City will put recyclables in the bag on July 6

By Kevin Brown staff writer

July 4 is Independence Day, but a real revolution occurs here two days later. That's because July 6 is the scheduled date for curbside pickup of recyclables to begin in the city of Plymouth. But unlike the bin system used by neighboring communities, Plymouth officials have opted for a recyclables in a bag curbside approach. And no glass can be put in the bags. That caused Plymouth resident Sandra Koski to tell city commissioners on Monday, "I think people are going to say, 'We're going to get curbside recycling but you can't put bottles in.' Either do it all the way or forget it," she said.

PAUL SINCOCK, assistant city manager, said the recyclables-in-a-bag method favored by the city administration is cheaper than the bin method. Also, corrugated cardboard and junk mail can be put in the bags set out for recycling, but those materials aren't accepted in bins. Further, because one truck can carry away both garbage and bagged recyclables instead of the two trucks needed with the bin method, the bin method "is less desirable ecologically," he said.

"I think you're going to have a problem selling it to people," Koski said, saying that by excluding glass, "You're doing a halfway measure."

When bids obtained from garbage haulers revealed it would cost even less to keep the present system of taking recyclables to a dropoff center, commissioner Jerry Vorva suggested sticking with the current method. "I've got to make a trip there anyway," he said, to take glass which won't be accepted at the curb.

Sincock said that the city often bears complaints from residents who ask when the city will begin curbside recycling like other towns.

The commission voted to award a bid through fiscal year 1994-95 to Mr. Rubbish of Ann Arbor. They voted to continue the $1 bag tag program through the period, while reducing the garbage millage to 1.4 mills for 1992-93, and 1.2 mills for 1993-95.

By the plan, all city residents participating in the program would get 40 heavy-duty clear plastic bags each July 1, to put recyclables in.

The recyclable material would be sorted in the firm's facility in Whitmore Lake, 18 miles away.

Sincock said that once recyclables are picked up at the curb, the city will move the recyclables drop-off center from behind city hall to the DPW yard on Farmer Street.

By terms of the contract with the trash hauler, further hikes in landfill rates will not force a rise in the garbage millage or price per bag of garbage paid by residents.

Sincock said that since starting the bag tag program, residents have gone from putting out 2.5 bags of garbage per week to about one.

Golfers tee up in spring weather

By Kevin Brown staff writer

For some, the coming of spring means a trip to the "set to be there at 9 o'clock" and that bag of golf clubs.

Wesley had his first tee time with a couple of friends, said Dave Behr, and playing a few holes on Tuesday at Hilltop Golf Club in Eastland.

He said he had packed both clubs and clothes in the clubs' plastic covers, a light breeze stirred the covers, and under the covers, the clubs were ready.

Wesley said he had packed some clubs, but he didn't have a club bag, so he had to pack the clubs in a plastic bag, which he had to pack in a plastic bag, which he had to pack in a plastic bag.

They're anxious to start, you see, it's been a long winter.

Artley quits race, cites 'educational crisis'

By Brian Lyaeght staff writer

David Artley, who has been a school board member for nearly 10 years, quit the race Monday.

Artley, who has been a school board member for nearly 10 years, quit the race Monday. He said he had a responsibility to voters who elected him to the school board, and to students, teachers, staff, and parents.

Artley, director of the Plymouth substance abuse program Straight Inc., made a similar announcement in May 1991, deciding then not to run for state representative in the 36th District.

Artley supports shifting school funding from property taxes to sales or income taxes.

Artley, president of the Canton Republican Club, said he would support a Republican in the general election.

Artley said he plans to launch a full-time campaign, whether or not there is a GOP primary.

Artley said he had a responsibility to voters who elected him to the school board, and to students, teachers, staff, and parents.

Radtke, Horton campaigning for township offices

Two more candidates have announced plans to run for Plymouth Township elected office.

Smith Horton, a township trustee since 1983, announced Tuesday he is running for township supervisor.

On Monday, Denise Radtke, long-time aide to U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, announced she will run for the township clerk seat.

In announcing his candidacy, Horton said, "I am saddened to have witnessed recent controversies tarnishing the otherwise excellent image of our township."

"People are our Priority should be more than a slogan, it should be the underlying philosophy of everything the township does," he said, adding he wants to "re-establish its former reputation for integrity and fiscal responsibility."

For the post, Horton will be challenging incumbent supervisor Gerald Law, trustee John Stewart, health care administrator Kathleen Kesen McCarthy, and lawyer Stephen Book.

With long-time township clerk Esther Hulsing retiring, Radtke is the second candidate to file for clerk. Nedra Jenkins, a clerk's office employee, is also running.

Outdoor cafe gets city's OK

Penniman Deli owner Russ Webster said he hopes to have his outdoor cafe deck built and ready to open in early May, following a city commission action Monday.

Commissioners authorized the city downtown development authority to enter into an agreement with the Penniman Deli to operate an outdoor cafe for one season on a trial basis, with the intent that permanent locations for such operations would be included in the planned streetscape design, according to the commission action.

DDA members say more outdoor cafes in downtown Plymouth could help draw business in the wake of recent store closings.

The cafe, planned for a deck to be built outside the cafe, shall be subject to the approval of the city engineer for safety, according to the resolution approved by the commission.

The city cafe, 15 Forest, has operated an outdoor cafe in warm weather months for nearly 10 years.

Box Bar owner Chip Fausan also plans to seek city approval for an outdoor cafe, and Cafe Bon Homme owner Greg Goodman said he has tentative plans to establish an outdoor cafe.

Golfers get into spring swing

Tom Fazio teed off Tuesday at Hilltop. It was his second time out golfing this spring.

John Pawlowski, Hilltop manager, said the course is in good shape.

Winter can damage a golf course, but not this year. The golf course came through real good, Pawlowski said. It wasn't left open where you get the wind burn.

Fairway areas not covered by snow can be damaged in winter, Pawlowski explained, and so can grassy areas covered in ice for long periods.

There's also a snow mold fungus caused in winter if areas remain wet for an extended period.

While area golf courses were able to avoid such winter damage, golf courses are a bit tender in the spring.

"THE TEES are pretty soft right now," he said to keep people off the tees," said Fellows Creek superintendent Dennis Nordling, "so they can take the traffic."

Also in early spring, "The greens are softer. After the snow melts, everything takes a little while to settle," Nordling said. "Greens are springy and bumpy in the spring."

Before the course opened March 25, "We go over all the equipment, ball washers, benches, we paint them and get them ready to put out," Nordling said. He then tours the course to determine if the course is dry enough to open.

Basically what you have to do is clean up all the debris," Pawlowski said.

John Pawlowski checks the operation of his riding mower while cutting a fairway at Hilltop Golf Course in Plymouth Township.

John Jawor, manager of Hilltop Golf Club in Plymouth Township, said golfers coming in this week are anxious to play after a long winter.

Dave Richard (right) and friend Ron Parker warmed up on the Fellows Creek practice green before heading out on the recently opened course.

Organizers plan Magic Ride to prevent child abuse

By Brian Lysaght
Staff writer

Organizers are seeking bike riders and volunteers for the third annual Magic Ride for child abuse prevention, May 9 in Canton.

Riders can choose one of four routes, 4.5, 10, 25 or 50 miles long. The politicians and celebrity riders get it easy. They can pedal a special one-mile course for MPs under police escort.

The event begins at Canton's administration building. From there, bikers head south and west into Washtenaw County before returning. Riders are asked to gather sponsors to pledge money.

The Magic Ride is organized by the Council on Child Abuse and Neglect's offices in Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw and Monroe counties.

"It is for all of us a major fund-raiser, public awareness event," said Sandra Murphy, executive director of the council's Out Wayne county office.

The first year we had 200 riders. Last year we had 300 and this year we're projecting 400," Murphy said.

REGISTRATION IS $10 per bike. People who register before April 24 will receive a T-shirt. The cost includes a pizza lunch.

There are routes of four, 14, 25 and 50 miles. Maps will be distributed and routes clearly marked. Organizers estimate that an average rider takes one hour to cover 10 miles.

Volunteers are also needed on ride day, Murphy said. Organizers need 25 workers, including ham radio operators to help with communications. Corporate sponsors are also being sought to help fund the event.

Among the celebrity riders are county, state and local politicians. Bill Joyner, Canton Community Foundation Director, said most notables opt for the one-mile route for VIPs.

Some celebrities, like the prosecuting attorney John O'Hair, rode the whole route, but most celebrities last year go out for a half mile and come back a half mile," said Joyner, who himself will ride as a celebrity. The foundation is helping organize the event, he said.

The largest pledge raiser wins a bike, Murphy said. Canton the ride is one of six regional preliminary rides that precede a statewide ride in Holt in June.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Many in Sanders' audience Monday at Hoben Elementary School were students. Jennifer Yamazaki and Rob Macy, both Salem seniors, said they enjoyed the poet's reading.

Linked to the Beat Generation, Ed Sanders published a literary journal in the early 1960s that appealed for material with these words: "Send me your banned manuscripts, your peace-grams, your cosmic data, your huddled masses yearning to be free ..."

Poet makes the beat go on in Canton

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

On the stage Monday in Canton, poet Ed Sanders recited meeting rock and roll singer Jim Morrison at a club in 1968.

You were in our dressing room, dressed in some sort of lizard-skin or snake-skin trousers, frail and curly, holding a Jack Daniels bottle like some Bacchus-Orpheus splicer.

Sanders, a Beat Generation poet who gained prominence in the 1960s, drew about 175 people to a reading in the Hoben Elementary cafeteria, one of four Detroit area appearances.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Ed sometimes read, sometimes chanted his poetry. He played a dulcimer and chanted electronic instruments as accompaniment. It was Sanders' second area experience.

Many in the crowd were Plymouth-Canton high school students, born well after the Beats heyday. They seemed to enjoy Sanders' 75-minute presentation, even if it was part literature, part history lesson.

The 52-year-old Woodstock, N.Y. resident recited and chanted poems, sometimes accompanying himself on dulcimer. Wearing glasses, a rumpled jacket and longish, graying hair, Sanders had the look of a hip absent-minded professor.

The way to introduce students to 20th Century poetry is to see the poets live, said Barbara Masters, a Canton High School English teacher who helped arrange Sanders' visit, and other visits by Allen Ginsberg and Robert Creeley.

Rob Macy and Jennifer Yamazaki, both Salem seniors and Masters' students, said they liked what Sanders had to say.

To get a big name out here, it's actually like a privilege, said Macy, who took time off from work to attend.

Sanders, 52, hitchhiked to New York City in 1958 vowing to become a poet. He studied Greek at New York University, and in the early 1960s, the latter years of the Beat Generation, started a literary journal called "F--- You: A Magazine of the Arts."

Writers like William S. Burroughs, Lawrence Ferlinghetti and Ginsberg were published before New York City Police closed the magazine for obscenity. Sanders also founded the Peace Eye Bookstore in 1964, which became a gathering place for literary types.

Along the way, Sanders was active in the peace movement and part of a rock band called the Fugs. He met Doors singer Morrison while performing with the Fugs. Sanders' poem "The Ocean Etude," which he read Monday, described that meeting and his visit to the Parisian cemetery where Morrison is buried.

Sanders' first book of poetry, "Poem from Jail," was published in 1964. He continues to write poetry at his upstate New York home. His prose books include "Tales of Beatnik Glory" and "The Family," an account of the murder trial of Charles Manson and his followers.

On Monday, Sanders spoke of his interest in the environment and read poems inspired by plants and animals near his home.

It's maple-syrup time, he told the crowd. We just got through making some maple syrup, although acid rain is killing all the maple trees.

In his poem called "Hymn for Rebel Cafes," Sanders paid tribute to artists, free thinkers and revolutionaries from Thomas Jefferson to Janis Joplin.

It was Sanders' second visit to the area for Sanders. He called Masters an American hero.

I hope they bring her down to Washington and give her one of those presidential medals, he said.

Craig Rice, an 18-year-old Eastern Michigan student from Canton, said he enjoyed the performance. We came because we really can't see this anywhere else.

About 175 people paid $3 each to hear poet Ed Sanders read from his work in Canton. Afterwards, the audience crowded onto the stage to buy books, Fugs records and get autographs.

Near-death experience gives woman inner strength, faith

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

When a year ago, Carol McCullough awoke and her left hand tingled toward a spot she describes as "a combination of an 1800s and 1900s bolts of lightning."

Afterwards, she says her life was changed.

I'm not afraid of anything any more. I'm not afraid of being 100, I'm not afraid of being 30, McCullough, 31, of Canton, said.

She said she had what is called an out-of-body, or near-death, experience. It is certainly difficult to verify, but the experience was apparently real enough to McCullough that she wrote a four-page description of it.

The incident may have occurred during the second of two strokes she suffered, she said. McCullough said she is legally blind, deaf in one ear and suffers seizures daily. She lives with her husband, Steven, in a brick ranch on a street near the Westland border.

SHE DOES NOT WORK or drive. She receives disability payments from the federal government and said she was healthy until the first stroke eight years ago.

I pretty much just hang around the house. I'm in a lot of pain. My house is very clean, she laughs, because she does a lot of cleaning.

She has endured batteries of tests, which she speaks of matter-of-factly, with a tinge of irony.

I'm not going to cry in my coffee. I've done enough of that.

As McCullough tells it, her near-death experience occurred in Autumn 1990 when a series of powerful surges jerked her head as she sat on the couch in her home. She writes that she saw herself, as if she were outside her body. She began to move through a dark area to a bright form like an infinite mass of lightning bolts.

I headed toward the energy so quickly all sense of time, fear and pain were left behind. The closer I came to the energy, the more ecstasy encircled my soul, she writes.

She believes she reached heaven then. I was there, spirit and soul to energy with our Maker.

SHE THEN DESCRIBES a judgment period in which her life is reviewed. She sees her birth. She said she is told that her life will be more difficult than it had been. She said she absorbed the truths she experienced and returned to her body.

I was completely coherent and aware of what had happened, with a total feeling of freedom, no longer ever questioning the existence of our creator, no longer fearing death.

She said she knows her essay and the experience she describes is controversial. Some people don't want to hear about it.

She said the experience also taught her not to be intimidated by people and to be careful of what she said.

Before this I had a really big mouth. Now I watch it.

Rev. William Myers, pastor of Canton's Faith Community Moravian Church, said as a hospital chaplain he met a heart attack victim who had had a near-death experience.

Many of these experiences seem to contain elements of judgement, an awareness of their life. The classic line is life passing before them," Myers said.

He said he didn't think such experiences contradict Christian teaching.

Mountain bike stolen from resident's garage

A Plymouth resident told police that he discovered his bike missing. The 23-year-old said he keeps his bike hanging in the garage. When he went to ride it Sunday, the yellow mountain bike was gone. The 27-inch boys Rock Hopper with a black seat is valued at $350.

SMOKESCREEN BLOWN: A 22-year-old Northville man was arrested at Danny's supermarket about 4:30 p.m. Sunday after attempting to steal a carton of Now cigarettes priced at $15.99. The suspect was detained by an employee, a 34-year-old Canton man, and a witness, a Plymouth woman until officers arrived.

He was taken to the police station, where he posted $100 bond and was released. The man was given an April 27 court date in 35th District Court in Plymouth.

SKATEBOARD SCAM: A 15-year-old Canton youth told police he last saw his blue Timebomb skateboard shortly after leaving it at the entrance of "Repeat the Beat" record store at 770 Penniman about 4 p.m. Saturday.

Shortly after entering the store, he turned around in time to see through the window a boy laughing and running away with two other boys and the skateboard.

The skateboard owner said one boy was wearing a red pullover-type crime watch

jacket or shirt. The other was wearing a gray ski cap.

The suspects were last seen heading south toward Canton. The victim told police he thought they were probably going to Farmer Jack's on Morton Taylor at Joy, where kids hang around and skate board.

Officers checked the area with negative results.

The complainant later called the police with a suspect's name, but checks and a Law Enforcement Information Network search in Plymouth, Canton and Garden City turned up nothing.

TOOLS TAKEN: A miterbox and other tools valued at more than $1,000 by their owner turned up missing Sunday from a locked garage on Greenbriar Court near Greenbriar Lane.

According to the report filed with police, there was no sign of forced entry to the garage. The theft was discovered at 4:30 p.m.

As Plymouth Township moves through the 1990s, we are faced with new challenges—balancing growth with preserving our residential atmosphere, maintaining quality services while keeping property taxes down, and working effectively with our neighboring governments," she said.

Radtke stresses her experience in working with local government leaders, in her job as field representative for Pursell.

New commission plan averts clash between incumbents

A Wayne County redistricting panel voted 3-1 Tuesday to adopt new boundaries for the board of commissioners which places western Wayne County incumbents in separate districts.

Wendy Lamb, the Republican delegate on the five-member panel, called it "an incumbent protection plan" and voted against the new plan.

Wayne County clerk James Killeen was absent from Tuesday's meeting.

Commissioner Maurice Breen, R-Plymouth, said "from a Republican point of view we weren't as happy with the new plan."

But Breen, the lone Republican on the 15-member commission, said his party could pick up at least two more seats under the revised plan and be competitive in another.

