City will inspect sidewalks

Complaints from a wheelchair-bound man have prompted the city of Plymouth to inspect the conditions of its sidewalks. The schedule calls for one half of sidewalks to be inspected by late spring 1997.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

One half of the city's sidewalks are to be inspected for possible repairs by late spring next year.

That's part of a new Sidewalk Repair Program approved by city commissioners at their regular meeting Monday.

Repairs to follow the first wave of inspections would happen next summer. The rest of the program involves an inspection of the other half of the city's sidewalks next fall and in spring 1998, with repairs to follow that summer.

The city has not had a sidewalk inspection program since 1990. "Since 1990, sidewalks have been repaired on a by-complaint basis," wrote city Building Official Jim Penn in a report to City Manager Steve Walters.

"Due to the large number of sidewalk complaints received recently, it is apparent that a citywide sidewalk inspection program needs to be implemented," Penn said.

City officials had talked about reinstituting a sidewalk inspection program last year, but it didn't happen as there wasn't enough staff to carry it out, Walters said.

Then retired teacher Herbert Spring of Simpson Street, who after an injury has been forced to use a wheelchair, told commissioners last month that in touring the city he's found many sidewalks are in bad shape.

Penn has recommended that the first section of the city to be inspected should be the southeast section east of Main Street and south of Ann Arbor Trail. "This area has had most of the recent complaints about sidewalk conditions," he said.

Walters explained to commissioners that the first wave of inspections would start this fall, and the first wave of repairs would follow next spring. Commissioner Doug Miller asked if the city administration

City charts out street repair program for 10 years

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

City residents who'll vote in November on whether to approve 2 mills for a street repair program can now know when in the next 10 years their street is likely to be targeted for repair.

City commissioners earlier approved letting voters decide whether to approve a street repair millage, instead of having residents along repaired streets pay special assessment bills for repairs.

But they said it would be good to give voters some information on when their street would be scheduled for repair. So at the Monday city commission meeting, commissioners accepted a schedule put together by the city's engineering consultant on the project.

Commissioner Doug Miller had also asked the engineering firm to set a standard that streets would be brought up to after work is finished. Rather than one standard, the engineering firm and the city administration proposes keeping streets as they are – with or without curbs – unless a majority of residents along an affected street wants curbs added.

City Manager Steve Walters said some residents along streets with no curbs have told the city building department they'd like to keep this style of street.

Miller said, "We ought to make it clear that if they want curbs and gutters we'll do it out of city expense."

City Commissioner Joe Koch said that streets including Adams that require immediate sewer work should be moved up in the schedule for street repairs.

By proposed standards for the street repair program:

- Streets that now have an asphalt surface and concrete curbs will be resurfaced with asphalt and the curbs repaired as necessary.
- Concrete streets with concrete curbs will be repaired by replacing concrete slabs as necessary or by applying an asphalt overlay, based on a cost analysis. Curbs will be repaired as necessary.
- Streets with an existing asphalt surface without curbs will be resurfaced with asphalt. Pavement will not be widened and curbs won't be placed unless a majority of adjacent property owners approve these changes. Streets in this category are Blanche from Sheldon to Adams, Blunk north of Junction, Byron west of Harvey, Coolidge from Hartsough to the city park, Coolidge from Burroughs to the park, Farmer from the railroad tracks to Amelia, Jener Place and Theodore from Farmer to Main Street.
- Streets needing reconstruction due to poor condition are Garling and Parkview, Ann Arbor Trail from Union to Hamilton, Farmer from Starkweather to Mill and Junction east of Karmada.

Underground utilities on each street will be inspected prior to street repair. "If utility repairs are necessary or if an outside utility company plans major utility work, the utility work will be coordinated with the street repair work," Walters said.

The street repairs would begin next spring. If voters reject a millage to pay for repairs, city officials have said they'd follow the same general schedule for street repairs, but levy special assessments as in past years.

Plymouth hires new finance director

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The city of Plymouth has a new finance director.

Mark Christiansen, now city of Northville finance director, will perform the same job in the city of Plymouth starting July 22. City commissioners on Monday approved his appointment.

Christiansen was hired by City Manager Steve Walters, who had earlier hired him when Walters served as Northville city manager in 1990. His salary will be $52,000 per year.

He also served as city comptroller and assessor for the city of Grosse Pointe Woods from 1985-89 and as treasurer, assessor and as acting city manager for Brighton from 1974-85.

"It looks like the administration has done a thorough job. His credentials are excellent," said Commissioner John Vos.

In a report to commissioners, Walters said the city received 19 applications for the post, after former finance director Bill Graham left the city's employ.

Christiansen was the best candidate, Walters said, based on 21 years of experience and his credentials.

Walters said Christiansen is also a certified assessor, and can certify and sign assessment rolls for the city. "This will reduce the requirements for purchasing Wayne County assessing services, and should save the city at least $10,000 per year over current costs," Walters said.

A love affair with restoration

Handyman Rex Harvey works for a living on contemporary buildings, but lives to work on historic buildings.

"I'll do kitchens, bathrooms, decks, siding, windows," said the former Plymouth resident. "But I prefer to do historic work. It's just more challenging."

Harvey is practically a fixture in the Historic District Commission's roster of beavers who are called on to service the Cherry Hill School, the Travis House and the Historical Society Museum.

At the Travis House on Ridge Road, Harvey has replaced broken siding, reglazed windows, jacked the house up where it was low, replaced beams, replaced a door with a window and built two porches.

Harvey's current project is to repair 11 windows at the Historical Society Museum, a job for which the township will pay $4,680.

Harvey, 33, of Canton, has to work carefully on the delicate windows, which are more than 100 years old.

"There are so many layers of paint that the windows don't operate," he noted. "If you're not prying on it right,

Trial date expected to be set in assault

BY M.B. DILLON

David Michael McPherson of Northville Township is charged with raping a 13-year-old girl at the abandoned Wyckoff Steel factory at 1000 General Drive south of Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth Township.

McPherson was bound over for trial by 35th District Judge Ron Lowe last month. He posted 10 percent of a $50,000 bond and was released at his arraignment before Judge Gail McKnight at the Wayne County Circuit Court Annex in April.

The incident allegedly took place last October at the Wyckoff facility, which has been for sale for several years.

Plymouth Township police have responded to numerous reports of malicious destruction of property at the site since it closed four or five years ago.

According to reports, "the victim, along with McPherson and two other individuals, decided to go there and walk around," said Plymouth Township Inspector David Hayes.

"Once inside, they sat around and smoked cigarettes. Two of them left, leaving McPherson and the victim at the location. They had some conversation and it appears McPherson and the victim had consensual sex. Five or 10 minutes into it, she didn't want to do it anymore, and she stated 'Stop it,' and it continued," said Hayes.

The suspect was 17 at the time, and considered an adult.

The crime is punishable by any number of years up to life in prison.

Youths enter the Wyckoff property through a hole in the fence and congregate in the building, which has been vandalized countless times, to the dismay of company officials anxious to sell the property.

"It does appear a lot of young people hang out there. There've been unconfirmed reports that there could be a group of kids, allegedly gang members, having their way with younger females," Hayes said.

Tonda principal lauded for leadership

Tonda Elementary School principal George Belvitch was honored by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education with the Extra Miler Award recently.

Belvitch was nominated by the staff, students and parents at Tonda and Isbister Elementary, where he formerly served as principal, for exemplary leadership abilities.

He was commended for "providing a warm, caring environment where children can achieve personal success and their parents truly feel involved."

Signed by more than 50 individuals, Belvitch's nomination form said, "Mr. Belvitch has a talent for bringing out the best in everyone he meets. Children love his friendliness; staff members appreciate the interest he takes in their roles; all employees feel self worth and pride, and parents believe he has gone the extra mile and more."

Another nomination said, "he is a visible principal who coaches students to improve in their daily school life. Parents are welcome at the school and their opinions are sought out. His enthusiasm for education and his leadership reflect the high expectations he has for all involved in education."

Belvitch accepted the Extra Miler certificate of recognition, pin of the Flag of Liberty and Learning, and a dinner gift certificate from Roman Forum.

Glass on display at Plymouth Museum

Colorful glass including Satin Glass, Opal Glass, Tiffany, Crown Milano, Amberina and Mary Gregory and a variety of fancy lamps are on display.

Other collections include Heisey Glass, Rose Depression Glass and Victorian Hair Jewelry. A fascinating collection of native American artifacts includes beaded items made by the Blackfoot and Crow tribe, the Winnebago and Ojibway, Sioux and MicMac tribes.

Included in this exhibit are also items "Made in Plymouth." An extensive collection of Daisy and King B-B guns are on display illustrating Plymouth's most famous industries, but others lesser-known items are featured as well.

Plymouth made the "World's Best Mole-Trap," Frog Spears, and Cigars, the Plymouth Alter Car, the Sun Shield Visor, the Perfection lawn sprinkler and many more.

Two school board terms enough

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

For Barbara Graham, eight years on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education was enough. The Plymouth Township resident chose not to run for a third term and attended her last school board meeting in June.

The outgoing trustee recently shared thoughts on a number of issues.

•On district salaries: "We went from allocating 65 percent of the budget for salaries to 85 percent. Where do we get the money to operate, buy pencils, papers computers and all the necessary things?

"Everybody from the guy digging ditches to the man running the country is looking at making cutbacks because we got too generous over the years. No one is pointing the finger at teachers or any particular group. The reality is that taxpayers are taxed beyond their means. Now everyone has to bite the bullet."

•On administrators negotiating the teachers' contract, despite being related to teachers: "Nepotism does present an ethical question. Can someone who is an administrator make a decision in the best interest of the school district and still accomplish what the union wants? Or are they going to go home and have problems? If you're going to have people in the district married to each other negotiating, maybe the board needs to hire an outside negotiating team.

"Nepotism breeds other problems. People become aware that someone might be getting preferential treatment. Who is going to have the courage to speak out and say someone's relative isn't pulling his or her weight?"

•On parents: "I'd hope that more parents will pay attention to what is going on in schools and become more involved. My biggest disappointment after hearing so many complaints is that we didn't see people running in the last election. There should have been at least 10-15 candidates."

•On the decision by the central office to transfer four administrators following complaints about Bentley Principal Paul Reeves: "There might be a time when you have to replace a principal, but it should only be on a temporary basis. We have a structure in place for a committee to screen applicants and choose whoever they want. People arbitrarily making changes are overstepping their authority and the board should become involved in that."

•On community involvement: "Let's make sure that if we are going to have a committee with a balance of staff, community and parents and that it's what we say it is; not just someone doing all this front work and then business as usual."

•On ethics: "We need to look into a policy on ethics and morals. Kids need a good moral background if we want them to grow up and have an ethical approach to life. We just can't just tell them, 'This is what you do,' and not set an example. Example greatest teacher of all."

Graham sports a dress code for students. "Statistics show that if you go to school dressed for play, that's what you're prepared to do: play."

•Academic achievement: "We've seen a slide in educational standards for a number of reasons. A 'B' or 'C' 25 years ago is the equivalent of an A now. We thought we were doing kids a favor. We weren't."

Tenure hasn't helped. "Weeding out the small percentage of people who shouldn't be in education isn't worth the effort. The ones who suffer are the ones in the classroom."

•On social change: "The liberal head, like the wethead, is dead. The social change that has come about is the reason we have the problems we do with drugs, AIDS, and promiscuous sexual activity. Much of this would not have happened if we hadn't had people interfering in family structure. Too many times we hear of abuse, and it's a parent reasonably disciplining their child. Yet the government is stepping in, trying to weaken the parental role."

•On Superintendent Charles Little: "Superintendents on average are staying in a district just five-to-seven years. I'm not sure I'd like to see this become a trend. Continuity is so important. I think Dr. Little underestimated some of the things he was going to be faced with. He doesn't have the background for a large school district."

•On the high schools: "They're a hot spot. I don't think we've paid enough attention to what's going on there. It's going to be difficult to backtrack, but it has to be done if we're going to improve education. Maybe we house ninth- and 10th-graders in one building, and 11th and 12th-graders in the other.

"We proved with the Journey program we can take a group of kids and pull them back up out of the cracks and provide for them. It costs money; but we can't just let all these kids go back through the cracks."

•On the majority of the board being endorsed by teachers: "I feel comfortable with it only if they can handle making decisions that might not be popular with the union. Sometimes it's okay; sometimes it's not the best thing for schools."

Crash scene

Woman injured: A Plymouth woman, 53, was in fair condition Wednesday at University of Michigan Hospital after her car struck a tractor-trailer loaded with cinder blocks at 5 p.m. Tuesday. The woman was driving a 1996 Dodge west on Ann Arbor Road just east of Joy Road when her car crossed the center line, striking the eastbound tractor-trailer, police said. The woman had been wearing a seat belt, and her air bag deployed in the crash. Police needed special equipment to free her from the smashed car and the woman was taken by helicopter to U of M Hospital. The driver of the tractor-trailer was uninjured. Police said alcohol was not a factor in the accident.

Plymouth Canton High graduate will broadcast from the Olympics

BY DIANE GALE
SPECIAL WRITER

Dreams come true at the Olympics even if you're not an athlete.

Just ask Bonnie Kaye, a 1981 Plymouth-Canton graduate. Landing a job as feature reporter for CBS radio and television stations covering the 1996 Olympics was to the 33-year-old journalist what the gold medal would be to the athletes she'll be interviewing.

And it all began, she said, when Kaye started doing morning announcements at Plymouth Canton High School.

"I had a dream many, many years ago that I would become a famous and successful reporter or broadcaster of some sort," she said from her Denver, Colo., home. "It took me many years, but I followed my dream."

In high school Kaye, who lived in Canton, was active in the drama club, debate teams, forensic competitions, student council and as first violinist in orchestra. She won best actress award and managed to stay on the honor roll throughout high school. The grueling schedule was intense training for what was to come in her professional life, which has taken many turns.

Kaye worked as a fitness instructor since high school, psychology counselor for emotionally disturbed children in California and first violinist with Ukiah Chamber Players and Ukiah Symphony.

"I decided I didn't want to continue to practice alone for six hours a day," she said adding that the violin remains a "huge passion of mine." She still plays jazz and the blues with various bands.

"I had a lot of interests and different skills and I explored several things and I hit on what really worked for me," Kaye said. "The minute I went on the air on radio, I knew this was where I wanted to be."

Her message to young people just starting is: Your dreams can come true if you want something deeply, work hard and are willing to make financial sacrifices taking low-paying jobs.

Kaye's radio and television career has taken her through California, Florida and Montana. During the summer of 1985, Kaye, who changed her name from Bonnie Knaus (pronounced Ka-nas), was given her first break.

"It was in the middle of the night, because I could do the least amount of damage," she said explaining that she had been called in at the last minute as a substitute.

"Two minutes before air time the program director said: 'You're not going on the air as Knaus?' He said lose it."

She picked up the telephone book for ideas, decided on Kaye and that's what she's been using ever since.

Like an Olympian, Kaye's training hasn't been easy or glamorous. In fact, there was little sparkle or glitter involved when she was bitten by a horse and another time when she hurt her shoulder covering stories.

All that was ground work to prepare her to convince CBS to name her anchor of "Atlanta One-on-One," a series of feature reports show casing the fun, offbeat, and human side of the athletes during the Summer Games.

Another big break came recently when she found a way to combine 15 years in the fitness industry with her eight years in radio and television. She developed her own niche as a fitness reporter with "Inside Fitness with Bonnie Kaye," which airs on 140 CBS television stations throughout the country. In the Detroit area, ABC's Channel 7 airs the show on Sunday mornings. Kaye is producer, writer and reporter.

"I had to find a national sponsor, so I went out and signed AVIA and CBS got together and formed a partnership to help me produce Inside Fitness," she said. "My income increased 1,000 percent when 'Inside Fitness' went national."

Counselors learn on trip to Lansing

Dan Chrenko, Jan Dersey, Renee Eley, Jan Kavulich, Mary Vertrees, P-CEP counselors, and Betty Bloch, Plymouth-Canton's School-to-Work and Business Partnership coordintor, recently attended the governor's School-to-Work Conference in Lansing.

The purpose of the conference was to help counselors learn additional ways to assist students in course selections.

"It will enable the students to enhance their career goals and career awareness opportunities," Bloch said. "The district in partnership with the Plymouth and Canton chambers of commerce, received a grant to establish a local advisory committee, a marketing plan, a pilot work-based learning program and Entrepreneurship-Co-op Pilot."

School-to-Work is designed to give all students experiences in the world of work in order to prepare them to make informed choices about training and career opportunities.

Civil War historian heads Gettysburg trip

The Plymouth Historical Museum is sponsoring a trip to the Civil War battle field at Gettysburg, Pa. on Sept. 30-Oct. 3.

The tour will be led by Bob Zaetta, of Plymouth a Civil War historian and teacher.

The battle took place in July 1863, with soldiers from Company C of the 24th Michigan Regiment taking part in it.

The regiment included soldiers from Plymouth.

The tour groups will stay at the historic Cash Town and the Old Barn Bed & Breakfast Inns. The tour includes round-trip bus transportation, three nighs accommodations, three breakfasts, three dinners, two days at Gettysburg, the Clyclorama Center and the Eisenhower National Historic Site.

Community approach to Rouge praised

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

It was called a turning point by several people in attendance Tuesday.

James Murray, director of Wayne County's Department of Environment, presented a framework for addressing the storm water runoff problem in the Rouge River during a hearing in the courtroom of U.S. District Judge John Feikens on Tuesday. Feikens has convened a series of informational hearings in his courtroom to address a case that has its origins in a suit brought in 1977 over pollution of the Rouge River.

Chad McIntosh, deputy director of the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, called the plan a "very significant turning point."

DEQ's goal is clean water and clean air, he said. "I think Mr. Murray's proposal is one with considerable merit."

The framework presented by Murray would set up groupings of communities in the Rouge River area, called a watershed, into four subwatershed districts. Communities would be placed in a subwatershed district with neighboring communities.

Also, general permits would be issued by the regulating agencies, and communities would apply for the permits on a voluntary basis. Applying for and receiving a permit was referred to as like obtaining insurance. Communities covered under a permit would be protected from federal action and from further lawsuits, according to Robert Miller, chief of the Surface Water Quality Division, MDEQ. Communities that don't voluntarily enter the permit process, would be subject to federal action to come into compliance with clean water rules. "It would be the reason communities would want to volunteer to be covered by a permit," he said.

The progress in Tuesday's hearing occurred as a result of work Murray did after the June meeting in Feikens' courtroom. Murray sent a letter and the proposal to MDEQ and the Environmental Protection Agency as well as held meetings with representatives of communities in the Rouge watershed.

"I'm pleased to say I feel we're making a great deal of progress," Murray said.

Representatives of several local communities said they were encouraged by Murray's plan.

Plymouth Township officials like Murray's plan, James D. Anulewicz, director of public services for Plymouth Township, said. Local communities, if given technical assistance, can address the problem, he said.

Livonia, because it is a community of more than 100,000 people, under current rules would be required to comply with standards before other neighboring smaller communities. Under this plan, other communities would be included with Livonia in a watershed approach.

"This process that has been developed by Mr. Murray allows each community to get the proper size shoe," Bob Beckley, Livonia's director of public works, said.

"I'm very encouraged and look forward to participating in this process," he said. Livonia has been working on storm water for two years, he said after the meeting. The alternative to Murray's plan is one that is not as flexible, he said. "This allows us to not operate in a vacuum," he said.

But, there wasn't a completely positive response to Murray's plan. William Slattery, who identified himself as a citizen, said he has a "great number of problems" with the approach.

Present practices are scientifically inadequate, he said. "Now the state is saying we will permit communities to decide what the terms of the permits will be," he said.

The proposal does not work for the long term, and lets communities continue on the track of not addressing long-term effects, he said.

Storm water runoff has been identified in studies as a top pollutant of the river as rain washes pollutants from roads, yards, dump sites and industrial sites into the river.

But, many community leaders have expressed concern that if they are required by court order spend money on actions to correct the problem of storm water runoff in the Rouge River, as they are being required to address sewer overflows into the river, they will find out down the road that they still aren't in compliance with clean water regulations. Officials have also complained that local taxpayers can't afford to pay for expensive programs that could be ordered and that the cleanup of the Rouge to drinkable, swimmable standards isn't realistic.

Communities have to have some sense that if they do this they can assure their residents that this is the right thing to do, Murray said.

"Wayne County and I personally believe that a general permit approach could meet all the requirements," he said.

Murray's plan asked the court to:

- Provide a reasonable time frame for communities to act on their own, by removing the prospect of direct action by the court in the interim;
- Offer the services of court monitors to provide advice and counsel to communities;
- Create a forum for periodic court oversight and review;
- Facilitate a bridge developing between subwatershed storm water management plans and combined sewer overflow discharge limits to provide a package to improve water quality in the Rouge.

As stake holders, communities would be able to say what they want from the river, Murray said.

The geographic focus of the framework would allow similar communities to work together in a subwatershed approach to develop best management practices, he said. For example, Garden City would be grouped with Dearborn Heights, as similar older communities, while Plymouth Township would be grouped with similar developing communities, such as Northville Township.

Representatives from Washtenaw and Oakland counties also praised Murray's plan.

Janis Bobrin, Washtenaw County drain commissioner, said the three townships in Washtenaw County in the Rouge watershed are largely undeveloped. The goals for those communities need to be protection and preservation not restoration, she said.

This plan is "moving in a much better direction than dealing with the Rouge as one entity," she said.

George W. Kuhn, Oakland County drain commissioner, said the Oakland County Drain Office can "totally support this concept."

"This will allow for drainage subwatersheds – groups of cities working together giving these cities more control over setting goals, priorities and moving ahead with planned expenditures," he said, adding it's like the adopt a highway program.

A meeting has been scheduled for 2 p.m. July 18 in Dearborn Heights City Hall to begin work on the subwatershed permit process.

The next hearing in Feikens' courtroom to check on progress is scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 19. Feikens' courtroom is in the Theodore Levin U.S. Courthouse, 231 W. Lafayette in Detroit.

Christiansen has also performed as acting city manager in both Northville and Brighton.

Of other candidates, Walters said, "None of them had a better general municipal administrative background and none of them could offer the combination of broad experience as finance director and assessor."

"While requiring this combination would have limited the number of applicants which could have been considered for finance director, the combination is particularly beneficial to the needs of the city of Plymouth," Walters said.

The city manager also cited "some personal knowledge and experience with his technical abilities and work ethic."

Christiansen and his family live in Novi, which is outside the five-community area a city official must live in to met a residency requirement. He has a year to move and fulfill the residency requirement.

Christiansen, 48, said of his selection, "I'm quite pleased."

Police probe wave of 15 break-ins

Plymouth Township police are investigating a wave of 15 car break-ins since June 1.

Stolen in the thefts have been compact discs, cellular telephones and wallets. Township police Sgt. Steve Rapson said many of the cars were left unlocked, but thieves in some cases used slim-jims to open locked cars. No cars were damaged in the thefts.

The thefts have happened between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m., according to reports filed with township police.

Counterfeit bill

Plymouth Township police are investigating an incident July 4 where a counterfeit $10 bill was given to a pizza delivery person as payment for an order.

The delivery person told police he suspects a woman with shoulder-length blond hair in her late 20s or early 30s passed the bill. Her house was unkempt, according to the police report.

American Legion Post 112 and Auxiliary Unit 112 of Plymouth Township recently elected and installed new officers at the Oddfellows Hall in Plymouth.

Installed as officers were James Kivell, commander; John Devor, Sr., vice commander; John Pappas, Jr., vice commander; George LaCroix, finance officer and Gary McCoy, executive committee man-at-large.

Also, Maahs was appointed post adjutant and chaplain. He will represent the post along with James Kivell and Gary McCoy as delegates to the 78th Annual State Convention of the American Legion.

Joseph Burman, a Korean War veteran, was installed as the post sergeant-at-arms and will be an alternate delegate to he State Convention.

could provide affected homeowners with a cost estimate soon after the inspection, as liability concerns could spark some residents to move more quickly to repair bad sidewalks.

Walters said the city administration would seek to do that, but added many municipalities typically notify residents in the fall that sidewalk repairs are needed, then repairs are performed by the municipality in the spring.

He said that while residents are free to find their own contractor for sidewalk repair, going through a city-chosen contractor could be cheaper as the city can get a better price as it will buy service in bulk.

A 1976 city commission resolution states that it is the adjacent property owner's responsibility to replace a sidewalk, regardless of what damaged it.

"Rex is a very meticulous in how he does his work," she said. "He's a craftsman of the 20th century type. He does good quality work (and) he's very reliable."

Commission member Virginia Parker adds, "He brings a great deal of expertise to his work (and) he does an outstanding job."

The windows are rather unremarkable in appearance, but care is necessary to preserve as much original material as possible.

Harvey uses a heat gun and a scraper to remove the paint and a chemical hardener to "almost petrify" areas of soft wood so it will accept fresh paint.

The panes of glass are easy enough to remove from the sash, but difficult to put back. "Usually you break them putting them back in," Harvey said, although he has busted just one of 32 so far.

Once the glass and paint are removed from the sash, Harvey applies primer, a thin bead of glaze and returns the glass to the sash. Then he glazes the other side of the glass and brushes on white paint.

Harvey estimates that he needs four hours to rehabilitate each window.

Working alone on this project is not unusual for Harvey, as that is they way he does most jobs.

How many times has he struck a thumb? "I made good blood blisters only twice," he confessed.

As a teenager growing up in Plymouth Harvey found pleasure in restoring antique furniture.

That led to carpentry work for others, and ultimately his own business called Renovations: Rex G. Harvey. "I decided, "Well, I'm going to do it on my own,'" he said. "That was seven years ago, and I've been on my own since then."

ELECTION 96

WAYNE COUNTY PROSECUTING ATTORNEY

DEMOCRATS

John D. O'Hair, 66, Detroit resident, Wayne County prosecutor since 1983. B.A., DePauw University; J.D., Detroit College of Law. Michigan Bar Association; Prosecuting Attorneys Association. Former Common Pleas and Wayne Circuit Court judge. Civic activities: Alliance for a Safer, Greater Detroit; Old Newsboys Goodfellows, M.E.L.L. program; Breithaupt School mentoring program.

What is the most significant case you have tried?

It's difficult to choose just one, but the lawsuit by the Prosecutor's Office forcing the parole board to take public safety into consideration in making its decisions on release of inmates has successfully blocked the early release of dangerous felons and career criminals. We are not only putting violent offenders in prison, we are now successfully keeping them there.

Please comment on court reform. (Question asked before recent legislative action.)

The most important thing is that the Supreme Court or the court administrator's office be given the authority to use judicial resources to the greatest extent possible, by temporary assignment of personnel or transfer of cases. Some circuits have judges with unused time on their hands, others have tremendous docket loads. The principal objective should be to deliver fair, timely and cost-efficient administration.

What programs have you instituted or advocated to fight crime in Wayne County?

The expansion of our unit dealing with career criminals and major violent crimes has been a high priority because we know a high proportion of serious crimes are committed by repeat offenders. Our family abuse unit focuses on child and domestic violence, which impacts the drug trade: We hit the dealers hard by seizing their cash and other illegal assets.

What benchmarks do you use to determine the level of service being delivered?

Our office handles 40,000 cases a year, including 20,000 felonies. We have a 92 percent successful conviction rate for those cases on the trial track. We have seen a rising willingness of people to report crimes, to act as witnesses and otherwise participate in the criminal justice process. Perhaps the most important benchmark is the reduction in homicides.

Is the 650 drug lifer law too harsh?

Not for the major drug trafficker, or for the person regularly engaged in selling drugs. For a youthful or first-time offender, I think it is time to review the wisdom of sending an immature 17 or 18-year-old to prison for 50 or 60 years, when more proportionate and less costly punishments are available.

Virgil Clark Smith, 49, Detroit resident, state senator and Democratic floor leader. Pershing High School, B.A., Michigan State University; J.D. Wayne State University. Michigan Bar Association; Wolverine Bar Association National Conference of State Legislators. Former state representative. Civic activities: Vernon Chapel A.M.E. Church.

As senior assistant corporation counsel, I represented Detroit in the Court of Appeals case, City of Detroit v. Muzzin & Vincenti Inc., which discussed issues regarding a defunct corporation's ability to escape liability under municipal city income tax ordinances. This case led to statutory law which protected the interests of municipalities by attaching a corporation's tax liability to its officers.

