Cable TV improvements sought

Public hearings are scheduled in the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township on cable service. The city and township are negotiating with Omnicom, with an eye toward improving services.

By KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Better service and signal quality from local cable TV provider Omnicom is being sought by city and township officials, through hearings starting this month.

The city administration is scheduled to open its hearing with Omnicom Nov. 28, while township officials plan to open a separate hearing with the cable TV provider Nov. 30.

With the city's franchise agreement with Omnicom set to expire Dec. 12, the hearings are scheduled in keeping with a federal cable TV act. Cable agreements between Omnicom and Plymouth Township, Canton and the city of Northville are also coming up for renewal, and the communities have joined together and hired a consultant to seek the best deal possible with the cable TV company.

A representative of the four-community group was scheduled to meet with an Omnicom representative today to discuss differences.

Both City Manager Steve Walters and township Supervisor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy say they're concerned with complaints from residents on signal quality, on Omnicom's response to subscribers' service complaints, and more.

"It's a pretty old system, it's not addressable," Walters said, adding that cable systems in other communities are able to meet requests for pay channels quickly by computer, while Omnicom technicians must come out to the home and make changes.

Further, "We have 50 channels where most of the cable systems have 70," Walters said.

While Omnicom has made some improvements in recent years, "These are minor tinkering improvements," Walters said. "It's not quite fair to say they've done nothing, but they haven't done a major upgrade to be competitive with neighboring cable companies."

Work on new library to start in summer

By KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Work to build the new library voters approved last week won't start until next summer.

That's because there's a heap of planning to do — and library trustees have to find a temporary home for the library during construction.

"We'll spend about the next six months discussing drawings, and making arrangements to purchase any properties we need," said library director Pat Thomas.

"Sometime next summer, we'd be ready to move out of this building and start demolition and site work here. We'll probably spend a year and a half in a temporary place. I'd like to tighten up that schedule but I don't know if that's possible," she said.

As for a temporary library, Thomas said, "Farmer Jack (the former supermarket on Main Street) would be our first choice but I don't know if that's going to be available."

"Absolutely," said Stanley Dickson Jr., owner of the former Farmer Jack building. "I'd welcome the opportunity to talk to them."

"We'll be looking for places that have at least 10,000 square feet and enough parking available," Thomas said. "We want to move in somewhere where we can provide service as usual."

Tentative plans call for the Dunn-Hough Library to close in mid to late summer next year.

According to a tentative schedule put together by the library board's building committee, planning and building specifications would be finished by May.

Between June and September, the board would seek bids from builders,

Canton Playscape project benefits from fund-raiser

By JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Dance and exercise your way to fun while giving help to the Canton Community-Built Playscape at a country and western line dancing fund-raiser 7-10 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, at East Middle School, 1042 E. Mill, Plymouth.

Fran Mintz of Jaxercise in Canton will teach participants country and line dancing and then give everyone a chance to practice their newfound skills. Admission is $5, which will go to the playscape.

"I'll break down the steps for them. We'll do about four dances. I'll work with the adults on the popular ones, like the tush push and the achy breaky," Mintz said. "I'll have simpler dances for the kids. Don't be afraid to bring your kids. There is something for them to do."

Participants will have an opportunity to take a break and just observe others dancing, as well. Young Country radio will donate T-shirts and other promotional items for the fund-raiser.

Residents of all ages are invited to attend the event, organized specifically for the playscape effort. "No experience is necessary to participate," said Jan Pickard, playscape volunteer. "Come out and it will be fun."

Pizza and pop will be available. Organizers also will be selling the playscape's T-shirt bearing the official name — Heritage Hideout — and logo.

Organizers have been scheduling a number of fund-raisers for the playscape that will be built in Heritage Park. Organizers have about $40,000 already, including $30,000 from Canton Township.

It's expected that about $80,000-$90,000 will need to be raised. "It depends on how much donated materials we get from the community," said playscape organizer Christine Donaldson, who brought the possibilities of the playscape to the community's attention.

The playscape is proposed to be about 14,000 square feet. But the size will depend on how many volunteers turn out to help build the structure next spring, Donaldson said.

She received a design for the playscape from architects John Dean and Dave Ianello of Robert Leathers and Associates. The architects met with hundreds of elementary school children in October to develop the design.

"These kids are so excited about it," Donaldson said.

Canton's playscape will feature a castle maze with a spiral staircase to a tower, as well as a bouncing bridge, twisted slide, fort, swings, tires and a tot lot.

The 3-D maze will have a center room with mirrors, as well as a cave and tunnels. The playscape also will have a pirate ship with a crow's nest. It will boast a bouncing star, spider web and climber, fire pole, tube slide and a fort to accommodate children in wheelchairs.

As a fund-raiser, organizers will offer portions of the playground, such as the maze, to be bought — figuratively — for a certain donation. The buyers will have permanent markers with their names on those portions of the playground, Donaldson said.

Organizers are requesting donations of materials and equipment to build the play structure. Donaldson has a lengthy list of specific materials that are needed. For more information, she can be reached at 261-8928.

Speaker planned Nov. 29

A speaker concerned about uses being made of U.N. troops will address Family First on Tuesday, Nov. 29.

Dr. Philip O'Halloran, editor of Relevance newsletter, is the featured speaker at the luncheon which will begin 11:45 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 29, in Grand River Baptist Church, 34500 Six Mile, west of Farmington Road in Livonia.

O'Halloran will cover the progressive transfer of U.S. troops over to the growing U.N. peacekeeping forces, done in accordance with Public Law 87-297, State Department Paper 7277, and the Blue Print for the Peace Race document.

He will explain how the pre-positioning of United Nations forces in the U.S. could be used in possible future civil disturbances, and for enforcing future sanctions imposed upon the U.S. by the World Trade Organization.

O'Halloran believes the World Trade Organization is the economic underpinning of a "one world government" and will be established under GATT if it's passed by Congress this year.

A brief overview of GATT,

WTO and "fast tracking" will be presented by Family First's issues chairman at the start of the program.

Luncheon will be stuffed pork chops, vegetable, salad, roll, dessert and coffee for a cost of $6.50. Reservations are due by Monday, Nov. 28, and may be called to Lillian at (313) 420-1758 or Marion at (810) 539-0977.

Individuals also may attend the lecture only, and skip lunch, with a $1 donation. The lecture will begin at 1 p.m. Babysitting is available in the nursery for $2 a family.

Artists' hands bring play sculpture to life

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Norman Rockwell's son Peter and grandson Tom started work Tuesday on the Plymouth Playscape Project.

As Plymouth and Canton high school students looked on, the two chiseled bits of stone from a block sat toward the rear of an art classroom. There, the steady "plink-plink" of hammer against chisel was broken only by the sound of bits of stone landing on floor tiles.

Real work on the large wooden play structure for kids at Plymouth Township Park won't get started until next spring, after volunteers have completed efforts to raise nearly $100,000 to build the structure.

But the Rockwells were in town last week to create a stone "grotesque," or monster sculpture, to be included with the finished playscape.

"It's a talking head," Peter Rockwell explained.

Once the sculpture is installed, a length of PVC pipe will be attached to one of the mouths chiseled into the stone, so kids can speak into the pipe at one end of the play structure and others can hear their voices coming from the stone.

"It will have three mouths, four eyes, five noses and two foreheads - it may have three chins," Peter Rockwell said, smiling.

"The idea of doing faces with more than one nose and more than two eyes goes back so far nobody knows," he said, adding it's often a theme in ancient sculpture.

It was Tom who got father Peter involved with the Plymouth Playscape Project, as Tom works with Leathers and Associates, consultants to the playscape project.

Because Peter Rockwell had already designed a sculpture in the township park a few years ago, son Tom explained he decided to call his father to see if he'd like to create another, to go with Sculpting: Peter Rockwell, son of artist Norman Rockwell, puts finishing touches on a sculpture to be included with the Plymouth Playscape Project.

Hands-on: Peter Rockwell completes work on the sculpture, set up in an art room at Plymouth Salem High School the playscape.

Peter Rockwell lives in Italy, where he does sculpture and art restoration projects. Tom lives in Ithaca, N.Y.

What's it like to be the son of a famous artist?

"What's bad about it is people often expect my work to look like his," Peter Rockwell said. "The name recognition thing, that's handy," he said.

"As an artist, sometimes I'm frustrated that people don't look at his paintings as paintings," Rockwell said, explaining that the subject matter of his father's paintings is often the focus for the public.

"It isn't that Norman Rockwell painted middle America; he invented middle America," his son said.

For information on volunteering with the playscape committee or donating money for the project, call Kim Mizzi at 454-4829 or Marybeth Yanik at 454-9614.

Young artists: Nicholas, 6, and Jessica Saia, 7, try carving a piece of limestone as students and others were encouraged to help with the sculpture.

Students watch: Plymouth and Canton high school art students look on as Peter Rockwell works on the sculpture.

This pastor's busy organizing new congregation in Canton

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

For too long, the Rev. Ken Bieber saw his former church changing biblical interpretations to fit the 1990s.

"The church had become too secular, too pluralistic," said Bieber, the pastor for Canton's new Church of the Risen Lord, a mission of the Charismatic Episcopal Church of North America. There is another parish in Sterling Heights.

If you're looking for the new church, you won't find it - yet. For now members are meeting in each other's homes for worship services. "Eventually we hope to rent an existing building and then build one."

Not too long ago, Bieber contacted the Charismatic Episcopal Church. "I was told I would be received and was asked to lead a new parish," said Bieber, who with his wife, Diane, has three grown children.

Bieber wasn't always a parish priest. At 39 years of age, the former sales manager went to the seminary. "I had a growing relationship with Christ. It seemed the Lord was calling me to be ordained."

Bieber attended the Trinity Episcopal School for Ministry.

Rev. Ken Bieber
Church of the Risen Lord

He served as vicar and rector at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Bridgeport, Mich.

Like the Episcopal Church, the charismatic church also has bishops. "But we are not a splinter of the Episcopal Church. The Charismatic Episcopal Church - CEC for short - began in June 1992, founded by three charismatic churches in other parts of the country. There are now approximately 100 congregations around the country.

"They began to hunger for more of what the church could be," Bieber said of the CEC's founders. "The CEC looks for teaching solid family values and understanding of the Scriptures."

Bieber said the CEC gives a place for those who are stifled or are tired of what he calls the liberal trends such as rejecting the Bible or changing the meanings of the Scriptures.

The CEC has blended three streams of worship: the historical/sacramental liturgies and symbols of the traditional church, evangelical, which is accepting the Bible as the word of God, and the charismatic experience of the Holy Spirit, Bieber said. "All of these things are meant to lead to the worship of God," he added.

