Cold blast boon to merchants

Keeping warm during this most recent cold spell presented a certain challenge. Area businesses, including those that sell snowblowers, benefited from Old Man Winter's icy blast.

BY KEVIN BROWN

The weekend cold snap and snow storm sent folks scurrying to local stores for snowblowers, long underwear and more to help cope with the cold.

Overnight lows around zero during the weekend caused two water main breaks in Plymouth, one in Plymouth Township. Canton Engineer Tom Casari said "We've had a few," the most prominent being a water main break late Monday that forced the closing of Gallimore Elementary School on Tuesday.

Local sellers of snow removal equipment reported a surge in business. Canton Builder's Square manager Shelby Schmittou said snowblowers sold out for a time, and Home Depot manager Michael Hammas said, "We've been selling a lot of snowblowers, calcium chloride and rock salt."

Alan Saxton, general manager of Saxton's Garden Center in Plymouth, said 60-70 customers came in Saturday for service on their snowblowers, and another 50-60 bought new snowblowers.

"People who couldn't get theirs started said 'I want one now.' We sold quite a few shovels," Saxton added, along with calcium chloride, more effective than salt when temperatures drop well below freezing.

At Venture Outdoors in Plymouth, owner Dan Argonis said business surged over the weekend. "Of course, there were the gloves and hats; neck warmers and ear warmers shot up at least 60-70 percent," he said.

Other big sellers included Hot Chillys thermal underwear, and winter boots. "I had five or six people who didn't even try them on (boots), they just said, 'I'll take it —

Santa, Mrs. Claus renew wedding vows

North Pole residents Santa and Mrs. Claus surely felt at home in Old Village on Saturday, as temperatures dipped near zero.

The couple were in Plymouth to re-state their wedding vows, in a ceremony at the gazebo in Old Village.

On hand for the ceremony were Mayor Ron Loiselle, Downtown Development Authority Director Steve Guile, a Brownie troop acting as maids of honor, and members of the Plymouth and Canton high schools' marching band.

"It was about two or three polar bear degrees warmer than the North Pole," Santa told event organizer Gerry Sindici, owner of Robin's Nest Antiques in Old Village.

"Santa told me that he really liked the Old Village and it was really friendly and so filled with love. All of the merchants were so happy and jolly, it was such a warm atmosphere on a cold day, Santa and Mrs. Claus loved it," Sindici said.

The event coincided with the weekend-long "Ye Olde Village Christmas" celebration. The ceremony was scheduled to celebrate unity, commitment and family ties, Sindici said.

Press conference to focus on MEAP results

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Parents whose children attend Plymouth-Canton Community Schools may have noticed that results from the Michigan Educational Program Assessment (MEAP) test have appeared in local newspapers in several communities outside the district.

Scores were mailed to Plymouth-Canton principals late last week and early this week, but parents won't receive results until Jan. 9-20.

"We have mailing labels printed for each student, and each principal has an opportunity to take a look at all the scores before they are sent home, and that takes some time," said Judy Evola, community relations director for Plymouth-Canton schools.

Another reason parents won't receive results of the state-standardized test until January is because "we don't want them to be caught up in the holiday mail," said Evola.

"If parents do want the results before the holiday, they can contact individual building principals and work out a time frame to get them before the holiday," she said.

School officials are planning a press conference on the MEAP for 4:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 18.

Results will be presented to the Board of Education at 7 p.m. the same evening at Pioneer Middle School.

"In February, there will be a detailed analysis of the district scores," said Evola. "We will be talking about the strengths, and the improvement process. It's pretty much a year-long process of improvement for Plymouth-Canton schools."

As most parents are aware, this year's MEAP marks a departure from years past. Just fourth- and seventh-graders were tested in math and reading in October. Also administered this fall was the MEAP "re-test" for juniors and seniors seeking a state-endorsed diploma.

Fifth- and eighth-graders will take the science and new writing MEAP test in the spring.

LifeLine offers healthy holiday hints

'Tis the season to be jolly, so the saying goes. But for some, the holidays may be less than merry. LifeLine, the new health care magazine published by Specialty Communications, offers readers a healthy perspective on this busy season.

The December issue explores the stress that people may feel this time of year, and offers suggestions that are both helpful and healthful.

Our goal, says Editor Cathy Smillie, is to give readers practical advice on how to enjoy the season's excitement in a way that doesn't tax their health.

"Whether families are celebrating Christmas, Hanukkah or the Winter Solstice, December can be very hectic, often stressful, and sometimes even sad. We've talked to local health care experts who understand this, and have shared with us some very good ways to cope with the pressures that may come along this time of year."

LifeLine is designed for individuals and families who need complete, easy-to-read information on how to keep themselves well. "Our readers live fast-paced, busy lives," Smillie says. "They're looking for accurate health care information that is useful on a daily basis."

Stories in LifeLine take a local slant, using practitioners from area hospitals, clinics and other health care facilities. Although the book covers complex medical issues, most articles are written in a "how to" format, such as how to find time for exercise during the hectic holidays and how to prepare healthy holiday treats.

"In this turbulent health care climate, we are encouraged to take responsibility for our own health," Smillie says. "Hopefully, LifeLine can give us some valuable resources for doing that."

Specialty Communications is a subsidiary of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. LifeLine is distributed through the O&E suburban newspaper network in Wayne and Oakland counties.

Train stops traffic about 45 minutes

A CSX freight train breakdown at the Sheldon Road crossing Tuesday forced motorists to wait for about 45 minutes on both northbound and southbound Sheldon, Plymouth police reported.

CSX notified police of the engine problem at 3:17 p.m. After the engine problem was fixed, the train cleared Sheldon Road by 4 p.m., police said.

New traffic signs aid students

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

It started two years ago when some Bird Elementary parents said they were concerned for their kids' safety as they walk along busy Sheldon Road.

Now, thanks to their persistence which drew cooperation from Plymouth Township police Chief Carl Berry and school and Wayne County officials, some high-tech traffic signs are in place along Sheldon.

The purpose of the changeable message yellow-on-black signs is to make it clear to drivers that they're entering a school zone, where the speed limit drops from the normal 40 mph to 25 before and after school.

The signs are the first to be installed in Wayne County, said Victoria Holland, county assistant engineer for traffic operations. "During most of the hours of the day the fiber optic display shows the normal speed limit of 40 miles an hour," Holland said.

"During school ingress and egress, for Bird and for West (Middle School), the sign message changes to 'school' in red, and the speed limit is 25. There's also a 12-inch yellow beacon that flashes when the school speed is in effect," Holland explained.

Four such signs have been installed along Sheldon Road near Ann Arbor Trail, and two more will be placed along Ann Arbor Trail west of Sheldon.

Bird Parent-Teacher Organization parent Maureen Alexander, on the PTO's safety council, said the signs were to go in last year, but state budget cuts delayed the project.

She credited another PTO parent, Mary Templeton, for getting the effort going. "She was really worried about the kids walking along Sheldon. The sidewalk is only three feet away from the road," Alexander said.

Of the new signs, she said, "I think it's great. I've actually seen people put their brakes on, before I've seen people pass me going 40. I've seen a marked difference."

Holland said she got the idea for the signs while spotting similar signs in Ann Arbor. "They had an assembly like this on one of their roadways, I contacted the Ann Arbor traffic engineer and asked 'Where did you get that product?' " Holland said.

The firm that made those signs is Carrier & Gable of Farmington Hills, which made the signs now in place along Sheldon.

"Sheldon Road is a five-lane county primary road, it's very difficult for the motorist to see the old style static aluminum sign and read all the hours the school zone is in effect. It's a problem," Holland said.

Holland said she found that federal money to help pay for the signs was available, and she applied and got the grant. Cost for the signs was $50,000; the school district contributed $10,000 by terms of the federal grant.

"We've also made an application for similar signing along Joy Road at Fiegel School. We've not received an answer yet," Holland said.

She said an earlier study of traffic speeds along Sheldon by the two schools will be compared to a study that will be conducted early next year, to determine if the signs are helping to slow drivers.

Crypt vandalized at cemetery in Plymouth

Sometime between Dec. 7-8, someone damaged the marble cover of a crypt in the lower level of the mausoleum in Riverside Cemetery, Plymouth police said. The cover is 32 inches square and has a value of $600.

A 33-year-old Southfield man reported the incident. He has no knowledge of any suspects, nor do police. The case is open pending investigation.

Dropped load

A 46-year-old Canton woman reported that a pickup truck lost a load of doors and window glass near the Wishy Washy car wash at 430 Ann Arbor Road. The incident occurred shortly before 5 p.m. Dec. 7.

Responding police found a door, several window frames and scattered pieces of wood in the two westbound lanes and the left turn lane. The county road commission was called, and police were told it would take at least 30 minutes for a crew to arrive.

Officers requested permission to contact a local wrecking company, as it was rush hour and the debris was causing a large traffic jam.

Plymouth DPW workers arrived at the scene with its "Vac-all," and vacuumed the glass. The door and frames were placed on the side of the road. A witness told police it was a red pickup truck that lost its load.

The license plate number supplied by the witness was registered to a 50-year-old woman from Canton. Police couldn't find a phone number listed under her name.

Business sponsors sought for 1996 ice festival

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Time is running out for businesses that would like to sponsor the Plymouth International Ice Spectacular, the ice carving extravaganza set for Jan. 10-15, 1996.

The deadline to order a personalized ice sculpture for the front of your establishment is Friday, Dec. 15, said Mike Watts of Watts-Up Inc., coordinator of the festival. Interested individuals may call Watts-Up at (313) 459-6969.

"We are still in need of funds. We're going to have the Ice Spectacular, and fund-raising is going well, but we still need more funds to make it more exciting," said Watts of the non-profit event.

Another upcoming event, to take place along with the Ice Spectacular, is the Gingerbread House Contest. Kids and parents may want to consider designing an edible house for the contest, sponsored by the Westchester Square Mall and the Days Gone By store. First prize in each of five categories is $25 cash.

The categories include "Churches and Castles," small gingerbread houses (15 inches in diameter or smaller); large gingerbread houses (larger than 15 inches in diameter); "Bakers' Delight" for culinary students, bakeries or restaurants, and "Kids' Creations," for ages 10 and under.

■ The deadline to order a personalized ice sculpture for the front of your establishment is Friday, Dec. 15, said Mike Watts of Watts-Up Inc., coordinator of the festival. Interested individuals may call Watts-Up at (313) 459-6969.

"It's a great activity for children and their parents," said Sandra Watts, festival coordinator.

Festival-goers enjoy browsing through the indoor display, and it's a good way to warm up, added Sandra Watts. "Some of the houses are so intricate it's unbelievable," she said.

For $300, merchants may order an ice sculpture to be placed near their business. The sculptures will be identified with the name of the sponsor.

For $400, sponsors will be able to design their own pre-carved ice sculpture, (subject to Ice Committee approval), to be placed near their place of business and identified with the company name.

"Premium" sculptures, also identified with the company logo, can be ordered for $500. These will be "carved during the Ice Spectacular, and located in close proximity to the sponsor's place of business," said Watts.

Sponsors will be included in the "Basket of Plymouth" promotion. Participating businesses will be asked to donate an item or gift certificate to be placed in the basket for a drawing at the end of the festival. Entry blanks will be available at participating stores.

Window posters will help shoppers locate stores that are part of the promotion.

If sponsors want something bigger, better or special, it can be ordered.

The gingerbread houses must be delivered to Days Gone By on Monday, Jan. 8, between 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The gingerbread creations will be displayed in Westchester Mall throughout the festival. Entry fee for adults is $4, and $1 for youth. Gingerbread houses may be reclaimed Tuesday, Jan. 16.

Ribbons will be awarded to second- and third-place finishers.

Entry forms and more information is available at Days Gone By, 550 Forest Avenue, in Plymouth. You can reach the store at (313) 455-0052.

Shop an antidote to country theme

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Country design may rule in Plymouth, but you won't find any geese with bonnets at The Velvet Plum.

The new downtown boutique offers a striking style change from the country design items that are predominant in Plymouth.

Shop owner Jenniver Imamura, a former model and marketing rep, has helped clients redecorate their homes since moving to Plymouth with her husband five years ago.

"If a client wanted a new look in a room, they'd call me and I'd change the appearance of the room — pulling things from other areas of the home, adding things, to give it an updated and new look," she said.

Imamura was getting clients through word of mouth. So why open a shop?

"My mom owns boutiques back east. A lot of my clients were asking me for accessories on a regular basis. We drove by in the summer and this spot was for rent," Imamura said.

"It's also handier. I couldn't stock 20 lamps in my basement," she said.

The name for the boutique came from Imamura's mother.

In the shop at 595 Forest, plum and gold colors predominate, setting off displays of lamps, drapes, giftware and home accessories. "The Velvet Plum" also offers special-order gourmet food baskets.

"There's something for everyone," Imamura said, adding one can have a room redesigned without spending a lot of money.

After studying marketing and piano at the University of Massechussets, Imamura worked in California for Magnavox Corp., and also as a professional model.

She met her husband in Japan, and moved here when his job with Ford Motor Co. required the move. "I went back to modeling, for Somerset, Jakes," she said, but eventually gave it up.

"There's a lot of traveling. It's kind of fun and exciting when you first start, but it's like taking a trip, by the end you want to go home."

"The Velvet Plum" opened Nov. 9. "I think Plymouth could be a really great west-side Birmingham," Imamura said.

"I just hope the store will bring a lot of clients wanting new things, a little bit less country and make them a little more cosmopolitan," Imamura said.

Needy folks get helping hand

The Plymouth and Canton Observer Christmas Cheer Club toy and food drive is over for this Christmas season.

The Plymouth Salvation Army was scheduled at 11 a.m. today to pick up your donations left at our office.

By press time on Tuesday, we'd received donations from 100 individuals, families and organizations. Those contributing between late Friday and Tuesday afternoon included Girl Scout Troop 652, which collected items donated at New Morning School of Plymouth. Other contributors were Neil and Sue Ludwig of Plymouth; Nathanial Kuhn of Canton; Ellen, Chris, Renae and Amy Kolarik of Canton; Sally Billa of Plymouth; Madeline Brodie of Plymouth; Connie Witt of Plymouth; Elise Miller of Canton; Ken and Jean Durham of Plymouth; Janie, Tony Rachel and Olivia Pizii; the Dave Baranski family; the Kushner family of Plymouth; Mary Shupert of Plymouth Township; Gene Prang of Plymouth; Diana McLean of Canton; Shaun Greene, Matthew Nye and Stella Greene of Plymouth; and three anonymous donors.

In our next edition, we'll list all who donated since the drive began Nov. 24, including those who've come into our office between press time Tuesday and 11 a.m. today.

Your donations will help make Christmas more special for needy kids and families in Canton, Plymouth and Northville, towns served by the Plymouth Salvation Army. They'll distribute donated toys to kids and use food items to make Christmas baskets. Many food items are used to stock the Salvation Army pantry, which provides food for the needy yearround.

Thanks — and Merry Christmas!

Post office hours are extended

The Plymouth Post Office has announced extended hours for the holiday season.

At the Penniman office, hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. Hours at the Beck Road-Clipper Street post office are 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 17.

The extended hours were announced by Plymouth Postmaster Joseph Bodary.

Expansion announced

Programmed Products Corp. of Plymouth, a retail design and decor manufacturing firm, has started work on a 45,000-square-foot addition to its existing 30,000-square-foot manufacturing facility in Novi.

■ PIPELINE

Founded in 1971, the Plymouth-based firm counts True Value, Kroger, Safeway and Borman Foods among clients.

The facility expansion is scheduled for completion in summer 1996.

Kettle drive

For 12 hours a day six days per week, volunteers continue to wait at Plymouth Salvation Army kettles through Dec. 23, to accept donations to pay for Salvation Army programs that help the needy.

Groups volunteering include these from the Plymouth-Canton schools: Canton-Salem Honor Society, Canton-Salem Athletic Association, Canton-Salem Key Club, Indian-American Student Association, Canton Senior Student Council, and the Close Up group.

Also volunteering are Our Lady of Good Counsel Youth Group, St. Michael's Lutheran Church Confirmation Group, Salvation Army Girl Guards and Sunbeams, Boy Scout Troop 763, Cub Scout Pack 1540 Den 7, and Girl Scout Troop 692.

Reunion planned

Former staff members should send current addresses to the station at 46181 Joy Road, Canton 48187, or by calling 416-7732.

Hospital teaches weight control

Taught by registered dietitian Linda DeVore, day and evening classes are available.

The day class begins 11 a.m. Jan. 16. A free orientation for the LifeSteps will begin 11 a.m. Jan. 9.

The evening class will begin 7 p.m. Jan. 17. The free orientation will be 7 p.m. Jan. 10.

At the orientation the instructor will explain the course in detail, expectations, cost and what participants need to consider. For information call the hospital's food and nutrition services at 591-2983.

Athletic coordinator to start work in district

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton school board members hired an administrator and discussed hiring an administrative secretary at their meeting Monday night.

John Robinson of Chelsea was unanimously approved as the district's new faculty athletic coordinator, effective Jan. 8.

He'll make $45,370 in his new position.

Robinson earned a master of science in physical education and sports medicine from Ohio University in 1983. He holds a bachelor of science degree in biology with minors in physical science and secondary education from Michigan State University. He also earned credits for continuing teacher certification and toward a minor in sports medicine from Central Michigan in 1982.

Robinson served as head athletic trainer at Ypsilanti High School and worked as director of athletic training services for the Center for Sports Medicine and Fitness in Ypsilanti.

Robinson worked as head clinical athletic trainer for the Garden City Family Physicians Center and as head athletic trainer for Morgan High School in McConnelsville, Ohio. He taught biology and coached at Lakeview Community Schools in Lakeview, Mich. from 1974-1980.

His hiring was recommended by a committee consisting of athletic director Brian Wolcott, Salem High School principal Gerry Ostoin, two teachers, two parents, one support staff member and two students. Five of nine qualified applicants were interviewed, said Errol Goldman, assistant superintendent for employee relations and personnel.

Superintendent Charles Little told the board he'd like authorization to create a budget line item so a secretary to the executive director of instruction can be hired.

The position hasn't been filled since Patrick O'Donnell's former secretary retired.

School board treasurer Mike Maloney said, "I think this is a legitimate position, but I would like to see us absorb a position somewhere else. I'd like to see us try to live within our budget. Every person we hire is going to mean one less teacher."

Little said absorbing a position "would be pretty difficult, but we will look at it."

Board vice president Mark Horvath said, "I agree there is a need for this position, but we need to be very careful about just adding, especially central office staff."

Maloney asked Goldman to rank the hirings and the substitute calling system in terms of priority.

Goldman said the faculty athletic coordinator and the secretarial position are "both important. If we want to maintain a certain level of service to the community and the board, we have to fill positions when necessary.

"I have watched Pat O'Donnell working here until 10 or 11 at night, doing his own work," added Goldman. "I know if we don't have a substitute calling system, I will hear from everyone."

Trustees Carrie Blamer and Jack Farrow support the secretarial hiring. "I don't think its wise for us to have an executive typing his own reports," said Blamer. "It makes little sense to pay a Ph.D. to type," said Farrow.

Board president Dave Artley directed administration to "bring us the person you want to hire when it's appropriate."

OBITUARIES

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

After nine hours of debate, the state House of Representatives passed a revised Mental Health Code on a 70-31 vote that belied a deep partisan split.

The new code places greater emphasis on community mental health programs and less on state institutions. On party-line votes, Republicans rejected more than 70 Democratic amendments.

The state Senate on Dec. 7 concurred in House amendments on a 30-4 vote. All area senators voted yes except Democrats Gary Peters of Bloomfield Township and Alma Smith of Salem, who voted no, and Republican Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion, who missed the vote. The bill goes to Gov. John Engler for his signature.

NO — Democrat Kirk Profit of Ypsilanti.

Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, was one of three Republicans who joined 28 Democrats in opposing Senate Bill 525, a 12-chapter, 297-page revision of the Mental Health Code after 21 years.

Kaza objected to the Office of Multicultural Affairs within the Mental Health Department because "we need to defend the concept of individual rights, not encourage the notion of multi-culturalism, whose emphasis on collective rights undermines individual liberty."

Kaza called multi-culturalism "government-sanctioned group rights that favor one group, whether ethnic or racial, at the expense of another group."

Fellow Republican David Jaye of Utica was blunter. "This bill is racist," Jaye said, because it "gives special affirmative action programs services for only blacks, Hispanics, Indians, Pacific Islanders and Chaldeans-Arabs."

Rep. Laura Baird, D-Okemos, accused Republicans of turning mental health into a partisan issue by "focusing too much on the system and not enough on the consumer."

The House rejected two Baird amendments. One would have required four public hearings a year by community health boards. The other would have recognized new categories of children who are physically or emotionally disabled, making their families eligible for state subsidies for home care as an alternative to out-of-home placement.

Rep. Beverly Hammerstrom, R-Temperance and chair of the House Mental Health Committee, said the new code will:

- Require the state to certify all community mental health (CMH) programs.
- Strengthen incentives for national accreditation.
- Enhance selection criteria for CMH directors.
- Require that consumers and family members make up one-third of the membership on the Citizens Health Advisory Council, CMH boards and hospital recipient rights committees.
- Add a chapter to the code outlining the process of investigation, appeal and mediation of alleged violations of recipients' rights.
- Mandate safeguards for use of restrains, electroconvulsive therapy and psychotropic drugs.

Legislator travels to Israel

Sen. Robert Geake is one of 10 distinguished state legislators from the country to participate in an intensive study program in Israel Dec. 9-18. The educational program was organized by Project Interchange, an Institute of the American Jewish Committee (AJC).

The eight-day seminar focuses on local government priorities, including: economic development, business and trade, and social welfare issues. The specially tailored seminar program also provides an overview of Israel and key issues in U.S.-Israel relations and in the Middle East peace process.

Geake and other participants are meeting with key government officials, business leaders and academics, as well as with representatives of the Palestinian Authority. Geake is making related visits to Tel Aviv, Jerusalem, the Golan Heights and West Bank, and is meeting with Israeli counterparts to explore issues of mutual concern.

"The Project Interchange seminar experience will provide state legislators a unique opportunity to meet with leading Israeli political and business figures, and to exchange views with representatives of various other sectors of Israeli society. In addition, by speaking with both Israeli Arabs and Jews, as well as with Palestinian leaders, participants will gain a better appreciation for the complexities of the Middle East," said Project Interchange Executive Director Lisa Eisen, who is accompanying the delegation to Israel.

Project Interchange is a non-profit, non-political national project funded by private individuals and foundations. The goal of Project Interchange intensive study seminars is to provide the opportunity for America's political, civic, ethnic and religious leaders to experience Israel first-hand.

During the past 13 years, nearly 1,500 distinguished Americans have participated in Project Interchange seminars in Israel. The American Jewish Committee is the nation's oldest human relations agency. The committee works to combat bigotry and to promote pluralism and tolerance in the United States and abroad.

goodbye,'" Argonis said. "Hand warmers and toe warmers went pretty well, I had five boxes left over from the ice fest that didn't go, now they've been picked up."

The first significant snowfall sent City of Plymouth department of public works crews out in force to clear roads. "We plowed all residential streets Saturday morning starting at 4 a.m.," said DPW Director Paul Sincock, adding downtown streets were clear for shoppers by 8:30 a.m.

Sincock said there were no problems plowing streets narrowed and resurfaced through the downtown streetscape project. "It's the first snow we experienced with the streetscape, we changed our strategy with snow removal in the downtown area," he said. The DPW used pickup trucks with front-mounted plows and front-end loader trucks to remove snow. "That seemed to do the trick in the downtown area," he said.

"A lot of credit goes to our crews for the job they're doing, they put in some very long hours," Sincock said.

On Tuesday, stockpiled snow was hauled out of areas downtown and in Old Village. To deal with the snowfall, about 250 tons of road salt were used, Sincock said.

The snowfall "was probably a little larger than normal," he said, for early December. "I'm just glad we're not Sault Ste. Marie," Sincock added.

Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry reported 10-15 minor collisions due partly to poor road conditions, but no major injury accidents. In Canton, authorities said traffic accidents were also up over the weekend due to road conditions, but no major injury accidents were reported. Plymouth Police Chief Bobert Scoggins said, "It didn't appear we had any serious accidents, traffic was really diminished during the cold spell we had."

High school juniors will take the state's new high school proficiency test in March.

The holiday break for Plymouth-Canton begins Dec. 22 and ends Jan. 8.

By February, the state expects to have the results available online for interested individuals with computer access, said Caryl Clark, the state's MEAP liaison.

Clark said National Computer Systems of Iowa City mailed the last of the MEAP results to Michigan districts Monday. "We won't have them for another month," she said.

Plymouth-Canton results will be sent home by Jan. 19 at the latest, according to Evola.

Area GOP reps vote to allow PSC to hold closed meetings

With no votes to spare, the state House of Representatives has voted to allow the Public Service Commission to meet permanently behind closed doors. The vote was 56 in favor, the bare minimum needed for passage, to 34 against.

"The PSC should continue to remain subject to the Open Meetings Act," objected Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, who opposed the bill. "Good government demands that we seek to achieve at least that much."

A 1988 law made PSC exempt from open meetings but provided the exemption would expire ("sunset") in 1990. A 1989 law allowed closed meetings through the end of 1995. The new measure, House Bill 5402, would remove the sunset and allow PSC to meet permanently behind closed doors.

PSC regulates utilities and sets their rates.

The bill went to the Senate and was reported out of the Technology Committee. A Senate vote is expected this week.

Here's how area House members voted:

YES (56) — Republicans Lyn Bankes of Redford, Penny Crissman of Rochester, Barbara Dobb of Union Lake, Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills, Shirley Johnson of Royal Oak, Gerald Law of Plymouth, Tom Middleton of Ortonville, James Ryan of Redford and Deborah Whyman of Canton.

NO — (34) — Republican Greg Kaza of Rochester Hills; Democrats Eileen DeHart of Westland, David Gubow of Huntington Woods and Tom Kelly of Wayne.

ABSENT — Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, Willis Bullard, R-Milford, and Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti.

Ellis supported

Seventeen state senators like the job Art Ellis is doing as acting superintendent of public instruction and want the State Board of Education to keep him permanently.

Among signers of the letter are local senators Robert Geake, R-Northville, and Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham. Thirteen Republicans and four Democrats signed the letter.

Ellis was previously director of the Commerce Department before being appointed interim superintendent of public instruction. He got the job when Clark Durant's conservative board majority succeeded in dumping Dr. Robert Schiller.

NRC due in Novi

The state Natural Resources Commission will come to Novi for its Jan. 10-11 meeting in the Sheraton Oaks Hotel, 27000 Sheraton Drive.

The first day's meeting begins at 4:30 p.m. with public comments. To arrange an appearance before the NRC, contact staff person Teresa Gloden at (517) 373-2352.

The NRC business meeting begins at 9 a.m. the next day.

Big deer harvest

A record 318,000 white-tailed deer were harvested during the Nov. 15-30 firearm hunting season, the state Department of Natural Resources said. That's up 38 percent over last year when 229,640 deer were taken.

Hunters took 208,000 bucks — the first time the buck harvest has topped 200,000. Said George Burgoyne Jr., chief of DNR's wildlife section:

"Weather conditions were idea, with tracking snow in all counties on opening day. The breeding behavior of bucks was at its peak, making deer visible and available to hunters."

Bills signed

Gov. John Engler has signed two major state laws:

■ House Bill 4341, the no-fault auto insurance law. "This should put an end to the stories we hear where innocent victims are sued by the person who caused the accident," Engler said.

The new law makes questions of non-economic damages a matter of law, to be decided by a judge, rather than a matter of fact, to be decided by a jury. It contin-

Senate Dems attack trust fund bills

STAFF WRITER

Senate Democrats accused the Republican majority of shorting the state Natural Resources Trust Fund with a trio of bills allowing sale of oil and gas rights.

"I have letters from sportsmen's organizations saying they want the money in the Natural Resources Trust Fund," said Sen. Ken DeBeaussaert, D-Macomb County.

"This bill has proceeded very fast," said DeBeaussaert, noting Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton, had introduced the first bill only a week earlier.

Bennett, chair of Senate Natural Resources, accused the Democrat of "Orwellian double-speak" because the bill provides for tax credits when the state sells its royalty shares in hydrocarbons derived from the Devonian and Antrim shale in northern lower Michigan.

The bills passed Dec. 7 on nearly a party-line vote:

YES (21) — 19 Republicans and two Democrats. Among supporters were Republicans Bennett, Michael Bouchard of Birmingham, Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion, David Honigman of West Bloomfield, Robert Geake of Northville, Mike Rogers of Howell and John Schwarz of Battle Creek.

NO (15) — 14 Democrats and one Republican. Among opponents were Democrats Gary Peters of Bloomfield Township, George Z. Hart of Dearborn and Alma Wheeler Smith of Salem.

ABSENT (2) — both outstate Republicans.

Voters in 1984 placed the Natural Resource Trust Fund (NRTF) in the state constitution (Art. IX sec. 35). NTRF is to be fed by "all bonuses, rentals, delayed rentals, and royalties collected or reserved by the state" under leases for extraction of non-renewable resources.

The NRTF is to be used for "acquisition of land or rights in land for recreational uses or protection of the land," the constitution says. The Legislature is to implement the section by law.

The second bill in the package amends the NRTF law to exempt money received by the state from sale of its economy royalty interests in hydrocarbons derived from Devonian and Antrim shale.

It is tie-barred to Bennett's bill which would amend the NRTF law to allow the state to sell its economic share of royalty interests. A third bill exempts the income from these hydrocarbons from the severance tax.

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

■ Daniel P. Gilmartin is the executive director of the Conference of Western Wayne. CWW members voted Friday voted to empower the executive committee to select 15 people for the new workforce development board in order to meet the Dec. 18 deadline.

Appointments will be offered to the governor Dec. 18 for an area Workforce Development Board.

Members of the Conference of Western Wayne, a consortium of 18 western Wayne County communities, Friday voted to empower the executive committee to select 15 people for the new board in order to meet the Dec. 18 deadline.

This board will replace the current Private Industry Council and become the policy-making authority for all state and federal job training funds for the region, which is about $25 million annually, according to information provided by Daniel P. Gilmartin, executive director of CWW.

The appointments will be made through the West Suburban Area Council of Chambers, Gilmartin said.

The Workforce Development Board will be made up of 41 members. The nominations, based on population, will include 15 members from the Conference of Western Wayne area, eight from the Downriver Community Conference area, two from the Conference of Eastern Wayne, four from Monroe County, one from Highland Park/Hamtramck, and 11 from union and educational institutions.

"We'll do the best we can," to spread out the appointments, said Canton Township supervisor Thomas Yack, CWW chairman.

"Certain balancing may need to be done to get representatives from different industries," he said.

It's not an easy job, he said, but definitely best for the area.

Wayne County Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter agreed, calling it a regional movement by communities to have more control. "Pooling resources and working together will be more efficient," he said.

The Workforce Development Board will be responsible for policy-making functions including budgets, contracts, hiring of the organization's leaders, direction of staff, monitoring and follow-up. It will meet on a monthly basis.

Under the governor's plan, all private sector members "shall be an owner, chief executive officer, chief operating officer or plant or human resource manager of a local business concern or some other private sector executive with substantial management and policy responsibility."

