Round Table Club fights eviction

A legal battle is under way regarding the Round Table Club's occupancy in the Mayflower Hotel and rent payments. Mayflower Hotel managers would rather lease the club's space as a banquet facility.

BY DIANE GALE
STAFF WRITER

Members of the Round Table Club have been asked to chip in $25 each for legal fees in a dispute with the operator of the 35-year-old Plymouth landmark.

The Round Table Club hired legal representation and those folks have to be paid," said Randy Lorenz, a Round Table Club board member to explain the $25 fee.

"The board of trustees feel it's in the best interest of the club to fight this thing," Lorenz added.

When the Mayflower Hotel went into bankruptcy proceedings, a receiver, Ron Wilson, president of Hotel Investment Services, took over.

The Round Table Club, a tenant of the Mayflower Hotel, pays rent for space, Lorenz said. Club directors maintain that advance rent was paid. However, Mark Demorest, the receiver's attorney, argues there have not been advance payments.

"If the club were to leave the hotel, the club wouldn't have to cease to exist," Demorest said. "It's our view that no refund would be owed. It's our view the space occupied by the club would be better used by banquets."

The receiver has tried to evict the Round Table Club, but club directors are fighting for the return of advance rent payments.

An Oct. 14 hearing was canceled and was rescheduled for this week, Lorenz said.

"We believe the receiver is liable for the refund of over $90,000 for advance rental payments he and Heritage Federal Savings Bank received," according to the letter sent to Round Table members.

"We will vigorously pursue your rights and the rights of the membership," the letter said.

Way paved for natural beauty designation

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara will meet with northwest Canton homeowners and township officials this week about a request to designate 3.25 miles of natural beauty roads.

"Bryan Amann deserves the credit for that one," said Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack. Amann has been working with northwest Canton homeowners who will present their case to McNamara for the designation in their rural area. It is not a public meeting.

Homeowners — who have worked for more than a year compiling data to make their case for the designation — received the blessing of Canton Township trustees following a public hearing Oct. 12.

The next stop on their route is to gain support from Plymouth Township officials, who have scheduled the item for discussion at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 26.

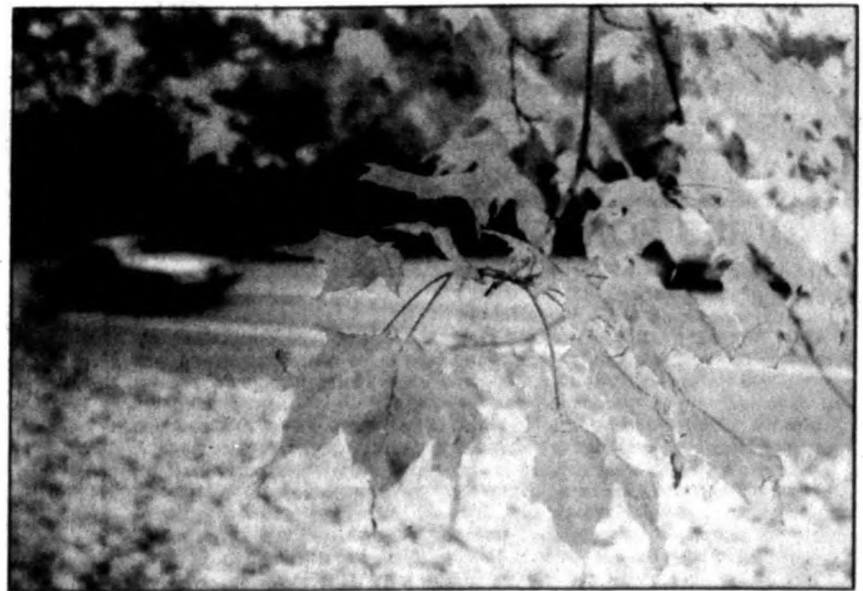

The area targeted for designation includes Napier Road, from Ann Arbor Road south to Warren; Joy from Ann Arbor Road to Ridge; Ridge from Joy toward Warren; and Gyde going east from Ridge. Plymouth Township shares Joy Road. Superior Township, from which homeowners have already received support, shares the Napier Road boundary.

Homeowners are garnering support from the appropriate local communities before they officially approach Wayne County, which, if approved, would issue the designation, under state law. The designation would be a first for Wayne County.

"By state statute, they have a lot of time to deal with the issue," Yack said.

Though the brief public hearing — there was no opposition to the designation request — went off without a hitch, reference was made to concerns offered by Detroit Edison.

Fix your own VCR

You've rented a movie, made the popcorn and you're ready for a night of relaxation.

It's picture perfect until you pop the tape in and get nothing but static. Then the VCR sits idle in a corner for a month waiting to be repaired.

Bob Brooker wants to change that scene by teaching people how to fix their own VCRs.

Brooker recently taught 15 people at the Plymouth Cultural Center how to clean VCRs and spot symptoms. The charge was $35.

"Basically what we do is teach people about 95 percent of the symptoms and explain to people where to get parts," Brooker said.

"People in consumer repair don't like it because I teach them trade secrets, but for the public it's great," Brooker said. "People have machines sitting in closets, because they can't afford to get them fixed. People can use a Q-Tip and solution and clean them themselves," Brooker said, adding that he would like to instruct another class in Plymouth soon.

Call Brooker at (517) 546-9690 to get on a waiting list.

Land goes to township

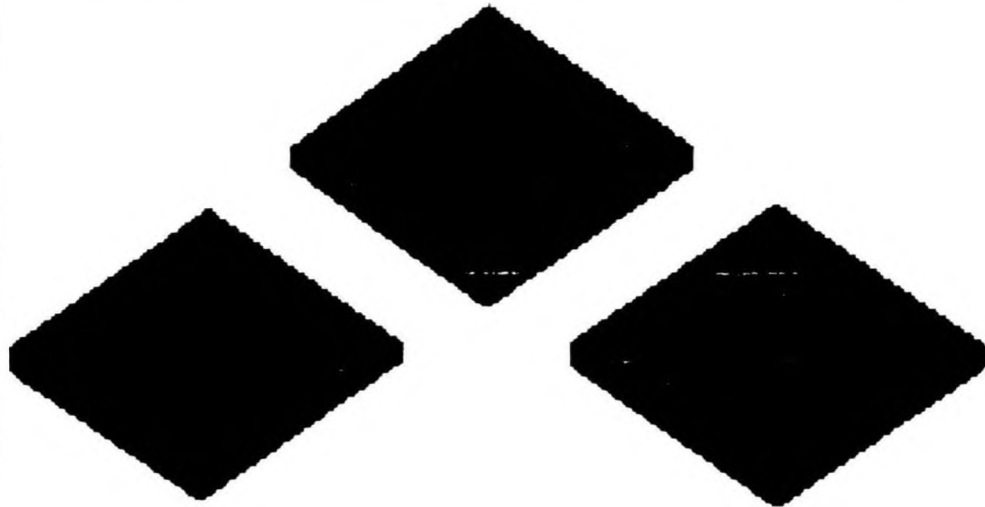

The Senate passed a bill recently that will transfer the old Plymouth Center Administration building and 15.73 acres of land from the State of Michigan to Northville Township, according to

Sen. Bob Geake, R-Northville, who sponsored the bill.

The Plymouth Center was closed in the early 1980s. Since then, the Department of Mental Health has used the building for community placement services. The department has decided the facility is no longer needed for state purposes and has placed the facility into surplus.

"This represents a great opportunity for our community," Geake said. "By transferring the facility from the state to Northville Township, the township will be able to relocate the township hall, as well as use the facility for many other public uses.

"The state is also a winner in this arrangement. The continued public use of this facility will prevent the site from falling to the same fate as the old Wayne County Hospital that now stands abandoned just next door."

Governor's school plan leaves educators cold

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton educators see little merit in the school reform package Gov. John Engler is proposing.

Engler recently announced his desire to end what he called the "monopoly on mediocrity" by introducing across-district schools of choice, charter schools, and eliminating closed shops for teachers.

Under schools of choice, students could elect to attend any public school they wish, regardless of its location. Charter schools could be set up by educators and non-educators, as long as they were approved by the state.

"Are we all going to be Sam Bernsteins on TV, trying to tell why our school is better than the school next to us?" asked Chuck Portelli, president of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association.

"If that is what education is about and these are the kinds of choices parents want, it escapes me.

"I think parents should have choices when there are choices to be made," he said. "But if all schools are teaching the same thing, the same way, within the district, and it's a choice for convenience because of a baby sitter down the block, I don't see the advantage."

No survey of the district's 750-plus teachers has been done, but Portelli said most teachers are doubtful. "Speaking in general terms, I've got 750 people raising questions. There are a lot of concerns as to how you can do what he is proposing."

Allen Elementary School teacher Marjane Baker said she's nervous. "I feel Engler is really taking some big steps and the whole thing could turn out well, but it could be a disaster."

Baker would like to see teachers asked for input.

"Everyone thinks they know how to run a school, I guess because they went to school. Teachers have a lot of knowledge about teaching and about children's learning. It would be really nice if people listened to us." People are so negative about schools in general. It seems to me no one is willing to look at the positive things happening."

Judith Stone, West Middle School principal, predicts Plymouth-Canton will draw heavily if schools of choice are implemented. "I certainly think we are an excellent school system and probably a lot of people would choose to come here."

A concern is large class size, she said. "There's only so much time in a day or class period. The more children in a class, the less instructional and interaction time they're going to get."

"We certainly have an opportunity for reform. I hope it doesn't become a battleground."

Portelli, like the Board of Education, said it's unfair that only districts currently spending more than $6,500 per pupil will be able to levy local millage. Engler's plan calls for a basic, statewide foundation grant of $4,500 per student. Funding would increase annually at a rate of 1 or 2 percent. However, districts currently spending $6,500 or more could levy local property taxes to bring revenues up to where they are now.

"This district has been fiscally responsible for years, and now it's going to be punished because of it," said Portelli. "I see that as being grossly unfair to this district and to parents who won't have the chance to enhance the dollars that will come to their children." Plymouth-Canton Community Schools spend roughly $5,200 per pupil.

Portelli also objects to Engler's plan to allow teachers to opt out of unions, likening the governor's actions to a "witch hunt against the Michigan Education Association."

"I don't see how paying teachers less money, if that is the ultimate goal, is going to improve education. If you don't have rights for teachers, then you're not empowering teachers. If you're going to empower teachers, empower them and let teachers help in decision making."

"We don't have empowerment here. My job exists because teachers need to have their rights protected. When teachers aren't treated fairly, you have a union form, and it happens in Plymouth-Canton.

"My bottom issue is that Engler would like to disband or do away with MEA. We have political clout. We figured out the system and are using political action committees the way other interest groups have for years. Now it's not appropriate for teachers to be able to exercise and voice their concerns. Frankly, I disagree, unless you ban all PACs, which I could live with," said Portelli.

The MEA recently took out full-page ads in local newspapers saying Michigan's parents, teachers and communities need to work together and make their voices heard to make sure children "not politics — come out the winners."

Portelli suggested that the state "deal with real issues of reform, and not cosmetic ones."

Police officer ends up in jail

A 36-year-old Detroit police officer was jailed last week for 15 days after breaking probation on a charge that originated April 2, 1991. The Detroit resident was found guilty for non-sufficient funds when he wrote a bad check at Don Massey Cadillac, Plymouth Township police reported.

The $2,900 check was for a Mercedes.

Kids linked

Six youngsters, mostly 12-year-olds, were linked last week to a case involving the theft of money from a honor system snack box that was in the teacher's lounge at Fiegel Elementary School on Joy Road.

A similar breaking and entering occurred in Canton Township, police said.

Odds and ends

A 1991 Chevy S-10 Blazer

was reported stolen from Vic Tanny on Ann Arbor Road last week.

A resident of Red Maple reported to Plymouth Township police last week that someone threw a number of red substances at the south side of her house.

A Pineridge resident reported that someone smashed the passenger side window of his 1993 Taurus that was parked in front of the residence last week.

An Appletree resident told Plymouth Township police last week that someone shot both door walls on the side of her home with a BB gun.

A Normandy Street resident reported that a cassette-disc player was stolen from his 1992 Lincoln, which was parked in the driveway, according to police reports.

Former hostage recalls years of terror

BY SUE BUCK
STAFF WRITER

When ex-hostage and former Associated Press editor Terry Anderson last year began researching his newly-released book, "Den of Lions," the FBI denied access to the files concerning nine terrorists he cited by name.

"I received a letter stating that I could not have the files, unless I received a notarized statement from each of these gentlemen giving me permission to have their files, otherwise it will be a violation of the Privacy Act," Anderson, 45, a former Westland resident, told a crowd of almost 1,000 recently at the Royal House in Warren. "God save us from violating the privacy of terrorists."

Anderson said that he is still "looking for one interesting, useful fact" in the mounds of blacked out documents he received from government agencies.

He added that he's not going to quit his records search now that the book is out.

"I'm happy to say that the Clinton administration is issuing new guidelines for the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA)," Anderson said. "The presumption, now, is towards release, unless you can show that demonstrable harm would be done. That's a remarkable about-face. At least we won something."

Clinton's cabinet members are passing the order down to observe the FOIA, in spirit as well as letter, he said.

"He (Clinton) released a memo Oct. 4 which states, in effect, 'the FOIA is important to me, comply with it,'" said Lucy Dalglish, National FOI Chair for the Society of Professional Journalists. "Attorney General Janet Reno also issued a four-page memo that rescinded President Ronald Reagan's 1987 memo which closed records. To me, that says, they damn well better comply."

Anderson calls his research his "adventures with the Freedom of Information Act."

"I discovered, as many people have, that the FOI Act is a type of a game these days, where the other side — which is bureaucrats — loses if you get any information out of them," he said.

Responses mailed back to Anderson invariably stated that "they are not going to be able to answer within the deadline of 10 days."

"So what they are telling me is that I don't care what the law says, we are not going to do it anyway."

In one package containing some 60-plus pages, 47 pages were completely blacked out. "Boxes and boxes of news stories, some from the AP, which were stuck in (government files) became classified, then had to be declassified, even though several hundred million people had already seen them," he said.

Anderson's book tour continues until Nov. 10. At each stop he relives his 2,455 days of captivity and the 15-20 prison cells he endured during his captivity. He was abducted March 16, 1985, by the Islamic Jihad, a terrorist group.

Anderson plans to become involved with political reform in New York.

"But I'm not running for any office," he said.

For the first seven years of his life, Anderson could not see his newborn daughter Sulome grow up.

He spent months chained to chairs, without bathing.

Anderson's book shows fiancée Madeleine Bassil's pain and how she became as much a hostage as he did. Bassil, who is now married to Anderson, refused interviews during his captivity. However, she did send videos to Lebanese television stations on Sulome and Anderson's birthdays.

She wrote several chapters in the book.

Bassil writes about grappling with her unplanned pregnancy, raising a child alone for seven years, briefly contemplating suicide, struggling to remain sexually faithful, even though she wasn't married and neglecting her physical appearance.

Although Anderson doesn't like to be called a hero, he considers his wife one. "Heroes are people like Jimmy Carter, Nelson Mandela and people like my wife," Anderson said. "Heroism involves choices. I didn't have any."

Anderson also remembered his Detroit roots. "This is not my first time in Detroit," Anderson said. "I lived here, some considerable time ago."

He joined the Associated Press Detroit bureau in 1975, but was laid off after six months. He then went to work for the Ypsilanti Press.

"I learned just what it means to put out a daily newspaper, even a small one and how difficult it is," he said.

CURES FOR ARTHRITIS

The newspapers, radio and television recently announced a new cure for arthritis, grinding up chicken bones and serving this concoction twice a day to people with painful joints.

The story reflects the daily information that the public receives, to think that drinking this chicken soup will cure arthritis is absurd. Yet the basis for the public announcement came from research undertaken by experienced investigators working from sound scientific principles.