Though not mandatory, church members are expected to participate in the charismatic experience either by speaking in tongues, operating in the gifts of the Holy Spirit, such as in healing, and prophesying, Bieber said.

"There are clear teachings on sexual behavior and abortion to name a few issues. This is a church of values," Bieber said. "This church is not afraid to say Jesus is the Lord."

Anyone who might be interested in the church or would like to attend worship services should call member Bill McNeill, 397-1553.

Economic Club hosts editor

The Rudolph-Libbe Canton Economic Club will present guest speaker Bill Ballenger, editor-publisher of "Inside Michigan Politics," at noon Wednesday, Nov. 16, at St. John Neumann Catholic Church, 44900 Warren Road, Canton.

Ballenger will analyze and comment on the results of the

Nov. 8 election.

Ballenger hosts a weekly call-in radio program about political issues on WKAR. He is one of Michigan's foremost political historians. He is a frequent commentator on Michigan politics and government for an array of newspapers, radio and television stations throughout the state, as well as nationally.

Ballenger is a former state racing commissioner, state senator and representative.

This month's Close Up student sponsors are state Rep. Deborah Whymann and Wayne County Commissioner-elect Bruce Patterson.

Reservations for the $12 luncheon meeting can be made by calling Joan Noricks, 981-3002.

If all goes according to plan, the new library would open in spring 1997.

Meanwhile, the one-half mill voters authorized to pay for the bond issue won't be taken from taxpayers until December 1996.

And collection of the additional millage — nearly a half-mill for new equipment and more — won't be levied until the facility is nearly ready, in December 1996.

Thomas said the library board will seek to reopen talks with the city administration on parking and site considerations. As plans for the new building are drawn up, "We'll have to go back and double-check everything to make sure there is enough space for books, that the space relationships are clear," Thomas said.

The architects will start doing sketches; we'll start to get a handle on how many parking spaces are needed. We'll be approaching property owners for parcels," she said, as plans now call for removing four houses on Union Street just east of the library.

"The specific houses will depend on how the parking needs develop," Thomas said, as plans call for reconfiguring the lot between the library and The Gathering.

The library board building committee is scheduled to meet Tuesday to begin work on these items.

Bill Richardson, an attorney representing Omnicom, said, "We do plan to provide additional channels." But he maintained the local communities rejected this and making the system addressable on the grounds that Omnicom could then charge subscribers more money.

Both Walters and McCarthy say that while Omnicom is making a healthy profit, not enough money is being put back into the system for upgrades.

"Omnicom has failed their last four FCC-required proof of performance tests," McCarthy said. "They're supposed to provide a plan to correct the problem," she said, adding that hasn't happened.

"I feel there's a lot of dissatisfaction in our community with the quality of service we have and the price," McCarthy said.

In recent weeks, both city and township officials — following procedure allowed in the federal cable TV act — denied renewal of the current franchise agreement with Omnicom.

Officials say their goal is not to get rid of Omnicom, but to get the company to provide better service.

At the upcoming administrative hearings, both sides will present evidence and witnesses to show why or why not the current agreement should be renewed. Sessions "will at least go into January," McCarthy said.

Omnicom has proposed rebuilding its system, and passing on the cost to subscribers, McCarthy said, adding, "We don't feel any system upgrade should be passed on to subscribers."

Richardson said FCC regulations give cable companies the right to pass on some upgrade costs to subscribers. "We said we would comply with FCC rules."

While Omnicom has formally proposed a 10-year franchise with a potential five-year extension, "We felt that was way too long with all the changes in the industry," said McCarthy. City and township officials are seeking a three and a half-year renewal.

Richardson said a three and a half-year agreement does not give the company enough time to recover costs for improvements. "If you look around the country you can't find anybody with a three and a half-year franchise," he said.

Some 300 area honor roll students will be praised for their academic achievements in the 1994 Parade Honor Corps, a specialty unit in the 68th Michigan Thanksgiving Parade.

The Honor Corps will feature students from 86 public and private high schools in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Area school superintendents were asked to select outstanding students to represent their districts in the parade.

Honor Corps students must meet excellent attendance standards, be outstanding academic performers with grade point averages of 3.0 or above, and be involved in extra-curricular activities.

Students in this year's "human float," as it has been described, will also carry their school banners and pennants when they march down Woodward Avenue.

They will wear blue jackets bearing the "Wave of the Future" logo, which is the Honor Corps' theme.

The Honor Corps will be ninth in a line-up of more than 100 parade units on the 2.2 mile route.

The Detroit area Eagle Scouts and first class Girl Scouts will lead the students.

Forty Honor Corps alumni, who marched in last year's parade, will return to join this year's honorees.

The parade will be televised on channel 4.

Keith awarded: The Michigan Occupational Education Association has named state Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City (at center), a "Lifetime Friend to Education." Association director Rick Perry said in a press release that "the 2,000 members who are career-technical administrators and educators selected Keith for his hard work and dedication to career technical education throughout his 22 years in the Michigan Legislature." Keith is the co-chairman of the House Education Committee and is retiring from the Legislature at the end of the year.

PARKER DUOFOLD

Many employees offered separation or early retirement packages; financial planning a necessity.

Many employees will need more than luck to make the most effective early retirement or separation decisions," says certified financial planner Chuck Bolanis.

Many people take advice from well-meaning friends. The problem is that their situation could be significantly different from yours, and the results could be significantly different, too.

"Do you or a friend have the expertise to accurately evaluate the tax implications concerning early retirement separation packages?" asks Bolanis. "Will you really be able to devise a plan to make sure your money lasts as long as you do?" Bolanis continues. "It's no easy undertaking to implement an overall retirement program that will work to address these and the numerous other critical questions that can impact your retirement."

Bolanis Financial Planning Group, Inc. has specialized in helping people plan for financial security upon retirement since 1982. All members of the Bolanis professional staff are Certified Financial Planners. For people who are facing early retirement, or separation, Bolanis and his team of professionals can make an important contribution in helping them make the right decisions. "Personalized financial planning can help you get the most out of your retirement assets," says Bolanis.

Bolanis Financial Planning Group will soon be putting their knowledge to practical use in a free seminar.

The seminar will address financial issues associated with early retirement and separation packages, including When can I retire? What are the pros and cons of a monthly annuity vs. a lump sum payout; and tax planning to minimize taxes—now and in the future; how to deal with the new withholding laws; and how to draw on your lump sum before $92 without a penalty, to name a few.

The seminar will be held at 7 p.m., Tuesday, November 15, at the Wyndham Garden Hotel, 42100 Crescent Blvd., Novi and at 7:00 p.m., Wednesday, November 16, at the Somerset Inn, 2601 W. Big Beaver Rd., Troy.

"Even if you don't normally attend seminars, you can't afford to miss this one," says Bolanis.

For reservations, call (810) 262-1466 or, toll free, 1-800-444-PLAN.

Customers sharing same phone number

Ameritech has announced that customers in area codes 313 and 810 have begun to share the same phone numbers.

The first duplicate numbers were issued in Livonia on Nov. 5.

The numbers match those already in use in Byron, located near Flint in the 810 area code.

Further duplicate numbers now will be used routinely throughout the two area codes.

Livonia's first duplicate numbers have been assigned to a business customer who uses the numbers mostly for an internal office system, according to an Ameritech press release.

The new area code will help meet the rising demand for personal pagers, fax machines, computer modems and cellular phones, which create an enormous need for new numbers.

More than three million new telephone numbers will be created by the 810 area code, enough to last 15-20 years.

Edison program aids low-income residents

Low-income area residents can protect themselves against the cold this winter through Detroit Edison-sponsored programs and other forms of aid that prevent electric service shutoffs.

"We urge customers with bill-payment problems to call us at (800) 477-4747 as soon as possible so we can help them avoid shutoffs," said Edison spokesman Bob Buckler in a press release.

Edison's programs range from energy education and conservation measures to financial assistance.

The utility also pledges to offer up to $1 million to help customers through donations to The Health and Warmth Fund and bill credits to qualified homeless shelters. THAW is a nonprofit organization.

tion of Southeastern Michigan community agencies, businesses and churches. It will give one-time energy payment assistance beginning Jan. 9 using donated funds.

When qualified low-income customers have exhausted other public and private community resources, THAW may provide last-resort energy assistance.

To aid THAW's outreach efforts, Edison will ask customers to make donations which the utility will match.

Donors can send checks or money orders to: The Heat and Warmth Fund, P.O. Box 1000, Plymouth, 48170. Donations also may be charged using VISA or MasterCard by calling (800) 866-8429.

POINTS OF VIEW

Schools should address sexual harassment issues

Question: When I was in junior high school back in the 1970s a few of the "guys" were constantly making sexual remarks and not keeping their hands at home. It really hurt, but back then we just didn't say much. Today I think I would. Is the issue of sexual harassment in schools now receiving proper attention? Is this now a legitimate issue in school settings? Are schools addressing the issue?

Answer: Katy Lyle, a high school student at Central High in Duluth, Minn., felt weird and violated and mentally hurt knowing her name was on the wall of a boys' bathroom stall. The word "slut" and other sexually explicit graffiti far coarser and cruder was visible. Katy finally got the nerve to tell her parents who tried to work through the system. After two years, the graffiti with Katy's name, cut into the metal wall, was still there. Nothing happened.

The parents filed a complaint with the Minnesota Department of Human Rights criticizing school officials' treatment of Katy's case. After three years, the Human Rights Department, in 1991, gained a ruling in Katy's favor and she was awarded $15,000 in compensation. This was the first monetary award in a school peer sexual harassment case in the country.

More importantly, according to Katy (who appeared on numerous talk shows), was that it made (peer) sexual harassment in school a more talkable issue. Changes did occur in the district's thinking including such a simple issue as directing the custodians to check daily for and remove offensive graffiti. How a school could leave the graffiti on the wall for three years is a bit too much to grasp.

You ask if this is now a legitimate issue and are schools addressing the issue. Some probably are and some probably have not had time (with everything else going on) to come up with a plan or simply don't see it as a priority yet . . . but they will.

Back in the good ol' days we simply went after the graffiti writers and had them scrub and/or paint the walls. And as I recall, as a former high school principal, the remarks on the girls' bathroom stalls were as gross with clear explicit language as was found in the boys' area. That's a point that also needs addressing.

All this notwithstanding, this Clarence Thomas-initiated issue is now with us. And in my opinion, I believe those schools that don't have a sexual harassment policy should develop one. Because sexual harassment is an issue whose time has come . . . like it or not. Take a few cases that have moved some school districts to come up with a policy.

