Police probe assault leads

A Canton Township couple was robbed and the woman raped at about 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 28, at their home on Warren east of Napier, according to Canton police spokesman Lew Stevens.

The couple reported that a 6-foot, 200-pound black man about 30 years old confronted them with a shotgun when they arrived home, Stevens said.

The man took the couple inside their house, tied the husband and shut him in the bathroom, then raped the wife, Stevens said.

Taking about $100 in cash and some socks and trousers, the man forced the couple to drive him in their car to the vicinity of Chapel and Pilgrim in Detroit, where he left them, Stevens said.

The couple then called police.

The woman was taken to Oakwood, where a semen sample was taken and tests were made to see if she was infected by the rapist, Stevens said.

The case was assigned to Canton Detective Gerry Hardesty.

"I hear there are a couple (of leads) they're looking into," Stevens said.

Forecast good for ice festival

The Ice Spectacular kicks off on Wednesday, Jan. 10, and runs through Monday, Jan. 15. Most the events are in and around Kellogg Park. This year Mother Nature's cooperation is expected.

The end of the holiday season means the Plymouth Ice Spectacular can't be far away.

In just nine days, the 14th annual event opens downtown — and the National Weather Service says the weather is likely to cooperate.

"Temperatures have been charting below the norm, we should see that trend continue the first few days of January," said Bill Deedler, a meteorologist with the weather service.

"We expect after that temperatures will return to normal for this time of year — with daytime highs in the mid-30s and lows in the low teens," Deedler added.

"That means it's going to be perfect," said festival organizer Mike Watts, who said preparations for the festival are running smoothly.

"Everything's going fine, it's always real hectic this time of year because of the holiday," Watts said. "We've been pretty successful with our fund-raising effort; with the weather cooperating we expect to have another magnificent event."

Some festival highlights include an expanded Saturday night fireworks show sponsored by "Young Country" WYCD-FM. "It should be really fantastic, the interplay between the ice sculptures and the fireworks," Watts said.

New to the festival this year will be the appearance on Saturday of Disney characters from Disney World, in an event sponsored by Continental Cable. "They'll meet the children and be there to help start the fireworks," Watts said.

Elks ready to admit first women

Pacesetter in Elks: Audrey Lewis of Livonia is about to set local history by becoming one of the first two women inducted into membership into the Plymouth Elks Lodge.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Marion Creith of Redford and Audrey Lewis of Livonia are poised to make history at the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, 1780 Plymouth Lodge.

If all goes well, they will be inducted as the Plymouth Elks' first women members Jan. 24. A social club with dining facilities at 41700 E. Ann Arbor Road, the Elks raise funds to assist handicapped and able-bodied youth and veterans. Lodges exist in all 50 states.

The Rochester Elks were the first to admit women, inducting their first female member in 1995. As far as Creith and Lewis know, the Plymouth lodge is the second in Michigan to admit women.

Unlike the situation at other fraternal organizations where women and minorities have had to sue for the right to become members, Creith and Lewis were asked to join by the lodge's chief official, exalted ruler Jim Logsdon.

"He called me up last October and said, 'I'd like to come down and talk something over with you.' I thought, 'What went wrong?' said Creith, whose late husband Ray held leadership roles in the local, state and national Elks organizations.

"He gave me an application, and asked me if I would be the first lady to join. He said they would be honored to have me."

"It shocked me, because I really feel if Ray hadn't been so active, I wouldn't have been so active," said Creith, who retired in 1979 from

Her love of music something she gladly shares with others

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

It's not every music teacher that has a day proclaimed in her honor by a big-city mayor.

And it's not every music teacher that, when they announce they're leaving town, a local newspaper writes an editorial to say goodbye, closing with, "May God bless Lynne Tobin."

Tobin, who grew up in Plymouth, discovered her love for music and the cello as a Plymouth-Canton schools student. After 15 years in Savannah, Ga., performing with the local symphony orchestra and teaching strings in a variety of settings, Tobin returned to Michigan this summer to teach at the Ann Arbor School for the Performing Arts and be closer to her family.

In Savannah, it was her work in teaching kids music through the innovative Children of SCORE that won praise throughout the community. SCORE stands for String, Choral, Orff (a xylophone-like instrument) and Recorder Ensemble. The kids also sing.

Mayor Susan Weiner proclaimed April 18, 1994, as Lynne Tobin Day. The Herald, Savannah's black newspaper, wrote in a May 25, 1994, editorial, "The parents thank Ms. Tobin, and they will not forget but will long remember her commitment and dedication to their children."

At a Christmas concert of the Savannah Symphony, SCORE kids were invited to perform two songs. "I was standing facing the orchestra, with my back to the audience," Tobin said. "Many of the players were visibly moved by the children's singing and playing. Some had tears in their eyes."

In Plymouth, Tobin discovered the cello in fifth grade. While she was initially interested in the French horn, teacher Wayne Dunlap said that "the cello actually has the same range as the French horn," and "he said 'take this cello,'" Tobin recalled.

Her progress was helped along by Plymouth Symphony scholarships to music camps at Interlochen. She earned a cello performance degree from the University of Michigan and a master's degree in cello performance from Northern Illinois University, and took her first symphony job with an orchestra in Arkansas.

She next took a job with the Savannah Symphony, and stayed 15 years. Tobin got into teaching because the symphony job required it. "I found I had a flair for teaching," she said.

Tobin started several programs for children, including the Children of SCORE program in conjunction with John Krumich.

Back home: Cellist and innovative music teacher Lynne Tobin was introduced to music as a Plymouth-Canton schools student.

Why the interest in music? "I think it's the universal language, you can share it with anyone. The thing

Poets on ice

The Plymouth Poets invite teachers, students, poets and people who like poetry to their annual Winter Writer series, sponsored by the Plymouth Library, Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs, and Poets and Writers Inc.

The first program, "Poets on Ice," to be done in conjunction with the ice festival, opens at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 11, at the Plymouth Coffee Bean Co. on Penniman Ave. The program features Phil Gania, past president of Detroit Chapter 9 of the Vietnam Veterans of America; Al Ward, African-American poet; Van Baldwin, Ann Arbor poet; and Viveca, a leading voice among young women poets.

The general theme of the reading is peace and war and social change. "Poets on Ice" will give writers the chance to speak out about the suffering soldiers face in wars from Vietnam to Bosnia.

An open mike session is scheduled before and after the readings.

Native sculpture

Native West, 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail, will host a Native American Sculpture show in connection with the 1996 Plymouth Ice Spectacular Jan. 14-16.

More than 300 carvings will be on sale, between $5 and $3,000. Most are described by Native Americans as fetishes, hand-carved objects which represent the spirits of animals or the forces of nature, believed to have magic powers.

Traditional materials include turquoise, jet, shell, pipestone, soapstone, alabaster and serpentine. Contemporary carvers have also learned to use amber, lapis lazuli, sugillite, azurite and other non-traditional semi-precious stones. Larger sculptures will also be featured, including those by Navajo artist Brian Begay.

Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday; 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Accident claims life of teen-ager

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

An 18-year-old Canton High School senior was killed in a one-car accident on Ford Road in Washtenaw County the day after Christmas.

Max Christopher Lafferty, a member of the Plymouth Canton football team, was killed when he lost control of the Ford Ranger pickup truck he was driving, crossed the center line and ran off the road striking a number of trees about 10 feet off Godfredson, according to a Washtenaw County Sheriff's spokeswoman.

The accident is still under investigation but there were no indications that the accident was caused by high speed or that alcohol was involved. The accident report stated that it is believed his truck hit a patch of ice, causing him to lose control, the spokeswoman said.

Canton High School football coach Bob Khoenle was unavailable for comment.

Max is survived by his parents, James and Gail of Canton, and brothers Tony and Troy, as well as grandmothers Dorothy Lafferty of Toledo and Vera Romaker of Florida. He is also survived by grandfather Joe and step-grandmother Betty Meder of Ohio, and great-grandmother Violet Johnson of Florida, as well as aunts, uncles and cousins.

Max moved with his family to Canton four and a half years ago from Clinton, Miss.

Funeral services were at 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 30, at the Schrader-Howell Funeral Home in Plymouth with David Wilberup, youth director at Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton, officiating.

Memorials may be made to Growth Works, 271 S. Main, Plymouth, 48170.

Educators map strategies for school improvement

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Education has taken a few tips from industry, and that's true in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools in the area of school improvement.

In accordance with Public Acts 25 of 1990 and Acts 335 and 339 of 1993, the district has in place a process not unlike industry's "Total Quality Management."

"When people say school improvement, it has a generic meaning. But when we say it, we mean something specific. It's a process of continuous improvement," said Pat Patton of "Kaleidoscope," the district's school improvement committee.

Plans carried out through the course of the school year are measured and evaluated, "but much like the concept industry uses, you never reach your goal. You are never all done," she said.

Schools throughout the district share three common goals:

"All students will achieve district essential academic outcomes as mandated by the core curriculum."

"All students will be able to communicate ideas in writing through a variety of forms, for a variety of purposes, and for a variety of audiences."

"All students will realize the integrated nature of scientific knowledge and its application to real-life phenomena."

What follows are the school improvement plans for each school in the district. They were drafted not by principals, but by committees of a cross-section of school stakeholders.

Allen Elementary

"By April 1996, the Allen staff will have developed and reached agreement on reading benchmarks and assessment strategies for these benchmarks for each grade level."

"Student use of Computer Lab will increase over usage of the 1994-95 school year. Students will have improved keyboarding and word processing skills. Students will have improved reading and math skills due to use of computer software."

"Decrease in disruptive behavior for chronically misbehaving students."

Bentley Elementary

"To improve expository scores on standardized tests."

"All students will use technological resources across the content areas."

"Continue and improve upon communication between the school and staff, parents, students and community."

Bird Elementary

"All students will increase their competency with presentation skills through the use of technology."

"All student will increase their proficiency."

"Students will expand their strategies for resolving conflicts in grades one through five."

Eriksson Elementary

"Students will use the scientific method."

"Students will use problem-solving strategies to resolve conflicts."

"Students will use conventional spelling in daily written work."

Farrand Elementary

"Students will improve their ability to resolve conflict."