Breen will probably face a challenge in the GOP primary from Livoniaan Thaddeus McCotter, president of the Wayne County 2nd Republican District and a member of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, whose district was preserved under the new plan called it fair and reasonable.

The former plan had placed Amann in a district with fellow incumbent Breen.

But other officials called it a fair and legal compromise between a lot of people including the commission, the county executive and community groups.

Amann said that although he will seek re-election as an incumbent in the district which includes Canton Township he "doesn't expect a free ride" under the new plan. Amann said he expects a challenge in the Democratic primary in August and in the general election.

The reapportionment panel redesigned the boundaries for the 15 county commission districts after the state Supreme Court overturned the first plan two weeks ago.

Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara challenged the plan because he said it was designed to make his supporters on the commission more vulnerable to Republican challengers.

Commissioners Susan Hubbard, D-Dearborn, and William O'Neill, D-Allen Park, were also placed in the same district. Kevin Kelly, D-Redford, was placed in a new, more heavily Republican district, that also included part of Livonia.

Districts were redrawn in September by a county apportionment panel comprised of Lamb, county clerk James Killeen, county treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz and chief prosecutor John O'Hair, as well as Juliette Okotie-Eboh, a member of the Detroit planning department. Here is how western Wayne districts look under the revised plan:

- The 10th District, currently represented by Breen, remains almost the same, including Plymouth, Plymouth Township and most of Livonia, but loses a section of Livonia, east of Middlebelt.

- The 11th District, currently represented by Amann, also remains primarily intact, retaining Canton, but losing Flat Rock and Rockwood.

- The 12th District, currently represented by Kay Beard, D-Westland, stays intact by including Westland, Garden City and Inkster.

Major changes are reserved for the 9th District. Redford remains in the district, but is joined by Dearborn Heights and Livonia, east of Middlebelt. The previous district included Redford and a section of Detroit.

Current 9th District representative Kelley won't be running for the seat this fall. Instead, he's challenging county Sheriff Robert Ficano in the Democratic Party primary.

New districts will be submitted to the state Supreme Court for final approval.

Commission districts will go into effect for the 1992 elections.

The filing deadline is 4 p.m. Tuesday, May 12.

UM-D center offers day camp for kids

Nature walks, art, music, movies and crafts highlight the activities available to children ages 3-7 at the summer day camp for young children offered by the Child Development Center of the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

The two-week day camp blocks are weekdays, July 6-17, July 20-31 and Aug. 3-14. Full day (9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.) and half-day (9 a.m. to noon) schedules are available. Enrollment is limited to 16 children per two-week session on a first-come, first-served basis. Full-time enrollment is given priority.

Cost for a full-day session for each two-week block is $199, half-day session is $110. Extended care hours of 8-9 a.m. and 3:30-5 p.m. are available for an additional charge.

The camp is supervised and taught by certified teachers with early childhood specialization. Children choose from a variety of daily activities including science projects, music, dancing, exercise and guided walks through the UM-D Environmental Study Area. Also, each child creates a personal memory book of day camp experiences.

The Child Development Center is on the UM-D campus occupying what were once staff cottages of the Henry Ford Estate-Fair Lane. The university is on Evergreen Between Ford Road and Michigan Avenue. For more information, call 593-5424.

Mutt derby will benefit humane society shelters

The Michigan Humane Society will host the ninth annual Rosey Mutt Derby at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, April 26, in the Michigan State Fair Coliseum.

Tom Ryan of WOMC-FM will be the chief barker (master of ceremonies).

Dogs of all sizes will compete in a 60-yard dash to their owners. There are five race classes based on the size of dog — mini, small, medium, large and maxi. There will be a Grand Mutt Run where the winners of each class will compete against each other for the title of Grand Mutt Champion.

Entry fee is $6 per dog. Proceeds benefit the Michigan Humane Society's three Detroit area shelters.

Those interested in participating should obtain an entry form at any MHS shelter or by calling 872-3400.

The event is limited to 500 dogs. One free admission is included with the racing entry fee.

Term limitation to appear on fall ballot

The Michigan Board of Canvassers Monday initiated the November Ballot an initiative petition which would amend the state constitution to limit politicians' terms.

In the certification, the board recognized as valid some 295,000 signatures, or 38,100 more than the law requires. Dominick Vincentini, secretary of the Campaign to Limit Politicians' Terms, said that "no one should have a lifelong hold on elective office. A gradual, responsible change will result in healthy competition for office based on ability, not seniority. A limit on politicians' terms is the best hope we have to clean up the mess that has been allowed to exist."

The Michigan initiative will place limits on the following Michigan offices: U.S. senators — two terms in a 24-year period; U.S. representatives — three terms in a 12-year period; state Senator — two terms; state Representatives — three terms. executive branch (governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general) two terms.

Once the initiative receives a majority vote, it will become a law on Jan. 1, 1993. All public officials will be treated as first-term legislators as of that date.

The Guests of Honor at the Scholarship Ball

The Woman's Club of Plymouth turns a healthy 99 this year and as it does, it will be offering $5,650 in scholarships today at its 10th Scholarship Ball.

The event held annually honors the best and the brightest students from the Plymouth and Canton communities. The event starts at 6:30 p.m. and is at the Plymouth Manor.

"This year we're honoring the parents, too," said K.C. Mueller, co-chairwoman with Linda Courtney for the 1992 event.

"It's a change, but we felt that parents contribute as much to the success of the students as the kids do themselves," she said.

The first ball was held in 1983 and was such a success that club members decided to continue to hold it annually.

It is sponsored by The Plymouth Manor and the Observer Newspapers of Plymouth and Canton.

This year 38 students will be honored. They represent six area high schools, and include: Plymouth Salem, Plymouth Canton, Ladywood, Divine Child, Detroit Catholic Central and Mercy.

The program is for high school seniors whos parents live in the Plymouth-Canton community or own a business in the community. Students must plan to attend college in the fall.

A MINIMUM 3.5 grade point average is required. Students compete in several categories and a student with a 3.35 GPA doesn't compete directly with a 4.0 student.

Service to school, community and place of worship are also considered. All students invited are recognized at the Scholarship Ball. All are further honored as recipients of scholarships or merit awards.

The students are honored for everything they've do, according to Mueller. Financial need isn't a consideration, although the monetary awards do help students, she said.

The scholarship and merit awards given to students at the ball are donated by individuals and businesses.

Last year, a total of $5,000 was awarded. The amount varies from year to year and depends on support received from the community.

FAA to hold hearing on airport noise

The Federal Aviation Administration will hold a public hearing 3-8 p.m. Thursday, April 30, to discuss a proposed noise abatement plan at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The plan, "Draft Environmental Impact Statement for the Implementation Air Traffic Control Noise Abatement Procedures at Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport," is available for review at area libraries.

The proposed noise abatement procedures include:

- Using runways 21L/R/C as the primary noise abatement configuration.
- Using opposite direction night time operation (arrivals and departures south of the airport) from midnight to 6 a.m. when feasible.
- Running all north flow departures in an equitable dispersal pattern.

Representatives of the FAA and Wayne County will be available to discuss air traffic control procedures and results of the environmental impact statement.

The hearing will be conducted in a workshop format at which residents are encouraged to ask questions. Residents may also present formal testimony pertinent to the proposed procedures.

A court reporter and a hearing officer will be present and a transcript of the hearing will be made.

Residents can schedule a time at which to present testimony by contacting Douglas Powers of the FAA at 694-7899 or Metro Airport Noise Officer Sean Brosnan at (313) 942-3792. Reservations will be available for the first 30 minutes of each hour. After that residents will be recognized on a first come, first served basis.

Those unable to attend the public hearing may submit written comments through May 26 to: Douglas Power, Manager Systems Management Branch, AGL-530, Federal Aviation Administration, 2300 E. Devon Avenue, Des Plaines, Illinois 60018.

Airport noise loomed as one of Wayne County's biggest controversies in early 1991. Flights that were rerouted over suburban neighborhoods in an FAA safety move a few years earlier were rerouted again last summer in a 180-day test. Complaints fell off sharply but that test is over and the old routes are back.

Seniors group seeks input on '93 goals

The Senior Alliance will hold a public hearing 9:30-10:30 a.m. Friday in the Inkster Recreation Complex, 2025 Middlebelt Road, on its 1993 draft annual implementation plan.

Written comments will be accepted no later than April 17.

The plan outlines proposed service levels and objectives. Funding for services is provided primarily by the federal Older Americans Act and the state Older Michiganians Act. Money is appropriated to The Senior Alliance through the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging.

Proposed programs and services for 1993 include information and referral, chore, homemakers, personal care, respite care, telephone reassurance, legal assistance, congregate meals, elder abuse services, home delivered meals, adult day care, hearing impaired services, long-term care ombudsman, minor home repair, overnight respite, senior center staffing and vision services.

Written comments should be mailed to: The Senior Alliance, 3850 Second Street, Suite 160, Wayne, Mich. 48184.

The Senior Alliance is a private, non-profit corporation serving the elderly in western and southern Wayne County.

Enterprise zones revived before state Senate

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Older, depressed cities could set up low-tax "neighborhood enterprise zones" to attract new housing under a bill before the Michigan Senate.

"This is one of the most important and exciting bills you'll see this year," said Gary Wolfram, deputy state treasurer and top economic theoretician in Gov. Engler's administration.

As written, the bill would apply to Pontiac, River Rouge, Ecorse, Hamtramck, Highland Park, Detroit and older outstate cities — but not Inkster. And that bothers Sen. George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn.

THE SENATE Local Government Committee recently gave the bill 4-0 approval. Chairman David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, and the worried Hart were among the yes votes.

"Inkster meets every criteria but one — half of its housing stock was built since 1950," said Hart, whose district includes Inkster. "It has the highest homicide and drug addiction ratios in Wayne County. Sheriff (Robert) Ficano has to send a run there every day" because local police are overburdened.

But the bill's sponsor, Sen. Jon Cisky, R-Saginaw, was reluctant to expand the definition to include Inkster for fear of opening a "Pandora's box."

TO BE ELIGIBLE to set up a neighborhood enterprise zone, a city of 10,000 or more must:

- Have an unemployment rate averaging 9.49 percent.

- Have a property tax burden of 65 mills or more or levy a city income tax.

- Have a housing stock in which 45 percent of the units were built before 1950.

- Suffered a population loss of 9 percent or more from 1970 to 1990.

A city council could designate a zone up to 10 percent of its area. That area should be one that has seen no new construction and little rehabilitation in recent years. Property taxes would be cut by half or more on the buildings. New construction and rehabilitations would be eligible for a 12-year tax break.

Michigan has set up a business enterprise zone in Benton Harbor, but the Cisky bill would apply to housing, too.

Nationally, the movement is championed by Jack Kemp, secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

"WHAT BOTHERS me," said Sen. Gil DiNello, D-Clinton Township, "is that these are the cities that are always in trouble. There's no incentive to do anything on their own."

Wolfram said the Cisky bill was just the medicine to cure that ailment. "We have lots of legislation to raise property taxes. This is the only one to lower them," said the former U-M-Dearborn economics professor. "This can get housing built this spring."

Said Honigman: "The only thing that sticks in my craw is that the city is designating the spots (enterprise zones). It could pick spots where the leaders get votes or campaign contributions. There could be lots of politics."

Wolfram said there would be no tax incentive if the city council played politics. City revenues would be enhanced only by new development or rehabs in areas that have seen no activity.

Wolfram said Detroit has issued only one new residential building permit in three years while Northville Township, in the same period, issued 1,300.

BENTON HARBOR businessman Bob Jackson wanted to see zones larger than 10 percent of a city's area.

In a city with 30 percent unemployment where no private house or apartment has been built since 1974, "How do we pick?" he asked. "We will need more (help); but we do need this."

Joseph Parker, of the Way-Met Housing Resource Center Inc., said his group plans to work in downriver communities, will use the Cisky bill, but would prefer to zone 20 or 30 percent of a city's area.

Pat McEvoy, of the Michigan Townships' Association, asked the bill be expanded to cover townships, saying the definition would apply only to Brownstown Township in southern Wayne County. Honigman had the bill amended to include villages and townships.

Rotary Club renews ties with Czechs

By M.S. Dillon
staff writer

The National Hockey League's Petr Klima isn't the only Czechoslovakian named Petr making good impressions in a new country.

In Plymouth and Canton, 18-year-old Petr Jandos, a Rotary International exchange student, has earned the respect and affection of practically everyone he's met.

"He has adjusted to the schools incredibly well," said Dr. E.J. McClendon, longtime school board member and immediate past president of the Plymouth Rotary. "The students dearly love him, teachers speak highly of him, and the families he's stayed with say, 'You don't know how great this guy is!'"

Petr's American adventure has been special for him, McClendon and the Plymouth Rotary — whose Czechoslovakian ties date to 1936 when the first Plymouth-Czechoslovakian exchange took place.

It was then that Charlie Bennett, president of Daisy Air Rifle in Plymouth, traveled to Czechoslovakia in an effort to drum up international sales during the Depression.

"HE WAS HIS own manager of international sales," said McClendon. "Typical of Bennett, he went straight to the top and met Thomas Masaryk, who had just left office after serving from 1918 to 1935 as the first president of the Czechoslovak republic, of which he was a leading founder.

"Charlie got some orders, and they thereby became fast friends. They then discovered they were both Rotarians," said McClendon.

As a gift, Masaryk gave Bennett an engraved and gilded Dresden china Rotary wheel enclosed in a glass and wood case.

After Bennett's death, it collected dirt and coal dust in the basements of Rotary historians. It surfaced a few years ago after local writer and longtime Rotarian Sam Hudson died. His widow, Jessie Hudson, called McClendon saying she had something the Rotary might like to have, recalled McClendon.

The memento was in such disrepair that it was almost discarded.

Lucky for the Rotary, Dr. Sid Disbrow was around. "He said he could put the case back together, and that he might be able to clean it," said McClendon. "Without Sid's talent and commitment, the thing might have been thrown away."

The result was so impressive that the china wheel was displayed last year at Rotary's international convention.

MOST IMPORTANT, it gave Plymouth Rotarians an idea. Led by McClendon and Marie Morrow, Plymouth United Way executive director and the Rotary club's youth exchange chairperson, local Rotarians went to work raising money to enable a Czechoslovakian student come to Plymouth for a year.

Ordinarily, Rotary exchange students are responsible for their own airfare. They're hosted by a different family every three months of their stay, and receive a stipend from Rotary.

Because Petr is among the first exchange students to come here from the former Soviet Bloc, the Plymouth Rotary wanted to pick up the cost of his round-trip airfare, in addition to his $50 a month stipend.

After a year of hard work, the Plymouth Rotary came up with the needed $3,000. It was time well spent, agree Rotarians, who recently hosted Petr at one of their weekly luncheons. Petr gave a talk and visual tour of Prague, via a color slide show.

Personable and friendly, Petr has won Rotarians' hearts. An expert downhill skier, Petr has been invited on ski trips to Boyne Mountain, to Pistons' and Lions' games, on trips to Lake Michigan and Cedar Point, and into the homes of new friends.

"He is a very good representative for the youth exchange," said Morrow. "He's done very well adjusting, and I think he will do very well when he goes back."

FOR THE LAST three months of his stay, Petr is living with Plymouth's Ron and Fran Loisel, where he's been savoring the cooking (especially soups and roast beef) "that tastes just like my mom's," Petr said.

When word reached Petr that he could come to the U.S., he jumped at the chance.

"Because they are free (in Czechoslovakia,) many people want to study in the university," he said. "Getting a job, it's better if you have a year in the U.S. They want young people with five, six or seven years' of experience, but how can you find it when you come out of the university? I think it's a bit crazy."

Better yet, he says, would be studying at an American University. Petr said he went to Eastern Michigan University to inquire about a scholarship. "I asked is there a chance of a scholarship? They told me no way."

Life in the U.S. has surprised him in many ways, said Petr, whose father is a Rotarian and a university economics professor.

"When you go outside for a walk, no one is in the street. It is so quiet here. Everyone is driving." At home, many more people walk and take buses, Petr said.

Petr, who speaks English well and also is fluent in French and Russian, has found Centennial Educational Park a fascinating place.

"I CAME HERE (to school) and said, 'What's that?' This school has 4,000 students. At my high school, we had 600."

Petr appreciates being able to choose his own classes. It's a switch from Czechoslovakia, where electives are a rarity, he said.

"We can choose which two languages we want to take," said Petr, who in his last year of high school in Czechoslovakia studied nuclear physics, chemistry, biology, geography, history, math, English, German, gym, philosophy and literature.

"Here, they can pick classes. That's perfect, because I like to study business, economics, banking and management."

It's time to take wildflower walks

Spring is indeed a wonderful season to observe wildflowers. A casual stroll through woodlands of beech and maple trees can provide a plethora of colors to the palette of the eye. Electric purples of hepatica to snow whites of blood root are enjoyed by anyone who takes the time to see them.

