School meeting

Parents concerned about the financing of education in Plymouth and Canton will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at Miller School, 43721 Hanford, to discuss what types of pressure can be put on the state legislature.

The program is being put on by the Miller School PTO and will include a session on letter writing. For more information, contact Kathy McGlone, 454-9417.

Now, it's a review

State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, announced last month that the state would investigate the Western Townships Utilities Authority project, after charges of alleged cronyism surfaced. But last week, he said the project was no longer being specifically investigated.

"It's more generic, we're looking at how to improve the performance of these quasigovernmental authorities," Kosteva said Thursday. Bidding and auditing procedures of these agencies are also being reviewed, he said.

Market opens

The annual Farmer's Market presented by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce is scheduled to open Saturday, May 9. The market is open from 7:30

Barb Gusta: "Of all the new decorations that had been put out for spring, there was nothing left."

Grave mistake?

Cemetery stripped of ornaments

By Kevin Brown staff writer

Barb and Jim Gusfa decorated the grave of their 12year-old daughter Lauren with a stand-up plastic butterfly and Easter chick.

But when they returned to Riverside Cemetery April 5, they found that city workers had cleared it and other grave decorations away.

That angered the Gusta's and some others who put out decorations in recent weeks.

"Of all the new decorations that had been put out for spring, there was nothing left," said Barb Gusfa.

When she went to the city department of public works office to complain, Gusfa learned several others who recently placed memorials at the cemetery had also complained about them being cleared away

Gusfa said that when she talked to DPW director Paul Sincock, "He didn't give us a guarantee it wouldn't happen again.

EVERY SPRING and again in the fall, we go through and clean up the cemetery," Sincock said. "In order to get it ready for Memorial Day we do a general spring cleaning," he said, to make the cemetery presentable for families who visit.

Sincock said cemetery rules are also posted, to inform people on when clean-ups occur.

But Gusfa maintained city employees were a bit too thorough in removing decorations placed in preparation

Schools' tax base gains subdivision

By Brian Lysaght staff writer

Plymouth-Canton Schools appear likely to gain 80 acres of valuable land without paying a penny or lifting a finger.

The south Canton property is part of Van Buren School District. Officials there sought the land transfer at the request of developers, and the county's intermediate school board approved the move Wednesday. None of the governments involved opposed the change.

"They are giving us land," said Richard Egli, a spokesman for Plymouth-Canton Schools.

"I think we went from a no-win to a win-win situation," said James Richendollar, superintendent of the 6,300-student Van Buren

Pheasant View subdivision, part of Canton's 600-acre residential and golf course development, is to be located on the property. The land borders Beck Road between Proctor and DEVELOPERS Jan Masciulli and Bob Paciocco want the change to keep their planned upscale subdivision in a single school district. said Bryan Amann, the lawyer who represented Paciocco and Masciulli.

'You can't divide a neighborhood between school districts," said Amann, who is a Wayne County Commissioner representing Canton. The school districts have different tax rates.

But Amann said the issue isn't that property in Plymouth-Canton Schools is more valuable than property in Van Buren Schools.

In exchange, what the developers agreed to do for Van Buren Schools is to place in escrow a five-lot parcel of land worth $250,000. The property would be deeded to Van Buren Schools if Paciocco and Masciulli didn't develop homes on a separate site by 1996. The developers already had an option on other land in Van Buren Schools, Amman said.

"IT'S A GOOD DEAL for Van Buren Schools," said Amann. "They get a guarantee for development, but they don't really give anything up.'

Board chooses layoffs

Up to 150 teachers are expected to be pink-slipped after a Plymouth-Canton Board of Education vote scheduled for tonight's 7:30 p.m. meeting at the board office at 454 S. Harvey

Lay-offs are necessary because of the $4.3 million revenue shortfall projected for next year, say school officials.

Pink-slipping, and call backs, will be done on the basis of seniority.

Certified staff subject to lay-off include teachers; media and learning specialists; special education teachers; art, music and physical education instuctors; and other members of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association.

30-year-old police officer dies while jogging

staff writer

A 30-year-old Livonia Police patrol officer collapsed and died from an apparent heart attack Friday morning while jogging behind city hall with a group of officers on a routine training exercise, police said.

James T. Kelley — a five-year veteran who came up through the department's cadet program - was remembered by colleagues as an ambitious, yet easygoing, professional who made fast friends in the patrol bureau, especially among younger officers.

A somber mood enveloped the Livonia Police station by n.id-morning, replacing the brisk, business-as-visual atmosphere of the gleaming lobby and good-natured banter between employees along the back corridors.

Kelley collapsed at 8:49 a.m. while joining a group of SWAT team officers on their monthly training run.

He was taken by a Livonia EMS squad to St. Mary Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival. Doctors listed heart attack as the preliminary cause of death.

Visitation is noon to 9 p.m. today at L.J. Griffin Funeral Home, 7707 Middlebelt north of Ann Arbor Trail, Westland.

Irmgard Green said she'd gone to the cemetery March 29 to visit the grave of her husband David. "I had a vase, a balloon, some little notes, some pussy willows, I put them inside an urn, and my nephew put out an 8-by-10 picture frame of his mom. When I went there this last Monday everything was gone, and we were very upset," she said.

Cluster housing offered as means to preserve space

staff writer

As Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack says, this is America, and landowners have the right to bulldoze hills and trees and build whatever they please, as long as the site plan conforms with zoning ordi-

But Yack, and a growing number of others in the township, contend that Canton isn't necessarily doomed to urban sprawl at the hands of dollar-hungry developers. They say it's possible for the township to control its growth and preserve the rural beauty that remains in Canton's western half.

The recent flurry of commercial and residential development Canton has witnessed - despite the recession - has led many to conclude Canton is immune to bad economic times, and that development will continue as long as land is for sale.

While acknowledging the rights of developers, Yack emphasizes the importance of quality of life and aesthetics - assets that can be preserved while simultaneously meeting residents' needs.

"WE WANT QUALITY, controlled growth within the parameters laid out by state law," including, ideally, a diversity of housing and the pres ervation of open space, he said.

"I don't want to see any commer-cial development west of Canton Center Road. Will it be tested in court? Probably

Also, I want to see the area east of I-275 reserved for more substantial development, such as a full-service hotel, high rises and offices.

"I don't want to see more strip centers," added Yack, pointing out that 20 percent of Canton's existing strip mall space sits vacant.

As sewer lines extend westward, Yack is hopeful the community "will make some allowance for keeping the rural flavor as best we can."

The clustering of residential de-velopment would enable Canton to keep lots of open space, and keep the trees that are there," he said. Melissa McLaughlin is a long-time

Canton resident and a township plan-ning commissioner. She'd like residents' children and grandchildren to be able to enjoy the same amenities of country living she has. To that end, she's devoted considerable time and effort to studying ways to achieve that goal.

Cluster development, as experienced by states in New England, is a good way to allow development while preserving open space, McLaughlin said.

"If we continue developing the way the eastern side of the township has with the traditional subdivision kind of thing, we're going to completely eradicate the one thing that makes Canton a unique and interest-ing place to live, and that is its rural characteristics and rural heritage."

UNLIKE PLYMOUTH OR Northville, "Canton didn't have a downtown. It didn't have a core identity. Over the years, its agrarian heritage has been the rule," she said.

Carving farmland into large residential lots doesn't accomplish the aim, as discovered by Canton and communities across the country that have experimented with methods to preserve rural areas.

"People have looked at large lots as rural preservation, thinking that if they mandate that lots have to be one or five acres, that this is going to prevent urban sprawl. In reality, it doesn't do that at all; it increases sprawl and increases the gobbling up of of countryside," McLaughlin said. "That isn't preservation of a wild-life habitat; that doesn't preserve any wetlands or agriculture. It doesn't preserve anything but lawn fertilizer and some guy strapped to his John Deere, cutting acres of grass instead of cooking hotdogs with his family.

What worked in Massachusetts where towns were being obliterated by the development of large residen tial lots - can work here, McLaughlin said.

It's proven to be a win-win-winwin situation for developers, landowners, municipalities and residents, she said.

Cluster zoning - which is currently available on a limited basis in Canton — gives developers the op-tion to maintain 25 percent of the land as common open space, while building on the rest.

