Cheer Club can help

It's Christmas Cheer Club time again! For the fifth straight year, we're asking kindhearted folks to donate to our Plymouth Observ-

How does one become a cheer club member? It's simple. Starting on Friday after Thanksgiving and the weeks that follow, just bring an unwrapped toy or canned and boxed food item by our office in Plymouth.

We collect the donations, then pass them on to the Plymouth Salvation Army. They give the donations to needy kids and families in Plymouth and Canton.

When you bring in your donation, we'll ask to take down your name. Then in each issue of both newspapers through mid-December, we'll print the names of most recent donors. It's also OK to donate anonymously.

Please take note that our office has moved from Wing Street to a white house at 794 S. Main. Our office sign isn't in place yet. You'll find the office on the west side of Main just north of the Mayflower Party Store and across the street from Goodyear-March Tire. There is parking in the rear.

In past years, we've received up to 200 donations per season. We're hoping to see you!

Post office open Saturdays

The Plymouth Post offices want to see more of you during the holidays.

To help ease the rush, beginning Saturday, Nov. 30, and every Saturday until Christmas, both Plymouth offices will be open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

All post offices will close at 2 p.m. on Christmas Eve. There will be full delivery on Christmas Eve with express and priority mail deliveries available on Christmas Day.

It is best to mail early in the day. The post office is adding extra daily collections.

There will be Sunday collections added. For package needs priority mail boxes and tape are

For added convenience, there are three 24hour post offices open for retail services: George W. Young post office, 1401 W. Fort St. Detroit, Redbird Branch, 12245 Beech Daly Road, and airport mail center at the Detroit Metro Airport.

More police eyed by townsh

Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy and police Chief Carl Berry contend there's a need for more police officers. They said township resi-dents want more police patrols.

Some Plymouth Township residents have been wondering where the police patrol cars have gone.

"I know I'm hearing from homeowner groups 'We're not seeing cars in the neighborhoods anymore," said Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy.

Her comment backed police Chief

Carl Berry's contention that his department is understaffed, and that 10 new police hires are needed.

Berry and several police staff members made that pitch before township trustees at a work session Tuesday at Plymouth Township

The main message was that the police department is lacking in personnel when measured against cities of comparable size. And that means officers are forced to spend less time on general patrol and more just responding to calls.

"We're getting to the point where we won't be able to respond to all the calls out there," Berry said.

Plymouth Township has .9 police officers for every 1,000 residents, according to police department figures. That rate is below many area departments including Livonia at 1.6, Westland at 1.2, the city of Plymouth at 1.6 and Canton at 1.

Police said that according to statistics nationwide, for departments the same size as Plymouth Township's, the average of officers per 1,000 residents is 1.8. National statistics also show such departments spend an average of $166 per resident on police services, while the township spends $88 per resident on police services, according to the presentation Tuesday.

Sgt. Robert Smith said national law enforcement authorities maintain 70 percent of police activity should be spent on free patrol. But in 1995, Plymouth Township officers spent an average of 13 minutes per hour on free patrol.

City working way to new parking solutions

BY KEVIN BROWN

A plan to head off future parking problems for downtown Plymouth is winning its first official approval.

Plymouth city commissioners on Nov. 18 approved the first reading of one of two parking-related resolutions. Both are expected to win final approval next month.

Once approved, it will be possible for city officials to implement new, more business-friendly requirements on downtown businesses. City officials will also be doing away with some rules that have kept restaura-teurs away from downtown. The rules are to be implemented block by block. Up for consideration in December are the Central Parking Deck block, the City Hall-Penn Theater block and the Kellogg Park

"The original parking plan two of major parking areas downtown," City Manager Steve Walters explained.

But negotiations with some downtown lot owners have dragged out more than two years. So city officials decided on a different approach king to control lots on a block-byblock basis - to start implementing the plan.

"The theory was you get control of years ago envisioned getting control all the parking then get an ordinance, it has turned out to be too difficult," Walters said. "This way it can happen in stages, without having to wait for the last block to come along before you do anything.

The city administration is seeking to have private lot owners deed their lots to the city. The city then is responsible for lot upkeep and can combine and stripe them to create spending money to upgrade streets, and government officials are taking the first steps to make it happen.

After voters approved a street improvement plan Nov. 5, Plymouth city commissioners on Nov. 18 approved issuing bonds to pay for the first phase.

The 20-year plan is split into two separate 10-year phases. Commissioners approved issuing $975,000 in bonds in December and $4.7 million early next year.

Splitting the two bond issues saves $5,000 in tax requirements, said Finance Director Mark Christiansen in a report to City Manager Steve Walters.

"In addition, the issuance of $975,000 in bonds in December will provide up front funding of engineering and other early Plymouth city voters approved costs as well as providing us with significant funds to increase total construction project earnings," Christiansen said.

In another report to the city manager, city engineering consultants Dietrich, Bailey and Associates said project specifications are scheduled to be done by

The firm is to advertise for bids Feb. 23, award a street construction contract April 7, start construction April 28 and complete this year's portion of the work Oct. 25.

Homeowners will be assessed no more than 2 mills for the street repairs. Work to be performed in each 10-year road improvement period is to happen in the first two to three years of the period.

A clean chimney is a must for fireplace

BY MARIE CHESTNEY STAFF WRITER

When it comes to burning wood in fireplaces or wood-burning stoves, there are certain things homeowners do that make firefighters cringe.

Take, for example, the handyman who spends the summer building a deck in his back yard. After the final nail is hammered in, the homeowner looks at the pile of scrap wood left over from the project and wonders what to do with it.

Aha, he thinks. I'll burn it this winter in the fireplace.

"Burning it once, it's probably not a problem," said Joel Williamson, senior fire inspector for the Livonia Fire Department. "But burning it over the whole winter? No. Wood that goes through a sawmill is a treated product. When it burns, it gives off impurities, especially wolmanized wood.

Sparks shoot across the room."

With nighttime temperatures now dipping into the 20s, more and more homeowners are stoking up their fireplaces to start comfy fires.

Wolmanized wood snaps, crackles and pops.

Burn safely

Most suburban homeowners don't use their fireplace or wood burner for heat; they use it to create a warm, cozy atmosphere. Safety precautions our forefathers practiced faithfully often get lost today as wood burning becomes more of a sporadic event and less of a daily necessity. Our forefathers knew that the extra time and safety precautions involved to burn wood were all just part of the home heating process.

Today, said Livonia fire Inspector Randy Tromblay, some homeowners are so removed from the burning process that they even put ashes in paper bags. "Livonia gets about 10 garage fires a year from people who put ashes in a sack. Ashes should be put in a metal container, not a paper

Just as dangerous are fireplace fires started with lighter fluid or, even worse, gasoline. This happens when impatient homeowners don't take the time to work with matches and kindling.

One homeowner actually doused fireplace wood with gasoline and created a fiery WHOOSH that spread throughout her house, said Livonia fire Marshal Rockney Whitehead. The woman who started the fire suffered only minor burns because she was exhaling when the flash fire happened. If she had been inhaling at that moment, he said, her lungs would have burned.

Firefighters say the number of fireplace fires skyrocketed after wood burners zoomed in popularity during the energy crunch of the 1970s.

The number of those fires have since diminished, but the popularity of fireplaces and wood burners hasn't, said Steve Mackey, inspector for the Livonia Building Department.

"It's a booming business; every new house has some sort of wood burner," Mackey said. "They're more sporadic in existing homes."

The best advice Mackey can give is to follow each and every instruction given by the manufacturer of the wood burning equipment. "Codes don't cover all this information."

One of the first rules of installation is to never vent more than one heating appliance into one flue. Wood stoves must have their own separate flue in a chimney. A chimney designed for a furnace is not designed to handle the hotter heat from a wood burner. Only the hot water heater and the furnace should be connected to the chimney.

Tromblay bought a home that had a wood burning stove improperly hooked in this way to the chimney. He disconnected the equipment and threw it out. But the previous owner had used the burner for years, and no fire had occurred. Why?

"The ideal situation for a fire had not occurred," Tromblay said.

One "ideal situation" is a build-up of creosote, a sticky, tar-like substance that accumulates in chimneys because of incomplete combustion. The buildup restricts air circulation.

Chimney sweeps

Chimney sweeps remove this creosote when they clean a homeowner's chimney once a year. But if it accumulates and is not removed, creosote can become dangerous. One spark can set a creosote-filled chimney on fire.

To reduce the amount of creosote, burn such well-seasoned hardwoods as maple, beech and bickery

But creosote still builds when burning these woods, Williamson said. "Pay attention to what your chimney cleaner tells you. If there's a lot of creosote, you might need him twice a year."

Our forefathers, who didn't have chimney sweeps to call in, often created a very hot fire once or twice during the winter burning season to get rid of the creosote, Whitehead said.

Homeowners can do something similar by stoking up the fire once a day to make it burn hotter for a short period. This warms the chimney and helps reduce creosote buildup.

