Trash complaints on upswing

The Plymouth City Commission received more complaints about trash hauling. One resident said she had to put her trash in the car and follow the garbage truck because they forgot to pick it up.

BY KEVIN BROWN

Complaints from residents about the city's new garbage hauler keep piling up at the Department of Public Works.

City commissioners said Monday they'll continue to document complaints, while working with contractor Painter & Ruthenberg in hopes of improving service.

In his monthly report to the commission, DPW Director Paul Sincock listed 32 complaints in August from residents over garbage service. Callers complained that garbage wasn't picked up, compost wasn't picked up, recycle bags weren't picked up, and trash was left in the street, among other complaints.

One resident, Denise Varner, wrote Sincock to complain that her yard waste had not been picked up in three weeks.

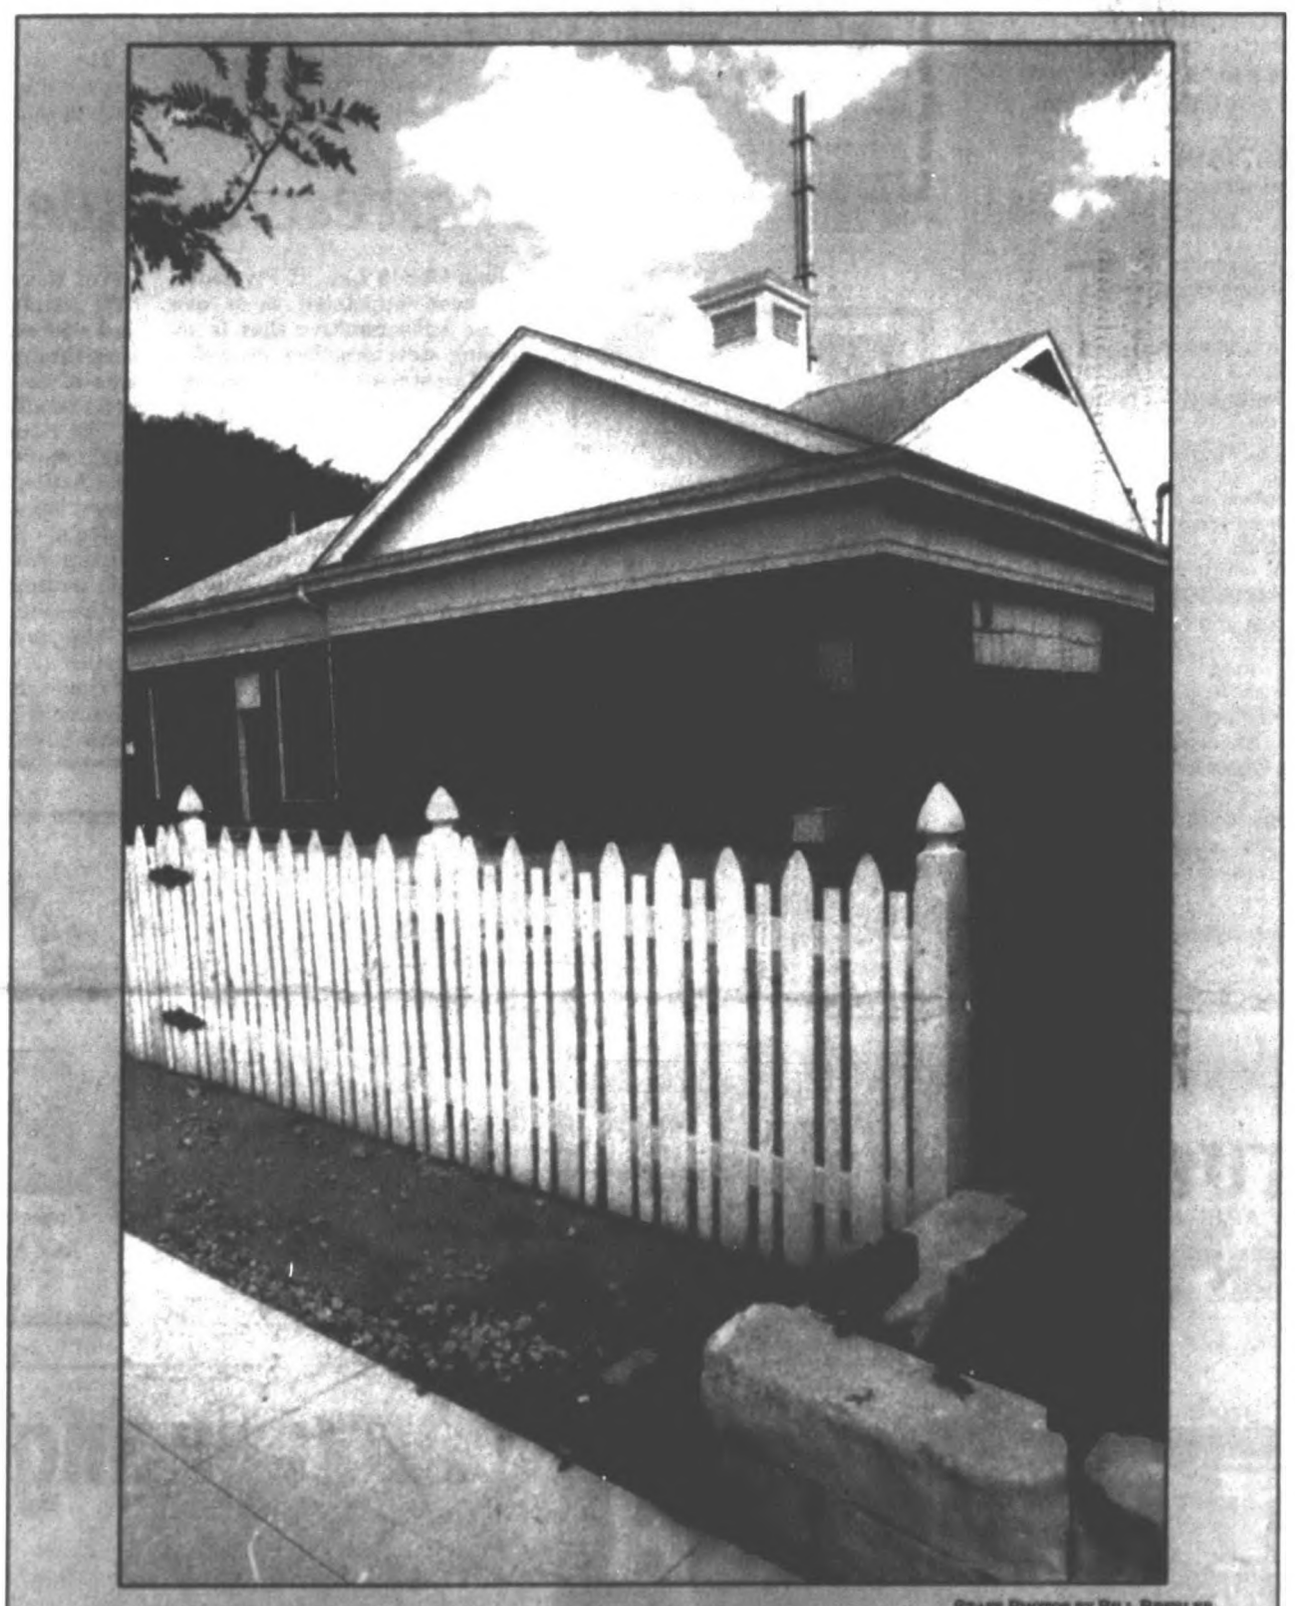

The second week, "I placed my now smelly yard waste in my Jeep and followed the garbage truck down the street to dispose of it," she wrote.

"I politely asked the trash man if there was a reason — such as illegal material — that the yard waste was shrugged his shoulders.

"I then emptied my waste into the truck by myself as neither he nor his co-worker offered to empty the container."

The next week, the Painter & Ruthenberg crew again failed to pick up her yard waste. "My intent is not (to) jump on the bandwagon of complaints, but to simply get my yard waste picked up. After all, this is waste hauling, not brain surgery," Varner wrote.

The Plymouth-Canton community is mourning the loss of Daniel Stephen Krueger, 18, of Plymouth Township, who was killed in a traffic accident on I-96 in Ingham County Sunday afternoon.

Krueger was one of three passengers in a 1994 Jeep Wrangler driven by Barton Nafe, 17, of Plymouth. The four were on their way back to Plymouth from Central Michigan University, where they spent the weekend visiting friends.

According to Ingham County Deputy Sheriff Marty Maier, the one-car accident occurred at 2:19 p.m. about one mile west of Webberville, three miles west of the Ingham-Livingston county line.

"The vehicle was in the lefthand lane . . . We have no idea why he went off the road, but the driver jerked the vehicle, trying to turn back onto the road," said Maier. "He overcorrected a second time and lost control. They went into a guard rail in the median, causing the Jeep to roll."

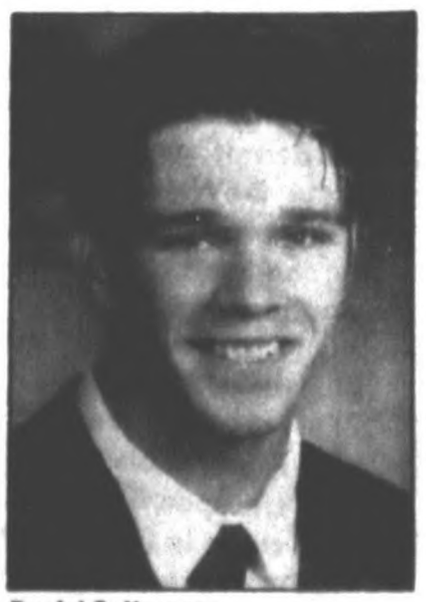

Nafe and the two others sustained minor injuries. Alcohol was not a factor in the fatality, nor were road conditions.

Both back seat passengers, Krueger and Kristin Clough, 19, of Plymouth, were thrown from the Jeep as it rolled. Neither was wearing a seatbelt.

"Had they been belted in, they probably would have walked away," said Maier. "The roll bar did its job."

Krueger, a freshman at Eastern Michigan University and a 1995 graduate of Catholic Central High School, was pronounced dead at the scene.

Amoco site slated for autumn fix-up

A promise: Amoco official Kent Barry told city officials the station will be cleaned up.

Plymouth residents will notice improvements at the closed Amoco gas station at Ann Arbor Trail and Main Street in the next few weeks.

"It's going to be cleaned up before Thanksgiving." That's a pledge from Kent Barry, public and government affairs spokesman for Amoco Petroleum Products.

The Chicago-based Barry traveled to Plymouth Monday to tour the site and inform Plymouth Community of Chamber of Commerce officials of Amoco's plans. Chamber director Fran Toney and other interested parties met with Barry

City commission takes no stance on tradeport

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The proposed Willow Run tradeport got some more attention from Plymouth city commissioners on Monday, who've yet to support or oppose the controversial plan.

Tradeport detractors say the runway must expand to allow cargo-loaded 747 jets to land — and that would mean plenty of unwanted noise in nearby Plymouth.

County Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter — who represents Plymouth, Northville and west Livonia on the County Commission — opposes the project. He said that in addition to creating noise, the tradeport could divert county, state and federal resources from Plymouth and hurt the local commercial district.

The plan is backed by Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara's administration, which maintains the tradeport could create thousands of jobs. Mike Duggan, deputy county executive, has been talking with Canton Township officials to gain their support.

McCotter returned to address the issue on Monday before city commissioners, as Mayor Doug Miller updated the group on negotiations between McNamara's office and the Canton Township administration.

Miller's update on what's happening with the proposed tradeport followed the commission's first look at the issue Sept. 5. At that meeting, McCotter outlined his opposition to the tradeport: "The question is: They're going to spend $180 million on this, but what are we going to get out of it?"

Miller told fellow city commissioners Sept. 5 that he and the administration would try to collect information on the tradeport, to provide to city commissioners.

Since then, Miller said Monday, he's talked with assistants to McNamara and Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, adding Canton has yet to make a decision on whether to support the tradeport.

Sept. 30 day for township to collect hazardous waste

By Kevin Brown
Staff Writer

Don't dump that old anti-freeze or other hazardous chemicals behind the garage.

If you're a Plymouth Township resident, you can get rid of a range of these materials from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 30, at Pioneer Middle School.

That's when the township's solid waste department will conduct a Household Hazardous Waste Collection Day. Chris Haas, township solid waste coordinator, said residents "should leave the materials in original containers if possible."

"If it's something like used gas they can put it in a container they label and can leave with us. We're not going to have the time to empty containers and give them back," she said.

The materials to be accepted include adhesives, aerosol cans, asbestos materials, automotive fluids, batteries, drain openers, driveway sealer, explosives — but not ammunition or fireworks — gas, hobby chemicals, household cleaners, lab chemicals, lawn and garden products, medications, mercury, paint — not latex — pesticides, polishes, pool chemicals, solvents, wood preservatives and items labeled acid, flammable, caustic, poison, toxic, "danger" or "warning."

Residents are asked to put materials they're bringing to the collection in the trunk. "Technicians will open up trunks and transport material from the vehicle to the collection site, the resident won't get out of the car at all," Haas said.

Materials not accepted are used motor oil, tires, radioactive materials, smoke detectors, propane cylinders, medical waste and latex paint.

To dispose of latex paint, Haas said residents should add kitty litter or an absorbing material, to cause the paint to dry and harden for disposal at the curb.

The township solid waste department is putting together fliers with information on where residents can get rid of non-accepted materials, such as used motor oil.

"Used motor oil can be taken to Valvoline oil change centers, there's a couple of businesses in the township that will take used tires," Haas said. Used smoke detectors, which have radioactive material, can be mailed back to the manufacturer.

Those seeking to get rid of hazardous materials must show a driver's license which shows township residence.

Based on what staff experienced during the last solid waste day in 1990, the average time for dropping off materials is 7 minutes. "The time could fluctuate depending on who participates," Haas said.

City residents seeking to get rid of hazardous materials should call the city DPW at 453-7737 for information.

Residents bringing materials to Pioneer Middle School should enter from the west driveway. Direct questions to the township solid waste department at 454-0530.

Representative on subcommittee

Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, has been appointed to a new House subcommittee that is reviewing state practices in preferential treatment in hiring and educational opportunities.

"It's time to overhaul our system of affirmative action," Law said. "Affirmative action laws no longer have merit when they engender preferential treatment, discrimination and often force businesses to hire the least qualified people," he said.

"While civil rights issues can invoke emotions, we intend to maintain a professional atmosphere and keep the subcommittee discussions focused on the specifics of the proposals," Law said. "We plan to define the legislation and educate ourselves on the issues through meetings with sponsors of the bills and several experts on affirmative action."

The House Judiciary and Civil Rights Subcommittee on Affirmative Action was established to review legislation amending the state's Elliott-Larson Civil Rights Act concerning preferential treatment based on such criteria as race or gender.

The proposed legislation includes:

- House Bill 4972, which would eliminate preferential treatment as a form of race or gender discrimination in educational or employment situations.
- House Bill 4054, which would prohibit employers, employment agencies or educational institutions from using a practice known as group-norming in which individual test scores are adjusted based on race, gender or other factors.
- House Joint Resolution L, which calls for putting a constitutional question on the November 1996 ballot seeking a ban on affirmative action and quotas for any governmental agency or entity that receives state grants or preferential tax treatment.

Band members hit high note with top score

BY DIANE HANSON
SPECIAL WRITER

The Plymouth-Canton High School Marching Band swept the field of 18 competing bands at the Laker Invitational at West Bloomfield High School Saturday evening with an overall highest score of 70.2 for their performance of "Prophecy of the Earth."

Band director David McGrath was pleased with the score and the band's performance this early in the season.

"We did some things very, very well," he said of the show. "It had its rough spots but we learned almost half of the show in the past week. Considering how difficult the show is and how much we threw at them this week, we feel good."

The band performed about two-thirds of the total show on Saturday but, according to McGrath, members will have completed nearly the entire show by the time of their next competition, Toledo Regionals, on Sept. 30.

"We will have all but about 40 seconds of the show by Toledo," said McGrath. "We'll have everything but the end."

There is good reason, according to McGrath, for putting the show together section by section.

"You know, it's a different philosophy," he said. "Some people want to get everything done up front and then try to clean it up. To me, I don't want them (the band members) to develop bad habits. It's an educational philosophy. I don't want them to feel like they're being pushed so hard to get things done without having it explained thoroughly, without the thorough understanding on their part as a performer.

"We make sure they have good basic fundamental training because, to me, we are about teaching the kids."

And those kids have learned well. In addition to achieving the overall high score for the evening, they captured the first-place trophy for Flight I competition as well as Caption Award trophies for Best Winds and Best Marching and Maneuvering in that division. Other Flight I bands competing on Saturday were Davison, Livonia Franklin, Heritage from Saginaw, Milford, Southgate Anderson, Troy Athens and Waterford Mott. The West Bloomfield band, also Flight I, played in exhibition as host of the Laker Invitational.

The second highest score for the evening, 66.7, was achieved by the Lakeland High School band from Milford in Flight II competition.

Pat Ruddy, associate director in charge of marching for the Plymouth-Canton band, was very happy with the recognition the band received for the challenging marching performance.

"We still have another two and a half to three minutes left and we already have more drill spots than we did last year in our whole show," said Ruddy. "They'll get close to 88 different spots in the field that they need to memorize in about a nine-minute section.

"It was one of our strongest first shows that we've had in quite some time. They worked extremely hard all year, especially the last two weeks and I'm just happy when they're recognized for it."

Father Trekker: Focus:HOPE founder the Rev. William Cunningham is a fan of the "Star Trek" television shows because of the premise behind the phenomenon.

Priest promotes societal change

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Many Canton Economic Club members were surprised Wednesday to hear that Focus:HOPE is as much an engineering school and factory as it is a social service agency.

Father William Cunningham, 65, a Catholic priest who founded Focus:HOPE in 1968, opened the economic club's 1995-96 season with a description of his organization's activity that inspired comments like these:

"He's an incredible man," said Plymouth State Farm insurance agency owner Cindy Fletcher. "I was overwhelmed with his enthusiasm and energy."

"I learned an awful lot," said Canton retiree P.J. Donovan, a longtime volunteer in Focus:HOPE's elderly poor food distribution program. "I didn't know Focus:HOPE was that involved. The way he put it, it gives me a whole new perspective on how to solve poverty."

Although Focus:HOPE gave away something like $28 million worth of food last year, it also builds manifolds and other parts for Ford and General Motors and partners with six universities to issue master's degrees in engineering.

These engineering students, Cunningham said, work in the Focus:HOPE factories to gain experience. "They are fully trained on America's most advanced manufacturing equipment. They know the product they're making cannot be equaled in this country."

The main Focus:HOPE factory, located on Oakman Avenue in Detroit, is "one of the nation's few fully air-conditioned plants," Cunningham said, and produces its own electricity. "We made sure the building was 'Star Trek'."

Cunningham is a fan of the "Star Trek" television shows because of the premise behind the phenomenon. "That show, more than anything else, captured not just the technological evolution, but the moral and cultural evolution," he said.

That's why Cunningham is a great advocate for change. His father told him, he said, "Change everything you can. Unless you change you will never know what can be."

So Focus:HOPE tries to keep up with the pace of technological advance. To illustrate the point, Cunningham told a story about lathes. A 1981 model, he said runs at a speed of 3,000 revolutions per minute. A modern lathe of the type Focus:HOPE now uses turns at 60,000 rpm, so fast that traditional tooling, fixtures, lubricants and coolants aren't good enough for it.

Cunningham also discussed Focus:HOPE's foray into the elementary education business. Focus:HOPE established a school that began so poorly that, "I said, 'My God,' I wish I hadn't woke up to this mess," Cunningham said.

With time Focus:HOPE personnel expanded the school year, lengthened the school day, outlawed rigid class schedules and issued a computer to every student.

Cunningham's philosophy is "when they're learning something, leave them alone. You can't overwhelm youngsters. They're underwhelmed. That's the problem."

Graduates are also enlisted to return and help current students. Cunningham said he recruits them by saying, "If you don't give back you're going to have to teach a dog how to start your car."

In closing, Cunningham said, "We're happy to say we don't imitate anybody in Asia or Europe. We're unique and we're the best."

John Vos was the lone city commissioner to vote against switching from Mr. Rubbish to low bidder Painter & Ruthenberg. The commission voted 6-1 in May to go with Painter & Ruthenberg, saying savings on a three-year contract could total $50,000 to $80,000 per year — enough to get a good start on paying for a street improvement program.

The commission took the action over the Sincock's recommendation that the city stick with Mr. Rubbish. Sincock had told commissioners that a Painter & Ruthenberg crew he followed in Northville left garbage in streets, pitched empty cans on lawns or left them in streets, and picked up bags without tags.

"It's like deja vu to me," Vos told fellow commissioners on Monday. "We're getting exactly the same complaints Paul Sincock first brought to our attention," he said.

Mayor Doug Miller said the city administration will continue to record complaints: "The reason we're tracking this so carefully is it's our intent to try and enforce the conditions of the contract."

Miller said city officials will continue to work with the contractor to improve service, adding the savings could be worth "the trauma we might be experiencing on a short-term basis."

During Painter & Ruthenberg's first month of service in July, 36 service complaints were lodged with the DPW.

in Plymouth several weeks ago, requesting that the abandoned corner be cleaned up, landscaped and maintained.

"We want the corner to be spruced up, the building power-washed and painted, and the windows repaired," said Toney.

"I've gone back and reviewed with my colleagues at Amoco the requests made by the group I met on my first visit," said Barry. "We are in fact going to follow steps to try to address some of the concerns expressed.

"The station is going to be painted and the grounds are going to be cleaned up. We will improve the appearance of the station significantly, and we will spend thousands doing it." Snow removal is included in the plans, Barry said. Plymouth has been maintaining the site through the Downtown Development Authority at taxpayers' expense.

The chamber requested that Amoco refurbish and open the restrooms for public use during festivals. "We reviewed that, and Amoco has some serious concerns about liability," said Barry. "Regrettably, it doesn't appear that that's an option at this time. We do have remediation equipment on site."

Cleanup of contaminated groundwater and soil has been ongoing on the corner since the station was ordered closed by the state Department of Natural Resources in 1990. Thousands of gallons of fuel and waste oil leaked from underground tanks there.

The automated cleanup system is based in what was the station's service bay.

While original projections called for the cleanup to be completed by 1995, there's a ways go to, Barry said. Amoco cannot pinpoint a completion date, "but we are hopeful it will be in a few short years," he said.

"We are moving as expeditiously as possible. It's a very expensive process, costing well over $100,000 per year. We have no incentive to delay cleanup."

Barry said oil drums will be removed from the site, windows will be fixed, bushes will be trimmed or replaced, and new ground cover added.

As for whether Amoco will reopen the station or sell the property, Barry said anything is possible. "Given where gasoline marketing is going, for speed and convenience, with changed consumer patterns, it's hard to say. But it seems like a fairly small site. We are going to be open to considering options for this site as we would any other property. This is a very valuable piece of property."

It's difficult to say how much the corner is worth, said Plymouth Realtor Robert Bake. "I wouldn't even venture to guess. The problems there are far more complex than local Realtors are used to working with. You would have to get a clearance on the environmental problems that exist there," added Bake, who accompanied Barry on his initial tour of the site a few weeks ago.

"The logical purchaser for it would be Chip Falcusan at the Box Bar," he said. "Hopefully some day he will be able to acquire and utilize that. But it's not going to have any appeal to any buyer until the remedial work has been completed and the problems are cleared up."

Bake, a chamber of commerce member, said he is concerned about the corner not as a Realtor, but because of its prime location in the central business district. "I have a passion to improve the central business district. I have no interest in that property personally at all," he said.

"I just want to see it as a productive corner for the community and central business district."

Toney said she appreciates Amoco's visit to Plymouth, and hopes to see Amoco improve and maintain the corner.

"I'm not surprised about their decision regarding the restrooms. It doesn't mean we're going to give up. I think at this point, it really didn't give us a decision. We'll have to continue with that quest."

Barry said given that his territory extends from Ohio to Kentucky to the Dakotas, his presence in Plymouth should be an indicator of how serious Amoco is. "I spent a good chunk of my life in Michigan, and I'm glad to see Amoco doing this," said Barry, a Michigan State University graduate. "I'll be back again in a couple, three weeks."

While county officials say they'll agree not to extend the runway to get Canton's support, McCotter cautioned that such an agreement won't hold up.

"Our (county) corporation counsel said the airport authority will control that (runway length)," McCotter said.

Further, he said McNamara's successor would not necessarily be held to any agreements made with Canton over a runway extension.

Miller said he planned to talk with Tom Yack next week and continue to gather information for the City Commission on the proposed tradeport.

McCotter said Northville Township has passed a resolution to oppose the tradeport, adding rejection of the tradeport by other western Wayne County communities could carry some weight with county officials.

Veteran journalist lauded in State Bar competition

Tim Richard, veteran reporter and columnist with The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and other publications of the Suburban Communications Corp., has distinguished himself in competition for the 22nd annual Wade H. McCree Jr. Awards for the Advancement of Justice.

Richard, who covers the state Supreme Court, the state Legislature and Oakland Community College for the newspaper chain, was honored by the State Bar of Michigan during the organization's 60th annual luncheon Wednesday in Lansing.

Other newspapers honored are The Detroit Free Press and The Muskegon Chronicle. Broadcast media honored included WJR-AM and WWMT-TV.

The top winner in the print category was David Zeman of The Free Press.

Each winner, and their respective news agency, received a plaque in recognition of his or her work. The top winner will have a $2,000 scholarship given in his or her name to the Michigan college or university of his or her choice.

The McCree Awards recognize Michigan's print and broadcast professionals whose works have made outstanding contributions to the advancement of justice by fostering greater public understanding of our legal system, exposing abuses and servincg as a catalyst for change.

Richard distinguished himself with a series of opinion page articles between July 1, 1994, and June, 30, 1995, on subjects ranging from tort reform to court funding. His emphasis on the judicial system is consistent with the newspapers' commitment to local news.

"The courts are very important to anyone who lives in Oakland and Wayne Counties," Richard said. "About half the lawyers in the state live or practice in Oakland and Wayne, and we have the most overworked dockets.

"We (Oakland and Wayne) generate more appelate cases than anywhere else in the state, and we need more new judges than anywhere else."

Wade H. McCree Jr., who died in 1987, was a distinguished lawyer, federal judge, law professor and U.S. Solicitor General. He was a passionate advocate of the need for public awareness and understanding of the inherent values of the judicial system and to update and modernize the courts and law enforcement agencies.

Tim Richard

Richard, who has a bachelor's and MBA from the University of Michigan, joined The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers in 1967 after working at daily newspapers in St. Joseph and Kalamazoo. Previous assignments with the newspaper include copy desk chief, editorial page editor and Oakland County editor.

He has honorary degrees from OCC and Schoolcraft College. His previous awards include two national awards from the Suburban Press Foundation and six from the Michigan AP Association.

CC students cited for test scores

Nineteen students at Detroit Catholic Central have been named AP Scholars by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college level advanced placement exams.

Approximately 11 percent of America's graduating seniors have taken one or more AP exams. Only about 12 percent of the more than 504,000 students who took AP exams in May 1995 performed at a sufficiently high level to merit such recognition.

The College Board recognizes several levels of achievement. At Catholic Central, three students qualified for the AP Scholar with Distinction award by earning grades of 3 or above on five or more AP exams, with an average exam grade of at least 3.5. These students are Gregory Ayres of Farmington Hills, Jeffrey Hayes of Plymouth, and Gregory Obrecht of Northville — all 1995 graduates.

Six students qualified for the AP Scholar with Honor award by earning grades of 3 or above on four or more AP exams, with an average exam grade of at least 3.25. These students are Michael Buchanan, a senior, of Farmington Hills; and 1995 graduates Lawrence McCartin of Brighton; Benjamin Mumma of Redford; and Gregory Tracy, Joseph Washnock, and Paul West, all of Livonia.

Ten students qualified for the AP Scholar award by completing three or more AP exams, with grades of 3 or higher. The AP Scholars are Steven Andriola of Canton, Patrick Campion of Southfield, Vincent Fries of Wayne, Robert Klemmer and Rajanna Konanahalli of Livonia, Leonard Lamsen of Northville, Brian Pine of Plymouth, Saulius Poltersitis of Livonia,

Candidate forum

Plymouth City Commission candidates have been invited to participate in a candidate forum scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 3, at the Box Bar and Grill.

The evening opens with a social hour at 7 p.m. At 7:30 each candidate will have an opportunity to give a five-minute opening presentation. Questions from the audience will follow, and candidates will be given two minutes for closing comments.

The nonpartisan event is sponsored by the Community Democratic Club. The program will be videotaped and available for local cable TV broadcast. The public is invited.

Permanent stop sought

Former Mayor Dennis Bila presented 100 petition signatures from residents living near Church and Harvey streets to city commissioners on Monday to seek permanent four-way stop signs at that intersection.

While temporary stop signs have been placed there due to streetscape construction, Bila said permanent signs would make it easier for pedestrians to cross. "It's a major pedestrian artery," he told commissioners.

Another neighborhood resident told commissioners he opposes stop signs because backed-up traffic at the signs also poses a safety issue, as he has trouble backing his car out of the driveway onto the street. The city administration said it would count traffic at the intersection, to see if the volume suggests permanent stop signs are needed.

Civil War program

John Gibney, professor of Civil War studies at Washtenaw Community College, presents the program "Michigan in the War" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 28, at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

The program will focus on the 24th Michigan Regiment and other Michigan units that fought in the war.

It's the final lecture presented by the museum as part of the Civil War Lecture Series, taking place in conjunction with the Abraham Lincoln exhibit.

The Lincoln exhibit is presented at the museum, on Main Street just north of Plymouth City Hall.

Police arrest Canton resident in connection with cash theft

Police have arrested a Canton man in connection with the theft of cash from First United Methodist Church, 45201 N. Territorial.

Plymouth Township police said that starting in July, church officials discovered cash was being taken from the petty cash account, about $800 over the summer.

Police used a Canton police surveillance camera to film the area, and the filmed record showed an 18-year-old Canton man taking $280 on Friday, Plymouth Township police said.

Police said they'll seek a charge of larceny over $100 against the man, who was scheduled to appear in 35th District Court on the charge Wednesday. The maximum penalty on the charge is a $2,500 fine and five years in jail.

Nafe, Clough and Andrew Bertha III, 18, of Canton were taken to Sparrow Hospital in Lansing. They were treated for minor injuries and held overnight for observation.

Clough, Nafe's stepsister and a student at Central last year, broke her wrist. "The driver was belted in and wasn't injured," aside from banging his head, Maier said. Bertha, also in the front seat, was belted in and received minor injuries.

Krueger, the son of Plymouth Salem High School wrestling coach Ron Krueger, was an all-state wrestler at CC and a member of the EMU wrestling team. While in high school, Krueger served as homeroom president for four years, and worked on the yearbook, school newspaper and school spirit-sign painting committee. He also played high school football and lacrosse.

His mother, Dolores Krueger, teaches chemistry at CC. His brothers, Lee and Jason, also distinguished themselves in athletics at CC. Lee played four years of football at the University of Wisconsin and Jason is in his third year on the Michigan State University team.

CC wrestling coach Mike Rodriguez said Dan Krueger "touched a lot of souls. Everyone liked him — old people and young people. He was full of the dickens. Even though he was just 18 years old, he lived a full life. He lived more than some 50-year-old people. He was fun to have around the wrestling team."

An honors student, Krueger was "an awesome wrestler," the coach added. "He was such an upbeat kid. I think young people can learn something from his death. Like so many young people, he thought he was invincible. But he did not put his seat belt on. I hope his death won't be in vain, and that young people will learn something."

Seniors at CC are raising funds to enlarge and frame a picture of Krueger, Rodriguez said. "They want to hang it in the wrestling room with a plaque. They remember him well and want to do something for him. My heart goes out to the family; I know they grieve, and I grieve with them."

CC lacrosse coach Mark Gagnon said Krueger "was really involved in athletics here at school. He played football for four years (on specialty teams), lacrosse for three years, and wrestled for four years."

"He was a real personable and amenable person; really outgoing. He got along real well with the faculty and all the students. He was a good kid to have on a team. He was discliplined and did exactly what he was told. He knew his limits as far his ability and never challenged me as a coach."

Funeral services for Krueger were set for 10:30 a.m. today at Our Lady of Good Counsel with the Rev. John Menner officiating and the CC color guard in attendance.

Krueger was born March 20, 1977, in Ann Arbor. In addition to his parents and brothers, he is survived by a sister, Kristen.

Burial will be from Schrader-Howell Funeral Home at Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth. Memorials to Catholic Central are appreciated.

Water plant to host open house, Oct. 7

The Detroit Water and Sewerage Department will hold its annual water quality awareness week open house from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 7.

Special tours of the Detroit Wastewater Treatment Plant, the nation's largest single site wastewater facility, at 9300 W. Jefferson, will be available to the public during the open house. Learn about the vital role wastewater treatment plays in keeping the environment safe and healthy.

In addition, a full day of open house activities awaits participants, including games, entertainment, face painting, and educational exhibits. There will also be prizes, souvenirs, refreshments and more.

Parking for the open house is free. Casual attire and flat shoes are advised.

An important addition to this year's open house will be a mobile collection unit. Attendees are asked to bring household hazardous waste products to the unit which is also open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 30.

Waste materials that the unit can accept include expired medicines, furniture polishes, pesticides, car wax, motor oil, fluorescent light bulbs, paints and varnishes, household and auto batteries, and moth balls.

Hazardous wastes it cannot accept include unlabeled wastes, commercially generated wastes, smoke detectors, radioactive and shock sensitive materials and explosives.

