Observer names general manager

Steven K. Pope, a newspaper veteran of 21 years, has been appointed general manager of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. The appointment was announced Friday by Richard Aginian, president of the Suburban Communications Corp., parent company of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

From 1988-93, Pope served simultaneously as corporate vice president of Media News Group and as vice president of circulation and production of the Houston Post. Media News Group is a Houston-based publisher of 80 daily and weekly newspapers throughout the United States.

He previously held senior-level circulation management positions with daily newspapers in Santa Fe, Long Beach, Tucson, and Denver.

Pope currently is a newspaper consultant who has been serving as associate publisher of Metro Times, a Detroit-based weekly alternative newspaper.

"I'm extremely pleased that Steve will be joining us," said Aginian. "He emerged as our top candidate after a long and intense national search and has an outstanding record in newspaper operations."

When Pope assumes his position on Jan. 3, he will be responsible for the individual Observer and Eccentric publishing groups, as well as the central marketing, business, production, human resources, and computer operations of O&E Newspapers.

Pope succeeds Richard M. Brady, who has served as interim general manager since March. Brady will return to his post as corporate vice president of sales and marketing for Suburban Communications.

"Dick Brady has been wearing two hats for 10 months," said Aginian. "He agreed to serve as interim general manager until we found the right person for the permanent position. But Dick didn't think or act like a substitute. He brought his experience as a newspaperman to bear on the reorganization strategy that the O&E undertook last year."

Aginian credited Brady with building momentum for the strategy to "bring the O&E Newspapers closer to their readers and advertisers." He furthered the goal of distinguishing the Observer Group and the Eccentric Group from each other so that each would meet the needs of its respective market.

Aginian said Pope will continue to implement the community growth strategy developed last year.

Pope and his wife, Carolyn, will relocate to a community within the O&E Newspapers market shortly after Pope assumes his new responsibilities. The Popes have two daughters, Brandie, 13, and Susan, 10.

MEAP scores on rise in schools

Results of a state standardized test are back, and Plymouth-Canton school officials are happy with the numbers. Approximately eight of 10 students did well in math.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton school officials are pleased with scores on the Michigan Educational Assessment Program, a standardized math, reading and science test students took in the fall.

In reading, roughly eight of 10 students scored in the satisfactory or moderate category, said community relations director Dick Egli, who released the scores late Friday. "Overall this year, scores for students continue to improve," he said.

Results indicate that 81 percent of the fourth graders, 83 percent of seventh-graders and 90 percent of 10th-graders scored in the top two-thirds.

The numbers were similar in math. Eighty-eight percent of fourth-graders, 94 percent of seventh-graders and 82 percent of 10th-graders scored in the top two-thirds.

In science, 85 percent of fifth-graders, 77 percent of eighth-graders and 59 percent of 11th-graders passed. Ninety-six percent of 11th-graders qualified for a state-endorsed diploma.

"These results are one tool and only one tool we use to determine an individual student's specific strengths and specific areas of need," said Dr. Thomas Tattan, executive director/instruction. "They are a means to view an individual student's performance on this state-mandated test, and help identify the students' instructional needs so that they can best be met to make future educational progress. Newspaper machine ordinance weighed

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

An ordinance to restrict placement of newspaper vending machines in Plymouth has caught the attention of Detroit's two daily newspapers.

Attorney John Taylor, representing the Detroit Newspaper Agency which owns the Detroit Free Press and News, and a DNA circulation manager appeared before Plymouth city commissioners at their Dec. 5 meeting.

At the meeting, City Manager Steve Walters presented to commissioners a draft ordinance put together by City Attorney Ron Lowe. The draft had also been presented to the DNA.

"Basically, we think it is a good ordinance — we have a couple of areas of concern," Taylor said.

The city administration has prepared an ordinance to regulate newspaper boxes, following complaints from some downtown business owners about the appearance of stands at Main and Penniman.

Some commissioners add they have safety concerns, as some motorists park on one side of Main and dash across to the newspaper racks, dodging traffic.

But some city officials have questioned the amount of time the city administration is spending on newspaper machines, saying there are more important things to tend to.

Further, some have suggested that a spirited challenge to such an ordinance may be mounted by newspaper attorneys — and fighting back wouldn't be worth the cost.

Commissioners John Vos and Bill McAninch expressed surprise at the DNA attorney's general acceptance of the ordinance.

Taylor responded, "We see other ordinances — this is a good one. Some cities that write these ordinances don't recognize that the Su-

Attorney sentenced to nine months, fined

Disbarred Plymouth attorney Thomas Hibler was sentenced to nine months in jail and ordered to pay $110,196 in fines after pleading guilty to embezzlement charges before Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Daphne Means Curtis late last month.

Hibler pleaded guilty Oct. 14 to embezzlement by agent over $100. He was sentenced to five years probation, the first nine months to be served in Wayne County Jail. Hibler also was ordered to pay court costs and restitution to three former clients in the amount of $110,196.

Hibler, who had a general practice on Lilley Road, had his law license suspended from May 1992 to April 1993. He was disbarred on Feb. 18, 1994, for practicing on a suspended license, according to the Detroit-based Attorney Discipline Board.

Hibler was charged with two counts embezzlement of stocks and bonds and one count of alternative larceny by conversion and faced a possible 10-year prison term. He chose not to go to trial, and pleaded guilty to embezzlement.

An Attorney Discipline Board hearing panel said the charges against Hibler were established by default because the lawyer did not answer the Attorney Grievance Commission's formal complaint or appear at a hearing in Detroit.

Hibler was charged with "continuing to practice law and hold himself out as an attorney; knowingly making false representations in an affidavit to the state Supreme Court; and failing to respond to requests for investi-

Luminaria kits

From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, luminaria kits will be available for $8.50 for a set of 10 candles with white bags at Kroger at Sheldon and Ann Arbor roads, Danny's on Main Street and Westchester Mall.

The sale is sponsored by the Trailwood Garden Club and Plymouth Symphony League.

Santa at your house

For $25 payable to the Plymouth Dream Playscape Project, Santa will visit your home Friday evening or Saturday daytime Dec. 17.

Call Doree at 489-4900 to arrange your visit. Proceeds benefit the playscape project, a volunteer effort to build a 14,000-square-foot wooden play structure in Plymouth Township Park next spring.

Help sick kids

Donations are being sought to buy large hand puppets for kids staying at Mott Children's Hospital, through the "Sponsor a Critter for Mott" effort.

The puppets are successful in turning kids' pain and suffering into smiles, said Kathy Mount of Plymouth who is helping to organize the fund-raiser.

Checks to buy hand puppets should be made out to "Sandy Memorial Fund-raiser." Donations are being accepted by Dec. 16.

Other donated items for kids are also sought.

For more information or to donate, call Mount at 459-9780.

Promoting playscape project

The Kroger store at 44505 W. Ann Arbor Road is promoting a "Dreams Can Come True" sponsorship program to benefit the Plymouth Playscape Project.

Patrons can donate $1 at the store check-out counter or the service desk and a decal with their name will be posted in the store.

Playscape project volunteers are also raising money this Christmas through sales of "Plymouthopoly" — a well-crafted Monopoly-like board game featuring Plymouth businesses and groups. The $30 games are available at several locations, including the Little Professor Book Center, Walker-Busenberg Furniture and Sideways.

Temple Baptist

Church suit against township continues

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Both Temple Baptist Church and the Plymouth Township administration say an out-of-court settlement of the church's lawsuit is possible, but they add it's too early to suggest that could happen.

"It's always a possibility, but it's premature to discuss that at this point," said Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy.

"There won't be any settlement without the residents reviewing what might be proposed," she added.

Both sides said last week there are no court dates or mediation sessions scheduled in the lawsuit. The two sides are scheduling deposition sessions with the other.

The church filed suit against the township Sept. 7, after the township planning commission in August rejected the church's plan to build a church that could hold 4,000 parishioners at a 56-acre site at Ridge and North Territorial roads.

Nearby residents packed planning commission meetings where the development was proposed. Most said they were against the plan, saying it would boost traffic — especially when the church presents holiday programs and touring Christian performers — something the Redford church has traditionally presented.

Brad Powell, church pastor, said he welcomed talks between the two sides to resolve the conflict. "There are lots of concessions that could be made on Temple's part that really don't involve downsizing," he said.

He said the church was willing to contribute $90,000 in road paving assessments to a proposed project to pave a portion of Ridge Road. "We're willing to concede to put in some intersection improvements and enhance North Territorial and Ridge," he said, to help ease traffic concerns.

The church had earlier proposed to help pay for road improvements, but several residents rejected the offer, saying it wasn't enough to ease traffic concerns.

Powell said the athletic fields originally proposed as part of the plan could be removed.

"We're not willing to concede on the size of the auditorium, because that's the size of our church. We do have 3,000 active attenders here. We can't tell some of them, 'You can't come,'" Powell said.

"We're still willing to work with the township," he said. "We still love the township and still care about all those things out there, we're excited about becoming more of a part of that community."

portant assessment of student progress, however, is what takes place daily between the teacher and the student in the classroom."

Kathryn Harenda, Plymouth-Canton curriculum coordinator, said the MEAP scores "show a positive trend across the board. We are steadily increasing on the number of objectives that are mastered, and decreasing on children that are not attaining objectives. That's exactly what you want to see in a school district — children mastering more of the objectives."

Complete results will be presented Dec. 19 to the Board of Education.

Tattan cautioned that while scores are higher this year, they may not be next year. The state is implementing new MEAP tests in writing and science, along with new high school proficiency testing.

"Regardless of that fact, this year's results are a tribute to the students, their parents and the dedicated group of teachers and administrators in Plymouth-Canton who work daily to help each student reach full potential in these foundation areas which are so vital to a successful life," he said.

"We'll continue to use these results to confirm individual student performance and to help us to work further with each student and the student's parents. We'll also continue to align our curriculum and instruction to meet the core curriculum expectations of the state of Michigan."

gation" after his suspension, said Robert Donaldson, Wayne County assistant prosecutor assigned to the Special Crimes Division.

Hibler also was accused of failing to file proceedings for clients and keep clients informed, Donaldson said.

Hibler is an accountant as well, but is not allowed to practice, Donaldson said.

"In January 1994, an interim order or revocation was filed by the Attorney Grievance Board. Mr. Hibler didn't answer the allegations, so the allegations were deemed to be true and entered by state Supreme Court," Donaldson said.

