New library will offer precious space

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

When the new Dunning-Hough Library opens in spring 1998, it will offer something that was been in demand and at a premium in the former library – space. "We'll have programming space, especially for kids. And a meeting room, which we hope to rent," Director Pat Thomas said. "We offer an immeasurable amount of information, more so than we did 20. years ago. But it doesn't come with-

To finance the new library, voters will pay .44-mill debt levy, which went into effect with the December 1996 tax bills.

The debt levy is in addition to the current library tax levy of 1.49 mills to support the current $2.1 million

"We have a maximum 2 mills for "We have a maximum 2 mills for operating," Thomas said. "But we've never asked for the 2 mills." magazines, for example. In 1996, the library had 104,827 books, 2,624 audio tapes, 2,248 tapes, 132 CD-ROMs, 4,4171 videos and 990 newspapers, subscriptions and microfilms. Circulation continues to increase and reached 461,600 in 1996.

"It's really so neat. It's neat to have other professionals look at information in a more global way," Thomas said. "It's neat to see much information and how it's delivered."

Motoring Mature drivers return to the classroom for a refresher

BY RENEE SEOGLUND PECIAL WRITE

When the instructor told the 13 seniors gathered at Plymouth's VFW Post 6695 one sunny morning last week that "55 Alive" was a class for mature drivers, not "old" drivers, there was a murmur of assent.

It's not the gray hair that sometimes gives senior drivers a bad name, said Frankie Gadson-White of Detroit, an instructor for the American Association of Retired Persons' "55 Alive" program. "It's the little old lady who's starting to shrink and is peeking through the steering wheel. While she's peeking, she's missing things."

"55 Alive" is an eight-hour, classroombased defensive driving program offered by AARP to anyone 50 or older. In two half-day sessions, students take tests and learn about traffic laws, new vehicle technology and the defensive driving techniques necessary to combat slowing reflexes.

All classroom materials are provided by AARP. The program costs $8 and can be held in a variety of community meeting sites. Drivers do not have to be members of AARP to attend the class.

Although the reason for last week's "55 Alive" class, sponsored by the Ply-mouth VFW's Ladies Auxiliary, was serious, responses to Gadson-White's questions were sometimes humorous. "What would you do when you come to a green light, traffic to your right should be stopping, but John Doe rolls right through?" asked Gadson-White.

You stop him and punch him out," said Floyd Riley, 64, of Canton, a big, robust man wearing a "Grandpa gives the best hugs" sweatshirt.

"Cemeteries are full of people who had the right-of-way," countered a neatly dressed man to Riley's right.

"You should look both ways. You do not have the right-of-way until all traffic stops," corrected Gadson-White.

Ann Riley, 67, of Canton is married to "punch-him-out Floyd. "I call him a curmudgeon," she said. "Honestly, I hate driving with him."

Riley said she was getting a lot out of the class. "I've learned things. We did a test at the beginning and there were several things I got wrong. I think you should improve on your driving skills all the time. This class will help me."

Eleanor Chelian, 65, of Plymouth Township, was surprised she had some wrong answers on the driving test Gadson-White handed out. "I haven't driven for a few years. I wanted to refresh my memory before I take my test," she said.

Plymouth Township residents Dona Venne, 70, and Elizabeth McCrossin, 79, are neighbors. Venne said she heard about the "55 Alive" program for years. "I finally caught up with it," she said.

"I felt it was a good chance to get up-to-date," said McGrossin. "I tell her (the reporter) about the way you speed in your driveway," said Venne.

"Get a life," said McGrossin. "Don't watch me. It's the only place I can speed. I never had a ticket."

Doris Seisser, 75, of Livonia, was honest about her reason for taking the class. "I'm realizing my age is catching up with me, she said. She counts herself lucky. "I've only had one accident in my lifetime. I guess I'm a mediocre driver.'

Barbara Turnbull, 66, of Redford Township, was taking the class with husband, Herbert, 69, a former commander of VFW Post 6695. Turnbull doesn't like to drive behind older drivers. "Not if I can get around them. They're unpredictable," she said.

The Turnbulls are heading out to Salt Lake City, Utah, this summer for the national VFW convention. "Our driving days aren't over," Barbara said.

No one in the class was looking forward to hanging up their hubcaps for good. In fact, Margaret Smith, 68, of Plymouth Township, was considering taking driving lessons for the first time in her life.

"I've never driven a car. I'm considering getting a license. I'd just like to know how to drive and be independent," the country. He said surveys conducted in Florida and California show a 16-per-Age brings wisdom, and class memcent reduction in traffic violations and bers have learned how to deal with rude drivers with quick-draw fingers. McCrossin/recalled an incident when accidents for drivers who have taken the class.

"I've had people in my classes who were over 80. I wouldn't hesitate to get in an automobile with those people," he said.

Legislation in 34 states and the District of Columbia require automobile insurance companies operating in those states to offer a premium discount to graduates of state-approved driverimprovement courses

Stockman also said some auto insurance companies, like Foremost and Hartford, offer discounts averaging 10 percent to policyholders who have taken "55 Alive." The class must be repeated; every three years to continue the discount.

(P)A3

"It's a good course. Some of the things refreshed my memory," said Floyd. Riley, who hasn't punched out another: driver recently. "It's a course everybody" should take."

AARP offers safe driving tips

According to American Association of Retired Persons research, typical traffic violations committed by senior drivers include failure to yield rightof-way, improper turning, incorrect lane changing, passing and entering and leaving expressways.

The following are just a few of the safety tips discussed in the "55 Alive-Mature Driving" course:

Irrigation system to be improved

A proposal to spend nearly for the work ranged from $26,000 to improve irrigation at Hilltop Golf Course was approved by Plymouth Township trustees on Tuesday.

approved Trustees $25,749.20 bid from Wissco Irrigation of South Bend, Ind. The firm was the low bidder among six firms that offered bids.

Township engineering consultant firm Dietrich, Bailey and Associates recommended that the board choose Wissco, based on its low bid and on comments from references.

$35,635 to $64,000. Trustee K.C. Mueller asked township engineering consultant Michael Bailey why submitted bids differed

"I'm amazed sometimes myself," he said, and offered that Wissco Irrigation has worked before with American Golf Corp., which operates the golf course for the township.

Money to pay for the project has already been set aside in a capital improvement fund.

The project includes installing Other bids opened March 20 an automatic Touch Net watering system.

The upgraded system, Bailey said, "Covers most of greens and tees but not the fairway areas. It's the first of a multi-phase improvement to the irrigation system."

The irrigation system now used at the golf course is mainly operated manually. The new system will upgrade that portion, and a portion that is now automátic but outdated.

Work is to be performed sometime this summer.

The Library.

That phrase used to conjure up an image of a brick building, somewhat dark and musty inside, with ceiling-high stacks of books and a spinsterish librar-ian sitting at a high desk telling patrons to "Shhh!"

The focal point, almost always, was the card catalog - rows of cabinets containing dozens of small drawers filled with dogeared cards with strange numbers and codes on them.

No more. Walk into a typical library today and the first thing you are likely to encounter are banks of small computers.

"Where's the card catalog?" you may ask. Well, there it is. Inside those computers. Along with a whole lot more.

Changing times

Not everyone likes the computer revolution that has replaced library card catalogs and shelves of "Reader's Guides" with online databases. But learn to live with it. Libraries aren't what they used to be.

Like it or not, it's a whole lot faster to select "Search by author," type in a name, hit "Return" and let the computer do its stuff than to thumb through dozens of cards in a bot-tom drawer of one of those wood cabinets while two other patrons search the drawers right over your head. And just try to do a keyword" search without help from a computer. If you've ever spent hours poring over back issues of the "Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature" looking for articles on peanut farming in the Sudan, you'll appreciate the speed and convenience of an electronic search of "Magazine Index Plus."

Research centers

Yet the electronic card catalog is probably the least revolutionary aspect of the computerization of modern libraries. Computers, the Internet and services like Metro Net or The Library Network have turned community "circulating libraries" into full-fledged research institutions

That doesn't mean everything is simple and easy to use. For one thing different libraries use different software programs for their catalogs. There's the Portal system, Dynix, Innovative Inter-

And getting into the card cata-log doesn't necessarily get you anywhere else. Most local libraries have separate Internet terminals which you may have to reserve in advance. And then you only get a limited amount of time on them.

Access from home

Some libraries, particularly those with stand-alone systems like Canton, allow patrons with home computers to access the library system from home. In addition to searching the catalog, you can review your patron record, see what books you have checked out, which are overdue and even renew books from home. You can place books on hold or request new items that you'd like the library to purchase

If your library doesn't have direct dial-in access, or if you would just like to get beyond the card catalog and explore some of the other resources available, you can access Metro Net at http://www.metronet.lib.mi.us or The Library Network at http://tln.lib.mi.us. Metro Net offers links to its eight member libraries' catalogs and home pages plus links to other resources on the World Wide Web. The Library Network offers similar links, including access to the Shared Automation System, the online catalog containing more than 500,000 titles of materials held by 55 member libraries in Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw, St. Clair and Livingston counties.

Online links

Once you are out on the Web, you can go just about anywhere, including the Michigan Electron-ic Library. MEL is the Universi-ty of Michigan's online library with links to literally thousands of resources, including a searchable newspaper and periodical index that allows users to access and download full text newspaper and magazine articles. You can also access MEL directly at http://www.mel.lib.mi.us.

Despite the technological gadgets that now occupy the space where the card catalog stood, area librarians agree that libraries will always be basically repositories for books. And periodicals. And videos. And audio tapes. And CDs. And CD-ROMs. And ...

Renegade libraries didn't cry 'WOLF'

BY JACK GLADDEN STAFF WRITER

It was called WOLF, but some area librarians thought it was more of a dog. And that ledito the Computer Revolution of 1992

WOLF - the Wayne Oakland Library Federation – was started in the late 1970s after the Michigan Legislature created a group of public library cooperatives throughout the state. The cooperatives assisted member libraries with such things as buying books and equipment, handling interlibrary loans and a variety of other services. WOLF, serving Wayne and Oakland counties, was the largest of the coops.

The heart of the WOLF system was the computer - a roomsized GEAC mainframe - that, among other things, housed the WOLF catalog, a searchable database containing the holdings of all member libraries. According to one local librarian, the er terminals, from which librari- looked into, but in 1993 the reneans or patrons trying to locate a gade seven - Baldwin/Birming-book could search the entire ham, Bloomfield Township, Can-WOLF catalog. This was especially beneficial to smaller libraries with limited holdings.

Computer revolution

By the early 1990s, however, computers had changed. Mainframes were being replaced by smaller, more sophisticated desktop systems linked to each other through "networks." Some of the more affluent libraries in WOLF had begun to install "stand-alone" systems and convert their own card catalogs into electronic databases.

These systems made it possible for patrons with home computers to access their local library catalogs from home. And they allowed the libraries and the patrons access to the Internet, which was growing fast, promising to open up a world of information to anyone with a desktop computer and a modem. In 1992, seven area libraries, which had become increasingly ton, Farmington, Independence Township, Southfield and Rochester Hills - launched Metro Net, a "virtual" consortium that allowed them to link up to each other's catalogs and to access (and provide access to) the Internet.

'Virtual consortium'

Metro Net calls itself a "virtual consortium" because it has no headquarters, no building no staff. Its eight member libraries (West Bloomfield joined the consortium in 1994) maintain the site through their own computer systems. Metro Net, which can be accessed at http://www. metronet.lib.mi.us, offers links not just to its members catalogs but to a plethora of other resources. (See accompanying story.) It also offers Internet accounts to patrons of its members.

The library responded, and the new "ABC Moms" program, basically crafts and playtime for preschoolers and coffee for moms, is a hit.

A big attraction at the Canton Public Library is the Canton Public Library is the youth department, home to a pet gerbil and a large aquari-um. History of Plymouth library tied to community roots

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

In case you ever wondered, the Dunning-Hough Library - which serves Plymouth and Plymouth Township residents - is not named after just one person

In fact, the library's official name is tied to its beginnings even though plenty of people now simply call the facility the Plymouth District Library.

In the mid-1940s, Margaret Dunning and her mother decided the library needed a place of its own so they bought property on Main Street - right next to where city hall is now - and gave it to the city.

By then the library was about 20 years old. It started as a branch of the Wayne County Library in a farmhouse on Canton Center Road in 1923.

"Over the years it moved around," said Pat Thomas, who has served as library director for 17 years.

By the mid-1950s, the house the Dunnings gave for the library needed expanding so an addition was built on the back.

"It was an old farmhouse and hard to keep up," Thomas said.

By then the community was ready to build a new city hall on Main Street and decided to have plans drafted for a new library, too.

"They built city hall and stalled on Construction plans called for adding 6,000 square feet to the existing 6,000.

At the time, the district library law was in existence, but it was easier to be a city library. After the addition was completed, some problems arose and it was determined that both communities chipping in wouldn't work.

Longtime resident and former Plymouth Township trustee Esther Hulsing, and the late community activist and former Plymouth Mayor Mary Childs, turned around and joined forces to establish a district library.

In September 1985, voters in Plymouth and Plymouth Township agreed. In November 1985, voters passed a millage to support the library.

The city had already levied one mill for the library. So the township started levying 0.8 mill. The library later went back and asked for another 0.4 mill. By 1987, both the city and township were levying 1.2 mills for library services.

That equalized everything between the two communities," Thomas said. Carol Davis, now president of the

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON 1997-98 ACTION PLAN 30-DAY PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD FY 1997 CDBG PROGRAM

On April 9, 1997 and for 30 days thereafter, public comment will be accepted on the 1997-98 Canton Charter Township Action Plan. The Action Plan is part of the Consolidated Plan (mandated in 24 CFR Parts 91, 92, 570, 574, part of the Consolidated Plan (mandated in 24 CFR Parts 34, 52, 516, 514, 578 and 968 (August 5, 1994/Proposed Rules), which replaces the Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy (CHAS). The document plus the Action Plan will be available for public inspection during regular business hours in the Office of the Clerk, 1150 S., Canton Center Road; office of the Resource Development Division, 1150 S. Canton Center Road; and the Seniors Center, 46000 Summit Parkway. Comments received during the during the tensor of the Clerk, 1150 S. Canton Center Road; the review period will be answered in writing and appended to the Plan. The Consolidated Plan must be submitted to the department of HUD no later than May 15, 1997.

The 1997-98 Action Plan does not deviate from the 1995-96 Consolidated Plan. The Plan maintains the housing rehabilitation program as the only direct intervention housing program for Canton Township, and funds the program adequately to rehabilitate three owner-occupied single family detached homes during 1997-98. Canton Township will support applications by outside agencies to the Department of HUD for on public residents and others who meet relevant federal criteria for housing need. Canton Township will not support the loss of subsidized housing units in Canton. There are no homeless in Canton Township supported by census data and the problem will not develop during the Plan period. Canton Township certifies that it will affirmatively further fair housing and that it is in compliance with a residential anti-displacement and relocation assistance plan as required and provided under Section 104(d) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The 1997-98 Action Plan does not deviate from the 1995-96 Consolidated

On March 31, 1997 The Canton CDBG Advisory Council adopted the following projects and funding levels for the FY 1997 Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program for recommendation to the Canton Board of Trustees for approval at the regularly scheduled Board meeting of April 8, 1997. The FY 1997 allocation is $416,000 as determined meeting of April 8, 1997. The FY 1997 allocation is $416,000 as determined by Congress. If the court should split on that budget-busting case, as it frequently does, Riley's vote may be needed to form a majority. The Supreme Court tries to decide cases within a year of hearing them.

Although she was a Republican appointee who twice was elected as a Republican nominee, Riley gave no hint during 65 minutes of attorneys' arguments whether she favored the 84 suburban school districts or the position of Gov. John M. Engler.

Riley said last year she has Parkinson's disease but expected to finish her term which lasts until the end of 2000. Her replacement, to be appointed by Engler, would have to run for reelection in 1998.

Courtroom packed

A courtroom packed with reporters, law students and Birmingham Seaholm High School students heard Dennis Pollard, Birmingham attorney for the school districts, square off against Paul Zimmer, assistant state attorney general.

services - notably special educa-tion (94 percent) and transportation - that began in the late 1970s. If the court holds they're state-mandated programs, the state must pay for them under the 1978 Headlee amendment to the Michigan Constitution.

"Special education is clearly a federal mandate. The state has no true choice," said Zimmer, who led off because the state is appealing the case. "If we didn't comply, there is no doubt the federal government would with-hold all federal education funds."

Zimmer acknowledged that state law is broader than federal law. An act of Congress says handicapped students should receive an appropriate education be up to age 21. State law says they should be educated to their "maximum potential" up

"At most, we (state) should be required to be responsible for the cost above the federal mandate," said Zimmer, estimating

"The most compelling argument has been ignored by the attorney general. The issue: What was eral government's. Autistic children need a 1:5 teacher-pupil ratio plus a teacher's aide if there are more than five pupils in a classroom.

"There is no federal (rule) counterpart. That, to me, is the end of the argument," said Pollard. "The language of the constitution is clear. There is absolutely no basis for the court to rule otherwise."

When voters passed the Headlee amendment in 1978, he said, the state was paying 28.6 percent of special education costs. By 1994-95, the state share slipped to 9 percent.

The gap: $492 million, or about 6 percent of the state's current general fund budget.

'Astronomical'

Justice Patricia Boyle asked Pollard to comment on a brief by legislators arguing that a victory for school districts would encourage high spending in the future by local units.

Three is no reason to believe you'll have profligate boards of education," Pollard replied.

Chief Justice Conrad Mallett Jr. asked Zimmer his estimate of the cost to the state of a ruling in the schools' behalf.

Based on the 84 original plain-tiffs, Zimmer said, the cost would be $490 million (almost identical to Pollard's figure). But many other districts are putting in claims. "If these 84 districts are typical of the state, we're talking about an astronomical figure.

Other estimates have placed the cost at several billions.

19.25

*A7_

"We would have to revise the (special ed) rules to conform to their (federal) regulations," Zimmer said.

Zimmer's remark is likely to fuel speculation that Engler and lawmaker are considering reducing special ed services to the federal standards. The result would be to hold down costs and perhaps avoid the Headlee amendment rule. Already, parents of special ed students have protested to lawmakers and the State Board of Education.

The case, started by taxpayer Donald Durant in the Warren Fitzgerald school district, has dragged through the courts for 17 years.