For more information about these environmentally geared events or to schedule a tour, call Aleta Atchison-Jorgan at 297-9294 or Linda Philson at 297-9136.

Pistons event to benefit HF neurosurgery

Henry Ford Hospital's department of neurosurgery and the Detroit Pistons will host the third annual Shoot for a Cure during the Pistons' first home preseason game against the Philadelphia 76ers at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13, at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

This year's event honors Robert J. Vlasic and Morton E. Harris, area businessmen who are committed to the resurgence of Detroit as a viable and vibrant community.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the Henry Ford Hospital Will Robinson Neurosurgery Fund which supports research and treatment of brain tumors, stroke, epilepsy, spine disorders and head injuries.

Will Robinson is assistant to the vice president of player personnel for the Pistons and a Pistons basketball legend. Robinson was successfully treated for a brain tumor two years ago at Henry Ford Hospital.

For general admission tickets, discounted to $15, call the Shoot for a Cure hot line at 810-377-0160.

and Thomas West of Novi — all '95 grads. and Patrick Medado, a senior, of Detroit.

AP exams, which students take in May after completing challenging college level courses at their high school, are graded on a 5-point scale, with 5 being the highest. Most of the nation's colleges and universities award credit or placement for grades of 3 or higher, and more than 1,300 institutions award a year of credit to students with a sufficient number of qualifying grades.

There are 29 AP exams offered in 16 disciplines, each consisting of multiple-choice and free-response (essay or problem-solving) questions. The College Board is a national nonprofit association that champions educational excellence for all students through the ongoing collaboration of nearly 2,900 member schools, colleges, universities, education systems and organizations.

The board promotes — by means of responsive forums, research, programs, and policy development — universal access to high standards of learning, equity of opportunity, and sufficient financial support so that every student is prepared for success in college and work.

Catholic Central is a private, all-male college preparatory high school located in Redford.

Over the last 11 years, Catholic Central has had 101 National Merit semifinalists — more than any other parochial high school in the state.

Picnic at park to kick off new season

The Western Wayne Michigan Alliance for Gifted Education kicks off the new school year Sunday with a picnic at Maybury State Park in Northville Township.

The picnic, from 1:30-6 p.m., is a prelude to a host of new fall activities, including Thursday night discussion groups which start Sept. 28 and a talk by a local psychologist, Wayne Fisk, on Oct. 11.

The alliance is an affiliate of the statewide Michigan Alliance for Gifted Education, an organization of parents and educators united to support education for the gifted and talented.

The alliance offers networking opportunities for families and programs to support parents, teachers and administrators. It also offers enrichment opportunities for gifted children and lobbies for gifted education in Lansing.

Picnickers should enter the park Sunday via Beck Road by the stables. Picnic site is the day camp shelter north of the pond.

Activities include art projects, science experiments, leaf collecting, relay races, obstacle course, scavenger hunt, hiking, biking, fishing and a campfire with s'mores.

Guided discussion groups will take place from 7-8:30 p.m. Thursdays in a location still to be announced.

The groups establish an environment where parents can support one another as they continue to develop the skills to nurture the self-concept and emotional development of their children.

The basis for discussion is "Guiding the Gifted Child," by James Webb. Discussion topics include identification, motivation, discipline, stress, depression/communication of feelings, peer relationships, sibling rivalry and tradition-breaking in parenting.

Each group is limited to 15 people. Cost is $20 per person; $35 per couple for the eight-week session; and $15 for the book. To register, call Sue Perrish at (810) 471-0933.

Work program gets high marks from welfare moms

BY MARY RODRIQUE
STAFF WRITER

A state-mandated program that puts welfare recipients into the workforce part time in order to keep collecting benefits has gotten a collective thumbs up — with some reservation — from a small group of welfare mothers.

The Redford YWCA was the backdrop last Friday for a lively exchange of ideas between government and business leaders and a group of welfare mothers participating in Workfirst.

"In order to collect ADC (Aid to Dependent Children), recipients must work 20 hours a week at minimum wage," said state Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, meeting organizer.

"Our goal is to help welfare reform work in a humane way."

Bankes invited state and local representatives from the Department of Social Services and other agencies working with welfare recipients to the meeting for a grass-roots evaluation of the year-old Workfirst program.

Bankes wanted input to take back to Lansing before the new state budget year gets under way on Oct. 1. The Redford YWCA is a local site for the back to work program, having serviced 1,000 participants thus far.

Mothers attend sessions from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday for two weeks. A second two-week component called Job Club focuses on job placement and is also held in the Y building, according to Janice Saur, executive director of the Resource Network, which is contracted by the Wayne County Job Connection to operate the program. On-site day care is available.

The mothers participating in the current session, from Livonia, Northville and Inkster, like the program, but had some complaints.

"We are adults, treat us with respect," said a woman from Northville who plans to study automotive engineering.

She and other class members felt the textbook and accompanying videos were insulting and rife with stereotypes of "dumb, lazy welfare folk." But they applauded their group leaders, whom they found motivating and inspirational.

Other complaints centered on transportation and child care problems.

One mother from Inkster, with children ages 1, 4, and 5, enjoyed the Workfirst program but lamented her startup date which interfered with getting her oldest daughter started in kindergarten and middle child into a Head Start program.

■ 'Our goal is to help welfare reform work in a humane way.'

Rep. Lyn Bankes

R-Redford

A mother from Livonia expressed child care fears over placement of her year-old daughter.

A mother of two from Inkster was angry she was put into the program after collecting welfare for only two months.

"There are women in my neighborhood who've been collecting (welfare) for years and they've never been in a work program."

At least two mothers felt their social services caseworkers discouraged them from wanting to get off the system. One mom said she was labeled a frustrated woman for asking too many questions of her caseworker.

A mother of four from Inkster, with no high school diploma and no driver's license, lauded the classroom director for boosting her self-esteem.

Talking face-to-face with Bankes as well as representatives of the state Office of Management and Budget, Michigan Jobs Commission, the Job Connection, and the Redford branch office of DSS, the welfare mothers got information useful to their situations.

The exchange seemed to highlight the need for more communication between the two sides — a difficult task in the bureaucratic structure at present.

Dan Cleary, a welfare coordinator from Lansing, said "My greatest concern in Wayne County is clients have a hard time talking to the same case manager. There's a continuity problem. The client needs someone to identify with — it's easy for people to get caught in the cracks."

Added Charlene Frazier, manager of Workfirst: "We have a total number of 2,358 individuals referred to us in western Wayne County."

Workfirst was developed last year between the Michigan Department of Social Services and the Michigan Jobs Commission. "We are putting them into the work world. It's working," Frazier said.

Officials agreed transportation and child care were the two biggest problems.

"We never close our doors to these women," said Saur. "Some come back wanting a better job, to update their resume."

Of the 90,000 ADC families in Wayne County, 40,000 of them live west of Telegraph Road, according to Bankes.

YWCA staff want to launch a Clothes Closet — whereby residents of the community would be asked to donate work attire in good condition to be used for interview wardrobes for program participants.

Jean Cogill, a retired schoolteacher and president of the Livonia League of Women Voters, said members of her organization could be available to the women as mentors.

"Going to work can be confusing and scary," she said. "Sometimes a person just needs someone to talk to."

Alberta Muzzin, president of the Dynamic People Employment Agency in Livonia, said she currently has 112 jobs to fill — from unskilled to technical.

"My entry-level jobs pay $6 an hour," she said. "Many of my jobs are not on the bus line. The three biggest problems are trying to help welfare moms with transportation, child care and attire."

Bankes hopes to host more sessions.

"There are 200,000 women ready to work," she said. "The work we do here will help them be successful."

Plymouth Observer

10A(P) 744 WING, PLYMOUTH, MI 48170 THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1995

Main corner

There's hope for Amoco site

The renewed interest in the former Amoco gas station at Main and Ann Arbor Trail is a good sign for downtown Plymouth.

Now that work is being completed on the streetscape project, the abandoned site needs attention from the city, Downtown Development Authority and Amoco, which owns it.

Amoco officials were in Plymouth this week to inspect it. They promised to clean it up, improve the landscaping and get rid of some old oil drums stored inside. However, Amoco will not allow use of restroom facilities during festivals, citing legal issues.

Part of the problem with doing anything with the property is that the cleanup of fuel oil is ongoing. Inside the old gas station bays equipment pumps out fuel oil that has seeped into the ground over years of use. That fuel oil has hampered operations at the Mayflower Meeting House in the past.

Also, renewed interest in the old gas station comes at a time when environmental cleanup regulations are being discussed.

It's only right that Amoco should be forced to clean up the seeping fuel oil. However, state and federal environmental agencies should be pressed to establish realistic levels for cleaning up soil and ground water contamination.

Plymouth has time to come up with ideas for the site. The cleanup is expected to last another two years. Community leaders should take advantage of that and work together to make use of a prime piece of downtown.

That corner also contains Kellogg Park and the Mayflower Hotel, two prime anchors that draw people to Plymouth and help identify the community.

Renovation work on the Mayflower is expected to start soon, which will improve the looks of that corner. Also, the addition of Wild Wings gallery to the corner has enhanced its looks. The Amoco site is the only portion that looks neglected and out of place.

There is an eventual potential for commercial development, if the ground is cleaned up enough to allow for a loan on the property. Banks don't make loans on land if it has environmental problems.

If cleaned up, it would make a potential expansion site for the Box Bar or a new business could locate there.

Residents have ideas. During random interviews about use of the site (see community corner below), the answers ranged from turning it into commercial property to returning it to use as a gas station. One person suggested that it be used to augment Kellogg Park.

That's a good start. It would be an ideal office for the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

But there must be other ideas. The city of Plymouth should work with Amoco to come up with some sort of solution for the future use of the parcel.

'Bite the bullet' on road tax

We have begun to measure the battle over road funds in decades rather than years. Sections of I-96 that were resurfaced after a 1982 fuel tax increase during the Milliken administration now are bumpy with patches and potholes.

It is more embarrassing than ever to travel to neighboring states and compare their silk to our corduroy.

There is a stalemate in Lansing among state, local and business officials over how to raise new money for road improvements. Some fear no solution will be reached in this fall's session of the Michigan Legislature. Do our leaders think the problem will go away?

Many ideas are being floated around as alternatives to raising the 15-cents-a-gallon fuel tax. A few have merit. Most don't. Let's explore them:

■ "The state should be more efficient." Oh? And what has Patrick Nowak been doing in his nearly five years at the helm of the Michigan Department of Transportation? He has worked at privatizing maintenance of freeway rest stops. M-DOT has recruited volunteer civic clubs, church groups, fraternities and businesses to clean up highway trash. In the 1980s, M-DOT began publishing new transportation maps every two years, instead of annually. We can't continue to bray for "more efficiency" before we look for new money.

■ "Cut other state costs first." The Michigan Chamber of Commerce and the stuck-record ideologues at Mackinac Center insist any fuel tax increase for roads be offset by a reduced single business tax (SBT). Cutting SBT should be discussed on its merits. Chamber leaders do their reputation no good when they attempt to hold good roads hostage to a tax cut for themselves.

■ "Impact fees." The notion, long advanced by Oakland County's John Grubba, is that developers who generate new road needs — e.g., exit ramps, turning lanes, traffic signals — should pay for them rather than stick state and county road agencies with the costs.

As alluring and logical as the idea is, it has made no headway in Michigan. Case in point: the proposed new Tiger Stadium, which, from all news accounts, would require millions for "infrastructure" improvements.

■ "State needs first." Nowak argues for pumping most new money into M-DOT. But when he was deputy Oakland County executive, he loved to point out that portions of Haggerty Road in western Oakland carry more traffic than many portions of the I-75 freeway.

■ "Toll booths." Gov. John Engler, with his national ambitions, likes to boast he has cut 13 or 14 taxes. What he fears to discuss, quite rightly, is that as legislator and governor he has supported some of the biggest fee increases in history.

We need to forget about toll booths, auto registration fees, trailer fees, driver's license fees, chauffeur's license fees and such slippery "revenue enhancements" and get to the main point:

"Bite the bullet." That 19th century term was revived by President Gerald Ford 20 years ago, and it needs to be remembered today. Michigan's fuel tax is 15 cents, one of the lowest rates in the nation. There are holes in the diesel fuel tax that need to be plugged.

At current prices, a fuel tax increase of six cents hardly will be noticed. Pump prices vary that much over a season. Pump prices vary that much between Dearborn Heights and Bloomfield Hills. Pump prices vary more than that between Troy and Trout Lake, between Escanaba and Engadine.

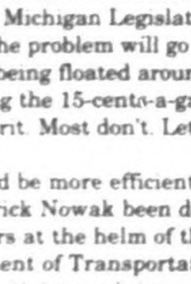

Our political leaders are having their necks stroked by the state chamber but need to have their rumps kicked by road users. Courage, not conniving, will get our state and local roads up to the level of our neighbors.

Why hurry?

A recent update on the proposed I-275/Plymouth Road interchange contained the headline, "Project moving quickly." My question to the interchange committee is: What is the hurry?

With all due respect to the committee, is the interchange the dream of a few opportunists? Or is this truly a project that has been researched for the benefit of the entire community? Who are the members of the committee, what is their motivation, and how will the project be financed? Legislators are proposing a gas tax solely to fund repairs for existing highways.

Perhaps these questions have been answered in previous news articles and letters that I have missed. However, I feel the questions are worth repeating, since I am sure there are people who are not aware that this project is unfolding.

One reason for the interchange is to relieve traffic congestion at the Ann Arbor Road and Ford Road interchanges. By design, that is one intent of freeways and interchanges, to relieve congestion in other areas. However, instead of traffic relief, freeways and interchanges encourage more development and more traffic. Eventually, the new freeways and interchanges mirror the same roads they were meant to replace. The existing roads do not experience less traffic and new roads experience more.

An increase in Plymouth Road traffic would have a significant impact on the city of Plymouth and Main Street. The increased traffic volume, railroad crossing delays, and pedestrian safety are concerns that need to be studied. To deter traffic on Main Street, one suggestion is to impose a 25 mile per hour speed limit. The speed limit is already in place, is not obeyed, and has not reduced traffic.

I commend the committee for the research it has accomplished. However, I am skeptical of the interchange for the reason that a project of this size appears to have more steam than less costlier traffic safety improvements, such as adding a right turn lane or installing a left turn traffic light.

The impact of a new church building at Beck Road, which has sparked loud concerns, pales in comparison to the impact a major freeway interchange will have on the community. Ironically, it is the interchange project that has received little opposition.

If the new interchange means progress, by all means let us plant the seed. The promises of planned development are eventually lost though, due to lack of cultivation. Before the community embraces the new interchange like a long-awaited harvest, we should remember that history repeats itself and not be surprised when the growth becomes over ripe.

Stay unstung

Your article on the Superior Township woman who was stung by a bee was informative and educational for Plymouth area residents.

Bee stings can be life threatening to some people, and paramedics should be notified by calling 911 if the person bitten has any ill effects after being stung. These symptoms can include severe pain, rapid pulse, light headedness, breathing trouble or swelling.

This article also highlights the importance of having paramedics in the Plymouth community. Bee and wasp stings which cause allergic reactions and anaphylaxis are life-threatening emergencies which need to be treated at the scene with medications. Airway management by first responders and paramedics can also be necessary in severe cases. You don't always have time to get to a hospital or physician.

It seems that bees have been much more active this year, and we appreciate the Observer's role in educating the public to their danger.

POINTS OF VIEW

Plan to consolidate courts makes lots of sense

GUEST COLUMNIST

JERRY VORVA

■ How can citizens have a speedy trial when they have to fool around changing courts, causing still further unnecessary delay, costing that citizen more money in attorney fees to cut through more liberal red tape?

Rep. Deborah Whyman's bill to consolidate the Recorder's Court into the Circuit Court is logical, promotes efficiency and contains no real hidden agenda.

The problem is that the Recorder's Court hears cases from Wayne County at large but has judges who are elected only by city of Detroit voters. This is the only case of elected government officials who cannot be held accountable to the public which they serve.

This is not only contrary to the important Supreme Court ruling in Reynolds vs. Sims, 377 U.S. 533 (1964), but also to two separate clauses of the Sixth Amendment to our federal Constitution, which is applied to the states through the 14th Amendment.

Although Reynolds dealt with legislative districts it should be applied to judicial districts as well. Reynolds is the famous "one man, one vote" ruling, which as a matter of fact caused the people of Michigan to change the constitution to comply. Further, all other judicial districts in Michigan are held to a "man, vote" system.

One clause in the Sixth Amendment reads " . . . by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed," which means if a felony is, let's say, allegedly committed in Plymouth, the proper district would be Wayne County Circuit Court, wherein Plymouth is a part of that larger (Wayne County) district. Plymouth is not a part of the district of Detroit.

Clearly, this proves that Rep. Whyman's bill is well thought out and logical.

I now must respectfully disagree with Recorder's Court Judge Jackson, who is reported to have said that "all an out county citizen has to do is request to have his or her case removed to the Circuit Court."

This is not only inefficient but also runs counter to the Sixth Amendment, which reads: "In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial."

How can citizens have a speedy trial when they have to fool around changing courts, causing still further unnecessary delay, costing that citizen more money in attorney fees to cut through more liberal red tape?

Clearly, this proves once again that Whyman consistently proposes efficient, tax-saving laws.

The very erroneous charge that Whyman has a hidden agenda is clearly not true or well thought out.

It's true Whyman is a true conservative and would like to see other conservatives elected. But who wouldn't? But it's unlikely that any of these current Recorder's Court judges facing an at-large county vote would be unseated by a Republican in liberal Wayne County.

Whyman, in my opinion, has an agenda, though: to create effective, efficient and responsive government in all branches at all levels.

I wholeheartedly support this effort and call on all of my fellow Wayne County residents to do the same.

Local control tips delicate balancing act too far

TIM RICHARD

■ My view is that within Michigan the balance has swung too far toward local control. The state is the creator of local units of government, but it has erred by giving too long a leash. Last week, Chief Justice James Brickley presented that view.

The United States of America has survived as a nation for nearly 220 years, undivided and unconquered, for a very good reason.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union has dissolved, the Austro-Hungarian Empire has been broken up, Yugoslavia has disappeared, its surviving factions have splintered, Canada may yet break apart, and African nations are in chaos because of internal disputes.

In America, our genius has been our unending balancing act between the national and state governments; within Michigan, our unending balancing act between the state and local units.

This balancing act constitutes much of the news you read. In 1787, James Madison wrote about it in No. 10 of The Federalist Papers. "Among the numerous advantages promised by a well-constructed Union," the young lawyer began, "none deserves to be more accurately developed than its tendency to break and control the violence of faction."

And: "The federal Constitution forms a happy combination in this respect; the great and aggregate interests being referred to the nation; the local and particular to the State legislatures."

Madison's words are pertinent in several current Michigan debates: court reform, handgun control, school reform and urban sprawl. All involve the delicate balancing act between state and local control. It's a debate that was conducted 100 years ago and will be ongoing 100 years from now. That's how we have survived. Neither side ever totally wins.

My view is that within Michigan the balance has swung too far toward local control. The state is the creator of local units of government, but it has erred by giving too long a leash.

Last week, Chief Justice James Brickley presented that view. He said the Supreme Court will exert a much firmer administrative hand over trial court budgets and administration, while not interfering in local programs. Brickley called for simplification and streamlining of trial courts, with their current layers of circuit, probate, recorder's and district courts and their rabbit warren maze of election districts.

Some say Brickley went too far. Others say he didn't go far enough because he wants to leave Detroit Recorder's Court alone. The point, however, is that Brickley, like Madison in the 18th century, is seeking not domination but a better state-local balance to serve and protect the public.

Phil Power is writing about concealed weapons (CW) permits, the legal paper that enables a citizen to carry a handgun. In my view, Michigan has erred on the side of giving county gun boards too much arbitrary power to deny applicants their clear constitutional right to bear arms. A system that curbs arbitrary local power and honors the constitution is in order.

The school debate follows the same pattern. The Religious Right, in control of the State Board of Education, is fighting a snarling, rear-guard action against the reforms of the past decade: state assessment tests, state accreditation of schools, state curriculum standards, tougher state certification of teachers. Two governors and a Legislature whose control has see-sawed between the parties have put these reforms in place.

A few — not enough — minds are saying townships have engaged in a bidding war for business at the cost of the environment. The "urban sprawl" debate, as it's called, says giant companies push tiny local units into granting building permits that destroy green fields, trees, streams, habitat and croplands to generate a few, fast property tax bucks.

Clearly, state law and officials need to set higher standards for local units and make them think of a long-term global economy rather than placating police budgets today.

Balance. Not mere "change" but continued fine-tuning. National and state. State and local. Fifty years from now, my successor on this page will be writing about the same need for balance, perhaps arguing the state has gone too far and more local autonomy is needed.

Make no mistake: A 'polite' society is more dangerous

An armed society is a polite society.

PHILIP POWER

I first heard the line a few years ago when I was fly-fishing in Vermont, a state where anybody who isn't a convicted felon or judged crazy may obtain and carry a concealed weapon (CW) at any time.

Now it's at the cutting edge of the debate in Lansing over House Bill 4720, introduced by Rep. Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt, which would do the same thing in Michigan.

The measure is vociferously supported by the National Rifle Association and the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, joined like Siamese twins at the hip by their common leader, Tom Washington. It's attacked with equal passion by a bunch of law enforcement folks, ranging from Attorney General Frank Kelley to Detroit deputy police chief Benny Napoleon.

Something like 60,000 Michiganians now have CW permits, issued by law-enforcement dominated county boards only after applicants demonstrate compelling reason why they have to carry hidden heat. Conventional wisdom holds that 4 percent — that's 360,000 folks — of the population would try to get CW permits if the law is eased.

Recent polls indicate a solid majority of Michigan residents oppose making it easier to get a CW permit. Big majorities of men, women and gun owners feel accidental shootings would increase, and smaller pluralities of each group feel changing the law wouldn't do much about crime rates.

Not surprisingly, the rhetoric gets pretty steamy.

Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair warned that passing the bill would allow guns into the hands of "criminals who have avoided prosecution, hotheads, alcohol abusers, drug abusers and people prone to domestic violence." Others cited "malcontents with a vigilante mentality."

Washington argued that "the record does not support paranoia," asserting there has been no big increase in gun-related deaths in Florida, Texas and Virginia, states that have "shall issue" CW laws.

Cropsey, Washington and their allies insist that the constitutional argument is airtight. Both the U.S. and Michigan constitutions permit every citizen to keep and bear arms in defense of themselves and the state. That's why they say that a state gun board, to be set up by their legislation, "shall issue" permits to anybody who isn't explicitly ruled out.

I think that's nonsense. Both constitutional provisions deal with keeping and bearing arms, not carrying them loaded and out of sight.

In my mind, the issue reduces itself to the compelling core assertion: An armed society is a polite society.

The thinking behind the slogan takes two steps. (1) The law enforcement apparatus has largely failed to protect decent, law-abiding folks in the peaceful conduct of their business. (2) Therefore, it is only just to allow decent, law-abiding folks to carry guns to protect themselves from the barbarians who rule the streets.

Notice that the perspective embedded in this argument is that of the individual, entitled to protect himself when faced with menace.

If you switch the perspective, however, from the individual to society as a whole, what started out looking like a matter of personal protection turns suddenly into an issue of public safety. If we let an additional 300,000 Michigan folks carry concealed heat, certainly some hothead with a grudge or somebody stoned or drunk is going to shoot and kill some innocent people.

What's unmarked about this passionate dispute is that everything depends on the perspective embedded in the discussion, whether the law-abiding citizen exercising his right to protect himself or the society as a whole exercising its responsibility to protect innocent people from carnage.

That's why I think the "shall issue" bill is a mistake. An armed society may be a bit more polite than an unarmed one, but it certainly is a whole lot more dangerous.

Refer to House Bill 4720 when writing to your state representative, State Capitol, Lansing 48909. Phil Power is chairman of the company that owns this newspaper. His Touch-Tone voice mail number is (313) 953-2047, Ext. 1881.

Oh, how I love marching band

Sitting on the front porch on Friday evenings in the fall, you can hear in the distance the high school marching band playing its half-time show. The sounds, bold, crisp and full of color, are autumn itself.

Marching bands. I love marching bands. I love hearing them as they pass by me during parades. The sound fills me up; it thumps and blares and stirs everything up. And when I am in the midst of preparing our Thanksgiving turkey and the Macy's parade is playing on the TV in the family room, I run in from the kitchen just to see the bands as they march past Willard Scott.

And now that my oldest is in sixth grade, the year that marks Beginning Band in his school, I'm loving this, too! That's because Tony joined in; he's in the band! It's not the marching band, not yet, but it has the same effect on me — the thumping, the blaring, the running in from the kitchen to see what's going on.

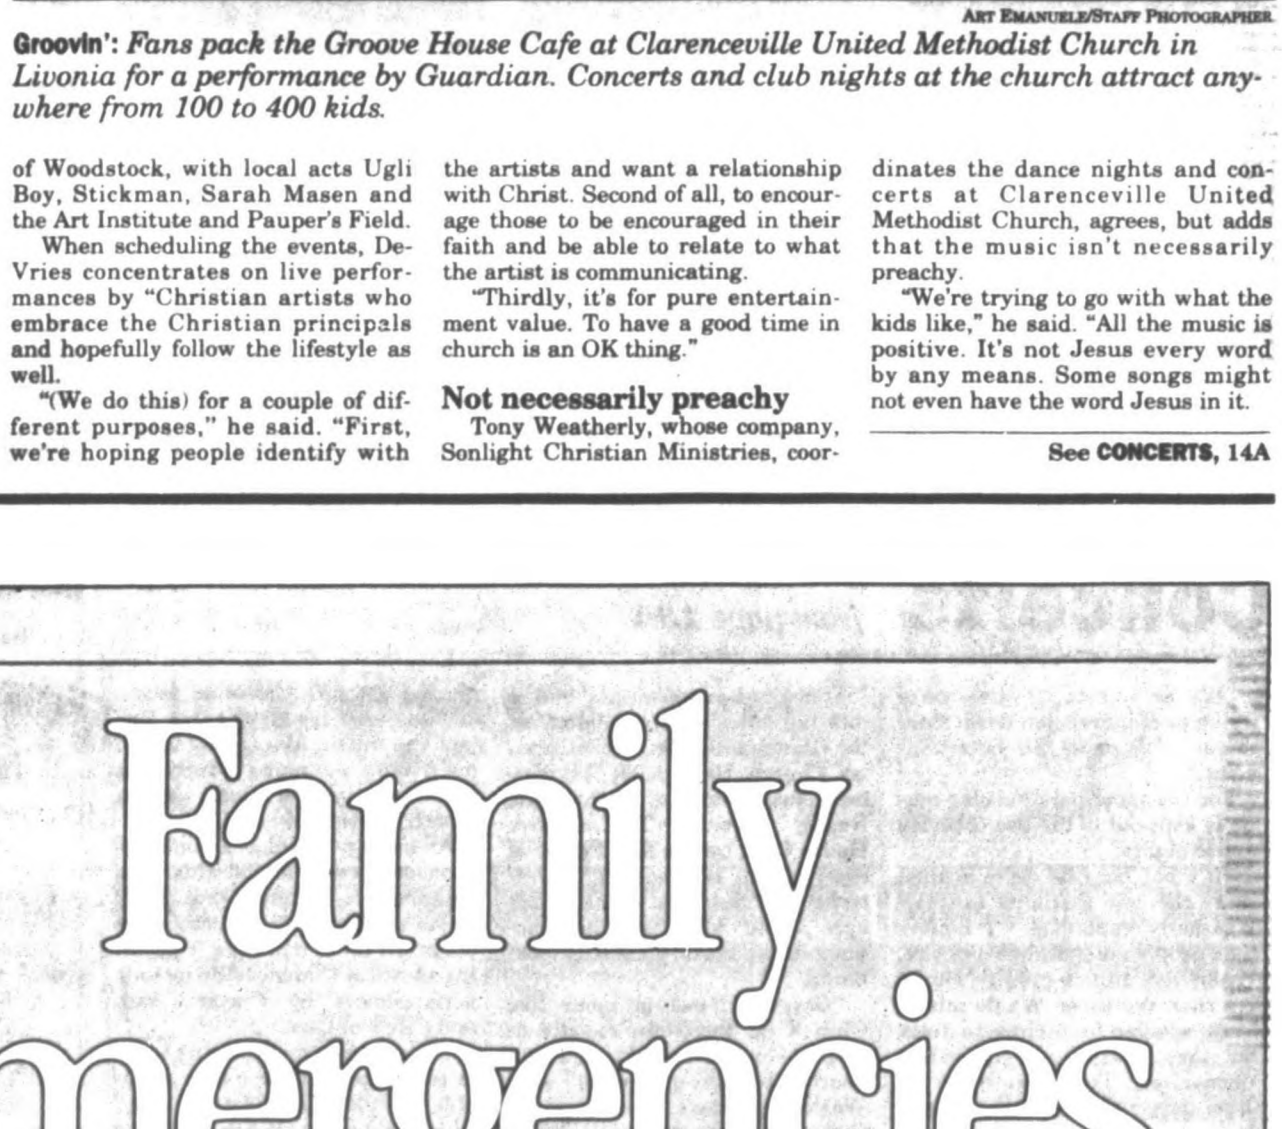

Both Tony's Dad and I were in the band when we were coming up and we maintain, to this day, that band taught us a lot about life itself. Band wasn't just about music and high stepping and "8 to 5" (the eight marching steps between five yard lines on the football field). Band was discipline (and getting yelled at) and patience (and

Music concerts, clubs go to church

■ They're not the kind of places you would associate with popular music, but the Tri-City Christian Center in Canton and the Clarenceville United Methodist Church in Livonia are serving healthy doses of popular Christian music for Generation X.

By Christina Fuoco

Groovin': Fans pack the Groove House Cafe at Clarenceville United Methodist Church in Livonia for a performance by Guardian. Concerts and club nights at the church attract anywhere from 100 to 400 kids.

Kevin DeVries of Tri-City Christian Center is hoping to show kids that having "a good time in church is an OK thing."

His center and Clarenceville United Methodist Church of Livonia are hosting Christian concerts (and in Clarenceville's case, dance nights, too) on a regular basis to provide a clean and safe entertainment for kids.

Although DeVries is more influenced by books than music, he realizes that the medium is the best way to get the Christian message across to the "Generation X" audience.

"One of the dominant influences of this generation is music, so we should be using music to influence kids," said DeVries, director of youth and young adult ministries at the Canton-based Tri-City Christian Center.

Acts like PFR, winners of the Dove Award for Christian Rock Album of the Year and singer/songwriter Bob Kilpatrick are scheduled at DeVries' church. In October, Tri-City Christian Center is hosting "Cross Jam," a scaled down version of Woodstock, with local acts Ugli Boy, Stickman, Sarah Masen and the Art Institute and Pauper's Field.

When scheduling the events, DeVries concentrates on live performances by "Christian artists who embrace the Christian principals and hopefully follow the lifestyle as well.

"(We do this) for a couple of different purposes," he said. "First, we're hoping people identify with the artists and want a relationship with Christ. Second of all, to encourage those to be encouraged in their faith and be able to relate to what the artist is communicating.

"Thirdly, it's for pure entertainment value. To have a good time in church is an OK thing."

Not necessarily preachy

Tony Weatherly, whose company, Sonlight Christian Ministries, coordinates the dance nights and concerts at Clarenceville United Methodist Church, agrees, but adds that the music isn't necessarily preachy.

"We're trying to go with what the kids like," he said. "All the music is positive. It's not Jesus every word by any means. Some songs might not even have the word Jesus in it.

Family Emergencies.

No two emergencies are exactly alike. So all emergency care shouldn't be the same either.

That's why we designed and equipped our emergency department to handle everything from minor accidents to life-threatening injuries. If there are any questions about the seriousness of the emergency, a specially trained nurse is on hand to evaluate the situation and direct you to the appropriate level of treatment.

And whether you're a walk-in patient or require critical care, you'll receive the same quick and personalized medical attention from doctors who are specially trained in emergency medicine.

Our emergency care is backed by the resources of a full-service hospital, it's available 24 hours a day, every day, and it comes with the understanding that minor problems shouldn't result in major expenses . . . good reasons to go to St. Mary Hospital for sudden illness or injury. For more information call us at (313) 464-WELL.

Because when it comes to family emergencies, the specialized care we offer is no accident.

Over-involvement may be affecting her planning ability

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Lorene,

I read your column regularly and would be very interested in having my handwriting analyzed. I am 38 years old and I am right-handed.

If you analyze my handwriting, I will write you back with some feedback.

S.T.,
Farmington Hills

This is the handwriting of an extremely busy, active person. At the time she wrote this letter to me, she was probably "overbooked" and experiencing difficulty keeping the affairs in her life straightened out.

The over-involvement may be affecting her organization and planning ability. She is often inclined to take on more than she can accomplish in a given period of time. She sometimes finds herself committed to something she did not want or cannot really afford to do. This may be creating stress for her.

Working in a routine 9-to-5 position where she was restricted to a desk all day would not hold her interest for very long. She has a need to be up and about. It seems quite possible she is trying to escape from a situation or a person in her life who is causing her to feel threatened.

Determination is evident. Once she begins a task, she likes to complete it, unless she becomes restless like she appears to be currently.

