Band talk

Should high school band members be allowed to wear the same type of letter jackets as athletes?

That's the question that will be debated live on cable channel 15 in Plymouth, Canton and Northville at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

The debate will pit Jeff Counts, editor of the Plymouth and Canton Observer Newspapers, against Hadyn Notestine, a band parent, and Dave Klema, a student.

A column, written by Counts, that contended letter jackets be reserved for athletes sparked the debate. Bill Bresler, the photographer for the Plymouth and Canton Observer Newspapers, will also appear on the show. Bresler wrote an opposing column, contending that band members should be able to wear letter jackets.

The program will be a portion of Wednesday Report, which is hosted by William Joyner, director of the Canton Community Foundation. Counts is a regular guest on the show which focuses on news and commentary about the Canton and Plymouth areas. The show airs live weekly and is rerun at 7 p.m. on Fridays.

For more information about the show and the debate, contact Joyner at 454-3645.

Who's listening?

That's what Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara asked a crowd on Thursday at Ernesto's at a fund-raiser for a local politician.

The reason he asked was that he kind of confirmed that he did say those things about Detroit Mayor Coleman Young when he spoke to a group in Birmingham.

McNamara reportedly told the Birmingham group that it's time for Young to step down. The story appeared in daily newspapers, but McNamara backed away from it.

At the event in Plymouth he made light of the incident, didn't deny it, but didn't fully confirm it.

He did say he saw Young shortly after the story appeared and asked the mayor: "Do you believe everything you see in the papers?" He reported that Young's response was no.

McNamara also made a pitch to merge the SMART bus system with the Detroit bus system and pay for it by imposing a one-fourth-cent sales tax.

Car 54

Word has it that Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry was offered some musical entertainment last week by fellow police chiefs.

The serenade was offered up following the theft of a township police car by a man suspected of driving a stolen car. It seems the man was able to slip out of his handcuffs and drive away in the patrol car, much to the chagrin of the two officers at the scene.

The musical fellow police chiefs put in a conference call to Berry, offering up a rendition of "Car 54 Where Are You?," a tune from a 1960s TV sitcom of the same name.

Post office

The new Beck Road Post Office will open for retail business today.

The post office also announced changes in the lock box system. People with the boxes at the Penniman office will be able to keep them, but the mail won't be available until after 10:30 a.m.

Also, office hours at the Penniman office will be changed to 9 a.m. through 5 p.m., with no retail window service on Saturday.

Retail service will be offered from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. until noon on Saturday at the Beck Road office.

Stabbing suspect arrested

A man suspected of stabbing his wife six times with a steak knife kept nearly 20 police waiting outside his Plymouth Township trailer home for 8 hours Thursday, before police entered and arrested him.

On Friday, a not-guilty plea was entered for Steven Darabos, 36, before 35th District Judge John MacDonald, on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

Darabos — who police said drove his wife, Debra, to the hospital after the stabbing — was lodged Friday in the Wayne County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

AT 5:15 A.M. THURSDAY, police were called to a domestic dispute in a mobile home in the 14000 block of Fillmore, in a new section of the Plymouth Hills mobile home park.

Upon arriving at the scene, police found the husband had fled on foot into woods just west of the trailer park. "Officers checked the area but were unable to locate him," Plymouth Township Police Sgt. Bob Smith said.

3rd judge for 35th district now unlikely

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

There will be no third judgeship created for Plymouth-Canton-Northville next year, state legislators say.

A bill to create three new district judgeships in Michigan in 1995 — none are to be created in 1993 — was studied by the state Senate judiciary committee in Lansing on Thursday.

A third judgeship for Plymouth was left out, for 1993 and 1995.

Local communities tried to show that a rising 35th District Court case load required creation of a third judgeship. But the recession has stepped up Gov. John Engler's efforts to cut spending. Plus, several other courts were able to show more need than the 35th.

STILL, DISTRICT JUDGE James Garber said he and Judge John MacDonald will seek to convince a retiring judge to work as a part-time third judge.

Sen. William Van Regenmorter, R-Zeeland, chairman of the Senate judiciary committee, said Thursday, "We had to make some really tough decisions."

"The governor's office correctly is realizing we are facing some very real budget problems," Van Regenmorter said.

"Plymouth certainly has some needs. But when we applied the statistics consistently, other courts could demonstrate even greater need."

Judge Garber described his reaction to the turn of events as "disappointment, I guess a little sense of frustration."

"I hoped we would even be included in '95."

"I think it would be a tragedy if we don't get a judge before 1997," Garber said. "Now it appears that would be our earliest opportunity."

Garber has stated his intention to retire upon completing his term at the end of 1994. He said it won't be easy for a new judge to come into a court, especially a busy one like the 35th District Court.

Marion Belding, 35th District Court administrator, said plans to expand the court to accommodate a third judge should continue.

"The project is still going forward, it will never be any cheaper," she said.

PLANS CALL FOR construction to begin this year on an estimated $550,000 addition, to be paid for from proceeds normally going to communities served by the court.

Several local lawyers had said privately they were interested in running this year for a third judgeship. The position pays an annual salary of around $100,000.

City accused of 'waffling' on shared services

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

We're getting fed up with the city "waffling" on shared services talks, say some Plymouth Township officials.

At the Tuesday meeting of township trustees, supervisor Gerald Law said after 14 months and 40 meetings with city officials on combining dispatch and fire services, "Quite frankly we haven't made a whole lot of progress."

"I think they are the ones who are not really interested," said clerk Esther Hulsing.

CITING "AN ENORMOUS amount of time preparing for these meetings," only for the city to back out of tentative agreements, "I think we reached the limit where we can go," Law said.

Some comments were in response to charges from city officials March 16 that the township isn't really interested in serious negotiation.

Township finance director Rosemary Harvey and police chief Carl Berry took turns voicing their frustration with city negotiators.

"By fall of 1991, we thought we had a preliminary agreement on dispatch. The city did not follow up on any of these agreements," Harvey said.

Berry said that after 24 meetings on joint dispatch services, "We re-did our (jail) lock-up policy in the township so the city and township would have the same lock-up policy."

Berry said he also met with Unisys, Motorola and AT&T to arrange for up-to-date equipment to be brought in to complete joint dispatch, when agreement was reached to merge dispatch in 30 days.

"They had this equipment on standby," Berry said, but the city didn't get back with township officials.

Joint dispatch, Law said, "Was supposed to be the lead-in" to merging other services. "There was the hope we could do something much more complicated."

YET, "THEY CONTINUED to wander from topic to topic on us,"

Longtime gym teacher bounced

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Bean counting in recent months in Lansing and Plymouth-Canton is being felt by human beings in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Jim Finn, who joined the district in 1973 and serves as athletic manager at Centennial Educational Park, is among the first to be pink-slipped by the Plymouth-Canton school board.

For Finn, it was a job made in heaven, but it also meant that in his new administrative bargaining unit, Finn was lowest on the seniority list and the first to go.

More than 100 employees are expected to be notified of layoffs by

May 1 in a move to cut costs. Plymouth-Canton schools are projecting a revenue shortfall of at least $4.3 million next year, due to legislative actions including the property tax freeze, tax-base sharing, and the shifting to out-of-formula districts the cost of employee social security.

A SKILLED BASEBALL player, downhill skier, golfer, triathlete and juggler, Finn says all he ever really wanted to do was teach physical education and coach.

"I can remember being 13 years old, getting my hair cut and telling my barber I would like to be a phys ed teacher," said Finn, who began his collegiate career on a baseball scholarship at Southern Colorado

State College and graduated from Eastern Michigan University.

The Oak Park native got his wish — but at the cost of numerous transfers dictated by budget problems. "I've worked in four elementaries, three middle schools and the high school," Finn said.

Most of the transfers have been back to Pioneer Middle School. "At Pioneer, I've come and gone so many times that the last time, the staff said, 'Maybe if we give him a going away gift, he'll stay away,'" said Finn, laughing while pulling out of his pocket a key chain engraved with the words, "Jim Finn — best of luck from the Pioneer staff."

As a new graduate of Eastern

Michigan, Finn couldn't have been happier, having landed a student teaching job at Pioneer Middle School.

"I didn't know what Plymouth was in 1973," said Finn. "At EMU, they told me, 'Just take Prospect until you get to Frains Lake. Turn right and keep driving, and you will run right into Pioneer.'"

Finn has run into Pioneer all right. After student teaching there, he landed a job teaching math and physical education at Pioneer. He stayed until 1985, at the same time earning his master's degree at EMU on the GI bill. Finn moved to Gallimore and Smith elementaries where he taught physical education. Later, he was given the assistant principal's job at East Middle School.

"I WAS THERE for one semester until they downsized the district in the late 80's, and it pushed me back to Hoben Elementary and Field Elementary, where I taught phys ed," said Finn, who with his wife Evelyn has two children, Patrick, 13, and Meghan, 12.

In 1988, it was back to Pioneer for half a year. Finn then became assistant principal at Central Middle School, but not for long.

He served in 1989-90 as middle school coordinator. The district received a grant enabling it to implement team teaching and other innovations in the middle school instructional program.

"In 1991-92, the state recaptured some of that $50,000 in middle school grant money. With the uncertainty of finances, we kind of downsized the middle school changes, and I went back to Pioneer in kind of a bittersweet job," said Finn.

"This job, (athletic manager) opened up in October when the board decided it would create two positions to help out (athletic director) Paul Cummings." Finn has acted as assistant athletic director in charge of physical education.

He hasn't minded the work days that have kept him, often times, on the job until after 10 p.m.

"I LOVE THE positive energy of athletics in the public schools," says Finn. "And I've always had a love for coaching and working with students and seeing them grow and be successful. It's very dear to my heart."

"You've heard that quote from that Woody Allen movie — 'Those who can do, those who can't teach, and those who can't teach become phys ed teachers.' I've always wanted to change that impression and show people that physical education is important. Most people I know don't know what a dangling participle is, but they know what their cholesterol count is, or they should."

Finn says he isn't bitter.

"Hopefully, I will land on my feet," he said. "I will lose my job, but not the chance to work for Plymouth-Canton schools. I envision coming back. In the worst-case scenario, I might have to give my key ring back."

"I wouldn't say I'm bitter, I'm more concerned that they start determining a direction and staying with that direction. This district has been fiscally sound, and the response of the board of education has always kept us on course. It appears to me that we are being fiscally responsible, yet we're being penalized for it."

"We spend $4,500 per child, and get quite a big bang for our buck in facilities, educational opportunities and athletics. The grade point average of our athletes alone is 2.9."

"It seems each year we have to pull the belt a little tighter, and that's frustrating to say the least. It can make you angry, having to do it year after year."

Finn says he realizes he's employed in a job where "you have to prepare for the worst. It certainly isn't pleasant knowing you might not have a job. Negotiations are going

Service talks show little progress

Law said, adding the city now seeks joint dispatch operations with the township and Northville and Northville Township.

"I'm not real optimistic you're going to get four communities to do what two can not," he said.

According to the township, they would save $20,000 and the city $30,000 in the first year after merging dispatch service.

ONE MAJOR STICKING point involves a city stance that contributions to joint fire service should be based on the relative property value of both city and township. Township officials say this is unfair, because the city would get more service than it is paying for.

While treasurer Mary Brooks agreed with Law and Hulsing that the effort should be dropped, other trustees urged pressing on. Saying there are still savings to be found with merging dispatch, trustee Smith Horton said, "I think we should give that one more time."

"I think basically Plymouth has said no to the township, we have not shut the door," said trustee Ron Griffith. "We should always keep these doors open."

Planning forum tonight

The implications of regional planning is the subject of a forum scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today at the Canton Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. Gerald Law, Plymouth Township supervisor, and A. E. Jackson Morris, Pittsfield Township supervisor, will present the pros and cons of regionalism for individual communities.

The speakers will take questions from the audience. Detroit News columnist Jon Pepper will act as moderator.

Sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth and Canton, the meeting seeks to air reactions to recent recommendations made by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

Boak to run for office

Plymouth attorney and former assistant Wayne County prosecutor Stephen Boak has announced his intention to run for Plymouth Township supervisor.

"We need to streamline our township government and eliminate nepotism, cronyism and lax business practices," Boak said in announcing his candidacy. "I have been a township resident for 19 years and it's time for me to apply my skills and expertise toward solving the problems in my own home town."

"I see many areas in township government which need attention, with property taxes on the top of my list. I have the wherewithal and the intelligence to make meaningful changes. We must restore public confidence in our government. This will be my first and primary objective."

Boak is also a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Debra Darabos was treated for wounds to her neck, head and abdomen, and was in stable condition Friday at St. Mary Hospital.

"We learned about 8 a.m. he was making phone calls," Smith said. "We learned he was back in the trailer again, sometime around 8 or 8:30 a.m."

"We set up a perimeter in the area so he could not just run away," Smith continued. "We did not enter the trailer." Police attempts to call Darabos by telephone and by calling out got no response.

"We wanted to do this by the book," Smith said. A special operations unit headed by a Northville Township officer was called in, made up of around a dozen armed officers in camouflage clothing.

As the afternoon wore on, "We were unable to make any contact with the suspect, he wasn't answering phones and didn't respond to bangs on the walls," Smith said.

On a section of C Drive near Fillmore blocked off by police, resident Don Armitage washed his car as officers milled around a police van.

"I thought it was a drug bust," he said, gesturing toward groups of officers.

ALSO WAITING WAS the Daraboses' next door neighbor Liz Green of Fillmore Drive. "I'm scared to death," she said. "I'm concerned about my house, I just moved there."

