Observer moving to Sunday edition

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers will move its Monday newspapers to Sunday publication to better meet the needs of suburban advertisers and readers.

The change will take place February 1997, vice president and general manager Steve Pope announced Tuesday.

"Our market analysis shows a Sunday environment is better for both advertisers and readers," said Pope. "It allows advertisers to capture the weekend market and offers readers our product when they have more free time in their day. Both readers and advertisers have been requesting this change over the past few years."

"The community character of the papers will not change, and we will continue to emphasize local news," Pope said.

"It's our intention to build on our franchise as a dominant provider of local news in Oakland and Wayne counties," he said.

"Our new Sunday publication will embrace all of the features of the Monday newspapers including high school sports coverage, Malls & Mainstreets and our colorful Taste section," said

The New Homes section which contains stories and pictures of new residential develop-ries and pictures of new residential developments will move to Sunday.

"That's the day families traditionally shop for a new home," Pope said.

Sunday's coverage also will include health and business and a new fine arts section.

The Observer & Eccentric publishes 15 suburban newspapers with a combined circulation of 160,000. The papers had published on Thursday and Monday since 1974, when the Observer and Eccentric groups merged.

The move to Sunday will affect only the 12 editions now published on Monday and Thursday.

Teacher charged with misconduct

A former Plymouth-Canton substitute teacher has been charged with criminal sexual conduct with a student in the Holly school district.

A former Plymouth-Canton substitute teacher faces a preliminary exam today in connection with charges of criminal sexual conduct involving a Holly High School student Melvyn O'Dowd, 29, of Westland, is charged with driving a 15-year-old Holly girl to a cemetery in his car and fondling her.

Last year, the parent of a Plymouth-Salem High School senior complained about the same teacher to Plymouth-Canton school officials. The mother claimed he flirted with her daughter and asked personal questions, said Holly police Detective Scott Fischer. The student skipped school to avoid the teacher, Fischer said.

Top Plymouth social event set for Friday

BY KEVIN BROWN STAFF WRITER

The premiere social event of the season happens Friday, as the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce puts on its Seventh Annual Dinner and Auction.

About 750 guests showed for last year's event. And event organizers say they've secured more space this year, and expect up to 800 this year.

The event opens at 5:30 p.m. at Laurel Manor.

To attest to the growing popularity of the auction-dinner-business meeting, co-chairwoman Margaret Slezak said, "People continually call and say, When is it?"

"It's the one community event they want to attend. It's an opportunity for people to dress up and see all of the community. They enjoy the food, the drink and the dancing," she

"It's become a social event. You not only have the auction but you have dinner afterwards," said CoChairwoman Cindy Drager.

"Another thing that's nice is there are people who come for high bidding, for both the silent and the regular auction, but you have something for everyone. Some can buy a $2 raffle ticket and stand a chance of winning something really nice," she said.

Not only is it a big social event, but it's also the chamber of commerce's prime annual fund raiser.

The event raised $50,000 last year. The money pays for chamber activities that seek to boost the business community.

Tickets are still available. Call the chamber office at 453-1540 for reservations. Tickets are $50 each.

The event opens with a sponsors only preview party from 5:30-6:30 p.m. followed by dinner, the auction and dancing to DJ requests until 1

Family flees fire in condo's bedroom A family's smoke detectors were turned off, but four children and two adults were able to escape uninjured from their condominium Oct. 22 after a fire started in an upstairs

Plymouth Community Fire Department Chief Larry Groth said the department was called to the fire at 9:49 p.m. at Old Pond

Fifteen firefighters and four department trucks responded to the call, and the fire was put out almost immediately, he said.

We're looking at a loss of around $20,000, there was extensive smoke damage," Groth

Because the use of an upstairs shower was routinely setting off smoke alarms, the homeowner would trip the circuit breaker to quiet the alarms, Groth said.

With the electricity off, children used lit candles in an upstairs bedroom, and one ignited school papers attached to a cork bulletin board as the children slept.

"Somebody smelled smoke upstairs and tried to put it out with their own fire extinguisher, and they called 911," Groth said.

Fire fighters were able to leave the fire scene at 10:15 p.m.

A ground breaking ceremony on the new 30-bed residence happened Oct. 20 on Oak Valley Drive on Ann Arbor's west side. More than 800 of Arbor Hospice's patients are from Plymouth, Canton and Northville.

"Because dying is no longer a recognized diagnosis in hospitals for insurance purposes, many patients are discharged at a very critical time, with no appropriate place to go" said Mary Lindquist, company founder and president.

While hospice care ideally takes place in the comfort and privacy of a person's home, residential hospice care is a costeffective option.

20TH DISTRICT STATE HOUSE

Gerald Law and Deborah Hoadley are vying for the 20th District state House seat. The term is 2 years.

Has Proposal A had a good affect on this district? Is any fine tu required?

What are some key differen between you and your opp

What will you seek to accor the next term if elected?

Gerald Law, 52, is a Plymouth Township resident seeking reelection to a sixth term. First elected to the House in 1982, Law left in 1991 to serve as Plymouth Township supervisor. He returned to the House in 1994 after defeating then incumbent Jerry Vorva. Law prevailed in a second rematch with Vorva in the August Republican primary.

The good points are it has reduced the reliance on funding the schools with property taxes. Another good provision is linking assessment increases to no more than the rate of inflation. One thing I don't like is property taxes are kept lower for people who don't move. Over time you can have neighbors paying drastically different taxes. That could create problems. Another downside is how school districts like Plymouth-Canton fit in. Plymouth-Canton, which was being responsible, ended up substantially lower and will face problems in the future. I proposed the opportunity to get a 3-mil enhancement millage. It's going to require a three-quarters vote of the Legislature.

I introduced legislation recently to oppose the tradeport. If Willow Run is able to expand to a 10,000 foot runway, the traffic pattern comes right over I-275. If you go down to Romulus or Dearborn and hear the howls about noise, you know it's going to create problems here. What value is it to us? None as far as I can see. I'll bring it back next year if reelected to work on the issue.

Probably the key difference is experience. I've led a pretty diverse life, I worked my way through school at the University of Detroit, went to Wayne State Law School, worked for Ford Motor Co., worked for a large bank, I was a township trustee and supervisor and have been a state rep. a number of years _ a lot of education to deal with a lot of different issues. And obviously being a Republican now that Republicans are in control in Lansing. People say a lot but when you're in the minority you can do almost nothing. I've had 100 percent attendance, didn't miss any sessions, attended all the meetings. I've introduced over 80 bills, 14 have become law, two or three are going through the process.

We need to move toward true court reform and unification. We only need one trial court. Why do people have to go all the way to Detroit to handle juvenile cases and other matters? We need a user friendly system. In economic development we need to lower worker's compensation costs. The single business tax really offends businesses that want to come to Michigan. We should tax based on the profit of businesses, this is how other states do it. When a business comes in and asks what is this single business tax, it's really a shock. Lets be up front about taxes. In urban planning we need more more regional planning, more incentives. They've done a good job with the state fair, but why doesn't the state do some bonding and repair and rebuild the facilities?

Deborah Hoadley, 43, is a Plymouth Township resident seeking her first elected office. She works in jail administration at the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

The problem with Proposal A in my eyes is it's taken local control away from school districts and the state has control. It took the decision process away from the constituents in this district. Lottery money still is not going in the educational fund. We need to bring local control back. All our youth in the state of Michigan deserve a quality education. I think it's appalling we don't have that. My opponent voted against funding for adult education. We need to have other avenues. That's a very important resource in getting individuals off of welfare.

I want to make sure whatever happens constituents have a part in the decision making process. They should outline how it's going to create jobs and if it's going to affect us soundwise, what routes planes are going to go, that needs to be addressed. And is it going to affect us tax-wise?

I would never vote against funding for adult education. We need to have a way for youths and adults who've made wrong turns in their life to get education. I've been involved in many community activities, we should invite individuals to come discuss issues. I'm very concerned with what's happening with the environment. I'm tired of seeing trucks coming from Canada and other states dumping in Michigan. We can have growth in business and still protect our environment in Michigan.

I'd work to make sure all youth in Michigan have a quality education and return local control of decision making to our schools. When Proposal A went through they didn't understand all the aspects of it. We need to toughen up environmental laws, I'll work hard for * that. I'll be very available to the community. We should have more school to work programs, more business involvement in mentorships in our schools so they can have career goals when they leave high school. I'll work hard to promote small business. I believe in welfare reform, we need to make individuals accountable, including deadbeat dads and mothers.

"We have other business to look forward to," said Violi. "We're going to have to work really hard these next two weeks to make the show as good as it can be."

Band director David McGrath couldn't agree more.

"They performed extremely well tonight," he said. "They marched and played very, very well. We have two weeks yet to keep polishing it (the show) and add the finishing touches."

He added if the band members "keep their focus and work hard, which I don't doubt that they will, in two weeks, we're in good shape"

Pat Ruddy, assistant band director, was now, according to McGrath, is that the kids pleased with the band's performance in the entirely different setting of a dome where sound reverberation can be confusing to even experienced performers.

McGrath added that, with more than onethird of the band freshmen, there was some cause for concern at performing in this new environment.

But, he admitted, "they handled it extremely well."

Said Ruddy, "Not only did they have a great performance, but in here is a completely different arena because of the dome. So, not only are they learning to perform their show well but their getting smarter. They're getting smart in understanding how to deal with different environments."

McGrath pointed out that the RCA Dome in Indianapolis, where the national championships will be held, is about 20,000 seats smaller than the Silverdome with less reverberation. The most important thing right now, according to McGrath, is that the kids are having a lot of fun with their crowdpleasing program of "The Road to Oz."

The masterful musical combination of "The Wizard of Oz" and "The Wiz," in conjunction with creative choreography and marching is drawing voluminous applause from delighted audiences.

The Flight II championship went to Lakeland, 93.37. Farmington Harrison captured the Flight III top award with a score of 89.57 and Chesaning cinched first in Flight IV with 84.17 points.

Other area bands were Flight I, Livonia Franklin, 73.67, and ninth place. West Bloomfield took seventh place with 75.37, and Westland's John Glenn came in fourth with 78.87.

The Plymouth-Canton band will be competing at the Grand National Championships on Nov. 7-9.

after the teacher made inappropriate comments that made the student feel uncomfortable, Goldman said. Canton police were not contacted, nor were formal charges brought.

O'Dowd was substituting for a Plymouth-Canton science teacher who was on a leave of absence last year. Goldman said the complaints were made early second semester. An investigation was completed in April, and the teacher finished out the semester before being hired by Holly public schools to teach physical science.

Goldman said O'Dowd was not asked to leave the district. "He was a long-term substitute. So when the position finished, there was no longer a position for him," he said.

Fischer said the Salem mother "didn't know what the exact results were from their meeting.

The only thing she did know for sure is that the teacher was not to have any contact with her daughter."

The news came as a surprise to one Salem science teacher who asked not to be named.

"I worked with Melvyn O'Dowd, and as far as a co-worker, he handles himself very professionally," she said. "He has great classroom management.

There was nothing wrong with O'Dowd's conduct, she added. "He never did anything to make me think otherwise." She said she knew of no one who complained about O'Dowd.

Job fair set for students

Graduating seniors can meet one-on-one with prospective employers at the 18th annual Michigan Collegiate Job Fair from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, Nov. 8.

The job fair will be in Burton Manor, 27777 Schoolcraft west of Inkster Road in Livonia.

More than 150 employers are expected to attend the fair, cosponsored by Wayne State and Eastern Michigan universities and promoted by more than 70 other four-year and two-year institutions. The Engineering Society is a supporting sponsor.

This year the event is highlighted on the Michigan Employment Security Commission's "The Job Show," seen on cable television systems statewide.

The fair offers an opportunity for students to meet with employers looking to fill primarily entry-level positions.

To register in advance, students can send a resume and a $10 check payable to MCJF at University Counseling and Placement Services, 1001 Faculty Administration Building, Wayne State University, Detroit MI 48202-3622.

Advance registration just be received by Friday, Nov. 1. Onsite registration is $20. Free parking is available.

Patterson's a no-show on tax cut vote

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

Three of four western Wayne County commissioners supported a 0.25 mill tax cut for county residents during a vote on Tuesday.

But the missing vote from the fourth commissioner - who was absent - was blamed by another commissioner for the board's failure to pass the cut.

Commissioners voted, 7-7, to reduce the county's general operational millage. Commissioners Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia; Michelle Plawecki, D-Redford Township, and Kay Beard, D-Westland supported the mea-

Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, was absent. Plawecki blamed Patterson for the motion's fail-

The vote was split evenly between the suburban and Detroit commissioners.

Opposing it were Edna Bell, Robert Blackwell, Kenneth Cockrel, George Cushingberry, Bernard Parker, chairman

"It's a perfect example of how he's never here when it matters.'

Ricardo Soloman and Jewel

The commissioners eventually approved appropriations for December and an apportionment report, 8-7, that set the millage at 7.929 mills for county residents for the winter tax bills. Beard joined the Detroit commissioners in supporting that move.

McCotter, who seconded the tax cut motion made by Boike, was disappointed it didn't pass. "I thought it was long overdue," McCotter said. "It would have offset the parks millage."

The proposed cut would have saved the owner of a $100,000 home about $12.50 in annual county taxes. That amounted to about $7 million for the entire county, McCotter said.

Commissioner Plawecki ripped Patterson for missing the vote.

"It's a perfect example of how he's never here when it matters," Plawecki said.

Plawecki said the motion was appropriate for this time of year ecause it was proposed during the county's budget hearings. The cut offsets the 0.25 parks mill, which is one reason why it was supported by the suburban commissioners, Plawecki said.

Plawecki called the motion a concerted bipartisan effort. Everyone's pretty much disappointed," Plawecki said.

"I can't tell you the last time (a cut) has been done. It's frustrating. (Patterson) can complain about higher taxes, and here, he's nowhere to be found. Everyone else is here working on the budget and their campaigns, and he's nowhere to be found.

"The residents in Canton need to know that."

McCotter and Plawecki said the tax cut issue would not be revisited this year. "We can't," Plawecki said. "What we established is levy of Wayne County and it can't be revisited until next year's budget."

An aide to Patterson said he believed Patterson missed the meeting because he was out of town on vacation with his family this week. Patterson could not be reached for comment.

A colleague said Patterson was away on a hunting trip.

Commission chairman Soloman also was unavailable to comment on the vote.

Once it became apparent the tax cut was not going to pass, the board acted on the operational millage. Those mills were scheduled for action on the agen-

Beard backed the motion to set the millage rate because she believed it would be "irresponsible" not to support it once it was apparent the tax cut would not

"That would be irresponsible not to vote for it because people are waiting for their tax bills so they can deduct it from this year's taxes," Beard said.

The commissioners approved a levy of 7.929 mills, which included the following: 6.7069 mills for operations, .9532 mills for the county jail, .0189 mills for the veterans trust fund, and .25 mills for Wayne County Parks.

Voters face proposals to amend charter

COUNTY BALLOT

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

With all the attention focused on Tuesday's election with presidential and Congressional races, a stadium tax proposal, state referendums and local races, it may be easy for voters to overlook two ballot proposals to amend the Wayne County char-

Voters will decide whether to repeal charter rules spelling out the duties of an independent auditor and amend the charter to expand the auditor general's duties

The proposal gives the auditor general - rather than the chief executive officer - power to engage an independent external tor to prepare an annual financial report. It also gives the auditor general power to audit operations and administration of county agencies to check the compliance with ordinances and regulations.

The second county proposal authorizes appointment of an independent commission counsel to defend the legal rights, powers and duties of the county commission. It also deletes the duties of the corporation counsel in section 4.312 to provide legal services to the commission.

Voters can expect to see additional information posted at the polls, including the following statement. It will not be on the ballot because it exceeds the 100-word limit for proposals.

The auditor general shall:

Make audits of the financial transactions of all county agencies at least once every two years, or as otherwise directed by the County Commission.

Make compliance audits of the past or current operations of any county agency, as requested by the Audit Committee of the Commission.

■ Make performance audits of agency operations if requested by the executive officer in charge

Make a full report to the county commission of each individual audit and file a copy with the CEO.

Ben Washburn, corporation ounsel for Wayne County, doesn't want to sound self-serving when he discusses the second ballot proposal concerning corpo-ration counsel. Washburn won't comment on it, but he can describe the quandary for legal

"The charter provides (corpo-ation counsel) the power to rep-esent all county agencies meluding county commission," Washburn said. "But the probem is it is a position appointed by the CEO (chief executive officer Edward McNamara)."

Court reform should include a family court to expedite custody decisions. Recovery caps under tort reform are permissible. Jurisdictional amount for circuit court should be raised to $25,000. Combination of statutory and constitutional courts will achieve the balance that reflects county voters.

Election of judges should continue with some refinement, Limit candidates to public service campaigning (cable tv, newspaper survey etc.) Ban fund-raisers and lawyer contributions. Defendants seek requests for lesser included offenses to receive leniency from a jury. In People v. My ruling is a victory for tough not lenient treatment of violent criminals.

Some of it is beneficial, such as placing all domestic relations matters under the jurisdic tion of one court instead of allowing the possibility of conflicting orders between courts regarding child custody. Several other aspects of court reform legislation are being challenged in court as being violative of the state constitution and federal law.

The best method would be appointment of judges who later run for election on their record. Contested elections are expensive and the cost is ultimately paid by the public. This method preserves the right of the public to remove judges while avoiding the cost and dis-traction of a contested election when the public is satisfied with the judge.

Judge Learned Hand of the U.S. Court of Appeals was one of the finest judges this country has produced. He was a master of thought and language. "Court reform" relates to many issues. I am concerned that the legislation creating a family court will result in most Circuit Court judges being unable to preside over domestic relations cases in spite of their years of experience and expertise

I prefer that we elect our judges but I have some serious reservations about the way we do it. For example, it is too difficult for voters to learn about the candidates and to make informed choices. I am also concerned about the implications of judicial candidates raising

I believe some form of the "Missouri Plan" is best. This means judges are first appointed and then required to seek the approval of voters for subsequent terms. Such a plan would reduce the need for heavy reliance on election financing from attorneys and would promote an independent judiciary.

Personally, I respect and admire three recentlyretired colleagues: Judges Lucille Watts, James Mies and Michael Stacey. Each of them earned a reputation for absolute fairness. In retirement, each continues to contribute to our community. Historically, I admire Chief Justice John Marshall because of his role in establishing America's judiciary.

'Get priorities straight,' Pursell urges

Punches - or punch lines were rolling in a pro/con discussion Monday at Canton Township Hall regarding Proposal S, Wayne County's tax proposition to build two new stadiums.

A roll of toilet paper was one of the props used by retired Congressman Carl Pursell, co-chair of Taxpayers Against Proposition S to get his point across.

Deputy County Executive

Michael Duggan didn't bring any props, but took time to reminisce on Pursell's former voting record. Don't forget, he said, "the toilet paper guy" is the same one who voted to allocate $2.5 million in federal money for Detroit's Peo-

In addition to the two stadiums, developers have proposed to build a Little Italy next to Greektown, Magic Johnson has committed to a 20 Theater complex and a nearby residential development is in the works. Also, General Motors has announced plans to move into choolcraft College passed a milestone last Thursday.

The college celebrated its 35th anniversary with an open house at the Continuing Education Center and a gathering at the Waterman Center for cake, balloons and face painting. About 250 people attended the festivi-

Many of the guests included the college's original board of trustees, who reminisced about the early days when the college was new and Haggerty was unpaved.

The college celebrated the 1961 voter approval of the establishment of Northwest Wayne County Community College. Three years later Schoolcraft College opened its doors.

Nine faculty and staff members of the original facility still work at the college. Staff mem-bers remembered their yearly salaries -- somewhere between the upper $5,000s and the high

The college now houses more than 9,300 students. After 25 years, the Continuing Education Center Service has grown to 260 classes with more than 15,000 participants yearly.

Educators outline standards for state English curriculum

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Suppose you are Jay Gatsby, the mysterious Long Island millionaire in F. Scott Fitzgerald's novel "The Great Gatsby." You hear Martin Luther King's speech "I Have A Dream." How do you respond?

That's the kind of question a suburban high school student would face in an American literature course unit of 10 weeks on "The American Dream," said Dr. Charles Peters, a consultant for the Oakland Intermediate School District.

"It's more than writing a book report and regurgitating it,' Peters told the State Board of Education. "They learn to synthesize material, not just regurgitate it - but get below the surface and grapple with ideas.

'The Call of the Wild' is not just a dog story. It's about survival and natural selection. 'Heart of Darkness' is not just a trip up the river but a moral dilemma. We ask such questions as, Is the American dream achievable? We get kids to think

Peters led off an Oct. 24 presentation by educators on Benchmarks for the Model English Language Arts Content Standards for Curriculum, followed by speakers from Walled Lake, Birmingham, Southfield and Michigan State University.

Dreams change

The sum of efforts by 6,000 Michigan educators, the benchmarks are written in educationese: 12 content standards each for early elementary, late elementary, middle and high schools. In plain English, they are aimed at integrating the language arts of reading, writing, listening and speaking, as well as getting kids to compare characters in different stories with similar problems.

For example, said Peters, a student is assigned to interview persons from three different generations on the questions: What were your dreams? What obstacles did you encounter? What tools did you use to achieve

The students are asked to draw conclusions and make generalizations. They are asked to keep a dated journal and describe how their dreams changed over time.

Their literary sources are classic and contemporary: Twain's "Huckleberry Finn," Steinbeck's "The Grapes of Wrath," Miller's "Death of a Salesman," Time magazine essays, newspaper articles, Franklin Delano Roosevelt's inaugural address, poetry of Maya Angelou.

Students in groups take a character - such as Daisy in "Gatsby" and Willy Loman in "Salesman" - and describe how the character would respond in various situations. "They begin to use the voice and to evaluate," Peters said.