There is a possibility Engler may do what he did in 1991 with Oakland County's suit for mental health funds. After that case had gone to the Supreme Court but before the justices ruled, Engler negotiated a settlement with County Executive Daniel T. Murphy. Under it, the state paid only one year's aid, avoiding the back years' money but giving the county a legal and moral victory.

A healthy you is your responsibility his month's column is on a very important topic - how food impacts our health both positively and negatively.

In my late 20s I experienced chronic health problems, coupled with large amounts of stress while starting my company. I had been ill for a few years without finding any resolutions for my ailments. It was at this time that I began researching the power of foods and healing.

Good foods, and a healthful lifestyle, were not unfamiliar to me as I had learned early in my culinary training. Some of the best ways to meet the needs of my customers were to cook lighter foods, and keep those foods as close to their natural state as possible. For example, using salsas and relishes rather than heavy sauces, and substituting small portions of olive oil for lard and butter

The largest pearl of wisdom I gained from my training was to prepare the freshest most seasonal food available in the most natural manner - in other words, keeping foods as close to the vine as possible.

I knew a lot about food yet I had to dive deeper into the topic to cure my health problems. I put

A new diet, with a vitamin regime, rendered unbelievable results for my particular situation. My chronic body aches and headaches vanished. The challenges that used to be stressful became manage-high in fat an cholesterol. Some scientists believe that the generous consumption of red wine among the French at least partially accounts for the lower rate of heart disease, since the biologically active flavonoids in the wine reduce blood platelet aggregation. But recent research also shows that grape juice can be just as beneficial as wine.

A study done a few years ago indicated that women over 50 who had risk factors for heart disease, had a lower risk of dying if they drank not more than two drinks a day. It is not clear whether this increased longevity could be the same for men or for women under 50. The study also didn't follow people who had more than two drinks a day, or who are weekend drinkers that consume numerous drinks on Friday and Saturday nights, and abstain the rest of the week. The studies just have not been conclusive

- I admit, I like a glass of wine, a beer, or a mixed drink on occasion. When taken in moderation, most of us can enjoy a drink or two now and then, without ill effect. But remember, moderation is important.
- If you're watching your weight you must are more prone to ulcers, stomach hemorrhages and inflammation of the stomach.

- A major secondary symptom of alcoholism in men is anti-social behavior, in women it is depression.
- Alcohol has a diuretic effect which explains why you have to use the bathroom a lot when you drink. However, you are not excreting all the liquid you're drinking, you excrete body water. This explains why your urine looks very dilute by the end of a long night of drinking, and why you're so thirsty the morning after.
- The percentage of alcohol in a product is half the proof; so 80-proof liquor is actually 40 percent alcohol.
- "One drink" is equal to 1 1/2 ounces of 80proof liquor, five to six ounces of wine or 12 ounces of beer.
- Alcohol fragments sleep, making it difficult to feel rested the morning after.
- One to two drinks a day may decrease some people's risk for cardiovascular disease (though the increased high density lipoproteins - the "good" fats) however, alcohol also causes increased triglycerides and increased blood pressure.
- It is true that some of today's research points to a lower heart attack rate as a result of alcohol's blood thinning properly into any cell it comes in contact with.

With each alcoholic episode, some brain cells are destroyed either directly by the action of alcohol or indirectly by the plugging up of small arteries in the brain.

- Excessive alcohol intake can lead to malnutrition as well as a result of maldigestion and malabsorption.
- Animal studies showed rats had a "biologic thirst" for alcohol when they were fed diets high in sugar and caffeine, low in nutrients and high in environmental stress
- Alcoholism, if left unchecked, is chronic, progressive and 100 percent fatal.

I know all this sounds quite scary, given the fact that most of us do imbibe. However, even with all the negative effects alcohol can have on our bodies, and the risk associated with it, most of us can still incorporate it into our diet if we use good judgment. It is a good idea to ask your doctor or dietitian about alcohol, and the amount that is acceptable for you. Please remember, mod-eration is absolutely essential to avoid permanent negative impact. Vegetables were partially cooked to release some of the water, thus avoiding a watery custard. A whole egg and egg whites are a healthful stand-in for whole eggs in the original recipe. I like the flavor of the whole egg/egg white mixture better than commercial egg substitutes. If you are not familiar with evaporated skim milk, try it in your cooking as a cream replacement. The consistency is quite similar to cream and it adds more body than skim milk.

Cooked shrimp, crab meat, or sliced chicken breast can replace the tuna in my recipe.

Strawberries are spring's flavorful jewels

When it comes to berries, strawberries are by far the most plentiful, a fact that will be hard to miss in your grocery store produce section as strawberries, imported from warmer climates, come into their peak this month.

This perennial symbol of spring is not only a good source of dietary fiber, but a cup also contains more vitamin C than any other berry, or even a medium orange! Recently, strawberries have won new accolades for being a great source of elegic acid, a food component that shows great promise as a cancerfighting agent in current scientific research.

Take advantage of strawberry season by buying locally picked berries in June. Look for ripe but not mushy berries with caps that are fresh and green.

Storing strawberries is critical to enjoying their taste and nutrition. Washing will cause them to deteriorate, so rinse them only briefly in cold water just before serving. Be sure to leave the berries intact until you are ready to serve them, as the vitamin C decreases quickly once they are cut. Strawberries also stay fresh longer when stored in a single layer rather than piled on top of place them in a shallow container covered by a paper towel in the refrigerator and eat them within two to four days.

While it may be tempting to eat strawberries plain, they can be the basis for some truly memorable desserts. Strawberry shortcake is a traditional seasonal treat and a snap to make using a low-fat golden cake, sliced berries and low-fat vanilla yogurt for topping.

For a refreshing ending to a big meal, blend a ripe banana, 1 teaspoon lemon zest and a 1/2cup plain low-fat yogurt in a blender and serve over fresh, hulled berries.

Don't limit your use of strawberries to desserts and fruit salads. Cored and halved strawberries add color and sweetness to a luncheon spinach salad. Overripe berries make a delicious strawberry quick bread for brunch. You can even quench your thirst with a strawberry cooler, made by blending a cup of ripe, hulled and halved strawberries, a cup of bottled sparkling water, a tablespoon of lime juice, 2 teaspoons of sugar and 3 ice cubes in a blender. Celebrate spring by hosting an

STRAWBERRY CHUTNEY

- 1/2 cup golden raisins 1/2 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar 1/2 cup strawberry preserves
- 1/2 cup strawberry wine vinegar
- 1/2 cup fresh orange juice 2 teaspoons ginger root, minced and peeled
- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 medium navel orange,
- peeled and chopped 4 cups whole strawberries,
- hulled and diced 1/2 cup sliced almonds

Combine the first 8 ingredients in a large non-aluminum saucepan and bring them to a boil. Cook, uncovered, over medium heat for 15 minutes or until slightly thickened and syrupy, stirring frequently.

Add the strawberries, reduce the heat and simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes or until thickened, stirring occasionally. Remove the mixture from the heat and stir in the almonds. Spoon the chutney into a bowl, cover and chill for at least an hour before serving.

ARE YOU YOUR PARENT'S PARENT?

How Adult Children Can Care For Their Loved Ones, While Maintaining Independent Lives. SUNDAY, APRIL 20, 1997

It's a struggle that more and more Baby Boomers are having to face. Just as they are settling into middle age, their parents are beginning to need help. Sometimes, a lot of help. Our free seminar, "Are You Your Parent's Parent?" examines this issue and attempts to offer some solutions.

Time and location: Springhouse ManorCare Health Services 26111 Telegraph Rd. Southfield, MI 1:30 - 3:30 p.m.

The seminar will be led by the best-selling author of How Did I Become My Parent's Parent?, Harriet Sarnoff Schiff. Ms. Schiff. will explore the ways adult children can make the tough decisions necessary to care for their parents, while maintaining independent lives. She will also touch on both the emotional and financial demands that such decisions impose.

Seating is limited, so call 810-358-0088 for reservations, weekdays between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Refreshments will be served. Please join us. Because an informed caregiver is the best caregiver.

Cool shapes for hot looks

Free movie passes should be part of the job when you're in Chris Sieler's line of work.

That's because, as manager of The Sunglass Co. at Westland Shopping Center, he gets asked a lot of riddles regarding movie trivia.

"Just last week a customer asked me what Kevin Costner wore in 'Tin Cup," because he wanted sunglasses just like his," said Siel-er, 26, of Westland. "Unfortunately, I couldn't help the gentleman because I never saw that movie.

But he has seen lots of others, and whenever he notices an actor wearing sunglasses in a film or on television, he pays close attention.

"I always try to guess what kind of sunglasses they're wearing, because I know customers will be asking about them," he said.

What will customers be inquiring about next? Sieler predicts it's the sunglasses that basketball star-turned-actor Dennis Rodman wears in his new movie "Double Team" which also stars Jean-Claude Van Damme. Rodman's character - a deadly, flamboyant weapons dealer who joins forces with a spy (played by Van Damme) to protect the spy's family from a terrorist — wears "Zero" sunglasses by Oakley, Sieler said.

Glamour closets intrigue shoppers

Movie stars have nothing on you! Now your closet can be as opulent as any Garbo, Diedrich or Madonna could imagine!

BY NICOLE STAFFORD STAFF WRITER

Home organization stores bring space savers and order to a closet, but more importantly, style and small luxuries too.

"I think people can relate to the idea of that Hollywood dressing room where everything happens. Where I put on everything that I own to make me feel good. And that's the focus of many walk-in closets today," insisted Dan Treder, owner of Space Alternatives in Farmington Hills.

Consequently, local closet companies are offering more ways to decorate and enhance closets. Custom colors and a variety of building materials - from basic white to pickled oak - are available. Light maple, cherry wood and almond white are also popular shelving finishes, according to Angelika Fight-master, owner of Closet Interiors in

Bloomfield Hills. "Customers always want to be a little color-coordinated," she said of the trend, adding that working women with hectic lives especially appreciate touches of elegance and style in an organized closet.

California Closets at the Somerset, Collection North in Troy showcases an island-style storage module in dark cherry wood. The unit, which sells for $1,800, not only gives a large walk-in closet substantial counter space but also 10 to 12 centrally located clothing drawers.

"Closets are a lot bigger now. And people spend a lot more time in them now, so they want to make them as appealing as possible," said Jeff Baumann, California Closets, pine-scented cedar, $25 to $30, also reflect a bow to luxury in the closet, according to Baumann. Non-slip hangers, which take up very little space and have a clean-European look, are available for under $8 at the shop.

Velvet or acrylic jewelry drawers and plexiglass dividers for socks and undergarments are niceties that quickly rid drawers of fussy, minute clutter, added Fightmaster. These organizing pieces can be purchased for existing drawers as well as $20 - $50 at Closet Interiors.

that bring ceiling-level space, which is typically difficult to utilize, to an accessible level. These adjustable, stainless rods are spring-loaded, hold 20 to 60 pieces of clothing, and run $150 to $300, available through Space Alternatives.

Traditional valets also are making a comeback, according to Fightmas-

"Valets have always been around, but they're more in demand today.' she said. "I think people want more niceties (and time-savers.) The jewelry drawers, the valet stands and the velvet dividers, all help person-

Revenue in outlet centers has sale, than I can by driving to an out- designs and advertise sales. let center," insisted Liz Nelson of Bloomfield Hills. "Plus, there are people to wait on me and the environment is definitely more elegant." Yet, the outlet centers prosper. A sales associate at The Polo Store at Tangers Factory Outlet Center in West Branch reports more than 200 shoppers an hour crowd into the small shop each weekend to pick up America's most beloved brand at 20 to 50-percent off retail price. Today, irregular and damaged merchandise accounts for less than 15 percent of all outlet goods, according to an industry spokesman. And outlet stores should not be confused with "off-price stores" like Marshall's and T.J. Maxx, which are not owned and operated by the manufacture and typically buy overallotments from department stores.

"I can save more money on sheets sophisticated. The newer ones offer growth of outlet centers: a decrease and towels when Hudson's has a customer services, swankier store in discretionary income, the energy crisis, inc. designer labels, the manufacture of private-label merchandise, increased financial risks associated with traditional retails channels specifically, department store viability. • In 1974, Vanity Fair opened the first multi-tenant manufacturer outlet center in Reading, PA., leading the way for other such projects. • In 1980, the first enclosed outlet center opened in a non-metropolitan market to avoid direct competition with retail accounts. The outlet centers look for high tourist trade due to over saturation of regional malls.

In addition to inquiring about sunglasses they've seen on the big and small screens, customers often ask for sunglasses that have been endorsed by their favorite athletes, Sieler said.

For example, baseball player Cal Ripkin Jr. and Chicago Bulls basketball star Michael Jordan both have Oakley sunglasses named after them; and Scottie Pippen of the Chicago Bulls, baseball player Ken Griffey Jr. and NASCAR driver Dale Earnhardt endorse Gargoyle sunglasses Detroit Piston Grant Hill also is getting into the act. Fila Eyes, a joint venture between Fila (the athletic shoe company) and De Rigo Sunglasses, is coming out with sunglasses named after him.

Just her style

These glasses may be named after men, but women enjoy wearing them, too.

"A lot of women buy them for themselves," Sieler said. "In fact, most of the sunglasses we offer are unisex.

Sports sunglasses aren't just popular because of the celebrity names attached to them, or because they look good, Sieler said. They're popular because they're made with athletes in mind.

For example, Gargoyle's F-8 collection, which include Ken Griffey sunglasses, have a flip-up lens. According to Gargoyle, F-8 is baseball shorthand for a fly ball caught by a center fielder.

"You can flip the lenses down if it's sunny out, and flip them up if it's kind of hazy, to see the ball better," Sieler said.

Sports sunglasses also are high-impact resistant. Gargoyle claims that its rugged polycarbonate lenses are 50 times stronger than safety glass, and that they can stop a .22 caliber bullet fired from 10 feet away.

That's the one thing I hope no one ever needs: bullet-proof sunglasses! But, as Sieler said, the point is that the glasses won't shatter if a baseball or basketball is knocked into them.

Although sports sunglasses are popular, there really isn't one dominant style this year, Sieler said.

So no matter what look you're going for -Tom Everett Scott in "That Thing You Do," Susan Sarandon or Geena Davis in "Thelma & Louise," Woody Harrelson in "Natural Born Killers," Arnold Schwarzenegger in "The Termi-nator," Jackie O or John Lennon — it's OK.

Get protection

But look for sunglasses that block out 100 percent UVA, B, C and IR (infra-red) rays. Also, expect to pay at least $40 for a good pair of regu-lar sunglasses and $65 to $250 for sports sun-

On cheaper sunglasses, the anti-ultraviolet coating tends to wear off quickly and be uneven, because it is usually dipped onto, rather than mixed into the lens material, experts say. reportedly more than doubled in the past seven years, while the number of such centers in the country has grown from 108 in 1988 to 325 today.

According to Value Retail News, a monthly trade magazine for the industry, outlet centers generated $12 billion in annual sales in 1996.

Michigan's biggest outlet center, Outlets at Birch Run, rivals Belz Outlet World in Orlando, Fla. for the title "Largest Outlet Center in America." Both have 180 stores.

In addition to Birch Run, Michigan has manufacturer's outlet centers in Monroe, Howell, West Branch, Holland and Port Huron. A clearing permit has been issued to the Taubman Co. by the city of Auburn Hills to begin another outlet center, "Great Lakes Crossing," off I-75 at Baldwin Road.

But while bargain hunters arrive at the centers by the thousands. savvy shoppers insist the best deals come from regular sales at their neighborhood department stores.

The International Council of Shopping Centers (ICSC) compiled this history of the outlet center phenomenon.

• Outlet centers got their start in the late 1800s as apparel and shoe mill stores on the East Coast began to offer excess and damaged goods to employees. Eventually these stores opened their doors to consumers.

• In 1936, Anderson-Little, a manufacturer of men's clothing, opened the first factory-direct stores. These outlets were located in remote areas.

• Through the 1940s, the number of factory outlets grew to sell-off over-runs and damaged merchandise.

• In the 1970s-1980s, several economic factors further fueled the

• In the late 1980s, outlets become established profit centers for manufacturers.

• More than 500 million shoppers visited outlet centers in 1996.

• According to J.P. Morgan Outlet Industry Update, 44 percent of outlet shoppers quoted their annual household income at more than $50,000.

• The average expenditure per outlet visit is $147.

COMBATING ADVANCED GUM DISEASE The effectiveness of fighting advanced gum disease with both oral and topical antibiotics can be seen in an experiment conducted at the University of Michigan School of Dentistry in Ann Arbor. There, researchers treated 'hopeless teeth' in 99 inner-city patients with advanced gum disease by first cleaning their teeth. The patients were then treated with two to four weeks of oral antibiotics, followed by 'as many as three rounds of topical antibiotics' which were impregnated in a cellulose film that was temporarily applied to root surfaces. Previous to treatment, all the patients had been recommended for extensive oral surgery. After treatment, about 67% of the once 'hopeless teeth' were saved and 81% of the patients avoided any surgical procedure at all. Those who did require surgery needed less stringent procedures.

require surgery needed less stringen-procedures. The best way to reduce your chances of getting gum disease is to develop good oral hygiene habits. Since gum disease is caused by bacteria, you'll greatly reduce your risk for gum disease If you have regular checkups and practice meticulous home care. Defusing the time bomb: The hidden danger of high blood pressure

Over 60 million American adults have high blood pressure, but half of these people don't realize it. That's because this condition-also known as hypertension-often has no symptoms. When left untreated, high blood pressure can complicate other problems such as diabetes and eye disease, and seriously damage the heart, arteries, kidneys and lungs. In the past, all a doctor could do was recommend a low-salt/low-fat diet. But now there are many more treatment options to help patients lower their blood pressure to healthier levels.

For our next Health Night Out in Western Wayne County, the Northville and Plymouth Health Centers will present High Blood Pressure: Unmasking the Quiet Killer. Leading the presentation will be Denege Ward, M.D., medical director of the Plymouth Health Center, and Bretton Weintraub, M.D., internist at the Northville Health Center.

During the presentation you'll learn how hypertension is defined and diagnosed...how it affects other health problems and contributes to coronary artery disease and heart attacks... what genetic risk factors you may have ... which behavioral changes in diet, exercise and mineral intake are effective... which drugs have proven most effective in controlling this condition while minimizing side effects...and more.

Join us on Thursday, April 17 for our next Health Night Out in Western Wayne County. Because half of all adults reading this have-or don't realize they have-high blood pressure.