In the Doe vs. Petaluma City School District (California), a girl sued her former junior high school for $1 million saying school officials ignored her complaints of sexual taunts from classmates for years. The judge ruled that the student has to prove school officials intentionally discriminated against her. The Superintendent, Chuck Cadman, said, "I welcome the judge's decision." The case is pending.

Jill Olson, a student in the Chaska, Minn., schools won $40,000 in 1993 when it was ruled school officials had created "an atmosphere that promotes sexual harassment." The girl, Olson, complained when she discovered she was one of 25 girls on a list being circulated around the school, girls who were supposedly the most sexually desirable (with an inference to . . . available) in her school. The judge ruled that school officials had created an offensive atmosphere that promoted sexual harassment.

It is beyond me to understand how a principal is supposed to know there is a list circulated around the school. I doubt any of the boys ran up to the principal and said, "Hey, man, see the list we got." But times have changed . . . principals are supposed to know now or get sued??? Conversely, we may have been too insensitive in this area. As part of the good ol' boys generation, we did believe boys will be boys, forgetting the impact on some young lady.

For instance there is the case of Heather Wright, a student in Mason City, Iowa, who is now in therapy and was moved to another high school to overcome a former boyfriend and some of his female friends' constant harassment . . . which included threatening phone calls, constant in-school taunts and continual demeaning school wall graffiti. "She has no strength left and feels worthless," her mother said. Today, we can't take some of these guys out in the woodshed and straighten them out. Because that's another lawsuit.

If a school district doesn't have a sexual harassment policy, I believe it's a board agenda item that should be discussed. No little 7-year-old girl on a school bus should be subjected to the treatment our little 7-year-old girl, in this column, experienced.

Consider little Chelzie Henta, a first-grade student in Eden Prairie, Minn. Some sixth-grade boys, on the school bus, used words for her like "b——". The 7-year-old child asked her mother what the boys meant when they said she should have oral sex with her father. Where do these children get these mindsets? It's not part of any school curriculum. Of course it's not the language children constantly are exposed to on TV . . . in movies . . . how old-fashioned that thinking is!

The Superintendent of Eden Prairie, Gerald McCoy said, "We tell the boys the language they are using is inappropriate. It's more just hurting someone with words than sexual harassment." I disagree. Even a beginning student in this issue knows that sexual harassment "isn't about sex" it's about intimidation and power; power over women in this case.

Schools should address the issue and develop a school policy. "The fear of legal action is very real, as it should be. But what schools don't realize is that, by not addressing the issue, they increase their liability," said Susan Strass, author of a curriculum guide called "Sexual Harassment and Teens." To which one board member in Eden Prairie at a meeting said, "if we let every student know what their rights are in every situation, we're going to lose big money."

If a school district doesn't have a sexual harassment policy, I believe it's a board agenda item that should be discussed. No little 7-year-old girl on a school bus should be subjected to the treatment our little 7-year-old girl, in this column, experienced.

In 1994 it's like: Georgie, Porgie, Puddin and Pie, Kissed the girls; they didn't cry! When Georgie, Porgie came out to play a sexual harassment subpoena was on its way. This is the real world?

Voters change very little in state political makeup

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

What changed?

Some 3.1 million Michiganans went to the polls Tuesday after being inflicted with millions of campaign ads. They changed very little in state and local government.

Governor? They kept Republican John Engler with his promises of stable school funding and lower taxes. No change.

Secretary of state? Most people don't know what that office does, as even GOP winner Candice Miller admits, and are unaware of how political ideology makes a difference.

Attorney general? Democratic "Eternal General" Frank Kelley is still there, starting his second one-third of a century. No change.

State Senate? It's still 23-16 Republican. The parties traded one seat, the GOP losing Gil DiNello of Macomb County, Democrats losing the seat of the retiring Bill Faust, D-Westland, to Loren Bennett, R-Canton. Very little change.

State House? Republicans netted one seat, by Jim Ryan of Redford Township, to take 56-54 control. Actually, they have had a philosophical majority for at least four years because many Democrats voted conservatively on abortion, tax cuts and auto insurance reform. Little change.

Supreme Court? Justice Conrad Mallett Jr., a Democratic nominee, led the ticket. The GOP hung onto the seat of retiring Republican Robert Griffin. The highest court is still 3-3-1. No change.

State Board of Education? Ah, here is where Republicans can put their stamp on Michigan's most important governmental function. Here is the body that will approve core curriculum standards that were decreed as part of Proposal A. Here is the body that will approve school accreditation standards. Here is the body that actually will implement many of the "quality" slogans that filled the air.

The State Board of Education has the constitutional duty of leadership and supervision of public education — not the legislature, not local school districts which have no "home rule" power.

Going into the election, the board was 4-4. Republicans picked up two Democratic seats. On paper, it's 6-2 Republican. The philosophical breakdown, however, is a bit different:

■ Two holdover Republicans with extensive public school backgrounds — Dorothy Beardmore of Rochester (elected) and Katherine DeGrow of Eaton Rapids (Engler appointee).

■ Four doctrinaire conservative Republicans with no background in public school decision-making: Gary Wolfram, economics professor from Hillsdale College, a hotbed of anti-government ideology, an Engler appointee; Marilyn Lundy, a Detroit whose background is Catholic social services and who doesn't believe students should have the existing constitutional right of free speech; newcomer Sharon Wise, a Republican district chair and co-owner of an Owosso well-drilling business; and newcomer Clark Durant, attorney, former Reagan administration official and founder of a private school in Detroit.

■ Two holdover Democrats — Barbara Roberts Mason, a teachers union official, and Kathleen Straus, head of a private school in Detroit but with a background in public school lobbying.

"Policy should dominate process" — that's how Engler described the GOP's nomination, and his support, of Wise and Durant this year.

In short, step 2 in the reform of Michigan public schools, the quality step, is likely to be dominated by state board members lacking public school board background. Ironically, it's a body that Engler and the anti-public school forces have advocated abolishing.

Meanwhile, the evangelical "Religious Right" actually suffered a blow with DiNello's downfall. DiNello chaired the special Senate committee that wrote a scathing attack on the Michigan Model for Comprehensive Health Education. His hearings provided for charges that the health curriculum taught Satanism and promiscuity, and attacked parental authority.

And he was the lone Republican incumbent defeated Nov. 8.

Roads need work, report says

Michigan needs to spend an additional $8.9 billion — or $900 million a year for 10 years — to make needed repairs to its county road, street and bridge system, according to a report by The Road Information Program.

The report, based on a statewide survey of Michigan's county road commissions, found that almost three-fourths of Michigan's paved county roads are in need of resurfacing or reconstruction repairs because they are in either poor or fair condition.

In addition, 39 percent of county bridges are deficient and also in need of repair.

"This report shows what Michigan motorists know from driving every day on roads throughout the state," said County Road Association spokesman Jim Little. "There is a critical need to make repairs to this state's roads and bridges immediately."

Of the $8.9 billion backlog of unfunded road and bridge repair needs, the report found that $593 million is needed for bridge improvements, $1.1 billion is needed for road resurfacing, more than $4 billion is needed for road reconstruction, and more than $3 billion is needed for traffic capacity improvements.

Other findings of the TRIP study include:

■ There is no funding for 90 percent of needed county road resurfacing and 97 percent of needed county road reconstruction.

■ There is no funding for the 14,138 miles of county roads in need of resurfacing and the 10,814 miles of county roads in need of reconstruction.

■ Counties only have funding to repair 6 percent of deficient bridges in the next year.

■ As repair needs on the county system increased considerably, travel on county roads grew 42 percent over the past 10 years to 27.85 billion vehicle miles of travel in 1992, the last year data was available.

■ Michigan's county road system is the fourth largest in the nation.

The Road Information Program is a private, nonprofit research organization that researches, evaluates and distributes economic and technical data on highway transportation issues.

Insurance chief says reform try heads back to Lansing

By TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Michigan voters said no to auto insurance reform and a Constitutional Convention but approved limits on inmates' appeal rights and a funding plan for state parks.

Proposal C, a law to cut auto insurance costs and premiums, was rejected 251,937 to 138,818, after a brutal advertising campaign between insurers and business groups (for) and the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association (against).

Proposal C's support gradually slipped as trial lawyers' ads hammered home the message that "No means No" — a reference to 1992's Proposal D, also defeated by voters.

"We'll be moving back to the Legislature for new reform mes-sures," said Doug Cruse, president of the Michigan Insurance Federation and chief lobbyist for them. "We look forward to seeing MADD pressing forward to end comparative negligence lawsuits in our auto insurance system. Never again should drinking drivers or others who cause accidents be allowed to file lawsuits."

Trial Lawyers petitioned for a referendum after Republicans in the Legislature, with help from a dozen or so Democrats, passed Public Act 143 of 1993 to cut insurance premiums 16 percent in return for limits on personal injury benefits, fees to health care providers and rights of at-fault drivers to sue.

Even with their gains in the Legislature, Republicans are in no better position to pass a similar law in 1995-96 because of the risk the Trial Lawyers again will petition to place it on the ballot.

It was the second straight ballot victory for Trial Lawyers, who opposed the 1992 Proposal D, placed before voters by a petition drive sponsored by AAA Michi-

series of amendments.

Proposal B, adopted 290,764 to

88,628, will amend the constitution to limit the right of convicts

who plead guilty (or no contest)

to appeal their convictions or sentences to the state Court of Appeals.

It's expected to reduce the Court of Appeals' caseload by 25 percent, according to legislative backers who put it on the ballot.

State court officials have been asking for dozens more appellate judges because of the current caseload.

Critics said it was dangerous to tamper with essential rights.

They also argued that fewer defendants would plead guilty and that more trials would result. But opponents never mounted a campaign against Proposal B.

Turndown

Proposal A, the every-16-years

call for a state Constitutional

Convention, never had strong public support and was turned down 268,567 to 99,682.

The next chance voters will have to rewrite the state's basic document will be in 2010. The next constitution was adopted in 1963.

If it had been approved, voters within six months would have been asked to elect delegates from their legislative districts. The Con-Con could then offer voters a totally rewritten constitution or a series of amendments.

Proposal B, adopted 290,764 to

88,628, will amend the constitution to limit the right of convicts

who plead guilty (or no contest)

to appeal their convictions or sentences to the state Court of Appeals.

Court of Appeals' caseload by 25

Most popular

Proposal P — for "parks" —

was the most popular with voters, winning 283,515 to 89,192 support. Former Gov. William G. Milliken was honorary chair of the movement sparked by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Proposal P will amend the constitution's financial article to establish a "Michigan State Parks Endowment Fund" to be fed by expanding the existing Natural Resources Trust Fund, funded by revenues from oil and gas leases of state lands. The parks endowment can be used to operate and maintain Michigan's 75-year-old state park system but not for land acquisition.