While Green moved to the mobile home park just two weeks ago, the Daraboses and their son, 21, moved in only a week ago, she said. "I just know they had some loud music, one time I asked them to turn it down," she said.

Finally at 4:37 p.m., after a warrant was issued allowing entry, police used a key to open the front door of the home, got inside and found Darabos "hidden in one of the bedrooms," Smith said, on the floor between a bed and a wall.

The suspect was unarmed. "No one got hurt, no one was shot at," Smith said.

Both township and Plymouth city police said they have been called previously to settle domestic disturbances involving Darabos.

The next court date for Darabos, a preliminary exam, is scheduled for 10 a.m. April 3 in 35th District Court.

Police used an unoccupied mobile home next door to observe the suspect's trailer. The owners, whose plan to move in was set back a few days, complained of the mess, but the company that built the home volunteered to clean it.

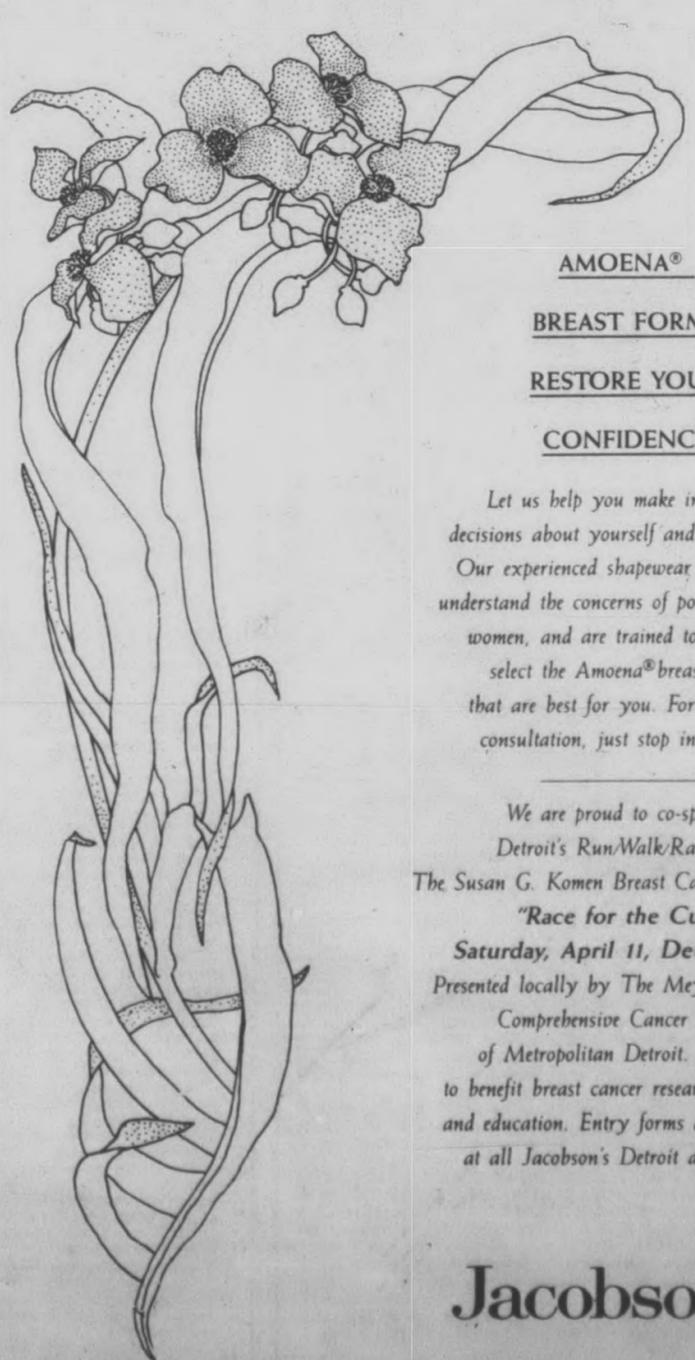

Minutes before the special operations team entered the trailer, Sgt. John Sherman (center) talks strategy.

Schoolcraft talking taxes, bonds as building grant falls into limbo

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Schoolcraft College thought it could build its new student activities center without asking area voters for money.

Now, it's not so sure. Declining state grants have college officials considering a potential bond or millage request, possibly as soon as this year.

Schoolcraft was to have split the estimated $7.2 million construction cost with the state.

While the Livonia based community college is well on its way toward meeting its half of the project, state money is drying up.

"THE (STATE) money isn't there and we have no idea when it will be there," Schoolcraft president Richard McDowell said.

Officials are considering a short-term millage — perhaps has short as one year in length — or a 20-30 year bond issue.

The college could seek to raise as much as $10 million to complete the building and renovate Waterman Campus Center, McDowell said. Roughly two-thirds would come from the bond issue or millage, the rest from college rental income.

Schoolcraft trustees discussed matters only briefly during Wednesday's meeting. Future discussions are expected.

Ground was to have been broken this summer, college business vice president Adelard Raby said.

But construction was put on hold when Schoolcraft couldn't secure state financing.

On its own, the college has already secured roughly $2.5 million in rental payments from the Seven Mile Crossing office complex. Seven Mile Crossing was built in 1988 on college-owned land near I-75. It includes two office buildings and a restaurant.

College officials planned pay for the new building with $3.6 million in rental income from Seven Mile Crossing, augmented with a matching state grant.

College admissions, financial aid and counseling offices would all move into the new building from other campus sites.

"We want a one-stop student center," Raby said.

The lower Waterman Center would be converted into a conference center. An on-campus child care center would also be added.

Other college offices and programs, including the accounting and purchasing offices and Women's Resource Center would also move to the new building from small houses on Haggerty, south of campus. The houses would be razed.

City awaits word on base's future

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Livonia officials remain hopeful their city's U.S. Army installation will remain open, despite announced reductions in area Army Reserve forces.

The Schoolcraft Road facility is scheduled to lose 220 Army Reserve personnel as part of military cuts announced Thursday.

Cuts were announced a mere three weeks after Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett helped the Livonia facility apply for a federal renovation grant.

"In that respect, I was a little surprised by the announcement," Bennett said.

Because of the grant application — and because the facility is headquarters for the Army Reserve's 70th Division — city officials remain optimistic about its chances for survival.

"I'm told the 70th can has as many as 10,000 people from Indiana and Ohio, as well as Michigan," Bennett said.

On site U.S. Army officials were unavailable for comment Friday.

THE FACILITY is scheduled to lose 120 from the 424th Personnel Service Company, another 100 from the 329th Infantry Battalion/First Brigade/70th Division.

The battalion's 2nd Brigade, based in Flint, would lose 118 members. Four Southfield-based naval reserve units would also be cut by a combined 131 members. More than 6,000 Michigan mili-ary reserves would be cut under cost-saving plans announced by U.S. Defense Secretary Dick Cheney.

The Detroit-based 1st Battalion/225th Infantry would lose 782 members.

U.S. Sens. Carl Levin, D-Detroit, and Donald Riegle, D-Flint, have vowed to fight the cuts, saying Michigan was losing too much personnel in respect to other states.

"Reductions must be made rationally and distributed equitably," Levin said. "The Pentagon plan doesn't meet that basic standard."

Riegle said overseas units should be cut before stateside reserves.

"The most effective way to reduce spending on personnel is to cut high-cost active duty units based in foreign countries," Riegle said. "These countries can defend themselves and we can keep more of our money at home when we maintain highly trained reserve and guard units here in America."

More than 140,000 defense jobs are scheduled to be eliminated. Cuts are expected to save $20 billion over five years.

"I HURT EVERYWHERE" - WHEN TENSION JOINS ARTHRITIS

Your friends may think you exaggerate, but your doctor believes you. If you have arthritis, times will arise when you "hurt everywhere."

The episode often occurs on arising in the morning or when after being seated for a prolonged time, you get up, only to find you can't. Your incapacity comes from pain in the usual joints such as the hands or knees, plus an intense ache in areas not previously involved.

What has happened is that a flare of your arthritis to one or two joints, precipitated a reaction by your body. The muscles in your back, shoulders and legs, reflect a mood of anger, disgust, anxiety and dismay. When you try to stand up, you discover the ruckus going on within you.

When an attack occurs, you have no choice but to stop. Get heat, from a shower if possible, and find rest, either stretched out in bed or in a large, firm chair. If the episode fails to clear overnight, call your doctor.

When he sees you, he will sort out where the joint pain resides, and where the muscle strain has settled in. Often an injection into an inflamed joint calms the flare; at other times, attention to the tension must be combined with treatment for the arthritis.

Stay clam, remember you are in a flare, not a finale; the episode will pass.

Highway law gives more power to SEMCOG

By Tim Richard
Staff writer

Since 1969, SEMCOG has prided itself on being a voluntary planning agency. This year it faces the shock of becoming a big-time spending agency.

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments has been run by elected local officials. Now it may have to bring appointed county road commissioners, bus operators and state bureaucrats into positions of voting power.

The reason is ISTE, pronounced "ice tea." It stands for "Intermodal Surface Transportation and Efficiency Act," $155 billion in federal programs signed into law last year by President George Bush.

"When I saw it in December, I couldn't believe it. It changes the nature of the organization," said John Amberger, SEMCOG's executive director, a hired man who always is deferential to his bosses, the elected politicians.

"It opens a Pandora's box," said Jack Olsen, R-Huntington Woods, an Oakland County commissioner resisting the change.

"THERE IS significant decision-making responsibility, if we choose to accept it," said Milton Mack, a Wayne County probate judge and former suburban county commissioner.

Mack heads SEMCOG's bylaws committee, a seemingly dull, dry task. Not any more. Mack's panel last week offered the SEMCOG General Assembly a rules change that would enable the seven-county agency to allocate federal road, bridge and public transit funds under ISTE.

Oakland County's delegation, led by Olsen, lobbied for and won a three-months delay in the rules change. The delay came on a voice vote and by a 10-1 margin.

THE RULES change would expand SEMCOG's executive committee to 37 members from 45 by adding 12 transportation providers.

ISTEA spells out their qualifications: one each from six county road boards outside Wayne County; one representative of Wayne County's public services department (which replaced the road commission); one from SMART, the suburban bus agency; one from Detroit's D-DOT; one from Detroit's public works department; one from the Ann Arbor Transit Authority; and one from the Michigan Department of Transportation.

There's argument about whether SEMCOG must make the rules change in order to be designated to allocate the money.

Mack argued that "SEMCOG is grandfathered. It's not required to have transportation providers."

But MDOT's view, he said, is that "if we do not amend our bylaws, we will not be certified to decide" funding.

THE ARGUMENT will spill over from last week's meeting in the Rackham Building in Detroit to a series of county meetings around the region. Among the sessions:

- Wayne County — 9 a.m. Saturday, April 4, Holiday Inn/Fairlane.

- Oakland County — 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 8, Bloomfield Township Hall.

- Livingston County — 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 29, Hamburg Township Senior Center.

OLSEN IS likely to be joined by fellow Oakland commissioners Richard Skarritt, R-Milford, and Kay Schmid, R-Novi in making the case against giving appointed transportation people voting power.

"It opens a Pandora's box," he told a caucus of county officials last week. "If one special interest — transportation — is given 20 percent of the vote on the executive committee, others will want in. It would turn SEMCOG into a series of special interest activities. It (SEMCOG currently) is a voluntary organization of elected officials."

"The rule of one person, one vote is not observed (in the new rules)."

"Transportation officials don't pay dues," he added. SEMCOG is funded by dues from member governments, but county road commissions can't join. "Transportation representatives can serve on our technical advisory committees. There's no prohibition on their saying what they wish."

SOME WANT to approve the change.

Ruel McPherson, D-Hazel Park, an Oakland commissioner, said, "Bo knows football. Transportation people know transportation. Let's ask them to pay dues. I'm pretty sure the Oakland County Road Commission would dig in their pockets."

Amberger, the SEMCOG staff chief, wants the rules change to avoid a battle over SEMCOG's being designated the money-allocation agency.

Patrick Johnson, chair of the Macomb County board, opposed any role for road commissions. "We're a policy making body. Policy should be made by elected representatives."

"Road commissions are a boondoggle of the horse and buggy days. I say down with the road commission — at least the one in Macomb."

ISTEA has four basic programs: highways, surface transportation, congestion mitigation and air quality, and bridges. It has money for everything but subdivision streets.

One goal is better connections between various modes of transportation.

Schools shirk their job training duties — educator

By Tim Richard
Staff writer

A school's job is to prepare kids for the workplace, but many schools shun their duty, a leading educator told Michigan's establishment.

"There are a whole lot of school districts who don't believe that. They can't write it into their mission statements. There is acrimony between academic and vocational people — we actually have competing bureaucracies," said Paula Stark, director of strategic planning at Grand Rapids Junior College.

In her audience were 300 business executives, labor leaders, school officials and educators, invited to Michigan State University by House Speaker Lewis Dodak and Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City.

"We had a mixed invitation list," said Keith, chair of the House Education Committee and leader of a movement to promote vocational education in the state. "You should hear the legislator from Oregon

(Rep. Bruce Hugo). The unions beat on him. The press beat on him. But they just went ahead and did it."

STARK, KEYNOTER on the second day of a two-day conference, said American employers won't hire young workers (below 25 or so). "In Europe they start in good jobs at age 22. We're losing people 18 to 25 from good-paying jobs into secondary jobs," she said.

Stark called for Michigan educators to make job readiness a top priority and employers to play a key role with internships and apprenticeships.