Appointments will take effect Jan. 1. At least 70 percent of the board must be private sector individuals who have a strong business background and who are "movers and shakers" in the area, according to a letter sent out by Gilmartin to local leaders and chambers of commerce.

ues to allow non-economic (pain and suffering) damages for "death, serious impairment of body function or permanent serious disfigurement." A party more than 50 percent at fault will be unable to collect non-economic damages.

■ Senate Bill 722, the Telecommunications Act. It directs the state to defy a federal court order prohibiting Ameritech and GTE from offering long-distance service. Engler was praised by the Telephone Association of Michigan, whose members include Ameritech and local providers. The bill was sponsored in the Senate by Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, and guided through the House by Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake.

County commission backs Lions stadium resolution

STAFF WRITER

■ The resolution says the county is authorized by Public Act 180 of 1991 to enact an ordinance, subject to a vote of the people of Wayne County, to levy and collect an excise tax on hotel and motel rooms, restaurants and the leasing or renting of motor vehicles, for the purpose of subsidizing construction of a sports stadium.

The Wayne County Commission last week voted in favor of a resolution "strongly" supporting negotiations between the county executive and the Detroit Lions football team on a plan to build a new stadium in downtown Detroit.

Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, and Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, voted in favor. Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter was off the floor and didn't vote on the issue, but says he would have voted against it. Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, said she voted against the resolution. The vote was 10-1 with Andrew Richner abstaining. Commissioner George Cushingberry didn't vote and Commissioner Robert Blackwell was absent.

The resolution says the county is authorized by Public Act 180 of 1991 to enact an ordinance, subject to a vote of the people of Wayne County, to levy and collect an excise tax on hotel and motel rooms, restaurants and the leasing or renting of motor vehicles, for the purpose of subsidizing construction of a sports stadium.

Beard, who also represents Garden City, was a co-sponsor of the resolution. She said the resolution is based on the Lions organization expressing interest in coming back to Detroit. "We're not advocating any stealing of them from Oakland County," she said, but she said there wasn't as much uproar when the Lions left the Detroit as she's heard since they've talked of coming back.

The possibility of a tax hike to construct the stadium has not officially been proposed and "it's too iffy to comment on" at this time, she said.

McCotter says he's totally opposed to the resolution and is also against putting a ballot question before the voters.

"If you think something is a bad idea, you shouldn't put it on the ballot," he said.

The resolution, sponsored by commissioner Bernard Parker, is basically meaningless, because county executive Edward McNamara can enter into negotiations without the commission's approval, McCotter said.

Plawecki said she encourages discussion of a plan to move the Lions to Wayne County, but doesn't support any tax increase.

"I think it's premature to vote in favor of increasing taxes . . . ," Plawecki said. Plawecki said her vote was at first recorded as a yes, but she said she later went to the clerk of the commission to make sure it was recorded as a no. Alfred Montgomery, clerk of the commission, said it will be recorded as a no.

This was the first time the issue came before the commission, Plawecki said, adding she also didn't support the plan to move Tiger Stadium. Plawecki also represents Redford Township and Livonia east of Middlebelt.

More information is needed, she said, such as attendance figures for the Lions, revenue projections and how many jobs it would mean.

"There are so many questions," she said. "I certainly think it should be a ballot issue."

Beard said she has never had a problem putting something before the voters. "I have great confidence in the ability of the people to make a decision," she said, adding she thinks the people have right to vote on it.

McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township, had announced his opposition to a new tax to build a Lions stadium in November.

"The Tiger Stadium project is primarily based upon private investment. It utilizes existing public funds for infrastructure improvements that necessarily would have to be undertaken to spur any substantial economic development. And it retains an existing economic development asset in Wayne County," McCotter said in a written statement.

"The Lions' proposal is clearly different. It will increase taxes. There is no specified amount of private investment. And the team has already left Wayne County. Consequently, I oppose the new tax," he said in the statement.

The resolution states, in part: that "the Detroit Lions moved out of Tiger Stadium to the Pontiac Silverdome in 1973, resulting in the loss of jobs, revenue and prestige as a complete cosmopolitan city;" that "plans are now well advanced for the construction of a new Tiger Stadium in downtown Detroit;" that "the Foxtown entertainment area is presently experiencing a renaissance of redevelopment, which would be further enhanced by the construction of a companion football stadium;" and "that the Detroit Lions organization has expressed a sincere interest in returning to the city if current negotiations with the city of Pontiac can not be concluded to the mutual benefit of both parties . . . "

Road concern

Corridor in need of identity

■ A sign that welcomes people to the Plymouth community has been mentioned. But that's only window dressing.

The Plymouth community has an identity, but those passing through on Ann Arbor Road have no way of knowing exactly where it starts and ends.

There's no sign at I-275 and Ann Arbor Road where many people enter the community. Such signs do have an impact. Years ago in the tiny mid-Michigan community of Clare, the town fathers put up a sign that said "Gateway to the North."

That little slogan worked. It gave the community an identity beyond its importance.

The same idea could work for Plymouth and there are signals coming from the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township that it will happen. There has been much talk about improvements to the corridor and the township has held a design competition to call attention to the area.

A sign that welcomes people to the Plymouth community has been mentioned. But that's only window dressing.

The real work would be in tying the businesses along the corridor together and the prime obstacle is that the city and township have different zoning laws in place.

But something is being done. After Christmas the city and township planning commissions will be meeting to create matching zoning ordinances.

The step is a good one. It will solve the practical problem of conflicting zoning laws and will also send a message to businesses that both the township and city are serious.

The timing is perfect. The city has just completed its $3 million streetscape project and city officials have gained experience in managing such a projects. Also, the streetscape is an example of just what can be done and the attention it can attract.

A similar project for Ann Arbor Road could tie the businesses together to present a unifying image that would be attractive to visitors and local residents.

While downtown Plymouth attracts many visitors, the Ann Arbor Road corridor also serves as the shopping and entertainment district for many local residents.

The corridor boasts a hardware store, grocery stores, pet supply store, auto dealers and services needed by residents.

Aesthetics are important, but so is traffic flow. One of the ideas being put forward by some in Plymouth Township is to close off side streets. This would create more parking, but could anger some residents.

There is a up side for those neighborhoods in that a street closed at Ann Arbor Road would mean less traffic and noise. Also, earth berms could be used to close the roads and they could be turned into attractive planting areas.

A more attractive and functional Ann Arbor Road corridor is important to both city and township residents. So now that the downtown streetscape is complete, attention should be paid to it.

Make school elections simpler

Almost unnoticed in the Michigan Legislature's tinkering with the School Code is the fact that school board elections will be affected.

The School Code puts school districts into five classifications, which is about four too many. There are different election rules for each. Lawmakers, to their credit, have decided informally to strip election rules out of the School Code and place them in the Election Code, where they belong. So far, so good.

Here, based on decades of accumulated experience, are our ideas for how to conduct school elections:

1. Every other year. Currently school elections are conducted annually. They get little attention — more than 10 percent is considered a high turnout; in many districts the turnout is 3-5 percent. More attention can be concentrated on schools if elections are held every second year, preferably in odd-numbered years when folks aren't thinking of partisan politics.

2. A single education election. Currently we elect the State Board of Education and governing boards for the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University in the general elections in November of even-numbered years. These candidates get lost in the shuffle.

Combining the state education elections with school and community college elections would add a measure of excitement that would stimulate turnout and prevent single-interest groups from gaining control.

3. A single voting system. In much of the state, school boards run their own elections and have different polling places from city and township elections. That's confusing and unnecessary. The more forward-looking minds in Lansing say cities and townships should run all the elections so that precinct voting places will be the same. That's common sense, and we endorse it.

4. A spring election. School elections are conducted about the second week in June. We like the idea of moving them up to May. New trustees could have at least a month experience before voting on a budget.

Interest in school issues should be heightened. If a millage or bond proposal fails, boards will have more time to make alternate plans before the new fiscal year starts July 1.

One state Senate bill calls for November elections for school boards. That would only worsen the problem of school issues getting lost in the shuffle, with the president, U.S. senators, U.S. representatives, governor and state administrators, state Sentate, state House, countywide officials, county commissioners, township boards, state Supreme Court, state Court of Appeals, circuit court, probate court, district court and general ballot proposals. A spring election still is better for schools.

5. A cap on school money elections. Voters get angry when school boards return again and again to the ballot with money questions.

We like the idea of limiting these elections to three fixed dates per year — the spring school election, the August primary and the November general election. If lawmakers decide four dates are better than three, fine — as long as those dates are fixed in law and voters don't get a scattering of elections.

All of our suggestions are aimed at concentrating voter attention on school issues.

Now that the School Code is being written, it's time to make education elections simpler and give them better attention.

Another fatality

It is with great sadness and frustration that I write about another beautiful young person being killed by the deliberate actions of another. Judy Rosin, a member of the Belleville High School Chapter of Students Against Driving Drunk, lost her life in a crash with a drinking driver. Just nine months ago another SADD member, Seth Lucas of Wyoming, Mich., died in a crash by a drunken motorist.

SADD chapters in 580 Michigan high schools are taking a stand to help make a change. Students have the power to not use alcohol or other drugs, to refuse to ride with a drinking or drugged driver, and to reach out into the community to work with younger students with this message.

Tougher laws are needed, and SADD supports the efforts of Rep. Frank Fitzgerald and the House Republican Task Force on Traffic Safety. They recommend license plate confiscation for suspended licenses; requiring courts to order either family plates or immobilization of an offender's vehicle for a second conviction, and allowing for judicially authorized vehicle forfeiture upon a third conviction. Personal responsibility is also important. Those under 21 should not drink and drive, and should wear a safety-belt.

Our hearts and sympathies go out to the families of Judy Rosin and Seth Lucas. We hope that these tragedies will not be repeated. Their deaths should encourage us to take action and strengthen our state laws.

Attack unwarranted

It never ceases to amaze me! When someone is intent on making a political attack, virtually anything is a suitable basis for doing so — even a decidedly non-partisan, "good government" piece like my column of Nov. 25.

Even though Mark Tooze makes a variety of comments about me and my record, readers should not be misled by the authoritative air of his delivery. For example, while Tooze forcefully reports that I supported the 1993 budget act, he is obviously ignorant of the fact I wasn't a member of Congress until 1995. Even though he claims to be among those who "are watching and listening carefully to what both sides are saying and doing," his vigilance did not extend to verification of his facts before making accusations about me in the newspaper.

Readers should also be suspicious of his wholesale condemnation of my voting record — again, the facts don't support his statements. He tries to argue that my actual votes are not consistent with the arguments put forward in my column. Untrue! Not only have I repeatedly cast votes in support of ethics and campaign finance reform, I have personally set standards above what the law requires.

For example, as a state legislator, I voted against a pay raise and then, after it passed, returned it to the state treasury. Before I was elected to Congress, I pledged not to accept gifts, meals, or travel from special interests. I have voluntarily kept to this standard and sponsored legislation that would have placed the same requirements on all members. In fact, Speaker Gingrich's amendment to the recently passed "gift ban" was identical to my proposal.

Similarly, I have co-sponsored most of the ethics and "perks and privileges" bills in the 104th Congress and am currently at work on campaign finance reform.

I recently sponsored a bill to make House members more accountable for after-hours use of C-Span — which costs taxpayers around $7,000 an hour — and, because of my strong sense of outrage over the recent shutdown of the federal government, I pledged to return my salary for those six days.

Mr. Tooze's claim that I argued that "Democrats had been disadvantaged" and that my reform bills were "to right this wrong" is simply made up. A review of my comments will show that I was critical of both parties and urged bipartisan responses to campaign and ethics reforms.

It seems to me that what was actually written in the column was of little interest to Mr. Tooze — my party affiliation, rather than my arguments, are what count to him. While he is certainly free to dislike that I am a Democrat, Mr. Tooze is way out of line for faulting me on reform! I would hope that my Wayne County constituents would recognize this inaccurate and partisan attack for what it is.

Seizure of cars helps to halt prostitution

GUEST COLUMNIST

JOHN D. O'HAIR

■ Seizing the cars of the prostitutes' customers dramatically reduces such activity, without imposing unduly harsh burdens on offenders or clogging the criminal justice system.

No one who has seen the ravages of prostitution close up would ever call it a victimless crime. It's dangerous and degrading to the women and teen-agers trapped in it. It's risky to those who solicit their services. It's devastating to the city and suburban neighborhoods where it takes hold.

It has also been one of the most frustrating crimes for law enforcement to deal with — until the use of forfeiture or the temporary seizure of property became common in recent years.

In Wayne County, the practice of seizing the cars of prostitutes' customers under the state nuisance abatement law has proved to be a remarkably effective punishment and deterrent. It's the only remedy that gets at the demand side of the business. Jails don't have room for prostitutes and their customers, even if courts send them there. Fines are shrugged off by prostitutes and their bosses as merely a cost of doing business. But when you temporarily take away the car of a customer caught in the act, you impose a prompt and proportionate penalty and create a powerful incentive for him not to return.

Wayne County's prostitution abatement program, called Operation Save Our Neighborhoods, is a direct response to the concerns of homeowners, businesses and community groups who saw the open practice of prostitution destroying their city and suburban neighborhoods. Anyone familiar with areas where prostitution is common knows its ravages: the litter of used condoms on sidewalks, lawns and streets; the crude solicitation of wives and daughters; the sight of the vice business in full swing in cars parked in driveways and alleys.

Seizing the cars of the prostitutes' customers dramatically reduces such activity, without imposing unduly harsh burdens on offenders or clogging the criminal justice system. Those whose cars have been taken can contest the seizure in court. But most offenders choose to get their cars back by paying a redemption fee of $650 plus costs. Fewer than 1 percent of the 9,000 persons whose cars have been seized in Wayne County in recent years have been rearrested for soliciting acts of prostitution — proof of how well the program works.

The use of property seizures, which are temporary pending a final settlement, has come under scrutiny in recent days, as the U.S. Supreme Court weighs the Bennis case, which arose in Wayne County. Tina Bennis has argued that her rights as co-owner of her husband's car were infringed when he was caught using it for a transaction with a prostitute and the car was seized. The car, a 1977 junker, was one of two cars owned by the Bennises, and the one her husband drove. A Wayne County Circuit judge found that the vehicle's value was less than the cost of towing and impoundment, so there was no real economic loss to Ms. Bennis. The Supreme Court of Michigan agreed.

But the key fact that must be remembered is, it has always been the policy of the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office to protect the interest of innocent parties in prostitution seizures, as well as in a similar program in involving the seizure of cars used in the drug trade. Courts are specifically requested to respect innocent co-owners' property interests, and to protect their rights of ownership. No matter how the U.S. Supreme Court rules in the Bennis case, that has been and will continue to be the practice of the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office.

Seizure works. It's simple, fair and effective. It doesn't tie up the courts and jails or cost the taxpayers money. It does not hurt the innocent. On the contrary, prostitution and drug seizure programs protect the truly innocent victims of those crimes — the embattled residents of Detroit and Wayne County who desperately want to drive such ugly commerce out of their neighborhoods for good.

John D. O'Hair is the prosecutor in Wayne County.

Conservationist's love of outdoors built bridges

TIM RICHARD

■ Washington put one of MUCC's feet in each camp: conservation and the environment. Often he wasn't appreciated by the latter group.

They'll hire a new executive director at Michigan United Conservation Clubs. But it may be impossible to replace Tom Washington, who died Dec. 5 after a heart attack at age 58. The reasons:

If you are a new style, tree-hugging, bird-watching environmentalist, Tom Washington was your leader.

Washington put one of MUCC's feet in each camp: conservation and the environment. Often he wasn't appreciated by the latter group, which tends to attach to word "nut" to the word "gun." But linking the two was Washington's genius-level contribution to Michigan politics.

Lisa Allen, a friend who was raised in Bloomfield Township, edited MUCC's Terra Tuebor magazine ("I will guard the earth") for its brief two or three years of life. An angry woman reader asked how she could work for a firearms advocate like Washington. Allen replied in an editor's note to the effect that Washington was great and very much concerned about the land and waters, not just the deer and trout that populated it. Amen.

Allen's magazine did some excellent stuff, particularly about the effect of electric power lines on farmers and their livestock. I confess, however, that I disliked seeing a separate environmental magazine. I thought her work should have been displayed in Michigan Out-of-Doors, MUCC's main publication. Here's why:

Advertising managers are doing much harm to America by segregating folks into markets. Look at any magazine rack. Investors have their magazines; labor has its publications. Hikers and motor fans don't read each other. Men and women have separate magazines. Career women and homemakers have their separate magazines.

The old general circulation magazines that covered politics, health, the arts, business, science, war, recipes, fiction, humor — all have been exterminated by the advertisers. Only in newspapers do they talk to each other — sometimes.

If Michigan's natural resources are to be preserved from the onslaughts of the Engler Administration, which officially refers to polluters as "customers," old-style conservationists and new-style environmentalists must stick together, as Washington insisted.

Washington's MUCC, with 120,000 members, was the muscle behind the 1994 drive for a constitutional amendment to fund state parks through state oil and gas revenues, and the loudest voice to keep Engler from raiding it.

Washington's MUCC was the muscle for the 1976 "bottle bill" which required deposits on pop and beer bottles and cans, cleaning up our roads and parks almost overnight.

Washington was a key player in the Wetlands Protection Act, Indian fishing controversies, and lawsuits to protect the environment. Without question, other groups — watershed councils, environmental action groups, Sierra Club — were there, too; bless them. But Washington had the loudest voice, biggest checkbook and heaviest clout.

Tom Washington had a greater positive impact on Michigan's outdoors and the people who love it than any five directors of the state Department of Natural Resources and any 20 legislators. We'll probably never name a state building or park for him.

But every time I visit my favorite camping spot, watch ospreys and loons, fish for pike, hike the trails looking for Kirtland's warblers and feel safe that the puppy won't gash her toes on a busted beer bottle, I'll be grateful I knew Tom Washington, even if only slightly.

Battles over school reform demand close attention

PHILIP POWER

■ Thank you, Rep. Kelly. I get a lot of response to this column, some positive and some negative, some reasoned and some purely emotional.

This is the season . . .

And so it was nice to get a letter from state Rep. Thomas Kelly, whose district includes parts of Garden City and Westland. Kelly is a Democratic member of the House Education Committee, the site of some of the fiercest battles over school reform.

"I find myself in a quandary," Kelly's letter begins, "trying to understand the absence of qualitative reporting by the media with reference to many defining issues facing our society today.

"In my position as a state representative, I rely on being able to access as much information as possible so I can make reasonable and sensible decisions. I have access to many, many newspapers published in the state . . . Unfortunately, I have concluded that for some reason the press is unconcerned with the assault on education and, therefore, does not seem to care about the destruction being inflicted.

"You, sir, are the only voice in the journalistic wilderness who dares to address this subject in a logical and reasonable way. Why are you the lone writer? . . . Is it really because the issue isn't sensational or sexy? Is it because it doesn't sell?"

Thank you, Rep. Kelly. I get a lot of response to this column, some positive and some negative, some reasoned and some purely emotional. It's gratifying to be called "logical and reasonable" at least once this year. You may be certain I'll show your nice letter to my wife.

Frankly, I'm not sure just why the big city papers don't pay much attention to what's going on in education today. Certainly things like amending the state School Code or tinkering with the numbers of charter schools don't lend themselves to blaring headlines or prodigies of investigative reporting.

But they do have a profound effect on what our kids learn in school and what kinds of skills they have when they leave school. And that, in turn, bears profoundly on whether graduates can support their families on the jobs they get and whether their Michigan employers can compete effectively in a global economy.

I suppose this newspaper, focused as it is on the gritty reality of hometown events, is predisposed to be especially concerned about what happens to kids who attend our local schools. Big city papers don't have that same focus, which might explain why they tend to concentrate on the big story instead of the little pieces of everyday reality that make up lives for most of us.

Here's an example, Rep. Kelly, of what you said at your House Education Committee meeting last Wednesday. It's a story that did not make the big city papers.

You and your colleagues were working on a bill passed by the Senate that would amend the state School Code, going so far as to eliminate statewide curriculum standards and removing the cap on charter schools. Some moderates on the committee, Republicans and Democrats, were arguing that the changes went too far, did too much damage, had no real evidence to back them up.

Suddenly, a note was passed to the committee chair, Rep. William Bryant, R-Grosse Pointe Farms, summoning Republican members to Gov. John Engler's office two floors down. Half an hour later, dissent quelled and votes for the code changes all lined up, the committee voted to restore the pet provisions.

"The intent is obviously to carry out the remainder of the governor's order," said committee vice chair, James Agee, D-Muskegon. "I was prepared to support this until you left the room and somebody else told you what to do."

Kelly had his own take: "This is nothing but destructive. What we've done here solidifies my view that it's being done for the purpose of vouchers and parochiaid."

One wonders whether things will be as easy to wire when the bill comes to the full House this week. I sure hope not.

Area Dem joins GOP in voting for Engler's welfare reform

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Gov. John Engler's signing ceremony was a Republicans-only event, but 29 Democrats voted yes when the House of Representatives put the finishing touches on a pair of welfare reform bills.

Engler signed the pair of measures Dec. 6 — "a landmark day in Michigan" — and flew to Washington. He wants to persuade a friendly GOP Congress to give states the kind of flexibility Michigan needs in writing "contracts" that will help recipients get off welfare.

The House, where Republicans hold a 56-54 majority, concurred 85-22 in Senate amendments to the lead bill. Here is how area representatives voted:

YES — Democrats Eileen DeHart of Westland and Kirk Profit of Ypsilanti, and all Republicans.

NO — Democrats Maxine Berman of Southfield, David Gubow of Huntington Woods and Tom Kelly of Wayne. No Republicans were opposed.

The bills sponsored by Reps. Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt, and Jack Horton, R-Belmont.

The bills change the Department of Social Services from a check-writing agency to the Family Independence Agency, where staff will work with clients to move them into jobs or job training.

A client who fails to enroll in a program or fails to uphold their end of the contract will have benefits reduced or eliminated. Said Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville: "With individualized family plans, the road to financial independence will be a path more often traveled. It will be shorter, with fewer obstacles."

Another major feature requires minors with babies to live with their parents or in an adult-supervised setting. It is intended to discourage teens from having more babies.

Many Democrats balked at the section in which the Legislature gave the new FIA power to write eligibility rules without review by a legislative committee, as provided for in the state constitution.

Cropsey said at the signing ceremony: "The vision of Gov. Engler and this Republican Legislature to provide incentives for people to break the cycle of dependency is encouraging both to those who have been caught up in a failed system and to Michigan taxpayers burdened with paying the bill."

So far Michigan has seen AFDC (aid to families with dependent children) rolls shrink from what used to be considered a rock-bottom figure of 205,000 cases to the 180,000 mark. In recessions, the caseload used to approach the 250,000 mark but never dropped below the 205,000 floor.

Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus of Alto blamed Lyndon Johnson's administration (1963-68) for the growth of welfare. "The American family has paid a tremendous price due to the Great Society programs of the past. The old welfare system has torn families apart by creating incentives for minor children to have children, for husbands and wives to separate, and for recipients to stay home and collect welfare rather than go to work."

Gov. John Engler

■ Gov. John Engler signed a pair of welfare reform bills last week and then flew to Washington. He wants to persuade a friendly GOP Congress to give states the kind of flexibility Michigan needs in writing "contracts" that will help recipients get off welfare.

FAMILY ROOM

KAREN MEIER

Funeral plans via telephone

In the middle of cleaning the bathrooms, a pretty mundane, dopey task in anybody's book, the phone rang. I'd picked up quite a bit of momentum at that point and was kind of on a roll in the downstairs bathroom when the jangling of the phone stopped me — dead in my tracks. I had to answer it. I mean, who knows? It could've been Ed McMahon and the Prize Patrol or something. You never know.

So I put my cleaning stuff down and hurried to the phone in the kitchen.

"Hello," I chirped into the receiver. I didn't want the person on the other end to detect bathroom cleaning drudgery in my voice. Whomever it was didn't need to know what I'd been up to. So I chirped my hello.

"Hello," a woman responded, thickly and heavily. "Is Mr. or Mrs. Mirror home?"

Oh, boy. A salesperson. She gave herself away the second she pronounced my name. That's always a dead giveaway.

So let me ask you this. What do you do in a situation like that, when you know it's a salesperson on the line. Here's what I do, if I'm feeling unruly. I'll say, "I'm sorry. You must have the wrong number. There are no Mirrors here." And really, it's not a lie, it's a misunderstanding.

But then other times I do the other thing; that is I'll say, "This is Mrs. Meier," and emphasize the pronunciation. And that seems to be just the ticket for these telemarketers. They launch into

Friends remember their alma mater

A 1985 newspaper article was the impetus for a group of Detroit Mackenzie High School alumni to take action. Since then, the Friends of Mackenzie has raised some $100,000 for its athletic program and scholarships.

BY MARY RODRIQUE
STAFF WRITER

Detroit's Mackenzie High — although part of a large, budget-strapped school system — has the latest sports equipment, new team uniforms, and annual scholarships for both male and female athletes, thanks to the generosity of students from a bygone era.

Friends of Mackenzie is a group of alumni now living in Livonia and other communities who have supported their alma mater to the tune of $100,000 over the past 10 years.

"What started it was an article in the Detroit News in 1985 about the plight of Detroit public schools," said Bob Griffin, former owner of Griffin Sporting Goods in Livonia.

"Teams didn't have equipment or uniforms and there was no money available. That was the year of our 35th class reunion," said Griffin, who graduated from Mackenzie in 1950.

A group of friends, all former high school athletes and successful business people, discussed the article at their class reunion and decided to take action.

"We have had a number of people who've been very successful in their careers," said Griffin, who was on Mackenzie's baseball team. "We decided it was time to give something back."

They brainstormed and came up with the idea of an annual golf outing.

"In July 1986, we had our first golf outing at Oak Point Golf Club in Brighton," he said. "We wanted to stay away from country clubs because we're looking to generate greater profits."

Each year the event in Brighton gets bigger and more profitable, and the next outing is already slated for July 29, 1996.

"We also have a brochure we mail to 2,000 alumni," said Griffin. "We sell caps, sweatshirts, glasses, and cups to raise revenue for the school. We usually have a booth at reunions, too.

"All the funds are dedicated to the young people of Mackenzie."

It's that philosophy that brought in Dean Lucier, class of '62, seven years ago. He heard about the annual golf outing from his sister, also an alumnus, and cajoled a few of his friends into attending.

The Orchard Lake resident, who is vice-president and chief technical officer of 360 Services in Livonia, now serves as president of the Friends of Mackenzie.

"It's an opportunity to give something back," said Lucier, who played baseball and football at Mackenzie and also ran track. "It's important to recognize that through other people's efforts, opportunities were created for us. It's time to give back.

"We have people involved from the 1930s right through the '90s. One of our earliest scholarship recipients just graduated from U-M and now she's back coaching at Mackenzie."

Some of the more illustrious members of Mackenzie alumni include actor Tom Skerritt, sportscaster Ray Lane, former Notre Dame all-star and current St. Louis Rams player Jerome Bettis, and Ford Motor Co. honcho Lou Ross. District court judges and attorneys are plentiful as well. Friends of Mackenzie is

Having an Oakwood Doctor is like having a Doctor in the family

Most families have someone that they turn to for advice and reassurance. A trusted individual who always seems to have the right answer or knows exactly what to say. That's what it's like having a doctor through the Oakwood Healthcare System.

Oakwood practitioners are caring, dedicated physicians who are fully involved in the healthcare of your family. From babies to adults, they provide the kind of care you want for your loved ones. Our physicians take the time to work with you to maintain your family's health. And they bring a wealth of experience to your care.

You can enjoy peace of mind knowing that excellent care is right in your neighborhood. Our facilities are conveniently located throughout Southeastern Michigan and offer a full range of specialty services and the latest in diagnostic technology. And at our hospitals, we offer 24-hour emergency care, should you ever need it.

For a referral to an Oakwood physician, please call 1-800-543-WELL. Most major insurances accepted including SelectCare, Blue Care Network and M-Care.

Committed to your health.

Hospice trees' ornaments remember loved ones

The holiday season is a time of joy for many, a time of sadness for others, and certainly remembrance for all. It is a time when people can remember a loved one (living or deceased) with an ornament on Community Hospice Services' sixth annual Tree of Memories or on Angela Hospice Home Care's Tree of Life.

CHS's Tree of Memories is on display in the food court of Wonderland Mall, Plymouth and Middlebelt roads in Livonia, through Dec. 24. People can make a tax-deductible donation and personalize a tag to hang on the tree. The message on the tag often is the name of a loved one, but some people take the time to write a detailed sentiment.

Bereaved people find that there are few others with which to share their pain during the holidays because it is supposed to be such a time of cheer. The Tree of Memories provides those grieving with a source of support as well as a safe place to acknowledge that things aren't the same.

"We find that this is the time of year when people want to remember someone special, whether they are living or deceased, and at the same time reach out to help others in need," said CHS executive director Maureen Butrico. "As a young child I lost my father and always felt sad around the holidays.

"It's too bad that a program like our Tree of Memories was not available then. I still miss him and look forward to placing an ornament on the tree each year in his memory."

All donations are used to offset many of the non-reimbursable costs associated with providing hospice services.

For more information on the 1995 Tree of Memories or Community Hospice Services, call (313) 522-4244.

A dedication ceremony was held Nov. 25 for Angela Hospice's Tree of Life, on display through Dec. 31 at Laurel Park Place, Six Mile and Newburgh roads in Livonia.

Celebrating its 10th year of service, Angela Hospice is inviting people to submit the names of loved ones, living or deceased, to be be placed on ornaments on the tree in exchange for donations to support its home care, inpatient care, day care, pediatric care and skilled home health care.

"Our patients have given us the gift and privilege of being able to care for them during their final stages of life," said Angela Hospice's director, Sister Mary Giovanni. "Our benefactors have given us the gift of their faith, their commitment, and their trust in the philosophy of hospice, and have ensured, through time and contributions, the success of our programs."

People can send the name of their loved ones (indicate whether it is in memory of or in honor of) with a tax-deductible donation to Angela Hospice, 14100 Newburgh Road, Livonia 48154-5010. For more information, call (313) 464-7810.

their "take no prisoners" and "take no breaths" pitch. They go in for the kill.

So anyway, that afternoon, once I'd provided the correct pronunciation of my name, the somber sounding lady indeed launched into her pitch. And throughout her speech, her soliloquy really, she remained somber sounding. No chipper chirp. No bubbly, effervescent, enthusiasm spilling over the phone wire. Only somber, solemn, serious. Dead serious. Which makes sense now. She was selling cemetery plots and funerals over the phone. That's right — funerals over the phone.

It was 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The sun was shining outside my window. Fantastick was wafting from the open bathroom door. Joe was painting a picture at the kitchen table; Jack was upstairs taking a nap. The two older children were at their desks in school learning about life, and the new baby inside me was kicking. And the house was decked out for the holiday season. And here's this cemetery lady talking about eternal resting places. On the phone. This was not a good time.

Actually, when I think about it, there is no good time to sell funerals over the phone to a 38-year-old woman who has every intention of living to 110; it's just not effective salesmanship.

I wasn't quite sure how to tell this somber lady that I wasn't prepared to talk or even think about this right then. So until such time that I could figure out a way to extricate myself from this morbid phone call, I listened. She moaned on and on in her quiet, parlor tones. She spoke of the common sense and the respect for the survivors preplanning would demonstrate. She spoke of counselors in my area, right now, trained and highly qualified in dealing with this sensitive subject, poised and eager to come right to my home to assist me, what evening would be convenient?