The endowment fund is expected, in time, to provide enough guaranteed support for state parks that the Department of Natural Resources won't need to lobby the Legislature for its operating budget. State funding of the parks fell from 80 percent of their budget to 20 percent since 1982 as Lansing put more money into welfare, schools and prisons.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Specialty birds get highest marks in poll

Now that I think back on it, we were born and raised on chicken and ground stew beef, except of course, on Fridays when we ate macaroni and cheese.

For all around cooking, you just can't beat a good ground stewing beef, and it's available just about anywhere. But when it comes to making great chicken, some of the birds I've purchased at my local grocery store left much to be desired.

In September, "Cook's" Magazine conducted a very unscientific test on America's number one meat. Chicken is numero uno because consumption has doubled over the past 20 years. Each and every man, woman and child in the U.S. eats somewhere in the neighborhood of 70 pounds of chicken per year. What "Cook's" did was pit four of the top-selling supermarket chickens against some of the most widely available premium chickens.

You guessed it, out of a field of nine entries, the supermarket chickens took fifth, sixth, eighth and ninth place.

Premium chickens

The top four birds were specialty brands. "Because chicken is so perishable, until fairly recently it was a local product" said Jack Bishop the author of the article, who along with some of the best known chefs and foodies in the country, judged the contest.

For the uninitiated, what makes a poor-tasting chicken deals with everything from the feed it is fed to their temperature after processing and during shipping. When a bird is rushed to market the way the "big boys" do it to keep costs down, the consumer usually suffers the consequences. But what makes a really great chicken? The folks at Bell & Evans (rated numero uno by the taste testers at "Cook's"), says that in addition to formulating the best feed, Bell & Evans ships their chickens loose on ice in 40 pound boxes and not prewrapped.

The folks at the oldest chicken company in America claim that problems begin to arise when prewrapped birds cannot "weep" - a natural process whereby blood and fluids slowly drain from the birds. Problems in taste and texture happen when the bloods and fluids from the birds coagulate and freeze in the chicken, something you can actually taste when comparing chickens.

Taste comparison

I located one of their highly touted birds and put it up next to a whole chicken from a metro Detroit grocery store that cost only 59 cents per pound. The differences in appearance, texture, taste and aroma were astounding. Bell & Evans chickens, priced at about $1.59 per pound are available locally at: Byrd's and Martin's Butcher Block in Livonia, and at the Long Lake Market in West Bloomfield.

The chicken receiving second place honors went to the folks at Empire Kosher who market a fresh young broiler at about $1.99 per pound. You can locate these chickens at all Shopping Center Markets in Southfield, West Bloomfield and at the Food Emporium in Livonia.

Folks in search of a more healthy chicken will certainly appreciate the positive third place showing of the D'Artagnan Fresh Free Range Chicken available via their catalogue for about $2.95 per pound plus shipping and handling. All D'Artagnan chickens are raised without antibiotics, growth hormones or stimulants and are fed only organically raised grains.

Even if you don't like chicken, request their catalog, it's one of the best for mail order specialty foods. You can reach them at 1-(800)-327-8246.

Sandra John, general manager of The Good Food Company in Canton, said that just because a brand advertises "Amish" type chicken doesn't necessarily mean that the bird is free range. The Good Food Company sells only Frankenmuth chickens which are naturally free range. The Good Food Company also is in Troy.

If you are relegated to purchasing chicken that might not be the best that money can buy, it's good to know that whole birds fare better than cut up birds. Look for a broiler, fryer or a roaster and save the stewing hens for chicken soup. Fresh chicken will keep in the refrigerator for 2-3 days. If you have to purchase frozen chicken, watch for "frozen burn," that brownish skin area that is evidence of dehydration or improper storage.

The Frankenmuth Poultry Co. is a family-owned business. Their chickens are grown naturally on family-owned farms.

BY BRIAN LYSAUGHT
SPECIAL WRITER

From his office window in Milford, Christopher Schmitt can look outside to see a flock of his chickens.

"You learn a lot watching chickens," said Schmitt, a Farmington Hills resident who owns a successful engraving components company that sits amid the birds on 27 acres in Oakland County.

Schmitt and his wife, Trizi, this year bought a chicken processing plant. They are now working hard to market their Frankenmuth Poultry Co.'s low-in-fat chickens.

The Schmitts may be on to something. Their chickens, which are finding their way into Detroit-area supermarkets, average 3.25 grams of fat per serving when cooked, compared to 15 grams for most other supermarket chickens.

Their chickens are regularly inspected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to insure Frankenmuth Poultry's healthier bird claims are true.

Schmitt said his plant is the smallest chicken-processing plant in the country. Its output of 6,000 chickens a week compares to industry-leader Tyson, which produces over 20 million per week.

The secret, said Schmitt and the company's marketing director, Joe Bosse, is in the feed. It includes a molasses-based product, along with corn, cracked soy and alfalfa.

"We don't use any antibiotics, hormones or meat by-products," said Bosse. The drugs are used by many farms to produce a meatier and healthier chicken faster.

Frankenmuth Poultry chickens are raised on farms within 30 miles of the plant and are "free range" birds - though they live indoors on concrete floors they can walk outside.

Frankenmuth Poultry's feed produces a less-fatty bird. The chickens are grown slower - eight weeks compared to the 38 to 42-day average elsewhere in the industry.

"We're the only ones in the U.S. where you can see 'extra-lean' on the label," said Schmitt. "That's of 54 poultry processing plants."

Schmitt bought the farm from Lee Dale, who experimented on feed improvements as part of his doctorate studies in poultry science at Michigan State University. Dale, who earned his doctorate degree in poultry science from MSU has over 15 years experience. Dale produced a feed that lowered a chicken's body fat to less than 10 percent. The Schmitts, with help from Dale, lowered that to less than five percent.

The chickens taste better and are more healthy, Schmitt said. It produces less grease on the barbecue or in the oven, Bosse said. The challenge is to make their chickens available to more consumers and to make some money doing it.

"They taste different altogether than the chicken you're used to," said Tom Shather, 67, who runs the meat counter at The Roadside Market in Plymouth. "These taste like the chickens I used to have when I was a kid, and I'm almost 70."

Shather said his store sells

Court reporter lays down the law for dinner

BY RENEE SIEGLUND
SPECIAL WRITER

Bob and Debbie Beebe of Canton measure their commute to work in feet rather than miles. They each have offices in their home. Debbie is a freelance court reporter, and Bob is a veteran sales manager for Alberto-Culver.

"I go the basement at 9 a.m. and come up at 6 p.m.," said Bob, who spends half of his time on the road, servicing accounts in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio.

Debbie goes to her office at 9 a.m. and comes out at around 4 p.m. to start dinner.

"Five. I usually come out at 5 p.m.," Debbie corrects. She acknowledges the advantages of freelancing out of her home. "I can knock off a bit earlier, come in the kitchen and start something, then go back to my office," she said.

However, like her husband, Debbie also spends time "on the road." There are many long afternoons spent in lawyers' offices taking depositions. "It's not a set schedule," she said.

The Beebes are a blended family, with two out of their four adult children living with them. Debbie's daughter, Melissa Lenzer, is a 21-year-old senior at the University of Michigan who recently returned from a year's teaching assignment in France.

Bob's son, Steven, also 21, is a competitive weightlifter and senior at Eastern Michigan University. Although members of the Beebe household go their separate ways during the day, they try to meet up at dinner hour - when

"Sometimes we might not eat until seven o'clock, but I feel it's an important thing for a family to sit down and eat together. We've done that since we got married," said Debbie.

She uses only fresh ingredients, doesn't prepare and freeze any dishes ahead of time, and seldom uses a Crock-Pot. What's her working woman's secret to producing well-balanced weekday dinners?

"There's no way to say how I manage," she said. "I just do it. When I get home from work, I make dinner. When dinner is ready, we eat."

The Beebes have a business agreement when it comes to preparing the main meal: "She cooks, and I clean," said Bob. "Ninety-nine point nine percent of the time, Bob does the clean-up," Debbie confirms.

However, shopping is 100 percent Debbie's responsibility. She limits it to once every two weeks.

"I write a grocery list. I have a menu plan for the following two weeks. I get exactly what I need and hope I don't have to go back in between."

Shrimp, rice, oat crisp help make Super Supper

See related Super Supper story on Taste front.

SHRIMP AU GRATIN

3 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
 1/2 cup chopped onions
 1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
 1 pound uncooked shrimp, peeled and deveined (may use frozen)
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon dry dillweed
 Pinch of pepper
 1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
 1/4 cup shredded cheddar cheese
 1/4 cup shredded Swiss cheese
 Parsley, fresh or dried, to taste

In medium skillet, melt 1/4 tablespoon butter. Add onion and saute. Add mushrooms and shrimp and cook 5 minutes or until opaque. Do not overcook. Remove from heat. Stir in salt, dillweed and pepper. Turn into a buttered 2-quart casserole dish.

In small skillet, melt remaining butter and stir in bread crumbs. Sprinkle bread crumbs, cheeses and parsley evenly over the shrimp mixture. Bake at 400 degrees for 15-20 minutes or until cheese melts. Do not overcook or shrimp will become rubbery. Serves 4.

BEEBIE RICE

1 stick margarine, melted
 1 1/2 cups raw rice
 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) French onion soup (undiluted)
 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) beef broth (undiluted)
 2 small cans (7 ounces) stems and pieces mushrooms, drained

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Melt margarine and pour into a 1 1/2-quart baking dish. Add rice and mix into soups. Add mushrooms and stir. Bake uncovered for one hour mixing occasionally. Cover if rice appears to be getting dry. Segree 4.

Recipes from Debbie Beebie.

MELISSA'S APPLE OAT CRISP

1/4 cup granulated sugar
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/2 teaspoon ginger
 Pinch of salt
 4 pounds tart apples (Granny

Smith, Pippin, or Jonathan), peeled, cored and cut into 8 wedges per apple

2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
 Topping:
 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 1/2 cup rolled oats, uncooked
 1/2 cup chopped pecans

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Combine sugar, cinnamon, ginger and salt in large bowl. Add apples and lemon juice and toss to coat. Spread apple mixture in a shallow 3-quart rectangular baking dish. Sprinkle with topping. Bake 40 minutes or until bubbly. Serve warm, and if you wish, over vanilla ice cream.

To make topping: combine flour and brown sugar in a bowl. Cut in butter with a pastry blender (or two knives) until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats and pecans.

For sweeter-tasting apples, add an extra 1/4 cup of sugar. For a more buttery taste, add an extra tablespoon or two of butter.

about as many Frankenmuth Poultry chickens as regular chickens. He said Frankenmuth's whole fryers sell for $1.69 per pound, the others about $1 per pound.