Mayor Ron Loiselle said, "I think its a very good idea,' adding the issue hasn't been thoroughly addressed.

Unlike residents, most downtown businesses are able to select from a range of trash haulers, who offer varying levels of recycling.

"Unless they're very environmentally motivated, business trash haulers won't do recycling, it's generally not cost effective," Loiselle said.

Paul Sincock, city municipal services director, said some vendors offer recycling through the yellow bag system offered to residents. "Other vendors offer separate dumpsters for recyclables, it's pretty much up to the individual business what commitment they want to make to recvcling," he said.

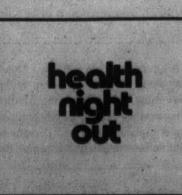

One option offered is cardboard recycling, at a downtown location, and many businesses take advantage of it. "We recycle most of our cardboard and most of our packing materials," said Mary Millington of Little Professor Book Center.

Pam Haase, owner of the Ply-mouth Coffee Bean Company, said, "We can't store cardboard or glass or empty bottles. The kids have been taking them home every night. We would love to recycle." She added that if the city provided bins it would make it easy to recycle.

Sincock said his department does get the occasional call from a business person wondering what to do about recyclables.

He directs merchants to get yellow bags to hold recyclables and drop them off at the municipal services yard. "There are several businesses that do take advantage of that," Sincock said.

"We've got such a good program in our residential area," said Whittaker. "The recycling downtown seems spotty. If we could use a unified program; we need to get interested enough to research this.

Sculptor says ethnicity shapes art

Sergio DeGiusti finds inspiration for his sculptures in the tradition of Italian art. Born in Maniago, Italy, Sergio De Giusti of Redford grew up surrounded by the art in his rural village's churches. It was there De Giusti learned first hand about the work of Vittorio Cadel.

Never heard of him? Cadel painted the ceiling in the Church of St. Martino. Its religious themes were one of De Giusti's first experiences with art. "I used to sit Main in Detroit, De Giusti will give a lecture/slide demonstration on the topic "Ethnicity in Art: Forces Which Shape Creativity," 4 p.m. Saturday, April 19, in WSU's Community Arts Auditorium.

"Ethnicity is a major force, the kind of family you come from," said De Giusti. "It's an interesting phenomenon. We're bound by the subconscious, shaped by environment. Whether religious, family life or nationalistic, all of these factors bring about a certain direction. We retain a strong identification with our own cultures.

It wasn't until De Giusti decided to become an artist and went back to Italy that artists like Donatello, Manzu and Greco influenced him. Mentors like Bloomfield Hills resident Jean Kilgore, his art teacher at Detroit's MacKenzie High School, and Jay Holland, who in the late 1950s taught sculpture at the Detroit Institute of Arts, further inspired De Giusti to seek a career as an artist.

The beauty of the Great Lakes lives in Erick Carne's paintings.

In honor of the late architect, the Plymouth Community Arts Council will inaugurate their recently renovated exhibition space April 20 during a reception to open a show of Carne's watercolors. The show, featuring more than 30 of his paintings, runs April 20 to May 8.

An architect by trade, Carne designed plans for the project to revamp the former Jehovah's Witnesses Church into an arts center.

The paintings are part of "Shorelines of the Great Lakes," a book being published by Thunder Bay Press nearly one year after Carne's death at the age of 68. Inspired by the magic of the waterways, Carne painted more than 60 watercolors for the book Purples, pinks, blues and yellows pervade the landscapes of the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, Passage Island Lighthouse on Isle Royale in Lake Superior, and the Thunderfest boat races at Belle Isle. Carne captures the light at different times of day by reflecting golden streaks of sky in the waters in the morning, and varying shades of lilac in the evening.

Text explaining the history of the Great Lakes accompanies paintings in the book. From the Straits of Mackinac to Lake Superior's Whitefish Point where the Edmund Fitzgerald sank, Carne records history including the shipping of thousands of tons of iron ore and grain annually through Thunder Bay, the sixth largest port in Ontario.

"It's an exciting time with the book finally coming to fruition," said Pat Carne, Erick's Shorelines of the Great Lakes wife of 23 years.

the lighthouses and always planned trips around them. We'd find a campground preferably near the waters so we could get to the shores.

The idea for the book came about in 1993 after Pat gave Erick "South by Southeast," a book written by Walter Cronkite and illustrat-ed by Ray Ellis. The coffee table book depicts the waterways between Chesapeake Bay and Key West. Erick began creating his paintings of the Great Lakes shortly thereafter.

"He was at his happiest painting," said Carne

The lengthy process of publishing Erick's book began when all of the paintings were disassembled and sent to Thunder Bay Press shortly after Carne's March 1995 exhibition at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. Although corrections were passed back and forth several times between Pat and the publisher, none of Erick's text was changed.

Carne is perhaps best known as an architect. Plymouth's 35th District Courthouse, Plymouth Canton Community Schools' E.J. McClendon Educational Center, the Salvation Army's Eastern Michigan Headquarters, and the City of Wayne City Hall and District Court are among the buildings Carne designed from the architectural business he opened in Plymouth in 1976. But more than architect, Carne was also a storyteller, and enjoyed sketching and painting. His interest in watercolor was sparked by a presentation of architectural design class he took at the University of Detroit where he earned his degree in 1952.

Carne's exhibit is the first of the Plymouth Community Arts Council's quarterly displays featuring Michigan artists.

"It's a way to honor Erick for the work he had done," said Judy Lewis, exhibition commit-tee co-chair with Lin Ware. "Erick was the original architect for the renovations on the building.

MUSIC

Plymouth Symphony wants to take you on a Caribbean cruise

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

It won't be difficult to imagine you're taking a "Caribbean Cruise" when the sounds of steel drums merge with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra at their annual pops concert 6 p.m. Friday, April 25, at Fox Hills Country Club, 8768, North Territorial Road, Plymouth. Guest artists, the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band, provide the driving beat.

Tickets are $45 for adults, senior citizens and college students; $25 for children, and includes concert and Caribbean dinner. For tickets or more information, call the Plymouth Symphony at (313) 451-2112.

"It's a fun filled evening of music and entertainment," said Russell Reed, PSO conductor/music director.

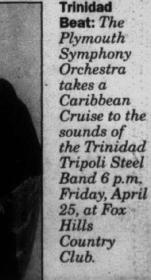

"The program's centered around South of the border music including 'The Girl from Ipanema,' selections from 'South Pacific,' and a sing-a-long."

The Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band calls Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, their home. The element which makes their music, ranging from classical to rock and roll, incomparable is that oil drums are the instruments used to beat out their island rhythms.

The group was born in the desperate days following World War II when money was so tight the musicians were unable to buy instruments for playing their beloved Calypso music. Instead, the Trinidad natives discovered abandoned oil drums could be used to play musical tunes. The original Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band, of which this group is the present day outgrowth, grew into an organization that played at Rockefeller Plaza, Central Park and the Lincoln Center Mall in New York City, the Pan American Union in Washington, D.C., and the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts.

"This is the first time in this area that a symphony orchestra and a steel band have joined together," said Hugh Borde, Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band maestro. "We will have the audience join us in dancing to the Calypso. It will be fun for everyone."

Reed became interested in steel bands after listening to the music during a trip to a Caribbean island a few years ago. After

COLLEGE CONCERT

A smorgasbord of styles awaits music lovers who attend the annual Schoolcraft College Collage Concert 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 19 in the community room at Radcliff Center, 1751 Radcliff Street, Garden City.

Admission is free although donations will be accepted at the door.

The concert features all of the college's performing groups: the Community Choir, jazz choirs, the Schoolcraft Wind Ensemble, the MIDI Ensemble, and other chamber groups and soloists, including both students and faculty designed so that pieces are performed with no applause in between. A 15th century piece of Renaissance music might be followed immediately by cool jazz, with a 19th century romantic song coming next. Because of this continuous presentation, each half lasts approximately 30 minutes.

This year's concert will end with "Hymn of Apollo," a work commissioned by the college and composed by Schoolcraft faculty member James Nissen. Based on Percy Bysshe Shelly's poem, "Hymn of Apollo," it features all of the Schoolcraft musical groups and encompasses many musical styles.

PUPPETRY WORKSHOP

If you're a novice puppeteer, librarian, teacher, group leader, religious educator, parent or teen who is interested in knowing more about the lively art of puppetry, the Detroit Puppeteers Guild has a workshop planned for you.

Learn more about making puppets, script writing, choreography, and performing during "A Day of Puppetry" 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, April 26 at the Livonia Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile Road, Livonia.

Registration fee for adults is $30, Detroit Puppeteers Guild Members $25, ages 13-18 $20, children $5. The fee includes one

"Dave & Sue's Stars on Strings." Additional tickets to the performance by David Herzog's Marionettes are $3

Preregistration is required for the day-long workshop. Call Debbie Latozas (810) 693-3198 or Jill Landsman (810) 693-4098.

A 10:45 a.m. performance/workshop will be open to registrants only. The PVC Players will present two shows: "The Dragon of Frostytown" and "The Puzzle of One Peaceful Pachyderm," which they perform for elementary school children. These entertaining shows engage the audience in learning about peaceful conflict resolution.

FESTIVAL OF THE ARTS

The Farmington Community Arts Council announces its second annual Festival of the Arts April 27 to May 4 at the William Costick Activities Center, 28600 Eleven Mile east of Middlebelt in Farmington Hills.

Hours are 2-5 p.m. Sunday, April 27; 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday to Saturday, April 28 to May 3, and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, May 4.

Admission is free.

There is a little bit of artist, writer, actor, singer, dancer, musician in all of us. Come and experience the Festival of the Arts. Look at the dozens of paintings and drawings in juried and open categories. There is also unframed art.

Displays by quilters and historians will be set against a backdrop of original floral designs by local garden clubs. Learn needlecraft as demonstrators keep you in stitches.

Listen to performances by area choruses, bands and orchestras. Enjoy poetry readings by members of Farmington Hills Ridgewriters and dramatic selections by Farmington Players.

Afternoons spent at Holland's Birmingham studio, instilled a passion for art in De Giusti.

De Giusti's formal education in the 1960s at Wayne State University also influenced him. Jack Bailey, his graduate adviser at the university, told De Giusti not to fall for trends.

"In the 1960s, none of the artists like Jackson Pollock and Frank Stella were doing the figure," said De Giusti. "Now, figurative work is back and not that many artists can do it well. It's important to learn but not copy from the past, not be bound by it but in some ways draw from it."

Of course. De Giusti is one of the few artists accomplished at using the figure in their work. Over the years, he's created public art including a 20-panel frieze for the State of Michigan Library and Archives Building in Lansing, four bronze panels focusing on the life of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. for Eastern Michigan

Concert features American Boychoir

Throughout the western world, boys choirs uphold centuries-old choral traditions. This Friday at the First Presbyterian Church in Birmingham, the American Boychoir will make their case as one of the world's leading choral groups spreading the influence of American folk songs, spirituals and classics.

"They are not only an international performing group with extremely high standards, they've performed at major choral festivals around the world," said Mark Wickens, musical director at the church. The group last appeared at the church three years ago.

Last year, the choir, the Kronos quartet and the New York Philharmonic represented the U.S. in the 1996 Cultural Capitol of Europe Festival in Denmark. They also can be heard regularly on PBS specials, movie soundtracks and commercials. The group recently signed as exclusive artists with Angel Records.

According to Wickens, the American Boychoir is the only chorale group of its kind that isn't affiliated with a church. The group of 30 boys are students at the American Boychoir School in Princeton, NJ. Music director James Litton is one of the best known choral conductors and a specialist in children's choral techniques.

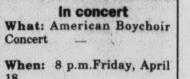

Choral group: The American Boychoir will perform Friday at the First Presbyterian Church in Birmingham.

The choir will perform a concert in three section: Great choral works of Mozart and Brahms. Songs from many nations, including South African and Germany.

Meadow Brook plans to exhibit DIA collection

BY FRANK PROVENZANO STAFF WRITER

Although details are currently being negotiated, the Meadow Brook Gallery and the Detroit Institute of Arts expect pieces from the museum's 20th-century collection to appear in a fall exhibit at Oakland University.

"It's the best scenario for our gallery and Oakland County," said Debra Watson, acting curator of the Meadow Brook Gallery. "This brings the DIA to residents in the northern part of the county."

Before pieces from the collection are selected, however, the gallery must come up with funding for an extensive renovation. Birmingham architect Michael Willoughby's plans for a major reconfiguration of lighting, environmental control and new security system are currently being considered. The gallery, located across from the Meadow Brook Theatre, has not been modified since it opened 30 years ago, said Watson.

Apparently, funding to cover the renovation will not be allocated from the gallery's operating budget, but from a broader university building fund. In the next ten days, the gallery and the university's department of art history will discuss plans for collaborative use of the new space, and offer financing plans for the expanded gallery. Watson would not speculate on the cost for the renovation.

Many pieces from the DIA's impressive 20th-century collection became available because of the installation of the "Splendors of Egypt" exhibit, which opens in mid July. To make room for that enormous exhibit, the DIA's permanent 20th century collection was de-installed. Many pieces will be either kept in storage or available for outside exhibits.

"Since the collection is coming down, we thought it would be a good time to share many of the master pieces with smaller museums around the state," said MaryAnn Wilkinson, acting curator of 20th-century art.

For many years, the DIA had a statewide program to loan pieces to local museums. But in the early 1990s, that program was one of the many eliminated as state funding to the DIA was cut drastically.

Recently, the Dennos Center Museum in Traverse City announced a major show featuring pieces from the DIA collection. The exhibit, on the campus of Northwestern Michigan College, is scheduled for the fall.

Vivid memory sparks Detroit book

BY HUGH GALLAGHEZ STAFF WRITER

It was a disturbing but memorable fifth birthday for Tom Sugrue in the summer of 1967.

"I grew up in a middle class neighborhood in northwest Detroit," Sugrue said. "One of my earliest and most vivid memories was watching National Guard vehicles - Jeeps, tanks, personnel carriers - going down Fenkell, a half mile from my house on my fifth birthday. It was pretty exciting for a 5-yearold.

In a four year period, Sugrue's neighborhood went from all white to all black and Sugrue's family joined the white exodus to the suburbs, settling into Farmington Township (now Farmington Hills). In 1980 Sugrue graduated from Birmingham Brother

The memory of that fifth birthday has continued to nag at Sugrue's mind. Now an assistant professor of history at the University of Pennsylvania, Sugrue has written a thought-provoking book on Detroit that challenges conventional wisdom and marshals a wealth of information to

"The Origins of the Urban Crisis: Race and Inequality in Postwar Detroit" (Princeton University Press, $35, 375 pp) argues that Detroit's problems did not begin with the race riot of 1967 or the administration of Mayor Coleman Young. It began during Detroit's boom years of the late 1940s and 1950s and is the result of a confluence of causes.

"Because of my experience growing up in Detroit I've had a long interest in cities and trying to understand the things I witnessed," Sugrue said during a recent visit home.

"After my long sojourn through universities I decided to come work at Columbia, studied in Europe for two years and did graduate work at Harvard. It was time working at Washington's Brookings Institution that Sugrue began to study Detroit's problems. At the heart of those

"We have to draw a distinction between racial beliefs and racial practices," Sugrue said. "One could define racism as thinking negative thoughts about people of another race. I would define it as acting on those thoughts in practice. Of acting in ways that reinforce racial inequality."

Sugrue argues that three forces converged during the '50s. First, despite what seemed like a booming auto economy, industrialization was actually in decline. Jobs were being automated out of existence and/or companies were leaving for less expensive areas. Between 1954 and 1960, the city lost more than 80,000 jobs tent racial discrimination in the work place."

"If you were white and got laid off, there were lots of companies to hire you," Sugrue said. "If you were black, they wouldn't let you set a foot in the door. Whole sections of the city's economy was closed to African Americans

Black workers were often given the most distasteful and dangerous jobs that white workers could refuse. Also, black workers weren't able to pick up and move with the job, certainly not to the racially divided South that they had left.

The third force was racial segregation in housing. Real estate practices and violent reaction by whites created an explosive housing situation.

The Detroit Real Estate Board actually had a Code of Ethics that prohibited selling a home in a white neighborhood to a black family. Racial steering was considered ethically preferable to "block busting."

Sugrue writes that many real estate agents, especially black agents like James Del Rio, would deliberately move a black family into a white neighborhood to foster racial integration. But other, unscrupulous agents, would move a black family in and then fan the fears of white homeowners to create panic selling. This proved very lucrative to real estate agents and very destructive to the city because it drove out a solid middle class economic base. "Racial prejudices were aggravated by tactics of real estate agents with devastating consequences," Sugrue said. "Folks like my parents were besieged by real estate brokers who sowed the seeds of fear and made lots of money for it."

Sugrue argues that what happened to Detroit has also happened to other urban centers. He said even places like Chicago, with its vital and exciting downtown and North Michigan Avenue, are beset by the same racial tensions, separations and economic inequality.

800KS

"When you look at poverty, unemployment, low paying jobs they hold true for every Eastern and Midwestern city," he said. "When you get past the downtown, you find striking and depressing similarities between those cities and ours."

Sugrue's book also examines the role of highway development and how freeways in the city were deliberately plowed through the black business district of the ironically named Paradise Valley.

"The big story of what happened is that federal government policy subsidized suburbanization," Sugrue said. "We forget about that, that Livonia and Farmington were made possible by big government."

Sugrue argues that the answer to the urban crisis is job creation and job training. He said Detroit prospered because jobs created upward mobility and stability for the working class and a growing middle class.

He parts company with conservative black writers such as Thomas Sowell who argue that blacks need to take the most responsibility for the condition of America's cities

"We're all in the same boat and the success and failure of Detroit has consequences for blacks living in the inner city and for whites, working class, middle class and wealthy living in the suburbs," he said.

"It we don't take collective responsibility we'll have to live with the dire consquences of our neglect.'

Keith Browner is a pleasant, middle-aged man who teaches English at a Detroit-area high school. He has been married to Annie ("so intense, she dazzled him") for 17 years. And they are the parents of Harry, Jimmy and Julie. He is also a Little League coach, a "lover of jazz, bridge, poetry. Snow shoveler, Gardener. Carpenter." As this story begins, he and his family are ound for the small cottage they have rented for six summers now. It lies just a bit north of Bay City. Keith Browner, we soon learn, is dying of inoperable brain can-cer. Presented with this startling fact about such a vividly depicted character, a reader might at first assume this is a story about Keith Browner and his dying. But it isn't that. "Errands" is the story of his family and their survival.