What the public heard was a simplified version of their results. Individuals interested in getting paid for a good yarn or taking the first step for an upcoming scam, distorted the story.

The closer truth is that present medications for arthritis, though limited in their effect, will likely retain their present importance. Thus the opportunity exists for a sympathetic response by the public to therapies brought forth as cures, though these discoveries may be hazardous and will without doubt prove expensive. Today it is chicken soup, yesterday it was injections of shark cartilage. Tomorrow it will be something equally simple and silly.

What intrigues and continues joint inflammation is not fully understood, how to prevent joint wear is as yet unanswered. No research in arthritis at this time deserves the accolade breakthrough.

Students put together ghoulish haunted house

BY DIANE GALE
STAFF WRITER

Leave it to a group of teenagers to put together a haunted house and get ghoulish results.

Some 110 students in the Plymouth Canton High School and Plymouth Salem High School Close-Up program for 10th graders went all out with their spooky ideas for the brave who walked through the converted offices at Canton Landing on Ford Road east of Canton Center.

"It's just kids' imaginations," said Mike McPartlin, a Plymouth Canton High School student.

The tour through the scary maze begins with an announcement: "Fresh meat."

Money raised by the event will go to the Close-Up program, Growth Works and the Canton Community Foundation.

Close-Up is a government program that culminates in a trip to the country's capital in March. The cost next year will be $950 for every student.

"We want to help a little bit with the cost," said Bill Joyner, foundation executive director.

Twenty-five students work nightly as ghoulish characters in the haunted house. Each student receives 20 hours of community service credit and $50 each toward the trip to Washington, D.C. Close-Up students are required to have 10 hours of community service each semester, Joyner said.

He credited McPartlin and Joe Bunting, a Plymouth Salem student, as the driving forces during the three weeks of putting the haunted house together.

Community members also chipped in. Silver Sounds donated light equipment and sound effects. Bayview Electric donated electrical equipment and Dick Lewiston, a developer, donated lumber.

The haunted house is open weekdays 6:30-9:30 p.m. and 6:30-11:30 p.m. on the weekends through Oct. 30. The cost is $5 per person and $4 on Sundays. Adults are admitted free if they bring a child, Joyner said.

After Halloween, the haunted house will be used by Canton firefighters as a training facility to demonstrate how to get out of smoky buildings, Joyner added.

Morning breath: "Fangs for the memories" is the message given here.

Ouch: Kim Lewis, a Salem student, takes a jab at Alise Couling, a Canton student, during one of the haunted house scenes.

Deadly scene: Students, with the help of a prop, create a scary sight in Devil's Cove.

Scary students: Different Close-Up students from Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton work at the haunted house daily.

Kiwanians specialize in community involvement

BY DIANE GALE

Whether your busy time is in the morning, afternoon or evening, you really don't have an excuse not to join one of three Kiwanis clubs in Plymouth.

The group recently started a Kiwanis Club of Plymouth Breakfast Club to attract people who are available only at that time of day. Kiwanis already has the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth, which originated in October 1925 and the afternoon club, the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth, which started in May 1967.

The group commonly known as the "builders" are behind many community projects like the erection of shelters in Plymouth Township Park, Salvation Army endeavors, and support to the Plymouth Fire and Drum Corps.

"The Kiwanis considers themselves builders of the community and anything that relates," according to Soren Pedersen, public relations spokesman for the evening group.

The last few years, the internation Kiwanis organization declared that Kiwanis groups throughout the nation would focus on helping youth.

"We would like people to join Kiwanis to help promote their community," Pedersen said. "The traditional Kiwanis Club is one of the strongest vestiges of the strength of American values, traditions and hopefully family orientation of the community."

Kiwanis is hoping to attract new people.

"We are striving for members," Pedersen said. "Too few people want to take the role of salesman for whatever it is they believe in, but we're all salespeople and if you have any belief in something you have to sell it."

The local Kiwanis clubs recently installed new officers. They are: Kiwanis Club of Plymouth, president Dan Andrews; first vice president, Bob Gall; second vice president, Gary Gaylord; secretary, Bill Miller; treasurer, Brian Kluger; past president, Chuck Ploughman; and board of directors, Denise Chapman, Bob Brooks and Don Kobeck.

The Colonial Kiwanis Club of Plymouth, president, Jim Eldridge; first vice president, Fred Hill; second vice president, Jim Grutga; secretary, Greg Ferman; treasurer, Tim Yoe; past president, Dave Latawiec; and board of directors, Lee Harrison, Victor West and Vince Mogos.

The Kiwanis Club of Plymouth Breakfast Club, president, Mary Lou Szott; first vice president, Gary Krueger; second vice president, Tom Hickey; secretary, Mary Nalepka; treasurer, Mike McKernan; past president, Bill Decker; and board of directors, Nancy Petrucci, Jim Montroy and Tom Labeau.

The breakfast club meets 7:15 a.m. Wednesdays in the Mayflower Hotel; the afternoon group meets at noon Thursdays in the hotel and the evening club meets at 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays in the hotel.

If you are considering joining one of the clubs, members ask that you attend a meeting. No reservations are needed.

Bow hunters have successes to report

Ron Molter, 43, of Plymouth Township killed a 4-point buck at 25 yards with a bow and arrow in Hillman, Mich., on Sunday, Oct. 10.

Scott Weier, 29, of Canton killed a button buck with a bow and arrow at 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 9, while hunting in Kalkaska County. He had the young buck, probably a yearling, processed on Sunday.

We want to know about your successful hunting season. Whether you bagged a buck or a doe with rifle or bow, give us a call to report the kill. We'll publish your name. Call us at The Observer at (313) 459-2700.

"Due to this extraordinary problem, we are forced to ask the membership to contribute to a legal defense fund so we may continue to pursue the just resolution of this situation."

Lorenz said withholding advance payments hampers the club from finding another location.

Another letter to club members expresses a dissatisfaction with the way the receiver has run the Round Table Club.

"The board received assurances from the receiver of the hotel that he would operate the club in the fine manner club members have come to expect," the letter said.

"This has not been the case, the board continues to address the receiver's closing of the club to accommodate nonmember banquets, inadequate staffing, the lack of a newsletter/social calendar and failure to promote new memberships."

Demorest said the receiver is operating the hotel, including the club, as efficiently as possible.

"The receiver has been able to turn the hotel around from a position where it is basically breaking even," Demorest said.

Meanwhile, the Round Table Club letter also announced the Lorenz brothers, Scott and Randy, want to repurchase the hotel.

They have a buyer who would not be interested unless the Round Table Club continues in the hotel, the letter said.

"The bank has not set a price or placed the facility up for auction," according to the letter.

The letter states that the only options left to Round Table Club members are to: remain in the present location; promote the reacquisition of the hotel by the Lorenzes' interests; move the club to a new site in the immediate area; or disband the Round Table Club.

In a letter to township engineer Tom Casari, Edison governmental executive Charlotte Mahoney expressed concern about restrictions on the utility. "Detroit Edison believes in good quality of life within a community and is not opposed to natural beauty roads; we are nevertheless concerned about any unreasonable restrictions that when placed on our construction, maintenance and restoration activities would place an added burden on any or all of our customers," Mahoney wrote.

She expressed concern about costs involved with upgrading or new construction of utility lines along natural beauty roads, particularly if lines must be constructed underground. "The customers requesting the underground construction are charged for the additional costs. Of course, even underground construction may require the removal of some or all trees in the construction area," she wrote.

Mahoney also mentioned the possible need for rights-of-way for construction outside the road right-of-way (which would be protected under the natural beauty road designation), as well as costs charged to a customer if overhead road crossings are prohibited and boring of the road is necessary.

Mike Olin, Northwest Canton Homeowners Association president, told trustees he understands Edison's viewpoint. But Washtenaw and Oakland counties have designated natural beauty roads. "The utilities have found a way to work within those guidelines. It shouldn't be a problem here either."

Homeowners, who gathered approximately 800 signatures on a petition, are basing their case for the designation on what Oakland County — which has about 24 miles of natural beauty roads — requires, because Wayne County doesn't have any such designation.

According to Yack, however, Wayne County staff is working to develop its own guidelines.

Oakland County's evaluation system is based on population. Of 650 points, an effort needs a minimum of 350 to be designated a natural beauty road. Among the criteria is the percentage of right-of-way covered by natural vegetation, as well as the scenic vistas and wildlife as an indication of environmental quality.

On each of the roads included in the designation homeowners have amassed points in the 450-570 range, Olin said.

The primary intent of natural beauty road designation was to preserve the native vegetation and scenic beauty. Yet the designation does not prevent development and does not determine the speed limit. The designation also doesn't prohibit installation of lighting, but it can prevent widening and additional infrastructure.

Gov, treasurer defend tax plan

By TIM RICHARD

■ 'Give me a break!'

John Engler
governor

County commissions, city councils and township boards will have to raise property tax rates and face the voters when Lansing puts a halt to revenue sharing, says Gov. John Engler.

Senate Bill 1, which wiped out school property taxes, freed up an average of eight mills that previously went to schools. Engler proposes to end $670 million in state grants to local units, allowing county boards to replace them with three local mills, cities with six mills and townships with three mills.

"What are the locals complaining about?" said state treasurer Doug Roberts one day after 1,000 local officials rallied to protest Engler's plan.

"They're saying we don't like it when you cut our revenue sharing. Some individuals (local officials) have been very candid, saying, 'I don't want to vote to raise taxes.'"

"Well, I'm saying, 'Excuse me, but that's what you were elected to do — to raise the taxes you thought were needed.'"

"They say, 'We prefer that the state raise the money and give it to us,'" said Roberts. Engler and his economic guru answered suburban editors' questions for two hours over lunch in the executive residence Thursday.

"We do expect the locals to raise the property tax, and we've included that in our numbers. We expect locals to raise $774 million, and that's included in our ($300 million net) tax cut."

"I cannot express my frustration any more than this. We've said to locals, 'Seize the opportunity to control your own destiny.'"

End lobbying

"There are two types of revenue sharing in Michigan. First is constitutionally dedicated revenue sharing from the sales tax. We are not talking about (ending) that."

"We're talking about statutory revenue sharing. It comes from three places: the income tax, the single business tax and the intangibles tax. It is then collected by the state and distributed by what is called a 'relative tax effort' formula that nobody can understand.

"The first argument is philosophical. Why should the state collect money and then, based on the lobbyists' pressure at the moment, distribute money on a formula that nobody understands and only breeds cynicism about government?"

"Some locals (officials) say, 'Wait a minute. I can't go back to my voters and raise taxes.' Listen to what we're saying. Listen! Listen to us before you jump."

The state constitution provides for an automatic Dec. 1 property tax levy of 15 mills. County allocation boards split the mills between units of government — typically five mills for the county, eight for schools and two for townships. Under SB 1, schools no longer will levy property taxes, freeing up their millages for other units.

Cities operate under home-rule charters that fix their property taxes at up to 20 mills. The six mills of additional taxing authority that Engler wants to give them would be over and above their charter millages.

"But they're going to have to sit as local officials and raise the taxes they think necessary," Roberts said. "The county board of commissioners (and local councils) will have to vote. The constitutional amendment which we want on the ballot does this."

Engler scoffed at county officials' complaint that they would lose revenue from delinquent taxes.

Local treasurers also complain they will lose 1 percent collection fees as property taxes drop. Locals raise a total of $30 million on delinquent taxes, $84 million in interest on delinquent taxes, and $38 million from property tax administration fees.

"As a matter of public policy, we shouldn't have delinquent taxes," Engler said. "Every citizen should be able to afford to pay their taxes. But property taxes are so high that we have delinquent taxes, and they (counties) are looking at them as a source of revenue."

"We say you'll get the collection fees on the taxes you collect. But they say, 'We want the collection fees on the taxes we no longer collect.'"

"What would really get the support of local officials," Engler added, "is if we mandated that the counties get the two mills, cities six mills and townships three mills. Give me a break!"

Engler said that politically the odds are that state revenue sharing will decrease rather than go up. Therefore, local units are better off with their own taxing authority than in pleading with Lansing to be nice to them.

"We're also saying that if there's any extra money left over, they can use it for two purposes — roads and transportation, and economic development."

Refer to the governor's proposed constitutional amendment when writing to your state legislator in the State Capitol, Lansing 48913.

Tame the beasts with Hallo' sweets

As it's candy corn season, I'm the mom who rummages through her children's trick-or-treat bags looking for those tiny packages of bright orange and yellow kernels. Halloween is a great excuse to indulge in your favorite sweets, send an incredible edible to a friend or throw a costume party with lots of confections on the menu.

The Epicure Shop on the third floor at Neiman Marcus in The Somerset Collection is alive with ghosts and goblins, black cats and pumpkins, all of the mouth-watering variety.

The jack-o-lantern mug filled with chocolate pumpkins ($12) makes a clever hostess gift, or select a box featuring a smiling pumpkin face or grinning black cat. Each holds candy pumpkins and orange and black jelly beans ($13). The decorative basket full of peanut butter crunch is an ideal party favor ($5.50). Morgen Chocolates ties up ghosts and jack-o-lanterns in curly ribbons for clever solid chocolate treats ($5-$12). And Neiman's own candy kitchen creates fancy Halloween truffles and chocolate-covered Oreos in spooky motifs, including skeletons, bats, spiders and pumpkins. Tuck one in a homemade spider web, add the child's name and use as a place card.

Neiman's also assembles custom gift baskets of candies. Their harvest display features a large straw basket brimming with beautiful Joseph Schmidt pumpkin-shaped truffles and chocolates boxed in autumn-hued leaf design ($7-$20).

Recipe ideas

While browsing the Epicure shop, flip through Neiman's new family cookbook, Pigtails and Froglegs ($19.95). The collection of kids' all-time favorite recipes prepared by adults, benefits four national children's charities. Neiman Marcus customers contributed to the brightly illustrated book, including Barbara Bush, Elton John, Joan Lunden, and our own Gloria Nycek from Dearborn. Look for her delicious Polish torte.

Barb Osborn works quietly under the street lights in the wee hours of the morning transforming her shop's windows into seasonal works-of-art. You can see her imaginative handiwork when you visit Just Nuts, 217 S. Woodward in Birmingham. Osborn and her partner, Cindy Kenyon, fill tins, bags and acrylic boxes with gummy put rats and tarantulas, syrup-filled ghosts, spooky soups, bat corn and mellowcreme pumpkins. Or opt for the more traditional autumn mix jelly beans and Halloween malt balls.

If your sweet tooth craves caramel apples, try Osborn's. She hand picks Empire apples in Romeo, then dips them in melted caramel. "They're crisp, tart, and don't get soft," she promises.

Other treats

Just Nuts has everything you need to create a bewitching Halloween atmosphere — wooden characters ($12-$75), lighted haunted houses, creepy garland ($3), even a collectible German witch nutcracker ($68.50).

I filled a decorative bag with ribboned parcels of candies to send to my "starving" son at college. Even big kids enjoy receiving a care package of treat around All Hallow's Eve. A little sugar tames the monster in all of us.

Lauder gives a lesson

It was all about make-up and skin care and the women loved it. Estee Lauder's "More Than A Make-over" program at Twelve Oaks Mall almost sold-out last week and set the stage for future events.

"Ladies after this, life will never be the same!" Lauder make-up consultant Jeannette Noell of Livonia told her table of workshop participants. "We're going to teach you how to correctly use our products and feel beautiful."

Noell continued her lesson by stating that the most important part of making up is to "blend your colors. You want people to say, 'Gosh, you look great. Not, I love that blue shadow.'"

Her group giggled like school girls and leaned into their tabletop mirrors to dot concealing cream under their eyes and pat it in with their ring fingers because there's "less pressure on the skin this way."

The tips were endless for the next hour-and-a-half and the group thoroughly enjoyed the advice.