The embezzlement charges stem from an incident involving one of Donaldson's clients, a woman with Alzheimer's disease. "Before she was adjudicated as incompetent, she came in to have him handle her financial affairs,"

Donaldson said. "He proceeded to cash in stocks — $60,000 worth — put it in his trading account, and took all the monies out," he said.

Hibler was ordered to repay the client in Wayne County Probate Court, but didn't, said Donaldson.

Health food store owner sentenced to jail time

The owner of a Livonia health food store and his daughter were sentenced Tuesday for selling unapproved items at the store last spring.

U.S. District Judge George LaPlata ordered Harry Zerbo of Livonia to serve three months in jail and pay a $5,000 fine.

Clare Adams was sentenced to 90 days community confinement and a $5,000 fine.

The sentences were part of a Sept. 15 plea agreement with the U.S. Customs Service. Zerbo pleaded guilty to smuggling illegal drugs and Adams entered a guilty plea to a charge of introduction of new or unapproved drugs into commerce.

It was Zerbo's second such conviction.

Customs agents and officials of the federal Food and Drug Administration seized illegal materials in a May 12 raid on Zerbo's Health Foods Supermarket, 34164 Plymouth.

Items pour in for Cheer Club

Our office is busting at the seams with your donations of food and toys to The Plymouth and Canton Observer Christmas Cheer Club.

But, hey, we're not complaining. And if you've been thinking about donating to the Cheer Club but haven't got around to it yet, remember the deadline for accepting your donations is 3 p.m. Thursday.

That's when the Salvation Army comes by with a truck to take your donations to their Plymouth distribution center.

As of 3 p.m. Friday, the list of donors had grown to more than 120. Cheer Club donors in the last few days were Barb, Andy and Emily Swanson of Canton; Madeline Brodie of Plymouth; American Legion Post 112; Matt Hurst of Canton; Brad Kaufman of Canton; Scott Obsniuk of Canton; Kevin Staeb of Canton; Alan Shinn of Canton; Jim Bonneau of Canton; Jason Cowan of Canton; Darrin Burek of Canton; Jay Obsniuk; two anonymous donors; James and Kathleen Chicon of Canton; Jesse Stropkovich of Canton; Cub Scout Pack 858; Jonathan, Stephen and Katie Panoff of Canton; Ida Scott of Canton; and Bill, Deb and Jill Slabey of Canton.

We're taking new unwrapped toys and canned and boxed food, for needy kids and families this Christmas.

At the Salvation Army Plymouth distribution center, needy families from Plymouth and Canton who qualify to receive food and toys, by Salvation Army guidelines, will be invited to take your donated gifts.

In each issue of our newspaper during the Christmas Cheer Club drive, we list names of donors who bring things in, along with a photo or two of folks dropping by our office to donate.

Our office is at 744 Wing just east of Main Street, and office hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

We've recorded as many as 200 donors to the Cheer Club during the Christmas season.

We hope you can join the Cheer Club this year. For more information, call the Plymouth and Canton Observer office at 459-2700.

probate Court says you can distribute newspapers."

Still, he said the Plymouth draft ordinance "is too broad, it leaves too much discretion (to regulate) to the city."

Taylor added that ordinance language referring to modular racks is too restrictive.

"We recognize the city has a legitimate concern about the safety and health. We like to be good neighbors," Taylor said.

He agreed to city commissioners' request to put concerns in writing within 10 days. Taylor suggested getting together with members of the city Downtown Development Authority to try to resolve differences, and commissioners agreed.

By the draft ordinance, newspaper boxes are prohibited within five feet of marked crosswalks, fire hydrants, fire call boxes, driveways and bus stops.

It would also prohibit placing newspaper boxes where they would be deemed to be blocking the view of a store's display window, among other provisions.

Choir's dreaming of a White House Christmas

BY TIM SMITH
STAFF WRITER

Diana Sloan of Farmington Hills is not expecting to meet President Bill Clinton on her trip to the White House, where she'll perform a holiday show on Tuesday with 24 other fourth- and fifth-graders in the Detroit Country Day Junior School choir.

But Sloan has an idea what she'd say to him.

"I'd tell him he's a pretty good president," said Sloan, 9, "and thanks for inviting us."

Matt Bedikian and Adam Zalesnak, also of Farmington Hills, couldn't agree more about the 40-minute concert, scheduled for 2:50 p.m. Tuesday.

"It's very exciting," said Bedikian, 10. "My parents (Edward and Mary Bedikian) are really happy for me."

"My mom wants me to see the Supreme Court because she's a lawyer."

Zalesnak has been looking forward to the trip since he found out he made the audition — though it took awhile to sink in.

"The day after the auditions, they posted the names of people who were going," said Zalesnak, 9, who will be chaperoned by his father, Howard. "I walked into the room and everyone yelled, 'You made it. You made it.'"

"I wasn't sure what I made."

The Country Day singers, led by music director Marilyn Collins and accompanied by pianist Rochelle Barr, will run through a quick-paced selection of Christmas, Hanukkah and even secular songs.

Collins, during a rehearsal break, said the school sent an audition tape in August, but didn't get a response until October. But the people in the White House Social Office (which is overseeing the event) wanted Country Day to sing on Monday, Dec. 12, the night of the school's annual holiday program.

"So I had to turn them down," Collins said, with an almost embarrassed look. "They had to come up with a second date for us. And there's no way we would have pushed for a third."

The music director, meanwhile, said the school obviously stands to benefit from the appearance. She said it's the first time Country Day students will perform at the annual White House holiday concerts, which draw top schools from around the country.

"It will make people aware of the arts program here," Collins said. "We already are well-known in academics and athletics. And, of course, for the children this is a once in a lifetime opportunity."

More than 1,400 pupils, many from Oakland County communities, attend pre-kindergarten through the 12th grade at Country Day, a private school with four campuses (two in Bloomfield Hills, two in Beverly Hills).

Don't expect Clinton

Collins emphasized that the performance will be at a reception for White House military personnel and their families, and not in front of a seated audience.

And will one of those walking through the East Room be President Bill Clinton? "I'm sure they're all hoping he walks in," said a realistic but hopeful Collins.

Definitely not within earshot will be 15 parent chaperones, although they will be waiting outside the White House during the performance.

"They won't be going into the White House because of tight security," Collins said. "But they'll be on the bus outside."

Security precautions are also why the performance won't be videotaped or tape-recorded (only still photography will be allowed) and why only 25 members of Country Day's 71-member choir will be making the two-day trip.

According to Collins, the top 25 students out of 51 (another 20 members declined the auditions) were picked after tryouts.

"The center group is going to sing," Collins said. "And the rest of you are going to freeze and watch like nothing's ever interested you more."

Near the end of a rehearsal, with fatigue creeping in, Collins asked her singers if they needed to practice standards such as "White Christmas." For several of the tunes, pupils waved the teacher on to the next page in her songbook.

"They (rehearsals) have been long and we've been singing a lot," Diana Sloan said. "She (Collins) likes us to bring water bottles."

School sponsors Taste of Michigan

Gaudior Academy in Redford will offer a Taste of Michigan Tuesday night to culminate its year-long celebration of Michigan's International Year of the Family.

The fun will begin at 7 p.m. with a potluck sampler of Michigan foods, followed by original skits and songs created and performed by Gaudior students, based on their studies of Michigan's history and culture.

Gaudior Academy at 25350 Six Mile in Redford is a small, private, teacher-directed school whose students come from all over the metropolitan area for the opportunity to experience a "more joyful" education (gaudior translates to more joyful in Latin).

The school offers a liberal arts curriculum in a family-like educational setting with a strong emphasis on cooperative, experiential learning. Each term the teachers select an all-school theme which they use to integrate the term's curriculum.

The tradition of Gaudior Night helps students to consolidate the term's studies, as they use what they have learned to fuel their creative process and share their creations with family, friends and community.

The term's theme of "Michigan Families," chosen to coincide with Michigan's International Year of the Family, was launched with a two-day visit to the one-room Miller School at Greenfield Village, giving students a sense of what life was like for rural Michigan children at the turn of the century.

Nick Polk of Dearborn was impressed by the old buildings while Bryan Black of Lathrup Village enjoyed the craft centers. Michelle Sanford of Wixom found it "hard to have class with so many kids in one room."

In October, Gaudior students visited the Cultural Center, stopping at the Detroit Historical Museum to tour the streets of the old city and at the Institute of Arts to view the Diego Rivera mural and see the artist's interpretation of industrial Detroit.

DOROTHY JANE WOJCIK

Services for Dorothy Jane Wojcik, 71, of Garden City were held Saturday, Dec. 10, at St. John Neumann Church in Canton. Burial was in St. Hedwig Cemetery in Dearborn Heights.

She was born March 7, 1923, in Dover, Ohio, and died Wednesday, Dec. 7, at Hope Nursing Home. She was an assembly line worker.

She is survived by her sons, Larry, Robert and Richard; daughter, Lorraine Diehl; nine grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; one great-great-grandchild. She is preceded in death by her husband, Walter.

GEORGE ANDROFF, SR.

Services for George Androff, Sr., 80, of Carp Lake, Mich. were held Friday, Dec. 9, at Vermeulen Trust 100 Funeral Home with the Rev. Pamkov of St. Constantine Greek Orthodox Church in Dearborn officiating. Burial was in Lakeview Cemetery in Mackinaw City.

He came to this community in 1927 from Albania and died Dec. 7 in Garden City Hospital. He was the owner of The Androff Bar at Finkell and Leaber in Detroit and retired in 1969. He worked part time at the American Legion Hall and the Arnold Ferry Line in Mackinaw City. He loved walking in the woods and fishing. He also enjoyed his yard and garden. He was a member of the Senior Citizens Club of Dearborn.

He is survived by daughter Joyce M. McNeil of Mason, Ohio; sons, George C. Jr. of Warren, Alex W. of Plymouth, and Nick R. of Livonia; six grandchildren; two granddaughters.

Memorials may be made to the Michigan Cancer Foundation. Envelopes available at the funeral home.

Local hunter reports success

Jim Foster of Canton had a double header of sorts this fall while deer hunting.

On Oct. 3 he bagged a doe near Cadillac during the bow season. Then on Nov. 23 while rifle hunting in the same area he shot a spike horn. However, it was snowing and he lost the deer in the snow. There was four inches on the ground.

But with the help of his two sons he found the deer the next day, Thanksgiving.

Meanwhile, Ed Krzeminski, 17, Canton, killed a six-point buck on Nov. 18 while hunting near Big Rapids.