In the center spotlight is his widow, Annie, former Hopwood recipient, Phi Beta Kappa, capable wife and mother, who abhors disorder and insists on a kind of "manageability" in life, when there simply will be none. Then 13-year-old Harry, who, after his father's death, secludes himself either in repellent behavior or silence that doors and windows like a suffocating tent." And 9-year-old Julie, articulating what may be what all modern mortals feel at some time: "I wish when people died, it would turn out they were just on some other channel." While Jimmy, between the two, tries to impose peace on his unwieldy surroundings, searching for answers in the magic of words and strange books like Secrets of the Druids." Some of Guest's secondary characters shine through. Harry's fellow adolescent, Rex

Beers, his gold earring aglitter, is somehow sinister and subtly pathetic at once. Involved in a troubled romantic subplot, Annie's sister, Jess, lends support, offers up peanut butter kisses and a bit of fun when it's sorely needed. Keith's mother, Nell, is an odd, shadowy reminder of the grieving mother in "Ordinary People."

You might say that the problems in this Job-like story turn out to be a problem. Guest's characters - especially Annie -suffer so much that the novel not on the frozen ground before he can begin to dig the small grave. Add to that the theft of a treasured item. Add to that, more than one harrowing accident. Add to that, Annie comes down with a case of the shingles.

Guest's brisk pacing, graceful prose and deftly drawn characters move the novel ever forward, though, making "Errands" difficult to let go of, despite some over-heavy burdens. The author's knowledge and eloquence in regard to the hearts of snatched away forever, leaving a young family stunned with pain and a sorrow that seems beyond expression?

This is what Judith Guest's principal characters wrestle with in this story that echoes to an extent her stunning debut novel of nearly 20 years ago, "Ordinary People." There, a young, suburban family struggles to come to terms with the drowning of a beloved son and brother. Here, a similar family faces the death of a husband and father. (Even some of Guest's characters in "Errands" appear to have seen another life in the earlier books.) Here, as in "Ordinary People," Guest brings compelling resonance and texture to the minutiae of daily life. From futile job interviews, to car trips with bickering kids, to peanut butter sandwiches and lumpy beds in lakeside summer cottages, she weaves it all together and plays it out against a tapestry of cos-mic proportions. Much of its appeal lies in the fact that, on only loses some of its plausibility but almost seems faintly ludicrous at times. Insult is added to injury after injury and salt heaped into already festering, terrible wounds.

On Top of unemployment, money troubles, feelings of guilt, work problems, sliding grades, truancy, loneliness, physical and mental exhaustion, rejection and a frightening disappearance on a sleet-filled night, a pet is run down on a day that is so cold, Harry must pour boiling water today's children is truly singular.

Judith Guest will speak at noon Thursday at the Fox Hills Country Club at a Friends of the Libraries (Plymouth, Canton, Northville and Novi) Author Luncheon sponsored by The Observer and Hometown newspapers. Tickets will not be sold at the door.

FINE ARTS Writers retreat conjures up Walden Pond

BY FRANK PROVENZANO STAFF WRITER

During the writing of "You Can't Go Home Again," novelist Thomas Wolfe, who stood 6-feet, 6 inches, used the top of a refrigerator as a writing desk. Not quite like the romantic image of Thoreau swatting mosquitoes during his utopian stint on Walden Pond.

Whether humming along to refrigerator sounds, or sitting in a hut, writers have yet to uncov-er the Holy Grail of the literary muse. Yet for many aspiring writers, the romance of the writing life persists.

Well, in a twist of fate that could be turned into a first novel, Cranbrook Schools is offering a practical path to the writing life with its first-ever retreat for writers, July 7 to August 8. Procrastinators beware. Finding time to write may no longer be an excuse.

Before the anecdotes start flying about the travails and triumphs of famous authors, however, Cranbrook is billing lecture by Thursday's poet/activist Sonia Sanchez as a precursor to the summer retreat.

Sanchez, who taught the first course on African-American women, will read from a selection of her 13 books as part of their annual Emily Fisher Lecture. Sanchez won the 1995 American Book Award for 'Homecoming, Homegirls and Hand Grenades." Currently, she's a professor of English and Women's Studies at Temple University.

Art of storytelling

Set amid the rolling hills of the sprawling Bloomfield Hills campus, the Cranbrook's summer writing retreat offers 32 weeklong workshops taught by an impressive range of poets, fiction and nonfiction writers, and screenwriters. Now that finding an inspiring location has been taken care of, the other side of writing will be addressed - the technique of crafting poetry and storytelling.

Among the workshop teachers are Alan Dugan, winner of a Pulitzer Prize and National Book Award for his collection of 'Writing is a private experience. People need reassurances that writing can clarify what they're thinking and feeling. " recent National Book Award nominee who gained prominence for appearing in the PBS special, "The Language of Life with Bill Moyers"; and Bill Phillips, whose screenwriting credits include "El Diablo," which won the Ace Award for Best Screenplay.

To add a dramatic sense of destiny to the retreat, Joshua Henkin will teach a midsummer short story workshop. Henkin's first novel, "Swimming Across the Hudson," published by Putnam, was released this week. The story of two adopted brothers coming to terms with their Jewish heritage has been praised by Publishers Weekly and Kirkus. In the next several weeks, reviews are expected in The New York Times Book Review, LA Times and Washington Post.

With the same agent who rep-resents literary legend Kurt Vonnegut and Amy Tan, Henkin may soon gain the attention of a broad public. The success hasn't come easily, he said. "You have to be patient and persevere," said Henkin.

"There's a tendency to be to eager. You should only send out your work when the time is right," he said. "The simple enjoyment of writing should be enough. But you have to remember that effortless writing takes years and years to develop."

Henkin, who is also a writing consultant in Ann Arbor, will sign copies of his latest book at Borders in Birmingham on April 24

Just write all the time

Cranbrook's program was started by English teachers Georgialee Scott and Tom Murdock, who designed the workshop after a writers retreat he established for the Fine Arts Works Center in Providencetown, Mass.

"If you want to write, then you have to write all the time and be around people who have written ... successfully," said Murdock.

Cranbrook's inaugural retreat... is one of the increasing number of writing programs in the country. Six years ago, according tom Murdock, the only reputable; retreat was sponsored by the University of Iowa. Today, there are about 20 workshops, typically organized to coincide with summer breaks.

Based on early responses to the retreat, Murdock expects a ... range of writers, from scribblers to scribers to "people who havethought about writing and want to do something about it."

For those who attend the retreat, expect to no longer use the line about not having enough time to write. If there's a place in the region that'll inspire the mysterious muse, it's the Cranbrook campus.

"Writing is a private experi-ence," said Murdock. "People need reassurances that writing can clarify what they're thinking and feeling. The pace of our culture keeps us from thoughtfulness and writing."

"I want everyone to participate in the dance, so I added a few new touches that involve the audience in more than one way," she said.

Breaking down what is known in theater as "the fourth wall" the perception that the audience is not part of the staged performance - is one of the ways that Eisenhower has distinguished her choreography.

"Laurie has taught me that there has to be something going on in your heart when you're performing," said Jodi Reneaud, of Troy who is one of the eight community dancers to perform in Eisenhower's "Catharsis."

A former student of Eisenhow er's who now dances with the Detroit Dance Collective, Reneaud said Eisenhower has an edge on other choreographers because of her versatility and drive. "Dancers definitely want to know when she's auditioning for the ensemble," said Reneaud.

After working for Pilobolus Dance Theatre and David Parsons in New York, Eisenhower went back to Arizona State where she earned a masters degree in dance. Eleven years ago, she arrived to teach dance on the faculty at Oakland University. Then in 1991, she began blending contemporary dance for a versatile ensemble of former dance students and colleagues.

The challenge, of course, was even bigger than establishing a nonprofit arts organization at a time when public funding was

For anyone who can appreciate Barry Sanders stepping magically through a defense, Grant Hill going airborne for a slam dunk or Steve Yzerman pirouetting to escape a defender, the sheer athleticism required for modern dancers could be simply summed up in two words - definitely cool.

Dancin' in Motown

"Dancers want to make it work right here in Detroit," said Eisenhower. The reality, however, is that it's nearly impossible to "dance for living" in this area.

To its credit, EDE is the only regional dance company in Michigan that provides regular rehearsal and performance pay for its versatile ensemble, which includes: Gregory Patterson, Anne Bak, Jacquelene Pierce, Darby Wilde, David Genson and Stephanie Pizzo, a founding member and Rochester resident. Two summers ago, Eisenhower opened the EDE Center in downtown Pontiac. Teachers at the center cover all types of dance, from ballroom to ballet.

This past year, EDE per-formed 10 concerts on a touring schedule that took them from metro Detroit to the northern Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and New York. Along the way, they held 20 lecture-presentations for students around the state

"The NEA is not supporting Creative Artists Grants in Dance," said Eisenhower. "If you're going to get government funding, you have to prove a service to the community.

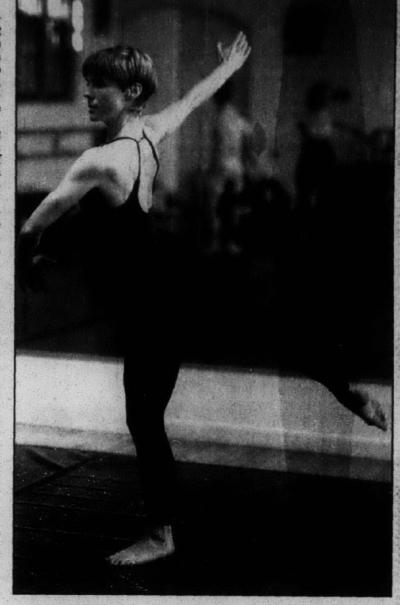

After the Macomb Center performance, EDE will travel to the Kalamazoo Middle School District for a month of performances and lectures.

In a much-awaited piece in their upcoming Friday concert, EDE will perform a dance by internationally known choreographer Mel Wong, whose work was financed by a grant from the McGregor Fund. Wong is a former dancer with the Merce Cunningham Dance Company and director of the Mel Wong Dance Company in New York.

The company will also perform Eisenhower's new collaboration with Michigan composer Karl Boelter. The piece features dancers creating part of the live music by making different sounds through the downstage sensor pads.

As the dancers stretch and shake their limbs to ward off nervous tension before Friday's concert, Eisenhower will be going over plans right up to the opening curtain. "The last three years have been spectacular," she said. "As long as we keep performing, we'll continue to grow.

With a name like Eisenhower, it's only natural that she appear very much like a General.

Disney World warm, friendly place for families

BY HUGH GALLAGHER STAFF WRITER

The Josephs of Canton wanted "someplace warm, someplace fun."

It took them only a week and a half to arrange what turned out to be a dream vacation to Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla., now celebrating its 25th anniver-

"We're very well organized," said Kathi Joseph.

Rob Joseph, who works for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, has been off work for a year, and wanted to do something with his family - son, Benjamin, 8, and daughter, Kelsey, 5 - before returning to work.

The Josephs had taken Benjamin to Disney World for two days when he was 5 and decided it was time for a return. They made their decision in late January and the first week in February they flew down to Disney World.

They planned to meet with relatives and did some quick, but thoughtful, investigation.

"We went to a bookstore and got (Stephen) Birnbaum's 'For Mickey hug: Kelsey Joseph gets a big hug from the star of Disney World, Mickey Mouse at MGM.

The books were invaluable in helping them decide what to see, when to go to which exhibits and how to negotiate the massive entertainment complex with two children. The books have detailed and easy to follow maps.

Benjamin even created his own list of "must sees" after reading "For Kids by Kids."

On their last visit, the family stayed at a motel in Orlando. This time they stayed "in the World" at the new All-Star Music hotel.

"There is absolutely no com-parison," said Kathi. "I would recommend staying inside Disney World if you can. It's especially easier with little kids. You walk right out to the shuttle buses and they drop you right at the main gate of all the attractions. You don't wait for huge lines. We even stayed until the parks closed and even then it was a lot easier."

She said that All-Star Music is one of the less expensive hotels on the property but still provided outstanding accommodations with a very solicitous staff.

The family arrived at 3:30 a.m. and the staff greeted them and found a crib.

Disney World had something for everyone in the family.

"My son liked Thunder Mountain railroad and Space Mountain. He's a real daredevil," Kathi said.

"Kelsey loved 'Small World.' We were tired of hearing that song, but she just loved it." Rob said a "definite must see" during the 25th anniversary is the special IllumiNations 25 show at Epcot. IllumiNations is a regular part of the World experience, but this year's IllumiNations 25 has been given a special twist for the anniversary. Another anniversary twist - Cinderella's Castle has been redone as a colorful birthday cake.

The Josephs didn't spend a lot of time at Epcot, which they said is geared more to older children and adults. They divided their time between MGM, a real favorite of Rob's, and the Magic Kingdom.

They ate breakfast at the hotel, which they said was reasonably priced.

"We ate at the Crystal Palace, lunch and dinner with Winniethe-Pooh," said Kathi. "The characters came around to each table."

The Josephs also enjoyed a dinner at Max's Grill in Disney's new "real world" Celebration City

"I'd love to live there, a small town USA kind of setting, real clean," Kathi said.

The Josephs also suggest that visitors check out the new Rainforest Cafe which features a "tropical rainforest" and an active volcano, waterfalls, butterflies, playful primates and an occasional rain shower.

College news

•It was a big week for University of Detroit Mercy's baseball team.

The Titans beat Eastern Michigan 11-10 April 3, then swept a double-header with Wisconsin-Milwaukee 5-3 and 16-15 last Sunday before splitting a second twinbill with the Panthers, winning 13-11 and losing 9-5 on Monday.

Ed Gundry, the senior third baseman from Plymouth Salem, certainly did his share. In the second game last Sunday, he slugged a two-run double in the bottom of the ninth inning to ignite a five-run rally in UDM's 16-15 win.

Gundry had four hits and three RBI in that game. In Monday's first game, he continued his clutch hitting by smacking a home run in the Titans' 13-11 victory. A six-run ninth enabled UDM to overcome an 11-7 deficit.

Gundry had three hits and five RBI to spark the Titans. For the season, Gundry ranks among the top 10 hitters in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference with a .412 average. UDM improved to 10-10 overall and 5-1 in the MCC.

In the April 3 win over EMU, the Titans rallied from a 7-0 deficit to claim the win. Junior Dave Knight, from Plymouth Salem, singled in the game-winning run in UDM's four-run eighth inning.

•It was a big meet, and University of Detroit Mercy's men's track team handled it pretty well.

At the Northwest Ohio Track and Field Classic last weekend in Bowling Green, the Titans won one event and had several other impressive showings.

One of the impressive: junior Jeff Keith, from Plymouth Canton, finished eighth in the steeplechase in 10:08.61.

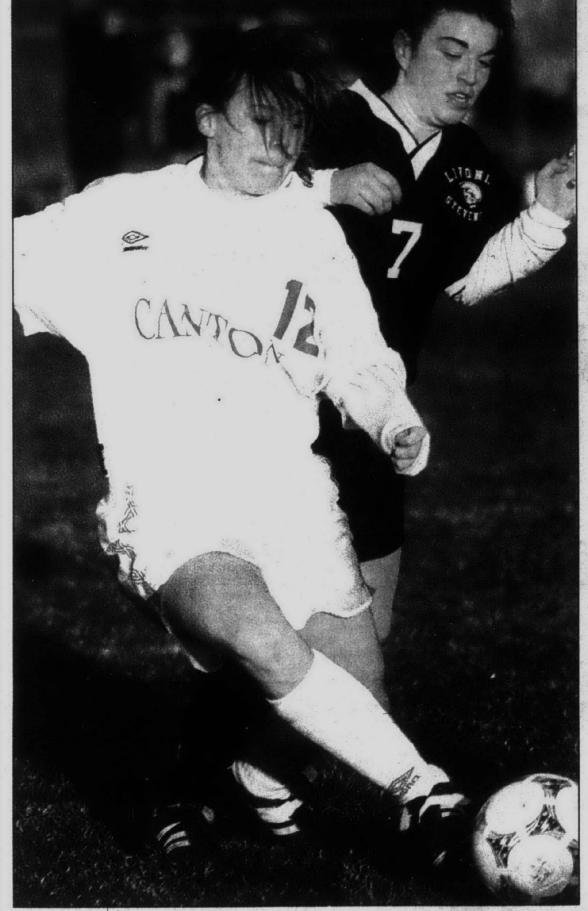

•It's going to get pretty busy for University of Michigan softball pitcher Kelly Holmes, a senior from Plymouth Canton.

Holmes was No. 2 on the U-M staff behind Sara Griffin; she had pitched in 17 of the Wolverines' first 41 games, posting an 8-5 record with a 1.62 earned run average in 82 innings.

But on April 5, Griffin - playing third base at the time - collided with a teammate and suffered a double-bone fracture to her left (nonthrowing) arm. She underwent successful surgery, but it is uncertain she will be back before the close of the season.

Which means Holmes is in for a lot more work

Canton, Stevenson: No score

This match belonged in the mid-season some where - not as an opener.

INSIDE

But those options aren't always available. So-Plymouth Canton's girls soccer team, which had last Monday's game cancelled due to a power outage at Canton, had to start its season against one of the state's toughest teams, Livonia Stevenson.

And as one might expect, it was closely played all the way through, the match finally ending in a scoreless tie Wednesday at Canton.

Which in itself was rather rare. Indeed, Canton coach Don Smith couldn't remember the last time his Chiefs had played a match that neither team scored in.

"It's been a while," he said. "This was a good ball game. They pretty much dominated play in the first half, but we came back in the second.

"They were more ready for us at the start of the game than we were for them. We didn't play; badly - we stayed with them, and we really didn't play so hot."

Having teams psyched to play them should be no surprise to the Chiefs, the reigning Class A. state champions. "They wanted us badly," Smith said.

The Spartans, who opened their season last Monday with a rout of Walled Lake Western, had the better scoring chances in the first half, taking nine shots to Canton's three - and making Kristin Lukasik's first start in goal against a quality opponent a tough one.

But Lukasik was up to the challenge, stopping all 14 shots she faced to record the shutout.

"It was a wake-up call for us," said Smith. "You need a ball game like this to let you know what you've got to work on real hard.

"We've got a good, solid group. We've just got some rough edges."

Last Monday's game at Walled Lake Central has been rescheduled for May 2, again at Central.