It is indeed fitting that Gov. John Engler has recently established the week of May 4-10 as Michigan Wildflower Week. By drawing attention to wildflowers every year there will be a greater awareness of their variety and fragility. Several groups will be able to do tail activities and hikes to woodland habitats to coincide with Michigan Wildflower Week. This proclamation by the Governor would not have been possible without the efforts of the Michigan Wildflower Association and the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, as well as other environmental groups around the state.

In spring, woodland wildflowers are blooming, but in summer the meadow wildflowers are at their peak. These wildflowers are just as spectacular as those blooming during Michigan Wildflower Week. Fortunately the state is still working to enhance our awareness of summer wildflowers. Along the major roads and expressways throughout the state, special designated medians are being planted in native prairie wildflowers.

with a yellow daisy on it, that is the area where wildflowers are being planted after the soil has been properly prepared. Some areas have been burned in order to prepare the soil for wildflowers that grew there before aggressive alien species invaded the area.

This is a way to re-establish meadow areas lost to development. Since our expressways take up so much land, why not maintain them as natural meadows of wildflowers. The reason people do not see as many butterflies these days compared to years ago, is that there are no fields and meadows for them to feed in.

A six-year census of breeding birds in Michigan indicated that meadow nesting species like the Henslow's sparrow is declining due to lack of available habitat.

If the state would mow only near the edge of the road to provide safe viewing for drivers, and leave the rest grow wild with flowers, there would be more wildlife. It would save the state money if they only had to mow the entire roadside, as they do now, once every three or four years (so woody shrubs did not take over the area). Reviewing traditional methods, such as roadside mowing, could provide benefits to the people of the state, as well as, the wildlife.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence Oaks County Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

Livonia walks set to begin

Wildflower walks begin Saturday, April 18 at Livonia Bicentennial Park.

The free walks are sponsored by the Schoolcraft College Biology Department. They continue through Sunday, May 31.

About 45 minutes long, the half-mile walks detail more than 35 species of wildflowers. Flowers are expected to be at their peak of beauty and color during the spring.

Walks are open to individuals or groups. Reservations can be made by calling Schoolcraft biology professor emeritus Roger Sutherland, 668-8568.

Yack off base on Wal Mart

To the editor:
It is beyond my comprehension how a competent Canton Township supervisor could have such a one-sided, bias opinion of a company he clearly, knows nothing about. I am referring to Tom Yack's attack on Wal Mart in the March 23 Canton Observer.

Speaking as a resident who does not "happen to hold an elected position," it is more than clear to me that Mr. Yack has had no experience with Wal Mart rather than "minimal experience" as he stated.

I lived within 150 miles of Bentonville, Arkansas, for 38 years and grew up with Wal Mart and you could not find a more family-run business.

Meijer built a pedestrian bridge over a creek to service senior citizens so they can walk to a store and spend their Social Security checks. Wal Mart employs senior citizens so they can supplement their Social Security checks. How is that for a company "that reaches out in a humanitarian way to those folks who are less able to participate in shopping activities"?

Several years ago in Tulsa, Oklahoma, a Wal Mart corporate jet sat on stand-by at Tulsa International Airport for several weeks while a local child awaited a kidney transplant. When a donor was found the child and his family were flown to Denver to receive the donor kidney. Is that what Mr. Yack considers "doing very little for the aesthetics of the community"?

It seems a strange coincidence when Wal Mart announced their intention to come to Canton it caused Meijer to "rethink the way we do business."

If Tom Yack would step out of Hank Meijer Jr.'s shadow, his observations of a family run business would change. Wal Mart has a company policy to stock and sell made in the USA products first.

I say Canton should welcome Wal Mart with open arms. Who knows Tom, you could get a free trip to Arkansas.

band was seriously ill. The medics, police and ambulance arrived with amazing speed. I cannot praise these kind, wonderful people enough. How lucky we Plymouth folks are to have such wonderful service and dedication.

Sadly, I lost Leonard on Feb. 26 but my family and I wish to thank all our friends who have given us such great support with phone calls, cards, visits and gifts. We are deeply grateful and shall never forget you.

An alarming trend in Canton

To the editor:
Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack's attempt at a $10 million community center reveals an alarming trend in Canton.

Yack has absolutely no respect for the people of Canton. A 1988 60 percent landslide vote against a community center means: We do not want a $10 million community center. The message taxpayers sent in 1988 was, if a recreation building is needed, let private sources do so.

Canton Township should not be in the recreation business to satisfy Yack's $10 million ego.

Stay away from traps in Plymouth

To the editor:
"They're after bucks, not justice."

Thank you for your article of March 2, 1992. I thought it was just me and my poor driving.

I have lived in Livonia for 27 years and owned and operated a small equipment shop in southwest Detroit. This alone was a 54 mile round trip every day besides the driving I did for my business every day.

Several years ago I had a chance to change my job from Detroit to Plymouth area. This was great. I would now drive only 16 miles round trip from home to work. Since then I have received several tickets. These were in speed traps on N. Territorial Road one for 5 and one for 7 over the speed limit. This doesn't sound like much, but the first ticket was in the amount of $60 and the second one $85. They know it would be very costly to try to fight these misdemeanors.

This year our company went out of business and I lost my job. I now work in Livonia and may the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce know I will go out of my way before I would go through or shop in Plymouth because of these senseless traffic tickets.

Yack, paper unfair to Wal-Mart

To the editor:
I was very upset by your article in the March 23, 1992, edition of the Observer, "Wal-Mart looks for site in Canton."

I am a 2 1/2 year resident of Canton and a housewife.

I have no special interest in Wal-Mart or Meijer.

What I do take an interest in is our elected officials being fair and working in the best interests of the residents of Canton.

Your article was so upsetting to me that I had to write and remind your newspaper that it should also be fair.

Wal-Mart should have a chance to express their opinions on Tom Yack's biased statements.

I would be very interested in knowing who Tom Yack works for, Meijer or the Canton residents?

Doesn't he realize that:
1. Competition in businesses brings lower prices to consumers?

2. Meijer built the bridge over the creek because it would bring in senior citizen dollars, not for humanitarian reasons. (Let's be realistic here. Meijer is a business, therefore it knows what to do to bring in the most dollars.)

3. As far as Meijer being so family orientated, maybe to his family. What about all the family employees that have to work on Christmas and other holidays?

Tom Yack admitted his knowledge about Wal-Mart was very minimal, so how can he make a fair judgment as to whether they would be good for Canton residents?

He is welcome as a resident to put out a "Not Welcome Sign" to Wal-Mart, but should not sign it "Residents of Canton."

Has he talked to some of the residents to see how they feel about Wal-Mart? I doubt it.

Tom Yack has the right to say anything he wants as a citizen and resident of Canton, but he should remember who he represents, "The residents of Canton."

He also stated in his speech that he had visited Meijer headquarters. Did he also try to visit Wal-Mart headquarters, so that he could be fair and knowledgeable in his statements?

I personally think his statements made him look very ill-informed and biased.

If it takes a fourth discounter in Canton to lower prices for the residents, then I think that's what Tom Yack should be talking about — that competition can bring lower prices for consumers.

I can only ask Tom Yack again, do you work for the good of Canton residents or Meijer.

His statements made him sound like the public relations rep. for Meijer Corporation.

I can only hope that Wal-Mart understands that Tom Yack does not speak for all the residents of Canton.

In closing, I can only ask that your newspaper gives equal space to Wal-Mart Corporation, so that we as consumers can see the whole picture. And that their comments be on the front page also.

Band parent calls column irresponsible

To the editor:
I have to respond to your editorial of March 23 regarding who should and who shouldn't wear school letter jackets.

I'm astonished by your irresponsible remarks of who you feel is deserving of such an honor.

Any student who brings honor to their school by their participation in an activity regardless of whether it's athletic or not is a credit to their school and to their community.

Your attempt to deny members of high school marching bands their "deserved" right to wear a letter jacket is deplorable and just demonstrates your total ignorance of what it takes to be a winner.

As described in the new Webster dictionary of the English language, a winner is defined as a champion or victor. This may come as a surprise to you but not all champions and victors are athletes.

There are many situations where one can be victorious without wearing a football uniform. Please don't misunderstand, I do not downplay the very important role the athlete plays in our school system. They certainly bring all of us much pride and pleasure.

All I'm suggesting is you open your mind and your eyes and perhaps you will grow up a little and show respect for all kids who represent their school in a positive way. As an adult it is hard for me to believe another adult who has the potential of reaching out to so many people as you have, would deliberately want to divide students and play muscle against brain games.

As to your remarks about the amount of effort involved to be an athlete and how they push themselves to the limit of physical endurance, the same holds true for kids in the Plymouth Canton Marching Band. They work out "everyday" for hours on end in all kinds of weather, under all kinds of conditions including physical trauma to knees, legs, ankles, wrists, elbows, backs, etc.

Even with all the time spent practicing and competing the vast majority are on the honor roll during the band season. They are always there every Friday night to perform at half time during football season and a pep band always stays 'til the end of the game to support our football teams. Band boosters fill the stands and cheer on and give their support to our athletes on the field.

Let's show pride in all our kids who make the effort to perform to their best abilities, and lets honor all those who do with a letter jacket, not just a select group, who some never leave the bench. Remember the Plymouth Canton Marching Band has brought honor and recognition to not only their school, but to their community and state, but above all to themselves.

Foundation lends hand to seniors

To the editor:
How do you spell friend? I spell it Canton Community Foundation.

I have the privilege of being the resident manager of Canton Place Senior high rise at Ford and Sheldon. Canton Place is subsidized housing for low income senior citizens. We are owned and operated by National Church Residences which was founded in 1961 and owns 26 similar complexes in 20 states and Puerto Rico. The organization is dedicated to providing a well balanced lifestyle for residents through caring, encouraging and providing for each need.

In January I was looking for funds to give a much needed facelift to the hallways on the 2nd and 8th floors. I only made mention over a cup of coffee at the Ford Road Big Boy to Bill Joyner, executive director of the Canton Community Foundation, and before I left I had $250 toward my goal.

With community service and my own resident and maintenance man, George Simons, the 2nd and 3rd floors received a beautiful coat of paint and now look wonderful. I'm waiting for the remaining money to be found to finish the other five floors so each resident can feel uplifted when walking down their hallways but I'm very grateful to Bill and the Foundation for seeing a need and not waiting to be asked for help but providing without hesitation. I want everyone to know the good that this group of dedicated people do.

If anyone has the opportunity to help this group provide for the many needs in and around our community, I'm sure they would welcome your ideas, contributions or services.

Hat's off to Joyner and the Canton Community Foundation.
On behalf of the residents,

Ginnie Hauck, Manager

Protest greets car dealer's weekend hours

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

A picket has been charged with tossing a rock through a showroom window at Glassman Oldsmobile in Southfield Saturday during a protest against the dealership's Saturday openings. Also, some cars were damaged by tossed gravel.

By Alice Collins
staff writer

An angry George Glassman called attempts by pickets to stop him from opening his GlassOldsmobile dealership on Saturdays "frustrating and ludicrous."

Up to 275 protesters picketed Glassman Oldsmobile, Telegraph south of 12 Mile, Saturday. One was charged with hurling a rock through the dealership's showroom window. Some cars parked at the business were damaged by gravel thrown at them, according to Southfield police.

The protest is part of a long-standing movement by dealership employees to keep car showrooms in the Detroit metropolitan area closed on weekends. That movement has been generally successful for more than two decades.

Saturday's protest follows the Saturday openings of some area dealerships.

"I'm sure they're watching to see if I open again next Saturday," Glassman said in an interview Tuesday. "I haven't really made up my mind yet."

Estimates are that about 25 percent of the dealers in the Detroit area have been opening on Saturdays. Glassman isn't the only one in Southfield's Tel-Twelve car market that has been opening, but some dealers refused to say whether they were opening for fear of attracting the pickets to their businesses.

FORREST SCOTT, general sales manager for the Tamaroff dealerships at Tel-Twelve, said "we have not made a decision regarding staying open on Saturdays. But we do open five or six times a year on Saturdays for private sales. We advertise by direct mail and offer special incentives for the customers and our salespeople. We try to create a balance between our employee's and their family's needs and the customer's needs."

Tamaroff, which sells Buicks, Hondas, Isuzus, Yugos, Nissans and Dodges does have its service department open on Saturdays, he said.

Glassman condemned last Saturday's violence. "I don't understand the mentality of people trying to prevent me from providing a service to my customers. I'm sick and tired of this whole thing. I'm simply trying to run a business as effectively as possible.

"People have the right to picket peacefully, but not to damage other people's property or to harass them and interfere with their business," he added.

The picketing began peacefully, according to police. "When officers checked at 10:25 a.m. there were about 30 pickets in front of the dealership," police spokesman Michael Cischke said. "A contact there told us they were all from area dealerships and their intention was to remain peaceful."

"More pickets showed up and by 12:30 it had become unruly and one of them threw a rock through the window."

Jerzy Jablonski, 37, of Sterling Heights was apprehended and arraigned Sunday in 46th District Court on a charge of malicious destruction of property valued at over $100. A not guilty plea was entered for him and he was released under $10,000 personal bond.

Canton's Marc Pennebaker dives back to the tag Monday. The Chiefs lost the WLAA game, however.

Salem starts 1992 with 16-3 triumph

The Plymouth Salem baseball team started the 1992 season the way it ended 1991 — with a bang.

The Rocks, who are defending Class A state champions, routed Farmington 16-3 Monday in a Western Lakes Activities Association game played at Salem.

The Rocks, who had 10 hits, erupted for 10 runs in the third inning to support the combined five-hit pitching of starter Chris Tomas and relievers Eric Kida and Chip Wadowski.

Ed Gundry's two-run home run in the first inning gave the Rocks a 2-0 lead. He was 2-for-3 at the plate with three RBI and three runs scored.

Kurt Singleton also went 2-for-3 with a solo homer in the fourth that gave Salem a 13-2 lead.

Dan Hutchinson added two hits, including a double, and two RBI, while Kida cleared the bases in the fifth with a double.

baseball

☐ Holmes has no-hitter, 2B

Tomas allowed two Farmington runs over the first four innings as he scattered four hits, struck out five and walked two. Kida gave up one hit while working the fifth and sixth innings, and Wadowski pitched one inning of hitless relief.

HARRISON 2, CANTON 1: Senior Mike Pesci tossed a three-hitter, struck out nine and also played a key role with the bat Monday as host Farmington Hills Harrison stayed undefeated in three games.

Pesci delivered an RBI single in the first inning to score Dan Hight, and he also started the rally in the sixth inning that broke a 1-1 tie.

Pesci singled to start the sixth and stole second base. Keye Smith, inserted as a pinch runner for Pesci, stole third and then came home for the winning run on Tom Donagrandi's two-out single.

Harrison collected seven hits as Pesci and Donagrandi led the way with two each.

Canton's only run came in the third inning. Mark Shankowski began with a walk and was sacrificed to second base by Brad Paskievitch. After a Canton batter fanned, Ben Hendricks singled to score Shankowski from second base and tie the score at 1-1.

Mark Temple pitched a two-hitter and also delivered a two-run double Monday to lead host North Farmington to a 12-2 win over Livonia Stevenson. The game was called after five innings because of the mercy rule.

Madonna bats cold in rain-shortened loss

It was scheduled as a doubleheader, but the trip Madonna University's baseball team took to Wayne State Tuesday was both shorter and unproductive.

The Fighting Crusaders managed just two hits against the Tartars and left runners in scoring position in the fourth and fifth innings in a rain-shortened, 1-0 loss. The defeat left Madonna at 16-4 overall; WSU is 6-17.

Showers caused the game to be called in the middle of the fourth inning. The second game was cancelled.

Mike Coleman (now 1-1) absorbed the defeat. He gave up four hits and three walks in four innings, striking out two. Bill Bellman got the win, tossing three hitless, walkless innings. He struck out three.

Madonna's first hit was a lead-off double by Jeff Pendell in the fourth.

Pendell reached third with no one out after Jeremy Krol walked; both moved up a base on a wild pitch. But the next three Crusaders struck out.

Madonna loaded the bases with two out in the fifth, with Joe Brusseau getting the Crusaders' second hit, but Krol fanned to end the threat.

ON MONDAY, Madonna split a doubleheader with NAIA District 23 foe Siena Heights, losing the opener 7-3 in 11 innings but winning the finale 5-1 at Redford's Capitol Park.

Jeff Kugelmann hurled a five-hitter in the second game to improve his record to 3-0. Kugelmann walked three and struck out seven. Bill McCaig was the loser, giving up just three hits but walking three and hitting two batters. He struck out five.

Four of Madonna's runs scored in the opening inning on a two-run double by Sean Maloney and a two-run single by Bill Terski. Rich Blomberg accounted for the fifth run with a solo home run in the sixth.

In the 7-3 opening loss, the Crusaders stranded 16 baserunners and it cost them. They had the bases loaded in the fourth, fifth and eighth innings, and had two runners aboard in the first and seventh frames. The net result from all that — one run, in the fourth.

BRUSSEAU'S SOLO homer in the sixth forged a 3-3 tie and led to extra innings. In the eighth, Madonna had the bases full with one out and Maloney at the plate. Coach Mike George called for a squeeze bunt, but Maloney popped it up, leading to an inning-ending double play.