At that point I wanted to just quietly hang the phone up, maybe she wouldn't notice. She'd keep droning and moaning on and listening to herself perform her script. Pleased with the sound of her voice soothing the path to eternal rest. Pleased that her quota for somber, serious conversations over the phone with total strangers was nearly met.

How could this lady stand doing this? Selling funerals over the phone? How could anybody stand this? I know I couldn't. I wouldn't like it even if I were selling free money over the phone. Nobody wants to hear this stuff. I mean, sure I get lonesome for human adult voices now and then, in the middle of the day, like anybody else. And I relish unexpected breaks from bathroom doldrums. But this telemarketing jazz — it's never good. I've never wanted or needed anything being sold over the phone.

Always, and I mean always, telemarketers are unwelcome. They are unpleasant intruders, regardless of what it is they're selling and when they're selling it and why they're selling it. They could be selling world peace or an authentic genie's lamp complete with three wishes or light bulbs or siding or garbage bags or the Mona Lisa or a new long distance carrier or sides of beef or anything. Anything at all. I'm not buying it. Not now, not ever. No. No. No.

Telemarketers, I swear, they'll be the death of me yet.

Oh, wait. Wait a minute. I get it now. That telemarketing funeral phone lady was on to something after all.

Well, how do you like that?

a registered charitable organization.

"I guess the bond that ties us all together is sports," said Griffin. Before he retired from his sporting goods business, Griffin bought all the donated sports equipment at cost — stretching every donated dollar.

"They have certainly helped a lot of students over the years," said Bob Dozier, Mackenzie's athletic director and football coach, who has been at the school 25 years.

Dozier sits on the committee that selects three students each year to receive $2,500 athletic scholarships to the college of their choice.

"Part of the criteria is at least a 2.5 grade point average, and they must be an athlete," he said.

He praised the alumni group for all the good it has done in the past decade.

"The equipment benefits so many," he said.

The group is now planning a major fund-raiser to pay for its first endowment, the goal being to ensure one or more full, four-year scholarships. Anyone who would like more information may call Friends of Mackenzie at (313) 458-4023.

Sharp has stories worth the telling

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Florence Dinghy Sharp's life is one story after another — literally.

She is the great-granddaughter of Samuel Clement Moore, who created "A Visit from St. Nick," so storytelling is in her blood.

Sharp has used her talent in all aspects of life. She tells stories to entertain her children and grandchildren, or visitors to Detroit Storytellers League meetings.

Before retiring, the Commerce Township resident also used it as a tool to teach special education students in Farmington.

Recently, she shared the history of Moore's poem, more commonly called " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas," with the audience of Livonia Town Hall.

The story was created — not written — in 1822 by Moore, who recited it but never wrote it down. It first appeared in print in 1823 when a relative submitted it to a local newspaper.

Sharp said that her great-grandfather was furious.

"How dare you take something that I gave my children as a very special gift and give it away?" Sharp recalled him saying.

Since then, however, it has become one of the most popular holiday stories of all time.

Sharp is best known for her recounting of that poem, but she is open to telling "any kind of program that people would like to hear."

"I tell any kind of stories," she told the audience, adding that Indian and Oriental stories are among her favorites. "I've love to take you around the world and tell you stories from around the world."

She also can tell 15 versions of "Cinderella," which Sharp calls the oldest fable. The 2,000-year-old Chinese tale originally featured a fish as the fairy godperson.

Sharp brings stories to life with exaggerated gestures and an ever-changing voice.

Storytelling is a talent that Sharp picked up early in life.

"The only entertainment we had was story time and we were all great storytellers," said Sharp, who spends her winters in Green Valley, Ariz., south of Tucson.

Her children and grandchildren have yet to pick up on her talents.

"They think their grandmother is nuts," she said. "Everyone else goes to a legitimate job and all I do is tell wonderful stories. They don't know what to make of their grandmother.

"They do like to hear my stories, though."

A longtime member of the Detroit Storytellers League, Sharp is proud of her ability.

"Storytelling is the oldest oral tradition art in the world," she said. "It is an art and we work very hard at it. It precludes visual art and petroglyphs on caves."

Besides storytelling, Sharp spends her time collecting items relating to her favorite stories. This time of year her thoughts turn to Santa.

"I have so many Santas that I can't put them all away," she said. "My husband built me my own library downstairs. It has no chairs, because there isn't any room, so you have to sit on the floor."

Santa stories are special, she said, because their basic idea touches every culture.

"It's about a person who wants to give gifts to children during the darkest time of the year — the winter solstice," she explained. "You can use the Santa phenomena in every culture."

The next Livonia Town Hall luncheon will be Wednesday, Jan. 17. The lecture by veteran radio broadcaster Michael Whorf will feature many familiar voices — the stars, the stories, the little-known and seldom-heard — heard during his WJR radio show "Kaleidoscope." For more information, call Dee Dee Dittmar at (810) 474-7213.

Good story: With a great-grandfather known for a poem he told, rather than wrote, it's seems only natural that Florence (Dinghy) Sharp should have a knack for storytelling.

Holiday dressing: From shimmery separates to Dr. Seuss

BY ANNETTE ROGERS
SPECIAL WRITER

If variety is what you are wishing for when shopping for holiday gifts, this season's clothing trends offer everything from shiny, shimmery separates to Dr. Seuss sweat shirts.

The trend in holiday wear for women is to coordinate a glittery, new blouse, skirt or other accessory with a piece that they already own, according to Mary-Jelisse Bonello, assistant store manager for merchandising at Hudson's Westland.

"You can take a suit that is in your closet, add a shimmery dickie to it, and suddenly you're part of the new trend. What is nice about shiny accessories is that you can add them to something you own and dress it up to social without breaking the bank," she said.

At Hudson's, you can accessorize an outfit at retail prices of $20 for a shiny scarf, to $54 for a long-sleeved, dressy blouse. The motivation behind Hudson's merchandising trend this season is value, Bonello said.

"The idea is that you could put black and gold separates together and then combine the black piece with silver next year. If you go to a party every year, you don't always want to have to invest in a whole new outfit."

Women's and men's outfits for this year's holiday gatherings are influenced by the looks of the 1930s and 1940s. With women's skirt and sweater separates, "think Audrey Hepburn, very elegant and flattering, accentuating the waist," she said.

Adding to this look from the past is the '90s trend in jewel tones such as hot pink, teal, black and white in shiny blouses, added Bonello, who has spent six Christmas seasons with the retail department store.

Sears, which has local retail stores at Livonia Mall, Twelve Oaks and Fairlane, also is catering to "shine" for women this holiday season. Sears has sequins, satin, beads and metallic fabrics and trims which look sophisticated and festive on a wide selection of affordable apparel items.

Men's apparel from Sears consists of textured sweaters with traditional winter motifs and comfortable, denim shirts for casual office wear, holiday parties and gift-giving suggestions. For dressier occasions, they have suit separates that offered tailored looks.

At Joseph A. Bank, a men's specialty store in Livonia's Laurel Park Place, the 1930s and '40s clothing trend includes a favorite from last season, the three-button suit coat, according to Donna Bazzarelli, store manager.

"The three-button coat is bigger that ever this year, as is the double-breasted coat. The young men seem to like this look. It's pretty hot right now," she said.

Joseph A. Bank, which was primarily a women's and men's business clothing store, is now strictly a retailer for men. It has expanded its entire men's collection and now offers big and tall sizes and a line of casual office attire and sportswear, Bazzarelli said.

For those hard-to-buy-for men on your Christmas shopping list, Joseph A. Bank, also a catalog retailer, now has more to choose from in the store and also has more holiday items available. Men's clothing and gift items start under $20, added Bazzarelli.

In addition to its collection of silk holiday ties — featuring patterns of Christmas trees, winter scenes, Santas, and colored bulbs — the reversible, solid red/plaid red, wool vest is available as a gift item, or for men looking for a snappy outfit for their office party.

"Vests have been especially popular this year for men and are available in a merino wool style in a variety of colors, and in a dressy, tailored style are part of more and more suit ensembles as a third piece," Bazzarelli said.

Joseph A. Bank also has red suspenders, a variety of cuff links and collar bars, and for the formal holiday affair, they offer solid and plain cummerbund and bowtie sets to correspond with tuxedos, which are available to order, she said.

As a less formal alternative in holiday clothing, Hudson's has a Dr. Seuss collection for men, women and children, featuring a Christmas version of the childhood favorite.

Girls Scouts put the wraps on holiday gift giving

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

With nimble fingers, Jennifer Cristante attaches a bow and gift tag to the package she just finished wrapping. Once done, it gets added to a stack on a table in the corner.

The gifts aren't hers. They belong to a man who went from downtown Detroit to Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, and places in between, to gather up his gifts for Christmas 1995.

When he returns for his packages, Jennifer and her cohorts compliment him on his choice of gifts. How to speak to the customers was part of the training they received before manning the Girl Scout gift wrapping booth at Wonderland Mall in Livonia this year.

"It's fun," said Jennifer of her first venture into gift wrapping. "I'll probably be back next year."

A second time

This is the second year Cadet and Senior Girl Scout troops of the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council have had a gift wrapping booth at the mall at Plymouth and Middlebelt roads. Sixty-one girls from Livonia, Westland, Redford, Inkster, Detroit, Dearborn Heights, Novi and Farmington Hills along with as many adult volunteers are wrapping presents to raise money for scout activities.

"The cookie and calendar sales provide money for the normal trips, but this is for the bigger ones — Space Camp, Washington, D.C., Chicago," said adult volunteer Sue Roy of Livonia. "The council has a Wider Opportunities Program that the girls look at in the fall and then work to earn the money for the trip they select."

Jennifer and Erin Muldowney are among nine of 11 members of Cadet Troop 1805 at St. Michael's School in Livonia who are working at the booth to raise $350 per girl for a trip to Savannah, Ga., late next year.

"We were going to try to do pop bottle drives, but that took a lot more time because we had to plan it and then collect the bottles," said Erin, working her second three-hour shift at the booth. "This has been more fun."

Katie Olex, a member of Cadet Troop 1126 at St Genevieve School in Livonia, is earning money for a trip to Boston next year. Working her second shift, with three more to go before Christmas, she, like the other girls, admits she needed some help with her frist wrapping attempts.

"I needed some help the first time, but after that I got better," she said with a laugh.

"Here, we try not to waste ribbon and paper," explained Kathy Swan of Livonia, a neighborhood service unit director and Brownie leader. "We make our own bows and the girls fluff them. The first couple of weeks they made 4,000 name tags."

Roy, Swan and Diane Bergendahl, a neighborhood service unit director and junior troop leader, are coordinating the booth. It's the fourth year the scouts have done gift wrapping to raise money. The first two years, they were at Westland Mall.

Last year, the scouts raised $12,500 at two locations in the mall and hopes are to match that amount at their location near the mall's information booth this year.

1 shift, 2 shifts

The girls work three-hour shifts afternoon, evenings and weekends with adult supervision. The adult volunteers fill in during those hours the girls are in school. With two booths last year, the scouts worked 10-15 shifts, but with one location, the number of shifts per scout has dropped to five this year.

"We keep track of the time the girls work and what each troop contributes and divide the profits accordingly," said Roy. "Last year the girls made about $5 an hour. We've had a lot of new people join us this year and with so many new girls we could use another booth.

"We have campus scouts — girls in college — who come back the last week and help during the day. They'll come in handy this year with school running through to Dec. 22."

"It's really exciting to see the girls interested because when they get this age (seventh garde and up) it's not cool to be a Girl Scout," added Swan.

The gift wrapping isn't limited to purchases made at the mall and prices are based on the size of the package and if the Scouts provide the gift boxes. Last year, they wrapped a pool liner, a Smoky Joe cooker and a microwave oven. At the top of this year's list is a cat, but with two weeks to Christmas, the oddities will really begin showing up, Swan said.

"This guy brought it in a container and wanted us to wrap it so he could take it home to his girlfriend," She explained. "And leathers from Wilson's (Suede and Leather) seem to be popular."

The Scouts also offer a coat check service at the booth, a popular service with the morning mall walkers who prefer to stash their coats when the holiday rush starts, Roy said.

The booth will be open during mall hours up until 5 p.m. Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, and both Roy and Swan agree the scouts will be wrapping gifts well after that time.

"A majority of our business will be men or older people," Swan said. "And you'll find a whole line of men at the booth at 5 p.m. Christmas Eve."

It's no 'Hard Day's Night' finding gifts for music lovers

STAFF WRITER

Buying Christmas gifts for music lovers this year shouldn't be a tough job.

At the top of most music fans' list is probably "The Beatles Anthology, Vol. 1," (Capital, $27.99) the 60-track CD which features outtakes, rare live recordings as well as new songs "Free As A Bird" and "Real Love." Demo versions of "Love Me Do" and "Hard Day's Night" are on there.

If the music lover you're buying for already has "The Beatles Anthology," here are a few other ideas.

Staying in the Beatles vein, there's "Working Class Hero: A Tribute To John Lennon" (Hollywood, $16.99). It features a host of modern rock acts including the Red Hot Chili Peppers, Detroiters Sponge, Blues Traveler, and Collective Soul performing Lennon songs.

That's not the only tribute record. They're aplenty this season. Contemporary artists Rod Stewart, All-4-One, Amy Grant, Faith Hill, and Aretha Franklin with Bebe and Cece Winans pay tribute to Carole King's "Tapestry" (Atlantic, $16.99) album on "Tapestry Revisited: A Tribute to Carole King."

Nona Gaye leads the pack of artists who honor her father, Marvin, on "Inner-City Blues: The Music of Marvin Gaye" (Motown, $16.99). Other guests are Madonna with Massive Attack ("I Want You"), Stevie Wonder ("Stubborn Kind of Fellow"), and Boyz II Men ("Let's Get It On").

Live albums are also a hot commodity this holiday season. Phish and The Indigo Girls are among the artists who have crossed that rock 'n' roll milestone. The most recently released live album is "Bonnie Raitt Road Tested" (Capital, $25.99) which features duets with Bruce Hornsby, Bryan Adams, and Ruth Brown, Charles Brown and Kim Wilson. Raitt hits like "Love Letter" and "Something To Talk About," as well other people's hits like "Burning Down The House" are included on the double CD.

On the mellower side, Columbia records recently released the four-disc collection "The Best of the Columbia Years 1943-1952" ($56.99) complete with a 68-page accompanying booklet. Tony Bennett's tribute to some of the great female musical artists "Here's To The Ladies" (Columbia, $16.99) is sure to be a big seller as well.

If you're buying for a rock fan, there's plenty to chose from this year. There are always the hit records by Hootie and the Blowfish ("Cracked Rear View"), Goo Goo Dolls ("A Boy Named Goo"), White Zombie ("Astro Creep 2000"), Bush ("Sixteen Stone"), the Red Hot Chili Peppers ("One Hot Minute"), Sponge ("Rotting Pinata"), R.E.M. ("Monster"), Green Day ("Insomniac") and Live ("Throwing Copper"), along with the latest releases by Bruce Springsteen ("The Ghost of Tom Joad") and the Rolling Stones ("Stripped").

But if the person on your list is technologically correct, invest in some of the "enhanced" CDs or CD-ROMs that have been released by acts like Soundgarden, Rolling Stones, Monster Magnet, Emergency Broadcast Network, The Cranberries, Bush and the local band Skeleton Crew. (Most retail for $15-$30.) The CDs, many of which play music on a regular CD player as well, tap into the bands' creative process and show clips of live performances.

"Beverly Hills 90210" fans would enjoy Jamie Walters' self-titled debut (Atlantic, $16.99) featuring the songs "Hold On," "Why," and "No Rhyme, No Reason." Walters plays Donna's abusive ex-boyfriend, Ray Pruitt, on the hit TV show.

As for local releases, there's something to please every type of music listener. Stewart Francke's release "Where The River Meets The Bay" and the Charm Farm's third CD "Pervert" both feature hit songs. The singles "Kiss Kiss, Bang Bang" and "Expecting Heroes" by the singer/songwriter were featured on episodes of "Melrose Place" and are frequently played on CIDR ("The River" 93.9). The Charm Farm's disco-flavored song "Superstar" recently hit No. 1 on WHYT's (96.3) weekly countdown.

Big selection: From old standbys like Tony Bennett, Frank Sinatra and Marvin Gay to more recent stars like Skeleton Crew, finding a compact disc for someone may be difficult only in deciding which one to buy.

CANTON TOWNSHIP PLANNING COMMISSION
CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON, WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN pursuant to Act 184 of the Public Acts of 1943 of the State of Michigan, as amended, and pursuant to the Zoning Ordinance of the Charter Township of Canton that the Planning Commission of the Charter Township of Canton will hold a Public Hearing on Monday, January 8, 1995, at the Canton Township Administration Building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road at 7:00 p.m. on the following proposed amendments to the Zoning Ordinance.

ZILKA/BRITTON REZONING - CONSIDER REQUEST TO REZONE PARCEL 088 99 0021 000 FROM MR, MULTIPLE FAMILY TO R-4, SINGLE FAMILY RESIDENTIAL. Property is located north of Palmer Road between Sheldon and Morton Taylor Roads.

VIC GUSTAFSON, Chairman

Publish: December 14 and 28, 1995

SYNOPSIS
BOARD PROCEEDINGS
DECEMBER 5, 1995

Supervisor Yack called the meeting to order at 7:05 P.M.

ROLL CALL:
Members Present: Bennett, Burdziak, Kirchgatter, LaJoy, McLaughlin, Shefferly and Yack
Members Absent: None

STAFF PRESENT: Durack, Machnik, Spencer and Voyles

ITEM 1 UPDATE ON FIRE STRATEGIC PLAN.
Staff Present: Rorabacher and Santomauro

Director Santomauro presented Phase 1 of the Fire Strategic Plan regarding staffing levels.

ITEM 2 ANIMAL CONTROL.
Staff Present: Golles and Santomauro

Captain Golles gave a background on the history of animal control in Canton. Director Santomauro asked for direction from the Board on developing an animal control policy.

ITEM 3 BARTELL & BARTELL ORGANIZATION STUDY.
Also present (on speaker phone): Vic Dickinson, Bartell & Bartell

Supervisor Yack said that Bartell & Bartell and Plante & Moran were consulted to bring clarity to the Chief Financial Officer and Financial Services Manager positions and the study was then broadened to encompass the entire Financial Services operation. There was discussion on the recommendation to create a new position of Finance and Budget Services Director, moving Financial Services, including budgeting, accounting, purchasing and water billing, from the Administrative Services Department, and including the responsibility for overseeing the contracted tax assessment function. There was additional discussion on the recommendation to create an Accountant II position in the new department.

There was discussion on the recommendation to move Parks and Recreation Services from Municipal Services Department into ASD, renaming it Administrative and Community Services. He added that tax assessment services, though contracted, would be managed by the Finance and Budget Services Director.

Supervisor Yack adjourned the meeting at 10:18 P.M.

The above is a synopsis of discussion occurring at the Regular Board meting held on December 5, 1995. The full text of the approved minutes will be available following the next regular meeting of the Board on December 12, 1995.

Canton, Michigan 48188
(313) 397-5417

On or about January 2, 1996, the above named Municipality will request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release federal funds under Title I of the Housing & Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93.383) for the following projects located in the Charter Township of Canton:

1. PROJECT: Building Acquisition, Family Service Detroit and Wayne County.
   LOCATION: Canton Center Office Complex, Building II, 8508, 8510, 8512 Canton Center Road, Canton MI 48187.
   PURPOSE: Building acquisition and renovation.
   COST: $60,000.
   PROJECT: Community Center building (seniors and handicap accessible building elements) and grounds and landscaping and associated improvements, $150,000. (Release of funds only.) Continuing Relevance. This is for the final year (FY 1996) of a multi-year project; project total cost: CDBG $750,000. FY 1992: $150,000; FY 1993: $150,000; FY 1994: $150,000; FY 1995: $150,000; FY 1996: $150,000.
   LOCATION: 46000 Summit Parkway, Canton MI 48188.
   PURPOSE: Building construction (see above)
   COST: See above. Funds will not be available until FY 1996 authorization.

2. DETERMINATION: It has been determined that such requests for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the Charter Township of Canton has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190). The reasons for such decision not to prepare such a statement are as follows:

No significant impact was found as a result of the environmental assessment on each project.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the above projects has been made by the Charter Township of Canton which documents the environmental review of each project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination, and copying (for a fee), upon request, at the office of the Resource Development Division between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. No further environmental review of the projects is proposed to be conducted prior to the request for release of federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the Resource Development Division at the above described address. Such written comments must be received on or before December 29, 1995. All such comments so received will be considered and the Municipality will not request the release of federal funds or take administrative action on the within projects before the date specified in the preceding sentence.

3. CERTIFICATION: The Charter Township of Canton will undertake the project with Community Development Block Grant funds from the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under Title I of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1974. The Charter Township of Canton is certifying to HUD that the Charter Township of Canton and Thomas J. Yack, in his capacity of Township Supervisor, consent to accept the jurisdiction of the federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision-making, and action and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the Charter Township of Canton may use the Block Grant Funds and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Chief Executive Officer of the Applicant; or (b) that the Applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding or step applicable to the project in an environmental review process.

Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58) and may be addressed to HUD at: McNamara Federal Building, 17th Floor, 477 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48226. Objections to the release of funds on the basis other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after January 18, 1996 will be considered by HUD.

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Lorene C. Green:

I find your "Graphology Profiles" very interesting and wonder what you feel my handwriting reveals.

I normally print the things I write. I'm 25 years old and right-handed.

My one experience (at a high school party) with a handwriting analyst was more fortune telling than profiling. Therefore, I look forward to your review.

Thank you.

J.P.,
Northville

Before I begin to analyze this handwriting I would like to make an important statement. Graphology cannot reveal the future. It can, however, provide a word picture of the person's personality as he or she was at the time of writing.

It is always helpful to know why a person started to use printing rather than continue with cursive writing. However, whether one learned to print in school, or at a drafting table, or just adopted it for the purpose of legibility, it does reveal some talent for appraising a situation and/or a preference for intuitive thinking.

Printing can effectively hide many subtle aspects of one's personality and for that reason can be one of the signs of evasiveness. While printers often wish to communicate and be understood by others, they do not always make it easy for people to do this. As a result, they feel a certain amount of emotional isolation. So it is important for the graphologist to know just why one chooses to print.

As you know, there are many ways that a person processes information. In addition to using logic and intuition, our writer is investigative, probing and questioning as he learns. He accepts very little on blind faith. His innate curiosity about many things allows him to broaden and develop his mind. He may also be inclined to give others the benefit of his knowledge.

This handwriting suggests he may have a little problem with authority. Perhaps the parental standards were strict in his formative years.

The writer has a need to be in control. Before entering into a given situation he looks before he leaps. He examines the problem from all angles and then makes his decision based on reason and impartial judgment rather than emotion or whim. He is probably calm in an emergency situation. Appeal to his judgment rather than his emotions, if you want to win him over.

This is not a person to show his feelings and he may also have difficulty verbalizing them. Much of the time they are carefully guarded.

Daily life is quite well-organized. He probably prefers to accomplish things on his own rather than trying to fit in with a group.

He appears to have a working relationship with numbers or what they represent to him.

This young man is inclined to see the bright side of a situation or event. In most instances, he expects the best outcome, so I believe he lives with a positive attitude.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please write a few paragraphs about yourself, using a full sheet of white, unlined paper and writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful.

ANNIVERSARIES

Pecorilli

Former Livonia residents Guido and Stephanie Pecorilli were the guests of honor at a recent 50th wedding anniversary party, given by their sons at the Hawthorne Valley Country Club in Westland.

They couple exchanged vows on Dec. 29, 1945, in Detroit. She is the former Stephanie Perrone.

They moved to Livonia in 1962 and lived there until 1979 when they moved to Inverness, Fla.

The Pecorillis have three sons — Thomas of Commerce, Joseph of Grosse Ile and James of Westland — and six grandchildren.

Retired, he worked for General Motors for 30 years. His hobbies include dancing and biking. A homemaker, her interests include dancing and gardening. They are both active at the Lady of Fatima Catholic Church in Inverness.

Moro

It was the wedding they never had when George and Elizabeth Moro of Garden City celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

The Moros were the bride and groom of a mock wedding, staged by Velma Sabo's Hungarian Dance Group of Allen Park at a surprise party Oct. 22. The Moros exchanged wedding vows on Oct. 24, 1945, in Detroit. She is the former Elizabeth Vass.

The surprise party was given by their children — George of Taylor, Thomas of Allen Park, Kathy of Howell, Daniel of Romulus and Jim of Garden City. They also have two grandchildren.

The dancers were the bridesmaids and dressed the couple as a Hungarian bride and groom for a "renewed" marriage ceremony performed by William Sarkett. The party also included the traditional bridal dance with music by a Hungarian gypsy orchestra.

The Moros cut and tasted their wedding torte cake and joined guests at dinner, catered by their son, Daniel. It was also a family affair with daughter Kathy catching the bridal bouquet and her fiance Ron nabbing the garter.

Retired and a member of the Eagle Club, he enjoys cooking and gardening. Her interests include crocheting, bingo and the Hungarian Dance Group. They have lived in Garden City for 25 years.

Leonard

William Augustine and Margaret Leonard will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Friday, Dec. 15.

They will be joined by their children for a family dinner celebration at the Dearborn Inn. In the spring, the Leonards will take all three generations to Barbados.

The couple exchanged vows on Dec. 15, 1945, in Pittsburgh, Pa. She is the former Margaret Cauley.

They have lived in the Plymouth area for 40 years and have two married children — Biff and Luanne Leonard of San Diego, Calif., and Steve and Sue Danen of Oconomowoc, Wis. They also have five grandchildren — Catherine and William Leonard and Kristine, Aubrey and Tyler Danen.

He is a member of Plymouth Kiwanis and Our Lady of Good Counsel where he was a former business administrator. He also is a former member of the Plymouth Planning Commission.

He retired in 1980 from Autocrat Manufacturing and Firestone and enjoys bridge, golf and attending theater productions.

She is a member of the Plymouth Study Club, the Plymouth Council on Aging, Our Lady of Good Counsel and P.E.O. She is a former hygienist assistant for the fluoride program in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Forest Hills offers lots of choices in Orion

The great majority of the 82 lots at Forest Hills in Orion Township, a site condominium community, back up to nature preserves or a school playground.

That's a major selling point in the subdivision on Joslyn just west of Waldon.

"You have open area and a lot of wetlands all around the subdivision," said John Vincenti, owner of Tri-Mount Development. "Only a handful of lots don't back up to open space."

There are other draws.

"Orion Township (Lake Orion) now is perceived as a pretty good school district," Vincenti said. An elementary school and middle school are within walking distance.

"It is close to I-75 — what is it, about three minutes?" Vincenti said. "That has to be a major factor.

"We feel we have the best buy for the money," he said. "We offer three distinctive homes. We feel these three models should satisfy the desires of people who want to buy houses in this price range."

A 1,634-square-foot ranch can be had for $163,490, a story and a half of 2,081 square feet for $173,490 and a 2,152-square-foot colonial for $173,990.

each include first floor laundry, fireplace, dishwasher, attached two-car garage and basement.

The ranch features three bedrooms, two baths and an open kitchen, eating area, family room with cathedral ceiling and a fireplace in the family room.

The master has a separate tub and shower, dual sink vanity, walk-in closet and sloped ceiling.

The colonial has a traditional first floor plan — living room, dining room, kitchen/eating nook, family room with cathedral ceiling and fireplace. It also has a study with cathedral ceiling and half bath.

Four bedrooms and two baths are upstairs. The master has a separate tub and shower, walk-in closet and cathedral ceiling.

The story and a half has a kitchen, dining area and family room with fireplace and sloped ceiling.

The master, with a dual sink vanity, separate tub and shower, walk-in closet and sloped ceiling, also is on the main floor.

The upstairs in the model has been fashioned to include an open loft, two bedrooms and a full bath. Additional bedrooms may replace the loft.

"Anybody looking for something a little different, we're happy to have them go to our architect and design something special for them," Vincenti said.

Exterior materials are brick, vinyl siding and wood trim.

Forest Hills is serviced by city water and sewers. There are no sidewalks in the sub.

The property tax rate currently is $27.75 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $173,000 condo would pay about $2,400 the first year.

Annual association fee for maintenance of the entrance and cul-de-sacs plus snow removal is $169.

"I think we've got basically all the hot buttons people look for — privacy, a treed lot, a house that backs up to an open area," said Gary Coogan, sales coordinator.

"It's close to I-75 which gives direct freeway access in the metro area to anywhere they want to go," he said. "We're surrounded by hills. Bald Mountain Recreation Area is close by. Value for the money is there."

Coogan said he doesn't believe large utility power lines behind part of the property will deter sales.

"It hasn't been an issue," he said. "There's been enough things written there hasn't been a problem."

Melodie and Michael LeRoy, along with children Cassie, CammieLee and Christian, were the first family to move into the sub.

"The first thing I loved about it is it had grown trees," Melodie said. "I liked the fact they were only going to build 82 homes and the schools were out our back door and front door."

Melodie said she likes the spaciousness of their colonial.

"It's been one of the most helpful, delightful (building) crews I've ever seen," she said. "They bent over backwards."

Doug and Pam Czajkowski also purchased a colonial.

"The layout of the sub and trees were a big factor in our decision," Pam said. "Specifically, I like the openness, windows and the fact we have a dining room and living room. We do a lot of entertaining or plan to.

"The builder's supervisor and assistant took great pride in the work," she added. "They even pointed out things in the walk-through I didn't catch."

The sales office at Forest Hills, (810) 391-3472, is open 1-6 p.m. daily.

Valdez provides room for do-it-yourselfers

For a study kit of the Valdez (403-09), send $10, to Landmark Designs, P.O.Box 2307-OE48, Eugene, OR 97402 (Be sure to specify plan name & number). For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular house plans, send $20 to Landmark, or call 1-800-562-1151.

The do-it-yourself person in your household will surely appreciate the advantages offered by the Valdez floor design. Over 900 square feet of garage space, including a built-in workbench, provides enough room for a complete shop set-up. There are many other features incorporated into the two levels of the 2,902-square-foot Valdez that will please the entire family.

A huge covered front porch is a welcome sight to visitors. It will soon become a favorite spot to sit and relax on warm summer evenings. Step inside the vaulted entry, and the openness of the main floor becomes evident. The vaulted family/living room, kept cozy by a well-situated fireplace, is the primary gathering place on this level. This is the spot where you will want to put your feet up after dinner and catch the news on television. If the weather is agreeable, open the sliding glass door and set a lounge chair on the wrap-around wooden deck.

The walk-through kitchen has been thoughtfully arranged, with the spacious breakfast nook on one side and the formal dining room on the opposite. This configuration permits the cook in the house to serve a multi-course meal or quick snack with ease. Kitchen features include an island cooktop, garden window, double ovens and handy walk-in pantry.

The isolated master suite provides complete privacy in an attractive atmosphere. Plenty of windows give you a great view, and the whole room brightens when you pull back the drapes. In addition to a large sleeping area, the amenities here include a walk-in closet and private bathroom with twin basins and spa tub.

The basement level begins with an enormous activity room. There is enough space here for a pool or Ping-Pong table, big-screen TV, a couple of couches, etc. There is also a corner hobby room with direct access to the garage. There are two separate storage areas, one an ample walk-in closet, and the other a good-sized room that can be easily converted for use as a home office. Completing the floor plan on this level are a second bedroom and full bathroom.