I support court reform which moves toward one court of justice, in which the state assumes greater responsibility for the operation of trial courts. I do not favor the abolition of Detroit Recorder's Court or any plan that disrupts Wayne County trial courts. These courts are national models of effectiveness and should be strongly supported.

In visiting various communities in Wayne County, I have been appalled to find police chiefs and mayors who don't feel they have access to the county prosecutor. I would create a regular round table of law enforcement leadership who meets with the prosecutor on a regular basis. Cooperative law enforcement efforts will have a greater ability to fight crime.

The percentage of successful trial prosecutions. Currently, the loss record in the prosecutor's office is at an unacceptable level of 57 percent. Further, an important benchmark of the level of service being delivered is found in accessibility of the prosecutor to the municipalities of the county. Discussions with county mayors and police chiefs indicate that the current prosecutor is not accessible.

This law is not significantly impacting the major drug traffickers as intended. I believe there should be additional drug interdiction efforts, focusing on penetrating drug traffic at levels above the street dealer. The Metropolitan Airport and our international border are major entry points for drugs. Clearly, the prosecutor is not doing enough to attack the root of the problem.

REPUBLICAN

Thomas D. Esordi, 30, Wyandotte resident, practicing attorney with office in Southgate. Gabriel Richard High School, A.B. from Kenyon College in Ohio, J.D., University of Detroit School of Law. Member of the Michigan Bar Association. Civic activities: Vice president and director of Council 1802 of the Knights of Columbus.

The Wayne County prosecutor holds an administrative position. Accordingly, I will use my extensive experience advising clients on how to effectively run their business while holding that position. The prosecutor represents all of the citizens of Wayne County. Therefore, I will effectively and efficiently run the prosecutor's office so that each person feels that their case is the most significant.

As Wayne County prosecutor I will actively support changes to legislation that would benefit all of the residents of Wayne County. The current reform, including the abolition of Detroit Recorder's Court, is long overdue. Wayne County residents should have an equal say in the judgment of those charged with a crime in Wayne County. Accordingly, I support the reform.

Support handling non-violent juvenile matters on a local level where the judge, police and community leaders are more likely to be familiar with the child. More youth homes are not the answer. Prosecute individuals for the crime committed and supported by evidence and reduce plea bargaining.

Whether or not the prosecutor is representing the interests of all Wayne County residents and taking an active and vocal role in promoting justice for all citizens.

No, illegal drug sales and possession must be removed from our society if we want Wayne County to be a better place to live and work.

Donald L Knapp Jr., who will be listed on the Republican ballot for prosecuting attorney, chose not to respond to our questionnaire.

Wayne State study looks at crime concerns

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

Speeding cars in residential areas is the number one crime issue across Wayne County.

That is according to the Urban Safety Report based on community policing and citizen surveys conducted by the Wayne State University College of Urban, Labor and Metropolitan Affairs.

A Wayne County Crime Poll was conducted in December of 1995 by the Urban Safety Program. About 2,000 county residents were surveyed, including about 1,000 Detroit residents and about 1,000 residents outside of Detroit.

Law enforcement officials, community organization representatives and citizen group leaders met to discuss the findings at a roundtable last week at Wayne State.

The poll found that 40 percent of crime is from repeat victimization, according to David Martin, research director for the Urban Safety Program.

High areas of repeat crime are called "hot spots" in the report. By addressing the issue of hot spots crime could be significantly reduced, Martin said.

The Urban Safety Program received a three-year grant in 1992, and in 1993 the first community-wide survey was conducted. The program has been funded for two more years, according to Diane Brown, director of Urban Studies at Wayne State.

The focus of the urban safety program is not just crime, but safety, she said.

Bringing public concerns and police perceptions together is another goal of the program. For example, while residents said speeding cars in residential areas was the top concern, among police officers drug dealing and drug use were considered to be the top issues.

A move toward community policing, in which police officers and residents work together to combat crime, would help to recognize the issues, Martin said.

The message needs to be sent not only from the bottom, where people attending the police academy are told community policing is part of the job now, but from the top, where department leaders say it's something they are serious about, Robert Ficano, Wayne County sheriff, said.

"Some commanders are into the culture and some aren't," he said.

But, "not all the burden should be placed on law enforcement to make this work," he said.

Part of community policing is gaining community trust, and that leads people to eventually become comfortable with the police. "It becomes very fruitful," Ficano said.

Canton Township looked at community policing from a different standpoint, John Santomauro, director of public safety in Canton Township, said.

"We went to our police officers and said there is the philosophy of community policing, and we want you to look at it," he said.

"For us the transition was easier. The chief did not push it; the officers drove it," he said.

The police culture has to move from reactive to proactive, but there are two stumbling blocks, he said. The organization has to be able to effect change, and if an officer doesn't possess a positive attitude all the training in the world won't change that, he said.

The Urban Safety Report breaks down its findings into regions of the county.

Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township are included in the far western Wayne region with Northville and Northville Township.

In that region in 1995, 3.9 percent of respondents reported being the victim of a burglary, 19.5 percent vandalism, 4.7 percent motor vehicle theft, 0 percent robbery, 13.4 percent larceny, 0 percent assault, and 0 percent sexual assault.

Larceny was up in that region from 4.7 percent in 1993, while burglary was down from 9.3 percent and assault was down from 4 percent.

The results are pretty consistent with police findings, Santomauro said. "Crime seems to be against property, not people" (in Canton Township), he said. That's the difference between urban and suburban crime, he said.

Livonia and Redford Township were grouped as a region.

In the Livonia and Redford region, 3.6 percent reported being victims of a burglary, 12.7 percent vandalism, 3.7 percent motor vehicle theft, 0.6 percent robbery, 8.5 percent larceny, 3.7 percent assault and 0.6 percent sexual assault. Larceny was up from 3.4 percent in 1993 and assault was up from 1.0 percent.

Westland and Garden City were included in the Westland area region, which also includes Wayne and Inkster.

In the Westland region, 5.0 percent reported being victims of burglary, 19.6 percent vandalism, 5.8 percent motor vehicle theft, 4.3 percent robbery, 8.0 percent larceny, 6.5 percent assault, and 1.4 percent sexual assault. Robbery was up from .5 percent in 1993.

Safety Day Camp scheduled

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department and the Wayne County Youth Education Board are sponsoring a Safety Day Camp at Lake Erie Metropark in Rockwood on July 24, 25 and 26. The camp, which runs from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day, is for kids ages 7 to 12.

Scheduled activities include arts and crafts, team sports, instructions in first aid and various safety procedures, and discussions on crime prevention. Riders and horses from the Sheriff's Department's mounted unit will do some showing off, and the department's Marine Division will offer boat rides. Also, the U.S. Coast Guard plans a visit by helicopter.

And there'll be one canine camper. "Cora," the sharp-nosed dog from the Sheriff's Department's Narcotics Unit will show why she is one of the unit's top employees. "She's very accurate," said Sgt. Michael Modes, director of the department's communication services. "She was $5,000 when we bought her many years ago."

Probably the best by-product of the camp's experience is learning that everyone shares the same experiences.

"I think probably the most important lesson is that everyone is kind of the same, everybody has the same problems with growing up. The kids think of themselves more as the same rather than different," Modes said.

"We try to break up the day so it is both fun and instructional," Nancy Mouradian, Wayne County Sheriff's Department chief of staff and adviser to the camp, said. "We do a lot of crime prevention skills and gang-suppression skills in the morning. The afternoon is the fun time with volleyball, basketball and the kids' favorite, the wade pool. The setting is also beautiful."

This is the camp's third season. There is no charge, and lunch and snacks are provided all three days.

Adopt-a-Highway volunteers on road again

More than 30,000 Adopt-a-Highway volunteers continue their efforts this week to rid Michigan's highways of litter in the second of three scheduled pickups for the year.

Pickups have been expanded to cover two weekends. This pickup, which began Saturday, July 13, ends Sunday, July 21.

"Drivers should slow down and be careful when they see one of the Adopt-a-Highway groups out on our roadsides," said Michigan Department of Transportation Director Robert A. Welke. The Michigan Department of Transportation's Adopt-a-Highway is in its sixth year.

Recreation

More planning is needed

■ To us it's a tragedy that a basketball court at a school is closed while kids wander the streets at night or during the summer months looking for something to do.

A skirmish between Plymouth and Plymouth Township over recreation fees charged by each community for non-residents points up the larger issue of recreation in the Plymouths and Canton.

It's an issue that should be tackled by the Plymouth and Canton communities and the Plymouth Canton schools.

As it stands, Plymouth Township, the city of Plymouth, and even Canton and the schools are going in different directions.

They should get together and do some joint planning so that facilities can be used properly, producing the biggest bang for the buck. With each community doing its own thing and wanting its own facilities, duplication can and often does result. That's a waste of money.

While politicians in Plymouth and Canton talk about being conservative Republicans who know how to manage money, they allow an inefficient system to thrive.

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack has been a bright spot in the recreation debate. He has long wanted to work with the Plymouth Canton schools to offer recreation programs.

The schools are a natural. They already own fields, swimming pools and gyms that, if managed correctly in cooperation with Plymouth and Canton officials, could offer more recreation to youths.

To us it's a tragedy that a basketball court at a school is closed while kids wander the streets at night or during the summer months looking for something to do.

Meanwhile, Plymouth and Plymouth Township are edging toward a confrontation over recreation fees charged by each government entity. And in Canton, residents of Plymouth and Plymouth Township are viewed as distantly as if they lived in another part of the state. For example, at Canton's new Summit on the Park, Plymouth and Plymouth Township residents pay double to belong.

The recent dispute in the Plymouths started when the city of Plymouth decided to hike recreation fees for non-residents. For example, a class at the Plymouth Cultural Center would cost $30 for residents and $70 for non-residents. It's no different in Canton.

Plymouth officials say that rescinding the increase would mean the city would have to come up with an additional $180,000.

Plymouth Township officials countered with a letter that took note that the township obtained the use of three soccer fields, and added that city residents pay the same fees as township residents when using the township golf course.

It's understandable that local officials protect their budgets and residents. But residents in the three communities view the entire area as one larger community with plenty of interaction. Canton children play at the playscape in Plymouth Township Park, while Plymouth kids find plenty to do in Canton's Heritage Park.

In the short term, let's hope that Plymouth and Plymouth Township come to some agreement.

But in the long term, the solution is for the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton to join with the schools in some long-range recreation planning.

Don't snooze through primary

Summer is finally here with warm and sunny weather and the easygoing feelings the season brings to us all.

But right smack dab in the middle of our summer fun is a serious primary election Aug. 6.

No doubt the Nov. 5 general election, which this year features the presidential race, draws more attention and more voters. But that's just why the primary election is so important. It sets the stage for the general election.

You can be sure those with particular interests in particular candidates and issues will be at the polls Aug. 6. If you're not there, you have allowed a minority of voters to eliminate your choices of candidates lined up for the general election.

This year, the primary ballot will include a tax request for new millage for Wayne County parks, as well as contested races for all but one county commission seat, and a hotly-contested race for county prosecutor between incumbent John O'Hair and challenger State Sen. Virgil Smith.

If you don't cast a ballot Aug. 6, you are allowing your opinion to be discounted, not only on candidates, but your money when it comes to new millage for Wayne County parks.

Admittedly, it's hard to keep interest in politics when it's summer. But don't let relaxation or being too busy at work stop you from voting. If you can't make it to the polls, vote absentee. It's easy.

Sadly, in Livonia the number of requests for absentee ballots is down significantly, which is an indication that many residents may have already forgotten just how close the Aug. 6 election really is.

All you have to do is call your local clerk's office for information. You must apply for an absentee ballot. Communities, such as Canton Township, automatically mail applications to voters who have previously voted absentee, as well as voters 60 years of age and older.

Unfortunately, the deadline has passed to register to vote in the August primary. But there's still time to apply for an absentee ballot. The deadline is 4 p.m. Aug. 5 – the day before the election. Of course, there's also time to register to vote in the Nov. 5 general election.

And when you head to the polls Aug. 6, be sure that you've educated yourself on the candidates for whom you will be voting, as well as the Wayne County parks millage request. An uninformed voter is as bad as a voter who can't be bothered voting. Don't go to the polls hoping you'll recognize someone's name on the ballot. Your opinion and consequently your vote is too important for that.

Enjoy the summer, but take time to consider candidates in the various offices up for grabs, as well as the Wayne County parks millage and then get out and vote. Your vote does count.

Flier was racist

I am writing in response to an article which appeared in last week's Observer Newspaper regarding our local Wayne County Commission (10th District) Republican primary election.

The article described the concern of Republican leaders in Wayne County over a campaign flier distributed by candidate Jeffrey Schroder, which many considered inflammatory, perhaps even racist.

In my capacity as chairman of the 13th Congressional District Republican Committee, I expressed my concern that the flier was an attempt to inject racial politics into a local campaign.

Since the appearance of the letter, I have received several telephone calls from local citizens requesting clarification of my statements regarding discrimination, racism, and affirmative action.

Specifically, some people were concerned that I was advocating special treatment for some groups at the expense of others. I appreciate the opportunity to clarify my views.

One of the biggest problems we face in society is discrimination. It permeates many aspects of personal and business life.

No matter if it is based on race, sex, age, or anything else, in every situation it is detrimental and unfair. Both as individuals and as a society, it is incumbent upon us to overcome the ignorance and intolerance which so injures our communities.

To overcome discrimination, we must ensure that everyone is treated equally. There can be no divisions based upon any minority status. To single out a particular group is in direct contradiction to our goal.

Clearly, there can be no racism, sexism, ageism, or any other type of -ism if we eliminate considerations of race, sex, age, or other distinct qualities of an individual. Surely, nobody can be opposed to eliminating discrimination.

What anyone can and should be opposed to, as I attempted to explain by my comments in the Observer article, is the singling-out of specific minority groups, naming them unequal, and pitting them against each other. In Mr. Schroder's campaign literature, he decries affirmative action by stating, "...tax dollars (should) be spent on contracts awarded on the basis of quality and low price, not the color of a business owner's skin."

Why is skin color Mr. Schroder's primary concern? Why doesn't he decry the awarding of benefits on the basis of a business owner's sex or age? When Jeff Schroder intentionally groups people by skin color, and deliberately divides people by doing so, he is crossing the line. That is what I am opposed to.

If affirmative action is the topic of discussion, let's discuss it. If programs need to be examined, let's examine them. But what we cannot, indeed must not do, is confuse the issue by sowing division and ignorance. If we are ever to come together as a society, we must focus on our similarities, not our differences.

I suggest Mr. Schroder and his campaign advisers examine methods of ending discrimination, rather than using it to divide people.

Powell Road dangers

Realizing it is too late to make changes, I would still like to make you aware of certain facts that could perhaps help make a mistake less dangerous.

If it is at all possible please have the speed limit posted at 25 mph on Powell Road. This is almost a must because of the road being a "limited-sight" roadway. The curves and hills and driveways coming onto the road, and shrubbery placement at numerous places, all make for potential dangerous situations.

With added traffic using Powell after its paving, and a posted speed limit, I would also ask that the Plymouth Township Police Department be present to make sure cars stay at the posted limit (right now they are more often than not exceeding 40 and 50 miles per hour!)

Even better, and more safely, if there was a sign posted for no left-hand turn from Powell onto Beck this would eliminate a lot of very dangerous traffic and backups; if any of you are on Beck at various times you would be aware of backups that extend from the intersection at Ann Arbor Trail (north) to past where Amherst Court comes into Beck, as well as backups south on Beck from Ann Arbor Trail all the way to Ann Arbor Road, all very trying and short-temper makings for drivers. Talk about conflict resolutions.

Perhaps with all of our (road commission, township, police) cooperation and involvement to put proper signage up, to police the speed limit, and consider the potential situations, we could ward off problems.

POINTS OF VIEW

Poetry readings are alive and well in Plymouth

JEFF COUNTS

Poetry?

It was the stuff most of us were forced into trying to remember in grade school. We looked for the shortest one with easy words.

Edgar Guest was good. Short and sweet. We remembered it and went on to bigger and better things like football or accounting.

"The Wasteland?" Isn't that the new dump in Salem Township? Oh, yeah, that's right, it's a poem by T.S. Eliot. I remember the Cliff Notes.

Get the point? For most of us poetry is that stuff the academic police locked up in some dusty room at the University of Michigan.

I remember as a kid thinking that you had to be dead to write poetry, never mind the fact that's its physically impossible. Chances are I got that impression from some of the stuff I was forced to read. At some point I was done with Donne.

That's why it came as a surprise that poetry is alive and well in Plymouth. Thanks to some devoted poets and poetry lovers, the art of words has survived during an era when the real art was to acquire a BMW or an Audi of all things.

It really came as a shock that somebody really liked to stand up in front of an audience and read poetry. Myself, I'd rather face a charging black bear in the woods alone or an irate woman - I've never decided which is scarier - than to stand up and read a poem in public.

In a sense reading poetry is more heroic than much of the macho mishmash in which many of us guys engage. Nobody is there to watch us and laugh when we hit a tree in the woods with our four-wheel drive after drinking a six-pack.

A poet can do the verbal equivalent of that on any given evening.

Last Thursday about 30 folks showed up at the Plymouth Coffee Bean Co., 844 Penniman, to listen as local poets read their works.

It was part of a Summer Celebration of Poetry hosted by the Plymouth Poets. There will be readings every Thursday night at the Coffee Bean through the summer.

Jim Thompson, of Northville, was one of the poets who ventured to read in public on Thursday. The night-time poet spends his days as a claims adjuster for an insurance company.

At 26, he was one of the youngest poets reading.

So what was it like to stand up and read?

"I was nervous. I haven't read out loud for a year. You have to get out and trying to interact, explain the poem to the audience.

"You try to make eye contact.

"And you shouldn't just be reading your own works, you should be reading the works of others," he said.

He said he became interested in reading poetry aloud when he was a creative writing student at Western Michigan University. That's where he first started reading in public.

At 67-years-old, Darwin Schwartz was the oldest poet performing that evening. But while he had a few years on the others, he only came to poetry a little more than a year ago.

"I was standing in the shower. I had just organized a large event and had done a lot of work on it.

"The poetry was a release of tension. It was the flip side of what I was doing," he said.

Since that time, he has penned 30 poems and performed some of them at various readings.

For Schwartz, standing up and reading in public really isn't new. He spent much of his career as a college teacher and pianist.

It was his first time at the Plymouth reading and he said he'll be back.

Detroit played wrong card in court reform vote

TIM RICHARD

Detroiters in the Legislature dipped into the sludge at the bottom of the pit – the race card – as they denounced a trial court reform plan passed July 3 by a hefty majority.

Rep. Carolyn Cheeks Kilpatrick, D-Detroit, equated the bill with the burning of black churches. "Racial," said Sen. Henry Stallings II, D-Detroit.

Et cetera, ad nauseum.

Detroit papers and broadcasters botched the story. To them it was the abolition of Detroit Recorder's Court, with its overwhelmingly black bench.

The story starts two years ago in the suburbs – Oakland Circuit Court, Farmington and Plymouth district courts, among others. They asked for more judges. No, said Gov. John Engler – not until we restructure all trial courts to deploy scarce resources. Engler was right.

Last year, the Legislature voted more money for trial courts. Engler vetoed it. Reform first, said he. And he was right.

The goals of reform are:

• A single "trial court" – no more layers of circuit, recorder's, probate, district and municipal courts that mystify folks. Yes, special divisions such as family court would be allowed, but basically a judge is a judge.

• A single formula for funding all trial courts based on caseload.

• Court boundaries would be entire counties. Larger counties could split into election districts – an option you would think Detroit would cheer.

To achieve the goals, voters would have to amend the constitution. Legislative leaders were ready to vote to put the amendment, SJR S, on the ballot. Detroiters balked.

So the Legislature passed bills to eliminate Detroit Recorder's Court as of Oct. 1, 1997, shift some probate court powers to circuit court, and set up the funding formula.

During negotiations, Republicans offered Detroit a deal it shouldn't have refused: Reconstitute Recorder's Court as a division of Wayne Circuit Court. Detroit would have its own judges hearing its own criminal cases.

Playing the race card, Detroiters say they fear blacks couldn't get elected in a countywide race for circuit court under the new law.

Yet for 10 years, Detroit Recorder's Court was hearing all the criminal cases in Wayne County. Chief Justice James Brickley and Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer thought that was fine. But Rep. Ted Wallace, D-Detroit, a black who has one of the best minds in the Legislature, called that situation "wrong; no defense" – precisely what many suburbanites said.

Brickley and others claim they corrected the problem by changing the rule so that circuit court hears suburban criminal cases. Not so. Suburbanites can't vote for Detroit Recorder's judges who hear criminal cases, but Detroiters can vote for Wayne Circuit judges who hear criminal cases.

And Detroiters never uttered a peep of protest on July 10 when Detroit Recorder's Judge Vera Massey Jones handled the sentencing of an Allen Park bad guy.

Remember Vera Massey Jones? Last year, she ordered a blond Associated Press reporter to stop taking notes in her courtroom and had the notes confiscated. An appellate court reversed Jones, but the AP reporter never got her notes back.

Remember Detroit District Judge David Martin Bradfield, who threw out the Supreme Court's rules about cameras in court and substituted his own: "the last rearmost seat in the courtroom. . . no zoom lenses" (just like the Alabama buses prior to the 1960s)? The Free Press, known as "the white media" to some, got Brickley's Supreme Court to change that – after three years.

Racism, anyone?

Edwards best in race

August is a great month in Michigan. Our warm, sunny weather gives us the opportunity to travel and experience our great state at its most beautiful. At home, August in election years gives us the opportunity to evaluate our local elected officials and decide who is best qualified to manage our township.

Having studied the candidates running for Plymouth Township treasurer, I have concluded that Ron Edwards is the best qualified to hold this important office. Ron is a certified public accountant and management consultant with a solid business background.

He has also been an active supporter of our community as both a treasurer of the Plymouth District Library Building Campaign Committee and as an active volunteer in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, both in his children's schools and on districtwide advisory groups.

From my experience both as treasurer of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and treasurer of the Plymouth District Library, I have noticed that our township treasurer's office has not been operated with the same accuracy and efficiency as our neighboring communities.

In addition, as a citizen I am concerned about the unfavorable comment letter the Plymouth Township Treasurer's office received this year from the township's independent auditor.

After 12 years, it's time to make a change, time to bring fresh ideas, professional business management and a CPA's experience to our township treasurer's office.

I urge you to take the time to vote in this August's Republican primary election and recommend you vote for Ron Edwards for Plymouth Township treasurer.

Steve Harper, Plymouth

Why wait so long?

In your article you mentioned the current owners should have been aware of taxes due on the Mayflower Hotel.

What about the previous owners and why did the City of Plymouth wait so long to collect taxes due?

Would I, as a private citizen be given the same option?

Church burnings serve to unite us

Maybe I've got no business speaking out about this. But I'm going to anyway. That's because the matter has hit me, not directly, but it's hit me. And it has hit me wrong. It's hit my whole family wrong. My children are asking questions, as children frequently do when something is mentioned with such frequency on the news.

•It's on TV, it's on the radio, it's in the newspapers and magazines. And so we've entered into some discussions, the back and forth kind, the kind where no matter what is said or by whom, we wind up shrugging our shoulders. We just don't get it.

We don't understand. They don't, I don't, we all don't. But then I really don't want to understand. I don't want to understand or empathize or sympathize or walk around in the shoes of people who do the unthinkable, who do the unconscionable, who burn down churches.

Burn down churches, what kind of thing is that? It seemed that every morning for awhile there as I listened to the radio, as I made my way through the laundry and the diaper changes, I heard about one more church destroyed by fire.

And I scarcely believed what I was hearing. Who could do this? And to what end?

The whole thing makes absolutely no sense.

Why would someone destroy a house of worship? It's just plain wrong on so many levels.

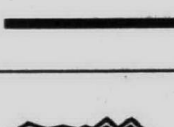
Teen works on Costa Rican project

■ Blame it on an 11-day trip to Costa Rica. The experience prompted Matthew McCormick to spend five months during his junior year of high school helping to build a Bible Institute.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER



Matthew McCormick's experiences living and working as a volunteer for Central American Mission (CAM) International in Costa Rica for the past five months changed his attitudes about life.

Last fall, the 16-year old Livonia resident's days were consumed with studying for mathematics, science and computer programming at Churchill High School and playing on the football team. He never dreamed he'd be clearing a plot of land with a machete in preparation to build block houses for the new CAM Bible Institute and enjoying the slower-paced lifestyle void of ringing telephones.

"It was a great experience; I liked the simplicity of life and the fact I could use the Spanish I've studied since middle school," said McCormick.

The goal of the 10-year project in Moravia, Costa Rica, is to construct an institute capable of yielding native pastors for Central America began in January. Working construction during the summers for his father David, McCormick learned the basics of using hammer and nails.

As part of a five-man work team, he erected steel beams for the structure because of the scarcity of wood in Costa Rica. According to McCormick, who had his first opportunity to put up tin roofing, there was a shortage of many materials. Only one store in the country stocked drywall.

E-mail letters home told of physical fatigue, but also of mental fatigue from trying to translate 14 tenses of verbs.

"We worked in the rain, hard physical labor. You might wheelbarrow 200 wheelbarrows of cement a day," said McCormick, who lived in Tibas with missionary Tim Nelson, wife Julie and their young children.

Fateful trip

An 11-day trip with an adult and youth group from Covenant Community Church in Redford Township over Easter break in 1995 led to McCormick's second extended stay after Nelson invited members back. McCormick thought spending his second semester of 11th grade in Costa Rica would help him decide the direction of his future after high school.

He raised the $4,000 to cover travel and living expenses through contributions from family and church members and by holding car washes and collecting bottles and cans.

"Matt did it on his own. After the initial trip, he was calling about going again before his parents even knew," said the Rev. H. Dalton Myers, pastor of the independent Bible church that helped raise the money. "Matt was impressed by the opportunity for the ministry, so we made it an official project of the church."

McCormick arranged to continue his schooling by enrolling in independent studies through the University of Nebraska in conjunction with Churchill High School. He was required to keep in touch with teachers at Churchill via e-mail and to regularly record his experiences in a journal. School counselor/coach Steve Naumcheff worked out the details.

■ 'Our diet consisted of rice and beans for breakfast and beans and rice for dinner. Pepsi and Coke were available everywhere, but I missed Mountain Dew and Dr. Pepper.'

Matthew McCormick

"Matt's always been very independent since he was a little kid," said his father, David.

Matthew's mother, Jennifer, added, "If he wanted something with his heart he went for it."

McCormick was astounded to find students out of school when he arrived on Jan. 22. The Costa Rican school year begins in March to coincide with the start of the rainy season. He also was shocked that students are required to attend school only until sixth grade.

In addition to working nine-hour days, five and six days a week, McCormick attended prayer and youth group meetings at the church in San Miguel three to five times a week in the evenings. He donated $500 from his expenses for the installation of windows in the church.

For fun, he attended soccer games, a popular Costa Rican sport. Once a week, he would go downtown or take visiting work groups from American churches, including Troy Baptist, on sightseeing excursions to active volcanoes.

Not all of his experiences were pleasant, but they all taught lessons. While in Costa Rica, three church members drowned in the river. McCormick, who chatted non-stop for 3 1/2 hours about his trip to Costa Rica, suddenly found words difficult to come by.

"It was hard; the family was devastated," he said.

Future plans

Unsure if he will become a missionary, McCormick would like to return to Costa Rica in the future. In the meantime, he plans to attend a Christian college to study sociology and psychology after graduating from Churchill High School next year.

"I like helping people and sharing the gospel," he said. "I'll see what kinds of doors the Lord is opening and closing for me."

After learning about how most Costa Ricans work on banana plantations or cutting sugar cane, McCormick came to the conclusion that North Americans have the best life. Central American staples were difficult to stomach and there was one item he missed most.

"We drank a lot of bottled water because San Miguel is notorious for bad water," he said. "Our diet consisted of rice and beans for breakfast and beans and rice for dinner. Pepsi and Coke were available everywhere, but I missed Mountain Dew and Dr. Pepper."