"You have people who just want to spend $1 a pound. The ones who are health conscious, who are looking at that . . . will buy the Frankenmuth every time. It's the young people who are the health conscious shoppers."

Boose said the company is working on a feed that would produce a chicken with less than three grams of fat per serving. Then, the USDA would allow Frankenmuth Poultry to label its birds "low fat."

The company is also working to distribute its chickens throughout the Midwest and elsewhere in the country.

Schmitt said orders have been rising each week as more supermarkets stock Frankenmuth birds. One thing that hasn't happened: The company hasn't made money. The company hasn't made money.

To do that, Schmitt might have to watch his chickens just a little bit more.

Among the stores that carry Frankenmuth Poultry chickens are Vic's Fruit Market in Southfield, Shopping Center Markets in West Bloomfield and Farmington Hills, Fisher's Market in Birmingham, and Hollywood and Holiday markets in Royal Oak. Frankenmuth Poultry Co. will ship their chickens for any occasion throughout the U.S. via UPS overnight service. For more information, call (810) 685-8572.

for while managing busy work and school schedules is not to accommodate special requests.

"They're not honored," said Debbie, who boasts a repertoire of over a thousand recipes. And, for complaints, while they're allowed, she's only had one over the years — her soybean burgers. "I made them totally from scratch. You know, cook the beans for hours and hours and hours, mash them up. I mean, I spent a whole day with this stuff, and they were gross."

Bob laughs and says, "We had to bribe our kids to eat them. We had to double their allowance." But, according to Bob, bribes seldom are necessary. "All her meals are good. She's really a good cook."

Melissa helps her mother prepare dinner about once a week, but admits her motives aren't altruistic. "I come down to help just so that she'll get it done faster," she said.

■ I made soybean burgers totally from scratch. I spent a whole day with this stuff, and they were gross.'

Debbie Beebie

Melissa reserves her culinary talents for her fiance, Kevin Henderson, 24, a Canton firefighter. "I make desserts for Kevin to take to work. I make cakes and muffins and apple cobbler to go over ice cream."

Debbie will soon be busy with plans for Melissa and Kevin's wedding next October. It will simply be one more thing to manage. In between taking depositions, she'll still do the meal planning, grocery shopping and the cooking. And Bob? He'll be the clean-up.

Grill a chicken or even roast it

See related story on Frankenmuth chicken on Taste.

GRILL ROASTED CHICKEN

- 1 Frankenmuth chicken
- 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
- 2 teaspoons onion powder
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1 teaspoon black pepper

Rinse outside and inside of chicken with fresh water. Put seasonings in the body cavity. Place chicken on rack in open roasting pan. Place on grill. Put 1 inch of water in bottom of the roasting pan. Gas grill should be on low to medium setting. A 4-5 pound bird will take about 2½ to 3 hours to cook.

Your chicken is fully cooked when the leg will easily turn inside the joint. Grasp the bone of the drumstick and turn in a clockwise fashion. If it turns easily (you'll feel it pop out of the joint) the chicken is fully cooked.

Use an aluminum roasting pan with an aluminum cake pan for the rack. Baste occasionally with pan drippings.

To roast in oven, use a covered pan and set oven to 325 degrees. This way will need no basting. Uncover pan for the last ½ hour to brown skin. Try using fresh onions inside of onion powder with this method.

CHICKEN STEW

- 2 cups cooked chicken
- 3 large potatoes, cut up
- 1 celery stalk, chopped
- 2 carrots, chopped
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 can cream of chicken soup
- 1 soup can chicken broth or water
- salt, pepper and celery seed to taste

WOMEN & HEALTH

By Sandra John

FIBER CONTENT
Nearly everyone now knows that dietary fiber yields some significant health benefits, including lower blood cholesterol levels. As a result, many of us are making sure to include more fiber in our diets. Are our efforts falling short? According to a study conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, women who estimate that they are eating just about the right amount of fiber are actually averaging only 13 grams of fiber daily. For men, the figure is 15 grams. These fall short of the 20 to 35 grams of fiber that health authorities recommend that we eat. One way to assure that we meet our daily fiber quota is to eat a cereal high in fiber in the morning, which can provide up to 15 grams of fiber at a single sitting.

Natural fiber can also be found in fresh fruits and vegetables, notably pears, apples and carrots. What a delicious way to eat healthily. When it comes to fresh produce, superior nutritious prepared foods, vitamins, minerals, and supplements, you won't find an assortment any larger or better priced than our stock at the GOOD FOOD CO. Please call us at 981-8100 or just come on in. We are located at 42015 Ford Rd. and we are open Monday through Saturday from 9-6 and Sunday from 10-6. Remember, food can be good for you and also taste great! We will be closed on Thanksgiving, so come on in early for your holiday shopping.

P.S. The average serving of dried beans, peas, or lentils contains five grams of fiber.

Herb mix picks up flavor of chicken

See Chef Larry Janes' column on Taste front.

If you're looking for a healthy recipe the entire family will enjoy?

Here's a basic recipe for a seasoned herb mix that can be made in advance.

Cut up the chicken and dip in any liquid (i.e. milk, wine, juice, etc.)

Roll immediately in this seasoning mix and place on a baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour and then pop under the broiler till golden and crispy. You can prepare the chicken with the skin on or off.

MULTI-PURPOSE HERB POULTRY Mix

- ½ cup non-fat dry milk powder
- 1 tablespoon salt (optional)
- 1 tablespoon sweet Hungarian paprika
- 2 teaspoons dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon dill weed
- 1 teaspoon rubbed sage
- ½ teaspoon fresh ground black pepper
- 2 teaspoons crushed oregano
- 1 teaspoon thyme
- 1 teaspoon onion powder
- 1 teaspoon garlic powder

Combine all ingredients in a covered jar and shake well. Makes about ¼ cup of seasoning, enough for 4-5 pounds of chicken pieces.

There is a magnificent little restaurant that is a Janes Geng favorite haunt called the M&M Cafe in Dearborn on Michigan Avenue at Schaefer just east of Montgomery Ward's. We go wild over their lemon chicken. Although they're not too willing to part with their recipe, I've come close.

LEMON CHICKEN

- 4 chicken breast halves, skinned and boned, slightly flattened
- 1 egg yolk, beaten
- ½ cup all purpose flour seasoned with 1 tablespoon Mrs. Dash seasoning mix
- ½ cup olive oil

- 2 cups sliced mushrooms
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon minced garlic
- ½ cup chicken broth
- ½ cup dry white wine (optional)

Dip the chicken breasts in the egg yolk and then roll in seasoned flour until completely covered. Shake off the excess flour. Heat olive oil in a large skillet and sauté the chicken breasts in the oil for 3-4 minutes. Turn chicken over and add lemon juice and garlic. Continue cooking for 3 minutes. Add mushrooms and broth and wine, if desired. Bring to a boil and immediately reduce the heat to a simmer. Simmer for 3 minutes or until chicken is cooked throughout. Serve over rice or pasta.

SHOPPING PACKAGE
The Hotel Baronette is once again offering a Holiday Shopping Package. Savvy shoppers can max their charge cards at the nearby Twelve Oaks Mall then relax and be pampered at the Hotel Baronette (located in the mall's corner lot) while the staff wraps the day's booty.

Guests begin their day with a Power Shopper's Breakfast, 7:30-9:30 a.m. while studying a map of Twelve Oaks to plan their line of attack. After a day of holiday shopping, the hotel's staff welcomes the weary with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres 5-7 p.m.

Talking Turkey: Marshall Loewenstein predicts that holiday retail sales will be great this season based on the fact that his turkey sales to businesses are at an all-time high.

This may be a record year for turkeys from the boss

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Loewenstein Poultry of Taylor, Mich., expects to deliver more than 300,000 gift turkeys from Thanksgiving to Christmas this year — a record for the 100-year-old family-run firm.

That's about 4-million pounds of white and dark meat, and that ain't chicken feed.

Owner Marshall Loewenstein uses his turkey sales as a barometer for forecasting holiday retail sales. This year, according to Loewenstein, retailers can expect shoppers to gobble up sales.

"The economy is good. People are working," he said.

Eighty-nine percent of Loewenstein's business is in holiday turkeys. Only 10-percent is hams, and 1 percent steak. Surprisingly, only a third of the holiday birds are shipped for Thanksgiving. Two-thirds go out at Christmas.

"All kinds of businesses give employees turkeys for the holidays," Loewenstein pointed out. "Hospitals, car dealers, bowling alleys, factories, none of the auto companies, but many of the unions. It's a nice gesture and product cost is inexpensive."

"If your employer were to give you $20 for the holidays, you'd be insulted. But, if he gave you the centerpiece for your holiday family meal, well, that's pretty darn nice and appreciated."

Loewenstein said gift turkeys are usually 12-13 pounds ranging in price from $15 to $20. They are delivered to the workplace frozen, and boxed under the label "Chef's Pride." The turkeys are grown in Arkansas and Missouri to Loewenstein specifications. Left frozen, they will keep up to two years, according to the firm.

Every Whirlpool employee can expect a bird for their holiday feast. Likewise, Wolverine Worldwide employees will be getting turkeys.

Don Baugher, Whirlpool's manager of corporate group purchasing, said presenting turkeys to employees at the holidays is a longtime tradition at Whirlpool.

"Because a turkey is shared with family members, it's a great way to say thank you to families for sharing their loved ones with Whirlpool all year long," he said.

It's not too late to talk turkey for your business. Inquiries are welcome at 1-800-578-1800.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

Healthy dessert: Chocolate Chiffon uses cocoa instead of chocolate for a lower fat content. It's delicious topped with fruit.

Healthy dessert fights fat craving

All the new reduced fat and fat-free food: salad dressings, cookies, dairy products — have made it easier for many people to cut the fat they eat to less than 30 percent of their daily calories, as health authorities recommend. However, it's important not to forget about eating wholesome foods that are naturally low in fat.

Research shows that people who replace high fat foods with naturally low-fat alternatives — such as lean meats, fruits and vegetables — actually reduce their craving for dietary fat. However, research also shows that processed low- or non-fat versions of fatty foods have pitfalls.

Some studies suggest that foods made with fat substitutes do not help people adjust their taste for fat, so that fatty foods remain tempting. Learning to enjoy naturally low-fat foods may be a better way to maintain a low-fat diet than relying on copies of high-fat foods that don't measure up to the real items (and that may have the same number of calories).