The Observer uses stories from successful hunters in its Buck Pole column which regularly runs through the various deer seasons.

To report a success, call us at 459-2700 or fax us the information at 459-4224. Also, we'll take pictures of you with your deer during business hours, Monday through Friday, at our office at 744 Wing St. in Plymouth.

Seven local students qualify for mathematics competition

Seven students from the Plymouth Canton Educational Park (PCEP) have qualified for the second part of the 38th Annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition sponsored by the Michigan Section of the Mathematical Association of America.

The qualifiers from Salem High School are: seniors, Karanbir Gill, Rebecca Uhlmann and Daniel Hodge. Qualifiers from Canton High School are: sophomores, Angkana Roy and Betsy Oatley and seniors Justin Palk and Gregg Wu.

The students qualified for Part II by placing among the top seven percent of nearly 14,000 students who took an examination given at 400 schools across the state of Michigan on Oct. 12.

The qualifiers will compete by taking the second part of the exam on Wednesday, Dec. 7. The 100 students with the highest combined scores will be invited to a banquet in their honor at Grand Valley State University on March 4. Approximately the top 50 students will receive college scholarships ranging in value of $400 to $2,200.

House to vote on assisted suicide

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

The showdown vote on banning assisted suicide will come this week in the state House of Representatives' lame-duck session.

The Senate Wednesday gave the bill 26-9 approval, as expected. Unlike a 1992 version which expired in mid-November, the new measure, Senate Bill 1311, would be a permanent addition to the criminal code.

"We need to protect the vulnerable from unwittingly becoming victims of assisted suicide," said Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, sponsor of the new measure, SB 1311.

Backers of the ban want to keep a live law in front of the state Supreme Court as it argues the constitutionality of making the assisting of a suicide a four-year felony. Their avowed target is Jack Kevorkian, the retired West Bloomfield pathologist who already has assisted 21 terminally ill people in ending their lives.

The Legislature's 1992 ban on

'I am angry especially because this Legislature refuses to give up control over something that is not properly ours. We were elected to serve as senators, not to serve as God. Let the public make their own decisions.'

Lana Pollack
State senator

assisted suicide was struck down in lower courts for being unconstitutionally adopted.

The Senate shot down amendments by Sen. Jim Berryman, D-Adrian, to regulate assisted suicide. It also rejected an effort by Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, to place the question before voters.

Here is how area senators voted on passage of SB 1311:

YES — Robert Geake, R-Northville, George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn.

NO — William Faust, D-Westland.

Jack Faxon: "In the last 20 or 30 years, modern medicine has prolonged life. We heard before that there was some God-like vision that came down and said, 'Thou shalt have a respirator.' And there was another vision that came down and said, 'Thou shalt have dialysis.' . . . Whose life is it anyway? Everywhere I go, people think they own their own bodies — in spite of what the Michigan Senate has said."

Pollack: "I am angry especially because this Legislature refuses to give up control over something that is not properly ours. We were elected to serve as senators, not to serve as God . . . Let the public make their own decisions . . . When my colleagues say that people are only depressed, I say that perhaps if you had no arms, no legs, no sight and the only way to control pain was to dope you into semi-consciousness, you might have a depression that was reality-based."

Dillingham: "Emotions will drive you in one way on this issue, but I do know we need to protect the the vulnerable from being abused and unwittingly becoming victims of assisted suicide. And you simply cannot legislate that protection without banning the practice entirely." He said Michigan had passed landmark laws on pain management.

On the Berryman amendment, Dillingham quoted the New England Journal of Medicine as saying Oregon faces problems with its law allowing assisted suicide: "This may not satisfy the federal regulations governing prescription drugs. The types of drugs that would be prescribed for this lethal purpose are likely to be those that are regulated under the federal Controlled Substances Act."

Lawmaker office funds voted out of existence

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Michigan legislators will end their practice of maintaining "officeholder expense funds" in a year.

The Legislature also passed a "Doug Cruce law," prohibiting lawmakers who resign in mid-term to become lobbyists during their term of office. It was so dubbed because Cruce, R-Troy, left the Senate in spring of 1991 to take a higher-paid job as president of the Michigan Insurance Federation.

"None of the freshmen had OEFs," said Rep. Dan Gustafson, R-Williamston, the freshman who sponsored House Bill 4837 to stop them. "Other lawmakers spent down or closed their OEFs."

Under the bill, which passed the Senate overwhelmingly and is on its way to Gov. John Engler's desk, lawmakers may spend whatever is left, give it to a non-profit group, transfer it to a campaign committee (if the OEF contained no corporate money) or use it to retire a debt.

The House concurred 98-0 in Senate amendments. All area lawmakers voted yes except the absent Justine Barns, D-Westland, Penny Crissman, R-Rochester, and Richard Young, D-Dearborn Heights.

Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus, R-Alto, praised the "bi-partisan, bicameral, four-bill legislative ethics package that makes the most comprehensive changes to current lobby and campaign finance law in several years."

Besides the Gustafson OEF bill, the package contains:

■ SB 1319 which lowers to $501 the threshold at which lobbyists must report spending on trips and gifts to legislators (effective Jan. 1, 1995).

■ HB 4371 which bans all cash honoraria for legislators. It is punishable by a fine of up to $1,000 or 90 days in jail (effective Jan. 1, 1995).

■ HB 4326, which bans resigning lawmakers from becoming lobbyists or lobbying agents during the term of which to which they were elected (effective Jan. 1, 1995).

Kids may now write to 'Santa' on the Internet

EMORY DANIELS

Santa Claus now has an e-mail address. So children of the '90s who don't want to telephone Santa or drop send him a letter through snail-mail, can access Kris Kringle via the Internet.

door path, of sorts.

Just like there are several telephone numbers the little ones can use to call Santa, and just like Santa chooses to visit several shopping malls instead of just one, Santa also has chosen to establish residences at several hosts on the Internet. Surely by now kids are used to this multiplicity of Santa and can handle the diversity.

To visit the Northpole via O&E On-line, users will want to use Lynx which is the tool our system uses to access WWW. To do this, from the main menu type P for Program, I for Internet, and then L for Lynx. For each visit, we will want to choose our own Home Page and will select Option 2 to do that. At the prompt we will type the Universal Resource Locator (URL) designation of http: which stands for hypertext protocol. If I get into that now there won't be a column for next week, so we won't worry about hypertext.

Santa can be visited at the North Pole using a route provided by CityLink. To do that, at the Lynx prompt accessed above, type: <http://www.neosoft.com/citylink/xmas/default.html>. Upon arrival, you will be offered a "Letter from Santa" which you can customize for you child. Download it, load it into your word processor, substitute your child's name for (Child's Name), and print it out. At CityLink's North Pole you also will find Santa's Christmas Favorites, a gift catalog full of suggestions for mom, dad, sister, etc. Pick out a scarf or clock and pay by credit card. I believe it's this site that also includes a collection of Christmas recipes including one for gingerbread cookies.

Santa also can be reached by: <http://www.northpole.net>. Upon arrival is a message from Santa, the Elves, and Rudolph. And for only $5 you can order an "I e-mailed Santa" button to wear to school and impress other kids.

Contact also can be made with Santa by typing <http://north.pole.org>. One of the early options available is the "Cyberspace Christmas Campaign." Select this option and find lists of worthy causes that need donations during Christmas time. I have been told that there are corporate sponsors who will donate a dime for every time a user visits a Homepage of one of these charities.

At this site, you can look up some recipes from Rudolph. "A tasty concoction of the best from the frozen tundra. Rudolph says the green slimy moss works the best. He mixes in the exotic taste of ginger and penguin feathers to create a true taste treat." Another selection is "Digital Christmas Tree." Choose this option and you will be offered a variety of trees and ornaments to download.

At each site, after going to particular area such as Christmas recipes, use the left-arrow key to return to the previous screen. Typing Q will take you away from the North Pole and back to O&E's Lynx site. Use the down arrow key to move from one highlighted text option to another, and hit RETURN to select that choice. (Oops, now I'm writing next week's column).

If your little one is literate and would like to send Santa a letter via e-mail, here are some addresses that can be used: santa@newslink13.com or santa@northpole.net.

For this information I am indebted to some anonymous friends on the Net - Carolyn Cline, Adam Gaffin, and Elizabeth Roche.

You can direct questions to Emory Daniels by e-mail with emory@oonline.com, at voice mail at 953-2047 then dial 1910, or fax number 591-7279. To sign up for O&E On-Line, dial (313)591-0903, at "log-in" prompt type "new" and at "Key" prompt type GL6NY2.

Charity group seeks donations

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit offers a service to folks who want to donate clothing, food, volunteer work or money to a charitable organization, but don't know where to direct their contribution.

Although the usual focus of UCS's Holiday Connection is matching needy individuals with charitable organizations, UCS spokeswoman Diane VanWeelden said the emphasis this year is on fundraising because many organizations are falling behind in that area.

"This year the donation level has been low," she said.

To arrange a donation, or to seek services, call (313) 226-9888.

Although donations are particularly needed during the holiday season, UCS will direct donations to the appropriate agencies year round.

Organizations affiliated with UCS include:

The American Heart Association of Michigan, the Birmingham Area Seniors Coordinating Council, the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan, the Epilepsy Center of Michigan, Focus:HOPE, the Food Bank of Oakland County, Goodwill Industries of Greater Detroit, Habitat for Humanity, Haven, the Judson Center, the Junior League of Birmingham, Leader Dogs for the Blind, Lighthouse of Oakland County, the Metropolitan Agency for Retarded, the Michigan Anti-Cruelty Society, Mothers Against Drunk Driving, National Kidney Foundation of Michigan and Paws With a Cause.

Engler backs Heintz for party chair

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

The press rumor mill was correct: Susan Heintz is on her way to becoming Michigan Republican chair.

Gov. John Engler confirmed to the GOP State Committee in Grayling that he would support Heintz's bid to the top party job.

"It's a dream come true to me," said Heintz, 46, of Novi, who now heads Engler's Detroit office. She currently is chairing the inaugural committee for her boss' second term.

Did she seek the job, or did he ask her?

"It's something we both felt would be a perfect fit," she replied. "The governor felt I was best for the job."

Heintz is known for governmental rather than party work. She's a former Northville Township trustee, clerk and supervisor; former Wayne County commissioner; former Rouge Watershed Council chair, and former board member of SEMTA, the regional transportation authority.