McCormick also "got used to not using the telephone. I didn't miss television because we had cable TV. We watched all of the playoff games and 'Home Improvement' in Spanish."

In Costa Rica, he said, every home has a TV. Homes that don't have electricity hook it up to a car battery. Some people have satellite dishes bigger than their 10-by-10-foot homes.

As for the one thing he doesn't miss?

"When the rainy season starts all the bugs come out, so I don't miss the cockroaches running around my bedroom floor," he said.

denomination, and no matter the race, the color, the creed of those who make their way to that place of worship are there because they're seeking peace and sense in their lives. And they're probably looking to God in their quest for peace and sense.

Granted, I am no theologian with a deep understand of things religious. Instead, what I am is a person who freely admits her own limited capabilities who can't help but defer to the power out there, the power that many, but not all, call God, the power that's capable of coming up with all the beauty and the mystery of this planet. I defer to this power knowing full well that I could never have come up with such vastness and complexity, and I've never met anyone, or even committees of anyones, who could.

There is something, something much bigger than myself, and yourself, out there. And flying in the face of that awesome power by burning churches, that doesn't make sense. Respect and reverence for this power, the power behind the blue of a summer sky and even the blue in a stained glass window, that's how it should be.

■ Instead, what I am is a person who freely admits her own limited capabilities who can't help but defer to the power out there, the power that many, but not all, call God ...

Why do you think moms and dads in houses of worship hush their noisy children when attending services? Respect and reverence for the powers greater than themselves, I suspect.

Why do folks feel compelled to dress in their "Sunday best" on that day of the week when they go to their church or synagogue or mosque? Respect and reverence, I suspect.

Burning and destruction is not demonstrating reverence or respect to the powers greater than ourselves. And that's a big scary. Here I worry about Jack dropping a hymnal on the floor in the middle of the sermon. God probably doesn't like that very much, I worry. What must God think of the malicious destruction of entire church buildings?

And to what end are these crimes committed? That's really unclear. If the motivation is to hurt a whole group of people, to disassemble them, bust them up, to fracture brotherhood and diminish or break their spirit, I don't think it's working.

As a matter of fact, it just may prove to have the very opposite effect. As my children pointed out, using a favorite story of theirs, the plan of the bad person is backfiring. The Grinch couldn't steal Christmas by stealing the things of Christmas. Christmas came anyway. The citizens of the tiny village pulled together and made a happy noise in spite, in SPITE, of the malicious, divisive actions of the bad person.

Camaraderie, oneness, unity is born out of the disaster. The village becomes even stronger. And those of us sitting home, those of us not affected directly, find ourselves pulling for the village. We find ourselves pulling for the congregation which lost its church, pulling for the humans in each case.

The crime of arson is a nasty crime against people. And the law takes a very dim view of the whole business. Now, the crime of arson when a church is the target is also a crime against people. But what about the higher authority involved? How kindly will the Law, with a capital L, look upon that? If nothing else, that's what should be feared.

Those who burned the churches may feel they're getting away with something, and they may feel their message is loud and clear, and they may feel their mission has been carried out. The way we've got it figured, they are wrong on all counts.

Contributions to Project Restoration, to rebuild the churches, may be sent to the Rev. Virgil Humes, New Hope Missionary Baptist Church, 5403 S. Wayne Road, Wayne.

5 leaders honored by Senior Alliance

Several area leaders have been recognized by The Senior Alliance, Area Agency on Aging 1-C, for their work with older adults.

Among those honored at the TSA's annual meeting was Dianne Neihengen, Canton Senior Center director, recipient of a Meritorious Service Award for her work as an advocate for older adults.

Michael J. Chappell, also of Canton Township, and district director of Social Security Admistration offices in Dearborn, Inkster and Wyandotte, was presented with a Meritorious Service Award for providing leadership in a number of governmental and community organizations, including TSA.

Special recognition awards were presented to Gay Ware, administrative assistant in charge of all senior programming in Livonia. In addition to serving on TSA's Board of Directors, Ware is a board officer and chair of the Program and Fund Raising Committees.

A second Special Recognition Award was given to Denise Champagne, Inkster's RSVP director and acting director of the city's Senior Services.

The FY95 Legislative Award was presented to State Rep. Thomas Kelly of the state's 17th District.

Kelly has a long and impressive background in community service and was commended for his work in the state legislature, particularly regarding senior issues.

The Senior Alliance is the Area Agency on Aging for western and southern Wayne County. The agency administers approximately $5 million in federal, state and local funds as well as donations, memorials and other grants to assist older adults to live with independence and dignity.

Included in its service are Redford, Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton, Westland and Garden City.

Dad said he wouldn't lose his dignity. So we lost our dad.

Peace and harmony matter to writer

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Mrs. Green,

I am a 47-year-old female. I am married and I have four children. I am right-handed. I have read your column for quite a while and have wondered what my handwriting would reveal but have been a little apprehensive about finding out. I will be waiting for your analysis. Thank you.

B.B.
Plymouth

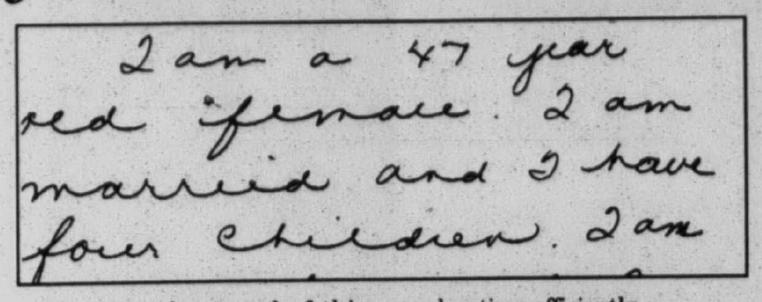
This nice letter was written on a very small piece of paper. So my analysis will be shorter than it would be if I had a larger sample of handwriting to work on.

Peace and harmony are very important to today's writer. She wants to avoid conflict at all costs. She is congenial and flexible and often strolls down the path of least resistance. Sometimes she may act more congenial than she inwardly feels. Some of her friendships may be a little superficial.

While her preferences is peace and harmony, she can become possessive or possibly a little jealous when anything threatens her home, family or comfortable lifestyle.

All of her experiences are felt deeply and she carries them for long periods. Both happy ones as well as those that are not so happy would be included in this statement. While she appears to have developed a tendency to repress her feelings, she can over-react emotionally and become impulsive on occasion.

When she senses she has been wronged or hurt, it is not easy for her to forget or forgive. Others may not be award of this because she can adapt so readily.



To new ideas or concepts she appears to have a limited interest. She remains with what she knows and is familiar with, rather than broadening her horizons by trying the unfamiliar. She feels secure with the known without the realization that others' ideas or suggestions might prove better.

Our writer is self-determined. She knows what she wants and can be quite decisive in this area. In addition she has learned to use her time efficiently.

A need for security is ever with her. An undue dependence upon money or what it can provide is suggested. She is practical and pragmatic.

In her early life, she did not feel that she was numero uno in her family. She has become more independent now and does not want to be held back by her past. However, traces of this perceived deprivation still hover in the background.

She is a good conversationalist, but I think she would be discreet about sharing the personal things in her life with other people.

Smith

Lyle and Patricia Smith celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at a recent gathering of family members and friends at Hawthorne Valley Country Club in Westland.

Forty-year residents of Westland, they exchanged vows on May 19, 1956, in Royal Oak.

They have three children – Linda Sue, Laurie Ann and Loren Dale, all of Westland. They also have seven grandchildren.

He worked for General Motors Corporation for more than 38 years and Ford Motor Company for six years, retiring from there in 1995.

Frazee

George and Bernice Frazee of Evart, Mich., formerly of Garden City, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a surprise party at Roma Hall in Garden City.

The couple exchange vows on March 5, 1946 in Detroit. She is the former Bernice Guilfoyle. They lived in Garden City for 45 years before moving to Evart last year.

The Frazees have seven children _ Michael of Westland, Patrick and wife Vicki of Brighton, Peggy Antal and husband Al of Garden City, Steve of Westland, Susie Temple of Ann Arbor, Timothy and wife Sue of Big Rapids and Jeffrey and wife Amy of Westland.

They also have 23 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

He is a 12-year retiree of Ford Transmission, while she is a homemaker.

Korona

Walter and Catherine Korona of Livonia celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary on May 8.

They lived in Redford until 1952 when they moved to the Fenton area. They moved to Livonia earlier this year.

The couple celebrated their anniversary with their four married children – Charlotte Michniewicz and husband Joseph of Romulus, Walter and wife Phyllis of Livonia, Donald and wife Lillian of Detroit and Robert and wife Nancy of Midland.

They also have 19 grandchildren, 27 great-grandchildren and five great, great-grandchildren.

The Koronas – he is 92 and she is 85 – say faith, togetherness and sharing are the secret to their long marriage.

Oakwood sponsors Healthcare Classic

Golfers will be teeing off for a good cause at the Oakwood Healthcare System's fourth annual Kmart Women's Healthcare Classic Monday, July 22, at the Dearborn Country Club in Dearborn.

The benefit will raise money for the fight against women's cancer.

The day includes two shotgun starts – at 8 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. _ a continental breakfast, 18 holes of golf, including a cart, lunch, awards reception, educational exhibits on women's cancer, raffle and more.

LPGA pro Amy Alcott will be on the first tee the entire day to greet players. Alcott is the sixth all-time money winner on the LPGA Tour. She has won five major championships, including the 1979 Canadian Open, 1980 U.S. Open, and a record three Nabisco Dinah Shore Championships.

Michigan's First Lady, Michelle Engler is the honorary chairperson for the outing which last year attracted more than 240 women golfers and raised $118,000. Since its inception, the outing has raised $321,000 to provide funds for transportation to comprehensive cancer care sites, educational literature and programs on cancer prevention for women, diagnostic equipment and some 700 free mammograms.

"Our goal is to continue building support for this worthwhile cause _ fighting women's cancer," said Jan Fitzgerald, general chairperson. "The committee is dedicated to increasing public awareness regarding the need for breast and cervical cancer screenings. These are the best tools available for battling those diseases."

Michelle Engler

According to the Michigan Department of Public Health, more than 1,600 Michigan women will die in 1996 from breast cancer and 190 will die from cervical cancer. And according to the National Cancer Institute, 90 percent of breast cancers can be treated successfully, if they are found early and have not spread beyond the breast.

For more information about the outing, call the Oakwood Healthcare System Foundation's office at (313) 791-1234.

Being sun 'smart' can help prevent skin cancer

It's also a fact that more than 1 million new skin cancers will be diagnosed in the United States in 1996 and that half of all new cancers diagnosed this year will be skin cancers.

And it's also a fact that approximately, 7,300 people, more than 4,600 of them men, will die from melanoma skin cancer this year and that one in 87 Americans will get melanoma in their lifetime.

Believe it or not, in 1930, the risk of developing melanoma in the United States was one in 1,500, but by 1980, it had risen dramatically to one in 250.

By the year 2000, one in 75 people will develop this deadly form of skin cancer.

According to Dr. Mark Balle, a dermatologist at Henry Ford Hospital, melanomas may suddenly appear without warning, but can also develop from or near a mole. They are found most frequently on the upper backs of men and women and legs of women, but can occur anywhere on the body.

People with the highest risk of developing melanomas include:

•Fair complexions who burn or blister easily.

•Blonde or red hair or blue, green or gray eyes.

•More than 100 moles on the body or 50, if under age 20.

The most common form of skin cancers is basal cell carcinoma, which strikes 800,000 Americans each year. Nearly all skin cancers are curable, if detected early.

And knowing what to look for helps. In the case of basal cell carcinoma, it's subtle changes to a spot or mole anywhere on the body, a growth that is crusting, changing or bleeding, or a sore that bleeds repeatedly.

For melanomas, it's asymmetry (half of the mole looks different from the other half), border irregularity (scalloped or poorly circumscribed edges), color (varied from one area to another, shades of tan and brown, black and sometimes white, red or blue), and diameter (larger than 6mm or the size of a pencil eraser).

Balle has several recommendations to lessen the chances of developing skin cancer:

•Minimize sun exposure, especially during the peak sun hours of 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. when the sun's rays are most intense.

•Apply a sunscreen liberally and frequently and reapply every two hours when working, playing or exercising outdoors.

A sunscreen with a Sun Protection Factor (SPF) of at least 15 is recommended for protection against skin cancer and premature aging of the skin. Even on cloudy days apply sunscreen because 80 percent of the sun's rays penetrate the clouds.

•Wear protective, tightly woven clothing during prolonged periods in the sun. Wear long-sleeved shirts and pants when possible and dark colored items because they provide more protection. To protect your face, wear a wide broad-brimmed hat.

•Beware of reflective surfaces. Sand, snow, concrete and water can reflect up to 85 percent of the sun's damaging rays.

•Avoid tanning parlors and sun lamps. The ultraviolet rays emitted by these artificial sources are similar to those in sunlight and can cause sunburn, premature aging of the skin and increase the risk of skin cancer.

•Protect children by keeping them out of the sun or by minimizing sun exposure, especially those under the age of six months. Apply sunscreens on children older than six months of age.

The majority of damage from the sun occurs before the age of 20. One or more blistering childhood or adolescent sunburns can double the risk of developing malignant melanoma.

To detect skin cancer at an early and curable stage, Balle recommends people examine their skin and that of family members regularly for any changes in moles, freckles or skin discolorations.

Learn the early warning signs of skin cancer and at any sign of change, or if a new lesion appears, see a dermatologist immediately.

WHEREAS, the Charter Township of Canton desires to acquire said lands for purposes of development of recreational parkland, rights-of-way, or economic development.
NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Charter Township of Canton is authorized to make application to the State of Michigan, Department of Natural resources, Lands Division for conveyance of said land to the Charter Township of Canton for a nominal fee as set by the Natural Resources Commission; and,
FURTHER BE IT RESOLVED that the Charter Township of Canton shall set up necessary procedures and controls to provide for the proper distribution of funds arising from the subsequent sale of the acquired property in conformity with the above-mentioned acts.
Motion by Bennett, supported by McLaughlin, to introduce,and publish for First Reading the repeal of the School Building & Land Protection Ordinance No. 33. Clerk Bennett explained that the State Law supercedes this Ordinance No. 33 and is covered under State law. The Township still has full enforcement power on these issues in terms of State Law. Motion carried.
Ayes: Bennett, Burdziak, Kirchgatter, McLaughlin, Shefferly and Yack

After school

'Mission' keeps children busy

Some 35 grade school students from Detroit's Harmony Village area near Fenkell and Wyoming found a quiet place to study – St. Olaf Lutheran Church. With financial support from Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in Livonia, the Detroit church launched an Afterschool Homework Program during the 1995-96 school year.

"As part of Holy Trinity's support for local missions, we've had ties with St. Olaf for quite a while," said the Rev. Robert Seltz, pastor at Holy Trinity.

Past efforts have included grants to help train young pastors for inner city work as well as Sunday School and vacation Bible school "exchange student" programs.

St. Olaf's Afterschool Homework Program aimed at first through fifth graders. According to Rev. Bob Hanson, pastor at St. Olaf, the program focused on the development of skills and the building of self-confidence.

"We want to help our children to grow up with peaceful alternatives, to help their families at home and serve their community," he said. "The program provides students an alternative place to be so they do not get caught up in the gang and drug culture of the community."

Each Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 5:15 p.m., the students were offered a safe, quiet place to do homework and be tutored in reading, writing and math.

With advice from the City of Detroit Health Department's Bureau of Substance Abuse, a St. Olaf Parish nurse, a chemist and others in the field of science also taught special units to increase the students' interest in science and health and to educate them about the effects of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs.

"This program is the first step in a comprehensive set of programs for our young people," Hanson said.

Up to this point, the program has been run by volunteers from the congregation and neighborhood. While that will continue, the financial support from Holy Trinity has allowed St. Olaf to hire a part-time person to direct and coordinate the Afterschool Program during the regular school year and during a two-week summer program.

In addition to funding from Holy Trinity Lutheran, Faith Lutheran Church in Flat Rock and the Detroit Lutheran Coalition, a grant for the project was provided by Prevention Network.

Prevention Network is administered by Prevention Michigan Inc., with funding provided through the Michigan Department of Public Health/Center for Substance Abuse Services and the Substance Abuse Prevention and Treatment Federal Block Grant, with additional funding from the Skillman Foundation.

RELIGION CALENDAR

Listings for the Religion Calendar should be submitted in writing no later than noon Friday for the next Thursday's issue. They can be mailed to Sue Mason at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150, or by fax at (313) 591-7279. For more information, call (313) 953-2131.

GUEST LECTURER

Dr. Andrew Walker of London, England, will be lecturing at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, 27475 Five Mile Road, Livonia, Saturday, July 27, through Monday, July 29. A leading scholar in the area of the gospel and our culture, Dr. Walker will address many topics which relate to both spirituality and the great cultural issues confronting the church in the western world.

On Saturday, July 27, a potluck dinner will be held at 6 p.m., followed at 7 p.m. by Dr. Walker's lecture, "Speaking the Truth in Love: Healing the Culture Wars." On Sunday, July 28, Dr. Walker will give the message at the 8:30 and 10 a.m. worship services.

On Monday, July 29, area clergy is invited to a special luncheon with Dr. Walker at the Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills. Reservations are required for the luncheon. A final lecture, "Recovering the Gospel: Mission in the Modern World," will be given by Dr. Walker at 7 p.m. that evening at the church.

For more information, call the church office at (313) 422-1470.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The radio series "What Is This Christian Science and Who Are These Christian Scientists?," a weekly program to answer questions about the religion, is being broadcast 8:30 a.m. Sundays on CKLW-AM 800. Topics include "How can any religion be scientific?" on July 21, "If Christian Science heals, why aren't people flocking to it like they flock to material medicine?" on July 28, "How does Christian Science healing come about?" on Aug. 4, "What is it like to trust the health of your children to God alone?" on Aug. 11, "What about women in the Christian Science church?" on Aug. 18 and "How do Christian Scientists feel about wealth?" on Aug. 25. The series also can be heard at 1:30 p.m. Sundays on WQBH-AM 1400. It is produced by the Christian Science Committee on Publication for Michigan and sponsored by local Christian Science churches. Rummage sale benefits CHS

Like to chase a bargain? If you do, then head on over to 32932 Warren Road in Westland Thursday and Friday, Aug. 15-16, for a rummage and bake sale that benefits Community Hospice Services.

A group of dedicated volunteers are hosting the sale 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days in the parking lot of CHS's Westland office at Warren and Venoy roads. Hosting the sale are Anne McDonald, Helen Adams, Betty Aguilar, Pat McCormick and Ellie Nosky.

Proceeds from the sale will help fund hospice patients whose medical benefits are exhausted. The sale items have been donated by friends, families, volunteers and employees affiliated with CHS.

In addition to rummage and bake sale items, CHS will have its holiday and all occasion cards available for a donation of $12.

Community Hospice Services was established in 1981 and provides services to the incurably ill and their families. Care is given based on need rather than on ability to pay.

For more information, call CHS at (313) 522-4244.

Birmingham Jazzfest

Jazzfest features metro Detroit all-stars

Pianist Geri Allen-Roney

BY MATT JACHMAN AND KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITERS

Birmingham's fourth annual Jazzfest offers a heavy-hitting lineup of Detroit-area jazz all-stars. Alexander Zonjic & Friends will kick off the festival 7-9 p.m. Thursday, July 25 at Shain Park.

Three of the biggest local legends — Marcus Belgrave, Ortheia Barnes and Norma Jean Bell — will appear together 6:30-8:30 p.m. Friday, July 26, for a free concert in Shain Park.

The program will highlight each performer in his or her metier — Belgrave on fluegelhorn, Bell on saxophone and Barnes on vocals — for 25 minutes or so, Belgrave said.

"We all know each other's style," Belgrave said. "So a whole lot of magic will take place. ... We'll feature each one in their own context."

Offstage, Belgrave could be reunited with a former student whose star is rising in the jazz world. Pianist Geri Allen-Roney, now based in New York, will wrap up Jazzfest with a 6:30-8 p.m. appearance in Shain Park on Saturday, July 27. She will be joined by bassist Ralphe Armstrong and drummer Eric Allen.

Belgrave remembers Allen-Roney well. He taught her at Cass Technical High School in the 1970s and led a tour to Europe with Allen-Roney and several other young Detroit jazz artists in the early 1980s. "They were all just babies then," he said.

He is proud of his former pupil. "Her (music) writing has become her forte. She was quite a find," he said.

"A lot of us had the good fortune to study with Marcus Belgrave," said Allen-Roney who recently became the first woman to win the international JAZZPAR Prize. "He was like a musical father for me. I've learned so much from him. By the time I got to New York I was ready."

Allen-Roney, who won a Soul Train Lady of Soul Award for best jazz album for "Twenty One," released in 1994 by Blue Note, is a new mom, and busy working on new recording due out this fall. She was recently featured on the front of "Billboard" in an article about "Women in Jazz." Her son, Wallace Vernell Roney, was born just three weeks ago.

"It's an exploratory album," she said about her newest project, which features trumpeter Wallace Roney, whom she married in 1995, and percussionist Cyro Baptista. "I'm trying to find my space. It's all original music, the idea was to reach for the stars. I think that's what makes this record special — a lot of records are being released, but you don't hear much original writing on new releases. I feel fortunate that my company, Blue Note, has allowed me to take chances. I'm really excited about it. I'm taking my time working on it to pull in all the right things."

She promises Birmingham Jazzfest audiences will be "pleasantly surprised," by her concert. "We'll do a combination of classics and original music. It's a culmination of everything I've learned. It's my goal to mix it up."

Allen-Roney said she's looking forward to visiting metro Detroit. "I have family there, and it's always good to come home," she said. "My dad lives in Detroit. He and my mom, who passed in 1982, were my greatest inspiration. They were very supportive of my musical development. Hopefully, he'll come to the concert."

Like another Detroit jazz veteran, Wendell Harrison, Belgrave sees a great love for jazz overseas. "Detroit artists especially are respected around the world."

Preparing for Jazzfest will require coordinating the busy schedules of Belgrave, Bell and Barnes, Belgrave said.

"We've worked together many, many times," he said. "It's just a matter of tuning into the material we're going to do."

Birmingham Jazzfest will also feature the Wayne State Jazz Band, led by Matt Michaels, a well-known pianist who plays with many groups, the 13-piece Bird of Paradise Orchestra, Western Jazz Quartet, which recently performed for the King of Thailand for his 50th year of reign, the Alma Smith Quintet, Tom Saunders' Detroit All Stars, and Larry Nozero Quintet with Patti Richards.

"We tried to bring together the best of what Michigan has to offer, and to offer a sampling of those artists" said Allan Skoropa of West Bloomfield who coordinated the Shain Park entertainment lineup. "The sets are 45 minutes. We wanted to keep the people interested, and to expose more people to more musicians."

Jazzfest is presented by The Community House, Birmingham Restaurant Collection, and other Birmingham/Bloomfield city organizations. Chairing this year's event are Steve Pope, general manager of The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers Inc. and Lynn Liddle, vice president corporate communications and investor relations for Vlassis Communications.

Corporate sponsors include Ford Motor Co., "Esquire" Magazine, and Chrysler Corp. Also contributing to make Jazzfest's free concert lineup a reality are Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, WJZZ Jazz 106, Birmingham's Principal Shopping District, American Express, a grant from New Initiatives for the Arts, Powers Real Wheat Beer, Hiram Walker, Kelly Services, Kingsley Hotel and Suites, Handleman Company, AAA of Michigan, Munder Capital, Mel Farr Ford, and the Birmingham Restaurant Collection.

Francke creates fictional world with songs

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Stewart Francke has the rare talent of painting a picture with his words, both as a journalist and a songwriter. His songs weave tales of life in a small town, courage and the strength to make it through trying times.

His latest album "Expecting Heroes" (Wild Justice Records) continues the stories told on his debut effort "Where The River Meets The Bay" (Schoolkids Records).

"I've tried to create a fictitious place using the elements of life around here – the land, the water, the open fields. ... But I think the most important thing is the songs have to be suggestive of another world, another reality to people to interest them," Francke explained.

It's important to Francke that his listeners lose themselves in his stories.

"A songwriter, or any recording artist, they lay out their vision of the world. You either buy it or you don't. Like the beginning of a concert or the beginning of the record, you either buy the fact that they're going to take you somewhere on a trip that's provocative, compelling or dangerous. But at the crux of the songs really it's about confidence, self confidence. The worst thing that can happen to somebody is they lose their self confidence. That's the conflict in the songs. The settings are all there, the descriptions are all there. The people in the songs maintaining confidence or losing confidence based on internal things or external things."

"Expecting Heroes" includes his favorite songs from "Where The River Meets The Bay" ("Kiss Kiss Bang Bang," "Expecting Heroes," "Union Town," "Where The River Meets The Bay" and "Gypsum Fair") and five new songs including his version of Van Morrison's "Into the Mystic."

Jazzman preaches clarinet gospel

BY MATT JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

Wendell Harrison is a jazz preacher spreading the lost gospel of the clarinet. The veteran musician, who performs and teaches around the world, wants to boost the clarinet's status in modern music, a status he says faded in the early 1900s with the rise in popularity of the saxophone.

The clarinet is a work of art, richer in history as well as in tone, and much more difficult to play, Harrison said. Though he plays the sax too, he considers it, by comparison, ordinary.

Backed by his Clarinet Ensemble, Harrison will bring the clarinet gospel to Birmingham Saturday, July 27, for a free concert in Shain Park as part of the city's fourth annual Jazzfest. He will also lead a free jazz workshop for young musicians in The Community House that morning.

"The clarinet is not really exposed to modern music today like it was in the early 1900s," Harrison said. "We're doing something fresh with the clarinet."

Harrison spoke one afternoon last week before rehearsing with the Clarinet Ensemble. Preparing for Jazzfest, the group gathered on Detroit's east side at a recording studio run by Rayse Biggs, a journeyman trumpeter who played with Was Not Was and was at last year's Jazzfest.

Wendell Harrison

This will be Harrison's second Jazzfest, and he's looking forward to it. Last year, he was the music director as well as a performer.

"They really like jazz," he said of the crowd the event draws. "They respond great."

They also respond great in Europe, which Harrison has toured many times.

There, he said, young musicians have put jazz on a pedestal and studied it from every angle.

"It's really respected... The people are so serious."

The jazz tradition in Europe, Harrison said, is strong enough that visiting U.S. performers no longer have to bring along side players — they find plenty of talent there.

In the U.S., where jazz was born, the story is different, he said. The genre is largely taken for granted. "We don't treat our own creations

Exhibit showcases 'Artists of the Americas Without Borders'

BY MARY QUINLEY
SPECIAL WRITER

As art lovers linger near the acrylic abstract titled "Hidden," they frequently comment about the "people holding hands" in the painting.

"I didn't paint it that way, (yet) people see messages or figures. I always have titles but (they) don't necessarily reflect the content," said Enrique VanderTuin of Southfield.

"My paintings flow with the mood and feelings. I usually work in stages and layers. Some (are completed) in an hour; some in 20 hours; some take a year to finish," said the Argentina native.

VanderTuin is one of a handful of suburban artists whose work is currently displayed at the Willis Gallery in Detroit.

"The media (in this exhibit) includes ceramics, embroidery, oil and acrylic paintings, photography and prints," said Ursula Murray, art historian and exhibits coordinator for the Hispanic Arts and Education Center based at St. Anne de Detroit.

Artists of The Americas Without Borders"
Where: Willis Gallery, 422 W. Willis, Detroit (at Cass and Willis, three blocks south of Warren, in the Wayne State University area.)
When: Through July 26. Exhibit hours are 3-6 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, noon to 4 p.m. Saturday. Call (313) 831-0136 for information.
Admission: Free

Murray, who lives in Farmington Hills, organized the multitalented artists who represent nine different countries. at the "Artists of The Americas Without Borders" exhibit.

Nora Chapa Mendoza, of West Bloomfield, "paints in about four or five styles."

"I have developed my own (styles). My work is different all the time," said the full-time artist who is known for her hidden forms within the abstraction and also for painting women.

Mendoza's 36 by 40-foot oil painting entitled "Mar Caribe" (The ocean in the Caribbean) reveals pale shades of forest green, beige and white.