"In Europe, the customer is business, the employer. Our education is disconnected from the economy."

"Europe pays attention to the middle (academically); they're willing to give up some at the top and bottom. We pay attention to the high (college-bound) and low ends. We still act like you can walk across the street and get a job at GM."

"In Europe you don't have a sense of rivalry between academic and vocational.

All education is vocational. We have to accept preparation for work as a role of education. There a whole lot of school districts who don't believe that," Stark said.

INTEGRATING business and education is done several ways in Europe, she said.

Denmark alternates several weeks of schoolroom academics and on-the-job training. Germany uses several classroom days and several work days. Sweden's schools are entirely study-based followed by internships.

"We need to decide who trains for vocations. In Japan, it's the companies. In Europe, it's a shared responsibility. We haven't decided."

"If I hadn't been to Europe, I wouldn't understand 20 percent of what I'm saying to you," Stark said.

Wolfgang Lenz, executive director of a German business foundation, fielded a question about American fears of pigeon-holing students into academic and vocational tracks at too early an age.

Lenz said Germany has "career information centers" with profiles and wage data on 380 occupations. "They don't have counselors in the schools; they have counselors in the career information centers. I'm wondering why there aren't more of these around the United States."

KEITH IS vowing to spend years pushing his House Bill 4165, an amendment to the state school code to restructure vocational education along the German model.

Under his plan, students after 10th grade would choose between academic and career-technical programs, though they could transfer back and forth.

Business would provide on-the-job training and apprenticeships for the last two years of high school; half a student's time would be in class, half on the job.

Suburban squires roll on spiked foolishness

I HATE LAWN edging. I don't mean this in the sense of, "I hate to do it." The fact is, I would never do it. I have never done it. The reason? It is a shameful, goofy thing to do. It certainly seems goofy to spend good money on a lawn edger, then run a spiked wheel down a sidewalk crack, with face all serious, in earnest conformity. Lawn edging is shameful. That's because life is too short to waste on such nit-picking. There are places to go, movies to see, books to read, people to meet. To choose lawn edging over such activities is to reveal a deep character flaw. When you see someone edging a lawn, there's a spiked wheel on one end and a fool on the other. LIKE THE suburban squires in the Monkees' song "Pleasant Valley Sunday," these must-edge folks "need a change of scenery." At least, they need a change of attitude. They should accept that grass growing freely over a sidewalk edge is beautiful. And creating a edge along the sidewalk, frankly, is irresponsible. That's because you put your family at risk for a lawsuit, if some poor kid runs a bike tire into that edge and cracks a skull. When I have raised the concept of lawn edging as a foolish endeavor to people, most are a bit surprised. Some volunteer that they have no strong feeling on the subject. Yet, they do say they're afraid of what the neighbors would think if they didn't edge. To them, I say this: A neighbor offended by a freely-growing, unedged lawn is a dip, unworthy of your consideration. Then there is a second group, commonly characterized as lawn Nazis. These humorless, scary people — often men — typically boast with macho pride about their most recent session spent fertilizing their lawns. I think there's a double meaning here.

BUT FERTILIZING is only one symptom of their disease. These suburban gruppenfuhrers aren't really satisfied until their lawns mimic a Marine-like, brush-cut, dyed green. This sort of low life is also known to comment roughly about the relative state of neighbors' lawns. Grass is only acceptable in their eyes if whipped into a state as unnatural as their own. My favorite homeowners are those who let their lawns grow freely, providing a suitable nesting place for squirrels, rabbits or discarded tires. Better yet was the lawn of an old buddy in Ann Arbor. One day, he upped and tore it up, and planted rows of vegetables. Sure, his less-sophisticated neighbors complained. They even went to the city council. But there was nothing they could do about it. Besides, come harvest time, he had plenty of roughage to bolster his diet. Then again, he wasn't the one with a problem with anal retention. Recognition deserved by the band

To the editor: According to "Webster's New World Dictionary," sport is defined as "any activity or experience that gives enjoyment or recreation; pastime; diversion." So much for your Neanderthal argument that there is actually a distinction between activities that are physical and mental. Achievement and recognition, as a result of football, basketball or baseball heroics is no more or less meaningful to the athlete than it is to the pompon girl, debater or marching band member who devotes countless hours to their "sport." Each and every student wears their letter with pride in their accomplishments and dedication. I have a daughter in the marching band. As a former high school varsity athlete, I was unprepared for the commitment my daughter, and the nearly 200 other students, was to make to ensure success. This commitment was both mental and physical. As you are aware, their hard work paid off in the form of two National Championships. It's time we let go of out-dated values and recognized excellence in which ever arena it is accomplished. Get a life.

Members of band work hard on field

To the editor: Tell the truth now. Did a newspaper editor really write those silly things, or has he been abducted by terrorists only to further their mindless propaganda? Did they threaten him with physical violence unless he signed his name to that editorial? Aw, come on. Who is the wimp, Mr. Counts? Is it the student who studies for years, practices for most of his waking hours (long after he/she should be asleep) and performs for others during the entire school year and not just for a season — and who can certainly handle the likes of you? Or is it the grown man who attacks the energetic enthusiasm, natural exuberance and musical talent of dedicated young people from the safety of his little column in a suburban newspaper? Mr. Counts, when was the last time you practiced for hours in the freezing cold just before a football game so that you could high step your way across a football field, while blowing your lungs out — and all the while playing real music. (Don't forget that you would have also been playing almost continuously throughout the entire game from the stands.)

I daresay, Mr. Counts, that most people your age would need to be carried off the field.

The fact that you feel threatened by those students amuses me. The fact that you have any editorial control of my hometown newspaper appalls me.

And to Bill Bresler I can only say: Bravo!

Patricia Seleski

Tuba players do get dates

To the editor: I read your opinion about the issue of letter jackets for members of other "activities," outside of athletics. I'm a Garden City High School student, and a band student. I feel I should tell you how I feel. At my school there's heated debate whether or not only athletes or all activities should be wearing letter jackets. Garden City High School permits band members to wear letter jackets, along with athletes.

You called band members "wimps," personally I feel that if you sit back and watch the band maybe you would see the work and effort that goes into putting on a "nice half-time show." If you have never been in the band or even watched a practice, I feel you have no right to call band members "wimps," because maybe you are the "wimp" yourself.

You also mentioned that, "Our educational system produces kids who think everything should be fair all the time and nobody should ever be unhappy." That in itself is untrue. The students know more than you think. We know that life is unfair and we all will be unhappy at one or more points in our lives. Maybe you should actually try talking to some students before making a comment like that.

You said, "They (band members) have their own recognition." I know that at my school, the recognition we get is from our parents, the school, and some students. If getting a letter boosts our self esteem, are you going to stop it? Athletes can get awards, announcements made about them, and letter jackets. Band members can get letter jackets, and rarely a scholarship.

BAND IS an activity that's dependent on students learning notes, tunes and walking in step. Isn't it true that football is an activity that's dependent on students learning basic skill, plays and running in the right direction? I seem to lack the insight that you have to find learning plays more difficult than learning note patterns.

You also mentioned that athletes push themselves to the limit of physical endurance, and that success or failure is immediately visible in athletics. Well, Mr. Counts, band members have to push themselves or else they will embarrass themselves and the group. Success or failure is immediately visible in band, "if you hit a high C in the horn section," it will be very noticeable if everyone else is playing a low B. In band you also have solo performances during certain parts of a song. If you miss a note, or "fumble" the part, then you're alone on the stage and everybody is listening.

If the only accomplishment you can see is athletic ones, then I feel sorry for you. I would hate to see a world with only people who thought like you. You place athletes on a pedestal and knock everyone else down when you probably don't know who or what they are.

What if your child decided to become a band member, would your opinion change then? In the end, Mr. Counts, the tuba player will get more dates than the "blond quarterback."

Bigots of both races should stop

To the editor: Your Points of View column, "Respect Lacking for Blacks," caught my eye and was read with interest and empathy. It brought to mind something Edward R. Murrow once wrote: "Everyone is a prisoner of his own experiences. Recognize them." Here is one white man's opinion. So you know where I'm coming from, I'm a naturalized American citizen over 70 years old who spent a lot of time as a young man in downtown Detroit and loved it. One of the best bosses I ever had was black. For years I had blacks reporting to me at work and race never got in the way of our relationships. In the last 40 years or so I have seen a deterioration in mutual respect and tolerance between our respective races. It bothers the hell out of me because I'm still convinced that most people, black or white, can live together in harmony if the bigots in both races will quit screwing things up. W. K. Culture reigns

IN MADRID, SPAIN

Dance, music, theatrical events stir city from siesta

By Laurel Berger
New York Times Syndicate

Last month Madrid's clay-tiled rooftops were covered in snow, but even that didn't distract the city's construction workers, who are proceeding at an uncustomary breakneck pace to revamp the 1992 Culture Capital of Europe, which will serve as the backdrop this year for almost 1,800 cultural events.

Some of the more ambitious projects include the continuing restoration of the Teatro Real to its former status as an opera house and the scheduled reopening next July of the Museo de America, which, after an 11-year slumber, will display a magnificent trove of pre-Columbian art.

Faced with such formidable competition as the Barcelona Olympics and the Expo '92, Madrid is doing its best to shine with a strong program of dance, music and theatrical events.

Among this month's highlights are the 12th International Theater Festival, a new season of zarzuela (Spanish light opera) and a continuing series of flamenco concerts that have nothing to do with the clubs often encountered by the package tourist.

EVENTS

Tickets generally go on sale several weeks before each event. All five performances of the Monte Carlo Opera's version of Carmen at the Teatro Lirico Nacional de la Zarzuela later this month are already sold out. Box offices, like just about everything else in the city, shut down for afternoon siesta.

Peter Maxwell-Davies will be the guest conductor of the Orquesta Radio Television Espanola when it plays his violin concerto and his "Orkney Wedding with Sunrise," Mozart's overture to "The Marriage of Figaro" and his Symphony No. 38 on March 26 and 27 at the Teatro Monumental, at 64 Atocha. Tickets are from $7. For more information call 429-1281.

The Centro Cultural de la Villa, at Jardines del Descubrimiento, Plaza Colon, will resonate with the flamenco sounds of Manuel Agujetas on March 31. Tickets are about $12.

The newly inaugurated Teatro de Madrid, at Avenida de la Ilustracion, is the venue for the zarzuela "Viento Es La Dicha de Amor" from April 3 to 11. Tickets are $15. For more information call 738-9075.

The International Theater Festival runs until April 5, with Russia, Spain, Czechoslovakia, Britain, France and Sweden taking part.

"Operation Ful," by the French company Dram Bekus, will be at the Teatro de la Comedia, at 14 Principe, April 2-5. Tickets are $8 and $16.

Eva Bergman's Backa Theater will perform Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" in Swedish at the Sala Olimpia, at Plaza de Lavapies, from April 1-5. Tickets are $16. For more information call 527-4622.

The Ballet Lirico Nacional will perform a program of contemporary work from April 3-11 at the Teatro Albeniz, at 11 Paz. Tickets are $15 and $20. For more information call 522-0200.

Daniel Barenboim will conduct the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at the Auditorio Nacional de Musica on April 7 and 8. Tickets are $11, $26 and $32.

SIGHTSEEING

The Museo del Prado, at Paseo del Prado, is Spain's top attraction because of its unrivaled collection of works by Bosch, Velazquez and El Greco, as well as dozens of other major artists.

The museum is open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday to Saturday, 9 a.m. to 1:45 p.m. Sunday; closed Monday. Admission is $4. For more information call 420-2836.

More manageable is the Convento de las Descalzas Reales, at Plaza de las Descalzas, with its impressive religious artwork and painting by Zurbaran, Velazquez, Titian and Rubens. Visitors glimpse but a fraction of the museum's treasures on the 30-minute guided tour, as they are taken from one room to the next. The convent, built as a palace in 1559, is also home to 28 cloistered nuns. It is open Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. to 5:15 p.m.; closed Friday afternoon and all day Monday. It is also open Sunday from 11 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. Admission is $3.50. For more information call 248-7404, extension 451.

The Museo Nacional Centro de Arte Reina Sofia, Madrid's answer to Paris's Pompidou Center, will unveil its permanent collection in May. The museum, an 18th-century hospital is at 52 Santa Isabel.

At the top of the museum's glass elevator towers is a bird's-eye view of the city. Within its walls is the best contemporary art collection in the country. The works of the American painter Clifford Still are on show until May 17.

The museum is open Monday to Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Sunday 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.; closed Tuesday. For more information call 467-5062.

Fabulous pretenders cut costs

What started out to be an April Fool's column on "fake foods" has taken on a new angle. Although it's true that the Ritz Cracker Mock Apple Pie and "city chicken on-a-stick" were invented during the Great Depression to help stretch food dollars, a recent grocery store walk-through has pinpointed many "fake" foods.

Whereas many of these mock foods were invented for health's sake (i.e., imitation sour cream and Egg Beaters) many of the other so-called fabulous fakes were introduced so that folks like you and me can get more for the ever-shrinking food dollar.

One of the top 1980s pretenders is a product called Krab with a "k" instead of a "c." This product, still growing in popularity, used what was once called "trash fish" that when harvested in deep-sea nets was usually thrown back.

CONSISTING MAINLY of pollack, this imitation crab is processed, artificially flavored and colored and then molded into sticks that when tasted, actually resembles crabmeat. With Alaskan King Crab selling way over $10 per pound, this imitation crab was an immediate hit, especially when introduced around $4 per pound with a taste that was almost indistinguishable. The popularity of imitation crab has since spawned a market for fake lobster and even fake shrimp.