With traditional development, a builder can build 100 homes on oneacre lots, and there is no oper space," she said. "If he builds those 100 houses under our current cluster zoning, those 100 houses will be clustered on 75 acres and 25 acres will be maintained as open space.'

CLUSTERING CAN be used to preserve woodlands, vistas, wetdeer preserves, meadows, farmland or areas traversed by a ra-

"The developer, landowner, farmer or investment group that owns the large tract doesn't lose any money, because the density remains the same. The land sells as R-1 or R-2, regardless

"The developer who buys the property gets to build the same number of houses as under the traditional system. Plus, he gets to save money on infrastructure costs. Instead of having to build a roadway for threequarters of a mile, he builds it for half a mile.

"The municipality wins, because it's able to offer the amenities of living in a sub within a rural setting, which is extremely attractive to buyers. Witness Fox Run in Canton, which sold like they were giving the lots away," she said.

The municipality spends less to maintain sewer lines, streets and

Because of the rural amenities, residential resale value is enhanced for the long-term, which benefits local government and school districts dependent on local taxes.

"The people who buy these houses get to live in a subdivision with all the amenities of water, sewer and cable, yet they can step out their back doors and see a herd of deer, wildflowers in the spring, or a farmer out picking his pumpkins,"

McLAUGHLIN ACKNOWL-EDGES that the greater the number of clustered homes or condos, the fewer the rural amenities that can be preserved. It's the main reason she's campaigning for Canton's 25percent open space provision to be increased to 50 percent.

"The higher the density, the more you give up," she said.

McLaughlin would like to see the communities in this region that still have open space adopt cluster zon-

"I think it would be beneficial for Superior Township, Salem Township" and points west, she said.

While we're doomed to develop-ment, "at least a percentage of land can be saved in Canton so that generations from now, people will still have this kind of an environment to grow up in and enjoy.

Clerk: Preserve Cherry Hill area

By M.B. Dillon

staff writer

Canton Clerk Loren Bennett has lived in Canton ever since his birth 41 years ago.

He's seen Canton change from a mostly rural township to what's fast becoming a bedroom community. Like others, Bennett hopes the amenities of the still-rural western portions of Canton can be preserved.

Especially close to Bennett's heart is Cherry Hill Village, a 19th century hamlet at Ridge and Cherry Hill ing on a parcel-by-parcel basis. roads surrounded by farms and meadows.

same density, but it could be clustered away from the village. The open area that sets it apart from the rest of Canton is what makes it a gem.

LIKE SUPERVISOR Tom Yack, planning commissioner Melissa McLaughlin among others, Bennett favors cluster development that would preserve open space while permitting mainly residential development in western Canton.

Excluding the Michigan Avenue corridor, I see the entire western part of the community as low density, residential development," said the clerk.

That would give residents and prospective homeowners a full range of options. Canton already has higherdensity housing to the east and moderate-density housing going in along the Canton Center corridor.

The further west we go, the less density I see," he said. "What I also see is an opportunity to cluster development. I would hope that people would do a first-class subdivision, hypothetically, say on 20 acres, where you would have two dwelling units per acre and another 20 acres owned by the subdivision association and leased for maybe $1 a year to someone doing a truck farming

That would give us the quality of life that we currently enjoy in Canton Twonship, with the agricultural indus try remaining viable in Canton and open space. What people like about it is the open space," he said.

PRESERVING OPEN SPACE surrounding Cherry Hill village is the key to keeping its aesthetics, Bennett

"If we develop right up to it, then you've lost the crossroads village nature of it and we will have lost it forever. I see cluster zoning as a mechanism to pull development away and keep the charm of this Canton jewel.

Among Canton Township Board members, the jury is out on cluster development. The township now permits optional clustering on a limited basis.

Trustee Elaine Kirchgatter, who lives on i western Canton, favors the consideration of cluster zon-

"Some pieces are more adaptable to cluster develop-"I would love to see development pulled away from ment," she said. "Then again, are we talking half-acre Cherry Hill Village," said Bennett. "We could have the clustering or quarter-acre clustering? Another issue we look at is whether a piece is treeless or has a nice standing of trees. If it does, it's easier for me to accept clustering to maintain a treed area."

> Some people perceive clustering as a way for developers to construct more housing units on a specific property than they otherwise could, Kirchgatter added.

> Clustering can be beneficial on properties that have lowlands and where DNR requirements must be satis fied, she said. "There certainly are some advantages. It gives you more creativity in development. Yack acknowledges that his idea of limiting commer> cial development in western Canton has the potential of irritating homeowners who'd be forced to drive several miles to buy a loaf of bread or a gallon of milk

> To that, Bennett said, "Then why don't we have our little Cherry Hill Village with some sort of special designation, without creating a commercial mecca for Stopn-Go's and 7-Elevens?

'Maybe we could have a family bakery that would sell milk. Maybe, must maybe, that would be a way to create pedestrian traffic that would create a sense of community, rather than getting in a 2,000-pound machine and drive two miles to pick up gallon of milk.

"YOU COULD ADD a candy store and maybe a restaurant. I think that would be a gem. Rather than taking old buildings and trucking them off to an architectural museum-type setting, why not make it a living museum and allow the current buildings there to develop in that sort of manner?'

Veterans memorial fund growing

By Brian Lysaght staff writer

Wanna buy a $150 brick? A $500 flag pole?

It's for a good cause: The Canton Veterans Memorial.

Organizers have raised about $2,000 and are hoping to collect several thousand more this month, enough to order the granite used to build the monument.

With a $10,000 deposit, the stone could be sent to Vermont, where craftsmen would cut, shape and engrave the pieces, said John Spencer, an organizer. The project's total cost is $50,000.

A new round of letters was sent to local businesses this week, hoping to solicit more donations.

Fund-raising has been slow, said Spencer, a Vietnam veteran and Canton Township's financial director. The organizers "sent letters to businesses, but basically, with economic conditions the way they are, we didn't get much of a response,

THE NEW APPROACH IS a pledge program. Donors who give $150 will get a brick engraved with their name. The bricks will form a walkway to the memorial.

Thieves target computer parts

By Brian Lysaght staff writer

More than a dozen Ford trucks were struck last week by thieves with apparently one thing in mind: a plain-looking computer component.

According to Canton Police reports, the thefts occurred late Monday or early Tuesday in trucks parked on the street, mostly in the Canton Commons and Palmer House apartment complexes.

Typically, the trucks were broken into through the passenger door. In some cases, cassette tapes were taken as well.

All the vehicles were late model Ford pickups, Rangers, Explorers and Broncos. Canton detec tives could not be reached for comment Friday, but an investigator with a regional anti-theft unit called the incidents puzzling.

"They're doing something with them," said Sgt. Harold Mosher of the Western Wayne County Auto Theft unit. Similar reports have come from as far away as the northwestern lower penins and elsewhere in the Detroit area, he said. At least one area auto dealer has been struck. In Canton alone, more than a dozen trucks were struck last Wednesday and Thursday, said Det. Roy Schroeder.

The component controls the truck's electrical system, but it's not clear what their use is outside the truck. Inside the non-descript metal box is a chip that apparently has other applications, Mosher said The boxes "control all electrical functions in the vehicle — air conditioning, everything," said Schroeder. "It's the heart of the vehicle. Without this, the truck doesn't run.

A Ford Motor Company security officer said the company's parts and service employees "couldn't come up with a reason" why the devices are being stolen. One theory is that the computer chips can be used with cable television receiver and cellular phones.

Canton Police reports listed the boxes' value at $400 each.

There have been no arrests, Mosher said. "I believe it's probably a bunch of different people, because I don't think people from metro Detroit would go to Traverse City" to burglarize trucks.

Mosher also said it is unusual that none of the stolen material has turned up.

Amann said the population of the new district is 144,000, compared to 154,000 in the old district. The district was 52 percent Democrats, compared to 50 percent now, he said. Amann won election in May 1991

Some health officials believe it could take six months to one year for antibodies to surface. Red Cross officials believe the period is much shorter. "I'd say four weeks to six months," Cornillie said.

The state health department reports 48 people have contracted AIDS through transfusions — two percent of all Michigan AIDS patients. All but one were linked to transfusions given before 1985, the other to a transfusion given early that year. Statistics are for the state only. There is no breakdown for Wayne or Oakland counties.