"You can feel the movement of the ocean waves hitting up (against) the rocks. (The painting) is not realistic — (there is) the illusion of the ocean," she said.

Mendoza, representing Chicano-Indian heritage, also has several linoleum cuts at the show.

"Beauty for me is a very important value. I want beauty and harmony in my work. My dad was a painter — I can't remember not painting."

Lesko, born in Chile, has a woodblock print entitled "Alexandre," named for the 20th century Russian writer Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn.

"This (print) is his face from a portrait (I saw). His face has so much expression. I love faces because you can see the soul of the person through the expression of the eyes. Of the three prints (in the exhibit), two are faces."

Lesko, a Livonia librarian, best summarizes the eclectic show as "an elegant mix of media, most are contemporary. . . each artist (having) a different objective in mind."

The exhibit features works by these local artists:

Graciela Bustos of West Bloomfield, painter/ceramist; Fernando Calderon, sculptor, Luis Calderon, ceramist, Bertha Cohen, painter, Bloomfield Hills; Gustavo Crembil, muli-media artist, Fullbright scholar studying at Cranbrook Academy of Art, Birmingham; Alicia Lesko, printmaker, Plymouth; Patri O'Connor, painter/furniture transformer, Farmington Hills; Jeanne Poulet Perez, painter/printmaker, Livonia.

that well," he said.

But Harrison wants his concerts and his workshops — such as the one planned for The Community House — to spark enthusiasm for jazz, especially among young people. "Everywhere I go they want me to do workshops in conjunction with my performance," he said.

Harrison and the Ensemble — five clarinetists, a drummer, a keyboard player, a percussionist and a bass player — opened rehearsal by painstakingly going over a new arrangement of Charlie Parker's "Ko Ko."

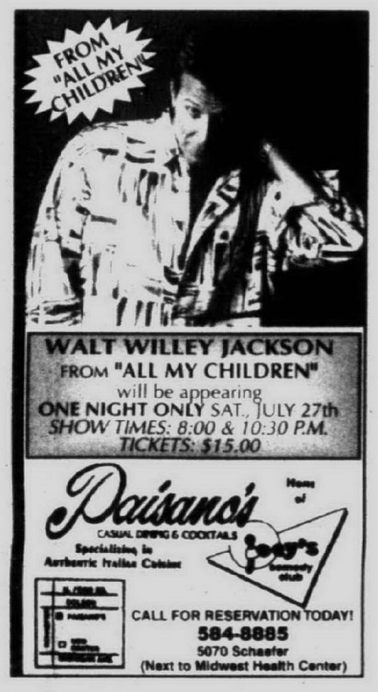
Harrison moved easily between sax and clarinet as he helped the players get familiar with the structure.

Harrison has 16 recordings to his credit, three with the Clarinet Ensemble.

He went to New York City as a jazzman at 18, but has long been based in Detroit.

Clarinet Ensemble members are: Paul Onachuk, clarinet; Greg Koltyck, clarinet; Harold Orr, bass clarinet; Paul Austerlitz, bass clarinet; Ernie Rodgers, contrabass clarinet, Pamela Wise (Harrison's wife), piano; Marion Hayden, bass; Renell Gonsalves, drums; and Akunda Hollis, percussion.

Wendell Harrison and the Clarinet Ensemble will play in Shain Park, in downtown Birmingham, 12:30-1:15 p.m. Saturday, July 27. They will be joined by New York City clarinetist Don Byron.



Wendell Harrison offers jazz improv workshop for students

Veteran Detroit musician Wendell Harrison will offer a free jazz improvisation clinic for young music students 11 a.m. Saturday, July 27, at The Community House, 380 S. Bates, Birmingham.

The workshop is for students of all instruments. It was originally designed for high schoolers, but younger musicians are also encouraged to attend, said Mary Alice Bankert of The Community House's special events department.

"We'd like to get kids from all over metropolitan Detroit to come out for this," Bankert said.

Harrison, a clarinetist and saxophonist, performs and teaches around the world. In his presentation, he will emphasize experimentation with scales, chords and rhythm.

The hour-long workshop will be followed at 12:30 p.m. with a performance by Harrison and his Clarinet Ensemble in Shain Park in downtown Birmingham. They will be joined by New York City clarinetist Don Byron.

The workshop and concert are made possible by a grant from New Initiatives for the Arts, a state organization working to make works by minority artists more accessible. The NIFTA program is supported by The Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs and is managed by The Arts League of Michigan Inc.

To sign up, or for more information, call The Community House special events department at (810) 644-5832.

He and his wife Julia also have a daughter Tess, 2.

"The hardening of the sound was nice. Since the birth of my son I feel like rockin' more," Francke said with a smile.

Tess's birth "was really like a mind blower. It alters all your perceptions. When the other one came along, I felt like rocking out."

"Where The River Meets The Bay" (Schoolkids Records) proved to be a successful trek for Francke. "Kiss Kiss Bang Bang" and "Expecting Heroes" were featured in episodes of "Melrose Place," while the song "The Beautiful Go Blameless" made its mark on the "Young and the Restless."

"It was a great entree for me and it allowed me to make some money," Francke said with a laugh. "We're all in the perception business. It created a different perception for what I was doing and the level I was doing it at. In that area it really helped but actually it's really contrary to what I'm putting forth in the album. The whole sleazy soap opera – it's not really anything I was particularly interested in."

'The hardening of the sound was nice. Since the birth of my son I feel like rockin' more.'
Stewart Francke
singer/songwriter

The songs were referred to the Aaron Spelling soap opera through a friend of a friend.

"It was really painless. After 15 years of struggling with this beast, it was pretty painless. It was exciting."

Many exciting things have happened to Francke since his first album was released March 1, 1995. He won the Motor City Music Award for Best Rock Act at the ceremony in December, he was nominated for three Detroit Music Awards, and recently he won an ASCAP Special Songwriting Award.

"They give it to people who make less than a certain amount of money from royalties but their catalog shows a lot of movement and a lot of promise. It was mostly from 'Melrose Place.' There was a nobody in the middle of America getting songs placed on major TV shows."

Prior to signing a management deal with the New York-based Wild Justice company, Francke had already opened for the likes of Steve Earle, Shawn Colvin, Dave Mason, Warren Zevon. The management deal and the new album are bound to open up new doors for Francke, a Huntington Woods resident.

"It's been great. I've worked with better musicians. Ambition's a funny thing because you continually want more but in a certain sense I've already done better than I thought."

Local artists to exhibit works in upcoming shows

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

If you missed Art in the Park in Plymouth, July 13-14, there's a chance you'll be able to catch your favorite artists at July and August shows — not just run-of-the-mill arts and craft fairs, but events unparalleled in their staging.

Livonia clay artists Alan and Barbara Gibson will display their sculpture and functional wares, and Warren Agee, his contemporary jewelry, in Art at the Pavilion July 19-21 at the Southfield Civic Center, 26000 Evergreen.

Art at the Pavilion is an indoor show where visitors browse in the comfort of air conditioning. A new event produced by New York wood artist Richard Rothbard, Art at the Pavilion opens with a reception to benefit the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute 5-9 p.m., Friday. Tickets for the opening night benefit and art preview are $15 per person and include admission to all three events. For benefit tickets call (810) 443-5320.

Admission is $4 to the Saturday and Sunday shows featuring 115 artists working in clay, wood, fiber, metal, oil, watercolor and acrylic paints. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days.

The Karmanos Cancer Institute, formerly known as the Michigan Cancer Foundation, is an integrated system consisting of MCF, The Detroit Medical Center, Wayne State University, and the Meyer L. Prentis Comprehensive Center of Metropolitan Detroit. The institute provides oncology programs, medical treatments, research, outpatient services, support groups, and low cost or no cost medical supplies to cancer patients. Proceeds from the benefit will go to outreach breast health and smoking education programs including Hazards of Tobacco which reaches K-12 students in schools throughout the five county metro Detroit area.

The Gibsons will also be at the July 24-27 Ann Arbor Art Fairs as will wood worker Walt Cole of Redford, weaver Nanette Wiecek of Canton, and painter Thomas LeGault of Plymouth.

LeGault was painting up a storm at Art in the Park in Plymouth Saturday morning and talking about Ann Arbor, one of the biggest and best art fairs in the country.

"Ann Arbor is grueling if you're an artist but the exposure is priceless," LeGault said.

The Ann Arbor Art Fairs, a festival not only of visual art but live entertainment and food, runs 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday to Friday and until 5 p.m. Saturday.

Pat Lea and Judy Spjut of Livonia are two of the more than 100 exhibitors who prove "woodcarvings aren't just decoy ducks" at the 22nd annual Livonia Wood Carvers Show Aug. 3-4 at Eddie Edgar Arena, 33841 Lyndon and Farmington in Livonia. Admission is $1 per person, or $2 for a family. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. The theme this year is the Native American Indian.

"There'll be carvings of every aspect of wildlife from fish to turtles and iguanas plus carousel animals, songbirds, figures and florals," said show chairman Jerry Grusendorf. "The carvers come from Michigan, all over Ohio, Canada, Florida and Alabama. There's so many carvings you can't see everything the first time around."

Walnut, butternut, cherry: the type of wood used depends on the subject being carved and the sought-after effect. Carvers at supply tables stocking tools, books and wood will help visitors fathom the choices should they choose to take a stab at the craft. For those choosing to watch instead, don't miss the chainsaw carving demonstrations by Al Heron of Windsor outside the entrance.

Carvers will compete for ribbons in 43 categories including relief, in-the-round, chip carving, wood burning, marquetry (decorative inlaid work), and miniatures that must fit inside a 2-inch cube. Grusendorf plans to enter his carving of hatching turtles in the three dimensional, in-the-round competition.

"This is one of the best woodcarving shows around, an experience that they won't forget and it might entice them to start carving," Grusendorf said.

Founded 25 years ago, the Livonia Wood Carvers Club meets twice weekly at the Livonia Senior Center on Farmington south of Five Mile. A nonprofit organization, the members thrive on the camaraderie wood carving provides. Preview the August show by viewing the displays in the Livonia Civic Center Library's first and second floor glass showcases through July 29.

Not many art shows are set in a historical village. White clapboard houses, an old time general store and railroad station set the scene for the Americana Craft Show Saturday and Sunday Aug. 24 and 25 at Greenmead Historical Village, 20501 Newburgh at Eight Mile in Livonia.

Look for quality crafts 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Last year more than 80 exhibitors offered crafts ranging from lawn ornaments to geese dressed in handmade outfits.

Greenmead boasts 23 buildings, 11 of them original to the site, divided into two time periods: the 1850s and 1920s. Proceeds from the show go to restore Judge Blue's House.

'Music for the Eyes' features works by John Lennon

Artbeat features various happenings in the suburban arts world. Send news leads to Linda Ann Chomin in care of Keely Wygonik, Arts & Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150, or fax them to (313) 591-7279.

JOHN LENNON'S ART SHOWN DURING ANN ARBOR ART FAIRS

From July 24 to 27, Yoko Ono will present an exhibition of more than 50 artworks by her late husband John Lennon at the Michigan Union Ballroom, 530 S. State Street, Ann Arbor. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday-Friday, and until 5 p.m. Saturday.

Lennon was murdered outside the Dakota in New York City in 1980. "The Artwork of John Lennon: Music for the Eyes," is the largest exhibit to date by the former Beatle and includes 45 serigraphs after drawings taken from Lennon's sketchbooks, rare works from the original "Bag One" Suite signed by Lennon and two original sketches done in the summer of 1969, never shown to the public. The exhibit will also show Lennon's Song Lyrics portfolio and original production cels from "Yellow Submarine."

PORTRAIT CLASSES

The Art Gallery in Garden City is offering the chance to learn portraiture from Detroit artist Lin Baum in a two-part series Aug. 7 and 14. Both afternoon and evening classes are available. The fee is $35. Students will work from a live model.

Baum, who teaches portraiture at Schoolcraft College, had a one-woman show of her portraits in January at the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Art Gallery.

A $10 deposit is required to reserve a space for classes. To register, inquire at The Art Gallery, 30116 Ford Road or call Norma McQueen, (313) 261-0379.

ARTISTS OF THE MONTH

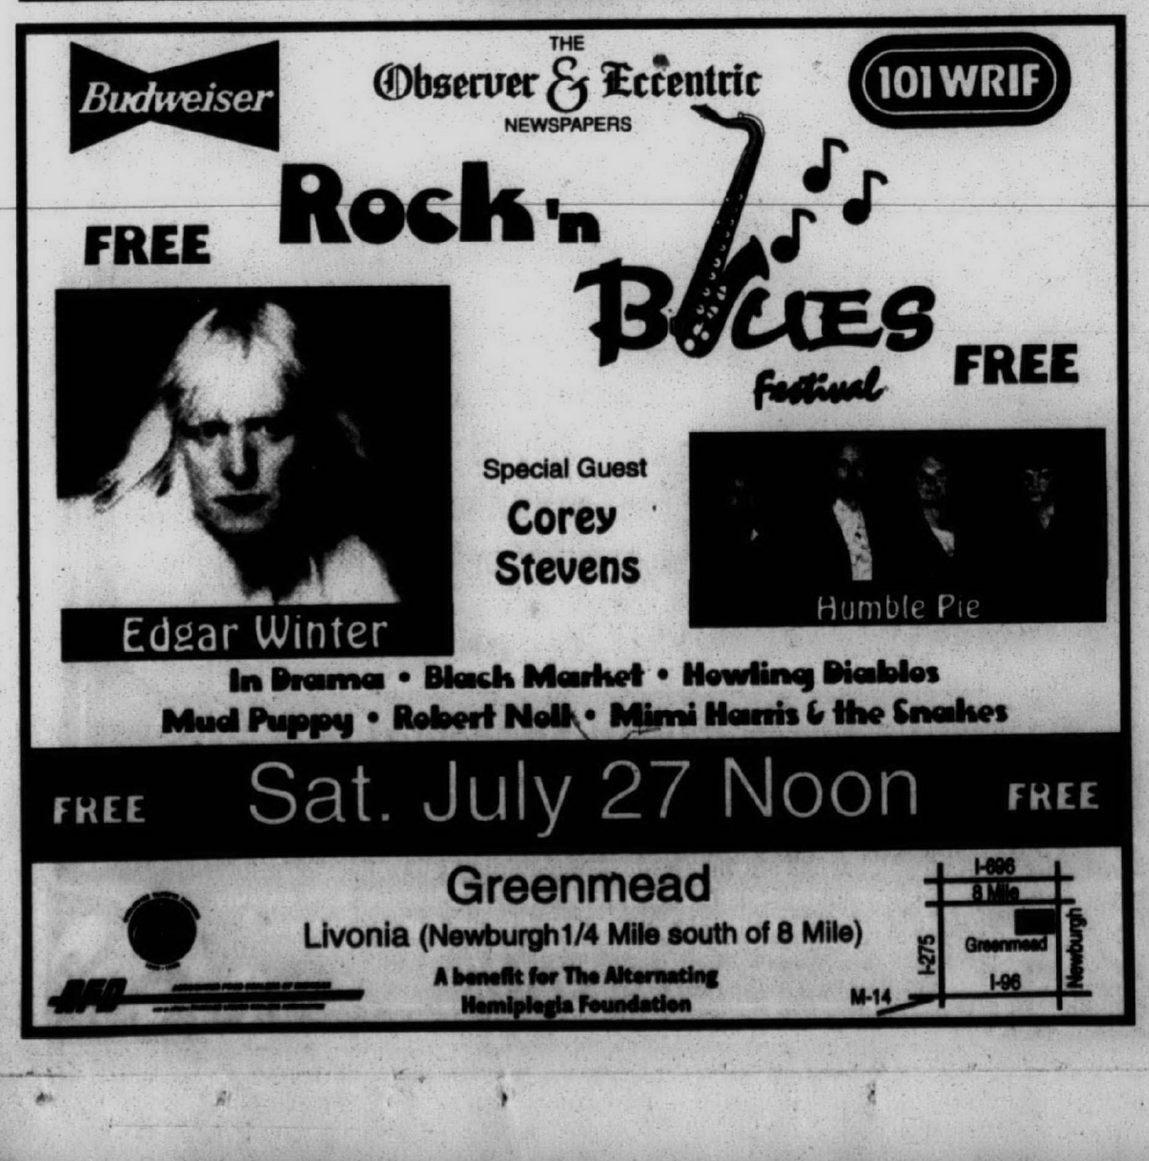
The Livonia Arts Commission spotlights a variety of mediums in July. Watercolor abstracts by Julie Kachnowski take over the lobby of Livonia City Hall through July 31. An Eastern Michigan University graduate, Kachnowski deals with nature themes in her vibrant works. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

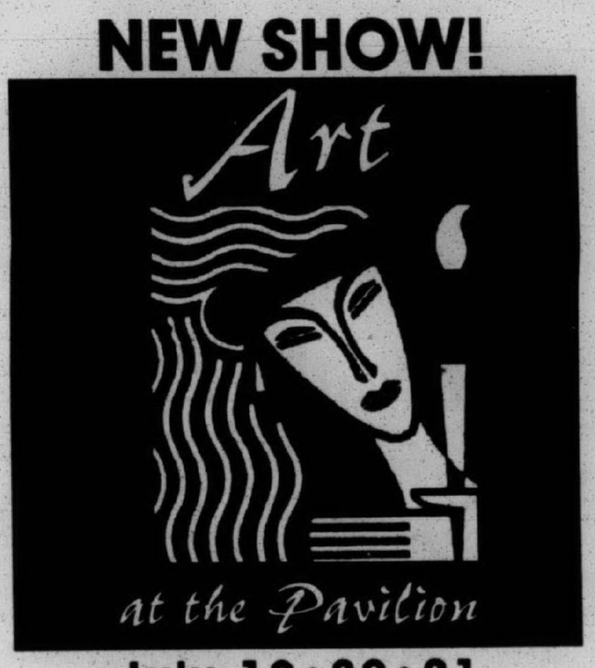
From miniature animals to life size duck decoys, the Livonia Civic Center Library hosts woodcarvings by members of the Livonia Woodcarver Club in the first and second floor showcases through July 29.

The library's fine arts gallery is the setting for mixed media created by Ann Arbor architects Daniel J. Barry, Michael W. Hall and Leo Valentino Mendez, Jr. until July 31. Several of Hall's abstract landscape paintings incorporate plaster, oil and charcoal on plywood. All draw on his upbringing in Northern rural Michigan. Barry, who earned a master of architecture from the University of Michigan, uses graphite on museum board to bring to life the streets and alleyways of Ann Arbor. Art's relationship with architecture and its impact on nature plays heavily in his work. Hours for the library shows are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

ANIMATION SEMINAR

The Animation Network Club will sponsor a seminar noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, July 27, in the conference room of Windermere, 6952 Farmington Road, West Bloomfieldadults, Space is limited. Call (810) 626-2285





STREET SCENE

Celtic fiddler MacIsaac sports an angry attitude

CHRIISTINA FUOCO

When Celtic fiddle player Ashley MacIsaac makes it big in the United States, he better look kindly on the Detroit area.

"My first gig ever in the United States was on my 13th or 14th birthday at an IRA club in Livonia," the 21-year-old MacIsaac said. "It was a regular Irish club, but it was IRA-ish that night."

MacIsaac has come a long way in the last seven or eight years. On Friday, July 19, he will open up for the Chieftains at Meadow Brook Music Festival on Oakland University's campus in Rochester. Folk singer Nanci Griffith was originally scheduled to be on the bil,l but she dropped off due to personal reasons. A replacement had not been named at press time.

MacIsaac said he's unsure why Griffith left the tour, but he heard her say, "Due to the efforts of Mr. Ashley MacIsaac, Thursday (July 11) is my last night, but now I will no longer be a part of the tour."

"I don't know what those efforts were," he added.

Last month the musician, who favors kilts, combat boots and bleached hair, released his U.S. major label debut "Hi. How Are You Today?" (A&M), which spawned the 93.9-FM CIDR "The River" hit "Sleepy Maggie." The album features the musician playing traditional fiddle tunes from his native Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, Canada, spiked with his modern musical tastes. They range from grunge to hip-hop, and guest musicians include Bass Is Base bassist Chin Injeti, Gaelic singer Mary Jane Lamond, the Canadian pop band Jale, and members of the classical group Quarteto Gelato.

"I wanted to do a hip-hop track, and I wanted to do a more Ramones sounding fiddle track or quartet sounding solo track, but these were just my ideas. To be completely honest, the stuff came up because I was around people who could do it," MacIsaac said.

"They worked around my structures, and we said, 'How would you make a dance tune, like I'd heard in the New York clubs, out of a fiddle tune?' But it's the same kind of hook. Fiddle tunes are just 16 bars of dance hooks."

MacIsaac, who calls himself a "fiddle slut," has been playing the fiddle since he was 8 1/2.

"My father once said to me, 'If you want to play the fiddle, get mad at it or don't play it at all.' When I go out and do my live show, I present the image of angry young man when on stage. It's angst or punk, and that's what the Celts were, punks. But it's also about romancing because the Celts were also about that."

Cape Breton, MacIsaac said, is one of the last remaining Celtic satellite communities of the world. The city has "an ultimate connection with Detroit. A huge junket of musicians went from Cape Breton to work in the car plants until maybe 15 years ago. There was a huge population living in and around the Michigan and Windsor (Canada) area. Tons of people were playing music. There were step dancers and bag pipers. There's not the same sort of outbreak into other cities," he explained.

• Porno for Pyros, the alternative rock band featuring ex-Jane's Addiction singer Perry Farrell and drummer Stephen Perkins, turned St. Andrew's Hall into a zoo on Monday, July 15. The 1,000-plus fans were packed into the main ballroom as the band, lead by an armed security guard, were led from the dressing room above the hall, downstairs through the Shelter nightclub and a staircase that leads to the backstage area of the stage. As Porno for Pyros came downstairs, bouncers from the club pushed on the glass doors to keep fans from coming out. Once Porno for Pyros hit the stage, the quartet whipped through an incendiary hourlong set that included tracks from its latest album "Good God's Urge" (Warner Bros.) and its self-titled debut.

Filled with flowers and voodoo candles, the backstage room looked like a funeral home. The floral theme carried over into the hall, which was also decorated with white veil-like material.

The band is tentatively scheduled to return to Detroit in August or September with Farrell's ENIT Festival which also features The Prodigy, Love and Rockets, Meat Beat Manifesto, and Black Grape.

BOOK BREAK

Grant Hill's 'Change the Game' is sincere and eloquent

ESTHER LITTMANN

Pro basketball star Grant Hill has been called "smart, unassuming, and modest," rare qualities in a field where money and hero-worship feed already swollen egos. Too many athletes have forgotten that "celebrity is a privilege . . . not a right," says Hill, and give their sport a bad name. In his first book "Change the Game" (Warner Books, 1996, $14.95), the author describes his own developmental years and athletic accomplishments and shares his personal goals as a public figure.

To become a top athlete, writes Hill, you must have talent, ambition, inspired guidance, and luck. The 23-year-old star of the NBA and player for the Detroit Pistons frankly admits he has an abundance of all four.

The only child of Calvin Hill, former football pro with the Dallas Cowboys and Cleveland Browns, and Janet Hill, Wellesley graduate and onetime consultant to the Pentagon, Hill grew up with many advantages that most black — and white — youngsters do not enjoy. He traveled, met prominent people, and attended the best schools. He was also fortunate to have doting but disciplined parents whose high expectations for him were not limited to sports. Hill's mother, affectionately called "the General" by his friends, stressed hard work and accountability.

"In those days, I thought my mom was so unfair," writes Hill. "By the time I went to college though, I realized that she had given me a great tool."

Sports came easily to Grant Hill. Initially a soccer player, he switched to basketball when he was 12 and already 6 feet tall. A devoted high school coach encouraged variety in his playing. Later, Coach Krzyzewski of Duke University's "Blue Devils," taught Hill "not to be afraid to be great." Dominating the game was okay, he insisted, "as long as it was in the confines of team play."

But Hill's greatest inspiration came from his father, whose confidence in his son's ability and personal example honed the young athlete's character and career. A key figure in Duke's two successive national championships, Hill won Rookie of the Year," like his father before him, and played in the All-Star game last year.

At 23, Hill has traveled worldwide and achieved what others only dream of. In addition to basketball fame, his name adorns a line of sneakers and athletic clothes, he advertises for companies such as GMC trucks, Kellogg's, and Sprite, and has been interviewed on "20/20." Although cautious with his earnings, Hill has purchased a large home replete with video arcade and pool table "as my commitment to being in Detroit" and for the privacy he occasionally needs.

The life of a top athlete is exciting but also challenging, the author admits. Minimal sleep, constant travel, and the pressure to win take their toll. You can see the adverse effects in the attitudes of many players. They complain openly, badmouth the coach in public, and miss practice and games. Some are rude to fellow teammates and opponents, subscribing to the slogan "Boorish is beautiful."

Hill recognizes the need for a more positive image of athletes to merge: "You can be a competitor, gamer, winner, and show respect too." He's candid about enjoying his success and the recognition it brings. But he wants to use his power to make positive changes, to become a role model for the young and an ambassador for the game.

"Change the Game" is sincere and eloquent in its simplicity. Its size — 5 by 8-inches, 134 pages — makes it easy to pack on a trip. It's also a great book to round out a student's summer reading list. All proceeds and royalties from the sale of the book will be donated to children's and education-based charities.

"Change the Game" is available at Borders on Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Hills, where Grant Hill appeared for a signing last month.

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

Stratford, Ontario, is famous for its annual Shakespeare festival, but the town and environs have much to offer in addition to great theater.

Stratford dates from 1832 and its connection with the Bard predates the theater by 120 years. The Festival has brought honor to the town and the poet equally. Beginning in 1953 with a tent production of "Richard III" starring Alec Guinness, the festival has grown to a schedule of 11 plays at three venues presented in repertory from early May to early November.

The festivals range has expanded to include theatrical works from all eras and countries. This year, in addition to three Shakespeare plays, the festival also includes an American musical comedy, a children's production, a French farce, two dramas by noted Amercian playwrights, an absurdist classic and a recent theatrical hit about a famous composer.

Variety has become the norm at the Stratford Festival and variety is also the norm in activities offered to Stratford visitors.

Stratford is a great place to walk and bicycle. Its many parks, beautiful and distinctive homes and lively downtown make it an ideal vacation destination. The surrounding countryside and other interesting towns, such as St. Mary's, offer much to do and see.

Many homes open their doors as bed and breakfast establishments. There are also several motels. We stayed at the immaculately maintained Queen's Inn. This downtown hotel was originally opened in 1850 as the Queen's Arms. It was rebuilt in 1905 following a fire and that is the present exterior, notable for its domed entry. The rooms are clean and distinctively furnished. The Inn is conveniently located within walking distance of all three Stratford theaters.

The Queen's Inn has three restaurants, but they are just a small part of the dining possibilities. At the high end Rundles, the Old Prune and the Church have become favorites with theater goers. This year we tried two relatively new establishments. We sampled new cuisine at the Hyacinth, housed in a typical Ontario house built in the 1870s. We also tried Mrs. Carter's Tea House, a real find for both afternoon tea and dinner.

Tourism Stratford, P.O. Box 818, 88 Wellington St., Stratford, Ont. n5a 6w1, will provide you with a hiking and biking map of the Stratford area and a pamphlet "Stratford Strolls" with walking tours of the city, including information on distinctive public buildings and private homes. The residential sections of town are interesting for their architecture which uses native stone and brick, often in a design that has become known as the Ontario cottage. But there are also fine examples of Tudor, Georgian, Federal and Victorian architecture. Check out the city hall and the Perth County Courthouse as other fine examples of civic architecture.

The town is also notable for its beautiful park system. The length of the Avon River is a green belt leading to the impressive tent-like Festival Theater. Along the park, joggers, bikers, soccer players, softball players, couples and exhibiting artists share space happily.

Nearby St. Marys is another excellent place for architecture buffs. The fortress like Opera House is no longer used for its original purpose as a 1,000 seat auditorium, but the exterior has been beautifully restored in all is unique splendor. St. Marys' distinctive townhall was built of limestone and has a romanesque style influenced by H.H. Richardson. Behind the townhall is Canada's first Carnegie Library. Built in 1905 of the same limestone as the townhall, it has since been modernized in 1988 with an attractive and appropriatly scaled addition.