John and Marge Shimpel of Troy, both cruising in their golden years, recall products like city chicken with fond memories. Marge says that her momma used to buy the pork and veal combo on a stick for 19 cents per pound in the days following the Depression.

"This was certainly a budget-stretcher that when served with homemade dumplings and a vegetable 'put up' from the family garden made for a wondrous meal" said Marge. John recalls a meat market in southwest Detroit that used to make a mock city chicken (how about that — a fake of a fake!) that was rumored to be made of horse meat.

Another product that was not as well received as city chicken and mock apple pie was the 1950s introduction of imitation processed cheese. Products like Velveeta and sliced imitation cheese found their way into cost-conscious kitchens promising great taste, versatility and a price that couldn't be beat.

TO THIS day, momma still has the ever-present box of Velveeta available for everything from grilled cheese sandwiches to sauces. Made more of oil, water, colorings and flavorings, the mock cheese market blossomed and is still continuing strong, with domestic cheese prices on a dollar-for-dollar basis bringing today's food shopper a bargain compared to prices of yesteryear.

If there ever was a buzzword for great-tasting imitations of 1990s foods, just glance at the mayonnaise and salad dressing shelves in the grocery store. Although these products are far from being imitation, now there are jars sprouting claims of no cholesterol and even no fat.

Imitation products abound in the "diet" section, where low-calorie products mocking creamed soups and snacks abound. Geared toward the more health-conscious consumer, these products are marketed to improve brand loyalty and to heighten the awareness of good dietary habits.

So if you remember the days of grocery cost-cutting and rent parties, you might be surprised about the fabulous fakes that are out there on your grocers' shelves and meat cases.

In all honesty though, I still feel guilty after eating a big bowl full of "imitation ice milk," especially when slathered with imitation chocolate topping.

Foods that fool Improvise during hard times

Weathering the recession, worsened by the auto sales slump and planned closing of the Willow Run assembly plant in Ypsilanti, is not easy, but we'd like to help. Over the next few weeks, we'll look at ways to stretch your food dollar. Next week, we'll talk about ways to cut your grocery bill.

Impact on the suburbs:

The shrinking
Auto Industry

By Keely Wygonik
staff writer

HAVE SOME fun on April Fool's Day, and cut your grocery bill too with some money-saving ideas from people who grew up and raised families during the Great Depression.

During these tough times, which began in 1929 and lasted through the 1930s, people learned how to make do with less, recycle leftovers and substitute when certain foods were not available or were too expensive.

Marion Kuclio of Garden City, known by many as Gundella the Kitchen Witch, remembers raspberry jam made with green tomatoes, sugar and a three-ounce package of raspberry jello.

For advice, homemakers often listened to Aunt Sammy on the radio. Her program, which aired from 1926 to 1944, offered recipes and tips for using new contraptions like refrigerators, which replaced ice boxes.

Rita Spence of Livonia remembers "lots of meatless meals. My mom made great dumplings. Give her a bag of flour and some salt and she could feed an army."

Even today, Spence "improvises." She doesn't throw old clothes away, but cuts them up for rags and saves the buttons for another use. A roll of paper towel lasts a long time because she prefers to use rags that can be washed and reused.

JOSEPHINE SEPIN of Garden City remembers a dish her mother made with elbow macaroni, pork and beans and onions.

"We made a lot of soup, they used to give away soup bones," she said.

The marrow in the bone made a rich broth. Dr. Miles Medical Company of Toledo, Ohio, offered this recipe for soup from bones in his 1925 cookbook:

"Dry celery leaves, keep to use in soup. Save bones from meat, crack large ones. Cover with cold water, cook slowly for several hours, strain, add vegetables, tomatoes, onion, celery, put in rice or barley, cook until done."

When Helen McGeorge's grandchildren visit her in Garden City, they often ask for "Poor Man's Gravy." It was sometimes served on a biscuit without meat.

"You boil potatoes, then fry your meat like hamburgers or porkchops. Take the meat out, pour potato water into meat drippings, thicken it with flour," she said.

"Everyone canned back then," said McGeorge. "You could buy five pounds of hamburger for less than $1. We ate a lot of rice, too. There was some good food back then, believe it or not."

DOROTHY METZER of Garden City remembers eating potato soup with dumplings before payday. Even today, she's careful not to waste food. She cuts celery and onion and puts it in containers in the freezer for soup so it won't spoil. She'll buy an off brand instead of a name brand because it's usually cheaper and tastes just as good.

Little changes can add up to big savings, nutritious meals

By Keely Wygonik
staff writer

Eating good doesn't have to be expensive. With a little bit of planning and work, you can prepare low cost nutritious meals your family will enjoy.

"We typically eat too much meat," said Linda DeVore, registered dietitian at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. "One pound of meat, raw weight, no bone is four servings. Limit serving sizes to two to three ounces cooked weight, about the size of a deck of cards. Serve twice a day, three if pregnant."

Protein needs can also be met with eggs. "Four yolks a week is the American Heart Association recommendation," said DeVore. "Discard the yolks if you have a cholesterol problem. People are afraid of eggs, but there's no need to be, they're a good source of protein. One egg equals one protein serving."

One cup of legumes such as soybeans, chickpeas, navy beans, pinto beans, kidney beans, lima beans, split peas and lentils can be used for one protein serving. "It's best to combine them with grains such as rice, wheat, pasta, and corn," said DeVore. "Two tablespoons peanut butter also equal one protein serving."

There's no secret to good eating. "Choose foods from the basic four food groups — milk, meat, fruit-vegetable and grain everyday," said DeVore.

FROM THE milk group, which includes yogurt and cheese, adults need two servings, children three, teens, young adults and pregnant women need four. Examples of serving size are one cup milk, one cup yogurt, 1 ounce cheese, ¼ cup cottage cheese.

Four servings a day are recommended for everyone from the fruit and vegetable group. Examples are ¼ cup juice, ¼ cup vegetable, ¼ grapefruit, 1 medium apple, banana, orange, ¼ cup dried fruit.

Four servings a day from the grain group are also recommended. Examples are one slice bread, ¼ English muffin, ¼ cup cooked pasta, rice, cooked cereal, one tortilla, roll, muffin.

To lower costs, purchase lower cuts of meat like pot roast and round steak. Cook them slowly with moisture, pot roasting, braising, simmering or stewing to tenderize them. Tougher cuts can also be tenderized by marinating.

BUY A whole chicken or turkey, cook and use leftovers in soups, casseroles, stirfry, salads and sandwiches. Lunch meat is expensive.

Lois Theileke of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, recommends stocking your pantry so you'll have beans, rice, pasta, and other items on hand to make meals in a hurry without having to run to the store. Buy the lower-priced family pack of meat and divide it into smaller packages to freeze.

For more nutrition information, call the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, 858-0897 or Dial-A-Dietitian, 875-1087.

TOFU EGG SALAD (makes 1 serving)

4 ounces firm tofu
2 tablespoons green onions, chopped
2 tablespoons celery, chopped
2 tablespoons fat-free mayonnaise
2 teaspoons dill pickle relish
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon turmeric

In a mixing bowl, smash tofu with a fork until it has a coarse texture. Add remaining ingredients and mix until blended. Allow to chill in refrigerator overnight for flavors to blend.

Each serving provides: 2 protein, 1/4 vegetable, 24 optional calories.

SOUTHWESTERN BEAN BURGERS (makes 2 servings, 2 burgers each)

6 ounces rinsed drained canned white kidney (cannellini) beans, mashed
1 cup mild salsa, divided

1/4 cup plain dried bread crumbs
1 tablespoon minced fresh cilantro (Chinese parsley) or Italian (flat-leaf) parsley
Dash hot sauce

1/4 ounce reduced-fat Cheddar cheese, shredded

In medium mixing bowl combine beans, 1/4 cup salsa, the bread crumbs, cilantro, and hot sauce. Shape into 4 equal patties. Wrap patties and refrigerate until firm, about 20 minutes.

Spray 12-inch non-stick skillet with non-stick cooking spray and heat; add patties and cook over medium heat until browned, about 5 minutes on each side.

To serve, top each burger with an equal amount of the remaining salsa and the cheese.

Each serving provides: 2 protein, 1 vegetable, 1 bread, 30 optional calories.

MOCK FRIED OYSTERS

You can use either canned or frozen corn for this, but kernels cut from freshly shucked cobs taste much better.

2 large eggs
2 cups corn kernels (about 4 large ears)

3 tablespoons flour
dash of salt
freshly ground black pepper to taste
oil for deep frying

Separate the eggs, placing the whites in a small bowl. Using a very sharp knife, cut kernels from ears of corn, saving any juice. If you are using canned corn, drain first.

In a medium bowl, combine egg yolks, corn and juice, flour, salt, and pepper. Stir until well mixed. Beat egg whites until stiff, and fold into corn mixture.

Heat oil to 375 degrees and drop corn batter by spoonfuls into it. Fry until golden brown (about 3 minutes), turning once. Serve hot. Makes about 12 "oysters."

MOCK CHOPPED LIVER

Who will guess the secret ingredient in this recipe is really green beans?

1 pound fresh green beans, cooked, drained and chopped
2 large onions, chopped
3 tablespoons oil
4 hard-boiled eggs, peeled
1/2 cup chopped walnuts or peanuts

1 tablespoon gravy coloring, such as Kitchen Bouquet
salt and pepper to taste

Place chopped green beans in bowl of a food processor. Saute chopped onion in oil over low heat until dark, but not burned. Using a slotted spoon, remove onions, reserving oil. Add browned onions to beans in processor. Also add eggs, nuts and coloring.

Process until smooth, using a steel blade. Add salt and pepper to taste. If mixture seems too dry for spreading, stir in reserved oil. Chill before serving.

From: Gundella — Kitchen Witch

MOCK PECAN PIE

3 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 1/2 tablespoons flour
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup melted butter

1 cup rolled oats
1/2 cup flaked coconut
1 unbaked pie shell

Beat eggs until foamy. Add sugar gradually until well blended. Add flour, corn syrup, vanilla, butter, oats and coconut, and stir well. Pour into pie shell and bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit until done.

Substitute, recycle during tough times

"The microwave oven is a blessing," she said. "You can reheat food, and still have that fresh taste."

Mary Sidick of Canton Township remembers when her mother used to buy fruits and vegetables from a vendor who came down their street in southwest Detroit with his cart.

"We were the last people on his route so my mother often got good buys on the fruit he couldn't sell because it was little bruised. She made a fruit compote with peaches, apples, plums and sugar. It was an inexpensive and nutritious dessert."

Sidick said most people kept gardens to stretch their food dollar and canned the excess. For entertainment, people went visiting.

"We had singalongs, people made their own fun and enjoyed sharing what food they had with friends and family."

MARY MAGGION Calda of Garden City said she's noticed in the grocery store that young people often buy prepared foods which are expensive. On some items though, a little expense is worth it.

"My mother always said use good products and you'll have good results," said Calda.

Adaline Wixon Jamieson of Farmington was lucky, both she and her husband had jobs during the Depression, but that doesn't mean she wasn't thrifty.

"We had a garden, we canned foods. We picked tomatoes late in the season when they were still green so the frost wouldn't get them, wrapped them in newspaper and had tomatoes sometimes as late as November."

Like a lot of people today, who are fortunate to have jobs, Jamieson said it was hard to enjoy things, during the Depression. "You couldn't feel good about what you had when you knew some people didn't have."

Southern Rhone wines an excellent value

Chardonnay and cabernet sauvignon are fashionable wines, so are the wines of Bordeaux, Burgundy and Champagne. Rhone wines are not fashionable in the same sense, but they are recognized by connoisseurs as some of wine world's best values.

Single-handedly, author Robert Parker may have increased the fashionability of Rhone wines in the United States. For several years, he glowingly praised the wines of several Rhone estates in his bimonthly periodical "The Wine Advocate." He furthered the reputation of several Rhone producers in his book, "The Wines of the Rhone Valley and Provence," Simon and Schuster ($22.95).

Kermit Lynch, a wine retailer and importer based in Berkeley, Calif., is responsible for introducing Rhone wines to an expanding number of small, artisan winemakers in California. Lynch's book "Adventures on the Wine Route, A Wine Buyer's Tour of France," Farrar, Straus and Giroux ($19.95), gave readers an insider's view of several of the Rhone's superior producers.

focus on wine

Eleanor and Ray Heald

THE HOTTEST wines from California continue to be Rhone-style wines made from grapes originating in the Rhone Valley such as mourvedre, syrah, cinsault, grenache, roussanne, marsanne and viognier.

France's Rhone Valley runs south from Lyon to the Mediterranean Sea and is divided into two distinct subregions — north and south. The principal grape variety in the north is syrah.

Although Americans are accustomed to identifying wines by the name of the wine's principal grape variety, red wines of the southern Rhone are blends of several grape varieties, grown in a warmer climate. They are softer and more approachable when young. Northern wines tend to be more muscular and tannic, with greater longevity.

Learning about the red wines of the southern Rhone requires a certain familiarity with the place names used to identify these wines. Cotes du Rhone (coat dew rone), Cotes du Rhone Villages (vee-lajh), Chateaufort-du-Pape (shot-toe-nuff dew pop), Cotes du Ventoux (coat dew vawn-too), Vacqueyras (va-kay-ras), and Gigondas (jhe-gone-das) are wines most frequently found in Michigan.