"I love this work in the Republican Party. It has been real supportive for me. I was a precinct delegate and secretary of the old 2nd Congressional District (in Carl Pursell's days as U.S. representative).

"I have a proven track record within the party. I'm a proven fundraiser. I had two for John Engler in Detroit when he was Senate majority leader. I've worked with candidates.

"I had an excellent reception (in Grayling). I haven't had a single person not say they wouldn't support me."

Even from the Religious Right, which quizzes even secretary of state candidates for their views on abortion?

"I met with many from the Religious Right. They were happy with my views," she said.

The election is up to delegates to the Republican State Convention in Detroit, Feb. 2-3. Engler's decision to back her now — prior to local district conventions — will head off the likelihood of other candidates getting into the race.

If and when elected, Heintz will succeed David Doyle, 36, retiring after two two-year terms. Engler spokesman John Truscott said the governor had discussed his pick with top GOP leaders, and there should be no problem at the state convention.

Doyle said his decision not to seek a third term was difficult. He announced no plans, but there is speculation he may become Engler's chief of staff, replacing Dan Pero, who is leaving to work on the presidential campaign of former Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander.

Truscott said Engler told his staff he has picked a new chief of staff but isn't ready yet to say who it will be.

Heintz said she will be a full-time party chair, like Doyle, working from the party's suite of offices in Lansing Township.

Heintz said she has two goals: ■ Taking over the district of Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, who died suddenly Nov. 28 after winning his 21st House term with nearly 70 percent of the vote. Heintz's prospectus: "We always do well in special elections. We're not going to let anything go." ■ Capturing U.S. Sen. Carl Levin's seat in 1996. Democrat Levin hasn't announced whether he'll seek a fourth term. Some Republican chairs have moved up the political ladder while others have sunk into obscurity.

First woman to lead the GOP was Elly Peterson, of Charlotte, in Gov. George Romney's days in the 1960s. She was drafted for a U.S. Senate campaign and lost.

Peterson was succeeded by William McLaughlin, of Northville, who had been her executive director. McLaughlin led the GOP during Gov. William Milliken's early years and went on to direct the state Commerce Department.

Following McLaughlin was former state Rep. Mel Larsen of northern Oakland County. He ran for secretary of state and was swamped.

When Richard Headlee was nominated for governor in 1982, he turned the party sharply conservative and brought in E. Spencer Abraham as chair. Abraham is Michigan's new U.S. senator.

Doyle had been the GOP's executive director under Abraham and moved up to chair in 1991 following Engler's gubernatorial victory. Under his watch, the GOP re-elected Engler, took over a U.S. Senate seat, won the secretary of state post after 40 years, took control of the state House after 28 years, gained one congressional seat, and dominated state education board elections.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Curl up with the best new cookbooks

It never ceases to amaze me that there are people who have time to write cookbooks. What amazes me even more is that many of these books get published.

Publishers spend megabucks to make sure foodies like me get a copy, and hope for a positive review. Since the first of the year, I have received well over 400 different cookbooks. I can name the best simply by counting the fingers on one hand.

Even if it was the last cookbook on earth, I would see no reason whatsoever to shell out $20 for a 155 page cookbook entitled "In the Kitchen with Bob" who is, as he proclaims, "the host of QVC's enormously popular cooking show."

I watch television and I've never heard of QVC, let alone someone by the name of Bob Bowersox.

Then there are respected cookbook authors like James McNair who also penned a 159 page cookbook that sells for $24.95. His tome, entitled "James McNair Cooks Italian," has a recipe calling for five cups of "fresh young herb leaves or sprigs such as basil, borage, lemon balm, burnet and arugula in addition to one cup of pesticide-free edible flowers such as daylily petals."

I ask you dear readers, where in metro Detroit can you find borage and burnet, or a cup of pesticide free daylily petals? Since McNair's cookbook also includes dramatic photographs of the prepared recipes, I figure there are about 100 recipes in his book, so to see James McNair cook Italian, it's costing you a quarter a recipe.

I've gotten much better recipes, from the buck I send to an anonymous P.O. box in the back of "Bon Appetit" magazine. But enough of the negative, there were a few books that did cross my desk that have earned a respected slot on my shelves.

Homemade treats

If you cook and like to give out homemade delicacies, especially during the holidays, you must pick up "Homemade in the Kitchen" by Barry Bluestein and Kevin Morrissey (Viking Books, $24.95). This turn-of-the-century cookbook for the 1990s is a source book for discovering the kitchen arts of past generations.

With this book you will learn how to bottle Victorian catsups from scratch; how to bottle delectable cordials without a basement distillery, and how to transform a humble bottle of vinegar into a coveted addition to the pantry or gift basket.

When you call or write me with food questions, I have an arsenal of "how to" cookbooks within arm's reach that never go out of style. This year's top informational cookbooks are shared by four writers who leave little to question. Maria Josefa Lloria De O'Higgins', "A Taste of Old Cuba" (Harper/Collins $25) contains more than 150 authentic and traditional Cuban dishes. Filled with stories and interesting anecdotes, this topped my list of the best ethnic books. I love paella and the recipe from the book is nothing short of stellar.

Great reads

Irena Chalmers, culinary humorist and cookbook curmudgeon has a great read with her "Great Food Almanac" (Collins Publishers $25). This is a book for folks who like to read and enjoy a feast of facts from A to Z all with regards to the world of food. Chock full of hot-lines, informational sources, mail order goodies and the type of information one would share on a bar stool, it's just plain fun to read. The recipe for Tapenade (black olive caviar) is to die for.

The folks at Pillsbury have put together a great book entitled "Healthy Baking" (Viking Press $22.95) that includes fresh approaches to more than 200 favorite recipes. In addition to an exorbitant nutritional breakdown of each recipe, I even found a healthy grain bread that you can make in your bread machine, that tastes good to boot!

A little closer to home, the folks at HP Books have discovered the expertise of Toula Patsalis from Kitchen Glamour fame and printed up her Pressure Cooker Cookbook (HP Books $12) If you own a pressure cooker or anticipate a future purchase this is the authoritative source on everything you can make in a pressure cooker. Try the South of the Border Black Bean Soup, a James Gang favorite recipe, which cooks in 45 minutes from start to finish with a pressure cooker.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Taste next week:

- Families share favorite Christmas Eve dishes.
- Champagne - pop a cork, let the celebration begin.

Treat yourself to luxurious

CAVIAR

Though often thought of as an expensive food for the wealthy, this delicacy can be found at more affordable prices. An ounce of caviar is enough to give a good sampling to four people.

BY ELEANOR AND RAY HEALD
SPECIAL WRITERS

If you have the idea that caviar is always an expensive food for the wealthy, associated with status and luxury celebrations or trendy restaurants, read on. Here's everything you need to know about this delicacy that has its special niche in the world of gastronomy. You may find prices more affordable than you thought. An ounce of caviar gives four people a good sampling.

Worldwide, caviar is garnering more advocates. This interest is occurring at a time when the traditional source, the prized eggs of the Caspian Sea sturgeon may be endangered. Only 15 years ago, the Soviet Union was exporting 2,000 tons of fish roe annually. Last year, it dropped to 190 tons of Caspian Sea caviar.

The Soviet Union's collapse gave rise to poachers in the Caspian Sea, home to 90 percent of the world's supply of sturgeon and 95 percent of the world's supply of black caviar. Under governance by the former Soviet Union, strict fishing quotas during sturgeon spawning season were enforced. Netting was forbidden.

Without controls, widespread poaching and netting by newly independent fishermen from Zerbaijan, Kazakhstan and Turkmenistan became commonplace. Sturgeon, which mature between 5 and 20 years old, were caught before they returned to spawning rivers. It was not a good time to be a sturgeon because it seemed that new, weak governments were doing little to stop abuses until rules were again enforced about six months ago.

Poachers lacked skills to process caviar properly. It was imported after poor handling and some was inedible. Immature caviar

HOW TO SERVE CAVIAR

Place caviar in a small glass bowl set inside a larger bowl filled with crushed ice and served from a non-metal spoon. Any metal, including silver, will impart a metallic flavor to the berries.

Serve with a glass of delicate style Brut champagne such as Taittinger Brut La Francaise or a 1.5 oz. pour of ice-chilled premium vodka such as Stolichnaya or Tanqueray Sterling. The best Russian caviar should be eaten without any accompaniment of sour cream, chopped eggs or onions. Dressing up less-prized caviars can enhance enjoyment. The following are only a few suggestions:

- Create shaped toasts and place golden-colored salmon caviar on one half and black caviar on the other.
- Carve out small baby red potatoes with a melon baller. Fill with sour cream and top with caviar.
- Top mini-size potato pancakes with sour cream and caviar.
- Top broiled oysters or clams with caviar before serving.

There's a whole lot of giggling going on in this Livonia kitchen. But don't be fooled. Some serious dinner preparations are in the making: one dozen breaded pork chops, a tossed salad, mashed potatoes (the real ones!), corn and applesauce.

Thirteen-year-old Margaret Day, an honors student, takes charge when mom and dad, Pat and Bob Day, are working. Her two sisters, Kathy, 11 years-old and also an honor roll student and 8-year-old Stephani provide important roles as assistant chefs. The three girls attend St. Michael's School in Livonia.

"I usually brown the pork chops and Kathy and Stephani do the breading," said Margaret.

The three-step assembly line breeding process begins on the kitchen table. Stephani, with streaks of powder-white through her bangs and sticky flour-caked fingers enjoys her "hands-on" assignment. She shakes the plastic bag with the pork chop in it until the flour coating smothers the meat.

"I help because it would take Margaret a really long time. Besides it's fun and (the pork chops) taste good," said Stephani.

Step number two, dipping the floured pork chop into an egg and milk mixture is meticulously done by Kathy. Next the chops are coated with cracker crumbs. Kathy also peels the potatoes.

Margaret adds oil to the frying pan, heats it and browns the chops before baking them in the oven.

Other favorite meals the family prepares?

"I like to make tuna burgers," said Margaret.

Everyone enjoys the combination of tuna, American cheese, boiled eggs, celery, mayonnaise and pickled relish baked on a bun.

Who appreciates the dinner the most?

"Probably mom," says Margaret.

The girls have helped in the kitchen since first or second grade.

flooded the market and was being sold as premium caviar last year and earlier this year is not likely this holiday season. "This is especially true if you purchase from a reputable merchant," Farmington Hills caviar broker Larry Nagle said. His Russian Caviar Company, which began in 1991 with local distribution of about 300 cans, has now gone national distributing fresh and pasteurized Russian caviar through beverage distributors. Sales are up 30 percent over last year.