BY JOHN D. MCCLAIN
AP NEWSFEATURES

WASHINGTON — Despite the lowest mortgage rates in nearly two years, consumers concerned with a sluggish economy again balked at buying houses in October and drove new home sales down for a third straight month.

■ 'The housing sector has shown a yellow flag. Even with falling mortgage rates, the housing sector is slowing.'

David Lereah
economist

"The housing sector has shown a yellow flag," said economist David Lereah of the Mortgage Bankers Association. "Even with falling mortgage rates, the housing sector is slowing."

Michael Carliner, an economist with the National Association of Home Builders, agreed, saying a November membership survey "suggest the next couple of months will not be too good either."

Following the lead of existing home sales and housing starts, new home sales fell in October, down 2.7 percent to a seasonally adjusted 673,000 annual rate, smallest since 667,000 last May, the Commerce Department said Friday.

Sales fell in every region except for the South and, in the Northeast, plunged to the lowest level in 13 years.

The report also disproved the department's earlier estimate that the July-September period experienced some of the strongest sales in two years.

After jumping 8 percent in June, to a 781,000 rate, sales initially were thought to have remained above 700,000 for the next three months, marking the first four-month stretch at that level since September-December 1993.

But sales in September, initially reported to have risen 3.3 percent to a 727,000 rate, actually fell 1 percent to 692,000. And sales also were revised below 700,000 for July and August.

The latest figures surprised most analysts, who thought that falling mortgage rates would keep sales above 700,000 despite a slowing economy.

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. reported that 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages averaged 7.48 percent in October, lowest since they averaged 7.15 percent in February 1994. Rates, which were above 9 percent as the year began, dropped to 7.18 percent this week.

The monthly payment on a $100,000 mortgage with a 7 percent interest rate is $665, while the payment on the same loan with a 9 percent rate is $805 — a difference of $140.

"Basically, it's telling us that rates are not the only game in town," the Mortgage Bankers' Lereau said. "Somehow, we've got to get wages up, incomes up, job growth up."

Still, Lereah said he thought low mortgages will keep the market from falling farther.

"I hope we can sustain the current level for the remainder of the year," he said. "The current level, while not strong, is healthy."

Carliner of the Home Builders agreed that "housing remains healthy in most parts of the country."

Sales of new homes for the first 10 months of the year were 1.5 percent below the same period of 1994. The October sales rate was 4.8 percent below that of the same month a year ago.

The latest report means the seasonally adjusted estimate of new houses for sale at the end of October was 360,000, representing a supply of 6.5 months at the current sales rate. It was the largest inventory since a 362,000 rate in April 1990.

The median price of a new home jumped to $133,400 in October, from $129,100 in September and $132,000 a year ago. The median is the midpoint, meaning half the homes cost more and half cost less.

Regionally, sales rose 2.3 percent in the South, to a 311,000 annual rate.

But they fell in the Northeast, down 2.3 percent to a 42,000 rate, lowest since a 38,000 rate in August 1982.

Sales also dropped in the West, down 7.9 percent to 197,000; and in the Midwest, down 5.4 percent to 123,000.

Taking inside walls down can make old homes new

(AP) — There is nothing carved in stone about the position of interior walls in your home.

These partitions were built where they are either to perform some structural duties that would have been too costly to accomplish another way or to suit the interior design fashions of the day. But, as times change, tastes also change, and building methods change, too. What was considered convenient and attractive in the 1950s — to say nothing of the 1850s — is often cumbersome when matched with present-day lifestyles.

■ In the past 20 years, one of the most notable design shifts has been the move toward opening up greater interior space in a home. The clearest example of this is seen in the Great Room concept, where a designer extends the boundaries of a particular room so it becomes multifunctional.

In the past 20 years, one of the most notable design shifts has been the move toward opening up greater interior space in a home. The clearest example of this is seen in the Great Room concept, where a designer extends the boundaries of a particular room so it becomes multifunctional.

The most popular candidate has been the kitchen, where home buyers seem to feel that bigger is not only better, it's essential. They want plenty of room for food preparation as well as dining and entertaining.

While this is all well and good for new home buyers, owners of older homes can achieve similar results. Frequently, all that's required is the removal of an interior wall, or at least part of one. And, depending on the situation, the job can be a good deal easier than many people would think.

In fact, the flat archway installed in an older home built in the early 1900s had a kitchen with a large adjoining pantry that had a big window with a pleasant view. This room provided a great deal of storage space, but it was terribly inconvenient.

Homeowners were willing to sacrifice the storage space to get a comfortable eating area inside the kitchen and to enjoy the light and view from the window. So, the wall was removed. It took only two days for two people to tear out the old wall, install a new header and patch the plaster. Painting, wallpapering and laying a new floor took longer, but they always do.

This may sound a little too simple, and in some ways it is. It's true that any wall can be moved or removed. The real issue is how many problems you are willing to overcome, and this usually means how much money you are willing to spend.

To decide, you have to discover a couple of things. The first is what, if any, structural purpose the wall serves. The second is what, if any, mechanical systems (plumbing, heating, electrical wiring) run through the wall. Solving the structural problem is usually much easier than rerouting plumbing, heating, and electrical systems.

To figure the wall's structural duties, you'll have to go exploring. This is best done by removing a 16-inch square section of ceiling next to the wall. It can be repaired later. Shine a flashlight into this access hole to see how the ceiling joists above the wall are positioned. If they run parallel to the top plate of the wall, then the wall you want to remove bears no weight on its own. It can be removed without disturbing the structure of the house.

If, however, the joists are perpendicular to the wall, you have a load-bearing wall and must replace the support provided by its studs with a new header. Some walls may not be load-bearing even if the joists do run across them, mostly short walls defining closet spaces. If you can feel or see the end of a joist resting on top of the wall, you know it's a load-bearing wall.

If you must install a header, you have two options: A dropped header can be installed by a competent do-it-yourselfer but a flush header is a contractor job. A dropped header spans the width of the opening end and is supported on both ends by jack studs like the headers over windows or doors.

Mechanical systems inside the wall usually show on the surfaces in the form of light switches, radiators or registers, and faucets or drains. If there are none visible, you could still have lines leading upstairs.

Electrical changes are easier than plumbing or heating. You can take a peek by removing the trim baseboard and wallboard behind it. Use care on quality trim so it can be reused. If you find plumbingor ductwork, call in a contractor for an estimate. If you find nothing but dust and dead air, you can remove it without problems.

Drywall makes less dust and debris, but lath and plaster construction calls for sealing off the room to protect the rest of the house. Use polyethylene sheets and masking tape to seal all doors. Wear gloves and a respirator. Carry out the debris and vacuum up the mess as you go.

You can install a doubled 2-by-10-inch header with a one-half-inch plywood spacer to span a 10-foot gap without building temporary support walls. Simply turn the studs 90 degrees which leaves room for one header.

When it's in place on the jack studs, remove the wall and install the spacer and the doubler. A 12-foot opening calls for doubled 2-by-12s with a similar spacer. A bathroom or heavy furnishings like a piano or wall-size bookcases above mean you should consult a contractor.

Shopper's 'heaven': As an external nun, Sister Miriam has the job of running the gift shop at the Monastery of the Blessed Sacrament in Farmington Hills.

Gift shop is blessed effort

BY DIANE GALE
STAFF WRITER

Looking for a gift for that someone special?

If the person happens to be religious, forget about roaming the malls or staring aimlessly at cable television's shopping channels. And throw away those catalogs.

Add that special touch to your gift giving by wrapping an item that can't be found anywhere else. You can be sure your present won't be a duplicate when you shop at Farmington Hills' best-kept secret — the gift shop at the Monastery of the Blessed Sacrament on 13 Mile and Middlebelt roads.

The extensive array of items are housed in a cubby hole next to the Blessed Sacrament chapel. It's open Monday through Sunday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

You will find anything from ornaments, rosaries and christening gowns to icons, table mats, lace and a book collection.

Christmas wreaths, door hangings, table settings and much, much more are on display. And the stock is always changing, so if you've been there once you won't necessarily know what you'll find the next time.

Most of the art work is done by the Dominican cloistered nuns living at the Farmington Hills monastery. Many of the items are one of a kind and can't be found anywhere but at the gift shop.

If you're looking for something with an angel theme, this is a good place to try. There are angel plaques, angel ceramic wall hangings, glass angel candles and much more.

There are ornaments, greeting cards made from herbs and flowers taken from the monastery grounds.

"It's an extension of our spirituality," Sister Miriam said explaining that the Dominican order is designed to preach the word and one way to do that is through the religious books that are sold.

With the opening of the gift shop last January, many of the 40 cloistered nuns work on projects to be sold.

The monastery is self-sufficient meaning it depends on donations of money and food from the public and what can be earned in the gift shop.

"Probably what people come here most for are the books," Sister Miriam said. "People have so many questions about their faith. They need examples of how Christians live their lives and more about the doctrine of faith."

The book section started out small and has grown.

"It keeps getting bigger and bigger," she said. "The most important aspect is to make good books available to people who want to grow in their own spiritual life in relation to God."

Rev. Daniel Perry

Grace Baptist Church welcomes new pastor

There's a new face in the pulpit of Grace Baptist Church of Livonia with the installation of Rev. Daniel Perry as pastor.

Perry, 40, began his new duties on Oct. 22. A native of Garden City, he graduated from Hartland High School, Belleville College and Tennessee Temple University.

A U.S. Air Force veteran, he was working as a public safety officer when he accepted the call into church ministry in 1984. He has ministered at churches in Tennessee, Colorado and Michigan before accepting the call at Grace Baptist Church.

Married and the father of three children, Perry brings to the pulpit extensive experience in Bible preaching and teaching and sensitive, sympathetic pastoral care.

Grace Baptist Church is at 28440 Lyndon at Harrison, Livonia. For more information, call the church at (313) 425-6215.

Husband & wife are crafty team

ART EMANUELE/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Country Christmas: Edith Lennox with some of her handcraft decorative accents for the home or gift giving. The items are on display at the Livonia Civic Center Library.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN • SPECIAL WRITER

Three years ago Bill Lennox quit his job as department of public works director for the Midland area to join his wife Edith in running their Freeland, Mich., craft business. She does all the decorative painting. He does the woodcraft. Together, the husband and wife team create home accents in a style they refer to as country Victorian.

If you're looking for a holiday candle holder sporting a snowman, or an angel decked in gold for your home for the holidays, don't miss their exhibition, "A Country Christmas" at the Livonia Civic Center Library.

Sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission, the display offers festive items ranging from $10.95 for a candleholder to $125 for a table-size hand carved Santa on a toboggan. Miniature primitive oil landscapes on Bill's hand-crafted rectangular jewelry boxes at $85 demonstrate Edith's more than 30 years of painting experience.

Unlike most stand-up figures by crafters, the Lennoxes carolers, angels, and Mr. and Mrs. Claus are three dimensional. Arts commissioner Lee Alanskas, who books the showcase exhibits, first spotted Edith's and Bill's wares at the Livonia Arts and Crafts Festival held at Greenmead Historical Village in June. The couple does more than 30 shows a year including the Ann Arbor Summer Art Fair, Wyandotte Street Art Fair, Crosby Gardens Fair in Ohio, and Frankfort Fall Festival in Illinois.

"Most people would know us for our 16-inch grapevine wreaths with wood insets of seasonal, nautical, and lighthouse themes," said Edith who studied European folk arts, tole and decorative painting, primitive landscape, pen and ink drawing, and portraiture for seven years.

"Everything's hand-painted and my own design, many of which are protected under copyrights dating from 1984. To me, designing is the most fun, coming up with new ideas."

There are no eight-hour days at the Lennoxes Now-n-Then Decorative Art Studio. They take off a few days at Christmastime then start preparing for the spring rush of arts and crafts shows.

Edith, 59 and Bill, 58 met while attending high school in Ionia. After three children and 39 years of marriage they feel blessed to be doing work they both love.

"My husband is a stickler for quality. He keeps me in quality all the time."

A COUNTRY CHRISTMAS

WHAT: The Livonia Arts Commission sponsors an exhibit of decorative painting on wood by Edith and Bill Lennox.

WHEN: Through Dec. 29. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, until 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday, and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

WHERE: Second floor showcases at the Livonia Civic Center Library, Five Mile Road east of Farmington.

SPECIAL EVENT

Champion skater: Two-time Olympic silver medalist and eight-time Canadian National Champion Brian Orser portrays Drosselmeir in "Nutcracker on Ice."

Ice kings and queens present 'Nutcracker'

STAFF WRITER

When "Nutcracker on Ice" comes to the Palace of Auburn Hills on Friday, Dec. 22, Troy skater Jennifer Wesley will experience a homecoming.

As she performs her role as Perouette, the wind-up doll Clara gets for Christmas, watching in the stands will be mom and dad, Pat and Larry Wesley of Troy, and younger brother and sister, Andy and Kathleen. There will be pals from the Berkeley Skating Club, but probably most exciting of all – fellow skater and "Nutcracker on Ice '94" alumnus Togie Gwyn, her fiance, will be there.

"The show closes Dec. 30 and we're getting married in Las Vegas Dec. 31," said Jennifer in a phone interview from Anaheim, Calif..

"Nutcracker on Ice" stars Olympic gold medalist Peggy Fleming, two-time Olympic silver medalist Brian Orser, as well as figure skating luminaries Nicole Bobek and Todd Eldredge, residents of Troy and Bloomfield Hills respectively.

The holiday spectacular is based on Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker", the story of a young girl, Clara, who receives a Nutcracker doll as a Christmas present from her godfather, Drosselmeier. With the help of a little magic, the doll comes to life in her dreams.

"I've never seen the ballet, but I did the (ice) show last year," said Jennifer, who is a 1988 graduate of Troy High School.

"I guess it's similar to the ballet, but not exactly the same. Last year, we were at Joe Louis Arena locally."

After Anaheim, the production moves to San Francisco, then Phoenix, Washington state, right on through to Chicago, Detroit, and points south and east to Richmond, Va.

"It's just one night in each arena," she said.

Jennifer started ice skating when she was 8 years old. She started competing the following year and won her first gold medal at age 10. That's still the award she treasures the most.

"It was a local competition in Novi," she said.

She started performing in ice shows right out of high school, and it has been her work for eight years now.

"It's addicting, performing in a large arena – the audience, the applause. I perform year round," she said.

Her fiance is presently coaching skaters in Charlotte, N.C., and Jennifer looks forward to teaching young skaters together when she's not on the road performing. At 25, performing is something she is not ready to give up on yet.

"And I'll probably do Nutcracker again next year," she said.

Nicole Bobek plays the role of Clara. She won her first U.S. National Championship in February, followed by a bronze medal performance at the 1995 World Championships held in England in March.

Todd Eldredge, who portrays the Nutcracker Prince, became the youngest U.S. Champion in 24 years. He has won U.S. titles at all three levels – novice, junior and senior.

Two-time Olympic silver medalist and eight-time Canadian National champion Brian Orser, one of the greatest competitors in the history of figure skating, portrays Drosselmeir.

A five-time U.S. champion, three-time world champion and an Olympic gold medalist, Peggy Fleming, who plays the role of the Sugar Plum Fairy, has established herself as one of the greatest figure skaters of all time.

Hurley knows the story better than anyone because he's worked 15 years with Mr. B's Restaurant Group. Memphis Smoke is not another Mr. B's, it's a whole new concept within the corporation that was two years and countless Memphis visits in the making.

"At the beginning, we had a number of ideas," Hurley said. "Texas BBQ was one of them. Then someone in the company suggested Memphis. We went there and fell in love with the style of cooking. We've imitated what we liked from the many places we visited and have added our own twists."

Hurley believes people are hungry for home cooking, but don't have time to do it well. "Garlic mashed potatoes are the most popular side," he said. "People want comfort food in a relaxed environment and that's what we're about. We're in Royal Oak because it's happening on Main Street."

The rustic, Ron Rea design, offers patrons a bare bones swine dining experience in a wide-open, animated, noisy, fun atmosphere. Pigs reign here. You get the message — they're everywhere, hanging from the ceiling, gracing the bar and staring at you from one of the walls. If you're a photography buff, the large black and white prints, hung high on the walls, deserve a second take. They dramatically and strikingly represent Memphis scenes in a way that only black and white photography can.

Memphis Smoke bespeaks informality. When was the last time you had water served in a blue plastic Pepsi glass? Getting seated for dinner around 6:00 p.m. early in the week is not a problem. Lines form around 7 p.m., but on Friday and Saturday nights, the place is jammed with all 200 seats taken. In order to secure a table call, one person in the party "trades" a driver's license for a beeper. When a table comes up, the procedure is reversed.

Head BBQer is executive chef Gerard Fowler who was trained in the Oakland Community College, Farmington Hills Campus chefs apprentice program and has cooked at several Mr. B's locations. He explained that over half the Memphis "Q" spots serve dryrub rather than wet (with sauce) ribs. Fowler gives the rib rack a courtesy cut to make it easier to handle at the table.

Al Fadool of Livonia declared himself a "wet man" and said this was his third visit for ribs. "I like ribs with sauce because I think they're spicier," he said. Fadool likes the Memphis Smoke atmosphere, praised the BBQ Drummies as an appetizer and in addition to his wet ribs, gave high marks to the garlic mashed potatoes and collard greens as sides.

For those unfamiliar with Memphis-style ribs, Hurley suggested a combo which would be a half rack of dryrub and half rack of wet ribs. This option is not on the menu, but Hurley said it could be requested. The standard menu BBQ combo offers two or three choices from among the eatery's dinner items and is also an easy way to sample finger-lickin' good.

By northern cooking standards, the Pulled Pork is unique. Lean pork shoulder is hickory smoked for over 14 hours, then pulled from the bone and covered with warm house-style BBQ sauce. If you prefer dryrub ribs, then Pulled Pork or BBQ chicken are good choices to sample the delicious sauce.

Memphis Mud made with Oreo cookies, chocolate pudding and whipped cream is a dessert with tradition. The Lemon Ice Box Pie will satisfy any sweet tooth.

Hurley said the City of Royal Oak recently approved valet parking for the restaurant.

FINE ARTS

D & M Art Studios opens Plymouth shop

Artbeat features various happenings in the suburban arts world. Send news leads to: Arts editor, Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150, or fax them to (313) 591-7279.

■ HOLIDAY SHOP

Just in time for the gift buying season, D & M Art Studios has opened shop at 710 N. Mill Street in Plymouth's Old Village.

Oils and watercolors by Sharon Dillenbeck of Canton Township and oil impasto paintings by Hugh Burley of Ann Arbor remain on exhibition through Dec. 24.

Featured is Dillenbeck's "Forgotten Friends" painting of toys that was on display at the Plymouth Historical Museum last year. Collector mugs, T-shirts and reproductions after the painting are also on sale. Prices range from $1.50 to $2,500.

A Christmas Kids Only Workshop will be offered Friday, Dec. 15, at the studio, and Dec. 15-16 at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Children will be able to make ornaments, wood crafts, paintings, and prints for gift giving.

■ ARTBEAT

D & M Art Studio hours are noon to 4 p.m. Wednesday and Sunday, until 7 p.m. Thursday, 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Friday, and noon to 2 p.m. Saturday. For more information about the workshops or exhibition call D & M at (313) 453-3710.

"Forgotten Friends" collector mugs, T-shirts and reproductions are also available at Amour Flowers in Canton Township.

■ JUST ARRIVED

New ceramics by Gary Wilson, associate professor of art at Monroe Community College, have arrived at The Art Gallery in Sheridan Square, 30000 Ford Road, Garden City.

The gallery now stocks 50 of Wilson's clay works dealing primarily with religious themes and biblical figures. Also, new are watercolors by Ann Arbor architect Dan Berry from his series "The Alleys of Ann Arbor."

Gallery hours for the holidays are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday. For an appointment during off-hours call Norma McQueen, (313) 261-0379.

■ GIANT INSECT SCULPTURE

The Livonia Arts Commission presents "Things That Go Bump in the Night," an installation of art by Carl Komulsky through Dec. 28 in the Fine Arts Gallery on the second floor of the Livonia Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile Road east of Farmington.

Komulski, a Grosse Pointe Park resident, has been an arts instructor at Wayne County Community College since 1969. Don't miss the large-scale three dimensional grasshopper/cricket. It's fun.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, until 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday, and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

TRAVEL

Snow train: Algoma Central's Snow Train uses refurbished cars, featuring large windows, allowing excellent views of the curving route through spectacular scenery.

Tour Agawa Canyon on the Snow Train

The Bluewater Michigan Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society is offering a three-day "Snow Train" rail/bus excursion to the snow-blanketed, rugged wilderness of northern Ontario from the metro Detroit area Feb. 10-12.

Let the Bluewater Michigan Chapter transport you to Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario by motorcoach from Dearborn and Birmingham with two nights at the Ramada Inn, a full day aboard the Snow Train to Agawa Canyon, and a homeward bound dinner at the Bavarian Inn of Frankenmuth.

The cost is $299 per person, double occupancy, or $345 single occupancy and features seven meals. This year's trip also features a first class luxury option for an added $250 per person with a limited number of spaces available in one of the Algoma Central's private cars, including two sumptuous meals served by your own private attendant.

For more information, or to make reservations, contact the Bluewater Michigan Chapter (810) 399-7963 or write to: Bluewater Michigan Chapter, NRHS, P.O. Box 296 Royal Oak, MI 48068-0296.

Motor coaches will leave Dearborn's Civic Cener parking lot at 8 a.m. and the parking lot south of Norman's Eton St. Station at Maple and Eton in Birmingham 9 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 10. A lunch stop will be made at the landmark Sugar Bowl in Gaylord. Saturday and Sunday night buffets will be at the Ramada Inn.

Early Sunday morning, the group will ride the train through the spectacular Agawa Canyon. Passengers will ride through Searchmont and other hamlets, some of which are linked to the outside world only by the rails of the Algoma Central Railway. Breakfast and lunch will be served in the dining car. The group will return Monday evening.

The Snow Train uses refurbished cars, featuring large picture windows, allowing excellent views of the curving route. For nostalgia buffs, the "Snow Train" is now pulled by classic "F-unit" streamlined diesel locomotives, and features steam heated cars, something that no longer can be experienced in the United States.

'Sabrina' remake dumbs down

JOHN MONAGHAN

Time has been kind to "Sabrina." The 1954 film has often been called a misstep in director Billy Wilder's hot-at-the-time career and a near-disastrous case of miscasting for Humphrey Bogart (in one of his final films), a role that should have gone to Cary Grant.

All was forgiven in the presence of Audrey Hepburn, the ethereal actress who breathed life into the hackneyed Cinderella story of a chauffeur's daughter who gets romantically involved with both of the eligible bachelors her family works for.

The inevitable "Sabrina" remake, opening this weekend, takes the original's few joys and dumbs them down for a holiday audience.

This new Sabrina (Julia Ormond) still watches the elaborate Larrabee parties from the treetops, but instead of a slightly gawky, love-struck kid, she's a geekier-than-necessary woman with glasses and a mass of frizzy hair down to her waist. She longs for the youngest brother David (Greg Kinnear), the billionaire playboy featured in a Gap ad, his greatest accomplishment.

She, meanwhile, gets a three-month stint in Paris as a photo assistant for "Vogue." Having "found herself" on the romance-lined streets of Paris, she returns with a fashionably short haircut, tailored clothes, and a little makeup, such a beauty that the none-too-bright David fails to recognize her and falls in love.

Older brother Linus (the Bogart part, now Harrison Ford) doesn't like it one bit, especially when it jeopardizes David's strategic marriage into a powerful family the Larrabees want to do business with. Linus, in the best interests of the company, decides to woo the girl himself.

BRIAN HAMILL

Romantic classic: Harrison Ford and Julia Ormond star in "Sabrina" a remake of the 1954 romantic classic about two wealthy brothers whose affection for the same woman, the chauffeur's daughter, arouses romantic dilemmas.

The movie basks in its sumptuous locales, from Paris vistas with Eiffel Tower in the distance to the grandness of the Larrabee estates and offices. Even the tennis courts where young David used to lure his conquests have turned into an elaborate solarium.

Julia Ormond, a likable actress from "Legends of the Fall" and "First Knight," tries her best in the title role, but she's as two-dimensional as a cover model. Especially lacking is the relationship with her father, a bookworm who worries mostly to himself about his daughter's entrance into high society.

When Sabrina frets openly about the two classes mingling, Linus reminds her, "It's the '90s." It sure is, especially when Linus, starting to soften under Sabrina's influence, decides to turn a ramshackle property on the money-lined streets of Martha's Vineyard into a halfway house.

Where Wilder would have given such an act a cynical edge to show how out of touch with reality Linus really is, this is the kind of token gesture at PC charity that makes Hollywood movies so hard to take. "Sabrina" is, after all, made by guys like Linus at their most avaricious, shamelessly pandering to the same audience that made "Dirty Dancing" such a hit.

"Sabrina" is supposed to test the romantic comedy mettle of Harrison Ford, who already proved his light touch in 1988's "Working Girl." Where that movie took the themes of old Hollywood and reworked them into a clever parable of late '80s corporate greed, this one taps little else than the current popularity of Hepburn's legend.

'Jumanji' winner likes Monopoly

Bridget Murphy of Commerce Township is the grand prize winner of our "Jumanji" contest. She is 8 years old.

Murphy won a "Jumanji" sweat shirt, four Chris Van Alsburg books, including "Jumanji," and a $10 gift certificate from the Barnes & Noble Bookstore in Bloomfield Hills.

The five runners-up received a "Jumanji" sweat shirt.

Here's Murphy's story.

"Once when I was playing Monopoly I felt like I was really winning the money. I got $562 dollars. In cash and I got about five or six houses. I wish it really happened because I would be very rich. Well, not that rich, but I would be rich in my mind."

The runner's up were: Brandon Persichini of Troy; Sarah Thomason of Livonia; Mariel Little of Commerce Township; Darryl Morse of Troy; and Peter Neuroth of Canton.

Our thanks to all of the readers who entered our contest. We enjoyed reading about what makes your favorite game magical.

"Jumanji" a TriStar Pictures release opening at metro Detroit movie theaters Dec. 15, is a fantasy adventure about a magical board game. Two children release a man who became trapped in the game 25 years earlier, and must play the game, unleashing untold havoc and mayhem or risk being exiled back into the game forever.

"Jumanji" is based on the book by Chris Van Alsburg and stars Robin Willians, Kirsten Dunst, and Bonnie Hunt. It is rated PG.

■ MAGIC BAG THEATRE
22918 Woodward (north of 9 Mile), Ferndale. Call (810) 544-3030 for information. ($6)

"Spike and Mike's Sick and Twisted Festival of Animation." Dec. 20 to Jan. 1 (call for showtimes). An odd way to spend the holidays, this annual compilation of contemporary animation is a perverse companion piece to the recent festival at the DIA. Compiled by the same California-based madmen who first foisted "Beavis and Butthead" on an unsuspecting public, the current lineup includes old favorites like "No Neck Joe," along with the alien nightmare "Abducted" and worm-obsessed "Smush."

■ MAIN ART THEATRE
118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180 for information and showtimes. ($6.50; $4 students and matinee; $3 twilight)

"Mighty Aphrodite" (USA - 1995). Woody Allen writes, directs and stars in this story of a father obsessed with discovering the identity of his adopted son's mother. The typically eclectic cast includes Helena Bonham Carter, F. Murray Abraham, Peter Weller, and Claire Bloom.

"Leaving Las Vegas" (USA - 1995). Just in time for the holidays, Nicholas Cage plays a suicidal alcoholic who finds his soulmate in an abused call girl (Elizabeth Shue).

"Persuasion" (Britain - 1995). Jane Austen's story of an independent young woman who gets a second chance at the love of her life comes to the screen in this intelligent, witty film.

"Sense and Sensibility" (Britain - 1995). In yet another film adaptation of a Jane Austen novel, tragedy changes a family's circumstances and changes the romantic aspirations of its daughters. Emma Thompson, Alan Rickman, and Hugh Grant star.

■ MAPLE THEATRE
4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. All titles play through at least next Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 855-9090 for information. ($6; $2.95 twilight)

"The Crossing Guard" (USA - 1995). In this intense drama written and directed by Sean Penn, an alcoholic jeweler (Jack Nicholson) and his estranged wife (Anjelica Huston) still suffer from the loss of their daughter in a car accident. What starts as a fascinating premise sinks under its own self-indulgence.

"American President" (USA - 1995). Michael Douglas plays the widowed Commander in Chief who tries to balance his job and a blossoming romance with an environmental lobbyist (Annette Bening). Another crowd-pleaser from director Rob Reiner.

"Carrington" (Britain - 1995). A true story set in the 1920s England about an unconventional relationship between a painter (Emma Thompson) and an older homosexual man (Jonathan Pryce) with whom she's fallen in love. Playwright Christopher Hampton takes his first stab as director.

■ MICHIGAN THEATRE
603 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call (313) 668-8397. ($6; $5 students/seniors)

"Double Happiness" (Canada - 1995). Through Dec. 16 (call for showtimes). A young woman tries to juggle her romantic life with the wishes of her traditional Chinese parents in this comedy from first-time director Mina Shum.

Hong Kong Action Double Feature — "The Legend of Fong Sai Yuk" (Hong Kong - 1993) at 7 p.m. and "Swordsman II" (Hong Kong - 1992) at 9:15 p.m. Dec. 18-19. The first recounts the story of a Chinese folk hero that alternates between slapstick, suspense, martial arts, and gender-bending. The second stars Brigitte Lin as Fong the Invincible, a villainous sorcerer who may have met his match in warrior Jet Li.

■ STATE THEATRE

"Showgirls" (USA - 1995). 9 p.m. Dec. 18. Hometown girl gone bad (at least according to the critics) Elizabeth Berkley stars in this feverishly melodramatic show biz story about high-priced lap dancers.

The movie, "The Song of Bernadette," will be shown in the Livonia Civic Center Library Auditorium 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 20.

It is the true story of a French peasant girl who sees a vision of Mary and is directed to dig at the Grotto of Lourdes for water to heal people. Dr. Frank Ross leads the discussion about the movie.

Livonia Civic Center Library is at 32777 Five Mile Road. Admission is with a current membership to the Friends of the Livonia Libraries. A yearly membership costs $5.

STREET SCENE

Sugar Blue draws on black heritage

BY TODD WICKS
SPECIAL WRITER

You'd think Sugar Blue would be a little nicer to the Rolling Stones.

Back in 1978, the wrinkled British rockers were in the midst of recording what would become their "Some Girls" album in Paris. After meeting a little-known bluesman from Harlem, they invited him to play harmonica on a few tracks. One song that resulted had an irresistible disco beat and featured the harp player in its central riff and solo. When released as a single, "Miss You" became a smash, and Sugar Blue's career took off.

But ask Blue about the Stones today and he won't exactly shower them with praise.

"The Stones know that when they want something real, they go to the black community, where it all started," he said. "If you want the music, you gotta go to the people that made it. . . . We are the real thing, period."

Since "Miss You," Blue has accumulated a long list of solo works and playing credits on other musicians' albums. Outtakes from the Paris sessions appeared on two more Stones releases, and he has worked with such luminaries as Bob Dylan, Frank Zappa, and Willie Dixon. His second album in as many years, "In Your Eyes" (Alligator), is a slickly produced showcase for Blue's gruff vocals and inimitable harmonica style. It also moves swiftly through several diverse styles, from hard rock ("She") to funk ("Bottom Line") to Latin ("Lip Service and Lies") and closes with a smooth rendition of the Dixon classic "Little Red Rooster."