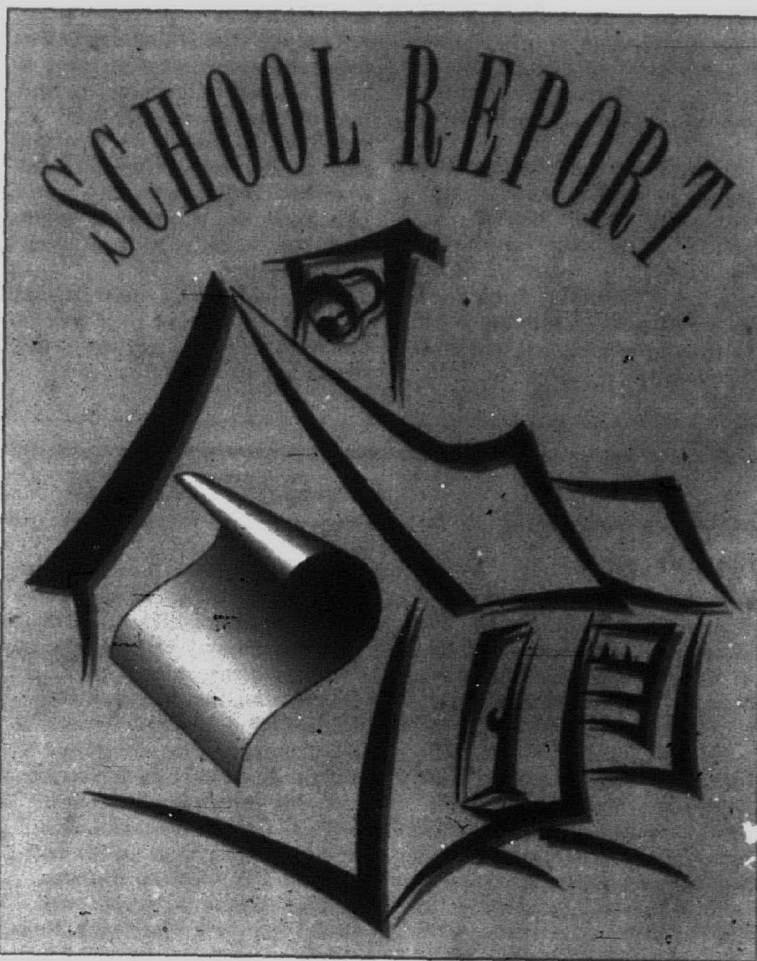

"Students will effectively use informational text strategies."

Fiegel Elementary

"By June of 1996, at least 80 percent of all students will demonstrate use of problem-solving skills in both play and classroom situations."

"By June of 1996, at least 75 percent of all students will attain mastery of the eight mathematical-content strands as articulated at each grade level."

"By June of 1996, at least 75 percent of all students will apply the scientific process as articulated at each grade level."

Field Elementary

"All Field students will continue to improve their expository text reading skills."

"All Field students will continue to maintain or improve their narrative text reading skills."

"All Field students will improve their mathematical problem-solving skills."

Gallimore Elementary

"All students will improve writing skills across the curricula."

"All students will demonstrate increased proficiency in mathematical problem-solving."

"All students will demonstrate appropriate decision-making skills in social situations."

Hoben Elementary

"Students will demonstrate improvement in reading comprehension."

"Students will demonstrate the knowledge, skills and attitudes essential to think and solve problems to meet personal and academic needs."

"All students will be able to communicate ideas in writing through a variety of forms, for a variety of purposes and for a variety of audiences."

Hulsing Elementary

"Students will choose and apply appropriate problem-solving strategies in math."

"Students will improve their ability to express their ideas in writing."

"Students will improve their ability to gather information from expository text."

Isbister Elementary

"Our students will demonstrate understanding and application of the scientific method."

Miller Elementary

"Students will write for a variety of purposes using the writing process to revise, edit and improve all forms of written communication across the curriculum."

"Students will demonstrate the use of a variety of technology in the learning process across all content areas."

"Students will demonstrate an understanding of others as well as show an acceptance of personal and cultural differences within the school."

Smith Elementary

"All students will demonstrate responsible behavior."

"All students will be able to understand and apply the scientific process."

"All students will integrate technology into their learning."

Tonda Elementary

"Students will demonstrate increased knowledge about reading/writing and using them independently."

"Administrative leadership linking literacy and classroom practices."

"Staff will provide an environment to promote literacy."

Central Middle

"Students will demonstrate effective written communication skills across the curriculum."

"Students will improve the ability to read, interpret and apply information gathered from expository text."

"Students will demonstrate teamwork skills."

"Summative assessment scores on the process-skills-experiment design will be at least 10 percent higher than pre-test scores."

East Middle

"Students will choose and apply appropriate problem-solving strategies in math."

"Students will improve their ability to express their ideas in writing."

"Students will improve their ability to gather information from expository text."

Lowell Middle

"Students will demonstrate the use of higher-level thinking skills."

"Students will demonstrate the increased use of reading/writing skills."

"Students will demonstrate the increased use of math/science process skills."

"Students will demonstrate the ability to work cooperatively in groups."

"Students will increase their sense of belonging."

Pioneer Middle

"Students will effectively use critical-thinking skills."

"Students will improve their expository and narrative-reading skills."

"Students will be able to communicate information, ideas and experiences utilizing the writing process."

West Middle

"Students will improve their ability to gather information from expository text."

"Students will improve their writing across the curriculum."

P-C Educational Park

"Students will meet technology-graduation outcomes and goals."

"Students will be able to use critical-thinking skills when reading in the content areas and will demonstrate problem-solving ability in this written work."

"Students will take responsibility for appropriate personal and social behavior."

A story this spring will examine how schools did in their attempts to implement the improvement plans.

Helping Mott kids

Spreading joy: Through the "Make me a Blessing Christmas Tree Campaign" headed by Kathy Mount of Plymouth (right), scores of boxes of presents were donated to kids staying at Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor. At East Middle School, Ms. Foster's second- and fourth-hour classes raised $30 by collecting pop cans and spare lunch change from their fellow students to buy presents for Mott kids. First with performing toy poodle Brandy, and now with his successor Bambi, Mount has for over 20 years traveled to the hospital to entertain kids. In that time, she's also raised money and material contributions — mainly from Plymouth businesses and residents — totaling over $85,000 to make the kids' burden a little lighter.

IRS assistance for walk-ins no longer offered in Livonia

BY MATT JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

Residents will soon be getting federal tax forms in the mail. What they won't be getting is tax-filing help from the Livonia branch office of the Internal Revenue Service.

In a cost-cutting measure, the walk-in customer service desk at the IRS office at Ann Arbor Road and Newburgh (37405 Ann Arbor Road) closed on Dec. 7.

Taxpayers who need extra forms, IRS publications or official answers to filing questions can call the IRS toll-free or visit one of the four walk-in assistance desks in the state that remain open, said Fred Olds, public affairs officer for the Michigan District of the IRS.

"We felt we could provide the best service for people electronically," Olds said, explaining that walk-in assistance has been phased out as the number of IRS employees in the state drops because of attrition and employees are reassigned.

"Walk-in offices have been closing nationwide for a number of years," Olds said.

The closings have nothing to do with the most recent partial shutdown of the federal government, he added.

The Livonia IRS office, one of a half-dozen in the state that shuttered walk-in assistance desks Dec. 7, remains open for other functions. Walk-in help is still offered Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. at IRS branches in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Saginaw and Marquette.

"Our effort right now is to get the message out to as many people as possible," Olds said.

A brochure directing taxpayers to toll-free assistance and form-request lines and the four remaining walk-in offices will be available at all state IRS offices in mid-January, he said. The brochure includes information on electronic tax filing.

Walk-in taxpayer assistance is available at the IRS office in Detroit, 1900 McNamara Federal Building, 477 Michigan Ave. For toll-free assistance with tax law questions, account inquiries and more, call (800) 829-1040. For recorded information on 150 tax topics, call (800) 829-4477. For the hearing-impaired, the number is (800) 829-4059. To have tax forms and publications mailed to you, call (800) 829-3676.

Pupils link up via technology

First-grade students at both Smith and Bentley Elementary Schools explored holiday traditions from around the world using the district's technology to link the two schools on Monday, Dec. 18.

Tami Fox, media specialist at Smith Elementary School, said she was planning a Hanukkah lesson as part of the holiday traditions unit with a first-grade class at Smith when she learned that Anne Alatalo, media specialist at Bentley, was working with another first-grade teacher to share the Hanukkah celebration with her students.

With the help of Donna Aveck, director of computer services, the two classrooms will be able to share the expertise of Ilene Kle-gan, the president of the Sisterhood of Temple Kol Ami in West Bloomfield, who will assist Fox with the holiday traditions lesson at Smith.

"The multi-sensory lesson includes learning about the eight-day Hanukkah celebration, viewing the traditional menorah and tasting some of the foods," Fox said.

Teen-agers reach out to help homeless people

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Trying to sleep out in the winter cold, as do thousands of homeless people, wasn't necessarily the lesson David Willerup was trying to teach members of his youth group.

"It is to prepare them to do a ministry," said Willerup, director of the Senior High Youth Fellowship at Geneva Presbyterian Church.

Fifteen teens and five adults had every intention of staying in refrigerator boxes behind the church on Sheldon Road the evening of Dec. 26. It wasn't that easy. "It was a cold night," Willerup said. "The kids tried to."

The experience was dubbed "Boxing Day" because it was on the traditional Canadian and British Boxing Day — the day after Christmas — and because boxes are what the teens were given to care for themselves throughout the night.

At first the teens were having a good time playing in the snow and ice on acreage behind the church. But when the cold began to settle in, the reality of living outside on streets became stark, despite two brightly burning barrel fires to keep warm.

"There was no wind chill factor. That's just a test of how hard it is," Willerup said. "There was no way to sleep."

By 7:45 a.m. the next day, everyone was in the church. "This was to help them to appreciate what they have," Willerup said. "In the Scriptures we learn that we are to care for each other. It's easier to carry someone's burden when you know what it is."

The evening out in the cold was designed to teach members of the youth group — who one day will be called to help someone — how others live. The teens also collected food and clothing for the Salvation Army and the Coalition on Temporary Shelter.

"I think they were pretty much amazed at how hard it is," Willerup said. "They couldn't understand how some people do this night after night. I think they were probably frightened. We are all vulnerable. We could all find ourselves out there at some point."

And yes, everyone was thankful to go home to a hot shower and warm bed.

Through the experience, the teens discovered that it takes a lot of courage to be homeless and live on the streets, as well as stamina. That's not to mention that, unlike many homeless families and individuals, the teens had hope throughout the night and the knowledge that they could go home.

"We also didn't have police robbing us, telling us to move on. We didn't have anyone trying to beat us up," Willerup said.

The experience shared by the teens and accompanying adults is one many people don't have. "Canton is a community where when people see someone begging for food, they can't believe it could happen here. This shows that there are people who are keeping their eyes closed. It is out of sight, out of mind."

"We can't afford to be like this. Too many valuable people have been kicked too many times and find themselves out on the street. It is our God-given duty to help these people."

Midwest Underwriters, a Detroit insurance agency. Creith worked for 36 years as an underwriter and bookkeeper.

Marion Creith became one of 39 charter members and served as president of the Vivian's when the Plymouth Elks' women's auxiliary was founded in 1952.