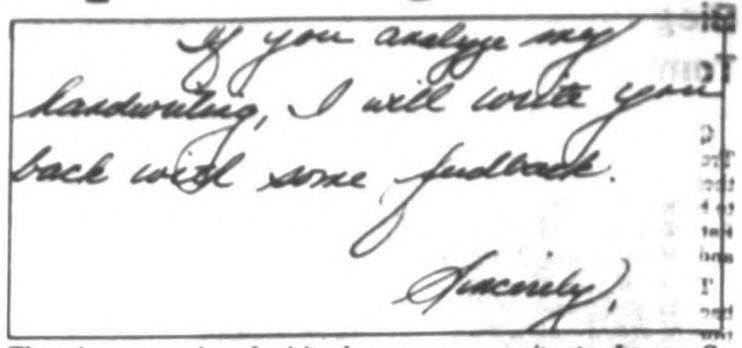

This woman is people-oriented. She enjoys activities and involvement with others and is friendly, caring and usually ready to share her time and talents with them.

She needs to experience love and acceptance from those around her. Perhaps she is not hearing enough positive reinforcement currently.

Imagination is here and entices her down the path of new adventures. She probably is an interesting conversationalist. She may be inclined to exaggerate without even realizing it.

Self-consciousness can also be seen in this handwriting. She is aware of her alleged limitations. She may be ill at ease in unfamiliar situations. I'm aware this next statement may sound like a contradiction, but she also knows how to gain attention from other people and she enjoys it.

Financial security is important to our writer. Her orientation is often toward her own projects.

There is a suggestion of spiritual inclinations here.

This woman reasons with logic. New information is processed methodically and sequentially. She can take tasks down the line one, two and three.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please write a few paragraphs about yourself, using a full sheet of white, unlined paper and writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful. And objective feedback is welcome.

getting yelled at) and humility (and getting yelled at) and fresh, invigorating air (and getting yelled at) and teamwork (and getting yelled at) and a lifetime supply of rewards.

My husband and I went to different schools on opposite sides of the state and even graduated in different years, but common between us (among other things) is our love of music and having been in the band (and getting yelled at).

When you are in band, no matter where you live or where you lie on the troublemaker continuum, you will get yelled at. It's a band "given." If you don't get yelled at, you must not be in the band. Even first chair clarinet, Susan, who toed the line more than anyone then or now, got yelled at. But I'm sure she got used to it just like the rest of us who stayed with it until the very end.

Another thing my husband and I found in common with regard to being in the band was the color of our respective band directors' faces during these yellings — a curious, glorious red. We've also compared how many broken baton ends narrowly missed us as bandspeople in the second row in our respective bands. Very similar. And the behavior patterns of the percussionists and brass section. Very similar in his school and mine.

The percussionists were always targets of the director's hurled words and batons. In my band, it was Gene who got it the most. But then, he brought a lot of it on himself. For instance, during concert season, when practices were in the band room, he would tie strings to music stands and during very long drum rests, when he had nothing better to do, he would pull, inch by dreadful inch, the roped-in music stands across the back of the band room. The tubas would invariably lose their place and their composure. And the band director would lose his temper and his baton.

And then there were the trombone players. They did stuff like move their chairs forward about a foot. This was bad, at least for the saxophone players who sat right in front of them. The trombones, suddenly feeling musically inspired and impassioned, would, on the really low, long-reaching notes, slide their slides with extra force and agitato. Right into the back sides of the saxophone players. This caused all sorts of wrong notes to be played. And caused the conductor to turn a glorious and curious red.

And then there were the forgotten black uniform socks — black shoe polish smeared on Phil's ankles fixed that. And the wrong way tuba section during a halftime show, the fainting epidemic during a marching competition inspection, the cracked reed, stuck valve, rip in the pants of soloists just before a performance. And much more. All of it deserving the hurled batons and the epic yelling.

But it made men and women out of us. My husband, during his senior year, was made drum major, a very high honor in the band world. And in my senior year, at the very end, during our very last concert, I received the band director's award and a public thank you from my band director for having consistently paid attention and taken the years of yelling at so seriously and so personally. He said I was a very dedicated and valuable member of the band. He said I would be missed.

After all these years, I miss it; I still miss the band.

I can't see into the future, but I bet Tony will someday feel the same way.

If you have a question or comment for Karen Meier, call her at 953-2047, mailbox number 1883, on a Touch-Tone phone, or write her at The Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

Concerts

"It's not something where we're trying to cram religion down their throats. It's more for entertainment."

For the most part, secular music is kept out of the two church's music nights.

"It's not because we're against it; we chose to specialize in this," Weatherly explained. "I believe that people should have a choice. We believe this is quality music. It's there for them. We do mix in some secular from time to time, but they (kids) would prefer this themselves. They can hear the other music whenever they want."

Few musical outlets

While there are plenty of outlets for commercial rock, there are few for Christian acts, unless you're mainstreamers like Michael W. Smith and Amy Grant. Christian music is spread through word of mouth. That's what makes organizations like Sonlight and Tri-City important.

Sonlight hosts concerts and a rotating series of "club nights" at the Clarenceville United Methodist Church Hall, 20300 Middlebelt (just south of Eight Mile Road), Livonia. The Groove House Cafe, on the first Friday of every month, is a modern rock/alternative "club" for young adults ages 16 and older, featuring dancing and live music by mostly local bands.

"Groove House is more like Club X (at the State Theatre in Detroit on Saturdays); it's not nearly as nice, of course," said Weatherly, who's been involved with Christian music since the 1970s.

Other nights include "The Fringe" with hard-core, heavy metal Christian music; "The Music Factory" with techno dance music; and "Club Sonlight," a Christian nightclub for those age 20 and older.

"At Clarenceville, basically what the deal is, is there's so much variety in Christian music and so many age groups that (enjoy) the music. We try to do the main ones so young adults can have their type of music once a month," Weatherly said.

An average crowd at a Sonlight-sponsored event is 200 kids. The organization has more than 2,000 on its mailing list. Concerts have attracted up to 450 fans. Upcoming shows at Clarenceville include performances by Prayer Chain and Circle of Dust.

"What we're really trying to do is make some great music available to kids in the Detroit area," Weatherly said. "We're anti-drug and alcohol, but I don't want it to be known for that. We preach for the positive things. You don't have to get drunk or high to have fun. That's the concept we're trying to bring across.

"To have fun you don't need a gang. You can come here and hang out with people who won't shoot you."

Benefits help pay for bone marrow donor search

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

Shellie Smith has been Shirley Grisa's closest friend since third grade. Grisa uses the word sister in referring to Smith and speaks with great affection when talking about how Smith "has been there for me."

Now it is Grisa's turn to be there for Smith, helping to organize fund-raisers to benefits Smith's 4-year-old son Brennen, diagnosed in February with myelodysplastic syndrome, the same preleukemia disease that claimed the life of radio personality J.P. McCarthy last month.

"Shellie has always been there for me and to see this happen to her when she's been there for others," said Grisa, "to be slapped with such a horrible tragedy . . ."

Grisa is working on a Friday, Oct. 6, benefit dinner at Burton Manor in Livonia. Doors will open at 7 p.m. with dinner served at 8 p.m. There also will be dancing to the music of Steve King and the Dittilies, a 50/50 raffle, and a cash bar.

Tickets cost $20 each and Grisa is hoping to attract between 300 and 500 people and raise $10,000. The money will be added to the more than $10,000 already raised for HUGS for Brennen through ham sales, bottle drives and a benefit staged by the Caseville Fraternal Order of the Eagles where Brennen's grandparents Ronald and Denise Grote live.

The family ties to Livonia are deep. The Grotes, Smith's father and stepmother, lived in Livonia for more than 40 years; he is a retired Livonia Police detective sergeant. Her mother and stepfather, Joann and Keith Clement, also lived in Livonia before moving to Florida.

Smith was born in Livonia in 1961 and, like her parents, graduated from Bentley High School. Her husband, Gene, grew up in Novi where his parents, Chuck and Mary Smith, still live. They stayed in the area until 1992, when they moved to South Lyon.

"We're hoping that having it where Shellie and her parents are from, that we have a good turnout," Grisa said.

A $10-a-plate spaghetti dinner also is being planned for Oct. 15 at the South Lyon Hotel, the same day a golf outing will be held at Pebble Creek Golf Course, also in South Lyon.

Covering costs

Husband Gene's medical insurance has covered much of the expenses to date, and Crippled Children's Insurance will pick up the costs of the bone marrow transplant. Neither Smith, her husband, nor 7-year-old sister Allison match, so doctors have begun a worldwide search for a donor, which could cost from $10,000 to $250,000.

"It just depends on how many people they test and how long it takes," said Smith in an interview Tuesday. "The doctors don't want to give percentages, but an article a nurse gave me that was on the Internet said that the recovery rate is 45-60 percent for an unrelated donor match. Doctors have said that without the transplant, it's unheard of it (the syndrome) not coming back."

The response from friends and neighbors and the generosity of strangers has amazed the family. While Smith stayed at the hospital with her son, neighbors made sure her husband and daughter were cared for, providing meals three days a week.

Six or seven neighbors also formed HUGS for Brennen to raise money for the transplant search. Thomas serves as president, while Teresa Dudley is the Memorial Church dedicates addition

After successfully raising more than $1 million from its members more than a year ago, Memorial Church of Christ in Livonia will dedicate its newly renovated and expanded building with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 5:15 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 24.

The ceremony is just part of the activities planned for Dedication Sunday. The celebration will begin with a homecoming for two guests, Paul and Mark St. Louis, who will speak at the morning worship services.

They grew up, attending Memorial Church, and were ordained by the congregation. Paul, a minister at the Deerfield Church of Christ in Lapeer, will address the 9:30 a.m. service, while Mark, minister of the First Church of Christ in Owosso, will lead the 10:45 a.m. service.

After the services, children nursery age through high school will participate in a balloon launch in front of the building at about noon.

The main events are scheduled for the afternoon and include an open house and reception with tours of the facility 4-5:15 p.m.

After the ribbon cutting, a dedication service will be held 5:30-6:30 p.m. in the multipurpose room. The service will include special music from Memorial members as well as a video presentation of the building process over the last 15 months.

Brant Lee Doty, former minister of Memorial Church and now chancellor of Great Lakes Christian College in Lansing, will deliver the message, "Let Us Arise and Build."

In June 1994, the church broke ground for the 19,000-square foot addition which includes a new lobby, kitchen and several new classrooms. But the crowning achievement is the multipurpose room which can be used as gymnasium, banquet hall or auditorium and can accommodate up to 450 people.

As part of the project, the 20,000-square foot church building, constructed in 1970, was completely renovated, and the parking was expanded to 270 spaces in three wrap-around lots.

Memorial Church of Christ, at 35465 Five Mile Road, between Levan and Farmington roads, is celebrating 53 years of service to the community. It currently has 550 active members.

Bids for Kids auction will benefit 3 service agencies

Three agencies that work with children will benefit from the first ever Bids for Kids Auction, slated for Friday, Sept. 22, at Laurel Manor in Livonia.

The Michigan Association of Children's Alliances in Lansing, Development Centers Inc. in Detroit and Windward Clinic in Livonia will benefit from the 7-10 p.m. auction.

A country western barbecue will be the evening's theme, and guests will enjoy a full buffet and music. Denim & Lace, a country western dance group, also will give a demonstration and teach line dancing.

During the dinner and dancing, guests will have the opportunity to bid on a variety of items during the silent auction. Sold to the highest bidder will be a such items as two tickets to a University of Michigan football game, a T-shirt autographed by Detroit Pistons Joe Dumars, two tickets to a Detroit Red Wings game and two clubhouse passes to the 1996 Buick Open.

The live auction will begin at 9 p.m. and will feature a 1996 Buick LeSabre Limited sedan, donated by the Buick Motor Division. All bidders interested in the car must come with written proof of credit. The car will be sold to the highest bidder who can meet the buying terms and agreements. The buyer will select the color of the LeSabre. For more information about the car auction, call Laura Letzler at (517) 485-0804.

Other items for the live auction include two season tickets to Detroit Whalers hockey, a getaway to Caesars Poconos Resort in Pennsylvania and a Pekingese puppy.

"This auction is unique because three organizations are working together on one event instead of each group having its own fund raiser," said Carolynne Jarvis, executive director of MACA. "By combining our resources we can raise more dollars and create greater awareness for the work we are doing for kids."

MACA is a 38-year-old statewide action and information network focusing on the needs of children and their families. It conducts professional trainings and advocacy projects throughout the state.

Development Centers Inc. is dedicated to providing comprehensive mental health, social and related human services. Each year, DCI provides prevention and treatment services to more than 1,300 infants, children, adolescents and their families.

Windward Clinic is a full service child/adolescent out-patient mental healthy facility. It specializes in Attachment Disorder, Attention Deficit Disorder/Attention Deficity With Hyperactivity Disorder services and parent education.

Tickets are priced at $25 each and are available by calling MACA at (517) 485-0840 or Cathy Leisman at DCI at (313) 531-2300. The deadline for reservations is Sept. 18.

secretary-treasurer. And Grisa . . .

"This has become Shirley's full-time job," said Smith. "It's amazing how much work people are doing for us. If we didn't have the support, this would be harder."

Born on Dec. 6, 1990, Brennen's problems first surfaced at age 10 months when he was hospitalized with a lower-than-normal platelet count. He was monitored for 3/4 years and eventually diagnosed with idiopathic thrombocytopenia, a platelet destruction disease.

However, recurring fevers aggravated the disease and by last November, he began developing bruises in strange places all over his body and his toes and fingers turned black and swelled.

In January, he was taken to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor, where a bone-marrow test led to the diagnosis of myelodysplastic syndrome.

"The doctor left a message and I knew they had the cyto-genetic test back, but figured it wasn't bad news because he left a message," said Smith. "They don't usually tell you over the phone if it's bad, but he told me and I felt like I fell under water."

Lengthy stays

Since then he has spent more of time in the hospital, including hospitalization for a strep throat and ear infection while in Florida to visit Walt Disney World and the Clements and an aunt and uncle who also live there. The trip was a wish granted by the Make-A-Wish Foundation before he began very aggressive chemotherapy.

The chemotherapy involved four 96-hour sessions, and Brennen developed an infection in the broviac (a permanent IV tube) after the second session, resulting in emergency surgery to remove it. It was reattached after two weeks and the treatments resumed a month later.

Brennen also was hospitalized between the third and fourth sessions and was home for just four days after the fourth session when his fever returned. He was hospitalized for 8/4 weeks. The first four weeks he had constant fevers, diarrhea and vomiting and received platelet transfers every other day throughout his stay.

He finally came home when his fevers subsided to only twice a day. Shortly after his release doctors, using a CAT scan, determined that fungal lesions on his liver were causing the fevers. Strong antibiotics, administered intravenously, for 10 weeks are being used to treat the lesions and a CAT scan next week will determine if they have begun to shrink, Smith said.

"It boggles my mind that his little body can take all it does," said Smith.

The family is doing better these days, and Smith marvels at how well her children are dealing with the crisis.

"A lot of time, Brennen doesn't ask for explanations and understanding; he's the sweetest kid," said a tearful Smith. "Allison understands. She never asks why I have to spend every day in the hospital. I'm glad she accepts it and doesn't get jealous."

And with his improving condition, Brennen has gotten the go ahead from doctors to start preschool. His first day was Tuesday and, according to his mother, he was excited.

"We're doing great now, because he's doing so well," she said."

Grimy work: Working on the steam locomotives is grimy work, and Tom Fisher admits his wife Lynne only lets him in as far as the kitchen in his work clothes. At right, Fisher peers out from his unusual vantage point — inside the steam boiler of the Detroit and Mackinac steam locomotive.

Working on the Railroad Days

For Tom Fisher, the timeless tune about working on the railroad comes true daily at Greenfield Village.

STORY BY STAFF WRITER SUE MASON

From deep underneath the boiler of 1873 steam locomotive, the Torch Lake, a voice announces: "I thought it would be cool to go work for Lionel but even cooler to work on the big ones."

The voice belongs to Tom Fisher, a full-time historical operating machinery technician at Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, who, with John Scott, the railroad superintendent, and fellow technician Rich Humphrey, are repairing a special ground joint that sprang a leak.

RAILROAD DAYS

- WHAT: It's "all aboard" for a two-day celebration of railroading history, featuring more than a dozen railroad cars, coal-burning and diesel locomotives, even a little red caboose, model trains, demonstrations, performances and hands-on activities for families.
- WHEN: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 23-24.
- WHERE: Greenfield Village, 20900 Oakwood Blvd., Dearborn, (313) 271-1976.
- COST: Village admission of $12.50 for adults, $11.50 for senior citizens 62 years and older, $6.25 for children ages 5-12 years, and free for children under age 5.

Working on one of the regularly operating locomotives at the village, the men are getting the engine back on line in preparation for the fourth annual Railroad Days Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 23-24, when it will circle the village, pulling vintage freight cars, including a refrigerator car, boxcar and red caboose.

"This is one of the more difficult repairs we've done this summer," said Fisher, helping Scott line up the steam pipe. "And unfortunately, we'll have to take the boiler off this winter to fix it right."

For the Livonia resident, working on the historical machinery from the trains, steamboat and machinery in the village's mills to the antique cars and equipment stock in the museum is almost a dream come true.

Fisher's interest in trains started with model trains, specifically the American Flyer, while he was finishing up work on his mechanical engineering degree at Lawrence

SPECIAL EVENT

'Artrageous' event features 12 galleries

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

If you're looking for something fun to do Sept. 29-Oct. 1, the Plymouth art community has the event for you, and it's all free.

Make a day of it or even two at Plymouth is Artrageous. This second annual art extravaganza offers the opportunity to meet artists working in nearly every medium imaginable from raku pottery to classic car paintings and animation. Plus there's music in the streets and a taste of local restaurants during an opening reception.

Undoubtedly, the biggest art event of the season, the weekend walk features 12 galleries plus a presentation of contemporary portraiture by the Plymouth Community Arts Council. Chalk murals by students from the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will guide visitors to the next stop on the walk.

In addition, each gallery will display artworks by students from these schools.

The Mayflower Hotel is offering a sneak peak of the event by showcasing many of the works in their windows lining Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail.

"I'm excited about the whole event, the music on the streets, the artists in the galleries, the students being on hand on Sunday to talk about their art, the businesses helping one another, and the event itself for creating such a positive force for Plymouth to be known for its galleries," said show chairwoman Annette Horn, co-owner of Native West Gallery.

A 24-page guide to the walk is available at businesses and galleries in Plymouth, Northville and Ann Arbor as well as the rest of the Observerland area.

Here's an abbreviated look at the guest artists and goings-on at each gallery:

• The Animation Station, 550 Forest, a one-stop animation art/cartoon collectible gallery, hosts Steve Stanchfield demonstrating the process he used to create "The Lion King" animated story book CD-ROM.

Stanchfield will answer questions about animation art and its history. Also on hand will be fine art photographer Bruce Beck with his images of

FINE ARTS

Wildlife art is gallery's specialty

By Linda Ann Chomin
Special Writer

When Kal Jabara began collecting wildlife art back in 1971, very few galleries handled original artwork or limited-edition prints by nature artists.

Jabara found himself traveling to Minnesota to view paintings of wolf, fox and deer as Michigan galleries proclaimed "wildlife art was not fine art."

Tiring of his pursuit of wildlife art in 1980, the semi-retired businessman established the first Wild Wings Gallery in Plymouth as a franchise of a Minnesota mail order catalogue. The gallery has since spread its wings to locations in Birmingham and Grosse Pointe.

Wild Wings specializes in limited-edition wildlife prints. Original paintings put the cost of owning an artwork out of most people's reach, explains Jabara. Prints of animals ranging from wolves to river otters by internationally acclaimed artists including Carl Brenders and Robert Bateman stare back at you from the walls.

Priced from $95 to several hundred dollars, the art is Super-Realism at its finest. Viewers see every single strand comprising a fox's fur or a grizzly's coat.

But Wild Wings is a whole lot more than art. From furniture, weather vanes and decorative home accents to art and books, the gallery offers hundreds of wildlife related items. The minute customers walk into the gallery, Jabara or one of his assistants take delight in introducing hunter and non-hunter alike to the beauty of the out-of-doors.

"Wild Wings specializes in nature and wildlife art and home decorative accessories but we're not just for the hunter. We have songbird statues and some golf art," said Wild Wings owner Kal Jabara.

"Our customer base is a 75 mile radius because people don't have a place that carries wildlife and nature items where they live. We're a very popular place for gifts for Father's Day, Christmas, anniversaries and retirements."

Wild Wings is a full-service gallery with framing available. One wall of the 3,300 sq. ft. space is entirely devoted to portraits of labrador, springer spaniels and many other hunting and hound breeds. Glassware, plates, afghans, and composition sculptures also bear the likenesses of this favorite companion animal.

"I think the popularity of Wild Wings is due to the fact that a lot of people relate to the out-of-doors. The dogs are really popular because everyone wants a picture that looks like their best friend," said Beth Kral, manager and bookkeeper at the Plymouth location.

Over the year's the theme's remained the same, the best-selling wildlife artists have changed. Customers in the mid 1990s favor the art of Terry Redlin and Carl Brenders.

"There are so many new artists. There's so much competition out there, the wildlife art lovers in the last 15 years have become very sophisticated and selective," said Jabara.

Wild Wings Gallery hours at its Plymouth location are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Wednesday and Saturday, until 9 p.m. Thursday-Friday, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call (313) 455-3400.

Technological University. That's also when he started doing volunteer work on a locomotive in Owosso.

Yes, he tells you, he had a model train as a child, "but I didn't have an American Flyer, and I always wanted one." It wasn't until 1986 that he got his American Flyer first pieces— a locomotive, a caboose and some tracks.

Now, he has a collection of 50 freight cars, 18 locomotives, 12 passenger cars and accessories. Most of it is on display, although he does have plans for an "elaborate layout."

Tha interest also is the reason why he finished college thinking about a career with Mount Celemns-based Lionel. When American Flyer went out of business, Lionel bought the dies.

But six-eight months out of school, he answered a railroad trade fan magazine advertisement for someone to take care of the locomotives and rolling stock at the village and museum. He was surprised he got the job.

"The first day John took me down to do some track work and said we were going to have fun," said Fisher, dressed in bib overalls and the tradition train engineer's hat. "We had fun for about 10 minutes and he disappeared. That's the way it was all week.

"Here, I had great visions of working on antique engines, and I was doing track work."

A normal work day for Fisher is 6:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., but some times he can be there for several days working on a locomotive. Since they can't go to Murray's to get parts for the equipment, they manufacture 80 percent of what they need in the machine shop. And what they can't make, Fisher does the design work, the drawings for the pattern makers to make casts of the parts that are needed.

"If things need attention, we give them the attention so things run smoothly," he said. "Almost every repair is different. Some are simple and take 15 minutes, and there are times where a locomotive comes in and you're here until 5 the next morning."

While he's partial to the Port Huron steam tractor, which he will operate during village's annual Harvest Days later this month, he likes the steam engines best.

He also admits he loves the engines "some days more than others." One of those other days is at the end of the railroad season when they wash out the boilers in preparation for the winter hiatus.

"It's usually about 30 degrees and the water splashes all over," Fisher said.

Fisher knew from the outset that job wouldn't be all "machinery stuff," and he's done a lot since joining the staff in 1988, like going with Scott to Chicago to get the No. 154, a 1909 Bessemer & Lake Erie locomotive ,in sub-zero temperatures.

Plans were to have the engine at the village in time for Christmas. It was to roll through the huge double doors at the back of the building, decorated with a just as large red bow. The engine was late arriving — "We lost power on the way back," Fisher said. — and when it finally arrived, it wouldn't fit through the doors. The 154 was five inches taller than the railroad had measured and had to be stored until the entrance could be enlarged.

The 154 will be among cars brought out of the museum and displayed in the village during Railroad Days. The village's other 19th century locomotive, the Edison, will be outfitted with passenger cars and give visitors rides around the complex.

There also will hands-on activities. Vistors will be able to try their hands at pumping a historic handcar, use their muscle to move a 15-ton locomotive on a 40-ton turntable or join costumed presenters at a "hobo camp."

"In this era of planes and automobiles, we've lost our connection to the railroad," Scott said. "This event lets people get close — and even into — the trains and discover for themselves what railroads have done, are still doing and what they might do in the future."

■ Native West Gallery, 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail, is flying in Tina Garcia, an award-winning potter, from the Acoma Pueblo in New Mexico. Garcia will mold and paint her vessels throughout the weekend. Lakota Indian flute artist Ivan Thunderhawk performs during the Sept. 29 reception. His hand crafted flutes will also be displayed.

■ Always on the cutting edge, Penniman Showcase, 820 Penniman, features T.D.K.N. knitwear by Tom Dudzenski, a professional chef in Bloomfield Hills. Dudzenski's one-of-a-kind clothing is made from hand dyed and spun yarns in much the same way he uses ingredients to create his culinary endeavors.

■ The Sipapu Company, 298 S. Main Street at Penniman, a shop specializing in Southwestern furniture and accessories for the home, will bring in figurative Pueblo potter Alma Loretto and her Storyteller ceramics.

■ The Victorian Gallery, 842 Penniman, and its Victorian inspired decorative and personal accessories, will offer the opportunity to watch Peggy Kaufman create one of her mosaic tables using china pieces donated by the community. Proceeds from the sale of the table will be donated to a woman's shelter in the Plymouth area.

■ Wild Wings Gallery, 388 S. Main Street, will feature wildlife artist Cyndy Callog.

■ The Plymouth Community Arts Council will present three days of slide presentations, workshops and demonstrations with father and son portrait artists Joseph and Robert Maniscalco at Frame Works, 833 Penniman.

For more information about the two-day workshop with Robert (cost is $50), call the arts council at (313) 416-4ART.

"The gallery walk held in conjunction with the Plymouth Music Festival in Kellogg Park is the perfect opportunity for anyone interested in art to meet the artists and watch the demonstrations," said arts council executive director Randy Lee.

FINE ARTS

Constructions and collage compete for thought

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Two Livonia residents, former and present, are in the news. From constructions to collage, the mixed media work of Susan Morowsky and photography by Carlos Diaz give the viewer plenty of images, ideas and concepts to ponder in exhibits around town.

Morowsky's one-woman show of non-representational abstract paintings, many of them pieced together in what the Highland artist calls constructions, continue on display through Sept. 30 in the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery.

Sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission, the show is small, barely 30 pieces, leaving many of the panels bare.

If you like abstract paper art glued together in jigsaw puzzle fashion, this show is full of it. Morosky, a graduate of Livonia Franklin High School, however, puts her talent to best use in works like "Another Day."

In this acrylic and pastel painting, she successfully uses multicolored cubist forms to shape a seated female figure. Her green skin tones catch the eye and give it cause to ponder the piece.

Morosky, who is represented by the Berman Pelletier Gallery in Ann Arbor, says she uses a strong sense of design and classicism in her recent works incorporating linear, flat and multiple forms. She sees her approach to art as a spiritual abstraction that employs layered colors and surface textures to offer insight into the emotional dimensions contained within the constructions.

Morosky graduated cum laude from Eastern Michigan University's School of Art after completing graduate and undergraduate degrees in scientific disciplines. She also studied at Schoolcraft College where professors Lincoln Lao and Martha Keller encouraged her to utilize interests in architecture and science into her art.

Invented landscapes

Livonia photographer Carlos Diaz exhibits his latest body of work in a "Out of Sight, Out of Mind," a two-person show with Gilda Snowden Sept. 29 through November 3 at the Center Galleries, Park Shelton Building, 15 East Kirby Street, Suite 107, Detroit.

The work in the exhibition was completed with assistance from the Sabbatical Support Fund of Center for Creative Studies, College of Art and Design where both are on staff.

An opening reception to meet the artists takes place 5-7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 29 in the gallery run by CCS. To learn more about the work in the exhibit, don't miss a talk by the artists 5 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 11.

This is Diaz's first major show in a long time because of his time-consuming involvement in community projects working with kids through organizations such as Casa de Unidad.

In this latest show Diaz, who recently was named chairman of the photography department at CCS, deviates from his normal pattern of producing photography that exposes the plight of the working man, unemployed auto worker, the low man on society's totem pole.

Black and white silver prints and collaged steel engravings produce Invented Landscapes of Coney Island in this series.

From his artist statement Diaz reveals that at the turn of the century Coney Island represented leisure in America. Diaz spent the 1995 winter semester photographing the images of Coney Island on the off-season. To these he adds engravings lifted with an X-Acto knife from patent journals published during the same period.

The engravings refer primarily to the machines the industrial revolution was built upon: machines of labor. "By combining machines of labor with machines of leisure, I create not only an Invented Landscape but also a Coney Island of the Mind," he said.

Diaz has always gone against the norm to fight for the underdog. So too, this new series questions the polarity or irony of the place known as Coney Island: "a place for leisure, an escape from pre-industrial" America.

"There's a conflict (in my images). The viewer is fooled in the beginning — what is fabricated; what is real. There's a lot of irony to the lives we live, always many sides to issues: the more facts you seem to obtain, the less that seems to be factual," he said.

"It's how I've come to look at life. Things are never quite what they seem."

Project Arts of Canton seeks artists

Project Arts of Canton is calling all artists. The third annual Canton Fine Arts Exhibition is tentatively scheduled for the first week in December and will premiere in the new Summit on the Park community center. A specific date will be set later, said Project Arts publicity chair Cheryl Staats.

For more information or applications contact Kathleen Salla, Canton volunteer coordinator, 397-6450.

Artists may submit slides of their work in a variety of media, including clay, drawing, jewelry, mixed media, painting, photography, sculpture and textiles.

Slides should include the artist's name, title and media of the work and dimensions. Application fees are a non-refundable $15 for non-residents and $10 for Canton residents.

The show's juror will be Mary Stephenson, curator and director of the Sisson Gallery at Henry Ford Community College, and also a drawing and art appreciation instructor. She is on the University of Michigan School of Arts Board of Governors and is the former assistant curator for the Department of 20th Century Art at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

THEATER

PTG off to a great start with funny 'Nunsense'

Plymouth Theatre Guild presents the musical comedy "Nunsense," weekends through Sept. 30 at the Water Tower Theatre (on the campus of Northville Regional Hospital), 41001 W. Seven Mile, Northville. Tickets are $10 at the door, $9 in advance. Call (810) 349-7110.

BOB WEIBEL

Plymouth Theatre Guild's 49th season is off to a stunning start with the musical comedy, "Nunsense." As the title indicates, this production is a madcap romp to show that "nuns are fun."

The cast is one of the most talented you will ever see in community theater. Even the orchestra, under Cheryl Bubar's direction, is first rate and director, Francine Jo Hachem, energizes the cast from beginning to end.

Actually, the show begins before the beginning with the good sisters selling 50-50 raffle tickets (with winner announced at intermission). The audience gets in on the act as they bounce a beach ball off each other's head around the auditorium.

The Reverend Mother squirts the audience with a water pistol and we're off and running as the Little Sisters from Hoboken put on a talent show to raise money for a funeral. It seems that several nuns in the convent died from eating bad soup. Alas, there wasn't enough money to bury them all. Four are temporarily in the freezer. So, be generous with your donations!

Is that an outrageous premise or what. For sure it is an evening hilarity and good natured fun at the expense of Catholic traditions and foibles. Whatever the high jinks, they never become offensive.

The cast has a wealth of talent and experience in musical theater. Some have performed with professional acts, others teach or are majoring in musical theater in college. What they all do best is sing and dance.

REVIEW

You haven't seen nothing until you see five nuns in habits doing a tap-dance routine or belting out a spiritual number like "Holier Than Thou."

Judi Alonzo, of Northville, is playing the Reverend Mother Sister Mary Regina for the third time. No wonder she is so good and so believable. From the moment she admonishes a playgoer with "Are you chewing gum, Did you bring enough for everyone?". . . you have the feeling of being in school again, and you know who is in charge.

Rachel Birk (Sister Mary Hulbert) is attending Schoolcraft College and about to make a decision between a career in journalism or a life on the stage. The latter wouldn't be a bad choice. Her number with Sister Regina, "Just A Couple of Sisters," and her tap routine are first rate.

Dana Piccoli (Sister Mary Amnesia) is a senior at Mercy High School in Farmington Hills, and plans to major in musical theater in college. She is delightfully forgetful and in great voice as she puts on a pair of baby blue, rhinestone-studded cowboy boots and belts out "I Could've Gone To Nashville."

Linda Piccoli (Sister Robert Anne) is preparing a nightclub act. And no wonder. She really knows how to present a song on stage. And what a gas to see her prance on stage to a samba beat with an outrageous Carmen Miranda hat of bananas, oranges and grapes.

Finally, we have Tamara Whatley (Sister Mary Leo) a junior at Eastern Michigan in music education. She not only has a beautiful voice, but she ties on her ballet slippers and dances away the night. A very talented young lady, indeed.

'Lost in Yonkers' is a joy to watch

Players Guild of Dearborn, 21730 Madison, presents "Lost in Yonkers" weekends through Oct. 1. Call (313) 561-TKTS. For information, call (313) 277-5164.

BY TAMI TABACCHI
SPECIAL WRITER

As always, Neil Simon's "Lost in Yonkers" is an emotional roller coaster that is a joy to watch. Being staged at the Dearborn Players Guild, it is even more of a joy than usual.

This performance is loaded with splendid acting, traditionally accurate set designs, and a 1942 wardrobe that will make you wonder where they ever found those costumes! All of these things help to make this Neil Simon comedy the Pulitzer Prize winner that it is.

Set in Yonkers, New York in 1942, the play chronicles the lives of two teenage boys who are forced to live with their mean grandmother and mentally challenged aunt for one year while their father works as a traveling salesman to get the family out of debt. As we are whisked into the lives of this nuclear family, we are introduced to a variety of relationships. Some of these relationships are healthy, some are dysfunctional, but all are very strong. This play takes us through feelings of love, anger, hurt, sorrow and joy — feelings that all families experience. It is most likely through this array of feelings that Neil Simon has captivated the hearts of his audience.