Resting at home during a break in an extended tour ("And don't wanna extend no more"), Blue traced the influence of the blues through the course of popular music.

"What would the Stones have done without the blues?" he asked. "What would the so-called King of Rock 'n' Roll have done without the blues? Rock, reggae, gospel, jazz, it all comes from the blues. I'm just bringing some wayward children home to see their mama."

With his albums, Blue takes care not to repeat ancient history.

"I love the traditional blues, but as time passes, things change," he said. "Too many people have been restating and reiterating what's been said before. I see no point in resurrecting the dead. We have to add something to the music, add something to the library. After you've read the books, cool. Hopefuly you've learning enough to be able to create your own ideas."

And lack of original ideas is the problem Blue often sees with musicians. He thinks many famous rockers have been too derivative of black music and is concerned about the black community receiving the artistic recognition it deserves.

"Unless you're listening to classical music, it's all black American," he said. "If you like Led Zeppelin, hey, basically all of that is a distant reflection of a black American creation. Their song 'You Shook Me Baby' and quite a few other songs were stolen from Willie Dixon. They had to settle out of court, otherwise they would have been fighting for years. That's just an example of the plagiarism that exists in music."

That black influence has extended beyond just music.

"Some of the original black American poets and the first (blacks) to ever be heard were the blues cats. We recreated the language. Every time you say 'cool' or give a high-five, that's black America, babe."

His own influences range from the musical ("Jimi Hendrix, Miles Davis") to the literary.

"The ideas in (my) music come from musicians, but the words, they come from authors and poets. James Baldwin, Maya Angelou, Angela Davis, Orwell . . . Nobody tells stories as good as (those in) the Bible, great stories in there."

But Blue is better known for his blazing harmonica than his Bible study. Over the years, he has become a highly respected session player and also a frontman for his touring band. His albums are acclaimed, his signature "Miss You" riff one for the ages, and his playing is seemingly effortless.

However, Blue is very aware of his harp skills, to put it nicely. Sometimes he's a little less than modest.

"The only way you get to be a good session man is if you play good in the street," he said. When asked if he was an influence on Jagger's harmonica playing, Blue laughed uproariously, as if the idea of someone else's style being anywhere close to his was the funniest thing he'd ever heard.

"I don't think that's possible, and you can take that any way you want to," he said. "I guess maybe if you hear something good, you take something from it. As far as my music is concerned, (the question) has no relevance." And that was the end of that.

Interestingly, Blue and his record company aren't above using a complimentary quote from Jagger ("Sugar Blue is a very strange and talented musician") at the top of his press release. It's unclear which of the two attributes Jagger was emphasizing.

It's also undetermined whether Blue learned anything from the Stones when it comes to leading a band onstage, as a vocalist.

"It's not something that I like more or less, it's just a gig, man," he said, comparing the role of frontman versus his traditional one as a sideman.

"Either way, the frontman is no better than the men behind him, and they can't shine without him. If it's a really good band, everyone becomes a frontman at some time in the gig — when they lay down their solo. To me, it's gotta be a around and everybody's got to be a part of it or else it doesn't really work."

Sugar Blue performs on Saturday, Dec. 23, at Rick's, 611 Church St., Ann Arbor. For more information, call (313) 996-2748.

Songwriter suprised by dance hit

STAFF WRITER

Lou Barlow lets out a hearty laugh when he hears that people in clubs are dancing to his song "Natural One."

"People dancing to that song?" he said before letting out yet another laugh.

"When we completed the song, we were just so happy with it that we were dancing around the studio ourselves and we never dance. It's kind of cool to think that it really spread to regular people."

Barlow has yet to make it past critics and die-hard fans with his primary focus, Sebadoh, a band which he describes as "folk."

But with his side project Folk Implosion and the song "Natural One" off the soundtrack to the movie "Kids" (London), he's topping request charts at radio stations and filling the air at dance clubs — albeit nearly five months after the movie was released.

"It was a total surprise really," Barlow said via telephone from his Boston home. "It's never happened to me before. It sort of makes sense in a way, though, because hit radio and radio never makes any sense. You know what I mean, songs that no one would ever expect become hits."

Barlow was approached to do the soundtrack to the controversial art-house film nearly two years ago by screenwriter Harmony Korine, who was a fan of Barlow's solo material. He sat through casting calls and watched clips of the movie as it was filmed to try to get a feel for "Kids," which tells the story of promiscuous, drug-abusing kids most of whom are infected with HIV.

"We really tried to get inside the film and really understand what the vibe was and made music for the film," Barlow said.

Ironically, the drum-heavy, numbing "Natural One" isn't in the movie. Barlow submitted an instrumental version of the song to Korine who turned it down. Had the lyrical version been finished, "it still would have been rejected," Barlow said.

"The director has a very specific idea of what he wants for the scene. He goes with his first impulse. That's just the way it works in the movies. We did score a significant amount of the movie."

The 13-track soundtrack includes instrumental and vocal Folk Implosion songs as well as one by Sebadoh. The abrasive "Nothing Gonna Stop" is by an expanded version of Folk Implosion called Deluxx Folk Implosion. Singer/songwriter Daniel Johnston, Lo-Down and Slint also appear on the release.

Although "Natural One" is Folk Implosion's first hit, "Kids" is the band's second collection of songs. The first record, "Take A Look Inside The Folk Implosion" was released by the San Francisco-based indie label Communion Records.

Barlow said that "Take A Look Inside" isn't as polished as the "Kids" soundtrack.

"It was recorded on a four-track and the songs were very short. Just by being recorded on a four-track it was incredibly different. That ('Kids') was recorded in a rather large studio."

Barlow's second album with Folk Implosion is nearly finished, however, it won't be released until the end of 1996 so it won't conflict with the spring release of Sebadoh's follow-up to "Bake Sale." Fans of "Natural One" should not expect more of the same on the Folk Implosion's new record.

"It's not much like 'Natural One.' We've a very experimental pop studio band. We're always trying things and new lyrics and a new approach."

"Studio" being the operative word. Barlow has no plans to tour with Folk Implosion, which also includes John Davis.

"Sebadoh's what I like to play live with and what's easiest for me. . . . When we do Folk Implosion things, we never think about playing them live. Sebadoh is more of a live thing."

Both groups represent Barlow's musical tastes, however.

"Both express such different parts of what I like musically. Sebadoh is more songs and lyrics — just folk songs to me, electric folk songs. Folk Implosion is just experimental things off the top of our heads."

Brothers team up for cryptic rocker

STAFF WRITER

Singer/musician Matt Mahaffey, like most younger siblings, just couldn't get his brother to play with him while they were growing up in Kingsport, Tenn.

Prior to the recording of 22-year-old Mahaffey's debut album "Subliminal Plastic Motives," his guitarist brother Mike changed his tune.

"It was great having my brother (Mike) play on this record because when we were young, he always just wanted to play his own music and beat me up. He would never jam with me."

Not only is Mike Mahaffey playing in his brother's band Self, but this time the younger brother is in charge. Together, the two created "Subliminal Plastic Motives" (Spongebath/Zoo).

The Mahaffeys took a laid-back approach to the recording of "Subliminal Plastic Motives."

"We were just sitting around" tossing ideas back and forth, Mahaffey said.

"I got a lot accomplished that way. I didn't have a ton of distractions" like producers and band members, he added.

On "Subliminal Plastic Motives," hip-hop, jazz, rhythmic guitars, piano, and heavy alternative rock sounds bubble underneath Mahaffey's quirky lyrics.

Most of the lyrics on "Subliminal Plastic Motives" are cryptic with an occasional break. For example, "Marathon Shirt" is pretty straight forward telling the story of a favorite shirt worn "everyday 'til it hurts."

Every song on the album has a memorable line. In the hip-hop track "So Low" Mahaffey sings: "On a short leash, yeah/She was earthbound so I threw her in the lost and found."

Mahaffey can even make an obvious ode to a woman who suffers from PMS funny in "Mother Nature's Fault": "I can't help but stay away when you're so damn evil/I don't care at all/Assuming that it's Mother Nature's fault." He continues with "She hated my lyrics so I lied and said I threw them out/The only one who knows this is me and now the record's out."

In "Sophomore Jinx" he begs: "Help me get Madonna off my bed, she's just too drunk to sing."

The best track on the album is "Stewardess" with its bouncy "North, East, Turn South , West Mississippi" chorus that rolls into keyboards straight out of a twisted carnival.

Samples are important to Mahaffey, who considers it to be the sixth member along with bassist Timm Nobles, drummer Jason Rawlings, and keyboardist Chris James who joined on after the album was finished.

"Most of my songs stem from homemade samples," he said. "I've never had the luxury of having a computer to do sequencing, therefore, I've had to be more resourceful in creating my own sounds. It's a lot more fun that way because you can take any sound, filter it, reverse it, take it down an octave, and write a song with it. It's great. Playing samples live is fun. It forces me to be more creative than relying on a computer."

Unfortunately, Mahaffey said, the first single, "Cannon," doesn't reflect that.

"Since most of the album is sample-based, I would have chosen a different song (as the first single). You can't get the vibe out of that song. It could be a trio, you know, a guitar, bass and drums. The rest of the songs don't give that vibe," he said.

He would have preferred that the record company released "Borateen," where hard-driving guitars make a left turn into keyboard samples what crash into abrasive guitars, as the first single. The song features samples that were created at Mahaffey's house.

"It's definitely a part of my music that I want heard."

Self performs Saturday, Dec. 16, at The Palladium, 17580 Frazho, Roseville. Doors open at 8 p.m. for the 18 and older show. Tickets are $3 in advance. For more information, call (810) 778-6404.

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Irmgard Jellonek-Mudie figures in the last 30 years she's hand lettered about 30,000 certificates, proclamations, citations, resolutions, and tributes. Her commissions came from government, universities, orchestras, the Northwest Bar Association and the Detroit Institute of Arts, to name a few.

Taped to the drawing board of her Redford studio lies the inspiration behind Mudie's beautiful hand: three small writings in German executed by her mother.

These were the beginnings from which sprang the 21 paintings and verses in calligraphy continuing on display through Dec. 22 in the Arts Wing Gallery at University Liggett School in Grosse Pointe Woods. The one woman show features mostly watercolors and pen and ink drawings of landscapes coupled in the same frame with verses from Shakespeare to Robert Frost, all written in calligraphy by Mudie.

" I just got this idea to start writing the way my mother did and had the idea to combine it with my paintings," said Irmgard Mudie, who retired in 1993 from teaching calligraphy at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

"Sometimes your painting picks up a certain mood and the writing continues the mood."

When Mudie graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from Michigan State University in 1953, her goal was to pass on her love of art through teaching. Instead, after one year at Garden City High School, she quit to raise her family. She had married her husband William a few weeks after graduation. Four children later in 1964, Mudie took an Italic handwriting course with William Bostick and Joseph Firden at Wayne State University. She hasn't put her pen down since.

In times before the invention of the printing press, calligraphers or scribes were used to copy the scriptures. Mudie specializes in chancery cursive writing practiced in the 16th century by heads of state in Europe and the Vatican in Rome. She also writes in other ancient alphabets including Uncial, popular between the fifth and ninth century.

Write On: Irmgard Jellonek Mudie combines art with the written word in a one woman show at University Liggett School in Grosse Pointe Woods.

In 1975, Mudie began teaching calligraphy at Wayne County Community College, Marygrove College, and Schoolcraft College. She also volunteered to give lessons to students at St. Agatha Grade and High School in Redford because art was not a part of the curriculum there. One of those students was daughter Marian Mudie, well known in the area for her paintings of wolves and nature.

Besides painting and teaching calligraphy, Mudie also created jewelry and gold for more than 20 years.

It was her love of teaching, however, that carried Mudie through difficult times after her daughter Michelle was brutally assaulted with an ax during a robbery 18 years ago. The tragedy left Michelle a paraplegic.

"Teaching seven classes kept me going through the motions," she said.

In years previous Mudie's humanitarian spirit led her to direct, as a media coordinator, the Northwest Inter-Faith Detroit Center for Racial Justice from 1970 to 1975. She trained more than 200 people to effectively view and monitor television to determine if the needs of a multi-racial community were being met. Her belief in helping others undaunted, she continues to volunteer her time with William as contributing members of the Fair Housing Center of Detroit.

Mudie's watercolors and pen and ink drawings were done mainly on location at the family's cottage in White Rock, Michigan. One particularly stimulating one is of a 100- year old apple tree framed with Robert Frost's poem, "Two Roads."

Her son-in-law and University Liggett School gallery director Jim Pujdowski curated the exhibition. Since Mudie worked on commission, it was difficult to pull together a sizeable show. It is a moving one filled with emotion and food for thought.

PLYMOUTH SPORTS SCENE

All-American

Five area runners — four from Plymouth Salem and a fifth from Farmington — traveled to the USA Track and Field National Junior Olympics Cross Country Meet Saturday in Baton Rouge, La., to turn in a strong performance.

One of the five, Salem freshman Nick Allen, was awarded All-American honors for his 17th-place finish in the 4,000-meter race (13:41).

The local team was ninth out of 26 teams (and several individuals) competing, scoring 238 points. A team from Idaho finished first with 74 points.

Other finishers from the local squad were John Little, 41st (14:10); Wes Barrett, 126th (14:55); Mike Shull, 127th (14:56); and Jake Guy, 143rd (15:06). Little, Shull and Guy are freshmen at Salem; Barrett is a freshman at Farmington.

The team qualified for the national meet by first winning the state meet Nov. 12 in Dexter, then placing first at the regional Nov. 18 in Charleston, W. Va.

Geoff Baker, the Salem cross country coach who served in the same capacity for the team, was pleased with the results, all things considered. "We had a little bit of jet lag and a little bit of shock on our kids' part," he said. "They've never seen a race like this before."

Correction

In last Monday's Observer, it was reported that Salem freshman heavyweight Charlie Hamblin beat Canton's Doug Cooper. That was incorrect. It was Cooper, the runner-up at the Western Lakes Activities Association Tournament in his weight class, who pinned Hamblin in 1:22.

Crusaders battle, but fall 80-66

Madonna University put up a battle Tuesday, but Cedarville (Ohio) came away with an 80-66 victory over the Fighting Crusaders in a men's basketball game. The loss drops Madonna to 2-9.

By Richard L. Shook
Staff Writer

Putting the pieces of the puzzle together is tough when somebody keeps throwing pieces to different puzzles into the pile.

This is pretty much the situation Bernie Holowicki faces with his Madonna University basketball team. His team would have a fighting chance at determining its identity if only the player mix didn't keep changing.

Madonna fought, scratched and clawed for 40 minutes Tuesday night, but still came up on the short end in an 80-66 loss to Cedarville (Ohio) College. The Crusaders are now 2-9 while the Yellow Jackets improved to 6-3.

"We're getting better," Holowicki said. "We're playing harder. We're getting competitive. We were in this ball game right down to the last 3 to 4 minutes.

"That was a pretty good team we played. At least we're more competitive."

Madonna is just getting adjusted to life without its top player, Frank Zielinski, who unbeknownst to the Crusaders had used up his NAIA eligibility. Zielinski has been to more places than a college bowl game scout.

"He was not only our go-to guy," Holowicki said, "he was our rebounder. He was explosive."

The situation will change again soon when Dan Pertulla, expected to be a major contributor at point guard, becomes eligible to play Dec. 19 against Northwood. Pertulla did not sign up for enough credits to be able to play under NAIA rules.

Don't look for any complaints from Holowicki, though. He's the kind of poker player who only considers the cards in his hand, not those in the deck.

"We're hoping a leader emerges," he said. "The other players are starting to come.

"The fun part is — if you like a challenge — this is a challenge. There's growth here. You can see the pieces of the puzzle starting to fit."

Cedarville was more experienced than Madonna and it showed. The Crusaders shot only 29.7 percent (to the Yellow Jackets' 53.3) but played good defense and clawed to a 36-36 deadlock on the backboards.

Jeff Bradley of Cedarville led all scorers with 21 points. Sophomore Jeff Kennedy paced Madonna with 19 while junior Brandon Slone (Plymouth Salem) had 15. Junior Christian Emert (Walled Lake Central) added nine.

The game was considerably less one-sided than the score. It was 37-31 at the half but the Crusaders were up, 20-19, after Miller hit the front end of a 1-and-1 with 8:18 left.

At that point, however, the Madonna starters lost their legs and Cedarville scored 12 unanswered points to take a 31-20 lead, capped off by Jon Woolley's three-point play and Jeff Bradley's three-point basket. Madonna closed the half with a 8-1 run to trim a 36-23 deficit into something workable.

"They knew we didn't have as much depth and played 10, 11, 12 people. It wore us down," Holowicki said. "We missed some shots, wide open shots. If we'd made some shots . . ."

Seeking a 4th

■ PREVIEW

What Chuck Olson seems to do best is find a way.

To where? The top, naturally.

His Plymouth Salem boys swim team has ruled the Western Lakes Activities Association, capturing the past three championships. The Rocks were ranked as high as fourth in Class A last season and did not lose a dual meet.

So losing someone as talented as Eric Seidelman, Salem's top swimmer last season, hurts but hardly cripples. There's always someone new coming in.

Who will it be this year? Olson won't predict. But however much he talks about the importance of "their will to succeed" and their "stepping up when they have to" — phrases fondly embraced (and often used) by coaches in any sport — don't be fooled.

When it comes down to the finish, at the WLAA championships next February, Salem will still be the team everyone else is chasing.

Olson at least doesn't deny that. "They're pretty hungry over there," he said, referring to the Rocks' top contenders within the league, Farmington and North Farmington. "They'd like nothing more than to chip away at the Rock. We're not going to just roll over for them, though."

Just how good each of these teams are will surface at Saturday's WLAA Relays meet, the official opener of the boys season. Salem, which hosts the meet (starting time is 1 p.m.), is the defending Relays champion; Farmington won the title in '93.

Salem figures to be led by its three senior captains: John McLenaghan, who qualified for the state meet last year in the 100 backstroke; Patrick Morgan, a sprint freestyler; and Brian Galvin, a distance freestyler.

Other top-grade seniors are Justin Hulett and Jeff Wickham, Hulett a distance freestyler and Wickham a diver.

The junior class is led by Mark Dettling, a versatile performer who scored at the WLAA meet; Otto Geiseman, the Rocks' top returning diver; Kyle Petroskey, a freestyler who will also compete in the individual medley and breast stroke this season; Luke Woodcock, a backstroker who is also looking to expand into other events; and Tim Buchanan.

Buchanan qualified for state in the 500 free last season and was second in the 500 free and sixth in the 100 butterfly at the WLAA finals.

There are plenty of others. The sophomore class includes freestylers Nick Corden and Jim McLenaghan, and a versatile Brent Mellis (third in the 500, sixth in the 100 back at the WLAA meet).

And the freshmen? "There are a couple we're hoping will be able to contribute," Olson said.

Olson's final pre-season analysis: "I think our free is pretty strong this year, so obviously, our relays should be real good again (all three scored at state last season). And we have a number of guys who can swim back for us, which should give us some flexibility.

"We'll be in the hunt (for the WLAA title), for sure."

In the hunt? Anyone else in the league would say Salem has not just tracked the title down, but has it cornered.

New coach has high hopes

Kyle Lott really couldn't say too much. Because he honestly didn't know too much.

Who can blame him? The new Plymouth Canton boys swim coach didn't exactly inherit a made-to-order position, like he did last season when he stepped up from assistant coach at Milan. Comparatively speaking, last season's job was easy; Milan is a traditional swim power. Lott guided the Big Reds to a second-place finish at the Class B-C-D swim finals.

But the former Eastern Michigan University swimmer and Milan graduate (1989) ached for something more. He had been a part of the Milan program for close to a decade.

"It's nothing against Milan," Lott insisted. "I was just looking to get out of that area.

"I've been in a well-established program. Now I want to establish my own."

He'll certainly get his chance at Canton. The Chiefs cannot yet be described as a program on the rise. Hardly.

They finished seventh at last season's Western Lakes Activities Association meet. In individual events, they had just two finishers in the top six — divers Jason Fowler (who was first) and Daryl Ballios (sixth).

Both have graduated.

It's not all gloom and doom, however. Lott has blocks to build with — approximately 35 of them, the number of swimmers on the team. But he just can't say yet which ones will fit where.

Out of the 35, only five are seniors. "The majority of the kids on

3rd-quarter Canton surge scuttles Adrian

■ BASKETBALL

The Plymouth Canton basketball team was somewhat like a veteran boxer Tuesday night against Adrian.

It probed, tested and pushed for half the match, then came out with a swift knockout punch to put its foe to sleep.

The resultant 63-43 victory left highly regarded state power Canton unblemished in three outings this season.

The Chiefs held only an 11-10 lead after one quarter and stretched it to 26-22 by the half. Then came a 21-7 third quarter that made the final period largely irrelevant.

"We picked it up defensively," coach Dan Young said. "We made some steals. We put the pressure on and made it hard for them.

"And we got some baskets in transition. Defensively, I thought we were really good in the second half. We tried to take away their threes."

Senior Ron Hupter showed the way with 21 points. He also got seven rebounds and had four steals. Senior guard Mike Riley led Adrian with 17 points.

The Chiefs got 12 points, three rebounds, three assists and two steals from Mark Bray while junior Rob Johnson had eight points, four rebounds, five assists and two steals. Brandon Hartke had eight points plus five rebounds.

■ Ypsi 77, Salem 58: Plymouth Salem came out of the gate poorly and never did get on track Tuesday at Ypsilanti.

"We got beat — bad," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "They out hustled us, they outrebounded us, they outshot us. They beat us in all phases of the game."

The Rocks, who were led by Andres Lopes with 16 points and Nate Gray with 12, fell behind 23-13 by the end of the first quarter and never reversed the trend. By half, the Braves had pushed their lead to 45-28; after three quarters, it was 61-40.

For Salem, it was its second-straight loss after winning the season-opener at Monroe. "The last two teams we played are a lot better (than Monroe)," explained Brodie. "We made them look a lot better, too."

Ypsi (2-1) was paced by Steve Alleg's 17 points. Steve Patton had 14 and Andre Lockett 12.

Asked if the gap between the two teams was as wide as the score indicated, Brodie replied, "If we execute a lot better than we did, we can (play with this team)."

At least the season-opening road trip is nearly over for the Rocks, who played their first four games away from home. But, as Brodie noted, "I don't know if I want to come home, the way we're playing. Things can't get much worse."

■ PCA 56, Evangelical 50: Plymouth Christian Academy faced a sizable deficit after the first quarter in its Kickoff Classic championship game against Detroit Evangelical, Saturday at PCA.

The Eagles trailed 18-7 after one period and 35-25 at the half. But a strong second half, during which they outscored Evangelical 31-15, propelled them to the win and kept their record perfect (3-0).

Evangelical dipped to 2-1.

Roose and Neil were both named to the all-tournament team.

■ Agape 86, Life Summit 72: Plymouth Agape Christian made quick work of visiting Clarkston Life Summit Tuesday, rolling to a 42-14 lead by halftime.

Paul Salah, a senior, led Agape (now 2-2) with 34 points. Cory Mullen added 21, while Joshua Thompson grabbed 12 rebounds. Life Summit (0-1) got 15 points from Brian Rossi.

■ CC 70, Gabriel Richard 46: Redford Catholic Central improved to 3-0 on the season behind Chris Misiak's 16 points in a non-division win Tuesday over visiting Riverview Gabriel Richard (0-2).

Mark McDonald and Justin Hoener each contributed 14 points for the Shamrocks, who jumped out to a 25-14 first-quarter advantage and never looked back.

Jake Maszynski scored 15 for the Pioneers, who wound up with 22 turnovers on the night.

■ Crestwood 76, Luth. Westland 63: Senior guard Tom Muller pumped in a game-high 32 points, leading host Dearborn Heights Crestwood (2-1) to the non-league victory Tuesday over Lutheran High Westland (1-1).

Muller made 11 of 19 shots from the floor, including three of six from three-point range.

Scott Cavin, who had 38 points during the final three quarters in Crestwood's 77-70 win over Redford Union last week, was held to 10 points on three of 15 shooting.

Junior forward Joe Pruchnik led the Warriors with a team-high 21 points. He also grabbed 10 rebounds.

Senior guard Sam Patterson and sophomore forward Brad Woehlke each contributed nine points.

The Warriors were tied 29-all at intermission, but unforced turnovers and lack of execution on offense led to a 25-13 Crestwood third-quarter run.

Lutheran Westland, which had its two starting guards in foul trouble, cut the deficit to eight in the final quarter, but couldn't get over the hump.

Chiefs look good at Belleville JV Tourney

■ WRESTLING

All things considered, it was more than a little bit of sense.

First-year Plymouth Canton wrestling coach Ernie Krumm accompanied his team to the Belleville Junior Varsity Tournament Saturday, and the junior Chiefs did pretty well, finishing third out of 10 teams.

It should be noted that all but two of the Canton varsity wrestlers were on this team. That's because the two that stayed home — Tom Keeling and Doug Cooper — are the Chiefs' only two seniors.

"It was nice to see the young kids I have were capable of competing with kids' their level," said Krumm.

Adrian finished first in the tournament with 167 points. Saline was second (136), with Canton third (117½).

The Chiefs had two weight-class champions: Derek Rumrill won the 125-pound class, pinning Saline's John Blum; and Brent Buttermore was first in the 135 class, pinning Nate Moore from Birmingham Brother Rice in the final in 1:24.

In the final at 130, Canton freshman Kevin Stone battled but lost to Saline's Greg Stouffer, getting pinned in 5:23.

Other top-four scorers for the Chiefs: Vishal Sharma (103), Andrew Noune (125) and Josh Pinion (189), all thirds; and Brian Musser (135) and Kyle Whipple (145), both fourths.

CC's Gilbo chooses Bowling Green

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central senior tight end Eric Gilbo had a couple reasons to feel good inside during his recent visit to Bowling Green State University:

There were the players and students on campus, who made him feel comfortable, not queasy. And how about the Falcons' new state of the art indoor practice facility, which looks as nice inside as any in the country.

Eric Gilbo

Gilbo compares it to the one he practiced in with his CC teammates at the University of Michigan prior to last month's Class AA state championship game.

"It's the same," said Gilbo, a Canton resident.

Gilbo, a first-team All Observer choice, committed Sunday night to BGSU after returning from his second offficial visit, to Ball State University. Along with liking the facilities, a winning tradition and the 80-minute ride down I-75 to the campus just south of Toledo, Gilbo said the Falcons are giving him the opportunity to play tight end.

Because of Gilbo's 6-foot-7, 260 pound frame, some schools were thinking only of playing him at tackle.

The Falcons' head coach is Gary Blackney, a former assistant coach at Wisconsin, UCLA, Syracuse and Ohio State. He has a 41-14-2 record in five years at BGSU, leading the Falcons to Mid-American Conference championships in 1991 and '92 and a second place finish in '94.

The Falcons, who open the '96 season with an Aug. 31 date at the University of Alabama, slumped to 5-6 last fall despite a road victory over Big Eight opponent Missouri.

Gilbo, who will be eligible as a freshman after getting a 21 on his ACT test, selected the Falcons over Ball State and Toledo.

"I fit in better with their team, it seemed like a better atmosphere for me. The campus is real nice, clean," Gilbo said. "I want to be involved in the offense, catching balls, rather than just blocking. Coach Blackney seemed real up front, he's going to tell you what he thinks. They threw to their tight end I think 50 times."

CC senior fullback/nose guard John Spolsky made the visit with Gilbo. Gilbo called BGSU offensive coordinator Terry Malone, a CC graduate, on Sunday night to give him his commitment.

Spolsky visited the Air Force Academy last weekend and said Monday night he's still undecided. He hopes to make up his mind by Christmas.

"I think it has made my decision harder," Spolsky said of his Air Force visit. "I went there pretty open minded, I still don't know what to do. I'm kind of leaning toward the Air Force Academy, you can't exactly turn down an opportunity like that. The (Colorado) mountains and stuff, they pay you to jump out of planes. But the football players at Bowling Green and campus were great, the school is definitely defined by the kids. They treated us as one of 'them.'"

Spolsky has a 3.23 grade point average and got a 25 on his ACT test.

Shamrocks' goal is a state title

WRESTLING

Perhaps it's the fact Redford Catholic Central is coming off another state football championship.

Or maybe, it's because the Shamrocks only lost two wrestlers from their 21-3 dual-meet squad of last season.

Whatever the case, the CC wresting team enters this season bursting with confidence and hopes of winning its first Class A state championship since 1988.

"The team believes they are going to go all the way," said coach Mike Rodriguez, who stumbled through last season after getting both knees replaced. "This team isn't quite as good as the 1988 team, which was an awesome team, but this is the best group I've had since."

A healthier Rodrguez shares his team's confidence and hopes his grapplers will earn him his eighth state title in 28 years at CC.

"I think we'll surprise a lot of people by the end of the year," he said. "We have six seniors this year and they are very dedicated. Plus, whenever you win a state football championship, it can't hurt by giving the rest of the school added confidence."

The Shamrocks have a good mixture of veterans and underclassmen on the squad. Rodriguez was fortunate that he only had to fill the voids of graduated seniors Bill Lamb (112) and the late Dan Krueger (160).

The leading returnee it senior John Spolsky, the All-Observerland fullback who led the Shamrocks to the state title in football less than a month ago.

Spolsky lost in the championship match at the state finals last year but has returned with one goal.

"He's determined to win the title," Rodriguez said. "He's a lot stronger than he was last year and he's a bonafide heavyweight. He gained about 40 pounds. We think he's the favorite for the title and has the inside line."

Three more state qualifiers in seniors Kevin Griffin (145), Dave Gardner (135) and Dario Ianni (112) return.

Junior Dave O'Hara, who finished seventh in the state at 103 as a sophomore, is a "slicker" wrestler according to Rodriguez. Senior Dave Garcia (152) is also improved after advancing to the Greco Roman finals at this past summer's Junior World Championships.

A surprise by the end of the season may be senior Lucian Harbar (171), who Rodriguez predicts will place at the state finals.

Junior Jeff Bracken (217) was last season's surprise after placing in the Catholic League championships. Junior Mike Zelenock (119) also had a solid sophomore season, advancing to the regionals.

Leading the sophomore class will be Aaron Rock at 160. He advanced to the regionals as a freshman and has improved.

"You'll be hearing a lot about this guy this season and in the future," Rodriguez said.

Sophomore Joe Stroi (189) is almost totally healed from the broken collarbone suffered at last season's Catholic League championships. Sophomores Matt Petersen (125) and Matt Burns (130) are the newcomers on the CC varsity squad.

At 140, sophomore Rob Wentworth appears to have the position locked up, but has yet to make the weight. Freshman Ryan Zajdel filled in when the Shamrocks opened their season Thursday by trouncing Davison 63-16.

Livonia Trio collects its championship

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

It may not be quite as big as the 1993 Rose Bowl, but they're the toast of Badgerland these days.

Hundreds of fans, TV stations and news reporters greeted the new NCAA men's soccer champs, the University of Wisconsin, Sunday night at the Madison airport after a 2-0 conquest of Duke (played before a record crowd of 20,000-plus in Richmond, Va.)

The senior "Livonia Trio" of forward Travis Roy (Stevenson), midfielder Mike Gentile (Churchill) and sweeper Scott Lamphear (Churchill) all played prominent roles in the five-game tournament conquest, which also included Friday's 1-0 semifinal win over the University of Portland.