Currently the club's treasurer, Creith has no plans to leave the Vivian's, who define themselves as a "charitable and social club willing at all times to assist the Plymouth Lodge of Elks as requested." She says her Vivian's and Elks friends are happy for her.

Lewis was elated to be asked, as she has long wanted to get more involved. Not having a male relative who is an Elk, the American Legion retiree wasn't eligible to join the Vivian's.

"I wanted to join the Vivian's because they do a lot of things for handicapped children, and I have a great love for children. I have 11 grandchildren of my own," said Lewis, who with the Elks visits veterans. This Christmas, the Elks delivered gifts to 590 veterans.

"I belong to the Moose and the Eagles, but I'm real partial to the Elks," said the western Kentucky native and Northville High School graduate. "I used to go there back in the '70s, mostly for the fish fries and to visit."

"I know it's a man's organization, and I didn't do this to cause friction. I just really would like to get involved with the Elks. The people there are real nice."

Bob Schneider of Livonia is an Elks officer who serves on the indoctrination committee at the Plymouth lodge. He said admitting women hasn't been an issue.

"It's not controversial," he said. "We realize it's coming to this, and that we may as well. This is a smart thing to do."

Lewis and Creith say their prospective membership is well accepted among the Elks and Vivian's. "Some of the men who know me are asking, 'Do I call you brother or sister?'" said Creith. "In the ritual itself during initiation, members are referred to as brother."

"I tell them, 'I guess it will be brother for a while, until the Grand Lodge changes the bylaws.'"

Creith predicts the Elks will remain predominantly male, not only because you have to be invited by a sponsor to join but because "I can't see a lot of women flocking to become Elks. I don't know there are that many who want to get involved."

The Elks attracted many when they were founded by Charles Vivian, an English comic singer, in 1867 in New York.

Originally called the "Jolly Corks" because of their affinity for a game of bouncing corks off bar tops, Vivian and his coterie of actors for "some months were meeting weekly for social and convivial purposes." As the club thrived, "they decided upon a change of name and the adoption of a more permanent and serious policy than mere conviviality."

Also, a lighted "Animation on Ice" display will feature cartoon characters including the Flintstones, Casper the friendly ghost, "Toy Story" and Disney characters, and dinosaurs carved from ice.

The ice festival, scheduled for Jan. 10-15, wouldn't be much without the ice, and 400,000 tons are on order.

Carvers from Japan, Switzerland and Canada will return this year along with carvers from all over the United States for the oldest and most renowned ice carving event in North America.

The carvers will participate in individual and team carving competitions in professional and student categories for thousands of dollars in money and prizes. Watts said the professional individual competition has been changed to a two-part event, "Because we want to keep things interesting."

In the two-person carving competition Jan. 12, teams carve for 20 continuous hours. The only college and high school team competitions in the country happen Jan. 14, and a middle school competition is also scheduled.

Also during the festival, more than 150 area retailers and restaurants will be open for those who wish to browse, shop or dine.

about teaching children is they feel so good about it when they master a technique and hopefully they can do it for the rest of their life," she said.

The goal, she said, isn't necessarily to prepare kids for symphony jobs as adults. "I think it's (music) a real hard way of life.

They can become patrons of their local symphony or get into arts organizations, or get out the violin and do chamber music as an adult," she said.

In the Children of SCORE program, which she's brought to the Ann Arbor School for the Performing Arts, children ages 9-12 are selected for the program through auditions. The Savannah group toured and recorded, and even played for the Georgia governor's inauguration.

OBITUARIES

LESTER L. PITT

Services for Lester L. Pitt, 68, of Plymouth were Wednesday, Dec. 27, at St. John Neumann Church with the Rev. George Charnley officiating. Burial was in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Detroit.

He died Friday, Dec. 22, at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. He attended two years of college. He was in the Army from November 1945 to May 1948 and worked in retail sales/sporting goods.

He is survived by his wife, Susan F. Pitt, son, Larry Burns of Cincinnati, Ohio; mother, Helen Pitt of Plymouth; sister, Gail Driscoll of New Jersey; two grandchildren.

Memorials may be made as Mass offerings.

PATRICIA ANN KLAES

Services for Patricia Ann Klaes, 66, of Plymouth were Thursday, Dec. 28, at Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church with the Rev. John Sullivan officiating. Local arrangements were made by Schrader-Howell Funeral Home.

She was born Aug. 8, 1929, in Detroit and died Monday, Dec. 25, in Plymouth. Mrs. Klaes was a homemaker. She moved to Plymouth in 1977 from New Boston. She was a member of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church and was a volunteer for St. Vincent De Paul Society. She was also a volunteer at Scott Correctional facility in Northville Township.

She is survived by her husband, Frank F. Klaes of Plymouth; children, Kathleen Klaes of Idaho, Gerard Klaes of Illinois, Mary Templeton of Plymouth, Ann Wisniewski of Warren, James Klaes of Rochester Hills, Peter Klaes of Long Beach, Calif., Jane Klaes of Ann Arbor, Heidi Klaes of Montana; 11 grandchildren; sisters, Sally Reilly, Terri Herman; brother, Daniel Shanahan.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Vincent De Paul Society, 2929 E. Grand Blvd., Detroit, Mich. 48202.

DORA J. MESSACAR

Funeral services for Dora J. Messacar, 68, of Plymouth were in Schrader-Howell Funeral Home with Sanford Burr officiating. Memorial contributions may be made to the Plymouth Historical Society.

Mrs. Messacar, who died Dec. 24 in Ann Arbor, was a lifelong resident of Plymouth, born on South Main Street in 1927. She graduated from Plymouth High in 1944, was a secretary for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for 26 years, was active in the Plymouth Historical Society and was vice president of the Salem Historical Society.

Survivors include: husband, Donald; daughter, Debra Phillips of Plymouth; son, David of Redford; and four grandchildren.

and Plymouth Salem high schools starting Jan. 8. Deadline for submitting applications is Feb. 1.

"We plan on this becoming an annual mid-winter program," said Sandy Keesey, president of the Marching Band Boosters.

The program will feature Myers, former drum major and trombone player, now at the University of Michigan. He will be joined by Jason Berkley on saxophone and Susie Bozell on violin along with other U-M student musicians in the two-hour blues-jazz concert.

For tickets, at $10 each, call Keesey at 397-8903 or project chairwoman Sharon Shemon at 455-9112.

"We will provide the scholarships this year and have seed money set aside for the continuation of the program," Keesey said.

"With so many gifted and talented students graduating from our music program we have long searched for a way to bring them back to the community to showcase them," she added.

School group given grant to assist summer academy

The Educational Excellence Foundation (EEF) of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools received a grant of $6,700 in December from the Plymouth Township office of Panasonic Industrial Company to support the EEF Summer Skills Academy for district elementary students.

The academy served 70 low-income children at Field Elementary for four weeks in July and August. Designed as a skill-building class, the program emphasizes problem-solving and comprehension methods underscored in the MEAP exams.

"Clearly, this program has proven success," said Carol Quattro Levine, EEF director. "In 1994, and again this year, students measured significant gains in their reading and math abilities. Thanks to Panasonic, these children can continue to improve their skills; and, I might add, enjoy learning in the process — most are already asking to sign up for next year."

Panasonic Industrial Company is a division of Matsushita Electric Corporation of America. The responsibility of Panasonic Industrial's Plymouth Township office is selling and marketing automotive products, as well as product and application engineering. The company has chosen to support EEF Skills Academy as part of its "Grass Roots" program, the company's worldwide community involvement endeavor.

Established in 1985, EEF's mission is to provide community stakeholders — parents, teachers, business people, and other concerned citizens — the opportunity to help students reach their full potential as educated and responsible citizens. In addition to the Summer Skills Academy, EEF offers academic mini-grants and supports the Plymouth-Canton Clothing Bank, parenting education, Extended Day Care scholarships, and assistance for special-needs children.

EEF is a non-profit organization solely supported by contributions from individuals, corporations, and foundation grants. Those interested in making a tax-deductible contribution may call 420-7010.

Code curbs charter academies

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

State representatives denied Gov. John Engler his educational dream — public school academies (PSAs) in unlimited numbers and without rules.

Instead, the House version of the new School Code limits the number of PSAs, and it clamped many of the same restrictions on PSAs that regular public schools face.

It slapped the wrist of State Board of Education president Clark Durant by making it far tougher for state, intermediate and local school boards to "buy out" the contracts of superintendents when there is no cause to fire them.

The House gave one minor victory to the religious right but dealt it a couple of blows on the question of "parents' rights."

Next day the Senate quickly agreed to the House's many amendments to Senate Bill 679 and sent it to Engler for his signature. Most of the law takes effect next July 1 except for the prohibition on superintendents' buyouts, which takes immediate effect.

Here are major provisions of the new 154-page School Code based on a 13-page analysis by the House and Senate GOP policy analysts.

Parents' rights

Parents and guardians have the continued right to visit classrooms, but only of their own children and not during testing. The House removed a controversial section that would have allowed audiotaping and videotaping. (Sec. 1137.) Parents and guardians have the right to review instructional materials.

A parent or guardian can file a continuing notice to exempt a pupil from sex education (Sec. 1507a).

Rules on "home schooling" were tightened. The child must be in an organized educational program appropriate for his or her age and intellectual ability. The program must include math, reading, spelling, science and other subjects. (Sec. 1561.)

The religious right insisted on a lengthy "parents' rights" section but had to settle for a brief one saying parents have a natural and fundamental right to determine and direct the care, teaching and education of their children (Sec. 10).

PSAs — charters

The final version raised but didn't remove the cap on the number of PSAs or "charter schools" — 85 through 1996, 100 through 1997, 125 through 1998 and 150 thereafter (Sec. 502).

Central Michigan University's liberal granting of charters was curbed by an amendment limiting any one university to 50 percent of the total number of charters (Sec. 502).

The State Board of Education can suspend the chartering authority of any authorizing body for lack of oversight (Sec. 502). This addressed complaints of lax PSA operations across the state.

Primary school districts may not issue PSA charters (Secs. 501 and 511). This was a response to a K-8 district in Ionia County which chartered Noah Webster Academy, a home-schooling, religious-oriented school.

The State Board will be required to report annually on PSA operations — attendance, dropouts, aggregate test scores and financial projections. The State Board of Education would have to comment and forward the report to the House and Senate Education committees. (Sec. 502.)

PSAs would be subject to requirements on records, construction of school buildings and bilingual education. PSAs could not be established for a particular race. (Sec. 503.)

PSAs must use competitive bidding for buildings and supplies (Sec. 503).

PSAs would be subject to the same court desegregation orders as the surrounding school district (Sec. 504B).

PSAs would be subject to the same prohibition on spanking and corporal punishment as other public schools (Sec. 312). The Senate version would have allowed PSAs to use corporal punishment.

