" in 1960.

"I was used to television where you're on the go all the time," she says. "So sitting on a soundstage and waiting for them to call me was a little hard for me.

Her last film, 1961's "Dondi," was based on the popular comic strip and starred David Janssen "It's in the book as one of the 50 worst films of all time," Page notes with a laugh.

Though she doesn't have a recording contract currently, Patti Page will soon see a series of her original Mercury albums re-released on Polygram compact discs. Digital recordings have already surfaced in Japan, where she has played on several occasions and enjoys a loyal following.

Page has been cited for the unpretentious nature she brings to her show, which includes standards like "Old Cape Cod" and "Allegheny Moon" and some current selections. Page especially admires the work of Barbra Streisand and Bette Midler.

"WHAT APPEALS to me in a new song? The idea that I might be able to sing it," she says. "I couldn't sing a certain Whitney Huston song that a I love so much, because it's not in my range.

Critics have noted that Page's voice has changed surprisingly little over the years.

'My voice was a little higher back then," she says. "I can still hit the same notes, but now I can hit the lower ones too."

The Meadow Brook show will reunite Page with some especially loyal fans. "I have so many friends in Detroit," says Page, who made frequent visits to the Motor City. when she hosted a televison show sponsored by Oldsmobile. Her first. Detroit performance was at the London Chop House.

On Thursday, she will be searching the first few rows for members of the Patti Page Appreciation Society, which is based in Flint. Unfortunately, she won't have much time to visit. She leaves the following morning for an engagement in New Jersey

THE YANGTZE River is flood-ing, and 1,300 people have died. It is headline news here in Tokyo, the kind of thing that rates a para-graph or so, if a mention at all, in the papers back home. The shift in perspective of local journalism is in a way more profound than the shift in time when you travel this far. Detroit is, in fact, just an hour back on the watch, until you take in consideration the half a day lost in a trip across the North Pole, some 36 hours of daylight soaked up in the time warp of a 747. I have been traveling to Japan, off and on, for some 13 years, just long enough to begin to figure out the subway system in Tokyo, and long enough for telephone technology to make it easy to work the bright green pay phones. That the phones are easy to use today in To-kyo, while Michigan Bell has managed to make Detroit phones worse than Mexico City, is one of those changes that mark progress.

The auto business has changed as well. The Japanese are stronger than ever, and the sense of economic pride is palpable. Their banks now take up more than half a list of the world's largest, and there are no U.S. banks on the list.

On the other hand, corruption in the Tokyo Stock Exchange has prompted several top-level resig-nations, and growing mob influence is feared. The rice farmers still hold considerable power, blocking any imports, while land prices skyrocket and food prices make the

A quick trip through traffic in a Honda Beat - a tiny two-seat convertible with a converted motorcycle engine, luggage space for a tuna sandwich, and a boom-box stereo - leaves us giggling for more.

Couriers tear around in vehicles that resemble nothing more than giant tiddlywinks, with huge, Dshaped windscreens enfolding tiny, three-wheeled scooters. Pragmatism prevails in this maelstrom of traffic, and we take note as an elderly business man is cut off, and proceeds to chew out the offender at the next stop light, just like New York. Well, not exactly.

But the traffic is merely an analogy for the zany proliferation of manufactured goods that jam re-tail outlets. A hundred variations of a single product is not unusual, whether it is tape recorders or cars. There is a growing caution among automakers that perhaps this has gone too far, that there is no way to make eight engine variations for every car line and remain

The who, why and how of bankruptcy filings

By Janice Brunson staff writer

Charge accounts are maxed out, and the house payment is three months past due. Utility services are about to be disconnected, the car is in repossession and daily phone calls from creditors send the blood pressure soaring.

Earnings simply do not provide income enough to keep up with the bills, especially now that overtime pay has been cut in the face of a faltering economy.

A gloomy picture but one that is all too familiar to trustees for the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Eastern District of Michigan, in Detroit. During the first four months of 1991, bankruptcies are up significantly over same period last year, from 4,597 filings in 1990 to 6,021.

Of the total number filed, more than 80 percent are personal or consumer filings, people whose financial lives are out of control. They seek relief in bankruptcy court under one tion under Chapter 7 or debt repayment under Chapter 13. The majority file Chapter 7.

Southfield attorney Stuart Gold, one of a dozen trustees who oversees proceedings in metropolitan Detroit for the U.S. court, describes today's typical debtor.

'UNDER 45 years old. Married with a combined income of $30,000. One or two children. Anywhere from $10,000 to $20,000 of unsecured liabilities, most likely credit card charges and medical obligations.

"Cause of the calamity - one or the other (husband or wife) has been laid off or unemployed for a period of time or there has been a drop in overtime pay. We're seeing more and more of that."

In the scenario described by Gold, Chapter 7 bankruptcy is appropriate because, after exemptions allowed by law, assets are nil.

Exemptions include $7,500 equity in a home, $1,200 value in a vehicle, $1,300 in personal and other possessions and $750 in work tools. Renters who have no home equity are permitted an additional $3,750 in miscellaneous deductions.

If exemptions exceed assets, all debts are discharged. If assets exceed debts, excess assets are liquidated and creditors are paid with the

Based on the formula, 90 percent of all people who file Chapter 7 have no assets, according to Marion Mack, assistant U.S. trustee for eastern Michigan. But others are capable of at least some repayment of out-standing bills but file Chapter 7 to avoid all payment.

Gold cites the case of a 45-yearold, unmarried professional employed by a major area corporation. He earns $60,000 a year and is $58,000 in debt.

"This guy can make reasonable changes in his lifestyle and participate in a repayment program. And he should," Gold said.

Still, the man filed Chapter 7. The petition was dismissed for "substanprovide debtors with a "fresh start, not a head start," according to Mack, who said the substantial abuse provision was enacted into the bankruptcy code in the 1980s to toughen earlier laws that tended to favor the

"Abuse is like pornography. You know it when you see it. It jumps off the page. It shocks the conscience," Mack said, adding that court challenges for substantial abuse under Chapter 7 have steadily increased in the past six months. The disposition of such challenges are settled in

The case of the $60,000-a-year professional is telling. As required by law, he submitted verification of income and a monthly budget of living expenses to Gold, trustee in the case. Allowances for such budgeted items as telephone, clothing, recreation and church contributions were considered exorbitant, and the court dismissed the petition.

While there are no hard and fast formulas to determine substantial abuse, Mack said "it is a good faith issue. Should creditors be forced to subsidize recreation, or clothing or dry cleaning? Maybe a person has to tone down lifestyle."

Under Chapter 13, debtors attempt to pay outstanding bills, agreeing to repayment schedules of three to five years. Those filing 13 are normally employed or have a regular source of income.

"The classic 13," according to West Bloomfield attorney David Ruskin who is also a bankruptcy trustee, are homeowners facing imminent foreclosure because of default in house payments. "It allows time to catch up.

UNDER 13, assets aren't liquidated, permitting the homeowner with a large equity the opportunity to salvage the investment.

Other factors also prompt 13, according to trustee Earle Erman, a Bloomfield Township attorney. They are personal ethics, legal guidance and the willingness of creditors to accept repayment plans.

In certain regions of the country, such factors appear to weigh heavily. In Tennessee, for example, there is a disproportionately high incidence of Chapter 13 filings, said U.S. trustee Mack.

Court costs for filing Chapter 7 or 13 proceedings are the same for each, $120. But Chapter 13 proceedings are more complicated and last longer because of repayment schedules of up to five years. Chapter 7 filings are normally completed within 90 days.

Many times, 7 or 13 is equally appropriate, according to Erman. In such instances, "we favor the chapter that gives the client the most allaround benefit.'

In either case, bankruptcy almost always has a negative impact on credit ratings and makes little allowance for those who attempt re-

"I advocate that the distinction should be noted by credit agencies," Mack said, favoring those who "try and pay their bills to the best of their Otherwise, Ruskin adds, "What's the incentive for attempting repayment? The credit community wants it both ways, (repayment but no distinction on credit reports). They're shooting themselves in the foot by not offering this extra incentive.'