'Phonological Zoo'

Dr. Linda Ayres, principal of Commerce Elementary School in Walled Lake, described how three puppets are used in a ninemonths sequence called the "Phonological Zoo." Funny Bunny teaches rhyming, Cameron the Camel teaches alliteration, and Sally Spider teaches sounds.

Youngsters learn through reading, listening, writing, singing, word games and dancing, said Ayres, who has won prizes for research in the teaching of reading and is an adjunct professor at Oakland University.

We are very sensitive to the opinions of parents and teachers. Our parent population is very supportive, 98.5 percent, of the academic work," she said.

John Klemme, assistant principal of Birmingham Covington School, said the benchmarks define literacy. "We celebrate the power of language as the most important of human gifts. It explores issues of timeless importance - who are we and what can we become? How did our decisions affect others around us?" he said.

Karen Miller, president of the Southfield Board of Education. praised the benchmarks for "providing a framework for teachers to set standards that can be reached.

Writing should come as naturally for kids as brushing their teeth. I've watched both of my daughters become comfortable public speakers. They have no 'writer's block.' They learned sentence structure and grammar

'It's refreshing'

"It's refreshing to be in this state," concluded Dr. David Pearson, newly appointed distinguished professor of education at Michigan State University and a reading researcher. Peviously he was dean of education at the University of Illinois.

Pearson predicted the benchmarks would get "two diametrically opposed reactions. First, they're vague. Second, they are intrusive and create too many hoops to jump through.

These standards are the right compromise between civic virtue and individual liberty. There are many routes schools can take.

The standards are respectful of the rights of parents and teachers. Students should be able to use their skills outside the class-

"The standards are a roadmap. They leave schools some choice of routes. They are in the great American spirit of local control."

There were criticisms. In a separate presentation, Dr. Bob Sweet of the National Right to Read Foundation in Washington, D.C., said, "I haven't heard anything about how you measure success."

Dr. Annette Weinshank of The Reading Clinic called the standards "a hope. It cannot possibly do what it says it wants to do." She suggested Michigan educators "produce a coherent statement on early elementary reading that starts where they're supposed to end up."

expansion at Detroit Metro Airport will make the city a hub for tourists, he said. "Think about the national attention all this is getting . . . we'll be able to do in three years what it took Cleveland 10 years to do," Duggan added.

But Pursell said the toilet paper fiasco also received national media attention on NBC and in the Wall Street Journal, embarassing the region. In Pursell's bag of tricks, he pulled out a glossy, four color pamphlet that endorses Proposal S. So far, $700,000 has been spent on the campaign to get to the proposal passed. He predicted $1 million will be spent by Nov. 5. He also questioned why the Ford family, owners of the Detroit Lions, and Mike Ilitch, owner of the Tigers, need

$800,000 in state subsidy to build the stadium. According to Forbes magazine, Ford is worth $1 billion and Ilitch is worth $7-8 million, he said. "Let them pay for it," Pursell said.

Duggan said, "People say all will do is shift money around. If it shifts money from Oakland County to Wayne County, I like

S'craft board to hear Yack before deciding DDA issue

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK

The Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees will wait to hear from Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack before deciding whether to withdraw from a downtown development authority in that township.

Trustees voted 4-2 Wednesday to delay any DDA decision until the board's November meeting.

Trustees Brian Broderick, Richard DeVries, Stephen Ragan and Patricia Breen supported the motion, while chairman Patricia Watson and trustee Carol Strom opposed it. Trustee John Walsh was absent.

The Canton DDA was created in 1984 for an 80-acre area along a strip on Ford Road from Morton Taylor to Sheldon. The DDA is a form of tax increment financing, which allows local governments to "capture" increases in property value to finance infrastructure improve-

The DDA diverts assessment growth to the municipality that normally goes to the community college. It cannot capture school taxes for K-12 education.

By resolution, Schoolcraft's board can opt out of the DDA.

The Canton Township board agreed on Oct. 10 to expand the DDA boundaries to include 773 acres, stretching from the city of Westland to west of Canton Center Road.

The expansion will give the Canton DDA $47,715 in 1997 that will not go to Schoolcraft. Estimates show that figure growing to $57,000 in five years. That figure is currently $14,990.

We need to ask whether or not you want to continue to not have these taxes come to Schoolcraft," said Butch Raby, vice president of business services.

DDAs and Tax Increment Finance Authorities prevent Schoolcraft from collecting $109,414 in property taxes it normally would receive.

Ragan lobbied for the board to listen to Yack before making a decision. Ragan said the DDA will address "serious problems" along Ford Road. About $25 million in development will be addressed this year, Ragan said.

Breen said her biggest concern was the students. "We'll probably have to increase tuition to offset this," she said before she switched her vote. An earlier motion had been made not to enter the expanded DDA, which resulted in a 3-3 tie vote. In that case, chairman Watson's vote would have carried that motion.

Strom agreed that the roads should be improved, but not with money otherwise directed to students. "But the question is who should pay for that?" she asked. "Should the students and the college pay for that? I don't think they should."

wanted to address the board before it decided if it would opt out of the DDA. The motion then carried to wait for next month's Yack said he would work hard to convince the board about the DDA's need for Schoolcraft and how the community college and township feed off each other's prosperity.

"Communities like Canton have added a great deal to (the community college's) district," Yack said. "(Canton is) a lot like the goose that laid the golden egg. Otherwise, that goose that laid the golden egg will have a hard time laying the golden

The DDA will add turn lanes, and infrastructure improvements to draw residents to the area. Yack said the road improvements would ease traffic concerns. If residential assessed values continue to grow, the community college will continue to reap those benefits, Yack said.

Yack was concerned that Schoolcraft would consider opting out.

"Canton was willing to give up nine mills of SEV, we're asking them for 1.8 mills," Yack said.

Canton officials hope to initiate the DDA by the year's end, so the DDA can capture in 1997 revenue for the projects that were completed this year, Yack

Signs will identify Rouge streams

The Rouge River Remedial Action Plan Advisory Council recommended the installation of signs to identify tributary streams in the Rouge River watershed.

The council helps oversee the revitalization of the Rouge River with Wayne County. The project is financed through the federally-funded wet weather demonstration project.

Robert Fredericks, director of the division of watershed management for Wayne County's department of the environment, said the county wanted to work with local communities on sign placement.

"Since the watershed is so large, (county officials) will be identifying certain relevant places to put the signs," Freder icks said.

The resolution said increasingthe public awareness about the location of surface waters within the Rouge River watershed and their physical relationship to the Rouge will likely raise interest in the river.

Geology talk slated

Dr. Philip Meyers, a nationally-known professor of geological sciences from the University of Michigan, will be the speaker at the Plymouth Library's Focus meeting at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 12 in the commission chamber of the Plymouth City Hall.

Professor Meyer's accompanying slides will cover "Tropical Michigan - Then and Now." He will trace Michigan's geological journey as coral reefs became Petoskey stones. Michigan's geological future will also be discussed. A question and answer period will follow his presentation.

The Friends of the Plymouth District Library are sponsoring this rare opportunity to hear this renowned speaker in the Plymouth area, said Janet Campbell of the Friends of the Library. All are welcome.

Job training available

Good news for recent graduates of Canton and Salem high schools has just arrived in the form of a job-training grant from Lans-

Any graduate under the age of 20 is eligible for free job training in one of the 30 job training classes offered in the district's community education program.

These programs are similar to community college programs. Job training classes range from seven-and-a-half weeks to one year.

A few of the most popular programs include phlebotomy, medical assisting, dental assisting, pharmacy technician, cosmetology, manicure, computerized office, heating and air conditioning, TV/VCR repair, automotive repair and several others.

CATCH program growing

In 1989, David Edwards, a fifth-grade teacher at Canton's Field Elementary School, wanted to help his students understand their social science program, "Living Up to Your Potential."

He viewed "Kids for CATCH" (Caring Athletes Teaming for Children and Henry Ford Hospitals) as a great example to demonstrate to his students how hard it can be for children to realize their dreams.

Edwards' class held raffles and kept a coffee can of daily donations. At the end of the school year, his class presented the CATCH program, launched by former Detroit Tiger manager Sparky Anderson, with a check for more than $1,300.

Since the program was launched, it has blossomed. Now a fifth-grade teacher at Bentley Elementary, Edwards and his class recently presented CATCH President Alan Trammell with a check for more than Edwards is not one to take credit himself, however. "The children are doing a lot of the legwork. They've pitched in their pennies over the years, which has been nice," he said.

"It has grown over the years, and pretty much operates by itself. I'm just kind of here for the ride. It's gone very well, and the money goes for a great cause. Sparky, Alan Trammell, and Jim Hughes (of CATCH) have been wonderful. They've been supportive of our program. But we're just one small piece of a big puzzle."

"The beauty of 'Kids for CATCH' is the fact that it is limited only by the creativity of the students and teacher, and in some cases, the parents," said CATCH Board Chairman Edsel B. Ford II. "There is nothing more heartwarming than children raising money for other children."

CITIZENS NON AGENDA ITEM COMMENTS

Robert S. Mullen, 44147 Michigan Ave, volunteered to represent Canton senior citizens regarding parking for senior citizens at the Summit on the Park. He asked the Board to consider giving Canton seniors easier access into the Summit by allowing senior citizens the usage of the Banquet center doors as a temporary solution. He noted that $750,000 Community Development Block Grant money attributed to a Canton senior center was used to help build the Summit on the Park; therefore, he felt consideration should be given to easier ingress and egress for senior citizens.

PRESENTATIONS: LEGISLATIVE ISSUES UPDATE

State Senator Loren Bennett presented a legislative update on the amendment to SB1011. Senator Bennett briefed the Board on a legislative initiative he has taken regarding road funding, road work and road maintenance. He stated that he added an amendment to Senate Bill 1011 that would allocate money directly from the state to the Townships with populations of 10,000 or more. Mr. Bennett explained that currently money from the state's gas and weight tax is distributed to the 76 townships by the 21 counties. Senator Bennett said the specific township would have the option of continuing status quo and working through their county, or receiving the money directly from the state and contracting out the necessary road work services. Senator Bennett explained that the townships would not be allowed to develop their own road department. He said that the amendment is presently in the House to be decided upon after the November 5, 1996 election.

In response to concerns by Trustee McLaughlin, Senator Bennett said that the liability of roads would be with the townships. He noted that any Interstate or State highways would remain the liability of the specific jurisdictions. Senator Bennett emphasized that nothing would be taken away from the cities or the counties of Michigan, the money in question is generated strictly on behalf of the townships. He said the money is generated in trust for the townships. Senator Bennett compared the level of service Canton is receiving at $2.5 million per year, he said that based on the state numbers Canton should be receiving in excess of $11 million per year.

PRESENTATION OF KEEP MICHIGAN BEAUTIFUL PLAQUE FOR THE DDA STREET SCAPE

Supervisor Yack introduced Ralph Shufeldt, Downtown Development Authority Board. Mr. Shufeldt represented Canton Township at an Awards Ceremony two weeks ago in Frankenmuth. He received an award on behalf of Canton by the Keep Michigan Beautiful Authority for doing an outstanding job of maintaining a beautiful downtown area. Mr. Shufeldt presented the award to Melissa McLaughlin and Thomas Yack for their efforts on the DDA Board. He cited that they were instrumental in helping to acquire the flowers, brick wall, pavers and other quality improvement to the downtown area. He added that Mr. Yack and Ms. McLaughlin helping to expand the boundaries of the DDA to include the entire Ford Road business district.

Supervisor Yack thanked Mr. Shufeldt and stated that in 1984 the Downtown Development Authority Board was empaneled and has taken well over ten (10) years to produce a street scape along Ford Road.

Mr. Shufeldt added that Geri Wojcik, 44251 Cranberry, was also recognized by the Keep Michigan Beautiful Committee for her volunteer services to the Canton Beautification Committee.

RESOLUTION OF

Central Park Preliminary Planned Development District WHEREAS, the Project Sponsor, Mr. Steven Friedman, has proposed the development of a residential Planned Development District to be known as Central Park Planned Development District, located on the west side of Beck between Cherry Hill and Geddes Roads and extending west of Denton Road;

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission, at a public hearing, reviewed the proposed Preliminary Planned Development District Agreement, and recommended APPROVAL of the Central Park Preliminary Planned Development District, based on the following findings of fact and as summarized in the attached written analysis and recommendation:

1. The proposed planned development has been designed as an integrated development linked together by a boulevard collector road and has provided 39% total open space, exceeding the 25% minimum requirement;

2. The proposed open space includes 39 acres of land for a park and 71 acres of land for a golf course which will be deeded to Canton Township, which provides a benefit not otherwise achievable under standard ordinance requirer The proposed plan has an overall residential density of 1.34 dwelling units/acre which is consistent with the maximum base density of 1.53 dwelling units/acre permitted to be considered by the Future Land Use policies of the Comprehensive Plan and the underlying Zoning;

4. Open space not proposed to be deeded to Canton Township will be considered common open space and will be maintained by a homeowner's

5. A majority of the existing natural habitat, including wooded and wetland areas, are proposed to be preserved in approximately 147 acres of common open space;
6. The project sponsor has provided necessary buffer areas and has committed to paying for all utilities and infrastructure to serve the proposed development, including the paving of Denton Road to its southernmost property line and will not have an adverse fiscal impact on the Township, an onomic impact on surrounding properties, nor impact future development of

7. The road network of the proposed plan, the commitment of the developer to pave Denton Road and the applicable sections of Proctor Road at the point of connection or impact, and the proposed pedestrian system connecting all of the open space areas meets all of the criteria for public access and traffic impact;

8. The proposed schedule of modifications to the zoning ordinance outlines the basic development standards for all of the residential lots and condominium units and meets the general intent of the zoning ordinance for said lots and units; and

9. Subject to the following conditions:

a. All of the 120 x 150 foot lots (primarily along the east side of Denton Road) shall maintain a rear setback of 50 feet.

20th District

Law has needed experience

s voters head to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 5, several key races should attract the attention of Plymouth- area voters. One is for state representative in the 20th District, in which incumbent Republican Gerald Law is challenged by Democrat Deborah Hoadley.

In this race, Law is the better choice for voters.

The district, which includes Plymouth and portions of Northville and Livonia, is currently represented by Law, who is one of the longest-serving members of the Michigan State House of Representatives.

Gerald Law

Law, a Republican, is a solid performer for the Plymouth community. His work isn't usually high profile, but he has doggedly pursued issues that have an effect on Plymouth.

Educational funding has been a top issue. Plymouth-Canton schools receive about $1,000 less per student from the state than do Northville and Livonia.

Law has been working with Gov. John Engler to try to make up for that shortfall. Although he hasn't been successful, Law has tried to change Proposal A to allow a longer time during which the Plymouth-Canton schools could ask for a property tax millage that would be kept by the district.

While Dr. Jack Kevorkian has been grabbing the headlines, Law was crafting legislation to address the issue of physician-assisted

His legislation has allowed hospices to expand their roles in caring for terminally ill patients. Law considers pain management a state issue that should be addressed.

However, there are some concerns about Law. He is a longtime political figure in Plymouth, who some say maneuvered to survive the anti-incumbency and term limits movement in the 1990s.

He served as state representative from 1983-1991, then resigned when he was appointed Plymouth Township supervisor, a post for which he did not run. He was out of politics from 1992 until 1994 when he beat former State Rep. Jerry Vorva in the Republi-urge Michigan voters to read Proposal G carefully when they cast their ballot.

Do you really want to give away your right to vote on this or any other issue you are concerned about?

How do you feel knowing public funds are spent to tell us not to feed the bears; and yet it is perfectly all right for hunters to put out food/bait year-round for these same bears, to lure them to a particular spot so the hunter just goes to the bait site and shoots them? They no longer have to get out and track them during hunting season.

Real "sporting," isn't it?

The Department of Natural Resources thinks so and they now want you, the voter, not to have a say in the future concerning Michigan's wildlife.

Somebody thinks that Michigan voters are so stupid that they need to have someone else make all decisions for them.

Voting for this proposal says you agree with them and need the government to tell you how things should be done.

Rivers best for Congress

ncumbent Lynn Rivers is the best choice in the race for Congress in the 13th District.

The Observer recommends voters in the Plymouth community reward her solid performance over the last two years and return her to Congress on Tuesday, Nov. 5.

Throughout the campaign Rivers has articulated her views clearly, intelligently and honest-

Lynn Rivers Her Republican opponent, Joe Fitzsimmons, although an intellint and personable man has been unable to clearly articulate a case for replacing Rivers. His campaign has relied heavily on rhetoric. He offers vague proposals and pat phrases to explain his stand on issues while Rivers provides clear, concise explanations which only serve to demonstrate her understanding of a wide range of complex issues. The Fitzsimmons campaign also has gone to great lengths to mislead voters and misrepresent Rivers' stands on several issues including the balanced budget, education and her statements in Congress on partial birth abortion. Such tactics smack of dirty politics and are characteristic of a campaign that has no clear direction or purpose.

Rivers is conscientious and hard-working. She has a keen mind for the policy issues and unlike many candidates we have seen come and go over the years she - not her staff formulates her position on issues.

Throughout her political life - as a school board member, state representative and member of Congress - she has been attentive to her constituents, whatever their political per-

Rivers is also very accessible and visible. She is tireless and appears committed to serving the public in a positive way. She conducts frequent town meetings, issues forums and community coffees where she comes to listen and inform - not campaign.

Rivers clearly understands the legislative process, knows how to analyze problems quickly and find possible solutions, and deal with her peers in a positive manner.

We believe her support of balancing the budget before cutting taxes, using tax dollars for programs that offer long-term benefits to society such as college student loans and spending cuts such as the welfare reform bill have been responsible and in the best interests of voters in western Wayne County.

Rivers also has advocated that Congress put its own house in order when it comes to spending cuts. She does not spend money like her Congressional colleagues.

In her second year in Congress, the Nation al Taxpayers Union ranked her 427th out of 435 members of the U.S. House in spending to run her House office for staff salaries and benefits, district office operations and franked mail postage. She returned $244,000 of her budgeted allocation to the national Treasury last year. She spent 71 percent of her budget "allowance," the lowest of any member of Michigan's congressional delegation - Democrat or Republican.

And, she has authored a bill to cut government perks, including pensions, automatic pay raises and free parking. She voted for giftlimitation rules which she has personally put into practice in her own office. She doesn't accept gifts or free meals.

Although we don't always agree with all of her views, Rivers' experience, integrity and intelligence make her a solid choice in the 13th District.

In addition to a Republican challenger, other minor party candidates on the ballot include Jim Hartnett, Socialist Equity Party, James F. Montgomery, Libertarian Party, and Jane Cutter, Workers World Party.

The 13th District has a lot of independent voters who want a substantive and ethical person representing them in Congress. That person is Lynn Rivers.

Road millage unfair

am intrigued by your recent endorsement of the millage for road repairs.

I fear it will be a difficult selling job as there are a great number of disillusioned residents in the city.

A few years ago, many of us were hit with the special assessment for the last road program. A number of letters were written protesting the direct assessment plan; several residents articulated a number of concerns at city council meetings.

As an example, many residents of Penniman discussed the disproportionate use of that street by nonresidents.

The various festivals, access to downtown, and signs directing people to the health center were used as evidence of the traffic patterns.

We were told in no uncertain terms - by the mayor, the council, and the city manager that our concerns would play no role in their decision to levy the taxes.

Now that those residents (including myself) have paid the last of our 10-year assessments, we are being asked to pay again.

Plus the city is going to devote an entire issue of the Courier to "sell" the idea, and the Observer is endorsing it.

Where was that sense of community, where was your concern about fairness before? Why is it a good idea today when it was characterized as such a lousy idea before? I have yet to talk to a single individual in my neighborhood who endorses the millage plan; many are quite bitter that it is even being considered, much less being pushed by the city. I would suggest that if the backers want this to pass, that they need to make a concerted effort to explain the perceived benefits to those residents who were forced to pay for the last program. And, don't expect any miracles.

Parent forum helpful

The monthly parent forum for Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem High Schools on Monday, Oct. 7, was outstanding.

The principals from both schools were present as were all but one counselor (who was on a student trip). The topic for the day was what the counselors do, and can do, for the students and their families.

Each counselor is responsible for an average of 350 students and each has an area in which they specialize.

They continue this process with each class each year, according to the speakers. Little, if any, of this information makes it home to the parents of these children. The parents keep asking their children about child services, college applications, scholarships, portfolios, mentor programs, writing samples, student/counselor conferences, NCAA rules, tests like the ACT, SAT and others. These counselors took the time to explain all of this and more to the parents that were there, all 35 of us.

I would like to thank the staff for their great presentation and the principals who continue these forums when there is such a small turnout. The next meeting is 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 12, Room 1316.

Our Mission: "Because we publish community newspapers, we think about community journalism in a fundamentally different way than our bigger competition. They consider themselves to be independent from the stories and communities they cover, swooping in to write the unusual or sensational and then dashing off to cover something else. We regard ourselves as both accurate journalists and as caring citizens of the communities where we work."

Road millage favored

am writing in support of the street repair millage. Lest this support seem self-serving, let me add that our street is not scheduled for repair in the 10-year plan. Under the current method, we would get off "Scot free." This hardly seems fair, since we regularly use several of the streets which are scheduled for repair. And, I think it's safe to say that just about everybody in this community uses more than just the street in front of their house, and we all would benefit from better roads. Less wear and tear on our cars from potholes and rough roads, enhanced community image resulting in enhanced property values, better cost-effectiveness on needed repairs - the list of ways in which we all benefit is long.

But for me, the strongest argument is that we are a community. This has long been my favorite aspect of living in Plymouth, we have retained that sense of community that so many cities have lost. Should we now tell "some" residents that they should bear the entire cost of better streets that we all will use? I don't think so. We all pay for good schools regardless of whether we have children, because it is good for the community. Better roads are a community good, and the community should pay for them.

Who is 'us'?

Avoice for us? Mr. Fitzsimmons must mean his "us" – the upper class, white, male, divorced, business owner whom he represents: another silver-spoon politician. He certainly doesn't represent my "us" – the middle class, multiracial, male and female, hard-working, family-oriented "us" who are the employees of this country.