Perhaps better than anyone, Gach and her husband, Philip, knew the pain Ashe and his family felt at that

The Birmingham couple went public recently with the news their 27-year-old son had died of AIDS, voluntarily sharing the information with area media in hope it would build understanding.

"We went public not only to build compassion for AIDS victims but for homosexuals," she said.

While Ashe said he contracted AIDS through a blood transfusion, the nature of his announcement prompted by questions from a USA Today reporter — added fire to an already heated debate over the press

"THIS HASN'T been the easiest year to be a reporter," said John Lindstrom, Detroit chapter presi-dent of the Society for Professional

The Gach family's decision to share the details of their son's life and death was applauded by Birmingham Eccentric reporter Helen Niemiec, who brought the story to readers.

"Because there's so much misin-formation and prejudice, for some-one to come forward like this — it helps," Niemiec said.

But what of people, like Ashe, who would rather keep such details pri-

Band leaves fans wanting more

With a mere four songs, the Bushmasters obviously want to leave listeners wanting more on "The Original Woodshed Sessions." The desired effect is achieved.

Whether it's the band's story-telling ability showcased on "A Dead Man's Ballad" or musical dexterity revealed with multi-layers of electric and acoustic guitar on "All I Want." this release is a gem with its oft-harmonica driven swagger.

Tim Pak's vocals do more than spill words. He creates a hypnotic sway with an alluring deadpanned delivery in "All I Want," which is touched up by some gorgeous Spanish style acoustic guitar. His storyteller tone in the grim tale of suburban crime, "A Dead Man's Ballad," sounds like it's being recited amid a dust storm in some wayward western tavern.

Pak may be given credit for creating the mood here, but the rest of the outfit Airick, guitars; Lori B, keyboards and vocals; Dave Koran, bass; and Ewolf, drums and vocals sell the package with remarkable blend of musical tightness

To this end the easy-to-please full throttle rocker, "This Ain't Goodbye," could be the typical local band number often performed at 1:35 a.m. to shake the dust from atop the cigarette machine in one of a number of venues. The Bushmasters pull it off with particular aplomb, casting an indelible, judiciously orchestrated rock number with none of the sloppi-

The jaunty, harmonica-injected in-strumental "Meet Joe 6-Pack" closes out this short-lived (14 minutes) Bushmaster encounter, which if anything speaks more to the confidence of this outfit as artists. (Greenlight Records, 20210 Plainview, Detroit 48219)

The languid, techno-keyboard rendition of Neil Young's "Only Love Can Break Your Heart" serves as an enticing piece of fruit to this British outfit's dance-pop release.

On the ensuing numbers on "Fox-base Alpha," Saint Etienne attempts to present itself as something a little more than a cast of '60s-'70s revisionists out on a merry pillage of the tunes of the era. There's an array of uptempo dance numbers, sampling and dialogue interspersed between numbers - all designed to create a carefree exodus from reality.

The opening from a French soccer program and verbage between an aunt and her nephew ("C'mon Auntie, we'll miss the bus") cut in between is seemingly intended to provide a childlike retreat.

Perhaps a carefree feeling would be achieved if it weren't for the vocals of Sarah Cracknell, who's apparently a pupil of the I-Sound-Like-Everyone-I've-Heard School of Sing-

Cracknell's vocals bear an undeniable resemblance to Sade in the steers dangerously close to a Diana Ross impersonation in "Spring." The end result, though, has St. Etienne coming off sounding like a 60s-70s

Toad the Wet Sprocket is undoubtedly a band well ahead of its years. (Columbia Records, 666 Fifth, New York, NY 10100).

Man learns from childhood trauma

I am a 35-year-old father of a 16-year-old child. I am married for the second time. After reading the arti-cle in The Observer on Monday, March 9, I decided to write.

While taking a class which explores childhood last year, I began becoming quite agitated and unable to answer the questions. The woman teaching the class took me aside and into another room. I broke down and cried harder than I had in years. In the midst of this, a childhood inci-dent which was lost in memory for more than 25 years surfaced. I had been attacked by two young men in a field and sexually molested. They also threatened that if I ever told anyone, they would get me.

After recalling this incident, nearly every time it was told, I felt an incredible relief and peace. I have also recalled nightmares that I frequently got as a child around this period. I would go down in my basement near the cellar or in the laundry rooms and skeletons would lunge out at me, scaring me to death and waking me in a panic.

I am certain these nightmares were the result of the attack in the field. I've read many books on the subject and have learned quite a bit. I've been helped by the woman who taught the class on childhood and in her courses on self discovery, but I feel I need someone who specializes in this area.

I also have had traumatic physical and emotional attacks since the one in early childhood. I was attacked by a young man when I was 23 for no apparent reason. He came up from behind and struck me in the face, shattering my left cheekbone and collapsing my left sinus passageway, requiring two separate surgeries.

I had another traumatic incident which is known as TMJ due to miscommunication with a young dentist, which also was quite traumatic. (This has been corrected as much as possible.)

I've been through more than 60 jobs in my life, but have learned this is characteristic of people who experience these kinds of shocks. I recently read about post-traumatic shock disorder and certainly can re-

I know I need additional specialized help. It angers and frustrates me that having been the victim of serious crimes that I should have to lengthy sessions. When I heard about the Royal Oak Post Office tragedy on the radio, I turned to my boss and said I would bet that this guy was himself at one time a victim that never got help. Several hours later this was brought out.

Many victims of serious crimes are now in prison or dead because victims become victimizers. Many of the homeless are the same way. I recently read that Mike Tyson was raped when he was 12 years old. This does not surprise me. It was obvious he needed help before he committed this last crime of rape.

I am sorry and ashamed to admit that this victim has become a victimizer. Lately, I have had so much anger and frustration that I've been hitting my wife's new puppy more than I ought to. It started out as a smack here and there for pooping or peeing in the house. This is quite sick, but in the beginning it felt good to reprimand her in this way. I never properly. Most of my life I denied my anger and now I don't want to deny it any more, but am overreactreally learned to express anger ing. I love that little puppy, but I need help to overcome my hate and frustration, and she is not a proper

Can you recommend anyone in this area who specializes in problems similar to mine?

Thank you for having the courage to write me and thus allow other readers to learn from your experi-ence. Since you needed treatment immediately, I'sent you a letter with the names and telephone numbers of therapists to contact for help with your problem. I hope you are al-ready in treatment and getting the help that will relieve you of such disturbing feelings.

This is a topic that is coming to increasingly greater local and na-tional attention. Childhood abuse has become a common topic on TV talk shows. In just the last month, I received two brochures advertising lectures and workshops for profes-sionals interested in learning more about the treatment of adults who had been abused as children.

Personally, I hope that the heightened societal awareness we are ex-periencing will lead to less victimization of children, and less cover-up when the abuse occurs

I wonder if you and others abused as children feel that early psychological intervention would have protected you from the unhappy existence you describe as adults. We are always interested in hearing from other readers on this topic.

Again, thanks for writing and good

Ed Harris (left) is Frankie Flannery and Joe Viterelli is Borelli in director Phil Joanou's gangster tale "State of Grace."

Film is ambitious, but script falls from 'State of Grace'

You can take the boy out of Hell's Kitchen but you can't take Hell's Kitchen out of the boy seems to be the premise of director Phil Joanou's gangster tale "State of Grace.

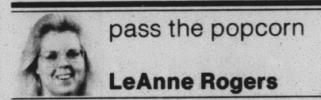

An raven-haired Sean Penn plays a guy from the west end New York neighborhood who suddenly re-appears after dropping out of sight for a few years. After connecting with an old buddy, played by Gary Oldman, Penn starts work for Westies, the Irish gangster working out of Penn's reasons for returning and linking up with the Westies is initially a little murky. The situation becomes clearer as the story progresses, it just never really becomes very plausible.

Unkempt with long dirty hair and a whiskey bottle never out of reach, Oldman is a populist criminal. He rail: against the Irish being pushed out of the neighborhood as it undergoes redevelopment.

"The yuppies are thicker than aches," he complains to Penn. Noble sentiments from a man who makes his living strong arming pro-tection money and kickbacks from local Irish business owners.