J.C. Mathes, a professor of technical writing at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, has also developed a fondness for the wines of the southern Rhone. Rather than write about his wine passion, he has established a small importing company, J et R Selections Ltd., specializing in southern Rhone wines.

MATHES spends vacation periods and sabbaticals living in the southern Rhone. He has an affection for several proprietors and their wines, and markets them in Michigan. His wines are selected from a cluster of excellent domaines whose vineyards extend from les Dentelles de Montmirail across le plan de Dieu to the stony slopes of Chateaufort-du-Pape.

Because we are Rhone wine fans, we asked Mathes to let us taste through his wines and recommend our favorites in the Wine Selections of the Week. These wines represent excellent values. If you have yet to be introduced to Rhone Wines, you would be well advised to begin here. Mathes' selections can be found in many area wine shops.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

It may take some searching to find the following southern Rhone wine values from J et R Selections Ltd. If your favorite wine shop does not presently carry them, remember that they can always be ordered for you and delivered in a few days.

1988 Cotes du Rhone Le Mas des Collines ($7) is a medium-bodied red wine with abundant, attractive red fruit aromas and generous, juicy flavors. The noticeable tannins make it an ideal match to hearty food flavors.

1988 Cotes du Rhone Domaine de La Grangette Saint Joseph ($7.75) showcases black cherry, chocolate and cocoa aromas. It's spicy with good tannins, balanced acidity and an appealing peppery finish.

1988 Gigondas Cotes du Rhone Le Mas des Collines ($13) is higher priced than the first two recommendations, but the extra dollars bring a complex wine with smoky, blueberry and violet accents. It's a rich, multi-dimensional mouthful with guts and flavor.

The wines of the southern Rhone are perfect for heartier-style meals like a French cassoulet or Beef Burgundy.

A final recommendation for a book focusing on France's Rhone Valley is "Wines of the Rhone Valley — A Guide to Origins," Robert W. Mayberry, Rowman and Littlefield ($34.95). Mayberry is a professor of communications at Michigan's Grand Valley State University and one of the world's leading authorities on Rhone wines.

Tips for storing, using whole grains

AP — You've probably already baked with whole-wheat flour and cooked oats, but when was the last time you used buckwheat? Or how about the first time you leaped beyond wheat flour to cracked wheat, wheat bran or wheat berries?

A word to the wise before you stock up: Buy whole grains in small quantities. Because they contain the oil-rich germ, whole grains turn rancid faster. It's best to store them tightly covered, in a cool, dry place for no longer than five months. For longer storage, refrigerate or freeze grains, tightly covered, in moisture- and vaporproof containers. Just be sure to warm chilled whole grain flour to room temperature before adding to yeast bread recipes.

Barley: The polished kernels or seeds of the barley plant. Available in regular (pearl) and quick-cooking form, barley is most often used in soups and casseroles.

Bran: The fiber-rich outer covering of any grain kernel, such as oat, corn, rice or wheat (which is also known as miller's bran.) Substitute a spoonful or two for flour in baking.

Buckwheat Groats: Whole, unpolished buckwheat kernels, roasted or unroasted, often ground into buckwheat flour. Roasted kernels, called kasha, may be cooked and served as a breakfast cereal or a side dish. Buckwheat flour makes especially good pancakes.

Bulgur Wheat: Wheat kernels that have been cracked and precooked to cut cooking time. You can use bulgur for casseroles, cereals and salads, such as tabbouleh, a favorite in the Middle East.

Cornmeal: Ground and dried yellow, white or even blue corn kernels commonly used in American Indian, Mexican and colonial American cooking. Use cornmeal in traditional corn bread, tamales or mush (also known as hasty pudding in colonial days), or add it to yeast breads, waffles, muffins, dumplings or pasta dough.

Cracked Wheat: Coarsely ground unpolished wheat kernels that have not been precooked. Cracked wheat is interchangeable with bulgur, only it takes a little longer to cook.

Hominy: Yellow or white corn kernels that have been hulled, soaked and dried. Add hominy to salads and soups. Coarsely ground hominy is called hominy grits, which is cooked into the Southern breakfast favorite of the same name.

Oats: Regular rolled oats are unpolished oat kernels that have been steamed and flattened. Quick-cooking rolled oats are cut before steaming and flattening. Both forms may be used for cereal, cookies and breads, or can be ground into oat flour. Steel-cut oats are whole oat kernels that have been cut into lengthwise pieces; they may be used for hot cereal.

To toast rolled oats for extra flavor, place ½ cup quick-cooking or regular rolled oats in a shallow baking pan. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until the oats are light brown.

Rice: Brown rice is a whole grain, yet its white counterpart is not. White rice has no endosperm. Brown rice is the unpolished whole rice kernel that still has its endosperm. You can substitute brown rice for white rice, but you'll need to double the cooking time. Quick-cooking brown rice and brown rice flour are also available.

Wheat Berries: Unpolished whole-wheat kernels. They make a hearty cereal and add texture to breads, soups and pilafs. Wheat berries can also be ground into whole-wheat flour.

Wheat Germ: The soft, oily portion of the wheat kernel. Add a spoonful or two to baked goods or granola.

Wild Rice: Unpolished, dark brown, whole kernels from a marsh grass. Although wild rice is a grain, it is not a true member of the rice family.

Scramble up breakfast for three in a hurry

AP — Start your family's week-ends off better by scrambling up this tasty breakfast for three. Since the "deluxe" add-ons — mustard, herbs, mushrooms and pimento — come ready to use, this recipe goes together superfast, too. It uses more egg whites than egg yolks and that makes it lower in fat and cholesterol.

- ¼ cup milk
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard
- ¼ teaspoon dried basil, thyme or Italian seasoning, crushed
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- One 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimento
- Non-stick spray coating
- ¼ cup sliced green onion dried herb and pepper. Beat with a rotary beater, fork or whisk until mixed. Stir in the sliced mushrooms and pimento; set aside.

Spray an 8-inch skillet with non-stick spray coating. Preheat the skillet over medium-high heat until a drop of water sizzles when added to the skillet. Add the green onion; cook about 1 minute or until tender.

Add the egg mixture to the skillet. Cook, without stirring, over medium heat until the mixture begins to set on the bottom and around the edge. Using a large spoon or spatula, lift and fold the partially cooked eggs so any uncooked portions flow underneath. Continue cooking over medium heat for 2 to 3 minutes or until the eggs are cooked throughout but are still glossy and moist. Remove from the heat. Serve immediately. Makes 3 servings.

A suited-up Ron Austin signals a greeting while waiting for the next person to do a bungee jump promotion he set up for the Baja Club in Detroit.

Being seen pays off for Ron Austin

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

One cheese stick down and four to go. Some 1½ hours later, a few dairy-produced deep fried bits remain on Ron Austin's plate.

The time is filled up talking about himself. There's plenty to talk about.

After all, how many people can say they've been run over by a 3,200-pound Jeep, had a tug-of-war with a 180-horsepower single engine airplane, towed a 30-ton riverboat while swimming and, yes, ran a marathon backwards.

Skydiving and bungee jumping, all of which Austin has done, seem passe by comparison.

Often, Austin has pulled off such daring feats in the name of charity. He runs off a list of causes he's helped raise money for, such as the American Cancer Society and the American Heart Association.

The 1975 graduate of Garden City West High School is part Houdini, P.T. Barnum, Jack LaLaine and even Dr. Spock, dispensing advice for today's disenfranchised youth.

"If you stay in a group," he says, "you lose your identity."

ON THIS day, the stunt man is contemplating putting on a mock disaster drill to drum up publicity for one of his clients in his burgeoning public relations firm of Austin Public Relations.

His diverse roster of clients includes an athletic club, a real estate outfit and a couple of musical groups.

"I can get your attention," said Austin, who lives with his wife, Sheila in Franklin. "I can talk about any subject."

In many ways, Austin is a throwback to the nostalgic days of public relations before the sound bites of TV news.

Then acts of publicity would be designed to elicit a good photo opportunity in the halcyon days of the newspaper business. Today, there's the immediacy of electronic media.

His stunts have been chronicled in national publications like USA Today and the Wall Street Journal.

Austin's methods make him somewhat a maverick in the often sterilized corporate PR world where faxes and power luncheons are the norm.

But Austin's desire to be the focal point transcends the public relations business.

LISA FISCO, a producer of "Kelly & Co.," can usually count on a phone call from Austin. He's been a guest on the morning talk show for such topics as prenuptial agreements and male vanity.

"He calls when he sees a topic that intrigues him," Fisco said. "He says, 'I did that.'"

"I told him we were having a show on male vanity. He said, 'That fits me perfectly. I said, 'No kidding.'"

Fisco hastens to add Austin's non-stop energy and sense of humor is rather refreshing.

"I don't know where he comes up with his ideas," she said. "He's so creative. He comes up with stuff I've never heard before."

Initially, Austin flirted with feats of endurance while at the YMCA in Williamsport, Pa. He remembers swimming an old logging river for 15 miles in a benefit for the March of Dimes, including treacherous rapids for the last five.

At the finish, there were 300 people to greet him.

"I started crying," he said. "There were all these people to welcome me. I thought, 'This feels good.'"

Pacheco: Perfect musical match

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

A restless spirit carries Tom Pacheco, and his songs mirror his journey.

For a songwriter who's claimed Woodstock, Nashville, Austin and, currently, Dublin, Ireland, as his home, Pacheco's work covers a wide variety of themes from desperation to isolation, all rooted in a vivid folk narrative and matched with an uncanny sense of melody.

"I'm kind of happy I've lived in a lot of places," said Pacheco in a telephone interview from Dublin. "By staying in one place too long you tend to get into that whole sound. When you live in Texas, you tend to think of Texas as the whole world, which is a little provincial. It's the same if you stay in New York too long or live in California.

"Each place has its own musical influence, something special about it. I've tried to absorb all the various influences into my music."

His last album, "Sunflowers & Scarecrows," (Round Tower) features an array of eloquent postcards from people met on the road as well as anti-war numbers such as "Merchant of Death." Self-admittedly, Pacheco's effort was "overdone" in parts but aptly captures the inspirational story/songwriting style he possesses.

AFTER HIS performance Friday, April 3, at the La Casa Folk Music Series in Birmingham Unitarian Church, Pacheco will fly to Nashville to record "Tales from the Red Lake."

Pacheco feels his third album (to be released in September) will be much like his first. "Eagle in the Rain," a critically acclaimed effort released in 1990 on Round Tower, cut to despair with "Robert & Ramona" and featuring his wry-sense of embellishment with "Jesus in a Black Leather Jacket."

On his new album, there will be a tale of what became of the alleged second gunman in the Kennedy assassination, "Jessica Brown," and one rather unconventional narrative about a woman biker and a New York cop falling in love.

Tom Pacheco has lived in many places and his songs covers wide variety of themes, rooted in his vivid folk narrative and uncanny sense of melody.

Pacheco lives in a place where a good tale is still much appreciated, often told by a turf fire over some poteen or like substance. He moved to Ireland in 1987 after an Irishman he met in New York invited him to tour there.

"I moved to Nashville for awhile and I pretty much hated it," Pacheco said. "I was chomping at the bit to get out. Songwriting in Nashville is dull, totally banal. Most of it is verse-chorus-verse-chorus, bridge and out. It's usually dull love songs most of the time. I thought, 'Oh god, I've ended up my life here.' I couldn't imagine sitting in a cubicle somewhere with three or four other songwriters turning out songs like that."

AFTER A THREE-week tour of Eire, Pacheco had no thoughts of returning. He's taken up residence in the southside of Dublin where England, Scotland and the rest of Europe are accessible for touring.

Receptive audiences made the transformation to a new country much easier. Pacheco has often found himself performing before younger crowds, seeing as nearly half the population of Ireland is 25 or younger.

"In terms of songwriting, there's so many great writers who've come out of this country," he said. "There's such an emphasis on writing, on poetry and on the arts. Especially coming from Nashville where most people just talk about football and basketball and Baptist stuff. It was great to come to Ireland where the people are interested in the arts."

The art of writing songs, though, is universal. Pacheco uses the process of matching an idea with a melody and then filling in the words later.

His craft has evolved through the years as have his travels.

"It's almost like writing a screenplay," he said. "The average screen play is 120 pages or so. Usually, there's a minute of film per page. Every 15 minutes, you have to write something to keep it moving forward. It's sort of the same thing in story songwriting. It's keeping the interest up and keeping the flow going."

"Most stories should have a beginning, middle and an end . . . and hopefully the melody to match the words."

Tom Pacheco will perform at 8:30 p.m. Friday, April 3, at La Casa Music Series at Birmingham Unitarian Church, 651 N. Woodward, northeast corner of Lone Pine and Woodward. Advance tickets are $10; $12 at the door. For information, call 646-4950.

Marillion is rocking with a message

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Marillion is an arena rock act sure and true. Songs are simple, written in a strident hard rock motif that ask few questions.

"(A song) has to be saying something," said vocalist Steve Hogarth, whose band performs Friday, April 3, at The Ritz. "It has to be conveying an emotion and painting a picture. It has to paint a picture musically as well as paint one lyrically."

"Above all else it has to be honest." Such a credo won't land them on the cover of Melody Maker, cause upheaval in the alternative scene or rattle the myopic radio programmer. A cynic might even dismiss such statements of virtue to insincerity.

Somebody must be buying it, though. It's hard to scoff at a European sales figure of 600,000 of their latest album "Holidays in Eden" or write off an outfit that's lasted nearly 10 years and even endured a change in lead singers, from Fish to Hogarth, in that span.