Under Chapter 7, bankruptcy is noted on consumer credit reports for 10 years and under 13, for seven years, according to Pat Young of TRW Information Services in Southfield. The firm is one of the nation's largest credit reporting agencies.

Our profiled couple this month is facing some major changes in their lives and wondering how best to cope

Ira and Joan Cremins have lived lmost all of their married life in Plymouth. Ira, who will turn 62 next month, was laid off last year from his job as a materials handler for an auto supplier. Joan, 59, worked as a sales clerk until she was laid off in 1988. Partly because of Ira's past health problems, they decided to opt for an earlier than planned retire-ment rather than actively seek stop-

Their main goal is to maintain their standard of living in retirement, which they estimate will require an income of $2,500 per month or $30,000 annually. The only major expense looming on the horizon is replacement of their 1984 car within the next two years. They estimate a new car will cost them $15,000-$20,000.

One of their major financial assets is their home, which they value at $195,000 and which is owned free and clear. They are contemplating a move to a smaller home. With their children grown, they do not need the amount of space in their current home, and they would like to reduce their property taxes.

A move to a less expensive residence not only would lower their property taxes but would also proba-bly free up some of the equity locked in their current home - allowing for a greater investment cushion. We believe that such a move early in retirement is well-advised. It might help keep them from perhaps becoming "house poor" later in life.

We would suggest that they buy the new car at the time they sell their current house, if possible. A portion of the home equity could be used for the car. We would also suggest that they at least consider a recent model, low-mileage used car. This could shave thousands of dollars off the cost of a new auto.

We believe that their inclination to pay cash for the car, as well as any other retirement purchases is good strategy. We have found that those retired individuals who have kept their debts to a minimum are the most financially secure in retirement. This is especially true regarding consumer debt, which is both very costly and is not tax-deductible. A low debt position decreases the amount of required monthly expend-

Financial Strengths:

- ✓ No consumer debt
- ✓ A nest egg has been accumulated ✓ Potential for freeing up equity in home if move occurs
- ✓ Good auto and homeowners coverage
- Financial Weaknesses:
- ✓ Layoff forced early retirement

- ✓ Health insurance needed until age 65
- ✓ No estate plan

itures. As a result, a retiree on a fixed income can survive and thrive at much lower income levels.

THE CREMINS' future income includes a fixed pension of $400 per month for Ira. He also expects to receive $900 from Social Security, and Joan will receive approximately half of that three years from now when she turns age 62. The remainder of their income must come from their own savings and investments. It appears that they will be able to meet their income needs during the next few years. With income of $1,300 per month from pension and Social Security, they need an additional $1,200 per month from investments to meet their $2,500 per month income goal. If they earn an average of 8 percent on their $178,000 of investment assets, they would be able to generate the $1,200 per month needed. Eight percent can be obtained right now in long-term U.S. government treasury bonds or with shorter term deferred investment annuity contracts.

A major concern of ours is the probability of future inflation eroding their purchasing power. At an average 5 percent rate of inflation, their purchasing power would be cut in half over 15 years, and the cost of living would quadruple over Joan's 30-year life expectancy. If they put their entire savings into long-term government bonds, they would be virtually assured of a lower standard of living in the future.

They can expect only minor increases in their future income from the addition of Joan's Social Security in three years and from the investment of any sales proceeds from their home. We would offer two suggestions to help them deal with significant problem of inflation.

FIRST, IRA and Joan need to take a close look at their expenditures. They should track their expenses over a period of several months and determine whether there are some expenditures that are really unnecessary for their quality of life. Even small long-term reductions in their expenditure rate is a real plus for

Early in retirement we like to see the total investment assets increase somewhat to offset future inflationary pressures. This can be done either through reinvestment of income or from growth in the value of their investments. Currently, they have only one small growth investment a stock holding.

This observation leads to the second suggestion, to consider some growth and income investments in their portfolio rather than committing to pure income-oriented investments. Utility stocks, convertible bonds, and quality blue chip issues are all appropriate assets for a part of their portfolio - perhaps 30 percent of it. Although returns are not guaranteed, they should be able to achieve higher average rates of return over the long haul. They might want to use mutual funds to achieve adequate diversification and to gain professional management expertise.

If they are able to successfully reduce expenditures and increase average investment return, they will not need as large an investment cushion in retirement. This in turn may give them greater flexibility in their choice of a retirement resi-

Another issue they must address is the need for health insurance during the early years of retirement until both are age 65 and eligible for Medicare. They may want to contact a specialist in the insurance area to investigate alternatives. But they should first look into continuing the group coverage from Ira's old employer. By law, they must be offered such coverage under the group medical plan for two years from the date of Ira's layoff although the premium would be paid by Ira and Joan. Some companies also offer the ability to convert this group coverage to personal coverage until age 65.

Ira and Joan need to put a basic estate plan in place. They currently have no wills, trusts or other documents. All property is held jointly, except for their IRAs and autos. They should realize that in the case of a common accident, their property would be probated and distributed according to inflexible state rules call the intestacy statutes.

Music-lovers in the mood for a sentimental journey

By Julie Brown staff writer

HE BIG BAND era isn't necessarily a thing of the Big Band sounds were heard during a recent concert at the Canton Public Library. The Matt Michaels Band performed such classics as "Sentimental Jour-ney," "In the Mood," "New York, New York," "Sweet Georgia Brown" and others.

The Monday, July 8, concert attracted about 165 seniors. They enjoyed listening to the music, and some took to the dance floor.

"It's good music," said band leader Matt Michaels. "It's wellwritten." That contributes to its on-

Memories help to make the Big Band music popular, said Michaels, a Southfield resident and director of jazz studies at Wayne State University. "So many of us grew up playing this. You have younger people bringing it back."

PEOPLE OFTEN danced to Big Band music in the 1940s, he said, and that boosts its popularity. Many older people remember dancing to the music of Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey and others.

Michaels played the keyboard during the Canton concert. Other musicians who performed were: Jerry McKenzie of West Bloom-field, drums; Dan Pliskow of Royal Oak, bass; Earl DeForest of Southgate, tenor sax; and Stewart Sanders of Livonia, trombone. Judie Cochill sang with the group.

"I sing with Matt frequently," said Cochill, a Bloomfield Hills resident. She also sings with the choir at her church, Christ Church Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills, and is a staff alto at Temple Emanuel in Oak Park. She began singing in church choirs in the second grade.

Music for worship involves much more disciplined singing than that required for a Big Band concert,

'Music that is familiar to the greatest number of people is what's going to be most popular.'

she said. She enjoys performing many different kinds of music, and finds that the more disciplined singing keeps her voice in shape.

The Big Band music's fun to do as well, to "reach the people and entertain. It also gives me a chance to do what I do best," Cochill said.

"Actually, I was raised on this kind of music. This kind of music is what I grew up singing and love singing," she said. "Music that is familiar to the greatest number of people is what's going to be most BAND MEMBER Jerry McKenzie also appreciates the Big Band sound. He remembers seeing the Dorsey brothers on TV in his younger days.

"I used to watch them all the time when they were on TV," said McKenzie, a police detective in Farmington Hills. "I followed all the big bands. I was lucky enough to go through that era."

His mother took him to Big Band concerts when he was young, and he enjoyed the music. These days, he finds performing's a release from the demands of police work.

"It's listenable and it's pleasing to the ears," he said of the Big Band sound. "The music we played, they understand the melody and it's pleasing to their ears.

"We really enjoy playing for these people," said McKenzie, who teaches music part-time at Wayne State University. "They're a receptive group, they look forward to having us come back."

Band members presented a similar concert in July 1989 for seniors at the Canton Public Library. They were pleased to be able to come

"All of us have played together at one time or another" for many years, Matt Michaels said. "We play different kinds of music." The musicians have a large repertoire, and are happy to take requests from listeners.

SOME CONCERT-GOERS did a little dancing during the concert. John Schwartz, library building manager and former board member, and volunteer Roy Schultz built a dance floor for the occasion.