HEADING THE local gangsters is Oldman's older brother, played by Ed Harris, whose goal is to become a yuppie mobster. Harris has moved his family to a suburb in New Jersey and is attempting to put a respectable veneer on his life

When Harris tries to connect with rival Italian gangsters, it's only a matter of time before his out-of-control brother will become a serious obstacle on his road to upward mo-

Penn is supposed to be the center of the film, his story being one of at-tempting to find the state of grace from the title. He just isn't terribly successful in creating this character, largely due to the script, I suspect.

In the end, it's Oldman and Harris who are more memorable. Oldman is very good being devoted to his friends to the point of extreme violence. He's not especially likeable even in his better moments but always compelling. As always, Old-man, a British actor, meshes seamlessly with the American cast mem-

Harris is a rough violent man, desperately trying to make the transition to a dapper don. A large part of the problem is that we get very little insight into the characters, some thing that is most noticeable about

Penn whose actions start the chain of events moving. The characters played by Oldman and Harris are better focused and developed, maybe because we see more of them in their element.

THE FILM moves along well enough on the level of an action picture though some scenes, particularly toward the end, are excessively violent and unrealistic.

It's interesting to see the dynamics of Irish gangsters and their hostile relationship with their Italian counterparts. And really, the film moves ahead toward an end that is almost a foregone conclusion in the

The film is ambitious, trying to look at ideas of right and wrong and how that can get skewered by divid-ed loyalties. Unfortunately, the script isn't able to meet the challenge it sets for itself.

You can walk out of some movies and never think about them again Others take you on a roller coaster ride of twists and turns that leave ering the directions you've be

"Toto Le Heros," a new French import playing at the Maple and other local theaters, falls firmly into the latter category. This bold, stylized look at one man's tragedy-filled life is both depressing and oddly compelling at the same time.

Thomas is 60 years old and living in a nursing home. He dreams of escaping and murdering an old rival. According to his crystal-clear mem-ory, a hospital fire led to a frantic grabbing of infants that placed him in the care of a family much poorer than the one into which he was born.

As Thomas grows older, watches that other baby, Alfred, live a life of luxury and eventually inherit the family business - a chain of successful grocery stores.

In a series of flashbacks, Thomas recalls minute details of his life, including the disappearance of his pi-lot father and the strong attraction to his sister Alice, who of course is not his sister at all. His neighbor Alfred displays the actual incestuous

It's precisely this kind of twist that makes the film so fascinating. The complex narrative of "Toto Le Heros" recalls French "New Wave" cinema at its most experi-mental. But unlike the free-wheeling Truffaut and Godard, first-time director Jaco Van Dormael knows ex-

Four actors play Thomas in vari-

Bouquet's performance is perhaps the screen's best study of complete and total bitterness. Thomas' violent fantasy life often leads him to jump up during an irritating situation and eone's brains out or force a handful of pills down a nagging nurse's gullet. Of course, it's all a dream.

At other times, he is the title's avenging Toto, a hard-boiled detective who single-handedly guns down a roomful of villains who have ab-

Thomas' string of often avoidable tragedies are difficult to watch, so the best part of "Toto Le Heros" may come long after the lights go up. Few recent films have had such a stinging resonance.

Venerable General Motors went through a management shake up, the first in more than 70 years.

And now it's time for a shake up in the educational establishment.

My personal favorite would be to put every professional educator above the level of classroom teacher out to pasture. The reason is that most school districts are empires for superintendants more interested in careers than in kids. Educators have made education small a class size is or how good the teacher is. But it has everything to do with how many expenses are tacked on each kid by the school administration. That means that if a school district is over staffed in its administrative offices, those salaries are tacked on the per-pupil spending. It's how educators justify fat school budgets. Instead of calling something fat, school boards point with pride at the high per-pupil spending. They've won the war of words.

It's time for the public to strike back; it's time to question just what exactly we're getting for the per-pupil spending figure. If it's just more

Much of that administration has accumulated in school districts because of new learning programs that are unveiled every couple of years with much fanfare. The result is usu-ally more specialists in the board office, but rarely any real help for teachers in the classroom.

I've often suspected school superintendents buy into new programs not because they'll help, but because they're being backed by some buddy who runs a college of education at one of our universities.

COLLEGES OF education need to place their graduates, especially those with a Ph.d, in school systems, and to do that, educators have to

It's a version of cronyism. The only trouble is the taxpayers are the victims.

But administrators are only part of the problem. Teachers and their unions also share the blame for the per-pupil spending scam. High teacher salaries are part of the perpupil spending equation.

And those salaries get that way because the public finances teacher strikes. When most workers strike. they lose money for the time they're on the picket line.

But not teachers. The state requires a certain number of school days, so what a teacher loses in the fall during a strike, he or she makes up in the spring. We just wonder how eager teachers would be to strike, if they knew they would take a finan-

Schools are a mess and there's nobody in charge who has the public interest at heart. It's time for a clean sweep. Maybe the financial problems faced by the schools will change some attitudes. It did at General Motors.

Give up? Payouts in lawsuits rose 18 percent to $36.7 million. How's that for tax dollars at work?

The payout was 91 percent higher than a decade earlier, fiscal '82 when $19.2 million was paid out. The record was $45.5 million in fiscal '86, but generally the trend has been upward at 9 percent a year, double the inflation rate.

It's hard to understand $36.7 million, so let's put it in human terms. If a teacher costs $50,000 a year, then Michigan lost the services of 734

To the editor:

I have just read the Philip Power commentary which appeared in the March 26 Observer & Eccentric. I feel compelled to respond to it by addressing the following points.

First, I find it interesting, and somewhat amusing, that one could think that he has gained complete insight into the political and economic environment of this state after talking to but two individuals. I had always assumed that the affairs of this state were more complex than that perhaps I'm not as sensible and/or as knowledgeable as the sources

Second, other than an implied suggestion to divert more funds to Michigan's three research institutions, Power fails to make any concrete recommendations regarding this state's current financial crisis.

Because of this, he is just as guilty as those teachers, principals, school board members and legislators that he points his finger at when he demeans them for offering only lip service when addressing problems with public education.

Finally, to insult the CMUs of this state by suggesting that they cannot make a meaningful contribution to the economy of this state is ludicrous. The three research institutions of this state, including the class institution on whose board Power serves, have not yet demonstrated that they alone can provide the innovations necessary to

We have to ask ourselves some hard questions," Lindstrom said. "Arthur Ashe is a public figure, but even public figures are entitled to some degree of privacy."

The line, he admits, is watery. Ashe's situation is considered different from that of basketball star Magic Johnson, or even from an elected official.

Johnson's absence from the Los Angeles Laker lineup demanded an explanation, Lindstrom said, as would an elected leader's absence Ashe, only occasionally in the spotlight, conducted his business for nearly four years without any public knowledge of his health condition. Athletes and politicians aren't the only ones in the public spotlight.

Even though it could take eight years or more for HIV infection to lead to AIDS, health officials believe the number of Michgian residents who contracted AIDS through transfusions will increase slightly if at all.

"IT'S NOT 100 percent foolproof, but you have a much greater chance of being struck by lighting than in getting AIDS from a blood transfusion," Lawrenchuk said.

Hospitals officials agree the risk is . extremely small.

"It's not much of an issue these days though people occasionally do express concerns," said Barbara Johnston of St. Mary Hospital, Livo-

Taking no chances, officials at Royal Oak Beaumont Hospital encourage people to donate their own

"We urge all people who are having elective surgery to use their own blood," said Beaumont blood department chief Dr. Richard Walker

Allaying other fears, Walker said the hospital only uses blood from the Red Cross.

"We stopped buying blood 15 years ago," he said. While using one's own blood is the safest option, it isn't always possible. "Blood is only good for about 42 days unless you freeze it," Cornille said. "If you freeze it, it takes about eight hours to thaw. If you're in an emergency, you could be dead before your blood thaws out."

SOMETIMES TO KNOW YOU DON'T NEED TO UNDERSTAND

You may have the experience of presenting an arthritis to a doctor, which he cannot explain. Because the doctor cannot provide a diagnosis, it does not mean he cannot give advice, recommend medicine, or answer will progress to cripple you or likely will go away.

The physician may not know what your condition is, but often he knows what it is not. An arthritis of long duration in which you still swear the same size shoes and gloves, continue your job, and maintain your accustomed activities is not likely to one day rise up and cripple you. The point is that the character of your arthritis as it was and is, often allows a prediction of what it will be.