Novi 4, Salem 1: No, that's no misprint. It's a sign that the competition is catching up.

Novi took advantage of Plymouth Salem's rebuilt defense, using its direct, long-ball strategy to perfection Friday at Salem in beating the Rocks for the first time ever.

The good news is, this is one of our first games," said Salem coach Doug Landefeld. "We have some new defenders in back and they had trouble adjusting to (Novi's) style. Once we got down a couple of goals, we kind of lost what we wanted to do."

The Wildcats led 2-0 at halftime. Salem's only particularly with the Big Ten season starting to roll.

Whalers honored

Robert Esche, the Detroit Whalers' anchor in goal, and coach Peter DeBoer were both named to the Ontario Hockey League's all-league third team

Esche, an 18-year-old native of Whitesboro, N.Y., led the OHL in minutes played; he finished with a 24-28-2 record and two shutouts, recording a 3.81 goals-against average.

He was named a starting goalie in the OHL all-star game and was selected to start for Team USA in the World Junior Championships. He finished third in the OHL Goaltender of the Year balloting.

DeBoer guided the Whalers to a sixth-consecutive playoff appearance, with a mostly rookie club. The Whalers placed fourth in the OHL's West Division with a 26-34-6 regular-season record.

Fishing derby

It's that time again.

The Canton Parks and Recreation Services is sponsoring its annual Kids Fishing Derby Saturday, May 11 at Heritage Park.

The park's ponds will be stocked with rainbow trout. Prizes will be raffled off each hour.

The competition is open to Canton residents only; boys and girls 15-years-old and under. They must supply their own bait and equipment.

Entry fee is $1, to be paid the day of the event. A fishing license will be provided at check-in.

Advanced registration is required, in person at the Parks and Rec offices, 46000 Summit Parkway in Canton, or by calling (313) 397-5110.

Softball tryouts

Due to Saturday's expected inclement weather, tryouts for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League's under-12 girls fast-pitch softball travel team have been rescheduled, to 6-8 p.m. Monday at Lowell Middle School.

Questions should be directed to Fran Jurcak at (313) 454-7351.

Dekhockey sign-up

Registration for all leagues at the Michigan Dekhockey Center, located on Michigan in Canton, is currently underway through April 20. Games begin April 28.

Leagues are open for ages four and over. The Center offers Dekhockey/floor hockey, played in gym shoes, and in-line/roller hockey, played with in-line skates. Equipment is required. Also, the IDTA Senior B Regional Dekhockey Tournament will be at Michigan Dekhockey April 26-27.

Teams will be competing for prizes and a berth in the U.S. Nationals next month in Leominster, Maine. Entry fee is $250.

For further information, call (313) 397-8900.

Rocks improve to 3-0

Well, so far so good. Plymouth Salem improved its baseball record to 3-0 last Wednesday with a solid, 9-3 victory over Livonia Franklin at Salem.

The Rocks struck for two runs in the second and added three more in the third, then rode three innings of solid relief pitching from Kurt Berlin to the victory.

'Katies' will keep Salem in hunt; Canton is better

BY NEAL ZIPSER STAFF WRITER

Several years ago, you could always expect to see a Nick at the top of the PGA leader board. If it wasn't Nick Faldo, it was Nick Price. In the Western Lakes Activities Association this season, you'll proba-bly see a Katie near the top of every meet that includes Plymouth Salem Katie Collins or Katie Murinas.

The two seniors provide the Rocks with a one-two punch than many other schools in the state can't boast. Collins was the WLAA medalist last season while Murinas was a qualifier for the state meet.

"I can honestly say they may both be in the top 10 golfers in the state," Salem coach Rick Wilson said. The two Katies will hope to lead the Rocks past defending leaguechampion Livonia Stevenson and 7

Collins won the WLAA meet, firing a season-low 84 at Huron Meadows. Wilson believes a poor showing in the regional meet a week before the WLAA championship proved to be the motivation Collins needed.

"She's still motivated and I think she'll do everything she can to quali-fy for the state," Wilson said. "She has an overall quality game, but is very good with chipping and putting. Bernard sparks Canton win |Salem runs over Churchill

If the rest of the season can only match opening day

That must be what Brandi Bernard is thinking after leading her Plymouth Canton girls track team to a 75-53 season-opening, dual-meet victory over Westland John Glenn Thursday at Canton.

Bernard combined three unlikely events into three individual firsts for the Chiefs. She won the discus (103-feet, 7-inches) and shot put (33-1 1/2) - and then the 800-meter run (2:35.3).

"It was a phenomenal day for Bernard," said Canton coach George Przygodski. "It was the first time we've used her as a runner, but it's better late than never.

"I always wanted to do it, but I never took advantage of it. She's quite a competitor.'

So, too, are a lot of her teammates. The Chiefs won three of four relays and finished first in both hurdles

Alina Boyden, Doris Igwe, Kim Robertson and Laura Barker captured the 400 relay (54.2); Nancy Hoffman, Tiffany

GIRLS TRACK

Williams, Bernard and Becky Uryga were best in the 1,600 (4:31.3); and Christiana Bradford, Sarah Rucinski, Angkana Roy and Amy Klim topped the field in the 3,200 (11:21.3).

In the hurdles, Amy Sonnanstine won the 100 (16.5) and Hoffman was first in the 300 (51.6). Canton's other first went to Uryga in the 400 (1:02.9). Canton hosts Walled Lake Western in its first Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division dual meet of the season at 5:30 p.m. Thursday

Salem routs Churchill

Domination was the only way to describe Plymouth Salem's season-opening dual meet at Livonia Churchill Thursday.

The Rocks won all but two events in their 102-26 victory. Lisa Maul and Rachel Jones led the way with two individual firsts each.

Maul won both the 100-meter (16.66) and 300-meter (51.3) hurdles; Jones' victories came in the 100 (13.13) and 200 (28.09) dash-

In the field events, the Rocks were winners in the shot put, with Jessica Ash (33-feet, 0-inches); the discus, with Tiffany Grabaugh (106-7); and the high jump, with Kristin Kosik (5-2).

Joining Jones and Maul as individual event winners were Katie Bonner in the 400 (1:02.3); Ellen Stemmer in the 800 (2:31.2); Evelyn Rahhal in the 1,600 (5:32.32); and Nicole Bolton in the 3,200 (11:50.95).

In the relays, Salem's Ruth Viforeanu, Mari Disbrow, Kristie Giddings and Bonner won the 400 (53.91); Jones, Candace Lynett, Aleshka Marquez and Angie Sillmon were first in the 800 (1:55.01); and Viforeanu, Disbrow, Maul and Giddings captured the 1,600 (4:23.22).

Salem travels to Walled Lake Central for a WLAA Lakes Division dual meet at 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

The field events weren't too good for Plymouth Salem in its season-opening boys track dual meet Thursday against visiting Livonia Churchill. But the Rocks dominated everywhere else, especially in the relays, which they swept en route to a 94-52 triumph.

"We're real happy with the way we performed today," said Salem coach Geoff Baker. "We've got a great group of juniors right now. So we've got a good young team.

Scott Kingslien was Salem's lone double-winner in individual events, capturing first in the 100-meter (11.4) and 200-meter (23.5) dashes. The Rocks won six of the eight individual track events, but just one field event - the high jump, which was captured by Mike Discher (6-feet).

All four relay events went to Salem. Lawrence Nunn, Mike Shull, James Chapman and Dave Clemons were first in the 400 (47.1); Nunn, Shull, Chris Mason and Kingslien won the 800 (1:37.0); Ian Searcy, Charlie Schmidt, Andy Briggs and rendered four runs (two earned)

BOYS TRACK

Kingslien captured the 1,600 (3:38.5); and Kevin Conte, Schmidt, Searcy and Briggs were tops in the 3,200 (8:48.6).

Other individual winners for Salem were Jon Little in the 3,200 (10:21.6); Adam Thurtell in the 800 (2:11.0); and Rob Hawley in the 300 hurdles (42.7).

Briggs and Searcy shared a first in the 400, tying in 52.2.

Rockets rip Canton

Plymouth Canton had a lot of kids to transport to Thursday's season-opening dual meet at Westland John Glenn, but competing against one of the Western Lakes Activities Association's title contenders did not result in many points for the Chiefs.

Canton managed to collect just three first-place finishes, and distance standout Shaun Moore accounted for two of them in Glenn's 99-38 triumph.

Moore won both the 1,600meter (4:47.3) and 3,200-meter (10:52.2) runs. The Chiefs other first came in the 3,200 relay, from Sanjay Sharma, Steve Blossom, Adam DeGiorgio and Jon Page (8:41.2).

Canton coach Bob Richardson needed a couple of buses to get his 88-person team to Glenn. It is the biggest Chiefs' team in recent memory; last year, Richardson said they had a goodsized squad of 48.

"We had some flexibility with last year's team, but not like this year," he said.

That flexibility is something that might take a while to sort through, with so many candidates. "We've got a pretty good grasp on things in some areas," Richardson said. "But there's going to be some switching.

"There's been so much competition in practice, it's been wonderful. We like that; we like to let the kids know that if they work hard, they'll get their chance.'

Hopefully, they'll be enough chances to go around.

Lady Crusaders take a pair from Calvin

MADONNA

Despite their defensive miscues, Madonna University's softball team managed to eke out not one but two dramatic comefrom-behind wins over Calvin College Wednesday, 5-4 and 7-5 in eight innings, at Ladywood

In the opener, Dawn Shaffer slammed a two-run double in the bottom of the seventh with one out to turn a one-run deficit into a victory. Melissa McGue added two hits and two runs batted in, and both Angie VanDoorn and Shawna Greene had two hits on eight hits and two walks, with two strikeouts. Shauna Koolhaas was the loser for Calvin. In the second game, the Crusaders were saved by the power hitting of Greene, Price and Vicki Malkowski, each of whom slugged home runs - Malkowski's coming with a runner on in the bottom of the eighth to win the game.

Madonna needed all of it after committing six errors, which led to four unearned runs. Combined with the two the Crusaders made in the first game, their total grew to 48 in 22 games this season — an average of more than two a game.

A four-run fourth inning allowed the Saints to take a 5-2 lead. Madonna battled back on Greene's three-run homer in the fifth, tying it at 5-5. It remained that way through regulation until the bottom of the eighth, when Malkowski slammed her game-winning, two-run home run.

For Shaffer, who had singled prior to Malkowski's home run, the homer was her fourth of the season. Malkowski also had two hits.

VanDoorn pitched all eight innings for Madonna, allowing five hits and four walks with four strikeouts; only one of the five runs she allowed was earned. Amy Slings took the loss for Calvin.

The wins lifted the Crusaders' record to 13-8-1. Calvin is 12-10.

Olivet 6, Madonna 4 (baseball): Three Olivet College pitchers stopped Madonna University on five hits and three walks Wednesday in a nine-inning game at Madonna Park in Livo-

Adding to the Fighting Crusaders' woes (they fell to 9-16 with the loss) were eight errors, including three by senior third baseman Dan Taylor and two more by sophomore first baseman Jeff Warholik.

Only one of the Comets' six runs was earned.

Eric Butler fell to 0-3 with the defeat. He started and lasted two innings, giving up three runs (one earned) on two hits.

For Olivet, Gary Gray tossed four one-hit, one-walk, scoreless innings to start the game. Mike Muller was the winner in relief, going 3 2/3 innings and allowing four runs (one earned) on three hits and two walks. He struck out three. Bryan Carpenter got the save.

Aaron Shrewsbury had two of Madonna's five hits, one of them a solo home run.

The win improved Olivet's record to 14-8.

Stacy Stevens started and took the loss for Glenn.

Angela Litwin had two hits for the Chiefs, who had 10 players collect hits. Sarah Carson contributed a hit and two runs batted in, and Tara Biro collected a run-scoring double.

Franklin 11, Salem 0: Pitcher Lori Jendrusik appears to be coming of age in her junior season for the Livonia Franklin softball team.

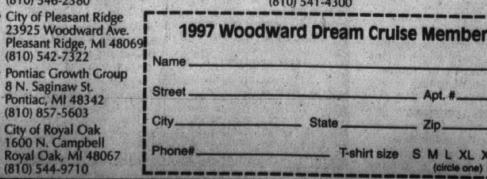

Certainly Plymouth Salem proved no match for her in the Rocks' season-opener Wednesday at Franklin.

Jendrusik tossed a no-hitter against Salem. She struck out 12 and walked four. She also helped her own cause with a two-run single. Randi Wolfe added a three-run triple, while Jackie Ziem had an RBI single.

Shannon Coultas, the Salem starter, took the loss.

Warriors speed past foes in season-opener

Lutheran High Westland was running on all cylinders in its season-opening boys track meet Tuesday. The Warriors scored a team-high 187 points followed by Southfield Christian (56), Harp-er Woods (48), Bloomfield Hills Roeper (30) and Plymouth Christian Academy (16). Luke Horton figured in four first place finishes Lutheran Westland.

The senior won the pole vault (10 feet, 6 inches) and 200-yard dash (25.1).

He also teamed up with Albert Cook, Chris Broge and Bill Garlick to win the 440 relay in 47.7. The foursome of Horton, Broge, Jake Hatten and Dustin Campbell added a win in the 880 relay

(1:41.3). Chris Latimer swept the mile (5:03.2) and two-mile (11:26.2) runs

Other Lutheran Westland firsts were recorded by Jon Kamin, shot put, 37-11 3/4; Bill Garlick, discus, 108-1; Campbell, long jump, 18-9; Ryan Ollinger, 120-yard hurdles, 16.9; Hatten, 440 run, 57.5; and Andy Ebendick, 880, 2:09.9.

The foursome of Phil Wagner, Campbell, Hatten and Ebendick took the mile relay (3:52.4), while Dan Burk, Ken Broge, Jason McFall and Ebendick captured the two-mile relay (9:36.0).

Spartan distance corps proves too fast for Harrison

Livonia Stevenson dominated the distance events Thursday to offset Farmington Hills Harrison in the sprints to earn a 66-62 girls track victory.

Kelly Travis and Kelly McNeilance led the victorious Spartans, now 2-0 on the year.

Travis swept the 800- and 1,600-meter runs with times of 2:29.8 and 5:27.29, respectively. She also teamed up with Katie Sherron, Nicole Dettloff and Christie Tzilos to win the 1.600 relay in 4:19.0.

Meanwhile, McNeilance won the 400 (1:04.29) and 3,200 (12:10.2). She also teamed up with Travis, sister Kim McNeilance and Danielle Harris to win the 3,200 relay (10:34.2).

Other Stevenson firsts were recorded by Emily Yambasky in the discus and Tzilos in the 300 hurdles (48.3).

Mahogony Fletcher captured three events for the Hawks (0-1) including the long jump, 15-11 3/4; 100 dash, 13.4; and 200,

Notre Dame ambushes CC with no-hitter in sweep

Redford Catholic Central was the victim of a no-hitter Wednesday, and ended up losing both ends of a baseball double-header to host Harper Woods Notre Dame, 3-0 and 11-8.

The sweep left the Shamrocks at 2-2 overall, 0-2 in the Catholic League Central Division.

ND's senior ace Matt Stoiyuvich kept the Shamrocks hitless in the first game while walking three and striking out 15. One of the Shamrocks reached base on an error.

All three of the ND runs came in the second inning off CC's starting and losing pitcher Anthony Tomey.

Tomey walked the first four batters he faced to force in one run. Four stolen bases, a sacrifice fly and error led to the other two runs.

"Other than that he pitched real well," CC coach John Salter said.

The Irish scored four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to erase an 8-7 deficit in the second game.

The Shamrocks outhit the Irish, 10-8, but committed six errors to three by ND

Sophomore shortstop Dave Lusky went 2-for-3 with three RBI to lead CC. Both of his hits were doubles

Senior outfielder John DiBella went 2-3 with a sacrifice fly and one RBI. Matt Firlik was 2-4, including a double, and one RBI.

Mike Haller was CC's starting pitcher, lasting four innings before being lifted. He allowed four runs, all unearned.

Tony Nozewski was the losing pitcher in relief. Lusky is hitting over .500 to lead the

Shamrocks' offense

"He could be a big-timer, has a lot of skills and confidence," Salter said.

•STEVENSON 10, NORTHVILLE 0: Pitchers Jason Greenwald and Kevin Marvin combined on a two-hitter, while Justin Kerr knocked in four runs, propelling Livonia Stevenson to a seasonopening victory Wednesday over the visiting Mustangs.

Greenwald, a senior right-hander, worked the first three innings, allowing one hit while fanning six. Marvin, also a senior right-hander, finished Kerr belted a three-run homer to spark a fiverun Spartan first inning. He also added an RBI double in the second.

Todd Wilson added two doubles and two RBI. while Mike Allison and Eric Yuhasz each contributed two hits.

.CHURCHILL 6, GARDEN CITY 2: Junior Corey Cook made his varsity debut a memorable one Friday by throwing a one-hitter, leading host Livonia Churchill (1-1) to a non-league win over the Cougars.

Cook, a right-hander, struck out five and walked only two. He allowed a second-inning hit to Eric Rutkowski.

"Corey did a very good job, he got the ball over the plate," Churchill coach Herb Osterland

Junior shortstop Jeff Lyday also had a big afternoon, going 3-for-3 with a double and four RBI. Cook helped his own cause by going 2-for-3 with a double and two runs scored.

On Wednesday, Dan Drapel scored the winning run on a walk with the bases loaded in the bottom of the seventh, enabling host Walled Lake Central to escape with a 3-2 win over the Charg-

•DEARBORN 7, FRANKLIN 6: Livonia Franklin (0-2) fell apart defensively, making six errors Friday as the host Pioneers (1-0) gained non-league victory

Franklin out-hit Dearborn, 9-6, as Dave Wampler, Ryan Davis, Matt Downs and losing pitcher Nick Anagnostopoulos each collected two hits as the Patriots battled back from a 5-3 .

Wampler had three RBI, including a two-run double. Davis scored three runs. Downs had an RBI and scored twice.

Anagnostopoulos pitched six innings, allowing six hits and four walks.

On Wednesday, Franklin lost at Plymouth Salem, 9-3, as Ryan Rumberger homered and Alec Ras added two hits and stole four bases.

Franklin starter Dave Wampler, who took the loss, gave up five earned runs in four innings. He struck out nine.

Salem starter Tom DeMetsenare pitched the first four innings to earn the win. Reliever Kurt Berlin held the Patriots scoreless over the final three innings.