They looked through the Schultz family barn and found some old signs that had been used for festivals and other community activities. They put the signs together to create an outdoor dance floor in the library courtyard.

Speakers in the courtyard made it possible for those outdoors to hear every note. The evening ended with refreshments provided by the Friends of the Canton Public Li-courtyard during the concert.

The concert was a standing room-only affair, and organizers were pleased with the response.

"We want to serve all segments of the community," said Claire McLaughlin, adult services librarian. Such activities make older residents aware of what the library has

The musicians enjoy performing for seniors, she added.

"I think they're doing it more for love than money," McLaughlin said. She's too young to remember the Big Band heyday, but understands the music's enduring appeal.

"For these people, I think it does take them back. I think it has the same effect for these people that 50s and 60s music has for my age group. You can remember what you were doing then."

Talented young artists get a dose of encouragement

By Julie Brown staff writer

Catherine Graves remembers

being interested in art as a child. "All my life, really," said Graves, an artist who lives in Canton. As a girl, she won a scholarship to study at the Flint Institute of Art. She'd take classes and then go next door to the local library to read art books. She went on to study for a year at the American Academy of Art in Chicago, and continued her studies at Eastern Michigan University and Michigan State. Graves knows how important it is to encourage young artists.

She's teaching a mixed media class for children. The primary goal of the Plymouth Community Arts Council class "is to nurture the artistic spirit in people. That is No. 1." Without that encouragement, young people lose interest in the arts.

"I never teach a class with the focus being the end product, some kind of uniformity in the end product," she said

A YOUNGSTER may take home something from a class that at first glance doesn't appear to have been particularly successful.

"The value in it is in the growth that the child experiences," Graves said. "We're nurturing young egos."

The class includes children ages 6-10. Sessions began last week and are continuing this week, with three two-hour classes each week. The class introduces young artists to a variety of materials, and they begin to think about design elements

Students are getting a sampling of both two-dimensional and three-dimensional work. They're doing some drawing and painting. Sculpture's a part of the class as well, and students are learning about shapes and how they interact with surrounding

The summertime class gives children an opportunity to learn while having fun.

"Oh, I think it's wonderful. It can make the difference between an interesting and exciting summer and one where the kids are just not as stimulated," said Graves, who coordinates art classes for children and adults offered by the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

DURING ONE session last week, the six students worked on sculptures. They started with pieces of Styrofoam of different shapes and sizes, using glue, toothpicks and tape to hold sculptures together.

"In sculpture today, it's OK to have some of the inside showing," Graves told class members. Abstract work - "It's when something does not exactly imitate nature" - was considered just fine.

After putting together their sculptures, the young artists began to cov-er them with plaster. Class ended all too soon, much to the disappointment of the youngsters.

Nathan Burt, 10, is one of the students in the mixed media class. He's enjoying classes at the PCAC office in dewntown Plymouth.

"I like the stuff that she does with said Nathan, a Canton resident and fifth grader at Allen Elementary School in Plymouth Township. He particularly enjoyed the sculpture

Nathan's considering being an artist when he's older. He also enjoys art classes at Allen School, but found one major difference between the

"At school, it's not two hours," he said.

Graves, who has two teenage chil-dren, doesn't believe that talent's what makes for a great artist. Interest is what matters

"Skill can be developed in any area. Basically, what we're doing here is nurturing spirit and developing skill." Graves earned a bachelor of fine arts degree from Eastern Michigan University and a master of fine arts degree from Michigan State University, concentrating on painting, Graves, who recently had an etching in a show at the Detroit Institute of Arts, has work shown throughout the state.

She also has some works in permanent collections in New York, Chicago and Washington state. Graves defines her work as being strongly feminist.

In her teaching, Graves concentrates on encouraging young people to explore their interest in art. She knows that it takes determination and hard work; Graves may do 100 drawings to come up with 15 that she

Feelings about music anything but cavalier

Doug Fry, Lance Loiselle and Joe Uhl aren't exactly taking it easy this They're in the Cavaliers Drum & Bugle Corps, based in Rosemont, Ill. The bugle players are busy touring, practicing and performing.

'You meet a lot of new people, compete, work hard to achieve something," said Uhl, 16, a Plymouth resident and Plymouth Salem High School senior. He remembers watching competition as a freshman and thinking it would be great to participate.

"It's just something totally different," Uhl said.

Fry, a 17-year-old Plymouth resident, saw videotapes of competition.

"I just got really interested in it," said Fry, a recent Salem graduate who'll study engineering at the University of Michigan this fall. He went to Cavaliers camps, and decided to participate this summer.

This Cavaliers design is a rather distinctive one.

the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps for several years. Like the others, he was in bands at Centennial Educational Park, and decided to join the

"THERE'S JUST nothing like that performing feeling and the rush you get," said Loiselle, a Salem grade who'll study music at Eastern Michigan University this fall. Playing for appreciative audiences is rewarding as well.

"Drum corps fans are probably the best fans in the world," Loiselle said. "There's also that element, the thrill of competition. You have to put in that extra hour, extra effort

The three were in the Marching Band at CEP. They've found that drums corps is more competitive, although being in the school band was beneficial.

"That really helped too, because a lot of the staff that works with Plymouth works with the Cavaliers," Loiselle said

Another Plymouth student, Brad Flowers, is in the Cavaliers this summer. Flowers, a 1989 Plymouth Canton High School graduate, is a U-M student

Other students from Canton and Plymouth-are participating in other drum corps this summer. They'll be among those at Drum Corps North XV competition 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 25, at Centennial Educational Park in Canton.

The Cavaliers won't participate, as they'll be in another competition out of state. Their summer schedule keeps them busy.

The local students started going to Cavaliers winter camps late last year. They'd go to the Chicago area about one weekend a month through the winter and spring to put together the show for the following year, IN LATE spring, members began to arrive in Illinois for daily practic-es. Touring started in early June and will continue through August.

"You have to go through an audition process where they see you play and hear how you do," Fry said. "If you put forth an effort, you're bound to make it in."

The 128 corps members come from throughout the country. Their typical day begins bright and early with morning practice. They practice all afternoon, then load up the buses and get ready to compete.

"Hopefully, (we) win and leave for the next town," Uhl said. Corps members get in at 3 or 4 a.m., unload their gear on the floor of a school gym, and get a few hours of

Their schedule includes about 35 competitions throughout the United States this summer. The world championships in Dallas, Texas, in August will attract some 40,000 spectators, and the Cavaliers are looking forward to that.

The Cavaliers keep up with the status of other corps, reading publications that list that information. 'So we know how we stand every day," Uhl said.

The Cavaliers, known as "The Green Machine," wear green and white uniforms. The Village of Rosemont is the group's major sponsor. The corps began in the late

"It's changed a lot since then," Uhl said. Drum corps competition began to pick up steam in the early 1980s, he said, and more corps are coming back every year as interest grows.

UHL WAS IN another corps, the Glassmen, based in Toledo, last summer. Loiselle was with the Star of Indiana, based in Bloomington, Ind.,

Having friends from school in the Cavaliers was a help, although the students have made many new friends. "With being around the guys all the time, you get to know them really fast," Fry said.

People often make lifelong friends through drum corps, Loiselle said, and some have met their spouses that way. The Cavaliers is an allmale group, although musicians meet young women from other corps.

senior corps competition. The Cavaliers perform a variety of music, with strong percussion to mix with the powerful brass. They do the same show throughout the summer, perfecting it by practicing nine to 16 hours each day.

The corps provides instruments and uniforms, and takes care of arrangements for meals and places to stay on the road. Musicians are able to concentrate on performing.

They're beginning their second tour and will have free time to do some sightseeing in Washington, D.C., and Cincinnati. "Most of the sightseeing comes from the window of the bus, though," Loiselle said.

They don't have much time to come home. Their recent visit was a short one, and they then took the train back to Chicago. Even so, they

Drum corps competition coming to town

There won't be any shortage of musical talent at Centennial Educational Park next week.