Rarely will blood tests or x-rays reveal more than the history of your arthritis combined with the findings on examination of your joints. The best way to follow your course is to see you periodically and evaluate if your condition has changed. As for treatment, experience shows that when the cause of an arthritis is unclear, the best therapy is heat, rest, and aspirin. This regimen combined with a program of regular activity fitted into your tolerance is likely to serve you best. Thus even if you do not understand the nature of your arthritis, you can still know how to handle it.

Ham it up Easter and later

Anyone who thinks that the traditional Easter ham Momma prepared, studded in glory with cloves and dripping with a glaze of brown sugar and molasses was something "thrown together" hasn't visited a good butcher shop or deli lately.

Nowadays, consumers are faced with the choice of buying a ham either fresh or smoked canned or country, sliced or boned, glazed or grazed, steak or

Barring game, pork is North America's oldest meat. Pigs came with the earliest settlers, and were set loose to fatten in the Most pork comes from pigs less than one year old, so the meat is naturally tender. Ham is a processed pork product. Smoked hams can be fully cooked, readyto-cook or country style.

THE FULLY cooked ham can be simply heated and served cube it and throw a handful into the scalloped potatoes or enjoy a paper-thin slice slathered with mustard on a fresh slice of rye.

Ready-to-cook ham can be glazed, covered with pineapple and cloves and then slowly baked These less costly varieties are generally cured by injecting brine into the blood vessels and then are lightly smoked over sawdust.

Country hams hail from the hills of Pennsylvania, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, and come complete with a strong smoky taste

It's been said that beef is beef and pork is pork wherever they hail from, but a Virginia ham is about as different from most other hams as chalk is from

UNLIKE THE pinkish soft meat of ordinary hams, the truly aged Virginia ham has a rich mahogany color, is firm and highly flavored. To get even more technical, a Smithfield Virginia ham is one of the most praised hams in the world. Seems that a fellow by the name of Arthur Smith owned a big farm, and, because the soil was too poor for raising tobacco, he farmed peanuts. The early settlers let their hogs roam wild and it didn't take them long to discover the richness and intense flavor came from hogs raised on peanuts.

If that wasn't enough, the curing process involving salt and slow smoking over smoldering hickory wood added the final touches that made this ham a favorite of Queen Victoria who was said to request 10 hams from every voyage from the New World upon their return.

IF ALL these different varieties and cuts haven't confused you, wait until you hear about the pork shoulder. A ham is a whole back leg of a pig, but a picnic ham comes from the shoulder. Add to this the Boston butt, which is really the remainder of the shoulder.

The muscles in the shoulder are separated by membranes and fatty tissue whch makes the meat juicy and flavorful. The meat has the same uses as ham, but if you prefer your pork lean, you will prefer the meat from the ham. Boston butts are great for making sausage and grinding.

A good ham can be one of those dishes that grace an Easter buffet and can keep on giving all week long. Budget stretchers can use whole bone-in hams long after Easter has departed. A great budget stretcher that won't remind us of "leftover ham" is scalloped potatoes laced with ham chunks. Another great budget stretcher is soups made of the ham bone, which should be simmered for hours with beans, onions and carrots. Leftover ham can be ground and tossed with pickle relish, mayonnaise and finely chopped onion for a great sandwich spread. Imported and specialty hams can be expensive but never underestimate the cost-cutting abilities of preparing a whole ham or pork shoulder from a reputable market.

Brunch on a budget can be elegant

Brethen changed in the past few years as turkey has gobbled its way into the meat department. Because turkeys are low in fat and calories, it is easy to understand why turkey producers jumped on the heart-healthy bandwagon and began to offer turkey in many different ways and for everyday meals, rather than exclusively for holiday fare. Whether roasted, grilled, sauteed or baked, turkey, in any form, is so good it makes you want to bow your head and give thanks.

This week's Winner Dinner, submitted by Ann Wassell of Livonia, offers a delicious, low-fat, low sodium menu that includes a favorite recipe for turkey meatloaf.

WASSELL HAS worked as a registered renal dietitian in the Kidney Center at Grace Hospital in Detroit for eight years. Married and the mother of two grown children, Wassell went back to school part-time for seven years while her children were in high school.

She earned her undergraduate degree in foods and nutrition at Madonna College in Livonia and then contimued her studies at Eastern University where she received a master's degree and became certified as a registered dietician.

During this busy period of her life, Wassell shuttled her children to and from soccer games, attended their school activities, studied hard and worked part time counseling diabetics for two and a half years at what was then called Mt. Carmel and has recently been renamed Grace Hospi-

> FRESH STRAWBERRY SHERBET

From "The French Chef Cook Book" by Julia Child, this recipe offers a refreshing and colorful end to any meal.

2 quarts fresh strawberries, washed and hulled 1 1/2 cups sugar 1/4 cup fresh lemon juice

2 egg whites 1 cup chilled, heavy cream Puree the strawberries in a blender or food processor. Add the sugar and lemon juice, beat for a few minutes until the sugar has completely dissolved and no granules can be felt on the Beat the egg whites in a separate bowl until they form soft peaks. Then beat into the strawberry puree. (Egg whites discourage large ice crystals from forming.)

Cover and freeze about four to five hours until the puree has almost set.

Beat vigorously with a wire whip for several minutes to break up ice crystals and to lighten the texture. Add the cream and beat just enough so that the mixture holds its shape in a spoon. Cover and freeze.

Children make matzah to learn about Passover

By Keely Wygonik staff writer

Making matzah, unleavened bread, is an 18-minute marathon that involves mixing water and flour, kneading, punching and rolling the dough, pricking it with a fork, and baking it at a very high temperature. Speed is essential to prevent the dough from rising.

It's serious child's play, that introduces children to the Jewish Passover season, which commemorates the exodus of the Jewish people from Egyptian slavery to freedom

IN THEIR haste to leave Egypt, the Israelites did not have enough time to let their dough for breadbaking rise. To this day, unleavened bread is eaten during the eight days of Passover. This year it will be observed from sundown on Friday, April 17, through sundown, Saturday April 25.

The Hebrew word for matzah is "Shmurah" which means watched. "The flour used to make 'Shmura' matzah is watched from the moment the wheat is cut in the field to when it comes out of the oven," said David Parker, who manned the oven at the Matzah Factory at the Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield on

The rolling pins are sanded after the dough is rolled to protect the flour from any contact with water. Water would cause the dough to rise and disqualify its use on Passover."

Nancy Vardy and Coby Vardy, 2, of Southfield roll dough to make matzah at the Jewish Community Center-Chabad Matzah Factory. Shneur Keselman helps Aaron Rapp, 21/2, of Bloomfield Hills put his finished matzah on a wooden roller that will be carried to the oven outside.

"Shmura" matzah is a darker, coarser matzah than the kind packaged year-round.

For the last eight years, the West Bloomfield Jewish Community Center has set up a Matzah Factory the week before Passover, to introduce children and their families to this

"The kids really get a kick out of it," said Amy Rosenberg, who runs the children's Discovery Room at the Center, and the Matzah Factory.

Co-sponsored by the Jewish Com-munity Center of Metropolitan Detroit and Bais Chabad groups of West Bloomfield and Farmington Hills, the factory was in operation April 5-12.

Vistors received a baker's hat, a piece of matzah, and pamphlet de-scribing the celebration of Passover. Bais Chabad students Yehuda Mann, 16, and Yacov Simmonds were among the volunteers helping the children ranging in age from tod-dler to kindergarten, make matzah.

"It's a way to spread Jewishness all around," said Mann. "It's wonderful to be a part of it," added Sim-

WITH HELP from the students, the children measured flour, added water, punched the dough, pricked it and rolled it. Students carried the matzahs outside on wooden dowel rods to an oven for baking. Children sanded the wooden rolling pins when they were through rolling.

