III The close of school at Plymouth Canton Educational Park will draw police attention to avoid end of school pranks that have turned dangerous in recent years. After school activities are planned as well.

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton high school officials are hoping to end one tradition and start another as the school year comes to a close

However, if that doesn't work, there will be plenty of police on hand to put an end to any problems at the educational park.

Traditionally, students spray shaving cream, throw water balloons and light firecrackers on the last day of school. However, what was once considered horseplay has turned into potential for danger.

Last year there was a car accident in the Plymouth Salem parking lot in which one student was injured, and balloons have been known to be filled with bleach instead of water. School officials admit the silliness has escalated into a serious situation, with poten-

Residents to receive $84 credit

BY DUNCAN E. WHITE

After months of debate and stalling by Plymouth Township officials, residents will finally see an $84 credit for garbage pickup this month.

The refund, promised by township officials since late last year, is aimed at reducing the solid waste fund balance by nearly $600,000. The trash fund has an overage of $900,000 due to unadjusted garbage collection rates during the past 3-1/2 years.

The bill for garbage collection regularly appears on residents' water bills. The refund will appear on June water bills as a $57 credit ($84 minus the quarterly charge of $27). The credit will offset the overall bill - water and

Located at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Beck, the "Llama House," as many in the area refer to it, has become somewhat of a local landmark for passersby. From the small group of llamas, sheep, peacocks and other animals that have frequented the area in recent years to the 8-foot chandelier hanging in the front room that came from a brothel in Columbus, Ohio, the house is the epitome of

The house was built in 1928 by Hal Wilson, an eccentric lawyer who worked in the Penobscott Building in downtown Detroit during the early part of the century.

According to Coldwell Banker real estate agent Frank Riley, Wilson lost the house during the depression of the 1930s and it was sold to another couple who owned it until 1960 when Norman Ruehr, the former owner of Heide's Flowers and Gifts in downtown Plymouth, bought it.

Saved: EQ owner Mike Farantino, who is said to be the largest property owner in Plymouth Township, bought the 'Llama House", because he wanted to preserve it from potential developers.

During the next 30 years, the house became a hot spot for animals ... both exotic and party.

"It was a fun house," said Norman's wife Emily, who recently sold it to local businessman Mike Farantino.

Motorists who use the ramp from westbound I-696 to I-275 face yet more inconveniences starting today, when that ramp will be closed until July for construction. Traffic will be detoured to a new unused portion of M-5 (the Haggerty Connector) south of 12 Mile Road, then on a temporary ramp to turn traffic southbound to access the 12 Mile Road ramp to southbound I-275. The detour is adjacent to the current M-5 ramp to 12 Mile Road. Earlier officials at the Michigan Department of Transportation had expected that only one lane would be closed and the ramp open while it was reconstructed, but since have re-thought that strategy.

"We've decided to close that ramp because of the space on top (of the freeway ramp) and the safety of motorists and workers," said Robin Pannecouk, MDOT spokesperson. "We'll have the ability to get it done faster if we close it.

An estimated 20 signs will direct setopists to the two-mile detour, Pannecouk said. Detoured motorists and drivers coming from I-275 to exit to 12 Mile need to "work together" while driving, she said.

The five-mile segment of the I-275 construction is expected to cost $50 million. The five-year, 31-mile total project to pave the entire length of I-275 was estimated at $150 million.

Paving the way

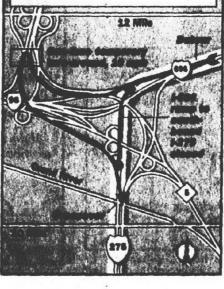

Work crews from John Carlo, the primary contractor of the I-275 construction, were expected to pour concrete this week for the new southbound lanes near Grand River and work their way southbound.

Contractors will use equipment that will pave three lanes simultaneously at about a half-mile pace each day. "We'll pave 15 miles in one pass where typically we make three passes," Pannecouk said.

When the southbound side is paved and concrete sured by mid-July, both directions of I-276 traffic is expected to be crossed back over to the southbound side for work to begin on the northbound

I-896 ramp closed to I-275

Starting today (Sunday), the ramp from westbound I-696 to southbound I-275 will be closed for approximately 25 days so a new ramp can be constructed. Motorists will be detoured onto a new unused ramp of northbound M-5 (the Haggerty Connector) north of I-96 and south of 12 Mile Road. The detour is adjacent to the current M-5 ramp to 12 Mile Road. Westbound I-696 motorists who drive the detour should watch for posted signs, look for exiting traffic from I-275, then enter the left lane to access the new detour ramp. Those motorists will need to decelerate from 50 miles per hour down to 10 miles per hour to a temporary turn-around. That traffic will join southbound traffic originating from 12 Mile, joining up with eastbound I-96 traffic and leading to southbound 1-275.

Ed Schulz of Plymouth Township is a man who likes to keep busy. Whether it be his CPA firm, as District Governor of Rotary International, running half-marathons, or traveling the Caribbean in a sail boat. Helping others and being active are part of who Schulz is. Until last March 12.

"I wasn't feeling good, not much of an appetite, and I felt tired all the time," said Schulz, 52. "I went to the clinic and the doctor sent me to the hospital. I found out both kidneys had shrunk to nothing."

That's when life changed dramatically.

"I felt pretty frightened when the doctor told me my kidneys didn't work," added Schulz. "I wondered 'what's next?"

"I was devastated." said Diane, his wife of 30 years. "The wind was knocked out of our sails. Ed loves life and helping others. This certainly was a blow."

"My dad has never been sick, and then to see him in a hospital bed ... was certainly a shock," said son, Paul, who lives in Plymouth. "I have an extra kidney. I'd give it up in a second to help him live a normal lifestyle."

The news was especially disturbing to Schulz's sister, Carol Graham, of Livonia. Graham is a kidney transplant coordinator for Harper Hospital in Detroit, and never thought her job would hit close

"I was crushed," said Graham. "I know what these patients go through. It was hard to accept that a family member had this disease. I always told Ed to stay out of my business."

Graham said she knew her brother wasn't feeling well for several months, but didn't see the signs of kidney problems.

