Former mayor dies

William Robinson was described as a "very serious" and "quiet person" who also had a sense of humor. He died Thursday in Florida. Services were today.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Former Plymouth Mayor William Robinson was remembered by colleagues as congenial yet serious about his job on the City Commission.

Robinson, 78, died Thursday in Punta Gorda, Fla. He served on the City Commission from November 1981 to 1989. He was mayor from 1985-87.

"He was just a great individual; he always took time to listen to problems and questions," said current City Commissioner Ron Loiselle, who served on the commission with Robinson.

"He was highly organized because of his training as an accountant-CPA. He was a man of his word, kind of a genuine individual," Loiselle said.

"He was very serious with everything he did, kind of a quiet person," said former Commissioner Mary Childs. "He never got rattled at commission meetings. When he presented something to the commission he had really thought it through. He was very personable in his own quiet way," Childs said.

Council receives funding

The Plymouth Community Arts Council has been awarded a $50,000 Michigan Equity Grant to help pay for renovations at the new arts center on Sheldon Road.

While the arts council had asked for $100,000, "It's very good news, it puts us in a better position to complete our renovation," said Randy Lee, executive director of the council.

The average grant awarded to 39 local governments in Michigan was $31,590. Lee said she was pleased the Plymouth council's grant exceeded the average.

To make the former church better suited for arts council programs, renovation plans call for either removing all 220 theater seats and replacing them with 125 moveable seats, or removing half of the theater seats.

Renovation would also include creating arts classrooms at the rear of the church building and building new barrier-free restrooms.

"We're hoping to do it all this year," Lee said, adding the arts council has already secured architectural plans and bids on the work and is raising money locally to complete the renovation.

"We are pleased the citizens of Michigan are eager to make their communities more livable," said Commerce Director Arthur Ellis earlier this month as $7 million in Michigan Equity Grants to support regional arts and cultural programs was announced.

"Our goal is to help communities enhance their cultural environment and continue to create economic opportunities," he said.

In all, 75 projects were awarded grants on a competitive basis in communities with populations less than 125,000 to support cultural institutions, zoos, convention and tourism facilities, libraries, historical projects and waterfront developments.

The first three coney dogs were no problem, as Mike Perrot hadn't eaten all day.

"They tasted great," he said.

Then came the second plate, with three more coney.

"It gets a little harder — definitely after the sixth one. They start tasting real salty," said the Plymouth man.

"I was doing little baby bites on the seventh and eighth ones," said Perrot, who finished nine — a personal best.

"I don't think I could have one more bite," he said.

To raise money for charity, Perrot with four other team members edged out the Bergstrom's Sharks, another five-member team competing in a coney dog eating championship Thursday at Hefty's Coney Island in Redford.

Perrot's Leukemia Team in Training ate 44 coney dogs to Bergstrom's 43. Both teams had put up $100 for charity per team, and Hefty's kicked in $150, meaning Perrot's team took the $350 pot.

Perrot is trying to raise $3,500, to qualify him to run in the Mayor's Midnight Sua Marathon in June in Anchorage, Alaska, sponsored by the Leukemia Society of America.

Perrot formed his own team to compete with the Bergstrom's Sharks this year. Perrot, who works for a publishing company out of his Plymouth home, had once been a Sharks team member. "We more or less would put together as a team to

New law office opens in area

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Former Wayne County Commissioner Bryan Amann and George Shea of Plymouth Township are increasing the number of attorneys who practice in Canton.

One of Wayne County's oldest law firms, Brashears, Tangora and Spence of Livonia, recently opened its Canton office at 355 Canton Center Road — where the McDonald's golden arches used to sit outside a ranch house long since renovated into offices.

"Twenty-two attorneys live in Canton and eight work in Canton," said Amann, who lives in Wayne. "The opportunity was great for an office here and the growth phenomenal." Amann and Shea will staff the new Canton office.

The law firm, established in 1945 in Detroit — a Livonia office was opened in 1950 — is celebrating its 50-year anniversary and the opening of its Canton office at an open house 4-7 p.m. Thursday, March 30. Canton Supervisor Tom Yack will cut the red ribbon during the grand opening ceremonies sponsored by the Canton Chamber of Commerce. The public is invited.

"There is a symmetry to this being the oldest law firm in Wayne County and us moving to western Wayne County's fastest growing community," said Shea, who has been with the firm since 1988.

Amann and Shea are general practice attorneys. The firm covers the gamut of legal services including family, estate and real estate matters. "We do a lot of land use so it's particularly important for us to be close to township hall. Canton has always had nice problems with their growth and development. I felt more embraced by the Canton community than any others while I was a county commissioner," said Amann, who joined the firm in 1992.

The firm offers nine lawyers and support staff. While Amann and Shea will staff the Canton office, the other attorneys are also available.

"I'm excited because this is my community," said Shea, a coach with the Plymouth Soccer League. "We bring a solid law firm with a lot of depth and quality of attorneys. We have an extensive law library in the Livonia office."

Shea said the law firm will be involved in the community, such as with construction of the Canton Community Built Playscape in June.

The goal with the Canton office is to provide legal services to Canton families. "We have a lot of two-income families here. That bodes well for us as a full-service firm," Amann said.

Canton resident Michelle Hall, a Canton Homeowners Advisory Council member, joined the law firm in November 1994 as controller. "We've been working on the computerizing all the financial aspects, now we are working on the billing part," Hall said.

Amann helped bring Hall to the firm. "We brought Michelle on to keep up with technological changes, to bring us into the 1990s," he said.

Northville resident injured in accident

A Northville man was treated and released Friday at University of Michigan Hospital after he lost control of his pickup truck, which rolled over after leaving the exit ramp to Ann Arbor Road from northbound I-275.

Plymouth Township police said

Brian Murphy, 33, was driving his 1989 Chevy pickup truck just after 1 a.m. when the accident occurred. He was taken by medical helicopter to the hospital for treatment of injuries.

Police say the accident is under investigation.

Gunman robs Ramada Inn

Canton police are looking for a gunman who robbed the Ramada Inn on Michigan Avenue of approximately $360 cash and an employee of $700 in jewelry just before 8 p.m. March 21.

The gunman, who was armed with a semi-automatic handgun, did not hurt two employees who were on duty at the time of the robbery.

When police arrived at the motel, 40500 Michigan Ave., the employee, a 23-year-old woman and a 24-year-old man, said the incident began when the unidentified man was seen on a pay phone outside the motel lobby. The man asked the female employee about getting a cab. When the employee got the man a cab — a 45-minute wait — he waited in the motel's television room.

When both employees were in the lobby, the man reached under his shirt and pulled out a semi-automatic handgun. He racked the gun's slide, pointed the weapon at the male employee and told him to lie down behind the front counter.

The gunman then gave the female employee a pink bag and told her to get some money. He then asked for her jewelry and made her lie on the floor near the male employee. The gunman told the male employee to open a safe.

When he told the gunman he didn't have the keys, he said: "I'm going to pop you." The safe was opened. The gunman then left

Author takes a look at Henry Ford's flying past

By KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Henry Ford developed airplanes and for a time had the premier airport in the United States, yet nobody had written a book encompassing Ford's aviation interests — until now.

Timothy O'Callaghan of Plymouth worked 40 years for Ford, ultimately serving as regional manager for dealer fleet sales operations in the Great Lakes region. And now he's written the first book dealing with Henry Ford's legacy to aviation: the self-published, "Henry Ford's Airport and Other Aviation Interests, 1909-1954."

O'Callaghan, whose hobby was collecting Ford memorabilia, retired in 1980. Ford aircraft-related memorabilia particularly interested him, and some research showed no one had written a book covering the scope of Henry Ford's aviation interests.

"I guess the thing that struck me was his willingness to explore," O'Callaghan said. "He wasn't bound by parameters of any sort. If he was interested in it, he went at it wholeheartedly."

"Ford was into so many things, logging in the UP, producing rubber down in Brazil, iron ore mines. Kingsford charcoal was started by Ford," O'Callaghan said.

Besides Ford's range of interests, he also held a position of high esteem with much of the American public, for making cars available to working people. "How often do you come across someone who changes how people live?" O'Callaghan said.

Ford's activity in aviation came mainly in the 1920s, considered the golden age of aviation. In researching Ford's aviation-related activity in that period, "I found so much information nobody else had written about," said O'Callaghan.

"I started out researching to satisfy my curiosity, I wrote three articles for aviation magazines. I had the time and the inclination, and access to the files," he said, at Henry Ford Museum and the Detroit Public Library.

While Ford first became interested in aviation in 1909, when he financed the building of an airplane with a Model "T" engine, his partnership with William Stout in 1924 to build Stout's all-metal airplane led to the construction of the Ford Airport, at the northwest corner of Oakwood and Rotunda in Dearborn.

Dedicated in 1925, "It was hailed by civil and military aviation authorities as the finest, field in the United States and better than most airfields in the world," O'Callaghan wrote.

It was also the first airport in the world with concrete runways, had a passenger terminal, airplane factory and hangar on the grounds and a dirigible mooring mast. The Dearborn Inn was built across the street on Oakwood to serve passengers.

A Ford Air Transport Service was created to haul freight. By 1932, its planes had traveled almost 2 million miles, carrying nearly 13 million pounds of freight with only two fatal accidents while completing 93 percent of 10,149 scheduled flights, O'Callaghan wrote.

O'Callaghan details the creation of several experimental planes. One of the most striking was the "Flying Wing," an all-metal airplane developed in the early 1930s that recalls today's stealth bombers. However, the plane, which had a six-foot propeller and no tail, was difficult to control.

By the mid-1930s, Ford's interest in aviation had waned. Orders for airplanes lagged during the Great Depression. Earlier, the Ford Airport failed to attract sufficient business, due in part to competition and to Clara Ford's insistence that planes not fly on Sunday.

The airport had early on lost popularity with some pilots, as they were banned from bringing alcohol on the premises by Ford, who didn't drink.

"He had to get back to his core business," said O'Callaghan, which was building cars.

After 2 1/2 years of research, O'Callaghan took a year to write the book. He's already sold 500 copies of the first printing of 2,000.

"It was fun. The worst part was editing it for spelling mistakes and punctuation," O'Callaghan said, adding this mostly fell to his wife, Doris.

To get a copy, write O'Callaghan at 46878 Betty Hill in Plymouth, or call 459-4636. The book sells for $24.

Grisa has been a Midas franchisee for 25 years and operates

Disabled people get helping hand

By JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

You're probably not familiar with the name of the organization that provides employment and training for disabled residents. But Canton resident Mitch Howard wants to change that, beginning with an auction Friday, March 31.

"This is an opportunity to do a couple things. We can expose our name, contact people and let them know what our organization is all about and have a little fun," said Howard, fund development director for Services to Enhanced Potential, formerly known as the Wayne County Association for the Retarded. He is also a past president of the Canton Community Foundation.

The organization has facilities in Livonia and Wayne and provides employment and education in Wayne County, including Canton and Plymouth. "We are close to 300 in western Wayne County that are being helped by the organization," Howard said.

The STEP auction at 7 p.m. at Burton Manor, 27777 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, costs $25 for admission. The public is invited. Auction items will range in value from $75 to $150. Entertainment will be provided by the Larados and the guest disc jockey is Nick Kulka. For tickets, call the organization or Howard at (313) 261-3600. The auction will benefit the organization's Community Employment Scholarship Fund.

The vocational and rehabilitation organization offers six workshops, as well as community placement programs — all designed to improve the quality of life for developmentally disabled residents, as well as to help them earn a living.

"It's taking the same ambitions you and I have and giving that opportunity to others," Howard said.

Severe weather calls for good dose of preparation

Next week, March 26-April 1, is Severe Weather Awareness Week in Michigan.

Last year, Michigan experienced 11 tornadoes and 37 floods. No deaths resulted from these natural events, but they damaged or destroyed property worth $3 million, according to the city's Office of Emergency Preparedness.

Right now, melting snow, coupled with heavy spring rains, makes many rivers, lakes and streams fill beyond capacity, causing severe flooding.

Tornadoes usually occur when there is unseasonably warm and humid air at the earth's surface and cold air in the middle atmospheric levels, with strong upper-level jet stream winds. In Michigan, these conditions are more likely to occur in the spring. However, tornadoes can occur at almost any time during the year.