For Roy, who played on six state cup and one national youth championship team, not to mention a pair of state Class A titles at Stevenson, titles have become routine.

But the feeling never gets old for Roy, who was involved in all three Wisconsin goals over the weekend. His entire family — his father, mother, two brothers and sister — were all in Richmond to witness the finale.

"Doing this is just crazy, but it really hasn't sunk in yet," Roy said. "The phone has been ringing off the hook. We went out last night (Monday) and everybody knows us."

Roy, who needs 20 credits to graduate after this semester, is prepping for final exams.

"It kind of puts a restraint on the celebration," he said. "I just talked to one of my professors and I begged him to give me an extension on a paper I have due tomorrow (Tuesday). He called to congratulate me so I think we can work things out."

Mike Gentile

Travis Roy

called the championship win over Duke "one of our best performances."

He had the assist on Lars Hansen's goal, which beat Portland.

"It was good for the seniors to go out on a high like that," Gentile said. "It's pretty big wherever we go. Everybody is thanking us for the good soccer we gave them."

Even when the Badgers scored early, just nine minutes into the match against Duke, they did not let up.

"We never fell back, and that enabled us to beat them," Gentile said. "We kept pressing forward. It was one of our best performances and Travis just had a fabulous weekend. Everybody did."

Ironically, Gentile's father missed the final because he had to leave Sunday for Europe on a business trip, but he learned of the result over the phone.

Lamphear, meanwhile, quarterbacked a defense that did not allow a goal in five NCAA playoff games. He also drew an assist on the insurance goal that beat Duke.

The biggest hurdle, however, was the opening-game match against Bowling Green (Nov. 19). Despite some anxious first-half moments, Wisconsin went on to win, 2-0.

"Bowling Green had the best chance to score on us and didn't," Lamphear said. "They had an open goal and one of their guys tripped on the ball.

"After that point we dominated. The shots were 3-3 in the first half, but we gained confidence and built upon that.

"That was a huge step to the Final Four because you can't count or plan for a championship.

"It's an old cliche, but the way it worked out, we peaked at the right time. We were an excellent team during the season, but nothing compared to the way we raised our level of play for the tournament."

Lamphear's brother Chris and his father Jim were on hand for Sunday's final.

"It's been an amazing few weeks . . . the run to the championship," Lamphear said. "The last two days in class it's been hard to concentrate. I haven't been into it because I've done a lot of daydreaming."

Lamphear, who carries a 3.6 grade-point average in chemical engineering, plans to take a year off from soccer to finish up his degree requirements.

"I really don't expect anything beyond this as far as my soccer career," Lamphear said. "But we'll have to see."

The victory party resumes tonight when the soccer team will be honored at halftime of the Wisconsin basketball game.

the team are freshmen and sophomores," said Lott.

Jason McMann is one Chief to watch. A senior, he's Canton's captain. "He's real strong," said Lott. "He did a lot of cross training during the off-season, and he came back a lot stronger."

Lott figures McMann could qualify for state meet in the 50-yard freestyle, which should be his forte. He'll also swim the 100 free, and perhaps the 100 butterfly and 100 backstroke.

Many of the others have looked good, according to Lott, but since he didn't see them compete until Tuesday's intra-squad meet, it was hard to evaluate them properly.

Three freshmen who've caught his eye are Alex Rottgers, a transfer student from Virginia, who figures to be competing in the 500 free and 100 breaststroke (for now, anyway), and Donnie LeClair and Curtis Hornick.

But that's after just one week of practice. Lott wasn't hired until late October, when Clint Smiley — who coached the Chiefs just one season — was forced to step aside after taking an assistant principal's job at Lowell Middle School.

"We have a lot of kids with a lot of potential," Lott insisted. "And every kid on the team knows how to swim well. They just don't know how to work out yet."

Which means they aren't accustomed to the yardage essential in the shaping of a successful high school swimmer. Kids used to 5,000-yard daily workouts now must adjust to workouts three times that yardage.

"We're a young team that has a lot of work to do, learning how to work out," said Lott. "It'll probably be mid-January before we see some results.

"But the team is already doing a lot more than I thought it would this year."

He's optimistic. Coming from a program as strong as Milan's, he should be. If Lott can build a program similar to that at Canton, the Chiefs may be able to unseat perennial WLAA champ Plymouth Salem.

Aristeo leads Observer team

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Win everything possible as a sophomore. Know what happens?

You create a monster. It's something people talk about constantly, and it's almost impossible to defeat.

At the Class A girls swim meet Nov. 18, Livonia Stevenson's Anne Aristeo confronted that beast — expectation. And she won.

Aristeo created her own "beast," if you will, when she went to the state meet as a sophomore and came home with two state titles.

Going to state meet as a junior and coming home with anything less just wouldn't be acceptable.

Never mind that once at the top, there's only one direction left to travel — down.

Aristeo was undaunted. She once again collected two state championships at the state final, repeating in the 200-yard individual medley and the 500 free. And no one came closer than 4½ seconds of her in either race.

Now a junior, Aristeo is the best high school girls' swimmer to come out of Observerland. Which is why she must be put at the top of the 1995 all-Observer girls swim team.

What more can be said. Here's the 1995 girls swim team, listed in order of event.

FIRST TEAM

Livonia Stevenson, 200-yard medley relay: When your coach describes your foursome as "our best relay all year," it's worth noting. That's what Spartan coach Greg Phill said about Stevenson's Julie Gallagher, Becky Noechel, Kelly Carlisle and Anne Aristeo.

The Spartan 200 medley finished on top in the league meet and took third at state, posting a season-best 1:51.33 in the preliminaries.

Julie Kern, Livonia Stevenson, 200-yard freestyle: Another Aristeo in the making? That's putting a huge burden on a young girl, but Kern has shown tremendous promise — and she's just a freshman.

Kern was sixth at state in the 200 free (1:57.25 — preliminaries) and fifth in the 500 free (5:11.70 — prelims). She won both events at the WLAA meet.

Kelly Carlisle, Livonia Stevenson, 200-yard individual medley: A senior team captain, Carlisle did just what a coach asks for — improve.

"She posted best times in most every event she swam," said Phill. "Her year was capped off with four great swims at state meet."

Carlisle placed eighth at state in the 100 butterfly (1:00.40 — prelims) and was 12th in the 200 IM (2:14.23 — prelims). At the WLAA championships, she placed first in the 100 fly and second in the 200 IM.

Dona Schwaim, Farmington Harrison, 50-yard freestyle: Another of the younger stars from Observerland, Schwaim — just a sophomore — scored points at state by finishing 12th in the 50 freestyle (24.99 — prelims).

Her performance earned her the "Best Swim at State Meet" award for Harrison, with her school-record swim in the 50 prelims. She also qualified for state in the 100 free.

Beth Gallagher, Livonia Stevenson, diving: Talk about focus.

It seems Gallagher was determined to make her final season at Stevenson (she was a senior team co-captain) her best. She delivered that message by starting the season off with a school-record swim.

"Beth's year just got better from there," said Phill.

It did indeed — she capped it off by placing second at the WLAA meet, eighth in the Class A regional, and 10th at state, scoring 370.50 in the final.

Teri Hanson, Plymouth Canton, 100-yard butterfly: Her first year on varsity will never be forgotten.

As a freshman, Hanson finished ninth in the state in the 100 fly (1:00.80) and was just out of the scoring in the 50 free, placing 13th (25.11 — prelims).

Her performance throughout the season earned her Canton's Most Valuable Swimmer award.

"She was the leading point-scorer on our team," said Canton coach Ron Krueger. "Every time she swam, her time went down."

Lisa Richardson, Farmington Harrison, 100-yard freestyle: Richardson has consistently been one of the WLAA's better swimmers. She proved that by claiming Most Valuable Swimmer and the High Point Award from Harrison.

At state, Richardson — a junior — placed 10th in the 100 free (54.69) and 11th in the 200 free (1:58.99 — prelims). Richardson finished second at the conference meet in both events.

Anne Aristeo, Livonia Stevenson, 500-yard freestyle: So how talented is this Stevenson junior?

"Despite an injury that virtually kept her from training for eight weeks, she still managed to win two events at state and help two relays finish in the top six," said Phill.

"There is only one thing to say about Anne, and that is she's probably the best high school swimmer Michigan's ever seen."

High praise, but as previously noted, she's earned it. Aristeo was first at state in the 500 in 4:59.26 — more than five seconds better than the runner-up. She won the 200 IM in 2:05.01, more than 4½ seconds ahead of the nearest competition.

Best high school swimmer in state history? Phill could be right.

Livonia Stevenson, 200-yard freestyle relay: Maybe sometimes it just takes time to get it just right.

So it seems with the Spartans' 200 free relay team of Julie Kern, Marti McKenzie, Marla McKenzie and Jordyn Godfroid. At one time or another during the season, all had swam a leg on this relay. But it wasn't until state meet that they were teamed together.

Although their 1:42.43 prelim clocking wasn't good enough to qualify for the finals, it was better than any other Stevenson foursome clocked this season.

Adrienne Turri, Westland John Glenn, 100-yard backstroke: The bad news — there was only one senior in the final six at state meet.

The good news — none of them was younger than Turri.

The sophomore finished fourth at state for the second-straight season. In doing so, Turri recorded her personal-best time: 59.03.

"She's one of the top sophomores in the state," said Glenn coach Ron Staples. "Her technique is real strong. She has a fantastic stroke and her turns are great."

Bethany Budde, Farmington Hills Mercy, 100-yard breast stroke: The state finals were, according to coach Greg Patrell, "a great weekend," for Budde.

The reason was simple — her times were "all personal bests." Budde, a senior, finished second in the 100 breast in 1:06.17; she was third in the 200 IM in 2:10.55; and her split in Mercy's 200 medley relay was also a personal best.

"She's probably the most dedicated of all our swimmers," said Patrell, noting that Budde would often go and practice with her Birmingham/Bloomfield Atlantic club team after her Mercy workouts "she was so driven."

Livonia Stevenson, 400-yard freestyle relay: Unlike Stevenson's 200 free relay, the Spartan team of Kelly Carlisle, Julie Gallagher, Anne Aristeo and Julie Kern swam together most of the seasen.

"And usually always came out on top," Phill said. "This team posted great times all year, and it was no surprise that they would swim fast at state."

The Spartan quartet placed fourth at the state final, clocking their season's best time en route (3:38.78 — prelims). They were also WLAA champions.

SECOND TEAM

Farmington Hills Mercy, 200-yard medley relay: We learn from our mistakes, right?

The Marlin team of Caroline Kenna, Bethany Budde, Jenny MacDonald and Emily Szurek would have been Catholic League champions by an easy margin, but a jump start disqualified them.

Mercy won the league title by a comfortable margin anyway — the Marlins have won 29 of 30 league titles — but, according to Patrell, "it showed them they had to work on starts a lot more before the state meet."

Their prelim time of 1:52.28 was a two-second drop from the previous best, with all four girls recording personal bests. They went on to finish sixth in the state.

Tina Caranicolas, Livonia Stevenson, 200-yard freestyle: Perhaps the greatest disappointment for Caranicolas came at the conclusion of her high school career, when a nagging injury that plagued her most of the season kept her from competing at state.

A senior co-captain, Caranicolas — who qualified for state in the 500 free — managed to finish fourth in the 200 free and fifth in the 500 free at the WLAA finals.

Becky Noechel, Livonia Stevenson, 200-yard individual medley: Versatility is Noechel's greatest attribute, which is apparent when noting she qualified for state in four events.

"Becky's versatility is what makes her so important to the team," said Phill. "She can swim anything and bring in a lot of points. The fact that she's just in 10th grade and has two more years left makes her that much more valuable."

Danielle Clayton, Farmington Hills Mercy, 50-yard freestyle: Clayton's final performance was pretty good, considering at the start of the season it wasn't quite certain she'd be there at all. A back injury prior to the season made her questionable.

Clayton made the state cut and ended up with a personal best time of 25.61 at the state finals. It was her first time bettering 26 seconds.

Zoe Yockey, Plymouth Salem, diving: A senior, Yockey accomplished just about all a diver could ask for in her career at Salem, including earning her teammates respect — she was a team captain this year.

A lot of awards seemed to follow Yockey. She was the Rocks' most improved performer the last two years, and was their MVP this season. She was a regional qualifier for three-straight years, and was a state qualifier this season. She won the WLAA title in '94 and '95.

Jennifer MacDonald, Farmington Hills Mercy, 100-yard butterfly: A sophomore, MacDonald was busy at the state meet, swimming in the 100 fly and all three relays. "She was our fastest butterflier by far," said Patrell.

MacDonald clocked 1:01.70 at state, placing 16th and beating a personal barrier — the 1:02 mark. "That was our goal for her," Patrell said.

Erin Worden, Livonia Ladywood, 100-yard freestyle: When it came right down to it, Worden came through when it mattered most.

A senior and team captain, she had struggled through much of the season. At taper time, however, she hit it perfect, clocking a time in the 100 free two seconds faster than her previous best, finishing first at the Catholic League meet and setting a school record (56.16).

Kristie Cordts, Farmington Hills Mercy, 500-yard freestyle: In an event as long as the 500 free, considerable drop is expected after a taper. But what Cordts did was extraordinary — going from a regular-season best of 5:27 to 5:16.16 at the state prelims, eventually finishing eighth.

"Personally, I always knew she could do it," Patrell said. "Getting her to realize it was something else. But when she went 5:16 in the prelims, and then did it again the next day in the finals, she knew it was no fluke."

Farmington Hills Mercy, 200-yard freestyle relay: Bettering last year's best time was nice, but there's no hiding that Patrell had hoped for a bit more from this relay.

Still, the foursome of Danielle Clayton, Jenny MacDonald, Bethany Budde and Emily Szurek did go 1:42.9 at state, placing 16th. Earlier this season, Mercy set a team record in the 200 free relay (1:42.78).

Julie Gallagher, Livonia Stevenson, 100-yard backstroke: A senior, Gallagher will certainly be missed, but her memories of swimming at Stevenson will be proud ones.

Gallagher qualified for state in both the 100 back and 200 IM. "Julie has been a top swimmer with Stevenson for four years," said Phill. "Now, her hard work and determination is indicated in the times she posts."

Meredith Spiegel, Farmington Hills Mercy, 100-yard breast stroke: A junior who transferred to Mercy from Birmingham Groves, Spiegel had a strong Catholic League meet, finishing second in both the 200 IM and 100 breast to teammate Budde.

Although her state meet wasn't as strong, it's difficult to discount someone who scores points there. And Spiegel finished 11th in the 100 breast (1:10.43 — prelims). Her best time in the 100 breast this season came at the league meet (1:09.63).

"They did their best time by five seconds," he said, noting their 3:44.90. "I'm very pleased with that. They all dug down deep and really had good swims. They all had personal bests."

OUTDOORS

Single-season record for deer catch tumbles

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

The count is in. The buck harvest for the 1995 firearms deer season set an all-time record and surpassed the 200,000 milestone for the first time in 101 seasons of managed deer hunting in Michigan.

An estimated 208,000 bucks were among the 318,000 whitetail deer taken by hunters during the Nov. 15-30 firearms season, according to the Michigan Department of Natural Rersources.

"This year's record buck harvest occurred under nearly optimal hunting conditions," said DNR Wildlife Division Chief George Burgoyne. "Weather conditions were ideal with tracking snow in all counties on opening day. The breeding behavior of bucks was at its peak, making deer visible and available to hunters. About 95 percent of the corn was harvested compared to an average of 55-percent during the past five years."

The overall harvest of 318,000 was second only to 1989's harvest of 333,940 and was 38-percent higher than last year's total of 229,640. The record buck harvest was up 20 percent over last year's total of 173,840, and the antlerless harvest of 110,000 was up 97 percent over last year's take of 55,800.

■ Livonia's Jeffery C. Rye was one of those successful buck hunters.

Rye bagged a beautiful 8-point at 5:15 p.m. Nov. 25, while hunting at "The Hunting Camp" near his parent's home in Menominee County. Rye's beauty sported an 18¼-inch spread and dressed-out at 132 pounds.

"This was the most productive hunt to date in 15 years of The Hunting Camp," said Rye. "We took 12 bucks from camp this year, between 10 hunters. In the past five years there have been only eight bucks taken."

■ Canton's Jerry Putin was another successful buck hunter. Putin dropped a spike on Nov. 16 while hunting in Delta County. It was Putin's 13th buck and his eighth in the last 11 years.

■ Belleville's Dan Casey, an employee of the City of Southfield, took his second wall-hanger in as many years. Hunting in Sanilac County, Casey shot an 8-point with a 17-inch spread on opening day of the firearms season. Last year, Casey took a 10-point buck from the same blind.

■ Tom Byrne, of Farmington Hills, bagged a doe with his bow on Oct. 15 while hunting from a tree stand in Lake County.

■ Rick Francis, of Oxford, took a trip to Wyoming in early October and returned home with a huge whitetail buck. Hunting with a rifle, Francis dropped a monster 10-point, which sported a 20½-inch spread. The rack green-scored 163 points, and the buck dressed out at 205 pounds.

■ Lake Orion's Ken Woodbeck waited until the muzzleloading season to put some venison in his freezer. Woodbeck shot a button buck with his new Apollo muzzleloader. He was hunting in Sanilac County.

■ West Bloomfield's Mike Johnson dropped a 6-point buck on Nov. 22. The first-year hunter was using a single-shot 12 gauge and hunting along the edge of a swamp in Calhoun County.

Successful Observer & Eccentric area hunters and anglers are encouraged to report their success. Please include the hunter's name and city of residence, where the deer or elk was taken (county), means by which the deer was taken, (bow, gun, muzzleloader), and a phone number in case I need additional information. Also include any interesting facts about the hunt. Send the information to 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call me in the evenings at (810) 901-2573. Please remember to leave your phone number.

What owls spit back can be a surprising treasure

TIMOTHY NOWICKI

Cathy Rose and I found some unexpected presents on the ground the other day while we were walking through the forest. We were also able to see the givers of these gifts. Underneath a tangle of branches and vines were two great horned owls. I recognized them at first as two heavy uprights where there should have been only thin curved twigs. It was the incongruity of their forms that made me look twice.

When I stopped and looked closely I saw the feather tuft ears on one and then on the other. They tried to remain inconspicuous, but they became nervous when I stopped. I called Cathy over and we both looked at the chunky forms. As we approached for a closer look one took flight, and a few moments later the second flew in the same direction as the first.

After watching these chunky masses transform into the flying tigers of the forest and silently meld with the browns and grays of the winter trees, we approached their roost. The tangle of vines provided them some protection from the casual glance of cruising crows. Harrassment by crows is the last thing an owl wants during its daytime rest.

Below the perch were scattered spots of whitewash. The two owls had used this place more than once. Then between the guides of guano were the presents. Owl pellets. Big ones and little ones. Some were light and some were dark. All were accented with bones. Various packagings, but no clue as to the exact contents.

Owls and some other birds cannot digest all of the animals they eat as food. Fur and bones are not digestable, so this material is collected into a ball just above the first stomach of the owl. After the pellet has been formed, it is expelled through the mouth.

My friend and I collected all the pellets we could find. Later, during a program on owls, or general scientific investigation, we will open the pellets. As the packaging of fur is teased apart, the real surprises are exposed. That is the exciting part. Opening owl pellets is kind of like opening a box of chocolates: you never know what you may find inside. There could be a mouse skull, or maybe a vole or bird skull. These special bones allow us to identify what the owl has been eating. In one case, a scientist opened an owl pellet and discovered the skull of an animal that was not known to exist in the area.

I don't expect to find any new species for the area, but I always enjoy the anticipation of the unknown when I open my presents from the owls.

Madonna spiker earns top honor

Madonna University outside hitter Kelly McCausland was recently named a first-team All-America in volleyball by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA).

McCausland

The 5-foot-11 junior from Redford Union High School led the Lady Crusaders to a 48-14 overall record. She was voted tourney MVP as Madonna captured the NAIA Great Lakes Regional Championship to qualify for the NAIA Nationals (Nov. 29 to Dec. 2 at San Diego, Calif).

McCausland becomes the sixth Madonna player to be recognized as an NAIA All-America.

Other first-teamers included Dana Finley (1991 and 1992) and Kari VanDeusen (1993), along with second-teamer Mazie Pilut (1993); and third-teamers Elena Oparka (1992) and Maureen Paulin (1994).

In 214 games played this season, McCausland totaled 893 kills (4.17 per game), a .905 passing percentage, 901 digs (4.2 per game), 59 solo blocks (1.8 per game).

McCausland, who earned All-Observer first-team honors as a senior at RU, is majoring in Psychology and Criminal Justice.

Madonna junior setter Meg Paris was also recognized as an honorable mention All-America by the NAIA.

Paris also played in 214 games this season, totaling 2,349 assists (11 per game).

She also tallied 341 kills to go with 497 digs.

Paris played high school volleyball at Burton Atherton where she earned All-State honors. She was a starting setter as a freshman at Ferris State University before transferring to Flint Mott Community College in 1994.

Paris is majoring in nutrition and food science.

The Crusaders started strong in the second half and cut the margin to three with a pair of treys by Kennedy and Emert. The Yellow Jackets stretched it to 10 again but led only 51-45 with 12:02 to play.

Where Cedarville's experience showed was in its ability to strike quickly, getting more fast break opportunities and converting a good percentage of them.

Madonna trailed by 10, 68-58, with 4:38 left after Kennedy's fast break layup but could get no closer as it lost more points than it gained by turning to presses and traps.

"The game was so close," Holowicki said. "Just a few shots here and there."

Shots, maybe, that with some stability will start to fall.

■ WOMEN'S HOOP

For a team that is still searching for its court identity, Madonna University's women's basketball squad isn't doing too badly.

In fact, the Lady Crusaders are rolling — and if they find a groove that will make them perform even better, opponents better beware.

Madonna stepped its game up a notch last weekend at the University of Michigan-Dearborn Tournament, beating both Indiana Tech (73-52) Friday and Indiana University-Purdue University-Indianapolis (59-56) Saturday.

The pair of victories made it four wins in the last five games for the Crusaders, who improved to 7-5. It was also their third-straight win since Stacy Lamphere, a 6-foot senior forward who transferred in from Oakland University, joined the team.

Her presence has made a significant difference. In the win over Indiana Tech Friday, Lamphere was 9-of-16 from the floor (including 3-of-6 on three-pointers), scoring 22 points, grabbing nine rebounds and making seven steals.

Freshman guard Katie Cushman, whose 16.8 points-per-game average leads Madonna, added 16 points, with Dawn Pelc scoring 12 (and grabbing seven boards) and Jamie Heins 11.

Tech was led by Sauna Kelsaw with 15 points and 10 rebounds. Angie Marchand contributed 10 points.

Madonna overcame a sluggish first half (Tech led 31-28) with a 45-21 blitz in the second to outdistance Tech.

Saturday's championship game against IUPUI was another story. Neither team shot well — Madonna was 19-of-68, 27.9 percent; IUPUI was 19-of-56, 33.9 percent — but the Crusaders used a strong first half to build a 33-23 lead, holding IUPUI to a mere six baskets (in 27 attempts, 22.2 percent).

Cushman's 18 points was best for Madonna. Heins had 11, with seven rebounds and three steals. IUPUI was paced by Melissa Herr's 14 points, Katie Murphy's 13 and Tamica Williams' 10.

Lamphere, who limited to just five points and five rebounds in the IUPUI game, should help solidify an otherwise very young Madonna lineup. The Crusaders' top four scorers (not including Lamphere) — Cushman, Mary Murray (12.3), Dawn Pelc (9.1) and Angie Negri (7.2) — are three freshmen and a sophomore (Pelc).

The Crusaders will try to lengthen their win streak this weekend when they host the Madonna Classic. The four-team tournament begins Friday with Kalamazoo College, coached by former Plymouth Canton star Michelle Fortier, playing Tiffin University at 6 p.m. Indiana Wesleyan and Madonna meet at 8 p.m.

On Saturday, Tiffin plays Indiana Wesleyan at 1 p.m. and Kalamazoo takes on Madonna at 3 p.m.

Ocelots no match for Owens Tech

In its first game of the Owens Tech Tournament, Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team built a big lead then held on.

In its second game, SC never had any kind of lead to hold onto.

The Ocelots edged Clark State (Ohio) 86-83 in the opening round Friday in Toledo, which put them into Saturday's final against the host team. In the championship game, Owens Tech was in another dimension than SC, rolling to a 56-23 halftime lead and cruising to a 114-58 triumph.

The split left SC with a 4-6 record.

Coach Glen Donahue's assessment of the weekend: "We snuck out a win over a good Clark State team on Friday. We got blasted by a very good Owens Tech team in the championship game (Saturday)."

Against Clark State, the Ocelots led 42-30 at the half, thanks to eight points from both Tyris Williams and Jason Maschke (from Livonia Franklin). In the second half, Clark State made a run behind Keith Blankenship (14 of his 16 points), Chip Graf (14 of his 17) and Tim Stephens (12 of his 18). Mike Lawson totaled 10 points for Clark State.

■ MEN'S HOOPS

But the deficit proved too large. SC was led by Naron Burks with 19 points, 13 coming in the second half. Maschke finished with 16, with Tim Burns and Aaron Brown netting 12 each and Williams 10.

Free throws might have made a difference, if either team could have converted them. SC was 14-of-30 from the line, but Clark State — which made nine three-pointers in the game — wasn't much better, hitting 16-of-32.

On Saturday, Owens dominated throughout. The host team led 23-12 midway through the first half and just kept pulling away.

Dwaun Warmack topped SC with 17 points. Maschke contributed 16. No other Ocelot had more than five.

Owens Tech got 21 points from Jerry Wells and 18 more from Todd Hill.

SC is now idle until Wednesday, when it hosts Henry Ford CC in its Eastern Conference opener. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Jeff Kennedy and Brandon Slone (Plymouth Salem) led the Crusaders with 24 points apiece. Kennedy added seven rebounds and three steals; Slone grabbed nine rebounds and dished out four assists.

Mike Maryanski finished with 17 points, nine boards, three blocks and two steals; Jason McNabb had 10 points, seven rebounds and two blocks; and Christian Emert dished out nine assists and made two steals.

Ryan Bond's 24 points and five assists topped IPFW. Both Ryan Glidden and Jason Werling added 16 points, Werling making three steals, and Kyle Kirby collected 15 points and seven rebounds.

Madonna had a 43-38 lead at the half. While the Crusaders didn't exactly shoot the lights out in the first 20 minutes (17-of-40, 42.5 percent), it was better than IPFW (12-of-29, 41.4 percent). In the second half, however, Madonna drooped to 14-of-38 (36.8 percent); IPFW improved to 16-of-31 (51.6 percent).

INVITING IDEAS

Greet holiday guests with a warm drink

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Nothing smells or tastes better on a cold blustery night than entering a warm permeated by the wonderful smells of hot mulled cider, hot chocolate with melting marshmallows, mulled cherry wine, or a Wassail Bowl simmering lightly waiting for tasting.

The tradition of greeting guests with a warm drink goes back centuries. Hot chocolate has remained a favorite since the time of the Aztecs when only royalty was able to delight in this drink. The Wassail Bowl tradition has its roots in England.

The tradition of greeting guests with a warm drink goes back centuries. Hot chocolate has remained a favorite since the time of the Aztecs when only royalty was able to delight in this drink. The Wassail Bowl tradition has its roots in England. Buttered toast slices were placed on top of this delightful holiday warmer giving rise to the saying — "giving of a toast" or "drinking a toast" — the sharing of good cheer, and expression of kind wishes.

■ Mulled Spiced Cherry Wine: Cherry wine is easily available downstate. Chateau Grand Traverse offers a delicious Spiced Cherry Wine. It includes a flavorful blend of spices, but you might want to add your own touches. As with any mulled cider, add whatever tickles your fancy — cinnamon sticks, sliced oranges, freshly ground nutmeg, lemon peel, crystallized ginger, maple syrup, honey, or oranges filled with whole cloves.

If using small bits of spice, place them in a tea ball, muslin or cheesecloth bag. If using large spices like cinnamon quills — leave them afloat. Warm your mulled drink, do not boil. When serving, remove the spice bags and use a cinnamon quill as a swizzle stick.

■ Hot Chocolate: There are many commercial hot chocolates on the market. I am partial to those flavored ones. To your hot chocolate, whatever type you choose, add some freshly whipped cream, savings of bar chocolate, marshmallows or marshmallow cream, cinnamon sticks, candy canes, or a chocolate covered mint stick.

This is my favorite Wassail Bowl recipe. It can be served as a welcome warmer to start wintertime festivities or as treat. This recipe can be doubled or tripled.

English Wassail Bowl

8 small MacIntosh apples, washed, cored and sliced into thick rounds
2½ cups firmly packed light brown sugar
3 quarts of your favorite beer or ale
1 fifth Madeira
1½ teaspoons freshly grated nutmeg
1 teaspoon grated ginger
½ teaspoon cardamom
¼ teaspoon mace
5 whole cloves
4 allspice berries
6 eggs, separated
1 cup brandy, heated
8 slices buttered toast, cut into quarters

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Place all spices in a large tea ball, cheesecloth or muslin bag.

Place the sliced apples into a baking dish and sprinkle with ½ cup of the brown sugar. Bake apples for 30 minutes.

On the top of the stove, in a large saucepan, heat the beer or ale and Madeira, 2 cups of light brown sugar and spices (placed in a bag or tea ball).

While the liquid is warming, in a large bowl beat the egg yolks until thick — in another bowl beat the egg whites until they form very stiff peaks — fold egg yolks into the whites.

Slowly add the eggs to the liquid — tablespoon by tablespoon until approximately one cup has been added. Add the remaining liquid in a slow, steady stream beating well with a whisk.

Return the liquid-egg mixture to a very low simmer for several minutes. Place the baked apples into a warmed punch bowl or over-proof serving container — pour in the liquid mixture, then add the warmed brandy. Serve with buttered toast quarters afloat. Serves 8.

Hot Buttered Rum

Cube Sugar
Dark rum
Unsalted butter
Cinnamon sticks (optional)
Candy canes (optional)
Freshly ground nutmeg (optional)

For each individual serving:

In a ceramic mug dissolve a cube of sugar with a little boiled water. Add a jigger of rum and fill the mug with boiling water and top with a pat of butter. To spice it up a bit — add cinnamon sticks and nutmeg or a fresh candy cane.

INTERIOR MOTIVES

Accessories can add your personal touch

NAOMI STONE LEVY

Part I

In 1963 I committed myself to discuss my favorite topic in a newspaper interview. I loved accessories then. I love accessories now. Am I consistent? They are the core of one's individuality and the basis of one's interiors.

Great interior designers can guide you through a morass of confusion in planning your interior design. They can aid in the choices of style, of color, of fabrics, of furniture, of carpeting or rugs, of lamps and of wall covering. They shouldn't influence your collection of "bibelot." This is the way you express your own personality.

Collecting for you may have begun when you were a youngster — perhaps with baseball cards. You are now a discerning adult. You have your own charisma. This is how you tell the world who you are. You collect, and you show off your acquisitions. If you still have your baseball cards (and they are worth a lot of money now), you could mount and frame them for an entrance hall, or for your library. Nostalgia.

Continue your adult life with meaningful accessories. Very small objects are endearing, but they get lost unless they are clustered in a group.