The Saints struck for four runs in the 11th after two were out, aided by

Canton trounces Western

Plymouth Canton made its dual-meet debut in girls track Tuesday with an 84-44 trouncing of host Walled Lake Western.

The Chiefs, defending Western Lakes Activities Association champs, swept first place in the field event and hurdles, split the relays and picked up two more victories on the track.

Canton's Selena Bastine won the shot put and discus with respective throws of 29-6 1/2 and 105-8.

Defending WLAA champs Stephanie Gray and Heather Pastor won their respective special events — the high jump and long jump — at 5-1 and 15-0.

Karina Kilpelainen won both hurdles races, running the high hurdles in 16.6 and intermediates in 50.7.

Canton's Christie Saffron won the 400 dash (1:07) and Kim Gudeth the 800 run (2:40) and also contributed to the victory in the 3,200 relay.

SAFFRON, JENNIFER Warnke, Gudeth and Lana Boroditsch ran the latter event in 10:28.5. Alicia King, Shawn Champlin, Alison Haremski and Kilpelainen comprised the winning 800 relay team. The Chiefs posted a 2:01.2 time in that race.

The Canton boys team was not as successful in its season opener Tuesday, losing 94-34 to visiting Walled Lake Western.

"It was a real eye-opener for a lot of our kids," Canton coach Bob Richardson said. "It was the most well-balanced Western team I've seen in years. We knew they would be good in the distances because of their cross country team, but they surprised us in the sprints."

Canton fared well in the throwing events with Tom Raven winning the shot put (42-7 1/4) and discus (120-8). Freshman Jon Gallinger was second in the discus (103-2) as was Damon Collier in the long jump (19-5).

The Chiefs took their only other victory in the 400 dash with Craig Miller running 53.2.

Canton got additional seconds from Neil Haremski in the intermediate hurdles (44.3), Dave Wasbenko, 400 dash (54.5); Brett Kearney, 800 run (2:07); and Dave Yack, 3,200 run (10:48.9).

Salem rocks Harrison in WLAA soccer game

Plymouth Salem whipped Farmington Hills Harrison 13-0 in girls soccer Monday and remained unbeaten with a 3-0-1 record.

Kelly Lukasik, Erin Bagozzi, Caryn Tatterton, Jenny Bazzarelli and Mandy Drummond scored two goals apiece for the Rocks.

Salem nipped host Troy 2-1 on Saturday as Kris Goff scored one goal and had one assist.

Tatterton got the other goal, and Jenny Emmett played a great game in goal for the Rocks, according to coach Ken Johnson.

Plymouth Canton won its third Western Lakes Activities Association game without a loss Monday, 2-0 over host Livonia Franklin.

Mandy Salin and Amy Tortora scored the Canton goals, and Britta Anderson and Danielle Meyka received credit for assists.

Following a pair of non-league games Saturday — Salem plays at Troy Athens and the Chiefs will be host to Midland Dow — the Centennial Educational Park teams meet each other at 7 p.m. Monday.

Gladiators welcome doctor's help

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

You've seen them on TV — The American Gladiators, who smash, pound and dominate the amateur athletes who oppose them on the Sunday morning program.

But, though they are the epitome of physical conditioning and make it look so easy as they subdue all who dare challenge them, the Gladiators can't do it all by themselves.

Sometimes they need a little help, and Farmington chiropractor Dr. Brian Nocella was there to give it Sunday when the Gladiators made a tour stop in Detroit.

Nocella volunteered to straighten out the Gladiators when they visited Joe Louis Arena during their nine-month, cross-country trek in which they face qualified local challengers in each city.

"They're specially trained athletes, they needed care and I was willing to do it," said Nocella, who arrived at JLA around noon to set up his table and tend to the Gladiators before the 2 p.m. start.

"YOU ALWAYS want to take care of someone famous. Not that they're tremendously famous, but it was a chance to meet someone who has a different profession and needed care."

The Gladiators have a trainer who travels with them, but the skills of a chiropractor are not regularly available.

Nocella, a Red Wings season ticket holder, learned of the Gladiators' Detroit appearance when he received a flier in the mail and saw an opportunity to get involved.

He called Los Angeles where the Gladiators are based and do most of their filming and finally located the group in Idaho.

"One of the Gladiators heard the road manager talking to me on the phone and said 'Yes, we want this guy,'" said Nocella, a practicing chiropractor for seven years with an office on Grand River.

"They were thrilled that I was there for them. When I told them of all the red tape I went through, they were even more thrilled. I would jump at the chance again, because I had so much fun."

Case histories of the Gladiators were faxed beforehand to Nocella, who knew what type of care each one needed when he arrived Sunday.

"I JUST DIDN'T know how big they are," he said. "They were much easier to adjust because they're so well defined. There's no fat on them. When I checked for a muscle group attached to the spine, it was right there."

"They know the value of chiropractic care, because they're so in tune with their bodies. It's like doing a tune-up on a car. Afterward, you have everything working and firing great, and it allows the body to work 100 percent."

JOHN STORMZAND/staff photographer

Steve Henneberry, better known as Tower of America, gets some help from chiropractor the American Gladiators and a former Mr. Brian Nocella before going into action.

Nocella, who made his services available to the Gladiators before and after the competition, sat on the players' bench and watched in the meantime. But occasionally he was needed during the event, especially after the powerball segment.

"Every now and then I got a tap on the shoulder, and one of them would say 'I'm ready,'" Nocella said. "The difference (between the Gladiators and his regular patients) is they have other people trying to inflict damage on them. You're body reacts to it, and it's kinda nice to get put back in line."

Nocella said he was quickly accepted and made to feel welcome by the Gladiators, who were not as friendly toward the challengers.

"One of the competitors entered the room, and one of the Gladiators asked 'What are you doing here?' You're not supposed to be here. Get out of here," Nocella said. "They're a close-knit group, and I don't think they wanted anybody to come in their circle."

Nocella has worked with athletes in his regular practice — "everything from power lifters to marathon runners" — and treating the Gladiators was no different from what he does to help his every-day patients.

"IN MY PRACTICE, I have large people, too," he said. "There's no difference because of a person's physical stature. It's all technique and how you move it."

Nocella worked on eight of the 10 Gladiators (three women and five men), but one of the women, Sky, was reluctant at first.

"She didn't want to get adjusted, because she said 'I'll feel too good, and I always want to have a bit of an edge for the competition.' But then she did and said 'Oh, great, now I feel like going home and resting.'"

When he was done, Nocella received a T-shirt signed by all the Gladiators and hugs from three of the women — Ice, Diamond and Sky — who didn't put too big a squeeze on the good doctor.

"They're very feminine but when it comes down to business they're there; they're pros," Nocella said.

And so it was the Gladiators were able to do their job more effectively with a little help from Nocella's skilled hands.

Nocella preps Diamond for the competition.

Arnold Schwarzenegger will be at Detroit's Joe Louis Arena 10 a.m. Monday to "Pump You Up."

Are you ready? Schwarzenegger, who is chairman of the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, and myself are meeting with Michigan Gov. John Engler to discuss this state's involvement and support for better youth fitness in the future. Arnold and I want to make an impact in this state.

- Our goals:
- We want physical education classes in all schools K-through-12 on a daily basis.
 - We want to develop greater parental involvement and support for youth recreations, not only sports.
 - We want to establish innovative community fitness programs.
 - We want to highlight the President's Challenge Awards Program that recognize students and their schools for fitness.
 - We want to heighten the awareness of the benefit of good physical fitness and change the unhealthy habits of children.

At our ummit — a meeting of heads of boards of education and leading physical educators in our state— we hope to achieve these goals.

Following our summit, Schwarzenegger, Engler and I will be going over to Joe Louis Arena for a press conference.

Now for the fun part. The "Arnold Schwarzenegger Youth Fitness Rally" will be produced, directed, choreographed and performed by The Workout Company Exercise Studio.

The show will feature all The Workout Company instructors including all their national and local award winners. Some of the local youth talent will be the Cass Tech Performing Arts, Super Kids Karate Kids, Annette and Company Tap Dancers, gymnasts, Young Aerobic Kids, Mr. Michigan and, of course, Schwarzenegger. He will add to the dazzling show by working out the audience and by delivering a speech.

The youth are the future productivity of our country. Schwarzenegger's message is vital to our growth.

The Youth Fitness Rally should be an extraordinary experience.

By the way, free rally tickets will be available at The Workout Company studios. Just come in and pick them up. The Workout Company is located at the southwest corner of Telegraph at Maple. The phone number is 855-1033.

(Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company and a member of the President's Council of Physical Fitness, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Please send your questions to Sports Department, Myrna Partrich, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, 48009.)

Marlins run past rival Blazers

All-Area runner Dawn DiPonio won two races and helped Farmington Hills Mercy win a pair of relays Tuesday as the Marlins began their dual-meet track season with an 87-51 victory over visiting Livonia Ladywood.

DiPonio was first in the 200-meter dash and 400 run with respective times of 28.7 and 1:05.9.

She also anchored the winning 3,200 relay squad, which included Nicole Pryor, Kathy Cook and Nicole Mills. The Mercy quartet finished in 10:59.

DiPonio was the leadoff person on the 1,600 relay, which took first place with a 4:43.1 time. Kristin Lewis, Cook and Pryor took the baton after DiPonio.

Mercy's Heather Noll also was a double winner with firsts in the 1,600 and 3,200 runs. She ran the shorter race in 5:45 and the latter in 12:22.6. Lewis had an individual victory in the 100 dash at 13.7, and Amy Freund won the 800 run with a 2:41 finish.

The Marlins also won three of the four field events. Renee Arceno threw the shot put 31-1½, Tease Coppurue hurled the discus 75-11 and Stephanie Johnson reached a distance of 12-9 in the long jump.

Mercy's next dual meet is Tuesday at home.

Benefit dinner PSO to wrap up season, looks at moving concerts □ Symphony cellist profiled, 1D

Editor's note: The performing arts aren't immune from the fallout of a depressed economy and the planned closing of a major auto assembly plant like Willow Run in Ypsilanti. Rising costs have forced the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra to consider holding its concerts in another city.

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

A bleak economy, coupled with scheduling difficulties and rising auditorium rental costs at Plymouth Salem High School, could force the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra to move its concerts to Novi next year.

The orchestra is wrapping up its 46th season with a benefit dinner concert — "A Night at the Movies," Friday, April 10, and Saturday, April 11, at the Fox Hills Country Club, 8768 N. Territorial Road, Plymouth.

Doors open at 6 p.m., with dinner served at 6:30 p.m. and the concert starting at 8 p.m. Tickets for the dinner and concert are $40, students in kindergarten through grade 12, $25. Tickets for concert only are $25, students, $10. To charge tickets, call 453-2715.

GUEST ARTISTS are "Measure for Measure" an Ann Arbor-based men's chorus directed by Leonard Riccinto.

"It's a fun, entertaining program, but it also is a program that gives the audience a chance to come out and support the orchestra," said Russell Reed, conductor.

The pops concert is usually the most popular program of the season. Last year's single-night dinner concert raised $3,000.

"We hope to raise $5,000 this year," Reed said. "The fees for using the auditorium may double next year, and if that's the case, we'll be spending $10,000 to $11,000 on the hall alone."

Last year's operating budget was $86,000. The projected budget for the 1992-93 season is $99,000.

Two years ago, rental fees for an entire season at Plymouth Salem High School's auditorium totaled $1,280. This season's fees were $5,400.

Richard Egli, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' administrative assistant for community relations, said he didn't know if auditorium rental costs will be increased next year, but added the schools couldn't afford to operate any longer at a loss.

"A SINGLE concert costs $15,000, and upwards to produce. 'The Nutcracker' runs $22,000 because you have to pay the ballet company," said Keyo Morris, Plymouth Symphony Society administrative director.

"The schools have said they're in a financial bind. We understand that. All we're asking for is that the school district give us dates far enough in advance to get out our season brochure."

Since the orchestra's administrative arm, the Plymouth Symphony Society, aims to increase revenue through the sale of the 1992-93 season tickets, it is imperative to mail out the brochure early, said Morris.

"We are being forced to look at Novi because we aren't able to get the school district to give us these dates far enough in advance."

As far as confirming dates for next year's concerts, Egli said the schools would have firm dates for the Plymouth Symphony by April 15. Next year, they're aiming to have dates by March 1.

While he understands the orchestra's position, Egli said, "our dressing rooms are used by our swim teams. Until the swim team's schedule is set, dates cannot be confirmed because school dressing rooms are to be used by swim teams first."

WHEN TOLD the PSO was consid-

The men's chorus, Measure for Measure, will be featured with the Plymouth Symphony in "Music from the Movies" a benefit pops concert 8 p.m. Friday, April 10, and Saturday, April 11, at the Fox Hills Country Club's Golden Fox.

ering other concert sites in Novi, Egli said "We think they're really part of Plymouth, and we'd hate to see them go, but if financial considerations force them to move to Novi, so be it."

This season, the orchestra presented seven programs, a total of 10 performances. Reed said while individual support was up, the orchestra plans to expand its appeal not only to Plymouth and Canton, but other surrounding communities as well.

"AND OF course, with the pops, we hope to widen our audience base," Reed said.

The pops promises an evening of music from "My Fair Lady," "Porgy and Bess," "Fiddler on the Roof," "An American in Paris" and "On the Mall."

"It will be a very entertaining evening. The music is all recognizable. The facility is beautiful and there's a very good chef at the Golden Fox. It's really not expensive for a night out," said Morris.

"When the economy is down, it always results in financial cuts to the arts, but music and the arts are essential to the culture and humanizing of society," Reed said.

Concert tickets are also available at Beitner Jewelry, 904 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Evola Music, 215 W. Ann Arbor Road, in Plymouth; Dearborn Music Co., 42679 Ford Road, Canton; Gitfiddler, 302 E. Main, and Book-stall on the Main, 116 E. Main, Northville.

The benefit pops concert is sponsored in part by the Ford Sheldon Road plant, Fox Hills Country Club, Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs and the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Local students play roles in 'Amadeus'

"Amadeus" the 1984 Tony Award-winning "Best Play of the Year," by Peter Shaffer, will be presented at Eastern Michigan University, April 9-12 and 16-18 in the Quirk Theatre on campus.

In "Amadeus," Shaffer tells the story of rivalry in the court of Joseph II, Emperor of Austria, between his court composer, Antonio Salieri, and Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

History tells us that Salieri was, apparently, envious of Mozart and bore him ill will; whether or not Salieri did poison Mozart in jealousy will never be known. Mozart was a genius and child prodigy; he was not, however, a very pleasant man.

Erik Anderson of Southfield portrays Count Orsini-Rosenberg. Alan Burk of Farmington Hills is Giuseppe Bono and Melanie J. Peters of Livonia plays Salieri's pupil, Katherina Cavalieri.

Tickets $4 for the Thursday, April 9 and 16, performances. Tickets $8 for Friday, April 10 and 17, and Saturday April 11 and 18, shows; all of which begin at 8 p.m. Tickets $7 for the 2:30 p.m. Sunday, April 12 matinee. EMU students receive a $2 discount off Friday, Saturday and Sunday admission prices. Call (313) 487-1221. Monday through Friday, 1-5:30 p.m. for tickets.

Metropolitan Symphony Band to perform

Henry Ford Community College presents "A Symphony Celebration" featuring the college's 95-member Metropolitan Symphony Band 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 14.

The band will perform a variety of classical music selections, including "Sun Coast Festive March," "Chester Overture," "Prelude in Fugue in g minor" by Bach and "Stars and Stripes Forever" by Sousa.

Western Wayne County symphony band members are: Dawn Andrus, Michelle Aimone and Todd Szali of Westland; Jim Critchton of Redford; and Joe Diponio of Plymouth.

Another concert 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 28, features outstanding applied music students performing individually, and in groups. The music will range from Bach to Chopin to Charlie Parker.

Concerts will be in the Adray Auditorium of the MacKenzie Fine Arts Center on campus at 5101 Evergreen, Dearborn. There is no admission charge, the public is welcome.

'Private Lives'

Funny cast, dreamy set in show at Meadow Brook

Performances of the Meadow Brook Theatre production of "Private Lives" continue through April 12 on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills. For ticket information, call the box office at 377-3300.

Mary Jane Doerr

Shilly-shallying around is a great way to describe Meadow Brook Theatre's show "Private Lives," a 1930 sardonic comedy about the lives of jet setters in the days before there were jets.

Noel Coward's English comedy is a replay of the Restoration comedy with some twists. A divorced couple meet on the balcony of their hotel rooms where they are honeymooning on their second marriages, a perfect scenario for Meadow Brook's cast to expound Coward's endless wit in elegant and shimmering costumes, and a dreamy set.

A woman who runs off with her first husband while honeymooning with her second is not the kind of woman we admire. Sherry Skinker is the irascible Amanda and so natural and likeable, the artificial mask-like nature that typifies Coward's characters, melts away like chocolate with every believable, funny line she delivers.