Russian Caviar Co.'s caviars can be purchased at Cloverleaf Market in Southfield and Shopping Center Market in West Bloomfield. Cloverleaf sells the Beluga at $38 an ounce and Osetra at $26 an ounce. Pasteurized is $31 for 3.25oz. "We guarantee satisfaction with these caviars," Cloverleaf's Paul Lutfy said.

These remarks were echoed by caviar fanatic and industry watchdog Bruce Sobol, co-owner with his brother Eric of Manhattan's Caviarteria. "Dozens of little companies pop up each year and then disappear," he said. "Caviarteria has been around since the 1940s when my father founded the company. Our image depends on the highest quality and service."

When Sobol learns about a new company, his vigilante instincts are aroused and he has an employee purchase some of the caviar so he can taste it. "The sale of inferior caviar hurts all premium caviar sales," he said.

Caviarteria is America's largest caviar-selling operation with a booming mail-order business. "There were some problems after the Soviet Union breakup," Sobol said. "During the last year, much of what papers and magazines reported about pollution was a scare tactic. With fishing laws enforced again, we now have more opportunities to choose the best caviar. We can ask processors to do things our way. We shop around and sometimes get lower prices than before the breakup of the Soviet Union."

For nearly 70 years, the Petrossian family has been selecting caviar directly from the fisheries on the Caspian Sea. Petrossian is the largest buyer and importer of Russian caviar to France, the United States and Canada. Locally, Merchant of Vino is the exclusive broker.

The Merchant's John Jonna quoted the following prices per ounce for Petrossian: $65 for Beluga, $38 for Osetra and $28 for Sevruza sold only at the Birmingham and Southfield locations. American sturgeon caviar from an east coast supplier is also available for $12 to $35 an ounce and East Russian caviar for $20 to $49 an ounce.

Understanding Russian caviar

Basically, there are three species of prized sturgeon in the Caspian Sea. Because you like caviar from one, does not mean that you will like all of them.

Beluga is the most touted and therefore the most expensive. It is harvested from sturgeon averaging 800 to 900 pounds. These are the largest eggs with the most delicate flavors.

Osetra is characterized by gray-brown eggs with a golden tinge and a strong, almost nutty flavor. It comes from 250 to 600 pound sturgeons.

Sevruza with the smallest eggs is the least expensive. Gray to black in color with a strong flavor, it comes from sturgeon that mature in five years.

The important term uniting all top quality caviar is the word Malossol. This is the light treatment with salt allowing caviar flavors to perk the palate while retaining freshness for up to three months. "All fresh caviars are Malossol," Sobol said. He also suggested the best tasting order for the uninitiated is Beluga, Sevruza, then Osetra.

American Caviar

There's no bigger proponent of American caviar than Carolyn Collins of Chicago-based Carolyn Collins Caviar Co. Her company, founded in 1983, has attracted the attention of such clients as the Ritz-Carlton where we caught up with her. Mail orders for her caviars are brisk.

Collins, a sports fishing enthusiast, created an original technique to make her salmon and trout roes and has scoured the Great Lakes to find whitefish and sturgeon suppliers. She has gone beyond traditional caviar and designed flavored ones which she calls "expanded concepts." In this vein, she's created Caviar Pepper and Citron, infused with Absolut Pepper and Citron. There's also Ginger, Midori, Grand Passion (all $3.30 an ounce) and Wasabi Tobikko ($4.50 an ounce). Kosher caviars are also available.

When we conducted a small caviar tasting, including those produced by Carolyn Collins, people who were not caviar connoisseurs preferred the infused. Caviar affi-cionados liked the Collins fresh water salmon ($5.10 an ounce), farm raised trout ($5.10 an ounce) and American hackleback sturgeon ($9.35 an ounce).

Serving caviar

Place caviar in a small glass bowl set inside a larger bowl filled with crushed ice and serve from a non-metal spoon. Any metal, including silver, will impart a metallic flavor to the berries.

Serve with a glass of delicate style Brut champagne such as Taittinger Brut La Francaise or a 1.5 oz. pour of ice-chilled premium vodka such as Stolichnaya or Tanqueray Sterling.

The best Russian caviar should be eaten without any accompaniment of sour cream, chopped eggs or onions. Dressing up less-priced caviars can enhance enjoyment. The following are only a few suggestions:

- Create shaped toasts and place golden-colored salmon caviar on one half and black caviar on the other.
- Carve out small baby red potatoes with a melon baller. Fill with sour cream and top with caviar.
- Top mini-size potato pancakes with sour cream and caviar.
- Top broiled oysters or clams with caviar before serving.

Mail ordering caviar

The following sources guarantee blue-ice 24-hour Federal Express delivery. Prices quoted in company catalogs can change with the market.

HOMEMADE COFFEE LIQUEUR

- 2 cups strong ground fresh coffee beans (French roast)
- 3 cups boiling water
- 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 teaspoon glycerin
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 3 cups vodka

Put the coffee grounds and the boiling water into a bowl and mix thoroughly. Line a fine mesh sieve with a coffee filter and strain immediately into a four cup glass measuring cup. Combine the coffee liquid and the sugars in a medium saucepan.

Heat for 5 minutes over low heat, stirring constantly, just until the mixture begins to steam. (Do not boil). Remove the pan from the heat and allow to cool. Stir in the glycerin, vanilla and vodka. Using a funnel, divide the liqueur between two 20 ounce decanters. The coffee liqueur should be ready to drink in 3-4 days and has a shelf life of 2-3 months.

Yield: 5 cups. Recipe from "Homemade In The Kitchen" by Barry Bluestein and Kevin Morrissey, (Viking Studio Books). Glycerin is available at drug stores and gourmet shops.

TAPENADE

- 1 cup Greek Kalamata Olives, pitted,
- 2 (2-ounce cans anchovy fillets, with their oil)
- 3 1/2-ounce can tuna, drained
- 1/2 cup capers, drained
- 1 teaspoon mustard
- 1 cup light olive oil
- Juice of 1/2 lemon
- 2 tablespoons brandy (optional)

Combine olives, anchovies, tuna, capers and mustard in a food processor and process until a puree is formed. With the motor running, add the oil slowly, then add the lemon juice and the brandy. Spoon into a container. Cover and chill for at least 4 hours. Makes 1/2 cup.

Chef's Note: When I made this, I omitted the anchovy and tuna and it was magnificent!

Recipe from "The Great Food Almanac" by Irena Chalmers, (Collins Publishers).

GUACAMOLE CUBANO

- 1 large ripe pineapple
- 4 small avocados
- 1/4 cup Spanish olive oil 1/4 cup fresh squeezed lime juice
- Dash salt
- 1/4 cup red onion, chopped fine

Slice the pineapple lengthwise in quarters. Peel and remove the core. Cut meat into small cubes and place in a salad bowl. Cut the avocados in half and remove the pits. Carefully remove the skin and cut the avocados into bite sized pieces. Add to pineapple. Whisk together the oil, lime juice and salt and pour it over the fruit. Add the onion and toss gently, being careful not to mash the avocado. Serves 4-6.

either setting the table, peeling potatoes or making the salad. It's really nice to come home and the dinner is all prepared and ready to eat," said Pat.

Pat adds that her son Brian "loves to cook" but the 10th grade wrestler, an honor-roll student at Catholic Central High School keeps busy at school.

Kitchen duties are a family affair in the Day household. On a recent Saturday afternoon homemade cranberry sauce gently bubbled in a pot as dad supervised. The family is divided on this one — some like it a lot and the rest of the crew won't touch it.

Introducing the

GOOD NEIGHBOR TEAM

A program to help "Keep The Heat On" this winter for needy people in the western suburbs of Detroit

The Good Neighbor Team is designed to provide furnace service and repair (non-emergency), and in some instances, parts and furnaces, to those who have no financial or other means of keeping their furnaces operating this winter. Up to 500 hours of service will be donated to those in need.

Indications that this program may be able to assist you:

- Marginal furnace operation
- Continuous falling of furnace
- Furnace no longer provides heat
- You have no financial means to repair furnace

Requests for service assistance will be monitored by the Salvation Army. Phone 313-963-2048 to request assistance on an automated answering service. Leave complete information, including name, address, and daytime phone where you can be contacted by the Salvation Army.

*This is not an emergency service.
This is not a heating bill payment program.
As a heating safety reminder, always call your gas company immediately if you smell gas.*

Day family shares pork chop recipe

BREADED PORK CHOPS

12 boneless pork chops
1 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoons seasoning salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 eggs
1 tablespoon milk
2 cups cracker crumbs
Vegetable oil

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine flour, salt and pepper in a plastic bag large enough to hold one pork chop for shaking. Set aside. Beat eggs and milk together. Set aside.

Dip dry pork chop into bag with the flour mixture. Shake until chop is completely covered with flour. Take chop out of bag and gently shake off excess flour.

Dip chop into egg mixture then into cracker crumbs.

In large skillet, brown pork chops in just enough oil to cover bottom of pan. Remove from pan. Place chops on a rack in a casserole dish or on sliced onions or celery to prevent sticking. Cover with foil. Bake one hour. Serves 6.

Make this year's holidays healthy

The holiday season is the season of plenty — plenty of good cheer, plenty of celebration, plenty of family visits, plenty of gifts, plenty of food. What would make the season even better would be plenty of good nutrition.

Holiday foods have not traditionally been known for their wholesome quality. They include many treats — cookies, cakes, eggnog and others — that are high in fat and sugar and low in vitamins, minerals and dietary fiber. Rich sauces, gravies and frostings also add lots of fat but few nutrients.

It is possible, however, to make some easy changes to traditional holiday foods that can make them festive, delicious and more healthful.

When you begin your holiday baking, consider using whole grains in cookies, cakes and other sweet treats. This will go a long way toward increasing their dietary fiber content, as well as their vitamins and minerals. Use only three-quarters as much fat (butter, shortening, margarine, etc.) as usual and try adding one or two of your favorite dried fruits for flavor.

Fruits and vegetables are essential sources of sound nutrition, and no holiday meal or buffet is complete without them. Cranberry sweet potatoes, baked apples with raisins or a fresh fruit ambrosia add colors, textures and tastes that are right in keeping with the season. Vegetable hors d'oeuvres, such as stuffed mushrooms, marinated artichoke hearts and roasted peppers, can be elegant party treats.