"Lost in Yonkers" opens with the two teenage boys, Jay and Arty, waiting rather unwillingly to visit their grandmother. They soon learn that their father plans on leaving them with her so that he can work to pay off a $9,000 debt. Anthony T. Lawry and Joey Oravec are hysterical as the playful and sometimes "fresh" boys. Their show of brotherly antics are more than believable. Be sure to watch their facial expressions for sarcasm and silly expressions that only teenage boys in 1942 could make. Grandma Kumitz, played by Diane Kremser is awfully frightening as the stern, and rather unfriendly Grandma. Her lines are laced with pain and anger that could only be acted out by a true theater professional. When Grandma walks on stage, even the audience shakes.

REVIEW

By Lonnie Valentini's side-splitting mobster performance as Uncle Louie, you'd think he was probably a gangster in real life. Joe Donovan is heart-breaking as the tortured father willing to do whatever it takes to help his family. We can't forget Gail Mesner, as the Aunt who can barely breathe. She makes the audience laugh every time she speaks.

The absolute astounding performance is given by Kim Donovan, who plays Aunt Bella. Aunt Bella is forced to live with her mean-spirited mother due to her mental handicap which forces her to have a child-like mind. Inside, she longs to be a wife and mother, and to live a normal life with people who treat her with love and warmth. When Bella gets happy, the audience lights up, too! Her radiant and energetic appearance is a show stealer. When she weeps for her unfulfilled goals, the audience cries with her. There is a true sense of feeling in every word and action she takes.

"Lost in Yonkers" is a fabulous play, but somehow the Dearborn Players Guild has managed to make it even a little better.

Local performers cast in this play include Diane Kremser of Garden City as Grandma, Kimberly Kope Donovan of Farmington Hills as Bella and her husband, Joe Donovan as Eddie. Anthony Lawry of Garden City plays Jay. Lonnie Valentini of Livonia appears as Uncle Louie, and Gail Mesner of Plymouth portrays Aunt Gert.

Hokey 'Hackers' logs into the computer culture

JOHN MONAGHAN

REVIEW

"Hackers" has the same problem that many computer systems do. Held back from its original release by several months, this state-of-the-art computer thriller already seems out of date.

The title characters are New York City high school students who spend their nights gaining electronic access to television stations, school records, and major corporations. Kate (Jesse Bradford), the school's reigning computer queen, meets her match in Dade (Jonny Lee Miller), a new transfer.

The plot has all the subtleties of an after school special. Law enforcement should be arresting real criminals, the movie says loudly, instead of cracking down on harmless hackers.

One of these hotshots taps into the wrong system, copying a garbage file that will implicate a corporation's computer security officer in a multi-million dollar embezzlement scheme.

The skateboard-riding bad guy (Fisher Stevens) goes by the handle "The Plague" and he has created a virus that will cause computer-navigated oil tankers to capsize. Of course he blames the impending environmental disaster on those meddling kids.

Realize early that this is pure silliness and "Hackers" can actually be a good time. Filling the movie with garish colors and flamboyant characters all thumping to a modern rock soundtrack, director Iain Softley tries to inject the same excitement into computers that he did with the young Beatles in the underrated "BackBeat."

He opens the movie with a shot of Dade approaching New York City by airplane. From directly above, the skyscrapers and city streets dissolve into computer chips with electrical impulses darting around like so many Big Apple taxi cabs.

Now, every time a character boots up their computer, an explosion of wild colors fills the screen in psychedelic virtual reality. For these kids, using the keyboard to penetrate confidential files is the ultimate in unsafe sex.

The actors are surprisingly likable, especially Miller's young genius on parole from the on-line mischief he got into at age 11. And despite Bradford's post-punk posing, it's hard not to like a heroine who sleeps with a full-size poster of Fritz Lang's "Metropolis" above her bed.

Ironically, "Hackers"' intended audience of teenage computer geeks will likely be turned off by its implausability. For me, who has a gee-whiz attitude toward the Internet and very limited knowledge, "Hackers" can be an entertaining trip into the computer culture.

SCREEN SCENE

A sampling of what's playing at alternative movie theaters across metro Detroit as reviewed by John Monaghan.

■ DETROIT FILM THEATRE
Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward, Detroit. Call (313) 833-2323 for information. ($5; $4 students)

"The Mystery of Rampo" (Japan - 1995). 7, 9:30 p.m. Sept. 22-23; 4, 7 p.m. Sept. 24. A writer pens a story about a woman who suffocates her husband only to find real-life mirroring his work. His subsequent plunge into the world of obsessive, erotic fantasy makes this one of the most bizarre and challenging films of the year.

"The Wings of Honneamise" (Japan - 1987). 7 p.m. Sept. 25. Also known as "Royal Space Force," this boldly designed feature is one of the must-see titles in Japanese animation.

■ MAGIC BAG THEATRE
22918 Woodward, Ferndale. Call (810) 544-3030 for information. ($4 unless otherwise noted)

"Grease" (USA - 1978). 7:30 p.m. Sept. 21. John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John come from different sides of the tracks in this kitschy tribute to 1950s music and morals. Based on the popular stage play.

"Michigan Lesbian and Gay Film Festival." Sept. 22-24, call (810) 825-6651 for full schedule and showtimes. The third annual event kicks off Friday with a screening of "No Ordinary Love," a twentysomething comedy/drama about the tangled lives and loves of six L.A.-based friends. On Saturday and Sunday, premieres of shorts and features including "Ballot Measure 9," "Heaven's a Drag," and "Sister My Sister." (Tickets $6 per screening; $15 festival day pass)

"Crumb" (USA - 1994). 8 p.m. Sept. 25-27 (call for showtimes). An extraordinary documentary about underground comic artist R. Crumb doesn't blink in its honest portrait of his life and work. Especially unforgettable are interviews with the brothers who make the eccentric Robert the most stable member of his family.

■ MAIN ART THEATRE
118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180 for information and showtimes. ($6.50; $4 students and matinee; $3 twilight)

"Jeffrey" (USA - 1995). A gay actor/waiter living in New York vows celibacy in fear of contracting AIDS but then meets the man of his dreams, who just happens to be HIV-positive. "Star Trek's" Patrick Stewart recalls his stage actor origins in his turn as a flamboyant interior decorator.

"The Usual Suspects" (USA - 1995). Five guys who meet in a police lineup join for a simple heist. What happens next will keep you guessing in this cleverly scripted caper starring Gabriel Byrne, Kevin Spacey, and Chazz Palminteri.

"The Brothers McMullen" (USA - 1995). For what some people spend on a new car, Edward Burns made this engaging first feature about a young screenwriter and his two brothers in contemporary Long Island. Burns calls his audience pleaser a "romantic comedy for guys," and what it lacks in acting and production values it more than makes up in charm.

■ MAPLE THEATRE
4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield Township. All titles play through at least next Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 855-9090 for information. ($6; $2.95 twilight)

"Country Life" (Australia - 1995). Life on a turn-of-the-century sheep ranch is thrown into chaos with the return of a long-lost son-in-law and his English wife. Based on Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya," it stars Sam Neill, Greta Scacchi, and Kerry Fox.

"The Usual Suspects" (USA - 1995). See Main Art Theatre listing above.

"The Brothers McMullen" (USA - 1995). See Main Art Theatre listing above.

■ REDFORD THEATRE
17360 Lahser, Redford. Call (313) 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)

"Gigi" (USA - 1958). 8 p.m. Sept. 22; 2, 8 p.m. Sept. 23 (organ overture begins a half hour before showtime). Leslie Caron and Louis Jordan star in this Oscar-winning musical based on Colette's story of a French girl with her sights set on high society. Dapper Frenchman Maurice Chevalier croons the memorable "Thank Heaven for Little Girls."

Paradise — Mimi Harris and the Snakes

In the course of just under an hour, Mimi Harris and her Snakes assay jazzy blues and bluesy rock with an ease and confidence that, under different circumstances (meaning: a major recording contract) would have put them all over the radio all over the country.

"Paradise" (Snake Den Records) is an extraordinary disc on a couple levels. With the kind of vocal elasticity that moves her agilely through the "adult rock" title piece, as comfortably as the Tom Waits-inspired beatnik motif of "Midnight," and the finger-snapping lope of "Snake Blues," Harris demonstrates decisively that no one in Detroit can touch her, for stylistic diversity at the very least.

Imagine a powerful Joan Armatrading with shades of Bonnie Raitt, a smidgen of Joplin and a taste of prime Peggy Lee thrown into a musical blender. Skip the comparisons, though. The bottom line is that Mimi Harris is The Voice in Detroit.

No mere "backup band," her Snakes rank among the most impressive in town, too. Listen to the Jeff Beck-meets-Hendrix stylings of "Twilight Bark," with Bill Cooper proving why he's long been considered one of the best guitarists in metro Detroit, and exceptional Hammond work from Jimmy Bones, for proof. This ranks as equal to anything I've heard this year from Ronnie Earl or Dave Specter, and there's more of the same on the Cooper showcase, "Cozmo Takes A Walk."

Outside of the instrumentals, these are all Mimi Harris originals, and there isn't a clinker in the lot. If there's a radio-ready single here, it's "Snakes Blues," though with the caliber of material on the disc, that's not to infer that it's necessarily the best cut. "Strange Feeling" is a better vocal showcase and "Troubled Mind" is the kind of song that gets under the skin and makes a beeline for the goose-bump control center.

Mimi Harris has been in the local trenches for 20 years now, working solo gigs and fronting bands that have included heavyweights like Jim McCarty and Drew Abbot. There's never been a question that she should have been recorded and distributed nationally a long time ago. Maybe she needed to wait until now to have this superb band to work with. The elements are certainly in place.

(Mimi Harris and the Snakes play the "Blues in the Park" free concert in Kellogg Park, downtown Plymouth, after 5 p.m. Friday, Sept. 29.)

Rock 'n' Roll — New York Dolls

Frequently hailed alongside Blondie, Talking Heads, and the Ramones as pioneers of America's punk scene in the '70s, the New York Dolls plainly had more in common with the raunch and swagger of the Rolling Stones than with the truly British bile of the Sex Pistols. Lead singer David Johansen, later known as the bad joke Buster Poindexter, looked and sounded like a hard-core Jagger wannabe, and his would-be Keith, guitarist Johnny Thunders, aped his idol too well and abused drugs until his death in 1991.

But this partnership, while derivative, spawned some truly great moments, most of which are included on the 20-song retrospective "Rock 'N Roll" (Mercury): the piano-driven bluster of "Personality Crisis", the thunderous clapping intro to "Jet Boy," and the glam rock swagger of "Trash." Indeed, most of the great songs here are off the band's 1973 eponymous debut. However, the 10 remainders, unearthed demos and cuts off of their other album, "Too Much Too Soon," pale in comparison.

Since the Dolls only had two albums, who knows why Mercury Records didn't simply re-issue those or include everything and make this a double disc collection? The classic tale of "the rock and roll nurse (who's making it worse)," "Pills," is excluded, and too many unmemorable songs are left in. "Rock 'N Roll" is a great disc on its own, but anyone interested in America's answer to glam rock in the '70s would be better advised just to buy "New York Dolls."

Guitarist: 'Soup' good to last drop

STAFF WRITER

Blind Melon guitarist Rogers Stevens has a few words for critics who say that the band's latest album, "Soup," encompasses every trait of the dreaded sophomore jinx — give it a thorough listen before writing about it.

"I think we're a band that is at a disadvantage with rock critics because we're not really a first listen sort of thing, and critics, they take one look at it and turn away in disgust. The ones who give it an actual chance will be rewarded for their effort," said guitarist Rogers Stevens via telephone from a Toronto hotel room.

On "Soup" Blind Melon left the fraternity party sing-alongs behind, instead expanding its repertoire to include bluegrass ("Skinned") and acoustic self-exploratory songs ("Walk," "New Life").

"We don't really have a direction. We move all around and try different things. They're half-(baked) attempts at a lot of different kinds of music. That's why there's a lot of criticism. They think we're engaging in gratuitous eclecticism or whatever. In reality we don't really know how to do anything else."

Recording the album in New Orleans, once home to Stevens, also influenced the band. The intro and outro of the record are lazy New Orleans-style tributes.

"I'd been living in New Orleans for a couple of years, and there's a real atmosphere there. It's as if all these cultures were (brought together). There's your rednecks, your African culture, European culture, all these things are sort of swimming around the mouth of the Mississippi, and what comes out is murky sluggish mire of ambiance that you just don't find anywhere else. It's the best city in America," said Stevens, who has since moved to Seattle — and regretted it.

Besides being stylistically different than "Blind Melon," "Soup" has a darker feel to it. Suicide, mass murderers, and death are lead singer/songwriter Shannon Hoon's topics of choice. A visit to St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit three years ago prompted the song "St. Andrew's Fall."

"We were done playing. It was a good show, and everyone was celebrating. We were looking out those upstairs windows in the dressing room, and there was a crowd of people on the street. We thought there was some sort of fight or riot," Stevens said.

Returning to the scene: During a previous visit to St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit, Blind Melon saw a woman commit suicide by jumping out of a window at the nearby Omni Hotel. The band — from left, singer Shannon Hoon, guitarist Rogers Stevens, drummer/percussionist Glen Graham, guitarist Christopher Thorn, and bassist Brad Smith — penned a song about the experience and included "St. Andrew's Fall" on its latest album "Soup."

■ 'We don't really have a direction. We move all around and try different things. They're half-(baked) attempts at a lot of different kinds of music. That's why there's a lot of criticism. They think we're engaging in gratuitous eclecticism or whatever. In reality we don't really know how to do anything else.'

guitarist Rogers Stevens

"We went outside and a girl was (about to jump from the Omni Hotel in Detroit). She jumped right in front of us. We were absolutely freaked out. Obviously we weren't as affected as she was, but it really freaked us for a long time on tour."

The reaction of the crowd haunted the band, Stevens said.

"She was up there for about 20 minutes. No one expected her to jump, and there were all these people in the streets yelling for her to jump. It was one of the sickest displays of humanity I've ever seen."

"Galaxie," the upbeat first single from "Soup," has a happier feel to it. Ironically, Stevens sees the video as a farewell to unhappier times.

"This is sort of the tail end of a long period of debauchery for the band. When you're looking at that video, you're looking at the bitter remains of certain layer of brain cells," Stevens said.

When asked to elaborate, he said, "I'm not going into it. Everyone's much better now."

With album sales in the lurch, Blind Melon is hoping that its fall tour will boost sales. Wary of its draw, the band is playing smaller clubs like St. Andrew's Hall on Sunday, Sept. 24, to test the waters of its popularity.

"We've been away for awhile. They (audiences) have had ample opportunity to forget about us."

Stevens sees playing clubs as a plus, however.

"We actually come off much better in a club than we do in other situations that we found ourselves in. We're not really geared toward the athleticism of playing large venues. We're sort of weak in the knees."

Blind Melon performs at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 24, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Tickets are $15 in advance for the all-ages show. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT. The band also performs Thursday, Sept. 21, on the David Letterman show.

Letters to Cleo spreads musical sunshine

STAFF WRITER

It takes a lot to dampen the spirit of Boston alternapopsters Letters to Cleo. Even in the pouring rain and freezing cold, singer Kay Hanley dances like a nymph around the Pine Knob Music Theatre stage.

On and off stage, the effervescent singer and her equally spunky band are the musical sunshine in the clouds of dreary rock and angst-ridden performers.

"We've always been this big, fat, stupid pop band," Hanley said. "A goofy, smiley, happy loser pop band. People can, I think, relate to that."

If they couldn't relate to it, the constant airing of Letters to Cleo's breakthrough video "Here and Now" after last season's episodes of "Melrose Place" definitely beat it in audience's heads.

Hanley's charming voice and faster-than-a-bullet singing style made the song the highlight of the "Melrose Place" soundtrack (Giant) and Letters to Cleo's independent release "Aurora Gory Alice." (If a translation of the song's 70 mile per hour chorus is still needed, here you go: "The comfort of a knowledge of a rise above the sky above could never parallel a challenge of an acquisition in the here and now.")

"Wholesale Meats and Fish" (Giant) carries on the band's carefree style. Hanley has slowed down a bit but there's no stopping Letters to Cleo. The album kicks off with "Demon Rock" an all-out pop guitar assault and continues full throttle until it smacks into "I Could Sleep (The Wuss Song)."

Lyrically, Letters to Cleo turned the other cheek for "Wholesale Meats and Fish."

"'Aurora Gory Alice' was serious in a way. We're not a serious band at all. We had no idea where those songs came from," guitarist Michael Eisenstein explained while eying the season finale of "Beverly Hills 90210."

Alternapop stars: Boston's Letters to Cleo — from left bassist Scott Riebling, drummer Stacy Jones, guitarist Greg McKenna, vocalist Kay Hanley, and guitarist Michael Eisenstein — play Industry in Pontiac on Wednesday, Sept. 27, in support of their latest album "Wholesale Meats and Fish."

Hanley added that the new rhythm section of bassist Scott Riebling and drummer Stacy Jones was among the factors that influenced the songwriting on the new record.

"It's a year and a half of writing songs and growing up. We have a new rhythm section including a new bass player who's a primary songwriter. We also had money. Last time that was something we didn't have," Hanley said.

Letters to Cleo performs with Fig Dish and the Dirt Merchants on Wednesday, Sept. 27, at Industry, 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac. Doors open at 8 p.m. for the 18 and older show. Tickets are $8 in advance. For more information, call (810) 334-1999.

Christine Lavin offers fans folk music with a twist

Christine Lavin solo at 7th House (7 N. Saginaw, Pontiac) 9 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 24. Tickets $20 reserved, $15 general admission. Call (810) 355-8100.

BY MARK E. GALLO
SPECIAL WRITER

Christine Lavin's star has been on the rise. Among other things, she's recently severed a decade long affiliation with Rounder Records subsidiary Philo, for whom she quite possibly was the biggest selling artist, and moved to Shanachie, a label well known for a wealth of Irish and folk music.

It appears to have been a wise move. From March 15 to June 30, the first reporting period on Lavin's new album, "Please Don't Make Me Too Happy," it has sold 22,437 copies. That's pretty amazing for a "folk" artist.

Lavin's speaking voice, as much as her singing voice, is inherently gleeful. There is a constant and natural implied smile, and she is generous with a laugh. Humor plays a major role in her musical persona.

Queried on the subject of the importance of humor in her material, Lavin says, "Well, it just finds its way there. Funny situations just kind of unfold in front of me and I'm lucky enough to be witness to it and put it down in music. I really have a good time on stage. My show is probably 60 percent funny and 40 percent serious. Maybe 75-25 because I guess I talk a lot between songs and that's pretty funny; but some of the new stuff is pretty serious and heartfelt."

A new song she seems particularly excited about, "Shining My Flashlight On The Moon," is a case in point

"I found myself up in Vermont after the show was over, and it was the very, very last show at a ski resort — a summer resort thing. And at the end of the night the sound company came and took away all the equipment that had been there all summer. All the other performers had left to go back to Massachusetts and I was the only one staying at the lodge. I drove my car to the lodge and I went to the parking lot to get my flashlight and it was really dark and I was just flashing it at different things. It was pretty much — maybe not a full moon, but pretty full, and — this is truly weird — I remember shining my flashlight on the moon, and the light from the flashlight suddenly disappeared when I put it on the moon. Like it was sucked up. It was very strange. It was a funny feeling. I thought, as a songwriter, the stuff we write about is all temporary and ephemeral and not real important. It's like shining a flashlight on the moon," she laughs.

"I love being on the road," she says. "I'm writing more and more on the road. I have less distractions and more stimulation. For me, to be living in New York City — if you're in a place in New York at night that's so dark you need a flashlight, you're in danger. So I don't have that experience in New York. I don't go into the park at night. I go on the streets with the traffic lights. When I was up in Vermont I felt very, very safe. It was a weird feeling because its a feeling I hadn't felt in a really long time, to be in real darkness and to know that you're not in danger of being mugged or jumped or tripping or falling down. So I could never have written 'Shining My Flashlight On The Moon' in New York City."

The latest project for the project-oriented Lavin involves the publication of a book. The book that Christine Lavin envisions involves the setting of her lyrics to cartoons.

Lavin has written beautiful and poignant songs ("The Dakota" about John Lennon's murder, and "Gettin' Used To Leavin'" are two favorites), and she's a very impressive guitarist. Her quick wit and healthy sense of humor have a way of overshadowing that sometimes, but it's a safe bet that those who come for one always leave with an appreciation of the other. She has been called the "Diva of Folk," and while one imagines she would shy away from the "Diva" label, the folk music handle is one she wears well.

"One of the really good things about folk music," she says, "is that there's a lot of people who have been working for a long time without the spotlight on them. Folk music has just never made a lot of money, and the record companies haven't tried to go in and ruin it the way they're trying to ruin country music, even though they don't think they're trying to ruin country music. The country music videos are sticker and slicker, and the women are prettier and prettier, and the boys are prettier and prettier," she laughs. "My heart aches for the real thing."

Fans of topical folk music with a twist will certainly be treated to the real thing, according to Christine Lavin, come Sunday night. Call early for tickets. This will be a sell out.

Other Chinese restaurants may do Cantonese, but they don't do it quite like Canton China in the Harvard Square Shopping Center in Canton and open less than a year. Owner Hank Lim knows that true Cantonese cooking is about enhancing flavors, not masking them.

"Cantonese cooking is not concerned about spices. What it concerns is bringing out the flavor of the food. Like vegetables. We just cook them as simply as possible. If it's too spicy, what difference does it make if it's chicken or beef. It covers the natural flavor," said Lim.

Originally from mainland China, Lim has lived in Canton for 16 years. He has an open, friendly manner, and it's obvious he loves cooking.

"I make my own Szechwan sauce. I make my own pepper sauce," he said. "I also make my dinner rolls and almond cookies. Mr. McDougall loves my dinner rolls."

Mr. McDougall, the father of one of Lim's physician friends, visits the restaurant on a regular basis. Lim doesn't know where the elderly gentleman lives, but he appreciates his comments.

"Mr. McDougall always says, 'You're the only fellow who does exactly what I want,' " said Lim. He took Mr. McDougall's advice and created a special vegetarian menu, offering a variety of reasonably priced vegetable and tofu dishes, like "Broccoli with Mushrooms in Ginger Garlic Sauce" at $6.50.

Canton China's menu offers some especially tempting dinner entrees, which range in price from $7.25 to $11.95. There's lots of Cantonese specialties, such as "Four Seasons," a mixture of lobster, shrimp, chicken, barbecued pork and Chinese vegetables and "Curry Beef," thin slices of beef sauteed with Spanish onions, then blended with Lim's own curry sauce.

Szechwan dishes also are well-represented. Lim is frequently complimented on his "General's Chicken" and deservedly so. Golden slices of chicken and a saute of Chinese vegetables are mixed with a special sweet brown sauce and garnished with a sprinkling of sesame seeds.

Customer Mary Ann Winter-Johr of Westland frequently stops at Canton China on her way to work at the Ford plant in Plymouth. She was lunching on Chicken Chop Suey, at just $3.95. It was almost enough for two.

"It's just different from anything else I've had before," she said. "It's just the flavor. I've had the boneless chicken also, and it's really good."

Lim admits to being a very fussy chef. He uses only the highest grade corn oil, orders fresh meat three times a week, and makes twice weekly trips to Eastern Market for his special vegetables. "Everything has to be fresh because my family eats here," he said.

Family members include wife, Hazel, who owns Angie's Bridal and Tuxedo Rental in Canton, and children Michael, 17, Angela, 16, and Daniel 14. Daughter Angela once called home from a school trip to Washington, D.C. to tell her father she missed his cooking.

"This restaurant is more like a family restaurant," said Lim.

Krueger's caring nature will never be just a memory

Shortly after hearing about the tragic death of Dan Krueger, Redford Catholic Central wrestling coach Mike Rodriguez got in his car with wife June and headed to the Kruegers' home in Plymouth to offer condolences.

The Rodriguezes found the neighborhood, but had trouble finding the right street. After driving around without any luck, Rodriguez stopped a couple teen-agers several blocks from the Kruegers' home and asked for directions.

"They misunderstood and started telling me how to get to Bird School. I said, 'I'm not looking for a school, I'm looking for Burger street. Have you ever heard of Danny Krueger?' " Rodriguez said. "They said, 'YEAH,' and they told me exactly where he lived. Everyone in town knew Danny."

But just as his lovable nature started extending beyond the Plymouth-Canton and CC communities to the campus of Eastern Michigan University, we must mourn his loss.

Krueger died in a one-car crash Sunday afternoon on I-96 near Lansing. Krueger, 18, was one of three passengers in a Jeep Wrangler driven by Barton Nafe, 17, of Plymouth. The four were returning from a weekend at Central Michigan University, where they visited friends.

Nafe and the two other passengers, Kristin Clough, 19, of Plymouth, and Andrew Bertha III, 18, of Canton, were treated for minor injuries at Sparrow Hospital in Lansing and released.

Krueger, 18, was a former wrestling standout, football and lacrosse player at CC and a freshman at EMU, where he was a member of the wrestling team.

They needed two guest books Tuesday night for mourners at the Schrader-Howell Funeral Home in downtown Plymouth. Among those paying respects was Miss America 1988 Kaye Lani Rae Rafko, whose younger brother died in a car accident last year. The late Nick Rafko played football at the University of Wisconsin with Lee Krueger, Dan's oldest brother.

"Danny was a free spirit, he knew everyone from both ends of the spectrum, and didn't say a bad word about anyone," said his father, Ron Krueger, a teacher and wrestling coach at Plymouth Salem. "When Danny was little and he had nothing to do, he learned to use the telephone to call his friends. The dorm lady at Eastern Michigan called and said she's never seen anything like it. In two weeks at Eastern, she said he met more people. . . That's Danny."

Career cut short

Ron and his wife Dolores Krueger, a teacher at CC, last spent time with Dan the weekend of the Plymouth Fall Festival, Sept. 8, 9 and 10. It must have been a nice break from dorm food.

"I bought him two chicken dinners," his father said.

Krueger looked forward to the start of wrestling practice, which would have begun Monday. Eastern Michigan coach Willie Gadson said he called off practice after hearing of Krueger's death early Monday morning.

Gadson had just finished a morning workout when he received a call from Ron Krueger with the news.

"It was about 7:30, quarter to 8, I had just finished a great workout — it just changes your whole perspective on what's important," Gadson said. "He was a great kid. Danny really thanked me for helping get him on the team and he told me I wouldn't regret it."

Dan always wanted to attend the University of Louisville and cherished his Cardinals' baseball cap, but left the hat home when he started at EMU. Gadson said another indication of Krueger's dedication came last Friday when Krueger showed up an hour early for an appointment with a counselor in the Eagles' Athletic Support Services.

"The young lady who was in charge of him was floored (when she heard of his death)," Gadson said.

The grief is shared by his former teammates at CC, some just one year behind Krueger. One of Dan's best friends, CC senior fullback John Spolsky, was a pallbearer at today's funeral.

Brothers in arms

Dan and his two older brothers, Lee and Jason, each wore No. 33 on the CC football team. It was the number worn by their grandfather, Lamar Krueger, a member of the Sandusky High School Football Hall of Fame in Sandusky, Ohio.

Dan may have been in the shadow of his older brothers at CC, but by the time he graduated, there wasn't a shadow of doubt he made the most of his talents.

Lee was a Class A state heavyweight wrestling champion and all-state football player. Jason was

Salem loses Lakes showdown

■ Livonia Stevenson took over sole possession of first place in the Lakes Division Wednesday night with a 3-0 victory over Plymouth Salem.

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

The soccer field at Centennial Educational Park in Canton is bigger than most, so Livonia Stevenson senior Pete Lechowicz took advantage of it.

Lechowicz, who usually patrols the midfield for the Spartans, scored two goals inside the penalty area to lead Stevenson to a 3-0 victory Wednesday night over Plymouth Salem.

The win improved the No. 1-ranked team in Class A to 7-0 overall, and put the Spartans in the driver's seat of the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division at 4-0. The Rocks fell to 8-2 overall, 3-1 in the Lakes.

Both of Lechowicz's goals came off second half corner kicks. The Spartans had a 1-0 lead at halftime, scoring at 14:40 of the first half on an unassisted goal by senior forward Jeff Urbata.

Stevenson felt fortunate to score the first goal, considering the Rocks dominated early on against the Spartans and goalkeeper Jim Grewe.

"They're used to their field, it's the widest in the state, and they pass it extremely well," Barrett said. "We just got off playing Franklin (a 2-1 win Monday) in a quagmire on a 60-yard wide field and it took us a while to adjust.

"Lechowicz is the midfield workhorse for us, but tonight he came up big. While (forwards Steve) Williford, Urbata and (Pete) Quinter kept their attention, he snuck in and became the spark plug."

Bill Bresler/Staff Photographer

No quarter: As Stevenson's Matt Quinter (left) and Salem's Ronny Mashni showed, it was a closely-competed match.

Salem goalkeeper Andres Lopez replaced senior Brian Bacyinski at halftime and made a diving save on a 30-yard shot by Williford early in the second half. But the Spartans took a 2-0 lead on Lechowicz's first goal of the game with 35:56 remaining.

Urbata' corner kick reached senior forward Steve Ingrao, whose shot did not penetrate the Salem defense. Lechowicz picked up the loose ball and left-footed it over the head of Lopez, just under the crossbar.

Lechowicz normally kicks with his left foot, so it was a natural move.

"He took the shot, didn't get enough on it, I trapped it, turned and shot," said Lechowicz, who was a sophomore on the Stevenson team that reached the Class A final in 1993 before losing to Warren De-LaSalle. "We're trying to get back to the show. I think we'll win it this year."

Lechowicz scored again about 12 minutes later on a scramble in front of the net, again after a corner kick.

A one-goal lead has been enough on most nights for Grewe, so three goals must have seemed like the kind of lead the Cleveland Indians have in the American League Central Division this year.

The shutout was the fourth of the season for Grewe, who has allowed only two goals in six games. He preserved the shutout with a save on a penalty kick by junior defender Scott Loewe in the final minutes.

"I don't know if he's the best in the state, but he's hot," Barrett said. "We play a 'flat back four' defense, the only team in the state doing it. Unfortunately, we're playing too soft and not playing our 'marks' tight. That's why they got their chances. This is an important win, but we're shooting for the state playoffs."

Salem coach Ken Johnson said the Rocks didn't make Grewe work enough, sending most of their chances off the net. The Rocks had several corners before the Spartans' first goal.

"We should have demolished them in the first 20 minutes," Johnson said. "You've got to capitalise against a team like Stevenson. Our intentions are good, our approach work is good. But we didn't put the ball on the net."

Red-hot Hjelmstad paces Salem victory

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer

What makes Plymouth Salem's boys golf victory over Livonia Churchill Monday something special is nothing out of the ordinary.

"Yeah, it is," agreed Salem coach Rick Wilson when asked if the 201-213 win was a big one. "Because they're a good team, and they had been ranked recently. We felt playing them at home (at Hilltop Golf Course), we had a good opportunity."

To get a win, sure. But also to make a statement that could prove important later this season, when Salem and Churchill tangle in the Western Lakes Activities Association Tournament. Or at the Class A regional tournament.

■ GOLF

What the Rocks had going for them was senior Mike Hjelmstad, perhaps the hottest high school golfer in the state at present. Hjelmstad negotiated the par-35 course with a one-under-par 34, his third-consecutive sub-40 outing. Last week, Hjelmstad fired consecutive 37s in the Rocks' wins over Farmington and Westland John Glenn.

The Rocks got some other fine scores in the victory over Churchill, which boosted their dual-meet record to 6-0 overall, 3-0 in the WLAA. Ryan Andrzejewski, a senior, shot a 40, with junior Brian Fox at 41, freshman Adam Wilson at 42, and junior Jeff Lear at 44.

Churchill (now 2-1 in the WLAA) was led by Chris Kiehler with a 37. Dave Higham and Mike Cotter each shot 42s, followed by Gary Kraus at 45 and Leon Kashawlic at 47.

"This was a nice win for our kids," said Wilson, noting Churchill was expected to provide Salem with its strongest challenge within the WLAA. "There are some other strong teams, but it was nice to get this one under our belts."

As for who else within the league could make trouble for the defending-champion Rocks, Wilson figured "we'll find out real quick" — like Friday, when they take on Livonia Stevenson at Hilltop.

Plymouth Canton

The weather was perfect, the results were not Monday for Plymouth Canton.

The Chiefs saw their dual-meet record dip to 0-3, while North Farmington managed to collect its first win of the season by a 217-222 margin at Glen Oaks Golf Course in Farmington Hills.

Canton was led by Dave Dismondy's 41. Brian Carlson and Miles Meibers were next lowest for the Chiefs with 42s, followed by Scott Belisle and Ben Tucker, each with a 48.

Best for North Farmington were Danny Krochmal at 39, followed by Aaron Stephan (41), Andy Wantuck (43), and Brad Barth and Brandon Finkel (each with 47s).

A 'top' challenge

No. 1-ranked Northern stops a stubborn Salem

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer

A team wins a state basketball championship with a 6-foot-4 freshman center, it's easy to determine who will receive the bulk of the attention the following year.

With a talent like Tawana McDonald, the attention is deserved. And when McDonald's Flint Northern team — the defending Class A champ — pays a visit to play a local team, like Plymouth Salem, you know it won't be just the fans in the stands who will be focusing on her.

Most of the Salem players will be, too.

Which is just what happened Saturday at Salem. The Rocks paid McDonald the attention she required, limiting her to 10 points and pushing her into foul trouble early in the fourth quarter.

What the Rocks couldn't do was cope with the Lady Vikings' other weapons — in particular, an extremely effective backcourt that proved to be the difference in Northern's 46-40 triumph.

"That's why they won the state championship last year," said Salem coach Fred Thomann when asked to evaluate Northern's backcourt. "After we get our guards to play at that level, we'll be ready to compete at that level."