Drum Corps North XV competition will be 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 25, at CEP, Joy and Canton Center in Canton. Ten drum corps are scheduled to appear.

"It's a very, very special day," said Rick Gartner of Canton, who's helping coordinate the event. "It's

The competition is sponsored by the Ypsilanti Area Visitors & Convention Bureau in cooperation with The Ypsilanti Press. In previous years, the competition has been at Rynearson Stadium on the Eastern Michigan University campus in Ypsilanti.

That stadium's being renovated this summer, so organizers looked for another facility. CEP was available, and the competition was moved

LOCAL ORGANIZERS are providing such essentials as the stadium, parking and food. They'll house several of the corps in the local area.

Members of several corps will present a free concert noon Thursday, July 25, in downtown Plymouth's Kellogg Park. Musicians will play a variety of popular tunes.

That evening at the competition, performers will present many kinds of music. Gershwin tunes, Broadway show tunes, jazz and other music will be presented. Previous competitions have attracted some 4,500 spectators, Gartner said.

The young musicians spend many hours preparing to perform. They spend the summer traveling, performing at different sites.

"It's quite a commitment from them," Gartner said.

Ticket price for Drum Corps North is $10. Price is $5 for seniors age 65 and older or children age 12 and under (in advance, through July takes considerable time and effort. Many members of the CEP Band Boosters are volunteering their time and talents to guarantee that the event's a success

"It's work for the Boosters," Gartner said. The competition will raise money to support the CEP Marching Band for the upcoming Gartner's served as state competition chairman for the past several years. His wife, Carolyn, is a past Band Boosters president. Their children have been involved in band through the years.

"We're probably as deep in it as you can get," he said.

Students from Canton and Plymouth will be among the more than 1,000 musicians competing at Drum Corps North. Several local students Kristin McCabe, Amy Warunek and Heather Moore - are members of Dutch Boy, based in Kitchener, Ontario, Canada, one of the corps to be featured.

Canton minister bids congregation a fond farewell preached this sermon June 23, his final Sunday at Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton. He's now pastor of St. Mark's Presbyterian Church in Bayonet Point, Fla. (This is a condensed version of the sermon.)

On Sunday, March 16, 1980, I preached my first sermon as Geneva's second pastor. It was a letter that I had written to our daughter Melissa Joan, who had been born a month and a half earlier . . . it was highly personal, and for some, very emotional. After that first service, several folks said to me "If that's the way you're going to preach, you should put tissues in the bulletin."

And so it has gone. Two or three times every year, a particular sermon would touch the heart and afterwards someone would always say to me "If you're going to make me cry, you should put tissues in the balletin." I want you to know that your pastor listens to you. It sometimes takes me a while, but I there are tissues in the bulletin. And with my luck, nobody will need

AS WE CLOSE this chapter in our life together, there are some things I hope you will remember about my ministry; there are some things that I will be leaving behind with you this day; and there will be some things I am going to take

First of all, I hope you will remember that marvelous little verse that Jesus offered: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Several years ago, former Detroit associate executive presbyter Teri Taylor said to me over lunch "I've finally figured out what makes this congregation

"Oh!" I said, "What?" "Relationships," she said. "Gene-va is built on relationships: parishioner to parishioner, parishioners to pastor, pastor to parishioner, and pastor and parishioners to

'Well, what other way is there?" I asked.

She replied "Some are devoted to preserving their building. Others are steeped in 'tradition.' Still others are built around the personality of the pastor or a pillar of the church. But Geneva is built on rela-

And so it is. "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," said Jesus. If that commandment is followed, relationships are formed. But relationships will not last unless they are build on trust.

WE HAVE done some incredible things together because we were willing to take the time to form and nurture relationships that were built on trust. And when we got to know each other and trust each other, ministry and mission flourished, and laughter abounded. Humor is not only necessary, it is a part of God

The second thing I hope you will remember, Jesus put this way: "I do not call you servants any longer, because a servant does not know what his master is doing. Instead I call you friends, because I have told you everything I have heard from my Father." Jesus didn't want blind robots or mindless mannequins to follow him. He wanted mature, thinking, assertive be-

During my ministry, I have told you again and again not what to believe, or how to believe, but rather that my responsibility was to offer you the theological and biblical tools so that you could make mature, informed decisions on your own. I gave you not tickets to heaven, but shoes for the journey. In so doing, I tried not to duck the responsibility of sharing with you what I believed, why I believed it and the process which led me to that conviction.

This leads me to the third thing I hope you remember. As Jesus sent his disciples out two by two for a little on-the-job training, so I have sent you out over the years. I wasn't always at your meetings. I wasn't always there to fix it and make it better. It was OK in this church to goof up, drop the ball and make mistakes.

IT WAS OK in this church to try a new idea or drop an old one. And look what has happened. This church has marvelous, selfmotivated and directed leaders who can take responsibility for ministry and affirm the ministry of others.

The fourth thing I want you to remember is something that was very difficult for me to learn. If we use the old biblical model of the pastor as shepherd, then it has been my responsibility to move this congregation along the way from one place of sustenance to another. A shepherd, however, was almost always responsible for someone else's flock. That is, the shepherd didn't own the sheep in his care.

In my case, folks were often saying to me "Your church this" and "Your church that." Geneva is not now nor was it ever Ken Gruebel's church. I did not own the church,

During my ministry, I have told you again and again not what to believe, or how to believe, but rather that my responsibility was to offer you the theological and biblical tools so that you could make mature. informed decisions on your own. I gave you not tickets to heaven, but shoes for the

guest column

nor possess the church. The church belongs to all of us, but ultimately it belongs to God. For the last 11 years, I have had the privilege of being a shepherd to this part of God's vast holdings, and I wouldn't have traded the experience for anything in the world.

The fifth thing I want you to remember is that I have tried to demonstrate in word and deed that faith - yours and mine - is relevant to all of life, and not just reserved for a few religious words and prayers on Sunday. Which is to say that nothing is outside of the grace of God.

SO I HAVE preached on conservation, euthanasia, divorce, single parenting, gray power, gay rights, abortion, capital punishment, adultery and mid-life crisis, surrogate mothers, abused children, and the list goes on and on.

I have also tried to demonstrate in word and deed that we do not do our Christian thing in a vacuum. We need one another . . . Relationships, trust, laughter, training for ministry, affirmation, stewardship, faith, relevance, involvement. That's not a bad legacy.

As I pack my bags, there are several things that I will leave with you. I leave with you a rich residue of love and affection for allowing me to be a part of your life and to share in the Christian journey with Geneva.

At times, we have clapped hands as we have stood on great mountain peaks and rejoiced. At other times, we have held hands tightly and walked through the valley of the shadow of death. We have celebrated births, baptisms, confirmations, graduations, weddings and new jobs. We have ached over illness, divorce, infidelity, wayward children and aging parents. We have sat through short sermons and long meetings - or was it the other way around? No matter, I leave you my love and affection.

SECOND, I want to thank you for allowing me to be myself, to be human, for not putting me up on a pedestal or trying to stereotype me. You have put up with my humor, tolerated my shortcomings, overlooked my weaknesses and been supportive during my times of need. For that, I leave you my thanks

Thirdly, I leave you a marvelous

Finally, this is what I will take with me. I am taking with me rich memories of accomplishments, triumphs, parties, worship, basking in the glory of who we have been, and are, and will become I have no regrets. Oh, for sure, I would have done this slightly differently, or that in another manner. But I have no regrets. I wouldn't have spent the '80s with anyone else but you.

I also take with me my friend, my supporter, my lover, my wife most of what I am and ever hope to be I owe to the love and support of the special lady I married over 22 years ago.