In 1994, tornadoes were reported in Clare, Crawford, Jackson, Kalkaska, Lenawee, Livingston, Muskegon, Montcalm, Ogemaw, Osceola and Washtenaw counties.

Since tornadoes develop and move rapidly, the Office of Emergency Preparedness believes residents should know the various severe weather alerts and recommends the following preparations:

When a tornado watch is announced, residents should gather a first aid kit, flashlight and portable radio and stay tuned to local weather reports. A watch means that conditions are right for a tornado to develop.

A tornado warning means that a tornado has been sighted nearby and everyone should seek cover. In a house, take cover under something sturdy in the basement. If there is no basement, stay in a small room or closet on the lowest floor possible. Stay away from windows.

At work or school where there is no basement, go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor possible. Avoid rooms with a large roof, such as a gymnasium.

If outside, seek shelter in a ditch, ravine or other place below ground level and stay as low as possible.

Mayor

City Finance Director Bill Graham, a former bank executive, knew Robinson as a bank customer and as mayor.

"He was a very congenial individual, a very nice man, very articulate, a very thorough thinker in my mind," Graham said, adding Robinson was true to his word.

While Robinson had an almost regal bearing as mayor, "He had a very dry sense of humor," Graham said. "He took the mayor's job very seriously; it wasn't a joke. But he was friendly; I really enjoyed knowing him."

Robinson was born Dec. 11, 1916, and moved from Dallas, Texas, to Plymouth in 1974. He had served in the Navy and had played trombone with several big bands, including the Sam Donahue Band in the '30s.

He graduated from the Detroit Institute of Technology in 1938 with a bachelor's degree in business administration and served as vice president of finance with companies in Minneapolis, Chicago, and Dallas. He worked at the Morrison, Stanwood & Pollock accounting firm of Plymouth and Davco of Saline.

He served on the finance committee of First United Methodist Church, as past president of the Colonial Kiwanis Club and as past president of the Plymouth Community Fund.

Survivors include wife Arline, whom he married in 1941; three daughters, Billie Born of West Bloomfield, Carol Vignostad of Lansing, and Joan Pulver of Grand Haven; three sons, David of Channing, Richard of Comstock Park and Donald of Dearborn; 10 grandchildren; and eight great-grandchildren. A brother, George, preceded him in death.

Services were at 11 a.m. today at Vermeulen Trust 100 Funeral Home, Plymouth, with Dr. Frederick Vosburg of First United Methodist Church officiating.

Burial was at Crystal Lake Township North Cemetery, Crystal Lake.

Memorial tributes can be made to Frankfort United Methodist Church, 537 Crystal Ave., P.O. Box 1010, Frankfort, Mich. 49635.

Materials

The junior personal computers installed at the high school nine years ago when Tattan was Salem principal are still in use. "The things we want to teach, dealing with databases and spreadsheets, can't be taught on PC juniors," said Little. "The equipment is worn out. Youngsters can't be certain that if their material is stored that it can be retrieved."

To help convince voters the tax increase is necessary, board members said they'd like a "shopping list" of needed materials.

"This is not a shopping list; this is imperative if there is any expectation of kids being more successful than they are today," Little said.

Trustee Jack Farrow said the district's needs can be described as the "three T's: Texts, training, and teaching materials."

"We have many, many teachers who are carrying the same bag of tools they walked in with 15 years ago," said Little.

The need is even more acute given the tougher standardized state tests students will be taking, said curriculum coordinator Sheila Alles.

A mill is $1 of tax per $1,000 of taxable property value. The 3-mill levy would cost the owner of a $100,000 home, with a taxable value of $50,000, an additional $150 a year.

The board has debated whether millage money should be spent on computer furniture.

"Parents have come to us saying we have a big problem with class size," said Trustee Sue Feiten. "We agreed it's not wise to hire teachers, because this money is going away after two years."

The 3 mills would be levied for two years. After that, millage revenue raised in a district must be shared countywide, according to the state's revised school finance law.

"I have a real hard time saying no, we will buy furniture; that will get us further than a teacher," added Feiten. "I don't think so. I'm completely opposed philosophically to saying no to teachers and yes to furniture. We have capital funds for that."

Trustee Roland Thomas agreed, but said, "Let's not eat up our capital budget up too quickly. We need to examine every resource we have available to us and be creative regarding where we house central administration and whether we continue to lease Lowell (Middle School). We need to marshal our resources."

Trustee Barbara Graham talked about the district's sales approach.

"We have to be careful or people are going to say, 'They just want more money.'

Little said voters can rest assured revenue won't be spent on salaries, fringes, bricks or mortar.

The secret to winning, Perrot said, was his team didn't eat at all the day of the competition. The contest started at 4 p.m.

Several members of the Bergstrom's team, representing Bergstrom's plumbing, heating and cooling of Livonia, had lunch that day, Perrot said.

Still, Bergstrom's team member Mike Hier, who works for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, downed 11 cones — the highest single total.

After the contest, Perrot said he felt fine. "I didn't think about food, that's for sure," he said.

Money trouble

S'craft expects skimpy budget

BY RALPH R. ECHINAWA

STAFF WRITER
Schoolcraft College President Richard McDowell told trustees Wednesday that the college faces an "extremely tight budget" for the next fiscal year.

The current Schoolcraft revenue is about $34,134,000, derived primarily from property taxes ($13.7 million), state aid ($9 million) and tuition and fees ($11.1 million).

The projected revenue for the next fiscal year is almost $36 million, a 2.46-percent increase over the current revenue.

However, McDowell expects many expenses to increase at a faster rate.

"A lot of increases you have no control over are much more than (inflation)," he said.

Schoolcraft Vice President of Business Adelard "Butch" Raby estimates that the college's actual millage levy will be 1.861 in the next fiscal year, beginning July 1. Although Schoolcraft's official millage levy is 2.27 mills, the Headlee Amendment to the Michigan Constitution prohibits collecting taxes at that rate.

Headlee requires that the millage levy be adjusted each year so the college doesn't gain property tax revenue at a rate greater than inflation, about 2.8 percent this year. The trend has been for the millage rate to go down in most years as the taxable value of the district's property rises.

Also, Schoolcraft has four labor contracts to negotiate this year with administrators, clerical workers, food service personnel and physical plant crew. All four groups will likely want pay raises.

Compounding that, a new state law may keep trustees from raising tuition as much as they think wise.

The new law says that students may claim a tax credit on 4 percent of tuition and fees paid to a college or university that does not raise tuition at a rate greater than the consumer price index, about 2.8 percent this year.

A student paying $45 per credit hour taking 20 credits in a year, could subtract about $60 from the amount owed on state taxes, or get an additional $60 in a tax refund.

Raby estimated Schoolcraft could raise tuition for in-district students from $45 to $46.25 without triggering the tax-credit penalty. Out-of-district tuition could go from $68 to $69.75. Out-of-state tuition could be raised from $99 to $101.75.

Board Chairman Steve Ragan said tuition "will probably go up" this year, but the increase will not likely exceed Raby's figures.

That's no guarantee, however, that trustees will never boost tuition up faster than inflation. "We're more concerned about the future than we are about this year," Ragan said.

The trustees' only other choices for raising revenue are to convince the state to give Schoolcraft more money, to ask voters for a millage increase, or to ask voters to override the Headlee Amendment restrictions on Schoolcraft's current millage levy, which would reset the levy to 2.27 mills if approved.

A veneer is a thin shell of pre-formed porcelain, composite resin, or plastic that is applied (bonded) to the outer surface of a stained or damaged tooth. It is predominantly used to cover a front tooth that is chipped, worn, severely stained, or eroded at the gum line. The two-step process of veneer application is more expensive than bonding, but it is likely to provide longer lasting results. At the same time, veneers require less tooth reduction than crowns. In the first of two office visits, the dentist prepares a tooth for a veneer by removing a little of its surface. An impression is then taken, which is sent to the lab for casting.

Women bowlers get the boot from bowling alley

BY JOANNE MALINOWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Economics or discrimination? That's what the Wednesday Night Ladies bowling league that has lost its contract after seven years at Superbowl in Canton is asking.

"They never gave us any warning," said league member Marie Davis. "During the year, they didn't say our turnover was too much."

Superbowl owner Mark Voight said he is not renewing a league contract for the Wednesday Night Ladies because the league has had too much turnover or not enough bowlers or teams returning from one year to another, leaving empty lanes at the 60-lane center.

"This just burns us up and makes us mad after so many years of bowling there," said Esther Buzuvic, league secretary. "We are leaving."

The league, which has bowled at Superbowl, 41500 Ford Road, since 1988, claims that there is more to Voight's decision not to renew their contract. They are claiming discrimination because Voight has a possible contract with a larger men's league, a fraternal organization.

"We have not yet gotten a confirmation that they are coming here," Voight said, about the men's league. Wednesday nights currently draw a men's league, two women's leagues and a mixed league.

The women also maintain that Voight wants the men's league because male bowlers spend more money at the bowling center's bar than do the women.

"This is purely an economic decision but it has nothing to do with spending habits," Voight responded.

League member Kim Hauk said she is continuing with a petition against the bowling center. On March 21, some league members were wearing signs on their backs saying "Superbowl. Is it economic or discriminatory?"

The signs caught the attention of other leagues. Some of those members wanted to sign the petition but were stopped by bowling center staff. "They will all fight for us," Hauk added.

Without warning

The women said that without warning they were told their league contract would not be renewed because their current contract, beginning in August 1994, called for 12 teams. The league now has 10. "None of this was ever brought up at any previous time," said league member Cindy Webb.

Webb said she asked Voight what level of turnover is considered too much and warrants non-renewal. "He said he really didn't have a number," Webb said. "I told him he can't arbitrarily kick out a league without a set number for that criteria. Other leagues with a high turnover rate aren't being kicked out."

Voight claims that 44 out of 71 bowlers — a 38 percent loss — returned for the 1993-94 season. In the current season that runs August to May, Voight said 65 percent of the women bowlers in the league didn't return.

"That's what really keyed us in. In this business, this is a little high," Voight added. "We did not kick them out. I did not start out hoping they would not be here. We already were aware that three of the teams were not coming back."

Teams vary

Buzuvic, however, said the number of teams in the league has varied. Today, five of the original teams continue to play. One year, the league had 14 teams, another year 12 teams.

League member Bev Bazzell said the league's turnover has been at least average. "They aren't giving us a chance to fill the teams," she said.

Bazzell's daughter, Sherry Harp, also a league member, said "We asked him if we had to guarantee us if we had 10 teams. He said, 'No, you can't guarantee 10 teams.'"

"We were not told anything. He never said we needed a bigger league. I think there's something else here," Harp added.

The league knew it was two teams short last fall. Two teams were going to join them — so league members thought — but then joined the other Wednesday night women's league, Super Chicks.

"They were directed to the other league," Davis said, adding that some members feel the non-renewal of the contract is based on a personal vendetta by a bowling center employee against a league officer. The accusation could not be confirmed.

Hauk said she asked Voight why the turnover issue was not raised at the beginning of the season. "He said that he thought our league was full. I told him that wasn't an answer," Hauk said. "He sent out a contract (to the men's league) before his meeting with us. That was going behind our backs."

Voight, however, said he and staff were reviewing league structure and trying to identify problems when they came across turnover problems. "You have to identify why you are not full."

Spending habits

Voight dismisses Wednesday Night Ladies members' argument that the men spend more on liquor. "Women's leagues drink less but they eat more. There is not a significant difference here," Voight said. "In leagues and bars these days drinking is less and less. I don't have a problem with that. Our biggest seller is water and we give it away."

League member Bazzell said that in 1993-94, the women spent $15,783 in bowling fees alone. "The difference is the bar; the money," Buzuvic added.

Voight said bowlers in the Wednesday Night Ladies could have gone to the other women's league. But he said there are some personality differences among bowlers on the two leagues. "They were not interested in that other league. And it is not fair to suggest that they move to another night," Voight said.

Harp acknowledged that. "We have had conflicts with people on the other league bowling at the same time."

Wednesday Night Ladies are heading out to Plaza Lanes, 42001 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, for the new season. "We've had a lot more calls this year from teams at other centers," said Donna Collins of Plaza Lanes. "We've been getting a call every other day."