With the holidays coming up, homeowners might be tempted to throw their old evergreens into the fireplace. Don't. Evergreens from pine trees both throw off sparks and build up the creosote even never be burned in fireplaces, Tromblay said.

Some wood, such as old railroad ties and telephone poles, are soaked in creosote and should never be burned in fireplaces, Tromblay said.

Creosote also builds up if wood stoves are run too low, he said.

After a permit to install a wood burner is issued, city inspectors will inspect the installation and give additional advice, Whitehead said.

Other rules for safe operation include:

- Equip the house with fire detectors.
 Install a fire extinguisher near the fireplace.
- Put a screen on the fireplace.
- Avoid roaring fires.
- Keep the damper open while fuel is burning to prevent accumulation of poisonous or explosive gases.
- Remove colored comic sections before rolling newspapers into logs. Colored inks contain lead.
- Burn only one artificial log at a time. Burning two creates too much heat.

Buyers can get burned on firewood

If someone tries to sell you a truckload of firewood, you may be getting ripped off, said Dan Wyant, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

With the wood-burning season upon us, the MDA has issued the following alert: Consumers beware. Don't get burned when buying firewood.

Besides the word truckload, unscrupulous wood sellers also use words such as face cord, rack and pile. None of these are legal terms in wood sales, Wyant said.

Firewood is sold by a measurement called a cord. A cord must equal 128 cubic feet. When the wood is stacked, if the width times the height times the length equals 128 cubic feet, it equals a cord.

"While a truckload of firewood may sound like a lot, it isn't legal and can't be enforced," Wyant said. "Consumers should seek out dealers who use the proper measurement, selling only cords or fractions of cords."

When the wood is delivered, ask the seller to stack it (the buyer may have to pay extra for this), or stack it yourself.

Stack the wood neatly by placing the wood in a line or a row, with individual pieces touching and parallel to each other, making sure the wood is compact and has as few gaps as possible.

Then measure the wood before using it. If it appears you did not receive the correct amount of wood, contact the seller.

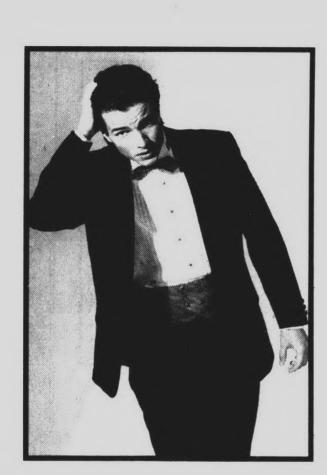

Michigan law requires that consumers be given a receipt for their purchase at the time of delivery that shows the seller's name and address, the purchaser's name and address, as well as the price, amount and kind of wood purchased. For added protection, buyers should also get the license plate number of the delivery vehicle.

If the measurement does not equal a cord and the seller won't correct the problem, buyers should contact the food division weights and measures program of the MDA. Wyant said inspectors follow up on all consumer complaints. Wood buyers in Southeast Michigan should call the MDA at (810) 356-1700 the most parking spaces.

And by the city taking control, property owners are kept from building on major lots. That means available parking downtown will be maintained.

The new ordinances also simplify the parking ordinance, easing parking credits, payments made by restaurants with no downtown on-site parking to the city, to allow them to operate.

Also by the ordinance, business owners will be able to expand on their sites up to two stories without parking spaces being an issue.

Negotiations are continuing between city officials and other major lot owners. "I think next year you'll see one or two blocks come on line in some fashion," Walters said.

The presentation also showed that officers spend 14 minutes of each hour on administrative tasks. "What can we do to squeeze that 14 down?" Trustee Charles Curmi asked.

Several trustees suggested reviewing whether the time and money spent by the department on Drug Abuse Resistance Education was worth it.

"There is a debate going on in the country about DARE," trustee Ron Griffith said. That's because the nationwide DARE program, where police

McCarthy said trustees could provide the police administration with more written questions. Another study session will be scheduled in coming weeks to discuss those questions

The supervisor said trustees will first determine if staff levels should be increased before deciding how to pay for more staff. One way could involve asking voters to raise the police millage.

Canton DDA

S'craft board votes to opt out of project

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

Schoolcraft trustee Carol Strom told Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack she appreciated the improvements and development going on in Canton. But she also believed it wasn't her responsibility as a college trustee to pay for road improvements.

"My biggest disagreement is that the money to educate students should not be put for roads, even if it's $5," Strom

With that, the Schoolcraft board of trustees voted 5-2 Wednesday not to participate in the Canton Downtown Development Authority.

The DDA is a form of tax increment financing, which allows local governments to "capture" increases in property value to finance infrastructure improvements. Strom was joined by board chairwoman Patricia Watson, vice-chairman John Walsh and trustees Mary Breen and Brian Broderick supporting a motion not to participate, while trustees Dick BeVries and Steve Ragan voted against that action.

A resolution exempting the college from the DDA also passed by a 5-2 vote with the same trustees taking the same yes and no positions.

DDA history

The Canton DDA was created in 1984 for an 80-acre area along a strip on Ford Road from Morton Taylor to Sheldon, The DDA would divert assessment growth to the municipality that normally goes to the community college.

"My biggest disagreement is that the money to educate students should not be put for roads, even if it's $5."

The Canton Township board greed on Oct. 10 to expand the DDA boundaries to include 773 acres, stretching from the city of Westland to west of Canton Cen-

Under state law, Schoolcraft's board can opt out of the DDA by a resolution.

Yack and Canton's finance director Tony Minghine compiled graphs reflecting Canton's growth and how Schoolcraft benefited from that growth.

Schoolcraft's property tax revenue from Canton grew from slightly less than $1.75 million in 1990 to $2.75 million in 1996. Schoolcraft levies 1.85 mills on its participating communities.

Minghine and Yack stated that the percentage of Schoolcraft revenue captured by the DDA was less than 1 percent in 1997 of its total and would rise to just 1.41 percent - or $48,911 out of $3.4 million in Schoolcraft revenue from Canton - in 2001. Those figures assumed an annual 5 percent increase in state equalized value.

Overall state equalized value in Canton grew from approximately $600 million in 1988 to more than $1.4 billion this year. Seventy-five percent of that figure was residential property.

Canton officials argued the percentage of district SEV (nearly 18 percent) outweighed the nearly 12 percent of enrollment for Canton residents. But they said DDA work would benefit everyone from students to commuters accessing I-275.

Canton had only two access points to I-275, while Livonia has eight, four on I-275 and four on I-96, Yack said.

"We survey our residents constantly, and if they have a complaint, it's with the roads," Minghine added.

DeVries asked if the township asked voters for approval of mills for road improvements.

Yack said the township rejected one in March 1995 by 48 votes. In light of that millage rejection and because Canton officials believe they are entitled to more state transportation funds distributed in Wayne County, the township has chosen not to initiate a special assessment district.

Yack said the DDA can fund construction of libraries and fire stations, but projects like that can go over a "long period of

That time frame and the diversion of funds didn't sit well with the board's majority.

"In a sense we're shifting the costs of this (DDA) to the stu-dents," Watson said. That money, if collected by Schoolcraft, could defer tuition hikes to students.

Minghine said any growth would benefit all the parties.

Ragan said Canton's revenue and growth aided the college. "In some respects, it is the goose that laid the golden egg," Ragan said. He believed Canton's growth would end if Ford Road's problems were not resolved.

Trustees split

When Canton's report ended and the board acted on it as an agenda item, Walsh said he believed the roads should be developed, but that the state and county should own up to those funding responsibilities. The trustees' job was to put the college and students first, he said.

The only way to make up a deficit, if one is to occur, is to raise tuition," Walsh said.

Ragan pointed out Schoolcraft was not giving up that much money to the DDA. Ragan and DeVries called the DDA an "investment."

DeVries said the $175,000 over the next five years that would be lost by Schoolcraft represented about $1 in tuition over that time for each student. "That's about 20 cents a student," he said.

"This college is in incredible kind of shape. I don't foresee us having trouble down the road."

But those arguments didn't sway the majority of the board's members. That was summed up at the end of the Canton presentation by a trustee.

"There's no question that Ford Road should be improved,' Strom said. "The question is where should that money come from.

Canton Economic Club tours new ice arena

BY CASEY HANS STAFF WRITER

The finishing touches are being put on Plymouth Township's newest community gem: the 165,000-square-foot Compuware Ice Arena, and employees there are happy to show it

They did just that last Wednesday to members of the Canton Economic Club who toured the facility and had a lunch catered by Ginopolis one of the two restaurants who will share responsibility for operating the on-site restaurant scheduled to open by mid-Febru-

The Parthenon Restaurant will also share in the food service operation, said Kerry Kerch, Detroit Whalers assistant general manager and director of marketing. The new, two-rink arena opened Sept. 10 and premiered the Detroit Whalers amateur hockey team in their first game

Originally budgeted to cost $17 million, the as-built costs range between $20-25 million, he said. The arena, on Beck north of M-14, took less than six months to construct.