When the matzahs were done, the children got to taste the finished

Here's a recipe from "My Mother's Kitchen" by Mimi Shera-ton, (HarperCollins, 1979)

MATZAHS 2 cups unbleached flour, more if

1/2 to 3/4 cup cold water, as needed

Preheat oven to 500 degrees

Place the flour on a board or in a wide mixing bowl and make a mound with a well in the center. Pour in 11/2 cup water and begin to stir in the flour gradually, using your fingertips or a fork. Add more water as needed until all the flour is mixed in and you have a soft pliable dough that is just barely sticky. Divide the dough in quarters. On a floured board, knead each portion of dough 8 or 10 times, working in a little flour if it is too sticky to be rolled. Clean the board of all dough scraps, reflour, and with a floured rolling pin roll the dough into a cir-cle about 7 inches in diameter and a little less than %-inch thick. Pierce the surface all over with the tines of a fork, being sure you pierce through the bottom of the dough. This will keep the matzah from buckling while it bakes.

If you have enough room in your oven or on your baking sheets, you can bake all the matzahs at once. In that case, roll out all the dough and do so. Otherwise, bake them one or two at a time, but do not roll out the remaining dough until you are ready

Lift the pierced dough over a rolling pin and turn onto ungreased bak-ing sheet or tiles. Bake for about 10 outes. When the matzah curls, looks very dry, and shows some golden-brown patches and edges, turn and bake the second side for 5 to 8 minutes, or until it, too, is golden brown Some very dark edges are desirable, for they add special flavor Remove from the oven and cool on

'Self Checkout' saves time at grocery store

At last, spring has sprung, just in time for the holidays. Aspargus is plentiful, and only 99 cents a pound in many area markets. Try the baby new potatoes. Jim Welch, owner of Fresh Approach market in Farmington said they're especially sweet this time of year

Being the skeptical journalist that I am, I decided to find out for myself. He's right. I boiled my potatoes, peeled the skins, tossed in some chopped onions, a little parsley and butter. They were delicious.

HAS ANYONE tried the new "Self Checkout" system at the Farmer Jack Supermarket at 15 Mile and Orchard Lake roads? The first of its kind in Michigan, the system allows shoppers to "ring-up" their own pur-chases at one of six "Self Checkout" lanes and pay for their orders at one of two pay stations.

Designed as a shopper convenience that saves time, the "Self Checkout" lanes will always be open. The store also offers 12 conventional checkout lanes. A new automatic can and bottle return machine was also introduced. You feed the machine your empty beverage cans, glass and plastic bottles, take deposit recipt and use it as payment for groceries or redeem for cash at the checkout

If you've tried the "Self Checkout" call me at 953-2105. Is it as easy as using your money card at the bank?

"Self Checkout" and the automatic can and bottle machine aren't the only new things at the West Bloomfield Farmer Jack. The store was expanded from 35,000 to approximately 60,000 square fee. It also includes a new self weighing device with instant pushbutton price label in the produce department; separate ko-sher meat, deli and food departments, gourmet meat counter, flower shop, pharmacy, post office and bakery. Fifty new jobs were created by the expansion. The store is at 6565 Orchard Lake Road.

If you're a fan of the CBS televi-sion show "Evening Shade," you'll get a kick out of its new cookbook. The book is comprised of recipes from the community of Evening Shade, Arkansas, Burt Reynolds, and the cast of "Evening Shade."

Cookbook proceeds will fund a $350,000 auditorium-gymnasium complex on the school campus in Evening Shade to replace a gym built in 1939. The old rock structure gym is thought to be one of only six such facilities still in use by the public schools in Arkansas.

Who knows, the book might even become a collector's item. There's a Chicken and Rice Deluxe recipe by Hillary Rodham Clinton, who is married to Democratic presidential candidate Bill Clinton, governor of Arkansas.

The cookbook may be purchased for $7 which includes shipping and handling, from the Evening Shade School Foundation, P.O. Box 36, Evening Shade, Arkansas 72532.

Here's Hilliary Clinton's recipe from the book:

CHICKEN AND RICE DELUXE 2 tablespoons butter

2 tablespoons chopped green pepper 2 tablespoons chopped onion 2 cups cooked chicken cut into bite-sized pieces 1 (6 oz.) package wild rice or long grain and wild rice, cooked

1/2 cup mayonnaise 1 (6 oz.) can French style green beans, drained

1 (10% oz.) can cream of celery soup 1/2 cup sliced water chestnuts 1/4 teaspoon salt k Pepper to taste juice of 1 lemon 1 cup grated cheddar cheese

Sautee green pepper and onion in 2 tablespoons butter. Combine all other ingredients and place in a greased 2-quart casserole dish. Bake at 350 degrees F., uncovered, for 25 to 30 minutes. Top with grated cheese and cook 5 more minutes or until cheese is melted.

Betty Crocker tip of the week: Canned hams are fully cooked when you buy them. They only need to be heated through in a coventional or microwave oven to 140 degree F. Follow instructions on the package. If ham isn't labeled, "fully cooked," roast it to an internal temperature of 160 degrees F.

Quayle tells area women to speak up, get involved

Marilyn Tucker Quayle, wife of Vice President Dan Quayle, spoke to more than 160 people - mainly women - Friday at a breakfast hosted by Jeanne Hildebrandt, general manager of the Livonia Mall.

"She's no Hillary, she knows when to keep quiet," said Elayne Nichols just moments before Marilyn Tucker Quayle, wife of Vice President Dan Quayle, was welcomed into the Com-munity Room at Livonia Mall. The room was filled mostly with support-ers of the Bush-Quayle Administra-

Hillary is Hillary Clinton, the outspoken wife of Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton who is seeking the Democratic nomination for president.

Nichols, a member of the Livonia Republican Women's Club, was among the more than 160 people — mainly women — who attended a Friday breakfast hosted by Jeanne Hildebrandt, general manager of the Livonia Mall.

And Marilyn Quayle was anything but quiet on Friday.

In a 15-minute speech, she detailed her work with the Red Cross and international preparedeness re-lief activities, the Bush Administration's commitment to regulatory reform and the need for tort reform. She discussed the importance of early detection and prompt treatment breast cancer and urged women to speak up and be active in the po-

Heads nodded in agreement and some clapped as she talked about the need to have a check on regulation that was hampering business and economic productivity, how the Congress was thwarting the President's efforts in that area and the need to reduce the cost and length of litiga-

Among a long list of civil justice reforms, Quayle, who holds a law degree from the University of Indiana

School of Law, endorsed the concept of "loser pays" to discourage an end to frivolous lawsuits. Other reforms discussed include a cap on punitive damages and doing away with contingency fees.

"These are logical reforms that need to be addressed," said Quayle, adding that "the only group fighting reform are the trial lawyers who QUAYLE ALSO urged women to perform monthly breast examina-tions and push for mammogram screening as part of health insurance packages. She emphasized the need for early detection and treatment of breast cancer.

Czech up on Prague

City evokes image of pre-World War II days

By Brenda Fowler New York Times Syndicate

For at least the past few decades Prague, Czechoslovakia, has inspired the sense that travelers were rediscovering an esthetic that Europe lost long ago. The crooked lanes largely free of traffic, the pastel-colored houses with crumbling facades, the flowing street lamps that illuminate their little patch of street and no more, the scent of burning coal in the crisp night air - all evoked an image of what Central Europe must have been like in its pre-World War II days.

The knowledge that the city's charm had not been orchestrated by capitalist tourism officials or had succumbed to the mediocre tastes nurtured by 41 years of communism amplified the marvel

But more than two years after the Czechs and Slovaks showed their Communist leaders the door and elected the dissident playwright Vaclav Havel to the presidency, tremendous changes are under way.

Not so obvious to short-term visitors is the economic misery of the country's 15 million people, who are struggling to manage fast-rising inflation with wages that have gone up little or not at

Immediately evident, however, is that Prague, and the whole country, is trying to spruce itself up, putting on fresh coats of paint and setting up touristic conveniences — such as newspaper stands with postcards and stamps - that make the city more welcoming.

New neon-lighted moneyexchange shops stay open until midnight and the country's first McDonald's has just opened. In the eyes of many Czechosolvaks these are signs of progress in the race to join the West.

But to some Westerners it was the very shabbiness, the artful neglect, that made Prague so special.

Still, it will take a lot more than 'umsily placed billboards and st-dog stands to wreck the enticements of the city. One only has to look up and across the skyline of copper domes, Gothic towers and steeples flying tiny flags; or look down to the pinkand-gold cobbles that pave many streets like flowers in a garden.

The Prague Post, an Englishlanguage paper put out every Tuesday by a band of American expatriates, contains a complete listing on entertainments.