Christine Krebs, promotional specialist at Estee Lauder Cosmetics, said last week's "More Than A Make-over" program at Hudson's Twelve Oaks Mall store in Novi was a prototype for a project Lauder hopes to take across the United States.

She acknowledged that it might look like Lauder was copying the world-famous Mary Kay Cosmetics home parties, but she insisted the workshop came from customer requests for more training and advice about make-up and skin care routines.

The Country Shop at Hudson's was temporarily moved elsewhere in the Changes drive the marketplace

Tiffany & Co. is celebrating its first year anniversary in Michigan with the introduction of a new product line, Streamerica.

Streamerica is a 30-piece collection of stainless steel accessories celebrating the 1930s Streamline movement in American design. The products feature sleek, simple industrial designs that break with the flamboyances of the 1980s.

For inspiration for Streamerica, Tiffany designers studied the Zephyr, the Hoover Dam and the Pickwick Landing Dam in Tennessee where the designs were shaped to conform to the force of the stream, allowing movement through air or water with minimum resistance and maximum speed and efficiency.

Some of the items in the new collection include desk and personal accessories, writing instruments, watches and jewelry. Prices range between $125 and $3,800 for the highlight piece, a World Time Watch with bracelet in stainless steel.

Linda Donovan, manager of the Troy store across from Oakland Mall in the Oakland Plaza, said opening week sales were better than expected and customers were signing up for the craft classes.

Crafters like Michaels

Five Michaels stores have opened around metro Detroit just in time for holiday craft projects. Each store carries more than 40,000 items for do-it-yourselfers who like to work with flower arrangements, stitchery kits, frame art and sweatshirt paints, to name a few.

"They have an assortment of things we haven't seen in other craft stores," said Sandy Adas, who shopped the Shelby Township store on Hall Road with her daughter Lee. Lee said moms will be glad to know that each store has a Kids Club where little ones can be dropped off to make projects while moms and grandmothers browse.

store for the Lauder event. Dozens of make-up consultants dressed in navy and teal suits presided over tables draped in white linen at which four or five customers were seated right out on the selling floor. Lauder's experts helped their charges fine-tune personal make-up routines, educating them on a complex product line with new advances in skin care treatments.

"We have six different cleansers and over 80 different eye shadows and let's face it, that's a pretty complicated product line,"

Krebs said. "Because of the expense and technicality of our products, it's important for customers to leave the counter knowing how to use them correctly. We hope this program does that. Women can practice and ask questions while they are applying products specially chosen for them by professionals."

Everyone interviewed said it was an answer to their prayers.

"I've wanted to do something like this for a long time," Kathleen Jess of Redford said. "We're traveling to Pennsylvania Saturday to watch the U. of M.-Penn college football game with my husband and I want to look especially nice. This is a great chance to get some personal attention."

Marilyn Zucker of Farmington Hills agreed.

"I want to look better and find out what's new," she explained. "I've been a Lauder customer for years and I know the quality of the product. I just want to be sure I'm using it right."

Barbara Jeffries of Plymouth

added, "Besides, it's just plain fun."

Lauder officials said they hoped to do $100,000 off the event. Each participant walked away with a personal product list and price chart for future reference. No pressure was placed on attendees to buy the merchandise. The seminars were free.

Many shoppers walking by the make-up tables, stopped to inquire how they could get a seat. Lauder may offer the workshop again in the spring.

Oakwood event teaches kids about safety

Survival flight: Anthony Ruda, 3½, (from left) and Anna Wurster, 3½, both of Canton, get a chance to sit in the University of Michigan Medical Center's Survival Flight helicopter. Lex Williams is already thinking of next year's health and safety day for kids at Oakwood Canton Health Center.

"It was really neat," said Williams, who coordinated the event that drew more than 400 kids to Oakwood Saturday, Oct. 9.

Originally, Williams had expected about 800 kids to attend the event that introduces them to health and safety, fire and crime prevention. But poor weather kept many of the kids at home.

Nonetheless, Williams, who works at the emergency room desk, has no doubt those who did attend had a good time and left with a lot more knowledge. "We had a teddy bear and doll clinic," Williams said, adding that this helped kids learn to overcome their fear of the emergency room, as well as health care personnel.

Kids also got a peek at Survival Flight, the medical helicopter that transports injured people, as well as an ambulance and Canton police and fire vehicles. Tours through the Canton Fire Department's Fire Safety House taught kids how to get out of a smoke-filled house.

The day was also an opportunity for the parents to have their children fingerprinted and to pick up drug education information.

More educational entertainment was brought to the kids when McGruff the crime dog and Sparky the fire dog made their appearances. A magic show was provided, as were games, including a bean bag toss.

Answers To Your Credit Union Questions

Isn't a Credit Union the same as a bank?

No. A bank is a commercial business established in order to make money from its customers to produce profits for its stockholders. A credit union is a not-for-profit cooperative established to meet the financial needs of its members. All members have one vote each in the cooperative, regardless of how much or how little money they have in their accounts. Credit unions are often able to provide financial services in a very cost effective manner.

Do credit unions pay taxes?

Yes. Credit unions pay a variety of local taxes, service fees and other costs. In addition, credit union members pay personal taxes on the dividends (interest) they receive. Since credit unions do not make profits, they do not have any profits on which to pay taxes.

Can anyone join a credit union?

One must be a part of a "common bond" that makes up the field of membership to be able to join a particular credit union. Not everyone can qualify to join every credit union. However, most people may qualify for credit union membership through their work, church, association or community. 3.6 million people in Michigan belong to credit unions, which means more than one out of every three citizens are members. The largest Michigan credit union has more than 100,000 members while the smallest has fewer than 100.

What are some of the advantages of using a credit union?

Credit unions exist to serve their members. Financial industry surveys have consistently shown credit union members to be more satisfied with the service they receive than bank and S&L customers. Members have the power to direct credit union policy and even replace the board of directors if they choose. Since they are not seeking to earn a profit from their consumer members, credit unions usually charge lower rates for loans, credit cards, checking (share draft) and other services and often offer higher interest on savings.

Are Michigan credit unions federally insured?

Yes. Every single Michigan credit union, whether state chartered or federally chartered, is insured by the federal government through the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA).

Doesn't a financial institution have to be insured by the FDIC to be safe?

No. The FDIC was established to insure banks. When the S&L crisis bankrupted the S&L fund (FSLIC), FSLIC was merged into the FDIC.

Credit unions are insured through the NCUA's fund (NCUSIF) which is the fiscally healthiest of all federal insurance programs for financial institutions.

Are Michigan credit unions safe?

Yes. Michigan credit unions are among the most secure financial institutions in the nation. Less than one half of one percent of credit union loans are for commercial purposes. The other 99.6% are in home mortgages, car loans and small consumer loans.

How is a credit union governed?

Members elect a volunteer board of directors, which sets the policies of the credit union. In small credit unions, the elected treasurer often acts as manager while volunteers carry out the various functions of the organization. Larger credit unions hire professional staff to run day-to-day operations of the institution. The credit union holds an annual membership meeting each year and each adult member, regardless of how much money he or she may have in the credit union, has one vote.

Michigan Credit Unions Are A Secret Success Story

Credit unions have been called the "secret success story" of the financial world. While crisis after crisis rocked the financial industry over the past decade and stories of junk bonds, leveraged buyouts, corporate takeovers and third world debt filled the news, the quiet little credit unions kept chugging along, serving their members and keeping their house in order.

Credit unions don't chase around the world seeking the highest return on their money. They exist to serve their members. So the money deposited in Michigan credit unions didn't go to finance real estate developments in Texas or luxury apartments in Brazil, it went to work in your community to help ordinary people buy homes and cars, to send kids to college and to provide a little breathing space for working people.

Yet, despite these modest goals, the combined assets of Michigan credit unions topped $13 billion last year and 3.6 million people in this state belonged to a credit union. That's almost 40% of the population.

As always, credit unions were focused on the needs of individual citizens. The distribution of loans from Michigan credit unions was 36.6% in general consumer loans, 33.6% in auto loans and 29.4% in home mortgages. Only 0.4% fell into the commercial category and those were primarily agricultural loans.

What's more important, surveys done by the banking industry continue to show that credit unions set the pace in consumer satisfaction. The annual consumer survey taken by The American Banker revealed that while consumer satisfaction with financial institutions in general was falling, 77% of credit union members stated they were "very satisfied" with their credit unions compared with 57% of bank customers.

In addition, 36% of credit union members reported that service improved over the past year compared with 19% of bank customers.

Through it all, credit unions have set the standard for safety and security in the financial industry. You may not hear about credit unions in the news all the time but that may be the final proof of how credit unions are the "secret success story" for Michigan consumers.

'Proactive' officials make it safe to flee 'burbs

Once met a woman from the northern 'burbs who'd just gotten a job Downriver. She told me that she and her father had planned a way for her to get to work without driving through Detroit.

I smiled, nodded politely and thought, "Boy, suburbanites are weird."

Now, I'm beginning to understand the horrible sense of fear and helplessness that grips a motorist who happens onto the turf of thugs who know nothing but hate and envy.

It's how I feel late at night when I leave the Observer & Eccentric office in Livonia and fly home to Detroit on I-96.

If you read this paper regularly, you know that teenage gangs have infiltrated the suburbs of western Wayne County.

Their colors, symbols and gestures are cropping up in Livonia and Redford, in Westland and Garden City, even in quaint old Plymouth and rustic Canton.

Lucky for law-abiding nerds like me, the pillars of the community see this as an opportunity to be proactive.

Police, teachers and parents have been getting together to discuss the problem and keep track of just where it's headed. If the gangs haven't yet overrun the streets, it's just a matter of time — unless we proact now.

Consider what Redford Police Chief David Parker says:

"I'm not aware of any reports of residents being assaulted, but there's no way of predicting how far they might go."

Now you know why I race home, gripping the steering wheel, looking from side to side, never relaxing until I reach Telegraph Road.

Chief Parker may sound like a character from "High School Confidential!" the 1958 cinematic saga of teenagers gone to hell, but I feel safer knowing he's proacting.

Ken Watson, superintendent of the Livonia schools, is another community pillar who isn't sitting on his hands, waiting for gangs to rule the streets.

"Waiting until we get a large amount of gang activity will make this extremely difficult to deal with," he warned.

The Livonia schools have enacted a policy that prohibits clothing, jewelry, symbols or gestures that may be perceived as gang-related. The Wayne-Westland schools have adopted a similar policy.

Watson explained:

"Gangs are an ever-changing problem. This month's symbol may not be next month's symbol. The items of clothing continually change. One week it could be a red bandana; then it's a rubber band over the wrist. We have to keep abreast and have a policy to cover all contingencies."

Thank God we have police chiefs and school superintendents protecting us from red bandanas and rubber bands. This is proaction at its best.

I just hope some smart aleck kid doesn't call the American Civil Liberties Union and challenge the districts in court. The rules probably would be tossed out on the grounds that they're unconstitutional, not to mention totalitarian.

As if the Constitution matters when decent people like me are trying to get home in one piece.

Those of you who don't take this seriously should listen to Livonia school official John Rennels. He says suburban gang activity begins innocently with bored teens imitating the urban fashions they see at the movies — and can quickly escalate to drugs and violence.

What we have here is suburban kids taking their fashion cues from kids in the ghettos. Hey, I don't want to sound racist, but can crack and illegitimate babies be far behind?

And if you shudder at the thought of crack babies in the suburbs, just think of what will follow: rap music!

Now, if only I can figure out how to get to work in Livonia without driving through the suburbs.

What's the truth about those MEAP and SAT scores?

QUESTION: Every newspaper or magazine I read points out how poor our high school graduates perform in the area of basic skills, especially reading and math. I teach in a school district where our MEAP and SAT scores have gone up. How much fact and how much myth do these journalistic news makers deal with? What process would insure children learn basic reading and math skills?

ANSWER: In general, most newspaper and magazine articles report what is called "group data," the easiest data to gain access to and the poorest type of data to quote from.

For instance, newspaper articles consistently report how SAT scores have decreased nationwide over the years. The inference then can be made that SAT scores are down in every school district including this readership area. Yet, I know for a fact, from talking with administrators, that SAT scores have increased in many districts in this newspaper's readership area.

However, when the SAT scores of the middle and upper middle class school districts in this readership area are averaged in with Detroit and other communities with massive social problems, the overall SAT score in Michigan and nationwide is down. And an overall column on SAT or MEAP scores being down is, I guess, much more newsworthy than breaking out the data and looking at each district as an entity unto itself.

All this withstanding, we do have a major problem with too many younger adults graduating with weak basic skills for reasons that can no longer be blamed on newspapers nor rationalized away. What are some of the major issues?

■ Many districts have used social promotion (moving the kid on because he is too big for the desk and may beat up on smaller kids on the playground) for years. Regardless of how much time and energy teachers and principals devote to non-disciplined adolescents, there has been minimal pressure on those students to "put out or get out". Instinctively they know what the mandatory age 16 system is all about, a system that will carry them on their backs, often to graduation.

■ We create middle and high school remedial (refresher) math and English classes for non-performing students taught by those teachers who don't want to be there (they want the more disciplined, less obnoxious, brighter students). And then we give the kids the same material (basic math and English skills) year after year, with no accountability at all required of the student or their parents.

■ If the remedial math or English teacher retains certain kids, he/she gets those same kids back next year in the same textbook, possibly the same seat. Mandatory education says they are your responsibility, teachers, whether they sit and study or sit and vegetate. It is a babysitting job.

■ In some school districts, if a teacher, especially a middle or high school teacher takes a hard line and flunks those who are doing literally nothing, a conference with the building principal will result.

For those who weren't aware, most principals keep data on their teachers' grading style. Give an abundance of A(s) and you could be suspect, give too many E(s) and better have a reason. And if the principal believes a teacher is not using the correct teaching methods and pushes too hard, he can expect the district's MEA representative to raise the question of the academic freedom clause in the contract, a clause that says I have freedom to teach the way I believe best.

■ But don't just blame the MEA or the building principal because the central office staff often requires principals to keep the grading data. So the blame, obviously has to end up, as always, in one office — the superintendent.

The end result of social promotion is the high school social studies teacher who holds within his/her grip the last requirement for graduation, government. All seniors must pass government or they do not graduate. And now the government teacher has inherited those "remedials" who have been passed through the system.

Regardless of how we paint the picture or rationalize, there are children graduating without the basic skills necessary for success in the work place. And community colleges have now inherited the task. Your question about a process to ensure that children learn the basic skills will be answered in my next column.

Ficano sympathetic to Nichols' woes

BY PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER

His counterparts in Wayne and Genesee counties — as well as his predecessor in Oakland — had words of understanding for Oakland Sheriff John F. Nichols, whose department has been racked by allegations of corruption and misconduct.

They liked the way in which he handled what has been termed the "worst political corruption in Oakland County history."

Wayne County Sheriff Robert A. Ficano and Genesee County Sheriff Joe Wilson were asked about problems within the Oakland department last week in separate phone interviews.

Also contacted was Johannes Spreen who, like Nichols, was also elected to three terms as Oakland County's top cop.

Ficano, Wilson and Spreen are Democrats. Nichols is a Republican.

Separately Ficano, Wilson and Spreen said they have no first-hand knowledge of the problems alleged to have happened within Oakland's sheriff department. Furthermore, each said he will not attempt to judge the defendants.

But each said he followed developments as reported in the media because of professional interests.

Imperfect systems
"No system is perfect," said Ficano, referring to allegations of corruption that lead to the arrests of three command officers and three deputies within Oakland County work release program and the Rochester Hills substation — both supervised by Nichols.

Also arrested earlier this month were the mayor of Rochester Hills, her aide and three former inmates at the work release program.

Ficano, whose department has similar programs under which inmates can work during the day in lieu of going to jail, said any bureaucracy could be subject to corruption.

Work programs amount to "day parole" programs under which inmates do not wear the traditional prison uniforms and come and go according to individual schedules, he said. Deputies get to know the inmates, and there can be the temptation to exchange favors.