"I suggested he get on the transplant list right away because there is a four-to-five-year wait," said Graham. "There's a list of 1,700 people in Michigan, alone, who need a kidney transplant.

Until the possibility of a transplant, Schulz adjusted his lifestyle to include dialysis three days a week for three hours a day. His friends from Rotary Club drive him to St. Mary's Hospital for his afternoon treatments, which leave him exhausted.

Ironically, it was the Rotary Club in Plymouth which raised nearly $50,000 in the 1970's for the hospital's first kidney dialysis machines.

"If you don't have a kidney transplant, you have dialysis for the rest of your life," said Schulz. "Now, making plans is more of a consideration. You have to find clinics when going out of town to make sure you get the dialysis. You have to plan months ahead and move schedules around.'

A case in point was last Mother's Day weekend when Rotary International held its regional convention on Mackinac Island. Schulz got there Thursday evening, spent most of Friday driving to Petocky for dialysis, and resumed normal activities Saturday and Sunday. Schulz had to plan months ahead to get a spot open at the clinic, which is booked solid.

Diane learned to take more time at the grocery store reading labels to make sure food had unbleached flour, and no salt, for a proper diet.

"The food is really bland, but that's what he needs for his health," said Diane. "And, of course, I eat the same meals ... it wouldn't be right to eat something else in front of him."

Members of Schulz's family decided to help by taking tests at the University of Michigan Hospitals to see if any of them could be a kidney donor.

There are no guarantees with transplants, but they do allow a more normal life style if there's a match," said Maureen Fox, transplant coordinator for U-M. "It's not that unusual to find a match within the family."

However, even Fox was surprised to find that Schulz's older brother, Lynn, son and wife are potential donors.

"I was astounded to find we got three out of three matches," said Schulz. "Lynn was a perfect match, so he'll be undergoing further tests to make sure he has two kidneys and is physically fit to give one up. And, we have some other options with Paul and Diane."

"Hopefully we'll be able to give him a kidney and get Ed back on the road to recovery," said Lynn Schulz, 63, of Livomachines. nia. "It does concern me to give up one of my kidneys at my a but as long as I'm healthy it shouldn't be a problem."

"This certainly changes my outlook," said Ed Schulz. "It was hard thinking I could be tethered to a machine for a long Schulz is hoping that Lynn's tests will turn out well, and a transplant can be performed before the end of the year.

Schulz, a healthy specimen until a few menths ago, is a bit reflective of the medical problems he's endured.

"I'm one of the lucky ones. There are people who have to go through chemotherapy for cancer," said Schulz. "You just take life one day at a time, hope doctors and science can come up with something, and pray for a good outcome.

Study shows students feel less safe in public areas

While American middle and high school students feel relatively safe from violence in the classroom, they feel less safe in their schools' public areas, such as hallways, cafeterias, bathrooms, locker rooms and school grounds, say researchers at the University of Michigan and the College of New Jersey.

What's more, they say, many teachers in middle and high achools are reluctant to intervene in violent situations between students in these public areas because they don't believe it's their responsibility. And they thar getting hurt, perceive a lack of support from school administrators and believe their school's policy is unclear about intervention procedures.

In three separate studies, U-M researchers Ron Avi Astor, Heather A. Meyer and Ronald Pitner and New Jersey researcher William J. Behre used a school "hot spot" mapping procedure and face-to-face interviews to better understand student perceptions of where vio lence most likely occurs in elementary, middle and high schools. The studies explored both students' and teachers' reasoning about their roles in preventing school violence in those "hot spot" locations.

Our findings suggest that specific areas within schools that are violence-prone are also undefined and unowned by members of the school community," says Astor, U-M assistant professor of social work and education. "Even though most individuals in the school community are aware of these locations, neither the students nor teachers feel that monitoring those particular areas is their personal or professional responsibility.

The first of the three studies, published in the spring issue of the American Educational Research Journal, found that of 166 reported acts of violence (mostly fist fights) at five Midwestern high schools, all occurred in locations where few of no adults were present.

About 40 percent of the incidents took place in hallways between class periods, while another 20 percent occurred in cafeterias during lunch times. Other dangerous areas include gymnasiums, auditoriums and parking lots.

While the teachers in the study indicate a sense of ownership and responsibility for the space within their classrooms, many are reluctant to extend ownership to areas of undefined public space for organizational and professional reasons, the researchers say.

However, this is not the fault of teachers, they add. Instead, their findings suggest that it's a symptom of how secondary schools are organized, high student-teacher ratios, the way universities educate secondary teachers, and a narrow focus on subject specialty rather than on getting to know students.

Teachers are really caught in the middle," Aster says. Troo-dures and policies prescribed by district level and school admini-trators have not always been clear or effective at the teacher level. Teachers need to be given encouragement and support to develop safe and effective ways to deal with violent incidents especially in areas that are not perceived to be their primary work space."

In the other two studies, recently presented at the annual conference of the American Educational Research Association, comparisons were made between elementary and middle school teachers' reasoning about intervening in school violence and between elementary and middle school students' perceptions of Like their high school counterparts (and largely for the same reasons), many middle school teachers at the seven urban schools in the study were reluctant to respond to violent situations in undefined public locations. While middle school teachers define their primary responsibil-ity as within the classroom and may perceive their role at teachers to be closely tied to their subject specialty, elementary school teachers are more likely to feel a professional and personal responsibility for the whole building and all students, the researchers say.

Elementary teachers tend to monitor school spaces more frequently, responding to violence in other areas of their school the same way they would if it happened inside their classroom (more than 80 percent said they would react no differently to violence in a hallway than in their classroom, in part, because elementary schools tend to be smaller and teachers tend to know their students better.

"The results indicate that the differences between elementary College of New Servey and the professor of special selection.

"What's the best way to select an Assisted Living Community? Visit them.

I did, and it was a real eye-opener. I was impressed by the warmth, friendliness and stimulating atmosphere.

Many seniors live a rather isolated existence and, as they age, even their own homes can start to seem like foreign places. If your parent doesn't require the intensive care of a nursing home, you might want to consider the cheerful and caring environment of an Assisted Living Community.

I think you'll be impressed—as I was—by what you'll discover. I didn't know what to expect, but I found a positive, caring environment alive with activity and filled with wonderful people.