St. Mary and several other nearby villages are home to antique shops with special emphasis on Canadian memorabilia.

Stratford is home to several fine art galleries, book stores and antique shops.

In addition to plays with special appeal for children, "Alice Through the Looking Glass" and "The Music Man," the Stratford area also offers farm tours, trolley rides.

Festival gets electric energy from 2 veterans

STAFF WRITER

Two great actors in demanding roles are the heart of this year's 44th Stratford Festival. William Hutt and Brian Bedford create that special electricity that makes theater an intimate and unique experience that cannot be duplicated on film or television.

King Lear

Hutt, now in his 33rd season at Stratford, brings to "King Lear" a rigid dignity and a controlled cadence that disintegrates as Lear drifts into madness and shame.

"Lear" is Shakespeare's unflinching look at growing old and the conflicts it creates between generations. Often hailed as Shakespeare's greatest play, "Lear" has multiple layers of meaning and insight and a rich variety of flawed characters.

Hutt has played the role twice before at Stratford, but he is now of Lear's age and this gives special poignancy to his performance. Few actors speak Shakespeare's language with such a precise sense of meaning and few perform Lear with such early strength and power. Hutt starts at a higher point to make his fall that much more spectacular.

Stratford artistic director Richard Monette's production is clear and straightforward, despite the Edwardian costumes. It is pared in such a way as to put emphasis on Lear and his attempts to understand what is real and what isn't. This is not an emotionally raging production as is often the approach to Lear's mad scenes. This is a play about family relationships and a quieter madness.

CYLLA VON TIEDEMANN

In addition to Hutt, this production gets strong performances from Colombe Demers as a sweet but too proud Cordelia, Lewis Gordon as the devoted and level headed Kent (he also replaces Hutt as Lear in selected fall performances), Peter Donaldson as the misjudged Edgar who feigns madness and Jordan Pettle as Lear's fool and sadly ignored conscience. Continues through Nov. 2 in repertory at the Festival Theater.

Amadeus

Brian Bedford is an actor's actor, a man with a superb command of every acting trick. He is able to use them all as the troubled Antonio Salieri in Peter Shaffer's "Amadeus."

This is a welcome return of last year's Stratford production of this popular if overly glib historical drama. Salieri was a court composer to Emperor Joseph II of Austria. He may or may not have poisoned Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

Bedford is on stage for the entire production and must age and grow younger before our eyes. He must also suggest the complex personality of Salieri, a worldly man with the curse of being able to recognize great music but not the ability to write it. Bedford suggests the style, rancorous wit and rich regret that make Salieri a fascinating character.

His nemesis is Mozart, who in Shaffer's play is a genius with the manners and mentality of a rude little boy. Stephen Ouimette has neither Tom Hulce's babyface or the hysterical giggle that made Hulce seem like a naughty boy in the film version. Ouimette is more a foulmouthed and arrogant teenager, which in some ways makes him a stronger adversary especially when he argues his positions on music.

The film has a scene not in the play that suggests something of Mozart's genius. Still the rivalry makes fine theater.

This is often strong theater and Bedford is mesmerizing. From the very first moment he is wheeled on stage, the audience is in his very capable hands. Continues through Nov. 1 in repertory at the Festival Theater.

Also this year at Festival are Meredith Willson's "The Music Man" and Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes." At the Avon is Feydeau's "A Fitting Confusion," Shakepeare's controversial "The Merchant of Venice," a stage adaptation of "Alice Through the Looking Glass" and Christopher Plummer in a one-man show, "Barrymore." At the Tom Patterson Theater the plays are Shakespeare's "As You Like It," Tennessee Williams' "Sweet Bird of Youth" and Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot."

HENRY FORD MUSEUM & GREENFIELD VILLAGE

Baked Beef with Sippets of Bread, Grateful Pudding, Planked Shad, Molasses Hermits and Whoppie Pies are all on the menu July 18-21 as Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village in Dearborn serves up a "Taste of History," a celebration of historically-correct American dishes. Admission to Greenfield village is $12.50 adults, senior citizens, 62 and over, $11.50; children 5-12, $6.25 and children under 5 free. Call (313) 271-1620 for information. Directional signs are posted along I-75 and I-94, the Southfield Freeway, and Michigan Avenue.

During "Taste of History," visitors can watch foods being prepared in the historic homes at Greenfield Village. The chefs in these kitchens will prepare authentic recipes in the same manner as in the 1800s and 1900s; over a coal range, wood stove or open hearth. Visitors can then enjoy a "Taste of History" in a huge tent where, for a nominal fee, they can sample many of the foods prepared in the historic homes and kitchens of Greenfield Village.

Adults and children alike can participate in a pie eating contest, cake walk, macaroni necklace making, food games, and special auction where visitors can bid on colorful baskets filled with food from our past.

Summertime Fare at the Henry Ford Birthplace, Cucumber Soup, Fried Oysters, Baked Beef with Sippets of Bread, Summer Salad garnished with nasturtium blossoms, and Baked Lemon Pudding.

MOVIES

JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

Michael Keaton's character in "Multiplicity" has a problem we can all relate to: he never seems to have enough time. To keep on top of his job. To spend quality time with his family. To play an occasional round of golf.

All this changes when a scientist gives him the opportunity to clone himself, not once but three times. The idea is that while Number 2 brings home the bacon, Number 3 will help around the house, allowing his wife (Andie MacDowell) to return to work.

If you can handle the gimmicky premise of "Multiplicity," chances are you'll like it – maybe even a lot. It's a splendid showcase for the talents of Michael Keaton, who has created some surprising subtleties among the obvious quirks in his split personalities.

His Number 2 is a cocksure version of the way he was in his post-college days: still single, focused on his job, a slob. Number 3, meanwhile, embodies his more sensitive nature, the side that marriage is supposed to bring out. He keeps them in the garage where they live an Odd Couple existence out of sight of the rest of the family.

Anxious to get help themselves, the clones create a Number 4, though, as they point out sheepishly, "a copy of a copy never comes out as sharp as the original."

Though far from original, the scene where Keaton and his clone meet in the same restaurant is also very funny. Better yet is the night he's away and all three clones find it difficult to keep the cardinal rule — not to sleep with the main man's wife.

"Multiplicity" is directed by Harold Ramis, who made the superior "Groundhog Day" a few years back. That movie said that you have to live each day to the fullest, realizing that even the most mundane routine is a part of life's joys. It was a sort of "Twilight Zone" meets "It's a Wonderful Life" and the balance worked.

The message here is basically the same, though a little muddled. There are some moving moments, especially those involving MacDowell's confused wife. She thinks she's going nuts when she tries to pick up a conversation that she started earlier with one of the others.

Of course the special effects take much of the credit for the whole charade (a scene where the three clones shave in the same mirror is an especially clever piece of work). But it takes an actor as versatile as Keaton to make "Multiplicity" even remotely believable and, as it turns out, likable.

SCREEN SCENE

DETROIT SCIENCE CENTER

5020 John R at Warren, Detroit. Call (313) 577-8400 for information and showtimes. (Free with museum admission. $6.50; $4.50 seniors/students)

• "Titanica." An Omnimax screening that takes you inside the portholes and across sunken decks of the world's most famous shipwreck. Also showing: "Destiny in Space," which shows how humans will live in space in the not-too-distant future.

MAGIC BAG THEATRE

• "The Pallbearer" (USA - 1996). 9 p.m. July 24. "Friends" star David Schwimmer plays a young man who agrees to lead the funeral service of a former classmate, despite the fact that he never knew him. Gwyneth Paltrow plays the old flame who makes the trip worthwhile.

MAIN ART THEATRE

118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180.

• "Stealing Beauty" (Italy - 1996). The story of a 19-year-old American girl whose trip to visit relatives in Italy turns into an eye-opening experience when she meets a variety of odd characters. Directed by Bernardo Bertolucci ("The Last Emperor").

• "Lone Star" (USA - 1996). John Sayles wrote and directed this subtle, moving drama about a sheriff who must dig deep to solve a 40-year-old murder. What he doesn't count on is that the prime suspect is his late father, a legend in his tiny Texas border town.

• "Maybe, Maybe Not" (German - 1995). A young man fresh out of a relationship finds himself sought after by a gay friend in this German comedy. Starts Friday.

MICHIGAN THEATRE

606 Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call (313) 668-8397 for information. ($5; $4 students/seniors)

• "The Horseman on the Roof" (France - 1995). July 19 - 28 (call for showtimes). A romantic adventure set in 1832, based on the classic French novel by Jean Giono, about an officer and a woman who together face an unrelenting epidemic. Juliette Binoche ("Red") and Olivier Martinez star.

• "Carried Away" (USA - 1996). July 20 - 25. Dennis Hopper and Amy Irving play Midwestern schoolteachers who maintain a relationship of convenience until a seductive 17-year-old enters the picture.

STATE THEATRE

2115 Woodward, Detroit. Call (313) 961-5450 for information. ($1)

• "From Dusk Till Dawn" (USA - 1996) 9 p.m. July 22. Quentin Tarantino wrote and Robert Rodriguez directed this trashy, hilarious blend of crime, comedy, and horror. Tarantino also co-stars with "ER's" George Clooney as mad dog killers who kidnap a family and take them south of the border to a bar populated by vampires.

Drama: Victoria Foyt and Jon Robin Baitz star in "Last Summer in the Hamptons," a film by Henry Jaglom opening Friday at the Farmington Civic Theatre, 33332 Grand River, (on the corner of Farmington Road) Farmington. Show times 7 & 9:15 p.m. (evenings), 12:45 p.m., 2:45 p.m. and 4:45 p.m. (Sundays). All seats $1.50, (810) 474-1951. The film concerns three generations of a large and brilliant theatrical family spending the last weekend of their last summer together at the decades-old fmaily retreat which economic circumstances have finally forced them to put on the market.

Waterford Cinema opens Friday

On Friday, July 19, the new Waterford Cinema 11, on Highland Road (M-59) at Williams Lake Road, (810) 666-7900 will open its doors to the public.

New from the ground up, the theatre was build by MJR Theatres of Oak Park, operator of the Main Art Theatre, Chesterfield Crossing 12 and other theaters in the metro Detroit area and outstate Michigan.

The starting line-up of movies includes "Multiplicity," "The Frighteners," "Kazaam," "Harriet The Spy," "Courage Under Fire," "Independence Day," "Phenomenon," "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "Twister," and "The Rock." Coming attractions include, "A Time to Kill," "King Pin," and "Joe's Apartment."

The theaters have stadium seating, and eye-filling screens. Sound is state of the art with DTS, and Dolby Digital Stereo Sound to put viewers right into the middle of the action.

Another feature, unique to MJR theaters is the 6 by 12-foot lobby preview screen where movie preview trailers are shown on a continuous basis in a format that can easily be seen anywhere in the lobby.

The parking lot has been designed to allow traffic to enter from M-59 and will exit through the rear of the lot to North Oakland Blvd. which has a traffic light on M-59 to allow for safe and easy left and right turns.

Birmingham restaurants showcase local musicians during Jazzfest

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Jazz is on the menu at 12 Birmingham restaurants participating in Jazzfest Thursday, July 25 to Saturday, July 27.

"Jazzfest is a good event, it brings a lot of new faces to Birmingham," said Dennis Brinker, Birmingham Restaurant Collection chairman. "It's a great event, it brings lots of people to town. You hope you can get new faces, so you can make new friends, and get some new customers. People can sample lots of different restaurants, and get a feel for what downtown Birmingham has to offer," said Bill Roberts, who owns 220, Streetside Seafood, and Beverly Hills Grill.

Many restaurants will be offering food and drink specials to celebrate the three day event. Most will not be accepting reservations, patrons will be served first come, first served. The exceptions are Alban's, which is accepting reservations for parties of six or more, Elie's Cafe, Ocean Grille, Phoenicia, Old Woodward Grill for parties of 8 or more, and the Townsend Hotel.

Vocalist Sheila Landis, who was scheduled to perform at City Grill, which closed on July 2, found a spot at the last minute at Cook's Garden. She will be performing there with guitarist Rick Matle. They will perform a mix of old jazz standards, pop tunes, blues and songs from their recently released CD "Fine and Mellow."

Norman's Eton Street Station is featuring the Nikki Pearse Duo and Twin Tower.

"Our music is a mixture – we do a lot of jazz and old jazz standards. It's the good ole jazz, Ella Fitzgerald, Louie Armstrong," said Pearse who wrote and performed an original version of "Happy Birthday" for the 100th Birthday Celebration of the American Automobile in June at the Michigan State Fair, and is working on a new CD scheduled to be released this fall.

The Paul Vornhagen Group will be at 220. Vornhagen, an accomplished saxophonist, flutist and vocalist, played at the first Birmingham Jazzfest, and said he is delighted to be back.

Joining him at 220 are Chuck Shermetaro, keyboards, and Kenn Kellett, bass. "We'll play some of my own compositions, Duke Ellington, Charlie "Bird" Parker, Cole Porter, and Straight Ahead jazz standards," he said.

Midtown Cafe is featuring the Larry Nozero Quintet with Patti Richards on Thursday, July 25, Bess Bonnoir Duo, July 26 and Sunny Wilkinson Duo on July 27. Nozero and Richards will also present a concert 3:30-4:15 p.m. Saturday, July 27 in Shain Park.

Known for their unique blend of classical, Brazilian, Flamenco and jazz, husband and wife Michele Ramo and Heidi Hepler of Livonia will be at their regular weekend gig, Phoenicia, performing all three festival days.

You can get a taste of Jazzfest at their Brazilian Flamenco Jazz concert 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 18 at the Shain Park. In addition to Ramo, a composer and guitarist, and Hepler, vocalist/lyricist, the concert will feature "RamoNova" – Francesco Cavallini, guitar/mandolin, Ralphe Armstrong, bass, Larry Nozero, flute/alto sax, Dennis Sheridan, percussion, and Jamie Rusling, percussion. Rusling will join them for their Jazzfest performances.

Hepler and Ramo, who left his native Italy and symphony job has a violinist to come to the United States, met and began working together in 1994. They were married that same year, and have since produced a CD "Kiss My Head" of all original music. They are scheduled for performances in Europe this fall and will be on tour for three months.

Highly ranked

Chiefs' coach Don Smith was notified earlier this week that the team was ranked 17th in the final Umbro National High School Soccer Coaches Association poll.

It's the second time Canton has finished the season with a national ranking. The first was his girls' team in 1992, a team that lost in the state final to Rochester Adams.

3rd - that's a 1st

Lacrosse is hardly a premier sport in Michigan, but it is in the eastern states and in Canada. So when a team of 13-14 year olds band together to play in the Western New York Lacrosse Association's Great American Shootout in Buffalo, N.Y., it's almost assumed that the Michigan team presents a mere tune-up to the more experienced eastern players.

Guess again. Team Michigan, with Steve Fogoros of Plymouth in goal, turned in an impressive third-place finish at this year's tournament. It was the best performance ever at the tournament by a Michigan team. Steve Orzel served as team coach.

Sidekicks rule

The Plymouth Sidekicks, an under-10 boys soccer team, won their division title with a 7-1 record for the spring season. The Sidekicks recorded four shutouts, outscoring their opponents 23-5.

Track qualifier

Ian Bedford, a Plymouth Canton HS graduate now attending University of Detroit Mercy, qualified in the 2,000-meter steeplechase for the National Junior Olympic Track and Field by finishing second at the regional meet last weekend in Cleveland.

Bedford's time in the 2,000 steeplechase was 6:31.0. He also placed fourth in the 5,000-meters in 16:02.0.

Scholastic standout

Michelle Birchmeier, a Redford Thurston HS graduate, was named to the NAIA All-American scholar athlete team by maintaining a 3.63 cumulative grade-point average.

Birchmeier, a criminal justice major, graduated last May.

Soccer champions

The Farrand Foxes, an under-7 boys soccer team, finished first in their division at the fourth annual ABC Warehouse 3-v-3 Soccer Shootout last weekend in Birmingham.

More than 200 teams competed in all the age divisions in the tournament, in which three players per team are on the 20x30 yard playing field at once, with no keepers. Gam es last 24 minutes.

The Foxes were unbeaten in their six games, including an overtime shootout win in the semifinals and a 3-2 victory in the championship match. The Foxes outscored their opponents 30-12 in the tournament.

Team members, whom all attend Farrand Elementary in Plymouth Township, are Alex Lumley, Blaine Paden, Danny McLaughlin and Grant Blakey. The team is coached by Paul Lumley.

Twisters find field

The Wayne County Twisters semi-pro football team have finalized their stadium agreement. The non-profit organization will play five home games at the Downriver Community Center (formerly known as Schafer HS), starting at 8 p.m. Saturday, July 27, against the Clyde (Ohio) Panthers.

Other home games will be 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 3, against the North Coast Rebels (from Vermilion, Onio); 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 10, vs. the Toledo (Ohio) Tornadoes; 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 7, vs. the Motor City Cougars; and 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5, vs. the Findlay (Ohio) Lightning.

The six teams (including the Twisters) comprise the Lake Shore Football League, and are members of the American Football Association, which is made up of 300 teams and 14,000 players nationwide.

All league champions are eligible for the AFA national Tournament of Champions, which culminates in the AFA championship game in December.

Pursuing AN Olympic dream

STORY BY C.J. RISAK • STAFF WRITER

Come Saturday, the quest begins.

Once every four years, athletes are able to represent their country in the greatest sports spectacle on the globe - the Olympics. For many of those athletes, this will be the single opportunity in a four-year span for them to be near the center of the world's athletic stage.

Swimming is one of those sports.

On Saturday, those who tune in early for NBC's Olympic coverage will be able to see what it's like to pursue a once-every-four-years dream.

They'll be able to see it through the eyes of five swimmers who didn't make it.

The program, entitled "Watermark," is a local production that will air nationally on NBC at 2 p.m. EST. It was written by Char DeWolf, from Livonia, and produced by DeWolf and Sue Marx.

The 60-minute documentary examines the trials of the five swimmers, all members of the Livonia-Novi Spartan Aquatic Club, as they pursue their Olympic dream.

Four of the five are exceptional talents of local renown: Ron Orris, a Plymouth Salem and Michigan State University graduate; Scott DeWolf, from Livonia Stevenson and Texas A&M; Anne Aristeo, a senior-to-be this fall at Stevenson; and Matt Martin, a Westland John Glenn grad now at Stanford.

All have trained for the bulk of their swimming careers under Dave Segraves, head coach of the Spartan Aquatic Club.

Certainly the angle, focusing on five who didn't make it, is a unique one. But, as Orris says on camera, "(Segraves) taught me how to win, and, more important, how to fail."

Indeed, much of the program deals not with the incredible amounts of yardage the swimmers put in while training, but with handling the mental duress associated with it.

The initial spark for this program, according to Segraves, was ignited years ago, when producer Char DeWolf's son Scott started to excel in the pool.

"Char's been around swimming since her kids were young," he said. "She watched Scott's progress through the years and saw a remarkable transformation, and not just in her kids.

"But the story just sat there, and she thought it needed telling."

It is rather unique to find a single coach, such as Segraves, who has been associated with five Olympic-caliber swimmers for such a long period of time. Four of them qualified for the Olympic Trials; only Martin missed.

His disappointment is not glossed over in the film - not at all. Indeed, the producers use statistics from the start to hammer home the point referred to later by Orris, on handling failure. The film starts with:

"There are 250,000 competitive swimmers in the United States. Of those, 450 will qualify for the Olympic Trials. Of that number, only 44 will make the U.S. Olympic Team."

Long odds, for sure. The potential for disapppointment is great. Learning from it, and how to handle it, are part of Segraves' mission.

And Segraves explains how he works with them, helping them focus on their individual tasks. "This tells a story of about 500,000 swimmers just like them," he said.

His instructions to Aristeo, for example: "Don't ever let me see you cry in public again. Because every time you cry, someone sees a nick in your armor."

The film is full of such anecdotes and insights. "Watermark" starts with training sessions targeting the 1995 Senior Nationals last August in Pasadena, Calif. It was a final chance to make the Olympic Trials.

After that, it loosely follows the swimmers through countless training sessions, highlighting Segraves' psychological ploys and preparations. It concludes with the U.S. Olympic Trials last March in Indianapolis.

In the end, the film depicts what it takes to succeed in a sport like swimming - and then it redefines success.

Segraves certainly was happy with it: "It shows what they've become along the pathway to their dreams," he said of the program.

Surging Spartans take over conference lead

In a Metro Summer Hockey League game matching the top two teams in the Eagle Conference, the Broncos broke on top, then broke down.

Playing their second game in a three-games-in-three-days stretch, the Spartans answered the Broncos early score by netting the next five goals to record a 7-2 triumph Tuesday at Plymouth's Cultural Center.

Together with Wednesday's 9-5 victory over the Bulldogs at Plymouth, the three wins in as many nights catapulted the Spartans into first place, ahead of the Broncos.

Pat Dakhi's two goals and one assist and Brady Priest's two goals paced the Spartan win over the Broncos. Larry Leo and Phil Saunders each added a goal and an assist, and Kevin Haggarty scored a goal. Dane Esterline and Jake Wiegand had two assists apiece.

Darren Hands had a goal and an assist, and Mike Forbis had a goal, for the Broncos.

Against the Bulldogs Tuesday, Dakhi and Josh Wiegand each collected three goals to lead the Spartans. Tony Tuzzolino had a goal and two assists, Priest and Mike Schmidt each scored goals, and both Esterline and Leo posted two assists.

John Brodhun scored three for the Bulldogs. Jack McCoy had a goal and two assists, and Ben Blackwood had a goal and an assist.

Again, Ostig and Harrison split time in goal for the Spartans.

Wildcats 9, Huskies 4: Three goals in a 92-second span of the second period - two by Bobby Davis - boosted the Wildcats into the lead for good Tuesday at Plymouth.

Davis finished with three goals and an assist. Antoli Buliga contributed a goal and four assists, and Andy Weidenbach had two goals and two assists. Oleg Panasenko added a goal and an assist, Joe Bien and Chris Allman each had goals, and Kirk Gurney totaled two assists.

Brian Hannigan's two goals topped the Huskies. Dominic Catanzarite and Todd Kesler each chipped in goals, and Kevin Swider had two assists.

Falcons 11, Lakers 4: Big scoring games from Dan Hunt, Jesse Hubenschmidt and David Scott carried the Falcons to an important win over the Lakers Sunday at Plymouth.

The victory enabled the Bakes Conference-leading Falcons to widen the gap between themselves and the Lakers, who fell from second to third, behind the Wildcats.

Hunt led the Falcon attack with four goals and an assist, two of the goals helping the Falcons open a 4-0 lead. Scott added two goals and three assists, and Hubenschmidt (from Redford-Detroit Catholic Central HS) had a goal and four assists.

Brian Calka (Livonia Stevenson) had two goals and an assist, Mike Chaka had a goal and two assists, Troy Taylor had three assists, and Chris Chaka had a goal and an assist for the Falcons.

Spartans 8, Wolverines 3: A four-goal, second-period surge, the last two scored by Larry Leo, carried the Spartans to a victory over the Wolverines Sunday at Plymouth.

John Fontana added three goals and Jake Wiegand had four assists for the Spartans, who broke a 1-1 tie after one period to go ahead 5-2 after two. J.P. Grondin contributed three assists, Josh Wiegand had a goal and two assists, Pat Dakhi had a goal and an assist, and Phil Saunders had a goal for the winners.

Paul Goleniak had two goals and one assist and Scott Lock collected one goal and two assists for the Wolverines.

Wildcats 13, Bulldogs 3: Antoli Buliga's two goals and six assists, and Andy Weidenbach's four goals and three assists, was more than enough to carry the Wildcats past the outmanned Bulldogs Sunday at Plymouth.

Three of Weidenbach's goals came in the first two periods as the 'Cats opened up an 8-1 lead. Bobby Davis chipped in two goals and three assists, Nathan Arthurs had a goal and three assists, Oleg Panasenko had a goal and two assists, Grant Judd had three assists, Jody Serecky had two goals, and Brian Alent had a goal and an assist for the winners.

Mold romp past Panthers

Just about everyone got into the act Tuesday as the Motor City Mold swept a double-header from the Redford Union Panthers, 10-2 and 13-5, in Incredible Girls Fastpitch Softball League play.

Sarah Carson was the winning pitcher in the opener for the Mold, who are now 11-0 in the league and 14-2 overall. Carson allowed seven hits but no walks, striking out two.

Amber LaGrow had two hits and two runs batted in to lead the Mold offense. Tara Biro and Carrie Kovachevich each added two RBI, Karen Dougher and Kristin Witt scored two runs apiece, and Melanie Mikosz anchored the defense by throwing out two basestealers.

In the second game, Gretchen Hudson started and got the pitching win, allowing four runs on five hits and one walk, striking out three over three innings. Jenny Sikora relieved and worked the last two innings, surrendering one run on two hits and a walk, with three strikeouts.

Sikora and Sarah Frees each had two hits and two RBI to pace the offense. Amy LaGrow and Biro each added two hits and an RBI, Angela Litwin had two hits, Hudson had two RBI, and Liz Elsner had a run-scoring triple.

In other Incredible Girls Fastpitch Softball League play Tuesday, the Canton Commanders bested the Northville Bulldogs twice, 13-11 and 15-8. Krysta Tinsley was the winning pitcher in the first game, with Laura Stewart getting the pitching win in the second.

Angie Germain's three-run triple was the key blow in the opener.

The Livonia Lasers erupted for seven runs in their last at-bats Tuesday night to gain a 7-6 win and a sweep of a double-header over the Livonia Knights at Churchill High School.

The Lasers won the first game in exciting fashion as well, 11-10. That game lasted only three innings due to the time limit.

Lori Jendrusik and Randi Wolfe were the winning pitchers in games 1 and 2, respectively.

Five of the Lasers' eight hits in the second game came during their seventh-inning uprising. Wolfe helped her own cause with an RBI double. Tera Morrill had a two run single and Jessica Sabbadin also had an RBI.

Wolfe ended up scattering four hits and walking nine. She had three strikeouts.

CLUTCH PLAY
If a clutch does not engage firmly upon release, it is possible that the disc has worn out. This component contains friction material that works much in the way that a brake lining does. When the disc's friction material wears out, the clutch slips. Before a clutch replacement is decided upon however, it should be determined if a clutch adjustment is all that is necessary. On some cars, an incorrect adjustment may mimic a burned-out disc and a simple adjustment can return the clutch to normal working order. To see if an adjustment is necessary, depress the clutch pedal. The first inch or two of pedal travel, referred to as "free play," should come easily. After that, there should be some sudden resistance felt to the force applied to the pedal. Most clutch designs require free play, without which the clutch can slip.
Riding a clutch is one sure way to wear out this part quickly, often requiring a costly repair that careful driving could have avoided. At HOLIDAY CHEVROLET INC., satisfaction with your car's performance is what we deliver. Call us at 474-0500. We are conveniently located at 30250 Grand River. DCI can't gain on Hines

BASEBALL

Brian Kalczynski's hot bat continues to help Hines Park Lincoln Mercury stay in first place in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League season.

Kalczynski (Farmington/Birmingham Brother Rice/University of Michigan) hit a pair of home runs as Hines Park salvaged a split of a double-header Sunday against second-place Decision Consultants Inc. at Livonia's Ford Field.

DCI scored five runs in the sixth inning of the first game to win 6-2, before Hines Park regrouped to win the second game, 3-2.

Hines Park broke a 2-2 tie with a run in the bottom of the seventh to win the nightcap. Kalczynski went 3-for-4, including a solo homer, in the second game. It was the second game in three days that Kalczynski went 3-4.

The split was important because it left Hines Park with an 18-3-2 record, two games ahead of DCI with four remaining.

Hines Park plays third-place Little Caesars at 5:30 p.m. Friday night at Ford Field. Pierce predicts Hines Park needs at least three wins the rest of the way to earn a bid to Johnstown, Pa. for the All American Amateur Baseball Association national tournament.

Because only three teams remain in the LCBL, there is no post-season tournament and the regular-season champion gets the trip to Johnstown.

"No way are we a lock," Pierce said.

Joel Hillebrand (Madonna University) kept DCI's hopes of winning the regular season title alive with a four-hitter in the first game.