A full-service pro shop is slated to open in about a month, which will include competitively priced hockey and skating items. "We want to be competitive so people can shop here," Kerch

An access road will soon be opened to allow the public to visit both the pro shop and the 225-seat restaurant even if they are not attending an event there.

Most intriguing to the Canton visitors was a trip to one of the arena's suites, which cost $10,000 to purchase. But the arena has maintained ownership of one suite, Kerch said, and offers a special party package which includes a hockey game with 14 suite tickets and pop and pizza for $300.

The two ice surfaces were built because of the need for ice surfaces throughout the metro area. "With the demand for ice time in this area, we built two to accommodate all the youth hockey and figure skating," Kerch said. The Olympic-size rink is 200 feet x 100 feet and the NHL-standard size is 200 feet x 85 feet. Fourteen miles of piping are used under the larger rink to keep it frozen.

Kerch said the state-of-the-art Plymouth facility is as different as "night and day" when compared with other facilities in the Ontario Hockey League. He added that is much nicer than many National Hockey League facilities.

The new facility is a drawing card for the Whalers officials, who say they must compete with local colleges for hockey players. The locker room, for example, has separate storage areas for players, a video room, a full medical facility with on-site physicians and a weight room.

"Our league used to get knocked that all we cared about was making hockey players that we didn't care about education," Kerch told the visitors. You used to hear horror stories about kids quitting school in the sixth grade to play hockey.

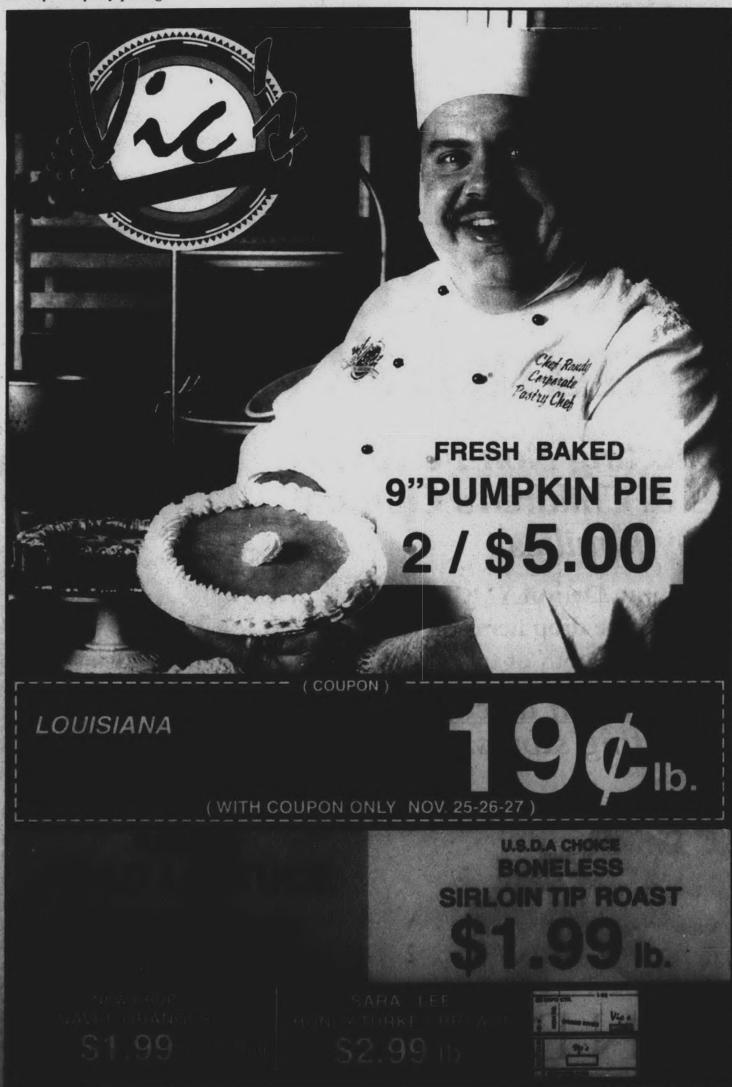

"That doesn't happen any-

In fact, the league pays the young players between the ages of 16-18 $40 a week and provides up to seven years of education.

The 17-team Ontario Hockey League is one of three Canadian leagues. The Plymouth Township-based team is the first U.S. team in the league; another recently started in Erie, Pa.

New ice arena eyed for Canton Township

BY VALERIE OLANDER STAFF WRITER

Not only does Canton Township have the need for its own ice arena, but such a facility would likely support itself in the first year of operation, according to a report submitted to elected officials.

There are approximately 500 to 750 kids who want to get involved with hockey but are waiting lists because of the large demand for ice time, said Wally Hill a member of the Plymouth Canton Hockey Association.

For the past three months a small committee of four people have been gathering information to determine how much it would cost to build and operate an ice arena. They will present their information to the township board at a Tuesday, Dec. 3 study

"The purpose of the group is to try to demonstrate to elected officials that one, a facility like that is needed in Canton and number two, it could sustain itself," Hill said.

The four committee members included Hill, Recreation Advisory Committee member Mike Gulkewicz, local businessman Ralph Shufeldt and Dick Duwel. The group is independent of the township's Recreation Task Force, although some of them served on it as well.

Duwel is the manager of the Canton office of Rudolph/Libbe Construction, a company known for building ice arenas. He is also involved with numerous community groups, including the Canton Community Foundation and the Plymouth-Canton Economic Club.

It is estimated that an arena in Canton would cost approximately $7 million for land acquisition and construction. It would include two rinks, possibly three.

"We believe it would turn a profit in its first year, if not, defi-nitely the second," said Shufeldt. "We looked at feasibility studies and budgets from other communities, it just came out plus, plus, plus.'

Hill said the committee used the new Farmington Hills arena as a model. In its first year of operation, the facility is in the black, he said.

Parks and Recreation Superintendent Mike Gouin said the two-page report from the committee was quite impressive. "They did their homework on nat other communities doing," he said.

If the township board likes what it sees, the next step would be for them to authorize spending between $12,000 to $25,000 on a feasibility study.

Township Supervisor Tom Yack said several years ago it wasn't financially sound for the township to invest in such a facility. However, the advent of new ice arenas and increased costs for ice rental, it's becoming more doable, he said.

"It's the same scenario with the golf course, the users pay the debt and the operation costs," he

If it is proven through a feasibility study that the ice arena is able to support itself and the township board is confident of those numbers, officials could obtain revenue bonds for it, said Yack. Otherwise any shortfalls would come from the general

The township would not ask voters for a higher millage rate to fund an ice arena, he said.

"If everything went off without a hitch, it could be up and run-ning by next September." Shufeldt said. "Realistically though . . . we're looking at mid

That was the estimate given by Butch Raby, vice president of business services of Schoolcraft College, to the college's board of Trustees approved Wednesday the purchase of three signs with message centers from ASI Sign Systems in Clarkston for $226,317.

Two signs will be displayed at the main campus, one on the north side of campus, the other on the south side. The third sign will be installed at the Radcliff Center in Garden City, just south of Ford Road, between Merriman and Wayne roads.

The current signs are 13 years old and "out of date in style and ability to display up-to-date messages in a cost-effective manner," according to the administrative request presented to the

The current signs take about 18 hours a month for the physical plant staff to change the messages and, in inclement weather conditions, "changes can be difficult."

Marquee sign technology now allows for messages that can be programmed from an employee's desk. The signs also will be back-lighted to improve night time readability, have Windowsbased software for creating and scheduling messages, and have a two-year full service warranty.

You can program it for a year in advance, or change it at any moment, Raby said.

Raby said he didn't anticipate the sign operation to disturb neighbors of the Radcliff Center. 'We certainly wouldn't operate it late in the evening hours. That sign cannot be installed on Ford Road unless the board acquired land from the state for property on the state-owned right-of-way, Raby said.

Board OKs contracts

Trustees unanimously approved two contracts Wednesday with office personnel and physical plant employees, which will pay those workers 2.5 percent annually over two years.

The agreements expire June 30, 1998. Workers will receive pay retroactive July 1, 1996.

The two unions were the 60member Schoolcraft College Association of Office Personnel and the 44-member Schoolcraft College Personnel Association (Physical Plant Employees).

No other changes were made to the new contract.

7 Mile Crossing

Raby reported there was "no real progress" in talks with Duke Realty Investments about Duke purchasing all or part of 16 acres of the 7 Mile Crossing property from Schoolcraft.

Duke owns two office buildings on 7 Mile Road just west of I-275, but leases the property on which the buildings sit from Schoolcraft. The firm plans to leave the Detroit area, Raby

The property is currently zoned for office, high rise and hotels. It has about 1,000 feet of frontage on Seven Mile and 400 to 500 feet along I-275. The site has no deed restrictions

Raby hoped to update the board again in January.