What should I look for during a visit?

Does the staff seem friendly and do the residents appear happy and well cared for? Check out the private suites, as well as the restaurant and common living areas. Are they clean and attractive? Ask to see a menu and sample the food. Are meals well-balanced, nutritious and tasty? Speak with the residents and their families. Are they satisfied with the care and pleased with the service?

When is the best time to visit?

There is no best time, but often there are interesting activities scheduled as well as luncheons and seminars. At all times you'll observe a caring staff, treating the residents with the dignity they deserve.

Vodka: A clear winner

he popularity of premium spirits continues to increase in an atmosphere of less is more; danking less, but of greater quality. Along with that, however, comes higher price.

Single malt scotch, single vineyard cognac, small batch bourbon, you name it, there seems to be a new ultra-premium product on the market every month.

One of the best Web sites for keeping up on the best wines, spirits and beers is www.tastings.com, the site of the Beverage Testing Institute, Inc. in Chicago. BTI is the largest profes-sional, independent, full-time, spirits, beer and wine review program in the

It is sometimes incorrectly referred to as the "Tasting Institute," because that's what they do, You can even request BTI to send you an e-mail message when new tasting results are published.

Recently, BTI reported results of a huge tasting of American pinot noirs, about 250 wines. Many of the top pinot noirs were made by David Bruce, longtime vintner from the Santa Cruz Mountains. The opinions on about seven dozen Australian shiraz caught our eye, too.

Then we came across the World Spirits Championships conducted by BTI. To no surprise, the winner in the vodka category was the French entry Grey Goose, a vodka made from a mixture of grains including rye, barley, wheat and corn. Hopefully, you didn't think that premium vodka was made from potatoes!

On a 100 point scale, Grey Goose Vodka earned 96 and the only Platinum Medal, followed by Canadian Iceberg 94, Stolichnaya 91, Tanqueray Sterling 90, Ketel One 89, Finlandia 86, Absolut 80 and Belvedre 74. You can get the entire list online.

1/4 cup light brown sugar 1 teaspoon cayenine pepper 2 tablespoons canola oil

3 pounds boneless pork center rib

Salt and papper to taste

In a large, uncovered saucepan, bring Paygo Root Beer to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer until root beer is reduced to one cup, about 22 minutes. Add garlic, shallots, brown sugar and cayenne, bringing the mixture back to a boil. Reduce heat to medium and simmer for about 15 minutes, or until a syrup consistency. Set aside.

Rub the pork with oil and season with salt and pepper. Sear pork on all sides in large skillet over high heat. After searing, place pork in a roaster, pour root beer glaze over and reast uncov-ered in prehected 350-dagree oven. (To grill, place meat on pre-heated grill and turn to sear all sides. When seared, brush frequently with glass.)

growing up. In college I took some cooking classes and effered to prepare some meals at home during the summer. But I was immediately kicked out of the kitchen by my family.

Unlike me, my 4%-year-old daughter, Elana, has already found her way into the kitchen. She took a cooking workshop at nursery school and loved it. Elana adores helping me in the kitchen at dinnertime. She is great at stirring and throwing vegetables and fruit, which I cut up, inte a bowl.

Elana also likes to help me measure ingredients. Because measuring utensils are still a little awkward for her to handle, I hold her arm while she measures. Elana also helps set the table, which can be an art in itself. She wants to take more cooking classes, and hopefully she will have an opportunity to do so in the future.

Cooking is a great experience for low instructions because we that's what recipies are. While cooking children will pick up lots of information on which foods are nutritious, and learn how to handle foods safely.

Food is another medium in which a child can express their creativity. Cooking is an art to be appreciated, and it's fun.

Andrew Craig of Bloomfield Hills is only 12, but I believe he is destined to become a famous chef. Craig started cooking with his housekeeper at a young age. From Jell-O and pudding he worked his way up to gourmet meals.

"Cooking helps discourage you from eating unhealthy and fattening foods because you see what ingredients are in them," he said. Andrew watches cooking shows on TV to get new ideas, which he incorporates into meals that he prepares for his entire family. "Emeril" is one of his favorite TV cooking shows.

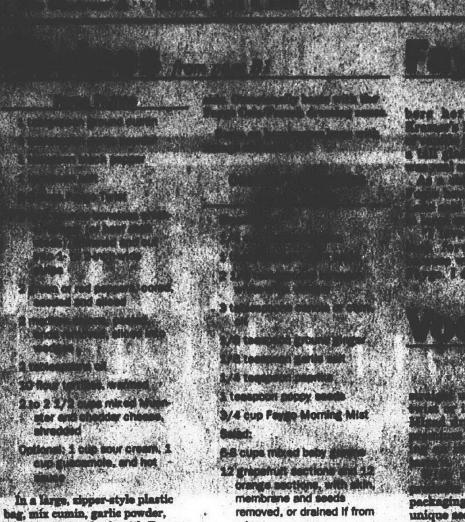

Michael Schostak, 18, of Franklin recently switched to a vegan diet and is mastering the art of vegetarian cooking. His parents let him have the run of the kitchen.

"First of all, you must have the support of your parents," he said. "Don't be afraid to experiment with new recipes. What you make may not be very good at first, but it will just keep getting better. The more cooking you do, the more you will learn. I feel much more accomplished now than when I started."

Michael feels he has a full-time job not only trying to switch to a vegan diet, but also learning different cooking techniques at the same time.

So, if you are ready to "shoo" your kids out of the kitchen, stop and ask them to help you instead. It can be great fun for the whole family.

Grill some savory skewers of chicken

AP - Chicken Brochettes in Persillade is this recipe's stylish label. The taste is just as good if you describe it as savory skewers of chicken, basted with parsley dressing and cooked on the grill.

The recipe, simple but with its own flair, is from Pilar Sanchez. chef de cuisine of Meadowood Napa Valley, St. Helena, Calif. It is one of the offerings at the 19th annual Napa Valley Wine Auction held June 3-6 at the resort.

Phyllo is the paper-thin dough used to make traditional Greek spinach pie and sweet, honeydrenched Turkish baklava. It is so much like the dough used for strudel, that phyllo is often used for making sweet and savory versions of this Hungarian pastry, as well.