And so, my friends, we close this era of our life together, and I leave this church in your hands. And I do so without fear or trepidation. I believe that God is a God of change, that we are a part of God's continu-ing creative process of life. And what God has in store for us, we do not know, but we shall receive it gladly, and thankfully, and triumphantly

I leave this church in your hands, my friends. Will it become stag-nant? Dormant? Divided? Will it die? Or will it fly forth in new energy of mission, soaring to new heights of ministry? As you will, my friends - as you will. Alleluia

Garden walk will boost beautification

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

As days grow short with the passing of the summer solstice, beds of red, white and pink petunias blossom, peaking with color that soon will give way to the bitter blowing winds of winter. Why not fill your senses with summer, while storing memories for those long, cold Michigan nights?

Come, take a walk with the Redford Township Beautification Commission as it sponsors the fifth biennial garden walk 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, July 20.

Money raised on the walk will further the work of the beautification and improvement commission, replacing trees and shrubs, planting annual flowers and providing cleanup throughout Redford Township. "We have some wonderful gardens on the

"We have some wonderful gardens on the walk this year," said Irene O'Neil, chairwoman.

Towering pink Trumpet Lilies over six feet tall greet visitors to the back yard of Jerry and Julie Richardson, one of five private gardens on the walk.

In the Richardson back yard, a perennial garden, raised beds filled with eggplant, peppers, basil and thyme, along with five bushel baskets planted with tomatoes and other vegetables, tempt fellow gardeners into considering alternatives for their gardens next ye

"Everything is early this year because of the extreme heat and all the rain," said Julie Richardson as she guided visitors on a tour of their gardens.

IMPATIENS IN shades of pink, and white carpet, a shady, circular area beneath an 80-year-old Swamp Oak. Scarlet Monarda or Bee Balm, with feathery, spiked petals, stand in line like tin soldiers guarding the fence.

"I call it my English garden atmosphere because of the way the plants are all close together," Richardson said.

Irises, coral bells and daylilies vie for visitors attention.

"Nineteen years ago in September, we moved in," Richardson said. "We started slowly putting in flowers the next year. This spring, Jerry built the raised gardens. Jerry does most of the work."

Jerry Richardson retired in 1984 as a band director in the Redford school system. He now enjoys working in their gardens and playing trombone professionally in jazz bands about town.

A magnificent fragrance wafts through the air from an oval rose bed, thriving in mid-morning sun. Purple spikes of Morden's pink rival the weeping branches of a dwarf mulberry tree for attention while pastel colored begonias sparkle throughout the serene garden.

VISITORS TO the Richardson home also will be able to see the methods that go into a well-thought-out composting system such as the one in their back yard.

The four other gardens on the walk include a lily pond, water fountains, Japanese maples, contorted filbert, weeping beech, an attractive vegetable garden and a clematis-covered trellis entry way into a perennial garden.

Artist builds bridge between East and West

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

NFLUENCED BY Eastern culture and philosophy, Livonia artist Christine Wong creates paintings using concepts vastly different from those employed by Western artists.

Her first one-person show, featuring more than 60 watercolors painted with Chinese techniques, is on exhibit through July 26 in the lobby of Livonia City Hall, Farmington Road at Five

"I use watercolor media but Chinese painting technique," Wong said

With ink, watercolor and a Chinese brush, Wong creates quiet, delicate paintings using "Canons," or basic principles, which have guided traditional Chinese painters since their publication around the year 500. These concepts of Chinese philosophy and painting technique shape Wong's watercolors in a harmony of mind and brush.

"Chinese philosophy and culture is about 5,000 years old. Our feeling is behind the strokes. That brush becomes part of me; much free, much natural," Wong said. 'Chinese philosophy and culture is about 5,000 years old. Our feeling is behind the strokes. That brush becomes part of me; much free, much natural.'

- Christine Wong

WONG'S PAINTINGS form deep within her spirit, her heart, her mind. Ch'i, or spirit, is the key to creating a Chinese painting. If artists begin a painting with spirit, everything else follows, but if they miss focusing on spirit, nothing can save the painting from lifelessness, not embellishment or skill.

"I have to stand up to paint; I use my whole body. It's mental and body. I put my whole self into it," Wong said.

Wong was born in mainland China. When she was 4, Communists took over the mainland. The Wong family fled to Taiwan, where Christine lived until coming to this country in 1971. In second grade, Wong began training in Chinese painting technique through mandatory calligraphy lessons, taught in

"As a child, everybody has to do calligraphy, just like a penmanship here. I use the same brush to write as to paint," Wong said.

In China, calligraphy is a highly esteemed art that uses Chinese characters to depict words. The same techniques of brushwork apply to this art as apply to painting.

THE SECOND principal in Chinese painting deals with brush control. Unlike the Western brush position, placement of the fingers by traditional Chinese painters is similar to holding chopsticks.

Position, pressure, speed of stroke and loading the brush are practiced until they become instinctive. After loading her brush, Wong with a single stroke, can create a range of tones from dark to light.

Economy of line, brush control and use of white space are of importance in Wong's use of Chinese painting techniques.

"I like to leave whites for imagination," Wong said. "That's one of the concepts of Chinese painting, to leave space for the imagination."

Instead of using a pencil, Wong sketches the initial composition with a brush dipped in plain water.

"I don't set a boundary for my work. I let imagination run. I don't limit myself with the pencil," Wong said. "Chinese philosophy, you don't see pencil marks."

IN 1965, Wong graduated from nursing college in Tapei, Taiwan, after which she studied painting with Chinese art professor David Kwo, an internationally known artist.

After marrying Robert, the couple moved to the United States, first to Wisconsin then to Ann Arbor, where Christine worked at University Hospital for 12 years.

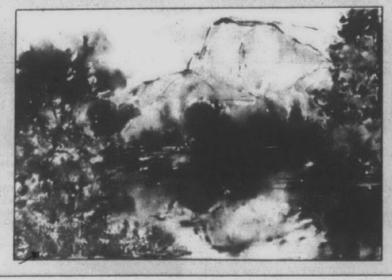

It was during this time she began to enjoy watercolors. Watercolor allowed Wong to blend Western and Chinese techniques.

"I learned from very giving artists (in Ann Arbor). I learn their technique. They learn from my technique," Wong said.

Wong strives to complete a painting during a single block of uninterrupted concentration. "I like to catch the freshness. We try not to go back, so you carry the spirit of the art."

A delicate work in watercolor and ink, "Orchids" by Wong captures the fragility of the pinkish-white blossoms as they gently drift across the paper. Green sword-shaped foliage bends in the wind against a

Log discovery kindles interest in plank toll road era

WHAT A find!

In the turnult of life, it's not earthshaking. But it's a historical treat.

6 "This is one of the most significant finds we've ever had," said Ruth Moehlman, Farmington Hills Historic District Commission chairwoman.

Thanks to Farmington Hills nurseryman Fred Steinkopf, 15 old logs believed to be part of the base of a plank toll road that goes back to about 1850 have been saved from the scrap heap.

At least two experts authenticated the find as historic, Moehlman said. Oakland County excavators dug up the logs last month while working on a sewer line project in the median of Grand River near the Botsford Inn.

Logs have been donated to the Farmington Historical Museum, Livonia's Greenmead Historical Village, Farmington Hills' Heritage

Park, the Detroit Historical Museum and the Wisner Historic House in Pontiac. All plan to put the logs, each about eight feet long, on public display.

THE BOTSFORD Inn, a national historic site, was dubbed the Old Plank Road House during the 1850s while operated by John Claucherty (for whom the village of Clarence-ville is named).

During this time, the hostelry also was known as the Sixteen Mile House, denoting its location at the 16th mile-marker on the Detroit-to-Howell plank road.

Steinkopf spotted the logs while driving by the excavation site. If it hadn't been for his quick thinking and the Farmington Hills Department of Public Works' quick retrieval arrangements, the logs might

It's impossible to determine if the logs were originals on the 50-milelong, Detroit-to-Howell plank road, which opened in 1851, or added later as replacements. The planks themselves were three inches thick.

"With stages now clippety-clopping along at the unheard-of speeds of eight to 10 miles an hour, passengers could miraculously travel the distance in less than a half a day," writes Farmington Hills historian

Jean Fox in her 1986 book, "More Than A Tavern, 150 Years of Botsford Inn."