Why do so many babies get their start in life at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor? Maybe it's the choice of birthing options we give to moms and dads. Not too many other hospitals offer both LDR and LDRP suites. Maybe it's the availability of doctors in Plymouth, Canton, Brighton, Saline and the Ann Arbor area. Maybe it's the family-focused care provided day in and day out. Or the classes to help make even first-time parents feel like experts. Maybe it's the options for pain relief, including labor epidurals and Jacuzzi bath tubs.

New career checks out

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

He's retired from hockey, but John Ogrodnick still finds the checking relentless.

The former Detroit Red Wing can't take his eye off the computer screen. Stock prices fluctuate before him. CNBC drones on a nearby TV in his office at Kemper Securities in Plymouth.

"It's a little down," Ogrodnick says. "The dollar is taking a beating."

Ogrodnick, a Farmington Hills resident, still seeks net gains, but it's a far contrast from ones he looked for in the ice wars. Ogrodnick has eased into his second career as a securities analyst with Zamboni-induced smoothness.

"There's no one to tell me when I can go on the ice, when I can dress or that I'm being benched," Ogrodnick said. "I'm more in control in this position. I have no one telling me what to do."

He played 14 seasons (1979-93) in the National Hockey League, including nine with the Red Wings. He was a five-time all-star while scoring 402 goals and 827 points.

Ogrodnick will play with the Detroit Red Wings Alumni against the Canton fire and police unions in a benefit at 7 p.m. Friday, March 31, at the Plymouth Cultural Center Ice Arena.

Proceeds will go to help Canton resident Greg Unger, 14, who has cystic fibrosis and is scheduled to undergo double lung transplant surgery. Tickets are available at Canton Fire Station No. 1 at 128 Canton Center, (313) 981-1113; and Fire Station No. 2 at 41500 Warren, (313) 454-4655.

"No slap shots," said Ogrodnick, whose hallmark blasts from the top of the circle were the Wings' lone offensive weapon in the bleak early '80s.

Off ice, Ogrodnick began tinkering with stocks 12 years ago. Along the way, he made some money and lost some.

Before Black Friday in 1987, Ogrodnick had accumulated a substantial profit — up to 300 percent on some stocks. He didn't sell, though, and took a hit. Lesson one.

He delved into the market further when he was traded to the New York Rangers. When he returned to Detroit during the 1992-93 season, he roomed with Jimmy Carson, who is another market enthusiast.

After he retired, Ogrodnick plied his business acumen with the Fraser-based minor hockey league Detroit Falcons. His tenure lasted three weeks.

"I wasn't offered a lot of money," Ogrodnick said. "I was offered a percentage of the team with the idea I'd be trying to make the team profitable."

"I came to realize . . . the team's a long way from being profitable."

He's been at Kemper Associates for six months. His office is adorned with photos, recalling All-Star appearances and NHL career stops.

Ogrodnick lives in Green Valley Estates with his wife of 12 years, Bettyanne, and two children, KelseyAnne, 11, and Breanne, 5. KelseyAnne goes to Gill Elementary and Breanne goes to Montessori.

He's one of several of former NHLers to settle in the Farmington area, with others including Dennis Hextall and Phil Myre.

He attends Wings' games at Joe Louis Arena with clients. Name recognition helps, but it doesn't guarantee business.

"You have to know what you're talking about," Ogrodnick said. "You're dealing with people's money."

He has a handful of hockey players as clients. His game plan is simple: Go for small gains that will accumulate in the long run.

"I enjoy this," he said. "Hockey is fun and great when you are playing a lot. When you're towards the end of your career, and you're not playing much and sitting on the bench, it's not much fun."

Homemade vinaigrette among reader requests

Spring has finally sprung. I'm repainting the kitchen and getting my garden in order.

In between spring chores, I set aside time to listen to the messages you leave on my voice mail. Even though I might not return your call on the day you left a message, rest assured that I do my best to answer all of your requests as soon as possible.

Should you require a recipe, a written request with a self-addressed stamped envelope would be greatly appreciated.

■ Linda Brandt of Redford called with a problem. Her sugar turns into a hard block.

Well Linda, sugar will stay fresh and keep from "blocking" if you keep it in an airtight container. I keep mine in Tupperware and have never had a problem with hardening.

In her book "The Food Lover's Tiptionary" (Hearst Books, 1994) Sharon Tyler Herbst recommends the following to soften sugar.

Place it in an airtight container with a wedge of apple or two for 1-3 days to soften. If that doesn't work, place the block of sugar on a large pie plate in a 250 degree F oven for 5 minutes. The sugar should break into bits which can be chopped back into granules in a food processor or blender.

■ Don Sanders called and wanted to know the recommended ratio of vinegar to oil when making a classic vinaigrette. Both "The Joy of Cooking" and "The New York Times Cookbook" state that the best ratio is 3 parts oil to one part vinegar.

The secret, of course, is whisking in the oil in small amounts to create a basic emulsion which helps keep the vinaigrette from separating. Here's a great recipe.

BASIC VINAIGRETTE

2 tablespoons vinegar, preferably balsamic vinegar
2 teaspoons Dijon-style mustard
6 tablespoons olive oil
Salt and fresh ground pepper to taste
1 teaspoon minced garlic

Place the vinegar and the mustard in a bowl and stir with a wire whisk. Gradually add the oil, stirring rapidly with the whisk. Stir in salt, pepper and garlic. Makes 2 cups.

Recipe from: "The New York Times Cookbook" by Craig Claiborne (Harper & Row, 1990).

■ Deanna Gaffney of Livonia called and said that last summer she had an abundance of tomatoes and purchased a dehydrator to save them. Now she has an over-abundance of dehydrated tomatoes and wanted some suggestions on ways to use them.

Well Deanna, anytime a recipe calls for tomato sauce, stir in a handful of your dehydrated tomatoes for a richer, heartier taste. For optimum results, stir the dehydrated tomatoes into the sauce at least an hour before cooking. Try them when making spaghetti sauce, lasagna, tacos, sloppy joe and meatloaf. Here's a recipe for a great sauce you might enjoy.

SALSA DI POMODORO INVERNARE (CLASSIC WINTER TOMATO SAUCE)

3 tablespoons olive oil
1 medium onion, minced
1 small carrot, minced
1 small stalk celery, minced
3 tablespoons minced Italian parsley
1 large clove garlic, minced
3 tablespoons fresh chopped basil
1 tablespoon tomato paste
2 cups dehydrated tomatoes
2 cups tomato sauce
Pinch sugar
Salt and fresh ground black pepper to taste

Heat the oil in a heavy saucepan. Drop in the minced vegetables and parsley. Slowly saute, stirring often for 10-15 minutes or until golden brown.

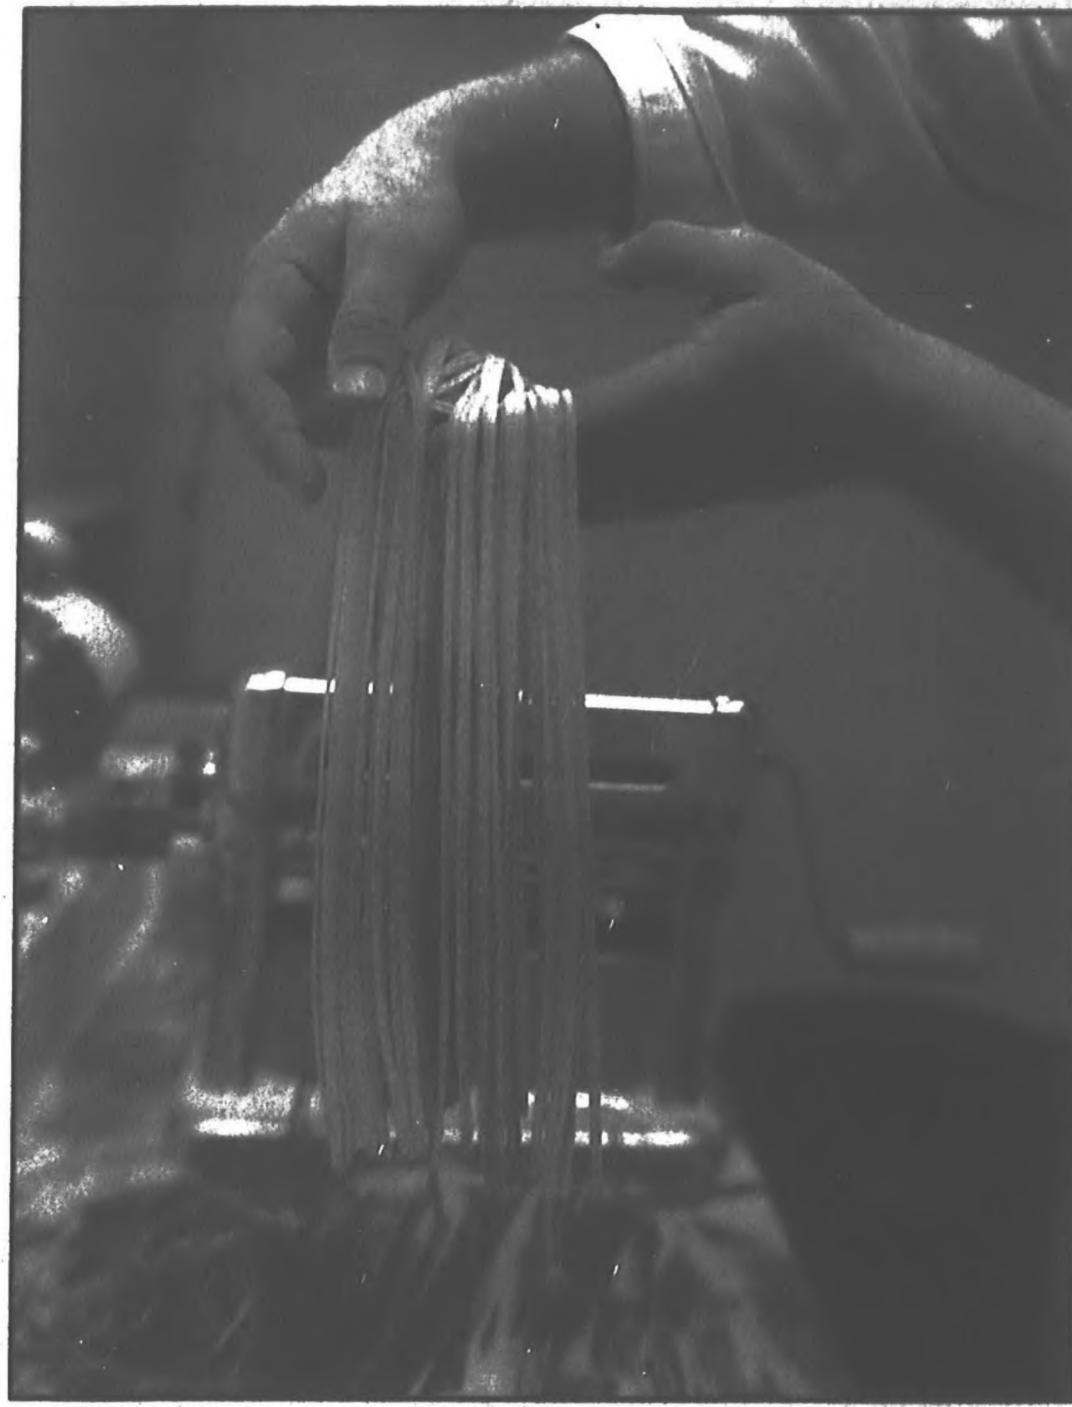

Add the garlic and the herbs and cook for 1 minute. Blend in the tomato paste, tomatoes and sauce. Bring to a lively bubble and keep it uncovered, stirring frequently for 10 minutes. Taste for seasoning and stir in sugar, salt and pepper as needed. Toss with fresh cooked pasta or use as a tomato base for lasagna. Makes about 5 cups of sauce.

Recipe from: "The Splendid Table by Lynne Rossetto Kasper" (Morrow, 1993).

Sansonetti makes pasta to order

Attention to detail, and pride in their work. This is what makes local pasta makers like Joe Sansonetti special. "I make everything to order," he said. "There's only me."