Perhaps there's a vulnerability that leads to Marillion's durability. Hogarth, who replaced Fish in 1988, has a soft yearning singing style that puts an emotional attachment to his songs.

MANY NUMBERS on "Holidays in Eden" speak of voids and personal longing, which Hogarth said were culled from nearly three years of touring after the 1989 "Season's End" album.

"Half of the time, we seemed to be saying goodbye to people for months on end," said Hogarth, who wrote a majority of the numbers on the "Holidays in Eden." "I was trying to put my finger on it. I felt a bit dislocated spiritually. It was something nagging me."

Hogarth's vocal ability is somewhat easier to retrace. Although he had no formal vocal training, he did sing in school choirs in his native England.

His singing hero was John Lennon, whose honesty as a singer appealed to him more than the former Beatle's vocal range. Likewise, he gets the same "buzz" listening to REM's Michael Stipe and solo artist Michael Bolton.

His schooling in the rock arena included stints with English bands How We Live and Europeans before joining Marillion. The group already had established itself with several albums, including one under the band's original moniker of Sillmarillion in 1983 "Script for a Jester's Tear."

Marillion made its American debut in 1985 with "Misplaced Childhood," which was both critically and commercially successful as a concept album featuring the hit single "Kayleigh."

Hogarth had little trouble slipping in as a replacement for Fish, writing half of the songs for "Season's End." Fans seemingly accepted the change in frontmen as well.

Then again, Hogarth is a believable sort. "If you stick a politician in front of a TV camera, you can tell if they're lying," Hogarth said. "Maybe it's something we should remember as people. You should look them in the eye and ask yourself, 'Can I believe this?'"

"I think people can generally tell if people are being honest or not."

Marillion will perform Friday, April 3, at The Ritz, 17580 Frazho, 10½ Mile and Gratiot, Roseville. Tickets are $5 advance; $7 at the door. For information, call 778-8150.

Restored 'Othello' reunites sight and sound

Among serious film buffs, Orson Welles' "Othello" ranks among those titles that is often discussed, but rarely actually screened. Part of the reason lies in the garbled soundtrack, which was shot over several years and under often slapdash conditions.

A recent restoration and enhancement has now placed the film among the upper echelon of Welles' work, right up there with "Citizen Kane" and "Magnificent Ambersons." You can see for yourself what all the fuss is about when the Detroit Film Theatre brings the film into town with considerable fanfare this weekend.

What a difference a decade makes. In the early 1940s, Welles was at the top of his profession. By 1992, he proved so difficult to work with that Hollywood wanted little to do with him except as an actor.

"Othello" (USA — 1952), 7 and 9:30 p.m. April 3-4 and 4 and 7 p.m. April 5. Although it shared the Grand Prize at the 1952 Cannes Film Festival, Welles' version of the Shakespeare classic has remained in virtual obscurity ever since. The rerelease boasts an enhanced soundtrack, allowing you to savor the Bard's dialogue (which has been garbled on previous prints) paired with the director's crisp black-and-white imagery. A true must-see.

"The Song Remains the Same" (USA — 1976), 8 and 10:30 p.m. March 30-April 1. Led Zeppelin captured live during the height of their popularity at a Madison Square Garden concert in 1973. The film mixes dopey fantasy with inspired versions of their most popular songs.

"Othello" was shot over a four-year period, primarily using money Welles made by appearing in other people's films.

Indeed, the story of "Othello" behind the scenes could make a good movie script in itself. His cast and crew could be found waiting in train stations and hotel rooms for their boss to arrive from abroad with more money for filming.

A SCENE might have begun filming in one place but ended on a completely different set, maybe in a different country! In post-production, Welles needed to improvise and rely on quick editing and closeups so that audiences wouldn't notice breaks in continuity.

As legend has it, the director was so strapped for cash that he reworked a major scene to avoid costly costumes. The killing of Roderigo now takes place in a bathroom with the actors adorned in sheets.

The stop-and-start shooting schedule took its toll on the 11 actresses who played Desdemona in various stages of production. Suzanne Cloutier, a stage and sometime film actress, appears solely in the finished film.

Although "Othello" shared best picture awards at Cannes in 1952, it barely played on American screens. It probably worked much better with subtitles as the film's powerful black-and-white imagery was constantly challenged by the inaudible dialogue.

The screening rights to "Othello" eventually fell into the hands of Beatrice Welles-Smith, daughter of the late director. Perhaps encouraged by the success of the "Citizen Kane" rerelease, she worked with distribution company Castle Hill Films to restore the film and rerelease it across the country.

AT THE center of the film is another brilliant performance by Welles in the title role, which allows an audience to look well beyond the Welles' thick black theatrical makeup that changes noticeably in hue shoot, financed primarily with money he made by appearing in other people's films.

Orson Welles played the title role in his production of "Othello" which took four years to

from scene to scene.

In the classic tragedy, jealousy gets the best of the powerful Othello when Iago, one of his aides, plants deadly rumors about the fidelity of the Moor's beautiful wife Desdemona.

"Othello" was not Welles' first or last brush with the great William Shakespeare. His Shakespearean productions with John Houseman and New York's Mercury Theatre are legendary. In 1948, he mounted a production of "Macbeth" on old western lots at Republic Pictures.

The success of "Othello" already has the film community buzzing with more restoration of Welles' European work, most of which is marred by lousy post-production. Next on the list may be "Chimes at Midnight" (1967), where Welles combines no less than three of the Bard's works with himself cast as the roguish Falstaff.

rooftops or seated atop the Brandenburg Gate above the city, angels are seen only by very young children.

Bruno Ganz and Otto Sander are both wonderful as the angels the film focuses on. They are gentle and usually solemn faced, moving gracefully to provide unseen comfort with whisper and touch on the shoulder. Sadly, even the unseen intervention of these spiritual beings isn't enough to save everyone.

PICKING UP conversations in apartments or houses, trains or passing cars, the angels see the world in black and white. The corporeal world doesn't really exist for them as they move through walls or high above the ground.

Only the humans see the world in color or can feel the substance of an object, whether a stone or a flower.

After an eternity of spirituality, Ganz longs to experience the tastes, smells, colors and sounds the humans take for granted. He wants the contacts that only humans can have with each other. His long existence has been one of answering "Yes" and "Amen." Ganz is willing to trade his eternal life as an angel for a real human life.

During his travels about the city Ganz falls in love with a French ae-riologist at a small failing circus. He is enthralled with her at first sight, taking a childlike delight in her chicken feather wings, an imitation of his own.

He hears her thoughts, structured like she is having a conversation with someone else. Perhaps the someone her mind speaks to is him.

Sander follows an elderly man, searching in vain for a street that exists now only in his memory after the destruction of World War II. The bombings and damage suffered by the city still resonates in the old man's thoughts.

ONE OF the people Ganz has contact with is actor Peter Falk, playing himself, as he arrives to make a World War II era costume film. The angel is startled when Falk speaks with him, even though he isn't visible. Falk waxes fondly of the earthly pleasures of coffee and a good cigar.

"Wings of Desire" is a stark, compelling and moving film both in terms of its visual style and story. Don't expect little winged cherubs or angels wandering about the cloud cover. People live their lives, they are happy or angry or sad but they do live.

In its own unsentimental way, Wenders' film celebrates the joy of connecting with other human beings and just being alive in the universe.

"Wings of Desire" is available on video cassette in local video stores.

Eleanor Coppola (right) examines her husband Francis' artistic journey during the making of "Apocalypse Now" in "Hearts of Darkness: A Filmmaker's Apocalypse" playing at the Michigan Theatre this week.

They watch, sometimes from high above the city watching people going about their business, other times moving among the crowds. Often they follow one person as a guardian angel, listening to their thoughts and concerns, offering solace or a feeling of wellbeing.

In "Wings of Desire," director Wim Wenders' overcoat-clad angels move through Berlin watching people go about their lives, able to hear their thoughts as a spoken voice. On to stop. He promptly went on to other stunts, one that went awry when he tried to pull a riverboat with a harness attached around his waist. He became entangled in the ropes.

Water went into lungs and he began to think he was going to drown. After panicking, a calmness overtook him and he managed to finish.

All exhibitions of physical endurance are well-planned, Austin said. Acts such as enduring a 3,200-pound truck wheel on his chest and anchoring a plane involve specialized breathing techniques, all developed from years of physical fitness training.

In many ways, Austin is ahead of his time. He was first on the roller blade scene, starting an indoor skating at One-on-One Athletic Club in West Bloomfield.

He became known for starting what is called retro-running — in essence running backwards.

"I could not beat people going forward, but I could beat them going backward," he said. "You just have to find out a way to beat them."

Like numerous dares, though, Austin "burned out" on running backward. Now, he's tackling the realm of public relations in full force.

"When someone tells me I can't do something, I take it on for the pure challenge of it," he said. "I love to say 'I told you so.'"

'92 should be good year for CEP teams

Salem lineup filled with soccer talent

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Salem is setting some high goals for the 1992 girls soccer season, and it's easy to see why.

With nine starters back from an outstanding team, the Rocks believe they can duplicate or surpass the success they had a year ago.

Although there are no guarantees in the highly-competitive Western Lakes Activities Association, Salem is a legitimate contender and certainly one of the top Class A teams in the state.

"We should get a lot of praise for the way we play, but we still have to do it," Salem coach Ken Johnson said, adding the Rocks will have to battle an equally-talented Plymouth Canton squad again.

The Rocks snapped Canton's string of three straight district championships and reached the regional final before losing to Livonia Stevenson, 3-1. Salem, which won the state title in 1987 and has produced state-ranked teams ever since, finished 16-2-1.

THE ROCKS figure they were close last year and enter the new season with virtually the same team. Having added a lot of talented supporting players, Salem has reason to think this could be its year.

"All are bonafide, excellent soccer players without any weaklings," Johnson said. "I don't think we'll lose much when we substitute. The starting 11 are going to be excellent, and then we have an excellent bench."

Salem lost only two starters — most valuable player Amy Krajewski from the midfield ranks and leading scorer Erin Harvey, who led the Rocks with 24 goals and 11 assists. Both were first-team, All-Observer players.

Johnson juggled his lineup to fill the void left by Krajewski and got an unexpected addition in the person of junior Caryn Tatterton, who previously had played on the Salem softball team but will take Harvey's place at left wing.

Tatterton, who hasn't played soccer in five years, is a good athlete who also plays volleyball and impressed Johnson with her soccer skill during an indoor game earlier this year.

"How lucky can Johnson get?" the coach wondered.

Despite the loss of Harvey, Salem shouldn't lose any offense since seniors Mandy Drummond and Erin Bagozzi return at center striker and right forward, respectively.

DRUMMOND SCORED 17 goals and had 16 assists. Bagozzi, who scored the winning goal to give the Rocks an overtime, shootout victory over Canton in the district tournament, recorded 12 goals and 10 assists.

"We have a lot of punch there, and I think Tatterton will fill in real well for Harvey on the left side," Johnson said. "We'll be as good if not better (on offense)."

To solidify the midfield and make up for the loss of Krajewski, Johnson moved junior all-Lakes Division defender Shelby Carey to right half-back.

"She has a good throw and plays an attacking midfielder on her club team so she'll fit in," he said. "She has a long stride and the stamina for moving up and down the field."

The Rocks return junior Kris Goff to the center halfback position. Goff, also an all-division player, counted 12 goals and nine assists.

"She can shoot, dribble and control the field," Johnson said. "She played the position last year and has improved."

Senior Julie Thomas will start at the other halfback position. She was a regular at the end of last year in which she had five goals and two assists.

JOHNSON SPEAKS glowingly of the potential in freshman halfback Kelly Lukasik, who is "strong, fast and fit" and can provide relief at any of the midfield positions.

The Rocks are solid on defense, starting in goal where they have senior Jenny Emmett, the All-Observer and all-state keeper. She had 14 shutouts and allowed only nine goals in 19 games, and she owns the school record with 32 career shutouts, having been the regular goalie since her freshman year and appeared in 52 games.

But Emmett, who must have a bone marrow transplant to correct a blood disorder known as myelodiplastic syndrome following graduation in June, will play only in games against other top teams.

In the other contests, sophomore Mesha Chicon will be the keeper. She was a field player on the JV last year but played goalie for the under-14 Plymouth Lightning last fall.

"She has a lot of the things you need to be a goalie — the guts to come out and not be frightened and good hands," Johnson said. "She just needs experience and smoothing out."

With the move of Carey to midfield, sophomore Mackenzie Emmett has gone from halfback to her preferred role as the sweeper, and senior all-area defender Gwen Gibbish has moved from sweeper to stopper in place of Carey.

"(Gibbish) has developed extra foot skills, which allow her to go forward a little more," Johnson said.

SALEM RETURNS senior Lisa Ferguson and junior Michelle Cronan as third- and second-year starters at the fullbacks, rounding out an experienced and sound defense.

The reserve corps will include junior Sara Stubblefield (midfield), Jodie Wilsher (defense) and Alena Marinos (midfield), all of whom played on the JV team. Junior forward Charu Sinha had knee surgery late last year and is not expected to be able to play before the post-season tournaments.

Johnson will carry four freshman on the varsity, including Lukasik. The others are Jenny Bazzarelli (forward), Julie McGurrian (defense) and Susan Parrish (midfield).

Plymouth Canton has only four seniors among the 21 players on its girls soccer team, but opponents had better not be misled by that statistic.

The Chiefs are nonetheless an experienced and talented team, one that will challenge for the Western Lakes Activities Association title and probably be rated among the state's best.