BEAUTY AND THE BEST

Holiday shine takes polishing

With the major holidays soon upon us, you will have a thousand details to take care of and presumable enjoyable times ahead. However, here are a few things that you may want to keep in mind and perhaps make these special occasions a little more memorable.

At this time of year, the camera is probably used more than any other to record people and events. Most often it will be at night-time and not under the best of lighting. Rather than looking back on those photos and thinking "What was I thinking?" make sure that you carry extra powder to fight "the shine."

Wear a little more blusher to help frame the face. Don't use too much lip gloss - unless you want your lips to be the biggest feature in the

If you are one of those women who do not wear any make-up at all (and you are probably not reading this column anyway), remember that the eyes always draw the most attention, and if you only put on one thing, use mascara. It will make the most difference, I promise!

You will be bringing out your finery - outfits that are seasonal and geared toward the Christmas and New Year's occasions. Just keep repeating the mantra, "Classic is classic for a very good reason." There is a lot of evidence why a simple black dress (or a Rolls Royce) have stood the test

Wear too many accessories and you will be confused with the Christmas tree. Make your hairstyle too elaborate and you may have a prolonged encounter with the mistletoe. Wear red mascara or mustard fingernail polish and you will be looking at the photos for a very long time or maybe you'll just cut them up.

Trends either in clothing or make-up belong with the young. Trends are natural for them, and a way for them to rebel or make their mark. I'm sure you remember pointy-toes shoes and pedal pushers

Your skin tone and your shape don't change that much from year to year that you have to rush out and get the latest black raspberry or puce anything! New is not for everyone. There is a happy medium between being current and being stuck in a time warp. Make your mirror your best advisor, not the fashion pages.

A lot of you will be traveling to a different climate for the season. The two main ones are the cold - for skiing or snow-bunnying, or to the warmer climates to catch some well-earned rays. Don't forget your skin-care lessons.

Plenty of moisturizer and sunblock is welladvised for both places. Don't forget to put sun-block on the back of your hands, an area that most forget. If somebody wants to guess your real age, a quick look at the hands is easier to read than the rings around your neck.

Eating is a great part of the holidays - why else spend the rest of the year depriving yourself? Most people have a sweet tooth, and to anticipate the onslaught of calories, you should throw in a couple of facials before the party circuit begins. This will give your skin a head start, open the pores, clean out the problem areas, and, hope, cut down on the surprises that may appear in the mirror afterward.

No matter how much you drink, no matter how much you have had a wonderful time, no matter whether you hang up your clothes or not, clease take time to clean your skin before going to bed. Your face and your sheets will thank you. (In December I'll be rehearsing for my starring role in Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite" at the Croswell Opera House in Adrian. In January, I'll be back on the salon circuit appearing in Rochester Hills and Romeo. Call to get the specifics 1-800-944-6588.)

M: To look your best in family photos, draw attention to your eyes with a coat of mascara on the lashes, use lipgloss sparingly.

Region 'comes of age' - says analyst

Is Detroit becoming a world class town? Will the Motor City one-day join the ranks of San Francisco, Paris, Hong Kong? It's heading in the right direction, according to one analyst who insists the evolving retail scene is leading the way.

BY MARILYN BARNETT

It's fascinating - despite the information revolution and commerce by electron - to consider the power held by a sense of place.

The left bank of Paris for artists and lovers and intellectuals. Bourbon Street and jazz. London's 10 Downing St. as a seat of power. In New York, we have Wall Street for finance and Fifth Avenue for fashion. Chicago has always had its lakefront Miracle Mile.

Now, Detroit and Michigan retail have Somerset. And the real amazement is how quickly the name Somerset has come to stand not just for a physical center in Troy, as grand as it is, but our region's retail coming of age in both consumer taste and standards of service.

The accolades, the Somerset Effect cocktail talk, are all on target. There's probably three or four master's theses already in the works! The retail ante has been raised and the competition has responded, from nearby malls and downtown areas to stand-alone stores

Never has the standard been higher for retailers and never have Michigan retailers achieved such a high level of excellence. Everyone is shaping up.

°Getting There

But actually this hasn't happened overnight. Retail's intrinsic reliance on customer service has gradually impacted other industries as our service economy has grown. Some have come willingly; others have been forced into action by competitors or declining sales.

In our hometown auto industry, it took the competitive inroads made by foreign car makers to make us more consumer and service-oriented. Today, auto companies are delivering new and unique products and unparalleled levels of service in their dealerships.

My own first-time Nordstrom experience at Somerset far exceeded my expectations. I was greeted at the door and accompanied through the store by a single, genuinely attentive salesperson. I made one visit and paid one bill. I didn't collect register receipts; I shopped.

What Nordstrom does so well is translate "knowing your customer" into "pleasing your customer." This is the Nordstrom lesson. Image may get them to the store. Merchandise and price will make the sale. Service and consistency keeps them coming

In all this, quick fixes or knee jerk reactions won't bring home the bacon. A corporate image must be more than neon flash; it must be understood, believed and practiced by each person in the organization, day after day.

Today's consumer is more informed and has more ways and outlets than ever by which to shop. They understand the competitive factors - from supermarket to designer fashions; they can pick out here in Michigan. Our business style my and way of life.

Retailers and other businesses must not rest on their laurels. They must consistently communicate their distinct business and marketing message to consumers, not just at traditional promotion times like the holidays. They must reward frequent customers. They must find ways to invite and hold on to new the genuine article from the and substance have grabbed national and international attention and respect. Now - while we hold center stage — is the time to get better and better. We can attract more "benchmark" national retailers like Nordstrom, Parisian or Neiman Marcus.

We can also further grow our own, making Michigan a net exporter of strong retail concepts, including Dunhams, Borders or Farmer Jack.

Knit shop grabs national acclaim

BY JUDITH DONER BERNE

It's not by coincidence that Birmingham knitwear designer Lisa Parks is the last of 38 profiles in the new book "Knitting in America."

"I wasn't originally in the book," says Parks, who owns Lisa Parks Knits from which she has designed and sold her one-of-a-kind handknit sweaters since 1982. "She (author Melanie Falick) didn't know me. But she stayed with a mutual friend who said, 'You've got to meet Lisa."

Falick, a knitter and writer, saw that including Parks would add dimension to the book. "Lisa's the only one in the book who has her own store on a large scale," Falick says. "I'd call her work 'urban chic' very fashion-forward compared to the other people in the book.'

"The sweaters these people do are different," Parks agrees. "They are absolutely wonderful artisans. This is an art book. These are the best people, period. I approach it from a completely different angle. I need to create sweaters and designs that are easy to make and produce. I make a very functional sweater - very reasonably priced though I realize that is debatable.

Both women were interviewed at an after-hours reception Nov. 14 where Falick autographed copies of the book for Parks' friends and customers. It's published by Artisan, a division of Workman Publishing, and is out in time for the holidays.

In "Knitting in America," Parks explains that she learned to knit because it was a way of getting attention from her mother as the middle child in a family of seven. Her story was verified on this evening by her sisters, Connie and Molly, who live only a few blocks away from their sister's downtown Birmingham shop.

"My mother taught it to her, but Mom never had the style," says Molly, who is wearing a Parks sweater and skirt she says are 15 years old. "My sister's stuff holds up."

Falick reports that Parks no longer does the bulk of her own knitting. She hands her designs over to a small platoon of knitters, reserving her own needles for finishing work and repairs. So her designs must be easy to follow, keep the knitters interested and appeal to a somewhat broad audience.

The book, divided by geographic areas, includes a three-page profile and photographs of Parks modeling her sweaters while fishing on the Clinton River near Ann Arbor. It also shows a close-up of one of her patterns, written from the bottom of the page to the top just the way she has her knitters make them.

Interestingly enough, another knitter with Birmingham roots is also featured - Yvonne Uhlianuk whom many may remember as Yvonne Gill. A trained chef, Gill ran several highly acclaimed restaurants including the former Tweeney's in Birmingham. She now raises sheep for yarn and designs knitwear in Romeo, Michigan.

The book also highlights the Waldorf School in Detroit where "children learn to knit before they learn to read."

"It seems like the right time for this book," says Falick. "Knitting is in the swing of the move back to basics," but those basics are about slowing life down and not about money. "Yarn is not cheap - so if you're knitting to save money, don't

It takes about 100 hours to knit a sweater, Falick says. But, "It's so beneficial to your mental health. Knitting is a chance for you to slow down your day, relax and let your mind wander. There's the rhythm of the needles in your hands."

Old fragrance new at Neiman's

When Cary Grant romanced Audrey Hepburn in "Charade," most likely they were both wearing Acqua di Parma, their favorite cologne. The classic Italian unisex scent, first introduced in the 1930's, was the rage among Europe's fashionable and wealthy set as well as Hollywood's glamorous taste makers.