Wampler led Franklin with two hits, including an RBI single. Brandon Bell doubled in a run, while John Haas singled in a run, both coming in the fourth.

upon herself to improve her short game."

Murinas, who like Collins averaged in the mid 40s, shot an 85 in last year's regional. She went on to shoot a 90 in the state tournament, but impressed Wilson by shooting a 42 on the back nine holes.

"She's a long-ball hitter and can really drive the ball," Wilson said. "She does have to improve on her short game some. Her putting is what's separating her from doing some great things."

The key to Salem's success may not be the Katies, however. Instead, it will be how well the rest of the team shoots, according to Wilson.

Seniors Julie Licata (53 average) and Chrystal Kopacz (58) and junior Jessica Hedges will provide some needed experience on the fairways.

An early season surprise for the Rocks has been the emergence of freshman Angela Jones. Jones is a physically strong player who has the potential to be a great golfer, according to Wilson.

Other Rocks expected to contribute include junior Michelle

Anger, sophomore Grace Yelonek and freshman Kim Tamme. "If the Katies score as well as they can, all we'll need are some a couple other good scores," Wilson said. "We're far from a stateranked team, but we'll be competitive," Wilson said.

The Salem golfers may also show more comfort with Wilson. The 15-year coach of the boys squad took over the task for the girls team last season and needed some time to adjust.

"Coaching the girls was a big change, but after awhile, I realized they were motivated to improve and wanted to be competitive just like the boys," Wilson said. "I began treating them like I did the boys team and the girls responded well."

The Rocks will have their first chance to see how well they fare with the state's best teams on Monday when they compete in a tournament with Grosse Isle, the defending Class B state champion.

Plymouth Canton

If it's true that golf is a mental game, than Plymouth Canton may be in thick of things in the WLAA title hunt. With most of the Chiefs carrying above 3.5 grade-point averages, coach Dan Riggs is confident his team will show its smarts. However, the 14-year coach is realistic about beating out Salem, Stevenson and Northville.

"This is a better team than last season from top to bottom, but we'll be happy coming in fourth place in the league," said Riggs, whose team finished in sixth place last season. "This team definitely has the tools to finish that high."

Alyson Young, a 4.1 GPA holder. Young, who averaged 52 last season, uses her intelligence to provide her with the mental stability many other golfers don't have, according to Riggs.

"Her brains and easy-going nature will pay off in golf," the Canton coach said. "I think she'll sneak up and surprise some people this year."

Junior Sandra Pavlo (52) is similar to Young, just a year younger, Riggs said. In addition to her smarts, she has excellent mechanics and is good around the green.

Young and Pavlo were inter-Leading the way is senior changeable last season in the team's top four finishers. The other two golfers - Kim Stafford and Anne Alioto - were both lost to graduation.

Making up for the loss of Stafford and Alioto is freshman Julie Dziekan, who Riggs first discovered just a month ago. The diminutive (just 4-foot-8) golfer has looked impressive with her mechanics and poise.

Dziekan will battle for time on the course with junior Lindsay Miller, who improved with winter lessons and is hitting the ball well

Riggs hopes seniors Amy Siegrist and Jessica Dumas continue to show their improvement. Both came on strong last season and are now showing greater confidence.

Riggs also expects newcomer Stephanie Koppe, a sophomore, to see some action.

"We were competitive last year with the top teams, losing to Salem by one stroke, beating Northville and losing to Stevenson by less than 10 strokes," Riggs said. "We got to the top of the cliff but just couldn't get over it."

id you know that our carriers are in business for themselves? We call them Junior Merchants and they are committed to getting the fruits of a lot of people's labor on your doorstep twice each week. And, like business people everywhere, their goal is customer satisfaction. But their job doesn't end there. Other business skills include keeping accurate records and reporting information on time.

There are a lot of famous names in the Newspaper Association of America's Carrier Hall of Fame-three presidents, Hoover, Truman, and Eisenhower. There are spiritual leaders, Norman Vincent Peale and Martin Luther King, Jr, there are astronauts and poets and entertainers. All of them recognizable not only for their talent, but for their values and character.

We think a carrier route is an excellent way to learn responsibility, respect for others, and a sense of what it takes to earn a dollar these days. If you agree and would like to put your son's or daughter's name on our waiting list to become a carrier, give us a call-who knows? Between us, we may be giving the world another president or poet.

RECREATION

The longer daylight periods of spring bring warmer temperatures and begin to warm the soil. Warm soil and an internal clock that runs in many animals are the two clues that are used by hibernating animals to awaken in spring.

Amphibians, like frogs and toads and salamanders, will be down at the local ponds shortly to begin their spring ritual of courtship. Tiger salamanders emerge in large numbers from their wintering sites on the night of the first warm rain in April. Unlike frogs and toads, they don't make noise when they reach the breeding ponds. Their courtship is a silent underwater dance.

Spring peepers and chorus frogs, on the other hand, are vocal. Their songs coordinate the efforts of the group and stimulate the individuals to come down to the pond. If they don't come when everyone is there, they will miss a year's worth of breeding. Frogs have a short period when they're active in courtship.

I'm amazed these cold blooded animals are able to survive the cold Michigan winters and begin their courtship activities each spring as they have done for thousands of years.

Some of these frogs don't bury themselves in the water beneath the ice where it stays fairly warm. There are some frogs that only burrow under leaves or under logs for protection during winter.

Scientists have found ice inside some of these hibernating frogs.

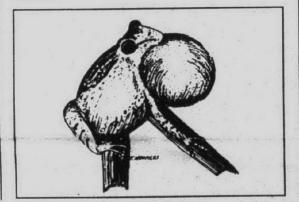

If water expands when it forms ice, how do these animals avoid cell damage?

One scientist designed a microscope that was used to watch the formation of ice inside a cell in the presence of glycerol, a naturally occurring antifreeze formed in many cold-blooded animals that hibernate.

As the ice crystals were forming they didn't develop sharp points like typical ice crystals. Though the ice formed inside the body, the rounded points did not cause puncturing of the cells.

Isn't the natural world amazing!

Ernie Lixey, now 52, has a picture of himself at age 16 posing with his idol on the ski slopes, Cass Zorlikowski.

Lixey will tell you that only he and the picture have aged.

The ageless wonder is Zorlikowski, a 76-yearold Livonian who has trouble acting his age even as he enters his third month battling prostate cancer

Zorlikowski has lost most of his hair as he undergoes chemotherapy every three weeks, but not his love of competition.

Only warm weather will keep the three-time national masters champion off the slopes.

"The doctor said 'Do what you normally do. If you're not weak, do it,' " said Zorlikowski, who won the 60-65, 70-74 and 75-79 age groups nationally and was fifth in the world in the over 75 age group.

If Zorlikowski is breathing, he's skiing.

Lixey and Zorlikowski first met 36 years ago at a Detroit News Ski Tournament in the metro area. Lixey, an accomplished skier himself, used to manage the Bavarian Village on Telegraph Road in Redford Township and Zorlikowski was one of his regular customers.

Lixey said Zorlikowski has a "heart of gold." "He's always been my idol," said Lixey. "He might be limping a little, bent over, but on skis Ageless skler: Cass Zorlikowski, 76, of Livonia, keeps on skiing despite his battle with cancer.

him on an off day or something but the next day you've got to be on your toes again."

This is truly a remarkable man. A former Polish national junior champion, Zorlikowski also played semi-professional hockey and a high level of soccer over the years.

He last played hockey competitively three years ago and until last year played in an over-30 men's soccer league.

"I wasn't just a number," he said. "I played most of the game."

Tennis was a hobby for Zorlikowski.

"I used to have a tennis partner, but my arm is bad now," he said. "I tried to switch to being lefthanded but that's like trying to walk before you can crawl. I had it separated in hockey.

Zorlikowski started skiing at age 6 in his native land. His parents owned a ski resort, which gave him an advantage over his peers.

"The hill was right there behind my house," he said. "How could you go wrong? In the winter it snowed a lot. You used your skis to get around." Zorlikowski didn't have the benefit of chair lifts or even ropes to carry them up the hill. To get to the top, you might as well pack a lunch.

"It was a two hour walk for a 10 minute ride," Zorlikowski recalls. "That's why my legs are still strong at 76.

Zorlikowski became a Junior National Cham-medal dream.

Zorlikowski's stint in the war landed him in England. After the war, he played semi-professional hockey for a team from Liverpool.

"I'd ski in the day and play hockey at night," Zorlikowski said.

Zorlikowski met his wife of 47 years, Olwyn, at a dance hall in Liverpool. A few years later they came to the United States and settled in Redford Township.

Cass worked in quality control for 24 years for Pyles Industries in Wixom before retiring. She worked in accounts payable for 231/2 years at Ward Baking Co. in Detroit before retiring.

Cass also was a ski instructor at Mt. Brighton and a ski coach for Farmington Hills Mercy and Detroit Catholic Central. He coached the Michigan Wolves "1977" club soccer team that included Observerland stars like Jeff Fliss and Scott Babinski.

When it comes to sports, he and his wife are opposites.

"We're like chalk and cheese, that's an English expression," said Olwyn, of Welsh decent.

They have no children so their dog Misha gets all their attention.

New season

As of April 1, Michigan anglers needed a new fishing license. And there are some changes in store.

License fees and structure have changed as part of the new hunting and fishing license package passed by the Legislature last year, according to the state Department of Natural Resources

•Stamps are no longer used. Anglers now purchase either restricted licenses, which are valid for all species except trout and salmon, or all-species licenses. A restricted license for anglers age 17-64 costs $13. An all- species license for anglers in the same age group is $26.

•Senior fishing licenses cost $5.20 for a restricted license and $10.40 for an all-species license.

•A voluntary $2 young angler all-species fishing license is available for anglers 12-16 years old, with the money going to the DNR's Youth Education and Outreach Fund.

•The previous sportsperson's license has been replaced with the option of purchasing any four fishing and hunting licenses at one time at a 15 percent discount.

For more information, contact the DNR at (517) 373-0908 or call the fishing hotline at 1-800-ASK-FISH. The DNR is on the Internet at www.dnr.state.mi.us and click on fisheries division.

Regulation changes

The DNR has changed fishing regulations in southeastern Michigan.

•Anglers in the Detroit River downstream from an east-west line from the southern tip of •The possession limit for trout on a two-mile stretch of the Huron River which flows through the Proud Lake Recreation area has been reduced to three fish during the regular trout season April 26-Sept. 30.

Free camping

Free camping is available this summer in Michigan for folks who volunteer as campground hosts at Michigan State Parks or State Forests.

Duties include greeting campers, explaining fees, light maintenance and answering questions.

The requirements are: be at least 18 years old, attend a training session May 14-16 in Roscommon, serve for at least four weeks, provide your own camping equipment and be available at the campground for five days each week.

These gals have the strongest ladies' league in the nation, and this proved to be all the more true a week back as two teammates rolled 300 games at the same time, in their third game of the evening. I was there earlier, left before it happened, so unfortunately I missed watching as Janet "Sam" Greaves of Waterford and Cheryl Roberts of Redford were matching strikes all the way, bowling No. 3 and No. 4 in the lineup.

For Sam, it was her first perfect game, the second for Cheryl, and when it was noted that Greaves had finished game 2 with a six-bagger, it added up to 18 in a row for her. Anyone who wants to watch the best women bowlers around can come down

MEDICAL BRIEFS

Exercise tips

If your exercise routine varies with the weather and you tend not to exercise over the winter months, the earlier days of warmer weather in the spring may bring the "usual" muscle soreness, aches and pains when you begin exercising again.

"If you haven't been exercising over the winter months, begin your spring program sensibly," said Jody Tomasic, director, Oakwood Sports Medicine and Physical Therapy Center. "Return to your sport or activity gradually, addressing the following elements to prevent injury or soreness: strength, flexibility, endurance or aerobic capacity and sport-specific training."

•Strength. It is important to have strong muscles to help avoid injury. They must be able to hold or sustain activity when it is demanded of them. If a weakness exists, the weak muscles may be injured because they cannot withstand the demand or different muscles may be used to perform a movement or stabilize a joint.

•Flexibility. A very important, but often ignored, aspect of preparing for exercise is muscle stretching. The result of leaving stretching out of an exercise program can be unnecessary stiffness, sometimes even injuries to joins, cartilage, tendons and muscles.

•Endurance or aerobic capacity. Endurance is important for exercise on two levels: the heart or cardiac and respiratory endurance as well as endurance capacity at the muscle level. An endurance activity also helps you to lose those extra pounds put on over the winter months.

•Sport-specific training. Because exercise often demands a combination of movement, simple calisthenics and aerobic exercise like walking or running may not completely prepare you for a specific sport or activity. In a sport that includes throwing, it would be important to include a gradual throwing program in your preparation. A throwing program includes throwing a short distance with minimal effort.

Those who are exercising should warm up by walking or jogging for approximately five minutes, to break a slight sweat. Exercisers should dress appropriately for the variable spring temperatures

Prevention of injury and soreness is the best approach and this can be achieved by continuing an exercise program throughout the year.

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI SPECIAL WRITER

If you've ever wished your teen-ager came with a user's manual, "Healthy Teens: Success in High School and Beyond" by Alice R. McCarthy, Ph.D., offers a resource during the most precarious time of your child's life.

Depression, violence, eating disorders and substance abuse are among the issues discussed in this frank and detailed 114-page resource.

No one knows better about the pitfalls during this precarious time of life than a teen who has experimented with drugs, landed in jail and is in the process of changing.

Brian Goris, a 16-year-old Commerce Township resident, was referred to the Livonia Counseling Center. Since he started taking drugs when he was 13, Goris completed one mental health and four drug rehabilitation programs.

At first, Goris said, he was against going to rehab, because he didn't want to stop using drugs. "But they planted a seed in my head that I could do something different," said Goris, who has used "everything except heroin."

Goris' problem isn't unusual. Drug use is on the rise among teens. In fact, 24 percent of eighthgraders used an illegal drug in the last year, up from 11 percent in 1991, according to "Healthy Teens." "Most people with a drug problem will deny it," McCarthy writes.

Keeping secrets

It's important to realize that kids often keep secrets about their drug abuse, according to Dale Yagiela, director of the Plymouthbased Growth Works, a dependency treatment and juvenile justice program. Often times, parents will find drug paraphernalia, approach their teen and believe their child's stories about keeping it for a friend, or that it was a one-time experiment, Yagiela said. Yagiela also stressed that it's a fallacy that parents give their children self-esteem. "You develop it from accomplishments," he said. "Parents can help kids take on challenges, but kids get self-esteem by the things they accomplish by themselves. While some of the problems teens face seem trivial others are monumental or seem to be to the adolescent. The pressures during this time of life can be overwhelming, especially considering that this year some 10,000 teens will commit suicide and another 400,000 teens will attempt suicide. Suicide is the third leading cause of death among teens 15-19 Compared to 25 years ago, teen suicide is up 300 percent. In an effort to curtail this trend, April has been designated National Suicide Prevention Month. "When they're feeling that way already and they start using drugs sometimes that will intensify their feelings rather than help them escape those feelings," according to Gloria Jean Dykhouse, Hegira clinical services supervisor. "Some teens only feel that way when they're under the influence and when they are feeling guilty, she added. "That's really not true. Just because they're in high school you expect they know everything and maybe there are areas where they don't know what to do. You want to help them develop good judgment."

At 14, Kelly Johnson, a Garden City High School ninth-grader who serves on school task forces, said she believes parents need to talk to their children more.

"A lot of kids will ignore their parents, but it will do some good," she said.

"Some kids think, 'Well, one time won't hurt' with drugs or sex. If parents can relate to their kids with their past experiences or something that happened to family members and friends it will have an impact on their kids."

Dieting among her friends is another issue that needs attention says Johnson.

"I know a lot of teen-agers who are on a diet: They think 'I'm too fat.' They don't need to be on a diet, they need to cut down on their fats and exercise. I think the girls are more self-conscious than the guys and they like to look pretty and thin and worry about what they look like.'

Focusing on the future is essential for teens, according to Monica Stanke, program coordinator with the Garden City Youth Assistance program. Most teens who get in trouble don't have goals, she said. Youth Assistance receives referrals from police, juvenile courts, families and self-referrals. Most of the teens in the program have had some kind of illegal behavior.

"They don't see how the goals connect to their future," Stanke said. "My program deals with life goals and what is getting in the way of their life goals," she said, adding that teens are asked to write down obstacles that will pre-

Observer publisher, "and want to be involved in the communities." Teens and families face so many challenges today, said Dishmon, the father of three. "This book offers some different insights."

McCarthy's book on teens is the latest outcome of efforts that began more than 10 years ago when the Michigan Model for Comprehensive School Health Education was developed in cooperation with professional and voluntary organizations, community and parent groups and private industry work-ing toward disease prevention and health promotion among young people. McCarthy is a nationally recognized author of parent education materials.

McCarthy says that "Healthy Teens" gives adults in families a reality check on the world of the teen today.

Sinusitis sufferers

Physicians at Henry Ford Hospital have determined for the first time that surgery wipes out the headache, nasal congestions and nasal drainage associated with chronic sinusitis better than any other long-term treatment.

Over an eight-year period, physicians at Henry Ford Hospital and the University of Pennsylvania analyzed the effect of endoscopic sinus surgery on more than 70 patients suffering from severe sinus disease. At the end of the study, nearly 100 percent of the participants reported overall symptom improvement.

This study, which is the first to evaluate the long-term effects of endoscopic surgery for chronic sinusitis, demonstrates that symptoms can be improved with this type of surgery and maintained with appropriate post-operative management," said Dr. Brent Senior, M.D., of Birmingham, an otolaryngologist at Henry Ford Hospital and principal investigator of the study. "It also indicates that patients treated by this surgery are unlikely to require further surgical treatment."

Endoscopic surgery involved inserting small scopes and instruments through the nostrils to open up blocked sinus cavities - the small, airfilled spaces behind and above the nose.

In individuals with sinusitis, these spaces become clogged, making it difficult for the sinuses to drain freely. Trapped fluids then become a breeding ground for bacteria and a persistent infection can result. If this condition lasts longer than three months and doesn't respond to treatment with nasal spray or antibiotics, it is considered chronic sinusitis.

Approximately 30 million Americans suffer at least one bout of sinusitis each year. Nearly onethird of these individuals develop chronic sinusi-

Symptoms of sinusitis include nasal congestion, headache, nasal drainage and sometimes a loss of taste or smell.

"Congestion, headache and post nasal drip improved the most after surgery," Senior said. "And at the end of the study, 82 percent of participants reported they used less antibiotics than before surgery.