Phyllo can be used to make a host of other dishes, too, from savory hors d'ocuvres to ethereally light, crisp pie crusts, all using a minimum of fat.

Pastry chefs seeking to lighten desserts made with butter-rich puff pastry now use phyllo instead for constructing Napoleons and for making tart shells. At home, you can follow their example.
Working with phyllo intimi-

As soon as the dough is laid out, cover it with plastic and a damp towel.

new tool in the prevention of drug use is slowly attracting the attention of parents throughout southeast Michigan. The do-it-yourself urine test screens for a variety of drugs from one to nine including marijuana, cocaine (crack), PCP (angel dust), opiates, amphetamines (speed) and barbiturates.

A Livenia/Madison Heights-based company, The Partners Group, has been marketing the parental drug awareness kit since November in connection with their company (Partners for Insurance, Partners for Employers) that performs drug tests and health exams for employers and insur-

"The idea for the drug awareness kit came from a parent who was concerned about his son using drugs," said Jeff Slomovitz, Livonia resident and founder of The Partners Group. "He asked us if we could test his child like we test for insurance or pre-employment purposes."

Slomovitz and his partner, Brian Erlich, said they considered the legal issues that would prevent them from testing children before they thought

"After a lot of research we learned we couldn't test children but mom and dad could," said Slomovits.

The pair, longtime friends and former high school classmates, selected an instant results kit manufactured by American Bio Medica Corp. With the purchase of a single drug panel kit comes one drug test card, one cup with temperature strip, visual results guide and instructions for use.

The cup is sealed with a slotted lid to avoid leakage or contamination. "One of the biggest benefits in our mind is the ability to perform the test confidentially in your home with instant results rather than having a sample taken at a doctor's office and the specimen sent away to a lab for a week or more," said Erlich.

After a sample is taken, a card is inserted into the urine, bearing the results within five minutes. A negative screen is indicated by two lines a positive, one line. The percentage of accuracy is 99.7.

Support system

Not unaware of the serious ramifications a positive screening could raise, Slomovitz and Erlich provide with the kit a booklet on signs/symptoms of drug abuse, resources for professional counseling and support, what to do if the result is negative, false negatives/positives and recognizing drug paraphernalia.

The booklet, which includes toll free numbers for drug education resources and support systems, can be obtained free of charge without the purchase of a kit.

"If nothing else this kit is a way to open the lines of communication between you and your child long before they're exposed to peer pressure or the temptation to experiment with drugs," said Erlich. "We've also found it's a good deterrent against kids trying drugs after their parents make them aware the kit is in the house."

Slomovitz added it provides kids with a "good excuse to say no" when they are uncomfortable and "a reason their friends will accept." "A kid can say, 'I can't use drugs because my parents have a drug test and they'll use it if they think I'm doing drugs,' " said Slomovitz. According to Connie Moore, a social worker at Hegira Prevention Programs Inc. in Westland, parents who choose to use a product of this nature should be prepared for the outcome and have a support system in place if the results prove positive for drug use.

"A parent should make sure they know how to use the kit correctly and have a plan of action to seek professional intervention and treatment," cautioned Moore.

Positive reinforcement

Along with the resource booklet and the drug kit, Erlich and Slomovitz have drawn up a Family Drug Policy that they encourage the parent/guardian and child to sign. It says that the parent will administer the drug test if they have "reasonable suspicion" drug use has occurred.

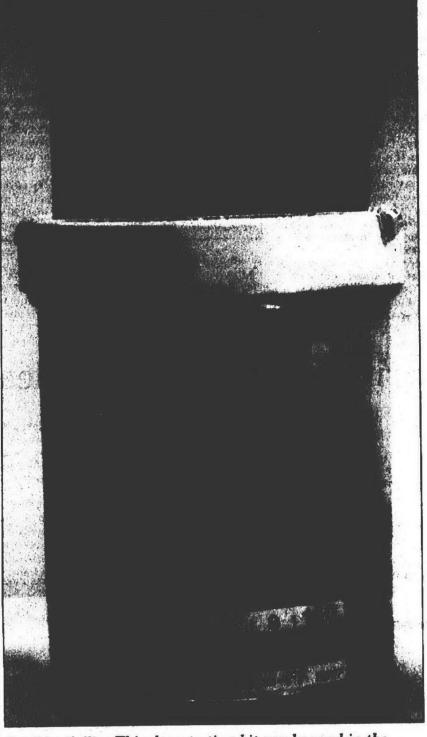

It also states that the parent agrees to pick up their child if they are ever in a situation where they have used drugs (including alcohol) or their only way home is to ride with someone who is under the influence. If you come to us for help, and tell us that you have used drugs, you will not be punished as long as the drug use stops," reads the policy.

There is also a space provided for the parent/guardian and the child to decide on a form of punishment if they're caught breaking the rules. To be perfectly honest we would rather see a family never put into a situation where the kit has to be opened," said Slomovitz. "But rather use the kit to say We love you and we don't want drugs to ruin your life. Let's work on earning and building trust in our relationship. We won't use the kit unless we suspect you've broken our trust."

Slomovitz said a positive resulting test (certain over-the-counter medications in high dosages can result in a false positive) should be followed up by more scientific testing to validate the results. If drugs are ruled out, the parent should look toward other reasons for their child's behavior.

"It's possible the child has other issues that need to be addressed that has caused a change in their mood, personality, circle of friends, sleeping and eating habits or appearance," said Erlich.

We encourage families to take proactive measures in drug prevention," said Erlich. "Prevention is a much simpler solution than dealing with a drug problem."

Students key in to music

atrice Pedersen sees a number of benefits from making music a core subject in schools, not the least of which is self discipline and teamwork. The choral director at Cen-

School in the Plymouth-Canton Pedersen believes music is the key to solving many of the problems among youths. Persuading school boards to make music a core subject is another story.