The city has a remarkable number of theaters, though Praguers complain that much of the drama and comedy has lost its satirical edge since democracy rolled in.

The Post places an asterisk next to the plays that it thinks are comprehensible for those who don't speak Czech or Slovak.

Accessible to everyone is Prague Spring, an international music festival from May 12 to June 1. The site for many of the concerts is the Rudolfinum, a 19th-century building that has been under renovation since 1988 and will be opened for the first time for the concert May 14 by the Czech Philharmonic Orchestra under the baton of Jiri Belohlavek

The all-Czech program, with the 80-year-old Czech-born pianist by Dvorak and Leos Janacek.

Wallenstein (Valdstein) Palace, a Baroque residence built at the foot of Prague Castle, is normally not open to the public, but its Knights' Room is the setting for several Prague Spring performances, including one by the Prague Madrigalists, a choir group conducted by Pavol Baxa.

The clock in Prague's Old Town Square displays the 12 aposties, Jesus, a skeleton and a cockerel every hour.

Yet another impressive setting is the Estate Theater, formerly called the Tyl Theater, the place where Mozart directed when he was in Prague. Manfred Hemm will sing the role of Figaro in Mozart's opera "The Marriage of Figaro" in one performance only, on May 18.

Mozart's "Don Giovanni" will be performed May 24 and 26. Tickets for all concerts, between $6 and $55, can be ordered through most travel agencies or by sending a request by fax to

SIGHTSEEING

Prague is best understood on foot. One can spend days or weeks tracing the city's history through its neighborhoods — tracking down, for instance, the Cubist the Parisian movement in this century's teens (such as the one by the architect Josef Chochol at 30 Neklanova or his villa at 49 Libusina).

A traditional and more defined walk that takes not more than an hour starts on the Old Town (Stare Mesto) side of the 14th-century Charles Bridge, which during the day is crowded with young musicians and artists selling their

The walk goes through the Gothic tower at the other end and up Mostecka Street to Malostranska Namesti, the square with the Baroque St. Nicholas Church. Cutting across the square to the right, you then take Nerudova, an ancient street lined with Renaissance, Baroque and rococo houses that leads up to the

The huge castle complex is filled with interesting museums and other diversions, including the newly renovated Belvedere, Prague's most important Renaissance building, at Chotkovy

The Belvedere, a summer house that the Austrian Emperor Ferdinand I had built for his wife Maria, now houses traveling exhibitions. It is worth going inside no matter what's on. The Belvedere is open Tuesday through Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Wednesday to 7:30 p.m.. Admission is 30 cents. For more information call 206780.

One of the city's most interesting parks is the Zahrada na valech (Garden on the Ramparts), accessible at the top of the stairs from Nerudova and open daily from dawn to dusk April to October

The park was designed by the long-neglected Slovenian architect Joze Plecnik in the 1920s. The ramparts, which just skim the red-tile roofs and trees of Mals Strana below, offer fine views.

Coupon clippers cut vacation costs

Despite hopeful words and wishful thinking, the re-cession is still very much with

Most travelers are hunting down hotel and restaurant bargains like never before, squeezing every cent of value from their vacation dollars. But trying to find the best deals takes time and effort.

An increasing number of consumers are turning to hotel-discount programs — among them Entertainment, Concierge and Hotel Express.

Typically, these programs provide lists of hotels and motels throughout

North America and at certain locations abroad. The hotels and motels provide rooms at half price, with certain restrictions

Generally, the 50-percent discount is applied to the top-rack room rate, also known as the room's list price.

In some cases, member hotels will not reserve rooms at 50-percent off when the hotel is projected to be full, which for many properties means 80-percent occupied. Only a limited mber of rooms is generally available at the 50-percent discount at any given time. And there are blackout dates just as there are for fre-

Simply put, the chance of getting into a popular hotel for 50-percent off — even through a discount program — at peak travel time is slim. Flexibility is the key to getting the best value on these discount plans.

Entertainment Publications Inc., now the leader in the field, was the brainchild of Hughes and Sheila Potiker.

The Potikers were sitting in their kitchen in Detroit one evening in 1960 when they came up with the idea of a coupon book that would offer two-for-one values good for local recreational activities.

The first year in business their fledgling company sold 20,000 coupon books. This year the company projects selling 6.5 million books. The coupons in Entertainment publications offer dining, shopping and leisure discounts as well as halfprice hotel rooms.

There are now 157 editions of Entertainment coupon books covering various cities and regions of the world. The company operates 83 customer-service offices around the United States. "We've seen a sharp increase in business this last year," said spokes-man Robert McHenry. "Our 1991 revenues were $96.9 million, up 13 percent over the previous year."

McHenry attributes the rise to consumers who are looking for greater value during the recession. Make no mistake about it: Coupon

The win kept the Rocks unbeaten at 2-0 while the Rockets, defending champs in the Western Lakes Activities Association, slipped to 0-2.

Salem won the game despite making three errors and leaving 13 runners on base. Glenn was outhit 9-6 and committed two errors.

CANTON 5, FRANKLIN 1: Plymouth Canton hurler Dan Conrad allowed only two hits and struck out seven Thursday as the Chiefs beat visiting Livonia Franklin in a WLAA

CC 10-10, U-D 4-0: Opening day for Redford Catholic Central's baseball season wasn't perfect, but it was close as the Shamrocks swept University of Detroit-Jesuit Wednesday at Capitol Park.

Ace Scott Kapla, a senior righthander bound for Eastern Michigan, needed relief help from Dave Susalla in the opener but got the win; Kapla went five innings and allowed four runs on five hits and four walks, striking out eight.

Susalla, a sophomore left-hander, was extremely effective, fanning five of the six batters he faced.

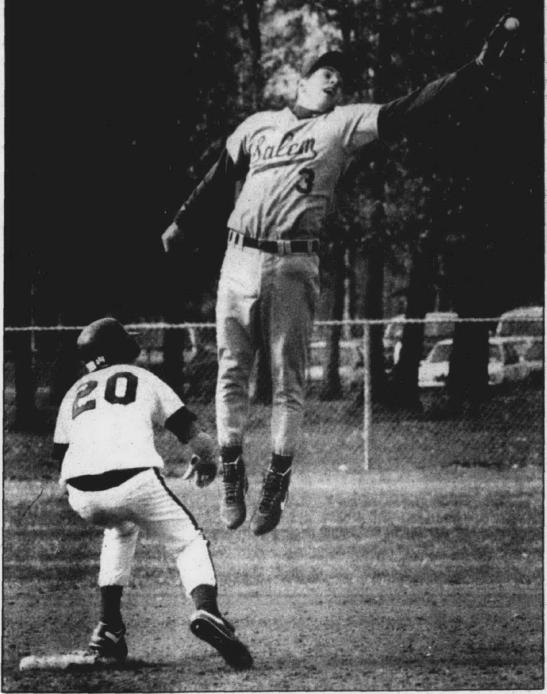

CC trailed 3-1 midway through the second inning of the opener before rallying with a four-run second. Kapla ignited the outburst with a tworun single; Dan Gusoff added a runscoring single.

We got down early and came back," said CC coach John Salter. 'Kapla was a little shakey for his first start. He couldn't get his curve over and they were waiting on his fastball."

Still, CC's offense was more than enough to compensate. Paul Kuhn had three hits and a pair of runs bat-ted in, and Gusoff had two hits and two RBI. George Charnley added a two-run single in the fifth; he totaled

Rocks thump Vikings 98-30 in girls track

The Plymouth Salem girls began the dual-meet track season Thursday by trouncing Walled Lake Central 98-30 at Centennial Educational Park.

Nikki Santilli and Theresa Giacherio were double winners for the Rocks while and Sarah Hamilton, Vanessa Benning, Tonya Wheeler and Stacey Witthoff had one individual win apiece and helped Salem prevail in three relays.

Santilli was first in the shot put (30-3) and discus (85-11). Giacherio's specialty is the hurdles and she won the high and intermediate hurdles in

"I thought the girls enjoyed the meet," Salem coach Mark Gregor said. "It was our first chance to compete as a tea start the dual meets.

"We're right on schedule. As long as we can stay healthy, we'll be OK going into May." Salem will have a makeup meet with Livonia

Canton defeats reigning champ

Junior pitcher Kelly Holmes gave up one hit this time but had another fine game Thursday for the Plymouth Canton softball team.