I have a client who has a countless number of small antique carved ivory "Netsukes." They provide him with hours of research and volumes of books discussing the subject. His wife is very understanding of his mania. They didn't know how to display his treasures. I found a hanging wall cabinet with a mirrored back. Now we can view the backs as well as the fronts of this incredible collection, and they are a focal point in their room.

Showing your metal

Haunting antique shops and shows will introduce you to a variety of collectibles, some extremely valuable, others less costly, but nevertheless desirable. Pewter, brass or copper objects are charming when displayed in an open Welsh dresser. Oriental bronze is unparalleled among the metals. Silver in any form is another subject to deal with. Any of the foregoing five metals can constitute serious collecting.

Pewter reproductions are very acceptable, but naturally don't measure up to antique pieces that have a glow, because there is a difference in the alloys. They should be highly polished. There are tankards and pitchers and mugs with elegant shapes. There exist pipkins and bowls, ad infinitum. A display of these is a study in Americana.

Brass must always be highly polished to suit the English. They take great pride in their collections, as do I. A significant group of candlesticks is dazzling, the minimum number being four. If you are fortunate enough to have bought antique sticks years ago be advised they have escalated in price beyond belief. My own collection of brass is primarily composed of antique snuff boxes, though I have many other wonderful objects.

Investigate trivets, originally used at the open fireplace. They are marvelous accessories, with multiple uses. Their pierced brass tops are welded onto wrought-iron bases. There are also polished steel trivets that have unlimited possibilities. Place any trivet next to a chair and use it as a telephone stand. Antique dealers will be happy to share their knowledge on any of the above subjects; ask a zillion questions.

Copper also has a glow intrinsic to itself. Plates and bowls and cooking vessels are often to be found. Don't be discouraged if you find a badly discolored piece; a little "elbow grease" will rescue it. Copper weathervanes have become treasures for the discriminating. The patina of gray-green from exposure to the elements adds to their incredible beauty. The farm animal forms find a niche in a primitive decor as well as in a most sophisticated background.

Oriental bronze has its own dark, quiet elegance. The shape is the primary factor. There is almost always embossing on part of the surface. I recently bought a fabulous tall "Hibachi" that was burned and obviously much used. There is a plethora of bronze still out there.

A sensational way to handle any of the above very large metal vases or bowls is to amass a gigantic arrangement of bittersweet. This will last for months and months and justify the original cost. You must find the bittersweet immediately. It isn't always available.

Another metal that is intriguing is "Tole," or tin. It is often found in antique chestnut urns. It is often found in antique lamps. It is often found as lighting fixtures and sconces. It isn't often found japanned (painted). Associated with early French interiors, tole also blends especially well with Early American. It is so sophisticated you can use it anywhere.

For those of you who love the more formal look, silver in any of its shapes is elegant. A three- to eight-piece tea service on a tray is a discriminating accessory for a dining room.

Remember our ancestor, Paul Revere? His classic bowl is available in many diameters. The largest size, brimming only with grapes, or only apples or only lemons, makes a colossal statement. In contrast, a group of three or more small-sized ones filled with nuts, candy and carmel corn is a welcome sight.

See LEVY, 7D

There are many sleek silver contemporary designs that must be considered for display as well as use. The designers are as prestigious as Eliel Saarinen of Cranbrook fame. I would count myself lucky to own his coffee urn, sugar bowl and creamer. Charles Rennie MacIntosh created a fascinating massive sterling candlestick in the early 1900s. It is as modern as if designed yesterday.

Knowing wood

In pursuit of wood, investigate pieces called "Treen." Shaped and turned out of one solid piece of tree root it is exquisitely grained. These items are rarely large. Also seek out wooden tea caddy boxes that oft times were trimmed with ivory. They are generally 18th or 19th century, but there are good reproductions. Remember the Boston Tea Party? Tea was a precious commodity and respectfully treated with tender loving care.

Wooden snuff boxes were also very important to our predecessors, and should be researched to comprise a collection. Wooden barley twisted candlesticks with wonderful brass bobeche cups make captivating additions.

Another incredible antique accessory box is fashioned of tortoise shell. The very special onees are trimmed with silver and/or ivory. They are usually beige and brown in coloration, but some have been dyed red. Antique show dealers inevitably have several on display. Beware of the dyed ones; they may not be genuine.

A visit to the DuMouchelle Galleries at 409 E. Jefferson will open your eyes. After you learn the difference between good, bad and indifferent through a lot of answered questions, your tastes have become more educated. Reproductions will never again satisfy you. Heaven help you, you are addicted!

Don't forget the birds

While you are enjoying the many treats that abound this holiday season, don't forget to share some goodies with the birds. Decorating a tree for our feathered friends and other wildlife is an activity the whole family can enjoy.

Ideas for edible "decorations" that you can make and place on the tree include stringing popcorn, fresh cranberries, thick fresh orange slices, peanuts in the shell, dried apples or dried figs on heavy string, packing pinecones with suet and birdseed; and/or hanging fresh crabapples by the stem, rice cakes, baby dried corn bundles, dried ears of colorful corn with husks or red seedless grapes tied up in bunches. In addition, peanuts in the shell and whole walnuts can be scattered under the tree.

Natural rough brown string, ribbon and raffia can be used for hanging and decorations. Also consider decorating with lengths of natural wool or string. The birds will use this material for nesting in the spring.

"Decorating a tree for the birds is fun and easy activity," said Chris Gardner, owner of the Wild Birds Unlimited store at 2626 S. Rochester Road in Rochester Hills. "Just select a live, growing tree — preferably an evergreen or other tree that does not lose its leaves — that is strong enough to support animals other than birds, like squirrels, that come to dine."

You will also want to select a tree somewhere near a window so that once you have completed your decorating, you and your family can sit back and watch as the many beautiful birds and creatures come to enjoy their holiday treats.

For more ideas on how to "treat" the birds and other wildlife this holiday season and in the following winter months, call a certified birdfeeding specialist at Wild Birds Unlimited, (810) 852-5220, or stop in to see how easy it is to bring a whole new world of entertainment to your back yard.

Wild Birds Unlimited is part of the original and largest franchise system of backyard birdfeeding and nature specialty stores, with more than 200 locations throughout the United States and Canada. Wild Birds Unlimited specializes in expert information and offers an exclusive line of products designed specifically for the hobby of backyard birdfeeding.

New works displayed at Ford Estate

The Henry Ford Estate has acquisitioned several historic appointments and artifacts for the 1995 holiday seaon themed "The Spirit of Christmas."

"We are excited to announce that several newly acquisitioned pieces will be on display during the 1995 Christmas tours," said Mark Braden, manager of business operations for Henry Ford Estate on the campus of the University of Michigan-Dearborn. "The needlepointed chairs, new gathering room layout and the communion set will add greatly to the visitor experience. Return visitors will appreciate the significant work we have done since they were here last. Christmas is a very special time at Fair Lane, and we hope everyone comes to visit for a tour, a meal or both."

The items include hand-carved wooden nativity figures purchased by Henry and Clara Ford during a trip to Oberammergua, Germany, in the 1930s; a communion set with a silver engraved footed paten, a silver chalice with knob stem and glass jar with a silver screw top all bought by Henry Ford for Clara; and recently acquired needlepoint highback chairs and loveseat.

game rooms

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

On the cover: John Moran of Bloomfield Hills enjoys dealing the cards at his own game room poker table. Game rooms are now a common feature in homes.

Remember going down to the recreation room in the basement to shoot a game of pool with friends?

Times change and with it the terminology. Twenty years ago, leisure time meant playing pool, darts, or pin ball in the basement. Today, a game room houses video games, air hockey, foosball, and other forms of recreational equipment.

Tiffany style billiard lamps, neon signs, juke boxes, home theater wall systems and popcorn wagons decorate this amusement area of the 1990s in style.

"Game rooms in Michigan take place in the lower level of the house. The reason for having a separate area for recreational activities is because people are staying at home more, plus it's a place where the kids can bring their friends," said Bob Seroka, owner of Billy Bob's Gameroom Furnishings in Royal Oak,

"It's great for an evening at home and lots and lots of fun."

Billy Bob's specializes in fun and functional furniture for games rooms. Depending on whether you prefer to sit in front of the television to relax during leisure time or play any one of a number of games, functional pieces like a gold plated slot machine from the 1930s to pub tables and chairs will create an environment tailored to activities you find pleasurable.

The type of furnishings for a game room is up to you in more ways than one. Solid cherry, white washed oak, golden pecan, and formica black pool tables come in all sizes and finishes to coordinate with existing home decor.

"A lot of people usually want to add a 2 in 1 or 3 in 1 game table because it takes up less space than a pool table. The home computer is a big part of a game room also. Home office furniture is a big adjunct because computer games and computers are a way of life," Seroka said.

"The neat part of doing a game room is that you can do it piecemeal adding to it as finances permit. You can spend as little as $4 to 5,000 to more than $60,000 for a game room fully outfitted right down to the poker chips that are personalized."

John Moran would rather not say how much the game room in his Bloomfield Hills home cost. Designed by Robin Wilson of Perlmutter Friewald in Franklin, the area houses a 2 in 1 game table, an ornately carved Brunswick billiards table, and a home theater center with projection TV. Moran spends many a night here playing poker with pals. A refrigerator and microwave oven located behind the wet bar enables him to prepare a quick snack without leaving guests to run upstairs to the kitchen. The dishwasher makes clean up easy.

"It's gone from a raw basement to a wonderful place to entertain. I never had a functional lower level as a kid so this room is used," said John Moran.

"I entertain a lot and have a 17-year-old son who uses it. I wanted to make something comfortable for myself to enjoy and for everyone else to feel comfortable. I'm very happy with the way it turned out. It's just a wonderful thing to do for yourself. The projection TV is probably better than going to the movies."

At Viscount Pool and Spa Centers in Livonia and Waterford, this is the season for gaming room sales. Many customers come in looking for Christmas gifts of electronic dart boards, air hockey or foosball for their kids and end buying a pool table for the family. If space is at a premium, consider buying a table that doubles or triples functionality.

"Pool tables are real popular now because it's a winter sport. We offer a game room package of a pool table that converts to a ping pong table," said salesperson Michael Miller.

Still unsure as to whether you want to devote an entire area to a game room? Amusement Sales Inc. in Redford sells used pin ball machines, coin activated pool tables, and video games.

"People say they're buying a game for their kids but they're buying it for themselves. The older pieces are what people want because they're more affordable. With the pinballs like Pac-Man or videos, they make them only one year, so they're hard to find once an arcade installs the new games," said manager Sahar Samaha.

"Right now darts are hot sellers because many people play in dart tournaments."

One last thought before buying equipment for a game room: Measure the area where the game room equipment will be located. Be sure to leave enough room around pool, air hockey and foosball tables to play the game. Then, measure the game or furniture before you buy it.

LET'S REMODEL

You can pour concrete during winter months

NOTE: The article on replacing windows in the winter months on Nov. 23 was written by Martin Szelag, president of American Standard Windows, Detroit, 313-537-2200.

Q: Is it safe to pour a concrete foundation for an addition in the winter months?

The answer to this question is an unequivocal yes. However, there are a number of key factors which must be taken into consideration. Several of the critical factors for a successful pour include:

B: Concrete mixture (and additives)

C: Skill and experience of contractors in winter concrete placement.

D: Loading Factors

The two key components of a successful winter pour of concrete would be the concrete mixture (additives, i.e., antifreeze) and insulation. The first item (concrete mixture) is critical in the proper cure of the placed concrete. A number of additives are antifreeze components which retard or eliminate the formation of ice crystals within the concrete mixture matrix. In addition, the second item of consideration is the proper and effective placement of insulation — be it commercial/industrial, ready-made blankets or a simple placement of fiberglass batt insulation with polyethylene (visqueen sheeting) for moisture and heat retention. The process of curing (or hardening) of concrete takes place within the material matrix through hydration. The hydration process generates substantial heat, and consequently it is the capture or retention of this heat which allows the proper curing action without the development of ice crystals. To reiterate, each of the above factors are an integral part of a successful winter placement of concrete. Clients should always be clear with their contractor regarding their expectations. Further, it would behoove the consumer to clearly convey to their contractor the expectations of his performance and the consequences of nonperformance.

Gary Burtha, Burtha Brothers, Allen Park, 313-381-6578.

Q: My husband and I need to find someone to help with many small repairs around our home. Who does this type of work?

First of all I would suggest that you call a remodeling contractor with whom you've worked before and who performed his work as per his promises and to your satisfaction. If you don't have a relationship with a professional remodeling contractor, then seek one out through referrals from friends or call professional associations such as NARI for a listing of the contractor members in your area. Many clients assume that general contractors won't be interested in small repair jobs. However, contractors sometimes have slow seasons, especially in the winter, and may be looking for small jobs to fill their schedules. Clients often find they are lacking the time to do these jobs or are not sure of how to go about them. Many professional remodelers are starting Handy-Man divisions to handle these repairs. Keep in mind that this work is tedious, time consuming and is priced accordingly. The work can involve several trips to suppliers to pick up parts for unseen or unexpected repairs. As a result, some contractors shy away from this work and some avoid it because clients do not understand the expense of the repairs. If the contractor takes the time to explain the process and time involved to do these repairs, then the customer can decide to either hire the work out or attempt to do the work themselves, although most people have a hard time fitting it into their busy schedules.

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

JOE GAGNON

In the American home of today, we have the luxury of appliances which do almost everything imaginable. When one of these products happens to fail its intended task, the need for a service technician occurs in many of these homes.

I would estimate that over 20 percent of service calls are needless and could have been taken care of by the homeowner. The intention of this column today is to give you some things to check out yourself, before you call for service.

Clothes Washer — Will not operate, doesn't even make a little sound. Has no power.

A. Check the plug. Even if there is a double plug and something else operates OK out of that same fixture, check the oulet that the washer plugs into. Use a lamp, nighlite, or something that assures you that the connection has power.

B. Is the circuit breaker tripped or do you have a blown fuse.

C. Place the back of your hand against the door of the fuse box. If it's hot, it could indicate problems with the box itself. Always use the back of your hand to check any electrical component which is operating. It's easier to remove your hand from a short if your fingers are not wrapped around it.

D. Turn your timer dial to another cycle, if it operates now, it could indicate a defective timer.

E. Make sure that all the knobs or buttons are pressed in firmly.

F. Some washers have an out of balance switch that you can reset by moving the agitator back and forth to center the tub. Make sure the tub is not lobsided.

G. Pull the plug out of the outlet and examine the prongs on the cord. If you see one which is all brown or discolored or loose you may need a new connector available at your local hardware store. If you wiggle the cord while it is plugged in and the washer begins to operate, you can be sure you need a new connector.

H. With the timer set to operate, wiggle the knob gently and if it begins to operate, you could have a bad timer. Remember that the check list you have just read pertains to a washer which doesn't make a sound when you turn it on. If it does make a sound, it is time to go to plan B.

Clothes Washer — Makes a sound but doesn't fill with water.

A. Your washer is designed to fill with water before it begins to agitate. On the back of the washer is the water fill valve which your 2 hoses connect to. This water valve has two electrical coils which act as a magnet and lift a plunger to let water in according to the setting you placed it on. It is a common part to fail, and easy enough for any consumer to replace themselves. Set the water temperature for cold wash and turn it on. Do the same thing on the hot wash setting. If you had nothing come out during one of these settings, your water valve is usually defective. Before you purchase a water valve, please look inside the valve where you removed the hoses. The screens could be plugged not letting any water through the valve. They can be removed with a pair of eyebrow tweezers and cleaned and replaced.

B. Make sure the water level control buttons are pressed in firmly.

C. Did someone shut off the water faucets to the washer.

Clothes washer — Overfills

A. If your washer happens to ovefill and your lucky enough to see this happen, tap the water level contol knob with your knuckle, and if it stops filling, you may have to replace the part called a pressure switch. Not so hard to do once you get a little direction.

B. If the washer continues to fill after you have shut it off, and you now must shut off the water at the faucets, you will need to replace the water valve. This is a very common problem which occurs to many consumers. Are you one of those folks who leaves the house for work after throwing a load of clothes into the washer. I have met many hundreds of people who have done this for years and will never do it again. When you come home and find 3 feet of water in your basement or laundry room or your ceiling and floor completely destroyed, you won't do it again.

Footnote — Stop, Look, and Listen can not only save you a service call but could also save you thousands of dollars in water damage.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliance in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

Plan ahead for those winter windowboxes

MARTY FIGLEY

At this time of the year, windowboxes can look pretty bleak and most of us fill in the bare spaces with evergreen branches, a big Christmas bow and other trappings of the season. Alas! many of these once beautiful displays are left in the boxes too long and become eyesores after they have served their purpose.

In our cold Michigan winters there is not much hope at all for colorful windowboxes, but some innovative ideas come to mind when you again plan your planting scheme that you may wish to try.

If you are growing English ivy, Hedera helix in a windowbox, you have a start on an interesting display for the whole season, as it is evergreen and adds a graceful feel to the picture. If not, you might plant "Baltica," which stays dark green in winter, but is a vigorous grower or "Glacier" with foliage that turns pinkish in winter. Another variety "Needlepoint" grows slowly and has small leaves with pointed lobes. If the top does die back in the winter, the plant will probably come back from the roots.

A large windowbox will hold Japanese holly, Ilex crenata, which usually grows less than four feet tall. The varieties "Convexa," "Glory," and "Northern Beauty" are undamaged by winter cold.

Common periwinkle, vinca minor, stays evergreen, and winter sun and cold can color the foliage a purplish-bronze. In a windowbox it will need to be cut back and pruned as needed. If it is cut back to a node, it will became bushy rather than "straggly." Lavender blue flowers are the norm, but varieties with pale blue, darker purple, pink and white forms are available, which appear in the spring. Good for sun or shade, sunny locations produce more flowers.

Two species of wild ginger, Asarum, also stay green in the winter. They are A. europeum and A. caudatum and reach a height around 6 inches. Most ginger species produce some plants with foliage which has silver, white, or gray markings in various patterns, which will add interest all season long.

You might want to try wintergreen, Gaultheria procumbens with white bell-like flowers which turn into bright, orange-red berries in the fall and reaches a height of eight inches. These plants like forest-like conditions, lots of moist compost rich soil on the acid side and are slow spreading.

Another thought is to use shrubs such as dwarf conifers and evergreen shrubs. Box, Buxus semperviens can be easily trained into geometric shapes. Another choice might be Chamaecyparis lawsoniana, which includes many cultivars. The foliage of "Green Globe" (to one foot) is bright green, while "Minima Aurea" (about two feet) has dense gold foliage.

Juniperus communes is another candidate. "Conpressa" is good as is J. squamata "Blue Star,"(16 inches) a bushy plant with steely blue foliage. Two dwarf mountain pine, Pinus mugo, varieties have rounded shapes, "Humpy" has short needles and "Ophir" turns bright gold in the winter. Both grow to about 16 inches in height).

One Santolina, which reaches a height of about one foot and has silvery foliage, is S. chamaecyparissus nana, is small enough for a windowbox. If the summer flowers are trimmed off, the plant will stay more compact.

Three local specialty nurseries which carry dwarf plants are Arrowhead Alpines in Fowlerville, (517-223-3581), open April through October; Saguaro Rare Plant Nursery, Whitmore Lake, (313-449-4237, open March through November; and Alexander and Associates, Mt. Clemens (313-286-1500), which carries rare conifers and plants for Japanese gardens.

Colorful blooming plants can fill in the green foliage to add interest during the other seasons. If you are using pots in the window boxes you can readily change the "decor" as you wish.

For winter protection, you might try putting containers in larger ones and filling the space between them with a two-inch layer of insulation such as Perlite.

Enjoy the challenge of trying new things, isn't that what gardening is all about.

A trip to Matthael Botanical Gardern's conservatory Is always a nice way to get out of the winter cold. After 20 years of growth their Agave pendunculifera is preparing to bloom in the Desert House area. This succulent can grow up to 30 feet tall and after the bloom, the mother plant will die. Future plants grow from seeds, bubils or vegetative offshoots. These plants do not automatically bloom but conditions must be right for this to occur. You may visit from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily; there is a small admission charge for the conservatory, Call 313-998-7061 for further information.

BOOK BREAK

Give children some good books this holiday

BY VICTORIA DIAZ
SPECIAL WRITER

Looking for that special little gift for that special little someone? Make it a glorious book. Herein, a list of several new titles making their marks in children's literature this holiday season:

"Swami on Rye," written and illustrated by Maira Kalman ($16, Viking). Kalman's charming sense of humor, plus her offbeat way with words enliven yet another tale of adventure, featuring the gifted canine poet, Max. This time around, the lovable wag steps out to purchase a nice snack for his expectant wife, Crepes, only to end up touring India instead. In this "pickle of a journey," the mighty Max encounters the various and sundry, including Anna Pavlovs, holy cows, and Pinky the porcupine. Eventually, he finds his way back to his "luscious fig," and this spottily plotted, dotty tale ends swell. Kalman writes not exactly for children and not exactly for those bigger people who read to them at bedtime, but mostly just for fun. Her illustrations are as goofy and inventive as her prose-poetry, and seem almost to dance across the pages.

"Miss Spider's Wedding," written and illustrated by David Kirk ($15.95, Scholastic). The honor of your presence is requested at this colorful ceremony in which the lovely, polka-dotted Miss Spider weds Holley, the puny little spider man she adores. He worships the ground she crawls around on, too, but before a happy ending takes place, the amorous arachnids have to get past some really sticky spots. The worst of these is one Spiderus Reeves who, in a jealous rage, nearly has Holley for dinner, before Miss Spider (definitely a '90s woman) comes to the rescue with her rolling pin. Luscious artwork simply shimmers on these pages, as if Kirk had added a dab of electricity to his paintbox. For very young children, this may not be the ideal bedtime story. Some intensely colored scenes involving the sinister Spiderus could encourage nightmares.

"The Library," by Sarah Stewart; illustrated by David Small ($15, Farrar Straus Giroux). This Michigan husband and wife team are back again (their first collaboration was "The Money Tree"), this time to record the versified bio of one Elizabeth Brown. After falling from the sky as a baby, Elizabeth goes on to lead a rather unremarkable life, but for one exception: "She learned to read quite early/And at an incredible rate." More than anything else, Elizabeth loves to read and, as a consequence, she surrounds herself with books. As the years go by, her collection grows into a vast personal library. And then one day, "When volumes climbed the parlor walls/And blocked the big front door,/She had to face the awful fact/She could not have one more." What to do when one is disappearing in the midst of one's favorite things? The titian-haired bibliophile's solution may not surprise, but it will charm nonetheless. David Small's softly colored, pleasingly cluttered artwork, plus clever, out-of-frame drawings perfectly complement this slightly daffy story.

LAST WORDS: For adult readers, Arthur V. Vicini's debut novel, "The Survivors," a coming-of age story set in the '30s through the '60s, is available at selectpd bookstores. Vicini is a Northville writer.

Expert says planned giving helps charity, donor

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

Phyllis Wordhouse says she has a way to increase a community's net worth.

"I work with a lot of successful people," she said, and many have the need and desire to give back something to the community.

Charitable Remainder Trusts are a way to give back to the community, taking success up to the next level to significance, she said.

Wordhouse, a certified financial planner, says the CRT method of planned giving offers savings on taxes and also benefits charities. A tax-exempt trust is set up and the donor makes a gift of assets to the trust. The asset is invested. The donor receives a tax deduction and an income that can be deferred or received immediately. When the donor dies the value of the asset goes to charity.

"Happiness is all the little givings all through your life," she said during a presentation at a recent Canton Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

At a time when government cutbacks mean organizations are getting less money, Wordhouse said charitable remainder trusts are a way to build up organizations in the community.

She compared setting up CRTs to taking toys away from a child when you're not happy with what they are doing with them. "If you're not happy with how Uncle Sam is spending your money, take it away from him," she said.

Many people assume you have to be elderly or have money to do this, she said. But, she suggests families make mission statements at home similar to those in business.

CRTs have been fine-tuned since the mid-1980s, Wordhouse said. Now they can be set up at a very reduced price, she said. She charges $1,300 to set up a minimum investment of $2,000. Annual custodial fees of about $30 to $200 are also set up.

All the money in it remains tax free, she said. In a way it's similar to an IRA or 401(k), but with this taxes aren't paid when the money is withdrawn, she said.

And also unlike an IRA or 401(k) the money can be touched at any time, not just at retirement age. The earnings can also be deferred, she said.

"When you pass away the charity receives the money," she said.

"What if all of us did this for charities?" she said. Then communities would have the best schools, symphonies and other nonprofit organizations, she said.

A trust cannot be touched if a person gets into legal trouble, she said. She gave the example of a divorced woman who when she divorced her wealthy husband couldn't touch his money because it was in trust. That woman has now decided to put money in trust so her own money is protected.

As an example of the advantage of a CRT, she said starting at age 24, putting $10,000 a year into the CRT, could result at age 60 in $242,780 in annual income and $2.5 million to the charity of the donor's choice as well as tax deductions and other money available for spending.

If $2,000 a year were donated starting at age 24, by age 60, the donor would have a $8,534 cumulative tax deduction, $8,684 annual income, $26,400 available to be withdrawn and $608,400 to charity.

Asset protection is an upcoming concern, she said. One use of a CRT is to eliminate capital gains taxes, she said. Also, companies can move dollars from the balance sheet to their favorite nonprofit organizations, she said.

Here's how to contact business network

Business Network International, a California-based company with two operations in Livonia, offers professionals a chance to join a "ready-made" network for a fee.

By becoming a member of a chapter, professionals in a variety of occupations — from accountants, appraisers, florists to travel agents and veterinarians — join others in passing along business referrals to one another. And according to its members, there are many referrals being passed along.

Professionals who join BNI pay a yearly fee of $195. In return, they attend weekly meetings where they share information about their business, learn about others' businesses and pass along referrals to group members.

O&E ONLINE

EMORY DANIELS

■ I found this great Grinch Christmas site using the yahoo, the master of all Web search tools.

Let's hop into our sleighs, give a flick of the reins, and sail through Christmasland on the Internet.

A low-key, warm, comfy site is a personal home page of a student at Harvard.

"I am an elf, but I don't have pointy ears or anything," explains this Webmaster. "I am actually a college student who works for Santa part time. He has given me permission to collect E-mail wish lists from kids, though. So feel free to tell me what you want for Christmas, and I'll make sure that the message gets to the Big Guy."

The words "tell me" are the link to the E-mail Santa option. Point your Web browser to http://www.fas.harvard.edu/~tilde/markz/xmas.html, and find these links among others: Holiday Reminder Service, Interview with the Prez on Christmas Shopping, Read The Night Before Christmas, The Christmas Prayer of Mookie and Pelo, and others.

Santa Land, a traditional holiday home page, can be accessed at http://santaland.north-pole.net/. At this site you will Christmas carols, music, electronic books and stories, electronic shopping, recipes, tips on care of holiday plants, radar tracking of Santa on Christmas Eve, and personal letters from Santa.

I found this great Grinch Christmas site using the yahoo, the master of all Web search tools. Point to Grinch Net at http://lamar.colostate.edu/~tilde/ddave/rinchnet.html, and you will find, among other things, several Grinch cartoons, "The Grinch Song," several Grinch tales such as "The Grinch nabs some carefully hung stockings" and "The Grinch pats Cindy Lou Who on her head." There also are links to D. Lister's "Cyber Seuss Page," to "Mercury Records' Original Soundtrack," to "Santa's Workshop," and to "Holly and Sara's Christmas Page."

To do your own Christmas search at yahoo, go to http://www.yahoo.com/. Type in the word "Christmas" and hit ENTER. You will be given two options, choose "Society and Culture:Holidays:Christmas." Besides the Net Grinch, other sites include Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," "Christmas 'round the World", "Christmas Music", "Christmas.com", "Holiday Fun Facts", "Uncle Bob's Christmas Page", and "ToySHARE," whose purpose is to help low-income families provide new toys for their children for Christmas by doing community service.

Uncle Bob's Christmas Page is a pretty complete site with lots of links that can be accessed at http://miso.wwa.com/(tilde)boba/christmas.html. Beyond the usual stuff, users will find the words to the "Yes, Virginia . . ." reading and to several traditional carols.

Concentric Network Corporation is again offering its E-mail Santa service. E-mail messages can be sent to Santa at santa@concentric.net. Santa also will make an appearance on his own page on the World Wide Web at http://www.concentric.net/santa. Last year Santa received more than 15,000 E-mail messages from around the world through this service alone. A volunteer staff of Concentric employees and customers assisted in personally answering the messages in more than 10 languages.

The Christmas Cartoon Funnies is a site of six festive cartoons by two of America's leading freelance cartoonists, Randy Glasbergen and Ted Goff. Take a look at http://www.borg.com/(tilde mark)rjgtoons/mc.html.

Heather Newman, business reporter for The Tennessean in Nashville, recommends this noncommercial Santa site, http://www.claus.com.