BY 1853, the plank road extended 70 miles, linking Detroit to Lansing, where the state capital had been moved six years before. Total cost of the road: $300,000. The journey between Detroit and Lansing now took a day instead of, in many cases, a

Privately built plank toll roads, created by a legislative act in 1848, came about as a way to counter the risks of mudholes and ruts for stagecoaches and wagons. Investors reaped any profits.

At toll gates erected every five miles, fees ranged from a half cent per mile for 20 sheep or swine to 1 cent per mile for a horse and rider to 2 cents per mile for a two-horse-drawn vehicle.

The Sixteen Mile House, near Tollgate No. 4 at Inkster Road and Grand River, served as a waystation for relays of staggeousch horses for relays of stagecoach horses.

To pacify farmers, who opposed the oak-planked path, neither the farmers nor any of their workers were charged to get from one part of a farm to another.

"When new," Fox writes, "the plank road made a most excellent thoroughfare, but in a few years, the sun and weather warped the planks and they wore out in the middle, so they gradually became rough and unsatisfactory."

THE PLANK road era dimmed within a decade because maintenance was minimal. Gravel helped extend the life of the roads.

By 1895, the toll gates were removed. That's when state Sen. Fred Warner, R-Farmington, won passage of a law requiring improved toll-road maintenance.

As public roads became priorities and improved during Warner's years as governor from 1905-11, the electric railway and the automobile replaced stagecoaches and horsedrawn wagons on the old Grand Riv-human beings," Wong said.

Along with Christine's watercolors there are an additional 12 pieces in the show done by the Wong children, Joyce, 17 and Andrew, 14. At age 8, Andrew rendered a badger with the sensitivity and strength of an artist, far beyond his years. With motherly pride and love, Christine informs "these works not for sale."

The last 14 years, Wong has worked as office coordinator in her husband's dental office. Robert offers Christine the support necessary to pursue her art. "He helps me a lot. He's very supportive," Wong said. "He tells me, this is your dream. Pursue your dream."

Christine's work can also be viewed at the office of Dr. Robert K. Wong. For information, call the office: 425-7888.

"I enjoy the creation of the God and the world. (In my paintings), the bird, the clown, the fish, they're all smiling. I try to make the world a little more pleasurable," Wong said.

Christine's art celebrates life, love and nature, bridging the vast'expanse between East and West. "Art's just like love, there's no boundary."

Livonia City Hall is at 33000 Civic Center Drive Viewing hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and Tuesday to 9:30 p.m. Christine will be there on Tuesday evenings if people would like to learn more about her paintings.

"There will be two hostesses at each garden to answer any questions," said Kathleen Stoner, walk co-chairwoman.

The Redford Township Beautification Commission is an all-volunteer group. This spring, it replaced all the dead trees along Beech-Daly Road with the help of local Cub Scout and Brownie troops. In return, the children earned certificates for community service.

"The children are fun to work with," O'Neil said.

Together, the volunteers planted 45 flats of flowers around the town hall, library, police station and court house.

EVERY CHRISTMAS, the beautification commission puts up decorations consisting of evergreen roping and lights. They also were instrumental in obtaining the returnable bottle bill for Michigan several years ago. 'All funds from the walk will be used to keep the township beautiful.'

'Star Trek' novelist writes Civil War drama

By Steve O'Leary special writer

Author Diane Carey, best known for her popular "Star Trek" novels, is taking a chance. And so far, it appears to be paying off.

After four "Trek" novels, three hitting the New York Times bestseller list for paperbacks and one, "Fi-nal Frontier," selling well over 500,000 copies, the Flint native has taken a sabbatical from the series.

'Distant Drums,' is a Civil War historical drama and is publisher Bantam Books' hottest book of the past

"Even though this is the first book of a trilogy, each book will stand on its own and be satisfying in its own right. There are connecting threads, but no cliffhangers," Carey myself put into it," she said. "It was well worth it."

She'll sign copies of her new book 1-3 p.m. Sunday, July 21, at B. Dal-ton Bookseller, Wonderland Center, 29859 Plymouth Road.

THE MAIN question to Carey is why stop a good thing? She is one of the top two or three bestselling au-thors in one of the most popular series ("Star Trek") in print.

Her answer is to the point: she and other popular series authors are unhappy with the control Paramount Studios (which owns the rights to "Star Trek") has over the "Star Trek" characters, including those from the original series.

Carey has four "Star Trek" out-

"I think I'll be back on the 'Star Trek' train before long because as I understand it, the show will stop producing new episodes soon."

Non-"Star Trek" fiction is nothing new to Carey: "Distant Drums" is her 11th published book. Her first book, published in 1982, was a contemporary romance. The now 37-year-old author then turned to historical romance, as the market dictated. Then she turned her love for "Star Trek" into the mainstay of her career.

"I've always wanted to write, even when I was a little girl," Carey said.
"I never dreamed I'd be doing it professionally. I consider myself very, very lucky."

Frame shots through viewfinder

We'll all agree that a properly se-lected and assembled frame will add greatly to the presentation of artwork, including photographs.

But did you know there's another kind of frame that can apply to your photographs, one that will make your pictures much stronger with far greater impact?

I'm referring to framing through the viewfinder as you compose your shot. As a compositional tool, framing can turn an otherwise plain shot into one with strength and vitality.

How do you begin to use framing techniques? Start by looking through, around, over and under a foreground object that totally or partially frames a more important subject behind

For example, hanging branches will add interest to the sky and give extra emphasis to the landscape or seascape in the background.

AN OVERHANGING roof adds accent to a street scene. An archway will direct attention to the subject inside and a foreground rock formation will give substance and foundation to an overall scene.

Even portraits can be made more dramatic when a window is used as an impromptu frame.

Often, framing effects are so natural that a viewer may not be aware of them in a photograph. Yet if the framing were absent, it would be missed and the picture's impact di-

Look for unusual frames such as a car door, an outstretched arm or a twisting river or fence. Frames that contrast with the area they surround, either in color or tonal values, will be exciting, too.

BECAUSE MANY of the frames you'll be using will be close to the camera, you will have to pay careful attention to depth-of-field.

Often, a small aperture such as f11 to f-22 will be needed to maximize depth-of-field so that foreground objects and background subjects will both appear in focus in the final

By using your camera's depth-offield scale and depth preview button, you'll be able to attain the zone of sharpness your shot requires.

Using a wide-angle lens will increase depth-of-field even further and will help you easily get fore-ground objects in the scene.

So get yourself caught in a photographic frameup. You'll be glad you

"Just Before Dark: Collected Nonfiction," by Jim Harrison. (318 pp., Clark City Press, $24.95).

Though I hope to do so some time, I've never met Michigan writer Jim

A bit reclusive, he spends most of his days with his wife and family on their Leelanau County farm, or holed up in a small, wilderness cabin he owns near Grand Marais. When he does venture out, I understand it's usually on hunting or fishing expeditions with a few close friends

I feel, though, as if I've caught a significant glimpse of Harrison in a very real sense, after reading "Just Before Dark," a recently published, absolutely delicious collection of 46 articles, columns and personal essays he's put together over the last quarter-century. Most of the pieces have appeared previously in publications as diverse as Sports Illustrated, The New York Times Book Review, Antaeus, Automobile Magazine, Rolling Stone and many others. Some, however, are appearing for the first time in "Just Before Dark." Though Harrison, 53, is primarily a poet and novelist (e.g. "Letters to Yesenin," "Dalva," "The Woman Lit by Fireflies") these highly readable, witty, and thoughtful pieces make you wish a collection of his nonfiction had appeared much earlier. At any rate, one hopes it won't be another 25 years before another is brought out.

At the risk of inferring that this is simplistic work - it isn't - I'd like to emphasize that "Just Before Dark" seems especially well-suited for summertime reading.

DIVIDED INTO three sections, 'Food," "Travel and Sport" and "Literary Matters," the book can be read section-by-section, beginningto-end, of course. Or pick it up and start with any piece in the middle, if you'd prefer. Or skip around to your heart's content. Any way you approach it, you'll be rewarded.