CHOCOLATE CHIFFON

1 ½ cups skim milk
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup fat-free egg substitute
¼ cup unsweetened cocoa
½ cup sugar
1 ½ teaspoons vanilla extract

Pour ¼ cup of the milk into a saucepan or the top of a double boiler. Sprinkle the gelatin over it, and let stand for 2 to 3 minutes. Add the remaining 1 cup of milk and cocoa to the saucepan. Place the mixture over low heat or hot water; stir constantly until the gelatin dissolves and the mixture thickens slightly, about 5 minutes.

Remove the pan from the heat and stir in the sugar and vanilla. Chill, stirring occasionally, for about 1 hour, until the mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat the egg substitute until foamy. Stir into the gelatin mixture, blend thoroughly but gently. Spoon into a 4-cup mold or individual parfait glasses. Chill until firm (at least 1 hour).

Each of the 4 servings contains 1 gram of fat and 205 calories.

Introducing the GOOD NEIGHBOR TEAM

A program to help "Keep The Heat On" this winter for needy people in the western suburbs of Detroit

The Good Neighbor Team is designed to provide furnace service and repair (non-emergency), and in some instances, parts and furnaces, to those who have no financial or other means of keeping their furnaces operating this winter. Up to 500 hours of service will be donated to those in need.

Indications that this program may be able to assist you:

- Marginal furnace operation
- Continuous failing of furnace
- Furnace no longer provides heat
- You have no financial means to repair furnace

Requests for service assistance will be monitored by the Salvation Army. Phone 313-953-2048 to request assistance on an automated answering service. Leave complete information, including name, address, and daytime phone where you can be contacted by the Salvation Army.

This is not an emergency service.

This is not a heating bill payment program.

As a heating safety reminder, always call your gas company immediately if you smell gas.

SPORTS

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1994

PLYMOUTH SPORTS SCENE

Recognized

Rin Bagozzi, a junior forward for Kalamazoo College's women's soccer team, was awarded honorable mention all-Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association for her performance on the Hornets' MIAA championship team. Seven Hornets earned post-season honors as Kalamazoo captured its sixth-straight title.

Raptors roar

The Plymouth Raptors, an under-12 boys soccer team, were champions in their division for the fall season. The Raptors had a 6-0-2 record, blanking opponents seven times. Team members are Brian Balfour, Pat Bechdol, Robbie Camann, Brandon Collop, Joseph Corte, John Hamerink, Will Hundley, Kevin Johnson, Nick Moore, Matt Nolan, Robert Richards, Albert Sibilla, Ryan Sczomak, Dustin South and Brandon Stern. The team is coached by Ron Sczomak, Bob South, Howard Hamerink and Bill Stern.

Cardinal standout

Saginaw Valley State's football team ended its 1994 season against unbeaten Ferris State Saturday, taking a 6-3 record into the game. One reason for the Cardinals' success: junior defensive lineman Steve Balog, from Plymouth Salem.

The 6-foot-3, 245-pound Balog was sixth on the team in total tackles with 8½ entering the Ferris State game. He also led the Cardinals in tackles for loss with 10 and in quarterback sacks with 5½. His sack total ranked him among the MIFC leaders.

Spartan scorer

Leah Hukka, a sophomore forward on Michigan State's women's soccer team from Plymouth Canton, collected one assist in the Spartans' 4-0 Big Ten Tournament win over Northwestern.

Unfortunately, MSU — the tournament's top seed — was eliminated by Minnesota, 1-0 in the semifinals. Hukka finished third on the team in scoring with seven goals and six assists. The Spartans ended up 12-5-2 overall.

Champions!

BILL BREWER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Nothing easy: That seemed to be both teams defensive philosophy in Saturday's state final. But Graham Wilk (white jersey) got clear in the second overtime long enough to head in the game's only goal.

By halftime of Saturday's state championship match, it was anyone's guess which team would win. What did not favor Canton, not against Warren DeLaSalle, a school that had claimed the previous two state titles in OT.

By C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Well? Why not an encore? Almost 80 minutes of near-flawless defensive soccer had passed. Perfectly in time? A symphony of soccer?

Hardly. It was more hard rock than soft strains of a violin.

And when the encore had been performed, the outcome decided in the second overtime, one Plymouth Canton player stood near midfield — stripped of his jersey, hair matted with sweat, skin gashed open — singing.

But it wasn't the blues, which one would have expected when realizing the situation facing the Chiefs. Going into overtime against Warren DeLaSalle in the state final was hardly an optimistic prospect, not considering the Pilots' history — two Class A titles the previous two years, both in OT.

History changed Saturday at Bloomfield Hills Andover when Graham Wilk saw his teammate, Todd Stonestreet, win possession of the ball just outside the DeLaSalle box. Stonestreet carried it to his right, moving slightly upfield as Pilot defenders retreated, looking for Canton players to mark.

Wilk started his run as Stonestreet struck the ball, letting it toward the left side of the net where Wilk met it. His header was perfect — into the left corner, well out of DeLaSalle keeper Tim Lieckelt's reach 40 seconds into the second OT.

Canton 1, DeLaSalle 0.

The Chiefs collected their first-ever state soccer championship.

"This is the greatest feeling I've ever had," the senior midfielder said. But seeing Stonestreet line up that ball, knowing the attention, then watching the ball headed toward him — what was he thinking?

Vikings rule point-poor Salem; Mustangs charge past Canton

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

What a Ken Butler-coached basketball team usually does defensively is play man-to-man.

But Friday night, his Walled Lake Central girls provided a perfect example of when it's the right time to change.

The Vikings proved to be one major-sized obstacle for Plymouth Salem in the Western Lakes Activities Association tournament title game, hosted by Northville. The reigning champions of the WLAA took command early and never relinquished it in subduing Salem 52-37.

The victory sends the Vikings into the state district tournament against Milford (Monday at Central) with an 18-2 record. Salem ends the regular season at 14-6; the Rocks play Livonia Churchill Monday at the Livonia Ladywood district.

The difference in this game was Walled Lake Central's defense. True, Salem came into the final with the defensive reputation, but it was the Viking 'D' that turned the tide.

"We're usually man-to-man, but with our big kids inside we try to funnel everything inside," said Butler. "It's a zone, but it's doubling everything (out front). I mean, those kids really work on top. That 33 (Jeanna Stewart) is a helluva ballplayer."

Salem coach Fred Thomann might say that about most of the Vikings. The Rocks were simply overmatched. They had exactly one lead in the game — 2-1 after the first minute.

Salem simply could not get an easy shot. Any the Rocks attempted in the paint were, more often than not, blocked. At the end of the first period, they were 4-of-16 from the field (Central was 7-of-13) and trailed 16-8.

And it actually got worse.

The Rocks were 3-of-15 in the second quarter to the Vikings' 5-of-8 — which is why the scoreboard favored Central by a 29-15 margin at halftime. For the game, Salem connected on 14-of-62 from the floor (22.5 percent) to Central's 20-of-44 (45 percent).

Case closed. "We can shoot," Salem's Thomann insisted. "We don't always shoot as well as we'd like to. They're just tough to play against. They got the good penetrators and the passers, and their post-up game is really solid. And they're athletic. It makes it tough."

"We've got no inside game. I wasn't pleased with our effort; our effort was excellent. And our concentration was pretty good. But in this game, you've got to make shots. We didn't make shots."

After Central, capitalizing on its more varied offense, opened the second quarter with a 9-2 run, Salem never got closer than 10. Whatever the Rocks altered at halftime made no difference: The Vikings opened the third quarter with a 15-2 barrage that gave them a 42-18 lead.

Not until the final quarter,

Salem's Ammada Abraham (with ball) heads to the home goal. Canton's Jennifer Pfluecker, Abraham's sister, had just just just won.

"I was just thinking what I do in practice, keep it low so its on net," he answered. "If I'd thought about it, I probably would have missed."

He didn't. His goal capped a perfect Class A final, a game either side could have — perhaps should have — won earlier. Canton coach Don Smith beamed afterwards, and not just because of the victory. Pride filled his voice as he recounted how several of his players, exhausted and drained, refused to give in to their fatigue and continued to play, and play hard.

"They'd just suck it up and work a bit harder," Smith said. "I wanted to start subbing but the kids out there all wanted to stay out there. They wanted it. They wanted to go for it, so I let them stay and they did a nice job."

The defense came up tough again, no doubt about it."

Certainly so, with sweeper James Bossieux and defenders Stonestreet, Keith Gniewek and Greg Kilby allowing few scoring chances for DeLaSalle. And those that did get through were swallowed up by keeper George Tomasso, who met every challenge in recording his fifth shutout in seven tournament games.

"I thought both goalies did an outstanding job in showing why they're two of the best, if not the two top goalies, in the state," said DeLaSalle coach Thaier Mukhtar. "They made saves on chances that should have gone in."

"I still do not believe we lost. Even after the ball went in the net, I kept thinking, 'It's not over, is it?' This does not happen to us. We always seem to find a way to win at the end."

The Pilots couldn't this time. Canton's Smith admitted he didn't know much about DeLaSalle, but he did know the Pilot defense was its strength (16 goals allowed in 24 matches) and that most of its offense was provided by 16 goal-scorer Doug Skrzyniarz. No other Pilot had scored more than six.

So Gniewek, who earlier this season marked scoring threats like Livonia Stevenson's Nick Deren, drew this assignment. He handled it well. But DeLaSalle's defense was just as tough on Canton's Chad Dale and Jeff Fliss; in the first half, neither side had a good scoring chance.

The second half was different. DeLaSalle was far more aggressive offensively, which also gave Canton chances on counterattacks. Twice the Chiefs put shots on goal that a defender had to clear. The Pilots also put the ball into danger, with it bouncing free inside Canton's box, but they couldn't capitalize.

"In the second half, DeLaSalle played great," said Wilk. "To be honest, I thought they outplayed us."

But the tide shifted in the overtime. "I thought we got outplayed in the overtime," said Mukhtar. "Not that our kids did not play hard."

Goal realized: Canton's quest, which started in August, was completed Saturday when the state trophy was held aloft. What the Chiefs wanted most, they got.

when the verdict was already in, did the Rocks show some offensive life. It helped that two of their long-range three-pointers dropped through, earning half of their fourth-quarter points.

Still, they were just 3-of-16 from the field.

Becky Cummings was a demon to the Rocks. The all-WLAA performer for Central collected 18 points and 18 rebounds, and she blocked five shots. Jessica Alsup, an all-Lakes Division player, finished with 10, and Jessica Regent scored nine.

No one for Salem reached double figures in scoring. Shelly Sills led with nine points and 11 rebounds; freshman Amanda Abraham totaled six points, four rebounds and six blocks before fouling out midway through the third quarter.

The outcome should add to the Vikings' momentum as they head into the state tournament. For Salem, finding ways to produce points is now a priority.