Graduates of PSAs could receive state-endorsed diplomas when their test scores merited them (Sec. 1279).

PSAs could not test for "attitudes and values," the same rule that applies to public schools (Sec. 1279C).

PSAs would have to extend their school days to 190 a year by 2006-7, the same as public schools (Sec. 1294).

PSAs won a victory on school

■ It slapped the wrist of State Board of Education president Clark Durant by making it far tougher for state, intermediate and local school boards to "buy out" the contracts of superintendents when there is no cause to fire them.

building leasing. If a public school board offered a property for rent, it couldn't refuse to rent to an entity for any lawful public educational purpose (Sec. 1260). This addressed complaints that public school boards were refusing to deal with PSA boards on vacant buildings.

General rules

Local school boards must "provide" rather than "make available" to pupils a locally established core academic curriculum. No longer is a core curriculum mandated, but "model" curriculum standards are called for. The State Board periodically must update model curriculum standards. State standards must be used by locals in curriculum formation (Sec. 1278.). The new curriculum rules generally are weaker, but not as weak as the Senate had wanted.

The State Board, intermediate boards and local boards have less freedom to "buy out" the contracts of superintendents. The State Board may not place a superintendent on administrative leave for more than six months. The State Board may not deal on the superintendent's contract six months before or two months after an election. The state superintendent's contract may not exceed three years. (Sec. 1229 and 1229A.)

The House Republican Communications office said the code "expands teacher certification standards." Actually, teacher standards are lowered, though not as far as the Senate wanted (Secs. 1233 and 1233B). Specifically:

■ An uncertified person could be hired to substitute if he or she had 90 semester hours of college credit.

■ A local board may employ a non-certified person in grades 9-12 if the person has a bachelor's degree and five years of directly related work experience. Two of those years of experience would have to be in the last five calendar years. The State Board may recommend additional subject areas for use of non-certified teachers. Student teaching may be waived.

■ Through eighth grade, a non-certified teacher can be employed if a certified teacher is unavailable.

■ A non-certified teacher who teaches successfully for three years could be issued a state provisional teaching certificate.

In a blow to unionism, merit pay is allowed, but evaluation of a teacher could not be "subjective" (Sec. 1250).

School improvement plans still must be adopted and must be "made available" to the state Department of Education but needn't be sent to Lansing (Sec. 1277).

Rules for reimbursing school trustees for their expenses are tightened (Sec. 1254). This was a response to reported abuses in Detroit.

Bilingual instruction no longer is mandated but permitted (Secs. 1153 and 1155). Hispanic pressure groups see this as a blow.

The birthdays of Michigan poet Will Carlton and President Theodore Roosevelt no longer need be observed (Sec. 1175). State Board conservatives wanted to retain them.

No schools of "choice" sections are in the bill. But in property transfer requests, the State Board of Education must consider the length of the affected pupil's commute. The effect would be to allow more reasons for property transfers. (Sec. 971.)

In many sections, the word "outcomes" is changed to "objectives," in deference to the religious right's abomination of outcomes-based education (OBE). It isn't clear from the staff analyses, however, what the difference may be.

The 180-days school year is lengthened by 10 days or 60 hours by 2006-7. Rural districts with transportation problems may opt to add hours to the class day rather than add days to the year.

Female students are entitled to compete in all interscholastic sports, not just non-contact sports (Sec. 1289).

SHOPPING CENTERED

LINDA BACHRACK

11 Resolutions: for keen shoppers

As I sit amid piles of boxes, tissue paper and ribbons, with visions of crowded malls and long return lines muddling my head, I am inspired to list my New Year's shopping resolutions for 1996.

My experience as a professional shopper for the past several years, has given me a pretty keen insight into the psyche of a weekend mall warrior. For what it's worth, these are my suggestions for hassle-free shopping sprees.

1. I resolve to make a prioritized list of shopping needs and to stick to it, avoiding the temptation to "just peek" at the new spring shoes.

2. I resolve to organize my shopping trip geographically. No need to squeeze Twelve Oaks and Fairlane into the same day.

3. I resolve to plan more "downtown" days. When it's nice outside, there's nothing more spirit-lifting than leisurely strolling the streets of a charming downtown like Rochester, Plymouth or Birmingham.

4. I resolve to visit my favorite small boutiques and galleries more often. I know that when I walk into Lori Karbal's, Lisa Parks, The Print Gallery, Presence II, It's The Ritz, Sheets, Clique Gallery, Ilona & gallery, Penn & Paige, Antiques by Pamela, J. Crew and Venture Outdoors, I will be treated to an atmosphere of friendly conversation and extraordinary personal service. I will feel comfortable and pampered, like a special customer. And I will observe that others will be treated just the same.

5. I resolve, on the other hand, to avoid those stores where I have been treated disrespectfully or where I have been ignored.

6. I resolve to continue to shop frequently at the Somerset Collection, if only to take advantage of their spacious, hassle-free covered parking. It's a pleasure to park so easily. The same can be said for downtown Plymouth and Rochester, both of which offer free, accessible parking lots.

7. I resolve to avoid mall food courts and opt instead for Hudson's Yogurt Express, Jacobson's cheese soup, Oakland Mall's Bruschetta Cafe and Neiman's cafe.

8. I resolve never to buy anything from a store with a "store credit only" return policy unless I'm absolutely sure that I'm going to keep it.

9. I resolve to let my daughter buy her own clothes instead of second guessing her taste.

10. I resolve to utilize the expertise of certain sales personnel. For example, the women at Adventures in Toys in Birmingham know kids and toys better than I do. I'll let them make suggestions.

Most lingerie departments employ trained fit experts. Take advantage of their knowledge. Not sure what lipstick is perfect for you? Ask the cosmetic gurus at M.A.C. in the Somerset Collection.

11. Finally, I resolve to do my best to help readers and friends find those special and unusual items that they assume I've seen on my shopping expeditions. I probably have seen it and I'm glad to do the research and the footwork for you — just ask.

Which reminds me of three final words on shopping: comfortable shoes always.

Happy New Year.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Malls & Mainstreets next week:

- A report on the holiday shopping season — Was it a good year for merchants?
- Facts about buying gloves your mother never told you.
- An interview with Hudson's new manager of the Somerset North store.
- Retail Details briefs you on the latest market place changes.

Walkers tout benefits of mall programs

Local mall walking groups offer participants a way to stay healthy in a climate-controlled environment. Some also see it as a way to meet new friends.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Colleen Buie joined the Westland Walkers last August shortly after moving from Benton Harbor to Garden City. Now, three days a week, the 49-year-old mother drops her son off at school, then walks around the mall four times for a total of three miles.

Co-sponsored by Garden City Hospital and the Westland Center, the walking club allows Buie to walk in climate controlled comfort without worrying about slipping on snow and ice in the winter, or being delayed by rain and heat in summer. More importantly, it relieves her loneliness and longing for home.

"I thought mall walking would be a good way to meet people and I was right. People greet you, smile and say hi," said Buie at the group's recent meeting.

Since retiring from the U.S. Postal Service, Don Lobb walks for his health. The 74-year-old Westland resident has a family history of heart disease. After many years battling blood pressure problems, he suffered a stroke last year. Lobb now walks every day.

"You feel rejuvenated when you exercise. I walk and bike for health reasons, exercise, and something to do. Otherwise, I'm groggy and tired all day," he said.

Walking is good for you according to Karen Parsell, manager of the Garden City Hospital Sleep Disorders Center. She spoke at the walker's December meeting, unraveling many mysteries about the 96 sleep disorders recognized by the American Medical Association — including snoring and sleep apnea.

A registered respiratory therapist, Parsell said sleep is essential to a person's well-being. Lack of it results in disorders affecting not only physical and emotional health, but also appetite, social relationships, sexual behaviors, and work performance. It's estimated one of every three Americans has trouble falling or staying asleep, resulting in tiredness the next day. The center's team of trained professionals diagnose and treat sleep disorders.

"Sleep. I like to refer to it as food for the brain," she told the walkers. "What we need as we get older is about eight hours. It's a myth that senior citizens need less sleep."

Walking for exercise is increasing in popularity not only because of the health benefits but because walking produces less stress on the body than other forms of exercise like running. The benefits of walking double upon joining a club. Besides monthly speakers, Westland Walkers president Betty Kowalski says membership offers the opportunity to have their blood pressure tested for free as well as receive prizes for accumulated walking mileage.

Members also help others while making their rounds. At last month's meeting, walkers generously brought new toys to the mall, piling them on tables for donation to the U.S. Marine Corps' "Toys for Tots."

"Westland Walkers is an opportunity to walk with others. It's an incentive, not an obligation," Kowalski stressed. "You're involved only as much as you want to be."

The Westland Walkers meet at 9:30 a.m. the second Wednesday of each month in the mall's lower level auditorium. Application cards are available at customer service in East Court. For more information, call the Westland Center at (313) 425-5001.

For security purposes, Westland Walkers are also required to wear a badge. Garden City Hospital provides the photo ID to those filling out an application. Call the Human Resources Department at (313) 458-4277 between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Walker round-up

According to statistics, the average American gains 7-pounds during the holidays so now is the perfect time to consider joining a walking club. Here's a guide to area malls offering such groups:

Laurel Park Place. Livonia. The Walking Club is co-sponsored by Botsford General Hospital and the mall. There are incentives for walking. Once around the mall is 1/4 mile. Hours are Monday-Saturday 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. When you sign up at the security office, you receive a walking club T-shirt. Call (313) 462-1100.

"After logging 100 miles you receive a fanny pack. A newsletter informs walkers about stores offering discounts on merchandise to members," added Susan Azar the mall's marketing director.

Wonderland Mall. Livonia. Sign up to join The Wonder Walkers at the information desk or mall office. Incentive prizes like movie passes are given for mileage accumulated for walking the 1/4 miles around the mall. Monday-Saturday hours 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday, 12-5 p.m. Call (313) 522-4100.

Northland. Southfield. The Northland Pacers are always accepting new members, but you don't have to join to walk beginning at 8:30 a.m. Monday-Saturday, and 10:30 a.m. Sunday. The more than 2,000 members receive prizes for miles walked. Pick up an application blank at the display booth by Customer Service and start adding one mile every time you walk around the center. Call (810) 569-6272.

Oakland Mall. Troy. Club Tread was recently organized. Plans in 1996 call for implementing the program in conjunction with Beaumont Hospital. Once around the track is one mile. Walking begins at 7 a.m. Monday-Saturday, and 9 a.m. Sunday. Applications available at the Information

Facts of life: Karen Parsell of Garden City Hospital's Sleep Disorders Center talks to walkers about the importance of sleep in the health routine.

Booth on lower level. Call (810) 585-6000.