Harrison, in addition to his writing talents, is also one of the most knowledgeable amateur naturalists around, and his marked appreciation for the great outdoors is quickly evident here - another facet of the col-

Also very dear to the heart and soul of Jim Harrison: food, food and more food. And then some more food. And almost anything that has to do with food: hunting for it, shopping for it, planning meals, cooking meals, serving meals, talking about meals. And, of course, eating meals. And writing of them: "I eye the

Staying power: 35 years in real estate

Positions at real estate firms seem to turn over faster than pancakes at a Kiwanis breakfast.

But Bill Fearon Sr. is the guy who brings up all the averages. He's marking his 35th year in real estate sales as he turns 89.

Although he no longer lists homes Fearon is an active member of the weekly sales meetings held at Real Estate One's Farmington office.

He keeps his state real estate license current and attends all continuing education programs offered by his employer. Leads on houses are passed to full-time colleagues.

"There tends to be an impression that real estate is a passing fancy," said Richard S. Elsea, president of Real Estate One. "People like Bill are an example that it's a great career and one you can stay in well bevond others.

FEARON HAS seen many changes over the years. The most striking are the addition of state and federal regulations and the continuing education demanded of sales associations.

But some things stay the same.

sell and not much mortgage money or you have a lot of mortgage money and not enough houses to sell. It's never ideal," Fearon said.

Real estate is Fearon's second sales carer. He spent 28 years as a route salesman for Famous Foods, maker of Vita Boy potato chips. His route included the Corktown and Del Ray sections of Detroit and east

"I only wanted to do it until could get something better, and I did it for 28 years," Fearon said. "But no matter how tough times were, I was

While still working for Vita Boy, Fearon started part-time work with Harry Archbold's Northwest Detroit Real Estate agency in 1956.

"I became a full-time part-timer,"

A typical 11/2-story bungalow with brick facing cost $18,000 in those days, Fearon said. A three-bedroom colonial commanded $20,000-

In the late 50s, the Archbold agency was acquired by Mathers Stevens and Martin, which in turn merged to form Real Estate One.

In 1963, Fearon earned the name of "Billion Dollar Bill" for the sale that put Mathers Stevens and Martin over the billion dollar mark in sales.

Fearon is the father of two and grandfather of seven. He keeps busy as vice president of the Farmington Place tenant's association and attends Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church in Farmington.

But next Tuesday morning's sales meeting at Real Estate One's Farmington office is already marked on his calendar.

Consultants' loyalty: to association

Our managing agent has approached us to advise that it wishes to channel all correspondence between the CPA and the attorney on the one hand and the board of directors on the other. While many of the directors of the association are busy, I am wondering why the management company wants to eliminate our contact with these persons who were picked by the board before the retention of the management com-

Keep in mind that the CPA and the attorney for the association owe their fiduciary and legal responsibility to the board of directors and not the management company. The management company may feel threatened by these consultants and may want to usurp the lines of communication between the board and

I would instruct the management company that it is not its province to restrict communications between the professionals advising the association and the board of directors. The checks and balances system regarding potential mangement agent abuses should be continuously reviewed at all times by the board of

Many times I have found it extremely frustrating while sitting on the board to deal with other members of the board who allow their self interests to dictate what should be done in behalf of the associaton. Buyers looking for custom touches in production houses

Brad and Mary Contrucci wanted a home that was distinctly their own.

They looked around at models and liked a lot of what they saw, but there were a couple of things that just didn't click.

They considered a custom home, but decided that they really liked the Devonshire model at Vintage Estates in Rochester Hills with one exception - the nearly floor to ceiling windows in the living room.

"I was petrified at the thought of the heating and cooling costs (because the room was on the south side of the home)," Brad Contrucci said.

So the couple went back to the builder and asked if it might be possible to move the room to the other side of the house.

"He said sure," Contrucci said. So they asked for other changes, including the addition of a sun room, a second furnace, changes in windows and elevations, the addition of a balcony, and a slew of other changes.

The builder said, "Sure."

Call them build to suit, made to order, or mass produced custom homes. But whatever they are, builders are moving to cater to the needs of people who point at a home and say "Something like that, but not exactly like that."

The question isn't will the builder make some changes - the question is how far is he willing to go?

APPARENTLY, as far as a builder has to go to make the sale, according to Ida Lucas, sales representative for S.R. Jacobson Development's Vintage Estates in Rochester Hills where the Contruccis bought

More buyers - especially upper end buyers — want a home that is uniquely their own, Lucas said. Home prices at Vintage Estates start from $235,000.

Sometimes, changes are limited to changing facade or roof materials, moving and enlarging closets, or adding skylights. But other times buyers want extensive structural reworking - enlarging rooms, moving windows, changing elevations or even moving rooms, she said.

"You have to give people what they want," she said. "It takes a lot more time, but you have to provide detail, you have to be a custom

"The end result (of these builder/ buyer coordinated efforts) is a $350,000 home with all the extras that has the attitude of a $500,000 home," she said.

David Lewen, vice president of marketing at S.R. Jacobson Development Corp. in Birmingham, said builders have wrestled with the problems of giving home buyers what they want and still keeping the prices within reason.

S.R. Jacobson has developed a 15page guide book sales representatives use to help people make their houses seem more like custom hous-

The process begins with a pre-production meeting, Lucas said. Prospective buyer and sales associate sit down to go over material and building options.

Lucas stressed that not everything buyers want is possible. "But if it's possible, we're willing to do it."

CUSTOMIZED, production hous-

end market.

The same principles can be applied to more moderately priced homes, according to Adriano Paciocco, president of Multi Building Inc. in Plymouth.

"Not all builders are doing cus-tomized production housing," he said. Because of the additional time, work and planning that is required, buyers generally find builders reluctant to customize production homes unless the homes are in the upper end of the market.

But just because only upper end builders are customizing homes, doesn't mean affordable home buyers are any less savvy, Paciocco said. "They can be just as demand-

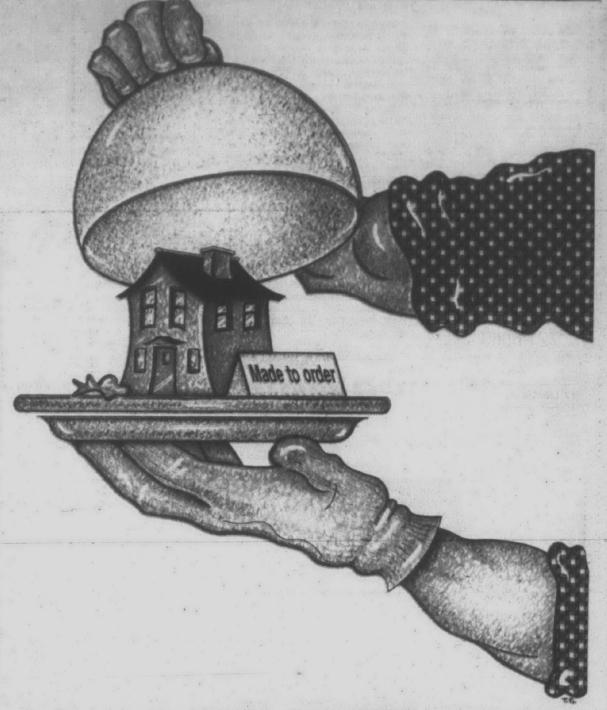

Paciocco said he is attempting to take the customized production housing principle and apply it to a more moderate market with his Maple Ridge Woods subdivision, a 51-home project of $125,500 to $136,000 homes being developed by Multi Building in Canton Township. "It's been successful - half of the project is already pre-sold," he said. Moving laundry rooms, adding additions, changing room partitions many of the custom changes that are performed at the upper end can also be applied in the moderate market if the builder is willing to make the extra effort, Paciocco said.

"It's a little more work, but I think it's absolutely necessary," he said.