Study results were presented at the Eastern Section of the Triologic Society meeting.

Finding drugs is easy, according to the teens Dykhouse sees, and it's important for parents to learn about drugs and the signs of use. Look for personality changes, dropping grades, school absenteeism, behavior problems at home and defiance of rules.

Know their friends

"Take a good look at who their friends are and what their families are involved in," she said. "Anytime a parent finds something, smells something or suspects use they should follow up on that and get the child to a professional to be assessed. Just as you would take a child to a doctor for a fever."

Dykhouse said she's continually struck by the resiliency that young people have to grow in a healthy way when they are supported, given firm limits and follow boundaries. "Healthy Teens" stresses the importance of family interactions and Dykhouse notes that relationships should be based on trust. Parents need to respect and acknowledge who the teen really is and allow areas for the teen to have control. This will help them develop responsibilities and help them learn to take control of their lives.

"Sometimes people say 'My teen is 16 or 18 or in high school and I really don't have to do anything,' vent them from achieving their goals and steps they can take now.

Cheryl Willett, director of curriculum and instruction in Garden City Public Schools, said educators recognize that there are certain assets kids need to live a healthy life and if they don't have these traits they often turn to drug abuse, gangs and violence.

A group of concerned citizens, educators, parents, clergy and students formed Garden City Youth Development Task Force, to help teens strengthen their personalities

Most teens have between 16 to 25 of the 40 traits, Willett said.

These 40 assets are also outlined in "Healthy Teens." They involve external influences of support from other people and include boundaries and constructive ways to use their time; or internal development that includes a commitment to learn, positive values, social competencies and a strong self-identity.

At loose ends

"What we find so much of the time is that major things are missing, especially from those internal assets," Willett said. "Kids in gangs and those who use drugs, when you talk about their future it's not even in their vocabulary. Some of these

Many families today are working with their teen to prevent drug use, whether the drug is nicotine in cigarettes, marijuana, alcohol, inhalants, or any other kind of drug. The model these families are using is inclusive: No drug use of any kind is acceptable. This model involves the teen in the reasoning and decision-making process and focuses on clear-cut rules and consequences. The line these adults have decided to walk goes beyond simply forbidding drug use

Substance Abuse."

Families work to prevent substance abuse with words and threats, to knowing the realities of drug use among teens, the temptations teens face, and a willingness to have a relationship with their teen that makes "no drug use" work for both the families and their teen.

Here are three reasons an adult can use as the basis to prohibit all drug use.

Drugs are dangerous. What is known about drug use among teens points to disaster, whether the result is a lifelong addiction to cigarettes or an early death in an alcohol-related traffic accident. There is absolutely no evidence to show that drug use in teens is not dangerous, and not getting more dangerous. A fight when high or drunk could lead to a shooting; having sex in the same condition could lead to pregnancy or sexually transmitted disease.

Drug use is illegal. The chart in "Appendix C" details Michigan laws about drug use. Adults need to know these laws and lean on these laws when setting rules about drug use with their teen. Quoting laws might seem hypocritical to some people, or at least not a very sound argument, but the facts are the facts. At the very least, teens need to know that parents or other adults may be held responsible for their teen's drug or alcohol use, and for the teen's actions while under the influence of drugs. Parents, not teens, are the ones who bear the burden of late night trips to the local jail, dealing with the police, the courts, the schools, and worst of all, the funeral expenses.

Drug use doesn't mix with our family values, school, sports, and the other activities of a teen. This is a tough time to grow up as a teen. Compared to 25 or 30 years ago, today's teen faces increased risks for all manner of life-threatening situations, whether that be suicide, teen pregnancy, contracting HIV, or being involved in a homicide. At the very least, teens need to know that drug use makes doing well in school harder, will affect their emotional life, and make it harder to make and keep quality friends. Teens today need every break they can get to protect their health and potential for success

Teens Saying No to Drugs

There is more involved in preventing drug use than just setting rules. Your teen needs a strong sense of self-esteem, along with the social skills

McCarthy wrote similar comments in "Healthy Teens": "Too few young people grow up experiencing key ingredients for their healthy development. They do not experience support from adults, build relationships across generations, or hear consistent messages about boundaries and values. Most have too little to do that is positive and constructive.'

If your young children haven't discovered Barney's Kids Page yet, have them visit http://www.geocities.com/Heartland/7412//.

There are, according to Liz Thompson, 28,000 Barney Web pages. Most don't pass the muster, however. The Barney's Kids Page is unique because it doesn't poke fun at our favorite purple dinosaur. And it offers many things to do, from downloadable coloring pages to sounds of Barney and Baby Bop. Your kids can also E-mail Barney a message and view lots of big, bright Barney pho-

"Comet Hale-Bopp" at http://www.halebopp.com is an electronic publication by Russell Sipe, focusing on the Hale-Bopp comet, scheduled to reach peak brightness this month. The site includes the latest comet news, subject-related book reviews, photographs and images.

There recently was a television special on "The Waltons" in which, my hair dresser tells me, John Boy's wife gives birth to twins (a boy and a girl). If you didn't get enough of the Waltons on that Sunday night, point your browser to http://www.the-waltons.com to visit the Web site of the Waltons, the television family that most of America followed from 1972 to 1981. Fans will find pictures, music from the theme song, a complete episode guide and information on the Walton Mountain Museum and Earl Hamner, the show's creator, narrator, and writer of the original book. In fact, the Waltons were in large part based on Hamner's own family. So you can also read the history of the "real"

Indian Lake Village: Luxury rental living

NEW HOMES

Phase two: More than 150 apartment units, all at least 950 square feet with two bedrooms and two baths, are under construction at Indian Lake Village.

Some folks could be at a station in life where apartment living is a better fit than home ownership.

That doesn't mean renters have to sacrifice new construction, upscale features, great recreational/leisure time amenities and prize location.

Indian Lake Village Apartments, a collaboration between the Fenton Co., Silverman Companies and operating engineers and carpenters union pension funds, offers all of that and more in Orion Township.

An additional 164 two-bedroom/ two-bath units, garden style, townhouse and penthouse, are under construction in the second phase on rolling acreage off Lapeer Road north of Silver Bell Road.

Nearly all 230 units in phase one are leased.

The property is next to the Bald Mountain Recreational Area, yet a short drive to the I-75 corridor.

"This is a pretty spectacular setting for an apartment complex," said Richard T. Fenton.

"Probably 75 percent of apartment homes here view natural features, face natural conservancy, forests," said Gilbert "Buzz" Silverman. "There's not another (apartment) community like this in southeastern Michigan."

Several wetlands dot the property. "Normally, apartments get built on flat cornfields," Silverman added. "Look at these buildings on the hill looking into the woods."

"There's hawks, deer, all kinds of wildlife in here," Fenton said at the edge of the property where trails lead into the state park.

A lower density – just under 400 apartment units on 40 acres – was the design strategy used to convey luxury. And you want upscale?

Step into the clubhouse with its billiard room, community room with kitchen and fireplace, library/meeting room with fireplace, fitness center accessible 24 hours per day, locker rooms and sauna.

An outdoor swimming pool, tennis court and sand volleyball court are available during warmer-weather months.

All of the units in the second phase will have two bedrooms and two baths.

Garden units on the first floor contain about 950 square feet. Rents range from $855 to $875 per month.

Townhouse units, 1,300 square feet, situate the main living areas and a half bath on the first floor, the bedrooms upstairs. Rents go from $1,005 to $1,075.

Penthouses, 1,050 to 1,250 square feet, have all living space on one level over townhouses and garden units with rents ranging from $985 to $1,040.

All units regardless of style contain individual washers and dryers, air conditioning, all major appliances including microwave, blinds, balcony or patio and access to one space in a carport.

Some top-floor units have peaked ceilings and fireplaces.

Two models are available for showing.

The Dogwood, a townhouse, features a kitchen/nook, living/dining rooms, mechanical room/storage and half bath on the first floor.

The laundry room is upstairs as are both bedrooms. The larger bedroom features a walk-in closet and shower, the smaller a combination tub/shower and wall closet.

The other model, the Evergreen, is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. can be a garden or penthouse unit. a.m. to 5 p.m. weekends.

The bedrooms are on either side of the living room, dining room, kitchen with snack bar and laundry area.

One bedroom has a combination tub/shower and wall closet, the other a shower and walk-in closet.

Water is included in rent. Gas and electric utilities are individually metered. Pets are allowed in selected units. There aren't sidewalks.

One-bedroom, one-bath units built in phase one start at $705 per month when available.

"These are luxury apartments," Fenton said. "I had anticipated we would see a lot of empty nesters. Most folks are single, male executives, 30-35 years old, working in the Oakland Technology Center, or in Troy, Birmingham, Lake Orion or Auburn Hills.

"We're also getting young couples," Fenton said. Some are DINKS (dual incomes, no kids), and some have kids. We had about 40 kids for an Easter Egg hunt here.

"We're getting some empty-nesters. Maybe they have a place in Florida and want a presence in the area where the grandkids are," he said.

"They love the view," said Audrey Carrington, manager at Indian Lake Village. "They love where we're located. We don't stack buildings on top of each other here. They love the textured walls, the openness. We have lots of windows, lots of cupboard space."

The apartment community is serviced by the Lake Orion schools.

Bryan Nolan is into his second year living in a one-bedroom unit at Indian Lake Village.

"One of the biggest things it was new construction," Nolan said. "I was surprised a washer and dryer and microwave came with it. I've been real pleased with the amenities and view. The area had close access to (I-)75, which was a factor for me."

The leasing office at Indian Lake Village Apartments, (810) 391-9040, is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekends.

Basement water can be stopped

BY POPULAR MECHANICS FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

If you have basement water problems that you've been ignoring, there's a good chance you're losing up to half of your home's living space. And at the cost of housing these days, that's a substantial loss.

While water that collects in a basement may have several sources, almost all such problems can be corrected. And for many, the simplest solution is to install a sump pump.

While a pump doesn't cure the disease, it goes a long way toward handling the symptoms. And, it does the job at a price that most of us can afford.

The truth of the matter is that most basement water problems are not basement problems at all, but exterior drainage problems. So before you consider a sump-pump installation, take a good look (in the rain, if you must) at the drainage around your home. Make sure that gutters aren't clogged, that downspout extensions move roof runoff at least 4 feet beyond the foundation and that the soil within 3 feet of the foundation slopes away from the house.

Even if these conditions have been met, you may still accumulate water in your basement. The problem may be a utility trench that invisibly channels runoff back to the house, or a seasonally high ground-water table. In these cases, a sump-pump installation is a realistic alternative.

Many new homes have a sump pit already in place, complete with a drainage tile system under the basement floor that's designed to channel water to the pit. If your home doesn't have this feature, and your water problem affects most of the basement, a retrofit system of this type is a good solution. However, it's a big job that involves removing a 24-inch-wide swath of concrete and soil from the inside perimeter of the basement, adding gravel, drain tile and pit, and replacing the concrete.

While this isn't an impossible do-it-yourselfer job, it's backbreaking work. Professionals will get $2,500 to $5,000 to do it for you - not necessarily a bad price, though, if you've doubled your living space.

A more manageable approach, in the right circumstances, is to install an isolated sump pit with several feet of gravel around it. To have this system installed may cost between $300 and $500. Or, you can do it yourself for the price of the pump, pipe and fittings, pit liner, gravel and cement.

This abbreviated system is best suited where water infiltrates only one area of the basement, or where the basement floor was poured over a gravel bed.

Many homes built over the past 30 years have several inches of gravel beneath the concrete floor. The gravel was used to bring a slightly over-excavated floor back to grade.

Because water seeks the path of least resistance and will migrate sideways before it moves up, below-floor moisture will move through the layer of gravel to a sump pit before flooding the floor.

Unfortunately, it's difficult to tell if your basement floor floats on a gravel bed. The builder of the home might recall, or a neighbor who has done similar work might know.

In most cases, though, you won't know until you break through the floor. Sometimes, a few holes bored through the floor with a hammer drill will tell you what you need to know.

Spanish exterior, American interior blend

Graceful arches set a tone of relaxed elegance in the Loma Vista, a plan with a contemporary Spanish-style exterior and a fairly traditional American-style interior.

Outside, stucco detailing accents the chimney, the garage, and the columns that support a grand portico. Rounded roof tiles enhance the Spanish flavor. The interior entry is as dramatic as the exterior. Small panes of glass flank and crown the front door, while the ceiling is two stories high. Columns to the left and right support arched openings to the formal dining room and living room. A small powder room hides behind a pocket door.

The entry's lofty ceiling extends down the hall and over the stairway as far as the passageway into the family room. A wet bar is tucked into a hallway alcove. With windows on three sides, the family room is naturally bright. Sliders to the left open onto a patio, while a set on the right leads to a screened porch.

nformal spaces flow from family room to sunny nook to fully equipped kitchen. Popular

What kind of quality can I expect from people who make appointments and fail to show up for meetings? I give everyone a bit of slop in making their expected dates for bids, but I have gotten to a point where I simply do not have patience. The people who I have worked with in the past are a little better (they know who I am) but not a lot.

I hope this is an unusually busy season because, if not, being a general contractor or construction manager could drive one crazy. I am a little worried what might happen if a critical construction procedure is delayed by a failed promise to arrive on the construction site.

As with every custom construction project, the final costs are very difficult to predict prior to the actual bidding process being tallied up. Each project, location and quantity of work available for construction at a given time affects the price of a project.

Each one of these custom projects will differ in subtle ways this project is sided in redwood and the last was sided in cedar subtle difference but the two materials do not cost the same. The electrical fixtures cost different amounts, the foundation systems are different - how can one possibly know the differences vithout bidding the job out? Last year I worked on a project in Port Huron - $130 per square foot bought quite a nice project -but here in Ann Arbor it does not seem to be buying the same amount of architectural construction. Usually in places where the cost of living is lower, the cost of construction can be expected to be lower as well. The final factor that affects the cost of construction is the relative busyness of those bidding on the job. In an environment where one has more work than one can complete, one can bid high because one does not necessarily want the work to begin with.

If one gets the job, then there is plenty of profit to cover the pain and stress of doing more than one wants. In this environment I could, as a bidder, give outrageous prices and if someone wants me to perform my trade they will pay for me to do so. It is a case of basic supply and demand economics that is understood by both the trades and the buying public. Needless to say, the 1996 and 1997 building seasons have been and will be busy times.

In addition to getting bids together, I have been editing the finishes as the bids have come in. Remember the cork tile that was to be used throughout the main floor? Wel,1 the best installed-price I could find was around $15 per square foot. Well for $8.50 per square foot we can have a beautiful maple floor. When a project is "over-budget," it is hard to hold on to excessively priced materials or details.

Even editing the project does not bring the project back to the original cost predictions of the project. If the goal was to do everything possible to get the project on budget, it might be possible to get the project built on budget. This would mean no redwood for the exterior but rather vinyl siding and vinyl windows. Interior floor finishes would be reduced to cheap carpeting and on and on.

This was never the goal, and I applaud the client's dedication to architecture and the virtues of quality over quantity.

Next month we should have some site activity, and I simply can not wait to see this project rise out of the ground.

Rust-buster

Home & Garden Television (HGTV) offers the following suggestions for use in the home and around the yard:

How to keep your edge

To safeguard the edges of saw blades, cut a strip of old garden hose as long as the exposed edge. Slit the hose, wrap it around the blade, and secure it with heavy rubber bands or duct tape.

When storing your gardening tools, place them blade down in a bucket of sand. The sand will protect the tools' edge and keep the blade from rusting between uses

A quick way to mask

When you have to paint around hardware or fixtures, protect them by applying a coatstick. Simply wipe off the petroleum jelly when the paint is

The long-lived hose

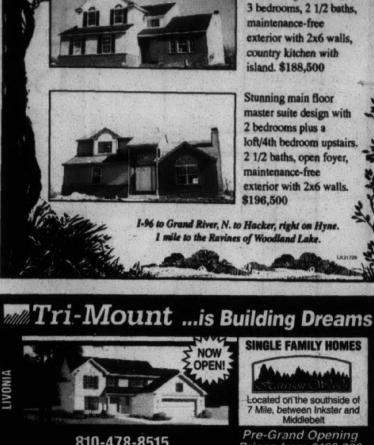

The next time you buy a garden hose, select one with a protective collar, which will prolong its life by keeping it from kinking at the faucet. And make sure ing of petroleum jelly. Even if the hose has multiple layers of paint drips to them, it won't reinforced fabric such as nylon or rayon. That makes the hose more flexible.

Kinder, gentler paint remover

Harsh paint removers can dry or damage your skin. So when you get paint on your hands, apply a dab of cooking oil, and rub your hands together vigorously. The paint will peel away without harming your skin.

current in the "hot" and "neutral" lines. Under normal conditions, these two currents are always equal. If the circuit detects a difference between them as little as 5 milliamps, it interrupts the power in as little as 1-40th second. However, childproof covers on an outlet are effective, and it shouldn't be necessary to install a GFCI outlet.

A GFCI receptacle has one advantage over a GFCI installed in a circuit breaker. The GFCI circuit breaker monitors the branch circuit. With it, there is a greater chance of nuisance tripping caused by a buildup of leaking currents due to deteriorated or damaged sections of insulation, multiple splices and moisture accumulation. When a GFCI breaker trips, the entire branch circuit goes out. Whereas when a GFCI receptacle trips, it de-energizes just itself, or the rest of the branch that follows it, depending on how the electrician has it installed.

Q: How do you drill in bathroom wall tiles? I would like to put rails in the shower area.

A. One method is to place a finish nail on the tile, and tap it with a hammer to score the glazing. Bore on the scored mark with a masonry bit.

The second method is to simply buy a carbide or diamond-tipped drill to bore the hole. Using these bits eliminates the need to score the glazing. The diamond-tipped drill is more expensive but preferable to the carbidetipped bit.

Both bits are available at hardware stores and industrial suppliers. Use a variablespeed drill when using these bits so that you can drill at a slow speed.

Weather and poisoning fluctuated as much as 45 degrees, sending people outdoors in shorts one day and back inside the next huddling over their furnaces.

Safety experts urge residents not to let their guard down: Spring snows and freezing temperatures can pose a safety threat both indoors and out. Power outages, cold temperatures, heavy rain and extreme wind all have the potential to trap deadly carbon monoxide inside a home, causing residents to become ill or incapacitated and in some cases, resulting in death.