Mr. Fitzsimmons and company are broken records complaining about Lynn Rivers' "whining." I guess then he must think that all of us who started out young and broke, with kids to protect and care for, must be whiners too. Lots of us, like Lynn, went to work and on to night school to work on our degrees. It took grit and determination to accomplish the goals we set for ourselves. Mr. Fitzsimmons obviously has no experience or compassion for the kind of lives most of us have led.

Lynn has worked hard, in her family, her hometown and in the Congress for "us," the people she represents. She hasn't forgotten or ignored our veterans, either. She's provided help and service each and every time she was asked. She's volunteered her time in the community to benefit needy causes.

So, Mr. Fitzsimmons, we the voters who come from the middle class, humble, working backgrounds will be voting for Lynn Rivers this year since she is the voice for us.

Nancy Spencer Canton

Fitzsimmons the best

As November elections come closer, I expect your newspaper to pay more and more attention to the races that affect the residents of Washtenaw County: from presidential to local.

I'd like to bring to your attention the candidacy of Joe Fitzsimmons, who is running for the U.S. Congress.

Even before I met him, I heard that Mr. Fitzsimmons has been an active member of our community; he participated in the founding of the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum, as a president of UMI he helped to create more then 1,000 new jobs in Washtenaw County.

He is listening to the people for a change and is running on a commonsense platform.

I believe that he will be a valuable addition to the U.S. Congress and a considerable improvement over our current representative. I hope some day to see him as a subject of one (or more) of your election coverage.

POINTS OF VIEW

Eugene Gurevich Ann Arbor

Rivers is moderate

consider myself a moderate Republican, which means I've been voting for Democrats lately.

In particular, I support Lynn Rivers' reelection to congress. She is a person of intelligence and integrity. Her record also belies the Democratic reputation for fiscal profligacy. For example, she voted for the welfare reform act. The National Taxpayers Union voted her one of the ten most frugal members of congress, and she returned $244,000 of her officeholders expense fund (that's our money) because she said she didn't need that much.

Normally, I consider a person's private life private, but since her Republican opponent, Joe Fitzsimmons, has been campaigning in favor of "family values," it's worth noting that he divorced his wife last year. I'd rather be a deer on opening day than the first wife of a Republican politician.

Mr. Fitzsimmons has also been misrepresenting Lynn Rivers' voting record and positions, so if you want correct information, call her headquarters at 665-5115.

Sheryl Tripp Khoury Plymouth

A moderate view

Being a student at Eastern Michigan University, I am very concerned about the future.

This is one of the reasons why I am very interested in the congressional race of the 13th District.

If Lynn Rivers is re-elected, we are going to have an even bigger struggle trying to make ends meet.

Rivers voted in favor of $538 billion in new taxes and government spending. And we paid for every penny.

Lynn Rivers didn't even vote for the balanced budget amendment. Joe Fitzsimmons will cut our taxes and make the bureaucracy smaller, giving us more control over where our money goes.

Being an independent, and socially moderate, I am very supportive of Joe Fitzsimmons. His views are much more representative of this district than Rivers'.

This is not a district of extremists left-wingers, which is what Rivers look like. She even voted to keep the partial birth abortion legal. Only an extremist would vote to keep such a disgusting procedure legal.

We need to restore moderateness, and integrity to the House of Representatives. Joe Fitzsimmons would bring back sensible economic leadership, a moderate social agenda and, above all, integrity to our government.

> Katrina L. Sutton Ypsilanti

Pro-business approach

have read a few letters and articles in the Observer about the race for U.S. representative of the 13th District, which includes Canton.

The letters "No to Rivers" and "Rivers supported" dealt with the backgrounds of both Joe Fitzsimmons (business) and Lynn Rivers (housewife, student, school board member, etc.) and how these backgrounds will make them better or worst servants of the people. In my mind, if the economy is doing well, the people are doing well. Don't tell me what you can do for my family. Keep the economy strong and I will take care of my family.

To this end, I feel the candidate that I vote for is going to have to be pro-business. I am not sure (who) Rep. Rivers is. Her vote against granting China most-favored-nation status indicated to me that she is oblivious net only to the workings of business but is uninformed on international issues. Michigan depends on exports to fuel its economy. The civil rights of the Chinese people have come a long way because of greater trade relations and will not improve if you isolate them again. Rep. Rivers may be great at relating to the average Joe, but I am afraid the average Joe needs someone that can also relate to business and the economy.

Janusz M. Szyszko Canton

Fitzsimmons backed

Joe Fitzsimmons is my choice for the 13th Congressional District of Michigan because he has a simple agenda which touches on issues important to me.

I've heard Joe speak several times and I'm convinced that his commonsense approach is the right one to represent our district. He wants to improve the system, not destroy it. He's a successful businessman who wants to give something back.

In fact, two of his greatest strengths are that he has never held political office and that he's not an attorney. Nothing against attorneys, it's just that we have too many attorneys in Congress now.

If the pollsters are correct and President Bill Clinton is elected by a margin large enough to sweep in majorities in both houses of Congress, it could be my worst nightmare in living color.

Perhaps that thought will motivate a few more thinking people to consider voting for Joe Fitzsimmons as a real change and a voice for us.

Money pours into campaigns, but it's not for best causes

s this year's political season comes down to the last few 20-second-spotinfested days, my own thinking keeps circling back to one thing: Money, the mother's milk of politics.

I've never seen so much money spent on so many different races.

It's the millions being poured into the U.S. Sehate and congressional contests throughout Michigan. It's the hundreds of thousands of dollars being spent in Michigan on the various state and local ballot proposals. Nationally, best estimates are that something like $1 billion is being spent on the presidential race alone.

Numbers like that tend to bring out the cynic in me.

Frankly, I doubt that much money is being spent solely for idealism or in passionate conviction that paragraph 2(b) in the party platform is really worth it. Big money is going to be put up by smart people only if they see a big payoff quite clearly in the near future.

We certainly have succeeded in creating the ultimately efficient political system. Shorn of the inconvenience of political parties pulling ordinary people into loose coalitions, we have erected a politics in which wealthy interest groups — whether labor unions or trial lawyers, whether developers or conservationists — contend directly for the influence and wealth that arise as the result of governmental acts.

As evidence, consider this year's contests to fill the two posts on the Michigan Supreme

Time was, judicial campaigns rotated around a mixture of name ID (in these parts, Irish helps) and judicial philosophy (whatever that means) and juridical temperament.

No longer. Four of the candidates for the court – all sane and sensible people – find themselves sadly positioned as pawns for conflicting interest groups.

The Michigan Trial Lawyers Association has

The Michigan Trial Lawyers Association has thrown its considerable muscle behind one of its own, Court of Appeals Judge William Murphy, a Democratic nominee. As of the most recent campaign finance report, Murphy had raised some $375,000 for this campaign. Of this, more than $100,000 came from donations from members of one Southfield law firm, Sommers, Schwartz, Silver and Schwartz.

This despite the naive-sounding advice on appaign fund-raising put out by the State Bar Michigan: "a (candidate) committee may stept unsolicited contributions ... provided that is contributions are not so large as to give an imprance of attempting to bias the candidate the contributor's favor."

Ignoring the slightly contrary-to-fact qualities inherent in the adjective "unsolicited," just which law firm is entitled to the presumption of bias before the Supreme Court if Judge Murphy were to be elected?

To be sure, both Republican-nominated candidates, Chief Justice James Brickley and Oakland Circuit Judge Hilda Gage, have also raised money from political committees. The Michigan Bankers Association ($10,000 per candidate), the Michigan Chamber of Commerce ($5,000 each) and a coalition of hospital groups ($10,000 each) are hardly in the business of tossing big checks around with no expectation of a benign outcome.

With all of this stuff going on, a cynic might suggest that our legal system could reach hitherto unimagined efficiency if each legal brief submitted to our judges also were to include an indication of how much special interest PACs and which lawyers and law firms contributed to their campaigns. Then at least the donors would be better able to correlate the provision of justice to the extent of campaign contributions.

Obviously, that's a low blow. I've known Justice Brickley and Appeals Judge Marilyn Jean Kelly (the other Democratic nominee) for years and respect enormously their thoughtfulness and integrity. Judge Murphy and Judge Gage, too, have fine reputations.

But their ability to convince ordinary people that the application of the law is impartial and fair is being sorely jeopardized by our political system that is increasingly – and sadly – infested with the taint of special interest money.

FAMILY ROOM

KAREN MEIER

Let me count our blessings

he phoenix is already rising from the ashes - rising from The Letter you saw in the "Family Room" last week. You've been sharing your thoughts, you've been talking at the office, at home, with your moms, husbands and wives about The Letter. Good is coming of it. And I'll share your thoughts here in the "Family Room," like a forum, beginning next week.

But for today, I'll share my thoughts - on one particular passage in The Letter: " ... all of us working moms really got upset at how you tried to present to the world what a great blessing having your last 'special needs' child was. One of the women in our group has raised a handicapped child, she has a special education background ... her response to your article on that topic was 'This lady is trying to convince herself that this is something special, she doesn't have a clue ... this will take its toll on the whole family."

"This" is My Baby. He IS a great blessing. That is neither pretense nor exaggeration. It's the truth. And there's never been a need to be convinced or to convince anyone on that. He is, all my children are, blessings.

Our five blessings

Steven is the youngest of five children, the five children of mine who were granted birth and life. There were others who were not granted this, they were taken from us by way of four miscarriages and one ectopic pregnancy. I lost these children, I still grieve for them.

Steven, though, was granted life. And we rejoice! He was strong enough and spirited enough to make it through. In my experience, that's extraordinary, that's a blessing. And the fact that he was born with Down syndrome declares even more emphatically his strength and indomitable spirit. He made it to me and my husband and our other children in spite of it all.

Steven's birth on the way to the hospital on that bitter cold winter midnight on a lonely country road makes his standing in the "blessing" category rock solid. There were no doctors around to assist. The passenger seat I was sitting in was bolt upright. My husband was driving as fast as the slippery roads would permit, when Steven emerged.

It was six degrees below zero that night. Not a house, not a soul in sight. And when the van finally came to a stop on that cold, dark night, my baby was in the world and in my hands. God had put him there. And there is no one who can convince me otherwise. And when he wasn't breathing after he had been born, I wanted to scream and cry and shake my fist upwards, "It's not fair, God. Don't do this.'

But, instead, it wasn't a fist I saw, it was a hand, my own, wiping the baby's nose off and my husband's hand wiping the baby's mouth out. And Steven coughed and then he cried. He was here. In the world. In our hands. Through it all.

A blessing, for sure

He is a blessing. I will shout it from the top of the highest mountain for no one or for everyone to hear. It doesn't matter who hears, I know it. All five of my children are the greatest blessings I could ever know. That knowledge is in my heart and in my head. There was never a moment when this child's foundation was shaken, when his place on this earth or in this family was in question.

People have told us, "Steven is so lucky to have you as his family."

"No," I tell them. "We're the lucky ones." I don't know what we as a family or I as an individual have done in God's eyes to be granted such a tremendous, precious gift. I do know - none of us is paying a toll. He is work, to be sure. But all children are "work." He goes to school, with me and two of his brothers, each week. He had eye surgery about a month ago. Lots of doctor visits involved with that, lots of trips many miles up the road and bringing the other children along. He has significant hearing loss, the time involved in diagnosing that has been considerable. And what we will do in the future to help him overcome this obstacle will require more time. All of us are willing and happy and excited to do this for him.

That's how it has to be in a family. Because of

That's how it has to be in a family. Because of Steven, our world has opened up, our hearts have opened up.

We've been following a program of nutritional therapy for Steven. We've met with the experts. We're spearheading a national organization to disseminate information about the therapy. This is not a "toll." This is life. And we celebrate it and we cherish it and we embrace it.

Life should never be a cheap proposition, where tolls are counted and blessings are not. If the road is wide enough, if the love encompasses all who travel there, there is no "toll." This fami-

The pumpkins are carved; the candy dishes filled with goodies. Hordes of Power Rangers, Dalmatians, fairy princesses and the usual ghoulies and ghosties are on the move.

It's Halloween, that one time of the year when it's fun to be scary and to be scared.

Halloween dates back 2,500 years to the Celts and their Druid priest who celebrated the "Lord of the Dead" on Oct. 31, the last day of their old

Trick or treating comes from the English custom of the poor begging for "soul cakes" for a promise to pray for the dead, while the custom of carving a jack-o'-lantern comes from Irish and English lore. Jack, so the story goes, broke a promise with the devil and as a result had to roam the earth to Judgment Day, carrying only a lantern to light his way. While some sources describe Halloween as a "children's holiday," the opposite is true.

Today's Halloween celebration has become a $2.6 billion bonanza. It is now the second most hyped and celebrated season of the year.

"Halloween is no longer just a day, it's a season," said Dr. Michael Bernacchi, marketing professor at the University of Detroit Mercy. "It's uniquely configured by and for (baby) boomers for them to relive their childhood.

"Not only do they do it for the kids and the family to make it a fun celebration, they do it for themselves.

That's not quite the case at MaryAnne Jacek's house in Canton Township. While her decorations entertain the neighborhood, they're "a little method of torture" for husband Dave, whose birthday falls on Oct. 31.

"He gets embarrassed, but I decorate in his honor," she said. "But it's all in fun. I started when we lived in Dearborn Heights with a little old man and woman. I told him, "This is gonna be us.' Unfortunately, they got stolen."

Scaredom's favorites

The display now includes scaredom's favorites - Frankenstein, the Grim Reaper and the Mummy - as well as a gargoyle on the roof. There are appropriate sound effects and music and strobe light and, new this year, a black

"Halloween is mine, Christmas is my husband's," she said of the decorating. "I've had people stop across the street and take pictures. The kids get embarrassed. They walk by the door and say, 'Oh God, there's more people out

The Jaceks have a good turnout for Halloween and humor those youngsters frightened by the display. For those who refuse to come to the door, they deliver their candy to them at the

"They see it day after day, but when it's dark, they tend to get scared, "she said. "I really like having Halloween for the kids."

Bernacchi traces the rise of Halloween as a season - "Without it, October would be a humdrum month." - to the 1960s, when the "funloving" boomers left home with a do-your-ownthing attitude, fueled by TV's "The Munsters" and "The Addams Family."

But the defining moment, according to Bernacchi, was the airing of Charles Schulz's "It's the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown" in 1966. Boomers were blossoming and they were able to take a favorite holiday into adulthood.

But with the tainted candy scares of the '70s casting a pall on the celebration, Halloween moved inside with malls, churches and the like offering a secure environment.

"That made a large contribution to institu-tionalizing this holiday," Bernacchi said. "The key indication was the holiday was already there, but this was an acknowledgement, like the pope canonizing it.

"For merchants, it was too good to pass up. These days, the marketplace can no longer let themed events happen by chance, they have to orchestrate them and Halloween was a convenient godsend."

Visitors welcomed

If that's the case, then Lynn Berger fills Bernacchi's bill. She's been decorating her house for about six years and "really enjoys the kids and their parents who come by," some in

"I'll have grandparents stop and say, 'Oh, you're doing it again; I always bring my grand-children by,' "Berger said. "And I think Detroit Edison enjoys it. I have three flood lights and a huge spotlight on the porch."

They family spent 12 hours on a Saturday putting up the display that includes Dr. Madman's Laboratory on the porch, complete with a patient and Nurse Torture.

There are 33 tombstones for notables from Ken and Barbie to Larry, Moe and Curly in the Rigormortis Cemetery, while the Dig and Bury Pet Cemetery is "home" for Elsie the Cow and Barney, to name a few

"I thinks it's my wacky brain that comes up with the ideas; my nickname is Loony Lynn,'

The Livonia resident estimates that close to 150 children and their parents visit the elaborate display on Halloween. She also admits that her son Jeff, then age 13, wasn't excited about the display when she first started doing it.

"He'd ask why we had to be the only ones on the block to do this, but now he thinks it's pret-ty neat," Berger said. "I've always enjoyed Halloween; it's my favorite holiday.

As for Kathy Hildebrandt, Halloween comes to life on Halloween and is a reflection of her enjoyment of being scared.

"I enjoyed being scared as a kid; my dad always did that," she said. "It's really fun getting scared on Halloween."

The headstones are carved from scrap Styrofoam husband Alan brought home from work.

Popular doll makers to visit Reme's

Limited edition: Zofia and Henry Zawieruszynski's newest doll, "Olga," was made specifically for Reme Tillman, owner of Reme's Collectibles in Canton. The dolls – there are 10 of them – sell for $1,285 each. SPECIAL WRITER

A pair of nationally-known doll makers will visit Canton this weekend to introduce a special, limited-edition porcelain doll, made exclusively for a local doll shop.

Doll artists Zofia and Henry Zawieruszynski, a Polish-born husband and wife team, are scheduled to visit Reme's Collectibles on Ford Road at Lilley Saturday, Nov. 2. The Zawieruszynskis will spend the afternoon signing dolls, chatting with customers and introducing "Olga," the limited-edition doll, which retails for $1,285, said Reme Tillman, owner of Reme's Collectibles. "Olga" is the newest doll in the Zawieruszynski Originals line of dolls, priced up to $4,000.

"This is a very special doll," said Tillman. "She is a limited edition with only 10 pieces and was made just for this store. Like all of the other dolls created by the Zawieruszynskis, she is just beautiful, with exquisite detailing."

For Tillman, who has owned and operated Reme's Collectibles in the Canton Corners shop-

Reme's Collectibles in the Canton Corners shopping center for the past eight years, "Olga" has special meaning. It was Tillman who stumbled upon the yet-to-be discovered artisans and their work while visiting a doll exposition in 1995.

"I felt like I discovered them. When I saw their dolls, immediately I knew that they would be famous," the store owner said. "I just knew that they would be a hit. Their dolls have eyes that talk back to you when you look into them. They reflect a great deal of emotion."

That emotion may come, in part, from the plight of the Zawieruszynskis.

The couple, artists in their native Poland, came to America, seeking work in 1988. They left behind two teenaged children, who stayed with relatives for six months before joining their parents. The couple settled in Minnesota and worked for a printing company before making their first dolls in 1992. The dolls immediately began winning awards, Tillman said. After viewing the dolls at the doll expo in Virginia, Tillman bought all six and brought them ome to Canton.

"I had them in the shop for only 20 minutes before they began to sell," she said. "The Zawieruszynskis are used to working very hard, and this is reflected in their work. People recognize

Tillman believes it is her special relationship with the couple that prompted them to craft the

"I like them very much, and so do our customers," she said. "I have a hard time keeping them in stock

She is also looking forward to introducing her customers to the couple. It is a good chance for owners to meet the creators of the pricey dolls.

"We have a family-type rapport with our cus-tomers," she said. "It will be a nice chance for them to learn more about the artists."

Tillman is also sponsoring visits from other doll makers and teddy bear artists throughout the coming week. Ruth Trefeissen, a doll artist from Germany, will visit the store on Nov. 4.

BEWARE OF H.O.

What is "H.O."? You can probably guess - it means "home odors."

Be careful of odors in your home. If your family room smells stale or your cat or dog has left a distinctive odor in the hallway, the important thing is to remove the root cause of the odor rather than to merely treat the symptoms. Smells have a powerful effect on the way people react to a house, and no amount of room freshener or vanilla on the light bulbs can mask a serious odor problem. In fact, such remedies may draw attention to the problem. We have seen homes with an odor problem languish unsold on the market for months or sell for thousands of dollars less than comparable homes in the neighborhood.

If you think that you may have a problem, talk candidly with your Realtor. Your agent should be able to offer some constructive suggestions, and perhaps refer you to a professional who can help banish H.O. from your home!

Morris was nominated for the support and exercise group facilitated by Morris.

"I encourage anyone who has a question to join a support group; I have been a member of ENCORE group for 19 years and we are never too old and help others," said Rosa. "I recommended Sharon Morris for an achievement award for all her volunteer work and for all the years she has helped other people. ENCORE has helped a lot of women. That's why I said if anybody has any questions they should join a group.

"Even if they don't have cancer, they have something else. They still should join a group to get help because if you ask you're going to get help, if you don't then you won't. Look at all the people that have problems in the world and they don't ask. They don't know who to ask."

ENCORE was founded in 1972 in New York by registered nurse Helen Glines Kohut, a qualified swimming and ballet instructor who had a mastectomy. Morris had breast cancer in 1977 and joined ENCORE a year later when the first group in the metropolitan Detroit area was formed.

"I started as a participant because I had an open incision and couldn't move my hand or my arm for five months," she said. "There was another facili-

She joined the group to regain use of her arm, so she could continue wallpapering, crocheting, and doing arts and crafts. Lewallen said she has been tremendously helped by Morris, the program, and fellow mastectomy patients.

The hot tub, the swimming and the arm exercises we do in the water, all of that helps. I consider these gals my friends now," she said. "It's helpful to know that you're sitting across the table from somebody that's had that done to them years ago and look how good they're doing. It gives you incentive to do what they did to get in their shape. Morris meets with ENCORE members from 9-11:30 a.m. Thursdays at the Forum Health Spa, 34250 Ford Road at Wildwood in Westland. "That one was already established and St. Mary needed my help more, so I dropped that program," Morris said.

Running support groups, Morris said, is just as educational for her as it is the members. "The support groups, I've been doing these for almost 20 years, since 1977," she said. "I learned something new every time I have a group.."

A $2 per session fee and doctor's permission are required to participate in ENCORE. For more information, call the YWCA at (313) 561-4110. The group will have a craft sale Friday-Sunday, Nov. 22-24, , at the Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford Road.

Book discussion focuses on women

Several writers who contributed to a book of autobiographical essays will be at the Little Professor Bookstore in Plymouth on Saturday, Nov. 2, to discuss their work.

The essays are part of "Private Voices, Public Lives: Women Speak on the Literary Life," edited by Nancy Owen Nelson and published by the University of North Texas Press in June 1995.