BY BRIAN LYBAGHT
STAFF WRITER

Joe Sansonetti produces some 600 pounds of pasta products a week in the kitchen of his burgeoning Birmingham business. He does this almost entirely by hand.

"I make everything to order. There's only me," said Sansonetti.

Sansonetti's Gourmet Food Products is a husband and wife operation. While Joe oversees the kitchen, Kathy Sansonetti handles marketing and product distribution. She sells everything he makes and then some.

Once, he worked 26 hours straight, then almost collapsed from exhaustion. Now, the couple is planning to hire other pasta makers.

The demand for their pasta is nearly exceeding their ability to supply it. Their products are popular in local restaurants, delicatessens and specialty food stores.

Sansonetti's product line includes lasagna, ravioli, gnocchi, pasta shells and tortelli. Long pastas come in 13 flavors, from spinach to whole wheat to lemon dill. Stuffed pastas are filled with meat or cheese. They even make, by special request, a rainbow pasta stuffed with seafood.

In addition, they produce a Jamaican "Jerk-Style" sauce, and are testing pesto-basil vinaigrette and golden Caesar salad dressings.

The ravioli and lasagna are sold in packets at specialty stores with sauces in boil-proof bags. A serving for two is $6-$7.

"We're targeting people who are active and don't have a lot of time to cook but like good food," Kathy Sansonetti said.

Their pasta products are served in several area restaurants, including Joe's Bar and Grill in Southfield, Too Chez in Novi, Maria's in West Bloomfield, and MacKinnon's in Northville.

You can buy them at Chimento's Italian Market in Livonia; Quarton, Fischer's, Shopping

Mama Mucci's Pasta Company expands

BY BRIAN LYBAGHT
STAFF WRITER

Mama Mucci's Pasta Company recently moved to a building in Canton three times the size of its former quarters in Plymouth.

Now, to make use of all that space, the company is expanding its line of specialty pasta and sauces that are available in local stores. Providing fresh, frozen and dry pastas to restaurants and commercial kitchens is Mama Mucci's main business.

The family-owned company, now in its seventh year, will offer a new line of imported and lower-priced dry pastas and frozen pastas. Mama Mucci's first new sauce will be a jarred tomato-basil sauce, which company president Frank Mucci hopes will be on shelves this spring.

"We're planning to bring out several different ones," said Mucci. "The first will be in May, and then we'll try to bring another out every four to six months. That will give us a lot of time to get it right, to do a lot of in-store and other promotions."

Frank's brother, Vince, is president of the 14-employee company. His mother, Margherita, is the company's namesake, inspiration and quality control.

"She comes in almost every day and keeps an eye on everything," Frank Mucci said.

In addition the Muccis have relatives in Italy that they sometimes dispatch to check out companies whose products Mama Mucci's is interested in importing. The family hails from the Molise region in east central Italy.

Currently about six percent of the company's business is retail, the rest is wholesale business with restaurants like Ernesto's in Plymouth, Unique Restaurant Corporation's Morrell's in Southfield, and Ann Arbor's Main Street Ventures restaurants like Gratz.

"This year we hope to bring it up to 20 to 25 percent."

Frank Mucci said.

Vincent Mucci said that while Mama Mucci's products can cost twice as much as industry giants Muellers or Prince's, But, he added that better ingredients Semolina wheat, eggs and water and better production techniques make Mama Mucci's better quality than the big producers.

"The look, the color, the taste, the texture — it's totally like night and day," Vincent Mucci said.

He added that while egg improves pasta flavor, it doesn't increase cholesterol. The big producers don't use eggs, he said.

In addition Mama Mucci uses a sheeting and rolling process for its pasta, which is superior to the extrusion method used by big producers, Vincent Mucci said.

Rick Desmet, head chef at Ernesto's in Plymouth, said his kitchen uses Mama Mucci's fetuccine, linguine and angel hair pasta, among others.

"The produce a product just like we used to make on our own," Desmet said, adding that the kitchen has become too busy to make its own pasta now.

Mama Mucci came out with three different cuts of fresh pastas Jan. 1. These include a rainbow pack of spinach, tomato and egg noodles. The new dry pastas included special red fettuccine, pappardelle, an extra wide noodle, bow tie noodles, linguine and angel hair.

In addition, the company recently got U.S. agriculture department approval to produce stuffed pastas. Mucci said the company is planning to offer some kind of meat ravioli, "maybe smoked pheasant."

Mama Mucci's products are available at Roedside Market in Plymouth; Vic's markets in Novi and Southfield; Busch's grocery stores in Ann Arbor; Merchant of Vino in Dearborn and Birmingham; Shopping Center Markets in Northville, Commerce Township and Oak Park; and Westborn Markets in Berkley and Dearborn.

Center Markets, Birmingham Community and Merchant of Vino markets in Birmingham; Market Basket in Franklin; Vic's Fruit Market in Beverly Hills; and Papa Joe's in Rochester.

The business began in the couple's Birmingham home in 1991, a year after they married in the Sansonetti's native village of Asunta, Italy.

"It took off, and we realized we had a good product," said Joe Sansonetti, a (1975) Seaholm High School, and Michigan State University graduate who once ran Pacifico's restaurants in Troy and downtown Detroit.

The couple handles all the details, down to label designs and renovation of the 2,000-square-foot building they lease. Kathy Sansonetti uses her experience as a wholesale wine marketer to sell pasta.

They use high-quality ingredients — olive oil, chicken breast and lean beef. They even hand-fill the bags containing sauce.

"We can't compete on price . . . so we say you can't match the quality. Nobody can beat us on quality," Joe Sansonetti said.

Handmade pasta, he said, "is less dense, it's plumper and fuller. You can actually get more filling into it."

Joe Sansonetti comes by his pasta-making prowess from his parents and grandparents. He said he grew up kneading spaghetti dough and carried homemade delicacies to school in his lunch box.

"You wake up in the morning (grandmother is) in the kitchen with the pots and the pans, and she's making you polenta (a cornmeal mush) for breakfast."

He said he still queries his grandmother about recipes but makes his sauces spicier than hers, to satisfy American tastes.

His grandfather, Pacifico Sansonetti, made his own sausage, cheese, wine. "He'd sit down and eat a jar of pickled pigs feet and drink a gallon of wine and go out in the garden with his tomatoes," Joe Sansonetti said.

Sansonetti's "Neon Palm" Jamaican "Jerk Style" sauce, a fairly fiery mixture of orange, curry, peppers and ginger got the approval of Marty Rafal, who runs Rafal Spice on Russell Street in Detroit's Eastern Market.

"It's one food product he had nothing bad to say about," said Marty's son, Donald Rafal. "Usually it's too vinegary or too salty or too this or too that."

"Neon Palm" sells moderately well at Rafal Spice, he added.

The Sansonettis don't want to sacrifice quality by getting too big, but Joe's hands are working to the limit. They currently sell to about 13 restaurants. In addition, five Birmingham-area Kroger stores are selling Sansonetti's chicken ravioli salad and lasagnas in the "Premier" deli.

They plan to add several more pasta makers this year to keep up with demand. But, Joe Sansonetti said, there's not much room for improvement in the recipe, which remains remarkably vital despite its age.

"It's like the oldest recipe known to man. It's 4,000 years old."

Cookbook features pastas

Giuliano Hazan knew a good thing when he saw it. At the age of 10, he began cooking at home with his mother, Marcella, one of the greatest cooking teachers in the world. Hazan shares his favorite recipes gathered from his travels through Italy and his mother's kitchen in "The Classic Pasta Cookbook," (Dorling Kindersley, Inc., $24.95/hardcover).

Illustrated with mouth-watering color photographs, "The Classic Pasta Cookbook" contains more than 100 recipes and descriptions of the range of pasta types and shapes, whether dried, store-bought, or freshly made.

Here are some recipes from the cookbook.

FETTUCCINI PRIMAVERA

1 pound dried, store-bought pasta
4 ounces asparagus
4 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup finely chopped yellow onion
1/4 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup finely diced carrots
1/2 cup finely diced zucchini
1/4 cup finely diced red bell pepper
Salt and fresh ground black pepper to taste
1 cup heavy cream
1/4 cup freshly grated Parmigiano-reggiano cheese
2 tablespoons finely chopped flat-leaf parsley

Trim and peel the lower green portions of the asparagus. Cook whole in salted boiling water in a skilled until tender. Cut into 1/4-inch lengths.

Melt the butter in a large skillet over a medium-high heat. Add the onion and saute to a rich golden color. Add the celery and carrot and saute for another 5 minutes.

Add the zucchini and red bell pepper to the skillet and continue to saute over a medium-high heat until all the vegetables are tender and lightly colored (approximately 10-20 minutes, depending on the size of the skillet). Add salt and black pepper to taste.

Add the asparagus to the skillet and saute for about 1 minute. Add the cream and cook, stirring occasionally, until the cream has reduced by half, then remove the heat and set aside.

While the cream is cooking, bring 4 quarts of water to a boil in a large saucepan or pot. Add 1 tablespoon of salt and the pasta to the boiling water in the saucepan, stirring.

When the pasta is cooked al dente, return the skillet with the sauce to a medium heat, drain the pasta and toss it with the sauce, adding the grated cheese and parsley. Serve at once.

PASTA E FAGIOLI ASCIUTTA

1 pound cavatappi, radiatori, lumache, or conchiglie pasta
3 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil, plus additional for serving
2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons finely chopped yellow onion
3 tablespoons finely diced carrots
3 tablespoons finely diced celery
4 ounces prosciutto, finely diced
1 1/2 cups canned whole peeled tomatoes, with their juice, coarsely chopped

Salt and freshly ground black pepper
1 cup canned cranberry beans or white beans, drained
2 tablespoons finely chopped flat-leaf parsley
1/2 cup freshly grated Parmigiano-reggiano cheese

Put the olive oil, butter, and onion in a saucepan over a medium heat and saute until the onion softens and turns a rich golden color.

Stir in the carrot and celery and cook until they begin to brown lightly. Add the prosciutto and cook for about 2 minutes until it loses its raw color.