Anyone asked to appraise Northern's top-ranked (and still unbeaten) team notices first, the youth (just one senior), and second, the size (two others at 6-2).

But after watching the Vikings play for a few minutes, what is best remembered is the performance of guards LaShawn Grays, Taleesha Hardy and Clarissa Elam.

Salem had enough size to cope with Northern; the Rocks have only one player on their roster under 5-9. But Thomann has tried to fully utilize the extraordinary all-around skills of 6-foot sophomore Amanda Abraham by putting her at point guard.

Against Northern, that was a mistake. Abraham's skills simply aren't developed enough to handle the defensive pressure applied by Northern's guards. She committed a half-dozen turnovers in the first half alone against the Vikings' pressure.

Still, a second-quarter run allowed Salem to eliminate a 17-10 deficit after one quarter. The Rocks shut out Northern during the final 4½ minutes of the half, and had they shot their free throws decently (5-of-11 in the second quarter, 6-of-13 in the first half) they would have been leading.

Instead, they had to settle for a 23-23 halftime score — supplied by a 9-1 run in that last 4:41 of the second quarter. Shellye Sills had four of those points.

But then the Rocks put themselves back into a hole by starting the second half missing their first eight floor shots and going scoreless for the first 6:20 of the second half. Northern, hardly on fire itself, still had built a six-point advantage (29-23) by that time.

It was a lead the Vikings never lost, although Salem sliced into it a few

Rocks, Chiefs chase Athens

Not much of a challenge.

That's what Troy Athens' girls cross country team received at the prestigious Holly Invitational last Saturday, held at Springfield Oak State Park. The Red Hawks finished first out of 22 teams, scoring 54 points.

In a distant second place was Sylvania (Ohio) Southview with 84, followed by Rockford (141), Brighton (143), Troy (193) and Rochester Adams (208).

Plymouth Salem finished 10th with 271; Plymouth Canton was 12th with 316.

Rocks' first-year coach Dave Gerlach had hoped for a top-five team finish, but injuries to two of his top runners — No. 1 Nicole Bolton and Mari Disbrow, both expected to be sidelined for two weeks — dashed those hopes. Still, a few of the younger runners stepped up nicely.

"Leah (Retherford) did a real nice job," Gerlach said of his senior co-captain who finished ninth overall in 20:23.

That, however, was expected. "The two surprises were the sophomores," Gerlach said. "Our sophomores ran very, very well."

That was Jennifer Burke, who placed 72nd (22:22), and Erin Lang, who ran 74th (22:23).

Other strong efforts came from junior Kristie Giddings, 54th (21:51); senior Liz Peltier, 63rd (22:07); junior Kathy Jost, 73rd (22:22); and senior Kim Sheldon, 100th (23:14).

"It's a long year, and we're ready to go," said Gerlach. "I have a really enthusiastic team. They all like to work hard."

Canton placed seven runners in the top 113. Leading the Chiefs was Beth Knight, who finished 16th (20:48).

Next was Becky Wolfrom, 25th (20:57); Christiana Bradford, 78th (22:25); Becky Uryga, 92nd (22:59); Jessica Wells, 105th (23:18); Debbie Kaczmerek, 109th (23:29); and Rachel Burt, 113th (24:12).

Athens and Troy placed two runners apiece among the top five: Athens had Alison Klemmer, second (19:45), and Katie Horner, third (19:56), while Troy had Crissy Garst, first (19:23), and Lynda Li, fifth (20:04).

Canton runs against Northville in a Western Lakes Activities Association dual meet Thursday at Cass Benton, while Salem hosts North Farmington Thursday at Cass Benton. Canton then runs in the Jefferson Schools Invitational Saturday, while Salem runs at the Jackson Invitational.

Canton rolls past feeble Glenn, 9-0

In Plymouth Canton's first seven soccer games this season, Shawn Walker was held scoreless.

That streak ended emphatically Monday when the Chiefs hosted Westland John Glenn, a first-year team. The result wasn't pretty — lopsided all the way, a 9-0 Canton triumph.

Chiefs' coach Don Smith, who recently returned after missing the first five games because of surgery, tried to keep it respectable. He played several junior varsity players, and after the first few goals only headers were allowed as shots on net.

It didn't help. The score was 6-0 at the half, four of those coming from Walker. He finished the match with five goals — three on headers.

Mike Elsner, Nick Wright, Ryan Meath and Evan Sabourin added single goals for Canton, which improved to 4-3-1. Tom O'Rourke and Jacob Rea each contributed three assists. Joe Gasiewicz and Jason Neagrow split time in goal.

"They're scrappy," said Smith of the Rockets. "(Glenn coach Jerry Poniatowski) is just trying to get his program going."

The same could be said of Smith and his defending Class A champions after they lost three of their first four matches this season. They have now won three-straight.

"We're coming along," said Smith. "We're not looking too bad. We'll surprise some people if they come in here thinking we're all through."

■ Salem 6, Troy 1: Can't keep a powerhouse down.

A team as talented as Plymouth Salem doesn't like it. So when the Rocks were upended by Livonia Churchill last Wednesday (Sept. 13), well, the consequences were predictable.

Someone would pay — dearly.

Someone did. Troy, normally one of the tougher Oakland County teams, proved no match for the riled Rocks Saturday at Salem, who punctured the Colt defense for four first-half goals.

Matt Simons accounted for two of the Rocks' goals. Ronny Mashni, Andy Makins, Mike Mezgec and Ryan Konley scored one apiece. Mashni and Drew Drummond each had two assists.

Brian Bacyinski and Andres Lopez each played a half in goal.

On Monday at Walled Lake Western, Salem had little trouble in posting a 6-0 victory. The win improved the Rocks' record to 8-1 overall, 4-1 in the WLAA and 3-0 in the Lakes Division.

Drummond did most of the damage against Western, scoring three goals. Mashni contributed a goal and two assists, with Mezgec and Makins each scoring a goal. John Larson had two assists.

Bacyinski and Lopez played a half in goal each.

times. The closest the Rocks got in the fourth quarter was four, twice — the last time on two free throws by Nicole Van Hees with 1:13 left. Northern sank three of its last six foul shots after that, which proved to be enough.

"I thought we were a little flat today," said Northern coach Leteia Hughley, her team now 7-0. "I don't know why. We haven't played on a Saturday before this year — maybe that's it. We were sluggish. We just couldn't get going."

Grays' 15 points led Northern. McDonald, who drew her fourth personal foul with 6:38 left and went to the bench for the next three minutes, scored 10 — all in the first half. And Hardy, the team's only senior, came through with 10 points, all in the second half.

Sills' nine points paced Salem (now 3-2). Van Hees, Abraham and Angela Sillmon netted nine points apiece.

"I thought our intensity was good," said Thomann. "The level of play was good. They're just so explosive offensively in going to the net.

"This was a good experience for us."

Except for the L. And one key cause for the defeat: "I told our players they have to do a better job shooting free throws," Thomann said (the Rocks were 15-of-27, 55 percent, from the line for the game).

One thing's certain: Salem won't face this kind of competition again for another month or two.

■ Regina 53, Canton 47: On Saturday, Plymouth Canton made just mistakes to ruin its chances for victory at Harper Woods Regina.

"They're a decent team," said Canton coach Bob Blohm of Regina. "But I thought we were every bit as good as they were.

"What it came down to was, we played pretty good ball, we had pretty good energy, but when it came time to make a run, we'd do something that would keep us from doing it.

"Our ball-handling and our inability to rebound the ball hurt us. We played hard; we just weren't able to execute well."

In other words, the Chiefs stayed within striking range throughout the game, but whenever it came time to strike, they couldn't.

"I think it's going to take us a while to get that figured out," said Blohm of his team's inability to execute properly.

The Chiefs trailed 16-15 after one quarter and 28-25 at the half. They narrowed the gap to 36-35 entering the fourth period, but the Saddlelites — who managed just 17 baskets to 20 for Canton — pulled away by making 9-of-10 free throws in the quarter. For the game, they were 14-of-25 from the line (56 percent) to the Chiefs' 6-of-10 (60 percent).

That defensive effort did not please Blohm. "We've got to tighten our defense a little bit," he said.

Canton, now 4-2 for the season, got 14 points from Kristi Fiorenzi, 12 from Sarah Warnke and 11 from Becky Vachow. Sarah Judd's 18 points topped Regina; Renee LaBelle added 10.

This week will be a busy one for the Chiefs: They host Livonia Stevenson at 7 p.m. tonight, then travel to Flint Powers Saturday.

■ Greenhills 40, PCA 30: A nine-point first half doomed Plymouth Christian Academy Tuesday at Ann Arbor Greenhills.

The Eagles (now 3-3) trailed 8-4 after one quarter and 18-9 at the half. They managed to narrow the deficit to four in the third quarter and were within 27-21 entering the final period, but they couldn't catch the Gryphons (3-3).

Senior guard Lisa Erickson accounted for 20 of PCA's 30 points.

FOOTBALL

DePorres battles CC; Salem seeks 1st win

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

The big game this week doesn't happen until Sunday, when Redford Catholic Central plays Detroit DePorres.

The two have faced each other in a Catholic League crossover in recent years, but this time the game carries more weight since both are now in the same division.

Both teams are 3-0 and it looks like the 1995 meeting should be another hard-hitting classic.

The next-best game has Livonia Stevenson playing host to Walled Lake Central in a Lakes Division encounter Friday night.

In the prediction contest, Brad Emons and Dan O'Meara were both 11-4 last week. Emons maintains a six-game lead with a 37-7 record; the opposition struggles to stay in the game at 31-13.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
(all times 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

Dearborn at Redford Union, 7: The Panthers (1-2, 1-1) got a needed lift Friday by beating Taylor Kennedy for their first win, but now they face unbeaten and state-ranked Dearborn. The Pioneers (3-0, 2-0) have not allowed a point in three games. Dearborn has the opposition 98-0 so far. PICKS: The Pioneers blaze another trail.

GRID PICKS

Woodhaven at Wayne Memorial: Someone will be a winner this week. Both teams are 0-3 and looking for that first win. The Zebras can forget about that 35-6 loss to mighty Monroe. The Warriors are coached by Craig James, who was previously at Bishop Borgess, Allen Park Cabrini and Taylor Center. Woodhaven has lost to Carlson, Romulus and Wyandotte. The Warriors are led by fullback Aaron Wilson and two-way tackle Kirk Cassel. PICKS: Wayne puts one in the win column.

Garden City at A.A. Huron: The River Rats (2-1) will be another formidable foe for Garden City (0-3), which has already played Crestwood and Dearborn. Huron led 21-7 against Brighton last week and survived a comeback to win 21-19. The Rats stopped a two-point conversion attempt with 4:41 left in the game. Huron QB Nick Verska completed 24 of 39 passes for 272 yards and three touchdowns. PICKS: We smell a Rat in this prediction.

Red. Thurston at Allen Park: The Eagles (0-3, 0-2) are having a tough time, and it doesn't get any easier when they go to Allen Park this week. The state-ranked Jaguars (3-0, 2-0) have ruled the Mega Blue for so long they should be in the Red Division. PICKS: Allen Park keeps a perfect record.

W.L. Central at Liv. Stevenson: The Spartans (2-1, 1-0) have momentum following their 21-19 victory over Farmington. QB Dean Bacheller passed for a pair of touchdowns, and Gade Clark ran for one with a good second effort. The Vikings (2-1, 1-0) pose a definite threat with a veteran defense that dominated North Farmington 19-0. PICKS: Stevenson wins another close one.

Farmington at Ply. Salem: Both teams are frustrated and eager for some success. When was a Salem team ever 0-3? The Rocks have played quality teams like Belleville and Westland Glenn but have scored only seven points in three games. Farmington (1-2, 0-1) has suffered two disappointing losses with their only win against Livonia Churchill. The Falcons need to avoid fumbles and bear down. PICKS: Farmington gets back to .500, according to O'Meara, but Emons says the Rocks are a solid pick.

SATURDAY'S GAMES
(all times 1 p.m. unless noted)

Luth. North at Luth. Westland: The host Warriors (2-1, 2-0) have won two straight and put their perfect Metro Conference record to the test against winless Macomb Lutheran North. Junior Albert Cook scored two TDs in the 20-10 win over Cranbrook. The Mustangs appear to have played the tougher schedule with losses to Lutheran East and unbeaten Harper Woods. PICKS: Lutheran North ends the streak.

Liv. Churchill at F.H. Harrison: The Hawks (2-1, 1-0) needed a strong second half last week to turn back Plymouth Canton 28-14 and begin defense of their Western Division title. Harrison still has Jason Granger, and he's always a threat to score from anywhere on the field. The Chargers (0-3, 0-2) have yet to score a point, and it's never easy to score on a Harrison defense. PICKS: The Hawks keep a win streak going.

Ply. Canton at Liv. Franklin: Both teams are pretty good despite their records (1-2, 0-1). The Patriots gave state-ranked Sterling Heights Stevenson a battle, upset Livonia Stevenson and suffered a 7-6 loss to Northville. Coach Rick Lee had to wonder about the Northville jinx after two starters (Paul Terek and Aaron Smith) collided in warmups and couldn't play. The Chiefs have lost to mighty Monroe and Harrison while beating Walled Lake Central. The question is whether or not Franklin can stop Canton's passing combo of Rob Johnson and Ron Hunter. PICKS: The coin toss favors Canton.

Westland Glenn at N. Farmington: The Rockets (3-0, 1-0) are in full orbit with a three-game winning streak. Glenn looks to be the early favorite to win the Lakes Division title. The Raiders (1-2, 0-1) went toe-to-toe with Glenn a year ago, losing 7-6 when a two-point attempt late in the game failed. North has struggled since beating West Bloomfield in the opener. PICKS: Glenn has a more comfortable margin of victory this year.

Clarenceville at L'Anse Creuse: The Trojans (2-1, 2-0 Metro Conference) have a modest win streak going, but they face Class B Mount Clemens L'Anse Creuse this week. The Lancers (2-1) are coming off a 26-15 loss to Warren Woods-Tower but have beaten Mount Clemens and Sterling Heights. PICKS: Clarenceville slips back to .500.

Bishop Borgess vs. East Catholic, 7:30 p.m. at Garden City Jr. High: The Spartans (2-1, 1-0) ripped Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard Saturday and look like possible contenders in the Catholic League Tri-Sectional. East Catholic (1-2) is usually a formidable foe, but this doesn't appear to be one of its better baliclubs. Borgess still has to contain backs Devin Williams and Clarence Cook. PICKS: O'Meara is betting on Borgess, but Emons goes with East Catholic.

A CC surprise

'New' Shamrock runs, stuns DeLaSalle

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Warren DeLaSalle football coach Ross McDonald wasn't surprised by what Redford Catholic Central ran, but who the Shamrocks ran.

Senior tailback Kevin Quay, out last week with an injury, got the start Saturday night and scored one touchdown while gaining 115 yards on 23 carries in CC's 31-13 victory over DeLaSalle before an overflow crowd at Clarenceville High School.

McDonald was expecting to see shifty junior tailback Greg Alcala in the CC lineup, but Shamrocks' coach Tom Mach pulled a surprise.

The Shamrocks scored on their first three possessions to go up 21-0.

"The Pilots didn't see Alcala until the final minutes, when the game was already decided. The Shamrocks opened up a 21-7 halftime lead on the Pilots, who ran only eight plays in the first half compared to 41 by CC.

The Shamrocks had 250 total yards before halftime and held the Pilots' explosive offense to 39.

"Our other back (Alcala) is real good, but we decided to start the game with a 'goal-line' look, see if we could knock them down and stay with it," Mach said. "I was real proud of the way we came out to play. It showed in the fact we kept drives going. That's our brand of football."

The win moved the Shamrocks to 3-0 overall, 1-0 in the Western Division of the Catholic League. The Pilots, Class AA semifinalists last year, fell to 1-2 overall, 0-1 in the Western Division.

CC senior fullback John Spolsky led the Shamrocks with 132 yards on 17 carries, including TD runs of 10 and 16 yards. Quay scored on a 4-yard run and quarterback Greg Call was effective on the option, gaining 96 yards on 13 carries with a 4-yard TD.

Eron Kosmowski continued to impress as a place-kicker, making all four of his extra points and kicking a 32-yard field goal in the second half.

Quay didn't even know he'd get the bulk of the carries at tailback until game time.

"Coach can send me and John up the middle, smash it up, and Greg outside," Quay said. "It keeps them on their feet all game. They don't know what to expect."

CC took the opening kickoff and marched 63 yards on 10 carries, scoring on Quay's 4-yard run with 7:06 remaining.

The Shamrocks forced a fumble on DeLaSalle's first play from scrimmage and Spolsky recovered at the Pilots' 21. Six plays later, on third down and goal, CC quarterback Greg Call scored from the 4 on a keeper with 3:33 remaining in the first quarter.

A long kickoff return gave DeLaSalle possession at CC's 21. But the Shamrocks' Nick Lachapelle sacked Pilots' quarterback Matt Bitonti for an 11-yard loss on third down and Vince Thomas was dropped for a 7-yard loss following a completed pass to give the ball back to CC at its own 29.

The Shamrocks took the ensuing possession 71 yards on 10 plays, scoring on Spolsky's 10-yard run for a 21-0 lead.

About all that kept this from a first-half runaway was a nifty 36-yard run by Thomas, and a smart play by the Pilots' Mike Jolet, who stripped Spolsky of the ball at the DeLaSalle 7 late in the first half.

"We were conscious of Alcala," McDonald said. "You can't play this team on a 20-, 30-yard field and that's what we did. We're very dangerous offensively, but we've got to have the ball. We have to shore up our defense a bit."

CC went ahead 28-17 on a 16-yard run by Spolsky with 11:09 left in the third quarter to cap a six-play, 53-yard drive. The Pilots scored within the next minute as Bitonti threw three passes to Matt Handzo and capped a 60-yard drive with an 8-yard keeper with 10:08 remaining.

The Shamrocks weren't through, however. Call raced 47 yards down the sideline to set up Kosmowski's field goal with 7:10 remaining.

"I played soccer when I was younger, but I kind of outgrew it," said Kosmowski.

Ocelots dominate Macomb CC, 2-0

■ SOCCER

The main rival was really no challenge — again.

It's been five years since Macomb CC has managed to handle Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team. Even with a new coach — Chris Corteg, the former Eastern Michigan coach, replaced the retiring Mick Lakatos this year — the results were the same: a 2-0 SC victory Saturday at Macomb.

Domination, according to SC coach Van Dimitriou, wasn't indicated by the score. "It was our game all the way," he said. "They had one legitimate chance to score, late in the game. And we had some very good opportunities to add to our score.

"I'd say it was 80-20 both in ball control and possession, in our favor."

Both Ocelot goals came in the first half. Mo Hijazi netted the first, taking a pass from Ryan Phipps (from Plymouth Canton) and eluding a Macomb defender around the wing to break in on goal one-and-one with the keeper — a duel Hijazi won, at the 20-minute mark.

Eight minutes later, Tawfiq Eldabaadani unleashed a hard shot on net that was stopped. Victor Rodopoulos (Livonia Franklin) was there to knock in the rebound, however.

Eldabaadani and George Abuamsha both had shots from point-blank range in the second half they failed to convert, and Mike Bona (Franklin) put one in the net that the official nullified.

Ari Mechlowicz was in goal for the shutout.

"I was quite pleased with the kids' performance," said Dimitriou, his team now 4-0-1. "We were never really in trouble against them."

SC's fourth win came Monday, when they hosted the University of Michigan's B team. The Ocelots spotted the Wolverines a one-goal lead after 20 minutes, then scored five in a row to win easily, 5-1.

Hijazi put SC in front, scoring twice in the first half. Phipps assisted on the first, Rodopoulos on the second.

Eldabaadani got the first of his two goals early in the second half, assisted by Wojtek Radz (North Farmington), with Bona getting the next to push SC's lead to 4-1. Eldabaadani finished the scoring with his second goal of the contest.

Joe McCarty was in goal for SC.

SC reaches finals of Muskegon CC Tournament

■ VOLLEYBALL

Tom Teeters wasn't unhappy, even though his Schoolcraft College volleyball team wasn't as dominant as it had been in the past.

The Lady Ocelots finished second at the Muskegon Community College Tournament, played Friday and Saturday, losing to Henry Ford CC 15-8, 5-15, 15-6 in the finals.

Earlier in the tournament, the Ocelots defeated Morton (Ill.) CC 15-2, 15-1; Elgin (Ill.) CC 11-15, 15-13, 15-13; Grand Rapids CC 14-16, 15-1, 15-7; and Kalamazoo Valley CC 15-9, 15-10.

"We're winning a lot of close games," said Teeters. "So we're doing well there. Our weakness right now is in the serving range."

Tracy Sledz's 50 kills (.242 kill average) led the Ocelots. Michelle MacRae contributed 34 (.202 average), Jamie Clark had 24 (.173), Stacy Sailus totaled 22 (.348), Hermina Angeles had 18 (.220), and Sarah Fabirkiewicz netted 14 (.282).

MacRae had 13 service aces, while Andrea Greer collected nine to go with 144 assists to kills. Clark's 42 digs and 12 blocks paced the defense; Julie Schmidt had 38 digs.

Borgess blasts outmanned Ladywood

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

The girls basketball series between Redford Bishop Borgess and Livonia Ladywood has come full circle.

It was only 10 years ago when Borgess was demolished 99-5 by the Blazers.

But Tuesday night the roles were reversed as the Spartans opened Catholic League Central Division play with a resounding 70-24 triumph at Ladywood.

Borgess, the state's top-ranked team in Class C, is now 4-2. Ladywood slips to 1-5 overall.

Despite recent losses to Flint Northern (No. 1 in Class A) and Beverly Hills-Detroit Country Day (No. 1 in Class B), the two-time defending state champions seemed to be their old selves once again.

They forced Ladywood into 34 turnovers and dominated play from start to finish.

"That woke us up," said Borgess coach Dave Mann, referring to the two defeats. "Our practices are better and we're working harder.

"We're playing with a lot more intensity and the coach got a little meaner, contrary to what people may say about me."

Borgess, pressing all over the floor, took it to Ladywood from the start. The Spartans led 18-6 after one quarter and 36-12 at intermission.

"Borgess is a great team and they were all 'on' tonight," Ladywood coach second-year coach Lisa McPhee said. "Their defense was unbelievable. We couldn't get past half court and they wouldn't let us into our offense.

"We couldn't get anything going. They're very quick."

Maxann Reese and Adriane Bryant, arguably the best guard tandem ever to come out of the Catholic League, scored 16 and 11 points, respectively, to lead the Spartans.

"Those two played very well," McPhee said. "I haven't seen two better guards together on the same team."

Other scoring contributions came from senior guard LaZandra White (10 points), 6-foot sophomore Koren Merchant (10 points), sophomore Christina Anderson (nine points), and 6-1 sophomore Aiyisha Smith (eight points).

"I have to give our kids credit," McPhee said. "I told them that no matter what happens, just play hard to the end, and they did."

On Saturday, Ladywood lost 55-44 at Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Dankert and LeSage tallied 12 and 11 points, respectively.

an All-Catholic football player and finished third in his division at the Class A state wrestling meet.

Dan never earned a starting job with the CC football team, but his sport was wrestling. He had a great run as a junior, taking second place at the Class A state meet in the 171-pound division.

"Dan told me one time, 'Jason finished third, but I finished second,' " Ron Krueger said.

"Danny came out of nowhere as a junior. He could go beat a guy who was 'unbeatable,' " Rodriguez said. "You could never tell what he's going to do, that's what was so enjoyable about him. He had so much vinegar, you couldn't help but love him."

Dan and Jason had the typical fights between brothers two years apart growing up. But there was a bond between all the Krueger brothers you couldn't break.

Ron Krueger remembers one time disciplining Dan, and Jason running away, not for long, from home in support of his younger brother.

"It was Jason's way of saying, 'You can discipline me, but not Danny,' " Ron remembers. "Danny had a kind, kind heart. He cried very easily because he cared for people."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

■ SALEM SWIMMING

Plymouth Salem's swim team may be a good one, but on Tuesday the Rocks weren't good enough to handle the fifth-ranked team in the state, Ann Arbor Huron.

The River Rats collected first-place finishes in all but two events in handing Salem a 115-71 defeat at Salem. The loss evened the Rocks' record at 1-1.

"There were a lot of good races, we just didn't get any firsts," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "I'm not disappointed at all in the way they swam."

Salem's wins came from the 200-yard medley relay team of Yvonne Lynn, Katie Bonner, Sara Casillas and KellyAnn Williams (2:11.0), and from Lynn in the 100 backstroke (1:05.29).

The Rocks swim at Plymouth Canton today at 7 p.m.

■ STEELERS ROLL

Both the Plymouth-Canton Steelers' varsity and junior varsity football teams rolled to wins Saturday over the outmanned Dearborn Heights Redskins.

The varsity Steelers posted a 39-0 victory, getting 27 first-quarter points. Jason Evans scored three touchdowns, the first on a 15-yard punt return, then on runs of 4 and 19 yards. Other TDs came from Mike Hardin, on a 19-yard run; Andy Kocoloski, on a 32-yard run; and Brad Wells, on a 1-yard run. Ian Winter gained 102 yards rushing on six carries.

The shutout was the varsity's second in a row.

The Steeler JV got off fast with a 70-yard return of the opening kickoff by Chris Trott en route to a 30-0 win. Jerry Gaines got TDs on runs of 6 and 12 yards, and Jordan Robertson scored on a 2-yard run. Marshall Tucker led the defense, combining with Chris Pisani for a safety and collecting two sacks and an interception.

The shutout was also their second-straight.

The Steelers' freshmen were not so fortunate, losing 12-0 to the Redskins.

■ LAST SOFTBALL CHANCE

The final tournaments of the softball season at Canton Softball Center will be the next two weekends. On Sunday, a one-day Tavern Tournament is scheduled. The four-game, open-roster event will cost $150 per team.

Next weekend (Sept. 30 to Oct. 1), there will be a coed tournament in A-B, C and D divisions. Cost is $175 per team. Also, there will be a men's last swing tournament: four games, $125 per.

For information regarding any of the above events, call (313) 483-5600, ext. 102.

■ GIRLS SWIM LISTINGS

Livonia Churchill coach Ken Stark will compile the weekly Observer-land list of best girls swim times and diving scores.

Coaches can call Stark to report results Monday through Friday at the Churchill pool (313-523-9231).

■ BREAKFAST CLUB HOCKEY

Suburban Hockey Schools will stage its adult instructional hockey program, open to players of all experience and ability levels, beginning Oct. 16 through March 22, 1996, from 6-7:30 a.m. Wednesdays at Livonia's Devon-Aire Ice Arena; 7-8:30 a.m. Thursdays at the Farmington Hills Arena; 7-8:30 a.m. Wednesdays at the Southfield Civic Center Arena; and 7-8:30 a.m. Tuesdays at the St. Clair Shores Arena.

The 20-week program includes 13 pro-style practice sessions and seven scrimmages. Enrollment is limited to 30 players and four goalies at each location.

The coaching staff includes former Michigan State and UM-Dearborn coach Tom Anastos, former LA King Lyle Phair and goaltending director Darren Eliot.

Outdoors weekend is an interest to women

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

Florence Cobb probably would have been more at home "working in her garden, washing clothes or taking the kids somewhere." Instead, she was resting the barrel of a .22 caliber rifle in the palm of her hand and dialing in on a target some 25-yards away.

Sue Ann Lake could have spent her Saturday morning browsing through the specialty shops at the local mall. Instead, she occupied some of her time nocking arrows and taking archery target practice.

Peggy Perry could have relaxed at home or got caught up on some neglected chores. Instead, she spent the day with her husband, Jim, educating people about the French and Indian War as members of a 1750s reenactment group.

These were three of the nearly 1,000 women of all ages who participated in the Women Experiencing the Great Outdoors weekend, Sept. 9-10, at Pontiac Lake Recreation Area.

The objective of the event was to introduce women and single parents and their children to a variety of outdoor activities.

"I think it's a great opportunity for women to get some hands-on opportunities," explained Perry, a Lake Orion resident. "I think it's especially good for the shooting sports. Sometimes people tend to be afraid of guns, but this gives them an opportunity to experience shooting first-hand."

Cobb had never shot a gun until the WEGO weekend.

"Sometimes you tend to put limitations on yourself, and opportunities like this prove you can do it. I really enjoyed the rifle shooting. I'd like to do it again.

The weekend wasn't just about the shooting sports. There were also presentations and hands-on opportunities in handling reptiles, camping, nature photography, fly tying and fish identification, fishing, horseback riding, mountain biking, in-line skating, water skiing, jet skiing, crafts, even dog mushing and working with retrievers.

"What we wanted to do is present an opportunity for women to get out and enjoy the outdoors with their kids," explained Jan Salter of Clarkston, a member of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club Women's Auxiliary and a co-coordinator of the event. "I really think the chief benefactors will be the kids. We get a lot of calls from single parents who maybe don't know how to fish or go camping or do some of the things their kids want to do. This gives them an opportunity to get out and experience the outdoors first-hand and learn that it's really not that difficult."

Organizers called the event an overwhelming success, and plans are already in the works for another WEGO weekend, May 18-19, again at the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area.

Angler of the Year

Canton's Linda Bennett recently won the 1995 Michigan Bass'n Gals Angler of the Year award. It was her second Angler of the Year title in seven years on the local circuit.

Bennett wrapped up the '95 crown by winning the final event in the five-tournament series, Sept. 6, on the Detroit River. Bennett topped the field on the Detroit River with a limit-catch that tipped the scale at 10.59-pounds. She also had big bass at 2.85-pounds.

Bennett had three firsts, a second and a fourth in the five tournaments in the series for a total weight of 27.05-pounds.

Westland's Patty Thompson placed second in the Angler of the Year standings with a total of 18.88-pounds. Cinbdy Wiebelhaus of Brownstown was third at 15.02, and Diane Wayne of Dearborn Heights was fourth at 9.92.

Michigan Bass'n Gals meet the second Thursday of each month at the Red Lobster on Telegraph in Dearborn Heights. Tournaments are held in southern Michigan, usually within an hour drive of Metro-Detroit.

For more information on the Michigan Bass'n Gals organization, call president Cindy Wiebelhaus at (313) 379-3710.

Big Bass Jr. Champion

Christopher Owen, of Rochester Hills, will be cheering for Kalamazoo's Mike Downey when the 1995 Quaker State Big Bass World Championship Finals are held, Nov. 10-11, on Lake Marion in Hainse City, Florida. That's because if Downey wins the $100,000 BBWC Finals, Owen will be the recipient of a $10,000 scholarship.

Owen caught a 5.32-pound largemouth on July 29 on Lake Laurn and in the process captured the Michigan state title in the 1995 BBWC Junior Championship. Downey landed a 9.13-pound largemouth on July 8 on Lime Kill Lake and won the Michigan state title in the 1995 BBWC Championship. Downey won a free trip to Florida to compete in the BBWC Finals. Owen won a check for $250.

Each of the 50 BBWC state champions will compete in the BBWC Finals. The angler who catches the heaviest bass in the two-day competition will receive $50,000 cash, a new truck, a fully-rigged Astro bass boat with a Mercury outboard and Lowrance electronics. The state winners represent their respective junior winners, so if Downey wins the BBWC Finals, Owen wins the scholarship.

Reminder

Sunday is the deadline to apply for an antlerless deer license. An antlerless deer license allows a hunter to take a deer without antlers or with antlers less than three-inches in length during the regular firearms season (Nov. 15-30), the second archery season (Dec. 1-Jan.1) or the muzzleloading season (Dec. 1-10 in Zone I and Dec. 8-17 in Zones II and III.)

Hunters may apply for an antlerless permit through the DNR's new Retail Licensing System at any DNR office that sells licenses or at any of the 1,500 license agents throughout the state.

Hunters and anglers are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-2573.

Shamrocks, DeLaSalle battle to a standoff

Tuesday's Catholic League Central Division boys soccer showdown between Redford Catholic Central and Warren DeLaSalle ended in a 1-1 tie.

The Shamrocks are 6-1-1 overall and 1-0-2 at the midway point of the Central Division race. DeLaSalle is 1-0-2 overall.

"I thought we played pretty well, the fact of the matter is it's a tie and we're OK," CC coach Phil LaJoy said.

The Shamrocks had the best chance to win down the stretch, but a penalty kick by Tony Moucoulis with about a minute left was stopped by the DeLaSalle goalkeeper.

CC took a 1-0 halftime lead, scoring on a goal by Lance Bethel 12 minutes into the first half, assisted by Chris Kennedy.

DeLaSalle tied the score at 1-1 on a goal by Jason McCallum assisted by Andy McDonald.

The Shamrocks received a heroic effort from senior Tom Derhake, who played the whole game despite a bruise on her foot.

"He gave a lot of effort, basically playing hurt the entire game," LaJoy said. "He made a great contribution."

The CC goalkeeper was Travis Miller.

In Saturday's 4-2 victory over Madison Heights Bishop Foley, Moucoulis scored two goals and had an assist. Bethel and Kennedy had one goal each.

Derhake had two assists for the Shamrocks, who were tied 1-1 at halftime.

New league threatens LCBL

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

■ BASEBALL

Henry Ford Community College baseball coach Stu Rose is starting a summer baseball league in 1996 that could jeopardize the future of the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

Three of the five teams who played last summer in the LCBL, Hines Park Lincoln Mercury, Decision Consultants Inc. and Adray Appliance, have committed to the new league which will be sponsored by Rose's Sports Academy of Novi.

Rick Berryman, the Redford Union coach, also will bring a team in under the sponsorship of the Rams Baseball Organization, Rose said.