The writers will speak about their essays, discussing the background of them and possibly reading brief passages during the gathering 1-3 p.m. at the cappuccino bar in the rear of the bookstore. There also will be time for questions from the audi-

Several of the The books promotes the use of the personal voice in conjunction with traditional critical analysis to discuss the connections between the public lives and private voices of the women.

Each wrote an autobiographical essay in which she explored the role which text - through reading, teaching or writing has shaped and directed her own consciousness.

The includes 24 essays, six of which were written by Michigan residents. Four are associated with Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn - Lois Hassan and Nelson who are English nstructors, Elsie Mayer, a retired English instructor, and Grace Stewart who is with the college's Focus on Women pro-

The other Michigan authors are Catherine Lamb, who is with the Great Lakes Colleges Association in Ann Arbor, and Carol S. Chadwick, a professor at Wayne County Community College. The essays cover a wide range of literary materials from the writings of Katherine Ann

Porter, Laura Ingalls Wilder and Ann Morrow Lindburgh to those of Frederick Manfred and Hart

The essays open the door for a new approach to writing about literature and provide good reading for the general reader, the student of English and the literary and women's studies scholar, according to Nelson.

The popular strength of "Private Lives" is the power and freedom it gives to the personal voices of the writers. It gives them the opportunity, possible for the first time, to write about how literature has shaped their lives, consciousness and decisions, she said.

Writer has a magnetic personality

I have been reading your column for many years find and handwriting very interesting! I am very interested in the way peo-ple write. I am a right-handed, 39-year-old female. My teachers used tell me I draw my letters instead of writing them. I hold my pen very tightly and I like to I have been married for 12 years and I have three children. I love my family and I love people.

Please analyze my handwriting. I will look forward to seeing it in the paper!

Thank you! J.R.,

Livonia

This large bold handwriting suggests a woman who wants to create a lasting impression on others. She demands room and seems to know how to get it.

She has a magnetic personality, combined with leadership qualities. She is also self-sufficient and relies on herself for what she wants to accomplish. She is determined to overcome obstacles and has many good ideas. She rarely misses a trick.

When starting in on a new activity she may be a tad cautious. However, when she sees it is working she gains confidence and moves forward with accuracy and determination.

Much of her world revolves around what is happening right now. Her main concern is with the demands of day-today living, sociability and herself. She enjoys activities that involve people and she is empathetic and intuitive about them.

She likes to do things on a grand scale. She is able to focus on the large picture of things, while still retaining a feeling for

She has the abundant energy it takes to handle her home, family and sundry activities which consume so much of her time. She wants immediate gratification of her desires and does not like to wait.

This is a woman who takes an bjective view of situations. She thinks before she acts. There is an aura of control and poise about her. She is not one to share her personal life with many other people. In fact, she can be rather evasive, if pressured for answers.

Our writer is progressive and independent in her thinking. Seemingly, she has jettisoned some emotional baggage from the past. In the early years she did not perceive her parents united in their parenting. There are some things here she feels cannot change, so she has decided to accept them. A little anxiety is noted.

She seems to be very aware of time and uses hers wisely. She may equate time with money. A strong appreciation of what money can provide in creature comforts is hers

She probably also enjoys sports or some form of physical activity for relaxation.

A lively imagination abounds in the handwriting. It often entices her down the path of new adventures. She is probably a good storyteller. It also enables her to visualize future experiences as well as make her activities more creative.

When she wrote this letter she appeared to be overextended with too many irons in the fire. She was probably finding it difficult to keep things sorted out and to honor her commitments in timely fashion.

Her goals seem to be placed a little low for her capabilities. Someone once offered this valuable advice, "Reach for the moon. If you miss, you will still fall

Grace Christian Fellowship holds dedication service

On June 16, the Open Door Christian Church closed its doors for the last time in Northville. But the closing wasn't the end of the church.

A week later, on June 23, it opened its doors as Grace Christian Fellowship at its new location, 29520 Munger, south of Six Mile Road and west of Middlebelt Road, Livonia.

"God has given us a new name and a new place for worship where we can carry out God's purpose for this church," said Pastor Mark Freer. "We are excited about the new opportunities to reach out to this and surrounding communities."

On Sunday, Nov.. 3, Grace Christian will have its dedication and celebration service. The dedication service will be at 10 a.m. with the celebration starting at 7 p.m.

There also will be an open house with light refreshments, starting at 6 p.m.

Pastor Francis Martin of Family Life Fellowship in Lafayette, La., and long-time friend of Freer will be ministering at both services.

"Grace Fellowship is a group of people of all ages and backgrounds brought together by the Holy Spirit with a common desire to know God, glorify and enjoy him forever," Freer said. "Our name exemplifies what we believe. Grace is why we are here – God's grace. Christian is who we are – disciples of Jesus Christ. Fellowship is what we do - love, receive, serve and be

Free Agent victory

The first-ever Midwest Dekhockey Tournament attracted teams from throughout the midwest, but the winner was from the neighborhood -- the Canton Free Agents, who defeated another local squad, the Canton Panthers, 3-2 in the final Sunday at Michigan Dekhockey in Canton.

The Free Agents reached the finals by sweeping through the tournament without a loss. They opened with a 5-2 victory over the team they would meet in the final, the Panthers, on Saturday. Later that day they handled Team No Good easily, winning 12-2.

The Free Agents first game Sunday was against Team Pepsi, a match they won easily, 9-3. After that it was on to the tournament semifinals against Team Universal Stomp, a game they won 10-3.

The Panthers, led by the tournament's Most Valuable Goalie, Scott Fristick, upset Team MIDEK 3-2 in the semis. The Panthers trailed 2-0 going into the final period, then scored three times for the upset win. Canton residents on the Panthers are Sam and Josh Barrie, Craig Catello and Greg Pfiefer.

The Free Agents dominated action early against the Panthers in the final, outshooting them 27-12 and outscoring them 3-1 heading into the last period. The Panthers cut the deficit to one, but could not control play down the stretch.

Steelers stun Lions

•In the final regular-season game on the schedule, the Plymouth-Canton Steelers varsity football club clobbered the Canton Lions 27-0 Sunday. The Steelers have qualified for the playoffs; they'll open their run for the Superbowl Sunday.

Kevin Entsminger scored twice for the Steelers on two 1-yard touchdown plunges (one in each half), and quarterback Chris Hardy threw for one TD and ran for another. Hardy hit Chris Sherfey witha 10-yard scoring toss to open the scoring, then ran 3 yardson a quarterback keeper in the second half.

Marshall Tucker, Charlie Haeger, Chris Trott, Brad Lavallee and Hardy led the defense, which limited the Lions to 10 rushing yards.

Matthew Schuler, Jason Singleton, Brian Tomlinson, Brandon Szwejkowski and David Reeser led the defense.

•The Lion freshmen also finished their season with a win, beating the Steelers 12-0 -- their fourth-consecutive shutout. The Lion frosh finish with a 5-2-1 record.

Chris Drabicki scored the first touchdown in the first half on a 15-yard draw play. David Thomas cushioned the Lion lead with a 1-yard

The defense was led by nose tackle Jonathan Wood, who forced four fumbles. Eric Lyons, Ryan Lewis, Matt Koetling and Greg Johnson paced a defense that held the Steelers to three rushing first downs.

Co-ed volleyball

Canton's Parks and Recreation Services is sponsoring a co-ed volleyball league, with play beginning Friday, Dec. 6, and continuing on Fridays throughout the 12-week season.

Cost is $175 per team plus $15 for each player who lives outside Canton Township or the city of Plymouth. Teams are allowed as many non-residents as they wish (a resident is defined as anyone who lives or works full-time in the areas mentioned)

Registration will be Oct. 28-Nov. 5 for returning teams and from Nov. 6 until the league is filled for new teams. For more information, call (313) 397-5110.

Salem runners reach state finals

Hopes were high among Salem cross country runners entering last Saturday's regional, but little else seemed to favor the Rocks. And yet, they overcame the odds to finish third, qualifying for the state finals.

BY C.J. RISAK

The game plan was simple and straight-forward:

Just do your best.

Plymouth Salem girls cross country coach Dave Gerlach could not offer his team any secret plan that would put them at the top of the standings at Saturday's Class A regional at Ann Arbor Pioneer HS.

But what he told them was direct enough: "All we need is to have a good day and have some other teams not have such a good day.

Considering the level of the competition -- three of the teams (Livonia Stevenson, Pioneer and Novi) were ranked in the top four in the state, and several others had spent time in the top 10 -- it sounded as if the Rocks, as good as they were, would need a lot of help.

They got it, and a good portion they supplied themselves. With superior performances particularly from their seniors, Salem managed to claw its way to a third-place finish, good enough to send them to Saturday's Class A state final at Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn.

"We knew it was going to be a bat-tle from gun to finish," said Gerlach, whose team placed third at the Western Lakes Activities Association meet. "We knew the untouchables would be Stevenson and Novi. "After that, it would be a battle. There were 10 quality teams battling for three spots." And, as Gerlach noted, two spots were almost certainly occupied by Stevenson and Novi. Ann Arbor Huron, Pioneer, Plymouth Canton, Farmington Hills Mercy and Farmington were among those expected to challenge. "Our goal was, 'Let's get to the finals,' " said Gerlach.

Led by senior co-captains Nicole Bolton, who finished 13th overall season, in similar condition.

If the 'Dogs were more accustomed to it, it didn't show.

"I thought the teams were pretty evenly matched," said Smith. "And actually, considering the conditions, the kids handled the ball pretty well.

At least at first. Both teams had ideal scoring chances in the first half -- Brighton scoring in the first minute of the match only to have it disallowed by an affaidea call, and Canton's Kevin Ghiswek putting a shot off the goal post -- but neither could score.

The Chiefs ended the drought (in bail out of danger. It reached Gniewek, and he put his shot under the crossbar this time, giving Canton a 1-0 lead with 38:47 left in the second half.

The Chiefs had the best of the play prior to that, and for five minutes more. Then on a Bulldog counter, Andy Finley sent a perfect through pass from the left wing to Scott Hurlbert, and he converted it to tie the score at 1-1 with 32:38

After that, it was Brighton that was in control, and Canton was holding on. Already Davis had been tested on several occasions in goal, but over the next 12 minutes he was forced to make several more stops in the slop.

On one of those few occasions the Chiefs drove into Brighton's end, getting a throw-in near the corner,

This line, made popular by legendary University of Michigan broadcaster Bob Ufer, has been resurrected during the past four years over WSDP-FM (89.1).

The line, and many more like it, has come from the mouth of John Kreger, the station's sports director and the voice behind the microphone of many Plymouth Salem and Canton sports events. But like Ufer and Kreger's other mentor, Ernie Harwell, the legendary voice of the Detroit Tigers, the voice eventually fades.

That will be the case Friday as Kreger, a senior at Canton, announces his final Plymouth Salem-Canton football game.

"It's extremely hard to do Salem-Canton games," Kreger admits, recalling his most memorable game - a five-overtime victory by the Rocks over the Chiefs two years ago in boys basketball.

Kreger began announcing sporting events at the school-run station in the middle of his freshman year. In addition to football and basketball, he has announced soccer, softball and baseball. What drove him to radio occurred during his

"My grandfather was a big U-of-M fan and Tiger fan so I listened to Bob Ufer and Ernie," Kreger said. "I remember listening to a tribute for Ufer. My mom had tears in her eyes listening to him. I wanted to have that same impact. "I enjoyed their ability to make you feel like you were at the game. That's something I've always tried to do."

Kreger's first outings at WSDP were definitely learning experiences.

"I used a lot of Uferisms, and my station manager said that I'd succeed if I'd be myself. I wasn't sure how to be myself, so I used some lines which I knew would work."

Kreger began to do things like counting down the final five yards before a touchdown and even mimicked Ufer on his first touchdown call on a

After taking a few lumps over the past couple of weeks, the Detroit Whalers delivered a few.

Winless in five-straight games through Friday's loss to the visiting Sarnia

Sting, the Whalers -- who have on more than one occasion surrendered a flurry of third-period goals and lost a game -- turned the tables on the Belleville Bulls Saturday and the Windsor Spitfires Sunday.

Against the Spitfires, the Whalers got a power-play goal from Chad Cavanagh with 3:35 left to play to post a 4-3 win; against the Bulls, it was three third-period goals that led

A final showdown

Rocks' slim playoff hopes still flickering as they prepare for Canton

It's the final weekend of the The season ends where it began for high school football season for most Observerland teams

But some will continue on in the playoffs, as long as things go right for them this weekend. Westland John Glenn is the only team that's a lock for postseason play. The undefeated Rockets are tied with Clarkston for the lead in Class AA-Region 3, and Glenn will have to beat arch-rival Wayne Memorial to gain the No.

Redford Catholic Central in AA-Region 3 and Farmington Harrison in A-Region 3 also will qualify if they win. Lutheran Westland needs not only a victory but a little help in Class C-Region 4.

Even if the Warriors beat winless Lutheran Northwest, they also need Armada to beat Deckerville

The only other team with a chance is Plymouth Salem in Class AA-Region 2. The Rocks are a longshot, but most teams in the region have two losses.

It's down to the wire for another contest, too, Brad Emons and Dan O'Meara remain tied in the grid-picks battle.

Both were 12-3 last week and have the same overall record, 98-

But there will be a winner; however, we won't know who it is until Sunday night. The outcome hinges on the Catholic League Prep Bowl.

O'Meara gained a game in early October when he picked Brother Rice to win the Boys Bowl, but the prognosticators have done an about-face for this

Yours truly is taking Catholic Central in the rematch, while Emons has cast his vote in favor of Rice.

> FRIDAY'S GAMES (all times 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

these teams. Borgess has won only two of seven games this year, and one of those wins was a 48-0 romp over the Ecorse in the season opener. The Spar tans have lost their last five to finish last in the Catholic Tri-Sectional Division. The Red Raiders (1-6) took their first win Saturday, 30-6 over Taylor Light and Life. PICK: Borgess wins

Garden City at Romulus, 7 p.m.: Both teams bring 1-7 records into this Mega Conference crossover game. Romulus had to battle the tougher Red Division teams and probably played the tougher schedule, but the Cougars also had it rough in the White Division against the likes of Dearborn, Trenton and Edsel Ford. PICK: The Eagles get their sec-

Clarenceville at Flat Rock: The Trojans (4-4) can finish the season with a fourth straight victory. They won their third in a row when they knocked off Hamtramck, 40-27. It looks like Clarenceville might get its wish, too. since the Rams have only a 1-8 record. Flat Rock has lost five straight since beating Allen Park Cabrini, 21-19. A 26-0 loss to New Boston Huron last week was its lowest point differential. PICK: The Trojans take a winning streak into next season

Churchill at Stevenson: The Spartans (5-3) won't be in the playoffs after two straight appearances, but they've had another fine year despite seeing a fourgame win streak end Saturday at Farmington Harrison, Gade Clark has rushed for 1.032 yards and is Stevenson's alltime leader with 3,022. The hard-luck Chargers (0-8) let a potential victory slip away Friday. North Farmington scored twice in the final minute to erase a 14-13 deficit and beat Churchill, 27-14. PICKS: Two votes for Adlai.

Trenton at Franklin: Mega White champion Trenton (8-0) hopes to secure the No. 1 seed in Class A Region 3 with a victory over the Patriots. Trenton routed Redford Union 54-14 for its eighth win in a row. Franklin (5-3) ended Walled Lake Central's playoff hopes with a 17-7 victory and won't be an easy mark for the Trojans. PICK: Trenton wins a close one.

Wayne at John Glenn: Nobody has any doubts about the Rockets (8-0), not

Western Lakes championship since 1987. The Zebras (5-3), who snapped a three-game losing streak with a 26-8 win over Romulus, always get fired up to play Glenn and remain a worthy opponent. PICK: The Rockets charge into the playoffs

Canton vs. Salem (CEP): The Rocks pulled off the upset last year, defeating the Chiefs 28-21. Canton finished 5-4 and Salem 3-6. The Chiefs (4-4) could be the spoiler this year since the Rocks (5-3) still have an outside chance at making the playoffs. Except for Brighton and Battle Creek Central, everyone else in AA-Region 2 has at least two losses. Regardless of what happens. Salem has done better than anyone expected at the start of the season. The Chiefs rolled over Farmington last week, 42-0. while the Rocks defeated Northville a second time, 28-14. PICK: Canton celebrates a win this year

SATURDAY'S GAMES (all times 1 p.m. unless noted)

Luth. N'West at Luth. Westland: The Warriors (7-1) are virtually assured of a victory against the winless Crusaders (0-8). But will that hurt Lutheran Westland's playoff chances since Lutheran Northwest is a Class D school and the Warriors get no bonus points for opponent victories? It will still be a close finish in CC-Region 4 between Lutheran Westland, Deckerville and Harper Woods for the third and fourth spots. The Warriors won their eighth in a row Friday, 24-7 over Lutheran East. PICK: It's no contest as the Warriors roll.

Howell at N. Farmington: The Raiders got South Lyon off the schedule and replaced it with another formidable Kensington Valley Conference team. Howell (5-3) was .500 in the KVC with loses to Brighton, South Lyon and Novi. The Highlanders hammered Lakeland in their last game, 48-13. North Farmington (1-7) rallied in the final minute to score two touchdowns and defeat Livonia Churchill for its first victory, 27-14. PICK: The Highlanders take the high road to victory.

Country Day at Harrison: Country Day (4-3) won't get a chance to defend its Class B state title. Unbeaten Class BB power Dowagiac whipped the Yellow Jackets, 52-0, knocking them out of playoff contention. Country Day might not have one of its better teams but remains a formidable foe, and the Class A-Region 3. Harrison played well in its last two games and could be peak ing at the right time. The Hawks have won five straight and need to make it six. PICK: Harrison will be in the playoffs next week Lakeland at Farmington: The Eagles are a little more Farmington's speed as opposed to the big AA schools (Glenn and Canton) it has tangled with in recent weeks. The Falcons (2-6) have beaten Lakeland (0-8) in the season finale the last two years and hope to make it three in a row. The Eagles have lost all of their games by no less than 20 points; the 13 they scored against Howell last week was their highest total of the season. PICK: Farmington goes out a winner again.

St. Agatha at Benedictine, 2 p.m.: The Aggies dropped to 0-8 after losing to Pontiac Notre Dame Prep, 24-12, and now face a supposedly tougher opponent from the Catholic League Tri-Sectional Division. The Ravens (3-5) have lost three straight and five of their last six, including a 20-6 loss to East Catholic. PICK: It's a winless season for Redford Union vs. Thurston, 3 p.m. at Pontiac Silverdome: Redford Union won this game last year to finish 3-6 while Thurston was 1-8. But indications are the Eagles have the upper hand this time. Thurston (5-3) is having a fine season and has won three straight, including a 27-26, overtime victory Saturday over Taylor Truman. The Panthers (0-8) have scored only 39 points this year, with roughly a third being scored Friday in a 54-14 loss to Trenton. PICK: The Eagles earn bragging rights.

SUNDAY'S GAME

Detroit CC vs. Brother Rice, 7 p.m. at Pontiac Silverdome: It's a double rematch in the Prep Bowl to decide the Catholic League First Division champion. The same teams played in last year's championship, with CC winning 17-7. Secondly, it's a rematch of the Boys Bowl game in which Rice rallied from a 14-0 halftime deficit to win in overtime, 21-14. The key questions: Can CC run the ball more effectively and stop Rice's passing attack? The Warriors (8-0) are assured of a spot in the Class A playoffs, but the Shamrocks face a must-win situation in AA. PICK: Emons puts his faith in the Warriors;

CC playoff picture better FURNA

Thanks to Clarkston and Detroit King, Detroit Catholic Central's chances of qualifying for the Class AA football playoffs improved before it took the field Saturday night.

The Shamrocks then took care of their end of the bargain, using a devastating defense to beat previously-undefeated Dearborn Divine Child, 23-6, before an overflow crowd at Dearborn Heights Crestwood.

It was the perfect way to end a weekend that started Friday night with Troy and Detroit Henry Ford, two teams ahead of CC in Class AA Region 3, losing to Clarkston and King, respectively.

The win sends the Shamrocks, 6-2 overall and 3-1 in the Central Division, into the Prep Bowl championship where they'll play Birmingham Brother Rice at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Pontiac Silverdome. A win would likely seal a berth in the state playoffs.

"I'm awful glad to get back in the league race and our players really made the best of it tonight," CC coach Tom Mach said. "We look forward to any rematch.

The victory had even more significance for CC nose guard Rich Deptula, who transferred from Divine Child in the middle of his sophomore year.

The Shamrocks sacked DC's mobile junior quarterback Andy Kisabeth five times and Deptula

The Shamrocks enjoyed a 235-102 edge in total yardage and had 15 first downs to the Falcons' four.

"It's great playing against them _ I've been with them all my life and I wish them luck _ now. But this was for bragging rights tonight," Deptula said. Everything's been handed to us, now we've got to take control of it. We've got the toughest team in the state. No one has more heart."

No one illustrates the Shamrocks' toughness better than defensive tackle Gino DiGiandomenico and defensive back Nick Mastroionni, who are playing with soft casts on their arms. DiGiandomenico has a fractured wrist and Mastroionni a fractured hand.

"It just weighs a little bit," DiGiandomenico said. "It comes in handy on tackles.

Junior fullback Chris Dueweke scored on a 1-yard run and led the Shamrocks with 81 yards on 19 carries. Senior tailback Greg Alcala scored on a 4-yard run and finished with 70 yards in 14 attempts, showing remarkable balance on several of his runs.

Senior quarterback Greg Call was busy in the first half, carrying the ball 10 times on the option for 29 yards before settling for 35 in 13 attempts. He scored on a 1-yard run.

The other CC points came on a 25-yard field goal by Aaron Rock. When Kisabeth wasn't sacked, he was hurried, completing five of 16 passes for 71 yards.