In the first week of April, a Claver-ack, N.Y. couple was killed from accidental carbon monoxide poisoning emanating from a gasoline-powered generator used to fuel and heat their home after the recent April Fool's Day blizzard, which left tens of thousands without power in the north-eastern United States.

At least eight other people were treated for carbon monoxide poisoning in that area alone. Several other injuries have been reported across the country attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning including the family of a sheriff's officer in San Diego. "While we're all familiar with the hazards faced by motorists in extreme weather, many people don't realize they may face something equally hazardous in their own home carbon monoxide poisoning," said Tom Greiner, Ph.D., associate professor of engineering at Iowa State University.

Carbon monoxide is the leading cause of accidental poisoning deaths in the U.S., responsible for 1,500 deaths and 10,000 illnesses each year, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association. A byproduct of incomplete combustion, carbon monoxide can be produced by any home appliance that burns fuel, such as a gas or oil furnace, hot water

Recent weather conditions have dryer, gas or wood burning fireplaces uctuated as much as 45 degrees, or stoves or unvented space heaters. Car exhaust fumes entering a home from an attached garage can also produce carbon monoxide

> Under normal circumstance, if appliances and venting systems are functioning properly, carbon monox-ide will be safely vented out of the home. However, bad weather conditions can affect the operation of home venting systems, causing dangerous carbon monoxide build-up.

Potential weather hazards

"There are a number of ways inclement weather can contribute to a potential carbon monoxide problem inside the home. Mud and debris from melting snow can block vents that normally allow carbon monoxide and other exhaust gases to exit the home, trapping carbon monoxide inside. Strong wind or rain can knock chimney caps out of place or cause power outages, disabling home venting systems and causing residents to turn to alternative sources of heat such as kerosene heaters, wood burning stoves or a fire in the fireplace - all of which can produce carbon monoxide," Greiner said.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) also recommends installing a carbon mc detector for protection. "As a housing engineer, I encourage everyone to regularly inspect vents and chimneys during bad weather," Greiner said.

A battery-powered detector will continue to operate in a power outage. Because it does not require an outlet, it can be easily installed anywhere in the home.

Another danger of extreme weath-er is cold flues, which take longer to establish a draft and can contribute to a dangerous air pressure condition known as downdrafting. Downdrafting occurs when carbon monoxide and other gases that normally exit the home safely through flues and chimneys are forced back down into the home by air pressure imbal-Downdrafting can occur more fre-quently in cold weather when the home is sealed tightly, preventing adequate fresh air from entering and creating a negative air pressure within the home.

Simultaneous operation of more than one fuel-burning appliance in an enclosed space, such as a gas furnace and water heater in a utility. room, can also cause downdrafting if there is not sufficient ventilation.

Dangerous practices

Warming up the car in an attached garage is also a risky move, as carbon monoxide from car exhaust fumes can enter the home through cracks in walls and space around door jambs. Never leave a car running in an attached garage, even if the garage door is on

"STEPS TO TAKE WHEN BUYING"

If you are considering buying your next home, you will want to do so in the most effective manner possible. This will require planning and doing the right thing at the right time. In order to help you do the right thing, here are some suggestions:

Get Pre-approved By A Mortgage Lender

Most mortgage lenders have a service referred to as a preapproval. This service allows you to determine how much money you can borrow when buying your next property. It is called a preapproval because it is granted by the lender prior to the time when you locate your next home and submit a signed and accepted purchase agreement between you and the seller.

Choose A Realtor

You will need reliable advice on both buying and selling. The st source is a knowledgeable Realtor in your area. He or she can assist you with up-to-date information and solid suggestions based on actual experience.

Determine The Value Of Your Existing Home

Now that you understand the amount of mortgage money you can borrow, it is time to find out what your existing home is worth. The proceeds from its sale will become the downpayment on the ext house. This downpayment amount when added to the ount of money you can borrow, determines the upper price mit of the next house. Also, you must learn about the current nand for your house and a reasonable expectation of time eded to sell it.

eirn About The Availability Of Homes To Buy

other important part of this puzzle is the availability and cost the kind of home you want to buy. Is it affordable based upon our purchasing power? Is it a good financial investment?

Employment agency etiquette

By Sheryl Silver, Career Source

Looking for a new job? Planning to work with an employment agency to find one? Take a moment to consider a few do's and don't's that can make your experience more productive.

For starters, it's important to dress professionally the first time you meet with an agency. In many ways, that first meeting is used to assess how professionally you'll present yourself and represent the agency when you're referred to prospective employers. "When I prescreen people on the telephone, I tell them to dress in professional attire, as if they're going to be sent out to an interview," says Ron Rue, general manager and partner for the Century City California branch office of Ultimate Staffing Services, headquartered in Brea, California.

Ellen Andrews, managing partner of Positions Inc., an employment agency in Washington D.C., points out a very tangible benefit of dressing professionally for that first meeting. "If someone's qualifications meet what a client is looking for and that applicant is dressed appropriately, they can be sent out immediately on an interview," says Andrews.

Bring a copy of your resume to that first meeting too. Be sure you've checked the document for errors. "If you have a typo on your resume," says Rue, "it shows us you're not detail oriented. It indicates sloppiness, and for the administrative support and clerical jobs we fill, that's a big no-no.

Make sure, as well, that the information your resume is truthful and doesn't misrepresent your experience or educational credentials. Agencies check references and won't be comfortable representing you if they find factual inconsistencies

They're also likely to test you on any skills you list on the resume. "We sell to our customers that our applicants are fully reference checked and skill-tested, so we test them on each software package they claim to have expertise in," says Rue. Testing skills enables agencies to "know what your skill levels are so we can place you appropriately," adds Judy Chudars, managing director of Star Staffing in Washington, D.C. Andrews, Chudars and Rue all say it's important to be cooperative throughout the testing and screening process.

Being open-minded about any opportunities an agency suggests is also a plus. For example, Rue says a lot of positions, in fact, some of the best situations today are "temp-to-hire," where employers try out someone in a position for a period of weeks before deciding to hire them full time. Rue says, "I tell people who are looking for full time jobs to at least consider a temp-to-hire situation."

SUNDAY, APRIL 13, 1997 . PAGE 1 SECTION

Equally important is being open to constructive feedback, what Rue calls "suggestive coaching." "People need to realize we know exactly what out clients want," says Rue. "When I make suggestions, like telling someone to lose the long nails and the purple nail polish" as I did with a very skilled candidate the other day. I'm just trying to help them do what's necessary to land a job for which they're qualified."

Following interviews with prospective employers, be sure to contact the agency that sent you. "We ask candidates to follow up with us immediately after an interview," says Andrews. Chudars also asks candidates to call "as soon after an interview as possible." "We want to know if someone wants the job or not," she says.

they're working with at least once a week: "Let the agency know you're hungry for employment and that you're willing to work with them," says Rue. "And let the agency know what you're doing on your own so they don't duplicate your efforts if you're applying to companies directly through their recruitment ads"

While we're on the topic of duplication, what about working with more than one agency at a time? "That's not a problem" says Rue. "Each agency probably has a different client base, and if you're really trying to find work, the more people you have working on your behalf, the better."

Andrews agrees. "We just ask candidates to make us aware of it," she says. Chudars con: curs, adding, "To avoid duplication of effort," let an agency know if you've already met or had your resume submitted to a company to which they want to refer you, whether you made the contact directly or through another agency."

Sheryl Silver may be contacted by writing to her at Career Source, P.O. Box 65754, Washington, D.C. 200035-5744.

Until job seekers accept a position, Rue urges them to stay in touch with the agencies

WORKING LIFE When and how to tell the boss you're expecting

By Deborah L. Jacobs, Chronicle Features

Learning you're pregnant may be one of the great joys of life, but don't expect your bosses to share that enthus The response to your good news can range from polite congratulations to dour resignation. Among other things, they're probably wondering: Can you deliver until you deliver? How long will your maternity leave last? Will you ever return?

Federal law protects workers from being fired just because they're pregnant, and some states guarantee greater rights. But the laws don't apply to everyone. For example, the federal Pregnancy Discrimination Act only covers companies with 15 or more employees. And most laws only apply to staffers, not to the growing number of freelancers or independent contractors. (For answers to specific legal questions, call the 9 to 5 National Association of Working WOmen hotline at (800) 522-0925.)

Often, the best way to avoid problems is with good timing and a little tact. Unless you have a high-risk pregnancy or need more than a few sick days during the first several months, make your announcement during the second trimester, advises Anne Weisberg, a lawyer and coauthor of the book, "Everything a Working Mother needs to Know" (Doubleday, 1994). (Hard to find in bookstores, this comprehensive guide is available for $14.95 from the author at (914) 472-6328.) Any earlier, you're still at risk of a miscarriage, which would force you to sadly retract your news. Any later, you might leave your boss and coworkers scrambling to prepare for your absence.

To avoid leaks to the office grapevine, don't tell coworkers before you tell your supervisor. And, if the company process es medical claims in-house, try not to submit them until after you've talked with the boss, Weisberg says.

Sticky ethical questions: what do you do if you're job-hunting, or up for a promotion? In the first case, wait until an offer's on the table, and then tell the prospective employer you're expecting, Weisberg says. You have no obligation to say so during an interview, but it's better not to start a new job with a secret. In the second scenario, says Weisberg, "there's a fine line between protecting your interest and making your supervisor feel you're taking advantage.

In any event, it's good politics to show enthusiasm about your job even as you share this highly personal item. Don't say you plan to come back unless you mean it, but do reiterate your commitment to work. Weisberg recommends a script that goes something like this: "I have great news. I'm expecting a baby in June and I'm thrilled. I also want you to know that I'm very committed to my job."

Save discussing details of your maternity leave for later. You may be legally entitled to time off. But requesting it when you break the news gives the impression that all you care about is the leave. Weisberg says. Instead, she suggests you just say, "I'll get back to you to discuss how much time I'll take off and how we can be sure my work gets covered." That way, you send a clear signal that you're concerned about the company's interests, not just your own.

This strategy is especially important for freelancers, who have fewer right-or benefits--than employees. Just like staffers, long-term freelancers should give the company five or six months' notice, says Patricia Cobe, coauthor of the book, "Mompreneurs" (The Berkley (cq) Publishing Group, 1996), a guide for mothers who work at home. Freelancers who work on short-term projects may get away with less notice, but should tie up loose ends at least a month before the baby's due.

To help make a smooth transition, tell the company when you announce your pregnancy how long you plan to take off, says Cobe, a working mom who has done temporary stints at magazines. Cobe also recommends finding someone who can fill in for you during the leave. You can train the pinch hitter while you're still on the job, and during this spell share part of what you earn.

Whether you're a staffer or a freelancer, it's crucial not to leave your bosses or clients in the lurch-especially if you want to continue working after the baby arrives. Your professionalism during the waiting period will set the tone for your return to

WORK AT HOME

Turn to support groups, resources for business

By Alice Bredin, Tribune Media

My husband finally put his foot down about a month ago: no more business questions. I have to admit I had been relying heavily on him lately to help me make some important decisions about a partnership agreement, new client positioning and resolution of a dispute with a large vendor. When he cost me off, he assured me that he likes helping, but the pressure to be available all the time was overwhelming

I have an accountant, an attorney and business advisers I can turn to, but my husband is my adviser of choice because in addition to having an MBA, lots of marketing experience and good judgment, he knows what kind of decisions I can live (http://www.att.com/rnb/). For $99 a year, this site with.

I pushed him to his limit by calling him frequently at work with questions and repeatedly asking him to do tasks such as look over spreadsheets after a long day at the office. Because I work at home, I am probably more isolated than I should be and therefore turn to the person who is nearby

After a break, I believe he will come around and be willing to provide advice again. In the meantime, I have made some changes to my approach to seeking help that will permanently change the way I find business advice.

The first is my partnership. I have been working by myself in a home office for almost a decade. I hite independent contractors to help me with projects but still make all strategic decisions alone.

While I wouldn't trade my lifestyle for anything, I have acknowledged that I am tired of always coming up with the answers. I know the downsides of having partners, but I am willing to put up with them because of the potential to have built-in sounding boards and three times the effort behind my business.

I am also joining an entrepreneurial support group. I was in a group like this when I first started out, and it was great for setting goals, keeping motivated and learning the ropes. Now I have achieved many of my goals and am looking to gather input from business people in a variety of industries. A lot of value can be gained from applying the solutions from one industry to another.

To find a local entrepreneurial support group, look in the listings in your newspaper or call local chapters of national home-based business associations. You can also form your own group by assembling a few peers and asking them to invite people they know.

The Internet also has plenty of resources. The following services answer questions from small and home based business owners and may help you get the quick answer you need.

•AT&T Resources for New Business provides information about starting up a homebased or small business, an hour-long consultation with an adviser, a fax-back service that provides articles on small business, a quarterly resource guide about running a business and discounts on products and services.

•Ernst & Young LLP (http://ernie.ey.com/). A flat fee of $6,000 annually provides access to Ernst & Young's network of experts to answer business questions. Answers are posted within 48 hours and clients are informed by e-mail and voice mail that their response is ready.

•American Express Small Business Network (http://www.americanexpress.com/small-business/). This site, which I am affiliated with, is free and has articles about starting up and managing a small business; lists of venture capital firms and other funding resources; a tool that helps you create a business plan; and import/export information. You can also post a question to me and receive an answer within several days.

MAILBAG BRINGS QUESTIONS ON HEALTH INSURANCE, DISTRIBUTORS

Dear Alice

My home-based business has grown to include staff. How can I find affordable health insurance for them?

Dear Reader:

I can't recommend a provider, but I can suggest some searching tactics.

Contact a trade association, alumni group, chamber of commerce or a small business association, as many of these entities provide breaks on health insurance by buying in pools.

Organizations like the National Association for the Self-Employed, the Small Office/Home Office Association and the Independent Business Alliance established themselves mainly to meet the insurance needs of people like you. Other Resources:

•The Institute for Health Policy Solutions, (202) 857-0810, can tell you whether a state-sponsored health-insurance purchasing cooperative exists in vour state.

•Wilkinson Benefit Consultants, (800) 296-3030, provides a database of health-insurance providers for a fee, but doesn't sell insurance.

Dear Alice:

I sell high-end gifts that women buy for their brothers, husbands, fathers, etc. I have one distributor now and need to find others that are willing to work with a homebased business.

Dear Reader:

A good place to find distributors is at trade shows. Look in trade magazines for listings of trade shows near you. If you read trade magazines for your industry you will probably also see some distributor ads.

Another option is to go to your reference library and search through some Dun & Bradstreet resources. Resources that are relevant to you include Dun & Bradstreet's Million Dollar Directory, a listing of the largest companies in the United States, including distributors.

You can search through Dun's database using its product called Dun's Direct Access. Dun's Director Access is available in large libraries or can be purchased for $50. The company's CD-ROM called Marketplace, which provides the same service, is also a possibility. Dun & Bradstreet's number is (800) 624-5669.

Dear Alice:

My wife and I would like to set up a home-based business. We figure that a computer business would be ideal. My wife is an excellent typist, and we live near a university. Can you suggest a course of action or put us in touch with a company that contracts out to people who work at home?

Dear Reader:

The right business idea for you will be determined by what other skills besides typing you have in your repertoire and what needs exist in your community.

To generate ideas, read the paper and examine your community with an eye for unfulfilled needs. For example, if there are businesses thriving in your area, ask yourself what ancillary business you could offer using your computer at home.

Plenty of books list business ideas, but I suggest focusing on your skills and local opportunity instead of taking your lead from these lists. Some resources that may help:

•Read a book called "Making a Living Without a Job" by Barbara Winter to help generate ideas and determine what you are suited to. •For telecommuting jobs • home-based, salaried positions - look at a publication called Telecommuter's Digest, a monthly newsletter that lists companies that have telecommuting positions available. Some of the listings are for positions that have telecommuting potential only.

got out after an hourlong jaunt, I was actually sore. At one point, I stopped and got out to see if the 1997 Geo an easy-to-shift 5-speed manual transmission. Available on the 2-door models is a 3-speed automatic. On the 4-thing. It didn't.

I even drove it to a fellow auto writer's house and asked him if it was me or was the ride harsh. He agreed with me. And so did another colleague.

That said, let's get on with the nitty gritty of this Tracker 4-door outfitted with 4-wheel drive. The Tracker has a full-length frame with ladder-type cross members that resist the twisting forces while off-roading. There's also a crosstruck beam under the instrument panel that adds to its rigidity.

The 4-door model is actually the best choice for anyone who has to transport more than one other person around. There's enough room in the back seat for a tall adult. There's nearly 33 inches of legroom and 44.9 inches of hiproom back there. Even the cargo room (45 cubic feet) in the rear of the Tracker is impressive for what is considered a small sport utility.

The best part of the Tracker is its looks. The front stance is beefy and looks like a force to reckon with. It's quite high off the ground (7.9 inches), but it's not too bad to get into. It didn't feel unstable, either. It's solid on the ground.

There are six models in the Tracker lineup: 2-wheel-drive 2-door convertible, 4-wheel-drive 2-door convertible, 2-wheel-drive 4-door hardtop or 4-wheel-drive 4-door hardtop in either the base or uplevel LSi trim.

The LSi trim will give you everything the base level has and more: body-color front and rear floor mats, cloth seats and black body-side moldings and rocker panels.

And keep in mind you're getting a 97.9-inch wheelbase on the 4-door models. That's almost a foot more than the 2-door models. The 4-door is also 15 inches longer than the 2-door model. The 2-door is truly a mini sport ute; the 4-door is

Up front with the driver is smartly laid out instrumentation. Everything is there, right in front of you and easy to reach and maneuver. Between the driver and passenger is a handy center console that has dual cupholders and a storage bin that's perfect to put the CDs in.

The rear seats fold down on the 2-door Trackers. On the 4-door models, there's a split-folding rear bench for those longer items you'd want to carry. And for the real energetic people, the Tracker can haul up to 1,500 pounds when equipped

(Translation: Gosh, what a great lease.)

If you stop by your local retailer, you'll find Saturn celebrating our new expansion in Japan with a great, highly competitive lease. You'll also find a variety of Saturns that have always been full of competitive features. Like our reinforced steel spaceframe, daytime running lights, dual airbags and crumple zones. Or a 24-hour roadside assistance plan, which we'll do our best to make sure you never need. So come by and check us out. And while you're looking at your Saturn you can think how, right at that very moment on the other side of the world, someone's /$175 PER MONTH / 36-MONTH