Tel-Twelve Mall. Southfield. The center is currently in the process of formalizing a walking club with Footlocker. Marketing director Jennifer Fox says doors open at 8 a.m. weekdays, but "a lot of people walk during their lunch hour." Tally up one mile every time you walk around the mall 2 1/4 times. (Not including the food court.) Call (313) 353-4111.

Lakeside. Sterling Heights. With St. Joseph Mercy Healthier Image, the mall offers Inside Track, an informal group. Quarterly speakers, store discounts. Sign up first Wednesday of the month at the Information Desk or St. Joe's branch office within the mall. Walking begins at 8 a.m. daily and 10 a.m. Sundays. Each level is a three-quarter mile long. Call (810) 247-1794.

Livonia Mall. No formal walking club, but doors open to welcome walkers at 7:30 a.m. Monday-Saturday.

Twelve Oaks. Novi. Walking program daily beginning at 8 a.m. Saturdays at 10 a.m. Each level offers walkers a distance of three-quarters of a mile. Walking the center is equal to 1 1/4 miles. For more details, call (810) 348-9438.

Fairlane Town Center. Dearborn. Walking program co-sponsored by Oakwood Health Information Center in the mall. Walkers can warm-up with exercises at 8:30 a.m. in the Lord & Taylor Court daily. When you join, you receive a free T-shirt. Note: There is talk the mall may discontinue the walking program after Jan. 31. Check with the center later in the month to verify. (313) 593-4660.

Summit Place. Waterford. No formal club, but walkers are welcome beginning at 8 a.m. Call for more information. (810) 682-0123.

Touche! Top-rated game in local shops

BY JANICE TIGAR-KRAMER
SPECIAL WRITER

If you're weary of computer games and electronic entertainment, get un-plugged with a board game the whole family will enjoy.

And since downtime's almost certain during the long holiday break, a challenging game (suitable for a wide age range) will pass time and generate some interaction between family members.

During a cruise two years ago, Ceci and Bill Stone of Bloomfield Township were reminded how enjoyable a board game can be, even when played with strangers.

The couple spotted a family of four in the ship's game room engrossed in a card game being played on a makeshift board. Fellow vacationers Harry and Suzanne Bobette Strang — the game's inventors — invited the Stones to play a round of their new game "Touche." Until then, only the inventor's family and friends had played on the prototype game board.

The Stones liked Touche so well they offered to market it in Michigan if the Stranges went ahead with production.

"We played Touche on a crude-looking board, but it was a real challenge and great fun," Ceci

Stone recalled.

Today, the Stones are the Michigan distributors for Touche, which was named Best New Family Game of 1996 by GAMES magazine.

"It's a thinking game that requires some strategy. We hope it catches on," said Ceci Stone, who formerly ran an upscale boutique in West Bloomfield.

Touche's premise is simple enough, but the most defensive player or team generally wins. The object is to complete a designated pattern on the board by matching the colorful playing cards to corresponding board spaces. The dealer selects one of five game patterns, ranging from a simple square to a more complicated figure. Defensive play is essential to block the opponent.

Touche (about $30) includes two decks of playing cards, board markers and a sturdy, octagon-shaped board. The game is for two to eight players, age 10 to adult, but savvy 9-year-olds will have no trouble catching on. Younger players especially like the board's lively graphics.

Touche's West Coast sales are brisk. Locally, it's sold at Adventures In Toys, Birmingham, and all Jacobson's stores.

Jacobson's snapped up the game shortly after board chairman Mark Rosenfeld played it with his family.

"We sent him one game and he bought a gross," said Bill Stone, a West Bloomfield insurance broker.

Shelly Littman, owner of Adventures In Toys, plays Touche with her 12-year-old son.

"It's a good family game and it plays well," said Littman, whose bestselling items for Christmas and Hanukkah traditionally are games. "People who want a classic gift for anyone over age eight usually buy a good board game."

Play a winner: Touche! is a new board game that is produced locally. It's a fun way for families to enjoy an evening or two together.

Panel dodges speed limit question

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

A state House Republican task force dodged the question of raising freeway speed limits when it issued a list of traffic safety recommendations.

Instead it opted for the Michigan Legislature's popular solution to many problems — tougher punishments.

"Congress may soon allow states to set speed limits on federal interstate highways," the panel noted. "Before proceeding, the Michigan Legislature should give careful consideration of the consequences of raising those speed limits."

The GOP panel was chaired by Rep. Frank Fitzgerald of Grand Ledge. Among its eight members were Reps. Dan Gustafson of Williamston and James Ryan of Redford Township. Its report was issued in November.

The Senate has voted on a bill to raise speed limits to a uniform 70. Currently, the limits are 65 on rural interstates and 55 in urban areas.

One recommendation has already been enacted: Gustafson's bill to set up a tiered system of driver's licensing for youngsters and to require more training and supervision before they take to the road.

At the same time, however, the panel proposed easing up on training. It wants to "eliminate the mandate that public schools provide driver's education" but "encourage school districts to continue providing driver's education" with more state funding.

New and more severe punishments were proposed for drunken drivers, particularly repeat offenders. One would be police confiscation of license plates at the time of arrest if a person has a previous conviction or is driving on a suspended or revoked license.

No new programs were recommended for truckers. But the panel noted that truck driver fatigue has been identified nationally as "the primary issue affecting truck safety" and called for more research.

It asked for the state Department of Education to certify all truck driver schools.

"Retain Michigan's motorcycle helmet law," the group said. "Encourage the use of bicycle helmets by all cyclists, especially those under age 16."

In 1994, Michigan recorded 1,419 traffic deaths.

There were nearly 400,000

crashes and more than 142,000 injuries. Police made more than 55,000 arrests for drunken driving.

Reviewing past laws, the panel said, "Since 1975, the Legislature has reduced the blood alcohol level at which a driver is presumed drunk, mandated seat belt use for persons under age 16 and for adult front seat passengers, instituted zero alcohol tolerance for drivers under the drinking age, approved a tough set of civil infraction laws in the motor vehicle code, and streamlined the system for arresting, prosecuting and punishing drunken drivers."

In meetings last spring and in the summer in Warren, Lansing, Flint, Grand Rapids and Traverse City, the panel heard suggestions that the blood alcohol content levels for drunken driving be lowered, but called for "further studies."

Library director wins ageless award

Sister M. Lydia Mlodzianowski recently received the "Ability Is Ageless" award presented by Operation Able of Michigan.

Sister Lydia placed among the top nine Most Able Award recipients for her commitment and dedication as the director of Madonna University's library for 18 years.

Under her leadership, Madonna's library experienced tremendous growth both physically and technologically.

She continues to work in the Madonna library. Her duties include supervising the reading room, working with book selections, and assisting students whenever possible.

GUM DISEASE AND TOOTH LOSS

Three out of four people over the age of thirty-five are afflicted with periodontal disease, which is caused by bacterial infection and inflammation in the gums and membranes surrounding the teeth. When this problem is restricted to the gums, it is called gingivitis. When it is allowed to progress to the membranes around the teeth, it is called periodontitis. The earliest symptom of gum disease is gums that bleed easily (when brushing, for instance). When the disease progresses to its later stages, pockets form between teeth and gums and the jaw bone may erode. Changes such as these lead to tooth loosening and loss. Who is most at risk for this consequence? One study of 554 people between the ages of 70 and 96 showed that gentle probing of the gums caused bleeding. Eighty-seven percent of these same subjects had moderate to severe pockets. Gum disease can be treated in ways ranging from cleaning to surgery, but it can be prevented by regular brushing, flossing, and professional cleaning. Is it time for your next checkup? Call us at LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES. Smiles are our business—let us help you keep yours. We're located at 19171 Merriman Road, where we provide gentle dental care for the entire family. We are currently accepting new patients. Please call 478-2110 to schedule a convenient appointment. M-F Mon., Tues., Thurs. & Fri. 8-5, Wed. 9-4 PM.

Treat yourself to some new cookbooks

In the event that Santa didn't quite bring you everything you asked for, after doing the return thing, you might end up with a few extra dollars.

If you're looking to enhance your culinary library, or still have a few picks left on that book club you signed up for last spring, you might want to consider these suggestions.

Nick Malgieri, a graduate of the Culinary Institute of America and Director of Pastry in the famed Peter Kump's Cooking School in New York has put together a most comprehensive and accessible guide to baking. If you, or anyone you know, yearns to pick up a rolling pin and play with flour, this book is a must have. Whether you need detailed instructions on making a plain old white cake or a classic genoise, "How To Bake" by Nick Malgieri, (copyright 1995, Harper-Collins, $35) offers clear, detailed instructions, interweaving techniques and incredibly helpful sidebars. This book belongs next to your basic reference books so that you'll have it handy when you need a pie crust, easy muffin or perfect cookie recipe. Couple this book with a set of Kaiser Bakeware (very heavy duty, professional quality, easy to clean) and you'll have a gift that will be appreciated for decades. The book and Kaiser bakeware available wherever good kitchenware is sold.

Chocolate delights

Since we're on the subject of baking, and just in case you didn't get your fill of chocolate during the holidays, you can cash in those returns for "Desserts To Die For" by Marcel Desaulniers (copyright, 1995, Simon & Shuster, $30). Forget the diet with this book, but if you crave excessive, decorative, sinful, decadent melt-in-your-mouth recipes in step-by-step detail, you'll love this book.

Another graduate of the famed Culinary Institute of America and co-owner of the Trellis Restaurant in Colonial Williamsburg, Desaulniers (previously authored "Death By Chocolate") exhibits his latest collection of creations using layer cakes, fruits, sauces, ganache, cookies and sorbets in the book. If you check out the book and notice that some of the recipes have as many as 34 ingredients, you might be hesitant to try any of them at home. Do not despair because Desaulniers has broken down everything into one of the easiest to follow recipe formats I have ever seen. If nothing more, the books gets kudos for recipe titles. (i.e.: "Chocolate Exquisite Pain" which is from the Marquis De Sade School of Desserts.) This book should be snapped up now for Valentine's Day ideas.

A definitive addition to any home library if you, like me have ever dreamed of owning a quaint bed and breakfast, would be a trio compilation called "The American Country Inn and Bed and Breakfast Cookbook" (Volumes I and II, by Kitty and Lucian Maynard, Rutledge, (copyright 1987, Hill Press, $14.95 each), and the 1996 edition of "The Annual Directory of American and Canadian Bed and Breakfasts" by Tracy Menges, (copyright 1995, Rutledge Hill Press, $19.95).

Each of these cookbooks is jammed with over 1,700 crowd pleasing recipes from more than 500 American Inns across the country. Trust me, the muffins, cakes and bread recipes that must be brought out of the oven and served piping hot, the way I always get 'em at my favorite Bed & Breakfast (the Monro House in Jonesville, Mich.) are worth the price of the cookbooks.