It didn't take long for the CC defense to show its mettle. The Shamrocks fumbled on their first play from scrimmage and DC's Dan Deegan recovered at the CC 23 yard line. The Falcons could gain only four yards in three running plays, however, and a 31 yard down was wide right. The Shamrocks then took nearly nine minutes off the clock, driving 72 yards in 17 plays before Rock kicked a 25-yard field goal for a 3-0 lead with 1:38 left in the first quarter.

CC raised its lead to 16-0 after scoring on drives of 46 and 38 yards to start the second half.

The Falcons recovered a CC fumble at their own 47 on the last play of the third quarter. Kisabeth directed a nine-play scoring drive that was capped by an 8-yard touchdown pass to Jim Ptasznik with 8:35 left in the game to cut the deficit to 16-6. Kisabeth completed a two-point conversion pass to Ptasznik, but it was disallowed because of offensive pass interference.

That kept the deficit at 10 points instead of eight.

The Shamrocks sealed the victory with a 54-yard scoring drive that ended with Call's one-yard dive with 4:58 left. Brooks caught a 17-yard pass on third down to keep the drive alive.

Shamrocks shock U-D Jesuit, 2-0

BY STEVE KOWALSKI STAFF WRITER

With all the water and mud that settled at midfield after a driving rain Tuesday afternoon, Detroit Catholic Central's boys soccer team wouldn't have wanted to start its attack there.

But that would have been the case even on a dry field.

University of Detroit-Jesuit seems to be most vulnerable on the wings, and the field conditions at Southgate Anderson just gave the Shamrocks another reason to avoid midfield.

"We just pushed (Mike) Martin outside," Orsucci said. "The way they play with three defenders flat in the back and double stoppers, I told my outside midfielders (Martin, Pat Griffin and Matt O'Neil) to play as wide as they can get because U-D is extremely strong in the middle."

scored both goals and junior goalkeeper Matt Kessler recorded his fifth shutout as the Shamrocks beat U-D, 2-0, in a Class A regional semifinal.

The Shamrocks, 12-6-2 overall, advance to the regional final to meet the winner of Wednesday's Birmingham Brother Rice-Grosse Pointe South game at 11 a.m. Saturday at Anderson.

U-D, which bowed out with a 15-3-1 record, defeated CC 1-0 in an earlier meeting back in Playing in such miserable conditions, Orsucci knew the first goal would be key.

The Shamrocks controlled play most of the first half and finally capitalized when Martin turned and blasted a left-footed shot from about 35 yards out past U-

Martin earlier hit the post with a shot and led several rushes on the U-D net only to be turned away. His earlier misses led him to change his philosophy about attacking the U-D net.

"Their goalie kept sliding out toward me, so instead of dribbling up, I just decided to get him when he least expected it," Martin said. "The ground was wet and we were looking to hit the ball anywhere we could at Kessler preserved the lead with a diving save off a free kick from about 15 yards out with 5:13 remaining in the half.

"I told the kids the first goal was just going to be huge,' Orsucci said. "That first half was the best half we've played all year. It was awesome to see such a team effort "

Martin added an insurance

D goalkeeper Shawn Alexander goal with 6:56 left, lofting a shot with 13:22 left in the first half. who must have been at least 40 yards out of his goal.

"He was out of his net huge and it was an open hit so I just struck it," Martin said. "When I was at about the 50 yard mark I noticed he was out about 35 yards. I turned and I was open."

U-D had a couple nice chances off of re-starts in the second half, but most of the opportunities went wide of the net.

Injuries are a concern for Orsucci, who gave the Shamrocks Wednesday off to heal some aches. Their top marking back, senior defender Brian Lindsay, was only able to play about five minutes due to a leg injury suffered in Saturday's district final win over Dearborn.

Senior defender Mike Graff played another strong game in his place. Lindsay should be ready to play Saturday.

Adding to Orsucci's concern vas the condition of Larry Schmid, who laid out of bounds next to the CC bench the last three minutes after limping off the field. Schmid recovered in a hurry, however, when the final whistle and the teams sounded exchanged the traditional post-game handshake. Schmid said the team is on a mission, first to beat another possible Catholic League foe, then anyone who remains in the state tournament.

To think, the Shamrocks didn't even make the Catholic League playoffs.

"I don't even feel anything now. I'll go home, ice up and be back on Saturday," Schmid said. "Everything in the past doesn't mean squat, the states are ours. We aren't going to lose another PCA falls Auburn Hills Oakland Christian poured it on in the second quarter Tuesday and beat host Plymouth Christian Academy, 58-37.

The Lancers led 15-8 after the first quarter before outscoring the Eagles 31-9 in the second quarter.

"We caved in under their pressure," PCA coach Rod Windle said.

The Lancers, state-ranked in Class D, improved to 14-1 overall and are the champions in the upper division of the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference with a 7-0 mark.

Christy Mehlberg's 23 points led Oakland. Sarah Sumner and Jenny Sutherland scored eight points apiece to pace PCA (9-7 overall, 3-4 in the MIAC).

the Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds (10-4-1, 21 points) and the Sting (8-2-2, 18 points).

Windsor dropped to 3-10-1, while Belleville fell to 4-9-2.

In the win over Windsor, the Whalers were held scoreless until midway through the second period, when goals by Randy Fitzgerald and Andrew Taylor tied the score at 2-2.

Windsor went back in front with a third-period goal by Dean Mando, but Detroit rallied, getting another goal from Taylor, who leads the team with eight, and Cavanagh's game-winner.

The Whaler recent surge started Saturday against the Bulls. They trailed 1-0 going into the final period, but tied it with a goal from Sergei Fedotov. The Bulls reclaimed the lead three minutes later, with Nikos Tselios putting them back on top.

But after that, it was all Detroit. Mark Cadotte re-tied the game with just under nine minutes remaining, and Taylor won it with a power-play goal with 5:48 to go.

Julian Taylor added two assists for the Whalers, who continued to get strong goaltending from Robert Esche (24 saves against Belleville, 25 against Windsor).

The Whalers are on the road this weekend, playing at the Petersborough Petes tonight, at the Kingston Frontenacs Friday and at the Ottawa 67s Sunday.

the Bulldog defenders again failed to possess the ball in the mud. Gniewek did, setting up Nick Wright, who beat Brighton keeper Ryan Bees with 19:03

That proved to be the gamewinner. The 'Dogs had chances, but none they could get past Davis.

"We could have beaten them," said Shiposh. "They had great chances to score, we had great chances to score.

"We tried to eliminate going down the middle of the field, and I thought we did. We knew they were taller than us, so if we played high balls they would shut us down immediately."

But trying to maintain possession on solely foot-to-foot passing, on a surface so submerged, was a difficult task. Against Canton, it proved impossible for Brighton, which bows out at 14-

Who would have won if the match had been played under ideal conditions? Shiposh was certain Brighton would have, no doubts; Smith thought the teams were evenly matched.

A non-partisan (ahem) onlooker thought the Chiefs had superior size and speed, which would have translated into more goals and a greater margin of victory.

None of which really matters at all. All that matters is that on Saturday, at 1 p.m. on the same field, it will be Canton colliding with Stevenson -- again.

wannabe," recalls Paul Sincock, the public address announcer at Plymouth Canton Educational Park. "But he's developed his own, unique style.

"He's definitely a hometown fan. We pick on him once in awhile because he always picks the Plymouth team to win. The rest of us in the press box are more realistic. He's been able to tolerate us, however.

Kreger doesn't disagree that he is a "homer."

"It's tough separating being a fan and being a broadcaster," he said. "I've taken some heat for it. The hardest part about this job is being unbiased.

"Some of the things I say on the air aren't always true. But I don't think the Plymouth teams will ever lose. I'm a Plymouth sports fan first."

His love of Plymouth sports is evidenced by his acceptance of having never announced for a title-winning football team. Early this season, it appeared Kreger might have his chance to follow a playoff qualifier when Salem began 4-1. But the Rocks faltered and dropped out of the playoff hunt.

"Our teams are in a tough con-ference," Kreger rationalizes. "I've never been disappointed by the way they perform. I just love the atmosphere.

According to Kreger, one of the iggest advantages to broadcasting has been getting a chance to know the coaches.

"I like them all," he said. ere are a lot of students who don't ever get a chance to know these coaches, and I get that chance. They all show a lot of respect to me and I'll miss them

Kreger hopes to continue his broadcast career into college and beyond. He anticipates attending either Syracuse University or Michigan State University, both of which have fine schools of broadcasting.

"I can't envision doing anything else," he said. "This has been the love of my life since day

The Shamrocks did so without the supervision of coach Tony Magni, whose mother Maria passed away Thursday after a long illness. Assistant coach Gene Grewe filled in for Magni.

The Shamrocks, wearing black patches on their sleeves in honor of the elder Magni, took first place with 60 points.

Rochester Adams, which had the second and fourth top runners, finished second (68) and Birmingham Brother Rice finished third (104), winning a tiebreaker against Rochester.

It was the second time in the last three years Grewe took over for Magni at a regional. In 1993, with Magni at his niece's wedding, the Shamrocks won their first boys track regional in some 30 years.

John Griffin led the Shamrocks with a third-place finish in 16:22. Senior Chris Laney was eighth (16:46).

Rounding out CC's roster were Anthony Wolfe, 14tl. (17:01); Dan Danic, 15th (17:02); Craig Skalski, 20th (17:12); Joe Hubert, 23rd (17:18); and Ryan Schrieber, 24th (17:19).

The Shamrocks are aiming for a top-10 finish at Saturday's state meet, which begins at 2 p.m. at the Michigan International Speedway.

First place at the regional went to Rice's Ben Evans (16:10). Adams' Adam Cross was second (16:21) and teammate Ken Tracy was fourth (16:23).

Magni said one of the keys to the Shamrocks' performance at the state meet is how close Griffin can stay to Evans, who could finish fairly high.

HOW TIMES

HAVE CHANGED

Traditionally, drivers have been urged to grip the steering wheels of their cars at the "ten" and "two" positions, with the numbers referring to the spots they occupy on the face of a clock. However, one look at today's steering wheels reveals that this hand positioning is no longer appropriate. Over the past 50 years or so, the average height of the driver's seat has dropped fifteen to nineteen inches, while the steering wheel has been lowered twelve to fourteen inches. The cutouts to either side of the hub of the steering wheel now indicate that the left hand should be positioned between 7 and 9 o'clock, while the right hand should be placed between 3 and 5. This lowered positioning is easier on the shoulders and helps reduce fatigue. The revised grip also keeps the hands away from the center of the wheel so they will not be thrust into the face by airbag deployment.

(20:12), and Kristie Giddings. who was 17th (20:21), Salem scored 141 points to beat out Canton, which was fourth with Stevenson was first (43), as expected, and Novi took second (76). Other local teams: Farmington, seventh (176); Mercy, ninth (198); and Livonia Churchill, 10th (215). Steven-son's Kelly Travis won the Class A race (19:11.8), in which 20 teams competed.

The biggest break Salem got was from Pioneer, which tied Canton with 172 but finished fifth on the tiebreaker (sixth runner). Being well-acquainted with the course and one of the state's top-ranked teams (No. 3 going in) apparently didn't help the Pioneers.

Another factor in the Rocks' success: packing. All five of their scorers were within a minute. Placing third on the team and 35th overall was senior Mari Disbrow (20:59), who enjoyed her best showing of the season, with Evelyn Rahhal 37th (21:02) and Ellen Stemmer 42nd (21:12).

Although Canton did not qualify as a team, it will send Becky Wolfrom as an individual. Wolfrom placed 11th overall (20:00).

"We weren't real worried about times," said Gerlach. "Our goal is always to put our top seven runners within a minute of each other. Our next goal is to put our top five (within a minute).

We're extremely excited. This is the first time in 10 years we've sent a team to state -- maybe even longer."

Well, now the wait is over.

Madonna sparkles in Big Gun win

Coaches in general are difficult to please, so it's understandable that Madonna University's Jerry Abraham was less than pleased with his volleyball team's play at St. Mary's College (South Bend, Ind.) Tuesday.

Oh, the Lady Crusaders won. Don't they always (almost)? They handled host St. Mary's 15-9, 15-7, 13-15, 15-12, improving their record to 35-3.

"We played good enough to win, that's all," said Abraham.

Hard to please, considering his team was coming off one of its biggest tournament victories of the season. On Friday and Saturday at the Big Guns Classic at the College of St. Francis, Madonna swept through three top-rated opponents while losing just one game.

The Crusaders beat St. Ambrose University 15-6, 15-5, 15-8 Friday, then dispatched St. Xavier University 9-15, 15-8, 15-4, 15-10 and host St. Francis 15-8, 15-6, 15-9 on Saturday.

VOLLEYBALL

"We played our best volleyball of the season in defeating St. Ambrose, and College of St. Francis, who had beaten us earlier this season," said Abraham. "They were at home and they were on fire, and we beat them in three (games).

"I don't think that's happened to them (this season) before."

Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson) and Kelly McCausland (Redford Union) each had 17 kills against St. Francis; McCausland finished with 59 in the three matches, while Martin totaled 57.

Martin added 17 blocks (six solo), while McCausland had 18 blocks (four solo) and 19 digs.

Other standouts for Madonna: Meg Paris, 125 assists to kills, 16 digs and six service aces; Karin Sisung, 21 kills, 31 digs and eight blocks; Heather Steinhelper, 21 kills and 26 digs; and Erin Comment, 35 digs.

"It was an outstanding team performance," Abraham added. "And it was a great team win. They played with a lot of enthusiasm, a lot of intensity. I felt our team really raised the level of its play. They played with total confidence and total control, both offensively and defensively."

It wasn't quite the same against St. Mary's. McCausland led with 19 kills and 11 digs, with Martin getting 16 kills and two solo blocks; Sisung, nine kills and seven digs; Comment, six kills and nine digs; and Steinhelper, five kills and nine digs. Paris totaled 38 assists, six digs and two solo blocks.

SC ties for 2nd

Schoolcraft College traveled to the Illinois Central CC Invitational last weekend and posted a 3-2 record against some of the best NJCAA teams in the nation. The Ocelots defeated 11th-ranked Kankakee (Ill.) CC 15-11, 8-15, 15-5 and host ICCC 12-15, 15-12, 15-11 on Friday. Saturday's going was tougher: SC lost to Jefferson (Mo.) 15-5, 7-15, 15-8 and eventual champ Belleville (Ill.) 15-6, 15-7, before rebounding to beat Johnson County (Kan.) CC 8-15, 15-4, 15-6.

Sarah Gregerson, whom coach Tom Teeters said is "the most improved player, playing all the way around, including serving and hitting," led the comeback against Johnson County with five kills in the third game.

On Tuesday, the Ocelots lost at University of Windsor 15-12, 15-3, 15-13, dropping their record to 24-11.

Gregorson and Jamie Clark (Livonia Churchill) had six kills each, with Clark adding three service aces and Yvette Sixbey (Garden City) five kills. Michelle McRae collected 12 assists to kills.

SOCCER

SC tumbles in region

A combination of factors have put Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team in an unfamiliar position — at home.

The Ocelots, for the first time in more than a decade, won't be making the trip to the NJCAA Inter-regional Tournament next weekend (Nov. 9-10). The reason? They didn't survive the Region 12 Tournament.

After beating Cuyahoga CC twice during the season (6-1 and 1-0), SC found the third time a charm for Cuyahoga, which capitalized on a defensive blunder to score the game-winner in the waning moments of Saturday's regional semifinal at SC.

The 3-2 win put Cuyahoga into Sunday's final against Lakeland CC, which was also a test. Cuyahoga survived, however, battling back from a 2-0 deficit to first force overtime, then beat Lakeland on penalty kicks.

The official final score was 2-2, but it will be Cuyahoga that advances to the Inter-regional.

"We had a 10-minute breakdown in the first half," said SC coach Van Dimitriou, his team finishing with a 9-7-3 record. "We were up 1-0, and they scored two goals in that 10 minutes."

The Ocelots corrected the situation -- switching to four midfielders instead of three -- but the damage had been done.

Still, there was plenty of game yet to play. Kevin Fritz had put SC up 1-0, the assist from Matt Keller. After Cuyahoga went ahead, the Ocelots fought back and tied it before halftime, 2-2, on Garrett Maki's unassisted goal.

It remained that way until the final minutes when, after a goal by Fritz was disallowed because officials ruled he pushed a defender, Cuyahoga took control of play.

With the ball rolling free toward the SC goal, keeper Travis Miller (from Redford Catholic Central) called off the SC defenders and prepared to field the ball. But on a wet and treacherous field, the ball slipped through his fingers, and ended up in the net.

The 10-minute lapse in the first half seemed to concern Dimitriou more than Miller's miscue. "The same thing happened to us against Macomb," he said. "We have a 10-minute breakdown, then we come together and play as wellas any team we've had

"The games we lost (this season) were by defensive breakdowns. I guess that'll happen when you have four freshmen back there (on defense)."

The four defenders did not always communicate well, said Dimitriou, perhaps due to their various soccer backgrounds. Whatever, it didn't help when Dimitriou lost his only sophomore with experience -- Joe Sisko (Plymouth Canton) -- to injury at midseason.

Crusaders trim Aquinas

14th Annual

WEDNESDAY - SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 6-10 10 Private Country Clubs Participating

After one of their more lackluster performances of the season -- and there haven't been too many -- Madonna University's soccer team rebounded nicely.

Against Aquinas College, the Crusaders overcame a pasting absorbed Saturday and some poor weather to blank the Saints 2-0 Tuesday at Ladywood HS.

The win was the secondstraight for the Crusaders over Aquinas -- after two years with none at all. They are 12-4 overall.

The first half of Tuesday's match was scoreless, but 20 minutes into the second half Andy Makins (from Plymouth Salem) broke the deadlock, giving Madonna a 1-0 lead. Seamus Rustin iced the win for the Crusaders with an insurance goal.

Mike Schroeder was in goal for the shutout.

Saturday's match, at Tiffin University (Ohio), was a whole different ball game. "I think this was definitely a team we could have beaten," said Madonna coach Pete Alexander, "but we came out a little timid."

The reason: Tiffin was ranked among the best teams in the region. Which is how it looked in the first half, as Madonna fell behind 5-1 by halftime.

The Crusaders played better in the second half, narrowing the gap to 5-4, but Tiffin scored two late goals as Madonna pressured.

Jason Stempien did a great deal of damage for Madonna, scoring two goals and assisting on another. Ryan Mollien and Rustin also scored.

Canton state House debate shows a gentle side

BY VALERIE OLANDER

A hot race for the 21st District state House of Representatives turned into a mellow debate Monday between Republican incumbent Deborah Whyman and challenger Deborah Nesbit, a Democrat.

Although the two candidates disagreed on almost every question asked of them at the Canton Chamber of Commerce-sponsored event, forum moderator Dr. A. Frederick Neil only issued three warnings regarding the mutually agreed upon rules of the debate.

Nesbit received two of the warnings for telling attendees that she is "scared to death" of Whyman's extreme measures, particularly those involving alleged ties to the Michigan Mili-

Whyman received one warning at the very end of the debate when she alleged Nesbit was being financed in her campaign by out-of-district supporters. Whyman, who was on a crusade to abolish Detroit Recorder's Court during her two terms in office, claimed Nesbit's campaign financial forms show several Recorder's Court judges contributed.

time of the year is during income

the state's role in welfare reform and health care, and how to downsize government without cutting programs. Whyman supported privatizing government programs to cut costs, such as in the prisons and Department of Treasury. Prison guards don't have to be state employees, she said. There also is no need to keep employees free of sniping between candidates, despite the obvious differences they had on the issues.

They discussed such topics as tax season, she said. "Privatizing can mean the loss of many jobs," said Nesbit.

Nesbit also was concerned about the loss of school funding from Proposal A, which reduced local property taxes in exchange for a higher sales tax. The result has been the reduction of funds for the local school districts, which are growing at astronomi-cal rates in the Canton community. Nesbit said an amendment to Proposal A is needed to bring money back to the local districts.

Whyman said schools need to look at cuts in administrative and teacher salaries before getting more state funding. She cited a recent news report which claimed teachers in Michigan were the highest paid in the

She also would like to see a law enacted that would require builders in new growth areas to help with the construction of new schools, similar to the way developers build new roads.

Nesbit said a safety net is need to move people from welfare to the workforce and that includes offering adult education programs, day care and transporta-

Whyman said a closer eye is needed to ensure programs aren't abused. In the past, drug addicts and alcoholics were given state money straight out, she said. Whyman was responsible for getting a law passed that required them to be enrolled in a drug treatment program before getting any of the funding, she told the group.

There are two types of legisla-tors. Those who go along with everything and those who take on the tough issues. I'm not afraid to take on the tough" issues," said Whyman in her opening statement.

Said Nesbit in her closing statement: "I want to represent Canton in a positive nature ... I have problems with the way we've been represented and " want to make positive changes."

SPRING's audited circulation is a sure bet

It's no gamble. Buying SPRING Newspapers in SPRING delivers, on average, 1,060,000 suburban Detroit is a sure bet. Why risk your culation? When you buy SPRING Newspapers, you're buying the largest audited circulation in suburban Detroit. The Detroit News and the Free Press have yet to issue a current ABC audit, so there's no telling how many papers are being printed - and who's receiving them. SPRING Newspapers are not only a sure bet. they're also a smart bet. For example:

- 48% of adults in the SPRING survey area read SPRING weekly and daily newspapers.
- · SPRING has an audited circulation of 761.885.
- total readers every week.*

newspaper media dollars on an unaudited cir- • That means that SPRING delivers 1,167,000 gross impressions for an entire week. Compare these numbers to your other media alternatives; only 37% of adults in the SPRING market read the weekday Detroit Free Press or The Detroit News.†

More suburban Detroit readers turn to SPRING.

- · SPRING delivers more weekday suburban readers with household incomes over $50,000.
- · SPRING delivers more suburban homeowners (51%) than any other weekday

More than 100,000 women in the United States undergo a mastectomy for breast cancer each year. The result is severe physical deformity often causing a broad range of psychosocial problems.