Canton returns 13 players, nine of whom started or had considerable playing time, from a team that was 11-5-1 and one goal away from winning a fourth consecutive district championship.

The Chiefs lost three games to rival Plymouth Salem — each time by a 1-0 score — including the district final that was decided by a shootout.

"We played everybody pretty tough last year and we were very young," Canton coach Don Smith said. "The ninth and 10th graders who played last year are starting to come of age and are doing a little better."

THE CHIEFS might not have a Jenny Russell — the state's top player in 1989 when she had 19 goals/13 assists and who stars for Kalamazoo College — but they have a solid front line.

Connell had seven goals and seven assists last year, Anderson nine goals and seven assists, Tortora five goals and eight assists and Malin scored six goals.

"Connell has come along real well," Smith said. "Anderson is a big strong girl and has a lot more experience in the big games by just playing basketball last year. She doesn't know how to quit. Tortora is looking forward to this year and hustling real well."

"They're going to create a lot of things with plain determination and hustle. They're pretty scrappy and quick, too."

The top scorer a year ago was midfielder Ayana Nash, a second-team, all-area selection and one of the key graduation losses. She led OBSERVERLAND failed to produce a state champion, but Livonia Ladywood and Livonia Clarenceville made the season's journey exciting.

Ladywood, a Class A state champion in 1988 and '89, lost to Temperance Bedford in the quarterfinal, while Clarenceville made it to the Class C quarterfinal before losing to eventual champ Concord.

Observerland had a bevy of individual talent, with three all-staters headlining this year's first-team: Livonia Stevenson's Patty Diamond; Ladywood's Liz Gunn; and Redford Thurston's Daune Koester.

The Coach of the Year is Clarenceville's Alisha Love, who guided the Trojans to a 29-11-6 overall record before they lost in the Class C state quarterfinal.

Love's two-year overall record at Clarenceville is 46-27-9. The 25-year-old Love also enjoyed success on the college level, playing two years at Schoolcraft College. Love played on Schoolcraft's 1988 team which won the National Junior College Athletic Association championship.

Clarenceville's season was its second best ever. The best came in 1977 when Tom Teeters led the Trojans to all-area volleyball

the Class A state championship.

"We had our ups-and-downs but I always had faith in the girls because of their hard work and determination, which will take you where you want to go," said Lovi, a 1984 graduate of Detroit Henry Ford High School. "We needed one more hitter like Leandra (Hoffman) at the net for when Leandra rotated to the back row. Right now, our team is really inexperienced."

Presenting the 1992 All-Observer first team:

Patty Diamond, junior, Stevenson: Diamond had an 87.9 serving percentage with 84 aces. She finished with 142 kills in 300 attempts (27.7 percent) and had 728 setting assists (34.7 percent). Diamond, an all-region and Class A first-team all-stater, had 66 solo blocks (154 total). She also made the Temperance-Bedford and Spartan Invitational all-star teams.

"We have been very fortunate to have had Patty and her abilities and enthusiasm playing for us," Stevenson coach Lee Cagle said. "Her skill at setting and her forceful attacking this year made her a dual threat. She has been highly recognized and will lead us to another successful season next year."

Daune Koester, junior, Redford Thurston: Koester, a three-year letter-winner, led the Eagles with 316 kills, an average of 5.6 per game. She had a .464 hitting percentage and also led Thurston with 101 aces and a serve percentage of 85. Koester, who had 92 digs and 32 solo blocks, was second team Class B all-state and is a three-time all-region first-team choice. She also is president of the junior class at Thurston.

"Daune is an excellent student-athlete," Thurston coach Bob Burns said. "A tough competitor, team leader, solid in both offensive and defensive play. An outstanding, strong hitter and one of the best all-around players I've ever coached."

Shannon Goff, senior, Farmington Mercy: The team captain, Goff played several positions for the Marlins and was named their Most Valuable Player. She led the Marlins in digs (267), service aces (103) and a serve reception percentage of 94 (434-466). Goff had 193 kills (.355) and was good on 94 percent of her serves (446-477).

"Shannon is a very talented, all-around volleyball player," Kolnytis said. "Shannon is a very confident and personable young lady. She had more to offer the team than just volleyball."

Jalie Campas, senior, Churchill: Campas, a key member of Churchill's 1991 Class A state champion team, converted 94 percent of her serves and 89 percent

Ex-Tigers work CATCH clinic

Tiger baseball heroes of yesterday will instruct baseball's stars of tomorrow during the "First Pitch Is for CATCH" instructional baseball clinic at Southfield's Beech Woods Center.

Former Tigers Jim Price, Jim Northrup, Gates Brown and Dave Rosema will be on hand to instruct youngsters in pitching, catching, fielding, hitting and base running. The clinic will begin noon Saturday, April 4. Registration is slated for 11:30 a.m.

Beech Woods Center is at 22000 Beech Road, one mile west of Telegraph, just south of Nine Mile. The $2 donation includes the clinic, hot dog and pop, autographs from the former Tigers, viewing of the Tigers' 1991 highlight video and a chance to win a variety of raffle prizes.

The clinic is part of the annual "First Pitch Is for CATCH" program, which, through the corporate sponsorship of Ford Motor Co. and NBD Bank, raises money for CATCH (Caring Athletes Team for Children's and Henry Ford Hospital).

CATCH was founded by Tigers Manager Sparky Anderson in 1987 to raise money to provide quality of life items for sick and needy children at the two hospitals.

The "First Pitch Is for CATCH" will also feature a Tiger/CATCH pep rally 6-9 p.m. Sunday, April 5, at the Dearborn Inn. The informal party, featuring raffle prizes and the Tiger video viewing, among other things, includes a $10 donation.

The entire weekend of activities will conclude Monday, April 6, at Tiger Stadium when the ceremonial first pitch for the Tigers' home opener against the Toronto Blue Jays will be dedicated to CATCH.

Reservations are required for the Sunday, April 5, pep rally. For reservations, call the CATCH office during business hours, 876-9399.

Chiefs young but experienced team

The Chiefs with 12 goals and nine assists.

But Canton still has a strong midfield, especially with junior Leah Hutko moving from forward to compensate for an injury-depleted group of halfbacks.

HUTKO, WHO scored five goals and recorded three assists, could return to a forward position when sophomores Alyson Nounne (shin splints) and Erica Anderson (sore hip) recover.

Senior Christina Stansell provides an anchor in terms of her experience in the midfield. The four-year starter had two goals and three assists.

"She's a good, solid halfback," Smith said. "She can get some goals, but I'm not looking to her for scoring so much."

Junior Amy Westerhold (five goals and two assists) is another returning starter at halfback and will provide some added offense, according to Smith.

"We'll be very steady there, and we have good backups, too," he said. "We won't miss anything when we change midfielders."

In addition to Nounne, who missed most of last season with a hip pointer, and Anderson, The Chiefs also have a pair of varsity newcomers in sophomore Robin Vachow and junior Becki Cifaldi for midfield depth.

The defense is led by senior Danielle Meyka, a second-team, all-area player, and junior Kathy Bahr. Both will be three-year starters. Meyka played outside defender but moves to stopper this year, and Bahr returns to the familiar role of sweeper.

SENIOR REBEKAH Raymor will be one of the fullbacks, a position she played last year when she had a strong, season-ending finish. The other defender will be either junior Kelly Reeves, sophomore Lynn Haines or junior Julie Nelson.

"They're very fast but not big," said Smith of his defenders, "so we'll have to do things in a hurry and get out of there. We can't afford to bang around down there. We're going to rely more on quickness than brute force."

The netminding job is in good hands with junior and three-year regular Jori Welchans in goal again, having allowed only 10 goals last year. She is backed up by freshman Amy Toms, an Olympic Development player and a promising, young prospect, according to Smith.

Canton is scheduled to begin its season today with a 5:30 game at Farmington Hills Harrison. The Chiefs play host to Farmington at 7 p.m. Wednesday and face Salem on Monday, April 13.

"I don't think anybody should take us for granted," said Smith, who coached Canton to the Class A title in 1988. "We will not be easy to beat. We're going to be right in there."

"I always feel we've got a chance if we come together at the right time. Our season is so tough, even if we have a couple losses, we're usually playing darn good soccer at the end of the year."

Spartans win soccer opener over Troy

Livonia Stevenson opened the 1992 girls soccer season Friday with a 4-1 win at Troy High.

The Spartans, 17-1-2 a year ago after winning the 1990 state Class A title, will travel tonight to meet

Plymouth Salem in an early season showdown. (Game time is 7.)

"For the first game things looked promising," Stevenson coach Mary Kay Hussey said. "Troy plays hard and they're a good team. It was good to play one before we meet Salem."

The Spartans jumped out to a 2-0 halftime league on goals by Holly Kimble and Alison Pinta.

Shannon Wilkinson and Ragen Coyne drew assists.

BLINDNESS. KIDNEY FAILURE. GANGRENE. HEART DISEASE.

Just a few of the side effects a diabetic has to live with. Or die with.

Most of us know that diabetics must take daily insulin shots to control their disease. But what many people don't know is that even with the shots, a host of complications can arise. Like blindness. Kidney failure. Gangrene. Heart disease. And nerve damage.

In fact, it's these side effects of diabetes that are so brutal and often life-threatening. So please give to the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. Because there's only one way to eliminate the complications. Eliminate the disease.

Top players earn all-area honors of her sets. She finished with 243 kills in 591 attempts and had 44 service aces. Campau, a tri-captain who played middle hitter for the Chargers, was a first-team WLAA and all-region choice.

"Julie was our best offensive player this year, she had a setter's hands and loved to set," Churchill coach Mike Hughes said. "She developed into a fine blocker and passed at 92 percent."

Ellen Lessig, senior, Churchill: The first-team all Western Division and all-region choice lived up to her nickname, "The Wall," averaging 2.5 blocks per game. The tri-captain who played on Churchill's state champion last year had a 90.6 percent serve ratio to go with 81 percent success in setting. She had 57 service aces and recorded 249 kills in 511 attempts. Lessig also completed 90.7 percent of her passes and had 290 digs.

"Ellen was instrumental in the fine season we had," Hughes said.

Liz Gunn, junior, Livonia Ladywood: Gunn averaged 11.7 kills, 6.8 assists and 1.9 serving aces a game for the Blazers, who reached the Class A quarterfinal round before losing to Temperance-Bedford. Gunn, Most Valuable Player of the Bay City Garber Tournament, was an All-Catholic League choice as well as second-team Class A all-state.

Gunn had a season-high 24 kills in a match win over rival Farmington Hills Mercy.

"Liz is the left-handed half of our 'Machine-Gunn-Kelly duo,'" Ladywood coach Tom Teeters said, also in reference to the Blazers' Mary Jo Kelly. "Liz is our most explosive spiker and also took over the duties of setting halfway through the season."

Mary Jo Kelly, junior Ladywood: The junior tri-captain is a three-year letter-winner and this year earned Class A third-team all-state honors to go with her selection to the All-Catholic League first team. Kelly had a .285 spike percentage, averaged 8.7 assists and 7.8 kills per game.

Julianna DeLaRocque Salem spiker

"Mary Jo is our most consistent and versatile player," Teeters said. "With her fast swing and quick hand set she has had an impact on every Ladywood victory. Mary Jo will be a big asset to next year's Blazer volleyball team."

Julianna DeLaRocque, senior, Plymouth Salem: DeLaRocque, a foreign exchange student from Brazil, had 101 aces and a 78 serve percentage. She had 313 kills in 846 attacks (36 percent) and finished with 268 digs. DeLaRocque was an All-Lakes Division choice and made the Madonna and Temperance-Bedford all-tournament teams.

"Julianna was a great addition to our team, her enthusiasm and abilities were a positive example for all our players to model," Salem coach Allie Suffety said.

Laura Fisher, senior, Wayne Memorial: Fisher, a setter, recorded 216 digs and 92 service aces. She had 860 kill assists (7.8 average per game) and did well at the net as well with a .416 kill percentage. A three-time Wolverine A League choice, Fisher twice made the all-region team. She helped lead the Zebras to two state Class A quarterfinal berths and three-straight Wolverine A titles (42-0 overall).

She will play at Madonna University.

"For three years Laura has been the backbone of Wayne volleyball," coach said. "There is never enough to be said about Laura. Not only is she a talented volleyball player but she is a wonderful and sweet young lady."

Teresa Sarno, senior, Stevenson: Sarno, who signed with the University of Virginia, made the all-region first team. She had an 88.6 serve percentage with 44 aces, and led the Spartans with 302 kills in 784 attempts (21.1 percent). Sarno, who had a serve reception percentage of 87.8 (352-401), was especially tough in tournaments, being named to the all-star squad at the Bedford, Spartan and Schoolcraft invitationals.

"Teresa has been the center of our team for four years," Cagle said. "Her contributions as hitter and middle blocker have been consistent throughout and respected by teammates and opponents alike. Her abilities have proven her to be one of the best to play at Stevenson."

Wendy Wolski, senior, Farmington Mercy: The all-Catholic League selection had a serve reception of 89 percent (216-243) and was good on 92 percent of her serves (367-397) with 51 aces. She had 231 digs and 160 kills with a kill percentage of .258. She finished with 97 solo blocks.

"Wendy consistently improved throughout the season," Mercy coach Ann Kolnytis said. "The more pressure, the better she played. Her best match of the season was during the regional when she had 16 kills."

Jannel Hemme, senior, Ladywood: A tri-captain, Hemme closed out her career with All-Catholic League honors, averaging 9.2 digs and 2.3 blocks per game. She also averaged 1.7 serving aces per game.