New electronic journal targets small business

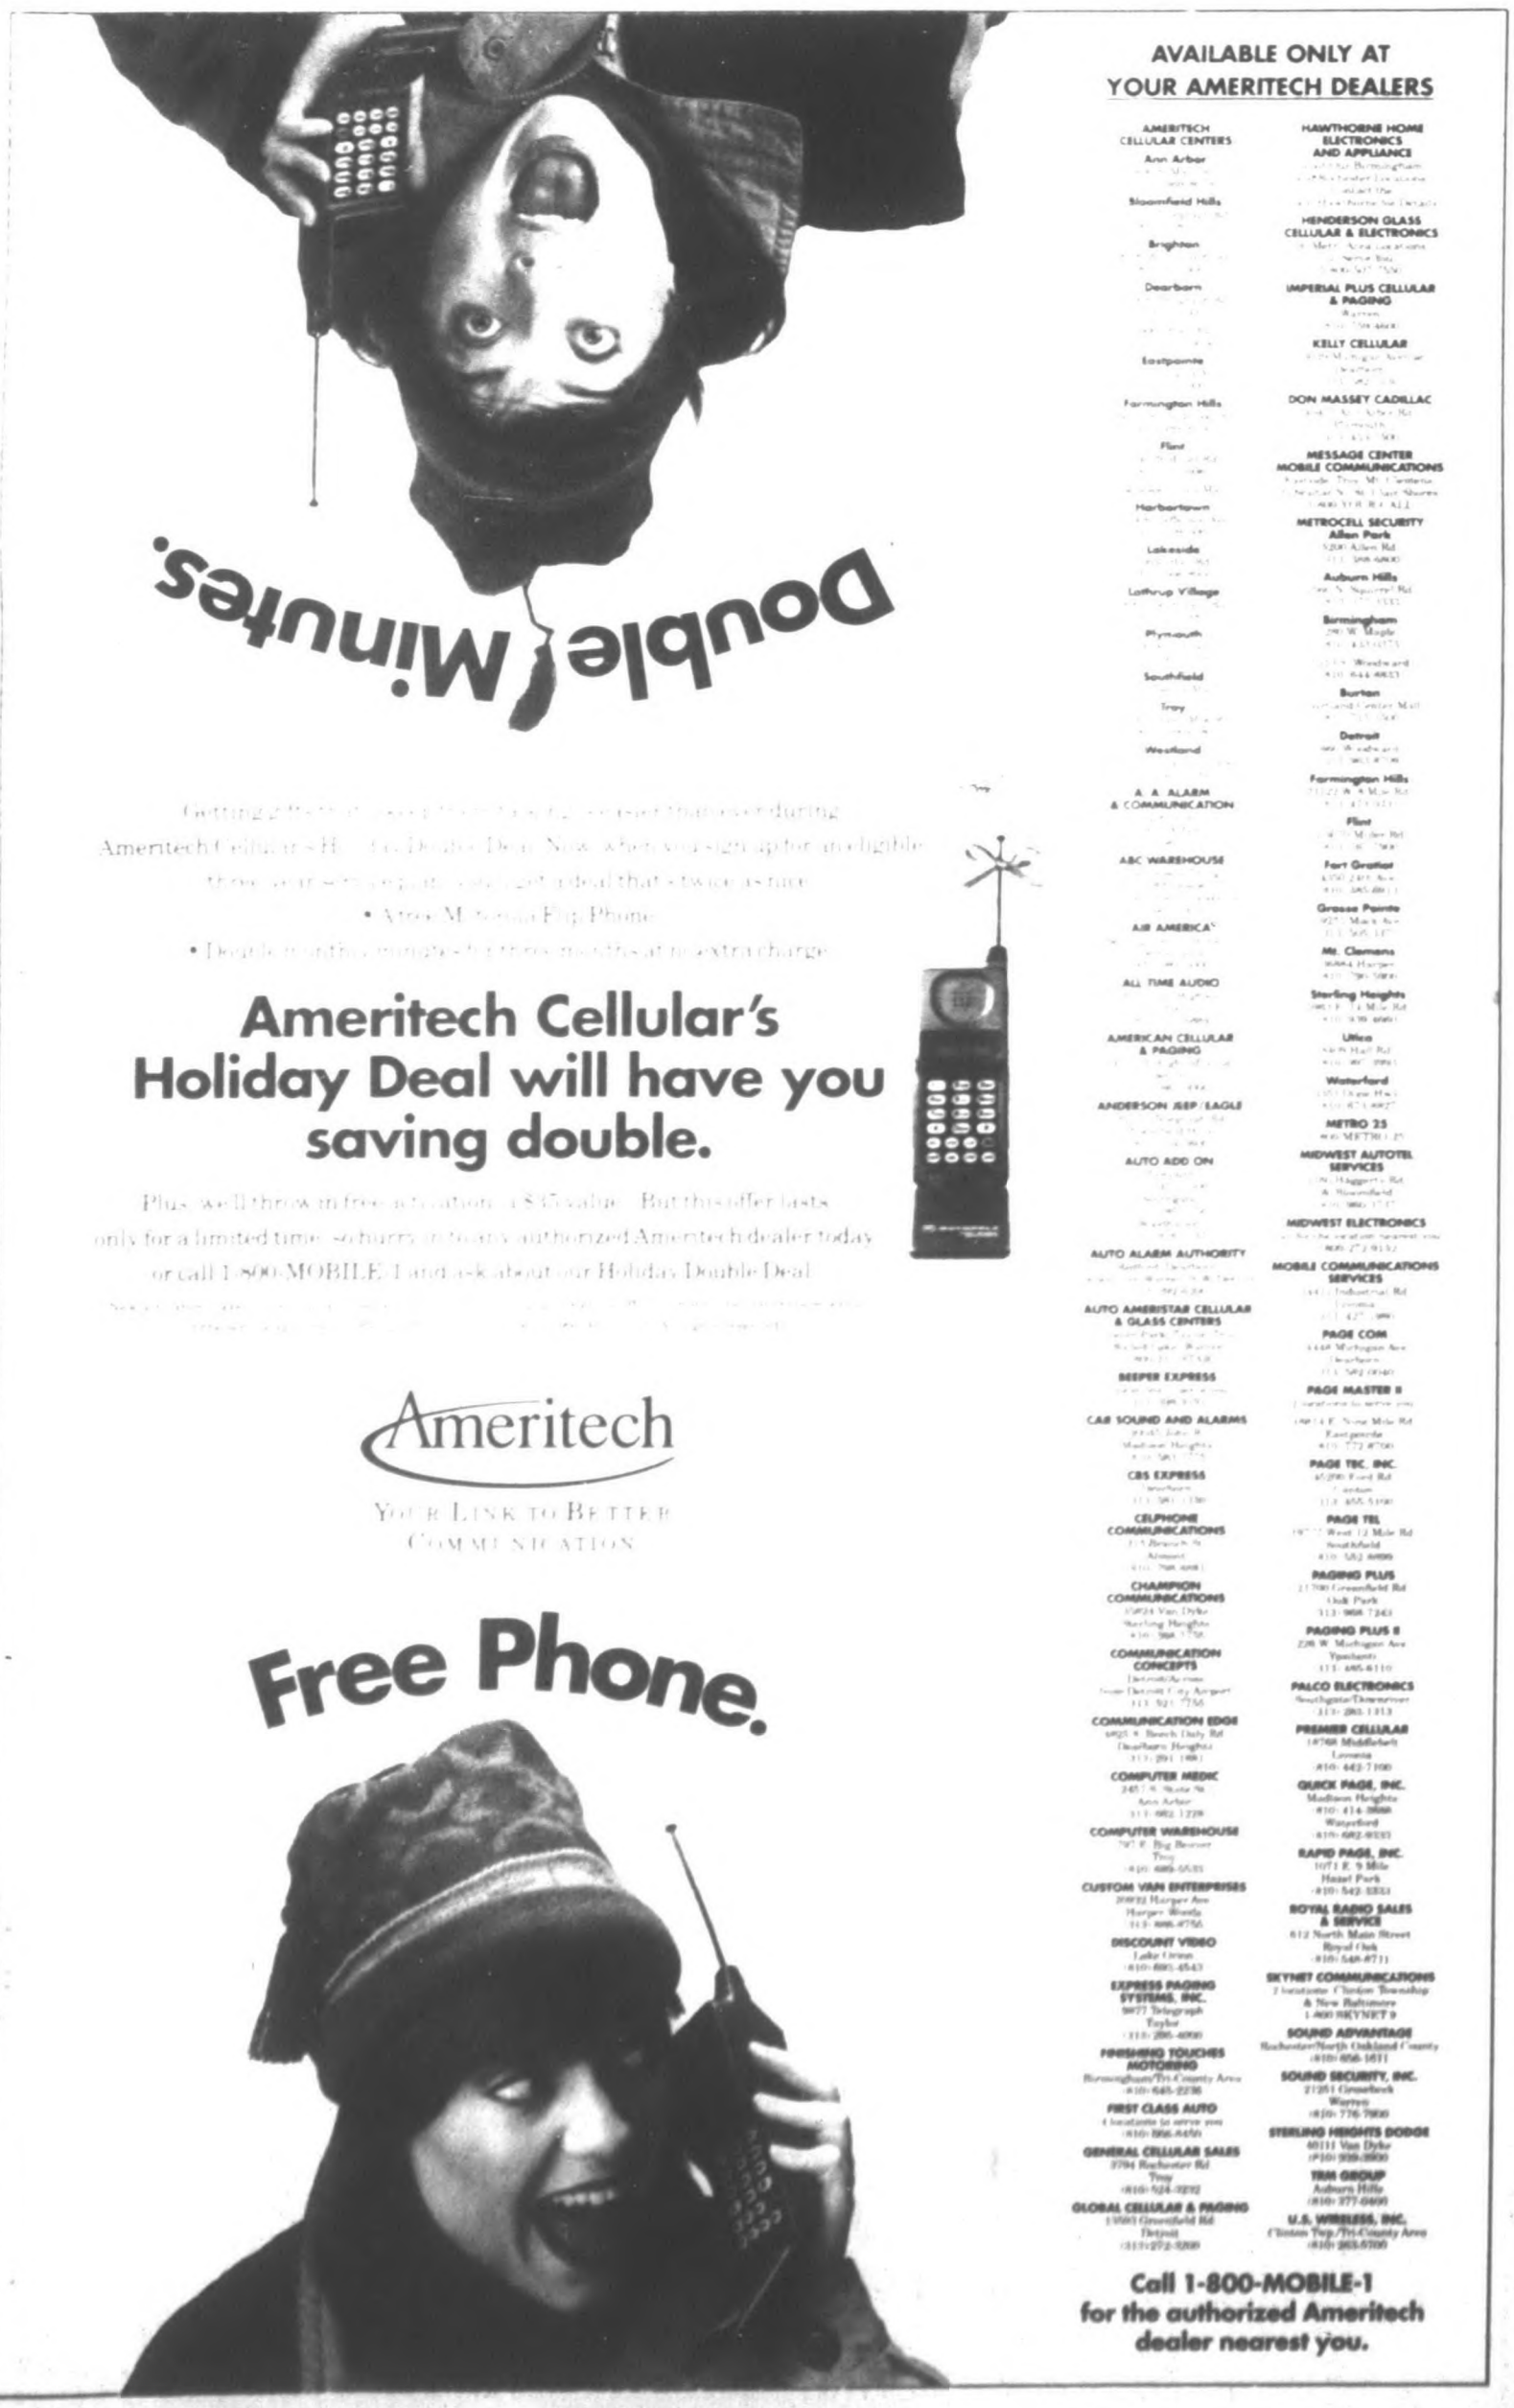
A new electronic journal called Michigan Small Business has been launched.

Published by the Electronic Publishing Network, with the Small Business Association of Michigan, the journal is sent out over the Internet and arrives weekly in the E-mail boxes of subscribers.

The journal contains articles of interest to small business owners, such as how to increase sales and cut costs. The journal also allows all subscribers to communicate with each other easily.

"The Internet exists to connect people together," says network publisher Ara Rubyan. "So we made it easy for subscribers to Michigan Small Business to tap into the greatest business resource there is: other business owners . . ."

The network currently publishes six E-mail journals on various topics, with subscribers in 12 countries. A six-month subscription to Michigan Small Business costs $9.95. To subscribe, call the network at (810) 626-7733 or send E-mail to epn@mail.ic.net.



Calculate savings before refinancing

BETH ALLEN

In the spirit of gift giving during this holiday season, many people are hoping for an interest rate cut by the Federal Reserve Board at the Dec. 19 meeting.

Lowering interest rates can go a long way in saving money for someone living on the edge of a high debt ratio. There is speculation that the Fed will cut the rate even if Congress and the White House can't agree on the budget cuts.

If the Fed does decide to lower the interest rate in December, it may be a little too late to help the holiday retail sales, but it still can provide lots of benefits in the near future.

Whether or not the interest rates get cut on Dec. 19 or at the first of 1996, you should be doing some planning now to take advantage of the opportunity when it comes. When interest rates decline, one of the major financial planning tools you might be able to take advantage of is refinancing your mortgage.

Interest rates have been declining and are the lowest in two years. A year ago, mortgage rates were as high as 8.75 percent and have now dropped down to 7.25 percent for a 30-year mortgage. The biggest question most people want to know is how much money will they save and is it worth it?

A key factor in deciding whether to refinance your home is how long it will take to recoup the refinancing costs. After all, if it takes three years to recoup the costs, but you expect to sell before that time, it's not worth refinancing. Use the example provided here.

In the example, you would have to keep your mortgage 23 months after refinancing to break even. If you think you might move at all in that time frame, then it is not worth it to refinance just to save a few dollars on your mortgage payment. Every month after break-even you are saving serious money. The savings could be used toward increasing the funding of your retirement account.

When interest rates drop, homeowners' thoughts naturally turn to refinancing their mortgages. Being prepared now to act on any lower interest rates can mean long-term savings. Don't go by the rule of thumb that interest rates must drop by 2 percentage points to be worth it. Take the time to work out the numbers yourself. The savings have to make sense to you and your bottom line. If the Fed decides to spread a little holiday cheer by lowering the rates, make sure you can celebrate the occasion by calculating your savings.

Questions and comments are welcomed. If you would like to have a particular financial subject addressed, contact: Elizabeth A. Allen or Thomas E. Hogan at the Observer Newspapers Editorial Department, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, Mich. 48150.

Elizabeth Allen, a certified financial planner practitioner, is a registered representative with Sigma Planning Corp. in Livonia. A former high school math teacher and product analyst for Ford Motor Co., she lives in Farmington Hills.

Example:
- $120,000 mortgage balance
- 30 year fixed loan
- Refinancing from 8.75 percent down to 7.125 percent
- Buying 2 points to reduce the interest rate.

STEP 1: Call your lender for the itemized cost

		Example	Your refinance cost
(1 Pt. = .01 x amount of mortgage balance)	Total points:	2 pts: $2,400
	Appraisal fee:	225
	Title insurance:	200
	Other fees:	275
	Total cost:	$3,100

STEP 2: Determine monthly savings

(Principal and interest only)	Current monthly payment:	$944
	New monthly payment:	- 808
	Monthly savings:	$136

STEP 3: Months to recoup refinancing costs

(Divide Step 1 by Step 2 for total of months it would take to recoup costs.)

Total cost of refinancing	Total from Step 1:	$3,100
Total of monthly savings	Total from Step 2:	136
	Months to recoup cost:	23

Ameritech unveils dial-1 option in part of state

By Jan. 1, Michigan consumers in 29 Ameritech exchanges will be able to use alternative telephone companies for toll calls by dialing 1 instead of a special access code before the regular phone number.

Ameritech unveiled the first geographic areas that will be equipped with the dial-one option last week. Metro Detroit is not included. It is the first action under the new Michigan Telecommunications Act, signed last week by Gov. John Engler, that supports competition in the state's communications marketplace.

"In the spirit of this landmark legislation, we have designated 29 exchanges concentrated in two bands across north-central and south-central Michigan," said James Wilkes, president of Ameritech Michigan, in a press release.

"It is not a perfect situation because we still are not allowed to offer long-distance service. But this is one more step that clearly shows Michigan is gearing up for full and fair competition in all aspects of the marketplace."

The telecommunications act requires Ameritech to designate 10 percent of its exchanges for the dial-one option. It applies to short-haul toll calls such as those from Lansing to Jackson, or Saginaw to Mackinaw City.

More of the state will have this option when Ameritech is permitted to offer long-distance service.

"We look forward to the day when we can offer all Michigan consumers a full complement of communications services, including both local and long-distance calls," Wilkes said. "We are working diligently to win that opportunity through federal legislation or from U.S. Judge Harold Greene.

"Customers will benefit from broad competition, where they easily can choose any provider they want, for all of their communications needs," he said.

Sen. Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, sponsor of the MTA, supports the plan Ameritech is unveiling.

"This represents a good cross-section of Michigan communities and is a tremendous step for competition," Dunaskiss said. "I sincerely hope the long distance companies will follow Ameritech's lead in bringing the benefits of competition to all of these communities. The eyes of the nation will be on us."

Sales, marketing execs plan program schedule

The Sales and Marketing Executives of Detroit have announced a program schedule for the 1996 season. Upcoming monthly meetings for the 1996 season include:

- Jan. 17: "Economic Outlook," Martin B. Zimmerman, executive director, governmental relations and corporate economics, Ford Motor Co.
- Feb. 18: "Marketing in the New Global Environment," Joseph C. Day, chief executive officer, Freudenberg-NOK.

Flattery joined Follmer, Rudzewicz & Company in January 1993 after receiving his bachelor's degree in business administration from Central Michigan University.

Fanelli

Denise Fanelli has been named administrator at Oakwood Hospital Annapolis Center in Wayne for the Oakwood Healthcare System.

Prior to coming to the Oakwood Healthcare System, Fanelli was vice president of operations at Bon Secours Hospital in Grosse Pointe where she covered about half of the internal operations for the hospital.

Fanelli received her degree in nursing in 1973 and a master's degree in nursing and health services administration at the University of Michigan.

Fanelli began her career in 1973 as a staff nurse in the intensive care unit at Grace Hospital. Shortly after she joined Grace, she was appointed to the faculty at the Grace Hospital School of Nursing. She taught intensive care nursing for about 6½ years.

After Grace Hospital, Fanelli became the associate director of continuing education at Harper Hospital. From 1982 to 1985, she was the associate director of nursing at Bon Secours.

In 1985, she accepted the associate administrator position for nursing at Botsford Hospital, and later became the administrator for nursing. In 1991, Fanelli returned to Bon Secours as the vice president of operations.

She lives in Farmington Hills with her husband, Tony, and three sons, Mike, Pat and Tony.

Paul G. Page has joined TolTest as lead engineer for air quality services in the Plymouth office. Page has 15 years of experience in air quality testing, permitting, engineering and environmental compliance.

Pultorak

Jeffrey Pultorak has been promoted to vice president of information services at Claimspro Health Claims Services.

Pultorak will lead systems planning and design and manage hardware and software implementation and support operations.

Prior to joining the Claimspro Systems Division in 1988, Pultorak, 37, was employed by Glenn Software, a Claimspro affiliate, and Comtec. He has technological experience in pharmacy automation, managed health care, risk management, financial administration and mortgage banking. He holds a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University and he lives in Westland.

Claimspro offers benefits to insured employers, self-funded companies, association plans, insurance carriers, HMOs and PPOs. Other programs include prescription drug cards, preferred pharmacy networks, major medical prescription plans, member pay plans, mail order drug programs and drug utilization review.

Daniel L. Hassett has joined TolTest as manager of air quality services, in the Plymouth office. Hassett has 15 years of experience in air quality testing, permitting, engineering and environmental compliance. TolTest has been in the consulting engineering field since 1927, with an emphasis on environmental, geotechnical and testing services.

Reid

Richard S. Reid has been named financial administrator for RN Health Care Services, based in Westland.

Reid is responsible for financial activities of the company including accounting, payroll, financial statements and reimbursement systems. Additionally, he works with Medicare and Medicaid regulator reviewing rates and establishing future guidelines.

Formerly, Reid worked for the Rybar Group, a consulting firm in Fenton, and served as audit supervisor at Blue Cross of Michigan.

RN Home Health Care provides nursing, rehabilitation and other health-care services to homebound patients in southeastern Michigan and the greater Grand Rapids area.

Michael D. Hammonds of Canton has been named a sales associate for Health Alliance Plan's new business unit.

Hammonds was promoted from HAP's members services department were he was a member services representative. He previously worked for AAA of Michigan as a field sales agent. He has an associate's degree from Schoolcraft College and attended Michigan State University.

Al Blanchard, president of Mid-5 Auto Supply in Livonia, was elected to a one-year term representing the Michigan Automotive Parts Association's past chairmen.

New members of the Michigan Automotive Parts Association board of directors were installed during a recent quarterly board meeting.

The Michigan Automotive Parts Association is a trade association of 550 independently owned auto parts stores, warehouse distributors, rebuilders and associate members within Michigan's automotive replacement parts business. Services offered include: training and educational programs, state and federal compliance information, financial services, insurance programs and industry specific business products.

Sitting members of the board of directors include Forrest Saylor of Garden City Auto Parts in Garden City.

Westland resident Carol Sharkey, the manager at Henry Ford Medical Center in Dearborn, has completed a graduate program in risk management offered by the Michigan School of Healthcare Risk Management.

The program is designed for working professionals who are concerned about continuing quality improvement and legal liability in the health-care setting.

Buy a home for the holidays

BY NORMAN PRADY
SPECIAL WRITER

It was the ghost of Christmas Threatened.

A ghost named "Grady" was invoked by an eight-year-old in an attempt to sabotage the holiday-season sale of the child's home.

"We found out afterward that the little boy was worried that Christmas wouldn't follow him when the family moved," says Carol Nystrom, general manager of Hannett, Wilson & Whitehouse, Realtors in Bloomfield Hills.

"He wanted to make sure that Santa would find him.

Nystrom, discussing the special complications and opportunities of house sales between Thanksgiving and New Year's, vividly recalls this child's efforts to scare away the family that wanted to buy his vintage house in Birmingham.

As the buyers – mom, dad, daughters 11 and 7 – stood in the boy's family room, he announced that there was a ghost in the house.

"He told them," Nystrom says, "that the ghost lived in his closet, and, when he was mad at his four-year-old sister, he could send it to scare her."

Apparently, according to Nystrom, the buyer did a good job of guiding their daughters past the ectoplasmic hazards supposedly posed by Grady the Ghost, and went ahead with the purchase.

"At the closing," Nystrom says, "there was some discussion about who got possession of Grady." It's been assumed, she says, that Grady moved to Arizona with his young friend.

Aside from the occasional ghost, Nystrom thinks holiday house sales are slowed by buyers' time being diverted to holiday activities. But she also sees pluses, one being the buyers' desire to possibly get last-minute income tax credits for the property taxes.

And even though a buyer might not be certain if the lawn is healthy and all the trees are alive, there's the strong appeal of a guest-tray of cookies on the dining room table, the scent of spice coming from the kitchen, and the colorfulness of the holiday trimmings.

"I've had people place offers on houses just because of the decorations," Nystrom says.

But decorations can be a distraction, says Ronald Fron, of Clark and Fron Realtors, Livonia.

He recently took buyers to a house that "was beautifully done, but there was so much of it, with settings in every room, that the buyers were paying more attention to the decorations than to the house," Fron says.

"They left not being clear about what they saw."

Seasonal prettiness, though, is how Walter Menard, broker-owner of Walter Menard Realtors, Plymouth, thinks of holiday decorations on used houses for sale.

"It's helpful to have a lived-in, homey appearance," Menard says.

"In spring, there are trees blossoming and grass coming in. In winter, the outside might not be so attractive, so the decorations make the inside more so."

Generally, Menard, whose company also builds new houses, finds sales of used houses slower during the holiday season because, he says, people are focusing on family activities.

So is it possible that the holiday season could be any real estate person's best season?

"I'm at my busiest during the holiday season," says Ronni Keating, Realtor associate at Snyder, Kinney, Bennett & Keating, Birmingham, "writing offers right up to Christmas Eve, faxing deals Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Eve, New Year's Eve.

"Homeowners might think it's a quiet time for sales," Keating says. "We have to work against the sellers' resistance.

"Buyers have more time. With relaxed year-end work schedules, they can get out to look. And the house looks the homiest."

But the most attractive houses are fewer and literally farther between, says Pat Rice, Realtor associate with Century 21-West, West Bloomfield.

Rice says she generally shows a buyer 10-16 houses at other times of the year and under other market conditions. Now she might show a buyer 20-30 houses before a selection is made.

And, too, says Rice, today's buyer can as easily pinpoint a community in which to look, because the inventory of used housed is so limited.

Yes, agrees Don Kamen, "The buyers are out there" and the houses aren't.

Kamen, Realtor associate at Quality Real Estate NW Better Homes & Gardens, Livonia, says, "The market has stayed hotter, longer.

"Last year, we had a backlog of houses into this season. Now, houses are selling right away.

"The public appears to have more confidence in the economy."

An increase in employee transfers into the ares, Kamen says, and current residents feeling stronger about elective local moves, along with low mortgage rates, are elements of the sellers' market.

There's a relationship, Kamen says, between this sellers' market and a generally improving economy. But he thinks it's a chicken-and-egg question.

The flurry of house-refinancing in recent years also is a factor in the current seller's market, says Larry Harwin, Realtor associate with Century 21 MJL Corp. Transferee Service, a traditional used-house agency.

Homeowners made themselves "comfortable on payments," Harwin says, when they got new lower-rate mortgages in '92 and '93.

In some of those refinancings, owners turned part of their equity into cash, which they used to make home improvements. Those improvements, Harwin says, are now paying off in higher prices and faster sales of these more desirable houses.

Harwin, like many others who sell used houses, says it's "a good time to sell." The supply of used houses, many agents agree, is seasonally low and especially low this season.

But are there other sellers, like the eight-year-old and his ghostly pal, who are reluctant, or sad, about parting with home because it's holiday time?

"We try not to got into motivations for selling, Fron says.

A seller with a strong attachment to the house, Keating says, "is looking for a loving family to enjoy the home, so they're excited to show it to a buyer like that."

Or not, according to Grady.

House seller must disclose environmental hazards

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. I have heard recently about a rule published by the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Housing and Urban Development regarding Realtors selling residential property with respect to possible contaminants. Do you have any information on it?

A. Yes, recently the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Housing and Urban Development jointly published a proposed rule requiring persons selling or leasing most residential housing built prior to 1978 that may contain lead based paint or hazards to disclose certain information. The rule is 59 Fed Register 54984 (1994), to be codified at 24 C.F.R. SS38, 40, C.F.R., SS745. Real estates agents for sellers will be required to assure compliance with the rule through prescribed warnings. In that regard, the code of ethics and standards of practice for the National Association of Realtors requires its members to discover and disclose adverse factors reasonable apparent to someone with their expertise and to avoid "exaggeration, misrepresentation or concealment of pertinent facts.

Q. I am concerned about whether or not we can enter into a binding contract for the purchase of real estate by using faxes. Do you have any comments?

A. While I am not aware of any specific decision on the issue in Michigan, there have been national commentaries written with respect to the subject. It is the general consensus that the legal principals that apply to contract formation should apply to contracts formed by a fax machine. Simply stated, the parties must have a meeting of the minds. They must mutually assent that one party will do something in exchange for the other party doing something else. The rule of thumb is to provide a provision in the contract that provides that the parties to the agreement agree that the agreement may be transmitted between them by facsimile machine and that they intend that a fax signature constitutes an original signature and that a faxed agreement containing the signatures (original or faxed) of all the parties is binding on the parties.

Faxing does raise interesting questions as to when exactly the contract is accepted. Presumably it is accepted based upon general contract law. It is accepted when it is transmitted to the other party by means authorized by the other party as soon as transmission begins and the contract is out of the accepting party's possession, even if the contract is not received by the other party. The fax transmission must begin before the accepting party or his/her agent receives a revocation of a buyer's offer. I anticipate additional litigation and/or clarification of the law in this area.

Corvette museum design earns architects honors

Kenneth Neumann/Joel Smith & Associates of Southfield has won an honor award for excellence in architectural design for the National Corvette Museum in Bowling Green, Ky.

The award was presented by the Kentucky Society of Architects.

The building opened in September of 1994.

"I think probably the most challenging thing was to capture and cultivate the Corvette aficionado," Neumann said. "You have someone interested in going fast and the performance aspect . . . women who see style in the vehicle.

"This was an awful lot of fun for all of us, a real challenge for all of us," he said. "I think we're pretty excited about the results."

The museum was the only entry to receive an honor award from a panel of Chicago architects.

Their comments:

"The building responds to the Corvette sports car that is its museum subject in an exciting, sculptural manner that evokes a quality consistent with its purpose.

"The design, which has been expertly handled by the architects, is totally developed, extended from the sweeping curves of the site plan to the soaring expression of the exterior shell.

"The metal panels on the exterior and the structural expression of the interior add to the machine quality of the building.

"All of the interior exhibits are consistent with the major concept. The grand skylit interior space is punctuated with a great central cone around which the Corvettes seem perfectly at home."

Bill Finley of Bowling Green was an associate architect on the project.

The jury was directed to evaluate each project based on the success with which the project met its own individual requirements.

Each was weighed individually, not in comparison with one another, and the jury was free to select as many or as few projects as it determined to be worthy of recognition.

Construction another good year

Next year should be another good one for the construction industry here, according to the president of a professional association representing contractors, suppliers and lenders involved in commercial work.

"We are fortunate to have a number of large construction projects under way in southeast Michigan," said Michael J. Monahan, vice president of a general contracting/management firm and president of the Greater Detroit Chapter, Asssociated General Contractors of America.

"Even better news is that as projects such as the Chrysler Headquarters, IRS Computing Center and Veterans Hospital wind down, work on Somerset North (Troy), Metro Airport and M-59 (Oakland County) will continue," he recently told the Economic Club of Detroit.

"And there are many new projects just getting under way including Tiger Stadium, Davison Freeway upgrade, Detroit School Capital Improvement Program, Ford Wixom Assembly Plant, Chrysler Engine Plant the Dynomometer Facility in Auburn Hills.

"As a result, we see employment in the construction trades remaining constant through 1996," Monahan said.

More than $475 million of work at Metro Airport during the past five years and 2,000 new houses built in Detroit since 1992 were identified by Monahan as key economic engines here.

"While continued improvement of the airport is critical to this region," Monahan said, "the increased usage (cargo traffic up 22 percent in 1994, passenger count up 11 percent during the first half of '95) is also an indicator of the future prospects."

Monahan said he's always believed housing rather than symbolic projects like Renaissance Center and Millender Center would key Detroit's rebirth.

"What has been needed is grassroots development, small projects too numerous to mention which build to a crescendo of economic activity," Monahan said.

The process should be helped along by federal grants and tax breaks in the city's Empowerment Zone, he speculated.

A new Tiger Stadium is the city's newest symbol project, Monahan said.

While he described its financing as innovative and less dependent on public sources, it's ultimate success hinges on the answers to several questions.

- "How well will we control the ultimate cost of this highly visible symbol?
- "Can we successfully manage and promote surrounding and spin-off development and make this symbol a catalyst to further redevelopment?

What you don't know about refinancing can hurt you

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

So you've waited long enough. Now that you are confident interest rates won't fall any farther, you've decided it's time to refinance the mortgage on the old homestead. The only problem is knowing where to begin.

The refinance frenzy (which began when interest rates started their plunge several years ago) has diminished a great deal over the past year. However, the remnants of the boom remain. The demand for refinancing has spawned dozens of new mortgage companies and almost as many mortgage plans. But which one is best for you?

Since it's necessary to review your economic status before a mortgage company can qualify you for financing, we can't cover all the information in this article. But you should be warned about several tactics some companies use to lure you into their mortgage plans. Though they sound great, they could end up costing you hundreds or even thousands of dollars.

Advertising hooks

Many radio or television commercials will claim to have "the lowest rates around." Keep in mind that the mortgage business is extremely competitive and most companies offer the same low rates.

If you find a company with a significantly lower annual interest rate, read the fine print. You may find that the points or fees you have to pay up front will cost you more than what you save on the interest rate.

Also, it's possible the low interest rate only applies to balloon payment loans. This means the entire balance of the loan would have to be paid off in seven years, or sooner. Even if you wanted this type of loan, if you have to remortgage when the balloon comes due, you may end up paying a higher interest rate.

Confusing jargon

Have you heard of negative amortization loans? These loans offer lower monthly payments than standard, fixed-rate loans. While lower monthly payments are usually a wonderful idea, read on.

If you explore the details of a negative amortization loan, you'll find that, after a few years of making your low monthly payments, your principal balance will be higher than when you started. All of a sudden, it doesn't sound like such a good deal. When it comes to negative amortization and other unfamiliar mortgage terms, be sure you completely understand what you're signing before you jump in.

No points, no fees

Have you found a company that offers mortgages for "no points, no fees." It usually means one of two things. First, you'll end up paying a higher interest rate on the mortgage or, second, your origination fees will be rolled into the principal.

This means you'll not only end up paying the origination fees anyway, but you'll also be charged interest on these fees over the life of the mortgage. It is very important to keep in mind that you have a right to a good faith estimate and a complete accounting of how much your mortgage loan will cost.

The most critical thing to remember when looking for a mortgage loan is to get as much information as you can. It may sound trite, but the old saying still holds: If a deal sounds too good to be true, it probably is. Remember, you can save money (and headaches) by shopping around and asking the right questions.

Light is the heart that doesn't owe heavy-duty lease payments each month. Especially when the car in question is a new Saab 900.

The 900's 49.8 cubic feet* of luggage space carries large cargo with ease. With front-wheel drive, ABS and an optional V6 engine with traction control, you're free to drive in any weather. Not to mention the peace of mind that comes with safety features like dual air bags, automatic seat belt tensioners and a state-of-the-art safety cage. If your spirit could use something to soar about, see us for complete lease details and a test-drive.