"It happens," Ficano said.

"The key is checks and balances." The checks and balances within his department lead to the firing of two civilian employees within his work release programs, Ficano said. But otherwise they have been scandal-free, he said. "We watch them, and we audit them."

Wayne County has a traditional work release program based in Hamtramck and an alternative work program under which non-violent inmates who do not have jobs can work on public projects, such as cleaning Hines Park Drive.

Work release time

Much of the alleged corruption within Oakland's work release program focuses on deputies allowing inmates more time away from jail or their jobs — or consideration for reduced sentences — in exchange for favors, according to Prosecutor Richard Thompson.

Inmate Joseph Bergin, who was also a loan officer at the First Security Savings Bank in Bloomfield Hills, is charged with bribery for allegedly trying to arrange a no fee, no cost mortgage for sheriff's Sgt. James Coutu, who is charged with nine felonies, according to the prosecutor.

Deputy Arthur Kinney is charged with misconduct in office for allowing then work release inmate Greg Motriuk to install flooring at his home at discounted rates, according to Thompson. At the time Motriuk, who is not charged, worked at Rochester Floors and Interiors, according to the prosecutor.

Thompson said these incidents are part of a pattern of "corruption and favoritism" within the Oakland work release program.

Genesee County Sheriff Wilson said that kind of corruption is always a danger. Deputies — including command officers — are human and thus can be tempted to trade favors for material gain. "But it's very hard to keep something like that quiet. Usually somebody knows what's going on, and invariably they talk."

Handling corruption

The only way to deal with corruption — once it has crept into a department — is directly with vigor, said Ficano, Wilson and Spreen. And that's how Nichols approached alleged wrongdoing within his department, they said.

"He (Nichols) could have let those deputies leave or retire," Wilson said. "But he didn't. He went after them. I give him credit."

Former Oakland Sheriff Spreen also credits Nichols with handling the alleged corruption appropriately. But Spreen was critical of Nichols for not exercising more control.

"You've got to wonder if he (Nichols) was asleep at the switch, or if he is simply too old to be a good manager," said Spreen, who was reached at his retirement home in Marine City.

Although they have much in common, Spreen said he and Nichols aren't close friends. Each served as police commissioner in Detroit before moving to Oakland County. At one time Spreen had Nichols as an undersheriff before Nichols became police chief in Farmington Hills.

Spreen scoffed at Prosecutor Thompson's characterization of alleged wrongdoing within Nichols' department as the "worst political corruption in Oakland County history."

"There's a lot worse political corruption than that," Spreen said.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Be adventuresome, please guests with pate

Pates sound exotic and beyond the reach of the home cook. They are simply a mixture of sausage, spices, herbs and other ingredients that are usually baked in a terrine, earthenware dish or other mold.

Sausages, on the other hand, are stuffed into a casing, and cooked or cured.

Once you understand the basic rules, you can take liberties with just about any pate recipe and have fun creating your own concoctions.

Pates are not at all that difficult to make. They are wonderful for parties because they taste better when made a day or two ahead of time. Most basic pates are made with pork, veal and/or chicken liver.

Anyone who hunts, or has access to exotic game birds like duck, pheasant and quail can also easily prepare pate. In addition to the main meat, organ or fowl, most pates are made with a classic French blend of herbs and spices dubbed quatre epices.

Quatre epices is a combination of five spices usually ground together. Classic cooks use a mortar and pestle to hand grind these spices into a pungent melange. But busy cooks can use one of those small "mini-chop" food processors with good results. There's nothing wrong with good old elbow grease, but when you have an appliance that can do the same with the push of a button, why not, I ask?

The basic recipe is as follows:

QUATRE EPICES

- 1/2 cup white peppercorns
- 1 ounce crystallized ginger
- 1 ounce fresh nutmeg
- 1/2 ounce whole cloves
- 1/2 ounce fresh cinnamon

Combine all ingredients in a mortar and grind to a smooth blend with the pestle, or place ingredients in a mini-chop food processor and pulse on/off until ground to a fine powder.

Store in a tightly closed jar. Makes about 7 ounces.

Although many European countries have produced characteristic pates, the unrivaled queen of the traditional mixtures is France's astronomically costly pate de fois gras.

Made of goose liver and marinated in Cognac and flavored with truffles, this pate is out of the home cook's reach.

The chief component is liver of geese force-fed by hand until the liver has grown to one-fourth of the bird's total weight.

Fortunately, American law now forbids force-feeding, and if you can afford the Cognac and truffles, good chicken liver is an acceptable substitute.

To make a good pate, you need proper tools. A meat grinder offers the best choice for a good grind, but a food processor, pulsed on and off in rapid intervals, will suffice. The terrine or baking dish can be specifically designed just for pates, and made of everything from earthenware to porcelain. Your's truly can count on one hand the number of times I've made pate, and when I did, a good, sturdy, heavy duty bread pan worked just fine.

For optimum results the pate should be baked covered, and when made with excessive amounts of fat, and/or slab bacon, should be covered with foil and weighted down with a double-wrapped foil covered brick. Don't be concerned about your guests questioning the bread pan or brick as they are used only in the baking process and the pate is generally unmolded onto a plate for easy slicing and serving.

Great pates are made with Cognac. Unfortunately, I disagree with the French on this point, and have gotten excellent results with a bottle of E&J brandy.

If the recipe you have or will be using calls for truffles, those exotic little fungi sniffed out of the ground by pigs, give the pigs a break, and allow your wallet a rest and substitute 1/4 cup pistachio nuts for each truffle. Truffles are available at all fine food shops and most gourmet stores but be prepared for sticker shock. I like to finely grind a few pistachio nuts into the meat blend, and then sprinkle some whole pistachio nuts throughout the mixture just before pouring it into the pan to be baked. The only other secret to a good pate is to remember to bake it in a hot water bath. Make sure the water comes at least half way up the sides of the pate pan for optimum results. You can also bake a pate in a puff pastry crust (en croute) but the juiciness that is extracted during the baking process usually makes for a soggy crust.

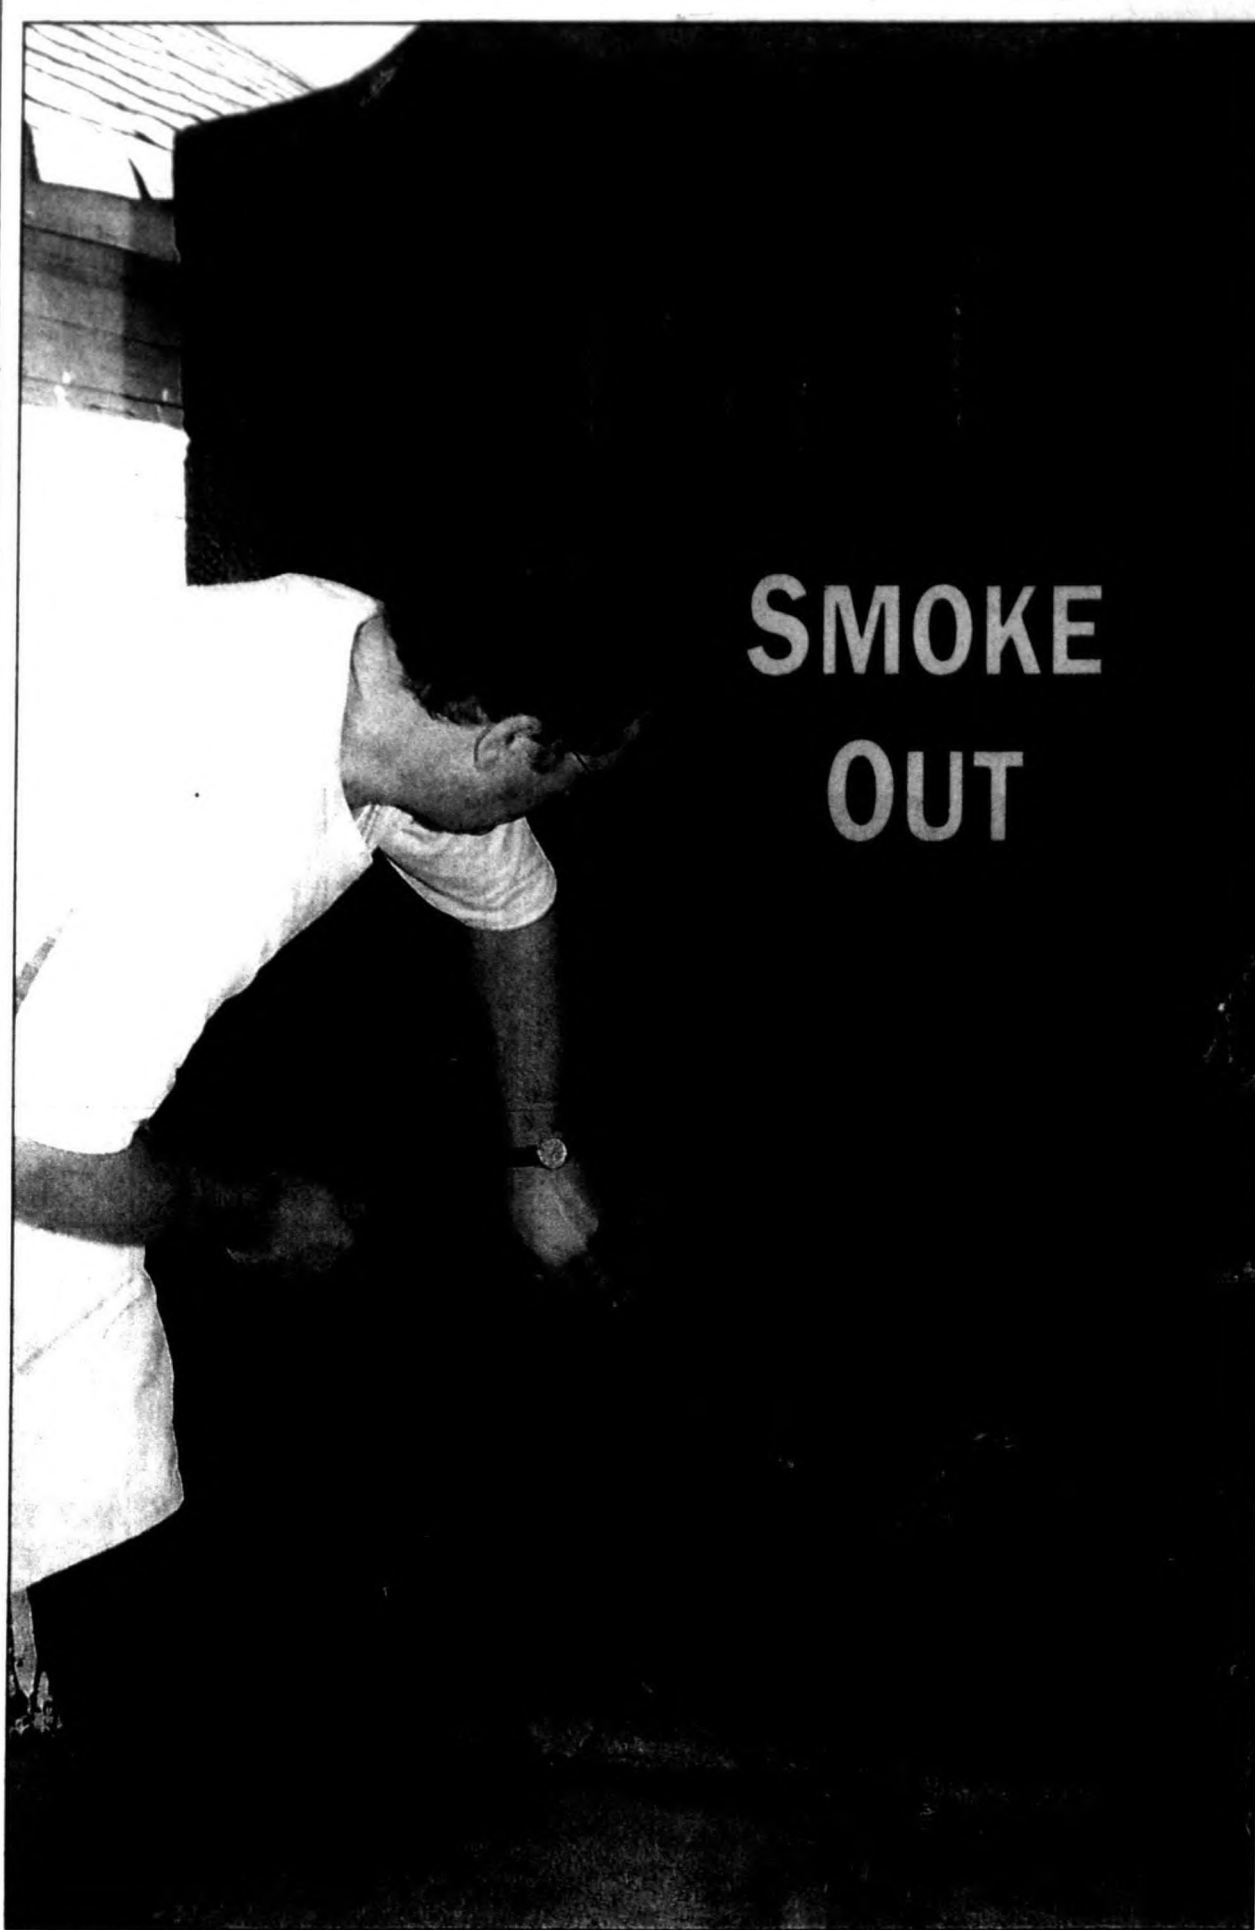

Get adventuresome some cool fall weekend. If you've never made sausage or pate before, don't be afraid to give it a try.

Families share sausage-making secrets

Homemade sausage is the stuff memories are made of. Making sausage isn't as difficult as you might think. Three families share tips.

It's time to hoist storm windows, rake leaves and put the garden to bed for the winter. It's also sausage-making season for folks like Dr. Howard Hamerink, an established dentist in Plymouth.

Making a batch of homemade sausage isn't as difficult as you might think.

Hamerink finds time between crowns and cleanings to join his Aunt Josephine Molenda of Romulus for an enjoyable weekend making sausage. Over one weekend they'll mix up 60 pounds of Italian and Polish sausage in Molenda's kitchen.

Hamerink and Aunt Josephine make sausage twice a year — usually the first weekend in November and the week before Easter. Most of it is distributed among family and friends during holidays.

Traffic Jam taps into dairy-brewed beer

FOCUS ON WINE

ELEANOR & RAY HEALD

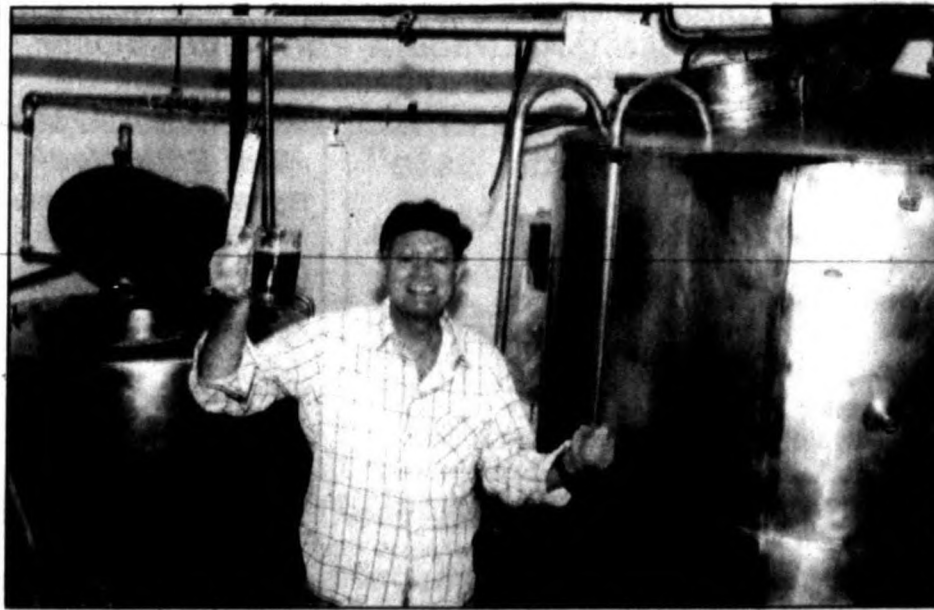

Half of Michigan's breweries are at Canfield and Second in the shadow of Wayne State University. You read that correctly. OK, here's the skinny.