Sixty years later, Acqua di Parma is still being produced in limited amounts and will be newly available at all Neiman Marcus stores, including Somerset Collection in Troy. It still comes packaged in the same distinctive Parma yellow cylinder. Sicilian citrus, essence of lavender, rosemary, verbena and a Bulgar rose combine to create a scent that compliments both men and women. It will be available in soaps, bath gels, cream, powder and cologne ranging from $35 to $90.

Hudson's aids United Way

Dayton Hudson's family of stores, Hudson's, Mervyn's and Target, has raised more than $730,000 to help support local United Way agencies.

The contribution includes donations both from the corporation and its local stores through pledges and special fund-raising events.

The contribution enhances Hudson's Circle of Giving, in which the company donates 5-percent of its federally taxable income to non-profit organizations in the communities in which its stores are located.

Outlet mall opens in Howell

Kensington Valley Factory Shops, a $25 million manufacturer's outlet mall, officially opened last week at I-96 and Highway M-59 in Livingston County.

A joint venture of Fru-Con Development Corp. and Howard & Rice, the 65 factory outlets planned for phase one are owned and operated by nationally recognized manufacturers.

Tenants include: Mikasa, The GAP, Adidas, Detroit Pistons, Kasper, Peter Nygard and Olga Warner.

The Country Victorian architectural center was designed to be in keeping with the rural spirit of Howell Township.

Covered walkways shield shoppers from inclement weather and link the shops. The Kensington Valley Food Pavilion, in its own building, is the focal point of the center.

Since Dad has Alzheimer's, I can't leave him alone for a minute.

Now, I can't get a minute alone.

You know the feeling if someone you love has Alzheimer's. Even the simple things become worrisome. Did Dad remember to lock the door? Did he turn off the stove?

People with Alzheimer's disease require a safe, secure and uncomplicated place to live. That's why Arden Courts has pioneered a new living alternative for them. It is an Assisted Living facility designed for people in the early to middle stages of Alzheimer's -- people who need assistance, but not full-time nursing care.

Arden Courts maximizes residents' safety while maintaining the comfort and accessibility of home. And since we have a limited number of residents at Arden Courts, we are able to give each one just the right amount of attention and care.

Arden Courts is now open in Sterling Heights, Michigan. Since space is limited, it's not too early to reserve a room now. To find out more about Arden Courts or to receive our free guide "At The Heart Of Alzheimer's" call us or send in the coupon.

Do it today. Because time is precious to us all.

Commission OKs PUD district for Northville site

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

The Wayne County Commission has not yet transferred a 926-acre site in Northville Township to the County's Economic Development Corporation.

But commissioners may act on that property at a commission meeting on Dec. 5 for the EDC to supervise a Planned Unit Development (PUD).

On Thursday, the commission took another step toward the transfer by approving a resolu-tion establishing the project district's area. The county commission's resolution also allows the appointment of two Northville Township representatives to the eight-member EDC.

The EDC will be responsible for the overall supervision of the PUD, but Northville has established conditions with its approval. Thursday's commission action came a week after the township's board of trustees approved the PUD.

A PUD is a zoning classificathat gives land owners/developers greater flexibility in terms of land use while providing the township a detailed role in the planning process. The land was zoned singlefamily residential.

Northville's resolution states the PUD must be consistent with the conceptual plan submitted by Wayne County, a PUD subcommittee report and a memo regarding sewage capacity. The proposal must be consistent with what the township board considers what is "mutually ben-can tell it's getting close to the holidays! From your calls it's becoming very evident that you're heating up those stoves, and looking for ways to make things a little healthier, and definitely easier during the holidays.

Readers in a rush for easier holidays

■ Marni Balog, a home economics teacher at Riley Middle School in Livonia, is teaching her class how to make homemade pretzels. Balog wanted a fat-free pretzel recipe.

Like bagels, pretzels should be parboiled before baking. Here's my recipe:

BREAD PRETZELS

- 1 cup water (105-115 degrees F.)
- 1 package active dry yeast (1 tablespoon)
- 2 3/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour (divided)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 4 cups water
- 5 teaspoons baking soda

In a mixer bowl, combine water and yeast. Beat in 1 1/2 cups flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and sugar. When combined, slowly mix in remaining 1 1/4 cups flour, 1/4 cup at a time and knead until dough loses its stickiness.

Allow to rise in a covered greased bowl until doubled in bulk. Punch down and divide into 12 pieces. Roll the 12 pieces into 18 inch lengths and loop into a twisted oval. Place on a greased baking sheet, cover and allow to rise until doubled, about 40 min-

Preheat oven to 475 degrees F. In a large nonaluminum pan, bring 4 cups of water to a boil. Stir in baking soda. With a slotted spoon, carefully lower the pretzels into the water for about 1 minute or until they float. Remove and return them to the greased baking sheet. Sprinkle with coarse salt and bake for about 12 minutes. Makes 12 pretzels.

■ Mrs. Roy of Troy called, and wanted to know if there was anything than can be done to recover a custard that was scorched or burnt. If I could, I would but unfortunately, you can't.

She also wanted to know the proper technique for freezing cookie dough. For optimum freezing, I recommend that the dough be placed in an airtight (burpable) container or placed in a freezer bag with all the air pushed out. The dough can be frozen whole or shaped into individual servings before freezing. If shaped, freeze dough on parchment paper lined baking pans individually and then combine when frozen in a container or

■ Joyce Creager of Novi called with a great idea for health conscious, busy, stressed holiday shoppers. We have both discovered the fat-free pizzas at Picasso Pizza, 24545 West 12 Mile Road, Southfield (810) 350-3131. If you're looking for a fat-free way to enjoy a great meal you won't be disappointed.

Mrs. Wilson of Canton called and wanted to know more about juniper berries. She has a recipe, and wanted to know where to get them. Juniper berries are best known for their flavor in gin and other spirits and cordials. The berries come from prickly evergreen shrubs. In France, the berries are crushed with salt and garlic and rubbed onto poultry. Combined with allspice, juniper berries can be used for spicing up beef. The are available via mail order or over the counter at Rafal Spice, 2521 Russell in Detroit's Eastern Market, (313) 259-6373. Here's an interesting recipe:

SPICED SCOTCH LIQUEUER

- 1 1/2 cups good Scotch whiskey 1/2 cup vodka
- 1/2 cup light corn syrup
- 1/4 cup honey
- 1/4 teaspoon fennel seed
- 1 tablespoon whole juniper berries 2 dime sized pieces lemon zest
- Warm liquor slightly. Add corn syrup and honey and stir to dissolve. Add fennel, juniper berries and lemon zest. Cover and allow to steep for 12 hours. Pour through a fine mesh strainer or cheese cloth and bottle. Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

FAMILIES FUEL HANUKKAH CELEBRATION WITH LESS OIL

BY SANDRA DALKA-PRYSBY & SPECIAL WRITER

An amazing thing happened. The oil burned for eight days and nights until more oil could be prepared.

To commemorate this special event, Jewish families prepare and serve foods cooked in oil, such as latkes (potato pancakes) and jelly doughnuts. But for some Jewish individuals, especially those who are watching their fat intake, this custom has been modified to adjust to their healthy lifestyles.

Sue Miller of Novi is one of these individuals. She, along with her husband, Jay, and two daughters, Rebecca, 10, and Elyse, seven, are active members of the growing Temple Bet Chaverim in

"We participate in all the festivities and activities of our temple, especially because my husband is vice president of the congregation, but I always try to bring foods that are lower in fat and more nutritious, including latkes," said Sue. She has created a recipe that calls for a little oil in the potato mixture ("following tradition"), but instead of frying these potato pancakes in oil, she bakes them.

According to Sue, her latkes may not be as crispy as the fried variety, but they are good and, more importantly, they are less fattening and healthier.

Cooking healthy is an every day part of this dental hygienist's life. She uses no-fat yogurts and fruit purees in recipes that call for heavy creams and oils, and she uses egg whites for whole eggs.

"My only goal is that whatever I make must taste good. If it doesn't, the family won't eat it and this defeats the purpose of cooking/baking nutritious foods,"

One thing that has no substitute during the Hanukkah celebration are the jelly-filled dough-nuts called "Sufganiyot." According to Sue, "there's no way to make low-fat doughnuts. So the secret to these is to just eat one!"

In addition to cooking food in oil, this particular Jewish holiday, often called "the Festival of Lights," is marked by the custom of lighting candles for eight nights in a menorah that holds nine candles (one is used for lighting the other candles).

The Paulisin household in Bloomfield Hills has lots of menorahs. Each of the three Paulisin children, Michael, 14, Joey, 11, and Kelly, 7, take joy in lighting their own menorah during this festive season, that begins this year at sundown Dec. 5. It ends at sundown, Dec. 12. They also take joy is receiving a small gift each night of Hanukkah ("although this year the children are receiving one large gift," said their mother Karen Blum-Paulisin). Like her friend Sue, Karen also marks the holiday, and every day, with nutritious low-fat and healthful foods.