If you travel, or are anticipating a vacation, the bed & breakfast directory describes everything you wanted to know. History lovers, romanticists and savvy travelers, especially if they cook, will surely appreciate these books.

Low-fat Italian

Last, but certainly not least, if you are searching for low-fat, high fiber, diabetes you'll really enjoy "Lean Italian Meatless Meals" by Anne Casale, (copyright 1995, Fawcett Columbine Books, $18.50). As you know, meatless meals are not necessarily healthful meals. Casale revised each recipe, even traditional high-fat classics like lasagna and pizza, not to exceed eight grams of fat per serving without sacrificing taste.

You won't even notice that meat is missing from this great collection of recipes. All recipes have nutritional breakdowns, and not only taste good, but are good for you!

BUILD A HEALTHFUL FOUNDATION

By Sandra Dalka-Pryby • Special Writer

Feeding kids these days is a real challenge. "We're not doing too good a job of assuring that our kids eat healthful foods," said Judy Swancutt, the mother of four children ranging in age from nine to 15, and a registered dietitian. "We are allowing them to snack on high-fat and high-calorie foods such as chips and soda pop. And, I am especially concerned that our youngsters are not drinking milk. This lack of calcium can lead to health problems in the future."

Swancutt works at Botsford Hospital's Center for Health Improvement, Health Development Network in Novi and specializes in the nutritional needs of children. She said our busy lifestyles, as well as more working mothers, has resulted in an increase of fast foods, which are especially high in fats. In addition, the popularity of "wrong" snack foods is creating bad food habits in kids.

"It's not going to get any better in the 90s. Family schedules seem to be getting busier. It's rare when a family sits down to dinner together, and children eat at various times, not just three meals a day."

Kids are snacking all the time, especially when they get home from school.

A study of 10-year-olds cited in "What Are We Feeding Our Kids?" by Michael F. Jacobson, Ph.D., executive director, Center for Science in the Public Interest and Bruce Maxwell (copyright 1994, Workman Publish, New York, $8.95) found that the average child got one-third or his or her calories from snacks. Nearly one in the seven of the 10-year-olds got 50 percent to 70 percent of his or her calories from snacks.

This is why it is important for parents to have nutritious snacks - foods that are also good tasting, available for their children.

Swancutt recommends that parents follow the suggested food pyramid working from the bottom (fruits and vegetables) up, instead of from the top (fats) down when selecting food for their children.

Let your children snack on fruits and vegetables, and cut them up to make them more desirable. Bagels are another good choice. Top them with a small amount of peanut butter or low-fat or no-fat cream cheese. Low-fat (baked) snack crackers with a small amount of cheese, cold cereal with milk, pretzels, and popcorn (without butter) are other nutritious snacks.

Moderation is the word of choice for food selections at the Wall home in Southfield. Amy Wall oversees the food choices her four small children, ranging in age from three to eight make.

"I tell my kids that if they eat too much of anything, whether it's candy or fruit, they are not going to feel too well," she said. "Also, I don't like to say 'no' to foods or forbid my kids to eat certain things. In the 'real world,' I know that if children are denied at home, they'll find them and eat them somewhere. It's much better to teach them to make good food choices - to teach them to eat a balanced diet," she said.

Wall involves her children in menu planning and meal preparation. "When the kids help pick out what we're going to eat, they feel part of the meal. It's also a good opportunity to teach them about good food choices," she said. Red meats have been replaced by turkey, chicken, fish and some pork at their house. "I'm not saying that we never have red meat, but it is rare. My husband, Patrick, is your basic meat-and-potatoes man, but he travels a great deal and eats his beef on the road. Luckily, he, too, believes in healthy eating for our family."

Port wine enjoyment is on the rise

While it's too early to state 1995 figures, it's obvious that consumer demand for varietal wines on a worldwide basis has grown phenomenally. In the United States alone, it is a nearly 55-million case market and growing, up according to Nielsen figures, 28 percent in 1994. Demand for merlot grew 51 percent. Cabernet sauvignon, which is in larger production than merlot, grew 22 percent. Fastest growth is in the $7 to $10 price range. In September 1995, even the Rothschild family of the renowned Bordeaux Chateau Mouton-Rothschild got into the varietal wine fray. Heads turned.

They should. French imports, according to Nielsen, were up 14 percent in 1994 with varietally labeled French wine up 18 percent. Two years from now, they'll rise again. Why? Given early information about the 1995 Bordeaux harvest, Bordeaux lovers can again rejoice. After less than significant vintages from 1991 to 1994, it appears that dry, sunny weather from June to September has brought smiles back to the faces of Bordeaux growers. Intermittent showers Sept. 7-19 were followed by a return of good weather during the red grape harvest through the beginning of October. Nothing is proven until we can taste the bottled product, but purchase of these wines is two years away.

The best and current news, especially for those of us in the deep of Michigan's winter chill, is port.

Port is traditionally associated with the English. Move over Brits! In 1993 and 1994, more vintage port was imported to our shores than was drunk in all of the UK. Port sales were up in 1994 a whopping 39 percent and will no doubt see an increase in 1995. Both the 1991 and 1992 vintages are very good. However, for best enjoyment, they need 15 to 20 years of cellaring. What ports are drinkable now?

The answer is wood ports. These are ports that have matured in wood and are ready to drink when bottled. Vintage ports are called bottle ports because they spend about two years in wood and rely on lengthy bottle aging to reach maturity. Wood ports are further subdivided into ruby, tawny, vintage character, late bottled vintage, aged-tawny and dated or Colheita port. Finding the style you prefer requires tasting.

One way to start learning is to choose ports from the same producer. To investigate tawny ports, try Warre's King's Tawny $14, light, dry and nutty, tasted against Warre's Sir William $23, a tawny aged 10 years which is more generous. For a continued comparison, there's Warre's Nimrod $27, an aged tawny port which spent 15 years in cask. For $4 more than the 10-year, it's mellowness can't be beat. Don't worry that you have three bottles open, they will remain fresh for several weeks after opening.

Vintage character and late-bottled vintage ports (LBV) emulate vintage ports, but the way they are crafted eliminates the need for extended bottle aging after purchase. They are exceptional values. Two fine examples are Taylor Fladgate First Estate $15, a vintage character port with hints of ripe plums and caramel and Taylor Fladgate LBV 1989 $16 that is full, fruity and jammy with balanced sweetness.

Now go back to Warre's and try their style of vintage character port in Warre's Warrior $16, a good balance of grape and wine character with a bright fruit finish. Warre's 1982 LBV $23 is delicious. After this, you should have some idea of which house style (producer) and which category you prefer. Try other houses now that you have the hang of how to make comparisons.

Two good port investments would be the Taylor Fladgate 20-year-Tawny $42 and some bottles of 1991 or 1992 vintage ports running $35 to $40 per bottle.

Ports simply labeled Ruby Port, Fine Port, Selected Port, or some other wording are the poorest blend of grapes. They're OK, but are not the best taste value for the money.

Wine Selections

After the holidays, we're all thinking light and right. There's no better varietal than sauvignon blanc. Its zesty citrus character is a definite pick-me-up with broiled seafood, fish soups and light pasta dishes.

- 1994 Matanzas Creek Winery Sauvignon Blanc $15
- 1994 Silverado Sauvignon Blanc $10.25

The heartier and more savory fare of winter suggests red wine. The following wines are listed from lightest to most robust.

- 1993 Jekel Vineyards Gravelstone Pinot Noir $15
- 1993 Shafer Firebreak (Sangiovese) $24
- 1992 Chateau Souverain Cabernet Sauvignon $20
- 1993 Murphy-Goode Cabernet Sauvignon $16
- 1992-Trefethen Cabernet Sauvignon $20
- 1993 Dry Creek Vineyard Old Vines Zinfandel $14.50
- 1993 Dry Creek Vineyard Meritage $20

Best buys under $10

- 1994 Napa Ridge Pinot Noir $7.50
- 1993 Napa Ridge Cabernet Sauvignon $7.50
- 1994 Villa Mount Eden Pinot Noir $8

Cauliflower packs lots of nutritional power

With its cream-colored flower clusters, cauliflower is among the most attractive of the winter vegetable lineup. And there's a lot of power in cauliflower nutritional riches of vitamins A and C, potassium, and phosphorus. Like other members of the cruciferous vegetable family — along with broccoli, cabbage, Brussels sprouts, kale, kohlrabi, rutabaga and turnips — cauliflower provides healthy amounts of phytochemicals that have been linked to potential protection against cancer.

Cauliflower is in season during fall and winter months. Look for heads that are heavy, compact and free of brown spots. Avoid heads that are starting to spread apart, which is a sign of over-maturity. Its cabbage-like scent should be faint, not strong.

The easiest way to serve cauliflower is simply steamed. Trim all leaves, hollow out the stem with a paring knife (to reduce cooking time), and steam for 15 minutes until tender crisp. Putting a bit of lemon juice, milk or white wine vinegar in the water helps keep the head white.

Add color with finely chopped parsley or red peppers, and serve. Or sprinkle with a bit of grated cheese and place under the broiler for a minute or two until lightly browned.

Winter delight: For a truly distinctive taste, try Cauliflower Northern Italian Style, featuring the red wine and garlic flavors of that region.

A warm bowl of creamy cauliflower soup is perfect for a cool day. For guilt-free creamy taste and texture, use plain, low-fat yogurt, buttermilk or non-fat sour cream in place of high fat ingredients in your soup.

Try hearty cauliflower salads: cauliflower with red and green peppers and a light vinaigrette dressing, or cauliflower with diced apples, walnuts and scallions with a low-fat yogurt curry dressing.

When cooked until it is very tender, cauliflower can be mashed like potatoes. Blanched (cooked in boiling water for one to two minutes), it makes a handsome addition to a raw vegetable platter, or it can be braised with spices such as thyme, basil, garlic, chives, or ginger for a flavorful side dish. Curried cauliflower makes a delicious stuffing for winter squash.

For a truly distinctive taste, try Cauliflower Northern Italian Style, featuring the red wine and garlic flavors of that region.

CAULIFLOWER NORTHERN ITALIAN STYLE

- 1 small-to-medium head cauliflower
- 2 teaspoons olive oil
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
- 3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons water

Trim the cauliflower and separate it into small flowerettes. Heat a large skillet or wok over medium-high heat for 30 seconds, add the olive oil, and heat for another 20-30 seconds. Reduce the heat to medium and saute the garlic in the heated oil, stirring constantly, until it just starts to brown. Add the cauliflower and stir for 2-3 minutes. Add the pepper, vinegar, and water. Cook over low heat, covered, about 10 minutes.

Crankshaft Sangria: Lynne Loren of West Bloomfield displays her non-alcoholic drink, which earned her a spot as a finalist in AAA Michigan's regional zero proof mix off.