If you discount Stroh Brewery which today, although fully licensed, is not operating commercially, then Michigan has only four breweries, but two are in Detroit at Canfield and Second.

Selling kegs only since the end of May 1992, is The Detroit and Mackinac Brewery, brainchild of creative restaurateurs Ben Edwards and Richard Vincent who've operated the Traffic Jam and Snug Restaurant at Canfield and Second since summer 1965. East-side attorney, turned brewmaster, Tom Burns is turning out 60 kegs weekly. It is sold in about 100 restaurant/bar locations in metro Detroit and as far north as The Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

The second microbrewery at the Canfield and Second location is Michigan's first Brewpub, selling its ales on draft at the Traffic Jam, known affectionately by its patrons as TJs. On Dec. 18, 1992, after many years of discussion in the state legislature, Michigan became the last Midwest state to enact a brewpub law.

Edwards, a home brewer all his adult life, planned for this day for many years. In the early 1980s on a trip to Europe, he learned about a common practice in Belgium. For centuries, monks brewed beer and made cheese with the same equipment at one location. In 1988, Edwards licensed The Midtown Dairy and made his first commercial cheeses. Today, he makes about 20 different varieties that are sold only in the restaurant or the on-premise Take-Away Cafe counter. These cheeses are delicious and bargain priced between $1.50 and $4.50 per pound.

For two years running, Edwards has claimed the Grand Prize at the Michigan State Fair for his cheese. This year, it was for Svecia, better known as butter cheese. He also won blue ribbons in four out of five categories.

After brewpubs became legal in Michigan, Edwards applied for the necessary inspections and licensing. That's right, the cheesemaker put on his brewmaster's hat and began making America's only dairy-brewed beer. This year, tappers began dispensing at TJs in July.

Current brews include Altbier, Autumn Amber Ale and Gold Rush Ale. "But these will change," said Vincent. "The whole idea of a Brewpub beer list revolves around the brewmaster."

Ben has plans to make Red Eye, an alcoholic Ginger Beer, hard cider, a smoked beer, and for the holidays, a Christmas Ale.

"Anybody who's into brewing and doesn't make a Christmas Ale is out to lunch," said Edwards. "At TJs, we never make the same bread, so why would we make the same beer?"

It also appears that Edwards will make the champagne of bottled beers. He recently purchased 560 champagne bottles from winemaker Larry Mawby and plans to produce a bottle conditioned beer that will be available about November 1. And what will he name it? "We're still working on that," Vincent said.

husband Ed who built a smokehouse from scratch right behind the garage.

The weekend usually starts Saturday morning with a trip to their favorite butcher packing house in the Eastern Market area of Detroit for about 75 pounds of pork butts, and a pound package of natural hog casings.

Saturday afternoon is spent around the family dinner table trimming pork from the bone, grinding seasonings, cleaning casings, grinding and mixing in spices.

Trying to pass on the tradition, Hamerink coerces his sons Scott, 16, Johnny, 11, and daughter Holly, 14, to help mix up the large batches of sausage which are refrigerated over night to enhance the flavor.

Aunt Josephine claims the secret to their great sausage is the fine grind of meat coupled with the heavy grind of the fat, that when properly mixed, produces the juiciest sausage.

Hamerink is quick to agree, but adds the secret is in the smoking.

The sausage is stuffed, tied with string and strung over old oak dowels that rest on the walls of the smokehouse pre-stoked with home-grown apple, cherry and hickory woods and a bushel or so of dried corn cobs.

While Hamerink is happy with 60 pounds of sausage, Frank and Tony, father and son owners of the new Chimento's Italian Market in Livonia turn out more than 600 pounds a week of their homemade sausage. The freshest of spices and only the best pork butt is the secret to their sausage which customers can purchase plain or in breakfast links, hot Italian, fennel, Cheese Parsley and Wine, Green Pepper and Onion and lastly, garlic.

Anyone familiar with Italian markets probably remember the Chimentos from Alcamo's, Dearborn's oldest Italian market.

Whereas Hamerink uses an old Hobart grinder/stuffer acquired from a butcher shop, the Chimentos use a brand-new Brio grinder/mixer/stuffer from Germany. Reliable machinery is one of the Chimentos' secrets.

A recent tour of their market on Plymouth Road between Stark and Farmington Road, which has a grand opening scheduled for the first week in November, finds all the spices an amateur would need along with a choice of casings, both fresh and salt packed.

The fresh meat counter is packed with pork, and exceptional pastel-hued veal, making a trip to Eastern Market unnecessary.

The Chimento family suggests for the best tasting fresh sausage, use only a natural casing, and before stuffing, soak the natural casings in a big bowl of cool water doused with about a ¼ cup of lemon juice for 5-10 minutes.

Frank Chimento claims that this step "tenderizes" the casings, but adds you should do this no more than 10 minutes. The lemon juice will tenderize the casing, and any more time in the soak might make the casings too fragile to stuff.

Our final sausage source is MaryAnn and Dave Olesewski of Troy. They've been making sausage for the past seven years. They make sausage in batches of 10 pounds or less with a Kitchen Aid mixer with a food grinder and stuffing attachment, and a mortar and pestle for grinding spices.

The Olesewski's became interested in sausage-making after finding a recipe in one of Grandma's old shoe boxes that was made by their grandfather and his grandfather before him.

In the fall the Olesewski's make venison sausage as Dave is usually lucky after a weekend hunt in Oscoda. Mary Ann and Dave suggest using plenty of good fat coupled with about ¼ pork butt as the venison by itself is rather dry and tough.

Like Dr. Hamerink and the Chimento family, the Olesewski's suggest that for the best tasting product, pan fry homemade sausage in a heavy fry pan with a little water or par boil it to keep it moist, and finish it off in a roasting pan.

Hamerink likes his sausage served with pierogis and mashed potatoes while the Chimento's suggest a jarred Oliverio brand mix of peppers and tomatoes.

The Olesewski's do as momma would have, simply serve it roasted with plenty of kapusta, otherwise known as sauerkraut. See recipes inside.

At T's, "Triple Play," a sampler of all three beers, is $3.50. A 7-oz pour is $1.50, 14-oz shell is $2.50 and a 60-oz pitcher is $8.95. All beers have a table tent description, so you can choose between light and fuller and dry to sweeter.

While the brewpub idea is new to Michigan, it has been a west coast phenomenon for some time. "Until 20 years ago, all beer was made the way we do it," Edwards said. "If beer is fresh, it will always taste better. It ages about as well as lettuce."

Restaurant patrons can view the dairy and brew room from the observation balcony in the Big Room at any time. If you've not home brewed or tasted at a Brewpub, then you might be surprised to learn that the beer is unfiltered and appears slightly cloudy in the glass or shell. This fact, added to the beer's freshness, is what makes these brews so flavorful.

Edwards offers this comparison by asking a question. "Which tastes better — fresh cider from the mill which is unfiltered and slightly cloudy, or filtered, clear apple juice in a bottle? We all know the answer.

"Brewpub beer will be the alcoholic beverage choice of the 90s.

BASIC COUNTRY PATE

- 1/2 pound chicken liver
- 1 pound pork butt, ground
- 1 pound veal, ground
- 2 eggs, lightly beaten
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon fresh ground pepper
- Pinch of ground allspice
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onions
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup brandy
- 1/2 cup pistachio nuts (optional)

8 strips bacon
Grind chicken livers with ground meat. Mix the ground meats in a large bowl with the eggs, salt, pepper, allspice and thyme. Set aside. Sauté onions in the butter until they are soft but not browned. Pour the brandy into the pan and deglaze it. Allow to cool slightly and add to meat mixture. Stir in pistachios. Mix well.
Line a rectangular bread pan on the bottom and sides with strips of bacon. Leave enough bacon to overlap the pan so that it will completely cover the top of the pate. Spoon the ground meat mixture into the prepared pan. Fold the bacon strips over the top. Cover the pan with foil and place a cover on the pan. (see column about brick).

Set the prepared pan in another pan and add hot water which will come at least half way up the side of the pate pan. Cook the pate in a preheated 350 degree oven for 2 hours. Turn off heat and allow to cook an additional hour. Remove pate pan from the oven and place a brick wrapped in foil on top to remove excess juices. Cool for 1 hour, then keep in the refrigerator until needed. Will keep in the refrigerator for up to 7 days.

RABBIT, DUCK OR PHEASANT PATE

- 1-5 pound duck or pheasant or 3 1/2 pound rabbit
- 1 pound veal shoulder, ground
- 1 pound pork butt, ground
- 1/4 cup brandy
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/4 pound back fat, cut into cubes
- 1 egg, lightly beaten
- 1/2 teaspoon quatre epices (see on column on Taste front)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

1/4 pound bacon strips
1/4 teaspoon fresh ground pepper
2 bay leaves
Remove all the skin and bones from the rabbit, duck or pheasant. For the best pate, you should have at least 2 cups of meat. If you have less, add a little more veal. Grind all the meats together and mix in the brandy.
Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour. Cook the chopped onion in the butter until soft but not brown. Add the finely cubed fat, spices, salt and pepper and mix well. Stir the onion mixture into the ground meat and mix thoroughly.

Line a bread pan with the bacon strips, leaving overlapping slices to cover the top. Fill the pan with the ground mixture and place the bay leaves on top.
Cover the pan with the overlapping bacon strips and then cover with foil. Set the pan in a pan of boiling water that comes half way up the sides and cook in a preheated 350 degree oven for 2 hours and 30 minutes. Remove from the oven and place a brick or heavy covering on the pate pan and allow to cool. Refrigerate overnight. Unmold, remove bay leaves, slice and enjoy.

The best source for basic sausage making information is a book called "Hot Links and Country Flavors" by Bruce Aidells and Denis Kelly, (Copyright 1990, published by Knopf, $19.95).

HAMERINK'S HOMEMADE SMOKED SAUSAGE

- 12 pounds pork butt
 - 3 pounds pork back fat
 - 1/2 cup salt
 - 2 tablespoons fresh ground black pepper
 - 2 tablespoons marjoram flakes
 - 2 tablespoons dextrose
 - 1 1/2 teaspoon ascorbic acid
 - 1/2 teaspoon quick cure
 - 1/2 teaspoon hot pepper flakes
 - 1/2 cup dry powdered milk
 - 4 cloves garlic
- Grind the pork butt through a fine grinder. Grind pork back fat on a coarse grinder. Combine ground pork and fat with remaining ingredients and mix well. Cover and allow to marinate overnight in the refrigerator.

Stuff into medium hog casings and tie ends with kitchen twine. Allow to smoke for about 2 hours in a smoldering smokehouse. Half way through the smoking process, re-align sausage on wooden dowels for better smoking.

The smoked sausage can be placed in freezer bags and frozen for up to 4 months. Makes about 15 pounds.

Chef's note, dextrose, ascorbic acid and quick cure are available at butcher supply stores. Check the yellow pages for one nearest you. Recipe compliments of Dr. Howard Hamerink, Plymouth.

OLESEWESKI'S VENISON SAUSAGE

- 1 1/2 pounds venison shoulder
- 1 pound pork butt
- 3/4 pound pork back fat
- 1/2 pound slab bacon, rind removed
- 1 tablespoon minced garlic
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
- 4 teaspoons kosher salt
- 1 tablespoon coarsely ground black pepper
- 1 teaspoon dried rosemary
- 1/4 cup cheap dry red wine
- Medium hog casings

Cut the meat, fat and bacon into 2 inch strips. In a large bowl, mix the meat, fat, bacon with all the ingredients except the casings. Cover and marinate overnight in the refrigerator.
The next day, grind the mixture through a 1/4-inch plate on a meat grinder. Add any juices remaining in the bowl. Knead to blend all the ingredients thoroughly. Stuff the sausage into the medium hog casings and then allow to dry, uncovered overnight in the refrigerator before grilling, pan frying or freezing.

Will keep 3 days refrigerated, 2-3 months frozen. Makes about 4 pounds of sausage.

ITALIAN SWEET FENNEL SAUSAGE

- 3 pounds pork butt
- 3/4 pound pork back fat
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 4 teaspoons Kosher salt

- 2 tablespoons fennel seed
 - 1 tablespoon fresh ground black pepper
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
 - 1 teaspoon dried oregano
 - 1/2 cup dry red wine
 - Medium hog casings
- Grind the pork butt and the backfat together through a three-eighth-inch blade. Add garlic, salt, spices and red wine. Mix well with your hands. Shape into patties or stuff into medium hog casings and tie into 5 inch links.

Meatball time savers make sense

Shaping meatballs so they are rounded, smooth and all the same size can be time-consuming. But if you use one of these work-savers, you can shape dozens of meatballs in just minutes. To keep the meat mixture from sticking to your hands, rinse them with cold water before you start shaping.

■ The square method: For 1-inch meatballs, pat the meat mixture on waxed paper into a 1-inch-thick square or rectangle. Then, cut the meat mixture into 1-inch cubes and roll each cube into a ball. If you want 2-inch meatballs, pat the meat mixture into a 2-inch-thick square or rectangle, then cut it into 2-inch cubes.

■ The slicing method: First shape the meat mixture into a log the same diameter as the size meatball you need. For 1-inch meatballs, you'll be working with a 1-inch-diameter log. Then, slice the roll into even pieces. Finally, round the pieces into balls.

■ The scooping method: Use an ice-cream scoop to shape the balls. A 1/4-cup ice-cream scoop is great for 1 meatballs, a 1- or 2-tablespoon ice-cream scoop is best for 1-inch meatballs and a melon baller is perfect for 1/2-inch size. Simply roll each scoopful of meat into a ball and smooth with your hands.

Stuffing contest on the burner, elegant table winner

KEELY WYGONIK

Just so you don't forget, here's a reminder. We'll be presenting details for our Thanksgiving contest — "The Stuff Good Stuffing Is Made Of," Oct. 25 in Taste. The deadline for stuffing recipes will be Monday, Nov. 8. Start looking for your recipes now, so you'll be prepared.

The three winning recipes will be printed in the Nov. 22 edition of Taste. Think about, what's good is turkey without stuffing? We know you've got a secret family recipe, and a story to go along with it. Start looking now, and stay tuned for details.

Speaking of contests — a special thank-you to all of you who took the time to enter our "Age of Innocence," most elegant table setting contest. Our three judges had a very difficult time picking out a winner. There were a lot of beautiful entries.

The winner is — Sandi Wolf of Bloomfield Township who submitted a picture of a table set with family heirlooms for a soup course. The bread basket is 1902 vintage, the wine glasses are over 100 years old, and the blue and gold service plates are supposedly from a Russian Count in the 1880s. Congratulations Sandi.

Did you know that ice carving is as old as 17th century Russia? But leave it to the Japanese to perfect the techniques and tools. I learned a lot about ice carving from local experts Chef Richard Teeple of Plymouth and Ted Wakar of Canton, a Ford Motor Company, executive chef. For the last two years Teeple and Wakar have competed in the World Ice Carving Competition in Japan. They received a Judges' Special Award in the 1993 competition.

They demonstrated their craft Oct. 11 at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn during a dinner meeting of the Michigan Chefs de Cuisine Association, a chapter of the American Culinary Federation.