Kalczynski had two of those hits, including a solo homer in the third that gave Hines Park a brief 2-0 lead.

Hillebrand also surrendered a first-inning run as Chris Kirian (Eastern Michigan) singled to send Steve Hornsberger (Central Michigan) home from second base.

Kalczynski started the inning with a single and was out at second on Hornsberger's fielder's choice. Hornsberger reached second on a stolen base to give Kirian a runner in scoring position.

Pete Quinn (Redford Thurston/Madonna) and Jason Rice (Michigan State) had two hits each for DCI.

Rice's single scored Joel Fabris (Madonna) from second base to cut the deficit to 2-1 in the third inning. Fabris reached base with a single and went to second when Delano Voletti (Madonna) was hit by a pitch.

DCI batted around to score five in the sixth. Quinn and Rice highlighted the rally with two-run doubles.

Darric Terry was the pitcher of record, allowing six hits in his short stint.

Mark Fleming (Wayne State) was the winning pitcher in Game 2, allowing five hits with one walk and eight strikeouts in going the distance. He is 4-1 as a pitcheer.

Kalczynski led off the third with a solo homer and Hines Park added another run that inning with an RBI single by Chance Beam (St. Andrews College). Kirian scored after reaching base on an error and advancing to second base on a walk to Jeff Lance (Redford Thurston/Henry Ford).

DCI got a run back in the third after hits by Chris DeShetler and Fabris, a sacrifice by Eric Marcotte (Plymouth Canton/Madonna) and a sacrifice fly by Voletti.

DCI tied the score in the top of the seventh when Ryan Kelly tripled and came home on DeShetler's sacrifice fly.

Hines Park scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh. Kirian led off with a double and went to third on a single by Stacey McCollum. An intentional walk to Lance loaded the bases and Beam's ground ball got through the drawn-in infield for a single to score Kirian with the winning run.

Rumberger's bat boosts the Barons

With Central Michigan head coach Dean Kreiner looking on, Latra struck out 11 and walked four while going the distance in a 9-2 win over the Royal Oak Pride.

Latra, who helped his cause with a double and RBI, will be among the incoming recruits on scholarship at CMU next season.

The Barons, 6-3 in the Little Caesars Federation and 23-5 overall, needed a win to help their playoff prospects after being mercied 12-2 by the Adrian Lookouts on Monday, which followed a tournament loss Sunday.

"It was a good comeback after an absolutely horrible game last night," Barons coach Dick Miller said.

The Barons supported Latra's pitching with 13 hits, which included three apiece from Todd Miller and Garet Burch.

Mike Daguanno hit a grand slam during a seven-run second inning. Miller scored two runs and had two RBI. C.J. Ghannam and Daguanno had two hits each.

The Barons have hit 39 home runs this year. Daguanno leads the team with 10. Chris Karney has seven, Ryan Rumberger six, Garrett Smith four, Ryan Andrzejewski three and Latra two.

South Farmington swept through the Red Division of the Mayor's Invitational in Battle Creek last weekend only to lose in the championship game Sunday.

The Barons won all six games in round-robin play, including a 13-6 defeat of the Grosse Pointe Hornets, to finish in first place.

The tournament format called for South Farmington to play the runner-up Hornets (4-1-1) in the final, which resulted in a 3-2 defeat.

South Farmington errors contributed to all three runs for the Hornets, who trailed 2-0 going into the sixth inning and scored twice in the seventh to win it.

"We tried to turn two double plays in the last inning and missed both," Dick Miller said. "We should have been packed up and gone home (with the championship trophy). They were doable plays, and we didn't execute them.

"The loss wasn't disappointing. What was disappointing was having to play a team we had mercied and calling it a championship.

"We had a hard time getting up for it and didn't play well. We didn't have the intensity to play the way we're capable."

The loss fell to Andrzejewski in relief of starter Dave Viane, who pitched three scoreless innings.

Latra hit a solo homer and Daguanno an RBI single for South Farmington. Ghannam and Latra had two hits apiece.

Andrzejewski was the winner in the opener as the Barons started the tournament with a five-inning mercy of the Michigan Rams, 8-0.

Karney was 4-for-4 with two RBI, and one of Daguanno's two hits was a two-run homer.

Ryan McGrath contributed a two-run single, and Ghannam again had two hits and one RBI.

Karney hit his third leadoff homer of the season and was the winning pitcher in relief as the Barons outslugged Okemos 12-8 in the next game.

Daguanno was 3-for-4 with two RBI; Latra had two hits, including a home run, and three RBI; Rumberger belted a two-run triple; Marty Wilk and Karney added two hits each.

Rumberger's two-run homer in the bottom of the seventh gave South Farmington a 3-1 win over Albion. Daguanno drove in the other run with a single.

In the win over the Hornets, Ghannam went 4-for-4 and Latra hit a bases-loaded triple. Daguanno, Wilson and Andrzejewski were 2-for-4.

Ghannam and Daguanno scored three runs apiece; Andrzejewski and Viane collected two RBI each; Wilson scored twice and had one RBI.

Rumberger was the star of the next game, going 3-for-4 with six RBI in a 10-9 win over FX Coughlin from the East Side.

His two-run homer trimmed a seven-run deficit to 8-3 in the fifth, and he crushed a grand slam to put the Barons ahead 9-8 during a six-run sixth. Both balls cleared the 401-foot fence in center field.

Karney was 3-for-5 with two RBI, and Miller and Garet Burch drove in the other runs.

Andrzejewski entered with his team down 8-1 and worked 3 1/3 innings of one-hit, scoreless relief for his second win. Karney pitched the last two innings to earn a save.

Karney was 4-for-5, scored two runs and had two RBI. Andrzejewski had two hits, including a home run, and three RBI.

Rumberger hit his third straight homer, a three-run blast this time, in as many at-bats. Burch chipped in two hits and two RBI.

4 Finesse teams gain national tournament berths

Look out, Rock Hill, S.C.

That's the next destination for the Finesse girls softball program, which completed a clean sweep at last weekend's state tournament.

Finesse's 18, 16, 14 and 12-under teams won state tournaments. Finesse doesn't have a 10-under team, which helps explain why it didn't win that state tournament.

SOFTBALL

The 14-under team won its fourth-straight state tournament last weekend at Rotunda Field in Dearborn.

Finesse beat Clinton Valley, 6-3, in the championship game of the state tournament after winning the semifinal game over the same team, 8-4.

Finesse had an easier time in games 1 and 2, beating Garden City 17-0 and Interlakes Flames 18-7, respectively.

The perfect record ran Finesse's overall mark to 30-7.

Rachel Sundberg led Finesse with a .750 batting average (9-for-12, with one home run, two doubles and five RBI).

Katie King hit .667 (8-12, three homers, and a team-high 10 RBI and nine runs scored), while Samantha Crews batted .500 (6-12).

Other team members included Jillian Davies, Sarah Lewis, Kim Dombrowski, Karlene Kilburn, Erin Pickens, Amy Paling, Sara Masterson, Taryn McCloud, Jillian Minjoe, Ashley Julien, Andrea Spencer, Julie Stoll, Tracy Hudson, Angela Bako, Danielle Dickinson and Jackie Migliore.

"We had beat them (Clinton Valley) in the Canton tournament, improving every week," coach Bob Bako said. "We truly believed we were going to win it. On Saturday it was our offense, we stung the ball pretty good. We caught the ball really well, made a lot of nice plays on Sunday. Early in the season, we scored some runs, turned around and gave stuff back to them. There was not a lot of concentration, pop ups with no communication. We tried to get them to communicate more and it seemed to pay off."

The 16-under team beat the Mid-American Mustangs twice (11-1 and 4-1) and the Slammers of Walled Lake (15-0) to win its state tournament.

Stefanie Volpe (Plymouth Salem) led Finesse with a .600 average (6-10) with six RBI. Kristen Zabalavicius also drove in six runs while hitting .286 (2-7).

Anti-hunting proposal will be on ballot

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

The anti-hunting campaign is moving forward. The Michigan-based anti-hunting group Citizens United for Bear (CUB), with financial support from the national anti-hunting organizations the Fund For Animals and the Humane Society of the United States, made good with its threat to pay for enough signatures to put an anti-hunting proposal on the November election. CUB collected nearly 350,000 signatures, 100,000 more than required by law, so even if some are ruled invalid there should be plenty of signatures to satisfy the State Board of Canvassers and bring the proposal to a public vote.

Bear hunters have been convinced for a couple of years now that this threat to end bear hunting as we know it is real. CUB states it isn't coming after bear hunting, just a couple "unethical" methods used by hunters to pursue bear. But take away the use of dogs and bait, the way 96-percent of the bears are taken in this state, and you have essentially killed bear hunting in Michigan. Other methods such as glassing or driving simply won't be effective here with the enormous tracts of swamps and woodlands in the Upper Peninsula where the majority of Michigan's bear population resides.

Double jeopardy

Bear hunters have said this initiative would eventually affect all hunting but many sportsmen have doubted that claim. Unfortunately, that fact is becoming clearer as election day draws nearer. Archery deer hunters, raccoon hunters and bobcat hunters could well suffer from the trickle-down effects of this so called "bear hunting" issue.

"If this thing passes the DNR will still have to try to manage the resource," said Ron Lundberg, executive director of Citizens for Professional Wildlife Management, a coalition of sportsmen groups formed by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs to fight the anti-hunting campaign. "The thing is, the language of the proposal says you can't hunt bears when it's legal to hunt deer over bait and you can't hunt bears when its legal to hunt bobcats and raccoons with dogs. It could have an effect on these other seasons because you'll have to hunt bear sometime."

The ballot proposal calls for no bear hunting from March 1-August 31 and no bear hunting during deer, raccoon or bobcat season if the seasons allow the use of dogs or bait.

Last year's Michigan bear season ran Sept. 10-Oct. 26. With the use of dogs and bait 5,652 licensed Michigan bear hunters harvested 1,458 black bears during that 47-day season. That's a success rate of just 26 percent, despite the use of dogs and bait.

Reduced seasons?

Michigan's archery deer season, in which baiting is a legal practice, runs Oct. 1-Jan. 1, while our raccoon season, in which the use of dogs is legal, runs Oct. 1-Jan. 31. Since black bears hibernate in Michigan from November through March, with the proposal language submitted, the only possible bear season would be Sept. 1-30.

"That puts the DNR in a situation where they would only have a 30-day bear season in September, or they would have to take something away from the coon or deer hunters," explained Bloomfield Hills resident Bill Walker, executive director of the Michigan Sportsmen's Defense Alliance and a board member of the Michigan Bear Hunters Association. "In September there is full foliage in the woods and the visibility is very poor. I think the DNR would be faced with a situation where they wouldn't even come close to killing the desired number of bear needed to keep the population under control. They very well could be faced with a situation where they would have to extend the bear season and take something away from another season."

CUB, which was formed by a disgruntled part-time Michigan resident because he had a problem with trespassing, is financially supported with money from out-of-state anti-hunting organizations. CUB claims this attack isn't an attempt to end bear hunting, only the unfair practices of using bait and dogs. CUB says it wants to protect bears and keep bear cubs from being orphaned.

Getting to the truth

CUB doesn't explain that despite these "unfair" practices more than 74-percent of Michigan's bear hunters return home empty handed each year. CUB doesn't explain that the bear population is healthy and thriving with upwards of 10,000 animals, or that bear cubs and sows with cubs are protected by law in Michigan. CUB also doesn't explain that with the use of dogs and bait, hunters can get a good look at their quarry before deciding if they want to harvest that particular animal or not. When using bait and dogs, the hunter knows the size of the bear, if it's alone or raising cubs.

Take away these techniques and because of the reclusive nature of bears those hunters who are fortunate enough to catch a glimpse of a bear will only have a split second to decide if they are going to shoot or not. There will be no opportunity to make a wise decision, just a quick snap judgment.

Support the sport

I urge all hunters to become pro-active. The days of sitting back quietly and waiting for opening day to arrive are gone. The days of spending all our extra money on hunting trips and new equipment are gone. We must take an active role in spreading the truth about hunting and professional game management to our non-hunting friends and relatives. We must make allowances to financially support the pro-hunting campaign and the effort to derail this misguided ballot initiative. We must make a stand against the anti-hunting forces that want nothing more than to force their views and on all Americans.

Anglers and hunters are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI. 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-2573.

Wildlife group closer to $1.7 million goal

BY BILL PARKER
STAFF WRITER

Sportsmen's dollars are rolling in, but the goal is still not within reach.

Citizens for Professional Wildlife Management _ a coalition of sportsmen groups formed by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs to oppose the initiative _ is moving closer to meeting its financial goal of $1.7 million.

That's the amount needed if hunters are to have any chance of convincing the non-hunting public _ the 85-percent of the population which will undoubtedly decide the ballot initiative to outlaw the use of bait and hounds to hunt bear _ that professional wild game management is far better for the good of the entire resource than emotional, individual agendas perpetrated by the anti-hunting forces.

"I'm starting to believe we're going to meet our goal," said Ron Lundberg, executive director of CPWM. "We just got our first $100,000 check from the cabin raffle, AMO (Archery Manufacturers Organization) committed $100,000, the Michigan Sportsmen's Defense Alliance has pledged $200,000 and the Southeast Michigan Bow Hunters Chapter of Safari Club International has given $40,000. We've got commitments of close to $1 million right now."

To reach the goal of $1.7 million, however, more in-state fund-raising is needed and several fund-raising events are scheduled in the near future:

- Southeastern Michigan Bowhunters Chapter of Safari Club International and MUCC are holding a Sportsmen's Fund-Raiser Banquet beginning at 5 p.m. Tuesday, August 27, at Laurel Manor in Livonia.

Tickets are $50 each and include an open bar, dinner and a specialty auction of bows, guns, hunting equipment, wildlife art, fishing and hunting trips, TVs, VCRs and more.

There will also be a silent auction, raffles and numerous sports, TV and press celebrities will be in attendance. For tickets and more information call Neal Easterbrook of Safari Club International at (810) 585-7029 or MUCC at (517) 371-1041.

Donations are still being accepted for additional raffle and auction items.

- Tickets are still available for the Upper Peninsula Sportsmen's Alliance's Protect Your Heritage Raffle featuring a grand prize of a log cabin on 40 acres of land in the UP.

In all there are 18 prizes ranging from guns, bows and hunting equipment to fishing charters and savings bonds.

Tickets are $5 each and available at sporting goods stores, bait shops and from sportsmen and hunting groups throughout the state.

Call Jim Dabb at (906) 542-3473 for tickets and more information. The drawing will take place on Sept. 27.

CITY OF PLYMOUTH
ORDINANCE NO. 96-4

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 5.196(j) IN THE SCHEDULE OF PARKING REGULATIONS, IN THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH, FOR THE PURPOSE OF MODIFYING THE PARKING REQUIREMENTS FOR RESTAURANTS THROUGH DECEMBER 31, 1996.

The City of Plymouth ordains:

Section 1. Section 5.196(j) in the Schedule of Parking Regulations, in the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Plymouth, is hereby amended to read as follows:

(j)	Establishment for sale and consumption on the premises of beverages, food and refreshments	Outside of the Downtown Development District: One (1) for each seventy-five (75) square feet of usable floor area or one (1) for each three (3) persons allowed within the maximum occupancy load as established by local, county or state fire, building or health codes, whichever is the greater. Within the Downtown Development District: Effective May 1, 1994: one (1) for each one hundred fifty (150) square feet of usable floor space; and effective January 1, 1997: one (1) for each seventy-five (75) square feet of usable floor area or one (1) for each three (3) persons allowed within the maximum occupancy load as established by local, county or state fire, building or health codes, whichever is the greater.

Section 2. Rights and duties which have matured, penalties which have incurred, proceedings which have begun and prosecution for violations of law occurring before the effective date of this ordinance are not affected or abated by this ordinance.

Section 3. Should any section, clause or paragraph of this ordinance be declared by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, the same will not affect the validity of the ordinance as a whole or part thereof other than the part declared invalid.

Section 4. All other ordinances inconsistent with the provisions of this ordinance are to the extent of such inconsistencies hereby repealed.

Continental speeds upgrades

Due to overwhelming response from customers in the rebuilt portions of its Michigan cable network, Continental Cablevision's plan for further deployment of its advanced telecommunications infrastructure has been accelerated.

Similar to Continental's newly rebuilt cable systems now serving Lansing and Canton, customers in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties will have the benefit of the latest in technology.

A complete rebuild of Continental's entire network is expected to be completed by the end of 1997.

Public response to the new channels which are being made available in upgraded areas has been very enthusiastic and Continental has received a large number of inquiries as to when the same services will be available in other communities.

"Over the years, as we built and continuously expanded our systems to roughtly a 60 channel capacity, people wondered what they would do with that many channels," said Bill Black, Continental's director of corporate affairs.

"Well, that view by customers has changed; they are eager for more," he said. "So, with all of available now, and with our plans to deliver residential telephone service and high speed Internet access, we want our customers to have the utmost in quality, reliability and services as soon as possible."

In Canton, for instance, Continental's offerings include The History Channel, ESPN2, The Golf Channel, the Sci-Fi channel, Nickelodeon's TV Land, Black Entertainment Television, the unique cultural and film network Bravo, the Cartoon Network, Turner Classic Movies, fX, Country Music Television, Court TV, the College Cable Channel, NewsTalk, and much more.

In addition, customers there can choose from a large variety of new premium channels, selveral pay-per-view services, the SEGA channel and even an interactive program guide.

The timeline for completion of each community's portion of the project varies, but all phases are in varios stages of planning, design and construction. Completion of the entire project is expected by the end of 1997.

Many factors effect the timing, but several areas will see the changes before the end of 1996, as the upgraded network is activated a neighborhood at a time. Continental crews will notify residents two to three days in advance of the start of the work

Canton native sees the world as Navy boatswain's mate

The U.S. Navy deploys its ships and sailors oversees throughout the year to protect America's interests abroad and help maintain peace around the world.

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Jason J. Demink, the 22-year-old son of Gary and Cindy Demink, knows what it's like to be on the nation's front line of defense. Demink, assigned to the guided-missile frigate USS Ford, recently returned to his homeport of Bremerton, Wash. from a six-month overseas deployment that took him to the Middle East and back.

Demink, a boatswain's mate, supervises the maintenance of all the ship's surfaces and deck equipment and operates the small auxiliary boats carried by the ship.

Capable of reaching speeds in excess of 30 knots, the Ford's powerful gas-turbine engines and state-of-the-art combat system, a computer operated command-and-control system, make the 4,100-ton ship one of the U.S. Navy's most formidable warships.

Using a combination of missiles, torpedoes and rapid-fire guns, the 450-foot long frigage provides anti-submarine, anti-air and anti-surface protection for battle groups, amphibious task forces and military and merchant shipping. It is also capable of search and rescue, counter-narcotics operations and surveillance.

The Ford deployed as a part of the aircraft carrier USS Nimitz' battle group. The battle group took an active role in keeping a watchful eye on activities in the western Pacific.

The battle group was sent to the South China Sea region from the Arabian Gulf to monitor the recent Chinese military exercises conducted in the Taiwan Strait.

Demink and the Ford demonstrated their flexibility by traveling more than 4,000 miles from the Arabian Gulf to the South China Sea in less than a week. The ability to quickly project a powerful and stabilizing presence in any corner of the globe is a crucial part of naval operations.

Traveling the world on a high-tech and capable ship like the Ford has been an exciting experience for Demink.

"I picked the Ford. I couldn't wait to get to this ship from my last duty station," Demink said.

"The Navy shows you what you take for granted and when you visit another port it's like a whole new world," said Demink, a three-year Navy veteran.

Plymouth man is PR president

The Greater Detroit Public Relations Counselors elected long-time Plymouth resident Alan D. Stuart as president for the 1996-97 term.

Other officers elected are vice-president, Seth Lampe, of Wolverine Lake; treasurer, Tom McPhail, of Livonia and secretary, Helen Balmer, of Bloomfield Hills.

Dietitians dish out healthy choices at market

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

An ugly thought for the day: What would a dietitian say after looking into your grocery cart?

Gasp.

Two new programs offered by Botsford Hospital in Farmington Hills and Oakwood Healthcare System in Dearborn give healthy shopping tips to consumers by walking them through a supermarket and helping to make wise food choices.

"One of the biggest problems is they're not organized," said Gale Cox, a dietitian from Botsford.

Besides from getting clients to provide a tell-all food diary to get an idea of their eating habits, one of the first things she does is to help the shoppers get organized. A grocery list is essential. It also helps to include on the list the recipes that are planned for the week "so you don't go home from the grocery store realizing you bought way too much and you're still one ingredient short," said Cox.

As a society we are inundated with information on fat content and cholesterol levels, but Cox sees a new trend in healthy eating topics emerge: Nutrient-quality food. It's back to the basics for a generation of people who spend most their shopping experience in the frozen food section.

Although looking at the fat content on food labels is important, it is just as crucial to look at the nutrient quality in foods, such as zinc and magnesium.

"Seventy percent of the food sold in grocery stores is not healthy. The micro-nutrients striped from (packaged and processed) food are going to end up causing a lot of problems to our health — problems that we don't even know exist today," she said.

Look at the product's ingredients and stay away from "hydrogenated-anything," Cox said. It creates trans fatty acid, which acts as a saturated fat. Trans fatty acids also aren't listed with the nutrition facts on the food label. (Total fats should only represent 10 percent of the product's calories.)

Look for natural ingredients. If you don't know what it is, chances are its not a healthy food choice.

More grains and vegetable-based meals is the trick to healthy eating, said Cox. Grains include bread, cereal, rice and pasta. As far as bread is concerned, it may say wheat on the package, but if the ingredients include "enriched flour," its basically white bread. Wheat bread will feel heavy when picked up.

Find cereals that are as low in sugar as possible, whether natural or refined. Most cereals, especially the ones children like, are basically chopped up cookies, Cox said. Tip: Add granola on top of cereals for more flavor — and nutrients.

As health experts have said, eat pasta, pasta and more pasta. However, don't be fooled by packages of frozen pasta starters, which look like a healthy food choice, but are very high in calories, she said.

Cox offered several tips for making vegetables easier to swallow. Despite carrots and other vegetables being packaged in easy to eat slices for snacking, they're not very tasty, Cox said. Add them to a meal, such as coin-sliced carrots or peas to a macaroni and cheese dish or green peppers, onions and celery to spaghetti sauce.

Be brave and try new vegetables, such as soybean products. Tofu is rich in protein and can be added to stir fry meals. Cox also suggests soy milk, such as Vanilla Edensoy Extra. Middle Eastern dishes made from chick peas, such as baba ghannouj and hummos, are also good for you and tasty as well.

Dark green vegetables are loaded in calcium, especially, Kale, a loose, flat leafed cabbage, she said. Kale typically is seen decorating most salad bars, although it's the most nutritious item there, Cox said.

Good mid morning and mid afternoon snacks are fruits, whether bought fresh, pre-sliced in containers, or canned,

Other types of snacks, cookies and chips, can be found fat free or reduced fat. Archway's, Entenmann's and Nabisco are just a few brand names that make fat free cookies. Size up reduced fat cookies, though, Cox said. The package may say only two grams of fat per cookie, but the cookies may be small compared to others.

Remember that the nutrition facts on the food label for chips and other munchies are based on one serving, which typically amounts to about 10 chips. If a person can eat 10 chips and put the bag away for the day, go ahead and buy the regular brand, Cox said. If not, stick to the fat free or reduced fat products.

Botsford offers individual supermarket tours with a dietitian by appointment. Cost is $35 for one hour. For more information call Botsford's Health Development Network at (810) 477-6100. Oakwood is offering a supermarket nutrition class to be held from 7-8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 23 at Farmer Jack, 43403 Joy Road, in Canton. Pre-registration is required. Cost is $10. Call 1-800-543-WELL.

EARNS RECOGNITION, AWARD

Kenneth Maiese, M.D., a Wayne State University biomedical researcher, was one of three individuals in the country selected to receive a $225,000 Focused Giving Award from Johnson & Johnson to further studies in neurodegenerative disease therapy. Dr. Maiese, associate professor of neurology and molecular medicine/genetics at WSU's School of Medicine, is considered to be a pioneer in the research that has led to the understanding of the role of nitric oxide in cell death. He currently heads a research team in the investigation of cellular and molecular mechanisms that led to neuronal cell death. Specifically, they are looking for ways to regulate harmful cellular reactions which cause brain damage from stroke, the leading cause of disability among adults. By preserving cells after a stroke occurs, patients may be spared from post-stroke effects as paralysis, aphasia (the inability to speak), memory problems and emotional disorders. Dr. Maiese is a resident of Birmingham.

NEW HOMES

Adams Oaks is fairly close to everything

Adams Oaks offers buyers the opportunity to get into a mid-size sub off a less-traveled major road but close to freeways and attractions in downtown Birmingham, Rochester and the Somerset Collection in Troy.

Fifty-one lots are available off Adams between South Boulevard and Auburn Road in Rochester Hills.

Cousins Vince Sclafani of Vincent Homes and Perry DiMaggio, Towne & Country Homes, offer seven floor plans, each with four exterior elevations. They build on a rotation basis.

"We're offering price, quality and unique design, variation of design, from traditional Michigan colonial to split levels," DiMaggio said. "We'll customize. We try to please people as much as we can."

"We try to incorporate some of the amenities of larger homes into smaller homes," Sclafani said. "What we're offering is a variety. We give a cathedral ceiling in each house. I like plant shelves. That's why you'll see them in most of my homes."

"We have a variety of lots," DiMaggio said. "You can get walk-outs, tree lots. There's pond lots."

Prices range from $222,900 for a 1,900-square-foot ranch with three bedrooms or two bedrooms with den and 2-1/2 baths to $248,900 for a colonial of 3,050 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

A fireplace, two-car garage, first-floor laundry, dishwasher and range, oak flooring and basement are included as standard amenities in all floor plans.

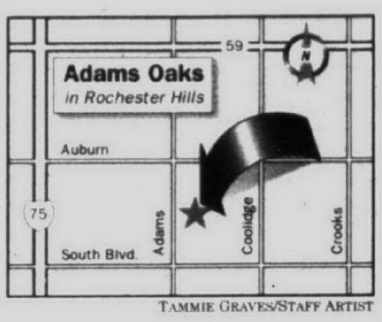
Most lots carry a premium charge that ranges from $3,000 to $25,000.

"My opinion is you're probably going to have a combination of probably 25 percent transferee relocation in close proximity to Chrysler, Kmart and Pontiac Motors," said Tom Hochevar, sales coordinator.



TAMMIE GRAVES/STAFF ARTIST

"Twenty-five percent will be empty-nesters downsizing from large, stately homes in nearby communities and 50 percent young, growing families, middle management, young professionals."

The big draws?

"Close freeway access to I-75 and M-59," Hochevar said. "Adams Road is really an attractive street to be located off."

"It's still thought of as a country road," Sclafani said. "There's very little commercial. It's a scenic, pleasant road to use."

"The second key is we have a 51-lot development," Hochevar said. "It's a small, intimate development. You don't have to give people a road map to show where you live."

Two models have been completed, one is nearly finished, and a fourth is under way.

The Brookwood, a 2,550-square-foot colonial, features a two-story foyer, great room, dining room, kitchen/nook with island, and a room that can be used as a living room, computer room, den or media room on the main floor.

Four bedrooms and two baths are upstairs.

The master has double entry doors, cathedral ceiling, separate tub and shower, two walk-in closets and vanity.

Each of the other three bedrooms also has a walk-in closet.

The other finished model, the Bayberry, also is a colonial of 2,700 square feet.

This model has a sloped ceiling and palladian window in the great room, a dining room, library, and kitchen/nook on the first floor.

Four bedrooms, including the master, and two baths, are upstairs.

The property tax rate currently is $32.14 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $232,000 house in the subdivision would pay about $3,730 the first year.

Vijay and Sunita Kaul ordered a Bayberry.

"It has a beautiful great room, and it has a bridge on top where you can see both the entrance and anyone sitting in the great room," Vijay said.

And the subdivision, itself?

"Location was really good," he said. "It's really close to I-75 and M-59. It's a really peaceful neighborhood. There are a lot of trees around."

"We like staying in Rochester," Debra said. "It's a small, conveniently located subdivision. We think it's going to be pretty quiet back there."