"Jannel acquired all of her volleyball skills through hard work," Teeters said. "Throughout the year Jannel and her partner (Michelle Wilson) had some of the best paired-off defensive practices I've seen. What I will miss most with Jannel graduating is her ability to make volleyball enjoyable for everyone around her, and that smile."

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Don't pressure a loved one into making a decision that is just not right. Spend some money on yourself, but not too much.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Blow off steam doing something productive. There is a possibility of good fortune in your near future. Do those things you have been putting off.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Romance could really heat up by week's end. Take care of nagging health problems quickly, before they turn into something more serious.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
It is important for you to clear up a grave misunderstanding with a loved one. Plan activities to spend time with family and friends.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
You will be tempted to stray from the straight and narrow and that is probably not a good idea. Take time to look at what is important.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
Don't make promises you have no intention of keeping. Diet and exercise should be at the top of your list of priorities in this period.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
Money troubles aren't going to go away quickly, but you can find a better way to deal with them. Sticking to a budget must be a way of life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)
Check out new friends closely. They may not have your best interest in mind. A young person may need some extra attention.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
Friends will ask for advice, but do yourself a favor and keep quiet. Most people will do what they want anyway. Your love life could improve.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
Don't take a partner for granted. Relationships take nurturing and tender loving care and you have what it takes to make things work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
Remember, there is only so much you can do when helping friends and loved ones. Find a positive activity to keep your mind busy.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)
Stop trying to organize everyone's life and concentrate on your own. It is time to make a commitment in a certain relationship.

NBC's "Machine"

smarter than you think

Unlikely premise yields watchable series

By Steven Alan McGaw

Somewhere, maybe in some small Eastern European country, there's a heavily guarded vault. Inside are reels and reels of vintage video tape, preserving forever a vital part of our viewing heritage: the Really Bad part. Not just poor programming, of course, that's too large and varied a category. Instead, this vault is devoted to the preservation of the preposterous, those historic TV movies and series with premises and plotlines so outlandish a child wouldn't believe them. Children didn't believe them, in fact, and so we bid an abrupt adieu to shows like "Manimal," "Cop Rock" and "The Powers of Matthew Star."

After decades of stuff like "Hull High" and "The Immortal," audiences have become jaded to dubious programming. They feel they can "see it coming" and change the collective channel. While this is often a smart move, it can deprive viewers of a worthwhile show and deny the program a fair shot. Viewers are always well-advised to watch any program...once.

One viewing is all it should take to garner a following for NBC's "Mann & Machine," a new adventure-drama series premiering Sunday, April 5. Produced by the prestigious team of Dick Wolf ("Law & Order," "Miami Vice") and Bob DeLaurentis ("St. Elsewhere"), the series has enough talent, taste and intelligence, both before and behind the camera, to make its unlikely, even silly-sounding premise palatable.

The premiere episode, titled "Prototype," sets up the story. In a not-too-distant future, police officers are aided and protected in their dangerous work by human-looking artificial intelligence units. Call them robots, call them cyborgs, call them a nuisance, says hard-bitten Bobby Mann, a second-generation cop with old-fashioned ideas.

When his mechanical partner is destroyed in an ambush, Bobby is quickly assigned a newer model, one allegedly far superior to the old one. Designed to look like a young woman (and cleverly named Eve Edison), Bobby's new partner is truly a high-tech marvel; her "brain" is downloaded daily into the police department's main computer. And she's learning, Bobby is told. Day by day, observant Eve is learning to be human.

The dialogue between Bobby (played winningly by David Andrews) and Yancy Butler's wonderfully poker-faced Eve is the center of the series' charm. Bobby reluctantly accepts his role as partner, teacher and first friend. Eve, meanwhile, is already more human than her makers suspect. She's not just assimilating human traits because she's programmed to do so, she wants to. Another plus is the delightfully combative relationship between Bobby and his sharp-tongued captain, played by S. Epatha Merkerson.

Crisp dialogue and skillful acting alone aren't enough to keep "Mann & Machine" from succumbing to the inherent silliness of its premise. Intelligence and a measure of taste and sensitivity do the job, helping to avoid obvious pitfalls and guiding the show to several wise decisions.

There's no denying that Yancy Butler is attractive, and the script acknowledges this. It avoids, however, the incessant leering so common to prime-time TV, especially when the female character in question is innocent or unaware. In one scene, Eve begins to disrobe before Bobby has left the room. Instead of gawking, he leaves, later admonishing Eve to practice modesty. Similarly, Eve's innocence is never used as a springboard for mean or inappropriate humor.

The makers of "Mann & Machine" are also to be commended for casting an African-American woman as a police captain. The decision, and Merkerson's fine performance, presents viewers with a genuinely new character, and a welcome change from the stock library of loud-mouthed, cigar-chomping men.

David Andrews and Yancy Butler star in "Mann & Machine," a new adventure-drama series premiering Sunday on NBC. Andrews plays Bobby Mann, a second-generation cop who finds himself partnered with a state-of-the-art cyborg named Eve. S. Epatha Merkerson also stars as Margaret Claghorn, a no-nonsense police captain.

LEIT'S TALK

Tim Matheson has long track record

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Could you please give me some information on Tim Matheson? How old is he, is he married or single, what is the name of his latest movie and how did he get started? —Bertha Favreau, Chicopee, Mass.

A: The actor was born in Glendale, Calif., on Dec. 31, 1947. He got his career start during high school with the meeting of a producer, who was the father of a friend. By 1961, he had landed his first role, in the Robert Young series Window on Main Street. He continued to work steadily, appearing in episodes of The Twilight Zone, My Three Sons, The Farmer's Daughter and Leave It to Beaver. He also provided the voices for many Hanna-Barbera cartoon characters, including Jonny Quest. In 1964, the actor made his film debut in Divorce, American Style, then, in 1969, after six months in Marine Corps Reserves, Matheson accepted a four-year contract with Universal Studios. During that time, he helped found the improvisational troupe The Groundlings. In 1978, his career really took off when he appeared in the mega-hit film Animal House as frat leader Eric "Otter" Stratton. After much TV and stage work, he produced his first feature film, Blind Fury, in 1988. His latest television endeavor is the Fox series Charlie Hoover. He lives in Berkeley, Calif., with his wife, Megan, and their two daughters, Molly and Emma.

Q: Would you tell me where to write to Janet Jackson? —Orn Grant, Nashville, Tenn.

A: Write to the singer in care of Virgin Records, 9247 Alden Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90210.

Q: I heard Jean-Claude Van Damme has a twin brother. Is this true? —Nick Lundquist, Hager City, Wisc.

A: I think you're just confusing his movies with his real life. Van Damme has a sister but no brothers. He played twins Alex and Chad in his latest movie, Double Impact.

Q: Could you give me the ages of the four Golden Girls? Are they married? Do they have children? —Marie Feese, Creston, Iowa.

A: Bea Arthur was born May 13, 1924. She has two sons. Estelle Getty was born July 25, 1923. As far as I know, she has never been married or had any children. Rue McClanahan was born Feb. 21, 1934, and Betty White's birthday was Jan. 17, 1922, and there are no records of either of them having any children. Arthur and McClanahan are divorced, and White is widowed.

Q: I've never written to any magazine about a show. I think you made a big mistake when you replaced Frank Faison with Cleavon Little as Ron Freeman on True Colors. There was a chemistry that is now missing. Even though I continue to watch, I feel there is something missing. —D. Reid, Portland, Ore.

A: Well, I'm glad you picked me to write to. But, as I've said before, I have no control over the content of television. The reasoning behind the casting change was that Fox felt because there were no "big" names on the show, it wasn't getting the ratings it should. They felt if they put a better known actor on the show, the ratings would improve. (Cleavon Little is well-known from his role in Blazing Saddles.) Perhaps it would also do better in a different time slot. Many people tune in just for Married... With Children and miss True Colors. As I've said before, Fox is better than the other networks in that it lets shows stay on while they are developing a following rather than yank it off the first time it gets a low rating. And I think the network is more apt to listen to viewers. So, I would say write to Fox Broadcasting Company, P.O. Box 900, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90213.

Q: I heard Jean-Claude Van Damme has a twin brother. Is this true? —Nick Lundquist, Hager City, Wisc.

A: I think you're just confusing his movies with his real life. Van Damme has a sister but no brothers. He played twins Alex and Chad in his latest movie, Double Impact.

SHOW TALK

'AW' cast finds romance off the set

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I really enjoy watching Another World. I was wondering if there are any real-life romances among the actors on the show. I would be interested in any behind-the-scenes information you have. —Theresa Farmington, Mich.

Dear Reader: There are some hot and heavy romances going on at AW but they involve folks from other shows as well. Ricky Paul Goldin (Dean) is currently in love with OITF's Yasmine Bleeth. Linda Dano (Felicia) and John Aprea (Lucas) who are each happily married, are great friends at work. Mark Pinter (Sen. Grant Harrison) is very happily married to Colleen Zenk (Barbara on As the World Turns).

Tom Eplin (Jake) just married former Miss America Courtney Gibbs, who is now on All My Children. And Alice Barrett (Frankie Frame) just had a baby, 7-pound, 9-ounce Julia Elizabeth.

Dear Candace: There are too many people on As the World Turns. You can't keep up with who's who on the show. It used to be a great show, now it is just all jumbled. I want it to go back to the way it was and soon. —Flo Todd, Altona, Ill.

Dear Reader: With more than 30 cast members, I am not surprised you are having trouble keeping up. ATWT has been trying to infuse some new blood into the show to improve ratings. Things should settle down soon.

Dear Candace: What ever happened to Tom Bierdz, who used to play Phillip Chancellor III on The Young and the Restless? I've never seen him on any other show or in any commercials or in any of the soap magazines. —Betty Goodhart, Chillicothe, Mo.

Dear Reader: Bierdz is in Paris doing publicity for Y&R. The show is two years behind there and is quite popular.

Dear Candace: I wonder if the person playing Emma Snyder, the mother of all those children, ever appeared on Bonanza. —Bea Wood, Pembine, Wis.

Dear Reader: Kathleen Widdoes (Emma) has an impressive list of film and theater credits, but I couldn't find anything that listed her in any of the episodes of the long-running western series Bonanza.

CABLE NEWS

Plants, people, music on cable TV

By Dan Rice

The world runs on green power, the green of plants that is. All life on Earth is fueled by the energy of plants. But how there is a hidden fuel reservoir in the soil. It plant life from runaways and development. That's the focus of the three-part series Life Force, beginning Tuesday, March 31, on The Discovery Channel.

Shifting our sights to the other kingdom, IDG delves into the nature of this creature man with the miniseries The Human Animal, beginning Wednesday, April 1. Host and creator Phil Donahue guides us through this five-part examination, tackling the "fundamental questions: Who are we? Why do we behave the way we do? And, can we change?"

BITTS AND PIECES

'Simpsons' can't shake animated series label

"All we want for The Simpsons is that they be treated like a regular series," says James L. Brooks, the executive producer. Brooks and executive producer James L. Brooks took to the press last summer.

But the animated family still has a long way to go. On the same day that the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences broke new ground by allowing a Best Picture nomination to the animated feature Beauty and the Beast, the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences announced that The Simpsons would not be allowed to compete for an Emmy in the Best Comedy Series category. "I think that we'll have to make a Simpsons feature to get the credit we think we deserve," creator Matt Groening told the trade journal The Hollywood Reporter.

The prime-time series' appeal to its wide adult viewership is not only denied equal standing with live-action comedies, but its writers and sound editors have also been confined to the animated series category. In addition, the academy is expected to announce that the actors who have done voice-over performances for the show will no longer be allowed to compete in the comedy series acting divisions of the Emmys. Henceforth, a new (yet) award will be created for voice-over artists.

The Simpsons: Is this comedy?

CBS stars take a walk the annual Walk America for the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation that is. The event takes place in most parts of the country, April 25-26. Annie Potts of Designing Women and Marisa Ryan of Major Dad have joined more than a million volunteers nationwide to do the leg work, while Candice Bergen, aka Murphy Brown, is currently appearing in public service spots for Walk America. Eileen Fulton of CBS' daytime drama As the World Turns has been making personal appearances for the organization for several years.

Comic favorite Rose Marie plays nosy landlady Edna Bracken in Scorch, Fridays on CBS.

Saturday on TNN, singer Crystal Gayle is special guest on The Statler Bros. Show.

STAIR NOISES

Copperfield has more tricks up his sleeve

By Dan Rice

You won't catch illusionist David Copperfield pulling a rabbit out of a hat. The 35-year-old performer prefers to work on a grander scale, say making the Statue of Liberty disappear. His newest collection of awesome feats, The Magic of David Copperfield XIV: Flying 'Live the Dream', airs Tuesday, March 31, on CBS.

Copperfield holds the distinction of being the youngest (at age 12) inductor to the American Society of Magicians. His start in the world of prestidigitation came only two years earlier. Surprisingly, it wasn't masters like Houdini or Blackstone who were his greatest influences.

"My idols were Gene Kelly and Fred Astaire. What they did with dancing, I try to do with magic," Copperfield relates.

Copperfield's latest prime-time act is centered about the illusion of him flying around the stage. His own best publicist, the brash wizard reports that flying is "the fulfillment of a lifelong dream of mine."

The Tuesday show also features a mass mind-reading experiment with home viewers asked to touch their screens a la Robert E. Dillon and the conjuring up of an interactive, 26-year-old Orson Welles.