The staff which includes Teeple and Mary Denning, pastry instructor and owner of Mary Denning's Cake Shoppe in Westland, and students of HFCC's Hospitality Studies Program, prepared a wonderful dinner feast.

"They've been working all day," said Denning as she pointed to the sweet table filled with sumptuous desserts including tiramisu.

To help defray expenses, several companies donated products for the dinner including Hiram Walker Inc. and Mama Mucci's Pasta of Plymouth. You can get a taste of the fine work they're doing at Henry Ford Community College by stopping by the Gate Room on campus, 5101 Evergreen, for lunch or dinner. Lunch is served 11 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday. The Gate Room is open for dinner on Wednesdays with seatings at 6 and 7:15 p.m. Call 845-9642 for reservations.

Chef Mary Brady, Chef Denise Caudry and Chef Kelli Lewton are cooking up their best gourmet grub for a benefit dinner for the Schoolcraft, Women's Resource Center. Proceeds will go for scholarships for women. The dinner will be 4-7 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 24 at the Sheraton Oaks, 1-275 at Novi Road. Tickets are $50 each, or two for $99. Call 348-5474 or 462-4443 for reservations.

Toss up pasta with seafood quick

October is the perfect autumn month. It eases us from summer into winter with its cooler weather, football games and falling leaves. And, surprisingly, perhaps the greatest variety of fish and shellfish (350 species) are commercially available throughout the country during October when National Seafood Month is celebrated.

If prepared with little or no added fats, seafood is virtually guilt-free. It is low in calories, yet contains a variety of vitamins and minerals. And, it is one of the most digestible all foods, making it perfect for very young people and elderly people.

When you're really pressed for time, try "Fish-In-Flash" rubs and sauces. What follows is the basic recipe which always serves as the base for variations. All you need to do is add seafood, pasta and seasonings.

Simple seafood: Scallops with Pasta and Spinach is destined to become a family favorite.

SAVORY ONION SAUCE BASE

- 2-3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 1/2 cups finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons minced garlic
- 1/2 to 3/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1/2 cup fresh lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon minced lemon zest

1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon black pepper

To prepare sauce base, heat oil in 12-inch heavy skillet on medium-low heat until hot. Add onion, garlic and cayenne; cook uncovered until onion is tender, stirring, 8-10 minutes. Add lemon juice, brown sugar, zest salt and pepper; heat 1 minute.

INGREDIENTS ADDED TO SAVORY ONION SAUCE

- 3/4 pound cooked spaghetti, linguine, penne, curly pasta or curly noodles

1 to 1 1/2 pounds cooked seafood
1/2 cup minced fresh parsley

While preparing the base, bring a large pot of water to a boil; salt to taste. Cook pasta until tender, 8-10 minutes.

Drain pasta and place in large, warm serving bowl. Add onion sauce base and toss to coat. Taste and adjust seasonings. Sprinkle bite-sized chunks of cooked and warmed seafood over pasta with parsley and serve. Makes 4 servings.

Scallops with Linguine and Spinach — About 1 minute before pasta is cooked, add 5 cups cleaned, shredded, loosely packed spinach or 1 package (10 ounces) frozen, chopped spinach, thawed.

To Savory Onion Sauce Base add: 1 cup slivered red pepper and cook until tender, 10-15 minutes. Toss with scallops and pasta. Omit parsley and sprinkle scallops and linguine with 1/2 cup coarsely chopped feta cheese. Serves 4.

Spooky snacks make festive party additions

AP — When the spotlight shines on ghosts, goblins and all that's scary, there's no trick to making great-tasting party treats. Whether your home is the scene of a family pumpkin-carving extravaganza or the neighborhood Halloween gathering, the following recipes will please the palates of the little tricksters who come to your door.

Critters in the Hay is a snack mix, complete with creepy black licorice spiders. Use the mix to fill a bright orange Halloween pumpkin. Pecan Pumpkin Pleasers are bar cookies, flavored with popcorn, pumpkin pie spice and chopped pecans.

CRITTERS IN THE HAY

- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 1/2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice

- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon green food color (optional)
- 3 1/2 quarts popped popcorn, unpopped kernels discarded
- 1 cup candy corn
- Black licorice ropes
- Wooden picks
- Small black gumdrops or other small, soft black candies
- Red decorating icing
- Tiny red jawbreaker candies
- Worm-shaped candies

In Dutch oven, bring sugar, corn syrup and butter to a boil; boil 2 1/4 minutes. Stir in pumpkin pie spice, vanilla, salt and food color; mix until evenly colored. Add popcorn; toss until evenly coated.

Spread popcorn mixture in a single layer on greased sheets of foil and allow to cool and harden. Break into bite-size pieces and mix with candy corn in a wide shallow bowl; set aside.

To make spiders, cut licorice into 2-inch lengths. To make legs, starting at one end, make three 1/4-inch to 3/8-inch cuts to make four legs. Repeat cuts at opposite end. Leave about 1/2-inch in center uncut. Gently pull legs apart and curl down. Push wooden pick through center of body, leaving about 1 1/2-inch exposed on top. Push one gumdrop onto exposed pick to make the body. Using writing tip of decorating icing, squeeze two small dots of icing into gumdrops. Press jawbreakers into icing to make eyes.

Place "spiders" and worm-shaped candies in popcorn. Remove wooden picks before eating. Makes 4 quarts.

PECAN PUMPKIN PLEASERS

- Nonstick cooking spray
 - 3/4 cup chopped pecans
 - 1 cup packed light brown sugar
 - 3/4 cup light corn syrup
 - 2 tablespoons butter
 - 1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 - 3 cups popped popcorn
- Spray bottom of 9- by 13-inch baking pan heavily with nonstick cooking spray. Sprinkle bottom evenly with pecans; set aside. In large Dutch oven, bring brown sugar, corn syrup, butter and pumpkin pie spice to a boil; stir in vanilla. Add popcorn, toss until well coated. Press popcorn firmly into prepared pan. Let stand 15 minutes to cool slightly. Place serving platter or baking sheet upside down over top of pan. Invert, allowing mixture to fall onto platter. Cut into bars. Makes 24 bars.

Good humor: By day he's a carpenter, but at night Jim McLean of Westland uses his time making people laugh.

Jim McLean builds way to headliner

BY BOB SADLER
SPECIAL WRITER

If James Brown lays claim to the moniker "hardest working man in show business," the Jim McLean isn't far behind.

Perhaps he could be a nominee for the title "Hardest working comic in Detroit." This guy has his feet wet with enough projects to make your skin wrinkle.

When reached by telephone Wednesday night, he had just finished teaching a class on comedy in Royal Oak.

"I'm pretty pleased with the progress of the students," said McLean of the class, organized through Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle. "It reminds me of my experiences coaching soccer."

Wait a minute? Coaching soccer? What similarities could comedy have with the world's most popular sport? McLean, who lives in Westland, coached in various youth soccer programs for eight years. He also played the game in high school, but had his dreams of playing at the next level squashed during a tryout at Schoolcraft College.

"I was told the only way I'd ever get in a game was if six guys broke their legs," McLean admitted.

For the past five years, McLean instead has gotten his kicks on stage by night. He has honed his observational style to a razor's edge in that time and is known in the business as a solid "middler" — the guy who comes out between the emcee and sets the table for the headliner. On more than a few occasions McLean has outshined the higher paid performer who followed him. This has led to some headlining in the metro area as well as lucrative gigs doing sets at private parties.

Less financially rewarding are the more than 40 charity benefit sets McLean admits to performing annually. However, the 31-year-old sees every time out on stage as an opportunity to improve and build additional exposure for his talent.

By day, McLean does carpentry work to pay the bills. Considering himself an expert on working with wood (not to be confused with his comedy audiences), this comic has had some interesting day jobs, including a part in the finishing touches at the new Second City in Detroit.

Majesty Crush: 'Love'-ly start

A record deal with Dali and having its own EP "Fan" as the cover story of the influential Cleveland-based "Alternative Press" magazine is helping to launch Majesty Crush on its musical way to stardom.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Interested in music at a young age, a teenage David Stroughter rode his moped regularly from his Southfield home to Play It Again records in Royal Oak to flip through new releases. Not having MTV or many magazines to count on, he would rely on album covers to describe the band's sound.

Earlier this year when his band, Majesty Crush, was designing the album cover for the recently released "Love 15," he took those basics to heart.

"Imagery, I think, is really important. In record shops, you want to make sure what you're buying is what you expect," said Stroughter, a 1984 Southfield High School graduate.

They chose pastel-colored bubbles to cover "Love 15," the band's first release for the Elektra Entertainment-supported Dali Records. The quartet's record is a journey through soft-spoken Stroughter's stripped emotions.

"This is real to me; this is the stuff I dream about," Stroughter said. "People who are blessed with certain gifts, beautiful people, or people things come easy to, don't have a need to stop and admire other people because they're too busy admiring themselves. We're singing siren songs to people who are pretty much misfits, people who just ache."

Seemingly, the shy Stroughter has seen intense pain himself. Speaking about his music career, he briefly mentions drug rehabilitation and stints at several European colleges. Finally, he settled back in Detroit and formed Majesty Crush with guitarist Michael Segal, bassist Hobey Echlin and drummer Odell Nails.

Majesty Crush's first gig was an opening spot with Capitol recording artists Mazzy Star, who later toured with the Cocteau Twins.

"(Mazzy Star lead singer) Hope Sandoval liked the band and she gave me the confidence early on. I figured I can do this," he said.

Besides Sandoval's blessing, meeting Diana Ross when he was 12 helped push his career along. He grew up with her children.

"I met her and when I shook her hand it galvanized the moment. I was like 12 years old, but I remember her," Stroughter said. "I was just an insecure little kid."

Last year at Pine Knob Music Theatre, he got a chance to relive the moment. Backstage at her Pine Knob show, Ross's sister reintroduced the two.

In the early days of Majesty Crush, a still insecure Stroughter relied on his performance rather than his singing to entrance the audience. To polish his image, he studied many of his idols.

"I admire people like Nick Cave, even though I've only seen footage of him, Syd Barrett of Pink Floyd. He writes so imaginative. I think it's an important thing," he said.

Two years ago, the band released its own EP, "Fan," which received substantial coverage including a cover story on the influential Cleveland-based magazine "Alternative Press."

Their deal began rolling after their artist and repertoire representative stumbled upon "Fan" at Kim's Underground, a New York City record store.

"All these people started hearing about us," he said.

Offers came pouring in from Dali and other major-label subsidiaries. Majesty Crush avoided the deals that seemed half baked.

"Dali took so much time with us. They took us to dinner," he said.

"They also have great bands like Kyuss, this rock band, and Ultramarine. We met with Kyuss and Ultramarine and they had nothing but good things to say about Dali.

"They drove a hard bargain and we signed in January."

He's also impressed with the label's commitment to its bands.

"They don't put something out just to see if it sticks to the wall; they'll do whatever it takes. They'll work the record for a year."

Now the band is working on letting the United States know what Majesty Crush is all about.

"Not many people are aware that we exist," Stroughter said. "For the next couple months, we're going to try to attract attention in college towns to get opening slots next year."

As part of that plan, the band will play New York's legendary CBGB club with Luscious Jackson and Feed, the new band of Psychodelic Furs frontman Richard Butler, as part of the College Music Journal music conference on Nov. 5.

Within the next few months, the band's distributor WEA (a conglomerate of Warner Bros., Elektra, and Atlantic records) will decide if they'll distribute elsewhere in the world. Stroughter is hoping that they don't.

"We're hoping not in England. They (WEA) have Prince, Fleetwood Mac and 300-400 other bands, so a band like us that's just starting out could get lost in the shuffle," he said.

Majesty Crush will perform at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit, on Saturday, Oct. 23, with special guests Big Block and Poem Rocket. For more information, call 961-MELT.

Devoted: Depeche Mode — Alan Wilder, David Gahan, Andrew Fletcher and Martin Gore — will perform at The Palace of Auburn Hills Oct. 22-23.

Depeche Mode does it with 'Devotional'

BY KYLE GREEN
SPECIAL WRITER

LONDON — Reunited after nearly three years without touring, Depeche Mode's "Devotional" tour is packed with impressive material and surprises which could astonish even the most devoted fans.

In late July, the synthesizer kings reclaimed their throne in London as 16,000 subjects paid homage to them. (The band will bring the extravaganza to The Palace of Auburn Hills on Oct. 22-23.)

The separation from the stage has allowed each member to develop musical individuality resulting in a personal evolution which is easily reflected in their performance.

No longer relying solely on keyboards and drum machines, Depeche Mode does not simply mirror its recorded material. Now with backup singers, drums and guitars as well as a string quartet, the band's sound has progressed into a solid musical mass.

Billed as the only United Kingdom performance in advertisements on underground station walls and on the side of London's famed double-decker buses, the Devotional tour was held at the Crystal Palace National Sports Centre. Located roughly 20 minutes by train south of central London, the facility is neither crystal nor a palace, but an outdoor track and field stadium which became the sight of a "Depechpalooza." Three opening bands set the tone for the day starting with the hip-hop reggae sounds of Dub Syndicate; rapper styles of Marksman; and the gothic rock rattles of Sisters of Mercy, all in 65-degree weather with $3 pints of ale. (The The will take over opening slot duties at The Palace.)

By 8:30 p.m. the general admission venue was packed and ready for its saviors. Huge gray curtains conceal the enormous stage as random guitar blasts and thunder claps blare and developed into a techno sequence frenzy of "Higher Love."

Frontman David Gahan, whose vocals sound clearer and fuller than in the past, hid while the 16,000 strong army flung its arms into the evening sky.

When the stage opened, Gahan was dancing in front of a large platform holding three sets of keyboards. One backup singer held position on either side as the unused space above and below the platform provide the location for MTV-type video clips which at times were distracting, but visually complimentary material.

The focus of this tour is the last few releases with songs such as "Never Let Me Down," "Behind The Wheel" and "Stripped" which the crowd at times drowned out Gahan's vocals.

With new material such as "I Feel You" and "In Your Room," the use of guitars and drums add a revolutionary twist to the typical synthesized sound. The addition of live drums by Moder Alan Wilder and Martin Gore's improved guitar playing Depeche Mode's material has obtained a more musical substance and tangibility which was lacking in previous performances.

A more confident Gore took control for two songs, this time more sure of his performance and vocal abilities. As burning candle flicker in the black and white video, Gore positions himself on the edge of the stage. Leaning into the audience with open arms for "Juda," he worked his followers like a well-rehearsed preacher.

The big surprise of the evening occurred when a string quartet assembled for "One Caress." As Gore distanced himself from the musicians, the crowd joined, comprising a mass choir.

'Concubine,' 'Butterfly' gender bend

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

Blame it on "Orlando" and "The Crying Game" because I'm getting downright bored with movies about sexual ambiguity and androgyny. I couldn't help but enter two new movies with more than a bit of trepidation.

Chen Kaige's "Farewell My Concubine," which chronicles the relationship of a pair of Chinese actors over 50 years, is fortunately a pleasant surprise. Haunting and often brutal, the highly melodramatic epic personalizes China's turbulent changes during the 20th century.

It plays for the next two weekends at the Detroit Film Theatre.

Cheng Dieyi (Leslie Cheung) and Duan Xialou (Zhang Fengyi) first meet as children in 1925 at an academy that trains young orphans to perform in the Peking Opera. These early scenes have an almost Dickens-like quality as the strict Master Guan beats them regularly as part of their instruction.

The movie begins in a brown-tinted black-and-white. Sepia-tones begin to emerge and then full-blown colors fill the screen. It's like old faded photographs slowly coming to life.

Dieyi's problems with sexual identity help him become the country's greatest actor in Peking Opera, which traditionally uses men for the women's roles. It also causes tension with partner Xialou, especially when the lusty bachelor gets corralled into marriage.

Gong Li, the beautiful actress from "Raise the Red Lantern" and other recent Chinese epics, plays Yoko Ono to the men's Beatles. She slyly convinces Xialou to keep a drunken promise of marriage then badgers him to leave the Peking Opera forever.