Tasty drink alcohol-free

The wrong picture caption appeared with the "Great Pretenders" story on the Dec. 25 Taste front. The photo was of Lynne Loren of West Bloomfield holding a tray of her Crankshaft Sangria drinks, not the Raspberry Car-tail.

Loren was a finalist in AAA Michigan's regional zero proof mix off, an alcohol-free drink contest.

CRANKSHAFT SANGRIA

- 1 bottle alcohol-free red wine
- 1 12-oz can undiluted frozen lemonade
- 1 cup orange juice
- 4 orange slices
- 4 lime slices
- soda water

Mix first five ingredients together in large pitcher. Pour over ice cubes in a tall tumbler. Add soda water to taste. 6 servings.

30-MINUTE BEEF PAPRIKASH

- Total preparation and cooking time: 30 minutes
- 1-pound boneless beef top sirloin steak, cut 1-inch thick
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 2 medium onions, sliced
- 16-ounce package sauerkraut, rinsed and drained
- 1 tablespoon paprika
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 3/4-ounce can ready-to-serve beef broth
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/4 cup tomato paste
- 1/2 teaspoon caraway seeds
- 1/2 to 1/4 teaspoon ground red pepper
- 3 1/2 cups uncooked medium noodles
- Chopped fresh parsley
- 1/4 cup dairy sour half-and-half

Trim fat from steak. Cut steak into 1-inch pieces and then cut each in half.

In large nonstick skillet or Dutch oven, heat oil over medium-high heat until hot. Add beef, one-half at a time, and stir-fry 1 1/2 to 2 minutes or until outside surface is no longer pink. Do not overcook. Remove from skillet with slotted spoon; set aside.

In the same skillet, add onions, sauerkraut, paprika and 1/4 cup water. Cook and stir until onions are tender, about 3 minutes. Stir in broth, 1/2 cup water, tomato paste, caraway seeds, red pepper and noodles, stirring to separate noodles. Bring to a boil; reduce heat to medium. Cover tightly and simmer 10 minutes or until noodles are tender.

Remove from heat; return beef to skillet. Cover and let stand 1 minute. Sprinkle with parsley, serve

Peachy dessert colorful, quick

Colorful, flavorful and quick enough for a weeknight, Cherry-Peach Clafouti is the kind of recipe the judges will be looking for in the third annual Kretschmer Wheat Germ "Healthy Eating Made Easy & Delicious" recipe contest.

Contributing to the wholesome profile of this easy dessert are two kinds of fruit, skim milk and egg whites. Wheat germ used in place of some of the flour adds a nutty crunch and an easy nutrition boost to this moist, pudding-like cake.

CHERRY-PEACH CLAFOUTI

¼ cup sugar
½ cup wheat germ any flavor
½ cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt (optional)
¾ cup skim milk
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
3 egg whites
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
One (16-ounce) can pitted sour cherries, drained
1 cup fresh or frozen, peeled, sliced peaches, thawed
1 tablespoon powdered sugar

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Spray 10-inch round quiche dish or 8 by 8-inch square glass baking dish with no-stick cooking spray or grease lightly.

In blender or food processor, combine first 10 ingredients; cover. Blend on high or process 1 minute until well blended. Pour into prepared dish; arrange cherries and peaches evenly over batter.

Bake 35-40 minutes or until light golden brown. Cool on wire rack 10 minutes. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and, if desired, additional wheat germ. Serve Warm. Yield 8 servings. Calories 230, calories from fat 35, Total fat 4 g.

Recipe from the Kretschmer Wheat Germ test kitchen.

It's the start of a new year and a terrific time to return to more healthful eating habits. As added incentive to trim the fat and boost the fiber, the sponsor of the Kretschmer Wheat Germ "Healthy Eating Made Easy & Delicious" recipe contest is conducting its annual search for recipes that are easy, great tasting and healthful. The recipe selected "best of contest" will win $5,000.

Scoop up bean dip

AP — A bowl of dip made with a cup of full-fat sour cream has about 500 calories and 48 grams of fat. Prepare the same dip with nonfat sour cream and you will eliminate 320 calories and all 48 grams of fat.

Sandra Woodruff's recipe for Mexican bean dip is made with nonfat sour cream and nonfat or reduced-fat cheddar cheese. Woodruff is the author of "Secrets of Fat-Free Cooking" (Avery Publishing Group, $13.95).

Scoop up the dip with some low-fat, whole-grain crackers or, better yet, with raw carrot and celery sticks.

MEXICAN BEAN DIP

1-pound can pinto beans, rinsed and drained
¼ cup nonfat sour cream
2 to 3 teaspoons chili powder
½ teaspoon ground cumin
½ cup shredded nonfat or reduced-fat cheddar cheese
¼ cup thinly sliced scallions
¼ cup sliced black olives
2 tablespoons finely chopped jalapeno peppers

Place the beans, sour cream, chili powder and cumin in a food processor or blender; process until smooth. Spread the mixture over the bottom of a 9-inch glass pie pan. Top with the cheese, followed by the scallions, olives and jalapenos. Serve at room temperature or hot.

If using a microwave oven, heat on high (100 percent power) for 5 to 6 minutes or until the edges are bubbly and the cheese is melted. If using a conventional oven, bake at 400 degrees F for 20 minutes. Serve with fat-free tortilla chips. Makes 2½ cups.

Nutrition facts per 1-tablespoon serving: 14 cal., 0 mg chol., 0.1 g fat, 0.7 g fiber, 1.3 g pro., 44 mg sodium. Recipe from "Secrets of Fat-Free Cooking" by Sandra Woodruff, Avery Publishing Group, $13.95.

Entering is easy. Anyone 18 years of age and older not involved professionally in the preparation of food or recipes is eligible to participate. Recipes can be newly created or family favorites that have been significantly changed to make them healthier and more convenient to prepare.

Finalist recipes will be kitchen tested and judged by a panel of food professionals on the basis of taste, the use of lower-fat ingredients, convenience and originality.

In addition to the $5,000 grand prize, three $1,000 first prizes (one per category), three $200 second prizes (one per category) and 25 $50 honorarium prizes will be awarded.

Beginning January 1, send entries to: Kretschmer Wheat Germ recipe contest, P.O. Box 530, Barrington, IL 60011. Entries must be postmarked by midnight April 1, 1996 and received by April 8, 1996. Winners will be announced in May, 1996.

For a copy of the complete contest rules and the newly revised Healthy Eating Made Easy brochure, send a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope to: Kretschmer Wheat Germ contest rules, P.O. Box 543, Barrington, IL 60011.

Quick: Cherry-Peach Clafouti is flavorful and quick enough for a weeknight. Wheat germ used in place of some of the flour adds a nutty crunch.

Youth soccer champs

The Livonia YMCA '85 Michigan Wolves, an under-11 boys team, captured its division with a 5-0 record, including a 5-1 victory over the Plymouth Kicks in the championship final, at the Total Soccer of Farmington Christmas indoor tournament.

Members of the '85 Wolves, who outscored their opponents 45-7, include: goalkeeper Tim Allen, Brad Crosby, Nik Gjokic, all of Livonia; Mike Simons, Canton; Russell Morrell, Plymouth; Josh Churella and Jeff Eehalt, Novi; Keith Mullins and Charlie Noles, Dearborn Heights; Mike Borowiak, Fraser; and Tony Zenn, Dearborn.

Joe Knorel is the head coach, assisted by Pat Frederick and Andy Shiner. The team manager is Edward Allen.

■ The Plymouth Green Giants, an under-10 boys soccer team, won its first division indoor season recently at the Canton Soccerdome with a 7-1-1 record.

Members of the Green Giants, who outscored their opponents 37-14, include: Nick Baldori, Ryan Cavanaugh, John Franchi, Josh Glowinski, Kelsey Helland, Brandon Hoad, Dan Madsen, Steve McGuigan, Eric Niemiec, Brandon Rennels, Greg Rexin, Brandon Sczomak, John Tantalo and Mark Vassallo.

The team is coach by Ron Sczomak, Ken Glowinski and Chris Rexin.

O&E ski nights

Cross country skiing clinics will be held, weather permitting, 10 a.m.-12 p.m. and 1:30 p.m.-3:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 13 at Addison Oaks and Independence Oaks.

Similar programs will be held at the same times on Saturday, Jan. 20, at Addison Oaks and Saturday, Jan. 27, at Independence Oaks.

Walleye seminar

Bob "The Hangman" Mitchel, recognized field tester and outdoor writer and a staff member at The Fishin' Hole in Taylor, will present a seminar on walleye and steelhead fishing in the central basin of Lake Erie, beginning at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Maplewood Center in Garden City.

Mitchel will give a presentation on the new "hot spot" for walleye and steelhead in Erieau, Ontario. The seminar is part of the regular meeting of the Four Seasons Fishing Club.

Admission is free and the public is welcome.

For more information, call (810) 477-3816.

Hurricane Swim Club

The Hurricane Swim club is seeking swimmers (ages 5-17) for its competitive winter swim season, which begins Monday, Jan. 8 (through the end of March).

The registration fee is $60.

Any boy or girl can qualify by swimming one lap of the pool.

Tryouts can be arranged at Garden City Junior High, located just south of Ford Road between Merriman and Wayne (behind McDonald's) from 6-6:30 p.m. Monday-Tuesday, Jan. 8-9 and Jan. 15-16; Thursday, Jan. 11.

For more information, call Randy Ferguson at (313) 721-3025.

Little League signup

Registration for Redford American Little League baseball (boys and girls ages 6-12) will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 13 at the Redford Ice Arena.

The cost is $40 per child or $65 for two children. In Redford, the boundary is south of Six Mile Road and north of Joy. The Livonia boundary is south of Six Mile and east of Merriman.

Tour baseball tryouts

Tryouts for the Roberto Clemente All-Star summer baseball tour (ages 12-19), June 24 through July 3 in Puerto Rico, will be at the following sites: 1-3 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 6 at Oakland University in Rochester; 2-4 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 7 at Mount Clemens L'Anse Creuse North High School; and 1-3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11 at Grosse Pointe North High School.

Over the past five years, more than 3,000 players from the U.S. have traveled to Puerto Rico as part of the program, which is coordinated jointly by by Headstart Training Camps, a New York based sports organization, along with Roberto Clemente Sports City, one of Puerto Rico's leading baseball complexes.

The All-Stars will receive instruction from former major leaguers and tour famous sights such as El Yunque National Rainforest and the 450-year-old El Morro Fort.

To preregister, the fee is $25 or $20 by calling the All-Stars regional office at (810) 791-8295.

To submit items for the Observer Sports Scene, write to: 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, MI 48150; or send via fax to (313) 591-7279.