"I like to cut the fat in my cooking," she said. "That's why I use fat-free Italian dressing when I make the beef brisket, and lowfat chicken broth for my mushroom barley soup for the family's Hanukkah celebration. Just because it's a holiday doesn't mean that you have to discard good eating habits. You can celebrate with healthy foods and still enjoy the occasion."

Rhoda Kutzen of Beverly Hills also believes that a healthy lifestyle can be part of the holidays. She and her husband, Robert, who are parents of two grown children, enjoy filling their home with guests during the holi-days, especially children.

"I'm a retired elementary school teacher, and I love being around children. Luckily, we have loads of nieces and nephews who have small children. So we're always around kids."

One of Rhoda's favorite activi-ties during the Hanukkah season is to make sugar cookies cut out in the shapes of menorahs and dreidels (four-cornered tops with Hebrew letters that children use to play a game of chance) and decorated with blue (to represent Israel) and yellow icing (to represent gelt - money or gold covered chocolate coins given as prizes for the dreidel game).

"I make the cookies with my niece, Eve Avadenka, and her three small children. We usually make the traditional recipe that calls for butter. However, we have made a lower fat variety (using light margarine, sugar substitute and egg whites) for those, like myself, who are concerned about fat content."

She also makes sure that there are some healthful choices on her Hanukkah table, such as fruit compote. She uses cans of fruit packed in light syrup, drains the fruit, rinses it in water, drains it again, and adds a sugar substi-

According to Rhoda, one way to eat healthy during the holidays is to make better selections and to keep portions reasonable.

"One sugar cookie is a much better choice than a jelly doughnut. And half a jelly doughnut is better than a whole one."

After a period musical extremely watchable.

In the first part of the movie, Streisand plays the ugly duckling. She is a bright, sensitive, highly popular professor of romantic literature at Columbia University. Never married, she lives with her acerbic mother (Lauren Bacall) and resists

All her life, she has considered herself unattractive. She has a beautiful sister (Mimi Rogers) who is about to marry her handsome third husband (Pierce Brosnan).

Enter Jeff Bridges, a klutzy, boring math professor, also at Columbia. He is maladroit with women and thinks sex is overrat-

Desperately seeking companionship, he takes the advice of his faculty buddy (George Segal) and places an ad specifying he would like to meet a Ph.D., over 35, "physical appearance not important."

Rogers sends her sister's specifications and photo to Bridges. He seeks out Streisand, and they meet and click _ intellectually. He proposes marriage, with the proviso that they enjoy companionship but eschew sex.

Her intellect allows her to accept such a basis for marriage. But eventually, her libido objects. That's the "boy loses girl" element of the plot.

It's hard to imagine anyone but Streisand with the chutzpah to pull off such an outrageous situation. But she does, beautifully. Streisand as actress remains fascinating to watch, especially when she makes her now-familiar transition from frump to beauty. As director, she stays in total control, granting her actors the same opportunity to shine. Bridges conveys the intellectual confusion of the earnest professor. At first, Bacall seems saddled with the cliche of the nagging Jewish mother. Later on, she has a scene of rare poignancy, showing what a fine actress she is. The credits leave no doubt whose film it is. The titles list Streisand's name four times, including composer of the love

This is the season to enjoy winter squash

Although refrigeration and improved transportation have blurred the traditional seasons of many types of produce, winter squash still reigns in the cold months of fall and winter.

Whether lumpy and bumpy, striped or plain, these delightfully shaped and colored vegetables are packed with valuable nutrients, including beta-carotene, vitamin C and dietary fiber. The most popular winter squash are acorn, butternut and Hubbard varieties. All three are hardshelled, mature squash, but acorn and butternut are smaller and are typically sold whole. Due to its large dimensions (12 to 15 pound average), Hubbard squash is often sold cut in pieces weighing only a few pounds.

When choosing squash, look for a hard, thick rind with no softness, cuts, punctures or sunken spots. One pound of unpeeled, uncooked squash equals about 2 cups of cooked pulp, or enough for 4 servings.

Store uncut squash in a cool, dry place for up to two months; cut squash can be refrigerated and should be used within four days. Smaller winter squash are often baked.

When the seeds are removed, the halves form natural cups for stuffing, as in this seasonal favorite: Bake squash halves for 30 minutes at 375 degrees F.

While they bake, saute 1 to 1-1/2 cups each of diced onion and minced celery in a bit of olive oil. Add 1/2 teaspoon marjoram, the juice of one orange plus 1 tablespoon orange rind, and 2 cups chopped raw cranberries and saute briefly.

Add 4 cups of cubed, cooked turkey (or chicken) and 1/4 cup maple syrup and remove the mixture from the heat. Stir in 1 cup bread crumbs and season to taste with salt and pepper. Divide the stuffing between the squash halves and bake for 1

Hubbard squash and banana squash (another large variety) are usually boiled or baked and then mashed or pureed; since they are closely related, they can be used in any recipe calling for pumpkin. Try them pureed in a winter squash soup or mashed and baked in a quick bread.

-Cubes of cooked winter squash make a great compote when Leamed with diced apples and dressed with a sauce of cider with curry powder and fresh gin-

Boost nutrition, flavor and variety in your favorite dishes by adding squash cubes to savory stews or grated squash to a stirfry dish.

Turkey trivia fun to share

Here are a few forgettable feathered facts about turkey compiled by faculty at the University of Detroit Mercy.

Rumor has it that when Christopher Columbus found the land he discovered, he thought it was connected to India where peacocks were in considerable number. he also believed turkeys were a type of peacock (they're really a kind of pheasant) so he named them "tuka," which is peacock in the Tamil language of India."

■ In the last 20 years, Ameria's love of turkey has soared with per capita consumption up from 8.3 pounds in 1975 to 18.5 pounds in 1995.

Forty-four percent of all turkey consumption comes from turkey sandwiches.

Turkeys can be frozen for a year before they lose their flavor. ■ The heaviest turkey ever raised was 75 pounds by a turkey farm in 1967.

■ America's national bird was almost the turkey. Benjamin Franklin lobbied for the turkey but the bald eagle was chosen instead. Franklin complained that "the turkey is a much more respectable bird and a true native of America."

Whalers toppled

Examine the two teams' respective records, and you'd think the games between them wouldn't be much.

Wrong. Every time the Detroit Whalers collide with the Sarnia Sting, it's a battle. The Whalers are in third place in the Ontario Hockey League's West Division; the Sting are in first.

Still, the Sting do come out ahead most of the time. They did again last Thursday at Compuware Arena in Plymouth, scoring twice in the second period and holding on to record a 2-1 tri-

The win boosted the Sting's record to 14-3-2 (30 points). Detroit slipped to 7-12-1 (15 points). Sarnia took the lead with goals by Trevor

Best-ever finish

Michigan State's men's soccer team enjoyed its best season ever, reaching the Big Ten finals before losing to Indiana 4-0 last Sunday (Nov.

Earlier in the tournament, MSU tied Wisconsin 1-1, then won the match in overtime on a goal by Steve Williford (Livonia Stevenson).

During the course of the season, the Spartans posted a 12-5-2 overall record to finish second in the Big Ten with a 3-2 mark.

Helping them attain that status was sophomore Jeff Fliss (from Plymouth Canton). Fliss scored two goals and had two assists for MSU (six points) while starting 14 of the 17 games.

Rockets ready for blast off

Last year, the University of Toledo women's basketball team compiled a 25-6 record, finishing second in the Mid-American Conference then winning the MAC Tournament to qualify for the NCAAs.

Three players have graduated, but the Rockets have apparently reloaded.

One of the players who will make an immediate impact is 5-foot-4 freshman point guard Adriane Bryant (Redford Bishop Borgess). In an 85-62 exhibition win over VSS Koice, Bryant -sharing the position with sophomore Kristen Tews -- dished out six assists.

Toledo opened its 1996-97 campaign last Saturday at home against Eastern Michigan.

Reversal of fortune

Canton takes control early in victory over N'ville

Two meetings, two losses. Did that give Northville -- the winner in those earlier games -- an advantage and leave Canton searching for confidence? Perhaps the Mustangs thought so. But by the way the Chiefs played when it counted most, the answer was guess again.

BY C.J. RISAK SPORTS EDITOR

School was in Friday evening, and Plymouth Canton was doing the teaching.

The subject: girls basketball history. Northville proved an able student, remember-ing all the data from previous lessons.

However, the Mustangs apparently assumed history would not be altered, that this Canton would be no different than the Canton they, handled so easily in two earlier meetings this History is something to be learned from, but don't expect it to be repeated.

That's what the Chiefs taught Northville in Friday's state district championship game, hosted by the Mustangs. The past is just that -- past. Learn from it and move on.

Canton did, which is why it schooled -- Northville with a 43-29 lesson.

Northville with a 43-29 lesson.

Extra study pays off. "We came up against those zones at the end of the year, against. Salem and Northville, and we were struggling," explained junior guard Melissa Marzolf, who turned in her second-straight strong offensive performance, leading Canton with 12 points.