It is surprising to note that data from the National Cancer Institute reveals that less then 25 percent of women who undergo mastectomy are aware of the advances in breast With available modern reconstruction procedures, women do not have to suffer the disadvantages and disfigurement of the loss of the breast through breast cancer. What techniques are available?

Basically, there are four techniques

• First, the available muscle and skin can be expanded by im-planting a special balloon (skin expander) which is gradually inflated with fluid over a period of several weeks. Later on, the expander is replaced by a saline · Second, if there is not enough tissue in the mastectomy area, muscle and skin can be transferred from the back and an implant inserted.

 Third, the surgeon can take excess skin and fat from the lower abdomen, tunnel them under the skin to the mastectomy area, and sculpt the shape of a breast with the tissue available. This technique has the added advantage of giving a tummy tuck at the same time. Since no implant is used in this technique, the texture and feel of the breast is close to normal.

 Finally, very occasionally, if none of the other three options can be utilized for medical reasons, then a tissue from another part of the body, such as the buttock, can be used through a micro-surgical technique.

The final touches

With all of these procedures, after the breast wound is completely healed, the nipple projection can be made by using local skin. A tattoo with FDA-approved dye can be used to match the color of the nipple.

A consultation with a plastic surgeon should include a discussion on the most appropriate technique for you, details about the operation, what realistically can be accomplished, and risk factors. Most of all you should discuss all your feelings candidly.

Dr. Vyas is section chief of Plastic Surgery at Oakwood Hospital and Medical Center - Dearborn and a clinical assistant professor at Wayne State University. He is also an artist and a sculptor.

Research study

Henry Ford's Department of Hematology-Oncology is conducting a research study to test a new drug that may restore the effectiveness of chemotherapy for patients with multiple myeloma, a cancer of the bone marrow.

The study is designed to evaluate whether PSC 833 prevents or overcomes this resistance to chemotherapy treatment. To be eligible, patients must be 18 or older, have multiple myeloma which has progressed following treatment with at least two cycles with chemotherapy drugs Vincristine, Adriamycin and Decadron (known as the VAD regimen) and be physically able to tolerate additional treatment.

Call (313) 876-1856 for information about participating in the study.

Genetic link

Can genetic markers indicate which women will develop breast cancer? The American Cancer Society recently awarded researchers at Henry Ford Hospital $330,000 to support a three-year study to answer this question.

Researchers will study more than 5,000 women who were diagnosed with benign breast disease by Henry Ford Health System physicians between 1981 and 1991. They expect to find that 250 to 300 of these women went on to develop breast cancer.

"Our study is just the tip of the iceberg," said Maria Worsham, director of molecular pathology for Henry Ford. "Hopefully the information we obtain will be an important resource for learning about genetic indicators for other diseases.'

Checking bone density

The Medical Fitness Center, located on Farmington Road in Livonia, how has the Hologic QDR-4500 Bone Densiometer for detecting osteoporosis.

This state-of-the-art machine produces an accurate report that will facilitate physicians in the treatment of this condition that is responsible for more than 50,000 deaths every year. It is important that women and others at risk are tested and that the disease is detected at an early stage. The testing takes approximately 10 minutes and requires a physicians prescription in order for insurance to pay for this procedure. Call Medical Fitness for information at (313)

Nail infection breakthrough

After years of research there is an answer for people bothered by fungal nail infections on their feet and hands

The new medication for this condition is administered in a tablet form, and it has been used in Europe and Canada for the past five years and administered to more than 4 million patients. The results are encouraging with a success rate of more than 80 percent.

Until recently, the problem with antifungal agents prescribed for this problem have been the numerous side effects. The cross reactivity with other medications was considerable and the high incidence of side effects with previous medications made it difficult for physicians to prescribe these agents.

"Even if the medication was prescribed, the success rate was only 50 percent at best," says Dr. Steven Watson, a Canton Foot Specialist, who has treated Fungal Nail Infections for more

The Fungal Nail Infection can cause other problems including thickening of the nails which can lead to severe pain of the foot," he said.

Pancreatic cancer therapy

Patients suffering from pancreatic cancer can test an investigational treatment that has shown promise in early studies.

Researchers at Henry Ford Hospital are part of a worldwide clinical trial investigating the drug SMS 201-995. The drug is being tested for its effectiveness in treating inoperable, advanced pancreatic cancer. Pancreatic cancer is the deadliest of all cancers. Among those with the type of cancer being treated in this trial, fewer than 10 percent would be expected to survive within a year of traditional therapy. Last year, 27,000 Americans died of pancreatic cancer. Nearly 24,000 new cases will be diagnosed this year.

To participate in the study, patients must be 18 or older and be diagnosed with inoperable stage II, stage III or stage IV cancer of the pancreas. For more information, call Dr. Ira Wollner, at Henry Ford Hospital's Division of Hematology-Oncology at (313) 876-1929 or the Research Office at (313) 876-1856.

If only fertilizer helped

For some children, growing up isn't easy

BY DIANE GALE . SPECIAL WRITER

Parents naturally compare their child's height with that of other kids. And if your child consistently comes up short, you've probably wondered what you can do to boost those numbers, including lifts in his shoes and spraying his hair straight up.

Serious possibilities, like growth hormones, are a consideration especially when parents worry their children will be overlooked, literally, at the dance, in sports or the business world. But doctors say to be cautious. "Growth hormones are at risk for being overused," according to Dr. Campbell Howard, chief of pediatric endocrinology and diabetes at Children's Mercy Hospital in Kansas City, Mo.

"There are definite proven medical indications for its use and it should be prescribed very carefully by the pediatric endocrinologist or perhaps a few other specialists," Howard said. "We need to keep very strict standards in determining who would be best treated

Growth hormones aren't the only alternative. In some cases, a child's failure to grow adequately can be reversed by looking at nutrition, chronic illnesses and emotional

First, determine how tall the child is at the doctor's office where at every visit the nurse plots growth on a National Center for Health Statistics chart developed from a study of children in Colorado 30 years ago. The numbers show larger children in the 50 to 100 percentile range, smaller children in the lower end of the spectrum and some children

Dr. David Rosen, University of Michigan Medical Center assistant professor, noted that genetics play an important role in growth and the charts don't account for patterns among different nationalities.

"In those cases, we try to reassure the parents there is no problem and that they should not imply to the child that growing at the 15 percentile is wrong," Rosen said.

Kimberly Frye, executive director of the Human Growth Foundation, said the agency often receives calls from parents asking for charts based on nationality. Unfortunately, she said, there's no such thing. Rosen also noted that charts don't account for changes in growth patterns since the figures were developed tree decades ago.

"Kissare healthier and better nourished in some cases than previously and kids tend to grow faster," Rosen said. "Puberty has gotten earlier, because of better nutrition and

There's a growth spurt 1.5 years into puberty that lasts about six months and then it trails off gradually. If there's a physical or emotional problem, Rosen said, reversing the growth pattern must be done before puberty

Doctors say to avoid trying to figure out how tall the child will be as an adult, like multiplying the child's height at age 2 and adding two inches or averaging the parents'

"There's no real benefit to try to predict the final height by 2 years old," Rosen said. "You create too much concern and if expectations aren't met people are unhappy."

Dr. Kevin Deighton, of Providence Primary Care Physicians of Livonia, said he gets a lot of requests from parents with infants who want to know how tall their child will be.

"But most realize that there's more to life than their height," he added.

Doctors agree that while growth charts have flaws, they remain a valuable tool.

"The red flag should go up anytime a parent is concerned," Rosen said. "If a child is in the 75th percentile during the first year of life and then goes from 75 percent to 25 percent we try to figure out why he stopped growing."

One reason may be poor nutrition. Mom was right. Children must eat their fruits and vegetables. Carbohydrates are also important and fats and sugars should be avoided. If that can't be done, a vitamin supplement is recommended.

"I use height as a good indicator of how the child is developing," Deighton said. "If growth is being stunted, I look for organic causes."

Growth is also affected by chronic illnesses, like asthma, heart disease, infections, cystic fibrosis, kidney problems, Turner's syndrome, a chromosomal deficiency or a host of other

Lack of appropriate affection could be another reason the child isn't growing adequately. And in rare cases doctors find that the child doesn't have enough growth hor-

"That's unusual and most kids who aren't growing at their parents' satisfaction don't need growth hormones," Rosen said. "But lots of parents would like to give it to them any-

Children grow at different rates, too. Elaine Boria, a Livonia mother of three children, said that although her youngest son is at the bottom of the growth charts, he's progressively moving up the charts and appears to be growing at a normal rate. "My older son was considered small," she said. "He was much smaller than the other kids and by the end of the fourth year he was every bit as tall. I'm guessing that may happen with my other son." In other cases, when doctors suspect a problem they carefully monitor changes and if the child still isn't growing adequately, sometimes hospitalization is needed for further

"The main thing that we recommend is that after age 2 or 3 a normal child should grow approximately two inches per year or more," Howard said. "If a child isn't growing two inches or more a year, that can be an indicator to see a health care provider and particularly if the child's height is below the fifth percentile." Out of 100 children with poor growth, fewer than 25 percent end up being seen by a pediatric endocrinologist. "There are a lot of normal children who are genetically small and we need to remember that," Howard said. Rosen stressed that society places too much emphasis on height.

"There certainly is heightism in our society," he said. "Height is unfortunately important. But, people who are 5 foot 1 are as successful as people who are 6 foot 1 and that is the message that parents should be giving their kids whether they are at 90th percentile level or at the 10th percentile level."

Osteopaths celebrate the 'sandwich generation'

The 3,000 member Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians & Surgeons is celebrating National Osteopathic Medicine Week, Nov. 3-9, by reminding the "sandwich gen-9, by reminding the "sandwich generation" to take care of themselves.

The sandwich generation is the group of adults who are raising young children while also caring for elderly parents. As the population ages and people have children later in life, health experts say the sandwich generation is growing.

Time commitments and responsibilities related to child care, elder care and to career make for hectic, stressfilled lifestyles for this age group.

The sandwich years, late 30s to age 60, are a good time to make changes in lifestyles, such as improving diet and exercising regularly, according to Melvin Linden, D.O., president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians & Surgeons.

Because osteopathic physicians Because osteopathic physicians receive training first in primary care and the holistic approach to practicing medicine, they suggest that the sandwich generation is old enough to know that they can't take their health for granted. But they also are young enough that often they have not experienced any major health projects, says Linden.

He notes that the sandwich years

and exercising regularly.

In 1994, the Centers for Disease Control reported these statistics for the sandwich generation (ages 4064): cancer, 32 percent; heart disease, 30 percent; accidents, 6 percent; stroke, 4 percent; lung disease, 3 percent. Statistics for other Ameri-3 percent. Statistics for other Americans were: heart disease, 32 percent of all deaths,; cancer, 24 percent of all deaths; stroke, 7 percent of all deaths; pulmonary disease (lung ailments), 5 percent of all deaths.

As people raising children and caring for aging parents, sandwich generation members often are primary bread winners for their families. Missing work for illness or injury can add complications to an already hectic lifestyle. According to Centers for Disease Control statistics, the most common cause of missed work among the sandwich generation is injuries followed by respiratory conditions, flu and digestive disorders.

SMOKEOUT BIRTHDAY

For the past 20 years, staff and volunteers of the American Cancer Society have helped millions of Americans quit smoking by proving to themselves that they can quit a day, and therefore, ultimately, they can quit a lifetime. In a new twist to an old problem, the American Cancer Society is now focusing its efforts on children and teen-agers, because most smokers start before they reach 18.

Therefore, a lot of effort is placed toward pre-teens in the week of the Great American Smokeout. The pre-teen promotion is an hilarious, upbeat program targeted at fifth-through eighth-graders using curriculum, fun goodies, gripping posters, and informative brochures and audiovisual materials to help kids learn about the dangers of tobacco to their health.

On Nov. 21, students participating in the program will "scream" out against smoking in the culmination of the program, the American Cancer Great American SmokeScream. The students will be encouraged to join their healthy, smoke-free lungs to a chorus of screams with their classmates. The American Cancer Society believes that if kids can get through school without smoking, they probably will never smoke

There's also an opportunity to learn about the dangers of tobacco use in an interactive way. The American Cancer Society's Internet Web site can be accessed through the American Cancer Society's home page, http://www.cancer.org. On the home page, users simply click on the Great American Smoke-Scream icon to find fun facts, games and contests, and celebrity insights on the dangers of

Since the inception of the Great American Smokeout, the smoking rate of American adults has dropped from 36 percent to Interested in 24-hour shopping, seven days a week, with more than 130,000 items under one roof? You can try any one of the Meijer stores or settle for fewer items and try On-Line Shopping at the store's new Web site.

"It's just another way to provide our customers with the convenience and services they desire," said Fred Meijer, chairman of the executive committee. We are in the business to provide quality products, convenience and service so providing an On-Line Shopping service extends our ability to meet the needs of customers

In mid-June, Meijer launched its own Web site, which has been very popular, according to Tom Vilella, director of media services/strategic planning. "The success of our Web site has enabled us to continue to develop and implement additional services for our customers. By offering an on-line service, Meijer can now reach customers who shop from their home or office."

Internet users can choose from a select group of 150 items by pointing to http://www.meijer.com. "The products and services are ideal for sending gifts to relatives and friends who are miles away or just around the corner," said Vilella.

All items are delivered via United Parcel Service Ground (UPS) to 48 states within seven to 10 days. Special arrangements can be made to send items out of the delivery area. For a limited time, shipping is free. Gift wrapping also is available.

Shoppers at the Web site also may use VISA, MasterCard or Discover when ordering. Meijer has made a special arrangement for encryption to make credit card transactions secure.

As a teen in Carle Place, N.Y., fledgling guitarist Steve Vai thought about the day he could play alongside his mentor/guitar teacher Joe Satriani. He never actually thought it would happen, but now, years later, he's joining his high school buddy and Eric Johnson on stage for the "G3 = Three Great Guitars" tour.

"I dreamed about it, but no, I never thought it would ever actually happen to this magnitude," Vai said with a laugh.

Satriani added that it feels natural for the two to play together on stage.

"It feels quite natural now I suppose because I started teaching Steve when I was 15," Satriani said of playing with Vai. "We've known each other for a very long time. We're closer as friends than we are as student and teacher. We went to the same high school and hung around with the

The "G3" tour comes to The Palace of Auburn Hills tonight. The three men are considered to be the most influential rock instrumental guitarists of the past decade. Satriani, 39, has sold more than 7 million records and earned six Grammy Award nomina-tions. Before his solo career took off in the mid-'80s, Satriani moved to the Bay Area of California and taught guitar to Larry LaLonde of Primus and

Kirk Hammett of Metallica. For his 45-minute set, Johnson will play tracks from his latest release "Venus Isle" (Capital), the follow-up to his 1990 near-platinum album "Ah Via Musicom," which includes "S.R.V.," a tribute to the late Stevie Ray Vaughan and the Wes Montgomery-flavored jazz track "Manhattan." The 42-year-old Austin, Texas,-bred guitarist won a Grammy Award for the song "Cliffs of Dover" from that album. The song also earned the distinction of being the first instrumental track to break into the Top 5 on Billboard and Radio and Records rock radio charts and ranked No. 9 on Radio and Records' 1991 Year-End Chart.

The 36-year-old Vai made his professional career debut in 1980 as part of Frank Zappa's band. Since then he has worked with David Lee Roth, Whitesnake, and appeared as the devil's guitar player in the Walter Hill movie "Crossroads." In mid-September, he released his 18-track Epic Records debut album "Fire Garden" which includes the four-part "Fire Garden Suite."

The show will feature 45-minute sets by each of the three guitarists, and culminates with a jam session which may include a visit from a hometown ax slinger. At previous shows, guests like Chris Duarte, Neal Schon of Journey, Kenny Wayne Shepherd and Gary Hoey have stepped

"We're hoping to draw from a lot of different areas of music - from rock and blues to a guy who permanently plays in vocal bands or instrumental groups," said Satriani who spent years trying to get this tour together.

"That's what we're into. We're the complete non-judgmental touring group. We like bringing people on that'll be like a square peg in a round hole. In essence, Steve Vai, Eric Johnson and myself, we don't really make the same kinds of records. Our guitars sound extremely different. It's not unusual for us to think about adding somebody like Yngwie Malmsteen, Ted Nugent, John McLaughlin, or Neal Schon. Most guitar players whether they're 18 or 58 have got a history of playing blues, rock 'n' roll, jazz, pop, whatever, but the same thing kind of runs through the veins - it's the guitar, the musicianship, and the love of music. That's the common

Artist uses dots to connect nature, science

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN SPECIAL WRITER

Jim Isakson chooses to see the proverbial glass of water as half full instead of half empty. When his position as a graphic artist with an Auburn Hills' agency was eliminated earlier this year, Isakson viewed it as an opportunity to create fine art.

Since then the 31- year old Canton artist, who graduated from Center for Creative Studies with a BFA in illustration, has spent hundreds of hours producing the nine acrylic and gouache paintings on exhibit at the Clique Gallery in Royal Oak. In the tradition of French Postssionist Georges Seurat, n paints hundreds of dots in an attempt to relay the beauty and mystery of nature and the uni-verse. Landscapes and non-repre-sentational abstracts, dealing with subjects ranging from campfires to the cosmos, dominate the show.

"It has to do with energy and basic physics, and manifesting particles of energy into a painting. The points represent the intense detail I want to project of whatever element I'm painting. Realism doesn't really present a challenge because ly present a challenge because there's an automatic end result. Pontillism tends to provoke more of an interest in the subject matter because the dot depicts energy just as the universe which is composed of an infinite number of tiny parti-cles," said Isakson, an admirer of cles," said Isakson, an admirer of Seurat, Monet and van Gogh.

"I hope the viewer will interact with the painting: up close to see how the dots are flowing, then back up to view the entire image."

Pontillism carefully and systematically organizes a series of dots into a pictorial order. However methodical this style appears, the inherent creativity produces a shythmic movement overiding the discipline of the placement of dots in space. Using cylindrical forms and flowing lines, Isakson paints a perfectly manicured landscape entitled "Green River" after a similar location along the Manistee River in Northern Michigan. This work was juried into the The Art of the Garden exhibition held in March at the Matthaei Botanical March at the Matthaet Botanical Gardens in Ann Arbor.

"I start with a sketch, but sometimes I like to let the brush draw as well. I let the painting talk to me," said Isakson, who graduated from Plymouth Salem High School after studying art with Kris Darby and Dave Falzetti.

"Northern" seatures the calor.

"Northfire" captures the color and movement of a roaring campfire on a canvas mimicing the shape of the subject. Look close to decipher the animals typical of the Northern Michigan woods. Amids the roaring flames, lurk a howling

"Since I camp a lot I wanted to project the feeling of the fire illu-minating up to the sky. The flames are symbolic of the animals found there. Before I start a painting, I paint a mental image in my head and let be the goal I want to

"With Jim's work you can see every mark he's made. It almost encapsulates time. While they're realistic, it opens up the imagination because he abstracts the form. It's a Rorschach test. There's no sharpness. It's all organic. The whole feeling is very flowing and comforting," said Elaine Redmond.

"And the technique in itself is so amazing, the labor intensiveness of alt."

Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $1.50 adults, 50 cents for children ages 5-12, under age 5 free.

"I decided to change to art. I liked the black and white of pen and ink, so I took four or five print making classes with Richard Fairfield," said McCullough, a graduate of Churchill High School in

"I like the printing aspect of the woodcut medium and to work with wood. Both my dad and grandfather taught industrial arts. I like the hardness of the image and the sharp lines that a hand-carved and individually rubbed woodcut produces."

Since March, the 31- year old artist has created a body of work, primarily printed in black and white. Limited to editions of approximately 100, the woodcuts range in price from $25 to $65.

Everything's done in reverse so you have to work backwards. After I've finished carving, the image is inked and a piece of rice paper laid over it. I then use a wooden spoon to pressure the paper. I reink the surface two or three times before completed. It's not like a press where you can do one after another," said McCullough.

"I love the old Japanese wood blocks when they made everything to appear flat. The history of this medium is important to me. Theirs was done on rice paper, but it was a lot thinner. The flattening was so there was not a lot of depth," said McCullough.

"Since I didn't invent this, it's important to keep with the tradition of the style, but to use more Americanized style."

A Northern Michigan forest of trees is background for a lone whitetail deer in one of the woodcut images. Mischievous bear cubs climb the trees in another print. The trees form a vertical screen from which the animals seem to peer out.

Earl and Alice Spuck purchased one of McCullough's bear prints at the Old Village Craft Fair in Plymouth earlier this month. Once framed, they plan to hang it in the family room of their Canton home.

They were fun bears. They had personality," said Earl Spuck when asked why he bought the

"It reminded us of our cabin in Canada or places we'd visited," added Alice. "The scene makes us feel like we're there when we can't be there.'

UKRAINIAN SHOW TO OPEN

An art exhibition commemorating the fifth anniversary of Ukraine's independence opens with a reception 1:30-4:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 3, at Biegas Gallery, 35 E. Grand River in Detroit.

Among the 65 Ukrainian, Canadian and American artists displaying their paintings, ceramics, photography, and batiks are Livonia Chamber of Commerce membership director Chrystyna Nykorak; Mychaijlo Cmytrenko, who painted the icons at Immaculate Conception Church in Hamtramck; Detroit photographer Dan Graschuck; mixed media artist, Alexander Tkachenko, and ceramist Wendy Walgate, a graduate of Cranbrook Academy of Arts in Bloomfield Hills.

In 1991, after more than 70 years of communist rule within the Societ Union, Ukraine declared its independence. This enabled artists to create work free of the former regime's decree that art should reflect communist ideology.

Hours are noon to 6 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, or by appointment. For more information call the gallery at (313) 961-0634.

Frame Works of Plymouth will host an exhibit by the Women of Artistry 1-5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 3 in its shop at 525 Penniman Avenue. The show continues through Nov. 16.