Holiday dinners can feature nutritious foods for every course. Start with an apple-walnut-celery-raisin Waldorf salad dressed with plain low-fat yogurt, served on a bed of watercress and garnished with orange slices. Follow it with a vegetable-barley soup or acorn squash soup. With your roast turkey, serve stuffing made with whole grain bread or brown rice and finish the meal with low-fat frozen vanilla yogurt topped with hot cranberry-cinnamon sauce.

When making your holiday breads, try this delicious Maple Pumpkin Bread recipe. In addition to the goodness of beta-carotene-rich pumpkin, the low-fat yogurt or skim milk and the limited amount of oil keeps fat to a minimum. Whole wheat flour and wheat bran in this recipe add a healthy amount of fiber.

MAPLE-PUMPKIN BREAD

1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup wheat bran
2 eggs
1 cup plain low-fat yogurt (or skim milk)

1/2 cup maple syrup
2 tablespoons oil
1 cup mashed cooked pumpkin (or canned)

Sift the flour, baking powder and cinnamon into a large bowl. Stir in the bran (and any bran remaining in the sifter). In a medium bowl, mix the remaining ingredients, then quickly stir them into the dry ingredients just until blended.

Spoon the batter into a lightly oiled 5 by 9-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees until a knife inserted into the middle comes out clean, about 50-60 minutes.

Each of the 12 slices contains 4 grams of fat and 157 calories.

You can bake a magical pumpkin

AP — Just like Cinderella's fairy godmother, you can magically turn pumpkin into something fantastic — a nutritious and scrumptious brownie. Pumpkin moistens and tenderizes these blond brownies, reducing the need for fat. Egg whites also pinch-hit for a whole egg, while cocoa stands in for melted chocolate. When you've got the bars baked and cut, wave your knife and watch. Your brownies will disappear like magic, too.

CHOCOLATE PUMPKIN BROWNIES

3/4 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 cup canned pumpkin
1 whole egg
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon unsweetened cocoa powder

1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 cup miniature semisweet chocolate pieces

Nonstick spray coating

In a large mixing bowl combine brown sugar, pumpkin, egg, egg whites and oil. Beat with an electric mixer on medium speed until blended. Add flour, baking powder, cocoa powder, cinnamon, allspice, salt and nutmeg. Beat on low speed until smooth. Stir in chocolate pieces.

Spray an 11- by 7- by 1 1/4-inch baking pan with nonstick coating. Pour batter into pan; spread evenly. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until a toothpick inserted near the center comes out clean. Cool in the pan on a wire rack. Cut into 2-inch squares. Makes 15 squares.

New cookbook features quick baked desserts

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Who has time to bake desserts? You can, if you plan ahead, said Elinor Klivans, author of "Bake and Freeze Desserts: 130 Do-Ahead Cakes, Pies, Cookies, Brownies, Bars, Ice Creams, Terrines, and Sorbets" (William Morrow & Co.; Oct. 20, 1994, $25).

This newly published cookbook fits the needs of today's busy cooks. Klivans shows you how to make luscious desserts weeks in advance.

As a busy mother, cooking teacher, and restaurant pastry chef, Klivans has transformed her kitchen into the hardest working pastry assistant imaginable. She is the only pastry chef at a restaurant in Maine, where she is well known for her great desserts.

"It dawned on me that if I were ever to have time off, I needed to prepare a variety of desserts, not just a few basic mixtures, freeze them ahead of time, and have them ready and waiting to serve," said Klivans.

The results: A freezer stocked with everything from separate pastry components to be assembled later, to entire, show-stopping desserts. Klivans shares her recipes and tips in her cookbook.

Especially helpful are her tips for labeling desserts, defrosting them, and storing them. There's a chart that tells you how long nuts and desserts — baked and unbaked — can be kept in the freezer.

Here are a few of her tips for freezing desserts.

- Cool desserts before freezing them.
 - Keep freezer temperature as close to 0 degrees F. as possible.
 - Label desserts with date and contents.
 - Store desserts inside the freezer, not on door shelves.
- This was one of my favorite recipes from the book.

CRANBERRY-PEAR CRUNCH

- Cranberry-Pear filling
- 5 cups peeled and cored pears (about 6 medium pears)
- ¾ cup plus 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon unsalted butter, melted
- 2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
- ½ cup cranberries fresh or frozen
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Almond Crumb Topping
- 1 cup unbleached all-purpose flour

Make ahead desserts: Cookbook author Elinor Klivans shows you how to bake desserts in advance to enjoy later in her new book.

- 1 cup (packed) light brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 6 ounces (1 ½ sticks) cold unsalted butter, cut into 12 pieces
- 1 cup sliced or slivered blanched almonds, toasted and cooled
- Vanilla ice cream for serving with the crunch

To prepare the filling, Cut peeled pears into chunks about 1-inch in size. Put the pears into a 2½-quart baking container. Use a 10-inch layer pan with 2-inch high sides or a shallow baking dish that is safe to transfer from freezer to oven.

Mix in ¾ cup of the sugar, the melted butter and lemon juice. Taste the filling and add up to 1 tablespoon more sugar. Mix in the cranberries and cinnamon and stir the mixture to coat the pears evenly with cinnamon. Wipe the edges of the baking dish clean.

Mix the topping. Put the flour, brown sugar, and cinnamon in a large bowl and stir together. Add the butter pieces and with an electric mixer, pastry blender or your fingertips mix together just until coarse crumbs form, about ¼ to ½-inch in size. Use a spoon to stir in the cooled, toasted almonds. Sprinkle the crumbs over the pear mixture.

To freeze: Wrap the crunch tightly with plastic wrap then heavy aluminum foil, gently pressing the foil against the crunch. Freeze up to one month.

To bake and serve: Uncover the frozen crunch. Position a rack in the middle of the oven. Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. Bake the frozen crunch 50 to 55 minutes, until the filling just begins to bubble and the crumb topping is a golden color.

Or defrost the crunch in the refrigerator and bake, uncovered, at 325 degrees F. for 40 to 45 minutes. Let the crunch cool about 15 minutes before serving.

Spoon the warm crunch onto individual plates and serve with a scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Cook up holiday traditions

Whether it's going sledding with friends after a fresh snowfall, baking holiday cookies with kids or sending greeting cards to loved ones, winter is a time for traditions.

According to cookbook author Melanie Barnard, the holiday season is also the perfect time to create new opportunities to celebrate with family and friends.

Here are some creative winter occasions worth celebrating.

- For a delicious, easy-to-make snack, spread pesto sauce on Italian bread and top with two tomato slices and two slices of sharp cheddar cheese. Broil 2 to 3 minutes until cheese melts and serve warm.

■ End the night relaxing in front of the fire with a hot cup of apple cider or hot chocolate and few of your favorite holiday cookies.

■ Invite loved ones over on New Year's Day to reminisce about the old and welcome in the new. Ask each person to bring a favorite photo or memory of the previous year. Spend time sharing stories and remembering all the events and occasions that made this past year special.

■ Serve a variety of "new" dishes and ask everyone to bring one of their childhood favorites such as Mom's tuna casserole, meat loaf, peanut butter and jelly sandwiches without the crusts or homemade macaroni and cheese. Share and exchange old recipes and create new favorites.

In a large mixing bowl combine brown sugar, pumpkin, egg, egg whites and oil. Beat with an electric mixer on medium speed until blended. Add flour, baking powder, cocoa powder, cinnamon, allspice, salt and nutmeg. Beat on low speed until smooth. Stir in chocolate pieces.

Spray an 11- by 7- by 1½-inch baking pan with nonstick coating. Pour batter into pan; spread evenly. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until a toothpick inserted near the center comes out clean. Cool in the pan on a wire rack. Cut into 2-inch squares. Makes 15 squares.

Breakfasts

Try these to liven it up

Are you looking for breakfast ideas that are satisfying and low in calories? Here are some ideas from Quaker Oats.

■ Top cereals with fruit and a dash of cinnamon. Use skim milk instead of whole milk.

■ Sip on a smoothie. Blend low-fat yogurt, berries and fruit juice in a blender or food processor until smooth.

■ Instead of pastry and doughnuts, opt for a whole wheat bagel or fat-free muffin.

■ Spread toast with fruit spread instead of margarine and save 5 grams of fat (about 45 fat calories) for each teaspoon you use.

Marketing Director
Jennifer McMillan of Troy has joined Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield as Marketing Director. Previously, McMillan was an account executive for Sarah Wolk Associates of Birmingham. She is a 1989 graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in advertising. Tel-Twelve is at the corner of Telegraph and 12 Mile Roads. It is owned and managed by Ramco-Gershenson Inc. of Southfield.

Chiropractor Cares
Correct Care Chiropractic, 26146 W. Six Mile, Redford, hosts a canned food drive for area needy through Dec. 24. Clients bringing in three or more items for the poor receive a gift certificate for $5 off their next office visit. For more information call (313) 537-8100.

Classic plastic
The Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Michigan now sells Coca-Cola classic, Diet Coke, caffeine free Coke, and cherry Coke in a 20-ounce plastic bottle designed in the shape of the old trademark glass bottle. Called "the 20-ounce Contour Bottle," a company spokesman said the debut of the plastic "bottle" was test marketed to rave reviews and sales.
The genuine Coca-Cola bottle is world renown. In a BBC-TV documentary devoted to it, London-based design expert Stephen Bayley described the bottle as "the most familiar design in the history of consumer goods." In May 1960, Coca-Cola in the contour bottle became the first product to be featured on the cover of Time magazine. The bottle's birthplace was Terre Haute, Ind., site of the Root Glass Co. The town recently dedicated a historical marker memorializing the origin of this famous package.

Luggage Corp. grows
Miami-based Bentley's Luggage Co. opened four new stores in metro Detroit following the success of its first Michigan store at the Somerset Collection in Troy. Bentley's is located at Briarwood in Ann Arbor, Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn, Lakeside in Sterling Heights and Twelve Oaks in Novi. The company specializes in luggage, business cases, small leather goods, and unique travel gifts.

Poinsettia Tree
Southfield Mall's holiday decor features a 25-foot high poinsettia tree on top of the West Coast fountain in front of Olgas. A steel frame is designed to act as a ladder for the installation crew. Each pit of flowers has its own watering tube. It took 80 hours to assemble the tree. The sculpture serves as a backdrop to holiday concerts performed by local choir groups. On Tuesday, Dec. 13, Image Workshop of Trenton performs 5-8 p.m.