Holmes fired a one-hitter, struck out nine and walked one as the visiting Chiefs beat defending Western Lakes Activities Association champion Livonia Franklin 4-1.

She also knocked in the game-winning run with a single to right field in the sixth inning that gave Canton a 2-1 lead.

PLYMOUTH SALEM was limited to two hits by Westland John Glenn pitcher Cathy Mruk and lost 11-5 in eight innings Thursday.

The Rocks led 3-0 until Glenn scored five runs in the seventh in-ning. Salem tied with a pair in the bottom of the seventh, but the Rock-

Freshman Tracy Vachon was the winning pitcher in the opener, stopping Concordia on four hits and four walks, striking out two. Madonna trailed 2-1 after three innings, but pushed across four runs in the fourth — two scoring on Kristen Wasil's single — to nail down the victory.

Wasil accounted for two of the Crusaders' seven hits; Emily Skura had two others.

her strong play, taking it to the mound; she frustrated the Cardinals, giving up just three hits and one walk while fanning four.

A seven-run second inning, followed by a four-run third, gave Madonna a commanding advan-tage. Kim Supron's three-run double highlighted the second; Jill Burt had two hits and drove in three runs in the game, and Kay Lee Davis collected three hits, scoring twice.

Crusaders win pair of games

Two home runs ignited Madonna University's baseball team in the first game Thursday. Dennis Hamilton handled the task himself in the second, as the Fighting Crusaders swept NAIA District 23 foe Concordia College 5-1 and 7-0 at Concordia.

Madonna's pitching was exceptional in both games. Lou McKaig ran his record to 3-1 with a fourhitter in the opener, walking three and striking out five. Brian Paciorkowski absorbed the loss for the Cardinals, lasting five innings and giving up all five runs.

Ernie Bowling got the Crusaders (18-5 overall, 5-1 in the district) started with a solo homer in the second, his fifth of the season. Jeff Kugelman triggered a three-run fourth by slugging a two-run homer; Steve Coffell's singled in the other run. Jeff Pendell's run-scoring single in the fifth capped Madonna's scoring.

Bowling and T.C. Raptis each had two hits for the Crusaders.

In the second game, Hamilton was nearly untouchable.

Kirk Douglas stars as dyslexic grandfather

"The Secret" sheds light on important problem

By Steven Alan McGaw

Be it exploitative, violent escapist fare or lurid sensationalism masquerading as news, there's no shortage of inconsequential, dubious programming on contemporary TV From shirtless, tropics-based private eyes to alleged news programs that focus on murder-for-hire in the nation's high schools, cheap thrills appear to run rampant.

It is, therefore, all the more laudable when a series, special or telefilm not only aims to entertain its audience without aid of leggy blondes or ample gunfire, but address an important issue or cause as well. Such is the case with "The Secret." premiering Sunday, April 19, on CBS. Anchored by the full-bodied performance of Kirk Douglas (in a rare TV appearance), the movie sheds sympathetic light on the problem of dyslexia and the ways in which misplaced pride and lack of communication can augment its sufferers' woes

Douglas stars as Mike Dunmore, the affable co-owner of a general store in a sleepy Cape Cod community. Bruce Boxleitner plays Dunmore's son, Patrick, who felt his father was inattentive while he was growing up and now resents his dad's warm relationship with his grandson Danny (Jesse Tendler.) Laura Harrington is Meredith, Patrick's mild-mannered wife, who tries to orchestrate peaceful relations between her sullen, complicated husband and her father-in-law.

In his third-grade class. Danny is known as a talented artist, a good athlete and a likeable playmate. His low grades, however, are a source of concern to all but his dad, who dismisses such worries, saying. "he's a jock." When a teacher suggests testing Danny for a learning disability, Patrick is outraged and overrules his wife.

Mike, on the other hand, seems sadly sympathetic to Danny's problems and comes up with $1,200 to have Danny tested in Boston. When Patrick learns of the plan, he retrieves his son just moments before the test begins.

Meanwhile. Mike has agreed to run for the town council, urged by friends who believe he can be an effective mediator between land-hungry developers and the Cape's downtrodden fruit growers. Showered with praise, he decides winning and serving in such an office would help to fill the void left by the death of his wife.

At a candidates' debate, however, it becomes painfully clear that Mike has his own secret handicap. The proud, gregarious man now faces a decision that can affect his relationship with virtually everyone he knows especially his cherished grandson.

Douglas is endearing and effective as Dunmore. In the early part of the movie, he substitutes his trademark intensity for a winning. appropriately grandfatherly quality. When, however, Dunmore's longhidden handicap threatens to become public knowledge. Douglas vividly captures the old man's terror Boxleitner is similarly ontarget in the difficult role of Patrick, a man shackled by resentment and insecurity. Harrington gives Meredith an edgy anxiety and Brock Peters lends find support as Thurgood, Mike's longtime business partner. Tendler is likeable as Danny, if a little too Admirable in its structure and character development, Cynthia A. Cherbak's script suffers, at times, from case of corniness and a paucity of logic. Director Karen Arthur eases past most of these moments, however, and emerges with an enjoyable film that addresses its topic well. Additionally, Fred Karlin's music is nice and the scenery (the movie was filmed largely in Nova Scotia) is beautiful.

Della Reese returns as Victoria Royal when The Royal Family rejoins the CBS lineup on Wednesday

'Ask Mr. Wizard' for science in small doses Realizing even a few seconds of unintriguing airplay may prompt youthful viewers to abandon ship. Fox Children's Network plugs the leaky areas between shows with more than commercials. Crammed between the ads and a range of public service announcements is Ask Mr Wizard, a worthwhile 60 seconds of applied science A public TV and Nickelodeon veteran, Mr. Wizard (Don Herbert) is heard but not seen in this series of quickie experiments covering topics

The tidbits of technology explained on Ask Mr Wizard demonstrate the human ability to overcome obstacles through careful thought. Though some of the examples are indeed cutting edge, such as the computerized apple that measures when the most bruising occurs during shipping, the answers to other scientific puzzles are often surprisingly low-tech (How are scientists able to monitor an individual ant working among thousands of others? Mr Wizard claims that a simple dot attached to our industrious insect makes him stand out in a crowd) from astronoms to zoology.

For children who can spend half a Saturday glued to the television while cartoon rodents perform slapstick. Ask Mr. Wizard will come and go painlessly enough For those who dream of waiking on Mars or finding a cure for cancer 60 seconds of Mr. Wizard won't be nearly enough

Reader sick of Jennifer and Jack

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: How much longer do we have to put up with Jennifer and Jack on Days of Our Lives! Please help! I want them off the show —M.R. Novi Mich

Dear Reader, Jack (Matt Ashford) and Jenniter (Melissa Reeves) are one of the most popular couples on dastime. IV, especially among the sounger stewers. You will get a reprieve know though, as Melissa Reeves and the leaving in June to have ner hand.

Dear Candace I would like to know more about Rocks Paull Goldin. He plays Deanon Another World I would use to know his birthday and marital status. What did no do before AW? How old is he:

I would also the to know whatever happened to Robert Kelker-Keily, who played Sam Fowler on 4W —Ketta Mays Texarkana, Texas

Dear Reader: Goldin began his acting career in the theater. He made his stage siebut in 1977, starring opposite to Hetti Whitamis on the long-running production of Three Plays by Thornson Wilder. He has also starred in the stage version of on Golden Pond, with Frances Sternhagen and Lom Aldrege, the off-Broadway hit Feathered Serpent and several other plays.

Before accepting the role of Dean France Croldin appeared on a variety television sit oms and movies. His most soan opera part was on Ryan's Highe where he originated the role of Rick. He has also been in several teature times including time Cup or other Mirror Mirror Lambada. The Linsinkation of the Rick.

Yeshin is dateig time Life to Live's Yasmine Bleeth. He has never been married. His historias is Jan. 5, and he is 5 h s 2 is

Is to his like. A see Robert Kelker Kelk as Bo Brads in Dass of Our Lises. He has done a terrific job of stepping into the haracteriof Bo after the departure of Peter Reckell, whom he greatly resembles. When he left Reckell made the comment that he didn't think anyone could take over the part he created, but herker Kells has proved him wrong.

Send your comments to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 961009. Fort Worth, Texas, 76161-1009.