Tips for dye-staining wicker and wood

- Protect work area with old newspapers to avoid a messy cleanup.
- Before applying dye, strip all paint, varnish or wax from furniture. Also, remove dirt or grease from furniture surface with a warm, sudsy cloth, then rinse and dry.
- Dissolve Rit powder in one pint of simmering (not boiling) water in a saucepan on your stove. With liquid dye, combine equal parts dye and water, then bring to a simmer.
- Test the color, using a paintbrush or sponge, on the underside of the item and allow to dry. For lighter color, add more hot water.
- Apply warm dye solution to surface with a paintbrush or sponge, using even strokes.
- For smaller projects, mix the dye solution in a sink or tub and dip items directly into the dye bath.Rinse in cool water and dry on paper towels or rags, away from direct sunlight.
- To protect and seal in color, coat with polyurethane finish, clear varnish or shellac.
- Clean containers and sinks immediately after dyeing by scrubbing with hot water and powdered cleanser or bleach.

Lake Michigan provides backdrop for HarborSide Village

Two-story great rooms with cathedral ceilings, decorative bay windows and wood decks overlooking a 90-slip marina and nearby Lake Michigan are just some of the features Harbor Village introduces with its new HarborSide East models.

Three new product lines will be introduced this year in Harbor Village, a quaint, Victorian-themed community where the Manistee River flows into Lake Michigan.

"What makes these plans special is their design flexibility," said Bruce H. Blomgren, Harbor Village developer. "Buyers have all sorts of options and opportunities to make them fit their individual lifestyles and housing needs."

■ HarborSide East ultimately will encompass 38 homes in 19 buildings.

Plans range from a single-story two-bedroom, two-bath unit of 1,084 square feet to a two-story, three-bath unit of 1,734 square feet that can accomodate anywhere from two to four bedrooms.

"In our largest plan, buyers can opt to convert a first floor den to a master bedroom including a loft overlooking the great room, or convert that space to create a third bedroom," Blomgren said. "They also opt to include a fourth bedroom over the garage."

A second two-story plan, one bedroom, 1-1/2 bath with den, has 1,413 square feet of living space. It features a covered and columned front porch, angled staircase, formal dining room with bay window overlooking the marina and a first floor den that can serve as a second bedroom.

Of the more than 300 residences planned for Harbor Village, 70 have been completed or are in various stages of construction.

Other product includes BrookHarbor condominiums from $89,900; the Cottages, single-family site condos from $149,900; HarborSide West attached condos from $183,500; and the Dunes, lakefront single-family homesites from $109,000.

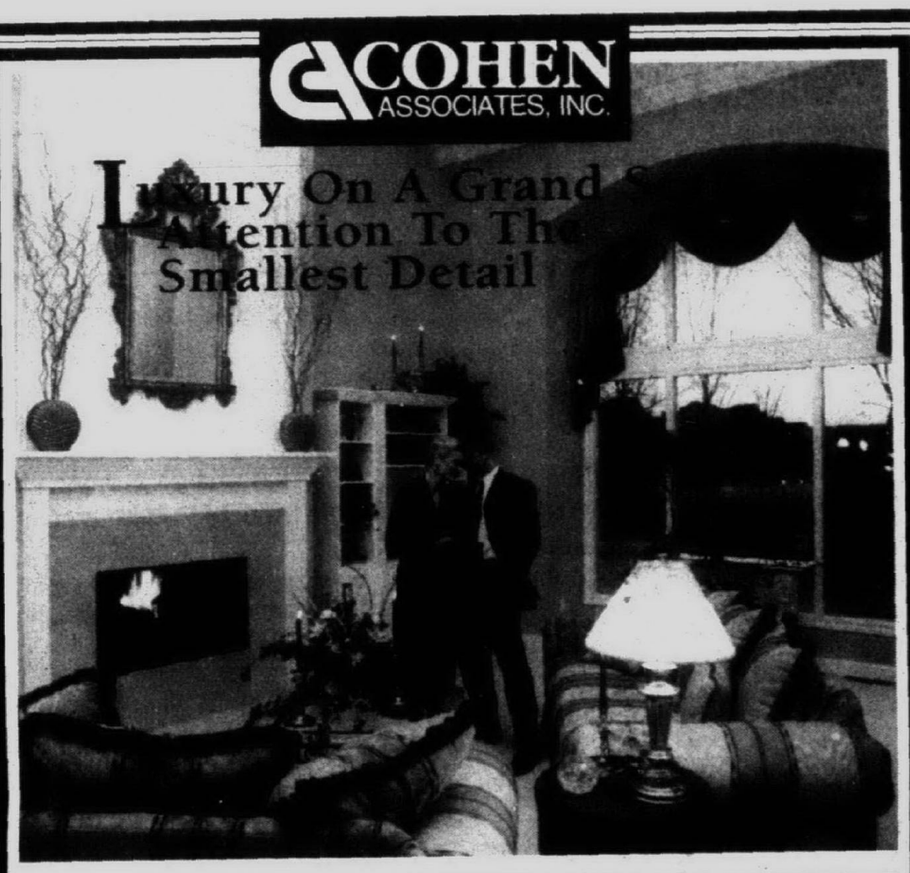
Luxury On A Grand Scale
Attention To The Smallest Detail



Dimensions: 54.0 by 68.0 feet

Living Room: 1,469 square feet

Nearly empty nesters should like this smallelr-than-average house

Lofty brick columns flank the high, gabled entry way of the Charismatic, giving a stately and spacious feel to a contemporary house that is actually on the small side. The brick facade and cultured stone sill on the front window positively exude solidity and permanence. While the arched garage doors and window, as well as the round window, add grace.

Designed primarily with empty, or nearly empty, nesters in mind , the house is compact and easy to care for. Once inside, there are no difficult flights of steps to negotiate, and, if desired, the entry steps could be replaced by a gently sloping walkway.

Inside, the sense of spaciousness carries over dramatically. Windows, which arch over and around the front door, flood the one-and-one-half story, vaulted entry area with warm, natural light. More windows form most of one wall of the wide, open great room, which combines the kitchen, dining and living areas. Had the designer walled each room separately, following the traditional norm, this house wouldn't be nearly so inviting.

A covered deck,, accessed from the great room by sliding glass doors, invites outdoor living when the weather is mild. The master suite also opens onto the deck.

And the placement of the sink and dishwasher in the eating bar ensures that those doing clean-up tasks need not be cut off from activities or discussions going on elsewhere in the room. Ample storage is available in cupboards and pantry.

For increased privacy, the master suite is located on the opposite side of the family living area from the other two bedrooms. Each sleeping area has its own bathroom.

A utility room is tucked between the garage and bedrooms. Those who like to sew will quickly realize that the light by the window makes it a perfect place for a sewing machine.

For a study kit of the Charismatic (335-041), send $10 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-OE48. Eugene OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number.) For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular house pans, send $20 to Landmark, or call 1-800-562-1151.

Number of building permits puts state in top 10

Michigan ranks eighth among the states and metro Detroit 11th among major population centers for number of residential building permits projected to be issued this year.

U.S. Housing Markets, a tracking serviced based in Canton, estimates that permits for 50,500 houses, condominiums and apartment units will be issued in the state this year, an increase of nearly 7 percent from 1995.

Florida ranks first with 124,000 units projected. Michigan is expected to rank just behind Illinois, 51,500 units, and just ahead of Colorado, 49,200.

Builders in metro Detroit, which includes Oakland and Wayne counties, are expected to acquire permits for 18,800 units this year, an increase of 4 percent.

Through May, total permits nationally ran 15 percent ahead of the 1995 pace, U.S. Housing Markets reported. The annual projection is 1.4 million units, which would be the highest since 1988.

"Unanticipated events, either domestic or international, can bring new influences to bear on builders' planning and scheduling," Bragg reported.

"Weather developments, legislative and regulatory concerns, interest rate fluctuations, shifts in major industries affecting local economies – all of these can quickly change the direction of homebuying and homebuilding.

"Last year, for example, we projected a decline of about 8 percent in total U.S. permits, partly because of the very wet weather early in the year," Bragg stated.

Perception of the local economy and job security are the key factors influencing buyers of new houses.

"Las Vegas permit offices probably will issue some 33,000 residential building tickets this year, smashing the market's 1995 record of 29,545 by about 13 percent," Bragg reported.

"That's what job growth of 8-10 percent will do for a metro area – with a little sunshine and desert air."

Top five housing trends for the summer of '96

As house building becomes more sophisticated, so do the features and designs incorporated into new houses. House-buyers are asking contractors to include everything from fireplaces in the kitchen to computers that run the entire house from a single control.

"Because of the endless options available to new home builders, people can expand the uses they have for their homes," said Kristina Tibbits, communications director for the Michigan Association of Home Builders. "The home is not a place to just eat and sleep any more. It has become the office, the gym and the theater."

The Michigan Association of Home Builders has identified some of this summer's most popular building trends. The top five trends are:

■ Larger kitchens. The kitchen has become a social area and people want more space for seating along with special amenities like fireplaces.

"The kitchen is a natural gathering place," said Randy Smith, president of the National Association of Home Builders. "It's not just about cooking. Extra counter space and walk-in pantries all help to make the kitchen a more comfortable place for families to gather and talk."

Contractors are now building communities around horse stables, canals and lakes or golf courses, making it easier for people to pursue their hobbies. "With these communities, the residents can have their relaxation without all the travel," Tibbits said. "It also creates a sense of community, since people living in the neighborhood enjoy the same activities."

■ Houses designed with space for offices and dens. Modems, faxes and other technologies have all contributed to more work being done at home.

"Technology has made it easy to work from the comforts of home, and people are taking advantage of it," Tibbits said.

■ Requests for "smart homes" are increasing. These houses have a computer managing a variety of systems, from security and lighting to kitchen gadgets.

"With a smart home you can set the computer for an 'Awake mode' where certain things will happen every morning: turn up the heat, turn on the lights, start the coffee, change the security system, etc.," said Susan Ritter, director of marketing for SMART HOUSE, L.P. Other house "modes" are: asleep, unoccupied and vacation, among others.

"People are thinking ahead to their older years," said Smith. "We are seeing a lot of barrier-free houses, where the door handles could be opened by someone with arthritis, or a wheelchair ramp up the back steps. Homes are also being built with extra rooms and baths in the back or over the garage for multi-generational families."

The Michigan Association of Home Builders is comprised of more than 10,500 member companies, providing service to more than 400,000 people in the house building/construction industry. The Michigan Association of Home Builders represents 36 local associations.

Government is trying to automate home loans

By David C. Mully
Special Writer

I recently received a press release that should be of interest to potential FHA home buyers. Here's some of the information on a new program.

The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and Freddie Mac will begin a six-month pilot program using an FHA-specific version of Freddie Mac Loan Prospector® to automate the underwriting of FHA loans. The cooperative effort is aimed at studying how automated underwriting technology can help expand markets to more creditworthy buyers; making the origination of FHA loans efficient and affordable; and, ensuring that the use of automated underwriting technology will not adversely affect borrowers served by FHA.

"This pilot represents the National Partners in Homeownership at their best," said Henry G. Cisneros, Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"Pooling the resources of the private sector with those of government, we are striving to increase the nation's home ownership rate to its highest level ever, This pilot brings together Freddie Mac, mortgage lenders, and the FHA in a test of how new technologies can make the FHA work better for more American families.

"This joint initiative offers a glimpse of the mortgage market of the future _ a future where FHA loans can be processed by lenders in days instead of weeks," said Leland C. Brendsel, chairman and CEO of Freddie Mac. "By reducing costs and bringing greater efficiencies to the mortgage market, we will enable more people to own their own home."

What this all means to you, the prospective homeowner, is that mortgage lenders will be able to respond much more quickly to mortgage requests and have much of the information they need to evaluate an application at their fingertips.

Loan Prospector, Freddie Mac's automated underwriting service, provides lenders with risk evaluations, using loan application, credit and property information to evaluate a potential borrower's ability to meet a mortgage obligation. Freddie Mac is actively working to expand the uses of Loan Prospector to meet the needs of lenders. Freddie Mac took a sample of FHA loans and built a statistically-based mortgage scoring model to predict the likelihood of default, specifically for FHA loans. This model was integrated in software that allows Loan Protector to perform risk evaluations on FHA mortgages within four minutes.

"With this initiative, Freddie Mac takes a big step forward in underwriting FHA loans with Loan Prospector," said David Glenn, president of Freddie Mac. " We're well on our way to providing lenders with a single, automated underwriting service to process virtually all of their mortgages."

Lenders will be able to access Loan Prospector for FHA Loans by linking directly through their loan origination system, In addition to risk assessment, the system will evaluate the application against FHA statutory requirements such as down payment, geographic loan limits, maximum amount, as well as eligible product types and any additional FHA credit guidelines.

The system will report its assessment to the lender, who will make the ultimate credit decision. During the pilot, FHA will agree with individual lenders to modify some of the documentation or credit requirements for loans that receive a favorable risk assessment.

Freddie Mac and FHA said that they expect that eight, geographically diverse, FHA-approved lenders, including current Loan Prospector users and new users, a housing finance agency and a non-profit, will participate in the sixth-month pilot, with 4,000 to 6,000 loans being made under the demonstration.

"FHA presents an unique opportunity to demonstrate to the market a responsible approach to integrating automated underwriting into the mortgage business," Federal Housing Commissioner Nicolas P. Potsinas said. "We must move forward with new technologies, but only after we carefully evaluate the impact of their use and design strategies to ensure that their use serves our mission of expanding home ownership opportunities."

The FHA was created in 1934 to provide mortgage insurance on home mortgage loans. For more than 62 years, FHA has pioneered low down payment and long term mortgages allowing more than 24 million American families to achieve home ownership. Today, FHA insurance allows lenders to make loans using more flexible underwriting than they use for conventional loans, including lower down payments, closing cost financing, and higher debt-to-income ratios.

Freddie Mac is a stockholder-owned corporation established by Congress in 1970 to create a continuous flow of funds to mortgage lenders in support of home ownership and rental housing. Freddie Mac purchases mortgages from lenders and packages them into securities that are sold to investors.

Over the years, Freddie Mac has helped finance one is six American homes.

Olympic thrills found on Internet

O&E ONLINE

EMORY DANIELS

Are you overhyped yet on the Summer Olympics?

There are lots of reasons why the Olympics are drawing a lot of attention. The opening on Friday, July 19, marks the 100th anniversary of the Olympics. There's also interest for Americans because the summer version is being held in the U.S. And this is the first Olympics that will be covered extensively, if not exhaustively, on the World Wide Web.

A lot of the sites I've been to include "spectator guides" which contain tips on how to get the most out of summer games. Blue Cross and Blue Shield have a Web site with an unusual spectator guide, the "Spectators' Wellness Guide to the Games."

The wellness guide was created to help the estimated two million spectators to the Olympic Games have a safe and memorable stay while cheering for their favorite athletes in Atlanta. Covered are such things as tips to beat the heat, how to use the Olympic Games as motivation to begin your own wellness program,. tobacco use, and travel tips.

Persons planning to attend the games who have Internet access may access the wellness guide at the "Travel" section of the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games at http://www.atlanta.olympic.org. This is the official Olympics site maintained by IBM jointly with the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games.

The IBM site since April 1995 has been running pre-Games reports, schedules, venues, and ticket sales. The site now is receiving about 250,000 hits an hour but is prepared to handle one million hits an hour after Friday. So far more than 32,000 tickets to the Olympics have been sold through this site which is being maintained by a staff of 70 which will expand the site to where it have 20,000 images and pages by the end of the Games in August.

There are many, many Web sites on the Internet about the Summer Olympics. For several months now, O&E Online's News Stand has had a link to the summer games on its sports page at http://oeonline.com/~emoryd/sports/index.html under the "national sports" heading.

The direct link to the site O&E Online has selected is http://www.mindspring.com/~prog400/atlanta.html. This easy-to-use site provides the latest on the Atlanta summer games for July and August including information includes tickets, events, a venues, a map of Atlanta, places to stay, and links to several Olympic sites include IBM's, the Atlantic-Journal's, Coca-Cola's and many others.

Other Olympic sites include:

• NBC will complement its television coverage of the Olympics with its Web site at http://www.olympic.nbc.com where users will find personal features on selected athletes, presentations on featured sports, a downloadable midi file of the theme song, and broadcasting schedules for the trials and the games

• Coca-Cola Olympic City at http://www.cocacola.com/olympics/ is a virtual Olympic experience with a complete tour of the games, the individual sports and the athletes, features for trivia buffs and collectors. You also will find a map that tracks the location of the Olympic torch runners. The best job of tracking the torch, however, is probably being done by Qualcomm, producer of the Eudora E-mail software, at http://www.qualcomm.com where the torch is tracked live via a satellite-based positioning system.

• If you aren't going to Atlanta, and most of us aren't, Mercury Mail is launching a free, up-to-the-minute means to follow your Olympic favorites. The new service is available from http://www.merc.com/sw/olympics.html or via E-mail at olympics@merc.com. Through either means, users can sign up to receive the Olympic coverage they are interested in and have it delivered to their E-mail box as it happens, beginning July 19. The frequency of messages depends on the personalized coverage requested.

Mercury Mail uses numerous wire services and ESPN's SportsTicker to deliver such information as specific events, Olympic news, final results, schedules, recaps, medal counts and more.

• The Atlanta Journal-Constitution has its site for the summer games being played in its city at http://www.atlantagames.com. This is a good site for anyone planning to attend the games because there's detailed information on lodging, restaurants, and rentals, and a pretty good search engine on the Olympics. Stories done by its reporters on the Olympics will be available on Nexis, Knight Ridder Information (Dialog), DataTimes, and Dow Jones.

• The "Oz Kidz Easy Access Olympics " site especially designed for children can be accessed at http://www.gil.com.au/ozkidz/olympics// Poppy Masselos, coordinator of the Oz Kidz Internaut Cyber Center at http://www.gilcom.au/oxzkidz/ in Australia says he has tried to feature the best Olympic sites on the 'Net.

• Other sites reporting on the Summer Olympics include ESPNet SportsZone at http://espnet.sportszone.com/editors/atlanta96, CNN Interactive at http://www.cnn.com/SPORTS/OLYMPICS/ where daily updates will be found, Sports Illustrated Online at http://www.timeinc.com/si/, USA Today at http://www.usatoday.com/olympics/oly.htm or AT&T's site at http://www.olympic.att.com

Donna Stoner has been named vice president/general manager of the Detroit office of Teleport Communications Group (TCG). She was promoted from sales manager of the TCG Detroit office, where she has been responsible for its dramatic growth since the company's local start-up in 1994. During that time, Stoner built a sales team and specialized in tailoring products and services to the telecommunications needs of Detroit-area businesses.

"Donna's exceptional managerial skills and sales expertise have made her a logical choice to assume the top leadership role in TCG Detroit," said Dave Thomas, vice president of the Central Region of TCG, who is also headquartered in Detroit. "She has been instrumental in building a high performance sales organization, possesses an extraordinary knowledge of the telecommunications industry and has a keen sense for the needs of the Detroit business community.

Prior to joining TCG Detroit, Stoner was regional sales manager of US Signal/Teledial America and for six years, she was marketing faculty at Lansing Community College. She is a member of the Southfield area Zonta Club.

The TCG Detroit network currently spans more than 151 route miles through the central business district of Detroit and into the suburbs of Southfield, Troy, Warren, Sterling Heights, Auburn Hills, Birmingham and Pontiac. TCG is the nation's largest provider of competitive local telecommunications services serving 48 major metropolitan markets nationwide. TCG's common stock is traded on the NASDAQ National Market under the symbol TCGI. TCG is headquartered in Staten Island, N.Y.

Jack M. Anton of Livonia has been promoted to senior vice president and chief financial officer at CBF Systems, Inc., a leader in the forms automation industry headquartered in Fraser.

Anton

Anton has been with CBF Systems since 1990. He continues to oversee and direct the financial aspects of the company. Anton holds an MBA from U of D and formerly served as vice president of finance.

Rhodes of Plunkett & Cooney, P.C.; Douglas P. VandenBerge of Rhoades, McKee, Boer, Goodrich & Titta; Peter L. Dunlop, Fraser, Trebilcok, Davis & Foster, P.C.

MDTC is an association of civil defense attorneys established in 1979 to enhance the administration of justice in civil litigation from the perspective of the defense bar.

Loraine Stover and Maura Ryan-Kaiser of Snelling Personnel Services in Livonia recently earned the Certified Temporary-Staffing Specialist (CCTS) designation from the National Association of Personnel Services (NAPS).

The CTS program was established by the NAPS to insure quality in the three-way relationship among employees, temporary help services and client businesses. examinations for the certification designation began in the fall of 1990 and are administered twice a year in the spring and fall.

According to Dianne B. Callis, president of NAPS, "To pass this test and earn certification, temp services staff need a thorough knowledge of temp operations, Equal Employment Opportunity law, business situations and standards of business practices."

"The CTS designation acknowledges this expertise and assures client-business that they are working with an experienced and committed temp professional," she said.

There are now 891 Certified Temporary-Staffing Specialists in the United States.

Gene Brady has been appointed vice president, New Business Development of the Northwest Group, a marketing communications firm in Livonia, which creates marketing programs and produces marketing materials. He had previously been director of Marketing and Sales at Business Imaging Group in Brighton.

Brady

Brady has spent the last 14 years in the marketing communications industry, in both Chicago and Detroit, helping the marketing efforts of companies from Fortune 100 firms to one person-entrepreneurial firms. Prior to marketing communications, Brady spent eight years as a child care counselor in group homes in the greater Detroit area.

A resident of Novi, Brady has a bachelor's degree from Wayne State University, finishing his studies at Northwestern University in Chicago, Ill. Married and a father of three, Brady is active with United Way and coaches soccer in the Novi school district.

The Northwest Group is a business to business graphic communications and advertising agency, specializing in the design and production of strategic marketing, corporate promotional and product literature, and print media advertising.

Cellular customer

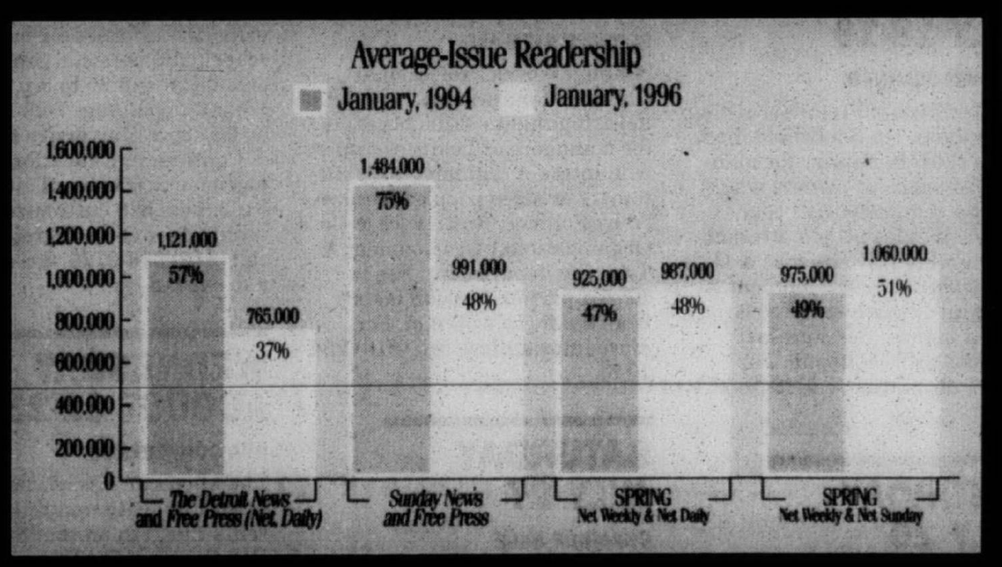
Suburban Detroit:

We have the leadership in readership!



SPRING delivers the suburbs with more weekday readers than The News and Free Press combined!

Now there are more reasons than ever to go home with SPRING Newspapers. SPRING continues to be the primary weekday newspaper for suburban residents of this suburb-driven market.* For example:

- 48% of adults in the SPRING survey area read SPRING weekly and daily newspapers.
- SPRING delivers, on average, 1,060,000 total readers every week.
- That means SPRING delivers 1,167,000 gross impressions for an entire week.

Compare these numbers to your other media alternatives: only 37% of adults in the SPRING survey area read the weekday Free Press or The Detroit News.

More suburban Detroit readers turn to SPRING.

- SPRING delivers more weekday suburban readers with household incomes over $50,000.
- SPRING delivers more suburban homeowners (51%) than any other weekday newspaper.

To find out more about how the Detroit market has changed, and for information about our current audit, call the SPRING Newspaper Network at 1-800/382-8878.

RANKS 67

Exhibit Works Inc., a firm that designs and builds exhibits for auto shows, trade shows and museums, has been ranked number 67 in the Michigan Private 100, a listing of Michigan's fastest growing privately held companies. Exhibit Works CEO Dominic Silvio, a Troy resident, has led Exhibit Works to a 331 percent sales increase in the past five years, from $8.2 million in 1991 to $35.4 million in 1995. To be eligible for the award, a company must be privately held, headquartered in Michigan, and not part of any other company. The company must have had full-year net sales in fiscal 1991 of at least $100,000 and fiscal 1995 sales of at least $1 million. The companies were ranked by compound annual sales growth over fiscal years 1991 through 1995. The Michigan Private 1000 is sponsored and compiled by the Michigan offices of the investment securities firm, Roney & Co., and the public and financial relations firm of Durocher, Dixson and Werba. Founded by Silvio in 1979, Exhibit Works employs 150 people. Exhibit Works clients include: The American Bar Association, Arizona Science Center, Audi of America Inc., Automotive Hall of Fame, Electronic Data Systems, Ford Motor Co.: Ford Division and Lincoln Mercury Division, Hallmark Cards Inc., Missouri Historical Society and the National Corvette Museum.

DONER HONORED

W.B. Doner & Company has been awarded a 1996 Partner in Prevention Award from The Prevention Coalition, a nonprofit organization dedicated to preventing the abuse of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs in southeast Michigan. Doner was honored for its contribution of five billboards placed throughout Oakland County asking the question, "Are you waiting for your kids to talk to YOU about pot?" The billboards were originally created for Partnership for a Drug-Free America and were modified for The Prevention Coalition. Also included on the billboards was an 800 number to call for a free parents guide on how to talk to children about marijuana. The Doner creative team responsible for the billboard includes Neal Spector, senior vice president, creative director; Tim Kostka, associate creative director; and Scott Campbell, art director. The Substance Abuse Prevention Coalition of Southeast Michigan is dedicated to media-based efforts that support alcohol, tobacco and other drug prevention. The nonprofit organization serves Wayne, Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Washtenaw and Oakland counties.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

"Doing Business in Detroit and Wayne County", is a business-to-business directory with information on over 10,500 companies in Detroit and Wayne County. MESC SURVEY

Michigan's public employment service is highly recommended among job seekers who use the service, according to a recent survey.

"Among jobseekers who responded to a recent survey, 78 percent said they would recommend our Job Service program to others who are looking for work," said F. Robert Edwards, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

The MESC survey of 10,000 jobseekers who have used the agency's Job Service found that nearly two out of every three who registered for a job were referred to an employer for an interview, and more than a third of those sent to an employer were hired.

"Within 30 minutes of entering a MESC office, 70 percent of the job seekers said they received some type of assistance," Edwards said. "And 72 percent were pleased with the help they received. They found our staff to be courteous, helpful and able to answer their questions."

An area needing improvement, according to the survey, was the quality of service jobseekers received when requesting information by phone from MESC. the survey found that 24 percent of the respondents rated the phone service fair to poor. Despite the poor showing for phone service, there was still a 50 percent improvement over the findings from last year's survey, he said.

CONTRIBUTIONS INCREASE

Consumers Power Company's PeopleCare concludes its 1996 campaign with contributions tallying 4 percent higher than the previous year's efforts, the utility reports. Consumers Power customers and employees this year contributed $438,000 to PeopleCare, a program operated jointly by the utility and Salvation Army. PeopleCare dollars provide shelter, clothing, food or other emergency help, including energy bill assistance. This year more than 16,000 disadvantaged families have received assistance through the program.