Merchandise Manager
Alan Soifer of Troy has been promoted to Merchandise Manager of Sidney Krandall & Sons Jewellers of Troy. Soifer will supervise and coordinate manufacturing job processing. He will also develop and implement customer service program initiatives. Recognized nationally as an expert appraiser, Soifer has been commissioned to speak by the Smithsonian on several oc-casuina. Prior to joining Suidney Krandall & Sons in 1993, Soifer was a gemologist, buyer and appraiser for a New York jewelry firm.

Beauty draws crowds
Hudson's reports more than 100,000 people have turned out to see the animated Beauty and the Beast holiday display at Hudson's in the Summit Place mall in Waterford since early November. Classrooms and scout troops are welcome to tour the 15-minute walk-through exhibit. It will remain on display through the end of December.

Jacobson's heads to Boca Raton
As part of Jacobson's expansion plan, the company has announced it will open a new two-story store at Mizner Park in Boca Raton, Fla. The 80,000-square-foot store is scheduled to open in late fall 1995. The store will be the 11th in Florida for the Jackson, Mich.-based upscale retailer.
Jacobson's also plans to open a 120,000-square-foot store in Kansas City in the fall of 1995. Last month, Jacobson's opened at 160,000-square-foot store in Louisville, Kentucky.

Candle Shoppe Opens
The Gypsy's Light is open at 256 S. Eaton in Birmingham. Shop owner Beverly Pierson of Royal Oak said her store carries a full-line of candle and candle accessories plus gourmet coffee, teas and incense and jewelry. The Gypsy's Light is located across from Norman's Eaton Street Station. Inquiries welcome at (810) 642-4010.

Designers on Board
Mike Romatowski (left) and Chris O'Brien of Nostalgic Whimsey in Ann Arbor, have been named to the National Advisory Board of American Fast-signs, Inc. of Dallas, Texas. Nominations for the first-ever eight member board to the sign industry, were submitted from 200 locations nationwide. The selection of participants was based on a cumulative body of work and unique design application. The Advisory Board will work with the company's national advertising council.

The duo's work is best known locally at Lakeside, Twelve Oaks and Briarwood malls where the team has created backdrops for promotions, special events and holiday decor. Other projects include The Children's Shakespearean Festival, Disney's Toontown Tour, Sesame Street Productions and World Cup Soccer.

Native Art Show
Native West of Plymouth hosts their fifth annual Art and Jewelry Festival Dec. 16-18 during regular business hours. Cherokee artist Bill Rabbitt will exhibit his paintings. There will also be a trunk show of silver and turquoise jewelry. The gallery is at 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth. Inquiries are welcome at (810) 455-8838.

High fiber-low fat breakfast will help Toys for Tots program

What do Weight Watchers, the Detroit Bagel Factory, The Coffee Beanery, WNIC's Breakfast Club and a few local malls have in common?
All are teaming up for "Start Your Day The Low-Fat, High-Fiber Way," a weeklong event that kicks off Weight Watchers' 1995 Fat & Fiber Plan while benefiting Toys For Tots.

Shoppers are invited to stop by any time between 6 a.m. and 10 a.m. to donate a new, unwrapped toy for a needy family and enjoy a free, low fat, high fiber breakfast with the gang.
This fun breakfast includes a natural whole-wheat bagel courtesy of the Detroit Bagel Factory, a cup of Beanery Blend coffee from The Coffee Beanery, Ltd., and a special join-for-half-off offer from Weight Watchers.

essential vitamins and minerals." Florine Mark, president and chief executive officer of The W W Group, will make a special appearance as Mrs. Claus, Tuesday, Dec. 13, at 9 a.m. at Twelve Oaks Mall. Marks will drop off toys, courtesy of Weight Watchers employees. For more information, call (800) 487-4777.
The Detroit Bagel Factory has been in the business of providing, low-fat, healthy bagels and deli items for 35 years. Over 150 employees work in their bakeries located in Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Township, Farmington Hills, Livonia, Oak Park, Rochester, Southfield, and West Bloomfield.

"Lots of them want to know where Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer is," Edison continued. "I tell them he's at the North Pole with Dancer getting ready for the Big Day. If they look nervous, I rub their hand, tell them what to expect, and let them know Santa is a friend."
At Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield, Santa Claus said his young visitors never cease to amaze him and this year he's dealt with several unusual issues.
"When I've asked a few children what they want for Christmas, they've asked me to give all their toys to the poorer children," Santa said, his eyes beginning to water. "I've been so touched. This is so sweet."
"Then there are the little Jewish children who want to come see me," he continued. "They tell me they don't believe in Christmas. They believe in Hanukkah. I tell them that's great because Santa is all about Giving, and so are both Christmas and Hanukkah."
Santa said he gets a kick out of the children's reactions to The Big Question: Have you been good this year?

"Most all of them answer, 'Yes,' and then turn back to look at mom or dad's face. Their parents are usually shaking their heads, 'No,' so I tell them that's OK, Santa Claus knows it's hard to be good all the time — especially for little boys."
In looking back on a 40-year career as Santa Claus, Tel-Twelve's Man in the Red Flannel Suit said one thing has never changed through the years.
"The children always ask me, 'Are you the REAL Santa?'" he said. "Childhood is so very short and it's such a magical time. I assure them that Santa is indeed real and they can believe in Him."
"But you know, the real wonders of the world are the children. Take it from me, each one is an individual. Each one has his or her own personality. Bless them one and all."

Aaron Jones, 4, of Detroit, walked away from Santa waving good-bye with all his might.
"I told Santa I wanted a motorcycle bike, a boom box, and a toy rocketship," he said, adding, "and I've been good all year."
Shanier Turner, 3, of Detroit, asked Santa for a television set for her bedroom so she can watch cartoons in the morning.
"Ho Ho Ho," Santa laughed. "That's a big order to fill."
In a quick survey of Letters To Santa received at the North Pole so far this year, Barbie, and the Power Rangers, top the lists of most children. Other oft mentioned delights include Creepy Crawlers Workshop, Stretch Armstrong, computers and roller blades.

show on cable. Combining these experiences makes me a natural to offer the Michigan Shopping Network."

"Watching the Michigan Shopping Network, consumers become king and retailers are the jewels," she said.
If the show's a hit by January, Wozniak hopes to broadcast the show to the five Grosse Pointes.
Richard Aginian, president of Suburban Communications

Corp., which publishes the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers in metro-Detroit, called the Michigan Shopping Network "an interesting concept." He said local retailers need a good advertising mix to get their message out to shoppers.
"Local television is an important part of an advertiser's electronic message just as local newspapers are to the printed message," he said from his office in Livonia.

For more details about the Michigan Shopping Network, contact L'Vogue Productions at (313) 884-7775.

Wozniak said five minutes of air time on the Michigan Shopping Network costs a retailer $1,300 or more. She guarantees no competitors will be featured during the 30-minute broadcast. A retailer can offer one or more products during their five-minute segment. A logo box appears on the screen with each product revealing the price, store location, phone number for ordering, and brief merchandise description.
Wozniak chats about the product while it is displayed or presented by professional models. Each presentation is peppered with "Look at this!" and "Call now!" The first show features a Farmington Hills cosmetics company, Kouster Jewellers in Grosse Pointe, Young Clothes of Grosse Pointe Farms, and Wozniak's own dress shop.
After Tuesday evening's broadcast, the show moves to the week and where it is repeated 30 times.
"Michigan Shopping Network reaches 23,000 viewers in six of the most affluent cities in the United States with an average disposable income of $73,000," Wozniak said.
"From clothing, jewelry, automobiles and homes to computers, antiques, brokerage firms or medical services, shoppers can order directly from the retailers themselves. Consumers will also help contribute to a stronger area economy by purchasing from area retailers, not sending money to who-knows-where with other home-shopping channels."
Wozniak grew up in Hamtramck. She graduated from St. Florian High School and then went on to Wayne State University in Detroit to earn a degree in psychology. She calls herself an entrepreneur and bubbles with excitement when talking about her latest project.

U-M economists predict slow growth

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

University of Michigan economists confessed their forecasts of job and income growth were low in 1994 but continued their caution by predicting slower growth in 1995-6.

"The recovery was a good deal stronger than we had forecast," economic researcher George Fulton told U-M's 42nd annual seminar in quantitative economics.

A year ago, Fulton and associates had predicted 1.1 percent growth in wages and salaries; 1994 saw a 2.8 percent growth. They forecast a 4.7 percent growth in personal incomes of Michiganians; the actual will be a hefty 8.2 percent.

Fulton, Joan Cray and Professor Paul Hymans predicted personal income growth rates of 6.4 and 5.1 percent for the two years ahead and state revenue growth rate increases of 1.3 and 5 percent in the coming two years.

State treasurer Doug Roberts, in the audience, said afterwards that "I think he's low on his '95 forecast of revenue." A Ph.D. in economics from Michigan State University, Roberts said Fulton should have factored in a federal income tax cut as helping the national and state economies.

"I think there's an 85 percent chance Congress will pass a tax cut, and a 50 percent chance (President Bill) Clinton will sign it," Roberts said in a brief interview in the corridor outside the Rackham Building auditorium in Ann Arbor.

"That will pump $30 billion to $40 billion into the economy," Roberts said. But 1996 could be a problem year if congressional tax-cutting bumps into the effects of the Federal Reserve Board's efforts to cool inflation.

As state treasurer, Roberts is responsible for forecasting the economy and revenue for Gov. John Engler. Though disagreeing with Fulton's numbers, he concurred that the state's 1995-6 economic performance won't match this year's.

"If you could look at economic performance charts over 20 years and pick one year in which to run for re-election, 1994 would be the year," said Roberts, whose boss won a second term as governor with 700,000 votes to spare.

The U-M economists were low on their 1994 income forecast because (1) national forecasters had under-guessed motor vehicle sales and (2) manufacturers resorted to record overtime hours, thus pumping up personal income more than job growth, Fulton said.

Within the labor market, Michigan is seeing a "bi-polar" performance — big jumps in executive, managerial and professional jobs and pay at the top and in service jobs at the bottom, Fulton said.

While those numbers are good, Fulton said, "Another measure of success is to broaden the base of the middle class."

Fulton predicted little growth in governmental employment, particularly with the closing for K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base in the Upper Peninsula. "There's not much action at any level of government," he said.

Voter passage of Proposal A has shaken up the state revenue picture, he said. New state tax hikes are dedicated to the school aid fund, leading him to predict roughly 5 percent drops in general fund revenue of $468 million in each of the two years ahead.