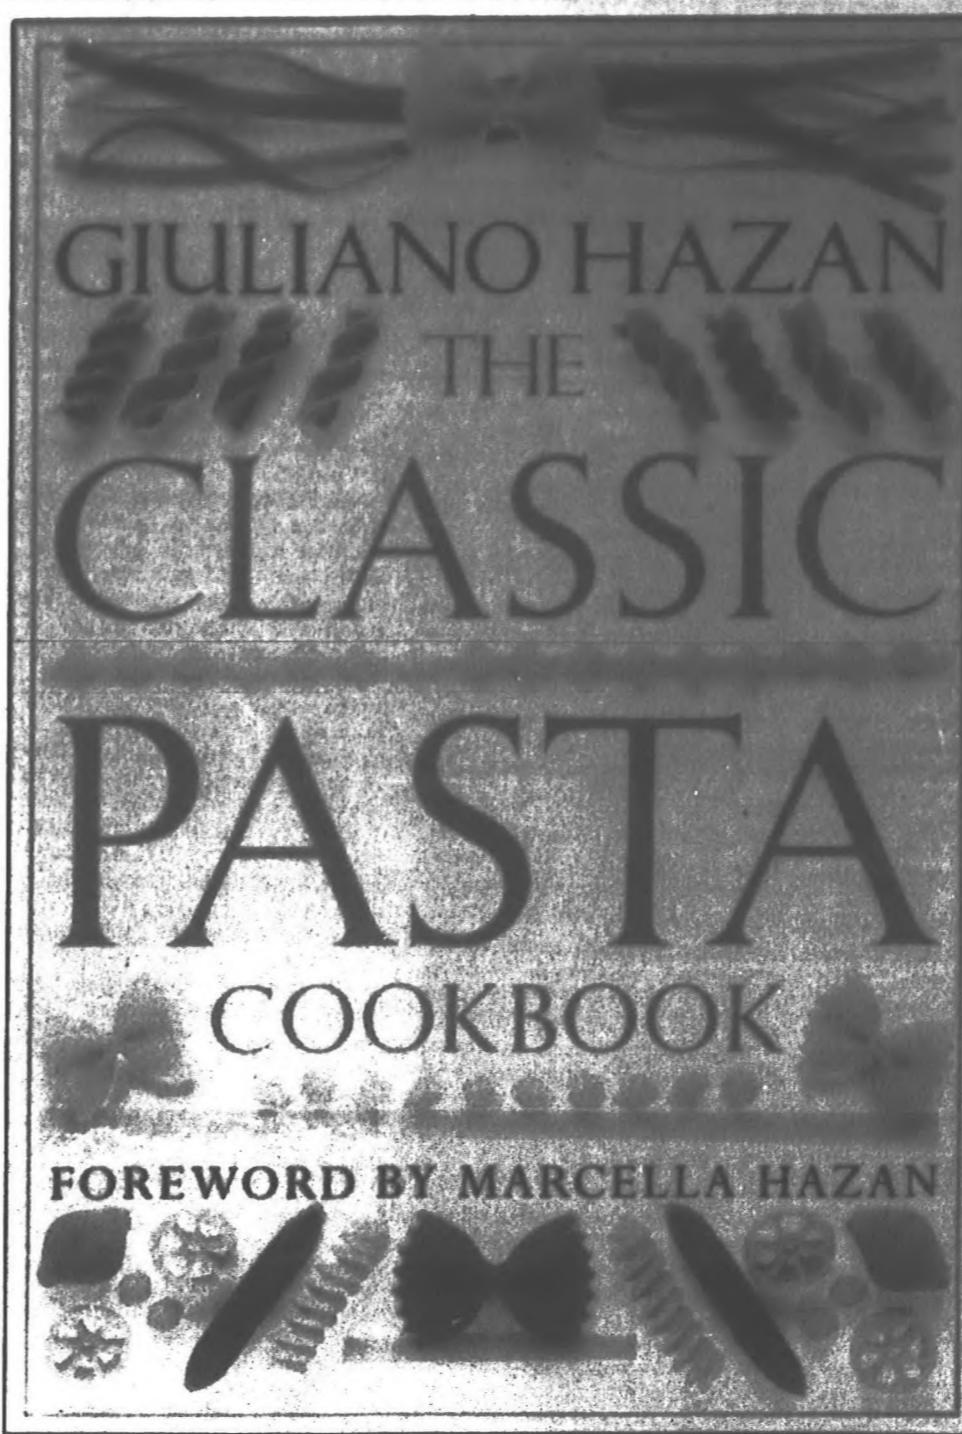

Add the tomatoes, season with salt and black pepper, and cook until they have reduced and separated from the oil: about 15-20 minutes. Pour 4 quarts of water into a large saucepan or pot and place over high heat.

Add the beans with 1/2 cup of water to the sauce and cook for 5 minutes. Take half of the beans out, process them through a food mill or mash them with a fork, and return to the pan.

When the water for the pasta is boiling, add 1 tablespoon of salt and drop in the pasta all at once, stirring well.

Add the parsley to the sauce and cook for 2-3 more minutes. The sauce should be liquid enough to pour out of a spoon but thick enough to coat it. If necessary add a little more water, or cook a little longer if it is too runny.

When pasta is cooked al dente, drain it and toss it with the sauce and the grated cheese. Grind fresh pepper and drizzle a tiny amount of high quality extra-virgin oil over each serving.

Pasta cookbooks: Giuliano Hazan ex-plains, step-by-step how to make classic pasta dishes in "The Classic Pasta Cookbook."

Make better pasta

Pasta is a key ingredient for many flavorful meals and an ideal food for today's busy lifestyles. While pasta alone is nutritious, the "pastabilities" to enhance this traditional favorite are endless.

By combining pasta with vegetables, seafood, legumes and low-fat cheeses, you can increase the nutritive value without adding excess fat, cholesterol and calories.

Here are some suggestions from the makers of Healthy Choice.

■ Choose whole wheat pasta, which is packed with almost four times as much fiber.

■ Toss any pasta with deep yellow or orange vegetables (carrots, acorn squash, sweet potatoes) to reap the benefits of beta carotene, which is an anti-oxidant vitamin.

■ Serve grilled vegetables over a bed of pasta. Basting vegetables with lemon or lime juice while grilling them will add a flavorful tang.

■ Mix pasta with legumes (orzo, kidney beans and tomato-based sauce) for more fiber, complex carbohydrates and protein. Together, legumes and pasta are a complete protein. Beans are also low in fat and cholesterol-free.

■ Combine low-fat meats — such as 85-percent lean ground beef or skinless, roasted chicken breast — with pasta for added protein.

■ Toss pasta with fat-free cheese for added calcium and protein. Mozzarella cheese's mild, delicate flavor is perfect for pasta dishes such as lasagna and stuffed shells.

Generations find success

BY BRIAN LYBAGHT
STAFF WRITER

Three generations of family are helping stoke the success of Houlihan's Culinary Traditions, a pasta maker in Auburn Hills.

Company namesake Elena Houlihan of Bloomfield Hills has several daughters, a son and a daughter-in-law working in the Auburn Hills based business. Granddaughter Peyton Moose, age two months, and grandson Joseph Collins can often be found at the office, near their parents.

The company, meanwhile, is shipping its 46 varieties of Elena's pasta products across the country.

"We have everything from little mom-and-pop stores that might order three cases at a time to large stores that order 130 cases," said Elena Collins Moose, 26. Elena's daughter and a company vice-president. Her sister, Jill Collins, 30, brother John Collins, 24, and sister-in-law Celyn Collins, 27, all are involved in the business.

Another sister, Kathie Collins, 30, a computer expert who works elsewhere but occasionally helps with Elena's computers. A fourth sister, Tricia, 31, handles the company's mail-order operations from Pittsburgh.

■ We have everything from little mom-and-pop stores that might order three cases at a time to large stores that order 130 cases."

Caroline Moose
vice president, Houlihan's Culinary Traditions

The retail outlets include Macy's and Bloomingdales. Closer to home Elena's products can be found at Jacobson's and Merchant of Vino stores; Long Lake Market in Bloomfield Hills; Quarton Market in Birmingham; Pappa Joe's in Rochester, and Market Square in Birmingham.

They sell angel hair, fedeline (a thin flat pasta), linguini, fettuccine (a wide noodle similar to fettuccine) and pappardelle (a ribbon-like pasta).

They come in a variety of flavors, including clam, egg, garlic and parsley, lemon pepper and tomato and basil.

Among the more exotic flavors are morel mushroom fettuccine, squid ink fettuccine or linguini, and green olive and pimento fedeline.

"The colors are so vibrant in all the pastas and when you cook them the colors stay that way," said Moose.

Nearly two years ago, Elena's came out with pasta piatto — a complete dinner in a bag. It includes pasta and spice packs for sauce and salad that can be mixed with a few ingredients at home to make sauce and dressing.

For example, a spice pack might be combined with a sauteed onion and can of tomatoes for a red sauce; or cream, butter and Parmesan cheese added to spices for a white sauce.

Elena's pasta sauces offer plenty of variety as well. Sauces with an olive oil base include: basil and red hot pepper, garlic and basil, garlic and dill, and garlic and rosemary.

The tomato-based sauces include: tomatoes with sweet peas, marinara and tomatoes with lotsa garlic.

Beef pot pie makes easy dinner

After a long day, remember when the whole family got together on Sunday night for supper? It was fun, a chance to talk and enjoy spending time together.

For a simple Sunday night stew or dinner, serve make-it-easy beef pot pie. Pieces of lean, tender beef steak are stir-fried, then topped with jared beef gravy, sauteed mushrooms and frozen peas and carrots. Top with refrigerated buttermilk biscuits and bake. You get old-fashioned flavor in this contemporary dish that's on the table in just 30 minutes.

MAKE IT EASY BEEF POT PIE

1 pound boneless beef top sirloin steak, cut  $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch thick
1 tablespoon vegetable oil

8 ounces small mushrooms, quartered

1 medium onion, sliced
1 clove garlic, crushed
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup water
12-ounce jar beef gravy
10-ounce package frozen peas and carrots
 $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon dried thyme leaves
4-ounce can refrigerated buttermilk-flavor biscuits

Heat oven to 400 degrees F. Trim fat from steak. Cut steak lengthwise in half and then crosswise into  $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch thick strips. In large ovenproof skillet, heat oil over medium-high heat until hot. Add beef (one-half at a time) and stir-fry 1 to 2 minutes or until outside surface is no longer pink. (Do not overcook.) Remove from skillet with slotted spoon.

In same skillet, add mushrooms, onion, garlic and water. Cook and stir 3 minutes or until onion is tender. Stir in gravy, vegetables and thyme. Bring to a boil; remove from heat. Return beef to skillet. Cut biscuits in half; arrange in a ring on top of beef mixture.

Bake in a 400-degree F oven 12 to 14 minutes or until biscuit topping is golden brown. Makes 6 servings.

Note: If skillet is not ovenproof, transfer beef mixture to 9-inch square baking pan. Top with biscuits and bake as recipe directs.

Chef Larry passes along reader-requested information

A crumb topped cake bursting with berries captured the $5,000 Grand Prize in the second annual Kretschmer Wheat Germ "Healthy Eating Made Easy Delicious Recipe Contest."

Contestant Joseph Cadena, a tax accountant and hobbyist baker from San Francisco, learned about wheat germ from a group of coworkers who like its nutty crunch and the easy nutrition boost it adds to a variety of foods. Although he had never baked with wheat germ, Cadena had heard about the contest and thought wheat germ could be used in place of some of the flour in cookies and cakes to make them more healthful.

"I also happened to have a blueberry cake in my repertoire I felt was a good candidate for a makeover," he added.

Cadena started by substituting one-half cup of wheat germ for one-half cup of flour in the cake and adding it to the crumb topping. He then switched to a reduced-fat vegetable oil spread and used less of it, substituted egg whites for the whole egg, and reduced the sugar. To add moisture as well as additional moisture, he puréed canned pears in the food processor.

When asked what they liked best about Cadena's Blueberry-Pear Crumb Cake, the judges had no trouble coming up with an answer. "It's delicious and has a moist and tender texture," they unanimously agreed. What did they think made the difference? The reduced-fat vegetable oil spread used in combination with the puréed fruit.

"When made without any fat, cakes like this tend to be either dry or gummy," noted one judge.

To receive a booklet filled with other healthfully delicious recipes and tips for baking and cooking with wheat germ, send your name and complete address to: "Healthy Recipes, Easy & Delicious," 332 S. Michigan Ave., Suite 900, Dept. N, Chicago, IL 60604 Offer good while supplies last. Please allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery.

BLUEBERRY-PEAR CRUMB CAKE

Topping:

- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons wheat germ, any flavor
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt (optional)

2 tablespoons 70 percent vegetable oil spread, cut into small pieces

Cake:

- One (16 ounce can) sliced pears in lightly sweetened juice, drained or substitute 1 cup strained pears for berries
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup (5 1/2 tablespoons) 70 percent vegetable oil spread, softened
- 2 egg whites or 1 egg
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup wheat germ, any flavor
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt (optional)

1 1/2 cups fresh or frozen blueberries, partially thawed, drained

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Spray 9-inch springform pan or 9 by 9-inch baking pan with no-stick cooking spray or lightly grease. For topping, in small bowl, combine dry ingredients. Cut in vegetable oil spread until mixture is crumbly; set aside.

For cake, place drained pears in blender container or food processor; cover and blend until smooth. In large mixing bowl with electric mixer, beat together sugar and vegetable oil spread until creamy. Add egg whites and lemon peel; beat at medium speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Beat in pears.

Add combined dry ingredients in two portions, mixing gently by hand, just until blended. (Do not overmix.) Add 1 cup blueberries; mix gently. Pour batter into prepared pan. Sprinkle with remaining 1/4 cup blueberries and topping. Bake 50 to 55 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Transfer to wire cooling rack and cool 10 minutes. If using springform pan, loosen sides of cake with thin blade knife and remove sides of pan. Serve warm or at room temperature.

Note: Recipe has been tested with a 70 percent vegetable oil spread in stick form. Spreads in tub form and spreads that are lower in fat, even those in stick form, may not produce the same results.

A caller, who didn't leave his name requested a recipe for Colcannon, a traditional Irish dish. Here's a recipe I know you'll enjoy!

COLCANNON

- 2 pounds white potatoes
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups finely sliced cabbage
- 3 tablespoons minced onions
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 teaspoon fresh ground white pepper

1-2 tablespoons milk

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Peel the potatoes and cut them into quarters. Place them in a saucepan with 1 inch of boiling water containing 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cover and cook for 15-20 minutes or until the potatoes are tender. Drain and mash.