Rose said the LCBL's residency rule, requiring each team to have at least five players from the city it uses as a home base, and the lack of commitment from some teams to win were the reasons for starting a new league.

Rose's league will have no residency requirements. Games will be played at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn and Madonna University Park in Livonia.

"The coaches are fed up with the residency requirements," said Rose, a Farmington Hills resident who is a former RU baseball coach. "You can call it a college league, but it's not going to be one as long as they're going to have the 'inside' rule. I want a place where my college kids can play and get better vs. college kids, not playing in a glorified Connie Mack League. I'm doing this for selfish reasons, but I'm not in it for the money."

Hines Park and DCI were by far the best teams in the LCBL, which was basically a three-team league in 1995. Michigan Honig fielded a competitive team in its first year, but Livonia Little Caesars forfeited a doubleheader in the last week of the season because it didn't have enough players and was suspended from the four-team post-season playoffs.

The playoffs dwindled to three teams when Adray, a late entry into the LCBL, couldn't field enough players as a replacement for Caesars.

"You had to joke about it to keep from crying," Rose said. "When you start with five and end up with three, that tells you something."

Next year's Adray team will be run by Rose's assistant coach at Henry Ford, Lee Bjerke, and be made up mostly of Henry Ford players.

Rose also is hoping to add some teams from the Riverside A League in metro Detroit. He is in the process of applying for an All-American Amateur Baseball Association franchise under the Detroit name. The champion, he anticipates, will get an automatic bid to the AAABA national championship in Johnstown, Pa.

Rose said it got to the point where he didn't enjoy watching his players from Henry Ford play LCBL games at Ford Field in Livonia because of the diluted talent pool.

The teams that suffered the most because of the residency rule were those from Livonia, where baseball talent has whittled considerably.

Livonia's Walter's Appliance, a longtime member of the LCBL, quit just prior to last season because coach Harvey Weingarden said his team could no longer compete with other teams for players.

Rose remembers the glory days when the LCBL All-Star team challenged the powerful Detroit Adray All-Star team every year at Tiger Stadium and sometimes won. There wasn't enough interest from all the coaches to have an all-star game last summer.

"There was a time when Livonia had a bonafide Class A League, Adray, Connie Mack, E-Major and F-Major League, all run by the city," said Rose, who grew up in Livonia and played and coached in the Adray League. "I want kids growing up today to say, 'There's great ball out there and someday I want to be good enough to make that team.' "

LCBL co-director Lyle Trudeau said the exodus doesn't mean the end of the LCBL.

"We'll offer it like we always do," Trudeau said. "If they do go with Stu, and they like it for a couple years, more power to them. We just want the kids to play."

The LCBL used to have an eight-player residency rule per team and the issue is discussed periodically within the commission, Trudeau said. Trudeau doesn't know the chances of the rule being dropped.

"I wouldn't even want to predict it," Trudeau said. "The cities that are used for residency usually have at least one Class A school and you should get at least two first stringers from there."

State's game plentiful

The following previews were omitted from the article which appeared in the Great Outdoors section on Thursday, Sept. 14, previewing the upcoming fall hunting seasons.

RACCOON

Season: Oct. 1-Jan. 31, statewide.

Bag Limit: There is no bag limit on raccoons.

Overview: Last year, hunters took better than 150,000 raccoons and can expect similar success in 1995.

"Raccoons are abundant throughout the state and are found in every county," said Reis. "Hunters can expect another banner year and should have the same success as last year."

Raccoons are a diverse animal found everywhere from lakeshores to inland forests. They tend to prefer hardwoods near waterways. Ninety-percent of the raccoon harvest comes at night, behind hounds. Raccoons may be taken year-round on private land if they are doing damage.

SQUIRREL

Season: Sept. 15-Jan. 1, statewide.

Bag Limit: Five per day.

Overview: Squirrels are abundant throughout the state and hunters can expect another fantastic season. Last year, 150,000 hunters took 920,000 squirrels.

"We've got moderate to high numbers throughout the range, especially in the Lower Peninsula," said Reis. "I expect hunters can contemplate another really good year.

Squirrels are found throughout hardwood forests, especially near nut-bearing trees and along the edges of corn fields.

TURKEY

Season: Oct. 2-Oct. 29 in designated management units by special permit only.

Bag Limit: One turkey per hunter.

Overview: A limited fall turkey hunt returns after being canceled in 1994. Three units covering eight counties in the northern Lower as well as Isabella County are open for the 4,500 hunters who received a permit through a lottery-style drawing. Hunters can expect to find good numbers of birds in these areas.

"We only have a few areas open, but hunters should find plenty of birds in those areas," said Urbain. "Overall, we've got good densities in the northern Lower and the flocks are growing in southern Michigan."

Turkeys frequent grain fields during daylight hours and prefer open hardwoods to dense swampy habitats.

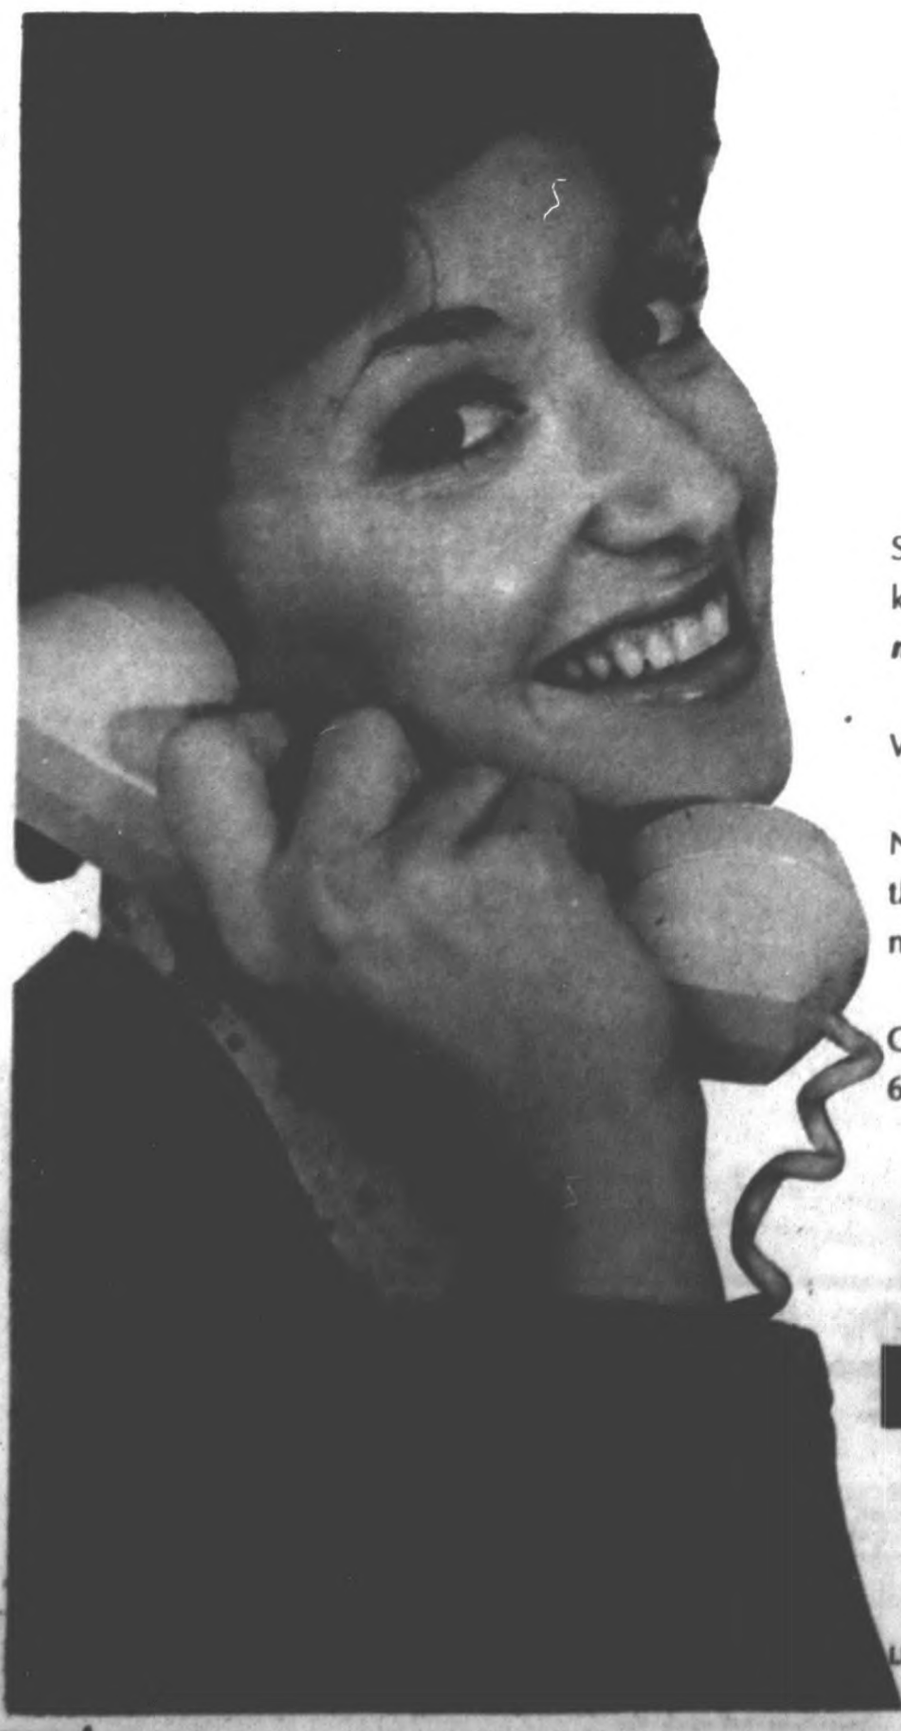

WOODCOCK

Season: Sept. 15-Nov. 14, statewide.

Bag Limit: Five per day.

Overview: Woodcock numbers are still on the low side, but are beginning to pick up. Hunters should see a better season than in 1994 when they harvested approximately 67,000 woodcock, well below the record harvest of 296,000 birds taken in 1989.

"I think we're looking at a better season, if we have a pretty good fall and not too much nasty weather," said Urbain. "Our singing route indicated an 8-percent increase over last year. The numbers are still at a low level, but I certainly think we'll have a better season than last year."

When we say we screen our doctors, it's not a slogan and it's not just some routine examination, either. This is a procedure we take very seriously. After all, your health is at stake here. So, before any doctors become Blue Care Network doctors, before they ever examine one single patient, they must first survive a very detailed examination themselves.

Here's what it takes. First, all doctors (personal care physicians and specialists) are reviewed against very specific written criteria. (Quality of care is what we're measuring here.) In addition, an on-site inspection is conducted by specially trained staff and results are reviewed by Blue Care Network doctors in the area.

Patient satisfaction surveys are conducted by a professional, independent research company. Here, we ask patients to evaluate their doctor's technical skills as well as the basic level of service and care.

And, Blue Care Network works with its personal care physicians to ensure that quality standards are met.

Finally, Blue Care Network itself is reviewed for quality by a national industry watchdog association.

Oh, and after all these standards have been met, the doctors selected have the pleasure of going through this process all over again every two years for as long as they're with us.

Our doctors go through a screening process that's so detailed, it puts them on the other end of the microscope. For a change.

Now, that is a tall order to fill. But if we're going to take the guesswork out of selecting a doctor, we should try our hardest to provide you with a sizable list of quality personal care physicians and specialists. It's as simple as that.

Mail processing

Lason purchase to expand service

A popular buzzword in the direct mail business is co-mingling — a process by which even small volume mailers can now take advantage of the lower postal rates on first-class mail.

These rates were once offered only on pre-sorted mail with a minimum of 50 pieces per ZIP code.

But, it takes special equipment and expertise to co-mingle so many different pre-sorted lists from a variety of both large and small mailers.

Lason Systems Inc., a multi-specialty documents management company headquartered in Livonia, and a leading supplier of direct mail services, acquired this co-mingling capability on site to afford even greater postage savings and better service to clients by purchasing the pre-sort division of Adcom Mailers of Troy last June.

Lason is no newcomer to pre-sort and other direct mail products and services. In business for 10 years, and for the past two years on Michigan's fastest growing businesses list, Lason got its start with a single laser online printer, hence the name Lason, and quickly grew to be one of the larger volume direct mail resources in southeast Michigan.

■ 'As Lason's direct mail division has grown, it has become increasingly important to have bar coding and co-mingling capabilities on site.'

Al Nesbitt
co-owner, president

Some of its clients include American Express, Ford Motor Co., Sears, Amoco, Procter & Gamble, Trans Union, BMG and Aegis Publishing.

"As Lason's direct mail division has grown, it has become increasingly important to have bar coding and co-mingling capabilities on site," said Lason's president and co-owner Al Nesbitt.

"With the purchase of Adcom mailers, Lason now has the expertise and capabilities to provide even greater savings, along with improved deliverability to clients."

Co-mingling is a process by which 11 ZIP-coded first-class mail from a variety of mailers is pre-sorted into at least three or five of the 11 ZIP code numbers, providing 4 to 6 cents savings per first-class piece. In mailings of one million, this saves the mailer $40,000 to $60,000 in postage. Even smaller volume mailers can save thousands of dollars on a single first-class mailing.

"Now that we have this co-mingling service on site, along with our bar coding and sorting options, we not only provide service at more competitive prices, but we can get our client's mail processed and out faster than ever before," said Nesbitt.

"With traditional mail having to compete with electronic dissemination, telecommunications and national overnight services, every hour, every minute counts," he added.

Nesbitt added that both the staff, headed by John Morad Jr., formerly Adcom's general manager, and all the equipment from Adcom will be transferred to Lason's new direct mail facility near company headquarters on Schoolcraft near Middlebelt.

"We've just inked the contract for a 60,000-square-foot facility on Amerhein Road in Livonia. Not only will it house our mailing and pre-sort operations, but it will also serve as backup — in the event of disaster — for all our existing computers which drive Lason's laser and print operations at main headquarters," said Nesbitt.

The reprographics and micrographics facilities in Troy, the St. Clair Shores satellite, some 30 service centers, along with the two west side facilities employ a total of 650 people.

Lason system: A worker lifts a stack of mail in Lason's Livonia plant which uses a co-mingling process to process up to 12 million pieces of first-class mail a month, saving the direct mail company's customers thousands of dollars on first-class postage.

Steve Allen to keynote retirement seminar Oct. 7

Planning for retirement should be fun.

That's why the Society of Lifetime Planning will feature humorist, musician and writer Steve Allen as keynoter at a retirement seminar Saturday, Oct. 7, at the Northfield Hilton, 5500 Crooks Road, Troy.

In addition to Allen's talk about why laughter really is the best medicine, the seminar will deal with making the most of retirement, how women alone can take control of their future, and estate and tax planning issues.

The half-day seminar will begin at 8:45 a.m. and conclude at 12:30 p.m. Seating is open to anyone interested, at no cost. Tickets may be obtained by calling the society at (810) 952-1744.

"Many people spend more time planning their vacations than they do their retirement," said Larry Slabotsky, director of the society. "They're reluctant to think about retirement because they're fearful."

Fear of doing the wrong thing, fear of not having sufficient resources, and fear of complicated financial arrangements cause people to put off planning, Slabotsky said.

"But people soon discover that planning can be a fun, learning experience, once they overcome their anxiety," Slabotsky said. "Planning can create vistas they didn't know existed."

He stressed that planning for retirement is a lifetime process, not an event, particularly as the promise of long-term employment with one company and company-funded retirement plans diminish.

There are few role models for retirement, he said, and that's where the Society for Lifetime Planning comes in: providing counsel, information and financial direction.

"People about to retire want to be OK — to be able to maintain their current standard of living — and that means helping them consider a variety of questions often more important than money," he said.

Where one will live, how one will spend one's time, and how retirement affects relationships with spouses and friends are some of the issues on which the society focuses.

"We're also an information source," he said. "People want to know how to find an attorney or how to get care for an aged parent, and we can help."

In addition, the society provides special retirement information programs for women, recognizing that nearly two out of three women older than 60 live alone.

The society, he said, is an organization dedicated to improving the quality of life for people past 50.

Retirement can be anything they want it to be, he said. "Our clients are the architects, and we're the builders who help them realize their dreams. It's a dynamic team approach which works."

The Society for Lifetime Planning is based in Troy. Consultants have a broad background in a variety of fields and hold degrees ranging from gerontology to finance. Many are chartered financial consultants and certified financial planners.

"Large Object" Seen On I-696

A motorist reported seeing a "large object" on I-696 in Farmington Hills. The driver, who wishes to remain anonymous, claimed he was traveling eastbound on the freeway near the headquarters of Michigan National Bank when the sighting occurred. "It was big. I'll tell you that," the driver of the car claims. "It was really big." Officials say other similar reports have come in sporadically, with descriptions ranging from "it was pretty big" to "it was really, really big." So far, the object in question has yet to be identified.

Read Any Good Interest Rate Reports Lately?

Once the exclusive province of economists, news about interest rates is followed by many Americans today as closely as box scores in the sports pages.

For the World War II generation, 4% home mortgages and 1% savings accounts could be counted on like the sun coming up in the morning. Today, with fluctuation the rule, millions of people watch or read about the latest policy announcements from the Federal Reserve Board of Governors.

This better understanding, together with a changing financial services marketplace, has created smarter consumers who "shop" for lower mortgage rates, refinance and choose from among shorter (10- or 15-year) or longer term fixed-rate mortgages as well as adjustable rates.

Similarly, Americans look for (and find) higher interest rates on savings accounts at banks. Just as with credit card companies, banks differ widely on rates. Michigan National Bank, for example, is offering a savings account with a 6.50% annual percentage yield. Information is readily available on minimum balances, additional services and other benefits, making it easy to compare.

Cost Of Learning Going Up.

Just like everything else, tuition costs for college are on the rise. They've been escalating at a regular rate. And if they continue in this same manner, it's estimated that in a few years a single semester at a Big Ten University could cost as much as $10,000. That's a single semester! Which means, most students won't make it to their commencement day for much less than $100,000.

And that's just what the tuition costs will be in a few years. The figures are much more inflated the further into the future you go. For instance, a child who is born today will be completing college in the year 2017. Calculating inflation at 5% a year, the total tuition funds needed would be around $185,000.

But, take heart. There is some great news you'll want to know about, whether you have a child on the way to college or you just want to keep up with inflation. Right now, for RatePLUS™ Banking customers, Michigan National Bank is offering 6.50% APY on savings. It's the RatePLUS savings account. And you should look into it today. As far as we can see, you don't have a minute to lose.

Michigan's Falling For Autumn Points of Interest.

Fall is just a few days away. And Michiganians are already falling for traditional autumn attractions.

Cider mills from Franklin to Frankfurt are reporting big crowds. Pumpkin patches and haunted houses are starting to pop-up. And apple picking is definitely in season.

But Michigan's biggest points of interest this fall are found in branches–not on trees–at the almost 200 Michigan National Bank branches which now features 6.50% APY interest on RatePLUS savings for RatePLUS banking customers.

RatePLUS, officially launched this week, offers an interest rate larger than some money markets and CDs–yet the account is fully liquid and F.D.I.C. insured. What's more, unlimited checkwriting is part of the package.

If your birthday is today...

it's a great day to invest. The moon is in the seventh house. Jupiter has aligned with Mars. In fact, the stars are forming a great big dollar sign in the sky. The message couldn't be more clear. Of course, you don't have to look at the stars to see where you should invest your money. You just need to look at that rate in the middle of this page. STEP workers thrive in jobs at area businesses

BY JILL HALPIN
STAFF WRITER

At a time when many employers are finding it hard to keep jobs filled, one local organization has a motivated workforce that can't be beat. Not only are workers loyal and dedicated, they bring an upbeat pride in work attitude to their job with them.

The organization, Services To Enhance Potential (STEP), is a nonprofit corporation offering vocational training and job placement for those with developmental disabilities. A variety of supported environments are offered to workers from training centers and workshops to placement in area businesses.

Based in Wayne County and formerly known as the Wayne County Association for the Retarded, STEP has been serving area individuals for almost 25 years. There are currently more than 1,000 clients serviced by STEP programs.

"We are not working on a cure. These individuals have conditions which may never improve. What we are trying to do is functionally improve their quality of life. Placing these individuals in community jobs is a win-win situation for everyone — employed individuals pay taxes and are consumers of goods and services," said Mitch Howard, development director for STEP. In addition to benefiting the community, retaining a job helps build self-esteem for the individual.

Job coach

STEP's mission is not only limited to job placement and goes beyond simply helping individuals locate employment, Howard said. In addition to placement, STEP provides a support team of professionals such as a job coach to help individuals transfer learned skills to a work environment.

The job coach also helps the worker learn additional skills which may be needed in a position. As the worker is successful in adapting to the position, the job coach fades into the background and meets with the worker only occasionally to evaluate the situation. The evaluation also helps to ensure that the pairing of employment situation and individual is a successful one, and that the needs of both the worker and the workplace are effectively met.

"We've taken a hard look at job matching. It's important for an individual to feel like they fit in a job and are accomplishing things within that job. They also may be in a position where they need to adapt and learn new skills," said Howard.

STEP also offers classes in interpersonal skills in order to assist workers learn how to adapt to

Arbor to open 5 new stores

Arbor Drugs will open its 169th through 173rd stores, all in southeastern Michigan, by Oct. 30.

The announcement of the company's five additional full line drugstores was made by Eugene Applebaum, chairman and CEO of the Troy-based retailer.

The scheduled openings include two stores in western Wayne County - 25700 W. Seven Mile Road at Beech Daly in Redford Township and 7269 Warren at Canton Center Road in Canton Township. Others include stores in Clawson, Detroit and Clinton Township.

"There continue to be significant growth opportunities for our company in southeastern Michigan, the nation's fifth largest drugstore market. Over the next year, we intend to open 20 new stores and create 500 new jobs in the marketplace," said Applebaum.

The stores, ranging in size from 10,587 to 10,880 square feet, will offer all of the company's traditional services including Dose Check Plus, Picture Pronto and Arbortech Plus, a pharmacy system which enables customers to refill prescriptions at any Arbor store in Michigan.

Founded by Applebaum in 1963, Arbor Drugs is today the nation's 15th largest drugstore chain. The company currently operates 168 stores, all in Michigan.

Administering a 401(k)

TOM HOGAN

With the IRS issuing proposed regulations in 1981 that sanctioned salary reductions, the floodgates were opened as employers responded in 1982 with the adoption of new 401(k) plans and the conversion of existing thrift plans from after tax to before tax contributions.

Further subtle modification to the rules ensued and by 1986 Congress and the IRS became seriously concerned about the popularity of these plans. The growth of 401(k) plans meant a loss of tax revenue and an impact on the budget deficit. By 1991, the IRS issued finalized regulations that explained statutory requirements for 401(k) plans.

As these changes evolved, the administration of 401(k) plans became ever more complex and that process is likely to continue into the future as tax codes continue to change.

The dual concern that employers have is how to comply with these regulations on a timely basis and if this task can be accomplished in a cost-effective way.

Great Lakes Pension Administrators Inc. of Farmington Hills president and CEO Judy Brown said: "The business owner wants a program that works well so that they can spend most of their time running their business."

Only the larger companies can afford to maintain internal staff to administer a plan and smaller companies must hire qualified third-party administrators.

From the employee's perspective, the 401(k) plan offers a unique opportunity to save federal and state income taxes. The tax shelter aspects of these plans may make them an ideal first line of defense tactic for reducing taxable income and saving for retirement. Along with these attributes comes a high level of concern as to where the employees' money is and what control do they have as to investment flexibility.

Plans today offer better investment so we gravitate to the main concern of keeping the employee informed. It is important for the administrative system to produce timely and accurate reports, so that participants can see where their contributions are invested and how these investments are doing. It is also important the reports be easy to read and that the employees have easy access to an update on their report such as an 800 number.

The paperwork of a 401(k) plan can be quite tedious unless the administrator has a streamlined system set up to help the employer carry out the paperwork requirements on a timely basis.

Not only is the communication and education process for the benefit of the employee very important, but also the ongoing top heavy testing, calculating contributions, participant loans and other distributions are just a few of the administrative details that must be tended to, while properly running the plan. This all comes to a conclusion each year with the filing of the form 5500 series and accompanying schedules by the last day of the seventh month following the close of the plan year.

The Department of Labor has authority to assess penalties of up to $1,000 per day. The penalty period begins from the due date of the filing, regardless of any extensions obtained, and generally continues to the date a satisfactory return is filed.

A significant event of the early '90s was the decline of certain insurance companies, including Executive Life and Mutual Benefit Life. Large numbers of 401(k) sponsors had dollars invested in their guaranteed contracts. While the failure of these companies put participants' money at risk, many plan sponsors have taken steps to ensure that participants will not lose money by replacing the lost dollars with additional contributions.

The result of all of this has been the undermining of participants' faith in these types of guaranteed contracts. Consequently, there has been the development of many more choices in the debt and equity investment areas.

Some larger companies now offer literally dozens of investment choices such as was instituted by General Motors Corp. in early 1995 and soon Ford Motor Co. in the fourth quarter of 1995.

"Our firm would like to see more financial counseling offered to employees," said Brown, of Great Lakes Pension.

As the shift from employer-only contribution pensions to employee contribution plans continues, it is becoming more apparent that the average employee is not saving enough to meet his or her retirement income needs.

This kind of demographic change continues to accelerate and to make it imperative that as part of the administrative process, employees have access to appropriate financial counsel to help them determine how much they should be saving for retirement and what investment vehicle can best help them meet these goals and satisfy their risk tolerance profile.

International Websites feature indepth coverage

EMORY DANIELS

The Internet is truly an international medium, not only because it reaches so many countries but because of the content available on so many countries and on the earth itself.

A global climate World Wide Web (WWW) page offers information on the world's climate, solar and earth radiation. At this site, you will find information on aerosols, clouds and the hydrological cycle, rainfall, and remote sensing. There's a page to search for publications and abstracts, a list of other Websites related to global climate, and links to NASA data centers. Visit this site at http://climate.gsfc.nasa.gov/.

One of the best ways to get news from other countries is to tap into the news services and newspapers of foreign nations. The Baltic News Service, for instance, recently opened its own home page at http://www.bns.ee. Visit here and you'll find news from the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

News from Poland can be accessed at http://www.securities.com.pl/. This site contains broad general coverage plus news with an economic emphasis. There is an extensive English daily news section offering access to extensive summaries and full text articles. Also available are news stories from the eastern Europe service.

Daily news reports from Greece, Turkey and the Balkans, often translated from Greek to English, are available at http://asudesign.eas.asu.edu/places/Greece/news. A fully-searchable archive is maintained back to November 1993.

News on Panama is available at a Website maintained by El Panama America, one of Panama's largest daily newspapers. The online edition, in five sections updated daily, is designed for Netscape 1.1 but does offer an alternative text version that O&E Onliners will find easy to ready using Lynx. The Universal Resource Locator (URL) for Netscape users is http://www.nando.net/int/EPA/index.html and the URL for the text-version is http://www.nando.net/int/EPA/index—t.html.

Daily news in Spanish from Monterey, Mexico, offers these sections on-line: Deportes, Politica, Espectaculos, Finanzas, and Cultura. Access at http://www.pixel.com.mx/diariomty/news/.

The Internet can get quite specialized. News on Korea is available from a weekly news magazine but it's only in the Korean language. The news and articles are from a magazine known as Hangyoreh21 Weekly which can be accessed at http://news.hani.co.kr/.

The AFRO-American Newspapers home page at http://www.afroam.org opened on Sept. 6. It contains information on Africa and daily news.

There also is an exciting new site that offers very good information about Africa. The design is not great but the content is very rich. Features include: a magazine rack found under "groups"; a fax service; background on Africa covering all countries and territories, found under "what's new," said to be more complete than CIA or State Department materials.

The news sources include Kenya news in English, Habari in Swahili, New Vision, Uganda News, African Technology Forum, the Ghana Drum, Zambian Post, Weekly Mail & Guardian, news briefings from ANC, AfriNET, and much more. The links are as broad as the continent itself, but some interesting ones include reviews of African recordings at RootsWorld, Virtual Africa Home Page, selections from the African-American Mosaic, Rhodes University, and Virtual Zimbabwe. The URL is http://www.africaonline.com/.

The International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies has been on the Internet for a short time and can be accessed at http://ifrc.org. The federation's main task is to coordinate international relief among Red Cross Societies around the world in case of natural disasters.

The global impact of the Internet can be appreciated by looking how the Intelligence Watch Report (IWR) operates. The IWR provides daily and priority updates on the changing events taking place in the world of public and private sector intelligence. The site offers reports in these languages: Arabic, Czech, English, Flemish, French, German, Portuguese, Russian, Slovak, and Spanish. IT has staff in Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Germany, Israel, Netherlands, Sweden and the U.S. Among the topics are reports on the Belgium Security Service, German intelligence agencies, an analysis of the Guatemalan case involving the CIA, reviews of books and products. Point to http://www.awpi.com/IntelWeb/ for a visit to the IntelWeb which offer free access to documents on intelligence agencies from around the world.

And, finally, if you want information on whether a particular country has e-mail access or on the country codes registered with Internic, you can FTP to ftp://rtfm.mit.edu:/pub/usenet/news.answers/mail or ftp.univ-lyon1.fgr/pub/faq/by-name/mail/. The same information is available by e-mail by sending a message to ftpmail@grasp.insa-lyon.fr, in the subject area typing "no one cares", in the body of the message "open," and then "get pub/faq/by-name/mail/country-codes". Or hop on the Web and jump to http://www.ee.ic.ac.uk/misc/country-codes.html.

a workplace. The classes help maximize an individual's independent functioning in daily living.

Howard cites the case of one young woman who came to STEP in her late 20s after a series of failures. After evaluating her situation, she began attending classes aimed at improving interpersonal skills.

"She was placed in a few environments where she was unhappy, and it was finally discovered that what she really wanted was to work in an office," said Howard. She was placed in a temporary employment situation and received support visits from STEP staff. Eventually, she was offered a full-time permanent position and is no longer collecting welfare.

"Ten years ago, she had little to look forward to. This is not to say that she doesn't still encounter obstacles and face challenges. It is all relative. For her, getting up every day and getting to work is a success, and it is important," said Howard.

Tackling transportation

STEP also helps its clients tackle the obstacle of transportation by offering a transportation mobility program. Through this training program, individuals are trained on traveling to and from their workplace safely and effectively. With the help of a trainer, individuals learn important skills such as self-identification and landmark recognition. The individual then travels the route with the help of a trainer until the trainer's assistance is no longer required.

The trainer fades away gradually, following the individual by car and then monitoring by phone until no longer needed.

Recent funding problems with SMART threatened to throw a wrench into the transportation system, however. In some cases, SMART mini-buses pick up workers at their homes and deliver them to their worksite. When funding for the SMART buses went on the ballot at a recent election, both parents of STEP program participants and employers sprang into action, holding rallies and contacting both local and state representatives for support, Howard said.

"They were quite effective in helping to gain funding for SMART," Howard said.

Local business

The STEP program continues to grow. When the program began, there were more than 500 developmentally disabled people on a waiting list, looking for employment. Currently, there are only 37, according to Howard. STEP workers can be found in a variety of local businesses, including the Parisian department store, Arbor Drugs and the GM Tech Center.

Workshops operated by STEP are also the site of the assembly of many common household items, including the all-purpose spray bottle used by local grocery chains.

"These are strong, successful people who enjoy having work," said Howard.

Office Depot opens local service center

Office Depot opened a 200,000-square-foot customer service center in Plymouth on Monday.

The new facility is part of the company's business service division, which is an integrated nationwide network that delivers office supplies, computer products and office furniture directly to businesses.

The new center is located at 909 Sheldon Road and consolidates the Highland Park operations previously operated by Silver's Inc., which was acquired by Office Depot in May 1994.

Approximately 250 employees will work at the Plymouth facility. Products offered include office supplies, computer products, office furniture, rubber stamps and signs. Office design, graphic design, printing, copying, advertising specialty, forms management and electronic ordering services are also available.

The facility hosted a grand opening last week where leading office supply and computer manufacturers displayed the latest technologies for current customers and interested local businesses.

"The Plymouth facility's proximity to our client base makes it a logical location for this new operation," said Judith Rogala, executive vice president of Office Depot's business services division.

"This facility will consolidate our services and allow us the opportunity to provide improved servicing capabilities and more rapid reaction time to our customers' demands. We will serve as a single-source solution for office products and business services to our customers."

On a national basis, the business services division continues to impact the office supply industry. In providing next business day delivery of quality office supplies throughout North America, as well as possessing electronic ordering capabilities and value added services, Office Depot's business division has earmarked itself a champion in supporting businesses.

In addition to its business services division, Office Depot operates 455 retail stores, including 13 in Michigan, throughout the United States and Canada.

Office Depot reported sales of $4.26 billion in 1994 and $2.55 billion for the first six months of 1995.

Headquartered in Delray Beach, Fla., Office Depot is the world's largest office products retailer. It opened its first store in Fort Lauderdale in 1986.

Negotiation can be positive element of work life

STEWART L. TUBBS

The baseball strike ends after 234 days and a billion dollars in lost revenues. This type of negotiation and the dialogues between the prosecution and defense attorneys in the O.J. Simpson trial get all the media attention. However, negotiations go on every day that are important parts of our lives, such as those between bosses and employees, husbands and wives or parents and children.

The fundamental question is "Are negotiations good or bad?" The answer is they are both. Negotiations are bad when they result in a lose-lose outcome like we have seen in the baseball strike. Everybody lost. In the O.J. Simpson trial, there will inevitably be a winner and a loser.

But in everyday lives and in business many negotiations can result in a win-win outcome.