ON DESIGNER Peter Hick's exquisite hotel balcony, when she is kissing her ex-husband while her husband is getting dressed for dinner, Skinker turns her head in an Art Deco-like fashion, lowers her voice, and says "What now?"

The answer to that question is why the play is so funny. In a moment of madness, she and lover Elyot take off for her Paris flat, leaving the spouses, waiting at the balustrade. Karen Sheridan as the French maid Louise summed it all up in beautiful French "Les idiots."

As ex-husband Elyot Chase, Carl Schurr's performance pales beside Skinker as his same color dressing gown finely blends with the second act curtains, setting off Skinker's purple romper suit. He plays the piano beautifully. Skinker does a great Charleston.

The entire show is a perfect coordination of sets, costumes with classical balance and symmetry. In the first act, two matching French doors fill the stone archway with red circles and lines. The second act is an artistic display of pinks and soft blues, more dramatic than Hick's surrealistic "Cobb" set.

DIRECTOR TERENCE Kilburn allows Schurr and Skinker to bat

their lines back and forth like a baseball, but he artfully follows the classical balance of the set design and the symmetrical parallels in the play, to form scenes so beautifully laid out, each forms a picture of its own.

Leslie Lynn Meeker, the 23 year old Sibyl Chase, is dowdily dressed in pinks and blues, ribbons and bows, and a "marcel" wig. Her partner in despair, Victor Pryne, is strongly portrayed by Wil Love.

When the two find their unfaithful spouses hiding out in Paris, in the middle of a knockdown fight, each is ready to take the wayward partner back.

But as the four sit down to a cozy little breakfast together, Elyot and Amanda get a replay of themselves and quietly exit for what some think is a happy ending. Victor and Sibyl have fallen in love. They are fighting.

Pontiac-Oakland Symphony features soprano

Nationally known soprano Patricia Dell'Ortone will be the featured guest artist at Pontiac-Oakland Symphony's final season concert 8 p.m. Saturday, April 11, at the Oakland Community College Highland Lakes campus in Union Lake.

Dell'Ortone, a Pontiac native, made her operatic debut with the Michigan Opera Theatre as Gnanetta in Donizetti's L'Elisir D'Amore, and has since sung the roles of Pamina, Susanna, Micaela, Musetta, Oscar, the Dew Fairy/Sandman, and others with such regional companies as Boston Lyric Opera, Opera Company of Boston, and Brookline Lyric Opera.

On Saturday, she will perform works by Samuel Barber and Spanish composer Joaquin Rodrigo.

Also on the program, the POS will complete its season with Charles Ives' Symphony No. 2 to conclude the performance.

The orchestra, led by conductor David Daniels of the Oakland University Department of Music, Theatre and Dance, is comprised of OU students, community and professional musicians.

Tickets may be purchased in advance by calling 334-6024. General admission is $9, student and seniors, $5. Highland Lakes campus is at 7350 Cooley Lake Road, near Hospital Road in Union Lake.

Artist is always on lookout for subjects

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

You could say Richard Jerzy is someone who doesn't mind taking his work home with him.

Indeed, much of his work starts from his large, historic home in Indian Village in Detroit.

Jerzy paints colorful scenes from where he lives — a lush garden, a comfortable room. More than 40 of these oil paintings and watercolors are exhibited through April 29 at the Rubiner Gallery, 7001 Orchard Lake Road, Suite 430A, in West Bloomfield.

"It's just like a big still life, living in a big still life," Jerzy said.

"Everything is live. Everything is done (on) sight," said the gallery's

'It's just like a big still life, living in a big still life... I'm always looking around.'

— artist Richard Jerzy

ally incredible painter. He can paint anything."

THE GRAND house where Jerzy lives and works contains many rooms filled with art and antiques he has collected. He continually rearranges the objects to create new scenes for his paintings.

"I'm always looking around," he said.

Jerzy's scenes are full of life. The gardens are bursting with blooms. The rooms look inviting and lived in, with such detail as a patterned rug or pictures on the walls. And people figure into some of Jerzy's art as well.

Jerzy studied at the Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts, which became the Center for Creative Studies.

Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday or by appointment. Call 626-3111.

Senate fixes single business tax mix up

The Michigan Senate recently passed a bill that corrects an error in the Single Business Tax Act that extended the tax year but failed to account for credits allowed during the extended period.

The bill, approved on March 24, was sponsored by state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, whose 6th District includes Plymouth and Canton.

Senate Bill 771 amends the Single Business Tax to correct a mistake made when Public Acts 255 and 256 were enacted in 1990.

Last year's acts correlated the collection and payment of the retaliatory tax and Single Business Tax by insurance companies.

One of the specific provisions was to change the tax year designation for insurers from an Oct. 1 to Sept. 31 tax year to a calendar year basis, beginning in 1991. Because 1991 was a transition year, it began Oct. 1, 1990, and ended Dec. 31, 1991.

"The legislation will bring the amount of Single Business Tax credits allowed into line with the extended transitional year," said Geake. "Unfortunately, changes made to the Single Business Tax last year inadvertently miscalculated the credits for the 15-month transitional tax year."

Current law specifies the maximum amount of disability insurance premiums an insurer can claim as a Single Business Tax credit. Unfortunately, said Geake, the amount of credit allowed for disability insurance premiums was not changed to reflect the longer tax year, making some insurers liable for a greater tax.

The new legislation increases the amount of credit for which these insurers are eligible for the longer 1991 transitional year from $130 million to $162.5 million.

The reduction in the exemption allowed for the amount gross out-of-state premiums for insurance carrier services exceed gross in-state premiums also is raised for the transitional tax year from $180 million to $225 million.

"Those insurance companies that have yet to file should take note that this important correction has been made," said Geake. "Those companies that have filed can refile to take advantage of this correction."

12 alternatives to lashing out at your kid.

The next time everyday pressures build up to the point where you feel like lashing out—STOP! And try any of these simple alternatives.

You'll feel better . . . and so will your child.

1. Take a deep breath. And another. Then remember you are the adult . . .
2. Close your eyes and imagine you're hearing what your child is about to hear.
3. Press your lips together and count to 10. Or better yet, to 20.
4. Put your child in a time-out chair. (Remember the rule: one time-out minute for each year of age.)
5. Put yourself in a time-out chair. Think about why you are angry: Is it your child, or is your child simply a convenient target for your anger?
6. Phone a friend.
7. If someone can watch the children, go outside and take a walk.
8. Take a hot bath or splash cold water on your face.
9. Hug a pillow.
10. Turn on some music. Maybe even sing along.
11. Pick up a pencil and write down as many helpful words as you can think of. Save the list.
12. Write for prevention information: National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, Box 2866L, Chicago, IL 60690.

Big shake-up means new directions for GM

Who the heck is John G. Smale? As the alleged leader of the palace coup at General Motors last week, Smale emerges from the fine print at the back of the proxy statement to become the first outside director in modern corporate history to attempt an active management role at GM.

Smale takes over the chairmanship of the executive committee from GM Chairman Robert Stempel, while GM President Lloyd E. Reuss takes a demotion and is replaced by Jack F. Smith, former vice chairman in charge of European operations — the guy Bob Eaton was working for before he went over to Chrysler to become heir-apparent to Chairman Lee.

All in all, it is the biggest shakat GM since Billy Durant lost control, so big, in fact, that the Detroit papers reportedly considered making it a headline story, instead of the story about the University of Michigan losing a basketball game.

Smale, it turns out, is the retired head of Procter & Gamble Co., the giant soap company, and one of the so-called outside directors on GM's board. Until last Monday, outside directors at GM tended to play a more or less symbolic role, making most GM management changes about as predictable as a ritual at the Vatican.

Part of this complacency has been due to the fact the GM is considered an institutional stock — one of those auto talk

avored by teachers pension funds. But even teachers can get restless, particularly in a year when mutual funds are turning over 40 percent and GM is posting losses approximating the Yugoslavian national debt.

It could be argued that this kind of palace revolt is about 10 years overdue. After all, GM already has spent the money to rebuild its North American plants — the $60 billion or so that this cost the company being the main reason they are losing so much money today. What seems to be missing is sufficiently large numbers of popular cars to keep the plants operating, the result of a moribund new-car development program that never quite seems to gain much momentum.

Just exactly what it would take to put the complex North American car operation back on its feet makes for a lot of second-guessing. My personal pet theory is that centralized car development, as currently practiced at GM, is a dismal failure, while the current success of Cadillac — arguably the most independent GM division today — is the model to imitate.

Staff operations (my favorite is the staff that supervises GM signs and stationary) seem awfully top-heavy, while a real marketing program that includes follow up after the sale and continuing service is woefully weak.

On the other hand, reforming these faults is just about what had been anticipated, at least in some quarters, from the elevation of Robert Stempel to the chairmanship. Stempel has an enviable track record for managing complex development programs, and has a real gut feel for what good cars are all about.

Unfortunately, he inherited problems with plenty of momentum, including overcapacity, intense competition and a lingering recession. Not to mention the impatience of an aggressive board of directors.

Still, the apparently forced changes in personnel put individuals who represent the best and the brightest at GM in new positions of authority. The obvious irony is that Stempel didn't do it himself.

Network to bring teleconferencing

communications at Gordon Food Services, said much is made of the system's capabilities — two-way teleconferencing — but Gordon Food Services' primary interest in hooking up with the system was to create a double redundancy with its voice and data lines.

In the future, Zylstra said Gordon Food Services will no doubt be taking advantage of some of the other uses as well, but the prime benefit he sees is what the system does today.

Gordon Food Services, which had revenues in excess of $8 million and covers four states, is dependent on its voice and data lines for ordering. "This gives us a redundancy."

Under the old system, with all orders coming into a central headquarters, a break in the phone line means a crippled company. "That happens, and we're out of business. If you can't get the orders, well, you can play out that scenario."

Under the new system, if one phone system goes down, the company can switch to the other, he said.

Zylstra said that Gordon Food Services hasn't had a problem yet, but with so much relying on telecommunications, proactive companies are taking steps to protect themselves. "All you have to do is read the papers to see some of the problems (the phone companies) are having."

TIM DeLONG, director of communication technologies at Oakland Community College, said a fiber optic video network like this is exactly what the institution has been moving toward for the last several years.

OCC has been eyeing telecommunication applications for education for several years now, he said, adding that one of the reasons he came to OCC was because of the long-range plans the college was making. "Basically, what we've been working on for a while was to have interactive classrooms between campuses," he said. That way a teacher at one campus could teach several classes.

This would work especially well for classes that may not have enough students enrolled, he said. Instead of dropping the class, students at several different buildings could be taught by one instructor.

OCC had already begun work on a system between its Auburn Hills and Royal Oak campuses, he said, because they shared the same cable provider. "We have seven different campuses and seven different cable companies."

The logistics of working with the different cable companies could have been overcome, he said, but with the arrival of City Signal, the job has become much easier. "We've been working toward this, but City Signal kind of fell right into a our laps."

In fact, the scope of OCC's plan can now be expanded even further, he said. Now, OCC will be able to conduct interactive classes and seminars with not only other campuses, but businesses as well.

Part of OCC's role, he said, is to provide continuing education for businesses. Now that businesses are going to be tied directly into a network, OCC can conduct classes with an instructor at one campus and students in buildings throughout the area.

For example, OCC already has an agreement to provide continuing education for General Motors. An instructor in Auburn Hills will be able to instruct a group of engineers at the Tech Center in Warren.

An interactive video network will also prove useful with OCC's police and fire training programs. "We'll be able to put training right into the police and fire stations throughout the county."

George Watkins, president of Performance Resource Press, exhibits some of the materials his firm publishes for employee assistance programs.

Employers make coping, help programs available

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Employee assistance programs are holding their own — and even expanding — during some difficult economic times.

It's a good thing, too, say professionals involved in administering counseling and health-care wellness offerings.

"In times of crisis, they're really needed more than under what I call normal times," said Myron Hornyak, employee assistance coordinator at Providence Hospital in Southfield.

"It's a good investment to helping people during downsizing periods. Strengthening people left behind is one thing to be dealt with. And people going out. It works from both directions."

Employee assistance programs took off during the 1970s essentially to deal with the fallout of alcoholism in the workplace. Counseling and referral services gradually expanded to include drug abuse, then stress relating to financial, legal and family relationship problems.

More recently, services have included preventive health screening, educational seminars and fitness centers; child-care and elder-care referral programs; and outsourcing of laid-off employees.

"I THINK they're here to stay," said George Watkins, president of Performance Resource Press in Troy. "They're mainstream now. They're well integrated into the corporate community. Fifteen years ago, you didn't know how they would go."

Fewer than 10 percent of employees generally utilize assistance programs requiring counseling, administrators say. But the benefits far outweigh the costs.

"In the first three years, we saved an average $250,000 per . . . in absenteeism, tardiness, job performance . . . in seeing to it that employees got appropriate help," Hornyak said.

"The whole aspect is to keep employees healthy," said Richard Pokorwinski, administrator of a joint UAW-Ford employee assistance program at the Sheldon Road Plant in Plymouth since its inception in 1985. "If they're going to be healthy, they're going to be here to work."

"It's costing the company and UAW money for insurances. We're trying to get the employee in a better health aspect. It costs the company money if an employee is not there."

UPWARDS OF 80 percent of the 1,500 workers in the plant take part in a regular blood pressure and cholesterol screening offered as part of the program, he added.

"It's a growing, evolving need," said Steve Dougherty, marketing director for The Wellness Group of West Bloomfield. "I guess the world just seems to be going faster and there's a need for these programs."

Some larger organizations like Providence Hospital with 3,600 employees and the UAW staff employee assistance programs internally. Smaller operations contract for services.

"Below 2,000 employees, it doesn't become cost effective to hire staff," said Watkins, whose firm publishes and distributes materials used in employee assistance programs.

"Smaller companies would contract out, and the cost would range anywhere from $20 per employee per year . . . as high as $100 per employee per year. Obviously, the more employees, the lower per diem."

"WHEN I CAME in in 1977, there were about 1,000 or so employee assistance programs in existence," Watkins said. "Today, there are over 20,000 in all sizes. My guess is about half of the workers in the country are covered."

"There's more demand for services in tough times," Watkins said. "At the same time, there's pressure on companies to cut costs. We don't see a lot of companies getting rid of employee assistance programs in down times."

"I think employers became aware that personal problems of employees affect work performance," Hornyak said.

"Most of our programs cost less than 1 percent of what an organization spends for health benefits," Dougherty said. "We're seeing more employers adding new (assistance) business. Organizations see the need for this kind of program."

Employees, becoming more comfortable with the confidentiality of programs, are much more likely to refer themselves for help now, administrators said.

And, where alcohol or drug dependency may have accounted for a majority of referrals 20 years ago, relationships are just as likely to account for them now.

"In most of our accounts, we're seeing utilization move up in these times," Dougherty said.

Fiber optics to beget new teleconferencing network

By Gerald Frawley

Southeastern Michigan is getting wired for sound — and pictures.

City Signal Inc., a Grand Rapids-based privately held, public utility company, has been making the rounds of area municipalities getting right-of-way agreements to allow it to install an interactive, fiber-optic video teleconferencing network.

Their plans? To construct a fiber optic cable network that will eventually connect area businesses, educational and government institutions from as far south as Romulus and Detroit north to Pontiac and Auburn Hills.

Brad Evans, president of City Signal, said immediate plans call for installing fiber optic network from Pontiac and Auburn Hills south to Detroit between I-75 and the Lodge Freeway.

If all works as planned, construction of the network will begin later this month and will be finished by the end of summer.

Detroit's business district is already included in the network.

A third "ring," reaching from Farmington Hills in the north to Romulus in the west and Detroit in the east will be installed later. Farmington and Southfield will act as connector points from east to west and will be incorporated into the second ring as well.

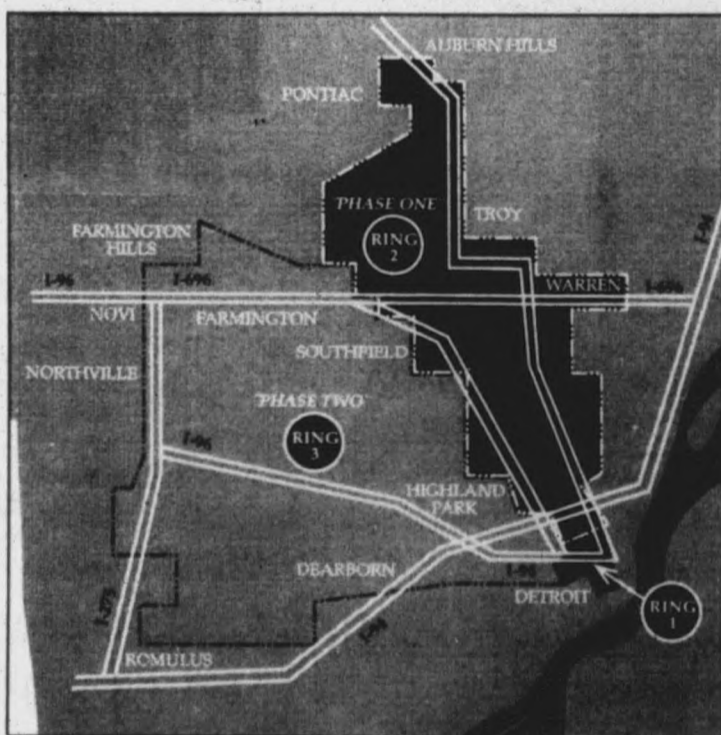

City Signal is also discussing including Dearborn in the second ring to get it on line. "We haven't set a timetable for the I-275 corridor and west Wayne County yet."