Meanwhile, cook the cabbage until tender in 1 inch of boiling water containing 1/2 teaspoon salt. Drain. Sauté the onions in half the butter. Combine the onions with the mashed potatoes, drained cabbage, pepper and milk. Beat until smooth. Turn the mixture into a shallow baking dish, dot with remaining butter and place in the preheated oven. Heat for 15 minutes before serving. Serves 6.

Is it me or is vegetarian cooking becoming more and more popular? Within the last month, I've received five new cookbooks all with vegetarian themes! The best by far are "High Flavor Low Fat Vegetarian Cooking" by Steven Raichlen (Viking Press, 1986) and "The Bold Vegetarian" by Bharti Kirchner (Harper Perennial, 1986). Here's a recipe from Raichlen's book that is spectacular!

FAVA BEAN GRATIN

- 4 cups cooked fava beans or small lima beans (with 1/2 cup cooking liquid, canned liquid from beans) or vegetable broth)
  - 2 to 3 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
  - 1 large onion, finely chopped
  - 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
- Recipe source: "High Flavor Low Fat Vegetarian Cooking" by Steven Raichlen (Viking Press, 1986)

2 carrots, finely diced

- 2 stalks celery, finely diced
- Salt and fresh ground black pepper to taste
- 1/2 cup chopped flat leaf parsley
- 2 cups diced bread cubes, toasted in the oven till crisp
- 1/2 cup fresh bread crumbs
- spray oil (e.g. Pam)

Drain the beans, reserving their liquid. Coarsely puree the beans in a food processor or blender or mash with a mortar and pestle. Heat 1 1/4 tablespoons olive oil in a non-stick fry pan.

Add the onion, garlic, carrot, celery, salt and pepper and cook over medium heat until just beginning to brown, about 5 minutes. Stir in the parsley, the pureed beans and enough bean liquid or vegetable broth to obtain a light, fluffy puree.

Stir in the diced bread. Season with salt and pepper to taste. The mixture should be well seasoned. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees F. Spoon the fava bean mixture into an 8 by 12 baking pan or gratin dish lightly greased with cooking spray oil. Combine the bread crumbs with the remaining olive oil and stir to mix. Spread the crumb mixture atop the gratin. Bake the gratin for 15-20 minutes or until the top is crusty and brown. Serves 8 as an appetizer for dipping or a light side dish.

Mexican cooking is muy bueno — but it doesn't always speak the same language as nutritionists.

Many favorite Mexican dishes that are rich in taste are also prime sources of fat and calories. There is good news, though, for taste buds left unsatisfied on this side of the border. The range of Mexican entrees familiar to American diners is just a small portion of Mexican cuisine.

Mexican food encompasses a variety of taste and cooking styles, many of which are low in fat and calories.

Traditionally, Mexican cooks rely on chilies and other native spices to flavor their meals. Used in conjunction with lean meats and without the addition of heavy sauces or caloric condiments, spices open the door to exciting, low-fat recipes such as beef fajitas and Mexican-style steak.

These and similar dishes are authentic-tasting, nutritious and packed with vitamins and protein.

The Whole Enchilada is a past winner of the National Beef Cook-Off. Spicy and attractive, the dish is perfect for easy entertaining.

When cooking this or any other Mexican dishes, try the following techniques to create lighter versions of great-tasting meals:

- Use corn tortillas instead of flour;
- Opt for fat-reduced cheeses;
- When possible, bake instead of deep-frying;
- Use low- or no-fat cooking methods for steak, such as grilling or broiling.

THE WHOLE ENCHILADA

- 2 1/2 pounds boneless beef chuck cross rib pot roast, cut into 8 pieces
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 4 ounces chopped green chiles
- 2 jalapeno peppers, seeded and finely chopped. (For a spicier beef mixture, do not remove the seeds from jalapeno peppers.)
- 1 clove garlic, minced

used exclusively for the famous vinegar based Tabasco sauce.

Habanero or Scotch bonnet are the world's hottest peppers. These are green and turn orange as they ripen. They are available fresh or dried. They should be used sparingly.

Hungarian wax pepper are the hot version of the sweet banana peppers so make sure you get the right one for you. These peppers start out yellow and ripen to orange or red, never green. They have a thin skin so do not require peeling.

Poblano marketed as Ancho or Pasilla should be roasted and peeled to enhance tenderness and taste. It has a thick flesh so it makes it ideal for stuffing.

There are also other hot peppers called Ancho, Cherry, Serrano, Cascabel and Pepperoncini. Dried pepper is available year round. Peppers are mostly grown in California, New Mexico, and Texas with some being imported from Mexico.

Soaking hot peppers in cold salted water for about an hour will mellow them slightly. If you are preparing a dish with hot peppers but you don't want anyone to burn their mouth, put the pepper on a toothpick and remove after the dish is done.

Tabasco pepper is bright orange to red in color and is hot, since they are so hot, they are

SHOPPING CENTERED

LINDA BACHRACK

It's almost time for beaching it!

Time to stuff that roomy beach bag with all of the essentials for a spring break vacation in the sun. I recently presented my beach bag finds to a gathering of the Newcomers Club of Rochester. My models for the evening were Seaholm High School students Erin Kenyon, Sloane DeWeese, Kim Somerville and Mary-Brennan Bachrack.

My giant straw bag from Hudson's features a white sunflower and raffia bow ($68). I packed it with every sun and sand necessity from insulated mugs to toys for the kids. Here's a checklist. Let's start with appropriate beachwear.

Sloane and Erin wear swimsuits and cover-ups from Roslyn's Intimate Apparel, 29831 Northwestern Hwy. in Southfield. Sloane's black-and-beige stripe suit by Gottex ($109) is topped with a black open-weave dress ($48). Erin wears Gideon Oberon's tropical print suit with a shirred chiffon bodice ($123) and a white cotton dropped-waist dress ($25). Both models protect their feet from the burning sand with Jag's lycra-strapped thong and sandal ($29).

Erin wears a matching visor ($12) at Roslyn's. Sloane's fun in the sun includes a game of Kooze Paddleball ($24) at F.A.O. Schwarz in the Somerset Collection in Troy, and when it's time to just lay back and catch some rays, she dons her waterproof Sony Sports Walkman ($64.95) at Hudson's. Erin quenches her thirst with a sport bottle equipped with a handy straw and a built-in freeze compartment ($4.99) at Hudson's Marketplace. Her shades are sure to turn heads. They're by Paul Smith at Au Courant in the Somerset Collection ($202).

Kim and Mary-Brennan (not pictured) greet the sun in classic navy and white. Kim's chic beach ensemble includes a nautical suit by Gottex trimmed in white braid ($90), with a matching wrap tennis skirt from Neiman Marcus ($98); navy and white striped rubber thong ($14) and bright white Jackie O sunglasses ($42) from J. Crew at Somerset; and a whimsical cotton "lips and cherries" scarf ($30) from Jacobson's. To cover up, Charlotte's, Rochester recommends hand-painted cotton separates by Alegre' ($32-$56). The tropical fish print is perfect on Kim's sailor-look swimsuit.

Adrienne Vittadini in the Somerset Collection outfitted Mary-Brennan in a navy-and-white daisy print sundress ($122) and navy sneakers. She adds some fun with a rubber ankle bracelet by Cleverwear from The Print Gallery, 29203 Northwestern Hwy. in Southfield ($19).

Skin deep

Skin care is always a concern at the beach. I looked to Lori Karbal in Birmingham for some sun products. She filled a pink terry cloth pouch with must-haves from Kiehl's including Tan-Smart, Not-Fast ($17.50), Ultra Facial Moisturizer SPF 13 ($27), a Vitamin E moisturizing eye stick SPF 18 ($15.50) and Creme With Silk Groom to condition sun-dried hair ($15.50). Lori also recommends Abre Moisture Therapy Bath and Doctor Hoy's magical skin lotion with aloe vera for sensitive skin soother.

Don't forget a good book, a rubber page mark ($3.99) and some writing paper ($13.99) from Penn & Paige in Rochester. And for the kids a Museum of Modern Art Fun Pack ($10.95) and some Zolo fun shapes for creative sand castles ($30.95) at The Print Gallery.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Malls and Mainstreets next week:

■ Linda Bachrack goes shopping for baby shower

■ Added Attractions lists the special events at your favorite shopping centers.

■ Retail Details keeps you posted on what's hot in the marketplace.

Serving shoppers swiftly

A monthly feature of the Malls & Mainstreets section is More Than You Bargained For, where shoppers nominate excellent sales people they've encountered at the Malls and Mainstreet shops. This month, Irene Nosalowski of Livonia relates her shopping experience with Rose Marie Calus of Hudson's.

A few months ago I went to the Electronics Department at Westland Mall to buy a Christmas gift for my husband. Salesperson Rose Marie Calus assisted me immediately.

The questions I asked her about the Bose Lifestyle System I wanted to buy were promptly answered. I made a comment about the size of the box fitting into my trunk and so Rose Marie took me to the storage area so I could see the size of the box for myself and determine whether or not I could fit it into my car or make delivery arrangements.

I decided it would fit and then asked how soon it would be in pack-

Never keep the customer waiting: Rose Marie Calus sold and delivered an item to a customer before the shopper even had to ask for her help.

We're seeking super salespersons

We're shopping for shopping stories about extra special sales people. If you've had a recent shopping experience where a sales associate went above and beyond the call of duty to provide customer service, Malls & Mainstreets wants to hear about it!

Drop us a few lines describing the shopping situation and don't forget to name the store and shopping center or main street involved. Those accounts published on the Malls & Mainstreets pages each month will win an Observer & Eccentric shopping tote for the sales associate and the shopper!

As an added bonus, those nominated have told us they've been featured in their company newsletters and received gift certificates or merchandise for the notoriety. It's a nice way to say thank you to a business person who goes that extra mile to assist and make life easier.

Send your story to: More Than You Bargained For, c/o Malls & Mainstreets, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 806 E. Maple, Birmingham, 48009. Be sure to include your name, address, and daytime phone number.

range from $40 for simple earrings to $900 for the most ornate necklace.

Leitson's meteoric rise from hobbyist to prominent designer is a lesson in perseverance.

"This passion of mine began when I was a pre-teen and my mom gave me an antique opal ring, my first fine piece of jewelry," she recalled. It was then that she began to acquire the elegance and exquisite taste of her artist mother, and an appreciation for all things beautiful.

"My pieces are art by design," she said, again crediting her mother's artistic tutelage.

With a triple major in art history, communications, and anthropology at the University of Michigan in Dearborn, Leitson first fancied herself an actor, landing roles in local and national productions. She moved to the east coast to work for a casting agency, then settled in New York, working as a regional representative for Dick Clark.

"I gathered prizes for game shows and American Bandstand," she recalled. "But you can never escape the heartbeat of New York City." Consequently, she felt it was time to come home to the relative quiet of Michigan.

Soon after, Leitson met and married her husband, Marc, and had her first child, Jordan. When she became pregnant with her second baby, she yearned for a creative outlet.

"I signed up for jewelry-by-mail classes through the Gemological Institute of America," she said. She made some nice pieces, had a few successful home shows and decided to peddle some of her creations.

"I yearned for my own business," she explained. "I knew I didn't want to work for someone else."

Instead of starting slowly, Leitson's entrepreneurial spirit took hold, and she decided to approach a major department store, namely Saks.

"No" and "Impossible" are not in my vocabulary," she smiled. "I called the manager and asked to show my samples." When rejected, Leitson custom designed an entire line to suit the manager's needs. In January 1994, she presented the new line and sold every piece.

Just seven months later, Leitson contacted Saks' head jewelry buyer in New York, sent photos, and kept calling until she got an appointment. Her assertiveness paid off when the buyer gave her access to all 42 Saks Fifth Avenue stores nationwide.

Though she's had to temporarily put the brakes on her business due to a bout with debilitating Lyme disease, Leitson is looking forward to rapidly expanding her company. Jewelry cases in Bendel's and Harrod's top her wish list.

"The sky's the limit," Leitson crowed.

Meanwhile, her Joie de Vivre collection dazzles at Saks Fifth Avenue.