"That week off (prior to the districts) really helped us. We worked all week on zone defension."

It showed in the Chiefs' 37-29 win over Plymouth Salem Wednesday, and it showed again against Northville. Shots from the perimeter that either weren't taken or wouldn't drop before were falling now.

The Chiefs did do one thing differently this

Ine Chiefs did do one thing differently this time around. They stepped up the pace.

Instead of the slow, take-your-time and find-your-shot strategy that worked well against Salem, Canton pushed it a bit.

Which was enough to keep Northville off-balance. And that helped the Chiefs establish the tempo they wanted.

Canton, now 17-5, never did trail. Kristi Fiorenzi scored the game's first four points, and the Mustangs never caught up.

It was 12-7 after one quarter and 25-18 at the break, with Marzolf getting eight points in the opening half.

Kristin Lukasik, who finished with 10 points for Canton, took command in the third quarter. The Chiefs had Northville under control -except for Lauren Metaj.

The 5-foot-7 junior guard accounted for 13 of her team's 18 first-half points, connecting on a pair of three-pointers. She scored five more in the third quarter, including a three-pointer that narrowed the gap to seven with 1:16 left in the

"We were pretty patient (offensively)," said Canton coach Bob Blohm. "We got some great scoring opportunities. But to be honest with you, we had some great scoring opportunities before when we played them, we just didn't

They did this time. The Chiefs' shooting was solid: 17-of-36 (47.2 percent) from the floor, 7-of-8 (87.5 percent) from the free-throw line.

Northville, which finished the season 17-6, was just 3-of-18 (16.7 percent) from the field in the second half and was 10-of-34 (29.4 percent) for the game.

After Metaj's 18 points, next highest scorer for Northville was Christine Herndon with

"They shot the ball well tonight," Northville coach Pete Wright said of Canton. "Once you're down to a team like that, a team that takes so long on offense, it takes a lot of time to get tt

Both of the Chiefs' district wins, against teams that had beaten them, were impressive displays of focused teamwork, something they could not win without.

How's it go again? Fool me once, it's to your credit.

Fool me twice, it's my fault. Madonna University refuses to make the same mistake twice.

In pool play in the NAIA Great Lakes Regional Volleyball Tournament at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, Madonna faced Aquinas College -- and experienced something quite unfamiliar.

It'd been nearly a month since the Lady Crusaders' previous defeat. Aquinas was the only team among the top six seeds in the tournament they had not seen during the regular

"When we lost to Aquinas, I thought, 'Oh, no -- what's going to happen?' " said Madonna's Kelly McCausland, a Redford Union grad. "Then I thought, this was meant to be. When they beat us, they just out-

It would not happen again. The Crusaders now had a rough road to follow, but it was not impenetrable.

With their four seniors providing the guidance, Madonna found its way through -- fittingly beating Aquinas in the final 15-11, 15-9, 15-6 Saturday.

The win raised the Crusaders' record to 50-4, establishing a new school record for wins in a season. But more importantly, it gave 11thranked Madonna a berth in the NAIA Tournament Dec. 5-7 in San Diego, the third time in four years the Crusaders will make that trip.

"I think our senior leadership was the key," said Madonna coach Jerry Abraham, who was named regional coach of the year. "We struggled -- it wasn't easy. They were all tough matches, back-to-back-to-back." But the Crusaders survived, mainly by not allowing themselves to at themselves

Which could have happened. They lost on Thursday to Aquinas, 15-10, 6-15, 13-15, 17-15, 16-14. That meant no automatic berth in the regional semifinals for Madonna --the Crusaders would have to beat Bethel College in the quarterfinals

They did -- by a 15-6, 12-15, 15-4, 11-15, 15-10 margin Friday.

Then came a semifinal match vs. Grace College, another of the top five seeds, on Saturday. When the Lancers staged a marvelous comeback in the second game, rallying from 12-5 down to beat Madonna 16-14, tying the match at one game apiece, a turning point was at hand. The Crusaders grabbed it and claimed it for their own.

They did not lose another game after that, beating Grace 15-7, 15-10 (they won the first game of the match 15-12) before the three-game sweep of Aquinas.

"I don't know what it is," said Abraham of the determined comeback. "It's just something they do themselves. They knew it would be a dogfight, and it was."

Once past Grace, Abraham knew what to do with Aquinas. Changes were made, and they worked per-making his fourth state semifinal appearance. "Our defense played as hard and played well for as long as we could, but offensively we just couldn't get anything going.

Rockets' junior quarterback Justin Berent, who had been completing over 60 percent of his passes this season, found himself stuck in cement. He didn't complete a pass until late in the third quarter, and his first completion was actually a 5-yard forward lateral to Antonio Gibson.

Berent was 5-of-13 for 62 yards with two interceptions.

Stevenson got it going early, stopping Glenn on its first possession, three plays and out.

And the Titans wasted little time in scoring as All-State receiver Tim Steele took a pass over the middle and raced down the sideline 47 yards for a touch-

But after that, despite being inside the Glenn 50 on four separate occasions, Stevenson could not take advantage.

Quarterback Pat Collins was picked off four times -- one each by Sean Heard and David Jarrett in the first quarter, and twice in the second period by sophomore Nick Hudson.

Stevenson tailback Andy Frank, who finished the afternoon with 196 yards in 19 carries, then exploded on the ensuing drive. The Titans drove 86 yards in just five plays, capped by Frank's 8-yard TD run for a 14-0 lead with 8:05 remaining.

Glenn answered with its only points of the day. Berent hit Paul Merandi on a 10-yard out, and the Glenn senior receiver pitched the ball to Jarrett, who promptly raced 62 yards down the sideline for the score, cutting the deficit to 14-7 (after Paling's PAT) with 7:42 to go.

On the ensuing kickoff, Glenn had Stevenson pinned on their own 16, but the Titans, thanks to a clutch 10-yard hookup from Collins to Steele, followed by a Frank 63-yard run, got out of the hole quickly. Gibala's 22-yard field to give Stevenson a 10-point cushion with 4:12 to play.

"This is one of the guttiest groups I've ever been associated with," Gordon said. "I enjoyed this team not only for their great record, but they're also great people.

Tough Ladywood team claims a district crown

BY NEAL ZIPSER STAFF WRITER

Going winless in league play has its advantages -- if you play in the Catholic League.

That's what Livonia Ladywood discovered Friday as it beat Redford Union 41-31 to claim the Class A district title at South-

The Blazers (5-15) struggled this season winning only three games and finishing in the basement of the Catholic League's Central Division without a victory. But Ladywood won its first district title in four years by playing the same type of basketball it was forced to play in league action.

More evidence on the toughness of the Central Division came from the Bloomfield Hills Lahser district where Farmington Hills Mercy won the title beating Farmington Hills Harrison in the final. The Marlins finished just ahead of Ladywood in the standings.

"Playing in our conference prepared us for these past two games," Ladywood coach Andrea McAllister-Gorski said. "We didn't win a game all year in the league and got beat up. Our conference is tough and we've learned to play very aggressive defense.

The Blazers will have their work cut out for them when they open region play tonight at Ladywood against state-ranked Detroit King (16-2). Tipoff is at

Instead of thinking about the tough task ahead, the first-year coach wanted to soak up the district win.

We knew coming in that the conference would be tough so the goal was to improve and believe in your self and my job was to keep the team's spirits up," McAllister-Gorski said.

"We were confident coming into the district," said senior forward Mary Dankert. "We knew our league was tough, and knew we could win the district if we played together.'

The tone of Friday's game was set early as the Ladywood defense held the Panthers scoreless for the first 6:48, as RU committed 10 turnovers in its first 13 possessions.

"I didn't think we would have that much trouble scoring but you have to give Ladywood's defense credit," RU coach Marty Lowney said. "I thought we came out a little nervous and we played tight.

Ladywood also had trouble scoring, hitting only two baskets in the first seven minutes. Sophomore guard Kristen Switalski came off the bench to spark the Panthers with a pair of steals and layups, but the

Blazers led 8-4 after the first

RU closed to within three two minutes into the second quarter after a three-point play by Shannan Bjerke. But a key threepointer by Sheryl Wrobleski made it 15-9 and the Panthers never got any closer.

The Blazers led 24-16 at halftime after a triple by Erin Hayden and extended their lead to 33-22 entering the fourth quar-

Play became very physical in the fourth quarter as Ladywood began to assert itself on the offensive glass. The play that put RU away was when the Blazers had six offensive rebounds on one possession before Dankert was fouled and hit two free throws.

Dankert led the balanced Ladywood attack with eight points and 10 rebounds (eight offensive). Junior Sara Poglits came off to bench to add eight Switalski paced RU with 11 points. Bjerke and Jenny Szaal chipped in with 10 and eight points, respectively. The Panthers failed to take advantage of Ladywood foul trouble in both halves. RU converted 15 of 26 free throws but were in the bonus virtually all of the second and fourth quarters.