All told, this summer's work will include more than 100 miles of fiber optic cable and a $5 million investment. "And that's without having one customer."

Eventual investment by the company will be roughly $25 million, he said.

Evans said southeastern Michigan is the last major metropolitan area in the country to be equipped with a fiber-optic video teleconferencing network.

FIBER OPTICS, like conventional telephone lines, can be used to transmit video voice and data. But fiber optic cables can transmit thousands of times more information and with greater reliability and speed.

"Our first line of business is to tie the voice customer to the long distance carrier," he said. A fiber optic system is more reliable and less expensive than the conventional phone lines.

Most businesses have joined the network for this reason alone, he said. The potential of the system is much greater. "We expect (southeastern Michigan) will really take advantage of these."

Those linked to City Signal's fiber optic network and equipped with a camera, monitor and audio input will be able to visually communicate with others similarly equipped in the system. Hourly charges range from $25 to $100, he said.

"We see great potential for tying offices in different buildings together," he said.

For example, a group of engineers in the Chrysler Technology Center in Auburn Hills will be able to sit down and have a meeting with another group in the company's Highland Park headquarters.

Communicating between the Detroit area and Grand Rapids or Lansing will also be possible at a higher cost. City Signal will either have to purchase capacity on existing fiber optic lines running between these city centers or install new ones.

Network subscribers can also take advantage of the U.S. Sprint Meeting Channel — a long distance link-up with more than 900 conference rooms in large municipal areas and major corporations throughout the country, he said. Hourly charges range from $400 to $600.

City Signal also plans to offer satellite uplink that would permit transmissions via satellite. Hourly charges range from $800 to $1,000.

Hats have their day — It's Easter

By Sue Mason
staff writer

PETER COTTONTAIL IS ABOUT to hippy hop down the Bunny Trail, or so the song goes. Yes, Easter is almost here and if you're a traditionalist, preparations for the spring holiday not only include a goodly supply of eggs and Paas coloring dye, but a new spring outfit.

And if you're really traditional that outfit will include another much-ballyhooed-in-song item — the Easter bonnet. Oh, how I loved those flower-bedecked straw affairs as a child. With an elastic chin strap to hold it firmly in place, it offered a tremendous opportunity to wave to people by applying slight pressure to the rear of the hat.

My favorite Easter hat, though, was a pale green number with a front brim that flipped back, just like the one Lady Bird Johnson wore. It went perfectly with my green plaid spring coat but not much else.

The Easter hat is a throwback to the turn of the century when it was customary for the modish woman to wear her new spring hat on Easter Sunday. Well, like many traditions that bit the dust in the feminist movement of the '70s. Bare heads are fashionable these days; hats have been relegated to an accessory, a fun accessory.

But where did the custom of the Easter hat come from? It took some digging, but with the help of the staff at the Tavy Stone Fashion Library at the Detroit Historical Museum, the source of the tradition was unearthed — the Big Apple.

YEP, NEW York City can lay claim to the elevation of a new spring hat from an annual purchase to a tradition. It seems that at the turn of the century, it was customary for the fashionable parishioners of such New York churches as St. Thomas and St. Bartholemew to take a dignified stroll on Fifth Avenue or Park Avenue to show off their finery. The first time such a "parade" took place was in 1899.

Easter Sunday was viewed as the start of the spring social season and the idea of an Easter Parade eventually became "institutionalized" when Fifth Avenue was closed off to vehicular traffic between the library at 42nd Street and Central Park.

Styles have changed over the decades. The early paraders donned straw hats trimmed with osterich feathers and veiling. For the younger set, there styles like a leg horn hat adorned with roses, silk foliage and satin ribbon. The boys wore cloth sailor caps with a ribbon band.

Hats, at the time, were a visible sign of several things — wealth, religion, nationality, political beliefs and occupation. But a stylish as they may have seemed, they were Plain Janes when it came to the hats that were worn after World War I.

EXTRAVAGANT and costly ornamentation were "in" for hats. More was better and many a fine feathered friend's plumage bedecked hats with large, roomy crowns, worn pulled down on the head, usually to the eyes.

By the Roaring '20s, a hat "revolution" occurred. The small cloche or mushroom hat replaced the oversized affairs of the post-war years. The cloche, worn close to the head, featured a tall crown that widened to a flattened summit. Ornamentation was a simple feather or ribbon accent.

Ready for Easter are Amy Sciclune (from left) in a floral sundress with matching jacket by Sylvia Whyte ($114) and straw hat by Cheryl Cuzco ($43); Samantha Stencil in a floral print dress with contrasting polka dots and matching hat by Rare Edition ($48); Caitlin Autrey in a polyester/cotton floral print dress with ribbon rosettes on the sleeves and band of the matching hat by Sylvia Whyte ($82); and Erika Junk in a cotton floral print dress with a V-back by "Plum" ($76) and picture hat ($9). The fashions are available at Jacobson's Laurel Park store.

By the Depression years, the deep crown was being replaced by a shallow version. It was the return of the Eugenie hat, worn at a rakish angle to one side of the head with osterich feather accents.

Also popular was the silk or wool torque decorated with embroidered motifs or a calotte of bright-colored wool.

For young boys, the Tyrolese hat in brown or green felt with cord and feather trim or the cloth cap styled like those worn at Eton College in England were trendy '30s styles.

Prior to the Second World War, a more flat straw boater was popular and was quickly adapted for wartime wear with the addition of a veil or scarf and laddened with unrationed flowers.

THE BRETON also was a wartime hit, with its brim folded back sharply or sloping gently way from the face to create a halo effect.

By the end of the '40s, hats were traveling a divided course. The wider brimmed affairs were considered for more formal attire while smaller hats were considered smarter and in keeping with the tailored look of everyday clothing.

Smart hats of the early 1950s were tipped back to reveal the brow. By 1952, they had a smaller crown with the brim dipping on either side of the head or swept up at the front in a sort of half Breton style.

The '50s also saw the introduction of the less hat movement. Small velvet circles with veiling and even whimpies — netting with tiny bow accents — were acceptable substitutes for hats.

The '60s didn't bode well for millineries with the sudden growth of the crown and by the end of the decade the mannish look as seen in the versatile Stetson was a popular style.

And then there was the '70s. Hats with huge rounded crowns and big brims that draped softly around the face, epitomized by the hippy movement, were popular, but the style that shaped the decade was the mushroom cap. Almost a cloche — the crown wasn't quite deep enough — it was worn with the brim turned up or down.

IT APPEARED hats might make a comeback in the '80s when the very popular Princess Diana, showed up at her royal engagements with a hat on her head. It was even speculated that her hat sense might rub off on her mother-in-law, well known for wearing some rather dowdy affairs.

This spring styles resemble straw boaters with brim that turn up on the edge. There's also a goodly number of picture hats decked out with silk flowers and even a for-fun studded baseball cap.

But, alas, while today's hats come in all shapes and sizes, suitable for daytime and evening wear, they have yet to regain the prominence they once had.

The biggest change may be in children's hats. Young girls are sporting more sophisticated styles, designed to match traditional floral print dresses or kicky '70s retro styles of dyed straw with flipped-up brims and straw flowers.

There probably will be people strolling on the avenues of New York Easter Sunday and a good bet is more will be sporting a stylish hairdo than a new spring hat.

But one thing hasn't changed. You can still find those little straw numbers with the flowers and pastel ribbons. They even have the elastic chin straps. Hello!

Local museums serve history on small scale

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Studying history doesn't necessarily require a trip to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., or even to Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn. Those museums certainly have a lot to offer, but people looking for something to do a little closer to home have other options.

The Canton Historical Museum, at Canton Center and Proctor, reopened the first weekend in March after being closed in January and February. The Plymouth Historical Museum, at Main and Church in downtown Plymouth, has an ongoing exhibit on "Images of Lincoln."

Nearly all the exhibit artifacts come from the collection of Dr. Weldon Petz, a retired educator and authority on the life of Abraham Lincoln. The exhibit opened in February and will continue through Sunday, May 3.

THE EXHIBIT was originally scheduled to remain through mid-April, but Petz was amenable to having it continue for several more weeks, said Beth Stewart, Plymouth Historical Museum director.

"He really loves having the things here," said Stewart, a Plymouth Township resident. Petz enjoys sharing his collection of artifacts with others, and has found there aren't a lot of local museums with sufficient exhibit space.

"We certainly appreciate the fact that he wants to be here," she said. It took organizers some time to set up the exhibit, which features nearly 1,000 artifacts, so they're grateful to have it remain until early May.

"When you see so much here together, it's almost overwhelming the amount of material there is," Stewart said. She and others at the museum, which is operated by the Plymouth Historical Society, have been pleased with the response to the exhibit. Many school groups, including local fourth graders who are studying the Civil War, have visited.

Some other visitors have traveled a considerable distance to see the Lincoln exhibit. Some who have heard Petz give lectures on Lincoln have then come to see it.

"So he's been great PR," Stewart said. Petz gave a lecture on Lincoln in February at the museum. He returned Sunday, April 5, to give another lecture on monumental tributes to Lincoln in Michigan.

HOURS AT THE Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main, are 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2-5 p.m. Sunday. Admission price is $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for students, free for children under age 5. Family rate is $4. For more information, call 455-8940.

Hours at the Canton Historical Museum are 1-3 p.m. Tuesday and 1-4 p.m. Saturday. Admission to the museum, which is operated by the Canton Historical Society, is free of charge. For more information, call 397-0088.

The museum features an exhibit of DeVilbiss glass, including a collection of perfume atomizers that were popular in the 1920s, said Melissa McLaughlin, a Canton Historical Society member.

"These things are gorgeous. They're very exotic," said McLaughlin, a Canton resident. Some feature gold leaf and have floral designs painted on them. One's even in its original box, which is also quite decorative.

The museum, which opened nearly 10 years ago, also has an ongoing collection of Great Lakes Indians items on display. A new display in one alcove shows a typical wash-day scenario from the late 19th or early 20th century.

"It's really kind of cute," McLaughlin said. The display includes a washing machine and antique irons. Museum visitors can see that doing laundry in those days wasn't an effortless task.

"I WOULD say so, just lifting these irons and moving them around." Fabrics weren't as easy to care for in those days, she said.

The Canton Historical Museum was closed in January and February, to allow time for doing inventory and refining the collection. Historical society members have done that for the past couple of years to get some in-depth work done, McLaughlin said.

She's found some museum visitors are surprised to learn about Canton's history and the fact that the community's roots go back so many years. Canton was predominantly rural for many years, unlike its neighbors to the north.

"We didn't have the downtown like Plymouth or Northville," McLaughlin said. Some newcomers are surprised to learn that Canton has such a rich history.

"They're oftentimes surprised to learn we've got such interesting things going on."

Artwork related to the life of Abraham Lincoln is included in an exhibit at the Plymouth Historical Museum through Sunday, May 3.

anniversaries

Lawrence and Rita Belanger

A blessing of the vows at St. Maurice Catholic Church, followed by a brunch at the Fox Hills Country Club in Plymouth, will be held this month for Lawrence and Rita Belanger of Livonia.

The couple is celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. They were married on April 11, 1942, at St. Monica's Church in Detroit. She is the former Rita Primeau.

The Belangers have lived in Livonia 31 years and have three children — Pam Hirzel of Garden City, Cathy Kajkowski of Dearborn and Mark Belanger of Westland. They also have seven grandchildren.

He is a retired carpenter, she is a retiree of the Burroughs Corp.

Dear Lorene Green,

I would be pleased if you chose my handwriting for your column. It would be interesting to see what you could tell about me. I am a 46-year-old, right handed female. I absolutely love writing and have had comments on my penmanship.

I would like to thank you in advance, in case you do choose my handwriting for your graphology column.

It is not surprising to me that our writer has received comments on her neat handwriting. I strongly suspect they have all been of a complimentary nature. Her very legible style tells us she wants to communicate.

She has an eye for aesthetics and probably enjoys constructing things with her hands.

Self-discipline is an important part of our writer's lifestyle. She needs to be in control. She strives for structure and order in her bailiwick. Relaxation comes only after all responsibilities are handled.

She is ever conscientious, thorough and dependable. Her determination cannot be missed either. Those around her know she can be counted on to live up to her commitments.

Work is performed methodically, carefully and always with an eye toward perfection. In repetitive not show this openly. She is ever aware of correct behavior.

The rigid quality of this handwriting suggests she was raised in a home where discipline was strongly enforced. Her parents gave the directives and she conformed. Seemingly, she has continued to comply with those early teachings. A strong need for approval from both peers and superiors cannot be missed. She is also respectful of authority figures and abides by rules and regulations to avoid confrontation.

Currently, however, she may be struggling with those early values and experiencing ambivalent feelings. Tension and discouragement are beginning to appear. We all need love! Outward signs of love and acceptance from those who are close to our writer, especially the males, would be welcome and helpful at this time. What a wonderful world this would be if we could all show love for one another?

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are also helpful. And feedback is always welcome.

Harold and Madge Krist

Harold and Madge Krist were the guests of honor at a March 7 celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The couple renewed their wedding vows at St. Elizabeth Episcopal Church in Redford. A party was held at LeRight's in Westland following the service.

The couple meet in Detroit in 1940 and were married there. They have seven children — Keith and wife Barbara of Texas, Lawrence and wife Camellia of Dearborn Heights, Mel of Maryland, Brian and wife Tamara of Flat Rock, David of Redford, Gary and wife Cynthia of Massachusetts and Pamela Holick and husband Rudy of Texas.

Residents of Redford for 21 years, they also have 16 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Memory tree aids Hospice Services

Armed with an adding machine, volunteer tax aide Oz Olstad checks the tax tables in helping Loretta Martel fill out her tax forms. The Plymouth Township resident has been involved in the American Association of Retired Persons program for five years and has been working out of the Canton Senior Citizens Center.

Tax aide helps seniors reclaim what IRS takes

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Procrastinators are spending hours agonizing over tax forms this week, but Oz Olstad isn't part of that group.

His taxes are done and he's received his refund. Olstad, 68, is among American Association of Retired Persons volunteers who help senior citizens prepare their income tax returns.

"You have to keep working at it, yes, because there are changes every year," said Olstad, a Plymouth Township resident and Ford Motor Co. retiree. He and the other AARP volunteers don't have the expertise needed to handle extremely complicated returns, and don't consider themselves to be in competition with professional preparers.

"I enjoy the work, and the people we help are most appreciative of what we do. It's a real pleasure to work with them."

OLSTAD GOT involved in the AARP program about five years ago. A friend of his, also a volunteer, supervises the program in Canton, Plymouth and Northville.

Olstad's spending time this year as a tax aide at the Canton Senior Citizens Center on Michigan Avenue, "which is a great site. People here are so very cooperative. They just make our work so much easier."

Volunteers make a commitment to work 40 hours during the tax season, which runs from February through mid-April. They're trained to assist low-income and moderate-income seniors.

Volunteers aren't required to have a background in accounting or tax law, although some do. Olstad did office work during his 30 years with Ford. He and other volunteers receive extensive training during two weeks of sessions taught by Internal Revenue Service employees.

"You must have interest in tax work," Olstad said. Being adept with figures helps as well. Volunteers, who are required to pass an IRS test each year, need to be familiar with certain areas of tax law.

Seniors, for example, often have more medical expenses than younger people do. Olstad and other volunteers need to keep up with current information on property tax credits and other available state and federal breaks.

The volunteers put their site number on each return they prepare, but don't sign the return. If an IRS audit is required, the volunteer tax aide doesn't go along.

THE NATIONWIDE AARP program is offered each year in cooperation with the IRS. About eight volunteers work at the Canton Senior Citizens Center, and are able to assist about 25 people or couples per week. Tax help is provided by volunteers of diverse backgrounds and ages at several other sites throughout the Plymouth-Canton community.

"It's a very good group," Olstad said of the volunteers. "We enjoy one another's company."

There's a great deal of cooperation among the volunteers, and they help each other handle scheduling conflicts. Olstad occasionally works at another site when a fellow volunteer has such a conflict.

Olstad, who does his own taxes, doesn't have any last-minute advice for procrastinators. "File early" is my motto," he said with a smile.

His work as a volunteer tax aide is just about done for 1992, but Olstad will keep busy.

"Oh, there are other things coming up. There's always plenty to do."

He and his wife, Betty, enjoy playing golf. They have two grown children, both of whom are schoolteachers.

"I have a computer at home and enjoy working with that," Olstad said. He knows that senior citizens benefit from staying involved in the community.

"Oh, by all means, that's very important. It keeps us young and it certainly does help out the community."