Music students in the Observer communities seem to be reaping the benefits of studying music. Like beacons of light they shine through the darkness of the last several weeks of school violence. From the two winners of Livonia Civic Chorus scholarships for Interlochen Arts Camp to Pedersen's middle school choir fresh from winning top honors at an Ohio competitian, students, including a Livonia pianist who played in the Michigan Youth Arts Festival in Kalamazoo, are proving today's youth have a bright future because of the arts. They may not end up in an arts career, but are well-rounded human beings because of early training they received. "Self confidence increases after the competitions," said Pedersen, who has taught at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp for 15 years. When the kids get out of the building and hear another choir, they say we're good. You can count on that natural pride. Unfortunately, we don't reward the arts the way they do the kids in sports. When they can bring home these trophies, it's an unusual reward that they can see."

Attending the summer camps at Interlochen Center for the Arts is an achievement in itself. Only the best students are invited to participate in the intensive training for talented youngsters from around the world. Melissa Harrison, a junior at Churchill High School, is one of three Livonia students qualifying for the camps. She and Bradford Hamme, a senior at Churchill, won two-week scholarships to the Interlochen Arts Camp from the Livenia Civic Chorus.

Harrison only began studying voice five years ago but she's been performing in community theater productions by Stagecrafters and Nancy Gurwin since fifth grade. Harrison is no stranger to Interlochen having sung in the Intermediate All State Choir after the sixth through eighth grades. Harrison, who is studying voice with Dorothy Dueneing, will sing in the All State High School Choir at Interlochen this summer. Judging from past experience, Harrison plans to sing about anyon beauty and the state of the state sing about seven hours a day at the amp, without getting hoarse.

"It's graduating to be in the high ishoel chair but it's going to be a lot of the same kids," Harrison said. "What "in exalted about is the experience of working with a new director, more work on individual performance. You see a lot of singing in. You come back

'The three clergy' behind the Great Lakes Chamber Music Festival

BY FRANK PROVENZANO STAFF WRITER

One of the most fascinating stories behind the sixth annual Great Lakes Chamber Music Festival sounds like the proverbial joke about holy men and religion. The set-up simply irresistible: There's a rabbi, priest and Presbyterian minister who get together. . . The punch line doesn't aim for the funny bone, but for an inspiring symbol of the common

interests of

gations headed by Rabbi Daniel Syme of Temple Beth El, Monsignor Anthony Tocco of St. Hugo of the Hills, and the Rev. Dr. Norman Pritchard of Kirk in the Hills.

Over the next two weeks, beginning Saturday, June 12, the interfaith gatherings also will be known as the Great Lakes Chamber Festival, which features 22 concerts in nine venues. The most frequent concert settings will be in Bloomfield Hills where Syme. Tocco and Pritchard preach their peculiar brand of religion.

The first concert will be Saturday, June 12, at St. Hugo's, and feature violinists Miriam Fried and Philip Setzer.

The chamber music sermons performed in the respective places of worship will have a distinctive tonal flavor of Beethoven's opuses, sonatas, and compositions for trios and quartets.

The broader program will include music of Bach, Ravel, Mozart, Berg, Schubert, Brahms and Bartok, Performers include a long list of internationally recognized musicians, led by festival artistic director and renowned pianist James Tocco, brother of Monsignor Tocco.

Now in its sixth year, the festival has emerged as one of the preeminent chamber music gatherings in the country, often mentioned on the same level as top festivals in Seattle, Santa Fe, Norfolk and Sarasota.

In the last three years, the festival has attracted several of the most highly recognized contemporary American composers to serve as composer-in-residence, including John Corrigliano, Joan Tower, and this year, Ned Rorem.

CALL FOR ACTORS/ARTISTS

The Michigan Ronalosance Festival is looking for talented students to create and perform live art while interacting with the over 225,000 guests who visit the "Village of Hollygrove" each year on the festival grounds at the Michigan Renaissance Festival, located on Dixie Highway in Holly Township. The Young Artist Intern Program at the Michigan Renaissance Festival runs 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekends and Labor Day, Aug. 14 to Sept. 26. Students commit to one or Troy. Call (248) 816-8872 more days.

Artists will gain exposure for their work, meet local and world renowned artists, and possibly become an apprentice to one of the artisans. Artists may sell work they create at the festival or may be commissioned for future art projects, Interested artists should contact Debi Marty at 800-601-4848, ext. 116.

Watercolorist Diane Anderson will be a reception 2-4 p.m. and 6-8 p.m. Saturday, June 26 at Wentworth Gallery at Laurel Park Place, 37648 W. Six Mile. Livonia: Call (734) 462-5840.

Born in Chicago, Anderson's extensive studies in watercolor egan in 1973. A member of the American Water Color Society and National Museum of Women in the Arts in Washington, D.C., Anderson has exhibited throughout the U.S.

"While creating a landscape, I try to recapture on paper my feelings as I stood surrounded by natural beauty," said Anderson, a graduate of the University of Iowa. "I open the doors of my imagination to interpret those feelings. I am always striving to create that special moment in time when I was awed with nature's beauty and tranquility."

Anderson will also be on hand for a reception 1-5 p.m. Sunday, June 27 at the Wentworth Gallery at the Somerset Collection, 2801 W. Big Beaver Road.

The Palette and Brush Club's Annual Spring Exhibition, "Point of View," runs July, 2-23 at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center, 1546 S. Cranbrook, Birmingham.

THE RESERVE OF THE PERSON OF T Adults need playtime, too

Assistant Residence

ribner, 1990) Sigmund Froud wrote that two principal beloing adults deal with the pressures of civilization are work and leve. One provides sustenance while the other a sense of belonging.

144,00

Terr, a University of Michigan graduate and ulinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California's medical school, writes that Freud and his colleagues failed to recognize a third valuable component: Play. In her recently published book entitled "Beyond Love and Work: Why Adults Need to Play," Terr insists that play is not just the province of children. It meets a variety of adult needs as well and thus promotes a healthy equilibrium.

In a reasoned and well-documented book of 240 pages, the author enumerates and describes the various forms of childhood play (rough and tumble, let's pretend, object play, social play, etc.), maintaining that the same playgrounds" that we enjoyed as children are revisited when we become adults.