"PeopleCare continues to be instrumental in providing assistance to a great number of Michigan families," said Lt. Col. William Roberts, commander of The salvation Army Western Michigan and Northern Indiana divisions. "This is a model we will hold up with a great deal of pride and appreciation when we meet with our peers from other areas, especially during these tough times when other programs are suffering from diminishing contributions."

Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation, is Michigan's largest utility providing natural gas and electricity to more than six million of the state's nine and one half million residents in all 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

SAFETY AWARD

Focus: HOPE, Inc. was recently honored for outstanding safety achievement in the workplace. it is the first nonprofit organization ever to receive the award. Bosquett & Co., one of Detroit's leading insurance agencies, and the Chubb Group of Insurance Companies, a major provider of business insurance located in Troy, presented the award to the Rev. William Cunningham, Eleanor Josaitis, Greg Fahrenbruch, safety director, and other representatives of Focus: HOPE. The award ceremony was held recently at Focus HOPE Center for Advanced Technologies in Detroit.

Focus: HOPE is a metropolitan Detroit civil and human rights organization, dedicated to practical and intelligent action to overcome racism, poverty and injustice.

Providing safety in the workplace, as well as training for safety, is paramount to Focus: HOPE.

To achieve its goal of maintaining excellent safety in the workplace, Jay Popawski, account executive at Bosquett & Co. Insurance, worked with Fuhrenbruch and Craig Tuokkola of the Chubb Group to develop a formal safety program designed specifically for the organization. The safety program has met tremendous success.

PIZZA FOR NEEDY

Little Caesars Love Kitchen, a pizza restaurant on wheels, will provide 1,500 needy people with hot, fresh pizza for the month of July.

"Through collective efforts like the Love Kitchen, we hope to draw attention to the hunger problem, and help alleviate it in our communities," said Little Caesers Chairman of the Board Michael Ilitch.

Established by Ilitch in 1985 for the sole purpose of providing nutritious meals to soup kitchens, or wherever needy people gather, the Little Caesers Love Kitchen has since fed more than one million people in the U.S. and Canada.

The Love Kitchen last visited Detroit and Pontiac in October 1995, and Lansing and Kalamazoo in June 1994.

All food and labor are donated by the local Little Caeser franchises.

The Love kitchen served up meals at Manna Meals and Fort Street Presbyterian Church in Detroit and the Pontiac Rescue Mission in Pontiac.

PURCHASES COMPANY

Guardian Equipment Company, Inc. of Livonia, one of the nations oldest Lightning Protection Companies was purchased by Philip E. Youtsey of Northville.

Before buying the 46-year-old company, Youtsey served as president and C.E.O. of Guardian Equipment Company/R-V Electric. He also serves as a board member of the Lightning Protection Institute in Chicago, Ill.

CELEBRATES 75 YEARS

Michigan's first travel service proudly dates back to 1921 to a single desk at the Hotel Tuller in downtown Detroit. One copy of the AAA "blue book" — a standard volume containing road and hotel information — was the single coveted reference source for travelers.

Now, 75 Years later, the Auto Club's AAA Travel Agency has grown to become the largest leisure travel service in the state, serving 1.6 million members in 1996.

"Our long history of providing personalized travel services is a source of strength for AAA Michigan," said Travel Director Bill Best. "Our customers have come to depend upon up-to-date Triptiks, informative Tour Books, substantial travel discounts and a growing list of high-quality land and cruise vendors."

According to Best, AAA Travel Agency will celebrate its 75th anniversary in 1996 with special activities and travel events planned to increase the value of Auto Club Membership.

RELOCATION

Yale Materials Handling of Michigan, Inc., moved its Livonia location to 28990 Wixom Road in Wixom. Yale Materials, which buys, rents, leases service and parts, lift trucks and cleaning equipment, also has offices in Taylor and Sterling Heights.

APPLICATIONS ON INTERNET

Jobseekers with access to the Internet will be able to fill out and submit applications for potential job openings with the state's Big Three automakers through their home computers.

The Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) has expanded the application process for its Centralized Auto Plant File (CAPF) system by making the application form available to jobseekers through MESC's World Wide Website on the Internet.

The MESC Website, http://www.mesc.com, offers a complete application package, including the application form, a skills inventory and an auto plant information sheet. the file system was set up to handle job applications from workers interested in production, assembly and skilled trades positions within the auto industry.

A recent University of Michigan study predicted 129,000 job openings in the state's auto industry by 2003. MESC expects to use its centralized auto file system to funnel job applications to the auto industry as job openings become available.

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

Rebuilt appliances might be a good deal

There are a total of 4,800 sites in this country where steel is being recycled and where over 41 million appliances were laid to rest during 1995. It just seems so inappropriate, so out of place, to picture this big plot of land with all these appliances sticking out of the ground.

Fortunately or not, the new products we purchase today contain 28 percent of recycled steel which means it didn't go to waste. The service industry in the field of major home appliances does provide a recycled product to the consumer as well. There are a few shops which will rebuild a washer of dryer and sell it with a warranty. Some mighty good deals are available out there, but again, the consumer has to use caution on who they are dealing with. Let's see if this column can make you more aware.

1. The warranty given to the consumer has to be the biggest indicator of how thorough the shop rebuilds. Many times a product is received in good condition. There might be just a small defect that is corrected at a minimal cost. If the shop didn't replace the other fast-moving parts in the product, the shorter warranty could be the indicator that this is not such a good deal. The "shop" should tell you all you need to know, so be "aware."

2. I was in the shop not long ago looking through their rebuilt products and noticed that they were not very clean. I would suggest that you pull off any removable panels and have the shop guy show you the inside of the product. If they didn't get inside to clean it, I doubt if they replaced the moving parts. Ask, "If I get a complete product failure, will you replace the product with a comparable one?"

3. Just how much faith can you have in a used product? I along with many servicers will tell you that many of the older products produced have a lot more quality than what is being sold today. I'm sure that a few million homeowners would testify to that statement. If you're buying a product that lasted 15 years in a consumers home, there is no reason why it shouldn't last for another 10, if it is rebuilt properly.

4. Remember how many millions of appliances were placed into the scrap pile during 1995, well, there are a few in there that shouldn't be.

This service industry which I am a part of, holds a few unscrupulous, unethical, incompetent so and so's. They come to your home then give you such a high estimate on repairs that you opt to buy a new one instead.

They may even offer to buy this product from you and save you the trouble of removing it from the home yourself. It is important, folks, that you know and trust the servicer who is coming to your home.

If you would like to know more about the appliance service industry, join me in Lansing this coming September when we discuss Bill #5833, "The Appliance Repair Act" sponsored by state Rep. Lyn Bankes.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City.

INTERIOR MOTIVES

'Furniture' has many definitions

The simple word "furniture" elicits a multiple group of things, and we are hard-pressed to define what that encompasses.

Webster defines furniture as "equipment that is necessary, useful or desirable"; also as "movable items used in readying an area for occupancy or use." Not very clear!

Personally, I would describe furniture as "an item that adds comfort to everyday living." It falls into many categories. It could be called a "decorative art" that includes seating furniture, storage and cabinetry furniture, and tabletop furniture.

Seating pieces have an incredible range. Just the word "chair" conjures a dozen images. It can be upholstered and overstuffed, affording luxurious comfort for lounging. In another venue it might be all wood, with no comfort at all. A dining chair is often produced with a saddle seat, hard as nails, of wood, preformed metal or plastic. It also is known to have upholstery or a cushion to lend some degree of softness.

Seating is the core of comfort in any room. A luxurious sofa is pragmatic and will withstand an awesome amount of use. A pair of wonderful sofas makes your room inordinate. That is my idea of what furniture should be, even if it avoids definition.

NAOMI STONE LEVY

The storage or cabinetry classification is so essential to everyday living that we cannot imagine our existence without said pieces. We need to be able to put our possessions away. Life would be very complicated without dressers, armoires, nightstands, dining room sideboards, hutches, ad infinitum.

I haven't delved into styles of furniture. There are periods that are dated, and there are countries and their origins. As an example, English furniture of the 15th century is totally different from that of the 19th or 20th century. The former is ponderous and heavy, while the latter periods are light and delicate. The woods used differ just as much; embellishments range widely.

As we approach the 21st century the "new" is less defined. Chairs may just be an inflated bubble that you can crash into, making a dent to conform to your own body. The cost is negligible, and young people love them. If they need to move, packing presents no problems.: College students call this furniture.

"Beauty is in the eyes of the beholder" says it all. Our admiration for lovely furniture can range from an awesome antique to an unparalleled handcrafted original, in any of the three aforementioned categories.

Designer celebrates Arts & Crafts

BY CORINNE ABATT • SPECIAL WRITER

If a new residence designed by Birmingham architect John Gardner was a person, you would say it has good genes. And you could add that a lot of them are Midwestern.

Gardner's clients, a couple with two teenage children, came to him because they had seen one of his houses. They already had a lot in Bloomfield Hills.

Saying, "She grew up in Indianapolis and he's from Chicago," Gardner determined they would like a house reflecting the great Arts and Crafts movement of the late 19th and early 20th centuries, still very much in evidence in those cities.

What Gardner didn't know immediately was that he would be designing furniture for the house and doing the landscape architecture as well.

"First time I've done furniture," he said.

As he spoke about his design philosophy, Gardner said, "I've always had sort of an abhorrence to large monumental buildings."

That's significant here, considering this house is 5,000 square feet on the main and upper levels, not including the finished lower level.

Special spaces

At first glimpse it has all the trappings of monumental, even to the waterless moat on each side of the bridged front entrance and the two-story banks of casement windows across the front and back. These windows, beneath a generous overhang, offer views of Endicott Lake on one side and a picturesque woods on the other. The wide overhang is reminiscent of Frank Lloyd Wright's prairie house, but the style overall is highly individual.

"It looks larger than it is. It is really an assemblage of pieces with breezeways between and glass on both sides of every piece. I like to take a large project and break it down into spaces, inside and out."

The spaces are large rectangles, connected by smaller ones. On the main level the large sections start with the master bedroom suite at the north end, followed by the den, the main entrance leading to the living room, the dining room, the kitchen and garage. On the second level are three more bedroom suites arranged over the central portion of the house.

What the architect calls breezeways are much grander than his name implies. They function like commas on a written page: to indicate a division and to provide definition. Ceilings in the breezeways are a foot lower than in the main rooms where they are eight feet eight inches. Archways leading from room to room are 10 feet wide. These changes of ceiling height not only define space, they all have a positive effect on sound as well.

Materials

As he described the house, Gardner said, "The materials we've used are like an old baseball glove: They will get better as they age."

He was referring to the fieldstone and cement plaster exterior, topped by a machine-cut cedar roof and the Brazilian cherry flooring and American cherry casework and cabinetry throughout the interior.

Beautiful tile from Detroit's Pewabic Pottery and other sources is used for the fireplaces in the living room, the library and the master suite as well as the bathrooms.

"It started when they couldn't find the bed they wanted for the master suite, so I designed one (in American cherry) and had it fabricated."

His most interesting piece of furniture was serendipitous. When he and his client went searching for doors in architectural artifact shops, they returned with windows instead. Their find, brass camed or latticework windows, was from a Milwaukee house built in 1903.

Gardner incorporated the windows in a hutch he designed for the dining room. They never did find doors, so he did eight-panel cherry ones and had them fabricated.

Birmingham interior designer Mary Magdeline is helping the owners blend furniture and art work from their former house with many new pieces that include some large Oriental rugs.

In harmony

The jewel tones of these rugs in the living room, dining room and library provide strokes of brilliant color in a setting of white walls and the rich browns of the cherry floors and trim.

Then too, nature brings its palette of brilliant color into every room with spectacular views – the blue of the lake, the variations of greens of the woods, the white of the stand of dogwoods (in early May) near the driveway and the changing hues of sunrises and sunsets.

In the library, the rich blues and greens of the striking large-patterned Oriental rug are repeated in the Pewabic tiles of the fireplace. The mantel is New York bluestone, the same material used outside on steps to the terrace. With its beautiful custom-made shelves and casework, this room incorporates much of the richness and comfort of the Arts and Crafts period.

Since he was also the landscape architect, Gardner's philosophy of breaking down a project into spaces is evident outside as well where there are intimate areas as well as broad vistas.

The most spectacular of these is the terrace that overlooks the lake. In every sense it is an extension of the living space of the house. There are four entrances to the terrace from the main level. Stairways on each side lead to the lower level family room. This room with a massive fieldstone fireplace has a Gardner-designed media center that fits its designated location to perfection.

From offices at opposite ends of the house for the parents to the bedroom suites for the children, individual wishes were respected.

"Everybody in the family got to play a role," Gardner said with an approving smile.

Gardner, a third-generation architect, is the principal of Gardner & Associates Architects of Birmingham. He completed his bachelor's and master's degrees in architecture at the University of Michigan and holds a degree in landscape architecture from Michigan State University.

Summer salsas

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Today the word "salsa" is as common as ketchup, and used in a similar fashion. Since 1991, salsa sales have surpassed dollar sales of ketchup — in dollars, not volume! Two decades ago "salsa" was thought of as a tomato-based Mexican condiment used as a dip for salty corn chips in sparsely visible Mexican restaurants. Times have changed, and so have the salsas — the trendy salsas of the 1990s, may be made of the old standby tomatoes or tomatillos, but you will often see them made from – mangoes, peanuts, a variety of roasted peppers, exotic mushrooms, and an array of herbs. There are currently over 2,000 brands of salsa sold in the United States.

EVIL JUNGLE PRINCE SALSA

- 3 large ripe tomatoes (about 1 1/2 pounds total)
- 1/3 cup finely chopped white onions
- 1/4 cup fresh orange juice
- 1 or 2 fresh habanero chilies, stemmed and coarsely chopped
- 1 tablespoon fresh lime juice
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 2/3 cup finely diced seedless cucumber
- 2/3 cup finely diced red radish
- 2/3 cup finely diced jicama root
- 1/3 cup finely chopped cilantro
- 3 tablespoons finely chopped fresh mint

Trim and halve the tomatoes. Gently squeeze out and discard the seeds and juice. Chop the tomatoes.

In a food processor, combine the tomatoes, onion, orange juice, habaneros, lime juice, and salt and process until fairly smooth. Transfer the puree to a bowl and stir in the diced cucumber, radish, jicama, cilantro and mint. Adjust the seasonings. Refrigerate for at least 30 minutes before serving. The salsa can be prepared up to 1 day in advance. Yield: about 4 cups.

CHOCOLATE-CHERRY SALSA

- 2 cups fresh black Michigan cherries — washed and pitted
- 1/2 cup shaved dark semi-sweet chocolate
- 2 tablespoons Kirsch, or desired amount

In a large bowl gently mix all ingredients — serve at room temperature. Yield: approximately 2 1/2 cups

LET'S REMODEL

Roof tear-off job might be a rip-off

Q: We recently hired a general contractor to do our roof. They had to remove two layers of shingles. We have been unable to get the contractor to finish the job. There was some leaking into the house during the rains we had in June and interior damage occurred. It has been more then five weeks now. I do not want to get into legal action but really want the job done as it was promised. Also, who is responsible for the license? The subcontracted roofer or the general contractor?

A: You should always hire a contractor that is licensed in the state of Michigan and registered in the city that you live in. The city requires proof of insurance for workmen's compensation and public liability, property damage insurance and a copy of the contractor's building license.

In addition the city requires building permits and the contractor must perform the job within the city's building codes, and the contractor must call for the required building inspections.

If you have problems with a contractor you should call the city building department and have the city building inspector inspect the roof and determine if there are any city building code violations. Ask the city building department to contact the contractor for any corrections.

When you select a contractor to do a roof tear-off, you should insert in the contract agreement an approximate starting date and an approximate completion date. A roofing tear-off job is a major demolition job and usually takes two to seven days to complete. If, during the roofing tear-off a leak develops or property damage occurs, and there is a question as to who is at fault, you should contact your homeowners insurance company and they will in turn contact the contractors insurance company and determine responsibility, resolve this problem and repair the damage.

If the contractor does not complete the roofing in a timely and satisfactory manner, you can hire another contractor to finish the roofing job and deduct that reasonable amount from the original contractor's contract. If the amount exceeds the original amount of the balance due, then you will have to seek legal help.

The contractor that sells the roofing job must be licensed with the state and registered in your city. The contractor can hire unlicensed subcontractors to perform the work but the selling contractor (or general contractor) is responsible for all licenses, building permits and the completed roofing job.

In closing, you should not let price be your main motivation in choosing a contractor. Many people chose a contractor for their prices and are later disappointed. Be as thorough as possible in selecting the person you want to hire to work on your home.

Detroit summer tours slated

• Preservation Wayne Presents the Mansions of Ferry, Saturday, July 20 – Tour the fashionable Victorian neighborhood that is currently having more than $10 million in restorations, which will include a multi-building bed and breakfast.

This 2-1/2-hour walking tour begins 10 a.m. at the carriage house of the Hecker-Smiley mansion with a slide show overview. The mansion is on the corner of E. Ferry at Woodward, one block north of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

• Magnificence on Woodward: The Hecker-Smiley Mansion, Saturday, July 20 – Tour the spectacular mansion that was built by wealthy industrialist Frank Hecker, then was home to the Smiley Bros. Music Co. for more than 40 years and is now home to a law firm that has painstakingly restored it to grandeur.

The 1-1/2-hour tour begins 11 a.m. in the mansion's carriage house with a brief slide overview.

GARDEN SPOT

Keep high hopes for sunflower contest

MARTY FIGLEY

MARTY FIGLEY

Sunny contest: Our High Hopes Sunflower Contest is still going strong. Will you be a winner this year?

I hope many of you are growing sunflowers for our third annual contest. As promised, here are some growing tips and other ideas and information about these native plants.

One of the most important practices to avoid stem borer and stem maggot, rust or powdery mildew is to keep the area around the plants free of debris. This can easily be accomplished when the debris is dry. A good rule is to clean it up just before each watering session.

If you haven't put a stake near the stem, now is the time to do that, especially if you are striving to grow the largest seedhead or if the plants are in a place where high winds might topple them.

Sunflowers don't need a lot of fertilizer before the flower heads appear, but when they do, give them a fertilizer with a higher percentage of K (phosphate) and P (potassium). A larger dose of N (nitrogen) will help the plants grow tall with lots of foliage, if you are entering for the tallest sunflower. From our former contest winners we found that many used Stern's Miracle-Gro and Rapid Grow, other fertilizers, composted grass, leaves and manure. A lot of water is needed.

Native plant

I spoke about the sunflower being native to our country. The National Garden Bureau, which celebrates 1996 as the Year of the Sunflower, said remains of these plants have been found in North American archaeological sites, dating as early as 3,000 B.C.

The center or origin for wild sunflowers is considered to be the western plains of North America, but the ancestors of the cultivated type have been traced to the Southwest or the Missouri-Mississippi River valley areas. It seems the first people to breed sunflowers were the Ozark Bluff dwellers, who selected plants and seed for cultivation.

To protect the seedheads from birds and squirrels, cover the seedheads with cheesecloth bags or cut the heads off the plants when the backs of the heads are dry and no traces of green remain.

When you cut the seedheads from the plants, cut them with one to two feet of stem attached and hang them in a warm, well-ventilated place to mature and dry. Tie a paper or cheesecloth bag around each head to catch the seeds that drop out.

When the backs of the seedheads are completely dry and papery, brush the seeds out with your hands or a stiff brush. If you want the animals to have a feast, you can skip these steps.Raw seeds, hulled or in the shell (unwashed) in an airtight container in the refrigerator or freezer, can be roasted for a healthy snack or used raw in baked goods or homemade granola. When we announce the winners, I'll give you a recipe for a sunflower kernel cookie.

Have you ever noticed the arrangement of seeds of the sunflower? Sunflower seeds are arranged in what is called hexagonal-packing in solid state physics, said Jay Kirsch, a physicist teaching at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"If you first draw a horizontal row of circles and then draw successive rows so that each circle sits in the cusp formed by the two adjacent circles in the previous row, each circle will be surrounded by six adjacent circles whose centers form a hexagon," he said. "In the sunflower the seeds on the outer edges of the seedhead are larger than those at the center."

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

George and Clara Goodling owned and operated ERA First Federal Realty in Livonia for 17 of their 21 married years.

Michael S. Katz and his wife, Tracy Stanton Katz, married a year, work as a team at Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in Birmingham.

Noel and Lee Bittinger, marriage and business partners for 14 years, recently opened their own franchise, RE/MAX Classic, in Canton.

Sheila and Louis Rose, married 27 years, have teamed at Ralph Manuel West in Farmington Hills for a year and a half.

And Ray and Lisa Smigelski, married for 6-1/2 years, are fairly new to the business at Real Estate One in Clarkston with two years full time and about seven months part-time experience, respectively.

What they all share is a firm belief that working together as a team is more effective, productive and enjoyable than pursuing separate careers or similar careers with different firms.

"I just think two heads are better than one if both have the same goals and vision in mind," said George Goodling.

"Ninety percent of when things don't work out happens because they haven't developed to the point where they recognize the other person's weak and strong points and their own weak and strong points," Goodling said. "We never really had that problem."

"We each had our own duties," Clara said. "The key is realize each other's responsibilities and honor that. Keep your duties separate."

"I love working with my wife," said Michael Katz. "She's so easygoing, so laid back. She has such a good disposition. She makes work pleasurable.

"We feed so well off each other," Tracy said. "I think I'm good at marketing and P.R. He's great with numbers and listings."

"It's a confidence factor for people to know that two people are working for them, two different personalities," said Sheila Rose. "We always go together on a listing."

Louis Rose recalled a specific for-instance.

"There's an estate we have listed in Southfield, an older couple, wonderful people. It isn't a simple little home easy to sell.

"When we went out and met them – because they were so close – when they saw a couple was working with them, they hired us right away."

Lee Bittinger remembers a situation where being part of a team was definitely better than flying solo.

"There was a client about three months ago coming from Germany, a Ford employee, relocating back to this area. He picked up on us on the Internet.

"They were going to be in town one day. We had classes that day that were already paid for. Noel continued to be at the seminar. I went to the airport, picked up the couple and we looked at several houses," Bittinger said.

Lisa Smigelski can identify with that.

"Last week, we had a weekly Wednesday meeting and Ray was in with a gal signing a purchase agreement. I was in the meeting and went for the property tour. When you can't be in two places at one time, it falls into place real good."

"The most enjoyable part of working together, I'd say, is bouncing off ideas," Noel Bittinger said. "Whenever a problem comes up, you have someone to talk to. You're not alone to make a decision."

"It's so nice to go up to my wife and get a big hug if we're having a tough day," Michael Katz said.

Try doing that with a colleague who's not your spouse.

"Two is better than one, definitely," said Ray Smigelski. "I can't be in three places at the same time. You might have a buyer to show houses to, a listing appointment, then paperwork. You kind of juggle around to give variety, keep work interesting, challenging."

But there can be too much togetherness.

"We don't share the same office room," Sheila Rose said. "It gives us more space."

The Katzs no longer have an office in their house. They enjoy the business, Michael said, but not 24 hours a day.

Couple teams can have drawbacks from a management perspective playing one off against the other, Clara Goodling recalled.

"We found salespeople came to both of us for an answer," she said. "We caught on to that. We'd say, 'What did George say?' 'What did Clara say?'"

George Goodling said he and his wife regularly made appointments with each other to eat, shop or go to a show "away from the office and away from the telephone."

What it all boils down to – whether an agent goes it alone or in tandem – is the impression made on prospective clients.

"I think they feel you're more stable, more grounded," Tracy Katz said of the couples concept. "Being pregnant and everything makes people feel comfortable with a family. They feel they're in good hands."

"We all know husbands and wives play different roles in different households," George Goodling said. "We'd ascertain in the first five, 10 minutes, sense how the household works.

"Sometimes, we found they related more to my wife than me," he said. "We had little nods that might indicate that. She would take over and go into the normal presentation."

Try the courts before you picket your landlord

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. We have a problem with our developer and have not sought legal counsel, but plan to picket, distribute leaflets and verbally express our opinions regarding the developer's misdeeds. We are in the process of getting organized and want to know what our rights are.

A. Your proposed actions will incite the developer to seek legal redress, perhaps by claiming that you are trespassing, defaming or otherwise interfering with its business relationships. It might also claim that you have violated a covenant under the Master Deed if in fact you display signs, if signs are prohibited.

On the other hand, there is some authority in an out-of-state case that allows unit owners to picket, distribute leaflets and verbally express their opions since those actions are protected by the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

However, to the extent that signs are in violation of any covenants in the Master Deed, the developer may have a right to withhold the use of such signs and to otherwise not trespass on any property that he retains, i.e. the units that he is selling. However, this is a drastic course of action, and you are better advised to seek legal counsel to examine what legal rights you have to purse the developer and all other persons responsible for the apparent defects that you have in your condominium. It is this writer's experience over the years that condominium associations that seek legal redress are generally the most successful.

Q. Our condominium is considering charging a rental fee for reviewing the rental transaction and inspecting the rental unit. It would be an administrative inspection fee. Is this reasonable?

A. In an outstate case, interpreting the New Jersey Condominium Act, the court authorized the association to assess rental fees and recognized the condominium association's power and responsibility over the common elements. The appeals court gave the condominium association the right to charge a fee for inspecting the unit to make sure that there is no damage. The condominium association may also review the lease to ensure that both the owner and prospective tenant comply with the Master Deed, condominium association bylaws and rules pertaining to rentals. The costs of review and inspection are not considered costs of common expenses. Whether or not that would be sustained in Michigan, of course, is something that would have to be decided on a case-by-case basis.

Protect yourself from problem encroachment

(NAPS) — When buying a home, what you acquire is title to the property – ownership which may be limited by the rights and claims of others.

The American Land Title Association cited an example where a real estate buyer consulted a land survey showing that all structures were well within the boundaries of the property. A subsequent survey made immediately before the purchase confirmed the boundaries and the transaction was completed.

All seemed in order until the adjoining real estate was placed on the market at a later date. The survey conducted at that time revealed a garage and driveway thought to have been acquired in the original transaction actually were located on the neighboring land.

The unsuspecting owner in the original transaction was faced with the necessity of purchasing a strip of land wide enough to bring the garage and driveway within the boundaries as initially intended.

If owner's title insurance with survey coverage had been acquired to protect the buyer at the time of initial purchase, ALTA pointed out that the undiscovered encroachment problem would have been that of the title insurer.

A title policy is based on a thorough search of public records so that hazards of title can be located and cleared up prior to the closing whenever possible.

Title insurance also protects against problems including those even the most exhaustive search will not reveal.

For free information on owner's title insurance, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Owner's Title Insurance, American Land Title Association, Suite 705, 1828 L Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20036. Questions may be directed to an ALTA member listed in the yellow pages.

New house averages $155,000 nationally

"The average price of a new home in Livonia is $272,500," said Don Kamen, broker/owner of Quality Real Estate NW/Better Homes and Gardens. "The average sale price of an existing home is $121,000. And in Livonia, a home stays on the market an average of 26 days."

Corresponding figures provided by Kamen for Farmington Hills/Farmington are $260,000 for a new house, $160,900 for existing and 39 days on the market.

"Around here, it's an extremely hot seller's market, 'way more buyers than sellers," Kamen said. "The pressure's definitely on buyers because there just aren't enough homes.

"Unless there's something dramatically wrong with a house or it's 'way over-priced, they're selling practically as soon as they get on the market," he said.

The average sale price of new homes ranged from a low of $110,400 in the South Central region including Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Texas, to a high of $240,500 in the Northeast – Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont.

The Midwest, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota, showed the lowest average price for a resale house, $77,600.

The Pacific region, California and Hawaii, tops the list for both highest average price for a resale home, $181,500, and longest average days on the market, 137.

Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service, formed in 1978, is an international network of more than 750 firms with more than 1,500 offices and 24,000 sales associates in the U.S., Canada and Puerto Rico.

–Albert Einstein

Personal Scene Ads in The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers allow you to record a message in your own voice over the phone. That way when people see your ad in the paper, they can dial your code, hear your message and leave a message of their own. You can call, day or night, to get your messages. It's fast, it's easy, and it helps people find out more about each other. Look in today's classifieds or call your Observer & Eccentric ad taker and ask about our introductory offer. You might find a friend who will do your taxes. One who is, in theory, relatively intelligent.