She has some help from history when China is invaded by the Japanese during World War II and later turns Communist. There's no place for such bourgeois entertainment during the ironically titled Cultural Revolution and the actors are used as whipping boys by the government.

"Farewell My Concubine" shared first place at Cannes earlier this year with Jane Campion's "The Piano." Although not a masterpiece, it has stunning cinematography and perhaps the best Peking Opera sequences yet put on film.

MOVIES

You'll appreciate it even more after seeing David Cronenberg's profoundly disappointing "M Butterfly," currently at the Maple.

If anyone could translate the controversial stage play to the screen, it should be Cronenberg, the Canadian director of "Naked Lunch" and "Dead Ringers," who has long held a fascination with the bizarre. Instead he has fashioned a highly conventional, often dull, story of passion and betrayal that has little of the emotional impact I remember from the play.

Jeremy Irons plays Gallimard, the French diplomat stationed in Beijing in 1964 who falls in love with a beautiful diva after witnessing a performance of Puccini's "Madama Butterfly." He doesn't realize that Song Liling (John Lone) is actually a man.

The fantasy continues for several years until it is revealed in court that Liling has been coaxed into classified information from Gallimard about American troop movements in Vietnam.

Irons is spectacular, as usual, changing from a wishy-washy accountant to a cocky high-ranking official. His affair gives him the false impression that he knows how the Chinese tick, but "M Butterfly" tells us that Westerners understand nothing at all about the mysterious Chinese.

John Lone, the title character in "The Last Emperor," makes a physically unconvincing Song Liling. Seeing these films in quick succession, I couldn't help but think back to Leslie Cheung's delicate performance in "Concubine," especially when it comes time to perform on stage.

There are some genuine pleasures in the movie, including the sumptuous cinematography and the dreamy, Bernard Herrmann-like musical score by Howard Shore, who also collaborated with Cronenberg on "Naked Lunch."

Despite another great performance from Irons, "M Butterfly" is an epic snoozer.

McLean the performer auditioned for the new troupe along with more than 700 others, making the final 45 who were called back for a second look — but McLean the carpenter left a lasting impression on the place.

"I signed my name on this piece of oak under one of the stairways," McLean said with a laugh. "I know that I worked here before any other comedians did."

In addition to the carpentry and stage work, McLean also works on other comedy related projects in the hopes of making the next jump to national stardom. After all, the table for Detroiters has been set in Hollywood with Tim Allen, Dave Coulier, Thom Sharp and Mike Binder all making their respective presences felt. To achieve this end, McLean continues to work on his skills as a writer and actor.

With writing partner Gary George, McLean penned a number of screenplays and an episode of "Seinfeld" (with additional help from best friend Bob Monaghan) which has yet to be sold.

He's also working on a television project with Southfield's Lighten Up Films, the people who brought us the recent "Let's Kill All the Attorneys." Entitled "Live n' Kickin'" it is a Detroit ensemble sketch-oriented show in the mold of "Saturday Night Live" or Comedy Central's "Almost Live" which has put Seattle on the map for more than grunge rock. A local television or syndication deal is being negotiated at the present time for the show.

"It's been a great experience," McLean said. "I've learned how to deal with directors, producers and other actors."

If it isn't enough, McLean also indicates that he plans to launch another local improv troupe with friend and fellow comic Ken Brown of Lathrup Village. Placing tongues firmly in cheek, they labeled themselves the "Not Ready for Second City" Players. Look for the local ensemble show to debut possibly as early as December.

PLYMOUTH SPORTS SCENE

OU boots Lady Ocelots

Despite dominating most of the game, Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team couldn't do what was necessary to win a game and end a four-game winless streak Wednesday at Oakland University — score a goal.

Instead, the Lady Ocelots lost control of the ball and surrendered a goal midway through the first half, then missed all sorts of opportunities at the equalizer in a 1-0 defeat.

SC slipped to 2-5-3 overall.

"We dominated 85 percent of the game," said coach Nick O'Shea. "We just couldn't finish."

The biggest miss came with 15 minutes left in the match. Andrea Zawislak was taken down inside the penalty area and a penalty kick was awarded. But Dee Lorenz, who was 2-for-2 on PKs this season, missed.

The Ocelots were without two starters: keeper Jenny Emmett, out with a cracked collarbone, and midfielder Kara Kramer, who's suffering from bursitis. Greta Hundertmark filled in for Emmett.

Although SC has struggled the past few weeks, O'Shea is convinced his team could do well at the NJCAA Tournament. "We're playing a lot better," he said, noting that the Ocelots lost 4-1 when they played OU Sept. 15. "We dominated this game, but we're not making the quality pass in the final third of the field."

That's something he believes can be corrected.

S'craft spikes Macomb

Perhaps Schoolcraft College volleyball coach Tom Teeters has finally found his lineup.

In what has to be the craziest Eastern Conference race in a decade, the Lady Ocelots — who ruled in Teeters' eight previous seasons coaching — pulled to within a victory of .500 with a 15-10, 15-8, 15-8 win at Macomb CC Thursday. SC, forced to forfeit one conference and seven non-conference wins because it used an ineligible player, is 3-4 in the Eastern, 10-17 overall.

What makes the conference race so unpredictable is the head-to-head results. SC beat Macomb, which beat Henry Ford, which beat SC twice. And no one's been able to beat Mott — except the Ocelots, who did it twice (once in the conference).

The lineup problems that have plagued SC all season weren't apparent against Macomb. Kristen Barnes (13 kills, .200 kill average) and Danielle Pfeffer (15 kills, .200) both moved to outside hitter, while Danielle Sheehy (nine kills, .333, seven digs) moved to middle hitter. All performed well.

So did setter Tracia Clendenen (25 assists to kills). But some real tests are on the horizon: SC plays at Delta Tuesday, at Mott Thursday, then travels to the Illinois Central College Tournament Friday and Saturday in East Peoria, Ill.

Hoop star makes choice

Maureen Drabicki, a 5-foot-6 All-Observer point-guard from Livonia Stevenson High, has made a verbal commitment to play basketball next year at Valparaiso University in Indiana.

Drabicki, who has led the state-ranked Spartans to a 12-0 record this season, is averaging 18 points, seven assists, seven steals and four rebounds per game. As a junior, she averaged 15 points and five assists per game as Stevenson finished 19-2 overall. Drabicki is a three-year starter.

She plans to sign a national letter of intent with the Crusaders, a Division I school and member of the Mid-Continent Conference, during the NCAA's early signing period, Nov. 11-14.

The Stevenson guard also considered Oakland University and the University of Detroit-Mercy. "I was not too sure about going to Valparaiso, but once I made my visit (Sept. 28-29) I liked it even more," said Drabicki, who carries a 3.9 grade-point average. "It's a really good academic school. It's rated number two (among private schools) in one of the national magazines."

Drabicki will join another former All-Observer player, Plymouth Salem's Darcie Miller, now a sophomore center at Valparaiso. (The Crusaders, who play a fast-break, up-tempo brand of basketball, finished 19-8 a year ago.)

"Darcie likes it and I think I can fit in well with what I can do," Drabicki said. "They led the league in offensive points (per game). I'm looking forward to it."

Women's college soccer

The Kalamazoo College women's soccer team is vying for the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association title, and players with local connections are playing a big part.

Jennifer Russell, a senior from Plymouth Canton, remains the MIAA's most potent weapon. She leads the conference in goals scored (11), assists (8) and, quite naturally, points (30). The Lady Hornets are 5-1 in the MIAA, 9-3 overall.

A team in its inaugural season is usually granted a bit of leeway. No one expects too much.

In the case of University of Detroit-Mercy's first-year women's soccer team, perhaps too little was expected. The Lady Titans were 10-2-2 entering Sunday's match at Xavier, including a 1-0-2 mark in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference.

Freshman keeper Jori Welchans, from Plymouth Salem, has played an integral part in UDM's success. She has a 5-1-1 record, and her 1.00 goals-against average ranks second in the MCC.

Rocks need rally to defeat Falcons

Hard-running back: Senior tailback Brian Neal was the second-half workhorse for Salem, finishing with 77 yards and two touchdowns.

Plymouth Salem fought back from a 21-6 deficit in the second quarter Friday to defeat Farmington 40-21 in Western Lakes football.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

After being stunned early in the football game Friday, Plymouth Salem roared back to claim a 40-21 victory over visiting Farmington.

The Falcons shocked the Rocks and were working on an upset when they scored three quick touchdowns, capitalizing on two Salem fumbles, to build a 21-6 lead.

"I thought we were about to roll over and play dead," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said. "It seemed everything was going wrong."

"We played as bad as we could the first 14 minutes, and the last 34 we played pretty darn good football."

Salem finished 3-2 in the Lakes Division and is 4-3 overall. Farmington is 1-4 and 1-6.

After sputtering at the start, the Rocks got their rushing attack rolling and used it to overpower the Farmington defense and rally to win the game. Salem rushed for 262 of its 312 total yards.

Quarterback Brad Lear was the leading rusher with 101 yards on 11 carries. Fifty-seven came on one run that resulted in Salem's first touchdown. He also completed four of six passes for 50 yards.

Tailback Brian Neal had 15 of his 19 carries and 58 of his 77 yards in the second half, and he scored twice on runs of 6 and 2 yards.

Fullback Rob Shepley added 39 yards and a 1-yard TD run, and Jay Perko got 25 of his 35 yards on a scoring run. Lear passed 18 yards to Andy Coburn for the other TD.

"The name of the game is you still have to play defense," Farmington coach Lauri Niskanen said. "You have to be able to stop people. You get in a muscle sandwich like that and someone is going to win. "We'll get better at it. Our kids played their best, and the scoreboard said differently."

Plymouth-Canton teams claim victory

Plymouth Canton held off visiting North Farmington in the second half Thursday to win 52-48 in girls basketball.

The Raiders jumped to an early 10-2 lead, but Salem rallied to tie 14-14 at the end of the first quarter and led 29-21 at halftime.

North outscored the Rocks 27-23 in the second half, but Salem never lost the lead.

"We came out strong but got in foul trouble," North coach Lance Davis said. "Carrie May and Shannon McCoy each picked up three fouls in the first quarter. That caused us to back off on our pressure."

Salem improved to 6-7 overall and 4-3 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. North dropped to 7-6 and 3-4.

Senior forward Lisa Craven, who made five of eight three-pointers, scored a game-high 17 points for Salem.

Sophomore center Shellye Sills contributed 12 points and nine rebounds for the Rocks. Senior Jenny Massey added seven points and junior Liz Erickson six.

BASKETBALL

McCoy and Allison Stein scored 16 and 12 points for the Raiders, respectively. Alisha Gordon added seven.

■ CANTON 51, CHURCHILL 18: The Chiefs had no trouble staying undefeated in the WLAA as they trounced host Livonia Churchill Thursday.

Canton is 7-0 in the league and tied with Livonia Stevenson. The two teams meet Tuesday, Oct. 26, at Canton. The No. 4-ranked Chiefs are 11-1 overall.

Britta Anderson and Robyn Vachow scored 10 points apiece for Canton, which led 20-6 at halftime and 33-10 after three quarters.

"We tried to slow it down, but we couldn't get our shots to fall," Churchill coach Dave Balog said. "They're a good team — the best we've played all year."

Mary Daly had six points to lead the Chargers, 1-6 and 3-9. Canton sank 15 of 24 free throws, Churchill six of eight.

■ 'Carrie May and Shannon McCoy each picked up three fouls in the first quarter. That caused us to back off on our pressure.'

Lance Davis
North coach

■ PLY. CHRISTIAN 45, FAIRLANE 26: The Eagles, who lost by a point to Dearborn Fairlane Christian in an earlier game, produced a 19-point victory over the same team Thursday.

"We played tough defense tonight, and that really was the difference between this game and the last one," Plymouth Christian Academy coach Rod Windle said. "We executed better on offense, too."

The Eagles led 15-5 in the first quarter and 23-18 at halftime. Leading 30-24 with six minutes left, PCA finished the game with a 15-2 run. Freshman center Alicia Jones scored 16 points and Nancy Kobernik eight for the Eagles, 3-5 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference and 5-8 overall.

Junior guard Karin Reed had an excellent all-round game with 18 rebounds, 15 steals, five assists and three points.

Lindsay Teno made nine of 12 free throws and scored 15 points for host Fairlane.

■ LADYWOOD 50, MERCY 38: The Blazers outscored Mercy 13-5 in the third quarter Thursday to turn a 25-21 halftime lead into a 12-point advantage.

Tara Overaitis scored 16 points to lead Ladywood. Kerry Duggan contributed nine points and Maura Duggan eight.

Julie Angell netted 15 points and Mitzi Ruddock 13 for the Marlins, who are 0-6 in the Central Division and 3-9 overall.

The No. 3-ranked Blazers were outscored 13-11 in the second quarter, but created some turnovers with pressure defense in the third to fuel an 8-0 run. Ladywood is 5-0 and 9-1.

Chiefs pass key test in girls swimming

Plymouth Canton has two Western Division dual meets remaining, but the Chiefs are now the favorites to win the girls swim title.

The Chiefs assumed that role Thursday when they defeated host and fellow contender Northville 51-42.

Canton is 2-0-1 in the division, and the Mustangs are 2-1.

The Chiefs put themselves in position to win the meet when they took first and second places in the breast stroke.

Sara Larson won the event in 1:15.91, and Beth Berger capped the meet, according to coach Hooker Wellman, when she finished second in 1:17.91.

Canton only needed second in the 400-yard freestyle to win but finished first. The Mustangs needed first and second and had to divide their talent in an attempt to do so.

Susan Pritchard, Katie McWhirter, Suzan Daoust and Jill Mellis won the final race in 3:53.73, and the same foursome also won the 200 freestyle relay with a season-best time of 1:45.68.

Mellis and McWhirter were double winners in individual events, too. Mellis was first in the IM (2:15.84) and butterfly (1:02.65). McWhirter won the 200 and 500 freestyles with times of 2:04.71 and 5:38.5.

Canton's Brooke Larson won the diving competition with 206.35 points. The Chiefs are 6-2-1 overall.

"McWhirter had outstanding swims," Canton coach Hooker Wellman said. "She came right out of the 500 into the 200 freestyle. She swam a great time there and swam a great split on the relay. "Pritchard did a great job, Berger's breast stroke swim was extra special and senior captains Mellis, Larson and Daoust were outstanding."

Raiders defeat Rocks

Shannon O'Brien and Amy Finkel were multiple winners Thursday, leading North Farmington to a 104-82 victory over host Plymouth Salem in girls swimming.

North's Mandy Terrell set a Salem pool record with a winning total of 270.3 diving points. Salem's Alysia Sofios set a school record with a second-place score of 240.05.

Salem's Melanie Bosse was a double winner in the 200 and 500 freestyle with times of 2:05.77 and 5:34.41. Teammate Amy Perry won the breast stroke (1:15.81).

QB Elledge leads Chiefs to grid win

Plymouth Canton rallied with three second-half touchdowns Saturday to overcome a 6-0 halftime deficit and defeat host Livonia Franklin 21-12 in football.

Junior quarterback Brett Elledge had a big game for the Chiefs, and he started the Canton scoring with a 3-yard run in the third quarter.

The Chiefs took a 14-6 lead when junior tailback Lenny Gardner dashed 34 yards (the same as his jersey number) for a TD later in the third quarter.

Senior fullback Eric Arnold scored the victory-clinching touchdown when he caught a 5-yard touchdown pass from Elledge with 3 1/2 minutes remaining in the game.

Elledge, who assumed sole responsibility for the quarterback duties when senior Kevin Shankie suffered torn ligaments in his right thumb against Northville, rushed eight times for 71 yards and completed 10 of 19 passes for 92 yards. Franklin started the scoring in the second period when quarterback Greg Maple and John Worden connected for a 72-yard passing touchdown. Maple passed 32 yards to Clemente Herrera for a fourth-quarter touchdown.