S Northville 63, Canton 42: If Plymouth Canton could play an entire game the way it played the third quarter Friday against WLAA Tournament host Northville, its record would be even more impressive.

But that's the trouble the Chiefs have had all season, it seems — lapses, particularly on offense. Against the Mustangs, in the WLAA Tournament consolation game, Canton snoozed through the first half, scoring just 13 points.

And Northville took full advantage, rolling to a 27-13 halftime lead, a deficit that seemed too big to overcome for Canton.

In the final analysis, it was — but the Chiefs did make a run at it. They more than doubled their first-half total in the third quarter alone, outpointing the Mustangs 17-10 to halve the lead.

But late in the period, it was detectable: Another scoring lapse was imminent. In a stretch starting with 4:25 remaining in the third quarter and continuing until less than 1½ minutes remained in the game, the Chiefs managed to put just seven points on the board — that's nearly 11 minutes of playing time.

Northville outscored them 17-7 in that span, boosting the lead to 16.

"It's not a matter of shooting well," said Canton coach Bob Blohm. "It's a matter of attacking the zone. The keys against a zone are, you have to get people in the gaps, which frees people up. You get some ball reversal, penetrate and pass, penetrate and score, those kinds of things that we're not getting right now."

"We do it sometimes; we're just not consistent with it. We wait too long to get the ball into the open player's hands. You've got to do some of the obvious things, like just throw it to a player who's open."

Canton, which finishes its regular season at 14-6, got 12 points from Sarah Warnke and 11 from Jackie Nicastri. Northville (13-7) got 21 from Samantha Leger, 11 from Lauren Metaj and 10 from Gina Chiasson. The two teams could meet again; both are in the Livonia Ladywood Class A district.

It's that time of year again.

Yes, it's the holiday shopping season, which also happens to coincide with the state girls basketball tournament.

The frenzy starts tonight, so get out your charge cards and checkbooks.

Some of these girls were born to shop, while others were born to play basketball.

Some have very expensive tastes, nothing but the top of the line, the latest in designer stuff.

But we all know that if you shop long and hard enough, you'll find some bargains out there at Westland, Twelve Oaks or Fairlane malls.

It's time to handicap these designing women as they embark on an exciting three weeks of hoop action. (Overall records are through Friday.)

GUCCI

Redford Bishop Borgess (17-2): The Spartans have beaten just about everybody this season, regardless of class. But demanding coach Dave Mann hasn't been a happy camper of late. However, once his team gets rolling in Class C tournament, it should be two state titles in a row for Borgess and Mann will be all smiles.

NEIL MARCUS

Farmington Hills Mercy (11-8): Conceivably, the Marlins have a clean route to the state quarterfinals. They have beaten Salem and Canton already this year and should have enough to get past Harrison. You've got to like coach Larry Baker at tournament time.

SAXIS FIFTH AVENUE

Plymouth Canton (14-8): The Chiefs have lost two of three to rival Salem, but have some quality wins as well (beating Flint Powers). If frontliners Sarah Warnke, Alicia Crayton and Kristi Fiorenzi can convert inside, it could be trouble for opponents.

Plymouth Salem (14-8): Coach Fred Thomann may be doing it with mirrors while he waits for this young team to mature. Freshman Amanda Abraham is one to watch and junior center Shelly Sills doesn't back down from anybody.

NORDSTROM

Farmington Hills Harrison (16-6): This may be the year the Hawks break through, but then again, past history says Harrison is out early. Mercy is the big stumbling block at the Bloomfield Hills LaSalle district. Can the seniors go out a winner?

DAYTON HUDDSON

Wayne Memorial (8-10): Uncertainty over the eligibility of talented sophomore Yolanda Holt made the season tougher on coach Chuck Henry and his Zbras. Even without Holt, Wayne has possibilities to win the Garden City district. It happened just two years ago.

J.C. PENNEY

Westland John Glenn (7-13): The Rockets have played two close games this season against Franklin and tonight's third encounter may be a charm. Glenn has also beaten North Farmington and Walled Lake Western in the Western Lakes.

Kohl's

Redford Thornton (19-1): The Eagles' reward for a great season is being thrown in the mix at state-ranked Beverly Hills Country Day, King of the prep schools. Even sanctions by the Michigan High School Athletic Association couldn't prevent Country Day from hosting a district.

Just how good is Thornton? It's hard to say because the Eagles mopped up all season on lightweights from the Mega Garden City (14-8): The Cougars have everything going for them as they enter tournament play. They've won nine in a row in the Mega's Red Division. They also host their own district and could make a run to the regional finals. However, they need a healthy Jamie Faber.

JACOBSON'S

Livonia Stevenson (10-10): The Spartans are prohibitive favorites to win the Redford Union district, but Public School League runner-up Detroit Murray-Wright awaits them in the regional semifinals. Wonder how Mo Drabicki is doing these days?

Livonia Franklin (10-10): By far the area's most disappointing team. With four starters back from last year's regional final squad, they managed to win only two Western Lakes games after starting out with a cream puff non-league schedule. This is a dangerous team, however, that could win the Garden City district.

BLOOMINGDALE'S

Livonia Ladywood (7-9): The Blazers have some momentum going into tonight's district opener at home against a tough Northville squad. Ladywood won its first four, then dropped nine straight in the Catholic League's Central Division before winning its last three. This team can win its own district, but the road is tough.

MACY'S

North Farmington (11-8): The Raiders have hit the skid toward the end of the season, but boast a fine trio of players in Alissa Gordon, Carrie May and Liz Webber. North, however, could be a spoiler in the LaSalle district.

DAYTON HUDDSON

Wayne Memorial (8-10): Uncertainty over the eligibility of talented sophomore Yolanda Holt made the season tougher on coach Chuck Henry and his Zbras. Even without Holt, Wayne has possibilities to win the Garden City district. It happened just two years ago.

Adrian Madison.

TARGET

Redford St. Agatha (8-9): The Aggies don't play until Wednesday when they'll meet the winner of the Southfield Franklin Road Christian-Pontiac Notre Dame Prep game. Susan Baxter leads the way for Agatha.

SEARS

Livonia Clarenceville (1-18): Senior center Wendy Roy is closing out her career tonight against St. Alphonsus. It's time to start thinking about volleyball.

SAM'S WAREHOUSE

Westland Heron Valley Lutheran (4-18): Somehow, some way, the coach Tod Bartholomew and the Hawks pulled four victories out of the hat this season. They also drew a first-round bye, but will end up meeting formidable Wyandotte Mount Carmel in Tuesday's district semifinals.

KMART

Plymouth Christian (13-7): The Eagles have a winning record and could become district champions this week. State-ranked Utica, however, is the big obstacle in the regional semifinals at Sometimes you have to see the whole picture to measure a team's or a coach's success.

when you start sorting everything out at the end of the season, you would be hard-pressed to find a bigger success story than North Farmington.

"I was really pleased to see the way we came around at the end of the year," said North's Paul Welch, who is this season's Observerland Coach of the Year. "It's a credit to our kids, really, that we were able to peak at the right time."

North had qualified for the state meet only once in its history and never in Welch's nine previous years. So, after the near-miss at the league meet, few expected the Raiders to break the skid.

Surprise. The Raiders, led by seniors Tom Stamboulian and Brian Rajdi, placed second at their regional meet to win a ticket to the state meet. The Raiders were one of three area teams that competed: Catholic Central, led by the fourth-place finish of Joe Leo, was 12th; Plymouth Canton was 16th; North was 20th.

"This was a pretty competitive year in our area," Welch said. "I think it says a lot for our conference when the team that isn't the best in its division or league can still, on any given day, run well enough to make it to the state meet. There were five or six teams that had that ability."

Most of that talent is showcased here, as we present the 1994 All-Area Boys Cross Country Team:

FIRST TEAM

Joe Lee, Junior, Redford Catholic Central: Easily the top runner in Observerland — and he will be back — Leo placed first at West Bloomfield, Haslett and Sturgis邀请赛; first at the Catholic League meet; and first at the regional.

His season-best time of 15:34 placed him fourth in the state. He has a chance to accomplish a very rare feat: He could be a four-time all-Catholic and all-City runner, as well as a three-time All-Observerland and All-State.

"Joe has a great attitude and was very dependable and hard working," said CC coach Tony Magni. "He has led the team for the last two seasons."

Scott Pengelly, Junior, Plymouth Salem: Even though the Rocks didn't qualify as a team for the state meet, Pengelly almost captured a championship of his own. He fell a mere 11 seconds shy of claiming the spot as the top runner in the state Class A individual race.

Pengelly finished his fantastic season with a second-place finish at the state meet as he crossed the line in a season-best time of 15:58. He can claim to be the top runner in the Western Lakes Activities Association, however, as he won the title in 16:15. He then placed third at regionals with a time of 16:23.

"Scott's hard work and determination pushed him the whole season to peak at the right time," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "He set Salem's school record and we're looking forward to Scott's senior year."

Jared Biniecki, Junior, Plymouth Salem: Biniecki recovered from an early-season injury to finish strong. A healthy Biniecki in 1995 could make the Pengelly-Biniecki combination one of the state's most dangerous one-two punches.

His time of 16:56 was good for 31st place at the Class A individual meet. Prior to that, he took 10th at the WLAA meet (17:1) and placed 12th at regionals (17:19).

"Jared was injured the first month of the season, but his hard work and strong attitude helped him train and prepare for the late-season races," Baker said.

Brad Polkinghorne, Junior, Lutheran Westland: Even though a late-season injury and muddy conditions forced him to finish 13th at the Class C state meet with a time of 18:20, Polkinghorne had a sensational season.

In addition to placing second at regionals (16:58), he was the runner-up in the Metro Conference meet (16:25). Earlier in the season, Polkinghorne won the Huron, Gabriel Richard and Whitmore Lake邀请赛 — the final win in a season-best time of 16:17.

"Brad was unable to train for the last three weeks of the season due to a hip injury," Westland coach John Gerlach said. "The muddy state-meet course — three-quarters of which was ankle deep — aggravated the injury."

Tom Stamboulian, senior, North Farmington: The senior capped his illustrious career by leading the Raiders to a 20th place finish at the state meet. His time of 16:09, which was 21st fastest in the team meet, shattered North's record.

"It's been a pleasure coaching Tom over the past four years," North coach Paul Welch said. "He worked very hard and it was great to see it all pay off in his final cross country meet."

The All-Conference runner crossed the line in 16:41 at the WLAA meet to take fourth place and finished in 17:05 at regionals, as he was named to the All-Region team.

Brian Rajdi, junior, North Farmington: The junior finished the season on a high note as he finished 44th in the team meet with a time of 16:30.

"Brian had a slow start this year, but when it came down to the important races, he always came through for us," Welch said.