For example, if the boss gets an employee to agree to work on a weekend, he or she may also have the employee trade days off with another worker so that both employees are satisfied. With the husband and wife, they may look at several choices for an evening out, and decide to go to a movie one time and bowling another. With the parents and children, the kids can do what the parents want in exchange for something they want, such as going to a movie, watching a certain TV program, or sleeping over at a friend's house.

■ Negotiations go on every day that are important parts of our lives, such as those between bosses and employees, husbands and wives or parents and children.

Experts Roger Fisher and William Ury have identified four principles of effective negotiation. They refer to the process as principled negotiation.

The principles are: First, separate people from the problem. This is very hard to do, but involves not personally attacking the other party.

When in the heat of discussing differences of opinion, one of the most common mistakes we make is to get sarcastic and personal.

Second, focus on interests, not positions. In real estate, for example, it is easy to get locked in on a sale price. Both parties may deadlock because they are a few hundred dollars apart. Instead, the parties can focus on their interests, such as getting the house sold by a certain deadline, agreeing on what is included in the cost, when to take occupancy, or what furnishings might be included in the sale price.

Third, invent various options for mutual gain. This is often the easier to accomplish. Instead of deciding between a and b, the parties should brainstorm c, d, e, f, g, if necessary.

One family in a negotiation with a mover told the mover they had to get the move for no more than the amount they were going to be reimbursed by their employer. The mover had estimated over a thousand dollars more. The family decided they could pack many of their own boxes of towels, books and other bulky things, and save a lot on the packing charges. Finally, they were only two hundred dollars apart. The mover wanted this business, so he threw in a "decision-maker's discount," since the family had one member who was going to be in a leadership position.

This clearly was just a creative way of "inventing" an option to achieve mutual gain. Both parties were satisfied and the deal was signed.

Fourth, use objective criteria. If you want to sell or buy a used car, the Blue Book is one example; appraisals of property are another; average starting salaries are another if you are looking for a job and want to get (or offer) a certain salary.

The real beauty of learning and using principled negotiation is that the more both parties now how to use these four principles, the more likely they both are to achieve their goals.

Perhaps this is why 90 percent of lawsuits are negotiated out of court. There is more room for both parties to explore win-win solutions.

Stewart Tubbs is dean of the college of business at Eastern Michigan University.

Fraternal group teams with state donor agency

The Gift of Life Agency of Michigan, the state's only licensed organ recovery agency, and the Knights of Columbus of Michigan, the largest Catholic fraternal family society, have announced the creation of Extension of Life Network, an on going organ- and tissue-donor registry program.

The program, the first of its kind in the state, will involve Knights of Columbus members, their families and friends in an effort to reduce the severe shortage of human organs for life-saving transplant surgeries. The ultimate goal of the program is to acquire thousands more signed donor-registry cards.

"There is a real need for this program," said Anthony Kulka, state deputy, Michigan Knights of Columbus council. "Every day eight to 10 people die in the United States waiting for a transplant because of the inadequate supply of organs. In Michigan, nearly 2,000 people are waiting for an organ transplant with thousands more waiting for skin, bone or a cornea. Knights of Columbus members have the potential to save lives and extend lives. And, that is what our organization is all about."

There are over 80,000 Knights of Columbus members in Michigan in 306 local councils. Each council will receive a special packet containing registry cards and a 30-minute documentary, "Legacy — The Gift of Life." Kulka hopes the program will generate some 12,000 new names in the computerized donor registry at the Gift of Life Agency of Michigan.

The registry, which was created 16 months ago, is an extension of Michigan's driver's license program. Like a driver's license sticker, the mail-in registry card requires at least one witness' signature.

Once received by the Gift of Life, the information on the card — donor name, address and what organs/tissues should be donated — is added to a computer network. Upon the donor's death, when the family is asked to grant permission for organ donation, the computerized information is made available to the family.

"The occasion of death is a very difficult and stressful time for the family. We encourage prior family discussion so that the family can comfortably relay the decision to donate their loved one's organs and tissues," said Tom Beyersdorf, executive director, Gift of Life Agency.

"We are very enthusiastic about working with the Knights of Columbus. The Extension of Life Network is going to be a very valuable program for us. When the leaders of such a prestigious organization openly adopt this life giving legacy, then our public education job gets much easier."

The Gift of Life Agency of Michigan is the state's only non profit certified organ recovery agency. They act as intermediary between donors, physicians and hospital staff, and provide all services necessary for organ and tissue donation. For more information on organ donation or the Extension of Life Network, call 1-800-482-4881.

NEW HOMES

Buyers demand bigger houses, more amenities

Builders at Spring Meadow of West Bloomfield have entered the second phase of their popular residential development with slightly larger models and some extra amenities included at standard prices.

"We've responded to the market," said Steven Perlman, partner with Ivanhoe-Huntley Homes. "We made family rooms bigger and found it was important for people to have a more luxurious master suite. We upgraded the kitchen, too."

Ten different floor plans are available ranging from a 1,700-square-foot ranch with three bedrooms and two baths priced at $204,900 to a 3,300-square-foot two-story with four bedrooms and 2½ baths for $279,200.

"At the price, it's tremendous value," Perlman said.

"When you buy a house here, you don't need one option, but you could if you wanted to," said Gary Shapiro, Ivanhoe-Huntley partner.

"There's a sense of community — three parks, playground, gazebo and sidewalks," he added.

"We've had so much success in phase one," said Colette Scholten, marketing director for S.R. Jacobson Development.

"You're close to Haggerty Road and the new connector will make it in good proximity and easy access to almost every expressway," she said.

MJC West also is building in Spring Meadow on a rotation basis.

"We were able to brainstorm the expertise of three companies to get the right floor plans," Shapiro said.

"It's a very professional presentation," Perlman added.

Standard features in all plans include three-car garage, fireplace, first floor laundry with tub, basement and double oven, cooktop and dishwasher.

Extras include air conditioning, averaging about $2,500, and skylights, $760 apiece.

Exteriors have brick, wood siding and wood trim.

Prospects can visit three on-site models.

The Grand Cypress, a two-story of 2,700-square feet, has a library, step-down living room and dining room with cathedral ceiling, kitchen/eating nook and family room.

All four bedrooms are upstairs.

The master has two walk-in closets, two vanities separated by a tub, a separate show and cathedral ceiling. The other three bedrooms share a full bath with dual sink vanity.

Base price is $243,900.

The Augusta, a story-and-a-half of 2,150 square feet, is contemporary and open.

The master suite, with a separate tub and shower, one walk-in and one wall closet, dual sink vanity, dressing area and cathedral ceiling, is on the main level.

A library with cathedral ceiling is off the foyer as is a large planter shelf.

An open kitchen/eating nook, dining room and great room flow together across the back of the unit with sloped ceiling.

Two bedrooms and a bath with dual sink vanity are upstairs. A small loft area also is at the head of the stairs.

Base price is $234,900.

The Turnberry, a 2,575-square-foot, two-story, is a more traditional layout with a library, living room, dining room, kitchen/eating nook and step-down family room.

The upstairs master has separate tub and shower, two walk-in closets, dressing area, dual sink vanity and cathedral ceiling.

Two bedrooms and a media/computer room or optional fourth bedroom plus a full bath are on the second level.

Base price is $231,200.

Spring Meadow, off Commerce Road east of Keith, is serviced by city water and sewers. The sub has sidewalks and is within the Walled Lake school boundaries.

The property tax rate currently is about $28.30 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $240,000 house in Spring Meadow would pay nearly $3,400 the first year.

The annual association fee to maintain common areas is $200.

A majority of buyers are building their first brand new house.

"They're impressed with sidewalks, three-car, side-entry garages, windows and size of bathrooms," said Fenelon Ashley, sales coordinator. "The trend has been toward larger. They just want more space."

Vince VanPoppelen, with wife, Bonnie, and children Paige, Brooke and Rachel, are building a Grand Cypress II, their first brand new house.

"It was just filled with kids, sidewalks and schools nearby," Vince said of the neighborhood. "It's kind of a rural portion of West Bloomfield. It's just a nice location, something you can raise a family in.

"It's a lot of house for the money," he said. "I was really impressed with the size of the rooms and the extra features that came included."

Steve and Sherle Flaggman are building a Turnberry II.

"We liked the lots. They're very nice size," he said. "We thought the houses were really attractive. We didn't think they were ultra modern or traditional — somewhere in between which we both like.

"The house (Turnberry II) flows well, its rooms are placed well. It made sense.

Turnberry: This model features a family room, library, living room and dining room on the main floor, a luxurious master suite upstairs.

The sales office at Spring Meadow, (810) 363-2500, is open noon to 7 p.m. daily.

House has room to store an RV

For a study kit of the ARIE (403-03), send $10.00, to Landmark Designs, P.O.BOX 2307-OE48, Eugene, OR 97402 (Be sure to specify plan name & number) For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark

For weekend travelers concerned about finding a safe place to park their recreational vehicle when they return home, the impressive Arie will put an end to those worries. A full-sized R.V. storage unit has been designed to fit alongside the garage of this 2,171-square-foot charmer. When you return from a trip,, whether it lasts a few days or a few weeks, you'll be happy to have this beautiful house waiting.

A wrap-around porch, with waist high railing adds a homey touch to the exterior design. If the weather turns chilly, warm up by spending some time in the spa that's located in the glass-enclosed green room.

The interior motif will also lift your spirits. There is plenty of room here for entertaining friends in comfortable surroundings. Near the recessed entry, the vaulted living room serves as a cozy retreat. Warmed by a wood stove, this is the perfect spot for rejoicing in good conversation or savoring the view through the huge bay window.

The isolated master suite features personal access to both the greenroom/spa and a back deck that runs the length of the building. Other master suite amenities include a walk-in closet and private bathroom. The second bedroom, which is also isolated for privacy, will function well as quarters for overnight guests or an elderly parent

Sod makes lawn repairs easy, quick

Unsightly, damaged, dying or dead grass — whether it's a small or large area in your lawn — can be repaired simply, easily and immediately with a few hand tools and mature turfgrass sod. What's more, repairing lawns with sod can be done at practically any time of year, unlike patching with grass seed that must usually be delayed until fall or spring for any chance of success.

Before starting your lawn repair project, identify your best source for replacement sod. Yellow Pages listings under "Sod or Sodding" should provide several alternatives, or you can call the industry's international association, Turfgrass Producers International at 1-800-405-TURF, for a listing of area growers. Some garden centers, nurseries or home building supply firms will also have turfgrass sod available in small amounts.

Talk to the sod producer, a garden center or nursery person to make sure they have the type of grass you need, such as bluegrass, fescue, bermuda, etc., to match your existing lawn and to learn the width and length of the sod you will be buying. Sod is usually cut in widths ranging from 14, 16, 18 or even 24 inches and in lengths ranging from 4 to 72 inches.

Next, carefully examine and measure the damaged grass area. At this time, you should remedy the cause of the problem, whether it's poor soil, salt damage, poor drainage, excessive shade or even pets.

If the damaged area is relatively small (a few square yards), a large, sharp knife or hatchet, a spade or tilling fork and a rake are all you'll need. If the area is larger, you'll probably want to use a Rototiller.

Once you've determined the general area to be repaired, measure and mark the width so it will match the dimension of one or more pieces of replacement sod. For example, if the new sod is 18 inches wide, multiples of 18 inches of old grass should be removed so that the new pieces will easily fit into the area. The length of the patch will determine how many total pieces of sod you'll need.

With the sharp knife or hatchet, cut a straight edge through the old grass and into the soil. With a sharp spade, skin off the old grass and put it into your compost pile. Till the area where the grass was removed to a depth of four to six inches, adding soil amendments if needed, making sure you don't damage the straight edge created when removing the old grass. Rake the area smooth, water it to improve settling and leave the soil surface about one inch lower than the existing grass, as the new sod will fill this space and create a smooth, uniform surface when it's installed.

Place the first piece of new sod tightly against the straight edge of the existing healthy grass, trimming the length as necessary. Butt all other pieces of sod tightly against each other, without stretching or overlapping.

Finally, water the new sod immediately so that when you lift a corner, the base soil is wet. This usually takes about one inch of water over the entire area. Continue to water the area as needed to keep it moist during the rooting period, which should only take a week or so. Limit traffic on this area for about two weeks and then enjoy your beautifully repaired lawn to the fullest.

For a complimentary copy of the "Turf Installation Guide," which provides additional information on the subject and "Our Precious Planet," describing the environmental benefits of turfgrass, write to: Turfgrass Resource Center, Dept. HIT, 1855-A, Hicks Road, Rolling Meadows, IL 60008.

Houses use the earth for heating, cooling

Did you ever think you could actually heat and cool your home using the ground beneath your own backyard? And save money doing so? A new electric technology called a geothermal (or ground source) heat pump uses solar energy absorbed by the ground for low cost heating and cooling. You can save up to 60% on heating costs and to 30% on cooling costs, according to the Edison Electric Institu (EEI) and the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA), representing America electric utilities.

What makes a geothermal heat pump so efficient? It transfers heat instead of creating it. Instead of using an outdoor compressor like other systems, it exchanges heat with the earth via underground plastic piping. Installation costs more than other systems, but the energy savings will pay you back the difference in three to five years.

"Ground source heat pumps save energy and save on electric bills," said Tom Farkas, EEI's Manager of Residential Programs. "They provide benefits that other heating and cooling systems can't."

Major geothermal heat pump benefits include:

- Savings on operating costs. You get up to $4.00 in heating or cooling from each dollar of electricity.
- Heating and cooling from a single unit. And, they require no more maintenance than traditional heating and cooling systems.
- Year-round hot water, with some systems. During the air conditioning mode, the hot water is "free," since the system takes the house's heat and puts it into the water heating tank.
- Durability, since the units are housed indoors. They last longer than conventional systems because they are protected from harsh outdoor weather.
- Quiet operation. Ground source heat pumps have no exposed, noisy outdoor compressors. They operate quietly to satisfy your needs without disturbing you — or your neighbors.
- Environmental efficiency. Geothermal heat pumps use the earth as a natural energy source — a heat source in winter and a heat sink in summer. Compared to other systems, they work less to exchange energy into and out of the house.
- Rebates upon installation. Since ground source heat pumps have high energy efficiency ratings, many electric utilities offer their customers rebates upon installation.

These environmentally friendly heat pumps also return a more even year-round demand on utility power plants. This helps defer the need for building more power plants.

For more information about geothermal heat pumps, call your electric utility's residential marketing department.

You can dress up your kitchen with cabinets

No longer is the kitchen simply a place to prepare meals. Today, as families take refuge in their houses from hectic daily schedules, it also functions as a dining room, a family room, an office, a playroom and a recycling center. Without question, the kitchen is again becoming "the heart" of the American home.

It comes as little surprise, then, that the kitchen is the most frequently remodeled room in the house. After all, if you're spending so much time in the kitchen, shouldn't it be a functional place that fits your family's lifestyle? So, more than ever, as interest rates and house prices climb, Americans are opting to stay put and remodel, starting with the kitchen.

According to the National Kitchen and Bath Association, 52 percent of the cost of a new or remodeled kitchen goes toward new cabinetry. Therefore, you'll want to spend some time shopping for cabinet styles, sizes and options to fit your design plans and your budget. And, since cabinets are a high-ticket item, why not use them and coordinating accessories to dress up the look of your kitchen? Your first step should be visiting kitchen and bath dealer who has a showroom with numerous full-size accessories that fit their personal tastes and unique lifestyles."

Be it country, contemporary, traditional or something in between, there are a multitude of design options to select from.

Dressing Up Cabinetry

Dettinger offered Yorktowne's popular white vinyl Whitehall cabinetry, customized with Country accents and accessories, as an example of how homeowners can create a functional, personalized kitchen, without paying custom cabinet prices. Here are a few of Dettinger's suggestions for dressing up kitchen cabinetry:

Period wall end cabinets with Country English fretwork and spindles soften the look of cabinets and provide easy-access areas to display plants, cookbooks, etc.

Cabinets with see-through mullion doors create an open look and are an ideal showcase for cherished silver, china, glassware or prized collectibles. Most manufacturers offer multiple mullion styles, as well as plain door frames. They can be customized with clear, smoked or stained glass, or consider adding lace curtains. Any combination will be both attractive and practical. Period open shelf base cabinets also provide a unique decorative touch with decorative fretwork, an adjustable shelf and a special grooved paneling back called wainscoting). They are usually 24 inches deep, making storing oversized items easy.

To conserve sacred cabinet storage space, while adding a stylish flair to your kitchen, consider plate racks and/or decorative cup holders. Space-saving cup holders also can be used to display spices, decorative tins or collectibles.

Want your new kitchen to be a clutter-free zone? Add base cabinets with built-in trash containers and recycling sorting bins. Other cabinet accessories that combine form and function: drawers with built-in bread boxes, solid maple cutting blocks and even ironing boards. Toasters, mixers, etc., can be neatly stored away in "appliance garages" with sliding tambour doors. When you visit the dealer showroom, take a look at some of the following special cabinets and accessories and add them to your "dress up" wish list:

- Open shelf wall cabinets with decorative gallery rail
- Wall bookcase cabinets and china closets for collectibles or kitchenware
- Decorative wooden range hoods
- Lattice wine racks
- Microwave oven shelves
- Dishwasher and refrigerator panels customized to match your cabinetry
- Decorative spindles, gallery rails and moldings
- Under-sink drop-down louver trays for sponges, etc.
- Decorative fluted (vertically grooved) fillers and overlays
- Winscoting paneling for a textured look
- Shaped wooden supports to hold countertops or shelving

Lots of laminates can spice up any kitchen

For long wear and easy care, laminates have always been hard to beat, and today they're also great fashion products for kitchen countertops.

Almost every material you can think of for countertops now surfaces as a laminate design, including luxurious granites and marbles, but according to Holbrook Platts, design expert for Westinghouse Micarta, professional kitchen designers often find looks that are laminates' very own the most exciting.

Good examples of such laminates are the infinite range of solid colors ranging from pale neutrals and pastels to bright primaries and dramatic darks. Other fashion greats include splatter patterns borrowed from well-loved country tableware, small abstract motifs, overprints and crinkle effects that create wonderful kaleidoscopic effects, and exotic mineral designs.

Now add the fact that each laminate is offered in many finishes and textures, and homeowners shopping for a new countertop might find the choice daunting. But Platts says not to worry, for while he concurs that the wealth of laminates offered may seem confusing, it's actually less difficult choosing the right design and color for a countertop than for other areas of the kitchen.

"Countertops are relatively small," explains Platts. "So you can be more daring than with other surfaces in the kitchen. Even a distinctive look won't tire the eye, so if you fall in love with a bright color or an unusual design, go for it. However, if you're still worried about a big jolt of color or pattern, think of putting one of the abstract patterns to work. Micarta's beautiful Landscape series, which translates forests, deserts and the arctic into soft, harmonious color combinations, is especially easy to work with. The patterns coordinate effortlessly with many colors without clashing."

Platts adds that such kaleidoscopic patterns are also great when a kitchen upgrade is in the works.

"Often, homeowners don't want to go for a whole new kitchen," he explains. "The refrigerator and stove work perfectly, but they are avocado green or yellow, and the cabinets are oak, sturdy and still functioning well, but a little tired looking. What's needed here is a countertop that will bring the kitchen up to date and yet complement the old design elements. All those crinkle, splatter and abstract patterns that combine many colors, but do so softly, are perfect. They will be equally at home in contemporary, transitional and traditional kitchens."

Laminate wood designs are enjoying a well-deserved renaissance, and many are beautiful for kitchen counters. Just a few years ago, designers frowned on these faux woods. They wanted only the real thing. But because so many of the exotic and rare woods are endangered, faux woods are now held in high regard.

"But it isn't all about ecology," notes Platts. "Laminate technology has made giant strides forward, and today's wood designs look so real that you can't tell the difference between the originals and the replicas."

Wood designs, always a Micarta specialty, are especially strong in the firm's new line, and Platts says the key words are soft warmth. New designs that correspond with this trend include Golden Pearwood, Native Beech and Vermont Maple. All three would be wonderful for countertops in the all-white kitchens so popular in contemporary houses.

Micarta also features exotic forest species like mahogany, rosewood, teak and birdseye, but an option that few homeowners know about is adding a woodgrain texture to a solid color you would not normally associate with woods. This means that you could get the green or light blue countertop you've decided would be great for your kitchen with a true-to-life woodgrain texture.

Nature Dominates

The interest in nature expresses itself in color choices as well as in pattern choices, and Platts emphasizes that this is no passing fad.

"Today, homeowners embrace the design and color trends inspired by nature," he notes. The hues of forest, meadow, fields, desert, beach, sky, and ocean are instantly familiar and never out of place. So is it any wonder we welcome them into our homes?"

He calls green the new classic color of the '90s.

"It deserves to be a classic," he says. "As in nature, you can't go wrong with green. There are so many variations of the color, and I would say that every one of them would complement both wood and white laminate cabinetry."

In the pale neutrals, the warm tones dominate. Colors like nougat, puma and caramel are good examples. They are true nature hues, easy to work into kitchen color schemes, and easy to live with, day in and day out.

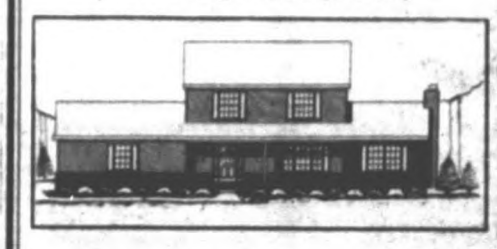

"Go with such warm colors instead of the nondescript beige, all-gray and all-white that are often used because people consider them 'safe,'" advises Platts.

"While it's true that no colors will clash against such backgrounds, these schemes may also cause eye-fatigue," he explains. "This has been established through research of office environments. The warmer tones make people more productive because they feel better. And what could be more important in the kitchen, which, after all, has become the new heart and soul headquarters of the American home."

INTERIOR MOTIVES

Furnishings have surprising starts

NAOMI STONE LEVY

I have been known to fashion some significant pieces of furniture that evolved in a surprising manner.

One of my personal favorites is a fantastic coffee table, made from an antique polished steel trivet that was on six very short steel legs. In its original configuration it was so low it was almost useless. I employed a cabinet maker who made a shelf base using six "bun" feet in the William and Mary style. I lacquered the entire base in black. When contrasted to the steel it is handsome. It is now more usable because the lower shelf houses stacks of magazines and a few books, while the top provides space for a plant and/or other accessory bits. (See drawing.)

Other prodigious coffee tables can be contrived by you, using an exceptionally marked piece of marble or granite or slate, supported on square legs or panel ends. Phone a marble yard and make an appointment to view some of their choices. This will open up your mind.

Another endeavor produced a new/old seaman's chest, with typical brass corner hardware, a stunning key plate, and heavy brass bail carrying handles. An admirable coffee table, size to be determined by need. If you are unable to find an old trunk or chest, why not make your own? (See illustration.) You can find these exceptional corner mounts, key plates and handles at Russell Hardware in Birmingham. This chest can be made to open from the top, affording you storage space. The type of wood involved should be either highly polished mahogany or open-pored oak. The stain should be dark brown, never reddish-brown. The polished one will look slick in contemporary surroundings.

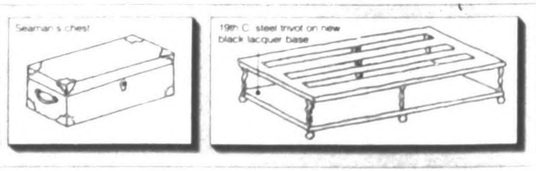

Ignoring the seaman's chest hardware, the same cabinetry, this time executed in knotty pine, affords a country look. On this chest several small mouldings will be appropriate. In this venue the hardware is best if it is wrought iron, with strap hinges. The knots in the pine are lovely when the trunk is stained a very light natural color, and endows the chest with an Early American aura.

Carry it to yet another level. Is there a special painted look in your choice of colors: mustard yellow, blue, barn yard red? Knowledge of an exceptional technique for this paint job is essential to success. The paint is done in many layers, and a lot of sandpaper is used. The first coat should be a light wash of white, allowing quite a bit of the raw wood to show through. The next coat should be the main color, also in a thin wash, again allowing some of the original white, and more of the raw wood to bleed through. And on and on; more of the color, (though never the first shade); more wipe off, more sandpaper. The corners and edges should look "worn." You will need to experiment. Practice on loose raw board.

Try to find a disreputable end table that fits your needs. It could be a broken-down misfit, but amenable to a transformation. It could be a pair to function as nightstands. Painting in the aforementioned manner is one option. Lacquering in one bright and shiny color is another.

Cylinders. They are one of the classic shapes in furniture. You are home free if you only use a metal or wood or lacquer form. Top it with a piece of marble and it enlarges the table surface. Be astute. Don't make the top too large or it will tip dangerously. I have even resorted to using a bronze metal wastebasket as a base, and weighted it with

Internationally renowned photographer Betsy Cameron, who inspired the Lexington Betty Cameron Children Collection, will be on hand to sign free posters of her famous children's photography, "Just Friends on a Loveseat," at Scott Shuptrine Furniture stores this weekend.

Cameron will be at Scott Shuptrine in Troy, 977 E. 14 Mile, 2-4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 23. She will be at the store in Novi, 43606 W. Oak Drive, 1-3 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 24. Refreshments will be served. Children are welcome.

Cameron's works have appeared in books, magazines and calendars. She is best known for her evocative photo, "Two Children," which has been an international best seller for six years.

Currently, Cameron is working with Lexington Furniture Industries and is the inspiration for the Betsy Cameron Children, a 36-piece collection of delicate and feminine designs in Love-Worn Antique Cherry and Linen White finishes, with select pieces decorated with accent appliques.

Special features enhance this collection, such as a secret drawer in the Love Letter Lingerie Chest and reverse panels in Annie's Armoire. All pieces are available at Scott Shuptrine Furniture.

sand. A frosted thick glass top will be an asset. You have just created your own individual table.

You need a desk? You soon learn to your dismay, that other than typical office furniture, there is almost no selection. I have created a number of pleasing personal desks by assembling parts in the following way. At an office supply store, locate a pair of pedestal bases with file drawers that are no higher than 28 inches. Again, order a 1-inch thick glass or a marble top in any size that functions well in the room. If the top turns out to be marble or granite remember to support it on a thin piece of painted plywood or it may crack. Be certain you allow ample chair or knee space. Paint the bases a spectacular color that will light up the room. Paint or lacquer are allies we should all treasure.

Headboards are fun to design. Quickly we envision a pouffy upholstery job. Severe rectilinear lines without being overstuffed is too often overlooked. Surround a flat heavy piece of plywood with a strong raised rim of 2-by-4's, mitered at the corners. Sand the surfaces well. Now lacquer it a soft taupe color. Or what about thinly covering the form with a plush suede cloth? Practical and washable. I have also visited a lumber yard and bought a panelled door that I turned on its side and added legs. Here comes that ubiquitous paint bucket.

Creating your own upholstered furniture gets a little dicey. The tilt of the back of a chair, or the depth of the seat cushion is critical to its comfort. A 5-foot-2-inch woman does not conform to a chair the same way a 6-foot-3-inch man will. Where the seat hits the bend of the knee is so vastly different. This would apply if you visited a furniture store and sat in a variety of chairs . . . at least you have options. The density and softness of the seat cushion may suit you, but your spouse vetos it. Be satisfied just to select the appropriate upholstery fabric after your conference.

You have been very pragmatic. You have produced some distinctive and tasteful furnishings. They are very personal and your endeavors should make you proud, and afford you unbelievable satisfaction in the future.

GARDEN SPOT

These Canton gardens feature a mosaic look

MARTY FIGLEY

Adele and Rudy Pomar have only lived in their new home in Canton for two years, so this was the first year they have had time to devote to their landscaping. This past summer it was a riot of colorful plants, mostly annuals with some perennials, trees and shrubs put in to anchor the whole. All the plants were close together, which gave a mosaic look to the gardens.

"We did our own landscaping, Rudy put in the edging and put white stone down as a mulch in the areas close to the house," Adele says. "I drew the plans and like the color combinations when I pick the plants."

The gardens in the front receive the bright Eastern sun until around 2 p.m. Surprisingly sun lovers such as dahlias, red salvia, marigolds, blue ageratum and the tallest zinnias I believe I have seen (3-½ to four feet tall) kept harmony with shade lovers such as hostas and pink, white and red impatiens. Clematis vines have been placed to climb up trellises at the front entrance to the home and will soon add their beauty.

Interspersed throughout these front beds are a variegated euonymus, tomatoes (yes, that's right) and pink, red and yellow roses and more. Mums and Sedum Autumn Joy are blooming now to keep color through the fall season.

Two round beds each have a Japanese maple tree in the center. The first is an extension of the front walk near the front porch, while the other sits in the middle of the yard. The plants were chosen for color, with a yellow and blue color scheme, interspersed with the marigolds and zinnias, tall ones in the center and shorter ones near the edge. A weeping cherry is planted at the far end of the garage where the sidewalk begins.

The round beds are raised and the edges are formed with two layers of paving bricks. Black plastic has been installed behind them to keep the soil from spilling out onto the lawn.

Before planting, all the beds were enriched with topsoil, cow manure and fine wood chips, which were mixed together. The Pomars have found that this holds moisture and suppresses weeds.

All of this color led me to the back yard where I was pleasantly surprised to find several kinds of Oriental vegetables growing in an area near the deck. Adele is from the Philippines and uses them in her cooking.

Japanese eggplants (longer and narrower than the ones with which we are familiar) and bitter melon — "an Oriental delicacy," according to Adele — are growing on a trellis she built and weren't ripe when I visited. They are similar in appearance to cucumbers but the skin is very "worty" and turns yellow when ripe. She sautes them with beef in a wok. Collard greens, tomatoes and Oriental beans from the Philippines are other vegetables in this garden.

The beans, similar in appearance to pole beans, are growing on trellises around the large deck. Interspersed are rose of Sharon bushes, which serve as a privacy fence. Climbing roses are growing on the same trellis and are competing with clematis for the job.

Adele sprays the roses as needed and only sprayed the garden once for insects when the plants were starting to get flowers, using an all-purpose spray. When planting she added fertilizer to the beds and sprayed Stern's Miracle-Gro twice on the whole garden.

She will save seeds from the plants and start them indoors for a good head start on the season next year.

Festival to focus on organic food, products

By Marty Figley
Special Writer

An exciting, fun-filled and educational event will be the two-day Michigan Organic Harvest Festival in the Job Skills and Campus Events Building at Washtenaw Community College near Ann Arbor, Friday-Saturday, Sept. 29-30.

The two days will be filled with classes, organic food grown by Michigan farmers, an outdoor farmers market and workshops on soil, organic livestock, organic certification, pesticides and food safety.

Guest speakers will be Jay Feldman, National Coalition Against the Misuse of Pesticides; Cissy Bowman of Indiana, Hoosier Organic Marketing Enterprises; Joan Gussow, author and nutritionist; and Robin Mather, Detroit News food editor.

Workshops include such topics as "Where it all Begins," "Life in the Soil," "Benefits of Beneficial Insects," "State Support and Promotion of Organic Products," "Food From the Lab — Milk From Machines" and "Great Lakes Protection — Why Farming Must Change."

There will be an opportunity to visit exhibits by local growers and producers of organic and "earth-friendly" products and to network with farmers, wholesalers, retailers and consumers. This event is sponsored by Michigan Organic Food and Farm Alliance, Whole Foods Market, Ann Arbor, and Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Advance registration for the festival is necessary for meals and child care. Registration costs are: two days, $40 (includes two lunches); one day, $25 (one lunch); two days, $30 (no meals); one day, $20 (no meals).

Lunches are $8 each, Friday and Saturday; Friday dinner is $15 (limited number available). All the food is organic. Child care and children's activities are $5 for four hours (ages 5-12).

Call (810) 632-7952 now so that you won't miss out on this opportunity. For more information about the festival, call (616) 445-8769.

Growing organic

Anne and Peter Bray of Birmingham will be involved with the festival. They have been gardening organically for 20 years and say the time and effort has been very well spent. Their garden is a National Wildlife Federation mini-refuge, as well as a working garden.

When they first moved here from England, where "there was no other way to garden," they found little information about organic gardening was available. Anne discovered the magazine Organic Gardening in a local drug store and they were on their way.

They chose this method because they wanted their children to know what fresh home-grown vegetable plants looked like and how they tasted, as opposed to those available in the markets.

Over the years, they have experimented with various crops such as cabbage, green beans, cucumbers, tomatoes, potatoes and winter squash. They especially like to harvest kale and dig carrots and leeks in January and February.

"We have a tradition to harvest Brussels sprouts on Christmas morning," Anne said.

They are also growing fewer exotic varieties and are learning about and growing more native American plants. Flowers are always included.

The garden is free-form and informal with a mix of flowers and vegetables.

"We have lots of volunteers from annuals (including lettuce) and if they come up and are no bother we let them do their thing."

They are also letting more wildflowers grow in a small grassy area.

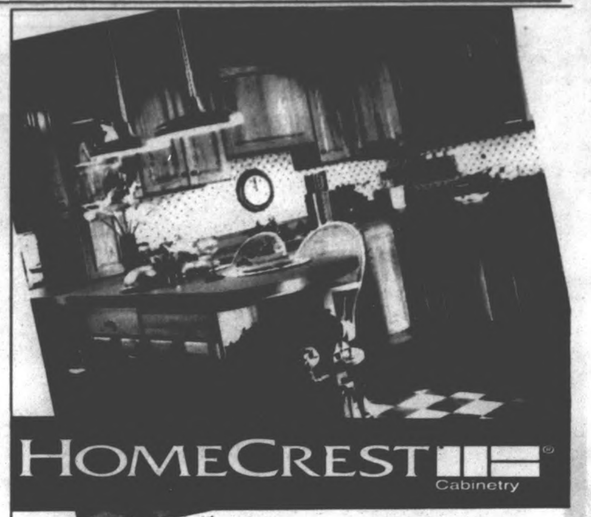

The wildlife garden is always in transition and they find it is low maintenance and a lot less work. One part is reserved as a wildflower refuge where spring flowers bloom at that time and then are kept under a permanent leaf mulch, which enriches the soil, controls the soil temperature and keeps it moist.