A variety of mediums will be represented including acrylic, oil, watercolor, fiber, and photography by artists Susan Argiroff of Livonia; Sharon Dillenbeck, Canton; Julie Giordano, Northville; Carol McCreedy, Westland; Norma McQueen, Garden City, and Kelly Sauter-Dobson, Livonia.

All six aritists have donated work for a raffle to be held Nov. 16. Tickets are $1 each and available at Frame Works Nov. 3-16. All proceeds will go to a Women of Artistry Scholarship Fund to benefit a female student Schoolcraft College in Livonia presents Arthur Miller's "All My Sons" 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, Nov. 1-2 (sold-out), and Nov. 8-9 in the Waterman Center on campus, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Theater tickets $6.50. Call for reservations/information: (313) 462-4409.

BY BOB WEIBEL SPECIAL WRITER

Arthur Miller's "All My Sons" is akin to viewing a rogue tidal wave. It begins innocently enough far from shore. Unseen forces propel it along. As you become aware of its potential, nothing can prepare you for the final power and fury of the waves surging and crashing over the rocks exposing deep, dark secrets of the sea

Director Jim Hartman and his Schoolcraft College cast and crew do a masterful job of staging Miller's classic drama. Their final act of "All My Sons" builds tension and sustains suspense as few other shows in recent memory. Although it's a student production with performers of varying skills and experience, this pales in comparison to a very satisfying overall effect.

As with much of Miller's work, the play deals with an idealistic son and a guilty father.

The time is shortly after World War II. The boys have come home from the war, but not all is well in the Keller home. One son, Larry, has been killed (the mother refuses to believe he is dead). We learn that the father may have been involved in manufacturing faulty aircraft parts that led to pilot deaths. His partner is

Brian Taylor does an excellent job as the middle-age father, Joe Keller. (Someone needs to improve his stomach padding, however. It's too obvious.) Although only twentyish, his voice inflections and mannerisms capture the essence of the conflicted Joe Keller. You see that Joe is an ordinary man, one who would do anything for his family. Joe is not an evil man, but his compulsion to succeed in business led to one fatal mis-

Unfortunately, Joe lacks the moral fiber to own up to his error. The dirty little secret stuns Chris, who expected more from his father. Joe's lamentable, "I saved the business for you" falls on deaf ears and leads to the stunning finale.

MOVIES

'Swingers' picks up on cocktail culture

MONAGHAN

They enter the cocktail lounge in search of "digits," or telephone numbers, of any "baby" worth their attention. Trent, smoothest of the group, walks up to one and starts talking.

Strolling away, his back to her. number in hand, he rips the paper up for the benefit of his friends. Cold.

"As harsh as it is, as harsh as the dialogue sounds, I think it's brutally honest," says director Doug Liman, sipping a monster martini at Hamtramck's Motor Lounge. "These guys are real. That's how they talk about women."

Far from some misogynist fantasy, however, "Swingers" is an often hilarious, dead-on look at the mid-'90s phenomenon called the cocktail nation. Primarily found in New York and Los Angeles, these retro-twentysomethings order martinis and Manhattans, wear bowling shirts and perfectly creased pants, and use a lingo that's one part Dean Martin with a splash of Tarantino.

Since the movie opened earlier this month in New York and Los Angeles, it has already given hipsters a new vocabulary, in which the ultimate compliment is to call someone "money."

The low-budget movie, which opens tomorrow at the Birmingham Theatre, may be the best independent release of the year. It's also a nice coup for the Birmingham, which could do well by picking up on movies passed over by the sometimes stodgy Main Art Theatre.

LISTINGS AND TIMES

Filmed primarily in the streets, apartments, and cocktail lounges of Los Angeles, "Swingers" charts the lives of five guys, all vying for a big break in television and movies. Wearing a big head at Disneyland wouldn't be so bad if you could play Mickey instead of

They hang out at bars like the Derby and the Dresden Room, go to parties, and try to pick up women. At the latter Trent (Vince Vaughn) proves this new Rat Pack's guru. Tall and thin, like a handsomer version of Tim Robbins, he picks up the women with a magic bag of tricks that his friend Mike (Jon Favreau) just can't seem to get a handle

Mike is still in mourning, waiting for the past six months for a call from his ex-girlfriend back in New York. When he does score some "digits," he invariably screws it up. The guys say not to call her for two, maybe three days, but he calls her that night. In one take, without cuts, he leaves a series of messages on her answering machine that are both hilarious and pathetic.

You have this phenomenon when you see it in front of an audience where people are both laughing and cringing," Liman says. "He's getting people to talk back to a movie screen all alone and that's a hell of a scene to pull off . . . Everywhere else in the film I threw in a million cinematic tricks."

Aside from the lead role, Favreau wrote the screenplay, coproduced, and was originally supposed to direct when he handed the reins over to friend Liman, who also served as director of photography.

The first-time director had been making short films since grade school. At 30, his goal was to make a movie that looked like a million, despite a budget of only $250,000. He did this by concentrating on the actors and shooting guerilla-style, without city permits, in natural light. "I set out to do an actually poor job," he remembers. "I didn't want this film to be about the cinematography. We tried to avoid lighting whenever possible, and spent the whole time just shooting. We were shocked to see it looking as good as it did."

Trent takes Mike to Las Vegas, thinking the change of scenery will do him good. The casino they pick isn't the glitzy kind with exploding volcanoes and white tiger cages. This one's populated by senior citizens smoking cigarettes and tugging on slot machine handles.

Getting the casino to let them shoot inside was easy, according to Liman: "They were promised a bunch of old people from old age homes," he said. "One of the associate producers had a girlfriend whose father had a bunch of nursing homes in Nevada. Bus them into Las Vegas and the casinos would do the favor."

While independent movies like "Swingers" usually premiere at the Sundance Film Festival. Liman and Favreau rented a theater, invited the studios, and soon found themselves at the center of a bidding war. Not surprisingly, the movie was picked up by Miramax, the company that made "Clerks," "Pulp Fiction," and "Trainspotting" such huge cult successes.Since then, head swingers Liman and Favreau have been promoting the movie separately, sometimes taking swipes at each other. There's no question when a movie this small hits this much success, there's a dynamic in the group that is sort of like Treasure of Sierra Madre,' Liman laments. "They say that success has many fathers and failure is an orphan. I can only be flattered."

Semisonic 'rocking in a good way'

Besides hav-ing the talent to hookwrite laden songs, memorable melodies, and addictive harmonies, Semisonic has a talent that some people might not be aware of.

rock because Jake (drummer Jacob Slichter) plays the keyboard and the drums at the same time," said guitarist/lead singer Dan ilson with a little smirk.

"I-think that's pretty much unheard of. There's something about this sound that has this extra layer because Jake is kind of multi-ambidextrous, and more limber than most drummers."

Those who went to WHYT's "PlanetFest" in late August know that he's telling the truth. One of the highlights of the festival, Semisonic brought forth its ever-present Beatlesque harmonies especially on songs like "F.N.T." and the first single, "If I Run."

"Our songs are real melodious. There's a harmony and a melody to it that we just can't seem to escape," Wilson said.

Wilson and bassist/vocalist John Munson were half of Trip Shakespeare, the Minneapolis group that came out of the post-Replacements/Husker Du scene. Slichter had played drums and various other instruments in bands. It was his basement where Semisonic got its start.

"I had written a few songs with Jake and had written some things with John actually in the couple of months that Trip Shakespeare was kind of fading away. John, Jake and I had played a few parties just playing covers in very late '92 and early

'93. We played 'Drift Away' by are $8 in advance. For more Dobie Gray and other '70s chest-information, call (313) 996-8555. nuts that we were going shamelessly trod out," Wilson explained.

"It was super fun. We kind of started to realize that we were rocking in a good way. One thing led to another, and in Jake's basement studio in early '93 we were recording to just have fun."
Wilson added that since that time Semisonic's sound has changed.

"We got this sampler about a year after we started playing and it completely transformed the way we work in the studio. It made possible the landscape of backward guitar, beeps and fishlike bubbling sounds (on 'Great Divide')."

Semisonic and Stir perform Wednesday, Nov. 6, at the Blind Pig, 206-208 S. First St., Ann Arbor. Doors open at 9:30 p.m. for the 19 and older show. Tickets

Misc: Jennifer Finch, bass player for L7, has left the group. finch has announced that she will return to college and has decided to forego the rigors of an extensive tour in support of the Los Angeles-based band's upcoming Reprise Records release "The Beauty Process - Triple Platinum." The album is being produced by Rob Cavallo (Green Day), Joe Barresi and L7 in Los Angeles. Set for release in early 1997, the album will include Finch's musical contributions prior to her departure.

If you have a question or comment for Christina Fuoco, you can write to her c/o The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, or via e-mail at cfuoco@aol.com. You can also leave a message for her by calling (313) 953-2047, mailbox 2130 on a Touch-Tone phone.

STREETSSCE

Coming to town: The pop band Semisonic returns to the area to play the Blind Pig in Ann Arbor Wednesday, Nov. 6, in support of its debut album "Great Divide" (MCA). The trio - from left, John Munson, Dan Wilson and Jacob Slichter - performed at Pine Knob in August as part of "PlanetFest."

T.J. Kirk pays homage to legendary artists

'An Oscar -Bound Piper Laurie leads 'HARP'S' Heavenly Ensemble'

T.J. Kirk performs at 10 p.m. Friday, Nov. 1, at the Magic Bag, 22920 Woodward Ave., Ferndale. Tickets are $10 in advance for the 18 and older show. For more information, call (810) 544-3030. BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

The jazz band T.J. Kirk believes in giving credit where credit is due. So in order to honor their influences, drummer Scott Amendola and guitarists Will Bernard, Charlie Hunter and John Scott created T.J. Kirk, which pays homage to Thelonious Monk (T), James Brown (J), and Rashaan Roland Kirk (Kirk).

"The band started out as a way to perform the works of those three composers and cross reference them with each other. Frequently, we're playing two or three compositions by those composers at the same time. It's a good way to bring attention to the original records and composers that we are drawing upon for our sources," Schott said.

He stressed that T.J. Kirk is not a cover band.

"We're trying to be faithful to the spirit rather than the letter of the law. A lot of the times we alter the composition to suit our needs or our purposes. Some people might think that's sacrilegious but I believe in order to preserve the essence of an idea you need to rephrase it in a different way.

Later in the conversation,

Schott let it slip that T.J. Kirk just got very excited about it." has another meaning.

The band was named James T. Kirk but Paramount who owns 'Star Trek' and everything 'Star Trek' related wouldn't let us use that name. But with T.J. Kirk we're able to encapsulate both T.J. Hooker and James T. Kirk two William Shatners rolled into one," Schott said with a laugh.

Although all four members have solo projects, T.J. Kirk is important to them.

'It's something we take seriously and work very hard on. The three guitarists in the band, we're all friends. We all live in Berkeley, Calif. We just admired each other's playing, but we didn't have many opportunities to play together. We started it as a lark to get together and jam and maybe do a concert and people

T.J. Kirk is touring in support of its second release, "If Four Was One" (Warner Bros.), a project that Schott is "tremendously proud of." "The exciting thing about being in a band it when each person puts in their own creative energy. Sometimes we come up with stuff that any one of us would not have done.

The T.J. Kirk show Friday, Nov. 1, at the Magic Bag is the first on the band's tour.

Elegant: name of the game at Misty Duck

RENEE SKOGLUND STAFF WRITER

David Khoury Owner describes The Misty Duck's menu as "an eclectic blend of conceptual American cuisine.'

Eclectic? Yes. The menu ranges from an assortment of sandwiches to sophisticated entrees. Conceptual? Yes again. Paring sauteed wild boar medallions with golden pears and rosemary cream may well be a concept new to American cuisine, at least in this area.

The Misty Duck, opened just a few months, bears no traces of the Big Boy Restaurant that once occupied the premises. Guests are surrounded by creamy gold tones and warm brown paneling. A honey-colored tiled fireplace divides the dining area and more casual bar area. There is no clutter in this restaurant, which has a soft Eurostyling, and the pheasants mounted on the walls add a nice, muted touch

Ambience is delightful, but well-prepared food is even better. When asked to name a customer favorite, Khoury did not hesitate. Blackened BBQ Buffalo Burger. "They love it, absolutely love it. It has a very nice flavor to it. It gives you a tangy flavor. It's becoming a hit here."

Lunch prices average about $7.95 for an assortment of sandwiches and salads and from between $10.95 and $16.95 for pastas and seafood. Dinner entrees are priced between $15.95 and $26.95. Don't ask about dessert prices. Just order one, like the molded chocolate clam shell stuffed with mango mousse and garnished with raspberry sauce and chopped man-

Cindy Brautigan of Salem ordered tuna stead with capers on her first visit to The Misty Duck. "It was delightful, flaky and moist," she said. Her husband Mike, more adventurous, ordered the grilled duckling salad with forest mushroom.

"It was just gorgeous," said Brautigan, who added, Everything presented at the table was beautiful. You ate it with your eyes as well as your Brautigan also said the waitstaff was very helpful and didn't mind going back to the kitchen to ask questions.

Khoury loves customers like the Brautigan. It affirms his belief that The Misty Duck fills a restaurant niche with the Canton area that hasn't been filled before.

"Born out of the deep recesses of my mind came The Misty Duck Bistro, and I've been tickled pink ever since," he said.

NEW HOMES

Condos offer small town, downtown living

Bryan A. Timlin, who has enjoyed much success in downtown Birmingham with condominium development, expects good things from Townsend Place East and West in that community.

Both are apartment to condominium conversions within a couple blocks of each other and easy walking distance to shopping, parks and the library.

Prices start at $129,900 for a one-bedroom, single-bath unit of 700 square feet to $209,900 for a two bedroom and two bath of · 1,000 square feet.

A limited number of combination units with upwards of 1,600 square feet including two bedrooms and two baths are available starting at $329,000.

"The single biggest amenity is proximity to downtown Birmingham," Timlin said. "Number two, this is beautifully priced for downtown Birmingham.

Twenty-four units will be carved into each of the two buildings. Each is three stories high. Prices increase as you choose a higher level. Townsend Place West is almost sold out.

Rick Coury is the general contractor in charge of the renovations. "It's a structurally sound building ... a good, sound project to be involved with," he said. "Everything in the building has been upgraded for safety issues."

This is a major, close to being a 100-percent renovation," Timlin said. "Everything is new from top to bottom. It's not decorating, but renovation."

All kitchens, bathrooms, windows and doorwalls will be new. Carpeting will be replaced, paint applied.

Tammy M. Pote, sales representative, comes in contact with all kinds of prospects.

"They absolutely love it," she said. "They like the design. What they're looking at when they look out the window is what it's about. They drive up and see gas lights."

"Look out our windows," Timlin said. "You see trees, gardens,

All units will have either a patio or balcony. Balconies will have built-in flower boxes. Each building will have an exercise room, elevator and laundry facilities. Every owner will have at least one covered parking place.

All units will contain a new refrigerator, oven, microwave and dishwasher. Crown molding is standard.

"We're appealing to a new demographic here - baby boomers and baby boomers' children," Timlin said. "Our market tends to be singles. People are getting away from large places. Young people don't need it. Older people are selling.

"You know what people like about this - maintenance-free living," Timlin said. "They can park their car here and never get in it unless they're leaving the community."

The finished model at Townsend Place West, 900 square feet, features a living room/dining room, kitchen with under-counter lights, bedroom and a bathroom with combination tub and shower. Base price is $169.900.

Housing conversion: Bryan Timlin is renovating two apartment buildings to condominium units within easy walking distance of attractions in downtown Birmingham.

School District boundaries.

The property tax rate currently is $43.69 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $170,000 condominium there would pay about $3,700 the first year.

The monthly maintenance fee ranges from $120-$189 dollars and includes water, window

Both are within the Birmingham cleaning, lawn care and pest contaste. That's exactly what I've town Birmingham. We wanted to Bill Cox bought a two-bedroom unit. He wanted to stay in Birmingham and enjoy the amenities of condo living.

"I picked Townsend due to the reputation of the builder ... the quality of construction he's undertaken at other sites, "Cox said. "I do have the flexibility of customizing my condo to my

"If you think about it, at this price point ($240,000 with upgrades), there's virtually no new construction in Birmingham," he added.

Theresa and Wayne Raymond bought a one-bedroom unit.

"We now live in a pretty big condo, four bedrooms," Theresa said. "We wanted to live in down-downsize. We drove by Townsend Place. It was perfect for what we needed.

"I like the looks of the building, but mostly I like the location," she said.

The model at Townsend Place West, (810) 540-1230, is open noon to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and by appointment.

National home ownership is second highest ever

WASHINGTON (AP) - Figures released last week show more Americans own homes than ever

With just two weeks until election day, the Clinton administration reported that home ownership nationally has climbed to 65.6 percent of U.S. households.

President Clinton quickly sought to turn the national increase to his political advanworked hard to help more Americans own their own homes," Clinton said in a statement citing the economy, lower interest rates and efforts to cut closing costs.

The national figure, for the third quarter of this year, is the highest quarterly rate in 15 years and the second highest on record, Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros told reporters.

"It's an excellent manifestation

"My administration has of how a strong economy can actually touch people's lives,' Cisneros said.

> Clinton's statement was distributed moments after a White House briefing on a report usually issued by the Department of Housing and Urban Develop-

Cisneros said 66.3 million households owned their own homes in the second quarter of this year, up from 66.1 million the previous quarter.

He said black homeowners increased from 5.3 million to 5.4 million and Hispanic owners from 3.57 million to 3.62 million.

The home ownership rate of 65.6 percent trails only the record 65.8 percent rate set in 1981, Cisneros said.

Lower mortgage interest rates and an improved economy have helped spur home buying, Cis-

Cisneros also announced a series of new initiatives which he said were designed to reach 67.5 percent home ownership by 2000. These included:

Plans to double the number of local home ownership partnerships to 150 by 1997.

n Establishment of a computer 'web site" and a toll-free phone number to assist women who want to become homeowners.

ownership counseling in various languages.

Consumers warm to gas fireplaces

Natural gas fireplace equipment is gaining popularity, as consumers seek greater convenience and an alternative to the environmental and health effects associated with woodburning fireplaces and stoves. Residential wood stoves are one of the largest sources of the tiny "particulates" that cause visible air pollution and aggravate breathing problems, especially in children, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

Natural gas fireplace logs burn far more cleanly than wood and emit no particulate matter, soot or smoke, according to the American Gas Association (A.G.A.).

Many consumers prefer natural gas fireplaces because of the convenience, A.G.A. says - no wood to chop, no kindling to fuss with, no logs or ashes to haul.

Some natural gas hearth units can even be turned on and off by remote

Plan is suitable for family that wants smaller home

Parents can cook dinner and still keep an eye on kids playing in the yard. The 1,471-square-foot Levings is ideal for a family about to buy their first home, or for a couple close to retirement and wishing to down-size to a more manageable floor Attractive wood siding and a covered walk impart a nice touch as you enter this home.

The kitchen is large with plenty of counter space. And it's just inside the front door, handy for popping in to grab a snack. The open living room and dining room invite entertaining or family gatherings. The optional wood stove adds charm to this area. Sliding glass doors lead you from the living area to the covered deck for enjoying the warm summer nights and cool fall evenings.

This home has a roomy master bedroom with a double vanity in the dressing area, separating the bathroom and walk-in closet. A skylight fills the dressing area with soft natural light.

The den, with French doors, can be used as a home office or guest room if needed. A full bathroom is located in the center of this floor plan, allowing for easy use by the entire home.

The large two-car garage not only has a side entrance but direct access into the house via the oversized utility room. This handy space houses the washer/dryer and a half bath. The half-bath is convenient to those working in the garage or yard.

LET'S REMODEL

New design principles help everyone

Q: My wife has a bad back. We are al drawers, rather than so many doors, looking to remodel our kitchen will also cut down on bending. Where over the winter and would like to door bases are used, incoporation of know what recommendation can storage aid devices such as roll-out basbe made to make her life more kets and dividers can be beneficial.

A: Consideration for people of different ages, sizes and mobilities are being referred to interior design circles as Universal Design. The objective today is to design space to meet the needs of anyone who is to be using the room. The first and best recommendation would be to select a remodeling contractor who specializes in universal design, for that individual would be sensitive to the strategies to accomplish these objectives and some of the products available to help do so. Specifically for persons who have chronic back pain, there are several specific details that can make working in the kitchen fun again. Bending at the waist is usually very uncomfortable for people with back problems. To prevent unnecessary bending, raise the dishwasher 12 inches off the floor. This makes it easier to load and unload while standing erect, and more convenient for anyone. Designing the lower (base) cabinets with addition-

Also remember that leaning forward is uncomfortable, so generally speaking it is thought that only the first 15 inches to 18 inches of space at the front of a counter is best accessible. A good rule of thumb is to have three different countertop heights in good universal design. Some 30 inch high counters, some 36 inch high and some 42 inches off the floor is considered adequate for individuals of various ages and sizes to work at a countertop at a height comfortable to a given individual. For persons with back problems, select a sink that is no more than 6 inches deep, again to reduce unneessary leaning forward. Place faucets at the side of the sink rather than at the back. Choose appliances like cooktops with controls located at the front of the device. In general, controls should also have a logical placement that indicates which burner unit the control operates.

Other considerations in universal design might include accommodation for the fact that as people age, their eyesight deteriorates, especially under dimmer lighting conditions. Use plenty of lighting, and remember that good illumination requires are lighting, task lighting and accent lighting. Use a contrasting edge on countertops and in flooring in front of cabinetry to differentiate those spaces. Also, as people age, the strength of their grasp is decreased. This is especially true for items that are higher than shoulder height. Be sure that easy landing space is available next to ovens and refrigerators. With excellent design and advance planning, the kitchen can be a function-

Currier McEwen ($39.95. Timber Press). should be in every iris lover's book collection The author, 93 years old has devoted 40 years to growing and breeding these plants and shares his, and other experts', extensive knowledge.