A game of "allez cop," for example, when a parent tossed us into the air creating alternating sensations of uncertainty and security, reasserts itself in our later enjoyment of amusement park rides, car and bike racing. bungee jumping, and similar ectivities. Playing with all both which the country of the country part in adult enthusiasm for samping equip-ment, personal watercrafts, and

Using the life-as-a-ladder analogy, Terr agrees with other professionals in her field who maintain that healthy development into maturity demands that the individual preceds from one run to another. But, she explains, we do not necessarily leave past runs behind us. We never totally abandon the thoughts, desires, and activities that engaged us in the earlier stages of our lives. "Our play begins during our infancies," Terr writes, " with involuntary reflex play, mimicry, object play, and word play. These primitive stages of play, despite what the early developmental psychologists and psychoanalysts might have said, extend into nor-mal adult lives. We do not have to regress to play. We simply have to stay in control of ourselves, while remaining in close touch with our own beginnings."

Of special interest in "Beyond Love and Work," are the author's anecdotes: The game of "tea party" Terr uses in private practice to disclose a child's anxiety, the story of Tonya Harding's cheating at play, and Shirley Temple's play-acting, which turned sour when it no longer came naturally.

Also interesting to our competitive society, where even games can become cut-throat, is Terr's reference to communities in Melanesia and the Philippines, where players purposely take turns winning.

The author necessarily broadens the definition of "play" to include all activities "aimed at having fun." Even work, when enjoyed for its own sake, can be regarded as play. In sum, play is "not just an activity. It is a state of mine," one that encourages freedom to explore and thereby to create enessif and the world around him or her anew. Although Terr's book is free of jargon-laced sentences and obspure references, her message is simed more at researchers who have neglected the area of adult play than at the rest of us. In an era when even the president is permitted to play in the Oval Office, people hardly need convincing that the "pleasure principle" is part of our reality. No doubt the Puritan work ethic is still alive and well in America, considering our burgeoning economy. But as technology makes us more efficient in the workplace, we are finding more time and energy for avocations, such as doit-yourself projects, community theater and interactive video games.

To be sure, Terr tells us what we already know - and do - but she does so in an insightful and entertaining manner.

"Beyond Love and Work" is available at Borders Book Shop, 31150 Southfield Road, in Birmingham, where Terr signed and discussed her book.

The idea for the feetival originated 10 years ago during an informal discussion between the Tooso brothers. At the time, the new St. Huge's church was being built, and Monsignor Tocco was searching for a music festival to further develop the spiritual side" of the parishioners.

The partnership with the Detroit Chamber Winds & Strings provided the organizational foundation. Then, the respective positions at Temple partnership that extended to Temple Both El and Kirk in the Hills brought a spiritual coales-cence, not to mention immediate est to two of the largest con-

"There's a hunger for people to come together," said Tocco, who noted that St. Hugo's has also joined Kirk in the Hills in the "Ulster Project," which funds trips for young people from Ireland to the area. The idea is for non-Catholies to live with Catholics, and vice versa as a way to foster religious tolerance.

"I thought it'd take us 10 years or more to get the festival to where we're at," he said.

Both El and Kirk in the Hills. It didn't take either long before they took an active role in promoting the feetival.

"Any person who's religious appreciates beautiful music," said Syme, whose brother, David, is an acclaimed concert pianist. "Music transcends racial, ethnic and religious boundaries."

Not only have Syme, Tocco and Pritchard become friends, who often discuss theology and the myriad administrative challenges of their jobs, they're also formidable fundraisers and spiritual guides for the festival.

The involvement in the faith communities has added a spiritual element (to the festival)," Pritchard said. "It demystifies the faith traditions that might have been alien because maybe a Prosbyterian never set flot in a synagogue or Catholic church. "In many ways," the factival is an expression of a growing respect for the different religious traditions," he said. "After all, we are together as pilgrims in our search for truths."

Collectively - or whenever they share a stage - Syme, Tocco and Pritchard are billed as the "Three Clergy," a playful reference to the legendary "Three Tenors." Based on their impeccably timed act at a mid-May fundraising auction for the festival, the trio could have a career in stand-up comedy if they ever chose to leave the pulpit.

In less than 30 minutes, the team of Syme, Tocco and

Not an opportunity was missed by any of the clergy at self-deprecating humar. Perhaps it wasn't an evening of political correctness, but it sure had plenty of laughs.

Per a moment, as Syme, Tocco and Pritchard presided at the festival fundraises, it didn't seem like there was any differences at all among their religious traditions. They merely focused on their common interest – music. 🗈

And that, perhaps, was the best sound of all.

credentials before hiring a jeweler

Here's my situation. My wedding anniversary is coming up soon and my wife has three heirloom diamonds she would like to incorporate into a piece of jewelry. I was thinking about having a necklace made. She's very practical and frugal. Still, I would like to get a unique setting and something that is informal since my wife doesn't dress up that much and durable since we have children. How do I a find jeweler that could do put together a unique, but not too pricey, piece? If you have any ideas I would greatly appreciate it. Time is running out. Can you help?

Devoted Husband

Dear Devoted,

The Jewelry Lady loves to hear from men who are looking to get special and unique jewelry gifts for their wives. You have several questions.

First, to find a good jeweler, locate a store that has American Gem Society affiliation (AGS). These stores adhere to a strict code of retail ethics. Also, look for jewelers with Gemological Institute of America (GIA) training and an on-site gem lab where jewelry work is done.

Consider besel-set diamonds for your design. This new look is conservative, durable and very attractive. Bezels create a rim all the way around the stone, and, based on your description, The Jewelry Lady would recommend this option.

Cost will be relative to your overall selection. Fortunately, you have the diamonds, the most expensive part.

Last but not least, if you need the work done in a hurry, get moving. Call and make an appointment. If you can't get the job completed in time, consider taking your wife on an anniversary visit to the jewelers. Happy shopping!

Dear Jewelry Lady,

I recently went shopping for earrings. After trying on several pairs, I right lobe) were irritated. I assumed my ears would be fine the next morning, but they were not. In fact, there are little nodes on my ears in the area where they are pierced. It's been about three days. Do I need to see a doctor?

Lumpy Ear Lobes

Dear Lumpy,

Either you picked up an infection when trying on carrings, or all that poking just plain irritated your cars.

First of all, give your ears a rest. As painful as it may be, abstain from wearing earrings for a few days.