Sharing

Flowers are left to go to seed, which encourages many birds. They encourage rabbits, chipmunks, lots of insects and occasionally a spotted toad. A permanent pile of leaves is used by wild bees where they lay eggs. The bees are no bother.

COVER STORY

Want unusual decor? Knock wood!

Handcarved wooden figures are adorning many living spaces. Greg Every's Every Wood Ent. in Livonia offers different pieces for different rooms.

On the cover: Greg Every of Westland poses by some of the wooden figures from his Livonia business, Every Wood Ent.

A room furnished with a sofa and chair, no matter how spectacular or classic the design, is just a room without art and accessories. Art objects or handcarved decorative figures and animals based on your favorite recreational sport or hobby finish a room and bring smiles to faces.

Whether your interior design theme is Southwest, Oriental or eclectic, Greg Every's wood carvings handcrafted by artists in Thailand personalize your home by putting a signature on your space.

Whether you choose a carousel horse, totem pole, or a Black Forest style bear bench with matching hall tree, these decorative objects make your house a comfortable place to come home to. Placing lighting so it showcases the carving doubles the impact and adds drama.

Every's 2,400-square foot Livonia warehouse is stacked with wood carvings of eagles, horses and game heads from moose to rhino. Marionettes placed on a shelf or desk would make a distinct statement. How about a golfing figure for the family room, a 40-inch dog chair or a rocker with a ram's or swan's head carved on each end for the children's play area? There's literally something to please the entire family.

"Grandparents love the rockers because they're decorative. Parents love them because they're sturdy, and kids love them because they're fun," said Every of Westland.

Wooden expression: Handcarved art objects in the shape of animals and people brighten living spaces. Golfers, and a rocker with heads of swans at each end, are among the varieties at Every Wood Ent.

"People with Southwestern theme rooms buy the cigar store Indians or cowboys to display. Carousel horses are real popular because ones from the original merry-go-rounds now sell for $20,000 to $30,000."

Every began his business, Every Wood Ent., three years ago after meeting his former partner who lived in Thailand and served as a contact with the artists. Every now corresponds with the artists himself since the demise of the partnership. A trip to Thailand later this year will take him to the villages where the carvings are created.

Every is no stranger to entrepeneuring. Growing up next door to the Hawthorne Valley Golf Course in Westland he sold golf balls lost on the greens back to the golfers. After the last few years in the decorative art business, Every knows what people are buying to dress up their homes.

"Some people buy the smaller pieces to use as accents in a library or den. Anything associated with animals, or with a bear on it sells. People like the full figure stuff," said the 32-year-old Every, a graduate of Franklin High School in Livonia.

"The carvings are unique, a great decorative item, and it's excellent hand craftsmanship. The Buddha statues they've been carving for a thousand years."

The size of a trunk of rain wood determines the size of a carving. Every's carvings come in a range of heights, from golfers approximately 18 inches tall to 72-inch cigar store Indians, sea captains, chefs and cowboys.

"A lot of the carvings go up north for use in cabins and cottages. The five foot tall totem poles, a lot of people put them outside.

"Golfers are real popular if you're a golfer."

Donna Capanyola's entire family golfs. Their Plymouth family room is decorated with assorted golf photographs, antique irons and one of Every's 2-1/2-foot tall golfers.

Display features groupings by giorgio

Scott Shuptrine Furniture and the giorgio collection announce the installation of "Senses of Style," a 3,200-square foot display dedicated to the complete presentation of four different bedroom, dining and occasional giorgio groupings at the Troy and Novi stores.

The installation will take place 7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 29, at the Troy store, 977 E. 14 Mile. Wine and light hors d'oeuvres will be served. The Novi installation will take place 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 30, at 43606 W. Oak Drive. Seating is limited. Respond by Wednesday, Sept. 27, by calling (810) 589-1100.

giorgio will be on hand to present four different and provocative installations at Scott Shuptrine, two each at the Troy and Novi stores. These collections display giorgio's wide range of style in contemporary design that has made him special in the alluring new era of the modern-classic furniture category.

"The giorgio collections are the most visually stimulating presentations in the home furnishing industry, said David VanElslander, vice president of merchandising. "Even if you're not a 'big fan' of modern or contemporary styling, you can't help but feel this collection's excitement. giorgio aptly refers to his displays as 'stages.' They truly are entertainment for your eyes."

The Troy installations are Old World Opulence and Suburban Sophisticate. The Novi installations are Urban Jungle and Clearly Cosmopolitan.

Old World Opulence is a modern interpretation of classic mahogany pieces displayed in a traditional environment, with warm and deep colors in room settings that suggest an extravagant and affluence lifestyle in the grandest manner. Suburban Sophisticate evokes the drama and illusion found in the contrast of honey-colored veneers and dark rich ebony, and highlights the use of sharp architectural design in contrast with the warmth of wood.

Urban Jungle depicts a mindset of urban intensity transported in the African bush country.

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

Keep appliances clean and healthy

JOE GAGNON

A month ago I was trying to figure out what I would write for you when the weather changed to the fall and winter season. I didn't think of it again until the first night in September when I turned the furnace on and it wouldn't operate.

It was just a week ago while playing golf with George Klempert of Family Heating, when he told me that the heating and air conditioning business had a banner year because of the extended heat wave this past summer. He told me the temperature was going to drop suddenly within a week and that his business wouldn't have the luxury this year of a few weeks' lull to restock their energy and give a few guys some time off. The reason stated by George was that most people never try the furnace until the day they need it.

His prediction couldn't have been more correct. I am a prime example of why his business and others are suddenly in dire need. We sometimes fail to prepare. Let us not have this happen with our major home appliances. You ladies out there, cut this checklist out of the paper and give your partner a honey-do list. These men just love me, don't you know.

■ Refrigerator — Clean the condenser underneath and in back and clean the drain pan underneath the refrigerator. Check the door seal using the flashlight trick and make sure the front is a half inch higher than the rear. Vaseline the hinge side door seal and clean the door seal with Bon Ami. Stop — there is a whole list of things you need to know about your refrigerator. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope No. 10 (check size) to the Observer & Eccentric with my name on it. I will send you a booklet on your refrigerator at your favorite price.

■ Stove — Time to put it into self clean and get it ready for Thanksgiving. Make sure all the elements are working on all positions. A few days before the big day make sure again that all is working OK. The hardest time to get quick service on your range is the day before a holiday.

■ Dishwasher — Time to give it the Tang powdered breakfast treatment. Make sure you turn the hot water faucet on to maximum temperature and turn on the dishwasher empty of dishes. Let it run four minutes and shut it off. Open the door and deposit the whole jar of Tang into the water. Shut the door, turn it on and let it go through the cycle. Check the racks for rust spots and repair them with the new material for such repairs available at your local appliance parts store.

■ Garbage Disposal — Fill it full of ice cubes and let it stand that way for a least one hour. Then turn it on with cold water running for at least three minutes.

■ Microwave Oven — Fill a bowl of water and let it boil in the oven. Make sure that you use a bowl that won't break under boiling conditions. Remove the bowl and with paper towel and some Windex you can make the inside look like new. Make sure that the microwave does not have items placed on top and around it that might block any air circulation. Install a surge protector on the wall outlet available from your local hardware store.

■ Clothes Dryer — Make sure the vent line is clear and not filled with lint. Make sure it is the proper kind as recommended by the manufacturer, the government and the appliance doctor. In other words, it shouldn't be plastic and should be the old style metal type. If your dryer hasn't been taken apart in the past two years and cleaned, please do so and get some advice on how to do it. Clean the lint filter with soap and water, which will result in quicker drying times. Remove all materials around and above the dryer that might enhance a fire should one occur. Remember to open some windows and doors when you operate your dryer.

■ Washer — Adjust the water temperature hoses to where you get 100-degree water during the warm wash. Cold water to the house is colder in winter than in summer. Fill the machine on hot wash and add two gallons of white vinegar. Let it agitate for five minutes, shut it off and let stand quiet overnight. You will be surprised at how clean the inside will be. Check your fill hoses and if you see corrosion at the couplers, replace them. A ruptured hose can cause thousands of dollars worth of damage. We see it quite often in the service industry.

Your room air conditioner and/or dehumidifier should be taken to the local car wash and cleaned front, back and sides. Don't be shy with the hose and spray the blazes out of it. Put it away for the winter and never plug it in while the unit is wet. Do this when customers aren't waiting in line to wash their cars.

These are some of the things you can do to prepare your appliances and save the cost of unnecessary repairs. If you have any specific questions you would like to ask, why don't you drop a note to the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers? I would be more than happy to answer any appliance question.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Study photographs to improve your own work

MONTE NAGLER

Did you know one of the best ways to improve your photography is by closely looking at the pictures of others?

Whether it's browsing through a gallery or leisurely thumbing through a good photography book, many benefits can be yours with a good, hard, critical look and an analysis of the photographs.

Put on your "detective hat," tune into your emotions and ask yourself some important questions as you "read" a photograph. In so doing, you'll gain insight and technical skills that will certainly help you in taking your own pictures.

Begin by asking what the subject or main theme of the photograph is. Does it move you and how do you respond to it? How do you suppose the photographer felt about it?

Study the lighting. Is it harsh or soft? What direction is it coming from and what time of day do you think it was? Ask yourself what might happen to the picture if the lighting were different.

What camera position was used — near or far, low angle or high? Why do you think the photographer used a particular camera position and what does it do for the picture? How might another camera location affect the photograph?

What lens do you think was used and why? Was it a wide-angle, normal or perhaps a telephoto?

How about depth-of-field? Is there a lot or a little? Would a change in depth-of-field alter the final image?

What about shutter speed — fast or slow? Is the subject blurred in motion or caught at the peak of the action? Look for the use of filters or any other special effects, too.

Of course, you should carefully study the composition. How are the elements of the picture arranged and does it all make sense to you?

Is the photograph telling a story? If so, tune into your feelings of it.

Monte Nagler is a fine art photographer based in Farmington Hills. You can leave him a message by dialing (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then his mailbox number, 1873. His fax number is (810) 644-1314.

Clue-ing in: There's a lot to "read" in this Monte Nagler photo of Yellowstone Falls such as time of day, lens and shutter speed. Study it closely and see what answers you can come up with.

Fall show has bounty of fresh remodeling ideas

Homeowners looking for fresh home and garden ideas can find them at the the Fall Remodeling Show opening Sept. 28 at the Novi Expo Center.

"The amount of money spent on remodeling continues to climb and it is no wonder with the average American home at 28 years of age," said Janet L. Compo, president of the nonprofit Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan and chief executive officer of James Compo Inc. of Farmington Hills.

"A large number of baby boomers live in homes built in the 1950s, 1960s and 1970s. Because they can afford to remodel their homes with modern features and conveniences, the remodeling market is poised for steady growth."

BIASM is the event sponsor.

The Novi Expo Center is located at I-96 and Novi Road. Show hours are 2-10 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday.

Admission is $6 for adults, $4 for seniors, $3 for children ages 6-12, and children under 6 are admitted free. Family tickets for two adults and accompanying children are available at Farmer Jack for $9. Parking is located at the Expo Center for a fee. For more information, call (810) 737-4478.

Special highlights include secrets of wallpapering, painting and faux finishes as seen on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" and the Learning Channel's "Homebodies" by wall wizard Brian Santos. He is a fourth-generation decorative artist who earned his wizardry title because of his knack for simplifying the art of decorating walls with his tips, tricks and techniques so that average do-it-yourselfers can create their own magic.

Members of the American Society of Interior Designers will conduct clinics on controlling your environment, assessing your needs and customizing interiors for the home and workplace, the world of color, kitchens and baths, finishing materials and a focus on finishing. ASID designers will also be available to discuss individual homeowner needs for new construction, material selections, color choices, floor plans and window treatments.

More than 100 of the Detroit area's FTD florists will display arrangements for a design competition. The themes are "I'll Be Home for Christmas" arrangements, "All Things Haunting" arrangements and "Welcome Home" fall- or holiday-themed door swags and wreaths.

INVITING IDEAS

Saucy apples make sensational recipes

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Realistic Renaissance paintings of beautiful orbed apples depict the beauty and allude to its temptations — apples represent a truly saucy side of life — who doesn't love homemade apple sauce and cooking with apples?

We seem to be more fixated on the 80 or so calories per fruit, and how we can transform that healthy orb into a sinfully delicious dessert.

The "apple of my eye" is the McIntosh, although Granny Smith is close in the running.

Here are some of my saucy favorites.

ORANGE CINNAMON APPLE SAUCE

2 pounds (approximately 6 medium sized) McIntosh apples, cored, and cut into quarters. Leave skin on ½ cup freshly squeezed orange juice
2 tablespoons freshly squeezed lemon juice
1 stick cinnamon
½ cup light brown sugar
2 tablespoons grated orange rind

Place cut apples into a large non-reactive saucepan (non-aluminum) and cover with orange and lemon juice. Add cinnamon stick. Place lid on pot and cook covered for 20 minutes or until apples are fork-tender.

Stir in brown sugar. Mix until dissolved.

Put the apple mixture through a sieve or food mill — add grated orange rind. Serve warm or chilled. Yield 3 cups.

APPLE SAUCE WITH DATES AND CALVADOS

2 tablespoons unsalted butter
1 pound tart apples (Granny Smith's are great), cored and sliced
2 tablespoons freshly squeezed lemon juice
2 thinly pared strips of lemon rind
⅔ cup pitted dates, finely chopped
Sugar to taste
4 tablespoons Calvados or light rum

Melt butter in a medium-sized non-reactive saucepan (non-aluminum) over medium low heat.

Add the apple slices, lemon juice and the 2 strips of lemon rind. Cover the saucepan with a lid and cook until the apples are very soft and pulpy. Remove the lemon rind and discard.

Put the apples through a sieve or food mill — add the chopped dates.

Return the apple-date mixture to the saucepan — add sugar to taste (keep the sweetness down if planning to use with meat). Simmer the sauce for 5-10 minutes or until the sauce appears reduced and thick. Add the Calvados or light rum — serve warm or chilled. Yield 2 cups. This sauce can be frozen.

APPLE-TAMARIND-DRIED CRANBERRY CHUTNEY

6 tart apples (Granny Smith's are perfect), cored, peeled and sliced
2 cups dried cranberries
1 cup thinly sliced onions
2 cloves of garlic, peeled and minced
3 tablespoons tamarind paste
1 cup light brown sugar (firmly packed)
1½ cups apple cider vinegar
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon ground cardamom
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper or Mombassa
1 lemon — the juice and zest

Place all of the ingredients in a large heavy, non-reactive pot (non-aluminum). Mix together gently — over medium high heat, bring to a boil.

Lower the heat and simmer covered for at least 30 minutes — stirring occasionally.

Remove the lid and continue to cook uncovered for another 30 minutes — stir frequently — if 30 minutes does not absorb excess liquid — turn up the heat slightly and continue to cook until the chutney is reduced and thick. Remove from heat — serve warm or chilled. Yield 6 cups.

Bean soup fits autumn weather

White bean soup is a great way to fill up on fiber, but not on fat. The following recipe uses evaporated skimmed or evaporated low-fat milk. It can be served as a light lunch or as an appetizer.

WHITE BEAN SOUP

1 tablespoon olive oil
1½ cups chopped onion
5 cloves garlic, minced
1¾ cups (14 1¼-ounce can) fat-free chicken broth
3 cups (two 15-ounce cans) great Northern white beans, drained
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Italian seasoning, crushed
½ teaspoon dried basil leaves, crushed
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 cup undiluted evaporated skimmed or evaporated low-fat milk
Chopped fresh basil

Heat oil in large, heavy saucepan. Saute onion and garlic until onion is tender. Add chicken broth, beans, salt, Italian seasoning, basil and pepper. Bring to a boil; simmer over low heat for 10 minutes. Puree in blender until smooth; return to saucepan. Slowly stir in evaporated milk; heat through. Top with fresh basil. Makes about 4 cups.

Remodeling

award prizes from Farmer Jack, local FTD florists and ASID.

The Showcase of Distinctive Homes program will feature pictorial renderings of the area's newest showcase homes built by BIASM members.

Expert demonstrations on decorating, home repair and remodeling will be given throughout the show. Working artists in the arts and crafts area will be making lamp shades, constructing bent willow furniture, weaving rugs and painting pysanky.

Members of the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association will bring professionally landscaped gardens to life with brick paver pathways, water features and colorful plants and flowers.

Windows and doors, always a popular show feature, will be shown by Caswell Modernization Company Inc. of White Lake and Pella Window and Door Company of West Bloomfield. Empire Doors and Windows of Redford will display another option with its steel entry doors.

Pozzi Windows in Walled Lake brings its custom-made windows, doors and skylights. To dress up your windows on the world, Melody's of Farmington Hills, the Shutter Shop of Birmingham and Window Works of Bloomfield Hills will be on hand with their window treatments.

Glass offers yet another alternative and Henderson Glass Inc. in southeastern Michigan will feature shower doors, mirrored walls and table tops. Robichauds Custom Glass Blocks of Ecorse showcases glass blocks for windows, walls, bars and showers.

The latest in solid cedar sunrooms and new home packages will be shown by Lindal Cedar Homes of Highland. Riverbend Timber Framing of Bloomfield will share its custom energy efficiency timber frame homes and structural insulated panels while Pierson & Gibbs Homes of Richmond features finish-it-yourself home packages for the handy persons in the crowd.

The products and services at the show get down to the bottom of things with hardwood flooring found at the exhibit by Paynter Floors Inc. of Novi and solid vinyl wood flooring at Commercial Carpet Corporation of Novi's exhibit.

Other exhibitors will bring their most interesting and up-to-date products and services for kitchens, baths, doors, windows, yards/gardens, remodeling, interior design, furniture, arts and crafts, decorative accessories, pet accessories, electronics, heating, cooling and appliances.

BIASM also sponsors the International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show at Cobo Conference-Exhibition Center and the Spring Home & Garden Show at the Novi Expo Center.

Well-maintained property brings more

Some houses sell quicker and at a higher price than similar houses in the same neighborhood. They're usually well maintained and in tip-top showing condition

By Doug Funke
Staff Writer

Little things mean a lot to some buyers.

Crumbling concrete steps, aging, curled shingles, paint peeling in shards off a garage and old carpeting may not make or break a deal.

But a tired-looking house can take more time to sell and bring a less generous offer than one that's pleasing to the eye and in working order.

"People who kind of get transferred a lot seem to know what to do. People in a home for a while don't," said Mary Kokeny, a sales associate with Weir Manuel Snyder & Ranke in West Bloomfield.

"Just make it as sharp as you can make it so a person looking can visualize where to put the furniture," said Ken Koenig, an associate broker with Re/Max Crosswinds in Canton. "They don't want to visualize how much work they have to do."

Prospects get an impression, rightly or wrongly, about an entire house and how it's been cared for from what they see when they first arrive, real estate professionals say.

"A lot of buyers drive by a house and if they don't like the outside, they won't go inside," said Sandy Sersen, an associate broker with Mayfair in Livonia. "Maybe it's beautiful inside. It's all eye appeal."

While it doesn't make sense to pour a lot of money into major renovations just to get a house ready for sale, it always pays to take care of the basics.

"It does make a difference, most definitely," said Randal Goodson, an associate broker with Prudential Great Lakes Realty in Farmington Hills. "Stepping into a home that needs a lot of work turns people off."

It's up to the Realtor working with a seller to talk turkey about exactly what needs to be done, he added. Sometimes, it goes beyond talk.

"There was one time when I went into a home that had a vinyl flooring in the powder room, kitchen and nook area," Goodson recalled. "It was old and worn and not today's colors. I had told them that I really thought it should be changed. They balked."

Prospects weren't shy with their negative comments.

"I offered to come in and help them put in flooring," Goodson said. I did come in one Saturday, helped and the home sold within the next week at pretty much the asking price."

Kokeny also has offered advice to relatives and friends.

"My sister is looking to sell a house that has old, green drapes. I said, 'Sue, take those down, get verticals, change the carpeting and paint. Keep it neutral, one color, so it all flows, it doesn't look so chopped up.'/i"

Homeowners tend to get comfortable with a house over time and learn to live with idiosyncrasies that might really annoy prospective buyers.

"It's hard to get people to fix up and older house they've lived in the last 10 to 15 years," Koenig said. "They figure it was good enough for them, it should be good enough for the next person.

"A lot won't do it, and they will get less money for a house or it won't sell," he said.

Remember, a roof ultimately protects everything in a house. It's a big item for most knowledgeable consumers and a big item at curb appeal. Some prospects who see a roof in disrepair will simply walk away. Others will sharply discount a purchase offer.

Some would-be buyers go through houses keeping a mental tally on how much they will reduce an offer by what they figure to spend on repairs. They can overestimate.

Sometimes, sellers fear making repairs because they don't know how much the work will cost. They can overestimate, too.

Sersen relates a recent experience.

"I had a listing in south Redford. There was a lot of broken-up concrete. It was cracked and raised.

"Buyers were afraid to buy because they thought it would cost a lot to fix. Sellers were also fearful to fix it because they thought it would cost a lot.

"When I had the sellers get an estimate, it was nowhere near what they thought. The sellers got it fixed, and a buyer made an offer that was accepted."

Much updating can be done by handy homeowners themselves or hired out at fairly inexpensive prices.

These include fixing drippy faucets, painting inside and out, replacing concrete steps, caulking windows, recarpeting and landscaping.

"When it comes to little things like paint and cleaning, elbow grease makes a difference," Sersen said. "No one wants to take on other peoples' junk. If they do, they want to steal it."

Liability rules are different for common areas

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. I recently read an answer to a question concerning landlord/tenant liability. Do those concepts apply where there are common areas over which the landlord retains control?

A. Ordinarily, liability for rental premises lies with the party who has control of them. However, there are exceptions for property on which there are common areas over which the landlord retains control.

Where a tenant's guest, for example, fell on steps of a flat owned by the landlord, the court held that the plaintiff was an invitee of the landlord because she was injured in a common area over which the landlord retained control.

It should also be noted that while there is authority that social guests are licensees rather than invitees, even when expressly invited onto the possessor's land, there is also authority that duties owed by the landlord to the tenant's social guests are duties owed to invitees, not licensees, at least in these common areas.

In Michigan, the landlord is obligated only to use reasonable care for the protection of the invitee and is not the insurer of the invitee's safety. In addition, with respect to licensees, no duty is placed on the landowner to know of potential danger, even if there might have been an opportunity to fully inspect.

The duty is limited to hazards that the landlord actually knows about, whether or not inspection would have revealed them.

Q. I am interested in relocating to the downtown or near the north side of Chicago and am wondering whether there are bargains to be had in regard to the purchase of condominium apartments, presumably in a high rise.

A. Based upon a recent analysis which I conducted in the downtown and north lakeshore Chicago area, it appears that it is, indeed, a buyer's market with respect to high-rise condos.

For example, a condominium located on the Chicago River near State Street has 500-square-foot condominium units available anywhere from $45,000 to $52,000. The monthly assessment ranges from $120 to $140, and taxes are $800 to $1,000 per year.

A 2-bedroom apartment of approximately 1,210 square feet ranges in price from $150,000 to $175,000 with monthly assessments of $300 to $330. Taxes are $1,800 to $2,200 per year.

I found that high-rise condominiums on the lake front are now going for competitive prices, and studios can be purchased for as little as $36,000 and 2 bedroom apartments for approximately $120,000.

As in the case of any other purchase, location and physical composition of the premises are extremely important.

It is also important to get a good real estate person to assist you in getting the right product for you, assuming all of the legalities are in order.

Electric technologies dispose of waste

A typical hospital produces about 210 tons of medical waste each year. Moreover, U.S. hospitals and clinics create about one and a half million tons of medical waste annually.

Traditional disposal methods have proved costly — for both the hospitals and the environment. To get rid of it, they burn it, sterilize it with steam, disinfect it with chemicals or send it to landfills.

But burning the waste spews fumes into the air, and landfills are filling up. Many on-site incinerators are outdated, have little or no emission controls, and would need costly modifications to comply with strict federal laws.

Electric utilities and the health care industry are developing new electric products and systems to dispose of medical waste more efficiently. They eliminate medical waste without burning or dumping, according to the Edison Electric Institute and the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, representing America's electric utilities.

They also keep contaminants out of the air and reduce the waste volumes disposed at landfills that's better for our environment.

The Bio-Oxidizer is one, new electric solution. It destroys biohazardous waste without burning it. The treatment produces a sterile, inorganic residue that cannot leach into groundwater. The technology can even reuse about 80 percent of the energy it consumes.

The hospital recycles this to heat the facility's water. The first Bio-Oxidizer was installed at Pennsylvania's Chambersburg Hospital, with the help of West Penn Power, the local electric utility. The unit now reduces the hospital's waste by 98 percent of its original volume, at about half the cost of previous disposal methods.

Another electric product, the microwave, can also be used to disinfect medical waste. The treatment processes up to 550 pounds of material per hour, and has been used successfully in Europe for more than five years.

The Bio-Oxidizer and microwave are two of several new electric products being developed and used to treat many kinds of waste. Others are now used to treat wastewater, disinfect drinking water, and other applications.

With support from the nation's electric utilities, these electric technologies are creating a healthier environment at less cost.

Architects, designers merge

JPRA Architects and Planners of Farmington Hills, which specializes in retail architecture, and Peterhansrea Design of Birmingham, known for retail and restaurant interiors and signs, have merged.

"The goal of the new joint venture is unity of design and execution, to provide a more extensive and cost effective range of architectural and design services for our clients — from concept to completion," said James P. Ryan, founder and president of JPRA.

"The timing was right in today's business climate to merge and get a strong creative department into a good architectural firm," said Ron Rea, who established a design firm with David Peterhans in 1984.

"We were a very small company," Rea said. "We were being passed up for jobs because of our size."

The merged firm is called JPRA Architects/Peterhansrea Design.

It won't take long to get up to speed.

JPRA and Peterhansrea already were involved in several joint projects including Peacock (Food) Court for Somerset Collection North in Troy and two regional megamalls, the Great Mall of the Great Plains in Olathe, Kan., and the Great Mall of Arizona in Phoenix.

"Design is what differentiates retail projects today, both individual stores and entire retail centers," Peterhans said.

Peterhansrea assignments have included the award-winning Skygarden, a $200 million multi-level, mixed use center in Sydney, Australia, and the Big Fish restaurant concept for Chuck Muer.

Award-winning JPRA projects include the Gardens, a new regional shopping center in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., and expansion and renovation of the Somerset Collection.

While JPRA and Peterhansrea had talked merger for two years, common roots go deeper.

Nearly 20 years ago, Ryan, Peterhans and Rea met at Detroit designer Roger Sherman's firm where they worked together on the trend-setting Georgetown Park Mall in Washington, D.C.

"At the time, it was notable for swimming against the modernist tide," Rea recalled. "It declared the importance of decorative elements in retail design."

JPRA Architects/Peterhansrea Design is located in Farmington Hills.

Ryan is in charge of overall operations.

James R. Grigsby, AIA, is head of project planning and directs the firm's extensive capabilities in computer aided design.

William J. Beitz, Jr., AIA, is in charge of production, construction administration and technical research.

Cladding added to sliding patio door

Marvin's state of the art Sliding French Door sets new standards for quality. Now available with extruded aluminum cladding, it also sets new standards for low maintenance in wood sliding patio doors.

Marvin's extruded aluminum cladding is durable and long lasting, measurably thicker and stronger than thin roll-form aluminum or vinyl cladding. Coated with Marvin's high performance finish, it has the appearance of wood but requires none of the upkeep.

The Marvin Sliding French Door features the elegant styling of a classic French door, with its wide, 4¾-inch stiles and top rails and 8-1½' wide bottom rails. Attention to detail is evident in the revealed profiles and smooth, clear interior wood surfaces. Distinctive solid brass hardware adds to the aesthetic appeal.

Ideal for space situations that aren't practical for a swinging door, Marvin's sliding version incorporates advanced engineering to surpass other sliding doors on the market.

Industry firsts with this product include the most secure locking system available on a sliding patio door. The triple point locking system withstands up to 1,200 pounds of force, making the door impossible to open without a key.

Marvin's Sliding French Door incorporates a virtually indestructable sill made of Ultrex'Im, a composite material that won't warp, bend, rot, or corrode. Ultrex stands up to moisture and temperature extremes, greatly increasing thermal efficiency because it's non-conductive.

The door's top hung screen design, another Marvin first, virtually eliminates the problem of flimsy screens sticking or coming out of their tracks.

The Sliding French can be ordered in a wide selection of standard sizes including two-wide, three-wide, and four-wide configurations with continuous headers and sills.

Save energy with electricity and your electric utility — use these smart tips from Edison Electric Institute and the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, representing America's electric utilities.

High-Efficiency Heat Pump

A single piece of equipment supplies heating and air conditioning. In the summer, it takes the heat from inside the home and "pumps" it outdoors. In the winter, it absorbs heat from the outdoor air, and pumps it indoors. High efficiency electric heat pumps return up to $3 in heating and cooling for each $1 spent on the electricity. Contact your electric utility's residential marketing department, or your heating and air conditioning dealer.

Compact fluorescent lamps

They last up to 13 times longer and produce comparable output using up to 75 percent less energy. They're best for security, porch and other high-use lighting areas. Check your electric utility for rebate coupons. They are available at your local home store.

Electric fireplace

The new electric fireplaces provide cozy warmth without a chimney or vent. It's nonpolluting, and installs virtually anywhere; that means you can have that master bedroom fireplace you've alway wanted. Check your local fireplace dealer — and stop dreaming.

Home automation system

Program one system to fit your lifestyle — and save. Controls heating and cooling temperature setting, lights and other areas. Check your local home store.

Horizontal Axis Washer

This new top-loading revolutionary washer uses up to two-thirds less water, and cleans with about one quart of the detergent needed for standard agitator washers. Plus, it needs less energy to heat the water and its fast spin speeds mean less drying time.

Super-efficient refrigerator

It uses up to half the energy of today's models. A computer chip tells it when to defrost. It's environmentally friendly, too. Check a major appliance store, and contact your electric utility for rebate information.

Insulating glass windows

Insulating glass windows

Insulating double-pane windows are a great way to save energy. In the winter they reduce heat loss twice as effectively as standard double-pane glass. In the summer, they block twice as much heat from entering your home. Check your local window dealer.

Focus on preventing home fires

With National Fire Safety Awareness Week slated for October 8-14 this year, it's never too soon to check for fire hazards in your home and either take precautions with them or remove them.

To get you started, the CertainTeed Home Institute has prepared the following checklist. Do:

- Keep items like paints, thinners and gasoline in their original containers and out of your house.
- Check the insulation in your attic and if it is combustible, replace it with a more fire safe material. For example, cellulose insulation, made of ground up newspapers, can be a source of attic fires when installed too close to heat sources such as recessed lights. Replace cellulose with a non-combustible, high quality material like Insul Safe III Blown-In Fiber Glass Insulation. Insul Safe III will remain non-combustible for the life of a house.
- Promptly replace any faulty wiring in a house.
- Keep trash in covered containers and dispose of it regularly.
- Keep plenty of fire extinguishers handy; put one in the kitchen and at least one on each floor.
- Install at least one smoke detector in the hallway leading to the bedrooms; and install one on each level of your house.

Don't:

- Leave matches where children can get to them. The temptation to "play with fire" can easily lead to a real fire.
- Smoke cigarettes in bed.
- Block windows or doors with heavy furniture.
- Let smoke detector batteries go unchecked. Check your batteries when the clocks change.
- Assume everyone in your family knows what to do in the event of a fire. Hold periodic fire drills.

For more information on home safety, particularly relating to insulation and fire safety, write to the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482 or call 1-800-782-8777 and ask for the "Insulation and Fire Safety" brochure.

Electric appliances can save money

Did You Know

- Revolutionary microwave clothes dryers will use up to 30 percent less electricity than standard dryers.
- High efficiency electric heat pumps return up to $3 in heating and cooling for each $ 1 spent on the electricity to run them.
- Energy-efficient compact fluorescent lamps last up to 13 times longer than incandescent light bulbs, using up to 75 percent less energy.
- Horizontal axis washers clean clothes using up to 66 percent less water and up to 75 percent less detergent.
- Electric convection ovens reduce cooking time and cut electricity use up to 40 percent.
- Home automation systems can help lower annual electric bills at up to 30 percent energy savings.
- The annual cost to charge an electric lawnmower is about $3 less than the cost to use your toaster.
- Geothermal heat pumps can lower energy costs by up to 30 pecent a year, and home heating and water heating costs by up to 65 percent a year.

WRITE IT AND REAP!

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

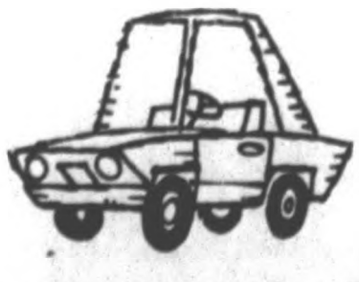

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

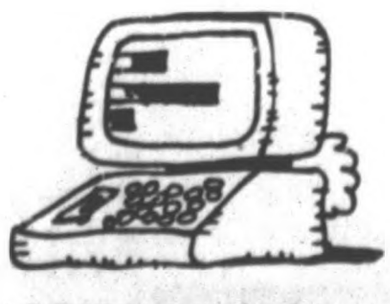

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