BUYERS HAVE become far more street wise" within the last decade, Paciocco said. "People are moving around a lot and they're seeing more

Today's buyers are more savvy about what they want and don't want in their home. So builders are are offering the next best thing to a custom house - alterations to mass-produced houses. But modifications mean more than just construction changes. For a builder, it also means training a sales staff that has some knowledge of what goes into designing and constructing a house.

Trucks roll; concrete strike settled transit drivers anticipate getting down to the business of building following settlement of the labor dispute late last week.

"It means we're going to go like hell," said James Bonadeo, a Plymouth builder and president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan. "It took us three weeks to get a basement poured when normally it takes two days. A lot of builders are holding up basements.'

Several builders, including B.B.C. Group and Holtzman & Silverman, both of Farmington Hills, and Bonadeo, reported that some of their projects had stalled during the six weeks the drivers were on strike.

Other builders, while not immediately affected, figured they would have been had the strike lasted into August.

The drivers, represented by Teamsters Local 247, settled on a pay increase of $1.10 per hour over three years. They had been paid $15.92 hourly.

'We got what we wanted on (health) insurance, we compromised on wages and got what we wanted on our pension," said Ben Mosqueda, business agent for Local 247.

Washtenaw counties and pockets of Oakland County. Local 614, headquartered in Bloomfield Hills and which had settled earlier, represents other drivers in Oakland.

Whether specific builders were affected by the walkout of Local 247 generally was determined by where they were build-

Tom Sinelli, owner of Sinelli Concrete in Redford, and Chuck Guidobono, owner of Piedmont Concrete in Farmington Hills, both said they shut down and laid off several employees as a result of the strike

"Very definitely, work will pick up for a period of time de-pending on the strength of the economy," Sinelli said. He added that some work he normally would have provided was gobbled up by drivers from Local 614 during the strike.

Guidobono said so much work was snapped up by other drivers during the strike that there's no backlog of jobs for his

Group provides 'uniform voice'

Environmental consultants and contractors,

As environmental concerns continue to grow in importance in Michigan, the building and manufacturing industry, municipal governments and even private interests are more frequently turning toward environmental professionals for expertise

Until now, these consultants and contractors have been a fragmented group, according to Mark Henne, interim vice chairperson of the newly formed Michigan Environmental Consultants and Contractors Association, which is holding its first meeting today in Lansing. He is president of a

Lansing environmental consulting firm.

"We were formed because of a general lack of a uniform voice," Henne said.

Considering the growth in the industry and the far-reaching impact of new and changing regulations, Henne said it is surprising such an association wasn't formed before this.

"This idea is at least two years overdue." Other considerations - such as information sharing, continuing education and professional and ethical standards - also prompted the formation of the association.

Henne said the association is not an advocacy group, but will fall on different sides of issues; sometimes siding with environmental advocacy groups and sometimes siding with industry and

In many issues, emotional concerns override reason and technical aspects, Henne said. "We'll be in the middle - our interests don't parallel conservation groups or industry."

The environmental consultant association's mis-sion is to promote responsible improvement and protection of Michigan's environment and reources, he said.

Project named Towne Square

Oakland Towne Square has been chosen as the name for Real Estate Development and Investment Co.'s Allied Center project in Southfield.

According to Robert Sosnick, president of REDICO, when the idea for the project was first conceived, it was referred to as Allied Center because of its proximity to REDICO's existing Allied Center, which is adja-cent to the site of the new develop-

'Allied Center was originally designed as an individual entity, not as part of a larger complex," Sosnick said. "We wanted to ensure that the history and integrity of the Allied Center is maintained, despite its proximity to Town Square."

Town Square will consist of three office towers of one million square feet; four 27-story luxury high-rise apartment buildings; and a 70,000-square-foot retail development. The first phase will consist of a 500,000square-foot office tower, one 27-sto-ry luxury high rise and the retail

Harley Ellington Pierce Yee Associates is the fourth largest architectural/engineering firm in the state and is the headquarters for the HEPY group, a network of firms with offices in Denver, Los Angeles, Orlando, Seattle and Windsor.

R.E. Dailey & Co. of Southfield was presented with the Safety Honor Roll award for achieving a low incident rate of lost work time injuries compared to other state construction firms for 1990.

The award was given by the Michigan chapter of the Associated General Contractors, a trade association with more than 100 member construction firms.

The Engineering Society of De-troit has named Paul J. Eagle as the 1991 outstanding young engineer. Eagle, 27, is an assistant professor of mechanical engineering at the Uni-versity of Detroit Mercy. He holds a U.S. patent for his method and apparatus for automatic processing and analyzing blood serum.

ESD has also named Tammy Moskal as the outstanding student engineer of the year. A senior at Law-rence Technological University in Southfield, she is majoring in mechanical engineering and carries at 3.72 grade point average on a 4.0 scale. She has accepted a position at a power generation engineer with Commonwealth Edison in Chicago.

Building was up in both Wayne and Oakland counties for May compared with April, but both counties are still lagging in 1991 building starts compared to 1990.

In Oakland, 550 residential construction starts were made in May compared to 477 in April for an increase of 15.3 percent. But by this point in 1990, 3,516 units had been started compared to 1991's 1,889, a drop of 46.3 percent.

In Wayne, building was up 159.9 percent in May over April with 421 construction starts compared to 162. But in 1990 ground had been broken on 1,633 projects compared to 936 in 1991 for a drop of 42.7 percent.

Jean Randolph, a petrographer, claims to have a fairly good success rate determining what causes concrete to fail.

Concrete sleuth gets down to basics

staff writer

Jean Randolph, a Beverly Hills resident, says she's the only person she knows of around here who works in forensic concrete petrography. She can't understand why anyone would find that exciting.

But all kinds of people on the construction scene - consulting engineers, builders and suppliers - seek out Randolph's expertise

"A petrographer identifies and classifies rocks," she said. "Concrete is cement, water and aggregate - usually limestone in Michigan mixed together and hardened.

"In 90 percent of my work something went wrong and they (clients) want to know why," Randolph said. "Some want me to do a quality control check - did we get what we ordered? Maybe some concrete is 15 years old. They want to know what went wrong so they know how to repair it."

Randolph, who earned a geology degree from the University of Texas "apprenticed" in concrete petrography at the Portland Cement Association in Chicago, tries to find the answers.

HER MAJOR tools are two highpowered microscopes, basic knowledge and experience.

Clients send her samples of concrete several inches thick.

Randolph, working out of a laboratory in her basement, cuts a crosssection of the sample with a large concrete saw. She then takes several hours to polish and smooth the cross section.

After mounting the sample on a microscope slide, Randolph uses a smaller saw to reduce the sample to one millimeter thick, then uses a grinder to reduce the sample even further to about 20 micrometers.

"I can see all kinds of microscopic detail on the sections," she said. "I look for micro cracks, air content, aggregate quality, cement paste quality. I get the water/cement ratio for concrete."

RANDOLPH TAKES two weeks for a study and charges a fee of $350. She doesn't take referrals from homeowners about driveway and sidewalk problems.

What does her study not deter-

Anything that needs chemical analysis or has to do with engineering or sub-base materials. But 70-80 percent of the time, she can reach a conclusion about what's happening within the material itself.

You have to be a geologist," Randolph said. "You have to know micro opticals, know about rocks. You have to be trained. It's not like you go to school. You have to get a job somewhere. Someone teaches you on the job. It takes years. Every job is dif-

"You have to know what's going on in the field," she added. "Every thing is so different. It takes years of accumulated knowledge.

Randolph decided to form her business, Construction Petrographics, as a way to stay active in the field while staying home with her young children. She learned while working for an engineering firm in the metro area that clients had to send samples out of state for analy-

No cases stick out in her mind. Or at least none that she wanted to talk about.

Randolph has analyzed chunks from parking decks, curbs, roads, septic tanks and buildings awaiting

"I find her a very astute busine person, very energetic, extremely competent in her field," said Rich ard Melnechuk, technical services manager for St. Marys Peerless Cement Co. in Detroit and vice president for the Michigan chapter of the American Concrete Institute.

Karen Kalbaugh, a graduate geology student, works with Randolph.