Rockets blast off at Cobo, 59-40

■ Westland John Glenn made it two-for-two at Detroit's Cobo Arena by winning the Superintendent's Tip-Off Classic, defeating Detroit Mumford, 59-40. It was Glenn's third win in a row.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Detroit's Cobo Arena is beginning to feel like home for the Westland John Glenn boys basketball team.

The Rockets made it two straight in the Superintendent's Tip-Off Classic with a 59-40 triumph over Detroit Mumford.

A year ago, Glenn downed Detroit Denby, 61-57.

It must be the atmosphere that gets the Rockets going.

"The floor and the lighting are really nice," Glenn coach Mike Schuette said. "The kids are really into it. The game is for them. They're in awe when they come down here. And I like the outcomes, too."

Glenn improved to 3-2 overall on the season, while Mumford dropped to 1-4.

The Rockets won going away, parlaying a 38-36 lead after three quarters into a 21-4 fourth-period run.

Guard Albert Jones, a three-year varsity performer, took team-MVP honors with a game-high 23 points. The 6-foot-1 senior turned in a Dave Bing-like performance. He made 10 of 16 shots from the floor, dished out five assists and grabbed eight rebounds.

"This is the first game Albert has played where he was completely healthy," Schuette said. "He had a deep thigh bruise that left him less than 50 percent the first three games. This was the first time he was able to go after it."

David Jarrett, a springy 6-4 junior forward, also played a pivotal role in the victory. He scored 13 points and added 10 rebounds.

He helped start the fourth-quarter surge with a free throw, put-back of his own miss (on the second try) followed by a blind pass from mid-court to feed Jones for a layup with 7:32 remaining, putting the Rockets ahead by seven, 43-36.

Brad Wilde then nailed a three-pointer and the Rockets were never headed.

"They (John Glenn) ran their offense better in the second half and they got the ball in the right people's hands," Mumford coach Roosevelt

Green said. "I had scouted Glenn and we knew Jones was tough. We tried to force him to go right and make him shoot from the perimeter. But give him credit, he came back both offensively and defensively."

Mumford owned the boards in the first half. The Mustangs led by as many as six points in the second period before settling for a 28-26 halftime advantage.

"We just fell apart in the second half," Green said. "Glenn's offensive rebounders did a tremendous job. We talked about boxing out, but that's been a big problem for us this year. And our inexperience at certain times always comes back and bites us on the back side."

After Schuette ditched a zone defense, Glenn's man-to-man defensive pressure resulted in 20 Mumford turnovers on the night.

"One of the things we knew they could do was shoot the three (pointer)," Schuette said of 1-4 Mumford. "But the thing they couldn't do is handle pressure. But maybe that was inexperience on their part."

Schuette feels his team is finally coming together after a shaky start. Glenn lost to Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor Huron, but now has won three straight.

"Jon Becher stepped up and Jarrett had a great game and stood out," the Glenn coach said. "David (Jarrett) is capable of playing like this every single time."

"David had a terrible ankle (sprain), but the last two weeks he's been well. And this is the first game where Anthony Greco has been completely healthy. He had a bad knee coming off football."

One thing both teams will need work on entering 1996 is shooting.

Glenn was only eight of 19 from the free-throw line (42.1 percent) and 23 of 57 from the floor (40.3).

The Mustangs scored only three field goals in the second half.

Sophomore guard Chris Patton led Mumford with 10 points.

Making her point

Cuyahoga's Parnell topples Lady Ocelots

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Iwanda Parnell played shooting guard the last three years of her high school career, but you wouldn't know it the way she runs the Cuyahoga (Ohio) Community College women's basketball team.

The freshman point guard scored a game-high 23 points Thursday night, leading Cuyahoga to a 62-58 victory over host Schoolcraft College in the championship game of Schoolcraft's Inaugural Women's Basketball Holiday Classic.

If Parnell wasn't scoring, she was passing off to forward Ericka Tillman (18 points) or center Sinjovia Townsend for easy baskets (13 points, 11 rebounds).

"Iwanda came from a high school with a winning tradition, but she only played point guard in ninth grade; the last three she was at shooting guard," Cuyahoga coach Denise Duncan said.

"If she wants to play Division I she has to play the point. I put a lot of pressure on the point guard to run the offense and take control of the defense."

Each team won semifinal games Wednesday to advance to the final. The Ocelots defeated Siena Heights Junior Varsity, 77-52, and Cuyahoga got past George Brown College, 79-63.

This must have felt more like a tip-off classic than a holiday tournament for the Lady Challengers, who have only played four games because of a different class schedule and are 2-2 overall.

The busier Ocelots, meanwhile, lead into the New Year with an 8-6 record.

made seven of 12 shots and led the Ocelots with 14 points to go with 12 rebounds. Freshman guard Becky Bilicki (Livonia Ladywood), who picked up three quick fouls and sat much of the first half, finished with 13 points on 5-17 shooting.

Freshman forward Julie Schmidt played another courageous game, scoring 11 points on four of six shooting with a game-high 16 rebounds.

Freshmen Yvonne Malewski (Redford Thurston) and Christine Edwards and sophomore Amy Petilla added six points each.

Schmidt remarkably didn't commit any fouls despite a kamikaze-like effort.

"Julie plays the way we all should play — aggressively," SC coach Ed Kavanaugh said. "She makes mistakes, but the kind you can expect."

SC committed only four more turnovers than Cuyahoga (29-25), but the Lady Challengers took more advantage of their opportunities.

"When you get beat off the dribble by a point guard, it gives them a numerical advantage," Kavanaugh said. "We had many opportunities to win the game. They left our post open, but we don't make good decisions, when to break or shoot. At the point that we do, we'll be good."

The Lady Challengers led 57-53 with about three minutes left when they missed consecutive front ends of one-and-one free throw attempts. A steal and end to end driving layup by Bilicki cut the lead to 57-55 with 1:35 remaining. Cuyahoga completed a neat back-door play, however, with 55 seconds left to go up 59-55.

Schmidt missed a pair of free throws with 49.9 seconds left and Tillman sank a pair 15 seconds later to put Cuyahoga up 61-55. Bilicki made a three-pointer to cut the deficit to three with 27.5 left, but a free throw by Parnell sealed the outcome.

"I'm totally impressed with Schoolcraft," Duncan said. "I told my players we have to play above board to win this game. They are smart and the things they do, they do well."

The Ocelots trailed by as many as 10 in the closing minutes of the first half before scoring six straight to head into halftime down 30-26.

The Ocelots got their high-low game working well early in the second half and it paid off in a 10-0 run that gave them their first lead since early in the game.

A nice feed from Malewski to Sailus ended the rally with 10:50 remaining and gave SC a 44-42 lead.

But Cuyahoga scored the next seven points, including five by Townsend and two from Parnell, to go ahead 49-44 with 7:31 remaining.

■ SCHOOLCRAFT 77, SIENA HEIGHTS 52: Three Ocelots scored in double figures in Wednesday's 77-52 semifinal win over Siena Heights JV.

Bilicki led the Ocelots with 18 points on eight-of-13 shooting, including two of three from three-point range.

Malewski contributed 13 points and led the Ocelots with five steals, while freshman guard Jenny Markham (Redford Union) had 11 points, all in the second half.

The Ocelots' balanced attack also included eight points each from Kristi Engel (Redford Thurston) and Edwards.

The Ocelots led 42-21 at halftime. Siena was led by Tina Shostals with 18 points. Laura Sawyer had 12 points and Leslie Phillips 11.

Bahavior: Roberts' big issue

BY JACK ROBERTS
GUEST COLUMNIST

Here is just a fraction of what occurred at high school athletic events in Michigan this fall, at sporting events that are supposed to be educational.

■ An assistant football coach knocked out a trainer with a down marker.

GUEST COLUMN

■ A soccer coach head-butted an official during a Michigan High School Athletic Association regional tournament game.

■ A two-bench clearing brawl at a high school football game in Michigan made TV news all across America.

■ A coach threw chairs onto the floor of a girls district tournament basketball game.

■ The Class A boys soccer finals ended in a fight.

These are just a fraction of the negative events that occurred. Of course, all of the negative events combined still represent only a fraction of total events that were conducted, which is a perspective that is easy to overlook or forget. But the negative events are too outrageous and too frequent to overlook and forget. And we've got to do more to stop them.

I don't mean the MHSAA office. We already have prohibitions for taunting, trash talking

Nissan 300ZX is excitement on wheels

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

The measure of a true sports car is the feel.

Not the road feel or the handling so much as how the car makes YOU feel when you're driving it around town.

The new Nissan 300ZX can make you feel really nice.

Warm Comfortable Wrapped around in luxury. Like you're on top of the world.

Now, add a little bit — no, a lot — of power, sporty performance and safety features like driver's side air bag and you've got excitement.

All that, wrapped up in a tiny little sports car that Nissan's always billed as its high-excitement, sports performance car. Last year, the excitement was been upgraded to include a convertible 300ZX.

With a rich history dating back more than 25 years, it enjoys one of the most loyal owner groups in the nation. It's got distinctive styling and exceptional performance not found in many import sports cars.

Test-driven this week. The convertible 300ZX. Offered only in the two-seater version, it has a soft top with a fixed B-pillar support beam that's manually operated. The first of its kind for Nissan, the entire top folds down manually and can be hidden by a hard storage compartment cover, which gives it a clean look.

The standard engine, available on the convertible, two-seater and four-seater, is a 3.0-liter dual overhead

cam 24-valve 222 horsepower V6 engine that can be mated to either a 5-speed manual or 4-speed automatic transmission.

To add a little more excitement, you may opt for the 300-horsepower twin turbo air-to-air intercooled engine with its 5-speed manual. The big plus is the addition of HICAS 4-wheel steering with the twin turbo model. Plop an automatic in the twin turbo, however, and you'll sacrifice 20 horses.

The Z is available in four body styles: Two-seater coupe, T-roof two-seater, 2+2 T-roof and Convertible.

Maximum control is provided by traction-enhancing viscous limited slip differential and anti-lock brakes. Really helps you hold the line on slippery streets and during hard cornering.

Inside, the cockpit of the Z is simplistic in design, yet classy and sporty. Everything is within reach and features smaller-than-normal buttons, switches and stalks. Although hard to get used to at first, the turn stalk is short and you need to hunt to find it.

With everything within a few inches — and right in the instrument cluster — your eyes never leave the road for more than a second or two. Even the climate controls are set high on the instrument cluster and only consist of three or four buttons or switches.

On the safety side, driver's side air bag, anti-lock brakes and ventilated dual caliper disc brakes are standard, along with low-profile high-performance radials on 16-inch alloy wheels.

Other standard features include air conditioning, cloth seats, power door locks, power windows, cruise control, power driver's seat, leather-covered steering wheel and an Bose AM/FM cassette stereo system.

The Nissan 300ZX has evolved, once again, into a sports car for the true enthusiast. Betcha it'll make a grandma's heart race a little, too.