Rajdi's 16:37 was good for third place at the conference meet. He then went on to post a 16:52 at regionals.

Matt Sroczynski, senior, Redford Catholic Central: The Shamrocks' 12th-place finish at the state meet wouldn't have been possible without Sroczynski, who finished in 16:54.

"Matt was a pleasant surprise all season," Magni said. "He worked hard to stay consistent. He ran his best races at the end of the season."

His best time of the year came at the Holy Invitational, where he finished 21st in 16:39. He later ran a 16:39 at the Sturgis Invitational to take 10th before finishing fifth at the Catholic League meet (17:15). The All-Catholic and All-City performer finished 11th at regionals (17:18).

Dan Boynton, senior, Redford Union: Boynton ended his career as the top runner in the Mega Conference-White Division, and as the Panthers' most valuable runner.

Prior to finishing fourth at regionals (16:48), he won the Redford Union Invitational, took third at the DeLaSalle Invitational, and placed fifth at the West Bloomfield Invitational.

"Danny was a warrior who will bleed for you day in and day out," RU coach Tobin Jones said. "There is nothing he does slow — it's full-throttle always."

Tom May, senior, Farmington: According to Farmington coach Chip Bridges, the impressive performances turned in by May this season only mark the beginning of his success.

"Tom's best races are still in front of him," Bridges said. "Tom was a fine team leader who related well with everyone on the team. He had his best races at the most important meets."

After taking second at the conference meet (16:32) and eighth at regionals, May posted a 16:21 to place seventh at the Class A individual meet. He excelled off the course as well by accumulating a 3.75 grade-point average.

"Brian worked hard to achieve the level of success he enjoyed this year," Canton coach Mike Spitz said. "He is a smart, tough, competitive runner. He was our sixth man last year and met the challenge to keep improving our team."

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)

You will be wondering which way to turn. One of life's roads may seem rocky at first, but you will soon see you are on the right path.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

You have worked hard on a project, and the results will be much better than you ever imagined. Your efforts will be recognized.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Things are changing, and you may need to make new plans. Give yourself some time to adjust to new situations. The shadow over your life is moving away.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

There will be a great deal of emotional stress at home and work. You will need to slow down and carefully evaluate these difficult situations.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

It is important to stick to your resolutions or risk losing everything you have worked for. Control your temper, especially when dealing with loved ones.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

There could be news about a marriage or some type of new relationship. At times it will be difficult for you to see that things are going your way.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

The right person could help you improve a project and bring you great success. This is a good time to plan a new business venture.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

Times are changing, and you have to come out of the past and live in today. A trip or special event may have to be postponed.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

You are spending too much time waiting for the worst to happen. It is not the end of everything; it is a new beginning for you.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

The phrase "he who hesitates is lost" applies more than ever to you right now. You know what is right. You simply need to gather the courage to do it.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

A quarrel could cause a separation from loved ones. All those concerned will be miserable. Do your best to straighten things out.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

There will be news of a marriage or birth. Creative ideas in the workplace will abound. Be ready to start something new.

Dalton red-faced over Scarlett promotion

By SUZANNE GILL

Few actors would willingly follow Clark Gable in the role of Rhett Butler, and Timothy Dalton turned the part down a couple of times before taking the plunge. The results are on view in Scarlett, an eight-hour miniseries beginning Sunday, Nov. 13, on CBS. Parts 2 through 4 air Tuesday through Thursday, Nov. 15-17.

Though Dalton was well-paid for his work in the sequel to Margaret Mitchell's Gone With the Wind, it was his performance before the press that was really demanding.

Dalton's strategy was to disarm with charm, to confess all and stick a pin in the whole inflated mythology of Scarlett O'Hara and the antebellum South. It proved to be a stunning miscalculation.

The beginning, however, was auspicious. In a small interview session with a dozen or so reporters huddled around the table in a Los Angeles hotel suite last July, Dalton first resigned himself to an imaginary skewering in the press.

"My blood is going to be all over the carpet in November," said the chain-smoking British actor with the Kirk Douglas dimple in his chin, a pouting smile playing about his lips.

So why did he take the role? "You've got to be crazy to do it," he signed. "You've got to be perverse, masochistic, self-destructive, stupid. Call it a challenge. Or say that you'd never be able to live with yourself if you didn't dare take it on."

At least he had done his homework. Dalton read both Gone With the Wind and Scarlett before shooting began.

"I don't think Scarlett's a very good book," he said without real fear of contradiction. But, he added, "Mitchell's book was dense with things I didn't know much about."

In a naive way I kind of stupidly thought that maybe Clark Gable was just being wonderfully Clark Gable (in the 1939 film version of Gone With the Wind), and maybe Margaret Mitchell had written a very different Rhett Butler.

"But she hadn't. So I couldn't play him blonde, and I couldn't play him without a mustache. At the end of the day, I had to go and play Rhett Butler."

"I know there's a comparison, there's no question. But I can't compete, I can just do, and it'll stand or fall."

If this apologia were not enough, there was another angle to play. Gone With the Wind, Dalton said was, at bottom, just a soap opera.

"I never saw this movie before four years ago, and what shocked me about it is, what an extraordinary soap opera the movie was."

Scarlett, he hoped the reporters would agree, was "a really good-looking, glossy soap opera that takes that story on."

With that, the interviewer was over. As a dress rehearsal it was very encouraging.

That evening, Dalton and his costar, Joanne Whalley-Kilmer, faced more than 100 members of the press, along with the miniseries' producer, Robert Halmi.

Dalton's opening words were prophetic. "There are things at work here that we can't even conceive," he said, adding later that he couldn't understand the fascination Scarlett O'Hara holds for women.

Failing to heed his own warnings, Dalton playfully waded into deep water.

"Another thing that honestly struck me is how his man could possibly cope with — not cope, put up with — this b—, you know? I mean, she's a monster!"

"Look at this woman: mean, selfish, ambitious, manipulative. Only a man desperately in love would kind of try and deal with that for seven years."

Worse language followed. Dalton was sitting on a powder keg, lighting matches. "The men in the room know what I mean," he declared.

The gloves were off, and vitriolic questioning followed.

In Britain, cultural icons are made to be mocked. No so in America. Flawed as they are, Scarlett and Rhett remain larger than life in the hearts of millions.

And if one press conference can be said to measure the mood of the country, Scarlett had better be very, very good.

Vitale's Slam, Bam previews NCAA season

BY JEFF PLASS

A fitting prelude to ESPN's 199-game NCAA men's basketball schedule is the Dick Vitale Slam, Bam, Jam College Basketball Preview, airing Tuesday, Nov. 15.

The network's resident hoops guru takes viewers through a half-hour of basketball mania just one day before ESPN launches the 1994-95 season with George Washington University taking on Syracuse in the Preseason National Invitational Tournament.

"What we'll do is basically take a look at the whole nation's preview, review, etc.," Vitale says. "We'll take a look at my top 10 teams. We'll talk about the conferences. I think this year the ACC could be the best conference."

The show also focuses on Vitale's Diaper Dandies, highly touted players coming into the college ranks from high school.

season in the ACC. North Carolina looks like the team to beat on paper but it's a balanced league. Any team could finish first, fourth or fifth."

Another feature in the special is Vitale's preseason All-America team with Damon Stoudamire (Arizona), Randolph Childress (Wake Forest), Rasheed Wallace (North Carolina), Michael Finley (Wisconsin), and Corliss Williamson (Arkansas).

The problem is these teams wind up beating on each other and knocking themselves out. It should be a great

STAR NOTES

Change in type of role proves Dawber's talent

BY AMY HIBBERT

Each role Pam Dawber has played has been sunny, pleasant and kind.

However, NBC's A Child's Cry for Help, premiering Monday, Nov. 14, will change this. Dawber stars as an emotionally unstable mother suspected of causing her child's illness.

"It was a wonderful role for me, because it's going to shake up those Mindy fans," Dawber comments.

The child's doctor (Veronica Hamel) suggests the mother might have Munchausen by proxy syndrome, a disorder in which a seemingly loving parent - usually neglected as a child - causes their own child's illness using a variety of methods and medications.

Family-oriented Dawber believes the film has a good message.

"I think that it just shows us how much attention our children need and love," she comments.

Dawber is happy about the opportunity to portray the mother.

"It was just a really great acting role," Dawber says. "I usually play the good mom that is having something done to her."

Having had the chance to experience many types of show business earlier in her career, her first priority now is her family, although she still enjoys acting.

Dawber looks for well-written roles that she would enjoy. "Otherwise, I'm real happy to go do carpool," she says.

Debrah Farentino stars as a futuristic colonist and mother in Earth 2, Sundays on NBC.

HIGHLIGHTS

Kevin Costner plays New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison in Oliver Stone's riveting 1991 film JFK airing Sunday, Nov. 13, and Wednesday, Nov. 16, on NBC.

An Oscar winner for its cinematography, the movie features a host of well-known actors including Sissy Spacek, Tommy Lee Jones, Joe Pesci, Donald Sutherland, Ed Asner, Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau.

The real Garrison also makes a cameo appearance as Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren.

SOAP WORLD

Buchanan is back as Vicky on AW

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: Can you please tell me why Vicky was off of Another World for so long? - Mrs. Roy Love, Roach Mo

Dear Reader: Jensen Buchanan (Vicky) left AW to have a baby. She had decided at that time not to return to the show and stay home with the child instead.

A search for a new Vicky took place, but Buchanan changed her mind and returned to the role with the stipulation that she would not have to play Vicky's twin sister, Marley.

Buchanan says she decided to come back because her husband was accepted into a master's degree program at a New York university. The couple would have had to go for three years without any income, and it would have been tough on their financial future. She also says she missed working with her friends, and since she can take the baby to work with her, there was no reason not to come back.

Dear Candace: I just love Susan Lucci (Erica, All My Children). I think she is outstanding. If you look at her she is too skinny, short, her nose is long, her eyes too small and her mouth is too large. But when you put it all together it makes a beautiful package. She is a beautiful, talented, charismatic creature. Where, pray tell, can I write this glamorous woman? - Leon Schochit, Farmington Hills, Mich.

Dear Reader: You can write to Lucci C/O All My Children, ABC, 77 W. 66th St., New York, N.Y. 10023.

Dear Candace: Could you please tell me what happened to Harley and Mallet on Guiding Light? - Richard Mount, Berkeley, Mass.

Dear Reader: Harley and Mallet went on a honeymoon and never came back. The actors who played the roles, Beth Elers and Mark Derwin, left to pursue careers on the West Coast in prime-time television and movies.

The couple were dating in New York but say they made individual decisions about moving to California. Neither of them landed a pilot for the fall season but will try again in the spring.