Talking Pond: Just Toys has premiered a line of products inspired by Disney's "Lion King." With the press of a button, characters from the movie appear to give Simba advice in The Talking Pond. Suggested retail price, $19.99. Other items include the Simba Bank, Wind-Ems walking figures, finger puppet sets, and Sip 'n Sound straws. Available at Toys R Us, Walmart, and Kmart stores.

age pick-up? Rose Marie said she thought about a half-hour. I said this electronic purchase was the only reason I was at the mall. I had no other shopping to do. So I wouldn't have to wait another minute. Rose Marie agreed to walk it down to package pick-up personally for me! Unbelievable! I can't recall the last time I had such service.

She treated me like an extra special customer and showed me such consideration. I called the store the next day to report her outstanding customer service and I think she went above and beyond the call of duty. When I read about this feature in Malls & Mainstreets I had to tell you about her too. She gets my vote."

■ THE ART OF FASHION

Almost 300 women attended Neiman Marcus' spring fashion show at the Somerset Collection store in Troy on March 9. The sets, models and music came direct from Chicago to dazzle metro Detroiters. If you missed the main event, you can still see the fashions presented in the March issue of Harper's BAZAAR. A special NM supplement was photographed by Annie Liebovitz.

■ FASHION BENEFIT

Jacobson's in Birmingham showed their Best of Spring to benefit the Juvenile Diabetes Association on March 13. Close to 200 men and women sampled tastes from local restaurants and enjoyed a runway show in the designer department. The crowd burst into applause twice during the show, once for the red, white and blue collections and again for the ivory and creams of evening. Promotions director Pam Rock created the show.

■ JAEGER GOES LONDON

Jaeger International with a shop in the Somerset Collection in Troy, debuts Jaeger London this week. The JL line combines the company's signature quality tailoring and fabrics with more modern, fashion forward styling. The spring collection's 50 pieces features fitted jackets, cigarette pants, flippy skirts, Jackie O shirts, and halter tops in wools, knits, pinstripes, fine twills, suedes, linen, crepe viscose and silks.

■ TARGET REPLACES KOHL'S

Kohl's is closing two metro Detroit stores at Northland Mall, Southfield, and Eastland Mall. Harper Woods, but Target's has announced it will take over these two locations. The existing Kohl's stores will be razed to make room for new 116,000 square foot Target stores which plan to open in mid-1996. Target's is a division of the Dayton Hudson Corporation. Kohl's opened at Northland seven years ago.

■ NEW FABRIC COLLECTION

Calico Corners has The American Museum of Natural History Collection in five decorative prints in cotton, woven plaid, damask and tapestries. The designs include flora and fauna, botanical elements and butterflies.

LEARN TO READ THE BIBLE EFFECTIVELY AN EXCITING 6 WEEK SEMINAR

The Quality Inn

40455 E. Ann Arbor Road

FREE!

Plymouth (W. of 275)

Across from Don Massey Cadillac

April 4 - May 9

Attend this seminar and learn to read the Bible effectively!
If you find reading the Bible difficult or frustrating at times, then this seminar is for you. Six concise and informative sessions are delivered in a friendly, comfortable environment. They are aimed at equipping you with the skills and determination to understand scriptural doctrines for yourself and benefit from a new appreciation of the Bible. Whether you are familiar with the Bible or not, you will walk away with loads of information and new energy to begin reading more effectively.

Here's what you will learn...

- Who wrote the Bible - where did it come from?
- How to use cross references and a center margin.
- How to learn more in less time with effective study tools.
- How to get past the sometimes difficult language used in the Bible.
- An overview of each book of the Bible in a concise easy-to-understand manner.
- History and chronology (the order of events) in the Bible.
- How to read carefully (e.g. Adam and Eve didn't eat an apple).
- Prove for yourself the Bible is not a work of fiction.
- How science is reconciled with the scriptures.
- Why quoting a single scripture is dangerous (how to keep passages in context).
- Who are the Jews? Why are they so important in the Bible?
- Why parts of the Bible are so difficult to understand and how they can be simplified.
- How did so many interpretations of the Bible develop?
- When and how to understand the book of Revelation.
- Why does God allow so much suffering and wickedness?
- What are the differences between Bible versions?
- Why is there an Old Testament and New Testament?
- How to use a concordance and a lexicon.

Q's & A's

Q. What if everyone there knows more than I do?

A. The classes are paced in such a way to make everyone feel comfortable. No one is ever put "on the spot."

Q. Why are you doing this?

A. The Bible is scarcely read in our fast-paced society. Our faith and belief in God propels us to expound His message and Truth. We believe the Bible and what it teaches is right and good in directing our lives and families.

Q. Who is paying for these seminars?

A. All expenses are being absorbed by the Christadelphians in the area. No financial expectations will be expressed to you now, or in the future.

Q. Will I be asked to be "saved" or "join" the Christadelphians at the end of the seminars?

A. No! Our hope is that the classes will encourage you to draw your own conclusions about God and His plan. Our goal is to equip you with the necessary tools to make your own decisions about what you have learned.

Q. Who are the Christadelphians?

A. The name implies "Brethren in Christ." Christadelphians are found in countries all over the world and are bound together by a common faith in God's plan of salvation as revealed throughout the Bible. We do not believe that any of our members have received any special revelations direct from God and our faith rests squarely and solely on the Bible as the inspired word of God.

PLYMOUTH SPORTS SCENE

Regional qualifiers

Five members of the Michigan Academy of Gymnastics, located in Westland, used solid performances at the USA state meet March 18 in East Lansing to qualify for the USA regional meet April 23 at Ohio State University in Columbus.

To advance, gymnasts had to score better than 32.00 in the all-around. Ryan Cunningham led the MAG contingent with a 35.4 all-around; Bob Hoernschmeyer had a 34.2, Jason Pryce had a 32.8, J.A. Schwartzberger scored 32.3 and Chris Filebark finished with a 32.06.

All competed in Class 5 of the 10-11 boys age division.

Cunningham's all-around score netted him a seventh-place finish. Cunningham was second in both the vault (6.3) and uneven parallel bars (6.1), and took a fifth in floor exercise (6.2).

Hoernschmeyer was fifth in side horse (6.6), sixth in bars (5.7) and ninth in rings (6.1).

Joel Nagel took a 10th in side horse (6.5).

Division soccer champs

The Plymouth Green Giants under-nine boys soccer team claimed their division crown in the second season at the Canton Soccerdome. The Green Giants recorded an 8-0 record, outscoring their opponents 39-12.

Recreation news

A men's golf league for Canton residents is now forming.

The 20-week league will be on Wednesdays, starting April 26, at Fellow's Creek Golf Course. Registration cost for the first half of league play is $165; the second half registration fee is due three weeks after play starts.

Fellow's Creek is a 27-hole golf course, with pro shop and restaurant, on Michigan Avenue just east of I-275.

Registration ends April 21. For more information, call 397-5110.

Alumni runners wanted

If you have run in any of the 24 previous Observerland Track Invitational, Redford Union athletic director Jim Gibbons wants to catch up with you.

The 25th Observerland Invitational for boys will be Saturday, May 6, at RU's Howard Kraft Field, and Gibbons wants to commemorate the day with an alumni run/walk. The distance is still to be decided, but Gibbons on Friday talked about having an event of 1,600 meters.

Gibbons wanted everyone to know well ahead of time in order to get in shape. In the mean time, he'll work on finding an oxygen tank for the finish line.

"It would be open to anyone who ever participated," Gibbons said. "This is one of the longest running traditions in the state, literally."

Anyone worried about running on RU's cinder track, relax. It's been replaced by a modern all-weather surface.

There also was an Observerland Invitational for girls before being disbanded several years ago, so women are also welcome.

Kermit Ambrose, the legendary starting official, is expected to be on hand, according to Gibbons.

If interested in participating, call Gibbons at (313) 592-3408.

LCBL losing 3 teams

The Livonia Collegiate Baseball League has added one team to its ranks, but commissioner Gary Gray still expects to have fewer members than last season.

The LCBL fielded seven teams last year, but is expected to have five in 1995, according to Gray.

Decision Consultants Inc., a team coached by Madonna University coach Mike George, has joined old standby Walter's Appliance, Little Caesars, Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury and Wendy's of Ann Arbor.

Those five teams already have submitted the entry fee of $600, but with the deadline to register Friday, Gray said he isn't optimistic about Westland Federation, Garden City Collegiate and Del-Wal remaining as members.

Gray said he hasn't talked to any representatives from Del-Wal or Garden City Collegiate, but Westland's coach Joe Vondracek indicated lack of financial backing is a reason for his team's absence.

Gray wasn't expecting to hear from Garden City, which indicated last summer it wasn't coming back after having to forfeit wins and miss the playoffs because of an ineligible player.

The ideal number of teams would be eight, Gray said. Having only five teams means one team will have a bye on each scheduled date of games, he said.

He's hoping to start the 28 or 30-game schedule on May 24.

Salem planning to challenge

■ What Plymouth Salem coach Geoff Baker doesn't want is a repeat of last season — at least not in its entirety. Sure, he'll take the part dealing with dual-meet records, when the Rocks were unbeaten. That league meet result has to change, however.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Already, Plymouth Salem boys track coach Geoff Baker is planning ahead.

He's looking past the dual meets, which start next week. He's envisioning something beyond all the invitationals, which began last Saturday for the Rocks.

What Baker is looking to is a date at the end of May (the 30th, to be exact). That's when the Western Lakes Activities Association championship will be decided.

That's what a narrow loss will do to you. And Salem's loss at last year's WLAA final could not have been narrower.

A half-point was all that separated the Rocks and Farmington Harrison, which won the title. It's a defeat — if you wish to refer to it as such — Baker cannot forget.

"One point," he repeated, over and over. "All we needed was one point."

"All we had to do was finish a little higher (in the 1,600-meter relay) and we were champs," he added. In the 1,600, the last event of the meet, Harrison placed second and Salem was fourth.

If the Rocks are to position themselves in a spot to challenge for this year's WLAA crown, they'll need to rebuild in certain areas. Gone from last season's team are all the sprinters: Adam Bakowski, Jay Casey, Andy Coburn, Marcus Zevalkink and Brian Herc.

"That's quite a few seniors to lose," Baker said. "Hard work made them successful. This year, we have good talent but less experience. I think they'll be better (than the '94 class) when they get older and more mature, and more experienced."

For now, the top sprinters Baker has are juniors Sean Alsobrooks and Will Brooks, sophomore Lawrence Nunn and freshman Kevin Conte. "They should be our mainstays in sprints," Baker said. "But we're still looking."

There is another weakness. In the weight events, the only returnee is senior Rocky Johnson — and he's out indefinitely after undergoing knee surgery on Thursday. Johnson, who scored Salem's only points in the field events at last season's WLAA meet (fifth in the discus, sixth in the shot put), could be out until May.

All is not dim, however. Salem is well-stocked in distance and middle-distance events.

A jump ahead: Sean Alsobrooks returns for Salem in both the long jump and sprints. The Rocks' goal: Score one more point at league meet.

Leading the returnees are a pair of WLAA champs in '94: juniors Jared Biniecki and Scott Pengelly. Biniecki won the 1,600 last year, with Pengelly second, and Pengelly won the 3,200, with Biniecki third.

Bolstering the 400-to-3,200 corps are seniors Dave Karmann (fifth in the 800 at the WLAA) and Andrew McDonald, junior Jason Barylski (sixth in the 400 in the WLAA), and sophomore Scott Loewe.

"Our strength is in our middle-distance and our distance," said Baker. He figures the Rocks will need it to best Harrison.

"I've seen the guys from Harrison," the Salem coach said, referring to an indoor track meet last winter. "I've seen (Jason) Granger and (Kevin) Bryant. My assumption is they're one-two in the conference (in the sprints).

"We have to counter with our distances. If our (distance) guys can counter their guys, we can win."

At last year's WLAA meet, Granger won the 100 dash and Bryant was first in the 110 high hurdles.

There are other events in which Salem will have to perform well to unseat Harrison. Like the jumps, both the high and long. The Rocks are well-stocked with talent in each, but none of it is proven.