"We knew we'd have a hard time with fouls because we're used to playing physical, but you can't tell them to back off after you've been telling them all season to be aggressive," McAllister-Gorski said.

Neither team shot well, as Ladywood made only 16 of 55 shots (29 percent), while the Panthers made eight of 43 shots (19 percent). The Blazers also held a 42-28 advantage on the boards.

"We've been told all season to box out because there are some tall players in the Catholic League," Dankert said. "League play has taught us to play hard and be aggressive, especially around the basket."

The Panthers finished 8-14 and will lose four starters to Annual Championship Banquet and Hall of Fame Awards took place last Saturday at Hawthorne Val-Country Club.

It was a busy weekend for the Budweiser Michigan Majors Bowling Association. They also held their championship event the following day at Cherry Hill Lanes. The Hall of Fame inductees were Doug Evans and Dan Ottman.

Ottman, who lives in Troy now, grew up not far from Hawthorne Valley and reminisced the early days in his bowling career when he would go to Livonia Lanes to compete.

In addition to his stellar accomplishments in the lanes, Dan is well known for his dedication to the sport. He is the founder and executive director of the Michigan Junior Masters, regional director of the PBA and first vice president of the MMBA, which he has served on the board of directors for 15

He does a lot of other things to promote bowling, but this honor is based on bowling and performance. Ottman has earned it by averaging 211 for 800 MMBA fames, winning two titles and making the finals 19 times while cashing in 53 tournaments.

Twelve-year-old Jason Hedger of Redford beat his dad at bowling, and dad isn't going to forget easily. The youngster rolled a 213 game in the Saturday Youth League at Country Lanes.

It's really friendly competition, but a big thrill for Jason, who started out with bumper bowling at age three and takes his bowling as seriously as he does his Little League baseball. He helped his Mariners team win the championship this year.

SVSU thumps Madonna

University's women's basketball team took a step up in competition Thursday when they played host to NCAA Division II Saginaw Valley

Only problem - the Lady Crusaders didn't really make the

For a half they managed to keep it respectable. The visiting Cardinals led 44-36 at the intermission, converting 18-of-34 shots from the floor (52.9 percent). Madonna made 15-of-39 first-half shots (38.5 percent).

But SVSU eventually wore out the Crusaders, rolling to a 79-60

Not much went well for the Crusaders in the first half, and it just got worse in the second.

From the field, their shooting deteriorated (10-of-37, 27 percent). For the game, SVSU hit 29-of-73 (39.7 percent) to Madon-na's 25-of-76 (32.9 percent). The Cardinals also had a 59-50 advantage in rebounding.

Katie Cushman collected 25 points, seven rebounds, five assists and two steals to lead Madonna. Michelle Parmentier finished with 21 points, seven boards and three steals. No one else scored more than six points. SVSU got 22 points from Angie Peterson, 11 points apiece from Jenny Rommel and Becky Schramski, and 10 points and 20 rebounds from Becky Jore.

236/635: Lou Ivancik, 235/662.

Hyundai's sporty Tiburon coupe minds its manners

By Anne Fracassa Avanti NewsFeatures

SAN FRANCISCO — There's actually a city that carries the same name as the 1997 Hyundai Tiburon. It's even spelled the same way.

Located on the fringes of this majestic community, Tiburon is a small suburb that's neat, cozy, well-mannered and modern. Just like the car that replaces the Scoupe coupe.

The $15,000ish Tiburon is the newest member of Hyundai's young family. The carmaker has only been doing business here a little more than a decade and has gone from being a single product company to an automaker that offers a full line of quality- and technologically driven cars.

Anybody remember Hyundai's neat HCD-II concept vehicle, first shown at the 1993 North American International Auto Show in Detroit? Well, that car and the Tiburon are strikingly similar with their innovative and aggressive styling. In fact, Hyundai officials crow that many of the HCD-II's key design elements things consumers really liked about the concept car were used in the Tiburon.

ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

So what you've got here is a new and dynamic sporty compact coupe. There are two trim levels to choose from, Tiburon and Tiburon FX.

The base model has a 1.8-liter DOHC in-line 4-cylinder engine, while the Tiburon FX has a 2.0-liter 140-horsepower powerplant. Both engines are designed by Hyundai and are part of the Beta engine family. The 1.8-liter engine is the same one that was introduced on last year's Elantra.

COUNTY PONTIAL DEALERS

Although the Tiburon sits low to the ground, it really isn't that hard to get into and out of. It's got a wide, aggressive stance, lending a mysterious air about it. There isn't a grille in the front, which make the elliptical-shaped headlamps even more noticeable.

The front hood sweeps downward, disappearing from view when you're inside. The front air dam, complete with integrated fog lamps (on the FX models), is barely noticeable, yet functions well to allow enough air in to cool the engine efficiently.

The Tiburon is rounded all around, yet it's got distinctive lines in front and rear and even on the sides to give it a real sporty look. The rear deck shows off an understated spoiler that contains the center brake light. A rear washer/wiper is standard on the FX model.

Whether traveling on the busy freeways around San Francisco or the quiet back roads around Simi Valley, the namic. What that gives the car owner is wonderful fuel efficiency (22 mpg city, 29 mpg highway) and a very little wind noise. Now for the inside. Slip

Tiburon proved to be unusually quiet. This car's got a coefficient of drag of 0.33 - very aerody-behind the wheel, close the door and the entire interior - at least what matters most to the driver - envelops around you. Yet, there's no feeling of claustrophobia. Every control ... every switch ... is pointed toward the driver.

This is just a little thing, but sometimes it's the little things in a car that impress me most. The ignition switch is pointed toward the rear and facing the driver. That means I didn't have to poke my head around the steering wheel to find the ignition. A little thing, but help-

Instrumentation is simple and includes the tachometer, speedometer, odometer and trip odo, temperature gauge and the fuel gauge. That's it, just three oval circles. No confusion.

The center console features a digital clock and climate controls on the top - with big buttons and large symbols. The sound system is right under that with much smaller buttons and knobs.

Standard is an AM/FM stereo cassette. The FX models have an optional premium AM/FM stereo cassette and compact disc player with six speakers.

The shift is floor-mounted and between the driver and passenger is a center armrest with storage box. Remote mirror and window controls are left of the driver, mounted on the

There's also enough head, leg and shoulder room for anyone under 6 feet tall. Even with my long legs, I was comfortable in the Tiburon. And speaking of comfort, the seats have a nice amount of support. I didn't fatigue during a 4-hour drive. Full cloth seat trim is standard.

On the FX models you get a coordinated seat fabric inset or you can opt for leather seats. With that option, you'll also get a leather steering wheel and gear shift knob.

Power windows are standard. With the FX, power door locks and mirrors are added.

The Tiburon provides a fine level of ride, and the handling is responsive. It's outfitted with MacPherson front struts and a dual link rear setup. Nitrogen gas-filled shock absorbers are located inside both front and rear coil springs, providing a nice ride even on the roughest of roads. Power-assisted rackand-pinion steering is standard on all models.

Buyers have two transmission choices: A 5-speed manual or a 4-speed automatic. The 5speed has a pull-type clutch that requires little pedal effort. I drove both and liked the 5speed best because there's better response and control.

Safety features on the Tiburon include front and rear crumple zones, front and rear 5 mph energy-absorbing bumpers, high-strength steel side impact beams, dual air bags and four-channel anti-lock brakes.

With its bold design, spirited. performance and multi-functional interior, the Tiburon could be the ticket to ride for smart sporty coupe buyers.

It's True!

85% of all Americans retire flat broke, dependent on others, or doormed to work until their dying day, yet, most people think it won't happen to them! Financial freedom takes time... and the right vehicle - but it doesn't have to take a lot of risk. You won't find many choices - but you only need one. Internet Dimensions offers the perfect solution. The product is right 1- The plan is right! it right for you? Come see for yourself.... then decide. No pressure it right for you? Come see for yourself... then decide. No pressure - No hype! (810) 377-4300. The most costly thing you'll ever own is a closed mind...

Writing a classified ad that gets results-whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise-is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or Job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as col-or, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embel-lish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

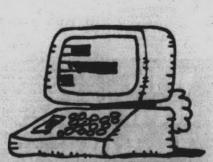

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in-kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

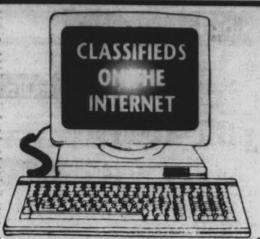

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

• Classes are for adults only-ages 16 and up You can wear your regular workout clothes and shoes

• There are no belts or uniforms involved

No physical contact

No experience required-everyone works at their own pace

You'll learn important self-defense techniques

And it's the most fun way to get in shape ever!

Call us today and you'll see why Cardio-Karate is the nation's new fitness sensation. Mention this ad for a free no-obligation introductory workout