Strong beliefs no excuse for religious rudeness

By Arlene Funke
special writer

Jane Severn of Redford takes quiet strength from her strong Christian values. Suzanne Miller of Westland is equally proud of her Jewish heritage.

Both women are warm, gracious and competent. And, although of different backgrounds and beliefs, both have felt the sting of religious prejudice.

"If people have strong feelings, they are suspect," said Severn, 51, who spent many years doing missionary work in the Philippines. "They are (perceived as) narrow."

Miller (not her real name) is very private about her religious beliefs. She avoids disclosure because of what she calls an "undercurrent" of anti-Semitism.

Apparently, religious intolerance flourishes.

Remarks range from silly to sinister. Some people speak from ignorance. Others try to force their religious views on others.

CATHOLICS, PROTESTANTS and Jews all have been subjected to rude remarks. Muslims are often viewed with suspicion by people who don't understand their customs and prayer life.

People may be disliked because they have different practices. They are scorned for being "too religious" or "not religious enough."

"I can't say it's wrong to have your own life guided by religion," said Marilyn Grable of Redford, daughter of a deceased Lutheran minister. "I don't think I have the right to impose my beliefs on other people."

A western Wayne County woman inadvertently insulted a neighbor by saying, "I like the neighborhood, but I wish there were more Christians."

Grable, who is in her 50s, dislikes labels.

"If you are going to get mad at somebody, don't classify it," she said. "I don't like the line 'And she calls herself a Christian.' Everybody is human."

Comments may spring from hostility against a particular group, such as Jews.

Few Jewish people live near Miller and her husband, a mid-level manager at a local company. Sometimes people make religious slurs in Miller's presence.

"When you live in a non-Jewish area, people don't expect to encounter a Jewish person," said Miller, 52, a language arts instructor.

The couple, who have three grown children, chose to live near the husband's work.

ANTI-SEMITIC REMARKS immediately put Miller on guard. Comments may reflect the mistaken notion that all Jewish people are rich and powerful. More venomous comments might express approval for Hitler and other anti-Semites.

"I become tense," she said. "I don't feel safe. Sometimes people make remarks on the basis of ignorance. Usually I don't say anything. What good would it do?"

According to Severn, people with strong religious values are ridiculed. She believes this is especially true in TV programming.

"You're a 'goody two shoes,'" Severn said. "If you try to lead a good, clean life, you are criticized."

Severn and her husband, Frank, spent 12 years as Bible missionaries in the Philippines. While there, they avoided criticizing any of the local people's beliefs.

"Rather than emphasizing a church and religious (structure), we taught the Bible and let people follow their own ideas," Jane Severn said.

"In our later years, people were very open to reading and studying the Bible."

GRAPPLING WITH death, and attempting to comfort the bereaved, often causes people to make inappropriate remarks.

A 30-ish Plymouth Township woman, attending a family funeral, was told by a fellow mourner that someday she would feel fortunate to "die as a Catholic."

Several years ago, Grable and her siblings were devastated when their elderly father, the Rev. Frank Madsen, was brutally stabbed to death. The family believes the assailant, who stood trial and was convicted in the killing, became enraged when Madsen refused to turn over money.

During the funeral visitation, several people told Grable her father was "in a better place," meaning heaven.

"That didn't upset me," Grable said. "In most cases, I think it's more comforting to say, 'I'm sorry for your loss.' I still miss him and hate to think about how (the death) happened."

The Rev. Kearney Kirkby helps people deal with grief. Kirkby, 78, leads the New Beginnings grief support group, which meets at St. Matthew's United Methodist Church in Livonia.

KIRBY HAS had his share of grief, having been widowed twice. Many years ago, a 2-year-old daughter died. He also experienced the death of his brother, and a grandson was killed in a motorcycle accident.

People should avoid trying to minimize bereavement, according to Kirkby.

"Grief is something everyone has to work through in his own way," said Kirkby, a Livonia resident. "It is very common to sweep it under the rug."

"Don't sugar-coat it," he said. "If you don't work it through, it goes inside, and you have stress and physical problems."

While Kirkby finds solace in religion, that doesn't work for everyone. He advises focusing on the joy that the deceased person represents, rather than on the loss.

"Life does go on," Kirkby said. "I do believe in the Resurrection. I tell people that I have experienced a lot of heaven and a little bit of hell."

Up, up with music . . . Plymouth Community Arts Council is seeking music lovers who would like to help organize their summer "Music in the Park" concert series. "Music in the Park" is a series of 10 lunchtime concerts beginning the third week of June in Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth.

If you could spare a few hours or can suggest talent for the series (classical, jazz, folk, pops, children's), call the PCAC office at 455-5260.

Snapshooting on-site . . . Livonia photographer Carlos Diaz will receive $8,000 in grants to fund a 14-week photography workshop beginning in June for young adults in southwest Detroit's Mexican Town.

Diaz, an associate professor of photography at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, will receive $4,000 from Arts Midwest and $4,000 from Casa de Unidad.

From the start, Diaz has worked together with Casa de Unidad to formulate the project and find students who would be committed to it.

"We're supplying them with cameras and film to document their way of life in a low-income urban setting that is primarily Hispanic," Diaz said.

He hopes the project will help increase their sense of self-worth and make them feel positive about where they live.

Iford is donating a supply of printing paper. Diaz will next look to Fuji and Kodak for supplies.

If you're interested in helping out or would like to know more about the project, call Diaz at the CCS Photography Department: 872-3118.

Friends of Nankin Mills will host their fourth annual spring art show and country fair noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, June 7 at the historic Westland mill, Ann Arbor Trail and Farmington Road.

Proceeds will go toward the $1.5 million restoration and expansion of the Wayne County-owned, Civil War-era mill.

Cellist in symphony 46 years

By William Coutant
staff writer

WHEN EDITH Schutze takes her cello out of its case and prepares to perform with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra in its final performance of the year this week, it will mark a special anniversary.

The orchestra will have completed its 46th season. And Schutze, a recently widowed Plymouth resident, will have been with the orchestra for all 46 years.

Except for a few weeks this winter, when she cared for her dying husband, Leonard, Schutze never missed a rehearsal, much less a concert. But first things come first for the grandmother of seven.

"Every month, he would take me out on our anniversary (Feb. 24)," she said. "We've made the most of every single day."

"I just grew up loving music. I never really wanted to teach it, just play."

— Edith Schutze

Schutze, who took private music lessons and trained at the Detroit Conservatory of Music, is an accomplished pianist, cellist, organist and violinist. Her cello and organ and pictures of her children and grandchildren adorn her modest home as testimony to her love of music and family.

New art gallery at library hosts 36-piece exhibit

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

After six years of dreaming and planning, the glass-enclosed art gallery in the Livonia Civic Center Library opens Saturday, April 11, thanks to the dedicated members of the Livonia Arts Commission and Friends of the Library.

The gallery space debuts with a 36-piece exhibition by eight artists with work now in the city of Livonia's art collection.

Edee Joppich, V. Janus Benda and Gwen Tomkow of Farmington Hills, Theresa Polotowicz of Northville, Eileen Bibby of Livonia, Carl Sams II of White Lake, Mary Tomas of Troy and Cindy Fields McMahan of West Bloomfield display watercolor, oil, acrylic, gouache and photography through May 3.

"It's real exciting," said Dorothy Wilshaw, arts commissioner. "People go to cultural centers to learn. With the gallery, we're able to bring artists from the greater Detroit area for people in Livonia to learn what artists are doing."

Art fulfills a special need in our life, the need to communicate and relate feelings shared with others, to share all too often hidden emotions of sadness, frustration and joy.

"IT ADDS something to the quality of life to see what arts are doing. That's what libraries are all about, adding to the quality of life, making it happier, better, more productive," said Michael Deller, library director.

Space for the second-floor gallery was allotted before the library was built, after requests from the arts community during pre-construction forums held by the city.

But budget cutting in the '80s shelved outfitting the glass-walled gallery with an exhibit system. Through joint efforts of the arts commission and the Friends, a 36-panel slatwall system was purchased this spring for $15,400 from Design Fabrications in Troy.

In the first year, the gallery will focus on paintings and prints. In years to come, plans call for the addition of shelves and enclosures to display three-dimensional pieces such as clay and decorative arts like blown glass vessels.

UNLIKE THE pegboard system now used in city-hall art shows, the new slatwall panels allow for growth. Their versatility is key to future exhibition plans.

"Eventually, we'd like to have artists that do pottery, crafts and sculpture," said Jack Olds, arts commission chairman. "Some may have a humanities-type theme rather than pictorial. We'd like to do a publisher's show or an exhibit of architecture."

Wilshaw produces the major art exhibitions at city hall, volunteering time and effort to help artists achieve their goals.

For the last two years, she supplied the driving force behind the Imaginative pursuits a driving force for these art buffs

THEIR PALETTE is aglow with artistic encounters. Only their imagination limits them.

For 38 years, the Palette Guild has catered to artists drawn together by a shared spirit of creativity and camaraderie.

Membership doesn't demand that you actively paint. "We have some members who don't paint any more but who are still very interested in art," says Redford artist Evelyn Henry, a board member and past president.

Many members belong to other art clubs and enjoy showing their work.

The Guild's 73-piece spring art show brightened the lobby of Livonia City Hall in March. Henry took a second place for her pastel, "Orchids, II," and an honorable mention for her acrylic, "Lola Valley."

Henry retired in 1979 after 21 years as an advertising artist to devote her energies to painting. She has shown in Livonia, Farmington and Detroit and has won many honors for her 175-piece portfolio.

BUT PLAUDITS aren't what spur her.

She's driven by a passion for painting, especially landscapes and portraits.

"It's something I feel I have to do. I'm not happy unless I'm working on something. I'm driven to paint and to have others enjoy it. It doesn't matter to me if I sell my work," Henry said.

That's not to say she won't sell original work as well as commissioned work. "Lola Valley," for example, sold the first day of the Palette Guild's spring show.

"I don't mind selling my art unless they're favorites of mine. Those pieces are something like children to me," says the mother of five.

This winter, Henry studied pastels in a Visual Art Association of Livonia class. She learned from her instructor, Audrey DeMarco, but found the classroom setting confining.

"I concentrate so deeply, I work best at home alone," she said. "I can forget everything else. There's nothing else to distract me."

HENRY'S NEWEST work, "Bloomin' Time," is a pastel of an amaryllis blooming in her dining room amid a backdrop of greenery and sunlight.

A member for 12 years, Henry has seen the Palette Guild grow to 58 members from western Wayne and Oakland counties.

The club meets from noon to 3 p.m. the fourth Monday of each month, September through April, in the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

Meetings feature a demonstration, slides or critiques.

"Sometimes we have artists come in and sometimes we have guests from the Detroit Institute of Arts," Henry said.

REDFORD ARTIST Betty Shaw finds the fellowship and speakers especially beneficial.

"The members care about each other and know each other so well," said Shaw, an artist for 10 years and a Palette Guild member for two years. "You don't get that in larger clubs."

A former student and teacher at Art Store & More in Livonia, Shaw works in pencil, pastel, and pen and ink.

She likes the public exposure she receives through Palette Guild shows. In the recent Livonia show, she earned two honorable mentions for her colored pencil "Shell" and her graphite "Ducklings."

But she wishes the club told more about marketing strategy. "I enjoy seeing how other people do things but I really want to know how to promote myself better," said Shaw, who does portrait commissions.

SHAW IS now working intently on her graphite portrait of a horse's profile.

"I'm doing it in pencil to get a lot of detail. It's a real learning procedure. I'm not that familiar with horses. My things are quite realistic and I feel if you work in graphite, you'll pick up everything you want to see," Shaw said.

For Shaw, painting boasts no magical lure. "It's just plain fulfillment. If I don't do it every day, something's wrong. I don't feel any sense of accomplishment."

Bob Sklar is assistant managing editor for special projects.

quest to outfit the gallery space, searching countless avenues to find the 4-by-6-foot black panels, which led to dream becoming reality.

"It would be wonderful if the art teachers in the area asked their students to visit the gallery, then maybe write an essay," Wilshaw said.

WILSHAW AND Olds are of one mind on the subject of the gallery being educational.

"Education to me is always primary. That's why this is so important to have a gallery here, not only for school kids but for the community as a whole," Olds said.

A grand opening show promises exposure to a variety of media and ideas.

"For the opening, we tried to pick a variety of subjects. We tried to select artists to give us abstract, realism, impressionistic, along with photography, a nice mix of watercolor, oil and media not usually seen, like ink and dye on rice paper and handmade dyed and marbled paper," Wilshaw said.

"Some people don't like abstract, others might. We've provided variety in hopes of attracting all types of people. After all, you don't have to like art to appreciate it."

EDEE JOPPICH, a Farmington Hills artist, will show work from her recent watercolor series, "Lifestyles," which involves the figure.

"The Victor," a dynamic piece, will be shown for the first time in public.

"The Steven Trilogy," a triptych just returned from Grand Rapids, the last stop in the Michigan Watercolor Society's traveling exhibition, also will be exhibited.

"Livonia is unique in having an art gallery. It sets a fine example for surrounding communities in supporting the arts and exposing the citizens to a all kinds of art. That should be commended," Joppich said.

"It's going to be an exciting show with a lot of quality artists."

Art Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday. The library is southeast of Farmington Road and Five Mile.

V. Janus Benda of Farmington Hills crafted this handmade paper collage, "Egyptian Silk."

Cranbrook Writers' Guild will hear mystery novelist

Livonia resident S.K. (Sarah) Wolf, the internationally known writer of mystery and espionage novels, will speak to the Cranbrook Writers' Guild at 8 p.m. Monday, April 13, at The Community House in Birmingham, 380 S. Bates.

The public may attend. The meeting has a $5 charge for non-members of the guild. For more information about the meeting, call 646-6223.

In her talk for the guild, Wolf will discuss how she got started, where she gets ideas and what she has found that people like to read, as well as the problems connected with getting a first novel published.

WOLF PUBLISHED her first book, "Long Chain of Death," in 1987. Her second book, "The Harbinger Effect," came out two years later. The novel was a Mysterious Book Club Main Selection and a Book of the Month Club Alternate Selection.

Her third novel, "Mackinnon's Machine," was published last year. It was chosen as a Book of the Month Club Alternate Selection and as a Reader's Digest Condensed Book.

The guild is a non-profit organization whose major project is an annual three-day writing conference for Michigan college and university students.

Each year, more than 40 youngsters attend workshops whose faculty has included Joyce Carol Oates, the late Harriette Arnow and many other noted Michigan writers.

● GARDEN WALK

In nature, beautiful flowers don't exist to please people, they exist only for the reproductive functions of the plant.

Matthaei Botanical Gardens depicts invite you to join them to learn more about pollination from 2 to 3 p.m. April 11-12, 18-19 and 25-26 in the Gardens Conservatory.

Many flowering plants lure pollinators with color, fragrance and nectar. Color serves as a banner, making the flower noticeable. Fragrance, whether it be sweet, sour or foul, helps draw the pollinators into the blossoms. Nectar is the reward flowers offer these hard-working birds, insects and mammals. By these clever techniques, among others, these plants have developed a means to insure their reproduction.

Docents ask all participants interested in attending this 45-minute to 1-hour tour to pre-register at the reception desk. Admission is $1.

Matthaei Botanical Gardens is at 1800 N. Dixboro, Ann Arbor, a half mile south of the Plymouth Road intersection.

All pieces created during the demonstrations will be available for purchase with proceeds going toward Glass Department studio projects.

● REPERTORY DANCE

The Center for Creative Studies will present its repertory dance ensembles 2-3 p.m. Sunday, April 12, at Rackham Auditorium, 80 Farnsworth, Detroit. There's no admission charge.

Under the direction of Judith Sheldon, who chairs the School of Dance at CCS, an array of dance styles and cultural traditions will be celebrated.

The Art of Motion Dance Theatre, directed by Karen Prall, will perform authentic African dance. Students of Huifang Mao will present excerpts from "Swan Lake." Lloyd Storey will debut his new tap performing ensemble. Rhythmic gymnasts studying ballet with Christina Kammueler will perform, after recently returning from the Pan Am Games.

The CCS School of Dance, known for its National Tap Dance Day celebrations, has been recognized by the state of Michigan in a special tribute signed by state Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, as "an outstanding organization (which) provides a complete dance training program, a center for community dance activities, and a curriculum for the pre-professional student."

faculty of 300 artist/instructors provide quality visual and performing arts training to more than 2,000 students annually.

Fair Housing Month promotes freedom of choice

By Doug Funke
staff writer

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and the National Association of Realtors promote April as Fair Housing Month.

And you can't have too much reinforcement of that goal, consumer advocates and professionals in the industry say.

"Our mission is twofold — to build community understanding and support for fair and open housing and to achieve an integrated housing process in Oakland County," said Barbara Talley, director of the Oakland County Center for Open Housing.

"There must be a reason why metro Detroit region is still considered to be the most segregated area in the U.S.," she said.

Clifford Schrupp, director of the Fair Housing Center of Metropolitan Detroit, cited three explanations most often offered for the high degree of segregation here. "One is factor of income, two is matter of choice and three is the matter of discrimination practice," he said. "Social scientists who have looked at the issue of income found it's a small factor, if any, in racial segregation that occurs," Schrupp said. "Choice may be a factor, but it's hard to determine how much when we know there's a high level of discrimination."