Dab your lobes, front and back, with alcohol at least twice a day. Also, regularly check to see whether the nodes are decreasing in size.

When you feel you're ready, but only after cleaning the posts or wires with alcohol, put in a pair of earrings. If the problem persists, by all means, consult your dermatologist.

FALL JEWELRY PORECAST

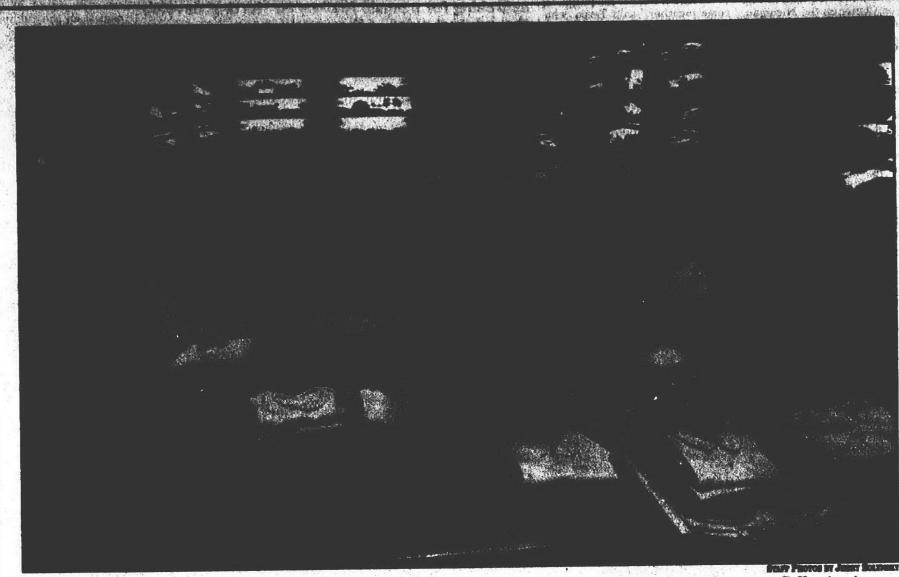

While The Jewelry Lady has found it necessary to wear turtleneck sweaters every other day this spring and summer, these in the know have been busy making the rules for fall jewelry. These are my predictions:

nstafford@oe.homecomm.net

If you're a grandmother who can't find sufficient ways to spoil your grandchildren or a bewildered baby shower shopper in search of an impressive gift, consider couture clothing.

Leading the way is fine children's clothier Bonpoint. Founded 25 years ago in Paris by a mother of three boys, Bonpoint recently opened a retail boutique at the reet Collection in Troy.

Bonpoint's clothing, which is both casual and formal, has been worn by the children of celebrities such as Sarah Ferguson, Steven Spielberg, and Tom Cruise and Nicole Kidman, said Marie Rosenthal, general manager of Bonpoint's five U.S.

The company aims to produce simple, interchangeable, stylish and somewhat European children's clothing, said Rosenthal.

Bonpoint's Michigan store will put out two clothing collections, a spring-summer and fall-winter line, each year for boys and girls, newborn through size 16 preteen. Quality fabrics like organza, silk, tulle and cotton, in soft pastels and playful bright tones, dominate Bonpoint's current collection. Designs are simple but contemporary, and pieces mix and match effortlessly.

A long, tailored crepe jacket in cotton candy pink, $235, for example, pairs with Bonpoint's pink crepe pants, $98, more formal pink tank sheath, $158, and a variety of other pieces.

Better yet, matching outfits for boys and girls are available, and bloomers, bonnets and slippers accompany each slip-on piece for babies.

Bonpoint also carries unique children's accessories and inexpensive gift items. A keepsake tooth box, for example, sells for $9. A sturdy travel suitcase and beauty carrier can be filled with hair brushes, pajamas and other overnight accessories for a special gift for little girls.

Bonpoint is located near Saks Fifth Avenue in Somerset Collection South and can be reached at (248) 649-9609.

Flower flurry: A simple tank A-line dress, $160, is adorned with a detachable tulle halter covered by appliqué flowers, $239. Also available at Bonpoint at the Somerset Collection in Troy is an organza sash of appliqué flowers to wear around the waist or on a straw hat.

I was in the first Zodiac group. The clear blue skies and icy white and blue glaciers were fantastic, and to top it off, there was a baby leopard seal sunbathing on a small iceberg.

We were able to silently float ever to the ice and observe the seal from less than 10 feet away. His deep black watery eyes saw ps, but since seals don't know! natural predators in their environment, he wasn't concerned and just lay there for our pleasure. Leopard seals don't have ears. This is our big opportunity to put our tootsies on the Antarctica Continent. Previous to this we have been on surrounding islands. An emergency hut set up by the Argentineans was located in Neko Harbor and it was interesting to take a look inside at the bunks, food, etc. If one uses anything from the emergency huts in the Antarctica, they must either replace what is used, or let that government know so they can replace

After we were all on board we headed down the Neumayer Channel towards Port Lockroy, a United Kingdom research station on Wiencke Island. The hotel staff arranged an outdoor barbecue on the back deck for dinner complete with picnic tables. A wonderful array of barbecue type foods (chicken. salmon, salads, and potatoes) awaited us.

After dinner, we took the Zodiacs over to New Island and hiked to a Rockhopper penguin rockery. We could hear them long before we could see them. When we arrived, 100,000 Rockhopper penguins, talking a mile a minute greeted us. The total humber of Rockhopper penguins in existence is 5 million.

Rockhopper penguins are able to climb steep slopes by using their beaks and claws to hang on. They are agile rock hoppers (hence the name).

Canton swim coaches resign

The programs had been doing so well. But the single word that strikes fear into any person whose job is linked to political whim was uttered: cutbacks. And suddenly, Canton needs new swim coaches for both of its teams.

BY C.J. RIBAK SPORTS EDFTOR

For the past couple of years, it seemed as if Plymouth Canton's swim teams had been headed in a positive direction, with the proper people leading them.

All that came undone last week. It actually started at the end of the girls swim season, when coach Sarah Eubanks decided not to return. Eubanks' reasons were personal: "My kids are young — three, six and nine years old — and I wanted to devote more time to them. That's probably my biggest reason."