Beginners as well as experienced growers will benefit from the vast information including history, detailed descriptions, culture, pests and diseases and characteristics of modern cultivars. Recipient of many awards. and the first hybridizer to induce tetraploidy in Japanese and Siberian iris, McEwen's love of these fascinating plants shines through. A list of places to see the plants throughout the world, judging and show information, as well as a list of his favorite plants, attest to the detailed information in this book.

I am very excited about "Nature Printing, with Herbs, Fruits and Flowers," Laura Donnelly Bethmann (Storey Publishing, $22.95). It is beautifully illustrated to show exactly how to accomplish the tasks necessary to create a desirable product.

Projects range from those for children to advanced techniques. Bethmann describes suitable papers and paints and helps the novice with all the steps from collecting specimens to various ways of printing. The ideas can be used on paper, fabric, walls, furniture - the possibilities are endless. This is the next best thing to having her right at

"Water Gardening, Water Lilies and Lotuses," Perry Slocum and Peter Robinson, with Frances Perry (Timber Press, $59.95), is a complete book on this subject, beginning with the history of water gardens, followed by the "nittygritty" design and construction information and how to care for the garden, including fish and other life forms found there.

An encyclopedia of suitable plants fol-lows with the plants segregated into suitable categories, i.e. submerged plants, bog plants, moisture-loving, etc. A portion of the book is devoted to water lilies and lotuses, which are such a large part of these gardens. The excellent color photographs alone will entice the reader to try this type of garden. The line drawings ably illustrate the technical side of the plants and the gardens. The list of sources is extensive.

"The Siberian Iris," 150 plants native to Mexico; and Geoffrey Charlesworth and Norman Singer, who grow 4,000 species of plants each year. "Probably the most important contributors of new plants to our gardens,"

Then there is John Gwynne, whose garden is discovered after entering a hidden doorway, and the alpine landscape near Philadelphia, which features phlox. Druse also visited Marco Polo Stufano of Wave Hills, N.Y., and the fabulous gardens. I could go on and on. Druse's photographs and narrative make this an outstanding work, sure to be sought after for many years.

In "Growing Myself" (Dutton, $21.95), Judith Handelsman shares her "spiritual journey through gardening."

This stranger explained that he was moving away and couldn't take the cat with him, so he was dumping him unto the golf course. Mark, the second of three sons, has always loved nature to the greatest degree. This characteristic quality prompted him to politely explain to this man that the cat could not take care of itself in the wilds of nature without claws. He also informed him that unless he went across the

Naturally, the man complied rather quickly, and so began the life of Pee Wee with the Gagnon father and son family. The first night of sleep in the apartment was interrupted by a trip against the closet door in my bedroom. This little kitten has climbed onto my chest at three in the morning and when I awoke from a deep sleep to find these two big eyes staring at me from only a few inches away, it scared me to no small extreme. The noise caused Mark to awake in a hurry and I can still see him running down the stairs with the big 357 Magnum pointing in my direc-

He eats the best steak and seafood because I visit the finest restaurants. We have never has an argument since our first meeting. Pee Wee is lonely during the day which prompted the second part of this story.

Seven weeks ago, my youngest son.

This story begins way back almost nine years ago when my son Mark and I were living street to the Kroger store and purchased a new kitty litter box and sand, plus some food, he was going to beat his brains in.

Andrew, was in the back yard of our store removing an old part for a consumer from a washing machine. As he lifted the washer this little orange kitten no bigger than the palm of your hand made a crying sound. He brought the kitty into the store and we gave it some water which it was too weak to even touch. The mother cat was around the back yard with three other well developed kittens and wouldn't come near this abandoned one. In all of this excitement we decided to let Dr. Morrison have a look at him. Three days later we had a new kitten which was going to

Back at the store the mother is still around while we have been taking care of the other three kittens which are living in the rear shed. I am not taking these other kittens home. I repeat, I am not taking these other kittens home. Do you understand,

STUDENTS HAVE FUN LEARNING ABOUT BULBS

STORIES BY MARTY FIGLEY . SPECIAL WRITER

They are among 43,000 students throughout the United States who planted bulbs and had fun doing it.

Gaj said she read about the National Gardening Association's program in a newsletter for educators.

The one-of-a-kind grant bulb program, Kids Growing with Dutch Bulbs, was generously supported by three organizations, the Mailorder ning Association, Columbia MD, the International Flower Bulb Center and the Dutch Bulb Exporters Association, both of Holland. Two hundred schools in 44 of the 50 states each received Dutch flower bulbs last fall and Frost Middle School was one of only two selected in Michigan.

The executive director, Camille Chioni of the MGA, wrote, "The 200 grant recipients were selected based on their applications which demon-strated clear educational goals and a commitment to helping children gain hands-on experience with the many joys and wonders of gardening. The National Gardening Association, Burlington, VT, administers the selection process of the grant program."

Before the bulbs arrived, Gaj's students studied about bulb plants and, in anticipation of the arrival of 250 bulbs from the sponsors and another 250 from the Michigan Bulb Co., Grand Rapids, each student drew a plan (to scale) of the proposed bulb planting site.

Gaj said the students were very excited by the program.

"They really enjoyed it. For many they had never planted bulbs before and they enjoyed working outside,"

The students voted for the best design, which must have been quite a big decision. Josh Thompson then took his winning design and made a full-scale drawing. Pictures of the blooming plants were tacked along the edges of the drawing. Last October (they recalled it was cold) the students pre pared a raised area about 20 by 14 feet that had pine trees growing in it, but not much else. One boy said, "It was covered with little pine cones."

Tulips, daffodils, narcissus, grape hyacinths, crocus and puschkinia were carefully placed in the ground and covered with wood chips. The kids had fun riding in a wheelbarrow along with the chips as they were carted from a holding area to the garden.

This past spring saw the results of their hard work, so they decided to plant a butterfly garden in the court-yard area, which is surrounded on all sides by the classrooms. This garden is two years old and the area was mostly grass before the gardens were con-

perennials are starting to mature."

The butterfly garden has three sections; the middle one is centered with a bird bath and two gardens on either side are triangle in shape. The side gardens are edged with the students' rock collection. A cement walk con-nects them all and two large benches are nearby for rest and relaxation.

Home Quarters donated thousands of seeds for this enterprising project, and the students had fun deciding just what to use in this garden. Some seeds were started indoors while others were sown directly into the ground.

When I visited at the end of May the new little plants were peeking through the earth and will make a handsome garden as they grow. Marigolds, cos-mos, four o'clocks, snapdragons, daisies, forget-me-nots and chives are just some of the flowers in the garden. At the end of our visit, three students were getting ready to plant seedlings.

In July and August some of the students met with Gaj for lunch and to weed and care for their own special garden. Several students said, "I'd like to do this again."

Gaj said the bulb project was for only a year but she would like to find sponsors for other similar gardening

In addition to the plants, the class used the National Gardening Association's GrowLab and ideas from their newsletter "Growing Ideas" for other class projects.

Another project that came out of this gardening experience is called "Feeder Watch," through Cornell University Laboratory of Ornithology The students made feeders and bird houses and hung them around the perimeter of the courtyard. Every two weeks they recorded which birds they had seen and the time they had visit-things off to their friends, there is a demonstration switch that allows you to make the box bark on command More practically, it gives you a quick indication that the detector is working.

The manufacturer says plastic and fiberglass do not affect range at all. Solid metal shortens the range drastically. Objects such as brick or curtains affect the range to a lesser or greater

The manufacturer recommends you place the detector three to five feet from the floor for maximum range and sensitivity. The detector is most sensitive in the direction you point it. But it will sense movement 360 degrees, although not as well as it will sense movement for 100 degrees in the direction you point it.

"It's been a terrific seller," said Jan Godwin of Sharper Image in Troy. "It is the second or third generation of a device we have had for several years."

One advantage of the barking motion detector, especially for those who leave an empty house all day, is that there is no dog to feed or pet or groom or clean up after. The downside is that there is no dog to pet or play with.

Some of the sites touted by the company as good places for the detector include offices (you have dogs in your office?), homes (this sounds more reasonable), apartments (especially if animals are allowed), dormitories (you have dogs in your dorm room?), warehouses, storage spaces, factories, weekend cottages, garages, recreational vehicles, boats, etc.

The barking detector might scare someone off temporarily, but not for the long term. But that's really what you want if you are interested in this type of device. You can't keep someone out of your house if he is determined to break

The Finest Quality Furniture We've Ever Shown.

Near the beginning of the century, the Arts and Crafts movement sprang from America's most innovative designers, Frank Lloyd Wright, Gustov Stickley and Charles Tiffany.

Art, they said, should be found in the objects we we are everyday, and we use everyday, and true beauty occurs when design. function and ornamentation all work together. In furniture, the movement took shape in the Mission style. The same style and heirloom

MELANZANE MARINATE MARINATED EGGPLANTS (FOR 6 OR 8)

Eggplants slices, fried marinated in olive oil, wine vinegar, basil, garlic, salt and pepper, and then served cold. Better if marinated for a day.

AT HOME

2 large eggplants coarse salt

1 cup fresh basil leaves

Salt and ground black pepper 1/2 cup red wine vinegar vegetable oil for deep frying

Slice the eggplants vertically into 1/2 inch slices; do not peel. Place the slices on a large plate, sprinkle liberally with coarse salt and let stand for 1 hour with a weight on top. Tear the basil leaves and place in a small bowl. Chop the garlic and add to the basil. Mix very well with a wooden spoon. Rinse and dry the eggplant slices with paper towels and deep fry them in a large quantity of vegetable oil until golden all over. Do not drain the oil with the paper towel. Put down a layer of undrained eggplant, cover with basil and garlic, then sprinkle with salt and pepper. Repeat until all the slices are in the serving dish. Pour in the vinegar, let cool and then place in refrigerator covered with aluminum foil. After 1 hour gently turn the slices over. Return to the refrigerator still covered for at least 3

Vermicelli with pepper, tomatoes and eggplant (for 4)

- 1 large cubed eggplant coarse salt
- 1 or 2 yellow peppers
- 1 clove garlic (peeled)
- 2 anchovies finely chopped
- 4 to 5 tomatoes peeled and chopped salt and pepper
- 8 black olives chopped
- 1 tablespoon capers squeezed & chopped
- small bunch basil (chopped)
- 14 ounces vermicelli
- Caciocavallo or Parmesan cheese

Sprinkle the eggplant with coarse salt and let the juice run for 1 hour, then rinse and dry them. Roast the peppers by turning them under the broiler and remove skin, then cut into strips. In a large pan, fry the eggplant in oil. Add the garlic and when the aroma rises, the anchovies and then the tomatoes. Season with salt and pepper, and simmer about 15 minutes or until the eggplant is tender. Add the olives, capers, basil, and the pepper strips and cook a minute longer. In a separate pot, boil the vermicelli in plenty of boiling salted water until al te (firm, but tender). Drain and serve with the sauce. Sprinkle with grated hat would it cost to buy a house exactly like yours in another community in the metro area?

Coldwell Banker Schweitzer, a regional real estate franchise with seven local offices, has updated a price comparison formula that serves as an informational starting point for people interested in making a move.

An index devised by a computer program that includes the average home sales price of transactions May 1 through July 31 of this year is the crux of the formula.

About a dozen Observer & Eccentric municipalities appear in the Schweitzer survey.

"It's just a good barometer, a guideline," said Kathy Schweitzer, director of administration for the local firm. "It gives people a good idea what their current home would cost in a new

"I'm sitting in my house on a Sunday afternoon reading from a brochure provided by a friendly Coldwell Banker Schweitzer person and I can look in areas I'm shopping and get an idea what I will pay," she said.
"All in one place.

"We give it to all of our sales associates," Schweitzer said. "They distribute it to their customers and clients. We also use it for our relocation department. It gives transferees a real good idea what they can expect to pay for a house."

To apply the Schweitzer formula, you multiply the market value of your current house by the index number of the destination city where you want to relocate, then divide that number by the index number of the city where you currently live.

According to the formula, a house in Livonia with a market value of $175,000 would cost approximately $135,700 in Southfield, $166,100 in Canton, $182,100 in Rochester Hills and $321,400 in Birmingham.

A house with a market value of $250,000 in West Bloomfield would cost about $222,200 in Troy, $226,900 in Livonia, $238,400 in Farmington Hills and $243,100 in Plymouth.

Keep in mind that the formula serves only as a guidepost. Your exact house may not be available in other communities. Also, mathematical averages can't be used to extrapolate a specific result.

Comparable market sales in a welldefined area affected by supply and demand, current interest rates and consumer confidence in the economy determine specific selling prices.

Matt Wojcik, marketing coordinator for Coldwell Banker Schweitzer, updated the formula this year.

"Some of the values for some of the towns were more than you would think," he said.

Forty-six communities around the state were surveyed.

The target house contained 2,200 square feet, four bedrooms, 2-1/2 baths, a family room or equivalent and a two-car garage.

The five highest-cost communities were Birmingham, with an average sales price of $354,750, the Grosse Pointes, $237,930, Northville, $229,608, Brighton, $227,000, and Ann Arbor, $220,100.

The five lowest-cost communities were Detroit, with an average sales price of $92,500, Jackson, $135,725, Midland, $138,700, Eastpointe, $154,000, and Allen Park, $156,666.

The average sales price of the target house in several O&E communities showed sizable leaps when compared to a survey two years ago, Coldwell Banker Schweitzer's computer search indicated.

The average price in Birmingham rose to $354,750 from $245,000, but only four sales of the target house were recorded during the survey period this year.

West Bloomfield increased to $212,827 from $179,580, Plymouth to $207,673 from $170,300, Farmington Hills to $202,468 from $174,921, Rochester Hills to $201,948 from $170,500 and Livonia to $193,908

A variety of factors make houses in one community more in demand than

"I think it boils down to schools, perception of the school system, parks and amenities offered to people who live there," Schweitzer said.

"Taxes, maybe," Wojcik said.

"Traffic, too, is another thing," said Tracey Ewert, marketing manager for Coldwell Banker Schweitzer.

Selling strategies other than where to advertise remain basically the same, Schweitzer said. You sell a lifestyle and community assets along with a house.

"In Warren, you might say you're close to the tech center as opposed to Birmingham, where you're close to shopping," Ewert said.

Smaller satellite dishes could be banned, too

Q. With the advent of the new small size in satellite dishes, does our community association still have the right to ban satel-lite dishes, which are specifically prohibited in the documents.

A. More than likely it does. Generally, the prohibitions on satellite antennas does not address the issue of size but merely the "evil" of satellite antennas.

Before an association can move for-

Before an association can move forward in the age of technology, it must amend its documents to provide that the smaller and certainly less objectionable satellite antennas are permitted. Failure to address the issue of the size of the satellite antenna leaves the homeowners association with no alternative but to enforce the satellite antenna provisions based upon certain cases reported at the most recent Community Associations Institute Law Seminar, which this author attended in San Diego, Calif.

Courts have reasoned that the fact that an exterior satellite dish is hidden does not "remove the fact that a violation exists, however concealed, and that in a private agreement, as distinguished from a criminal situation, the court may not impose its view on what may be reasonable; contrary to the agreement of the parties, or contrary to exercise of good faith by the

Q. I have a medium-sized business with approximately 55 employees on a regular or part-time basis. We are involved in the home onstruction business.

Does the Family Leave Act apply to us?

A. Yes. The act applies to employers with 50 or more employees, including part-time employees and temporaries. The act provides that employees must have worked for the employer for at least a year and for at least 1,250 hours during the year. They must also be at a work site where the employer employs at least 50 people within a 75-mile radius.

The leave can be taken because of the employee's own illness, if it makes them unable to work, the illness of a child, spouse or parent, if the employee is needed to provide them with care of psychological support, the birth or adoption of a child or a faster care placement and up to 12 weeks a year can be taken in leave.

The employees can sue in state for federal court and can sue for interference with their rights under the act such as wrongfully denying leave or discouraging them from taking leave. They can also sue if they are fired or denied a promotion or bonus because of absences covered by the act.

Employees can also file a complaint with the Labor Department, which will investigate the case and attempt to resolve it, possibly by filing suit on the employee's behalf. If the Labor Department files suit, the employee's right to sue is terminated. Employees can recover lost wages and benefits for actual monetary losses (such as the cost of providing care) up to the equivalent of 12 weeks wages. They also can recover double damages (unless the employer acted in good faith and had reasonable grounds for believing it was not committing a violation) and attorney

MORTGAGE SHOPPING The mortgage 1-810-=347-3630. timeline:

In this segment of my column, I look back and compare mortgage interest rates and mortgage trends over the last 25 years. Do you know in what year since 1984 the oneyear adjustable rate hand the highest first year start rate: 1984, 1987 or 1989?

What do you think the rate was: 8.75 percent, 10.25 percent or 12.25 percent? In keeping with our election year rate quiz, which election year since 1972 has had the highest increase in mortgage interest rates the following year: the 1976, 1980 or 1984 election. Answers in next week's

To buy an existing home:

Many lenders require the amount of homeowners insurance coverage to be at least equal to the amount of your mortgage, which is not necessarily the same as the estimated replacement cost for your dwelling. Which is the correct amount of insurance? In find the answer, I talked to Mark Diederich, an agent for Nationwide Insurance in Novi. He said the correct amount of coverage "should be at least the amount of replacement cost." He went on to say, "Even though lenders tell you they want coverage of at least the amount of the mortgage, a recent law signed by the governor prohibits lenders from requiring the amount of a homeowners policy for more than the replacement cost of the mortgaged building. This has come into play much more often in recent years, with more and more homebuyers making a downpayment of just 5 percent or 10 percent. This makes insurance coverage for the mortgage amount higher than what is really required, causing needless higher annual premiums.

Diederich also points out that "Since this law was just singed in November 1995, some people may not even be aware that their current policy's coverage amount is perhaps more than they really need." If you have any questions about homeowners insurance, you can call Diederich at his Nationwide insurance office at

To buy a new house:

For buyers in this category, making the decision on whether to obtain a long-term rate lock commitment from a lender can be very difficult. what makes this decision especially difficult is that homebuyers must make a guess as to what interest rates are going to do in the next three to nine months, or whenever their construction will be complete. The decision is both important and hard to make because lenders normally require an extra upfront fee to lock in an interest rate for a time period longer than the traditional 45- or 60-day free lock-in period. The rate lock fee can be as much as 1.5 percent of the loan

Using a $200,000 mortgage as an example, the fee would be $3,000. So, in making this decision, you have to weigh the upfront cost against the possibility that rates will increase by the time your home is completed. In an election year, it can even be harder to predict. Depending on what your crystal ball says, you make the call. Personally, I like to point out to my clients that they can always float the rate and simply watch for warning signs (while their house is being built) that something significant is happening with rates. Then, if they desire, they can lock in the rate at that time or possibly avoid the extra lock-in cost altogether. This can save an extra cost that may be unneces-

To refinance your current

If you believe that rates are going up in the next year, refinance now if you have an adjustable rate mortgage (ARM) and go to a fixed rate. If you believe rates are staying the same or coming down next year, refinance to a zero-cost one-year ARM with no prepayment penalty. This is especially a good move if you are on an ARM that is about to adjust upward. You may believe rates will be stable or dropping and join the growing ranks who refinance each year to another one-year, zero-point and zero-closing-cost ARM (with no prepayment penalty). Call me for a free analysis of your mortgage situation at 1-8900-405-3051.

Mortgage Timeline Answers from last week:

In October 1993, the 30-year fixed rate was at a 25-year low; it bottomed out at 6.83 percent. Before this time, the previous 24-year low was in April 1972 with a 30-year fixed rate of 7.29 percent. Compare this to today's rate of 8/0 percent and you can see that we are still very close to some of the all-time 25-year

After both presidential elections in 1988 and 1992, interest rates went down. In November 1988, the 30-year fixed rate was at 10.27 percent. falling slightly to the high 9 percent range by mid-1989. In November 1992, the 30-year fixed rate was at 8.31 percent, falling all the way to the 25-year low of 6.83 percent in October 1993.

A side note to my column of two weeks ago: I stated then that the highest 30-year fixed rate in the last 25 years had reached 18.45 percent in October 1981, making the payment on a $100,000 mortgage $1,543.85. I thought it would be interesting to point out that the annual income needed to qualify for that mortgage in 1981 would have been approximately $66,000. Comparing this to today's 8 percent rate and payment of $733.76, the income needed to qualify would be just about half at $34,000. Compounding this is the fact that it was much more difficult for people to earn $6,000 in but for home owners they also bring a reminder that it's time to start fixing, cleaning, and preparing for winter weather. If certain tasks are left undone, say the home inspectors from the American Society of Home Inspectors (ASHI), then a home becomes increasingly vulnerable to air, moisture, and water penetration, which may eventually cause structural problems. Whether done by the home owner or a professional service contractor, preventive maintenance will help prolong the efficiency and lifespan of a home's many components.

In addition to any obvious repairs that might be necessary, ASHI rec-

er protective step you can take in addition to proper insulation and ventilation. Ask your builder to use waterproofing shingle underlayment before the roof shingles are installed.

One type of underlayment, Winter-

1 Most buyers know that first-year interest on Adjustable Rate Mortgages (ARMs) is lower than on available fixed-rate mortgages. This makes ARMs easier to qualify for but they require that borrowers have some understanding about how such loans work because there are significant details associated with low first-year rate.

First, check to see how long the low rates offered on the ARMs are guaranteed. After that period of time, the rates can go up two points a year to a typical "cap" of six points over the life of the loan. Lenders will usually require borrowers to qualify for a mortgage loan that is several percentage points above the actual initial rate charged on the ARM. This is intended to keep borrowers from becoming overburdened by debt. Some lenders may charge special fees or caps which can increase the cost of the loan. If you think that an ARM may work for you, it is a good idea to shop around.

In addition to being a long time member of the Multi-million Dollar Club, I am also a licensed builder. For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, talk to me at Century 21 Towne Pride. Please come by my office at 36450 Ford Rd., Westland, or phone me at 313-326-2600