Maple completed eight of 18 passes for 138 yards. Ron Troia led the Patriots with 59 rushing yards on 16 carries.

Canton outgained Franklin 196-73 on the ground and 288-211 overall. The Patriots had a 138-92 advantage in passing.

The Chiefs finished third in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association with a 3-2 record and improved to 4-3 overall. The Patriots are 1-4 in the division and 1-6 overall.

In the WLAA crossover games this week, Canton plays at Walled Lake Central at 7:30 p.m. Friday, and Franklin visits North Farmington at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The Falcons were looking good early, scoring on the opening drive. Jake Siskosky carried 18 yards to the Salem 15 but fumbled. However, wide receiver Stan Lewis scooped up the ball and took it the rest of the way for a TD.

"We tell our wide receivers they have to sprint to the running lanes, because you don't know what's going to happen," Niskanen said. "The block you throw could spring the guy for a touchdown. He didn't show up there by accident."

Salem's first two series netted just 7 yards, but Lear got outside for his long run on the next. Adding to Salem's frustration was its failure to make a two-point conversion after its first three TDs, resulting in a 21-18 halftime deficit.

The Rocks lost fumbles on their next two chances, the second of which occurred on a kickoff. Getting the ball at the Salem 41 and 15, Farmington converted both turnovers into TDs.

Siskosky ran 1 yard for the first, and Mike Pringle threw a halfback pass 16 yards to a wide-open Robert Lhamon in the end zone. Sean Noble kicked three extra points and the Falcons led 21-6 with 9:52 still remaining in the first half.

"We thought we could move the football, and we had a lot of time left," Moshimer said. "Football is an emotional game and you have to play it with a lot of emotion. If you do that, you've got a chance."

"We didn't have any emotion at the beginning. When we discovered we were about to get beat, everybody woke up and played with some inspiration."

Salem responded with a pair of 44-yard scoring drives after Farmington's third TD. Perko's run made it 21-12, and Neal scored his first TD with 30 seconds left in the half.

"From that point (21-6) on, other than us falling asleep on the (second-half) kickoff, I thought our kids played pretty decent football," Moshimer said.

"I wasn't confident when we were down 21-6. When we got the second score, my confidence was restored a bit. When we got the third and were down 21-18, I thought we'd win the game."

The Rocks lost another fumble on the second-half kickoff, but they went 70 yards on their next possession to take the lead, 26-21. Neal ran for the TD and two points.

Salem controlled the ball with its ground game in the second half and scored twice in the fourth quarter to cement the victory. Mike Kley kicked the extra point after the last two TDs.

"We told (the players) at halftime it was time for a gut check," Moshimer said. "If they had it in them, they would come back in the second half and take over the ball game, and I think that's what we did."

Siskosky rushed for 78 yards on 11 carries, but Farmington relied mostly on its passing game. Mike Tokar was 8-of-23 passing for 114 yards, and Lewis caught five passes for 84 yards.

"We keep people off balance (with the pass)," Niskanen said. "We have to throw the ball. We can't line up and knock people off the ball. Eventually, we hope to do that."

"You can't fault the effort of our players. We're not there yet, but we're going to get there."

Shamrocks lose key match to Pilots

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central pushed and pushed. The edge was not their concern.

Consequently the Shamrocks fell, losing to host Warren DeLaSalle 2-1 in a boys soccer match Saturday that clinched the Catholic League Central Division for the Pilots.

CC (10-3-3 overall, 5-1-1 division) will play either Madison Heights Bishop Foley or Monroe Catholic Central Wednesday in the first round of the Catholic League playoffs.

The Shamrocks needed a win against the Pilots (11-2-2 overall and 7-0-1 division) Saturday; a tie would not do.

So, when sophomore Chris

Kennedy lobbed in the tying goal in the 61st minute, the job was far from finished. CC continued to press and, later, paid for it.

Fleet-footed senior forward Ken Perlin exploited the Shamrock defense, slotting in the game winner with four minutes left.

"We pushed up and we were susceptible at the back," said CC coach Phil LaJoy. "We decided to go for it."

CC dominated the second half and a good portion of the first.

The team received three consecutive corner kicks within the first five minutes and controlled play at midfield.

But when DeLaSalle's freshman midfielder Pat Mahoney broke in to score the first goal in the 15th minute, the wrench tightened the collective lugnut on CC's attack. The Shamrocks finished the first half playing tentatively, down 1-0.

"We were a little flat in the beginning," LaJoy said. "I thought we controlled the second half."

That was clear. Senior forward Matt Kopmeyer and senior midfielder Rich Walos continued to create chances down the right flank. Such industry earned CC a multitude of corner kicks, which couldn't be converted despite the rainy conditions.

Another cross, this one skimming past a Pilot defender, found its way to Kennedy. The goalkeeper came out as CC's sophomore midfielder lofted a soft shot into the back of the net.

Senior defender Trevor Austin followed with the defensive play of the match. Two DeLaSalle forwards were lingering at midfield, anticipating a break.

Perlin was sent on his way and was bearing down on CC goalkeeper Mike Kokoszka. Austin raced back and removed the ball with a crunching slide tackle. Austin injured his foot and left the match.

A few minutes later, Perlin was sent on his way again. This time, though, he converted.

"They were moving up," said DeLaSalle coach Thair Mukhtar. "We knew we were going to get an opportunity to score."

S'craft sees playoff chances slip away

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

What Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team got a good look at Saturday wasn't just the current season sinking into the depths.

That was the future, mud-covered and all-too-threatening.

The Lady Ocelots needed to win this home-field mud-wrestling match. They managed to put in the first goal, but failed on all sorts of other chances.

The College of DuPage didn't. Two first-half goals gave the team from Glen Ellyn, Ill., the lead, with the clincher coming five minutes before the final whistle.

The 3-1 loss left SC with a dismal 2-6-3 record and just about ended any hopes for a trip to the NJCAA Tournament. The Ocelots have two matches remaining; even if they win both, their record wouldn't warrant such a trip.

Their coach, Nick O'Shea, acknowledged this. "They knew going into the game that if they didn't win, there was a good chance they wouldn't go to nationals," he said. "If you know that going in, you should be willing to sacrifice more."

SC lacked that. DuPage didn't. Which should serve as a warning. It was the Ocelots' second loss this season to DuPage, a team in its first year. The school will start vying for the NJCAA title in 1994, according to coach John Archer. Chances are strong that DuPage and SC will meet in a playoff to determine who earns an NJCAA berth.

DuPage is 10-2.

Andrea Zawislak scored for SC on a drive from the left side with the match just five minutes old. DuPage got the equalizer, and the go-ahead goal, from midfielder Cindy Reyes, who dominated play. Reyes' first goal came after she outfought two SC defenders and rolled a shot past keeper Greta Hundertmark at the 22-minute mark.

Her second came 10 minutes later, when she pounced on a cross, sliding and knocking the ball through Hundertmark.

The Ocelots' best scoring opportunity came when Zawislak was dragged down in the penalty area. Dee Lorenz took the penalty kick; DuPage keeper Stephanie Lawler was ankle-deep in water and mud, but Lorenz made it easy for her by shooting right at her. It was Lorenz's second-consecutive penalty kick miss.

Angie Williams, a translated Livonian (her family moved when she was in the eighth grade), got the insurance goal late in the match on a hard drive over Hundertmark.

Chiefs, Rocks are runners-up in division races

Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem finished second in their respective divisions with a pair of boys soccer wins Wednesday.

The Chiefs gave visiting Northville its first loss (4-1) in the Western Division and knocked the Mustangs out of the championship picture.

Livonia Churchill won the division title and will play Livonia Stevenson in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship game Wednesday.

Graham Wilk converted a penalty kick to give Canton a 1-0 halftime lead. Lance Pellow, Jeff Fliss and James Bossieux scored second-half goals. Bossieux and Jeff Knysz had one assist each.

The Chiefs finished 3-2 in the division, Northville 2-1-2. Canton improved to 8-8-1 overall.

Salem's 6-1 victory over host Farmington gave the Rocks a 3-1 record in the Lakes Division and 8-6-2 overall record.

Mark MacInnis scored two goals for Salem, and Doug Herriman had one goal and two assists.

Drew Drummond, Ronny Mashni and Andy Makins accounted for the other scores. John Larson also had two assists, Brad Jaskolski and Matt Simons one each.

Though both were second in their divisions, Salem and Canton won't play each other in the WLAA crossover Wednesday since both are in the same district tournament next week.

Instead, Salem will play host to Livonia Franklin and Canton will be at Walled Lake Central.

Area bowlers, fans and enthusiasts are in for a special treat as the Professional Bowlers Tour will be making its only stop of year beginning with the Pro-Am Friday and Saturday at Taylor Lanes.

Sunday and Monday, Oct. 24-25, will feature qualifying squads where the field is cut to the top 24 for match play, beginning Tuesday, Oct. 26.

The nationally televised stepladder finals will be 7:30-9 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 27.

Among the stars scheduled to appear include Mike Aulby, Brian Voss, Walter Ray Williams, Amleto Monacelli and Mark Roth. Local pros John Mazza, Harold Sullins and Gene Stus will also compete.

This is a great opportunity for autograph hounds. One idea is to obtain a bowling pin and have it autographed as a collector's item by your favorite pro.

There is a nominal admission charge and some seating remains available for the live TV finals on Oct. 27. For more information, call Taylor Lanes at 946-9092.

■ Westland's Fiesta Lanes is starting a new Battle of the Sexes League, which kicks off at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 2. For more information on this men vs. women format, call 722-1450.

The entry fee is only $10 with a pair of mystery games and optional side pots. Handicap is 80 percent from 200. For more information, call 427-2900.

Canton's Super Bowl will host a Halloween Doubles Tournament, beginning at 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 24. Teams can be ladies, mixed or men. It's ABC/WIBC sanctioned. For more information, call 459-6070.

'The Mommies' — taking reality TV a bit too far?

By Suzanne Gill

There aren't many countries where a couple of housewives can be clowning for the PTA one year and have their own TV series the next. And perhaps that's as it should be.

Yet that, in a nutshell, is the story of the comedy duo of Marilyn Kentz and Caryl Kristensen, a couple of car-pool buddies from Northern California who now star in NBC's "The Mommies" each Saturday night. In a mere three years, Kentz and Kristensen have taken their idea for a women's stand-up act from their kitchen tables to America's living rooms.

It all started when the older Kentz faced a mid-life panic attack and started dragging her friend off to various classes and community college events. Nothing seemed to help until the two attended a how-to-be-a-stand-up-comedian lecture and decided what today's woman needs most is a chance to laugh. Their own lives became the source of their material. The joked about childbirth, midriff bulge and other women's baking habits. They went from playing club meetings to booking night clubs. They even appeared in Las Vegas (though they sent the act down for one night and flew home to trick-or-treat with their kids). Women came with other women one night, then returned with their skeptical husbands the next.

Soon The Mommies were spotted by network scouts eager to sign the next Roseanne Arnold or Tim Allen or (even) Bob Saget, and series development offers began coming in. They accepted a deal from NBC's Perry Simon because, says Kentz. "Our whole show was about giving women a chance to see that they're not alone. And he was really behind that."

They were whisked away to Hollywood, but not, it turns out, made over. NBC encouraged them not to take acting lessons. They went before the cameras to film a series of brief "Mommie Moments," which aired last spring while the script, set and co-stars for their series pilot were being readied.

The pilot found Kentz and Kristensen folding laundry, waiting in the school parking lot or just sitting around the kitchen table, rattling off pastiche from their stand-up act.

Results were mixed. The Mommies not only haven't learned to act, in their brief history together they haven't developed a great sense of comic timing either. They just tell the truth as they see it. To some viewers, it's cathartic; to others, it's just crass. Jokes about sonograms and menstrual cycles don't necessarily make good family viewing.

Worse, to date the friends' strong bond has worked against the success of the show, making everything on the set - even the other cast members, who include the estimable David Dukas as Kentz' husband - just so much background.

At a summer press conference to promote the show, Kristensen reacted in mock horror when a questioner suggested The Mommies are a bit rough around the edges. "You're saying we're not polished? I'm so shocked." Pausing months later on the way to a story conference, she says the main focus of cast and crew is to "evolve the show into a stronger version of what it is now."

"The Mommies" debuted to better-than-expected ratings, which may be an indication that the show will catch on, like ABC's "Home Improvement," with an audience that's more visceral than polite. "Home Improvement," however, has something "The Mommies" so far lack - a strong voice on the opposite side of the gender fence.

Kentz and Kristensen, who have their husbands' support for their comic endeavors, are quick to point out that they aren't man bashers, just post-romantic realists. In an upcoming show set at a bridal shower, the pair open the eyes of the bride-to-be.

"We take it out of the jokey-jokey," says Kentz, "and now we're talking about the real thing, what I really said to Caryl, not on stage." She adopts a nasal tone. "Have you ever lived with a groomer? The clipping noises in the morning, blowing his nose in the shower?"

"And that is not a joke."
Maybe that's the problem.

Rolle says character comments on parenting

BY JOHN CROOK

Although Esther Rolle has what she calls "minor roles" on NBC's Danville Street anniversary "Message From Nani" airing Sunday and Tuesday Oct. 17 and 19, she feels that her character "Queenie" represents a warning for parents. "There's not a good relationship between the central character and her mother," Rolle says, "and I become a surrogate mother to the girl."

"I've never taken a job just for a job's sake," says the actress, best known for her work as Florida Evans in the CBS sitcom "Good Times." "There's a lot to be learned about parenting," and I don't fault the children for all of the awful things that are going on today. Had they been parented, they wouldn't be that way."

Rolle points to her own upbringing in Pompano Beach, Fla., as a positive example. "There were 18 of us," she recalls. "I'm sure and certain the children were my parents' jobs... and they did a hell of a job with both." It was a hard but good way to grow up, because we learned responsibility from one another."

Her next TV trip is to Dora, with the White Dog, on the Hitmark Hall of Fame presentation on the Home Channel and Jessica Faudel, host, on Dec. 10/8 on CBS. Ex-President and Mrs. Jimmy Carter visited Rolle during filming. "I was flattered," she says. "I didn't know whether they would remember me."

Gloria Loring premieres new CD

BY CANDACE HAVENS

It was almost seven years ago when Gloria Loring decided to leave her popular daytime role as Liz Chandler on "Days of Our Lives," her divorce became final and "Friends and Lovers," a duet she sang with Carl Anderson, became No. 1.

Loring's singing voice has brought her back into the daytime arena. Her ballad "Is Anybody Out There" is the song used for Mandy Lewis (Barbara Crampton) on "Guiding Light."

"I've had this song for more than four years," says Loring. "I really feel it has the same kind of appeal that 'Friends and Lovers' had. It is a beautiful song that I think really touches people's hearts. A friend of mine and I sent the song to a couple of different soaps, and then 'GL' began to play it in January. It has been getting a terrific response ever since."

"Is Anybody Out There" is also the title song of Loring's new CD. The singer used her own money to produce the album before she toured in Australia last year. "I wanted to take a new album with me on the tour, so I had to do everything very fast. There wasn't time to find a record label."

Loring wrote many of the songs on the album, and she says writing is a very personal experience for her. "If a song touches me in a certain way, then I have a good idea that other people will feel the same things I do when they hear it."

"There was a song I wrote on a previous album called 'A Song of My Father,'" says Loring. "I had tried to write about my relationship with my father for a long time, he is an alcoholic. But I could never get focused. Then one day while I was on a plane, it happened, and I just sat there and wrote. In the song it says, 'I wanted you to be my hero, and you didn't get to,' because this thing called alcoholism got in the way." Many people are disappointed when they learn their parents are human and fallible like everyone else.

Loring's CD "Is Anybody Out There" is available in record stores.