The opening was expected to be offered to, and filled by, Canton boys coach Kyle Lott. That; unfortunately, came unraveled as well about a month

That's when Lott, who has been the Community Education Department's aquatics director for the last four years, was told the cutbacks he initiated for the last year weren't nearly enough. More would have to be made.

"You can only cut so many employees to try and make up that much money," Lott said. "This went from a real good situation four years ago to a pretty average position."

According to Lott, school district officials approached him last year and said he would have to make up a $17,000 deficit, which had previously been covered by funds generated from the Kids Time program. Using a variety of methods, most of that deficit was paid

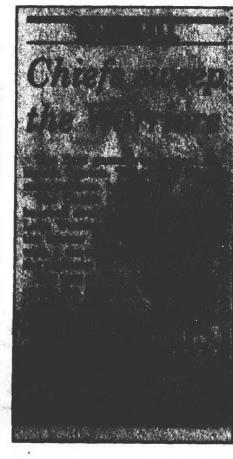

However, another directive from superintendant Charles Little's office was issued last month. It included administrative costs in the budget, swelling the amount that needed to be trimmed to an estimated $77,000. Lott was given just one day to come up with a budget proposal or the aquatics programs would not be included in the summer brochure.

"That was just impossible," he said, adding that he was given more time and the needed reduction was trimmed to $44,000. "We're down to the bare minimum to support the pools."

Still, it was clearly something that could not be accomplished without major changes.

"So I resigned from my job," Lott said. His reason was clear: The money generated from his resignation would reduce the deficit by half and, hopefully, save some of the swimming pro-

Rams roll to 3-straight wins

The Lake Michigan Area Rams swept an Adray Metro Baseball Association double-header Sunday from the Windsor (Ontario) Selects at Livonia's Ford Field, 12-2 and 6-4.

In the opener, winning pitcher Phil Kummer (Eastern Michigan University) went four innings, allowing just one hit. Chet Rees, former Westland in Glann High product now at sidonna University, went 2-for3 with two RBI. Nick Dedeluk (Redford Thurston) knocked in three runs.

In the second game, Jeremy Stevens pitched 6 1/3 innings to record the win. Shawn Morrison got the save. Rees paced the offense, going 3-for-4 with two On Friday, the Rams routed Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury, 12i, at Ford Field as Tom Gallos (EMU) pitched five innings to record the win in the mercy-rule shortened game.

Gallos gave up one unearned run, walked four and struck out six. Chris Kimble (OU) scored three runs for the winners. Other standouts included Peter Varon and Rees (two RBI each).

The victory puts the Spartans against Portage Central (28-0-2), last year's Division II runner-up, in the state semifinals at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Jackson's Mehall Field. It was certainly a bisarre finish to a hard-fought game. Stevenson assistant Lars Richters, who was filling in for head coach Jim Kimble (off coaching a club team in Oregon), was ejected late in the game after receiving his second yellow card. The same went for Stevenson senior midfielder Michelle Vettraino, who was issued two consecutive yellows late in the match.

Urbats, however, came to the rescue by scoring the game-winner with the Spartans a player down (due to Vettraino's ejection).

Earlier in the half, which Stevenson dominated territorially, Urbats rang a shot off the Pioneer, which bowed out at 14-2-5 overall, made some halftime adjustments to create more offense, and the plan seemed to work.

Ann Arbor took the momentum away from Stevenson during the final 20 minutes of the second half. Although outshot 8-3, Pioneer finally capitalized on Carolyn Harvey's rebound goal with 7:24 left in regulation.

"We played the same as we did (Tuesday) against Plymouth Salem. We get down a goal early and have to fight back," Pioneer coach Chris Morgan said. "Maybe this team needs

Lott's job had been to run the lessons programs, classes like water aerobics, and programs such as the Cruisers swim team and masters swimming at the three school district pools: at Canton, Salem and Central Middle School. Programs would run from 7 a.m.-8 p.m. nearly every day of the week, year-round. "My job was to staff those programs,"

His resignation also means he will not return as swim coach, leaving Canton HS without a coach for either its boys or girls

Canton was the Western Division boys swim champion in the Western Lakes Activities Association all four of Lott's years as coach. "I think that finally, the kids were beginning to understand the sport," he said.

Lott has already found another job, following in his father's footsteps as the assistant athletic director for the Milan school system. His father, Chuck, ran the community eductation swimming program in Milan but he's said. "If I could have stayed retiring this year. Kyle will take over that position.

"I'm real comfortable with the situation," said Lott. "I was very lucky. They treated me great."

At Canton, it wasn't always a pleasant situation, but Lott liked it. "It wasn't a great job, but I loved doing it," he said. "But it was time for me to move on and look for something else."

For Eubanks - who was the girls team head coach the past two seasons and served officially as Ron Krueger's assistant for the two years before that - she didn't need to look any further than her own living room, and her family, for something else to keep her occupied.

Not that she won't miss coaching. "I'll miss the excitement and the thrill of competition." she said. Her Canton teams won three Western Division championships during her tenure, and Eubanks thought she did what she set out to do.

"I was trying to expose as many kids as I could to a bigmeet atmosphere, such as the state meet or MISCA," she said. "This year's team was the biggest I took to state."

Lott is confident the new coach, whoever it may be, will be "quality" person. Now it's just a matter of when, and where, such a person can be discovered.

Ants abundant almost anywhere you go on Earth.

Researchers felt that anta were the most abundant animal. No doubt they are abundant, but springtails outnumber ants.

What's springtail?

They are very primitive insects that live in the soil, bird nests and tree trunks. Like all insects they have six legs, but they never have wings.

We don't see them very often because they are so small. Most springtails are only 2-3 millimeters long.

Actually, winter is the best time to see them. Many are black and show up like little specks of pepper on the white

Surprisingly, this insect can be active when it's too cold for most Springtails are a major food of ants because of their small size.

To get away from an attacking ant, the springtail has a polevault like structure under its

This is where the springtail gets its name.

Speed is the important factor in the success of this anti-predator mechanism. For many years it was the fastest reaction known

It takes only four milliseconds for a springtail to activate the mechanism and spring to safety. A cockroach can start escape