In the high jump, there's senior Dan McKian, who competed last year. Dirk Schmiedel, a junior, is also back to compete in the high jump and ranks as Salem's only returning experienced hurdler. Junior Kyle Dilisizian and sophomore Andres Lopez will do both the long and high jumps; so will Brooks and Alsobrooks.

"We're real inexperienced there," said Baker.

That does not deter him from his ultimate aim: "My goal is to score (at the WLAA meet) in every event. Last year we needed one eighth-place finish, from anyone, and we were conference champs."

Star-quality spikers

Salem's talent ranks with the Observer's best

The leaders could not be unstated.

Once again, Livonia Ladywood emerged as the Observerland's premier volleyball team, despite a serious challenge to its throne from Plymouth Salem. The Elmers Janes Pointers had a hard time, however, in beating Salem in the state regional en route to a spot in the Class A tournament semifinals.

Another shining star among the Observerland teams was Redford Thurston, which captured its third consecutive Class B district title before being eliminated in the regional finals. The Eagles also finished atop the Metro Conference's White Division.

The coaching job done by Ladywood's Tom Testers was once again superb. His team was the Catholic League champion once again and made another strong run in the state tournament.

But this year's coach of the year accolades go to two coaches, actually: Brian Gilles and Allie Suffey, who serve as Salem's co-coaches.

Gilles and Suffey guided the Gilles and Suffey guided the Rocks through a perfect Western Lakes Activities Association season: 11 best-of-five matches, 11 straight wins — without even losing a game. The Rocks have gone five years without being defeated in the league, and clinched the WLAA title this season in dominating fashion.

Like Ladywood and Thurston, Salem had a share of individual stars, too. So did many other teams in Observerland.

FIRST TEAM

After Prodigy, the top-ranked team, Gilles moved with the majority of his team to play basketball, leaving Suffey with a better numbers. At 10-0, Suffey's Ladywood varsity volleyball team is the Observerland's All-Catholic choice and comes in at No. 1 on the All-Observerland team. Prodigy averaged 7.6 kills per game with a hitting percentage of .31 this year. The 4.0 grade point average student is a two-time Team Most Valuable Player who led the Elmers to four straight

All City League Championships: three District and three regional titles.

She was Ladywood's dominant athlete last year, but also last year, Coach Teeters said, she was a threat in all positions, including back row as a blocker. And, a few of those athletes are now elsewhere.

Erin LaSage, junior, Liv. Ladywood: LaSage's unique set has helped her set a new school serving record with more than 200 aces, an average of 2.5 per game. In the fall season, she is a three-year letter winner, averaging 0.2 assists per game after starting to share the setter responsibilities at mid-season.

Hitting in service aces against Plymouth Salem helped Ladywood repeat as Class A regional champion.

Her hitting has improved in every part of her game since last year, Teeters said. Her speed, jump, arm and overall strength improvement have had a positive effect on her skills.

Renee Rozell, senior, Liv. Ladywood: Rozell won four varsity letters while at Liv. Franklin. She is a repeat selection on the All-Observer first team and averages 4.1 kills as a senior.

Her strengths were in her ability to work with the setters, her leadership skills and the extra time a setter needs to put in, Teeters said. This has helped the setters remain consistent, particularly during the middle position.

Shellye Sills, junior, Ply. Salem: Sills is also a standout basketball player. Set seasons include 404 for kills, 464 and 450. This year is the career lead in both categories: 415, 505 and 505.

Sills also served 4.1 percent and finished the year with a 47 kill percentage. 414. She had 129 solo blocks and 52 assists.

Sills is the most dominant player we have ever had, Coach Alice Sutter said. She is a young player. She seems to get better and more powerful each year. If she stays healthy next year could be the year.

Erin Koch, senior, Salem: Koch set a team record for assists in a season with 446 out of 2,475 attempts. She had 150 digs, 12 solo blocks, 32 assists and served 4.1 percent. She was all-region and All-WLAA and is headed to Henry Ford Community College on a volleyball scholarship.

She has worked hard to become one of the state's best setters, Sutter said. She surprised us this year becoming the floor leader. She will have an immediate impact on Henry Ford's program next year.

Paula Dombrowski, senior, Salem: The senior hitter had 249 kills in 607 attempts, 41 percent, and contributed 47 solo blocks and 47 assist blocks. She made the all-lakes Division team in the WLAA and is headed to Henry Ford on a volleyball scholarship with teammates

Koch and Karen Gundry, a second team All-Area choice.

Paula came on strong late in the season, Sutter said. Since Paula's success in volleyball didn't come until her sophomore year, I believe Paula is yet to play her best volleyball, an asset to Henry Ford.

Jamesesa Emerson, junior, Farm. Hills Mercy: The first team All-Catholic performer had 265 kills in 691 attempts (38 percent) and had 47 aces while serving at 88 percent. She had 86 stuff blocks and 14 double blocks, including seven blocked serves. She also passed 86 percent finishing with 106 assists to kills.

Her versatility is uncommon and greatly utilized in our offensive attack, Mercy coach Peggy Spangler said. Her defensive ability is enhanced by her ability to set from any area of the court, as well as to complete the passing defense.

Her aggressiveness and competitive attitude complemented her natural quickness and help make her one of the outstanding players in our conference.

Jennifer Monaghan, senior, Liv. Stevenson: A two-time Offensive Player of the Year winner for the Spartans, Monaghan finished with 271 kills and 96 blocks. She served 89 percent (282/317) and was 262 out of 356 in attack receive (73 percent) and 230-295 in serve receive (81 percent).

Monaghan also was a scholar athlete throughout her four year career. She was our primary hitter who we always went to in times of trouble, Coach Kelly Graham said. Jen maintained a form of leadership with her talent alone, but also helped cheer on team spirits with her wonderful personality.

Jean Herron, senior, Thurston: The four year letter winner finished with 570 kills (48 percent) and 214 blocks in her senior year. Herron also served at 97 percent with 85 aces. She had 319 assists, an average of 4.25 per game.

The 3.9 GPA student was all conference and all-region three straight years and is a repeat selection on the All-Ob server first team. Herron led Thurston to four straight conference championships and three straight Class B district crowns.

The Eagles' Most Valuable Player is headed to Henry Ford Community College on a volleyball scholarship.

Jean has been the anchor and dominant force for Thurston volleyball, coach Bob Burns said. She has played with consistency and demonstrated strong court control with game winning power. Her strength, courage and leadership gives her that special edge that will enable her to be successful in whatever challenge the future holds.

Jenn McEwen, senior, Red. Thurston: McEwen played side-by-side with Herron for four years and makes the All-Observer first team after being named to the second team in '94.

She won the Eagles' Best Defensive Player award and is a two-time all-conference and all-region selection.

As a senior, McEwen had 287 kills (38 percent), 4.76 digs per game (was 93 percent in serve receive), 95 aces and served 98 percent.

Jenn is an outstanding hitter and the best defensive player in Thurston's history, Burns said. Her consistent ability to read and make plays make her a very special player.

Patti Maldonado, senior, Liv. Churchill: The Chargers' MVP was a WLAA first team selection at setter after recording 569 assists to kills (31 percent) with 1,783 good sets in 1,825 attempts. She served 87 percent with 41 aces, had 42 solo blocks, 108 digs and 80 kills.

Patti was one of several Churchill seniors who led by example with a 100 percent effort in practice every day, Churchill coach Mike Hughes said. Her aggressiveness and competitive attitude complemented her natural quickness and help make her one of the outstanding players in our conference.

Jaclyn Deane, senior, Liv. Franklin: The 6-1 senior hitter was a three year varsity starter and is headed to Madonna University on a volleyball scholarship.

She was first team WLAA her junior and senior years and an all-region selection this season. Deane had 506 kills in 1,093 attempts (35 percent), averaging 4.15 kills per game. All of her attack statistics are believed to be school records.

She had 110 total blocks, including 67 solos, and served 89 percent with 68 aces. She finished with 419 digs, an average of 3.43 per game.

Jaclyn is one of the finest athletes ever to graduate from Franklin, coach Anne Hutchins said. She possesses numerous outstanding qualities, but her dedication and commitment to her volleyball career have enhanced obvious physical talents. She has been truly an asset and joy to have coached.

Andrea Greer, senior, Liv. Franklin: The senior setter who is headed to Schoolcraft College on a volleyball scholarship has a 3.71 GPA and is a three year varsity starter.

She finished this season with 543 digs (4.45 per game) (both are believed to be school records). Her dig percentage was 80.

Greer served and received serve equally well. She received serve at 88 percent and also finished with 111 aces while serving at 88 percent. She also was effective at the net, finishing with 331 kills in 899 attempts (2.71 per game).

Andrea has been the most dedicated volleyball athlete I have had the honor of coaching, Hutchins said. She clearly plays much bigger than 5'5 and her best assets are her quickness and terrific court sense. She epitomizes what a student athlete should be and will never be replaced.

Bats come to life for Crusaders

It took a game but the bats finally warmed up for the Madonna baseball team in the Colorado West Classic in Grand Junction, Colo.

After opening the tournament with a 7-3 loss to Howard Payne University of Texas on Thursday, the Crusaders unleashed a 13-hit attack in a 12-6 win over Abilene (Texas) Christian University Friday.

Madonna (12-10) was scheduled to play again late Friday night and on Saturday in the five-team round-robin format. The championship game was set for Sunday.

MADONNA

The Crusaders fell behind 5-0 after two innings against Abilene. But a triple by sophomore Shawn Penzak and a double by freshman Jason Renkiewicz to lead off the third inning sparked a seven-run outburst. Singles by Scott Anderson, Kurt Wilcynski, Jim Solak and Craig Petersen followed.

Anderson finished the day with three hits, two runs and four stolen bases. Solak, Aaron Jones, Wilcynski and Penzak (two triples) had two hits each.

Sean Henkel was the beneficiary of the hit parade. The right-hander settled down after his rough start to record his third win in four decisions. Five of the six runs against him were earned. He allowed five hits and seven walks and fanned six.

Against Howard Payne on Thursday, Jones went 2-for-2 with a triple and an RBI while Solak got a run in with a ground out.

Jason Dubey, 2-1, took the loss for Madonna working 4½ innings. He yielded seven hits and five runs, three earned. He walked only one.

The Crusaders offense managed six hits.

State ruling could rob leagues

TEN-PIN ALLEY

A topic of widespread concern among bowling leagues is the recent action by the State of Michigan Liquor Control Commission. The LCC raided a senior bowling league in Cheboygan; the ripple effect has carried down to most bowling centers in this area.

Illegal gambling can result in the suspension or loss of a liquor license. This is a very emotional subject. Fifty-fifty drawings and mystery games have been on the scene long enough to be considered American traditions.

Some leagues use the games as a way to fund their annual banquet. There are other leagues in our area who use the games to adopt homeless families at Christmas, or to buy presents for children and provide a holiday meal.

If what is going on is illegal, then perhaps our laws should be changed. Bowlers should call or write their state congressmen. There are at least one million active bowlers in Michigan. It's time for us to stand up and be heard in the legislature...

Let's send Vernon Peterson to Australia. This YABA bowler has been selected to represent the USA in worldwide competition down under in the land of kangaroos and Crocodile Dundee.

Peterson is averaging 220 in the Youth Doubles League at Drakeshire Lanes and competes in the Sunday Youth Classic. He has bowled three 800 series, including an 845 in a youth tournament in Las Vegas.

A graduate of Lutheran High Westland, he now attends Eastern Michigan, thanks in part to scholarship money won in youth bowling tournaments. Peterson is trying to raise $2,000 for the trip, which departs April 16.

Anyone wishing to donate can issue a check to YABA. It is tax deductible and any donation of $50 or more gets a free cab ride up to 10 miles in the western Wayne County area. If interested, call (313) 421-5600...

The westside Senior Classic League almost had another perfect Wednesday as league president Ron Lancaster registered a 309 in the third game of the day. Only a stubborn nine-pin kept him from that elusive 300 club. Better luck next time, Ron. The Senior Classic bowls at Mayflower Lanes in Redford Township...

Get ready for the U.S. Open, coming soon to Bowl One Lanes in Troy. The finals will be held at Joe Louis Arena, climaxing an eventful week in Troy, which starts with the pro-am March 31. Saturday's finals at Joe Louis Arena will be April 8, and will be broadcast by ABC with Chris Schenkel at the mike.