"NATIONAL STUDIES indicate that 50 percent of black home seekers and 60 percent looking for rentals receive less preferential treatment. It's hard to envision freedom of choice," he said.

The Fair Housing Center investigates some 175 complaints annually, Schrupp said. Blacks allege discrimination in buying homes. Arabs claim they're discriminated against in rental situations. Families with children have difficulty getting into apartments.

"What sellers can do is not discriminate," Schrupp said.

"What buyers can do is be very suspicious. If they think they may be told false information because of their race, religion, sex, national origin, they should certainly give us a call (963-1274) and we'll certainly investigate their complaint."

You won't get much argument from experienced Realtors about the need for fair housing.

"Anybody should be able to live wherever they want to as long as they have the means or financial qualifications to do so," said Robert D. Gleason, president of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Board of Realtors.

"THE LAW requires that all persons be treated equally in terms of housing transactions," said John A. Obee, a Southfield lawyer who's done legal work for the Fair Housing Center. "That means anybody who comes in, who knocks on the door, is provided the same information."

The Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors and the South Oakland County Board of Realtors will co-sponsor a program on Fair Housing Awareness 2-5 p.m. Monday at the Farmington Hills Community Library.

Broker represents condo buyer's interests

I have been approached by a broker who wishes to represent me in the purchase of a condominium by entering into a brokering arrangement with me. Can you give me your comments on the advantages to this undertaking?

If a broker is representing you as a purchase, he owes a fiduciary duty to you as opposed to the seller, which is the normal situation. The buyer's broker can provide information about the real estate in the community, can access the entire marketplace and negotiate for the lowest price and terms in your behalf. He can provide a verification of the property conditions, including conditioning the offer on a home inspection and the seller's disclosure statement and on repairs being made. He can manage the closing process from the buyer's side and preserve the buyer's anonymity, if requested. In short, this is a basic, but relatively novel concept in Michigan, which will become much more popular among purchasers for residential properties as well as commercial properties.

Tell me what you are recommending to your clients in general in connection with the purchase of commercial or industrial properties as it relates to the environmental issues.

The purchase agreements that we are drafting on commercial and residential properties and vacant or farm land are including provisions of environmental representations and warranties regarding the property.

We are insisting, in behalf of our clients, that the seller contractually represent and warrant compliance with federal, state and local laws regarding the protection of the environment and are insisting upon an environmental audit conditioned to the purchase to discover the extent of any environmental contamination and to utilize the "innocent landowner" defense under the Comprehensive Environmental Response Compensation Liability Act of 1980 (CERCLA) if contamination is subsequently discovered.

Christopher M. Garrison was a first-place winner with an apartment design featuring subsidized rent

By Doug Funke
staff writer

ARCHITECTS in training can make design statements, too. Christopher M. Garrison and Alan Goschka, seniors at Lawrence Technological University in Southfield, did just that during a student competition sponsored by the Masonry Institute of Michigan.

Garrison, 28, a Farmington Hills resident, placed first overall, and Goschka, 23, who lives on campus, won honorable mention for designing a hypothetical high rise apartment building on a Detroit River site between Chene Park and St. Aubin Marina.

The exercise was incorporated into a 10-week design course at LTU.

The students' task was to design an apartment building containing both market-rate and subsidized-rent units and to integrate a restaurant, medical clinic and convenience store into the site.

Both Garrison and Goschka angled their apartment buildings toward the river so that all tenants would have some view of the waterfront.

Garrison designed a 15-story building with 96 units, the subsidized units on the lower floors, market rate above with two penthouses on the roof.

EACH OF THE market rate units has a laundry. Laundries were placed to service an entire floor of the subsidized units to keep costs down.

Other key elements of his design include a parking deck with grass and other shrubbery on the top level to provide a private, park-like setting, and an exercise room and racquet courts inside on the ground floor.

Garrison put the restaurant, store and clinic beyond the parking deck, using the deck to buffer the residence from public access.

"I tried to make the units function first, make the units work," he said. "Form derives from function."

Professional architects serving as judges cited Garrison's organization of the entire building, attention to the structural system and building circulation.

Goschka designed a 10-story, 90-unit apartment placing subsidized units on every floor with the market rate units. His restaurant is on top of the apartment with separate elevator entrance, the clinic and store in front beyond a circular driveway.

Each unit contains a washer, dryer and balcony. The parking is underground.

"The bigger units are on wings at the end of the building," Goschka said. "They have more view of the river."

units on the lower floors, two penthouses, and a parking deck.

Judges noted a dramatic sense of entry and Goschka's attempt to deal with parking on the site.

LTU STUDENTS worked in teams to do much of the preliminary research.

"We did come down and look at the site. You've got to get a feel for the area," Garrison said.

Some teams researched the city's master urban plan for the area, others building codes, still others masonry details on other projects.

Then they got down to the design business for themselves. Unlike real-life situations, students weren't given cost restrictions.

"They wanted you to explore your own design and not limit you to a budget," Goschka said.

Garrison works as a computer aided design operator and draftsman for Stucky+Vitale Architects.

"I did all of this (project) on a computer," he said. "It gave me an advantage. I think I could be more creative in design rather than crunch out a project. You work on each part — elevations, sections, floor plans — at the same time."

Goschka, who has worked as an engineering aide and draftsman, incorporated rust and tan-colored bricks into his design.

"I WOULD like to do commercial and residential (architecture), but probably more commercial," he said. "I like the design aspect, to design something and see it start from nothing and get form so people drive by and say, 'Alan did this.'"

Garrison incorporated bricks of four different colors, green, blue/gray, gray and salmon into his design.

"I always wanted to be an architect," he said. "I did drawings when I was in second grade. A neighbor tutored me, spurred me on, I guess. I like all aspects of architecture. I'd rather do something I like than something just to earn a living."

Tom Nashlen, associate professor of design at LTU, taught both Garrison and Goschka.

"Chris isn't just designing a facade. He's thinking of the building's user, the building's image," Nashlen said. "He got an early jump on the project. He came up with a pretty good scheme early on and just ran with it. He's a good designer. He looks at deadlines with a mature view."

Goschka tried several different approaches before settling on his final product, Nashlen said.

"He came up with a concept that integrated the site to the river," Nashlen said. "There was clarity in the way the building was laid out from the street. I think one of Alan's excellent skills is the ability to make a model."

"Both of those students were able to blend art and science," Nashlen said. "They packed a lot of work into the time we had available."

Garrison and Goschka plan to pursue master's degrees in architecture and practice professionally.

Open housing group seeks builders

By R.J. King
special writer

In the two years since the Oakland County Center for Open Housing first sought to lend a helping hand to minorities, the organization has found that more and more of the home seekers it serves are in the market for new housing.

"The first thing we do is establish how much money someone wants to spend, and where they want to live, and from those interviews we have found the request for new housing is increasing," said Barbara Talley, director of the center, which is located in Bingham Farms.

"When we first started, maybe 2 percent of the people we interviewed were looking to move into new neighborhoods. The percent has grown to 10 percent, and we believe the interest will continue to grow."

As a result, the center is appealing to area builders and developers to become more actively involved in the organization, either by signing on as corporate members or supplying information on particular offerings or services.

"For every family we interview, we supply a home seeker's packet which contains information about Realtors, bankers, movers and inspectors, but we need more input from area builders and developers," said Ann Wettlaufer, community outreach coordinator for the center.

"Development material would be invaluable to the families we serve and offer yet another vehicle for builders to market their services. Given the construction industry is just now beginning to rebound, this could really help area builders."

THE CENTER'S MISSION is to build community understanding and support for fair and open housing while encouraging a stable and integrated housing process within Oakland County. The center works with banks, Realtors, and church groups to achieve its goals.

Quentin Kenan, national sales manager for Telesource, a telecommunications firm in Pontiac and a resident of Rosedale Park in northwest Detroit, said he utilized the center in researching a move to Farmington Hills, which will be completed in early June.

'When we first started, maybe 2 percent of the people we interviewed were looking to move into new neighborhoods. The percent has grown to 10 percent, and we believe the interest will continue to grow.'

— Barbara Talley
Oakland County Center for Open Housing

"I have a 9-year-old daughter, and I was very concerned about various school systems and coaching and counseling in the recreational areas," said Kenan. "It was very important to me to find an excellent school for my daughter."

"The center also provided demographic information for various communities and information on home prices. Trying to find that kind of information on my own would be pretty tough. It would have taken a great deal of time and research."

FUNDED BY CORPORATE grants, the city of Southfield, Oakland County, community foundations and area churches, the center operates with an annual budget of $100,000. It has five part-time employees and a corps of 300 volunteers.

Designs change paneling's image

Abitibi-Price of Troy has introduced three lines of paneling that have come a long way since the days of simulated knotty pine.

The Wall-In-One series combines wallpaper, a wood wainscot and a linen wall covering in one panel. The panels go up using ordinary paneling adhesive and require nothing more than a clean surface before application.

The Wall-In-One series is available in two styles and is recommended for living room, family or dining room. It comes with a lifetime warranty and can be cleaned with a damp cloth and mild soap.

A second line is the Decorative Border Series, which is designed for areas where moisture protection is necessary, such as the laundry room, bath or kitchen. A raised ink design is printed on each panel at the same location. Each panel is an exact duplicate of the next, so matching patterns and borders isn't a problem.

"Unlike some other panels, we haven't cut the surface of our board to simulate grout lines. Instead, we actually emboss the surface of the panel during the manufacturing process," said Jim Shalvoy, Abitibi-Price marketing manager.

The series is available in two styles that are stain- and scratch-resistant. Like the decorative border panels, the Aqua Border Series is for wet room applications and grout lines are also embossed into the surface.

While the decorative border has the border near the top of the panel, the aqua border panels have their borders near the middle of the panel.

Both of these panels can be used in tub alcove installations.

The Aqua Border Series comes with 8-by-8-inch tiles and a border printed approximately in the middle of each panel.

kitchen accented by walls of wainscots. It lists at $395,000.

Classic Custom Homes of Bloomfield Hills has built the Albertville, 4,288 square feet, in French chateau style in the $379,000 to $409,000 price range. It features seven skylights in the master suite bath, second floor and exercise room; a sauna in the exercise room; cherry cabinets with granite tops throughout the house; and a recycling center and built-in buffet in the kitchen.

Robert R. Jones Associates, Bloomfield Hills, offers the Knorwood with rounded corners in every room, floor-to-ceiling bay windows in the living room and dining room, two-story ceilings in the living room, dining room and foyer and a garage at the rear of the house. Single-family housing scores modest rebound Single-family house building seems to gather more strength nationally with each passing month and has posted back-to-back quarters of recovery.

New houses are more affordable because builders are paying increasing attention to the lower end of the market. The median price of a new house in the U.S. was $120,000 in 1991, down 2.4 percent, or $2,900, from the previous year.

Builders and developers in most metropolitan areas of the country still must face cautious lenders and are hard-pressed to secure sufficient financing for their projects. Even so, they'll increase their single-family construction activity by at least 12 percent this year.

These are a few of the findings reported in the latest issue of U.S. Housing Markets, a research publication of Lomas Mortgage USA with offices in Livonia.

"Home builders confronted a myriad of obstacles in 1991 — including a shortage of construction financing, shrinking employment, low consumer confidence," said George H. Kell, executive vice president of Lomas Mortgage USA. "They faced competition from plentiful and bargain-priced existing homes and rental apartments in most markets."

"But despite the obstacles, single-family construction in the United States reversed its long, five-year decline.

IN THE DETROIT-Ann Arbor area, the report cites the crippling effect of 57,000 job losses in 1991 with manufacturing sector payrolls down 40,000 in the last two years.

It reports job security as an overriding concern among both blue- and white-collar occupations as the auto industry decline makes major waves.

Still, single-family builders were busy in the fourth quarter of 1991, aided by good weather. The strongest demand came from empty-nesters and middle-income first-time buyers.

The report saw the key price ranges as under $100,000 and under $250,000. "Buyer resistance ratchets rapidly when those psychological breakpoints are passed," the report said. "In the current climate, above $180,000 is a tough sell, partly because competition is greatest. The No. 1 marketing tool: price cuts.

"GM closing of (the) Willow Run plant in '93 will rock western Wayne/eastern Washtenaw sectors of the market. Rental vacancies in those areas were already high even before (the) announcement."

Multi-housing permits fell 41 percent in 1991 to the lowest level since 1983, taking only 23 percent of the share of total new residential construction, a record low for the metro area.

Architect King honored

Dennis M. King, president of Harley Ellington Pierce Yee Associates, Southfield, has been named to the College of Fellows of the American Institute of Architects.

One of the highest forms of recognition awarded to an architect, it is a lifetime honor bestowed for notable contributions to the advancement of architecture.

King is the only Michigan architect to receive fellowship designation this year and one of 123 nationally. He will be honored locally on June 4 at Beaubien House in Detroit, headquarters of the Michigan Society of Architects.

He was cited as a leader in his dedication to excellence in design and client service, his role as mentor to young architects and his involvement in the AIA at national, regional and local levels.

King has been practicing architecture for more than 20 years. He joined HEPY as a project administrator in 1979 as senior vice president and director of business development as the firm doubled in size. Its roster of clients expanded to include Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp., Kellogg Co., the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, Indiana University and Upjohn Co.

In 1981, he was named a partner, and became senior vice president, director of project administration. He took a seat on the board in 1986 and became president in 1991. As president, he has overseen the completion of the Chrysler Technology Center in Auburn Hills and the start of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor.

King is a graduate of the University of Michigan. He is a past president of the Detroit chapter of the AIA and a member of the Michigan Society of Architects and the Professional Services Management Association.

The Detroit-Ann Arbor Area managed a top-10 finish in gains reported in multi-family housing permits taken out in the fourth quarter of 1991. The percentage changes relate to the comparable year-ago period.

But while fourth-quarter gains were reported, multi-family permits fell 41 percent for the year. The 23 percent share of new residential construction was a record low for the area.

Window walls accent shape of family room

Jutting out to the rear like the prow of a ship, a vaulted family room dominates the core of the Hilltop. Living room and dining room are also at the center, facing the street. Bedrooms are located on both sides, with the master suite to the left, two bedrooms and a utility room to the right.

Total square footage of the living area is 2,068 square feet.

Windows make up most of the prow-shaped rear walls of the family room, creating a bright environment on even the darkest of winter days. Electric lights will rarely be needed during daylight hours.

An eating nook, adjacent to the kitchen, is further lighted by a side window. Even the utility room has a window, which looks out across the yard. But here, and in the living and dining rooms, the light is softer, muted by the covered porch.

Another energy conservation feature is an air-lock entry way with a built-in bench for removing muddy footwear. Boots and shoes can be stowed underneath.

Double doors in the master suite open onto a private deck, one of two at the back of the Hilltop. Other features in the master suite include a large walk-in closet and a private bathroom with twin basins and a glass-enclosed spa tub.

The utility room is accessible from the garage as well as the bedroom wing, and the hallways are lined with linen and storage closets.

For a study plan of the Hilltop (401-03), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, Or. 97402. Specify plan name and number when ordering.

In addition to writing a column in Building Business and Management, the monthly magazine produced by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM) in Farmington Hills, the center has approached the association about sponsoring in-house events.

"Right now we're trying to set up a seminar with BASM to help highlight the center and the potential for new business," said Wettlaufer. "We haven't received a date yet, but we feel our services could help home inspectors, banks, real estate agents and other related trades."

Bernard Gliberman, president of BASM, in voicing support for the center's mission, said racially diverse communities can be a means to defuse future racial tensions.

"We recognize there are communities that traditionally have been without an ethnic mix in their population, and they may wish to maintain that practice, but the development of racially, religiously, politically and socially diverse neighborhoods can only work to help fulfill this nation's role as the great melting pot," he said.

On Wednesday, April 29, the center will sponsor a fair housing forum for area real estate agents at the Standard Federal Bank headquarters in Troy. For more information about the forum or the center, call 647-0575. For a story on Fair Housing Month, see the real estate section on Page 1F.

12 alternatives to lashing out at your kid.

The next time everyday pressures build up to the point where you feel like lashing out—STOP! And try any of these simple alternatives.

You'll feel better . . . and so will your child.

1. Take a deep breath. And another. Then remember you are the adult . . .
2. Close your eyes and imagine you're hearing what your child is about to hear.
3. Press your lips together and count to 10. Or better yet, to 20.
4. Put your child in a time-out chair. (Remember the rule: one time-out minute for each year of age.)
5. Put yourself in a time-out chair. Think about why you are angry: Is it your child, or is your child simply a convenient target for your anger?
6. Phone a friend.
7. If someone can watch the children, go outside and take a walk.
8. Take a hot bath or splash cold water on your face.
9. Hug a pillow.
10. Turn on some music. Maybe even sing along.
11. Pick up a pencil and write down as many helpful words as you can think of. Save the list.
12. Write for prevention information: National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, Box 2866L, Chicago, IL 60690.