In other papers delivered at the seminar:

■ Real gross domestic product, which grew almost 4 percent this year, will slip to 2.4 and 2.1 percent in the next two years, Hymans said. He saw "hesitation" in industrial orders and consumer sentiment. Clinton's higher tax rates for upper incomes, along with budget restraint, will help slow the economy.

■ Vehicle sales will stay close to the current 15 million level the next two years.

■ Housing starts will slip from this year's 1.4 million to 1.2 million by the end of 1995.

■ "A persistent strength in consumer confidence" was reported by Richard T. Curtin, U-M director of consumer surveys.

Toys for Tots

Need toys: Century 21 is collecting toys for the Marine Corps Reserve's Toys for Tots program. New, unwrapped toys may be dropped off at the Century 21 Gold House at 7500 N. Canton Center Road, just north of Warren Road in Canton Township. The deadline for donation is Tuesday, Dec. 20. Toys will be given to poor children who would otherwise not get any Christmas presents.

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)

Plans may take an unexpected turn. A love relationship may need some work. Don't let stress keep you from the things you enjoy.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

You may have to take a stand about something close to your heart, and it will not be easy. This is not the time to divulge secrets.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Be wary of those who make promises they cannot keep. Charging into a situation without investigating it first could prove dangerous.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

Your selfish attitude will hurt those closest to you. What is best for you may not be very good for the rest of the people concerned.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

Keep a close eye on finances. When you feel the urge to spend money try doing some kind of exercise instead. Hold on to what you have.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

It sometimes seems that you will never be able to get your hands on the luxuries you so desire. Are those things really as important as you thought?

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

Learning some kind of new skill will not be easy, but it could prove to be a moneymaker. Give your best, and you'll be happy with the results.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

The burdens placed upon your shoulders will weigh heavily for a time. It is time to learn to say no when necessary. You need some time to yourself.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

You may have the opportunity to share some of your newfound wealth with those less fortunate than yourself. Be generous and sincere.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

Someone believes in you more than you think. It is okay to share your ideas with loved ones, just don't do it in a complaining and whiny manner.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

Expect some big shake-ups in all areas of your life. Change is inevitable, but how you handle it now will make a difference in your future.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

A change in attitude is needed if you wish to have any peace at all. Put down your sword for a moment and listen to what the other person has to say.

Kirk Douglas stars in bittersweet tale of love

By SUZANNE GILL

A father and son on a quixotic road trip that affirms their bond of love — that's how a philosopher might sum up Take Me Home Again, a TV movie airing Sunday, Dec. 18, on NBC.

Kirk Douglas plays the father, Ed Reece, and Craig T. Nelson is his prodigal son, Larry, but that wasn't the original casting plan.

"Several years ago," says Douglas, "my son Michael sent me the book, The Lies Boys Tell, by Lamar Herrin. We had been looking for several years to do something together, and he said, 'What about this?'"

"And I said, 'No, Michael, it's too heavy. We'll find something else.' And then about nine months ago they sent me the script, and I thought it had a lot more humor in it, and I liked it. I said, 'Michael, let's do it.'"

"Well, he was then about to start a movie with Demi Moore (Disclosure), and he wasn't gonna give her up for me, so I made it with Craig T. Nelson, who I think is a wonderful actor. I enjoyed working with him, and I enjoyed making the movie. We'll see what happens."

In the story, cagey, willful Ed Reece is dying of cancer, but he is really sick of being treated like a memory rather than the man he still is. His wife, Sylvia (Bonnie Bartlett), is consumed by fear, and his straight-arrow son Russ (Richard Gilliland) lacks imagination. His divorced daughter, Nell (Lee Garlington), and Larry's ex-wife, Connie (Bess Armstrong), are understanding, but it is Larry he longs to see.

Secretly Ed sends for Larry, who is received by the rest of the family with a mixture of surprise and hostility. Soon Larry discovers his father has more plans for him: He is to drive the dying man to the house where he was born, so he can die in the bed where he first slept in his mother's arms.

"Very often," says Douglas, "it's the bad apple that's the favorite. Here was the son that had gone away. That was the son that he always wanted. And I think obviously if you compare him to the other brother, he was the son that was more like the father. I think by the end you'd like to see that (Larry and Ed) really loved each other."

Douglas has done a lot of thinking about fathers and sons. The very title of his autobiography, The Ragman's Son, is proof of how important the relationship is to him.

During the weeks of filming on the road, Douglas and Nelson spent many hours together, discussing their feelings about Ed and Larry.

"Craig kept telling me that I reminded him of his father. Now I don't know whether that's good or bad," he says with a chuckle, "but we had a very warm relationship."

"He had read my autobiography, which deals with my whole relationship with my father, and he was quite intrigued by the relationship between fathers and sons. He had quite a dramatic relationship with his father. So, in a way, out of that came (the direction for) playing our roles."

Out on the road, Larry and Ed are forced to work together as a team, whether talking a state trooper out of a ticket or a country-club snob into a round of golf. Ed knows that only Larry has the audacity to help him achieve his dream, and Larry knows the rest of the family will never understand anyway.

"Ed knew that Larry would be the only one who would want to do this crazy thing of taking him back to the place where he was born, in the bed where he was born," Douglas says. "They are fighting all the time, but there is a love (between them). Every obstacle they face is like a test they pass."

"Both of the characters, to me, have a streak of craziness, and I think that's necessary in life."

"It's like Browning's poem: 'Grow old along with me! The best is yet to be.' I think one must always have that feeling, always have a goal just a little bit beyond your reach."

TNT hoop action center of attention

BY JEFF PLASS

TNT is the place to be for great NBA action in the low-post Friday, Dec. 16, as the cable channel presents back-to-back basketball action featuring a pair of the league's best big men.

Tipping off the action, the New York Knicks and their all-star center, Patrick Ewing, venture to Phoenix to take on the Suns. In the second game, the Orlando Magic, led by man-child and media darling Shaquille O'Neal, battle the Golden State Warriors.

TBS studio and game analyst Dick Versace sees the night's action as seemingly a battle of the haves and the have-nots. While the Knicks and the Magic boast a pair of Dream Teamers in the low-post, both the Warriors and the Suns have long been searching for the right pieces to go at the center of their team puzzles.

The center by whom all centers will soon be measured, according to Versace, is the young man who plays for the Magic who sports the stylized Superman logo on his tattooed bicep.

Major Reasons To Clean Your Air Ducts.

- 1 Children are more likely than adults to be affected by polluted indoor air. They breathe faster, inhale more air per unit of body weight and are closer to the ground where concentrations are higher.
- 2 The elderly, asthmatics and people with breathing problems, allergies and lung diseases are likely to be more sensitive to pollutants.
- 3 Indoor air has been found to be up to 70 times more polluted than outdoor air.
- 4 1 out of 6 people who suffer from allergies do so as a direct result of the fungi and bacteria in air duct systems.
- 5 50% of all illnesses are either caused or aggravated by polluted indoor air.
- 6 Legionnaire's Disease was spawned in air conditioning ducts. It killed 20 people in 1976 (ALA - American Lung Association).

SOAP WORLD

Douglas portrays Dylan on OLTL

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I was so happy when Max (James De Paiva) and Luna (Susan Batten) got back together on One Life to Live. I know it is only a soap opera but it is nice to see some people work through their problems rather than toss it all away. It seems like all you see on television and the movies these days is people getting divorced.

It is indicative of what is really happening in our country today. People don't respect each other like they should. They make promises they can't keep. Perhaps if there were more examples on television and in the movies that showed happy couples making it through the hard times, people could learn something.

Now let me get off my soap box. What I'd like to know is who is the actor that plays Luna's brother? He seems very familiar but I can't place him. -L.C. in New Jersey.

Dear Reader: Christopher Douglas portrays Dylan Moody on OLTL. He has been featured in several commercials and print ads for Armani, Versace, Miller Beer, Old Spice and the American Dairy Association.

Douglas has also appeared on Save By the Bell, Burke's Law, Married...With Children and Honor and Duty. He was in the cable television movies The Pick Up and Red Shoes Diaries.

The actor is also very involved in tracing his roots. His mother's family is Cherokee, and he has a deep fascination and respect for his Indian heritage.

Dear Candace: Argh! Please tell me that Evan (Greg Watkins) and Barbara (Colleen Zenk Pinter) are not going to have an affair on As the World Turns. I've never liked either character very much; they are both so selfish and inconsiderate. To put those two together is just too much. It is disgusting. Would you please give me the address where I can write to the producers of ATWT? -An ATWT fan in Missouri.

Dear Reader: Try looking at it as there were never two people who deserved each other more. Write to ATWT in care of CBS-TV, 51 West 52nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

ENTERTAINMENT NEWS

PBS hopes to run up numbers with Pfeiffer-featuring science series

Michelle Pfeiffer is to be the host of a six-part series on women in the sciences, airing over three weeks next spring on PBS. Discovering Women will profile a high-energy physicist, a biochemist, a geophysicist, an archaeologist, a neuroscientist and a molecular biologist. The series is part of a larger initiative by Boston's WGBH-TV, titled S.O.S.: Seek Out Science. Aimed at middle- and high-school students, the idea is to provide role models for women and minorities, who are historically underrepresented among the ranks of working scientists.

A talk show made in heaven? George Hamilton and his ex-wife, Alana, will head up The George & Alana Show, debuting in syndication next fall. Trade-journal ads hyping the show insist, "The thing that really makes a show like this work is the chemistry between the two people." Isn't that what they said about Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker?

Inside Edition co-anchor Deborah Norville is expecting a baby this Christmas, and one waggish reporter has already asked her whether the gossipy newsmagazine show will try to get exclusive coverage of the delivery. Quoth Norville, "If I don't tell them where I'm having it, they won't be able to put it on TV, will they?" That may depend on the strength of their investigative reporting.

Physicist Stephen Hawking's popular A Brief History of Time, which made a big bang on the best seller list a few years back, becomes a TV special Monday, Dec. 19, on The Discovery Channel. Elapsed time, for the record: two hours.

After surviving against No. 1 Rated Home Improvement for a dozen Tuesday nights this fall, the creators of Frasier, whose credits also include NBC's Cheers and Wings, are gaining confidence. Co-executive producer Peter Casey speaks for partners David Angell and David Lee when he says, "What we would like to try to do in the future is not to be so conventional and safe. If one of the networks wants us to do another series, they have to give us a chance to scare them a little."
